Playing With Fire!

"At the Door of a Powder Magazine."

Premier Rosebery's Warning to the House of Lords.

Congo State Makes Important Concessions to France.

The Japanese Said to Have Defeated the Chinese Aug. 11.

The Scotch Local Government Bill Given a Third Reading—Terrorific Cyclone in Spain Involving Great Loss of Life.

Bomb in a British Postoffice.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The Daily Telegraph reports that a bomb exploded last evening in the postoffice at Newcross, South London, and that the office was much damaged. One Hundred Victims of a Cyclone.

MADRID, Aug. 14.—A cyclone has swept over the Province of Madrid and Ciudad Real. Considerable damage has been done to the crops, and over 100 persons are reported to be either killed or injured.

William Going Home.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—After the field day exercises at Aldershot today the German Emperor went to Gravesend, where he embarked at midnight on the Hohenzollern. He will sail for home at 7 o'clock in the morning.

Cholera's Work.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—Eleven cases of cholera and seven deaths from the disease were reported in the Danzig district today. Forty-five cases of cholera and fifteen deaths had been reported in the Johanneburg district of Prussia up to Aug. 12.

Masonic Misunderstanding.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The failure of the negotiation for a settlement of the difficulty existing between the Grand Chapter of Canada and the Grand Mark Lodge of England, was caused by the refusal of England to withdraw the Mark warrants, which were sent out, and are now working in Victoria, Australia.

Congo's Concessions to France.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—A treaty between France and the Congo State signed today provides that the French Congo colonies territory shall extend to the Congo and Nile basins, and modifies the treaty between the Congo State and England, the Congo State renouncing the lease Great Britain granted, which led to the recent dispute with England.

The Irish Acts.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The Parliamentary select committee on the Irish Acts, of which John Morley, Chief Secretary for Ireland, is chairman, met today to consider the report of the proceedings of the committee drafted by Mr. Morley. The report was adopted. The Tory minority of the committee withdrew after presenting a report embodying their protest against exclusion of evidence which they regarded as essential to complete the inquiry.

At the Seat of War.

With the single exception of Fusan, Corea is completely cut off from all telegraphic communication. A dispatch from Yokohama says that in the engagement between Japanese and Chinese fleets, Aug. 11, the Japanese were victorious.

A Washington dispatch says the fact that the situation of the Chinese-Japanese affair is considered sufficiently grave to require the augmentation of the Chinese naval force in the China Sea is made evident by Secretary Herbert's order issued tonight requiring the Charleston to start for the scene of hostilities as soon as possible. The Charleston is now at San Francisco.

A New Gas Discoverer.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—At yesterday's meeting of the British Association Douglas Galton was chosen president. An invitation of Toronto to make that city the place of the annual meeting of the association for 1897 was favorably received, but the association cannot decide until 1895. Lord Ragleigh, professor of experimental physics at Cambridge University, announced the discovery of a hitherto unknown constituent of the atmosphere, a gas characterized by extreme inertness. He had not yet found its chemical reagent, but the value of the density was 1.09. Lord Ragleigh, with Prof. Ramsey, obtained a quarter of a pint of this substance. Immense interest was shown in Lord Ragleigh's announcement by the members of the association, which adjourned its discussions to hear the details of the discovery.

Ireland's Implacable Enemies.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The Daily News, in commenting upon the rejection of the Evicted Tenants Bill by the House of Lords, says the majority in the House of Peers are concerting with the minority in the House of Commons with the aim of making the government of Ireland impossible. They calculate that if disturbances can be excited in Ireland during the winter a renewal of the Coercion Act will be demanded, and Chief Secretary Morley must by yielding quarrel with the Irish members or fail to maintain order, and so lower the reputation of the Ministry. The responsibility for the consequence of last night's vote rested upon the Lords, who have been the enemy of Ireland from the beginning and will remain the enemy till the end.

Scottish Home Rule.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The Scotch Local Government Bill has passed its third reading in the House of Commons. The bill was introduced in the House of Commons by Sir George Otto Trevelyan, keeper of the great seal of Scotland in the Liberal Cabinet, and member of Parliament for the Bridgeton division of Glasgow. It provides for a board similar to the Irish Local Government Board, and establishes parish councils (members to be re-elected every three years) to administer the poor law, provide buildings for public purposes and acquire land for allotments; the borrowing power of councils to be limited only by the Local Government Board. This bill was offered just after the House had adopted, by a vote of 232 to 207, Sir George Trevelyan's resolution providing for a grand committee of 87, including all the Scotch members, to consider Scotch measures which may be referred to it.

"Playing With Fire."

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The Duke of Devonshire spoke at length in the House of Lords this afternoon against the Evicted Tenants Bill. He based his contentions on the ground that the Government was not justified in making the reinstatement of tenants compulsory.

Lord Salisbury complained of the oppressive power conferred upon the arbitrators, which, he said, amounted to despotism. He ridiculed the proposition that the Lords would seal their doom by rejecting the bill. The Prime Minister, Lord Rosebery, displayed the levity with which the noble lord who had just spoken had treated a grave question. Not only had he not suggested a compromise, but he seemed to doubt whether anything existed in regard to which a compromise was desirable.

When a bill of this kind was rejected without the slightest alternative he was tempted to consider what was the position of the House of Lords. The present bill had come to them approved by the Commons and supported by four-fifths of the Irish members. Their lordships were playing with edged tools. They were playing with fire at the door of a magazine.

The motion for the second reading of the bill was rejected by a vote of 249 to 30.

The Assassin Must Go.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—The guillotine was shipped to Lyons last night for the execution of Caserio Santo, the assassin of President Carnot, which it is expected will take place to-morrow.

No Monkeying With China.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The Tien-Tsin correspondent of the Times says: "Any warships trying to cross the bar at Taku without having given previous notice will be fired on by the forts, no matter what flag they may fly. Naval vessels giving previous notice will be admitted at the discretion of the Chinese authorities."

Terrible Times for the Boers.

CAPE TOWN, Aug. 15.—A dispatch from Peterboro, Transvaal Republic, says the Kaffirs are besieging Agatha, and are threatening the Boer population with atrocious cruelty. Boer farmers are reported to have been murdered by the score. An armed force is hastening to the relief of the besieged.

A Foiled Assassination.

ROME, Aug. 15.—The police say three of the Anarchists arrested in the suburbs yesterday were in a plot to assassinate Premier Crispi. The bomb to be used by the assassin had been prepared, and Giganti, one of those arrested, had been chosen to throw it at the Premier.

Local Option Short Day.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The House of Commons last evening, by a vote of 112 to 107, adopted a local option amendment to the Mines' Eight-hour Bill introduced by Abel Thomas, member for East Carmarthenshire. As a result of the adoption of the amendment the Government will abandon the eight-hour bill and reintroduce it at the next session. John Morley and many other Liberals supported the amendment.

Watching the Reds.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—During the last few days over 400 Anarchists have landed in this city. A special branch of the Scotland Yard police is very busy watching over the new comers. The Scotland Yard men are assisted by a large draft of detectives from the different police divisions. Sir Edward Bradford, the chief commissioner of police, is personally directing the measures taken to watch over and render harmless the Anarchists just landed. There is much excitement and great activity in Anarchist circles here.

ONTARIO'S HIDDEN WEALTH.

Steps Taken by the Bureau of Mines to Have It Revealed.

TORONTO, Aug. 14.—The Bureau of Mines has ordered a diamond drill to be used to explore for minerals in the mineral lands of the Province. By the Mining Act passed at the last session of the Ontario Legislature the Bureau was empowered to order two of these drills, but in consideration of the late season of the year and the desire on the part of the bureau to get the very best article obtainable, it was decided to purchase one for the time being.

The order has been placed with the Sullivan Machine Company, of Chicago and Claremont, N. H., the drill ordered having a boring capacity of from 1,200 to 1,500 feet, with a core of 13-16 inches in diameter. The engine and pump are being procured in Canada, and the order will be placed in two or three days.

HEALTH OFFICERS CONFER.

Annual Meeting at Chatham of Ontario Health Officials.

CHATHAM, Ont., Aug. 4.—This morning at Hartigan Hall the ninth annual meeting of the Association of Executive Health Officials of Ontario was begun. Papers were read on "The disposal of town garbage and refuse" by Col. Bishop, United States consul, Chatham; "Cremation as a method for disposing of garbage" was another paper read. The chairman said he was pleased to hear that Chatham was about to adopt the separate system of sewage. Instead of having a session this afternoon the members, with representative citizens, were treated to a trip to Rond Eau via the E. and H., through the courtesy of Manager Ross and the civic entertainment committee.

The opera house was this evening the scene of the civic reception to the distinguished visitors.

Killed by Electric Contact.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Edward Lee was turning on an air light last night and placed one hand on a radiator. The current passed through his body, killing him instantly.

An improvement is shown in the receipts of gold at the Washington treasury. The rate of exchange has fallen and no further export of gold is looked for in the immediate future.

A cable to Toronto says: It is reported Mr. Eaton, Jan., has been offered the substantial support of a London house in his efforts looking toward the adjustment of the difficulty with the Toronto firm of Jas. Eaton.

A tramp named Chas. Bryant threatened to kill Mayor Wainwright of Belleville on Monday because he would not give him money. At the police court Tuesday he pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence.

It is announced that the Rev. Frederick Wells, to whom the provostship of Trinity College, Toronto, has been offered, has declined the appointment. The names of Bishop Sullivan, of Algoma, and Canon Matheson are mentioned by the Evangelical Churchman as possible candidates for this important post.

HEROIC SARNIA MOTHER.

She Fought for Her Children's Lives and Was Victorious.

PORT HURON, Mich., Aug. 15.—An unusual scene of heroism was witnessed here yesterday afternoon, the act being a terrible struggle of a mother against the waters of the St. Clair for the lives of her two small children, whom she had clutched in her arms, while with the other she supported herself upon the oar of her capsize boat. The boat containing Mr. Geo. English, Dr. and Mrs. Ames and three children, the eldest 7 and the youngest 3 years of age, all of Sarnia, capsized on the river at the outlet of Lake Huron, opposite Point Edward, throwing all the occupants into the rushing waters. The husband and the eldest boy secured a hold on the boat, while the mother, not so fortunate, grabbed hold of an oar with one hand, and by use of it successfully held her head above water while with the other she caught the two small children in her arm and heroically battled with the waves until relieved of her burden by rescuers, who were soon on the spot with a rowboat, manned by J. B. Laurie. These rescuers picked up the three children, while the husband and wife were picked up by the ferry Stamber, which also came to their rescue. The mother when picked up was almost exhausted, the rescuers having come none too soon.

WORSE THAN BABY FARMING.

Why Did This Man's Seventeen Children Die in Infancy?

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Harry Ransom, an old man, the superintendent of the poor to bury the body of his two month old baby, which he said died the night before. This was the fourth application for such services Ransom had made since he came here four years ago. After making an investigation a physician said the baby had been smothered. The board of health reported there was reason to suspect strangulation. An inquest was begun yesterday, and will be continued to-day. It was claimed here yesterday that Ransom is the father of seventeen children, all of whom died in infancy. Each of the three buried here by the superintendent of the poor died within two weeks of their birth. Ransom came from Whites Chapel, London, his wife, who was of bad reputation, died here about a year ago. The mother of the child whom he asks to have buried is a woman named Murray with whom he has been living. It is said she has a husband in Canada whom she abandoned.

FEMALE CHARLIE ROSS.

A Girl Stolen by Gypsies Finds Her Friends at Last.
OWASCO, Mich., Aug. 14.—Eighteen years ago Jennie French, a girl of 10, was stolen from her home in Grand Rapids by a band of gypsies, and after a fruitless search she was mourned as dead. Her mother died and the family scattered, brother and sister moving here. She discovered her relatives here yesterday and relates some thrilling experiences.
The leader of the gypsies who stole her was Bartley Gorman, who was afterwards hanged for killing his wife. He once gave the girl a kick which nearly caused her death. While she was in a critical condition from the wound the gypsy applied the lash. Her screams were heard by an officer, who liberated her. She was taken to the hospital at Quincy, Ill., to New York and Cincinnati, and she has never entirely recovered from the injury. Seven years ago she left the hospital and afterwards married a man named De Klee. They now live in Cincinnati.
Last week she visited Grand Rapids in search of her relatives, whom she feared were all dead. When she found her brother and sister it was a most happy reunion.

THE HARRISON CASE.

More Serious Than Was at First Suspected—At Times He Was Prostrated by His Sufferings—Now He Is Cured.
PETERBOROUGH, Aug. 13.—The case of Richard Harrison, mentioned in these columns last week, was a more serious one than appeared at first sight. He was afflicted for some years with backache, the direct result of kidney disease. In damp weather especially his sufferings were intense, and frequently prevented his doing any work. To an active, energetic man, such an affliction was most grievous, and he tried many alleged remedies without relief. J. D. Tully, the well-known druggist here, recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills, which Mr. Harrison used and is now thoroughly cured. He only regrets that he did not use Dodd's Kidney Pills before, for he knows that if he had he would have been well long ago.

WHY COREA KICKED.

The Natives the Victims of Terrible Misrule.

Men Appointed to Honorary Offices and Then Forced to Sell Everything—To Pay for the Honor—Coreans Want Neither China Nor Japan.

Now that hostilities have begun between China and Japan over Corea, stories of the terrible misrule of the peninsula are coming out. It has been reported that the assassination of Kim-Ok-Hum was the real cause of the uprising of the Togaku-to or seceders. Nothing could be further from the truth. This society was formed at least two years before Kim came to its end, and it was brought into existence solely to redress grievances which had become insupportable.

An erroneous impression of the influence of Kim in Corea has been given by Japanese writers. The simple fact was that Kim had been in exile in Japan so long that he had no strong partisans left in Corea. He had a sort of rallying cry by young men who were dissatisfied with the Government. His relatives counted for nothing, as they were obscure and poor. His death created a sensation merely because it was the climax of years of espionage and treachery.

The Togaku-to was formed of prominent politicians who were frozen out of public office and by merchants and others who had been ruined by the exactions of the palace officials and the district mandarins. What these exactions are can only be appreciated by one who has lived in the Orient and seen the utter disregard of personal rights shown by the district magistrates, and the cynical contempt for legitimate complaints exhibited by the higher officers, who are supposed to look out for the interests of the people. In Corea this oppression of the class that has no influence with the authorities went beyond anything ever seen in China. Here is an instance of the ruin brought upon a man by the intrigues of those in power:

In one of these remote prefectures near the Chinese line lived a farmer who had owned for years a small tract of land and a cow. They merely sufficed to give him an ordinary living. The governor, learning of his independence, appointed the farmer an honorary officer of the district. Of course, the plan was to force the farmer to return this favor with a present, as the governor supposed he had saved money, and was, therefore, a good subject for a squeeze. So the Yamen runners who carried the governor's commission to the farmer were instructed to bring back money, or, if he refused to yield, to torture the man till he gave up his hoard.

These runners are the curse of Corea, as they are of China. Their uniform and position fill them with importance, and their greed is something which fills the country people with fear. They are always expected to bring back to the Yamen a certain amount of money, but the mandarin winks at any exactions on their own account.

In the case of the Corea farmer the runners first devoured everything he had in the way of eggs and chickens. Then having eaten up his food, they demanded a considerable sum for the governor. The poor victim, instead of bringing out the coin from his secret hoard was forced to go to the neighboring village and sell his land and cow. This left him with the commission of honorary officer, but without any means of livelihood. The governor, however, had not exhausted his resources for evil, as he followed out precisely the same tactics with the man who purchased the land and cow. This victim in turn had to sell the land. The process of "squeezing" went on three times, till no one had the courage to buy the land. Then the governor seized the land as undivided property and added it to his possessions.

This is said on good authority to have been an actual occurrence in Corea recently. It simply serves to show why even a long-oppressed people will rise at last and strike one blow for their rights. The Coreans have nothing to hope from China, for the methods in vogue on the peninsula are precisely the same as those in the mainland. The king, who is a puppet, is a puppet, and the king, who is a puppet, is a puppet.

Even the rebels do not want Japanese rule, for the name of Japan is hated throughout Corea. They desired to throw off the yoke of China and govern themselves, with the assurance from the European powers that neither China nor Japan should attempt to annex them. China, as a suzerain of Corea, is utterly powerless to keep her in time of distress. Chinese troops failed to put down the rebels, but it was costly help for the Mongolian soldiers left a path of desolation like the trail of a swarm of locusts. They ate the country dry wherever they traveled, and they committed atrocities such as Flaubert described in "Salammbô" as incidents of the siege of Carthage by the Roman mercenaries.

As far as that right goes Japan has fully as much excuse for interfering in the affairs of Corea as China has. China's suzerainty was gained by force, and for 200 years she has exercised it to the continued detriment of the weaker nation. It is now high time that she relinquish what she has proved herself incompetent to manage wisely. [Shanghai Dispatch to New York Sun.]

The Way to Get There.

To get there, young fellow, the way that is best.
The method of methods, the world has confessed.
Is to roll there on rollers, to skate there on wheels.
With the balance of power all confined to the heels.
But if you are tired and you cannot tell why.
If you're wrong, and the breath of your sigh
Is the weary complainings of lungs that are sore,
And the remedy used doesn't seem to restore;
If ghastly consumption, grim, leering and Will with the fountain of health hath defied Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will put An end to your troubles.

It's not like the sarsaparilla or ordinary Spring medicines. They claim to do good in March, April and May. All the year round, and in all cases, the "Discovery" purifies the blood as nothing else can. Every blood taint and disorder, Eczema, Tetter, Salt-rheum, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Enlarged Glands, Tumors, and Swellings—the most stubborn Skin and Scalp Diseases, and the worst forms of Scrofula, are completely and permanently cured by it.

Buy of reliable dealers. With any others, something else that pays them, better will probably be urged as "just as good." It may be for them; but it can't be for you.

You can't go wrong when you buy from us, because we have just one way of doing business, and that is to give a dollar in good quality for a dollar of everybody's money. Try us. KEENE BROS., 127 King street, opposite Market House.

CREATED A SENSATION.

A Noted Methodist Minister Condemns Political Corruption.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Aug. 14.—Rev. J. L. Dawson, of Windsor, N. S., preached on Sunday in the First Methodist Church. The sermon created a profound impression in the best sense of the term, and is still the paramount topic of the hour. In eloquent terms he was warning the new theology as opposed to the old, and the church in its maturity will wield a commanding influence over the political and social life of the world, so that such glaring contraventions of the Christian ideal and the wholesale debauchery of constituencies by promises of public works in their midst will be utterly impossible, because of the moral sense of the community. He also protested against the appointment of political "hacks" as judges of our courts.

FELL INTO A SWAMP.

And Thus the Aeronaut Escaped Being Drowned to Death.

BAY CITY, Mich., Aug. 14.—W. M. Hurst, of Jackson, came near suffering the fate of his brother, John Hogan, who was killed at the Detroit Exposition July 6, 1891, and his brother, E. D. Hogan, who was lost on the ocean six years ago, at Oa-at-Ka Beach Sunday afternoon.

W. H. Hogan had made a balloon ascension and reached a height of 3,000 feet when he jumped for a parachute drop. Soon after leaving the ground one of the stay ropes of the balloon brushed against a tree and became twisted around the cords running from the seat of the parachute around the top. The sudden weight upon the cords broke off 17 of the 36, letting the parachute drop 700 feet to the ground. Prof. Hogan landed with greater force than usual, but falling in a swamp was uninjured. The aeronaut says he has been making ascensions for twenty years and has had many narrow escapes, but this was the closest he ever came to a long fall. He says he will give up the business next season.

A Chance for Coxey!

FORT WORTH, Tex., Aug. 14.—Reports received here indicate that the cotton crop all over North Texas is better than it has been for years, the only fear being that help cannot be had to gather the crop.

Babe Killed by Strychnine.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 14.—Mrs. Geo. Amer, of Brandon, on Sunday sought to kill a snake with strychnine, which she placed on a piece of buttered bread. Her 2-year-old child Percy found the bread and began eating it. He died in a few minutes in his mother's arms before medical help could be summoned, the little one's agony being terrible.

Terrible Threshing Machine Accident.

THESWATER, Ont., Aug. 14.—At noon today Mrs. Jacob Lomax, about 55 years of age, living at Ambleside, about four miles from here, met with a very serious accident. She went to the barn to call the men who were threshing to dinner, when a gust of wind threw her upon the tumbling rod of the threshing machine. Her clothing became entangled and the unfortunate woman was terribly mangled. Her recovery is very doubtful.

A Railway Station Worth $6,000,000 to $7,000,000.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 14.—A committee of citizens and the executive committee of the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis have adopted an appropriate programme for exercises to attend the formal opening of the new St. Louis union depot on Sept. 1. Nearly all the lines with general offices in this city have negotiated with the terminal company for occupation. It is said that the station represents a value between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000, and that those who own a controlling interest propose that this investment shall earn at least 10 per cent per year.

The Brampton Demonstration.

The Liberals of Peel are making preparations for a great reception to Mr. Laurier on the 22nd. A special train, carrying Mr. Laurier and his party from Toronto, will arrive at the G. T. R. station at 1:30. They will be met by a reception committee, and a procession will take place from the station through the town to the new terminal. There will be six brass bands of the county in line, besides Highland pipers. It is expected that each township in the county will meet during the early part of the day, accompanied by one or more bands, and proceed to the station in a body. The committee in charge are printing a circular, and a lithographed picture of Mr. Laurier. Single fare excursion tickets will be issued on the Grand Trunk and C. P. R. Railways between points in Peel and surrounding counties.

Judging from their husbands some women certainly do not amount to much. Pneumatic tires have been found very serviceable on hospital ambulances.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is earache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hoarseness, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are especially subject.

Some folks are like rocking chairs—full of motion without progress. Even the skindiv is willing that others should share in his opinion.

The great lung healer is found in the excellent medicine sold as Fickie's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It soothes and diminishes the sensibility of the membrane of the throat and air passages and is a sovereign remedy for all coughs, colds, hoarseness, pain or soreness in the chest, bronchitis, etc. It has cured many when supposed to be far advanced in consumption.

Count Up the number of times you have to rub a garment to get it clean; multiply by the number of garments washed in a year. Then you'll see how many back-breaking rubs Pearlina saves you. Don't do the washing yourself? You still need Pearlina. Every one of these rubs is wearing the things washed. They suffer, if you don't. Millions now use Pearlina. Think of the useless and harmful rubs that have been saved to the women of America. Beware of imitations. 264 JAMES PYLE, N. Y.

London, Wednesday, August 15.

—Only those communications to which the writers are willing to have their names appended in print will be published in these columns. Neither the writing nor the publication of anonymous letters can be justified.

—A bite of a Desjardins canal mosquito has given a Hamilton man blood poisoning. This is the time of the year when Hamiltonians must require commiseration.

—A friend of ours says that it is not the yellow jacket of Li Hung Chang of China, but the yellow jacket which has established itself in his veranda ivy that bothers him.

It has never yet been satisfactorily settled why a Toronto man should come to London to commit suicide by means of gas when he could turn on a jet in Toronto and die with a quarter of the effort. Toronto gas kills in the first round.

—Belgium's leader of the Labor party, Jean Volders, has been attacked by cerebral paralysis, with no hope of recovery. Overwork is the explanation. Labor leaders are generally in favor of reduced hours for work. In the enthusiasm arising from their devotion to the interests of their fellows, they cannot too constantly remember that example is better than precept.

—There should be a column in the Dominion public accounts statement headed, "Money collected for campaign purposes." If that were done and the money paid out to political favorites, over and above what they were reasonably entitled to, were inspected, the present Government would not stand a single day after the people got an opportunity to accomplish their defeat. Millions of dollars belonging to the taxpayers have been so stolen and squandered in the last dozen years.

—An important prosecution has just taken place in Buffalo. In 1880 the International Cigarmakers' Union adopted a label to denote the cigars made by union men. This, the union men say, has been a great assistance to them as workmen and to the manufacturers who pay union wages. A Buffalo man thought he could turn an "honest" penny by counterfeiting these labels. He was arrested, found guilty, and ordered to pay a fine of $200, one-half of which goes to the overseer of the poor and the other half to the union. If he offends again he will go to jail, and rightly, too. His scheme was a contemptible one.

—A Brandon, Man., mother has caused the death of her child by placing on the ground a piece of buttered bread on which strychnine was spread. The intention was to kill a snake, but as is usual in such cases the child reached the bread first. This system of buttering bread with poison and leaving it around for animals or insects to pick up is altogether too dangerous to be indulged by any sensible person. If only by running the risk of killing a child can a snake be got at, let the reptile live. In most cases, it has no great anxiety to encounter either child or grown person, and in this country of ours is more often harmless than harmful.

LESS TAXES, MORE REVENUE.

President Cleveland has till Aug. 28 to sign the new United States tariff law. He is strongly urged to do so at once in order to protect the revenue, as the increased tax on whisky is moving dealers to take future supplies out of bond in large quantities before the measure goes into effect. Congress might follow the example of Canada and enact that so soon as a bill passes that body it should in effect be and continue law unless vetoed by the President. There are many speculations as to the revenue of the Government under the amended law. Though some time will necessarily elapse before a near estimate can be formed, it is believed that the national income will approximate $496,000,000, which will be ample to meet the necessities of the Government if the payments for pensions continue to decrease. This result of the new law, which has taken the taxes off many articles entirely and reduced the imports on others by 50 per cent, shows that a high rate of taxation is not necessary to produce revenue. Here in Canada we could get a larger revenue from most imports if a tax rate half that now imposed were to be enacted.

LONDON'S NEW UNITED ATHLETIC PROGRAMME.

A good deal is being said these days about the necessity of providing every reasonable convenience for the physical development of our youth. In the past there has not been that co-operation on the part of parents and others which is absolutely necessary to produce the best results, but there is now a reasonable prospect that London will before another season be able to provide grounds for athletic purposes that in point of equipment will be excelled by those of no other city in the country.

In this connection some figures given by a recent correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette will interest the friends of the rising generation, and may stimulate some of those who have lagged to exertion on behalf of the youth of the city. This correspondent said: "I have been endeavoring to construct a series of pictures of the normal boy, representing his physical, mental and moral growth at successive moments in his evolution—say at 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18 years of age. I find the following figures for height for German and for English males respectively:

Age.	German. Height in centimeters.	English. Height in centimeters.
6 to 8	90 to 110	108 to 121
8 to 10	110 to 125	121 to 139
10 to 12	125 to 140	139 to 157
12 to 14	140 to 155	157 to 175
14 to 16	155 to 170	175 to 193
16 to 18	170 to 185	193 to 211

"How is it, if the above figures are correct, that the English boy starts taller than the German and steadily loses ground? This does not appear to flatter us, or to substantiate our common opinion of our superiority in matters of physical exercise."

The answer as given by a famous medical authority in England is to be found in the fact that the English do not value physical education as the Germans do—at any rate, not among the artisans and manufacturing classes—and even the few institutions founded to promote it languish for want of funds. In Germany, every town, every village almost, has its gymnasium of some sort, to which the poor as well as the rich can repair.

While it is true that the English have not so many opportunities for indoor amusement as are possessed by the Germans, and thus are at a disadvantage in the respects alleged above, it is nevertheless a fact that as a people the British have more open-air amusements, calculated to develop and keep in repair the physical side of their nature, than we on this continent have. Every town and village has its common or public parks, to which resort can readily be had for amusement. They have their bowling tournaments for men of mature years, their cricket and football contests, their bicycle and quoiting meets, and so on. Both young and old in England take their outdoor amusement more generally as individual participants than we in Canada do. They are not so given to vicarious contests—a few getting all the benefits of physical development while the thousands look on, applaud or criticize, as the humor strikes them.

If our citizens of mature age are to wear out at a green old age rather than rust out long before their time, as is too often the case now, they must have their seasons of recreation, of tubending, that shall enable them, in the gentle excitement of the moment, to forget business worries. And if the youth of the city are to develop a sturdy, manly type of manhood that will make them better men, better workers, capable of taking the first place in any field of industry that they may choose, they must so spend their play time—and all must have it—as to provide a healthy body for the habitation of a sound and vigorous mind.

These are the views entertained by the progressive citizens who have on hand the project of a united athletic association for the city, which will, by co-operation, insure for the use of the various organizations formed for the promotion of manly sport a first-class grounds on which to provide healthy amusements for themselves and for the citizens of London and their visitors. If, as is assured, we are able by this movement to divert the attention of the rising generation from interest in sports that are attended by the pernicious practice of gambling, so much the better for the young men, their parents and employers.

The promoters of this united athletic association have hopes that there will be far reaching incidental advantages to London from their efforts. They purpose making this city, so well situated for that purpose, an athletic center, as it already is a commercial, manufacturing, railway and educational headquarters. They hope to promote healthy amusements in this city and to organize excursions from distant points to view tournaments here rather than have our citizens continually going elsewhere for holiday and other sports. The project, on behalf of which a citizens' committee is now energetically working, thus appeals for aid to every patriotic citizen of London. Successfully carried out, it will enable the athletic associations to far more efficiently conduct the amusements, either in practice or in public exhibition, at a title of the cost necessary for the maintenance of grounds by individual organizations, and at the same time it will have the effect of annually bringing many outsiders to London, who are now drawn elsewhere, while it will develop the spirit of legitimate athletic sport that next to sound moral principles can be relied on to build up a manhood which can hold its own against all comers. For these reasons we again heartily commend the movement to every citizen of London.

THE UNFORTUNATE HEN.

It is understood that under the new United States tariff eggs will continue to pay a duty of 5 cents a dozen. There is no encouragement in this for the Canadian hen. The United States market, under old-time conditions, was by far the best market for hen owners. At present eggs are a drug in country stores.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S FUTURE.

They tell us that Newfoundland will soon be placed in the market for annexation to Canada. The Newfoundland Government may apply for admission as soon as it is ready. But whether the Canadian people will agree to receive the island into Confederation will depend upon the price that has to be paid. This Dominion wants no white elephants, and it will never consent to the annexation of Newfoundland while the question of the right of France to occupy a portion of the island is unsettled. No dual control for us.

FREE-TRADE ENGLAND COMMISSIONER.

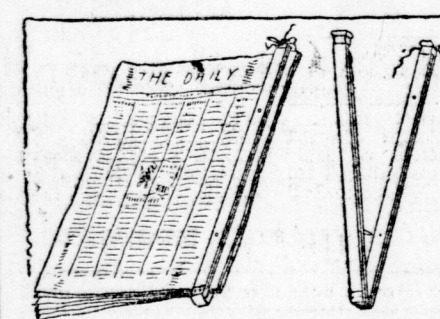

Look at the condition of the countries which have adopted protection and then look at England. America is the protectionist country par excellence—the country where protection has been forced to its logical conclusion, and where even the fowls lay their eggs secure from the unholy competition of "the pauper hens of Europe." Yet, in spite of the golden harvest that cover its prairie, in spite of the millions of energetic and ingenious men and women who fill its states, in spite of its vast mineral wealth, its gold and its silver, its fertile river valleys and its mountain slopes, where the mere air makes a powerful man of the hollow-cheeked clerk, and gives health and strength as no other air in the world; in spite, that is, of natural advantages that no other land of the world possesses, America is sunk in commercial depression. Even the wealth of the west could not neutralize the last turns of the protectionist screw, and the United States lie before the world as an example of how that waste of national wealth men call protection ruins nations and lays cities low. It is the same and Italy. Protection, in spite of the feverish anxiety of their rulers to husband with one hand the resources which they waste with the other, is sapping the vitality of every one of these nations.

Free-trade England, on the other hand, is far less depressed than her neighbors. She, no doubt, shares to some extent the world-wide injury caused by protection, but free trade enables her share to be infinitely less heavy. There is misery, there is poverty, there is destitution in England, but notwithstanding the weight of our debt, and of the navy and army which we are obliged to maintain, the position of the poor man in England is far better than that of the poor man in any country on the continent, and even better than that of the poor man in America. Not only are wages nominally higher in free trade England than in protectionist countries, such as France, Germany and Austria, but the purchasing power of each shilling that makes up the pound is nearly double. Free trade, then, rests on common sense and logic, but it also rests on experience. Protection is waste, and what must ever be an injury to the people of the country which encourages it. That is a truth writ large across Europe and America.

A NEWSPAPER FILE.

How to Make One at Home That Will Serve Every Purpose.

The advantages of keeping successive numbers of a particular periodical together for handy reference, need hardly be dwelt upon. Papers get scattered, and not only litter up one's tables and desks in a woful manner, but particular numbers, when desired, have a way of proving tantalizingly absent. A home-made file, that will keep successive numbers together, can be easily made. Two light strips of hard wood are joined by a hinge of stout rubber, secured over the ends, as shown in the cut. Steel brads of the required length pass through one strip, and have sockets, into which they fit, in the other strip. Successive numbers of a periodical can be placed between the strips and secured by the steel brads, the strips being held together by a stout string tied around the free ends.

Such files are well adapted for use in reading rooms, in which case they should be made longer, so as to project both above and below the ends of the papers. They can then be hung upon the wall upon two projecting books. Papers and periodicals can thus be kept from being torn, and can moreover be kept in an orderly manner if such a device is used.—Country Gentleman.

Mrs. Large's body was washed ashore.

FINE POINTS OF MAKING COFFEE.

A Delicious Berry That is Much Abused by Our Cooks.

Have you ever passed a place where a person was making coffee and inhaled a wandering breeze of the delicious, inspiring fragrance? Every cup of coffee that is drunk should smell and taste just like that fragrant odor, which was the veritable soul of the berry seeking to escape from its transmutation into liquid. Unless you can arrest that slippery sylph of opulent fragrance or prevent the entire escape from your coffee pot before serving you are no expert, but a bungler.

Coffee, to be fit for civilized drinking, should be made on the principle of "little and often." Size in art is of all sizes, and bulk in coffee-making runs the risk of a dreadful discount in the appreciation of the learned.

The best kind of coffee pot is one that has a filter. To secure a good infusion quickly the ground coffee should be placed in the cylinder on top of the coffee pot, the strainer should be pressed down on top of the coffee and the boiling water should be poured over so that the infusion runs slowly. While it filters the pot ought to stand in a vessel containing very hot water, so that the infusion may keep a high degree of heat without allowing it to boil. Boiling is the spoiling of coffee.

If you are making coffee for a good many, take a pound and a half of Java, a pound and a half of Maracaibo, a pound of Mocha, and seven gallons of water. The Mocha, which is meant for the aroma or bouquet, should have been but slightly roasted; the Maracaibo, which is for color, should be well roasted, and the Java, which is for body and effect, should be roasted just between the two.

Cafe la Turque is made in a peculiar way and only appreciated by peculiar people. The recipe for its composition is this: Take Java and Mocha in equal proportions; grind and pass through a very fine sieve. Put ordinary black coffee, as many cups as needed, in a coffee pot, and for each cup add a teaspoonful of the sifted coffee and a lump of sugar. Boil this for two minutes, then take it off and pour in a little cold water to settle it. After it has stood a few minutes serve it with powdered sugar.

Iced coffee is merely cafe noir that has been cooled in a china freezer by placing ice around it slightly salted. For what is called mixed coffee, a pint of milk, a gill of cream, a gill of syrup and a quart of black coffee subjected to the same cooling process and served when just this side of freezing is considered a proper caper by all who are not real coffee connoisseurs.

Another fashion of coffee-drinking, which was first introduced into this country by the Mexicans at the New Orleans Exposition ten years ago, and which is held in high esteem by some bon vivants, is to make coffee in the French way without boiling and then mix it with the very richest chocolate, half and half or one to two or two to one, the second proposition being perhaps the most frequent. This is to be served with whipped cream topped with a little sugar dust. The Mexicans used to use the Soconusco chocolate, which is made with a cinnamon addition and is rich beyond description. This does not come to our market.

In spite of the injunction about gilding refined gold or painting the lily, restless humanity has attempted to improve on coffee in worse ways than by marrying it to chocolate. For instance, take cafe au Kirsch, which is made by shaking up black coffee, cracked ice and Kirsch. Water in proportions to suit the taste. By devotees of the benign Arabian berry this is considered a profanation and eschewed accordingly; but for physical and mental depression, if one is not an habitual coffee drinker, it is a pick-me-up of rare potency.

Coffee is not a food, but a stimulant, and an antidote against some kinds of poisoning. Its excessive use produces a trembling of the hands and a disease of the optic nerves. To keep one awake and to help one endure fatigue or exposure to rough weather there is probably no equal to coffee, except, possibly, the cacao plant of the Peruvians.

Great Lead Strike.

DURHAM, Ia., Aug. 15.—The biggest lead mine ever struck in this State has been discovered by Jones, Goldthorpe & Co. on a claim once abandoned on account of water. It contains caves full of lead ore as large as ordinary dwelling rooms and yielding 50,000 pounds daily.

A SUFFERING CHILD

Head and Scalp Raw with Places Size of Silver Dollar. Various Remedies only caused Fresh Eruptions. Applied CUTICURA. Change in Twenty-four Hours. Perfect Cure in Two Weeks.

My little son, aged three, was very much troubled with a breaking out on his scalp and behind his ear. The places affected were about as large as a silver dollar; the flesh seemed raw and covered with little blisters. The child suffered considerably, and was naturally very fractious. I tried several remedies without obtaining any beneficial results; in fact the eruptions seemed to be spreading and new places breaking out. I concluded to try the CUTICURA REMEDY. I washed the affected parts with the CUTICURA SOAP, taking care not to irritate the skin, and applied CUTICURA. I noticed a change for the better in the appearance of the eruptions in twenty-four hours, and in two weeks the eruptions entirely disappeared, leaving the skin smooth and the scalp clean; in fact a perfect cure, as I have not seen any indications of any eruption or breaking out since. I gave the child only a few doses of the CUTICURA REMEDY. I consider your CUTICURA REMEDY very valuable. I believe CUTICURA would be excellent for applying to insect bites, which are very annoying in this country. C. A. ARMSTRONG, Swift Island, N. C.

ATHLETICS.

CORBETT AND JACKSON TAKE EACH OTHER'S MEASURE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—There will be no fight between Corbett and Jackson. The two heavyweights met yesterday and called each other bluffers and finally declared off all negotiations looking toward a meeting between the two. The men met at Jackson's room in the Grand Union Hotel, Corbett going there, accompanied by Manager Brady, upon receipt of word from Jackson that he could not meet the champion until next day. The request for delay angered Corbett, and he proceeded at once to Jackson's room. Crossing to where Jackson was sitting, Corbett said to him: "I want to fight you. Come now, get down to business."

"It's about time you did," replied Jackson.

"This angered Corbett, and each called the other 'bluffers'."

"I am too much of a gentleman to call you a liar," said Corbett; when Jackson said he (Corbett) did not want to fight. Then each called the other more names. Jackson positively refused to fight in the south, and Corbett offered to fight him to a finish before the National Club in England. Jackson said they would be permitted to fight only twenty rounds there, and refused.

Finally they could not agree on any place in the north where they could fight, and again began to call each other bluffers. Then they declared everything off, and Corbett left the hotel.

FOR THE NORTHWEST!

Eleven Coaches Filled Mainly With Ontario Young Men.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 14.—The first of the fall excursions to the Northwest went out tonight. It was very heavy. Fully 500 persons—mainly young men from various parts of Ontario—were carried on it. The train to North Bay consisted of eleven coaches and was run with two engines to Allandale, where it will be divided into two sections.

BURNED OUT.

STRATHROY, Aug. 14.—Last night, shortly after 10 o'clock, fire was discovered in Mr. C. J. Sowell's stable, in rear of his premises. The two barns adjoining were also burned. Most of the contents were saved by willing hands. Loss about $500, mostly covered by insurance. Incendiarism suspected.

BELEVILLE, Aug. 14.—Two fires occurred about noon today. Clark's drug store on Front street was totally destroyed, insured for $6,000, which will cover the loss; building owned by Geo. Wallbridge, insured for $2,500. C. B. Scantlebury's book store, next door to the north, was damaged by smoke and water; loss covered by $12,200.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 14.—The three-story frame building at 25 Mills street was burned early this morning. There were a number of families in the house, the members of which were all asleep. They were finally aroused and had great difficulty in escaping. Five persons were seriously burned.

GEORGETOWN, Ont., Aug. 14.—Yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock fire broke out in the G. T. R. station at Terra Cotta. Efforts were made to check the flames, but were of no avail, and in a few hours the flames spread rapidly. Loss about $500.

Senator Hill Has Amendments to the Free List to Offer.

Great Rush to Take Whisky Out of Bond.

Startling Figures as to the Revenue Derived from Firewater.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14.—The Senate had early official notification today of the passage of the House last evening of four bills placing on the free list sugar, bituminous coal, iron ore and barbed wire. The bills were laid before the House one after another, read a first time and went over till tomorrow on the objection by Mr. Manderson (Rep., Nebraska) to their second reading. In connection with these bills notice was given by Mr. Hill (Dem., New York) that he would offer an amendment to each of them, repealing all the provisions of the law in regard to an income tax.

The President has approved the act to subject to State taxation national bank notes and United States treasury notes.

Reports received at the Treasury Department from whisky-producing centers state there is a great rush to take whisky out of bond at the old rate of 90 cents a gallon before the new tax of $1 10 per gallon becomes operative. A conservative estimate places the amount of whisky in bond at 60,000,000 gallons. The average monthly consumption of whisky is between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000 gallons. Since the increased tax on whisky was first put into the tariff bill the receipts from internal revenue have largely increased. So far in the current fiscal year, one month and a half, the receipts have aggregated $32,750,000, against $20,572,000 for the corresponding period last year. For this month they are $1,500,000 ahead of the same period of last year. It is estimated the total receipts from internal revenue for this month will foot up $23,000,000 because of the rush to withdraw whisky.

The new tariff bill makes a reduction all along the line of the goods now in custom bonded warehouses will be withdrawn until the President signs the new bill or permits it to take effect by the ten days' limit.

As only goods absolutely needed have been withdrawn since the tariff bill has been pending, its signature by the President will be a signal for a great rush to withdraw goods and take advantage of reduced tariff duties.

THE ROOM BEGUN.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Operators at the Stock Exchange enjoyed the liveliest opening today they have had for a long time. The dealings were very heavy, blocks of thousands of shares changing hands rapidly amid much excitement. The fluctuations were in keeping with the increased activity, and prices moved up and down so smartly that brokers had difficulty in executing orders given "at a limit."

All this was the direct result of the passage of the tariff bill by the House last evening. The fact that this disturbing influence is about to be removed is hailed with greater satisfaction than any event that has transpired in the financial and commercial world since the repeal of the Silver Coinage Act, and Wall street is looking forward with hope and confidence.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—The passage of the tariff bill has already made itself felt in this district by a marked revival of business. Stocks in all lines of manufactures had been reduced to a minimum, especially in iron, steel and glass. Today several large orders were received by local manufacturers, and many more are expected.

In some lines of business the demand began yesterday as soon as the passage of the tariff bill was assured, and the telegraph wires were kept busy last night with orders for goods.

AFTER THE STRUGGLE.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—It is considered highly improbable that any of the supplementary tariff bills will be passed by the Senate. The sugar bill possesses the most political significance, and there are many Democratic Senators who would like the opportunity to vote on the question of free sugar as an independent proposition. The Republicans, it is said, will do all they can to prevent the Democrats from carrying out any desire they may have in this direction.

IN LABOR'S FIELD.

Many Strikers Said to be Seeking Employment at Pullman.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—The stampede of Pullman strikers continued today, and fully 2,000 men have applied for their former positions in the work. About 1,800 men were on duty, and the company's officials say a force of 3,000 is easily attainable. The Pullman officials have intimated that the strikers who return will not be pushed for overdue rent, and this fact was largely instrumental in causing today's rush for positions.

HONORE MERCIER.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 14.—Ex-Premier Mercier is not tonight, and his condition shows little change. In view of the old complaint of diabetes, Mr. Mercier is suffering from another internal malady, which is said to be fast approaching an acute stage. The news of the gentleman's indisposition caused the greatest regret on all sides, irrespective of political feeling. The personal magnetism of Mr. Mercier and the prominent part taken in politics of this Province has kept attached to him a host of personal friends in all classes of society.

IRON MINE ON BELLE ISLE.

St. Johns, Nfld., Aug. 14.—A company of American prospectors recently opened an iron mine at Belle Isle, Conception Bay, Newfoundland, meeting most encouraging results. The quality of the ore is very valuable, containing 64 per cent iron. It is reported that they are working in the interest of the Whitney syndicate, which is operating the Cape Breton mines, the syndicate hoping to secure the free admission of iron ore in the United States. It is also reported that they have prepared to push operations on a large scale. Enough ore is visible to allow the mining of 250 tons daily for the next five years.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Scranton Coal.

Uneffectual Fire.

He drew nearer to her; possibly he thought that renewed tenderness might overcome this new willfulness, some indications of which he had seen of late. She moved away pettishly.

"Let's go back," she said, "it's late anyhow."

Ben felt strangely checked and thwarted by her manner. He was not unprepared for a lover's quarrel now and then, but this coolness, this increasing perversity and regret, he told her lead the way from Whaler's lot toward home. Trena herself could have cried with vexation. She had so lamentably failed in producing the effects she longed for. Ben could not care for her as that other lover cared! Why, if Ben must kiss her, could he not have kissed her hand? That one swift kiss she had seen on the beach seemed to her awakened imagination more potent, more intense, fuller of concentrated feeling than all Ben's words and demonstrations.

The month went slowly by. With grand unconsciousness of the petty ebb and flow of human love and jealousy and regret, the mighty tides swept themselves over the unresisting sand, or when a storm arose, in magnificent contempt of bondage, dashed themselves over the rocks about the light-house. The days were growing steadily shorter, but the afternoons were still sunny, and still Judith and Kane made their way through the long, strong, but yet unsuccessful-looking beach grass, to the hard sand, and across it to the old wreck. Behind the old wreck often crouched a picturesque figure whose heart was filled with mingled sensations of envy, admiration, dissatisfaction, and something stronger yet, while she listened, half-comprehending, half-bewildered, to their talk with its occasional flashes of passion. Then followed other scenes in Whaler's lot, on the rocks, near the narrow door-stone of the fisherman's village—wherever Ben and Trena met, which she, with the ignorance of a child and the persistence of a woman, strove to infuse with the caustic mockery and the skeptical spirit of which she had half caught the significance, and so wounded and angered Ben until he slowly and unwillingly became bitter, suspicious and resentful.

But to his moods Trena was strangely indifferent; it was as if she were under a spell—the spell of the spirit of the time, and to her the drama of the sands lacked one thing—climax. Were they going on forever in this way? she wondered. Still Judith talked of the sea and life and people, and appealed to him to listen to her, and now she listened and commented, and now she said sharp, uncompromising things, and lazily acquiesced in her interruptions. Was this to be all? She grew impatient for something—she did not know for what. Her unresponsive human heart craved change.

One day, the afternoon had grown almost into evening, and they did not come. Trena, half-asleep in her corner, roused herself to go back—it was her supper hour. Before she rose she heard voices.

"How can you be so impatient," said Miss V. a Wert, with an inflection of lingering surprise, "with that eagerness before your eyes?"

"Good heavens, Judith!" her companion exclaimed, "haven't you had enough of my patience yet? I should think I had had too much even for you!"

"Look!" she repeated, insistently.

"Yes," she said, "it is very beautiful, but it is unsympathetic."

"Oh, Randal!" she sighed, "sometimes I think it is your sympathetic people that do all the harm in the world."

"Enough of your paradoxes!" he said, almost roughly.

"Oh, but it is," she persisted. "What we want is example, not sympathy. Now to drift into a peace like that!" She stood against the wreck, looking seaward. She was in gray and white, a soft gray, blended with the weather-beaten color of the ship. The sea was perfectly still beyond the line of the surf, which seemed to roll in, curve, and break lighly, almost gently, under the hush of the sky. A warm pink, felt rather than seen, glowed under the translucent mother-of-pearl of the sky and water. All up and down the sand was a warm stillness. The distant sail lay becalmed in the heart of the sea.

"I do not want peace," said the man. "I have not your everlasting susceptibilities." She laughed a little.

"How cruel you are," she said. "If it were not for my susceptibilities, as you call them, you would never have cared for me at all."

"Heaven knows," he answered, "but I do care for you. I don't care much why."

"But I like my susceptibilities to be discriminating," she demurred.

"And it is nothing to me what your admirers are. I am your lover."

"Oh, dear," she sighed, gently resting her head against a broken upright beam and meeting his disinterested eyes, "you are so dreadfully uncompromising."

He laughed angrily. "And you are so distinctly tempering."

"No, I am not—naturally," she replied, slowly. "I am hating between two opinions."

He looked at her steadily. The dissatisfaction died out of his face, giving place to a keen scrutiny. The warmth was ebbing from the mother-of-pearl, and leaving only the soft gray—like the color of her gown.

"I wonder if you know what that implies," he said at last. She lifted her eyes to his frankly, with the same level, unmoved glance.

"Yes," she answered, quietly, "I know. But I never get far beyond implication."

"I wonder if you ever will," he said, half-smiling, "ever get as far as I do."

"Confession," she interrupted, "perhaps. And then—well, there will be something to say besides good-bye," and she held out her hand.

"Walk with me once up the beach," he said, "and then come back, and I will say good-bye."

Trena's eyes followed them as they moved up the beach. She did not dare wait for their return. It was late, and though her mother had so little time to spare from worrying about her father, she might speculate concerning her absence and possibly send some one to look for her. Moreover, for the first time, she felt overpoweredly that she had no right to be there. She shrank from witnessing their parting. Before it had seemed a spectacle—tonight she knew that she was listening to a man and woman speaking one to the other. She knew how it must end and it was this very end that she had longed for—she need not wait to see it. People who were going to say a real good-bye did not talk like that about it. Her instinct told her that this was but the prelude to love's sorrow.

Swiftly, in the growing dimness which shrouded the distant outlines, she slipped out and ran across the sand toward home. The sail still lay becalmed on the glassy gray of the water, the gray of the sky was tender and warm, but the pulse of crimson which had thrilled it with deeper meanings had vanished. Nevertheless, to Trena's eager eyes the scene still thrilled and glowed with the intensity of a lover's farewell.

CHAPTER III.

Trena's mother regarded life on the seaboard as a possession of the fairest possible tenure. She was an inland woman, born and bred, and when she married a fisherman she knew next to nothing of the apprehension that was henceforth to be her daily food. She could not grow accustomed to the ocean; she looked upon the confidence of those who lived on its shores and went down into it in ships of all varieties of promise and performance, as a fatalism little less than impious. To her it was a medium in which people were drowned, no more, no less. And those who trusted themselves to a surface which was never intended to be relied upon were sure to meet this fate sooner or later. Naturally it was only a matter of time when her husband should share the common lot. It would have imparted no comfort to have suggested to her that for those who dwell on the dryest kind of land it is only a matter of time. Capt. Polton never went out in his boat that she did not think that he might not go again. She had learned to keep her forebodings to herself; they were not, she soon realized, in the spirit of the place, and were never received by her husband with anything but good-humored ridicule. But as she made her bread, or swept her kitchen, or fried her fish, she cast glances at the broad, glistening, tumultuous ocean which might have been those of a Hindoo once, but many times, had the poor woman's imagination presented to her every detail of the scene she felt was inevitable: the heavy sea, the sturdy, struggling boat, the final plunge, without recover, into the trough of the waves; the captured wreck floating helplessly in, and on another day perhaps, the finding of the once strong form, on the dreary beach, of the man whose still hand would never guide the rudder or feel a sail again; the heavy tramp of the men carrying something with a sail cloth over it into the little kitchen. With herself in widow's weeds, and Trena in deep black, the forecast ended in shere despair. This had been enough in the way of apprehension; but now, while her husband was out later than usual on a rough night, and while she listened for the slow, heavy step of the bearers, she had to note that Trena had grown pale and tired-looking.

That Tired Feeling.

Is a dangerous condition directly due to depleted or impure blood. It should not be allowed to continue, as in its debility the system is especially liable to serious attacks of illness. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the remedy for such a condition, and also for that weakness which prevails at the change of season, climate or life.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, carefully prepared from the best ingredients, and are some Chinese and many Africans use the ear as a pocket to carry coins and other small articles.

At Death's Door.—Dyspepsia Conquered.—A Great Medical Triumph.

Dr. J. M. Valcourt, a medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live, when I commenced the use of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 pounds. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured, can eat and regain my usual weight, can eat and drink with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over 30 dozen VEGETABLE DISCOVERY since it cured me, as I am well-known, and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life, as I never expected to recover when I first commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.

A WIZARD'S WIFE.

Mrs. Edison is worthy of the Great Electrician.

It might have made a great difference to the world if Thomas Edison had not fallen in love or, if, falling in love, his affair had been an unfortunate one. It was an excellent thing that it never occurred to him to think about matrimony until comparatively late in life. Cupid had mighty little business in his laboratory until eight years ago, when Mr. Edison met the handsome daughter of a millionaire in Boston. She was Miss Nina Miller, and her father was Lewis Miller, like Mr. Edison, a successful inventor and one of the leading spirits in the Chautauque movement.

Miss Miller was studying music, and soon after the great electrician became acquainted with her he recognized that he had met his fate. Within six months they were engaged, and a short time after, on Feb. 22, 1889, they were married at her home in Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Edison reside at Orange, N. J., where they have an ideal home, Glenmont, in Llewellyn Park. Their home is not luxurious in its furnishings, but is in every sense a home to be lived in. The big library is Mr. Edison's sanctuary, but most of his time is spent in the big red brick building, or collection of buildings about five minutes' walk from the house. These are the wizard's working rooms, his famous laboratory, where thousands of dollars are represented by machinery and chemicals, and from which vied and uncanny sounds issue. Often Mrs. Edison has to go down to the laboratory to remind her husband that it is time for him to eat, for so absorbed is he with the many experiments constantly being made under his direction that he quite forgets nature has any claim on him. —The London Rugby Football Club will meet on Friday night.—Hon. Edward Blake, M.P., has joined his family at Murray Bay. He is expected west in a day or two.—Judge J. W. Hanna, Windsor, and Mr.
Charles Courcy, proprietor of the Crawford House, Windsor, are in the city.—Adin Fellows, of London West, has issued a search warrant to find his furniture, which he claims his wife stole from him.—The subscriber asking for the address of Mr. Palmer might inquire at one of the cottages in Maryboro Place, over Clark's bridge, South London.—Owing to rain the band concert which was to have been given by the First New Band last evening, is postponed till Thursday evening.—The county jail is crowded with prisoners. There are 40 within its walls—the largest number for many months. Three women are among the number.—Mr. George Trebilcock and Mrs. Geo.
Collins, of Mount Pleasant street, went to Toronto yesterday to be present at the funeral of their brother-in-law, Mr. Charles Ruse.—Mrs. Thomas Crofts, of Ridout street south, will be leaving here this week for New York, where she and her family are going to reside. Her circle of friends much regret her departure.—The two children of the Fellows, of London West, who have both figured conspicuously in court lately, have been placed in the Protestant Orphans' Home, at the request of the Children's Aid Society.—Lottie Stanley and Matilda Meader left for the Mercer Hotel yesterday morning where they will serve one year each for keeping a disorderly house. Mrs. J. J.
Johnson, provincial bailiff, was in charge.—The city relief inspector passed a Jewess named Mrs. Armbond and her child to Chatham yesterday. She claims that her home is in Windsor, and that she has been as far as Boston in search of a runaway husband.—George Miller who was arrested on Saturday while leaving a C. P. R. eastbound freight and fined $5 or twenty days, was released from jail yesterday. Miller telegraphed to friends east of Toronto, secured $15, paid his fine and left the city.—The water commissioners did not meet last night. Chairman Jones put in an appearance, but the mayor didn't. Commissioner Cowan is on a trip up the lakes.
Secretary Ellwood, Engineer Moore and Inspectors Platt and Plastow were also present.—C. R. Tuson, secretary of the Seventh Band, writes, saying, that John Teale, who is at present in trouble, is not connected with the Seventh Battalion Band, nor has he been for some years past, but when in the service of the battalion he was sober and industrious.—Archie Brown, a North Dorchester farmer, residing near the village of Glindstone, was arrested last night by Constables B. W. and J. W. Ward. Brown had a hired man named Charles Spore, who with his wife lived on Brown's place. They had a little row, and Spore and wife claim that Brown belabored them with a heavy stick.
Bail was accepted.—The Michigan Central will furnish a train of their best cars to carry the Young Liberal Fleet and their friends to Detroit on civic holiday. A fast run will be made, and a ride over the smooth track at 60 miles an hour will be an experience to be enjoyed. No delays will take place en route, as the train runs from St. Thomas to Windsor without a stop.—The funeral of Johnnie Carfrae, the 10-year-old South London boy who was killed on Saturday by falling out of a tree, was largely attended. Many floral tributes were placed on the beautiful casket, which was donated by Col. F. B. Leys and other kind friends. The services were conducted by Rev. Edward Softly. Interment took place at Woodland.—H. M. S. "Macbeth," under command of Capt. A. B. Magee, and hustling Lieutenants McLeod and Santo, drilled last night in Westminster Park. The company turned in full strength. The boys intended to make the other companies hustle for first place this afternoon. This company took all the honors last year.—The Connaught (Ohio) Post of a late date has the following in all seriousness: "The little passenger steamer Joe Milton came over from Canada today with a party of officials to meet Shenango officials on matters pertaining to the proposed ferry line between this port and Port Dover, Canada. Vice-President Huidekoper, of the Shenango, is here to talk with them, but President Dick is in Buffalo. No detailed news can be heard today. The party consists of the following:
J. W. and F. S. Hobbs, F. H. A. Baxter,
E. S. Sainsbury and sister, F. Burton, and son, of London; Newman, of Port Stanley.
The Misses Jones, Sadie Clark and Lizzie
Glass, of St. Thomas, and Miss McCallum of Belmont, also accompanied the excursionists." The excursionists will hear with pleasant surprise that they were mistaken for a "party of officials." They say they had no pleasure in meeting the late Mr. Huidekoper and have no burning interest in the Port Dover Ferry Line.

The Opening of the Grand.

The Grand Opera House is admitted to be one of the prettiest in the country, and when the season opens on Sept. 7 patrons will find that its charms have been enhanced. On entering the doors they will see the walls whitened and will mount the stairs on new carpets to the reception room, which is resplendent in fresh paint and handsome furniture. The pit and parquet has been thoroughly renovated and the aisles newly carpeted. The wainscoting of the balcony entrances has also been repainted and the whole interior will present a bright, clean, cheerful appearance.The coming season promises to be notable for superior attractions, a large number of which have been already booked. Experience has proved that it is the best class of plays that Londoners want and will patronize, and the lessees have arranged to fully meet these requirements. "A Trip to Chinatown," by a strictly first-rate company, is the first engagement—Sept. 7. The big crowds of fair week will be alternately entertained by "Lost in New York," "So Smith Russell," "A Cracker Jack," and theWe are quoting very low prices for Lily

Repetition or Job's Great Affliction.

Mr. George Henry Drew, of this city, has been in very poor health for some time. His system was completely run down, and his blood so impoverished that "boils came out all over his body"—in short, it seemed but a repetition of Job's great affliction, for no sooner did they disappear in one part of the body than they returned elsewhere with more severity, and this condition of affairs seemed to increase, although Mr. Drew had tried no end of curatives. On the 5th day of August he got one bottle of the Royal Crown Remedy and a box of Royal Crown Pills at Barkwell's drug store, of which he has taken half, and last evening he called at the above store to return thanks, and in the presence of eight witnesses stated that it did him more than $1,000 worth of good, as he had not felt as well for years, and the benefit derived from it could not be overrated, and it ought to be made known to other sufferers. It establishes throughout the entire system functional harmony, and supplies the blood vessels with a pure and healthy current of new life. The skin, after a few days' use of the Crown Remedy, becomes clear and beautiful—pimples, bores, black spots and skin eruptions are removed, sores and ulcers soon cured. Por-sons suffering from Scrofula, Eruptions, Diseases of the Eyes, Mouth, Ears, Legs, Throat and Glands, that have accumulated and spread, either from unclean diseases or mercury, or from the use of corrosive sublimate, may rely on a cure if the Royal Crown Remedy is continued a sufficient time to make its impression on the system."Ivy Leaf." The following are only a few of the bookings: Marie Burroughs, Robert Mantell, Patrice, Roland Reed, "Pay Train," "Shore Acres," "Irish Homestead," Rhea, George Thatcher, "The New South,"
"The Burglar," "Gloriana," W. A. Brady's
attractions, "Corinne," Lottie Collins,
"Wings," Primrose & West's Minstrels (70 people), Bessie Bonehill, "Fast Mail,"
"Spider and Fly," "1492," "Robin Hood,"
Chas. Dickson, Thos. Q. Seabrooke, Joe
Murphy, "Tornado," Wilson Barrett,
"Fencing Master," Della Fox, Alvin
Joel, "Charley's Aunt," Barlow, Dolson & Power's Minstrel, Francis Wilson, and Richard Mansfield.It is satisfactory to note that Mr. A. E.
Roote will continue the management for 1894-5. Mr. Roote's ability and courtesy have commended him to the theater-going public.

The New Manager.

Mr. John Pringle, who succeeds Mr.
Thomas How as manager of the Bank of Toronto here, assumes his new duties today. Mr. Pringle was some five years ago accountant of the branch here, and left to take the management at Ganouque. He afterwards succeeded Mr. How as manager at Brockville when the latter was transferred to London, and now again succeeds him here. Mr. Pringle when in London previously won the approval of the business community, and there is no reason to doubt that the bank he represents will retain the popularity
it has enjoyed under the management of his predecessors. The Bank of Toronto is among the strongest of the Dominion's financial institutions, and during the few years that an agency has been established in this city a large and well-selected class of accounts have been opened.
Credit due to the ability and popularity of its managers, Wadsworth and How,
who have both been promoted to positions of greater responsibility. Mr. Pringle will be heartily welcomed by the citizens and congratulated on his well-deserved advancement.

A Good Advertisement.

"What constitutes a good advertisement?"
I asked this question the other day of a man who has a national reputation as a writer of bright, effective and trade-creating advertisements. He replied: "There is a wide divergence of opinion among advertisers as to what the ingredients of a good ad. consist of, and each is entitled to some consideration, for among the most successful advertisers are men whose methods are widely diverse. In my opinion it is of prime importance that an advertisement contain nothing but the plain, unvarnished truth. No deviation from this principle is permissible, for fictitious offers are apt to be taken seriously, and when buyers cannot find the articles in the store at the prices quoted in the advertisement they soon become dis-trusting of the merchant who seeks thus to entrap them. Brevity is also an important factor. Then again an advertisement should have a bright, catchy introduction that will arrest the leader's attention until his mind has absorbed the substance of the ad. I also believe in a liberal use of price figures and in frequent offerings of genuine bargains. It must also be remembered that an advertisement, like a dozen of eggs, may be spoiled in setting.
Typography that will make an advertisement, no matter how small, stand out prominently, is what is needed."

Bakers Bang the Ball.

The master bakers of this city did not work yesterday afternoon. They went out on strike—but it only lasted a couple of hours. Enough bread to supply London's big population for a day was baked and delivered in the morning, and the flour-stained suits were thrown aside and given a rest. About 50 of the bakers and their wives boarded 'busses at 2 o'clock and proceeded to the residence of Mr. Plewes, near Meadow Lily Mills, where, at his request, it was decided to have an outing.
Mr. Plewes received the party very kindly, and first invited them to enjoy his hospitality in the form of a well-prepared dinner. No objection was offered, and the many toothsome dainties were thoroughly appreciated by the bakers, who had put in such a hard morning's work. The day was not without surprises. There were two of them. Those surprised in the first instance were the host and hostess. Mr. and Mrs. Plewes are held in the highest esteem by the city bakers, and to prove it in a good practical way the latter presented the worthy couple with two handsome easy chairs and Mr.
Plewes with a pair of gold-rimmed spectacles. Ald. Parnell made a brief address, in which he neatly expressed the feelings of the donors. Mr. Plewes replied. The second surprise came in the form of a game of baseball between two picked nines.
Ald. Parnell was captain of one nine, and occupied the pitcher's box. Sharp caught his many curves. The battery of the opposing team was Ranshan and White.
Heavy hitting was made by both sides, but the popular sidearm's nine fared the worst, the score standing 18 to 8. The remainder of the day was spent in various pleasant ways, and the party returned home voting Mr. and Mrs. Plewes a capital host and hostess.

Nature Has Provided.

A remedy for every ache and pain, and science through ceaseless activity and experiment is constantly wresting the secrets of her domain. A new and wonderful discovery has recently been made, by means of which tens of thousands will be freed from pain. Nerviline, or nerve pain cure, represents the very concentrated form of the most potent pain relieving substitute known to medical science, and strange to say, it is composed of substances solely vegetable in origin. Poison's Nerviline is the most prompt, certain and pleasant pain remedy in the world. Try Nerviline for toothache, neuralgia, cramps, etc.; always safe and efficient.Attention! We have a few red painted
