Rev. E. L. King and Mr. C. A. Pison, of Toronto, and Many Prominent Americans Killed by the Derailment of a Fast Train Near London.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
London, July 1.—Passengers by the American line steamer New York, who left Plymouth by a special train at midnight today, were the victims of one of the most deadly disasters in English railway history, at Salisbury, two hours' ride from London, when the locomotive, a 4-6-2, dived into a ditch and the train, which was on a siding and then on the girders of a bridge. The train was literally demolished. Of 42 passengers, 23 were killed and 19 injured. Only nine escaped. Two or three railway employees were among the killed.

The engineer and fireman of the boat train were killed and Walter Passmore and a guard named Chennier were hurt. Owing to the late hour at which the steamer arrived at Plymouth, Mayor George B. McEllan, of New York, who with his wife was a passenger, continued the voyage to Southampton, and arrived in London shortly before 3 o'clock. Mrs. McEllan continued on to Paris. The American embassy sent Secretary Carter and Mr. Hodson to Salisbury, the London and Southwestern railway company furnishing a special train for their use. They visited the infirmary there and saw the dead lying in the station. The American Line officials sent the Southampton manager of the company and the purser and doctor of the New York to Salisbury, and they rendered valuable assistance in identifying the dead.

Mrs. Elphicke, who was killed, was accompanied by her daughter. They were on a special train for the New York to England for a change of scene after her school duties. Miss Elphicke was injured. Louis Cassier was the editor of Cassier's Magazine of New York. The "New York" with a full passenger list, had had a rather slow voyage. She should have arrived at Plymouth in the middle of the afternoon. In that case all the London and passengers would, according to custom, have landed at that port. They had the option, however, of continuing the voyage to Cherbourg and Southampton, as Mr. and Mrs. Longworth did similar circumstances a month ago. The majority of the passengers decided yesterday, when it became evident that the lateness of the steamer's arrival would necessitate a long night journey back to the ship and make a more comfortable daylight trip from Southampton this afternoon. Each passenger, making this apparently unimportant choice, literally decided the question of life and death. Mayor McEllan of New York was one of the first to make a choice of the Southampton route. He had decided to go to London by the quickest way, and only at the last moment that he decided to the persuasion of his wife remain with her until she reached Cherbourg, where she was to disembark.

Death of Torontonians Shocks the Queen City

Toronto, July 1.—Citizens of Toronto were greatly shocked to learn today of the death in the railway disaster at Salisbury, England, of Mr. Walter Barwick, Mr. C. A. Pison and Rev. E. L. King, rector of St. Thomas' Church, Mr. Barwick was in the old country on a holiday trip, and his wife is at present visiting friends in Massachusetts. Two daughters and a son survive. In St. James' Cathedral and All Saints' Church references were made tonight to the death of Mr. Barwick. The Rev. Mr. King leaves a widow and four small children. He had been a member of St. Thomas' Anglican Church for the past eighteen months, and was also lecturer in philosophy at Trinity University. Professor Jenks, at St. Thomas' tonight, made special reference to the calamity that had befallen the congregation, and special prayers were offered up. Mr. C. A. Pison, who represented the North Atlantic Steamship Company, is survived by a widow and three children. He was a member of St. Thomas' Church, the pastor of which was killed in the same accident.

FORMER LONDONER KILLED IN WRECK

Mr. Pison Was at One Time a Teller in the Miosons Bank Here.

The list of dead in the wreck on the London and Southwestern Railway in England includes the name of a former Londoner—Mr. Pison. Mr. Pison, it was learned last evening, was at one time on the staff of the Miosons Bank here. He occupied the position of teller, and was well known to all the local merchants who do business with the bank. Mr. Pison will be remembered as a very affable gentleman who had retired early, called her, but

OFFICERS CASHIERED Sedition in the Egyptian Army Against Britain Quickly Broken Up.

Cairo, July 1.—Seventy-five native officers of the Egyptian army have been cashiered. This decision is the result of a meeting of the Council of Ministers, at which the Akabah incident was under review. It is now clear that a widespread conspiracy was being fomented by officers of the Egyptian army at the time there was a prospect of hostilities between Great Britain and Turkey. The success of the British ultimatum to the Sultan, coupled with the military and naval victories of Great Britain, and the present sweeping action of the ministers in punishing seditious officers has had an excellent effect in re-establishing British prestige in Egypt.

THE 41ST AT QUEBEC Soldier Boys of Brockville Heavily Received by Brothers in Arms.

Quebec, July 1.—The Forty-first Regiment, of Brockville, received a hearty reception from their brothers in arms on their arrival here this morning. The staff-sergeants and sergeants of the regiment escorted them to the drill hall, which will be their quarters during their stay in the city. The visiting regiment had a church parade to St. Andrew's Church at 11 o'clock, to which the officers of the Eighty-first Rifles had been invited. In the afternoon the officers of the Eighty-first gave the whole Forty-first Regiment and the non-commissioned officers and men of their own regiment a trip around the harbor on the steamer Queen.

WILL MEET MANAGER Street Railway Employees To Confer With Mr. King Re Dismissals.

The London Street Railway Company's employees—or about 90 per cent of them—held a meeting at the Foresters' Hall, East London, yesterday morning, and considered what action, if any, should be taken in regard to the dismissal of several motormen and conductors because of their alleged connection with an organization said to exist among the men. Definite action was deferred, pending the result of a conference to be held with Manager King today.

RAINS HURT CROPS. Kingston, July 1.—The heavy rains of the past two days have damaged the crops. The hay, very high and tender, as well as the barley, has been very badly, and in some instances flattened out. It will be hard to reap. Low-lands are under water. The gardeners are fearful that the potato rot will again effect the very large crop. Everything is growing very rapidly.

OFF FOR THE FOURTH.
Kingston, July 1.—The Fourteenth P. W. O. Rifles leave at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning for Albany, N. Y., where they will be the city's guests and take part in the July 4 demonstration. The regiment will depart about 400 strong. The return trip will be begun at 6 p.m. on July 4.

BRIDGES FIT FOR PASSENGER TRAINS

Such Is Effect of Expert's Report on the L. and P. S. R. Structures.

Mayor Judd stated to The Advertiser on Saturday that an advance extract from Expert Connor's report re the L. and P. S. R. bridges, had been received by him during the day, and that it was to the effect that the structures are not fit for heavy traffic, but that they will carry the passenger trains.

CELEBRATED WRONG WAY Few Patriotic Citizens Land in the Police Cells.

Quite a number of London's patriotic citizens, commenced their Dominion Day celebrations with fireworks, instead of fireworks, on Saturday, and there were many pay-day and pre-holiday jags. From Saturday morning until Sunday night nine drunks were gathered in by the city police. They were all taken down to Carter's Castle last night, and will spend the holiday or a part of it, behind the grim dark walls.

It is not customary to hold police court on Dominion Day, and it is quite likely that if this fact had been well advertised, there would have been less, or more judicious drinking. The old-timers have learned through experience to take a day or so in the cells "philosophically." But alas for the poor first-timer, when he begins to recover from the effect of "pickle," and thinks of that intended holiday excursion or of all his cronies, so free, and having such a big day of it, and that spitting headache. He has visions of that water wagon, and of how when he gets out he will sit up there and never come down.

OPENS UP FARMING LAND Two New Branches for the Temiskaming Road To Be Rushed.

Toronto, Ont., July 1.—The Government has appointed Mr. R. H. Cowley, M. A., of Ottawa, now inspector of Carleton County's public schools, to be provincial inspector of continuation classes, his duties to commence Sept. 1. The position is a new one. The Government has given its approval to the proposal of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario railway commission to build two branch lines. Plans and detailed estimates of the cost have been prepared, tenders for contracts will be invited, and the work will be commenced at the earliest possible moment. One of the branches will be through part of the mineralized portion of the Gilles timber limit to the rich Kerr Lake mining district. The other branch is from Englehart to the foot of Long Lake. This will result in the opening up of a fine farming district.

The visitors gathered at Agricultural Park at 9 a.m. and left at 9:30 for Grace Church, where services were held by Rev. Canon Davidson, of Peterboro. A sacred concert was given tonight at the park by the Peterboro Band.

MINISTER'S DAUGHTER SUICIDES AT TORONTO

The Body of Miss Vivian Brown Found Floating in the Bay.

Toronto, July 1.—The body of Vivian Brown, a woman 26 years of age, was found floating in the Bay opposite the exhibition grounds on Saturday afternoon. The young lady lived with her mother at 88 Huxley street, and apparently had ended her own life. About 10 o'clock Friday evening the mother, who had retired early, called her, but received no response. It is supposed that Miss Brown went direct from the house to the lake, there committing suicide. The father of the dead girl is a Presbyterian minister living in Dakota. Mother and daughter have only been living in Toronto a short while.

DRAWN HIS KNIFE IN THE U. S. CONGRESS

Weapon in Hand Angry Southerner Starts For Political Enemy.

Washington, July 1.—Only by the cool-headedness of John Sharp Williams was a personal encounter between Representatives Southwick, of Albany, N. Y., and Bartlett, of Georgia, averted about midnight Friday. Bartlett drew a knife from his pocket, opened it and made a threatening advance toward Southwick, who stood his ground. Williams and Ollie James, of Kentucky, who are the biggest men in the House, stepped between the belligerents. Bartlett, retaining the open knife in his hand, walked over to the Democratic side. He appeared calm, but was white with rage.

R. local engine fortunately was left outside last night and escaped destruction. Some insurance.

Holiday Traffic on Roads Heaviest in Many Years

All Trains With Extras and Taxed at That—Baggage Cars Used for Passengers.

"The holiday travel is by far the heaviest we have enjoyed in very many years."

Such was the report made by the several railroads to The Advertiser last night. The cheap rates commenced on Saturday, and the way the people took advantage of them simply took the railway officials by surprise. A brisk business had been anticipated, and preparations made for handling the crowd, but the traffic was more in the form of a deluge, and was only managed with the greatest difficulty.

Particularly was this the case with the Grand Trunk. The sidings at every terminal point were scoured earlier in the week for spare passenger cars, and although these were distributed among the places where it was considered they would be most needed, the cry, like that of Oliver Twist, came for more. The car distributor's brain was in a whirl as he attempted to plan how the needs of the day could best be met, and at last he was driven to admit that more could not be obtained.

Rode in Baggage Cars.

That was during the afternoon, and standing at the depot waiting to pull out was the London, Huron and Bruce train. Every car on it was filled. Scores of persons were standing in the aisles and on the platforms, and many more were on the station waiting for additional cars to be attached to the train. The car workers were called up in the hope that some coaches sent in for repairs could be utilized, but it was found that all those in the shops were in such a shape that they could not be sent out. Then a happy thought struck an official at the works. There were half a dozen Grand Trunk Pacific coaches standing in the yards ready for delivery to the authorities at Montreal, and these might easily be brought into use for the day. In the meantime, however, the baggage cars were attached to the Bruce train, and fitted with seats from the men's waiting-room at the depot. Thus accommodation was provided for all, and the minds of many who had begun to wonder if they would be able to spend the holiday with their friends away from home, were set at ease.

Good-Natured Man There.

Finally a good-natured man of much avoirdupois walked up to him and said he would have to see that the Grand Trunk kept an extra supply of cars, specially designed for holiday traffic, in order that men of his disposition would not have a cause for kicking. The big man said that it would mean an outlay of thousands of dollars by the company to do so, but then such a trifle as that would not cut any figure with the Grand Trunk if it would put an end to inconsiderate kickers. The disgruntled one hid himself in a corner and not another word was heard from him. The extent of the extra travel may be imagined when it is stated that the International Limited comprised ten cars, instead of its usual quota of five; the Eastern Flyer was made up of eight cars, instead of four, and other trains were also hauling extras.

LONG LAWSUIT HAS AMICABLE END

Two Villages Estranged for Long Period Celebrate Event as Public Holiday.

Paris, July 1.—In the two villages of Luceran and Lancoque, in the Alpes-Maritimes, Friday was kept as a public holiday to celebrate the end of a great lawsuit which had kept the two villages divided since Nov. 14, 1462. The question in dispute was the possession of a piece of land at Lova, which each village claimed. A few days ago the court at Nice definitely settled the matter by dividing the land equally between the two villages. The total cost of this lawsuit during the 44 years amounts to $150,000, while the value of the land in dispute was about $2,000. The law papers which had accumulated were docketed in 1,856 parcels, which weighed sixteen tons, and were stored in a large disused church.

KILLED BY A LEOPARD

Englishman, Believing It Dead, Gets Within Reach of the Animal.

Cape Town, July 1.—A. M. Davies, son of General Davies, has been killed by a leopard in Mashonaland. He was in charge of a party conveying stores from Meisetter to Umtali, when the leopard killed one of the donkeys employed in drawing the loads. The leopard was driven off, and poison was placed on the donkey's carcass. Next morning Mr. Davies saw the leopard lying motionless near the donkey, and, thinking it was dead, went up to it unarmed. When within two yards, the brute sprang at his throat, and inflicted such injuries that Mr. Davies died. The leopard escaped in the bush.

He confessed his crime and offered no resistance to the mob.

ONLY UNION JACKS FOR THIS PULPIT

Toronto Congregation Objected to Stars and Stripes, and It Was Removed.

Kingston, Ont., July 1.—Union Jacks were alone used in draping the pulpit of Queen Street Methodist Church tonight. A hearty patriotic service was held, and there was increased zest, owing to a morning episode. The pulpit then was covered half and half by a Union Jack and Stars and Stripes. The church folks did not like the display, especially as it was a purely Canadian occasion, the marking of the Dominion's birthday, and they said so. They were as willing as anybody to show courtesy to neighbors, but the occasion today did not call for it, as no United States guests were being publicly entertained, hence good-feeling towards a sister nation were not called for. At night the Union Jacks were alone in evidence, and a strong patriotic sermon on "Our National Heritage" was preached by Rev. W. H. Sparling.

LEAVES DOG AS LEGACY

Suicide Had Not the Heart to Kill the Animal Himself.

London, July 1.—Frank Goodacre, an actor, 40 years old, who committed suicide at Brampton, North Devon, left the following letter, which was read at the inquest: "Whoever finds this be kind to my dog, Bedelia, and be sure she is sent to Mrs. Fatham Wiloughby, Loughborough—a poor but pretty legacy. It is a last wish. I had a mind to take her with me, but I hadn't the heart to hurt the poor soul. She is my only pal. My life is over, and hers, sweet thing, only just begun. The man's tragic fate was disclosed by the howling of the dog referred to in the letter. He had left her tied to a tree by the river in which he drowned himself. Goodacre left his coat and hat beside the dog. There was another letter that read as follows: "When there is nothing left to hope for there is nothing left to dread. Trouble after trouble, I cannot bear any more. I have tried hard to avoid this terrible thing, but cannot. I hope I may be forgiven. It is a bit hard, but it is the only way out of what has been years a cruel life." The jury returned a verdict of "Suicide during temporary insanity."

THE CHINESE CELEBRATION.

At the celebration by the Chinese Empire Association, which will be held this morning at 10:30, at 256 Dundas street, many representatives from Toronto, Hamilton and other cities will be present. The following will address the meeting: Lin Li, a student of Pickering College, and secretary of the Chinese Empire Association of Toronto; Lun Gong, a student of the Chinese Empire Association of Toronto; and Hong Wai, president of the Toronto association. The officers for the association, which is to be organized in this city, will be: President, Pong Wing; vice-president, Wong Lem; secretary, foreign correspondence, Jim Lee.

The thousands of Londoners who saw the Seventh Regiment march on Saturday evening from the armories to the C. P. R. depot, where it entrained for Ottawa, could not but have been filled with a sense of pride, and a feeling that during the two days' outing at the capital the corps would do credit not only to itself, but also to the city that is proud to claim it as her own. The "sojler" boys never presented a finer appearance—and that is saying a great deal, especially in view of the standard set for parades since Lieut.-Col. Little took command. True, the regiment went away minus its brass band, owing to the recent trouble that resulted in the disbanding of the organization, but the absence of the musicians did not appear to put the least damper on the enthusiasm of either the officers, non-coms, or the rank and file.

The bugle band, 40 strong, was in the van, and throughout the entire march it played a variety of numbers. The troops were faultless in their attire—and also in their marching. Buttons were shining as if they had just left the maker's hands. Bushies were as slick-looking as could be, and belts had been polished until they looked like new. Mother had been busy on the sergeants, and not a spot was to be seen on them. Certainly, the regiment was fine.

Out Almost to a Man.

The eight companies of the regiment turned out almost to a man. This was made possible by the foresight of Lieut.-Col. Little and the officers, in arranging matters so that the men would not lose any time by going on the trip. The route taken to the depot was from Dundas to Richmond street, and along the line of march there were thousands of citizens, who admired the redcoats as they gave them the merry hand. At the depot there were fully a thousand more, and these joined in the send-off with a vigor.

It was surprising the short space of time occupied by the four hundred men in entraining. The special was made up of a baggage car, ten colonist cars, and two sleepers—a total of thirteen—hailed by engine No. 579, with Engineer George McAllister, of this city, in the cab. The train was in charge of Conductor George Cruickshank, also of London, and it was as fine a special as ever ran out of this city. A car was set apart for each company, and as the men in double ranks reached their coach, one column marched in one door, and the other column invaded the other door. By this means, confusion was avoided, and much time saved. The sleepers were for the officers and their guests, among the latter being the majority of the aldermen, the city officials, and representatives of the various municipal bodies.

"They're Off."

It was just 7:15 o'clock when "All aboard!" was given, and the trip was begun. When the regiment had formed up at the armories, Lieut.-Col. Little addressed the officers and men, reminding them of how much depended upon their actions while at the capital. He also made reference to the absence of the band, and intimated that all that was desirable in the musical line had been arranged for at Ottawa. It was understood that the band of the Governor-General's Foot Guards had volunteered its services for the maneuvers today. The Guards wear bushies, similar to the Seventh. Lieut.-Col. Little would not verify the rumor, however.

At the Capital.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, July 1.—Ottawa has thrown open her heart and hands to the Seventh Regiment of London, and the officers and men, and the civil dignitaries who accompanied the soldiers, are now having the time of their lives in the Canadian capital. The journey to this city was made in splendid time by the train of thirteen coaches provided by the C. P. R. Passenger Agent Fulton, of London, was in charge, and he made himself solid with soldiers and civilians by the care he showed on one and all by the very successful manner in which he ran the special.

The train pulled out at 7:15 Saturday evening and arrived in Ottawa at 3 o'clock Sunday morning. The journey was a pleasant one for all. Ten special colonist sleepers were provided for the men and two sleepers for the officers and the civil party. The regiment went to the capital 395 strong. This fact was very creditable to the officers and the men, for the authorized strength of the Seventh is only 403 men. Had the band been along the regiment would have been over strength. Col. Little was in command, and despite the absence of the band the men made a strike with all corners. In the civil car were: Mayor Judd and Ald. Forriest, Armstrong, Booth, Cooper, Wyatt, Gerry, Saunders, City Clerk Baker, Assessment Commissioner Grant, Fire Chief Clark, Chairman Hazard, of the Public Library Board; Chairman Greer, of the License Board; Assistant Engineer Kirkpatrick, Principal Radcliffe, of the Fire Institute; ex-Ald. R. A. Carruthers, of the Board of Health; Sergeant Merritt and Arthur Jolly, and Secretary Ellwood, of the water commissioners.

Incident of the Journey.

The journey was scarcely made without incident. When Tuesday reached the roundhouse was on fire. It was about 3 o'clock in the morning, and some one shouted "Look at the fire." The excitement was too much for several of the occupants of the civil coach, and they scrambled out of their bunks and fell on the floor of the car while Mr. Merritt tripped and fell, and (Continued on Page Six.)

To produce a fine polish on linen a true surface is necessary. Cellulose Starch, being of a very fine grain, works thoroughly and evenly into every fibre of a fabric, leaving the surface in prime condition for polishing without the trouble of rubbing-in necessary with common starch. Ready for use in a moment, no heating required, no trouble with smudgy irons, Cellulose Starch works laundry wonders. GIRL SEEKS DEATH ON FUNERAL PYRE saturates Wood Shavings With Paraffin Oil and Perishes in Fierce Flames.

London, June 30.—An extraordinary story of suicide by fire comes from Codsall, a pretty rural village near Wolverhampton.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Walker, of Woodfield Oaken, in Codsall, were awakened at an early hour yesterday morning by a smell of smoke. They saw fierce flames in the yard, which Mr. Walker extinguished with a garden hose. The fire appeared to be in a heap of wood and shavings that had been saturated with paraffin.

The village policeman was called, and when it was discovered that the cook, Eliza Davies, was missing. An examination of the remnants of the fire disclosed charred human remains.

Liver and Kidneys

It is highly important that these organs should properly perform their functions. When they don't, what lameness of the side and back, what yellowness of the skin, what constipation, bad taste in the mouth, what headache, pimples and blotches, and what of courage, tell the story.

It appeared that the young woman found paraffin in the kitchen, and made her exit by a window to the yard, where she built and ignited her funeral pyre. The reason for her act is a mystery. She had been in Mrs. Walker's service two years, and was well conducted.

STORM STARTS FIRE

$50,000 Damage and Many Buildings Burned at Rome.

Rome, N. Y., July 1.—Early on Saturday a terrific electric storm passed over this section. The Clarendon, a three-story brick hotel at Holland Patent, was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. Fire communicated to Jones Bros. general store, William McCuskey's drug store, William Carroll's general store, Thomas Welch's hardware store and H. J. Meredith's shoe store and residence, destroying them all. The loss is about $50,000, partly insured.

The village has no fire department, and Eliza responded to a call for help.

CONGRESS ADJOURNS.

Washington, D. C., July 1.—Late Saturday night Congress adjourned until next December, but it was hard work to prevent the session from running over into July. For ten hours senators and representatives were held at their post of duty waiting for the engrossed copies of two bills which to become laws had to be signed by the President before the adjournment. It was a long, tiresome wait, and when it was over and the Vice-President and the speaker had brought their gavel down for the last time until next winter, everybody was hot, vexed and inclined to be generally out of sorts.

Thomas P. Johnson, 84 years old, the oldest negro lawyer in Arkansas, died recently after 36 years' active practice of law. He was licensed as an attorney by Associate Justice Bowen, of the Arkansas supreme court in July of 1870. He was a slave and belonged to a planter in Desha County in Arkansas.

TANGLED THREADS

It was now the last week in March, but the party would not probably arrive in Colorado Springs before July or August, for they were going to travel extensively in the east before sailing for the United States, while they would make a tour of California, the Yosemite, and visit other points of interest after arriving in this country; meantime, some provision must be made to meet her own and Marjorie's necessities.

"Very well," Mr. Jennings remarked, in reply to her observation. "We will go around there later. I will see Mr. Allen, with whom I have done considerable business at one time and another, and make an appointment for you. They have a few boarders—Mrs. Allen did not care to fill her house—who would, doubtless, be glad to remain where they are, and probably you could also retain the servants, who, as far as I am able to judge, have been well trained."

"When does Mr. Allen wish to vacate?" inquired Mrs. Ellsworth. "He has been wanting to leave for more than a month; but, as yet, has not been able to find anyone to take the house. No doubt he would get out immediately, if you decide to make the venture, and can come to satisfactory terms with him."

"I think he asks an awful rent," she said. "Don't you suppose you can make better arrangements for me, if I think best to make the plunge?" "I can, at least, try, and I will do my best for you," said the gentleman, rising; "and, if Mr. Allen will be at liberty at four, I will call for you about that time."

"Mamma," said Marjorie, as the door closed upon the man, "surely, you are not equal to such an undertaking! I think it absolutely absurd."

She had been a deeply interested, but chagrined, listener, throughout her mother's conversation with her attorney.

She was appalled at the poverty that had so suddenly overtaken them; but the thought of having her mother keep a boarding-house to earn their living was a blow to her pride that seemed unendurable.

"Well, maybe I am not; but I can, at least, make the trial—and fail, if I must," Mrs. Ellsworth sharply retorted, for she was in a very irritable frame of mind.

"I don't see how you can go to do something to earn our own bread and butter."

"We?" questioned Marjorie, lifting a glance of innocent surprise at her. "Certainly. Did you imagine that you would be allowed to sit idly down, and not put your shoulder to the wheel?"

Marjorie shrugged her pretty shoulders contemptuously, as if this repudiating all responsibility regarding "the wheel."

"I'm sure, I haven't the slightest idea what I can do—you know, I have never done any work," she remarked.

"Well, then, it is time you began to do something," was the severe retort. "You can, at least, learn to make beds and keep rooms in order—you might wait or table—"

"I wait on table, like a common maid!" gasped the girl indignantly. "I guess not!"

"You will do whatever I tell you to do, Miss Idleness," snapped her mother tartly.

"Perhaps Aunt Eliza will let me go home with her," sighed the girl, with starting tears.

"And leave me here to fight with poverty alone? No, indeed; you've had your day, miss, and now it is high time that you began to do something for yourself and me; if I have got to work for my living, you shall work, also!" cried Mrs. Ellsworth spitefully, and, in a sudden fit of obstinacy, ignoring the fact that, only a few months previous, she had been saying the same thing to herself.

"I won't!" was the sudden rejoinder; "so, you can just put that in your pipe and smoke it!" and with this disrespectful and insolent bit of slang, the girl deliberately turned her back upon her mother, and walked out upon a balcony that overlooked the mountains.

Shortly after four o'clock, Mr. Jennings called, as he had promised to take Mrs. Ellsworth to "Crescent Villa."

Marjorie sullenly refused to accompany them, and settled herself in a bay window, where she could look off upon the mountains, whenever she chose, and with a new novel to occupy the time during her mother's absence.

were a very stylish house-gown of silver-gray cashmere, made on train, with an elaborate lace front, and full frills of the same about her throat and wrists, and as Marjorie Ellsworth's keen eyes swept her from head to foot, she could but acknowledge to herself that the woman far surpassed the description which her sister-in-law had given of her.

"What?" Marjorie Ellsworth ejaculated, as she was thus suddenly confronted by her old-time rival, and could have bitten her tongue out the next instant, for the ejaculation had escaped her unawares.

Mrs. Seymour, however, after her first start of mingled astonishment and dismay, recovered herself immediately, drew her splendid figure up, with a little added dignity, and, with a low "Parion me"—addressed to Mr. Allen and Mr. Jennings, both of whom had stepped aside to allow her to pass—swept down the veranda to a cozy corner that was inclosed with glass, and where there was a table and chairs, opened a book she had brought out with her, and composedly settled herself to read.

Mrs. Ellsworth flushed hotly with anger; but for that first involuntary start upon beholding her, no one would have suspected that Margaret Seymour had ever laid eyes upon her before, and it called her inquisitiveness to have been thus ignored, especially as she had given expression to her own dismay upon beholding her.

What was Margaret Wilton doing there, she wondered. With her splendid physique and her buoyant manner, it did not seem possible that she could have come to the place for her health; while she appeared to be in prosperous circumstances, for she was dressed like a princess, in her fine, exquisitely fitting robe, with its rare laces.

"Those thoughts flashed rapidly through her brain, increasing the irritation that she had been laboring under all day, because of her own misfortunes, and this found vent in a low, mocking laugh, as she followed Mr. Allen inside the house, where she was met by and introduced to, his wife.

She remained there for nearly an hour, conversing with the owners, and looking the establishment over, and, before the interview terminated, she had decided to take a lease of it for a year, for she had been assured that she could fill it immediately, as the family had already had numerous applications, which they had not cared to avail themselves of, while the owners were supposed to vacate at once, and give her possession by the following Monday—four days later.

Before leaving, however, Mrs. Ellsworth managed to get Mrs. Allen into a side room, ostensibly to ask her some further questions about servants, furnishings, and so forth, but really for an entirely different purpose.

During their conversation, she observed in a casual way: "I met a fine-looking woman in gray as I came in; is she one of your guests?"

"Yes; that was Mrs. Seymour. She and her daughter have been with us all winter, and they are most charming people," Mrs. Allen replied. "Miss Seymour is out just now, but she is, if anything, even more beautiful than her mother."

"Do they intend to remain in Colorado Springs indefinitely?" inquired Mrs. Ellsworth, her thin lips expanded themselves into a sly, enquiring, and two perpendicular lines settling in a frown upon her brow.

"I think so. Mrs. Seymour was very frank when she came to us last November, but she began to recuperate immediately. She is, I think, in perfect health now; but I think her physician has advised her to remain here through another winter, in order to make assurance doubly sure."

"Well, she cannot remain in this house, if I am to have it!" Mrs. Ellsworth asserted, with a decided, acrimonious air and accent.

Mrs. Allen regarded her with astonishment. "Do you know Mrs. Seymour?" she questioned.

"I used to know her, many years ago," replied Mrs. Ellsworth. Then she added, with a malicious, significant laugh: "But I have no desire to continue the acquaintance, particularly as I have a young daughter, who will be with me."

"I think I do not quite understand you, Mrs. Ellsworth," said Mrs. Allen, flushing slightly. "Both Mrs. Seymour and her daughter came to us well recommended by a Mr. Benyon, of New York City, and they have been charming additions to our household. We have found them cultivated ladies, and most exemplary in every respect."

"Oh, very likely," returned her companion, with a palpable sneer. "It would be for their interest to conduct themselves in a becoming manner; but, allow me to inform you, the woman's name is not Seymour at all, and—her daughter never had a father."

"You can understand why I refuse to allow them to remain in the house," she concluded, with a malicious gleam in her eyes, which betrayed a bitter and relentless grudge against the one of whom she was speaking.

"Really, Mrs. Ellsworth, I am very sorry that you have told me this," she said in a tone of unmistakable coldness. "The department of both Mrs. Seymour and her daughter has been irreproachable ever since they came to us, and, even if there has been a mistake in their past—which I cannot believe—it certainly does not seem kind or charitable to bring it up against them here and now."

"Oh, well, those things are sure to come out, first or last," retorted Marjorie Ellsworth, with an angry toss of her head, for she did not relish the reproach she had received.

"Yes, it seems so," replied Mrs. Allen, with ironical significance. Then she continued in a tone of sincere regret: "And what a pity it is that people are so much more eager to circulate all the evil they hear and know of others, rather than to shield them, or tell of their virtues. But, Mrs. Ellsworth, I earnestly hope that you will speak of this to no one else; for, notwithstanding what you have told me, I firmly believe Mrs. and Miss Seymour to be most estimable ladies."

"All the same, I will not have them here," persisted Mrs. Ellsworth, with something of sharpness, for she was thoroughly enraged at the plain speaking to which she had been compelled to listen. "One must protect one's own reputation, and I will not have my daughter contaminated by their presence in my house."

VARICOCELE, FALSE RUPTURE

There is no other affliction to which man is heir that so completely unfits him for the duties or pleasures of life as Varicocele. The universal tendency of these conditions is to grow worse and more complicated—leading to impotency, nervous debility, wasting, structure, lunacy, sexual exhaustion, etc. Do you intend to result in the above conditions. No matter how serious your case may be, time affixed, or the failure you may have experienced in trying to be cured by medicine—free trials, or electric belts—my Botone system will cure you; the worn veins return to their normal condition and hence the sexual organs receive proper nourishment, the parts become vitalized and manly powers return. No temporary benefit, but a PERMANENT one. NO OPERATION necessary. No detention from business. If you have had the usual experience you have no doubt spent large sums of money and sold larger quantities of time searching for the remedy that I offer you here.

LONDON, MONDAY, JULY 2.

DOMINION DAY.

Another anniversary of the birth of the Dominion—the thirty-ninth—finds this young country still in the full tide of an amazing national prosperity.

In the last half century there have been two epochs in the history of British North America. The first was Confederation, with its corollary, the acquisition of the Hudson's Bay territory. We are now on the threshold of the second—a great immigration and the settlement of the west.

The thirty years after Confederation were years of national consolidation, but the economic progress of the country was disappointing and disheartening. One Canadian in three crossed the line, and the stream of immigration from Europe flowed past our doors to the United States.

This period of uncertainty has passed away. The last few years have brought a miraculous change in the fortunes of Canada, and the problem of peopling the country and developing its natural wealth—which Canadians almost despaired of—is being solved at last. But growth of wealth and population is bringing other problems. To what extent will the social and moral life of the Canadian people be modified by the admixture of alien races? What will be the political effect of increase of numbers?

The Canadian who lives for another fifty years may see nearly as many people in the nine provinces of the Dominion as are now contained in the British Isles. This fact cannot but have a bearing upon the relations of Canada and the mother country. Most Canadians hope and believe the Dominion will remain within the circle of the British Empire, and what changes in the organization of the Empire will be necessary to invest 20,000,000 or 30,000,000 Canadians with all the attributes of nationhood, and enable the Dominion to play her part creditably in the affairs of the world, is an interesting subject of speculation. British statesmanship has so far been equal to the situation, and we can only hope that it will meet the tests of the future as satisfactorily.

The vast extent of Canadian territory, while it insures material greatness, makes more onerous the task of cementing the Canadian people into a national fabric. There are magnificent distances and an abrupt physical separation between the peoples of the east and the west, and geography will be an estranging influence and tend to create political difficulties, as it has in the United States. This country has been likened to a dumbbell—large at both ends and slender in the middle. Railroads and the development of new Ontario will do much to interlace the east and the west, but Eastern Canada and the English-speaking people of the west must exert their moral energies to fuse the heterogeneous elements of the new provinces into a common Canadian citizenship.

THE GRAND TRUNK AND THE CITY.

Friends of the Grand Trunk claim that the company's position in the matter of dividing the cost of certain improvements between the city and the company is being strengthened by current events. It has already been pointed out that Chicago shared in the cost of elevating railway tracks through the city. The contract made between the railway and the city of Detroit showed that the city paid $30,000 as its share toward the separation of a single crossing. And now, after a long period of bickering, the Yonge street bridge incident has been closed, to the satisfaction of the railways and to the advantage of the city of Toronto. The Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific each pay to the city $50,000. This amount is reckoned to be equal to one-third, for each railway, of the total cost of the improvements to be made, and the city is left to decide what sort of bridge is to be built, and the cost, the only condition imposed by the railways being that it must be satisfactory to the railway commission.

It is interesting to note that the New York State law, which provides that the cost of the separation of grade crossings shall be divided equally between the state, the city and the railway, is held to be a fair division. In Toronto, as already stated, the railways bear two-thirds of the expense, but in that case there are two lines interested. Where there is but one railway, as in the case of the Grand Trunk and in the city of London, the railway contends that the cost should, by right, be divided equally between the railway and the municipality.

While these settlements in other towns have no direct bearing on the London case, they do show that the railway is able to convince other communities that the public benefits by these improvements, and should therefore stand a share of the expense.

We cite these cases to show that the company has precedents for asking the city of London to do likewise. At the same time, in view of the closing of an important street to vehicular traffic, and the company's desire to make the city responsible for damages, the citizens cannot be expected to pay a cash bonus towards the company's projects. A basis of accommodation might be reached in respect of the Grand Trunk's assessment, on the principle that it should not be penalized for improvements which mean the expenditure of a million dollars, most of which will circulate in this community.

THE PALMIST'S BLUNDER.

[Chicago Record-Herald.]

"The lines in your hand indicate," said the fortune-teller, "that you will be married a second time."

"Pshaw," she angrily retorted, grabbing for the dollar she had just laid upon the table, "you're an old fraud. If I ever married again it will be the fourth time."

DID NOT NEED HIM.

[Toronto Globe.]

A London magistrate refused to liberate a thief on the promise of his friends that he would be sent to Canada. This is quite satisfactory, as we do not really need him here at present.

TALKING ON A HIGH LEVEL.

[London Outlook.]

We once heard Mr. Morley, in a linguistic pride delightful as it is rare, say that when he and Mr. Gladstone sat down to talk both unconsciously stiffened their backs and looked to their periods.

EYEGASSES AND STUTTERING.

[Cleveland Plaindealer.]

Here is another discovery. Eyeglasses are recommended for those who stutter. It is stated that an improvement in the vision brings an improvement in the speech. Perhaps somebody will next find out that an added refinement in the sense of smell will benefit the sense of hearing. At the same time, this eyeglass idea may be a good thing, and every young man, for instance, who means to marry a girl, shouldn't fail to secure a pair of eyeglasses, or even two, before putting the fateful question.

NOT TOO CHESTY, PLEASE.

[Lancaster News.]

The vegetarians should not be too proud. What about corn embroiled with strawberry jam made of hayseed, glucose and aniline dyes, and arsenated green peas?

THE FARMER'S HOPE.

[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.]

A contemporary points out that it is only twenty years ago this month since the first electric car was put on the rails in Canada. What will the situation be twenty years hence? Another ten years of Liberal rule, and almost every well-to-do farmer will be using his own trolley line.

NOTHING DOING.

[Philadelphia Press.]

"Now, Tommy," said the teacher, "if you had twenty cherries and your little brother asked you for half of them how many would you have left?"

"Twenty," replied Tommy promptly.

"There is something," he said, "that I have wanted for a long time to tell you. I am not rich, as you know, but I am young, strong and willing to work. Miss Millyuns—Edith—I will tell papa about you. I think I heard him say this morning that he wanted to hire an office boy with just the qualifications you mention."

"Why, what has he been doing?"

"He puts up awnings."

What Is The Truth About Niagara Power?

(Letter in the Toronto Globe, June 29.)

I have read carefully the report of the Hydro-Electric Commission on Niagara Power, having previously and since its publication followed also the discussion on Mr. Beck's project as contained both in his own speeches and in the press, and it seems to me that the ordinary citizen is being entirely misled in his conception of this question, both by Mr. Beck himself and by many of the papers supporting his views.

The average man has no basis of expert knowledge upon which to form a correct judgment in connection with so technical a subject as electrical power, and the obligation is, therefore, the stronger on publicists of all kinds to see that false impressions concerning it do not obtain a foothold in the public mind. The Niagara power project, as presented in the report of the Hydro-Electric Commission, is one involving very large liabilities to the community, and it is the duty of both Mr. Beck and the public press to see that no misunderstanding is allowed to prevail as to exactly what benefits will accrue from this enterprise, not in theory, but in the actual affairs of every-day life.

The question in which the people of Toronto, for instance, are interested is, how much will power cost the city, and it is under Mr. Beck's scheme? Mr. Beck has talked to the people of Toronto about power at $16 53 per horsepower per annum, and it is hard to have had this figure fixed in their minds as that at which they are to receive it; and many of the newspapers supporting Mr. Beck's views have taken pains to disabuse the public mind of this error. I have myself asked at least a dozen of Toronto's business men the simple question: "What do you understand that power from Niagara is to cost you under the Government's proposition?" And in every instance the reply has been a figure ranging from about $16 to $20 per horsepower.

Furthermore, I can say most clearly that in not one but a score of different places, both in Mr. Beck's own speeches and in newspapers supporting him, the statement has been made in some cases directly and in many cases inferentially that this figure (or approximately this figure) will be the cost of power to the consumer in the City of Toronto. I also watched the papers closely throughout the recent discussion, and failed to find one single instance apart from the publication of the report itself where the public was clearly informed as to what the figure $16 53 meant, and how much would have to be added to it in order to arrive at the actual cost to the ordinary consumer, for ordinary purposes and under ordinary conditions.

Even the report itself does not explicitly give this analysis, but merely quotes a scale of prices which "might be made to the Toronto consumer," these prices running as high as $37 per horsepower per annum on a flat rate for a 24-hour service. The price of $16 53, as Mr. Beck well knows, is the estimated flat rate for 24-hour power on a full load of 50,000 horsepower delivered at the step-down transformer station on the northern limits of the city; yet, speaking in his presence before the Toronto Board of Trade, Mr. Howland, the president of that board, made the statement that under Mr. Beck's scheme power would be distributed for "all the people that need to use it at the rate of about $20 per horsepower per year." In another part of his speech Mr. Howland again referred to an average of about $20 as "the selling price" of the power, and Mr. Beck did not contradict him. Mr. Howland, the president of the Toronto Board of Trade, is one of those citizens who are under an entirely false impression as to how much power is to actually cost the consumer under the Government's proposition. In fact, the first public explanation on this matter appeared on June 16, in the Toronto World, which spoke of this impression as "delusive," and endeavored at that late date to explain the matter.

It is not my purpose in this letter to discuss or discuss the conclusions reached by the Hydro-Electric Commission, but merely to point out the error under which a large portion of the public is laboring with respect to the actual cost of electric energy to the consumers under the Government scheme. I would respectfully urge that Mr. Beck and his supporters, journalists and otherwise, should be careful to make this distinction clear in their future references to this subject.

ESCAPES PRISON IN BIG BASKET

Russian Carried from Captivity by the Stalwart Sister of His Friend.

Moscow, June 30.—A most ingenious escape from a Russian prison took place in this city yesterday. In the prison hospital ward were two friends, Parfemenko and Perkofski, both arrested for political offenses, the former being sentenced to a long term of imprisonment, while the other was merely detained. Two days ago Perkofski was released.

Yesterday afternoon his sister, a pretty young girl, came to fetch his clothes, bringing with her for that purpose a large clothes basket. Evild, her brother's friend by means of this basket, for shortly after she left the man was missing and has not since been heard of, though the police are doing their utmost to find him. Perkofski and his sister were arrested, and an investigation is going on in the prison to discover which of the jailers or the wardens fell a victim to the girl's charms, as it is evident that she could not have carried away the basket single-handed.

Vernoa, in Italy, is now completing the excavation of its Roman theater, a work which was begun in 1844. It is built in a semi-circle. It dates from the time of Augustus Caesar and was lavishly decorated with marbles from Greece, Africa and Asia. The theater was formed of huge steps of granite above which were rows of private boxes, one of which stands in its original position, in excellent preservation. On it, above the tiers of private boxes rose the places where the plebeians were seated and from where they looked down on the stage or away to the water jousts on the river.

EYES UNRELIABLE; EXPERT ASSERTS

Engages in Test to Show Falsity of Adage That Seeing Is Believing.

Geneva, June 30.—Prof. Claparede, of the Geneva University, has been making some interesting experiments to prove the unreliability of eye-witnesses of an event, and also to prove the great deterioration in the powers of observation due to the high pressure of modern life.

Recently in one of his classes the professor brought to in a man who was masked and his body hidden by a white shroud. The "unknown" stayed ten seconds in the classroom, made some signs, and then walked out.

A few days later the professor asked his pupils to pick out the unknown's mask, which was placed with ten others, on a table. Four students only out of twenty-four chose the right mask, although it differed in color and size from the others. Ten pupils chose different ones, and eight confessed that they were unable to decide.

"You see," said Prof. Claparede to his class, "how unreliable is the evidence of an eye-witness of an event, even in a law court and on his oath."

During further experiments the Swiss savant came to the conclusion that not one person in nine can give a correct description of a man whom they have looked at for ten seconds. Women, he believes, are much closer observers than men.

If criticism began where charity is said to it would seldom go any farther.

New railroad projects are being considered by the Chilean Government, and also by individuals, including another road across the Andes further to the south. The present Transandean line has been opened to Juncal, leaving only a 30-mile gap, traversed by a 20-mile gap, traversed by coaches in the summer, to the Argentina side. Work on the tunnel is being pushed.

Ensnaring
Victims

Steps Should Be Taken at Once to Prevent Further Trouble

Here in London, as in other cities and towns, dyspepsia, or stomach troubles are ensnaring victims in a most insidious way. Nearly every mother's son of us, and daughter, too, expects the stomach to accommodate itself to all manner of ill-treatment, but the time comes when we cannot abuse it with impunity. How much better it would be to take steps at once to strengthen the stomach and prevent further trouble. Use Mi-o-na now and soothe the irritated walls of the stomach, and strengthen the gastric follicles so that they will pour out their daily supply of digestive materials with regularity. Then the headaches, sleeplessness, specks before the eyes, poor appetite, tired feelings and nervousness will disappear, and you can eat what you want at any time you like.

Mi-o-na is a combination of remedies, some of which are but little known in this country, and is a positive guarantee cure for all diseases of the stomach excepting cancer.

Just one little tablet out of a 50 cent box before meals, for a few days, and you will soon regain perfect health and strength, and have no fear of indigestion or stomach troubles.

If you cannot obtain Mi-o-na of your druggist, it will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of price. Write us for advice on your case from a leading stomach specialist which will be sent free. The R. T. Booth Company, Ithaca, N. Y.

Gluten and Cellulose

both enter largely into the composition of a grain of wheat. The object of the scientific miller is to retain as much of the gluten as possible whilst extracting all the cellulose from the flour.

Gluten is the real strength giver and is contained in the inner "skin" of each grain of wheat. Cellulose is a hard and almost pure white fibre surrounding the gluten and starch cells. It is absolutely indigestible, but its presence cannot be detected in flour except by special chemical tests.

In the milling of "FIVE ROSES" FLOUR the flour passes through special purifying processes, which, although they remove all cellulose and waste matter, retain all the gluten and nutriment unharmed.

Consequently this brand is more nutritive and more economical than ordinary flours.

CAN'T WED UNTIL PRINCE MARRIES

Thousands of Women Held Up for Heir to Throne to Pick His Choice.

Tokio, July 1.—Thousands of the best-looking young women in Korea are languishing in splendid idleness, owing to an extraordinary edict of the government.

A year ago the Crown Prince became a widower. Now he has decided to take another wife, and the government officials all over the kingdom have been instructed to forward to Seoul the names and full descriptions of eligible brides.

Meanwhile, instructions have been issued that no young women of the better classes are to be married until the Crown Prince has announced his choice.

The governors of Kyung Kye and Kyong Sang dared to disobey the royal edict and allowed their daughters to marry. They have fallen in great disfavor at court in consequence, and are to be severely punished.

TO FIND WORK FOR 10,000 IDLE

Salvation Army Leader to Solve the Question of London's Unemployed.

London, July 1.—The Salvation Army is considering a scheme for the settlement of 10,000 East End residents in South America.

Great openings for labor, it is suggested, exist in the Argentine Republic, Brazil, Chili, and other South American countries, and offers to employ work for 10,000 emigrants have been received from official and private sources.

The Salvation Army will equip and send out the people, and exercise discretion in selecting them and assigning them to their various destinations. Special regard will be had to the fitness of the emigrants for agricultural and industrial employments.

It is understood that the emigrants will be drawn from the congested districts of the East End of London. This plan for the relief of distress in that quarter has no connection with the great movement of emigrants to the munificence contemplated in view of the munificence of Mr. Herring, who gave General Booth $500,000 for the purpose.

ABBEY SEARCHED FOR NOBLE'S HEART

Fatal Duel of Centuries Ago Is Recalled by the Investigation.

Edinburgh, July 1.—The story of a buried heart—brought back by sorrowing friends from Holland, when the body itself could not be conveyed to the family vault—has been recalled from the mist of tradition by the search for the relic among the ruins of Culross Abbey, in Scotland.

In a vault in the abbey is a small brass plate, which tells the story of the buried heart. The inscription is as follows:

Near this spot is deposited the heart of Edward, Lord Bruce of Kinross, who was slain in a bloody duel fought in 1637 with Sir Edward Sackville, afterward Earl of Dorset, at Bergen-a-Zoom, Holland. The heart is enshrined in a silver casket of foreign workmanship, secured between two flat and excavated stones, clasped with iron.

Lord Bruce is the present Lord Bruce, recently visited the abbey which is being restored—and in the presence only of the master of works and the foreman mason searched the family vault of the Bruces.

The search proved that the vault was empty, but about a foot below the pavement a large stone was discovered. It is believed that beneath it the heart will be found.

The story of the duel is a tradition in the neighborhood, initiated by Sir Edward Sackville in a public place, Lord Bruce challenged his detractor, and the two gentlemen repaired to the Low Countries to fight out the quarrel. The conflict was fierce, and Bruce was mortally wounded. He was buried in the great church of Bergen, but he expired before his comrades could take his heart back to Scotland and lay it in the old Abbey of Culross.

Sanfara Annexed Handicap, But Not Without Struggle

Jack O'Flaherty's Filly Captured Chief the Event at Kenilworth Saturday.

Buffalo, June 30.—It was not without a struggle that J. J. O'Flaherty's filly Sanfara annexed the International handicap of six furlongs, run as the feature event at Kenilworth Park this afternoon. The 2-year-old daughter of Ingoldby-Sankara, with three successive victories, was always an odds-on favorite to her credit, but she had to overcome the opposition of the Chantrelle stable, added at the last minute. The track, owing to the heavy rain which fell again during the early part of the day, was heavier than ever, and considered exactly suited to Sanfara's taste.

But when the barrier arose it was massive that set the pace and it required really herculean efforts on the part of Kent to outflank Lee by a nose on the post Lee rode a splendid finish, and had the backers of the favorite badly worried right to the end.

Martin Doyle struggled gamely, but in vain, to keep up with the leaders, while Peter Paul appeared outclassed throughout the journey. The winners:

First, 6 furlongs—J. Kils, even; 1, Annie Smith, 5 to 2; Grace Curtis, 10 to 1; 3, Time, 1:17.

SNAP-SHOTS AT VARIOUS SPORTS

Tom Sharkey says that most prize-fighters are crazy. Tom ought to know.

Joe Letter, formerly owned by Norman McLeod, is entered in the 2:17 race at Romeo this week. He is reported in good shape.

Hazel Hunter, the fast Dutton pacer, is entered now in the name of F. Malloy, Detroit.

Frank B. Greer, who is styled the amateur sculling champion of America, will not race this season owing to injuries. Lou Scholes could beat this fellow to death, and when Lou retired Greer holed like a frightened female that he could beat the Toronto sculler by miles. This boy has a fine streak of yellow.

The motor car has struck Egypt. Likely it will resurrect Rameses, Wicklight, Tongorder and other dead ones.

The Toronto World says that E. Barrow will have a good ball team before the season is half over. Talk about the man that invented hope! Why, this person would see a silver lining in the cloud of dust that enveloped a horse, Courtmartial by name.

Manchow, the Russian giant, has called on President Roosevelt. No, Teddy believes in the strenuous life, all right, but he did not wrestle with this one. Grizzlies for his.

There was a wild rush in England to get a peep at Mrs. Nick Longworth, so an American paper declares. That press agent has sure missed his chance. A circus for him.

Pittsburg fans are real sore because Phelps, the catcher, was taken from them, and immediately began to yell "Robber." This Phelps must be a good ball player if Cincinnati let him go.

She wears a baggy bathing suit;
Her big straw hat that's far from cute;
No wonder that the breakers roar
Whenever she appears on shore.

The Souris lacrosse team are in Montreal to play the Shamrocks for the Minto cup, for which mug the westerners have about as much chance as Barrow's Bangers have to win the Eastern League pennant.

It is said that the Toronto ball team and the two Boston teams are to play a three-cornered game for the door-mat championship. The loser will be known as the worst team playing Uncle Sam's great national pastime.

Now the Windsor bookies are pinched. First thing we know, Hamilton, Ont., will be the only legal open town in Canada. There is no gambling at the Hamilton track. No chance, regular cinch, that game.

The remains of the great Synoby will not be disturbed, so in the meantime the great horses at Windsor will keep the breeding industry to the fore in this progressive community.

Nine hours' sleep is the regular allowance, but the Toronto ball team should not take it all between 2 and 4 p.m.

The St. Petersburg Reds, in the Bomb Throwing League of Russia, have taken a slump in their hitting, and it is said that they have signed some of the cast-offs of the Toronto ball team. They might do in that league if age is any help.

A cow has adopted a pair of twin colts at the Seagram stables at Waterloo, and it is to be hoped that they do not turn out to be sink veal like Mortlake.

Capt. Hank Huff, who designed more America cup defenders than any other man, has just died in New York. His position in the yachting game was supreme, and a worthy successor will be hard to find.

The physique of the Toronto Argonaut eight pleases Brits, but if they can get their bulk across the line first, we will be happy.

Alex. Smith won a golf championship the other day in a driving rain, but it would not be fair to say that all who play the game are soaked.

After considerable jockeying, Tommy Burns and Mike Schreck have finally been matched and will meet at Seattle on July 26, and settle the question as to which is nearest the championship title, which latter honor Mr. Burns has claimed ever since he put Marvin Hart out of the limelight. Several unkind critics have said that Burns was merely a near-champion, but they will, of course, modify their view a little if he whips Mr. Schreck, and this is just what the burly Canadian says he is just dying to get an opportunity to accomplish.

No better, more evenly-matched pair, apparently, could be brought together. Burns is the cleverer of the two, and the superior of Mike in footwork. The German, however, has a style peculiarly his own that has puzzled many supposedly highly-scientific boxers, and he carries a mighty wallop in either mitt. The fight ought to start pugilistic matters booming in the northwest, if it turns out as it should—a high-class exhibition of the game in all its branches.

COVERPOINT.

COBB, THE WONDER, CHASING LEADERS

Detroit's Youthful Outfielder Third in American League Batting List.

Cobb, of Detroit, is just at present giving the American League leaders a merry race for batting honors. Biberfeld, who has not been on the diamond for a month, still retains his lead, but Stone, who has played every day, is second with .368. Then comes Cobb with .352. In 52 games this young player has made 69 hits and scored 35 times. He also has ten doubles and five triples, while his stolen base and sacrifice marks show ten each.

Lindsay, of Detroit, is now the leader in the sacrifice hit department of the game with 17, two ahead of Bradley, of Cleveland. Hemphill leads in stolen bases with 15, followed by Niles with one less. In doubles Lajoie leads with 18, Flick in triples with 9, and Harry Davis in home runs with 10. The latter player also leads in total and extra bases with 142 and 43 respectively. Detroit is fifth in batting with .251.

Plank is now the leader in the pitchers' table. He has won 12 of the 14 games he has twirled, five of them being shutouts. Rhodes is second and Over comes third.

Champions Play the First Errorless Game of Season

Defeat the Sojer Boys in City League—Great Ball in Stars-Rocket Match.

Two of the best games of the season were furnished to the fans at Tecumseh Park on Saturday afternoon, when the Champions beat the Seventh Regiment 5 to 1, and the Stars trounced the Rockets 4 to 3. There was a fair crowd present, considering the bad weather.

The first game was late in getting started, on account of the rain, but when the teams did get busy, there was a real ball game served up. The Champions certainly were real good. They fielded behind W. Gibson without the semblance of an error, and played with confidence and judgment. Ball and Jackson pulled off some nice work between them, and McHugh played the first station like a veteran, and binged most fiercely. He's good, sure enough. Costello did some nice work at the bat station. Pook caught a swell game, his throwing to bases being extra good.

Walter Gibson did the twisting for the Champions, and his work was very fine. Only five hits and one run were made off his benders during the six innings, and he was completely master of the situation from the drop of the flag. He fielded his position in splendid style.

Soldiers Played Good Game.
The Soldiers played a good game of ball at that. Smith was hit harder than Gibson, but he was supported on the whole in good style. Manager Stein was behind the bat, and caught a grand game. His throwing was good. Gregory at short dug up a few nice ones, and he was the ready man with the handy hit. Perkins made a nice steal or two, and Richardson did much better work when he went back to second. That double play, Perkins to Richardson, was good enough. Wanless was good, and the outfield behaved well.

It was a continuous procession to and from the bench until the third, when the Sojers hit the gum. With one in pickle, Richardson was given a ride. He went to second on a passed ball, and floated home on the tide when Gregory binged the ball for two decks. There was nothing more doing this spasm, as Smith gashed the gale, and Perkins was smothered by Gibson and McHugh. The Soldiers did not get any more into the right column, as one W. Gibson was very sticky with the easily binged stuff. Men got on once in awhile, but the saving smash was not unprovoked by their fellow laborers.

Where Champs Got in Work.
The Champs put the game in the refrigerator in the fourth session. Gibson hit Costello rolled an easy one down the third base line. Richardson fielded it to Perkins, who muffed the throw and all hands were afeared. McHugh hit to left, and all the cute little bases were filled, in the words of the poet. Eccleston started a fly to Gillie, and the boys belted to their bases. Lockridge then rolled one down the third base line, and Gibson scored while Richardson was chasing the ball into a corner. Costello flew to center, and Costello beat the throw, and the plate. McHugh was tossed out at third, and that ended that session.

The Champs came right back for more in the fifth. Males hit to left for two bases, Jackson hit to right for one, and then swiped second. Ball tore off another double-decker, and two rumped in. Then the Perkins-Richardson combination tore off a double play, that stopped Ball and Gibson. Costello, however, singled off the line, and on McHugh's third throw to safe territory. That ended the doings for that game.

Second Game a Hummer.
That Stars-Rocket game was a hummer, and contained more spectacular stuff than any game this season. Some of the prettiest plays seen here in many moons were handed out to the delighted fans. And there is no use talking, those twinkling chaps from beyond the breakwater played the game from the ground up. They won on superior work in the clinches. Their defensive work in tight corners was immense.

The one who completely grabbed the spot light was one Jeffries, by capturing a center fielder. Now, this industrious young person was about all there was in the game when it came to getting the ones that dazzle. He captured flies like a pirate bold, and he was just ordinary good captured, but there were a couple that he pulled off that it was simply robbery to grab. Once with three men on the stations, he went away back after a hard drive from Gatefield's bat. He stuck up his glove and grabbed it. Quick as a flash, he whipped it home, holding the runner at third. It certainly was beautiful. He was not satisfied with this, however. His next feat was a funny one. A fly was hit into short center.

Wilson pitched a swell game, and with a little better judgment on the part of his support he might have won. The damage was all done in the first inning. Three runs were scored on two hits, but several bingles figured in the scoring. Pook caught a swell game, his throwing to bases being extra good. The Rockets' work at the bases was not up to the standard. The one bright feature of the Rockets' day was the playing of a certain youngster, a "Doc" Sippl by name. He was a biffer for fair, and had a swing and he was completely master of the situation from the drop of the flag. He fielded his position in splendid style. The Twinklers got busy right away. Ward was safe when Macfie did not get his slow roller. C. Jeffries hit for two havens. Fleming started an easy one to third, and Arthurs threw home to catch Ward, but Mince dropped the toss. Graham slashed the sunshine, but W. Clark decided to win his own game and scored two by his drive to right. Two others went out and the scoring was done for the time being. The Rockets scored two in the fifth on three hits and an error and a fielder's choice. They scored one more in the seventh on Sippl's two-base drive, his steal, and W. Arthurs' hit. The Stars scored the winning run in the eighth on a base on balls to Jeffries, his steal, and C. Jeffries' hit. Nothing more was done, as no more was needed.

BEST AT WINDSOR; CHARLIE GILBERT

Stamped Himself as Such by Winning the Detroit Stake at Five Furlongs.

Detroit, Mich., June 30.—In winning the Detroit stake at five furlongs today at Windsor, Charlie Gilbert stamped himself as easily the best colt at the track. E. S. Gardner's son of Massett-Frogmore gave away pounds of weight to a nice lot of two-year-olds, and throughout, stood a hard drive all down the stretch, and gamely got his head in front at the wire. Gilbert was pocketed to the stretch turn and then, when he seemed about to get clear on the outside, bored into the rail and had to be taken up by Foley to avoid a foul. His victory makes him a colt of considerable class.

Red Walker and T. Anderson's stable engaged in a bit of selling war to-day. When Mike Reid won the first race Anderson's trainer, P. J. Williams, ran the filly up to $800, $300 over her entered price. Walker retaining the horse with the usual additional $5. Walker then took Blue Colt in the same race, away from Anderson for $725. After Dolinda took the last race of the day for Walker, Anderson again appeared and ran the gelding up to $1,000 and bought him in. Mrs. Richardson's old campaigner, Showmans, cut himself badly in the opening event, and may not be able to race for some days.

First race, 5 1/2 furlongs, purse $300—Miss Leeds, 93 (R. Moore), 3 to 1 and 6 to 5; 1; Butinski, 107 (Finnegan), 5 to 2 and even; 2; Lady Ontario, 104 (R. Moore), 4 to 1 and 1 to 1; 3; Blue Coat, Amador, Edgedly, Legation, Showman, Jim Beattie and Dan McKeowna finished as named.

Second race, 5 furlongs, $300—Miss Leeds, 104 (R. Moore), 3 to 1 and 1 to 1; Restoration, 109 (Foley), 5 to 2 and even; 2; Osane, 102 (Mountain), 19 to 1. 3; Time, 1:32-5. Reside, Dick Shanley, Pedro, Minot, Ingenua, Parity, Imposition, Charley Ward, Minos, Josephine E. and Scotch High finished as named.

Third race, short course, steeplechase, purse $350—Dawson, 148 (McKinney), 5 to 2 and 4 to 5; 1; Gearholm, 156 (Rae), 6 to 5 and 2 to 5; 2; Bank Holiday, 142 (Pierce), 5 to 1. 3; Time, 3:36. Sam Par-malso ran a good race.

TEAMS TO DESERT LONDON TODAY

Half a Dozen Have Arranged Games Out of Town—Their Line-Up.

London will be deserted by all of its ball teams today, except those of the City League, the latter having two games scheduled for Tecumseh Park.

Four of the half dozen teams that are to desert the city for the Central west to places on the Michigan Central west are St. Thomas, and they will meet teams that will either give them a good wallop or one of the stiffest runs for the money. That section of the country is full of fine baseball material that always has its knife out for the scalps of visitors.

The Ramblers, of the East End League, go to Rodney for two games, and was to the Ramblers if they don't put up the gill-edged variety of ball. The Wortmann & Ward nine goes to W. L. Long for two games. Somerville's to Motherwell. The Orleans have games at Highgate, and the North End Stars are scheduled for Dutton.

The line-up of the Londoners will likely be as follows:

Tigers—Pritchard, first base, Palmer, catcher; Courtenay, second base; Duncan, third base; Collins, right field; Gols, third base; Gowers, shortstop.

There will be 52 in the British party. Nine hundred and thirty-one British municipalities have gas works, 99 tramways and 181 supply electricity.

THE ARGONAUTS WILL ROW TODAY; FIRST TRINITY THEIR OPPONENTS

Draw For the Grand Challenge Cup Series Arranged—Argos Satisfied.

Honley, June 30.—This riverside town is again crowded for the great boat carnival, which begins Monday. The entries exceed the average, and good contests are assured in most of the events. The draw occurred today. W. B. West, of Philadelphia, was pitted against Roy Adam, of Australia, in the preliminary heat for the Diamond Sculls. Adam has been showing fine form in practice.

For the Grand Challenge Cup the Argonauts, of Toronto, Canada, were drawn against First Trinity, Cambridge.

The draw for the Grand Challenge heats took place in the town hall at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The following is the result of the draw. Nine crews will compete.

Heat A—First Trinity and Argonauts.
Heat B—Third Trinity and Eton College.
Heat C—Magdalen and Belgians.
Heat D—Winner heat A and Thames.
Heat E—London and Trinity Hall.
Heat F—Winner heat C and winner of heat B.
Heat G—Winner heat D and winner of heat E.
Heat H—Winner heat G and winner of heat F.

Argonauts have the Bucks Station and will row on Monday.

The Toronto Club express great satisfaction at the draw in that First Trinity are considered the equal to Third Trinity, which crew it is generally acknowledged is the eight to beat for the trophy.

First Trinity, according to the C. A. P. during practice, did not make any very fast trials. Some experts say they will give the Argonauts a hard row, while others declare that the Argonauts should have no hard work to beat them. If the Argonauts win on Monday in all the other heats, they will have the Berke side of the river. None of the other heats in the Grand Challenge will be rowed on Monday. Joe Wright, just before the crew went out for evening practice today, said they would attempt nothing in the way of a trial, but would try starting and sparring.

The Argonauts this morning paddled down to below the island, and then had some minute sprints, rowing 40 strokes to the minute. They came back over the full course in a stiff paddle. The Third Trinity crew did a trial under fairly favorable conditions over the full course in 7:22. The Thames R. C. did the full course in 7:32, the latter coming over the course right after the Third Trinity.

The weather is much cooler. Joe Wright, replying to the Canadian Associated Press, which asked if he thought the Argos would win, said: "We are saying nothing, but we hope to."

Sullivan, speaking to the Canadian Associated Press, said that, comparing conditions of their crew and the Third Trinity, the Argos' trial was a much better one. Argos' trial speed was 7:14, under conditions which were favorable.

In Sullivan's opinion the British crew is not as good as the crew which visited Henley last year. He thinks the Argos should beat them.
