LEMBERG IS BOMBARDED WITH POISON GAS SHELLS

TRANSPORT CANADA DOCKS THIS MORNING AT HALIFAX WITH 1,137 SOLDIERS FROM KINMEL CAMP

Ninety-Five Nursing Sisters Also Return On Troopship — Soldiers Have No Complaints To Make of Accommodations Provided During Trip—Canadian Officer Returns To Interview Government On Overseas Memorials.

Halifax, N. S., April 1.—The Canada, with 1,137 returning Canadian war veterans, docked at 8 o'clock this morning.

The troops arriving are virtually all from Kinmel Park. Ninety-five nursing sisters came on the steamer. One of these was Nursing Sister N. E. Maillard of Victoria, B. C., who, in addition to the 1914 and 1915 star and various Italian decorations, wears the Victoria Cross of her late husband, Staff Sergt. Maillard. The officer commanding the troops on board was Major Steer, M. C. He says the voyage was a pleasant one. The men were comfortable and made no complaints. The Canada sailed from Liverpool, March 25, and arrived off the harbor this morning. Among the officers returning was Major B. Wilson of Windsor, N. S., who was attached for some time to the Imperial staff as inspector of war trophies in the east. He was in charge of the allocation of all enemy ordnance captured there. He now has returned to the Canadian staff, and is particularly interested in the work of allocating Canadian war memorials at Ypres and Vimy.

Will Provide Sites.

He stated this morning that both the Belgian and French governments had intimated that they were prepared to hand over sites to Canada at both these points, and he said it was now merely a question of how much the Dominion Government was prepared to spend in the erection of suitable buildings. Col. Wilson is proceeding to Ottawa on of-

APRIL FOOL JOKERS CIRCULATED REPORT OF TREATY SIGNING

Paris, April 1.—Somebody started a story this morning that Col. E. M. House had announced that the peace treaty had been signed. The report rapidly spread all over Paris, and the telephone wires to the American headquarters in the Hotel de Crillon became hot with inquiries as to the truth of the rumor.

It did not take long, however, for inquirers to realize the character of the report when they realized that today was April 1.

SAFETY AND CONVENIENCE OF PASSENGERS DEMANDS USE OF DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME, STATE RAILWAYMEN TO COMMISSION

Arguments Are Advanced by Officials of the Railroad Companies and W. M. Neal, Representing the Railway War Board, That Endless Confusion and Loss of Time Would Result If Canadian Lines Failed To Adopt Same Schedule As That in Use in the United States.

Ottawa, April 1.—Railway companies appeared before the railway commission today to show cause why they have adopted daylight saving time. Counsel and experts filled the large courtroom. On behalf of the companies the argument was put forward that both the safety and convenience of passengers made it necessary to fall into line with the United States.

W. M. Neal, representing the railway war board, said that in the opinion of the railway war board a safe and convenient service could not be maintained unless daylight saving time were continued. He emphasized difficulties in international traffic. Northbound trains would have to stand an hour every day at the boundary if standard time were maintained; southbound trains would arrive at the boundary an hour behind, and the passenger would miss all connections.

There were rather more than a hundred trains a day crossing the border. They carried at least an average of 100 passengers each. Supposing standard time were continued, each passenger either through standing trains or missed connections, would at the least lose an hour per day, or a total of 10,000 passenger hours per day, 300,000 passenger hours per month, and 2,100,000 passenger hours during the seven months daylight saving is in effect in the United States. The total loss would probably be much greater than that, as passengers traveling south and missing connection would

Communist Movement Was Aimed Directly at Allied Powers.

Paris, April 1.—Documents in possession of the French and Rumanian governments, the newspapers say, prove that the advent of the Communist regime in Hungary was due in a great part to a manoeuvre of Count Karolyi in collaboration with the German Government. The movement was aimed directly at the Allied powers, it is added.

GERMAN BOURGEOIS IN COUNTER-STRIKE

Majority of Shops Are Closed in Stuttgart.

Stuttgart, April 1.—A bourgeois counter-strike has begun here as a reply to the general strike of workers. Most shops are closed, railroad and postal services are suspended, and gas works and electric power plants have been shut down.

SAMOAN CHIEFS ARE NOW SATISFIED WITH RULE UNDER BRITISH

Change In Administrators Results in Withdrawal of Petition.

Tutuila, Samoa, March 31.—British Samoan chiefs withdrew today their petition requesting transfer to American rule. They expressed dissatisfaction only with conditions under Col. Logan, former British administrator. Col. Tate, his successor, conciliated them and gained their confidence.

Native chiefs of Western Samoa, under British rule, were reported early in March as dissatisfied with the British administration. They were represented as favoring a transfer of the islands of Upotu and Savaii to American jurisdiction. The agitation followed the influenza epidemic which exacted a heavy toll of lives in the British section, but did not reach the American territory, which was quarantined against it with great strictness.

COUNCIL OF FOUR IS CARRYING ON WORK IN A CAUTIOUS MANNER

Paris, April 1.—In French conference circles there was an impression last night that the situation is very satisfactory though some caution is being observed in the proceedings of the conference.

The council of four heard Paul Hymans, the Belgian foreign minister, during the day and later received a report from the inter-allied commission which was sent to Teschen to investigate the controversy between the Czechs and Poles.

TWENTY-EIGHT INJURED WHEN INTER-URBAN CAR JUMPS TRACK ON CURVE

Accident Occurs on D. V. R. Line Near Port Huron.

Port Huron, Mich., April 1.—Twenty-eight persons were injured, none of them seriously, when an inter-urban car on the Detroit United Railways left the track on a sharp curve near here today and rolled down an embankment. Those injured suffered chiefly from bruises.

MILLS TO CLOSE DOWN.

Manchester, England, April 1.—The employers and operatives in this region, market reports say, have decided to close all mills using American cotton for a full fortnight from April 10.

FOCH GOES TO SPA TO DISCUSS ALLIED DEMAND WITH FOE

Allied Commander-in-Chief Will Meet Matthias Erzberger.

Paris, April 1.—Marshal Foch will leave Paris tonight for Spa to meet Matthias Erzberger to discuss with him the Allied demand that Polish troops be permitted to use the port of Danzig. The marshal has received full powers to negotiate with the German representative. He will be in constant communication with the council of four.

The inter-allied shipping commission has completed preparations to transport the Polish troops to Danzig.

PLAN PROPOSED TO ALLEVIATE DISTRESS AMONG PRISONERS

Canadian and British Commissioners in Siberia Discuss Project.

BY W. E. PLAYFAIR,
Canadian Press Correspondent.

Vladivostok, Siberia, March 28 (delayed).—Daily conferences are being held by the assistant commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross with the British high commissioner over the project to alleviate distress among the enemy war prisoners in Western Siberia, and Russian refugees and returned prisoners, about half a million persons in all. The plan proposed originally was that the Canadian organization would administer funds provided by the British Red Cross. Col. J. C. Dennis, the Canadian Red Cross commissioner, who is now in Japan, gave the British until April 1 to decide their policy. Col. Young, the Canadian assistant commissioner, left for Japan on Saturday to consult with Col. Dennis before the latter sails for Canada.

THREATENED STRIKE HAS BEEN AVERTED

Adjustment of Marine Workers' Complaints To Be Left to Commission.

Detroit, April 1.—A threatened strike of members of five organizations of marine workers' organizations, having to do with dredging and drilling operations on the great lakes, set for today, has been averted, temporarily at least, it was announced here this morning, by agreement to submit differences over working conditions to a national adjustment commission. The adjustment commission, it was stated, will meet at Buffalo at a date to be fixed later. Meanwhile the men, members of the International Dredge Workers' Association, International Surface Rock and Drill Workers' Association, and International Brotherhood of Steam Shovel Workers, will remain at work.

ALLIED MISSIONS ARE AWAY FROM BUDAPEST

Paris March 31.—The French, British and Serbian missions which were in Budapest when the Hungarian revolution broke out have arrived at Belgrade. They were imprisoned in their living quarters but not sent to jail.

WORK AT PEACE CONFERENCE IS SLOWING DOWN AGAIN OWING TO NEW PROBLEM OF REPARATIONS

Although Differences Which Have Arisen Have Not Yet Reached Status of Deadlock, a Feeling of Apprehension Prevails Due to Delay On the Peace Treaty.

Paris, April 1.—A feeling of apprehension over the lack of progress on the peace treaty persists in American circles, although it is said in authoritative quarters that differences which have arisen have not reached the status of a deadlock.

The principal difficulty has been found in settling upon reparations, according to the new method of payment suggested by the French delegation. This plan was presented on Saturday before the council of four and covered twenty typewritten pages. It is said that the frontier question now turns on the securing of military safety along the Rhine.

UKRAINIANS BOMBARDING CITY OF LEMBERG WITH POISON GAS SHELLS

Warsaw, April 1.—The bombardment of Lemberg continues, the Ukrainian artillery firing poison gas shells into the city. At a conference held on March 27 between allied delegates and representatives of the Polish and Ukrainian armies the Ukrainians refused to enter into negotiations while Poles were present. The negotiations were interrupted to give the Polish delegates time to consult their government.

DELEGATES TO LAY CLAIMS OF IRELAND BEFORE CONFERENCE

Three Representatives Are Appointed by Irish-Americans Sail Today.

GET GREAT "SEND-OFF"

Former Illinois Governor Says No Compromise Will Be Accepted.

New York, April 1.—Three delegates selected by the Irish race convention in Philadelphia last month to lay the Irish-American appeal for a free Ireland before the peace conference, were guests of honor at a "godsped" reception here last night, tendered by more than 400 Irish sympathizers. The delegates, rank P. Walsh of New York, former joint chairman of the national war labor board; Edward F. Dunne of Chicago, former governor of Illinois, and Michael Ryan of Philadelphia, former public service commissioner for Pennsylvania, are scheduled to sail for France today.

Mr. Walsh, in a brief address, characterized the missions as "the most unique and beautiful adventure it has ever been the privilege of men to undertake."

What Will Be Asked.

If the conference persists in refusing to hear the delegates of the Irish republic, he said, the mission will ask to be heard "as American citizens, speaking for the Irish nation." If this request is refused, he added, the delegates could only "come home and let the people know that the pledges made by our country have not been carried out."

Former Governor Dunne declared the delegates would not be satisfied with a "compromise," but would demand, with the backing of "hundreds of millions of people," that Ireland be given the right to live "under a republican form of government."

Mr. Ryan, asserting that he never had seen Ireland, declared he went "as an American," to urge the peace conference to "crown with success one of the greatest movements of history."

"Unless Ireland is given her freedom," he declared, "there can be no real world peace, and there can be no honest league of nations."

ALLIED POSITIONS HEAVILY BOMBARDED BY BOLSHEVIK GUNS

Strong Enemy Force Moves Forward To Attack Near Odozerskaia.

Archangel, Monday, March 31.—Bolshevik artillery submitted the allied railway front and positions south of Odozerskaia to the heaviest bombardment in many weeks yesterday. In the meantime the enemy was moving considerable forces through the woods, indicating that an attack may follow soon. West of Odozerskaia the allied artillery is still shelling Bolhoia Ozera, and a number of explosions occurred in that village on Sunday.

C. N. R. CHIEF ENGINEER AND OTHERS KILLED IN SNOW AVALANCHE

News of Fatality on Sunday in the Rockies Is Confirmed.

Edmonton, April 1.—Allen T. Fraser, 45, of Winnipeg, chief engineer of the Canadian Northern Railway, was killed by a snowslide yesterday morning near Mount Robinson in the Yellowhead Pass, through the Rockies.

From information received by C. N. R. officials here, the train on which Mr. Fraser was proceeding west was stopped by the slide. Mr. Fraser and a section crew went ahead to examine the slide, when another mass of snow and rock came down the mountain side, burying the party. The section hands were dug out, badly injured.

Mr. Fraser was appointed to the position of chief engineer on the 1st of January. Previously he had been district engineer of the Canadian Northern Railway, and lived in Edmonton. He was a widower and leaves two children.

Bank of Commerce Purchase New York Office for $650,000

[Special to the Advertiser]

New York, April 1.—The Canadian Bank of Commerce bought yesterday for a price said to be close to $650,000, the Post Building on the Exchange Place, Beaver and Hanover streets, where the bank has been located since the building was completed in 1882. It occupies the first and second floors in the building as its New York agency. The Post family, which had owned the corner for more than a century, gave the Canadian institution the opportunity to buy the property because the family has decided to liquidate its realty holdings. Had the bank not wanted the property it would have been placed on market and quickly sold for many brokers have been commissioned in the last two years to buy it. There were no brokers in the deal.

The property fronts 85.4 feet on Exchange Place, 53.4 feet on Hanover street, and 98.2 feet on Beaver street. It is within a block of the Marine Insurance district. The Royal Bank of Canada purchased recently the premises it occupies at the corner of William and Cedar streets for $1,010,600.

Allens Will Build $300,000 Theatre in City of Winnipeg

Will Install $20,000 Pipe Organ as a Special Feature.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Winnipeg, April 1.—Allen Theatre Enterprises, Toronto, announce the purchase of a theatre site in Winnipeg on Donald street, opposite Eaton's, of 102 feet frontage, for $150,000, on which they will begin the erection of a $300,000 theatre building on June 1 to open December 1, with a $20,000 pipe organ as part of the features. B. Allen, president, now here, stated that negotiations were also in progress for sites in Calgary, London and Halifax.

SCOTTISH MINERS ACCEPT TERMS OF THE BRITISH GOVT.

Agree to Conditions With Respect to Wages and Working Hours.

London, April 1.—Delegates of Scottish miners, meeting at Glasgow, have indorsed the government's terms as to wages and working conditions based on the recent report of the coal commission of which Justice Sir John Sankey is chairman and have advised the miners to accept them. A similar action has been taken by the miners' associations in the Yorkshire and Cleveland fields, while the Lancashire miners are reported to be generally satisfied.

B. C. MINERS START ON EIGHT-HOUR DAY

Victoria, April 1.—Under the authority of the statute passed at the 1918 session of the legislature some five thousand surface workers around all metalliferous mines, coal mines, smelters and coke ovens will commence operations today on the basis of an eight-hour working day.

CHICAGO ELECTIONS TODAY ARE BEING KEENLY CONTESTED

Voting Follows Bitterest Campaign in City's History.

SIX SEEK MAYORALTY

Question Submitted by Prohibitionists On One Ballot.

Chicago, April 1.—Men and women balloted for mayor and other city offices today, after a campaign said to have been the most bitter in the history of the municipality. With six candidates in the field for mayor, partisan, religious and racial hatreds flamed high during the campaign which ended last night with riotous scenes in the central district which extra police details had difficulty in controlling at times. The candidates for mayor are: William Hale Thompson (Republican) incumbent; Robert M. Sweitzer (Democrat) county clerk; MacLay Hoyne (Independent-Democrat) states attorney; John Fitzpatrick (Labor) president Chicago Federation of Labor; John M. Collins (Socialist) Adolph S. Carm (Socialist-Labor).

Four Claiming Election.

Each of the four leading candidates claims his election today although political forecasters say they are at a loss to make anything like credible predictions. The vote of the independents is generally conceded to be the deciding factor in the balloting and there is no means of knowing, politicians say, to just which candidate it will go.

Among the propositions appearing on the "Little ballot" accompanying the mayoralty ballot is the proposition "shall Chicago become anti-saloon territory?" This proposition was not allowed on the ballot at the preceding election and the "drys" brought suit against the election officials which resulted in a decision of the supreme court several weeks ago that the proposition should be submitted to the voters. In view of the government ruling soon to become effective and the adoption of the amendment to the constitution the "drys" decided to make no campaign.

The "wets" however, have conducted a vigorous campaign against the proposition, with the slogan: "Let congress hear your protest!"

The polls opened at 6 a.m. and will close at 4 p.m.

FRENCH SENATE VOTES TO RETAIN LUXURY TAX

Chamber of Deputies Protests Against Senate's Action.

Paris, April 1.—By a vote of 140 to 80 the senate last night indorsed the government's demand for the retention of the luxuries tax by eliminating from the budget bill an article inserted by the chamber of deputies abolishing it.

Louis Klotz, minister of finance, who was present and who urged that the article be stricken out of the bill, motored to the chamber later and asked that branch of Parliament to reverse its action on the tax.

There were violent protests in the chamber against the senate's action deputies who advocated the suppression of the luxuries tax arguing that it was not wanted by merchants and workmen.

Union Mothers' Club Indorses Expenditure on New Schools; Will Limit Butter Consumption

Members Draw Attention of Trustee Manning to Bad Conditions in Empress Avenue and Talbot Street Schools —Inspection Is Promised.

A largely-attended and exceptionally-interesting meeting of the Union Mothers' Club was held last evening in the Technical School. At this meeting several questions of interest were discussed.

The matter which was most widely related to the citizens of London, dealt with the extension and improvements of the city schools, introduced by Trustee W. N. Manning. As a result, the club put itself on record as backing the board of education in its proposition.

"Just now is one of the most critical times for education in the city of London," he declared. "No money has been spent on school buildings or equipment, except in the case of the Technical School, for five years, in the face of all that has been said about the extravagance of the city council in regard to school expenditure. It was thought wise not to do so during the period of the war, but now that the war is over the school board feels that it must begin building. Consequently a plan has been drawn up, and the board has asked the city council to offer debentures for this purpose.

Has Heard Rumor.

"Rumor has, however, comes to the ears of the school board that the city council is not going to do this.

"I say that it is up to the Mothers' Clubs to push the matter ahead.

"This is how the situation stands. Chesley Avenue and Ealing schools are crowded to the doors, which is most unfair to both pupils and teachers. The board proposes to erect a four-room school between these two schools, for the smaller children, who will, in such an event, not have so far to go to school. Such a new school can be built more cheaply than enlarging the two schools.

"At Simcoe School, the conditions are also very bad, and it is proposed to build another four-room school here for the smaller children. Each of these four-room schools will have an auditorium for the community gatherings in the respective districts.

"The proposal also includes the enlarging of Wortley Road School and the purchase of more ground here for a playground.

"There is no public school between Colborne and the district east of the tracks to the limits of the city. It is proposed to buy land there this year, ready to build next year.

Collegiate Overcrowded.

"The Collegiate Institute is terribly overcrowded, but it has been suggested that if a new commercial school were built, it would greatly relieve the congestion there. It is admitted that the commercial school would give better service separate from the Collegiate.

"The whole proposition takes only $195,000; this is but $8,000 or $10,000 a year from the city.

"Yes the city council is balking on the proposition, more so than a person than the mayor, who said he walked five miles to school when a boy, and therefore did not think it would hurt the present generation to walk long distances also. We do not get this if we do not get this better equipment for our boys and girls they will suffer for it," said Mr. Manning. "The new city hall is nothing in comparison with the welfare of our boys and girls. (Exclamations of approval from the audience.) We have our plan ready. We have over a thousand members in your Mothers' Clubs, and no council would dare refuse such an organization. If you feel you need the schools, then back us up in this proposition. It is up to you."

More Wanted.

Not only did the Union Mothers' Club put itself on record as supporting the board of education, and promise to send a delegation to the next council meeting, but several members advocated an even more extensive scheme. Mrs. Donoghue of Empress Avenue Mothers' Club, London West, was indignant that this school had not been considered in the estimate of the board.

"We have a school called Empress Avenue over in London West, but apparently the board does not know of its existence, for it has never been visited by any of the trustees," she said. Mrs. Donoghue mentioned the impossible conditions of this school, and invited the members of the board to come and see how matters were themselves.

Mrs. Calder of the Talbot Street Mothers' Club extended a similar invitation on behalf of that school. "Why, the principal there is even afraid to let all the children assemble in the upper hall in case there may occur another such tragedy as once occurred in the city," she declared. "The building is so old that it is unsafe."

In response to these appeals, Mr. Manning promised that he would thoroughly investigate both cases, saying that it was a crime that any school should be left in the state in which the Talbot Street School was depicted.

Boycott Discussed.

Another matter which the club seriously discussed last evening was the suggested boycotting of the butter market, on account of the very high prices existing at the present time. Statistics were brought forward by Mrs. A. E. Tutt, which showed that there was 46 per cent more butter in the creameries of Canada during this March than in March last year, and yet the price per pound was higher. After a great deal of discussion, which showed very many of the members willing to give up the use of butter entirely for the sake of bringing down the price, it was finally decided that the club would not take quite so radical a stand at the present time. A resolution was brought forward to the effect that the club put itself on record as strongly opposed to the present high price of butter, and that the members would reduce their consumption to the minimum.

The move on foot to stop the importation of oleomargarine was also discussed, being thought by some members to be but another means of advancing the price of butter, which should be balked. The retention of butter in cold storage was also mentioned as a means of raising the price.

A resolution from the Retail Grocers' Association, to the effect that the Mothers' Clubs should use their influence in bringing about the early closing of grocery stores on Saturday night, was read. A motion was made by Mrs. Tanner and seconded by Mrs. Wells, that the club co-operate in every way with the Grocers' Association to bring about early closing on Saturday night. This resolution was unanimously carried.

Indorse Prohibition.

Another resolution in reference to asking the Government to make permanent the order-in-council now existing in Canada, was brought forward by Mrs. F. W. Hughes and seconded by Mrs. John Gemmell, with a result that the club put itself on record as indorsing such a resolution to be forwarded to the provincial representative, dominion member and premier.

Principal Beal of the Technical School gave a brief talk on the value and place of the Technical School in the city. He made special mention of the fact that Miss Stanley, superintendent of Victoria Hospital, was putting it up to the hospital trust that next year practically all of the lectures for her nurses be given in the Technical School. She also professed preference for a girl entering the nursing profession with a technical education rather than a high school graduate."

Although the hour was late, many took advantage of the opportunity to see some small portion of the new Technical School building.

Interesting solos were given by Miss Dorinda Abbott and Mrs. Dockstader, and a much-appreciated reading by Miss Higman. Mrs. A. E. Tutt, the president, was in the chair.

Twilight Organ Recital Really Lenten Meditation

One Number Played Especially in Memory of the Late Dean Davis.

The twilight organ recital given in St. Paul's Cathedral on Saturday afternoon by Clarence G. Gilmour, organist and choirmaster, was rather in the nature of a "Lenten Meditation," so perfectly adapted was each number to the season. Owing to the fact that it was purely organ, with no other instruments introduced, the program was kept to exactly an hour.

A touching feature was a number played as a tribute to the late Very Rev. Dean Davis, "In Memoriam," by John West, built on Van Dyke's hymn tune "Requiescat."

Three big numbers given a musicianly rendition were the "Solemn Prelude" by William Faulkes; Tschaikowski's C. Minor Funeral March; and the "Requiem Aeternam" by Basil Harwood."

One of the rays of light of the afternoon was a composition by Dubois "In Paradise," which tonally depicts the joys of the blest in Paradise."

PROUD OF HIS BATTALION

And Amazed at the Belgians' Ability To Decorate Their Cities.

"Not anything now. Just plain Pete. I'm out of the army," said William Hockin McKinley Millman, late corporal of the 116th Battalion today, a broad smile telling the story that it was exceedingly good to be home again and joke in Canadian.

"But when did you get back?" asked the reporter, who had distinct recollections of the unrolling of yards upon yards of red tape before some other people were translated from military to civil estate.

"Saturday," was the reply, "and for dispatch commend me to the discharge service. It took me exactly one minute and a half to get out of the army. I never saw anything to equal the record they were making."

McKinley Millman, who is being welcomed back by hosts of friends, went overseas with the 135th, and was sent in a draft to France to reinforce the 116th Battalion, the Ontario County unit. "They called us the 'Umpty-Umphs,'" he says, "because ours was the last battalion to go to France as a unit, and we were in consequence the babies of the Canadian corps."

Proud of Commander.

Exceedingly proud he is of the 116th and its commander, first, Lieut.-Col. Sam Sharp of Uxbridge, who died in January, 1918, after his return to Canada. The O. C. was succeeded by Lieut.-Col. George R. Pearkes. "And don't forget," says the young London soldier, "when you are writing his name you put V. C., D. S. O., and M. C., after it. He got his V. C. with the 5th C. M. R.; his M. C. with the 2nd C. M. R., and his D. S. O. in his command of the 116th. He's a dandy man, Englishman. Rose right up from the ranks. We were very proud of the fact that our battalion, under his able leadership, was the only one to be mentioned in dispatches at Cambrai in October.

Whence Came the Flags?

The astonishing thing to McKinley Millman about the towns in the north of France which were released from German occupation towards the end of the war was whence the people got their flags.

"As the Canadians entered," he says, "flags would be flying all over the towns. Where did the people preserve them during the German occupation? It wasn't like here in Canada, where you can go out and buy flags to decorate as you want them. The people had them hidden safely away, and they guarded the secret wonderfully, waiting for 'The Day'—April Fool Day for the Germans.

"The people went wild with joy as the Canadians entered the towns in the north of France, and their gratitude to the soldiers was unbounded. They were so happy that the war was over. In the border towns of Belgium, near Brussels, they couldn't do enough for us. They were far more demonstrative than the Canadians."

Heard About Rhyl.

Asked if he had been at Rhyl camp, Millman replied in the negative, but he had heard a good deal about the riot.

"What was the trouble?"

"The opinion I heard was that the men were dissatisfied over poor food, insufficient comforts, perhaps not enough blankets, and failure to get money. The army rations were all right, apparently, but spoiled in the cooking. The men were anxious to get home, and the inability to get money to spend when they couldn't get away seemed a great grievance. No, there hasn't been a falling off in voluntary comforts supplied the men since the signing of the armistice.

"The wonderful thing to me is the way the steady stream of comforts has kept up during the war. It wouldn't be possible to say enough in praise of the Salvation Army, the Catholic Women's League, or the Y. M. C. A. The work of the Y. M. C. A. in France was simply magnificent. The Salvation Army never failed when it was possible to render a service, and the organization and service of the Catholic Women's League was wonderful, in England, particularly."

THE DAYLIGHT SAVING

[By the Poet Bill.]

These days people are raving
Over the daylight saving.
They say it will make it bad to worse,
For when they are a-coming,
They will find themselves a-going,

Especially in a pouring rain,
Which used to leave on the dot of eight
How they will stand and stare,
When they find it is not there,

To the jeweler they will go,
Thinking that their watch is slow,
Wondering how and all it meant.
When the watch doctor he will say,
'Twas only the other day
Clock moved ahead an hour, so be content.

You will see the farmers run,
Getting up with the rising sun,
Intending getting milk down to the station,
When he finds that he is slow,
For that an hour ahead, you know,
The train is near its destination.

When there is a big day in town,
Many people will come down,
And also see the fairs and other games
When nicely interested,
They are at once molested.
And have to leave early for to get their trains.

And now these days it will be four,
You will be pinching yourself all over to see if you're alive,
And the early daylight saving you will abore.
But there is no use complaing,
It is all in the training,
Just the same as when a soldier goes to war.

BODY OF DROWNED BOY NOT YET RECOVERED

Reward Offered for Finding of Harold Barnhart.

The body of 6-year-old Harold Barnhart, who was drowned while playing near the river in Delaware Township on March 18, has never been recovered, although the river has been dragged many times since the accident. Believing that the current may have taken the body down the river, and that a possibility exists of it being washed up on the bank, a reward has been offered for its recovery. Anyone discovering the body is asked to telephone Byron 1, ring 19.

MOUTH AND TEETH STRONG FACTORS IN HEALTH OF HUMANS

Have Great Possibilities For Good or Bad.

TEETH CARRY INFECTION

Have Been Known To Keep in Action Scarlet Fever Epidemic.

Dentistry and its relation to public health was the subject of an address given yesterday at the noon luncheon of the Rotary Club by Dr. S. M. Kennedy, who quoted numerous dental and medical authorities in support of his contention that proper care of the mouth and teeth would have a very large effect on health generally.

Medical science, he said, recognized that the most important and the most valuable work along health lines consisted of preventive measures and education of the public to practice prevention in their daily lives. In this connection it was well to remember the important part played by the mouth and teeth in maintaining or injuring health. The mouth, the gateway to the alimentary canal and the respiratory apparatus, and the teeth, occupying a strategic position in this gateway, were really the keys to health.

Toothache, he declared, was too often not the ultimate penalty of neglect. People generally ate along the line of least resistance. If a tooth ached on one side of the mouth they did not masticate at all on that side, and the result was that the other side also became sore, and then no mastication took place, but food was rolled around between the cheeks and the tongue, and bolted. This resulted in food entering the stomach not partially digested as it should be, and as the stomach could not do double duty, the kidneys and other organs were overworked. The bad result was two-fold. Part of the nourishment was lost and the overworked organs became affected.

Mouth a Germ Home.

But an even more important consideration than this was that the mouth was the ideal resting place for germs of all kinds. One eminent authority had discovered in a particularly bad mouth one billion, one hundred and fifty million germs, many of them virulent and dangerous.

As an example of the reality of the danger, Dr. Kennedy stated that Dr. C. N. Johnston of Chicago, reported that an epidemic of scarlet fever in the schools of that city resulted in the affected children being sent home and isolated. It was found, however, that when they returned they infected other pupils. The public health department, puzzled, made a careful examination, and found that the children were carrying the germs in cavities in their teeth. Steps were taken to put all their teeth into good condition, and when this was done the trouble disappeared.

In this city, said the speaker, 65 per cent of the people over 25 years of age had one or more abscessed teeth, and 75 per cent had pyorrhoea. The one ideal way to prevent such a condition was for every child, from the age of two years onward, to have dental examination and treatment if necessary every four months or so.

End Meals With Fruit.

Diet, Dr. Kennedy declared, played a big part in mouth health. Meals should never end with jam, marmalade, bread or anything containing a large proportion of sugar. If these things were eaten they should be followed by fruit to clean the teeth. The best of all fruit for this purpose was the apple. He pointed out in this connection that among uncivilized people the percentage of defective teeth was between one and twenty, while among civilized people the figures were from 90 to 95.

The difficulty presented by the fact that many people were not able to pay for dental service, said the speaker, should, in his opinion, be solved by the Government bearing the necessary expense. The Government had recognized the fact that soldiers with defective teeth could not give efficient service, and had taken steps to see that their teeth were maintained in good condition. He thought that it was just as important to see that every citizen was maintained in a healthy dental condition.

He spoke of the work of the school dental clinic in this city. In 1917, the first year in which it was established, it was found that 97 per cent of the pupils had defective teeth. The rural districts were not well served in the matter of school dental clinics, but the provincial minister of education had promised to take up the matter. Some cities had established municipal clinics for adult poor people, and in our own city a dental clinic probably would be established soon at Victoria Hospital. Doctors agreed that, with proper care of their teeth, many of the patients in the public wards could be discharged much sooner than otherwise, so that the move was a good one from a direct economic standpoint.

Child Contralto Delights Her Audience at Musicale

On Saturday afternoon a special musicale was given in honor of Miss Kathleen Fox, one of Canada's greatest child contralto singers, at the residence of Mrs. Graham, 527 Princess street, to celebrate her fifteenth birthday. Little Miss Fox is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Fox, editor of the C. P. R. Press Bureau, of Montreal, and is considered one of the most promising contralto singers of the day. She came from the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, where she is pursuing her studies, especially for the occasion, and Mrs. Fox has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. Brooks, Wellington Apartments, for the last two weeks.

Little Miss Fox, who has been a pupil of Madam Beatrice La Palme, a well-known Covent Garden singer, for the last three years, sang in three languages, and the large number of prominent ladies of London who were present were enthusiastic over the young artiste. The child possesses a voice of wonderful range and volume and sings with ease, showing excellent training, the development being more that of a singer of 25 or 20 years, than a child of fifteen. Miss Fox sang in Italian, French and English, and also demonstrated her abilities as a pianist by playing Rashmaninoff's Prelude. She was accompanied by her father, and items of great interest were rendered by Mrs. Wyatt, Miss Cox, Miss Morgan and Mr. Fox, of Montreal, while pianoforte solos were also given by Miss Cox and Miss Morgan. Subsequently afternoon tea was served. Miss Fox holds five certificates for piano of the Royal Academy of London College of Music, and has only one examination to take before she takes her degree.

HERE ARE PREDICTIONS ABOUT SPRING COMING; BIG CHOICE IS OFFERED

Frogs Have Been Frozen Up Three Times—What Does That Mean?

"And the voice of the frog was heard in the land." Then King Jack Frost arrived on the scene again and the voice was silent. Old Sol unwilling to be thus easily defeated, brought all his powers to bear on the land, and liberated the frogs again. This scene has to be enacted three times before one can rest assured that spring has arrived to stay, according to oldtimers, and they say that the cold snap which is now upon the land makes the third time that the frogs have been silenced. According to this, one should expect continued warm weather to commence in a few days at the latest.

There is another school of weather prophets from which comes the doleful message that for every day the frogs croak in March they will be frozen up in April. According to this theory, London may look for many cold days during the present month.

Some of the younger sages who study weather conditions from time to time give the assuring message that there cannot be much more cold weather inasmuch as the Great Lakes are clear of ice now. They point out that it is the presence of great ice floes on the lakes that keeps the weather cold late into the spring.

Of the three schools of thought one may take his choice. If majority counts for anything one must believe that spring is really upon us, as two out of the three, support this.

MARCH 1919 SNOWFALL ONLY HALF OF YEAR AGO; RAINFALL MUCH HEAVIER

March 1919 was blessed with just half as much snow and nearly four times as much rain as the same month of last year. In the matter of temperatures the only marked difference was in the cold record. The figures:

Rainfall, 1918, 1.17 inches; 1919, 4.16 inches.

Snowfall, 1918, 10 inches, 1919, 5 inch.

Temperatures, 1918, highest, 73 on the 21st; lowest 4 above zero on the 10th. 1919, highest 67 on the 26th, and lowest 12 on the 7th.

WHY STAY FAT? YOU CAN REDUCE

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. However, in Marmola Prescription Tablets, all these difficulties are overcome. They are absolutely harmless, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A large case is sold by druggists at 75c. Or if preferable they can be obtained by sending price direct to the Marmola Company, 864 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being too fat, but can reduce two, three or four pounds a week without fear of bad after-effects.

WANTS ALL THE TRUTH ABOUT RUSS BOLSHEVISM

Speaking on "Ananias and the Bolsheviki" at the Epworth League of Dundas Methodist Church last evening, Henry B. Ashplant said in part:

"As true as it is of the Man of Galilee, who gave to the world revelations of truth, so it is of Ananias the liar, that he has left his impress on the page of history, an impress as full of significance and fateful warning to every day and generation as was the hand-writing on the wall in the hall of Belshazzar at Babylon. Ananias warns all humanity today of the danger inherent in false testimony.

"His history preserves many records of the fatal result to social peace and to political stability, of a diplomacy which was poisoned by the spirit of Ananias; prevarication in international policy practised and apologized for by a guilty few, whose fear of the revelations which truth would unfold led them to use diplomatic falsification as a weapon of defence in the vain hope that moral law would be set aside for their salvation.

"It is evident that starvation in Russia is not caused by the Soviet administration of the Bolsheviki, because we find the fact loudly advertised that the employment and starvation, which is the poison of production, is created as much Bolshevism in capitalist states as Bolshevism is creating of that sort of thing in Russia."

Mr. Ashplant warned against accepting all that is reported about the massacre of intelligentia in Russia, and pleaded for a search for the truth.

NELSON MINHINNICK BACK FROM FRANCE

Gunner Saw Nearly Four Years Service, Partly in Gallipoli.

Gunner Nelson Minhinnick, formerly of the staff of The Advertiser, who went overseas with No. 3 Stationary Hospital nearly four years ago, returned to London a few days ago, after having served with the medical unit at Gallipoli and also with a battery of field artillery on the western front.

Gunner Minhinnick, after the stationary hospital had been for some time in the eastern war theatre, was taken ill with dysentery, and was invalided to England about Christmas, 1915. After he had become convalescent he decided to try for a transfer to a combatant branch of the service, but for a time his clerical services were so much in demand that he could not secure his wish. In September, 1917, however, he at length succeeded in getting a transfer to the 36th Battery, and with that unit served at the front until the signing of the armistice, and afterwards went with the army of occupation a little beyond Brussels, Belgium.

The third division, to which he belonged, was to have relieved one of the other divisions which was farther on in Germany, but when the policy of rapid demobilization was decided on, the third, which was nearest the base, was sent back to England first.

Gunner Minhinnick returned to Canada on board the Olympic as a member of the 36th Battery, which was raised in Nova Scotia, and which was dispersed in Halifax. He was discharged there and came on to London as a civilian.

New Apartment House For Picton Street.

With ten permits, amounting to $29,240, London building has made a good beginning on the first day of April. One of the permits was taken out by the Hayman Syndicate for a four-story apartment on Picton street to cost $15,000. W. J. Wilkie is erecting two dwellings on Lorne avenue at a cost of $2,400 each. The London and Petrolea barrel works is erecting a dry kiln at an estimated cost of $4,000. M. Shaw is building a residence to cost $2,500, on St. George street, and E. B. Westby is building a house on Vauxhall street to cost $1,200. Abram Biesler has taken out a permit for alterations to the store front at 247 Dundas street, to cost $1,200.

FISHERS OF YESTERDAY HUGGING STOVES TODAY

Change in Weather Drives Them Back to Homes.

Disciples of Isaak Walton a few days ago were sitting on the banks of Father Thames, although the ground was cold, allowing their hooks and lines to dangle temptingly before the finny tribe, are again crouched up in a corner by the fireside, smoking their briars and reading "Fly Fishing," or some other book on angling.

Alas! An icy covering has been spread over what was a few days ago sparkling water, which would tempt any man away from his daily toil.

Weather prophets are not helping to soothe the angry angler, for they predict that this weather will continue until Easter. If many workers are not at their places of employment on Easter Monday, employers will know that they have taken the bank holiday to make up for the day's outing that they missed on Good Friday.

CUSTOMS RETURNS SHOW BIG DECREASE

The customs returns for the month of March, 1919, were $124,411.48, and for the same month of 1918, were $140,865.28. These figures show a decrease in returns of $16,453.80 from those of March of last year.

PROOFS OF SOBRIETY OF NO AVAIL THIS TIME

A returned soldier fought against fearful odds in France, and the fact that three members of the police force all declared that he had been great and fearfully drunk last night, lid not fizz on him in police court today.

"Positively, your honor, I was not drunk," declared the prisoner, emphasizing his remark by thumping the docket rail.

Sergt. John Monahan stated the man was "good and drunk." Major McGuire said he was very drunk and Constable Brennan declared there was no doubt about it.

"Ask them how much money I have. I know, and a drunken man doesn't know how much he has," declared the prisoner triumphantly.

"That has nothing to do with the case," said the magistrate.

"If I was drunk, why did they allow me to keep my watch?" continued the accused, holding his timepiece up for inspection. "I've fought the enemies of my country in France, and I'm going to fight for myself right now."

"It's quite apparent that you are drunk now," opined the court, "and I'm going to remand you till tomorrow."

LONDON IS COMING TO ASSISTANCE OF JEWS HANDSOMELY

Team Captains Reporting Successful Morning.

UNASKED CONTRIBUTIONS

Letters Come In Containing Money From Persons Outside the City.

Members of the Jewish relief canvass committees are much encouraged today by the sympathetic reception which the public is according them. One team captain after another came back to the headquarters in the chamber of commerce rooms to tell of success met and the readiness of response, whatever the size of thes ubscription.

"I have only had one refusal," said one team captain, "and I am not accepting that as final." Whereat a central committee official remarked: "That is the spirit which puts over our London campaigns."

Reports of the day's success will be made tonight at the get together meeting in the Tecumseh House for the workers at 8 o'clock.

One of the encouraging features is the interest manifested by numbers of people in outside points and citizens who are sending in unsolicited contributions.

Mrs. D. A. MacDonald, writing from Watford asks, "Would you care to have our circle sew for the poor and homeless Jews in whom you are interested?" "Please let me hear at an early date."

A prominent W. C. T. U. worker writes, enclosing a generous subscription:

"I have always been much interested in the Jews. My mother taught me they were some day to be one of the great nations of the world. My study of the bible has confirmed this, and it was with real gladness of heart that I first noted the rise of the Zionist movement. The capture of the Holy Land by England is a long step towards the fulfillment of your dreams of nationhood.

"With pleasure I enclose a trifle towards your campaign.

"Hoping earnestly for your success, ' ———.' "

Among the offerings brought in today was a large pasteboard box which had once housed an alarm clock. It was now filled with pennies, evidently saved by children for the campaign. In any case, the one who left it refused to leave a name or tell a story of the little self-denials probably involved in collecting the amount.

SAFETY AND

in many cases be stranded for a whole day.

Resuming the inquiry, Mr. Sheldon, a Canadian Pacific Railway conductor of long experience, said it would be dangerous to try to run on different times. He wouldn't like to do it. Running on two distinct times, a man would require two watches, and there was danger of getting them confused.

Mr. C. H. Foster, assistant passenger traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, gave the commissioners some facts as to the method adopted for setting schedules on international lines. There would be a conflict in time between the Canadian roads and their American connections on the other side of the line. If the C. P. R. were forced to put on the time of their trains crossing the line, while operating under standard time, in order to make connections, it would mean that the time of trains between points in Canada would also have to be advanced in order to connect with international lines.

If Canada adhered to standard time, the time of practically all Canadian Pacific Railway trains would have to be advanced an hour. The traveling public would therefore be materially affected.

General Superintendent Bowker of the Grand Trunk Railway agreed with what the C. P. R. officials had said in regard to connections with the United tSates lines.

URGES SAFETY FIRST.

Experts were of opinion, Mr. Neal went on, that it would be impossible to preserve the necessary degree of safety if the roads were operated under different time. In some cases, for instance, a train would leave Canada, cross into United States territory for a few miles, come back into Canada again, then go back into the United States The train dispatcher would have no dispatch the train under two different times, thereby increasing the hazard of accident.

A. Price, general manager, eastern lines, C. P. R., indicated the difficulties in running trains between Montreal and St. John and Montreal and Newport, Vt., unless daylight saving time were continued. A train leaving Newport for Montreal, for instance, would enter the province of Quebec, go back into Vermont for eight or ten miles, then re-enter Canada. "I do not know how a train dispatcher would handle that train" Mr. Price observed. "If he ran the train through Vermont on United States time and through Canada on standard time." There was, further, the line between Montreal, Halifax and St. John over which sometimes nine or ten additional trains, carrying troops, were running per day. This line, crossing Maine, would be on two times.

The consensus of opinion of the various witnesses would have to be continued on the Canadian roads, if connections with the United States lines were to be maintained. The running of trains on two distinct lines would be, in the opinion of the officials testifying, a dangerous experiment, and would cause difficulties in international traffic, which would affect bran:h lines of Canadian railways, as well as international lines.

After hearing officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway and Grand Trunk, as well as Mr. Neal, representing the Canadian railway board, Sir Henry Drayton adjourned the hearing at 1 o'clock until 2:30 p.m., (daylight saving time) when other witnesses will be heard. The commissioners have received telegrams from about 35 municipalities, cities and towns in the country indorsing daylight saving.

SASKATCHEWAN COUNCIL FAVORS SUMMER TIME

Saskatoon, Sask., April 1.—At a meeting of the city council held last night it was decided to go on record as being in favor of the daylight saving. The change of time, however, will not go into effect until the decision of the board of railway commissioners is made known.

WINNIPEG DELAYS IN DECISION ON "TIME"

Winnipeg, April 1.—Daylight saving in Winnipeg is to hang in the balance for the next two weeks, the city council decided last night. There is considerable opposition from labor bodies.

MISSION GAVE FIVE DOLLARS. — The collection for the destitute Jews of Palestine, taken up Sunday night at the York Street Mission Hall amounted to $5, which has been handed to E. C. Bowker.

WESTERN TRAFFIC OPENING.— The C. P. R. will begin to accept lake and rail freight traffic for the Canadian Northwest on April 10, subject to delays, until the first boat sails from Port McNichol, probably on May 1.

BUYS PORT STANLEY LOT.—Edward Towe has sold one of his lots on Front street, immediately west of Invererie Hotel, Port Stanley, to E. Leslie Edy for $1,000. Mr. Edy purposes erecting a summer home on the property this spring.

Celebrate Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pierce Surrounded by Their Whole Family On Happy Anniversary.

Advertiser Illustrations.

On Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pierce, 748 Princess avenue, celebrated their golden wedding at the home of their son, Charles, 775 Princess avenue, and the happy event was made the occasion of a family reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierce were married at Eastbourne, England, March 29, 1869, coming a few years later to London, where they have resided ever since.

During the day letters and messages were received offering congratulations and good wishes, and numerous presents arrived, expressing the love of the givers for the bride and groom. About 35 guests sat down to the wedding breakfast in the prettily decorated dining-room, gold being the color scheme.

Their whole family of six sons, Albert E., Charles J., Harry B., Frank C., of this city; Ernest A., of Port Huron; Walter L., of Detroit, were all in attendance, accompanied by their wives and families.

Among the guests were Rev. and Mrs. Leitchliter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pierce and Miss Margaret Pierce, Frances street; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burt, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reed.

COUNCIL COMMITTEE LIKELY TO GRANT BOARD OF EDUCATION PART OF THE DEBENTURES REQUESTED

Feeling of Members in Favor of Providing New Commercial School and Funds For Public School Purposes, But Some Shy at Granting Cost of New Land.

After paying a visit to the commercial school at the invitation of A. A. Langford, chairman of the commercial advisory committee, the members of No. 1 committee are disposed to grant the board sufficient debenture issue to erect a new school. This will be $60,000, according to the estimates, and the committee will likely recommend this tomorrow. The committee, however, does not seem inclined to grant the $30,000 for the new site. In addition, $70,000 debentures for public school purposes will likely be granted.

Ald. F. E. Harley stated this morning that conditions at the commercial school are such that something will have to be done immediately. He suggests that the board of education could erect the new school on the site of the old Princess Avenue School. When this was suggested a few days ago A. A. Langford objected on the ground that the school should be more central. Ald. Harley thinks it folly to sell the Princess Avenue site and purchase another one. He points out that municipal bodies invariably sell low and purchase high. He does not wish to cast any reflections on any body, but it appears to be human nature for the citizens to take all possible advantages of the municipality in the question of buying or selling property.

Another in Favor.

Ald. G. B. Drake, another member of No. 1 committee, is in favor of granting the debenture issue for the commercial school erection. Like Ald. Harley he is against the proposition of the purchase of extra ground for the commercial school.

In connection with the proposed additions to the public schools, Ald. Drake thinks that the council should grant a certain portion of the debentures asked by the board. He is not in favor of the erection of a new school in the Ealing district, but he says further accommodation will have to be provided there. He would approve of additions to the Ealing Sshool.

Chairman L. S. Holmes of No. 1 committee is rather disposed to grant the debenture issue as asked for by the board.

"The members of the board were elected by the citizens, and why should we, as members of the council, take it upon ourselves to say they should not have the money for which they ask?" queried he in connection with the question. "Let them be responsible to the people for their expenditure."

From present indications it appears that No. 1 committee at the meeting on Wednesday afternoon will recommend that the council grant debenture issues to the amount of approximately between $125,000 to $145,000 for the use of the school board.

Surprised at Condition.

Ald. Drake is especially surprised at the conditions at the commercial school. He says that he wonders that the chief of the fire department has permitted the one stairway to be closed as it is. That it is a dangerous condition in case of fire he has no doubt. There was a rumor this morning in certain city hall circles to the effect that the council could not raise the debentures this year now that the estimates are passed. Mayor C. R. Somerville did not wish to be quoted on the question on the ground that he does not wish to cross a bridge before he reaches it. He admitted that there might be some difficulty in providing for the sinking fund and interest for the current year if the debentures are issued. There are others who say that this could be taken care of by an overdraft, and that there is nothing to prevent the issue of the debentures if the council sees fit to issue them.

A. A. Langford did not care to discuss what action would be taken by the board in the event of the council granting only sufficient money to erect the commercial school, but not for the site.

Ridout Street Breakwater Likely Will Be Postponed

City Engineer Does Not See Reason for Building It Now.

Among the questions which will be up for discussion at the meeting of No. 2 committee this evening is the report of City Engineer H. A. Brazier respecting Ridout street breakwater. In all probability there will be no action taken towards building the protection this year. Apparently the city engineer is of the opinion that there is nothing to be gained by undertaking the work this summer. That it will be necessary some time in the future he admits. At least it will be necessary to build sometime the 190 feet upon which he is reporting this evening. He thinks that the city property is not endangered as yet. In connection with the repeated requests of the residents of Ridout street south, City Engineer Brazier says that they have absolutely no claim against the city for protection from the action of the river.

SOCIAL AT NILESTOWN.

NILESTOWN, March 31.—The box social held recently was a decided success. Every number of the program brought an encore. Piano and violin selections by Capt. J. C. Fletcher and daughters Olive and Laura, of London; duets by Mrs. Logan and Mrs. Connor, of Dorchester; solos by Mrs. Bolch, of London; reading by Mr. Connor, of Dorchester, and the O. P. R. A. Quartet, composed of J. C. Fletcher, basso; A. E. Barnard, tenor; Mrs. Bolch, soprano; Mrs. Bishop, contralto, all were enjoyed.

The boxes were auctioned by Dr. Shaw. The proceeds were $71.25. Mr. Pode, of Pottersburg, was chairman.

Daylight Saving Is Officially Adopted; But It's April 1st

Get All Worked Up, But Read to the End.

London has officially adopted daylight saving time. This was done by a proclamation of the mayor, after a conference with several members of the council this morning. While there was some opposition to this action in certain circles, the general opinion is that the mayor has taken the right course. It will take effect this evening at 8 o'clock. At this hour all (who forget that today is the 1st of April) will move their clocks on one hour to conform to the daylight saving time. Those who call to mind that this is "All Fools' Day" will put on a wise look and will say "You can't fool me; this is the 1st of April, and I am too wise a bird to be caught like this." They will not put on their clocks, knowing that this is just a little story written especially for the first day of April."

Child Welfare Exhibit in City To Be Held in June

Specialists Expected to Give Clinics on Well Babies.

June 3, 4 and 5 were the dates fixed for the second annual child welfare exhibit in this city, at a meeting of a special committee to make preliminary arrangements, which was held yesterday afternoon.

The provincial exhibit, which has been enlarged and otherwise made much more complete since February, 1918, will be one of the features of special attraction.

The selecting of a place in which to hold the exhibit and clinics has been left to a special committee, composed of D. H. McDermid, chairman of the first exhibit committee, E. C. Bowker and Mrs. Glennie Wilson.

Well-Baby Clinics.

It is believed that child welfare week will revolve to a great extent around the well baby clinics, which will be conducted by local doctors who are taking a special interest in child welfare work. More than five hundred babies were brought to the clinic of child welfare week a year ago, and preparation will be made for more this year, owing to the fact that the weather will be more favorable for taking out little ones, and doubtless many mothers in the surrounding district will take advantage of bringing their pre-school age children to see how they measure up physically. It is proposed to make Thursday a "Western Ontario day" for the special advantage of children from out of town.

Inviting Specialist.

If possible, Dr. Allan Brown, child specialist of Toronto, will be brought to the city to conduct a demonstration clinic.

Dr. C. J. Hastings, M. O. H. of Toronto, has announced that he will be free to come up to give one of the evening lectures, which will be open to the public.

The committee is hoping that, in view of the fact that a big medical convention is to be held in Toronto immediately before, it will be possible to secure some eminent specialists on child welfare from a distance to come and speak on the subject.

Another meeting of the committee to continue plans will be held on Thursday afternoon this week.

King Street Veterans Are Guests at Their Church

Fourteen returned men and one nursing sister back from France were the guests of honor at a reception Monday evening in King Street Presbyterian Church, one of a series of "welcome homes" for members of the congregation who have done their bit overseas.

A record for such entertainments was constituted in the fact that everyone invited attended, the occasion proving an exceptionally bright and happy one. George E. Perry presided, and during the evening Thomas Ames, a returned soldier, who is an elder of the church, made the presentation to each of the guests of honor of a handsome signet ring, on behalf of the congregation. These were Nursing Sister Winifred Forsyth, George Brockie, Oliver Mowatt, Jack and Sam Anderson, Colin Moore, Ernest Wegg, Hugh MacKenzie, Thomas Haldane, William Smith, Charles Doherty, Wellington McConnell, Jack McQueen, Norman McDonald and Robert Boynes.

Addresses were given by John Cottam and Rev. G. A. Leichliter, Nursing Sister Winifred Forsyth telling most graphically of her experiences in American casualty clearing hospitals near the front.

Music was furnished by the Imperial male quartet, and Miss Annie Clarke. Tempting refreshments were served.

Brantford Urging National Memorial to Canadian Nurses

Movement For That Purpose Is Now Under Way.

Brantford, April 1.—A movement has been started here for the erection of a national memorial in this city to the Canadian nurses who died on duty with the overseas forces. This city lays claims to such memorial in that the first Canadian nurse to be killed at her post of duty was Nursing Sister Maude MacDonald, who remained with her patients at a Canadian general hospital at Etaples through a Hun air raid, refusing to go to safety though the opportunity was offered. She fell a victim of a Hun bomb dropped by one of the raiders. Nurse Dorothy Baldwin of Paris, was also a victim of a Hun air raid on a hospital.

ADDRESS ON DIPHTHERIA

M. O. H. Warns Health Association Against Nasal Type.

Dr. W. S. Downham, M. O. H., gave an address on "Diphtheria" last evening at the regular meeting of the London Public Health Association in the Institute of Health. Particular reference was made to the nasal types of the disease, which are the most dangerous, inasmuch as they are not readily recognized. They are often thought to be merely colds, and thus they become sources of infection. This type is a mild one, and the patients are rarely very sick, but the one to whom the infection is spread may take the disease in the throat, and it may be fatal. Dr. Downham urged that all cases of apparent colds in the head be watched carefully for diphtheria symptoms.

Dr. D. A. Craig, who filled the chair, and Dr. John C. Lindsay led a general discussion on the address. Others among the large number present took part in the discussion.

WAYWARD MISS DRAWS A TERM IN MERCER

ST. THOMAS, March 31.—Charged with breaking her parole, Edna Johnson, an old offender in police circles, was this morning sentenced to not less than six months nor more than two years in the Mercer Reformatory by Magistrate Maxwell. The accused had been let out on suspended sentence some time ago.

PRISONER LISTENS TO TONGUE LASHING AND GOES TO JAIL

Edwin E. Shearing Scored by the Magistrate.

"COWARDLY AND VILE"

Tragic and Sordid Tale Comes To Light in Police Court.

"I never knew of a more cowardly and vile man," said Magistrate Graydon in police court this morning in sentencing Edwin E. Shearing to three months in the common jail on the charge preferred by Inspector Joseph Sanders of the Children's Aid Society, of corrupting several young children.

The story as told in police court was a heartbreaking and dreary one. A little Englishwoman lost her husband three years ago. He was a victim of the great war. For three years she lived on her pension of $40 a month, eking out an existence for herself and children as best she might.

Met the Betrayer.

Last August she met Shearing, and he soon came to live at the house, where they lived as man and wife. Early in March Shearing, wishing to evade the responsibilities of a father, took all his belongings and left the house.

The little Englishwoman, nearly wild with grief and worry at Shearing's desertion, as her hour of trial drew nigh, took poison, and only prompt action on the part of enighbors saved her life. The case was reported to Inspector Sanders, and Shearing's arrest followed.

An Arraignment.

"It is the most flagrant case I ever tried," declared the court in summing up the evidence. "This man has made the most terrible accusations against the woman, which, I believe, are absolutely untrue. It is said that he ise now willing to marry the woman. Only the horror of prison bars is the reason, as far as I can see. He lives with her for months, and at the first sign of trouble he runs away.

"If ever there was a case intended to be covered by the statutes, this is one. I find him guilty, and I strongly advise Mrs. ——— not to marry him. She is better off as she is. If he did marry her, he would probably desert her within 24 hours. She would lose her pension, too. Physically and mentally he has left this woman in a terrible condition.

"There has been a great deal of this thing going on, and I intend to protect these women as much as I possibly can."

PLAINTIFFS OBTAIN VERDICT FOR $461

Edward Adams & Co. Given Judgment.

In the case of Adams & Co. vs. Barlow & McCormick, which was tried before Judge Talbot Macbeth in the county court this morning, the plaintiffs were awarded $461.52.

Edward Adams & Co. of this city were suing Norman W. Barlow and S. A. McCormick of Amherstburg for $473.27, which the plaintiffs alleged was the amount of goods sold and delivered to the defendants. They sued also for the amount of certain bills of exchange.

It was claimed by the defendants that a portion of the goods which the plaintiffs were suing for was returned to a traveler representing the plaintiffs. The bills of exchange, they claimed, were probably ones accepted by the old firm of Barlow & Smith. They asked that the action be dismissed, with costs. Gibbons, Harper & Gibbons for the plaintiff; Fleming, Drake & Foster for the defendants.

Fraser vs. the Interprovincial Brick Company, the only other case on the list, was commenced this afternoon, and it is expected that the court will be concluded by night. The court is going by eastern standard time.

C. A. Fraser of this city is suing the Interprovincial Brick Company of Toronto for $625, which he claims is the amount of commission due him. Frederick B. Farren, manager of the firm, declares that there is no interest due the plaintiff. Gibbons, Harper & Gibbons for the plaintiff; F. B. Farren for the defendant.

Ten Scarlet Fever Cases Are Isolated in the City

As many as ten cases of scarlet fever are isolated in the city, four of these having been reported last week. Chickenpox, with three new cases, and diphtheria, with three, are still holding their own. Two diphtheria suspects, two cases of tuberculosis, and one of venereal disease, complete the list of communicable diseases for the past week.

Twenty-two cases were in isolation at that time, ten of these being treated at the hospital.

MOTORISTS FIGURE IN POLICE COURT CASES

Motorists and their troubles took up a good deal of time in police court today. A. M. Heaman, charged with driving a car without license numbers, pleaded not guilty. He was driving the car for G. Terry, and taking it to his garage direct, to be stored. The court impressed the seriousness of the crime on Mr. Heaman, but allowed him to go, as the breach of the act was considered unintentional.

Morris Whyte, up on the same charge, was taking his brand new car in triumph to get the license tags, when an eagle-eyed constable spied him. He, too, was allowed to depart in peace.

A mistake in the day brought R. J. Carswell before the court in righteous indignation. Instead of being seen speeding on a Friday, it was a Sunday. Mr. Carswell paid his fine of $5, and Magistrate Graydon made the request that more care be exercised in the issuing of summons in future.

Capt. G. Brookfield also paid $5 for speeding, although much evidence was offered to the contrary.

Kieth Peckenham proved that he had been home at dinner when the police had taken the number of the truck he drives, and Chief Williams failed to register a conviction.

W. J. Johnston, Wm. Greatrex, E. W. Hooper, G. H. Martin, A. E. Miller, G. Binder and L. F. Mayne didn't argue with the court. They all paid their $5 fines for speeding.

LET GO; PAYS COSTS.—Richard Bugler of this city, who appeared before Squire Chittick at the court house on Saturday afternoon, charged with stealing two whiffle-trees and a double-tree from the new Westminster Hospital, was let go on paying costs.

WRIT FOR $300.—John Russo and Stephano Pierone, trading under the name of the Modern Shoe Repair Company, have issued a writ against the London Street Railway Company for $300, which they allege was the damage done to their motor delivery car when it was struck by a street car. They claim that the accident occurred as a result of the negligence of the motorman who was driving in the employ of the defendants. The writ was issued through the plaintiffs' solicitor, Edward M. Flock.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE TO MEET CITY SOLICITOR ON STREET RLY. PROBLEMS

It is understood that there will be a meeting of the special street railway committee and City Solicitor T. G. Meredith this afternoon at 4 o'clock. What is the proposed line of action now that the company has not increased the service is not known. All of the members of the special committee are determined that the company shall give a better service if there is any means of compelling it to do so.

Among certain members of the council there is the feeling that the company would have been granted increased fares if it had shown to the satisfaction of the council that increasing the services would mean a direct loss.

In any event there is little chance of the company receiving any increase in fares this year it is pointed out. The Legislature would have to sanction the increase even if the citizens decided in favor of it, and it would be practically impossible to get the proposition passed upon by the Provincial Government this year.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

DEATH OF MRS. JOHNSON.

Mrs. Mary Johnson, wife of Alfred Johnson, died at the family residence, 785 Simcoe street, on Sunday afternoon, in her 44th year. Mrs. Johnson is survived by her husband. The funeral will be held on Wednesday from the family residence at 2:30 o'clock to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

FUNERAL OF MISS HOBBS.

The funeral of Miss Lucy Nethaway Hobbs was held privately on Monday at 2 o'clock to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Rev. R. G. Peever conducted the services.

The late Miss Hobbs died at the home of her brother, Dr. A. T. Hobbs, in Guelph, on Friday after a short illness, in her 61st year. She lived in this city for a number of years.

FORMER LONDONER DIES.

R. W. Drennan, formerly a well-known railroad man of this city died in Los Angeles, Cal., on March 17, according to word received by his brother, James Drennan of The Advertiser Job Printing Company's staff of this city. He is survived by his brother James, and by one sister Mrs. John Orchard of Rochester, N. Y.

Walter Drennan was a familiar figure in railroad circles here some 40 years ago, having been employed as brakeman under Conductor Jack Gillean on the Grand Trunk Railway running out of here. Mr. Drennan has been living in Williams, Ariz.

Concerning his death the Williams, Ariz., Daily News says:

Monday afternoon a telegram was received in Williams announcing the death of R. W. Drennan, a well-known Santa Fe conductor. A week ago Mr. Drennan was taken to a Los Angeles hospital in hopes that a lower altitude might restore his health, which had been failing for the past five years. The remains were brought to Williams for burial. A large number of friends attended the services. Wednesday afternoon, which were held at the residence, the Rev. Mr. Baum, of Flagstaff, officiating.

The pallbearers were all old-time friends, several of them being conductors from Winslow.

The floral offerings were the most beautiful ever seen in Williams. Among the larger pieces were those from the conductors; Ladies Ald; Maccabee, and Daughters of Rebekah. The family have the sympathy of their many friends in Williams and Winslow in which latter place they formerly resided.

FUNERAL OF WM. H. ROUGHLEY.

The funeral of William H. Roughley was held from his late residence, 203 Wharncliffe road, on Monday afternoon. Services were conducted by Rev. Leslie Armitage. Interment was made in Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The pallbearers were A. E. Bailey, E. E. Burt, E. Dewar, W. J. McLeod, B. Logan and William Ray.

DIED IN TORONTO.

On Wednesday, March 26, at her late residence, 952a Bloor street west, Toronto, Sadie A. Williams, wife of Richard C. Williams, passed away. She was in her 62nd year, and had been ill for over seven months.

Previous to moving to Toronto over two years ago, Mrs. Williams resided at 372 York street, this city, for twenty years. She was a member of the First Methodist Church, and her many friends will hear with regret of her death.

Interment was made in Prospect Cemetery, Toronto, Rev. R. Corrigan officiating.

DEATH OF MRS. KENNEDY.

Mrs. Kennedy, wife of Dr. G. H. Kennedy, died following an operation at St. Joseph's Hospital late on Saturday. Mrs. Kennedy had been ill since the early fall. She is survived by her husband and two little girls, Doris and Elaine. The funeral was held this afternoon from the family residence, 129 St. James' street, to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Rev. W. J. Knox conducted the services at the house and grave. The pallbearers were: R. G. Fisher, D. McMillan, G. Copeland, Charles Routledge and A. Cody. The funeral was of a private nature.

FUNERAL OF W. VAN DUSEN.

The funeral of William Van Dusen was held on Monday, from his residence on High street to Woodland cemetery. W. J. Ashton conducted the funeral services. The pallbearers were Tom Edwards, John Ashton, J. Colbert, John Juston, Edward Dunn and William Baker. Members from the I. O. F. and the London Street Railway Company were present.

NOTES OF INTEREST FROM CITY HALL

WHO WILL GIVE BEAR?

It is considered by the authorities of the parks board that Mr. Bear of Springbank has had a sufficiently long time in which to mourn the loss of his mate and if any philanthropic citizen would donate a goodlooking female bear to the zoo, it would be cheerfully accepted. Assistant Manager A. O. Hunt of the untilities commission says that the commission could buy another bear but that body does not want to take away the golden opportunity of any citizen who may feel disposed to make a donation for the benefit of the community at large.

CHIEF IMPROVING.

Chief John Aitken is able to be around after having been confined to his residence for three weeks by an attack of the flu. He says that he is gradually regaining his strength.

MISS REID SICK

Miss Velma Reid of Inspector J. W. McCallum's office is absent from the office today on account of illness.

MORE CONSUMERS.

Assistant Manager A. O. Hunt of the utilities commission reports that twelve new power consumers were added to the city lines during the month of March. In addition there were many new lighting consumers added during the same month.

CHAPTER TO FURNISH ROOM AT THE HOSTEL

Lord Roberts, I. O. D. E., to Decide at Meeting.

At a well-attended meeting of the Lord Roberts' Chapter, I. O. D. E., held Monday afternoon in Cronyn Hall, it was decided that the chapter should undertake the furnishing of a room in the new Salvation Army Hostel.

Another matter which came up was in reference to the Musical Art Concert, which will be held at the Grand Opera House the first week of June. The Lord Roberts' Chapter will cooperate in the giving of this concert, the proceeds to go to swell its funds.

At Monday's meeting the members expressed themselves as strongly backing the press women of the city in their undertaking to bring Flight-Lieut. Beverly Robinson back to London.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

John Smith, Charged With Theft, Is Remanded.

John Smith pleaded not guilty in the police court today on the charge of entering the house of Chester Stevens, 300 Hyman street, February 25 last, and stealing a $500 Victory Bond and jewelry, totaling $700.

Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop asked for a week's adjournment in order to prepare his case. Smith was brought to London from Toronto Sunday night.

HIS SECOND OFFENCE. — W. R. Meredith admitted on behalf of a client, in police court today, that the latter, although caught with a bottle of whiskey in his possession, was no bootlegger. Although it was his second offence under the O. T. A., the magistrate fined him but the usual $200 and costs.

PAYING FIRST DIVIDEND.

Winnipeg, April 1.—Western Grocers, Limited, is mailing its annual report to its shareholders today and is also paying the first dividend on the preferred stock. The net profits of the company for 1918 are reported at $303,464. This is $20,387 in excess of the profits reported for 1917.

The Western Grocers, Limited was formerly known as the A. MacDonald Company, Limited.

SOCIALIST IS RELEASED.

Berlin, March 31.—Ernest Daumig, an independent socialist and president of the executive committee of the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council of Greater Berlin, who was arrested on Sunday on suspicion that he had been a leader in the disturbances here in January, was released today after an examination. It is said that prosecution of Daumig will continue.

FOR FEEBLE OLD PEOPLE

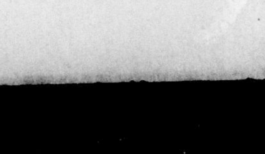

John Devitt Recommends Vinol to Create Strength and Vitality.

Marlton, N. J.—"I am 69 years of age and after a severe sickness, was in a weak, rundown condition. Vinol has built me up and made me strong, so now I feel real well again, and I can recommend it to others for such conditions."—John M. Devitt.

The reason Vinol was so successful in Mr. Devitt's case, is because it contains beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates, and glycerophosphates, the very elements needed to build up a weakened, rundown system, make rich, red blood and create strength. It is perfectly wonderful what it does for old people.

Big Drive Launched to Organize 100 Per Cent of Workers in London

City Declared To Be Worst in Dominion—Big Rally Held in Hyman Hall.

Labor men of London are resolved that they will obtain their rights, but by constitutional methods. This was shown by the large and enthusiastic crowd that filled Hyman Hall last night.

Fred Young, who occupied the chair, declared that it looked, by the turnout, as if the workingmen of London were going to help themselves. The man that labored, he said, possessed a certain dignity. If the words of the Lord's Day Alliance and other such organizations were carried out the workingmen would all be going to Springbank next summer in limousines. The labor men must not let themselves be rocked to sleep by such talk.

Edward O'Dell of the boot and shoe workers' union, who arrived in the city about an hour before the meeting commenced, and was not expecting to be on the program, declared that he came because he knew that every unit made labor so much stronger.

Boot and shoe workers, he said, had been organized here almost 100 per cent. There were two shops in the city where there were wage agreements and whenever the men wanted more wages or anything else, they sat down with the managers and the superintendents and talked it over. They had under consideration, he remarked, wage lists and agreements for shorter hours.

Must Be Rectified.

When men were not organized they were not getting a living wage. It took a trifle over $21 per week to keep a man and his family. This did not include amusements or medical aid. One man in the audience asked if he could live on $16.50 per week and pay $10 per month rent. "No!" emphatically declared the speaker. "It is such things as that that we are going to rectify."

Every organization would welcome into the fold men who had not yet been organized. "We are going to make London 100 per cent. organized," he concluded.

John Kennedy, of the United Sheet Metal Workers' National Alliance, declared that it was expected that some practical results would be obtained. To get results the men must get together. If he were President Wilson or King George and spoke all week on the benefits of organization, nothing would be gained if the men did not do their part.

He advocated better organization of the sheet metal workers. Stove mounters who worked with sheet metal were eligible for that union. Every nine out of ten stove mounters were sheet metal workers. He did not want to take anything from the International Order of Stove Mounters. If there was a sufficient number of iron mounters in London to have a bona fide union and willing to pay what was owing by the old organization then they could organize.

Labor's Best Chance.

"Now is the best time in the history of the labor movement to organize to secure what is your rights. I don't care if you denounce or criticize me. I know of no city in the Dominion of Canada from Halifax to Vancouver that needs organization more than the city of London does."

In this city, he said, he understood that 45 cents per hour was considered fairly good pay, and yet a pound of butter, that would not go around twice in a family of five, cost 63 cents. How long would it be before the men were resurrected? He called it criminal if the men did not try to get their rights instead of feeding their families on axle-grease when they should be feeding them butter. "We see such damnable conditions," he said, speaking of the experiences of the organizers during their work. The men were standing in their own light. "Are you going to wait until Judgment Day or now?" he asked.

It was not the amount of wages that was to be considered, it was the purchasing power of the dollar. In using united efforts, more was to be accomplished than by divided efforts.

Carpenters' Pay Low.

R. H. Hessell declared that there was no city in Canada in which the carpenters were getting such small pay as they were in London. In the Globe Casket Company and George White & Sons progress was being made. It was hoped that a wage schedule would be planned in the city.

When the station was being built in St. Catharines the men in this city were doing work for it for 30 cents per hour, while the men in St. Catharines were constructing the station at 60 cents per hour.

Organizer John Flett of Hamilton declared that there was a large number of workingmen in this city who had no trade or calling. He asked that after he had finished speaking these men come forward and give their names as members of this union. He then explained the union plans, and also the plans and aims of the American Federation of Labor. In the federation there were 3,150,000 paid-up members. There were almost 28,000 local unions in it.

Trade unionism had sent men overseas, and if the rights for which they fought and died "over there" were not obtained over here, labor was dishonoring them. It did not mean that the labor man was going to grab the employer by the throat. They employers could see that organized labor was here tostay. When he asked that every man who was in favor of a federal union here raise his hand, there was a unanimous showing of hands.

After the meeting temporary officers were elected for the union, and more than 150 men joined it. More than 100 joined the sheet metal workers, and a large number joined the carpenters.

"DANDERINE" FOR FALLING HAIR

Stop dandruff and double beauty of your hair for few cents.

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a small bottle of "Danderine" at any drug store for a few cents, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After several applications the hair stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff. Your hair appears soft, glossy and twice as thick and abundant. Try it!

The New Home Treatment For Ugly, Hairy Growths

(Boudoir Secrets.)

Here is a simple, yet very effective method for removing hair and fuzz from the face, neck and arms: Cover the objectionable hairs with a paste made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. Leave this on for 2 or 3 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs have vanished. No pain or inconvenience attends this treatment, but results will be certain if you are sure to get real delatone.—Advt.

SHIPPING HOUSES IN CITY HAVE ADOPTED NEW RAILROAD TIME

Forced To Do So To Catch the Trains.

Shipping houses throughout the city have adopted daylight saving as a result of the railways going on the new time. Formerly all shipping had to be at the freight sheds by 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Although the railroads have moved their clocks forward an hour, all freight must still be in the sheds by 4:30 new time, or 3:30 old time. Thus, in order to accomplish the same work during the day, the shipping houses were forced to adopt daylight saving. They will not be able to fill all their mail orders on the same day that they receive them, as they only have half an hour instead of one and a half hours, to make them up, since the post-office is still running on old time.

County offices and the offices at the courthouse will not adopt daylight saving unless the Government adopts it.

Most Diseases Commence "Above Collar," Says Doctor

Dr. S. M. Kennedy, in an interesting address at the Rotary Club luncheon at noon Monday, declared that medical authorities had come to recogizing that 80 per cent of the ills to which flesh is heir, commence "above the collar." De Mayo of Minnesota, had contended that a large majority of deaths occurred through simple infection, which in a very large proportion of instances, began in the mouth. Dr. Kennedy thought that the Government should make it its business to see that every citizen had tooth and mouth health.

Volunteers were asked for to act on teams to work in connection with the campaign to raise funds for destitute Jews in Palestine. As the response was not very prompt, Mr. Yelland was together, say the civilian committeemen.

"FAME AND FORTUNE" A TORNADO OF ACTION

Tom Mix, the sensational portrayer of western roles, added to his dramatic reputation yesterday, when he was seen in "Fame and Fortune" at the Star Theatre. "Fame and Fortune" is about the most exciting photo-play of its kind ever shown here.

The story of "Fame and Fortune" tells of a town that has driven out certain men because they are too good for it. These men gather in a new place and only await a leader to take vengeance on their persecutors. About this time, Tom Mix, as a young man returning home after an absence of years, comes to the town and finds that every effort has been made to cheat him out of his inheritance. He becomes the leader of the discontented element of the new town, and when a girl whom he loves is stolen by the leader of the old town, action begins to pile up.

WILL SELL FORDS

"Scotty Fergusson and George Kidd Open Ford Garage on Dundas Street.

That the sale of motor cars and the service demanded by car owners is becoming an important feature of London's commercial development, is marked by the character of the garages and showrooms being established in our city. Monday was the opening day of another fine automobile business on Dundas street east. W. W. Fergusson, better known in London as "Scotty" and George Kidd, formerly associated with the Overland agency in this city, have joined hands in this enterprise. This is Scotty's re-entry into civilian life after three years service with the 48th. Highland Regiment. The new firm which will be known as "Fergusson and Kidd" will handle the Ford car exclusively and has made very thorough provision for garage service. Their premises at 781-783 Dundas street east are not surpassed by any in the city. There is garage space of 75x100 feet in addition to commodious showrooms, offices and stockroom. They will carry complete stocks of repair parts for Ford cars and be prepared to give the best service promptly, not only on cars they sell, but to any owner of a Ford car.

LONDON VETERAN SPEAKS AT THORNDALE

THORNDALE, March 31.—About 100 members of the A. Y. P. A. of St. George's Church attended the meeting held in the basement of the church recently. Sergt. L. Salter, who has returned home from spending four years in German prison camps at Giessen, addressed the meeting. He gave a very vivid description of the conditions in Germany.

Rev. A. Cummer, the rector, was called forward and presented with a purse containing $100. The address was read to him by T. Holland and the presentation was made by Mr. Stinson. As Rev. Mr. Cummer has so ably assisted in the repairing and beautifying of the church, the parishioners took this opportunity of showing their appreciation of his efforts.

The Sunday school institute was held in the Methodist church recently. Rev. J. C. Reid, of Strathroy, gave an address in the evening. His subject was, "The Investment of Life."

Selections were rendered by the choir.

"The Unpardonable Sin" Is One of World's Greatest Screen Sensations.

"The Unpardonable Sin," which is to be presented at the Majestic Theatre for one week's engagement beginning Monday, April 14, is a moving picture attraction which London people who have followed the development of the screen as a medium for the presentation of really big dramatic ideas cannot afford to miss. There have been many unqualified expressions of opinion to the effect that "The Unpardonable Sin" is the greatest photoplay ever produced, and there is no denial of the statement that it ranks with such attractions as "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance" and "Hearts of the World," all of which are outstanding successes in the realm of moving pictures.

"The Unpardonable Sin" was completed on the Pacific coast a few weeks ago at a cost of $500,000. The consensus of opinion then was that "The Unpardonable Sin" was big in every sense of the word—big in the story told, big in its manner of telling, and big in the work of Blanche Sweet, the star, and the players who support her. This early opinion has been more than confirmed by the reviews of moving picture critics in New York, who have recently been afforded the opportunity of passing judgment upon it.

Story by Major Hughes.

The story is by Major Rupert Hughes, and it first appeared in serial form in the Red Book. The complete book was published not long after and at once established itself as a "best seller." While dealing with subject matter related to the recent world war, the picture is in no sense a "war picture," being entirely devoid of battle scenes, etc. The tale is merely one of love and adventure, written in the style which Rupert Hughes better than any other living American author, knows how to use. Blanche Sweet appears as a winsome American girl, possessed not only of girlish charm, but also of the nerve, temper, and aggressiveness which is characteristic of the modern American girl. Matt Moore is just a plain, everyday American lad of the type that may be met anywhere in the United States. The obstacles these two surmount in their efforts to penetrate a hostile country in search of two defenceless women upon whom has been perpetrated "the unpardonable sin" are pictured to provide a screen story that keeps audiences everywhere on the very edges of their seats.

OFFICIAL WELCOMES TO SOLDIERS CEASE

Official welcomes and receptions to the returned men will be discontinued, as the military authorities cannot spare any time for this purpose. This is the decision of the civil reception committee. The Red Cross ladies will continue to supply the men with refreshments, which will be served to each man individually after he receives his discharge. Official speeches cannot be given unless the men are gathered together.

DORCHESTER NURSE BACK FROM OVERSEAS

DORCHESTER, March 31.—Mrs. D. Fred Neely returned Saturday after having spent two years overseas. Dr. Neely, eldest son of Mrs. G. Neely, went overseas in January, 1917, and has spent two years in hospitals in England and France. Mrs. Neely is a graduate nurse, and has been nursing over there. Dr. Neely was unable to come, but will soon return.

ALMOST HALF LONDON'S GOAL FOR JEWISH RELIEF REACHED AS CAMPAIGN IS LAUNCHED

Col. Coles Announces Subscriptions Totalling $4,500 —Will Raise $10,000.

The Palestine relief campaign got off to a good start last night, when Lieut.-Col. W. G. Coles, chairman of the drive, announced that some $4,500 had already been subscribed by leading firms and citizens of London. The chairman's announcement was made at a banquet in the Tecumseh House tendered by a number of the leading Jews of the city to the team workers who start out this morning to collect the balance needed for London's quota of $10,000.

Lieut.-Col. Coles stated that it was a great pleasure to assist in the campaign. The Jewish citizens had given most generously in the Red Cross and other campaigns and it was up to the citizens to show their appreciation in a tangible way and help the destitute Jews in Palestine.

Mayor C. R. Somerville made himself popular with the large number of ladies present by declaring that good-looking women could always get money, and he was sure that the fair ladies before him would be more than successful in the two-day campaign for funds. The mayor also paid a high tribute to the Jewish race, which had been one of the greatest and was again going to take its place in the sun.

Tells of Conditions.

Mrs. Ada H. Seigel of Toronto graphically described the terrible condition the Jews of Palestine found themselves in after four years of war and Turkish and German bondage. The Turks had stripped the country of food and medical supplies and had driven the Jews like cattle from their homes. A number of them had found refuge under the British in Egypt, and were now about to return to their country. Their home-coming would not be a welcome like that of the returned Canadian soldier. They would return to the charred remains of houses. Their children were under-nourished, and the people lacked medical supplies of all descriptions.

Want Homes Back.

"That's what we are trying to provide them with," said Mrs. Seigel. "Don't you think the Jews have done their bit? Didn't the little Jewish legionaries fight as valiantly as any? They don't want arches and flags; they want their little homes back, and won't you help them?" said the speaker, who went on to state that Palestine was now a child of the British Empire, and as such was entitled to every consideration and help from Canada in the Dominion-wide campaign to raise funds for the starving thousands.

Mr. Waller of Huron College also spoke, and exhorted the team members to work hard for this most deserving cause.

Miss Harris sang "Fear Ye Not, O Israel," in fine voice, and was heartily encored. Miss Gertrude Rennie acted as accompanist.

ALL ACTS SHARE HONORS AT GRAND; BILL A GOOD ONE

Well-Balanced Turns Pass Off With a Swing.

The Grand theatre management again presented an excellent bill of fare to its first-of-the-week patrons last evening. The vaudeville turns, five in number, were all good, and vocal and instrumental music, dancing, acrobatics and just fun were mixed in just the right proportions to make a well-balanced whole. The feature picture, "A Midnight Romance," with Anita Stewart playing in the stellar role, deserved all the interest displayed in it and the praise bestowed on it by the audience. Miss Stewart herself played in this film to perhaps better advantage than in any of her recent successes, and she was admirably supported by Jack Holt, Juanita Hansen and others who together made up a very strong cast.

The headline vaudeville number was described as "interesting and amusing" on the program, and the name fitted it well. Hill, the Tivoli Girls and Hill, who presented it, proved to be a quartette of real fun-makers. Their versatility was remarkable, and the act embraced a screamingly funny dog impersonation, some clever dancing by the Tivoli Girls, and an exhibition of balancing and riding on one-wheeled cycles. A little fox terrier, whose name did not appear on the bill, contributed to the entertainment with some clever tricks. The performers and the audience were both kept busy during the whole of this act, the former following one "stunt" with another with lightning-like rapidity, and the latter laughing at the fun.

Chris Smith and Henry Troy, a couple of colored entertainers of more than ordinary ability, were given a generous show of appreciation, as indicated by the sustained applause which greeted their turn. Troy, a handsome man, has a tenor voice of wonderful sweetness, and it was heard to advantage in a number of songs. He was formerly of the original Williams and Walker show. Smith, in addition to being a wizard at the piano, is a composer of such favorite songs as "When Old Bill Bailey Plays the Ukulele," "The Monkey Rag," etc., which he played while he and Troy sang them in harmony. The team is a splendid one.

Another act which took the fancy of the audience greatly was that of the Three Dennis Sisters, three beautiful and graceful girls, who, in addition to their other charms, are possessed of very fine voices. Their turn was a refined and highly amusing one. They appeared first in bed together. They were "resting," and on rising in the morning commenced immediately to quarrel, but the arrival of a telegram announcing the signing of their vaudeville contract blew away the "blues," and they proceeded, on terms of perfect friendliness, to rehearse for their opening. They appeared first in bewitching silk pyjamas, and later in just as fascinating evening frocks.

"Oh, Hello," a rollicking act by Hugh Shelly and Emma Heit, was a distinct hit. Skelly is one of the funniest light comedians seen in London for a long time. He can do some wonderful things with his long legs, and his simulations of clumsiness kept the audience in laughter throughout the act. Miss Heit was distinctly good in comedy song numbers.

Jessie and Dollie Millar, who open the bill, provide a splendid entertainment, consisting of songs, dances and music. These young ladies have just completed a three-year world tour, and Miss Dollie Millar gave some splendid exhibitions of hula dancing and of the singing and dancing of the native Maori girls of New Zealand. Miss Jessie is a wonderful cornettist, and at the piano and with a piano-accordion she can also demonstrate her complete mastery of these instruments.

LONDONER SPEAKS AT INITIAL MEETING OF ST. MARYS BOARD

ST. MARYS, March 31.—The newly-organized St. Marys board of trade held its initial meeting for the purpose of forming rules and bylaws. Provisional President Fred Richardson held the chair.

Mr. Laughton, a St. Marys old boy, a member of the Chamber of Commerce of London, gave an interesting and instructive address on the advantages of the organization, and advised them to get out of the individual rut and work on a community industrial plan, and through that rapid progress would follow. The speaker said he had a sympathetic heart for the old Stone Town, as he was a St. Marys old boy, and while those present were not of his day, yet he had met many here of his younger days. A vote of thanks was tendered him.

BRANTFORD HYDRO HAS BEST YEAR

BRANTFORD, March 31.—The annual statement of the Brantford Hydro-Electric Commission was presented this morning. It shows total earnings of $114,362.19, with a gross surplus of $28,666.75, as compared with $25,938.40 in 1917, and a net surplus of $18,586.75 after allowing depreciation of $10,080. This is the best record yet set by the local hydro-electric.

On Way to London After Long Service

FLIGHT LIEUT. CHARLES SUMNER, son of C. R. Sumner, jeweler, who is expected to arrive here Wednesday noon, according to a telegram received by his father from Quebec last night. "Charlie" Sumner left here nearly four years ago with the mounted rifles, under Lieut.-Col. Ibbotson Leonard, and after long service in France returned to England, where he qualified as a flier. Lieut. Sumner crossed the Atlantic on the Regina.

QUERIES REGARDING MILITARY SERVICE

Address Your Problems to the Military Editor of The Advertiser and They Will Be Answered From Official Information.

N. M. C.: Q.—1. My husband enlisted in No. 1 Forestry Draft in 1917. After proceeding to England he was transferred, and was sent to France, serving there three months without receiving a wound. He is now in Belgium with the 19th Canadian Battalion. Will he be kept with the Forestry Company or will he be sent home?

2. If he is being sent home, when?

3. How much war service gratuity will he receive?

4. My brother was killed in action in 1916. My mother received a portion of his pay. Should she receive a pension?

5. If so, to whom should she write regarding same?

A.—1. Being on the strength of the 19th Battalion he will return with that unit when it proceeds to England for demobilization and return to this country.

2. The 19th Battalion is a unit of the Second Canadian Division, and there is no official information available as to when this organization will be demobilized. However it is likely that this division will be sent to England for demobilization within the near future.

3. You did not mention in your query the exact date of your husband's enlistment. However, for two years' service and less than three years, as a married man, he will receive 153 days' pay and allowances of rank, at a minimum rate of $100 per month. If his service up to date of discharge is less than two years he will receive 122 days' pay and allowances at the same rate.

4. If your mother is a widow, and she was in receipt of separation allowance on your brother's account at time of his death in action she is entitled to receive a pension on his account. If she was not her sole support and separation allowance was not payable to her, she is not entitled to receive a pension, according to regulations.

5. If entitled to same she should write to District Office, Pensions Board, 53 Bank of Toronto Chambers, London, Ont., giving dead soldier's full name, rank, regimental number, date of enlistment and death, etc., and the matter will receive full consideration.

I. O. U.: Q.—1, Is it necessary to have a passport to visit the United States?

2. Are the exemption papers all that are necessary?

3. What does an identification card consist of?

4. Is it necessary?

A.—1. No.

2. These are not essential, but as both the Canadian and United States authorities are searching for defaulters and deserters from military service, you would avoid trouble with these papers if accosted by the police.

3. Identification cards sometimes supplied by insurance companies, but the best identification card is the certificate of national registration, which took place in Canada last June.

4. No.

SUBSCRIBER: Q.—1. My husband enlisted January 1, 1916, with the Bruce Battalion. He proceeded overseas in October, 1916, and is now in the Quartermaster's Stores at Witley Camp, England. Do you know if he will have to stay there until all the battalions are returned to Canada?

2. What war service gratuity is he entitled to receive?

3. Does he have any special pay for his duties?

A.—1. No. He may be returned at any time with miscellaneous details from England, as this is a usual procedure. However, the fact that he is on duty in the quartermaster's stores may serve to retain him in England for a time to aid in handling the returning battalions from France with regard to the issuing of clothing.

2. For three years' service or over he is entitled to receive 183 days' pay and allowances of rank, at a minimum rate for a married man of $100 per month.

3. He will receive pay according to his rank. If only a private his rate of pay will not differ. If a corporal he receives $1.20 per day; sergeant $1.50 per day, with pay rising according to rank.

SOLDIER'S WIFE: Q.—1. Will a married man, drafted last May, and who proceeded overseas in July, but did not reach France, be held as long as single men drafted at the same time?

2. Is there any chance of him being sent home in time to do seeding this spring, he being a farmer prior to being drafted?

A.—1. No. The Canadian overseas military authorities have a schedule wherein each soldier for return to Canada is classified. Occupation, category and fact whether married or single are all taken into consideration, and for those who saw service in England only married men who were engaged as farmers prior to enlistment are given the preference.

2. Yes. He may be sent home in the near future or may be detained in England for some months yet, as there is no official information available at this office regarding the subject, the authorities at present being busily engaged in repatriating the men who served at the front.

G. R. W.: Q.—Is there any war service badge for service in Canada?

2. To whom should I apply for same?

A.—1. Yes.

2. To the A. A. S., Military District No. 1, Wolseley Barracks, London, Ont., including discharge from service, which will be returned with war service badge.

SOLDIER'S SISTER: Q.—Can you tell me when the boys at Witley Camp in England, who were drafted last May will be home?

2. My husband is a farmer having 100 acres, and he has had influenza and as my brother used to help him could he be sent home as a farmer?

A.—1. No. The overseas authorities are busy at present repatriating the soldiers of Canada who have served at the front, and it is not likely that any of the drafted men in England will be returned to this country until the former task has been accomplished.

2. It is understood that when the drafted men are to be sent home from England farmers and married men will be given precedence over others, but further than this there is no official information available at this office.

73852: Q.—My brother enlisted in Regina and went to France in September, 1915. He is a company sergeant-major in the 28th Battalion, 2nd Canadian Division, with the army of occupation in Belgium. Would it be possible for him to visit me before proceeding west for discharge when his division comes to Canada?

A.—This is a matter which would have to be arranged by him at point of disembarkation from troopship, where soldiers are rounted to the various military district throughout the Dominion. It is quite possible that such a visit could be arranged at eastern port of disembarkation by the soldier applying for such a visit immediately upon arrival in Canada.

SUBSCRIBER: Q.—I was ordered to report for service on June 1 last, and on June 10 was let out on provisional leave. On February 6, 1919, I received notice to report to London for discharge. I took the alternative, however, and had my papers filled in before a notary public. A few days ago I received a slip of paper saying I was struck off the strength of the Western Ontario Regiment. Am I entitled to any pay for the ten days that I was in the army?

2. If so, to whom should I apply for same?

A.—1. Yes.

2. To your former regimental paymaster, including in application, full name, regimental number, rank and dates of service.

JOHN STEEL

With a voice like John McCormack.

Here is a record by a new singer, LIEUT. JOHN STEEL. He first sang in a boy's choir when ten year's old and commenced to study under the best teachers in New York, and before the age of sixteen he had developed a wonderful tenor voice. Later studying in Paris with Jean de Reske, under whom he made wonderful progress. Returning to America; only last September, he immediately scored a triumph in light opera, creating a sensation wherever he appeared.

Mr. Walter Rogers, the eminent conductor; who has directed the recordings of all the world's greatest artists, in the Victor Laboratory said: "I think John Steel's voice is one of the most beautiful I ever heard."

Many critics who have heard John Steel have remarked how much his voice resembles that of John McCormack; so closely in fact, that he bids fair to become a formidable rival of that celebrated artist.

Four Vital Elements Upon Which Your Life Depends

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG
A. B., M. A., M. D., (Jo hns Hopkins University.)

DR. HIRSHBERG

At one time alchemists, the fathers of modern chemists, held that material things could be brought back to their utmost elemental forms, earth, air, fire and water. Up to a hundred years ago nearly everybody believed that nothing really analyzable could come from earth, air, and water. Just as today you often think that there are no more opportunities of one kind and another, no more chances to develop speed or machinery, so until recently it was considered that matter could not be broken up into any finer elements than earth, air, fire or water. Then came the scientific era of the last century, and air was discovered to be analyzable into many elements, namely, oxygen, nitrogen, argon, helium and others.

The earth was broken into such elements as carbon, cobalt, platinum, chloride, sodium, potassium and dozens of other elements. Water was found to be hydrogen and oxygen, and fire to be oxygen, carbon and similar elements broken from the object afire.

The four ancient, so-called elements are now known by almost every reader to be compounds, not elements. Perhaps those who speak of "the fair elements" do not fully understand the careless use of words, yet they ought to know that there are now nearly 100 elements on the earth, and the four compounds, earth, air, fire and water, are the results of combinations of them.

The Simple Aide.

Fire is a chemical compound or "drug," used in medicine to relieve the disabilities and infections of wounds, sores, bite and open injuries. It is a disinfectant, an antiseptic and a sterilizing agent for the surgeon, the bacteriologist and the specialist who uses the cautery or radiant heat in the treatment of wounds.

In the form of sunlight, the material particles of the air, the space beyond and the earth itself exert a powerful and beneficent influence upon the blood, brain, bone and flesh of living things.

The earthly compounds make the chemicals and minerals used in medicine, such as iodine, soda, potash, iron, phosphorus, nitre, coal tar products, salicylates, carbolic acid, castor oil, epsom salts and an army of similar productas.

Finally, water internally to fill the needs of your fabric, to act as a laxative in large quantities, to irrigate infected wounds, and to be used in baths has perhaps as significant a role in the modern treatment of disease as anything ever used in medicine.

Values of Water.

Water is not considered by most persons as a remedial agent. Perhaps this is because there is so much of it and it is free. Yet water as a vindicated treatment for fevers is doubtless superior to many anti-febrifuges, drugs, and coal tar medicines generally.

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

Wednesday, April 2.

This day's horoscope is indicative of important if not radical change, which should redound to the native's financial benefit. Both Uranus and Jupiter are strong, under Lunar transit, and Uranus is otherwise strongly and favorably placed—under a benefic ray from Venus. Under this doubly fortunate pressage, changes, removals and journeys may be undertaken in confidence, with the promise of advantage and money increase under the sextile of Jupiter to Luna. With the detrimental square of Moon to Neptune, however, it would be well to be on guard against treachery, deception and fraud. Heading this council, there should follow success and prosperity.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of success and financial increase, but should be on guard against deception and fraud. A child born on this day will be popular, generous, and inventive, but should be trained in integrity and straightforwardness.

MY SOLDIER HUSBAND

ADELE GARRISON'S CONTINUATION OF

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

What Mother Graham Demanded of Madge and What Happened Just Around the Corner.

Lillian kept her pledge to avoid all further discussion of Dicky's resolution to keep on flying as retaliation for my refusal to give up my position. And to our surprise and relief when we came back to the library Dicky had evidently made up his mind to the same course of action. No outsider listening to our conversation could possibly have guessed the scoring which Lillian had but a few moments before administered to her old friend.

But my momentary relief at Dicky's unruffled demeanor changed to worry when he continued the same non-committal policy not only during our journey home, but all through the days afterward. He was frequently at home for week-ends and hours off, but he was careful to let drop no further word about his plans. He might be already out of the service or pledged again to it for years for all I knew.

He was equally scrupulous in the care he took to avoid any reference to my work. As far as he was concerned the schoolroom didn't exist. If I were not at home when he came he always carefully ignored the fact and greeted me when I entered as if I had just returned from the garden. His attitude saved me petty annoyance, but caused me much anxiety, anxiety that grew more intense as the days and the weeks wore away with no hint of what Dicky really intended to do.

"Come in here, Margaret." This was my mother-in-law's peremptory summons one day when Dicky had gone back to camp.

Drat the Boy!"

I obeyed her, inwardly quaking, for I knew beforehand what would be the subject of her conversation.

"Look here," she said, when she had locked the door behind us, "what does Richard tell you of his prospects of leaving the service?"

"He doesn't tell me anything," I answered truthfully and m s rably.

"Don't you try to tell me that he hasn't said anything to you about it, either!" she retorted. "He evades all my questions in such a way that I know there's something going on that I don't know about, and I'm going to find out what it is. Now you tell me what's up. You've been going around here looking like the chief mourner at a funeral long enough."

I detected real kindliness for me beneath her brusqueness, and resolved to tell her everything I knew save the scene at Lillian's. She would not have understood that, and would have strongly resented what she would have deemed Mrs. Underwood's unwarranted interference.

She listened, tapping her foot and frowning, to my account of Dicky's ultimatum to me, then rose and began to pace the floor.

"I knew you ought to have taken some other position than teaching," she said irritably when I had finished. "Then you wouldn't have been bound by a contract." This in superb forgetfulness of the fact that she had never intimated anything of the kind before. "But, of course, you've got to go on with the thing now. A promise is a promise. Drat the boy, I don't know what ails him! Keep on flying forsooth! He might just as well sign my death warrant. I was glad to give him up when his country needed him, but he's doing this for spite. Just wait till I see him tonight! I'll put a flea in his ear."

I uttered a little exclamation of dismay. It was Saturday, and not only Dicky, but Lillian and Marion were coming to stay over the week-end. At first I couldn't analyze the impulse that made me thus protest my mother-in-law's determination. Then I realized how strong was my yearning to have my husband rescind the petty stand he had taken, because of his own principles, not on account of the potent pleading of an aged and infirm mother.

My mother-in-law looked at me sharply, angrily, as I said:

"I wouldn't say anything to him about it this time. Mrs. Underwood is coming also you know."

"When I have to consider Mrs. Underwood's convenience in speaking to my own son it will be time for me to get out of the world!" she said lelly. "By the way, let me remind you that the lady's train will be in shortly. If you expect to wheel the baby up to the station to meet her, as you had planned, you'd better hurry."

"What's the Use?"

I went out of the room, despondent, feeling that I had only made matters worse by my response to my mother-in-law's questions. And Dicky would no doubt be furiously angry—justly so, I admitted d early—at my revelation to his mother of his ultimatum to me.

My heart was heavy indeed as I tucked Richard Second, cooing and adorable, into his carriage, and started slowly down the gravelled walk to the gate. And my heart didn't grow any lighter during my walk through the streets to the railroad station. Over and over again my brain trod the treadmill of my problem while a diabolical little voice kept sounding in my ear:

"What's the use? Why not accept Mr. Stockbridge's offer to release you?"

With a sudden quiver of passionate resentment I bent over my laughing baby.

"I couldn't look you in the eyes, baby. If I did a dishonorable thing like that," I murmured, for the moment oblivious of anything save the touch of the tiny hands I had lifted to my lips.

A whir of sound on the concrete walk startled me. I looked up, instinctively thrusting the carriage to one side, myself in the path of the racing boys on roller skates, who, with heads down, were charging around the corner near which I was standing. I had no time to get myself out of the way, and my scream was too late to warn them.

The next instant I was thrown violently to the pavement. I felt a crashing pain in my head, and—knew nothing more.

DIARY OF A FASHION MODEL

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE.

She Describes a Practical Street Dress With Saving Adjustable Chemisettes.

I want a street dress with half a dozen adjustable chemisettes, so I may change that part of the gown frequently and still have a dependable, good-looking frock that will do for traveling, motoring or for general wear. There, Madame! I have said it all in one breath so you may know the worst immediately."

"I'll do my best with your worst," reto ted Madame.

"It must be blue, brown or walnut, musn't it? The lighter shades might show soil too easily," said Mrs. Hoyt in a very practical way.

"I have a good-looking piece of poiret twill that looks like whipcord. We have a model 'in work' that's made of fawn color trimmed with brown silk braid that's very smart," said Madame.

"I had thought of blue serge, or gabardine, because I consider dark blue is the most stylish and durable shade of all," suggested Mrs. Hoyt.

"So it is, but women frequently want to vary their clothes, and as a relief from dark blue nothing is better than this soft shade of tan. I can show you the material and draw you a sketch of the model," said Madame.

The material was brought out. Mrs. Hoyt examined it.

"Yes, I like it a lot," she said. "But I still lean to navy blue."

"Well, I'll explain this frock in a drawing, and you can then decide which color you wish."

The gown was quickly sketched.

"You see, it is made in two pieces," Madame indicated. "The peplum blouse resembles a jacket. The narrow, gathered skirt fastens down the front with brown silk braid loops that continue the line of the jacket closing."

"It looks just like a smart suit, Madame," Mrs. Hoyt remarked.

"Yes, it does, but it's really a coat dress, as this type of frock is called. You see, it is made with the notched collar similar to a man's coat."

"Yes, I always liked that neck finish," Mrs. Hoyt said. "It is more 'slenderizing' to the face than the broadly flaring collars."

"This notched collar goes best with the standing linen collar which is used with such smart effect on the chemisette," said Madame.

"Yes, I think that collar is extremely stylish, even if it does make me think of the end man in a minstrel show. What is the material—dotted linen?"

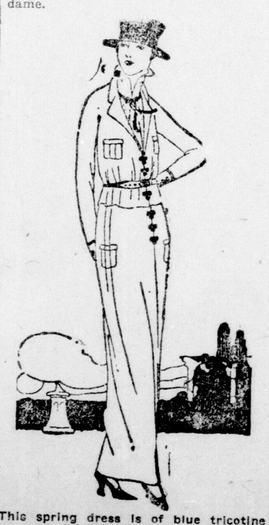

"Linen—for linen takes the starch for a stand-up collar better than any other fabric. That's why I have used it, but you may have plain white linen if you prefer."

"Well, that depends on whether I have you develop this model in tan or blue. I particularly like the pockets," Mrs. Hoyt remarked.

"They go with the ta'ored idea of the costume. The box plait and flap are copied from the English officers' pockets."

"This tan and brown combination is very effective, but I'm wedded to blue," insisted Mrs. Hoyt.

"Well, blue tricotine your frock shall be with trimmings of black silk braid. You may have several chemisettes—some white ones, a putty tan one and another of buttercup yellow," smilingly suggested Madame.

A GOOD RECEPTION FOR MR. RED FOX.

All of a sudden a padded foot-fall was heard along the Favorite Path in the Great Forest, and all the little hearts of the Wood people hiding along the banks of Murmuring Brook beat very fast; and all held their breath as Mr. Fox was heard creeping along, stepping as lightly as if he was walking on Robin's eggs.

He was very handsome, indeed, as his beautiful red coat shimmered in the radiance of the moonlight. He held his head very high, and as he reached the little foot-bridge he looked at his image reflected in the mirror of Murmuring Brook, and he was admiring his wonderful beauty and grace.

Then, with dainty feet, he stepped on the little bridge, and he walked very cautiously; he held his elegant and big fluffy tail, as if he was sure of his safety.

But listen! What is that sudden crash! What is that bunch of red fur dashing through the air? Why, that bridge has broken! And behold, Mr. Fox is plunging into that deep pool, head-first, and a second later he plunges into the water.

Mr. Fox was frightened to death. You know he is such a fine dandy that he hates, above all things, to get his fine suit wet. He never swims unless he is compelled to. And he hates to dive.

And poor Mr. Fox at last came up, gasping for breath, and his eyes, nose, ears and mouth were filled with water. Then the little people all began to jump and shout with laughter. And Dick Otter called out: "Now, little people, give Mr. Fox all that is coming to him."

You see, all were afraid of Mr. Fox on dry land, but they now had him in water—which he hated and which they loved. And I want to tell you that Dick and Billy Otter and Benny Mink and his family, and Sammy Muskrat and his family, and all the Beavers, dived into Murmuring Brook, and they gave Mr. Fox a very cool Reception, indeed, in that deep and cool pool. Mr. Fox was barking in terror.

And the little people had their chance now to settle many old scores against Mr. Fox. Every time he showed his red head, they ducked him, and they pulled him all over Murmuring Brook by his long tail!

He was a sorry-looking Fox when he got away. His long tail was so wet and heavy, that it dragged on the ground like an old feather duster that had been dragged in a mud puddle; and as Mr. Fox disappeared down the Favorite Path for his home, some big loons on Mirror Pond kept shouting, "Ha, Ha, Ha," and the Great Forest echoed with their wild and loud laughter.

But the Little People laughed as loudly as the loons, and they danced around in glee over what had happened. "He didn't get any of our babies—as he thought he would!" they rejoiced. "And every time he comes, after this, we will give him some kind of a cool Reception like this one! We're smarter than he is."

Kaiser Makes Poor Case in Defence of Crimes

In an official interview, the first since his hasty departure from Germany, Wilhelm Hohenzollern shows himself impenitent and impertinent. He declares he had no desire for war, that he did his utmost to prevent it and that the blame rests with Russia. He calls the Lusitania's sinking a blunder, "deplores" the slaying of Edith Cavell, and denies that Germany resorted to organized atrocity. From a reading of the statement one concludes that the ex-kaiser is either a monumental liar, an imperial "boob" or the victim of brain-storm. Perhaps all three have had a part in the preparation of this document.

If Germany's chief rogue hoped by this defence to win the pity and clemency of the world he has failed completely. The evidence that his was the central figure of the conspiracy to start a war is too overwhelming as to quantity and authenticity to be questioned. Neither does his plea of innocence square with his role of supreme dictator of German affairs. With the German inner council composed of half a dozen figures rested decisions as to war. Can anyone imagine the self-willed, vain, despotic emperor permitting himself to be overruled? How unsubstantial is his contention is shown in the British Government's official report of last-hour appeals to Berlin to prevent war, Great Britain and France guaranteeing Russia's acquiescence. The "scrap of paper" incident in itself pointed directly to a deliberate planning of the explosion. The ex-kaiser "hotly resents" the charges of systematic frightfulness. His answer is to be found in the machine-like thoroughness with which Northern France was devastated and Belgium terrorized and enslaved.

The world need not be informed at this late day by one of its authors that the Lusitania brutality was a blunder. However, it is a further assurance of his general guilt to be told that that atrocious deed is regretted because it was a "flivver," not because it was a murder. The crowning impudence of the statement is the assertion that he is responsible to God alone for anything he has done, and therefore cannot be brought to trial. There speaks the old mischief-making kaiser, unrepentant, dangerously arrogant. That is good enough reason why he should be brought before the international tribunal which a committee of the peace conference has recommended. His punishment would be serving of notice that hereafter "all highests," royal or otherwise, must be answerable to humanity for crimes against humanity, and cannot escape retribution.

Profit-Sharing Scheme Might Buy Street Railway

London's street railway problem is not improved by a policy of sticking our heads in the sand. The difficulties in securing a service adequate for the city's advancing needs will ultimately develop into a demand for the civic ownership of the road.

It is not likely that the city is in a financial position to take over the railway at the present time, but there is a possibility that citizens would vote for a program that would provide for the acquiring of the line by degrees, and at the same time to improve the service, and to prevent its being gradually reduced to a condition of junk.

London's street cars and the service given may not be ideal, but are so far in advance of the cars and service of other Canadian cities that there is no comparison. The improvement of the last few years in the appearance and condition of the cars is something that an unprejudiced citizen will be free to admit. A recent trip to a city of a size greater than London was an eye-opener to the writer regarding street car service.

The city probably could sit back and permit the street railway to run into bankruptcy, reaching a condition where foreclosure by the bondholders would be inevitable. But the city would suffer in the interim during which the line was being killed off by degrees or slowly starved to death.

The Advertiser believes that the Street Railway Company sees its finish under present conditions, and that it is willing to get down to brass tacks and give to the city of London a gradually increasing interest in the road and a share in profits providing that an increase in fares is permitted. Citizens could acquire the line in a few years by adding a cent or more to the cost of their rides, and turning back the profits into a reasonable purchase price.

The Advertiser does not advance this suggestion as its policy on the street railway question. But to have an independent appraisal made of the system, and to go about acquiring the road in such a manner as to make the operation as painless as possible to the taxpayer, and to give the company its just due, no more and no less, seems to advance something of a common sense solution, in which the people rather than the exploiters of the people for any purpose would gain the benefit.

The Military Service Act

In its perverted zeal for Tory-Unionism, the Globe always seeks some other excuse for things as they are rather than let adverse criticism fall upon the fountain heads of its new-made friends. For their sake it has abandoned Liberal principles and forgotten the teachings of George Brown. It now seeks to throw the blame for the admitted failure of the military service act upon the members of the tribunals throughout Ontario. It says:

> "If tribunal members had had a pre-vision of the military crisis which in the spring of 1918 compelled the Government to cancel a large number of exemptions, they might have been more exacting and discriminating in many cases."

With few exceptions the tribunal members did their work conscientiously and well, and the Globe knows it. The Globe knows that their work was hampered at every turn. The Globe knows that as each Union candidate lost a friend, the Government would rush forward assistance and oblige that friend by promising exemption. The Globe knows that General Mewburn, from the public platform, promised to exempt the farmers, and when Hon. Mr. Graham pointed out that he had no power to do this, that the general stated that he would grant them leave of absence. Not one word of condemnation came from the Globe. The Globe knows now, and knew at the time, that the Government through the military authorities sent Captain (?) Hezzlewood to London, whose duty it was to notify doubtful voters that their cases had been investigated, and that the tribunals would give them exemption.

The Globe knows that this Government representative did his nefarious work so well that hundreds and hundreds of votes were purchased in this way. Not one word of condemnation came from the Globe. In many cases tribunal members were laymen, and the Globe now censures them, when all the while they were naturally impressed by the authoritative telegrams and letters of this Capt. Hezzlewood. The Globe knows that the "modus operandi" was as follows: The Government appointed farmers' representatives. These representatives were not often farmers; some were horse dealers. Many refused to do the dirty work, but others sought out the angry voters, then furnished their names to this Capt. Hezzlewood, and he did the rest. The Globe knew, or if in this particular it did not know, it should have known, that representations went to the minister of justice; that the deputy minister replied that the military authorities were responsible, and this notwithstanding the civil side of the machinery was supreme; that the military authorities knew what was going on, and yet the Globe, aware of all that went on, aware that its Union friends were playing battledore and shuttlecock with the act, aware that it was made an instrument to favor its friends and send its opponents overseas, aware that the workings of the act were nothing but a fraud and a pretense, now when the failure of the act is exposed, the Globe shields its Rowell-White friends and puts the blame on the exemption tribunals.

Take Church to Springbank

Many local ministers and laymen who are active in Sabbath day church activities oppose Sunday cars to Springbank because they believe attendance at church service a necessity to the moral and spiritual welfare of the individual, and so indirectly, of the entire community. They maintain that Sunday service to the city's park will mean an all-day absence of hundreds who otherwise would go to church or Sunday school at least once during the day.

There is no question as to the sincerity of this view. The average clergyman is not impelled by selfish motives in this matter. He honestly considers that the citizen who spends the entire Sabbath out of doors to the neglect of religious duties is injuring himself. But as men and women will persist in taking to the open during the summer Sundays why not carry the church service to them, at least so far as Springbank is concerned?

Here appears to be an excellent opportunity for an uplifting, evangelical work that aggressive Christianity should not reject without some consideration. A religious service, open and free, breezy as the park itself, would be welcomed by many who wish to have the privilege of going down the river Sundays. Surely it could be made attractive by taking into consideration the time and the place. Appealing music and brief, inspiring addresses would draw large congregations to hearty and helpful worship. The lesson in the tale of Mahomet and the mountain might be applied in this matter.

The repeated escapes by Sinn Fein prisoners is becoming a joke. The ease with which they get away arouses suspicion. Can it be that John Bull is quietly turning Irish "tragedy" into comedy? Nothing will so quickly kill the Sinn Fein movement as making it appear ridiculous.

Some German Government leaders threaten to follow Hungary's lead and turn Germany over to the proletariat if the Allied terms are too harsh. Thus, they argue, the Allies would get nothing. THE COURSE OF TRUE LOVE
By Lillian Hall Crowley.

Madeline Drisko was really the happiest girl on earth, and why shouldn't she be? She had everything to be desired, including youth, beauty and love.

The latter had come into her life only recently, and the gods had nothing more to bestow on her.

Madeline's home was in New York, but she, with her brother and widowed mother, had gone to Honolulu on a business and pleasure trip combined.

She loved the beautiful islands of Hawaii; the marvellous climate; the sea, the sky and the mountains. There was the most gorgeous scenery. She loved the picturesque natives and the plaintive music they played on the ukuleles. It was all very wonderful to Madeline and she was charmed with the place.

Then Madeline met Hereford Langdon.

Hereford's parents were from New England, but he had been born in Honolulu. His father had large business interests there, and Hereford was his right-hand man.

Certainly fate had been very good to Madeline in bringing this great love into her life in this most romantic and beautiful country. Her mother and brother, though loath to have her settled so far from New York, were delighted with the young man. He had every quality to make their loved one happy.

Followed delightful days of love and sunshine—then came the quarrel.

All over a trivial matter, too—as are most lover's quarrels. Hereford, astonished and heartbroken, tried to explain. Madeline, proud and angry, refused to listen. Hereford stumbled home in the moonlight with his brief dream of love destroyed.

Madeline nursed her pride and would not send for him. Then Mr. Langdon sent his son on a trip to another island to be gone a week.

Hereford held to the hope that Madeline would be in a lenient mood by the time of his return.

She, not hearing from him, became angrier than ever and would not listen to the promptings of her naturally generous heart.

Several days after Hereford's departure, which was unknown to Madeline, Tom Drisko received a telegram calling him to San Francisco on urgent business. They left at once.

There was no time for Madeline to see Hereford, even if she had been so inclined, and she thought she wasn't. On the way over to San Francisco she had more time to think over the foolish quarrel. She wished she had let Hereford explain. The remembrance of his grieved look and his sad eyes hurt her conscience and kept her from sleeping.

"I will find a cable from him when we land," she said to herself. This thought was a great source of consolation, and she began to be almost happy.

When they arrived at San Francisco and found no word from Hereford, she was angry with herself for having capitulated even if Hereford didn't know it.

Hereford had lived on the hope that his sweetheart would relent and let him explain when he returned, which he knew he could do if she would only listen.

The blow fell. The Driskos had left days before, and there was no word for him. Many times afterward, when he would have been glad to again beg Madeline to listen to him he did not know how to reach her as the family had planned to travel in Mexico.

Then came the entrance of the United States into the war.

Hereford, strongly patriotic always, had an additional reason for enlisting—his country first, and thereby a means of forgetting his lost love in work, the more dangerous the better.

Madeline had been on a feverish round of sightseeing and pleasure in a vain endeavor to forget. To lose remembrance was impossible, and she begged her mother to return home. On the way east Mrs. Drisko asked her children to stop off at Gettysburg with her.

"My dears," she said the day after they arrived at the hotel, "this is the anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg, when your grandfather was wounded. We will take a taxi and go to the very spot on Little Round Top."

Mrs. Drisko was overcome with emotion when she viewed the beautiful landscape, the peaceful wheatfield, the peach orchard and many other spots made famous at this great battle. With tears streaming down her cheeks she looked at her strong young son standing so straight beside her and knew that he, too, was willing to shed his blood for his country.

Not that she would have him do otherwise—for her heart beat high with pride on that day when he told her that he had enlisted—but for the sorrows of the world and for the tears and blood that must be shed before the most infamous tyrant since the world began could be laid low in the dust, never to rise again.

Came the sound of marching feet! They looked around. Mrs. Drisko with tear-dimmed eyes saw only a company of soldiers out on a hike, but Madeline saw more than that. Her heart stood still as she thought she caught sight of a familiar figure in charge of the men. She had never seen Hereford in uniform—still the lieutenant looked very much like him. The soldiers were soon out of sight, and Madeline with a sigh, decided her heart had deceived her, and that her lover was still in Hawaii and she was long ago forgotten.

"Those men belong to the tank corps," said Tom Drisko. "I have been reading about them. They are mostly picked men. There are several Olympic champions among them, and one of the greatest electricians in the world has given up an income of $100,000 a year to become a private in the tank corps. They are a splendid lot of men. I am going to try for it myself."

The Driskos were to leave early the next day. That same evening Madeline started from the hotel to get a magazine from the little newsstand across the circle. It was Saturday night, and the streets were crowded with men in uniform. In the tearooms and drug stores one could see them in scores eating ice cream and drinking soda water.

"Isn't it a funny thing that a soldier is always hungry?" remarked a young officer to another as they were strolling around the circle.

Recognition was instantaneous and all the pride and resentment were forgotten as though they had never existed.

"Hereford!" gasped Madeline, meekly. "Oh, Hereford!"

"Come with me, dear," he said, and forgetting his companion he took Madeline's arm and guided her down a quiet street. They sat on the steps of a church and poured out their young hearts in love and contrition, for they had nothing to quarrel about in the first place.

Saying good-night in the hotel parlor, Hereford asked:

"My dearest, you know we expect to leave very soon for the other side. Is there anything you would like me to send you?"

"Nothing—except always your love," said Madeline happily.

You that are gone—we know not where,
Save that your eyes were shut in sleep,
And that your hands were waxen fair,
Hands whose warm touch we fain would keep—
You that are gone, this is to say,
The hearts you left behind you yearn
And wait all patient, day by day,
For your return.

Who knows what pathway lured your feet?
It may be that 'tis yours to fare
Out where the dawn and twilight meet,
Into a vast unknown somewhere—
But this is sure, the home hearts wait,
While through the mist of worlds you roam,
And sigh and say that, soon or late
You will come home.

We know not in the curtailed night,
Whose every shadow blurs and bears

With faiths that ever drawing near
You come again.

Or catch your footfall on the floor,
Or trace the roses in your cheek,
But still we blindly send this call,

[Philadelphia Ledger.]

The glorious clipper ship days, when the windjammer was queen of the seas, were recalled when the big four-masted ship Valparaiso, under the French flag, hauled out of her berth at the foot of Dock street, and started on her voyage down the Delaware River for Nantes, France, with one of the largest and most valuable cargoes, valued at more than $1,000,000, ever shipped across the Atlantic in a sailing vessel from this port. A rousing send-off was given this square-rigged craft by the old-time salts, who gathered at the pier to see the vessel sail. Passing steamships, tugs and ferryboats gave a parting salute with their whistles and the dipping of their colors. The crew of the Valparaiso lined the decks and acknowledged the salutes with cheers. With its sister ship, the Atlantique, which is now here loading a similar cargo for France, the Valparaiso is noted for its fast sailing qualities. Years ago hundreds of these windjammers came to and sailed out of this port. Today only a few of these old-time craft remain afloat. Another of these old-time craft, the Severn, a three-masted sailing vessel of the old navy, has been chartered to load a general cargo at this port for France.

TUNNELING AGAINST WAR.
[New York Tribune.]

The British Government is considering the immediate construction of a tunnel under the English Channel. Such a line of communication would greatly minimize the war danger. Had it been in existence in 1914 the kaiser would probably have thought again. He believed, even though Great Britain should come into the conflict, that she would not be able to maintain a large army in France. There is more real peace in a channel tunnel which will make it easier for Great Britain and France to co-operate when danger threatens than in a bushel of schemes for peace which rest solely on words. An under-channel transit line will partly answer the French demand that her friends shall not only be willing to help her if menaced, but able to do so. This will tend to strengthen the anti-conscription proposal.

IN the early days the founder of this business made a few gross of matches a day, and sold them himself, driving his horse and wagon as far as Toronto. Today, from automatic machines, 70,000,000 matches a day are turned out to keep Canada's home fires burning. And not matches alone: indurated fibreware, household helps, and a host of paper products have been added to this line.

The House of Eddy

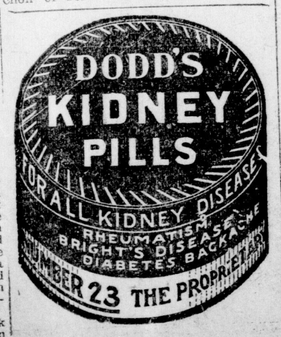

has become an institution which touches the daily life of the Canadian public in a thousand different ways.

There is a reason back of this steady and consistent progress. Business institutions do not grow to such proportions by accident. It takes real merit to accomplish such a result; merit in the goods themselves, and in the concern which is back of them.

When you buy matches, see that Eddy's name is on the box. When you are in need of some of the familiar household helps, such as a washtub, a pail, or a washboard, remember that there is an Eddy product which will fill your needs, made from light and durable Indurated Fibreware. COMING EVENING GOWNS

(By Madame Francis, Famous Creator of Fashions, New York City).

A spendthrift palette of color with all the brilliancy of the modern "key" characterizes the new evening gowns. The wonderful effects to which Leon Bakst introduced some time ago in his gorgeous stage settings and costumes are being called upon to produce evening dresses in keeping with the spirit of joyousness which has swung so far from the sombre period which the war demanded.

Rose in all its wonderful tones is contrasted with vivid turquoise blue or apple green. A gown in the same assemblage will be a shade of red as gorgeous as the heart of a pomegranate. Another gown will look as though it borrowed its vivid green from the wings of a tropical bird found on some isle of enchantment.

Orchid in all of its exquisite shades is very popular. This color is combined with silver or with amethyst in jewelled trimmings that are quite oriental in their splendor. Purple is made up with facings of cerise to give an added note of the barbaric to its loveliness. Peacock and turquoise blue lend themselves beautifully to these highly-keyed color effects. Blue is combined with orange, sulphur yellow or green.

Ostrich Trimming.

Ostrich feathers are also used in bunches of three like the Prince of Wales' crest, to hold the side drapery so much used on skirts. These skirts are draped in pannier on the left side, where the three feathers hold the drapery.

However, the brilliantly colored gowns ar every lovely, and many women are availing themselves of the opportunity given by the craze for vivid shades to indulge in a love of color, long suppressed, but which now may have full reign without fear of criticism on the grounds of good taste.

Chiffon and Georgette.

Chiffon and georgette crepe are in great demand for these brilliant gowns, because the flat tones of these fabrics best express the various colors and accent their contrasts. Chiffon and georgette crepe is frequently draped layer upon layer in different colors, or they may be effectively shaded from dark to light in the clever dyeing of the fabric. Charmeuse is the next favored material. Net embroidered in sequins and beads is also very popular for these evening models.

A wonderful gown is made of yellow and orange chiffon. The underskirt is of lemon yellow. The camisole bodice is heavily embroidered in gold in two tones, tarnished and bright. The underskirt is embroidered in parallel rows of orange beads, two-inch rows running parallel close together, so as to form horizontal stripes across the front of the skirt.

Draped Sleeves.

Over the shoulders are draped falling sleeves of orange-colored chiffon. An overskirt of orange chiffon partially envelops the yellow skirt. The overskirt is, however, short in front, so as to display the beaded embroidery. Around the waistline runs a gold ribbon, and a strand of vivid turquoise beads, that extends into a long pendant, ending in a turquoise bead tassel. This turquoise girdle is set in tarnished gold links that give it the appearance of an antique Eastern jewel. With this gown is carried a scarf of vivid blue, which may be thrown over the arm or allowed to fall carelessly away from the shoulders.

Green Sequins.

Another gown that strikes the high note of green, being the most vivid shade of emerald that you could possibly imagine, is made with chaplets of emeralds and green sequins for shoulder straps. This green gown seems in keeping with the spirit of spring, for which it is designed. The underdress is made of emerald green net embroidered in silver and green sequins. Over this are laid broad bands of green sequins that cross under each arm, where they run through square buckles of emerald beads. This line gives a long-waisted, willowy figure so beloved of the French women.

This gown is extremely flattering to the figure, moulding it with the frankness of the old-fashioned princess. The chaplets of green sequins and emeralds, which furnish the shoulder straps, are the only sleeve finish. This gown is very daring, but is strikingly lovely on the woman with a perfect figure.

Red Charmeuse.

A gown that is very striking and, at the same time, quite simple, is made of red charmeuse. This model is rather Greek in its outlines. The bodice is bloused and is made with large armholes and no sleeves. Where the back of the waist meets the front, little tufts of ostrich hold the drapery on the shoulders. A pom pom of red ostrich trims the girdle at the side front. A deep band of red ostrich outlines the tunic. The underskirt is a sheath of red charmeuse.

No galaxy of spring gowns is complete without an orchid one. This shade is more popular now than it ever was. It embodies such a variety of tones, depending on how the material catches the light. Sometimes it looks silver, sometimes pink, and then again violet, with that tinge of pink which is like dawn when the sun comes up over the rim of the earth.

Orchid Charmeuse.

An effective model is developed in orchid charmeuse. Charmeuse is the loveliest fabric in this color. The inspiration of this model was taken from the dress of a mediaeval chatelaine, though no modernism has influenced its waistline. The square decolletage is outlined with amethyst beads. The same amethyst beads define a bias line that runs from the natural curve of the waist on the right side to just below the curve of the hip on the left. This oblique line is very attractive. The drapery is held at the side and the amethyst chain falls in a pendant that ends in a string of amethyst beads. This charmeuse gown falls over an underskirt of its own material which continues the line of color and gives more height to the wearer than if a contrast were used.

THE FASHION FORECAST.

Daily Bible Question Club

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON THE UNIFORM LESSON FOR SUNDAY, APRIL 6, 1919.

ONE GOLDEN TEXT SUGGESTION. By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.

God, Our Heavenly Father.—Genesis 1:1-27; Psalm 103:1-14; Matthew 6:2-24.

QUESTIONS FOR TODAY.

5. Jonah 3:3-4. How long would it probably take Jonah to traverse the chief streets of Nineveh?

6. Verses 5-9. What steps did the king and the people of Nineveh take to prevent their doom?

7. What effect does repentence, fasting and prayer have in these days in preventing the legitimate consequence of sin?

REPENTANCE MEANS TO HATE SIN.

Persons who truly repent of their sins have been convinced of the exceeding danger of living a sinful life. They have tasted not only the initial pleasures of sin, the after bitter and disastrous results; they have learned from experience to hate sin, and hence turn away from it, seek forgiveness, and have a true and ardent desire to become Christians. The conviction of the sinfulness of sin and the realization of guilt puts some men in great agony of soul. I do not say that such agony is always essential, but the utter abandonment of sin, or at least the will to do so, and the full plans and purpose of living a Christian life are essential, in order to true repentence.

THE BLUFFER.

He had no use for women folks,
He'd proudly have you know,
And air his views along the line
If they should vote or no.
But every little joy of home
He'd guard with jealous care,
And got his comforts each and all—
In fact, more than his share.

He'd talk about their uselessness,
The leisure that they had,
That all they ever thought about
Was fussing up to grad.
But just the same, three times a day,
In spite of all his blow,
He ate three healthy, hearty meals,
A woman cooked, you know.

He'd laugh about their running ways,
The gossip that they'd hear,
But if he thought he'd get some news,
He quickly cocked his ear.
Was so afraid of missing things,
Would make himself absurd,
To find excuse to listen
To any secret word.

He sneered at women pampering,
Each trifling ache or pain,
That if they'd think less of themselves,
Their health would quickly gain;
But when he got a little cold,
He turned into a bear,
And every woman in the house
Made him her special care.

A meeting of the Camlachie branch of the Red Cross Society was held in the library for the purpose of winding up the business done by them during the war, and to disband. The president, J. W. Symington, presided, and the secretary-treasurer, T. W. McCordic, gave a detailed account of the work done and a complete financial statement. It was decided to send the balance of $217 cash to headquarters at London and to dispose of the material on hand, about $100 worth, and also send the proceeds to London.

Votes of thanks were tendered the president and secretary-treasurer for their worthy service and also the loyal women who worked so faithfully and untiringly.

A summary of the work done during the war is as follows: 1,046 pairs socks, 847 suits pyjamas, 149 flannel shirts, 29 mattress covers, 7 sweaters, 16 pillows, 88 pillow slips, 5 pairs wristlets, 38 dozen bandages, 4 soldier caps, 26 sheets, 3 dozen handkerchiefs, 2 dozen wash cloths, and several pieces of old linen. Out of the scraps a number of quilts were made and sold, the proceeds going to the Red Cross.

The receipts were as follows: 1914-15, $375.47; 1915-16, $788.68; 1916-17, $773.41; 1917-18, $723.70; 1918-19, $511.12, making a total of $3,772.38. The report was audited and found to be correct by Mrs. J. B. Douglas, W. McRoberts and W. E. Symington.

Rodney W. I. Favors Prohibition.

The Rodney Women's Institute held a most enthusiastic meeting at the home of Mrs. B. Eggert. President Mrs. Bisnett occupied the chair. Committees were appointed to decide on exhibits for the agricultural fair, to petition for lighting the M. C. R. Park and arrange for several public flower beds. The cemetery committee was urgently asked to again assume control there, as the grounds and flower beds last year were unusually well kept.

Some very beautiful rugs were sold, having been made from the clippings of flannelette and afterwards colored. A temperance petition passed unanimously, favoring the provisions of the prohibition order-in-council now in force and resiring their retention in the laws of Canada.

Mrs. A. D. McGugan read a paper on "The Influence of the Home," which was much appreciated by all.

CAYUGA SCHOOLS INSPECTED.

Dr. Sirrs of Toronto conducted medical inspection of the Cayuga schools last week and gave a most favorable report. She was assisted in her work by Mesdames Quinsey, Baxter, Green, Fissette and Peart, of the Women's Institute, and Mrs. Mitchiner, wife of the county public schools inspector, who was in town in his official capacity, for his semi-annual inspection of the public schools.

CAYUGA TALENT TEAS.

Thirty-five dollars was the goodly sum resulting from the Lenten weekly sale of home-made cooking in aid of the W. A. of St. John's Church.

A talent tea in connection with Knox Church was held at the home of Mrs. M. Heaslip. The goodly sum of $10.10 was realized.

DORCHESTER R. C.

The next meeting of the Women's Institute will be held on Wednesday, April 2, at the home of Mrs. Carroll.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

Study a Little History.

Dear Cynthia Grey: So glad you will not publish recipes, even for awhile. The richness of those recipes always made me think of the starving children overseas and of hot farm kitchens where women do so much useless baking and of a cold supper composed largely of that baking. A few warm potatoes, an egg or two or a slice of meat, some fruit and bread and butter for me every time. And these things can be made without recipes.

The reason our Yankee correspondents make so many statements which "rile" us up, is that they know nothing of British history or of British and Canadian effort in the war. A Girl from the U. S. A. talks about thirteen little colonies beating the big British Empire. At that time there simply was no such animal as the British Empire. The thirteen states fought those tiny Islands called Great Britain. If she looks closely she will find them up in the North Sea. And she seems to think that we do not like to be reminded of that war. Why, bless her dear heart, we are all glad that the British men in those thirteen colonies were British enough to fight for fair play. You know we had a German king then—he became heir to our throne—and he had a lot of hired Germans in that army which fought the colonies in the war of the revolution. We are all glad you won, and Britishers have no other feeling on the subject. But it was not the big British Empire which fought that war or Canada. It makes me laugh to think of Canada in those days; it was so very new and wee.

As far as we can remember, our Canadian boys were over in South Africa helping the empire in the Boer War for only a few months. We believe that war did not last for years, as she says.

Also, if she will look up "past current events" she will find that the United States was called on for men ten months after she entered the war. Every other nation sent men as soon as they declared war. The United States could not have been much afraid that Germany was going to win, else why did she wait so long, that she had to be reminded by Foch that her men should be in France? And we all know that the United States was not afraid that the Germans would come over here. Neither were we—because the good old British navy would not let them get past!

She says our boys fought well. One can scarcely touch that subject. With bowed heads and tear-dimmed eyes, we stand to hear what our boys have done and what our boys have endured. It is sacred ground, wet with blood and mothers' tears. What a pity the United States had not been in the war longer, so that more of her people could have learned the humbling lessons of a Gethsemane.

A SOLDIER'S MOTHER.

A Heap o' Help.

Dear Miss Grey,—Just a line to thank you for the stockingfoot pattern, it is just dandy. I have copied "Home Again" for Help One Another, and "Keep the Home Fires Burning" for Nellie H. Also "Over There" and "Long Boy" for Owl Head, and a comic recitation for Owl Head. And if Hello Girl will address Hearth and Home, Augusta, Maine, U. S. A., I think she will get the magazine she wants.

I wonder if any of the readers has "The Footsteps On the Stairs." I would like very much to get it. As before. TORY.

Likes the Box.

Dear Miss Grey: I have copied the song, "Granny's Old Armchair," from memory for Rose Bud. I also get lots of information from the Box, as I take great delight in reading it. I have the words and music of "Break the News to Mother," but lost the paper, so could not send them. Will sign myself, A NEW SUBSCRIBER.

A Neat Copy.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am inclosing the words of "Fair Charlotte" for Priscilla and Pearletta. Would you please tell me the meaning of Ivan, Norine, Helen? Would you please send me the stocking foot pattern.

I am 13 years old, and am in the first form in high school. Am I far enough advanced for my age? Would like a girl of my age to correspond with me. I would like her to write first.

DOTTIE.

Ans.—Your copy was very neat. I only found one inclosed. Ivan means the same as John, gift of God; Norine is probably the same as Nora, a contraction of Honoria, meaning honorable; Helen means light or fair.

Please, Priscilla.

Dear Miss Grey,—Will you forward this song, "Down Went McGinty" to Priscilla? Yours truly, NONA.

Ans.—Priscilla, unfortunately your address was not kept when the other song was mailed to you. Please send it again.

NOTES.

1919.—Yes, dear lady, Madame Homebird's chirp appeared in issue of Friday, February 14, so hunt up your back copies and enjoy it.

Mrs. R. J. S.—You wrote on both sides of the paper, hence the cancellation of your letter. Have sent the foot pattern, with pleasure.

Theresa, of Silver Maple Farm.—You asked for "Where Bonnie, Bonnie Heather Is Blooming." Please send a stamp.

"Dolly Dimple" sends her thanks to those who supplied "I Want My Daddy" and "The Mocking Bird" for her.

Some kindly reader sends a clipping of the January 21st horoscope asked for by Mrs. All-Trades. I have forwarded it with pleasure.

Michigan Farmer's Wife.—The designs asked for were at hand and have been mailed.

Nobody's Sweetheart.—I have a letter for you; will you send your address?

A Do All Jobs.—(1) I scarcely know what you mean by "cape-things," scarfs of various sorts—knitted, crocheted or of fabric, are sure to be worn, especially by those motoring or driving. (2) Yes, foulard is likely to be among the summer's popular fabrics, in all shades of blue, black and white, grays, browns, etc.

Dame Dorcas.—Thanks for your copy of "K-Katy." The pieces you wish are sent.

Valeria.—Just to set aunt's and sister's minds at rest, and give you "peace," a foot pattern is sent you. Now aren't you happy?

Bear Line.—Thanks for your information for Hello Girl.

Mrs. R. O. S.—Your letter to Chatham Lassie is mailed.

One of the Busy Mothers (Kingston).—You have traveled far in search of the foot pattern, so I hasten to send one; then you'll have courage to call again.

Bud White.—The songs are on hand and have been mailed you.

Belton.—Thanks for the piece sent to Splutterfuss. She had already been supplied, however, so I'm sending it to Tot instead.

HOME-MADE BREAD

Home bread-making reduces the high cost of living by lessening the amount of expensive meats required to supply the necessary nourishment to the body. The increased nutritious value of bread made in the home with should be sufficient incentive to the thoughtful housewife to give this important food item the attention to which it is justly entitled. Bread made with Royal Yeast will keep fresh and moist longer than that made with any other.

WINIFRED BLACK

Writes About "The Mother Who Nags."

Copyright, 1918, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Dear me, how crushed he looked, the poor little boy. I saw him a few minutes ago when I went through the train to dinner. Such a fine fresh-faced, handsome little fellow. Manly and upstanding, he's a boy and mother could be proud of—the very core of the heart of any decent father.

Carefully dressed he was and well groomed. Every hair in place, little shoes blacked till they shone again. He ought to have been laughing or singing or playing, but he wasn't.

He was sitting by the window with his head down, and I think he was trying very hard not to cry. Poor little fellow! The minute I looked at him I knew he was afflicted with a terrible curse—a mother who nags.

"Don't do this! Stop doing that! Sit still. What on earth are you doing? I am ashamed of you. Aren't you ashamed of yourself?"

Yes, that was her querulous voice. You could hear it way down to the end of the car.

Joys of Life.

It was all I could do to keep from going back and asking the little boy to go into the dining car and have dinner with me and we would talk about the puppy at home or the little flying machine he tried to make, only it would not quite balance.

And I would let him put his elbows on the table and drink all the water he wanted to, and take hold of his fork the wrong way and put his feet on the rungs of the chair—just to make him feel that he was perfectly safe and that no one was watching him and criticising him and making fun of him. There are other ways to teach good manners than by nagging.

If I couldn't manage a little bit of a boy without making a pestiferous nuisance of myself I would give up the effort and confess myself an abject failure.

Poor woman! What a lot she is losing in life—the mother who nags! Her children never trust her. They never trust her. They never pay any attention to her, really.

Either that little boy will be a poor, crushed, unhappy, nervous fellow with no spirit of his own and no courage and no manliness left, or he will be a sneaky little hypocrite who fools his mother when he is with her and does as he pleases when she's away from her.

They are so helpless in our hands, the children—so utterly helpless. We can make of them just what we choose. How can we have the heart to meet that look of surprise and hurt in a pair of clear, childish eyes that look to us for love and guidance and comfort?

I'd hate to be the woman who nags when that little boy is grown up and gone. I'm afraid she will have a good many sad and lonely hours.

"JIMMY" WILDE WINS FIGHT FROM LYNCH

Boxers Are Congratulated by Prince of Wales After Big Bout.

LONDON, March 31.—"Jimmy" Wilde, the British flyweight champion, tonight defeated Joe Lynch, an American boxer, on points in a fifteen round bout.

The Prince of Wales, Prince Albert and Lord Lonsdale witnessed the contest, which took place at the National Sporting Club. It was a fast and stubbornly fought battle throughout. Wilde started a three-to-one favorite, but Lynch was doing so well in the ninth round that the betting fell to even money.

In this and the following rounds Wilde was badly shaken by heavy punishment, but fought gamely and recovered in the fifteenth. The American finished the stronger of the two, and, though Wilde won on points, he had a close call.

The verdict seemed somewhat of a surprise to many present and there was some adverse criticism. Wilde was giving Lynch about sixteen pounds in weight.

At the close of the fight the Prince of Wales congratulated both men and said that it was by meetings such as this that Anglo-American friendship, which they had welcomed throughout the war, became cemented for all time.

GEORGE WHITEMAN TO PLAY WITH TORONTO

TORONTO, March 31.—James J. McCaffery of the Toronto Ball Club upon his return from Chicago today announced that he had signed up George Whiteman, the slugging outfielder of the Boston champions. That should set the fans at rest.

Mr. McCaffery was at Chicago representing David L. Fultz, president of the International League, who is ill, at a meeting of the committee of seven appointed by the National Association of Minor Leagues to deal with the dispute with the majors. Mr. McCaffery urged the minors to be diplomatic and to take their time in dealing with the problem. Plans for operating independently of the major leagues were completed. John H. Farrell of Auburn, N.Y., secretary of the National Association; Thos. J. Hickey, president of the American Association, and A. R. Tearney, president of the Three-I and Western Leagues, were named as a committee to meet with the National Commission if necessary to perfect a formal agreement.

LONDON "Y" JUNIORS ARE PREPARING FOR NEXT O. B. A. SERIES

Workout Held at Local Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium Last Evening.

London "Y" juniors held a workout at the local Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium last evening, and are preparing for the next series in the O. A. B. A. The London boys put Sarnia out of the running in the semi-finals, winning both games by a large margin.

It is a sure bet that London will again have a champion team. The local youngsters are fast and play a great combination game.

Last evening a picked team of players went up against the local juniors. The kids had little trouble in walking away with the honors from the picked team. A. T. Taylor, coach of the junior five and Gus Markle were on the selected team. Jim McGeoch of the Western "U" Intermediates was also on the line-up.

A. T. Taylor is awaiting word from the secretary of the O. A. B. A. for the dates of the next series. Hamilton or Toronto may possibly go up against the London five.

AMATEUR ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION IS FORMED AT GALT

T. H. Watson Elected President of New Organization —To Erect an Arena.

GALT, March 31.—At a meeting in the city council chambers tonight, which was packed to the doors, of manufacturers, businessmen, mechanics and sports representing various games, the Galt Amateur Athletic Association came into being, with an object of promoting athletics and returning Galt to a prominent place in the world of sport.

The objects of the association are not only to boost all forms of sports, but to centralize them under one chief organization, with sub-committees for each game; to select teams to represent the city in various leagues, and to produce athletes by city competitions, looking forward to the future.

Enthusiasm evidenced speaks well for the future of sports. All manufacturing and businessmen display as keen an interest in the proposition as the active participants in the games. Many important problems were discussed, chief of which was that regarding the erection of a large arena, equipped with an artificial ice plant. Galt is now suffering from lack of accommodation for hockey, and while it was announced at the meeting that a citizen was now getting plans and estimates on the cost of installing an ice plant, a strong committee composed of A. R. Goldie, J. G. Turnbull, A. E. Williard, J. A. Mead and J. A. Foster, was appointed to secure locations and give the citizens every assistance. The meeting decided that immediate action was necessary. The question of erecting a grandstand in Dickson Park to replace the one destroyed by fire a few years ago also came up for discussion.

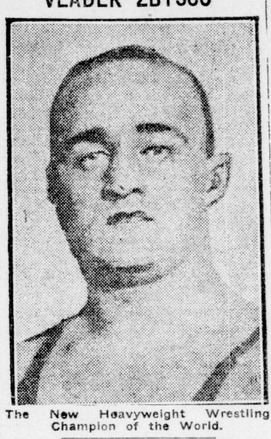

The association got away to a splendid start, and during the course of the meeting a letter was read from A. R. Goldie announcing that he would donate a silver cup for the town soccer league, while F. H. Chapple, a merchant, offered to donate a cup for the baseball league. Officers who represent all classes in the community were elected as follows:

Honorary presidents, F. S. Scott, M. P., Mayor A. W. Mercer, R. O. McCulloch, Col. A. J. Oliver and G. A. Dobbie; president, T. H. Watson; first vice-president, A. R. Goldie; second vice-president, W. W. Wilkinson; secretary, A. S. Wilkinson, treasurer, J. W. Scott; executive, J. G. Turnbull, A. R. McFadyen, W. H. Patterson, Leon Shupe, A. M. Edwards, J. W. Martin, F. H. Chapple, James Fraser and S. Law.

THREE STAR HITTERS WITH PHILADELPHIA

Burns, Walker and Roth on Connie Mack's Line-Up.

NEW YORK, March 31.—From Philadelphia comes the intimation that Connie Mack is to keep Bobby Roth and not pass him over to some other club, as we believed to be his plan when the recent trade with the Cleveland club was completed. If this surmise is correct, for Mack is saying no more than in the past in regard to his plans, the Mackmen of 1919 will carry a punch that will make the team highly respected all over the American League trail. Connie will have in his daily lineup three hitters who specialize in making the outfielders run toward the fence. Any one of the trio is likely to break up a close game at any time.

George Burns was with the Tigers in 1917, Clarence Walker was with the Red Sox, and Bob Roth was with Cleveland. Today all three are under the Mack banner and when they are bunched in a batting order they are as dangerous as the Cobb-Veach-Heilman combination in Detroit, or the Baker-Pratt-Pitt section of the Yankees batting order. Burns and Walker hit a total of seventeen home runs during the 1918 season and Roth may be expected to do his share of circuit clouting at Shibe Park. Bob crashed through with only one home run during the latest championship campaign, but he was handicapped at Cleveland, where the right field wall is forty-five feet high and the left field fence is beyond the range of any hitter.

Mack has about decided upon the lineup of his club for the opening of the next campaign, but at two or three positions a real battle may be looked for. Perkins and McAvoy will divide the catching, and they are both high class performers behind the bat. Burns at first base and Dugan at shortstop appear to be the infield certainties. Shannon, Witt and Grover will battle for the second base berth and the third base assignment rests between Fred Thomas and Bates. In the outfield Kopp, Walker and Roth are the first string men, but Mack has a high regard for Gene Bailey and the latter may crash in as a regular, as he was a slugger in the minors, and has shown traces of it in his few games with the Athletics.

Connie naturally will build his pitching staff around Scott, Perry and Vean Gregg. On his 1918 record Perry stands out as one of the great boxmen of the game, and Gregg also showed up strongly last year. Vean lost many games by low scores, but with a stronger hitting club to help him along he should prove a consistent winner. The remainder of the staff will be chosen from a squad of youngsters consisting of Geary, Watson, Ray Johnson and Bill Adams, of the 1918 team: Naylor, Anderson and Schauer, who have been in the army, and Kinney, who was obtained a short time ago from the Red Sox. All of these pitchers have had some little experience in the majors. Mack will also try out some youngsters.

The Mackmen of 1918 finished with a much better percentage of games won than did the team of the preceding year. Connie insists that the uplift will be continued in the coming campaign and he is confident that his team will not be last when the season ends.

CLIFFORD DURRANT TO RACE ONCE MORE AND RETIRE FROM GAME

Will Drive Car No. 1 in Big Liberty Sweepstake on May 31.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 31.—R. Clifford Durant, the first driver to enter the 500-mile Liberty Sweepstakes at the Indianapolis Speedway, will start in the race on May 31 as the undisputed Pacific coast champion. Durant, a millionaire, is not racing for the winner's end of the $50,000 purse, but because he wants to take the trophies and the honor of being the first Californian to win an Indianapolis 500 back to the Pacific slope with him.

When Durant started in the recent 250-mile Santa Monica road race his title of western champion was really at stake. The race was not billed for the title that Durant won at Tacoma last Independence Day, but if Clifford had been defeated the title would have been an empty one. The Chevrolet crossed the wire first, although Durant had made two stops and narrowly missed a fatal accident, averaging 81.26 miles an hour for the 250 miles.

That Durant is a skillful and heady driver is proved by his defeat of Eddie Hearne. The famous veteran of 10 seasons of big time racing, drove a sister car to Durant's, went through without a stop and was defeated. Durant blew a tire early in the race and headed for the crowd, but threw his wheel over hard, kept the car under control and limped back to the pits. He changed a tire in 26 seconds and was off is the lead again. He also made another change of the same duration, but was able to keep first place almost from the start of the race.

The son of W. C. Durant, the General Motors head, in private life is the sedate manager of the Chevrolet factory in Oakland, Cal. As a racer he is far from conservative and believes in getting every ounce of speed out of the car that the track will permit. When his car, as No. 1, in the big event, gets away next May 31, the fans can be assured that they will see some of the same kind of driving that made the late Bob Burman an idol of the fans and the world's speed king. It is Durant's first start in an Indianapolis 500 and it is also reported that he has promised his father that he will retire from the racing game after he has had this opportunity to prove himself a master pilot and win the biggest race in the speed world.

SENIOR LACROSSE AT OTTAWA THIS YEAR

This was the announcement made last night following a brief conference at the Russell House of the executive committee of the Ottawa Club.

FRANCE WANTS OLYMPIC GAMES HELD IN 1921

Paris, April 1.—The French Olympic committee has voted unanimously to abide by the resolution passed by that organization on November 22, 1918, in which it and its affiliated bodies decided they would not participate in any Olympiad in which citizens of enemy nations would compete. The committee suggests that the Olympic games should not be held before 1921, saying that sufficient time must be allowed for the organization of track and field athletics by nations which have been engaged in the war.

RYERSON GIANTS WIN FROM ST. GEORGE'S

The Ryerson Giants defeated St. George's Stars by the score of 11 to 2, in the first baseball game of the season held last evening. Russel Neilson was behind the bat for the Giants and Wallace Chalcraft pitched a good game. Bill Bellington and George Loveless were the pitchers for St. George's, and Douglas Weston was the catcher.

BLONDIN CASE COMES UNDER EULER'S FIRE

Condemns Giving Defeated Candidate a Portfolio.

RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT?

North Waterloo Member Says Ministers Should Be Representatives of People.

OTTAWA, March 31.—In the House of Commons this afternoon F. B. McCurdy's resolution calling for a preference for wounded soldiers in the filling of civil service vacancies, met with a great deal of approval, but was not pressed, in view of a statement by Hon. Martin Burrell that the matter would be dealt with in an amendment to the civil service act to be introduced within the next few weeks.

At the evening sitting F. D. Euler, North Waterloo, moved a resolution declaring that all cabinet ministers should be members of the Commons. He objected to the principle of cabinet ministers being in the Senate, and, referring to present conditions, asserted that the presence in the Upper House of Hon. P. E. Blondin, who had been defeated in two constituencies, was particularly objectionable from the standpoint of responsible government.

Sir Thomas White declared that Mr. Euler lacked a proper understanding of the meaning of the Canadian constitution, because the British North America act made provision for joint responsibility of the two Houses in most matters. He said that former administrations, both Liberal and Conservative, had ministerial representation in the Upper House.

After D. D. McKenzie had given his support to the resolution, it was withdrawn.

Late in the evening the House debated a resolution by H. H. Stevens, Vancouver, advocating the extension of vocational training to boys who enlisted under age.

Would Abolish Senate.

Mr. Euler, introducing his resolution to the effect that all ministers of the crown should be members of the House of Commons or become such within three months after their appointment to the cabinet, expressed the hope that it would be regarded by the House as a non-party measure and discussed with the same freedom as the daylight saving proposal last week. The war was now over and the time had arrived when responsible government in its full measure should be restored to the country. The basic reason for the resolution was that members of the senate, not being elected, were not responsible to the people and should therefore, be barred from the cabinet. He would support a resolution providing for the abolition of the senate if such were introduced.

A non-elective senate in these times, said Mr. Euler, was assuredly somewhat of an anomaly. As a matter of fact it was lately becoming more or less of a divorce court. Men were rewarded with seats in the senate for service rendered to their party.

Three in Cabinet.

There were now three senators in the Dominion cabinet. One of these, the leader of the senate (Sir James Lougheed) was also head of the department of soldiers' civic re-establishment. Questions of importance in connection with this department were constantly coming before the House of Commons and in the opinon of Mr. Euler, the minister should be present to answer them. Another member of the cabinet who occupied a seat in the senate was Hon. G. D. Robertson, minister of labor. It was important at this present time of unrest that the labor department be represented in the Commons.

The most glaring instance, however, of a violation of the principle of responsible government arose in the case of the postmaster-general. Here was a man who had been overwhelmingly defeated in two constituencies and therefore manifestly did not possess the confidence of the people.

McCurdy On Civil Service.

Mr. McCurdy moved that, in the opinion of the House, the civil service act should be so amended that, while having full regard to efficiency, preference in appointments to the civil service should be afforded to returned soldiers who had become disabled in the theatre of war.

Mr. McCurdy, in presenting his motion, observed that the civil service act, as passed last session, provided for a preference to the returned man. But interpretations placed on the act by the civil service commisison placed all returned men in the same category. Thus, the man who had not got beyond England was classed the same as a man who had been wounded and was suffering a disability.

Major Redman, in seconding the motion, argued that it was the duty of the state to provide employment for the returned soldier. Of a total of 16,242 positions filled by the civil service commission since the passing of the civil service act, last year, only 1,834 had gone to returned soldiers. The majority of the positions were no doubt of such a character that returned soldiers would not compete for them, such as stenographers. But the figures indicated that returned men were not getting positions enough in the civil service.

Should Make Vacancies.

Major Redman suggested that for one year at least, no one but returned soldiers should be allowed to compete in examinations for male employees and that the same preference should be given to the dependents of returned soldiers in receipt of a pension. For a limited period of time also, Major Redman contended, automatic promotions of civilians in the service, which would have the effect of barring returned soldiers from appointment, should cease. Furthermore, Major Redman expressed the view that the civil service commission should be given power to dismiss any young unmarried man, appointed since 1914, who had not served in the forces and thus create vacancies for disabled men.

Sir Sam Hughes said he indorsed the view of Mr. McCurdy and Major Redman.

Amendments Coming.

Hon. Martin Burrell said that in effect the resolution asked for a preference within a preference. He was quite in sympathy with the claim that the policy of the civil service commission should be in accord with the principles laid down in the resolution. He was sure that the mover and seconder realized some of the difficulties they had, but they were endeavoring to overcome these as far as possible.

The minister intimated that the civil service act was going to be amended, and the very points mentioned in the resolution would come up.

Mr. Nickle expressed the opinion that employers would gradually find that returned soldiers were more frequently injured through physical impairment than others, and that consequently payments to them under the workmen's compensation act mounted up. Returned men would gradually find themselves shouldered out of positions which they could not by reason of their disabilities fill as well as healthy men.

Mr. Nickle suggested that the Government should insure all returned men as against industrial disability. The cost of this he estimated at about one million dollars a year, and he thought it should be kept in force for about five years. He would suggest that it apply to soldiers who had done at least six months' or a year's service.

CHECK HAS BEEN CASHED

Mewburn Not Permitted to Disclose When Men Return From Siberia.

OTTAWA, March 31.—In the House of Commons this afternoon Sir ... White read a letter from Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, lieutenant-governor of Quebec, regarding payments made to him for two years for expenses to attend the meetings of the privy council in England, and which he did not attend, saying in part: "In view of the fact that some members of the House state that they understood the two votes in question in a sense different from that which their language clearly bears, and from the sense of which I understood, and was justified in understanding it, I inclose herewith my check for $5,000 in your favor, as acting prime minister, to be paid over to the Dominion treasury."

Sir Thomas White stated that he had indorsed the check and sent it to the receiver-general.

The Siberian Expedition.

Ernest LaPointe asked Gen. Mewburn if he had any information to give the House in regard to the Siberian expeditionary force. Gen. Mewburn replied that arrangements had been completed for returning the Canadian Siberian expeditionary force. He could not reveal the date of its return, as the British Government had requested that it be kept secret for the present. The minister of militia stated that the number of men conscripted and sent overseas was 47,509.

Major C. G. Power asked if the Ross rifle factory at Quebec was leased during the year 1918, and, if so, to whom, and at what price. The minister of militia replied that it had been leased for a period of eighteen months to the North American Arms Company, Limited, at a quarterly rental of $75,000. The total rent paid so far was $150,000.

In an answer to a question by J. A. Maharg, it was stated that the total amount levied under the war profits tax was $73,167,443.

FORD TO HIRE 1,000 CRIPPLED SOLDIERS; WORK LYING DOWN

Don't Need to Stand Up to Earn $6 a Day, He Says.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

DETROIT, March 31.—One thousand jobs are awaiting Detroit's returned crippled soldiers at the Ford Company's plant in Highland Park. This announcement was made by Edsel B. Ford, president of the company, today. The men will be paid the minimum of $6 a day now in effect in the plant.

"The 1,000 soldiers are wanted for our new self-starter department," said Mr. Ford. "The only requirements necessary are that they are crippled soldiers, Detroit men, and have the use of their hands. If they are unable to stand, they may recline at their work."

"Business is in the best shape possible, and the labor situation follows right in line. There is no need of worry over work for returning men. There is plenty of work. The trouble in the majority of cases is that labor cannot be found for the work.

"We are putting on men right along. Most of these jobs, however, are going to the men coming back from overseas."

The employment superintendent of the Ford Company stated that between 800 and 1,000 men had been placed at work since the middle of February.

"We are putting on 150 men every day, but there is always room for extremely skilled mechanics and common labor," he said.

HIGHWAY MEASURE CHANGED; MORE AID FOR SUBURBAN ROADS

Legislature Removes Limit of Aid to Designated Areas.

TORONTO, March 31.—An amendment to the Ontario highway act was introduced today in the Legislature to give greater financial assistance toward the building of suburban roads. Heretofore the Government has paid 40 per cent of the cost of construction on county roads, but it has limited its contribution toward defraying the cost of highways lying within suburban areas around cities and large towns to $4,000 per mile. Under the amendment this limit is being removed, and the full 40 per cent will be paid of the cost of building suburban roads.

Another amendment will permit the Government to apportion any money received from the Federal Government for highway construction.

Hon. I. B. Lucas introduced a bill respecting the proof of death of soldiers and sailors while on active service. It provides that the certificates of the adjutant-general, the assistant adjutant-general or the director of the records office will be sufficient proof.

BILL TO LET WOMEN RULE IS ADVANCED

Hearst Says They May Not Use Privilege.

AN ELECTION COMING?

Reason He Delayed For Two Years: There Was No Campaign in Sight.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, March 31.—Although governments elsewhere have previously granted to women the right to sit in Parliament on an equal basis with men, and, although the Liberals on more than one occasion in the past sought to persuade the Queen's Park authorities to do likewise, Sir William Hearst still maintains that his Government is abreast to public opinion. He tactfully admits, however, that they are not ahead of it. In the Legislature today he moved that the three bills extending the right of women to sit in the Legislature, to be appointed or elected to municipal office and to farmers' wives and daughters to sit on school boards, be given second reading.

In doing so he tried to extricate the Government from the previous "stand pat" attitude on the matter. Almost heroically he remarked that: "The members of the Government are all married men, and we knew that the women would get whatever they wanted; and if they wanted the right to sit in the Legislature they would get it in due time."

No Need Heretofore.

Sir William said that the attitude of the Government in the last two years was that there was no need to introduce an amendment at either of the two preceding sessions, because an election was not pending. In Australia the women had had the right to sit in parliaments for years, and it had not been taken advantage of to any great extent. In New Zealand women had had the right for many years to vote, but not to sit in parliament. The war had hurried the change, and it had also completely altered the attitude of public opinion on the matter.

"I feel that any opposition that there is to this move comes rather more from the women themselves than it does from the men," said Sir William.

Better Go Further.

Mr. Sam Carter (South Wellington) wanted to know why the Government would not go further and permit any person to sit on a municipal council without qualifications. He urged that, as everything was going smoothly and the prime minister had advanced so rapidly, the Government could very well go a little further.

"We are quite abreast of public opinion, but not ahead of it on this subject," retorted the prime minister.

Mr. Proudfoot expressed gratification that the Government had at last adopted a measure which he believed would be a good law. He believed it would be a good thing for the public at large. The Opposition leader wondered if the statement that the bill was not introduced last session, because there was no election pending, meant that an election would be held shortly now that the amendment was being made.

"I meant nothing," replied Sir William.

"Just talk," laughed Mr. Proudfoot.

164,621 Canadians Demobilized Since Armistice Signing

121,979 Have Been Moved Across the Ocean—8,078 Now on Way.

OTTAWA, March 31.—Hon. S. C. Mewburn, minister of militia, informed the House of Commons today that, including those in Canada, a total of 164,621 soldiers had been demobilized since the armistice was signed. Since the armistice 121,979 had been moved across the ocean. At the present time, he stated, there were 8,078 Canadian soldiers crossing to Canada.

MANY DROWNED AS SCAFFOLD COLLAPSES AT SHIP LAUNCHING

BRISTOL, Penn., March 31.—From ten to forty persons were killed or drowned late this afternoon, when a temporary scaffolding extending around the stern of a boat on the ways at the Merchant Shipyard, at Harriman, near here, collapsed while nearly 150 persons were standing on it to view the launching of the freighter Waukau. At a late hour tonight only three bodies had been recovered. Twenty-two injured were taken to the Harriman Hospital.

Thousands had assembled to see the launching and eyewitnesses of the accident say the scaffolding seemed to turn over, precipitating its occupants into twenty-five feet of water. The accident happened four minutes before the launching was scheduled to take place.

DOZEN MINERS ENTOMBED.

TRINIDAD, Colo., March 31.—The body of one miner has been recovered and twelve more miners are entombed and believed to be dead in the workings of the Empire Mine of the Empire Coal Company, where an explosion took place this morning. A rescuing party has been working for many hours. Of 36 men who were in the mine when the explosion occurred, 23 made their way out through a connecting shaft.

Committee Designing New Coat of Arms For Land of Maple

OTTAWA, March 31.—A committee consisting of Sir Joseph Pope; Thomas Mulvey, under secretary of state; Gen. Gwatkins, chief of the general staff, department of militia, and Dr. A. G. Doughty, Dominion archivist, has been named to design a new coat of arms for the Dominion. It has been decided that this is necessary, because the existing coat covers only the provinces which constituted the Dominion at the time of Confederation.

Foch's Armies Will Advance if Huns Balk

LONDON, March 31.—The Evening News says it understands that reliable information has been received in London that in case the German delegates refuse to sign the peace treaty, Marshal Foch has authority to order a general advance of the Allied armies along the Rhine.

The German financial commission sent to Spa has been authorized to give an exact description of the financial situation of Germany to the representatives of the Allies, according to a German wireless message.

PROVINCIAL HOUSE ADOPTING DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME TODAY

[Special and Canadian Press.]

TORONTO, March 31.—Daylight saving time will be adopted for the sessions of the Legislature and in all the Provincial Government offices tomorrow, Premier Hearst announced. The news was received with approval by the majority, although William Proudfoot, while personally in favor of daylight saving, suggested that it might be well to wait the decision of the Dominion Railway Board.

F. Wellington Hay, North Perth, urged that the Government go further, and enforce the new time throughout the province in order to promote uniformity. He believed the farmers were reconciled to accept it as fate, now that it had been adopted by the railways.

Allan Studholme, labor member for East Hamilton, insisted that the House had no right to "force such a measure down the throat of the province." They would be going far enough in adopting the new time in the Government buildings, and this is what was done.

May Revert to Standard Time.

Premier Hearst pointed out that it would be possible to revert to standard time if the Dominion Railway Board decided against daylight saving, or if it became otherwise desirable.

The House adjourned at 6:30 o'clock daylight saving time, which gave members a chance to reach their hotel dining-rooms before the doors were locked against them. The House opened on standard time—4 o'clock city time.

Chaos prevailed at the Parliament buildings this morning. There was an unprecedented mix-up because for the change of civic time over the week-end. Legally the various departments had to open on standard time, and when civil servants left home this morning, at 8:30, they found themselves at work at 8 o'clock. They spent half an hour standing around outside wondering at the incongruity of the situation.

GENERAL SMART SPEAKS OUT IN AN OPEN LETTER

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, March 31.—"We have won the war against the Huns, but we shall have a task on our hands to clean up the rottenness that exists in high places and which those in power seem disposed to cover up."

This is one of the observations contained in an open letter written by Brigadier-General Charles S. Smart, M.L.A., of Westmount, Quebec, dealing with the attempt made in the Canadian Commons by Sir Thomas White to reply to General Smart's speech in the Quebec Legislature. The reply of Sir Thomas, he characterizes as "Shifty and evasive."

"If Sir Thomas White wishes to place the welfare of his country ahead of other considerations," says General Smart, "he will see that an impartial commission is appointed immediately to investigate the whole subject of the overseas administration, and especially that of the overseas medical administration in England.

Points to Investigate.

"1—The Colonel Bruce report and recommendations.

"4—The Taplow hospital scandal.

"5—The Perley scheme for scattering Canadian wounded throughout the British Isles.

"6—The report of Lieut.-Col. J. S. Jennings submitted to the overseas minister of militia in November, 1916."

After Kemp and Perley.

Inefficiency and neglect on the part of the medical services in England and inefficiency and favoritism on the part of the overseas administration under Sir Edward Kemp and Sir George Perley generally is what General Smart charges and declares will be proven if a commission is created.

"I am a firm believer in a continuance of the Union Government for some years to come," he concludes, "but the present administration will have to show greater capacity, and more backbone if it is to hold the confidence of the public."

BACK AT HIS WORK IN QUEBEC WOODS

His Troubles Were Not Only Painful but Alarming, Till He Found Relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Bury, Que., March 31.—(Special.)—William H. McDonald, a young man living near here, is shouting the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Rheumatism in his arms, severe pains in his back and head and an alarming pain in the region of his heart rendered him not only helpless but much alarmed as to the future. He found the relief he needed in one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I will recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to anyone with weak kidneys," Mr. McDonald says in telling his story. "I am back at work in the woods feeling as well as ever. What with rheumatism and those pains in the head and near the heart, I was sick and anxious.

"But after a week's illness I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. One box of them made me as well as ever I was in my life."

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. If the kidneys are right they will strain the uric acid out of the blood. Rheumatism is caused by weak kidneys. The natural cure is to make the kidneys strong by using Dodd's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbors about them.

INQUIRY REGARDING DOMINION PERMANENT LOAN TRANSACTIONS

Dewart Files Request in the Legislature For Records and Correspondence.

TORONTO, March 31.—The Legislature went into committee of the whole on a bill to amend the loan and trust corporations act and discussion ensued for over an hour. One clause of the bill provides that after January 1, 1920, no corporation shall make any investment by which it will hold more than 15 per cent of the stock and debentures of another company.

Hon. I. B. Lucas explained that this would have no effect on any stock now held by any company.

Hartley Dewart, Liberal member of the Legislature for Southwest Toronto, has filed a motion for the return of all statements, records and correspondence showing what inquiries were made, or information furnished to the registrar of loan corporations touching the assets, securities and accounts of the Dominion Permanent Loan Company for the years 1910 to 1918.

Mr. Dewart also asks how much was received by the said corporation in the years named on mortgages of realty and other securities.

SMALLPOX TAKING OFF THOUSANDS IN ITALY

BERNE, Sunday, March 31.—News of a serious smallpox epidemic which for seven weeks ravaged the province of Apulia, Italy, was received here today in Italian newspapers, having been suppressed up to this time by the censor. Thousands of the poorer classes in the province died, and 1,500 in the city of Bari alone.

FALLS 60 FEET TO BOTTOM OF BOAT AND DIES

[Special to The Advertiser.]

BLENHEIM, March 31. — Alexander Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Woods of this town, was killed this morning about 9 o'clock from a fractured skull, suffered in a fall of about 40 feet into the Bessemer coal boat, which was being unloaded.

It is reported that he went up on what is known as the boom of the big coal hoist, about 40 feet in the air, to loosen the cable, which had become twisted in some way. While engaged in this, by some means the whole boom gave away, and came down. He fell headlong into the boat.

Dr. Bryce Kendrick of Blenheim was called at once, but the unfortunate man died before he arrived. Coroner Dr. A. R. Hanks ordered an inquest to be held here on Thursday next.

Mr. Woods was about 30 years of age, and leaves, besides a widow, six children of ages from 2 months to 9 years. The boom is badly broken, and it is thought that it will be some weeks before the coal hoist can resume operations.

FINDING OF CORPSE THROWS SIDELIGHT ON LIQUOR TRAFFIC

TORONTO, March 31.—What is believed by the police to be a sidelight on the traffic in liquor was discovered among the papers of R. J. Spence of Hamilton, Ont., the commercial traveler, whose body was discovered in a culvert west of the Humber on Queen street. Among other documents was a receipt crediting him with having paid $18 for two bottles of cream. The liquor peddler brazenly signed the receipt, "Vendors' Association."

The police state that without a doubt this is but the receipt of another liquor ring which is operating in the city, and bears out the recent statement of an employee of the license commission that only about 5 per cent of the liquor being smuggled into the province was intercepted by Government men or by the police. The police also admit that in spite of all their efforts only a small percentage of the peddlers are caught bringing in the liquor.

Toronto Police Made Heavy Seizure of "Wet Goods."

TORONTO, March 31.—Police today seized $20,000 worth of liquor in the warehouse of a junk dealer on Palmerston avenue. The owner is suspected of being engaged in the illicit sale of liquor on an extensive scale for the past six months.

Plainclothesmen made the raid shortly before noon. They say that they missed several thousand dollars' worth by being late in the raid, for the day previous a furniture moving van took a load away from the building. Five arrests were made.

Increases Your Weight, Restores Lost Strength, Prevents Illness

Every day come new converts to that great army of men and women who rejoice in new-found health that came to them through the use of that wonderful blood-renewing preparation called "FERROZONE." Very simple how it acts. All you have to do is take two small chocolate-coated tablets with a sip of water at the close of each meal.

Ferrozone is a marvel. It contains just what thin blood lacks—lots of iron, but mark you, the kind of iron your blood is able to absorb. Ferrozone puts life and vim into the blood. Makes it rich, red and nourishing. Naturally the body is better fed and grows stronger day by day.

Of course digestion must be improved, and probably the stomach will require aid as well. Ferrozone serves the purpose admirably. Those who use it enjoy appetite and digestive powers far beyond the ordinary.

That tired feeling is replaced by the buoyant, joyous sensation of health and vigor. Day by day as your strength increases, you feel new energy surging through your veins, and know that a great tonic of great merit is at work.

No remedy more nourishing or uplifting, no treatment so sure to bring lasting health, good spirits and contentment. Ferrozone contains just what run-down folks need; it cures because it supplies more nutriment that you can get in any other way. 50c per box or six for $2.50 at all dealers, or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Jews have done their share!

Throughout the war, both at the fighting fronts and in every relief campaign at home, the Jewish citizens of the Empire did their duty.

Now that their compatriots in Palestine are dying by hundreds of starvation, exposure and disease, they look to us for co-operation in the relief work there—and they shall not look in vain!

Money---Clothing ---Food---All Needed!

As the result of the warfare waged by the Turks in Palestine, about 100,000 old men, women and little children are homeless and have little food or clothing. The Turks destroyed their homes, their towns and villages and carried off all they could in the way of booty. These poor people have now returned to their own districts after years of refuge in the hills, but are without means of making a livelihood and providing for their bodily needs. The appeal for aid came from Dr. Chaim Weitzman, sent to Palestine as a commissioner to inquire into conditions by the British Government. He has cabled to the Zionist Organization of America, 55 Fifth avenue, New York, urging that supplies of clothing, food and medicine be sent as soon as possible, and when this appeal was passed on to the Hadassah Society of Canada, Mrs. A. J. Freiman took it up and started the campaign. Among those who gave were Sir Robert and Lady Borden, Sir George Perley, Lady Laurier, His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire and many other leading people.

PARLIAMENT IS SET AT NAUGHT BY ITS MASTERS

Representative of U. F. O. Says Railways' Defiance Is Terrible Condition.

CANADA IS MANACLED

May Soon Hear That Every Big Interest Is Entitled To, Be a Law Unto Itself.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, March 31.—A new angle on the daylight saving situation was presented by C. W. Gurney, of Paris, chairman of the parliamentary committee of the United Farmers of Ontario, after a conference in Toronto on Saturday with Mr. Vien, M. P. for Lotbiniere, who was the champion of the Ontario farmers in the House of Commons last spring, at the time of the Ontario and Quebec farmers' raid on the Government and the House of Commons against the cancellation by order-in-council of exemptions under the military service act.

Mr. Gurney foreshadows the possibility of a strong agitation among the farmers in harmony with the remonstrance they presented to Parliament last May through Mr. Vien, and in opposition to what he calls the new overthrow of parliamentary government that is once more being attempted by the city people and the big interests.

Parliament Is Defied.

"People don't seem to know what is going on," said Mr. Gurney. "We shall soon hear that there is no more need for Parliament; and that every big interest is entitled to be a law unto itself. What are things coming to when Parliament is defied, apparently with impunity, so far as the Government is concerned? Last year Parliament passed an act setting the clocks forward an hour in the spring, summer and fall. Everybody obeyed the act, including the farmers, who suffered by it. This year the House of Commons, by the remarkable vote of two to one, decided against renewing the act; and at once railways, cities, municipalities start in to defy Parliament by trying to compel the whole country to do their bidding, while the House of Commons has plainly said it believes to be against the national interest.

"That is a brand of law-defying Prussianism that I suppose the farmer is not expected to understand. He is meekly to accept it; and, with it, one of the contempts for parliamentary government that there might have been some excuse for while we were at war, but for which not a word can be said, except by our own junkers in time of peace.

Wonder at Discontent.

"And then" added Mr. Gurney, somewhat bitterly, "they wonder at popular discontent and think it is a crime if people talk of revolution to end this sort of thing.

"Have you seen that the chairman of the railway commission has summoned the railways to show cause why they should change the time all over Canada without getting permission of the railway commission?" Mr. Gurney was asked.

"Oh, yes; but what does that mean?" replied the farmers' leader. "It may mean something or nothing. The railways announced their intention days ago of making a law for themselves. Everybody in Ottawa knew that there would be a big majority in the House of Commons against a return to Borden time. Then was the time to warn the railways against setting up a fresh autocracy in this country—not when the orders have gone out to the railway employees and eight millions of people have been told that they must take more notice of two or three railroad presidents than of the whole House of Commons. We have already said the railways run the Government of this country; and we are getting a new proof of it. They don't seem to be able to make any more raids on the treasury, but they think they have got a new cinch on the people's time —especially the farmers' time."

"It Is Oppression."

"But is the farmer going to be robbed of any time?" Mr. Gurney was asked.

"The farmer is going to be compelled to do something that Parliament has said he should not be compelled to do," was the retort. "That is oppression, and it is the duty of free citizens to resist oppression. The railroads and cities put on their clocks an hour so as to compel the people in the country to conform to their order of conduct—which is the very thing Parliament, by a two-to-one vote, decided ought not to be done. Because of the morning dew and other reasons, we found that daylight saving was an economic burden—it hampered our business. We convinced our representatives in the House of Commons that this was so. But because city people think the clock-shifting would increase their pleasures, we are to worsen our labors. Those who have to get milk to the trains to keep the cities in health will have no choice but to join in the defiance of Parliament. The Government employees will be compelled to defy the intention of Parliament, as expressed by the vote of the acting prime minister and all his colleagues, except three, and join in coercing the rural population. Last year's act had to be observed by the whole people. The virtual repeal by Thursday's vote is as morally binding as an enactment; because a declaration of abandonment of an act is an act in itself. Before last year's law was passed some cities tried their hands at daylight saving and gave it up. They are going to try it again, and they hope to succeed, apparently because this time they are openly defying Parliament, which the authorities seem to have succeeded in making a popular sport. We shall see whether Parliament will have spunk enough to call the defyers to order."

Parliament Set at Naught.

"What are the farmers going to do about it?" Mr. Gurney was asked.

"What is Parliament going to do about it?" he shot back. "If is Parliament that is being set at naught. If Parliament has lost all self-respect do you think the farmers can raise it from the dead?"

"Will the farmers be making another remonstrance to the House of Commons?"

"I don't know. Perhaps we ought to. Last year we called upon the House, which refused to allow us to state at the bar our objections to its abdication of self-government, to recover its freedom from cabinet dictation. This year the cabinet ran away from the responsibility it last year was quick enough to impose upon the House. So the House must, I suppose, be given a little time to see whether it is capable of asserting the rights and privileges for which we sacrificed 60,000 lives in Europe. If it doesn't stir—well we shall see if there are any friends of parliamentary government left in the country."

May Carry the Case to the Privy Council

OTTAWA, March 31.—Should the Dominion Railway Board today rule against the adoption of daylight saving by the railways, it is anticipated that the railway war board, which the Government created, will appeal to the privy council on the question of fact and to the supreme court on the question of law.

MILITARY BILL IS PASSED BY BRITISH HOUSE

ALL EUROPE IS MENACED

Britain Must See World War Come to a Peaceful Settlement.

LONDON, March 31.—The House of Commons today passed the third reading of the military bill by a vote of 282 to 64 after strong criticism of the Government, on the ground of wasteful expenditure and violation of election pledges to abolish conscription.

Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary of state for war, made a vigorous reply to the criticisms. He described the broad band across from the White Sea to the Caspian as smouldering or aflame through Bolsheviki attacks, and declared that Germany and Austria were likely to slide into hopeless anarchy or form a military alliance with the Bolsheviki.

Germany To Pay Part.

With respect to the cost of the army of occupation, Mr. Churchill said that after deducting the estimated figure of about seventy million pounds to be recovered from Germany for the upkeep of the Rhine army, this left the cost of the army of occupation for the present year at £123,000,000. The amount that was expected to be recovered by salvage was calculated to pay two or three times over the cost of the armies of occupation during this year.

Replying to the arguments that there was no national necessity for the bill, Mr. Churchill declared that Bolshevist armies were attacking along the whole front in Europe, and that the various little states were in dire peril.

Must Have World Peace.

Could it be said, he asked, that Great Britain had no interest in seeing the world war come to a peaceful settlement? The moment the Allies diverted themselves of their military forces they would be powerless to exercise the slightest influence on the course of events all over Europe.

The approximate distribution of troops, the minister said, would be as follows: In Great Britain, 176,000; in France, 120,000; army on the Rhine, 264,000; in Italy and adjacent regions, Mr. Churchill added, there would be 10,000 men, in order to adjust the lamentable differences which had arisen between Italy and the Jugo-Slavs.

WATERLOO MEETING WANTS ROADS NAMED 'PROVINCIAL-COUNTY'

[Special to The Advertiser]

KITCHENER, March 31.—The provincial Government will be requested to designate as a provincial-county road, the road between Wentworth County and Galt, Kitchener, Elmira and the north boundary of the county and include the same in the present provincial-county road system of Wentworth County.

At a meeting of the representatives of the various municipalities in Waterloo County here today including rural and urban delegates, which had been called by Warden D. W. Panabaker of Hespeler, it was decided to request the county council to take the necessary steps. It was also recommended that negotiations with adjoining counties be begun with the view of having other roads between this county and adjoining counties designated as provincial-county roads.

STRATFORD LAD TO LOSE SIGHT OF ONE EYE FROM ACCIDENT

Companion Threw Stone—Broken Glass Injured Lad.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

STRATFORD, March 31.—Neill Reynolds, 9 years old, will lose the sight of one eye as a result of a painful accident. With other boys, young Reynolds was throwing stones at a bottle, when one went up to the bottle just as he reached it a stone thrown by a playmate shattered the bottle. A piece of glass half an inch long lodged in his eye.

TANK BROKEN.

When a horse backed up in the yards of the Imperial Oil Company and broke one of the connecting pipes to the gasoline tank, upwards of 1,400 gallons of gasoline were lost before the leak could be plugged. The loss will be about $400.

VETERANS HOME.

Among a party of Stratford soldiers who returned home is Gunner M. L. Riley, who won the military medal. Others to return were W. J. J. Hayes, G. Packham, W. English, C. W. Allison, J. Stone, H. McLachlin, F. Walker, S. Thompson, T. A. Lowe, S. P. Waymouth, R. West, Orville Hall.

It was learned today that a new schedule of wages and working conditions of employees in contract shops in Ontario will be presented to employers at an early date. A feature of the men's demands will be an eight-hour day with ten hours' pay. There are several shops affected in Stratford.

KITCHENER WOMAN DIES.

Following an illness of five weeks the death occurred here of Mrs. Thomas Antrobus of Kitchener, formerly of this city. She had been visiting here when she was taken ill. She was 34 years of age and a native of England. Word came from New York of the death in that city of Mrs. Robertson, daughter of Mrs. Henderson of this city, and a sister of Major Henderson, city solicitor of Brantford.

SARNIA GIRL LANDS IN NEW YORK AFTER SERVICE IN FRANCE

Miss Irene M. Ellis Was With Medical Corps — City Engineer Arrives.

SARNIA, March 31.—Word has been received from Miss Irene M. Ellis by her parents, Col. C. S. and Mrs. Ellis, reporting her arrival in New York. Miss Ellis has been serving in the Red Cross Medical Corps in France and arrived on the president's steamer, George Washington.

Another Sarnia lad arrived home today, Gunner Gordon R. Spencer. Among others who arrived today were John Lang and Gordon Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cole. Malcolm Lang arrived home on Sunday at noon. Today two prominent young Sarnians, T. H. Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland Johnston and B. A. Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Johnston, were given a hearty welcome by a number of relatives and friends.

The White Star Line decision not to make Sarnia a port of call because of the $60 assessment imposed on their dock was left in the hands of the finance committee. Some of the aldermen wanted the assessment dropped altogether.

Air Cadets Say There Are 6,000 Pals Stranded Overseas.

EN ROUTE TO LONDON.

160 Troops off Empress of Britain from St. John.

TO DOCK TUESDAY.

CROSSING ATLANTIC.

Melita due April 3.
Canada due April 3.
Scotian due April 4.
Caronia due April 5.

All Coming Late.

Two parties of veterans will arrive in this city either tonight or early tomorrow morning. They are the men who arrived on the steamers Regina and Empress of Britain. The Regina men are coming on the Grand Trunk but will be switched over east of the city so as to arrive at the C. P. R. Quebec street station near the new dispersal station. They are due to arrive at midnight (railway time) tonight. There are 106 all ranks in the party.

The party of men who arrived on the steamship Empress of Britain are due to arrive one hour later. The veterans are coming straight through on the C. P. R., but will detrain at the Quebec street station. There are 160 all ranks in this party.

QUICK DISEMBARKING.

Halifax, March 31.—The troopship Regina again docked at 5 p.m. yesterday bringing 1,399 returning soldiers. Five minutes after the steamer was tied to the pier, the first of the men to come ashore were tramping over the gangway.

Anxious To Return.

The Regina brought 50 officers and 78 cadets of the R. A. F., 3 nursing sisters and 1,869 other ranks. The Regina left Liverpool at midnight of March 22, and the voyage across was pleasant, with only one day on which the weather would be called rough. The airmen are from Shorncliffe Camp, and one of them remarked to the Canadian Press that there are 6,000 in this branch of the service still overseas anxious to return at once. Recently 160 of them volunteered to come third class in order to get across without delay. This practice of going third class has been stopped.

NORTHLAND DUE TODAY.

HALIFAX, March 31.—It is announced that the steamer Northland will dock at 8 o'clock tomorrow. This is the Northland's first trip to Halifax since her December voyage, which was made the subject of an investigation by the authorities at Ottawa, following complaints made by the troops as to conditions aboard the steamer.

LOAD OF CIVILIANS.

OTTAWA, March 31.—The militia department has been advised that the steamer Melita, carrying 360 Canadian soldiers, all ranks, will arrive at St. John on or about April 3. She has probably a large number of civilians on board.

CHARGE OF RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS ARISES OUT OF THEFT CASE

Two St. Thomas Dealers Are Sent For Trial.

ST. THOMAS, March 31.—F. W. Pratt and Samuel Sheperd, two Talbot street dealers in second-hand goods, were today committed for trial on charges of receiving stolen goods, by Magistrate Maxwell. The men bought two bicycles from Archibald Granger, a youth who is awaiting sentence on charges of theft, they paid him $2 and $3, respectively, for the wheels when they are said to be worth more. Hence the charge.

Granger was the only witness examined this morning. He gave a disjointed story of traveling from Sarnia onto to Hamilton, to Jerseyville, Woodstock, Brantford, Dundas, London and finally St. Thomas. He rode his own bicycle to Brantford and sold it there for $16. He went back to Hamilton to see a show. Barrister Grant wanted to know why he didn't go to a show in Brantford. "Ah, there ain't any decent shows in that one-horse town," he declared, indignantly.

Barrister Grant wanted to know why he placed "Mr." before his name instead of signing it plain "Archibald Granger." The lad declared warmly that he was not a "hog" or "pig." "How's that?" asked Mr. Grant.

ADDED HONORS FOR PARENTS OF DEAD HERO OF CHATHAM

Survivors are the husband; two children, Freida and an infant son; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Henderson, of Rodney; two brothers and two sisters. The funeral will be held tomorrow.

PERFORMER INJURED BY FALL AT TILLSONBURG

TILLSONBURG, March 31.—Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Barnard have received word from their son Walter that he has been promoted to the rank of captain, the promotion dating from November. He is in the 3rd Division, which is now returning to Canada and will arrive home soon. Capt. Barnard went overseas as a private in the 7th C. M. R., and has advanced steadily through meritorious service. He was draughtsman in the local electric car works and a big welcome awaits him.

During the performance of Berzor's Indoor Circus at the opera house, the trapeze brace rod broke while a lady and gentleman partner were doing a spiral act. They fell heavily some eight feet to the stage, the man lighting on his head, rendering him unconscious. Dr. Bennett attended the injured man. No bones were broken, but he received severe cuts on his face and forehead and one ear partly dismembered. No serious results are feared from the injury.

PARLIAMENT ON OLD TIME, CIVIL SERVICE BRANCH ON THE NEW Rural Members Indignant at Railways' Action.

CLAIM THE LAW DEFIED

Sir Thomas White Awaits the Decision of Railway Commission Today.

[Special and Canadian Press.]

OTTAWA, March 31.—Sir Thomas White announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that it was the practice for the civil service, both inside and outside, to conform with local regulations in regard to time, so in Ottawa, the seat of Government, will exist tomorrow the anomaly of Government employees working on daylight-saving, and Parliament itself on standard time.

Parliament will stick to standard time, and be one hour behind Ottawa time until the railway board has given its decision tomorrow as to the action of the railway war board in making Canadian train schedules conform to those of the United States railways.

"Fire" Railway War Board.

The representatives of rural constituencies, who constitute the majority of the House, as shown by the recent vote, are not pleased over the recent developments, and are not disposed to see Parliament back down. One of them when questioned this afternoon declared that the Government should "fire the railway war board" for acting contrary to the opinion expressed by the Dominion Parliament.

Should the Dominion Railway Board decide that the daylight-saving act of last year is still effective, members of the Commons may accept the situation, but on the other hand, they may insist that the Government introduce a bill to repeal the act.

May Go to Supreme Court.

Friends of daylight saving point out that if the decision of the railway board goes against the railway they will be free to take an appeal to the supreme court on the question of jurisdiction, or of the governor-general-in-council, on a question of fact, in the latter case the solution of the difficulty would once more be brought arcund to the cabinet council.

Members are somewhat mystified as to why so many representatives of rural constituencies in Quebec Province voted for daylight saving. The most probable explanation is that they were not in receipt of many protests from their constituents, and were therefore free to follow their own personal inclinations.

The solid British Columbia vote in favor of the measure is said to be due to the comparatively large urban and mining population in the coast province, and the further fact that the railway and steamboat services in that province operate largely between Canadian and United States points.

Hear Arguments Today.

Tomorrow the railway commission will hear representations from all interested parties as to why the new time should not go into force on the railways. A speedy judgment is expected. Should it be favorable to the railways continuing on the new time there is bound to be an agitation from the farming interests to have the local trains at least run on standard time. Even against this the railways have strong objections. At the present time many of the early morning trains carry hosts of suburbanites into business in the cities and towns. Should standard time be adopted on locals the early running industries would be benefited, but the suburbanites would arrive at business one hour late.

Should an adverse judgment be brought down by the railway board then it is anticipated that the railway war board will appeal to the privy council on the question of fact and to the supreme court on the question of law. In the meantime delay would ensue.

Order-In-Council It.

If Sir Henry Drayton's contention is upheld then new legislation is not necessary, and if the cabinet, in view of the circumstances, feels like changing its mind, then all that is necessary is a proclamation by order-in-council.

After announcing that the civil service would conform to municipal time all over Canada Sir Thomas White said: "The House will meet tomorrow by standard time. After we have received official information of the action taken by the city of Ottawa and the decision of the board of railway commissioners I shall announce the course which the Government has to suggest with regard to the meetings of Parliament, having regard to the convenience of members."

STRATFORD MOVES CLOCKS.

STRATFORD, March 31.—Daylight saving came into effect here at midnight tonight, from which hour all local clocks advanced an hour. The city council this evening adopted a resolution authorizing the mayor to issue a proclamation calling on the citizens to adopt the new time, thus giving effect to the sentiment displayed at the public meeting on Saturday evening.

Today the city was working on two times. Newspaper offices, some schools, the G. T. R. shops and the postoffice were on the new time, but manufacturing concerns, the collegiate and public schools and business houses generally went on sun time. Tomorrow all will be changed again.

CONFUSION AT CHATHAM.

CHATHAM, March 31.—The change in time is causing some confusion here, as the postoffice, customs office, registry office and sheriff's office are observing the former time. The city has otherwise adopted the changed time in harmony with the railroads.

BACK KITCHENER MAYOR.

KITCHENER, March 31.—After considerable argument regarding the legality of the daylight saving bylaw, the city council passed a bylaw here tonight supporting the mayor's proclamation advancing the time one hour and also making binding the new time in connection with the bylaw affecting the hours of closing and opening of business places.

LAID OVER AT SARNIA.

SARNIA, March 31.—The city council tonight shelved the daylight saving measure. There seems to be a diversity of opinion on the question. Imperial Oil workers voted 651 "against," 337 "for" today. Mueller's workers were 66 per cent in favor, Perfection Stove, Cleveland Mills and Goodison's employees declared in favor of the measure, as did the chamber of commerce executive.

ST. THOMAS PERTURBED.

ST. THOMAS, March 31.—Confusion reigns supreme in this city as a result of the failure on the part of the city council to adopt daylight saving time. Railway employees are working on the new time, while other citizens working for concerns in the city are still on the old schedule.

Ald. Walker, in charge of the street railway committee of the city council, got his men together and informed them yesterday that they would adopt the new time on Monday morning.

A number of stores have also already adopted daylight saving time. The council will take action tomorrow night.

GALT FALLS IN LINE.

GALT, March 31.—At midnight Tuesday daylight saving will go into effect. The city council tonight passed a resolution without one word of discussion, instructing Mayor Mercer to issue a proclamation on Tuesday.

Some of the councilors who were opposed to hasty action at Friday night's meeting were convinced by their experiences today of the need of one time.

TILLSONBURG DEADLOCKED.

TILLSONBURG, March 31.—On the question of daylight saving a deadlock resulted. Mayor McQueen stated that the council had no right to proclaim daylight saving unless the population was unanimous, but, as much local trade is with farmers, the merchants did not like to make a definite decision. The council meets on Tuesday evening and till then no definite action will be taken.

In the meantime the employees of the Tillsonburg Shoe Company, Limited, and the Maple Leaf Harvest Tool Company, Limited, voted unanimously to adopt the new time and will start work an hour earlier in the morning. Business is badly mixed up, the hotels and ticket offices are using the new time.

WINDSOR ON OLD TIME.

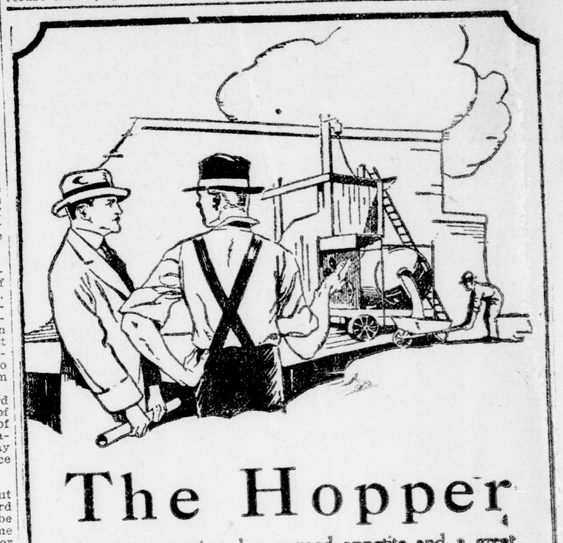

WINDSOR, March 31.—Windsor's clocks will not be put forward, a resolution offered at tonight's city council meeting failing for lack of a seconder. With the railways running into the city operating with clocks one hour ahead of Windsor time, much confusion is being caused businessmen because of transportation companies refusing to deliver freight on "slow" time. Windsor as last year may be in the position of being the only city in the province to refuse the daylight saving plan.

FINANCE MINISTER TO CONTROL GOLD EXPORT

OTTAWA, March 31.—Sir Thomas White has given notice of a resolution providing that the governor-in-council may, by proclamation, from time to time declare that the export of gold coin, gold bullion and fine gold bars from the Dominion is prohibited, except in such cases as may be deemed desirable by the minister of finance under licenses issued by him. The bill to be based upon this resolution when passed by parliament will give the minister of finance more special control of the export of gold. It is provided that this change in the existing law will be in operation only for two years after the termination of the war.

GOMPERS ON WAY HOME.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—American federation of labor headquarters received word from France today that Samuel Gompers and his party sailed for New York today on the steamer Rotterdam.

The Hopper

But all that goes into it must pass easily through the narrow outlet at the bottom. If the man on the job goes away and leaves the mixture to harden in the hopper—he gets fired—that's all.

It's easy for you to satisfy your appetite with food. But if you neglect yourself, and the food waste dries out, hardens and stagnates in your lower bowel—if you become constipated—your body machinery will suffer; and if you try to get rid of the mass by taking castor oil, pills, salts, mineral waters, etc., to force the bowels to move, you will only make matters worse.

You can't fire yourself for neglect. And you can't cure constipation by forming the habit of taking medicine every time you want your bowels to move. But you can overcome the trouble by taking Nujol.

Nujol brings about the habit of easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals, because Nujol is not a drug, does not act like any drug. Nujol brings about a return to Nature's methods by supplying necessary lubrication of the bowel contents, by facilitating intestinal muscular action, by absorbing poisonous matter, and thus securing necessary cleansing of the intestinal canal.

Nujol makes you regular as clockwork—use it, and you'll not have to worry about the size of your appetite or the ability of your body machine to get rid of dangerous food waste.

Give Him a Cascaret—Quick!

TO MOTHERS! Nothing else "works" the nasty bile, the sour fermentations and constipation poison so gently but so thoroughly from the little stomach, liver and bowels like harmless Cascarets. While children usually fight against laxatives and cathartics, they gladly eat a candy Cascaret. Cascarets never gripe the bowels, never sicken. Each ten cent box of Cascarets contains directions for dose for children aged one year old and upwards.

STANDARD HOUSES FOR SOLDIER SETTLERS

CHEAP HOUSES FOR SOLDIERS ON FARMS

Federal Settlement Board Has Planned Them.

Plans have been completed by the Federal Soldier Settlement Board for supplying standard houses to soldier settlers in the Prairie Provinces.

Four types are contemplated, ranging in price from $300 to $775, beginning with a moderately convenient and comfortable two-roomed house suited to the needs of a bachelor settler, which can be erected for $300. This house is 17 feet 10 inches by 14 feet, and is so constructed that as the home needs of the farmer increase he can add to it without waste of material used in the original construction. This house is called type A.

Type B is merely an extension of A, one room being added and basement excavated. This building, which has dimensions of 24 feet by 14 feet, when completed will cost approximately $590.

Type C is B with a portion of the roof lifted and an upstairs bedroom added. Total cost, $700.

Type D is the same as C with the remainder of B roof lifted and two extra upstairs bedrooms added. The cost complete of D is approximately $775. This type of house will give the farmer living-room, kitchen and parlor downstairs and three bedrooms upstairs. If in the course of time, he requires a still more pretentious home, plans are being prepared by the board for a wing, which will give him a much more commodious and comfortable structure.

Cheap and Commodious.

Care has been taken by the board's architect to combine cheapness of construction with utility. The plans and specifications were submitted to a number of the leading pioneer women of the west, whose suggestions were incorporated. The proposed houses have been indorsed by these women. When a settler is ready to go on his land, he has the opportunity of selecting the type of house he requires and he is given full particulars as to cost and the amount of lumber required for construction. As previously announced, the settler may buy from any of 1,200 lumber dealers in the west at greatly reduced prices. The settler may erect his own house, or he may ask the board to do it for him. In any case, construction will be under the supervision of the board's architect.

The plans have been made to meet the needs of settlers who may require a small and inexpensive house in the beginning. If at some future time he wishes to enlarge to B or C types, there is no loss of material. Everything in connection with the construction has been standardized with this idea in view. Plans and specifications of the four standardized houses will be supplied to soldier settlers at any time.

Built in Eight Days.

From three to eight day, according to the type, will be required to complete one of these houses, if building materials are on the ground. In the case of grouped farms, where a number of settlers may propose to locate together and build together, there will be material reduction in cost of construction.

The board also plans to erect standard stables and implement sheds at the lowest possible cost to the settler. A settler may get along with a small stable, say 24 feet by 12 feet, sufficient for the housing of two cattle and four horses, erected at a cost of approximately $200. The plans are so drawn that these buildings can be enlarged without loss of material.

With regard to Eastern Canada and British Columbia, where different conditions are found, the architect of the Board is planning suitable types for different locations.

HUSBAND DECLINES TO PROCEED WITH CHARGE AGAINST HIS WIFE

ST. THOMAS, March 31.—The charges of theft preferred against Mrs. Bertha Woods and William Blanchard, late of Aylmer, by Mrs. Woods' husband, were dismissed this morning when it came before Judge Colter in the county court. The husband refused to give evidence and expressed a desire to have the case amicably settled. The case was first heard at a preliminary trial before Magistrate Maxwell about two months ago. He committed them for trial. The charge was that they had stolen furniture and other household goods. W. Barnum, of Aylmer, appeared for the defendants.

COUNCIL TURNS DOWN 14 BIDS FOR BONDS; WILL READVERTISE

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WINDSOR, March 31.—Refusing to accept any one of the fourteen bids for $45,000 worth of paving and patriotic debentures because, it was explained, it is not advisable to have bonds sold at a premium, Walkerville Council at a special meeting tonight decided to reduce the rate of interest from six and one-half to six per cent and to readvertise for bids. The average bid was 4.50 above par. The council made a grant of $1,250 to the Border Chamber of Commerce to aid its work of securing new industries for the border district.

PURCHASE RAILWAY.

According to the terms of a resolution adopted by the city council tonight, representatives of the five border municipalities will be asked to attend a joint meeting to discuss plans and details for the acquisition by purchase of the Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg street railway.

NO ALLEY HOUSES.

Building houses in Windsor's alleys was made illegal tonight, when the city council passed a bylaw covering the construction of these dwellings, termed by one alderman, "human stables."

During the discussion on the bylaw, Ald. Hooper, one of the labor representatives, attacked contractors for using materials that made workingmen's homes nothing more nor less than "fire traps."

Mayor Winter doubted the advisability of passing the bylaw without more information, but eventually withdrew his opposition after explanations from Aldermen Howell and Strong, who both declared the evil of alley dwellings must be abolished if the city was to be free of slum districts.

FARM LAND CHANGING HANDS BRISKLY IN THE VICINITY OF BRUSSELS

BRUSSELS, March 31.—David and Mrs. Livingston of Moncrieff were presented with a fine Bible by the Presbyterian congregation of that place on the eve of their removal. Rev. Mr. Lundy, pastor, made the presentation on Sunday at the afternoon service. Mrs. Livingston made an appropriate reply.

At Western Star Lodge, No. 149, I. O. O. F., Brussels, an at-home was held at which one of the chief numbers on the program was the presentation of a veteran's jewel to John Pugh, now of Mitchell, marking 25 years continuous membership in the lodge here. An address accompanied the gift. Mr. Pugh replied briefly. After a short program, with William Clouse, N. G. in the chair, a tasty lunch was served. Western Star Lodge was instituted in 1874 and this is the fifth veterans' jewel presented. The membership is upwards of 100.

Numerous changes of farm properties are on the program in this locality and good prices are being realized. In the list are: Moody Holland sold 75 acres near Walton to Walter Davidson for $5,500. The purchaser disposed of his 100 acres to Leo McKay. Mr. Holland will remove to Alberta. The 100 acres of Henry Clark, concession 17, Grey Township, was sold to Howard Dougherty, price being $5,200. William Ellacott, concession 11, Grey Township, has passed over his farm to Percy Ward, the consideration being $5,500. William Scott has bought Andrew Laidlaw's 100 acre on the 8th line of Morris Township. In almost every case an auction sale follows the sale of land, and consequently there hase been a lively time with sky-scraping prices.

W. A. Grewar, who went to California last fall, has re-purchased his former grocery and restaurant business and is coming back to Brussels. He is an old resident.

Last week Reeve Plum went to Toronto as a delegate from town to interview Hon. Adam Beck relative to the prospects of securing hydro. Power will come from Eugenia Falls, and there are strong probabilities of the line being built this way.

Rev. Captain Appleyard, Woodstock, was here in the interests of the G. W. V. A. proposed here.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE LAMBETH BUS LINE.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Referrring to your article re "Lambet-to-London Motor Bus Service," in your issue of March 29, we big leave to correct some statements concerning this company.

In the first instance, we would like to draw your attention to the fact that the stock of this company (subscribed for up to the present) was not taken up by the farmers along the route of the bus line, but about two-thirds of it has been taken care of by the residents of the village of Lambeth, and is practically a community proposition; the balance has been taken up by some of our good friends among the merchants of the City of London, and, needless to say, the residents of the village are very grateful for the assistance, and wherever possible will show their appreciation by patronizing them.

We would also like to advise you that five round trips daily (except Sunday) is all that we will be able to make, except on Wednesdays and Saturdays, when we hope to make two extra round trips in the evening.

Our regular fare is not 40 cents, but will be 40 cents for the round trip.

A READER OF THE ADVERTISER.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I have often been tempted to send a line to you to tell you how much I appreciate your paper. I was a constant subscriber to the Globe for very many years, and it was with a great deal of reluctance that I gave it up. But I could not reconcile the stand it took at the time of the formation of the Union Government with its previous record. As I was considering what paper to take, a friend suggested The Advertiser. I enjoy the editorals, also the talks on the situation in Europe by Frank H. Simonds. Then the letters in the consumers' league are very interesting. The letter, a few days ago, on how to feed 18 chickens to make them pay was especially helpful. The daily page for everybody is full of interest. I think the common-sense advice Dr. Hitshberg gives is worth far more than the price of the paper. I have been wondering lately what has become of Winnifred Black? To me she is a most delightwriter. She writes for the most place of common everyday incidents, yet she shows, in her charming way, what an effect they have on our everyday life. Then, too, we have "Revelations of a Wife," by Adele Harrison. It surely is sweetness long drawn out, but I admire her for one thing especially, and that is her kindly treatment of her mother-in-law. I would like to say right here that I entirely agree with J. S. Gadd in his very timely remarks on the daylight-saving fad. I will just quote one sentence, "It meant the breaking of rest and slumber that we all have been accustomed to for a lifetime." This is the crux of the whole situation. The material benefit that may accrue to a few is far more than offset by the injury it has done to very many by upsetting the habits of a lifetime. I read with much pleasure H. F. Gadsby's description of the great God Tar Iff. Surely if the masses of the people only gave the matter a little serious consideration, they would awake to the fact that the tariff, as manipulated today, is best described as a huge carrion crow fattening itself on the very vitals of the people. Yours sincerely,

MRS. H. HOOPER,

ALIENS EMPLOYED; SOLDIERS IDLE.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

While five returned soldiers were making their way to the K. of C. Club, which the Catholic people of London have so patriotically placed at the service of such as they, they had the pleasure of seeing upwards of a score of men engaged on public work. This is as it should be, BUT is was Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock. A close examination failed to disclose a service button, and I am willing to bet each and every one of the men at work could converse much more fluently in any other European language than English. I at one time would have classed every one as Hungarian, although there may have been a few Italians among them. Now, of the five returned men: One, the writer has had a few days work, four to be exact, and that by an employer who did not really need him, but as he said, "I'll help you out," the work was got. The others have been looking in vain for work. Is THAT as it should be? I am afraid I see trouble ahead. Yours truly,

CANADA FIRST.

WHY WE SHOULD HAVE PROHIBITION.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Having read with interest the different letters which have been appearing in the daily papers for the past few weeks relating to prohibition, may I be permitted to expound my opinion upon the matter?

In the first place there is one outstanding fact which cannot be disputed truthfully by any living person, irrespective of profession or occupation, and that is, alcoholic liquor in every one of its different forms, as sold to the public for a beverage, is of no use whatever, and can be done without by anyone, on any part of this sphere. Any temperate or intemperate physician, if he speaks truthfully, will admit this assertion.

Of course, some people who drink will not admit this; on the other hand, there are a lot who do drink that will admit it, but they are unable to quit drinking. For what reason? Force of habit and lack of the necessary will power to combat it, and, as even the drunkard himself will admit, the more he drinks the greater his craving for it becomes, and the power of his will to oppose it becomes gradually weaker and weaker, until he arrives in such a state of alcoholic saturation that he says: "I must have it in order to live."

Now, strange as it may seem, this is true to a certain extent. I have seen hundreds of cases of this kind, handled some of them; and in one case lived in the same house for nine years with a perpetual drunkard (no relative, thank God), who eventually died because the supply was cut off, just the same as one who is addicted to the use of opium will do in the course of time.

This state of affairs exists throughout the whole civilized drinking or drug-taking populace of the world. Men and women are dying daily through excessive drinking. Homes are being ruined and wrecked, crimes of every description are being committed, children who once loved a father or mother are driven to hate the very sight of them, and often in their desperation, commit a crime themselves indirectly through the influence of drink in the parent. Insanity, dissipation and acts of the degenerate are in the majority of cases traceable to the effect of alcosol on the brain. Scores of different crimes resulting from its use might be mentioned here, but that would only make more space. The important thing to not is that nothing can be said in favor of liquor as a beverage in any form, if it contains any per cent of alcohol.

You will hear some people say: "We must have it to be used medicinally;" also "The doctor cannot do without it in compounding medicines." Now, Mr. Editor, this is all piffle. If a doctor or a druggist requires alcohol in the compounding of a prescription, he does not go to a bottle in his dispensary labeled Whiskey; he takes the one labeled Sp. Vini. Rect., commonly known as alcohol, 90 per cent, and which is used in the manufacture of nearly all medicinal tinctures, and the patient gets it in this form instead of whiskey.

It is true we cannot do without alcohol, but we can certainly do without whiskey, beer or wines containing it. As we have not yet had prohibition in Canada, we are unable to say very much about it. True, we are having a kind of prohibition, which is a step in the right direction, and which indicates that if the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor is prohibited, the people and the country will greatly benefit.

There is no prohibition if the manufacture is permitted, because it will be got illegally by those who crave for it, and as we already know, when obtained in this manner the result is more disastrous.

One more point before I finish. I have heard hundreds of drunkards say: "Why in h—— don't they stop making it? If I could not get it I would not want it." Here we see the evidence of weak will-power. Ninety-nine per cent of these men have not the power to resist, because they have already deadened it through excess, and, Mr. Editor, they are to be pitied. Now, the moderate drinker says: "Why should I vote for prohibition just because my neighbor drinks excessively?" I will answer that question for him. He should vote for total, bone-dry, absolute prohibition because he will assist his neighbor to better earthly conditions, because intoxicating liquors are no good for anyone (this cannot be denied), because 80 per cent of moderate drinkers eventually become drunkards, more or less, and because if the manufacture were not permitted the moderate drinker would cease to exist, which in turn would eliminate the drunkard and establish better conditions where formerly poverty, degradation and dissipation once existed, and in general the whole population of the country would materially benefit, both morally and physically. Thanking you for the space, Mr. Editor, I am,

PRO BONO PUBLICO.

THE LAMBETH BUS COMPANY.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Would you kindly inform me whether our city council has power to grant money to a private concern outside the city limits, the same as the above, without first submitting same to the electorate?

My reason for asking is that I see by the papers the city council has granted $500—since reduced to $300—to this company, which is a private concern, financed by shareholders.

If our city council has so much money to squander around, I, as well as others, think it would be more creditable to them, and more satisfactory to the taxpayer, if they would first expend some of it upon our unpaved city streets, which in some localities are a perfect disgrace.

We had the road grader on our street the other day, but the man on the job would not risk the lives of his horses, or his own, by grading from Edward street to the Wharncliffe road. As for the city engineer dumping a load of gravel or cinders on the street, that is entirely out of the question.

Yet we are taxed for street improvements. Yours truly,

JOHN W. D. WYSE.

WOODSTOCK CHURCH RAISES OVER $7,000 WITHIN ONE WEEK

St. Mary's Church Has Self-Denial Drive—Officer Returns.

WOODSTOCK, March 31.—At St. Mary's Church on Sunday evening, Rev. Father Stanley announced that the result of the self-denial campaign was that $1,583.25 had been brought in and the pledge cards returned by the canvassers show that the amount promised to be paid in during the year is $4,800.

This makes a total for self-denial week of $6,383.25. This is considered excellent in every way in view of the fact that a consistent and organized effort has been made during the past six weeks in the way of special memorials for the church and donations. For this purpose $8,804 has been received, which brings the total offerings up to $15,187.25.

LIEUT. W. F. TOBEY HOME.

Looking fine and in the best of spirits, Lieut. W. F. Tobey, son of Mrs. F. S. Ruttan, and a former member of The Sentinel-Review staff, arrived in the city yesterday evening after having spent over three years overseas. Lieut. Tobey enlisted in this city with the 71st Battalion and left here in November, 1915, in command of the first draft of that battalion. The returned lad is a nephew of W. J. Taylor, president of The Canadian Press Association. He came home on the Olympic.

MEDAL WINNER HOME.

Among those returned soldiers who arrived in Toronto on Sunday morning off the Cedric was Gunner "Billy" Levan, who is well known in this city, being a son of I. M. Levan, ex-principal of the Woodstock Collegiate. He went overseas with the 29th Battery from Guelph in February, 1916, having enlisted just after attaining his eighteenth birthday. Last year he was awarded the Military Medal.

TWENTY-ONE GALT VETERANS ARRIVE IN CITY IN SHORT TIME

GALT, March 31.—No less than twenty-one Galt veterans arrived in the city over week-end. They were met by representatives of the Soldiers' Aid Commission and in the party were Pte. Fred Moore, 33rd Battalion, who for two and half years was a prisoner of war in Germany, and Gunner Wm. Drinkwater, M. M., who is the second son of Mrs. Drinkwater, Water street south.

GALT MAN KILLED.

Pte. F. A. Blacklock today officially reported killed in action, is the son of H. G. Blacklock, who lives with his daughter in this city. Deceased was 29 years of age and was born in Milton, but had spent most of his life in Toronto. He enlisted with the 3rd Battalion, and was reported missing on May 10, 1915.

FORMER PASTOR SPEAKS.

Tonight in Knox Church, Rev. J. E. Mothersill of Montreal, former assistant pastor of Galt Chuch, gave a splendid lecture entitled "A Chapter in Khaki," telling of his experiences of three years at the front with an army medical corps.

KOREANS CHARGED WITH FOMENTING REBELLION PLACED UNDER ARREST

Press on Which Political Matter Was Printed Is Seized.

Tokio, March 27.—The American consul general at Seul made an inquiry recently into the arrest of Koreans in the employ of Americans, and charged with being connected with disturbances growing out of the independence movement in Korea, according to Seul dispatches. The consul general asked the authorities to justify these arrests and received the reply that the men had been taken in custody as Japanese subjects, in accordance with law.

Korean houses have been searched by the police, and a press on which political matter was being printed has been seized, the advices add. Certain Koreans, accused of being responsible for the issuance of the manifestotes were arrested.

FAMILY SLEPT ON WHILE HOUSE BURNED; DAMAGE WAS SLIGHT

ST. THOMAS, March 31.—A blaze in the roof of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Yokum on Ross street gave the fire department a rush job about 3 o'clock this morning. The fire started, it is believed, through a spark from a passing locomotive, and was first noticed by some workmen in the M. C. R. yards, who promptly turned in an alarm. When the firemen arrived the family were peacefully sleeping, and did not know that their home was in danger. The damage is placed at about $50.

Hogs—Fed and watered, per cwt, $20; f. o. b., $18@19 25.

Chicago, April 1.—Hog prices passed the $20 mark, upward bound, today, when they were quoted at $20 10 per cwt at the stockyards. The highest war time price was $21, last fall.

During the winter prices dropped slightly below $18, but have been advancing since the government minimum guarantee price was taken off nearly a month ago. At the United States bureau of markets this recent advance was ascribed to heavy demand, coupled with the fact that the winter run of hogs was largely shipped out during the winter, leaving the supply comparatively light until the new run of hogs begins in May or June.

Chicago, April 1.—Hogs—Receipts, 26,000; market mostly 15c to 25c higher than yesterday's average; bulk of sales at $19 85@20; top, $20 10; heavy weight, $19 90@20 10; medium weight, $19 75@20; light weight, $19 25@20; light lights, $18@19 60; sows, $17 50@19 25; pigs, $17@18 25.

Cattle—Receipts, 16,000; a few prime steers held higher, other slow, bids lower; choice she stock saeady, others slow to lower; calves slow to 25c lower; feeders steady; heavy beef steers, $11 75@20 50; light beef steers, $10 25@18 75; butcher cows and heifers, $7 40@15 50; canners and cutters, $5 50@10; veal calves, $12 75@12 85; stockers and feeder steers, $8 25@15 75.

Sheep—Receipts, 7,000; killing classes strong to 25c higher; no prime lambs here; feeders slow; lambs, 84 lbs or less, $18 25@20 25; do, 85 lbs or better, $17 75@20 25; culls, $14@17 75; ewes, medium and good, $12@15 25; culls and common, $6@12.

BOARD OF TRADE HOLIDAY.

Chicago, April 1.—This was a holiday on the board of trade today on account of city elections.

WALL STREET.

New York, April 1—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Shipping and leather shares, which featured yesterday's latter dealings, contributed to the firm opening of today's stock market, gaining 1 to 1½ points. Popular equipments and distilling shares were moderately reactionary, Corn Products losing a point. United States Steel eased slightly at the outset, but rallied on the strength of affiliated steels and Baldwin Locomotive. Rails were rarely quoted, and made little change in the first half hour.

1:30 p.m.—Relaxed money rates favored the further rise of the early afteenoon. Industrial Alcohol increased its gain to 6½ points, and oils and coppers became more active at 1 to 2½ points advance. Rails also hardened under leadership of C. P. R. and the grangers.

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning

We're not here long, so let's make our stay agreeable. Let us live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, and look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet, how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; The action of hot water and limestone phosphates on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of inside-bathing before breakfast.

Eyes Sore?

If your eyes or lids are sore; if they itch, burn or feel dry; if your vision is blurred, your eyesight dim; if you are obliged to wear glasses, go to your druggist and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Dissolve one in a fourth of a glass of water and bathe the eyes from two to four times a day. Sound, comfortable eyes and improved eyesight will make the world look brighter.

St. Thomas Body Would Also Kill Dogs Differently.

ST. THOMAS, March 31. — Mrs. (Dr.) Gray of the Humane Society addressed the finance committee tonight, asking for a grant for the work of the society. At the present time they have no means of financial assistance. They desire that a set sum shall be gronted to provide a suitable cage for catching stray cats.

A humane electrical appliance for destroying stray dogs, instead of the present gas lethal chamber, is also requested. They would also provide drinking fountains and appropriate rest lodge for stray animals. The disbursements of the society last year were $900. They have on hand at the present time $150.

The committee also raised the salaries of several city officials, including W. J. Shaw and Assessment Commissioner Freek.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food, are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach, and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating, or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments, and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antiacid, such as bisurated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist, in either powder or tablet form, enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.—Advt.

ARE YOU A WOMAN?
Women suffer more than men from far-sight. This is probably due to their spending so much time indoors in work requiring near vision. Neglected this will cause untold agony, nervousness and at times a total breakdown. Every woman should have her eyes examined to see whether or not she needs glasses.

TOM MOORE PLEASES IN COMEDY DRAMA AT THE PATRICIA

Entertaining Program Is Being Repeated Today and Wednesday.

True to life in its quieter phases, the play is a veracious chronicle of the ups and downs of a young man of wealth and his sweetheart, who moves in the same social sphere. When Harry Lathrop (played by Tom Moore), after a tiff with the girl, decides to jump at the first opportunity to work for his living, instead of spending his money in pursuing pleasure, he comes upon a man stretched out on a park bench. A newspaper covers his face.

Wondering if the fellow is drunk or dead, our hero lifts the newspaper and, satisfying himself that the stranger merely sleeps, his eyes fall on a paragraph. So interesting does this happen to be that he tears it out and replaces the paper on the man's face, leaving a breathing hole where he tore out the advertisement. What this is and how it changes the course of Harry Lathrop's life constitutes much of the play.

Chief in his support is the beautiful Seena Owen, an ideal foil in a comedy-drama of society such as is found in the new play. Best known for her Attarea, "The Princess Beloved," in D. W. Griffith's "The Fall of Babylon," Miss Owen surprises her admirers in the Tom Moore play by portraying a modern girl with equal charm and distinction. The beautiful gowns she wears as Betty Dalrymple in the latter play she wears with no less perfect effect than the barbaric raiment of the Biblical play. And her acting is as subtle and delicate as the new play demands.

Sydney Ainsworth, distinguished on the stage and screen, makes his first appearance in Goldwyn Pictures as the super-polished villain of "A Man and His Money." In this complex character he will scarcely remind his friends of the village know-it-all he created in "The Fortune Hunter." As Walter Randall, he is more like the man he portrayed in "On Trial," one of the notable screen productions enlisting his talents.

"INTOLERANCE" AT UNIQUE THEATRE

D. W. Griffith's Master Production Showing in London Wednesday and Thursday.

"Intolerance," the colossal spectacle which has achieved a triumph of art and which has changed the outlook of humanity, is showing at the Unique Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday at popular prices. It is the condensation of a thousand centuries of evolution. Don't miss it. You will see more drama than in all other plays presented here this season. A red-blooded romance, tense with the spirit of adventure—annihilates time and space—125,000 people fill its scenes—7,000 horses and 1,500 chariots add to the excitement. Babylon, the mighty—Jerusalem, the Holy City—Paris, the mediaeval siren—America, of the overwhelming-today are the features of its background. Men of valor—Houris of the Orient—heart-throbs and smiles—titanic struggles on towering embattlements—ancient luxury in its wildest excesses—are parts of the four great stories rushing to a thrilling climax that keeps alive the hope of redemption in the shuddering heart of man.

GERALDINE FARRAR SCORES BIG HIT IN "THE HELL CAT" FILM

In "The Hell Cat" Geraldine Farrar, international star of opera and screen, has the most compelling and fascinating role since her portrayal of "Carmen." In the thrilling, breathless tale of the great west, a western drama of the first water, the famous diva is seen in the most terrific conflict in which a woman has ever been involved on the screen. It is a Goldwyn picture, and was written by Willard Mack, author of "Kick In," "Tiger Rose" and other renowned stage and screen successes. Milton Sills plays opposite her. Capacity houses greeted all showings of this wonderful production yesterday, and there is no doubt but that the Majestic will be crowded again today.

Pancha O'Brien is half-Spanish, half-Irish. Her father is a Wyoming sheep raiser, and Pancha is loved by Jack Webb, the sheriff. Jim Dike, a well-to-do cattleman, covets the girl, although she will have none of him. To show he has the upper hand, Dike orders his Mexicans to cut the throats of O'Brien's sheep. The animals are slain, but Pancha surprises the men before they can escape, and the sheriff jails them. Because of this and the sheriff's success with Pancha, he and Jim Dike become bitter enemies. Dike swears to get even with them all—and win Pancha as well.

In the dead of night he goes to O'Brien's ranch and shoots down Pancha's father. Dike announces to Pancha that he has come to take her away. She puts up a furious fight, scratching, biting and kicking. But Dike overpowers her, binds her and carries her away on his horse. Then his men set fire to the ranch.

Powerless to resist her captor, Pancha is the victim of his drunken advances. Dike's squaw returns and discovers the white girl. Intent on revenge, the Indian is about to plunge a dagger into Pancha's heart when the latter awakes and explains the situation. The squaw realizes that it is Dike who must be punished., and dashes off to tell the sheriff of Pancha's plight. When Jim Dike and Pancha later leave the ranch, ostensibly to go east, a posse surrounds the buggy. Dike lurches forward from his seat, a dagger in his heart. Pancha proclaims herself his slayer and unworthy of the man she loves. How this climax is brought to a happy conclusion is the most striking moment in "The Hell Cat."

Few artists can inject so many laughs per minute into an audience as the two, male and female, who are playing at the Majestic. Anyone who can listen to them without having to hold their sides, must have been born on Blue Monday.

Harold Lloyd in "I'm on My Way" has a role which is indeed suited to him. He is about to be married to a beautiful girl (Bebe Daniels), and does not know whether to say "I do," or run the other way. After seeing the trials and tribulations of a married friend, and being made the subject of the playful ( ) pranks of his children he decides on the latter course. If "laughs by the bushel" was the aim of the producers they certainly succeed.

EVELY IN LONDON

of the Giant Clothing House, 120 Dundas Street, AND I'M GOING TO DO IT!---The "Movie Man."

Locked Tight as a Drum!

The signs are up—the door is locked—the windows in a bedlam—the inside of the store is littered with men's goods—carpenters are putting up tables—clerks are banking them and filling them high with all goods that men wear and love. Evely has his coat off—the cashier is marking down the stock.

Getting Ready for Thursday

A volcanic eruption of the biggest bargains in men's goods ever known in London. Evely is determined to sell out HALF the stock the first week. Thursday at 10 o'clock—you'll see—the door opens then. Women and children will be here, as well as brave men and stout boys, for there's no reserve—everything in this $50,000 stock is on sale.

Bargains Big and Abundant

When the door opens at 10 o'clock, Evely will give away 25c men's work caps for 10c. 10c toilet paper will go out at 6 rolls for 25c. 75c President style suspenders will go at 39c. 15c Old Dutch Cleanser will move out at 3 cans for 25c. Men's $1.25 negligee shirts I've marked 69c for quick sale. Men's $29.00 suits are tagged $14.69, or no sale. Men's $1.25 fleece-lined shirts and drawers I've put a 59c ticket on—and there's all sizes. I've marked Penman's No. 71 line Merino underwear (sold the trade over at $1.50), in all sizes, 65c a garment. The $1.60 balbriggan shirts and drawers, in pink and blue, I've signed these 29c a garment. The $2.25 men's work shirts I've priced $1.19. My business is moving stocks out the front door. Boys' $2.00 knicker pants will move out at $1.19—and there's all sizes, too. Men's 75c and $1.00 caps are 25c. Walker's $3.50 overalls and smocks are $1.75 a garment. You save on everything. $1.35 painters' white coats are 79c. Penman's 65c wool socks are 29c. The 45c black socks with grey heels are 5 pairs for $1.00. The $2.25 line of umbrellas are priced $1.35, and the $17.50 and $20.00 raincoats are all $8.90. Did I mention pants? Never had so many pants in my life to sell. $1.49 buys $3.50 men's pants, and all the new $6.50 and $7.00 spring hats are $4.49.

Tell You the Rest Tomorrow

Have your money ready. Come down and we'll deal at sight. Don't buy till Thursday. Until then, yours truly, THE "MOVIE" MAN.
