HALIFAX, N. S., THURSDAY, AUGUST 20, 1857.

Whole No. 423.

FOR THE PROVINCIAL WESLEYAN.

The Captivity of Zion. By the rivers of Babylon, there we sat down, In silence, in sorrow, and tears. We hanged our harps on the willows, to group 'Neath the weight of oppression and tears.

For oh! we are captives in a far-off land A land where the tyrant doth reign. No message of mercy, proclaimed on its strand, Ere saluted its blood-guilty men.

No temple is there, nor altar of God, Nor sacrifice offered for sin, Nor priest in his ephod, to sprinkle with blood Both the vail and the holiest within.

How gloomy the prospect presented around Each field of the bondage complains; and the herd's dull low, and the streamlets

All say that a despot reigns.

The monarch is there, despoiled of his crown The priest of his vestments is shorn. The prophet in anguish stretched on the ground Hath his garments all rent and torn

The delicate mother is there with her child; So delicate erst she hath been, As scarce to stand on the earth when In its lovely carpet of green.

Ah me! that mother hath sodden her child And eaten and laid sside A part for another meal; and is wild With anguish, and wounded pride

For a famine sore spreads o'er the land As a judgment sent from heaven And their enemies with cruel hand But stones for bread have given.

The sons of Zion, more precious far Than gold or precious stones, Are like unto earthen vessels there, And their value is not known.

Their faces are black with oppressive toil, And hope's fondest gleamings are o'er. Their sins and transgressions have made them

A spoil, and none saith restore,

In labour hard amid life's decay, The tale of their years is told. And ever they think of the bitter days, When they to bondage were sold,

But Zion shall be redeemed ere long. By her strong redeeming God; And her enemies with anguish stung,

And thou proud daughter of Babylon

When we look back to the first years of the Christian dispensation, we see men and the truth; believing in Jesus Christ as their Saviour, evidently changed in their nature and dispositions, and living holy, joyful lives, in the midst of many temptations and sufferings. The preaching of Christ, and province, and from city to city, unweariedly them that believe.

The Missionary Committee of Review.

The meeting of the Missionary Com mittee of Review this year, was marked by cheerful harmony, and strong hope, as also by the same features which cheered, to so reat an extent, the late Anniversary, name ly, the satisfaction at the extinction of the debt which has so long weighed upon the Society. The value of this result is great if regarded only as to its bearing on the Mission Funds, as they have hitherto stood : setting free the whole proceeds of the year for direct expenditure on the work, excepting always the portion, still too considerable. spent for interest on money borrowed each year for the outlay made in the months which pass before much income is received. A ship went out upon the sea, A noble ship, with gallant crew No bark could any safer be : The seamen all their duty knew But soon the night its darkness shed, The storm cloud deeper vailed the sky

The loosened winds with fury sped, The heaving waves rolled mountains hig No human power that ship could save-It sank beneath the angry wave. So I, from port of youth, set sail,

Upon life's ever-changing sea-" With splendid trim I can not fail. Sure where can any danger be Is not the sky most bright and clear No ripple breaks the ocean's swell-Then loosen now, for who would fear Spread every sail, for all is well-Speed on and win the proudest fame. The world's applause, an honored name.

O, changeful sky, and restless deep, O. fated waves, that mount so high, The storms with fiercest fury sweep, While winds speed on so tearfully; Dismantled now, I can but fear : Borne by the gale, I onward speed, No kindly hope remains to cheer; Ah, hopes so fond, but false indeed I gaze upon the heaving deep, In which I shall forgotten sleep.

In Debt and out of Debt. BY DOUGLAS JERROLD.

Of what hidious progeny of ill is debt the father! What meanness, what invasions of self-respect, what double dealing How in due season it will curve the frank open face into wrinkles; how like a knife it will stab an honest heart. And then its gave him her purse and the desperado rode transformation! How it has been known to change a goodly face into a mask of brass! How with the miserable custom of water; what toothsome in a dry crust; what ambrosial nourishment in a hard egg! Be sure of it, he who dines out of debt, though

Poverty is a bitter draught, yet may, and sometimes can, with advantage, be gulped goodness in the cup: But debt, however with a flaw in his jerkin, a crack in his shoe-leather, and a hole in his hat, is still the son of liberty, free as the singing lark serf out upon a holiday, a slave to be recreditor ?
