DALTON TRAIL

Will be Scene of Railroad Construction in the Near Future.

BACKED BY LONDON-EXPLORATION CO.

Boers Derail and Plunder Freight Train at Johannesburg.

LORD SALISBURY IS VERY ILL.

Dramatic Scene in Halifax Legislature—London Financial News Condemns Royalty Tax.

Victoria, B. C., March 31, via Skagway, April 5.—Mike King's Chilkoot and Lake Bennett railroad bill was not among those favorably reported on by the committee, but it was the Chilkoot and Klabin Railroad and Navigation bill which was favorably reported and which has passed its second reading. This undoubtedly means the building of a railroad over the Dalton trail starting near the mouth of the Chilkoot river 20 miles south of Skagway. The American franchise has been already obtained and the company has unlimited backing in the London Exploration Company, which practically means the Rothschilds.

Boers Are Busy.

Pretoria, March 30, via Skagway, April 5.—Boers derailed and plundered a freight train near Johannesburg last night.

Salisbury Ill.

London, March 30, via Skagway, April 5.—Lord Salisbury is dangerously ill from Bright's disease.

Ferriest Royalty.

London, March 31, via Skagway, April 5.—The Financial News contains an article on the future of the Klondike in which there is a strong argument against royalty. It says that the imposing of the royalty tax has greatly retarded the development of the country.

Commotion at Halifax.

Halifax, March 30, via Skagway, April 5.—There was a dramatic scene in the legislature today when a bill was introduced to abolish the upper house of the legislature. The bill brought out a great amount of discussion, but did not pass even to the first reading.

Sultan Story Denied.

New York, March 30, via Skagway, April 5.—The latest news from Constantinople denies the report that the sultan has fled.

TOLL BRIDGE MUST GO

Enough Money Has Been Paid for Crossing River.

An effort is to be made by the council to get control of the Williams and Howard toll bridge across the Klondike and convert it into a free public highway.

In the estimation of the council the public have payed toll long enough for the privilege of crossing the river and the members are unanimous in declaring that the bridge should be public.

The board of public works was instructed at the meeting last night to examine into the lease of the present owners and report what steps will be necessary to gain control and also to find out how much money it will take to purchase it.

The bridge as it now stands is not considered safe for traffic and an engineer's report as to its condition will be made to the council.

Should the council obtain control it is the intention to remodel and rebuild the bridge and make it into a safe free public highway.

Doing a Fine Business.

George Butler, of the Pioneer saloon, is doing a big business these days owing to the fact that last fall he brought in with him the finest assortment of liquors and cigars ever coming into this country. A special shipment of cigars is now on the way in to complete his stock in that line. At his place last night a party of revelers were ordering wine "ad lib," which by the way, is now selling for $10 a pint.

Prof. Parkes' moving pictures are still the rage at the Savoy.

SNOWSLIDE ON RAILROAD

Delays Dawson-Bound Traffic for a Day.

Skagway, April 4.—The train which left here yesterday morning; only got as far as Glacier, 16 miles out from Skagway, where a snow slide caused the rotary to topple over. The passengers and 50 head of cattle were brought back to the city late last night but started out again this morning, the line being clear.

The City of Seattle is just in with 150 passengers bound for Dawson. They expect to get in over the ice.

Actor Barrymore Insane.

New York, March 30, via Skagway, April 4.—Actor Maurice Barrymore has been taken to an insane asylum.

TORRENCE EN ROUTE

Hosher's Victim Left Skagway This Morning.

Skagway, April 5.—H. G. Torrence left for Dawson on the morning train today accompanied by his manager, G. M. Nation, and R. A. Wise. They will go on to Fortymile and Eagle where Torrence owns mining property purchased last year from the Alaska Syndicate and the Klondike Estates Corporation, Ltd.

Torrence says his civil suit against Hosher has been compromised, the latter paying over $13,800, all the money he had. At two different trials Hosher has been found guilty of embezzlement. He is now applying for a new trial with slim hopes of its being granted.

PREHISTORIC NOTHING

True History of Watch Chain in Hunker Creek.

The efforts of a Dawson paper to spring a sensation upon an intelligent public by stating that a watch chain had been found several hundred feet beneath the surface of terra firma on Hunker that was supposed to have belonged to a representative of a prehistoric race is the veriest kind of rot. A portion of a watch chain was brought up with a bucket of dirt there a few days ago, but its presence has been wholly accounted for. On Monday night succeeding the 17th of March, St. Patrick's day, a dance was given at the Arlington roadhouse on Hunker in honor of the memory of him who drove the snakes from Ireland. During the night a dispute arose between "Scowfoot" Murphy and "Sandy" McPherson as to St. Patrick's nationality, Scowfoot contending he was an Irishman and Sandy that he was a Scotchman. Mrs. Arlington of the roadhouse, who is partly of French extraction, backed Sandy by saying that St. Patrick was part Scotch and part French. The dispute waxed warm and at length Sandy jumped Scowfoot. Then Scowfoot didn't care a continental whether St. Patrick was a Plymouth Rock or a Clydesdale. He only knew he had been jumped, and he was there for business. Like the forces of Marco Bazaris they fought like brave men long and well and until they had torn much of each other's clothing off, biffed and swatted each other in the eyes until they were nearly bunged about, and in many other respects proved to an admiring crowd of spectators they were worthy of the respective names—Scowfoot Murphy and Sandy McPherson. During the melee the watch chain which anchored the watch of Scowfoot to his vest was broken in various divers and sundry pieces which were scattered over the ground thereabouts and on which a carpenter, in preparing the house for the joyful occasion, had scattered a lot of shavings. The next day a frugal miner gathered up a sackful of the shavings for the purpose of starting a fire in the shaft of his mine, and in the first bucket of dirt hoisted thereafter was found the links of the watch chain, blackened by fire, the "evidence of a prehistoric race."

The question of St. Patrick's nationality is still unsettled on Hunker.

Free Library Concert.

The free use of the Methodist church has been generously granted to the board of control of the Dawson Free Library for their grand concert arranged for some time ago. They are in need of money for the payment of necessary bills and for the purchase of more books, magazines and papers.

The concert is under the direction of Mr. Arthur Boyle and will be one of the best musical treats ever given in Dawson, Thursday and Friday, the 11th and 12th inst. are the dates fixed. Tickets are now in the hands of the following and ought to be purchased at once as only a limited number can be accommodated: Mrs. F. C. Wade, Mrs. Tysh, Mrs. Perkins, Mrs. Prudhomme, Dr. Hurdman, Messrs. A. F. Nicol, J. P. McLennan, P. R. Ritchie, Chas. Milne, Col. MacGregor, Reid's drug store and the Librarian at the library rooms.

Business Suspended.

If the saloons were closed Dawson would today have the full Sunday appearance; there being no courts, no schools and but little business of any kind in progress. All the banks the big stores and many of the smaller ones are closed. The postoffice and telegraph offices have each been open but a short time. Today is Good Friday.

BIG CLEANUP ON MONTANA.

H. A. Davis, of Discovery Claim, Tells of It.

Editor Daily Nugget: I returned from a short business trip to Dawson to my claim, discovery on Montana creek, on the first of April and expected to find, as I had left in my cabin, plenty of bedding and grub. But to my surprise I found I hadn't enough left to feed a jack rabbit. Before going away we posted a notice on the door for people to eat what they wanted, but to please disturb nothing. But they stole a fine fox skin robe, all our footwear and my last shirt.

I consider this a fairly good cleanup for the first one on Montana, and hope the perpetrators will be compelled to pay royalty on what they took.

H. A. DAVIS.

Demands Conceded.

The strike of workmen on claims 19 and 20 below on Hunker the former part of this week has been satisfactorily adjusted by the advancement of the scale of wages from $3.50 to $4 per day on No. 20 and on discovery, although the men on the latter claim did not strike for a raise. The several owners of the claims mentioned are Thos. Kirkpatrick, Curly Munro and Mr. Bonner. Between 30 and 40 men altogether quit work. None of them were re-employed but new men were secured and on increased wages. The wages on claim 19 were not advanced and the result is that only four or five men are now working on it.

Want an expressman? Ring up 197 for Hicks & Thompson. Special delivery in town. Stage and express to Hunker.

GENERAL FUNSTON

Promoted by President McKinley to Rank of Brigadier General.

PECUNIARY REWARD WILL BE LARGE

Aguinaldo Advised to Acknowledge American Sovereignty.

DECLINES TO BE INTERVIEWED

Five Natives Hanged at Manila for Murder of Archibald Wilson—First American Execution.

Washington, March 30, via Skagway, April 5.—President McKinley has promoted Gen. Frederick Funston to the position of brigadier general in the regular army as a token of his appreciation in behalf of the United States of Funston's daring capture of Aguinaldo. A delegation from Kansas, the home of Funston, waited on the president and suggested the promotion of their fellow citizen.

The matter of a pecuniary reward for Funston overshadows the question as to what will be done with Aguinaldo. The matter of a reward was before the cabinet today and no specific amount was agreed upon, but it is admitted that he will be very liberally rewarded.

Aguinaldo at Manila.

Manila, March 29, via Skagway, April 5.—Aguinaldo today conferred with five members of his erstwhile cabinet who advised and urged him to recognize American sovereignty. He has not yet announced his feelings, refusing to be interviewed or give out any statement as to the state of his feelings towards his captors.

Hanged in Manila.

Manila, March 29, via Skagway, April 5.—The first American execution took place here today when five natives were hanged for the murder of Archibald Wilson, the English superintendent of the water works. The motive of the murder, which occurred some months ago, was robbery.

A Good Issue.

The March number of the Yukon Mining Journal has just been issued. This is the fourth number of the journal and is in every respect the best number yet published. It contains 15 pages and cover. On the title page of the cover is a half tone picture of Chilkoot Pass during the rush of the spring of '97. Fourteen of the pages are devoted to reading matter and the following subjects are very interestingly treated at some length: "The Bonson & Ray Concession," "Winter Mining Operations," and "Is Mining on the Decline." A number of other articles also appear including the complete text of the decision of Gold Commissioner Fenker in the case of Trubill vs. Hauerma, McGowan and Agnew.

YUKON FORESTS.

Any concerted measures which may be taken looking toward the protection of the timber along the Yukon and its branches should be given all possible encouragement. The extent of the Yukon territory's forest resources are scarcely understood by those whose information has been gleaned from a steamboat trip between Dawson and Whitehorse. Along the Stewart river, the Hootalingna and other tributary streams, great stretches of heavily wooded country occur which, if properly utilized will prove of inestimable value in the future development of the territory.

One of the principal objects which in the opinion of this paper it is desirable to attain is the prevention of forest fires during the dry season. Certain ordinances are already in force covering the point in question but they have not served entirely to accomplish the required results.

During the past three summers forest fires, started in one way or another have raged in various parts of the territory and in this manner vast quantities of valuable timber have been destroyed. Carelessness on the part of prospectors and hunters has been accountable in a measure and such carelessness might be obviated in a large degree through the organization of a branch of the forestry association.

Next to the gold deposits in the territory our timber is probably the most important of all our resources. Without the latter it would be impossible to develop the former successfully.

It is most opportune, therefore, that something be done to prevent the extinction of our forest preserves before it becomes too late.

Five hundred applications for positions of chaplain in the United States army have recently been filed. There are in all twenty-three places to fill, but as each carries with it salary and extras amounting to a captain's salary, and as the chaplain has no need to come into contact with bullets and bayonets, it is not particularly a matter for surprise that there are numerous candidates to fill the vacancies.

A year ago at this time, water was trickling in the ditches leading to the river and the snow on the flat was disappearing at a very lively rate. There is now more snow on the level in Dawson than there was at any time during the winter a year ago and from all indications it is here to stay for some time yet. It is very fortunate that we have no peach and apple blossoms to be injured by late frosts.

Between Mrs. Carrie Nation and Gen. Funston, the state of Kansas is coming to the front in a wonderful manner. Carrie has smashed the saloon business of her state and Funston has done equally effective work with the Filipino rebellion. Kansas is not so slow as a great many people would like to have it appear.

The date for the free library concert has been definitely fixed and preparations for a splendid entertainment are almost completed. The purpose of the concert may well command the support and patronage of the public. The free library has done excellent work during the past winter and every effort made to increase the efficiency of the institution should be given liberal encouragement.

The possibility of a railroad being constructed along the line of the Dalton trail from Chilkat to the Yukon is interesting news. Railroad competition would do wonderful things for this territory.

When the impartial historian comes to record the story of the McConnell case he will be compelled to admit that in the opening skirmishes, at least, the victory was to the fair rather than to the brave.

An Opinion About Dogs.

Dawson, April 4, 1901.

Editor Daily Nugget:

Anxious readers of papers have been informed lately that a high authority in Washington, D. C., has settled the question regarding the origin of rabies amongst dog of this country: They were bitten by a rapid animal! If anyone was dense enough to assume that that disease was caused by the bite of a spail, a toad or a lobster or any other slow brute, and not by a squirrel, a speedy malamute or some other swift beast, he will now say no more about it and go talk about the weather or the next stampede. At any rate no more authorities are heard on this subject; but knowing for a positive fact that still some doubt lingers in the minds of some inquisitive people, who think a "rabid" animal is meant in this "ipse dixit" of the Washington oracle. I venture to intrude on your well known good nature with the suggestion that the previous question also extends to this "rabid" animal biting all the other dogs. It might appear as if we actually were as far in this matter as in the controversy, What was first, the hen or the egg? and some authoritative oracle had decreed, the hen, because she laid the egg. But as a matter of fact we are not, for a conclusion arrived at long ago by scientific men traced the origin of this disease to the suppressed natural tendency of the species in question to perpetuate the breed. If such were the case, it would be advisable for those raising dogs for working purposes in this country to take this into consideration and have dogs conditioned the same as horses and work oxen; the advantages are so obvious that no more need be said about it. Yours, N. J. S.

Dewey Did It.

Editor Nugget:

If my memory serves me rightly the word "Manila" was spelled with two "i's" previous to the American-Spanish war. What authority is there for now spelling the word with but one "i"? An answer will settle a controversy which has arisen regarding the question.

BONANZA MINER.

(The only reason that can be assigned for the change in the spelling of the word is, we suppose, that Dewey shot "i" out of "Manila.")

Whitehorse is in It.

Mr. Ogilvie reports to the department of the interior that up to date no extensive work has been done in the development of the copper lode near Whitehorse, but says it is expected that operations there on rather a large scale will be undertaken during the summer months, and it is quite probable that during the present year considerable work will be done at this point, making it one of the most important in the country. And from this he observes:

"We may safely estimate that Whitehorse will rival Dawson in the course of a few years."

Ultimately Dawson will have 10,000 or 12,000 inhabitants. The timber of the Yukon, according to Mr. Ogilvie, is fast disappearing, and probably within the next year or two a considerable import trade in lumber will be done. Coal is being extensively developed at several points in the territory, and will take the place of wood for fuel. The seams discovered and reported by Mr. Ogilvie in 1897 above Five Fingers are now being exploited. The quality of the coal is lignite of a superior class, but not enough development work has been done to speak further as to its character. — Toronto Globe.

A Raw Young Lawyer.

Some of the members of the bar were discussing contempt cases because of a recent notable event in the state, and one of the little coterie related a personal experience.

"I read law at home and had my examinations through a little country lawyer who knew a great deal, but never had a big case and was notorious for his ability in abusing justices of the peace. It may seem a preposterous statement, but I had never heard or thought of such a thing as contempt of court when I had my first professional experience in a common pleas court. No sooner had the opposition attorney made an objection than the judge ruled against me.

"I proceeded to inform him that he was wrong, that he knew he was wrong and that I wished he would quit his pettifoggery. The lawyers in attendance were temporarily petrified; the venerable judge glared at me over his glasses, finally smiled in a forgiving sort of way and told me to proceed. Very soon there was another well taken objection, and again he ruled against me. This practically took the props from under my case, and I went at the judge as my instructor had been accustomed to go at a justice of the peace in a back township.

"You honor," I declaimed, "is a political accident. In the eternal fitness of things you should be digging coal or cleaning out underbrush. You have no more sense of justice than a Zulu chief of mercy. Thank heaven there is a higher judicial tribunal in this state that— but there I was halted by a fine of $200 or 90 days in jail. The judge took me to his private room, where he learned my story and remitted the fine. To pay $200 at that time would have pauperized me. I now have quite a reputation for never rubbing the court the wrong way." — Detroit Free Press.

HOLDING THE TORCH TOO HIGH.

Goddess of Liberty, listen; Listen, I say, and look To the sounds and sighs of sorrow This side of Sandy Hook. Your eye is searching the distance; You are holding your torch too high To see the slaves who are fettered, Though close at your feet they lie; And the cry of the suffering stranger Has reached your ear and your breast, But you do not heed the wail that comes From the haunts of your own oppressed.

Goddess of Liberty, follow: Follow me where I lead; Come down into the sweatshop And look on the work of greed; Look on the face of the children, Old before they were born; Look on the haggard women, Of all sex graces shorn; Look on the men—God help us— If this is what it means To be men in the land of freedom And live like mere machines.

Goddess of Liberty, answer: How can the slaves of Spain Find freedom under your Banner While your own still wears the chain? Loud is the screech of the eagle, And the boastful voice of your drums, But they do not silence the wail of despair That rises out of your slums. What will you do with your conquests, And how shall your hosts be fed, While our streets are filled with desperate throngs Crying for work or bread? — Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

He Missed Her.

A speech which had a pathetic as well as an amusing side is said to have been made by an old New Hampshire man on the occasion of his second wedding.

"Neighbors," he said to those who had witnessed the simple ceremony, "you all know that this good friend that's consented to marry me is something of a stranger in our town. Now, I feel kind of insufficient, being only a man, to make her acquainted with everybody as quick as I'd like to. So I'm a-going to depend on you women folks," he added, with a confident smile at the members of the gentler sex, "to make her feel at home among us, just as my first wife would do if she was here today. I miss her considerable all the time, but more'n usual on an occasion like this!"

She Was Plain With Him.

Two women in the early part of the last century lived in Virginia. They were noted for their common sense, and many of their sprightly sayings are quoted and enjoyed to this day. They were both Methodists, and their house was a place of resort for the clergy of that denomination. Of one of the women, known as Aunt Sally, the following story is told:

She had a black silk dress which she was accustomed to slip on when she attended church. It seems that once, while conference was being held near her house, a Methodist minister who had enjoyed her hospitality and was saying goodby ventured to remonstrate against her use of costly apparel.

"Well, Aunt Sally," said he, "you have been very kind to me and my wife during our stay at your house, and we appreciate your kindness. We shall never forget it. But, my dear sister, before parting with you I must say that it has troubled my wife and myself very much to see you a devotee to the fashion of the world. I notice with pain that you wear your silk dress every day to church, contrary to the rules of our order, and I hope that hereafter you will refrain from such a display of worldly mindedness. I also hope you will pardon me for calling your attention to it."

"My dear brother," said Aunt Sally, "I did not know that my plain black dress was troubling anybody. It hangs up there behind the door, and as it needs no washing it is always ready to slip on when company comes or when I go to church, and I find it very handy. But, my dear brother, since you have been plain with me I must be plain with you. Since you and your wife have been staying here I and my cook have some days had to stay at home and be absent from church because we were doing up the white dresses of your wife that she might look well at the conference. Pardon me for explaining, and when you and your wife come this way call again." — Ex.

She Knew All About It.

"I was dining out one evening among a notable company of people, most of whom I knew only by reputation," says George Inness, jr., in The Home Journal. "I was assigned a seat next to a very charming and intellectual woman and did my best to entertain her. Said I: 'What can I talk about that will interest you? I have some little experience as a cavalryman. Possibly you may care to hear something about horses in the field.'"

"Why, yes; certainly," answered my fair companion. "I know a little concerning army life, and I once wrote a book called 'Boots and Saddles.' And then it dawned upon my poor, dull brain that I was talking to the widow of the great cavalry leader, Gen. Custer, so I said no more about horses or army life." — Ex.

Two Ways of Telling It.

Once upon a time a king in his sleep dreamed that all of his teeth fell out before him, one by one.

He summoned a soothsayer and asked him to interpret the dream.

The soothsayer said, "O king, the meaning of thy dream is—that thy family and relatives shall die in thy presence, one by one, till all are gone."

The king was very angry at that and sent the soothsayer at once to prison. Then he sent for another soothsayer and again asked for an interpretation of the dream.

The soothsayer made answer, "O king, the interpretation of thy dream is that thy family and relatives shall die, one by one, and thou thyself shall outlive them all."

With this answer the king showed approval and commanded that a present be given to the interpreter, and that he should be sent home with honor. — Ex.

WOULD PAY A SISTER'S DEBTS

A Pretty Story Translated From Hungarian.

Older Sister Under Sentence Died and Younger Girl Appears to Take Her Sentence.

The judges were in their places. Outside the fog weighed heavily upon the shapeless building, effaced the walls and glued itself to the windows, concealing their frosty flowering. In the hall itself the air was thick and stifling. It smelled of sheepskins, peasants, eau-de-vie, and the leaden ventilators in the upper glasses of the skylight turned slowly and slothfully. The jurors, too, leaned heavily against the backs of their chairs. One of them had closed his eyes and let his hand fall inert, lulled to somnolence by the monotonous scratching of the clerk's pen. Another tapped and softly beat the rataplan with his pencil on the table. The president pushed his spectacles to the tip of his nose and mopped his damp brow, his stern gray eyes, with a glacial stare, bent fixedly upon the door whence would issue the culprits in course of trial and on whom they waited to pronounce sentence. "Is there not still another one?" demanded he presently of the sleepy looking tipstaff at his elbow in a harsh, resonant voice. "One," responded the other; "a girl."

"H, crier! Bring her in then," said the president. The crier called, the door opened, the girl entered. A current of fresh air glided in with her and softly fanned the faces and tickled the lashes of the curious assistants. At the same moment a ray of sunlight pierced the shrouding fog and danced between the frosty etchings of the panes across the dusty walls and furniture of the Hall of Audience. "A girl," said the tipstaff—a child, rather, scarcely more than on the verge of maidenhood and so pretty in her little fur jacket embroidered with wreaths and blossoms and fitting like the skin the rounded waist, straight and slender as the stem of a young palm. Her black eyes were lowered to the floor, but her white brow was clear and unclouded. "What is it that you have done, my child?" questioned the president indifferently. The girl nervously rearranged the handkerchief that covered her head, caught her breath heavily, then answered, sighing: "My affair is sad, M. President; very, very sad."

Her voice, soft and dolorous, went to the heart like good music that even when one hears it no longer seems still to vibrate in the air and change everything by its mysterious influence. The faces of the jurors were no longer so morose. The portrait of the king and farther away still of the Judex Curie appeared to make to her from the silent wall benignant signs, encouraging her to bravely recount the affair, "so very, very sad."

"But see you," said she, "this writing. It will tell you better than I can."

Only she had first to seek it, to unclasp the buttons of her corsage and draw it from her bosom, a piece of crumpled parchment stamped and sealed with the ponderous official seal. "A judgment," murmured the president, running his eye over the paper, the judgment against Anne Bede, assigned to begin today a punishment of six months' imprisonment."

The girl nodded sorrowfully the handwriting, loosened by the movement, fell from her hand, and a heavy stream of her black hair all unbound veiled her features. It sought perhaps to shield them from the gaze of the tipstaff, for if she was white as a lily a month ago she was purple with shame at this moment.

"It is a week since we received it," murmured she in a broken voice. The court officer brought it himself and explained what it wished to tell and my poor mother said to me: 'Must go, my child. The law is the law, and one should not take it as a punishment.' I have come, therefore, to begin the six months' sentence."

The president wiped his glasses, then looked again, his cold stern gaze seeking the faces of his colleagues, the floor, the floor, the great iron doors, through whose grated doors fiery eyes seemed to sparkle and threateningly regard him. "The law," murmured he, "the law is the law!"

And he read anew the summary before him, the black, scrawling scratches across the white page, declaring, "Anne Bede condemned to six months' imprisonment for the receiving of stolen goods."

Meanwhile the leaden ventilator had quickened its pace and spun furiously. Outside the wind had risen, and now it shook the windows, whistled through the crevices and seemed to hiss remorselessly about the ears of the gaping crowd.

"The law; yes, the law is the law!" The head of the president bent affirmatively before this importunate voice. He dropped his eyes and touched the bell for the tipstaff.

"Accompany Anne Bede," said he, "to the house of the inspector of prisons."

The man bowed, the child turned obediently, but her little rose red lips opened and shook tremulously, as if words were on them that she could not speak.

"Perhaps, my child," said the president, noticing her distress, "perhaps you still have something to say to us."

"Only that I am Lizette—Lizette Bede, M. le President. Anne Bede was my sister, and we buried her, poor girl, a week ago."

"'Twas not you then that was condemned and sentenced?" cried the president, surprised.

"Ah, bon dieu, no! Why should I have been condemned who have never done harm to a fly?"

"Then why are you here, mad child that you are?"

Anne died while this business was before the royal table (the lower court of Hungary). "It was when she was lying in her coffin all cold and white that this order concerning the six months arrived certifying that she must submit. Oh, how she had waited and prayed for it and tried so hard to live to receive it! She had never dreamed of this, M. le President, and when they had taken her away with closed eyes, mute and deaf for ever, my mother and I told ourselves that we must repair the wrong she had done because of her fiancé, Gabriel Karloney. It was for him and without knowing it that she sinned, and we thought—"

"What, my child?"

"That to let her rest peacefully in her mortal ashes and that no one should say she owed them anything, that we must do as I said, repair the wrong done by her. My mother has paid the amende for the goods, and I have come, M. le President, to serve in her place for six months in the county prison."

To serve in her sister's place

"What innocence, what simplicity!" The jurors smiled broadly. The face of the president was no longer cold or ceremonious, nor was it precisely his brow from which he mopped the moisture with a large yellow handkerchief. "It is well," said he. "You were right, my child; but—but, now that I think of it—"

He stopped, frowned and seemed to reflect intently. "Now that I think of it," continued he, "there was an error in this affair. We have, my dear child, sent you the wrong document."

"The wrong document, M. le President?" faltered Lizette, raising her great, sorrowful eyes to his face with a gaze of heart-breaking reproach, "the wrong document?"

She could say no more, and the president himself was no less moved.

"The wrong document, my child, yes," said he firmly rising from his seat to tenderly pass his hand across the shining hair. "Beyond there" pointing to the heaven above them through the mist veiled window, "justice has given another verdict. Go now to thy mother and tell her from me that thy sister was not a criminal that Anne was innocent."

"Before God at least!" added he in a tone only audible to his own great heart, "before God, at least!"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

When to Select Diamonds.

"It may appear strange to you," said a diamond expert, "but damp, murky weather practically kills the diamond business. No dealer dare buy for fear of cheating himself. The purest white diamond will on one of these dark, foggy days take on a straw shade and to all appearances is off color. Always pick out a diamond on a clear day, but see to it that you have a good light on the gem, for many dealers tint their ceilings and walls a delicate hue, which gives the stone a bluish tint which it does not or should not possess in a clear light."—Ex.

GOOD LUCK TO PRIMROSE.

Was Given a Royal Sendoff at Whitehorse.

If any chechako had looked into the dining room of the Hotel Savoy last Wednesday evening he would very quickly have changed any idea previously held that this Northland was a crude and barbarous region. True, the occasion was a special one, namely, a banquet to Major Primrose on his departure for Dawson, and the best the town could afford was not too good to testify to the place that gentleman holds in the hearts of the people. In building and organizing the post here he has done good and effective work and in the many ways in which he came into relation with the public he has shown firmness and tact in dealing with difficult and delicate questions and has won for himself the respect and confidence of all. As one speaker put it, "Dour he may seem but like the Scotch thistle, behind a stern surface there is a heart soft and fine as silk."

The following were the guests: Majors Primrose, Wilson and Snyder, Dr. Patee, Capt. Crosby, Horriagan and Macginnis, Rev. J. J. Wright, and Messrs. Lay, Jackson, Mellott, Macaulay, Phelps, Miller, Preston, McLennan (R. P.), Lowe, Whitney, McLennan (Fred), Morton, Bridgeman, Tache, Dr. Cane, Shadwell and Peele.

Here might be repeated a good story being told at the expense of a local clergyman. One of the banquet flash-light pictures had been left on one of the tables at the reading room and when the boys began to gather for school in the morning one of them—a 7 year-old hopeful—was going over the picture to an interested group, pointing to the various figures he said, "This is Major Primrose—and Mr. Jackson—and Major Wilson—and Dr. Cane—and Mr. Wright—and gee whiz, boys, but that's a hot crowd." The evening was pleasantly spent in speech, song and story. The major is a man of deeds not words and would be more at home in storming a kopje than making a speech, but he replied to the address presented in a modest, manly way and seemed genuinely touched at the universal expressions of good will. Judging by the heartiness with which the songs were sung it should be known even as far as Tahkeena that "He is a jolly good fellow."—Star.

GAME ON HAND MAY BE SOLD

Moosehide Indians Object to New Ordinance.

On Ground That it Removes Their Source of Subsistence—James' Men Are Carniverous.

Another phase of the game question and one which has not been considered before was presented to the council last night by Major Wood.

Chief Isaac and the missionary from Moosehide had called upon him and asked him to present their side of the question to the council. The Indians are almost wholly dependent on the game they kill and sell for their maintenance and while they are allowed under the present ordinance to kill game for their own use, they are prohibited from killing for sale. This is their chief source of revenue by which they obtain their money to supply their other necessities and they say that to take this means of support away will work a great hardship on them. They therefore want the privilege to kill and sell game renewed to them.

Commissioner Ogilvie stated that this was a very difficult question; that the council could not allow the Indians to kill and sell game and at the same time prohibit the white man from doing the same. "They are allowed," he said, "under the present ordinance to kill game for their own use at any season of the year. However, the matter will be taken under advisement to see what can be done."

The committee appointed to report on the status of the game situation in Dawson submitted its report which was to the effect that an inventory of the amount of game on hand had been taken and it showed that there was on hand at the various meat markets and in storage about 5000 pounds of moose and caribou and the owners asked an extension of time in which the same could be disposed of.

It was thought at first that an amendment to the ordinance would have to be framed in order that the sale might be allowed, but after discussion it was decided to leave the matter with the legal adviser to take such steps as he deemed necessary to lengthen the time of sale.

The committee also reported favorably on the application of J. L. James for a license permitting him to kill one moose a week during the summer for his logging camp up the Klondike.

The issuing of the license was left to Commissioner Ogilvie with instructions to find out the number of men employed at the camp and the amount of meat necessary for them, as it was thought that one moose a week was excessive of actual needs.

ROUTINE BUSINESS

Transacted by Yukon Council at Last Night's Meeting.

The council held a very short session last night, only taking up and discussing the petitions and communications before it and leaving all the ordinances for a special meeting called for Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

Mr. Ellis, a man who has been supported by the council all winter and who has had some petition before the council at every meeting, last night wanted some money. It was a narrow escape for him that the council did not throw him over altogether for Commissioner Ogilvie had heard from good authority that he had recently had $200 which he had hoarded away. His petition was denied and Major Wood instructed to keep feeding him until navigation opens when he will be shipped to the outside.

A communication was read from a baker asking the council to purchase from him bonbons at $5 per hundred for distribution to the children on Easter Sunday. Communication referred to the board of education.

The medical health officer reported favorably on the application of A. R. Cameron, who wants to build a slaughter house at the junction of Bonana and the Ridge road. An objection was raised that if a slaughter house is built at that place there is a possibility of the water in the Klondike becoming tainted so the application was referred back to the board of health for a report on that phase of the subject.

Ruth Howard presented a petition for a drain to be built on Third street between Fourth and Fifth avenue.

Petition was referred to board of public works committee.

A communication was received from Mr. Gandolfo and others making a protest against people doing business on the streets in wagons, etc., in opposition to the tax-paying and legitimate merchants. This subject is to be taken up by the council in the matter of the licensing of peddlers, scow navigators, etc., hence the communication was referred.

The Bar Association presented a communication respecting the ordinance appointing official stenographers and requested that it be laid over for another week.

A communication from Comptroller Lithgow enclosing a statistical report of the peddlers and scow merchants' licenses issued last year was read.

Chief License Inspector McGregor tendered his resignation but as his successor, Mr. McKinnon, will be in next week it was decided to lay the resignation over until the next meeting.

A communication to have an ordinance drafted regulating the size of the tire to be used on wagons was read. This being a very important matter and one necessary to the protection of the roads, a motion was made that the legal advisor be instructed to draft an ordinance regulating the width of the wagon tires according to the amount of the load carried, basing said ordinance on the law enforced in British Columbia. Motion carried.

Wilson's motion to forward a memorial to the Dominion government regulating the scale of wages for all governmental work, and making the rate for steady employees $5 per day and transient labor at 80 cents per hour was again brought before the council.

As it is expected that the new commissioner has some instructions respecting this question, the matter was laid over until his arrival.

The council then adjourned to meet Saturday afternoon at 2:30 to consider the ordinances now before it.

Married Last Night.

Last night witnessed the consummation of another Klondike romance when the Rev. Mr. Hetherington united in the holy bonds of matrimony Mr. Chas. Molander and Miss Matilda Aiken.

Mr. Molander is proprietor of the Gem Bakery and an old sour dough, while Miss Aiken has just recently arrived from the outside.

Mr. Molander's cabin on Third avenue, where the ceremony occurred, was very prettily decorated for the occasion. Mrs. Compton assisted in the capacity of bridesmaid, while Mr. Peter Compton acted as best man. After the ceremony the company adjourned to the Gem Bakery where a most elaborate supper was served and when the happy couple were made the recipients of a number of handsome presents.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Warnicke, Mr. and Mrs. Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. Perkins, Mrs. Woodring, Mrs. Wilson, Miss Woodring, Miss Hallstrom, Miss Johnson, Messrs. McKinnon, Riddell, Shepherd, Smith and Creland.

Family Night.

Last night was family night at the Standard theater and a large and appreciative audience turned out to witness a very excellent performance of "Col. Raven." The first floor was well filled with spectators, and all the boxes were occupied. The leading parts as enacted by Alf Layne, Julia Walcott and Miss Vivian were well sustained and the support was particularly excellent. There were almost as many ladies present as men and the bright costumes of the former cast a distinctly roseate hue over the somewhat gloomy interior of the theater.

If the family night entertainments continue to increase in popularity it will be necessary for the management of the Standard theater to increase the present accommodations of the house.

Were April Fooled.

Between 40 and 50 men sleep at the Hotel Moulton on Hunker and about 2 o'clock last Monday morning three or four of the lodgers played the others a dirty Irish trick. Rising stealthily from their beds they quietly passed down stairs and out upon the veranda. A minute later there was a terrible crash followed by cries of "Fire!" Upstairs there was a hasty springing from springless beds and men fell all over each other in their mad rush to get down stairs and in passing out through the door the latter was actually torn from its hinges. Then some fellow out behind a dog house said "April fool" and with muttered imprecations the men filed upstairs and resumed slumber.

COMING AND GOING.

All of the various churches will hold services this evening at 8 o'clock.

Nine sacks of mail arrived last night but it was all local and paper mail. No outside letters.

Wm. Sutherland and Hugh Noble, of Adams gulch, are registered today at the McDonald hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Bates, of 27 below Hunker, are spending a few days in town and are registered at the Regina.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stanley and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Chappelle returned from their trip to Jack Wade creek yesterday.

Mr. Watson, superintendent of the N. A. T. & T. Co.'s coal mines near Forty-mile, is making Dawson a business visit today.

The cold weather still continues and every day makes the possibility of the river breaking up as early this year as it did last more doubtful.

Mr. Ross H. Moulton returned Wednesday from a six months' trip to the outside. He visited all the principal cities of the east including Salt Lake, Denver, Chicago, New York, Montreal and Ottawa.

Where the drains have been dug on the flat between Third and Fourth avenues on Fifth street, it shows the snow to be fully two feet deep and packed nearly as solid as ice. It will take the sun some time at its present rate of shining to make a material impression on it.

Mr. E. H. Elwell returned last evening from a trip to his wood camp 110 miles up the Yukon. Mr. Elwell purchased the timber right on an island which has an area of about 100 acres and which is situated about 2 1/2 miles above Half-way house. All winter he has had a crew of men cutting wood there and he says that they have 1000 cords piled up on the river bank.

A few days ago, when the thermometer went up to 60 above and the sun's rays were taking the snow off the ground it looked to the freighters as if they would have to discard their sleds and use wagons. The lowering of the mercury and the light fall of snow which accompanied it made sleighing good again and wagons were put back into the barns. It will only be a short time now until the wagons will be put into use again.

The Record Broken.

According to late news from Skagway the steamer Dolphin has broken the record for the round trip between Seattle and Skagway, having completed it in six days and twenty-one hours.

Vanderbilt Money.

London, March 20.—The Duke of Marlborough's plan to build a magnificent London house in Curzon street has been checked.

Although he bought the site, tore down the old buildings and had everything ready, he was stopped by the old English privilege known as "ancient lights," which prevents him from putting up a tall structure and shutting out his neighbors' window light. It is a legal right in England that where a man has enjoyed 20 years of uninterrupted light, nobody can shut it out without compensating him.

The duke bought the church property known as Curzon Street Chapel, a low one-story structure, which the congregation had abandoned for another home. Many sharp comments were made upon the duke's purchase of holy ground, because the chapel was a favorite place of worship for some of the aristocrats of Mayfair, and the Prince of Wales sometimes attended.

Back of the chapel is a small street with a row of dingy shops. The duke bought this property, intending to throw all into one, but the county council interfered and forbade closing the public right-of-way. The duke got around this, but certain neighbors possessing the right of "ancient lights" put in claims for damages. The duke might build a house as high as the old church, but no higher, without paying. The sums demanded were exorbitant, for the owners determined to get some of the Vanderbilt millions, so work was stopped. The chapel had been demolished and the ground cleared, but the site was boarded up, for the duke refuses to pay the extortionate sums demanded for "ancient lights."

From Paris to Dawson.

George Dupuy, representing Le Matin, one of the most influential journals of France, is in the city on his way to Dawson. He will spend a couple of days at Whitehorse and then go directly in, probably by means of a dog team. Mr. Dupuy is on an important mission. He is going to traverse the northern country thoroughly, and, in his own language, "take a note of everything—great and small." He will spend some time in Dawson studying life in the great mining camp, and then he will view the process of gold-taking in the surrounding country. He will then embark upon what he says is the most important part of his mission. Besides being a representative of the paper, Mr. Dupuy is connected with the French Geographical Society. The latter body has requested him to make a survey of the McKenzie river, to, as he says, correct some errors in the present map.

Mr. Dupuy is a young man, and has the suavity and gentility of the real Frenchman. He says he is just from Paris, where Le Matin is published, and calculates it will be a year or more before he will be back through Skagway.—Alaskan.
