Joash Repairs the Temple.-2 Kings II. 21-12: 16. (Print 12, 4-15.)

Commentary.—1. The reign of Jo-th (11, 21-12, 3). Joseph was the Dungest King to ascend the throne of Judan. Another king, Josian, began to reign at the age of eight years, while Joash was only seven. Jeholada, the priest, who was instrumental in placing Joash on the throne, deposing Athaliah, was in fact the head of the vernment during the earlier years of the king's reign. Under his guidance Joash did what was "right in the sight of the Lord," yet the "high places were not taken away" (v. 3). Altars and shrines on high hills for the worship of Jehovah had been used before the dedication of the temple, and they were still considered sared. The worship of the temple of the dedication of the temple. ere still considered sacred. The worship there performed was not ne sarily idolatrous, for sacrifices were offered to the true God, but there was a decided tendency toward idolatry in a decided tendency toward idolatry in such worship. The heathen chose high places for the worship of their delties. Jerusalem was designed to be the true centre of worship. Joash was a good king while Jehoiada lived.

II. A fruitless effort to repair the temple (vs. 4-8). 4. Jehoash—This is another form of Joash (ch. 11., 2; 2 Chron. 22.11). Said to the priests—Joash had probably reached young man-ash had probably reached young manhood when he gave the order here recorded. The king had supreme authority and had a right to command the priests. The matter of raising money for religious purposes was in the hands of the priests. All the money of the dedicated things—This includes whatever was devoted to sacred uses. was not coined at that time but the gold and silver were valued according to their weight. The latter clauses of this verse indicate the three cress of revenue for the support of religious system among the Jews. The money of every one that passeth the account—Rather, "that passeth the numbering," as in R. V., margin, This was the half-shekel required of all the men from twenty years old and up-ward, excepting old men and the Le-vites (Exod. 30, 12-16; Num. 1, 42, 45, 47), and was equivalent to about thirty-two cents. It had been neglected for years, and had been brok-en up by the sons of Athaliah, who from it the sacred things and deto idolatrous uses (2 voted them Chron. 24. 7). C. The three and twentieth year-Joash was now thirty years old. Some years and elapsed since he first gave orders to the priests to collect money and repair the temple, but the repairs had not been made. The amount col-lected was probably not large owing to the prevalence of idolatry, and all that was raised was used for the sup-port of the priests and the maintenance of the temple service. Perhans priests did not go at the task of collecting money with much energy, 7. Called for Jehoiada—Jehoiada was the high priest and upon him rested the responsibility of carrying out the orders. PRACTICAL SURVEY. Topic—Foundational reform.

I. The mission and work of Joash.

II, The result of Godly prepara-I. The mission and work of Jossh. The temple at Jerusalem had been the nursery and sanctuary of Joash when a child in hiding from the cruel Atherical the same and the same at the same aliah, and he was zealous for its hon-or. He signalized his otherwise ordinary career by laying this matter much to heart and taking it thoroughly in hand. He counseled Jehoiada. He incited the hesitating priests. He called forth the energy of the people. He would not let any slackness, on the part of those who should have been eager and diligent, constitute any serious hindrance. The project was be-coming and right. It was Judah's duty to protect and preserve the temple. It had suffered mutilation at the hands of Athaliah in order to construct the temple of Baal. Joash gave ample time for the successful working of his first plan which was proposed at the begin-ning of his reign. The general indiffer-ence to the old Jewish system of wor-ship, due to the corruption of idolatry, caused much lethargy on the part of people, which could be broken up only by some extraordinary method. There was widespread dissastifaction with the course pursued by the priests. Having abandoned plan, the king quickly unfolded his se-cond one, which was as simple as it was effective. The persistent and successful efforts of Joash to accomplish an object which was for the honor of true religion and which had not engaged the co-operation of the priesthood proved him worthy of true mendation. Royal proclamation made of the new plan throughout the land. In ordaining that the temple should be repaired, Joash directed how the funds for the work were to be obtained. The unique plan of using a chest was an advantage to the priests as well as to the people. It put the order, as a whole, above suspicion and reproach. Every piece of money was strictly accounted for. The expenditure was as noteworthy as the gathering. Following up the precautions to inspire confidence, was the appoint inspire confidence, was the appoint-ment of men to superintend the work, who could be implicitly trusted. His plans of gathering and expending the money set Joash in a favorable light.

markable instance of the cheerful giving of a voluntary offering.

II. The result of godly preparation. tion of a strong character in Joash. his life was conspicuous for the great pairing of the temple was at an end.

The first effort of Joash to accomplish enjoyed the sustaining help of the this necessary and praiseworthy task the godly priest Jehoiada. To him he owed his life in his infancy. To him he owed his instruction in boyhood. To him he was indebted for counsel in his manhood. Jehoiada sustained the hand of Joash in his work of repairing the temple. He did much to maintain the worship of God in the land against all reactionary influences, whether at court or among the princes or with the people. Few men have rendered such distinguished service to their cuntry distinguished service to their cuntry as did Jeholada. It required no small heroism to stand forth as a servant of Jehovah in the days of Ahaziah and Athaliah. To him the nation owed the preservation of its king, its throne, its religion and its temple. He was the man best fitted to occupy the throne of Juddah and therefore the best fitted to direct the boy king whose life he had guarded to the end, that he might perpetuate the family of David upon the throne of Judah. Jehoiada furnish-ed an example of influence exercised for good. He possessed three elements of success—power arising from his priestly office, piety, which gave him the principles on which to discharge his mission, and courage arising from his faith in God.

GARDEN AND ORCHARD IN THE FALL.

Don't let the garden go to weeds It ered, to plow the soil and sow This will give a good crop of straw next year—and rye straw is a crop worth while. Besides, during the winter, green rye can be mowed off each day and fed the hens. If rye is not wanted, grow anything else in preference to weeds.

Get down the scythe and cut down the weeds, especially those from the fence rows, along the roadside and other out-of-the-way places. Unless the weeds are killed they will go to seed, and next year the garden will be more thickly sown with these pests than ever before.

Rake up all rubbish. Nothing is so disgusting as an abandoned garden patch littered with refuse. Keep the place in order. This likewise applies to the orchard.

Turn the hens on the late garden plot after the crop has been gathered. This can be done a week or two before the rubbish is cleaned up. The hens will find much that will be of benefit seeds, worms and bugs. Then can be raked up what the hens have left.

Don't be a soil robber. There are no many who take from but seldom add sufficient to the ground. The where the soil is too rich very care. Now is the time to improve the garden spot. Manure plowed in the soil in the fall is like putting money in the savings bank.

Autumn is the time to set our scallions (better known as scullions). They should be sheltered by litter or frames to secure early spring growth They certainly are a relish in early spring, before the regular onions are ready for market. Spinach might be termed a winter plant, and can be sown in the autumn It should be protected during the win-ter with litter or straw.

There is no better dressing for trees, especially the plum, than wood All trees oecome more thrifty, and the fruit larger, if each season orchard is plowed. Cut off and burn the blighted limbs of the pear tree. Limbs that die of blight are not dangerous, as the fungus has also died. It matters little whether tree planting is done in spring or fall, if the tree is a good, hardy one, and the planting has been properly performed.

Always make the hole large enough so that all the small roots can be spread out and firmed with the soil. Nothing should be grown in the orchard that will prevent the cultivation of the trees.

The orchard should be moist. Fruit trees will not grow in a soil saturated with stagnant moisture. Don't plant too deep. Prune with a sharp, clean cut any broken or injured roots.

It is a mistake to plant too many varieties of fruit in the orchard.

Never plant when the soil is wet and sticky and always pack the dirt well around the roots Never allow any green, unfermented manure to come in contact with the roots.

Cut back at least one-half of the previous year's growth of wood when planting.
Cut out the diseased part of trees and burn. To allow diseased branch to lie in the orchard is apt to spread the disease.

When a tree dies remove it and as

When a tree dies remove it and as He should have full credit for the one luminous work of his whole reign, the repair of the temple. It affords a re-much of the root as possible. Leave the hole just as the work left it until ready to plant the new tree, which should be at least several weeks. Then fill in with good soil and plant the tree, tramping it well.

Always set the trees in straight rows. They are more easily cultivated and make a neater appea One-year-old trees are best for plant-

CAREFUL BUYING PAYS.

Success in farming is not entirely confined to production and marketing These are very important essentials, but there is one side of the business of farming to which many people do not pay sufficient attention The success of farming from a business point of view requires care in buying. It is one of the principles governing success in any business. The man who buys foolishly or carelessly throws away at least a part of his expenditure. He may pay more than an article is worth, through not giving sufficient attention to details. To avoid this every farmer should know exactly what he wants and should buy with that object in view. The more exacting the requirements the more need there is for care ments the more need there is for care in the selection. It is not always wise to refrain from buying needful articles that is false economy. Money well invested will invariably give increased returns and the satisfaction of lightened labor. Use judgment and in make ing the decision study all sides of the

Where manure is properly kept about 30 per cent. of its value should be returned to the soil. This is one source of profit in keeping animals.

Set your face toward diversification of crops. You will find it safe, provided always you diversify with intelligence. that 38-pound pigs required 293 pounds of feed to make 100 pounds of gain; 78-pound pigs required 400 pounds of feed; 128-pound pigs, 432 pounds; 226-pound pigs, 498 pounds; 271-pound pigs 511 pounds, and for the 330-pound hogs it took 535 pounds of food to make the 100 pounds of gain, or nearly twice as much as for the 38-pound pig. This emphasizes the importance of pushing emphasizes the importance of pushing the hogs from the start in order to make the most economical gains. It has been found at the North Dakota Experiment Station that April pigs can be made to weigh 200 to 250 pounds by November 1st.

There is a wash market for good butcher hogs, every day in the year. Remember that paint judiciously used will do more to improve the appearance of the buildings than any other investment requiring such a small expenditure. A few dollars invested in paint will enable you to hundreds of dollars in deterioration of farm buildings, implements, vehicles, machines, etc., and will make the place look like it was owned and operated by a progressive. It requires little or no skill to apply paint. Any intelligent person may naint the farm building. gent person may paint the farm build-ings and farm machinery.

It costs $39.52 to raise a one-year-old heifer, according to the two-year-old heifer, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. CARE OF LAYING HENS.

The irst thing is the foundation stock, which should be culled closely while young. The object of this is to eliminate ail the weak and interior specimens. When they are placed in the proder I mark the strong cnicks with a very intered paint, just enough to be seen leadily. When this is shed, I mark them again with baby-chick leg-bands, which are advertised in poultry papers.

Another culling takes place in the fall. The reason for this is, chicks molt four times before becoming matter hems, and this is guite a strain upon ihem, which some birds can not endure and remain strong for producing a good egg-yield. The culled birds I kill, seet or dispose of in some way. This rail culling is very necessary for these reasons. CARE OF LAYING HENS. The culled birds 1 kill, seel or dispose of in some way. This tall culling is very necessary for these reasons

1. They are weak and contract disease easily and expose the rest of the flock.

2. They are late in maturing, also, and are quite apt to produce late-maturing chicks.

3. If these birds are kept, they eat the profits which the strong birds produce.

the profits which the strong birds produce.

I have made these mistakes myself and know whereof I write.

Now the third culling should be for the breeder. This should be after shedding. All birds that have pale combs. slow movements, that sit on the roosts much of the day, and have rough, ragged plumake, quick and nervous movements, are most desired by successful breeders. This desired by successful breeders, which are the first essentials, of course.

These are the indications of health and vigor, which are the first essentials, of course.

Shanks should be large and full and of a pale yellow, after a year of egg-producert. The pelvic bones should be wide apart and pliable. The male bird should be active, alert for defense, standing erect and production. A high, close-set tall is another indication and characteristics should be the same as the hens' already described.

The pelvic bones of the male should be of the same conformation as the female in regard to width and pliableness, as the influence of the sire upon the process of

WINTER EGG PRODUCTION. WINTER EGG PRODUCTION.

The two fundamental factors in winter egg production are early hatching and proper care of the stock.

Pullets hatched early enough to mature and commence laying in October or November. can be relied upon to produce a good share of the winter eggs.

Close, warm quarters are not at all conductive to a good winter egg yield. Fresh-air quarters promote health and vitality.

Fresh-air quarters promote health and vitality.

Fowls can stand almost any amount of cold ao long as the air is dry; but cold, damp air must not be permitted in the house, as this is one of the principal causes of colds and roup.

In the fresh-air type of poultry houses the litter will remain light and dry, whereas in the closed, warm coops the floor and litter will be damp and fitthy.

The hens must have an abundance of good, wholesome food, and never he deprived of their full share. There should be an abundance of a variety of fred, but the fewis should be compelled to work for it. Exercise is of prime importance and is just as needful to a good egg-yield as is the food they consume.

good egg-yield as is the rood they consume.

The increased supply of eggs resulting from this feed will pay for all the time and trouble to son to prepare it. Proberly cured cut clover contains from ten to fifteen per cent, protein, and as involein is absoultely necessary for a product of the protein is absoultely necessary for a product of the protein invaluable is a green and as involved in the protein of the protein invaluable is a green from the protein of the protein consumed. The fowls relish them and there will be waste, as everything is consumed.

NOTES.

The King's Call and the Cavell Crime Have Their Effect.

But Disloyal Employers Are Causing Trouble.

London Cable -There has been a great increase in recruiting throughout the past week, according to a number of newspapers. The Manchester Guardian says that recruiting is now going on at a higher rate than any reached since the early months of the war. King George's proclamation and the execution of Miss Edith Cavell in Belgium both having been the cause of bringing many into the ranks. The increase, it is noted, is despite the fact that Lord Derby's scheme for calling on the men by sections, drawing first the unmarried and those not engaged in work connected with military production, has not yet been put inte operation.

The Guardian published messages from various towns reporting heavy enlistments. Manchester and Birm-ingham are included among the centres showing the best results

One of the chief obstacles confronting the authorities is the attitude of many employers, who, instead of urg-ing their men to join the colors, are not only refusing to grant them al lowances, as was done in the earlier stages of the war, but will not guarantee that employees who enlist shall be reinstated in their positions on their return. The matter is being in-vestigated by labor leaders, who probably will make a report to Lord

Arthur Henderson, of the Board of Education, has addressed a circular appeal to teachers throughout the country urging all those who can enlist to do so. Teachers, he said, must be prepared to make greater sacri-"There is a time," says circular, "when a man who is building work to guard against the destruction of the building itself. That

HUN GUNS AT HORSE GUARDS

Trophies of Victory at Loos Delight London Crowds.

Twenty-One Field Guns and Three Trench Mortars.

London Cable-With their silent muzzles pointing towards St. James' Park, the first trophies of the great offensive in France were ranged on the Horse Gusrds parade to-day. Twenty-one German field gurs and three trench mortars formed a war exhibit of the highest interest to Londoners. Not since Crimea and Indian Mutiny have guns captured from an energy crunched the gravel of the Horse Guards parade and pub-

And the two locked up the records and retired, rejoicing that they had found easy a solving of their troublesome

But early on the morrow came nessenger summoning Geoffrey to John's bedside in his eastle at Northumberland; where he lay ill of a frequent hecurring ailment caused by gluttony which later compassed

There was naught for it but to go. Geoffrey persuaded his mother to Journey with him a part of the way, and then take her course to London, where, by intercessions and threats, she was to endeavor to regain the icwel from Benedict, by promising a far larger sum than the Favorite had received; to be paid on his marriage with the Lady de Cokefield.

So poor Rosamund, a martyr to her maternal love, made ready, attended by Brother Simon and one nun, and set out at once, for there was no time for dilly-dallying with reluctant orides. The Favorite's precarious position v as at stake; perchance even now some officious courtier was already creeping into favor by his ministrations to the royal invalid; so, bidding farewell to his mother, as she turned off into the London highway, Geoffrey rode northward in a very bad humor; abusing and cursing his attendants until he was in much danger of getting a whittle stuck through him from behind.

Some days later Jocelin awoke from a long, deep sleep; weak, but with mind restored. During the time in which he was convalescing from the effects of the witch's drugs, Dame Margot came daily to the hut, demanding her letter; but her loud clamoring brought forth naught save a glimpse of the grim face of the witch frowning on her from the marrow lattice. And not once could her de mands, entreaties or tears induce the inflexible dame to open the door one inch, or reveal aught of the contents of the missive. Truth to tell, Bernice had mislaid it among the many odds and ends her great chest contained; and had neither time nor inclination to search for it while Jocelin was fil. Now that he grew better, she ascribed his speedy convalescence to her pow-erful charms and invocations, far more than to (what was no doubt the real cause) her constant administering of such herbs as were known to her rude science.

One morning, a fortnight after Rohese's departure, Jocelin sat making sandals for the journey back to the Ab-bey, for his illness had left unchanged his determination to return thither Bernice sat near by nodding over her distaff. Suddenly her swaying head became fixed; her body grew rigid, and the distaff dropped from her hand with a clatter which attracted Jocelin's attention, and caused him to rush to her side. She sat ashen and motionless, gazing into space, with her thin lips drawn tight over her toothless gums. It was a horrld sight. In vain did he chafe her hands, and lay away the folds of her gown from her throat He crossed the room for water, and as he turned again to the old woman's side, her body relaxed and she sank together on her seat, a crouching, mumbling heap.

"Woe, woe-Rohese, Rohese!" For some time she repeated these words, seemingly unconscious of her surroundings, but finally she cried excitedly to Jocelin:

"She's in the tolls, wight! They have her fast. A vision, a vision, by Hecate! I heard that she-wolf say unto her cub (they stood by written books outspread upon a desk). 'Think on the golden gain and golden girl thou shalt enjoy! I have her safe! Hadst thou not lain so low, my son, I'd learn of this long ere now. perchance, it is too late; and she is in some loathsome den in London town! Ah, why were witches born with hearts? I dare not try the circle of the rhomb again. Asmodeus flerce did threaten me, as I risked it thrice. No magic, black or white, can now avail. Thou must to London town in search of her."

"Thou didst but dream, dame! Pray God, thou didst but dream!" cried Jocelin. Ere she could answer him a great clamor arose outside. It was Margot is, and with him I doubt not we'll find the maid. I'll to the Bishop's," and donning her cap and cloak, she grasped her staff and was out upon the actionished pair in a trice.

"What—how now? Gossip Margot and witty Tom? Beshrew me if it ain't!" she exclaimed with effusive welcome. "The letter? Ah, 'tis bad, bad, doings dame, f go now to the Bishop's seneschal (a worldly wise wight, who's lived up London way) to ask him what he thinks best to do No. I'll tell thee no whit of it till I speak with him. And vex not thyself that I opened not my door to thee this long thile, for mine own familiar hath for some days been biding here. Soft-would'st like to spy him? Pec would'st like to spy him? Peep through the easement then, Margot; see where he sits by the fire. But make no sound, for if his glance but fall on ee, by paddock, thou wilt change into a toad."

Fear and curiosity racked Widow Margot. She longed to see what all the illage talked of with bated breath; winter nights, when the wind shricked high, many a dame would eay, "Aye, there's the witch of Ely's Mend a calling her." The widow Mend a calling her." The widow shuddered at the danger of the thing: widow yet felt that the honor of the thing, yet felt that the honor of the h and to satisfy her curiosity, she took one frightened peep. How Plants Breathe.

Plants have two experiences common to all living things, although they have none of the senses possessed by animals. They breathe the air and perspire. The leaves and stems of plants correspond to the respiratory organs of animals, and it is by this means the plants take in the air. Plants are chiefly water absorbed from the earth Of the 25 per cent, solid matter the principal constituent is carbon, nearly all of which is absorbed from the atmosphere by the action of minute bod-ies contained in the green leaves. Plants also absorbe oxygen, hydrogen and nitrogen from the atmospher through their leaves and also through their roots, All contribute to building up the organic structure of the plant. Used up moisture is given off by plants through their leaves, just as animals perspire through the perspire. mals perspire through the pores their skins. Calculations made as the amount of water thus perspired by plants show that the sunflower, only three and one-half feet high, gives off as much moisture as a man

Necessary Instruments On the Farm and in the Work Shop.

The choice of a file fo rany particular piece of work will be determined by the form of surface to be worked, the amount of material to be removed, the nature of the material and the finish to be left on the sur-

From the twenty different standard forms and cross-sections in which files are manufactured, the user must choose the proper form of file to best fit the work in hand. Next the amount terraine the size and coarseness of the file, the size being the length in inches of the file boay without the tang, and the coarseness depending upon the six grades of cuts-rough, bastard, second-cut, smooth and dead-smooth. The bastard and second-cut are the grades most used for general work and the smooth or dead-smooth for smooth finish work. All of these forms may be had as either single or double cut. The double cut file will bite more freely and leave a more broken surface than a single cut file

The nature of the material worked determines in a large measure the "life" of the file. A new file should never be used on very hard material, such as scale of castings and forgings or on hardened steel, nor should be used on soft tough metals or on thin edges where it bites too freely. Files should not be thrown into draw should be kept clean by brushing and should never be placed where the will rust, as that will ruin any file.

A good file handle is necessary for good work. In filing, the pressure is applied to the file on the forward back stroke, though the file need metal cutting tools, the pressu edge than just scraping over

SURROUNDING AN ARMY.

Turning the Enemy's Flanks and Rolling Up the Entire Line.

Those not familiar with military taetics have a very vague idea as to how an army is surrounded. It is generally believed that a commander who schemes to encircle his enemy with an impenetrable ring of guns and men must conceive some method of maneuvering his troops round to the rear of his opponent's army. It is possible, however, for a general well versed in field tactics to cleverly "roll up" a large body of troops by frontal attack alone. This is accomplished by means of flanking movements.

For purposes of example let us imagine two armies facing one another drawn up in two long lines. Behind one of the battle lines a body of reserve troops stealthily make their way over to the right. Their purpose is to make a sudden onslaught on one end of the enemy's line. At exactly the right moment, when the artillery fire is at its fiercest, the reserve troops violently at tack the forces situated at the extreme left of the enemy's front. The attacking force, owing to its overwhelming numbers, bends back the end of the assailed army. "It refuses its right," as military men say.

At the opposite end of the line a similar attack is launched, which has the effect of forcing back the enemy's An army which "refuses" almost at the same time its "left" and "right" wings is doomed. Unless a very speedy retreat is carried out the whole force is "rolled up," as both its flanks are forced back.

As the right and left flanks of the enemy give ground the attacking troops slowly force their way to the rear of the assailed army, closing in the while. The result is that within a few hours the defeated force is entirely surrounded, although in the first instance it was attacked from its front alone.-Pearson's Weekly.

DEATH CAP AND FLY CAP.

The Most Deadly of All Species of Poisonous Mushroom

The two most feared and deadly poisonous mushrooms the world over are the death cap (Amanita phalloides) and the fly cap (Amanita muscaria). These two species in the same genus have destroyed several emperors, a pope and probably average 500 deaths annually in various parts of the world, to say nothing of innumerable mambirds, reptiles and insects, the latter being almost wholly destroyed by poisonous fungi.

Of the two deadly species, muscaria is most easily detected by the layman. It is a large, showy mushroom, orange yellow in color, with what looks like warts over the cap. You see them in dooryards, where evergreens are growing, sometimes thousands of them, standing up, tall and splendid in the grass. Keep your hens in the henyard and your cow in the barn while these fellows are up, with their tempting appearance

The species Amanita phalloides can readily be avoided. Whatever the color of the cap, white or gray, the under side of it, the gills. are pure white. The cap may or may not be covered with warty protuberance. The stem terminates in a bulb, usually wholly or partially beneath the soil. If a large, deep chunk of earth is taken out around, the bulb invariably will be found setting in a cup. Handle a poisonous mushroom as freely as you like, but do not experiment with one at the table. There are other species. both in the amanita genus and that of lepiota, that closely resemble it and which may be deliciously edible. You cannot learn these differences from the books. Only an expert, with the several fresh species in hand, can teach you such differences.-New York Press.

The October meeting of the Women's Institute was held Saturday, the 30th at 3 p.m., and was one of the most interesting and wide-awake meetings ever held by the Institute.

Miss Ney gave a lesson on "Pictures," contrasting conventional and naturalistic productions, and led her listeners to see many points of beauty and harmony of construction that are overlooked by the casual observer.

Miss Mackay gave an address on "Women as Nation Builders." Miss Mackay's ability to present her subject forcibly is well known.

Miss Nellie Earl and Miss Marion Cornell gave a piano duet, and Miss Leita Kilborn of Brockville, sang a solo which pleased.

A collection of fruit, jam, jelly, and maple sugar, will be made by the Women's Institute in the second week of November. The village and sur-rounding country will be canvassed, and all sweets received will be sent to the Canadian boys oversea. Have a sealer ready.

A call has come for old kid, soft leather and old furs. These are used by factories in England, in the weaving of a material used for clothing the Italian soldiers who are fighting in the mountains. Look up your old kid gloves, tops of shoes and old furs, and give them to the ladies who will call next week-or send to the Library-

Old white cottor, cambric and linen (well laund: red), will also be asked

It has been decided to hold a military shower each Institute day. Anyone who wishes to contribute any article of comfort for our boys at the front, may do so, whether a member of the Institute or not, and each month a box will be sent. Articles suggested are : socks, towels, soap, tooth-brush, powder, writing paper, mitts, scarfs, handkerchiefs, sweater, underwear, gum, candv.etc.

The first shower will be for Hubert Cornell.

Each month, a "News from Home" scrap book will be made and forward-November "News from Home" will be collected by the pupils of the Righ School under the supervision of Miss Mackay.

Struck By Auto and Killed.

A boy named Reynolds, ten years old, was struck by an automobile and instantly killed in front of the residence of his parents on the Perth road, between Invenary and Westport, one night last week. The little fellow had been in the babit of running in front of cars and that night he must have misjudged his distance.

The car was driven by Wm. Mitchell of Westport, who was returning with W. B. Adams, of Westport, recruiting officer, who had been to Invenary on business with Lieut. Col. Ferguson. When the boy was struck the car was immediately stopped. Coroner Dr. Kilborn, of Kingston, was notified and after learning the facts released the driver and Mr, Adams and considered an inquest unnecessary.

Gun-Cleaning Accident.

Dr. D. C. Casselman of Morrisburg, is a patient in the General Hospital at Cornwall, having been the victim of shooting accident near Bainsville. He and a party of friends from Morrisburg were duck-hunting on Lake St. Francis and while in their camp one of his companions was cleaning a shot gun. The young man did not know the gun was leaded and in the cleaning process it was discharged. The charge entered Dr. Casselman's left arm and passed through it into his hip, shattering the bones and muscles and causing an ugly wound on the hip. His injuries, particularly those to the arm, are severe, but it is hoped that the arm will be saved.

The Late Mrs. H. S. Moffatt

The death of Mrs H. S. Moffat at her home in Jasper a week ago, was the culmination of an illness that extended over many months. A year ago she was hurt in a fall at the door of her home, and, although she suffered no apparent serious injury. she never fully recovered from its effects. Nervous prostration followed and depite all that could be done for her, she grew steadily frailer and weaker until the end came.

She was born in the township of Elizabethtown, the daughter of the late Stephen Scott, one of the wellknown men of the township in his day. After marriage to Mr Moffatt, they lived in Addison for several years, where they conducted a general store, and from there they went to Jasper, continuing the same line of business. She was a capable, kindly women and was held in high esteem by all who knew her. In Addison, she took a leading part in organizing a Council of the Chosen Friends of which she was still a member, and the funeral was attended by them in a body. After a service at the house, the remains were taken to the vault at Athens and later will be interred at New Dublin.

The Late Mrs. W. J. Green.

A very sad death occurred on Monday, Oct. 25th, 1915, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Slack, Lyndburst, when their second daughter, Jennie, wife of William James Green, passed away. Death was due to confinement. the child dying, as well as the wife and mother.

Deceased was about thirty - three years old and was married to Mr. Green about ten years ago. Of a sweet and gentle disposition, always bright and cheerful, she made many warm friends in the community where she lived.

The funeral service was held at the Methodist church, Lyndhurst, and was conducted by Rev. Mr. Wadell of Seeley's Bay, who took for his text the words from St. John's gospel, "What things I do now ye shall not know, but I will reveal to you hereafter.

The church could not contain near all the people who assembled to pay their last tribute of respect to their deceased friend.

The pall-bearers were six cousins of deceased.

She leaves to mourn, her husband, parents and two sisters, Mrs. James Webster, Lyndburst, and Mrs. Richard G. Arnold, Leeds.

Tuberculosis Sunday The date for the fourth tuberculosis Sunday in the churches throughout Ontario has been set for Sunday, 14th, November.

2150 ministers throughout the Prov ince will speak on what tuberculosis does, what it is, what the predisposing causes are, the immediate causes, the commonest ealry symptoms, how the disease may be treated and cured, how prevented suggesting wavs in which purents, children, churches working people and every one may help in combatting the dread disease, and lastly, giving particulars of the great work done by the National Sanitarium Association.

4000 Scouts and Cadets will attend in uniform at the churches in the towns where there are Scouts. The bovs will wear conspicuous badges, Tuberculosis Sunday' with a double red cross, emblem of the Crusade Against Consumption, and will distribute literature on tuberculosis to the congregatiors as they retire from the morning services.

That there is needless suffering and death right in our midst, through the scourge of consumption, is too well know to need argument, and not nearly enough is done to combat it. Tuber culosis Sunday should help.

A HELPFUL CHANGE

The tendency now is, on the great railway system, to make the time tables as simple and as clear as possible, so that the public will see at a glance just what is desired in the way of information. The C. P. R., for instance, in addition to the changes noted in this column, have adopted a new departure on the front page of the character than anything else. It is a time table a departure which is the time table—a departure which is the outcome of one of the many suggestions received by the company in response to the invitation issued some time ago from headquarters to the employees for fruitful suggestions as to improvements and betterments along the system. This is in the form of a notice in large black type, coloning cut notice in largo black type, soluting out when the general change in the time table takes place, so that the public will know to will know to a minute just how the schedule stands.

For instance, the notice reads:

This notice, meeting the eye on the present folders now in use, warns the public not to put faith in the latter beyond the date mentioned. This notice ill appear on the front page of the folder which precedes that which is to take its place, and will prevent any confusion by announcing how long the present folder is valid and when it ceases to be operative. Thus, those who do much travelling will know precisely when the time table changes, and who guest the changes, and when such changes will be genoral. This idea should prove helpful.

Passing of the Powers.

Translated out of diplomatic language, the powers in Europe meanteven now it is a strange sensation to speak of them in the past tense-Great Britain, Germany, France, Austria, Italy and more recently Russia, the six strongest riations in Europe. But now, in these ultra civilized days of sixteen-inch guns, submarines and neroplanes, the chancelleries must find neroplanes, the chancelleries must find a new shibbolch to take the place of the powers. As understood a year ago, no such things now exists. It died on the first of August and you may read its oblituary in the white, yellow, blue, and the other books of assorted outside colors and uniform recriminative content.—World's Work.

Do not dodge. Whatever the diffi-culties to be met, they are not made easier by trying to dodge them. In trying to dodge a missile from one direction you may come in line with one from a different direction. When we dodge trouble we are more than likely to get into other trouble no less easy to get into other trouble no less easy to endure. Look with courage on what must be met. Faced with courage, difficulties are half conquered. Better meet and conquer difficulties than to dodge them. Do not dodge duties that devolve on you. Duties performed add strength and dignity to character. It matters little what these duties are; though they be of the simplest and humblest, well and truly done, they acquire dignity. truly done, they acquire dignity. GREAT CHEMIST PRAISES ZAM-BUK

Methers Who Use This Famous Balm Have Backing of Science

Mothers who use Zam-Buk, because they have proved it to be a splendid healer, will be interested to hear the result of a test of Zam-Buk by Mr. W. Lascelles Scott, the great English chemist. He says:—"I have made an exhaustive analytical examination of Zam-Buk and find its active constituents are of exclusive vegetable origin. It contains none of the impure and irritating mineral drugs and animal fats present in ordinary ointments. The antiseptic and bactericidal (germdestroying) powers of this preparation are proved by my tests to exceed those of carbolic acid, yet Zam-Buk neither cauterizes nor inflames even a very sensitive skin, but ends skin disorders. "I have no hesitation in certifying the purity of Zam-Buk and its value for skin injuries and disorders."

Mothers who have not yet tried Zam Buk should profit by the above. Zam Buk is unequalled for eczema, cuts burns, ulcers, running sores, piles, cold sores, abscesses, chapped hands All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk

One Phase of Tolstoy.

In the "Reminiscences of Tolstoy" by his son, Count Ilya Tolstoy, are shown many phases of the great man's nature, this one among them:

"All exhibitions of tenderness were entirely foreign to him. I say tenderness in contradistinction to feeling. Feeling he had, and in a very high de-gree. During all his lifetime I never received any mark of tenderness from him whatever. Nearness and dearness with him were never accompanied by any outward manifestations. It would never have come into my head, for never have come into my head, for instance, to walk up to my father and kiss him or to stroke his hand. I was partly prevented also by the fact that I always looked up to him with such awe, and his spiritual power, his great-ness, prevented me from seeing in him the mere man, the man who was so pitiable and weary at times, the feeble old man who so much needed warmth

How Flow of River is Measured. If you see a man leaning over the railing of a bridge intently watching the river with a telephone receiver at his ear do not think that the man is trying to talk to the fishes or to a diver below the surface. He is probably one of the government's engineers measuring the amount of water passing under the bridge. This is done by lowering an instrument known as a current meter into the water at several current meter into the water at several points under the bridge to determine the speed of the water and by measuring the depths of the water at the same points. From such information the flow of the river at that particular time and height can be computed, and time and height can be computed, and vhen such measurements have made at a number of different heights the flow of the stream at any height can be determined. Then if a record of the height of the river is obtained each day from a river.

A PERFECT BREATH.

Proper Method of Filling the Entire Lung Cavity With Air.

It does not suffice to breathe pure

It does not suffice to breathe pure air. It must be properly breathed. All breathing should be done through the mose—never through the mouth—and, if possible, in the open air, or, at least, before an open window, and several times daily.

The passage of air through the nose has the advantage of being warmed and moistened and, in reality, filtered. While deep breathing has been so wised and written about during recent years, it is interesting to know that years, it is interesting to know that years, it is interesting to know that oriental teachers and philosophers have known and practiced it for generations. GERMANS SHELL BELGIAN FRONT

Change of Position of Bombardment Believed Preliminary to Attempt to Break Through.

IN CHAMPAGNE

Enemy is Still Trying to Regain Ground Recently Taken by the French.

Paris Cable says-The Belgian front again is the scene of marked artillery activity. After a period of comparative quiet, during which the Germans have devoted much of their attention to attempts to dislodge the French from their recent acquisitions in Champagne, the enemy has shifted a part of his attention to the front of Hetsas and Steenstraete, and to the positions north of Arras at the Boisen-Hache and about Roclincourt, and has directed against these points a bombardment which, because of its violence and duration may well be considered a preliminary to a project-ed repetition by the Germans of their ed repetition by the Germans of their attempt to break through the allied line at its western end.

The enemy evidently has not aban coned his efforts to regain the lost ground in Champagne. To-day he bombarded violently the French positions at Taiure and the Maisons de Champagne, the French guns replying syssuccessful reconnaissance, have destroyed a German trench on the Reichsackerkopf, and have repulsed a counter-attack which the Germans made to recapture the position.

Movement Grows in Germany Against the Barbarous Practice,

But Semi-Official Papers Uphold the Air Attacks.

Berlin Cable-The German press reveals for the first time the existence of a movement in Germany to end the Zeppelin raids upon open cities and the killing of innocent civilians. This movement is disclosed through articles condemning and bitterly denouncing the anti-Zeppelin agitation

The Berliner Morgenpost says this movement is "un-German," and adds: 'At the occasion of the last raid on London such hellish lire was opened on the Zeppelins by at least fifty batteries stationed right in the centre of the city that it becomes ridiculous to longer of London as an unefended town.

The Vossische Zeitung also denounces the anti-Zepelin movement in Germany, saying: The raids are of the most vital importance, and must continue in London if abandoned elsewhere. To make the Englishman feel, you must attack him in the weakest spot-destroy his property, his banks, his money, his spinning estab-

"This is best done by King Zeppelin. The character of the Englishman has long remained an enigma to many people, but those who have travelled outside of Germany read it correctly enough.

"If in the course of your travels an Englishman should hustle by you and tread on your toes you should never beg his pardon, for if you do he will treat you with the utmost disdain. If, however, you deal him a blow in the ribs, the Englishman will beg you most amiably to excuse him.

"This is the result of personal experience in the course of intimate dealings with Englishmen. We must amply personal experience to our warfare against England. Translated into good German, this means: 'Our Government muct repeat again and again with ever-growing violence the Zennelin raids on London and other English towns.'

BUILD ARSENAL

British War Office Would Like Plant for Big Guns.

Gen. Bertram Retains Post as Shell Committee Head.

Ottawa Despatch-With the object of determining the possibilities of production of neavy guns in Canada, Sir Frederick Donaldson and Gen. Mahon, representatives of the British War Office, are visiting the principal steel-producing centres of the Dominion. They are now concluding an inspection visit to the plants of the Dominion Iron & Steel Co., the Nova Scotia Steel Co., and similar industries in the Maritime Provinces, after which they will visit Montreal, Toronto and other cities.

It is learned that the establishment of an arsenal for the production of such cannon by the Dominion Government itself would be acceptable to the British War Office. This is now before the Government.

A Tengthy Cabinet council was held this afternoon, but no announcement was forthcoming.

The establishment of such an industry depends upon the ability of Canada to turn out heavy guns within a comparatively short period. The manufacture of these guns involves a lengthy process, and Mr. D. A. Thomas, representative in Canada of the British Minister of Munitions, was asked today how long it would probably take to equip factories to turn out such weapons, replied that while he could not say definitely it would probably be a matter of six months. Mr. Thomas and Mr. Lionel Hichens were present at a lengthy conference with the members of the Canadian Shell Committee this afternoon and to-night considering the tenders which have been received for the manufac-ture of the largest big shell order of eighty millions. These tenders are much more numerous than was at first anticipated. They are being tabulated and will be let in a few days, but it is not expected that an official announcement will be made as to the names of the successful tenderers.

Mr. D. A. Thomas, it is understood, will leave for England in a few days. He will be here, however, all day tomorrow. It is learned that any reorganization of the Shell Committee which may take place will involve the retention of Gen. Bertram as chairman. He has done splendid work and it will be recognized. It is also learned that Mr. Carnegie will remain as a

Aug. 10: "Drill night under canvas. It is a trifle in itself, but the endless threats of punishment for the smallest blunders make life unbearable. In the presence of the haughty and independent attitude of the non-commissioned officers, the men seem like mere ciphers.

Aug. 13: "Everybody is fed up with the war, and especially with the whole of the military regime. It was 5 o'clock in the afternoon before we got anything to eat, for we had to march past before Prinz Ettel Friedrich. The Prinz looked well and seemed in good spirits. Ae might almost have been having a treat.

Aug. 14: "In action. Awful fire. The regiment lost about 170 men. It is tupid to attack so strong a position, neuttered Captain B. All the same, it did not prevent him from firing on his own men.

Aug. 15: "In pursuit of the Russians. Worn out by excitement and hunger. Exuberant cheerfulness of the officers. Colonel, major, captain, laugh boisterously, their faces beaming and shining with fat. For us hardships, dirt and hunger. We are treated like criminals and worse. All of a sudden, for nothing, one is threatened a beating. The commissioned ranks, from Major Sillfried down, set the example. Everybody is discouraged. Men of peaceful nature are crushed, the passionate desire for peace amounting to physical pain." Aug. 25: "Lieut. Reinicke is never there when the firing is going on. When the danger is over, he rushes impetuously to the front. The whole company laughs at it. He is a grotesque sight.

"As soon as the attack Aug. 29: "As soon as the attack opened, the officer commanding the company, Lieut. Remicke, stayed behind, and nothing more was seen of him. Not only so, but the section of leaders and non-commissioned offileaders and noncommissioned one cers stayed behind the section, and groups advanced without leaders. Indescribable jumble. We had heavy losses, but one no lenger notice Sept. 21, when the diarist was transferred to the French front, he wrote: 'Lieut, Reinicke has got the Cross. It is the triumph of this vile regime of masters and slaves. As a regime of masters and slaves. As a result of our marches in Poland, many so are unchanged.

"In the Baltic Sea our submarine color-sergeant checks some of the lame men, threatens them, and puts them on extra fatigue, and even those who have swellen feet, of which the battalion doctor has advised them to be careful, are made to march incessantly. And if they flinch they are hreatened with extra drill in the afrnoon. Sept. 27: "One gets stunted intelectually. One has no longer a single idea except to keep going physically. Always the same longing for peace and before my eyes the spectre of the French front close at nand, with the horrors of its artillery fire. Lieu Reinicke has been druth since yes

PEABODY HORROR

Twenty-One Dead-Search for More Victims Proceeds.

Peabody, Mass., Report .- In the cavity within the blackened brick shell of what yesterday morning was St. John's Parochial School, men scarched to-day for evidence as to the cause of the fire, which cost the lives of twen y-one girls yesterday. Every corn r of the ruins also was looked over carefully, that it might be defin-ltely determined whether all the bodies had been recovered. Early to-day five | the mother placing the blame for the bcules remained unidentified at the girl's condition prior to her death on rooms of an undertaker, and five little girls had been reported by their families as missing. The undertaker expressed the opinion that the charred condition of these bodies probably would make positive identification

The search for possible additional bedies was renewed at noon, under the direction of Chief of Police Grady. The only fact that could be substantiated early in the day in this connection was that the flames originated in a small storeroom in the basement.

LONDON DID WELL

British Red Cross Campaign Fund Reache: $68,400.

London, Ont., Report.-London's delayed two-day campaign contribution to the British Red Cross Society concluded to-night with a record ap proaching the $70,000 mark. A dozen teams engaged in the work submitted their reports at a mass meeting held in the Masonic Hall, the total record-ed, though at that time incomplete, being $68,400.

The results were most gratifying to the gentlemen who banded together to assist the British Red Cross, and despite the fact that Londoners have contributed often and generously for patriotic purposes, the team captains declared that they were everywhere received kindly.

given officially on Sept. 14, were 381,-983. This shows a total between that time and Oct. 9, to 111,311, or a daily average of 2,271. Losses between June 9 and Aug. 21 averaged about 1,500 daily. The marked increase in the fall over the summer losses may be counted for primarily by the he fighting on the western front at time of the French and British fensive movement last month.

WORK OF HUNS

Great Seattle Dock Fire Blamed On German Sympathicers.

Seattle, Wash., Report .- Police and fire department officials conducted a thorough investigation to-day into the origin of the $500,000 fire which last night destroyed a pier used by the Dide Funnel lane of British steamers for shipments of provisions and supplies for England, Russia and Japan. More than a million collars' worth of freight, mostly imports from China and Japan, was in the warehous half of the contents of the building was saved. The fact that the fire started in piles of rattan, stored with other highly inflammable merchandise, in the same manner as two small blazes last Tues-day, caused officials to believe that the fire probably was set by some one who objected to the shipment of munitions of war for the Russian armies. The police centered their attention upon tracing the actions of D. Willmann, a longshoreman, who was ar-

From Typhus Epidemic in Serbia, U. S. Red Cross Head Says.

New York Report .- Serbia is still in great need of medical men, and will not have enough physicians, surgeens and nurses to care properly for her wounded, now that fighting has been resumed there, according to Dr. Ricaard P. Strong, nead of the American Red Cross Sanitary Commussion, who went to Serbia last spring. In an address to the New York county chapten of the Red Cross last night, Dr. Strong said that as relapsing and typhus are endemic in the Barkan States, the situation must be watched. and any outbreak of those diseases will require prompt and efficient measures to prevent another epidemic. "Therefore physicians will find plenty of relief work to do in Serbia this winter," added Dr. Strong, "Those going, however, should be aware of the fact that there are no comforts or luxuries in Serbia, and should go with he missionary spirit." Dr. Strong described the typhus epidemic in Sertia as the worst of modern times, and estimated the number of deaths there from that disease at about 150,003.

A Communication

Editor Reporter-An appeal was made to me by some of the young people about celebrating Halloween on Monday night, and to this I cheerfully agreed, with the understanding that operations were to be confined strictly to fun and that no damage to property would be countenanced. This was carried out, on the whole, in a manner that was enjoyed by all. It has been our policy to offer every facility for the enjoyment of the young people ail at the front and to insure prompt regret that a few of the baser sort within reasonable bounds, and managed to bring reproach and disfavor on otherwise innocent times of diversion.
