FREDERICTON, JANUARY 29, 1880.

THE GOVERNMENT.

The Executive meets to-morrow for the last time, before the session—in its life—we fancy we hear Mr. Blair say; but as he has prophesied so often and missed it we are not so sure about what he says. As this then is the last meeting, the programme will be defined and rounded off; and the papers may soon be expected to begin "forecasting" the policy of the government.

What that policy will be in detail no one perhaps knows at present; but we think all are agreed that the government should go as far as lies in its power to lend a helping hand to the stimulation of our native industries. In this connection the agricultural phase of the question would be a very important one. The people the Province over show a great desire to embark in wheat raising; and if the Government could help along this movement they would be doing a great good for the country. We are quite well aware that the revenues are small, and that it is only by the most painstaking economy that both ends are made to meet; yet the laying out of a few hundred dollars extra for the purchase of seed wheat would be a trifle compared with the benefits to flow from it to the Province. Last spring the Government peddled Sugar Beets all over the Province, but since the time the seeds were planted up to the present we have not heard a word about them. Let the Sugar Beet allowance next spring be added to the wheat allowance, and let the conjoint totals be trebled or quadrupled and the amount expended in the purchase of seed wheat adapted to our country. When the spring comes there will be hundreds of farmers who will not have a dollar to spare to buy anything; if these men were given a few bushels of seed wheat it might be the means of putting them on the way to a comfortable livelihood. We therefore suggest "Wheat Raising" as one item for the budget.

Stock raising too, is becoming to be a pet theme with our farmers; but so far it is only a project existent in theory. As yet it has been left to the farmers of Ontario to send over to England loads of fat leavers and sheep; while intelligent authorities from the Upper Provinces are of the opinion that the farmers from the Maritime Provinces have equally as good advantages for stock raising as they have.

We think the time has not yet arrived for establishing a model farm, but the Government should give all the attention and aid in its power to procuring good breeding stock. "Stock raising" we may be sure will find a place somewhere in the budget. From what we have said, and from what the Province has been saying of agriculture and stock raising of late, it is plain the Agricultural branch of our public service is now becoming of more importance. Yet the Agricultural department is the most ill-conducted of any in the service. In fact, it is only a sarcasm to call it a department at all. The official at its head, who by the way, knows just as much about agriculture as we do, is an entirely irresponsible character, who while ostensibly in the service of the New Brunswick Government, may be hired neck and limb, body and soul to Cossitt & Brothers, or some other foreign manufacturer; to the eminent disadvantage of our own manufacturers. Now could the Government not bring this department inside the traces, by attaching it to some other department? The office is becoming more and more important every year, and we think it has now fallen so far behind the requirements that the people will soon cry out for a remodelling. We should be sorry to disturb our beloved old friend, Mr. Julius L. Inches; but in a matter concerning the public interests, friendship and feeling must stand out of the way for the public good. It might not be too much to ask that a "reconstruction" of this department also find a place in that budget.

That old burr, the Legislative Council! What is the government going to do about it? Since the world began it has never transpired that any man has put the rope around his own neck and hanged himself to satisfy another. This is what the government asked those antiquated females to do last winter; but as is not at all to be wondered at, there were few found willing to play the part of felo de se. Hence the duty of choking them yet remains with the government. And having once pledged their faith by introducing the measure into the bill, that task yet remains to be tried or accomplished. We presume another attempt will be made this winter, but from what quarter the attack will be made, as yet we do not know. We have suggested that they be allowed to die out; but there may be something unconstitutional about this—which however we do not see. Once when the trunk loses its sap and begins to wither, dissolution at some day is its destiny. It is the fate of provincial Legislative Councils to die; and though the death may be lingering it is sure to come. Once the people ask that Legislative Councils be abolished, their dooms are sealed. If the question were put before the Dominion to-morrow, three-fourths of the people would be found to say Delenda est, unless, indeed, some clever demagogue succeeded in persuading the people that the moment Legislative Councils were abolished the back of provincial autonomy would be broken.

It is time now some of these old trees were pruned, and some of the old political beds thinned out. We should like, for the sake of the poetic effect, to linger over these momentoes of the past; and if they cost nothing there is no one who would cry out more readily than we to preserve them. Lost arts are good when it does not cost too much to keep them in the gallery. The Legislative Council is a lost art; and it costs too much to keep the collection before us.

The sins of the father, in Holy Writ, are visited on the head of his sucklings, son, and transmitted to the generations. The Government we have now are thoroughly repentant of the sins of their forefathers, and are earnestly endeavoring to read the right way in the light of their predecessor's wrong doings. With this the relentless Opposition ought to be satisfied, but they are not. The unfortunate David Main, Mr. Butler, of Queens, Mr. Willis, of the News, Mr. Covert, Mr. Blair, and Mr. Cottrell are under the impression a new party should be formed, and new planks laid down. It would be a nice government they would form sure enough, with Mr. Main as trumpeter, Mr. Blair for Attorney General, Mr. Covert for Chief Commissioner, Mr. Cottrell for Surveyor General, Mr. Willis for Provincial Secretary, Mr. Hutchinson for Solicitor General—it doesn't matter that he isn't a lawyer—and they could put in Mr. Butler and Mr. Barbaree and Mr. Fred Thompson as rulers without office. Wouldn't they be a lovely lot! There is not a boy in the city that would not gather on the grounds and snowball them out of the House of Assembly. These are the men who want to form the new government, and these are the men who are prepared to "upset" the old government on their railway policy. Now it is of that railway policy we wish to talk. We wish the man who first thought of it was in "Limbo" before he wrought his mischief. But the harm is done, and there is no use "crying over spilt milk." Had the present Opposition an existence dating as far back as the time when this law was passed, and had it then been in power, it would not alone have done as the Government of the day did, but it would likely have done ten times worse. If its blundering last winter was any indication of its ability to carry on a government or put one sensible act on the statute books, then indeed it is well they were not the Government. So there is no use in the Opposition setting up its howl about what the Government did when an enthusiastic and reckless public forced them into an inevitable position. The most we can do now is to make the best of our present plight; to carry on the Grand Southern, if the circumstances warrant it, and if not, then to say no, even though in consequence the heavens should fall.

We shall perhaps return to this budget again.

HIS EXCELLENCY the Governor General and suite will reach Halifax to-morrow morning. The cannon from the citadel will thunder a salute on his arrival; and he will be the recipient of general military honors. In the afternoon he will play curfew with the Halifax curiers, if the ice is suitable. When the "Sarmatian" is sighted, a royal 21 will thunder from York Redoubt and Georges Island; and when the steamer enters the harbor His Excellency will go on board the "Lily" to meet his royal wife. The party will leave for Ottawa on noon Monday.

PROFESSOR DE MILLS died suddenly at his home in Halifax Wednesday. Those who knew deceased, and read his brilliant works, or heard him on the platform, will regret that he has been cut off so early in a life which promised to be so useful to his fellowmen. Deceased was a Professor in Dalhousie College, and leaves a young wife.

The Grit papers all over, notably the St. John Telegraph have been publishing notices of Mr. R. D. Wilmot's resignation. Mr. Wilmot is yet in office, unless he has resigned since 2 o'clock to-day. Mr. Wilmot may resign in a few days and he may not. But should he resign we suppose St. John will be wanting another representative; indeed we believe the annexation vehicle of St. John has said "good words" for Mr. Donville; who would be to all intents and ends a St. John member. That is right; give all to St. John—what matters it about any of the rest of the Province!

Dr. Bergin, or as he is familiarly called, "Barney" Bergin, has been elected for Cornwall. The Dr. is a Conservative and beat his opponent by 200 votes. His opponent, by the way, was also a Tory; as there could not be found in the whole riding a Liberal with nerve enough to take the field. So much for the Grit cause in Eastern Ontario.

We hope the Government will order the grant of that lot and the mineral spring to the man Jones at this session. There is no reason why $8000 should be lost to the Province when the reservation would bring nothing in return.

We have some interesting information on the Grand Southern Railroad, which we shall publish in our next; also a letter from Manitoba which we shall use as soon as possible.

The Beauty of Devonshire.

(Temple Bar.)

I should like to send every one with a sore heart or a weary brain to drive about the lanes of Devonshire in the early summer. There is not a bank which is not a feast of beauty—beauty not awful like that of the cliffs, not melancholy like that of the moaning sea, but like that of childhood; loving and pure as if it were pure from heaven. There are, no doubt, in many places rare ferns and rare plants; but it is not they make the charm. No! It is the thousands of primroses, the fields and beds of blue hyacinths, the masses of red campion, all growing together in every hedge-row and upon every bank; in the midst of clumps of shining hart-tongues, and clumps of asplenium, mingled with the beautiful cut-leaved ivy and the yellow green spurge, and everywhere sprinkled over with the silver stars of the elegant little white stitchwort. It is these common things growing in such wonderful profusion that make a beauty that steals into your heart and soothes and comforts it like a word of love—a beauty which, like the songs of the birds, fills you with an emotion you cannot clothe in words—redolent of the tenderness which makes the sparrows its care and bids us behold "the lilies of the field."

The Prince of Diplomats.

(Temple Bar.)

Reclined on a rich velvet fanteuil, or on a chaise longue, M. De Talleyrand—his flowing curls, now powdered and scented—would listen in silence, and in a kind of cat-sleep, to the lively chatter of the ladies who grouped around him, who cared more to amuse him than to amuse themselves. It is singular that one known to have been habitually so silent a man should have left a reputation for brilliancy in the social circles. From his habit of nearly closing his eyes—a habit that grew upon him as he advanced in years—he soon became, have appeared even an attentive or interested listener. His drooped eyelids and the smile on his face would rather seem to have indicated a mind occupied with some dreamy thoughts of his own. Yet when, occasionally, rising from his seat, or changing his position, he opened his eyes on the company, with a glance full of malice, but not of ill nature, and uttered some piquant remark or amusing bon-mot, (which he had, doubtless, been meditating), he gave, in a few words, a concentrated reply as it were, to the whole conversation. And usually it was so fit, so appropriate, that it expired itself in the memory of its hearers; unlike the wordy declamation which, as a noise in the air, floated away from Mme. De Stael's admiring audience without leaving a trace of its meaning in the mind. How little has been recorded of Talleyrand's conversation that is not in the form of an epigram or bon-mot. Even in diplomatic conference he spoke very little. His colleagues guessed his opinions rather than learned them from his words. And he never would argue; but after listening with an approving, almost deferential air—as though thankful receiving information—he gave his opinion on the question at issue; always, however, in the fewest words possible, and generally, as was deemed the perfection of cautious and wise diplomacy in that day (and the practice may even in these virtuous times be not wholly extinct), in a form that admitted, by a straining of terms, of some difference in explanation, should he afterward think it expedient to alter his views. Even in his own private circle he would play whist or billiards; and he was fond of both—for hours, without uttering a word that was not strictly required by the game. He revived at his receptions the old French fashion of supper, and they were suppers at which Brillat-Savarin often assisted. Talleyrand never par-took of them, but it was then he most usually departed from his silent system, and shared in the sprightly causerie of his guests. On these occasions, Mme. Grant, who, less strict in her regime than Talleyrand, enjoyed the supper immensely, was accustomed to indulge in her most brilliant sallies. Simpleton as she was reputed to be, her remarks were often sufficiently stinging to bring two or three notes to Talleyrand next morning, enquiring whether such and such observations made by Mme. Grant had not been made aze intention.

In the Desert with Russian Soldiers.

Preparations for the ensuing winter are being made, writes the correspondent of the Daily News, with the Central Asia Russian expedition. I say ensuing, because up to the present the weather we have had during the day would be considered in England warm for July. The nights are bitterly cold; but this is often the case in far more southerly latitudes, and a heavy drenching dew begins to fall about an hour after sunset. Were it not for this dew, a tent might be dispensed with; for this latter is but little protection against the cold. Such of the officers as can provide alochka the circular felt hats styled kibitkas by the Russians, inhabit them in preference to tents, and in most cases the floor is paved with square, flat, glazed bricks, brought from the ruins of the ancient Greek settlement of Mershed Minrahim, situated between Chatte and Dazul Olum. Both for officers and privates, the wearisome monotony of daily life must be exceedingly trying. Camped in the midst of a barren waste, relieved by the milky, whitely stream that winds sluggishly by, with no prospect on which the eye can rest, save the dead, dull level of the plain, with its heath-broom like shrubs, sparsely scattered, and its vast horizon ever quivering and shifting in the mirage, one feels lost as in mid-ocean, and the mind is apt to take its tone of dreary vagueness from the surroundings. The officers usually take refuge in gambling—even to a greater extent than is usual among a nation exceedingly addicted to the vice. The soldiers have a partial refuge in the daily labors entailed on them by the routine of camp duty, but notwithstanding most find the long hours hang heavily. In the evening they amuse themselves with singing. After sunset groups of forty or fifty men assemble, and to the accompaniment of a drum and cymbals change wild songs in chorus. Sometimes one man sings a solo, the others joining in the refrain. The effect is tolerably pleasing; but as it is seemingly always the same, and as the melody is monotonous, it begins to grow tiresome after a while. The Cossacks are an exception. Their songs are musical though wild, and very various. Far into the night the din of drums and cymbals floats across the desert, and the weird northern chants ring in one's ears, even when one has fallen asleep, despite the uproar. These simple Russian peasants, who form the bulk of the army, are exceedingly good material. Under every hardship and privation they preserve an invariable good humor. They are obedient and willing to the last degree, and seem possessed of the insouciance which is considered so favorable an element in the mass of an army. I have rarely seen a quarrel among comrades, and have invariably found them kind and obliging to strangers. They are well fed. Twice a day an excellent soup, which is first tasted by the commandant of each battalion or squadron, is served out. They have plenty of bread, but I cannot say the same thing of it as of the soup. To my mind it is exceedingly good material. Under every half-baked dough of bitter taste. With a squeeze of the hand you can mould it into any desired form. Sometimes the soldiers prefer drying it either in the sun or over a fire. It then becomes a rock-like mass, which is probably digestible when the eater is blessed with exceptionally good teeth.

The Florence Nightingale of the Nursery.
The following is an extract from a letter written to the German Reformed Messenger, at Chambersburgh, Penna.

A BEEFEACRETS.
Just open the door for her, and Mrs Winslow will prove the American Florence Nightingale of the Nursery. Of this we are so sure, that we will teach our "Susy" to say, "A blessing on Mrs. Winslow for helping her to survive and escape the griping, colicking, and teething stage. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP relieves the child from pain, and cures dysentery and diarrhoea. It softens the gums, redness inflammation, cures wind colic, and carries the infant safely through the teething period." It performs precisely what it professes to perform, every part of it—nothing less. We have never seen Mrs. Winslow—know her only through the preparation of her "Soothing Syrup for Children Teething." If we had the power we would make her, as she is, a physical saviour to the infant race. Sold by all druggists. 25 cents a bottle.

Lebanon.
By all odds the largest operator on Miramichi waters is Mr. Wm Richards. He has over two dozen camps, 100 pairs of horses, 400 men, and works on the Taxis, Sisters, Burnt Land, Kane, Salmon, and other tributaries of the S W Miramichi. He expects to cut 22,000,000 feet this season.

Musical.
A very large number of those interested in music assembled last night in the Temperance Hall. Mr. Snow's system was shown by a number of charts and by some juvenile choristers under his direction. It is many years since such a talented musician as Mr. Snow has offered his services to the public for anything like a reasonable rate, and we think his efforts should be appreciated.

Grip.
Grip's Almanac has been lying on our table for some time. It isn't the least bit stale however. The volume is neatly printed and full of spirited sketches that have a world of significance in them. We congratulate Grip upon the "make up" of his new venture, and hope the returns of the season will be very scarce.

—Mr. J. Holland Snow has established classes for instruction in vocal music at Gibson. A meeting of those interested will be held in Logan Hall to-morrow evening.

VOICES FROM THE FOREST.

NOTES FROM MR. H. BRAITHWAITE'S DIARY—LUMBERING—AN OLD TRAPPER TELLS US HOW HE MET—WHAT HE SAW IN THE WOODS.

Mr. Braithwaite left this city three or four weeks ago for the lumber woods to the interest of Guy, Bevan & Co., who are large lumber operators in several parts of the province. The following are a few "notes" we obtained from the diary:

"My route lay from here to Stanley; thence to Taxis River; on to Main South West, up Burnt Hill and Clear Water to the head of the Sisters; Thence along to Rocky Brook, Little and Great Dunganen, and to head of Renous River.

On Taxis Guy, Bevan & Co. have fourteen spans of horses. The contract here was for 4,000,000; and they have that amount now; in consequence of the lowness of the contract, and the risk of the deal market, they have suspended operations till a new contract be made.

At Burnt Hill Henry Neals has four spans of horses; Craig & Foster four spans; and Everett four spans. These are sub-contractors under T. Lynch, for Guy, Bevan & Co., and their lump contract is for 3,000,000 to 4,000,000.

On Clearwater Harry Turnbull has seven spans of horses; his contract is 1,500,000 feet; also for Guy, Bevan & Co.

On Rocky Brook Smith has ten spans of horses for Guy, Bevan & Co. His contract was for 4,000,000, over half of which is now! Justin Fairley has four spans of horses at Little Dunganen, and the Ponds have a like number on Great Dunganen, both for Guy, Bevan & Co. Their contracts are for about 2,000,000.

John Murray is operating at the head of Dunganen for J. B. Snowball. His contract will run 2,000,000, and a large quantity of timber. He has seven spans of horses. The full extent of Guy, Bevan & Co.'s lumbering operations this winter in New Brunswick will be nearly 20,000,000 feet.

There was about 10 inches of snow in the woods before the last fall; now there is twelve that amount. The men all say they never worked a better winter in the woods, the only trouble being that the wages are a little low. They nearly all wish that "next winter was here."

On my return trip of a fine morning, about three hours after leaving the last clearing, I came to a pond at the head of Dunganen and there saw seven Caribou looking at me and wondering what I was. They ran off before I could get a shot at them; and I had not time to follow them up. One of the Caribou had the finest pair of antlers I think that I have ever seen. He bore himself nobly as a Forest King.

In crossing Clear Water, I started three moose, a cow and two calves. In this case as in the former I had not time to follow them up—even though it had not been contrary to the law.

In the unfrequented parts of the woods on my way I met no end of partridge. I killed several which I left with the boys in the camps as I came to them.

In a dense patch of forest at the head of Rocky Brook, I fell in with an old trapper named King. He left Hanwell Settlement last September, taking with him three barrels of flour, a quantity of sugar, pork, tea, etc., and a plentiful supply of blankets, socks, tobacco and pipes. I have grave doubts too as to whether he did not bring some whiskey with him. King has four camps extending from where I first met him to the Little South West, and besides this he often camps out. I found him busy mending a pair of snow shoes when I entered his camp. He grasped me by the hand, and bade me be soothed. He then pulled out his pipe, and kindly offered me a smoke, after which he began to exhibit the trophies of the hunt. He had 40 mink, 8 beaver, 3 otter, 4 lynx, [oupcervier], 1 bear and a large quantity of muskrat and sable. He was hospitable, and would not let me leave the camp till I tried some of his roast otter. He said he had been longing for some venison steak, and he should go out on the morrow and kill a caribou—contrary to the statute in such case made and provided. He entertained me with several stories of his adventures through the woods. He said he never gets lonely; on week days he tends his traps, at night he sleeps and on Sunday he rests or puts his broken gear in repair. It is strange that a man can get accustomed to the gloomy woods; where he is doomed from week's end to week's end to "never hear the sweet music of speech;" and at night to hear no sound but the blood-curdling hoot of the owl, or the melancholy ditty of the saw whet, when the elements lower over the woods. Then everything seems to had a voice—a gloomy, foreboding voice. King is not "depressed," he says, of any of this. He can sleep though the owl hoots; and he has his camp so strongly barred, that neither bear or Indian devil can enter.

"He told me that one day last fall as he was setting a dead fall for a bear, he heard a snoring behind him. He turned and saw an infuriate bull caribou pawing the ground within a few feet of him. He had nothing with him but an axe and dropped into the deadfall. The bull came up, snuffed him for a moment, then turning suddenly, scampered off in the greatest alarm. No doubt the animal was at a loss to ascertain what he was. This animal usually relies on its scent for its reckoning.

"I made my friend goodbye, and when I see him again no doubt he will think of coming out to the world of light and human beings."

This for the present ends our extracts from Mr. Braithwaite's diary.

Curling.
Monday a "Points" game was played by members of the Fredericton Club to procure a suitable eight to play for the cup which has been offered by the Governor General for competition for clubs throughout the Dominion. Those successful in getting a place, and their scores are as follows:

Cox 16, J. B. Grieves 15, J. A. Grieves 15, D. Simpson 14, Tweedie 14, Loggie 13, Hazon 12, McLaughlin 12. Good for Simpson!

A return match was played yesterday afternoon between rinks headed by Skips Nell and Grieves, and the tables reversed by the following score:

J. A. Grieves, Cox, McPherson, Hazon, Nell, Skip, 17. J. B. Grieves, Skip, 14.

The interval between now and February 5, when the club plays at St. John, will be occupied with "scrub" games for the purpose of practice.

Sale of Wheat.
Mr. James Malone of Stanley, who does not pretend at all to be a farmer, a few days ago sold 40 bushels of wheat to Mr. Alex. Gibson for $1.60 a bushel, reserving 60 bushels for himself. This he ground for his own use, which was five bushels to the barrel, gave him 12 barrels of flour. Then he had his 64 bushels, and all the result of little labor and time. Wheat raising is surely destined to be one of our leading industries.

—Mr. G. Fred Fisher of the Reporter has just received an appointment as official assessor for this County.

STAR BRIEFS.

—A fire at St. George yesterday burnt five saw mills and a grist mill belonging to A. H. Gillmor; and a saw mill belonging to Johnston Bros. Total loss, $5,000. No insurance.

—Mr. Wm Cooper, carriage and sleigh manufacturer, on King St., has lately received an order all the way from Montana U. S. for sleds.

—Edgcombe and Sons have just received an order from Victoria, British Columbia for one of those stylish English dog carts that have gained the firm such an enviable reputation.

—The Annual general meeting of the stockholders of the Fredericton Leather Co. was held this afternoon at their works on King St. A large amount of business was transacted. This Co. is in a flourishing condition and anticipates an increased prosperity during the ensuing season.

—A very interesting case came up before Magistrate Marsh on Saturday between two parties belonging to Gibson: Principal Davis of the St. Mary's school and R. J. Macklin, a prominent farmer, who wished to have satisfaction for alleged torts perpetrated on the person of his son who has been attending the school. The affair is to be disposed of on Saturday.

Enterpris.
One of the best fitted and regulated livery stables in the province is that owned by Messrs Gunter & Atterton, Westmorland St. Every accommodation for the comfort of the horses has been made, and the firm claim that they can turn out the best equipped of any establishment in the city. They have lately inaugurated an accommodation coach line running between Fredericton and Stanley. Their premises have been entirely renovated and made very many important changes and additions. We bespeak for Messrs G. & A. that share of public patronage which their enterprise deserves. Meantime the moon is at the full.

Metallic.
Mr. Patrick Lantulum, a gentleman from St. John, has been making a very successful venture in the way of the purchase of railway iron lately. He has bought from the N. B. Railway 15 tons of cast-iron rails, and 50 tons from the Fredericton Branch Railway at $19 per ton. These have been sent to the American market where, after deducting the freight and original cost, a profit of $23 a ton is made.

A. B. S.

Amande Honorable.
Mr. McCoy called at the STAR office to-day and assured us that the report published in the last STAR that a man named Harry Scott had lost some money while at his house, is quite unfounded. He says Scott did not stay at his house, but that he went to the house of the late Mrs. Scott, and that he had some money with him. He says he has since said he lost no money. We are quite sorry for the temporary injustice done Mr. McCoy, who we are quite sure keeps a most respectable house, and is a gentleman against whom nothing can be said.—Ed.

The Holiday Trade.
Tweeds (Canadian and Scotch) and Broadcloth suits made to order in the latest and most approved styles at the establishment of J. Collins, No. 4 Coy's Block, Queen Street. A first-class lot of Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods on hand, which will be disposed of at prices to suit the times and the people. Our motto—Good Fit or No Pay.—Dec. 27.

SAINT JOHN NOTES.
A Good Word.—A number of ladies belonging to the congregation of St. Peter's Church, Portland, are interesting themselves in the work of providing suitable clothing for poor children to enable them to attend Church and Sunday School. This very meritorious work, which was suggested by the Rev. J. F. McDevitt, has been willingly taken hold of, and the ladies are now ready to receive donations of clothing, etc., to assist in making their aim successful. Mrs. P. McGoldrick, Mrs. Thomas Morgan and Miss Robinson have generously given a lot of dress material. Others will no doubt follow suit, and the children will be made happy.

TEMPERANCE.—A very good lecture on this subject was delivered under the auspices of St. Peter's Society, in their Hall, Portland, Monday evening. The eloquence of the rev. speaker—Father Meahan—and the fine night attracted an audience of about 800 persons who testified by frequent outbreaks of applause their appreciation of the very able and lucid manner in which he presented the evils of intemperance. He strongly condemned the sale of intoxicants as a means of livelihood, declaring it shameful that a man who had two hands to work and a brain to conceive, would engage in a business that would be the ruin of young people, by its gaming tables and other accessories. He hoped that no young man would be inspired with starting a business of this kind, because such a thought was surely inspired of the devil. In speaking of the effects of strong drink on the human frame, the rev. speaker gave an illustration, the story of the giant Hercules as told by Herodotus. The giant was passing along a country road on a very sultry day. Being almost overcome with the heat, he retired into a shady place where he observed a beautiful little plant growing. Fired with a desire to adorn his home garden with the plant, he plucked it, but was at a loss how to keep it from withering until he reached his domicile. Plodding along, he discovered a bird's wing in which he placed the plant to protect it from the rays of the sun. In a short time the bone of the bird's wing commenced to get heated and the giant's fears about the safety of the plant were increased. Further on he found the bone of a lion and into it he placed the others. He thought sufficient protection but it did not prove so. The warmth increased and all the bones he held were in a state of heat. He felt that his plant could not outlive such narrow escapes, but would surely wither to pieces. His joy was unbounded when he came to the carcass of a jackass, from which he took a bone and encased the others in it. Fortunately when he arrived at home he found the plant almost as good as new, and putting it in the ground it developed into a grape vine. After a time he drank some of the wine made from those grapes. After he had taken the first glass he sang like a bird, at the second he commenced to roar like a lion, and when he had disposed of the third he could bray like any first-class jackass. There are persons nowadays, said the lecturer, who drink wine that never saw the grape and who act in a similar manner. The rev. gentleman concluded an admirable discourse by calling on his hearers to rise and by well directed efforts to sweep away those rumshops—those avenues of temptation which have caused so many heart breaks and which lead so many to social ruin.

The President of the Society, Mr. Dan O'Neil, presided, and gave the usual thanks to the lecturer. Some youths who were in the body of the hall made such a noise stamping that several minutes elapsed before Mr. O'Neil could obtain a hearing. It is an open question whether the general body of boys ought to be allowed to attend lectures. If it is really necessary that they should be in attendance to compose an audience it would perhaps be well to adopt the plan of handcuffing them in pairs, and placing them among older people. This might effect a complete cure.

BENEVOLENCE.—The net proceeds of the St. Aloysius Association minstrel and dramatic entertainment, to be given next Tuesday evening, are to be devoted to the relief of the poor. Judging from the programme, the show promises to be one of the best ever given in St. Peter's Hall. Among the performers are D. N. Cain, Andrew Moore, F. H. Keenan, Hugh Campbell, James Fitzgerald, Thomas Fitzgerald, D. Harrigan, A. McMullin, J. H. McHugh, D. J. Doherty, J. McGowan and T. McElroy, all of whom are favorably known to the St. John public. In addition to the Association Orchestra, the members of the Carleton Serenade Band have kindly volunteered their services and will play some of their choice selections.

LECTURE.—Our esteemed friend of the "News," Mr. Michael McDade, is to lecture under the auspices of the St. Aloysius Association on next Sunday evening. Everybody is anxious to hear this talented young gentleman.

MISCELLANEOUS.
A steady stream of emigration has set in from India to the British colonies best adapted by reason of temperature or special industries to attract the superfluous Hindoo population. Nearly 10,000 Indians emigrated last year, of whom 14,000 were Hindoos, proper, one-fourth of them being of the Bramhin order. The restrictions of caste are rapidly giving way before education, commerce and modern institutions. Many of them go to the Fiji Islands, where the Chinese have preceded them; and to Trinidad, Jamaica, Mauritius, Natal and Demarara. They have the character of being docile, industrious and thrifty settlers.

Telegraphic News.
LONDON, Jan. 28.
It is stated that the Nationalists of the county of Mayo, Ireland, have decided to start Michael Davitt and Thomas Brennan, now under indictment for sedition, as candidates for the County at the approaching general election for seats in the House of Commons, on the understanding that if elected they shall abstain from taking their seats. The prospects of their election are considered good.

MAINE MATTERS.
An Augusta despatch says all troubles in the town is quiet. Troops are being sent home.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics, in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the most unqualified statement that its use is being used with better results and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrophula, Anemia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of Children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet is truly marvellous.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE: 65 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September 8, 1876.

GENTS.—I have frequently prescribed Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrophulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen.—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach, which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrophulous cases. Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen.—Within the last two months I have fairly tried Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly agreeable and elegant form. December 10th, 1879. Yours truly, J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen.—In September, 1879, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my knees; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly agreeable and elegant form. December 10th, 1879. Yours truly, J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen.—I have a friend who has not spoken aloud for 15 months, and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dose, and says he is gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. January 20th, 1879. Very truly yours H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.
