RASCALLY ASSAULT.—On Monday evening young Hoban (who is lately out of jail, where he was confined for indecent assault, together with a man from Hamilton, whose name we could not learn, made a most savage assault on Mr. Geo. Atkinson, of Guelph Township, in the Wellington Hotel, during the temporary absence of Mr. Deary. The two set on to Mr. Atkinson, and would have used him badly had not Mr. Joseph Blyth, who happened to be present, interfered. The two then turned their attention on Mr. Blyth, but he, nowise afraid, faced both and gave them a sound thrashing, which they will not forget for some time. The case will very likely be brought up at the Police Court. The assault we learn was quite unprovoked, and both Hoban and his Hamilton companion were the worse of liquor.

The amount of $300 has already been placed to their credit, and they recommended that the balance of $201 be placed to their credit. In regard to the petition of John Harris and others for the use of the Exhibition grounds for holding the Catholic Picnic on the 24th, the Committee find that they cannot possibly grant the use of the main building for anything but exhibition purposes, as the insurance policy states distinctly that the building is to be used for that purpose. The Committee recommend that the use of the grounds and one of the large buildings be granted, subject to the consent of the present tenant on condition

Town Council.

The Council met on Monday night. Present, the Mayor in the chair, Messrs. Snider, Stevenson, Crowe, Bell, Elliott, Howard, Stewart, McMillan, Allan, Mitchell, Bruce, Kennedy and Hogg.

The Council went into Committee of the Whole on the By-law for the remuneration of officers. Mr. Elliott in the chair. The yearly salaries of the Town officers were fixed as follows: Market Clerk, $150; Chief Constable, with the fees, $500; Assistant Constable, $100; Clerk and Treasurer, $800; Assessors, each, $200; Auditors, each, $25; Returning officers per day, $1; Collector, Statute Labour and Dog Tax, 10 per cent, on General Assessment, 2 per cent; Selectors of Jurors, each, $12; Inspector of Licenses, without fines, $100; Market House Caretaker and Lighter of Lamps in North and East Wards, $300; Caretaker of Engine House, &c., and Lamp Lighter, $300.

The Committee then rose.

Moved by Mr. Massie, seconded by Mr. Bruce, that the By-law be read a third time and passed. Carried, Mr. McMillan voting nay.

Mr. Massie read the report of the Finance Committee. In reference to the petition for the appointment of night watchmen the Committee could not recommend that such be appointed at present. With reference to the petition of Barr & Skinner for remission of taxes, the Committee are of opinion that their case does not come within the scope of the resolution passed by the Council, and, therefore, cannot recommend that it be granted. They recommend that the Treasurer be instructed to pay the account of J. W. Condon, for service at the Police Court. They submitted an approximate estimate of the expenditure and revenue for the current year. The total liabilities will be about $15,129.20, and the revenue from all sources, including the general assessment of one and a half per cent, on $1,800,000, and the Statute Labour and Dog Tax will amount to about $39,150.07, leaving a deficiency of $6,279.13, also the debentures due on the 1st January, 1873, amounting to $700.

Mr. Mitchell presented the report of the R. & B. Committee. In reference to the petition of John Thomas Cunningham, for damages to his property by the removal of gravel from the Edinburgh Road, the Council find that the petition is on the road, and they had the line surveyed. The surveyor reported that it was on the proper line. The Committee recommended that the sum of $20 be granted to the petitioner in full of all damages sustained. The Committee reported on the petitions of McCool, Wood & Co., and that of Daniel Kriis and others for sidewalks, and that sufficient had been included in the estimates for these purposes.

Mr. Elliott presented the report of the Fire and Water Committee. They recommended that the petition of Mr. Coffee and others be granted, and that a street oil lamp be placed on the corner of Queen and Elizabeth streets. With regard to the petition of the Fire Brigade, the Committee do not feel themselves warranted in recommending an increase of pay, but that each member of the Brigade be furnished with a waterproof canvas coat. The Committee request for power to advertise for applications for a steam engine to manage the steam fire engine, the late engineer having left the town. George Barber, caretaker of the engine, is desirous to withdraw his resignation, and the Committee recommended that he be retained in his office. DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

OTTAWA, June 1st.

The following portion of the debate on the Re-distribution of Seats Bill was unable to give room Monday.

Hon. Mr. Blake agreed that the principle of population, as a basis of representation, should not be pushed too far. He admitted that it would be inexpedient to carry out new constituencies so as to make them equal in population; but the hon. gentleman had gone on to say that it was necessary that the manufacturing interests should have special representation. He did not think that principle exactly correct. It was true there were so many boroughs and so many constituencies, but it was also true that county constituencies were not exclusively rural constituencies. It was the good fortune of Ontario to have in the centres of busy industry, exercising very great and frequently a preponderating influence upon elections in those constituencies. The manufacturing interests could in no sense be said to be exclusively represented by the hon. members who had nine boroughs which the hon. gentleman had referred to. Look, for instance, at Northumberland, with the town of Cobourg and other flourishing villages within its bounds; at the adjoining constituency, with Port Hope; at West Durham, with the flourishing towns of Bowmanville and Newcastle; at South Ontario, with Ottawa, the seat of very large manufacturing industry; at South Wellington with the manufacturing town of Guelph. As a general rule, there was not a member from Ontario who did not give very considerable attention to the interests of commerce and manufactures; and if ever any conflict should arise, which he did not believe would be the case, between manufacturing and agricultural interests, the former would be well represented. In that point of view it appeared to him that the principle upon which our Constitution was formed, that the principle upon which we were getting these additional members, was a principle which had been overlooked by the hon. gentleman in proposing this Bill. Speaking only for himself, he would say, as a general principle, that the people to whose existence we owe these additional members, should receive them. If we were not our excess of population, we should not get these members, and the people who constituted that excess of population, should get the additional representation. The hon. gentleman had not stated how many townships were to be taken from Simcoe; but that respect to the memory of deceased, he regretted that they would be unable to attend the funeral.

Mr. Drew moved for a statement of claims made by sufferers by the insurrection in Rupert's Land in 1869-70.

Mr. Costigan moved back his Dual Representation Bill into Committee, to substitute for the first and only clause in the bill the following: "No person shall be eligible to be or capable of being nominated to or voted for, or of being elected to, or of sitting or voting in the House of Commons, who is a member of the Legislative Council or Assembly of any Province in which by law members of the Senate or House of Commons are rendered ineligible of being appointed to or of sitting or voting in the Legislative Council or of being elected to or of sitting or voting in the House of Assembly thereof, or who, on the day of any such nomination, is a member of the Legislative Assembly in any Province in which by law, after the dissolution of the present House of Commons, the sitting or voting as a member of the House of Commons by such member of the Legislative Assembly will have the effect of voiding his election to the Legislative Assembly thereof, and vacating his seat or rendering him incapable of sitting or voting in the Legislative Assembly of such Province."

The amendment was adopted in committee.

Mr. Blake then moved that the Bill be referred back to the committee, with instructions to make provision that every person who is a shareholder of the Pacific Railway Company, which is to receive, on terms to be fixed by the Government of the day, $300,000,000 of 50,000,000 acres of land, shall be ineligible to a seat in this House; and any member of this House becoming a shareholder of such company shall vacate his seat in the House.

Sir John Macdonald opposed the amendment and made a gross personal attack on Mr. Blake, which that gentleman most effectively replied to.

Mr. Stirling's Conservative and Preservative—Cuddy.

To the Editor of the Mercury.

Sir,—The community was yesterday afternoon greatly stirred to perceive that the amiable "craythur" who presciently guides the editorial destinies of the Herald had another distressing return of one of those spasmodic attacks of "plummy" colic, a too frequent repetition of which he had been warned would in the opinion of experienced and skillful physicians, and in spite of the attentive care and watchfulness of his friends, eventually destroy a possibly brilliant career. We were yesterday informed that Balmain's ass has been thrown into the shade because Mr. Stirling has broken that silence in Parliament which a writer, not quite so great or so prophetic as he of the Herald, was wont to designate "golden." Alas! poor fellow, did the Herald only know it he has been playing in connection with our M. P. the part of that interesting and historical quondam in the most devoted style of literary art ever since his "second advent" to Guelph, for when Mr. Stirling has not spoken in Parliament, the Herald has substituted therefor a loud and oft repeated bray.

Yours truly,

AS ADMIRER OF THE PRODIGIOUS "PHUNNY" ONE.

Guelph, June 4, 1872.

ONTARIO BANK.—The fifteenth annual meeting of the stockholders of the above institution took place at its banking house in Bowmanville on Monday. The directors report that, notwithstanding the active competition between the monetary institutions of the country, the business of the Bank for the past year has steadily and legitimately increased, and that after the payment of two semi-annual dividends of four per cent, each, and making provision for bad and doubtful debts they were able to add $50,000 to the reserve account.

Mr. Stirling condemned the Bill as outrageous, and believed the changes proposed were made at the instance of parties outside. The charge made against the Government seemed to be well founded. They had framed the Bill to their own interests, and held it back to the last moment, hoping to rush it through the House.

Sir John A. Macdonald said there was no county in Ontario, which divided in two, would give 18,000 exactly.

Hon. Mr. Blake said, remove Bothwell, and Kent would give two constituencies with that number.

Sir John A. Macdonald said there was no existing county in which it could be done. With respect to Niagara and Corn-

WARRICKSHIRE LABORERS.

On Tuesday night Lieut. Whelan, agent of Mr. Dixon, of London, the representative of the Canadian Government, addressed a large meeting of farm laborers at Wellborough on the subject of immigration. There were between 500 and 600 present, including women and children. He said he was authorized to take out 100 farm laborers, for guaranteed situations in Canada, at wages ranging from £3 10s. to £4 per month exclusive of board, and a grant of 200 acres of land under the Colonial Homestead Act. The expenses of each immigrant would be defrayed from Quebec to his destination by the Canadian Government. The laborers met the proposal with much cheering and applause, and expressed themselves anxious to go. From the hearty and enthusiastic reception given Lieutenant Whelan, and the delight manifested by the laborers during his exposition of the advantages of immigration it is probable that the requisite number of immigrants will be found among those on the strike.

Mr. Elliott held to the position he had taken, and that for debentures falling due on January 1, 1873, provision should be made in the assessment of the previous year.

Mr. Howard said such had been the custom of the Council until the year when Mr. Chutwick was finance chairman, when owing to the heavy expenditure of that year the debentures falling due in the following January were not provided for in the previous year's assessment. He did not see any necessity for including the debentures in our liabilities on January 1, 1873, strictly speaking, it was not a debt that belonged to the year, and when there was no attempt to hide it, he thought the simple question of it was sufficient.

Mr. Bell asked how the Committee arrived at the conclusion that Barr & Skinner were not entitled to exemption from taxation.

Mr. Massie said the Committee after carefully considering the matter, did not think they were entitled to the exemption on the ground that their factory had been built before the resolution was passed; also because there were at least two other parties in town manufacturing furniture to a certain extent, had such a concession to Barr & Skinner would be unfair to them.

Mr. Massie moved, seconded by Mr. Allan, that the report of the Finance Committee be adopted.

Mr. Elliott moved in amendment that the report be referred back to the Committee with instructions to include in the liabilities the amount of debentures falling due on 1st January, 1873.

There was no second to it, and the motion was therefore carried.

Moved by Mr. Elliott, seconded by Mr. Bell, that the leave, Messrs. Mitchell, Howard, Kennedy and the mover be a Special Committee to take into consideration the By-law relating to the erection of wooden buildings within the fire limits, and that they have power to consult the Town Solicitor.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. Massie, the Mayor was instructed to give an order for $36.50 being additional amount required for repairing the school children on the Queen's Birthday.

Mr. Bruce read a memorial from Mr. Geo. McLean in reference to the dilapidated and dangerous state of Gov's Bridge. Referred to the Road & Bridge Committee.

Mr. Bruce called the attention of the Council to the fact that an indigent old man named Wm. Smith was again about, and that some steps should be taken to cover on the understanding that Mr. Bruce would in the meantime provide him with a boarding place.

The Council then adjourned.

Whelan, agent of Mr. Dixon, of London, the representative of the Canadian Government, addressed a large meeting of farm laborers at Wellborough on the subject of immigration. There were between 500 and 600 present, including women and children. He said he was authorized to take out 100 farm laborers, for guaranteed situations in Canada, at wages ranging from £3 10s. to £4 per month exclusive of board, and a grant of 200 acres of land under the Colonial Homestead Act. The expenses of each immigrant would be defrayed from Quebec to his destination by the Canadian Government. The laborers met the proposal with much cheering and applause, and expressed themselves anxious to go. From the hearty and enthusiastic reception given Lieutenant Whelan, and the delight manifested by the laborers during his exposition of the advantages of immigration it is probable that the requisite number of immigrants will be found among those on the strike.

Mr. Elliott held to the position he had taken, and that for debentures falling due on January 1, 1873, provision should be made in the assessment of the previous year.

Mr. Howard said such had been the custom of the Council until the year when Mr. Chutwick was finance chairman, when owing to the heavy expenditure of that year the debentures falling due in the following January were not provided for in the previous year's assessment. He did not see any necessity for including the debentures in our liabilities on January 1, 1873, strictly speaking, it was not a debt that belonged to the year, and when there was no attempt to hide it, he thought the simple question of it was sufficient.

Mr. Bell asked how the Committee arrived at the conclusion that Barr & Skinner were not entitled to exemption from taxation.

Mr. Massie said the

The Redistribution Bill.

No one can defend Sir John A. Macdonald's Redistribution Bill on the ground that it is a just and equitable allotment of new seats, or that it is calculated to do away with the inequalities and anomalies in our representation. After a careful perusal of it one cannot help coming to the conclusion that it was made to suit the political necessities and exigencies of his party.

But the readjustment of existing Ridings is what claims our attention at present. In our own County Erin and Eramosa are given back to the South Riding, which will now be composed of the same number of Municipalities as it had before Confederation. No doubt the people of these two townships will be glad of the change. They had become in many ways closely allied to the South Riding, and it is our belief that they would rather have remained connected with it than become part and parcel of the Centre Riding.

We said it was done for a purpose, and that purpose was by taking Erin and Eramosa from the Centre Riding to leave room in that Riding for the Township of Peel, which has hitherto given the largest Reform vote in the North Riding, and was therefore a very undesirable Township for Mr. Drew to have in that Riding at the next election.

The Treaty of Washington. The last note from Earl Granville to Mr. Shenck in reference to the condition of the Supplemental Treaty, has been published. The British Government holds that by the article adopted by the Senate, cases of bad faith and wilful misconduct, resulting in a failure to observe strict neutrality, are brought within the scope of the proposed agreement, which deals with pecuniary compensation.

The Bank of Montreal. The annual meeting of the above Bank was held in Montreal on Monday. The report showed that a $1,000,000 had been placed to the rest account, of which $500,000 had been derived from the issue of new stock.

South Riding Agricultural Society.

The Directors of this Society met at Thorp's hotel on Monday afternoon. A petition to the County Council was adopted, asking for pecuniary assistance for the Central Exhibition, 1872, principally on the ground that the Directors had expended a sum of nearly $5,000 in providing additional suitable accommodation for exhibitors in 1871, over and above the town's contract, and that they would require to add still more extensively to the buildings to meet the expected requirements of the forthcoming exhibition.

An application from Mr. Weston, of New York, the celebrated pedestrian, to undertake one of his wonderful walking performances during the holding of the exhibition, provided certain monetary inducements were secured to him, was declined by the Directors.

The Directors reported that the disposal of tickets was going on very satisfactory, especially since the publication of the prize list. We understand that the special building committee, immediately on adjournment of the meeting of directors, proceeded to the exhibition grounds, in order to provide for the speedy execution of the important work with which they have been entrusted.

HELEN MOIR OR
LOVE AND HONOUR.

A TALE OF THE CLYDE.
CHAPTER XXXV.

RESTORATION—THE FAST-SPREADING BRIGHTNESS—A HAPPY PROSPECT.

As Hermann was lying with his face upturned, and as Helen's face was first immediately over him, it was the first and only object on which his vision could rest. Oh, how joy, the dear eyes had intelligence in them now. Hermann was conscious—he recognized her—gazed steadily at her a moment, then faintly smiled. In his utter weakness he could do no more.

The doctor was right. He was not in the least degree agitated, excited, or even surprised. He did not so much as appear to wonder where he was or what had happened him. He never had produced such a weakness as to deprive him even of the power of emotion.

But his face assumed the expression of great peace and perfect contentment, and his soft, subdued eyes never left the dear smiling face that was bent over him with such yearning love.

"Dear Hermann," whispered Helen, in low accents of fondest tenderness, which fell like celestial music on his ear, and he answered them with another smile.

The moment was one which transcended all thoughts of maidenly reserve, all feelings arising from the remembrance that others were looking on, and in the holy joy of her pure unalloyed affection, she bent still lower, and pressed her lips to his.

The touch seemed to quicken the returning life of his frame, for his lips, returned the pressure, and his eye kindled with a deepening ray.

The others now moved silently within the range of his vision, and stood smiling in silence near the bed. His gaze went slowly from one to another, and his look showed that he had no difficulty in recognizing them.

Then the doctor showed himself, and his aspect now was quite assured and hopeful.

"Now, my good sir," he said, in a low but pleasant tone, you have been very ill, and are very weak, but the crisis is past, and you will slowly get better. Your friends here have all been very anxious about you, but the danger is over, and with due care and attention you will progress. At present there is one indispensable condition; you must not attempt to speak till I give you leave. Now, give me your promise to this effect by a smile."

Hermann smiled with prompt readiness. "That is enough. I know your promise will be sacredly kept, and you may depend upon it that I will release you from it at the earliest possible moment."

The doctor now called Helen aside, and gave her directions for the patient's treatment—telling her what drinks and medicines he was to get, and the hours when they were to be given. He well knew that his every direction would be faithfully followed.

"This which I am making up," he added, is a sleeping draught, for sleep is the great thing for him at present. After he gets it he will enjoy another deep slumber for several hours, and while he does so you must go and have sleep likewise, or I will not answer for the consequences. Anxiety and fatigue from the incessant watching you have undergone have taxed your system far beyond what you are aware of. And now that the crisis is over, and your heart is relieved, you may go and lie down with all contentment."

"She shall," said Edwin, who overheard this important injunction. "I will see, doctor, that your order is obeyed."

Helen readily acquiesced on the understanding that she should be called if her presence was needed—an assurance which Edwin and the others emphatically gave.

With brotherly tenderness Edwin lifted Hermann's head from the pillow, and the doctor held the cup to his lips. Obedient as a child he drank the contents; was laid gently back, smiled once more to Helen, closed his eyes, and in a few moments was again sound asleep.

"Now is your time," said the doctor, turning to Helen and he had a draught of a different kind mixed up for her.

"Must I take this she asked?" she asked.

"Yes, you must. We are not going to have you ill if we can help it."

She said no more, but, following Hermann's example, drank the draught, and sought her chamber, with a great sense of relief in her soul—as a heavy load had been lifted from it—and a delicious sense of returning happiness. Strange to say, with the lessening of her anxiety and suspense came a feeling of weariness and prostration. So long as the crisis was undetermined, she felt not the effect of her ceaseless vigils and long want of repose; but now she all at once felt utterly worn out, and, able to throw aside only her outer garments, she laid herself down, her heart full of a deep and quiet joy, and she, too, passed under the benignant way of the beneficent angel of Mercy.

"Tired Nature's sweet restorer—belmy sleep!" That long profound slumber of a day's duration unquestionably saved Helen from a serious illness. When she awoke she was like a new creature, strengthened, refreshed, full of freshness and elasticity. She deemed she had been asleep only for an hour or two, and when she next went to the room where Hermann lay, she supposed it was but a little later in the same afternoon. Her amazement may be imagined when they laughingly told her that it was the afternoon of the day following. At first she was inclined to doubt it, but the great change for the better which she saw in Hermann showed her that something like this long period must have elapsed. He was even to appearance stronger than when she left him; his eye was clearer and sharper in its glance, and his face wore a firmer and more inquiring expression. Another thing that convinced her of the statement was her own hunger. She had therefore to conclude, though she did it with wonder, that she had slept for an extraordinary period of upwards of twenty-four hours.

Hermann's progress towards convalescence, though not very rapid, was steady. He had descended to great depths in the valley of the shadow, and the ascent from the gates of death was not to be made with rapidity. To a self-possessed nature such as his, the necessary patience was not so difficult of exercise as to a less regulated spirit, and, in the circumstances surrounding him, the task was a light one indeed. With Helen for nurse, it was positively a pleasure to him to be there in his weakness, and he ministered to her. He was not yet allowed to talk, but he had full liberty to gaze on her, to follow her graceful motions, to be the recipient of her fond tender, loving attentions, and he felt as if his illness was a slight price to pay for so delicious a luxury. Then there was no prohibition laid upon her talking to him, and this she did in a judicious manner—not in a way to weary or agitate him, but with the gentle wisplings of affection, whose accents healed and strengthened more than all the medicines and cordials prescribed by the doctor.

Long before the seal of silence was removed from his lips, he talked to her by his eyes and by the smile of his face, and love taught her with intuitive aptness to understand his meaning. Thus they had a sweet and precious communion of heart which made the dingy low-roofed room a very paradise, and kept Eden blooming in their souls.

But, oh, the rapture of the day when the doctor released him from his faithfully kept promise, and said he might talk a little. Helen's bright eyes watched him when the permission was given, and she listened intently to catch the first words he should utter.

"Helen, my darling Helen," came in low-voiced tones from his pale lips.

Tears of fond affection filled her eyes, the voice was so weak and tremulous, but it increased in strength daily, and in less than a week from that date he was able to converse freely, not only with her but with the others.

BY TELEGRAPH
THIS MORNING'S DESPATCHES
More Fighting in Mexico

New York, June 4.—The Herald's special from Canagay says that after the fight near Monterey on the 30th, Gen. Trevino rallied all his forces on the following day and attacked Corolla in the suburbs of the city, and completely routed him. Despatches state that the Government troops lost everything, their entire force being killed, wounded and scattered. A campaign of two months' preparation against the northern frontier is thus ended, and the revolutionists claim a new impetus to their cause. Letters from Ringold state that the advance of Cavallo has been defeated and driven back near Mier.

Breakfast—Epps's Cocoa—Grateful and Comforting.—By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is the best Cocoa in the world. Each packet is labeled "James Epps & Co., Homeopathic Chemists, London." Also, makers of Epps's Milky Cocoa (Cocoa and Condensed Milk).

Johnson's Anodyne Liniment will give more relief in cases of Chronic Rheumatism no matter how severe, than any other article known to medical men.

After twenty-five years' medical experience, we have never met with a remedy worthy of dependence in any disease of the lungs, until the discovery of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites. This article really is reliable, and successful in a majority of cases.

It is often remarked by strangers visiting our Province, that we show a larger proportion of good horses than any other Province in the Dominion. This, we tell them, is owing to two principal reasons: in the first place, we breed from the very best stock; and in the second place, our people use Sheridan's Curative Condition Powders, which, in our judgment, are of incalculable advantage.
