The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol \rightarrow (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ∇ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole \rightarrow signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ∇ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. PREFACE TO THE FIRST EDITION.

THE greatest civil blessings which any people can enjoy, are, a wise and just system of Laws, and their enlightened and faithful administration. On these, more than on any other political advantages, public prosperity and happiness must depend. But for securing this favorable result, these two advantages must unite. The first however excellent in itself, and pleasing as a matter of mere contemplation, is, when alone, insufficient for the purpose. It is, indeed, by the wise and vigilant application of such a system, not only that the happy effect is produced, but that the laws become the most generally known, and most truly appreciated. The inhabitants of this Colony, possess a very fair portion of the first of those blessings. Although some parts of our Legal Code will admit of considerable correction and improvement, yet upon the whole, there is in this branch of our social system, no very serious ground for dissatisfaction or complaint. Favored with the chief privileges and advantages of a constitution, long and generally acknowledged to be one of the best which has ever existed, for securing the blessing of rational freedom, and enjoying the protection of a mild and tolerant Government, any general alteration or improvement in Legal regulations and establishments is not so essential, in order to our political prosperity, as a more extended diffusion of the knowledge of the Laws, now in existence, and with regard to many of them, a more extensive and active application. On this last point, especially, it must be admitted, there is, in this Province, a very prevailing and injurious defect, as far as the first steps in any criminal procedure, or the summary execution of legislative enactments, depend on persons in the Commission of the Peace, or other local officers. This may be very well accounted for, and fairly excused, from a variety of circumstances, without imputing any criminal intention or neglect. The situation of such Magistrates and Officers in this country, is widely different in many particulars, from that of the same persons in much older countries, and especially in our parent State. In that favored land, a knowledge and observance of the laws in general, and of the various local regulations, are perpetuated from one generation to another, so that each grows up, familiar with their existence and operation. Then, as to Gentlemen, there, in the Commission of the Peace, very many of them are persons of liberal or good education, and of early and extensive information respecting the laws in general; and many others are so wealthy or independent in their circumstances, as to be able to afford leisure for acquiring the requisite knowledge relating to their office, and for the active discharge of its duties. In this comparatively infant country, our system of jurisprudence is not yet, on some points, accurately defined or established. Many enactments are but of recent origin, others are transient or fluctuating, while the numerous varieties in the description and characteristics of our population, and its continual increase from different countries, tend, in a great measure, to prevent any general knowledge or observance of the laws taking place.

With regard to our Magistrates, although in general selected from the most suitable persons, yet the greater number, as may reasonably be supposed, are but of ordinary education and attainments, and nearly all, from necessity, being actively engaged in private avocations, they have but little leisure for the acquisition of any particular knowledge of the laws. Moreover, with most of them, the means for obtaining that knowledge are extremely limited. The English Works on the office of a Justice of the Peace, are, in general, voluminous and expensive, and can but rarely be procured in this country; and, comparatively, but a small part of them are of any practical use to our Magistrates, especially with reference to any Provincial enactments. No Publication for their general information and guidance has yet been afforded in the Colony. The work by Mr. Murdoch, although valuable and generally useful, has evidently, not been designed to be one of that description. It is chiefly an exhibition of our Statutes in general. Now, as a very considerable part of the authority and duties of Justices of the Peace arises out of the Common and Statute law of England, and as Precedents or Forms for their use, are of essential importance, it follows, that a work of that nature cannot form a complete and universal guide for the discharge of the almost endless variety of their duties. Then, as to the Provincial Statutes, but few of our Magistrates possess all the volumes containing them. Some have but one volume, others two, but are deficient of the rest; and indeed, as to the first volume, it can but rarely be procured. Besides, it must candidly be admitted, that on several subjects, in which the duties of Justices are involved, our Statutes are in such a defective state, that it requires the close application of a person skilled and exercised in legal investigations, to reconcile or rightly understand them. It cannot therefore reasonably be expected, that plain persons, of ordinary attainments, and actively engaged in private pursuits, should either be fitted, or will afford time, for such an unprofitable and unpleasant occupation.

Owing to these unfavorable circumstances, many of our Magistrates remain generally uninformed as to the nature and extent of their authority, and the due and effective discharge of their duties, and, in consequence, very frequently when applied to, delay or decline to act, from a want of information as to their powers, or through a fear of erring, or from being at a loss in what manner to proceed. Also, on many occasions, when they commence an exercise of their authority, on meeting with embarrassments and difficulties, they feel compelled or induced, from the same causes, to stop short of its full and effectual exertion.

The concurrence of these disadvantages and evils, prevents any general diffusion of the knowledge of the penal part of our laws; while a disregard or contempt for the authority of Magistrates, is engendered and perpetuated, so that the daring violator of social regulations, or the rights of individuals, often proceeds in his course of transgression, without the fear or infliction of penal consequences.

Considering all these unfavourable circumstances, it seems highly important and requisite, that some work should be afforded for the special information and guidance of our Magistrates; particularly, as the sphere of their duties is continually increasing.

The present publication is intended to answer that purpose. It was designed, and would have been executed some years ago, but it was postponed, from a desire that the proposed revision and consolidation of the Provincial Statutes should previously take place. It is much to be regretted, that this most desirable object has not yet been accomplished although two Legislative Enactments have at different periods been made for the purpose.

A digression may be excused, for the purpose of remarking that this measure seems particularly requisite with reference to some of the higher branches of our Criminal Code, in proportion to the number of malice wood, b lands are cases, is any one, enactme purpose ten give of our C lead to a defect in that the Justices, to, for em ment. I process c else than

Code, in which the severity of the punishment appears disproportionate to the offence. These instances of the kind may be mentioned, in which death is adjudged in every case of maliciously burning a cock of hay, or stack of straw or wood, breaking down a dyke or bank of a river, whereby lands are overflowed, or personating bail. In none of these cases, is it in the least degree probable, or even imagined by any one, that such punishment will ever take place. Such enactments, therefore, cannot be said to avail, even for the purpose of intimidation or restraint; although they may often give rise to invidious and unjust reflections on the whole of our Criminal Code. Such a revision would doubtless also lead to a more full discovery and a remedy of this important defect in many of our Statutes, that although it is directed that the penalties thereby imposed shall be recovered before Justices, no final process whatever is mentioned or referred to, for enforcing the payment, or inflicting any other punishment. It being clear, that in cases of this kind, no such process can be issued, such enactments are, in effect, little else than nugatory.

As there is still no prospect of such a general revision of our Statutes, it has been thought best, that the publication of the present Work should no longer be delayed, and, accordingly, it is now most respectfully offered for public inspection and use.

The plan of it, is simply this;—It professes to combine the common and Statute law of England, with all our own Legislative Enactments, relating, or in any way referring to the office and duties of a Justice of the Peace in this Province.

With reference to the execution of the Work, it is proper, that on some parts of it, brief information should here be afforded. In the first place, it must be observed, that it is almost exclusively intended for the use of Magistrates, when required to act out of Sessions. It was thought unnecessary to treat of their proceedings when convened in General Sessions, by reason that Gentlemen selected from the legal profession, are now presiding in those Courts, where, in general, the Magistrates of the most ability and intelligence are assembled, and where reference can always be had, to some of the valuable English Publications which treat of the proceedings in Sessions, as well as to the whole of the Provincial Statutes; and also, as time and facilities are there afforded for the full and deliberate consideration of every matter. Moreover, it was thought desirable, to confine the Work within the most moderate compass, consistent with all needful information to Magistrates. On some points, however, proceedings in the Sessions are treated of.

With regard to the Provincial Statutes which concern the duties of Magistrates, it has been deemed sufficient to recite only such of them, or such parts thereof, as are now in force. It may therefore be taken for granted, that every enactment of that nature, which is not set forth in this work, has either been expressly or virtually repealed, or entirely altered, or annulled.

Neither has it been thought requisite, except in two or three instances, to recite or mention any Acts which are merely of a local description.

The duration of a Statute, as to being perpetual or only temporary, is almost invariably noted at the close of its recital.

In general where any subject has been found to branch out in a number of parts, such an order of treating it has been adopted, and such divisions have been made, that all the enactments and information relating to each part, or having a bearing upon it, are brought together under one view; so that the reader may be saved the trouble of reference to any other division or Title.

PREFACE.

For every principle and position which is stated, the authority is given, and with regard to the Provincial Enactments, especially, wherever there has appeared to be reason, for doubt or uncertainty as to their intention or construction or the proceedings to be had under them, the same have been noticed; and in such cases, the author has but seldom felt himself at liberty to express any decided opinion.

With reference to instructions for the guidance of Justices, and as to Precedents or Forms, in order to keep the work within the most moderate and convenient limits, instead of setting them forth, particularly, and in nearly the same words, under a great variety of Titles, it was thought sufficient, on a number of subjects, to refer to the general instructions and Forms given under certain comprehensive Titles; and which will be found to apply and serve in all cases of the same general class. This has been done, especially, with regard to Informations or Complaints, Writs of Summons, Warrants and Commitments.

Finally, it is thought no presumption to say, that the fullest reliance may safely be yielded, as to accuracy with respect to recitals and references, and particularly, as to all the Provincial Enactments being set forth, which are requisite to be recited or mentioned. The author feels, that on these points, he has no cause for anxiety or apprehension. He has, again and again, carefully and minutely examined and collated the several Provincial Acts, having any relation or reference to the office or duties of a Justice of the Peace; and having, for many years, been extensively and actively engaged in the discharge of those duties, and also, having for some time had this work in contemplation, he has felt the more encouraged in proceeding to its completion, and in giving it publicity.

As it was not in his power to obtain any assistance from friends, by suggestion or otherwise, he has, on that score, no acknowledgments to offer. Whatever may be the defects of this work, he alone must bear the blame of them, while the knowledge that it is found useful, which he trusts will be the case, will yield him very high and enduring gratification.

CONCERNING

THE SECOND EDITION.

ALL the first copies of this Work having for some time been disposed of, and a second Edition being very generally called for, it has accordingly been prepared by the same hand, and is now submitted for public use. In compiling and arranging it, the utmost care and attention have been given, in order to make it as correct and useful as possible. All the enactments, contained in the first Edition, which have since been repealed or altered, have been omitted, or the alterations noticed in the manner which appeared requisite; and all the various Statutes and enactments which have since been passed, relating to the office and duties of a Justice of the Peace, and also of the other principal county as well as township officers, have been carefully collated, and are introduced into this Edition under the appropriate Titles; and the whole is brought down to the end of the Session of the General Assembly in 1845. The several new Titles and Forms, which were requisite, have been added, and a desire having been expressed by several gentlemen in the Commission of the Peace, that in this second Edition, ample and explicit information should be afforded with regard to their proceedings in the General Sessions, attention has been carefully given to this subject ; and under the Title, "Sessions," an endeavour has accordingly been made, to afford all the requisite information and directions for their guidance in the discharge of their various powers and duties, while convened in that Court. On the whole, a sanguine hope is entertained, that the present Edition will prove even more satisfactory and useful than the first.

- I. CERTAIN ABBREVIATIONS MADE USE OF IN THIS WORK.

IN order to keep the Book within a limited compass, the following abbreviations are made use of :—

1. The word Justice is always to be understood to Justice.
mean Justice of the Peace, when not otherwise expressed.
2. The words one Justice shall be understood to sig- One Justice.
nify one or more Justices, so that what is directed to be done by one, shall not be intended thereby to exclude others from joining with him.
3. In like manner, two Justices, when not otherwise Two Justices. expressed, shall be understood to signify two Justices or more.
4. So also a conviction on the oath of one witness, One Witness.
shall be understood to denote one witness or more.
5. And two witnesses, shall denote two or more wit- Two WITNES-

6. The Justices in Sessions shall signify the said Majority.
Justices, or the major part of them.
7. The word Sessions shall denote the General Ses- Sessions.
sions, if not otherwise expressed.
8. The word warrant shall always signify, warrant Warrant.
under hand and seal, where not expressed otherwise.
9. The word Overseer shall be understood to mean Overseer.
Overseer of the Poor, where not expressed otherwise.

- Poor. 10. Where a penalty, or part thereof, is expressed to be given to the poor, that shall always be understood to denote, the poor of the township where the offence was committed, if not otherwise limited.
- Penalty. 11. Where a penalty is to be recovered before the Justices of the Peace, it is thought indispensable, to insert particularly the manner of recovering the same ; but where it is to be sued for in any of Her Majesty's Courts of Record, it is judged not necessary to set forth the special method of procedure there ; and generally, where it is expressed, that a person shall do, or not do such a thing, on pain of such a sum, without more, it shall be understood, that such penalty is not recoverable before Justices of the Peace, but only in the Supreme Court.
- Overplus. 12. In all cases of distress and sale, it shall be understood that the overplus must be returned to the owner, after the sum or sums to be thereout deducted, shall be satisfied and paid.
- Lands. 13. Lands shall be understood to stand for lands, tenements, and hereditaments.
- Blank spaces. 14. In the blank spaces for the names in the precedents, instead of inserting initial letters arbitrarily, it is thought it may be some help to the memory, that A. O., shall signify the offender, A. I., the informer, A. W., the witness, A. M., the Justice of the Peace, and the like.
- Figures 15. Also for brevity's sake, sums of money and other numbers are sometimes expressed by figures, and not in words at length ; but it is to be remembered, that in the forms of warrants, convictions, and other proceedings before the Justices, they ought to be expressed in words at length, and not in figures.
- Continuance of Statutes. 16. Where a Statute is said to be in force until such a day, month, and year, &c., it shall always be understood to imply, and from thence to the end of the then next Session of the Legislature.
- Citing of Statutes. 17. In reference to Statutes, it is judged sufficient for the understanding thereof, to quote those passed in the Provincial Legislature, in the following manner, viz :
32 G. 2, c. 13. §. 18. 1 V. 17. To signify, the Pro- vincial Statute made in the thirty second year of the reign of King George the Second, Chapter the Thirteenth, Section the Eighteenth; and contained in the First Volume of the Provincial Statutes, at page seventeen. All Statutes not so designated are to be considered, English Statutes.

In order to keep the work within the smallest compass, Abbreviations consistent with all due information and reference, it is judged not to be needful to prefix a table explanatory of the abbreviations in the names of books and cases cited as authorities, or occasionally noticed; especially, as all such are either of such long standing, and well known authority, or of such modern date, and so frequently referred to, that the abbreviations are perfectly familiar to every gentleman of the law; and with regard to the gentlemen in the Commission of the Peace, for whose use the work is chiefly designed, with but very few exceptions, they do not possess the means of referring to such books and cases, and therefore, to them, such a table would be useless.

II. SOME GENERAL RULES TO BE OBSERVED IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF STATUTES OR ACTS OF PARLIAMENT.

To avoid the very frequent repetition of the same observations, it is thought proper to premise the following general Rules, to be observed in the construction of Statutes or Acts of Parliament.

1. Regularly, a Statute in the affirmative doth not repeal a precedent affirmative Statute. 11 Rep. 61. But if the latter be contrary to the former, it amounts to a repeal of the former. 1 Ld. Raym. 160.

How far an affirmative, repeals an affirmative Statute.

2. A Statute made in the affirmative, without any negative expressed or implied, doth not take away the common law; and therefore the party may waive his benefit by such Statute, and take his remedy by the common law. 2 Inst. 200.

How far an affirmative Statute alters the common law.

3. By repealing of a repealing Statute, the first Statute is revived. Readings upon the Statutes Parl. If an Act of Parliament be revived, all Acts explanatory of that Repealing a repealing Statute.

Act so revived, are revived also. 2 Burr. 747. If a Statute expire, and afterwards be revived again by another Statute, the law derives its force from the first. 4 T. R. 109.

Special power to be pursued.

4. Regularly, where an Act of Parliament gives a power or interest to one person certain, by this express designation of one, all others are excluded. 11 Rep. 59, 64.

Power to administer an oath.

5. In all cases where Justices may take examinations, or other accusation or proof, though the Statute doth not expressly set down that it shall be upon oath, yet it shall be intended that it shall be upon oath. Dalt. c. 115.

In what cases the Sessions may execute the power given to two Justices.

6. Generally, it is holden, that where a Statute appoints a thing to be done by one or more Justices, without giving any appeal to the Sessions; there, the Justices in Sessions may do that thing: but where an appeal is given to the Sessions, the Justice in Sessions cannot proceed originally therein, because that method would take away the power of appealing.

How far an indictment will lie where another method of prosecution is appointed.

7. Where a Statute makes a new offence, which was no way prohibited by the common law, and appoints a particular manner of proceeding against the offender, as by a commitment, or action of debt, or information, without mentioning an indictment; it seems to be settled at this day, that it will not maintain an indictment, because the mentioning the other methods of proceeding only, seems impliedly to exclude that of indictment: yet it has been adjudged, that if such Statute gave a recovery by action of debt, bill, plaint, information, or otherwise, it authorises a proceeding by way of Indictment. 2 Haw. c. 25. Sec. 4.

And if there be a prohibitory clause in the Act, the offender may be indicted upon the prohibitory clause, notwithstanding the penalty; but otherwise it is where the Act is not prohibitory, but only inflicts the forfeiture, and specifies the remedy. 2 Hale, 171, 1 Burr. 543.

But where the offence was antecedently punishable by a common law proceeding, and a Statute prescribes a particular remedy by a summary proceeding; there, either method may be pursued, and the prosecutor is at liberty to proceed either at common law, or in the method prescribed by the Statute; because in that case the sanction is cumulative, and doth not exclude the common law proceeding. 2 Burr. 803.

47. If a Statute gives another Statute no other punishment is limited. 1 Haw. c. 22, § 5.
9. And wheresoever an Act of Parliament doth generally prohibit any thing, the party grieved shall not only have his action for his private relief, but the offender shall be punished at the King's suit, for the contempt of the law.— 2 Inst. 163.
10. All actions, indictments, or informations, on penal Statutes, for any forfeiture limited to the King, shall be brought within two years after the offence committed; if limited to the King and prosecutor, then within one year; and if it is not sued for within that one year, then the King may sue for the same within two years, after the expiration of that one year; and not otherwise.— 31 El. c. 5, § 5. That is to say, unless where it is otherwise directed by subsequent Statutes.
11. The preamble or rehearsal of a Statute is deemed true; and therefore good arguments may be drawn from the preamble.— 1 Inst. 11. But the preamble shall not restrain the operation of the enacting part; as where the preamble recites only a particular inconvenience, this shall not hinder a subsequent enacting clause from being understood in that more general sense which the words would otherwise and of themselves import, so as to take in other inconveniences of the like kind, although not specified in the preamble. 8 Mod. 144. 1 P. Wm. 320.
12. Where a Statute directs the doing of a thing, for the sake of justice, or the public good, the word may is the same as the word shall; as where the Statute of the 13 & 14 Ch. 2, c. 12, enacts that the Overseers may make a rate to reimburse the constables, this is construed they shall; for they are compellable so to do. 2 Salk. 609.
13. Where a Statute directs a penalty to be recovered in any Court of Record; this shall not be intended of the Quarter Sessions, unless it be specially named in such Statute; but only of the superior Courts of Record. 6 Rep. 19, 20. 2 Hale, 29, 30.
14. It is a general rule in the construction of Statutes, that where things of an inferior degree are first mentioned,

Where no method of prosecution is appointed.

Where the defendant may be prosecuted both by the King and the party grieved.

In what time prosecution shall be, on penal Statutes

- Power to convene the parties. 15. Where a Statute gives power to the Justices, to require any person to do a thing, as to take the Oaths, the law impliedly gives them power to issue their precept to have the body before them; for when the law grants any thing to any one, that also is granted, without which the thing itself cannot be; and it is against the office of the Justices, and the authority given them by the law, that they shall go and seek the parties. 12 Rep. 130, 131.
- Necessity of summoning the party. 16. Where a Statute gives power to the Justices of the Peace, to hear and determine an offence in a summary way, it is necessarily implied and supposed, as a part of natural justice, that the party be first cited, and have opportunity to be heard and answer for himself. 1 Haw. c. 64, § 60.
- Two Justices to be both together. 17. Where an Act of Parliament gives power to two Justices, finally to hear and determine an offence, it is necessarily supposed that they shall be both together, or which is the same thing in other words, that they shall hold a Special Sessions for that purpose. And the like is, when they are to do any other judicial act, as to make an order of bastardy, or adjudge the settlement of a poor person. 1 Burn's Intr. 24.
- Informer's oath. 18. Where a Statute appoints a conviction to be on the oath of one witness, this ought not to be by the single oath of the informer; for if the same person shall be allowed to be both prosecutor and witness, it would induce profligate persons to commit perjury for the sake of reward. *2 Ld. - Confession. 19. Where a Statute directs, that a person shall be convicted of an offence upon the oath of one or more witnesses, and says nothing of the confession of the party; yet if the offender shall before the Justice confess the offence, he may be convicted upon such confession; for confession is stronger evidence than the oath of witnesses. Dalt. 109, 262. 1 Str. 546.

21. It may be laid down as an invariable rule, that the law favors liberty; so that in the construction of a penal Statute, where the interpretation is dubious, that sense must be pursued, (all other things being equal,) which is more beneficial to the subject, or the party suffering. Thus, where an Act directs, that the Justices shall commit an offender to prison for twelve months, the Justices may not alter the words and commit him for a year; for in this respect twelve months and one year, are not the same: but the months must be computed at twenty-eight days to the month, and not as calender months, unless it be so expressed in the Act.

23. To say that a person shall forfeit generally, or that he shall forfeit to the King, is all one, for the King shall have every forfeiture not otherwise limited. 11 Rep. 60.

Forfeiture.

Except where a forfeiture is given in lieu of property and interest, for there it shall go to the party injured. 1 Roll. Rep. 90.

For wheresoever a Statute gives a forfeiture or penalty, against him who wrongfully detains or dispossesses another of his duty or interest; in that case, he that hath the wrong shall have the forfeiture or penalty, and shall have an action for the same, upon the Statute, and the King shall not have the forfeiture in that case. 1 Inst., 159.

24. It is said that wheresoever a Justice of the Peace is empowered by any Statute, to bind a person over, or to cause him to do a certain thing, and such person, being in his presence, shall refuse to be bound, or to do such thing, the Justice may commit him to the gaol, to remain there until he shall comply. 2 Haw. c. 16, § 2.

Statute making an offence felony.

27. Wherever a Statute makes any offence felony, it incidentally gives it all the properties of felony at common law. 1 Haw. c. 38, § 18.

Misprision.

28. Therefore, an Act of Parliament that makes an offence felony, doth consequently introduce the punishment of concealing, that is misprision of felony; and every offence made felony by Act of Parliament, includes misprision. 1 Hale, 708.

Infants.

29. An Act making a new felony, extends not to infants under 14 years of age; but if they be of that age, it binds them. 1 Hale, 706. 1 Russ. 8.

Doubtful words not to make felony.

30. An offence shall never be made felony, by the construction of any doubtful and ambiguous words of a Statute; but in every such case, it shall amount unto no more than a high misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment, or the like. 1 Haw. c. 40, § 2.

Benefit of clergy.

31. All felonies by the Common Law have the benefit of clergy; therefore where a Statute enacts a felony, and says, the offender shall suffer death, clergy lies notwithstanding, and is never ousted without express words. 3 Inst. 73. 2 Haw. c. 33, § 24.

Forfeiture of dower.

32. Saving of dower, in a Statute making an offence felony, is superfluous; for by the 1 Ed. 6, c. 12, § 17, dower is not lost by the felony of the husband.

Damages.

33. Upon an indictment or other criminal prosecution, no damages can be given to the party grieved, but it is every day's practice in the Court of King's Bench, to induce defendants to make satisfaction to the prosecutors, by intimating an inclination on that account to mitigate the fine due to the King. 2 Haw. c. 25, § 3.

Treble damages.

34. Where a Statute gives treble damages; the Justices are not to assess the damages, and then treble them; but the Jury ought to find the damages, and then the Justices are to treble them. Cro. Car. 449.

Distress and sale.

35. In all cases where a Justice is required by any Statute to issue a warrant of distress for the levying of any penalty inflicted, or any sum of money directed by such Statute to be paid, it will be proper for such Justice granting the warrant, therein to order and direct the goods distrained, to be sold within a certain time limited in such warrant, if no particular time for the sale is specified in such Statute, (so as such time limited in the warrant, be not less than four days nor more than eight days, unless such penalty or sum of money, together with reasonable charges of taking and keeping the distress, be sooner paid. And the officer making such distress, may deduct the reasonable charges of taking, keeping, and selling the said distress; and the overplus (if any,) shall be returned to the owner.

36. An Act inflicting a penalty for a second offence, Second offence. must always be understood, after conviction and judgment for the first offence; and the second offence must be committed after the first conviction, and judgment thereupon given; for it doth not appear to be an offence, until judgment by proceeding of law be given against the offender.

And the indictment for a second offence, must recite the record of the first conviction; and upon the evidence, the record of the first conviction must be proved; but the matter of the first conviction, shall never be re-examined, but must stand for granted. 1 Burn's, Introdu. 26-7.

37. By the 10 G. 4, c. 26. 4 V. 49. "The Clerk of His Majesty's Council in General Assembly, shall endorse, in English, on every Act of the General Assembly, the date, month, and year, when the same shall have passed; and such endorsement shall be taken to be a part of such Act, and to be the date of its commencement, when no other commencement shall be therein provided." Perpetual. Date of commencement of a Statute.

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE, &c.

ABDUCTION.

THE following enactments have been made by the 4 Vict. c. 6, Sess. 1841, with regard to offences coming under the above title—"Sec. 18. Where a Woman shall have any interest, legal, or equitable, present, or future, absolute, conditional, or contingent, in any real or personal Estate, or shall be an heiress presumptive, or next of kin to any one having such interest, if any person shall, from motives of lucre, take away or detain her, against her will, with intent to marry or defile, or cause her to be married or defiled by any other person; such offender, and every person counselling, aiding, or abetting him, shall be guilty of felony, and be imprisoned for life, or not less than one year, as the Court shall award.

Sec. 19. Every person who shall unlawfully take, or cause to be taken, any unmarried girl under the age of sixteen years, out of the possession and against the will of her father or mother, or of any other person having the lawful care or charge of her, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be punished by fine or imprisonment, or by both.

Sec. 20. If any person shall, maliciously, either by force or fraud, lead or take away, or decoy, or entice away, or detain any child under the age of ten years, with intent to deprive the parent or parents, or any other person, having the lawful care or charge of such child, of the possession of such child, or with intent to steal any article upon or about the person of such child, to whomsoever such article may belong; or if any person shall with such intent as aforesaid, receive or harbor any such child, knowing the same to have been by force or fraud, led, taken, decoyed, enticed away, or detained as herein before mentioned; every such offender, and every person counselling, aiding, or abetting such offender, shall be guilty of felony, and be imprisoned for any term not exceeding seven years; Provided, that no person claiming to be the father of an illegitimate child, or to have any right to the possession of such child, shall be liable to be prosecuted by virtue hereof, on account of his getting possession of such child, or taking such child out of the possession of the mother, or any other person having the lawful charge thereof. Perpetual.

Directions.

As the offences mentioned in Sec. 18 & 20 of this Act, are declared to be felonies, the proceedings before Justices on information for any of such offences will be the same as in other felonies; and upon a complaint under Sec. 19, although the offence mentioned therein is declared to be only a misdemeanor, yet similar proceedings must take place, as the Sessions now have no power in such case; but the party must be committed or bailed, to answer in the Supreme Court, into which the papers must be certified and sent.—The proceedings in every case will be found sufficiently explained, and the Forms given under the respective Titles—Information—Warrant—Examination—Bail—Commitment. The offence should be stated in all the Forms, as nearly as may be done, in the precise words of the Act. The following will serve for a form of Information in each case, to be filled up according to the facts.

County of } The information and complaint of A———— } I— of the Township of ——— in the said County, yeoman, made on Oath, before me A— M—, Esquire, one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the said County of ——— on the ——— day of ——— in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ———

The said informant deposeth and saith, that on the ——— day of ——— in the year aforesaid, at ——— in the County aforesaid, A— O— late of ——— in the said County of ——— did [here state the offence, according to the facts of the case, mentioning names, age, relationship, and other particulars, according to the terms of the Act, and as near as may be done in the words declaring the offence;] And hereupon he the said A— I— prayeth that justice may be done in the premises.

A— I—.

Before me, A— M—, J. P.

The Warrant may be according to the general Form, given under the Title Warrant, filling it up according to the facts stated in the Information.

A B S E N T E E S.

By the 5 G. 3, C. 5. 1 V. 110. Non resident proprietors of lands are made liable to pay their proportion of all county and town rates, and to perform labour on the highways, in the counties and townships wherein their lands are situated.

Only the first clause of the above statute, which declares the liability of proprietors, is now in force; the other clauses, which respect the enforcement of such liability, being virtually repealed by the 33 G. 3, C. 6, 1 V. 317, made in amendment, by which it is provided, that,—“Where no person shall appear to pay such rates, or perform such labour, and no goods of the proprietor can be found within the County, whereon to levy, to satisfy such rates, or the fine for the non performance of such labour, the collector of rates, or the surveyor of highways, shall report the same to the next Spring Sessions, and such lands, by order of the Sessions, may be let by the Clerk of the Peace for one year, to pay the same, with the expenses; and if no person can be found to take them on lease, representation is to be made to the Supreme Court, by the Clerk of the Peace, and that Court, after causing reasonable means to be used to ascertain and notify the proprietor, may direct a sale of a part, or the whole of such lands, to satisfy such rates or fine, and expenses, and a deed of conveyance thereof shall be executed by the Clerk of the Peace. If there be any surplus from such lease or sale, after paying such rates or fine with expenses, the same is to be paid to the proprietor, if known, or otherwise paid into the County Treasury, and if not claimed within 3 years, to be at the disposal of the Sessions, for public purposes. Collectors, Surveyors, and Clerks of the Peace, neglecting their duty herein, to forfeit 40 shillings, to be applied for relief of the Poor.” Perpetual.

It appears desirable for many reasons, that this statute should be universally and strictly carried into effect; particularly, as this would enforce only a just contribution to public charges, from such non resident proprietors, and would have a tendency to induce them to take more prompt and effectual means for the sale or improvement of their lands.

It is not thought requisite to insert any forms under this title, as the leases and conveyances will be nearly the same as in ordinary cases, with only the difference of briefly reciting the liability and neglect of payment, advertisement to let or sell, means used to notify the proprietor, and such other requisites as are prescribed in the statute. The enforcement of payment by distress and sale, where goods, &c., of the proprietor are found within the County, will be the same as in other cases of non payment of rates or fines, for which, respectively, see Titles—Rates—and Highways.

ACCESSARY.

- I. OF ACCESSARIES IN GENERAL.
- II. OF ACCESSARIES BEFORE THE FACT.
- III. OF ACCESSARIES AFTER THE FACT AND RECEIVERS.
- IV. HOW ACCESSARIES AND RECEIVERS ARE TO BE PROCEEDED AGAINST.

I. OF ACCESSARIES IN GENERAL.

Accessory, is he that is not the chief actor, but one that is concerned in the felony, by commandment, aid, or receipt.

In high treason, there are no Accessaries, neither before nor after; for the consenters, aiders, abettors, and knowing receivers and comforters of traitors, are all principals. So in cases that are criminal, but not capital, as in petit larceny, and trespass, there are no Accessaries; for the Accessaries before, are in the same degree as principals; and Accessaries after, by receiving the offenders, cannot be in law under any penalties as Accessaries, unless the statutes that induce those penalties do expressly extend to receivers or comforters, as some do. 1 Hale, 613. Note. By 4 Vict. C. 7, Sec. 12, the distinction between grand and petit larceny is abolished, and therefore there may be Accessaries in every larceny, whatever may be the value of the property stolen.

Accessaries only in Capital Felonies.

This title of Accessary, refers chiefly to capital felonies, whether by the common law, or by statute.

Concerning which L. Coke observes generally, that when an offence is felony, either by the common law, or by statute, all Accessaries, both before and after, are incidentally included.—Co. Inst. 3—59.

In Felonies
by Statute.

And Mr. Hawkins says, I take it to be settled at this day, that in all cases, where a statute makes any offence treason, or felony, it involves the receiver of the offender in the same guilt with himself, in the same manner as in treason or felony at common law, unless there be an express provision to the contrary. 2 Haw. c. 29, § 14.

The word command, is to be considered as comprehending all those who incite, procure, set on, or stir up, any other to do the fact. 2 East's. P. C. 641.

II. OF ACCESSARIES BEFORE THE FACT.

An Accessary before the fact committed, is he that being absent at the time of the felony committed, doth yet procure, counsel, command, or abet another to commit a felony. For if he be present, he is not an accessary but a principal. 1 Burn's, 2.

So if divers come to commit an unlawful act, and be present at the time of the felony committed, though one of them only doth it, they are all principals.—Hale's Sum. 215. So if one present move the other to strike; or if one present did nothing, but yet came to assist the party if needful; or if one hold the party while the felon strikes him; or if one present deliver his weapon to the other that strikes: for they are present, aiding, abetting, or comforting.—Hale's Sum. 216. So if several persons set out together, or in small parties, upon one common design, be it murder or other felony, or for any other purpose unlawful in itself, and each taketh the part assigned him, some to commit the fact, and others to watch at proper stations to prevent a surprise, or to favour, if need be, the escape of those, who are more immediately engaged. They are all, provided the fact be committed, in the eye of the law, present at it; and therefore are all principals. Fost. 350. But if one came casually, not of the confederacy, though he hindered not the felony, he is neither principal nor Accessary, although he apprehend not the felon; but for his negligence he is punishable by fine and imprisonment. Hale's Sum. 216. 2 Haw. c. 29, § 10.

As to Accessaries some diversities are to be noted; as,

(1.) When the principal doth not accomplish the fact, altogether in the same sort, as it was before hand agreed between him and the Accessary; and therefore if one command another to lay hold upon a third person, and he lays hold upon him and robs him, the person commanding is not Accessary to the robbery. Dalt. c. 161, p. 369. But if the command had been to beat him, and the party commanded doth kill him, or beat him so that he dieth thereof, the person commanding shall be accessary to the murder for it is a hazard in beating a man, that he may die thereof. Id.

(2.) He that commands or counsels any evil or unlawful act to be done, shall be adjudged accessory to all that shall ensue upon the same evil act, but not to any other distinct thing*—As if one command another to steal a horse, and he steals an ox; or to burn such a one's house, and he burns the house of another; these are other felonies than he commanded to be done, and therefore he shall not be adjudged accessory to them. Dall. c. 161, p. 369.

(3.) But if a person commit the same felony, which another did counsel or command to be done, though he doth it at another time, or in another place, or in another sort than was commanded or counselled, yet here, such person commanding or counselling, shall be accessory. As if he doth counsel to kill a man by poison, and he kills him with a dagger; or to kill him one day, and he kills him on another day; in these, and the like cases, he shall be accessory to the murder. Id.

(4.) Those offences which in the construction of law are sudden and unpremeditated, cannot have any accessaries before. As killing a man by misadventure, in his own defence, or manslaughter. 1 Hale, 616.

(5.) It seems to be generally agreed, that he who barely conceals a felony which he knows to be intended, is guilty only of a misprision of felony, and shall not be adjudged an accessory. 2 Hawk. c. 29, § 23.

By the 4 Vic., c. 4, sec. 14, "Every person who shall counsel, procure, or command any other person to commit any felony, whether the same be a felony at common law, or by virtue of any statute or statutes, made or to be made, shall be deemed guilty of felony, and may be indicted and convicted, either as an accessory before the fact to the principal felony, together with the principal felon, or after the conviction of the principal felon; or may be indicted and convicted of a substantive felony; whether the principal felon shall or shall not have been previously convicted, or shall or shall not be amenable to justice; and in case the principal felony shall have been committed within the body of any county, and the offence of counselling, procuring, or commanding, shall have been committed within the body of any other County, the last mentioned offence may be enquired of, tried, and punished in either of such counties; Provided that no person who shall be once duly tried for any such offence, shall be liable to be again indicted or tried for the same offence. Perpetual.

* To incite and solicit another to commit a crime is a misdemeanor, although no act be done in consequence of such incitement and solicitation. —Reg. es. Higgins. 2 East. 5.

III. OF ACCESSARIES AFTER THE FACT, AND RECEIVERS.

Accessory after the fact, is where a person knowing the felony to be committed by another, relieves, comforts, or assists the felon.

It is necessary that the receiver have notice of the felony, either express or implied; and it must be laid in the indictment, that the receiver knew that the person received by him had committed the principal felony. 2 Haw., c. 29, § 32.

This offence, holds only in those felonies, where by the law judgment of death regularly ought to ensue; and therefore ought not in petit larceny. 1 Hale, 618. Unless where it is otherwise provided by statute.

It seems if a person do barely receive, comfort, or conceal an offender guilty of any common trespass or inferior crime of the like nature, though he knew him to have been guilty, and that there is a warrant out against him, (which by reason of such concealment cannot be executed,) yet he is not an accessory to the offence; but perhaps in such case, he may be indictable for a contempt of the law, in hindering the due course of justice; and if the act of such receiver amount to a rescue, or to the obstructing an officer of justice in the execution of his duty, or the like, he would undoubtedly be indictable for it, as for a misdemeanor. 2 Haw. c. 29, § 4.

Several things are to be considered in explication of the words "relieve, comfort, or assist the felon":

(1.) Generally any assistance whatsoever given to one known to be a felon, in order to hinder his being apprehended or tried, or suffering the punishment to which he is condemned, is sufficient to make a person accessory to the felony; as where one assists him with a horse to ride away with, or with money or victuals to support him in his escape. 2 Haw., c. 29, § 26.

(2.) But if a man know that a person hath committed a felony, but doth not discover it, this doth not make him an accessory, but it is a misprision of felony, for which he may be indicted, and upon his conviction fined and imprisoned. 1 Hale, 618.

(3.) Also, if a man see another commit a felony, but consents not, nor yet takes care to apprehend him, or to levy hue and cry after him, or upon hue and cry levied doth not pursue him; this is a neglect punishable by fine and imprisonment, but it doth not make him an accessory. 1 Hale, 618.

(4.) In like manner, if one commit a felony, and come to a person's house, before he be arrested, and such person suffer him to escape without arrest, knowing him to have committed a felony, this doth not make him an accessary; but if he take money of the felon to suffer him to escape, or if he shut the fore door of his house, whereby the pursuers are deceived, and the felon hath opportunity to escape, he makes himself an accessary. 1 Hale, 619.

(5.) Whosoever rescues a felon from an arrest for the felony, or voluntarily suffers him to escape, is an accessary to the felony. 2 Haw. c. 29, § 27.

(6.) But if a felon be in prison, he that relieves him with necessary meat, drink, or clothes, for the sustentation of life, is not accessary. 1 Hale, 620. So if he be bailed out, it is lawful to relieve and maintain him. Id.

(7.) But if a felon be in gaol, for a man to convey instruments to him to break prison to make an escape; or to bribe the gaoler to let him escape, makes the party an accessary. 1 Hale, 621.

(8.) The sending a letter in favour of a felon, or advising to labour witnesses not to appear, makes no accessary, but it is a high contempt. Hale's Sum. 219.

(9.) A man may be accessary to an accessary, by the receiving of him, knowing him to be an accessary to felony. 1 Hale, 622.

(10.) If a man have goods stolen, and he receive his goods again, simply without any contract to favour the felon in his prosecution, this is lawful, but if he receive them upon agreement not to prosecute, or to prosecute faintly, this is theftbote, punishable by imprisonment and fine; but yet it makes him not an accessary; but if he takes money of him to favour him, whereby he escapes, this makes him an accessary. 1 Hale, 619.

(11.) It seems agreed that the law hath such a regard to that duty, love and tenderness which a wife owes to her husband, as not to make her an accessary to felony, by any receipt given to her husband. Yet if she be any way guilty of procuring her husband to commit it, it seems to make her an accessary before the fact, in the same manner as if she had been sole. But no other relation besides that of a wife to her husband, will exempt the receiver of a felon from being an accessary to the felony; from whence it follows, that if a master receive a servant, or a servant a master, or a brother a brother, or even a husband a wife, they are accessaries in the same manner as if they had been mere strangers to one another. 2 Haw. c. 29, § 34.

By the 4 Vic. c. 7, sec. 45, Session, 1841. If any person shall receive any chattel, money, valuable security, or other property whatsoever, the stealing or taking whereof shall amount to a felony, either at common law or by this Act, such person, knowing the same to have been feloniously stolen, or taken, shall be guilty of felony, and may be indicted and convicted, either as an accessory after the fact, or for a substantive felony; and in the latter case, whether the principal felon shall or shall not have been previously convicted, or shall or shall not be amenable to justice; and every such receiver, shall be liable to be imprisoned for a term not exceeding seven years. Provided that no such person shall be prosecuted a second time for the same offence.—Perpetual. For further information as to receivers of stolen property, see Title—Larceny.

IV. HOW ACCESSARIES AND RECEIVERS ARE TO BE PROCEEDED AGAINST.

By 3 Ed. I. C. 15. Those who are accused of the receipt of felons, or of commandment or force, or of aid in felony done, shall be bailable; but this seems to be only where it stands indifferent whether the party be guilty or innocent; for if there be strong presumptions of guilt, it seemeth that he is not bailable. 2 Hawk. c. 15, sec. 53.

Where a felony is committed in one county, and a person is accessory after the fact in another county, the offence of such accessory may be enquired of, and tried, in either county—Provided, that no such person shall be prosecuted a second time for the same offence. 4 Vic. c. 4, sec. 15, Sess. 1841. And by sec. 16 of the same act, if a principal offender be convicted of a felony, the accessory either before or after the fact may be proceeded against in the same manner, as if such principal felon had been attainted thereof, notwithstanding such principal felon shall die, or be pardoned, or otherwise delivered before attainder.—Perpetual.

It is now agreed that the principal, though not convicted, or pardoned, may be examined as a witness against the receiver. 2 East. P. C. 782, 3. 2 Leach, 418. 1 Burns, 22.

- II. HOW FAR IT MAY BE SUPPRESSED BY A PRIVATE PERSON.
- III. HOW FAR BY A CONSTABLE.
- IV. HOW FAR BY A JUSTICE OF THE PEACE.
- V. PUNISHMENT OF AN AFFRAY.

I. WHAT IS AN AFFRAY.

An Affray is a public offence to the terror of the King's subjects ; so called, because it affrights and makes men afraid. 3 Co. Inst. 158.

Words do not amount to an Affray.

There may be an Assault which will not amount to an Affray, as where it happens in a private place, out of the hearing or seeing of any except the parties concerned ; in which case it cannot be said to be to the terror of the people. Also, it is said, that no quarrelsome or threatening words shall amount to an affray ; and that no one can justify laying his hands on those who shall barely quarrel with angry words, without coming to blows ; yet it seems that the constable may at the request of the party threatened, carry the person who threatens to beat him before a Justice, in order to find sureties. 1 Haw. c. 63, § 1 & 2. 1 Burns, 25.

Challenge to fight.

It is a very high offence to challenge another, either by word or letter to fight a duel ; or to be the messenger of such a challenge ; or even barely to endeavour to provoke another to send a challenge, or to fight ; as by dispersing letters to that purpose full of reflections, and insinuating a desire to fight. 1 Burns, 25.

Affray where no actual violence.

In some cases there may be an affray where there is no actual violence ; as where a man arms himself with dangerous and unusual weapons, in such a manner as will naturally cause a terror to the people, which is said to have been always an offence at the common law, and is strictly prohibited by statute; for by 2 Ed. 3, C. 3, it is enacted, "That no man of what condition soever, except the King's servants, in his presence, and his ministers in executing their office, and such as be in their company assisting them, and also upon a cry made for arms to keep the peace, shall come before the King's Justices, or other of the King's Ministers doing their office, with force and arms; nor bring any force in affray of peace; nor go, nor ride armed by night or day, in fairs or markets, or in the presence of the King's Justices, or other Ministers, or elsewhere; upon pain to forfeit their armour to the King, and their bodies to prison, at the King's pleasure. And the King's Justices, in their presence, Sheriffs, and other Ministers, in their bailiwicks, Lords of Franchises, and their Bailiffs in the same, and Mayors and Bailiffs of Cities and Boroughs within the same, and borough holders, Constables, and Wardens of the Peace, within their Wards, shall have power to execute this Act." Id. 25.

It is holden upon the words of exception in the above statute, that no person is within the intention of this statute, who arms himself to suppress dangerous rioters, rebels, or enemies, and endeavours to suppress or resist such disturbers of the peace and quiet of the realm. Also, that no wearing of arms is within the meaning of this statute, unless it be accompanied with such circumstances as are apt to terrify the people; consequently, that persons of quality are in no danger of offending against this statute by wearing common weapons, or having their usual number of attendants with them, for their ornament or defence. Id. 26.

A man cannot excuse the wearing of armour in public, by alleging that such a one threatened him, and that he wears it for the safety of his person from his assault; but no one shall incur the penalty of the said statute, for assembling his neighbours and friends in his own house, against those who threaten to do him any violence therein; because a man's house is as his castle. Id. 26.

It is holden that any Justice of the Peace, or other person who is empowered to execute this statute, may proceed therein ex officio, and if he find any person in arms contrary to the form of the statute, he may seize the arms, and commit the offender to prison, and that he ought also to make a record of the whole proceeding, and certify the same into the Exchequer. Id. 26.

II. OF SUPPRESSING IT BY A PRIVATE PERSON.

It seems agreed, that any one who sees others fighting, may lawfully part them ; and also stay them till the heat be over, and then deliver them to the Constable, to be carried before a Justice, to find sureties for the Peace. 1 Haw. c. 6, § 11. 1 Burns, 26.

And the law doth encourage him hereunto ; for if he receive any harm by the affrayers, he shall have his remedy by law against them, and if the affrayers receive hurt by endeavouring only to part them, the standers by may justify the same ; and the affrayers have no remedy by law. But if either of the parties be slain, or wounded, or so stricken that he falls down for dead, in that case the standers by ought to apprehend the party so slaying, wounding, or striking ; or to endeavour the same by hue and cry ; or else for his escape they shall be fined and imprisoned. 3 Inst. 158. 1 Burns, 26.

III. HOW FAR BY A CONSTABLE.

A Constable is not only empowered to part an affray which happens in his presence, but is bound to use his best endeavours to this purpose ; and also to demand the assistance of others, which if they refuse to give him, they are punishable by fine and imprisonment. And if he sees persons either actually engaged in an affray, or upon the very point of entering upon one ; as where a person shall threaten to kill, wound, or beat another, he may either carry the offender before a Justice to find sureties for the peace, or he may imprison him of his own authority for a reasonable time, until the heat shall be over ; and also afterwards detain him till he find such surety by obligation : But it seems, that he has no power to imprison such an offender in any other manner, or for any other purpose : And it is said, that he ought not to lay hands on those who barely contend with hot words, without any threats of personal hurt, but can only command them, under pain of imprisonment, to avoid fighting. 1 Burns, 27.

Also, if an assault be made upon him, he may not only defend himself, but also imprison the offender in the same manner as if he were no way a party. And if an affray be in a house, the Constable may break open the doors to preserve the peace ; and if affrayers fly to a house, and he follow with fresh suit, he may break open the doors to take them. But it is said, that a Constable hath no power to arrest a man for an affray done out of his own view, without a Warrant from a Justice, unless a felony were done, or likely to be done. Id. 27.

IV. HOW FAR BY A JUSTICE OF THE PEACE.

There is no doubt but that a Justice of the Peace may and must do all such things to the aforesaid purpose, which a private man or constable is either enabled or required by the law to do: But it is said, that he cannot without a warrant authorize the arrest of any person for an affray out of his own view; yet it seems clear, that in such case, he may make his warrant to bring the offender before him, in order to compel him to find sureties for the peace. And a Justice has a greater power over one who has dangerously wounded another in an affray, than either a private person or a Constable; for there does not seem to be any good authority, that these have any power at all to take sureties of such an offender; but it seems certain, that a Justice has a discretionary power either to commit him, or to bail him, till the year and day be past. But it is said, that he ought to be very cautious how he takes bail, if the wound be dangerous; for that if the party die, and the offender appear not, he is in danger of being severely fined, if he shall appear upon the whole circumstances of the case to have been too favourable. 1 Burns, 27, 28.

V. PUNISHMENT OF AN AFFRAY.

All Affrays in general are punishable by fine and imprisonment. 1 Burns, 28.

ARREST.

This title is to be understood of Arrests in Criminal cases only, and not in Civil cases.

In law, an arrest doth signify the restraint of a man's person, depriving him of his own will and liberty, and binding him to become obedient to the will of the law; and it may be called the beginning of imprisonment. Lamb, 95. 1 Burns, 169.

Bodies Corporate, acting in a way that would render an individual liable to arrest, cease to retain of course their corporate character, and become individually responsible.— 1 Burns, 170.

In the case of Rex vs. Woodham, 2 Sh. 828, upon a motion for an information against the defendant, who was a Justice of the Peace, it was holden, that a person in execution in the King's Bench prison, may be there charged criminally by the warrant of a Justice of the Peace; but that no such Justice can take a prisoner of this Court out of the custody of the Court, and send him to the County gaol.— Id. 170.

By statutes 50, Ed. 3, C. 5, and 1 Rich. 2, C. 15.— In Church
None shall arrest Priests, or their Clerks, or other persons of Yards. X

Also by Stat. 29, C. 2, c. 7, § 6, "A warrant executed On Sundays.
against any person whatsoever, on the Lord's day, is void; and the persons serving the same, shall answer damages, as if they had done the same without warrant; except in cases of treason, felony, or breach of the peace. Id. 170. X

II. FOR WHAT CAUSES OF SUSPICION AN ARREST MAY BE.

By the statute of 34 Ed. 3, C. 1. Power is given to the Justices of the Peace to arrest all those, whom they find by indictment, or by suspicion, and to put them in prison.

The causes of suspicion which are generally agreed to justify the arrest of an innocent person for felony, are these Causes of that follow: Suspicion.

(1.) The common fame of the country; but it seems that it ought to appear upon evidence, in an action brought for such arrest, that such fame had some probable ground.

(2.) Being found in such circumstances, as induce a strong presumption of guilt; as coming out of a house wherein murder has been committed, with a bloody knife in one's hand; or being found in possession of any part of goods stolen, without being able to give a probable account of coming honestly by them.

(3.) The behaving one's self in such a manner as betrays a consciousness of guilt; as where a man accused of felony, on hearing that a warrant is taken out against him, doth abscond. 1 Burns, 170.

(4.) The being found in company with one known to be an offender, at the time of the offence; or generally at other times, keeping company with persons of scandalous reputation. Id.

(5.) The living an idle, vagrant, and disorderly life, without having any visible means to support it. 2 Haw. c. 12, § 10, 11. A woman walking up and down the streets to pick up men, a night-walker may be apprehended. Per Lawrence, J. Lawrence vs. Hedger. 3 Taunt, 15.

(6.) The being pursued by hue and cry. For if a felony is done, and one is pursued upon hue and cry, that is not of ill fame, suspicious, unknown, nor indicted, he may be attached and imprisoned by the law of the land. 1 Burns, 171.

(7.) But generally no such cause of suspicion as any of the above mentioned, will justify an arrest, where in truth no such crime hath been committed; unless it be in the case of hue and cry. Id. 171.

By a Peace Officer.

(8.) In the case of Samuel vs. Payne and others—Doug. 359,—it was determined that a peace officer may justify an arrest on a reasonable charge of felony, without a warrant, although it should afterwards appear that the man is innocent, or even that no felony was in fact committed; but that a private individual in such a case cannot.

If a peace officer, of his own head, takes a person into custody on suspicion, he must prove that there was such a crime committed; but if he receives a person into custody, on a charge preferred by another of felony, or breach of the peace, there he is to be considered a mere conduit; and if no felony or breach of the peace was committed, the person who preferred the charge alone is answerable. Per L. Ellenb. Hobbs vs. Branscomb and others, sittings after T. T., 53 G. 3. 3 Camp. 420. 1 Burns, 172.

III. BY WHOM THE ARREST SHALL BE MADE.

Arrest without warrant.

If a Justice see a felony or other breach of the peace committed in his presence, he may in his own person apprehend the offender; and he may also, by word of mouth, command any one to arrest another who shall be guilty of any felony or actual breach of the peace in his presence; and such command is a good warrant without writing. 2 Hale, 86. 1 Burns, 173.

ted, or a dangerous wound given, are bound to apprehend the offender, on pain of being fined and imprisoned for their neglect, unless they were under age at the time. Also every private person is bound to assist an officer demanding his help for the taking of a felon, or the suppressing of an affray. 1 Burns, 173.

A Constable may, ex officio, arrest a breaker of the peace in his view, and keep him in his house or in the stocks, till he can take him before a Justice; or any person whatsoever, if an affray be made to the breach of the King's peace, may, without any warrant from a Magistrate, restrain any of the offenders, to the end the King's peace may be kept; but after the affray is ended, they cannot be arrested without an express Warrant. Id.

All peace officers, and also private persons, may arrest any man about to commit a felony, or treason, or any act which would manifestly endanger another's life, and detain him until the intent be presumed to have ceased. 2 Hawk. c. 12, § 19.

By the 4 Vic. C. 7, Sess. 1841, relating to robbery, burglary, and larceny, sec. 54. Any person found committing any offence punishable either upon indictment, or upon summary conviction, by virtue of the Act, may be immediately apprehended without a warrant, by any peace officer, or by the owner of the property on or with respect to which the offence was committed, or by his servant, or by any person authorised by him, and forthwith taken before some neighbouring Justice of the Peace, to be dealt with according to law. And any person to whom any property shall be offered to be sold, pawned, or delivered, if he shall have reasonable cause to suspect that any offence punishable under the Act has been committed, on or with respect to such property, is hereby authorised, and, if in his power, is required to apprehend and forthwith to carry before a Justice of the Peace the party offering the same, together with such property, to be dealt with according to law. Perpetual.

So much concerning an Arrest without a Warrant; next follows, arresting with such Warrant. Arrest by Warrant.

The Warrant is, ordinarily, directed to the Sheriff or Constable, and they are indictable and subject thereupon to a fine and imprisonment, if they neglect or refuse it.

The Sheriff may command any of his sworn and known Officers to execute it, without writing any precept.

But every other person to whom it is directed, must personally execute it; yet it seems that any one may lawfully assist him. Id. 174.

If a Warrant be generally directed to all Constables, no one can execute it out of his own precinct; for in such case it shall be taken respectively to each of them within their several districts, and not to one of them to execute it within the district of another: but if it be directed to a particular Constable, by name, he may execute it any where within the jurisdiction of the Justice, but is not compellable to execute it out of his own constablewick. Id.

The Justice may direct the Warrant to a private person if he please, and it is good; but such person is not compellable to execute it, unless he be a proper officer. Id.

But by the Justices oath of office, the Warrant ought not to be directed to the party, but to some indifferent person to execute it.

If a Warrant be directed to two or more jointly, yet any one of them alone may execute it. Id. 174.

IV. THE MANNER OF AN ARREST.

The Officer to whom a Warrant is directed and delivered, ought with all speed and secrecy to find out the party; and then to execute the Warrant. 1 Burns, 174.

It is certainly an offence of a very high nature, to oppose one who lawfully endeavours to arrest another for treason or felony; and it seems that a person, who so opposes an arrest for treason, whereof he knows the party to have been guilty, is thereby guilty of the treason; and that he who so opposes an arrest for felony, is an accessory to the felony. Id.

An arrest in the night is good both at the suit of the King and of the subject; else the party may escape. Id.

By the 54 G. 3, C. 15, 1 V. 122. "A Warrant issued by a Justice in one County, may on proof on Oath being made of his hand writing, be endorsed by a Justice in another County, into which the offender has escaped; and the Constables and all others to whom such Warrant was originally directed, may arrest the offender in such latter County where the Warrant was indorsed, and carry him before the Justice who endorsed it, or some other Justice in such latter County, if the offence be bailable, to find bail; or else shall carry him back again before a Justice in the County from whence the Warrant did first issue. Perpetual.

In the case of Mayhew vs. Parker, 8 T. R. 110., it was determined, that a Warrant to arrest the party, to the end that he may become bound to appear at the next Sessions, &c., means the next Sessions after the arrest, and not after the date of the Warrant; therefore the officer executing it may justify an arrest, after the Sessions next ensuing the date of the Warrant. 1 Burns, 174.

Any Justice or the Sheriff may take of the County any number that he shall think meet, to pursue, arrest, and imprison traitors, murderers, robbers, and other felons; or such as do break, or go about to break or disturb the King's peace; and every person above the age of fifteen years, and able to travel, being required, ought to assist, and aid them, on pain of fine and imprisonment. But it is not justifiable for a Justice, Sheriff, or other officer, to assemble the posse comitatus, or raise a power or assembly of people upon their own heads, without just cause. Id.

Taking the power of the County.

As to the case of breaking open doors, in order to apprehend offenders, it is to be observed, that the law doth never allow of such extremities but in cases of necessity; and therefore no one can justify breaking open another's door to make an arrest, unless he first signify to those in the house, the cause of his coming, and request them to give him admittance. Id. 175.

Breaking open doors.

No precise form of words is required in a case of this kind. It is sufficient that the party hath notice, that the officer cometh not as a mere trespasser, but claiming to act under a proper authority, provided that the officer has a legal warrant. Id.

But where a person authorized to arrest another, who is sheltered in a house, is denied quietly to enter into it, in order to take him, it seems generally to be agreed, that he may justify breaking open the doors in the following instances:

(1.) Upon a Capias grounded on an indictment for any crime whatsoever, or upon a Capias from the Chancery or King's Bench, to compel a man to find sureties for the peace or good behaviour, or even upon a Warrant from a Justice of the Peace, for such purpose. Id.

(2.) When one known to have committed a treason or felony, or to have given another a dangerous wound, is pursued either with or without a warrant, by a Constable or private person; but where one lies under a probable suspicion only, and is not indicted, it seems the better opinion at this day, that no one can justify the breaking open doors in order to apprehend him. Id.

But upon a Warrant for probable cause of suspicion of felony, the person to whom such Warrant is directed, may break open doors to take the person suspected, if upon demand he will not surrender himself; as well as if there had been an express and positive charge against him; and so (says Mr. Hawkins) hath the common practice obtained, notwithstanding the contrary opinion of Lord Coke, for in such case, the process is for the king, and therefore a non omittas is implied. Id.

And as he may break open such person's own house, so much more may he break open the house of another, to take him; for so the Sheriff may do upon civil process: But then he must at his peril see that the felon be there; for if the felon be not there, he is a trespasser to the stranger whose house it is. Id.

It is but a thing permitted to private persons to arrest for suspicion; and they are not punishable if they omit it, but in case of a Constable, he is punishable if he omit it upon complaint. Id. 176.

And in general, an Officer upon any Warrant from a Justice, either for the peace or good behaviour, or in any case where the King is party, may by force break open a man's house, to arrest the offender. Id.

(3.) On a Warrant to search for stolen goods, the doors may be broke open, if the goods are there; and if they are not there, the Constable seems indemnified, but he that made the suggestion is punishable. 2 Hale, 151.—1 Burns, 175.

(4.) Also doors may be broke open where forcible entry or detainer is found by inquisition before Justices of the Peace, or appears on their view. 1 Burns, 176.

(5.) Also on the Warrant of a Justice of the Peace, for the levying of a forfeiture in execution of a judgment, or conviction for it, grounded on any statute which gives the whole or any part of such forfeiture to the King. Id.

(6.) Where an affray is made in a house in the view or hearing of the Constable, he may break open the doors to take them. Id.

(7.) If there be disorderly drinking or noise in a house at an unseasonable time of night, especially in inns, taverns, or alehouses, the Constable or his watch demanding entrance, and being refused, may break open the doors to see and suppress the disorder. Id.

(8.) Wherever a person is lawfully arrested for any cause, and afterwards escapes and shelters himself in an house, the doors may be broke open. Id.

(9.) But upon a general Warrant, without expressing any felony, or treason, or surety of the Peace, the Officer cannot break open a door. Id.

(10.) In a civil suit, the Officer cannot justify the breaking open an outward door or window, in order to exe-

But if he finds the outward door open, and enters that way; or if the door be opened to him from within, and he enters, he may break open inward doors, if he finds that necessary, in order to execute his process. For a man's house is his Castle, for safety and repose to himself and his family; but if a stranger, who is not of the family, upon pursuit takes refuge in the house of another, this rule doth not extend to him, it is not his castle, he cannot claim the benefit of sanctuary therein. And it is always to be remembered, that this rule must be confined to the case of arrest upon Civil suits only. For where a felony hath been committed, or a dangerous wound given; or even where a minister of justice comes armed with process founded on a breach of the peace, the party's own house is no sanctuary for him. Id.

(11.) Finally, in all these cases, if an Officer to serve any warrant, enter into a house, the doors being open, and then the doors are locked upon him, he may break them open, in order to regain his liberty. Id. 177.

If there be a Warrant against a person for a trespass or breach of the peace, and he fly and will not yield to the arrest; or being taken, make his escape; if the Officer kill him, it is murder. Id.

Killing in the arrest or pursuit.

But if such person, either upon the attempt to arrest, or after the arrest, assault the Officer, to the intent to make his escape from him; and the Officer standing upon his guard, kill him, this is no felony, for he is not bound to go back to the wall, as in common cases of se defendendo, for the law is his protection. Id.

A person sworn and commonly known and acting within his own precinct, need not show his Warrant, but he ought to acquaint the party with the substance of it. Id. 178.

Shewing the Warrant.

An Officer gives sufficient notice what he is, when he saith to the party, I arrest you in the King's name, and in such case the party at his peril ought to obey him, though he knows him not to be an Officer; and if he have no lawful warrant, the party grieved may have his action of false imprisonment. Id.

But if he act out of his precinct, or be not sworn and commonly known, he must shew his Warrant if demanded. Otherwise the party may make resistance, and needs not to obey it. In no case however is a Constable required to part with the Warrant out of his own possession; for that is his justification. Id.

But if the Constable have no warrant, but doth it by virtue of his office as a Constable, it is sufficient to notify that he is Constable; or that he arrests in the King's name. Id.

No arrest by words only.

Bare words will not make an arrest without laying hold on the person, or otherwise confining him. But if an Officer come into a room, and tell the party he arrests him, and lock the door, this is an arrest; for he is in custody of the Officer. Id. 179.

Retaking after arrest.

It hath been holden, that if a Constable after he hath arrested the party by force of a Warrant, suffer him to go at large, upon his promise to come again and find sureties, he cannot afterwards arrest him by force of the same Warrant: However, if the party return and put himself again under the custody of the Constable, it seems it may be probably argued, that the Constable may lawfully detain him, and bring him before the Justice in pursuance of such Warrant. Id.

But if the party arrested do escape, the Officer upon fresh suit may take him again, and again so often as he escapes; although he were out of view, or that he shall fly into another town or county. Id.

V. WHAT IS TO BE DONE AFTER THE ARREST.

By a private person.

When a private person hath arrested a felon, or one suspected of felony, he should with as much speed as conveniently he can, carry him immediately to a Justice of the Peace, or deliver him to a Constable; who may either carry him to gaol, or to a Justice. And if a Constable hath arrested affrayers, or persons drinking in an ale-house disorderly, at an unseasonable time of night, he may imprison them till the heat of their passion or intemperance is over, though he deliver them afterwards; or till he can bring them before a Justice. 1 Burns, 179.

By a Constable.

By an Officer by Warrant.

If the arrest be by virtue of a Warrant, and the direction of the Warrant be to bring the party before the Justice, who granted it, specially; then the Officer is bound to bring him before the same Justice; but if the Warrant be to bring him before any Justice of the County, then it is in the election of the Officer to bring him before what Justice he thinks fit; and not in the election of the prisoner. 1 Burns, 179. But if the time be unseasonable, as in or near the night, whereby he cannot attend the Justice; or if there be danger of a present rescue, or if the party be sick, he may secure him in the stocks, or in an house till the next day, or such time as it may be reasonable to bring him. 1 Burns, 180.

And when he hath brought him to the Justice, yet he is in law still in his custody, till the Justice discharge, or bail, or commit him. Id.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

- I. WHAT IS AN ASSAULT.
- II. WHAT IS A BATTERY.
- III. IN WHAT CASES THEY MAY BE JUSTIFIED.
- IV. HOW PUNISHED.

I. WHAT IS AN ASSAULT.

An Assault is an attempt or offer with force and violence to do a bodily hurt to another, as by striking at him with or without a weapon, though the party striking misses his aim, so drawing a sword, throwing a bottle or glass with intent to wound or strike; presenting a gun at a person within the distance to which the gun will carry; or pointing a pitchfork at a person standing within reach; holding up one's fist at him in a threatening or insulting manner, or with such other circumstances as denote at the time an intention (coupled with a present ability) of using actual violence against his person. No words whatsoever can amount to an Assault. 1 Haw. c. 62, § 1. 1 Burns, 181.

II. WHAT IS A BATTERY.

A Battery, in the legal acceptance of the term, means not merely to strike forcibly with the hand, or a stick, or the like; but includes every touching (however trifling) of another's person, in an angry or revengeful, rude, or insolent manner, as thrusting or pushing him in anger, holding him by the arm, spitting in his face, jostling him out of the way, pushing another man against him, throwing a squib at him, striking a horse upon which he is riding, whereby he is thrown, or the like. 1 Burns, 181. Arch. C. P. 241.

III. IN WHAT CASES THEY MAY BE JUSTIFIED.

It is a good defence, to prove that the alleged Battery happened by misadventure; as where a horse ran away with his rider, and ran against a man; also where a soldier in his ranks, discharged his gun, and a man unexpectedly venture.

By parent or

passed before him at the time, and was hurt by it. So it is a good defence that the alleged battery was merely an amicable contest; as that he wrestled with the prosecutor for a wager; or that it happened by accident, whilst the defendant was engaged in some sport or game which was neither unlawful nor dangerous. Also the correction of a child by his parent, of a servant or scholar by his master, and the punishment of a criminal by the proper officer may be justified; provided the correction be moderate in the manner, the instrument, and the quantity of it; or that the criminal be punished in the manner appointed by law. Also if a man force a sword from one who offers to kill another; or gently lay his hands on another, and thereby stay him from inciting a dog against a third person; or if a man fight with or beat one who attempts to kill any stranger; or if he even threaten to kill one who puts him in fear of death in such a place where he cannot safely fly from him; or if one imprison those whom he sees fighting till the heat is over; in all these cases the party may justify the Assault and Battery. Arch. C. P. 242. 1 Burns, 182.

It is a justification even of a wounding or maim, to prove that the prosecutor assaulted or beat the defendant first, and that the defendant committed the alleged battery merely in his own defence; if he prove an assault merely, as for instance, that the prosecutor lifted up his staff and offered to strike him; it is sufficient to justify the defendant's striking him, for he need not in such a case stay till the other has actually struck him. So a husband may justify a battery in defence of his wife, a wife in defence of her husband, a parent in defence of his child, a child in defence of his parent, a master in defence of his servant, and a servant in defence of his master. But in all these cases, the battery must be such only as was necessary to the defence of the party or his relation; for if it were excessive, if it were greater than was necessary for mere defence the prior assault will be no justification. It is not every trifling assault that will justify a grievous and immediate mayhem; such as cutting off a leg or hand, or biting off a joint of a man's finger, unless it happened accidentally, without any cruel or malignant intention, or after the blood was heated in the scuffle; but it must appear that the assault was in some degree proportionable to the mayhem. Also it will be a sufficient answer to this defence, to prove that the first assault was justifiable. Arch. C. P. 242. 1 Burns, 182, 183.

to do so by the master; neither can a tenant justify beating another in defence of his landlord. 1 Burns, 182.

A man may justify a Battery committed in defence of Possession. his possession; as for instance, to remove the prosecutor out of his close or house, or to prevent him from entering it; to restrain him from taking or destroying his goods, &c., from taking or rescuing cattle, &c., in his custody upon a distress; from disturbing him of his highway; or from turning an ancient water course from his mill, or the like. In the case of a trespass in law merely, without actual force, the owner of the close, house, &c., must first request the trespasser to depart, before he can justify laying his hand on him for the purpose of removing him; and even if he refuse, he can only justify so much force as is necessary to remove him. But if the trespasser use force, then the owner may oppose force to force, and in such a case if he be assaulted or beaten, he may justify even a wounding or mayhem in self defence, as above mentioned. In answer, however, to a justification in defence of his possession, the other party may prove that the Battery was excessive; or may justify the alleged trespass on the defendant's possession, by proving that he had a right of way over the close, or the like. Arch. C. P. 243. 1 Burns, 183.

It is a good defence that the defendant, as an Officer of Justice arrested the prosecutor by virtue of a certain writ or process, which is the Battery complained of. A Sheriff's Officer however, can only justify laying his hand upon a man in order to arrest him upon a writ or process; unless he resist or an attempt be made to rescue him; and even then he can justify no greater degree of force than was necessary in order to secure his prisoner. And the same as to Officers of Justice, and persons acting in their aid, arresting on suspicion of felony without warrant. So a man may justify laying his hand upon another to prevent him from fighting, or committing a breach of the peace, or to prevent him from rescuing goods taken in execution, or the like—yet even in these cases he must not use more force than is requisite to restrain the other party; otherwise he cannot avail himself of the threatened breach of the peace, &c., as a justification. Arch. C. P. 243.

IV. HOW PUNISHED.

There is no doubt but that the wrong doer is subject both to an action at the suit of the party, wherein he shall render damages. and also to an indictment, wherein he shall be fined, according to the heinousness of the offence. And the Court in which the action is brought, will not compel the party injured to make his election to pursue either the one or the other. 1 Burns, 183, 4.

It is an aggravation of the offence, on account of the person on whom, or the place where the same is committed: As where a man Assaults or threatens another for suing him; a Counsel or Attorney for being employed against him, a Juror for his verdict, or a Gaoler, Constable, or other ministerial Officer, for keeping him in custody and properly executing his duty. Id. 184.

The punishment usually inflicted upon persons convicted of Assaults and Batteries is fine and imprisonment, and the finding of sureties to keep the peace. Id. 184.

In cases where the offence more immediately affects the individual, the defendant is sometimes permitted by the Court, even after conviction, to speak with the prosecutor before any judgment is pronounced, and if the prosecutor declares himself satisfied, a trivial punishment is inflicted.— 1 Burns, 185.

By the Provincial Statute of the 4 Vict. C. 3, Session 1841, indictments for Assaults and Batteries can no longer be found in the General Sessions, nor trials for the same by jury take place in that Court, but those offences are to be tried and determined in a summary way, before two Justices. The following are the enactments on the subject, by that statute :

Sec. 13. Any two Justices of the Peace, for any County, shall have full power and authority to hear and determine in a summary way, all complaints that may be made before them for common Assaults and Batteries; and the offender, upon conviction thereof, shall forfeit and pay such fine as to the said Justices shall seem meet, not exceeding Two Pounds, and costs if awarded, which fine, when received, shall be paid by the Justices, to the County Treasurer, to be accounted for by him to the Sessions; and the Justices shall, before the Meeting of the General Sessions, file with the Clerk of the Peace the receipt of the County Treasurer for such fine.

Sec. 14. If the fine imposed by the Justices, with the costs, when awarded, shall not be paid immediately after the conviction, or within such period as the Justices at the time of the conviction shall appoint, the same shall be levied by Warrant of distress and sale of the offender's goods and chattels, if the Justices shall see fit; or it shall be lawful for the Justices to commit the offender or offenders to gaol for any

Sec. 15. If the Justices, upon hearing any complaint for an Assault and Battery, shall deem the offence not to be proved, or so trifling as not to merit any punishment, they shall accordingly dismiss the complaint; and shall forthwith make out a Certificate under their hands, stating the fact of such dismissal; and shall deliver such Certificate to the party so acquitted.

Sec. 16. The Justices may give costs to either complainant or defendant, or compel each party to pay his own costs, as they shall see fit, but no further or greater costs than is by law provided.

Sec. 17. In case any such offence charged before the said Justices shall be accompanied by circumstances of aggravation; or if, upon investigating any such complaint, it shall appear to the Justices, that the offender or offenders deserve a higher fine, or greater punishment than is herein before prescribed, it shall be lawful for the Justices to bind such offender or offenders by recognisance, to appear at the next Supreme Court; and also to bind the prosecutor or prosecutors and witnesses, if necessary, to appear and prosecute.

Sec. 18. Provided, that the prosecution of every such offence shall be commenced within three Calendar Months after the commission of such offence, and not otherwise.

Sec. 19. If any person, against whom any such complaint shall be made, shall have obtained such Certificate as aforesaid, or, having been convicted, shall have paid the whole amount adjudged to be paid under such conviction, or shall have suffered the punishment awarded for the non-payment of the amount of the said conviction, in every such case he or they shall be released from all further, or other criminal proceedings for the same cause.

Sec. 20. The Justices shall cause every such conviction to be drawn up in the form prescribed by the Act of the Assembly, for the general form of a Conviction before a Magistrate; or in any other form of words to the same effect, as the case may require: Provided, that no such conviction shall be questioned for want of form, and no warrant of commitment shall be held void by reason of any defect therein, so as it be therein alleged that the party has been convicted, and there shall have been a good and valid conviction in point of fact to authorise the same; and so as the term or limit of the imprisonment be therein mentioned.

Sec. 21. All such Convictions shall be returned and filed by the said Justices, in the Office of the Clerk of the Peace for the County in which such conviction shall be had, on or before the first day of the term next ensuing the date of the said convictions, respectively. Perpetual.

 Although the Act requires that the complaint shall be heard and determined before two Justices, yet where they cannot with convenience be immediately got together to receive the complaint, and issue the Warrant; or where the offender is about to abscond, or get out of the way, it would seem that any one Justice may take the Affidavit, and issue the Warrant in his own name only, and one of the nearest Justices may be notified to be present at the time appointed for trial, as the complaint must be tried and determined before the two Justices when they are together. When the parties are before the Justices on the day of trial, the defendant may, in the first instance, be asked by the Justices whether he admits or denies the charge; and the whole of the subsequent proceedings, on the trial, will be similar to those in Summary Actions for the recovery of debts before Justices, with this exception, however, that on trials for Assault and Battery, the complainant or his wife may be sworn and examined as a witness, the prosecution being on the part of the Crown, and the complainant not being entitled to any part of the fine which may be imposed. As to the proceedings on such trials for debts, see the directions given under the Title, Summary Trials. If, on the hearing of the whole case, the Justices are of opinion, according to the terms of the Act, that the complaint has not been proved, or that it is so trifling as not to merit any punishment, they may dismiss it, and in such case must grant the required Certificate, which may be in the following form:—

Directions.

In cases where the offence has been accompanied with circumstances of aggravation, or where it appears to the Justices that the offender is deserving of a higher fine or punishment than by the terms of the Act they are empowered to inflict, they must, in pursuance of the clause in that respect, require the offender to be bound with sureties, by Recognizance, to appear at the next term of the Supreme Court to be held in the County, and in the mean time to keep the peace. If he refuses or fails to produce such sureties, and to be so bound, the justices must immediately commit him to the gaol, by a written commitment, to be detained there until he do so. If he produce the sureties, the Justices must bind them all in Recognizance, according to the first form hereafter given, in such sums, respectively, as in his discretion he shall think fit, and then must discharge the party. The Justices must also bind over the complainant, but without sureties, to appear, &c., according to the second form, and must make a minute of the respective Recognizances, and give it in to the Clerk of the Crown, at or before the next term of the Supreme Court in the County. The duty of the Justices is then fulfilled, and it will not be lawful for them at any time after to make or sanction any compromise between the parties, but they must appear at the Supreme Court, as they were bound. In such cases, in general, thus sent into that Court, the offender may be bound in £20, and each of his sureties in £10, but in extremely aggravated or enormous cases, the sums should be greater. The Justices need not write out the forms of the respective Recognizances; but they must repeat them over to the parties, respectively, as they stand before them, and the parties must express their consent.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF RECOGNIZANCE BY PARTY CHARGED, AND HIS SURETIES.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF RECOGNIZANCE BY COMPLAINANT.

You A— I— do acknowledge to owe to our Lady the Queen, the sum of £10 of lawful money of this Province, to be made and levied of your goods and chattels, lands and tenements, to the use of our Lady the Queen, her heirs and successors, if default shall be made in the following condition. I. OF BAIL IN GENERAL.

THIS Title is only to be understood of Bail in Criminal Offences.

Bail, signifies the delivery of a man out of Custody, upon the undertaking of one or more persons for him, that he shall appear at a day limited, to answer and be justified by the Law. And as Bail is a Custody, the Bail may retake the prisoner, if they doubt he will fly, and detain him and bring him before a Justice; and the Justice ought to commit the prisoner, in discharge of the Bail, or put him to find new Sureties. 1 Hale's Sum., 96. 1 Burns, 200.

If a person be brought before a Justice, and it appear that no felony is committed, he may discharge him; but if a felony be committed, though it do not appear that the party accused is guilty, yet he cannot be discharged, but must be committed, or bailed. 1 Burns, 200.

By the declaration of rights, 1 Will., Sess. 2, c. 2, excessive Bail ought not to be required. 1 Burns, 207.

To refuse Bail where the party ought to be bailed, (the party offering the same,) is a misdemeanour, punishable not only by the suit of the party, but also by indictment. Id.

Admitting Bail, where it ought not, is punishable by the Judges of Assize, by fine, or punishable as a negligent escape at common law. Id.

A Justice committed a man on suspicion of stealing a Mare, and bound over the owner to prosecute. Afterwards, upon examining two other persons, he admitted the party to bail. The prosecutor appeared at the Assizes, and a bill was found, but the party accused did not appear—and the Court granted an information against the Justice, declaring they should not have bailed the man themselves. Rex vs. Clarke. 2 Str. 1216.

Those who on their examination own themselves guilty of a felony alleged against them, and are charged in their mittimus with the felony so confessed, seem to be excluded from Bail; for Bail is only proper where it stands indifferent whether the party be guilty or innocent of the accusation against him. 1 Burns, 205.

Party confessing not bailable.

If a Justice take insufficient surety, and the party appear not, he is fineable by the Judge of Assize. But if the prisoner appear thereupon, the Justice is safe. 1 Burns, 204.

Inaufficiency of bail.

If a person who has power to take Bail, be so far imposed upon, as to suffer a prisoner to be bailed by insufficient persons, it is said, that either he, or any other person who hath power to Bail him, may require the party to find better sureties, and to enter into a new Recognizance with them; and may commit him on his refusal; for that insufficient sureties are no sureties. Id. 205.

And the person who is to take the Bail, may examine them on their Oaths, concerning their sufficiency. Id.

No person ought in any case to be bailed for felony, by less than two Sureties. The only sure way of proceeding in this case, is to take care, that every one of the Bail, be of ability sufficient to answer the sum in which they are bound; which ought never to be less than £40 for a Capital Crime, but may be as much higher, as the Justices in discretion shall think fit to require, upon consideration of the ability and quality of the prisoner, and the nature of the offence. Id.

Number of sureties and amount.

Although a person be committed to be detained without Bail or mainprize, yet if the offence be by law bailable, he that hath power of bailing, may Bail him. Id.

A married woman cannot be received as Bail. 2 Haw. C. c. 15, § 84. Nor a person under the age of 21 years. Pet. on Bail, 510.

Married women and minors.

All persons who neglect to offer Bail for offences which are bailable, must be committed. 1 Burns, 552.

I. FOR WHAT OFFENCES JUSTICES OF THE PEACE CANNOT BAIL.

Necessaries before the Fact, in all cases of Crimes punishable with death.

Surgery, see this Title.

Burglary, with intent to Murder, or accompanied with personal injury, under Sec. 9 of Stat. 4 Vic. c. 7.

See Title,—Burglary.

Commitments, by the Superior Courts, or on process for contempts to such Courts. 3 Edw. 1, c. 15. 2 Hawk. c. 15, § 37 & 64. 1 Burns. 202.

Confession of Crime.—Those who on their examination own themselves guilty of a felony alleged against them seem to be excluded from Bail; for Bail is only proper where it stands indifferent whether the party be guilty or innocent of the accusation against him. 2 Hawk. c. 15, § 40. Pet. on Bail, 490.

Duelling, where death ensues. Pet. on Bail, 491.

Dykes and banks of Rivers, breaking down, &c. The offence is felony without benefit of Clergy, by the 2 & 7 G. 3, c. 1. 1 Vol. 122. Perpetual.

Escapes, or Prison breaking. 2 Co. Ins. 188. Pet. on Bail, 491.

Larceny, or Stealing at Fires.—This is punishable with death by the 2 G. 3, c. 5, 1 vol. 81. Perpetual.

NOTE. There would seem to have been an oversight here also, during the late revisions and alterations of our Criminal Code, in not reducing the punishment for this offence from death, to imprisonment. So soon as this alteration in the punishment takes place, the offence will be bailable by two Justices, in their discretion.

Manour, or person taken with the Stolen Goods upon him.

In this case the person standeth not indifferent whether he be guilty or no, being taken with the thing stolen, as it were in his hand. 2 Co. Inst. 188. 1 Burns 202. Pet. on Bail, 493.

Manslaughter. It seems agreed that Justices of the Peace who have power to bail a man for a light suspicion of Homicide, cannot Bail any such person for Manslaughter, or even excusable Homicide, if it manifestly appear that he was guilty of the fact; let it be ever so plain that it cannot amount to Murder. 2 Haw. c. 15, § 34. 1 Burns, 202.

Murder. 2 Co. Inst. 186. 3 East's P. C. 163. Pet. on Bail, 494.

NOTE. Neither can Justices Bail Accessories to Murder before the fact, nor even on charges of being merely Accessary after the fact, unless in cases of doubt or light suspicion as to the party being such Accessary. See Title, Wounding, under this division; and, Attempts to Murder, under the succeeding division.

Offences Manifest. This seems to be understood of inferior crimes of an enormous nature under the degree of felony, as dangerous riots savouring of high treason, exorbitant rescues, misprision of treason, and such like heinous offences; yet it seems to be in a great measure Abduction, or taking away Women or Children. See Title—Abduction.

Accessaries, in all cases not punishable with death. See Title—Accessaries.

Arson, or burning Buildings, Ships, &c. By 4 Vic. c. 5, Sess. 1841. All the offences mentioned in this Statute are, it would seem,ailable by two Justices, in their discretion; except the offence specified in the 4th clause thereof, which is a capital felony. As to all those offences, see Title—Burning. Note. It will be most advisable, however, for the Justices only to Bail in such cases under the Statute, where, upon examination, it appears that the charge against the party is doubtful, or the suspicion light; and not to Bail where the charge or suspicion is strong.

Attempt to Murder, where no bodily injury is done. By sec. 9, of 4 Vic. c. 6. See Title—Murder.

Bail personating. See clause at the end of this Title.

Bigamy. See Title—Marriage.

Sec. 16, of 4 Vic. c. 6. Note. It is to be understood that in these cases there is the consent of the female, for if any force or compulsion is used, the offence is a Rape, and not bailable by Justices. See Title—Rape.

Receivers of Felons, knowing them to be such. 3 Edu. 1, c. 15. These are Accessories after the fact. 2 Hale, 134. 1 Burns, 204.

Receivers of Stolen Property. Note. This only applies to cases where the original offence is punishable by indictment, either as a felony, or misdemeanor. In cases of such Receivers, under the Stat. 4 Vic. c. 7, Sess. 1841, who are punishable in a Summary manner before Justices of the Peace, no Bail is required. See division, Receivers, under Title—Larceny.

Rescues exorbitant. 2 Hawk. c. 15; sec. 45. 1 Burns, 203.

Rewards to help to Stolen Property. See division, Rewards, &c., under Title—Larceny.

Robbery, without Wounding. See Title—Robbery.

defamation great, the Justices may refuse to Bail them. Hale's Sum. 102. And they must also be of good fame. 2 Inst. 190.

NOTE. This would seem only to relate to Felonies, for in all cases of indictable Misdemeanors, Justices ought to bail, although the presumption be strong.

Threatening, with intent to extort Property. See Title—Threats, with intent to extort, &c.

Woods, maliciously setting fire to, on reserved and ungranted land. By 14 and 15 G. 3, c. 3, 1 vol. 184. Perpetual.

Wrecks, stealing from, &c. See Title—Wrecks.

It seems to be a good general rule, that so far as any persons are judges of any crime, so far they have the power of bailing a person indicted before them of such crime. 2 Hawk. c. 13, sec. 54. 1 Burns, 205.

IV. IN WHAT CASES ONE JUSTICE MAY BAIL IN HIS DISCRETION.

Affray. 1 Hawk. P. C. c. 63, sec. 20. Pet. on Bail, 497. But if a person have dangerously wounded another, the Justice ought to be very cautious how he takes Bail, until the day and year be past; for if the party die, and the offender do not appear, the Justice is in danger of being severely fined. 1 Burns, 202. Pet. on Bail, 497.

Assault, with intent to commit felony. As Assaults with intent to commit an unnatural crime; or to commit a rape; or any other felony. 1 Burns, 204.

Cheat. In all cases of cheating, or false pretences, which do not amount to felonies, but are only misdemeanors, one Justice may Bail, in his discretion. As obtaining money by false pretences, such offences relating to the Coin as are declared to be only misdemeanors; and other cases of misdemeanors. See Title—Cheat.

Compounding Felonies. 1 Hawk. P. C. c. 59, sec. 5. Pet. on Bail, 498.

Embezzlements, which do not amount to felonies, but are declared to be only misdemeanors. See division, Receivers, under Title—Larceny.

Incest. By 32 G. 2, c. 17, 1 vol. 25. Perpetual.

Indecencies. Pet. on Bail, 498.

Larceny or Stealing, in all cases where the offence is declared to be only a Misdemeanor. See Division—Misdemeanor, under Title—Larceny.

NOTE.—It would seem, that in order to the Bailing of persons charged with such Misdemeanors, there is no necessity that they be of good reputation; yet if such persons be taken with the stolen articles upon them, or confess the fact, or their crime be otherwise open and manifest, it seems they ought not to be bailed; but if there be any colour of probability for their innocence, it seems most agreeable to the law, in all cases of Misdemeanors, to Bail them. See 2 Hawk. c. 15, sec. 50. 1 Burns, 204.

Perjury, and procuring Witnesses to commit Perjury.—By 32 Geo. 2, c. 20, 1 vol. 30, 31. Perpetual. Pet. on Bail, 498.

Receivers of Money or Property, &c., the stealing or taking of which is declared to be only a Misdemeanor. In all such cases the Receiver cannot be guilty of a felony, but of a Misdemeanor only, and therefore may be bailed by one Justice.

Riot. 2 Hawk. c. 47, § 8. 5 Burns, 14.

Trespasses, for which one ought not to lose life or member. 3 Ed. 1, c. 15. But it seems reasonable to qualify the generality of this expression with this limitation,—that such accusation ought to be either on a light suspicion, or else that the offence be inconsiderable; or that it be not excluded from Bail by some special Act of Parliament. 2 Hawk. c. 15, § 45. 1 Burns, 204.

NOTE.—The Trespasses here mentioned are not to be understood to mean or include mere Trespasses of a Civil nature, to the lands or goods of an individual, under any law or statute relating to Trespasses, as this Title of Bail does not relate to any Civil, but only to Criminal cases.

Wounding. But if a person have dangerously wounded another, or wounded him with intent to murder, or to maim, disfigure, or do some grievous bodily harm, one Justice cannot Bail the party, but he may be bailed by two Justices, in their discretion, except only where there is an intent to Murder; in which case, even two Justices cannot Bail, when there is any wounding or bodily injury dangerous to life. 1 Burns, 202. See —Wounding, under the two preceding divisions of this Title.

One Justice alone cannot set at large on Bail, a person arrested on a charge of felony, or suspicion thereof, but he must commit him, unless he is bailed by two Justices, or by the Court of Sessions. 1 Burns, 206. Note of Ed.

Contagious Diseases. By the 2 W. 4, c. 14, 4 vol. 149, respecting Contagious Diseases, persons infringing any of the provisions of the Act, or any orders of a Board of Health, are declared guilty of a Misdemeanor.—Temporary, being continued for 3 years by 6 Vic., c. 53, Sess. 1843.

Libel. It is now clearly settled that a Magistrate has the power of apprehending and of requiring Bail from a Libeller; and in default of its being given, of committing him. Bull vs. Conant, 1 B. & B., 548. Pet. on bail, 499.

Vagrancy. By the 14 & 15 Geo. 3, c. 5, 1 vol. 187. All idle and wandering and disorderly persons, and common beggars, may be apprehended by any Constable or other person, or upon the Warrant of a Justice, and may be required by a Justice to find one responsible housekeeper to be bound for their appearance before the Justice for final examination at a future day; and on default of finding such surety, the Justice may commit any such person to a prison, or House of Correction, for a time not exceeding fourteen days. Perpetual. See the Statute.

Persons apprehended for small misdemeanors must be bailed, unless they be excluded from it by some special Act of Parliament. 2 Hale, 127. Chitty on C. L., 1 vol. 136.

Small Misdemeanors.

By 5 Vic. c. 20, § 8, Sess. 1842. If any person shall before any Court, Judge, or other person, lawfully authorized to take any Recognizance or Bail, acknowledge any Recognizance or Bail in the name of any other person, not privy or consenting to the same, whether such Recognizance or Bail in either case be or be not filed, every such offender shall be guilty of felony; and, being convicted, shall be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding four years. Perpetual.

Personating Bail.

NOTE.—This offence is bailable by two Justices in their discretion. The Stat. 11, G. 3, c. 3, 1 vol. 166, which imposed death for this offence, is virtually repealed by the above clause.

VI. OF THE RECOGNIZANCE OF BAIL.

WHERESOEVER Justices have power to bind over any Man to appear at the Assizes, or Sessions, or to take Sureties for any matter or cause, they may take a Recognizance. But they can take no Recognizance but only of such matters as concern their office; and if they do, it seemeth to be void. 5 Burns, 6.

Although the jurisdiction of Justices is confined to the limits of their own County; yet it is said, that Recognizances voluntarily taken before them in any other place are valid. 2 Hawk. c 37 Pet on Bail, 511.

Every Obligation and Recognizance taken by Justices of the Peace must be made to our Lord the King, on pain of imprisonment of any person that shall take it otherwise. It must also contain the name, place of abode, and trade or calling, both of principal and sureties, and the sums in which they are bound. And the condition is either indorsed or underwritten, or contained within the body of it; upon the performance of which the Recognizance shall be void. 5 Burns, 7.

When the parties are to enter into Recognizance, call them by their names, thus;—"You A. O. acknowledge to owe to our Sovereign Lady the Queen the sum of ———; and you A. B. and you C. D. do severally acknowledge to owe to our said Lady the Queen, the sum of ———, to be levied of your respective goods and chattels, lands and tenements, for the use of our said Lady the Queen, her heirs and successors; if default shall be made in the condition following, that is to say;—if you the said A. O. shall personally appear at the next Sitting of the Supreme Court of this Province, (or at the next General Sessions of the Peace, as the case may be,) to be holden in and for this County, then and there to answer to our Sovereign Lady the Queen for and concerning ——— (according as the case may be,) whereof you A. O. stand charged before us, Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace for this County; and to do and receive what shall by the Court be then and there enjoined you, and shall not depart the Court without licence, then this Recognizance shall be void; otherwise shall remain in force."

Directions.

This Recognizance of Bail may be thus verbally taken, and the Record of it may be made up at any time afterwards, according to the Form hereafter given. The Justices should make a minute of names, date, &c., from which to make up such Record. The parties bound need not at any time sign the Recognizance, yet it is a matter of Record presently, so soon as it is taken and acknowledged; although it be not made up. See 5 Burn's, 7.

And when it is made up, if the Justices shall only subscribe their names to it, without their Seals, this is well enough; and that may be in either of these sorts, Acknowledged before us. J—P—, R—P—; or only to subscribe their names. Dall. c. 176. 5 Burn's, 8.

The Justices of the Peace, who shall let to Bail any person charged with felony, must certify such Bailment; and all Recognizances taken touching such charge, to the Supreme Court, at its next Sitting in the County. Certifying Bailment, &c.

Previous therefore to such Sitting of the said Court, the Justices should in every such case make up and sign the Record of Recognizance, according to the form hereafter given; and at or before the meeting of the Court, should give it in to the Clerk of the Crown, or his Deputy, in the County, together with all Recognizances of Witnesses, and all examinations taken before them, touching the charge; or, if the Recognizance has been taken for appearance at the Sessions, the Justices should in like manner make up the Record, and hand it in, with all other Recognizances, and all examinations, to the Clerk of the Peace, at or before the next meeting of the Sessions.

Justices should certify their Recognizances for keeping the peace, to the next Sessions, that the party may be called; and if he make default, the default shall be recorded; and the Recognizance, with the Record of the default, shall be sent and certified into the Supreme Court. See 5 Burn's, 8.

It should seem, that Justices of the Peace in the General Sessions, should have the power of judging what Recognizances, certified there, concerning offences cognizable in that Court, should be estreated. Id.

The Recognizances taken by Justices in one County, upon a backed Warrant, may be by them certified into another County. Pet. on Bail, 511.

The conditions of Recognizances, in a variety of cases, are interspersed under their proper Titles.

BASTARDS.

- I. WHO SHALL BE DEEMED A BASTARD.
- II. OF SECURING THE MAINTENANCE OF BASTARDS.
- III. OF THE PUNISHMENT OF A WOMAN FOR MAKING A FALSE ACCUSATION CONCERNING BASTARDY.
- IV. MURDERING A BASTARD CHILD.

I. WHO SHALL BE DEEMED A BASTARD.

If a child be begotten, whilst the parents are single, and they will endeavour to make an early reparation for the offence, by marrying in a few months after; our law is so indulgent, as not to bastardize the child, if it be born though not begotten in lawful wedlock. 1 Black. Com. 456.

If a woman great with child, marry, it is the child of the husband; for when they testify their consent by a public marriage, before the birth of the child, it is a public acknowledgment, that the child is his; for at that time the child is one with the mother; and therefore in taking the mother he takes the child with her. 1 Burn's, 242.

The child of a married woman may be born a bastard, and if so, shall be within the remedial law concerning bastards. Even though the husband and wife are both in one country, if there be sufficient proof that he had no access to her, then the child will be a bastard. 1 Burn's, 239.

The wife may be a witness to the fact of her incontinence, but not to the fact of the non-access of her husband. Id.

Evidence of Parents as to
or otherwise.

A father has been permitted to give evidence to bastardise the son, by disproving of marriage, and there are many other cases in which it has been decided, that the parents may be called as witnesses with respect to the legitimacy of their issue; and if they may be called to prove that they are legitimate children, there is no reason why they should be considered as incompetent when called upon to prove that the children are illegitimate. But in all these cases, such testimony is open to great observation. Rex. vs. Bramley, 6, T. R. 330. 1 Burn's, 242.

NOTE. It is to be understood, however, that a parent who is a party in the cause, cannot be admitted as a witness.

Divorce and
separation.

Where a woman is separated from her husband by a divorce à mensa et thora, the children she has during the separation are bastards: for a due obedience to the sentence shall be intended, unless the contrary be shewn; but if a husband and wife, without sentence, do part, and live separate, the children shall be taken to be legitimate, and so deemed till the contrary be proved, for access shall be intended. 1 Burn's, 242.

Birth.

The law hath appointed no exact certain time for the birth of legitimate issue by the widow, after the death of her husband. A child born forty weeks and nine days after the death of the husband, has been allowed to be legitimate. 1 Burn's, 243.

II. OF SECURING THE MAINTENANCE OF BASTARDS.

1. Securing the reputed Father, and of the Bond of Indemnity.
2. Of the order of Filiation and Maintenance.
3. Of the right of the Father or Mother to the custody of the Child.

1. Securing the reputed Father, and of the Bond of Indemnity.

By the 32 G. 2, c. 19. 1 V. 27, it is enacted, "that if any woman shall be delivered of a bastard child, which shall be charged upon her, she having ing her at was; and to be with bastard, a vince; and to be taken Peace, near with having, ful for suc Overseers of some substa Warrant to and to bring Justices, an of correctio place from dren; and curity, for where he sh is delivered woman shall miscarry of have been w person shall Sessions, or ted." Perp shall be chargeable or likely to be chargeable to the Province, she having declared to the midwife, or other persons assisting her at the time of delivery, who the father of such child was; and shall have at some time before, declared herself to be with child, and that such child is likely to be borne a bastard, and to be chargeable to any place within the Province; and shall in either of such cases, upon examination to be taken in writing, upon oath, before one Justice of the Peace, near where such place shall lie, charge any person with having gotten her with child; it shall and may be lawful for such Justice, upon application made to him by the Overseers of the Poor of such place, or any one of them; or some substantial householder of such place, to issue out his Warrant to apprehend such person so charged as aforesaid, and to bring him before him, or some other of His Majesty's Justices, and to commit such person to gaol, or the house of correction, unless he give security to indemnify such place from the supporting or maintaining such child or children; and shall enter into Recognizance, with sufficient security, for his appearance at the next Quarter Sessions, where he shall be continued on Recognizance till the woman is delivered of such child or children. Provided, that if such woman shall die or be married, before she be delivered; or miscarry of such child or children, or shall appear not to have been with child at the time of her examination, such person shall be discharged from his Recognizance at the next Sessions, or immediately released out of custody if committed." Perpetual.

This clause of the Statute, is nearly the same with the first and second Sections of the English Statute, 6 G. 2, c. 31, but it is rather obscurely worded, in respect to its being intended to apply as well to a case after, as to one before the birth of the child; but upon the whole it would seem to include both.

The appearance of the woman before the Justice, for the purpose of examination, where it is before the birth of the child, cannot be compelled, but must be entirely voluntary, as appears from a case cited in 1 Burn's, 246, in which it was said by the Court, that, "the child cannot be illegitimate before it is born, there being always a possibility that it may be born in lawful wedlock." Consequently in such case, the application for the warrant against the reputed father cannot be made; nor the warrant be issued, until such voluntary examination of the woman has been taken.

A constable having a warrant to apprehend the reputed father of a bastard child, should execute it immediately; and if he shall willingly or negligently suffer him to escape, he may be bound over to the Sessions, and there indicted, fined and imprisoned; and under the influence thereof, be compelled to make satisfaction to the prosecutors. 1 Burn's, 243.

A private soldier may be apprehended on a charge of bastardy; and if he refuses to give the security to indemnify the place, and to enter into Recognizance to appear at the Sessions as by law required, he may be committed to gaol until he do so, for the charge is of a criminal nature. Id. 244.

Directions.

When the party is before the Justice, on the Warrant, the Justice is not authorized to enter into any investigation of the merits of the case, but his duty is immediately to require of the party to find a surety or sureties to be bound with him in a bond to indemnify the township or place, from the maintenance of the child, and also to enter into a Recognizance with one surety or more for his appearance at the next General Sessions in the County. If he produces such sureties, (of the sufficiency of which the Justice in his discretion must judge,) the bond of indemnification and the Recognizance, must be forthwith entered into, after the forms hereafter given, and the party be discharged: but if he fails to find them, he must be sent to gaol with a written commitment; and be there detained until such securities are given. The bond to indemnify, may be left with the Overseers of the Poor; and the Justice must before or at the commencement of the next Sessions, make out the record of the Recognizance, or a minute thereof, and hand it into the Clerk of the Peace, so that the party may be called thereon.

It may be considered doubtful, whether the taking of a bond under the foregoing clause of the Statute, or an order made by the Justices under the second clause of it, which will be hereafter set forth, is most convenient for the township. The suing upon a bond is both tedious and expensive, but then a bond will bind a man's executors; whereas the course of carrying an order into execution, is very short and easy; but when the man dies, the order dieth with him. See 1 Burn's, 247.

In an action on a bond to maintain a bastard child, no more can be recovered than the money actually expended; nor more than the whole penalty of the bond; and the Court will stay proceedings in an action on such a bond, on payment of the penalty and costs. 1 Burn's, 247.

Under the foregoing Statute, the Overseers of the Poor can only take security to indemnify the township or place; they cannot take security by notes of hand or otherwise, for a sum of money in gross, payable at all events. Id. 248.

But a voluntary bond, given by the putative father of a bastard child, to the Overseers, conditioned for the payment "of a specified sum every three months, for so long, and until a certain bastard child should be deemed capable of providing for herself," has been decided to be valid; and a recovery been had upon it; the Court declaring, that it was not contrary to the general policy of the law; being nothing more than a voluntary obligation for the maintenance of the child. 1 M. & Sel. 310. Burn's, 248.

And in a case reported in 4 Taun. 498, the Court of C. P. decided, that a bond conditioned for payment to the Overseers of a parish, of a certain weekly sum, so long as a certain bastard child shall continue chargeable, is not illegal, or contrary to public policy. 1 Burn's, 249.

The Overseers do not need an order of Justices for maintenance of the child, to enable them to recover upon a bond given to indemnify the place. Id. 249.

To entitle Overseers to recover on a bond, it must appear that the expense was not incurred voluntarily, but in discharge of a legal obligation to defray it. Id. 250.

2. Of the Order of Filiation and Maintenance.

If security hath not been given to indemnify the Place, the next thing in the course of proceeding, is the order of filiation and maintenance, to be made by the Justices: but if a bond of indemnification hath been given, such order is not requisite. See 1 Burn's, 250.

By Section 2, of the 32 G. 2, c. 19, before cited, it is enacted, "that any two Justices of the Peace, near the place where any bastard child shall be born, upon complaint made by the Overseers of the Poor, or any one of them, or of some substantial householder, upon due examination of the cause and circumstances, shall and may, by their discretion, make an order for the relief of such place or children; and for keeping such bastard child, and that said mother or reputed father of such child or children, shall find sufficient security, that such child shall not become burthensome or chargeable to any place in said Province; or pay the sum of twenty pounds; which shall be paid into the hands of the Overseers of the Poor, for the support of such child or children, or other town uses. And if after the said order made by said Justices, and by them subscribed, and directed to the Overseers of the Poor, any of said persons, viz: either the father or mother, upon notice thereof, shall not for his or her part, observe and perform said order, then such party making default, to be committed to gaol, or house of correction, for the space of six months; except he or they shall give sufficient security to perform said order, or else personally appear at the next Quarter Sessions, and abide by such order as shall be made at said Sessions in that behalf; and if no order shall be made at said Sessions, then to abide by the first order." Perpetual.

As there is no power given to the Sessions either under this Statute, or any other Statute of this Province, to make an original order in case of bastardy, they cannot make such original order; but it must be made by two Justices, pursuant to the above Section of the Act. See 1 Burn's, 253. It is therefore easy to imagine for what purpose the reputed father is required by the first section of the Statute to enter into recognizance for his appearance at the next Sessions in addition to giving the bond of indemnification.

be made at any time.

There is no time limited for the proceeding of the Justices in this matter, so that the order may be made at any time after the birth of the child. It has been decided that if the father run away and return, though 14 years after, yet an order to fix the child on him is good; for there is no Statute of limitations in these cases. 1 Burn's, 254.

Summoning and hearing

Previous to making the order, the Justices must proceed as in all other like cases, by giving the party accused, an opportunity of being heard in his defence; and therefore he should be summoned to appear before them for the purpose. Rex vs. Cotton. 1 Sess. Cas. 179. In this case it was said by one of the Judges—"no man in an office can be supposed to be so ignorant as not to know, that it is against natural justice to convict a man without a summons; the examination ought to be so made, that the truth may appear; and this must be, by examining both sides, otherwise it is partial." 1 Burn's, 254.

The Summons to appear may be by a third Justice. Id. 255.

Although the putative father should be summoned to appear, previously to an order being made upon him, his presence during the mother's examination before the Justices, is not necessary to the validity of such order. Id.

If a person charged with a bastard child, is under any incapacity of attending, by illness or otherwise, the Justices may and ought to receive evidence on his behalf, but not otherwise. Id.

The examination of the mother before the two Justices, previous to making the order, must take place when the Justices are in the presence of each other. A separate examination before each one, or an examination by one, and a report thereof made by him to the other, will not suffice. Id. 260.

The mother may be examined on Oath, concerning the reputed father, and of the time and other circumstances; for the matter and the trial thereof, chiefly depend upon the examination and testimony of the mother. Id.

The examination of a pregnant woman, taken by a Justice under the first clause of the Statute, is evidence sufficient to authorise the two Justices to make an order of filiation on the putative father, though the woman be dead; for the examination having been taken before a Magistrate in the course of a judicial proceeding, is certainly admissible evidence, like the depositions taken under 1 & 2 P. & M. c. 13; and not being contradicted by any other evidence, it seems to be conclusive. Id. 255.

The sex of the bastard child, and its name, and also the township or place wherein it was born, must all be expressly set forth in the order. Id. 262.

Not only the township or place where the child was born, is to be indemnified from the charge of its maintenance; but every other part of the Province, by the express terms of the Statute; and therefore, the order, and the security to be given by the father or mother, that it shall not become chargeable, must be to that effect.

Extent of the Order and Security.

Either the father or mother, however, may avoid any order being made, or the giving such security, by paying into the hands of the Overseers of the poor, twenty pounds for the support of the child, according to the option given by the Statute.

It has been decided, that an order of filiation upon the putative father of a bastard child, stating that the child "is likely to become chargeable" is sufficient, without shewing that it was actually chargeable. Rex vs. Hartington—Upper Quarter 4 M. & S. 559.

Form and particulars of the Order.

There must be an express adjudication by the Justices, as to who is the reputed father, otherwise the order will be quashed for such defect. The Court of K. B. quashed an order of bastardy which only stated, "Whereas it hath appeared to us," &c. without an express adjudication, that the person charged, was the putative father. 1 Burn's, 263. But the Justices cannot adjudge a person not to be the putative father. Id.

An order for maintenance of a bastard, directing that a certain sum in gross shall be paid upon sight of the order, and after that, so much weekly, is good; for by the Statute, the Justices are to make an order for the relief of the place or child; and this may be only indemnifying the place for money laid out, before the reputed father was found. Also, if an order directs a sum to be paid towards the lying in, and maintenance; it seems to be enough, without stating that the sum was expended by the Overseers. Id. 264.

The Statute directs, that the order shall require security to be given, that "the child shall not become burthensome or chargeable to any place in the Province," without any limitation as to time; therefore, an order that so much money shall be paid weekly, or otherwise, until the child shall be of a certain age; or until it can get its living by working, will not be good; but the order must be according to the above express terms of the Statute. See 1 Burn's, 264.

The order must be for maintenance only, and cannot be for payment of a sum for putting out the child an apprentice, or the like. Id.

By the express words of the Statute, it will be seen, that the party charged in the order with the maintenance of the child, if failing to comply with it, after receiving notice thereof, shall be committed to gaol, or the house of correction, for six months: except he or she shall give security to perform such order, or to appear at the next Sessions and abide by such order as shall there be made; or if no order is made at the Sessions, then to abide by the first order.

Commitment
of the Mother

By virtue of this clause of the Statute, if the mother of the bastard child marries before an order is made, by which she is charged for the maintenance of the child, she may be committed for disobeying it; because it is for a criminal offence, in disobeying the order of the Justices; and her husband need not be summoned with her. See 1 Burn's, 255.

The Justices have authority to commit a soldier in actual service, for disobeying an order of bastardy, for he is not protected against such commitment by the Mutiny Act. Rex. vs. Archer, 2 T. R. 270. 1 Burn's 265.

No Commitment, &c.
until default

Until default shall be made the Justices have no power to commit or to require sureties for performance of the order, or for appearing at the Sessions. 1 Burn's, 258. But, as has been seen in the second clause of the Provincial Statute already cited, the Justices are authorized in and by the order of filiation, to require the reputed father or the mother to find sufficient security that the child shall not become chargeable to any place in the Province. This security it would seem, should be by Recognizance, according to the form No. 10, hereafter given.

 that the said A— F— has been duly summoned to appear

Directions.

The above Order is made against the reputed father, but by the express terms of the Statute, it may be made upon the mother, if the Justices in their discretion see fit to do so under circumstances; as where the reputed father is absent, or the mother refuses to disclose who is the father; or for other cause.

A copy of the order should be left with the Overseers of the poor, and another copy, as a notice, should be given to the party on whom it is made; and if at any time after, such party shall fail in complying with the same, the Overseers may make information and complaint thereof before any one Justice or more; and cause such party to be summoned to appear before such Justice or Justices, to answer to the premises; and if upon the hearing of the matter, it appears that the said party has made such default, then such party must forthwith find sufficient security to the satisfaction of the Justice or Justices, by entering into a recognizance with one party or more, according to the form hereafter given, to observe and perform the said order made by them; or else personally to appear at the next General Sessions, and abide by such order as shall there be made: and if no order shall be made at the Sessions, then to abide by the first order. If the party fails to find such security, the Justice or Justices shall forthwith commit him or her to the common gaol, or house of correction, for six months, as the Statute prescribes.

If therefore, the party adjudged in the order to be the reputed father, makes known to the Justices, that he so appeals, they are bound to allow it ; and the party must give the security ; which should be by entering into a recognizance before the Justices, with one surety or more, in such respective sums as the Justices shall name, and according to the form hereafter given. Directions.

At or before the next Sessions, the Justices must deliver in to the Clerk of the Peace, the said order made by them, together with a record of such recognizance, on appeal, or a minute thereof ; and all other papers in their hands relating to the matter.

After such appeal made, and the requisite security given, it would seem, that no proceedings under the order can take place against the reputed father, thereby charged, until after the appeal is determined.

Note—By the 4 Vic. c. 3, Sec. 5 & 6, Sess. 1841, the power of trying by Jury in the Sessions has been taken away in all cases, and all trials required to be had by Jury in cases where parties are bound over to the Sessions, are now to take place in the Supreme Court ; and all parties are to be bound to appear there. Therefore, where the party appealing as above, appears in the Sessions, and still desires such trial by Jury, the Sessions must bind him over with a surety or sureties, for his appearance at the next term of the Supreme Court in the County, and must certify the recognizance, and send it into the Supreme Court, in the usual form, as in other cases, with all the other papers relating to the cause.

3. Of the right of the Father or Mother to the custody of the Child.

WHETHER the Overseers shall have the sole application of the money, and ordering of the child ; or the reputed father may take the child from the parish and provide for it himself, hath been doubted, and seems not yet to have been fully settled. In the case of Newland vs. Osman, T. 27, G. 2, it was indeed held by the Court, with the exception of one Judge, who doubted, that the putative father may take his child and maintain it himself ; and that this has always been given as a reason why orders for the maintenance of such children must not be limited to any certain time. 1 Burn's, 256.

The Mother is entitled to the custody of her illegitimate child, in preference to the father, though he may be better able to educate it. Id. 257.

III. OF THE PUNISHMENT OF A WOMAN FOR MAKING A FALSE ACCUSATION CONCERNING BASTARDY.

THE 3d Section of the aforesaid Stat. 32, G. 2, c. 19, 1 V. 28, enacts,—“ That in case any woman shall accuse or charge any man with having gotten her with child, though the woman be not with child; or that the child be not really his; but appears to be only a contrivance to defame the person, or cheat him of his money; that in such case, the said woman shall be sent to the house of correction, there to be whipped, and remain for the space of six months.” Perpetual.

NOTE. As the Statute does not mention any mode of proceeding against the woman, in order to her conviction for this offence, it may probably seem doubtful, whether under any of the proceedings against the party wrongfully charged, her guilt may be so established, as to authorize her being immediately punished, as the Statute prescribes; or if a criminal prosecution for the offence should take place against her. It is judged, that the latter course is the one to be pursued; and that it should be by indictment; on the trial of which, all the evidence with regard to the offence may directly appear.

IV. MURDERING A BASTARD CHILD.

By § 5 of the 32 G. 2, c. 13, IV. 16, it was declared,—“ That the mother of a bastard child, concealing its death, should suffer death as in case of murder, unless she could prove by one witness, that the child was born dead.” But the said Section is repealed by the 53 G. 3, c. 11, 2 V. 108, by which it is enacted, that “ The trials of women charged with the murder of any issue of their bodies, male or female, which being born alive, would by law be bastard, shall thereafter proceed and be governed by such and the like rules of evidence, and of presumption, as are by law used and allowed to take place in other trials of murder; and as if the said Section of the said Act had never been made. This last mentioned Statute, extends to all cases of concealment of the birth; whether the child be born alive or otherwise. See 1 Burn's, 268.

A. T., J. P.

NOTE.—By the Provincial Act already cited, which is similar to the English Statute, of the 18 Eliz. c. 3, the payment of money due upon an Order of Maintenance cannot be immediately enforced against the party by whom it has been adjudged to be due ; but he can only be required to give security for the performance of the Order, or for his appearance at the Sessions, and to abide by any Order which may be there made ; or in default of giving such security, may be committed to gaol, or the house of correction, for six months. This defect in the said English Statute, as to immediately enforcing the payment of the money due under an Order, has been remedied by the 49 G. 3, c. 68, and it is highly expedient, to avoid delay and expense, that a similar amendment should be enacted in this Province.

BEEF AND PORK.

I. WEIGHING OF BEEF.

By the 10 G. 4, c. 17. 4 V. 47. "The Grand Jury for each County, at the first General Sessions, annually, shall nominate five or more persons in each township, out of whom the Court shall appoint two or more, to inspect and weigh beef sold to any butcher at a stated price, by the pound or hundred weight, and slaughtered by him, within the township where sold. And by Sec. 4, any butcher who shall not employ one of such Inspectors, to inspect and weigh the beef of all cattle purchased and slaughtered by him as aforesaid, shall forfeit for every head of such cattle, twenty shillings, to be recovered before one Justice; one half of such penalty to go to the party prosecuting, and the other half to the poor of the township where the penalty is recovered." Temporary Act.

The following amendments have been made to the before recited Act, by the 2 Vic. c. 11. Sess. 1839, Sec. 2. Every such Inspector and Weigher shall be sworn to the faithful and impartial discharge of his duty, in the same manner as other Town Officers are sworn.

Sec. 3. No such Inspector shall on any pretence, in inspecting and weighing beef as directed by the first mentioned Act, deduct from any quarter of beef, more than what shall be a fair and reasonable allowance for any bruises which may have been sustained by the cattle from which such beef shall be made, and shall appear to be injurious to the beef; under a penalty not exceeding five pounds, nor less than two pounds.

Sec. 4. Every penalty imposed by this Act, or by the first mentioned Act, shall be sued for and recovered in like manner, and by the same means, as if such penalty were a

The following amendments to the foregoing Acts have been enacted, by the 4 Vic. c. 107, Sess. 1841. Sec. 2 & 3. Such Inspectors and Weighers shall no longer be appointed by the Grand Jury and Sessions, but the Lieutenant Governor or Commander in Chief may nominate and appoint in any township or place where it shall be required, any two or more persons to be inspectors and weighers of beef, which persons, when so appointed, shall have, use, and exercise the same powers and authorities, and be liable to the same duties, provisions, and penalties, and be entitled to the same fees and emoluments, as any person or persons appointed for the inspecting and weighing of beef, under the before mentioned Acts hereby amended. Annual.

The amending Act first mentioned, having provided that every penalty shall be sued for and recovered in the same manner as if the same were a private debt, the proceedings and forms in all such cases will be the same as are prescribed for the recovery of small debts, before a Justice or Justices, and will be found set forth under the Title—Summary Trials.

II. INSPECTION OF BEEF AND PORK FOR EXPORTATION.

By the 11 Geo. 4, c. 6. 4 Vol. 76, "The Grand Jury annually, at the General Sessions, when the town officers are appointed, shall nominate four persons in each township, out of whom the Court shall appoint two, to be Inspectors and re-packers of beef and pork intended for exportation." By Sec. 12.—On Inspector stating on oath, before any Justice, his suspicion that any beef or pork not inspected, is shipped on board any vessel for exportation, assigning the causes of his suspicion, the Justice, if he thinks the suspicion well founded, shall issue his warrant to such Inspector, to enter on board such vessel, and to make search for such beef or pork and if any such shall be found, the Justice on application by such Inspector shall issue his warrant directed to the Sheriff, his Deputy, or any Constable, to enter on board such vessel and to cause such beef or pork to be re-landed, and delivered to the owner thereof, upon his paying all reasonable and lawful expences for the said warrant, search and re-landing. Every person obstructing the Inspector in making such search, or in re-landing such beef or pork, shall forfeit fifty pounds; to be recovered on the oath of the Inspector, and to be paid to the Overseers of the Poor of the township where the offence was committed. Perpetual.

The following amendments have been made to the foregoing Act, by the 2 Vic. c. 10. Sess. 1841, Sec. 1.—It shall be lawful to use for hoops on any barrel or half barrel, in which beef or pork is to be packed or re-packed, as well ash, oak or hickory, as also yellow birch, or maple hoops: Provided, that in every other particular, such barrel or half barrel be conformable to the said Act hereby amended. Perpetual.

Sec. 2. All beef and pork packed or re-packed, in barrels or half barrels, for sale, whether intended for exportation, or for home consumption, shall be inspected and branded in the same manner as is directed by the said Act with respect to beef and pork for exportation; and all the rules, regulations, enactments, allowances, penalties and forfeitures, in and by the said Act enacted, provided, imposed and made applicable to beef and pork packed or re-packed for exportation, shall apply and are hereby provided, enacted, imposed and made applicable to all beef and pork packed and re-packed in barrels or half barrels, for sale, whether for consumption in this Province, or for exportation. Perpetual.

NOTE. All the penalties and forfeitures imposed by the two foregoing Acts relating to the inspection of beef and pork, are to be sued for and recovered in the Supreme Court.

BILLETING.

By the 35 Geo. 3, c. 4. 1 V. 350.—Any one Justice inhabiting in or near any town or place, may quarter and billet the officers and soldiers in His Majesty's Service, when marching from one district to another, in inns, taverns and alehouses; and where there shall not be found room in such houses, then in the houses of persons selling spirituous liquors by retail; on the officer or non-commissioned officer commanding the regiment, or detachment, producing to such Justice the order of the Officer commanding His Majesty's Forces within this Province, directing such march. And if any such person to whom any such billet is directed and presented shall refuse to quarter and billet the officers and soldiers he is therein directed to receive, he shall forfeit five pounds for each offence, to be recovered in any Court of Record. Perpetual.

By the 48 G. 3, c. 2. 2 V. 44.—Whenever any regiment or detachment of His Majesty's Forces, or of the Militia, shall be ordered to march from one district of the Province to another, it shall be lawful for the Justices of the Peace inhabiting in or near any town or place, at or through which such forces shall arrive, or pass, to quarter and billet the officers and soldiers of such forces, in inns, taverns and ale-houses; and where there shall not be sufficient room therein, then to quarter the remainder of them in the houses of persons selling spirituous liquors by retail, and of those who have within one month previous to the marching of such forces, kept an inn, tavern or ale-house. And by Sec. 4.—In places where there may not be a sufficient number of public inns, taverns, and licensed shops, whereon to billet the whole of any detachment of soldiers or militia that may be on their march, it shall be lawful to billet a part of such detachment, on other house-keepers, in the discretion of the Magistrates giving billets for the same.

Sec. 5 & 6. Any two Justices for the county where any march of the regular or of the militia forces is to commence, or for the county through which, or to which, any such march is to be continued, upon the application of the commanding officer of such forces, and a route signed by the Governor or Commander in Chief, shall order a suitable number of horses, carts and waggons, to be furnished for conveying upon such route, the baggage of such forces; and shall also determine what persons shall provide the same. If any person shall refuse or neglect to furnish such horses, carts, or waggons, upon any such order of two Justices, without a reasonable excuse to be allowed by them, on complaint by such Justices or either of them, to the next Court of General Sessions for the county, the Court shall order the party complained of, to be brought before them, and shall hear and determine such complaint; and if such party shall be convicted of wilfully disobeying such order, he shall forfeit and pay forty shillings, to be levied by distress and sale of his goods and chattels, and to be paid to the officer commanding the militia of the county, to be applied to the services thereafter in the Statute mentioned. Annual.

NOTE.—The first Statute above recited, is a perpetual one, and it has never been actually repealed, but as the latter Statute embraces nearly all the provisions of the first, and also contains many further regulations on the subject, it may probably seem doubtful, whether the first is still in force; or whether it is not virtually repealed, or superseded by the latter. It is to be observed, however, that the two Statutes differ in the following, among other particulars, viz.—that the first relates only to the regular forces, and contains a penalty for refusing to quarter troops as directed; while the latter Statute relates to both descriptions of force, but does not impose any penalty for refusing to receive troops under a billet.

The duty of Justices under the last recited Statute, is so clearly set forth in the Statute itself, that no directions on the subject need here be given.

Deserters.

By the 6 Vic. c. 85. Sess. 1843,—It is enacted that no charge shall be made against, nor any monies drawn from the Treasury under the before recited Acts, or any of them, for the billeting of soldiers in search of deserters from Her Majesty's Forces, or for any other charges than for the expences of the billeting of such forces, or of the militia, when on their march from one part of the Province to another. Not limited.

BILLS AND NOTES.

By the 1 & 2 G. 4, c. 38. 3 V. 115. The issue and circulation of bills, notes or undertakings, payable to bearer, or otherwise, negotiable for a less sum than twenty-six shillings (except Treasury notes, or notes or engagements between debtor and creditor,) are prohibited, under the penalty of twenty shillings for each such bill, note, or undertaking, so issued or circulated; such penalty to be recovered by any person in a summary way, before two Justices, and to be levied by execution in the usual form; one half of such penalty to be paid to the informer, and the other half to the poor of the town or place in which the offence has been committed. By Sec. 5.—The sum due on any such bill, or note, may be recovered by the holder thereof, from the person liable to the payment of the same by suit in a summary manner before one Justice. Perpetual.

Directions.

The form of an Information to recover penalties under the above mentioned Statute, can readily be framed from the general form which will be found under the Title,—Information; and as the proceedings for the recovery of such penalties, as well as for the sum due on any such bill, or note, are to be in a summary manner, as in cases of debt, the forms of Summons and Execution in both cases, will be similar to those which will be found under the Title,—Summary Trials. In the body of the Summons, however, it should be stated, for what sum, and on what account the party is sued. The person who informed and sued, cannot be a witness to prove the offence, being entitled to a part of the penalty.

Forging or Counterfeiting certain Bills or Notes

By the 4 Will. 4, c. 24, 4 V. 274, "Any person who shall forge or counterfeit any such bank bill, or note, as may be issued under the Statute, or who shall alter the same, so that it shall appear to be of greater value than when originally issued; or who shall knowingly offer, or pass in payment, any such forged, counterfeited or altered bank bill, or

By Sec. 10, stealing, or attempting to steal any such bank bill, or note, is declared to be the same offence as stealing, or attempting to steal money to the same amount as is expressed on the face of such bill or note. Perpetual.

Stealing.

These enactments it would seem, are virtually repealed by the Act of the 4 Vic. c. 7. Sess. 1841, with regard to Stealing Bills, Notes, and other papers; and the 5 Vic. c. 20, Sess. 1842, as to forging the same, and uttering them, knowing them to be forged. The following is the enactment on the subject by the first mentioned Statute. Sec. 14. B U R G L A R Y .

BURGLARY is a felony at common law, in breaking and entering the mansion house of another, in the night, with intent to commit some felony, within the same, whether the felonious intent be executed or not. Hale's Sum. 79. 1 Burn's, 393.

To constitute a breaking, the entrance must be obtained either by fraud, conspiracy, threat, or force. If the door of a mansion house stand open, and the thief enter, or if the window of the house be open, and a thief with a hook or other engine, draweth out some of the goods of the owner, there is no burglary in either case; because there is no actual breaking of the house. But if the thief breaks the glass of a window, and with a hook, or other engine, draws out some of the goods of the owner, it is burglary. 3 Inst. 64. 1 Burn's, 394.

And Lord Hale says, these Acts amount to an actual breaking, viz: opening the casement, or breaking the glass window, picking open the lock of a door, or pulling back the lock, or the leaf of a window, or unlatching the door that is only latched, so entering by the chimney, is a breaking, for it is as much closed as the nature of things will permit. 1 Burn's, 394.

If a thief enter a dwelling house in the night, through the outer door being left open, or by an open window, and when within the house, he turn the key, or unlatch a chamber door, with intent to commit a felony, this is burglary. Id. 395.

It is deemed an entry, when the thief breaks the house, and his body, or any part thereof, as his foot, or his arm, is within any part of the house. So if one put a gun into a window, which he hath broken, (though the hand be not in,) or into a hole of the house which he hath made, with intent to murder, or kill, this is an entry, and breaking of the house; but if he doth barely break the house without any such entry, this is no burglary. Id. 397.

If divers come in the night to do a burglary, and one of them break and enter, the rest of them standing to watch at a distance, it is burglary in all. Id. 399.

The mansion-house, not only includes the dwelling- What build-

house, but also the out-houses, as barn, stable, cow-house, dairy-house, if they be parcel of the messuage, though they are not under the same roof, or joining contiguous to it. Id.

It is not necessary to make it burglary, that any person be actually in the house at the very time of the offence committed. Id. 400.

What shall
Night.

There can be no burglary in the day time, but only in the night; and therefore if there be day light enough begun or left, either by the light of the sun or twilight, whereby the countenance of a person may be reasonably discerned, it is no burglary; but this does not extend to moon light. Id. 405.

They are burglars who break any house in the night, although they take nothing away. Id. 406.

By the 4 Vic. c. 7, Sec. 9, Sess. 1841, Whosoever shall burglariously break and enter into any dwelling house, and shall assault with intent to murder any person being therein, or shall stab, cut, wound, beat or strike any such person, shall be guilty of felony, and being convicted thereof shall suffer death.

Sec. 10. Whosoever shall be convicted of the crime of burglary, shall be liable at the discretion of the Court to be imprisoned for the term of the natural life of the offender, or for any term not less than one year. Perpetual.

Directions.

The Justice before whom a party charged with burglary is brought, must proceed to examine concerning the offence, according to the directions contained under the Title,—Examination; and if the higher offence, with an assault, &c., is proved, although it does not appear that the person charged is the party who is guilty, yet the Justice cannot discharge him, on bail, or otherwise, but must commit him to jail, to take his trial; for which see Title—Commitment. For the offence in the last recited clause, and which is punishable with imprisonment, two Justices may or may not bail the party, in their discretion, according to the circumstances of the case. For further information, and as to Forms in case of bailing, see Title,—Bail.

Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously set fire to, or in anywise destroy any ship, or vessel, whether the same be complete, or in an unfinished state, or shall unlawfully and maliciously set fire to, cast away, or in anywise destroy any ship or vessel, with intent thereby to prejudice any owner, or part owner of such ship or vessel, or of any goods on board the same, or any person that hath underwritten, or shall underwrite any policy of insurance upon such ship or vessel, or on the freight thereof, or upon any goods on board the same, shall be guilty of felony, and be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding fourteen years.

Sec. 10. Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously set fire to any mine of coal, or cannel coal, shall be guilty of felony, and be liable, at the discretion of the Court, to be imprisoned for the natural life of the offender, or for any term not less than one year.

Sec. 11. Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously set fire to any stack of corn, grain, pulse, tares, straw, hannel, stubble, hay, turf, peat, coals, charcoal, or wood, or any pile of wood, shall be guilty of felony; and be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding fourteen years.

Sec. 12. In case of every felony punishable under this Act, every principal in the second degree, and every accessory before the fact, shall be punishable in the same manner as the principal in the first degree is by this Act punishable; and every accessory after the fact, of any felony punishable under this Act, shall, on conviction, be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding three years. Perpetual.

When a party is brought before a Justice or Justices charged with any offence under the above Statute, he must be examined concerning it, according to the directions contained under the Title, Examination. On a charge of the offence mentioned in Sec. 4, which is punishable with death, Justices of the Peace cannot admit the party to bail, if it appears on examination, that the offence was committed, although it should appear doubtful if the person so charged is the party guilty; but they must commit him to prison. On a charge of any of the other offences, being punishable with imprisonment only, two Justices may bail or commit, in their discretion, according to the circumstances of the case. In all cases, the Examinations and Recognizances must be certified and sent in to the Supreme Court, at its next Sitting in the county.

For the Forms required on any of the said charges of Burning, or setting on fire, see Titles,—Information, Warrant, Bail, Commitment, the Forms given under which Tities respectively, may be readily altered or filled up, so as to answer in any such cases.

By the Commission of the Peace, any Justice may cause to come before him, all those who, to any of the people concerning the firing of their houses, have used threats, to find sufficient security for the peace, or their good behaviour towards the King and his people; and if they shall refuse to find such security, may cause them to be safely kept in the King's prisons, until they shall find security.

The Forms in the case of threats of Burning, will be found under the Title,—Surety for the Good Behaviour.

CARRIAGES.

Rates of Carriage, &c.

By the 33, G. 2. c. 11. 1 V. 53, The Justices of the Peace in their General Sessions for the county of Halifax, shall every year, in the months of March and September, regulate the fares and rates for the carriage of wood, barrels, hogsheads, and other wares and merchandize in the town of Halifax, and its suburbs; and shall cause a table of such rates to be posted up in the most public places therein; and if any carman, or owner of trucks or carts, or other carriage, shall ask, demand, or receive, any other or greater rates than is allowed by such table, he shall forfeit the sum of twenty shillings; to be recovered on the oath of the prosecutor, before any Justice of the Peace for that county; to be levied by warrant of distress. And by Sec. 3, the Justices of the Peace at the Quarter Sessions held in the several other counties, are also empowered and required every year, in the months of March and September, to regulate the fares and rates of carriages for the several towns in each of the said counties, in like manner, and with the same penalties; and to be recovered as is before directed. One half of the fines and forfeitures shall be paid to the prosecutor, and the other half be applied to and for mending and repairing the streets of the town where the offence was committed. Perpetual.

NOTE.—As the last clause of the above Act, directs the rates of carriages to be established in the Quarter Sessions in the months of March and September, and there are no Sessions held quarterly in any of those Counties of the Province to which that clause relates; and as the general half yearly Sessions in but few places, if any, meet in those months; and as the clause imposes a penalty and must Sec. 10. Every person offending against any of the regulations of this Act, shall upon conviction on the oath of one credible witness, before any one of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace, forfeit and pay for each and every offence, the sum of ten shillings; and in case of refusal or neglect to pay, the same shall be levied by warrant of distress on the goods and chattels of such offender; and for want thereof, such offender shall be committed by such Justice to the County jail, for a period not exceeding forty-eight hours.

Time of prosecution.

Sec. 11. All prosecutions under the Act shall be commenced in forty-eight hours after the committing of the offence.

Application of penalties.

Sec. 12. All monies arising from fines under the provisions of the Act, shall be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the county wherein it was recovered; and be applied to the repair of highways in such county. Temporary.

The following amendments have been made to the foregoing Act, by the 5 Vic. c. 35, Sess. 1842. Sec. 2. Nothing in the said Act shall extend to any place or places within the limits of the City of Halifax. Sec. 3. Every person who shall hereafter trot or gallop any horse, mare, gelding, mule or ass, or ox, bull, cow, or steer, over any bridge within or partly within this Province, of greater length than twenty-five feet, shall forfeit and pay ten shillings, to be recovered and applied as directed in the foregoing Act. Temporary.

Locking Wheels.

By the 4, G. 4 c. 30. 3 V. 170. It shall not be lawful for the driver of any loaded waggon or cart, to cause the same to be drawn upon any of the public roads of this Province, with any one or more of the wheels thereof locked or chained, to prevent it from turning, unless such driver shall cause to be placed under such wheel or wheels an iron shoe not less than five inches in width, and sixteen inches in length; or a wooden shoe of the same length, and eight inches wide, connected with a chain to some part of such waggon or cart in such way, that such wheel or wheels so chained or locked, shall be borne up and drawn upon said shoe. Any person who shall drive any waggon or cart on any of the said roads contrary to the foregoing regulation; or who shall place and leave on any of the said roads any stones, sticks, or other obstructions, shall be subject to a fine of ten shillings, to be recovered on the oath of one credible witness, before any one of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the county or town wherein the offence was committed; which sum if not paid, shall be levied by warrant from such Justice of the Peace,

And all monies arising from fines under the provisions of this Act, shall be applied for the repair of the roads in the county wherein the same shall be received. Perpetual.

The regulations prescribed, and the offences mentioned in the foregoing Statutes, are so clearly stated and defined therein, that no particular or extended observations need here be made as to the proceedings before Justices touching any of those offences. It will be sufficient to say, that the proceedings must be the same as in other general cases for the recovery of penalties, or the punishment of the offenders ; that is, by taking the information in writing, summoning the party charged, hearing the complaint, issuing a warrant of distress, or other final process, as directed by the Statute ; as to all which, and other requisite proceedings, and the Forms required, directions will be found respectively under the Titles, —Information, Summons, Conviction, Distress, Commitment.

CATTLE.

I. INFECTED CATTLE.

By the 19 G. 3, c. 2. 1 V. 213.—The Justices of the Peace are empowered and directed to make regulations for the preventing the going at large of infected horses, mares, geldings and cattle ; and the spreading of distempers among them, in manner as shall be most agreeable to the circumstances of such county or the townships therein ; and any person who shall transgress such regulations so made, shall be subject to a fine not exceeding ten pounds, to be recovered on complaint or information, before any two of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the county wherein the offence shall be committed, or before the Justices in the Sessions held for such county or township ; and he levied on non payment thereof, by warrant of distress and sale of the offenders goods and chattels, and applied for the township wherein the offence was committed. Perpetual

II. MALICIOUSLY KILLING OR MAIMING CATTLE.

By the 4 & 5 G. 4, c. 4. 3 V. 181. Persons convicted in His Majesty's Supreme Court, or General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace, of maliciously, unlawfully, and willingly killing, maiming, wounding, or otherwise hurting any horse, mare, gelding, ox, bull, cow, steer, heifer, sheep, or other cattle, shall suffer such punishment by imprisonment or public whipping, as such court shall in their discretion adjudge. Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall subject any person to be punished or imprisoned under the directions of this clause, who shall be proceeded against for damages by the party aggrieved; nor shall any person who shall have been punished or imprisoned under the directions of this clause, be liable to any suit or action at the instance of the party aggrieved, but such punishment or imprisonment shall be forever a bar to any such action or suit. Perpetual.

NOTE.—No trial by jury can now take place in the General Sessions, and the punishment of public whipping has been abolished in all cases.

III. CRUEL TREATMENT OF CATTLE.

By 6 G. 4, c. 22. 3 V. 213, Any person owning or having the charge of horses, sheep, or other cattle, who shall wantonly and cruelly maim, wound, or otherwise hurt any of the same, shall upon conviction before any one magistrate, by any one or more witnesses, forfeit for each offence a sum not exceeding three pounds, nor less than five shillings; and on non-payment thereof, be committed to the gaol, or house of correction, for a time not exceeding twenty days, at the discretion of the magistrate—one half of the sum forfeited shall be paid to the prosecutor, and the other half for the use of the poor of the parish in which the offence was committed. Perpetual.

Directions.

The proceedings by the Justice, on a complaint under the Statute relating to infected cattle, and likewise under the foregoing one for the cruel treatment of cattle, will be the same as in other prosecutions before him for the recovery of penalties; as to which proceedings, with the Forms required, see respectively, Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction, Distress, Commitment. With regard to the offence of killing or maiming cattle, it will be observed, that prosecutions for the same must, by the terms of the Statute, be in the Supreme Court or in the Sessions, but any one Justice may receive complaints of such offence, on oath, and issue his warrant for the arrest of the party charged, and on his being brought before him, he need not take any written examinations as in case of felony, but if sufficient bail to his satisfaction be offered, he must take such bail for the appearance of the party, to answer to the complaint at the next term of the Supreme Court, or of the Sessions; and thereupon discharge the prisoner; or if such bail is not produced, the Justice must commit the prisoner to gaol.

For directions as to bailing, and for the Forms required, see respectively, Titles,—Information, Warrant, Bail, Commitment.

CHEAT.

Of Cheats punishable by public prosecution there are two kinds;—by the Common Law, and by the Statute.

I. BY THE COMMON LAW.

CHEATS which are punishable by the Common Law, may in general be described to be, deceitful practices, in defrauding or endeavouring to defraud another of his known right, by means of some artful device, contrary to the plain rules of common honesty; as by playing with false dice; or by causing an illiterate person to execute a deed to his prejudice, by reading it over to him in words different from those in which it was written; or by persuading a woman to execute writings to another, as her trustee, upon an intended marriage, which in truth contained no such thing, but only a warrant of Attorney to confess a judgment; or by suppressing a will; and such like.

It seems to be the better opinion, that the deceitful receiving of money from one man to the use of another, upon a false pretence of having a message and order to that purpose, is not punishable by a criminal prosecution, because it is accompanied with no manner of artful contrivance, but only depends on a bare naked lie.

As there are frauds which may be relieved civilly, and not punished criminally, so there are other frauds which in a special case may not be helped civilly, and yet shall be punished criminally; thus if a minor go about the town, and pretending to be of age, defraud many persons by taking credit for considerable quantities of goods, and then insist on his nonage, the persons injured cannot recover the value of their goods, but they may indict and punish him for a common cheat.

The distinction which as it seems will solve almost all Distinction as to public

cases of this kind, was taken in a case where the defendant was indicted and convicted for selling beer short of the due and just measure, to wit, sixteen gallons, as and for eighteen. Upon a motion in arrest of judgment, it was said by the Court, "This is only an inconvenience and injury to a private person, arising from his own negligence and carelessness in not measuring the liquor upon receiving it. Offences that are indictable, must be such as affect the public, as if a man use false weights and measures, and sell by them to all, or to many of his customers; or use them in the general course of his dealing; so if there be any conspiracy to cheat. But in the present case, it is only a non performance of his contract, for which the other may bring his action. So the selling an unsound horse, for a sound one, is not indictable. The distinction to be attended to in all cases of this kind, is this; that in such impositions or deceits where common prudence may guard persons against their suffering from them, the offence is not indictable, but where false weights and measures are used, or false tokens produced, or such methods taken to cheat and deceive as people cannot by any ordinary care or prudence be guarded against, there it is an offence indictable."

The distinction therefore is this; if a person sell by false weights, though only to one person, it is an indictable offence; but if without false weights, he sell to many persons a less quantity than he pretends to sell, it is not indictable.

All frauds affecting the Crown and the public at large, are indictable, though arising out of a particular transaction, or contract with the party.

The punishment for a cheat at common law is, generally, fine and imprisonment. 1 Burn's, 467 to 470.

II. BY STATUTE.

By the 32 G. 2, c. 20. 1 V. 31. "If any person or persons shall falsely and deceitfully obtain or get into his, her or their hands or possession, any money, goods, chattels, jewels, or other things, of any other person or persons, by colour and means of any privy false token, or counterfeit letter, made in another man's name, to a special friend or acquaintance, for the obtaining of money, goods, chattels, jewels, or other things, and shall be thereof convicted in any Court of Oyer and Terminer, Court of Assize and General Gaol Delivery, or Quarter Sessions of the Peace, every such offender shall suffer such punishment by imprisonment, sitting upon the pillory, public whipping, or hard labour in the house of correction, as such Court where the offender shall be convicted, shall in their discretion adjudge." Perpetual.

A person endeavouring by a counterfeit letter to defraud another of goods, and being apprehended on suspicion of such fraud, before he hath got the goods into his possession, seems not to be within this Statute. See 1 Burn's, 470.

By the Stat. 4 Vic. c. 7, Sec. 44, Sess. 1841. If any person shall, by any false pretence, obtain from any other person, any chattel, money, or valuable security, with intent to cheat or defraud any person of the same, every such offender shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; and shall be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding seven years; Provided, that if upon the trial of any person indicted for such misdemeanor, it shall be proved, that he obtained the property in question in any such manner as to amount in law to larceny, he shall not, by reason thereof, be entitled to be acquitted of such misdemeanor; and no such indictment shall be removeable by certiorari; and no person tried for such misdemeanor shall be liable to be afterwards prosecuted for larceny, upon the same facts. Perpetual.

By the 5 Vic. c. 20, Sec. 5, Sess. 1842. If any person shall falsely and deceitfully personate any owner of any share or interest, of, or in any stock, annuity, or other public fund, which now is, or hereafter may be, transferable or payable at the Bank of England, or at the South Sea House, or at the Treasury, or Office of the Treasurer of this Province; or any owner of any share or interest of or in the capital stock of any body corporate, company, or society, which now is, or hereafter may be established by Charter, or Act of Parliament, or Act of the General Assembly of this Province; or any owner of any dividend, payable in respect of any such share or interest as aforesaid, and shall thereby endeavor to transfer any share or interest belonging to any such owner, or thereby endeavor to receive any money due to any such owner, as if such offender were the true and lawful owner, every such offender shall be guilty of felony; and shall be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding four years. Perpetual.

For the course of proceeding on taking an Information for any of the foregoing offences, and as to Bail or Commitment for the same, see those Titles, respectively.

The following form of a Warrant may be made to serve in any case under either of the two first mentioned Statutes, and it may also readily be filled up so as to answer on a charge as aforesaid. for falsely personating another.

Every person who shall impair, diminish, or lighten any of the Queen's, or any foreign gold or silver coin, current in this Province, with intent to make such impaired coin pass for such current gold or silver coin, shall be guilty of felony; and be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding four years.

Sec. 4. Every person who shall buy, sell, receive, pay, or put off, or offer to do so, any false or counterfeit coin, resembling or intended to resemble, or pass for, any gold or silver, or copper coin, current in the Province, at or for a lower rate or value than the same by its denomination imports, or was coined or counterfeited for; or shall import into this Province any false or counterfeit coin, resembling, or intended to resemble, or pass for, any gold or silver or copper coin, current as aforesaid, knowing the same to be false or counterfeit, shall be guilty of felony; and be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding four years.

Sec. 5. Every person who shall tender, utter, or put off any false or counterfeit coin, resembling or intended to resemble, or pass for, any gold, silver or copper coin, current in this Province, knowing the same to be false or counterfeit, or shall have in his custody or possession, three or more pieces of any such false or counterfeit coin, knowing the same to be false or counterfeit, and with intent to utter and put off the same, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; and be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding four years.

Sec. 6. Every person who shall knowingly and without lawful authority, (the proof of which authority shall lie on the party accused,) make, or mend, or begin to do so, or buy or sell, or shall knowingly and without lawful excuse, (the proof of which excuse shall lie on the party accused,) have in his custody or possession, any instrument, tool, or engine, adapted and intended for counterfeiting of any gold, silver, or copper coin, current in this Province, shall be guilty of felony; and be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding four years.

Sec. 7. When any gold or silver coin shall be tendered to any person, who shall suspect the same to be diminished, otherwise than by reasonable wearing, or to be counterfeit, it shall be lawful for such person to cut, break, or deface such piece or pieces; and if any piece so broken, defaced, or cut, shall appear to be diminished, otherwise than by reasonable wearing, or to be counterfeit, the person tendering the same shall bear the loss thereof; but if the same be of due weight, and appear to be lawful coin, the person cutting, breaking, or defacing the same, is hereby required to receive the same, at the rate it was coined for; and if any dispute shall arise whether the piece so cut, broken, or defaced, be diminished in manner aforesaid, or counterfeited, it shall be heard and fully determined in a summary manner, by any Justice of the Peace, who is hereby empowered to examine upon oath, as well the parties, as any other person, in order to the decision of such dispute.

Sec. 8. If any person shall find or discover in any place, or in the possession of any person, without lawful excuse, any false or counterfeit coin, resembling, or intended to resemble, or pass for, any gold, silver, or copper coin current in this Province, or any instrument, tool, or engine, intended for the counterfeiting of any such coin, he shall seize and carry the same before some Justice of the Peace, and when it shall be proved on the oath of a credible witness, before any Justice, that there is reasonable cause to suspect, that any person has been concerned in counterfeiting any gold, silver, or copper coin, current as aforesaid, or has in his custody or possession, any such counterfeit coin, or any such instrument, tool, or engine, it shall be lawful for such Justice, by warrant under his hand, to cause any place belonging to, or in the occupation, or under the control of such suspected person, to be searched, either in the day or night; and if any such counterfeit coin, or any such instrument, tool, or engine, shall be found on such search, the same shall be seized and carried before the said Justice, or some other Justice, who shall cause the same to be secured, for the purpose of being produced in evidence against any person who may be prosecuted for an offence against this Act; and after being so produced, or not being required to be produced, the same shall be delivered to the Secretary of the Province, or person authorized by him to receive the same. Perpetual.

The course of proceeding, by a Justice or Justices, upon any charge under the foregoing Statute, will be the same as in other cases of felonies not capital, and will be found, together with the requisite Forms, under the respective Titles,—Information, Warrant, Examination, Bail, Commitment. With regard to the Warrant to search, mentioned in the clause last recited; the Form first given, under the Title, Warrant, may readily be filled up, so as to serve in any such case.

COMMITMENT.

I. WHO MAY BE COMMITTED.

THERE is no doubt but that persons apprehended for offences which are notailable, and also all persons who neglect to offer bail for offences which areailable, must be committed. And it is said, that wheresoever a Justice is empowered by any Statute to bind a person over, or to cause him to do a certain thing, and such person, being in his presence, shall refuse to be bound, or to do such thing, the Justice may commit him to the gaol, to remain there till he shall comply.

Persons notailable or not finding bail.

If a person be brought before a Justice, expressly charged with felony upon oath, the Justice cannot discharge him, but must bail or commit him. But if he be charged with suspicion only of felony, yet if there be no felony at all proved to be committed, or if the fact charged as a felony, be in truth no felony in point of law, the Justice may discharge him; as if a man be charged with felony for stealing a parcel of the freehold, or for carrying away what was delivered to him, and such like, for which, though there may be cause to bind him over, as for a trespass, the Justice may discharge him as to felony, because it is not felony. But if a man be killed by another, though it be by misadventure, or in self-defence, (which is not properly felony,) yet the Justice ought not to discharge him, or in making an assault upon a Minister of Justice in execution of his office, (which is not at all felony,) for he must undergo his trial for it, and therefore he must be committed, or at least bailed. But commitment by the Justices of the Peace, almost in all cases, (except for the peace, good behaviour, felony, or higher offences) is, but to retain the party until he hath made fine to the King; and therefore if he offer to pay it, or find sureties by Recognizance to pay it, he ought not to be committed, but to be delivered presently. 1 Burn's, 552-3.

Charged with felony or suspicion thereof

II. TO WHAT PLACE.

ALL felons shall be committed to the common gaol, and not elsewhere. But Justices, by particular Statutes, may commit other offenders to the house of correction, to the stocks, or other custody.

Different County.

Generally, if a man commit felony in one county, and be arrested for the same in another county, he shall be committed to gaol in that county where he is taken. Yet if he escape, and be taken on fresh suit in another county, he may be carried back to the county where he was first taken. 1 Burn's, 553.

III. THE FORM OF THE COMMITMENT.

In whose name.

It must be in writing, either in the name of the King, and only tested by the person who makes it; or it may be made by such person in his own name, expressing his office, or authority, and must be directed to the gaoler or keeper of the prison. But a Magistrate may by word, order an offender to be detained in custody, until he can make out his warrant of commitment. So a Magistrate, in the case of a breach of the Peace within his view, may instantly order the offender to be taken into custody.

Name.

It should contain the name and surname of the party committed, if known; and it is safe, but not absolutely necessary, to set forth that the party is charged upon oath.

Oath.

Cause.

It ought to contain the cause, as for treason, or felony, or suspicion thereof; otherwise if it contain no cause at all, if the prisoner escape, it is no offence at all. And it appeareth that a warrant or mittimus, "to answer to such things as shall be objected against him," is utterly against law. Also it ought to contain the certainty of the cause; and therefore if it be for felony, it ought not to be generally for felony, but it must contain the special nature of the felony, briefly, as for felony "for the death of J. S., or for burglary" in breaking the house of J. S. to the end that the party may know for what he suffers, and how he may regain his liberty. It must have an apt conclusion; as if it be for felony, "to detain him till he be thence delivered by law," or "by order of law," or "by due course of law." But when a man is committed for contumacy in refusing to do something which he ought to do, the conclusion ought to be, "until he comply and perform the thing required," for he is entitled to be discharged immediately upon the performance of his duty. It must be under seal; without this, the commitment is unlawful, the gaoler is liable to false imprisonment, and the wilful escape by the gaoler, or breach of prison by the felon, makes no felony. But this must not be intended of a commitment by the Sessions, or other court of record; for there the record itself, or a memorial thereof, which may at any time be entered of record, are a sufficient warrant, without any warrant under seal.

Seal

It should also set forth the time and place at which it is made.

Time and Place.

Where a Statute appoints imprisonment, but limits no time how long, in such case the prisoner must remain at the discretion of the Court.

A warrant of commitment in execution after a conviction, must show before whom the conviction was, as likewise the authority of the person committing. 1 Burn's, 554 to 556.

Authority.

IV. CHARGES OF THE COMMITMENT.

By the 8 & 9, G. 3, c. 2. 1 V. 147. All persons committed to the common gaol within any county, by any Justice or Justices of the Peace, for any offence or misdemeanor, having means or ability thereunto, shall bear their own reasonable charges for so conveying them to the said gaol, and the charges also of such as shall be appointed to guard them to such gaol, and shall so guard them thither; and if any such persons so to be committed, shall refuse at the time of their commitment to defray the said charges, and shall not then pay or bear the same, then such Justice or Justices of the Peace shall and may by writing under his or their hand and seal, or hands and seals, give warrant to the constable or constables of the town or place where such persons shall be dwelling, or from whence they shall be committed as aforesaid, or where they shall have any goods, within the county, town, or place, to sell such, and so much of the goods and chattels of the said persons so to be committed, as by the discretion of the said Justice or Justices, shall satisfy and pay the charge of conveying them to gaol; the appraisement to be made by four of the honest inhabitants of the town or place where such goods or chattels shall remain and be; and the overplus of the money which shall be made thereof, shall be delivered to the party to whom the said goods shall belong. And if the said persons so to be committed as aforesaid, shall not have, or be known to have any goods or chattels which may be sold for the purpose aforesaid, within the county, town, or place, then the said Justice or Justices, on application by any constable or other officer who so conveyed such persons to gaol, shall upon oath examine into and ascertain the reasonable expences to be allowed such constable or other officer, and shall forthwith, without fee or reward, by warrant under his or their hand and seal, or hands and seals, order the Treasurer of the county to pay the same, which the said Treasurer is hereby required to do, as soon as he receives such warrant; and any sum so paid shall be allowed in his accounts. And in counties where no Treasurer shall have been chosen, or in case such Treasurer shall not have any money in his hands to pay the sum so ordered, then the same shall be paid out of the public treasury of the Province. Perpetual.

By the 5 W. 4. c. 13. 4 V. 385. Money may be raised by presentment in the Sessions, to defray the expense of conveying persons accused of any treason or other criminal offence, to the county or district gaol, being the distance of three miles or upwards, and so as the same do not exceed six pence per mile. Temporary.

V. COMMITMENT DISCHARGED.

It seems that a person legally committed for a crime, certainly appearing to have been done by some one or other, cannot be lawfully discharged by any one but the King, till he be acquitted on his trial, or have an ignoramus found by the grand Jury, or none to prosecute him on a proclamation for that purpose. 1 Burn's, 558.

COMMON.

By the 10 G. 3, c. 4. 1 V. 160. The General Sessions in the several counties, shall from time to time, affix and settle such regulations as they may think most proper and convenient to be observed and followed by the inhabitants in the several townships within such county, in regard to the Common belonging to the same. And any person who shall transgress any such rules and regulations, or shall neglect or refuse to obey the same, shall forfeit and pay a fine not exceeding forty shillings, for every such offence; and in case such offender shall refuse or neglect to pay the fine, then it shall be lawful for any two Justices of the Peace to grant a warrant of distress for levying the same in the usual manner; one half to be to the person complaining, and the other half for the use of the poor of the township where the offence was committed, and in default of such distress, to commit such offender for any space not exceeding ten days. Perpetual.

The course of proceeding by Justices under the foregoing Statute, with the Forms required, will be the same as in similar cases for the recovery of penalties before them, and may be found under the respective Titles,—Information, Summons, Distress, Commitment.

COMMON FIELDS.

I. OF THEIR LINES AND BOUNDARIES.

By the 5 G. 3, c. 1. 1 V. 107. Every proprietor of lands lying unfenced, or in any common field, shall once in two years, on six days notice given him, his agent, or attorney, by the next proprietor or proprietors adjoining, run the lines, and make and keep up the boundaries of such lands, or common fields, by stones or other sufficient marks; and every party so neglecting and refusing, shall forfeit the sum of twenty shillings, one half of which shall be to the party complaining, and the other half to the Overseers of the Poor, for the use of the poor of said township; and to be heard and determined before any one of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace within the same county. Perpetual.

tutes imposing fines or penalties, recoverable before Justices of the Peace, without mentioning any mode by which the payment thereof shall be enforced, that it appears very doubtful, what final process, or course of proceeding, should be adopted to compel such payment. It would seem clear, that in any such case, a warrant of distress, in nature of an execution against the goods of the party convicted, cannot be issued. As it is laid down however, and will be found under the Title—"Commitment," that "wheresoever a Justice is empowered by any Statute to cause a person to do a certain thing, and such person being in his presence, shall refuse to do such thing, the Justice may commit him to the gaol till he shall comply,"—and as warrants of commitment in execution, after convictions before Justices, are frequently spoken of without any particular restrictions or references, it would seem, that in proceedings under the foregoing enactment, and in all similar cases as above mentioned, where the party complained of is before the Justice at the time of his conviction, and on his being informed of the fine imposed on him, and required to pay it, he shall refuse to do so, he may be forthwith committed to gaol, until he shall comply. Such commitment, as in other cases, must be in writing, under the hand and seal of the Justice, and it must state the particular cause of commitment, as "for refusing to pay the said fine of —" and it must also state that the party "be detained in the said gaol, until he shall pay the said fine of —." For other directions as to proceedings under the foregoing clause of the above Statute, and for the Forms required, see the general directions and Forms in similar cases, given under the respective Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction, Commitment.

II. OF BOUNDARY FENCES OF ADJOINING LANDS.

By the 8 G. 4, c. 26. 4 V. 13. The proprietor of any field adjoining to any Common Field enclosed and improved, in case his part of the fence dividing his land from such Common Field, shall become deficient, or out of repair, shall immediately repair such deficiency, and make the same a good and sufficient legal fence; and in case he shall neglect so to do, within the space of three days after notice given him, it shall and may be lawful for any one of the Fence Viewers, upon application being made to him in such case, forthwith to cause such deficient fence to be built up and repaired, if in his judgment the same be insufficient; and the person that of right ought to repair and maintain the same, shall pay double the costs and charges expended for the closing thereof, and in case of refusal, such Fence Viewer may recover the same by action on the case, according to the value, in manner aforesaid. Provided always, that no Fence Viewer shall be allowed more than three shillings per day in his account, for his own trouble and time expended herein. And if any Fence Viewer, when notified, shall neglect his duty herein, he shall forfeit two pounds for each offence, to be recovered on due proof before any Justice of the Peace for the County or District in which such lands lie, one half to the person who shall prosecute for the same, and the other half to the poor of the township or place where the offence was committed. Perpetual.

NOTE. By the words,—“by action on the case, according to the value, in manner aforesaid,” used in the above enactment, it is not easy to discover precisely what is intended. It is indeed sufficiently obvious, that a reference is thereby made to some mode previously prescribed in the Statute, for the recovery of a penalty or sum of money. There are, however, two several penalties, imposed by two previous clauses of the Act, one of ten pounds to be recovered by bill, plaint, or information, in any Court of Record; and the other of not more than five pounds, nor less than three pounds, recoverable before two Justices of the Peace. Now, which of these modes of recovery is referred to in the words above cited, is quite a matter of doubt and uncertainty. On the one hand, it can scarcely be supposed, that the Legislature intended that a few shillings expended by a Fence Viewer in making or repairing part of a boundary fence, should be recovered by bill, plaint, or information, in the Supreme or Inferior Court; and on the other hand, to a lawyer, or any other person at all conversant with the nature and denominations of different actions at law, it would appear a very strange thing, that an action on the case for the recovery of any sum whatever, should be prosecuted in a summary manner before Justices of the Peace. This instance is one among several others which might be mentioned, of the very unskillful and ambiguous wording of many of our Provincial Statutes; and they indicate most clearly, how expedient it is, that more skill and attention should be employed, than are usually afforded, about the first penning of our Statutes, or during their passage through the Legislature.

For directions, and the Forms in prosecutions for the recovery of the penalty imposed by the foregoing enactment, on a Fence Viewer neglecting his duty, see respectively, Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction, Commitment,

III. REGULATIONS BY PROPRIETORS.

By the 10 G. 4, c. 27. 4 V. 50. The proprietors of any Common Field may meet at some place in the township wherein such field is situated, and make such regulations as may from time to time appear to them necessary and expedient, respecting the ordering, fencing, and improving of such field, and the keeping the fences thereof in repair, and making and repairing roads in and across the same; and such regulations shall be entered in a book, and be signed by the Chairman of the Meeting. The said book and the proof of the entry made therein shall be good evidence of such regulations, in any Court, or wheresoever the proof of such regulations may be necessary.

Making regulations.

Sec. 3. The said proprietors shall, annually, at one of the said meetings, appoint from among themselves, a committee of not less than three nor more than five persons, to carry into effect for the year then ensuing, the regulations made as aforesaid.

Sec. 4 & 5. Whenever the said committee shall find it necessary to raise money for carrying into effect any of the said regulations, they shall assess the amount to be raised on the several proprietors or occupiers of such Common Field, by an even and equal rate, according to the quantity and quality of the land held in such field, by each proprietor or occupier; and shall, by an instrument in writing under their hands, appoint a collector to collect the sums so assessed; and upon the neglect or refusal of any proprietor or occupier, to pay the amount wherewith he has been rated, after due notice given of such assessment, the said collector shall have power to sue for and recover the same with costs from such proprietor or occupier, before any one or two Justices of the Peace, or before any Court of Record, according to the amounts of such rates, in the same manner as debts under and above three pounds are now by law recoverable.

Assessments and recovery of rates.

Sec. 6. The said committee may include in any sum assessed by them as aforesaid, for every member of such committee, the sum of five shillings for each day in which he shall be actually occupied and employed in carrying into effect the aforesaid regulations. Temporary.

By the 2 W. 4, c. 62. 4 V. 190. The regulations made at any meeting of the proprietors of a common field, of which meeting due notice has been given, shall be good and binding, if the same have been passed with the assent of such number of the proprietors present, whose rights and shares in such field, when added together, amount to more than was committed, shall, at the option of such Justices, be adjudged either to be committed to the common gaol of such county or district, for a term not exceeding three months, nor less than one month, and be accordingly committed, by warrant under the hands and seals of the said Justices; or shall be adjudged to forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding five pounds, nor less than three pounds, with costs of suit; to be levied by warrant of distress and sale of the offenders goods and chattels, and to be paid, after deducting such costs, to the Overseers of the Poor, for the use of the poor of the township, parish, or settlement, wherein such offence shall have been committed. Perpetual.

The proceedings before Justices, under this last clause, will be the same as in like cases, and, together with the requisite Forms, which may readily be filled up so as to serve, are set forth respectively, under the Titles,—Information, Warrant, Conviction, Commitment and Distress. It will be observed, that two modes of punishment are mentioned, either of which the Justices, in their discretion, may impose, but they cannot adjudge both. If they impose that of a fine, it would seem, that in default of distress, they cannot commit the party, as no such power is, in that event, given to them by the Statute.

CONCEALMENT OF BIRTH.

By the Statute 4 Vic. c. 6, Sec. 13, Sess. 1841. If any woman shall be delivered of a child, and shall, by secret burying or otherwise disposing of the dead body of the said child, endeavour to conceal the birth thereof, she shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; and being convicted thereof, shall be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding two years; and it shall not be necessary to prove whether the child died before, at, or after its birth; Provided always, that if any woman tried for the murder of her child, shall be acquitted thereof, it shall be lawful for the jury by whose verdict she shall be acquitted, to find, in case it shall so appear in evidence, that she was delivered of a child, and that she did by secret burying, or otherwise disposing of the dead body of such child, endeavour to conceal the birth thereof, and thereupon the Court may pass such sentence as if she had been convicted upon an indictment for the concealment of the birth. Perpetual.

The proceedings before a Justice on a charge of this nature, will be the same as in other cases of misdemeanor, and will be found described under the respective Titles,—Information, Warrant, Examination, Bail, Commitment. Two Justices may bail for this offence.

CONFESSION, see EVIDENCE and EXAMINATION.

CONSPIRACY.

CONSPIRACY, is when two or more combine together, to execute some act for the purpose of injuring a third person, as by indirect means to impoverish him, or falsely and maliciously to charge him with being the reputed father of a bastard child; or to maintain one another in a matter, whether it be true or false. Every confederacy to injure individuals, or to do acts which are unlawful or prejudicial to the community, is a conspiracy. Thus, journeymen confederating and refusing to work, unless for certain wages, may be indicted for a conspiracy, and the offence consists in the conspiring, and not in the refusal, for all conspiracies are illegal, although the subject matter of them may be lawful. A bare conspiracy to do a lawful act, to an unlawful end, is a crime, though no act be done in consequence thereof. 1 Burn's, 567.

A conspiracy being a trespass, and tending to a breach of the peace, is cognizable by the General Sessions. Id. 569.

By the 56 G. 3. c. 27. 2 V. 215. All contracts, covenants, and agreements, entered into by or between any journeymen, manufacturers, or other workmen, or persons, for obtaining an advance of wages of them or any of them, or any other journeymen, manufacturers, or workmen, or other persons in any manufacture, trade, or business; or for lessening or altering their, or any of their usual hours, or time of working; or for decreasing the quantity of work; or for preventing or hindering any person from employing whomsoever he shall think proper to employ in his manufacture, trade or business; or for controlling or any way affecting any person carrying on any manufacture, trade or business, in the conduct or management thereof, shall be illegal, null and void, to all intents and purposes whatsoever; and every journeyman, workman or other person, who shall be lawfully convicted of entering into, or being concerned in entering into any such illegal contract, covenant or agreement, upon his own confession, or the oath of one credible witness or more, before any two or more Justices of the Peace for the county, town, or place where the offence shall be committed, within three calendar months after the offence was committed, shall by order of such Justices, be committed to and confined in the common gaol within their jurisdiction, for any time not exceeding three months, or at the discretion of such Justices, shall be committed to some house of correction within the same jurisdiction, there to be kept to hard labour for any time not exceeding two months.

Sec. 3. Every journeyman, workman, or other person, who shall enter into any combination to obtain an advance of wages, or to lessen or alter the hours or duration of the time of working, or to decrease the quantity of work, or for any other purpose contrary to the Act; or who shall by giving money, or by persuasion, solicitation, or intimidation, or any other means, directly, or indirectly, endeavour to prevent any unhired or unemployed journeyman, or workman, or other person in any manufacture, trade, or business, or any other person wanting employment in such manufacture, trade or business, from hiring himself to any manufacturer or tradesman, or person conducting any manufacture, trade or business; or who shall, for the purpose of obtaining an advance of wages, or for any other purpose contrary to the provisions of the Act, by any means whatsoever, directly or indirectly decoy, persuade, solicit, intimidate, influence, or prevail, or attempt or endeavour to prevail on any journeyman, or workman, or person hired or employed, or to be hired or employed in any such manufacture, trade or business, to quit his work or service; or who shall hinder or prevent, or attempt to hinder or prevent any manufacturer, or tradesman, or other person from employing in his or her manufacture, trade, or business, such journeyman, workman, and other persons, as he or she shall think proper; or who, being hired or employed, shall refuse to work with any other journeyman, or workman employed or hired to work therein, and who shall be lawfully convicted of any of the said offences, upon his own confession, or the oath of one credible witness or more, before any two or more Justices of the Peace for the county, town, or place where such offence shall be committed, within three calendar months next after the offence was committed, shall, by order of such Justices, be committed to and confined in the common gaol within his or their jurisdiction, for any time not exceeding three months; or otherwise be committed to some house of correction within the same jurisdiction, there to be kept to hard labour, for any time not exceeding two months.

Sec. 4. All contracts, associations, agreements, covenants, and engagements, in writing, or not, entered into between master tradesmen, or manufacturers, or any other persons, for the purpose of regulating the wages of workmen, or for adding to or altering the usual hours of work, or for increasing the quantity of work, or for regulating or fixing the price to be paid for any work done, or article made by such master tradesmen or manufacturers, or other persons, whereby their customers, or others who may deal with them, may be affected, shall be illegal and void; and every master tradesman, manufacturer, or other person, being thereof convicted by the oath of one witness, before two Justices, within twelve calendar months, shall forfeit and pay for each and every offence, twenty pounds; one half to the informer, and the other half to the poor; and if the same is not immediately paid, with costs of prosecution, such Justices shall levy the same by warrant of distress, with the costs attending the distress and sale; and for want of sufficient distress, such Justices shall commit the offender or offenders to the common gaol or house of correction, for any time not exceeding three, or less than two calendar months. Perpetual.

Such directions as are requisite, and also the Forms, which may readily be made to serve for proceedings under the above Statute, will be found, respectively, under the Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction, Distress, Commitment.

CONSTABLES.

Bound to execute Warrants of Justices.

It has always been holden, that the Constable is the proper officer to a Justice of the Peace, and bound to execute his warrants; and therefore it hath been resolved, that where a Statute authorises a Justice of the Peace to convict a man of a crime, and to levy the penalty by warrant of distress, without saying to whom such warrant shall be directed, or by whom it shall be executed, the constable is the proper officer to serve such warrant, and may be indicted for disobeying it.

shew his warrant to the party, notwithstanding he demand the sight of it; but constables, and all other persons whatsoever making an arrest, ought to acquaint the party with the substance of their warrants. And all private persons to whom such warrants shall be directed, and even officers if they be not sworn, and commonly known, and even these if they act out of their own precincts, must shew their warrants if demanded. And it is certainly expedient, that whenever an arrest be made by virtue of a warrant, the warrant (if demanded at least,) should be produced.—1 Burn's, 578-9.

Inasmuch as the office of Constable is wholly ministerial, and no way judicial, it seems that he may appoint a deputy to execute a warrant directed to him, when by reason of sickness, absence, or otherwise, he cannot do it himself; yet it doth not seem to be settled that he can make a deputy, without some special cause. Id. 574.

Appointing Deputy.

By the 54 G. 3, c. 15. 2 V. 122. No action shall be brought against any Constable, or other officer, or against any person acting by his order, and in his aid, for any thing done by him in obedience to any warrant under the hand and seal of any Justice of the Peace, until demand has been made and left at the usual place of his abode, of the perusal and copy of such warrant, and the same has been refused for six days after such demand; and if after such demand and compliance therewith, any action shall be brought against any such Constable or other officer, or against any such person acting in his aid, for any such cause as aforesaid, without making the Justice who signed or sealed the said warrant, defendant, on producing or proving such warrant, at the trial of such action, the jury shall give their verdict for the defendant, notwithstanding any defect of jurisdiction in such Justice. And if such action be brought jointly against such Justice, and the Constable, or other officer, or persons acting in his or their aid as aforesaid, then, on proof of such warrant, the Jury shall find for such Constable or other officer, and persons so acting as aforesaid, notwithstanding such defect of jurisdiction.

Action against Constable.

Sec. 10. No action shall be brought against any Constable, or other officer or person acting as aforesaid, unless the same shall be commenced within six calendar months after the act complained of shall have been committed. Perpetual.

Masters of

By the 2 W. 4, c. 13, § 7. 4 V. 138. Masters of vessels on board of which any infectious disease shall appear, on their arrival at the place to which they shall be appointed to repair, shall report their case to one of the officers named in the Act, or to some Justice of the Peace, who shall forthwith give notice thereof to the local Board of Health, or to the Governor, or His Majesty's Council.

Person escap-

Sec. 17. A Justice of the Peace, on application made to him, shall issue his warrant for apprehending any person who shall have quitted any vessel liable to perform quarantine, or who shall have escaped from quarantine, and for conveying such person to the vessel from which he or she shall have come on shore, or to any vessel performing quarantine, or lazaret, from which he or she shall have escaped; or for the confining of any such person in any such place of safe custody, (not being a public gaol,) and under such restrictions as to having any communication with any other persons, as may, in the discretion of such Justice of the Peace, (calling to his aid, if he shall think fit, any medical person,) appear to be proper, until such person can be safely conveyed to some place appointed for the performance of quarantine, or until directions can be obtained from the Board of Health, or His Majesty's Council, as to the disposal of any such person; and to make any further order, or grant any further warrant that may be necessary in that behalf.

Releasing

Sec. 21. Upon proof made before a Justice of the Peace, by the oaths of the master or other person having charge of a vessel under quarantine, and of three or more persons belonging thereto, or by the oaths of two or more credible witnesses, that such vessel, and all and every such person and persons respectively, have duly performed quarantine, and that the vessel and all and every person and persons are free from infection, then and in the said respective cases, such Justice of the Peace shall give a certificate thereof.

By the 3 W. 4, c. 67. 4 V. 241; made in amendment Recovery of penalties. of the above mentioned Act, it is provided, that all fines, penalties, and forfeitures, imposed or incurred by or under the said above mentioned Act, when the whole amount thereof shall not exceed five pounds in the whole, shall and may be prosecuted, recovered, levied, and paid, before and by order of any two Justices of the Peace for the county or district where the offence was committed. Annual.

The Forms of the Information and Warrant required Directions. under the before recited 7th clause of the aforesaid Statute respecting Quarantine, may readily be framed from the words of the clause. The information should be taken in the form of an affidavit, made by the person giving the information, in which should be stated briefly, the fact of the person complained of having quitted the vessel, or the place of quarantine, and the names, times, and places, and other material circumstances, as the case may be. This affidavit must be briefly recited in the body of the warrant, the merely formal part of which will be the same as in ordinary cases for the arrest of a party, and will be found under the Title, —Warrant. Such directions as are requisite, and also the Forms, which may readily be made to serve for prosecutions under the before recited 31st. Section of the same Statute, and also under the foregoing Act 3 W. 4, made in amendment thereof, will be found under the respective Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction, Commitment.

II. HEALTH WARDENS.

By the 2 W. 4, c. 14. 4 V. 148. Justices in Sessions, in every other county or district except Halifax, may Appointment. nominate and appoint from time to time, such and so many persons as may be necessary, to fill the office of Health Wardens, within the several towns of the Province, except Halifax, who shall act gratuitously, and be sworn to the due performance of their office, pursuant to the Act. Temporary.

III. REGULATIONS. &c. BY SESSIONS.

By the 5 W. 4, c. 18. 4 V. 405. If, on any occasion, at any towns or places distant from Halifax, any infectious disease or distemper shall have been introduced, or there shall appear imminent danger of the introduction or spreading thereof, before the directions of the Governor, or His Majesty's Council thereon, can be transmitted to such town or place, then, if there is no Board of Health in such town or place, it shall be lawful for the Justices of the Peace for the county, in Special Sessions assembled, by any order or orders then and there to be made, to establish all such rules and regulations as to such Justices may appear necessary or expedient, as well for preventing as far as possible the introduction into this Province, or spreading within the same, of any such infectious disease or distemper, as also for the relief of any persons suffering under, or likely to be afflicted by any such disease, and likewise for declaring and bringing into immediate and full operation, all such parts of the regulations in the "Act more effectually to provide against the introduction of infectious or contagious diseases, and the spreading thereof in this Province," and in this Act, as such emergency shall require to be put in force in such town or place; and likewise for enforcing the performance of quarantine, according to the provisions of the Statute therefor; and moreover for appointing officers and persons to execute the said regulations, so far as may appear requisite; and the said Justices in Session shall forthwith cause copies of all such orders to be transmitted to the Governor, or in his absence to His Majesty's Council; and the same orders, until the Governor, or His Majesty's Council, shall alter or annul the same, shall continue to be in force.

Consulting Physicians.

Sec. 5. In all towns and places where there shall be no Board of Health, except in the town of Halifax, it shall be lawful for the Justices in Special Sessions, to appoint such number as may be deemed requisite, of consulting physicians, whose duty it shall be, in case of any alarm of any contagious or other dangerous disease or distemper occurring, or likely to occur in any such town or place, to give to the said Justices all such professional advice and information as they may request, with a view to the prevention of the said diseases, and at all convenient times to assist such Justices with their counsel and advice, in all matters that relate to the health of the inhabitants.

Provided it shall be certified unto the said Justices in Sessions, in some writing to be signed and attested to by any two or more physicians of the town or place, or if only one, then by that one physician, that in their or his opinion, such removal is necessary or expedient for the safety of the inhabitants ; and in case any person sick with such contagious or infectious disease, in any house or place within such jurisdiction, cannot, in the opinion of such physicians, be removed, then the said Justices in Session shall have power to cause such house to be vacated by the removal of the other occupants thereof, or to cause any house or tenement contiguous thereto, to be vacated, by the removal of the occupants thereof, for such time as the physicians consulted by the said Justices in Session, shall think expedient, and the safety of the inhabitants of the place may require. Temporary.

IV. RECOVERY OF PENALTIES.

By the 5 W. 4, c. 17, § 30. 4 V. 402. Concerning nuisances, it is enacted, that it shall be lawful for any Board of Health, or Health Wardens, appointed and acting under the Act, "more effectually to provide against the introduction of infectious or contagious diseases," to limit and restrain to any sum under ten pounds, but not below ten shillings, the amount to be prosecuted for, in respect of any of the several penalties imposed by or incurred under the said last mentioned Act, for the offences to which such Act has reference, and all penalties thus limited, shall and may be sued for and recovered before any one Justice of the Peace of the county or place wherein the penalty shall be incurred, and all larger penalties shall be sued for and recovered in any Court of Record in the same county.

Sec. 31. All such limited penalties under the said last mentioned Act, shall be sued for and recovered in the name and on the information of any Health Inspector within whose limits the offence shall have been committed, or as a debt due to him, as the case may be ; and if there be no Health Inspector, then in the name of the Clerk of the Peace of the county or district, unless His Majesty's Attorney or Solicitor

General think proper to prosecute at the suit of the Crown, and give notice accordingly ; and in all cases where the prosecution shall be in the name of the Health Inspector, or Clerk of the Peace, he shall be deemed the official prosecutor, and shall, as shall any Health Warden, be and be deemed a competent witness in such prosecution or suit, and shall recover costs of suit from the defendant, if judgment be given for the penalty or sum prosecuted for, but shall not be liable to pay to the defendant any costs, if the judgment pass in favour of the defendant ; and all monies to be recovered by any such suit or prosecution, shall be paid into the hands of the Treasurer for the town, or for the county as the case may be, and shall be appropriated towards defraying the expenses there to be incurred in and about the enforcing and carrying into effect this Act, and the Acts therein recited.

Appeals.

Sec. 33. If any appeal shall be entered against the judgment of a Court of Summary Jurisdiction, or any Justice of the Peace, given for any sum of money sued for by any Clerk of the Peace, or Health Inspector, either as a penalty, or as a debt due to him, under the provisions of the said Act, " more effectually to provide against the introduction of infectious or contagious diseases," or of this Act, and such appeal be not duly prosecuted at the first sitting of the Court to which the appeal is prayed, then on such default being certified by the Clerk thereof, execution shall be forthwith issued from the Court, or by the Justice by whom the judgment was rendered. Temporary.

Directions.

As it is provided in the above recited 30th and 31st Sections of the aforesaid Statute, 5 W. 4, c. 17, that the limited penalties therein mentioned, incurred under the aforesaid Act, " to provide against the introduction of infectious diseases," may be sued for before one Justice of the Peace, by a Health Inspector, or Clerk of the Peace, as a debt due to him, the proceedings and the forms of Summons and Execution requisite for the recovery of such limited penalties, will be the same as in cases for the recovery of private debts before a single Justice, and will be found under the Title,—Summary Trials.

a tacit repeal of that famous clause in the Great Charter, that a man shall be tried by his equals; which also was the common law of the land long before the Great Charter, even from time immemorial, beyond the date of histories and records. Therefore, generally, nothing shall be presumed in favour of this branch of the office of a Justice of the Peace, but the intepdmt will be against it. For which reason, where this special power is given to a Justice of the Peace by Act of Parliament, it must appear that he hath strictly pursued it, otherwise the common law will break in upon him and level all his proceedings. So that where a trial by jury is dispensed withal, yet he must proceed nevertheless according to the course of the common law in trials by juries, and consider himself only as constituted in the place both of judge and jury. Therefore there must be an information or charge against a person; then he must be summoned or have notice of such charge, and have an opportunity to make his defence; and the evidence against him must be such as the common law approves of, unless the Statute directeth otherwise; then if the person is found guilty, there must be a conviction, judgment, and execution, all according to the course of the common law, directed and influenced by the special authority given by Statute. 1 Burn's, 586.

The Justice must also take and preserve minutes of all the proceedings before him, from which, when a removal of the same to a Superior Court is required by a writ of certiorari, he must make and send up a record thereof, according to the form set forth in the Statute hereinafter mentioned. The difficulty of drawing up a conviction in due form, hath induced the Provincial Legislature in the Statute alluded to, being 5 W. 4, c. 2. 4 V. 353, to frame and prescribe a general Form of a Record of Conviction, to be used in all cases where no particular Form for the record thereof shall have been directed. In here treating further of this subject, the Form of Record prescribed in the said Statute will first be set forth, and then the several essential parts of it will be separately exhibited, and the law establishing and explaining them, respectively, will be stated and applied. It is proper, however, to observe here, that in cases where a Justice is authorised to convict of an offence on his own view, or in his own hearing, the said Statute does not apply, and the Form of Record therein prescribed will not suit, and indeed cannot be followed in any such case, but a more brief though sufficiently comprehensive Form is to be used; as in cases under the Statutes against drunkenness, profane swearing,

In all instances, however, where a Justice is not authorised to convict on his own view, or in his own hearing, the Form of Record set forth in the said Statute must, according to the direction therein contained, be strictly adhered to, either, literally, or at least in words to the same effect.

By the aforesaid Statute it is enacted, that,—In all cases wherein a conviction shall have taken place, and no particular Form for the Record thereof shall have been directed, the Justice or Justices, or other person or persons duly authorised to proceed summarily therein, and before whom the offender or offenders shall have been convicted, shall and may cause the Record of such Conviction to be drawn up in the manner and form following, or in any words to the same effect, mutatis mutandis, that is to say :

Sec. 2. In all cases where any Justice or Justices, or Appeal. others, shall by virtue of any Statute, fix, impose, or order payment of any fine, penalty, or sum of money, upon or against any person or persons whomsoever, he or they may appeal against the decision to the then next Supreme Court, or Court of Common Pleas, to be holden in the county or district where such decision took place; and such appeal shall be granted by such Justice, or Justices, or others, upon the party appealing entering into a bond, with sufficient surety, in treble the amount of such fine, penalty, or sum of money, (including the costs attending the conviction, or order for payment thereof, if any there be,) in the name or names of, and payable to the party or parties prosecuting, and conditioned for the due prosecution of such appeal, and the abiding of the judgment thereupon, by the party or parties so appealing, (for which bond the Justice or Justices, or other persons granting such appeal, and whose duty it shall be to prepare such bond, upon the demanding of such appeal, shall receive and take the sum of two shillings and six pence and no more,) and such Justice or Justices, or other persons, shall thereupon, on or before the first day of the term of the Court to which such appeal shall be had, send to the said Court such bond, and his minutes of judgment and proceedings, and other papers in the matter of such appeal, without its being necessary in such stage of the cause, to make up a formal record of such conviction; and such furpecially necessary to be shown, in cases where it is the measure of the penalty or damages to be given by the Justice. Thus a conviction on the Stat. 43 Eliz. c. 7, § 1, for cutting down trees, was quashed, because it did not mention the number of the trees. Id. 594.

A summary conviction for any offence created by Statute, must negative every exception contained in the clause creating the offence; and a defect in omitting so to do, is not aided by a proviso in the Statute, that "no conviction for any offence in the Act, shall be set aside for want of form, or through the mistake of any fact, circumstance, or other matter, provided the material facts alleged were proved," for this in effect requires all material facts to be alleged, and it is a material fact, that the defendant did not come within the exception in the enacting clause. But where a Statute constitutes an act to be an offence generally, and in a subsequent clause makes a proviso in favour of particular cases, there the proviso is a matter of defence or excuse, which need not be noticed in the information. Id. 594.

Negative of exceptions.

If a subsequent Statute make any exception to a former one, it is incumbent on the defendant to shew by way of defence, that he comes within such exception. So where negatives are descriptive of the offence, they must be set forth; for what comes by way of proviso in a Statute, must be insisted on by way of defence, by the party accused; but where exceptions are in the enacting part of a Law, it must appear in the charge, that the defendant does not fall within any of them. Id.

In general it is sufficient for the Justices in the description of the offence, to pursue the words of the Statute, but that is not always sufficient, it may be necessary to go farther. It was so determined, upon a conviction of a person, for robbing an orchard, which the Court held not sufficient; but it ought to have appeared of what and how the orchard was robbed, that they might judge whether it were a robbery within the meaning of the 43 Eliz. c. 7. Id. 595.

Whereupon the said E. F., after being duly summoned, &c.] The party ought to be heard, and for that purpose ought to be summoned in fact; and if the Justices proceed against a person, without summoning him, it will be a misdemeanor in them, for which an information will lie. But though justice requires that a party should be duly summoned, and fully heard before he is condemned, yet if he be stated to be present at the time of the proceedings, and to have heard all the witnesses, and not to have asked for any further time to bring forward his defence, if he had any, this at all times has been deemed sufficient. Id. 595.

The party to be summoned

Time for appearance and defence.

The defendant should have a reasonable time allowed him for making his defence. A conviction upon default of appearance, where the summons was to appear immediately upon the receipt of it, was held bad. The summons should be, to appear at a certain time and place, and these must be such as to afford the defendant the reasonable means of complying with the summons, and of being fairly heard. The service of the summons should be proved upon oath, and it seems that such service should in general be a personal one. Id. 596.

The summons may be directed either to the party charged, requiring him to appear, or to some third person, requiring him to summon the party. Id. 595.

The summons must not be for appearance on an impossible day. In one case it was stated, that the defendant was summoned to appear; and did appear, on Tuesday the 17th day of April, 1802, &c. In fact the 17th of April fell on a Friday, and it being objected, that the time of the summons being impossible, it was the same as if there had been no summons, the court quashed the conviction on this ground, saying, "there could be no such day, and therefore he could not appear thereupon; and when the day is not set forth, his appearance on another day cannot be intended." Id. 595.

Pleading to the charge.

And having heard the charge, &c.] The information must be read to the defendant, who should be apprised of the charge against him, and put to plead thereto, that is, either to confess or deny it, before the Justice proceeds to hear evidence in its support. Id. 597.

Convicting the party in his absence.

Whereupon I or We, &c. did proceed to examine, &c.] It was formerly doubted, whether the Justice having summoned the defendant, might, if he did not appear, proceed to hear the evidence and convict him, in cases where the Statute does not expressly give such a power; but now it seems perfectly settled, that a party who does not appear after regular notice, may be convicted in his absence. Id. 596.

Naming Witness.

One credible Witness, to wit, A. W. of &c.] It is requisite to name the witness, that he may appear to be a different person from the informer; as the Statutes generally give the latter a share of the penalty, and therefore he cannot be a witness, excepting where the Act shall specially so direct. Id. 597.

Setting out the evidence.

Upon his oath deposeth and saith in the presence of the said E. F.] It is fully settled that in all convictions, the evidence must be set out particularly, not merely the result of it; and that sufficient proof must appear upon the face of the record to sustain every material part of the charge, and to warrant the adjudication. The evidence must be set out, in order that the superior court may judge whether the Justices have done right. It is recognised as a known distinction between orders and convictions, that in the former, it is allowed to state the result only of the evidence, but this would undoubtedly be bad in a conviction. A conviction for taking pilchards, contrary to the form of the Statute, was quashed, and the reason assigned was, because the witness swore generally, that the defendant was guilty of the premises; for that is taking the law upon himself. Likewise, a conviction on the Candle Act was set aside, because the evidence was not set out, it being only alleged that the offence was fully and duly proved. Id. 598.

If a conviction state in the words of the Statute, the deposition of the witness to the fact, it is sufficient; but if the Magistrate endeavour to shelter himself from detection, by merely stating the fact of the offence in the terms of the Statute, as if it were the legal effect of the evidence, when the evidence itself would not warrant the conclusion, he subjects himself to a criminal information, upon a proper case laid before the Court. Id. 599.

Where the informer is permitted to be a witness, he must be sworn and examined in the defendant's presence, (if appearing,) even though he were sworn when the information was taken. And therefore it is not sufficient in such a case, to read over the informant's deposition, in the presence of the defendant. Id.

It should appear that the fact was proved to have been committed in some place within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate. Id.

If the defendant when put on his defence, sets up a claim of right to the thing he is accused of taking, or destroying, and there is any pretence or colour for such right, the Justice ought to acquit him. Id.

It is sufficient in convictions, if there were such evidence before the Magistrate, as in an action, would be sufficient to be left to a jury. He is the sole judge of the weight of the evidence, and the Court will not examine whether or not he has drawn a right conclusion from the evidence. But if no evidence appear on the conviction to support a material part of the information, the Court will quash the conviction. Id. 600.

And the said E. F. acknowledged, &c.] In general if the defendant confess the offence, it is needless to go into the proof of it. But this is to be understood of a confession to the full extent of a good and sufficient information; for

The evidence may be stated in the words of the Act.

where either the confession does not come up to the charge in the information, or is made upon an insufficient information, it will not supply the want of evidence in the one case, or of a sufficient charge in the other. 1 Burn's, 597.

Though a Statute only empowers the Justice to convict upon the oath of one or more witnesses, yet he may convict upon the confession of the party alone. Id.

Adjudication.

That the said E. F. hath forfeited, &c.] Even in cases where the punishment is fixed by Statute, there must be an express adjudication of the forfeiture. A conviction is in the nature of a verdict and judgment, and therefore must be precise and certain. 1 Burn's, 601.

Punishment.

If imprisonment be adjudged, not for any certain period, but generally till the payment of a fine or the performance of some other act, the condition must be distinctly expressed, and such as is authorised by Statute. If it be till payment, the sum must be fixed. Thus a conviction and commitment for a forcible entry, "there to remain till they shall have paid a fine to the King," the Justices not having assessed any fine, was held to be irregular. So under a Statute which empowered the magistrate to commit until the penalty and charges were paid, a commitment for nine months, or until the sum of £15, "together with charges previous to and attending the conviction shall be paid," was held to be bad, for want of ascertaining the exact sum, by the payment of which the defendant might be released. Id.

Costs.

With the sum of — costs in this behalf.] When an Act gives power to a Magistrate, on a summary conviction, to award the reasonable charges of taking a distress, he must ascertain the amount in the conviction; and an adjudication that the defendant shall pay the reasonable charges of the levy, is bad. Id. 603.

Given under my hand and seal, &c.] A conviction must be under the hand and seal of the Magistrate, and it is laid down that he ought to give the defendant a copy of the conviction if he demands it, as it is a record. Id. 603.

NOTE. From the enactment, however, in the before recited Provincial Statute, that,—On an appeal the Justice must send up to the Court "his minutes of judgment and proceedings, and other papers in the matter of such appeal, without its being necessary in such stage of the cause to make up a formal record of the conviction," it would seem that he will not be bound to furnish to the defendant a copy of such record, unless where he may be required to do so in some course of legal proceedings.

CORONER.

Notice of Death.

WHEN it happens that any person comes to an unnatural death, the township shall give notice thereof to the Coroner. Otherwise if the body be interred before he come, the township shall be amerced. It is a matter indictable to bury a man that dies a violent death before the Coroner's inquest have sat upon him. 1 Burn's, 633.

Burying.

A Coroner's inquisition ought to show upon the face of it, of what place the party who took it was Coroner, and that it was taken by the oath of "honest and lawful men." Id.

Swearing and Charge.

The Jury appearing, is to be sworn and charged by the Coroner, to enquire, upon the view of the body, how the party came by his death. For he can take inquisition of death, only upon view of the body, and not otherwise; therefore if the body be interred before he come, he must dig it up. And this he may do lawfully, within any convenient time, as in fourteen days. Id.

View.

If the body cannot be viewed, the Coroner can do nothing, but the Justice of the Peace shall enquire thereof. Id.

Inquiry as to the Death.

The Jury being sworn, and the body upon view, the Coroner shall enquire upon the oaths of them, in this manner; viz.—If they know where the person was slain; whether it were in any house, field, bed, tavern, or company; who are culpable either of the act, or of the force; and who were present, either men or women, and of what age soever they be, if they can speak or have any discretion; and how many soever be found culpable, they shall be taken and delivered to the Sheriff, and shall be committed to the gaol. Id. 634.

Also, all wounds ought to be viewed, the length, breadth, and deepness; and with what weapons; and in what part of the body the wound or hurt is; and how many wounds there be; and who gave the wound; and how many be culpable. And they must hear evidence on all hands. If it be offered to them, and as well on the part of the person accused, as against him, and that upon oath. Id.

If any be found culpable of the murder, the Coroner shall immediately go to his house, and shall enquire what goods he hath, and how much land he hath, and what it is worth. And when they have thus enquired upon every thing, they shall cause all the land, corn, and goods, to be valued in like manner as if they should be sold immediately. Id.

He also shall enquire, whether the persons found guilty fled; for which flight they forfeit goods and chattels. Id.

Immediately upon these things being enquired, the bodies of such persons being dead or slain, shall be buried. Id. 635.

The Coroner ought also to enquire of the death of all persons who die in prison, that it may be known whether they died by violence or any unreasonable hardships; for if a prisoner by the duress of the gaoler come to an untimely death, it is murder in the gaoler, and the law implies malice in respect of the cruelty. And this inquest upon prisoners ought to consist of a party Jury, that is, six of the prisoners, (if so many there be,) and six of the next vill or parish, not prisoners. Id.

county or district, who shall thereupon file the same, and without fee or reward give to such Coroner a certificate of such inquisitions having been so returned and filed with him; and therein state the day and year when such inquisition was taken, and when returned and filed as aforesaid; and upon such certificate of the Clerk of the Crown, or any one of his deputies, being filed with the Secretary of the Province, it shall be lawful for the Governor or Commander-in-chief, by warrant under his hand and seal, to direct that there be paid to any such Coroner, for each and every such inquisition so taken, returned and filed as aforesaid, the sum of fifty shillings out of the Treasury of the Province.

Sec. 2. The said sum of fifty shillings shall be in full of all demands against the Province, for and on account of such inquest to be made by any Coroner under this or any former Act or Acts whatsoever. And the said Coroner shall apply twelve shillings thereof to pay the Jury's fees, and two shillings and sixpence to pay the Constables fees; and if there be any further necessary or extraordinary charge attending such inquest, or the burial of the body of the deceased person or persons, such charge shall be defrayed by the county or district wherein such inquest was taken. Provided, that an account of items be rendered by the Coroner taking such inquest, to the Court of General Sessions of the Peace, and approved of by the Grand Jury in the usual manner.

Sec. 3. When any Coroner, in any county, district, town or place, shall be called upon and required to hold any inquisition on any person deceased, when by law such inquisition shall be necessary, such Coroner shall forthwith, either personally summon and require a Jury of the inhabitants of the county, town, or place where such inquisition is held, to attend him on such inquisition; or shall make out and deliver to some Constable or Constables of the county, town, or place wherein such Coroner has jurisdiction, a warrant or precept, commanding such Constable or Constables, to summon a Jury to attend such inquisition at a certain time and place therein to be appointed, and such Jurors shall attend accordingly.

Sec. 4. It shall and may be lawful for any Coroner to proceed to hold and take any inquisition, on view of any deceased person, on Sunday, where he shall deem it proper and requisite. Perpetual.

DISTRESS.

THIS Title relates only to that distress which is authorized for the levying of fines or penalties, imposed for offences against Statutes which direct or sanction that mode of recovering them, under warrants from Justices of the Peace. It is not to be understood to have any reference whatever to Distresses for rent, in which case, as the law now stands in this Province, Justices of the Peace have no authority to act.

It has been solemnly resolved that these words in an Act of Parliament,—“to be levied by distress,” must be understood of “distress and sale.” 1 Burn's, 730.

Where distress is made by virtue of a warrant of a Justice, in nature of an execution, and the value of the goods distrained shall not be found to be the full amount of the sum to be levied, distress may again be made for the residue of such sum. And the distinction seems to be this, that where there is an entire sum to be levied, it shall not be split, and distress made for part of it at one time, and part at another, and so toties quoties for several times; for that is great oppression; but if distress is made for the whole sum, and only Distraining at several times.

a mistake is made as to the value of the goods seized, (which may be of very uncertain or even imaginary value, as pictures, jewels, racehorses, and the like,) there is no reason why the whole sum should not be levied by making a further seizure. Id. 704.

What goods
trained.

It may be laid down as a general rule, that all chattels personal are liable to be distrained, unless particularly protected or exempted. The tools, utensils, or instruments of a man's trade, or profession, as the axe of the carpenter, or the book of a scholar, a loom, implements of husbandry, beasts of the plough, and sheep, and many other things, although under certain circumstances privileged from distress for rent, yet they are all liable to be taken, where a distress is given in the nature of an execution, by any particular Statute. Id. 706.

Furnaces, cauldrons, or other things fixed to the freehold, or the doors or windows of a house, or the like, cannot be distrained. Id. 706.

Breaking
to distress.

In cases of distress for the levying of penalties, a part or the whole of which is given to the King, doors or gates, in case they are locked up, or shut, may be broken open; but where no part of a penalty is given to the King, it seems there is no power to break them open to make the distress. Id. 731.

NOTE. Distresses should be reasonable, and not too great, and the goods taken should be sold within not less than four, nor more than eight days after seizure, upon due public notice given of the time and place of sale.

In cases wherein no power is specially given to Justices to ascertain the charges of taking, keeping, and selling the distress, it seems that the officer executing the warrant, shall be the sole judge thereof in the first instance; and afterwards, if the owner of the goods distrained shall be dissatisfied, the reasonableness thereof shall be determined by a Judge and Jury, upon an action brought: but in several Statutes this power of ascertaining the charges of distress, and sale, is given to the Justices, and in all such cases they should ascertain and fix such charges. See 1 Burn's, 731.

A. M., J. P.

If the conviction took place before two Justices or more, the warrant of distress and commitment must be filled up accordingly, and be signed and sealed by both or all of them. Directions. Justices, must in every case, carefully examine whether the Statute which directs the levying by a warrant of distress, provides also, that where no goods can be found, the offender shall be committed to prison; and if to be committed, whether for a limited period, or until payment shall be made; for unless imprisonment is authorized by the express or implied terms of the Statute, it cannot take place as a matter of course, for want of distress. In every case, the mode directed by the Statute of levying the penalty, or carrying into effect the punishment imposed, must be strictly observed, and according to the course prescribed by the Statute.

name of any person who will sue for the same, before any two Justices of the county where the offence was committed ; and shall be applied to the benefit of the poor therein. Temporary.

By the Statute 2 Vic. c. 39. Sess. 1839. It is enacted, that it shall be lawful for the Courts of Sessions in the different counties of the Province, to make such rules and regulations as may be necessary, to prevent damages arising from unruly, malicious, or rabid dogs ; and to affix a penalty for the breach of any such regulation, not exceeding forty shillings ; to be recovered, on conviction, before any one Justice of the Peace ; and levied by warrant of distress on the offenders goods and chattels ; and in case there be no goods and chattels, or not sufficient to satisfy said warrant, then such offender shall be committed to the county gaol, for such time as the said regulations shall provide, not exceeding eight days. This was an Annual Act, but it has been made Perpetual by the 5 Vic. c. 42. Sess. 1842.

Rabid or unruly Dogs.

The following directions seem proper, as to proceedings by Justices under the foregoing Statutes. For recovery of the ten shillings, given under the first recited Statute, to the owner of a sheep killed by a dog, the proceedings should be the same as in cases for the recovery of small debts ; for which, see Title,—Summary Trials ; and for recovery of the penalty of £3, for the same offence, the proceedings, until after conviction, will be the same as in other cases for the recovery of penalties ; and for which see, respectively, Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction. This Statute, like several others of our Provincial Acts, does not direct any final process for the levying or enforcing payment of the penalty, and therefore it is in a great measure nugatory or ineffectual, by reason, that after a conviction under it, the Justice is not authorised either to issue a warrant of distress, or to commit the offender to prison, for obtaining the penalty. It may here be remarked concerning all such Statutes, that in summary convictions by Justices, they cannot proceed any further, or in any other manner, than is authorised or directed by the Statutes, respectively, under which they are acting ; and consequently, that they cannot in any such case, either issue a warrant of distress, or commit the party convicted to prison, to obtain the penalty, unless they are authorised to do so by the terms of the Statute.

Directions.

The course of proceedings under the before recited Act of the 4 Vic. c. 15. Sess. 1841, and under the last mentioned Act of the 2 Vic. c. 3. Sess. 1839, for any breach of the regulations or orders made pursuant to the same respectively, will be the same as in other cases for the recovery of penalties for breaches of regulations, made in Sessions, or by Justices, and will be found set forth under the respective Titles,—Information, Summons, Distress, Commitment.

With regard to the before recited Act of the 3 W. 4, c. 71, respecting mad dogs, as it provides, that the penalties imposed shall be recovered "as debts," it would seem that the proceedings and Forms will be the same as in cases of debt between private parties, and which will be found under the Title,—Summary Trials.

By the 11 Geo. 3, c. 6. 1 Vol. 167. Where a sale of lands or tenements shall be made by a husband and his wife, before the deed shall be sufficient to bar the wife from her Dower, she shall be examined by a Justice of the Peace, and if, before him, she shall declare, that she hath freely and without compulsion from her husband, signed such deed, and therein assigned her right of Dower, the Justice shall certify such acknowledgments on the deed, which shall forever bar her from the recovery of her Dower to the lands so conveyed. Perpetual.

NOTE. By the English Statute on this subject, to which ours is in general similar, it is provided, that if the party does not pay the penalty to the Church Wardens, within one week after conviction, a warrant of distress shall issue; and there, accordingly, the practice is, after conviction, to send out a warrant to the Church Wardens, to demand the penalty, and if on the expiration of the week, it is returned unsatisfied, the warrant of distress is issued. As our Statute does not allow any time after conviction for making payment, it would seem, that a similar warrant to the Overseers of the Poor to demand payment, is not requisite. However, as in our Statute the words "on neglect or refusal to pay," seem to imply that some notice of the conviction should be given to the party, or some demand of the penalty made upon him, before issuing the warrant of distress, it will probably, in the them the person so accused, complained of, or suspected, and upon his or her appearance, or neglect to appear, to proceed to examine the matter of fact with which he or she is charged, and upon due proof thereof made, either by his or her confession, or upon the oath of one credible witness or more, to convict such offender; and every person offending herein, and so convicted, shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty pounds; one half thereof to the informer, and the other half to the Overseers, of and for the use of the poor of the township or place wherein such offence was committed; the same to be levied by distress and sale of the offenders goods and chattels, together with the charges of such distress and sale, rendering the overplus (if any be,) to the owner or owners thereof; and for want of sufficient distress, the said Justices are required to commit the person or persons convicted as aforesaid, to the house of correction, or common gaol of the county, town, or place where the offence was committed, there to remain and be kept at hard labour for the space of six months. Perpetual.

Directions.

With regard to the offence described in the first clause of the foregoing Act,—of cutting or breaking down dykes or banks, the course of proceeding by a Justice, on complaint thereof made before him, will be the same as in other cases of felony; that is,—by taking the information on oath, issuing his warrant, examining witnesses in presence of the party charged, taking his examination, and committing him to gaol, and binding over witnesses in recognizance to appear at the Supreme Court; for directions on all which, and other points of duty on the occasion, and for the Forms requisite, see respectively, Titles,—Information, Warrant, Examination, Commitment. As this offence is a capital felony, Justices of the Peace cannot admit to bail a party charged with it, but must commit him to gaol, to take his trial in the Supreme Court.

The course of proceeding by the two Justices under the second clause of the Act, is very clearly pointed out therein: and for more particular directions concerning the same, and for the Forms required, reference must be had to the respective Titles,—Information, Summons, Warrant, Conviction, Distress, Commitment.

ESCAPE.

IN order to make an escape, there must be an actual arrest; and therefore, if an officer having a warrant to arrest a man, see him shut up in a house, and challenge him as his prisoner, but never actually have him in his custody, and the party get free, the officer cannot be charged with an escape. 1 Burn's, 752.

It seems to be a good general rule, that wherever any person hath another lawfully in his custody, whether upon an arrest made by himself, or another, he is guilty of an escape, if he suffer him to go at large before he hath discharged himself of him, by delivering him over to some other who by law ought to have the custody of him. Id.

It is an escape in some cases, to suffer a prisoner to have greater liberty than by law he ought to have, as to admit a person to bail, who by law ought not to be bailed, but to be kept in close custody. So if a gaoler or other officer shall license his prisoner to go abroad for a time, and to come again; this is an escape, even though the prisoner return again. Id.

If an officer hath arrested a man by virtue of a warrant, and then taketh his promise that he will come again, and so letteth him go, the officer cannot afterwards take him again by force of his former warrant, because he consented to his going. But if the party return, and put himself again under custody of the officer, it seems that it may probably be argued, that the officer may lawfully detain him, and bring him before the Justice, in pursuance of the warrant. But if the party arrested, had escaped of his own wrong, without the consent of the officer, upon fresh pursuit, the officer may take him again and again, as often as he escapes, although he were out of view, or shall fly into another town or county, and may bring him before the Justice, upon whose warrant he was first arrested. And it is said generally in some books, that an officer who hath negligently suffered a prisoner to escape, may retake him wherever he finds him, without mentioning any fresh pursuit; and indeed, since the liberty gained by the prisoner is wholly owing to his own wrong, there seems to be no reason he should take any manner of advantage from it. Id. 753.

Wherever a person is lawfully arrested for any cause, and afterwards escapes and shelters himself in a house, the doors may be broken open to take him, on a refusal of admittance. Id. 754.

Retaking.
Breaking open doors.

It seems to be generally agreed, that a voluntary escape suffered by an officer, amounts to the same kind of crime, and is punishable in the same degree as the offence of which the party was guilty, and for which he was in custody, whether it be treason, felony, or trespass. And for a negligent escape of a criminal, actually in his custody, the officer is punishable by fine and imprisonment, according to the quality of the offence. Id. 755.

- III. OF WRITTEN EVIDENCE.
- IV. OF THE EVIDENCE OF WITNESSES.
- V. OF THE MANNER OF GIVING EVIDENCE.
- VI. OF PROCESS TO CAUSE WITNESSES TO APPEAR.

I. OF EVIDENCE IN GENERAL.

It is a general rule in all cases, civil and criminal, that the best evidence must be given of which the nature of the thing is capable. The true meaning of this rule is, not that Courts of Law require the strongest possible assurance of the matter in question, but that no evidence shall be given, which from the nature of the thing, supposes still greater evidence behind, in the party's possession or power; for such evidence is altogether insufficient, and proves nothing, but carries with it a presumption contrary to the intention for which it is produced. Thus, if a party offer a copy of a deed or will, where he is able to produce the original, this raises a presumption that there is something in the deed or will, which, if produced, would make against the party, and therefore the copy in such a case is not evidence. But if he prove the original deed or will to be in the hands of the adverse party, who refuses to produce it, although he has received a regular notice for that purpose, or that the original has been lost, or destroyed, without his default, no such presumption can reasonably be made; and a copy will be admitted, because then such copy is the best evidence that can be produced. Burn's, 766.

The best evidence is required.

If a deed is attested by several subscribing witnesses, the execution may be proved by one of them: or if none of these witnesses can be produced, proof of the signature of one witness shall be sufficient. Id. 766.

The common law does not require any certain number of witnesses for the trial of any crime whatever. And before a Justice of the Peace in divers cases, one witness is sufficient to convict an offender, the same being directed by special Statutes. Id. 767.

Number of Witnesses.

By P. S. 32 G. 2, c. 11: 1 V. 9. Wills of land shall be attested by three witnesses at the least.

An offence need not be proved precisely on the day on which it is laid to have been committed, but where a time is limited for any prosecution, it must be proved that the offence was committed within such limited time. 1 Burn's, 592.

Place.

It must be proved that the offence complained of was committed within the jurisdiction of the Court or Justice before whom it is tried, and where any part of a penalty sought to be recovered, is given to the township where the offence was committed, it must be proved that such offence took place within the township stated in the indictment or other proceedings. In each of such cases, if such requisite proof is not given, the defendant must be acquitted. 1 Burn's, 592. Arch. C. P. 63.

Where a guilty knowledge upon the part of a defendant is to be proved, the prosecutor is allowed to give in evidence other instances of his having committed the same offence for which he is now prosecuted. And nearly the same rule applies where it is requisite for the prosecutor to prove malice upon the part of the defendant, as former menaces, or expressions of vindictive feeling by the defendant against the prosecutor. Arch. C. P. 70, 71.

The subject of evidence may now be considered in a more enlarged and particular manner, and it may be classed under three heads; Admissions or Confessions, Presumptions, and Proofs. Each of these in order will here be treated of.

II. OF ADMISSIONS AND PRESUMPTIONS.

Of Admissions in Criminal Cases.

THE admission or confession of a fact by the defendant, renders it unnecessary for the prosecutor to prove it. This admission or confession is of four kinds. 1. Where the defendant in open court, confesses that he is guilty of the offence with which he is charged. After this a trial is unnecessary, and the Court have nothing to do but to award judgment. 2. Where the defendant upon an indictment for a misdemeanor yields himself to the King's mercy, and desires to submit to a small fine, which submission the Court may accept of, if they think fit, without putting the defendant to a direct confession. 3. Where the defendant upon his examination before Justices of the Peace, on a charge of any offence, admits either his guilt, or any fact which may tend to prove it at the trial. This examination must not be upon oath; if it be, the Court will not allow it to be given in evidence. Where one of three prisoners stated in the presence and hearing of the others, in his examination before the Magistrate, that he and one of the others committed the felony, and this was not contradicted by the other, still it was held that this could not be given in evidence against the other. But in all other cases, what is said in the prisoner's presence and hearing, relative to a fact within his knowledge, and which he assents to, or does not contradict, is equivalent to an admission of the fact, and may be given in evidence against him; what weight such admissions by implication should have with a jury, is another matter. 4. Where the defendant makes an admission or confession of his guilt, or of any fact which may tend to the proof of it to any other person.

All these several species of confession, to be of effect, must be voluntary. And in the case of a confession before a magistrate, or other person, if it appear that the defendant was induced to make it, by any promise of favour, or by menaces, or undue terror, it shall not be received in evidence against him. So if the promise or menace, &c. take place previously to the prisoners being brought before the Magistrate, and the confession be before the Magistrate, the Court will in general refuse to admit the confession to be given in evidence, unless it appear that the prisoner was undeceived by the Magistrate, and cautioned by him not to expect the favour, or not to regard the menaces held out to him. But if it be a free and voluntary confession, it is receivable in evidence against him, whether it be made at the moment he is apprehended, or while those who have him in custody are conducting him to the magistrate, or even after he has entered the house of the magistrate for the purpose of undergoing examination. Arch. C. P. 75—6. 1 Burn's, 562.

Although confessions improperly obtained, cannot be received in evidence, yet if in consequence of such confessions, any facts arise, such facts may be given in evidence. Thus, if in consequence of an extorted confession, stolen goods be found, although proof cannot be admitted of the prisoner's acknowledgment of having stolen, or put them there, yet the fact of the witness having been directed by the prisoner where to find the goods, and his having found them in the place described by the prisoner, may be given in evidence. 1 Burn's, 563.

Where a prisoner has been once induced to confess, upon a promise or threat, he may afterwards suppose it will not be of any use to deny what he has said, and therefore any subsequent confession of the same or like facts, be the distance of time what it may, cannot be admitted as evidence against him. As to what shall be considered as a threat or promise, it has been held, that a confession induced by saying, "Unless you give me a more satisfactory account, I will take you before a Magistrate," cannot be received in evidence. So also saying to the prisoner, "It would be worse for him if he did not confess," or that "It would be better for him if he did," is sufficient to exclude the confession. A confession induced by saying "Tell me where the things are, and I will be favourable to you," cannot be given in evidence. Nor where the prosecutor had said, that "He only wanted his money, and if the prisoner gave him that, he might go to the devil if he pleased." Id. 564.

Proving Confessions.

Admissions or confessions to other persons than Magistrates, if in writing, are proved as any other written instrument; if not in writing, are proved by parol evidence of some person who heard them. In all cases the whole of the confession should be given in evidence; for it is a general rule, that the whole of the account which a party gives of a transaction, must be taken together, and his admission of a fact disadvantageous to himself, shall not be received, without receiving at the same time, his contemporaneous assertion of a fact favorable to him, not merely as evidence that he made such assertion, but admissible evidence of the matter thus alleged by him in his discharge. Also, it may be necessary to observe, that a man's confession is only evidence against himself, and not against his accomplices. Arch. C. P. 78.

Admissions in Civil Cases.

An admission of a fact by either party, renders it unnecessary for his adversary to prove it. The highest species of admission, is, that which appears upon record, and it is conclusive against the party making it. The admission of a party upon oath, is of course evidence against him, as for instance, his answer to a bill in equity or his affidavit. A deed, in which any admission is made by a party to it, may be given in evidence against him, or any person claiming under him. Also when one deed is recited in another, this is an admission of the recited deed by all parties to the deed reciting it, and may be given in evidence as such against them, and all persons claiming under them. So a notice that a partnership is dissolved, signed by the parties, for the purpose of being inserted in a Gazette, was holden to be sufficient evidence of the dissolution, for all purposes against the parties signing it, although the partnership was constituted by deed, and consequently must have been dissolved by deed. So a party's receipt is good evidence as an acknowledgment of a payment; although it is not conclusive evidence, if it can be shewn that it originated in some imposition practised upon the party who gave it. Where the plaintiff entered an account in writing, of goods and cash furnished to the defendant from time to time, each page of which was authenticated by the defendant's acknowledgment in writing of the receipt of the contents, it was holden, that although such an acknowledgment in writing, could not be given in evidence per se, in respect of the cash items amounting to above 40 shillings in each page, for want of receipt stamps, yet that it was competent to the plaintiff to prove that upon calling over each article to the defendant, he admitted that he had received the same; and that the witness might refresh his memory by referring to the accounts. Arch. on Pl. & Ev. 344-5.

NOTE: As no stamps are required in this Province, the written acknowledgments in the foregoing case, on the defendant's hand writing to them being proved, would be good evidence here of the whole of the account, for cash as well as goods.

In an action on a bill of exchange, evidence being given of an admission by the plaintiff that he had no interest whatever in the suit, the plaintiff was nonsuited. An acknowledgment of the debt by the defendant, may be given in evidence, and it is in general conclusive. But in all the before-mentioned cases, the whole of the account which a party gives of a transaction must be taken together; and his admission of a fact disadvantageous to himself, shall not be received without receiving at the same time, his contemporaneous assertion of a fact favorable to him, not merely as evidence that he made such counter claim, but as admissible evidence of the matter he thus alleged in his discharge. Arch. on Pl. & Ev. 346.

There are also admissions by implication. If an assertion be made in the presence of a party, relative to a fact within his knowledge, and he assent to it, or do not contradict it, it may fairly be deemed equivalent to his admission of the matter asserted. So if notice to quit be personally served on the tenant in possession, and he make no objection to it, this is an implied admission that the tenancy commenced at the season of the year when the notice to quit expired. Too much reliance however should not be placed on admissions by words, or by implication; they may have originated in a lapse of memory, or a foolish boasting in the one case, or from inadvertence in the other; and it would be wrong therefore, to conclude the parties by them. Those in writing are of a higher nature, and if by deed or record, or upon oath, they are conclusive. And it is no matter, whether the party who makes the admissions, be the person actually interested or not; it is sufficient if he be a party to the suit. Thus, a defendant may give in evidence, the declarations or admissions of the plaintiff in the suit, to defeat the action, although such plaintiff appear to be only a trustee for a third person. On the other hand, the admissions of the person actually interested, are evidence, although he be not a party to the suit. Thus, in an action by the master of a ship for freight, the declarations of the owner, for whose benefit the action is brought, are evidence for the defendant.

Partners.

The admissions of one of two partners, are evidence against both. So where two jointly sue or are sued, the affidavit of one may be received in evidence against both; against the one who made it as conclusive evidence; and against the other, as evidence to be left to the jury. And not only the admission of a man or his partner, but also in some cases the admission of his known and accredited agent, is evidence against him. Thus, letters written by an agent in making a contract, and which form part of the thing done, are admissible in evidence against the principal. So, if A. refer B. for information upon a particular subject to C., what C. says concerning it, when applied to by B. or his agent, has been holden to be evidence for B. in an action against A. But the letters of an agent to his principal, in which he is rendering him an account of business he has done for him, cannot be given in evidence against the principal. Even the admissions of a wife, in cases where she is to be considered the agent of her husband, is evidence against him. Thus, where it appeared that she used to transact the business at home, and purchased the articles used in the trade, her admission as to the state of the accounts between her husband and the plaintiff, who supplied her with goods to be used in the trade, were holden to be evidence against the husband. But it is only where she can be considered as acting as his agent, that her admissions can affect him; therefore in an action by the husband, for wages due to the wife, her admission of the receipt of the money is not evidence against him. In all other cases, however, the general rule is,—that the declarations or admissions of third persons are not evidence; they should be called as witnesses. Arch. on Pl. & Ev. 346-7.

Agent.

Even the admissions of a wife, in cases where she is to be considered the agent of her husband, is evidence against him. Thus, where it appeared that she used to transact the business at home, and purchased the articles used in the trade, her admission as to the state of the accounts between her husband and the plaintiff, who supplied her with goods to be used in the trade, were holden to be evidence against the husband. But it is only where she can be considered as acting as his agent, that her admissions can affect him; therefore in an action by the husband, for wages due to the wife, her admission of the receipt of the money is not evidence against him. In all other cases, however, the general rule is,—that the declarations or admissions of third persons are not evidence; they should be called as witnesses. Arch. on Pl. & Ev. 346-7.

Wife.

Even the admissions of a wife, in cases where she is to be considered the agent of her husband, is evidence against him. Thus, where it appeared that she used to transact the business at home, and purchased the articles used in the trade, her admission as to the state of the accounts between her husband and the plaintiff, who supplied her with goods to be used in the trade, were holden to be evidence against the husband. But it is only where she can be considered as acting as his agent, that her admissions can affect him; therefore in an action by the husband, for wages due to the wife, her admission of the receipt of the money is not evidence against him. In all other cases, however, the general rule is,—that the declarations or admissions of third persons are not evidence; they should be called as witnesses. Arch. on Pl. & Ev. 346-7.

another follows as a natural or very probable conclusion from them. Presumptions are of three kinds: violent presumptions,—probable presumptions,—and light or rash presumptions, which last, however, have no weight or validity at all. If a landlord give a receipt for the rent last due, it is fair to presume from this fact, that all former rent due by the tenant, has been paid. This is a probable presumption: for a man is supposed to receive first for debts of the longest standing. But if the receipt be in full of all demands, this fact induces a violent presumption that there are no other debts outstanding, and if the acquittance be under seal, the presumption cannot even be rebutted by evidence on the other side, because the deed is an estoppel. A right may be presumed from continued acts of ownership, or length of possession. If a man be abroad for seven years, or upwards, without being heard of, the presumption is that he is dead; and on the other hand, if it appear that a man was alive within seven years, the presumption is that he is still alive. The intention with which an act is done, must necessarily be the subject of presumption, and must be presumed either from the nature of the act itself, or from other facts and circumstances connected with it. It shall not however be presumed that a man has any notice or knowledge of the contents of a deed, merely from the fact of his having attested the execution of it by another person. So a loan of money from A. to B. cannot be presumed, from the bare fact that A. delivered a sum of money to B. which he had borrowed of another; for where money is paid, the presumption is that it is paid in liquidation of an antecedent debt, and not by way of loan. Arch. on Pl. & Ev. 348 to 353.

Intention.

On an indictment for larceny, proof that a part of the stolen goods have been found upon the person of the prisoner, or in his house or possession, is presumptive evidence against him of his having stolen them, so as to call upon him for his defence; and may be sufficient to convict him, if no facts appear in evidence to repel that presumption. The goods are sometimes found in the prisoner's house before his apprehension, frequently found afterwards; and there can be no objection to proof of their being found at one time or the other. This kind of evidence is frequently strengthened materially by other circumstances, as by proof that about the time of the offence, the prisoner was near the spot from which the goods were taken, or that he gave some false account respecting the goods on being charged with the crime, or endeavoured to conceal them, or perhaps tried to prevent an inspection; or by some other proof of suspicious circumstances in his behaviour. On the other hand, the inference arising from the mere fact of possession, will be much weakened, if any considerable time has elapsed between the loss of the property and the finding of it again; or if the property was from its nature, likely to pass in the interval through many hands; especially where the prisoner betrayed no appearance of guilt at the time of his apprehension. So it is of a deed of feoffment, if all the witnesses to the deed be dead; then violent presumption, which stands for a proof,—is continual and quiet possession. Also, the deed may receive credit from a comparing of seals, writing, and the like. 1 Burn's, 766-7.

II. OF WRITTEN EVIDENCE.

Acts of Parliament.

GENERAL ACTS of Parliament are not, correctly speaking, the subject of proof in any Court of Justice, for being the law of the land, they are supposed to be known to every man, and are binding upon every subject, and judges are bound to take judicial notice of their contents. But private Acts of Parliament, not concerning the public, but which relate only to particular classes of men, or to certain individuals, are not considered as laws, but facts, and therefore must be proved like other records which concern private rights. 1 Burn's, 768.

Of Records.

RECORDS are the memorials of the proceedings of the Legislature, and of the King's Courts of Justice, and they are considered of such authority, that no evidence is allowed to contradict them. But copies of them must be proved by witnesses, and then are good evidence; but a copy of a copy is no evidence. Copies of records may be under seal, and not under seal. Those under seal, are called exemplifications, which are of two kinds; under the great or broad seal, and under the seal of some other Court, and they are both good evidence. Such copies of records as are not under seal, must be sworn copies, or office copies. The sworn copy should contain the whole of the record. An office copy, authenticated by a person appointed for that purpose, is good evidence of the contents of the original, without any proof of its being an examined copy. But where the officer of the Court is only entrusted with the copy of records, and is not authorised to make out a copy, he has no more authority to make a copy than a man who has copies of records and who has compared them with the original. As to the proper place in whose custody they should be, By the Statute relating to title by the Clerk of the Court, evidence in any no more authority for that purpose than a common person, and the copy must be proved in a strict and regular mode. Copies of records are to be proved as other transcripts, by a witness who has compared the copy, line for line, with the original, or who has examined the copy while another person read the original. And it ought to appear that the original came from the proper place of deposit, or out of the hands of the officer in whose custody the records were kept. 1 Burn's, 769.

If it were not parties to the judgment, confirmations, confirmations, the appellant party in evidence against the appeal. Here the judgment is discharged from the parish. Id. 770.

By the 21 G. 3, c. 2. 1 V. 222. The transcript or copy of any vote or proceedings of His Majesty's Council, relating to titles of lands, attested as a true copy, and signed by the Clerk of the Council, shall be received as legal evidence in any Courts within the Province. Perpetual.

No verdict shall be given in evidence, but between those who were parties or privies to it, because otherwise a man would be bound by a decision who had not the liberty to cross examine. And a verdict will not be admitted in evidence without likewise producing a copy of the judgment founded upon it, because it may happen that the judgment was arrested upon a new trial granted. But this rule doth not hold in the case of a verdict on an issue directed out of Chancery. Id. 769. Verdict.

A judgment by the Sessions, discharging an order of removal, (not for defect of form, but upon the merits,) is conclusive, as between the contending parishes, that the settlement of the pauper was not in the appellat parish at the time of the removal, but it is binding only on these parishes, not on a third parish. An order of removal executed, and not appealed against, is conclusive of the pauper's settlement at the time of the order, even as between third parishes, who were not parties to that order. And a judgment by the Sessions, confirming an order of removal, is conclusive upon the appellat parish, as to all the world, and may be given in evidence against them by a third parish, on any subsequent appeal. Here it may be observed, that the party against whom the judgment was pronounced, had an opportunity of discharging themselves, by proving the liability on a third parish. Id. 769. Judgment.

And note, whenever a matter comes to be tried in a collateral way, the decree, sentence, or judgment of any Court ecclesiastical, or civil, having competent jurisdiction, is conclusive evidence of such matter; and in case the determination is final in the Court of which it is a decree, sentence, or judgment, such decree, sentence, or judgment, will be conclusive in any other Court, having concurrent jurisdiction. Id. 770.

Proceedings in Chancery.

There are also public matters that are not records, as transactions in Chancery, and of these copies may be given in evidence. A bill in Chancery will not be evidence, except to shew that such a bill did exist, and that certain facts were in issue between the parties, in order to introduce the answer, or the depositions of witnesses. It is not to be admitted as evidence in Courts of law, to prove any facts either alleged or denied in the bill. Answers in Chancery, are confessions on oath, and therefore strong evidence against the party who makes them. When an answer is read, all the parts must be taken together, connected and entire. Id. 770.

Affidavits.

A mere voluntary affidavit may be read against the person who made it, and it must be proved to be sworn. But if it be only proved to be signed by the party, it will be evidence as a mere writing. But if it were an affidavit in any cause, then proof of the cause depending, and the using of the affidavit, would perhaps be evidence upon an indictment for perjury. The copy of a voluntary affidavit cannot be given in evidence. Id. 770.

Depositions of Witnesses.

Depositions of witnesses in a suit in Chancery, may be read when the witness is dead, but not when the witness is living; for whilst the witness is living, they are not the best evidence the nature of the thing is capable of. Also, when a witness cannot be found after strict enquiry, his deposition may be read. Or if it be proved that a witness was subpoenaed and fell sick by the way, the deposition is the best evidence that can be had. But if the witness is in a state to be produced, his deposition cannot be received. It is a general rule, that a deposition cannot be given in evidence against any person who was not party to the suit; and the reason is,—because he had not liberty to cross examine the witness. For this reason, depositions in Chancery shall not be read for or against the defendant, upon an information or an indictment, for the King was no party to the suit. Yet this rule admits of some exceptions, as particularly in all cases where hearsay and reputation are evidence; and in such case, depositions are admissible in evidence, in a suit between other parties, provided they have not been made after the suit was commenced. But if the question at issue is precisely the same in both suits, the depositions in the former suit cannot be admitted. Id. 770.

A deposition taken in a cause between other parties, will be admitted to be read, to contradict what the same witness swears at a trial. Id. 771.

A copy of the probate of a will is good evidence, where the will itself is of chattels: for there the probate is an original taken by authority, and of a public nature; but the probate of a will, devising real property, is not evidence of the contents of the will, even though the original is proved to be lost. In a case where it was proved that a will of lands had been lost, parol evidence of its contents was thereupon received from a witness who heard it read over before the testator's family on the day of his funeral. The probate of a will is not conclusive evidence of its validity, on an indictment for forgery of the will. An examined copy of the probate of a will is evidence of the person there named being executor, as the probate is an original, taken by authority, and of a public nature, but a copy of the will would not be evidence of that fact. Id. 771.

Probate of a Will.

Generally, wherever an original is of a public nature, and would be evidence if produced, an immediate sworn copy thereof will be evidence, as a copy of a bargain and sale; of a deed inrolled, and the like; but where an original is of a private nature, a copy is not evidence, unless the original is lost or destroyed. Id. 772.

Copies of Records.

On a warrant to a Constable, to distrain goods by virtue of an Act of Parliament, the Constable makes distress, and keeps the warrant: a copy of the warrant in this case will be good evidence. Id. 773.

Warrant.

If upon collateral issue it is to be proved that such an one was Justice of the Peace, baronet, or the like, common reputation is sufficient proof, without shewing the commission, or letters patent of the creation. And in the case of all Peace Officers, Justices of the Peace, Constables, &c., it is sufficient to prove that they acted in these characters, without producing their appointments. On an indictment for disobeying an order of Justices for diverting a road, it was held unnecessary to produce the commission of the peace, to prove the persons to be Magistrates who signed the order. Id. 773.

identity of the person, (by such entries intended) is fully proved, and also strengthened with circumstances, as, cohabitation, the allowance of the parties themselves, and the like. But a day book from whence the register is made up, was not allowed as evidence to contradict the latter, in a question of legitimacy: for though it was insisted that one was the original entry, the other was the only register, and there cannot be two registers in one parish. Id. 773.

An entry of the receipt of money by the officers of a township, from the officers of another township, of a proportion of Church rates, made in a parish book, is evidence to charge the latter officers with the same proportions in future; and another entry explaining the proportion made on the same page, is also admissible evidence; and the first point upon the principle that by such entry the officers charged themselves with the receipt of money. Id. 773.

Gazette.

The Gazette published under the sanction and controul of Government, is sufficient evidence of any act of State so announced, but not of any private matters contained therein, or done by, or to the King, otherwise than in his regal capacity. The King's proclamations, addresses from the people to the Crown, and the like, may be proved in this manner, without a production of the proclamations or addresses themselves. Upon the same principle, the Articles of War, as printed by the King's Printer, are allowed to be evidence of such Articles. Id. 773-4.

An ancient Map will be received as evidence, where it has accompanied possession, and agreed with the boundaries as adjusted by ancient purchases. If two manors are in the hands of the same person, and a map is made by him, and afterwards one of the manors is conveyed to another person, and then at a distant time, disputes arise as to the boundaries, the map so taken will be evidence; but if the person under whose direction the map was taken, was possessed of only one manor, the map so taken, is not evidence against the rights of persons not parties to the making of it. Id. 775.

It has been determined, that where a pregnant woman died after examination, but before an order of filiation, such examination taken under the Statute 6 G. 2, c. 31, was admissible evidence, on an application to the Quarter Sessions to make an order of filiation on the putative father; and that, if not contradicted, it ought to be considered as conclusive. Id. 776.

The general rule respecting the admissibility of depositions after the death of the witness, is, that they are not evidence, unless they have been taken judicially, and unless the party whose interests would be affected by them, had an opportunity of being present, and cross-examining the deponent. It is therefore now clearly established, that the ex-parte examination of a pauper, concerning his settlement, taken on oath before a Magistrate, is not admissible upon a question of settlement, as evidence against the appellant parish. The objection is, that such examination is obtained at the instance of Overseers, whose parish would be benefitted by the removal, and behind the backs of the appellants, who received no notice of the proceeding, and had not the benefit of a cross examination. Id. 777.

Deeds.

In cases where writings have been lost by burning of houses, or by rebellion, or when robbers have destroyed them, or the like, the law in such cases of necessity allows them to be proved by witnesses. 1 Burn's, 777.

By the 12 G. 3 c. 5. 1 V. 174. The registry or record of any deed which has been lost, shall be allowed to be good evidence in any Court of law or equity, upon proof being made of the loss of the original. Perpetual.

If a man destroy a thing that is designed to be evidence against him, a small matter will supply it; and therefore the defendant having torn his own note signed by him, a copy sworn was admitted to be good evidence to prove it. So also where a person indicted for forging a note, which he afterwards got possession of and swallowed; parol evidence was permitted to be given of the contents of the note, and being destroyed, no notice was given to produce it. Where the defendant himself has the deed which concerns the lands in question, and refuses (after notice) to produce it, a copy thereof will be permitted to be given in evidence, on its being proved to be a true copy. And if the party has no copy, he may produce an abstract, nay even give parol evidence of the contents; because in such case it may be impossible to give better evidence. In civil causes, the Court will sometimes oblige parties to produce evidence, which may prove against themselves, or leave the refusal to do it, (after proper notice,) as a strong presumption to the Jury. But in a criminal or penal cause, the defendant (it has been said,) is never forced to produce any evidence, though he should hold it in his hands in Court. However, it has since been solemnly decided, that there is no difference in this respect between criminal and civil cases; that in both, parol evidence may be given of the contents of a paper in the defendant's possession, on his refusing to produce it, after notice, for that purpose, and that a notice given to the defendant's agent or attorney is sufficient. Id. 777.

Deed destroyed.

Where the deed has been destroyed by fire, a copy may be read in evidence: and if the party have no copy he may read an abstract, or may give parol evidence of the contents. *Id.

Every deed should regularly have the seal of the party, but where an indenture was offered in evidence, the seals being torn off, and it being proved to have been done by a little boy, it was allowed to be read. To prove the taking of an oath, a certificate was produced that had only a small piece of wax upon it, and the Judge said, if it were sealed, though the seal were broken off, yet it may be read, and he added, that he had seen an administration given in evidence, after the seal broken off; and so of wills and deeds. Sealing is essential to a deed, but it is not material with what seal it is sealed. Any number of parties may use the same seal, but must make distinct and separate prints. Id. 778.

Sealing essential to a deed.

Proof and admission of deeds.

If a deed be in existence, and in the power of the party, its execution must be proved by a subscribing witness; to which rule however, there are some exceptions. If a deed be thirty years old, it may be given in evidence without any proof of the execution of it; however, there ought to be some account given of the deed, where found, &c., and if there be any blemish in the deed, by rasure or interlineation, the deed ought to be proved, though it were above thirty years old, by the witnesses if living, and if they are dead, by proving the hands of the witnesses, or at least one of them, and also the hand of the party, in order to encounter the presumption, arising from the blemishes of the deed; and this ought more especially to be done, if the deed imports a fraud. There is no fixed rule upon this point, but a deed has often been allowed as evidence where it was but twenty-five years old. It is now settled, that the production of an instrument at the trial in pursuance of a notice, will not supersede the necessity of proving it by one of the subscribing witnesses, as in ordinary cases; and this is the case with regard to wills as well as deeds. A witness need not have seen the instrument actually executed, for if the obliger of a bond sign a bond, and then tell a certain person that he had signed it, and sealed it, and bid him witness it, which he does, that is a sufficient proof of due execution. The subscribing witness alone is competent to prove the execution, because he may be able to state the time of the execution, and some circumstances of the transaction which may be material, and unknown to other persons. Subscribing witnesses are not requisite to a deed. If there be none, the hand writing of the party may be proved. If the subscribing witness be dead, it is sufficient to prove his hand writing, but it must also be proved that he is dead. In an action on a promissory note, the subscribing witness being dead, proof of his hand writing, and that the defendant was present when the note was prepared, is sufficient, without proving the hand writing of the defendant. Quere, if proof of subscribing witness's hand writing alone would have been sufficient. Id. 779.

According to the Statute of bigamy, the presumption of the duration of life, with respect to persons of whom no account can be given, seems to end at the expiration of seven years from the time when they were last known to be living. Id. 780.

Where a subscribing witness is absent in a foreign country, his hand writing may be proved. So if he be out of the jurisdiction of the Court, so as not to be amenable to its process, strict proof is required of diligent search after an attesting witness, and without finding him, before his hand writing can be proved. If a witness be absconding from his creditors, his hand writing may be proved. So if by some criminal act committed by him subsequently to the execution of the deed, he become incompetent as a witness in a court of justice. So if he become incompetent, by interest subsequently accrued. In cases where there is no subscribing witness on the deed, or where the subscribing witness denies having any knowledge of the execution, (which is the same thing as if there were no witness at all,) and the same in the case of a promissory note—or where the name of a fictitious person is inserted—or where the attesting witness was interested at the time of the execution of the deed, and continues so at the time of the trial—or where the person who has put his name as a subscribing witness, did so without the knowledge or consent of the parties. In these cases, the execution may be proved by proving the hand writing of the party to the deed; or by any person present at the execution, though he is not indorsed as a witness. Or by proof of an admission of the party himself, that he executed that deed. And proof of the party's hand writing, is a sufficient ground for presuming that the deed was as it purports to be, sealed and delivered. To prove a deed, the attesting witness must be called, though it be an issue directed to try a question as to the date, not the existence of the deed. And even if the deed be cancelled, the subscribing witness must be called to prove the execution. The declaration of a person, who having set his name as subscribing witness to a bond, in his dying moments begged pardon of heaven for having been concerned in forging the bond, has been admitted as evidence of the forgery. And the like evidence has been admitted in the case of a forged will. Id. 780.

A subscribing witness to any instrument, is compellable to give evidence respecting it; for the person by subscribing his name, undertakes to give evidence at a proper time and in a proper manner. Id. 781.

Evidence relative to the Contents of Deeds.

EVIDENCE may be received to explain deeds where there is a latent ambiguity. By a latent ambiguity is intended, that which does not appear upon the face of the instrument, where every thing seems right and clear: but the meaning being rendered uncertain by the proof of some fact, the law permits the removal of the doubt by the like evidence. As where there was a devise to her cousin I. C., and there were two of that name, evidence was admitted to show which of the two was meant. So where from the terms of the deed, its intent as to its nature is equivocal: for instance, whether it is to enure as a contract of apprenticeship, or only as an agreement to be a mere servant, evidence is admissible to show the intent of the parties, and that some act was done further than that stated in the deed, though forming a part of the same transaction. But parol evidence cannot be admitted to contradict the terms of a deed; as in case of a lease, to shew that the lessee is to pay a given sum to a ground landlord; the lease only stipulating for payment of a sum certain to the lessor. In cases of fraud, it is different; as where the party is imposed upon at the time of making the deed; where one sum is fraudulently substituted for another, and where part of the real consideration is omitted; there parol evidence of the fact may be received. A party may prove other con-

Entries.

THE other division of that class of evidence relative to private writings, consists of entries in books, memoranda, and some particular cases, which are allowed, from their own peculiar nature, to be received as evidence, as inscriptions, almanacks, &c.

“By the 11 G. 3, c. 10. 1 V. 168. No tradesman, or handicraftsman, or his executors or administrators, shall be allowed to give his shop book in evidence in an action for money due for wares delivered, or for work done, above two years before the action brought, except he or they shall have obtained a bill of debt, or obligation of the debtor for the debt, or shall have brought against the debtor, his executors or administrators, some action for the said debt, wares, or work done, within two years next after the same wares delivered, money due for wares delivered, or work done. Pro-

But though the Statute says that the shop book shall not be evidence after the two years, yet it is not of itself evidence within the two years, except under particular circumstances.
1 Burn's, 782.

A man's book of accounts is no evidence for the owner of the book, but for the adverse party; for his book cannot be of better credit than his oath, which would not serve in his own case. Id.

There are however cases in which entries made in books by the agents of persons, who formerly stood in the situation in which the parties calling for the evidence stand, are admitted as evidence to prove what those agents would have proved, had they been living at the time of trial. And the rule which determines the admissibility of such evidence, is, —that the persons making such entries, must by making them, charge themselves with a debt, or discharge others of a debt due to themselves; in other words, the entry must be against their own interest. Thus, to prove the fact of a surrender of an interest in an estate, the books of the attorney since deceased, who had made an entry of having prepared the writings, and of the charge for the same, as due to himself, and then an entry that they were paid, were determined by the Court to have been properly admitted in evidence. So, to prove the real time of executing a lease to have been different from its actual date, an attorney's entry of charges by himself for making the lease, and of payment of those charges, was admitted as good evidence. In these cases, the entries were admitted upon the ground that there was a total absence of interest in the persons making them to pervert the fact; and at the same time a competency in them to know it. So a written memorandum by a deceased man-midwife, stating that he had delivered a woman of a child on a certain day, and referring to his ledger, in which a charge for his attendance was marked as paid, was thought by the Court of K. B. to have been properly received in evidence, upon an issue as to the child's age. On a question whether a testator at the time of making his will, was of full age, a written memorandum by his deceased father, stating the time of his birth, has been admitted to be good evidence. It is said indeed to have long been an established principle of evidence, that if a party who has knowledge of the fact, make an entry of it, whereby he charges himself, or discharges another upon whom he would otherwise have a claim, such entry is admissible evidence of the fact, because it is against his own interest. 1 Burn's, 782-3.

But entries by a third person, deceased, in his books of receipts of rent from his tenant for a particular estate, are not admissible to prove the identity of the land, in a cause between two others. Evidence of this kind, can only be admitted to restrain, not to advance the interest of the party who makes it. What a man does in his closet, ought not to affect the rights of third persons. The general rule is, that a man cannot make evidence for himself. Id. 784.

The examination of an almanack, that such a day of the month was Sunday, is sufficient. A copy of an inscription on a grave stone, has been allowed to be given in evidence: and recitals in family deeds, engravings on rings, old pedigrees hung up in a family mansion, and the like, are all of them admissible, upon the principle that they are the natural effusions of a party who must know the truth, and who speaks upon an occasion when his mind stands in an even position, without any temptation to exceed or fall short of the truth. Id. 784.

Handwriting.

As relating to the evidence of written instruments, the mode of proving the handwriting of an individual is now proper to be considered. In general cases the witness should have gained his knowledge from having seen the party write, but under some circumstances that is not necessary; as where the handwriting to be proved is of a person residing abroad; one who has frequently received letters from him in a course of correspondence, will be admitted to prove it, though he has never seen him write. It is not necessary that a witness should swear that the writing intended to be given in evidence, is actually the handwriting of any particular individual, but his belief that it is such, is sufficient. This belief must be founded upon rational grounds; either he must have seen the individual in question often write his name, or have received letters from him in a course of correspondence, not having actually seen him write. But he is to form his opinion merely and only from looking at the handwriting in question. It seems to be generally holden since the reversal of the attainder of Algernon Sidney, that similitude of hands is not evidence in any criminal case, whether capital or not capital. The true distinction seems to have been taken in a case where the defendant being indicted for publishing a written libel, a person from the Post Office, who had never seen him write, being called as a witness, the learned Judge permitted the witness to give general evidence that the writing appeared to be in a feigned hand; but when the witness was asked, whether, on comparing such handwriting with papers proved by others to be the genuine handwriting of the defendant, he could say it was the disguised hand of the same person, his lordship rejected the evidence attempted to be introduced by such examination, because it arose only from comparison of hands. 1 Burn's, 784-5.

III. OF THE EVIDENCE OF WITNESSES.

PREVIOUSLY to admitting a witness to be sworn, it is often necessary to examine him upon what is termed the voir dire, which is done for the purpose of ascertaining, whether there be any objection in law to his being admitted as a witness upon the case before the Court: and such an objection is valid for that purpose, when it appears in the course of the examination, that the witness is incompetent to give evidence, by reason of some civil disability, or by reason of his being directly interested in the event of the cause at issue. But if it is discovered during any part of the trial, that a witness is interested, his evidence will be struck out. And upon this examination of a witness as to his situation, he may be asked any questions concerning instruments he has executed, &c., without producing those instruments. It is a rule, that when the objection to the competency of a witness, arises from his answer to a question on the voir dire, that he may in the same way do away the objection, and restore himself by parol; but if the fact appears in any other way, as if the witness is proved by other evidence to have been a bankrupt, in such case it is necessary to answer the objection by the best evidence, that is, by production of the certificate itself. It is to be observed, that there be many circumstances that disable a juror, that are not sufficient exceptions against a witness. Thus, the exception of kindred is a good cause of challenge against a juror, but not against a witness; therefore the father may be a competent witness for or against his son, or the son for or against his father. These, and the like exceptions, may be to the credit or credibility of the witness, but are not exceptions against his competency. It may here be observed, that the exceptions to a witness are of two kinds.—1st. To the credit of the witness, which do not at all disable him from being sworn, but yet may blemish the credibility of his testimony; and in such case, the witness is to be allowed, but the credit of his testimony is left to the jury. 2nd. To the competency of the witness, which excludes him from giving his testimony; and of these exceptions the Court is the judge. Id. 786.

Exceptions to a Witness.

Husband and Wife.

Husband and wife cannot be admitted to be witnesses for each other, because their interests are absolutely the same; nor against each other, because contrary to the legal policy of marriages. However there are some exceptions to this rule, and among these, are cases where from necessity a wife de jure, may be a witness against her husband, for a personal tort done to herself. On an indictment against him for beating her, she has been admitted to give evidence against him. So also for his assisting to commit a rape upon her. The wife is always allowed to exhibit articles of the peace against her husband, and the Court will not receive affidavits on the part of the husband, to contradict the truth of the articles exhibited against him, and prevent his giving surety. On the trial of a man for the murder of his wife, her dying declarations are evidence against him. Id. 787.

Want of discretion.

Want of discretion is a good exception against a witness; on which account alone, it seems that an infant may be excepted against. But if an infant be of the age of fourteen years, to be sworn it appears that he may be examined, which possibly may be of some use as are practised and agreed by all examined on and evil; but without oath.

teen years, he is, as to this purpose, of the age of discretion to be sworn as a witness; and even if under that age, yet if it appear that he hath a competent discretion, he may be sworn. And in many cases an infant of tender years may be examined, where the exigence of the case requires it; which possibly being fortified with concurrent evidences, may be of some weight: especially in cases of such crimes as are practised upon children. In one case it has been agreed by all the Judges, that children of any age may be examined on oath, if capable of distinguishing between good and evil; but that they cannot be examined in any case without oath. Id. 789.

Lunatics and other persons who are subject to temporary fits of insanity, may be witnesses in their lucid intervals, if they have sufficiently recovered their understandings. And a person deaf and dumb, is not on that account incompetent, but if he has sufficient understanding, may give evidence by signs, with the assistance of an interpreter. Infidels cannot be witnesses; that is, such who profess no religion that can bind their consciences to speak truth. But when any person professes a religion that will be a tie upon him, he shall be admitted as a witness, and sworn according to the ceremonies of his own religion; for it would be ridiculous to swear a person upon the Holy Evangelists, who did not believe those writings to be sacred. Thus, Jews are always sworn upon the Old Testament; Mahometans on the Koran. A Scotch covenanter is permitted to swear by holding up his hand. For oaths are to be administered to all persons, according to their own opinions, and as it most affects their consciences. The particular opinions of a man professing the christian religion, are not to be examined into, but he is merely to be asked if he believes in God, the obligation of an oath, and a future state of rewards and punishments. But a person who has no idea of the being of a God, or a future state, is not admissible. Id. 790.

By the 33 G. 2, c. 2. 1 V. 48. Quakers, shall instead of an oath in the usual form, be permitted to make their solemn declaration, or affirmation, in these words, to wit:

"I, A. B., do solemnly, sincerely, and truly declare and affirm," which solemn affirmation shall be of the same force and effect as if such Quakers had taken an oath in the usual form. Provided, however, that no Quaker, or reputed Quaker, shall be admitted to give evidence in any criminal causes by such solemn declaration or affirmation—and provided also, that no persons shall be deemed Quakers within the intention of the Act, unless they shall affirm, in the form before directed that they are Quakers, and have been so for one year then last past. Perpetual.

It will be observed, that the affirmation allowed by this Act, only relates to civil causes. In criminal causes, no Quaker shall be allowed to give evidence except upon oath.

Judge or Juror.

It seems agreed, that it is no exception against a person's giving evidence either for or against a prisoner, that he is one of the judges or jurors who are to try him. But where a juror is called upon to give his evidence, he ought to give it upon oath, openly in Court, and not be examined privately by his companions. 1 Burn's, 790.

Accomplice.

It is no exception against a witness, that he hath confessed himself guilty of the same crime, if he hath not been indicted for it. Although however, an accomplice is a competent and admissible witness, yet if there be no other evidence to corroborate his testimony, neither Juries nor Judges incline to convict a prisoner upon it. For he that declares himself guilty of an infamous crime, and wants only an attainder of it to render him totally incompetent, deserves only little credit. And the hopes he may have of earning his own pardon, or of being excused from prosecution and punishment, by giving such testimony, is a further reason for suspecting his testimony. The practice therefore, is to advise the Jury to regard the evidence of an accomplice, only so far as he may be confirmed in some part of his testimony by unimpeachable testimony. It is not necessary that he should be confirmed in every circumstance which he details in evidence, for there would be no occasion to use him at all as a witness, if his narrative could be completely proved by other evidence free from all suspicion. Nor need it appear from the confirmatory evidence, that he speaks truth with respect to all the prisoners, or with respect to the share which each had in the transaction. But if the Jury are satisfied that he speaks truth in those parts in which they see unimpeachable testimony brought to confirm him, that is ground for them to believe that he also speaks truly with regard to the other prisoners, as to whom there may be no confirmation. Also it hath often been adjudged, that such of the defendants in an information against whom no evidence is given, may be witnesses for the others. It hath been also adjudged, that where three persons are sued in three several actions on the Statute, for a supposed perjury in their evidence concerning the same thing, they may be good witnesses in such actions for one another. It is no good exception against a witness, that he is an alien. It seems agreed that an attainder, judgment, or conviction of treason, felony, piracy, premunire, perjury, or forgery, and in conspiracy, at the suit of the King; and also judgment for any heinous crime to stand on the pillory, or to be whipped or branded, are good causes of exception against a witness, while they continue in force.

NOTE. The party who would take advantage of this exception, must have a copy of the record of conviction ready to produce in Court; for until the judgment upon the verdict be regularly entered, the witness is not deprived of his legal privileges. If it be objected against receiving a person's testimony, that he has been convicted of felony, and his punishment is unexpired, such objection must be supported by the production of the record; and no admission by the party himself will be sufficient. A person convicted of felony, who is admitted to his clergy, and burnt in the hand, is thereby re-enabled to be a witness, for the burning in the hand operates as a Statute pardon. But a mere allowance of clergy, without an actual burning in the hand, or a pardon of that punishment, does not restore the party to his credit. The King's pardon of treason, or felony, after conviction, or attainder, restores the party to his credit. A party convicted and whipped for petit larceny, shall not be allowed to be a witness. It is established as a rule, that it is the crime that creates the infamy, and not the punishment of it. 1 Burn's, 792.

By the last clause of the 4 Vic. c. 4, Sess. 1841. After a recital that there are certain misdemeanors which render the parties convicted thereof, incompetent witnesses; and that it is expedient to restore their competency, after having undergone their punishment; it is enacted,—“That where any offender hath been, or shall be convicted of any such misdemeanor, except perjury or subornation of perjury; and hath endured, or shall endure the punishment to which he hath been, or shall be adjudged for the same, he shall not, after the punishment so endured, be deemed to be, by reason of such misdemeanor, an incompetent witness in any Court, or proceeding, civil or criminal.” Perpetual.

The remaining objection to the admissibility of a witness, is the fact of his being interested; respecting which it seems an uncontested rule in all cases, that it is a good exception against a witness, that he is either to be a gainer or loser by the event of the cause, whether such advantage be direct and immediate, or consequential only. In many criminal cases, however, from the necessity of the thing, interested persons are allowed as witnesses. As where the owner prosecutes an indictment of felony for stolen goods; he is concerned in interest, for he will be entitled to restitution, and yet his evidence is admitted. Id. 792.

Persons rated for the support of the poor, are incompetent to give evidence for their township or settlement; in appeals against orders of removal, on the ground that they are directly and immediately interested in the event of the proceeding by which the maintenance of the pauper and the costs of the appeal might be fixed upon their township, and have the effect of increasing their proportion of the rates. Id. 793.

NOTE. In this Province, persons rated, or liable to be rated for the support of the poor, are thereby incompetent, on the like ground of interest, to give evidence in any suit or appeal concerning such rates in their own township. In England it is provided by Statute, that persons rated, or liable to be rated to any rates, shall not thereby be incompetent to be witnesses on any question concerning such rates, or the settlement or removal of any poor in their township, or the boundaries of such township, or respecting bastards, or parish officers, or their accounts in such township. As this Statute does not extend here, such persons in this Province, cannot in the cases therein mentioned, be admitted as witnesses for their own township, except as to county or district rates, with regard to which, it is indeed provided by the 5 W. 4, c. 13. 4 V. 389, that "persons rated; or liable to be rated to such rates, shall not thereby be incompetent to be witnesses in any question concerning such rates, under the Act." It is obvious, that a similar provision to that just cited from the English Statute, is required in this Province. Before that Statute, however, it had been decided, (and it may therefore be considered even at present as a rule in this Province,) that inhabitants are not incompetent as witnesses, merely for having rateable property in the parish, if it does not appear that such property was actually rated at the time of the appeal; and this, although it was omitted in the rate for the very purpose of introducing their evidence. The Court held that in order to disqualify a witness, there must be an actual existing interest at the time, not merely one that is expectant and contingent; and that by taking the witness off the rate, his immediate interest was so far taken away, that it could not render him incompetent, whatever objections might still be made against his credibility. 1 Burn's, 793.

The owner of an estate, occupied by his lessee, has a permanent interest in it, which disqualifies him from being a witness to disburthen such estate from the payment of a rate.

In a case between two parishes, the declarations of a rated inhabitant of either parish, concerning the facts in issue, are admissible in evidence, not only against himself, but also against the other rated inhabitants of his parish. And it is not necessary, in order to make such declarations evidence, that he should first be called as a witness, and refuse to be examined. All the rated inhabitants are parties to an appeal, and therefore their declarations are evidence. Id. 794.

It has been decided, that if the defendant and plaintiff be willing, the defendant may have the plaintiff as a witness. One commoner may be a witness for another claiming common, because in effect it charges himself. A trustee may be a witness, if he have released his trust, but not if he have conveyed it over. If a trustee takes a beneficial interest, he is incompetent, but without such an interest trustees and executors are competent witnesses. An heir at law may be a witness concerning the title to the land; but the remainderman cannot, for he hath a present interest; but the heirship is a mere contingency. Where the rights of a corporation are at issue, a member thereof may give evidence upon the same, if he have not, as a private individual, a particular interest in the question at issue. A person cannot be a witness, if he believes himself interested, whether he is or is not interested by strictness in law. But a mere obligation in honour, is no objection to the competency of a witness. A prosecutor has been admitted to be a witness, on an indictment for an assault, although he had laid a wager that he should convict the defendant; and the reason seems to be, not because the witness had made the wager at a time when public justice became interested in his testimony, but because it would be against public policy to allow a witness by any such gratuitous act, to exclude himself from giving evidence; and there seems to be another reason for admitting the witness, since the wager would now probably be considered absolutely void, as tending to produce an improper bias on the mind of the witness, and therefore as directly prejudicial to the administration of justice. It is no objection to a witness, that he hopes or expects a benefit. It is necessary to observe, that as an exception to the general rule, that persons immediately interested in the event of the cause, cannot be witnesses for that party whose claim if established will advance their own interest,—there is a class of cases, determining that where a person is equally interested either in the event of a verdict for the plaintiff, or defendant, he is a good witness. As for example, where one is entrusted by A. to pay money to B. and does not pay it accordingly; and then B.

Heir at law.

Agent.

brings an action against A. for the amount, the agent is a good witness to prove no payment, inasmuch as he acknowledges the receipt of the money from A., and thereby renders himself liable to A. Persons who become interested in the common course of business, and who alone can possibly have knowledge of a fact, may be called as witnesses to prove it, as persons who have been agents employed to pay money, may prove such payment. So an agent may prove the terms of a contract, though he be to derive a profit from it. And this upon the ground of necessity. If such evidence were not admitted, the facts would be incapable of proof. Where a person made himself a party in interest, after a plaintiff or defendant has an interest in his testimony, he may not by this deprive the plaintiff or defendant of the benefit of his testimony. Upon the whole, with respect to interest, a man who is interested in the event of a suit, is objectionable only when he comes to prove a fact consistent with his interest, for if the evidence he is to give be contrary to his interest, he is the best possible witness that can be called, and no objection can be made to him by the party in the cause. And again, the Judges have in a variety of cases resolved, that these questions of interest shall, as far as possible, go to the credit, rather than the competency of the witness. Id. 795-6.

Evidence
interest.

Attorney.

Some persons also are privileged by reason of their peculiar relationship to the party in the cause, from being compelled to give evidence. Thus, an attorney ought not to be examined against his client, because he is obliged to keep his secrets; but of his own knowledge before retainer, that is before he was addressed in his professional character, he may be examined as a witness, if served with a subpoena. This privilege only extends to prevent the disclosure of facts communicated confidentially to the witness, in the character of attorney; and therefore it has been decided, that an attorney may be examined as to the contents of a written notice which he had received in the course of the cause, calling upon him to produce papers in the hands of his clients, for by such disclosure there could be no breach of confidence. This is the privilege of the client, and not of the attorney. But it is confined to the three cases of counsel, solicitors and attornies, when acting in their respective characters. It does not extend to the case of an agent or steward, nor of a conveyancer, nor of course to the case of medical persons.

IV. Of examining Witnesses, and of the mode of enquiring into their Credibility.

THE several objections before enumerated, may be raised either by an examination of a witness upon the voir dire, (of which sufficient has been said already,) or by an examination after the witness has been sworn. Witnesses are allowed to refresh their memories by looking at memoranda made under certain circumstances. A witness may refresh his memory by any book or paper, provided he can afterwards swear to the fact from his own recollection, but if he cannot swear to the fact from recollection, any farther than as finding it entered in a book or paper, then the original book or paper must be produced; for he shall not be allowed to give evidence from a copy or extract from it. A witness may refresh his memory, by looking at memoranda or entries which he did not make himself, but which he regularly examined from time to time, while the entries were fresh in his recollection, and which he always found accurate.—1 Burn's, 797.

NOTE. It appears to have been considered formerly in England, that a witness was not compellable to answer any question which might subject him to a civil action, or tend to charge himself with a debt, but by a Statute passed there in the 46 G. 3, the law is declared otherwise; but as that Statute is not expressly extended to the Colonies, it may probably be considered, that in this Province a witness is not compellable to answer such a question. On a question of settlement, a rated parishioner is not compellable by the adverse parish to give evidence, as he is directly interested as party to the appeal.

It is a general rule, that a witness shall not be asked any question, the answering to which might oblige him to accuse himself of a crime; and that his credit is to be impeached only by general accounts of his character and reputation, and not by proofs of particular crimes, whereof he never was convicted. But a witness may be asked whether he has not been in the pillory for perjury. A man shall not be permitted to swear that he was suborned and perjured. And Lord Coke says, a witness alleging his own infamy or turpitude is not to be heard. A witness cannot be asked a question which has a direct and immediate effect to disgrace or degrade him. On an indictment for a rape, the woman is not obliged to answer, whether on some former occasion she had not a criminal connexion with other men, or with particular individuals, nor is evidence of such criminal intercourse admissible. Id. 793-9.

Questioning a Witness as to his character.

Questions to try credibility

It is not competent on cross examination to question the witness concerning a fact wholly irrelevant to the matter in issue, if answered affirmatively, for the purpose of discrediting him if he answered in the negative, by calling other witnesses to disprove what he said. Upon cross examination to try the credit of a witness, only general questions can be put, and he cannot be asked as to any collateral and independent fact, merely with a view to contradict him afterwards by calling another witness. If the witness answers such an irrelevant question before it is disallowed, or withdrawn, his answer is conclusive. Witnesses cannot be called to contradict him. It would be irrelevant to ask a witness in cross examination, whether he had not attempted to dissuade another witness from attending the trial. A witness may object to answer a question, which he thinks will tend to his crimination, though the answer would not lead to an immediate conclusion of guilt. Where a witness swears to a particular fact, a letter written by him contradicting in effect his testimony upon that point, may be given in evidence to impeach his credit. A witness may be examined as to what he has formerly sworn in an affidavit: but the affidavit, or an office copy of it, must be first read in Court. Id. 800-1.

Leading questions, that is, such as instruct a witness how to answer on material points, are not allowed on the examination in chief. Questions however which are intended merely as introductory, and which, whether answered in the affirmative or negative, would not be conclusive on any of the points of the cause, are not liable to the objection of leading. For example, if two defendants are charged as partners, a witness may be properly asked, whether the one defendant has interfered in the business of the other. This is not a leading question, for though he may have interfered, it will not follow that he has by this alone made himself liable as a partner. Or if a witness called to prove the partnership of the plaintiffs, is not able at the moment to specify the several names of the partners, a number of names containing those of the partners among others, may be suggested to the witness for the assistance of his memory. In a criminal prosecution it is proper, and the common practice is to direct the attention of the witness to the person of the prisoner, and ask him, whether that is the man of whom he has been speaking. A witness swore to a particular circumstance, as part of the contents of a letter, which he also swore was lost. Another witness who had heard the letter read, was permitted to be examined to the particular circumstance by a forming part ory had been contents of ing to impea shewing such prohibited fi ness had seen tiffs witness believe him of question,—“ neral charac character, w would be op knowing the witness has n in support of witnesses, w attach credit 801-2.

stance by a leading question, for the purpose of denying its forming part of those contents ; provided the witness's memory had been first exhausted by general questions as to the contents of the letter. In one case, the defendants intending to impeach the credit of a witness for the plaintiff, by shewing such witness to be of an infamous character, were prohibited from asking, whether from what their own witness had seen pass at Bow street, at which place the plaintiff's witness had been before the Magistrates there, he would believe him on his oath? They were permitted to put this question,—“ Have you the means of knowing what the general character of this witness was? and from such general character, would you believe him on his oath? For then it would be open to the plaintiff, to ask as to the means of knowing the witness's character. Where the character of a witness has not been attacked, no evidence can be admitted in support of it. But evidence of the conduct of deceased witnesses, when it has been attacked, may be received to attach credit to their testimony, or to destroy its effect. Id. 801-2.

It often happens that the character of subscribing witnesses to deeds, and other written instruments, is the subject of enquiry ; and upon this point, the following cases have occurred. If the subscribing witnesses to a will be dead, evidence given of what was said by one of them, being then in bed of the illness of which he died, thereby impeaching the validity of the will, inasmuch as he declared it was a forgery, was admitted, and afterwards decided to have been rightly admitted. Such evidence being given, not to prove the forgery, but to impeach the credit of the subscribing witness. And evidence of the character of the subscribing witnesses may be admitted, if an imputation be cast upon the will. And upon the authority of the preceding case, evidence was admitted, that the subscribing witness to a bond, had in his last moments begged pardon of heaven for having been concerned in forging it. These decisions were upon the principle, that if the subscribing witness could have been produced upon the trial, to prove his handwriting, as he might have been cross-examined, so a party may prove his declaration of the fact, in contradiction to the presumption of a due execution of the bond, from the proof of his handwriting as a subscribing witness. It has been agreed that the evidence given by a witness at one trial, cannot, in the ordinary course of justice, be made use of against a defendant on the death of such witness, at another trial. But it hath been admitted, that in order to shew a variance in the evidence, a deposition taken by a witness before a Justice of the Peace, may at the prisoner's desire be read at the trial, in order to take off the credit of the witness, by shewing a variance between such depositions and the evidence given in Court. And for the same reason, it seems agreed, that where a witness at one trial, varies from his own evidence at another trial, in relation to the same matter, such variance may also be given in evidence to invalidate his testimony at the second trial. But nothing shall be admitted as evidence of what was done at another trial, till the record of that trial be produced. When a witness has been once sworn to give evidence, the other party may cross examine him, though he gave no evidence for the party that called him. If a witness is called on the part of the plaintiff, who swears what is palpably false, it would be extremely hard (said Lord Ellenborough,) if the plaintiff's case should be for that reason sacrificed. The party is not to set up so much of a witness's testimony as makes for him, and to reject or disprove such part as is of a contrary tendency. But if a witness is called and gives evidence against the party calling him, he may be contradicted by other witnesses on the same side; and in this manner his evidence may be entirely repudiated. But a party shall never be permitted to discredit, by general evidence, his own witness, for that would be to enable him to destroy the witness if he spoke against him, and to make him a good witness if he spoke for him, with the means of destroying his credit if he spoke against him. The meaning of the rule, is, that a party cannot prove his own witness to be of such a general bad character as would make him unworthy of credit. If he knew the infamy of his character, he was practising a fraud upon the Court, in producing him as a witness. But if a witness unexpectedly give evidence against the party that called him, another witness may be called to prove those facts otherwise; as where the question was, whether the defendant's servant who had been employed to sell a horse, had warranted him sound, he swore on being called by the plaintiff, that he had not given any warranty, and Lord Ellenborough allowed the plaintiff to call another witness to prove, that at the time of the sale he had expressly warranted its soundness. There can be no rule of law, said Lord Ellenborough, by which the truth on such an occasion is to be shut out, and justice perverted. Objections to disqualify a witness, such as questions of interest, or description, should be taken in the first instance, before his examination in chief is gone into. Id. 802-3.

Contradictory testimony on the same side.

Hearsay and reputation.

In general, that which another asserts must be by oath in a Court of Justice into such Court, and an one declare makes the declaration. And this is the rule in deposing on oath, and known to the Court. On enquiring in former time ago, the Court of Evidence applicable to account of the facts in the ordinary course, hearsay evidence of those who may be taken down from one to another, in cases of pedigree, members of the family, as who were married, or how many marriages, or of the fact cannot be reasonably procured. But the declarations of his decessed parents, in cases of the pauper, in cases of deceased parents, the person in question, the evidence. So in that is, what old is good evidence of a parcel of an estate of a deceased tenant of a family, that a party abroad, and was a witness had not been considered as facie evidence of fact. There are cases where a person still living, though a presumption would be supposed not to be proved. The law also presumes a fact even in civil cases, and a right may be proved by fact cannot. Tr in a Court of Justice, and no one will be permitted to come into such Court and say, upon his oath, that he heard such an one declare certain facts to have occurred, but he who makes the declaration must himself repeat it upon his oath. And this is that which is termed hearsay evidence, viz. the deposing on oath that certain facts are, which facts are only known to the deponent by the relation of some other person. On enquiring into the truth of facts which happened a long time ago, the Courts have varied from the strict rules of evidence applicable to modern facts of the same description, on account of the great difficulty of proving those remote facts in the ordinary manner, by living witnesses. On this principle, hearsay and reputation, (which latter is the hearsay of those who may be supposed to have known the fact handed down from one to another,) have been admitted as evidence in cases of pedigree. Thus, declarations of deceased members of the family, are admissible evidence to prove relationship, as who was a person's grandfather, or whom he married, or how many children he had; or as to the time of a marriage, or of the birth of a child, and the like; of which it cannot be reasonably presumed that better evidence is to be procured. But hearsay evidence by a pauper, of the declarations of his deceased putative father, as to the birth place of the pauper, is not admissible. The declarations of deceased parents, as to whether they were married, or whether the person in question was born before or after marriage, are evidence. So in questions about a right of way, reputation, that is, what old people deceased have said upon the subject, is good evidence. So, whether a particular piece of land be parcel of an estate, may be proved by declarations made by a deceased tenant, while in possession. Proof by one of a family, that a particular person had many years before gone abroad, and was supposed to have died there, and that the witness had not heard in the family of his having married, was considered by the Court of King's Bench good prima facie evidence of the person's death without lawful issue. There are cases in which a person has been presumed to be still living, though not heard of for some time. But this presumption would not be made, in contravention of another presumption or principle of law, by which every person is supposed not to have acted illegally, until the contrary is proved. The law presumes the continuance of life, but it also presumes against the commission of crimes, and that even in civil cases, until the contrary be proved. A general right may be proved by traditionary evidence, a particular fact cannot. Traditionary reputation is evidence of boundary between two parishes, and this, although the deceased old persons, whose declarations respecting it are given in evidence, were parishioners. But not so as to a boundary between two estates.

Declarations made by persons after a suit commenced, are not admissible as evidence of reputation. Id. 804-5.

Parties in a suit being Witnesses.

In civil cases, a plaintiff in a cause cannot be a witness for himself, nor can the defendant. But in all criminal prosecutions the prosecutor may give evidence in support of the charge against the prisoner. In cases of informations for penalties, the informer, who is the real prosecutor, cannot be a witness, unless the Statute which imposes the penalty, permit it by special provision. Id. 806.

In prosecutions which subject the party to corporal punishment, he is permitted to call witnesses to his general character; but in actions or informations for penalties, though founded on the fraudulent conduct of the defendant, such evidence cannot be admitted. Id.

V. OF THE MANNER OF GIVING EVIDENCE.

HE who affirms the matter in issue, whether plaintiff or defendant, ought to begin to give evidence. The evidence both for and against a prisoner ought to be upon oath. A prisoner cannot insist upon the removal out of Court of the witnesses for the Crown, during the examination of each other, as a right. It is a favour which the Court may and does grant sometimes. In cases of life, no evidence is to be given against a prisoner, but in his presence.

Removal of Witnesses.

Affirmative to be proved.

In every issue, the affirmative is to be proved. A negative cannot regularly be proved, and therefore it is sufficient to deny what is affirmed, until it be proved. But when the affirmative is proved, the other side may contest it with opposite proofs, for this is not properly the proof of a negative, but the proof of some proposition totally inconsistent with what is affirmed, as if the defendant be charged with a trespass, he need only make a general denial of the fact; and if the fact be proved, then he may prove a proposition inconsistent with the charge, as that he was at another place at the time, or the like. But to this rule there is an exception of such cases where the law presumes the affirmative contained in the issue. Therefore, in an information against Lord Halifax, for refusing to deliver up the rolls of the Auditor of the Exchequer, the Court put the plaintiff upon proving the negative; namely, that he did not deliver them; for a person shall be presumed duly to execute his office, till the contrary appear.

VI. OF PROCESS TO CAUSE WITNESSES TO APPEAR.

THE compulsory means to bring in witnesses, are of two kinds. 1. By process of subpœna issued in the King's name, by the Justices or others where the trial is to be. 2. Which is the more ordinary and more effectual means, (in criminal cases), the Justices that take the examination of the person accused, and the information of the witnesses, may at that time, or at any time after, and before the trial, bind over the witnesses to appear at the Court, and in case of their refusal, either to come, or to be bound over, may commit them for their contempt in such refusal. No witness is bound to appear in civil cases, unless his reasonable expenses for going to and returning from the trial, be tendered him at the time of sending the subpœna; nor if he appears, is he bound to give evidence till such charges are actually paid or tendered. Only four witnesses can regularly be included in one writ of subpœna for the appearance of witnesses at the Sessions. In order to save expense, it is settled, that leaving a ticket containing the substance of the writ, will be as effectual as the writ itself; but the writ ought to be shewn. The writ or ticket should be served personally on the witness, and in reasonable time before the day of trial, that he may suffer the less inconvenience from his attendance on the Court. If a witness who has been duly served with the writ, and has had a tender of the reasonable expenses, omit to attend at the trial without a sufficient cause, he is liable to be proceeded against in one of three ways. 1st, By attachment, for a contempt of the process of the Court. 2d, By a special action on the case, for damages at common law. 3d, By an action on the Statute in that behalf, for the penalty of ten pounds, and also for the further recompense recoverable under that Statute. But the more usual way is to proceed by attachment. And in order to ground this summary way of proceeding, it is not only necessary to show an ill motive in the witness, or negligence or inattention to the process of the Court, but also to prove that the witness was personally served; and that his reasonable expenses were paid or tendered at the time of the service of the subpœna. In criminal cases, if a witness has been bound over and do not appear, he shall forfeit his recognizance. In case he do appear, he is entitled to his expenses

EXAMINATION.

WHEN a party arrested for felony, is brought to a Justice of the Peace, he must either discharge, or commit, or bail him. If he be charged with suspicion only of felony, yet if there be no felony at all proved to be committed, or if the fact charged as a felony, be in truth no felony in point of law, the Justice may discharge him; as if a man be charged with felony for stealing a parcel of the freehold, or for carrying away what was delivered him, and such like; for which though there may be cause to bind him over for a trespass, the Justice may discharge him as to felony, because it is not felony. 1 Burn's, 810.

The Justices of the Peace before whom any person shall be brought, for any murder, manslaughter, or felony, or for suspicion thereof, must take the examination of such prisoner, and information of those that bring him, of the fact and circumstance thereof; and the same, or as much thereof as shall be material to prove the fact, shall put in writing; and the same shall certify, together with the bailment of the prisoner, (in case the crime whereof such prisoner is charged is bailable,) at the next Sessions of Oyer and Terminer, or Gaol delivery, to be holden within the limits of their commission. And the said Justices must also bind by recognizance, or obligation, all such persons as declare any thing material to prove such murder, manslaughter, or felony against the prisoner, to appear at the next Sessions of Oyer and Terminer, or Gaol delivery, to be holden within the county where the trial of such murder, manslaughter, or felony shall be; then and there to give evidence against the prisoner; and the said Justices shall also certify the said bonds or recognizances taken before them, in like manner as the examination of the prisoner and the witnesses are before directed to be certified.

Examinations
must be taken

The clause in the late Provincial Statute of the 8 Geo. 3, c. 3, which authorized and directed the taking and certifying of Examinations and Recognizances in the manner here mentioned, was repealed by the 4 Vic. c. 6, Sess.

1841; and, through an oversight, as is presumed, has not been re-enacted. The said clause was almost literally a re-enactment of the English Statute 1 & 2 Phil. & M. on the subject, which Statute may now be considered to be in force in this Province, and therefore Justices are still bound to take and certify such Examinations and Recognizances in the manner already directed.

The informations of the accusers or witnesses, taken under this Statute, must be upon oath, but the examinations of the prisoners must be taken without oath. And these examinations may be read in evidence against the prisoner, and so may the informations of witnesses taken upon oath, if they are dead, or not able to travel by reason of sickness, or other casualty; for they are Judges of record, and the Statute enables and requires them to take these examinations; but then oath is to be made in Court, by the Justice or his Clerk, that these examinations and informations were duly taken. 1 Burn's, 812.

The before mentioned Statute, speaks only of felonies. It does not yet appear to have been expressly decided, whether examinations taken before Justices of the Peace, in cases of misdemeanors, can be read in evidence; but from the language of Judges in several cases, it may be said, that the only conclusion yet warranted, is, that the deposition of a witness, taken ex parte, before a magistrate, on an examination for a misdemeanor, cannot be read in evidence on the trial of the party for such misdemeanor, though the defendant be dead, beyond sea, or kept out of the way by procurement of the defendant. Id. 812.

examining.

No hopes or threats are to be held out to a prisoner to induce him to make any confession or statement; neither is he to be sworn; nor to be examined in the manner of a witness; but he is merely to be asked what he has to say, and his voluntary statement, (if he makes any,) is to be taken down exactly as he makes it. In a case where the magistrate examined the prisoner, though not sworn in the manner of examining a witness, the Judge said on the trial,—“I think I am not at liberty to suffer this examination to be read. No matter whether a prisoner be sworn or not. An examination of itself imposes an obligation to speak the truth. If a prisoner will confess, let him do so voluntarily. Ask him what he has to say? But it is irregular in a Magistrate, to examine a prisoner in the same manner as a witness is examined. I must reject this examination.” The prisoner was acquitted. Id. 814.

the return of the warrant, take the examination, he may by word of mouth command the constable or any other person to detain in custody the prisoner, till the next day, and then to bring him before the Justice for further examination. But the time of detainer, must be no longer than is necessary for such purpose. It was holden that a party could not be detained sixteen days, and it was said, that three days is a reasonable time. The usual practice is stated to be from three days to three days, by a written mittimus. If the offender upon his examination before the Justice, shall confess the matter, it shall not be amiss that he subscribe his name, or mark to it. But it has been determined by a majority of the Judges, that a written examination, containing a confession of the prisoner's guilt, is admissible in evidence, although it was not signed either by the magistrate or the prisoner. Id. 816.

Subscribing
examination.

In a case of murder it was solemnly decided, on full consideration, that the deposition of the deceased was admissible in evidence, although not wholly taken in the presence of the prisoner, but the party in his presence, having however been resworn, and the deposition repeated and signed in the prisoner's presence; for he had an opportunity of cross examining. Id. 815.

The Justice must take the examinations not only of them that bring the prisoner, but also of other witnesses whom he may cause to appear before him, in pursuance of his summons for that purpose. And such examinations must be upon oath; therefore the affirmation of a Quaker cannot be taken. It is not essential to the validity of the deposition of a deceased witness, that it should be signed by him. On an indictment for a rape, all the Judges concurred in opinion, that the deposition of a girl deceased, on whose person the crime had been perpetrated, taken on oath by the committing magistrate, had been properly admitted in evidence at the trial; though such deposition was not signed by the deceased. It seems just and right, that the Justices who take information against a felon, or person suspected of felony, should take and certify, as well such information, proof and evidence, as goeth to the acquittal or clearing of the prisoner, as such as makes against the prisoner: for such information, evidence, or proof so taken, is only to inform the King and his Justices of gaol-delivery of the truth of the matter. Id. 817.

Certifying
Examinations

For petty larcenies and small felonies, the offenders may be tried at the Sessions of the Peace, and therefore the examinations and informations in such cases should be sent there, by the Justices who took them. Examinations taken by Justices of the peace in one county, may be by them certified into another county, and there read and given in evidence against the prisoner. Id.

Recognizance
of Witnesses.

If any witness against a prisoner, shall refuse to be bound in recognizance to appear and give evidence on the trial, the Justice may commit him to gaol, to be detained there until he complies. But a Justice is not authorized by law to commit a witness, willing to enter into a recognizance for his appearance to give evidence against an offender, merely because such witness is unable to find a surety to join him in such recognizance; nor ought the Justice to require such surety. The party's own recognizance, (at the peril of commitment,) is all that ought to be required. The practice of committing witnesses, unable to find sureties for their appearance, is clearly repugnant to every principle of the English law. But a Justice may commit a married woman, who is a material witness upon a charge of felony brought before him, and who refuses to appear at the Sessions to give evidence, or to find sureties for her appearance. Id. 817.

NOTE. As married women, and persons under the age of twenty-one years, cannot themselves be bound in recognizance, they must, in cases of this kind, find a surety to be bound for them.

The party grieved ought to be bound not only to give evidence, but also to prefer a bill of indictment against the prisoner. 1 Burn's, 819.

EXHIBITIONS, PUBLIC.

THE following enactments have been made with regard to Public Exhibitions, by the Act of the 5 Vic. c. 40, Sess. 1842.

Sec. 1. No person or persons shall hereafter hold any shew, play, or public exhibition, in any county of the Province, without having previously obtained a license therefor, in manner hereinafter directed.

Sec. 2. The Clerk of the Licenses in any county of the Province, with the consent of at least two Justices of the peace for such county, shall, and he is hereby empowered, to grant a license to any person or persons, for holding any such shew, play, or public exhibition, within such county, upon such person or persons paying the sum of twenty-five shillings, for each and every day for which such License is granted, to be expressed therein; which License shall not have any force or effect, except in the county in which the same has been so granted.

Sec. 3. In the absence of the Clerk of the Licenses, or his residence at a distance of more than five miles from the place in any county in which such shew, play or public exhibition shall be first intended to be held, it shall be lawful for any two Justices of the peace for such county, to grant any such License, under and subject to the payments, restrictions, and regulations aforesaid; and the said Justices shall, within at least thirty days after any such License shall have been so granted, make return thereof to the Clerk of the Licenses, and at the same time pay over the amount of duties by them received therefor.

Sec. 4. The Clerk of the Licenses, or Justices of the peace, granting any such License, shall be entitled to demand and receive for every such License, a fee of two shillings and sixpence, to his or their own use, in addition to the duties payable therefor.

Sec. 5. Any person or persons holding any such shew, play, or public exhibition, without previously obtaining such License as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay a penalty of five pounds, for each and every day such shew, play, or public exhibition shall be so held, to be imposed by any two Justices of the peace in the county where the offence shall have been committed; either on their own view, or on the oath of any one or more credible witness or witnesses; and if such person or persons so offending, shall refuse or neglect to pay such penalty, together with any costs attendant thereon, then it shall

Sec. 6. The Clerk of the Licenses in every county, shall within at least ten days before every sitting of the General Sessions of the peace in such county, pay over to the County Treasurer, all monies received by him under this Act, other than his fee for granting any such License as aforesaid; and all monies, so paid over, shall be appropriated and applied by the Justices in their General Sessions of the Peace for such county, in the making, opening, and repairing the public roads, making or repairing bridges, or establishing ferries throughout the said county.

Sec. 7. Provided, that nothing herein contained shall extend to the City of Halifax. Perpetual.

The proceedings for the recovery of the penalty of five pounds, imposed by this Statute, will be the same as in other cases of a like nature for the recovery of penalties before Justices, and will be found respectively, under the Titles,—Information, Summons, Distress.

EXTORTION.

EXTORTION in a large sense, signifies any oppression under colour of right; but in a strict sense it signifies the taking of money by any officer, by colour of his office, either where none at all is due, or not so much is due, or where it is not yet due. And by the Statute of the 3 Ed. 1. c. 26, (which is only in affirmance of the common law,) "No Sheriff, nor other the King's officer, shall take any reward to do his office, but shall be paid of that which they take, of the King; and he that so doth, shall yield twice as much, and shall be punished at the King's pleasure." Under these words of the Statute. "No Sheriff nor other the King's Officer;" are understood, escheators, coroners, bailiffs, gaolers, and other inferior officers of the King, whose offices were instituted before the making of this Act, which do any way concern the administration or execution of justice, or the common good of the subject, or for the King's service. Also, the Justices of the Peace, whose office was instituted after this Act, are bound by their oath of office, to take nothing for their office of Justice of the Peace, to be done, but of the King, and fees accustomed, and costs limited by Statute." (See the oath of a Justice of the Peace, under the Title,—Justices.) And generally, no public officer shall take any other fees or rewards for doing any thing relating to his office, than some Statute in force gives him, or else as hath been antiently and accustomedly taken; and if he do otherwise, he is guilty of extortion. The officers mentioned and intended in the foregoing Statute, can at this day take no more for doing their office, than hath been since allowed to them, by authority of parliament. All prescriptions which have been contrary to this Statute, and to the common law in affirmance of which it is made, have been always holden to be void. It has been resolved, that a promise to pay them money for doing of a thing, which the law will not suffer them to take any thing for, is merely void. At the common law, this offence of extortion, is severely punishable at the King's suit, by fine and imprisonment; and also by a removal from the office, in the execution whereof it was committed. And this Statute doth add a greater penalty than the common law did give; for hereby the plaintiff shall recover his double damages. 2 Burn's, 368-9.

NOTE. The fees of Justices of the Peace in this Province, are, in nearly every case, regulated by several Provincial Statutes; and penalties are therein imposed upon those who shall exact or take any greater or other fees for the services mentioned, than are thereby allowed; for which see Title,—Fees.

By the 30 G. 3, c. 1. 1 V. 260. A fine of ten shillings imposed on any person refusing to sweep the chimney, shall be the same to be recovered on the complaint of the Firewards, as in the foregoing Statute. And if a fire shall happen in any house, or chimney, so as to occasion alarm or danger, unless the occupant of such house shall make it appear that the chimney or chimnies of such house, have been swept according to such regulations, by some licensed sweeper, such occupant shall forfeit and pay a fine of forty shillings, to be recovered on the complaint of any one of the Firewards, before any Justice of the Peace for the county, and to be levied by warrant of distress on the offenders goods and chattels ; and for want thereof, on his body; and to be paid into the hands of such Fireward, to be by him applied to the repair of the Fire Engines, or Water Buckets, or such other uses as the safety of the town from fire may require. And any Fireward neglecting to give information, or to make complaint in such case, shall forfeit and pay five pounds to the use of the poor of the town, to be recovered before the Justices in Sessions for the county, on the complaint of any inhabitant of the town, being a freeholder or housekeeper.

Sec. 3. It shall be lawful for any three of the firewards, on view of any chimney, stove pipe, or smoke funnel in said town, which they may deem to be dangerous and insufficiently built, or secured, to prevent the risk of fire, to order the same to be removed, altered, or repaired, as they may direct, within twenty four hours, or such other reasonable time as they may allow. And if the occupant of the house or building in which the same is placed, shall neglect to remove, repair, or secure the same as directed, such Firewards shall apply to any one Justice and three Freeholders within the town, to examine the same. And in case such Justice and Freeholders shall agree in opinion with said Firewards, that such chimney, stove-pipe, or funnel, is likely to endanger the town, or any building; and the owner or occupant of the house, or building where the same shall be placed, shall not then give to such Firewards, sufficient security to alter, repair, or remove the same, as they shall direct, such Justice shall order the same to be immediately removed or prostrated as a common nuisance; and shall issue a warrant of distress to seize and sell at public auction, so much of the goods and chattels of such owner or occupant, as shall be sufficient to defray the expense of the removal, or prostration of such nuisance.

And the town of Halifax shall not be liable for any damage done by pulling down, or injuring any building at the time of fire, unless orders for so doing shall have been given by at least four Magistrates or Firewards. passages, or water; or who shall permit any squibs, or other fireworks to be thrown or fired from their houses, shops, lodgings, or habitations, or in any place thereto belonging, or adjoining to any public street, road, or passage, or any other place, shall, each and every of them, for each and every of such offences, on conviction thereof before any one Justice of the peace, where the offence was committed, by the confession of the party, or on the oath of one credible witness, forfeit and pay the sum of forty shillings: such forfeitures to be levied by distress and sale of the goods of every such offender, by warrant of such Justice; the one half of every such forfeiture to be to the use of the poor where the offence was committed, and the other half to the use of those who shall prosecute such offenders to conviction. And if any such offender shall not, immediately on conviction, pay to the said Justice, the said forfeiture, such Justice shall, by warrant, commit such offender, so convicted, to the house of correction, or gaol, for any time not exceeding fourteen days; unless such offender shall sooner pay the said forfeiture to the said Justice. Provided, that nothing in the Act, shall debar the Governor or the Commanding Officers of the troops, or any persons employed under them, from making and firing off any such fireworks.

Sec. 4. No person shall make any bonfire, within three hundred yards of any buildings, or stacks of hay, or corn, under the penalty of forty shillings; to be recovered and applied in the manner herein before mentioned. Perpetual.

NOTE. There is an evident inconsistency, and indeed contradiction in the terms of the foregoing Statute, with regard to enforcing the payment of the penalties. In the first place, it is prescribed, that the forfeitures shall be levied "by warrant of distress;" and directly after it is said, that if the offender "shall not pay the forfeiture to the Justice, immediately on Conviction, he shall be committed," &c. It is presumed, however, that it is intended, that where the party convicted has any goods whereon a warrant of distress may be levied, such warrant shall be issued; and that he is to be committed, only in the case of his having no goods, or where none can be found, on which to levy the warrant. In the case of a person under age, or any other who has no goods whereupon distress may be made, it seems clear that such offender upon failing to pay the penalty immediately on conviction, may at once be committed by the warrant of the Justice.

this Statute, and for the Forms which may readily be made to serve, see respectively, Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction, Distress, Commitment.

Improperly

Sec. 7. If the chief Inspector or any deputy shall brand any cask, the contents of which he has not inspected, packed, salted, and coopered according to the true intent of the Act; or if he shall permit any other person to use his brands, in violation or evasion thereof, such offender shall forfeit for every cask so branded, the sum of five pounds, and be liable to be removed from his office.

Sec. 8. If any pickled or barrelled fish as aforesaid, shall be put on board any boat, vessel, or carriage of conveyance, with intent to sell or export the same, contrary to the provisions of the Act, it shall be lawful for any Justice for the county, upon information given him, to issue his warrant to the sheriff or his deputy, or to any constable of the town in which such boat, vessel, or carriage may be, requiring them, respectively, to seize and secure said fish, and carry the same to the chief Inspector, or a deputy Inspector, whichever may be nearest; and such Inspector, or deputy, shall open, inspect, pack and brand the casks, and detain the same, until the expenses of so doing, and all other charges arising from such seizure, shall be paid. By the 10 G. 4, c. 30. 4 V. 54. The first, third, and ninth Sections of the foregoing Act are repealed; and all the before recited, as well as the other clauses thereof, and also the present Act, are extended and made to apply to all pickled fish, packed for sale, whether intended for exportation, or consumption within the Province.

Sec. 16. The sorting, weighing, inspecting and branding any cask of fish, as directed by this Act, shall be made and done, either by or in the immediate presence and sight of the chief Inspector, or of some one of the deputy Inspectors; and unless in such immediate presence and sight of an Inspector, no other person shall be allowed to brand a cask, or sort or inspect such fish, under the penalty of three pounds, upon the Inspector suffering the same to be done.

Sec. 19. Whosoever shall in or from any cask, intermix, take out, or shift any inspected fish, packed or branded according to the directions of the Act, or put therein other fish, for sale or exportation, contrary to the true intent of the foregoing Act, and the present one; and whosoever shall sell, or export, or offer for sale or exportation, or cause to be sold in, or exported from the Province, any tainted or damaged fish, or any tierce, barrel, or half barrel of pickled fish, not inspected and branded according to this Act; and whosoever shall carry or convey from the vicinity of Halifax, or any of the outports or other places in the Province, into the inland or other parts thereof, any fish, packed in tierces, barrels, or half barrels, and intended for consumption, but not being branded as herein before directed; whosoever being the master of any vessel, having on board any pickled fish for exportation, or being the shipper thereof, shall not produce to the principal officers of the Customs for the Port, before the ships departure therefrom, such certificates of the chief Inspector, or any deputy Inspector, as is by the foregoing Act directed, each and every of the parties so offending, shall pay a penalty of twenty shillings, for every hundred weight of the fish in this Section referred to.

Disposing of fish improperly.

Sec. 21. All pickled fish not inspected and branded according to the Act, or tainted or damaged, being in tierces, barrels, or half barrels, and shipped for exportation, or offered for sale in the Province, or found while being conveyed into the inland ports of the Province; and all fish taken, shifted, or intermixed, from or in the cask after the inspection and branding thereof, shall be and is hereby declared forfeited.

Forfeiture of fish.

Recovery of penalties and forfeitures.

Sec. 22. All pecuniary penalties imposed by the foregoing Act, and the present one, shall be recovered before a Justice or Justices of the Peace, or any Court of Record having jurisdiction to the amount of the penalty sued for; and all pickled fish forfeited shall be seized by the Chief Inspector, or any of his deputies, or the Collectors of Impost and Excise, and the Officers of the Provincial Revenue, and unless the fish is tainted or damaged, shall be condemned and adjudged before any one or more Justices of the Peace, or in any Court having jurisdiction, according to the value thereof; and the proceeds of such forfeitures and of the penalties aforesaid, shall be applied, one half for the benefit of common schools in the town where the offence is committed, and the other half to him who will sue for the same. Provided, that tainted and damaged fish, shall, without being condemned, be destroyed or sold for manure.

Making inspection.

Sec. 25. When any quantity of fish, not exceeding twenty barrels, shall be required to be inspected, the same shall be brought to the store, wharf, or place of business of the Inspector; but if the quantity be greater, the Inspector, on payment or tender of his fees for travel, at the rate of sixpence per mile, from the place of his residence and back, shall attend at the place where the fish may be, and inspect the same, within two days after being requested thereto, under the penalty of forfeiting to the owner thereof, three pounds for each day, that he shall, after such space of two days, neglect such inspection. Temporary.

NOTE. By the following Statute, the travelling fees to the Inspector are taken away; but he is required to perform the duty prescribed in this clause, under the penalty mentioned therein.

By the 7 W. 4, c. 44. Sess. 1837. The two foregoing Acts, except as altered and amended, are continued for one year; and it is enacted, that in future no chief Inspector for any county or district shall be appointed; but where it shall be judged necessary Inspectors shall be appointed in the General Sessions, in the same manner as other township officers, and shall be licensed, and enter into bonds with sureties, for the performance of their duties, according to the directions and in the forms prescribed and set forth in the Act; and shall be sworn before a Justice to the faithful discharge of their duties, and shall remain in office until removed by the General Sessions: and the duties, powers, and authorities, responsibilities, and liabilities of such Inspectors, shall be the same as those of any chief Inspector, or deputy Inspector, under either of the beforementioned Acts.

Provided, that the liability of any such Inspector under this Act shall only extend to the fish actually inspected by him. Every such Inspector shall be liable to the same penalties and forfeitures for neglect of duty, as the chief Inspector or any deputy Inspector are made liable to under either of the beforementioned Acts; and shall receive for inspecting and branding every tierce of pickled fish,—eight pence; for every barrel,—five pence; and every half barrel,—three pence; and for every certificate of exportation,—one shilling. And every Inspector shall annually, on or before the thirty-first day of December, make and certify to the Clerk of the Peace, returns on oath before a Justice, of all the pickled fish inspected by him, and of his fees for the same; abstracts of which Returns shall yearly, on or before the twentieth day of January, be made by such Clerk of the Peace to the Secretary of the Province. No travelling fees shall be allowed to any such Inspector, for the duty done by him under the 25th Section of the aforesaid Act of the 10 G. 4, c. 30. Inspectors shall not inspect their own fish, and if any one of them does so, he shall, on selling or exporting thereof, be liable to the same penalties and forfeitures as if the same had not been inspected. The Clerk of the Peace shall be entitled to receive from every Inspector, the fee of ten shillings, in full for filling up and taking the license and bond required, and for all services connected therewith.

Sec. 19. Every Inspector appointed under the Act, for every tierce, barrel, or half barrel, improperly branded, before the same shall be packed, filled and inspected, shall forfeit the sum of forty shillings, to be recovered before one Justice of the Peace for the county, by any person who shall sue for the same, in the same manner as if the said penalty were a debt due, which shall be paid and applied, one half to the person who shall sue for the same, and the other half to be paid to the County Treasurer, to be expended on roads and bridges under the direction of the Sessions. Temporary.

From the directions contained in the two first of the foregoing Acts relative to the manner of recovering the several penalties mentioned therein, and of prosecuting in the case of fish liable to forfeiture, and particularly from a reference to the 22nd clause of the foregoing Act of 10 G. 4, c. 30, it is to be inferred and understood, that where the penalty for an offence under either of the said two first mentioned Acts, or the value of fish liable to forfeiture, does not exceed the sum of £3, the prosecution must take place before one Justice; and where the amount is above that sum, but does not exceed £5,

Improperly

such prosecution must be had before two Justices, and where the amount is above that sum, it must take place in some court of record. The instructions requisite with regard to prosecutions before a Justice or Justices for the recovery of any such penalties, and the forms which may be made to serve, will be found under the respective Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction. As it is not provided by either of the said two first Statutes, that after convictions before Justices, any kind of final process is to be issued for enforcing payment of the penalties adjudged, it is conceived, according to what has been already advanced under other Titles relative to similar omissions, that Justices are not authorized, upon such convictions under these Statutes, either to issue warrants of distress, or to commit to prison the parties convicted. In the case of fish forfeited, although no particular form of proceeding before Justices is pointed out by the Statutes, yet it seems but legal and proper, that an information, as in the case of prosecutions for penalties, should first be given in, and that the owner or person having the custody or possession of the fish, should be summoned in the usual form, to answer to the complaint, and that a hearing of the whole case should take place before the Justice or Justices, previous to any final decision being made thereon. The Justices should make and keep minutes of their proceedings, and of their judgments in all such cases of forfeiture; but they are not required to draw up any particular form of a judgment, as in the case of a conviction for a penalty. The forms of an Information and Summons in such prosecutions for fish forfeited, and also the form of an Information under the first of the foregoing Acts, for endeavouring to remove for sale or exportation any fish not inspected, with the warrant for seizing the same, will all be found at the end of this Title. As the fine of forty shillings, imposed in the 19th clause of the last mentioned Act, is to be recovered as a debt due, the requisite directions and forms in such case will be found under the Title,—Summary Trials.

The course of proceedings to be observed for recovering the penalty mentioned in the foregoing Act, together with the requisite forms, which may readily be filled up so as to answer, will all be found, respectively, under the Titles,—Information, Summons, Distress, Commitment.

By the 2 Vic. c. 42. Sess. 1839. If any person shall presume to act as a public guager of fish-oil, or as an Inspector and Guagers of pickled fish, without having been duly qualified, appointed and sworn according to law, such person, so offending, shall for every offence, forfeit and pay a fine or penalty of five pounds, to be sued for and recovered in a summary way, as debts of the like amount are now recovered, in the name of any party who will sue for the same; and the other half to the use of the poor of the town or settlement where such fine shall be recovered.

Sec. 2. Every cask of fish oil which shall be guaged by any guager, shall be branded or cut with a double ring, with the initial letter of the Christian name, and the whole of the Surname of the Guager, and with the word "cod," "dog," "whale," "seal," or whatever else may be the proper and usual description of the fish oil so guaged by him.

Sec. 3. No Guager of fish oil shall be obliged to leave his own place of business, or residence, to guage a less quantity than five barrels; and the fee to be allowed to every Guager for guaging a puncheon of fish oil shall be, one shilling, and for every barrel, nine pence.

Sec. 4. Provided that notice of such reshipment be given to the Inspector. Annual.

By the 6 W. 4, c. 4. Sess. 1836. If the owner or importer of any flour or meal, imported for exportation, and stored in any private warehouse for such purpose, shall reship the same, without notice to the Inspector as required by the proviso to the last clause of the before recited Act of 4

W. 4, c. 15, he shall forfeit and pay for every barrel or half barrel of flour or meal, so re-shipped without such notice, the sum of two shillings and six pence; to be recovered and applied in manner as any forfeitures, and sums of money are made recoverable and are to be applied under the sixth clause of the before recited Act of the 3 W. 4. c. 15.

Sec. 5. When any barrel or half barrel of flour or meal, weighed and branded, shall be emptied, before the same shall be re-filled, the brands thereon made by the Inspector and Weigher or his deputy, shall be erased; and any person re-filling or procuring to be re-filled any such barrel or half-barrel, when emptied, without erasing the brands, shall forfeit and pay for every such barrel or half-barrel so re-filled, a penalty of two shillings and six pence, to be recovered and applied as aforesaid. Annual.

By the 7 Vic. c. 50. Sess. 1844. The allowance to the Inspector and Weigher or his deputy, is reduced from two pence to one penny, for each barrel inspected and weighed by him, and in like proportion for half-barrels, and no more. Annual.

The proceedings under the two Acts first recited under this title, which regard the selling of flour and biscuit by weight only, will be the same until conviction, as in ordinary cases of recovering penalties before Justices, and for which, with the Forms required, see Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction. It would seem, that neither a Warrant of Distress against the goods of the offender, nor any process against his body, can be issued upon conviction under either of the said first mentioned Acts, as no final process of any kind, is thereby directed or authorized.

It will be observed, that by the first of the foregoing Acts, concerning the inspection of flour and meal, it is directed, that all forfeitures, penalties, and sums of money under the same, are to be recovered as debts of the like amount, before any Court, or Justice or Justices, having jurisdiction over any such amount. It follows, therefore, that if any such forfeitures, penalties, or sums, do not exceed £3 the suit may be before one Justice; and if above that sum, but not exceeding £5, before two Justices; which sums may be so sued for, recovered, and levied in the same manner as in the case of debts between private parties; for directions as to the proceedings in which cases, with the requisite Forms, see Title,—Summary Trials. The penalties imposed by the Act of 6 W. 4, c. 4. Sess. 1836, are also directed to be sued for, recovered, and applied in the same manner.

FORCIBLE ENTRY & DETAINER.

By the 32 G. 2, c. 3. 1 V. 6. Upon complaint on oath made to any Justice of the Peace, of any wrongful and forcible entry made into any houses, lands, tenements, or other possessions, lying within any town or place where such Justice resides, or of any wrongful detainer, or withholding with force, after possession demanded, of any houses, lands, tenements, or other possessions, every such Justice shall by Warrant under his hand and seal, directed to the Constables of such town, cause such offender or offenders to be arrested and detained in custody, until he, she, or they find sufficient securities for his, her, or their personal appearance at the next General Sessions of the Peace, there to answer such complaint; and for want of such security to be committed to prison. The Sessions shall enquire of such forcible entry and detainer; and if the same is on trial found by a jury, the party grieved shall again be put into possession of such lands, &c., and may by action of trespass recover treble damages and costs of suit. The Act shall not extend unto any person who has had the occupation, or been in quiet possession of any lands, tenements, or possessions for three whole years together, next before, and his or her estate or estates therein not ended or determined. Perpetual.

A forcible entry or detainer is committed, by violently taking, or keeping possession of lands or tenements, with menaces, force, and arms, and without the authority of law. If one who pretends a title to lands, barely go over them, either with or without a great number of attendants, armed or unarmed, in his way to the church or market, or for such like purpose, without doing any act which either expressly or impliedly amounts to a claim of such lands, he cannot be said to make an entry thereinto. But if a person enter into another man's house, or ground, either with apparent violence offered to the person of any other, or furnished with weapons or company which may offer fear, though it be but to cut or take away another man's corn, grass, or other goods, or to fell or crop wood, or to do any other like trespass, and though he do not put the party out of his possession, yet it seems to be a forcible entry. But if the entry were peaceable, and after such entry made, they cut or take away any other man's corn, grass, wood, or other goods, without apparent violence or force, though such acts are counted a disseizin with force, yet they are not punishable as forcible entries. But if he enter peaceably, and there shall with force and violence, cut or take away any corn, grass, or wood; or shall forcibly, or wrongfully carry away any other goods there being, this seems to be a forcible entry. And in general, it seems clear, that to denominate the entry forcible, it ought to be accompanied with some circumstances of actual violence or terror; and therefore, that an entry which hath no other force than such as is implied by the law in every trespass whatsoever, does not amount to this offence of a forcible entry. As to the matter of violence, it seems to be agreed, that an entry may be forcible, not only in respect of a violence actually done to the person of a man, as by beating him, if he refuses to relinquish his possession, but also in respect of any other kind of violence in the manner of the entry, as by breaking open the doors of a house, whether any person be in it or not, especially if it be a dwelling house; and perhaps also, by an act of outrage after the entry, as by carrying away the party's goods; but it seems that an entry is not forcible by the bare drawing up a latch, or pulling back the bolt of a door, there being no appearance therein of being done by strong hand, or multitude of people; and it hath been holden that an entry into a house through a window, or by opening a door with a key, is not forcible. In respect of the circumstances of terror, it is to be observed, that whenever a man, either by his behaviour, or speech at the time of his entry, gives those who are in possession, just cause to fear that he will do them some bodily hurt, if they will not give way to him, his entry is esteemed forcible, whether he cause such a terror by carrying with him such an unusual number of attendants; or by arming himself in such a manner, as plainly intimates such a design; or by actually threatening to kill, maim, or beat those who shall continue in possession, or by giving out such speeches as plainly imply a purpose of using force, as if one say, that he will keep his possession in spite of all men, or the like. But it seems that no entry shall be judged forcible, from any threatening to spoil another's goods, or to destroy his cattle, or to do him any other such like damage which is not personal. However, it is clear that it may be committed by a single person as well as by twenty. But nevertheless, all those who accompany a man when he makes a forcible entry, shall be judged to enter with him, whether they actually come upon the lands or not. It seems certain that the same circumstances of violence or terror which will make an entry forcible, will make a detainer forcible also. And a detainer may be forcible, whether the entry were forcible or not. 2 Burn's, 419-21.

Directions.

When the parties are brought before the Justice upon the foregoing warrant, he must require of them to find a surety or sureties to be bound with them, and if they procure the same, the Justice must bind them all in recognizance, in the usual form, for the appearance of the parties charged, at the next Term of the Supreme Court in the County, to answer to the complaint. The parties charged may be bound in £40 each, and the sureties in £20 each, or in other lesser or greater sums at the discretion of the Justice, according to the nature and circumstances of the case. He should also bind over the complainant to appear at the same Court and prosecute; and must also make minutes or memorandums of such recognizances, in the manner, and similar to the forms directed and given in the case of assault and battery; and must send such memorandums into the office of the deputy Clerk of the Crown, before or at the next meeting of the Supreme Court in the county. If the parties arrested, refuse or fail to find such sureties, and to become so bound, the Justice must send them to gaol under a written commitment.

The Forms of Recognizances, of the Memorandums thereof, and of a Commitment, which may all be readily filled up, so as to answer, will be found under the Titles,—Assault and Battery, and Commitment.

FORGERY.

FORGERY is an offence at common law, and in many cases an offence also by Statute. Forgery at the common law, is an offence, in falsely and fraudulently making or altering any manner of record, or any other authentic matter of a public nature, as a parish register, or any deed, will, privy seal, and the like. Also the counterfeiting of any writing, with a fraudulent intent, whereby another may be prejudiced, (it is immaterial whether the party be actually injured or not,) is a forgery at common law. 2 Burn's, 444.

By a Resolution of the Governor and Council, contained in the first Volume of the Provincial Acts, page 5, and referred to and confirmed by the Statute of the 32 G. 2, c. 2. Sec. 11. 1 V. 3. It is declared, that if any person or persons, shall forge or counterfeit, any entry of the acknowledgment of any such memorial, certificate, or endorsement, as is therein directed to be made of any deed, conveyance, or mortgage, and shall be thereof lawfully convicted, such person or persons, shall incur and be liable to such pains and penalties, as in and by an Act of Parliament, made in the fifth year of Queen Elizabeth, (entitled an Act against forgers of false deeds and writings,) are imposed upon persons, for forging and publishing of all false deeds, charters, or writings sealed, court rolls, or wills, whereby the freehold or inheritance of any person or persons of, in, or unto any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, shall or may be molested, troubled, or charged.

By the 9 G. 4, c. 22. 4 V. 2; 10 G. 4, c. 43. 4 V. 69; 11 G. 3, c. 9. 4 V. 82; and 2 W. 4, c. 64. 4 V. 191, respectively. It is enacted and declared, that if any person or persons, shall counterfeit any Treasury Note or Notes, issued or hereafter to be issued, by virtue of any of the said Acts, or of any former or other Act, or alter any of the same, so that they shall appear to be of greater value than when originally issued; or shall knowingly pass, or give in payment, any of the said Notes, so counterfeited; or altered, every person convicted thereof, shall be imprisoned for a term not exceeding seven years, in the bridewell, and there kept at hard labour, and shall pay all charges of the prosecution.—
Duration of these Statutes not limited.

By the 4 W. 4, c. 24, §. 9. 4 V. 274. “If any person or persons shall make, forge, or counterfeit, or cause or procure to be made, forged, or counterfeited, any such undertaking as is mentioned in the second clause of this Act: or alter, or cause or procure to be altered, any such undertaking, so that it shall appear to be of greater value, than when originally issued; or shall knowingly offer, or pass, or give in payment, any such undertaking so forged, counterfeited, or altered; every person convicted of such offence, shall be adjudged guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be imprisoned for a term not exceeding seven years, in the Bridewell, and there kept at hard labour, and shall pay all charges of prosecution." The undertakings referred to in the foregoing clause, are described in the said second clause of the Act, to be "Any undertakings now issued, or hereafter to be issued, and whether made, designed, or purporting to be promissory notes, or Bank notes, or bills, or issued, or purporting to be issued, as and for, and to serve the like purposes as notes, or bills of bankers, or of a Banking Company, or as and for paper money or circulating currency, and whether the same be payable to a real or fictitious person, or to the bearer thereof, or purport to be designed to be negotiable or transferable by indorsement, or delivery; or whether the same be, or purport to be payable absolutely in gold or silver, or either in specie, gold or silver, or in notes of the Provincial Treasury, or other body corporate or politic, company, partnership, person or persons whomsoever, or in any other mode; and whatsoever be the sum for which such writings respectively shall be made. Perpetual.

By the comprehensive Act of the 5 Vic. c. 20, Sess. 1842. The following enactments have been made, including nearly every case of forgery.

Sec. 9. G A M I N G.

By the 33 Geo. 2, c. 1. 1 V. 47. It shall be lawful for any two or more Justices of the Peace, to enter into any public houses, suspected of keeping any gaming tables, and to order and direct the keepers of such gaming tables, if any such shall be found therein, to remove the same within forty-eight hours, as a public nuisance; and any person refusing or neglecting to obey the order of such Justices, the said Justices shall have power to break and prostrate such public gaming tables; and also to require sufficient security from persons keeping such public gaming houses, for their good behaviour during twelve months, or for their appearance at the next Quarter Sessions, there to be prosecuted for offending against this Act; and, on conviction, to be either fined, or imprisoned, as the Court shall direct. Perpetual.

The Form of a Recognizance for the good behaviour, and also of one for appearance at the Sessions, required by the foregoing clause, will both be found under the Title—Surety for the Good Behaviour.

G A O L S A N D G A O L E R S.

THE gaol itself is the King's, for the public good; but the Sheriff has the custody, rule, and keeping of it; and of the prisoners confined therein. All felons shall be imprisoned in the common gaol, and not elsewhere. And if the gaoler refuse to receive a felon, by the delivery of any constable, or take any thing for receiving him, he shall be punished for the same, by the Justices of gaol delivery. In all cases where a man is committed to prison, especially if it be for felony, or upon an execution; or but for a trespass, or other offence, every gaoler ought to keep such prisoner in safe and close custody: safe, that he cannot escape; and close, without conference with others, or intelligence of things abroad. Therefore, if the gaoler shall license his prisoner to go abroad for a time, and then to come again; or to go abroad with a keeper, though he come again, yet these are escapes. If the gaoler keep the prisoner more strictly than he ought of right, whereof the prisoner dieth, this is felony in the gaoler, by the common law. If the gaoler voluntarily suffer a prisoner to escape, he shall be punished in the same manner as the prisoner ought to have been, who escaped; and if he negligently permit him to escape, he shall be punished by fine and imprisonment. And the Sheriff shall answer for him. If a gaoler detain a prisoner in gaol after his acquittal, unless it be for his fees, (not for meat, drink, or lodging,) this is an unlawful imprisonment. 2 Burn's, Title,—Gaols.

Appropriating part of a Gaol as a Work House.

By the 32 G. 3, c. 5. 1 V. 293. The Justices and Grand Jury in General Sessions, in the several counties and districts, may provide proper buildings, or appropriate a certain part of the county gaol, as a work house, or house of correction; the expense of establishing which, shall be raised by presentment and assessment in the usual mode. The Sessions, or any one Justice out of Court, may commit to such house of correction, all persons of the descriptions mentioned in the second clause of the Act of the 33 G. 2, c. 1. 1 V. 41. Perpetual.

Persons to be committed.

By the clause here referred to, "the Sessions, or a single Justice, may, on due conviction, commit for punishment, according to the rules of such house of correction, all idle and disorderly persons, beggars, persons practising unlawful games, fortune tellers, common drunkards, persons of lewd behaviour, vagabonds, runaways, stubborn servants and children; and persons mispending their time to the injury of their families." Perpetual.

By the 5 W. 4, c. 13. 4 V. 385. Money may be presented in the Sessions, and raised in the usual manner, for building and repairing gaols. Temporary.

Selling or using Spirituous Liquors in Gaols.

By the 4 W. 4, c. 36. 4 V. 285. If any gaoler, or the keeper of any prison, or other person or persons, shall either by themselves, or their wives, or any of their children, or their servants, substitutes, or agents, directly, or indirectly, sell, barter, exchange, or deliver, or willingly, or knowingly suffer, or permit, or cause to be sold, bartered, exchanged, or delivered to any prisoner, or prisoners, or other person or persons whomsoever, any rum, brandy, gin, or any other distilled spirituous liquors, mixed or unmixed, by whatever name or names, the same are or may be called, or known, in any gaol, or prison, or gaol yard, or within the limits of any gaol or prison, or in any room or apartment, or other part of any house, or building, wherein any gaol or prison is, or may be kept or situate; or if any person or persons shall bring, or introduce into any gaol or prison, or gaol yard, or limits of any gaol or prison, to be used, drunk, or consumed therein, by any prisoner or prisoners, person or persons, confined or detained within such gaol, or prison, or gaol yard, or the limits of any such gaol or prison, such gaoler, or keeper, or other person or persons so offending, in either of the said cases, being thereof convicted before any two Justices of the Peace for the county, or district wherein such gaol or prison may be situate, upon the oath of any one or more credible witness, or witnesses, shall forfeit and pay a fine or penalty of three pounds, to be levied by Warrant of Distress under the hands and seals of the said two Justices, of and upon the goods and chattels of the offender, or offenders, so convicted; and shall be paid and applied, one half to the person who will give information for the same, and the other half to the Clerk of the Licenses for the county or district wherein such offence shall have been committed, to be by him applied in like manner as the funds receivable by him for licensed houses are directed to be applied; and in case the said offender or offenders, shall not have sufficient goods and chattels, whereon to levy the distress aforesaid, and to satisfy the said fine, then such offender or offenders shall be committed to gaol, to be there kept and detained in close confinement, for two months, or until such fine be paid. And any gaoler, or keeper of a prison, who shall be convicted as aforesaid a second time, shall thereupon, in addition to paying the fine, or undergoing the confinement herein before mentioned, be thereafter absolutely disqualified from holding such situation of a gaoler, or keeper of a prison as aforesaid, and shall be therefrom forthwith removed.

Sec. 3. All prosecutions under the Act shall be in the name of the Clerk of the Licenses, and it shall be imperative upon the said Clerk, upon information given to him of any offence against this Act, forthwith to prosecute for the fine hereby imposed.

Sec. 4. Provided, that nothing in the Act contained, shall extend to prevent the introducing into any gaol, or prison, such limited and restricted quantity of rum, brandy, gin, or other distilled spirituous liquors, for any sick prisoner, or other sick person who may be confined or resident in such gaol or prison, as may by the physician, or medical attendant of such sick prisoner, or other sick person, be particularly mentioned, allowed, and prescribed in writing, as necessary for the use of such sick prisoner, or other sick person.

Sec. 5. Provided, also, that when the limits of any gaol or prison, shall extend beyond the gaol yard, and include within the same, any house or building, other than the said gaol or prison, nothing in this Act contained shall extend to such limits, unless so far as respects the selling, or delivering, or bringing, or conveying of any rum, brandy, gin, or other distilled spirituous liquors, to any prisoner or prisoners, confined within such jail or prison, or the limits thereof. Perpetual.

Directions.

The proceedings and Forms under this last mentioned Statute, except the slight difference obviously requisite in stating the offence in the Forms, will be the same as in the case of prosecutions by the Clerk of the Licenses, for selling spirituous liquors without license, the requisite directions and Forms in which latter case will be found under the Title,—Spirituous Liquors. It will be observed however, that there is no time limited for the commencement of a prosecution for any offence against this Statute, and also, that no charges of prosecution are allowed, and therefore none can be adjudged. The penalty also, is exactly specified, and must be the same in every case.

By the 8 Vic. c. 11. Sess. 1845. "It shall be lawful for the Justices in their General Sessions for any county, to make such rules, orders, and regulations respecting geese going at large, and for preventing their going at large, as shall from time to time be considered necessary and proper; and may, from time to time, alter, vary and change the same, and, also, if they shall think proper so to do, may affix any penalty for breach of such respective rules, orders, and regulations, not exceeding twenty shillings."

Sec. 2. "Any penalty by said rules, orders or regulations, imposed for breach thereof, shall be recovered, in the name of the party complaining, before any Justice of the Peace for the County wherein the offence was committed; and if, upon due conviction, upon the oath of one or more credible witness or witnesses, the party offending shall not pay the penalty adjudged, it shall be lawful to and for such Justice to issue his Warrant of Distress for the amount thereof, with costs to be levied from the goods and chattels of the offender, one half of such penalty to be applied to the use of the party prosecuting for the same, and the other

GRAIN.

THE former regulations concerning grain and corn, contained in the Statutes 32 G. 3, c. 4. 1 V. 291; and the 56 G. 3, c. 4. 2 V. 200, have all been repealed by the Act of the 1 Vic. c. 4, Sess. 1838, and the following enactments are thereby made on the subject.—

Sec. 2. All grain or corn, hereinafter mentioned, shall not be deemed or considered merchantable, unless the same shall be, respectively, of the undermentioned weight, that is to say:—

Wheat, sixty pounds, Avoirdupois, per bushel.

Barley, when foreign or imported, fifty-two pounds Avoirdupois, per bushel. Of the production of this Province, forty-eight pounds, Avoirdupois, per bushel.

Rye, fifty-six pounds, Avoirdupois, per bushel.

Indian Corn, fifty-eight pounds, Avoirdupois, per bushel.

Malt, thirty-nine pounds, Avoirdupois, per bushel.

Sec. 3. All wheat and barley, not of the growth or production of this Province, imported into this Province shall hereafter be sold by weight, and the number of pounds weight, hereby established as the standard weight of a bushel of such wheat or barley, respectively, shall be deemed and esteemed to be equal to, and to represent, a bushel of wheat or barley.

Sec. 4. Every Measurer and Weigher of grain shall be entitled to, and shall be paid, for measuring or weighing and inspecting all grain or corn, at the following rates, that is to say:—For every hundred bushels of wheat, of foreign production, and of oats, whether of foreign production, or otherwise, two shillings; and for every hundred bushels of all other grain or corn, herein before mentioned, except wheat of foreign production and oats, four shillings.

Rates for Measuring,
&c.

Sec. 5. All such rates shall be paid by the seller of any grain or corn as aforesaid, and in case of the said grain or corn being sold on board of any ship or vessel, and to be delivered therefrom, it shall be imperative upon the seller, to have such grain or corn weighed or measured, by some sworn measurer, agreeably to this Act; but upon the sale of any grain or corn in store, or in any other place, and to be delivered therefrom, it shall not be necessary to have the same measured or weighed by some sworn measurer, unless the purchaser shall desire the same.

Grain exported, &c.

Sec. 6. It shall not be imperative to inspect, weigh, or measure any grain or corn, exported from this Province, by a sworn measurer, before the exportation thereof.

Damaged
Grain.

Sec. 7. If, upon the weighing or measuring of any grain or corn, it shall be found that the same is heated, or in any other respect unmarketable, the sworn measurer shall report the same to the purchaser, and shall refuse to measure or weigh, or mark, or take any account of the same, unless specially directed and authorized by the purchaser so to do.

Selling with-
ment, &c.

Sec. 8. If any person shall sell and deliver any grain or corn, which by the provisions of this Act should be measured or weighed, by some sworn measurer of grain, without having the same so measured or weighed, such person shall forfeit and pay a penalty of sixpence, for every bushel of grain or corn so sold and delivered, to be recovered, upon complaint and information made before any two Justices of the peace, and, upon due conviction of the offender, to be levied by warrant of distress, and sale of the offender's goods and chattels, and to be paid and applied, one half to the party complaining or informing for the same, and the other half to the use of the poor of the township or place wherein such offence was committed.

Measurer.

Sec. 9. If any sworn measurer shall be guilty of any neglect or dereliction of duty, in the exercise of his office, or shall undertake to attend the admeasurement of, or weighing of grain from more than one vessel, at one and the same time, he shall forfeit and pay a penalty of five pounds, to be recovered on the complaint of any person who shall sue for the same, and upon conviction of the offender, before any one Justice of the peace, to be levied by warrant of distress of the offender's goods and chattels, and to be applied as herein before directed; and for want of goods and chattels to satisfy such warrant of distress, the offender shall be committed to the common gaol of the county, for a period of not more than twenty days. Perpetual.

posed by the foregoing Act, will be the same, in general, as in other cases for the recovery of penalties, before Justices, and are described, and the requisite Forms, which may readily be filled up so as to answer, will be found, respectively, under the Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction, Distress, Commitment.

With regard to the penalty first mentioned in the Act, namely, that contained in the 8th clause thereof, as commitment to gaol is not authorized on failure of payment being obtained, under the Warrant of Distress, such commitment cannot, it is presumed, legally take place.

By the 4 W. 4, c. 45. 4 Vol. 290. The tolls hereafter to be taken by every miller, for the grinding of wheat, rye, barley, buckwheat or Indian corn, shall be one sixteenth part of the whole quantity brought to the mill to be ground and no more; to be ascertained by a sealed measure; and for grinding oats, where the same shall not be kiln dried, shelled, and sifted, one sixteenth part of the whole quantity brought to the mill to be ground, and no more; to be ascertained as aforesaid; and for kiln-drying, shelling, grinding, and sifting of oats, one eighth part of the whole quantity brought to the mill to be ground, and no more, to be ascertained as aforesaid. Every miller, keeping suitable machinery for the hulling of barley, shall receive as toll for hulling the same, one sixth part of the whole quantity brought to the mill to be hulled, and no more; to be ascertained as herein before mentioned. And every miller, who shall keep in his mill a good and sufficient bolting machine, shall be obliged, if required so to do, to bolt the flour or meal of all wheat, rye, buck-wheat, or barley, or bolt or sift all flour, or meal of Indian corn, ground at his mill, and shall be allowed to take at the rate of one quart out of each bushel of grain or corn brought to the mill to be so ground, and bolted, or sifted, and no more, as and for the toll for bolting or sifting the same, in addition to the toll hereby allowed for grinding such wheat, rye, buckwheat, barley or Indian corn. [By 5 W. 4, c. 5. 4 V. 357. This toll for bolting, or sifting, is reduced to one pint for each bushel.]

Sec. 4. If any miller shall, in any case, demand and take any larger and greater toll for grinding, hulling, or bolting any grain, corn meal, or flour, than is herein before allowed and prescribed, such miller, being thereof legally convicted, before any two Justices of the Peace for the county or district, wherein such offence shall be committed, on the oath of one or more credible witness, or witnesses, shall forfeit and pay a penalty of two pounds, to be levied by warrant of distress, under the hands and seals of the said two Justices.

Sec. 5. If any miller shall refuse to grind any grain or corn, for which his mill is prepared, the said grain or corn being clean, dry, and in good order; or if his mill be provided with bolting machinery, shall refuse to bolt any meal or flour, hereby required to be bolted, when he is requested so to do, or shall refuse to hull any barley, when required, the same being clean, dry, and in good order, and his mill having proper and suitable machinery for the hulling of barley, then, and in either of such cases, any such miller so refusing, and not having some good and sufficient excuse for such refusal, being thereof legally convicted, in manner as herein before mentioned, shall forfeit and pay a penalty of two pounds, to be levied as aforesaid.

Miller to keep Scales and Weights.

Sec. 6. Every miller shall at all times keep in his mill, properly filled and erected in a convenient place, a good and sufficient beam and scales, with proper and legal weights, for the use of persons requiring grain or corn to be ground at such mill; and any miller, neglecting to keep and have in his mill, such beam and scales and weights, so fitted and erected, in manner aforesaid, being thereof lawfully convicted, as herein before mentioned, shall forfeit and pay a penalty of five pounds, to be levied as aforesaid.

Application of penalties

Sec. 7. All penalties recovered and levied under this Act, shall be paid and applied for the use of the poor of the town or place where the offence, for which such penalty is imposed, was committed, and if no sufficient distress shall be found, to satisfy any such penalty, then the offender shall be committed to gaol, there to be confined, for a time not exceeding thirty days, or until the said penalty be paid.

Sec. 8. Every miller, who shall be convicted as herein before mentioned, of demanding and taking any greater toll for the grinding, hulling, or bolting of any grain, corn, meal, or flour, in any case, shall, in addition to the penalties hereby imposed for any such offence, forfeit the full value of the grain, corn, meal, or flour which shall be demanded and taken by him as aforesaid, over and above the toll herein before mentioned, and allowed; to be levied, together with the said penalty hereby imposed, and in the same manner, and to be paid to the owner or owners of the grain, corn, meal, or flour whereon such excessive toll shall be demanded and taken.

Sec. 10. Provides that this Act shall not extend to any other Mills than such as are propelled or worked by wind or water. Perpetual.

This Statute is so plainly and accurately worded, that it is conceived, intelligent and judicious Magistrates will find no difficulty, as to any part of the proceedings before them, for the recovery and levying of the penalties. It will be observed, that all the penalties are to be recovered before two Justices, and that a Warrant of Distress is to issue against the goods of the party convicted, and if no goods can be found, he is to be committed to prison for a limited time, or until payment is sooner made. The proceedings, therefore, will be the same as in all ordinary cases of prosecutions for the recovery of penalties; directions as to which, with the requisite Forms, to be filled up according to the facts of the complaint in each case, will be found under the respective Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction, Distress, Commitment. It is proper however to observe, that as the value of the excessive toll taken, is to be levied from the party convicted, in addition to the penalty imposed, it will be the duty of the Justices, at the time of the conviction, to ascertain and determine that value, and to add the amount thereof to the penalty, and to adjudge the whole of such value and penalty, against the party, and to issue the warrant of distress for the full amount so made up.

upon conviction thereof by the oath of one credible witness, before any two Justices of the peace; to be recovered by warrant of distress from under the hand and seal of said Justices; one moiety whereof to be paid to the person who shall inform and sue for the same, and the other moiety to the Overseers of the Poor, for the uses of the poor of the town where the offence was committed. Perpetual.

By the 32 G. 3, c. 3. 1 V. 291, (made in addition to and amendment of the foregoing Act.) All casks containing rum, wine, and molasses, imported into this Province, shall be guaged by the sworn and established guager, immediately after landing, and before removal from the wharf whereon it is landed; and the said guagers shall mark with a marking iron, the quantity of gallons each cask contains, on the stave next the bung stave, or upon the head of each cask, with the two first letters of his name, on the left hand of the quantity; all which to be done in a fair legible manner. And in lieu of the present allowance for guaging, such guager shall receive for every cask exceeding ten, to be guaged by him at any one time and place, the following fees:—For every puncheon—three pence; for every hogshead or tierce—two pence; and for every barrel—one penny.

Sec. 2. If any guager appointed as aforesaid, shall neglect or refuse to do the duty enjoined by this and the above recited Act, he shall for each and every offence, forfeit and pay the sum of forty shillings, to be recovered before any one Justice of the peace, by any person or persons who shall sue for the same; one moiety thereof to such person or persons, and the other moiety to the Overseers of the Poor, for the use of the poor of the township to which such guager belongs.

Provided, that until persons can be found in the outports of the Province, capable of guaging with callipers, it shall be lawful in such ports, to guage with a rod, as also in the port of Halifax, when the parties consent. Perpetual.

Directions.

It will be seen, that the first of the foregoing Statutes, relates only to the port of Halifax, and applies to all distilled spirituous liquors imported into, or distilled within such port; while the latter Statute extends to the whole Province, but applies only to rum, wine and molasses. With regard to the penalties also, the latter Act imposes the penalty of forty shillings, on neglect of any duty enjoined either by this Act, or by the previous one. It would seem therefore, that the clause in the first Act, respecting the penalty, is not in force, but is virtually repealed by the substitution, in all cases, of the penalty of forty shillings, imposed by the latter Act, and therefore, that this penalty is the only one which can be enforced against the guager, for any offence under either of the Acts. As this latter Act does not direct or authorise any final process, for levying the penalty on a party convicted, it is quite clear, agreeably to what has been already advanced under previous titles, respecting such omission in other Statutes, that, upon any conviction under either of these Acts, the Justice will not be authorised to issue any such final process, either against the goods, or the body of the offender. Directions applicable to prosecutions before the Justice, for the recovery of the penalty imposed by the latter Statute, and also the requisite Forms, which may readily be filled up, according to the offence complained of, will be found under the respective Titles—Information, Summons, Conviction.

Provided, that no prosecution for breach of this Act shall be admitted, unless complaint be made thereof within twelve hours at least after the offence committed. Alteration or repairs, &c.

Sec. 20. It shall not be lawful for any Surveyor with the consent of the owner of the land, to alter any road or street, or make any repairs to any road or street, without the advice and consent of at least two Justices of the Peace.

Clearing roads in Winter.

Sec. 21. The Surveyors of Highways and Commissioners of Streets, shall order and direct the inhabitants in their respective districts and jurisdictions, as often as they shall deem necessary during the winter, to work on the public highways, with their shovels, horses, oxen, and sleds, in order that the roads may be rendered passable; and every inhabitant, refusing or neglecting to obey such order, shall forfeit and pay, for each refusal or neglect, five shillings; Provided, nevertheless, that no inhabitant shall be compelled to furnish more than one day's labour of himself or cattle, for any one fall of snow, or where the fall or drift of snow shall not exceed the depth of twelve inches.

Returns to Sessions.

Sec. 22. Every Surveyor shall on or before the first day of the next General Sessions, for the county or district, which shall happen after the first day of September in every year, make a true and faithful return to the Clerk of the Peace, of all the labour performed under his directions, designating the names of the persons, and the labour performed by each, and of all the commutations and fines received by him, and of the expenditure of the same, and of the amount of monies then remaining in his hands, and shall at the same time pay over such monies to the said Clerk.

Recovery of fines, &c.

Sec. 23. All fines and forfeitures, directed to be paid by such persons as shall neglect to perform the labour, and furnish the carts, trucks, waggons, oxen or horses, required by this Act, for the repairs of roads, streets, or bridges, or rendering the same passable as aforesaid, shall be sued for and recovered, with costs of suit, by the Surveyor or Commissioners, within whose jurisdiction such fine or forfeiture has been incurred, before one or more Justices of the Peace, according to the amount thereof, in like manner as debts of the like amount are ordinarily sued for and recovered; and all such fines and forfeitures, when so recovered, shall be applied to the repairs of the said highways, streets and bridges. Perpetual.

fifth clauses of the Act of the 7 Geo. 4, c. 3. 3 Vol. 241, have been repealed; and by Sec. 2. of the said Act of 7 Vic. c. 64, all Commissioners of Streets, (except in and for the city of Halifax,) now appointed, or hereafter to be appointed, under any Act made or to be made, shall, respectively, keep a regular and exact account of all monies received by them, and of all services performed under their directions, within their respective jurisdictions; and shall, on or before the first day of October in every year, render under their hands, or of the major part of them, to the Clerk of the Peace, for the county or district, to be by him laid before the General Sessions, a general, regular and fair account, in writing, of all monies received and paid by them, in the execution of their duties, for the past year, to the end, that the said accounts may be audited by the said Court of General Sessions. Perpetual.

By the before mentioned Act of 8 Vic. c. 46. Sess. Able of Body. 1845. It is declared, that the term, "able of body," as used in the fifth section of the aforesaid Act of the 7 Vic. Sess. 1844, shall be defined to mean and include, all such persons as are able to do a reasonable day's work for themselves; and that no person who shall be a freeholder, or otherwise sufficiently able to pay the commutation, or hire the labour prescribed and required by the said Act, without injury to his family, shall hereafter be relieved from liability to perform statute labor under the said Act, on the ground of his not being able of body; but every such person shall be bound to perform, or pay for the same number of days labour, in every respect, as if not labouring under such disability of body. Perpetual.

With regard to the performance of labour on the streets Directions. under Commissioners as aforesaid, see the before recited general Act of the 7 Vic. c. 42. Sess. 1844.

As doubts and difficulties have occasionally arisen, on certain points relating to the performance of labour on the roads and streets, it may be well here briefly to afford some information concerning them. With reference to the persons named, as liable to work only for two days, it may be mentioned, that hired servants, comprehend all persons, either on sea or land, serving under agreement or contract of hire, by the year, month, or even week. A minor, means a person between sixteen and twenty one years of age. An apprentice, means one serving under any articles or indentures of apprenticeship, whether to learn a trade, or otherwise, By a journeyman is to be understood, a person working under or for another, at any art or trade, and by a day labour- er, is meant, a person who, altogether or chiefly, labours under daily hiring and wages.

As all fines and forfeitures under the said Acts, are to be sued for and recovered before Justices, as in ordinary cases of debt, the course of proceedings, rules of evidence, costs and all other material points for the recovery of such fines and forfeitures, will be the same as in those cases of private debts, and will be found under the Title,—Summary Trials.

III. ESTABLISHING AND ALTERING ROADS, AND DISPOSING OF OLD ROADS.

By the 4 Vic. c. 3, Sess. 1841. In Counties where there shall be only one General Sessions of the Peace, in the year, it shall be lawful for any Special Sessions, held by five Justices of the Peace, at least, to approve and confirm, upon the same notice, and under the same regulations as are now by law provided and enacted, in respect to the confirmation of the same by a General Sessions of the Peace, any report of Appraisers, appointed to lay out and value any new road or alteration of a road, in the same manner, and with the like effect, as a Court of General Sessions can now do the same. Not limited.

By the 6 Vic. c. 24, Sess. 1843. Where a line of road has been altered, and the old road has been abandoned by the public as a general thoroughfare, it shall be lawful for any one or more of the proprietors of the lands on either side of such abandoned road, to petition the General Sessions for the county, to shut up or otherwise dispose of the same; which petition shall state the names of all persons interested in the lands on either side of the said abandoned road, and shall be accompanied by an affidavit, that the said persons, so interested, have had at least thirty days notice in writing of such application, and that a copy of said notice had been posted up, in at least two public places, in the vicinity of said abandoned road, at least thirty days before the time for hearing the same; and thereupon, it shall be lawful for the Justices of the said General Sessions, after requiring due proof of the service and publication of the said notice or notices as aforesaid, to proceed to hear the parties and their witnesses, for and against the application, or, if the said parties, so served with the said notice or notices, do not appear at the time and place mentioned in the said notice or notices, to hear the party or parties making such application, with his or their witnesses, and thereupon to

Provided, also, that any person or persons, although not interested in any lands adjoining or near to such abandoned road, may be heard against the closing or disposing of such road, or may appeal from such order of the General Sessions as aforesaid.

Sec. 2. If any of the lands, on any such abandoned road, shall have been the property of any deceased person, and be not divided amongst his heirs, the executors or administrators of such deceased person, and the guardian of his minor children, if any, and the person actually in the use and possession of the said land, shall, for the purposes of this Act, be considered the proprietors of such lands. Perpetual.

IV. EXPENDITURE OF PUBLIC MONEY FOR REPAIR OF ROADS AND BRIDGES.

By the 7 W. 4, c. 46, Sec. 3. Sess. 1837. If any two Justices of the peace for the county wherein Road money has been expended by contract or otherwise, shall certify to the Lieutenant Governor or Commander-in-Chief for the time being, that the work upon any road or bridge hath not been faithfully performed, or that any contract or contracts have not been faithfully and honestly executed, then it shall not be lawful for the Commissioner, who has directed the expenditure of the same, to draw the remaining two thirds of the money entrusted to him to expend; but the Court of General Sessions of the said county, shall in such way and manner as shall appear to be most convenient, enquire into the expenditure of such road money, the performance of the labour, and the execution of the said contract, notwithstanding the same may have been performed to the satisfaction of the Commissioner; and the said Court of Sessions shall and they are hereby authorised to certify to the Lieutenant Governor or Commander-in-Chief, the particulars of such expenditure, and also the sum which in the opinion of the said Court ought to be paid to the said Commissioner; for which sum only a warrant shall be granted on the Treasury.

Sec. 5. It shall not be necessary hereafter for Commissioners to procure any certificate or certificates of the performance of Highway labour, in order to entitle them to obtain monies granted for the Road and Bridge service. Duration not limited.

HOMICIDE.

I. JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE.

To make homicide justifiable, it must be owing to some unavoidable necessity, to which the person who kills another, must be reduced, without any manner of fault in himself. And there must be no malice coloured under pretence of necessity. If rioters, or forcible enterers or detainers, stand in opposition to the Justices' lawful warrant, and any of them be slain, it is no felony. So if they stand in opposition to the Sheriff's posse comitatus. And if the Sheriff or Magistrate, or any one coming in aid of them, be killed, it is murder in all. If a man come to burn my house, and I shoot out of my house, or issue out of my house and kill him, it is no felony. 2 Burn's, 783.

II. HOMICIDE BY MISADVENTURE.

THIS kind of killing, is, where a man is doing a lawful act, without intent to hurt another, and death casually ensues—as, where a labourer being at work with a hatchet, the head flies off and kills one who stands by; or, where a third person whips a horse on which a man is riding, whereupon he springs out and runs over a child and kills him, in which case the rider is guilty of homicide by misadventure, and he who gave the blow, of manslaughter. But if a person, riding in the street, whip his horse to put him into speed, and run over a child and kill him, it is homicide, and not by misadventure; and if he ride so, in a press of people, with intent to do hurt, and the horse kills another, it is murder in the rider. It is not sufficient that the act, upon which death ensues, be lawful and innocent in itself. It must be done in a proper manner, and with due caution to prevent mischief. For instance,—A person driving a carriage happens to kill another: if he saw, or had timely notice of the mischief likely to ensue, and yet wilfully drove on, it will be murder. If he might have seen the danger, but did not look before him, it will be manslaughter, for want of due circumspection. But if the accident happened in such a manner, that no want of due care could be imputed to the driver, it will be accidental death, and he will be excused.

A person who has killed another by misadventure, is not bailable by Justices of the Peace, but must be committed ; but if he be taken only on a slight suspicion, the Justices of the Peace may bail him. 2 Burn's, 785-789.

By the 4 Vic. c. 6. Sess. 1841. No punishment or forfeitures shall be incurred by any person who shall kill another by misfortune, or in his own defence, or in any other manner, without felony. Perpetual.

III. HOMICIDE BY SELF-DEFENCE.

HOMICIDE in a man's own defence, seems to be, where one who hath no other possible means of preserving his life, from one who combats with him, on a sudden quarrel, kills the person by whom he is reduced to such an inevitable necessity. An officer who kills one that resists him in the execution of his office, and even a private person that kills one who feloniously assaults him in the highway, may justify the fact, without ever giving back at all. 2 Burn's, 789.

IV. MANSLAUGHTER.

MANSLAUGHTER, is the unlawful killing of another, without malice, either express or implied ; which may be either voluntarily, upon a sudden heat, or involuntarily, but in the commission of some unlawful act. There is no difference between murder and manslaughter, but that murder is upon malice forethought, and manslaughter upon a sudden occasion. As if two meet together, and striving for the wall, the one kill the other, this is manslaughter and felony. And so it is, if they had, upon that sudden occasion, gone into the field and fought, and the one had killed the other ; this had been but manslaughter, and no murder ; because all that followed, was but a continuance of the first sudden occasion, and the blood was never cooled till the blow was given. This offence is not bailable by Justices of the Peace. 2 Burn's, 790.

V. MURDER.

MURDER, is, when a man of sound memory, and of the age of discretion, unlawfully killeth any person, under the King's peace, with malice forethought, either expressed by the party, or implied by law ; so that the party wounded or hurt, die of the wound, or hurt, within a year and a day. When an officer is killed in the execution of his office, it is murder, and the law implies malice. Wherever a person in cool blood, by way of revenge, beats another in such a manner that he afterwards dies thereof, he is guilty of murder; however unwilling he might have been to have gone so far. If a master, by premeditated negligence, or harsh usage, cause the death of his apprentice, it will be murder. It seems to be agreed, that no breach of a man's word or promise, no trespass either to lands or goods, no affront by bare words or gestures, however false or malicious it may be, and aggravated with the most provoking circumstances, will excuse him from being guilty of murder, who is so far transported thereby, as immediately to attack the person who offends him, in such a manner as manifestly endangers his life, without giving him time to put himself upon his guard, if he kills him in pursuance of such an assault; whether the person slain did at all fight in his defence or not. The law so far abhors all duelling in cold blood, that not only the principal who actually kills the other, but also his seconds, are guilty of murder, whether they fought or not. And it is holden, that the seconds of the party slain are likewise guilty as accessaries. They that are present when any man is slain, and do not their best endeavour to apprehend the murderer, or manslayer, shall be fined and imprisoned. 2 Burn's, 791 to 795.

By the 4 Vic. c. 6, Sess. 1841. Every offence which before the commencement of this Act would have amounted to petit treason, shall be deemed to be murder only; and all persons guilty in respect thereof, whether as principals or accessaries, shall be dealt with, indicted, tried and punished, as principals and accessaries in murder.

Sec. 3. Every person convicted of murder, or of being an accessory, before the fact, to murder, shall suffer death as a felon; and every accessory, after the fact, to murder, shall be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding fourteen years.

Sec. 8. Whosoever shall administer to, or cause to be taken by any person, any poison or other destructive thing, or shall stab, cut, or wound any person, or shall, by any means whatsoever, cause to any person any bodily injury, dangerous to life, with intent, in any of the cases aforesaid, to commit murder, shall be guilty of felony, and being convicted thereof shall suffer death.

Sec. 9. Whosoever shall attempt to administer to any person, any poison or other destructive thing; or shall shoot at any person; or shall, in any manner, attempt to discharge any kind of loaded arms at any person, or shall attempt to drown, suffocate, or strangle any person, with intent, in any of the cases, to commit murder, shall, although no bodily injury be effected, be guilty of felony, and be imprisoned for life, or for not less than one year. Perpetual.

HUE AND CRY.

THIS is the old common law process after felons, and such as have dangerously wounded any person; and it hath received great countenance and authority by several Acts of Parliament. When any felony is committed, or any person is grievously and dangerously wounded, or any person assaulted, and offered to be robbed, either in the day or night, the party grieved, or any other, may resort to the constable of the vill; and, 1. Give him such reasonable assurance thereof, as the nature of the case will bear. 2. If he know the name of him that did it, he must tell the constable the same. 3. If he know it not, but can describe him, he must describe his person, or his habit, or his horse, or such circumstances as he knows, which may conduce to his discovery. 4. If the thing be done in the night, so that he knows none of these circumstances, he must mention the number of the persons, or the way they took. 5. If none of all these can be discovered, as where a robbery, or burglary, or felony is committed in the night, yet they are to acquaint the Constable with the fact, and desire him to search in his town for suspected persons, and to make hue and cry after such as may be probably suspected, as being persons vagrant in the same night. the warrant of a Justice of the Peace, when time will permit, yet it is by no means necessary, nor is it always convenient, for the felon may escape before the warrant be obtained. The duty of the constable, is, to raise the power of the town, as well in the night, as in the day, for the prosecution of the offender. And he may search suspected houses, or places, but his entry must be by the doors being open; for he cannot break open doors barely to search, unless the person against whom the hue and cry is levied, be there; and then, it is true, he may; therefore, in case of such a search, the breaking open the door is at his peril, namely—justifiable if he be there, not justifiable, if he be not there. But it must be always remembered, that in case of breaking open a door, there must be first, a notice given to them within, of his business, and a demand of entrance, and a refusal, before the doors can be broken. The constable of the town where the felony was done, as also every officer to whom the hue and cry shall afterwards come, ought to send to every other town round about him, and not to one next town only. And in such cases, it is needful to give notice in writing, (to the pursuers,) of the things stolen, and of the colour and marks thereof, as also to describe the person of the felon, his apparel, horse, and the like, and which way he is gone, if it may be. 2 Burn's, 812.

INCEST.

By 32 G. 2, c. 17. 1 V. 25. Every man and woman who shall carnally know each other, being within the degrees of kindred forbidden in the English Act, made in the thirty-second year of King Henry the Eighth, concerning pre-contracts, and touching degrees of consanguinity, and shall be convicted thereof, before the Supreme Court, or Court of General Quarter Sessions of the Peace, shall be set in the pillory for one hour; and further, shall forfeit the sum of fifty pounds, to the use of His Majesty's Government, or suffer six months imprisonment. Perpetual.

INDIANS.

By 10 G. 4, c. 29. 4 V. 53. The General Sessions, in the several counties and districts, shall make such rules and regulations as they may deem expedient, to prevent any person from selling, or giving in barter or exchange, spirituous liquors, to Indians; and the said rules and regulations, from time to time to change and alter, and to impose such fines, penalties, and forfeitures for the breach thereof, or of any of them, as to the said Justices shall seem fit and proper. Provided, that any such fine, penalty, or forfeiture, do not exceed twenty shillings, for each and every offence.

Sec. 2. All fines and forfeitures, imposed by the said rules and regulations, for any breach thereof, shall be sued for and recovered, before any one Justice, in the same manner as debts under three pounds are now recoverable; and shall be applied, one half thereof to the person who shall sue for the same, and the other half, to the relief of the poor Indians in the town or place wherein such offence shall be committed.

Sec. 3. The General Sessions, on complaint made to them, may, in their discretion, deprive any person convicted of a breach of the said rules and regulations, of his or her license to sell spirituous liquors.

Sec. 4. It shall be lawful for any two Justices of the Peace, to provide for the instruction in reading and writing, of any Indian or Indians who may require it, and, for that purpose, to direct an order to any master or teacher of any public school in the Province, who may be in the receipt of any salary or allowance under any Act or Acts of this Province for supporting and establishing schools, thereby directing such master or teacher to receive into his school, any Indian, male or female, and without fee or reward to instruct and teach such Indian or Indians to read and write; and any master or teacher, who shall refuse or neglect to obey any such order, shall be deprived of any Provincial allowance or salary to which he may be entitled for that year. Perpetual.

It being provided by the foregoing Act, that the fines therein mentioned are to be recovered before one Justice, in the same manner as debts of the like amount, the proceedings and the Forms, in prosecutions for the recovery of such fines, will be the same as in the case of such debts, and will be found under the Title—Summary Trials.

INDICTMENT.

ALL offences of a public nature, that is,—such acts or attempts as tend to the prejudice of the community in general, are indictable. And therefore, not only all actual breaches of the peace, as Riots, Affrays, Assaults, &c. but also every criminal irregularity that tends to disturb the good order of government, or to endanger or annoy the tranquillity, welfare, or convenience of the public, is punishable by indictment. The following therefore are indictable misdemeanors, viz :—

1. All open offences against God and religion, or against public decency, that tend to corrupt the morals of the people. Of this sort, are blasphemous books, or any profane or obscene publications, bawdy houses, &c.

2. All crimes that are mala in se, and of evil example.

3. All practices that tend to endanger the Constitution, as bribery at elections, seditious pamphlets, &c.

4. All contempts of the King, or his Courts.

5. All attempts to corrupt, mislead, or pervert public justice, or to make it a handle of fraud or oppression.

6. All acts and designs against the common occasions, necessities, and general commerce of the public. Such as, unlawful combinations, monopolies, forestalling, engrossing and regrating, adulteration of victuals, and all public cheats, &c., &c. In this class are also included, the several kinds of common nuisances, both positive and negative, namely, either positive acts that annoy the public, or the neglect of some duty which the public have a right to require from the defendant, and by the omission of which a general inconvenience arises. It is an indictable offence, to incite and solicit a servant to steal his master's goods, though the servant do not steal the goods, and no other act be done, except the soliciting and inciting. And such offence is indictable at the Quarter Sessions, as falling in with that class of offences, which, being violations of the law of the land, have a tendency, as it is said to a breach of the peace, and are therefore cognisable by that jurisdiction. It seems to be a good general ground, that wherever a Statute prohibits a matter of public grievance to the liberties and security of a subject, or commands a matter of public convenience, an offender against such Statute, is punishable, not only at the suit of the party grieved, but also by way of indictment, for his contempt of the Statute, unless such method of proceeding do manifestly appear to be excluded by it. But if a Statute extends only to private persons, or if it extend to all persons in general, but chiefly concerns disputes of a private nature, it is said that offences against such Statutes will hardly bear an indictment. It has been held, that every unauthorised obstruction of a highway, to the annoyance of the Kings subjects, is an indictable offence. This was held by Lord Ellenborough C. I., in a case where it was determined to be an indictable offence, for stage coaches to stand plying for passengers in the public streets. Disobeying an order of Sessions, or an order of Justices, is an indictable offence at common law. 3 Burn's, 22, 25.

Where a Statute makes a new offence, by prohibiting and making unlawful, any thing that was lawful before, and appoints a particular method of proceeding, without mentioning an indictment, it seems to be settled at this day, that no indictment can be maintained. But, upon this, the true rule of distinction seems to be, that where the offence intended to be guarded against by a Statute, was punishable before the making of such Statute, prescribing a particular method of punishing it, there such particular remedy is cumulative, and does not take away the former remedy. But where the Statute only enacts, "that the doing any act, not punishable before, shall, for the future, be punishable in such and such a particular manner," there it is necessary that such particular method, by such Act prescribed, must be specifically pursued, and not the common law method of indictment. Wherever there is a prohibitory law, if it be still in force, the proper remedy under it, is by indictment; and where a Statute forbids the commission of any act, the doing it wilfully, is indictable, although it be done without any corrupt motive. It is also a clear and established principle, that when a new offence is created by an Act of Parliament, and a penalty is annexed to it by a separate and substantive clause, it is not necessary for the prosecutor to sue for the penalty, but he may proceed on the prior clause, on the ground of its being a misdemeanor. 3 Burn's, 24, 25.

An indictment will not lie for throwing down skins into the public way, by which a personal injury is accidentally occasioned. Nor for acting, not being qualified, as a Justice of the Peace. Nor for selling, short measure. Nor for excluding commoners, by inclosing. Nor for an attempt to defraud, if neither by false tokens nor conspiracy. Nor for secreting another. Nor for bringing a bastard child into a parish. Nor for keeping a house to receive women with child, and deliver them. 3 Burn's, 24.

INFANTS.

I. HOW FAR ANSWERABLE FOR CRIMES.

By an infant, or minor, is meant, any one who is under the age of twenty one years. It is said, generally, that those who are under a natural disability of distinguishing between good and evil, as infants under the age of fourteen years, which is called the age of discretion, are not punishable by any criminal prosecution whatsoever. But this must be understood with some allowance; for if it appear by the circumstances, that an infant under that age, could distinguish between good and evil, as if one of the age of nine or ten years, kill another, and hide the body, or make excuses, or hide himself, he may be convicted and condemned, and forfeit, as much as if he were of full age. In general, it must be left to the discretion of the Judge, upon the circumstances of the case, how far an infant under that age, hath knowledge to discern between good and evil. Within seven years of age, there can be no guilt whatsoever, of any capital offence, the infant may be chastised by his parents or tutors, but cannot be capitally punished, because he cannot be guilty, and if he be indicted for such an offence, as is in its nature capital, he must be acquitted. An infant may be guilty of forcible entry, in respect of personal actual violence; and the Justices may fine him therefore. 3 Burn's, 55 to 57.

For any notorious breach of the peace, as a riot, battery, or the like, an infant above the age of fourteen, is equally liable to suffer as a person of the full age of twenty-one; and if an infant judicially perjure himself, in point of age, or otherwise, he shall be punished for the perjury; and he may be indicted for cheating with false dice, &c. With regard to capital crimes, the actions of infants, on their attaining fourteen years of age, are subject to the same modes of construction as those of the rest of society, and therefore they are liable to capital punishments as much as if they were of full age. An Act making a new felony, extends not to an infant under the age of fourteen years; but where a fact is made felony, or treason, it extends as well to infants above that age, as to others.

II. THEIR CIVIL INCAPACITIES.

THERE seems to be no precise age fixed, at which infants are excluded from being witnesses; and their admissibility depends upon the sense and reason they entertain of the danger and impiety of falsehood ; which is to be collected from their answers to questions propounded by the Court. It has been agreed by all the Judges, that children, of any age, may be examined on oath, if capable of distinguishing between good and evil ; but they cannot be examined in any case without oath. This is now the established rule in all cases, criminal as well as civil, and whether the prisoner is tried for a capital offence, or for one of an inferior nature. If a child is too young to be sworn, it follows, as a necessary consequence, that any account which it may have given to others, ought not to be admitted. An infant before twenty-one years of age, shall not be sworn on an inquest. A male is of age at twelve years, to take the oath of allegiance. At twenty-one, and not before, persons may bind themselves by any deed, and alien lands, goods, and chattels. Upon which ground, infants may not enter into recognizance to keep the peace, or to be of the good behaviour, but their sureties only. But an infant may bind himself to pay for his necessary meat, drink, apparel, physic, and such like ; and also for his good teaching and instruction, whereby he may profit himself afterwards ; but if he bind himself in an obligation, or other writing with a penalty, for the payment of any of these, that obligation shall not bind him. Neither will assumpsit lie against an infant, on an account stated, for an infant is not competent to state an account. And it is said, that an infant may buy necessaries, but cannot borrow money to buy ; for he may misapply the money, and therefore the law will not trust him, but at the peril of the lender, who must lay it out for him, or see it laid out. And it shall be only for necessaries, and not for matters of luxury, or extravagance ; and if after he comes of age, he is prevailed on, by surprise or other undue means, to give security, yet a Court of Equity, on consideration of circumstances will relieve. 3 Burn's, 57.

III. THEIR CIVIL CAPACITIES.

AN infant, without consent of any other, hath capacity to purchase real estate, for it is intended for his benefit ; and at his full age he may either agree thereunto, and perfect it, or without any cause to be alleged, wave, or disagree to the purchase ; and so may his heirs after him, if he agree not thereunto after his full age. A person is of age to be Executor at seventeen. An infant cannot release a debt. An infant cannot answer but by guardian, but he may sue, either by his next friend, or by guardian. 3 Burn's, 59.

THIS title will treat of the proceedings on informations given before Justices, upon the great variety of Statutes imposing penalties to be recovered, or directing offences to be otherwise punished, or to be enquired into before one Justice or more. In all instances where a Statute directs that the information shall be in writing or on oath, the course prescribed must be observed, and in every case it will be safest and most proper, to take the information in writing, signed by the party complaining; but unless an oath is expressly required, that solemnity need not be observed. Where it is directed, that the information shall be before two Justices, or more, they should be together when it is taken. Upon the information being lodged in the manner requisite, the Justice or Justices should immediately issue the warrant, or summons as the case requires, for causing the party complained of to be brought, or to appear before them. If the information is for a felony or misdemeanor, and indeed in all cases where the charge is at the suit of the King, and also in cases between party and party, where the body of the offender is liable, a warrant to arrest, may and should be issued; but if it is merely by the party grieved, or other informer for the recovery of a penalty, or forfeiture, or damages, a summons to appear and answer to the complaint, is the proper process. This latter should be served a reasonable time, (in general not less than three days,) before the day for appearance. On the party being brought up on a warrant, if it is a charge of felony, on which examinations are to be taken, to be sent into a superior Court, the course to be observed by the Justice or Justices, will be found under the Title,—Examination. When the prosecution is to be heard and determined before the Justice, if at the time appointed for the hearing of the case, the party charged does not appear, after having been duly summoned, the case may be heard and evidence received on the part of the prosecution, and judgment given as though the party were present, unless in cases where other proceedings are directed to be had, or it is otherwise provided by the Statute on which the prosecution is founded. Where the party charged appears, or is brought forward at the time appointed, but no person appears on the part of the prosecution, the information must be dismissed, and the defendant, if in custody, discharged. But where both parties are present for a trial, the Justice or Justices must, in the first instance, cause the party charged to be informed of the nature of the charge against him, by having the information read, or the substance thereof stated to him; and he must then be required to plead to it, or say whether he is guilty, or not guilty. If he pleads guilty, no evidence as to the offence need be produced, but judgment of conviction may immediately be given, and the penalty or other punishment be awarded, and made known to the defendant. If he denies the charge, the prosecutor must be called upon to establish it by evidence. It must here be observed, that if any part of the penalty sought to be recovered, is to be received by the party informing and prosecuting; or he is otherwise to receive any direct gain or benefit from the conviction of the defendant, he cannot be a witness in support of the charge, but it must be proved by other testimony; but if he is not interested in any such manner, he may be admitted to give evidence. After the evidence on the part of the prosecution has been closed, the defendant may state his defence, and produce testimony on his behalf, and after all the evidence on each side has been given, the Justice, who in these prosecutions is invested with the powers of a jury, after a consideration of all the testimony, and of the law relating to the case, must form and declare his judgment, whether of conviction or acquittal. If, as is generally the case, the Statute on which the prosecution is founded, limits a time within which such prosecution is to take place, it must appear in proof that it was commenced within such limited time after the commission of the offence. The Justices in every case, must also be careful, that the fine or other punishment they impose, is precisely such as the Statute, on which the prosecution is founded, directs or warrants, for the offence of which the party is convicted, as no other, or further punishment, can legally be substituted or imposed. Further, and more particular information, if needed, with regard to the Forms, service and return of warrants and summonses, the examination, bailment or commitment of prisoners, the rules of evidence, the proceedings on summary trials before Justices, and as to Convictions, Writs of Distress, and of Execution, will be found throughout this work, under the appropriate Titles. Special Forms of information, for several offences of the higher descriptions, and for some which most frequently occur, are here given; also a general Form, which may readily be filled up, so as to serve in nearly every case, care being taken to set forth therein, all the substantial averments and statements, which, by the Statute on which the prosecution is founded, are made material to constitute the offence charged.

The Act of 3 & 4 G. 3, mentioned in the foregoing clause, is to be found in the 1st Volume of the Provincial Acts, page 90. The only Acts now in force, in amendment thereof, as to prisoners on Execution, are the 57 G. 3, c. 1. 3 V. 1. and the beforementioned Act of 2 W. 4, c. 58. 4 V. 187.

By the 2 Vic. c. 40, Sess. 1839. The former Act of 7 W. 4, c. 47, relating to prisoners confined under mesne process, has been repealed, and the following enactments in place thereof have been substituted by the said Act of 2 Vic. "It shall be lawful for any debtor, arrested and committed to jail upon mesne process, to make application to any Court, Justice or Justices, whatsoever, or whomsoever, to whom, or to which, such debtor, if confined under execution might by law make such application, for an order to be brought before such Court, or Justice, or Justices, in order that such debtor may have an opportunity of taking the benefit of the Acts in force for the relief of insolvent debtors; and such order, it shall be lawful for such Court, or Justice or Justices, to make, in whatever stage the proceedings against such debtor may be; and if, when brought before such Court, or Justice or Justices, after the like notice given as required to be given to the creditor or creditors, in cases where any debtor is confined under execution, such debtor shall submit to examination, if required, and take the oath, make the assignment, and comply with the several requisites of the Acts in force for the relief of insolvent debtors, in the like manner, as if such debtor had been imprisoned under execution; and thereupon, if such Court, Justice, or Justices, shall deem such debtor entitled to his discharge, he shall be discharged accordingly.

Sec. 3. Provided, that if the creditor or creditors shall deem it proper so to do, he or they may proceed to final judgment against the debtor, notwithstanding such discharge from imprisonment under mesne process, and, upon such judgment, to issue execution against the lands and real estate, or the goods and chattels of such debtor, and, if upon such grounds shown to the Court, or Justice, or Justices, by whom, or from which, such mesne process may have been issued, such Court, or Justice, or Justices, shall by any rule or order, permit such creditor or creditors so to do, but not otherwise, to issue execution also against the body of such debtor.

Sec. 4. Such Court, Justice, or Justices, before whom any debtor, imprisoned under mesne process, may be brought as aforesaid, before ordering the discharge of the said debtor, shall require and compel the said debtor, if it shall be deemed just so to do, to sign a plea of confession, or to admit any fact, or facts, document, or documents, or papers whatsoever, as evidence to be used on any trial, or to impose any other terms, as a condition of the discharge of the debtor, as such Court, Justice, or Justices, may deem reasonable and just. Perpetual.

As the Acts already specified or alluded to for the relief of Insolvent Debtors, are very voluminous, and the examinations of such debtors always take place in the county town, where the several Volumes of the Provincial Statutes can readily be referred to, and as gentlemen of the legal profession, on the part both of debtor and creditor, almost invariably attend such examinations, and by whom all the requisite papers are prepared, it is deemed quite unnecessary to recite here, the several provisions of the said Acts. Moreover, it is for many reasons highly desirable to bring this Work within the most moderate compass, consistent with affording to Magistrates, all information really needful to the right discharge of their various duties.

JURIES.

By the 1 Vic. c. 6, Sess. 1838. Every person, not hereinafter exempted, who shall have been actually resident in the county for which he shall be summoned, for twelve calendar months, and shall own, and be possessed of a freehold estate within such county, of the clear yearly value of fifteen pounds, or a personal estate of the value of three hundred pounds, shall be liable to serve as a grand juror, or shall own, and be possessed of a freehold estate within such county, of the clear yearly value of forty shillings, or a personal estate of the value of one hundred pounds, shall be qualified and liable to serve as a petit juror. Provided, that no person shall be liable to serve on Grand or Petit Juries, more than once in three years respectively, unless in such cases where a new summons shall be issued for jurors, to supply the place of jurors not attending as hereinafter directed. [The following persons, among several others, are, by the foregoing clause, exempted from serving on Juries :—Members of the Executive and Legislative Councils, or of the House of Assembly, the Officers of Her Majesty's Courts, the Officers and Clerks belonging to, and Labourers actually employed in the Naval Yard, or Ordnance, or in or to the Departments

Sec. 7. The said General Sessions shall from time to time, alter, or change, any one or more of the said three Justices, and select others in their room, or in the place of any one or more of them, and such Justices, so newly selected, shall be sworn as aforesaid.

Sec. 8. The aforesaid lists of Grand Jurors shall once in every three years, or oftener if the General Sessions shall so direct, be revised by the said three Justices, and the Sheriff, and new lists made up and returned in the manner herein before directed. Temporary.

By the 3 Vic. c. 8, Sess. 1840, Sec. 6. The third Section of the foregoing Act of 1 Vic. c. 6, is repealed, and it is enacted, that it shall be the duty of the three Justices, appointed under the before recited Act, to prepare and return, with the Sheriff or his Deputy, once in every year, in the month of December, to the Prothonotaries or Clerks of the several Courts, lists of all persons not exempted, and qualified to serve on Petit Juries; and, in order to make up such lists, such Sheriffs, Deputy Sheriffs, and Justices, shall have the right of free access to all public documents, in whosoever custody they may be. Provided, that no person returned as a petit Juror, shall be put on the Grand Jury list. Temporary.

JURISDICTION, see JUSTICES, and SESSIONS.

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

JUSTICES of the Peace are judges of record, appointed by the King to be Justices within certain limits, for the conservation of the peace, and for the execution of divers things comprehended within their Commission, and within divers Statutes committed to their charge. And a record or memorial made by a Justice of the Peace, of things done before him, judicially, in the execution of his office, shall be of such credit that it shall not be gainsaid. One man may affirm a thing, and another man deny it, but if a Record once say the word, no man shall be received to aver, or speak against it.

And, therefore, to avoid all contention, while one saith one thing, and another saith another, the law reposes itself, wholly and solely in the report of the Judge. And hereof it cometh, that he cannot make a substitute or deputy in his office, seeing that he may not put over the confidence that is put in him. Great cause therefore have the Justices to take heed, that they abuse not this credit; either to the oppression of the subject by making an untrue record, or the defrauding of the King, by suppressing the record that is true and lawful. Hereof also it cometh, that if a Justice of the Peace, certify to the King's Bench, that any person hath broken the peace in his presence, upon this certificate such person shall be there fined, without allowing him any traverse thereto. 3 Burn's, 108. [Such a Certificate to the Supreme Court of this Province, will doubtless have the same force and effect.]

I. OF THE COMMISSION OF JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

THE Form of the Commission of Justices of the Peace in this Province, at the present day, is as follows:—

We will shall be one,) our Justices aforesaid, to enquire the truth more fully, by the oath of good and lawful men of the aforesaid County, by whom the truth of the matter shall be the better known, of all and all manner of felonies, poisonings, enchantments, sorceries, arts, magic, trespasses, forestallings, regratings, engrossings, and extortions whatsoever, and of all and singular other crimes and offences, of which the Justices of our Peace may or ought lawfully to enquire, by whomsoever, and after what manner soever, in the said County done or perpetrated; or which shall happen to be there done or attempted; and also, of all those, who in the aforesaid County, in companies, against our peace, in disturbance of our people, with armed force, have gone or rode, or hereafter shall presume to go or ride; and also of all those who shall have there lain in wait, or hereafter shall presume to lie in wait, to maim, cut or kill any of our people; and also of all victuallers, and all and singular other persons, who, in the abuse of weights or measures, or in selling victuals, against the Form of the Ordinances and Statutes, or any one of them, therefore made for the common benefit of our Province of Nova Scotia, and our people thereof, have offended, or attempted, or hereafter shall presume, in the said County, to offend or attempt; and also of all sheriffs, bailiffs, stewards, constables, keepers of gaols, and other officers, who, in the execution of their office, about the premises, or any of them, have unduly behaved themselves, or hereafter shall presume to behave themselves unduly; or have been, or shall happen hereafter to be careless, remiss, or negligent in our aforesaid County; and of all and singular articles and circumstances, and all other things whatsoever that concern the premises, or any of them, by whomsoever, or after what manner soever, in our aforesaid County, done, or perpetrated, or which, hereafter, shall there happen to be done or attempted, in what manner soever; and to inspect all indictments whatsoever, so before you taken, or before others late our Justices of the Peace in the aforesaid county, made or taken, and not yet determined; and to make and continue processes thereupon, against all and singular the person or persons so indicted, or who before you, hereafter, shall happen to be indicted, until they can be taken, or to be taken, surrender themselves, or be outlawed; and to hear and determine, all and singular the felonies, poisonings, enchantments, sorceries, arts, magic, assaults, battenies, breaches of the peace, trespasses, forestallings, regratings, ingrossings, extortions, unlawful assemblies, indictments aforesaid, and all and singular other the premises, according to the Laws and Statutes of England, and according to the Laws and usages of our said Province of Nova Scotia, not being repugnant thereto, as in the like case it has been accustomed or ought to be done; and the same offenders, and every of them, for their offences, by fines, ransoms, amerciaments, forfeitures, and other means, as according to the law aforesaid, or Form of the Ordinances and Statutes aforesaid, it has been accustomed or ought to be done, to chastise and punish.

Provided always, that if a case of difficulty upon the determination of any of the premises, before you, our said Justices of the Peace, or any two or more of you, shall happen to arise, then, let judgment in nowise be given thereon, before you, or any two or more of you, unless in the presence of the Chief Justice of our said Province of Nova Scotia, for the time being, or of some one of our Justices of our Supreme Court for the same Province, or of one of our Justices, appointed to hold the Assizes in the aforesaid County.

And, therefore, we command you, and every of you, that to keeping the Peace, Ordinances, Statutes, and all and singular other the premises, you diligently apply yourselves; and that, at certain days and places, which you or any such two or more of you, as is aforesaid, shall appoint for these purposes, into the premises ye make inquiries; and all and singular the premises hear and determine, and perform, and fulfil them in the aforesaid form, doing therein what to justice appertains, according to the Law and custom of England, and according to the Laws and usages of our said Province of Nova Scotia, not being repugnant thereto. Saving to us, the amerciaments, and other things to us therefrom belonging; and we command, by the tenor of these presents, our Sheriff of our said County of —, that at certain days and places, which you, or any such two or more of you as is aforesaid, shall make known to him, he cause to come before you, or such two or more of you as aforesaid, so many, and such good and lawful men of our said county, (as well within liberties as without,) by whom the truth of the matter in the premises, shall be the better known and inquired into; lastly we have assigned you the said A. B., Esquire, Keeper of the Rolls of our Peace in our said County; and therefore you shall cause to be brought before you, and your said fellows, at the days and places aforesaid, the writs, receipts, processes, and indictments aforesaid, that they may be inspected, and by a due course determined as is aforesaid.

In witness whereof, we have caused these our Letters to be made patent. Witness our truly &c., &c., at Halifax, &c.

Know ye that we have assigned you.] This is founded on the English Statute of the 1 Ed. 3, c. 16, by which, "For the better keeping and maintenance of the peace, the King wills, that in every county, good men and lawful, which be no maintainers of evil, or barretors in the country, shall be assigned to keep the peace." From this Act we are to date that great alteration in the English Constitution, whereby the election of Conservators of the peace was taken from the people, and translated to the assignment of the King. And here we may observe, that the Commission hath two parts, or consists of two different assignments: By this first assignment, any one or more Justices have as well all the ancient power, touching the peace, which the Conservators of the peace had at the common law, as also that whole authority which the Statutes have since added thereto. The second assignment defines their powers in Sessions. [See Title—Sessions.]

Jointly and severally, and every one of you.] whatsoever any one Justice alone may do, the same also may lawfully be done by any two or more Justices; but where the law gives authority to two, there one alone cannot execute it. And yet where a Statute appoints a thing to be done by two Justices, or more, if the offence be any misdemeanor, or matter against the peace, there, upon complaint made of the offence to any one of those Justices, it seems that one of them may grant out his warrant to attach the offender, and to bring him before the same Justice, and the other Justice, so appointed, (at some convenient place,) and then they to hear and determine the same. But it seems that when a thing is appointed by any Statute to be done, by or before one person certain, such thing cannot be done by or before any other; and by such express designation of one, all others are excluded, and their proceedings therein are, coram non iudice.

Our Justices.] In that the King calls them our Justices, their authority determines of course by his death or demise. But by the 1 Anne, St. 1, c. 8, § 2.—No patent, or grant of any office or employment, shall determine by the King's death or demise, but shall continue in force for six months after, unless in the mean time made void by the successor. Also, before his death or demise the King may determine the Commission at his pleasure; and that either expressed, as by writ under the great seal, or by implication, by making a new Commission and leaving out the former Justices names. But until notice, or publishing of the new commission, the acts of the former Justices are good in law.

To keep our Peace.] By these words, our peace, when the King dies, the surety of the peace is discharged, for when he is dead, it is not his peace.

In our County of —] Here are two considerations: one is, how far a Justice can act when he is out of the county; and the other is, when he is in the county, how far his power extends to other counties. As to the former case, when he is out of the county, it is said, that the Justices have no coercive power when out of the county; and therefore, that an order of bastardy, or for payment of labourer's wages, made by them out of the county, is not binding. Yet it is said, that recognizances, and informations voluntarily taken before them, in any place, are good. And Lord Hale says, that a Justice of the Peace may do a ministerial act out of his county, as examining a party robbed, as to his knowledge of the felons, but that he cannot do a compulsory act, as committing a person for not giving recognizance. Justices, either of the county from which tenants fraudulently remove goods, or of that in which they are concealed, may convict the offenders in their respective counties. Unless facts are stated to make the contrary appear, the Court always presumes in favour of the acts of inferior jurisdictions. 3 Burn's, 115-16.

By the 54 G. 3, c. 15, § 7. 2 V. 122. In case any person against whom a warrant shall be issued, by any Justice or Justices of the Peace of any county, district or place out of the jurisdiction of the Justice or Justices granting such warrant, it shall be lawful for any Justice or Justices of the Peace, of the county, district, or place, where such person shall escape, go into, be, or reside, and such Justice or Justices, is, and are, hereby required, upon proof being made upon oath of the handwriting of the Justice or Justices granting such warrant, to indorse his or their name or names on such warrant, which shall be a sufficient authority to the person or persons bringing such warrant, and to all other persons to whom such warrant was originally directed, to execute such warrant in such other county, district or place, out of the jurisdiction of the Justice or Justices granting such warrant as aforesaid, and to apprehend and carry such offender or offenders before the Justice who indorsed the warrant, or some other Justice or Justices of such other county, district, or place where such warrant was indorsed; and in case the offence shall be bailable in law, and the offender shall be ready and willing to give bail, for his appearance at the next Sitting of the Supreme Court, or next General Quarter Sessions of the peace, to be held in and for the county or district within

And in case the offence for which such offender or offenders shall be so apprehended and taken, be not bailable in law, or such offender or offenders shall not give bail for his or their appearance as aforesaid, to the satisfaction of the Justice or Justices before whom he or they shall be brought as aforesaid, then, and in that case, the said constable or other officer, shall carry and convey such offender or offenders before one of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace of the county, district or place where such offence was committed, there to be dealt with according to law." Perpetual.

And to keep, and cause to be kept, all Ordinances and Statutes for the good of the Peace.] It seems certain, that by virtue hereof, they may execute all Statutes whatsoever, made for the better keeping of the peace, as well those Statutes made before the reign of Ed. 3, in whose time Justices of the Peace were first instituted, as those made since. The power however of Justices of the Peace in relation to those former Statutes, seems entirely to depend on the King's Commission, and yet hath always been unquestionably allowed. From whence it appears, that regularly the King, by his commission, may authorise whom he pleases to execute an Act of Parliament. But if no power be expressly given in any such Statute, to any one Justice alone, he cannot proceed upon it, but he may prefer the cause at the Sessions, and work it to a presentment upon the Statute. But besides the Statutes relating to the peace, there are also many other Statutes which are not specified in the Commission, and yet are committed to the charge and care of the Justices of the Peace, by the express words of such Statutes; and all such Statutes are to them a sufficient warrant and commission of themselves, although they be not recited in the commission, and are to be executed by them, according as the same Statutes themselves do severally prescribe and set down.

And for the quiet government of our people.] Of our people;—yet it seems, that the subjects of a foreign prince, coming into the country, and living under the protection of our King, shall be subject to, and have the benefit of the laws, in respect of the local allegiance which they owe to him.

Concerning their bodies.] If a man is in fear that another will hurt his servants, or cattle, or other goods, the surety of the peace shall not be granted; but if one threatens to hurt a man's wife, or child, he may crave the peace, by virtue of these words.

Have used threats.] It should seem, from the many causes which from time to time have been adjudged sufficient to bind to the good behaviour, that this expression is not to be understood of words only, but of threatening actions likewise; or any thing whereby a man has just cause to apprehend the burning of his houses, or some bodily hurt to be done to him.

To find sufficient security.] This is done by recognizance; by a reasonable intendment of law, more than by any especial law in that case provided.

For the peace or their good behaviour.] A Justice of the Peace is authorised to require surety of the peace for a limited period, (e. g. two years,) according to his discretion, and that he need not bind the party over to the next Sessions only.

In our prison.] The King's prison is the common gaol of the county. 3 Burn's, 118–121. [NOTE.—But by sundry Statutes, Justices of the Peace are authorised to commit for certain offences, either to the gaol, or to the house of correction, according to their discretion.]

A Justice of the Peace has authority to issue his warrant for the arrest of a party, charged with having published a libel, and upon his neglect to find sureties to answer the charge, may commit him to prison, there to remain, till delivered by due course of law. 3 Burn's, 254–799. The publishers and distributors of impious and seditious libels, may be instantly taken up by a warrant of a Justice, and held to bail. 3 Burn's, 253, 255.

We have also assigned you and every two or more of you.] Here begins the second part of the Commission, or the second assignment: all the business within which assignment belongs to the Sessions of the Peace. And by this it appears, that two Justices may hold a Sessions, but that one Justice cannot.

By the oath of good and lawful men.] That is, by a Jury sworn.

Of all and all manner of Felonies.] That is, either by the Common Law, or by Statute. Though the Commission doth not mention murders, and manslaughters, by express name, but only felonies generally, yet by these general words, they have power to hear and determine murder and manslaughter; and also may take an indictment of a se defendendo. But though the Justices have this power, yet they do not ordinarily proceed to hear and determine these offences, and rarely other offences without clergy. In cases of great moment, they bind over the prosecutors, and bail the party, ifailable, to the next gaol delivery; but in smaller matters, as petit larceny, and some cases within clergy, they bind over to the Sessions. But this is only a point of discretion and convenience, not because they have not jurisdiction of the crime. So, also, an inquisition of self-murder, if the body cannot be seen, and so not enquired of by the coroner, may be taken before Justices of the Peace, for it is a felony, and within the extent of their commission. So, also, if a person hath committed treason, though the Justices have no cognizance of it as treason, yet they have cognizance of it as a felony, and as a breach of the peace; and therefore, a Justice of the Peace, upon information on oath, may issue his warrant to take the traitor, and may take his examination and commit him to prison.

Trespases.] This is founded on the Statute of the 34 Ed. 3, c. 1, which enacts, that the Justices assigned, shall have power to restrain the offenders, rioters, and all other barrators, and to chastise them according to their trespass or offence. And upon this Mr. Hawkins observes, that the word trespass, is of very general extent, and in a large sense, not only comprehends all inferior offences which are properly and directly against the peace, as assaults and batteries, and such like, but also all others which are so, only by construction, as all breaches of the law in general, are said to be. Yet it hath been settled, that Justices of the Peace have no jurisdiction over forgery, or perjury at the common law, for inasmuch as the chief end of the institution of these Justices, was, for the preservation of the peace against personal wrongs, and open violence, and the word trespass in its most proper and natural sense, is taken for such kind of injuries, it shall be understood in that sense only in the said Statute and Commission; or at the most to extend to such other offences only, as have a direct and immediate tendency to cause such breaches of the peace, as libels and such like, which, on this account, have been adjudged indictable before Justices of the Peace. 3 Burn's, 121-3.

Forestallings, Regratings, Engrossings.] The operation of the Statutes of this Province against these offences, is suspended at present, but they still continue offences, punishable by indictment at the common law.

Extortions.] The intent of this word, is, to enquire of those who have done excessive wrongs; for wrong done by any one is properly trespass, but excessive wrong done by any one is called extortion; and this is more properly in officers, as sheriffs, mayors, bailiffs, escheators, and other officers whatsoever, (as well spiritual as temporal,) who, by colour of their office, have done great oppression and excessive wrong to the King's subjects, in taking excessive rewards, or fees for doing their offices. The Justices have no express power given to them over this offence, by any Statute; upon which Mr. Hawkins observes, that Justices of the Peace have jurisdiction of all inferior crimes within their Commission, whether such crimes be mentioned in any Statute concerning them, or not, for that all such crimes are either directly, or at least, by consequence and judgment of law, against the peace; and upon this ground, principally, he says, as he apprehended, it was lately resolved, that they may take an indictment of extortion.

And of all and singular other crimes and offences, of which the Justices of our Peace may, or ought, lawfully to enquire.] Which general words, seems to include the vast number of offences over which they have a jurisdiction given to them, by many Statutes, and which are not particularly mentioned in the Commission.

And also of all those, who in companies, against our Peace, in disturbance of our people, with armed force, have gone or rode.] By these words, they are to enquire of riots, routs, and all unlawful assemblies. 3 Burn's, 123.

Weights or Measures.] Selling by false weights or measures, is a misdemeanor at common law, indictable before Justices of the Peace. [Also, see Title—Weights and Measures.]

And also, of all sheriffs, bailiffs, stewards, constables, keepers of gaols, and other officers who, in the execution of their offices, have unduly behaved themselves.] This clause is as ancient as the 4 Ed. 3, c. 2, on which it is founded. And it hath been suffered to remain in the Commission, not as of any necessity at all, (since it is incident to every Court of Record to do correction upon whatsoever officers and ministers do serve them,) but only for the plainer declaration of the power of these Justices in that behalf, and for the more assured terrifying of such as shall, either of contempt or negligence, do that which is amiss.

And to inspect all Indictments so before you taken.] But they cannot proceed upon indictments taken before Coroners, or Justices of Oyer and Terminer, or gaol-delivery.

Or before other our late Justices.] This is founded on the Stat. 11 H. 6, c. 6, which enacts, that no indictment, plea, suit, or process, shall be discontinued by a new commission, but the Justices in the new commission, after they shall have the records of the same pleas and processes before them, shall have power to continue the said pleas and processes, and to hear and finally determine the same, as the former Justices might have done.

And to make and continue processes.] This is by venire, distringas, capias, or exigent, as the case shall be. And it differs from a warrant, in that a warrant is only to attach and convene the party, before indictment, and may be either in the name of the King or of the Justice; but the process issues after indictment, and must be in the name of the King only.

Until they can be taken, surrender themselves, or be outlawed.] For the process is sent out to this end, that either the party shall come in to answer and to be justified by the law, or else that he shall, for his contumacy, be deprived of the benefit of the law.

Hear and determine.] This power was first given to them by the Statute of the 18 Ed. 3, c. 2, and afterwards confirmed and enlarged by divers other Statutes. Yet this clause doth not in propriety make the Justices of the Peace Justices of Oyer and Terminer, because that is a distinct commission; and therefore a Statute limiting an offence to be heard and determined before Justices of Oyer and Terminer, gives not the power therein to Justices of the Peace. And thereupon it is said, that although they have power to hear and determine felonies, yet they cannot deliver a person suspected thereof, by proclamation, (as Justices of gaol-delivery may,) until an inquisition taken; but if an inquisition be taken and an ignoramus found, they may deliver him, as it seems. Likewise, although Commissioners of Oyer and Terminer may indict and try at the same Sessions, yet it hath been ruled otherwise in cases of Justices of the Peace, unless by consent: but certainly, constant usage and learned opinion, must give that exposition upon those resolutions, that it must extend only to popular actions, or indictments for misdemeanors, and not to cases of felony.

By fines, ransoms, amerciaments, forfeitures, and other means,—to chastise and punish,] But the Justices may not award any recompense to the party wronged, otherwise than by persuasion. Nevertheless, these words are inserted, not as of necessity, (for the punishment of all offenders is implied in the word determine,) but for the plainer declaration of the Justice's power, and for the more assured terrifying of offenders.

If a case of difficulty shall happen to arise.] That is, a difficulty in point of law.

Then let judgment in novise be given.] But yet if they list to proceed without the Judge's advice, their judgment is not void; but it stands good and effectual until it be reversed by a superior Court.

At certain days and places.] That is, when they hold their Sessions, which they are empowered and required to do by several Statutes. 3 Burn's, 124-5.

For further particulars respecting the powers and duties of Justices in Sessions, and their manner of proceeding therein, see Title,—Sessions.

By 4 Vic. c. 4. Sess. 1841. Where any felony or misdemeanor shall be committed on the boundaries of two or more counties, or within 500 yards of any such boundary, or shall be begun in one county and completed in another, such offence may be dealt with, enquired of, tried, determined and punished, in any of the said counties, in the same manner as if it had been actually and wholly committed therein. Perpetual.

II. OATHS OF OFFICE TO BE TAKEN BY JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

ON renewing or issuing a Commission of the Peace, there comes a writ of Dedimus Potestatum, directed to some ancient Justice (or other,) to take the oaths of office of the person or persons named in such Commission. In addition to the oath of office, the oaths of allegiance and supremacy are usually taken. The form of the Oath of Office is as follows: "Ye shall swear, that as Justice of the Peace in the county of —, in all articles in the King's commission to you directed, you shall do equal right to the poor and to the rich, after your cunning, wit, and power, and after the laws and customs of the realm, and Statutes thereof made; [and after the Statutes of this Province,] and ye shall not be of coun-

Ye shall not let for gift, or other cause, but well and truly ye shall do your office of Justice of the Peace in that behalf : And that you take nothing, for your office of Justice of the Peace to be done, but of the King, and fees accustomed, and costs limited by Statute. And ye shall not direct, nor cause to be directed, any warrant, (by you to be made,) to the parties, but ye shall direct them to the Sheriff of the said county or other the King's officers or ministers, or other indifferent persons, to do execution thereof. So help you God."

This oath seems to be founded on the Statute of the 13 R. 2, c. 7, which enacts, that the Justices shall be sworn duly and without favour, to keep, and put in execution, all the Statutes and Ordinances touching their office. 3 Burn's, 125.

III. SOME GENERAL DIRECTIONS RELATING TO JUSTICES OF THE PEACE, NOT FALLING UNDER ANY PARTICULAR TITLE OF THIS BOOK.

REGULARLY, Justices of the Peace ought not to execute their office in their own case, but cause the offenders to be convened or carried before other Justices or desire the aid of some other Justice being present. The Mayor of Hereford was laid by the heels, for sitting in judgment in a cause where he himself was lessor of the plaintiff, in ejectment, though he by the Charter was sole judge of the Court. Neither can a Justice act at Sessions, where a matter, which concerns any office he may hold, comes in question. An order of removal of a poor person was quashed, because one of the Justices who made the order, was, at the time, an inhabitant of the place from whence the pauper was removed, and charged to the poor rate there. And by the Court, no rule of law, or reason is more established, than that a judge ought to stand disinterested.

Yet in some cases, if the Justice shall act in his own cause, it seems to be justifiable, as when a Justice shall be assaulted, or, (in the doing his office especially,) shall be abused to his face, and no other Justice present with him ; then it seems he may commit such offender, until he shall find sureties for the peace or good behaviour, as the case shall require. But if any other Justice be present, it were fitting to desire his aid. If a Justice exceed his authority in granting a warrant, yet the officer must execute it, and is indemnified for so doing; but if it be a case in which he hath no jurisdiction, or in a matter whereof he hath no cognizance, the officer ought not to execute such warrant, so that the officer is bound to take notice of the authority and jurisdiction of the Justice. [But see, hereafter, the Act respecting the protection of Justices, Constables, and other officers, with regard to the execution of warrants.] If a Justice send a warrant to a constable to take up one for slander, or the like, the Justice hath no jurisdiction in such cases, and the constable ought to refuse the execution of it.

Justice not to act in his own case.

Assaulting or abusing a Justice.

Where Justices should be together when acting jointly.

Where an Act of Parliament gives power to two Justices, finally to hear and determine any offence, or when they are to do any other judicial act, as making an order of bastardy, adjudging the settlement of a pauper, appointing overseers of the poor, allowing the indentures of a parish apprentice, and such like, it is necessary that they should be both together, to hear the evidence and to consult together.

In respect to granting a Supersedeas in bailable offences, it is said that the legality of it is very doubtful, and that at any rate it cannot hold where the party is convicted, in the first instance, as a rogue and vagabond, and committed in execution, for there he is clearly not bailable.

Hearing a party before convicting him.

In summary convictions, the party ought to be heard, and for that purpose ought to be summoned in fact; and if the Justice proceed against a person without summoning him, it would be a misdemeanor in him, for which an information would lie. But before an information is granted, the Court will first require that the conviction be removed before them.

When a Justice is convicted on an Information, he must appear in Court in person to receive judgment.

Refusing to act.

If a Justice of the Peace refuses to proceed in a cause depending before him, a mandamus may be issued to compel him to do so, and to determine the matter.

Making Records.

Where a special authority is given to Justices out of Sessions, it ought to appear in their orders that such authority was exactly pursued. In all cases where Justices may hear and determine out of Sessions, (viz. on their own view, or confession, or oath of witnesses,) the Justices ought to make a record in writing under their hands, of all the matters and proofs; which record, notwithstanding, in many cases they may keep by them. In all cases of convictions, the Justices should return the convictions to the next Sessions.

Where a Warrant is to be issued.

saith thus: It seems that anciently no one Justice could legally make out a warrant for an offence against a penal Statute, or other misdemeanor, cognizable only by a Sessions of two or more Justices, for that one single Justice hath no jurisdiction of such offence; and regularly, those only who have jurisdiction over a cause can award process concerning it, yet the long, constant, universal, and uncontrolled practice of Justices of the Peace, seems to have altered the law in this particular, and to have given them an authority in relation to such arrests, not now to be disputed. However, it seems best in ordinary cases, and more consonant to the practice of the Superior Courts, to issue a summons against the offender, and not a warrant in the first instance: unless in cases of felony, or where the offender in other respects is to suffer corporal punishment. 3 Burn's, 129 to 131. [NOTE. In these last mentioned cases, a warrant, in the first instance, is the only proper process.]

An Attorney has no right to interfere with the duties of a Magistrate, in his own Justice room, and therefore, where a criminal information was moved for against two Justices, on the ground of their having deprived the defendant of legal assistance, by excluding his Attorney from the Justice room, (no corrupt motive being imputed to the Magistrates,) the Court refused to interfere. One Judge said, it might be a different thing where counsel are employed, but an Attorney, in all events, has no right to be present. 3 Burn's, 133.

By the 39 G. 3, c. 10. 1 V. 409. "If any Justice in General Sessions, shall quit the Court, without leave, before the business of the day is completed, his name shall not be entered by the Clerk, as present on that day. The names of Justices, who wholly neglected to attend at any term of the General Sessions, shall be returned into the Supreme Court by the Clerk of the Peace, and if no sufficient excuse is given, they shall be reported to the Governor and removed from office. Justices are required and bound to attend every term of the Supreme Court, on being summoned by the Sheriff fourteen days previous. Nothing in the Act to extend to such as are Justices of the Court of Common Pleas." Perpetual.

By the 7 W. 4, c. 15, Sess. 1837. "No Magistrate, or Justice of the Peace, (except in the town of Halifax,) shall be allowed or considered eligible to hold; or take out, any tavern license for the retail of ardent spirits. Temporary."

IV. THEIR INDEMNITY AND PROTECTION BY THE LAW, IN THE RIGHT EXECUTION OF THEIR OFFICE; AND THEIR PUNISHMENT FOR THE OMISSION OF IT.

A JUSTICE of the Peace is strongly protected by the law, in the just execution of his office. In the first place he is not to be slandered or abused. In an action by a Justice of the Peace, for these words spoken to him in a discourse concerning the execution of his office—You are a rascal, a villain, and a liar, the Court determined, that though rascal and villain were uncertain, yet being joined with liar, and spoken of a Justice of the Peace, they did import a charge of acting corruptly and partially, and, therefore, there ought to be judgment for the plaintiff.

Where Justices may commit for abuse.

It has been determined, that an indictment lies for saying of a Justice in the execution of his office—"You are a rogue and a liar." In this case the Court said,—The allowing the defendant might be committed, shews that the words were indictable. It is true the Justice may make himself judge, and punish him immediately: but still, if he thinks proper to proceed less summarily, by way of indictment, he may. The true distinction is, that were the words are spoken in the presence of the Justice, there he may commit; but where it is behind his back, the party can only be indicted for a breach of the peace.

Whether a Magistrate, not sitting as Chairman of a Court, but in his private office, can commit for a contempt, does not appear to have been expressly decided. Clearly, however, such a commitment by way of punishment, made by word of mouth only, without warrant in writing, cannot be supported, for it is clearly laid down by Hawkins and Lord Hale, that such a commitment by a Magistrate, must be made by warrant in writing. 3 Burn's, 134.

The following Forms of Commitment for insulting a Justice in the execution of his office, are given by Mr. Toone, and Mr. Chitty, and are also to be found in 3 Burn's, 135-6.

Where a Justice is, or is not punishable.

A Justice of the Peace is not punishable at the suit of the party, but only at the suit of the King, for what he doth as Judge, in matters which he hath power, by law, to hear and determine without the concurrence of any other; but in cases where he proceeds ministerially, rather than judicially, if he act corruptly, he is liable to an action at the suit of the party, as well as to an information at the suit of the King.

Where an information was moved for against two Justices, for arbitrarily and unreasonably refusing to grant an alehouse license, Ld. Mansfield, Ch. J., declared, that the Court of King's Bench hath no power, or claim, to review the reasons of Justices of the Peace upon which they form their judgments in granting licences, by way of appeal from their judgments, or overruling the discretion in that behalf entrusted to them. But if it clearly appear, that the Justices have been partially, maliciously, or corruptly influenced in the exercise of this discretion, and have, (consequently,) abused the trust reposed in them, they are liable to prosecution, by indictment or information, or even possibly by action, if the malice be very gross and injurious. If their judgment is wrong, yet their heart and intention pure, they cannot be punished. And he declared, that he should always lean towards favoring them, unless partiality, corruption, or malice should clearly appear. And another of the Judges explicitly stated, that the rule is invariable, that the Court will never interpose to punish a Justice of the Peace for a mere error in judgment. The rule to shew cause was discharged, with costs.

In another case, the Court were most explicit in their declaration, that even where a Justice acts illegally, yet if he has acted honestly and candidly, without oppression, malice, revenge, or any bad view or ill intention whatsoever, the Court will never punish him in the extraordinary mode of an Information, but leave the parties complaining to their ordinary legal remedy, or method of prosecution, by action or by indictment.

But if they act improperly, and knowingly, information shall be granted, as in two cases for granting ale licences, previously refused by other Justices on good grounds, informations were granted.

And a Justice shall not be liable to be punished both ways, that is, both criminally and civilly; but before the Court will grant an information, they will require the party to relinquish his civil action, if any such is commenced.

Justice of the Peace, for any thing done by him by virtue of his office, shall be laid in the county or district where the fact complained of was committed, and the Justice or Justices may plead the general issue to such action, and give the special matter in evidence.

Sec. 2. No writ shall be sued out, nor any summons or process at the suit of a subject shall be served on any Justice, for any thing done by him in the execution of his office, until notice of such intended writ or process shall have been delivered to him, or left at his usual place of abode, at least one calendar month before the suing out or serving the same; in which notice shall be plainly expressed, the cause of action which such party has, or claims to have, against such Justice, and the party, or his Attorney, shall affix his name and place of abode to the said notice.

Sec. 3. Such Justice may at any time within one calendar month after such notice given, tender amends to the party complaining, or to his Attorney; and if the same is not accepted, he may plead such tender in bar to the action, together with the plea of not guilty, and any other plea with leave of the Court; and if upon issue joined, the jury shall find the amends tendered to have been sufficient, they shall give a verdict for the defendant; and in such case, or if the plaintiff shall be nonsuit, or shall discontinue, or if judgment be given for the defendant upon demurrer, the Justice shall be entitled to the like costs as if he had pleaded the general issue only. And if the Jury shall find that no amends, or not sufficient, were tendered, and also against the defendant on such other plea, they shall give a verdict for the plaintiff, and such damages as they shall think proper, which he shall recover with costs.

Sec. 4. No such plaintiff shall recover any verdict against such Justice in any case, when the action shall be grounded on any act of the defendant as Justice of the Peace, unless it appear on the trial, that the action is laid in the county or district where the fact complained of was committed, and unless also it is proved on the trial of such action, that such notice was given as aforesaid; but, in default thereof, such Justice shall recover a verdict and costs as aforesaid.

Sec. 5. If the Justice shall neglect to tender amends, or shall have tendered insufficient, before the action brought, he may, by leave of the Court, before issue joined, pay into Court such sum as he shall see fit; whereupon such proceedings and judgment shall be had as in other actions where the defendant is allowed to pay money into Court.

Sec. 6. And no evidence shall be permitted to be given by the plaintiff, on the trial of any cause of action, except such as is contained in the notice aforesaid.

Sec. 10. No action shall be brought against any Justice, for any thing done in the execution of his office, unless commenced within six months after the act committed. Perpetual.

By the 10 G. 4, c. 44. 4 V. 69. "In actions against Justices, for any of their proceedings under any British or Provincial Statutes, they may give all such proceedings in evidence, under the plea of the general issue, or any other brief plea. Perpetual.

Magistrates are protected, in an action of trespass, by a subsisting conviction, good upon the face of it.

In an action against a Magistrate for a malicious conviction, it is not sufficient for the plaintiff to shew that he was innocent of the office of which he was convicted, but he must also prove, from what passed before the Magistrate, that there was a want of probable cause.

Refusing to act.

If a Justice will not, on complaint to him made, execute his office, or shall misbehave in his office, the party grieved may move the Court of K. B. for an information, and afterwards may apply to have him put out of the Commission. The Court will grant an information against a Justice, as well for refusing, or criminally neglecting to act on any given occasion, as for misconducting himself in his office. Any fraud or misconduct imputed to Magistrates, in proceeding notwithstanding the issuing of a certiorari, may be a ground for a criminal proceeding against them, and Ld. Kenyon said he believed there were instances in which a criminal information had been granted against Magistrates acting in Sessions. 3 Burn's, 143-4.

But the Court refused a criminal information against a Magistrate, for returning to a writ of certiorari, a conviction of a party, in another and more formal shape than that in which it was first drawn up, and of which a copy had been delivered to the party convicted, by the Magistrate's Clerk, the conviction returned, being warranted by the facts.

assault.

An information was moved for against the defendant, for assaulting and beating a Justice of the Peace in the execution of his office. On shewing cause, the question was, whether the defendant could justify, the Justice having struck him first. Lord Hardwick, C. J. said, "He may justify it, for though a Magistrate is protected by the law, whilst he is in the execution of his office, yet in this instance he hath forfeited that protection, by beginning a breach of the Peace himself. 3 Burn's, 141.

The acts of a Justice of the Peace, who has not duly qualified, are not absolutely void; and therefore, persons seizing goods under a warrant of distress, signed by a Justice who had not taken the oaths at the General Sessions, nor delivered in the certificate required, are not trespassers. 3 Burn's, 790.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

By 19 G. 3, c. 10. 1 V. 217. Upon complaint on oath made before any two Justices of the Peace, of any wrongful or unlawful holding over, of any tenant, after the expiration of his term, of any houses, lands, or tenements, or other possessions where such Justices reside, after possession demanded, and warning having been given to such tenant, in manner as is hereafter mentioned, to remove, it shall and may be lawful for such Justices, by warrant, to cause such tenant or tenants, or other person in possession, to be arrested and detained in custody, until he, she, or they, find sufficient security for personal appearance at the next Supreme Court, there to answer such complaint.

By Sec. 2. The Supreme Court shall enquire into the cause of detention, and if, upon trial by a Jury, it shall be found to be illegal, the Court, by writ, shall cause the owner to be repossessed of his property; and the party grieved, may, by action, recover treble rent and costs.

Sec. 3. When any house or tenement shall be let by the year, three months warning shall be given, and when by the month, one month's warning, and when by the week, one week's warning shall be given, to the tenant in possession. Perpetual.

There is no distinction between houses and lands, as to the time of giving notice to quit. The notice ought to be in writing, and it should be certain and clear, and not optional or ambiguous. 1 Burn's, 725.

LARCENY.

I. OF LARCENY IN GENERAL.

THE true meaning of larceny is, "The felonious taking the property of another, without his consent, and against his will, with intent to convert it to the use of the taker." It is of the essence of robbery or larceny, that the goods be taken against the will of the owner. Grand larceny, is a felonious and fraudulent taking and carrying away by any person, of the mere personal goods of another. The offence has been well defined to be, "the wrongful taking of goods, with intent to spoil the owner of them." 3 Burn's, 176.

Felonious and fraudulent taking.] Felony is always accompanied with an evil intention, and therefore shall not be imputed to a mere mistake or misanimadversion; as where persons break open a door, in order to execute a warrant, which will not justify such a proceeding; for in such case there is no felonious intention. For it is the mind that makes the taking of another's goods to be felony, or a bare trespass, but because the variety of circumstances is so great, and the complication thereof so mingled, that it is impossible to prescribe all the circumstances evidencing a felonious intent, or the contrary, the same must be left to the due and attentive consideration of the judge and jury. Only, in general, it may be observed, that the ordinary discovery of a felonious intent, is, if the party do it secretly, or being charged with the goods, deny it.

claim of right.

If goods be taken on a claim of right or property in them, it will be no felony; at the same time it is matter of evidence whether they were bona fide so taken, or whether they were not taken from the person actually possessing them, with a thievish and felonious intent. And therefore, obtaining possession of goods by a fraudulent claim of right, or by a fraudulent pretence of law, and then running away with them, would be a felony.

Taking by trespass.

It may be that the taking is no more than a trespass, and the circumstances in such case must guide the judgment. As, where a man takes another's goods openly, before him, or before other persons, otherwise than by apparent robbery, or, having possessed himself of them, avows the fact before he is questioned. However, in all these cases, the concurrent conduct of the person accused must be considered, for the purpose of determining whether or not the act done by him be felony.

But nevertheless, doing it openly and avowedly doth not excuse from felony. As where a man came to a market to sell a horse, and a jockey coming thither to buy a horse, the owner delivered his horse to the jockey, to ride up and down the market, to try his paces, but instead of that the jockey rode away with the horse; this was adjudged felony. So where a person came into a sempstress's shop and cheapened goods, and ran away with them out of the shop, openly in her sight, this was adjudged to be felony. So where a man comes into a house, by colour of a writ of execution, and carries away the goods; or sues out a replevin to get another man's horse, and then runs away with him; this is felony under colour of law.

Finding.

It is laid down in the books, that if one lose his goods and another find them, though he convert them, animo furandi, to his own use, yet it is no larceny, for the first taking was lawful. But the doctrine of a taking by finding, must be admitted with great limitation, and must be understood to apply only where the finder really believes the goods to have been lost by the owner, and does not colour a felonious taking under such a pretence. It will not avail therefore, where a man's goods, being in a place in which ordinarily and lawfully they are or may be placed, a person takes them, with an intention of stealing them. Thus, if a man's horse be going upon a common where he has a right to put him, and another take the horse, with intent to steal him, it is no finding, but a felony. So also, if the horse stray into a neighbour's ground, or common, it is felony in him that so takes him. If A's sheep stray into B's flock, and B drives it along with his flock, and by bare mistake shears it, this taking is not a felony; but if he knew it to be another's, and marks it with his mark, this is an evidence of felony.

But even if the place where the goods are found, is not one in which ordinarily they would be deposited, circumstances may shew the taking to have been felonious. A man hides a purse of money in his corn mow, his servant finding it took part of it. If, by circumstances it can appear, he knew his master laid it there, it is felony; but then the circumstances must be pregnant; otherwise it may reasonably be interpreted to be a bare finding, because the purse was deposited in so unusual a place. But where a gentleman left a trunk in a hackney coach, and the coachman took and converted it to his own use; held to be felony,—for he must have known where he took up the gentleman and his trunk, and where he set him down, and therefore he ought to have restored it to him. The doctrine as to a felonious taking of goods which have been found by the party, has been further confirmed in two more recent cases. In the first, it appeared that a pocket book, containing bank notes, had been found by the prisoner in the highway, and afterwards converted by him to his own use. Upon which the judge observed, that if the party finding property in such manner, knows the owner of it, or if there be any mark upon it, by which the owner can be ascertained, and the party, instead of restoring the property, converts it to his own use, such conversion will constitute a felonious taking. And in the other case, the two prisoners, (father and son,) were convicted of stealing a bill of exchange, upon evidence of their having found and converted it to their own use, by endeavouring to negotiate it. The judge stated to the jury, that it was the duty of every man who found the property of another, to use all diligence to find the owner, and not to conceal the property, (which was actually stealing it,) and appropriate it to his own use.

Lord Hale says, if one man take another man's hay or corn, and mingle it with his own heap or stock; or take another man's cloth and embroider it with silk or gold; such other person may retake the whole heap of corn, or cock of hay, or garment and embroidery also; and this retaking is no felony, nor so much as a trespass.

There must be an actual taking, or severance of the Actual taking thing, from the possession of the owner; for all felony includes trespass; and every indictment must have the words—feloniously took, as well as carried away; from whence it follows, that if the party be guilty of no trespass in taking the goods, he cannot be guilty of felony in carrying them away.

Possession of the owner.

The possession of the owner may be actual, or constructive; that is, he may have the goods in his manual possession, or they may be in the actual possession of another, and at the same time be constructively in the owner's possession, and they may be his property by virtue of some contract, and yet not have been reduced by him into actual possession; in which case his possession is constructive; they may be placed by him under his servant's care, to be by him managed for him; in this case the owner has a constructive possession. There may be also a possession distinct from the actual property, but arising out of an interest in the goods acquired by contract; as in the case of one who has possession of goods in pledge, or of goods lent, or let; such a one has a property, (as well as possession,) concurrent with the absolute property of the real owner, and either defeasible or reducible into an absolute property, according to the terms agreed upon between him and the actual owner. The above several kinds of possession will all be sufficient to sustain a charge of larceny from the absolute owner.

another.

There are also cases, in which although the manual custody be out of the owner, and delivered by him to another, yet the possession, absolute as well as constructive, is deemed to remain in him, and the possession of the other to be no more than a bare charge. There is a diversity between a possession and a charge, for when I deliver goods to a man, he hath the possession of the goods, and may have an action of trespass, if they be taken or stolen out of his possession. But my butler, or cook, that in my house hath charge of my vessel or plate, hath no possession of them, nor shall have an action of trespass, as the bailee shall, and therefore if they steal the plate, &c., it is larceny. So if a taverner set a piece of plate before a man to drink in it, and he carry it away, &c., it is larceny, for it is no bailment, but a special use to a special purpose. The servant who keeps a key to my chamber, may be guilty of felony in fraudulently taking away the goods therein, for he hath only a bare charge given him. And so if a weaver who has received materials to work, or a miller who has corn to grind, take out part thereof with intent to steal it, it is felony.

Taking by a

take out a part of the goods, he commits a larceny; but if he run away with the whole, it is a breach of trust, and no larceny. So of a tun of wine. But if after arriving at the place where he should deliver his charge, he steal a part or the whole, it is larceny. The foregoing cases seem exceptions to the rule, that no felony can be committed by his stealing the goods, to whom they were delivered in possession by the owner, in a way which excludes the supposition of their being originally taken with a felonious intent. But in truth the reason of the distinction, seems this. Though the carrier, &c. have originally the goods delivered to him upon a trust, yet they are delivered as one whole and inseparable thing, and the only trust committed to him, is over them in that state; and therefore his possession is a limited one: but if he separate them, it is exercising an act of ownership, not given to him over each part, and is therefore the same as an originally unlawful taking of that individual part, and it is also a carrying away by the mere act of separation. And this distinction should be carefully remembered, as it includes a number of cases very likely to occur in practice, viz., where a part is separated from a thing delivered entire.

By the common law therefore, he who had goods delivered to him by the owner, thereby originally gaining a legal possession of them, could not, by converting them to his own use with intent to steal, be deemed a felon and guilty of larceny. 3 Burn's, 177 to 183.

[NOTE. As to larceny and embezzlement by servants, see divisions VI. and VII. under this Title.]

If the owner delivers his property, of his own accord, to the prisoner, and there is no fraud in the prisoner to induce him so to do, it will not be larceny, though the prisoner intended to misapply the property when he took it, and misapplies it accordingly. As where one obtained delivery of a horse sold to him, on promise to return immediately and pay for it, and he rode off and did not return; it was held to be no felony, for here was a completed contract of sale and delivery, the property as well as the possession was entirely parted with. One writing a letter, in the name of another, to a third person, to borrow money, which he obtains by that fraud, is not guilty of a felony, but only of a misdemeanor. 3 Burn's, 192-3. [In such cases as these however, if any false token or counterfeit letter is made use of, to obtain the property, the party may be charged criminally, as for a cheat.

If the owner has not parted with the property in the goods, but only with the possession of them, the question of larceny still remains open. Where the owner of goods sent them by his servant to be delivered to A. and the prisoner fraudulently procured the delivery of them to himself, by pretending to be A, it was holden to be larceny. Obtaining possession from a person who has the charge of goods, by pretending to be the servant of a person who has brought them, is felony.

Where money or other property is parted with for the performance of a certain engagement, and the party instead of complying with such engagement converts the same to his own use, he is guilty of felony. As in a case where the prosecutor entrusted the prisoner with notes to procure him gold in lieu thereof, but having got possession of the notes, he went away with them, and did not return with the gold, as he promised to do.

Credit given.

If credit be given for property for ever so short a time, no felony can be committed in converting it.

Goods pledged.

Where the delivery is by way of pledge or security, the property in the thing pledged remains in the owner, and therefore larceny may be committed of it, if such delivery were obtained fraudulently and with intent to steal.

Goods obtained by fraud.

Although in general he who has a possession of any thing on delivery by the owner, cannot commit felony thereof; yet that must be understood, first,—where the possession is absolutely changed by the delivery, which has before been considered, and next,—where such possession is not obtained by fraud, and with a felonious intent. For, if under all the circumstances of the case, it be found, that a party has taken goods from the owner, though by his delivery, with an intent to steal them, such taking amounts to felony. This principle is illustrated by the following cases;—Hiring a horse on pretence of taking a journey, but in truth with intent to steal it, and evidencing such felonious intent, by immediately selling the horse as soon as the party obtained possession of it, was held to be larceny; so obtaining a horse, by pretending that another person wanted to hire it to go to B, but in truth with intent to steal it; and not going to B, but taking the horse elsewhere and selling him, is larceny.

Lawful delivery of goods.

It may be collected from the foregoing cases, that if a person obtain the goods of another by a lawful delivery, without fraud, although he afterwards convert them to his own use, he cannot be guilty of felony. As if a tailor have cloth delivered to him to make clothes with, or a friend be entrusted with property to keep for the owner's use, which they afterwards severally embezzle. So if plate be delivered to a goldsmith to work or to weigh, or as a deposit, his conversion of it will not be felony. But if such delivery be obtained by any fraud, or falsehood, and with an intent to steal, though under pretence of a hiring, or even a purchase; if, in the latter case, no credit were intended to be given, the delivery in fact by the owner will not pass the legal possession, so as to save the party from the guilt of felony. But if the property were intended to pass by the delivery, there can be no felonious taking. 3 Burn's, 193-200.

And carrying away.] The least removing of the thing taken from the place where it was before, is sufficient for this purpose, though it be not quite carried off. And upon this ground, the guest, who, having taken off the sheets from his bed with an intent to steal them, carried them into the hall, and was apprehended before he could get out of the house, was adjudged guilty of larceny. So also was he, who, having taken an horse in a close, with an intent to steal him, was apprehended before he could get him out of the close. And such was the case of him, who, intending to steal plate, took it out of the trunk wherein it was, and laid it on the floor, but was surprised before he could remove it any further. If the thief once take possession of the thing, the offence is complete, though he afterwards return it. As if a robber, finding little in a purse which he had taken from the owner, restore it to him again, or let it fall in struggling, and never take it up again, having once had possession of it.

By any person.] Regularly a man cannot commit felony of the goods wherein he hath a property. If A and B be joint tenants, or tenants in common of a horse, and A take the horse, possibly animo furandi, yet this is not felony. But, under certain circumstances, a man may commit felony of his own goods; as if A bail goods to B, and afterwards, animo furandi, steal the goods from B, with design to charge him for the value of them; this is felony.

A wife may be guilty of larceny by stealing the goods of a stranger; but not by stealing her husband's goods from his own possession, because in law they are considered but as one person, and she has a kind of interest in his goods, on which account, not even a stranger can commit larceny of such, by the delivery of the wife, although he knew they were the husband's goods. But a wife may steal the goods of her husband which have been bailed or delivered to another person; for he has a temporary special property in them.

The wife cannot commit larceny in the company of her husband; for it is deemed his coercion, and not her own voluntary act. Yet if she do it in his absence, and by his mere command, she is then punishable as if she were sole.

If one steals another man's goods, and afterwards another steals the same from him; the owner may charge the first or second felon at his choice.

Of the mere personal goods.] If the personal goods savour any thing of the real estate, (that is, land, houses &c.) it cannot be larceny. They ought to be no way annexed to the freehold; therefore it is no larceny but a bare trespass to steal corn or grass growing, or apples on a tree. But it is larceny to take them, being severed from the freehold, as wood which has been cut, grass in cocks, stones digged out of the quarry; and this, whether they are severed by the owner or even by the thief himself, if he sever them at one time, and then come again at another time and take them. [But see hereafter under this Title, certain clauses of the Act 4 Vic. c. 7. Sess. 1841, as to stealing trees, &c.]

With regard to domestic animals, such as horses, oxen, and the like, there is no doubt that they are the subjects of larceny at the common law. Also domestic birds, as ducks, hens, geese, turkeys, peacocks, &c. and larceny may be committed of their eggs or young ones. It is however certain that larceny cannot be committed of such animals in which there is no property, as of beasts that are of a wild nature, and unreclaimed; such as deers, hares, and conies in a forest, chase or warren; fish in an open river or pond; or wild fowls at their natural liberty. There are also some animals which though they may be reclaimed, yet are considered of so base a nature, that no larceny can be committed of them; such as bears, foxes, monkies, cats, ferrets, and the like; and the same of dogs by the common law. [NOTE.—By 2 Vic. c. 39. Sess. 1839. made perpetual by 5 Vic. c. 143. Sess. 1842. The stealing of dogs, and other beasts, and of birds, is made Larceny.—See hereafter, under this Title.]

Also the goods ought to have some worth in themselves, and not to derive their whole value from the relation they bear to some other thing, which cannot be stolen, as paper or parchment on which are written assurances concerning lands, or obligations, or covenants, or other securities for a debt, or other chose in action. 3 Burn's, 202-9.

[As to stealing Treasury notes, and Bank notes, bonds, bills, &c., see hereafter, under this Title.]

It being felony to steal the animals themselves, it is also felony to steal the product of any of them, though taken from the living animals. Thus, milking cows at pasture, and stealing the milk, was holden to be felony, by all the Judges. So, pulling wool from the backs of sheep, is felony. But in both these instances it must be understood, that the fact is done fraudulently and feloniously, and not merely from wantonness or frolic; which must be collected from concurrent circumstances, such as the quantity taken, the use to which it is applied, the behaviour of the party, &c. 3 Burn's, 210.

Of another.] It is well settled that larceny may be committed by stealing goods, the owner of which is not known; and that it may be stated in the indictment that the things stolen, were the goods of a person to the jurors unknown. But upon prosecutions of this kind, some proof must be given sufficient to raise a reasonable presumption that the taking was felonious. 3 Burn's, 211.

By 4 Vic. c. 7, Sess. 1841. The distinction between grand larceny and petit larceny is abolished, and every larceny, whatever be the value of the property stolen, shall be deemed to be of the same nature, and shall be subject to the same incidents in all respects, as grand larceny was before the commencement of the Act. Perpetual.

II. LARCENY FROM THE PERSON.

If the goods be taken from a man's person, the offence receives a farther degree of guilt, and, if it be attended with violence or putting him in fear, it is called robbery. If it be without violence or putting him in fear, then it is called barely larceny from the person. Robbery is defined to be—“A felonious taking of money or goods, to any value, from the person of another, or in his presence, against his will, by violence, or, putting him in fear.” A colourable gift, which in truth was extorted by fear, amounts to a taking and robbery in law. The same rule holds, although the thing taken were not really within the original contemplation of the robber, nor the object of his pursuit at the time. As where a man assaulted a woman, with intent to commit a rape, and she, without any demand from him, offered him money, which he took and put into his pocket, but continued to treat her with violence, to effect his original purpose, till he was interrupted by the approach of another person—this was holden to be robbery. It is robbery to extort money from a person, by threatening to charge him with an unnatural crime, though he parted with his money only from fear for his character, and from no other fear. Where the prisoners threatened to bring a mob from another place, (then in a state of riot and disturbance,) and burn the prosecutor's house down, if he did not give them money, which he did, under fear of that threat, it was held to be robbery. But money extorted by threats of being sent to prison for a pretended debt, but without fear of any other personal violence, has been holden to be duress, and not robbery.

If the property be not taken by actual violence, and the owner only deliver it in consequence of prior threats, such delivery must be enforced by terror actually felt at the time, to constitute the crime.

Taking a thing in a man's presence, is in law a taking from his person.—Thus, if one take or drive my cattle out of my pasture, in my presence, this is robbery, if he make an assault upon me or put me in fear.

All that come in company to rob are principals, although one actually do it. 5 Burn's, 69 to 83.

By the 4 Vic. c. 7. Sess. 1841. The several previous Provincial Acts relating to burglaries, robbery, larceny, and embezzlement, have been repealed, and the following enactments have been made respecting robbery, and stealing from the person.

Robbery with Wounding.

Sec. 2. Whosoever shall rob any person, and at the time of, or immediately before, or immediately after such robbery, shall stab, cut, or wound any person, shall be guilty of felony, and, being convicted thereof, shall suffer death.

Whosoever, being armed with any offensive weapon or instrument, shall rob, or assault with an intent to rob, any person, or shall, together with one or more person or persons, rob, or assault with intent to rob, any person, or shall rob any person, and at the time of, or immediately before, or immediately after such robbery, shall beat, strike, or use any other personal violence to any person, shall be guilty of felony; and, being convicted, shall be liable, at the discretion of the Court, to be imprisoned for the natural life of the offender, or for any term not less than one year.

Sec. 5. Whosoever shall rob any person or shall steal any property from the person of another, shall be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding fourteen years.

Assault with intent to rob.

Sec. 6. Whosoever shall assault any person, with intent to rob, shall be guilty of felony, and (except in cases where a greater punishment is provided by this Act,) shall be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding three years. Perpetual.

IV. LARCENY OF WRITINGS, CATTLE, TREES, &c.

V. LARCENIES PUNISHABLE BY JUSTICES ON SUMMARY CONVICTION.

Every person who shall aid, abet, counsel, or procure, the commission of any offence, which is by this Act punishable on summary conviction, shall, on being convicted before a Justice of the peace, be liable to the same forfeiture and punishment to which a person guilty as a principal offender, is by this Act made liable.

Sec. 54. Any person found committing any offence, punishable either upon indictment, or upon summary conviction, by virtue of this Act, may be immediately apprehended, without a warrant, by any peace officer, or by the owner of the property, on or with respect to which the offence was committed, or by his servant, or by any person authorised by him, and forthwith taken before some neighbouring Justice of the peace, to be dealt with according to law; and if any credible witness shall prove upon oath before a Justice of the peace, a reasonable cause to suspect that any person has in his possession, or on his premises, any property whatsoever, on or with respect to which any such offence has been committed, the Justice may grant a warrant to search for such property, as in the case of stolen goods; and any person to whom any property shall be offered to be sold, pawned or delivered, if he shall have reasonable cause to suspect that any such offence has been committed on, or with respect to such property, is hereby authorized, and, if in his power, is required to apprehend, and forthwith to carry before a Justice of the peace, the party offering the same, together with such property, to be dealt with according to law.

Sec. 67. In summary convictions, under the Act, before a Justice of the Peace, the imprisonment shall always be in the county gaol, and without hard labour, or solitary confinement. Perpetual.

It is needful to remark, that there is an express contradiction between several of the foregoing clauses under this last head. In Sec. 33 and 34 it is said, that the offender, on being convicted, “ shall be liable, at the discretion of the Justice, either to be committed to the common gaol, or house of correction, there to be imprisoned only, or to be imprisoned and kept to hard labour. But by the foregoing last recited clause, and which is the last in the Act, it is expressly enacted, that on summary convictions under the Act before a Justice, "the imprisonment shall always be in the county gaol, and without hard labor. These clauses cannot be reconciled, but shew quite an oversight in the framing of them. As the said last clause of the Act is so express, it is presumed, notwithstanding the other clauses, that, on all such convictions, the Justice can adjudge to imprisonment in the common gaol only, and "without hard labour." The course of proceeding on the trial of all such cases before a Justice will be the same as in other cases of a criminal or penal nature triable before him, and, together with the requisite Forms, which may readily be filled up so as to answer, will be found, respectively, under the Titles—Information, Summons, Warrant, Witnesses, Commitment.

VI. LARCENY BY CLERKS OR SERVANTS.

By the aforesaid 4 Vic. Sess. 1841, Sec. 37. Every clerk or servant, who shall steal any chattel, money or valuable security belonging to, or in the possession or power of his master, shall, on conviction, be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding seven years.

Embezzlement by Agents.

Sec. 40. Provided, that no person however tried for receiving as aforesaid, shall be liable to be prosecuted a second time for the same offence.

Sec. 46. previously convicted thereof, and such receiver shall be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding seven years.

Sec. 51. Where the stealing or taking of any property whatever, is, by this Act, punishable on summary conviction, any person who shall receive any such property, knowing the same to be unlawfully come by, shall, upon conviction thereof before a Justice of the Peace, be liable to the same forfeiture and punishment, to which a person, guilty of stealing or taking such property, is by this Act liable.

IX. REWARD &c. FOR RETURN OF STOLEN PROPERTY.

Taking reward on pretence of helping to the recovery of stolen property.

By the same Act of 4 Vic. Sess. 1841. Sec. 49. Compounding a felony.

There is also another offence concerning stolen goods, anciently denominated theftbote, and now designated a compounding of felony, which is, where the party robbed, not only knows the felon, but also takes his goods again, or other amends upon agreement not to prosecute. It is said to have

LIBEL.

A LIBEL, in a strict sense, is taken for a malicious defamation, expressed either in printing or writing, and tending either to blacken the memory of one who is dead, or the reputation of one who is alive, and to expose him to public hatred, contempt, or ridicule. It matters not whether the libel be true, or whether the party against whom it is made, be of good or bad fame. But this is to be understood, only when the prosecution is by information or indictment. It is otherwise in an action to recover damages for a libel. 3 Burn's, 248.

A criminal prosecution for a libel can only be sustained where the defamation is expressed, either in printing, or writing, signs, or pictures. No defamatory words spoken will sustain a criminal proceeding, as for that offence. See 3 Burn's, 249.

It is certain, that not only he who composes a libel, or procures another to compose it, but also he who publishes, or procures another to publish it, is in danger of being punished for it.

Also it hath been resolved, that the sending of a letter, full of provoking language to another, without publishing it, is highly punishable, as manifestly tending to a disturbance of the peace.

In cases of libel the offenders may be condemned to pay such fine, and also to suffer such corporal punishment, as to the Court, in discretion, shall seem proper, according to the heinousness of the crime, and the circumstances of the offender.

A Justice of the Peace has the power of issuing a warrant to apprehend a person, charged, by information on oath, with the publication of a libel, and of requiring him to find bail to answer such charge, and for want of it, of committing him to prison, there to remain until he be delivered by due course of law. 3 Burn's, 251-5, 799.

LIME.

By the Statute 32 G. 3, c. 4. 1 V. 292. "All lime, exposed to sale in any part of this Province, shall be measured by the officers, appointed for that purpose, and the officers so appointed, shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of their duty, and upon refusal to accept of the said office, or being guilty of any neglect or misbehaviour in the execution of the duties thereof, they shall forfeit and pay, for the use of the poor of the town wherein they reside, a sum not exceeding three pounds, to be recovered before any two Justices of the peace for the same county." Perpetual.

By 56 G. 3, c. 21. 2 V. 210. "All lime sold, or offered for sale, shall be measured and inspected by one of the officers appointed for that purpose; and all lime not sufficiently burnt, or otherwise of good and merchantable quality, shall be seized by the said inspector; and every person offering for sale, or selling by the hogshead, any lime in hogsheads that shall not contain at the least eight Winchester bushels heaped, or ninety six gallons, shall forfeit for every bushel, of which every and each hogshead shall be deficient, the sum of ten shillings, and so in proportion for every part of a bushel, together with the hogshead or cask in which such lime shall be contained, which shall be seized by the said inspector and destroyed."

"The inspector of lime shall receive, from the seller thereof, at the rate of sixpence per hogshead, for inspecting and measuring the same."

Sec. 5. "If the quantity of lime, seized as aforesaid, shall not exceed thirty-two bushels; and if the deficiency of lime sold or offered for sale in hogsheads as aforesaid, shall not exceed twenty bushels, then, upon conviction upon the oath of one or more witness or witnesses, before one Justice of the peace, of the county where the offence shall happen; and if the quantity so seized shall exceed thirty-two bushels, and if the deficiency shall exceed twenty bushels, then, upon conviction as aforesaid, in any of His Majesty's Courts of Record in the county where the offence shall happen, the lime so seized shall be adjudged forfeited; and the person who sold or offered lime for sale, in hogsheads deficient as aforesaid, shall be adjudged to pay the penalty herein before declared, together with the costs of condemnation; of all which penalties and forfeitures, one half thereof shall go to the inspector or inspectors in each case, respectively employed, for his and their trouble and expense of storage and prosecution; the remainder to the use of the poor of the county where such convictions shall happen." Perpetual.

"No person upon the Lord's Day shall serve or execute, or cause to be served or executed, any writ, process, order, judgment or decree, (except in cases of treason, felony or breach of the peace,) but the service of every such writ, process, warrant, order, judgment, or decree, shall be void to all intents and purposes whatsoever; and the person or persons, so serving or executing the same, shall be liable to the suit of the party grieved, and to answer damages to him for doing thereof, as if he or they had done the same without any process, warrant, order, judgment, or decree whatsoever." Perpetual.

Bail cannot take the defendant on a Sunday in order to surrender him; and it has been held, that a warrant of commitment for a penalty cannot be executed on a Sunday, and that the apprehension on that day is wholly void, and the defendant is entitled to be discharged out of custody. 3 Burn's, 268.

[Seal.] FORASMUCH as information hath been made before me A. M., Esquire, one of Her Majesty's Justices of the peace for the said county of _____, that A. O. to appear before me, at _____ in the said county, on the _____ day of _____, in the year aforesaid, at _____ o'clock in the forenoon, to answer unto the said information, and to shew cause why he the said A. O. should not pay the penalty of ten shillings for the said offence; and be you then there to certify what you shall have done in the premises. Given under my hand and seal, the _____ day of _____, in the year aforesaid.

A. M., J. P.

If the information is for using a sport, game, &c., or for any of the other offences mentioned in the Act, the information and summons must be filled up accordingly, stating the facts of the offence as nearly as may be in the words of the Act. For the form of a Conviction, where the course is by information, see the general form under the Title—Conviction. The general rules of law and evidence to be attended to, and the manner of proceeding on the hearing before the Justice, will be the same as in all similar cases for the recovery of penalties; and will be found set forth under the Titles—Information, Conviction, and other appropriate Titles of this Work.

If the Justice convicts on his own view, the mode of proceeding, and the Forms will be different. In this case, if circumstances will permit, the Justice should, at the time of viewing the work done, enquire and ascertain, whether it is "a work of necessity or charity," or otherwise, so that he may determine on the case, accordingly; and if he convicts the party, he should inform him thereof, and of the penalty imposed. Should the Justice, at the time of the view, not have it in his power to ascertain, or from the circumstances appearing or ascertained, should it seem doubtful whether the work is one of necessity or charity, or otherwise, he should defer an immediate conviction, and should summon the party, in the usual manner, to appear before him at a subsequent time, to shew cause, if he have any, why he should not be convicted of the offence; and in this case, the same proceedings must be had as in all similar cases. Directions relating to such proceedings have already been given under the Title — Information, and other Titles of this Work. The following will serve as the form of such a Summons to shew cause.

O., to appear before me at ———, in the township of ———, in the said county, on ——— the — day of ———, in the year aforesaid, to shew cause, if any he have, why he should not be convicted of the said offence, and should not be compelled to pay the penalty of ten shillings, imposed by the Statute in such case provided; and be you then there to certify what you shall have done in the premises. Given under my hand and seal, the — day of ———, in the year aforesaid.

A. M., J. P.

In every case where the Justice convicts on his own view, the Information is, of course, needless, and also a Summons, except in the case just mentioned. In all cases of conviction on view, the form may be thus:

LOTTERIES.

By the 4 Vic. c. 25. Sess. 1841. Any person who shall sell or offer for sale any ticket for any lottery, or any person who will purchase any such ticket, shall forfeit and pay, for every such ticket so sold or offered for sale, or purchased, a fine or penalty of two shillings and sixpence; and any person who shall be the conductor or manager, or proprietor, or drawer of any such lottery, shall pay a fine or penalty of five pounds.

Sec. 2. All fines and penalties, imposed by this Act, shall be recoverable before any one Justice of the Peace of the county in which the offence was committed, by any person who will sue for the same, in the same manner, by the same means, and with the like costs, as if any such fine or penalty were a private and individual debt, due to the person so suing for the same; and when, recovered, shall be paid to the Overseers of the Poor of the township or district where the offence was committed, for the use of the poor thereof.

As the fines under this Act are to be recovered as private debts, the course of proceedings for such recovery, with the requisite Forms, will be found under the Title,—Summary Trials.

Sec. 5. "All surveyors of lumber shall, personally and diligently, examine and survey all ton timber and lumber of every kind and description, when called upon so to do, and see that the same is, and shall be, in all respects conformable to the several provisions and directions of this Act, and shall reject any timber or lumber which shall, in any respect, be contrary to or objectionable under this Act, (of which, each surveyor shall provide himself with a copy,) and shall refuse to pass the same, and after rejecting and refusing such objectionable timber or lumber, the said surveyor shall furnish the buyer and seller, each with a true and faithful account in writing of the number, dimensions, and measurement of the articles he shall have so surveyed and find to be merchantable; and every such account, duly certified under the hand of the surveyor, shall be final and conclusive between the buyer and seller. Provided, that if any dispute shall arise between the buyer and seller of any article of timber or lumber, the person dissatisfied may call upon three skilful and disinterested persons, being surveyors of lumber, regularly appointed and sworn, who shall re-survey and examine the said timber or lumber; and their determination, or that of any two of them, shall be conclusive; and if the opinion of the first surveyor shall be confirmed, then the buyer is to pay the expense of the second survey, but if the same be not confirmed, the expense of such second survey shall be paid by the first surveyor."

Sec. 6. "All dimension deals shall be cut to the lengths of twelve, fourteen, sixteen, eighteen, twenty, and twenty one feet, and of the breadth of nine, eleven, and twelve inches, to the thickness of three inches each, having an allowance of one inch and not exceeding two inches, on the length, of one fourth of an inch and not exceeding one half of an inch on the breadth, of one-eighth of an inch and not exceeding one-fourth of an inch on the thickness, to be sawed smooth and fair, of equal width and thickness at both ends, to be butted at both ends with a saw, and the stubshot to be sawn off; to be free from rots, sap-stains, large knots, rents, shakes, worm holes, wane, and augur holes."

Sec. 7. "All plank intended for exportation out of this Province, except hard wood plank, shall be sawed at least three inches and one-eighth of an inch in thickness, at least nine inches in width, and at least ten feet and not over twenty feet in length, and shall be, in all other respects, the same as is herein before prescribed and directed with respect to dimension deals."

Sec. 10. All lath-wood shall be of fresh growth, straight rift, free from bark, hearts and knots; to be measured by the cord of four feet high, and eight feet long, and piled as close as it can be laid; all prime shingles shall be eighteen inches long, not less than four inches wide, and three eighths of an inch thick at the butt, free from sap and worm holes, to be put up in bundles not less than twenty-five feet tier, or courses, to twenty inches wide; four of which bundles shall be reckoned a thousand; shipping shingles for exportation, shall be half an inch thick at the butt; the said thickness to be continued three fourths of the length and shaved from thence to the point, and shall also be from four to four and one half inches wide throughout; and that the account shall be taken by the tale of ten hundred to the thousand, and all prime shingles manufactured in the same manner, shall be subject to the like rules and regulations.

Sec. 11. All hogshead staves shall be forty two inches long, three fourths of an inch thick on the thinnest edge, and not exceeding one inch on the back; and shall also be from three and one half inches, to five and one half inches wide; and all barrel staves shall be thirty two inches long, one half inch thick on the thinnest edge, and not exceeding three fourths of an inch thick on the back, the whole to be of good rift, free of twists, fairly split, and free from knot-holes, rotten knots, worm holes, and shakes, and the account shall be taken, by the tale of twelve hundred to the thousand.

Sec. 12. If any Surveyor of lumber shall certify as merchantable, for exportation, any ton timber, or any article of lumber, contrary to any or either of the provisions of this Act, he shall forfeit and pay, for each and every offence, a sum not less than two pounds, nor more than five pounds.

Sec. 14. When any contract or bargain shall be made for any quantity of timber or lumber, of any description herein before mentioned for exportation, the same shall be understood to be for timber or lumber according to the directions and provisions of this Act; and no person shall be obliged to receive any other kind of timber or lumber, unless such person shall have previously made a special agreement in writing for the same, specifying particularly, the nature, dimensions, and description of timber or lumber agreed to be received.

Sec. 15 & 16. Every surveyor of lumber shall, at the time of making a survey, mark on every stick of ton timber by him surveyed, the exact number of cubic feet such stick shall contain, together with the initial letters of his own name, and that of the private mark of the purchaser; and on all deals and plank, the surveyor shall mark with lead on the end, the length, breadth, thickness, and superficial contents thereof, respectively, and also the surveyor's private mark; and all boards, such surveyor shall mark with the superficial contents thereof respectively, and with the said surveyor's private mark. And if any person shall cut, deface, or otherwise destroy, any marks so to be made on any stick of ton timber, or upon any deals, planks, or boards respectively, without the knowledge or permission of the owner thereof, every such person, so offending, shall forfeit and pay for every such offence, a sum not exceeding twenty shillings, nor less than ten shillings.

Sec. 17. Every surveyor of lumber shall be entitled to demand and receive, for his labour and trouble in surveying the several articles following, the sums herein after mentioned, that is to say, for surveying and measuring all deals, planks, scantling, and boards, nine pence, for every thousand superficial feet thereof, and the further sum of three pence, for every thousand superficial feet, for marking the same; and for all lathwood, sixpence per cord; and for all shingles, three pence per thousand; and for all hoghead staves, one shilling and sixpence for every thousand thereof, according to the tale thereof, respectively, which rates for the survey of merchantable lumber, as well as those herein before prescribed for surveying merchantable timber, shall be paid by the seller, who shall employ or have the choice of the surveyor; and the seller shall remove or cause to be removed, at his own expense, whatever may obstruct or prevent the surveyor from ascertaining, with facility, the measurement, manufacture, or quality of any article of lumber or timber, and, when required, the same shall be canted: Provided always, that no purchaser of any article of lumber or timber, who shall purchase the same after it has been surveyed, shall be required to pay for the expense of survey, unless such purchaser shall require a new survey thereof, or shall have made a special agreement for the payment of such expense.

Sec. 18. The Surveyor shall mark all timber and articles which do not correspond with the provisions of this Act, as refuse; and for such survey and marking, shall be entitled to the same fees as he is by this Act entitled to, for surveying and marking merchantable articles.

Sec. 19. All fines and forfeitures hereby imposed, shall be recovered, with costs of suit, before any two Justices of the Peace of the county or district where the offence was committed, at the suit of any person who will sue for the same, in the same manner, and by the same means, as if the same were private debts; and shall be paid and applied, one half to the use of the poor of the town or place where such offence was committed; and the other half to the person who will sue for the same.

Sec. 20. All prosecutions under this Act shall be commenced within twelve months after the time the offence was committed. Annual.

Directions.

As the Act directs that all fines thereby imposed shall be recovered in the same manner as private debts, the requisite directions and forms, in suits for the recovery of such fines, will be found under the Title—Summary Trials. All previous Acts, regulating the qualities and survey of the several articles of timber and lumber mentioned in the foregoing Act, are, by the said Act, repealed—some expressly and others virtually.

By the 6 Vic. c. 34, Sess. 1843, the 8th and 9th Sections of the before recited Act are repealed, and the following enactments are made, in place thereof:—"All merchantable boards, plank, and scantling, except what is commonly called hardwood, shall be square edged with the saw; all clear boards shall not be less than one inch thick, and merchantable boards, not less than seven-eighths of an inch thick, nor shall any board be deemed merchantable, unless it contain ten feet superficial measure, and which is not sawed of equal thickness throughout, or which is not free from rots, worm holes, wane and augur holes.

II. BRINGING LUMBER, &c. DOWN RIVERS.

By the Statute of the 58 G. 3, c. 31. 3 V. 35, made perpetual by the 1 & 2 G. 4, c. 10, it is enacted, "That logs and lumber of any kind may be brought down the fresh water rivers at such times of the year as the Justices in their Sessions may appoint, doing as little damage as possible to the owners of adjoining lands; and that persons engaged in the timber and lumber trade, may remove obstructions in such rivers, at such times as shall be most convenient, under the regulations established by the General or Special Sessions. Provided, that no mill dam may be removed. And the General or Special Sessions may make such rules and regulations as may be necessary, respecting the bringing lumber and other articles down rivers, and may impose a penalty for breach thereof, of not less than five shillings nor more than two pounds; to be recovered in any Court of Record, one half thereof to the person who shall sue for the same, and the other half for the repair of roads and bridges in the county." Temporary.

LUNATICS.

By the 14 & 15 G. 3, c. 5. 1 V. 187. Where persons by lunacy, or otherwise, are furiously mad, and dangerous to be permitted to go abroad, it shall be lawful for two Justices where such lunatic is found, by warrant directed to the Constables, Church Wardens and Overseers of the Poor of the township or place, to cause such person to be apprehended and kept safely locked up in some secure place within the county, as such Justices direct; and if such Justices find it necessary, to be there chained, if the last legal settlement of such person be in any place within such county; and if such settlement be not there, such person shall be sent to the place of his last legal settlement, by a pass, and shall be locked up and chained, by warrant of two Justices of the county to which such person is to be sent; and the charges of removing, maintaining, and curing such person, during such restraint, (which shall be for such time only as such madness continues,) shall be paid, being first proved upon oath, by order of two Justices directing the Church Wardens or Overseers of the Poor, where any goods lands or tenements of such person be, to seize and sell so much of the goods, or receive so much of the rents of the lands, as is necessary to pay the same; and to account for what is so seized, sold, or received, to the next Sessions of the peace; but if such person hath not an estate to pay the same, over and above what is sufficient to maintain his or her family, then such charge shall be paid by the township or place to which such person belongs, by order of two Justices, directed to the Church Wardens or Overseers. Provided, that nothing herein contained shall extend to abridge the prerogative of His Majesty, or the Chancellor, concerning such lunatics, or restrain any friend or relation of such lunatics from taking them under their own care. Perpetual.

M A I M .

MAIM, is such a hurt of any part of a man's body, whereby he is rendered less able, in fighting, either to defend himself, or annoy his adversary. The cutting off, or disabling,

M., J. P.

N., J. P.

or weakening a man's hand, or finger, or striking out his eye, or fore-tooth, or castrating him, are said to be maims : but the cutting off his ear or nose were not esteemed maims at the common law, because they do not weaken but only disfigure him.

It is not every trifling assault that will justify an immediate and grievous maim, such as cutting off a leg or hand, or biting off a joint of a man's finger, unless it happen accidentally, without any cruel and malignant intention, or after the blood was heated in the scuffle ; but it must appear that the assault was in some degree proportionable to the maim. 3 Burn's, 296-9.

The following enactments concerning maim have been made by the 4 Vic. c. 6. Sess. 1841.

Shooting at, cutting and maiming with intent to disfigure.

Sec. 10. Whosoever unlawfully and maliciously shall shoot at any person, or shall, by drawing a trigger, or in any other manner attempt to discharge any kind of loaded arms, at any person, or shall stab, cut, or wound any person, with intent, in any of the cases aforesaid, to maim, disfigure, or disable such person, or to do some other grievous bodily harm to such person, or with intent to resist or prevent the lawful apprehension or detainer of any person, shall be guilty of felony, and, being convicted thereof, shall be liable to be imprisoned for the term of his natural life, or for any term not less than one year, as the Court shall award.

Sending explosive substances, &c. with intent to do harm.

Sec. 11. Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously send or deliver to, or cause to be taken or received by any person, an explosive substance, or any other dangerous or noxious thing, or shall cast or throw upon, or otherwise apply to, any person any corrosive fluid or other destructive matter, with intent, in any of the cases aforesaid, to burn, maim, disfigure, or disable any person, or to do some other grievous bodily harm to any person, and whereby, in any of the cases aforesaid, any person shall be burned, maimed, disfigured or disabled, or receive some other grievous bodily harm, shall be guilty of felony, and, being convicted thereof, shall be liable to be imprisoned for the term of his natural life, or for any term not less than one year, as the Court shall award.

It is not necessary that the malicious intention should be conceived against any particular individual. If it be against all persons who may happen to come within the scope of the perpetrator's design, the particular mischief done to any one, will be connected with the general malignant intent, and so the case will fall within the Statute. If the maim or bodily harm come not within any of the descriptions in the Act, yet it is

As a maim under the before mentioned Act is thereby Directions. made a felony, the same proceedings must be had by and before Justices, and the same Forms will serve, on informations for any such offence, as in other felonies; as to which proceedings and Forms, see, respectively, Titles,—Information, Warrant, Examination, Bail, Commitment. Justices should be very cautious as to letting to bail in cases of serious maim, and should not do it in any case where life is endangered.

MALICIOUS INJURIES.

I. TO CATTLE.

By the 4 & 5 G. 4, c. 4, 3 V. 181. "If any person shall maliciously, unlawfully, and willingly, kill, maim, wound, or otherwise hurt, any horse, mare, gelding, ox, bull, cow, steer, heifer, sheep, or other cattle; every such offender or offenders shall forfeit and pay unto the party aggrieved, treble the damage which he shall sustain; to be recovered by action of trespass, or upon the case, in any Court of Record."

Sec. 2. Any person who shall be duly convicted of such offence, in the Supreme Court, or General or Quarter Sessions, shall suffer such punishment by imprisonment or public whipping, as such Court shall in their discretion adjudge. Provided, that nothing herein contained shall subject any person to be punished or imprisoned under the directions of this clause, who shall be proceeded against for damages by the party aggrieved; nor shall any person who shall have been punished or imprisoned under the directions of this clause, be liable to any suit or action at the instance of the party aggrieved; but such punishment or imprisonment shall be forever a bar to any such action or suit."

Perpetual.

NOTE. This Act repeals a former Act of the 8 G. 3, c. 2, on the same subject. The Sessions cannot now try this offence, and the punishment of public whipping is, in all cases, abolished.

II. TO REAL OR PERSONAL PROPERTY.

By the 2 W. 4, c. 48, 4 V. 167. If any person shall wilfully and maliciously destroy, or commit any damage, injury or spoil, to or upon any real or personal property whatsoever, either of a public or private nature, for which no remedy or punishment, (other than a civil suit or action,) is provided, or can be inflicted by the Laws or Statutes of this Province, or in force therein, every such person shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and being duly convicted thereof in His Majesty's Supreme Court, or before any General or Quarter Sessions, shall forfeit and pay such fine or penalty, not exceeding twenty pounds, or shall suffer such punishment by imprisonment in the county jail, or bridewell, or house of correction at Halifax, for such space of time not exceeding two years, or by fine and imprisonment as aforesaid, as such Court shall in their discretion adjudge.

Sec. 2. All fines levied and received under the Act, shall, in case of injury to private property, be paid to the party aggrieved, (if known,) except where such party shall have been examined in proof of the offence; and in such case, or where any public right or property is concerned, such fines shall be paid to the King.

Sec. 3. Nothing herein contained shall extend to any case, where the party trespassing acted under a fair and reasonable supposition that he had a right to do the act complained of; nor to any trespass, not being wilful and malicious; but every such trespass shall be punishable in the same manner as before this Act.

Sec. 4. Every person who shall aid, abet, counsel, or procure the commission of any offence punishable under this Act, shall be liable to be indicted and punished as a principal offender.

Sec. 5. Every punishment by this Act to be imposed or inflicted upon any person maliciously committing any offence, shall equally apply and be enforced, whether the offence shall be committed from malice conceived against the owner of the property, in respect of which it shall be committed, or otherwise. Temporary.

Directions.

On complaint being made to a Justice, that any of the offences mentioned in the Statutes recited under this title, has been committed, he must take the information in writing, in the usual manner and form, and issue his warrant for the arrest of the party charged, and on his being brought before him, examinations in writing need not be taken, as all the said offences are only misdemeanors; but the party

By the 4 Vic. c. 6, Sess. 1841. The former provision concerning Polygamy, contained in the 32 G. 2, c. 17, 1 Vol. 24, has been repealed, and the following enactment has, in place thereof, been passed.

Sec. 21. MILE POSTS, &c.

By the 30 G. 3, c. 3. 1 V. 278. "Whoever shall be guilty of defacing, displacing, injuring, or destroying any post, board, or stone, erected, or to be erected, for the purpose of ascertaining distances, shall, on conviction thereof, before any two Justices of the Peace, forfeit and pay the sum of two pounds; the one half whereof to be given to the prosecutor, and the other half paid in to the Treasurer of the county wherein such offence was committed, for the purpose of repairing and erecting mile boards within such county; and in case the party, so convicted, shall be unable to pay the fine imposed, it shall be lawful for such Justices to direct and order the offender a corporal punishment, not less than twenty lashes, nor exceeding thirty lashes, to be inflicted at the most public place within the said district, in the usual and accustomed manner." Perpetual.

The proceedings and the Forms in prosecutions upon this Statute, will be the same as in the great number of similar cases for the recovery of penalties, already set forth in this work, and as will be found under the respective Titles, —Information, Summons, Conviction. The punishment of public whipping has, in all cases, been abolished.

MILITIA.

THE several Acts for the regulation of the Militia service have, almost invariably, been only of annual duration, and in the Session of the Assembly in 1841, all the Acts in force to that time were suffered to expire. In that Session, by the 4 Vic. c. 108, the whole subject was regulated, and the fines hereafter mentioned are thereby established and imposed, and are to be recovered or levied under proceedings before Justices of the Peace. For the sake of convenient reference, the several enactments of that Act, which contain such regulations and fines, may be arranged under the following divisions.

I. ENROLMENT.

By the aforesaid Act of 4 Vic. Sess. 1841, Sec. 14. Every captain of a company, now appointed, or to be appointed, shall, as soon as conveniently may be, after the passing of this Act, enrol all the men, liable to be enrolled, who reside within the limits assigned for his company; and every man liable to be enrolled, (not being already enrolled in such company,) who, after the passing of this Act, shall neglect to present himself in person to the captain of the company where he resides, and give in his name, age, and place of residence, or cause the same to be made known in some certain way to the captain of the said company, shall forfeit and pay a fine of ten shillings.

Sec. 15. Every man who shall remove out of the limits assigned for the company in which he is or ought to be enrolled, and who shall not, within ten days after his removal, either present himself for enrolment, or cause his name, age, and place of residence, with that from which he last removed, to be made known to the captain of the company at his new place of residence, shall forfeit and pay a fine of ten shillings; and every man who shall not within thirty days after he shall have attained the age of sixteen years, either present himself for enrolment, or cause his name, age, and place of residence to be made known, as aforesaid, so that he may be enrolled in the company of the limits wherein his place of residence may be, shall forfeit and pay a fine of five shillings; and every man, within the ages hereinbefore specified, who shall come to reside in this Province, and shall not, within thirty days after his arrival therein, present himself for enrolment, or cause his name, age, and place of residence to be made known, as aforesaid, so that he may be enrolled in the company of the limits wherein he shall have come to reside, shall forfeit and pay a fine of ten shillings.

Sec. 16. Notwithstanding the neglect of any man to cause himself to be enrolled, the captain of the company shall enrol, or cause to be enrolled, in his company, the name of every man liable to be enrolled residing within the limits of his company, that shall come to his knowledge; and when so enrolled every such man shall be subject and liable to perform all militia duties, under the same penalties, as if he had personally presented himself for enrolment; and if any difference shall arise between the captain of a company and any man, touching the age of such man, it shall be incumbent on the man to prove his age.

Sec. 17. Persons neglecting to enrol themselves, shall, besides the fines for such neglect, be liable to the fines for non attendance at trainings, in the same manner as if they had received notice to attend the same.

II. ARMS.

By Sec. 31, 32, 33, 34, 35 & 36. Freeholders of the age of 21 years, who are enrolled, must, within twenty days after public notice that arms are lodged at some place for distribution, attend and receive them, and give bond for their safe keeping and return; or shall, at their own expense, provide themselves with arms and accoutrements of the same description, under the penalty, for this last mentioned default, of two pounds—such freeholder shall pay one shilling to the person who takes the bond. All militia men, who are not freeholders, shall be entitled to receive such arms and accoutrements, upon giving the like bond with two surties.

Sec. 39. Every man, when required to appear with his arms, accoutrements and ammunition, &c., shall appear with them accordingly, under certain penalties prescribed.

Sec. 43. Captains of companies shall lodge the arms, &c. in some convenient place for delivery, and men neglecting to return the same to the place of deposit, within twenty-four hours after service, shall forfeit five shillings for each day's neglect.

Sec. 44, 45, 46. Every man who shall vend, pledge, or exchange any arms or accoutrements, so received, or cause them to be conveyed out of the limits of the regiment, except when he is on duty; and every person who shall buy or accept the same in pledge, or exchange, shall forfeit five pounds for every musket or rifle, and ten shillings for every accoutrement, so unlawfully disposed of. And every person who shall, without authority, assist in conveying any of the same on board any boat or vessel, to be carried out of the county, and the owner or master thereof, knowingly receiving the same for that purpose, shall forfeit ten pounds. Upon information on oath before a Justice, that any person, not a freeholder, is about to remove out of the county, with such arms and accoutrements, such Justice shall issue his warrant to arrest and bring such person before him, to answer for the offence. Persons charged with any of the offences aforesaid, who shall immediately cause such arms, &c. to be delivered to such Justice, shall be entitled to a remission of half of the fine aforesaid, or of one half of any term of imprisonment prescribed under the Act, in case of non-payment of the fine.

Sec. 48. Men removing out of the limits of their company, before doing so, shall return the arms, &c. they received, to the captain of the company, in good order, under a penalty of five pounds.

III. FINES, &c.

Sec. 115. All fines imposed by the Act, the recovery of which is not otherwise directed, when not exceeding three pounds, shall be recovered before any one Justice of the Peace; and when exceeding three pounds, before any two Justices; if recoverable from any man, in the name of the officer commanding the company to which he belongs; in which suit the clerk of the company shall be a competent witness; and if recoverable from any officer, in the name of the Adjutant of the Regiment; and, upon conviction in either case, the fine or fines, with costs, shall be levied by warrant of distress on the goods and chattels of the offender, or if he have none to satisfy the warrant, he shall be committed to jail for the time prescribed, or if no time be prescribed by the Act, then for two days, for every five shillings of the amount of such fines.

Sec. 116. No Justice of the Peace shall receive any fee or reward, for any service under any of the provisions of the Act.

Sec. 117. No person shall be prosecuted for any breach of the Act, after three months from the commission of the offence.

Act, and not otherwise appropriated, shall, after deducting one fourth allowed for collecting the same, be paid to the Quarter Master of the Regiment, to be applied for defraying the requisite expences of the Regiment.

NOTE. It has been considered unnecessary to insert any of the clauses of the aforesaid Act, relative to Training, by reason that the 7 Vic. c. 67, Sess. 1844, provides, "That no regiment, battalion, or company, shall hereafter be called out for training or discipline, unless some particular public exigency shall arise, and a special order shall be issued for the purpose, by the Lieutenant Governor." Annual.

With regard to such fines imposed by the aforesaid Act of 4 Vic., as are directed to be recovered; as in cases of debt between individuals, the Forms will be the same as in such cases, and will be found under the Title,—Summary Trials. The proceedings for the recovery of the other fines will be, as in similar cases, set forth under various titles of this work; directions as to which proceedings, with the requisite Forms, will be found under the respective Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction, Distress, Commitment.

MISCARRIAGE.

By the 4 Vic. c. 6. Sess. 1841. Sec. 12. Whosoever with intent to procure the miscarriage of any woman, shall unlawfully administer to her, or cause to be taken by her, any poison, or other noxious thing, or shall unlawfully use any instrument, or other means whatsoever, with the like intent, shall be guilty of felony, and be liable to be imprisoned for life, or for any term, not less than one year, as the Court shall award. Perpetual.

The proceedings and Forms will be similar to those in other cases of felony, and will be found under the several appropriate Titles.

MISDEMEANOR.

THIS word, in its usual acceptation, is applied to all those crimes and offences for which the Law has not provided a particular name; and they may be punished, according to the degrees of the offence, by fine or imprisonment, or both. This is the case with respect to acts of omission, or commission, which were punishable at common law; but many offences are by the Statute Law punishable as Misdemeanors, specifically. A Misdemeanor, is, in truth, any crime less than felony, and the word is generally used in contradistinction to felony: and Misdemeanors comprehend all indictable offences which do not amount to felony, as perjury, battery, libels, conspiracies, public nuisances, &c. 3 Burn's, 503.

NAVY.

I. DESERTERS FROM THE NAVY.

By the 32 G. 2, c. 12. 1 Vol. 14. Any person who shall entice any seaman or marine to desert, or harbour, conceal, or assist any deserter from any ship of war, knowing him to be such, shall forfeit twenty pounds, on conviction by one credible witness, or more, before any three Justices of the Peace, (quorum unus,) for the use of Government; to be levied by distress, and, for want of such distress, the offender shall be committed to gaol, there to remain without bail for six months, or till such time as the said fine shall be paid.

Sec. 4. On information made on oath before any Justice of the Peace, by any officer of a ship of war, that one or more of the seamen in His Majesty's service have deserted or absconded, who, there is reason to believe, lie concealed in some dwelling or out-house, where the said officer has been refused admittance, it shall be lawful for such Justice to issue

And upon information on oath as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for any such Justice, and he is hereby required, in the night time, in his own person, attended with the constables, accompanied by one officer, either lieutenant or midshipman, and no seaman or marine with him, to demand entrance into any dwelling house or outhouse, on suspicion of deserters or absconders being concealed there; and the master or mistress refusing entrance to such Justice, so demanding it, shall forfeit twenty pounds, to be levied as aforesaid, upon conviction, and for want of such distress, shall be committed to gaol for six months; the aforesaid sums to be for the uses of this Government. And the person or persons apprehended, supposed to be such deserters or absconders, shall be committed to gaol, until proof is made before one Justice or more, of his or their desertion or absconding, and then shall be delivered up to the officer or officers of the Navy who shall make demand of him or them. And in case any such person, so committed, is not a deserter or absconder, or shall not be in His Majesty's service, he shall be discharged without cost. Perpetual.

II. SELLING OR RECEIVING, SLOP CLOTHES.

By the aforesaid Act, Sec. 2. If any person shall buy, or receive as a pledge, or exchange, any slop clothes from any seaman, or marine, belonging to any of His Majesty's ships of war, upon conviction thereof, or confession, or by the oath of one credible witness, or if such clothes shall be found in the possession of any person, upon complaint that they were bought from or pledged or exchanged by such seamen or marines; in such case the party offending shall pay a fine of five pounds; forty shillings of which to the informer, and three pounds to the use of His Majesty's Government, and the clothes shall be taken from such person, and returned to such seaman or marine; and such person shall be utterly debarred from recovering the purchase or loan money for the same. Any person offending may be convicted before any one or more of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace, who shall levy the penalty, by distress; and in default of distress, shall commit the offender to gaol, there to remain without bail for two months, or until such penalty shall be paid.

Sec. 3. "It shall be lawful for any person, upon seeing or knowing of any seaman or marine belonging to the Navy, selling or exposing to sale any of his clothing or slops, to apprehend him, and carry him immediately to some Justice of the Peace of the county, who shall commit him to gaol, and deliver him over to the captain or other officer of the ship to which he belongs."

This Act is made perpetual by the Act of the 34 G. 2, c. 1. 1 V. 56.

For the Forms, which may be filled up so as to serve, for an information, and for a warrant thereon, to search for a deserter from the Navy, see Title,—Deserters; and for directions as to other proceedings under the provisions of the aforesaid Statute, and for the other Forms requisite, see the general directions and the common Forms in similar cases, given under the respective Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction, Distress, Commitment.

I. AT COMMON LAW.

A COMMON nuisance seems to be, an offence against the public, either by doing a thing which tends to the annoyance of all the King's subjects, or by neglecting to do a thing which the common good requires; and the remedy for this offence is by indictment or presentment at the suit of the King. Annoyances to the prejudice of particular persons, are not punishable by a public prosecution, as common nuisances, but are left to be redressed by the private actions of the parties aggrieved by them; as stopping a prospect; building a house in a larger manner than it was before, so that the street becomes dark,—or erecting a shed so near a man's house that it stops up his lights, are not public nuisances. The following have been held to be cases of public nuisance:—Common bawdy houses, common stages for rope dancers, and all common gaming houses; also a gate erected in a highway, where none had been before; so a wall erected across a highway, and every other unauthorised obstruction of a highway, to the annoyance of the King's subjects. However, in the case of repairing a house, the public must submit to the inconvenience necessarily occasioned thereby, but if this inconvenience is prolonged for an unreasonable time, the public have a right to complain, and the party may be indicted for a nuisance. A mastiff going in the street, unmuzzled, from the ferocity of his nature, being dangerous, and cause of terror to His Majesty's subjects, seems to be a common nuisance, and consequently the owner may be indicted for suffering him to go at large.

No length of time will legitimate a nuisance. It seems to be certain, that any one may pull down, or otherwise destroy, a common nuisance, as a new gate, or even a new house erected in a highway, or the like. But although he may remove the nuisance, yet he cannot remove the materials, or convert them to his own use. So much of the thing only as causes the nuisance ought to be removed. 3 Burn's, 519 to 524.

II. BY STATUTES.

1. Nuisances in Rivers.

By the 26 G. 3, c. 7. 1 V. 247, made perpetual by the 48 G. 3, c. 18. 2 V. 21, it is enacted, That all mill-dams, or other obstructions, across rivers to which fish resort, shall have a waste gate, or slope, for the admission of fish; and if not so constructed, upon complaint made to the General Sessions, the Justices thereof, upon the report of a Jury, under a precept to the Sheriff, may order the owner of such mill-dam or other obstruction, to form such waste gate, or slope, and to pay a fine not exceeding fifty pounds, nor less than ten pounds; and if the said fine, with the charges of prosecution, are not paid, the same shall be levied on the goods and chattels of the offender, by warrant of distress; and if no distress can be found, the offender shall be imprisoned for three months, or until the fine and charges are paid. If the party convicted do not obey such order of the General Sessions, a Special Sessions of three or more Justices may be held, and shall issue a precept to the Sheriff, to prostrate such nuisance; and all persons, when required by the Sheriff, shall assist in so doing. When it appears by the return of the Jury, that persons have complained without sufficient cause, they shall be adjudged to pay costs to the said owner. Justices in their first General Sessions shall distinguish such rivers or streams as they deem useful for the supplying of timber, fire wood, saw-mill logs, and boards; and shall make an order, that all persons thereafter making a mill dam, or other obstruction, on such rivers or streams, shall form a waste gate or slope; and such Justices shall cause copies of such order to be posted up; and if any person shall act contrary thereto, he shall be liable to be proceeded against in the same manner as herein before mentioned; and any mill dam, or other obstruction, not so made, shall be prostrated as in the case aforesaid. Perpetual.

NOTE. As the proceedings under this Statute are to take place in the Sessions, it is thought unnecessary to recite, in full, the several clauses relating to the foregoing regulations.

With regard to the Statutes, and the proceedings, in cases where prosecutions are to be had before Justices, for nuisances in rivers, by obstructing the passage of fish, see Title,—Fisheries.

2. Nuisances concerning Health.

Making regulations concerning Nuisances.

By the 3 W. 4, c. 40. 4 V. 218. The General or Special Sessions, when at least five Justices are attending therein, shall make and publish such rules and regulations as they may deem expedient, for the prevention and removal of nuisances in streets, and elsewhere, whereby the public health may be affected; and for cleaning and purifying streets and other places, and cleaning wells and reservoirs of water; and may impose penalties not exceeding five pounds, nor less than ten shillings, for the violation of such rules and regulations; and, if considered expedient, may appoint Inspectors for carrying the same into effect, and for preventing nuisances and preserving cleanliness.

Removal of Nuisances.

Sec. 4. It shall be lawful for any one Justice, upon his own view, or the oath of one credible witness, to make an order in writing for the removal, burial, or destruction, as he may think necessary, of any animal body, decayed fish, or other offensive substances, occasioning nuisances in, or near, or encumbering the highways, wharves, or places, in any town or settlement, or being in any boat or vessel; and also

Sec. 5. The Inspectors aforesaid, may enter into and examine, in the day time, at such times as they shall think fit, as well all vessels and boats, lying at or near to, as all buildings, lots, yards, wharves, and places of every description, in any town or settlement wherein they may have reason to believe that any offensive substances, injurious to the health of the inhabitants, are, or may be deposited; and to ascertain and report to the Police Office in such town, if any, or to any two Justices of the peace, the condition of such vessels, boats, and places aforesaid, so far as the public health may be affected thereby; and to give all such directions, and enforce all such measures, as in the judgment of such Inspectors, or by the order of such Justices, may be necessary, for the cleansing and purifying all such vessels, boats, and places aforesaid; and to cause to be done every thing, in relation thereto, which, in their opinion, may be necessary to preserve the health of the inhabitants.

Inspecting and examining to Nuisances

Sec. 6. Every penalty, by any such orders or regulations imposed, for offences against the same, shall and may be sued for, and recovered, by any such Inspector or Inspectors, appointed for the place where the offence shall be committed; or if there be no Inspector, then by any person who shall sue for the same, before any two Justices of the peace of the county or district, and in the same manner as if the same penalty were a debt due to the prosecutor; and upon conviction of the offender, by the oath of one credible witness, the amount of the penalty, with costs of suit, shall be adjudged against him, and execution therefor shall be awarded and issued, as in case of debts recovered before magistrates.

Prosecutions for penalties.

Sec. 7. All charges or expenses, not exceeding ten pounds, incurred by the said Inspectors, or by any other person, under the order of a magistrate, for the removal, burial, or destruction of any such substances as aforesaid, may be sued for and recovered from the party liable thereto, in the same manner as is provided for the recovery of the penalties aforesaid; and if the said charges and expenses shall not be so recovered, then the amount thereof may be presented and assessed as other county charges. Perpetual.

Charges of removing Nuisances.

By the 5 W. 4, c. 17. 4 V. 396. The Justices in general or special Sessions, in the several counties and districts, Appointing Health Inspectors.

are required to appoint Health Inspectors, to act within certain described limits, and for certain times to be specified.

Special Court

Sec. 3. Boards of Health, or where there are none, health wardens, or in places where neither are in office, the General Sessions, or any three Justices in Special Sessions, the president of Sessions being one, in the place where he resides, shall form the Special Court contemplated and mentioned in this Act, and all orders by such Court, concerning nuisances, or the removal thereof, or of persons, shall be forthwith executed, notwithstanding any appeal therefrom.

Powers and duties of Health Inspectors.

Sec. 4 & 5. Subject to the control of such Special Court, in all things relating to public health, and as to streets, sewers, and drains, under the control of the commissioners of streets, where there are any, such Health Inspectors shall have the charge and care of streets, passages, wharves, docks, sewers, drains, vaults, privies, markets, and whatever else may injuriously affect the health, or comfort of the inhabitants, with power to remove or destroy nuisances, and to execute all orders and regulations of the said Special Court, and also of the Sessions, under the before mentioned Act concerning nuisances; and shall have the same powers, and perform the same duties, as belong to health wardens under the ninth and tenth Sections of the "Act to provide against the introduction of infectious diseases;" and the said Inspectors shall put this present Act into execution to the utmost of their power, and shall be paid for their services an adequate compensation, which shall be assessed and collected in the same manner as other town charges.

Sec. 9. It shall be the duty of every such Health Inspector, as often as he shall be required by such Special Court, or by any regulations made as aforesaid, or by any health wardens, or Justice of the peace, or whenever such Inspector shall see cause therefor, to open and examine, by himself or his workmen, all public drains, sewers, docks, yards, vaults, and other places where offensive or noxious substances may be, within his limits; and to examine the state of the same; and to report thereon to the Board of Health, or health wardens, to the commissioners of streets, or to any Justices of the peace, by whom such report may have been required; and each of the large common sewers in Halifax shall be examined and cleansed throughout, once at least every year, when ordered by such Special Court.

Whenever any privy or vault shall become offensive, and be so found or reported by the Health Inspector, the same shall be cleansed, and the owner or his agent, or the occupant of the land in which any privy or vault are situated, whereof the condition is in violation of, or contrary to the enactments of this Statute, shall remove; cleanse, alter, amend, or repair the same, within a reasonable time after notice in writing to that effect, given by the Health Inspector, the said Special Court, or any Health Warden, or Justice of the Peace; and in case of neglect or refusal, such cleansing, altering, amendment and repair, shall be done, and all necessary disinfecting substances be procured and used by the Health Inspector, or other proper person, under the order of the said Court, and at the expense of the owner, agent, or occupant aforesaid, and to be recovered from him as before provided.

Cleansing and repairing privies.

Sec. 16. No vault or privy shall be emptied without a permit from the Health Inspector; and no vault shall be opened, between the fifteenth of June and the fifteenth of September, unless directed by the said Special Court, and the expenses thereof shall be borne by such owner, agent, or occupant, and shall never be less than double the amount Foul or infectious substances not to be placed in streets, &c.

Sec. 21. No person, unless duly licensed by the said Court, or other proper authority, shall deposit, or cause to be deposited, in any street, court, square, lane, alley, wharf, or vacant lot, or into any dock, pond, well, or reservoir, any dirt, sawdust, soot, ashes, cinders, shavings, hair, shreds, manure, shells, waste water, rubbish, or filth of any kind, or any animal or vegetable substance whatsoever; nor shall any person cast any dead animal, or any foul or offensive ballast, into any dock or place, within two hundred yards from the extremity of any wharf, nor shall any person land any such foul or offensive animal, or vegetable substance, within any town or the suburbs thereof; nor shall any person cast any dead animal into the harbour, above low water mark, nor below low water mark, without securing thereto a sufficient weight to prevent it from floating.

Removal of Nuisances from Streets, &c.

Sec. 22. If any of the substances in the preceding section mentioned, shall be thrown or carried from any house, warehouse, shop, or cellar, yard, or other place, into any street, lane, alley, court, square, wharf, dock, public place, or vacant lot, as well the owner of such house or other place, as the occupant thereof, and also the person who actually threw or carried the same, shall severally be deemed liable for a violation of this Act; and all such substances shall be removed by and at the expense of such owner or occupant, forthwith, after personal notice to that effect, given to him in writing by the Health Inspector, or shall be immediately removed by such Inspector, at the expense of such owner or occupant.

Removing Nuisances from Houses, &c.

Sec. 23. All dirt, saw dust, soot, ashes, cinders, shavings, hair, shreds, manure, oyster or lobster shells, waste water, or any animal or vegetable substance, rubbish, or filth of any kind, in any house or other place, and which any Special Court or Health Inspector shall deem it necessary, for the health of the town or place, to have removed, shall be carried therefrom, by and at the expense of the owner or occupant of such house or other place, and be removed to such place as shall be directed, within four hours after notice in writing to that effect, given by the said Court, or the Health Inspector, or the Inspector shall forthwith remove the same at the owner's charge.

Sec. 27. Whenever any person has been duly notified to remove any nuisance, or to cleanse, alter, or amend any vault, or drain, or to perform any other act which it may be his duty to perform, in obedience to this Act, or the Statutes, Rules, Orders, and Regulations herein mentioned, and the time limited for the performance of such duty shall elapse without a compliance, the Health Inspector shall either remove the nuisance as aforesaid, or issue new notices, or new orders shall be given by such Special Court, until the duty is performed; and if, in the opinion of such Special Court, or of the Health Inspector, or of the Commissioners of Streets of such place, it shall be for the health or comfort of the inhabitants, that any particular nuisance should be forthwith removed, then it shall be their respective duty to cause the same to be removed without delay, and the expense, thereby incurred, shall be paid by the owner or occupant of the land on which the nuisance exists, or by whom it was caused, and shall be recoverable from him, at the suit of the Inspector.

Regulations as to the removal of Nuisances.

Sec. 28. Any Health Inspector, or any person authorised by the said Court, or any Justice of the Peace, to act in his aid, shall and may at any time between sunrise and sunset, and within the limits of his jurisdiction, enter into any house, building, yard, or other place, and into any vessel or boat, for the purpose of examining any alley, sink, cesspool, privy, vault, drain, sewer, public or private dock, or slip, vessel or boat, in order to report to the said Court thereon, or for examining into, destroying, removing, or preventing any nuisance, source of filth, or cause of sickness therein, or for any other legal purpose referred to by this Act, or the Acts herein before mentioned, and if any person shall refuse to admit such officer, or other person, so authorised, into such building, yard, lot of ground, out house, place, or cellar thereto belonging, or into any such vessel or boat, the said Inspector shall, on oath, complain thereof to the Police Court in Halifax, or to any two Justices in any other place, and obtain a Warrant for such entry, and shall thereupon proceed, under the authority of such Warrant, to examine such building, yard, place, or cellar, and any such vessel or boat, and to destroy, remove, or prevent by all effectual means, and in such manner as the

of the Act.

Sec. 29. Every person offending against any of the clauses or provisions of this Act, or the orders and directions of any Special Court, and whosoever shall refuse, or wilfully neglect, to act in obedience to the same, respectively, or to obey and comply with the directions and orders of the Health Inspector; and whosoever shall resist or oppose the lawful execution of this Act, or of the said Act concerning nuisances, or of any orders or directions made under the authority of the same, or any Health Warden, in the execution of his duty, shall, for every such offence, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor; and shall also incur, and become liable to, a penalty not exceeding twenty pounds, nor less than ten shillings for every such offence, to be recovered in the manner herein after provided.

Limitation and prosecution of penalties.

Sec. 30. It shall be lawful for any Board of Health, or Health Wardens, appointed and acting under the said Act, passed, "more effectually to provide against the introduction of infectious or contagious diseases;" and for any such Special Court, or Health Inspector, acting under the said Act concerning nuisances, or this present Act, to limit and restrain to any sum under ten pounds, but not below ten shillings, the amount to be prosecuted for, in respect of any of the several penalties imposed by, or incurred under, any of the said Acts, for the offences to which they have respectively reference; and all penalties, thus limited, shall and may be sued for and recovered before any one Justice of the county or place wherein the penalty shall be incurred; and all larger penalties shall be recovered in any Court of Record in the same county.

Who shall

Sec. 31. Not only all pecuniary penalties, incurred under the said Act, passed to provide against the introduction of infectious diseases, or under the said Act concerning nuisances, or this present Act, or under any orders, rules, or regulations made or given in pursuance of the powers and authorities in the said Acts granted, but also all such monies and expences as shall be expended under this Act, for or in consequence of the neglect of any owner or occupant of any tenement, land, boat, vessel or place, to perform any order, shall respectively be sued for and recovered, in the name, and on the information of any Health Inspector, within whose limits the offence was committed, or as a debt due to him, as the case may be; and if there be no Health Inspector, then in the name of the Clerk of the Peace of the county or district, unless the Attorney or Solicitor General

Application of penalties

Sec. 33. If any appeal shall be entered against the judgment of a Court of Summary Jurisdiction, or any Justices of the Peace, given for any sum of money sued for by any Clerk of the Peace, or Health Inspector, either as a penalty, or as a debt due to him under the provisions of the present, or any of the said Acts, and such appeal be not duly prosecuted at the first sitting of the Court to which the appeal is prayed, then, on such default being certified by the clerk thereof, execution shall be forthwith issued from the Court, or by the Justice by whom the judgment was rendered.

Appeals.

Sec. 35. In all indictments and informations, to be prosecuted as aforesaid, for offences, misdemeanors, and pecuniary penalties, under the present or above recited Acts, it shall be requisite to insert the respective clauses of the Statute, or the rules, orders, or regulations which have been violated or discharged, and under which the penalty is sought to be recovered; and also to state that the offence was committed in violation of such clause or clauses, between two days to be specified therein; and the general form of the conviction before a Justice or Justices of the Peace shall otherwise be as is now by law provided. Temporary.

Mode of stating offences in indictments.

It will be observed, that certain of the penalties and sums of money mentioned in the foregoing Statutes relating to health, are directed to be sued for by information, and certain others, in the same manner as debts due to the prosecutor. In the former case, the proceedings and Forms will be the same as in like prosecutions for the recovery of penalties, except as is required by the clause last recited. For the said proceedings and Forms, see respectively, Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction. It is to be noted, however, that where the prosecution is by information, no final process of distress, or of any other description, is directed or authorised, by which payment of the penalty may be enforced from the party convicted. Where it is directed that the sum shall be sued for in the same manner as a debt due to the prosecutor, the course of proceeding, and the Forms, will be found under the Title,—Summary Trials.

Directions.

OATHS.

THERE is a difference of opinion concerning the power of Justices of the Peace to administer oaths, in cases under their jurisdiction, where an oath is not expressly required or mentioned, or where Justices are not expressly authorised to administer them. But whatever may be said on these points, there is certainly nothing in the law to sanction a practice which very generally prevails,—that of administering oaths in cases where Justices of the Peace have no jurisdiction; the evil of which is clearly stated by Mr. Justice Blackstone, who says (4 Com. 137.) “The law takes no notice of any perjury but such as is committed in some court of justice, having power to administer an oath; or before some Magistrate, or proper officer, invested with a similar authority, in some proceedings relative to a civil suit, or a criminal prosecution: for it esteems all other oaths unnecessary at least, and therefore will not punish the breach of them. For which reason it is much to be questioned, how far any Magistrate is justifiable in taking a voluntary affidavit, in any extra-judicial matter, as is now too frequent upon every petty occasion; since it is more than possible, that by such idle oaths, a man may frequently, in foro conscientiae, incur the guilt, and at the same time evade the temporal penalties of perjury.” Lord Coke says, it is an high contempt to administer an oath without warrant of law, to be punished by fine and imprisonment. The Court of King’s Bench has often reprehended and discouraged as much as possible, the taking of voluntary affidavits, by Justices of the Peace, in matters not within their jurisdiction. In one case Lord Kenyon said,—“He did not know but that a Magistrate subjects himself to a criminal information for taking a voluntary, extra-judicial affidavit. 3 Burn’s, 531.

civil or criminal, shall, instead of an oath in the usual form, be permitted to make a solemn declaration or affirmation, in these words :

“ I, A. B., do solemnly, sincerely, and truly declare and affirm.”

Which affirmation or declaration shall be adjudged and taken to be of the same force and effect in all courts and other places where by law an oath shall be required, as if such Quaker or Moravian had taken an oath in the usual form. And if any person, making such affirmation or declaration, shall be convicted of having wilfully, falsely, and corruptly affirmed or declared any matter or thing which, if the same had been sworn in the usual form, would have amounted to wilful and corrupt perjury, such offender shall be subject to the same pains, penalties, and forfeitures, with persons convicted of wilful and corrupt perjury. Perpetual.

A Jew is to be sworn upon the Old Testament, a Mahometan upon the Koran, and others, in general, according to the ceremonies of their religion. The particular opinions of a man professing Christianity, are not to be examined into, with reference to his being sworn, but he is only to be asked, whether he believes the obligation of an oath, the being of a Deity, and a future state of rewards and punishments. But a person who has no idea of the being of a God, or a future state of rewards and punishments, is not admissible. But in such a case, the trial may be postponed, until the witness is instructed as to the nature and obligation of an oath. 3 Burn's, 537-8.

ORPHANS.

By the 33 G. 2, c. 1, Sec. 7. 1 V. 42. The Overseers of the Poor of the town of Halifax shall take order from time to time, by and with the consent of two or more Justices of the Peace for the county of Halifax, for setting to work the children of all such, whose parents shall not by the said Overseers, or the greater part of them, be thought able to maintain them; or any poor orphans; or by indenture to bind out any such children, or orphans, as aforesaid, to be apprentices, where they shall see convenient, till such man child shall come to the age of twenty-one years, and such woman child to the age of eighteen years, or the time of her marriage; the same to be as effectual to all purposes, as if such child were of full age, and, by indenture of covenant, had bound him or herself. Provided always, that one of the conditions of said indentures shall be, that if the said master or mistress of said apprentice, or other person to whom said indenture may be assigned, shall transport or carry said apprentice out of this Province, to reside or dwell in any other colony or plantation, that then the said indenture shall be void, and the said apprentice shall thenceforth be discharged from any further service to his said master or mistress, or assigns. Provided, also, that the children maintained in the orphan house, at the expense of the Crown, shall remain and be under the direction of the Governor as heretofore, and bound out in such manner as he shall order and direct. Perpetual.

By the 3 & 4 G. 3, c. 9. 1 V. 96. The said clause in the before recited Act, relating to the binding out poor children and orphans, and all the directions therein contained, shall, for the future, extend to all the other towns in this Province. Perpetual.

By the 13 & 14 G. 3, c. 2. 1 V. 178. All accounts of charges, on obtaining and executing writs of partition, shall be laid before the Supreme Court, and when approved of, assessors shall be appointed by such Court to assess the amount, in due proportion, on the proprietors, and to levy the same from them, and to pay it over to the person appointed by the Court to receive the same. And if any proprietor, or other person in possession of any land allotted and assigned under a writ of partition, shall refuse or neglect to pay the sum assessed, as his dividend or proportion of the charges aforesaid, it shall and may be lawful for any one Justice of the Peace, on complaint of the receiver appointed as aforesaid, to issue a warrant of distress and sale of the delinquent's goods and chattels, for the recovery of the sum so assessed, with the charges of the prosecution.

thereon, whereby the sum due as aforesaid may be levied, it shall be lawful for any one Justice of the Peace, to let out any part of such delinquent's lands as may be sufficient to pay, by the produce of the same, any such dividend, proportion, or charge so due, and in case no person shall offer to hire the same, such lands shall be held chargeable therewith. Perpetual.

NOTE. Although, from the words used in the foregoing Act, concerning the issuing of a warrant of distress, it would seem, as if such writ might be granted immediately on the complaint of the receiver, without any other proceedings, yet it is considered, that previous to such writ being issued, it is requisite that the party complained of, should be summoned in the usual Form, to appear before the Justice, to answer to the complaint, so that he may have an opportunity of shewing cause, if he have any, why he has not paid the sum assessed on him.

PASSENGERS.

By the 6 Vic. c. 31. Sess. 1843. The several previous Acts relating to Passengers arriving in this Province have been repealed, and the following enactments, among others, have been thereby made on the subject.

Sec. 1. Whensoever any vessel shall arrive or come to any port or place within this Province, the master or commander of such vessel, immediately after the arrival thereof, and before such vessel shall be admitted to an entry, shall either make and subscribe a declaration before the collector or other principal officer or officers of Her Majesty's Customs for the port or place where such vessel shall arrive, that no passenger or passengers embarked or sailed on board of such vessel, on her said voyage, to this Province, or otherwise, shall make out and deliver to the said Collector or other principal officer or officers, a Schedule or List, in writing, to be signed by him, setting forth the name or names, trade, occupation, profession, or employment of all and every passenger or passengers who shall or may have respectively been embarked or have sailed on board of such vessel, on her said voyage; and also the name or names, trade, occupation, profession, or employment, of all and every passenger or passengers respectively, who shall or may arrive and be landed from such vessel, in any port or place within this Province.

Sec. 7. If any master or commander of any vessel, with passenger or passengers on board, arriving at any port or place within this Province, shall neglect or refuse to make out and deliver to the Collector or other principal officer or officers of the Customs, such Schedule or List, in writing, as is hereinbefore required, or shall fraudulently make and subscribe any such declaration, or make out and deliver any such Schedule or List, which shall be false and untrue in any particular, then, and in either of such cases, such master or commander shall forfeit and pay the sum of fifty pounds, to be sued for and recovered as hereinafter provided.

Sec. 8. Any master or other person in command or charge of any such vessel, which shall arrive at any port or place in this Province, who, not being compelled thereto by absolute necessity, to be adjudged of by the said officers of Her Majesty's Customs, shall land, or shall knowingly suffer to land, any passenger or passengers in any port or place within this Province, before making the entry and declaration herein before required, or otherwise contrary to the provisions of this Act, shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten pounds for every such passenger so landed, to be recovered by bill, plaint or information, in any Court of Record in this Province.

Sec. 10. For the purpose and within the meaning of this Act, two children, each being under the age of fourteen years, shall in all cases be computed as one passenger; and that children under the age of one year shall not be included in the computation of the number of passengers.

Sec. 13. All penalties imposed by this Act for offences against the same, may be sued for and recovered by the Collector or other officer of Her Majesty's Customs, or by any person commissioned for that purpose, by the Governor, Lieutenant Governor or Commander-in-Chief, before any two or more Justices of the Peace for the county in which the offence shall have been committed, or cause of complaint shall have arisen, or in which the offender or party complained against shall happen to be, and upon complaint being made before any one Justice of the Peace as aforesaid, he shall issue a summons requiring the party offending or complained against to appear on a day, and at an hour and place to be named in such summons, and every such summons shall be served on the party offending or complained against, or shall be left at his last house, place of residence, or business, or on board any ship to which he may belong, and either upon the appearance, or default to appear, by the party offending or complained against, it shall be lawful for any two or more Justices to proceed summarily upon the case, and either with or without any written information, and upon proof of the offence or of the complainant's claim, either by confession of the party offending, or complained against, or upon the oath of one or more credible witness, (which oath such Justices are hereby authorised to administer,) it shall be lawful for such Justices to convict the offender, and upon such conviction, to order the offender or party complained against, to pay such penalty as the Justices may declare to have been incurred, and also to pay the costs attending the information or complaint; and if forthwith upon any such order the monies thereby ordered to be paid, be not paid, the same may be levied, together with the costs of the distress and sale, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the party ordered to pay such monies, the surplus, if any, to be returned to him upon demand, and any such Justices may issue their warrant accordingly, and may also order such party to be detained and kept in safe custody until return can be conveniently made to such warrant of distress, unless such party give security to the satisfaction of such Justices for his appearance before them on the day appointed for such return, such day or days not being more than eight days from the time of taking such security; but if it shall appear to such Justices, by the admission of such party, or otherwise, that no sufficient distress can be had, whereon to levy the monies so adjudged to be paid, they may, if they think fit, refrain from issuing such warrant of distress, and in such case, or if such warrant shall have been issued upon the return thereof, such insufficiency as aforesaid, shall be made to appear to the Justices, or any two or more of such Justices as aforesaid, then such Justices shall, by warrant, cause the party ordered to pay such monies and costs as aforesaid, to be committed to gaol, there to remain without bail for any term not exceeding three months, unless such monies and costs, ordered to be paid, and such costs of distress and sale as aforesaid, be sooner paid and satisfied. Temporary.

By the 7 Vic. c. 49, Sess. 1844. The master of any vessel, arriving from any of the British colonies, shall not be required to make the payment of five shillings each, for all or any of the passengers on board said vessel who may be brought into or land in this Province, notwithstanding any thing contained in the aforesaid Act of 6 Vic. Temporary.

It may be observed, that there is an express contradiction in the aforesaid Act of the 6 Vic. with regard to the recovery of the penalties thereby imposed. In the 8th clause it is declared, that the penalty of £10 imposed for the offence therein mentioned, shall be recovered "by bill, plaint, or information in any Court of Record," and in clause 13, it is enacted, that "all penalties imposed by the Act, for offences against the same, shall be recovered before two Justices of the Peace." The only penalty imposed by the Act, besides the £10, is the one of £50 mentioned in clause 7. As it is so expressly directed that the £10 shall be recovered in the mode pointed out in the clause in which it is imposed, it is considered that it cannot be sued for before Justices, under the before recited general clause as to penalties. The only penalty therefore to be recovered before the Justices, is that of £50.

PEDLARS.

By the 22 G. 3, c. 1, 1 V. 225. No hawker, pedlar, or petty chapman, or other trading person or persons, going from town to town, or other men's houses, and travelling, either on foot, or with a horse; or otherwise carrying to sell, or exposing to sale, in any house, or in any town or village, whereof such person is not an inhabitant, except in any public fair or market, any wares, goods or merchandise, without previously giving bond, and taking out a license, if at Halifax from the Clerk of the Licences, and if in any other county or district, from the Clerk of the Peace, by consent of at least three Justices of the Peace for such county or district, in the same manner as bonds are taken and licences for retailing liquors are granted; for which license there shall be paid half yearly, as follows: Where such pedlar travels on foot, without a beast of burthen, three pounds; where he travels with one beast, six pounds; and for every other beast exceeding one,—two pounds; and the number of horses or other beasts, when any, shall be expressly specified in the license. And every person who shall so expose to sale, any goods, wares, or merchandize, except as aforesaid, without being licensed as aforesaid, shall forfeit all such goods, wares, and merchandize so exposed to sale, contrary hereto. Fines and forfeitures shall be recovered in any Court of Record.

PENITENTIARY.

By the Act of 7 Vic. c. 3. Sess. 1844, Sec. 25. Every person who shall rescue any criminal or convict who shall be ordered to be imprisoned within the Provincial Penitentiary, either during the time of his conveyance to the said Penitentiary, or of his imprisonment therein, and also, every person who shall aid in any such rescue, shall be guilty of felony; and every person having the custody of any such criminal or convict as aforesaid, or being employed by the person having such custody as a keeper, under-keeper, turnkey, assistant, or guard, who shall knowingly and wilfully allow such convict to escape; and also, every person who, by supplying arms, tools, or instruments of disguise or otherwise, shall in any manner aid any such criminal or convict in any escape, though no escape be actually made, and every person who shall attempt to rescue any such criminal or convict, or aid in any such attempt, though no rescue be actually made, shall be guilty of felony, and every person having such custody as aforesaid, who shall carelessly allow any such criminal or convict to escape, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, being lawfully convicted of such misdemeanor, shall be liable to fine or imprisonment, or to both, at the discretion of the Court. Temporary.

Persons rescuing Convicts to be guilty of felony.

The proceedings before a Justice or Justices for this offence, will be similar to those in other cases of felony, or misdemeanor, and the Forms also.

PERJURY.

PERJURY by the common law, seems to be a wilful false oath, by one, who being lawfully required to depose the truth in any judicial proceeding, swears absolutely in a matter material to the point in question, whether he be believed or not. The false oath must be wilful, and proved to be taken with some degree of deliberation ; and as to the falsehood, a party swearing the truth, not knowing it to be so, is guilty of perjury. To found an indictment for perjury, the requisite circumstances are these ;—the oath must be taken in a judicial proceeding, before a competent jurisdiction ; and it must be material to the question depending, and false. 3 Burn's, 601.

By the 32 G. 2, c. 20. Sec. 9. 1 V. 30, it is enacted, that if any person or persons, either by the subornation, unlawful procurement, sinister persuasion, or means of any other, or by their own act, consent, or agreement, shall wilfully or corruptly commit perjury, by his, her, or their deposition in any Court of Record, or being examined ad perpetuam rei memoriam, every person so offending, and being thereof duly convicted, shall forfeit twenty pounds, the one moiety thereof for the support of this His Majesty's Government, and the other moiety to such person or persons as shall be grieved by reason of the offence, who shall sue for the same by any action of debt, bill, plaint, or information in any Court of Record ; and shall also be imprisoned by the space of six months, without bail or mainprize. And the oath of such person or persons shall not be received in any Court of Record, until the judgment against him or them shall be reversed ; and upon every such reversal, the parties aggrieved shall recover their damages against such person or persons as did procure the said judgment, so reversed, to be given against them or any of them, by his, her, or their action upon the case.

Sec. 10. If the said offender or offenders shall not have any goods or chattels to the value of twenty pounds, then he, she, or they shall be set on the pillory for one hour, and both his ears shall be nailed to the pillory, and from thenceforth such offender shall be discredited, and disabled forever to be sworn in any Court of Record, until such judgment shall be reversed.

Sec. 11. Every person and persons who shall unlawfully and corruptly procure any witness or witnesses by letters, rewards, promises, or by any other sinister and unlawful labour or means whatsoever, to commit any wilful and corrupt perjury in any matter or cause whatsoever, depending, or that shall depend in suit and variance by any writ, action, bill, complaint, or information, in any Court of Record, or to testify in perpetuam rei memoriam; every such offender, being thereof duly convicted, shall suffer the like pains, penalties, forfeitures and disabilities, in all respects, as are hereby directed for the like offences, and the said forfeiture to be recovered and applied in manner as aforesaid.

Sec. 12. As well the Judges of the said Courts where such perjury shall be committed, as also the Justices of assize and gaol delivery, and the Justices of the Peace at their Quarter Sessions, shall have power to enquire of all the said offences of wilful perjury and subornation of perjury, and thereupon to give judgment, award process and execution of the same. Perpetual.

POOR.

This extensive Title will be treated of under two principal divisions, into which it may conveniently be arranged; the one relating to the support, and the other to the settlement of the Poor. In discussing these divisions, the Statutes concerning them, respectively, will first be set forth in full, and then they will be treated of and explained at large under appropriate subdivisions.

I. OF THE SUPPORT OF THE POOR; and herein.

1. Of Overseers.
2. Of the Poor Rate.
3. Of Relief.

THE general Statute relating to the support and management of the Poor, is the 4 G. 4, c. 6. 3 V. 149. By which it is enacted as follows :

Voting money

Sec. 1. It shall be lawful for the freeholders of each township, (the town of Halifax excepted,) or any settlement or place not comprehended within any such township, and where there are twenty or more freeholders resident, to hold two meetings annually, if necessary, to make provision for the support of their poor; which meetings shall be held on the first Monday in April, and on the first Monday in November; and of which meeting, with the place or places of holding the same, the constables for the said townships and settlements respectively, upon a precept directed to them being issued, shall give notice, at least ten days before the said times of meeting respectively; at which meetings the said freeholders present, having first elected a chairman to preside at the same, shall and may vote such sums of money as they shall judge necessary for the support of their poor, for the current year, or for the next ensuing six months of the same; and shall choose and appoint five freeholders of such township or settlement, any three of whom shall be a quorum, to assess, as hereinafter mentioned, for the sum or sums of money so voted; and in case the business to be transacted at the said meeting cannot be completed on the said days respectively, it shall be lawful for the said chairman, with the consent of the majority of the freeholders then present, to adjourn the said meeting to the day following, or to any other day, and then to conclude the business of the same.

Sec. 2. If the sum voted at any such meeting be insufficient, the freeholders at their next meeting may vote a further sum to make up the deficiency.

of the township or settlement for which they have been appointed, in just and equal proportion, and as near as may be according to the known estate, either real or personal, of such inhabitants, for making up the sums respectively voted for the purpose aforesaid, and shall appoint collectors to collect and receive the same; and if any person, so assessed, shall neglect or refuse to pay the sum for which he or she was assessed as aforesaid, the sum shall and may be levied from him or her, by warrant of distress from any one Justice for the county wherein such person resides. Appeals. Provided, that no person shall be assessed any sum, unless in the opinion of the assessors he shall be able to pay, annually, one shilling at least; and provided also, that if any person shall think him or herself overrated, such person may appeal for redress to the next General Sessions, or the next Special Sessions which may be held for the hearing of such appeals in the county or district; and the Justices in such Sessions are hereby required and empowered to examine, hear and determine every such appeal or complaint, and to give redress as they shall think equitable; and their order and judgment on such appeal shall be final and bind all parties.

Appointment and duties of Overseers.

Sec. 5. The Overseers of the Poor throughout the Province, (the town of Halifax excepted,) shall continue to be nominated and appointed as now by law provided, and being sworn to the faithful execution of the duties of the office, shall, at least twenty days before the times herein before appointed for meeting to make provision for the poor, issue their precept to the constables of the several townships and settlements respectively, requiring them to notify the inhabitants thereof to meet on the said several days, for the purpose aforesaid; and the said Overseers shall apply all sums of money voted as aforesaid, and received by them in their said capacity, for the before mentioned purpose only; and if any collector shall neglect or refuse to pay over to the said Overseers any sum collected by him, the said Overseers shall prosecute such collector for the recovery of the same in any Court of Record; and the said Overseers shall within one month after the expiration of their office, render to the Clerk of the peace of the county, to be by him laid before the Justices at their next Sessions, an account of all sums received and expended by them for the support of the poor, and shall account on oath, if required, before the General Sessions held next after the expiration of their office, for all sums received and applied and expended by them as aforesaid; and they shall enter their proceedings in a book to be kept for the purpose; and at the expiration of their office they shall deliver the same to their successors, and shall pay into their hands any balance of money received by them and remaining unexpended.

Examination of Overseers Accounts.

Sec. 6. The Justices in Sessions, (except in Halifax,) shall examine the accounts of the Overseers of the Poor, submitted to them as before directed, and shall allow such accounts if they appear just, and may refuse to allow any sums charged which the said Justices shall have reasonable grounds to believe unduly or unfairly charged or expended.

Fines on Overseers for
duty.

Sec. 7. Every person who has been duly appointed an Overseer of the Poor, and who shall refuse to serve in the office, shall forfeit five pounds; which sum shall be sued for before any two Justices, by the Overseers who shall be in office next after such refusal, within and for the same place. And the Overseers for the time being, who shall neglect to issue their precept as aforesaid, to the constables, requiring them to notify the inhabitants to meet on the days aforesaid, to vote money as aforesaid, shall severally forfeit and pay ten pounds, which shall be sued for by the Clerk of the peace, or by any other person who will sue for the same, in any Court of Record within the county; and all such Overseers as shall not, within one month after the expiration of their office, render to the Clerk of the peace an account of all sums received and expended by them, in manner directed by the fifth Section of this Act, shall, on complaint of the said Clerk, or of any one or more inhabitants, forfeit five pounds each, which shall be levied upon non payment thereof, by warrant under the hands and seals of any two Justices; and all fines by this Section imposed, shall be expended towards the support of the poor of the townships or settlements wherein such fines were incurred.

Amercements
by Sessions.

Sec. 8. In case the freeholders of any township or settlement shall neglect to meet on any of the days before mentioned, for the purpose aforesaid, or having met, shall neglect to make any provision for the poor, or one adequate and sufficient for the purpose, in any or either case, the Justices in the General Sessions, or in any Special Sessions to be called and held for the purpose, shall on the application of the Overseers, amerce such township or settlement in such a sum as shall appear to them to be necessary for the purpose aforesaid; and shall appoint five freeholders of such township or settlement, (any three of whom shall form a quorum,) to assess the same upon the inhabitants in manner herein before directed; which assessors shall nominate and appoint collectors to collect the sums so assessed; and the assessment, so made, shall be affixed in some public place

Sec. 9. Where any person, appointed an assessor under this Act, shall refuse to serve, the freeholders or Justices in each case, respectively, shall appoint another in his stead; and every person appointed an assessor who shall refuse to serve, shall forfeit forty shillings; and every person who has accepted the said office, and who shall neglect or refuse to make the assessment required within twenty days after his appointment, shall be subject to a fine of five pounds; which fines, respectively, shall, on failure of payment thereof, be recovered by complaint or information, by the Overseers of the poor, before any two Justices of the county, and shall be levied by warrant of distress from the said Justices, and by sale of the offender's goods and chattels; and all such fines shall be expended towards the support of the poor of the township or settlement within which such fines were incurred. Provided, that no person shall be obliged to serve as an assessor more than once in three years.

Assessors
serve.

Sec. 10. Every person, appointed a collector as aforesaid, who shall refuse to serve, shall forfeit forty shillings, and another person shall forthwith be appointed in like manner to serve as aforesaid; which fine, on failure of payment thereof, shall be recovered by the Overseers of the poor where such fine was incurred, before any two Justices for the county, and be levied by warrant of distress from the said Justices, and by sale of the offender's goods and chattels, and be expended for the use of the poor of the township or settlement.

Collectors

Sec. 11. Every collector shall, once in every three months, account with, and pay into the hands of the Overseers of the poor, where he is acting, all such sums as he may have collected or received, and upon his neglect so to account and pay, he shall be prosecuted for recovery of the same, by the Overseers for the time being, in any Court of Record; and every person, who has accepted the said office of a collector, and who shall neglect for thirty days thereafter to perform the duty required of him by this Act, of enforcing agreeable to the directions of the same, the payment of the sum or sums which he was appointed to collect, shall forfeit five pounds for every such neglect; which shall in like manner be sued for and recovered, and be expended for the use of the poor of the township or settlement wherein such fine was incurred.

relief, from pauper's estate.

Sec. 13. When any person shall apply for and obtain relief from the Overseers of any town or place, and it shall happen that such person at the time of such application or relief, was possessed of, or entitled to any property, real or personal, out of which the expences incurred for his or her relief may be repaid, it shall be lawful for such Overseers, as creditors to such person, on behalf of the public, to demand and receive from him or her a repayment of all or any part of the expences so incurred, and if need be, to enforce the payment thereof by the usual remedies of attachment, arrest, or other legal process; and all monies, so received or recovered, shall be accounted for by such Overseers, as other monies received for the use of the poor.

Levying for
an appeal.

Sec. 14. If any person, assessed by virtue of this Act, shall refuse or neglect to pay the sum for which he was assessed, it shall be lawful for the collector or collectors appointed to receive the said rates, notwithstanding any such appeal as aforesaid, to levy for the amount of such person's rate, by warrant of distress, in manner herein before provided for the recovery of the same.

Reimburse-
peal.

Sec. 15. If the person, so appealing to the next General or Special Sessions, shall make it appear to the Justices thereof, that he hath been assessed or taxed more than his just proportion of the amount of the said assessment, then it shall be lawful for the said Justices to cause such appellant to be relieved and reimbursed the excess of such rate, by order to the Overseers for the township or settlement within which such person was overrated, which Overseers are hereby directed to refund the same.

Sec. 16. This Act shall not extend to repeal, alter, or affect, any of the laws now in force, relating to the settlement of the poor.

Sec. 17. All former Acts, relating to the support of the poor, are hereby repealed, except so far as they relate to the town of Halifax. Perpetual.

township or settlement, at their respective meetings duly called, to make provision for the poor of such township or settlement, to nominate and appoint, in due form, any number of freeholders to be assessors of poor rates, voted or rated within and upon such township or settlement, not less than five nor exceeding ten, in the whole of such township or settlement, as the majority of such freeholders present at such meeting may judge expedient and proper, any three of whom shall be a quorum, in cases where less than eight shall have been so nominated and appointed as such assessors; and five shall be a quorum, where seven or upwards shall be so appointed as such assessors, for the purposes of their said office.

Sec. 2. No person being an assessor or assessors of poor rates, shall, upon any pretence whatsoever, be exempt from being assessed, and paying his or their due and just proportion of all such rates, taxes or assessments, as shall from time to time be duly voted, rated, assessed and levied, for the support and maintenance of the poor; and if any person or persons being assessor or assessors of poor rates, shall refuse or neglect to rate and assess himself or themselves in a due and just proportion of and for all or any such rates, taxes or assessments, as shall be duly voted and rated for the support and maintenance of the poor, on the township or settlement for which he or they shall or may be the assessor or assessors, the person so offending shall forfeit and pay the sum of five pounds, the same to be sued for, recovered and applied, in manner and form as is directed in and by the Act, of which this is an amendment. Perpetual.

Assessors not to be exempt from being assessed.

By the 3 W. 4, c. 63. 4 V. 240. The General Sessions shall establish the rate of commission to the collectors of poor rates, the same not to exceed five pounds for every hundred pounds by him collected. Perpetual.

1. Of Overseers.

By the 5 G. 3, c. 1. 1 V. 106. The Grand Jury shall, annually at the General Sessions, nominate out of every township, ten fit persons, out of whom the Court shall appoint five, to be surveyors of lines and bounds and Overseers of poor of each respective township; and if any person, so nominated and appointed, shall leave the Province, change the town of his residence, or die within the period for which he was appointed to serve, any two Justices for the county shall and may appoint a fit person or persons to act in such vacant office, until another shall be appointed at the next ensuing General Sessions. Perpetual.

By 51 G. 3, c. 24, 2 V. 79. The Grand Jury, at such term of the General Sessions as the Court shall direct, shall nominate such number of fit persons as the Court shall direct, to discharge the duties of town officers, out of whom the Court shall appoint such number as they may deem expedient. Perpetual.

NOTE. It will be seen by the before recited general Act concerning the support of the poor, that certain fines are imposed on persons refusing to serve as Overseers, and also for the neglect of certain duties of the office.

For all neglects of duty and abuses in office, they are punishable by indictment. If an Overseer do not provide for the poor, he is indictable, and if he relieve the poor when there is no necessity for it, it is a misdemeanor. 4 Burn's, 28.

No expences of their own will be allowed to the Overseers beyond what are barely necessary. A salary for their services is not allowable. When they have advanced money for the support of the poor, they may reimburse themselves out of any subsequent rate made during their year.—Id. 183.

Shall assess the Inhabitants.] By these words in the Statute, it is plain that all persons who have their residence within the township or settlement, and who possess within it any real or personal estate, or property of any description, are liable to be rated, except as is mentioned in the Proviso, —“ persons who in the opinion of assessors are not able to pay annually for this purpose, the sum of one shilling at least.” Although this Statute mentions only inhabitants as liable to be rated, yet it would seem by the Statutes concerning non resident proprietors of lands, that they may be rated for such lands in the places where the lands are situated, to-

The occupier of land, in general, is to be charged with the rate, and the reason is, that the poor rate is not a charge upon the land, but upon the occupier in respect of the land. 4 Burn's, 40.

No inhabitant is to be taxed by a parish, in regard of any estate he hath elsewhere in any other town or place, but only in regard of the visible estate he hath in the town where he dwells. The lessee of a stall in a market town, who comes weekly, to the market to sell his wares, shall not, it would seem, be rated for the poor in such town; neither shall a man who takes up his lodging for a week in a town. If the owner of a house occupy a part thereof only, but his servants occupy other parts, and no one reside in the house but a poor person, permitted to do so out of charity, the owner is rateable as occupying the whole.

A corporate body are occupiers and inhabitants, for the purpose of being rated.

A schoolmaster, occupying a house and garden belonging to the school, is rateable, although held by him as a recompense for teaching, &c., he being a beneficial occupant. Where residence upon, or the use of a property, is merely as a servant of the Crown, and for public offices, or purposes only, the party, so residing or occupying, is not rateable for the property. 4 Burn's, 41 to 46.

2. What property is rateable.

According to the known estate, either real or personal, of such inhabitants.] These words, as far as they regard real estate, will of course include lands, and houses and buildings of every description, with all the hereditaments, privileges, and appurtenances belonging or appertaining to real or landed property. As they regard personal estate, it seems equally clear, that they subject to the rate, all kinds of local and visible personal property. It is true that in England it has been determined, that a farmer's stock, household furniture, and some other descriptions of personal property, are not rateable to the poor, but the reason for such decisions seems to be, that the English Statute of the 43 of Elizabeth, c. 2, which in the general Act on the subject, does not contain a word about personal estate, but only provides that every inhabitant shall be rated. It is for this reason therefore it would appear, that it is said in 4 Burn's, page 51, that the Court of King's Bench, from the difficulties attending the matter in practice, have all along been averse from delivering any opinion upon the general question, whether, or how far, personal estate is liable to be rated to the poor, but have determined the several cases, upon their own particular circumstances, or quashed the rates for insufficiency in point of form. No such difficulties, however, exist in this Province, as our Statute contains the extremely comprehensive words already cited, as to personal estate. It appears quite clear, therefore, that here, a farmer's stock and household furniture, which certainly are personal estate as much as any other description or part of a man's goods, and in short, as already observed, all articles and descriptions of personal property, of a local and visible nature, are, by these comprehensive words of our Statute, liable to be rated.

Stock in trade is liable to be rated, as yielding certain profits. The bare possession of personal property is evidence from which the conclusion may be drawn that the possessor is rateable for it. Money out at interest, is not rateable, nor money vested in the public funds. Salaries, and the profits of an attorney, are not rateable. Rent is not the subject of a poor rate. Lime works are rateable in the hands of the occupier—so is a slate work. Where a farmer lets his dairy of cows, he may be rated for the profits, as part of the profits of the farm, as they may be rated in the hands of the dairyman, provided the farmer be not rated for the profit he derives from letting them to hire. The profits of a mineral spring, or any other spring of water, are part of the produce of the land, and therefore the occupier is rateable for the whole, as one estate. Lands converted into a dock are rateable. 4 Burn's, 54 to 77.

3. Where property is rateable.

For lands and tenements, the assessment is, of course, made where they lie. 3 Burn's, 83.

NOTE. It has been already mentioned, that the person who is in possession of personal goods is rateable for them. This, of course, according to the Act, must be in the place of which he is an inhabitant.

It has been expressly decided, that vessels are liable to be rated in the parish where they are locally and visibly domiciled, although out of it at the time of making the rate; but not where they have never been within the parish. It is not necessary for the purpose of making property rateable in any parish, that it must be permanent there, and produce profit there. 4 Burn's, 89.

4. Of the proportion in which the Rate shall be made.

In just and equal proportion.] A rate is not to be presumed unequal, because lands and houses are not rated alike. There may be reason to make a difference between them. For there are several charges incident to houses, which do not fall upon lands, to lessen their yearly value. Unless a rate be manifestly unequal, the Court will presume it equal. No general rule can be laid down as to the proportion to be observed in rating houses and lands. The proportion must ever depend on local circumstances. A person must be rated according to the present value of his estate, whether it continue of the same value as when he purchased it, or whether the estate be rendered more valuable by the improvements made upon it. If a person chuse to keep his property in money, and the fact of his possessing it be clearly proved, he is rateable for that; but if he prefer using it in the amelioration of an estate, or other property, he is rateable for the same in another shape. In whatever way the owner makes his estate more valuable, he is liable to contribute to the relief of the poor, in proportion to that improved estate; and whatever be the proportion of rating in a parish, whether to the full value, or otherwise, the rate must be equally made on all persons; there cannot be one medium of rating for one class of persons, and another for another class. Rent is not a certain criterion of value, by which to determine a proportion of rate. Nor is the land tax a rule for the poor rate. 4 Burn's, 95-7.

5. Appeal; and the power of the Sessions thereupon.

By the words "next Sessions" used in the Act, is to be understood, the next Sessions to which the party can by possibility appeal, after being aggrieved by the rate; and this is always a question of fact. See 4 Burn's, 103.

[NOTE.—As the Statute does not direct that any notice of appeal shall be given, it would seem that no such notice is absolutely requisite, although it appears to be most proper, and is certainly most convenient to give it.]

When the appellant objects to his being rated at all, it is the practice for the respondents to begin; but if he object to the quantum of the rate, then the burthen lies on him, and he should begin. Where the appellant disputes, before the Sessions, the quantum of the rate, it is not sufficient for the respondent to shew that the appellant is in possession of some rateable property within the parish, they must also shew some probable ground for the amount at which they charge the party in the rate. 4 Burn's, 106.

On examining the provisions concerning appeals, in our Statute, with reference to the English Statutes and decisions on the subject, it seems doubtful, whether, or how far, the Sessions here, on an appeal, have the power to quash, or to amend a rate, especially to alter or amend it by adding to the rate, the names and proportions of persons not previously included therein. The following clauses of the before recited Statute of the 4 G. 4, c. 6, are the only provisions in force concerning such appeals.

Sec. 4. "Provided, that if any person shall think himself overrated, he may appeal for redress to the next General Sessions, or the next Special Sessions, which may be held for the hearing of such appeals; and the Justices are empowered to examine, hear, and determine such appeal, and to give redress as they shall think equitable; and their order and judgment shall be final and bind all parties."

Sec. 15. "If the person, so appealing, shall make it appear to the Justices that he hath been assessed more than his just proportion of the amount of the assessment, it shall be lawful for the Justices to cause him to be relieved and reimbursed the excess of such rate, by order on the Overseers, who shall refund the same." By the English Statute of the 43 Eliz. c. 2, it is provided, that the Sessions, on an appeal, may "take such order therein as to them shall be thought convenient, and the same to conclude and bind all the said parties." By the 17 G. 2, c. 33, it is further provided, that, "on all appeals from rates and assessments, the Justices shall amend the same, in such manner only as shall be necessary for giving relief, without altering such rates, &c., with respect to other persons mentioned in the same; but if, upon an appeal from the whole rate, it shall be found necessary, they may quash or set aside the same and direct a new and equal rate to be made." But by the 41 G. 3, c. 23, ample power is given to the Sessions on appeals, "to amend rates or assessments, either by inserting therein, or striking out the name of any person, or by altering the sum therein charged on any person, or in any other manner they may think necessary, without quashing the rate, or they may quash it wholly." Previous to this Statute, but subsequent to the aforesaid one of the 17 G. 2., it was decided in one case, mentioned in 4 Burn's, 52, "that the Sessions ought not to have quashed a rate, but should have added those persons, and that property, which it was thought were illegally omitted," but in a subsequent case, stated in the same book, page 55, the Court decided, that "the Sessions, on the appeal, could not add to the rate the names of persons who were left out of it, because, thereby, the proportion of every other person would be altered, but they were bound to quash the rate." In a much later case, reported in 16 East, 380, where the question was, as to the rateability of stock in trade, which, in assessing the owner, had been purposely omitted, the Court said, "The Justices should have amended the rate and not quashed it. The 41 G. 3, c. 23, was passed for the very purpose of enabling them to do so, in order to prevent the inconvenience of the parish being without funds for the maintenance of its poor in the mean time." Now, as to our own Act, it has been seen, that it does not contain a word about amending a rate, in one way or another, or as to setting it aside, and therefore, reasoning by analogy, upon a consideration of the before mentioned English Statutes and decisions, it does seem rather more than doubtful, whether the words used in the before recited clauses of our Statute, do convey sufficient power to the Sessions, either to amend a rate, by adding other names and sums to it, and consequently, to alter the several proportions throughout, or to set aside the rate, altogether. It is not known that these points have yet been decided upon, in the higher Court. It is, indeed, provided in the Act, that "the Justices may cause a party to be reimbursed, the excess beyond his just proportion of the amount of any assessment," but it is not easy to imagine how this can be done, where it is made to appear, on the appeal, that several persons, who were liable, have not been included in the rate. It may probably be said, that these words in the first of the before recited clauses, "give redress as they in their judgment shall think equitable," may be so construed, as to convey to the Sessions, a discretionary power to alter or amend a rate throughout, or to set it aside; but on a view of the beforementioned English Statutes and decisions, it would much rather seem, that such a conclusion could not be maintained. Moreover, it does appear sufficiently plain, that these words, when considered in connection with the subsequent clause on the subject, are only intended to relate to the granting relief or reimbursement to the party appealing. Upon the whole, it seems highly desirable, that enactments should be made, similar to those in the last cited English Statute, so as to remove the doubts and difficulties here suggested.

6. Of distraining for the poor rate.

It is believed to be almost universally the practice in this Province, to issue a warrant or warrants of distress against parties, immediately on the representation, or oath of the Collector, that they have not paid their rates, without summoning them to answer for the alleged neglect; but it will be clearly seen by the following authorities, that such practice is altogether illegal, and will consequently render persons acting upon it liable to prosecutions for damages, or probably the Justice, under certain circumstances, to proceedings of a criminal nature.

The non feissance of the party shall not be left to the judgment of the officer, who may, out of private resentment, sell his neighbour's goods without sufficient cause; but oath of the refusal must be made before the Justice. And it is reasonable that the party should be heard in his defence, for he may shew cause, variously, why a distress should not be granted, as, that the rate was not regularly allowed, or that he had given notice of appeal, or that no demand or refusal had been made, and the like. 4 Burn's, 109.

A summons must precede a warrant of distress, which is in the nature of an Execution. On the summons, the party may shew a sufficient reason to the Magistrates, why a warrant of distress should not issue; as for instance,—that he has already paid the assessment to one of the parish officers, who has not accounted for it. But it is an invariable maxim in our law, that no man shall be punished before he has had an opportunity of being heard: whereas, if a warrant of distress were to be issued, without any previous summons, the party would have no opportunity of shewing cause, why the execution should not issue against him. 4 Burn's, 110.

It would be strange that a distress should be taken upon a man's goods, without hearing him. Id. 115.

No action of debt will lie for a poor rate. The Statute considers the person rated and refusing to pay, as an offender. And it gives no authority but to distrain the goods of the offender. Id. 114.

3. Of Relief.

THIS subject may be classed under four distinct heads; as—

1. Of the liability of parents and children to maintain each other.
2. Of the Order of Maintenance.
3. Of persons deserting their families.
4. Of Relief in general, and herein, what persons are to be relieved, and of the Ordering of the Poor.

1. How far parents and children are liable to maintain each other.

THE Statute of the 10 G. 3, c. 1, § 5. 1 V. 158, enacts, "that the father and grandfather, mother, and grandmother, and the children, and grandchildren, severally and respectively, of every poor, old, blind, lame, and impotent person, or other poor persons, not able to work, being of sufficient ability, shall, at his, her, or their charges and expences, relieve and maintain every such poor person as aforesaid, in such manner as the Justices of the Peace at their General or Quarter Sessions shall order and direct, on the penalty of forfeiting and paying five shillings, for each person so ordered to be relieved, for every week they shall fail therein, to be sued for, levied, and recovered in the usual manner, and to be applied for the use of the poor." Perpetual.

This provision only extends to natural relations; therefore it has been determined by the latest decisions, contrary to former ones, that a man is not obliged to maintain his wife's children by a former husband. Nor is a father obliged to maintain his son's wife, where the son had run away. Nor a son-in-law, to maintain his wife's mother. Though the father be living, yet if he be unable, the grandfather, being of ability, may be compelled to keep the grand child, and also to pay so much money as the Justices shall think reasonable, for the time past.

The reputed grand father, or grand mother, are not within the Statute, for a bastard is filius populi. See 4 Burn's, 121.

2. Of the Order of Maintenance of Parents and Children.

Of every poor, old, blind, lame, and impotent person, or other poor persons, not able to work. The order must set forth that the person is poor, &c., and not able to work. It must also state that the person on whom it is made, is of sufficient ability. 4 Burn's, 122.

An order to pay indefinitely as to time, is good. The order must be made by the Justices of the county where such sufficient person dwells. The pauper is not to be sent to such sufficient person. It ought to appear in the order, that the party to be relieved is become chargeable to the parish, for unless he be so, the parish has no ground of complaint. 4 Burn's, 122-3.

[NOTE. The order can only be made in the Sessions.]

3. Of persons deserting their families.

The sixth clause of the last mentioned Statute enacts, "That it shall and may be lawful for the Overseer or Overseers of the poor of any township, where any husband or father shall absent from, and forsake his wife and children, or any widow shall absent from, and forsake her children, and leave them a public charge, to apply to two Justices of the Peace, and by warrant under the hands and seals of the said two Justices, to take and seize the goods and chattels, and let out and receive the annual rents and profits of the lands and tenements of such husband, father, or mother, so absconding, for and towards the maintaining, bringing up, and providing for such wife, child, or children, so left as aforesaid; and so soon as the said seizure shall be allowed of and confirmed by the Justices, in their General or Quarter Sessions, it shall and may be lawful for the said Overseers, or any two of them, from time to time, and as the case may require, to sell and dispose of so much of, and so many of the said goods and chattels, at public sale, to the highest bidder, and to apply the money arising thereby, towards the maintenance of such poor family, left as aforesaid."

Sec. 8. "Any person aggrieved by any thing done under the foregoing clause, may appeal to the next General Sessions, where redress may be granted." Perpetual.

The order of the two Justices, under the foregoing clause, must state how much of the goods or rents should be seized, and must specify the quantum of relief to be appropriated out of them, and in case of rents, must limit the period of such appropriation. 4 Burn's, 125.

For the punishment of those who desert their wives and children, see Title,—Vagrants.

4. Of Relief in general; and herein, what persons are to be relieved; and of the ordering of the Poor.

By the 10 G. 3, c. 1. 1 V. 157. "No town or township shall be obliged to maintain any poor person, unless such person be a native of such town, or township; or have served an apprenticeship; or have lived as an hired servant, one whole year next before such person's application for relief; or have executed some public annual office; or shall have been assessed and paid his or her share of the taxes for the poor of such place, or any public taxes, during one whole year at one time." Perpetual.

This clause does not specify any particular descriptions of persons, who, with regard to poverty, sickness, or infirmity, are to be relieved, but only uses the general expression, poor person. However, as the clause which has been already recited, relating to parents and children relieving each other, declares, that relief shall be ordered in such cases, "to every poor, old, blind, lame, and impotent person, or other poor persons not able to work," it would seem, that where there are no parents or children of such persons, on whom an order may be made, they should, and indeed must, be relieved by the Overseers, if they belong to the township. Moreover, it seems sufficiently clear, that the general words "poor person," must be construed to include all persons who are so poor, or unable to provide for themselves, as to need public relief. Another question which arises upon our Statutes concerning the poor, is this,—who are to discriminate and to determine, as to the individuals who are to be considered poor and entitled to relief, or otherwise? In England, the laws provide in general, that Justices of the Peace are to examine and decide on the matter, and their certificates to the Overseers are requisite for obtaining such relief. In our Statutes, there is no such provision, nor indeed any other on the point, and therefore it seems sufficiently clear, that the matter must rest entirely in the discretion and judgment of the Overseers. It is indeed, generally, if not universally the practice, for the town meetings to determine as to the individuals who are to be relieved, but, certainly, there is nothing in the law to convey to them the power of doing so, or to sanction such a practice, but the proceeding is altogether irregular and improper. Many forcible reasons may be urged to shew, that it is much more suitable, and consistent with humane considerations, that the discretionary judgment, on the point, should rest with the Overseers, rather than with the town meetings. Indeed, as our Statutes stand, the Overseers alone are the persons who have a right to determine respecting it, and they are bound to do so. The town meetings have merely the power of granting the money deemed to be requisite, and of appointing persons to assess it. It is very desirable that an amendment in this respect should be made in our Statutes, whereby, according to the English Acts, the power and right of examining and determining on the subject, shall be vested in a Justice or Justices, in conjunction with the Overseers, and making an order of Justices requisite for obtaining relief. Under our present Statutes, the right and duty of determining as to the extent of relief to the poor, individually, and of the ordering of them with regard to situation, rest in like manner, exclusively with the Overseers, subject to the control of the Sessions as to their accounts, although on these points also, the town meetings illegally and improperly undertake, and are allowed to decide. In these meetings, the poor are generally let at public auction, to be boarded, or rather to be starved and punished, with the lowest bidder; a practice, which is not only without any sanction of law, but is revolting to humanity, and, in many instances, is but adding to the afflictions of the poor. The Overseers should select suitable persons to board and take care of the poor, in all cases where such boarding is requisite, and where there is no public asylum for their reception.

If an Overseer do not provide for the poor, he is indictable. 4 Burn's, 28. He has been holden to be indictable for neglecting to supply medical assistance, when required, to a pauper labouring under dangerous illness, though such pauper was not in the parish work house, nor had, previously to his illness, received or stood in need of parish relief. Id. 131.

The Sessions have no power to order the Overseers to pay the bills of a surgeon or a nurse. These persons have a proper remedy by way of action against the officers. Id.

Foreigners must be maintained where they are found. In one such case the Judge said, "You must keep them when you have them, for aught I know, for it seems to be a case omitted out of the Statute." Id. 197.

NOTE. It has been already seen, by a clause in the before recited Act of the 4 G. 4, c. 6, that where a pauper is possessed of any property, out of which the expences incurred by his relief may be recovered, the usual remedies by arrest or other legal process may be employed for obtaining such expences.

II. OF THE SETTLEMENT OF THE POOR.

THERE are several descriptions of persons who are incapable of gaining a settlement by any acts of their own. This is the case with married women during their marriage state. What is their proper settlement will be considered in another place. The next description is,—infants under the age of seven years. It has been decided that an infant under seven years cannot be removed from the parish in which his property lies. A deserter, while he is such, can do no act to gain a settlement. Soldiers, while quartered in any place cannot gain a settlement by hiring and service. 4 Burn's, 198-9.

What persons cannot gain a Settlement.

It will now be shewn by what methods a settlement may be gained.

By the 10 G. 3, c. 1. 1 V. 157. No town or township shall be obliged to maintain any poor person, unless such person be a native of such town or township, or have served an apprenticeship, or have lived as an hired servant one whole year next before such person's application for relief, or have executed some public annual office, or shall have been assessed and paid his or her share of the taxes for the poor of such place, or any public taxes during one whole year, at one time. And every person within the said descriptions, shall be entitled to a settlement in the respective towns or townships wherein such person shall be qualified as aforesaid.

Who shall have a Settlement and be relieved.

Sec. 3. Any person or persons who shall apply to the Overseers of the poor for relief, not having obtained a lawful settlement in the township, shall be required to declare on oath before one Justice of the Peace for the said township, or county wherein such township shall be, his, her, or their last place of residence ; and if they are found to have gained any lawful settlement within this Province, a true copy of the said declaration, attested by the said Overseers of the poor, and certified by the said Justice of the Peace, together with the amount of expense incurred, shall be transmitted to the Overseer of the poor of the township to which the said person or persons shall belong ; and in case they refuse, or neglect to remove the said person or persons, and pay the expences incurred, it shall be lawful for any two Justices of the Peace for the county or township where such person or persons have become chargeable, by a warrant under their hands and seals, to cause him, her, or them to be removed to the township, where they last obtained a lawful settlement ; and the Overseers of the poor are hereby required to receive such person or persons, and to pay such sum and sums of money as shall have been necessarily expended as aforesaid, to the Overseers of the poor of the township from whence such person or persons have been removed. Provided, that in case such Overseer or Overseers of the poor, shall not have money in their hands wherewith to answer said expense, such Overseer or Overseers shall stand charged therewith until the next assessment to be made on the township to which such poor person shall belong.

Sec. 4. It shall be lawful for any two Justices, on complaint of the Overseers of the poor, to bind out any person or persons who shall be found begging or strolling about, for any term not exceeding one year.

Sec. 7. In case of the death of the parents of any child or children, who have gained a settlement in any township as aforesaid, all and every such child or children shall be supported by such town or township wherein the parents so gained a settlement.

Sec. 8. If any town or township, or person or persons, shall think themselves aggrieved by any proceedings had in virtue of this Act, such town or township, person or persons, may appeal for redress to the next General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace, held for the county wherein such town or township shall be, or wherein such person or persons shall reside ; and the Justices thereof are hereby required and empowered to hear and determine every such appeal or complaint, and to give redress as they in their judgment shall think equitable ; and such their order and judgment shall be final, and bind all parties. Perpetual.

It has been seen that this Statute specifies six several modes by which a settlement may be gained, all of which, with various matters relating to the subject at large, will now be treated of in the following order :

THE settlement by birth may be proved by the copy of the parish register of christenings, and by identifying the person. 4 Burn's, 201.

Also the parents may prove the time of birth, and after their death, their declarations are evidence of that fact. Id. 241.

Of Legitimate Children, and their Settlement by Birth.

1. Of Bastards.

[NOTE. It is not in this place questioned, who shall or shall not be deemed a bastard; but the settlement only is considered of such as are first supposed to be bastards; other matters relating to them, as concerning their filiation and maintenance, and the like, are treated of under the Title,—Bastards.]

A bastard gains a settlement in its place of birth, from necessity; for being nullius filius, it cannot otherwise be provided for, except a reputed father can be found. But this rule admits of divers exceptions; which are,—

1. If a woman come into a place by privity and collusion of the officers where she belongs, and be there delivered of a bastard; such bastard gains no settlement notwithstanding its birth.

2. Also a bastard born after an order of removal of the mother is made, but before her actual removal, shall not be settled where so born, but at the mother's settlement.

3. If a woman, pregnant, be removed by an order, and she be delivered, and there be an appeal, and the order be reversed, the child must be sent back with the mother.

4. A bastard, born in the house of correction, shall be sent to the place of its mother's settlement. The same of a bastard born in the county gaol.

5. A bastard, born while the mother is removing under an order, shall go with her to the place to which she is removed. 4 Burn's, 201-3.

If the mother and the bastard child have different settlements, it seems that the child, even as all children, shall go with the mother for nurture, until the age of seven years, as a necessary appendage of the mother. But if she voluntarily desert it, it seems that the cause of nurture then ceases, and that then it may be sent to its place of settlement. Whilst the child continues with its mother as a nurse child, and during that time not removeable to its place of settlement, yet the place, where the child's proper settlement is, shall maintain it in that other place where it is remaining with the mother. 4 Burn's, 208.

Parents may prove that they were never married. Id. 243.

2. Settlement by Birth of Legitimate Children.

THE father's settlement is the settlement of a legitimate child, when it can be found out; otherwise the birth of the child, prima facie, is the settlement of the child, until there is another settlement found out. If the mother of a child, born in one parish, die in another parish, while passing to a third, such child shall be settled where it was born, and not in the parish where it was left destitute by the death of the mother. Where a child is first known to be, that place must provide for it, till they find another. 4 Burn's, 210-11.

To prove a marriage, in order to shew the legitimacy of children, the register of the marriage and proof of identity will be sufficient. The parents may be examined as to the legitimacy of their children, and their declarations on that subject will be evidence after their death. Id. 242.

2. Of Settlement by Apprenticeship.

By the English Statutes relative to obtaining a settlement by serving an apprenticeship, it is requisite that the services should be under an Indenture, but as our Statute, already recited, says nothing about the binding, but uses only these general words—"or have served an apprenticeship," it seems clear, that a settlement may be gained by such service, whether it was under a deed or otherwise. The question, indeed, as to this kind of settlement, seems to depend altogether on the service.

old may bind himself. Unfitness, is a matter to be determined by the Sessions on evidence. Service with a master, who is also an infant at the time of binding, will gain a settlement. The condition of the master is immaterial. A female may be bound apprentice by the parish, to learn housewifery, and it will be good, unless it be found to be fraudulent. If an apprentice be bound to a master who has no right to take an apprentice, yet a settlement will be gained by service under such a binding. The apprentice will gain a settlement in the parish where he serves, although his master have no settlement there. 4 Burn's, 379.

Condition of the Master.

It seems evident, from the words used in our Statute, that there must be a service for the whole term agreed on for the apprenticeship, and also, that such service must be within the township, otherwise a settlement cannot be gained by it.

Service.

The residence is considered to be where the party lodges at night, even where the service, by day, is always in another township. Where the service is on board of ship, the residence is held to be at the ship's proper home, and the settlement is gained there. See 4 Burn's, 402.

Residence.

An apprentice, bound to a person in one township, with intent to serve one in another township, is settled in the place where the service is. The same where an apprentice, by a verbal consent of his original master, serves a person in another township.

Place of Service.

A settlement is gained by a service with a third master, under the express consent of the second, to whom the first had assigned the apprentice. There must be, by the master, an express consent to serve a particular person; mere knowledge is not enough, nor a general license to serve whom the apprentice chooses. The consent of the first master may be implied from circumstances. Where the parties act under the idea that the indentures are at an end, no settlement can be gained as an apprentice under them.

Service with a second or third Master.

If an apprentice be, by parol, transferred by the widow of his master, (she not having taken out letters of administration,) service with the second master, will be a service under the indenture. So he may continue to serve under an indenture by leave of the executor, and will gain a settlement thereby. An apprentice, assigned by indorsement on the indenture to a second master, gains a settlement by serving him.

Indentures being exchanged between the master and apprentice, the apprentice cannot afterwards gain a settlement under them, by serving another master, with the knowledge of the first, for exchanging the indentures is a virtual cancelling of them. But an apprentice agreeing with his master for his discharge, and quitting him, but leaving the indentures till the money agreed for is paid, the indentures are not thereby discharged, and service under a second master, by the express consent of the first, is a service under the indentures, and gains a settlement. 4 Burn's, 411 to 430.

Where the indenture of a parish apprentice is delivered up, by the first master, to the father of the apprentice, and at the same time the master consents to the apprentice serving a second master, as being turned over to him, such service gains a settlement. The master of a parish apprentice merely agreeing that the apprentice shall work for his own benefit, doth not imply giving up the indenture. A parish apprentice when under age cannot consent to his discharge. Delivering up the indentures to a parish apprentice, when he is under age, does not discharge the apprenticeship, although service elsewhere, afterwards, will not be considered as service under the indenture, so as to gain a settlement. A boy bound out as a parish apprentice, may, after his master's death, hire himself as a servant. 4 Burn's, 434 to 439.

If an indenture of apprenticeship be lost, other evidence may be received of its contents and existence. But it must most clearly be shewn that it is lost. Id. 441.

[For the evidence relative to indentures and other written instruments, generally, see Title,—Evidence.]

3. Of Settlement by Hiring and Service.

By the 57 G. 3, c. 9. 3 V. 9, relating to a settlement by hiring and service, and made in amendment of the before recited Act of the 10 G. 3, c. 1, it is enacted, "That to entitle a pauper of that description to a settlement, he or she shall have lived as an hired servant for one whole year, under an agreement to serve one whole year, next before such person's application for relief." Perpetual.

There are several particulars which by the laws of England are requisite to constitute such a hiring and service, for a year, as will gain a settlement, which, according to the words of our Statute, it is conceived are not essential for that purpose. The following may be mentioned as the principal points of such difference on the subject. By the express words of the English Statutes, no married man can, by that method, obtain a settlement, whereas our Act makes no such distinction. According to those Statutes, the case is the same with regard to married women,—a child under age, living with its parents as part of the family,—or any other person under a legal disability to enter into a contract, by reason of the words “lawfully hired,” being used in those Statutes; but as our Act contains merely these words, “or have lived as an hired servant,” it would seem, that hereby the ability to contract is not essential, but that the stress is intended to be placed, merely on the service; and therefore, that these last mentioned persons may obtain a settlement by such hiring and service. This point, however, may probably be thought somewhat doubtful, and, as yet, to be set at rest by an express decision in the higher Court.

The following points, which have been established by decisions upon the English laws on this subject, seem to apply as authorities in cases arising under our Statutes.

As to the parties, it seems clear, that no nearness of relationship will prevent the gaining a settlement by hiring and service. A daughter, who is emancipated, may be hired as a yearly servant by her father. The master need not have a settlement of his own. One person may also, by the authority of another, contract for that other. And a settlement may be gained by a hiring to, and serving two joint tenants. The master need not live in the parish where the servant serves. And an infant may hire himself. A parish pauper, hired out by parish officers, cannot, by such hiring and service under it, gain a settlement. Compulsory hiring, and service under it, gains no settlement.

Points as to parties, hiring and service.

There must be a contract. Where it appears that there was no contract, no hiring will be presumed, and no settlement can be gained; but where a contract appears, it will be presumed to have been regular, till the contrary appears. If it be proved that a person was seen and known to be in the service of another, as servant in husbandry for a year, a yearly hiring will be presumed. Also, if a person remain in service after the expiration of the first year, a yearly hiring may be presumed, commencing with the second year. A retrospective hiring is not sufficient to gain a settlement. A hiring for a year may be presumed, from a service for four years. A hiring by indenture, executed by the servant but not executed by the master, if there be a service in pursuance of it for a year, will gain a settlement. If a person be only hired for less than a year, and serve for three years, a contract for a year may be inferred. The yearly hiring must be yone entire contract, and there must be one entire service. One that serves by the week, or by the month, or any other parts of the year, though he serves for the whole year, cannot thereby gain a settlement. For such a term as a year, it is not supposed a master would hire one, unless able of body, and so a person not likely to become chargeable. Where there is a general hiring, and no time mentioned, it implies a hiring for a year. Where no mention is made of wages, or of time, and the service is for a year, a hiring for a year is presumed. Where the pauper agrees to go and live with one for a particular purpose, and is to receive clothes, &c., but no time is mentioned, and she remains two years and a half, going away in the middle of a year, a yearly hiring is presumed. Hiring for fifty two weeks, is not hiring for a year.

If an emancipated person go to her father for a year "to do the offices of a servant," it is a good hiring for a year, although it is agreed that she may earn what she can by her own labour besides. The contract may be for the servant to work for himself, provided he be bound to do all his master's work.

Service without hiring.

If a person go to live with a relation, "as such, and not under any hiring," and afterwards go to live with him as before, this is no hiring for a year. A person's agreeing to live with his stepfather, to work with him, and to be paid at a certain rate for what he should do, is not a general hiring for a year. 4 Burn's, 266 to 284.

Hiring for a year to spin yarn at so much per stone, will gain a settlement.

If one agree to serve another for three years, to be taught a trade, and contract to do any work he may be set about, it is a good yearly hiring, and a settlement will be gained by a service under it for a year or more. Id. 284-5.

Hiring for eleven months, gains no settlement, although it was so limited for the purpose of avoiding gaining a settlement.

Hiring with leave of absence.

Hiring for a year, with liberty to be absent during the harvest month, gains no settlement; not even where it is stipulated that the month shall be made up immediately at the end of the year. Id. 294.

Hiring with stipulations as to working hours, wages, &c.

A hiring for a year, to work a certain stipulated number of hours each day, will not gain a settlement. A hiring at so much per week, is not a general hiring, and therefore for a year; but if there be any thing in the contract to shew that the hiring was intended to be for a year, there, a reservation of weekly wages will not control that hiring. A hiring at so much a week, for as long a time as the master and servant could agree, is only a weekly hiring, and no settlement can be gained by a service under it for a year or more.

A hiring by the month, at a month's wages, or a month's warning, will not be a yearly hiring. But a hiring at so much per week, and liberty to part on a month's notice, is a general hiring, and a service under it for a year will gain a settlement. A hiring conditional as to liking, if the service continue, is a good hiring for a year.

Hiring for a year, part of which was then past, gains no settlement. A retrospective hiring is not sufficient for the purpose.

Retrospective hiring.

Where a servant was hired for half a year, which time she served, and then was hired for a year, and served half of that, it was held that she gained a settlement.

Service under several hirings.

Where there is a hiring for a year, and a continued service for a year, though part of it is under another hiring, a settlement will be gained.

If the master let his farm, and the lessee enter, and the servant continue with him by his master's desire for the remainder of his year, it will give him a settlement. So if the servant continue with an executor for the remainder of the year. 4 Burn's, 300 to 327.

If a servant absent himself against his master's leave, and his master receive him again, it is no interruption of the service. A servant while ill is still under the service of his master, and it is not such an interruption as to prevent a settlement. Service with other masters, by the first master's consent, he taking him again, is service under a dispensation, and will not prevent a settlement being gained.

Absence or illness of Servant.

If a master insist upon turning his servant away, and lay down his wages, which the servant takes up, and then goes away, it is a dissolution of the contract, and no settlement can be gained, though he afterwards return, at the request of his master, and serve out the year, and receive his full wages.

Dissolution of Contract.

If after a hiring for a year, a servant be taken ill, and receive, voluntarily, his whole year's wages, and leave his service and go to the hospital, and never return, it is a dissolution of the contract.

Where a master consents to his servant's leaving his service two days before the end of his year, and pays him his full wages, it is a dissolution, and no settlement is gained.

The distinction between the different cases upon this subject, is this: if the servant be absent from the service, with the concurrence, remaining, however, subject to the control, of the master, he may acquire a settlement, because this only amounts to a dispensation with his service; but if the master has once parted with his control over the servant, there no settlement is gained, and the receiving the whole year's wages does not make any difference.

Distinction between a dispensation of the Service, and a dissolution of the Contract.

4 Burn's, 327 to 354.

Residence of the Servant.

The residence of the servant is in the place where he lodges at night, and the settlement will be there. The service may be in a parish where the master never lives, and a settlement will be gained there. The servant need not lodge in his master's house. Id. 360 to 368.

[It will be observed that the Statute expressly requires, that the year of the service, shall be the year "next before," that is, immediately preceding, "the persons application for relief;" consequently, it seems evident, that a year's hiring and service, for any previous period, will not be sufficient to gain a settlement.]

4. Of Settlement by Serving an Office.

[Or have executed some public annual office.] By these words of the Statute, it is plain, that serving in any of the county or township offices, to which persons are annually appointed in the Sessions, or otherwise, under the Statutes for that purpose, will gain a settlement.

It need not be a township office, but it must be a public annual office in the township. 4 Burn's, 548.

A situation to which a person is appointed by a contract with parish officers, who, by Statute, have authority for the purpose, is not a public office, and no settlement can be gained by a service in such situation. Id.

The office must be executed for the space of a whole year at one time; serving part of a year at one period, and such time at another as makes up a year in the whole, will not be sufficient. Id. 549.

5. Of Settlement by paying Taxes.

[Or shall have been assessed and paid his or her share of the taxes for the poor of such place, or any public taxes, during one whole year, at one time.] Although the rate be in form, or in the manner of making it, not strictly legal, but void; yet if the party be rated, and pay to such a rate, he shall gain a settlement. But if a person's name be inserted in a rate, after payment, it is not such a rating as will gain a settlement.

The person paying, must also be the person rated, for there must be both a rate made upon, and payment by, the person claiming a settlement. The rate itself must be produced as evidence of being charged. A landlord refunding to the tenant the amount of the tax paid, does not prevent the gaining a settlement.

A church rate is a public tax.

A rate made too narrowly, is a good rate for the purposes of a settlement. 4 Burn's, 551 to 557.

6. Of Settlement by Parentage; and herein of Emancipation.

By Sec. 7. of the before recited Act of the 10 G. 3, c. 1. "In case of the death of the parents of any child or children, who have gained a settlement in any township as aforesaid, all and every such child or children shall be supported by such town or township wherein the parents so gained a settlement."

The cases herein before mentioned, of the settlement by birth of legitimate children, are founded on the fact of the parents settlement being unknown. If, however, the father's last place of settlement be known, that is the legal place of settlement of his children, and they will take, successively, every settlement which the father may from time to time acquire. His last settlement being always their settlement, until they have acquired one by their own act, or are emancipated. And this rule holds good, wherever the father may be, or wherever he may die.

A legitimate child, born, or a child dropped, in a place where a person is vagrant, gains no settlement by being dropped; but where the father was last legally settled.

Children of Vagrants.

A child after seven years of age is capable of acquiring a settlement of its own, distinct from its parents, but before that age, a legitimate child shall necessarily follow the settlement of its parents, as a nurse child, or as part of the family; and, after that age, it shall not be removed as part of the father's family, but with an adjudication of the place of its own last legal settlement, as being deemed capable, after that age, of having gained a settlement of its own. Proof of the father's settlement is sufficient to establish the settlement of the son, if nothing appear to the contrary.

If the father die before the child is born, yet the child is settled where the father was settled before his death.

The children shall have the father's settlement derived from their grandmother, in preference to the settlement of their mother. 4 Burn's, 212 to 217.

Father running away.

Where the father, having no known settlement, runs away, the children shall be settled where the mother was settled before her marriage. The same is the case where the father is a foreigner, and has no settlement.

Foreigner.

Where Children shall have the Mother's Settlement.

The father being dead, and the mother a widow, the children will follow her settlement acquired after his death. Intermarrying with a second husband will not change the settlement of the children by the first marriage; but they will have the last settlement of the father, if he had one, but if he had none, then the last settlement of the mother, whether before her marriage or while a widow. Id. 217 to 219.

Emancipation

A son at nineteen, leaving his father and going into another parish, and marrying, is emancipated; and his children can derive no settlement from their grandfather. Marriage by the son, is, of itself, an emancipation, although he continue to reside with his father's family. But where a son does not marry, his carrying on a business for himself will not constitute an emancipation, if he live with his father's widow as part of her family.

A son is not emancipated by the circumstance of his being under some other control than that of his father.

A child is not emancipated until he has gained a settlement in his own right, or has contracted a relation incompatible with that of a component part of his father's family; and therefore a person at the age of nineteen, (his father having run away,) hiring himself for four years, and not gaining a settlement thereby, is not emancipated, but is entitled to his father's settlement. 4 Burn's, 220 to 282.

7. Settlement by Marriage.

RESPECTING the mode of gaining a derivative settlement by marriage, it seems to be a good general rule, that a woman marrying a man who hath a known settlement, shall follow the husband's settlement, though she never lived with him there.

A wife can gain no settlement separate and distinct from her husband, during the coverture.

The husband being dead, and his place of settlement not known, the wife's maiden settlement remains. The same after the death of a husband who was a foreigner.

If the husband be living, but have no known settlement, the wife may be removed to her maiden settlement. Where the husband, having no settlement, runs away, or is absent from the country, the wife's maiden settlement remains. A woman does not lose her maiden settlement by marrying a man who has none; but her own settlement will continue

In order to show a marriage it is not necessary to prove a publication of banns, but it is enough for one present at the ceremony to prove the fact of marriage. Nor is it necessary to produce the copy of the register. Id. 253. Proof of Marriage

In all cases, except of prosecution for bigamy, and actions for crim. con., reputation is good proof of marriage, where direct proof cannot be obtained.

A mother may be called to prove that she was never married to a person with whom she cohabited, and who was reputed her husband, though by such evidence she bastardize her issue. Id. 256 to 258.

8. Of Removals; and herein.

1. Who may, and who may not be removed.
2. Of the Declaration and Examination, as to place of Settlement.
3. Of the Warrant or Order for Removal.
4. Of an Appeal against the same.

1. Who may, and who may not be removed.

[Who shall apply to the Overseers for relief, not having obtained a lawful settlement in the township.] From these words of the before recited Statute of the 10 G. 3, c. 1, concerning settlements, and from the further words "have become chargeable," contained in the same clause, it is evident that no person can be removed from any township before applying for relief, and becoming actually chargeable to such township; and also, that no such person can be removed, whose lawful settlement, being his last one, is then in such township. It now remains to consider, what individuals, by reason of certain other existing circumstances, are not removable.

A township in which the last legal settlement is claimed, ceasing to have Overseers, a removal cannot be made thither, nor to any other township.

A wife, residing with her husband, cannot be removed from him; but if not residing with him, she may be removed to her last legal settlement, being that of her husband.

The wife and children of a foreigner cannot, when they become chargeable, be removed from him to the wife's parish. The wife may be removed without her husband, (he having no settlement,) if they consent to it.

A servant cannot, on the complaint of the parish officers, be removed from his master. 4 Burn's, 598 to 606.

2. Of the Declaration and Examination as to Place of Settlement.

[Shall be required to declare on Oath before one Justice, his, her, or their last place of residence, and if they are found to have gained any lawful settlement within this Province.] The Statute does not mention by whom, or on whose complaint the pauper shall be required to make the declaration, but it would seem, that it must be understood to be on the requisition or complaint of the Overseers of the township. Neither is it expressly said that the Justice is to make any examination, or to receive or hear any proof as to the settlement of the pauper, but yet, as it is declared, that if the pauper is "found to have gained any lawful settlement within the Province, a copy of his Declaration, and the amount of expences incurred, shall be certified and transmitted to the Overseer of the township to which he belongs," it seems sufficiently evident, that the Justice is empowered, and indeed that it is his duty, to make a full and particular investigation into the subject, by such proof as may be produced, otherwise the desired purpose,—that of ascertaining the last and lawful settlement of the pauper, could not be satisfactorily, if at all accomplished. The declaration of the pauper must of course be taken in writing, and, as required by the Act, a copy thereof, attested by the Overseers of the place where he made the application, and certified by the Justice, with the amount of the expense incurred in relieving him, must be transmitted to the Overseers of the township to which it has been ascertained the pauper belongs. The same Justice who took the declaration must be the one who certifies the said copy thereof.

An examination of a pauper, for the purpose of removal, is not evidence upon an appeal against that order of removal, though the pauper cannot be found. Neither the hearsay of a pauper, who is dead, nor his ex parte examination in writing, taken on oath before Justices, touching his settlement, are admissible evidence of such settlement. 4 Burn's, 630.

3. Of the Warrant or Order for Removal.

[It shall be lawful for any two Justices of the Peace, where such person or persons have become chargeable, by a Warrant under their hands and seals, to cause him, her, or them to be removed to the township where they last obtained a lawful settlement.] By the express words of the Statute, this warrant of the Justices cannot be issued until after the Overseers of the place, to which the before mentioned declaration of the pauper has been transmitted, have neglected to remove him, and to pay the expences incurred for his relief. As nothing is said in the Act respecting any examination by the two Justices, relative to the pauper's settlement, it may seem doubtful whether they are authorized, or it is requisite for them, to make any examination, or receive any proof on the subject, or whether, merely, by virtue of the previous proceedings before the single Justice, they are peremptorily to issue their warrant for the removal of the pauper to that township to which his declaration was transmitted as aforesaid. However, as no reference is made to any previous adjudication or decision on the point, but the Justices are directed to remove him "to the township where he last obtained a lawful settlement," it would rather seem, that they may and should investigate and examine, in order to ascertain and determine such lawful settlement.

The warrant is to be executed by the Overseers of the removing township, and therefore it must be directed to them.

The Justices ought to be both together at the hearing and determining as to the removal.

The pauper must be named in the warrant, if known, or if unknown, he must be stated to be so. A warrant to remove a man and his family, is not good, because too general; for some of the family might not be removable. Children should be described in the warrant by their names and ages. The warrant must contain an express adjudication as to the place of lawful settlement. It must also state, that the pauper is actually chargeable to the place from whence he is removed. The examination must be by the same Justices who remove.

The pauper himself ought to be heard before he be removed, for he may shew sufficient cause why he ought not to be removed, especially as he himself, perhaps, by the removal, is likely to be the greatest sufferer, and therefore natural justice requires that he be not condemned unheard. An order of removal; though to a wrong place, is conclusive, if not appealed against. 4 Burn's, 616 to 633.

For the Form of a warrant to remove, see at the end of the Title.

4. Of Appeal against the Order of Removal.

If any town or township, or person or persons whatsoever, shall think themselves aggrieved.] The pauper himself may appeal, as well as the township to which he is removed. 4 Burn's, 652.

May appeal for redress to the next General or Quarter Sessions of the Peace held for the County wherein such person or persons shall reside.] It is plain from these words of the Statute, that where the removal is to a place in another county, the appeal must be to the Sessions in such county, and not in the county from whence the removal was made. Our Statute is different on this point from the English Statutes, by which latter, the appeal is to be to the Sessions in the county wherein the removal took place.

The appeal must be to the next Sessions after the removal. By the next Sessions, is meant the next possible or practicable Sessions, for entering such appeal. 4 Burn's, 657.

NOTE. Our Act does not require any notice of appeal to be given. In this respect also, it is different from the English Statutes. It is certainly reasonable, however, that such notice should be given, as well as expedient, as the inconvenience of delay will be thereby prevented, and moreover; it may probably be held to be requisite.

An order, not appealed against, is final; and there can be no second order reversing the first, excepting by appeal. But an order may be deserted and given up by consent, without appealing; and in such case, a second order may be made for removal to another township.

An order of removal, unappealed against, is conclusive of the facts stated in it.

So an order confirmed upon the appeal, is final and conclusive; but an order discharged binds only the parties.

An order quashed for want of form only, is not conclusive.

The Sessions cannot make an original order of removal, but must either quash or affirm. 4 Burn's, 663 to 675.

NOTE. All the authorities herein before cited, where the word "parish" is used, will equally apply to a township or settlement, having Overseers.

By the 3 W. 4, c. 42. 4 V. 221. "If the Justices at their General Quarter Sessions, upon an appeal before them concerning the settlement of any poor person, determine in favour of the appellant, they shall, at the same, or other General Quarter Sessions, award to such appellant, so much money as shall appear to them to have been reasonably paid, or to be due from the place on whose behalf such appeal was made, towards the relief of such poor person, between the time of the undue removal, and the determination of such appeal; the money, so awarded, to be recovered as herein after mentioned.

Sec. 2. The Sessions, upon any appeal concerning the settlement of any person, or upon proof of notice given of an appeal which was not prosecuted, shall allow to the party succeeding in the appeal, or to whom such notice was given, such costs as the Sessions shall think reasonable and just, to be taxed according to the rates fixed by law for costs in the Supreme Court, to be paid by the Overseers or others against whom the appeal was determined, or who gave such notice of appeal.

Sec. 3. If the Overseers, or others so ordered to pay such costs, shall, after service of the order of the Sessions in that respect, neglect or refuse to pay the same, the party, in whose favour such costs were awarded, may sue for and recover the same in the Supreme or Inferior Court, or before a Justice or Justices, as for any debt of the like amount; and the production and proof of a copy of such order of the Sessions, and of the service thereof on the party or parties upon, or against whom, such order was made, shall be sufficient proof of the said debt." Temporary.

PUBLIC GROUNDS.

By the 4 W. 4, c. 12. 4 V. 263. It is enacted, "That the General Sessions shall appoint three supervisors within every township, to take charge of all public landings, and public grounds within every such township, respectively, for the regulation of which, provision has not already been made, and to preserve the same, and remove incumbrances therefrom, and to prosecute persons who shall encroach on, or injure the same.

Sec. 4. If any person shall neglect or refuse to remove or alter his, her, or their fence or enclosure, or other encroachment within the time he she or they may be required so to do, by the order and direction of the said supervisors or the major part of them, such person or persons shall forfeit and pay a fine or penalty of twenty shillings, to be sued for and recovered by the said supervisors, or by any person who will sue for the same, in the same manner as debts of the like amount are by law recoverable, and to be paid and applied, one half to the person who shall sue for the same, and the other half to the Surveyors or Commissioners of Highways for such township; to be applied for the improvement of the roads therein; and if such encroachment shall be suffered to remain and continue for twenty days after such fine or penalty imposed and sued for, such continuance shall be deemed and taken to be a new offence, and shall subject the party or parties continuing such encroachment, or suffering the same to continue, to the like fine as aforesaid, and so, in like manner, shall every further continuance of such encroachment for the further space of twenty days, be deemed and taken to be a new encroachment.

Sec. 5. The said supervisors, or the major part of them, shall apportion and order the payment of all costs, charges, and expences attending and incident upon the said proceedings, upon such persons, and in such manner and proportions, as to the said supervisors, or the major part of them, shall appear expedient and advisable; and the same shall be recoverable and recovered by suit as for debts of the like amount, as such costs or the respective apportionments thereof may be.

Sec. 6. In any action either for the penalty, or costs aforesaid, the production of a copy of any such order, made in writing under the hands of the said Supervisors, or the major part of them, and due proof made of their handwriting, shall be good and sufficient evidence of such order, and shall be sufficient to establish the claim of any person or persons to the amount of costs awarded to him or them.

Appeal.

Sec. 7. "If any person shall be dissatisfied with the order of the said Supervisors, it shall be lawful for such person to appeal from such order to the next Sessions of the Supreme Court, or General Sessions of the Peace, at the option of the party so appealing, where the matters in dispute shall be tried and determined by the verdict of a jury; Provided always, that, pending any such appeal, the fence or other encroachment shall not, until the determination of such appeal, be removed or altered, as ordered by the said Supervisors." Temporary.

As the fines and other sums of money mentioned in this Act, are directed to be recovered in the same manner as debts of the like amount, it follows, that where the same do not exceed three pounds, they must be sued for before one Justice, and above that amount, but not exceeding five pounds, before two Justices; the proceedings and Forms in which suits will be found under the Title,—Summary Trials.

R A P E, &c.

R A P E, is when a man hath carnal knowledge of a woman by force, and against her will. The offence is no way mitigated by shewing that the woman at last yielded to the violence, if such her consent were forced by fear of death, or duress. Also, it is not a sufficient excuse in the ravisher, to prove that the woman is a common strumpet, for she is still under the protection of the law, and may not be forced. Nor is it any excuse, that she consented after the fact. The party ravished may give evidence on oath, and is in law a competent witness, but the credibility of her testimony, and how far she is to be believed, must be left to the jury. All who were present, and actually assist a man to commit a rape, may be indicted as principal offenders, whether they be men or women. 5 Burn's, 1-5.

By the 4 Vic. c. 6, Sess. 1841. Sec. 14. Every person convicted of the crime of rape shall suffer death as a felon.

Sec. 16. Any person who shall unlawfully and carnally know and abuse any girl under the age of ten years, shall be guilty of felony, and suffer death as a felon; and any person who shall unlawfully and carnally know and abuse any girl above ten and under twelve years of age, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be liable to be imprisoned for such term as the Court shall award. Perpetual.

Directions

The proceedings on complaints of rape will be the same as in other cases of capital felonies, and will be found, together with the requisite Forms, under the respective Titles,—Information, Warrant, Examination, Commitment. Justices of the Peace cannot bail for the felonies mentioned in the foregoing clauses, but, after taking the examinations as by law required, must commit the party to gaol, and send the examinations in to the Supreme Court, in the usual manner. If the complaint is only for the misdemeanor, Justices may let the party to bail, with good sureties, for appearance in the Supreme Court.

I. OF THE PURPOSES FOR WHICH RATES MAY BE MADE AND LEVIED.

By the 5 W. 4, c. 13. 4 V. 385. "The Grand Jury in the General Sessions may present sums of money, to be raised for the following purposes ; for building or repairing a county or district gaol, or the appurtenances thereof, or of a Court or Session House ; and for providing fuel for the use of the same ; erecting or repairing stocks, pillories, or pounds ; and providing bolts, bars, and shackles ; also for the conveying persons accused of any treason, or other criminal offence, to the county or district gaol, being the distance of three miles or upwards, and so as the same do not exceed sixpence per mile ; also for the support of poor criminals, or other poor persons in gaol ; also for paying a salary to the Treasurer of the county or district, for his services in that station ; also for paying the Clerk of the Peace such annual sum, not less than twenty pounds, as shall be presented by the Grand Jury and approved of by the Court of General Sessions, and be deemed necessary for the payment of such of his services in that office, for which no provision is otherwise made ; also, (except in the county of Halifax,) to defray the charge of prosecuting in any Court of Sessions of the Peace, persons charged with larcenies or other criminal offences or misdemeanors, (except for assault and battery only.) in cases where such proceedings shall be conducted by counsel, and wherein the Court shall tax and allow the said charges, and direct them to be paid under this Act, but not to exceed two pounds six shillings and eight pence, in any one case; also towards the maintenance and support of a gaoler; also to pay the crier of the several Courts, held in the county or district, such annual sum as may by the Court of General Sessions be deemed necessary for payment of his services in that situation; also to defray the expences of poor witnesses on the trial, in any Court, of persons accused of any grand or petit larceny, or other criminal offence; the same to be paid pursuant to the provisions of the Provincial Statute 8 & 9 G. 3, chap. 2; also for defraying the charges of conveying criminal offenders to the places of labour or confinement, to which they have been sentenced to be conveyed; also for procuring materials, and defraying other expences which may be necessary, for setting persons at work who are confined in any such county or district under sentence to labour; also to pay any allowance, which may be made by the said Court of Sessions, to any Constables for extraordinary expences incurred in the execution of their duty, in cases of riot or felony; also to pay any allowance which may be ordered by the said Court of Sessions to be made to any Special Constable or Constables for his or their expences, trouble, and loss of time, in executing or endeavouring to execute any warrant or warrants which such Constable or Constables have been appointed to execute, or to assist in executing, in any case of felony or misdemeanor; also for the payment of all such sum or sums of money as may be necessary to be raised, or expences that may have arisen, for the building or repairing bridges within any such county or district; also to defray the charges and expences attending the removal of any of the said county or district rates, by certiorari or otherwise; or which may be incurred in prosecuting or defending any action, suit, or proceeding at law respecting the affairs of such county or district; such charges and expences to be taxed and allowed by the said General Sessions; and also for any expense incurred, or to be incurred, in the executing or administering of criminal justice in the county or district."

assessors and collectors of the sums of money mentioned in any presentment which has been confirmed; or where the said Court has ordered any amercement to be made, such Court shall appoint assessors and collectors for the same purpose; and the said assessors and collectors shall, in each case aforesaid, be notified of their appointment by the Clerk of the Peace, and shall be sworn by the said Court, or by any Justice of the Peace, to the due and faithful execution of their respective offices, and that without favour or affection, hatred, or malice, and to the best of their skill and knowledge; and in case any person appointed as assessor or collector as aforesaid shall die, or remove, or refuse to accept of such office, or neglect to act therein, another person shall immediately be appointed in his stead, by the Court or by any two Justices of the Peace; and any person, so refusing or neglecting to act, shall forfeit the sum of five pounds, to be recovered and applied as herein after directed.

III. OF MAKING THE ASSESSMENT, AND HEREIN OF THE PERSONS AND PROPERTY LIABLE TO BE RATED.

By Sec. 6, of the same Statute. "The Justices in General Sessions, by whom any presentment of money shall be confirmed, or amercement shall be made, shall determine and appoint the proportion of the amount thereof which shall be borne by, and assessed upon, the inhabitants of the several townships, settlements, or places within the county or district, in and for which such presentment or amercement was made; and the assessors appointed as aforesaid for such townships, settlements, or places respectively, shall meet together to make such assessment, at such time, and in such central and convenient places as shall be appointed by the Clerk of the Peace for that purpose; and shall, within twenty days after they have been sworn into office, assess the sums so proportioned, upon the inhabitants as aforesaid, in the most just and equal manner they the said assessors can devise, by an equal pound rate on the real and personal property whereof such inhabitants shall be respectively in the occupation or possession, within the county, regard being had to the value of the rents of the real estate, and the capability of the personal estate to produce profit; in which assessment, the said assessors themselves shall be included; and they the said assessors, within the said twenty days, shall make out and furnish to the Clerk of the Peace of such county or district, rolls of the names of the inhabitants so assessed, specifying opposite to their names, the sums in which they have respectively been assessed ; which assessment shall be made, and rolls shall be subscribed, by a majority of the said assessors ; and every assessor who shall neglect any part of the duty herein required of him, shall forfeit the sum of five pounds, to be recovered, paid over, and applied in the manner herein after directed."

Upon the inhabitants of the several townships, settlements, or places.] It appears plain from these words, that only persons having an established or fixed residence within any place, are liable to be rated ; and consequently, that merely transient persons, having only a temporary or passing use or occupation of real property, or the possession of personal property, with which they are passing through the place, or having merely the temporary use of it, are not so liable, as to either of such descriptions of property. In the case of church rates it has been decided, that the lessee of a stall in a market town, who came there weekly to the market to sell his wares, was not rateable ; and that if a man take up his lodging for a week in a town, he shall not be so charged. See 4 Burn's, 41.

In the most just and equal manner they can devise, by an equal pound rate.] These words, it is presumed, must mean, that each person included in the rate, must be assessed at a certain per centage or proportion on the whole estimated value of all his real and personal property, having reference, in ascertaining and determining the amount he is to be rated, to the whole proportioned sum to be assessed upon the particular township or place, and also, to the estimated amount of the whole property therein, liable to be rated. By this mode of proceeding, the proportion of each individual will depend on the estimated value of his said property, and will be ascertained by a simple question in arithmetic. For instance, if the sum to be raised from any particular township or place be £15, and the estimated value of all the aforesaid rateable property within such township or place, be £15,000, and the estimated value of any individual's property, making a part of such whole amount, be £200, the rate to be paid by such individual, will be, four shillings. It must be borne in mind, however, that in estimating the value of property, and proportioning the rate, regard must be had, according to the words of the Act, "to the value of the rents of real estate, and to the capability of personal estate to produce profit."

On the real and personal property whereof such inhabitants shall be respectively in the occupation or possession.] One point is made perfectly clear by these words, namely,— that it is only the person having the occupation or possession of property, who is to be rated for it, whether he be possessed of it as owner, tenant, or otherwise. Concerning the descriptions of property to be rated, the words cited are also so plain, as to real or landed estate, as to require no explanation, and with regard to personal property, they must be understood to include all descriptions of such property of a local, visible nature. According to this conclusion, and also from analogy to the decisions which have taken place with regard to poor rates, it is clear, that salaries, wages, the profits and fees of any profession, as of an attorney, also money vested in the public funds, or out at interest, and the like, are not liable to the county rate. See 4 Burn's, 57.

Questions may arise as to what is to be considered such an occupation of real property by a party, as will make him liable to be rated for it, which the following decisions, as to poor and other rates, will probably be thought sufficient to determine. The officer of a college is rateable for the apartment he inhabits in the college. A schoolmaster, occupying a house and garden belonging to the school, is rateable for them, although they are held by him as a recompense for teaching, &c., he being a beneficial occupant. A corporate body are occupiers and inhabitants for the purpose of being rated. If the owner of a house occupy a part thereof only, but his servants occupy other parts, and no one reside in the house but a poor person, permitted to do so out of charity, the owner is rateable as occupying the whole. If a party have the use of a building or other subject of the rate, as a mere servant of the Crown, or of any public body, or in any other respect for the mere exercise of public duty therein, and have no beneficial occupation of, or emolument resulting from it, in any personal and private respect, then he is not rateable. The property of the Crown, in the beneficial occupation of a subject, whether he be a civil or a military officer of the Crown, is equally rateable. But if the use of, or residence upon the property, be either as the servant of the crown, and for public purposes only, or as a mere public officer or servant, or of any other description, the parties having the use of the property merely for such purposes, are not rateable, because the occupation is, throughout, that of the public. 4 Burn's, 41 to 46.

With regard to the point of possession of property, it may be observed, that there are two kinds of possession, one in fact, and the other constructive, or in law; both of which will be found, in nearly every instance, to be included by the Occupation of Real property

before recited words of the Act. As to real property, if there is no person in actual occupation or possession, the owner is still considered in law to have the possession, and therefore, if he derives any rent or profit from the property, in any manner whatever, he will undoubtedly be liable to be rated for it, and even if he do not actually derive any such rent or profit, yet if it be then capable of yielding such rent or profit, it would rather seem that the owner is in like manner liable, according to the benefit it is then capable of yielding him. Of personal property, there are also two kinds of possession, actual and constructive. The first requires no explanation. As to the other, goods may for instance be placed by the owner under the care or charge of his servant, or some other, to be managed for him, in which case the owner has a constructive possession of such goods, and is therefore the proper person to be rated for them. The same of the owner of any goods in the actual possession of a carrier, for the mere purpose of conveyance, and in many other similar instances.

Within the County.] It will appear from these words, taken in conjunction with the word "inhabitant," previously used in the clause, that a party is to be rated only in the place where he resides, but that he is to be there rated for all the real and personal property of which he can be considered to be in the occupation or possession, throughout the county.

Regard being had to the value of the rents of the real estate, and the capability of the personal estate to produce profit.] With regard to the real estate, it would seem from the words here cited, that the amount in rent, which under existing circumstances any such estate, whether lands or houses, may fairly be estimated to yield or command, will, in every such case, be the value or amount of rent to be taken into account in adjusting and making the rate.

By the expression used concerning personal property, is doubtless to be understood its capability, under the existing circumstances of its possession, of yielding any profit to the possessor; for strictly speaking, personal property of every description is capable of being so used or employed as to yield a profit. If however, any such property, at the time of making a rate, is held or possessed by the owner under such circumstances that it does not and cannot then yield him a profit in any way, he is not at such time to be rated for it. Stock in trade, is liable to the county rate, if it be ascertained to be profitable.

IV. COLLECTION OF RATES, AND PROSECUTIONS FOR THE SAME.

By Sec. 7, of the aforesaid Statute, it is enacted, " That upon the rolls of assessment being received by the Clerk of the Peace, from the assessors, warrants under the hands and seals of any two Justices of the Peace within the county or district, with the said rolls thereto respectively annexed, shall forthwith be issued, directed to the respective Collectors, commanding them to collect from the persons named in such rolls, the several sums sets opposite to their names, respectively ; and the said Collectors shall immediately proceed to make such collection, and within three months from the time of their receiving such warrants, shall return the same to the said Clerk of the Peace, and shall pay over to the Treasurer of such county or district, the sum or sums of money so by them collected ; and if any such Collector, who has received any such warrant, shall neglect, delay, or refuse to make such collection and payment, within the period aforesaid, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten pounds, to be prosecuted for and recovered by the said Treasurer in a summary manner, before any two Justices of the Peace, or by bill, plaint, or information in any Court of Record in the Province, by direction of the Court of General Sessions, or otherwise ; and every Collector, who shall have received, and shall improperly retain any money by him collected as aforesaid, shall moreover, by the direction of the said General Sessions, be prosecuted for the same by the said Treasurer, before any such Court of Record, in cases where the sum so improperly retained shall exceed the sum of five pounds, and for any lesser sum, in the same manner that debts of the like amount between party and party are now by law recovered.

Sec. 12. The Court of General Sessions, in the several counties and districts, shall establish the rates of commissions to be allowed to the collectors of the said rates, the said commissions, however, not to exceed five pounds for every hundred pounds by them collected."

By the Act of 1 Vic., c. 35., Sess. 1838. The 8th clause of the aforesaid Act of 5 W. 4 c. 13, regarding prosecutions for the recovery of rates, has been repealed, and the following enactment has been substituted in place thereof :

Sec. 2. Instead of the course of procedure upon non-payment of the assessment of any person or persons prescribed in the eighth clause or Section of the said Act herein first mentioned, every collector shall make a general return to some Justice of the Peace within the county or district, of each and every person, who, after demand made, shall have neglected or refused to pay the sum assessed upon such person, and shall make oath in writing before such Justice, specifying the name of every person so neglecting or refusing to pay, and the sum assessed upon such person, and also stating that a demand hath been made upon such person for the sum so assessed, and that notwithstanding such demand, the said person hath neglected or refused to pay the sum so assessed, and thereupon such Justice shall forthwith issue a general warrant of distress against the said several persons named in such affidavit and return of the said collector, directed to some constable, commanding him to levy from the goods and chattels of each and every person named in the said warrant, the sum therein mentioned, as assessed against such person, with the fees of the constable for travel and levying such warrant. Provided always, that if any person or persons shall feel aggrieved by any such assessment, or the levying thereof as aforesaid, he, she, or they, may appeal for redress to the next General Sessions held in, and for the county or district in which such assessment was made, or to any Special Sessions held therein as by the said Act provided, for hearing such appeals, giving at least eight days notice thereof to the Clerk of the Peace of such appeal, who is hereby required to appear and support the rate or assessment so made as aforesaid; and on the hearing of such appeal, the said General or Special Sessions may, without setting aside the whole or any other part of the said assessment, either set aside or lower the rate assessed on such person or persons, or otherwise finally determine the said appeal as to the said Justices shall seem lawful and right, and in case any money has been paid by such person or persons for or on account of such rate, or the levying thereof, and the said Justices shall adjudge that the same or any part thereof be returned to such person or persons, the same shall, by order of the said Justices, be repaid to him, her or them, out of any money collected and received from the general assessment on the county or district, wherein such appeal took place, but no such appeal shall in any case delay or prevent the collection or recovery of the sum assessed upon any such person or persons as aforesaid; but the same proceedings as herein before directed, shall be had and pursued for the collection or recovery of the same, as if no such appeal had been made. Temporary.

The demand of the rate must be made personally, on the party rated.

There is no power given by the Statute to commit the party to prison, if the rate is not paid or levied, or in any event whatever; therefore no such commitment can take place, although no goods can be found on which to levy, or from which the judgment can be satisfied.

The fees on the proceedings, will be the same as in other summary prosecutions before Justices, and will be found under the Title—Fees.

The charges attending the levying under the warrant of distress, must be taxed and allowed by the Justices, as in similar cases.

As the prosecutions against the collectors for neglecting to make collection and payment, and for improperly retaining money collected by them, are directed, if before Justices, to be in a summary manner, the proceedings, and the Forms in such prosecutions, will be the same as in suits before Justices for the recovery of private debts, and will be found set forth under the Title—Summary Trials.

V. OF APPEALS.

Sec. 8, of the aforesaid Statute. "Provided always, that if any person or persons shall feel aggrieved by any such assessment, or the levying thereof as aforesaid, he, she, or they may appeal for redress to the next General Sessions held in and for the county or district in which such assessment was made, or to any Special Sessions held therein, as hereinafter provided, for hearing such appeals, giving at least eight days notice thereof to the Clerk of the Peace, who is hereby required to appear and support the rate or assessment made as aforesaid; and on the hearing of such appeal, the said General or Special Sessions may, without setting aside the whole or any other part of the said assessment, either set aside or lower the rate assessed on such person or persons, or otherwise finally determine the said appeal, as to the said Justices shall seem lawful and right; and in case any money has been paid by any such person or persons, for or on account of such rate, or the levying thereof, and the said Justices shall adjudge that the same, or any part thereof, be returned to such person or persons, the same shall, by order of the said Justices, be repaid to him, her, or them, out of any money collected or received from the general assessment on the county or district wherein such appeal took place;

but no such appeal shall in any case delay or prevent the collection or recovery of the sum assessed upon any such person or persons as aforesaid; but the same proceedings, as herein before directed, shall be had and pursued for the collection or recovery of the same, as if no such appeal had been made."

Sec. 11. It shall and may be lawful for the Justices of the Peace in the several counties and districts, to hold Courts of Special Sessions, if they shall deem it proper and expedient, for the purpose of hearing and determining appeals as herein before provided, and enforcing the assessment and collection of the said rates; of the holding of which Sessions, eight days notice shall be given, which Courts of Special Sessions shall have the same power and authority that Courts of General or Quarter Sessions possess, to hear and determine any appeal made as aforesaid, by any person or persons, against any rate or assessment to which he, she, or they may be rated or assessed, under and by virtue of this Act."

By the direction in the Act, that the appeal shall be made to the "next Sessions," is to be understood, the next Sessions to which the party can by possibility appeal, after being aggrieved; and this is always a question of fact. If the appeal is not made to such next Sessions, at which it is practicable to lodge it effectually, it cannot be allowed or heard at any subsequent Sessions. See 4 Burn's, 103.

Several parties having a joint grievance, may join in giving one notice of appeal. Id. 104.

Notice of Appeal.

The notice of appeal should be in writing, and if the ground of appeal be, that certain persons are omitted in the rate, the names of those persons should be specified in the notice of appeal. Id. 105.

When the appellant objects to his being rated at all, it is the practice for the respondents to begin; but if he object to the amount of the rate, then the burden of proof lies on him.

Where the appellant disputes before the Sessions, the amount of his rate, it is not sufficient for the respondent to shew that the appellant is in possession of some rateable property, they must also shew some probable ground for the amount at which he is charged in the rate. Id. 106.

Directions.

The same determinations and authorities which have been given under the division concerning the making of the assessment, may be referred to, and will equally serve to guide and direct the Sessions, with regard to the liability of parties or property to be rated; as to apportioning the rate;

and on other points which may be urged, or arise on the hearing of appeals. Those authorities therefore, as also the other information contained under that division, need not be here repeated.

It has been seen that the appellant must give the Clerk of the Peace at least eight days notice of the appeal. If any shorter notice is given, and the objection is urged, the appeal cannot, of course, be heard, but must be dismissed.

It may here be remarked, that the calling of Special Sessions for the hearing of appeals, is not imperative on the Justices, but they are only to call them, "if they deem it proper and expedient."

VI. OF THE EXPENDITURE OF THE MONEY RAISED.

By Sec. 9 of the aforesaid Statute, "All money so raised by presentment or amercement, as aforesaid, shall be paid into the hands of the Treasurers of the counties and districts, respectively, and shall not be applied to any other uses or purposes than such for which the same was raised, or which is otherwise by law provided; and if any person or persons, who shall be appointed in the said presentment and order thereon, or amercement, to be Director or Directors, Overseer or Overseers of the work, or a Distributor or Distributors of the money raised as aforesaid, shall not at the next General Sessions, and in a reasonable time, to be by such Sessions appointed, make appear in his, or their accounts, with good vouchers, that the money so raised and received by him or them, has been expended pursuant to the said presentment or amercement, to the use of the county or district, as by law provided, he or they shall be chargeable with the same; and every person, so accountable for any public money, shall when required by the said General Sessions, make up his accounts on oath; and if any such accountant or accountants, when so required, shall neglect to make a fair and just account of all such public money, or shall, upon such accounts, be found to have such money or any part thereof remaining in his or their hands, he, or they, shall forthwith pay such money into the hands of such person or persons as shall by the Justices in the said Sessions, or by the Grand Jury, be named or appointed to receive the same, for the use of such county or district; and in default thereof, such person or persons, so accountable, shall, by the said Sessions, by their order or warrant, be committed to the common gaol, there to remain until such account be made, or balance paid, or sufficient sureties be given for the same."

Sec. 10. The county or district Treasurers shall not pay out any money, raised as aforesaid and received by them, for any other purposes than those for which the same was raised; or for which payment may otherwise, by law, be made; and such Treasurers shall make up their accounts upon oath, of all their receipts and payments, at every term of the General Sessions, to be approved, or disapproved of, by the said Court, and such accounts shall be filed with the Clerks of the Peace; and no Treasurer shall compound for any money to be raised, nor make any deductions for any sums they shall pay to any persons, but such as they shall account for by proper vouchers; and if any Treasurer shall offend herein, or neglect to make up his accounts as aforesaid, he shall be incapable again to serve as such Treasurer, and shall, by the Sessions, be committed to gaol, without bail, there to remain until he fairly accounts with such Court, and receives from the same, a certificate of his having passed his accounts to their approbation."

VII. RECOVERY OF PENALTIES.

By Sec. 14 of the aforesaid Statute. "All forfeitures and penalties imposed by this Act, the prosecution and recovery of which have not been herein before provided for, may be sued for and recovered by any person who will prosecute for the same, or shall be sued for and recovered by the Clerk of the Peace for the county or district within which the same were incurred, by order of the Court of General or Quarter Sessions held in such county or district, by bill, plaint, or information in any Court of Record within the Province, in cases where such forfeiture or penalty shall be the sum of ten pounds or upwards; and in all cases below the said sum of ten pounds, before any two Justices of the peace, in a summary manner, as in cases of debt: and on judgment being given for the recovery of any such forfeiture or penalty, the same, together with the charges of prosecution, shall and may, by warrant of distress, be levied on the goods and chattels of the offenders; and in case sufficient distress cannot be found whereon to levy the same, it shall be lawful for the Court or Justices, by whom such judgment was given, to commit such offender to the common gaol of the said county or district, there to remain, without bail or mainprize, for any time not exceeding three months, unless the said forfeiture and charges be sooner paid; and all the said forfeitures and penalties, when recovered, after deducting any expense incurred in prosecuting for the same, shall be paid to the Treasurer of the county or district within which the same

NOTE. As all the penalties which are by the Act directed to be recovered before Justices, are to be sued for in a summary manner, as in cases of debt, the proceedings and the requisite Forms, until judgment, will be the same as in such cases, and will be found set forth under the Title,—Summary Trials. The proceedings after judgment, being by warrant of distress and commitment, instead of the common writ of execution, the requisite Forms, which may readily be filled up so as to serve, will be found under the Titles,—Distress, and Commitment.

Directions.

The costs in such prosecutions will be the same as in such summary causes for the recovery of debts.

VIII. OTHER REGULATIONS CONCERNING COUNTY RATES.

Sec. 13, of the same Statute. "It shall be lawful for the Justices in General or Quarter Sessions, from time to time, to order such allowances and compensations to be made to the assessors, collectors, overseers, or directors of work, distributors of money, and constables employed in the execution of this Act, or under and by virtue thereof, which have not herein before been provided for, from, by, or out of the monies assessed, levied, and collected by and from any rate under this Act, as to the said Justices in Sessions as aforesaid, shall appear reasonable and proper."

Compensation to Collectors, &c.

[NOTE. By the 6 W. 4, c. 22. No pecuniary allowance or emolument shall be thereafter made to assessors.]

Sec. 15. "No person shall be deemed incompetent to be a witness for the execution of the purposes of this Act, or in any appeal or other proceedings instituted by virtue thereof, by reason of his paying, or being liable to pay, towards the aforesaid rates."

Witnesses.

Sec. 16. No action shall be brought against any person, for any thing done under the Act, after six calendar months next after the fact committed; and every such action shall be brought in the county or district where the cause of action arose; and the defendant may, at his election, plead this Act specially, or plead the general issue, and give this Act and the special matter in evidence, on the trial; and if the defendant shall succeed in any such action, he shall recover treble costs.

Actions for proceedings under the Act on certiorari.

Sec. 17 & 18. "No rates, orders, or proceedings removed by certiorari, shall be quashed for want of form only. And no action shall be commenced against any person who shall have collected or received any money on any rate which shall be quashed on a certiorari, or otherwise, for any money collected or received on such rate, before the certiorari was brought; but the persons who have paid on such rate more than they ought to have paid, shall be repaid, or have the same allowed in the next rate."

Sec. 19. All former Acts respecting county rates are hereby repealed.

The aforesaid Act is at present limited in its duration.

RECOGNISANCE.

RECOGNISANCE, is a bond of record, testifying the recognisor to owe a certain sum of money to some other, and the acknowledging of the same is to remain of record; and none can take it, but only a judge or officer of record. These recognizances, in some cases, the Justices of the peace are enabled to take by the express words of certain Statutes, but in other cases, (as for the peace and good behaviour, and the like.) it is rather in congruity, and by reasonable intendment of law, than by any express authority given them, either by their commission, or by the statute law. It is now settled, that a Justice of the peace is authorised to require surety of the peace for a limited time, (e. g. two years,) according to his discretion, and that he need not bind the party over to the next Sessions only. 5 Burn's, 6.

Power of Justices to take Recognizances.

Wheresoever any Statute gives them power to take a bond of any man, or to bind over any man, to appear at the assizes or sessions, or to take sureties for any matter or cause, they may take a recognizance: yea, wheresoever they have authority given them to cause a man to do a thing, there, it seems, they have, in congruity, power given them to bind the party by recognisance to do it; and if the party refuse to be bound, the Justice may send him to gaol. But he can take no recognisance, but only of such matters as concern his office, and if he do, it seems to be void. Every obligation and recognisance taken by Justices of the peace, must be made to our Lord the King, on pain of imprisonment of any person that shall take it otherwise. It must also contain the name, place of abode, and trade or calling, both of principal and sureties, and the sums in which they are bound. And it is most commonly subject to a condition, which is either indorsed or underwritten, or contained within the body of it, upon the performance of which the recognisance shall be void. Id. 6-7.

Of the Form of Recogni-sance.

Manner of
Recognisance

When the parties are to enter into recognisance, call them by their names, thus: "You A. B. acknowledge to owe to our Sovereign Lord the King, the sum of —, and you C. D., acknowledge to owe to our Sovereign Lord the King, the sum of —, to be levied of your respective goods and chattels, lands and tenements, for the use of our said Lord the King, his heirs and successors, if default shall be made in the condition following; that is to say, if you the said A. B., shall make default in appearing at &c." But the parties need not sign it. And it is usual for the Justices to mark at the foot of the examination, A. B., in £40 to appear, &c., and from such short note make out a record afterward. Yet the recognisance is a matter of record presently, so soon as it is taken and acknowledged, although it be not made up. When it is made up, if the Justice shall only subscribe his name, without his seal to it, this is well enough; and that may be in either of these sorts, acknowledged before me A. M., or only to subscribe his name thus, A. M. Id. 7-8.

NOTE. Where parties are bound over to the Sessions, the Justices should certify the recognisances to that Court, but in felonies, and in other cases where persons are bound over to the Supreme Court, the Justices must certify such recognisances there; at the first term of each Court respectively.

The Judges of Oyer and Terminer are the proper Judges whether recognisances ought to be estreated or spared. And by parity of reason, it should seem, that the Justices of the Peace, in the Quarter Sessions, should have the like power, in respect of offences cognisable there. 5 Burn's, 8.

RIOT.

I. WHAT IS A RIOT.

II. HOW, AND BY WHOM, THE SAME MAY BE RESTRAINED.

I. WHAT IS A RIOT.

WHEN three persons, or more, shall assemble themselves together, with an intent mutually to assist one another against any who shall oppose them in the execution of some enterprise of a private nature, with force or violence, against the peace, or to the manifest terror of the people, whether the Act intended were of itself lawful or unlawful, if they only meet to such a purpose or intent, although they shall after depart of their own accord, without doing any thing, this is an unlawful assembly. If after their first meeting they shall move forward towards the execution of any such Act, whether they put their intended purpose in execution or not; this, according to the general opinion, is a riot: And if they execute such a thing indeed, then it is a riot. 5 Burn's, 14.

Three persons, or more.] There must be this number at least, for there can be no riot where there are no more persons than two. Women are punishable as rioters, but infants, under the age of discretion, are not persons within the aforesaid description, punishable as rioters. Id. 15.

Assemble themselves together.] It seems agreed, that if a number of persons being met together at a fair, or market, or church aisle, or on any other lawful and innocent occasion, happen, on a sudden quarrel, to fall together by the ears, they are not guilty of a riot, but of a sudden affray only, of which none are guilty, but those who actually engage in it. Yet it is said, that if persons, innocently assembled together, do afterwards, upon a dispute happening to arise among them, form themselves into parties, with promise of mutual assistance, and then make an affray, they are guilty of a riot; because upon their confederating together with an intention to break the peace, they may as properly be said to be assembled together for that purpose, from the time of such confederacy, as if their first coming together had been on such a design. An assembly of a man's friends, for the defence of his person, against those who threaten to beat him, if he go to such market, &c., is unlawful; for he who is in fear of such insults, must provide for his safety, by demanding the surety of the peace against the persons by whom he is threatened, and not make use of such violent methods. But an assembly of a man's friends, at his own house, for the defence of the possession of it, against such as threaten to make an unlawful entry, or for the defence of his person against such as threaten to beat him in his house, is indulged by law; for a man's house is looked upon as his castle. He is not however to arm himself and assemble his friends in defence of his close. If any person encourages, or promotes, or takes part in riots, whether by words, signs, or gestures, or by wearing the badge or ensign of the rioters, he is himself to be considered a rioter, for in this case, all are principals. Id. 15-16.

In the execution of some enterprise of a private nature. It also seems agreed, that the injury or grievance complained of, and intended to be revenged or remedied by such an assembly, must relate to some private quarrel only; as the inclosing of lands in which the inhabitants of a town claim a right of common, or gaining the possession of tenements, the title whereof is in dispute, or such like matters relating to the interests or disputes of particular persons, and no way concerning the public; for wherever the intention of such an assembly is to redress public grievances, as to pull down enclosures in general, or reform religion, and the like, it is high treason. Id. 16.

Against the peace, or to the terror of the people. It seems to be clearly agreed, that in every riot there must be some such circumstances, either of actual force or violence, or at least of an apparent tendency thereto, as are naturally apt to strike a terror into the people; as the shew of armour, threatening speeches, or turbulent gestures; for every such offence must be laid to be done, to the terror of the people. And from thence it clearly follows, that assemblies at wakes, or other festival times, or other meetings for exercise of common sports or diversions, as wrestling, and such like, are not riotous. But it is not necessary in order to constitute this crime, that personal violence should have been committed. From the same ground also, it seems to follow, that it is possible for three persons, or more, to assemble together with an intention to execute a wrongful act, and also actually to perform their intended enterprise, without being rioters; as if a man assemble a suitable company, to carry away a piece of timber, or other thing, whereto he pretends a right, that cannot be carried without a great number, if the number be not more than are needful for such purpose, although another man hath better right to the thing so carried away, and that this act be wrong and unlawful; yet it is of itself no riot, except there be withal threatening words used, or other disturbance of the peace. Much more may any person, in a peaceable manner, assemble a fit company to do any lawful thing, or to remove or cast down any common nuisance: Thus, every private man, to whose house or land any nuisance shall be erected, made, or done, may, in a peaceable manner, assemble a fit company, with necessary tools, and may remove, pull, or cast down, such nuisance, and that before any prejudice received thereby; and for that purpose, if need be, may also enter into another man's ground. Thus, a man erected a wear across a common river, where people have a common passage with their boats, and divers persons assembled with spades, crows of iron, and other things necessary to remove the said wear, and make a trench in his land who erected the wear, to turn the water, so as they might the better take up the said wear; and they did remove the said nuisance; this was holden neither any forcible entry, nor yet any riot.

But in the cases aforesaid, if in removing any such nuisance, the persons so assembled, shall use any threatening words, (as to say—they will do it, though they die for it, or such like words,) or shall use any other behaviour in apparent disturbance of the peace, then it seems to be a riot; and therefore, where there is a cause to remove any such nuisance, or to do any like act, it is the safest, not to assemble any multitude of people, but only to send, one or two or if a greater number, yet no more than are needful, and only with fit tools, to remove, pull or cast down the same; and that such persons attend to their business only, without disturbance of the peace, or threatening speeches. Id. 16–17.

Whether the act intended were of itself lawful or unlawful. It hath been generally holden, that it is no way material, whether the act intended to be done by such an assembly be of itself lawful or unlawful; from whence it follows, that if three or more persons assist a man to make a forcible entry into lands, to which one of them has a good right of entry, or if the like number, in a violent and tumultuous manner, join together in removing a nuisance, or other thing, which may lawfully be done in a peaceable manner, they are as properly rioters, as if the act intended to be done by them were never so unlawful. Id. 17.

II. HOW AND BY WHOM THE SAME MAY BE RESTRAINED.

By the common law, any private person may lawfully endeavour to suppress a riot, by staying those he shall see engaged therein, from executing their purpose, and also by stopping others whom he shall see coming to join them. However, it seems extremely hazardous for private persons to proceed to these extremities; and such violent methods seem only proper against such riots as savour of rebellion. Id. 17.

Also, by the common law, the sheriff, constables, and other peace officers, may and ought to do all that in them lies towards the suppressing of a riot, and may command all other persons to assist therein. Id. 18.

By the 34 Ed. 3, c. 1. "The Justices of the Peace shall have power to restrain rioters, and to arrest and chastise them, according to their offence: and cause them to be imprisoned and duly punished, according to the law and custom of the realm, and according to that which to them shall seem best to do, by their discretions and good advisement."

And this Statute hath been liberally constrained for the advancement of justice; for it hath been resolved, that if a Justice find persons riotously assembled, he alone, without staying for his companions, hath not only power to arrest the offenders, and bind them to their good behaviour, or imprison them if they do not offer good bail; but that he may also authorise others to arrest them, by a bare verbal command, without other warrant; and that by force thereof, the person, so commanded, may pursue and arrest the offenders in his absence, as well as presence. Also it is said, that after a riot is over, any one Justice may send his warrant to arrest any person who was concerned in it, and also that he may send him to gaol, till he shall find sureties for his good behaviour. But it seems to be agreed, that no one Justice hath any power, by force of this Statute, either to record a riot upon his own view, or to take an inquisition thereof after it is over. Also, if one Justice, proceeding upon this Statute, shall arrest an innocent person as a rioter, it seems that he is liable to an action of trespass, and that the party arrested may justify the rescuing himself, because no single Justice is, by this Statute, made a judge of the said offence. Id. 18.

If a Justice, acting as a Judge, by any Statute whatsoever empowering him so to do, make a record upon his view of a riot committed in his presence, such record shall not be traversed; for the law gives such uncontrollable credit to all matters of record made by any Judge of record, as such,

All salt, imported into the Province, shall be subject to the foregoing regulations." Perpetual.

By the 56 G. 3. c. 4. 2 V. 200, made in addition to, and amendment of the before mentioned Act, it is enacted, "That all salt delivered from any ship or vessel to any truckman, or any other person, without having been duly and regularly admeasured by the proper officer appointed by the Court of Sessions to survey the same, shall be forfeited, or the value thereof, to, and for the use of the poor of the township.

Sec. 6. Sec. 7. Such measurer shall receive two pence, for every hogshhead of salt measured by him, to be paid by the seller of the same. Perpetual.

In prosecutions before Justices, on either of the foregoing Statutes, the like proceedings must be observed as in similar cases already mentioned in this work, directions concerning which, with the requisite Forms, which may readily be made to serve, will be found under the respective Titles, Information, Summons, Conviction, Distress.

SEAMEN. (MERCHANT.)

By the Statutes of the 6 W. 4, c. 43, Sess. 1836, and the 4 Vic. c. 50, Sess. 1841, various enactments and regulations are made, relating to Seamen, hired and serving on board of merchant ships belonging to this Province, and trading to other countries; which regulations, for the sake of convenience, will here be arranged and recited in the following order.

I. AGREEMENT.

Sec. 1, of the first mentioned Statute. "It shall not be lawful for any master of any ship or vessel, registered in and belonging to this Province, trading to parts beyond the seas, or out of this Province, to carry to sea on any voyage, either from this Province, or from any other place, any seaman or other person, as one of his crew or complement, (apprentices excepted.) without first entering into an agreement in writing with every such seaman, specifying what monthly or other wages each such seaman is to be paid, the capacity in which he is to act, and the nature of the voyage in which the ship is intended to be employed, so that the seaman may have some means of judging of the probable period for which he is likely to be engaged; and the said agreement shall contain the day of the month and year in which the same shall be made, and shall be signed by the master in the first instance, and by the seamen, respectively, at the port or place where such seamen shall be respectively shipped, and the master shall cause the same to be, by, or in the presence of the party who is to attest their respective signatures thereto, truly and distinctly read to every such seaman, before he shall be required to sign the same, in order that he may be enabled to understand the purport and meaning of the engagement he enters into, and the terms to which he is bound.

Sec. 2. Every such agreement shall be in the form, and shall contain true entries under their respective heads, of the several particulars set forth in the schedule to this Act annexed, so far as the same can be ascertained; and the owner and the master of every such ship, or one of them, shall, on reporting his ship's arrival at her port of destination in this Province, deposit, or cause to be deposited with the Collector of the Customs at each port, a true copy of such agreement, attested by the signature of the master, to the intent, that every person who may be interested in any such agreement, may at all times have the means of knowing the terms and conditions thereof.

Stipulation as to sale of vessel.

Sec. 3. "It shall be lawful for the master or owner of any such ship, proceeding to a port where it may be deemed advisable to sell the same, to insert in the said agreement, a clause or stipulation, providing for such sale at any designated port or ports, during the voyage described in such agreement, and for the discharge of the crew at such port or ports, or either of them, upon such sale taking place; which said stipulation shall however distinctly and clearly express what amount of wages shall be paid to the seamen on board of such ship, upon the sale thereof at any and each of the said port or ports, whereat it is proposed to sell the same, and whether any and what increased rate of wages is to be paid upon the sale of such ship, and the discharge of the crew.

Reservation as to means for recovery of wages.

Sec. 5. "No seaman, by entering into or signing such agreement, shall forfeit his lien upon the ship, nor be deprived of any remedy for the recovery of his wages, which seamen are now lawfully entitled to, against either the ship, Schedule in this Act referred to.

AN Agreement, made pursuant to the directions of an Act of the General Assembly of Nova Scotia, passed in the sixth year of the reign of His Majesty King William the Fourth, between — the master of the ship —, of the port of —, of the burthen of — tons, and the several persons whose names are subscribed hereto.

Sec. 23. Nothing in this Act, or in any agreement, shall prevent any seaman or person belonging to any merchant ship, from entering into His Majesty's Navy, nor shall such entry be deemed a desertion from such ship, or incur any forfeiture of wages, clothes, or effects, or other thing; and no clause or matter shall be introduced into any ship's articles, or agreement, by which any penalty or forfeiture is agreed to be incurred by a seaman, upon his entry into His Majesty's Service.

II. ABSENCE AND DESERTION.

By Sec. 6, of the said Act of the 6 W. 4. "In case a seaman shall at any time after having signed an agreement as herein before mentioned, neglect or refuse to join the ship on board of which he shall have engaged to serve, or shall refuse to proceed to sea in her, or shall absent himself therefrom without leave, it shall be lawful for any Justice of the Peace in any part of this Province, near to the place where such ship shall happen to be, upon complaint of the fact, made upon oath by the master, mate, or owner thereof, and such Justice is hereby required, by his warrant, to cause such seaman to be apprehended and brought before him, and in case such seaman shall not give a reason to the satisfaction of such Justice, for his neglect, refusal, or absence, as the case may be, upon due proof of such neglect, refusal, or absence, it shall be lawful for any such Justice, to commit such seaman to the county or district gaol, or to the house of correction, there to be kept to hard labour, for a period not exceeding thirty days. Provided always, that in case such seaman, on being apprehended and brought before the said Justice, shall consent to join the ship, and proceed on the voyage for which he shall have agreed, it shall be lawful for the said Justice, at the request of the master, instead of committing such seaman, to cause him to be conveyed on board the said ship, or to be delivered to the master, for the purpose of proceeding on the voyage; and also to award to the master, such costs incurred in the apprehension of the seaman, as to such Justice shall seem reasonable, not exceeding, in any case, the sum of two pounds, exclusive of gaol fees; which shall be chargeable against, and may be abated from the wages to grow due to such seaman."

Sec. 9. If any seaman, after having signed such agreement as aforesaid, or after the ship on board which he shall have agreed to serve, shall have left her first port of clearance, and before the period for which he shall have agreed for desertion.

Sec. 11. "Every seaman who shall absolutely desert the ship to which he shall belong, shall forfeit to the owner or master thereof, all his clothes and effects, which he may leave on board, and all wages and emoluments to which he might otherwise be entitled,—provided, the circumstances attending such desertion be entered in the log book, at the time, and certified by the signature of the master and mate, or other credible witness; and that an absence of a seaman from the ship, for any time within the space of twenty four hours immediately preceding the sailing of the ship, without permission from the master thereof, or for any period however short, under circumstances plainly shewing that it was his intention not to return thereto, shall be deemed an absolute desertion; and in case any such desertion shall take place in parts beyond the seas, or out of this Province, and the master of the ship shall be under the necessity of engaging any seaman as a substitute for the deserter, at a higher

III. WAGES.

Sec. 7. Whenever any seaman, who shall have received an advance in money, on his being shipped and signing the usual agreement, and for whom any person shall have become surety, and as such subscribed the agreement by this Act prescribed and required, shall neglect or refuse to proceed on his voyage, such surety shall repay any advance made to such seaman; and if the master or owner of the ship shall be compelled to procure another seaman, and thereby be put to any increased and additional expense, beyond the wages agreed to be paid to the seaman so neglecting or refusing to proceed on his voyage, the surety, in addition to paying the advance of money made to the seaman, shall also be obliged and required to pay, and shall pay, any such additional expense incurred as aforesaid; Provided, the said additional expense do not exceed in the whole, one half the sum of money so advanced to such seaman, and which the surety is to return.

Liability of sureties for seaman.

Sec. 8. The signature of any party becoming such surety, subscribed to the agreement, opposite to the name of the seaman for whom he shall become surety, in the proper column of such agreement, shall be sufficient, without any other agreement or contract, to render the said surety liable to the responsibilities, and for the payments herein before mentioned; and if any surety shall neglect or refuse to fulfil such responsibilities, or to make such payments as aforesaid, when thereto liable, it shall be lawful to sue such surety, in like manner and before the same Justice, Justices, or Court, as debts of the like amount are or may by law be recoverable, and on production of such agreement, and on proof of the same being properly executed by the seaman, as herein before required, and on proof of the signature and execution thereof by the surety, and also on proof of the neglect or refusal of the seaman to proceed to sea, on the voyage in such agreement mentioned, judgment shall be given against such surety, as well for the advance paid to such seaman, as for any such additional expense as may have been incurred, to the extent herein before mentioned, together with costs as allowed by law in cases of debt of the like amount.

Assignment or sale of wages.

Sec. 14. Every payment of wages to a seaman shall be valid in law, notwithstanding any bill of sale or assignment which may have been made by any such seaman, of such wages, or of any attachment or incumbrance thereon; and no assignment or sale of wages, made prior to the earning thereof, nor any power of attorney expressed to be irrevocable for the receipt of any such wages, shall be valid or binding upon the party making the same.

Act in amendment, as to wages.

By the beforementioned Act of the 4 Vic. c. 50, the following enactments are made with regard to wages :

Sec. 1. Repeals the thirteenth, sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth Sections of the aforesaid Act of the 6 W. 4, c. 48, which Sections relate exclusively to the payment and recovery of wages.

Wages to be paid on deli-

Sec. 2. The master or owner of every ship shall, and he is hereby required to pay to every seaman entering into such contract as is provided in and by the said Act, the wages due to such seaman, if the same shall be demanded within twenty-four hours after the seaman shall have been discharged by the master or owner, or the cargo shall have been delivered; and in case any master or owner shall neglect or refuse to make payment, in manner aforesaid, he shall, for every neglect or refusal, forfeit and pay to the seaman the amount of two days pay for each day, not exceeding ten days, during which, payment shall, without sufficient cause, be delayed beyond the period at which such wages are hereby required to be paid, as aforesaid; for the recovery of which forfeiture the seaman shall have the same remedies as he is by law entitled to for the recovery of his wages: Provided always, that nothing in this Act contained shall extend to the cases of ships employed on voyages for which seamen, by the terms of their agreement, are compensated by shares in the profits of the adventure.

The requisite Forms in suits for the recovery of seamen's wages pursuant to the Act last recited will be found at the end of this Title.

IV. SECRETING SEAMEN.

By Sec. 12, of the before mentioned Act of the 6 W. 4, c. 48. "If any person shall, either on ship board, or on shore, harbour or secrete a seaman, who shall have signed an agreement to proceed on a voyage to parts beyond the seas, and shall have deserted or absented himself without leave from his ship, knowing, or having reason to believe him to be a deserter, or to be absent without leave, every person so offending, shall for every such seaman so harboured or secreted, forfeit and pay twenty shillings; and no debt exceeding in amount five shillings, incurred by any seaman, after he shall have signed any such agreement as aforesaid, shall be recoverable until the voyage agreed for shall have been concluded; nor shall it be lawful for any keeper of a public house, or of a lodging house for seamen, to withhold or detain any chest, bed, or bedding, clothes, tools, or other effects of any seaman, for any pretended debt alleged to have been contracted by any such seaman, and in case any such chest, bed, bedding, clothes, tools, or effects as aforesaid, shall be withheld, or detained contrary to this Act, it shall be lawful for any Justice of the Peace, in any part of this Province, upon complaint on oath to be made by any such seaman, or on his behalf, to enquire into the matter, and if he shall see right, by warrant under his hand and seal, to cause any such property or effects so withheld or detained contrary to this Act, to be seized and delivered over to the seaman."

NOTE. The form of a complaint of the detainer of the seaman's effects, contrary to the foregoing clause, and also of the warrant for seizing such effects, will be found at the end of the Title.

VI. DISCHARGING AND LEAVING SEAMEN ABROAD.

Sec. 20 of the said last mentioned Act. "No master of any ship, belonging to, or owned in this Province, shall discharge any person of his crew, whether British subject, or foreigner, at any port or place in any of His Majesty's dominions out of this Province, without the previous sanction in writing of the Governor, Secretary, or other officer appointed in that behalf by the Government there, or of the principal officer of the Customs, or of two respectable merchants resident at, or nearest to the port or place where such ship shall be; nor shall he discharge any such person at any other place out of this Province, without the like previous sanction in writing of His Majesty's minister, consul, or vice consul there, or of two respectable merchants there, all which said several functionaries and merchants, are hereby authorised in a summary way, to enquire into the grounds of any such proposed discharge, by examination on oath, and thereupon to grant or refuse such sanction, according to their discretion, having regard to the objects of this Act.

Sec. 21. No such master shall be at liberty to leave behind at any place abroad, either on shore, or at sea, any person of his crew as aforesaid, on the plea of such person not being in a condition to proceed on the voyage, or having deserted from the ship or otherwise disappeared, unless upon a previous certificate in writing of one of such functionaries or merchants as aforesaid, if there be any such at or within a reasonable distance from the place where the ship shall then be, if there be time to procure the same, certifying that such person is not in such condition, or has deserted or disappeared, and cannot be brought; and all such functionaries and merchants as aforesaid are hereby authorised, on the application of any such master, to enquire, by examination on oath, into the circumstance, and to give or refuse such certificate, according to the result of such examination."

VII. PENALTIES AND FORFEITURES.

Sec. 4 of the same Act. "If any master of any such ship as aforesaid, shall carry out to sea, any seaman, (apprentices excepted,) without having first entered into such agreement as is hereby required, he shall for every such offence forfeit and pay the sum of five pounds, for or in respect of every such seaman he shall so carry out contrary to this Act; and if any master shall neglect to cause the agreement to be distinctly read over to each such seaman, as by this Act he is enjoined, he shall for every such neglect forfeit and pay the sum of five pounds; and if any master shall neglect to deposit with the Collector of the Customs, a copy of the agreement hereby required to be made and deposited as aforesaid, or shall wilfully deposit a false copy of any such agreement, he shall, for every such neglect or offence, forfeit and pay the sum of five pounds."

Manner of ascertaining forfeitures by Seamen.

Sec. 10. "In all cases where the Seaman shall have contracted for wages by the voyage or by the run, and not by the month or other stated period of time, the amount of forfeitures to be incurred by Seamen under this Act, shall be ascertained in manner following, that is to say:—if the whole time spent in the voyage agreed upon shall exceed one calendar month, the forfeiture of one month's pay, expressed in this Act, shall be accounted and taken to be a forfeiture of a sum of money bearing the same proportion to the whole wages, as a calendar month shall bear to the whole time spent in the voyage; and in like manner, a forfeiture of two days pay, or less, shall be accounted and taken to be a forfeiture of the sum bearing the same proportion to the whole wages, as the same period of time shall bear to the whole time spent in the voyage; and if the whole time spent in the voyage, shall not exceed one calendar month, the forfeiture of one month's pay shall be accounted and taken to be a forfeiture of the whole wages contracted for; and if such time shall not exceed two days, the forfeiture of two days pay shall be accounted and taken to be a forfeiture of the whole wages contracted for, and the master is hereby authorised to abate the amount of all the forfeitures herein before enacted, out of the wages of any Seaman incurring the same."

Certificate to
his discharge.

Sec. 15. "Upon the discharge of a seaman from the ship in which he shall have served, he shall be entitled to receive from the master a certificate of his service and discharge, specifying the period of service, and the time and place of the discharge of such seaman; which certificate shall be signed by the master, and if any master shall refuse

Sec. 26. All penalties and forfeitures imposed by this Act, and for the recovery whereof no specific mode is herein before provided, shall and may be recovered, with costs of suit, in manner following, that is to say,—All penalties and forfeitures not exceeding ten pounds, shall be recoverable at the suit of any person, by information and summary proceeding before any three Justices of the Peace, in any part of this Province, for the county where the offence shall be committed, or where the offender shall be, which Justices shall have full power to levy the amount of any such penalty or forfeiture, and costs, by distress and sale of the offender's goods, or by commitment of the offender, for the non payment of the amount; and all penalties and forfeitures exceeding ten pounds, shall and may be recovered with costs of suit in any Court of Record; and all penalties and forfeitures mentioned in this Act, for which no specific application is herein before provided, shall when recovered, be paid and applied in manner following,—one moiety thereof shall be paid to the informer, or person upon whose discovery or information the same shall be recovered, and the residue shall be paid over to the Commissioners or Overseers of the poor for the town or place wherein the offence shall have been committed, or the offender shall be sued. Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the Court before which, or the Justice or Justices before whom, any proceedings shall be instituted for the recovery of any pecuniary penalty imposed by this Act, to mitigate or reduce such penalty, as to such Court or Justices respectively shall appear just and reasonable, in such manner however, that no such penalty shall be reduced below one half of its original amount; And provided also, that all proceedings so to be instituted, shall be commenced within two years next after the commission of the offence, or within six calendar months after the return of the offender to this Province, if such offence shall have been committed without the limits thereof."

Manner of recovering and applying Penalties, &c.

By Sec. 27, it is enacted, that this Act, and nothing therein contained, shall extend to any ship trading coastwise between any port of this Province, and any other port or ports therein, or to any ship which by the Act passed in the fourth year of His present Majesty's reign, entitled, "An Act for the support and regulation of Light Houses," is directed to pay duty under such Act, as a coasting vessel. Perpetual.

NOTE. For the recovery of the penalties directed by the foregoing Act to be sued for before three Justices, the same proceedings must be observed, and the same general Forms will serve, as in other similar cases for the recovery of penalties before Justices; for which proceedings and Forms, see respectively, Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction, Distress, Commitment.

Directions.

Although the Statute does not require that a copy of the order should be served on the defendant, or that any formal notice of it should be given to him, yet in case he was not present at the hearing of the suit and the giving of the order, it would seem to be most proper, as well as safe, that either one or the other should be done, by or on behalf of the seaman, before the warrant to levy, is issued, especially, as by the terms of the Act, the warrant is not to issue, until after the expiration of two days from the making of the order, without its being obeyed. The Justices must tax and allow to the complainant, his costs in the suit, according to the before recited table of fees, set forth in the Act.

If the money is not paid within two days after the making of the order, the following warrant must be issued, being the Form thereof given in the said Act of 4 Vic. c. 50.

- I. APPRENTICES.
- II. HIRED SERVANTS.
- III. REGULATIONS CONCERNING APPRENTICES AND HIRED SERVANTS, BY CERTAIN STATUTES.

I. APPRENTICES.

A PAROL binding cannot constitute an apprenticeship. It must be done by deed. Infants may bind themselves, and the master may be an infant. If in the case of a voluntary binding, the person bound be an infant, he must be a party to the indentures, or he will not be bound by them; and if he be an adult, he must also be a party.

By the common law, persons under the age of twenty-one years cannot bind themselves apprentices in such manner as to entitle their masters to an action of covenant, or other action for departing the service, or other breaches of the indenture; which makes it necessary, according to the usual practice, to get some of their friends to be bound for the faithful discharge of their offices, according to the terms agreed on. But if an infant of five years of age, or other person who is not potens in corpore, be retained and serve in the best manner he can, his master must pay him his wages. 1 Burn's, 91-2.

Every indenture of an infant is voidable at his election, on his coming to the age of 21 years, except where the binding is under the authority of an Act of Parliament, in which case, the power of electing to vacate the indentures is taken away. Id. 101.

A master may by law correct and chastise his apprentice for neglect or other misbehaviour, so it be done with moderation. Id. 138.

By the 33 G. 2, c. 1. 1 V. 42. The Overseers of the poor of the town of Halifax, shall take order, from time to time, by and with the consent of two or more Justices of the Setting to work or binding out children of poor persons, &c.

Peace for the county of Halifax, for setting to work the children of all such, whose parents shall not by the said Overseers or the greater part of them, be thought able to keep or maintain them, or any poor orphans; or by indenture to bind any such children or orphans as aforesaid, to be apprentices where they shall see convenient, till such man child shall come to the age of twenty-one years, and such woman child to the age of eighteen years, or the time of her marriage; the same to be as effectual to all purposes, as if such child were of full age, and by indenture of covenant had bound him or herself. Provided always, that one of the conditions of said indentures shall be, that if the said master or mistress of said apprentice, or other person to whom said indenture may be assigned, shall transport or carry said apprentice out of this Province, to reside or dwell in any other colony or plantation, then the said indenture shall be void, and the said apprentice shall thenceforth be discharged from any further service to his said master, mistress, or assignus. By the 3 & 4 G. 3, c. 9. 1 V. 96, the said clause relating to the binding out poor children and orphans, and all the directions therein contained, shall extend and be construed to extend, to all the other towns in this Province. Perpetual.

By the 43 G. 3, c. 3. 1 V. 469. The Commissioners of the poor for the town of Halifax are empowered to bind out poor children, apprentices, without consent of Magistrates, subject however to all other restrictions and limitations prescribed by law. Perpetual.

Assigning Apprentices.

By the 5 G. 3, c. 7. 1 V. 115. Before any inhabitant of this Province shall accept of the assignment of the indenture of an apprentice, or servant, contracted with in any other part of His Majesty's dominions, he shall go with the parties before one Justice or more, who shall examine whether the indenture be executed agreeable to law, and whether the apprentice or servant has any legal objection to such assignment, and shall determine the validity of such objections; and record a certificate of such judgment in the matter. Perpetual.

II. HIRED SERVANTS.

Retainer and Service.

If a person retain a servant generally, without expressing any time, the law shall construe it to be for one year, for that retainer is according to law. If a woman who is a servant shall marry, yet she must serve out her time, and her husband cannot take her out of her master's service; for her marrying is not a misdemeanor, and nothing else is a cause of discharge. 5 Burn's, 114.

If a servant, retained for a year, happen within the time of his service to fall sick, or to be hurt or disabled by the act of God, or in doing his master's business, yet the master must not therefore put such servant away, nor abate any part of his wages for such time. Sickness does not put an end to the service on the part of the servant. Id. 115.

The master is allowed by law, with moderation to chastise his servant, being under age, but if the master or mistress beat any servant of full age, it may be a good cause of discharge, on complaint to the Justices. Id. 121. [NOTE. See the Provincial Statute, hereafter recited, by which two Justices may discharge a servant on complaint and proof of ill usage, being similar to the English Statute on the subject.]

Chastising
Servants.

If the servant shall depart out of his master's service, and the master happen after to lay hold of him, yet the master may not beat, or forcibly compel his servant against his will to return, or tarry with him, or do his service, but either he must complain to the Justices, for his servant's departure, or he may have an action of covenant against his servant. Id. 121.

Departing from Service.

A servant may justify an assault in defence of his master. Id. 122. Also a master in defence of his servant. 1 Selw. N. P. 32.

It has been held, in a case of a servant hired by the year, who refused to obey his master's orders, that the master was justified in dismissing him before the end of the year, and that the servant could not recover any part of his wages; for the year's service must be completed before the servant is entitled to be paid. A master may discharge his servant at a moment's warning, for misconduct, (e. g. for being absent when wanted, sleeping from home at night, without his master's leave, &c.) and in such case the servant will only be entitled to such wages as are due at the time of his discharge. But if the servant has not been guilty of misconduct, and the master discharges him without warning, the servant, in that case, will be entitled to a month's wages beyond the wages due for the period of actual service. A master is justified in discharging a servant, for debauching or having a criminal intimacy with a female servant, while both are serving in the family. 5 Burn's, 162.

Discharging Servants.

If a servant of his own accord, depart from his master, before his time expires, he shall lose all his wages; but if he depart with the consent of his master, he shall have his wages for the time he served. Id. 183.

When a Magistrate discharges a servant from the service of his master, it must appear on the face of the order itself, to be a case within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate. Id. 163.

Liabilities of Master for acts of Servant.

The master is indictable for a nuisance done by his servant; as for throwing dirt in the highways. And it seems that the servant also is indictable, for a servant is not excused the commission of any crime by the command or coercion of his master. If a servant commit a trespass by the command or encouragement of his master, the master shall be guilty of it, though the servant is not thereby excused, for he is only to obey his master in matters that are honest and lawful. A master is not liable in trespass for the wilful act of his servant, as by driving his master's carriage against another, done without the direction or assent of the master. But he is liable to answer for any damage arising to another, from the negligence or unskilfulness of his servant, acting in his employ. Id. 174.

III. REGULATIONS CONCERNING APPRENTICES AND HIRED SERVANTS, BY CERTAIN STATUTES.

I. Contract of Hiring.

By the Statute of the 28 G. 3, c. 6. 1 V. 255. "No person whatsoever, within this Province, shall hire a man or maid servant for any longer term than one month, unless a memorandum of such hiring shall be made in writing, and signed by both parties, in presence of one witness at least, who shall read and explain the same to both parties, which memorandum shall specify the period for which such servant shall have agreed to serve, and the wages or other considerations which he or she is to receive for his or her service; and all verbal agreements between master and servant, for a longer period than one month, are hereby declared to be null and void.

Sec. 6. All persons having servants bound to them by the voluntary acts of such servants, may sell or assign the unexpired terms of such servants, and the assignee or purchaser shall be as fully entitled to the entire service and labour of such servant, as the person who assigned the same. Provided, such assignment shall be made in the presence of, and with the approbation of three Justices of the Peace, and security given, if required, not to carry such servant out of the Province." Perpetual.

All bound or hired servants, who shall desert or absent themselves from their master or mistress's service, shall be liable to make satisfaction, by service after the time by indenture or agreement is expired, double their time of service so neglected; and if the time of their desertion or absence was at seed time, or harvest, or during the fishing season, and the charge of recovering them extraordinary, the General Sessions of the Peace before whom the complaint shall be made, shall adjudge a longer time of service, proportionable to the damage the master shall make appear he hath sustained.

Satisfaction to be made for desertion or absence.

Sec. 4. The master or mistress of any servant, so deserting or absenting themselves, that intends to take the benefit of this Act, shall so soon as he or she hath recovered such servant, carry him or her to some one Justice of the Peace, and there declare and prove the time of his or her absence, and the charge he hath been at in his or her recovery; which Justice thereupon shall grant his certificate thereof, and the Court shall and may, on such certificate, pass judgment for the time such servant shall serve for his or her absence." Perpetual.

Mode of obtaining satisfaction for desertion, &c.

"It shall be lawful for any one Justice of the Peace, on complaint made by the master or mistress of any servant hired by him or her, either verbally or by writing, that such servant has wilfully misbehaved, to enquire into the merits of such complaint; and if such Justice shall find the same to be well founded, it shall be lawful for such Justice, to order a reasonable part or portion of such servant's wages, or other emoluments, to be stopped in the hands of the master or mistress, provided such stoppage for any one offence shall not exceed the sum of five shillings.

Misbehaviour

Sec. 7. "It shall be lawful for the Justices in Sessions for each county or district, and they are hereby directed, from time to time, to make further orders and regulations for the better government and more effectual correction of disobedient or refractory servants, within their respective jurisdictions, and also for the apprehending all runaway servants, and conveying them to their proper masters and mistresses." Perpetual.

3. Ill treatment of Servants or her servant according to the tenor of their agreement, and any bound or hired servant having just cause of complaint against his or her master or mistress, for cruel and bad usage, may and shall, on application to two Justices of the Peace, be heard concerning the same; Provided, such complaint be made within a reasonable time, not exceeding ten days after the cause given, unless such servant is prevented by his or her master or mistress, or by sickness; and if the said Justices shall find by sufficient proof, that the said servant's cause of complaint is well founded, the said Justices are hereby required to make an order for the relief of such servant, by discharging him or her from their service, or otherwise, as they may see fit; and if either party shall not be satisfied with the order of the said two Justices, they may appeal to the next Court of General Sessions of the Peace, where the matter shall be finally determined. Perpetual.

4. Harbouring and detaining Servants.

By Sec. 6, of the said last mentioned Act. SESSIONS.

In here treating of the General Sessions of the Peace, the following arrangement will, it is thought, be found convenient.

- I. HOW THE GENERAL SESSIONS ARE CONSTITUTED, AND OF THE JURISDICTION THEREOF.
- II. OF SUMMONING THE GENERAL SESSIONS, AND WHO MUST ATTEND THE SAME.
- III. MANNER OF PROCEEDING AT THE SESSIONS.
- IV. OF HEARING APPEALS.
- V. OF THE POWER AND DUTIES OF THE GENERAL SESSIONS, IN VARIOUS MATTERS.
- VI. OF SPECIAL SESSIONS.

I. HOW THE GENERAL SESSIONS ARE CONSTITUTED, &c.

THE Sessions of the Peace is a Court of Record, holden before two or more Justices, whereof one is of the quorum, for execution of the authority given them by the Commission of the Peace, and certain Acts of Parliament. It is a meeting of Justices for the execution of their general authority.

The Sessions cannot be held without the presence of two Justices. If there are not Justices enough to hold a Session, there are not enough to adjourn it legally, and every act done, after such an adjournment, is void.

The King may grant Commissions of the Peace not only for the whole county, but for any particular district within it, exclusive of the jurisdiction of the Justices of the county at large; but the latter can only be effected by a non-intromittant clause, prohibiting the county Justices from interfering in that district. 5 Burn's, 195.

The jurisdiction of the General Sessions in this Province, has been much abridged of late, by the following enactments: 4 Vic. c. 3, Sess. 1841. Sec. 5. "No bill of indictment shall hereafter be found or preferred in or before any Court of General Sessions of the Peace, (Halifax excepted,) nor shall any trial by petit jury be had in or before the same; but in all other respects, such Courts of General Sessions shall have and exercise the same powers as heretofore by law such Courts can or may have been used to have and exercise; and in every case where an indictment, or trial by petit jury, is directed by law to be had or found in or before the said General Sessions, the same shall be had or found in or before the Supreme Court; Provided, that nothing herein contained shall interfere with, or prevent, the calling and meeting of Special Sessions of the Peace, or abridge or limit any powers or authority which any Special Sessions may now exercise.

Sec. 24. No petit jury shall hereafter be summoned, or required to attend at any Court of General Sessions, for any county of the Province, except Halifax." Not limited.

By 4 Vic. c. 11, Sess. 1841. Sec. 1. Whenever any officers shall be required to be appointed, or any act, matter, business, or thing, required to be done, by or at the spring or summer Sessions of the Peace, in any county of the Province, wherein, by the Act passed in the present Session of the General Assembly, entitled, An Act to improve the Administration of the Law, and to reduce the number of Courts of Justice within this Province, and to diminish the expense of the Judiciary therein, there shall be two Sessions of the said Court, it shall and may be lawful for the Justices, at the said spring or summer Sessions, to appoint such officers, so then required to be appointed, or to do such act, matter, business or thing, so by Law required to be then done, notwithstanding the appointment of such officers, or the doing of any such act, matter, business or thing, may have heretofore required the intervention of a Grand Jury, and notwithstanding no Grand Jury is by the said Act allowed at such spring or summer Sessions.

Sec. 2. Wherever, in any county, by the said Act, the number of Courts of Sessions shall be reduced to one, it shall and may be lawful for the said Court of Sessions, so to be held, to appoint all town officers, and to do and transact all business now by Law required to be done by any General Sessions of the Peace, whether the same has been heretofore by Law appointed or required to be done, had or made, at the spring or summer Sessions, or at the fall or winter Sessions of the Peace. Not limited.

Duration of Terms.

By an Act passed in 46th of Geo. 3, c. 15, 2 Vol. page 6, and which has never been repealed, it is enacted, "That the respective sittings of the General Sessions of the Peace, shall not exceed the term of ten days, except at Halifax, where the General Sessions may be kept open fourteen days from the commencement thereof; and shall be adjourned from time to time, as the business to be done at such Courts, during each term, shall appear to require. Perpetual.

II. OF SUMMONING THE GENERAL SESSIONS, AND WHO MUST ATTEND THE SAME.

THE Law and the course of proceeding, for summoning and convening the General Sessions in England, are different from what they are in this Province. There, any two Justices of the county may issue their precept, under their teste, fifteen days before the return, directed to the Sheriff, for the summons of the Sessions, commanding him to return a Grand Jury before them, or their fellow Justices, at a certain day and place, and to give notice to all bailiffs, constables, and others bound to attend, to be present, and do their duties, at such day and place; and to cause proclamation to be made, throughout his bailiwick, for the holding of such Sessions accordingly; and to attend there himself. In this Province, although a clause in the General Commission to the Justices seems to confer the same power, yet, as by various Acts of the Legislature, the times and places of holding the General Sessions, in the several counties, are specially and particularly appointed, and the duration of their sittings are limited, it would seem quite clear, that they cannot be held at any other times or places than those so prescribed. The general, or indeed invariable practice, in this Province, therefore, is, that the Clerk of the Peace, (who is the Clerk of the Sessions,) some considerable time, (which must be at least thirty days before the ensuing appointed term of that Court,) makes out a writ of venire facias, which is signed by the Custos of the county, directed to the Sheriff, commanding him to summon the Grand Jurors named in the list annexed, to attend at the said term; and also all constables, and other officers and persons designated therein, and who are bound by law to attend at the same. This writ must be delivered to the Sheriff, at least thirty days before the time for the meeting of the Sessions, pursuant to the Act of the 1 Vic. c. 6, Sess. 1838. Sec. 11, as to the summoning of Jurors.

Remarks and Directions, &c.

The persons who ought to appear at these Sessions are as follows:

Persons who are to appear there.

(1) The Justices of the Peace. These, without doubt, are compellable to appear at the Sessions; for without their appearance the Sessions cannot be holden. But a Justice ought not to join in an order at Sessions wherein himself is concerned, nor ought his name to be in the caption. An order was quashed for that reason. 5 Burn's, 199.

Justices.

With regard to the daily attendance of Justices in the Sessions, and how they are to be proceeded against for neglecting to attend during the whole of any term, see at the end of Division 3, under the Title,—Justices; and the Act there cited, of the 39 G. 3, c. 10. 1 Vol. 409.

Custos Rotulorum.

(2.) The Custos Rotulorum, who has the custody of the Rolls of Sessions, ought, (by the Commission,) to be there by himself, or by his deputy, who is the Clerk of the Peace. 5 Burn's, 199.

Sheriffs.

(3.) The Sheriff also, by virtue of the Commission, by himself or his deputy; to receive the fines, or return jurors, to execute process, and whatever else appertains to his office. Id.

Coroners.

(4.) All Coroners. Id.

Constables.

(5.) The Constables, and all other officers to whom any warrant has been directed, in order to make return thereof. Id.

Gaoler.

(6.) The Gaoler; to bring thither his prisoners, and to receive such as may be committed. Id.

Keeper of House of Correction.

(7.) The Keeper of the House of Correction; to give in a calendar and account of persons in his custody. Id.

(8.) All persons returned by the Sheriff, by virtue of the precept directed to him as aforesaid. Id. 200.

Grand Jurors.

The following enactments are now in force, as to the drawing of Grand Jurors, and their being summoned under the said precept, to serve in the Sessions: 1 Vic. c. 6. Sess. 1838.

Sec. 5. The General Sessions shall, from time to time, as they may think requisite, fix and determine what number of Grand Jurors, for each township and settlement, shall be annually summoned to serve as such jurors, and they shall be drawn and summoned accordingly.

Justice not to serve as Grand Juror.

Sec. 6. It shall not be lawful for any Justice of the Peace to serve as a grand juror at any Court of General or Special Sessions.

Appointment of Justices to prepare lists of Jurors.

Sec. 7. The General Sessions shall, from time to time, change any one or more of the three Justices, appointed under the Act to prepare and return lists of persons to serve as grand jurors, and may select another or others in his or their room.

New lists of Grand Jurors.

Sec. 8. The list of grand jurors to be made and returned as aforesaid, shall, once in every three years, or oftener if the General Sessions shall so direct, be revised by the Sheriff and the three Justices appointed as aforesaid, and new lists be made up and returned, in the manner directed by the Act.

Sec. 11. The first Justice, presiding in the General Sessions in each term, shall sign the list of the grand jury, drawn as aforesaid, and the Clerk of the said Court shall issue a writ of venire facias, and deliver the same to the Sheriff, at least thirty days before the next ensuing meeting of the said Sessions, for summoning the persons contained in such lists to attend the same.

Sec. 13 & 22. Every person duly summoned as aforesaid, at least four days before the day on which he shall be bound to appear to serve upon any grand jury, and who shall not appear and serve thereon, shall forfeit and pay, for every day's default, a fine not exceeding twenty shillings. Provided, that such fines shall be remitted, if a sufficient excuse shall be shewn, by affidavit, to the satisfaction of the Court which the jurors were summoned to attend.

Fines for non

Grand Jurors.

Sec. 23. All such fines for the non attendance of jurors, shall be levied, if necessary, by warrant of distress and sale, and shall be paid to the Clerk of the said Sessions, to be by him accounted for, at the end of each Session, to the Treasurer of the county, to be from time to time applied by the Justices of the said Sessions, for the county's use. Temporary.

By the 3 Vic. c. 6, Sess. 1840. Sec. 6. It is provided, that no person returned as a petit juror shall be put on the grand jury list.

No petit juror to be grand juror.

And by Sec. 7, of the same Act, the 14th Section of the aforesaid Act of 1 Vic. is repealed, and instead, thereof, it is enacted, "That if by reason of any cause, a sufficient number of persons, summoned as grand jurors, should not be likely to attend in any particular term, Sessions or year, it shall be in the discretion of the Court, to return the names of the persons so summoned, or of such of them as the Court may think fit, into the box, as though they had not been drawn, and to draw others in their stead, who shall be forthwith summoned by the Sheriff, and be subject to all the consequences of non-attendance as in the aforesaid Act of the 1 Vic. c. 6. Temporary.

By the 4 Vic. c. 3, Sess. 1841. Sec. 25. The grand jury shall not be summoned, or required to attend at any Court of General Sessions, for any county, (Halifax excepted) oftener than once in each year.

Sec. 26. In such counties where two terms of the Sessions are directed to be held, the grand jury shall be summoned to attend at the fall or winter sitting only, so as town officers may be appointed, and the other county business transacted thereat. Not limited.

[NOTE. See at the end of the preceding division, as to the appointment of officers.]

For certain other enactments concerning grand jurors, see, Title,—Juries.

(9.) All persons returned by recognisance, to answer, or to prosecute and give evidence. 5 Burn's, 200.

Persons attending Sessions on business not to be arrested.

All persons may freely attend at the Sessions, for the advancement of public justice, and for the service of the King. And to this end, they are (as it were) invited thither, by a certain freedom of access, and by protection from common arrest; a thing that is incident to each Court of Record, and without which, justice would be greatly hindered. So that if a man come voluntarily to the Sessions, either to prefer a bill of indictment, or to give information against another, or to tender a fine upon an indictment touching himself; or do come, compelled to make appearance for saving his recognisance, and be arrested by the Sheriff, upon common and original process, in his coming thither, or during his tarrying there, it seems, that (upon examination of the matter, under his oath,) he shall be discharged thereof, by the privilege of this Court, even as it is used in the higher Courts at Westminster. On general principles this privilege of arrest, in going to, attending on, and returning from Courts of Justice, applies to the case of every person in necessary attendance thereon. The parties to the suit, and also the witnesses, are protected in going, continuing, and returning. This returning has never been very nicely scanned, so as to require a man to go the direct road. Neither is the law so strict, in point of time, as to require a person to set out immediately after the trial is over; and for that was cited the case of Hatch vs. Blisset. She had a trial at Winchester assizes, which was over on Friday, at four in the afternoon; she staid there till after dinner on Saturday, and in the evening at seven, was arrested going home to Portsmouth, which is 20 miles: and the Court held, that she ought to be discharged, her protection not being expired, and a little deviation of loitering would not alter it. 5 Burn's, 200.

Return of precepts by Sheriff.

The Clerk of the Peace then calls the Constables. The Grand Jury must next be called, and after they have appointed a foreman, must be sworn.

Calling Constables. Swearing Grand Jury.

The Act for the "better observance of the Lord's Day," also the Acts concerning "Wrecks," and "for preventing the growth of "Thistles," all contained in the first volume of the Statutes of the Province, must then be read aloud by the Clerk of the Peace, in the presence of the Grand Jury.

Acts to be read.

Proclamation should then be made, to keep silence while the charge is given to the Grand Jury.

Persons bound in recognisance to attend, should be called, and the business of the Sessions is then proceeded in, according to the rules and practice of the Courts in the respective counties.

IV. PROCEEDING IN HEARING APPEALS, &c.

UPON hearing of appeals, the first step in all cases after the appeal is called on, is, that the appellant should prove his notice, unless it be admitted. 5 Burn's, 206.

Notice of Appeal.

The notice of appeal is the only instrument which brings the appeal before the Sessions, and, by general practice, as much nicety is expected in penning a notice, as in drawing a declaration. It is as common at Sessions to object to the form of a notice of appeal, as it is in Westminster Hall, to demur to the form of a declaration. Id.

In appeals against orders of removal, the respondent begins; the appellant must produce the pauper, and also the original orders of removal. But it is the safest practice to subpoena paupers as witnesses, where they are to be used as such. Id.

Order of proceeding on hearing appeals.

If only a copy of the order is served, the appellants should give notice to the removing township, to produce the original at the hearing. Id.

If the pauper cannot be found, and the order appear upon the face of it, to have been made on his examination upon oath, the appellant begins. Id.

Upon an appeal against an order of filiation, the respondents are to begin, by supporting their order. Id.

If a party appeal against a poor rate, on the ground that he has not rateable property in the township, the respondents must first establish their case. As it is an ex parte proceeding, and where the appeal comes on to be heard naked and destitute of all evidence before the Court, those who have done the act ought to establish the propriety of it by evidence. Id.

Certain cases in which appeals to the Sessions are given.

Appeals to the General Sessions are given on the following subjects, and by the respective Acts here specified:

Poor rates, by the 4 Geo. 4, c. 6. 3 Vol. 150.

Removal of Paupers and costs thereon, 3 W. 4, c. 42. 4 Vol. 221.

Laying out Roads, &c. 4 W. 4, c. 69. 4 Vol. 345.

County Rates, 5 W. 4, c. 13. 4 Vol. 388, and 1 Vic. c. 35, Sess. 1838.

As to the regulations concerning such appeals, reference must be had to the said Acts, respectively. And with regard to the rules relating to the evidence offered, or given, on the hearing of appeals, with reference to interest, credibility, or in any other respect, see, Title,—Evidence.

Certiorari, &c. to Sessions.

By the 4 Vic. c. 3, Sess. 1841. Sec. 31. Any person, feeling himself aggrieved by the judgment and decision of the Court of Sessions, may apply to the Supreme Court, or any Judge thereof, and have a writ of certiorari, or mandamus, or other writ or proceeding granted and issued, as now by law provided. Not limited.

V. OF THE POWER AND DUTIES OF THE GENERAL SESSIONS IN VARIOUS MATTERS.

WHERE authority is given to two Justices to do any Act, the Sessions may do it in all cases, except where appeal is directed to the Sessions.

They are not obliged to give any reason of their judgment, in the orders they make, any more than any other of the Courts of law.

Altering their judgments.

The Sessions is all as one day, and the Justices may alter their judgments at any time while the term continues. 5 Burn's, 207.

Adjourning business on equal division

Where the Justices in Sessions are equally divided in opinion, that is a sufficient warrant for the Clerk of the Peace to enter an adjournment of the matter on which they are divided; till by the coming of more Justices it may be determined; and it is his duty to do so. Id. 208.

Where a party himself is limited to a particular time for preferring his appeal, he must make it within the time so limited, but the Court who are to try the appeal, have an incidental authority to adjourn it, when once properly lodged, if it be necessary for the advancement or convenience of justice; and the Sessions, in such cases of appeal, are to judge of the proper occasion of doing so. Id.

In one case it has been decided, that the Sessions cannot refer a cause though by consent. They may refer a thing to another, to examine and make report to them for their determination, but cannot refer a thing to be determined by the other. But in a later case, on a motion to quash an order of Sessions, quashing a poor rate, on the ground that the rate was by the Sessions referred to two Justices, out of Sessions, and that the Sessions afterwards adopted their opinion, without exercising their own judgment, Lord Mansfield said, "If they did this of their own accord, without the consent of the parties, it cannot be supported: they are not warranted to delegate their authority: but if they acted with the consent of the parties, I think they have done very right; and will never suffer the party, who consented to the reference, to come here to set it aside, and I think it sufficient, if the attorneys consented and attended at the reference." The case was sent back to the Sessions, to certify whether it was referred by consent, and afterwards the order was affirmed. 5 Burn's, 208.

A bill of exceptions will not lie to the Justices in Sessions, on an appeal, for, as observed by Lord Hardwicke, "the Justices at Sessions are judges of the fact as well as law; they are jury as well as judges; it is in their breast only, whether to believe or disbelieve the evidence; and who is to take upon himself to say, what portion of the evidence they do believe, and what they do not? Suppose six of the Justices believe the evidence, and two of them do not believe it, are the two to conclude the six, as to the belief of the fact. When the Justices specially state the fact, it is the act of the whole Court." 5 Burn's, 208.

The Justices at Sessions may alter their judgment during the continuance of the Sessions. Id. 209.

By the 4 Vic. c. 3, Sess. 1841. Sec. 30. Whenever, in any of the Courts of General Sessions, a question of law shall arise, which the Justices present, or the major part of them, shall desire to have determined by the Supreme Court, it shall be lawful for them to order a case thereof to be made, and sent to the Supreme Court in the same county wherein the question shall arise, or to the Supreme Court at Halifax, as the said Justices, or the major part of them, may think proper; and the said case, shall then be argued and heard, and the judgment of the Court therein be given and returned to the said Court of Sessions. Not limited.

The Sessions cannot be compelled to state a special case. Nor will the Court permit them to raise a general question, by omitting to state particular circumstances belonging to the case. But if the Sessions order a special case to be made, and before it is settled, the Sessions is inadvertently adjourned, the Court of K. B., will grant a mandamus to compel them to proceed in the appeal. 5 Burn's, 209.

A learned Judge of the King's Bench said, "The Magistrates ought not to be induced to send up cases for our opinion, if they have no doubt upon the question, in their own minds, in order to avoid incurring unnecessary expenses. They should not grant cases unless they entertain serious doubts. Id.

The Court will not send a case down to the Sessions to be restated, on a mere formal objection, if enough appear to enable them to decide according to the merits of the case. Id. 210.

If a special case be sent back to be re-stated, the Sessions should proceed as if it were an entirely new business, for it is in the nature of a new trial; wherefore, they have no right to take any notice of what passed before. But in order to re-state a case, they are not necessarily obliged to hear new evidence. However, the Court will send back a special case, in order that it may be amended, as to a particular fact, by new evidence. Id.

Special orders of Sessions are considered in the nature of special verdicts, which are not to state the evidence of the fact, but the fact itself. Id.

Costs on Appeals.

Where costs and charges are given on an appeal, the Sessions may be compelled by Mandamus, to allow them. Id.

In making an order for costs, the Sessions need not say how much was expended, provided it otherwise appear, as on oath of the parties. But the Sessions cannot order costs on the mere adjournment of an appeal, without hearing it. Id. 211.

Sessions cannot amerce Justices for non attendance therein.

It seems certain that the Court of Sessions has no authority to amerce any Justice for his non-attendance at the Sessions, it being reasonable rather to refer the punishment of persons in a judicial office, in relation to their behaviour in such office, to other judges of a superior station, than to those of the same rank with themselves. And, therefore, it seems to have been holden, that if a Justice at the Sessions, who is not of the quorum, shall use such expressions towards another, who is of the quorum, for which if he were a private person, he might be committed, or bound to his good behaviour, yet the Sessions hath no authority to commit him, or to bind him to his good behaviour; and yet it seems to be agreed, that if a Justice give just cause to any person, to demand the surety of the peace against him, he may be compelled, by any other Justice, to find such security, for the public peace requires an immediate remedy in all such cases. Id. 211.

Generally, it is said, that the Justices are not punishable for what they do in Sessions, unless there be some manifest act of oppression, or wilful abuse of power. Lord Kenyon, C. J., said, "I believe there are instances in which a criminal information has been granted against Magistrates acting in Sessions." In another case, the Court said, that as they were acting in a Court of Record, with powers entrusted to them by the constitution, it must be a very strong case indeed, with flagrant proofs of their having acted from corrupt motives, that will warrant a rule for an information; and therefore refused to grant a rule to shew cause. Id. 211.

Whether Justices be punishable for what is done in Sessions.

The Sessions cannot commit for non-payment of fees. Id.

In all cases where persons are bound over to the Sessions, and a trial by jury is to take place, the Sessions, as a matter of course, may, and should, bind them all over, and all witnesses, to the next term of the Supreme Court, in the county, and send in there, all recognisances, papers, and proceedings, relating to such cases. VI. OF SPECIAL SESSIONS.

A SPECIAL Sessions, means a sitting convened by reasonable notice to the other Magistrates of the division. Any occasional sitting of two Magistrates, is not a special Sessions. See 5 Burn's, 215.

There must always be at least two Justices present to constitute a Special Sessions; or more, according as may be required by any particular Statute. By various Statutes of the Province, Justices of the Peace are empowered to hold a Special Sessions, for especial purposes, as, for making regulations for bringing lumber down rivers,—hearing appeals against rates,—examining as to performance of contracts relating to roads and bridges, &c. &c.

A Justice of the Peace ought not to join in an order in Sessions, wherein himself is concerned. An order may be quashed for that reason. See 5 Burn's, 199.

Justice not to join in order concerning himself.

By the 26 G. 3, c. 2. 1 V. 243. It shall and may be lawful for the Justices of the Peace, in their respective towns and counties within this Province, or any three of them, one whereof shall be of the quorum, to call a special Court or Courts of Sessions, between the stated times limited by law for holding the said Courts, and proceed either by indictment, or in a summary way, by motion and order, to the trying and determining of all criminal offences which come under the denomination of simple larceny, or do not extend to life or limb. Provided always, that it shall not be lawful for the said Justices to pass sentence, or inflict punishment on such offenders, unless they shall be first convicted at such Court by the verdict of a Jury, duly impanelled and sworn for that purpose. Perpetual.

Special Sessions to try Simple Larcenies, &c.

This Act has never been expressly repealed, but as to the holding of Special Sessions for the purposes therein mentioned, it has been virtually annulled, by the following enactment, by which, the powers therein conveyed to such Special Sessions, are vested in any two Justices of the Peace: 4 Vic. c. 3, Sess. 1841.

Sec. 12. Any two Justices of the Peace, in any county of this Province, shall and may have and exercise the powers and authorities granted to Special Sessions, in and by an Act passed in the twenty sixth year of the reign of His late Majesty King George the Third, entitled, an Act to empower the Justices of the Peace to hold Special Courts of Sessions, for the purposes therein mentioned: Provided, that the said two Justices shall be subject to the operation of the proviso in that Act contained, in the same manner as the Justices therein named; And provided also, that the jury, in the said proviso named, shall be summoned by the sheriff of the county or his deputy, under warrant from the said or any two Justices of the Peace. And provided further, that the said Justices shall not have authority, under any such conviction, to sentence any person to imprisonment for a longer period than one month, or to any fine for a greater amount than forty shillings, or to corporal punishment. Perpetual.

Confirmation of appraisements for Road.

By Sec. 47, of the same Act, in counties where, by this Act, there shall be only one General Sessions of the Peace in the year, it shall and may be lawful for any Special Sessions held by five Justices of the Peace at least, to approve and confirm upon the same notice, and under the same regulations as by Law are now provided and enacted in respect to the confirmation of the same by a general Sessions of the Peace, any report of Appraisers appointed to lay out and value any New Road, or alteration of a Road, in the same manner, and with the like effect, as a Court of General Sessions can now do the same.

Notice of Special Sessions and business therein.

By the 46 Geo. 3, c. 15. 2 Vol. 6. In every Special Sessions of the Peace, which may by law be held, the particular business for which such Special Sessions shall have been called, (and which shall always be specified and declared at the call thereof,) shall only be done and transacted, any law or usage to the contrary notwithstanding. Perpetual.

NOTE. At least eight days notice ought to be given of the holding of a Special Sessions.

Subjects concerning which Special Sessions may be hold.

Special Sessions may be held with regard to the following subjects, by virtue of the several Statutes hereunder cited, respectively.

Highways. Approving and confirming report of Appraisers, &c. by 4 Vic. c. 3, Sess. 1841, already recited under this Title.

SEWERS.

By the Statute of the 4 G. 4, c. 13. 3 V. 156. The Governor may appoint Commissioners of Sewers, who shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of their duty, and such Commissioners may, from time to time, assess the proprietors of dyked and marsh lands, for the repair of dykes and weirs, and for certain other purposes relating to such lands, and shall appoint Collectors to collect the money due on such assessments, who shall also be sworn as aforesaid.

Dykes, &c.

Sec. 3. Upon complaint being made upon oath, before any one Justice for the county where such lands lie, by such Collector or Collectors, it shall be lawful for such Justice to grant a warrant under his hand and seal, directed to any one of the Constables in the county, to levy of and from the goods and chattels of the person or persons neglecting or refusing to pay his, her, or their part or proportion of such assessment, by distress and sale of the said goods and chattels, the full sum so assessed, with costs for prosecuting the same, which costs shall not in any one case exceed ten shillings.

Recovery of Dyke rates.

Sec. 4. If goods or chattels of the owner or possessor of lands dyked, drained, or improved, are not to be found within the county or district where such lands lie, to answer his, her, or their proportion of the assessment made as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for any one Justice for the county, to let the same, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to pay such proportion, first giving twenty days notice in the township or place where the lands lie.

By Sec. 9. If no person shall appear to pay the proportion of any assessment, and no sufficient distress shall be found to satisfy the same, the Commissioners, after three

By the 5 W. 4, c. 47. 4 V. 432. In any cause or proceeding in any Court in the Province, or before any Justice or Justices of the Peace, wherein it may be necessary to examine any Clerk to Commissioners of Sewers, or Collector, as a witness, it shall be lawful for such Clerk or Collector, to be examined as a witness, to prove any fact or facts arising from, or connected with, the execution of the duties of such Clerk or Collector, notwithstanding such Clerk or Collector may be a proprietor, or interested of and in the lands included in any such assessment, touching which, or any rate thereon, or any proceeding taken for enforcing the same, any suit or question be depending; Provided, that no such Clerk or Collector shall be a witness in any matter touching the taxes upon their own lands, or themselves respectively. Temporary.

Clerks and Collectors may be witnesses.

The proceedings and the forms for the recovery of any dyke rates, will be the same as in the case of Poor Rates, or County Rates, for which, see either of those Titles. For the recovery of the penalty, and the other sum mentioned in the 14th clause of the aforesaid Act of the 4 G. 4, the like proceedings must be had, as for the recovery of penalties and sums in other cases of the like nature, for which proceedings, with the general Forms requisite, see, respectively, Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction, Distress.

Directions.

SHEEP.

By the Statute of the 19 G. 3, c. 7. 1 V. 215. The Justices of the Peace in each county or township, empowered to hold Sessions of the Peace, shall be empowered in their Sessions as aforesaid, and they are hereby directed, to make regulations for the preventing the clandestine driving or carrying away sheep and lambs, from the several townships in such counties, in manner as shall be most agreeable to the circumstances of such county, or townships therein, and any person who shall transgress such regulations, shall forfeit and pay a fine not exceeding five pounds, to be recovered on complaint or information, before any two Justices of the Peace for the county wherein the offence was committed, or before the Sessions in such county or township, and be levied by warrant of distress on the offender's goods and chattels, and be applied to the use of the poor of the township where the offence was committed. Perpetual.

Driving away sheep clandestinely.

Keeping dogs accustomed to kill, or worry sheep.

By the 34 G. 3, c. 2. 1 V. 331. If any person shall keep any dog, which hath been known to kill, or accustomed to worry sheep or lambs, after notice thereof, such person shall forfeit and pay ten shillings to the owner of every sheep or lamb so killed as aforesaid, and shall also forfeit and pay three pounds for every offence, to be recovered before any Justice of the Peace for the county where the offence was committed; the one moiety thereof for the use of the poor of the township or place where the offence was committed, and the other moiety to the person or persons prosecuting for the same. Perpetual.

The proceedings and Forms for the recovery of the penalties mentioned in the foregoing Statutes, will be the same as in prosecutions in other ordinary cases for the recovery of penalties, for which, see, respectively, Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction, Distress.

SHERIFF.

By the 35 G. 3, c. 1. 1 V. 344. The Chief Justice or in his absence, the senior Judge of the Supreme Court, shall, annually, on the last day of Michaelmas Term, nominate to the Governor, three fit persons in each county, as qualified for the office of High Sheriff thereof; one of whom in each county, the Governor shall appoint to be such Sheriff, for the year ensuing, who, on refusal to serve, shall forfeit fifty pounds; and if he accepts the office, shall give security, and be sworn to discharge the duties thereof.

Sec. 4. It shall be lawful for the said Chief Justice, or senior Judge as aforesaid, in the said list of persons presented to the Governor as aforesaid, to return over again the name of such person as shall be then in the office of Sheriff for any county, in case such person shall have signified to such Chief Justice, or senior Judge, his consent in writing to serve for the ensuing year; unless a representation signed by a majority of the Justices, in their General Sessions assembled in any county, shall be filed in the Supreme Court at Halifax, as of any Michaelmas term hereafter ensuing, praying thereby, that the person then serving the office of Sheriff in such county, may not be returned in the Judge's list to serve the office of Sheriff for the then ensuing year; in which case, the Judge who is to return such list, shall not return the name of such person so petitioned against. Perpetual.

The Sheriff having the warrant of a Justice of the Peace directed to him, shall execute the same, but he need not go in person to execute it, but may authorise another to do it. And it is no excuse to the Sheriff to return that he could not execute a precept, because of resistance, for he may take with him the power of the county.

Sheriff shall execute the warrant of a Justice.

The Sheriff, on summons, is bound to attend the Sessions of the Peace, there to return his precepts, to take charge of the prisoners, to receive fines for the King, and the like.

Shall attend the Sessions.

And it seems clear from the general reason of the law, which gives all Courts of Record a kind of discretionary power over abuses by their own officers, that the Sheriff is punishable by the Justices in Sessions, for defaults in executing their writs and precepts. Every Sheriff is a principal conservator of the peace, by the common law, and may, ex officio, award process of the peace, and take surety for it. 5 Burn's, 223-4.

Is punishable by the Sessions.

SHIPS, &c.

By the 25 G. 3, c. 6. 1 V. 241. Any person who shall take away, cut down, or destroy, or aid or assist in taking, cutting down, or destroying, in any manner whatever, such buoys, beacons, or sea marks, which are placed, or shall be placed or set by order or direction of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, or Commander-in-chief, or any other person having authority so to do, in any harbour, creek, or bay within the Province, shall, on due conviction thereof, by the oath of one credible witness, before two Justices of the Peace, forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred pounds; and on failure of payment thereof, or of goods or chattels belonging to the offender, whereon to levy the same, such offender shall be committed by such Justices, to the gaol of the county or place where the offence shall have been committed, for the space of twelve months.

Destroying Beacons, &c.

Sec. 2. Any person who shall make fast to any such buoy, or sea mark, any ship, vessel, or boat, shall, on due conviction thereof as aforesaid, pay a sum not exceeding twenty pounds; and on failure of payment thereof, or of goods or chattels belonging to the offender, whereon to levy the same, such offender shall be committed by such Justices to the gaol of the county or place where the offence shall have been committed, for a space not exceeding six months. Perpetual.

The proceedings for the recovery of the penalties imposed by the foregoing Statute, will be the same as in similar cases before Justices, and together with the requisite Forms, which may readily be filled up so as to serve, will be found respectively, under the Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction, Distress, Commitment.

Improperly

By the 33 G. 3, c. 3. 1 V. 315. No ballast shall be unladen or thrown overboard from any ship, vessel, or boat, below high water mark, into any port, harbour, river, or creek within this Province, or at the entrance into the same; and if any master or seaman, or other person on board any ship, vessel, or boat, shall unlade or throw from on board any ship, vessel, or boat, any ballast, below high water mark, into any port, harbour, creek, or river, or at the entrance of the same, such master, seaman, or other person, shall be obliged to remove such ballast or impediment, or in default thereof shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding twenty-five pounds, to be sued for and recovered, by information or complaint before any two Justices of the Peace for the county wherein such offence shall be committed; subject to an appeal to the Court of Common Pleas in and for the county where such offence shall be committed, upon security given for prosecuting the same to effect. Perpetual.

NOTE. The proceedings for the recovery of the penalty in this Statute, will be the same, until after conviction, as in similar cases, and with the Forms, which may be filled up so as to serve, will be found under the respective Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction. As no final process of any kind, for levying the penalty, is directed or alluded to in the Statute, it seems quite clear, that no such process can be issued by the Justices.

SLANDER.

IN general it seems, that words which directly tend to a breach of the peace, as if one man challenge another, are cognisable before Justices of the Peace; for which the party may be bound to the good behaviour, and even indicted. 5 Burn's, 243.

SOLDIERS.

By the 35 G. 3, c. 5. 1 V. 350. If any person shall knowingly detain, buy, or exchange, or otherwise receive, any arms, clothes, caps, or other furniture belonging to the King, from any soldier, or deserter, or any other person, upon any account or pretence whatsoever; or any hats, shoes, shirts, or stockings, or other articles generally deemed regimental necessaries, according to the custom of the army, provided for such soldier or deserter, by his captain or other officer commanding the company to which he belongs, and paid for by deductions out of his pay, without leave in writing from such captain or officer, or cause the colour of such clothes to be changed, the person, so offending, shall forfeit for every such offence, the sum of five pounds, and upon conviction by the oath of one or more credible witness or witnesses, before any two Justices of the Peace, the said penalty shall be levied by warrant under the hands of the said Justices, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender; one moiety of such penalty to be paid to the informer, and the residue to the officer to whom any such deserter or soldier did belong. And in case any such offender, so convicted, shall not have sufficient goods and chattels, whereon distress may be made, to the value of the penalty recovered against him for such offence, or shall not pay such penalty within four days after such conviction, then, and in such case, such Justices may, by warrant under their hands and seals, commit such offender to the common jail, there to remain without bail or mainprize for three months, or cause such offender to be publicly whipped, at the discretion of such Justices. Perpetual.

By the 4 & 5 G. 4, c. 34. 3 V. 193, made in amendment of the foregoing Statute, it is enacted,—“That it shall be lawful for the said Justices before whom any conviction shall be had against any offender, under the said Act, to commit such offender to the common gaol, after conviction

III. HANGING OUT SIGNS.

By Sec. 16, of the same Statute. Every person keeping a tavern, or retail shop, and having license to sell any spirituous liquors, wine, ale, beer, cider, or perry, shall within ten days after obtaining such license, hang out a sign or inscription, with their names thereon, setting forth that spirituous liquors are there to be sold, on pain of forfeiting five pounds for every such neglect.

[NOTE. As no mode of recovering this penalty, is mentioned in this Act, or in any other, it is clear that no prosecutions for the same can legally take place before Justices, but on complaint, the license of the offender may be suspended, pursuant to Sec. 37 of this Act.

Sec. 17. If any person or persons, not having obtained a license therefor, shall presume to hang out, or suffer to remain, any sign or inscription whatsoever, importing that rum, or other strong or distilled spirituous liquors, wine, ale, beer, cider, or perry, are there sold otherwise than by wholesale, upon proof thereof in manner and form herein described, such person shall be subject and liable to the like penalties and forfeitures as persons convicted of selling spirituous liquors without license.

[In prosecutions on this clause, the Forms will be similar to those in the case of selling spirituous liquors without license, and some of which will be found in the Act set forth under Division, No. 8, and the others at the end of the Title.]

IV. SELLING IN ANY OTHER PLACE THAN THE ONE SPECIFIED IN THE LICENSE.

By Sec. 18, of the aforesaid Act of the 2 W. 4, c. 3. If any person or persons, either by themselves, or their wives, or any of their children, or known or reputed servants or substitutes under them, directly or indirectly, shall presume to sell any rum, brandy, wine, ale, cider, perry, or other strong or distilled liquors, mixed or unmixed, by whatsoever name or names they are or may be called or distinguished, by virtue of, or under pretence of any license obtained as in this Act is directed, in any other place than at the house, shop, or place to be named in such license, where such person or persons themselves shall bona fide, actually and constantly reside and dwell, or carry on the business of such shop, upon conviction thereof, such person or persons shall be subject and liable to the like pains and penalties as persons convicted of selling spirituous liquors without license, and the same shall be prosecuted for, paid, levied and disposed of, in like manner as is directed by this Act.

[The requisite Forms, in prosecutions upon this clause, will be similar to those, in the case of selling without license, and can readily be filled up so as to serve.]

And such sum, so levied, shall by the said Justice be paid into the hands of the Overseers of the poor of the town or precinct where the offence shall be committed, to be by them applied to the use of the poor of such town or precinct. Perpetual.

[The proceedings and Forms, in prosecutions upon this clause, will be similar to those in prosecutions for selling spirituous liquors, without license, the Forms in which case may readily be altered and filled up so as to serve.]

By the 28 G. 3, c. 6. Sec. 3, 1 V. 255. If any master or mistress shall sell rum or other spirituous liquors, to any servant hired by him or her, such master or mistress shall forfeit and pay for every such offence, on conviction before any Justice of the Peace, double the value of such rum or other spirituous liquors, and it shall not be lawful for any master or mistress to stop the wages, or any part thereof, of any servant or labourer in his or her service or employment, for or on account of any rum, or other spirituous liquors sold to such servant or labourer, while in his or her service or employment. Perpetual.

[In prosecutions on this clause, the proceedings and the Forms until after conviction, will be the same as in ordinary cases of the recovery of penalties before Justices, and which will be found under the respective Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction. As no final process is mentioned for levying or enforcing payment of the penalty, no such process can legally be issued by the Justice.]

By Sec. 23, of the aforesaid Act of the 2 W. 4, c. 3. Every person licensed as aforesaid, shall, at all times, keep and maintain good order in the house, tavern, shop, or house of entertainment for which such licenses shall be granted, and shall not suffer any riot, disturbance, or breach of the

VI. SELLING GOODS IN TAVERNS.

By Sec. 26 of the said Act of the 2 W. 4, c. 3. "It shall not be lawful for any tavern keeper, or person holding a tavern license, unless such person also holds a general license, hereafter to sell, vend, or expose to sale, in or about his or her tavern, any goods, wares, or merchandize whatsoever, other than the victuals or drink necessary to be used and consumed, and which are usually used and consumed in taverns; nor shall he or she suffer the same to be done; and any person or persons offending against the provisions of this clause, shall forfeit and pay the penalty of twenty pounds for every offence; to be recovered and applied in the manner herein mentioned." [Prosecutions on this clause must be before two Justices, and, in every respect, in the same manner as for selling spirituous liquors without license.]

VII. REGULATIONS AS TO QUANTITIES IN WHICH SPIRITUOUS LIQUORS MAY BE SOLD.

By Sec. 27 of the last mentioned Act. If any person holding any shop license, shall sell or deliver any quantity of wine, ale, beer, cider, perry, rum, or other strong distilled spirituous liquors, less than a quart, or shall on any account permit or suffer any wine, ale, beer, cider, perry, rum, or other strong liquors to be sold for the purpose of being drunk or consumed in his or her shop or house, such person or persons, so offending, unless holding a general license, shall be subject to the like prosecutions, penalties, and forfeitures, as persons selling spirituous liquors without license; and every person taking out such shop license, shall cause the whole of this, and the preceding Section of this Act, written or printed in a plain legible manner, to be affixed up in some conspicuous part of his or her shop, and there to remain during the continuance of his or her license, on pain of forfeiture thereof.

[NOTE. This clause is altered as to quantities allowed to be sold. See at the end of this division. No general license can now be granted except in Halifax. The preceding clause referred to, is the one which prohibits the sale of goods and merchandize in taverns. The Forms, in prosecutions on the foregoing clause, will be similar to those in the case of selling spirituous liquors without license.]

When any information, presentment, or indictment, shall be made against any person or persons offending against this Act; and any person or persons shall be summoned to give evidence relative thereto, and any such person, so summoned, shall neglect or refuse to give his or her attendance at the time and place mentioned in the summons, not having any just cause therefor, to be allowed by the Justices before whom such information, presentment, or indictment shall be made; or shall wilfully withdraw himself or herself, before sworn; or shall wilfully refuse to be sworn; or shall refuse to give his or her evidence; in every such case, the party so offending shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten pounds; to be levied by warrant of distress and sale from the said Justices, on the offender's goods and chattels; and for the want of such distress, such person or persons shall be committed to gaol, there to remain for three months, or until the said sum of ten pounds shall be paid; Provided nevertheless, that no person shall be obliged to give evidence on any information, before such person be paid or secured their reasonable charges for attendance, to be allowed of and ordered by such Justices, and payable out of the monies arising by virtue of this Act.

By the before mentioned 2 Vic. c. 7, Sec. 5, Sess. 1839.

"The Clerk of the Licenses shall and may be and is hereby declared a competent witness, in any action, suit or prosecution, for recovering any penalty or penalties imposed by this Act, or any other Act or Acts respecting Duties upon licenses, or respecting licensed houses, notwithstanding such action, suit or prosecution, may have been commenced in his own name; provided that the Clerk of the Licenses shall not be entitled to any commission on or to any portion of the sum recovered in any case where he shall have been examined in proof of the offence."

Clerk of License a competent witness.

In the case of a witness neglecting to appear according to summons, or of his wilfully withdrawing himself before being sworn, the same proceedings must take place against him for the recovery of the penalty mentioned in this clause, before he can be convicted, as in other cases, that is,—by complaint and a summons to appear and answer. The Forms of the Summons and Conviction, in prosecutions upon this clause, will be the same which are contained in the before recited Act of the 7 W. 4, c. 48. In the two cases, of the witness refusing to be sworn, or to give evidence, it would seem, that he may at once, on the spot, be convicted by the Justices, and in such case, the summons will, of course, be unnecessary. The requisite Forms, after conviction, will be found at the end of the Title.

Directions.

SPIRITUOUS LIQUORS.

X. APPLICATION OF PENALTIES.

By Sec. 32 of the aforesaid Act of the 2 W. 4, c. 3. "All the monies arising from the conviction of any person or persons for the breach of any part of this Act, shall, after deducting the charges of prosecution, be paid by the Justices before whom the same shall be recovered, one half to the person or persons who shall inform and sue for the same, and the remaining half part to the Clerk of the Licenses, to be by him accounted for and applied as herein after directed."

XI. OBSTRUCTING CLERKS OF LICENSES.

By Sec. 34, of the same Statute. In case any person or persons keeping taverns, retail shops, or public rooms, or any persons being in or about such taverns, shop, or room, at the time the Clerk of License may be visiting the same, shall interrupt or assault the said Clerk, while in the execution of this Act, the said person or persons shall be liable to be indicted, and if convicted, fined or imprisoned for any such offence.

XII. RECOVERY OF LICENSE DUTIES.

By Sec. 36, of the same Statute. So often as one half yearly payment for a tavern, or shop license, shall be due and unpaid to the Clerk of the License, ten days after the same shall be due, it shall be lawful for such Clerk of the License, to bring an action on such person's bond, against himself, or his or her surety or sureties, before any one Justice of the Peace, or in any Court of Record, for the amount of such license duty, and such Justice shall give judgment for the same, and grant execution for such duty in arrear and costs against such debtor, and his or her surety or sureties.

[The proceedings and the Forms in the actions here mentioned, before a Justice, will be the same as in suits for the recovery of private debts before Justices, and will be found under the Title,—Summary Trials. The Clerk may be a witness. See clause of 2 Vic. recited under division 9.]

XIII. SUSPENDING LICENSES, FOR VIOLATION OF ENACTMENTS.

By Sec. 37, of the same Statute. If any complaint shall be made on oath, to any two Justices of the Peace for any county or district, that any person licensed to sell spirituous liquors by retail, keeps a disorderly house, or shop, or hath in any other respect neglected or refused to conform to the rules and regulations of this Act, or any other Act relating to licensed persons, it shall be lawful for such Justices, if the complaint shall appear to them to be well founded, to suspend the license of such person so complained against; and to direct notice of such suspension to be given to him, by the Clerk of the Licenses; and if, after such notice, the person whose license has been so suspended, shall presume to sell or retail any wine, ale, cider, or perry, or any rum, or other strong or distilled spirituous liquors, until such suspension shall be removed, such person shall suffer and pay the penalties and forfeitures imposed hereby on persons convicted of selling spirituous liquors without license; Provided always, that the person or persons whose license hath been so suspended, may appeal from the order of the said Justices, to the next General Sessions for the county or district; and the complaint being removed into the said Sessions, the Clerk of the Peace shall prepare and file an information accordingly, to which the appellant shall plead without delay, and the cause shall be tried by a jury; and if the appellant is acquitted, such suspension shall forthwith be removed; but if he be convicted, his license shall be wholly taken away, and his license bond shall be put in suit against him and his sureties.

[Upon a complaint on this clause being made to the Justices, the party charged must be summoned to appear and answer, and the matter be heard and determined before the Justices, in the usual manner. The Summons must be in the Form given in the before recited Act of the 7 W. 4, c. 48. As trials by jury in the Sessions have been abolished in the case of an appeal, the papers and proceedings must be sent into the Supreme Court.]

XIV. SELLING SPIRITUOUS LIQUORS ON CREDIT, AND SECURITIES AND PLEDGES FOR PAYMENT OF THE SAME.

By the 2 G. 3, c. 1. 1 V. 77. "No retailer, innholder, tavern, or alehouse keeper, who shall sell upon trust or credit, any wine, strong beer, ale, brandy, rum, or other spirituous liquors, mixt, or unmixt, to any soldier, sailor, servant, or day labourer, or other person whatsoever, to the amount of any sum exceeding the sum of five shillings, shall have any remedy to recover the same, either at law or in equity, against any of the persons aforesaid, their executors or administrators."

soever, shall leave any pawn or pledge as a security for the payment of any sum exceeding five shillings, contracted in such manner, he or she, or the masters or mistresses of such servant, apprentice, bound servant, or negro slave, may complain to any Justice of the Peace where such retailer, innholder, tavern, or alehouse keeper, or any other persons whatsoever, receiving such pawns or pledges, usually resides, that such pawn or pledge is detained from him or her by such retailer, innholder, tavern, or alehouse keeper, or any other person whatsoever, and having made proof thereof upon oath, or otherwise, to the satisfaction of said Justice, such Justice is required by warrant under his hand and seal, to compel such retailer, innholder, tavern, or alehouse keeper, or other person, by distress and sale of his goods, to restore the aforesaid pawn or pledge to the party complaining, or to make him or her satisfaction for the loss or abuse thereof; and shall further be subject to a fine not exceeding twenty shillings, for the use of the poor, and costs of prosecution.

Sec. 4. Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend to debar any retailer, innholder, tavern, or alehouse keeper, from furnishing any traveller, or boarders in his family, with necessary refreshments on credit. Perpetual.

[On a complaint being made of this offence, the party charged must be summoned to appear and answer, and the matter must be heard and determined by the Justice, as in other cases; and if the charge is proved, the Justice should at the same time impose the fine. The Form of such a complaint, and also of a summons, may readily be framed from the general Forms under the respective Titles—Information and Summons. As it is not specified to what extent, or for what value or amount, the distress is to be made, there seems to be much difficulty as to filling up and levying a warrant for the purpose.]

Notes, &c. by Servants and Labourers, for Spirituous Liquors, to be void.

By the 28 G. 3, c. 6. 1 V. 255. All notes, bills, specialties, or agreements whatever, which shall hereafter be given to any person or persons whatsoever, by any servant, or common labourer, if it shall appear that any part of the sum due or secured by such bond, note, bill, specialty, or agreement, was given for or on account of any rum, or other spirituous liquors, the same, and every part thereof, shall be void, and of none effect; and all accounts or contracts on which suits shall or may be brought against any servant, or common labourer, in which shall appear any charge made directly or indirectly for rum, or other spirituous liquors, the whole of such account or contract shall be null and void, and the party suing the same shall become nonsuit.

Sec. 5. If any tavern keeper shall, by himself or any other person, buy or receive in pawn, any wearing apparel, tools, or implements of trade or husbandry, or any household goods or furniture, made up, from any servant or common labourer, such tavern keeper, or retailer, shall forfeit and pay for every such offence, a sum not exceeding forty shillings, and the bargain, sale, or pawning shall be ipso facto void; and the articles so purchased or received, be immediately restored, or double the value thereof, on pain of imprisonment not exceeding one month, at the discretion of the Justice or Justices before whom complaint shall be made; and all persons keeping a tavern, or retailing spirituous liquors, after the publication hereof, are always to keep a fair, legible copy of this Act, pasted or hung up in some public and conspicuous part of their house, under the penalty of ten shillings for every day's neglect thereof, to be recovered before any Justice or Justices of the Peace, on the complaint of any person or persons whatsoever. Perpetual.

Wearing Apparel, Tools, &c. not to be bought or taken in pawn from Servants or Labourers.

For the recovery of the fine of forty shillings, first mentioned in the foregoing clause, the same proceedings must be had as in similar cases, by information and complaint, and by summoning the party charged, to appear and answer. The complaint and prosecution may, according to the terms of the clause, be either before one Justice or more. The requisite Forms of Information, Summons, Conviction, and Commitment, may be framed from the general Forms contained under those Titles respectively, filling them up according to the facts stated or proved. The penalty of ten shillings last mentioned, must also be sued for and recovered in like manner, and under the like Forms. It must be observed, however, that as no final process is mentioned for levying or enforcing payment of this penalty, no such final process can be issued by Justices.

Directions.

As the before recited Statute of the 7 W. 4, c. 48, has given brief Forms of the Summons, and Conviction, in prosecutions upon any of the Acts relating to licenses, or licensed houses, it is thought that it may safely be inferred, that on a complaint for selling spirituous liquors without license, or indeed for any other offence under the License Acts, where only a summons is required, a formal Information in writing, such as has in general been heretofore used, is not indispensably requisite, especially as any such Information has never been required by any legal provision, and also, as a formal record of conviction is now, in all cases under the said Acts, dispensed with by the aforesaid Statute, which declares, that the brief Form therein given, shall serve "to all intents and purposes whatsoever." It is considered therefore, that in every such case where only a summons is requisite, a verbal complaint and statement to the Justices, by the Clerk of the Licenses, or other person informing, will suffice; and on his requisition, the summons may be issued immediately. In the event, however, that it should at any time be determined, that such formal Information is requisite, a Form thereof is given, for selling without license, which has been generally used, and which may readily be altered and filled up so as to serve in any other case under the License Acts.

XV. REGULATIONS CONCERNING DISTILLERIES.

Officers to be employed to attend distilleries.

By the 8 Vic. c. 19, Sess. 1845, Sec. 3. The Board of Revenue shall employ such number of fit and proper officers as shall be necessary for attending on such distilleries and manufactories, at all times when they are at work, so as one of such officers shall always be present thereat.

Rate of payment to Officer.

Sec. 5. The said officers while actually employed in pursuance of this Act, shall be respectively entitled to receive on the certificate of the Board of Revenue, at and after the rate of five shillings for each and every day during which such officers respectively shall be actually employed as aforesaid, and any one of such officers who shall appear to have been absent while the manufactory or distillery to which he was so appointed was at work, or to have connived in any way at the violation of the aforesaid Acts, shall be forthwith dismissed from his said employment, and shall be subject to a fine of ten pounds, to be sued for and recovered by the Collector of Impost before any two Justices of the Peace, and to be applied in such way as the Board of Revenue may from time to time direct and appoint.

Penalty for neglect of duty.

Sec. 6. It shall be lawful for the Board of Revenue to make, alter, and renew such regulations from time to time as to them shall seem expedient for regulating the attendance of such officers, and the seasons of the year and hours at which such distilleries and manufactories shall be allowed to be at work, and for carrying into effect, the provisions of the aforesaid Acts or of this Act, so as to check and prevent any frauds in receiving or enforcing the collection of duties on spirituous liquors distilled in this Province.

Board of Revenue to regulate attendance of Officers and times at which distilleries may work.

Sec. 7. All such manufacturers or distillers shall in all things comply with and observe such regulations as may from time to time be made as aforesaid, and shall give free access to such officers whenever such manufactory or distillery is at work, or such officers, or any of them, as shall

Directions.

The Form of the Summons to be issued in any such case, is contained in the before recited Act of the 7 W. 4, c. 48.

The manner of proceeding, on the hearing of the complaint before the Justices, will be the same, in general, as on the trial of other penal prosecutions, and information and directions on the subject will be found under the Titles,—Information, and Conviction. The prosecutor must always, if possible, have the Clerk of the Peace present as a witness on the trial, to prove that the defendant is not licensed, as this proof has by some of our Judges been held to be requisite. The informer himself cannot be a witness, as he is entitled on a conviction to a part of the penalty, but the Clerk of the License may be a witness, though, where examined as such, he cannot have any part of the sum recovered. The costs of the prosecution must be taxed and allowed by the Justices. Where a conviction takes place, it may be indorsed on the summons, in the form set forth in the said last mentioned Act. The following will serve as the Form of a Warrant of Distress, for levying the penalty imposed.

Summons for a Witness, on an Information for selling Spirituous Liquors without License.

County of } To A. T., one of the Constables of the [Seal.]

[Seal.] WHEREAS information hath been made before us, A. M., and A. R., Esquires, two of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the said county of —, by A. C., Clerk of the Licenses for the said county, that A. O., of —, in the said county, yeoman, did within three months previous to the said information, at — in the said county, sell rum by retail, without being licensed thereto according to law; and the said A. Herein fail you not. Given under our hands and seals, at — the — day of —, in the year —.

A. M., J. P.

A. R., J. P.

The foregoing Summons may readily be altered, so as Directions. to serve in any prosecution upon any of the Statutes concerning Spirituous Liquors, set forth under this Title.

If the witness fail to appear according to the Summons, after the same has been duly served on him, upon application being made to the Justices, it will be their duty to issue a summons against such witness, according to the Form set forth in the aforesaid Act of the 7 W. 4, recited under division No. 8, of this Title. It does not seem to be requisite to take any formal information or complaint in writing, before issuing such summons, for the same reasons as have been given with regard to a complaint for selling Spirituous Liquors without license. In this prosecution against the witness, the summons must be served on him in the usual manner, and the same proceedings must take place as in the course, and on the trial, of any other prosecution before Justices. If the witness fail to shew any reasonable and sufficient ground for his non attendance in the original suit, and he is thereupon convicted of such offence, the conviction shall be indorsed on the Summons, in the Form, and according to the directions contained in the said Act before recited, and a warrant of distress in the following form shall be thereupon issued.

Warrant of Distress, to levy the Penalty for non-attendance as a Witness.

County of } To A. B., one of the Constables of the } township of —, in the said county.

[Seal.]

[Seal.] WHEREAS, on the — day of —, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and —, A. O., of —, in the said county, yeoman, was duly convicted before us, A. M. and A. R., Esquires, two of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace in and for the said county of —, for that he the said A. W. was duly summoned to appear before us the said Justices, at —, in the said county, on the — day of —, in the year aforesaid, to give evidence as a witness, on the trial of a certain prosecution then depending, and then and there to be tried, on the information and complaint of A. C., Clerk of the Licenses for the said county, against one A. O. of —, in the said county, yeoman, for selling spirituous liquors by retail, without being licensed so to do, and for that he the said A. W., having been duly summoned as aforesaid, wilfully and without any just cause, neglected and refused to appear before us on the day last aforesaid, as such witness on the said trial, and to give evidence thereon as aforesaid, contrary to the Statute in such case provided: And whereas the said A. Directions.

If the witness appears on the trial, according to the Summons, but refuses to be sworn, or to give evidence, the Information and Summons against him are, of course, unnecessary, and the Justices may at once, on the spot, convict him for such refusal, and adjudge him to pay the ten pounds penalty, and may immediately, if required, issue the warrant of distress, and proceed to commitment, by the same course as already prescribed. The Warrant of Distress and the Commitment in such case, may readily be framed from the foregoing Forms, making the partial alterations obviously requisite.

SUMMARY TRIALS.

THIS Title includes an extensive and most important branch of the jurisdiction and duties of a Justice of the Peace, arising under a general Statute of this Province, which gives them that jurisdiction, with regard to the recovery of private debts of a limited and small amount. The Statute referred to, is of a temporary description; but the jurisdiction on this subject was extended to Justices in the earliest period of our legislation, and has nearly ever since been prolonged, by various Statutes from time to time passed, and it is most probable will still be continued. The divisions under which the subject is here arranged, and the manner in which it is treated of, will, it is hoped, be found the most useful and convenient to Magistrates. Such an extended and comprehensive consideration of the subject, seems indeed to be almost indispensable, in any attempt to afford them the requisite information on a part of their duty so important in itself, and which they are so frequently required to perform. It must be borne in mind, that in exercising this summary jurisdiction, Justices are not empowered to determine according to what they may deem to be equitable, but are to decide agreeably to the same rules of law which govern in the highest Courts; and it is quite possible, that as great a variety of such rules may apply, and as many legal doubts and difficulties may arise, in an action for the recovery of three pounds, as in one for the largest amount. In the next place, it can be no reflection upon the gentlemen in the commission of the peace, to say, that but very few of them are even generally versed in the various branches of the law. It could not reasonably be expected to be otherwise. These things being considered, it is highly requisite that suitable information and directions should be afforded them, regarding this widely extended branch of their jurisdiction, so that their decisions may, at least, be consistent with the general rules and principles of our laws. An endeavour to that effect is here made, and it is trusted that it will be found to be accomplished in some useful degree.

VII. OF JUDGMENTS, AND THE PROCEEDINGS ATTENDING AND FOLLOWING THE SAME; AND HEREIN OF APPEALS.

I. THE SEVERAL STATUTES RELATING TO THE RECOVERY OF DEBTS BEFORE JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

By the 30 G. 3, c. 8. 1 V. 281. All summonses issued by Justices of the Peace, shall be directed to either of the constables of the county where the Justice issuing the same shall reside, and the party or parties against whom such summonses shall issue, shall have three days notice to appear to such summons, exclusive of the day of service and the day of appearance; and where the constable shall not be able to make a personal service, a copy of such summons shall be left by the constable at the defendant, or defendant's house, or last place of abode, with some person residing there; of which service the constable shall, if thereto required, make oath.

Direction and Service of Summons.

[NOTE. This last part of the clause, relating to the service, is altered by the Statute hereafter mentioned, of the 5 Vic. Sess. 1842, by which, a personal service on the defendant is made requisite.]

Sec. 3. No Justice of the Peace shall entertain or have any jurisdiction of any of the following actions, to wit, of debts for rent, trover or conversion, or actions on the case for words, or actions for trespass, assault and battery, or false imprisonment, or where the titles of land shall in any ways come in question.

Justices not to have jurisdiction over certain causes of action.

[NOTE. Although there are no words in this Statute limiting its duration, and therefore in its form, it may be considered as Perpetual, yet it seems quite doubtful if any part of it is now in force, as one of the two Acts, of which it is intitled to be in amendment, was soon after expressly repealed, and the other, which was only a temporary Act, has long since expired, and various other enactments on the same subject have been from time to time passed.]

The general Statute now in force for the recovery of debts, before Justices of the Peace, is the 5 Vic. c. 33, Sess. 1842, which is as follows.

Sec. 1. It shall and may be lawful for any person, body, politic or corporate, who shall have any debt due him or them by or from any person, except an Executor or Administrator, when sued as such, where the whole dealing or cause of action shall not exceed the sum of ten pounds, to sue for and recover the same in manner following, that is to say: if the whole dealing or cause of action shall not exceed

Sec. 8. Either party shall and may be permitted to make any legal challenge for cause to any of the said Jurors; and if any such challenge be allowed, or in any case where any juror summoned shall not appear, the said Justices shall direct the said jury to be filled up by any person then present, being duly qualified as aforesaid, who may not be liable to any such legal challenge, or by directing any constable to summon instantly any other person, being so qualified, and not liable to such challenge.

and such Justice, or if the action be before two Justices, then the first one applied to therein, if thereto required, shall and he is hereby directed to prepare the affidavit and appeal bond hereby prescribed and required—which appeal, if applied for at any time within ten days after judgment in such cause, such Justice or Justices shall be bound to grant, in all causes where the whole dealing or cause of action shall amount to twenty shillings, returnable to the then next sitting or term of the Supreme Court in and for the county in which the trial in the said cause shall have been had, and execution, if not then issued, shall thereafter be stayed in the said cause till the same shall be settled under the said appeal.

Sec. 10. The following provisions and regulations shall be strictly observed and kept in all civil suits commenced and prosecuted before any Justice or Justices, in the same and the like manner as if they had been separate and distinct clauses and provisions of this Act, that is to say:—

Where any judgment shall have been given by two Justices under the said Act, and before the issuing of a first or other execution thereon, one of such Justices shall happen to die or remove from the county, or be dismissed from or resign his office, it shall and may be lawful for the remaining Justice to issue every such first or other execution, in the same manner as the same might and could otherwise have been issued by such two Justices, and in case of the death, dismissal, resignation or removal from the county of both such Justices, or of any single Justice before whom judgment shall have been given under the said Act, previously to the issuing of any such first or other execution, it shall and may be lawful for any other Justice of the Peace for the county, upon application of the party entitled thereto, to issue every such first or other execution, in the same manner as the same might and could have been issued by such Justice who shall have so died, resigned, been dismissed, or removed from the county as aforesaid, and no exception to the form of any such execution, connected with the issuing thereof as aforesaid, shall in any case be allowed or sustained, but the same if in other respects legal and valid, shall be held and deemed to be duly and lawfully issued, any defect in the statement therein of the death, resignation, dismissal or removal of such Justice or Justices notwithstanding. Annual.

II. OF THE PERSONS WHO MAY, AND THOSE WHO MAY NOT SUE OR BE SUED; AND HEREIN, OF THE JOINDER OF PARTIES.

1. Who MAY, and who MAY NOT Sue, or be Sued.

AN alien friend, that is one, belonging to a country at peace with us, may sue or be sued here, for a debt contracted here by or with a subject of our Government, but not if it was contracted out of this Province. See Arch. P. & E. 3. 5. Arch. Pr. 1 V. 43.

An idiot, or lunatic, and also a deaf or dumb person, may sue or be sued for debts, and may be arrested for the same, in the same manner, and under the same circumstances as other persons. In the case of an idiot plaintiff, any one who prays to be admitted as his friend, may sue for him, and if defendant, any one who can make a better defence, shall be allowed to defend for him. 2 Arch. P. 149. [It would seem that the same must be the case with regard to lunatics, and deaf and dumb persons.]

Husband and wife.

A man cannot sue his wife, or a woman her husband, in any form of action whatever, for reasons sufficiently obvious; and even if one have a cause of action against the other, before marriage, their intermarriage is a release of the action. Arch. Pl. & Ev. 37.

Married woman.

A married woman cannot sue or be sued alone, for a debt contracted before marriage. Her husband must join or be joined in the action. Neither can she sue or be sued alone, for a debt incurred during marriage; whether she live with her husband, or apart from him, even under articles of separation, with a separate maintenance. But she may sue or be sued alone, if the husband be in exile,—have abjured the realm,—be transported,—or be an alien enemy, out of the realm,—or if they have been divorced. In other cases, the husband alone must be sued for debts contracted by the wife during marriage. Id. 39-56. 2 Arch. P. 147.

For the labour or service of the wife, or contract or promise to her during marriage, the husband alone may sue. Arch. P. & Ev. 39.

Infant.

If a debt arises from the labour or services of a child under the age of 21 years, living with the father as part of the family, and labouring for him, the action for the recovery of such debt should be by the father, in the same manner as if the service were by himself. But if such child be living away from his father, and labouring or acting for himself, or if his parents be dead, and in other cases, he may bring an action for any debt which has become due to him. See Bac. Abr. 3 V. 141.

An infant, or person under 21 years, is not liable to be sued for any debt contracted by him, unless it be for necessaries, such as necessary meat, drink, apparel, proper instruction, medicines, medical attendance, washing, and the like. Necessaries for such infant's wife, or child, are necessaries for him, and he shall be sued for them, as if they were furnished to himself. If however an infant is living under the roof of his parent, who provides every thing which in his judgment appears to be proper, the infant cannot bind himself to a stranger, even for such articles as might under other circumstances be deemed necessaries. Contracts entered into by infants for the maintenance of their trade, are not binding on them, as in the case of goods bought by them to be sold again. If however goods, which are not necessaries, are delivered to an infant, who after full age ratifies the contract, by a promise to pay, he is bound, and may be sued for such debt. 1 Selw. N. P. 122.

One partner cannot sue another for money received or paid, or goods furnished, or service performed, on account of the partnership. See Arch. P. § E. 37.

2. Of the Joinder of Parties.

IN the case of partners in trade, and in all other cases where a debt is due to several persons jointly, they should all join in an action for the recovery of it. But if only one, or a certain number of them sue, and no objection is taken to it, he or they may recover. See Arch. P. § Ev. 49-51.

Partners in trade.

Where a debt is due by partners or others jointly, they must all be sued in an action to recover it. Id. 67. But in the case of a joint and several contract, as on a joint and several note of hand, either one alone, or both may be sued.

Where the wife is the meritorious cause of action, as where labour or service has been performed by her, during marriage, she may join with her husband in bringing the action, or he may sue alone. So upon a promissory note made to the wife during coverture, she may join with him in bringing the action, or he may sue alone. Id. 40.

Husband and Wife.

[NOTE. In these cases it will be most convenient and proper for the husband alone, to sue.]

Husband and wife must join as plaintiffs, in an action for the recovery of a debt due to the wife before marriage. Id. 37.

So actions for debts due by the wife before marriage, must be against husband and wife. Id. 56.

III. OF THE TIME LIMITED BY LAW FOR THE RECOVERY OF DEBTS, AND ESTABLISHING MATTERS OF DEFENCE.

Statute of Limitations of suits at law.

By the Statute of the 32 G. 2, c. 35. 1 V. 35. Sec. 4. All actions of account, and upon the case, (other than such accounts as concern the trade of merchandize between merchant and merchant, their factors and servants,) all actions of debt, grounded upon any lending or contract without specialty, or any of them, which shall be sued or brought, shall be commenced and sued within six years next after the cause of such action or suits, and not after.

Sec. 8. Provided nevertheless, that if any person or persons that is or shall be entitled to any such actions of debt, be, or shall be, at the time of any such cause of action given or accrued, fallen or come within the age of twenty-one years, or a married woman, or insane, or imprisoned, or beyond the seas, that then such person or persons shall be at liberty to bring the same actions, so as they take the same within such time as is before limited, after their coming to or being of full age, discoverd, (loosed from marriage,) or of sane memory, or at large, and returned from beyond the seas, as by other persons having no such impediment should be done.

Persons beyond Seas.

Sec. 9. If any person or persons against whom there is or shall be any cause of suit, or action of debt grounded upon any lending, or contract without specialty, shall at the time of any such cause of suit or action given or accrued, fallen, or become, be beyond the seas, that then such person or persons who is or shall be entitled to any such suit or action, shall be at liberty to bring the said actions against such person and persons, after their return from beyond the seas, so as they take the said actions, after their return from beyond the seas, within the said time of six years, limited for the bringing of the same by this Act. Perpetual.

Cases in which the Statute of Limitations applies

This Statute extends to actions of assumpsit upon bills of exchange, or promissory notes, as well as to other cases of debts or promises. If a bill of exchange, or order, or note of hand, be given for money lent, or the like, the time of limitation begins to run, not from the time of the loan, but from the time the bill, order, or note became due; and in the case of a note &c., payable after sight, not until after it has been presented for payment. But a promissory note payable on demand, is payable immediately, and this Statute of limitation runs from the date of the note, and not from the time of demand. If the promise be to do a thing upon request, or upon the happening of a certain event, the time of limitation or the executor, the like, the the consider of limitation does not begin to run until after request made or the event have happened. So if the consideration be executory, as in the case of contracts for seamen's wages, or the like, the time of limitation does not commence until after the consideration has been executed.

The exception in the Statute, of actions upon accounts concerning the trade of merchandize between merchant and merchant, their factors and servants, extends only to cases where there are mutual accounts and reciprocal demands, and where the accounts are still open and running, and not to cases where the account has been stated and the balance struck; nor to cases where the items are all on one side. If any of the items in such mutual and open account, be within six years of the commencement of the action, it is immaterial whether the parties are merchants or not, because such item is deemed equivalent to a subsequent promise reviving the debt, but if none of the items be within six years, it is necessary that the parties be merchants, and the account relate to the trade of merchandize, to bring it within the above exception. Where the case does not come within this exception in the Statute, yet if any of the items be within six years, the plaintiff shall recover for them, although not for the others.

Accounts between Merchants and Tradesmen.

Also, although the time limited by the Statute have elapsed before any action is brought, yet, if the defendant promise to pay the debt, or even acknowledge it within the six years, the debt is thereby revived, and the case taken out of the Statute; even although such promise or acknowledgment be after the commencement of the action. And the slightest acknowledgment has been deemed sufficient for this purpose; such as this,—“I am ready to account but nothing is due to you,” or,—“If he has any demand on me it shall be settled,” or,—“What an extravagant bill you have delivered to me;” or where the defendant says, “I do not consider myself as owing Mr. B. a farthing, it being more than six years since I contracted, I have had the wheat I acknowledge, and I have paid some part of it, and £26 remain due,” or where a party says, “The bill of exchange is out of date, and it is not in my power to pay it,” or the like acknowledgments. Even when the defendant, upon being served with a writ, wrote a letter to the plaintiff's attorney, couched in ambiguous terms, neither expressly admitting or denying the debt, it was left to the jury to say whether it amounted to an acknowledgment.

Acknowledgment after six years.

But merely saying, “I acknowledge the receipt of the money, but she gave it me,” or, referring to his attorney, who said that, "If the plaintiff had any letter which would bind the defendant, the debt should be paid," does not amount to an acknowledgment or promise.

If one of several makers of a joint and several promissory note, acknowledge the debt, or pay a part of it, within the six years, it is sufficient to take the case out of the Statute, as against the others, and may be given in evidence in a separate action against any of them. Archb. P. & Ev. 27, 28, 1 Schw. N. P. 135-9.

NOTE. It may be well to mention here, that the rules of law, and the decisions contained under this division and the preceding one, are set forth, as well by way of information and caution to the Justice, previous to his issuing any process, as to guide him on the trial.

IV. THE ORDER AND MANNER OF PROCEEDING, IN INSTITUTING AND CONDUCTING SUCH ACTIONS.

In addition to the numerous and explicit regulations applying to this division, contained in the general Act, the following directions may be found useful.

Directions.

If a plaintiff commences his action by writ of summons, no previous affidavit of the debt is requisite, and this must be the process in all cases where the amount or balance actually due, is under twenty shillings; as it has been already seen, that by the express words of the Act, no person shall be arrested for a debt under that sum. Neither can he be arrested for any larger sum, not exceeding £3, unless the creditors shall also state in his affidavit, that he verily believes, that unless a capias be allowed, the debt will be lost. This latter part of the affidavit is not requisite where the sum due is above three pounds. Where a creditor concludes on proceeding by a writ of capias, the affidavit must be made previous to issuing the writ, and must be in the form prescribed in the general Act, set forth under the first division.

In every case, the summons or capias must be made returnable at such a time as that it may, according to the express terms of the Act, be served at least five full days before the return. On a capias, if sufficient bail be offered, it must be taken and the party liberated accordingly, to appear on the return day, the Act being express on the subject. In every case, the writ should be returned to the Justice before the trial comes on, with the return thereon by the Constable, of his having served it. The Justice will of course attend to hear the cause at the place mentioned in the writ and it will be made convenient being returned to the defendant does should previous answer. Either trial on another described in the the defendant questioned as be asked, when and if he voluntarily of course be confessed, without the plaintiff must here defendant can either obliged defence. It is intended, or indeed, is intended, but such per. It has all evidence applicable on trials before and especially, intended as witnesses the Title,—Evidence here, briefly to the existence of punishments, and young children ly to understand not be allowed a witness for or be permitted to tainty, will either whether such consequential only question and and when the must be allowed receipt or discharge and to prove the rules of law and a case not tried and it will be proper for him to do so, as nearly as can be made convenient, at the hour appointed, and on the writ being returned as aforesaid, the plaintiff may produce and prove his demand and have judgment, although the defendant does not appear. In such case, the defendant should previously and openly be called to appear and answer. Either party may have the cause continued over for trial on another day on the terms and in the manner prescribed in the Act. When the cause is brought on for trial, the defendant should not be interrogated, or particularly questioned as to the claim of the plaintiff, but may simply be asked, what he has to plead or answer to the action; and if he voluntarily confesses the demand, judgment may of course be given for the plaintiff, for the amount so confessed, without any further proof. If he denies the debt, the plaintiff must then be called upon to produce his proof. It must here be observed, that neither the plaintiff or defendant can in any case, or under any circumstances, be either obliged, or be permitted, to be sworn and give evidence. It is believed that this has been frequently permitted, or indeed, may rather be said to be very generally practised, but such a proceeding is altogether illegal and improper. It has already been mentioned, that the same rules of evidence apply in these summary causes before Justices, as on trials before the higher Courts. For such rules at large, and especially, as to who may, and who may not be admitted as witnesses, when objected to, reference must be had to the Title,—Evidence, in this work. It may be sufficient here, briefly to say, that a person who does not believe in the existence of a God, in a future state of rewards and punishments, and in the moral obligation of an oath, also young children, or others who have not discretion sufficiently to understand the nature and obligation of an oath, shall not be allowed to give evidence—also, that a wife cannot be a witness for or against her husband, and that no person can be permitted to give evidence, if objected to, who to a certainty, will either gain or lose by the event of the cause, whether such gain or loss be direct and immediate, or consequential only. The defendant is, of course, entitled to question and cross examine the witnesses of the plaintiff, and when the plaintiff has closed his proof, the defendant must be allowed to make his defence, to produce any receipt or discharge, or any account he may have as a set off, and to prove the same in like manner, and under the like rules of law and evidence, as in the case of the plaintiff. In a case not tried by jury, when all the evidence on both sides is closed, and the Justice, on a consideration of the testimony, and the law relating to it, has concluded what his judgment shall be, he must declare it openly, so that both parties may be apprised of it. If either party is dissatisfied with the judgment, and desires an appeal, this is the proper time to make it, and by the words of the Act, it may be done in any case where "the whole dealing or cause of action," amounts to twenty shillings. More particular information respecting such appeals, and as to other proceedings after judgment, will be found in the general Act itself, and under the last division of the Title.

1. Of Promissory Notes.

A PROMISSORY NOTE is a promise in writing, to pay to A. or order, or to A. or bearer, a sum of money, either at sight, or at a certain time after sight, or after date, or on demand.

By the 8 G. 3, c. 2. 1 V. 134. Promissory Notes made payable to a person, or his order, may be assigned by indorsement, the same as an inland bill of exchange; and the person to whom such note is payable, may maintain an action against the maker thereof; and so may the indorsee have his action either against the maker or indorser, the same as in the case of such inland bill; and the plaintiff, if he recover, may have execution for his debt, and also his costs. The action must be brought within six years. Perpetual.

as a promise to pay I. S. or order. So a promissory note payable to B., (omitting the words, "or order,") three months after date, is a good note. So where the promise was by A. to pay so much to B. for a debt due from C. to B., it was holden that it was within the Statute, being an absolute promise, and every way as negotiable as if it had been generally for value received. A promise "to deliver money," or a promise, that I. S. shall "receive money," or a promise, to be "accountable," or "responsible" for money, will be a sufficient note.

The note however, in order to be negotiable, must contain an absolute promise to pay money at all events, (and not a promise depending on a contingency,) and where the money, at the time of giving the note, becomes due and payable by virtue thereof, and not where it becomes due and payable by virtue of a subsequent contingency which may perhaps never happen, in which case the money would never become payable. On this ground, the following notes have been adjudged not to be negotiable notes, viz:—A promise by defendant to pay to plaintiff £26, "within a month after Michaelmas, if the defendant did not pay the £26 for which the plaintiff stood engaged for his brother I. B." A promise to pay A. B. £100, value received, "on the death of C. D., provided he leaves either of us sufficient to pay the said sum, or if we shall be otherwise able to pay it." A promise to pay "A. or B. and C. £10, value received." A promise to pay money within so many days after the maker of the note should marry. 1 Selv. N. P. 378-9. Chitty on B. 149.

[NOTE. It is only intended to show here, that such notes are not negotiable, that is, cannot be indorsed so as to give the person to whom any such note may be indorsed a right to recover against the maker; but the payee, or person to whom it is made, may sue the maker and recover, on proving that the money had become due by the happening of the contingent event, although it would seem that he could not do so in a summary form before Justices, as the words, "whole dealing or cause of action," in the Act relating to Summary Trials, seem to refer only to absolute and unconditional debts.]

A promissory note must be payable for money only. Hence, where the promise was to pay I. S. so much money, or to render the body of I. N. to prison before such a day, the note was holden bad, because the note was not necessarily and originally for the payment of money. The same, where the promise in the note was, to pay £300 to A. or order, in good East India bonds.

A note, pro-

Notes payable on an event certain, are good.

A promissory note to an infant when he should come of age, namely, on such a day, in such a year, is good, for here is no condition or uncertainty, only the time of payment is postponed. So where the note was to pay within a certain time after such a ship was paid off, it was holden good, because the ship would certainly be paid off, one time or other.

Joint and several notes.

A note beginning thus,—“ I promise to pay,” and signed by two or more persons, is a several as well as joint note, and one or both may be sued.

If a promissory note appears, on the face of it, to be the separate note of A. only, A. and B. cannot be sued thereon as for their joint note, although it was given to secure a debt for which A. & B. were jointly liable.

If an action is brought on a note made jointly, but not separately, and some of the persons making the note are not made defendants, advantage can be taken of the omission.

Consideration

It will be presumed that a note has been given for a good and valuable consideration until the contrary appear.

“ Value received.”

A note is good without the words, “ value received.” also without any witness subscribed to it.

Witness.

Time of payment.

A note payable generally, without naming any time, is payable on demand, and may be sued upon immediately, without any previous formal demand of payment.

Name of maker.

A note payable to bearer, is good.

The name of the maker of the note must either be subscribed, or inserted in the body of it, but the latter will be sufficient, if written by him.

Place of payment.

It is not necessary that any place should be named where the note is to be paid, but if any such place is named in the body of the note, and as a part of it, application should be made at such place, for payment.

Negotiability.

Unless a note contain the words, “ or order,” “ or bearer,” or some other equivalent words, authorising the person to whom it is made, to assign it, such note cannot be transferred, so as to give the assignee a right of action against the maker, or any other person except the one who endorsed it to him, unless the negotiable words were omitted by mistake, in which case they may be supplied.

Indorsement.

Where a note has been made payable to, or indorsed to a single woman, who afterwards marries, or where it is made during the marriage, the right of transfer rests in her husband, and he thereby virtually becomes indorser, and may sue thereon in his own name, and need not prove any indorsement.

in partnership, it cannot be transferred by one only, but all must concur in doing it.

Where a note or bill is payable to a certain person, or bearer, it is transferable by mere delivery.

Where a note is in the hands of an indorser, and he demands payment thereof from the maker, who refuses or omits to pay the same, notice of such refusal or default ought to be given by the indorser himself, to the prior indorser or indorsers (if more than one) within a reasonable time, otherwise the indorser will be discharged. But in such case, if the indorser, subsequently, with a knowledge of all the circumstances, promise payment, he will be bound by it.

Notice of non-payment.

If a bill or note be altered without the consent of the parties in any material part, as in the date, sum, or time when payable, or consideration, or place of payment, such alteration will render the bill or note wholly invalid, as against any party not consenting to such alteration; and this is the case, although it be in the hands of an innocent holder. Schw. N. P. 378 to 386. Chitty on Bills, &c.

Alteration of Note or Bill.

Evidence.

The evidence on the part of the plaintiff may be first noticed.

It is a general rule, that the original note must be produced in evidence. This rule is dispensed with in special cases only, as where it can be proved that the note has been lost, or destroyed by the defendant, or that it is in the hands of the defendant, and that he has had notice to produce it. In these cases, a copy of the note, or parol evidence of its contents may be received.

Producing Note in evidence.

In an action against the maker of a note, by the person to whom it is made, the hand writing of the maker must be proved by the subscribing witness, if there be any, if not, by some person who is competent to prove such hand writing. In an action by the first indorsee against the maker, the same evidence as in the preceding case, together with proof of the indorsement to the plaintiff, will be necessary.

Proving Note.

In an action against an indorser of a note, proof of the hand writing of the maker, or of any indorser prior to the defendant, (except the first,) is not necessary; but in this case, it must be proved that payment was duly demanded of the master, and that the master refused to pay, or made default therein, and that notice of such refusal or default was given to the defendant within a reasonable time.

Where two joint makers of a promissory note are sued, one of them is a competent witness to prove the signature of the other.

Proof in explanation of Notes.

If there be any mistake in the date or circumstances of the note, necessary to be explained, evidence must be adduced accordingly.

Admission by one of joint makers.

The admission of one of several makers of a promissory note, is sufficient to take the case out of the Statute of limitations, in a separate action against the other.

Subscribing witness.

If there be a subscribing witness to a note, he must be produced by the plaintiff to prove it, if his attendance can be procured, and it is insisted on by the defendant. In other cases, it will suffice to call a witness who is acquainted with the defendant, and who from seeing him write even his surname or other writing, or even from correspondence with him, has acquired a knowledge of his hand writing, and can swear to his belief that the subscription is the defendant's, even although he has only seen him write once.

Where there are several subscribing witnesses, it is sufficient to call one of them.

Proof where subscribing witness is dead.

If the subscribing witness be dead, proof of his death and hand writing, it seems is sufficient, without proving the hand writing of the maker, or any other proof whatever of the identity of the parties; and this, even where the defendant signed by mark.

Admission of party.

In general, the signature of a party to a bill or note, may be proved as against him, by his admission; but in general it only operates against the party making such admission. Hence, in an action by the indorsee of a note against the maker, proof of the acknowledgment of an indorser, is not sufficient evidence to prove his indorsement.

In an action against the indorser of a note, the hand writing of the maker need not be proved, nor can it be contradicted by the defendant. 1 Selv. N. P. 390. 2 Ch. on Bills, &c.

Some general rules of evidence, on the part of the Defendant, may now be mentioned,—

Cases in which a Note shall be void.

In general, there will be sufficient defence between the original parties, when it is shewn, that the note or bill was obtained by illegal imprisonment, or constraint, or by fraud or circumvention, and whilst the defendant was in a state of intoxication,—or by false pretences, that the party would do something which he immediately after declared he would not perform,—or where there has been no consideration, or only the semblance of it,—or where there has been an agreement all on one side,—or where there has been a consideration only for a part. recover, before Justices, to the amount of such part consideration, unless there were any fraud.] None of the foregoing circumstances however will be a sufficient defence against an indorser or holder of any such note, having given a valuable consideration for it, and not knowing of any such fraudulent circumstance, or want of consideration, at the time of his receiving the note.

The defendant cannot give in evidence, a parol or verbal agreement, entered into when the note was made, that it should be renewed when it became due.

Verbal agreement concerning Note.

When a promissory note is indorsed, its resemblance to a bill of exchange begins, for then it is an order by the indorser upon the maker of the note, to pay to the indorsee; the indorser is, as it were, the drawer, the maker of the note, the acceptor, and the indorsee, the payee. From this resemblance it follows, that nearly all the rules which are applicable to bills of exchange, hold also in the case of promissory notes. 1 Selw. N. P. 391-2. Ch. on Bills, &c. 83.

Indorsement of a Note.

By the Statute of the 10 G. 3, c. 5. 1 V. 160. "All bonds, contracts, and assurances whatsoever, for payment of any principal, or money to be lent, or covenanted to be performed, upon or for any usury, whereupon, or whereby, there shall be reserved or taken above the rate of six pounds in the hundred, for a year, shall be utterly void." Perpetual.

Statute against Usury.

By virtue of this clause, every note of hand, order, or bill, whereon more than the aforesaid rate of interest is expressed and reserved, is altogether void.

2. Orders or Inland Bills.

It may, here, be first observed, that all the foregoing rules concerning Promissory Notes, with regard to consideration,—signatures, and proof thereof,—competency of witnesses,—indorsement,—notice of non-payment,—alteration of dates, &c.—fraud, and usury, apply and govern equally in the case of orders or bills. A repetition of such rules is therefore unnecessary. It will be useful however to mention some points, which exclusively, or in a more especial manner, relate to the orders or bills, here treated of.

Such bill is a written order from A. to B., directing B. (who has, or is supposed to have in his hands, sufficient effects belonging to A.) to pay a sum of money to C. or order, or to C. or bearer, either at sight, or a certain number of days after sight, or after date, or on demand. The person making the bill is called the drawer, the person to whom it is directed, the drawer, and the person in whose favour it is Bills payable to order, are assignable by indorsement. The person making an indorsement, is called the indorser, the person in whose favour it is made, the indorsee, and the party in possession of the bill and entitled to receive its contents, the holder.

Bills payable to bearer, are transferable by delivery, without indorsement.

Infant, party to a bill.

An infant cannot bind himself by an order drawn in the course of trade, or even for necessaries. But infancy is a personal privilege. Hence the drawer of an order cannot set up the infancy of the payee and indorser, as a defence to an action. [NOTE. The infant may be sued for the necessaries, though not on the order.]

Partners.

If a bill is drawn upon a firm, and one of the partners accept it in his own name, this acceptance binds the partnership.

It is not essentially necessary to insert in a bill, the words, "value received."

Words, "or order."

The indorsement of a bill which does not contain the words, "or order," will not make him that drew the bill chargeable to the person to whom it is indorsed, but the indorser is chargeable to such person.

Usurious security.

If an usurious security be given for a legal subsisting debt, although the security is void, the debt is not extinguished.

Where a bill is partly given for an illegal consideration, the whole bill is void.

Due diligence must be used, and care taken, that a bill be presented for acceptance or payment, within a reasonable time. This point of due diligence, must depend upon facts, such as, the situation of the parties, their places of abode, and the facility of communication between them.

Acceptance.

A bill may be accepted, by subscribing the name, or only writing thereon the word, "accepted," or a promise to accept, written in a letter, or even a verbal acceptance will be sufficient. An acceptance after the day on which the money is to be paid, is binding.

Notice of non-acceptance.

If a bill is refused acceptance, notice of such refusal should be given to the drawer in a reasonable time, by the holder, otherwise the drawer will be discharged, if he had effects in the hands of the drawer, but not if he had no effects in his hands. A subsequent promise of payment, will however, in all cases, make a drawer or indorser liable, being a waiver of the objection for want of notice.

Where the holder of a bill intends to sue any of the indorsers, it is incumbent on him first to demand payment from the acceptor, and in case of refusal, to give due notice thereof, within a reasonable time, to the indorser. Notice of non-payment.

If the holder of a bill enter into a composition with the acceptor, he thereby discharges the indorser.

Receipt of part of the money from an acceptor, will discharge the drawer, if timely notice be given to him, that the bill is not duly paid. Receiving part payment. 1 Schw. N. P. 297 to 370.

Evidence.

In an action by the indorsee of a bill against the acceptor, it is not necessary for the plaintiff to prove the hand writing of the drawer, for when a bill is presented for acceptance, the acceptor is supposed to look at the hand writing of the drawer, and on that account he is precluded from disputing it afterwards. But the hand writing of the first indorser must be proved in such action. Proving handwriting.

In an action by the holder of a bill against the drawer, the acceptor is a competent witness to prove that the drawer had not any effects in his hands, and thereby to relieve the holder from the necessity of proving notice of dishonour. When Acceptor is a Witness.

In an action by the indorsee against the drawer, the payee and indorser is a competent witness to prove that the defendant had acknowledged his liability, and promised to pay the bill. Schw. N. P. 370-3. When Indorser is a Witness.

[NOTE. Although in all the foregoing rules and decisions, the word, "Bill," is used, they are to be understood fully to relate and apply to the instrument or paper, in this country usually called an "order," or, a "draft," which when it is for the payment of money only, and payable to any person, "or order," is in fact, and in law, an inland bill of exchange.]

3. Goods Sold and Delivered.

If goods are sold on a credit agreed upon, the price of them cannot be recovered in an action, until the time of credit has expired. Care must be taken to distinguish cases of this kind, from cases in which goods are sold, and a bill or order taken in payment, payable at a future day, but without any express agreement for time for the payment of the goods; in this last mentioned case, if the bill is refused acceptance, the debtor may be sued immediately for the price of the goods, without any regard being had to the time which Selling goods on a credit.

would elapse before the bill would become due, for there being no agreement as to time, the party takes the bill as payment, and therefore if it turn out to be good for nothing, the creditor has not received that which the other undertook to give him, and therefore he may sue the debtor immediately.

A debtor is not discharged by giving a check [or order] which produces nothing.

Delivering part of goods, under a contract.

Where a party agrees to deliver a certain quantity of any article, at a certain time, and delivers a part only before such time, he cannot immediately sue for such part, for the contract being entire, cannot be split, and therefore the party cannot sue and recover until the whole quantity is delivered, or until the time for delivering the whole has arrived.

Goods obtained by fraud.

A party can sue and recover as for goods sold and delivered, where his goods have been obtained by the defendant, by fraud.

Price of goods not named.

If a man deliver goods to another by his order, without expressly agreeing for the price, the seller shall recover for the real value of the goods. [The Justice must determine this value, if the parties cannot agree on it.]

Delivery of goods.

A delivery of goods to a third person, by order of the buyer, is a delivery to the buyer, and the buyer may be sued, as for goods sold and delivered to himself.

A delivery to a servant, who has been employed by his master to take up goods for him on credit, will make the master answerable for goods subsequently supplied, although he may have given his servant money for payment, which the servant neglected to pay. But if he has not been employed, in any instance, to buy on credit, and has always received money beforehand, to pay as he bought, the master will not be answerable.

A delivery also to a carrier appointed by the defendant, or if none has been appointed, according to the most usual and convenient mode, will entitle the plaintiff to recover, although there is no proof of the goods having come into the defendant's possession. 1 Selw. N. P. 73-4. 2 Phillips on Ev. 124.

Evidence.

In an action for goods delivered by the defendant's order to a third person, that person is not a competent witness to prove the credit given to the defendant.

If the plaintiff has proved a sale of goods to the defendant and another person, that person cannot be a witness to prove that the goods were sold to himself alone, and that the defendant was only concerned as his servant. A defendant will be allowed, in answer to the whole demand, or in abatement of it, to give evidence of the bad quality of the articles supplied, unless he has precluded himself from such a defence, by neglecting to give to the seller a reasonable notice of their inferiority ; and this evidence will be admitted, whether the goods have been sold at a stipulated price, or otherwise. 2 Phil. on Ev, 124-5.

Proving bad quality of goods.

A man's book of accounts is no evidence for him, though it may be against him ; for it cannot be better evidence than his own testimony, which cannot be admitted. 1 Espin. N. P., 142.

Book of Accounts.

4. Work and Services.

With respect to debts for work and labour, or other personal services, it is a rule, that however special the agreement was, yet if it was not under seal, and the terms of it have been performed on the plaintiff's part, and the remuneration was to be in money, the plaintiff may recover by suing in a general form for work and labour ; and in some cases, though the original agreement be not performed by the plaintiff, yet if the defendant has derived any benefit from the part performance, he may be sued in such general form, and be compelled to pay whatever sum such part performance is worth.

Special agreement.

It frequently happens that the work which is the subject of a contract, is enlarged, or some alterations are made in the plan, with the consent of the contracting parties ; the true principle with respect to such alterations appears to be, that the contract is to be used as the measure of payment, so far as it has been acted upon by the parties, and that all the work out of the contract, is to be paid for, according to the usual rate of charging ; in other words, the plaintiff is to be paid up to the extent of the estimate, according to the estimated prices ; and beyond the estimate, he is to be compensated to the amount which in justice he ought to receive. And if the plan specified in the contract, has been so entirely abandoned by the parties, that it is impossible to trace the contract, or to ascertain to what part of the work it can be applied, in such case the workman will be permitted to charge for the whole work, by measure and value, as if no contract had existed.

Work, varying from original agreement.

A master may sue a person who has enticed away or harboured his apprentice, for the work and labour of such apprentice.

Suing for work of an apprentice.

Work done for a third person.

A plaintiff may recover against a defendant, for work done for a third person, at the defendant's request, 1 Ch. on Pl. 88-303. 2 Phil. on Ev. 123.

Wages of a servant when discharged for misbehaviour, and when otherwise.

A master may discharge his servant at a moment's warning, for misconduct, (for instance, for being absent when wanted, sleeping from home at night without his master's leave, &c.) and in such case, the servant will only be entitled to such wages as are due at the time of his discharge. But if the servant has not been guilty of misconduct, and the master discharges him without warning, the servant, in that case, will be entitled to a month's wages beyond the wages due for the period of actual service. 2 Selv. N. P. 1064.

Servant refusing to obey orders.

If a servant hired for a year, wilfully refuse to obey his master's orders, the master is justified in dismissing him before the end of the year, and the servant cannot recover any wages for the time he has served. 5 Burn's, 160. Stark. N. P. 256.

In an action to recover for work and labour done, the defendant will be at liberty to prove the badness of the work, or that it was executed in such a manner as to be of no value to him, or not of the value charged. 2 Phill. on Ev. 125.

5. Money Paid and Expended.

WHERE a person has laid out his own money for the use of another, either with the express or implied consent of such other person, the law implies a promise of repayment, and it can be recovered as a debt, in an action.

Payment by a surety.

As where one person is surety for another, and compellable to pay the whole debt, and such surety is called upon and pays, it is money paid to the use of the principal debtor, and may be recovered against him in an action for money paid, even though the surety did not pay the debt by the desire of the principal.

So where two persons are sureties for another, and the obligee compels one of the sureties to pay the whole debt, such surety may maintain an action against his co-surety, and thereby compel him to contribute his proportion towards the payment of the debt. In such case, it does not appear to be necessary that the insolvency of the principal debtor should be proved.

But where one of the two sureties has been prevailed on to become a surety at the instance of the other, and such other has been compelled to pay the debt, he cannot oblige his co-surety to pay a contribution.

for the recovery of such sums as they, from their situation as bail, and in order to secure themselves, have been fairly and necessarily obliged to expend.

It is observable, that the mere circumstance of one person having received an advantage from the payment of money by another, is not sufficient to raise a ground of action against the former; the consent of the party, either express or implied, is essentially necessary to the support of an action to recover such money.

Consent of party, for whom money is paid.

An officer, guilty of a breach of duty, cannot recover money which he has paid in consequence of it, though for the benefit of the defendant.

If A., recover in an action founded on a trespass or wrong against B. and C., and levy the whole damages on B., B. cannot maintain an action against C., for a reimbursement of a moiety; for a contribution cannot be claimed as between joint wrong doers.

Contribution in the case of joint parties.

A different rule holds in the case of a joint judgment against several defendants, in an action on a promise. In such case, if one defendant has been compelled to pay the whole amount, or more than his proportion of the judgment, he may recover from the other defendant his proportionate part.

In the case of an illegal transaction, if one partner pay money for another, without an express authority, he cannot recover it back in an action against the other. 3 T. R., 418.

Illegal transaction.

6. Money had and received.

An action to recover money had and received to the use of, or belonging to the plaintiff, is founded on all the equitable circumstances of the case between the parties, and consequently, in order to recover in such action, the plaintiff must shew that he has equity and conscience on his side.

If I pay money to a person who claims an authority to receive it, but really has not any such authority, and afterwards I am compelled to pay it again to the person lawfully entitled to receive it, an action will lie against the person unjustly receiving the money, to recover it back.

Money unjustly received.

Where money, to which there was not any ground of claim in conscience, has been paid under a mistake, the party may recover it back again.

Money paid under mistake

ney again, if he afterwards find the receipt, still he cannot recover back the money, the payment of which was so wrongfully enforced, because it was recovered by process of law, and there must be an end of litigation.

Voluntary payment.

Where a party pays money to another voluntarily, with full knowledge, or full means of knowledge of all the facts of the case, the party so paying cannot recover it back again, on account of his ignorance of the law. But where a payment has been made, not with full knowledge of the facts, but only under a blind suspicion of the case, and it is found to have been paid unjustly, the party paying may recover it back again.

Money due in conscience.

Money due in point of honor or conscience, though a person is not compellable to pay it, yet if paid, shall not be recovered back.

No consideration.

Where money has been paid without consideration, or on a consideration which fails, an action will lie for the recovery of it.

Money obtained by compulsion.

If an undue advantage be taken of a person's situation, and money obtained from him by compulsion, such money may be recovered in an action.

Payment and no delivery, &c.

Where money is paid, and the thing contracted for not delivered, it is money had and received to the use of the party who paid it, and he may recover it back.

Agent.

It is a general rule, that in cases of payment to a known agent, the action for money had and received ought to be brought against the principal.

Payment on illegal transactions.

Where money has been paid by one of two parties to an illegal transaction, to a third person, for the use of the other party, an action will lie against such third person, by the party for whose use it was paid, to recover the money.

If A. agree to give B. money for doing an illegal act, B. cannot (although he do the act,) recover the money by an action, yet if the money be paid, A. cannot recover it back again.

7. Necessaries furnished,—Freight,—Awards,—and certain other grounds of Action.

[For necessaries furnished for the use of any person, such as meat, lodging, &c. by an inn-keeper, or any other, to a traveller, boarder, or other person,—medicines to a sick person,—wearing apparel, and in all other like cases, where parties are of full age and capable of contracting, actions may be brought before a Justice or Justices, the same as for the recovery of other debts, where the whole dealing or cause of

An infant, or person under twenty-one years may be sued and obliged to pay for necessaries furnished to him, such as necessary meat, drink, apparel, proper instruction, medicines, and the like. And even if goods, not necessaries, are delivered to such infant, and after full age he ratifies the contract by a promise to pay, he is bound.

Infant.

Necessaries for such infant's wife or child, are considered the same as necessaries for him.

If an infant is living under the roof of his parent, who provides every thing which in his judgment appears to be proper, the infant cannot bind himself to a stranger, even for such articles as might under other circumstances be deemed necessaries.

Goods supplied to an infant to trade with, cannot be recovered for, as necessaries. 1 Schw. N. P. 122-7.

While husband and wife are living together, the husband is liable to pay for necessaries, suitable to his degree and estate, furnished to his wife, and the misconduct or even adultery of the wife, during that period, will not discharge him from such liability. The law is the same where the husband deserts his wife, or turns her away without any reasonable ground, or compels her by ill usage or severity to leave him; in all which cases he gives the wife a general credit. And in such cases he will be liable, though he advertises her and cautions all persons not to trust her, or even if he give particular notice to individuals, not to give her credit.

Husband and Wife.

But if husband and wife are living together, and any particular person is warned not to give her credit, and such person afterwards furnish her with apparel, even of a suitable description, the husband is not liable to pay for it.

Also, if the wife elope from her husband, and live in adultery, the husband cannot be charged by her contracts.

So if a woman elopes from her husband, though she does not go away with an adulterer, or in an adulterous manner, any person trusts her at his peril, and the husband is not bound.

If a man cohabits with a woman to whom he is not married, and permits her to assume his name, and appear to the world as his wife, and in that character to contract debts for necessaries, he will be liable although the creditor knew of her real situation. 1 Schw. N. P. 270-8.

ed for it, by order of the master, though they were furnished without the knowledge of the owner, or without their being known to the persons who supplied them. Cowp. R. 636.

Medical attendance on a servant.

A master is not liable to pay for medical attendance on a servant who has met with an accident in his service, unless he has expressly undertaken and promised to do so. 2 Bos. & Pul. 247.

Freight.

For the freight of goods, the owner of the vessel may sue and recover, or the master may sustain an action for such freight in his own name, where the contract was in terms made with him.

The person who consigns goods may be primarily liable for the freight, but the consignee or purchaser, if he accepts the goods in pursuance of the usual bill of lading, may be sued for the freight, unless it be known to the master of the vessel, that he acted only as agent for the person who consigned the goods. 1 Ch. on P. 5, 37.

Arbitration and award.

A submission of all matters in difference between parties to the award of arbitrators, may be made without writing.

An award regularly made by an arbitrator to whom matters in difference are referred, is conclusive in an action at law, upon the parties to the reference, as to all the matters enquired into, within the submission.

In an action to recover a sum awarded, it will be necessary to prove both the submission and the execution of the award.

It is not necessary for the plaintiff to prove that the defendant had notice of the award, the fact of the making of the award, being as much within the knowledge of the one party as the other, unless it is expressly provided that the award should be notified to the parties, in which case the notice must appear to have been regularly given. Nor is proof of a demand of payment necessary, except where the payment is of a collateral sum, upon request. 2 Phill. on Ev. 111.

Other cases in which actions may be brought before Justices.

Actions may also be brought before Justices, to recover for money lent, and for the use or hire of goods, or personal property of any kind, for the pasturage or keeping of horses, or other cattle, and in various other instances, where the debt does not concern or relate to the title to land, and is not in the nature of damages arising from the non performance of any covenant or special agreement, but is of the nature of a simple debt. 8. Account stated.

WHERE a plaintiff sues to recover the balance of an account stated and settled between him and the defendant, he will not be obliged to give evidence of the several items constituting the account, but only that an account was stated. Proof of an acknowledgment by the defendant, of a debt due upon any account, or of an admission of a debt upon a single article, will be sufficient to enable the plaintiff to recover. On the other hand it will be open to the defendant to dispute the charges in the several items, for although an account stated, strictly speaking, is an agreement by both parties, that all the articles are true, and formerly this was held to be conclusive; yet a greater latitude has of late prevailed, in order to remedy the errors which may have crept into the account, in overcharging the items. 1 Selv. N. P. 71—2. Phill. on Ev. 128.

An infant, or person under twenty-one years, cannot bind himself by an account stated. 1 Selv. N. P. 129. Infant.

A party can only recover upon the ground of an account stated, when a certain and precise sum is admitted as due, and where a debt is actually in existence. 1 Chitt. on P. 308.

9. Statute of Fraud.

By the 32 G. 2, c. 18. 1 V. 25. No action shall be brought, whereby to charge the defendant upon any special promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriages of another person, or to charge any person upon any agreement that is not to be performed within the space of one year from the making thereof, unless the agreement upon which such action shall be brought, or some memorandum or note thereof, shall be in writing, and signed by the party to be charged therewith, or some other person thereunto by him lawfully authorised. Perpetual.

Where the question is, respecting the debt of another person, the true consideration is, whether the credit was originally given to the defendant alone, or whether the third person was liable as the debtor, and the defendant only guaranteed or became surety for the payment. The latter case is within the statute and void, the established rule being, that if the person, for whose use the goods are furnished, is liable at all, any other promise by a third person to pay that debt must be in writing; but in the former case, namely, where the debt is exclusively the debt of the defendant, a written memorandum will not be necessary. As for example, suppose a man comes with another into a shop to buy, and the shopkeeper should say, "I will not sell him the goods, unless you will undertake that he shall pay me for them," and the other promises to that effect, such a promise is within the Statute, and the party is not liable upon it; but if a party is originally liable to pay for the goods, as if he sends an order to another requesting him to deliver goods to J. S., and that he (the party sending the order) will pay him the amount here, the credit is given to such party alone, and not to I. S. and consequently such party is liable for the payment.

Verbal and
promise.

Where a plaintiff had delivered goods to one I. S., in consequence of a verbal promise by the defendant in these words, "I will pay you, if I. S. will not," (which undertaking was before the delivery of the goods,) and it appeared further, that I. S. had been entered as the debtor in the plaintiff's books, the Court were of opinion that the case was clearly within the Statute, and the defendant was not liable upon such promise, for the credit in the first instance was given to J. S.

There is no distinction between a promise to pay for goods furnished for the use of another, made before they are delivered, and one made after. In both cases, if the credit is in any degree given to him, or he is at all liable, any promise, not in writing, made by a third person, relative to payment, is within the Statute, and such person is not liable on it.

A promise in these words, "If you do not know him you know me, and I will see you paid," not being in writing, is void by the Statute, and the party cannot be made liable to payment.

Also this promise, "you must supply my mother in law with bread, and I will see you paid," is not binding, but void by the Statute.

Promise on forbearance to sue.

A promise to pay money due from J. S., in consideration that the plaintiff would not sue J. S. for the debt, or that he would stay the suit if already commenced against him, is clearly within the Statute, and cannot be made the subject of an action, without proof of a written promise to that effect. So a promise to pay damages which the plaintiff had sustained from an injury done to his horse, by a third person, in consideration that the plaintiff would not sue that

But if the plaintiff were to commence a suit against I. S. not for the recovery of a debt, but for some other cause, (as for an assault, &c.) and the defendant in consideration that the plaintiff would discontinue his suit, promise to pay a sum of money, together with the plaintiff's costs, this would not be a void promise, but the party could be compelled to make the payment, for this is not a promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of J. S. within the meaning of the Statute; for the cause not being tried, J. S. does not appear to have been guilty of any default, or miscarriage, or to be liable to the particular debt, damage, or costs.

Promise on condition to discontinue a suit.

A verbal promise by the defendant, to pay the plaintiff for his having provided necessaries for a third person, will be binding, where the defendant was under a legal obligation to provide them, as where a medical man was called in to attend upon a pauper, without the previous request of the overseers, and one of them, afterwards, verbally promised payment, he was held liable; for the overseers were under a legal obligation to provide such relief for the pauper. But if a party is not under any such obligation of law, he will not be bound by any such promise, unless it is in writing.

Promise, when under a legal obligation.

In order to make a party liable upon any promise to answer for another, even where it is in writing, there must be a good consideration for such promise. 2 Selw. N. P., 803 to 817. 2 T. R., 80. 2 Phill. on Ev. 72-6.

Consideration of promise.

The clause of the Statute relating to agreements not to be performed within a year, applies to those cases only, where by the express agreement between the parties the thing is not to be performed, that is, completed within the period of a year. Cases depending upon contingencies, which may or may not happen in the course of a year from the time of making the agreement, are not within the Statute, and consequently, in a case of that kind a party may be liable on his promise. 2 Phill. on Ev. 79.

Agreements not to be performed within a year.

In here closing this division relating to the grounds of the plaintiff's action, it may be well to observe, that in general, at the least, the several beforementioned legal objections or defences to such actions, such as,—the improper or non-joinder of parties,—the statute of limitations,—infancy,—the statute of frauds relating to promises, and other like objections, are to be made or brought forward in the first instance, by or on behalf of the defendant, and that it does not seem to be the duty of the Justices to state and give effect to any such legal objection or defence, where a defendant does not bring it forward or deny the debt, but admits it to be due. The same observation will, in general, equally apply to similar legal objections to the set-off, or other defence of the defendant.

VI. THE DEFENDANT'S SET OFF.

By the general Act "for the Summary Trial of Actions," already set forth, it is provided, that, the Justices "shall allow the defendant to produce his account or other matter in nature of a set-off against the plaintiff, or any receipt or other discharge for payment made, either in whole or in part, then existing between the parties, and shall enquire into the merits of both claims, &c.

Mutual debts.

And by the 3 W. 4, c. 58. 4 V. 236. "Where there are mutual debts between the plaintiff and defendant, in any action commenced in any Court, or before any Justice of the Peace, or if either party sue or be sued as executor or administrator, where there are mutual debts between the testator or intestate, and either party, one debt may be set against the other, and such matter may be given in evidence upon the general issue, or pleaded in bar, as the nature of the case shall require, so as at the time of pleading the general issue, notice be given of the particular sum intended to be set off, and on what account it became due.

Sec. 2. Mutual debts may be set against each other and given in evidence, although they are deemed in law to be of a different nature, unless in cases where either of such debts accrues by reason of a penalty contained in any bond or specialty, in all which cases the debt intended to be set off shall be pleaded, in which plea shall be shown how much is justly due on either side; and in case the plaintiff shall recover in any such action, judgment shall be entered for no more than shall appear to be justly due to him, after one debt being set against another as aforesaid."

Sec. 3. If upon trial of the issue between the parties, before any Court, or Justice of the Peace, the said Court, or the Jury, or such Justice of the Peace, shall not assess damage to the plaintiff, beyond the debt or sum which shall have been so pleaded, or of which notice of set-off shall have been given as aforesaid, then the plaintiff shall have no costs, but shall pay costs to the defendant, to be taxed as in other cases; and if upon such trial, it shall appear that the sum due by the plaintiff to the defendant, exceeds the sum due by the defendant to the plaintiff, judgment shall be given for the defendant, for such sum as the plaintiff shall be found to be

This Statute has never been repealed, but probably as regards trials before Justices, it may be considered to be virtually annulled or superseded by the general Act of the 5 Vic. Sess. 1842, already set forth.

Notwithstanding this Statute, the debts sued for, and the debts intended to be set off, must be mutual, and due in the same right. Hence, a joint debt cannot be set against a separate demand, nor a separate debt against a joint demand, but a debt due to the defendant as surviving partner, may be set against a demand on defendant in his own right.

A debt barred by the Statute of Limitations cannot be set off, and if it be given in evidence on a trial, it may be objected to by the plaintiff, on that ground. 1 Seto. N. P. 149.

VII. OF JUDGMENTS, AND THE PROCEEDINGS ATTENDING AND FOLLOWING THE SAME, AND HEREIN,—OF APPEALS.

ALL the evidence adduced in the action being closed, and the Justice having duly considered the case, should openly declare his judgment, so that both parties may be apprised of it. He should then tax and allow the costs, and inform the party against whom judgment is given, (if he is present,) of the whole amount of the debt and costs to be paid by him. It has already been seen by the Statutes relating to mutual debts, set forth under the preceding division, that in cases where the whole amount of the set off produced, shall not exceed the amount over which the Justice or Justices have jurisdiction, if it shall appear that there is a balance due to the defendant, judgment for the same, with costs, may be given in his favour, in the same manner as if he had brought an action to recover it. The Justice should, in every case, file and preserve as a record, the original writ returned to him, and mark thereon the respective sums of debt and costs for which judgment has been given, and also the date of the judgment.

If the judgment is in favour of the defendant, the only costs to be taxed and allowed for him, are, the one shilling for the judgment, and as regards the witnesses on his part, and the other fees specified in the table. The fees for the writ, and to the constable for service, must be paid by the plaintiff, and are not to be made any part of the defendant's judgment, as he has nothing to do with the payment of these fees.

For the additional fees, where there is a Jury, see the general Act, under Division I.

Appeal.

It has been already observed, that if either party desires an appeal, the proper time to make it, is, on the giving of the judgment, but as nothing on this point is mentioned or intimated in the Act, it would seem that a party may make such appeal at any future period. There can be no appeal, however, unless the debt or cause of action amounts to twenty shillings or upwards.

What goods shall be taken on an execution.

It is proper to recite here, certain enactments relating to the levying of writs of execution.

By the 57 G. 3, c. 25. 3 V. 21. It shall not be lawful for the sheriff or his deputy, or coroner or other officer, to attach or take upon any writ of mesne process, or execution, the necessary wearing apparel or bedding of any person or persons, or of their children, against whom such writ shall be issued, nor the tools or implements of his trade, of any mechanic, necessary for his, and ordinarily used by such mechanic in his trade and business; nor the cow of any person, unless he or she shall have more than one, in which case it shall be lawful to attach or take all over and above one. Perpetual.

By the 4 & 5 G. 4, c. 7. 3 V. 182. It shall not be lawful to take under and by virtue of any writ of attachment, execution or other process, (except for rent,) the grain, hay, potatoes, or other article growing in the ground, before the same shall be severed from the ground. Temporary.

The Statute and proceedings relative to the examination and discharge of insolvent debtors, confined on writs of execution issued by Justices of the Peace, will be found under the Title,—Insolvent Debtors.

SUMMONS.

Where a summons is proper.

IN all legal proceedings the person complained of ought to have notice of the charge laid against him, and to have an opportunity of being heard in his own defence. Consequently, where a person is accused before the Justices, they ought to summon him to appear, or issue their warrant to bring him before them. The manner of conveying the parties is sometimes directed by the Statutes creating the respective offences, which therefore ought to be pursued accordingly. In other cases, where it is left discretionary in the Justices, it seems most agreeable to the mildness of our laws, to put the party to no more inconvenience than the occasion makes unavoidable; and therefore, where the case will bear it, a summons seems more apposite than a compulsory process. But in cases of sureties of the peace, petty larcenies, and other felonies, and generally, where the King is party, and also in cases between party and party, where the body of the offender is liable, a warrant is the regular process, and not a summons.

In the summons it is usual, and upon many accounts convenient, to fix not only a day, but a particular time of the day, for the appearance of the party; but if he shall appear at the time, and the Justice shall not attend, he is not to go away, but must wait during the remaining part of the day, for many things may happen to hinder the immediate attendance of the Justice.

Person summoned must wait.

It has been made a question in some cases, whether the service of the summons must be personal. It seems in general necessary that it should be so, unless where personal service is expressly dispensed with by the Statute. The provisions, specially introduced into many Acts of Parliament, to make a service at the dwelling house sufficient, seem to justify the inference that the law in other cases is understood to require a service upon the person. 5 Burn's, 282.

Service of summons.

[NOTE. In the case of Summary Trials before Justices for the recovery of debts, by the terms of the general Statute on the subject, a personal service on the defendant is requisite.]

As a general rule, the summons should be served at least three days before the day for the appearance of the party. In summary cases before Justices, for the recovery of debts, the process, as has been seen, must be served at least five days before the return thereof.

SURETY FOR THE PEACE AND GOOD BEHAVIOUR.

SURETY for the peace, is the acknowledging of a recognisance or bond to the King, taken by a competent judge of record, for keeping the peace. And this surety, every Justice of the Peace may take and command as a Judge, and by virtue of his office, derived from his commission. 5 Burn's, 283.

On this subject will here be shewn,—

- I. FOR WHAT CAUSE SURETY OF THE PEACE SHALL BE GRANTED.
 - II. AT WHOSE REQUEST, AND AGAINST WHOM IT SHALL BE GRANTED.
 - III. IN WHAT MANNER IT SHALL BE GRANTED.
 - IV. HOW THE PEACE WARRANT SHALL BE EXECUTED.
 - V. OF THE RECOGNISANCE FOR THE PEACE.
- I. FOR WHAT CAUSE SURETY OF THE PEACE SHALL BE GRANTED.

By the commission of the Peace, Justices of the Peace have power to “cause to come before them, or any one of them, all those who to any of the King’s people, concerning their bodies, or the firing of their houses, have used threats, to find sufficient security for the peace, or their good beha-

Upon which it has been observed, that it seems clear, that wherever a person has just cause to fear that another will burn his house, or do him a corporal hurt, as by killing or beating him, or that he will procure others to do him such mischief, he may demand the surety of the peace against such person, and that every Justice of the Peace is bound to grant it, upon the party's giving him satisfaction upon oath, that he is actually under such fear, and that he has just cause to be so, by reason of the others having threatened to beat him, or laid in wait for that purpose; and that he doth not require it out of malice, or for vexation.

Fear of corporal hurt, or burning house.

It seems also the better opinion, that he who is threatened to be imprisoned by another, has a right to demand the surety of the peace, for every unlawful imprisonment is an assault and wrong to the person of a man.

Threat of imprisonment.

And although the fact from which the fear arises be pardoned, the Court will receive it as a ground upon which to grant the security.

But if the Justice shall perceive that surety is demanded merely of malice, or for vexation only, without any just cause or fear, it seems he may safely deny it.

Demanded through malice or vexation.

Also, if a man will require surety of the peace, because he is at variance or in suit with his neighbour, it shall not be granted.

Also, it is said to be somewhat clear, that a Justice may not, by the Commission, award a precept of the peace in behalf of a man, because he fears another will do harm to his servants, or cattle, or other goods.

Fear of harm to servants or cattle, &c.

The reason why a man may not have sureties of the peace against another, for that he fears he will do harm to his servants, seems to be, because it should be the servant's fear in such case, and not the master's; and the servant's own oath before the Justice is necessary. And as to his goods, it seems clear that no sureties of the peace ought to be granted in that case; for the recognisance of the peace when taken, is only, that the party shall keep the peace towards the King and all his liege people.

But Mr. Dalton says, that if a man shall threaten to hurt another's wife or child, he thinks such person may crave sureties of the peace, by the words of the commission, and that the Justice ought to grant it.

Threats of hurt to a wife or child.

Note also, the surety of the peace shall not be granted but where there is a fear of some present or future damages,

Must be a fear of present or future danger.

and not merely for a battery or trespass that is past, or for any breach of the peace that is past; for this surety of the peace is only for the security of such as are in fear; but the party wronged may punish the offender by indictment, and the Justice, if he see cause, may bind over the affrayer to answer unto the indictment. 5 Burn's, 284-5.

Other cases for requiring surety.

A Justice may also bind to the good behaviour, rioters, common breakers of the peace,—such as in the presence and hearing of the Justice may behave themselves in some outrageous manner of force or fraud, or such as abuse a Justice or Constable in executing their offices, or use words of contempt to a Justice, at any time. Id. 300.

II. AT WHOSE REQUEST, AND AGAINST WHOM, IT SHALL BE GRANTED.

Who may demand sureties

It seems to be agreed, that all persons whatsoever under the King's protection, being of sane memory, whether they be natural and good subjects, or aliens, or attainted of treason, &c. have a right to demand surety of the peace. And it is certain a wife may demand it against her husband, threatening to beat her outrageously, and that a husband also may have it against his wife. Upon which it is observed, that if the wife in such case cannot find sureties, she shall be committed, and so a man may get rid of a shrew.

Infant under 14 years.

An infant under the age of fourteen years may demand this surety, and it shall be granted to him.

Insane person

But as to a person of insane memory, this surety shall neither be granted against him nor to him, upon his own request; but yet if there shall be cause the Justice ought to provide for his safety.

Against whom sureties shall be granted.

There seems to be no doubt, but that surety of the peace ought, upon a just cause of complaint, be granted by any Justice of the Peace, against any person whomsoever under the degree of nobility, being of sane memory, whether he be a magistrate, or private person, and whether he be of full age, or under age. But persons under the age of twenty one years, and married women, ought to find security by their friends, and not be bound themselves. It is said, the fear of one cannot be the fear of another, and therefore every recognisance must be separate. 5 Burn's, 285-6.

III. IN WHAT MANNER IT SHALL BE GRANTED.

before the Justice and when he is absent.

A Justice cannot enjoin another to keep the peace under a penalty. Nor commit for not finding security, until the party has been required and refused so to do.

Cannot be enjoined under a penalty.

The articles of the peace must be verified by the oath of the exhibitant, an affirmation therefore is not sufficient.

Oath requisite

Affidavits shall not be received on the part of the defendant, to prevent his giving surety.

The Justice may make the warrant to bring the party before himself, or some other Justice, or he may make it to bring the party before himself only.

Warrant to bring up the party.

It is said, that if one who fears that the surety of the peace will be demanded against him, find sureties before any Justice of the same county, either before or after a warrant is issued against him, he may have a supersedeas from such Justice, which shall discharge him from arrest from any other Justice, at the suit of the same party for whose security he has given such surety. 5 Burn's, 286-8.

Supersedeas by finding Sureties before arrest.

IV. HOW THE PEACE WARRANT SHALL BE EXECUTED.

It can be executed only by the persons to whom it is directed, or some of them, unless it be directed to the Sheriff, who may either by parole, or by precept in writing, authorise an officer sworn and known, to serve it, but cannot empower any other person, without a precept in writing.

Who shall execute it.

Where a person authorised to arrest another, who is sheltered in a house, is denied quietly to enter it, in order to take him, it seems generally to be agreed, that he may justify breaking open the doors, upon a warrant from a Justice of the Peace, to compel a man to find sureties for the peace or good behaviour.

Breaking open doors to arrest.

But no one can justify breaking open another's doors to make an arrest, unless he first signify to those in the house, the cause of his coming, and request them to give him admittance.

If the warrant specially direct, that the party shall be brought before the Justice who made it, the officer ought not to carry him before any other; but if the warrant be general, to carry him before any Justice of such place, the officer has the election to bring him before what Justice he pleases.

Before whom the party shall be carried.

Supersedens on surety being given.

And if the party be carried before another Justice, and not before him who issued the warrant, such other Justice must take the surety, and bind him by recognisance in all points as the form of the precept doth require: and thereupon, such other Justice, having so taken surety of the peace, may and ought upon request to make his supersedens to all officers, and to all other Justices of the same county: and thereby the said party shall be discharged from finding other surety, and from any other arrest from the same cause; but by such supersedens, the other Justice cannot discharge the warrant of the first Justice, until the party be bound indeed; nor give any other day to the party to appear.

Commitment
on refusal to find sureties.

It is the best way, and now the usual practice, to direct the constable, in the first instance, to take the party before the Justice, who in case of refusal or neglect to find sureties, commits him to prison.

Insufficient sureties.

If the Justice was deceived in the sufficiency of the sureties, he, or any other Justice, may afterwards compel the party to find and put in other sufficient sureties, and may take a new recognisance for the same.

Death of sureties.

If the sureties die, the party principal shall not be compelled to find new sureties, because their executors and administrators are liable.

Binding anew on breach of recognisance.

But if a man that was bound to keep the peace, hath broken his bond, the Justices ought, of discretion, to bind him anew. But not until he be thereof convicted by due course of law, for, before conviction, he stands indifferent whether he hath forfeited his recognisance or not. 5 Burn's, 288-9.

V. OF THE RECOGNISANCE FOR THE PEACE.

Form and force of recog-nisance.

As to the form of such a Recognisance, where it is taken before a Justice upon a complaint below, it seems that it may be regulated by the discretion of such Justice, both as to the number and sufficiency of the sureties, and the largeness of the sum, and the continuance of the time for which the party shall be bound. And it hath been said, that a recognisance to keep the peace as to any person, for a year, or for life, or without expressing any certain time, (in which case it shall be intended for life,) or without fixing any time or place for the party's appearance, or without binding him to keep the peace against all the King's people in general, is good.

However it seems to be the safest way, to bind the party to appear at the next Sessions of the peace, and in the mean time to keep the peace as to the King and all his liege people, especially as to the party, according to the common form of precedents.

But in a recent case, it has been determined by the Court of King's Bench, that a Justice of the Peace is authorised to require surety of the peace for a limited period, (e. g. two years,) according to his discretion, and that he need not bind the party over to the next Sessions only.

For what time binding shall be.

But if a recognisance to appear at the Sessions be taken, and an order of Court for finding sureties applied for, articles of the peace must be exhibited.

The act that shall cause a forfeiture of such recognisance must be done, or intended unto the person, as is aforesaid, or in terror of the people. Therefore, to enter into lands where he ought to bring his action, or to disseise another of his lands, or to enter into lands or tenements with force, being without offer of violence to any man's person, and without public terror, or to do a trespass in another man's corn or grass, or to take away another man's goods wrongfully, so it be not from his person, or to steal another man's horse or other goods, feloniously, being not from his person; all these, and the like, are breaches of the peace, and yet these will make no breach of this Recognisance, nor breach of the peace, within the meaning of the commission of the peace.

Forfeiting recognisance.

But the Recognisance is forfeited if the party make default of appearance, and the same default shall be recorded.

However, if the party have any excuse for his not appearing, it seems that the Sessions are not bound peremptorily to record his default, but may equitably consider of the reasonableness of such excuse.

Excuse for not appearing at Sessions.

There is no doubt but that it may be forfeited, by any actual violence to the person of another, whether it be done by the party himself, or by others through his procurement, as manslaughter, rape, robbery, unlawful imprisonment, and the like.

Forfeiture by violence.

Also, it has been holden, that it may be forfeited by any unlawful assembly in terrorem populi, and even by word directly tending to a breach of the peace, as by challenging one to fight, or in his presence threatening to beat him.

Unlawful assembly, threats, &c.

Otherwise it is, if the party be absent, and yet if the party, so bound, shall threaten to kill or beat a person who is absent, and after shall lie in wait for him, to kill or beat him, this is a forfeiture of the Recognisance.

Cases where actual assault is no forfeiture.

Also, there are some actual assaults on the person of another, which do not amount to a forfeiture of such recognisance, as if an officer, having a warrant against one who will not suffer himself to be arrested, beat or wound him in the attempt to take him; or if a parent in a reasonable manner chastise his child; or a master his servant, being actually in his service at the time; or a schoolmaster his scholar; or a gaoler his prisoner; or if a man beat one who makes an assault upon his person; or that of his wife, parent, child, or master; or if a man fight with, or beat one who attempts to kill any stranger; or if one imprison those whom he sees fighting, till the heat is over, and many other like cases.

Discharging recognisance.

He who is bound to the peace and to appear at a certain day, must appear at that day and record his appearance although he who craves the peace comes not to desire that it may be continued; otherwise the recognisance cannot be discharged.

The non-appearance of the party at whose complaint the recognisance was taken, in order to pray the continuance of it will be a good inducement to the Court to which such a recognisance shall be certified, to discharge it, and yet it is said, that the Sessions in that case may in their discretion refuse to discharge it.

Continuing recognisance.

If a man be bound to keep the peace towards the King and all his people, and especially towards a certain person, there, though such person comes not to desire that the peace may be continued, yet the Court by their discretion may bind him over till the next Sessions, and that may be, to keep the peace towards that person only, if they shall think good; for it may be that the person who first craved the peace, is sick or otherwise hindered, so that he cannot come to that Sessions to demand the continuance of the peace for a longer time.

Party demanding sureties dying.

Likewise, if the party be imprisoned for default of sureties, and afterwards he that demanded the peace against him happen to die, it seems the Justice may make his Liberate or Warrant for the delivery of such prisoner, for after such death there seems no cause to continue the other in prison. Also, any Justice may, upon the offer of such prisoner, take surety of him for the peace, and may thereupon deliver him. 5 Burn's, 289 to 293.

THE greater part of the regulations concerning taverns, contained in our Statutes, relate, and apply equally, to all shops and other places where spirituous liquors are sold under licenses. It is therefore thought most appropriate as well as convenient, to set forth all such regulations under the general Title,—Spirituous Liquors. Moreover, it being highly desirable to keep this work within the most moderate compass, consistent with all requisite information and assistance to Magistrates, all needless recitals and repetitions will, by this arrangement, be avoided. Reference therefore, when required, can be had to the general title just mentioned, and under it will be found the several enactments relating to the granting and suspending of licenses to keep taverns, hanging out signs, preserving order in taverns, prohibiting the sale of liquors therein, to servants and certain other persons, against selling spirituous liquors on credit, taking pledges for payment of the same, and various other regulations concerning taverns, together with the requisite Forms and directions as to the recovery of penalties. The present title includes only such regulations, contained in our Statutes, as relate, either exclusively or more particularly to taverns, together with certain other matters, concerning inns and taverns in general, which it will be useful for every Magistrate to know.

- I. CERTAIN REGULATIONS CONCERNING TAVERNS: BY SEVERAL STATUTES.
- II. OTHER MATTERS RELATING TO INNS AND TAVERNS, IN GENERAL.

1. CERTAIN REGULATIONS CONCERNING TAVERNS; BY SEVERAL STATUTES.

By the Statute of the 2 W. 4, c. 3, Sec. 22. 4 V. 116. The Justices in Sessions shall not grant a tavern license to any person, (except in the town of Halifax,) unless he, she, or they shall keep a house of public entertainment for travellers; and every person obtaining such tavern license, shall cause a sign to be set up, over or near the door of such tavern, with his or her name thereon, and a plain inscription, setting forth that entertainment may be had there for man and horse; and shall also keep and have in his or her house, two good beds, over and above what may be required for the lodging of his or her family and servants; and shall also be provided with good and wholesome victuals and drink for the accommodation of travellers, and with stables, hay, and provender for horses; in default whereof, it shall be lawful for the Justices in Sessions, on complaint thereof by one or more witnesses upon oath, to take away such licenses as forfeit.

Selling goods in taverns.

Sec. 26. It shall not be lawful for any tavern keeper, or person holding a tavern license, within this Province, unless such person also holds a general license, hereafter to sell, vend, or expose to sale in or about his or her tavern, any goods, wares, or merchandize whatsoever, other than the victuals or drink necessary to be used and consumed, and which are usually used and consumed in taverns; nor shall it be lawful for such tavern keeper, or person holding a tavern license, to suffer the same to be done; and any person or persons offending against the provisions contained in this clause, shall forfeit and pay the penalty of twenty pounds for each and every offence, to be recovered and applied in the manner herein mentioned. Perpetual.

[NOTE. This penalty is to be recovered before two Justices, in the same manner, and by the like proceedings as in the case of selling spirituous liquors without a license, as to which proceedings, with the requisite Forms, see Title—Spirituos Liquors.]

By Sec. 5 of the Act of the 7 W, 4, c. 15, Sess. 1837,—No Justice of the Peace, (except in the town of Halifax,) shall be allowed or considered eligible to hold or take out any tavern license for the retail of ardent spirits.

II. OTHER MATTERS RELATING TO INNS AND TAVERNS IN GENERAL.

Innkeepers bound to receive guests and may be prosecuted for refusing

INNKEEPERS are bound by law to receive guests who come to their Inns, and are also bound to protect the property of those guests. They have no option either to receive or reject guests; and as they cannot refuse to receive guests, so neither can they impose unreasonable terms on them.

Inns being intended for the receiving and lodging of travellers, may be indicted, suppressed, and the innkeepers fined, if they refuse to entertain a traveller, without a very sufficient cause.

If one who keeps a common inn, refuse either to receive a traveller, as a guest, into his house, or to find him victuals or lodging, upon his tendering him a reasonable price for the same, he is not only liable to render damages for the injury, in an action at the suit of the party grieved, but may also be indicted and fined at the suit of the king.

An innkeeper may also be compelled to receive a horse, although the owner do not lodge in his house; because by keeping the horse he has gain; but it would be otherwise of a trunk, or other dead thing. 1 Burn's, 51.

An innkeeper may detain the person of the guest who eats, or the horse which eats, till payment. And this he may do without any agreement for that purpose. Detaining person or goods for diet.

But an horse committed to an innkeeper, may be detained only for his own meat, and not for the meat of the guest or of any other horse.

An innkeeper may detain for his keep, a horse left with him to be kept, though the person who left him had no right to him, and though such person did not stay in the inn; for leaving his horse at an inn, makes a man a guest there.

Also a horse committed to an innkeeper to be kept, and put by him to pasture, may be detained for the pasturage. Detaining for pasturage.

An innkeeper that detains a horse for his meat, cannot use him.

The law obliges an innkeeper to keep safely, the goods of persons coming to his inn, as guests. And although the guest doth not deliver his goods to the innkeeper to keep, nor acquaints him with them, yet if they be stolen, the innkeeper shall be charged. 5 Burn's, 55 to 57. Liability of innkeeper for goods of guest

A guest removing in the night, goods out of his chamber in an inn, and carrying them to the stable, intending to ride off with them, is guilty of felony. Id. 59.

Supervisors of public grounds.

The 4 W. 4, c. 12. 4 V. 263, directs, That the General Sessions shall appoint Supervisors of public grounds in every township, for which see Title,—Public Grounds.

Assessors and collectors of rates.

Assessors and collectors of county rates are appointed under the 5 W. 4, c. 13. 4 V. 385, and regulations respecting the said offices, and the manner of recovering the penalties relating to the same, are therein prescribed, for all which, see Title,—Rates.

Directions.

The penalties imposed by the two Statutes first mentioned under this Title, for refusing to accept office, or neglect of duty therein, are to be recovered in the same manner as other penalties of the like nature, on the information of any person who will prosecute for the same. The party complained of must be summoned in the usual manner, to appear and answer, and on conviction, a warrant of distress is the only final process which can be issued. Directions as to such prosecutions, with the general Forms requisite, which can readily be filled up so as to serve, will be found under the respective Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction, Distress.

With regard to the penalty in the Statute relating to the measurers of grain, and certain other articles, and the inspectors of bricks, the proceedings and Forms, in prosecutions for the recovery thereof, will also be the same as in similar cases, until after conviction. As no final process, either of Distress, Commitment, or other description, is directed or alluded to in the Act, no final process of any kind can be issued by the Justices for levying or enforcing the penalty for the same; for reasons which have already been given under several Titles of this work, with reference to other cases of similar omission. As to the term or terms of the General Sessions in which town officers may be nominated and appointed, see Division 1, under Title,—Sessions, and the Statute there cited.

Raising money to defray expense of running lines of townships.

Sec. 2. "All appeals from the rate so to be made shall be heard and determined in the same manner as appeals from the poor rate are heard and determined."

This Statute is made perpetual by the 1 & 2 G. 4, c. 9. 3 V. 104.

The proceedings and Forms for recovering the penalty Directions imposed by the Statute first mentioned under this Title, will be the same as in similar cases, until after conviction, and are set forth under the respective Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction. As no final process for enforcing payment of the penalty, is mentioned in the Act, no such process can be issued by the Justices.

TREASON.

By the Statute of the 32 G. 2, c. 13. 1 V. 15. It is enacted, "That if any person or persons shall compass or imagine the death of the King, or shall levy war against him, or adhere to his enemies, or give them aid or comfort, or shall forge or counterfeit the King's money, being gold or silver coin of England, or of Great Britain, or shall counterfeit the King's Great Seal, or Privy Seal, or the Seal of this Province; and shall thereof be duly convicted, the person or persons so offending are hereby declared, and shall be adjudged to be traitors, and shall suffer as in cases of high treason; and that all treasons declared by the Acts of Parliament of England, or of Great Britain, shall be deemed and adjudged to be treason within this His Majesty's Province, and none other; and that such Acts of Parliament as direct the proceedings and evidence against trials of such traitors, shall have their full force and effect, and be observed as the rule in all trials for treason in this Province." Perpetual.

[By the 5 Vic. c. 20, Sess. 1842. Counterfeiting any of the seals, mentioned in the foregoing clause, is reduced to a felony, and to be punished by imprisonment and by 5 Vic. c. 21, Sess. 1842. Counterfeiting any coin is to be punished in like manner.]

How a Justice shall proceed on a charge of treason.

Notwithstanding that treason, and mis-prision of treason, are not within the letter of the Commission of the Peace, yet inasmuch as they are against the peace of the King, and of the realm, any Justice of the Peace may, either upon his own knowledge, or the complaint of others, cause any person to be apprehended for any such offence. And such Justice may take the examination of the person so apprehended, and the information of all those who can give any material evidence against him, and put the same in writing, and also bind over such who are able to give any such evidence, to the Court of gaol delivery; and certify his proceedings to such Court. He must also commit the prisoner to gaol, for Justices of the peace cannot, by any means, let bail, in a case of treason.

Bare words do not amount to treason.

It seems to be clearly agreed at this day, that bare words spoken, do not amount to treason, but are only a high misdemeanor.

No accessories in treason but all are principals.

In high treason there are no accessories, but all are principals; and therefore, whatsoever act or consent will make a man accessory to a felony before the Act done, the same will make him a principal in case of high treason. 5

Burn's, 481-3.

Mis-prision of treason, in legal understanding signifies when one, knowing of any treason, though no party or consenter to it, yet conceals it, and doth not reveal it in convenient time. Id. 487.

NOTE. The proceedings by and before Justices, on an information of any treason, will be similar to those in cases of capital felonies, and for which, see, respectively, Titles,—Information, Warrant, Examination, Commitment.

- III. REGULATIONS CONCERNING CATTLE GOING AT LARGE.

I. REGULATIONS CONCERNING FENCES, AND OF THE RECOVERY OF DAMAGES FOR TRESPASSES BY CATTLE.

What fences shall be lawful.

By the Statute of the 3 G. 4, c. 32. 3 V. 136. "All fences belonging to any inclosed lands shall be built or made with stones, pickets, boards, logs, poles, brush, or posts and rails, unless the lands are bounded by ponds, unfordable rivers, or the sea, or surrounded by good and sufficient hedges; and such fences and hedges shall be at least four feet and a half high, except on the peninsula of Halifax, where four feet in height shall be adjudged a legal fence under this Act; and if any damage be done by breaking such inclosures and destroying any of the product thereof, by horses, sheep, hogs, and neat cattle, if such enclosures shall at the time of such damage be enclosed by a good and sufficient fence agreeably to this law, in the judgment of the fence viewer who is hereby appointed to view the same, the owner of such cattle so trespassing shall pay to the party injured the value of all such damages, to be ascertained on an appraisement thereof by three credible persons living in the neighbourhood, being first sworn before one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Peace in the county where such lands lie, truly to value the same; and in case the owner of the said cattle or hogs shall refuse to pay the value of such appraisement, upon notice thereof given to him, the injured party may have and maintain his action therefor, before any one or more Justices, or before the Inferior Court of Common Pleas, according to the value of such damage."

Provided always, that no fence viewer shall be allowed more than three shillings per day, in his account, for his own trouble and time expended therein. And if any fence viewer, when notified, shall neglect his duty herein, he shall forfeit forty shillings for every offence.

[By the 9 G. 4, c. 12. 4 V. 29. The fence viewer may build or repair the fence, after three days notice, instead of ten days mentioned in this clause.]

Sec. 3. Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to compel any owner or proprietor of any wood, barren, or burnt land, and not under improvement, to make any part of the fence against or on the said wood, barren, or burnt land, any law or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

Fence need not be kept on wood, barren, or burnt land.

Sec. 15. Such rivers, creeks, bays, harbours, and inlets of the sea only shall be deemed sufficient and lawful fences, as in the judgment of the fence viewers of the township or place where such lands lie, shall be sufficiently deep and inaccessible to prevent the passing of cattle. Temporary.

What rivers, &c., shall be considered a sufficient fence.

In amendment of this last clause, and also of the preceding regulations relating to damage done by cattle breaking into enclosures, the Statute of the 6 W. 4, c. 40. 4 V. 46, enacts, "That if any person or persons shall feel aggrieved with the judgment given by the fence viewers, under the fifteenth clause of the said Act hereby amended, or shall desire to obtain the judgment and decision of the Court of General Sessions, instead of the fence viewers, then, and in either of such cases, it shall be lawful for such person or persons to make application to the General Sessions of the peace, in and for the county or district wherein such fence viewers may have authority, and hereupon, it shall be lawful for the said General Sessions to enquire into the subject matter of such application, and upon hearing the parties interested, and examination of witnesses, to make such order and judgment, in respect to such application, as may be deemed by the said Court to be just, and reasonable; and the order and judgment of the said Court shall be binding and conclusive upon all fence viewers, and other parties interested or concerned.

When owner of cattle shall be liable for damage done by them, although part of a fence is defective.

Sec. 2. In every case where any damage shall be done to the enclosed lands of any person or persons, by any horse, cattle, sheep, or swine, breaking through the fences enclosing such lands, the owner or owners of the horse, cattle, sheep, or swine, shall be liable for the damage so done, under the said Act hereby amended, in case that part of the fence whereon the said horse, cattle, sheep, or swine have made a breach, shall be a lawful fence, notwithstanding some other part of the fences surrounding said enclosed lands may not be a lawful fence.

Owner of cattle, liable for damage on lands of another, through his own neglect of repairing division fence.

Sec. 3. The owner or owners of any horse, cattle, sheep, or swine breaking through any division fence which the said owner or owners shall be bound to repair and keep up, shall be liable for the damage done by such horse, cattle, sheep, or swine, upon the land of any other person or persons, enclosed or partly enclosed by such division fence, notwithstanding the same may not be a lawful fence. Annual.

Recovering damages not exceeding £3 before a Justice.

By Sec. 12 of the beforementioned Act of the 3 G. 4, c. 32. In all cases where a trespass, or supposed trespass, shall have been committed by horses, neat cattle, sheep, goats or swine, and that the value of the damage, alleged to be suffered, shall not exceed the sum of three pounds, the same shall be heard and tried before one or more Justices of the Peace, who shall summon the parties before him or them, and proceed thereon, as in cases of debt, to determine the amount of the damages and cost, and give judgment accordingly.

Limitation of prosecutions.

By the 4 & 5 G. 4, c. 8. 3 V. 182. It is enacted, that it shall be lawful for any person or persons entitled thereto, to commence prosecutions under the aforesaid Act of the 3 G. 4, c. 32, at any time within one year from the time of the committing of the offence. [The duration of this Act is not limited.]

Directions.

By the provision in the first clause of the first mentioned Act, relative to the fence viewer recovering the sum expended by him for making up any delinquent's proportion of a division fence, is to be understood, that if such expense does not exceed three pounds, it may be recovered by the fence viewer, before one Justice, in the same manner, and by the same forms, as private debts are now recovered before a Justice. If such expense exceeds that amount, it must be sued for in the Supreme Court.

III. REGULATIONS CONCERNING CATTLE GOING AT LARGE.

By Sec. 6, of the aforesaid Act of the 3 G. 4. c. 32. The General Sessions, in the several counties and districts, are empowered and directed to make regulations for preventing trespasses by horses, swine, sheep, goats, and neat cattle, going astray, or at large, in manner as shall be most agreeable to the county, or districts, or townships therein. Making regulations to prevent trespasses.

Sec. 7. Sec. 8. It shall be lawful for any person whatsoever, to take and seize all swine and goats going at large within any township or settlement, and upon proof thereof on the oath of one credible witness, before any one Justice of the Peace for the county or district in which such township or settlement shall be situated, the same shall be by him declared forfeited; one third of the value of which, to be paid to the prosecutor, and the remainder to and for the use of the township or settlement wherein the same shall have been seized and taken, and shall be accordingly disposed of by him, for their use. Provided, the General Sessions shall not have made regulations to the contrary, under the provisions of this Act.

Directions.

The proceedings and Forms, for the recovery of the penalty of forty shillings, mentioned in the foregoing seventh clause of the 3 G. 4, c. 32, will be the same, until conviction, as in other prosecutions before Justices to recover penalties, and will be found under the respective Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction.

If any person or persons shall cut, pull down, damage, or injure, any railing, stone wall, or fence of any kind, placed on the side or sides of any public square, bridge, or causeway, throughout the Province; such person or persons, for each and every offence, shall forfeit and pay a penalty not less than five shillings, nor greater than forty shillings, the same to be recovered as directed in and by the twentieth section of this Act, and shall be expended by the proper officer or officers, in repairing the damage and injury so done.

Injuring railing or wall on sides of public square, bridge, &c.

NOTE. As to proceedings for the recovery of penalties, under this clause, see the observations and directions concerning the said twentieth section, at the close of the seventh division.

V. TRESPASSES ON COMMONS.

By Section 14 of the same Statute last mentioned, "Any person or persons who shall cut or carry away any soil or sods, from off any common in the province, whereby the pasturage shall be injured, or the ground defaced, he or they shall, on conviction, forfeit and pay for every such offence, a sum not exceeding twenty shillings; to be recovered on due proof before any one Justice of the Peace, and be for the use of the prosecutor; and in case the party convicted shall be unable to pay the fine imposed, it shall be lawful for such Justice to commit him to the common gaol of the county, there to remain for eight days, or until he pay such fine."

NOTE. On a complaint of this offence, a formal information in writing need not be taken, but a summons may be immediately issued, according to the general form under the title—Summons.

The course of proceeding after conviction, and the punishment here prescribed, are altered by the Statute of the 4 and 5 G. 4, c. 8, 3 V. 182, by which it is provided that "in all cases of the recovery before one Justice, of any sum of money, under the Act of the 3 G. 4, c. 32, executions shall issue as in other cases of debt." See the last division under this title. The same form of execution, therefore, must be issued on a conviction for this offence, and the same subsequent proceedings take place, as are set forth, respecting debts, under the title—Summary Trials.

Writ of execution.

VI. PERSONS TRESPASSING ON ENCLOSED GROUND.

By Sec. 19 of the aforesaid Act of the 3 G. 4, 32,—
 “If any person or persons shall be found trespassing in any meadow, garden, orchard, or fenced field, under cultivation or improvement, in any township or place in this Province, with a gun or otherwise, unless by leave of the owner or occupier, he or they, for every such offence, shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding ten shillings, nor less than five shillings, with costs; to be recovered on due proof before any Justice of the Peace of the county or district in which such meadow, orchard, garden, or fenced field shall be, one half for the owner or occupier of the land, and the other half for the poor of the township or place where the trespasses shall be committed.

Directions.

As prosecutions under this clause may be considered chiefly in the nature of civil suits by the owners of the land, to recover compensation for the damage done, especially as the subsequent Statute of the 4 & 5 G. 4, c. 8, provides, that upon a recovery, the same Execution shall issue as in cases of “other debts,” it does not seem requisite on a complaint of this offence, that the Justice should take any formal information in writing, but he may immediately issue a Summons against the party complained of, a Form of which will be found at the end of the Title.

The form of the Writ of Execution, and the other proceedings after judgment, will be the same as in cases of debt. See the observations at the close of the preceding division, which observations equally apply on a conviction for the present offence.

VII. TRESPASSES BY CUTTING DOWN, INJURING, OR CARRYING AWAY TREES.

Cutting down or injuring trees on private lands.

By Sec. 20 of the last mentioned Act, “If any person or persons shall cut down or injure any tree or trees growing on the lands of any person or persons, within any township or place in this Province, or carry the same away, without his or their leave, he or they, for every such offence, shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding forty shillings, nor less than five shillings, for each and every tree so cut and carried away, with costs; to be recovered, on due proof, before any Justice of the Peace for the county or district in which such lands lie; one half for the use of the owner of the land, and the other half for the poor of the township or place where the trespass shall be committed.

If any person or persons shall cut down or injure any tree or trees, planted for ornament, or left growing on the sides of any of the public squares, streets, or public highways in this Province, he or they shall pay for each and every ornamental tree, so cut down and injured, forty shillings, to be applied by the person or persons having the care or management of such public square, street, or highway, in replacing or planting other ornamental trees on the sides thereof; to be recovered in the King's name; by such ways and means as are provided in and by the nineteenth section of this Act. Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall extend, or be construed to prevent any Overseer of the Highways, under the order and direction of the Court of General Sessions of the Peace, from removing and taking away any tree or trees, so planted or left growing for ornament as aforesaid, as may be injurious to the said public squares, highways, or streets."

Cutting down or injuring ornamental trees, on sides of public squares, &c.

By the 2 W. 4, c. 30. 4 V. 157. It is enacted, that no fines or penalties, exceeding in the whole the sum of five pounds, shall be imposed under the twentieth section of the aforesaid Act of the 3 G. 4, c. 32, by any Justice of the Peace, against any person or persons whomsoever, for any one offence for which he or they shall be convicted. Annual.

Limitation of certain fines to be recovered before one Justice.

With regard to prosecutions under the before recited twentieth section of the said Act of the 3 G. 4, c. 32, the same observations will apply as have been made at the close of the preceding division. As there observed, such prosecutions are to be considered chiefly in the nature of civil suits, and therefore, on a complaint of the offence mentioned in the said section, a summons may be forthwith issued, similar to the Form at the end of the Title. The execution and subsequent proceedings will be the same as in cases of debts, and will be found under the Title,—Summary Trials.

Directions.

As the prosecutions under the before recited twenty first section of the same Act, are to be in the name of the King, they may be instituted on the complaint of the person having the care of the public ground, or highway, or of any other person who will inform and sue. It seems difficult to give any satisfactory directions as to the mode of prosecution and the Forms to be used for the recovery of penalties under this Section, as the prosecutions must be in the name of the King, and yet it is directed by the subsequent Statute, already referred to, of the 4 & 5 G. 4, c. 8, that in all cases where a recovery shall be had before one Justice, for any sum of money under the Act, of which this twenty-first Section is a part, "the same shall be levied in the same manner as in cases of other debts, and by the form of Execution now in use." The proceedings and the Forms, before conviction, may indeed be the same as in other cases of penalties to the King, and will be found under the respective Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction. If the same Form of Execution is considered proper, as in cases of debts, such Form will be found under the Title,—Summary Trials.

VIII. PROCEEDINGS AFTER JUDGMENT AGAINST A TRESPASSER.

Penalties to be levied as in cases of debts.

By the 4 & 5 G. 4, c. 8. 3 V. 182. In all cases where a recovery shall be had before one Justice of the Peace, for any sum of money, by virtue of the Act of the 3 G. 4, c. 32, the same shall be levied and collected in the same manner as in cases of other debts recoverable before one Justice, and by the form of execution now in use; and the defendant or defendants shall be liable to be imprisoned, for want of goods and chattels under such execution, as in cases of other debts as aforesaid. Temporary.

II. OF THEIR APPREHENSION, EXAMINATION, AND PUNISHMENT.

Apprehending offenders.

By Sec 3 of the same last mentioned Statute, " It shall be lawful for any persons to apprehend offenders against this Act, and convey to some Justice of the Peace, the persons so apprehended, to be proceeded against as is herein after directed ; and in case any constable, or other such officer, refuse or neglect to use his best endeavours to apprehend or convey to some Justice, any such offender, it shall be deemed a neglect of duty, and he shall be punished as is herein after directed ; and in case any other person, charged by any Justice so to do, refuse or neglect to use his best endeavours to apprehend and deliver to the Constable or such other officer, or to carry such offender before some Justice, where no officer can be found, being convicted upon view, or by the oath of one witness, before a Justice, he shall forfeit ten shillings, to the use of the poor of the township ; to be levied by distress and sale of goods by warrant from any Justice.

All disorderly and beggarly persons, who shall be found strolling in any part of this Province, and who, on examination before three Justices of the Peace, shall not be able to shew any visible means whereby he or they obtain a sober and honest livelihood, it shall be lawful for such Justices, to commit such person or persons to the next gaol or bridewell, and to provide a master or mistress for such person or persons, and to execute an indenture or indentures in the usual form, to bind such person or persons to any master or mistress who shall appear to hire him or them, for such term of time, and on such conditions as such Justices in their discretion shall think fit, not exceeding seven years; and all persons receiving indentures as aforesaid, shall be entitled to the entire service and labour of the person or persons so indented or bound, and may sell or assign the unexpired term of such servant or servants, and the assignee or purchaser shall be as fully entitled to the entire service and labour of such servant, as the person who assigned the same. By the 32 G. 3, c. 5. Sec. 5. 1 V. 294. The Justices of the Peace committing any offender to a work-house, or house of correction, shall examine him or her, as to his or her place of settlement, if any, and note the same in the warrant of commitment. Perpetual.

Directions.

The Forms for the apprehension, examination, and commitment of a vagrant or disorderly person, under any of the before mentioned Acts, will be found at the close of the Title. The fine of ten shillings, mentioned in Sec. 3, first recited under this division, must be sued for and recovered in the same manner as in other ordinary cases of prosecuting for penalties, the requisite directions and Forms in which cases will be found under the respective Titles,—Information; Summons; Conviction; Distress.

III. NEGLIGENCE OF DUTY CONCERNING VAGRANTS, RESCUING THEM, OR ASSISTING THEIR ESCAPE.

By Sec. 5, of the before mentioned Act of the 14 & 15 G. 3, c. 5,—“If any constable or other officer, or master of any house of correction, be negligent of his duty in the execution of this Act, or in case any person disturb the execution of this Act, or rescue any person apprehended, or passing by virtue thereof, or be assisting to his escape, and be convicted thereof, upon the oath of one credible witness, before one Justice of the Peace, where such offence is committed, the person so offending, for every such offence shall forfeit any sum not exceeding five pounds, nor less than ten shillings, to the use of the poor of the township; to be levied by distress and sale of the offender's goods, by warrant from such Justice; and if sufficient distress cannot be found, it shall be lawful for such Justice to commit the persons so offending to prison, or to the house of correction, there to be kept to hard labour for any time not exceeding two months.”

With regard to prosecutions for the recovery of penalties under the foregoing clause, the general directions will apply, and the general Forms can readily be made to serve, which are contained under the respective Titles,—Information; Summons; Conviction; Distress; Commitment.

V. CHARGES OF THEIR CONVEYANCE AND MAINTENANCE.

By Sec. 3, of the same Act last mentioned, "In case any person, not being a constable, or officer, apprehend any deserter, or idle wandering servant, or other person, and deliver him to a constable, or convey him to a Justice, or if any constable so apprehend and convey such deserter or idle wandering servant, it shall be lawful for such Justice to reward any such constable, by making an order under his hand and seal on the treasurer of the county, to pay ten shillings to the person so apprehending him, on producing such order and giving a receipt; and the Justices at the General Sessions shall allow the same to such treasurer, in his accounts, upon his producing the vouchers aforesaid."

By Sec. 5, of the Statute already mentioned, of the 32 G. 3, c. 5. "When any person committed as above, shall be unable to labour, by reason of sickness or otherwise, or that his or her earnings shall be found insufficient for his or her support, if such person shall have a legal settlement in any township within the county where such work house may be situated, the expense of keeping and maintaining such offender, or such part thereof as may exceed the amount of his or her earnings, shall be defrayed by the township to which such offender may belong, and shall be paid by the Overseers of the poor of such township, on the certificate of the Clerk of the Peace, by order of the Justices in their Sessions, that such expense has been fairly incurred; and in case such offender shall have no legal settlement in any township within the county, the expense of maintaining him or her, or the part thereof exceeding the amount of his or her earnings, shall be defrayed by said county; and the Justice of the Peace committing any offender, shall examine him or her as to his or her place of settlement, if any, and note the same in the Warrant of Commitment.

VI. APPEAL.

By Sec. 8, of the said last mentioned Act. "Any person or persons aggrieved by any act of any Justice or Justices of the Peace, out of Sessions, in or concerning the execution of this Act, may appeal to the next General Sessions of the Peace for the county or district, giving reasonable notice thereof, whose order thereon shall be final."

VII. TREBLE COSTS.

By Sec. 11, of the same Act, "Persons sued for any thing done in the execution of this Act, may plead the general issue, and give the special matter in evidence, and if the action terminates in their favour, they shall have treble costs.

WARRANT.

- I. SEARCH WARRANT.
- II. WARRANT TO APPREHEND.

I. SEARCH WARRANT.

A GENERAL warrant to search in all suspected places, is not good, but only to search in such particular places where the party assigns, before the Justice, his suspicion, and the probable cause thereof; for these warrants are judicial acts, and must be granted upon examination of the fact. Searches made by pretence of such general warrants, give no more power to the officer or party than what they may do by law without them.

General search warrant not lawful.

Likewise upon a bare surmise, a Justice cannot make a warrant to break any man's house, to search for a felon, or for stolen goods.

But in case of a complaint, and oath made of goods stolen, and that the party suspects that goods are in such house, and shews the cause of his suspicion, the Justice of the Peace may grant a warrant to search in those suspected places mentioned in his warrant, and to attach the goods and the party in whose custody they are found, and bring them before him or some other Justice of the Peace, to give an account how he came by them, and farther to abide such order as to law doth appertain.

Searching suspected places.

It is fit that the warrant express that search be made in the day time; and though they are not unlawful without such a restriction, yet they are very inconvenient without it. But in case, not of probable suspicion only, but of positive proof thereof, it is right to execute the warrant in the night time, lest the offender's and goods also be gone before the morning.

Time of searching.

Furthermore, such warrant ought to be directed to the constables, or other public officers, and not to any private person though it is fit the party complaining should be present and assistant, because he knows his goods. 5 Burn's, 108-9.

To whom warrant shall be directed.

With regard to the execution of the warrant, whether the stolen goods are in a suspected house or not, the officer and his assistants, in the day time, may enter, the doors being open, to make search, and it is justifiable by the warrant.

Entering house to search, the doors being open.

If the door be shut, and upon demand it be refused to be opened by them within, if the stolen goods be in the house, the officer may break open the door.

Breaking open doors, admittance being refused.

If the goods be not in the house, yet it seems the officer is excused that breaks open the door to search, because he searched by warrant, and could not know whether the goods were there, till search made: but it seems that the party that made the suggestion is punishable in such case; for as to him, the breaking of the door is, in the event, lawful, or unlawful, to wit, lawful if the goods are there, unlawful, if not there.

On the return of the warrant executed, the Justice hath these things to do.

How goods found on search shall be disposed of.

As touching the goods brought before him, if it appears they were not stolen, they are to be restored to the possessor; if it appear they were stolen, they are not to be delivered to the proprietor, but deposited in the hands of the sheriff or constable, to the end the party robbed may proceed, by indicting and convicting the offender, to have restitution.

Proceedings as to party in whose possession goods are found.

As touching the party that had the custody of the goods; if they were not stolen, then he is to be discharged; if stolen, but not by him, but by another, who sold and delivered them to him, if it appear that he was ignorant that they were stolen, he may be discharged as an offender, and be bound over to give evidence as a witness against him that sold them; if it appear he was knowing they were stolen, he must be committed or bound over to answer the felony.—5 Burn's, 109, 110.

As to warrants to search for stolen goods in cases of summary prosecutions before Justices for stealing, see division V., under Title—Larceny.

II. WARRANT TO APPREHEND.

If a Justice see a felony or other breach of the peace committed in his presence, he may in his own person, apprehend the felon. And so he may by word, command any person to apprehend him, and such command is a good warrant without writing; but if such felony or breach of the peace be committed in his absence, then he must issue his

Manner of apprehending

warrant in writing. Concerning such warrant, the following points are requisite to be known.

1. For what causes it may be granted.
2. What is to be done previously to granting it.
3. How far it is grantable on Suspicion.
4. The Form of it.
5. Indorsement of a Warrant in another country.

1, For what cases it may be granted.

THERE seems to be no doubt but that a warrant may be lawfully granted by any Justice, for treason, felony, or any other offence against the peace; also it seems clear, that wherever a Statute gives to any one Justice a jurisdiction over any offence, or a power to require any person to do a certain thing ordained by such Statute, it impliedly gives a power to every such Justice to make out a warrant to bring before him, any person accused of such offence, or compellable to do any thing ordained by such Statute; for it cannot but be intended, that a Statute giving a person jurisdiction over an offence, doth mean also to give him the power incident to all Courts, of compelling the party to come before him.

Where a summons is most proper.

But in cases where the King is no party, or where no corporal punishment is appointed, as in cases for servants wages, and the like, it seems that a summons is the more proper process, and for default of appearance the Justice may proceed, and so indeed often times it is directed by special Statutes.

Indeed, as a warrant deprives a man of his liberty, a summons only ought to issue and not a warrant, without information upon oath. 5 Burn's, 532-3.

2. What is to be done previously to granting it.

It is convenient, though not always necessary, that the party who demands the warrant be first examined on oath, touching the whole matter whereupon the warrant is demanded, and that such examination be put into writing. 5 Burn's, 533.

3. How far it is grantable on Suspicion.

A JUSTICE of the Peace hath power to issue a warrant to apprehend a person suspected of felony, before he is in-indicted, but in the a judge of examined picion, if is now bec Yet since may prove the liberty in his proc not only at if he grant without suc impartial m indicted, and though the original suspicion be not in himself, but in the party that prays the warrant. For the Justice is a judge of reasonableness of the suspicion, and when he has examined the party accusing, touching the reasons of his suspicion, if he find the causes of suspicion to be reasonable, it is now become the Justice's suspicion as well as the party's. Yet since the undue execution of this power of the Justice may prove so highly prejudicial to the reputation as well as the liberty of the party, a Justice cannot well be too tender in his proceedings of this kind, and seems to be punishable not only at the suit of the King but also of the party grieved, if he grant any such warrant groundlessly, and maliciously, without such a probable cause as might induce a candid and impartial man to suspect the party to be guilty.

But a general warrant, upon a complaint of robbery, to apprehend all persons suspected, and to bring them before a Justice, hath been ruled void, and false imprisonment lies against him that issues such a warrant. 5 Burn's, 533-4.

4. The Form of it.

It is safe, but perhaps not necessary, in the body of the warrant, to shew the place where it was made; yet it seems necessary to set forth the county in the margin, at least if it be not set forth in the body. Place, where made.

It may be directed to the sheriff, bailiff, constable, or to any indifferent person by name, who is no officer, for the Justice may authorise any one to be his officer whom he pleases to make such; yet it is not advisable to direct it to the constable of the precinct wherein it is to be executed, for no other constable, and much more no private person, is compellable to serve it. To whom to be directed.

But in the case of an Act of Parliament, it is said, that if the Act direct that a Justice shall grant a warrant, and do not say to whom it shall be directed, by consequence of law it must be directed to the constable; and it cannot be directed to the sheriff, unless such power be given in the Act.

The warrant may be styled in divers manners; as,—
1. In the name of the King, and yet the teste must be under the name of the Justice that grants it out. Or, 2. It may be styled or made only in the name of the Justice. Or, 3. It may be made without any style, and only under the teste of the Justice, or only subscribed by him. In whose Name to be made.

Whersoever the warrant is made in the King's name, there it ought to be directed to all peace officers, for the King is made a party. And so it may be done in all other warrants, especially for felony, or for the peace and good behaviour, because it is the service of the King.

Cause of granting Warrant, to be specially stated therein.

Regularly, the warrant, especially if it be for the peace or good behaviour, or the like, where sureties are to be found or required, ought to contain the special cause and matter whereupon it is granted, to the intent that the party upon whom it is to be served may provide his sureties ready, and take them with him to the Justice, to be bound for him; but if the warrant be for treason, murder, or felony, or other capital offence, or for great conspiracies, rebellious assemblies, or the like, it hath been said, that it need not contain any special cause, but the warrant of the Justice may be to bring the party before him, to make answer to such things or matters generally, as shall be objected against him on the King's behalf.

Name of party must be mentioned in the Warrant.

The warrant ought regularly to mention the name of the party to be attached, and must not be left in general, or with blanks to be filled up by the party afterwards.

It may issue to bring the party before the Justice who granted the warrant, specially, and then the officer is bound to bring him before the same Justice, but if the warrant be to bring him before any Justice, then it is in the election of the officer to bring him before what Justice of the county he thinks fit, and not in the election of the prisoner.

Day and year of making must be stated

It ought to set forth the day and year wherein it is made, that in an action brought upon an arrest by virtue of it, it may appear to have been prior to such arrest; and also in cases where the Statute directs the prosecution to be within such a time, that it may appear that the prosecution is commenced within such time limited; likewise where a penalty is given to the poor of the parish where the offence was committed.

Must be under hand and seal of Justice

Finally, it ought to be under the hand and seal of the Justice who makes it out.

Duration of Warrant.

The warrant of a Magistrate is not returnable at any particular time, but continues in force until it is fully executed and obeyed, though it were seven years, provided the Magistrate so long live.

Arrest may be, after the Sessions next ensuing the date of the Warrant.

A warrant to arrest the party, "to the end that he may become bound, &c., to appear at the next Sessions, &c.," means the next Sessions after the arrest, and not after the date of the warrant. Therefore the officer executing it, may justify an arrest after the Sessions next ensuing the date of the warrant. 5 Burn's, 534-7.

5. Indorsement of a Warrant in another County.

By the 54 G. 3, c. 15. 2 V. 122. If any person against whom a warrant shall be issued, be out of the jurisdiction of the Justice or Justices granting the warrant, any Justice or Justices of the county, district or place where such person shall escape, go into, be, or reside, upon proof on oath of the hand writing of the Justice or Justices granting such warrant, shall endorse his or their name or names thereon; which shall be a sufficient authority to the person bringing such warrant, and to all other persons to whom the same was originally directed, to execute the same in such other county, district or place, and to carry the offender before the Justice who endorsed the warrant, or some other Justice or Justices of that county or place, and in case the offence be bailable, and the offender be ready and willing to give bail for his appearance at the next sitting of the Supreme Court, or next General Sessions for the county or place where the offence was committed, such last mentioned Justice or Justices shall take bail accordingly, and shall deliver the recognisance, together with the examination or confession of the offender, and all other proceedings relating thereto, to the constable or other person apprehending such offender, who shall (under the penalty of ten pounds) deliver over the same to the Clerk of the Supreme Court, or Clerk of the Peace of the county or district where the offender is required to appear. And if the offence be not bailable, or the offender shall not give bail to the satisfaction of the Justice or Justices before whom he is brought, the constable or other person aforesaid shall carry the offender before a Justice of the proper county or place where the offence was committed, there to be dealt with according to law. Perpetual.

Before whom party shall be carried.

The Justice indorsing the warrant, may (if he think fit), order the party, according as he shall appear bailable or not bailable, upon the face of the warrant, to be brought before himself, or some other Justice or Justices of that county, or to be carried back into the county from whence the warrant issued.

It has been determined, that proof on oath of the hand writing of the Justice who granted the warrant, made before the Justice of any other county to whom the same was tendered for indorsement, is sufficient to oblige him to indorse the same for execution within his jurisdiction. The Justice by whom the original warrant is issued, has a discretion to exercise upon the matter submitted to him; but the Magistrate who merely endorses the warrant of another, is not answerable for the legality of it, which remains at the hazard of him who first granted it. 5 Burn's, 537-8.

The Indorsement may be in the following Form.

Sec. 2. The Clerks of the market are empowered to inspect all beams and scales, weights and measures, as well of brass as of other metals, and also the steelyards used for weighing hay, once in every three months, or oftener as they shall see cause; not only those used by the inhabitants selling publicly by weights and measures, but also those used on board any ships or vessels, lying at any wharves, or at anchor in any harbour, or by any person or persons selling as aforesaid, within the Province; and the same to assay and stamp, and dispose of as in said Act is directed, and under the same penalties; and all masters of ships or vessels, refusing admittance to the said Clerks of the market, shall be liable to the same penalties as any inhabitant, in manner and form as prescribed by the said Act, and to be recovered in the same manner. Perpetual.

NOTE.—The Act here referred to, is the previously recited Act of the 32 G. 2, c. 21.

Appropriation of fines, &c.

By the 7 G. 3, c. 4. 1 V. 126, made to explain and amend the foregoing Acts, it is enacted. "That for the future, all fines and forfeitures incurred on the said Acts shall be applied, one half to the Clerks of the market or informer, and the other half to the poor of the town where the offence shall be committed." Perpetual.

Directions.

The proceedings for the recovery of the penalty of twenty shillings, imposed by the first of the before recited Acts, will be the same as in other ordinary cases of prosecutions before Justices to recover penalties, and are described and the requisite Forms, which may readily be filled up so as to serve, are given under the respective Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction, Distress. The same will be the case with regard to the other penalty of twenty shillings, for selling by steelyards, until after conviction. As no final process is mentioned for levying or enforcing payment of this penalty, no such process of any kind can legally be issued by the Justice.

WELLS AND PUMPS.

Raising Money, for making and repairing Wells and Pumps.

By the 36 G. 3, c. 9. 1 V. 379. The inhabitants of towns, in their town meetings, may vote sums of money for sinking wells and furnishing pumps, and keeping the same in repair; which monies shall be assessed and collected in the same manner as poor rates, and shall be paid into the hands of the firewards, who shall apply the same for the aforesaid purposes, and shall account for the expenditure to the next General Sessions, and pay over the balance to their successors. Persons who think themselves overrated, may appeal to the next General Sessions, where the matter shall be finally determined as may be judged equitable. If the

Sec. 3. Whoever shall be found guilty of wilfully injuring or destroying any pump or well, in any of the public streets or lanes of any of the towns of the Province, shall on conviction thereof before any two Justices of the Peace, forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding five pounds, nor less than forty shillings; the one half thereof to the prosecutor, and the other half to the firewards of the town wherein such offence shall be committed, for the purpose of repairing such pumps and wells within such town; and in case the party so convicted shall be unable to pay the fine imposed, it shall be lawful for such Justices to commit the offender to the house of correction, there to be put to hard labour, for a space not exceeding ten days nor less than five days. This Act is made perpetual by the 48 G. 3, c. 24. 2 V. 23.

Injuring or destroying Wells or Pumps.

The proceedings for the recovery of the penalty under the foregoing Statute, will be the same, until conviction, as in other cases of prosecuting before Justices to recover penalties, and will be found together with Forms which can readily be made to answer, under the respective Titles,—Information, Summons, Conviction. As a warrant of distress to levy the penalty is not mentioned, it would rather seem that no such warrant can be issued, notwithstanding the words of the Act, concerning the commitment of the party, "on his being unable to pay." He should however be notified of the fine imposed, and the same should be demanded from him, and on neglect of payment, the warrant of Commitment may be issued. A suitable Form thereof may be easily framed from the general Form under the Title, Commitment, or from the Form of a Commitment to the house of correction, under the Titles,—Vagrant, and also under other Titles.

WIFE.

A WIFE is so much favoured, in respect of that power and authority which her husband has over her, that she shall not suffer any punishment for a bare theft in company with or by coercion of her husband. But if she commit a theft of her own voluntary act, or by the bare command of her husband, or be guilty of treason, murder, or robbery, in company with, or by coercion of her husband, she is punishable as much as if she were sole, because of the odiousness and dangerous consequences of these crimes. And the coercion of the husband is only a presumption till the contrary appear, for if upon the evidence it can clearly appear, that the wife was not drawn to it by the husband, but that she was the principal actor and inciter of it, she seems to be guilty as well as the husband.

Wife committing crime in company with or by coercion of her husband.

Is liable for offences not capital.

Generally, a married woman shall answer as much as if she were single, for an offence, not capital, against the common law or Statute; and if it be of such a nature that it may be committed by her alone, without the concurrence of her husband, she may be punished for it without the husband, by way of indictment. But if a wife incur the forfeiture of a penal Statute, the husband may be made the party to an action or information for the same, (as he may generally to any suit for a cause of action given by his wife,) and shall be liable to answer what shall be recovered thereupon.

Wife cannot commit felony, in taking her husband's goods.

A wife herself cannot feloniously take her husband's goods; and though she take her husband's goods and deliver them to a stranger, yet it is no felony in the stranger. But she may be guilty of felony in taking her husband's goods from the possession of another party.

Is punishable for a trespass or other wrong.

If she shall commit any riot, or do any trespass or other wrong, she is punishable for it, and if she be indicted for such cause, without her husband, she only shall answer and be party to the judgment; and in such case the fine set upon the wife shall not be levied upon the husband; and as for imprisonment or other corporal pain, it shall be inflicted upon the wife only, and not upon the husband, for his wife's act or default.

Female Servant marrying, shall serve out her time.

If a woman who is a servant, shall marry, yet she must serve out her time, and the husband cannot take her out of her master's service.

Wife may demand Sureties of the peace against her husband, and lie against her Husband and wife cannot be witnesses for one another, nor regularly against one another.

But a wife may demand sureties of the peace against her husband, threatening to beat her outrageously, and a husband also may have it against his wife. And in other criminal cases, the wife may be a witness against her husband, where she is the party grieved, but not in civil cases.

A wife cannot be bound herself by recognisance, but her sureties only. 5 Burn's, 557 to 561.

In case it shall happen that no person shall appear to make his claim to all or any of the goods that shall be saved, then the officer or officers in whose custody the same shall be, shall sell so much thereof as will be sufficient to pay the sum or sums of money adjusted and allowed for the salvage thereof, with incidental charges incurred; or if the goods are in danger of perishing, or of being otherwise lost by delay, then the whole to be sold; and shall put some principal officer of His Majesty's Customs, or some other responsible person, in case no such officer is present to receive the same, into immediate possession of the goods or money remaining after payment of the salvage and costs aforesaid, first taking an account in writing of the said goods or money, to be signed by the officer of the Customs, or person receiving the same; and if the said money or goods shall not be legally claimed within twelve months next ensuing, by the owner thereof, such of the goods as may be on hand shall be forthwith sold at public auction, and the money arising from such sale, reasonable charges being first deducted, with a fair and just account of the whole, shall be paid into the Treasury of this Province, there to remain for the benefit of the rightful owner, when appearing, who, upon affidavit or other proof made of his or their right or property therein, to the satisfaction of the Chief Justice, or one of the Justices of the Supreme Court, shall, upon his order, receive the same out of the Treasury.

Sec. 5. Provided always, that it shall not be lawful for any person whatsoever, under pretence of making salvage under the authority of this Act, or under any pretence what-he shall be on board or shall have quitted the same, shall be guilty of felony, and, being convicted thereof, shall be liable, at the discretion of the Court, to be imprisoned for the term of the natural life of the offender, or for any term not less than seven years.

Sec. 9. Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously destroy any part of any ship or vessel which shall be in distress or wrecked, stranded or cast on shore, or any goods, merchandize or other articles of any kind, belonging to such ship or vessel, shall be guilty of felony, and being convicted thereof, shall be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding fourteen years. Perpetual.

By the 4 Vic. c. 7. Sess. 1841. Sec. 22. If any person shall plunder or steal any part of any ship or vessel, which shall be in distress or wrecked, stranded or cast on shore, or any goods, merchandize, or articles of any kind, belonging to such ship or vessel, every such offender, being convicted thereof, shall be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding seven years. Provided always, that when articles of small value shall be stranded or cast on shore, and shall be stolen without circumstances of cruelty, outrage or violence, it shall be lawful to prosecute and punish the offender, as for simple larceny; and, in either cases the offender may be indicted and tried in the county in which the offence shall have been committed, or in any county next adjoining.

Sec. 23. If any person shall offer or expose for sale goods, merchandize or articles, whatsoever, which shall have been unlawfully taken, or reasonably suspected so to have been, from any ship or vessel in distress, or wrecked, stranded, or cast on shore as aforesaid—in every such case, any person to whom the same shall be offered for sale, or any officer of Customs or Excise, or Peace officer, may lawfully seize the same, and shall, with all convenient speed, carry the same, or give notice of such seizure to some Justice of the Peace; and if the person who shall have offered or exposed the same for sale, being duly summoned by such Justice, shall not appear and satisfy the Justice that he came lawfully by such goods, merchandize or other articles, then the same shall, by order of the Justice, be forthwith delivered over to or for the use of the rightful owner thereof, upon payment of a reasonable reward, to be ascertained by the Justice, to the person who seized the same; and the offender, on conviction of such offence by the Justice, shall forfeit and pay, over and above the value of the goods, merchandize or articles, such sum of money, not exceeding five pounds, as to the Justice shall seem meet. Perpetual.

Directions.

The proceedings before Justices, on informations for endeavouring to produce wrecks, for stealing wrecked goods, and, for other felonious acts, mentioned in the foregoing Statutes, will be the same as in other cases of felonies, and will be found, with the requisite Forms, under the respective Titles,—Information, Warrant, Examination, Bail, Commitment. Justices should be very cautious as to bailing a party charged with any of the said felonies, and in every heinous and aggravated case should commit him for trial in the Supreme Court, and send thither the examinations taken.

With regard to the offence of refusing to attend and render assistance towards preventing wrecks, preserving lives of shipwrecked persons, or saving wrecked goods, on complaint being made to any Justice, he must take the same on oath, in the form of an affidavit, stating the facts, or according to the general Form, under the Title,—Information, setting forth therein the facts of the case. The requisite Warrant in such case can be framed from the general Form under the Title, Warrant, filling it up according to the facts stated in the Information. When the party charged with this offence is brought before the Justice, if he offer sufficient bail, they must be bound with him, in the manner, and according to the Form given under the Title,—Recognisance. If he neglect to furnish such bail, he must be committed to gaol, to take his trial at the next Term of the Supreme Court, in the county. The Commitment can be readily framed from the general Form under the Title,—Commitment.

As to the offence of burning or otherwise destroying vessels, see, Titles,—Burning and Ships, &c.
