THE LONELY GUARD,

BY NORMAN INNES,
Author of "The Surge of War" (London Magazine, Eveleigh Nash, 1901); "Parson Croft" (Eveleigh Nash, 1907).

"A good evening to thee, father," said I with a smile as the old man glanced from above the spectacles before his eyes. "Welcome, my son," he rejoined, as he closed the book. "Thou art late, but I have returned. They tell me that thou didst leave thy tractor charges to their own device last night." "I rode into the mountains, and was caught in the storm and belated," I replied, not wishing to go further into my adventure of the preceding night. "So," said he, leaning back in his chair with a yawn, "and I lost the pleasure of trying thy strength with the chessmen." A ripple of merry laughter rose from beneath the open window. We both looked out into the garden to see the Countess Elsa walking with her arm in that of her guest. Her sister, seated upon the broad stone edge of the fountain, was amusing herself by tossing pebbles at the carp that swam in the basin at her side. She seemed to pay little heed to the others, who, for their part, appeared utterly oblivious of her presence. I frowned, then smiled in an effort to hide the jealousy at my heart, and then, as if by some magic, my brows lifted, my eyes grew wide and the mirth died on my lips. Wonderstruck I stared, gripping the sill of the window in utter astonishment. Inez von Rohm I saw no longer, von Weggen was forgotten, I had eyes for his companion alone, whose throat, full and white as ivory, was circled by a collar of pearls; the very pearls I could have taken oath that the Spaniard had entrusted to my care and which I had lost at Kitlach. They were the same; I would have sworn to them but for the chance of being deceived by the distance. "See yonder, father, the necklet," I gasped. For an instant he glanced at me curiously, as if struck by my manner. "Aye, rare gems, my son," rejoined the priest, "but the necklet of the Countess. Lost some since and restored to their owners by Count Otto." I was silent, longing for a nearer view of that string of pearls. The Kitlach forge, my meeting with von Weggen in Beckirch, with the dying regius in hell, all woke my suspicions. And then Countess Elsa turned and her voice rang out across the distance. "Come, cousin," she cried gaily, "let us leave Inez to her day-dreams, come, for I have much to ask and much to tell thee." At the nature of their talk, we could not hazard a guess, as side by side they sauntered up and down those trim brick paths between borders of phlox and gladiolus, peonies and scented verbena, to be lost for a while behind the box hedge, to reappear beneath the roses that clustered upon the wall. But this I know, that at sight of her whose deep eyes and tender drooping mouth, I would willingly have risked all that is dear to me on earth, gnawed my nails and clenched my hands for hatred of the other striving at her elbow in his pride. "Nay, my son," said the priest softly, looking up in my face, half-smiling, half-reproachful, "such thoughts are not worthy of a Christian and one boasting gentle blood." I stared at my elder in well feigned amazement. "My thought, father, knowest thou my thoughts? Then thou art a wizard indeed." "Nay, no wizard, my son, but an old man who has seen somewhat of the world and its ways, one who was young on a day." "Then that day was long ago, father, surely," said I in rapture, seeking to lead our talk into other channels. "Nay, boy, not so long since but that memory can bridge the gulf of years," replied my friend, as he shook his head. "Then what are my thoughts?" I cried in challenge. "Boy's thoughts, my son, boy's thoughts, though therein lies no great sin. But what said the Wise King of youthful magnanimity? 'Water doth the world's evil drive, do thou thy heart at the sight of the twin beneath?'" My flushed cheeks must have told their tale for the old man's voice sunk low as he continued. "They are cousins, Captain von Lesly," he said, "and, knowest, a woman may make her choice." "Then Heaven help the Countess in that choice," I cried, "I would have sworn that the soldier's, the younger lady of Rohm leaned over the moss-grown battlement, with eyes bent on the flaming west. The priest closed the window, gently and lightly the wrinkled old hand upon my arm as he murmured a soft 'Amen.'" Roused perhaps by the sound of the shutting of the casement, the Countess rose from her seat beside the fountain. She glanced up at the window and with hands on her hips stepped down the path towards her sister and the Count. "And which is the fairer?" "Lesly?" demanded the priest suddenly. "I ask thee as a man of the world." We were standing side by side watching that trim well-built figure in the lace and orange satin who with confidence and yet with such lithesome grace was approaching the westerly battlements. All red and gold she was the sunset, turning her tresses to flame alighting upon her gown, lapping her flame along the sunlit terrace. "Which is the fairer?" I echoed his words and paused as my eyes rested on the other in her dress of white, with a filmy scarf about her throat that shone whiter yet against her wealth of deep-brown hair. For a moment her face was turned towards her sister, a face alight with joy wherein her eyes shone deep and tender while her lips were parted in a smile that for sweetness might break hearts as well as win them. "Which is the fairer?" I repeated. "Thy question is hard, the elder, surely, never in my life shall I see her peer, yet, father, it is the other that sets my soul aflame, the other of the gentle manner and gracious bearing, of the eyes that can speak, can question, when the lips are dumb." "The priest nodded and he watched these two he had known since childhood. "The elder is a von Rohm," said he, "masterful, and of the sternest men of her race, and the other is as thou sayest, a child of her mother who came from afar, from Spain, from a land of vine and olive, of amber and gold, with mountains sun-kissed yet crowned with snow, from Andalusia in the south." "I would have sworn the unfamiliar name of the elder Countess, and the fact that the ladies as a rule addressed the priest as 'Father' and 'Johanna.'" "God have them in his keeping, these children of Rohm, I pray," continued my companion, "and thou stout man and true husband, pure of heart, strong of arm, who will shield my daughters when old Juan the priest is stretched in his long sleep." (To be continued.)

OLD MAN KILLED ON CENTRAL ROAD

Victim Was Named Dillon, and Was Run Down by Train-News of Moncton.

Norton, March 24-Rev. A. Perry returned today from Codys where he went yesterday to officiate at the funeral of his aunt, Mrs. Mary Ann Starkey. Last week an interesting ceremony took place in the Sacred Heart church, when the Rev. E. J. Byrne in a pleasing manner unveiled a beautiful memorial window erected by Mrs. William Kelly, of St. John, in memory of her deceased parents, Jas. and Teresa Ruland. A great deal of the evidence given was beyond the scope of the bill, and was in the direction of the fact that the curriculum of subjects for masters and mates' examination was altogether too difficult, too much stress being laid to theory instead of the practical side. Mr. Demers, chief examiner of masters and mates who was present, apparently did not quite concur in the attack upon his standard of examinations. The committee will resume some day next week at the call of the chairman.

MARITIME MEN FAVOR CHANGES IN SHIPPING ACT

Many Say Examinations for Masters and Mates is Too Technical and Not Practical Enough.

Ottawa, March 24-The special committee on A. K. McLean's bill to amend the shipping act, heard further witnesses today. A. J. Wolf, an examiner of master and mates, and Adam Knick, both of Lunenburg, were heard. Their evidence in the main being favorable to the amendments proposed by the bill. Capt. Reid of Summerside (P. E. I.), also gave important evidence. A great deal of the evidence given was beyond the scope of the bill, and was in the direction of the fact that the curriculum of subjects for masters and mates' examination was altogether too difficult, too much stress being laid to theory instead of the practical side. Mr. Demers, chief examiner of masters and mates who was present, apparently did not quite concur in the attack upon his standard of examinations. The committee will resume some day next week at the call of the chairman.

At present there is little or no demand for the article. The men will be engaged in making repairs during the time of the shut-down. H. C. D. Ruddock, manager of the Miramichi Foundry received a bad cut in the forehead by a piece of brass lying under a hammer blow, seven stitches were required to close up the wound. Mr. Cassidy died at four o'clock this morning in the Hotel Dieu hospital, after a lengthy illness. Toulon (Man.), has been elected by Miramichi in the Exhibition Rink on Thursday evening. The Campbellton team defeated the locale 6 to 2 in Campbellton but the Chatham team hopes to reverse the score here.

Grave Charge Against Jackson

ATTORNEY GENERAL JACKSON

New York, March 23—Attorney General William Schuyler Jackson is accused under oath of having demanded that Frank White, as receiver of the Hamilton Bank, should share equally with him the aggregate of the fees and commissions earned by Mr. White while acting in that capacity.

That assertion was sworn to by Mr. White when he was forced to appear as an unwilling witness before the county grand jury.

Paris, March 24—The senate by an overwhelming majority has concurred in the bill recently passed by the chamber of deputies to convert automatically, a decree of separation into a divorce at the end of three years when either party to the separation requests it.

The constantly growing number of divorces in France since the restoration of the divorce law in 1886 (marriage having been indissoluble throughout French history, except for the period from the beginning of the revolution to the restoration in 1816) has been the subject of an intensely interesting and bitter controversy recently.

Paul Bourget, as the champion of the traditional indissoluble union, prefaced it with his problem "Le Divorce," in which he portrayed the wreck following in the wake of the separation of parents. The dispute took wide range in the newspapers and a "referendum" was held at the theatre where the play was given.

Men and women, married, unmarried and divorced, old and young, came forward and told pathetic stories of their tragedies in support of their respective contentions. In the end, the friends of greater freedom of union and dissolution had the better of it in parliament, the "referendum" and the public prints.

M. Bourget, while reaffirming his irreconcilable opposition to the principle of divorce says he is not surprised either at the senate's action or the expression of public opinion.

"A student of moral science," he said, "I long ago foresaw what France was coming to. We are hurrying toward 'free union.' France, as demonstrated by the polemic which has just closed, is divided into two camps—one, the feebler, opposes divorce; the other, the stronger, favors free union.

A large number of brokers have suffered considerable financial loss through the arrest of Rochette. They had been instructed to buy up shares in his concerns, which showed a tendency to slump, accordingly on Saturday, they bought up $400,000 worth and received from Rochette checks on the Bank of France, but payment of the checks was refused by order of the court.

The news of the arrest caused a panic in the provincial branches of the Credit Minier Et Industriel Bank, directed by Rochette. Depositors clamored all day at the branches, but no money was paid out to them.

Rochette conducted a big financial newspaper, Le Financier, at a cost of about $30,000 a month by means of which he was better able to dispose of stock in this various companies.

One of the directors of the Credit Minier states that Rochette's affairs are solvent. He says that Rochette has nearly $2,000,000 deposited in the Bank of France, and that the Credit Minier and the Franco-Spanish Banks have the working capitals of all Rochette's companies in their safes.

HALIFAX GARRISON GRUMBLING ABOUT DELAY IN PAY. (Special to The Telegraph.) Ottawa, March 24—The following cable has been received from the governor of Australia by Lord Grey in reply to an invitation to attend the Tercentenary at Quebec, July next.

Melbourne, March 24, 1908. "Referring to your telegram, March 17, ministers highly appreciate invitation received from Canadian ministers and they have therefore invited Earl Dudley, governor-general, to represent Australia at the celebration. Prime minister regrets that session precludes possibility of any ministers attending with Earl Dudley."

BIG UNIONIST VICTORY IS WON. London, March 23—The most keenly fought bye-election for the present parliament which was necessitated through the death of Charles Goddard Clarke, member for Peckham, resulted today in a great victory for the Unionists, whose candidate, St. C. Gooch, was elected by a majority of 2,494. The Liberals carried the district in 1906 by a majority of 2,339.

HALIFAX MAN FOUND DEAD IN FACTORY DRYING ROOM. Halifax, March 24—When men employed at the Silliker car works went to work this morning the dead body of David Lockhart was found in a room. Lockhart had been employed with the Silliker company since they commenced operations in Halifax. Last night he was down town, and on his way homeward he became wet in the heavy rain. He went in to the drying room for the purpose of drying his clothes. On entering he apparently fell about four feet into the place where the hot pipes are arranged. The heat from the pipes caused his wet clothes to steam and his back and feet were badly scalded. The medical examiner gave a certificate of death from shock and suffocation.

Livers Exchanged. If the active liver of the cod-fish could be put into the place of the torpid liver of the consumptive it would probably do him a world of good. Next best thing is Scott's Emulsion.

Scott's Emulsion. Cod Liver Oil. Almost as good as a new liver. The great power of SCOTT'S EMULSION as a flesh-producer proves that of the cod's liver is contained in every spoonful.

PSYCHINE. A sweeping statement, you say. That is true, but proof of the statement is to be found everywhere. PSYCHINE is the prescription of one of the greatest Lung Specialists the world has seen. It is the result of his own and several other prominent physicians' life study. It is a thoroughly tested remedy that is doing a great work for humanity.

THORNE BROS. HATTERS AND FURRIERS 93 KING STREET. BRITISH PREMIER RAPIDLY SINKING. Very Little Encouragement to Be Derived from Bulletins.

Balfour Calls Daily to Inquire After His Former Foe—Haldane Mentioned as Probable Successor to Asquith in the Exchequer—Winston Churchill and Lloyd-George Accused of Treachery.

New York, March 24—The Herald has received the following cable despatch from London: Members of all shades of politics are becoming more and more concerned every day over the declining strength of the Prime Minister.

The Prince of Wales is a constant visitor to Downing street, going there every day. But no messages of sympathy or anxious inquiry are more welcome to the suffering premier than those personally sent upstairs by his great political opponent, Mr. Balfour, who, though in common with all visitors is excluded from the sick room, calls every day and sometimes twice a day at the premier's residence.

It is recognized in the lobby of the House of Commons that Sir Henry's health is rapidly declining. Sir Thomas Barlow spends considerable time with his patient, but very little encouragement is to be derived from the bulletins. The chances of his being able to resume the active duties of the premiership, indeed, are absolutely nil.

The serious condition of the prime minister has led to a considerable and respectful act on the part of the headquarters staff of the Conservative and Unionist party, who have ordered the withdrawal from circulation of whatever cartoons, pictorial posters, leaflets or the like they may have in use for the purpose of electioneering, which may caricature the prime minister after the fashion which is perfectly legitimate in ordinary circumstances in the warfare of party politics. Within the Liberal party wire-pullers are hard at work arranging for a reshuffle in the Liberal cabinet. Mr. John Morley would like to go to the Exchequer, but it is not believed he has the knowledge of financial affairs requisite in that position. It is now suggested that Mr. Haldane would make an admirable chancellor of the exchequer, and his friends declare that he is the only member of the ministry who understands the Asquith budget and scheme for old-age pensions. Mr. Haldane is also keen on getting his promotion, for the chancellorship is a more important post than his present one. But who is to fill Mr. Haldane's shoes? It is difficult to think of anyone who could carry through his army scheme, for, truth to tell, hardly any other minister understands it.

Unpleasant allegations have been made against Mr. Lloyd-George and Mr. Winston Churchill, both exceedingly clever young members of the Liberal ministry. It is hinted that they have both been intriguing with a view to the formation of a new party. It is well known that all is not harmony within the Liberal ranks. Mr. Winston Churchill wants to get into the cabinet, but he does not know the way. If he takes cabinet rank he will, according to constitutional rules, have to face the storm and stress of re-election. To judge from the results of the recent bye-elections his re-election as the member for Manchester is doubtful. It is understood that he is in favor of an early dissolution, so that he can choose a safer seat and demand a higher position in the new ministry.

The young politician is gifted with a good-humored, self-complacency which never fails, and a belief in his own genius as a statesman which so far has never wavered. He thinks himself a man born to set the world right throughout an entire generation, and he has a superb contempt for the prosaic steps by which ordinary people arrive at a conclusion. He was of great use to Campbell-Bannerman, but it is doubtful whether he would get on so well with the astute lawyer, Mr. Asquith, if that gentleman were called upon to take the reins of office as premier.

And what are the misgivings about Mr. Lloyd-George? Since he became president of the board of trade the little Welshman has shown a very open disregard for the teachings of the Cobden Club. Indeed, he has been tearfully written down by The Spectator as at least a protectionist. One allegation against him is that he is prepared to formulate some positive tariff proposals to meet a great national evil.

The Last Great Sufferer. Did not cause so much suffering to the homeless as many a case of eczema causes its miserable victim. And the relief fund did not bring so much joy as Hood's Sarsaparilla has given thousands of times, in relieving the agonizing itching and burning of eczema-tortured people.

Eczema—"My sister suffered from childhood from eczema or salt rheum on her hands and arms. She was treated by eminent specialists in diseases of the skin without permanent relief. She was then entirely cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. LOEWSA STRONDS, 222 Maynard St., Halifax, N.S.

Tied the Hands—"We had to tie the hands of our two-year-old son on account of eczema on his face and limbs. No medicine helped until we used Hood's Sarsaparilla which soon completely cured." Mrs. A. V. WYCK, 122 Montgomery St., Paterson, N.J.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold everywhere. 100 Doses One Dollar. Prepared only by C. I. Hood Co., Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

GREAT EXODUS OF MORMONS TO ALBERTA. Cadston, Alberta, March 24—A very heavy movement of Mormons from Utah is in progress in this section, the population of the town being temporarily doubled and all accommodation exhausted. The season's trek from Utah promises to assume the proportions of an invasion, and it is threatened that shortly there will be more Mormons north than south of the international boundary.

Toronto, March 24—The latest in the Ontario legislature is a bill to amend the Ontario railway act by allowing the members of the legislature to ride free on street cars.

THE EVENING TIMES, ST. JOHN, N. B. WEDNESDAY, MARCH 25, 1908

The Evening Times

The St. John Evening Times is published at 21 and 23 Canterbury street, every evening (Sunday excepted) by the St. John Times Printing and Publishing Co., Ltd. A company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act.

THE EVENING TIMES, THE DAILY TELEGRAPH. New Brunswick's Independent newspapers. These newspapers advocate British connection. Honesty in public life. Measures for the material progress and moral advancement of our great Dominion.

THE GOVERNMENT The Sun expresses the view that under the new provincial government "the administration of public business will go on much as before, and in a few months the people who labored to put Mr. Hazen in power will begin to wonder why the change was made, or at least why such a fuss was made over the changing."

BRITISH POLITICS History is being rapidly made in England in these days of early spring. The British premier, Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman, appears to be passing out of life forever.

The death of the Duke of Devonshire recalls the career of a brilliant man, who, as the Marquis of Hartington, in Gladstone's time, was twice offered the premiership. He opposed the Liberal policy of Home Rule and so became estranged from the party, but he was also against tariff reform and on this issue severed his connection with the Unionists.

ENFORCE THE LAW. (From the Daily Telegraph.) In a short time St. John will know whether or not the provisions of the liquor license law are going to be enforced. The commissioners heretofore have issued more licenses than the law permits. There has been an argument over the question every year, protest on one side and subterfuge on the other, the result usually having been that the commissioners refused to reduce the number of licenses to the legal limit. The old story in this matter is that the "pull" or "influence" of those who do not want the law enforced has always been sufficient to bring political control of the license commission into play. If this be the case it means that the law has been sacrificed from year to year for fear of losing votes, the number of which, by the way, is generally greatly exaggerated.

But what about the influence of those who believe in having the law strictly enforced? Is their influence less than that of those who want things to go on in the old fashion? The politicians will not think so if they think the matter over, or if they let the question drift until a decisive test of public sentiment is demanded. St. John should enforce the license law. To do so will wipe out some of the saloons in several wards which would be much better off under the new conditions. Archbishop Bruchesi, in discussing these matters in Montreal last Sunday had this to say:

"I view with regret, with painful regret, the sad movement of many of our prominent citizens to petition the Legislature not to curtail the liquor power and interests of Montreal. This is a sad affair. Some of the men in this movement are good, upright men, but they are being misled by others. The real leaders in this movement are well known, and so are their motives. We know where these petitions are being signed all over the city. They propose to leave affairs just as they are, when all good and upright men admit that we have entirely too many saloons, and some of them are open all night. Sunday is ignored, the wages of the poor are being squandered, until the saloon is a menace and a danger, a shame and a disgrace. And those men want to leave things as they are!"

"Honest men, men desiring good will, oppose this petition. I appeal to those who love their homes, their country and the interests of humanity. Each of us must realize the duty of taking an unequivocal position on the question of temperance. Every wise and sincere man will oppose the spread of intemperance; oppose it by having the hours of saloons shortened, and, above all, by the lessening of their number."

The organized effort of the liquor men to combat the temperance movement will do the temperance cause more good than harm. There is no room for doubt about it.

There will be no lack of aldermanic candidates, but there is no concerted action to bring out strong men. The next council is not likely to show any improvement over the present one. Perhaps it will not even be as good a council. However, the people have the matter in their own hands. If they do not want a better council they certainly will not have a better one forced upon them. Reform begins on nomination day, or it does not begin at all.

PRAYER IN PACKAGES. One of Henry Ward Beecher's nephews left the Congregational Church and joined the Episcopalian Church which mildly interested but did not particularly displease his various distinguished uncles; for they were all liberal in their theology. During a visit which the nephew made to Rev. Thomas K. Beecher, in Elmira, N. Y., he was invited each morning to take part in family worship; and in each case read his prayer from the Episcopal book of services. The uncle said nothing about it until the last morning he was there, when, having read some verses of Scripture, he turned genially to his guest and said: "Well, Fred, I guess you may give us one of those canned prayers."—Popular Magazine.

CHILD'S PLAY FIRE DRILL ENDS IN DEATH Little Mary Mitchell Used Matches to Make Fun Seem More Real.

Boston, March 23.—Practising a fire drill at her home as taught in one of the public schools of Malden, a touch of realism she devised resulted in the death of 3-year old Mary Elizabeth Mitchell, daughter of James Mitchell, of that city, yesterday, from burns received while playing with matches. Little Mary is a pupil in the West grammar school. She heard people talk of the recent Cleveland schoolhouse calamity, and her mind was kept constantly on the subject by drills at the schoolhouse and by children playing fire department.

REPORTERS' STRIKE IN REICHSTAG ENDED Offending Leader Apologizes for Insulting Remark, and Harmony is Restored.

Berlin, March 24.—The strike of the Reichstag journalists, which began on Thursday last, was settled this evening. Under pressure of the various party leaders, Herr Groeber, the centre leader, who had called the journalists "swine" because they loved a statement used by a member to the effect that negroes also had immortal souls, read a statement at the end of today's sitting, expressing apologies for the language he had used in referring to the journalists. At the conclusion of the statement, a meeting of the journalists was called, and they voted to return to work on Thursday.

CHRISTIAN EDIFICES DISCOVERED IN EGYPT Philadelphia, March 23.—News received from Dr. David Randall MacIver's archaeological expedition to Egypt has greatly interested scientific circles at the University of Pennsylvania. While in the north of Egypt, early in February, Dr. MacIver discovered several Christian churches of a date within two or three centuries after the death of Christ. These were carefully cleared of the heaps of desert sand which have covered them during the lapse of centuries. The members of the expedition then made a map and photographs of the shrines. It is thought at the university that when these maps and pictures are published they will be added to the small amount of knowledge antiquarians possess regarding the churches and the modes of worship of the earliest Christians outside of the city of Rome.

As a rival to the famous Cleopatra vase discovered at Anibeh, which is now carefully boxed up in Cairo, awaiting shipment to the university museum, Dr. MacIver discovered, in a little known locality near the second cataract of the Nile, a number of marvellously carved capitals of columns and a cornice sculptured with the heads of the Royal Draus. This snake was the emblem of the ancient Egyptian monarchy. The columns and the cornice are similar to the sculptures of Philae, and are of the same period. Dr. MacIver believes that these newly discovered pieces of architecture represent the finest works of their class in existence, and for beauty of design and execution he says they rival the work on some of the most famous of the Grecian temples.

FINE CARLETON COUNTY RESIDENCE BURNED Hartland, N. B., March 24.—The beautiful residence of John V. Kearney was entirely destroyed by fire last evening entailing a loss of about $7,000. There was some insurance and nearly all the contents were saved. The blaze originated by the explosion of a lantern in the stable.

Bristol Notes. Bristol, N. B., March 23.—The funeral of Ada Kinney took place this afternoon at the Primitive Baptist church, services being conducted by Rev. D. E. Brooks. The deceased was 26 years of age, and is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson Kinney, and two brothers, Thomas Ebbett has bought the James Jones property at Bath, and moved there. Joseph Holmes, of Beechwood, met with a serious accident on Saturday. He was working in a lath mill, when the saw came into contact with his left hand, completely severing it just below the wrist. The unfortunate man was taken to the Woodstock hospital on the afternoon express.

POLICE COURT MATTERS

WAS A TOTAL WRECK FROM HEART FAILURE.
Heart disease is characterized by its stealthy approach and its variety of forms, yet in all its forms nature gives unmistakable signals which warn us of its presence. One of the first danger signals announcing something wrong with the heart is the irregular beat or violent throbs. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or an "all gone" sinking feeling; or, again there may be the most violent beating, with flushings of the skin and visible pulsations of the arteries. You may experience a smothering sensation, gasp for breath and feel as though about to die. In such cases the action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in quieting the heart, restoring its normal beat and imparting tone to the nerve centres, is, beyond all question, marvellous. They give such prompt relief, such speedy restoration to health that no one need suffer.

CITY AND COUNTY LIQUOR LICENSE APPLICATIONS
Applications for liquor licenses, both for the city and county will close today. In the city up to ten evening seventy-four retail and eleven wholesale applications had been received. One or two more were expected and would make the number about the same as last year. Four new applications have so far been received. In the county the applications received indicate that there will be no change from last year, with the exception that Hugh McCormick is applying for the license at the Three Mile house in place of D. Michaud.

SEWING MACHINE SPECIALTIES.

An important adjunct to our Furniture business of late has been the introduction of guaranteed, reliable Sewing Machines at popular prices—a long felt want. The Emarney $28.50 embodies leading and latest features of highest type Shuttle Sewing Machines. No machine is superior to it in construction, quality of material, finish, workmanship, sewing qualities or durability, and it is much superior to all others. We guarantee it so.

The M. R. A. Special $21.50 is a machine on the same model as the Emarney, except in a few small details. We sell it for $7.00 less because of these differences, though it is an excellent machine in every particular and capable of the best work. ASK US TO TELL YOU MORE.

UPHOLSTERY WORK.

An UP-TO-DATE FURNITURE ESTABLISHMENT is incomplete without an Upholstery Workroom. Our workrooms are modernly equipped and under the supervision of an experienced expert—a designer and originator. Aside from the most refined types of upholstery, such as Silk and Velour work on Drawing-room Furniture, the Upholstery Department executes special orders for Cozy Corners, Window Seats, Lounging Nooks, and unique suggestions to correspond with furnishing schemes. Simply make known your desire, send measurements, ask for samples, and we do the work "to the Queen's taste."

THIS LARDER WAS FULL.

He was Fined $20.00 for raising a disturbance in the Traveller's Home.

Because Alfred Larder attempted to take charge of the Salvation Army Travellers' Home last night and made things lively by using threatening language to Captain Bell, whom he threw a plate and a salt shaker, he was fined $20 or thirty days in jail with hard labor.

For several days the management of the home have been put to a good deal of trouble by a number of bad characters who have been stopping there, and matters reached a climax yesterday.

The Dominion Coal Company had asked Adjutant Manning if he could furnish them with laborers and he sent a half a dozen men who worked until yesterday and then struck, received their pay, and it is said, got drunk. They were turned out of the home last night and some of them sought shelter at the Central Police station.

One common drunk was fined $4 or ten days in jail.

In the absence of Judge Ritchie, Sitting Magistrate G. A. Henderson disposed of the prisoners.

MONCTON WANDERER FEARS BLACK HAND

Moncton, March 25.—Claiming that he is being pursued by the Black Hand society which will eventually kill him and secure the amount for which his life is insured, John McDonald sought protection at the police station this morning. The man told such a startling story that he is thought to be insane. McDonald claims Ireland as his birthplace and says he served all through the Boer war, afterwards coming to America where he located in New York and was married. Then, he says, persecution commenced and he went to Chicago afterwards making his way in easy stages through Ontario and Quebec. Asked what amount his life was insured for he said he didn't know and could not tell the name of the insurance company. He will be held by the police and examined as to his sanity.

UNITED STATES AND JAPAN

Trenton, N. J., Mar. 23.—Ambassador Takahira took advantage of his appearance before a commercial body to tell his auditors something about trade relations between Japan and the United States, and the world and to put in a good word for the coming international exposition to be held under the auspices of the Japanese government in Tokio in 1912. He pointed out what he regarded was the effect the centennial exposition in Philadelphia in 1876 had produced upon the silk trade in Japan, and consequently upon the growth of general commerce between the United States and Japan. In 1876, the Japanese imports from the United States, he said, amounted to a little more than 1,000,000 yen, ($100,000) and this had risen to nearly seventy million yen in 1906.

Will the person who picked up a bunch of keys on March 17 or 18, kindly return them to the Globe office and receive a suitable reward.

PRESIDENT REWARDS HIS NEGRO BARBER

Gets Him a Sixteen Hundred Dollar Job in the United States Civil Service.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Sub-division E of departmental rule 8 of the civil service regulations was wiped from the slate some time ago, but it was restored for the time being when the President appointed his barber, a negro, to a bookkeeper's job in the office of the auditor of the navy department.

William Delaney shaved the President and ran errands, ranking as a messenger. Under the civil service rules a messenger must take the civil service examination to get into the class of a clerk. Formerly the President had the power to boost any one into place without examination, but that provision was abrogated. Secretary Doolittle, of the Civil Service Commission, says, however, that the commission will not question the President's order in this case.

Delaney was a barber before he came to the White House. It has been his duty to shave the President just before luncheon every day, and it has been at this shaving hour that many of the most interesting interviews between the President and his Cabinet officers have occurred. These interviews will drop to 4800 a year. Auditor Tyler, of the navy department, says this is entirely the fault of the clerk who is to be set back. Auditor Tyler says he warned this clerk many times that if he did not mend his ways he would be reduced, and the clerk failed to heed the warning.

Auditor Tyler is a colored man.

'DRINK YOURSELVES TO DEATH;' ONE DID

Crowd of Roughs Follow Policeman's Order and all Succumb at Bar.

PITTSBURG, March 23th.—Line up at the bar, you fellows, and drink! The men that don't drink ten whiskies, two gins and one beer is going to be licked and arrested besides," shouted Policeman David Lennix today after he had chased six members of a rough gang into a saloon.

"You fellows never got enough to drink," he added. "Get busy now and drink yourselves to death!"

One of the men, Henry Thompson, did drink himself to death. After nine whiskies he dropped and died in an ambulance on the way to Passavant Hospital. An unknown negro who consumed fourteen gins under Lennix's bearing, also fell in his tracks and is believed to be dying.

The four other men tried to come up to the standard set by the bluecoat, who also drank but they failed, and succumbed to the effects of the liquor. They are in jail, where physicians are trying to bring them to their senses.

Lennix is missing. The Coroner is expected to order his arrest tomorrow morning. The bluecoat's record here is clear. He has been an exemplary policeman, and his friends cannot conceive how he became so erratic.
