THE QUEEN VS. FEIGHTNER. — At the last sessions held at Woodstock, on the 12th inst., W. T. Feightner, who formerly carried on business as a harness maker in Ingersoll, was found guilty of obtaining money under false pretences from the Molsons' Bank in this place. In January last he applied to Mr. Clinch, the manager, to discount certain promissory notes, stating at that time he was worth from $3,000 to $4,000 over and above all his liabilities. In February following he became insolvent and his liabilities exceeded his assets by $3,800. An information was laid against him before the police magistrate, when he was committed for trial, with the above result. The question of false pretences appeared to be that at the time he made the statement to Mr. Clinch, he concealed certain large liabilities, one to his father who was the first to sue him when trouble arose. This case is considered of some importance to the Banking community as well as to the private investors, as it was held that the wilful concealment of a man's financial standing, when making a statement for the purpose of obtaining credit, subjects him to criminal proceedings.

$50.000 to Loan on Real Estate at Lowest Rates. Apply to Brown & Wells, Barristers. 1593tf

PARTIES requiring money on good security can obtain any amount they may require at from one to two per cent. cheaper than any where else by applying to P. O. Box 29, Ingersoll. Business strictly confidential. 82

MORE people, adults and children, are troubled with costiveness than with any other illness. Dr. Henry Baxter's Mandrake Bitters will cure costiveness and prevent the diseases which result from it. 06.

DIED.

PIPER—At his residence, Putnaville, L. I., near Brooklyn, N. Y., on June 4th, 1884, of Typhoid Fever, ENOCH B. PIPER, in the 75th year of his age. Interment in Greenwood Cemetery, June 7th, 1884.

Enoch B. Piper, was formerly of West Oxford, (Piper's Corners), from whom the place derives its name, and lived there for upwards of 64 years.

In 1874 he removed to New York, his sons and several of his daughters having previously settled there. Prior to his removal to the States, he met with a severe hurt, resulting in partial paralysis and permanent lameness, forcing him to forego all active physical labor during the remainder of his life, this had much to do with debilitating his system and being the final contributing cause of death.

While a resident of Canada he held at various times several local municipal offices.

In the year 1875, he met with an irreparable loss in the death of his eldest son, James N., in his 40th year, a lawyer of marked ability, and in successful practice in New York city.

Mr. Piper's last illness was of short duration, for though previously suffering from a lingering malarial fever and loss of appetite, coupled with general weakness of all the vital organs, his death was not expected therefrom; two days prior thereto, the fever took an aggravated typhoid character, which was pronounced by his attending physician to be of a fatal type. Though his last moments were passed in unconsciousness, his death was peaceful and painless, passing away without a struggle.

There survive him, his widow Mary Ann Piper, his son Robert A. Piper, also his four daughters, Mrs. Griffith, of Thorndale, Ont., Mrs. Percival, of Brooklyn, N.Y., Mrs. Clement, wife of the Hon. N. H. Clement, Judge of the Brooklyn City Court, and Mrs. de Normandie, of Milwaukee, Wis.

In the youth and vigor of manhood, Bro. Piper gave his heart to God, was born anew of the spirit. He became a man of faith and prayer. He was a faithful class-leader for over forty years. His godly admonitions, his exhortations and prayers backed up by a consisting Christian life, have left to the church and his family a rare and rich inheritance. Hundreds of ministers and lawyers of the Wesleyan Methodist Church of Canada will recognize in this brief sketch the life and death of an old and beloved brother. He fell asleep in Jesus, having a hope "big with immortality." He now awaits the trump of "the first resurrection." 1st Thess., 4-15; Rev. 20, 5-6.

The Bible and Its Value.

PAPER X.—THE LAST.

Love your Bible as your dearest and most priceless treasure. Part with all else before this.

In the Covenanter's struggle of 1662, among the many martyrs for the truth's sake, was a man called John Brown, of Priesthill. The cruel Claverhouse asked him to give up his Bible, and he would not, but would rather forfeit his life. The order was given, the shots were fired at the living Godly target.

After the fatal shot, the hard hearted officer turned to the widow and orphaned children saying, "What do you think of your husband now?" She nobly replied "I ever thought much of him and now more than ever," and the brave woman gathered up his scattered brains, rolled his lifeless body in a shawl, and laid him down to rest with a kiss, to wait the resurrection morn.

A truer estimate of suffering for principle, never fell from human lips. In the Crimean war a young soldier lay weltering on the field of battle. A kind officer passing by said, "brave fellow can I help you?" I think not. "Shall I get you a drink of water?" Never mind. "Shall I write to your friends at home?" I have no home nor friends. "Can I do nothing for you?" Well, said the dying soldier, "If you will do me the greatest kindness possible, then put your hand in my knapsack and take out a little book and read about Jesus—a book my mother gave me." The officer tremblingly took it out, and according to direction opened to the 3rd chapter of John's Gospel. Read quickly said the bleeding man, the 27th verse. Then with weeping eyes the officer read, "Peace I leave with you, my place I give unto you, not as the world giveth, give I unto you, let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid." "That will do" said the wounded man, "That will do." "I have that peace." By the influence of God's word upon the hearts of nations, the time will come when despotism and cruelty of customs, and war and every form of evil shall cease. "A long time coming" says one. By the history of the past and the facts of the present we learn that we can afford to wait. While the best systems of philosophy in the past, abounded with abominations, the best system of morals today are self-sacrificing and Christ like. While Mexico is yet the home of many a desperado, yet it is no longer true that Mexico by the command of her monarch, offers, under the dripping knife, 20,000 of her most stalwart men every year as a sacrifice to the sun as in days gone by! While England has yet many wrongs to be put right, yet no longer doth the Druid priest plunge his knife in human hearts, as the most necessary part in their worship of idols. While the world over there is a vast amount of religious work to be accomplished, yet a knowledge of God's fatherhood, and love, has made men less brutal and more human, less selfish and more Christ like. Some fear that subtle forms of infidelity are undermining the faith of the general public in the Holy Scriptures, but we are satisfied that the Bible has overcome more danger and peril in the past than can be possible again in all future time. Its truths were never deeper and more abiding in the great heart of mankind than to-day. Every age and every sex we believe devote more time to the study of God's word now than at any former period. Pamphlets, periodicals, and papers by the million are being circulated in (the ever increasing) Sabbath Schools, in defence and explanation of God's word. These papers in general are remarkably cheap and equally complete.

The Bible graces the libraries of kings, and is the chief treasure of the mountain cabin. It is studied by the immigrant in his waggon, and by the Indian in his wigwam. Sailors bend over it lovingly on every sea, and soldiers peruse it diligently in all camps of the world.

Our young men are the hope of the future, and to them especially do we say in concluding these papers: Cling to the Bible. Then all things noble and true will cling to you. Study it by the best helps, and—like many of the best men of the human family—rather die for principle, than by more policy—rather die for right than live in wrong doing—give up all rather than slight the Bible, the best of books.

The Bible "book of books" doth all excel,
It tells of God, and heaven, of sin and hell,
Informs how man by sin from God hath strayed,
And tells that Christ for all atonement made;
It makes them wise indeed who seek to know
That God, who life eternal can bestow.

This book could not by craft of men be wrote,
Good men nor angels would not fraud promote,
Nor would with vile deceit proclaim
It God's own word and thus profane His name.
Bad men nor evils never could forfeit
Of sin, its danger and of its reward in hell;
Nor could they true holiness commend,
Which they dislike and comprehend.

Thus by plain simple truth it may be shown,
This Bible is from God, and God alone.

R. B. ROWE.

Ingersoll, June 19, 1884.

THE Local Examination for Women in connection with the University of Toronto will be held in the High School on Tuesday and Wednesday, 24th and 25th June. Some twenty have entered for this examination, which is to be presided over by J. B. Jackson, B. A. The candidates will be examined on Tuesday in French and Mathematics; on Wednesday in English History and Geography.

CURE FOR CROUP AND DIPTHERIA.—Ruth Lockwood, the nine year-old child of T. Lockwood, a compositor in the New York Times office, became violently ill with diphtheria on Tuesday night. She was so weak that it was deemed dangerous to try tracheotomy, or cutting open the windpipe. On Thursday Dr. Nichols, of 117 West Washington Place, who was attending her, received a copy of the Paris Figaro, which contained a report made to a French Academy of Medicine by Dr. Delthil. Dr. Delthil said that the vapors of liquid tar and turpentine would dissolve the fibrinous exudations which choke up the throat in croup and diphtheria. Dr. Delthil's process was described. He pours out equal parts of turpentine and liquid tar into a tin pan or cup and sets fire to the mixture. A dense resinous smoke arises which obscures the air of the room. "The patient," Dr. Delthil says, "immediately seems to experience relief; the choking and rattle stop; the patient falls into a slumber, and seems to inhale the smoke with pleasure. The fibrinous membrane soon becomes detached, and the patient coughs up microbicides. These, when caught in a glass, may be seen to dissolve in the smoke. In the course of three days afterwards the patient entirely "recovers." Dr. Nichols tried this treatment yesterday with little Ruth Lockwood. She was lying gasping for breath when he visited her. First pouring about two tablespoonfuls of liquefied tar on an iron pan, he poured as much turpentine over it and set it on fire. The rich resinous smoke which rose to the ceiling was by no means unpleasant. As it filled the room the child's breathing became natural, and as the smoke grew dense she fell asleep

County Court.

The County Court and General Quarter Sessions opened on Tuesday before Judge Macqueen. The following is the CIVIL DOCKET.

Plff's Att'y. Deft's Att'y.

Sackrider vs. Sackrider. A Finkle.

A S Ball, Tavistock Milling Co. vs. Landredth. H J Finkle.

J H Nellis, Norris vs. Grand Trunk Railway. J Bell.

W Norris, Rothschild et al vs. Wilton et al. T Wells.

C F Clarke, Hay et al vs. Tolmie et al. D K Cunningham.

H J Finkle, McLeod vs. Garthwaite. A Finkle.

W G Eakins, Oatman vs. Harrison et al. C F Clarke.

A Finkle, Baynton vs. Walbourne. H J Finkle.

J H Nellis, Davidson vs. Wilson. H J Finkle.

Mowat, McLellan & Co. H M East.

A Sampson, Adamson vs. Yeager.

The Queen vs. W. T. Feightner,—Two cases of obtaining money on false pretences. The grand jury found true bills.

The Queen vs. Grandy, larceny,—True bill.

Sackrider vs. Sackrider,—This was an action brought by the daughter of the defendant to recover amount due her for wages. The defence was that there was no contract. Verdict for plaintiff, $200.

The Queen vs. Wm. Dykeman, doing grievous bodily harm to Munroe Bradley at Norwich. The grand jury brought in a true bill.

The Queen vs. Charles A. Anderson, false pretences.—Two cases. The grand jury returned no bills.

Tavistock Milling Co'y. vs. Landredth.—This action was brought to recover $200, the amount subscribed by the defendant to the stock for the above company. The defence was that the directors had not carried out the terms of the agreement upon which the stock was subscribed. His Honor discharged the jury, and gave judgement for plaintiff for $124,20, with full costs.

Norris vs. Grand Trunk Railway.—This was a case brought by Mr. Norris, a barrister of this town, for damages by reason of falling into a hole at the station at this place on the 24th of December last. His Honor directed a verdict for defendant, and directed judgement accordingly with costs. Judgement to be entered third day of next sittings.

Rothschild vs. Wilton et al.—To recover amount of a promissory note. There being no defence, a verdict for full amount was entered.

"Modern Thought."

To the Editor of THE CHRONICLE:

SIR:—I notice in your last issue some of the most scandalous assertions respecting the Church of our Father's and the most blasphemous perversion of the Holy Bible.

If such is the abridged ideas of George Dawson and his admirer, how utterly vile must be the full text. It is well called "Modern Thought," hundreds of years ago it was foretold that in these (our time) some would depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrine of devils; speaking lies in hypocrisy; having their conscience seared."

If a man after thirty or forty years ministry in the Baptist Church is so infatuated as to become an admirer of Geo. Dawson's works and seeks by subtle and sophistry with his folutin terms such as Philosophical Evolution Theism &c., &c., to turn aside the weak and wavering; then the character of such a man is truly set forth by the foregoing quotations from Timothy 1st: Tell it not in Gath, publish it not in the streets of Ashkelon" lest the Infidel rejoice; that such a man can endorse or even seek to promulgate such vile blasphemy. It would be incomprehensible if we were not bold in the word of God there would be such men in the latter times, this he would not believe, if he openly avows the Bible to be false, that conscience is higher than the Bible, and sneeringly disavows his belief in creation, calls God a liar and declares that better knowledge put out hell fire and that this wonderful knowledge is brought about through lawyers and trained intellects.

Such is a few of the select sentences he has favoured us with in the article alluded to.

Trusting you will not be asked to insert any similar article.

Yours &c.,
TENAS.

The Tug-of-War.

To the Editor of THE CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR.—As their has been a misunderstanding, and considerable one-sided talk about the tug-of-war between the townships of Dorchester and East Nissouri on the 26th May, and as each of the parties have had their own say about it, it may not be out of place for me to give the facts. In the first the rules of the Caledonian Society, that three men were to be pulled over the centre line (and which was fully explained to the parties by our manager of the games) was certainly not performed, and on Mr. Hodge requesting them to pull it over as per rule, parties refused to do so. The referee then called out that it was no "pull," and there and then gave up the contest. I asked Mr. Hodge what was best to do in the matter—will we divide the money? He said yes, that is the way the matter rested at the end of the games, but on asking the captains to take half of the prize each, they refused to do so. I afterwards saw the Captain of the Dorchester team, and asked him if they were willing to "pull" it over again on the 1st July, and be governed by the rules of the Caledonian Society, and we would add fifty per cent, to the original prize, making it $60 to the winners. He again objected, saying that they, the Dorchester team, had won it fairly. Now I would just ask those parties, what use would it be for us to send to Toronto for a non-interested and competent person to look after our games and give each and all fair play, and then allow the contesting parties to be their own judges and decide on their own merits?

And now, in conclusion, as they will not divide the money, nor "pull" over again, I am authorized by the Society to make them another offer, and I think it a just one. In order to show them that the money is ready at any time, we will leave it to the two teams themselves, and whatever mutual decision they come at we will agree to, and hand over the money in any way they may decide upon.

Yours &c.,
Wm. Ewart,
Chief Caledonian Society, Ingersoll.
Ingersoll, June 16, 1884.

Literary Notes.

Sir Fredrick Leghton, President of the Royal Academy, will be one of the leading artist contributors to the July Harper's.

"There is nothing new under the sun." A century ago English society talked of the "standard beauties" as we talk to-day of the professional beauties;" but instead of paying their dollars or their guineas to see a Mrs. Langtry on the stage the populace followed "the beauty Gunnings" in the Park by thousands, and mobbed them till the police were required to protect them from the too-admiring crowd. Those were the days which Horace Walpole loved to chronicle, and now their memory is revived by a paper of pleasant gossip on "The Professional Beauties of the Last Century," promised in the July Harper's from the pen of Mrs. Comyns Carr. Sir Joshua's portraits of Maria Walpole, of Mrs. Brinley Sheridan, Read's of the two Gunning sisters, and Romney's of Lady Hamilton, have been finely engraved to illustrate the paper.

Many people will be surprised to learn that the celebrated Ku Klux Klan was originally a pleasure club of less than ten young men, who came together occasionally for an evening of harmless fun. In the July Century Rev. D. L. Wilson, of Pulaski, Tenn., the birth-place of the Klan, will furnish a remarkable contribution to history in an account of its origin, progress, and final disbandment after laws against it had been passed by several of the State governments. For obvious reasons no names are given, but the statements made are vouched for as being authentic.

Putnam.

Mr. S. Bennett has purchased the B. C. church property in the village.

A tug-of-war between North Oxford and Dorchester finishes the sports of the day.

Mr. Heber Crews preaches his farewell sermon next Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. James Craik who has been ill for some time is getting better.

Mr. Geo had two cows killed on the crossing near Samuel Barr's one day last week.

Mr. Timothy Stevens who has been attending Commercial College in Detroit for some time, returned home last Saturday.

Mr. Joseph Couch had a barn raising last Saturday. A tug-of-war was indulged in at the close which afforded some good sport. Five of our amateurs pulled five of our professionals all over the village.

Great preparations are being made for spending Dominion Day in grand style in our village. Over $75 to be given in prizes. In the morning a match game of base ball will be played between Crampton and Mossley clubs.

ALL kinds of canned goods guaranteed good at Beck's. 80.

ENGRAVED calling cards at the CHRONICLE office.

EVERY bottle of Arnica & Oil Liniment sold is warranted by the proprietors to give satisfaction or money will be refunded. 06.

CALLING cards and wedding invitation with envelopes to match at the CHRONICLE office.

DISTRICT NEWS.

North Oxford.

Alexander St. Clair has rented the blacksmith shop at Spearman's Corners from B. Minkler and is doing a good business.

Mrs. Samuel Mercer, of Angus village, is at her Mother's, Mrs Spearman, recruiting her health.

Chas. Edwards is the possessor of a curious hen's egg. There is a perfect egg within another egg, the inside one being of the average size, the other is formed outside. The egg is of extraordinary size measuring 11 inches in circumference

Mt. Elgin.

Where are you going on Dominion Day is the vital question here at present.

Messrs. Austin Miller, Hugh Ross, and Ed. Kennedy are back from Port Dalhousie for a time.

Evangilistic services were held on Sabbath evening, by Messrs. Curtis and White of Toronto assisted by Rev. Mr. Willett.

The meetings of the Ladies' Aid Society are increasing in interest and popularity, the gathering at Mr. James' on Friday evening last was one of the largest and most enjoyable of the series. The Lemon Pie Brigade especially seemed to enjoy it. The next one will be held at Mr. Daniel Tripp's.

Avon.

Mrs. Bella Matthews, of Florida, who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Monnell, for the last few weeks, returned to her former home at Pt. Dover, yesterday.

Mr. William Jolliffe returned from Belleville last week where he has been engaged in the book business. Mr. Jolliffe leaves for Kent County next week where he intends starting work again.

Mrs. Degroat wife Mr. Jonathan Degroat died Monday morning. Mrs. Degroat has been sick only two weeks and up to that time had enjoyed excellent health. She leaves a family of small children, and we feel sure Mr. Degroat has the sympathy of the community in his affliction. The funeral took place on Tuesday at 1 o'clock.

Walter Parsons, youngest son of Mr. Thomas Parsons, had a narrow escape from death last Friday. The team which he was driving got frightened became unmanageable and ran away throwing him out of the wagon with several heavy planks on top of him. When found he was in an insensible condition with a bad cut on the back of his head and in the face. Although badly hurt it is thought he will be around in a few weeks.

West Zorra.

On Monday afternoon last two young men David Pine, West Zorra, and Jas. Kelley, Downie, were brought before J. H. Thorne, J. P., Embro, charged with breaking into the house of Archie McMillan, E. Nissouri and breaking furniture and damaging property in general. Kelley pleaded guilty; Pine, not guilty. The was damage $150. The prisoner Pine acknowledges being present but says he didn't take any hand in the work of destruction. The only reason given by Kelley is that he was drunk. After hearing the case Mr. Thorne sent them to Woodstock for trial.—Courier.

Rev. Mr. Munro, announced in the Presbyterian Church on Sabbath morning that the amount subscribed by the congreation towards the Knox College amounted to about $1,000.

Another of Zorra's sons has recently distinguished himself at the Toronto University viz., Donald McKay, who has just passed his third year examination with honors, standing first in departments of Mental and Moral Science and Civil Polity, and taking a scholarship of $150.

Mrs Walker, one of the oldest residents of this township passed away on 14th inst at the ripe old age of 81 years. She had been a sufferer for two years past. The funeral took place on Sunday and was attended by a large number of friends. Deceased leaves a numerous family.

West Oxford.

Mr. White, an evangelist under the auspices of the Canada Evangelization Society, is holding meetings with great success in the West Oxford Baptist Church.

The grading of the road in front of J. G. Wood's place will be well received by the travelling public. Mr. Wood and son deserve credit for the very excellent way they have done the work. The road last spring that people used to shun for fear of losing their rig or breaking their horse's leg, will, when finished, be travelled by the public with pleasure.

On Sunday, June 29th, at Falden's Corners, West Oxford, Bush Meetings will be held as follows:—From 2 to 2.30 p.m. a Children's Meeting; from 2.30 to 3 o'clock, Prayer and Praise; from 3 to 4, Evangelistic Meeting, to be addressed by the Evangelists Curtis and White, and others; from 4 to 5, a Testimony Meeting, in which a large number are expected to take part. All are invited.

West Oxford Cheese factory has assumed such a big standing for the great quantity manufactured and the very excellent quality of the cheese, which has placed this factory "excelsior," has been raised by our efficient cheese maker, Mr. James Ireland. This factory, we are informed, has made fifty cheese in one day and still increasing. Where many of our neighboring factories are not making more than twenty cheese a day, it will teach them what a first-class cheese maker will do for a factory.

The following is the percentage obtained by the cheese made at Oxford, No. 9, at the recent examination:—4th Class, Sr.—Aggie Currie, 72. 4th Class, Jr.—Eliza Currie, 60; Laura McNames, 58; Isaac Skuce, 55; Nancy Marshall, 45. 3rd Class—Sara Fairbanks, 63; Arthur Huntley, 62; Frank Uren, 61; Wm. Caddie, 59; Annie Swadling, 57; Annie Brown, 55; Francis Swadling, 49. 2nd Class—Thersa Brown, 60; Bertie Johnson, 56. Sequel Class, Sr.—A. Marshall, 85; Lilly Fairbanks, 79; Geo. Galloway, 75; Sadie Uren, 54; Bertha Marshall, 48. Sequel Class, Jr.—Harold Young, 83; Ashton Brown, 74; Eddie Frink, 58. 1st Class—Albert Galloway, 86; Mable Uren, 82; Harmon Frink, 54.

The Council of West Oxford met pursuant to adjournment. All members present. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. Communication from Clerk of North Dorchester read. Account from Pattullo & Co., presented. B. Harris, Robt. Coventry, Jas. Elliott, J. J. McLaughlan, and Freeman Carr heard respecting sheep killed by dogs. Council adjourned to meet again during the afternoon. Court of Revision constituted members made declaration of office. Appeals read, parties heard. J. Cormick's name inserted, instead of Thos. Coverdill; property charged to Leigh charged to Elias Cook. Assessment roll examined. On motion it was resolved that the assessment roll as now revised and corrected be passed, the Court rise and Council resume. Council resumed. Wm. Todd appointed pathmaster for Beat No. 29 in the place of John Clark-son; Robert Cook to Beat No. 15, instead of David Todd. and P. C. Bastedo for Beat No. 42 instead of Robt. Barnett. It was further resolved that the Reeve and Mr. Curry ascertain if necessary to open a culvert to cross the Sweabury road near W. Thornton's farm; that the Clerk procure such book or books he may consider suitable for the use of the Inspector of Trees, to be kept for future reference; also that $3 per week shall be charged for the use of the Town Hall in future when used by the Salvation Army; that the Clerk cause the necessary notices to be posted and advertised that it is the intention of this Council to pass a by-law to close and sell that portion of the original road allowance between the 4th and 5th concessions from the easterly limit of Lot 13 to the westerly limit of Lot No. 14. By-law No. 275, authorizing the Reeve to sign deeds of conveyance of original allowance for road between lots 1 and the Gore passed. It was further resolved that the Reeve sign orders on the Treasurer in favor of the following parties who sell Harris, $3.33, for one sheep worried by dogs; Robt. Coventry, $6.66, for one sheep and one lamb killed by dogs; John Downing, $3.25, for provision and wood supplied John Ackva, an indigent; Richard Peers, $85, for services as assessor; James Elliott, $7.33, for one sheep killed and one worried by dogs; J. J. McLaughlin, $6.66 for one sheep killed and one worried by dogs; Freeman Carr, $4, one sheep killed by dogs; Wm. Smiley, P.L.S., $12, for survey of road allowance between Lot one and the Gore; Freeman Karn, $20, for the benefit of D. McCombs and family, indigents; Pattullo & Co., $3, for advertisement; James Curry, $10, for benefit of Thos. Ranger, an indigent; Freeman Karn, $5, for the benefit of Widow Bartlett; James Curry, $9, for disbursements in connection with the survey of line between the Gore and Lot 1; John Fairbairn, $3.50, for groceries supplied John Ackva; J. Wood, $2, for attendance on Council; the several Councillors, $2 each, for one day's session. Council adjourned to meet again on Monday, the 7th July next.

FIZ! Zip! goes the Soda Fountain at R. Vance's Confectionery. 02

CALL and see the immense stock of Wall Papers, Floor Oil Cloths, Window Cornices, Window Shades, &c., at L. Thompson's McCaughey's Block. 41.

TIME, ITS VALUE.

To-day is ours, why should we care?
To-day is ours, why should we fear?
To-day is ours, why should we sorrow?
For to the gods belong to-morrow.
Therefore for to-day, chew Gold Coin Tobacco, it is the best. 06

THE FIRST AUSTRALIAN DIGGER.

How the Gold Mines were Discovered—Experience in California Put to Good Account.

The first Australian digger was Edward Hargreaves. George Sutherland, who has written a useful article on the beginning of the gold fields, started with Hargreaves, who, having been reduced to sell his sheep as tallow in Australia, migrated to the newly discovered gold regions of California. He did not do well there, but he observed the similarity of the auriferous soil in California to spots he had noticed in New South Wales. Like the boy in the fable who left his mountain home for the pretty blue mountains only to find that those he had left were equally blue, Hargreaves returned, and literally in the Blue Mountains found gold. The Hon. Mr. McIntyre of the Victorian Legislature has told me some particulars of Hargreaves. Capt. Devlin met him in California, and, although regarding his hopes of discovering gold in Australia as delusive, assisted him to return to Sydney.

They traveled together, and on the day after their arrival the Captain saw Hargreaves mounted on an old horse, to obtain which he had borrowed some money at over 100 per cent. As he traveled to the Blue Mountains he told everybody he encountered of his faith and hope, but all laughed at him save one, Mrs. Lister, landlady of an inn where he stopped, who sent her son to be his guide. Sure enough the gold was found, and Hargreaves broke into a laugh, saying to young Lister: "This is a memorable day in the history of New South Wales. For this day's work I shall be created a baronet, you will be knighted, and my old horse will be stuffed with straw and sent to the British Museum!" But he is plain Edward Hargreaves yet, and Victoria has not yet paid up all its part of the money voted him by the colonies. However, he was rewarded about £15,000, which, as Mr. Sutherland remarks, is in notable contrast with the poverty and neglect in which died another Hargreaves, inventor of the spinning jenny, which has coined £300,000,000 sterling.

The Colonial Secretary of the time disbelieved the discovery, because the regular geologists had not made it; and his disbelief was succeeded by his dislike of it. "You must remember," he said to Hargreaves, "that as soon as Australia becomes known as a gold-producing country, it is utterly spoiled as a receptacle of convicts." This Secretary, who discouraged the gold discovery, Deas Thompson, was afterward made a "Sir," but not the discoverer—who, by the way, spent only a year or two in the search for gold, and is now a hale and happy old gentleman of Sydney.

The discoverer of gold in Victoria was James Esmond, who also got his training in California, where his experience was much the same as that of Hargreaves. He returned to Australia with a new eye in his head for rocks and earths, and his discovery was near Ballarat. The name of the spot was, I believe, Poverty Flat, and the name proved ominous. After getting together a considerable fortune, poor Esmond lost it all in trying to make it bigger.

I had the pleasure of an introduction to the Hon. Peter Lalor, Speaker of the Victorian Legislature. He is a large and striking figure, but this glory is the stump of his lost arm. The Speaker's arm was lost while fighting against the Victorian soldiery in riots at the Eureka mine, near Ballarat. When thousands were out here digging for gold, the Government (then under Gov. Hotham) imposed on each digger the necessity of obtaining a license, for which he had to pay thirty shillings a month. Mr. Sutherland has, unfortunately, not told in his pamphlet the story of the riots, a romantic page in the history of Ballarat. It was in 1854, when the gold fever was in its height, that this cost for licenses—which some did not get gold enough to pay for—was felt to be excessive. But no rebellion against it might have occurred had not the Government enforced it in an oppressive and exasperating way. I have been told by persons who were mixed up in the affair that a man was liable to be accosted by a policeman at any moment and his license demanded, and if he did not happen to have it about him, was at once handcuffed and chained to a log, there to remain for trial next day. The diggers' blood boiled over at last, but, like many English agitators before them, they made a false step—they took to soldiering.—Australasian.

Right Aims.

With all our boasted education, we have yet to utilize those lessons of self-knowledge and self-respect which should inspire each young boy and girl not to look forward with greedy eye to the possibility of becoming a great statesman or leader of fashion or a star, but to search diligently for his or her capacity, and to develop it, whatever it may be, in all earnestness, faithfulness and loyalty. Both in home-life and in school-life our influence over the young should always be in this direction. It is not a depressing influence; on the contrary, it is ennobling and full of the greatest hope. It is the only path to happiness, for no one is ever so happy as when he is successfully engaged in doing that which he can do well. It is the only path to virtue, for assuredly the worth of an individual to society depends on his being in the right place and doing his own appropriate work.

The Oldest Telephone—As Far as Heard From.

A little more than fifty years ago the employees of the Arms Shoe Manufactory at South Deerfield beguiled their leisure hours by kite-flying. Kites large and small were sent up daily, and the strife was to see who would get the largest. The twine which held them was the shoe thread spun and twisted by the ladies of the village. One day to the tail of the largest kite was attached a kitten sewed in a canvas bag, with a netting over its mouth to give it air. When the kite was at its greatest height—some 200 feet or more—the mewing of the kitten could be distinctly heard by those holding the string. To the clearness of the atmosphere was attributed the hearing of the kitten's voice, and no telephonic patent was applied for.

Are Women's Tongues Self-Cocking.

Perhaps it is the way their tongues are built. If it is a physical peculiarity, the rest of the world ought to be willing to accept matters and the sex without complaint. A woman can't even buy a half-dozen stamps without making three times as many words over it as a man would. If she can't get the seats she wants at the box-office of a theatre she invariably thinks it necessary to explain at full length why she doesn't want those in the orchestra circle and why she did want the others, If, in the transmission of any business, she comes to the conclusion, she never thinks it sufficient to announce the conclusion unsupported. She always goes back to the beginning of the process of thought and emotion by which she arrived at the end, and insists on telling it all to the very last step.

It is of no use trying to stop her or turn her off the track, or make her forget about it. She thinks she has been thinking, and she means to tell all about it. She is feebly conscious that her intellectual machinery has been at work, and she can no more keep from making the fact known than a hen can conceal the fact that she has laid an egg.

It must be that women's tongues are self-cocking and are intended by nature to go off when the brain moves. That is the only explanation for the superfluity of talking which women always seem impelled to do. It is a physical necessity, along with their laughing and the peculiar wobble with which they always try to run, and the unexplainable use of their arms and hands when they carry an umbrella. They can't help it. Nature made them so, and if they didn't laugh three-fourths of the time, and talk three times as much as is necessary, to say nothing of using twice as many words as are needful, perhaps they would die.—Boston Globe.

Woman.

Last and best of God's creations;
Builder, strength, and hope of nations,
Whose name has deck'd all history's pages—
Mother of warriors, martyrs, sages;
With voice so full of music's cadence,
And eye that beams with heaven's radiance,
And touch that soothes when pain around us
Throws her cloak, and Death confounds us;
So gentle, loving, sweet, forgiving;

FARM AND DAIRY.

Care of Cows and Calves.

A good, kind of farmer, who takes good care of his stock, always has good cows, while the cross, penurious one has poor cows. The first always treats his cow kindly, makes her love him, and she will even come to meet him at milking time. The other scolds, kicks and excites his cow; perhaps sends the dog to fetch her home, feeds at different hours, and milks early or late, or not at all, as convenient. The good milker has his regular hour to milk, never feeds till after milking, and then gives some good milk-producing food like corn and oats ground, soaked or cooked (never corn alone unless soaked); and gives salt at regular times not less than twice a week. Here in the West we have the best success in raising calves by hand on skimmed milk. Calves, like all young stock, should be kept growing every day till they reach maturity. Great care should be taken not to heat their milk too hot. Feed lightly at first, and increase moderately as the calf requires. Never feed cornmeal to a calf, but rather oatmeal sifted; if costive, give a little linseed oil meal; if scours, feed a little scalded milk.—J. W. F., Hansen Neb., In Country Gentlemen.

Do Sheep Improve the Land.

Mr. Buell read a paper on this subject before the Michigan sheep breeders. On wheat producing farms sheep have many advantages over any other of our domestic animals, some of which are:

1. They are less subject to contagious diseases, for the reason that the flock can be more easily kept isolated.

2. When individual losses do occur they are less in value than in case of the loss of a horse or cow.

3. They grow quickly and mature early, and with their fleeces, pay dividends oftener than any other live stock.

4. When summer fallowing is practised, they act as gleaners in clearing fence corners of briers and weeds and in keeping down the annual grasses that spring up on plowed lands.

5. During winter they are still doing their work of converting the surplus straw into fertilizers.

Land is no more exhausted by growing something that has nutritious qualities than in producing worthless weeds; while the former consumed on the ground by sheep, leaves increased material for a succeeding growth of still more value. Sheep, by their peculiar qualities and merits produce this change with certainty and at a very perceptible rate. That sheep will improve the fertility of your soil may be very easily demonstrated.

Notes.

Skim milk contains all the clements for growing the muscle and bones of young animals.

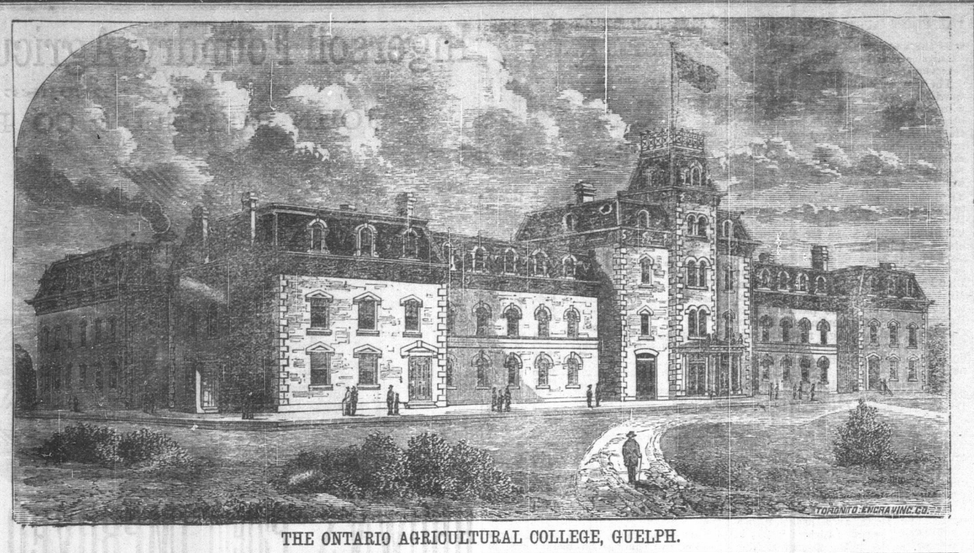
Ventilation in the dairy should be done at night or early in the morning when the air is the coolest.

Provide mangel wurtzel for cows. In winter it will repay you in milk. It is the best root crop for cattle.

Including cheese and butter factories there now 400 establishments of that kind in the Province of Ontario.

George F. Lord, Elgin, Ill., "one of the State's most successful dairymen," keeps 100 cows on his 300 acre farm, which is not so remarkable as the fact that he "has not raised a pound of hay for years." His dependence is corn fodder, drilled 3½ feet apart, cut when in blossom, one row at a time, with a self-raking reaper, the machine throwing it off in gavels, which, when sufficiently wilted, are bound, "set up in large stacks" and left thus to cure till winter when it is stored in the barn. He secures in this way about seven tons of the dry forage per acre, which he says is "worth as much as the best hay."

The result of the New York Agricultural Experiment Station tests of ensilage feeding are in substance as follows: The milk yield of the herd under trial decreased during the fodder corn feeding and increased under the same corn ensilage, and the absolute increase between the two feeds was decidedly in favor of the ensilage. The feeding of ensilage in comparison with the stored fodder corn from the same field was, first, more favorable to the maintenance second, less dry weight required; third, less water drank; fourth increased milk yield. The apparent result of the whole trial is that ensilage is decidedly useful food when fed in connection with grain.



When the Norwegian farmer's wife begins her dairying in the summer, and and the herds have been driven to the upland pastures, she takes special pains in making the first cheese, for it is for Nipen the old Norse wood and water spirit. The offering is taken in the dusk of the evening to a high, bare rock and left there, Sometimes a sweetcake in the making of which every maiden must assist, and a can of ale is added to the feast for Nipen. In the morning it is gone, and the farmer's wife is sure that her cows will give down rich milk that her lambs will not perish in untimely storms, and that her good man's boat on the fiord will bring him safely home. She has given "hostages" to Nipen.

Continuous wheat growing without manure has exhausted the once fertile wheat fields of southern Australia, so that they now almost worthless. A few years ago England boasted that supplies of wheat from Australia would make its people independent of the American bread supply. The same is now being said of wheat from India. The trouble with these far-off countries is that when bulky products like grain have to be shipped half way around the globe to a market, the price to the producer is necessarily so low that the farmer cannot afford to maintan the fertility of his soil. This is one chief reason for wheat failures in southern Russia, where the soil was once supposed to be almost inexhaustible.

"The Civil war in America," says Robert Brown, an eminent British scientist, was due to the selective power of roots and ignorance of vegetable physiology. Politics aside, this is no paradox. Tobacco and cotton are both exhausting crops. They require many substances to nourish them, and a great lot of all of them. Hence they wear out the soil. For miles and miles along the banks of the Mississippi there are worn-out estates of the thriftless planters. For a time this did not matter: land was plentiful and the soil virgin. But by and by the land which could easily be brought under cultivation for the staple crops got scarce. Then the planters wished to remove to the newer States further west, and to carry along with them their peculiar institution. This was objected to by the free States and then commenced that quarrel which culminated in four years of bloodshed, and the end of slavery on the North American Continent. If the Southerners had known about manures or rather chosen to apply their knowledge as they have to do now. Appomatox Court House might still have been an obscure spot in Virginia, and the late unpleasantness an unwritten volume of the history of the Great Republic.

☞In the Diamond Dyes more coloring is given than in any known Dyes, and they give faster and more brilliant colors. 10c. at all druggists. Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt. Sample Card, 32 colors, and book of directions for 2c. stamp.

ENGRAVED calling cards at the CHRONICLE office.

THE ONTARIO AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, GUELPH.

Feeding Cows for Milk.

To the milk producer the quantity of milk each cow produces is an important item, and how he shall obtain that result is the question for him to solve. Can quantity be obtained, or increased, except at the expense of quality? Every experienced dairyman will answer this in the affirmative. A cow may be considered a machine for producing milk. She must be properly fed and cared for, or the result is unsatisfactory; it is vain to expect that a cow will give milk without sufficient and proper food, as to expect the steam engine to afford power without sufficient water and fuel. If we feed the steam boiler with water in excess, or in insufficient quantity, and only fuel enough to merely keep the water warm, it is vain to look for power; and so it is to give a cow only just food enough to keep her alive without starving. If milk is desired in quantity, the cow must be fed a surplus beyond the other needs of the system, or all the rest is loss. I think it is calculated that about two-thirds of all a cow eats is needed to maintain her existence; all the profit comes from the other one-third, and too often this is withheld entirely. The best of milk-producing food should be provided and fed in abundance at all seasons while the cows are giving milk; roots, grain, and the best of hay and fodder during Winter, and good pasture with partial soiling during Summer. This will necessitate the growing of green crops like a mixture of peas and oats, rye Hungarian grass, corn or clover for Summer and a dry time. Corn meal is good for quality, but bran or middlings should make the larger half or two-thirds of the grain ration. I would leave cotton seed meal out, or not feed over half a pint mixed with the other grain, at a feeding. Corn and oats ground together make an excellant grain ration. In feeding green corn fodder, I would cut the stalks finely and mix with it the meal and grain, and allow them to soften somewhat before feeding. Hard glazed cornstalks, fed whole, are apt to make the teeth sore, fed freely.—W. H. White Worcester County, Mass., in Country Gentleman.

Scald the milk for calves having the "scours." It checks the complaint gradually and does no harm to digestion.

Professor Stewart states that ten pounds of turnips with one and one-half pounds of corn, will fatten a young sheep or lamb faster than three pounds of corn alone.

Scotch Character.

Scottish people are usually credited with two qualities, neither of which, as it seems to me, they possess. They are inordinately fond of money, and they are possessed of infinite caution. "A canny Scot" has come to be a proverbial expression. As to their alleged avarice, it is to be noted that being a poor country, therefore, of necessity, its inhabitants will set a higher value on a definite sum of money. Then, within the present century Scotland has become much richer than formerly; possibilities of gain have been opened up undreamt of before. Into this the Scot has thrown himself with all his intense eagerness. He has been quick to see and grasp the enormous power of wealth, and in some cases the passion for accumulation has succeeded all else—the devotion to money has become almost sublime in its intensity. But these are exceptional cases. Scotchmen, in accordance with their extreme character, often attain to a height of reckless expenditure to which there is, happily, nothing in English character to be compared. But the national history proves that, without a single hesitation, they have again and again sacrificed material welfare to political and religious ideas, and this to an extent to which English history presents no parallel. The wealthy Scot, as seen by English eyes, is generally a man who has raised himself to wealth. Long exercise of self-denial has made it a second nature. He cannot now throw away those habits without which he could not have risen. A little consideration, too, will show that the Scot is just as little entitled to whatever praise may belong to a cautious people. He is by nature excessivelly passionate and impulsive; the current of his thoughts is much more swayed by sentiment than reason. Of course there are other elements in Scottish character which go to change this. They conceal it, but they do not effect it. We do not call Vesuvius cold because its sides are covered with hard lava. The caution of the Scot is exactly similar to that of the man who has charge of a powder magazine. If he is to save his life he must adopt precautions such as are unknown to other men. So the depth of Scotch feeling is hid with a superfical reserve. There is what seems to the Englishman an absolutely unnecessary reticence—an adoption as it were of measures to guide against events not likely to happen; but the reason is, that a word or an action which the more tolerant Englishman would hardly notice; will often be enough to move to the greatest rage a smouldering fire, and to lead to an outbreak absolutely disproportioned to its cause.—St. James' Magazine.

TO THE LADIES.

McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate will cure any case of Pimples on the face or Rough Skin on either hands or face and leave them soft as silk. It will also heal any sore when all other preparations fail. Thousands have tested it. Ask your druggist for McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate, and do not be persuaded to take anything else claimed to be as good. It is but 25 cents per box at Gayfer and Knee-shaw drug store.

In the bright lexicon of modern times there is no such word as "bursted."

THE reason why "Nonsuch Washing Compound" should be used in preference to all other washing preparations. First, It is perfectly harmless. Second, It saves more than half the labour. Third, It is the cheapest in the market. Many more could be given but this should be sufficient. For sale by all grocers. 84

Every man's life is a plan of God.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

The True Gentlewoman's Dress.

The dress of the real gentlewoman, the truly refined and sensible of her sex, is never in the height of fashion. The first study of such a woman is to seek the becoming; her second thought the good, and her last which is merely the fashionable. She cleverly adapts the fashion to herself. She will not stoop to make herself a mere figure for the modiste to hang her wares on. She has a law in her own mind, higher than the law of fashion. She wears many fine things, but probably the most becoming of them have been fashioned by her own taste, frequently finished, perhaps, by her own deft fingers, or at least she has carefully superintended their manufacture. Many an envious neighbor may have glanced at her tasteful toilet cynically observed:—"Her poor husband working so hard and she spending his earnings in French fripperies." All this while her costume is rarely rich, never very costly, often not even new, for the genuine gentlewoman remembers the "bread winner" and home maker, the husband who toils.

"Papa" and "Mamma."

An early instance which occurs to me is in the "Beggar's Opera," (1727), where Polly Peachum, I think it is, speaks of "papa." The modern change from "papa" and "mamma" to "father" and "mother" among the upper classes, which began about thirty years ago, seems to have been a reaction against a custom which had gradually crept in among persons of a lower grade. As soon as common people's children began to say "papa" and "mamma," those of a higher class were taught to say "father" and "mother." It was among my High Church friends that I first noticed this adoption of "father" and "mother." One does not see the connection, but truly such is the fact. When I was young "papa" and "mamma" were universal among what may be called the middle and upper classes of society, and to this day "ladies of a certain age" still use the words. King George III., about the year 1762, addressed his mother as "mamma;" so I find it stated in "Grenville Memoirs" But I do not think that Charles II., unless he was speaking in French, ever addressed Henrietta Maria by the endearing name, and I feel tolerably sure that the Lady Elizabeth never called Henry VIII. "papa." On the other hand, I would observe that "papa" and "mamma" are fast being supplanted by the old original "father" and "mother." For ten, or perhaps twenty years past, children in the upper and middle classes have, so far as my observation goes, been taught to say "father" and "mother"; and "papa" and "mamma," which are words of extremest tenderness to those of my generation, seem now to have sunk into contempt as a "note" of social inferiority.

Eating Lemons.

A good deal has been said through the papers about the healthfulness of lemons. The latest device is how to use them so they will do the most good as follows; Most people know the benefit of lemonade before breakfast, but few people know that it is more than doubled by taking another at night. The way to get the better of a bilious system without blue pill or quinine, is to take the juice of one, two or three lemons, as appetite craves, in as much water as it makes it pleasant to drink without sugar, before going to bed. In the morning, on rising, at least half an hour before breakfast, take the juice of one lemon in a goblet of water. This will clear the system of humor and bile with efficiency, without any of the weakening effects of calomel or congress water. People should not irritate the stomach by eating the lemons clear, the powerful acid of the juice, which is always most corrosive, invariably produces inflammation after a while, but properly diluted so that it does not burn or draw the throat, it does its medical work without harm, and when the stomach is clear of food has abundant opportunity to work over the system thoroughly, says a medical authority.

Hints.

A preventive of typhoid feyer is to boil the drinking water.

A little baking soda placed upon a burn will soon remove the fever.

Sleepless people should court the sun, which is the very best soporific.

Salt and water is good for the catarrh, when inhaled through the nostrils.

Never wash in warm water before going out in the cold air. Such a practice will roughen the skin. Warm water should be used only before retiring.

Professor Volt gives as the result of his investigations that about ninety-six per cent. of rice is assimilated and forms nourishment, thus showing that rice is practically as assimilable as meat

Fried tomatoes are a luxury; peel the tomatoes, cut in slices about half an inch thick, dip each slice into white flour, then into beaten egg, sprinkle peper and salt over each slice, and fry in hot lard. These make a good garnish.

When you are about to make a corn starch pudding, melt a lump of butter in the pudding kettle or pan before putting the pudding into it. There will then be no danger of the milk becoming scorched, with ordinary care at least.

WIDE AWAKE DRUGGISTS.

John Gayfer is always alive to business, and spares no pains to secure the best of every article in his line. He has secured the agency for the celebrated Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The only certain cure known for Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Asthma, May Fever, Bronchitis, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs. Sold on a positive guarantee. Trial Bottles free. Regular size $1.00. 6i

TEMPERANCE.

Sir Wm. Gull on Temperance.

The following extract is from the evidence given by Sir William Gull, M. D. F. R. S., Before the Select Committee of the House of Peers on Intemperance. He said:—

"I think that instead of flying to alcohol, as many people do when they are exhausted, they might very well take food, and would be very much better without alcohol. If I am fatigued d with overwork, personally, my food is very simple. I eat the raisans instead of drinking the wine. I have had a large experience in that practice for thirty years. This is my own personal experience, and I believe it is a very good and true experience.

"I should join issue at once with those who believe that intellectual work can not be so well done without wine or alcohol. I should deny that proposition and hold the very opposite. It is one of the very commonest thing in English society, that people are injured by drink without being drunkards. It goes on so quietly that it is even very difficult to observe. There is a great deal of injury done to the health by the habitual use of wines in their various kinds, and alcohol in its various shapes, even in so-called moderate quantities. It leads to the degeneration of tissues; it spoils the health and spoils the intellect.

"I think, as a rule, you might stop the supply of alcohol without injury. It is said in some cases the brain has entirely gone from leaving drink off suddenly; but that is fallacious, the brain may have gone from previous habits. I hardly know any more potent cause of disease than alcohol, leaving out of view the fact that it is a frequent source of crime of all descriptions. I am persuaded that lecturers should go about the country lecturing to people of middle and upper-middle classes upon the disadvantages of alcohol as it is daily used.

"The public ought to know that of all the fluents or solvents for the nutritious parts of the food there is nothing like water. Water dries into the system the nutriment in its best form.

Is Alcohol Good for Smokers.

From the London Times.

The German savant, Dr. Kissling, has recently made some interesting experiments on this subject, the cigars being smoked with an aspirator, and the smoke drawn through a cooler and five bottles. Of the latter, the first and third were empty, the second being filled with alcohol, the fourth with dilute sulphuric acid, and the fifth with caustic soda.

The general results of these researches by the German savant are of interest to all cigar smokers. He found that the active poisonous constituents of tobacco smoke are carbonic oxide, sulphydric acid prussic acid and nicotine. The three first named are present in tobacco smoke in two small quantities, and are too volatile to deserve any consideration in judging of the effect of using tobacco on the system. The picoline bases are present in the smoke in relatively small quantities, so that the poisonous qualities may be attributed almost exclusively to the nicotine. The amount of nicotine in smoke depends chiefly on the quantity of nicotine in the tobacco. The quantity of nicotine destroyed by the combustion of a cigar is relatively small.

Perhaps the most interesting result of the experiments is that they show that as nicotine is soluble in alcohol, it is more than probable that the use of alcoholic beverages prevents the local accumulation of nicotine, and hastens its removal from the body. In other words, a glass of beer or wine is the proper concomitant to the pipe or cigar.

Alcohol Not So Injurious to Men of Little Brains.

Men of low intellectual endowment with a taste for strong drink will derive much comfort from the result of one of the latest experiments which the French temperance society has been making on the alcoholization of pigs. The experiments which were commenced in 1879 on a number of pigs of the so called Anglo Chinese breed have been continued ever since. Each pig was kept in a separate sty, but twice a day they were all fed together in an adjoining yard. Alcohol was mixed with their food, and after each meal they all fell into a deep sleep, but showed no signs of excitements, except now and then a slight muscular trembling. The difference of the effect of alcohol on human beings and pigs is believed to arise from the smallness of a pig's brains, for the larger the brain the more dangerous the effect of intoxication. Hence, although the companions of the St. Anthony may occasionally indulge in their taste for juniper, they are in no danger of being attacked by delirium tremens.—Pall Mall Gazette.

DIPHTHERIA AND COUGH.

Mr. E. B. Russell, of St. Therese, P. Q., had an attack of diphtheria that was succeeded by a cough. This cough is described as "dreadful," and settled on his lungs. For months his sufferings were intense, in fact, until he began using Dr. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam. The Balsam calmed his nerves, put an end to his cough and restored him to perfect health. The action of Dr. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam on the nerves is very remarkable. The consumptive is calmed and strengthened by it and put on a fair way to recovery.

Patience comes in where there is nothing else to fill up.

IT removes wrinkles and softens the skin. The regular use of MURRAY & LANMAN'S FLORIDA WATER at the toilet tends to prevent and remove wrinkles, the softness of the skin produced by it taking away the natural inclination of the cuticle to form into ridges and furrows.

A son of Kossuth lives in Illinois.

TIME, ITS VALUE.

To-day is ours, why should we care?
To-day is ours, why should we fear?
To-day is ours, why should we sorrow?
For to the gods belong to morrow.
Therefore for to-day, chew Gold Coin Tobacco, it is the best. 06

Apparitions of Dying Persons.

A correspondent writes: Twenty-six years ago, during the siege of Delhi, there was a bandsman in the same regiment as myself, remarkable as being the second tallest man in it, and a very good Chistian of the Roman Catholic faith. On the day I refer to our regiment was off picquet duty, and taking a much-needed rest in camp. The bandsman—who like his fellow musicians at the siege, had to use a rifle instead of a musical instrument—suddenly awoke from a disturbed sleep, sat up on his bed, and exclaimed, "Oh, dear, what a dream I have had!" Our camp colourman and myself were in the same tent with him, and the former asked he had been dreaming of. He He replied, "I have just dreamt that we were engaged and that I was hit fair in the throat with a bullet; I'll take it as a warning, for I feel confident the first skirmish we have I shall be done for." The camp colour-man remarked, "Why, man, there is no use taking notice of dreams." The bandsman replied that he would take notice and go at once to the priest, which he accordingly did. The next morning about four o'clock the alarm sounded to arms, as the enemy had made a sortie from the city in force, and a determined one it was (9th July, 1857). The bandsman was in the same company as myself, and went through the day's work safely until about three o'clock in the afternoon. My company at that time had retired back to our own position, and were standing formed in close order, each man falling out as he was called to drink a glass of gorg, and then taking his place in the ranks again. The bandman had just resumed his place again on the right of the company when a bullet struck him in the apple of the throat and he fell dead.

During the siege, which lasted from the 8th of June till the 14th of September, we used to send our wounded and sick men every month to the depot on the hills were the wives and children of the regiment had been left when the mutiny broke out. Strange to say, the wife of the bandsman had told the other wives that she knew her husband was killed, as he had appeared at her bedside on a certain date, and that he was pointing to his throat, which seemed to be covered with blood. She was so convinced that her husband was amongst the slain, that while waiting for news from headquarters, she donned widows weeds at once. When she received the usual monthly letter she found by that the time of the appearance of the apparition and the date of her husband's fall corresponded.

Miscellaneous Items.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by John Gayfer. 74v-y

A burning question—How much is the gas bill?

NOTHING gives such beautiful colors as the Star Dyes.

The longest reign in history—The deluge.

MOTHER Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant to take; sure and effectual in destroying worms.

Many a broker is a poor finance seer.

WHY go limping and whining about your corns, when a 25 cent bottle of Holloway's Corn Cure will remove them?

Kruegin china is a crackled ware embellished with forget-me-nots.

NEGLECTED Colds, Pain in the Chest, and all diseases of the Lungs, are cured by using Allen's Lung Balsam. See adv.

The Magnum Bonum is the best potato now raised in England.

A. B. Des Rochers, Arthabaskaville, P. Q., writes: "Thirteen years ago I was seized with a severe attack of rheumatism in the head, from which I nearly constantly suffered, until after using Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for nine days, bathing the head, etc., when I was completely cured, and have only used half a bottle."

The favourite amusement of the emperor of China is to spin a top.

THE THIN cannot gain in weight if they are troubled with dyspepsia, because the food is not converted into the due proportion of nourishing blood which alone can furnish the elements of flesh. But there is no reason, when this wearing, attenuating disease is conquered by Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, why there should not be an appreciable gain in weight, which indeed is usually the case. It is a peerless remedy also for Constipation; Liver Complaint, Kidney troubles, and roots out all impurities from the blood.

Julius Payer, the Austrian Arctic explorer, is dead.

Holloway's Pills.—Pure Blood.—When the blood is pure, its circulation calm and equable, and the nerves well strung, we are well. These Pills possess a marvellous power in securing these essentials of health by purifying, regulating, and strengthening the fluids and solids. Holloway's Pills can be confidently recommended to all persons suffering from disordered digestion, or worried by nervous fancies, or neuralgic pains. They correct acidity and heartburn, dispel sick headache, quicken the action of the liver, and act as alteratives and general aperients. The weak and delicate may take them without fear. Holloway's Pills are eminently serviceable to invalids of irritable constitution, as they raise the action of every organ to its natural standard, and universally exercise a charming and sedative influence.

Men are the most frequent purchasers of cough candies.

GOOD THE EAR ROUND.

At all seasons, when the system is foul and the digestive powers feeble, or the liver and kidneys inactive, Burdock Blood Bitters are required. 06i

Horne, the author of "Orion," is becoming blind.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. 00

FRESH FISH.—We will have constantly on hand a supply of Fresh Trout, White Fish, and Herring. Beck's Fruit Store. Telephone communication. 01

G. A. Dixon, Frankville, Ont., says: "I was cured of chronic bronchitis, that troubled me for seventeen years, by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil." See that the signature of Northrop & Lyman is on the back of the wrapper, and you will get the genuine Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

Nearly every educated Swede understands English.

MISS Mary Campbell, Elm, writes:—"After taking four bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, I feel as if I were a new person. I had been troubled with Dyspepsia for a number of years, and tried many remedies, but of no avail, until I used this celebrated Dyspeptic Cure." For all impurities of the Blood, Sick Headache, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Costiveness, etc., it is the best medicine known.

Hector Malot has issued a romance, "Les Besoigreaux."

ITCHING PILES—SYPMTOMS AND CURE.

The symptoms are moisture, like perspiration, intense itching, increased by scratching, very distressing, particularly at night, seems as if pin-worms were crawling in and about the rectum; the private parts are sometimes affected. If allowed to continue very serious results may follow. "SWAYNE'S OINTMENT" is a pleasant, sure cure. Also for Tetter itch, Salt Rheum Scald Head, Erysipelas, Barbers Itch, Blotches, all scaly, crusty Skin Diseases Sent by mail for 50 cents; 3 boxes, $1.25 (in stamps). Address, DR. SWAYNE & SON, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Druggists

Wisdom prepares for the worst, but folly leaves the worst for the day when it comes.

RESPECT OLD AGE.

An old favorite is the remedy known as Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Thirty years reliable for cholera morbus, diarrhœa and summer complaints. 6i

The desire of appearing to be persons of ability often prevents our being so.

DOWN IN DIXIE.

The wife of Mr. J. Kennedy, dealer in drugs in Dixie, was cured of a chronic cough by Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The best throat and lung dealer known. 061

AS charity covers a multitude of sins before God, so does politeness before men.

UNKNOWN TO SCIENCE.

That preparation is undiscovered which can surpass Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry as a cure for Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and Summer Complaints. 06i

Nothing is so credulous as vanity, or so ignorant of what becomes itself.

REST AND COMFORT TO THE SUFFERING

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 1498vy

Associate with the wise, and their knowledge will cling to thy skirts.

GREAT NEGLIGENCE.

There is great neglect with most people to maintain a regular action of the bowels, which causes much disease. Burdock Blood Bitters cure constipation. 06i

The doing evil to avoid an evil cannot be good.

NO SUCH WORD AS FAIL.

A failure to relieve or cure summer complaints can never be truthfully applied to Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. All dealers sell it. 06i

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Trains leave Ingersoll as follows:

GOING WEST.	GOING EAST.
4:56 a. m.	6:59 a. m.
11:57 a. m.	12:15 a. m.
12:32 a. m.	3:00 p. m.
5:05 p. m.	8:48 p. m.
7:47 p. m.	7:00 p. m.
2:11 a. m.	12:20 p. m.

CATARRH.

CATARRH.—A New Treatment whereby this hitherto incurable disease is permanently cured in from one to three applications, no matter whether standing for one year or forty years. Descriptive pamphlet sent free on receipt of stamp. A. H. DIXON & SON, 305 King street west, Toronto, Can. ads. 1569vy

SHAKER BLOOD SYRUP.

Cures Completely Scrofula, Syphilis, Cancer, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Fevers and Skin and Blood Diseases of every description.

$1000 reward to any chemist who will find, on analysis of 100 bottles of Shaker Blood Syrup, one particle of Mercury, Iodide of Potassium, or any mineral substance.

J. W. BROWETT, - DRUGGIST,
Sign of White Mortar,
THAMES STREET, INGERSOLL

JAS. McINTYRE
UNDERTAKER,

HAS REMOVED BACK TO HIS old stand in the
NEW BRICK BLOCK.
☞A Large Stock of COFFINS, and CASKETS HROUDS and ROBES on hand.

FURNITURE

All kinds in stock. ☞Residence first house north of warehouse, King street, Ingersoll. uber 22, 1881.

GOLD for the working class. Send 10 cents for postage, and we will mail you free a royal, valuable box of sample goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. We will start you. You can work all the time or in spare time only. The work is universally adapted to both sexes, young and old. You can easily earn from 50 cents to $5 every evening. That all who want work may test the business we make this unparalleled offer; to all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Fortunes will be made by those who give their whole time to the work. Great success absolutely sure. Don't delay. Start now. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

ADVERTISERS
Before you place a dollar's worth of Newspaper advertising, get our prices. The exact cost of any paper, or list of papers cheerfully furnished, free upon application.
☞Send for New Catalogue.
J. C. HOUCH,
Advertising Agent,
HOUCH BLOCK. Detroit, Mich.

THE
"Little Wonder."

Me and my father, my father and me,
Can sell you the best of Black and Green Tea,
The very best Sugar and choicest of Spice,
With Lard, Pork and Ham, and very good Rice,
In fact all the Groceries you can well name.
My father kept good ones and I'll do the same,
So come with your orders and with your money
For business without is not pleasant as honey.

E. H. HEWITT,
PROPRIETRESS
Ingersoll, Nov. 1, 1883. 1573

The "White" is King
OF SEWING MACHINES,
FOR SALE BY
HENDERSON & HENDERSON,
MACHINISTS
AND SILVER PLATERS, Ingersoll,

Dealers in Sewing Machines, and Repairs; Firearms and Ammuition, Fish Poles, Hooks & Lines

Largest & Best Assortment in town.
Ingersoll, May 22nd, 1884. 1602

Health & Happiness for all.
WILL CURE OR RELIEVE
Biliousness, Headache, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dizziness, Jaundice, Dropsy, Fluttering of the Heart,
And every species of disease arising from Impure Blood, &c. &c.
PREPARED BY THE Climax Chemical Company,
MONTREAL.

A CURE CUARANTEED
MAGNETIC MEDICINE
TRADE MARK
BEFORE BRAIN & NERVE FOOD. AFTER

For Old and Young. Male and Female.
Positively cures Nervousness in all its stages. Weak Memory, Loss of Brain Power, Sexual Prostration, Night Sweats, Spermatorrhœa; Leucorrhœa, Barrenness, Seminal Weakness, and General Loss of Power. It repairs Nervous Waste, Rejuvenates, the Jaded Intellect. Strengthens the enfeebled Brain and Restores Surprising Tone and Vigor to the Exhausted Generative Orgative Organs in either sex. With each order for 12 packages, accompanied with five dollars, we will send our Written Guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. It is the cheapest and best Medicine in the market. Pamphlet sent free by mail to any address.
Mack's Magnetic Medicine is sold by Druggists at 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50, or will be mailed free of postage on receipt on money, by addressing
J. W. BROWETT, Chemist,
1578v-y Next to Golden Anvil, Ingersoll, Ont.

A LECTURE TO YOUNG MEN
On the Loss of MANHOOD.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.
Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.
The celebrated , in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, om thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
This Lecture should be in the hand of every youth and every man in the land. Address
THE CULVERWELL MEDICAL CO.,
41 Ann St., New York.
Post Office Box 450. 1560 vy

DR. FOWLER'S
EXTRACT OF WILD
STRAWBERRY
CURES
CHOLERA
CHOLERA INFANTUM
DIARRHŒA,
AND
ALL SUMMER COMPLAINTS
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS.

A PRIZE Send six cents postage and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers; absolutely sure. At once address TRUE & Co, Augusta, Maine.

AGENTS wanted for "The Lives of the Presidents of the U. S.," the largest, handsomest and best book ever sold for less than twice our price. The fastest selling book in America. Immense profits to agents. All intelligent people want it. Anyone can become a successful agent. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Maine.

R No. 66.
Endorsed by the FRENCH ACADEMY OF MUSIC.
For Inflammation of the Urinary Organs, Caused by Indiscretion or Exposure. Hotel Dieu Hospital, Paris, Treatment. Positive Cure in one to three days. Local Treatment only required. No nauseous doses of Cubebs or Copaiba.
INFALLIBLE, HYGIENIC, CURATIVE, PREVENTIVE.
Price $1.50, including Bulb Syringe. Sold by all Druggists, or sent free by mail, securely sealed, on receipt of price. Descriptive Treatise free on application. AMERICAN AGENCY "66" MEDICINE CO., Windsor, Ontario. 1578vy

HAGYARD'S
YELLOW OIL
CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S
WORM POWDERS.
Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

RUPTURE CURED.

C. A. S. CLUTHE'S PERFECTED TRUSS. A great improvement on all. Is Self-adjusting; can be worn in Bath; also at Night in Room for Comfort. Send Stamps for Book on Rupture and Human Frame, valuable information. A Life Study in Wax Work. Registered by CHAS. S. CLUTHE, 118 King Street West, Toronto, Ont., and Buffalo, N.Y.
The above is patented in United States and Canada March 1882.

PATENTS.
INVENTORS, send model or sketch of your inventions, when I will make careful preliminary examination, and report as to patentability, with advice, circulars, etc. Free of Charge. All business before U.S. Patent Office attend to for Moderate Fees. Information and references sent on application. No charge unless patent is secured.
J. R. LITTELL, Washington, D.C.
Directly opposite U.S. Patent Office. 1532

Holloway's Pills!
This Great Household Medicine works amongst the leading necessaries of Life.
These famous Pills purify the BLOOD, and act most powerfully, yet soothingly on the
LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS,
And BOWELS, giving tone, energy, and vigour to these great MAIN SPRINGS OF LIFE. They are confidently recommended as a never failing remedy in all cases where the constitution, from whatever cause, has become impaired or weakened. They are wonderfully efficacious in all ailments incidental to Females of all ages; and as a GENERAL FAMILY MEDICINE, are unsurpassed.
Its Searching and Healing Properties are known throughout the world.
Holloway's Ointment
For the cure of BAD-LEGS, Bad Breats, Old Wounds, Sores and Ulcers, It is an infallible remedy. If effectually rubbed on the neck and chest, as salt into meat. It cures SORE THROAT, Diphtheria, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and even ASTHMA. For Glandular Swellings, Abscesses, Piles, Fistulas,
GOUT, RHEUMATISM,
And every kind of SKIN DISEASES, it has never been know to fail.
The Pills and Ointment are Manufactured only at 533 OXFORD STREET, LONDON, and are sold by all Vendors of Medicine throughout the civilized world, with directions for use in almost every language.
☞Purchasers should look to the Label on the Pots and Boxes. If the address is not 533, Oxford Street, London, they are spurious. 1517v-y

CARPETS. CARPETS.

HOUSE CLEANING.

NEW TO REPLACE THE OLD.

DAVID WHITE & CO.

has just received a large shipment of
New Tapestry

FOUNDED 1853.

THE INGERSOLL CHRONICLE,

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

G. F. GURNETT, Proprietor.

☞Terms for The Chronicle and Dairyman, by mail, or mailed for at the office of publication, or at the booksto:es, $1.50 in advance; $2.50 if not so paid. Delivered at homes, or business places of subscribers, in town, $1.75 in advance, or $2.75 if not so paid.

The Chronicle and Dairyman has more readers than all the remaining newspapers published in Ingersoll and the South Riding of Oxford combined. This important fact should be borne in mind by advertisers.

It has the largest circulation among Canadian Dairymen, being devoted specially to the interests of that class.

Printing by Steam Power in all its branches.

ADVERTISING RATES.

☞Advertisements will be inserted in The Chronicle and Dairyman, at 8 cents per line for the first insertion, and 3 cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

☞For legal and official advertisements the charge is 10 cents per line for the first, and 5 cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

Condensed advertisements:—Servants wanted—Articles Wanted—Lost or Found—Strayed—To Rent or For Sale—Board—Situations Wanted, or Vacant, etc., (one inch or under) will be published at the rate of 50 cts. for the first insertion, and 25 cts. for each subsequent insertion.

☞Ten cents per line for the first insertion and five cents per line for each subsequent insertion, is the charge for inserting "special notices" with reading matter and in the same type.

Professional cards, not exceeding 6 lines, will be inserted one year for $5; $3 cents per line per year for each line over six lines.

Commercial advertisements, ordinarily displayed matter, will be inserted at the following rates:—

Time.	¼ Col. 2 In.	½ Col. 3 In.	¼ Col. 6 In.	½ Col. 12 In.	1 Col. 24 In.
1 week..	$1 50	$ 2 50	$ 4 00	$ 6 00	$ 10 00
2 weeks..	2 25	3 75	6 00	9 00	15 00
3 weeks..	2 70	4 50	7 20	10 80	18 00
4 weeks..	3 00	5 00	8 00	12 00	20 00
5 weeks..	3 30	5 50	8 80	13 20	22 00
6 weeks..	3 60	6 00	9 60	14 40	24 00
2 months.	4 50	7 50	12 00	18 00	30 00
3 months.	6 00	10 00	15 00	24 00	40 00
6 months.	9 00	15 00	24 00	40 00	60 00
12 months	15 00	22 00	40 00	60 00	100 00

The above contract prices do not give the right to advertise Houses or Farms for Sale, or to Rent, Clerks, Domestics or Servants Wanted, Articles Lost or Found, Entertainments, Auction Sales, &c., but extend exclusively to the legitimate commercial announcements, ordinarily displayed matter, of the persons contracting. Solid matter will be charged at the rate of 8 and 5 cents per line.

J. F. McDONALD, L.L. B.,

BARRISTER AND ATTORNEY-at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Notary Public, &c.

Office—Thames street, Ingersoll

M. WALSH,

BARRISTER, NOTARY PUBLIC, Solicitor in the Supreme Court of Ontario, &c. Money to lend at lowest rates. Mortgages Bought and Sold.

OFFICE up Stairs, Walsh's Block, Thames Street, Ingersoll, Ont.

BROWN & WELLS.

BARRISTERS & ATTORNEYS-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Notaries Public, &c., Ingersoll, Ont. Office—opposite Imperial Bank, Thames Street, South.

P. J. Brown. Thos. Wells.

W. W. HOLCROFT,

BARRISTER, ATTORNEY, SOLICITOR, Notary Public, Conveyancer, &c.; $100,000 private funds, to loan at 6 and 7 per cent. Mortgages, Debentures and Notes bought. Office formerly occupied by the late Mr. McCaughey, Thames street, Ingersoll.

J. C. HEGLER.

BARRISTER ATTORNEY, SOLICITOR, &c. Money to loan at eight per cent.

Office:—Over Molsons Bank, King Street.

G. J. CHARLESWORTH, M. B.,

L. R. C. P. & L. M., Edinburgh. T. M. S., M. C. P. S., Ont.

Office—Thames Street, over Nelles & Stevens', next to Browett's Drug Store. Residence—Charles Street, first place west of Hadden's Carriage Factory, Ingersoll. Calls night and day promptly attended to.

March 20th, 1884. 1503t-y

DR. McKAY,

L. R. C. P. & L. M., EDINBURGH. Coroner for the County of Oxford, Graduate of the Royal College of Physicians, Edinburgh.—Late Surgeon in the British Marine Service. Office, Thames Street, Ingersoll.

J. ARTHUR WILLIAMS, M. D.,

M. R. C. S. AND L. M., ENGLAND L. R. C. P., London; Aurist and Occulist Office with Dr. Hoyt, King Street, Ingersoll.

CHARLES KENNEDY,

SURGEON DENTIST. LICENSED by the Royal College of Dental Surgery, Ont. teeth extracted without pain by the use of Nitrous de Gas, etc., if desired. Special attention paid to the preservation of natural teeth.

Office on King street, opposite the "Thompson house," Ingersoll. 854y

W. A. SUDWORTH,

SURGEON DENTIST, MEMBER of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, Graduate of Ont. Dental College. Anæsthetics administered for the painless extraction of teeth. Office opposite the Market, Ingersoll.

H. W. HILL,

PRODUCE and Commission Merchant, Agent for the Empire Loan Association. Money to loan at lowest rates on farm and town property. Market Square, Woodstock.

January 31st, 1884. 1586v y

W. R. BURKE

PROVINCIAL LAND SURVEYOR AND DRAUGHTSMAN,

OFFICE AT TELEGRAPH OFFICE.

I have disposed of all my plans, field notes and bearings to Mr. W. R. Burke, P. L. Surveyor, of Ingersoll, which have been collected by myself during the past 30 years while practicing in the County of Oxford. All parties wishing surveying done, will do well to employ Mr. Burke, he now having so much valuable information relative to surveys in this County. Signed,

W. G. WONHAM,
P. L. Surveyor.

May 8th, 1884. 1690v-y

JAMES BRADY,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER

INGERSOLL, ONT.,

Is prepared to attend all sales in town or country. Ingersoll, April 20th, 1882. 1493

EDWARD C. RYOTT,

THAT POPULAR AUCTIONEER,

Having returned permanently to Woodstock, is prepared to attend all sales in his usual style and good humour. Residence and Office, Gray's Block, Dundas street, Woodstock.

Sales can be arranged for at this office at a moment's notice.

Woodstock, Nov. 15, 883. 1575

S. G. BURGESS,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER.

WOODSTOCK.

For the convenience of those who may wish to secure his services, and being frequently from home, Mr. Burgess has made arrangements to have a list of his sales at The Chronicle Office, Ingersoll, where dates can be secured, terms obtained, and full arrangements can be made.

Woodstock, Feb. 16, 188 1484

ImperialBankofCanada

HEAD OFFICE, - TORONTO.

Capital Paid Up, $1,500,000.
Rest, - - 650,000.

Purchases Municipal Debentures, Issues Drafts on its branches and agencies in the North-West. Transfers Moneys by Telegrams to Winnipeg and Brandon. Dealers in Sterling Exchange. Savings Department—Deposits received and interest allowed. Agents in London, Messrs. Bosanquet, Salt & Co., 73 Lombard street, with whom moneys for transmission from Great Britain to Ontario and the North-West may be deposited.

D. R. WILKIE Cashier.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.

Deposits of $1 and upward received and Interest allowed thereon at current rates.

INGERSOLL BRANCH,

J. A. RICHARDSON, Manager.

MERCHANT'S BANK

OF CANADA.

CAPITAL - - $5,698,696
RESERVE - - $1,150,000

INGERSOLL BRANCH.

THIS BANK TRANSACTS A General Banking Business, Buys and Sells Exchange on England and the United States, and Issues Drafts on New York and all parts of Canada.

Particular attention paid to collections for Customers and Banks.

W. M. SMITH. Manager.

Electro Plate GOODS

—AT—

R. W. WOODROOFE'S

JEWELLERY STORE,

Thames Street, - Ingersoll.

The Ingersoll Chronicle,

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

VOL. XXXI.—NO. 43. INGERSOLL, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JUNE 26, 1884. WHOLE NO. 1607.

THE CANADA LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY.

ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1883.

Assets - - -		$5,617,623
Interest on Investments -		335,907
New Policies Written -		2,178
Amount of New Policies -		$4,554,660
Death Claims Paid - -		$289,660
Premiums Received - -		$812,389

It will be noticed the interest on investments more than pays the death claims.

The Canada Life is a home company and has been doing business for 37 years.

Its rates are moderate while its profits are larger than those of other companies.

Policies indisputable after two years.

Claims paid immediately on proof of death.

Thirty days grace allowed for payment of premiums.

The profits will equal if not exceed those of any previous division.

For every information apply to

H. O'CONNOR, Jr., - AGENT,

INGERSOLL & DISTRICT.

June 12th, 1884. 1605

LONDON AND LANCASHIRE

Life Assurance Com'y

OF ENGLAND.

Head Office for Canada,

217 St. James St., Montreal.

☞Policies unconditional and rate as low as absolute security will admit.

☞Reserves deposited annually with Government, thus rendering the policies unquestionable as to security.

Funds invested in Canada over $300,000 and increasing yearly.

Every desirable Form of Policy Issued

WM. ROBERTSON,
MANAGER.

Ingersoll, July 26, 1883. 1359v-y

London Loan Company,

LONDON, ONTARIO.

$100,000 to lend at Lowest Rates,

Short loans at 6 and 6½ per cent. Apply to

M. J. KENT, Manager,

London, Feb. 7th, 1884. 1587v-y

BANK OF LONDON

IN CANADA.

CAPITAL, $1,000,000.00.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

Hy. Taylor, Pres. J. Labatt, Vice-Pres.
A. M. Smart, Cashier.
W. R. Meredith, Q.C., M.P.P. T. Long.
Rbt. Cronyn. Thos. Fawcett.
Isa Banks. Thos. Kent.
N. Reid. Jno Morrison.

INGERSOLL BRANCH.

A Branch of the Bank of London, has been opened in Ingersoll, in the premises recently occupied by The Molsons Bank.

A General Banking Business

Transacted. Collections on all points in Canada and United States made promptly, at reasonable rates. Drafts issued on New York and all points in Canada. LIBERAL INTEREST ALLOWED ON DEPOSITS which can be withdrawn at any time.

C. W. M. SIMPSON,
Acting Manager.

Ingersoll, March 27, 1884 1594

Advertising Cheats!!!

"It has become so common to write the beginning of an article, in an elegant, interesting manner,

"Then run it into some advertisement that we avoid all such,

"And simply call attention to the merits of Hop Bitters in as plain, honest terms as possible,

"To induce people

"To give them one trial, which so proves their value that they will never use anything else."

"The Remedy so favorably noticed in all the papers,

"Religious and secular, is

"Having a large sale, and is supplanting all other medicines.

"There is no denying the virtues of the Hop plant, and the proprietors of Hop Bitters have shown great shrewdness

"And ability

"In compounding a medicine whose virtues are so palpable to every one's observation."

Did She Die?

"No!

"She lingered and suffered along, pining away all the time for years,"

"The doctors doing her no good;"

"And at last was cured by this Hop Bitters, the papers say so much about."

"Indeed! Indeed!"

"How thankful we should be for that medicine"

A Daughter's Misery.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery,

"From a complication of kidney, liver, rheumatic trouble and nervous debility,

"Under the care of the best physicians,

"Who gave her disease various names,

"But no relief,

"And now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had shunned for years before using it."—The Parents.

Father is Getting Well.

"My daughters say:

"How much better father is since he used Hop Bitters."

"He is getting well after his long suffering a disease declared incurable."

"And we are so glad that he used your Bitters."—A Lady of Utica, N.Y.

KIDNEY-WORT

DOES WONDERFUL CURES OF KIDNEY DISEASES AND LIVER COMPLAINTS,

Why?

Because it acts on the LIVER, BOWELS and KIDNEYS at the same time.

Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary Diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Disorders and all Female Complaints.

IF SOLID PROOF OF THIS.

IT WILL SURELY CURE CONSTIPATION, PILES, and RHEUMATISM,

By causing FREE ACTION of all the organs and functions, thereby

CLEANSING the BLOOD

restoring the natural power to throw off disease.

THOUSANDS OF CASES

of the worst forms of these terrible diseases have been quickly relieved, and in a short time PERFECTLY CURED.

PRICE, $1. LIQUID OR DRY, SOLD BY DRUGGISTS. Dry can be sent by mail.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & Co., Burlington, Vt.

Send stamp for Diary Almanac for 1884.

KIDNEY-WORT

WHAT MY LOVER SAID.

By the merest chance in the twilight gloom,
In the orchard path he met me—
In the tall wet grass, with it's faint perfume,
And I tried to pass, but he made no room;
Oh, I tried, but he would not let me!
So I stood and blushed till the grass grew red,
With my face bent down above it,
While he took my hand, as he whispering said—
How the clover lifted its pink, sweet head,
To listen to all that my lover said!
Oh, the clover in bloom! I love it.

In the high wet grass went the path to hide,
And the low wet leaves hung over,
But I could not pass on either side,
For I found myself, when I vainly tried,
In the arms of my steadfast lover;
And he held me there and he raised my head,
While he closed the path before me;
And he looked down into my eyes and said—
How the leaves bent down from the boughs o'er head
To listen to all that my lover said.
Oh, the leaves hanging lowly o'er me!

I am sure that he knew, when he held me fast
That I must be all unwillingly;
For I tried to go, and I would have passed,
As the night was come with its dews at last,
And the sky with its stars were filling,
But he clasped me close when I would have fled,
And he made me hear his story,
And his soul came out from his lips and said—
How the stars crept out when the white moon led,
Oh, the moon and the stars in glory!

I know that the grass and the leaves will not tell,
I am sure that the wind, precious rover,
Will carry his secret so safely and well
That no being shall ever discover
One word of many that rapidly fell
From the eager lips of my lover,
And the moon and the stars that looked over
Shall never reveal what a fairy-like spell
They wove round about us that night in the dell,
In the path through the dew-laden clover;
Nor echo the whispers that made my heart swell
As they fell from the lips of my lover.

ANNETTE DELARBRE.

BY WASHINGTON IRVING.

In the course of a tour that I once made in Lower Normandy, I remained for a day or two at the old town of Honfleur, which stands at the mouth of the Seine. It was the time of a fete, and all the world was thronging in the evening to dance at the fair, held before the chapel of Our Lady of Grace.

Whilst I was regarding the animated picture, I was struck with the appearance of a beautiful girl, who passed through the crowd without seeming to take any interest in their amusements. She was accompanied by a venerable-looking man, whom I presumed to be her father. She approached the edge of the hill, where there is a little platform, from whence the people of Honfleur look out for the approach of vessels. Here she stood for some time waving her handkerchief, tho' there was nothing to be seen but two or three fishing-boats, like mere specks on the bosom of the distant ocean.

These circumstances excited my curiosity, and I made some inquiries about her, which were answered with readiness and intelligence by a priest of the neighbouring chapel.

Annette Delarbre was the only daughter of one of the higher order of farmers, or small proprietors, as they are called, who lived at Pont l'Eveque, a pleasant village not far from Honfleur, in that rich pastoral soil part of Lower Normandy called the Pays d'Auge. Annette was the pride and delight of her parents, and was brought up with the fondest indulgence. She was gay, tender, petulant, and susceptible. All her feelings were quick and ardent; and, never having experienced contradiction or restraint, she was little practised in self-control; nothing but the native goodness of her heart kept her from running continually into error.

Even while a child, her susceptibility was evinced in an attachment which she formed to a playmate, Eugene La Forgue, the only son of a widow who lived in the neighbourhood. Their childish love was an epitome of maturer passion; it had its caprices, and jealousies, and quarrels, and reconciliations. It was assuming something of a graver character as Annette entered her fifteenth and Eugene his nineteenth year, when he was suddenly carried off to the army by the conscription.

It was a heavy blow to his widowed mother, for he was her only pride and comfort; but it was one of those sudden bereavements which mothers were perpetually doomed to feel in France, during the time that continual and bloody wars were incessantly draining her youth. It was temporary affliction also to Annette to lose her lover. With tender embraces, half childish, half womanish, she parted from him.

Weeks, months, years flew by. Annette increased in beauty as she increased in years, and was the reigning belle of the neighbourhood. Her time passed innocently and happily. Her father was a man of some consequence in the rural community, and his house was the resort of the gayest of the village. Annette held a kind of rural court; she was always surrounded by companions of her own age, among whom she shone unrivalled.

As she was a rural heiress, she did not want for suitors; many advantageous offers were made her, but she refused them all. She laughed at the pretended pangs of her admirers, and triumphed over them with the caprice of bouyant youth and couscious beauty. With all her apparent levity, however, could any one have read the story of her heart, they might have traced in it some fond remembrance of her early playmate, not so deeply graven as to be painful, but too deep to be easily obliterated; and they might have noticed, amidst all he gaiety, the tenderness that marked her manner towards the mother of Eugene. She would often steal away from her youthful companions and their amusements, to pass whole days with the good widow; listening to her fond talk about her boy, and blushing with secret pleasure when his letters were read, at finding herself a constant theme of recollection and inquiry.

At length the sudden return of peace, which sent many a warrior to his native cottage, brought back Eugene, a young, sun-burnt soldier, to the village. I need not say how rapturously his return was greeted by his mother, who saw in him the pride and staff of her old age. He had risen in the service by his merit; but brought away little from the wars excepting a soldier-like air, a gallant name, and a scar across the forehead.

He had left Annette almost a child; he found her a blooming woman. If he had loved her before, he now adored her. Annette was equally struck with the improvement which time had made in her lover. But Annette was a rural belle. She had tasted the sweets of dominion, and had been rendered wilful and capricious by constant indulgence at home, and admiration abroad. She was conscious of her power over Eugene, and delighted in exercising it. Eugene, however, was of too serious a nature to be trifled with. He loved too fervently not to be filled with doubt. A slight misunderstanding took place; a quarrel ensued. Annette, unaccustomed to be thwarted and contradicted, and full of the insolence of youthful beauty, assumed an air of disdain. She refused all explanations to her lover, and they parted in anger. That very evening Eugene saw her, full of gaiety, dancing with one of his rivals; and as her eye caught a his fixed on her with unfeigned distress, it sparkled with more than usual vivacity. It was the finishing blow to his hopes, already so much impaired by secret distrust. He retired from her presence with the hasty determination never to see her again.

A woman is more considerate in affairs of love than a man, because love is more the study and business of her life. Annette soon repented of her indiscretion; she felt that she had used her lover unkindly; she felt that she had trifled with his sincere and generous nature—and when he looked so handsome when he parted after their quarrel—his fine features lighted up by indignation. She had intended making up with him at the evening dance, but his sudden departure prevented her. Day after day passed, but Eugene did not make his appearance. Sunday evening came, the usual time when all the gaiety of the village assembled; but Eugene was not there. She inquired after him; he had left the village.

While his feelings were yet smarting with her affected disdain, and his heart a prey to alternate indignation and despair, he had suddenly embraced an invitation which had repeatedly been made him by a relation, who was fitting out a ship from the port of Honfleur, and who wished him to be the companion of his voyage. He hastened to Honfleur just in time to make the needful preparations for the voyage; and the first news that Annette received of this sudden determination was a letter delivered by his mother returning her pledges of affection, particularly a long treasured braid of her hair, and bidding her a last farewell, in terms more full of sorrow and tenderness than upbraiding.

This was the first stroke of real anguish that Annette had ever received, and it overcame her. The thought occurred to her, that the ship might not yet have sailed; she seized on the hope with eagerness, and hastened with her father to Honfleur. The ship had sailed that very morning.

When she returned home, the cheerfulness of her spirits was at an end. With humiliation and diffidence, she sought the widowed mother of Eugene, but was received by her with an overflowing heart; for she only beheld in Annette one who could sympathise in her doting affection for her son. It seemed some alleviation of her remorse to sit by the mother all day, to study her wants, to beguile her heavy hours, to hang about her with the caressing endearments of a daughter, and to seek by every means, if possible, to supply the place of the son whom she reproached herself with having driven away.

In the meantime the ship had made a prosperous voyage to her destined port. Eugene's mother received a letter from him, in which he lamented the precipitancy of his departure. The voyage had given him time for sober reflection. If Annette had been unkind to him, he ought not to have forgotten what was due to his mother, who was now advanced in years. He accused himself of selfishness in only listening to the suggestions of his own inconsiderate passions. He promised to return with the ship, to make his mind up to his disappointment, and to think of nothing but making his mother happy——"And when he does return," said Annette, clasping her hands with transport, "it shall not be my fault if he ever leaves us again."

The time approached for the ship's return. She was daily expected, when the weather became dreadfully tempestuous. Day after day brought news of vessels foundered, or driven on shore; and the sea coast was strewed with wrecks. Intelligence was received of the looked-for ship having been dismasted in a violent storm, and the greatest fears were entertained for her safety.

Annette never left the side of Eugene's mother. She watched every change of her countenance with painful solicitude, and endeavoured to cheer her with hopes, while her own mind was racked by anxiety. She made a daily pilgrimage to the chapel of Our Lady of Grace; hung votive garlands on the wall, and passed hours, either kneeling before the altar, or looking out from the brow of the hill upon the angry sea.

At length word was brought that the long wished-for vessel was in sight. She was seen standing into the mouth of the Seine, shattered and crippled, bearing marks of having been sadly tempest-tossed. There was a general joy diffused by her return; a new spirit was infused into the crew, and a lighter heart than Annette's in the little port of Honfleur, as the ship came to anchor in the river; and shortly after a boat put off for the shore. The populace crowded down to the pierhead to welcome it. Annette stood blushing, and smiling, and trembling, and weeping; for a thousand painfully-pleasing emotions agitated her breast, at the thoughts of the meeting and reconciliation about to take place. Her agitation increased as the boat drew near, until it became distressing; and it was almost a relief to her when she perceived that her lover was not there. She presumed that some accident had detained him on board of the ship; and she felt that the delay would enable her to gather more self-possession for the meeting. At length Annette heard some inquiries after her lover. Her heart palpitated; there was a moment's pause; the reply was brief, but awful. He had been washed from the deck, with two of the crew, in the midst of a stormy night, when it was impossible to render any assistance. A piercing shriek broke from among the crowd, and Annette had nearly fallen into the waves.

The sudden revulsion of feelings, after such a transient gleam of happiness, was too much for her harassed frame. She was carried home senseless.

"The subject," continued my informer, "is never mentioned in her hearing; but she sometimes speaks of it herself, and it seems as though there were some vague train of impressions in her mind, in which hope and fear are strangely mingled; some imperfect idea of her lover's shipwreck, and yet some expectation of his return.

"Her parents have tried every means to cheer her, and to banish these gloomy images from her thoughts. It makes every one's heart ache to see her in this very spot, where she used to be the happiest creature in the village.

"She passes the greater part of the time with Eugene's mother, whose only consolation is her society, and who dotes on her with a mother's tenderness. She is the only one that has perfect influence over Annette in every mood.

Upwards of a year, he informed me, had now elapsed without effacing from her mind this singular taint of insanity; still her friends hoped it might gradually wear away. They had at one time removed her to a distant part of the country, in hopes that absence from the scenes connected with her story might have a salutary effect; but when her periodical melancholy returned, she became more restless and wretched than usual, and secretly escaping from her friends, set out on foot, without knowing the road, on one of her pilgrimages to the chapel.

About a year afterwards I reached Honfleur on a fine afternoon, intending to cross to Havre the next morning and embark for England. As I had no better way of passing the evening, I strolled up the hill to enjoy the fine prospect from the chapel of Notre Dame de Grace; and while there, I thought of inquiring after the fate of poor Annette Delarbre. The priest who had told me the story was officiating at vespers, after which I accosted him, and learnt from him the remaining circumstances. He told me that, from the time I had seen her at the chapel, her disorder took a sudden turn for the worse, and her health rapidly declined. She became impatient of all sounds of gaiety, and was never so contented as when Eugene's mother was near her. The good woman watched over her with patient, yearning solicitude; and in seeking to beguile her sorrows, would half forget her own.

Just at this time, to the astonishment of every one, news was received of Eugene who, it appeared, was still living. When almost drowned, he had fortunately seized upon a spar which had been washed from the ship's deck. Finding himself nearly exhausted, he had fastened himself to it and floated for a day and a night, until all sense had left him. On recovering, he found himself on board a vessel bound to India, but so ill as not to move without assistance. His watch had continued precarious throughout the voyage; on arriving in India he had experienced many vicissitudes, and had been transferred from ship to ship, and from hospital to hospital. His constitution had enabled him to struggle through every hardship; and he was now in a distant port, waiting only for the sailing of a ship to return home.

Great caution was necessary in imparting these tidings to the mother, and even then she was nearly overcome by the transports of her joy. But how to impart them to Annette was a matter of still greater perplexity. Her state of mind had been so morbid; she had been subject to such violent changes, and the cause of her derangement had been of such an inconsolable and hopeless kind, that her friends had always forborne to tamper with her feelings. Her mind admitted but one leading idea at a time, which nothing could divert or efface; or, if ever they succeeded in interrupting the current of her fancy, it only became the more incoherent, and increased the feverishness which preyed upon both mind and body. Her friends felt more alarm for her than ever, for they feared that her senses were irrecoverably gone, and her constitution completely undermined.

In the meantime, Eugene returned to the village. He was violently affected when the story of Annette was told him. They did not dare as yet to bring him into Annette's sight, but he was permitted to see her when she was sleeping. The tears streamed down his sunburnt cheeks as he contemplated the ravages which grief and malady had made.

At length the physician that attended her determined to venture upon an experiment; to take advantage of one of those cheerful moods when her mind was visited by hope, and to endeavour to engraft, as it were, the reality upon the delusions of her fancy. Several of her most favourite companions were kept continually about her; they chatted gaily, they laughed, and sang, and danced; but Annette reclined with languid frame and hollow eye, and took no part in their gaiety. At length the winter was gone; the trees put forth their leaves; the swallows began to build in the eaves of the house. Annette's spirits gradually revived. She began to deck her person with unusual care; and, bringing forth a basket of artificial flowers, she went to wreathe a bridal chaplet of white roses. Her companions asked her why she prepared the chaplet. "What!" said she, with a smile, "have you not noticed the trees putting on their wedding dresses of blossoms? Has not the swallow flown back over the sea? Do you not know that the time is come for Eugene to return? that he will be here to-morrow, and that on Sunday we are to be married?"

Her words were repeated to the physician, and he seized on them at once. He directed that her idea should be encouraged and acted upon. Her words were echoed through the house. Every one talked on the return of Eugene as a matter of course; they congratulated her upon her approaching happiness, and assisted her in her preparations. The next morning the same theme was resumed. She was dressed to receive her lover. Every bosom fluttered with anxiety. A cabriolet drove into the village. "Eugene is coming!" was the cry. She saw him alight at the door, and rushed with a shriek into his arms.

Her friends trembled for the result of the critical experiment; but she did not sink under it, for her fancy had prepared her for his return. She was as one in a dream, to whom a tide of unlooked for prosperity, that would have overwhelmed his waking reason, seems but the natural current of circumstances. Her conversation, however showed that her senses were wandering. There was an absolute forgetfulness of all past sorrow; a wild and feverish gaiety that at times was incoherent.

The next morning she awoke languid and exhausted. All the occurrances of the preceding day had passed away from her mind, as though they had been mere illusions of her fancy. She rose melancholy and abstracted, and as she dressed herself, was heard to sing one of her plaintive ballads. When she entered the parlour her eyes were swollen with weeping. She herd Eugene's voice without and started. She passed her hand across her forehead, and stood musing, like one endeavouring to recall a dream. Eugene entered the room, and advanced towards her; she looked at him with an eager, searching look, murmured some indistinct words, and sank on the floor.

She relapsed into a wild and unsettled state of mind; but now that the first shock was over, the physician ordered that Eugene should keep continually in her sight. Sometimes she did not know; at other times she would talk to him as if he were going to sea, and would implore him not to part from her in anger; and, when he was not present, she would speak of him as if burried in the ocean, and would sit, with clasped hands, looking upon the ground the picture of despair.

One day, when Eugene was present, one of her companions endeavored to rouse her, singing in a low voice, a tender little air, which was a particular favourite of Annette's.

As she sang, the agitation of Annette subsided, and when the song was ended, she opened her eyes and looked about her, as one awakening in a strange place.

"Oh, Eugene! Eugene!" said she, "it seems as if I have had a long and dismal dream; what has happened, what has been the matter with me?"

He endeavoured to put her off with some evasive answer. "No, no!" cried she, "I know I have been ill, and I have been dreaming strangely. I thought Eugene had left us—and that he had gone to sea—and that—and that he was drowned! But he has been to see us!" added she, earnestly, as recollection kept flashing upon her, "and he has been wrecked—and we were all so wretched—and came home again one bright morning—and——Oh!" said she, pressing her hand against her forehead, with a sickly smile, "I see how it is; all has not been right here, I begin to recollect—but it is all past now—Eugene is here! and his mother is happy—and we shall never, never part again—shall we, Eugene?"

She sunk back in her chair exhausted; the tears streaming down her cheeks. Her companions hovered round her, not knowing what to make of this sudden dawn of reason. Her lover sobbed aloud. She opened her eyes again, and looked upon them with an air of the sweetest acknowledgement. "You are all so good to me!" said she, faintly.

The physician drew the father aside. "Your daughter's mind is restored," said he; "she is sensible that she has been deranged; she is growing conscious of the past, and conscious of the present. All that now remains is to keep her calm and quiet until her health is re-established, and then let her be married!"

"The wedding took place," continued the good priest, "but a short time since; and they were here at the last fete during their honeymoon, and a handsomer and happier couple was not to be seen as they danced under yonder trees."

Prominent among the greatest medical discoveries, by the many cures it has affected, McGregor's Speedy Cure leads the van. Subjected to the minutest chemical analysis, it has been found to contain none of those injurious ingredients characterizing the worthless specifics daily offered to the public. Every ingredient possesses a peculiar adaptability to the various complaints for which it has been compounded, and its efficacy is being established by testimonials hourly received. We are therefore confident that we have a preparation which we can offer to the public with the assurance that it will be found not only a relief but an absolute cure for Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Constipation and Impure Blood. Free trial bottles at Gayfer and Kneeshaw's Drug Store.

Fast well, feast well.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences.

Beware of dried apples. They love not wisely but to swell.

Croup and Throat and Lung Troubles are treated successfully with Allen's Lung Balsam. See Adv.

Good advice for the better—better quit.

Freeman's Worm Powders are safe in all cases. They destroy and remove Worms in children or adults. 4

GREAT MEN'S BAGGAGE.

The Women Always Have Trunks.

Herbert, the veteran head usher of the old St. Nicholas Hotel, which has just been closed up in New York, says of people who carry baggage: "As a general rule, I have observed that women have more baggage than men. When a man travels he wants as little baggage as possible, and he will get along without any if he can. Drummers are excepted, of course. They will fill a hotel with baggage if you will let 'em. Porters never like to see a drummer come to the house, because that generally means heavy trunks. We never had a baggage elevator at the St. Nicholas, and the carrying of trunks was always a big job. I have seen great strong men give way. I have seen four porters struggling with one trunk. It always seemed the rule that the more important a man was the less baggage he would have. Take Gov. Horatio Seymour, for instance, who was a steady patron. I have often seen him come with a little carpet bag. Senator Conkling carried very little baggage, but his wife, a delicate woman, had plenty of baggage when she came with him. Senator John J. Crittenden used to come with no more baggage than you could put in a tobacco box, when he came alone. But when Mrs. Crittenden came with him the porters would stagger under thirty or forty trunks. Mrs. Crittenden was very fond of dress and entertaining people, and all the trunks had to be taken up stairs.

"When the Canadians came the porters trembled. Sir Charles McNab would keep the porters busy three hours getting in his baggage. Sir Charles Grey, Governor-General of Jamacia, brought a cart-load of baggage. Presidents of the United States were common visitors to the St. Nicholas. Matty Van Buren used to come with baggage that looked like a lady's reticule. He was a plain man, with no such airs as his son, Prince John, as they used to call him. President Buchanan was another plain man, who did not carry much baggage when he came alone. But when Miss Harriet Lane came with him there was baggage enough to fill an express waggon. Miss Lane dressed a great deal and had a great deal of company. When she came to or left the hotel the porters generally got tired carrying her baggage. I think I can see them now puffing on the stairs under the load of her big trunks. After the boys had rested they all said she was a dear, nice young woman. Gen. McClellan's father-in-law, Gen. Marcy, used to be a frequent visitor at the hotel. He did not have a great quantity of baggage, but his daughter, Gen. McClellan's wife, like most of the lady visitors, had plenty of it. I shall never forget the day she fell sick at the reception of the news of the battle of Antietam. I thought the poor lady would die in the house.

"The biggest lot of baggage I ever saw in the hotel was when Gen. Wool and staff came there during the draft riots. The hotel looked like a military camp. We fed 1,400 persons in a day, most of them without baggage, on the day of the great cable celebration. Major-Gen. Benjamin F. Butler came often to visit us, and always carried a moderate baggage. The man whose baggage grew most after he came was the famous Marquis of ——— who went on a spree with our head porter, Tom Adams, and was locked up in the station house for breaking lamps in Broadway. The nobility took a great fancy for Tom."—Detroit Free Press.

Too Many Pages.

Three or four miles out of East Point, Ga., a negro was taken very sick a few weeks ago. A brother of color, who had bought himself a cheap medical treatise, volunteered to cure the patient for four bushels of sweet potatoes. He had not doctored him over three days, however, before the patient was cold in death. A white doctor living in the town happened to be passing and was called in. When he had tasted the medicine, which was in a gallon jug, he asked:

"What disease did you doctor for?"

"Poll-evil, sah."

"What! Who ever heard of a man having poll-evil? That is horse disease."

The other at once opened his book to page 79, and said:

"Reckon you'll find it right dar, sah."

"Yes," said the doctor, as he thumbed the leaves over, "but the diseases of man are not found in this department. This is headed, 'Ailments of Live Stock.'"

"Fo' de Lawd!" gasped the negro, as he snatched the book and hurriedly turned the leaves, "fo' de Lawd if I didn't turn over five paiges too many! I meant to hit him fur consumshun an' billyus fever!"

He Didn't Hanker After That Kind of a Dinner.

And now He tell you a story about a bear. One day the bear he went among a flock of sheep and picked out a nice little lamb, and got it, and the lamb said "ba-ba-ba!" cause it knew it was agoing for to be et every little tiny bit up. But the bear took it in his fore poz, like it was a baby, and set it up full length and rocked it and sed, "There, there, never mind, my precious darlin', we're does it hurt you?" But the lamb kept a hollerin' louder and louder, coz while the bear was a-smilin and singin' a lush boy, he was a-skaweezin' titer and titer all the time.

Bime by the ole ramb he seen wot was up, and he dropped his hed, the ole ramb did, and come like he was shot out of a gun and let him have it in the stumack and dubled him up like a razor, and set him a rollin' over and over without his preshous darlin'.

Just then he see how it was, for there stood the ole ramb a holdin' down his hed ready for to let him have it agin, and shakin' it like he said:

"That little shaver wudent make more than a mouffe for a feller like you. I guess you better serve up the ole man."

But the bear he walked off, sayin:

"I don't hanker after a dinner which goes against my stumack like that."—Little Johnny's Memoirs.

Toung Toulong.

"You remind me of Barnum since he secured his white elephant," said a Brooklyn man to his wife, who never tired of talking.

"Because he holds as sacred a priceless and peerless beauty?" she timidly and blushingly suggested.

"Not quite," replied the wretch; "it's because he owns a Toung Toulong."

That heartless husband no longer carries a night-key.

Why He Can't See Berlin.

Mr. Smithers ate seven pieces of steak and nine muffins for breakfast the other morning and then announced to the boarders that he had made all arrangements to spend the summer in Europe.

"Pity you won't be able to visit Berlin," remarked the audacious Bumble.

"Why, I will be able. I propose spending two weeks there," answered Mr. Bumble.

"Oh, no, you won't," retorted Bumble. "They won't allow any American hog to enter Germany."

There's blood on the moon.

—There is something heroic in silent suffering. Though a man with a layer of active and energetic mustard on his chest rarely thinks of this.

TO MATCH THAT BONNET

Feathers, ribbons, velvet can all be colored to match that new hat by using the Diamond Dyes. 10c. for any color at the druggists. Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt.

A wise cook fondles his fire.

A COLORED CENTENARIAN.

A Woman 105 Years Old Whose Memory is Still Good.

On Sunday Mrs. Nancy Crump, a New Haven colored lady 105 years old, was received by letter into the Emanuel Baptist Church of that city.

"I never had a doctor attend me but once, and then I did not take his prescription," said

The Ingersoll Chronicle

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

THURSDAY, JUNE 26, 1884.

THE County Council of Oxford has earned for itself an unenviable notoriety. At the last session a resolution to present a "leather medal" to one of the Woodstock editors, was moved, seconded and carried in the regular way. And for what? Simply because the editor in question, as was his duty, had shown up a rather questionable move of that body. The action of the Council was undignified in a body supposed to be composed of representative men; it was in extremely bad taste and altogether most disgraceful. It shows there must have been some truth in the charges made against them or they would have been refuted. We are surprised that there was not a single individual in that body to enter a protest against so unbecoming an act. We are sure the majority of them are now heartily ashamed of themselves. The people do not send men to the County board for any such "tomfoolery," and the sooner they learn this fact the better.

THE following which appeared in the Agricultural Gazette of a late date, is of too serious a nature to be overlooked, and should call for an explanation from Prof. Brown:—

"AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, GUELPH, ONT. —It has been widely bruited abroad that Prof. W. Brown of this institution, was in Great Britain selecting typical specimens of our best varieties of live stock for cultivation in Canada. The animals chosen were to be the best obtainable. Prof. Brown had to pay 500 gs. each for the bulls of the Aberdeen, Hereford, and Shorthorn varieties; and it is significant that the Shorthorn bull was selected not in England but in Scotland—not from either of the great rival groups of Bates or Booth tribes, but of a quite inglorious, North-country family."

THE Washington correspondent of THE CHRONICLE writes:—Politicians have been watching the ebb and flow of the Cleveland tide, and there is much diversity of conclusion regarding its power and extent. There are many Democratic Congressmen who predict his nomination on the first ballot at Chicago, while some prominent New York democrats have openly declared at the Capitol that Cleveland could not carry New York. Others are making strenuous efforts to turn the tide of popular sentiment from Cleveland and throw the nomination more fully open to the field. Every time the Cleveland boom drops a point or two, the other booms and boomlets go up, especially that of Bayard. It seems from indications here, that it is still anyone's game at Chicago. So far as can now be learned three states support Bayard, two Thurman, and one each give a vote for Butler, Carlisle, Cleveland, Field, Payne, Randall and Tilden. Seventeen send uninstructed delegations; with nine states yet to hear from.

County Court.

(Concluded from last week)

Rothschild vs. Wilton & Skelton.—Plaintiffs were cigar dealers, and sold tobacco to defendant, Wilton, taking his note for $322, endorsed by defendant Skelton in payment of the purchase money. To recover the amount of this note the plaintiffs brought their action. Defendants claimed that the tobacco was bad and unsaleable, and that they were therefore not liable for the price. Verdict for plaintiff, $339.45 and costs. H. B. Beard, Q. C., for plaintiff; no counsel for defendants.

Hay & Co. vs. Tolmie & McMartin.—The plaintiffs sued on a promissory note given by defendants to them. The defendants after having given the note failed, and called a meeting of their creditors. It was alleged that Hay & Co. at this meeting accepted a compromise of 50 cents on the dollar. This however, the plaintiff denied, and succeeded in showing that they had never assented to such compromise. Verdict for plaintiff, $253 and costs. S. G. McKay for plaintiff; H. B. Beard, Q. C., for defendant.

McLeod vs. Garthwaite.—Another action on a promissory note. The defendants claimed that the said note was a forgery, but were not able to support their allegations. Verdict for plaintiff, $334.90 and costs. S. G. McKay for plaintiff; A. Fletcher for defendant.

Hay & Co. vs. Tolmie & McMartin.—A second action on a promissory note. Verdict, by consent, for plaintiff for $253 and costs. S. G. McKay for plaffs; H. B. Beard, Q. C. for defts.

Davidson vs. Wilson.—The plaintiff is assignee of the judgment of the bank of Commerce vs. Watson & Gordon. The defendant, to whom Gordon was indebted obtained an assignment of Gordon's salary as assessor in payment of his debt. The plaintiff claimed to be entitled to such salary, as judgment creditor. Verdict for plaintiff. Biggar, for plff; S. G. McKay for deft.

Adamson vs. Yeager.—The defendant in 1879 entered into a contract with the plaintiff, who is manager of the Canada West Land Co., whereby the plaintiff was to sell the defendant's farm for him on commission. The plaintiff advertised said farm, and at length obtained a purchaser. The defendant refused to make a conveyance of the property, claiming that the plaintiff's authority to sell only lasted two years from the date of the agreement. Judgment reserved. Blackstock for plff. F. R. Ball, Q. C., for deft.

Baynton vs. Walbourne.—A replevin suit arising from the seizure by the defendant under a landlord's warrant of some goods belonging, as the plaintiff alleged, to him. Judgment reserved. H. B. Beard, Q. C., for plff; S. G. McKay for deft.

Queen vs. Joseph W. Grandy.—The prisoner was charged with having stolen and destroyed a promissory note made by himself in favor of one W. J. Lancaster, for $400. Verdict not guilty. F. R. Ball, Q. C., for crown; H. B. Beard Q. C., for prisoner.

Queen vs. Kelly and Pine.—This was a prosecution for malicious injury to property, the prisoners having gone into the house of Alex. McMillan of East Nissouri at night during his absence from home, and broken and destroyed all the furniture. The prisoners were by mistake indicted for destroying the property of Alex. McMillian, whereas the furniture really belonged to his wife, and as she had settled the damages for $475, the prosecution fell through. F. R. Ball, Q. C., for the crown; H. B. Beard, Q. C., for prisoners.

Queen vs. Sutherland.—The prisoner for the purpose of obtaining a mortgage of $600, represented to J. C. Hegler, solicitor Ingersoll, that certain lands which he owned in the county of Wellington were worth $1,300, and produced affidavits purporting to be sworn to by the assessor of the township, that the land was worth that amount. As a matter of fact it is worth nothing, being part of the great Luther swamp. The jury however, acquitted the prisoner. F. R. Ball, Q. C. for crown; H. B. Beard, Q. C., and McDonald for prisoner.

The smallpox epidemic continues to spread steadily throughout the metropolitan districts of London. There are already about 1,700 cases in the public hospitals, and new cases are being daily reported at the rate of 75 per week.

Perhaps the death of Henry Bode from poisonous pills will have the effect of deterring people from taking these quack nostrums. There is a grim suggestiveness to say the least, about patent medicine advertisements which say:—"Try this mixture and you will never take any other."

WIDE AWAKE DRUGGETS.

John Gayfer is always alive to business, and spares no pains to secure the best of every article in his line. He has secured the agency for the celebrated Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The only certain cure known for Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Asthma, Hay Fever, Bronchitis, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs. Sold on a positive guarantee. Trial Bottles free. Regular size $1.00. 6t

DISTRICT NEWS.

Cherry Grove.

On Saturday, 14th, the buildings on Lot 23, Con. 3, belonging to Wm. Dunbar, were consumed by fire, with their contents. Insured in the Farmers' Insurance Co. at Kintore. Loss about $2,000. Also the barn and sheds belonging to Geo. Fitzgerald, across the road were burned. The wind blowing from the south-east, it was with great difficulty the houses were saved. Insured in the same company. Loss about $1,800.

West Oxford.

Evangelistic Services have been continued as usual during the past week very successfully by Messrs White & Curtis the Evangelists.

Mr Curtis gave an address at the Baptist Church, Salford, last Wednesday evening, and addressed the sunday school at West Oxford last Sunday.

Mr White occupied the pulpit of the Methodist Church on Sunday evening in place of the Rev Mr Moore.

The services will be continued every evening this week except Saturday.

On Sunday the 29th inst a Monster Bush Meeting will be held at Falden's Corners West Oxford from 2 to 5 p.m. Speakers, Messrs White, Curtis and others.

Salford.

Mr. Jas. Chambers lost a valuable colt this week.

Rev. D. Hunt preached his farewell sermon on Sunday last.

Those attending the Baptist social on Tuesday evening, had a good time.

Mrs. Richard Foster, who has been the guest of Mr. Stephen Foster, for some time returned to her home, Newcastle, last week.

During the storm on Sunday, the lightning killed a valuable mare and colt for Mr. W. Scott, and a good cow for Mr. A. Haycock.

The Union Sabbath School hold their annual pic-nic and strawberry festival on Thursday, July 3rd, and from the efforts being put forth, we bespeak them a most enjoyable time, both daytime and evening.

The members of the Salford Baptist Church, held a "welcome" party at the parsonage on Monday evening to welcome their new Pastor, Rev. C. C. Willett, who has just moved his family from Toronto and settled in this village. A very enjoyable evening was spent, the company leaving a well stocked larder and a handful of "lucre" behind them. The outlook for the church is very promising.

Beachville.

Mr. Fordon has gone to London for a few days.

Messrs. Canfield and Henry lost one of their horses a few days ago.

Mr. John Canfield, of the Centre, favored us with a visit the other day.

The leader of the Salvation Army for the past few weeks has been removed and another appointed.

The Rev. Mr. Hunt delivered his farewell address to a large audience in the Methodist Church, on Sunday evening.

Those who looked for a largo turn out at our annual excursion were not disappointed, fully taree hundred tickets being sold.

We are glad to be able to state that Mr. Joseph Notwell's condition is greatly improved. He is now out out of danger and will be able to be around in a few weeks at most.

During the heavy storm of last Thursday, a wash out occured on the C. V. R., near the scene of the accident a year ago. Fortunately the 4 o'clock express had just passed a few minutes before, or we might have had a repatition of last year's ca amity.

While at work on the scaffolding of the new kiln on Saturday afternoon, Mr. Hacker had the misfortune to fall, breaking his left arm a little above the wrist. Mr. H's accident is rather untimely as the kiln is scarcely completed and business is brisk; but under the care of Dr. Brown the fractured limb is progressing as well as could be expected.

Mt. Elgin.

Mr. J. V. Bodwell sold about three tons of evaporated apples last week.

Mr. Joseph McKay has returned to his home, Turtle Mountains, Manitoba.

Miss May Ryan of Michigan, is visiting her friends here.

Rev. Mr. Archer, formerly of your town has been appointed to this circuit.

Messrs. A. Fierheller and J. F. Snider have been elected deacons of the Baptist Church.

Some of our citizens went on a fishing excursion to Whitaker Lake last week but caught nothing but very red frogs.

A base ball club has been organized here, and neighboring towns will have to look to their laurels as our boys means biz.

Messrs. J. & R. Miller are making heavy shipments of lumber this week, they are also getting out material for twenty-five buildings. The hard times do not seem to effect J. & R.

While Mr. John Gregg was engaged in pile driving, the heavy hammer belonging to the machine by some means became unfastened and dropped striking Mr. G. on the shoulder, inflicting serious injuries upon him. He is recovering slowly.

As Mr. James Wade and his family were returning from church on Sabbath, the front wheels of his carriage dropped into an open culvert, pitching the occupants in all directions, fortunately no one was injured. Although what might have been a fatal termination to the accident was alone prevented by the presence of mind of Mrs. Wade. One of the children was thrown between the wheels and the heavy carriage was about to pass over it, when Mrs. Wade seizsd the wheel and succeeded in holding it until the child was extricated from its dangerous position.

A SOCIAL SENSATION.

A Young Man As a Lady's Maid—Scandal Involving a Lady of Fashion.

London, June 21.—To-day's issue of Vanity Fair contains a startling sensation involving a scandalous charge against a lady of title and social standing. Accordhas ing to Vanity Fair a young person who been for some time in the lady's employ, as a confidential lady's maid, has been discovered by the police to have been practising a shameless deception. The newspaper does not venture to divulge the lady's name, but refers all enquiries to the police. This public reference to a scandal, which has for several days past been whispered about in the clubs, is expected to cause a commotion in Belgravia. This story is told in much greater deatil by a well-known detective, who is employed exclusively upon what are known as society cases. According to this authority the lady's maid was a modest appearing and demure young person, who seemed to give great satisfaction to the lady, but who never mixed with the other servants, and was regarded by them as supercilious and disagreeable. An upper housemaid of the lady's household, who specially disliked the lady's maid, had for her beau a very intelligent member of the police force, and she told him of her dislike for the fellow-servant. This led the constable to take particular notice of the privileged maid, and he soon observed little peculiarities in her manner and bearing that led him to believe that a masquerade was in progress, and that, in fact, the maid was a man. The policeman at once jumped to the conclusion that the young man had gained access to the lady's household for the purpose of robbery, and was biding his time to run off with the jewel cases. The officer reported his suspicions and theory to his superiors, and was instructed to follow up the case and obtain conclusive evidence as to the suspected person's sex. He soon found abundant proof that his suspicions were correct, and made haste to inform the lady that the person whom she had harbored as a confidential maid was in fact a young man. It is stated that the zealous policeman "never felt so cheap" and ill-rewarded in his life as when he saw that his startling intelligence was received with neither horror nor surprise, nor even thanks. The lady's manner crushed him with the conviction that he had told her no news, and that he had done an exceedingly imprudent thing in presuming to enlighten her concerning the affairs of her own household. He retreated abashed. If the detective's belief is well founded, the motive of the lady in conniving at the masquerade is an inexplicable mystery to all but herself and perhaps the "maid." It is stated that the young man will be pensioned off by the lady's family on condition that he will leave England and never return.

A RECIPROCITY TREATY.

Renewal of Negotiations for a Treaty.

OTTAWA, June 23.—It is reported here that the Government have arranged the terms of a reciprocity treaty with the United States, which will shortly be made public. The new treaty, it is stated, will follow the lines of the former reciprocity treaty, admitting natural products and some articles in the earlier stages of manufacture. The defeat of the Morrison tariff bill in the United States House of Representatives is alleged to have been largely due to the renewal of negotiations.

THE THRONE OF HOLLAND.

Germany Claims the Sole Right to Meddle in Holland's Affairs.

BERLIN, June 23.—Prince Bismarck, during the illness of the Prince of Orange, caused the German representatives at the various European courts to declare that any attempt to make the successor to the regency in Holland a European question would find instant opposition from Germany. This declaration is taken to mean that Germany alone has the right to meddle in the affairs of Holland. The King of Holland is ill, and his death is believed to be near. On his decease the Duke of Nassau, failing to obtain the throne of Holland, will claim the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg.

NEWS NOTES.

TEMS OF INTEREST FROM ALL SOURCES.

Personal and Genera Gossip.

Deer have been seen lately in the vicinity of Orillia.

The Island of Anticosti has been sold for $101,000.

The Prince of Orange, Crown Prince of the Netherlands, is dead.

The city of New York will lose $800,000 by the failure of the Marine Bank.

A new comet has been discovered at Vienna. It is visible from America.

The selection of Blaine as Republican candidate fills him, he says, with embarrassment.

The death is announced of John Gustavus Droysen, Professor of History at the University of Berlin.

The Lower House of Louisiana has appropriated $100,000 for the World's Exposition at New Orleans.

It is estimated that 34,000 persons have been converted in England since last fall through Moody's efforts.

The Pope's life has been twice threatened by the dynamiters, and the threats are attributed to the Freemasons.

Leech's saw mill at Bluevale was burned on Saturday. Loss $2,500. No insurance.

There is some talk of amalgamating the separate and public schools of Amherstburg.

The hotel-keepers of Stayner are boycotting the Sun newspaper, on account of its advocacy of the Scott Act.

During 1883 there were 2,169 fires in New York city, causing an estimated loss of $3,512,000, fully covered by insurance.

A bad boy at St. Thomas seriously alarmed his parents and neighbors by failing to turn up as usual at dinner. He had played hookey and went to Port Stanley.

The Indian Government has decided upon constructing a railroad from Candahar, in Afghanistan, to Quetta, in Beloochistan, as a means of giving a check to Russian advances in Asia.

At the request of the Provincial authorities the argument before the Supreme Court on the constitutionality of the License Act has been postponed till the 23rd September.

Walter Wilson, who left Montreal suddenly in February last on the eve of his wedding, and who has since been sojourning in New York, has returned, and it is said intends to remain in the city.

Early on Saturday morning the shirt and collar factory of Skelton Bros. & Co., St. Helen street, Montreal, was found to be on fire. The fire brigade were unable to save the building, which was a mere shell of brick and iron. It fell in, and a man named Belmore was instantly killed; another named Laure being dangerously hurt. Stock insured for $80,000, building for $10,000.

There were 16 failures in Canada reported to Bradstreet's during the past week, as compared with 17 in the preceding week, and with 28, 8, and 8 respectively in the corresponding weeks of 1883, 1882, and 1881. In the United States there were 187 failures reported to Bradstreet's, as against 178, 137, and 85 during the corresponding weeks of 1883, 1882, and 1881.

Mr. H. J. Morton, of Scarborough, England, is the first arrival in Montreal of the members of the British Science Association. He purposes making a lengthened tour of the Yellowstone region before the meeting of the Association commences in Montreal. Mr. Morton states that large additions have been made to the list of members intending to visit Montreal, and when he left England notices from intending visitors were being received in larger numbers than ever. Consequently no estimate can be formed of the number who will attend.

Lord Lansdowne, with Lieuts. Streatfield and Anson, A.D.C.'s, is at present engaged in fishing on the Cascapedia. The marchioness of Lansdowne, with the Hon. Florence Anson, the earl of Kerry and his sister, are rusticating on the St. Lawrence, near Quebec. The health of the party is excellent, and Lady Lansdowne and her children much enjoy their first summer outing in Canada. His excellency and suite will join Lady Lansdowne at Quebec in five weeks' time. After a short stay in that city the party will leave, it is thought, for Upper Canada. The vice-regal party will return to government house finally in October next.

On Sunday morning about 7 o'clock No. 310 special going south with a caboose on the Welland branch of the Grand Trunk Railway collided with No. 28 regular freight at Welland station, wrecking both engines, tenders, and six cars. Brakeman Walls on 28 was instantly killed. Fireman Tremellion on 28 died in less than an hour. The fireman on 310 was badly injured, but will recover. Taylor, engineer on 28, was slightly hurt. Conductor Nesbitt had charge of the special, which left Allanburg on line of 28, and without orders; 28 was about four hours late. Conductor Nesbitt made himself scarce, and has not been seen since the accident. He was formerly yard boss on the Great Western Railway at Hamilton.

One of the most elaborate pianos ever made has just been completed in New York for Mr. George Stephen, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. It was designed by the Canadian architect who planned Mr. Stephen's house at Montreal. The piano is built of the satin-wood of South America, finished in different styles, to produce contrasting effects. The case proper is made of nine pieces of satin-wood veneering, glued together, to form one continuous body, which reaches from corner to corner. This is laid off in panels, which are inlaid with rare and costly woods of South America and bright metal. One panel contains a lyre, the frame of which is of tulipwood and the strings of metal. The vine that leads away from it on either side has its stems of amaranth, its leaves of cocobola, and its leaf skeletons of glittering metal, while the whole has a snake-wood border. A sprig of oak has its acorn cups of amaranth and its bulbs of metal, producing the effect of nature. The legs of the instrument are like arched doorways of a palace. Each consists of two columns of satin-wood exquisitely carved and inlaid, which come together at the top to form an arch. The value of the instrument is $4,000.

ALL kinds of canned goods guaranteed good at Beck's, 80.

ENGRAVED calling cards at the CHRONICLE office.

CALLING cards and wedding invitation with envelopes to match at the CHRONICLE office.

Thsebaw, King of Burmah, has poisoned the Queen and her mother, and married the Queen's sister.

The Toronto City Council has accepted the tender of Inglis & Hunter for the pumping engines.

The Canadian Pacific Railway contractors in the Rocky Mountains are engaging men as fast as they come. Wages are from $1.90 to $2.25 a day; board $5 per week.

Bush fires have started in the vicinity of Elginburg, and the farmers are fighting the flames with water. It is anticipated that they will be able to prevent the fire spreading to the forest.

Principal Dawson, LL.D., C.M.G., the distinguished head of McGill University, has returned to Montreal after a protracted trip across the Atlantic, during which he visited England, France, Italy, Egypt and Palestine.

The Parks Committee of the City Council of Hamilton recommend the purchase of Dundurn from Senator McInnes for a public park, and also a site in the east end for another. It is said that Mr. McInnes holds Dundurn at $65,000. He recently refused $55,000.

The Queen's Hotel and other buildings adjoining were burned at Port Arthur on Saturday. The loss is estimated at $25,000. Mr. McPherson, a commercial traveller from Winnipeg was burned to death. The guests lost a good deal of property, the fire breaking out at 3 a.m.

On the last trip of the steamship Arizona to New York, she brought in a batch of 531 Mormons from Europe. Of these 26 are returning elders, who have been absent two years gathering in the faithful in foreign lands. Of the converts, who came in the steerage, 70% are Scandinavians, and the remainder are from Great Britain, and principally English. The majority of the immigrants are farm laborers. But few of the party have any money.

The Detroit coachman who called himself "Sir Charles Neiville, Bart," was brought before the Grand Jury at Toledo on Wednesday last on two charges, one for bigamy and the other for perjury. The result of the case is not yet known, but the attorney of Mr. Whitney, father of the girl with whom he eloped, thinks he will be convicted on each count. As the case stands it is altogether probable that he will receive fourteen or fifteen years at Columbus.

William Dunn, an Irish immigrant arrived in this country three weeks ago and went to work for an Ancaster farmer. On Saturday he came to Hamilton, got into a fight, and was arrested for being drunk and disorderly. He was taken to the cells, where he had sobered up by 7 o'clock. At 8 o'clock some friends came to bail him out, and on going to his cell found he had taken a leather belt he wore, slipped one end over the top bar of the gate of his cell, and laid his jaw in the doubled end in such a manner as to have the effect of a noose. Then he lifted his feet from the floor and hung there till he died.

Indian troubles are reported from Battleford. Some days ago two Indians demanded provisions from Instructor Craig, forty miles west of Battleford. Being refused they assaulted him and helped themselves. Sergeant Crozier with thirty men repaired to the spot, where they found a concourse of Indians, assembled to hold a thirst dance. Chief Poundmaker and Big Bear assumed a threatening attitude. Crozier had the provisions and live stock removed and built a bastion. After several parleys the Indians were induced to come within 600 yards of the barricade, but they refused to come further. They proposed several compromises, but Crozier would accept nothing but the surrender of the men wanted. He selected a small squad of men, and arrested one, but the others escaped into the bush. Great confusion prevailed, some Indians trying to rescue the prisoner, but others endeavoring to stop violent measures. Inspector Antrobus and forty men arrived on the scene and covered his retreat. Afterwards, while Crozier was distributing provisions as a reward to the well disposed Indians, he secured the man he wanted, who came up boldly for provisions, and was arrested by Crozier. The Indians scattered, and the police returned to Battleford. In the melee several policemen were disarmed, but their arms were recovered. Poundmaker made a vicious attempt to kill Antrobus with a war club. Battleford dispatches of a later date say all is quiet and the trouble is over.

Crops and Business in Manitoba.

MONTREAL, June 23.—C. J. Brydges, commissioner of the Hudson Bay Company in the North-west, anticipates that there will be about 12,000,000 bushel of wheat for export from Manitoba this year. General business is improving, and the outlook is satisfactory. The Galt coal mines are supplying the Canadian Pacific Road, and are turning out 1,000 tons weekly.

THE CANADA PACIFIC.

Work at the Western End.

A correspondent from the summit of the Rocky Mountains says: The work is rapidly being pushed on. The line has been located to the first crossing of the Columbia River, seventy-five miles west of the summit, and they are now ascending the Selkirks between the first and second crossing of the Columbia River, which crossings are about sixty miles apart. The line will then be run over the gold range of hills, and finally join the Government line at Kamloops, a total distance of two hundred and ninety miles from here. In descending the Kicking Horse and Lower Kicking Horse Passes for sixty miles some tolerably steep grades and ten degree curves will be encountered, while the Kicking Horse River will be crossed, either by trestles or truss bridges, no less than eight times. Then comes the Columbia Flats, which are three thousand feet above the sea, and an easy ascent of the Selkirk range, which will take the track up to the same height that we are here, that is fifty-three hundred feet.

Every train brings out large numbers of navvies. Sometimes as many as seven coaches are packed with them, while numerous excursion trains bring the rest out from Winnipeg. As there is no good place for sidings between this and the Columbia Flats, the headquarters will remain here until the autumn, when the track reaches that place; then the headquarters and the yards will move down there en masse.

A great deal of timber used in small bridges and trestle is merely hewn lumber, which is much cheaper than getting all the lumber from Minneapolis, as we were obliged to do last year. During the winter 20,000 cords of firewood and thousands of thousands of ties were cut at this place alone.

Nearly all of the culverts, which were made of wood on the prairies, will be made of stone in the Rockies, which will, of course, be cheaper and better.

Strenuous efforts will be made to have this branch of the C. P. R. reach Kamloops by the first of 1886, which will thus complete the road through to the Pacific.

Official Changes on the Grand Trunk.

MONTREAL, June 2[illegible]. The following changes, owing to the removal of Mr. Spicer to Detroit, have been made on the staff of the Grand Trunk to take effect from July 1: J. Stevenson, superintendent Grand Trunk Railway; W. Edgar, general passenger agent; J. Burton, assistant to general manager; A. J. Reed, assistant treasurer of the company.

He Never Divides.

A Detroit lawyer received a visit the other day from a farmer in a neighboring county, who stated that he had fallen into trouble with some of his relatives over the division of an estate.

"What's the amount?" asked the lawyer.

"About $7,000. I was thinking I'd make you this proposition: If you'll take the case and recover the $7,000 I'll give you $6,000 of it."

"My dear sir," calmly replied the attorney without the least change of countenance, "you had best consult some Police Court shyster. I should not only want the whole $7,000, but a retaining fee of at least $500! I never divide with any man."

The farmer has concluded not to have [illegible].

The Earl of Wilton has just had his tongue cut out. He bore the operation well, and it has been successful, at least in saving his life. Hitherto cancer in the tongue has been deemed fatal. The elder Placide, Henry, died of it, and his brother Thomas committed suicide under the suffering which attends it.

CABLE NOTES.

FORTIFYING ADEN.

Sir James Ferguson recomends that Aden and the island at the entrance of the Red Sea be regularly fortified, and that an efficient garrison of English soldiers be stationed there.

MORMON MISSIONARIES EXPELLED FROM BAVARIA.

Elder Smoot, Mormon missionary, has been expelled from Bavaria by order of the Minister of State. Smoot had made numerous converts, whom he was preparing to send to Utah, but the plan is broken up for the present.

SMALLPOX EPIDEMIC.

The smallpox epidemic is spreading in London. A special cable says there are already about 1,700 cases in the public hospitals, and new cases are being added daily at the rate of 75 per week.

TURKISH TROOPS FOR UPPER EGYPT.

The Porte has 15,000 men ready to send to Upper Egypt. It is intended they shall disembark at a port on the Red Sea. This action is due to the news that there is imminent danger of the Mehdi's movement spreading into Hedjas.

DAVITT AND PARNELL.

The gap in the friendly relations between Mr. Michael Davitt and Mr. Parnell is rapidly widening into a serious breach. Several angry letters have passed between the two leaders, those of Davitt being bitterly denunciatory of Parnell's methods, while the replies by the latter have been curt and contemptuous.

THE DYNAMITE SCARE.

There is intense excitement in London caused by the reported declaration of ex-Head Centre Stephens, whose plan is to destroy English towns by dynamite dropped from balloons. A despatch says police are nervously active and the Metropolis was never so thoroughly patrolled as at present.

THE QUEEN'S JOURNEY.

Extraordinary precautions are being taken to secure the safety of the Queen and Princess Beatrice against possible dynamite plots, during their approaching journey from Balmoral to Windsor. A special despatch says that the Royal train will be preceded by a pilot engine, and that the public will be rigorously excluded from all railway crossings and stations along the route.

THE MACKAY-BENNETT CABLE.

The steamer Faraday has left the Thames with 5,000 tons of cable. She will proceed to Waterville Bay, Ireland, and lay the shore end in the same manner as at Rockport, Mass. This work will probably be completed by Friday afternoon, when the connection with the deep sea portion will be made, and the American half-cable buoy will probably be reached on the 20th of July, when by splicing the circuit will be completed between England and America, and, barring accident, the first two proposed Mackay-Bennett cables will be in working order.

THE PETROLEUM MARKET.

In the petroleum market wild gossip of the superiority of the Russian wells and rumors of failures in America cause a continuous decline in prices, which are latterly relatively lower than even the American quotations. Little business has been done in the London market for the past few days, on account of the great interest which has been taken by dealers, in hearing a technical petroleum case in the law courts, in which a noted petroleum dealer is involved. This case has been the feature of the week in oil circles, and has caused naturally the weak market to be further depressed.

He Didn't Figure Like That.

A German tailor, in a village in Canada, failed a few days ago and called a meeting of his creditors. An investigation seemed to show that his liabilities were $4,000 and his assets $1,000.

"It thus appears," said one of the creditors, "that you can pay 25 cents on the dollar."

"Vhell, I dean' figure like dot," replied the tailor.

"How do you figure?"

"Vhy, I pays feefty cents on der dollar.

"How can you do that when your assets only allow for one-fourth?"

"Vhell, I prings the odder money down from der house!"

He was not permitted to fail.

The Toronto World hints slyly that the Federal and London Banks are going to unite.

Miss Rebecca Bates who was criminally assaulted at Clinton a short time ago, has become violently insane, and her parents have been obliged to have her committed to an asylum. The ruffians who committed the assault and are now in jail at Goderich should be hanged.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder neververies. A marvel of purity, strength, and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall-st., N. Y. January 24th, 1884. 1585-48t

LOTUS OF THE NILE

THAT QUEEN OF PERFUMES FOR THE HANDKERCHIEF.

DAVIS & LAWRENCE CO.

(SOEE AGENTS,)

MONTREAL.

NO MORE NAUSEOUS PILLS!

A LONG-FELT WANT SUPPLIED.

CAMPBELL'S Cathartic COMPOUND

Campbell's Cathartic Compound is adapted for the cure of Liver Complaints and Bilious Disorders, Acid Stomach, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Sick Headache, Constipation or Costiveness, and all complaints arising from a disordered state of the stomach or bowels.

Children like it! Mothers like it! Because it is agreeable to the taste, does not occasion nausea, acts without griping, is certain in its effects, and is effective in small doses.

Sold by all Druggists and Medicine Dealers,

PRICE, 25 CTS. PER BOTTLE.

DAVIS & LAWRENCE COMPANY, Limited, Wholesale Agents, Montreal.

School Books!

Croquet Sets, Express Wagons, Carts, Rubber Balls, Base Balls, Bibles, Prayer and Hymn Books. Music and Musical Goods.

FULL STOCK GENERAL STATIONERY AND OFFICE BOOKS.

PICTURE FRAMING NEATLY EXECUTED.

G. B. FOTHERINGHAM,

Campbell's Old Stand, Christopher's Block, Thames-St.

April 17th, 1884. 1597

MOSS & Co's CELEBRATED BAKING POWDER

NOTED FOR ITS PURITY AND STRENGTH.

MANUFACTURED BY MOSS, RIMMINGTON & CO., SELBY, ENGLAND.

Change of Business

The undersigned begs leave to announce that he has purchased the

HARNESS MAKING BUSINESS

From T. FEIGHTNER, and will in a few days have

A Complete Stock of Goods

In all the departments of the

Best Material and Newest Designs

To be had in the market and hopes to receive a liberal share of the public patronage.

WM. TRIPP.

June 19th, 1884. 1606

COAL OIL STOVES.

The Greatest Success of the Day.

Delight. Fairy Queen. Universal. Golden Star.

Economical! Simple! Convenient and Safe!

Will do the work of an ordinary cooking range at a cost of ONE CENT PER HOUR.

Prices from $2.50 to $15.00.

Call and See the Oil Stove working at

S. KING'S.

A full line of Stoves and Tinware.

Ingersoll, June 5th, 1884. 1604t

Ingersoll Greenhouse,

THAMES-ST., near C.V.R. Station.

BEFORE PURCHASING YOUR

House & Bedding Plants

CALL AND SEE

MRS. HEATH'S

Stock, which will be found in finer condition than in any previous year.

Hanging Baskets, Rustic Vases, Settees, &c., in great variety.

Roses—Monthly, Hybrid and Perpetual, in large and small plants. Mailing size 10 for $1.00.

A choice collections of Dahlias, ready June 1st.

Hanging Baskets and Vases filled with choice plants and best care.

Funeral Designs and Cemetery Decorations a specialty.

Wedding Bouquets and all cut flower work as usual.

All kinds of Fruits and Vegetables in their season.

Button Hole Boquets 10 cts Each.

May 1st, 1884. 1590tf

Daly House Livery,

J. GUGGISBERG, Prop.

LEADING LIVERY IN TOWN.

Ingersoll, Jan. 3rd, 1884. 1582v-y

Boy's Underwear,

SIZES

16 18 20 22 24 26 28 30 32.

Mens' Underwear,

SIZES

34 36 38 40 42 44 46 in.

CHEAP AT

W. E. TURNER'S

Successor to R. A. Garlick,

174 Bundas Street, London.

June 4th, 1884. 1604

MUNICIPALITY OF WEST OXFORD.

Public Notice is Hereby Given

THAT THE

COUNCIL of the Corporation OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST OXFORD

After the expiration of

One Month from the date Hereof

Intend passing a By-Law for the purpose of

STOPPING UP AND SELLING

The hereinafter mentioned public highway, which may be known and described as follows, that is to say: All and singular that certain portion of the original allowance for road between the

Fourth and Fifth Concessions

From the Easterly limit of Lot number 13, to the Westerly limit of Lot number 14, in the said

TOWNSHIP OF WEST OXFORD,

And for the purposes aforesaid the Council of said Township of West Oxford, will meet at the

TOWN HALL, BEACHVILLE,

—ON—

Monday the 7th day of July, 1884,

At 10 o'clock a.m., and let all parties govern themselves accordingly.

By order of the Council,

CHAS. MASON, Township Clerk.

West Oxford, June 2nd, 1884. 1601

Engraved Visiting Cards, Pirie's Best Wedding Stationery, latest New York Styles at THE CHRONICLE Office. See samples.

$66 a week at home. $5 outfit free. Pay absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make great pay all the time they work, with absolute certainty. Write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Me.

FUNDS FOR INVESTMENT.

A large amount of FUNDS FOR INVESTMENT to parties applying at once, AT SIX PER CENT.

J. C. HEGLER.

Ingersoll, Nov. 29, 1883. 1557b-m

FOR SALE.

The Stone House and Outbuildings KNOWN AS

THE PETER CARROLL PLACE,

With 4½ or 12½ acres of land. Trout pond and stream, orchard and ornamental groves, etc., situated on the London Road, one mile west of the market house, Ingersoll, and just outside the town limits.

For price and terms apply to the undersigned,

JAMES F. McDONALD, Barrister, Ingersoll.

Feb. 14th, 1884. 88

Fruit Store.

WE HAVE THE

Greatest Variety

Of Canned Goods in Ingersoll,

TOMATOES, BEANS, PEAS, CORN, APPLES, PEARS, PLUMS, PEACHES, CHERRIES, STRAWBERRIES, PINE APPLES, SALMON, SARDINES, MUSTARD SARDINES, AND MACKEREL, CORNED BEEF, CHICKEN, TURKEY, DUCK, PIGS-FEET, OYSTERS, LOBSTERS, JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF, DURKEE'S SALAD DRESSING, ANCHOVY SAUCE, KETCHUP, AND NUMBERLESS other articles. &c., &c.

Oranges, Lemons, Bananas, Tobaccos, Cigars, Pipes, Etc.

GEORGE BECK.

Sign of the Big Lamp.

TELEPHONE COMMUNICATION.

Ingersoll, April 24th 1884. 1593

NORMAN'S

Electric Belt Institution,

(ESTABLISHED 1874),

4 QUEEN ST. EAST, TORONTO.

NERVOUS DEBILITY, Rheumatism, Lame Back, Neuralgia, Paralysis, and all Liver and Chest Complaints immediately relieved and permanently cured by using these BELTS, BANDS AND INSOLES.

Circulars and Consultation FREE.

WEAKNESS

And Lassitude yield to the influence of NORMAN'S ELECRIC BELT when all other remedies fail. Try one and you will suffer no longer.

VANCE'S BAKERY

continues to be the place where the public get a full assortment of

CAKES AND CONFFCTIONERY

Soda Biscuits and Oyster Crackers,

Manufactured on the premises, and consequently always fresh.

Tea Parties Supplied. Bride Cakes Made and Neatly Ornamented at Reasonable Rates.

A large assortment of Ornamental Cake Tops an Flowers always on hand.

Fresh Bread and Buns Every Day.

R. VANCE, Thames Street.

Bread delivered in town dail .

Canada Pacific Railway.

ONTARIO DIVISION.

COMMENCING MONDAY, MAY 19, 1884.

Trains leave Ingersoll as follows:

GOING EAST.	GOING WEST.
5.35 a.m.	7.18 a.m.
12.30 a.m.	10.47 a.m.
3.20 p.m.	4.21 p.m.
7.11 p.m.	8.45 p.m.

An additional train will be run in connection with the

Canadian Pacific Steamship Line,

Leaving Toronto, 11.30 a.m., for Owen Sound.

W. WHYTE, Gen. Supt. D. McNICOLL, Gen. Pass. Agent.

Ingersoll, May 22nd, 1884. 1602

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS THIS WEEK.

Grand Trunk R'y.—J. Hickson.
House for Sale.—J. H. Hegler.
Mortgage Sale.—Brown and Wells.
Dry Goods.—D. White & Co.

The Ingersoll Chronicle

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

THURSDAY, JUNE 26, 1884.

TOWN NEWS.

COME to Ingersoll on Dominion Day.

SATURDAY was the longest day of the year.

THE seductive strawberry festival has begun to get in its work.

COME to Ingersoll on Dominion Day and enjoy the fun.

ONLY the "oldest inhabitant" remembers such a prolonged hot wave in June.

FIREMEN'S demonstration in Ingersoll, on Dominion Day, July 1st.

BANK HOLIDAY.—Saturday next, 28th June, being a legal holiday the banks will be closed.

THE I. O. G. T. lodge of this town are making arrangements for a lawn social. Particulars next week.

KILLED.—John Guggisberg lost a useful horse yesterday. He was kicked in the pasture field and had to be shot.

DISSOLVED—The firm of Wilton & Gellan, cigar manufacturers, of Tilsonburg, has been dissolved. The business will be continued by Mrs. Goldie Wilton.

A painful accident occurred at the East Oxford cheese factory on Friday last, a young man named Robinson getting his hand crushed in the curd cutter.

LOSS OF A HORSE.—Mr. Wm. Partlo lost a valuable horse on Sunday from inflammation, superinduced, it is supposed, by the intense heat. He was valued at over $200.

DIED.—Donald Matheson, one of the oldest residents of this county, died at his home in Embro, on Monday, aged 76 years. He was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him.

ACCIDENT.—While Mr. W. A. Rumsey was descending his stairs on Monday he had the misfortune to slip, and falling broke two of his ribs. His injuries, although painful, will not prove serious.

GOOD.—Rest to the weary—a machine has been invented that will darn stockings. Bachelors can use them, and mothers can give more time to crazy quilts and other useful household duties.

NOT GOING.—Owing to the illiberal rates charged by the railway lines to Toronto during the Semi Centennial, the members of our various societies in town have given up all intention of visiting that city as was intended.

THE SPARROW.—The borer is attacking the maples, the black grub is destroying the corn, the curculio is after the plums, and the army worm is going for vegetation in general. And still the English sparrow increases and multiplies, and is as healthy and more pestiferous than ever.

LACROSSE.—The following is the team selected to play the Ontarios of London in that city on Dominion Day:—E. Dundas, (Captain); Jas. Vance, E. Eshelby, J. Atkinson, R. Malone, H. Sumner, E. Cowan, J. Hegler, F. Smale, W. Smith, J. Matheson, C. Cowan, and J. T. Christison.

PERSONAL.—Harry B. Jagoe, formerly in the Post Office here, is Canadian travelling agent for the N. Y., West Shore and Buffalo Railroad.—Mr. Bucknell, formerly of this County, now living in Lindsay, has been gazetted Lieuteuant of the Lindsay Company.

ON THE WATER.

Now the small boy, loudly wailing,
Misses both his pants and coat;
While he's in the river trailing
They were eaten by a goat.
Now the fool, who goes a sailing
Just to rock the cranky boat,
Will gain sense while friends are bailing
Out the water from his throat.

DISLOCATED HIS JAW.—Thos. Gollan, of Tilsonburg, while yawning on getting up the other morning, either overstepped the bounds set by prudence or miscalculated his distance, for he dislocated his jaw and couldn't close his mouth again. Dr. McDonald got it into working order.

SALVATIONIST'S IN GAOL.—Capt. Hall, the leader of the Salvation Army in London, was arrested and taken to the county gaol on Saturday evening, to serve the term of ten days' imprisonment, imposed upon her for violating the by law. There are now four of the ringleaders undergoing imprisonment.

FESTIVAL.—A strawberry and ice cream festival, in connection with St. Andrew's Church, will be held at the residence of Mr. T. D. Millar, north of the river, on Monday evening, 30th June. Strawberries and ice cream will be served from six o'clock. All are invited. Admission to grounds, 10cts.

WHY?—The sweet flowers of summer lend fragrance to the softly sighing zephyrs, the emerald decks the lea, the silver-throated songsters make musical the abode of man, and yet the Telephone Company's poles have not yet received that promised coat of paint.

ARRESTED.—A woman named Williams from Woodstock "lost" a five-year-old child in London, Saturday. Enquiries in Woodstock developed the fact that before leaving there she had also bounced her baby. Word was sent to London to arrest her and hold her until a constable arrived to take her to Woodstock.

LAWN TENNIS.—On Saturday afternoon, four members of the Ingersoll Lawn Tennis Club will play a match game with an equal number each from the Woodstock and St. Thomas Clubs. Play will commence at two o'clock with Woodstock, immediately at the close the match with St. Thomas will commence.

A COSTLY CIGAR.—The Elora Express says: Last week Mr. James Bruce, who has been engaged in the butchering business in this village for some time past, was on his way to Toronto when a stranger gave him a cigar to smoke. He soon became drowsy and lost consciousness. When he came to he was minus $350.

BASE BALL.—A base ball match took place in Victoria Park, on Saturday last, between the Alerts, of Dereham, seniors, W. Elliott, Captain, and the Landsdownes, of Ingersoll, juniors, Captain, C. A. Summer. Although the Landsdownes lacked three of their best men, they defeated the Alerts by three runs, the score standing 20 to 17.

TEMPERANCE CONVENTION.—At the last meeting of the O. T. A. it was decided to hold the next meeting for business in the lecture room of Chalmers Church, Woodstock, on Dominion Day at 10 a.m. This meeting is likely to be an important one, and all temperance workers are asked to be present.

DOMINION DAY.—The Steamer Fire Co., are out with an attractive programme for Dominion Day. A grand salute will be fired at sunrise. At 1:30 p.m. a procession will be formed at the Market Square, headed by the 22nd Batt. Band, and proceed to Victoria Park, where horse races, foot races, bicycle races, hose reel races, obstacle race, hurdle race, wheelbarrow race, etc., will take place. Admission to grounds 10 cts., Carriages 25 cents. Entrance fee to all games 25 cts., except girls race, which is free. All prizes paid on ground as soon as judges give decision.

BOARD OF HEALTH.—Now that the new Board of Health has got into working order we trust that it will require no urging to do its duty. The Government has placed in its hands almost unlimited power in the direction of protecting the general health of the community; and while its powers should be exercised with judgment, there should be no hesitation in using them to their full extent—from fear of giving offence to individuals by their exercise—when it is necessary to rid the community of anything that is endangering its health. The people should give the Board all the assistance they can.

ST. JOHN'S DAY.—The band concert in the rink on Tuesday evening was a most pleasant affair, there being over 800 people present, who listened with enjoyment to the strains of the 7th Batt. Band of London. The 22nd Batt. Band assisted. The Masonic fraternity is deserving of the thanks of citizens for providing such a really enjoyable entertainment. Below is the programme:

March—" War March from Athalie"...Mendelssohn
7th Fusiliers.
Overture—" Bandelier Strelche,"...Suppe
7th Fusiliers.
Overture—" In Memoriam,"...Newton
22nd Batt. Band.
Selection—" Marlana,"...Wallace
7th Fusiliers.
Waltz—" Germany,"...Keler Bela
7th Fusiliers.
Valse—" Mia Cara,"...Bucalossi
22nd Batt. Band.
Selection—"German Melodies,"...Gung'l
7th Fusiliers.

$50,000 to Loan on Real Estate at Lowest Rates. Apply to Brown & Wells, Barristers. 1593tf

PARTIES requiring money on good security can obtain any amount they may require at from one to two per cent. cheaper than any where else by applying to P. O. Box 29, Ingersoll. Business strictly confidential. 82

ICE CREAM Parlours are now open at R. Vance's Confectionery. Call in and see them. You will get the genuine article there. 02

FRESH FISH.—We will have constantly on hand a supply of Fresh Trout, White Fish, and Herring. Beck's Fruit Store. Telephone communication. 01

CALL and see the immense stock of Wall Papers, Floor Oil Cloths, Window Cornices, Window Shades, &c., at L. Thompson's McCaughey's Block. 41.

FIZ! Zip! goes the Soda Fountain at R. Vance's Confectionery. 02

COURT OF REVISION.

Result of Proceedings.

The Court of Revision commenced its sittings on Monday evening June 16th. There were 170 appeals and they were taken up in the order of their entry. Below we give the result of each case:—

Geo. Sutherland's appeal against assessment for income was confirmed, as was also M. N. Parsons.

Wm O'Neil over assessment of property, having only 1-10th of an acre assessed for $325, laid over for further consideration.

T A Bishop appealed against property value $900, and does not receive any income. Assessment confirmed.

T W Hipkin appealed against income as it was derived from pension as a half pay officer which was exempt. Assessment struck off.

T F Fawkes appealed against assessment on brick cottage $450, destroyed by fire reduced to $200.

A R Douglas appealed against over assessment $575. Assessment confirmed.

J L Maude appealed against property over assessed. No income assessed, $500 for property, $500 for income, reduced $100 on income only.

E Hegler appealed against over-assessment as he only paid $2,000 for the property and wished to be assessed as owner. Laid over.

Jas Whetstone, owner of property, assessed to Jos Longfield, wished his name substituted for Longfield as owner. Laid over in order to notify Longfield.

H Goble appealed against over-assessment on property $2,100 and $600. Assessment confirmed.

C H Slawson appealed against the assessment of the property, known as the old distillery as too high $3,950. Laid over.

J C Norsworthy appealed against assessment on farm given as 86 acres should be 84 acres. Laid over.

W O Smith appealed against over-assessment $900, having only paid $400 for property, reduced to $600.

J H Downing's assessment on income, reduced to $400.

Jas Adkins' assessment reduced to $600.

Wm. Garner's assessment $375, confirmed.

Fred Gammon was assessed as occupier instead of Henry Goble.

Thos. Garlick, occupier of M Hislop's house, was entered as such.

R W Smith's assessment, $1,200, confirmed.

Geo. Christopher appealed against twenty-seven assessments. Geo. Christopher's house, $4,500, was to high. Assessment confirmed. Houser's house, $425; reduced to $400. Geo. Barrow's house, $375, raised $25 this year; reduced to $350. E Cuthbert's assessment to be changed to Simister, as he had purchased it; laid over to notify Cuthbert. T H Barraclough's shop to be assessed to John, George and Aaron Christopher, as owners; granted. Walter Dutton's shoe shop, assessed at $300; laid over. Harmony Hall, assessed formerly at $600, raised to $625; assessment confirmed. W. J. Pant's house, assessed for $300; reduced to $250. Miss Baker's store, $2,050, wished John, George and Aaron Christopher's names added as owners; granted. A N Christopher's house, assessed at $4,500; laid over. Chas. Johnston's house, $550,—this assessment was claimed in excess of cost, actual value and what it is in the market for; laid over. A McGowan's house should be assessed to John Christopher, assessed at $550; laid over. Jas. McDonald's house, assessed at $425, claimed it should not be raised $25 over last year's assessment; laid over. Miss Warring's house, and four other cottages, Webster's, Robinson's and Middlemiss's, raised this year from $400 to $425 each; laid over. Lloyd Hill's house, assessed at $600, a raise of $50; laid over. C C Carey's barber shop, assessed at $1,800 reduced to $1,500. Thos. Baker's house, Carroll street, John, George and Aaron Christopher's names to be added as owners; granted.

SECOND SESSION.

The clerk read a communication from A N Christopher, withdrawing all appeals made by him, and which were laid over the previous evening.

John Christopher withdrew a number of appeals made by him.

Wm Fitzgerald's assessment $825, confirmed.

Henry Goble's house on Charles St. assessed to P Gammon.

Henry Webb assessed for $400 income.

Dr H H Scott appealed against income assessment, confirmed.

E L Smith applied to be assessed as occupant. Assessment confirmed.

Albert Shan assessment on farm rented to A C Bailey $5,000 raised to $6,000.

L Thompson's assessment on residence $1,500 raised to $2,000.

Miss Chapman's assessment on C C L Wilson's residence raised from $830 to $900.

Dr Williams assessment on residence $1,800 confirmed.

Andrew Sutherland's assessment on residence $1,100 raised to $1,200.

Sutherland and Siggins assessment on workshop $1,300, confirmed.

MONDAY EVENING.

C C L Wilson was assessed for income $1,200.

Mrs A Oliver's assessment on residence $1,500 raised to $1,700.

L Wilson's assessment on residence $1,600 raised to $2,000.

R H Young's assessment on residence $1,300 raised to $1,800.

A Daly's assessment on hotel $2,100 raised to $2,200.

James Gustin's assessment on residence $1,200 raised to $1,300.

J O'Callaghan's assessment on bakery $1,400, confirmed.

B Keating's assessment on hotel $1,800, confirmed.

Estate of J Jarvis' assessment on Mrs McDonald's residence $1,200, confirmed.

Bank of London to be assessed for $2,800.

Mrs G B Petrie's assessment on residence $700 raised to $800.

Andrew Smith's assessment on residence $1,300 raised to $1,500.

Robt. Vance's assessment on personal property $200, confirmed.

J M Wilson's assessment on residence $2,300, confirmed.

G W Walley should be assessed for personal property, not assessable.

L Thompson's assessment on shop occupied by W Wilkinson $800, confirmed.

Henderson and Henderson assessment for personal property $500, struck off.

G A Thompson's assessment on E Hegler's residence $1,500 raised to $1,800, and assessed to E Hegler as owner.

Wm O'Neill assessment on House $325 reduced to $300.

Court adjourned till Thursday evening.

OXFORD COUNTY COUNCIL.

June Session.

The June session of the County Council opened on Tuesday, 17th inst.

The following communications were read:

From the Ontario Government asking the opinion of Council on the desirability of reducing the number of County Councillors.

From the Model Farm Guelph, with circular covering particulars of tuition, etc., and requesting co-operation of members.

From R. W. Phipps, with reference to forest destruction.

From County of Peel asking co-operation in requesting certain amendments to School Act.

From James Chambers and 29 othes, complaining of injustice of Ingersoll and Tilsonburg gravel road company, and praying for relief.

From Auditors', with abstract of school accounts.

From Hon. O. Mowat, in reference to meeting of deputation on question of county bridges, and stating that the Government had deferred legislation until next session.

From James Sutherland, M. P., acknowledging receipt of petition asking for the appointment of railway commissioners, and stating same had been duly presented to the Government.

From Donald Matheson, giving notice of the abandonment by the Woodstock and Ingersoll gravel road company of that portion of their road lying east of the point where the northern rail of the Great Western railway crosses the road in the township of East Oxford.

From Col. Otter, acknowledging receipt of $10 towards the Ontario Rifle Association.

From Attorney General, acknowledging receipt of petition praying for amendment in mode of electing school trustees.

From County Attorney, with account of money paid for arrest and conveyance of tramps and drunkards to the county jail.

From County of Waterloo, with bond of C. Kaufman re bridge near New Dundee.

From Provincial Secretary, acknowledging receipt of petition in reference to the sinking fund moneys on hand, and prayer for authority to deposit the same in some chartered bank.

From Provincial Secretary, enclosing copy of Order in-Council authorizing the Council to deposit in one of the banks the sinking fund, until able to find secure investment at a more profitable rate.

County Clerk's report of licenses issued and amounts paid to Treasurer.

From James Elliott and others, in reference to By-law passed for closing road in West Oxford.

On motion, the above communications were referred to committees for their report.

The Equalization Committee reported that they had examined the rolls for 1883, and base their equalization on the same as follows:

Municipality	Total value per Roll.	Assessed value per acre.	Equalized value per acre including income and personal.	Equalized value of real, personal and income.
Blandford	811611 55	$35 65	$42	$1747232
Blenheim	2474240	33 94	48	3208320
Dereham	2386380	33 83	48	3111648
E. Nissouri	1744360	47 37	50	2323500
N. Norwich	1676190	45 68	50	1692700
S. Norwich	1014910	26 25	38	1361388
N. Oxford	971808	42 97	48	1133376
E. Oxford	1627970	42 56	50	1735550
W. Oxford	1166923	41 67	43	1221084
E. Zorra	2868820	49 04	52	2842580
W. Zorra	2788120	48 29	50	2751800
Woodstock	1754860			1702214
Ingersoll	1185080			1310126
Tilsonburg	471250			457112
Embro	168550			163494
Norwich	329670			319780
	$24873726			$26301228

ROBERT MURRAY,
Chairman.

The report was adopted without amendment after being discussed briefly in committee of the whole.

The finance and assessment committee brought in their report which was adopted, submitting the estimates for the current year:—

Printing and stationery	$ 400 00
County buildings and gaol	600 00
Payment of jurors for assizes and county courts	1 600 00
Payment of division court jurors	110 00
Members of council and committees	1 200 00
County officers' salaries	2 000 00
General sessions of the peace, criminal justice	4 000 00
Special roads and bridges	1 786 00
Miscellaneous	350 00
Province of Ontario for removing prisoners	200 00
Lunatics	40 00
Coroner's inquests	45 00
Registry office	40 00
Reward for arrest of Horse thieves	25 00
Law accounts	50 00
Insurance	14 00
Board of Education	200 00
High and model schools	1 760 00
Appropriation for county roads and bridges	3 000 00
Total for county purposes	$17 500 00
Public schools in township equal Government grant for interest on debentures by-law 175 and part principal	$21 000 00
For interest on debentures, by-law 177 and part principal	2 140 00
For interest on debentures, by-law 183 and part principal	4 047 00
Under by-law 259, for principal	8 122 00

On motion Mayor Grant of Woodstock was heard respecting his visit to Ottawa in regard to the erection of a new post office and custom house in Woodstock. He assured the council that Woodstock would undoubtedly have the buildings desired within a short period.

On motion a pedlar's license was granted to Samuel Lawrence, for one horse, the remainder of the license year.

SECOND DAY—WEDNESDAY.

The first report of the standing committee on county roads and bridges reported that they did not consider it incumbent upon them to consider the petition of James Elliott and others in reference to closing of road allowance between Oxford and Middlesex.

They also reported that they could not recommend that any action be taken with regard to the petition against the Ingersoll and Tilsonburg gravel road company, and recommended the use of the sewer pipe for the construction of road culverts by the different municipalities.

It was moved by Mr. Totten and seconded by Mr. Revell, and resolved, That the clerk of this council be instructed to prepare a petition to the Ontario Government to urge upon the Dominion Government the refunding of this council the amount of bonuses given by the various municipalities in the county in consequence of the railways to which bonuses were granted having been assumed by the Dominion Government as Dominion railways, and that the Warden be authorized to sign said petition and countersigned by the clerk of this corporation under its corporate seal.

James Sutherland, M. P., was heard respecting the motion.

It was moved, in amendment, that a special committee consisting of Messrs. Totten, Hopkins, Gibson, Cook, Munro, Murray and McKay be appointed to consider the resolution and report with draft of petition to the council at this session.

The amendment was carried and the council adjourned until two o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

On motion of Mr. Hall, seconded by Mr. Burgess, leave was granted to introduce a by-law to appropriate and apportion the sum of $3,000 for the improvement of county roads and bridges and the by-law was read the first and second times.

On motion of Mr. Hopkins, seconded by Mr. Cook, leave was granted to introduce a bylaw to levy county school and debenture rates for the current year and the bylaw was read the first and second time.

The second report of the printing committee recommended the payment of the following accounts:—G. P. Gurnett, $13 55; Pattullo & Co., $6 40; T. C. Bartholomew, $2 50; W. S. Law, $6 25; Woodstock Bookbindery, $12 50; and G. F. Garnett, $36 78.

THIRD DAY—THURSDAY.

Council met pursuant to adjournment.

The Warden in the chair.

With the exception of Messrs. Emigh and Jarvis all the members were present.

The minutes of yesterday's proceedings were read and confirmed.

The annual report of the Inspector of Public Schools was read and was on motion referred to the Committee on Education for their report thereon.

On motion the Council moved into Committee of the Whole on the By-law to appropriate $3,600 for the improvement of County Roads and Bridges, which was passed.

Council resumed and adopted the report of the Committee of the Whole.

On motion made and seconded, the Council adjourned till 2 o'clock p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Council met pursuant to adjournment.

The Warden in the chair.

Mr. Jarvis was present and took his seat.

A communication from the County Treasurer asking for a vacation during the summer was read. Which was on motion granted, provided the term of said vacation does not exceed two weeks, and that due notice of his intended absence be inserted in the County papers.

On motion Mr. Virtue was allowed to introduce a by-law to confirm a By-law of the township of E. Oxford, allowing said township to stop up and sell part of the original road allowance in front of the fourth concession, which was read a first and second time.

Council moved into Committee of the Whole and passed the By-law.

Council resumed and adopted the report of the Committee of the Whole.

Mr. Hopkins, chairman of the Standing Committee on Finance and Assessment brought in their 4th report which was read.

On motion Council moved into Committee of the Whole on the report just read.

On the first clause being read, a discussion arose on the item of $40 for Mr. Grant's expenses to Ottawa. Mr. Grant, who was present, was heard by the Council.

Committee rose and reported the report as passed without amendment, which was adopted by the Council.

Mr. Murray, Chairman of the Select Committee on County Bridges, brought up their second report, which was read.

On motion, laid over as the first order of business to-morrow.

The Council then adjourned till one o'clock Friday.

FOURTH DAY—FRIDAY.

Council met pursuant to adjournment.

The Warden in the chair.

With the exception of Mr. Seldon, all the members were present.

Minutes of yesterday's proceedings were read and confirmed.

A telegram from the Education Department, announcing the Government appropriation for school purposes to the various township municipalities within the County, was read.

On motion the report of the Bridge Committee was laid over till the first order of business this afternoon.

On motion the By-law to confirm a By-law of the township of East Oxford, was read a third time and passed. Signed, sealed and numbered 268.

On motion Council went into Committee of the Whole on the By-law levying County rates for the current year.

By-law was read in Committee of the Whole and blanks filled in. Committee rose and reported By-law as passed in Committee of the Whole.

Council resumed and adopted the report of the Committee of the Whole.

By-law was then read a third time and passed. Signed, sealed and numbered 269.

Dr. McKay, chairman of the Standing Committee on Education, brought up their second report, which was read and adopted, after being passed in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. Totten, chairman of the Select Committee, to whom was referred the refund of bonuses mentioned in Mr. Totten's resolution, brought up their report and draft petition, which was read and on motion adopted.

The Warden announced the death this morning of Mr. Smith, the county engineer, and stated that as a consequence it would be necessary to appoint his successor.

On motion made and seconded, the Council adjourned until 2 o'clock p.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Council met pursuant to adjournment.

The Warden in the chair.

Mr. Seldon was present and took his seat.

On motion Council went into Committee of the Whole on the report of the Select Committee appointed to report what bridges should be assumed by this Council.

The report was read in Committee of the Whole, and on motion Committee rose and asked leave to sit again during the December session, which was granted.

Mr. Welford, chairman of the Standing Committee on County Buildings and Property, brought up their third report which was read, and on motion adopted.

On motion the Treasurer was instructed to pay the Bridge Committee $126, being payments of time and mileage, to be divided as follows: Jas. Munro, $42; B. Hopkins, $42, and H. P. Welford, $42.

On motion W. R. Burke was appointed county engineer, in place of Mr. Smith, deceased, to be paid only for the work performed by him.

On motion Council adjourned till 7 o'clock p.m.

EVENING SESSION.

Council met pursuant to adjournment.

The Warden in the chair.

With the exception of Messrs. E. B. Brown, Cook and Nancekivell, all the members were present.

Minutes of previous sessions were read and confirmed.

Mr. Welford, chairman of the Standing Committee on County Buildings and Property, brought up their fourth report which was read and on motion adopted.

Mr. McFarlane, chairman of the Select Committee, appointed to report on communications not referable to any Standing Committee, brought in their report, which was read.

On motion the Council went into Committee of the Whole on the report just read.

The first clause was read and passed.

The second clause was read, when it was moved by Mr. Gibson, seconded by Mr. Jarvis, that the clause in the report recommending a grant of $100 to the Fat Stock Club be struck out.

The resolution on being put was lost.

The clause then passed.

The third clause was read, when it was moved by Mr. Munro, seconded by Mr. McKay, that clause three of the report be not adopted, but that the Committee be instructed to report that the number of representatives to the County Council be reduced.

The resolution on being put was lost.

The clause then passed.

The fourth clause was read, when it was moved by Mr. Hall, seconded by Mr. Murray, and resolved, That clause four of the report be amended, so as to read that they do not recommend any change in the law as to what bridges should be assumed by the County Council.

The fifth clause was read and passed.

On motion the Committee rose and reported the report as passed in Committee of the Whole, as amended.

Mr. Gibson asked for the Warden's ruling upon the question of the legality of this report as regards the clause appropriating money, who ruled it would be legal in his opinion if a By-law were passed.

The Council concurred in the adoption of thereport of the Committee of the Whole.

The yeas and nays were called for on the adoption of the report. There voted yea—The Warden, Messrs. Abraham, Anderson, Hall, Harrington, Karn, Mayberry, Murray, McFarlane, McKay, Revell, Seldon, Stock, Totten, Virtue, Welford, Wilson,—17.

Nay—Messrs. E. H. Brown, Burgess, Emigh, Falle, Gibson, Hopkins, Jarvis, Munro, McCurdy, McKay, Thompson, Towle, Vicket, Watteworth,—14.

Mr. Watterworth here introduced a By-law appointing a County Engineer., which was read a first and second time.

On motion Council moved into Committee of the Whole.

By-law was read in Committee of the Whole.

Committee rose and reported the By-law as passed in Committee of the Whole.

Council resumed and adopted the report of the Committee of the Whole.

On motion Rule No. 36 was suspended for the purpose of passing this By-law, which was read a third time and passed. Signed, sealed and numbered 270.

It was moved by Mr. Jarvis, seconded by Mr. Maberry, and resolved That as the town of Woodstock is in the habit of making use of the common gaol as a lock-up for the use of the town, against the interest of the County, this Council would respectfully ask the Government to interfere and prevent the town of Woodstock making the common gaol a lock-up for the use of the town, and that the Clerk be authorized to transmit a copy of this resolution to the Provincial Secretary of Ontario for his consideration in the matter.

On motion it was resolved that this Council memoralize the Ontario Government to enact that all new fences hereinafter built on township lines running north and south, should be constructed of wire, and that D. McLay, E. Jarvis and E. H. Brown, be authorized to prepare the said memorial and submit to this Council at its December session.

Mr. Hall, chairman of the Bridge Commissioners, drew the attention of the Council to a notice that had been served upon him in reference to a bridge between Wilmot and Blanford over Wilmot creek, stating that said bridge was out of repair, and asked the Council for instruction as to its assumption by the County Commissioners.

Moved by Mr. McFarlane, seconded by Mr. Wilson, and resolved, That after hearing of the death of our esteemed County Engineer, Mr. Wm. Smith, the sympathy of this Council be tendered his family in their bereavement and that the Clerk forward a copy of this resolution to the family of the late Mr. Smith.

On motion the Council adjourned to meet on call of the Warden.

By-law to appropriate $3000 for improving County roads and bridges.

The Council deem it expedient to lay out the sum of $3,000 as per annexed equalized schedule, and that the Reeves and Deputy Reeves are appointed Commissioners for laying out and expending the same, viz:

Town of Woodstock	$194.16
" Ingersoll	128.90
" Tilsonburg	52.14
Village of Embro	18.64
" Norwich	36.47
Township of Blandford	142.26
" Blenheim	365.06
" Dereham	354.93
" E. Nissouri	265.01
" N. Norwich	193.07
" S. Norwich	155.28
" N. Oxford	115.58
" E. Oxford	197.96
" W. Oxford	139.38
" E. Zorra	326.37
" W. Zorra	313.89
	$3000.00

Report of Select Committee on communications not referable to Standing Committee:

Recommended $100 be granted to Directors of Fat Stock Club.

In regard to the circular from the Clerk of the Legislature Assembly and in answer to question, one of said circular would say that there is some feeling in some municipalities to have the number of representatives to the County Council reduced, but such feeling is not general, and that we can see no better method of representation or fairer one to all municipalities than the present one.

They do not recommend any changes in the law as to what bridges should be assumed by County Councils.

We consider the law in regard to bridges to be maintained by County Councils sufficient if the word Rivers used in Sec. 532 of the Municipal Act of 46 Vic. Chap. 18, was defined by an enactment so as to make it understood more plainly by Municipal Councils.

By-Law to assess for County purposes, payment of Public School Teachers, and for railway purposes.

Whereas power is given to County Councils by an Act of the Local Legislature of this Province, and it is necessary to levy rates for County purposes, payment of County officers and incidental expenses connected with the County, and whereas it is necessary to levy upon each of the several Township Municipalities an amount equal to the Legislative School Grant, in order to entitle said Township Municipalities to participate in the said grant.

And whereas it is necessary to obey the provisions of the several By-Laws passed by this County Council, granting money by way of bonuses to railways.

Be it enacted by the Council of the Corporation of the County of Oxford:

1st. That the sum of $17,500 be levied and collected from the property rated in the assessment rolls of the several townships, towns and villages in the County, for the year 1884, and not otherwise exempt from taxes, for the payment of certain salaries, fees, allowance to County officers, a portion of the expenses for the payment of the administration of Criminal Justice, allowance to County Councillors, grant to County roads and bridges, and other necessary and incidental expenses for the County, and that said sum be provided for at the rate of 666-1000 on the dollar, on the equalized value of the property on the aforesaid rolls.

2nd. That the sum of $4,212 be levied and collected from the township municipalities as apportioned to each for the payment in part of the salaries of qualified teachers of public schools, in order to entitle said township municipalities to their proportion of the Legislative School Grant for the payment of public school teachers.

3rd. That the sum of $21,800 be levied and collected from the property rated on the assessment rolls of the municipalities of Blandford, Blenheim, Dereham, N. Oxford, E. Oxford, W. Oxford, E. Zorra, Woodstock and Ingersoll, for the year 1884, and not otherwise exempt from the payment of taxes, for the payment of the debentures and the interest thereon, on account of the bonus granted to the G. W. R. and that the said sum be provided for by a rate of 1.27-100 on the dollar, on the equalized value of the property on the aforesaid rolls.

4th. That the sum of $2,140 be levied and collected from the property rated on the assessment rolls of the municipalities of Woodstock and E. Oxford, for the year 1884, and not otherwise exempt from taxes, for the payment of debentures and the interest thereon, on account of the bonus granted to the Port Dover and Lake Huron Railway, and that the said sum be provided for by a rate of 623-1000 on the dollar, on the equalized value of the property on the aforesaid rolls.

5th. That the sum of $4,047 be levied and collected from the property rated on the assessment rolls of the municipalities of N. Norwich, Woodstock and the village of Norwich for the year 1884, and not otherwise exempt from the payment of taxes, for the payment of the debentures and the interest thereon, on account of the bonus granted to the Port Dover and Lake Huron Railway, and that said sum be provided for by a rate of 1.89-1000 on the dollar, on the equalized value of the property on the aforesaid rolls.

6th. That the sum of $8,182 as apportioned in the schedule, as annexed to By-law 259, be levied and collected from the property rated on the assessment rolls of the municipalities of Blandford, Blenheim, Dereham, N. Oxford, E. Oxford, W. Oxford, E. Zorra, Woodstock and Ingersoll, for the year 1884, and not otherwise exempt from the payment of taxes for the payment of a sinking fund, omitted to be raised in the years 1874 to 1882 inclusive, for the payment of the debentures on account of the bonus to the Credit Valley Railway.

7th. That the aforesaid sums shall be levied, collected and paid over by the Treasurers of the several municipalities to the County Treasurer, or before the 14th day of December next, as apportioned to the several municipalities according to the schedule hereto annexed and which schedule shall form part of this By-Law:

Municipality	Total Equalized Value.	Equalized Value for Debentures.	Equalized Value for Railways.	Equalized Value for Sinking Fund.	Equalized Value for Teachers.	Equalized Value for Total.	Municipality.
Town of Woodstock	1133	1133	1133	1133	1133	1133	Town of Woodstock.
" Ingersoll	905	905	905	905	905	905	" Ingersoll.
" Tilsonburg	365	365	365	365	365	365	" Tilsonburg.
Village of Embro	132	132	132	132	132	132	Village of Embro.
" Norwich	268	268	268	268	268	268	" Norwich.
Township of Blandford	2136	2136	2136	2136	2136	2136	Township of Blandford.
" Blenheim	3208	3208	3208	3208	3208	3208	" Blenheim.
" Dereham	3111	3111	3111	3111	3111	3111	" Dereham.
" E. Nissouri	2323	2323	2323	2323	2323	2323	" E. Nissouri.
" N. Norwich	1692	1692	1692	1692	1692	1692	" N. Norwich.
" S. Norwich	1361	1361	1361	1361	1361	1361	" S. Norwich.
" N. Oxford	1133	1133	1133	1133	1133	1133	" N. Oxford.
" E. Oxford	1735	1735	1735	1735	1735	1735	" E. Oxford.
" W. Oxford	1221	1221	1221	1221	1221	1221	" W. Oxford.
" E. Zorra	2842	2842	2842	2842	2842	2842	" E. Zorra.
" W. Zorra	2751	2751	2751	2751	2751	2751	" W. Zorra.
	$27500	$8182	$21800	$8182	$4212	$47896
						MUNICIPALITY.
						FOR GENERAL PURPOSES.
						FOR TEACHERS SALARIES.
						C.V.R. BY-LAW 175.
						D.D. & L.H.R. BY-LAW 177
						D. & L.H.R. BY-LAW 183.
						C.V.R. BY-LAW 259.

2nd report of the standing committee on education and schools.

Recommended accounts be paid amounting to $11.00.

Your committee have carefully considered the memorial of the council of the corporation of the county of Peel, and anticipating that the Hon. the Minister of Education will introduce some changes relative to school matters as soon as possible. Your committee would recommend that said memorial be laid on the table for six months. Your committee have examined the report of the Public School Inspector of the county for the past year and recommend that the report be printed with minutes of the council.

3rd report of standing committee on county buildings and property.

Recommended the payment of several accounts.

Also that veranda on goalers house be painted and that sidewalk be put down in front of court house.

In regard to the account of Oliver Clark, January 1882, some of the items we find have not been paid for amounting to $22.26 those we recommend be paid, the balance $12.25 we cannot recommend to be paid until further evidence of their correctness are furnished.

Also that a clock be purchased for the goal.

Also that Mr. Canfield and the judges room be strapped, lathed and plastered, and that the treasurer be authorized to pay the same on the order of the chairman of this committee.

Fourth Report of Standing Committee on Finance and Assessment.

Recommending payment of several accounts amounting to $171.25.

Your Committee would recommend that in future the Co. Clerk be instructed to supply the different county offices with the necessary stationery from time to time, and account to this Council for the same, your Committee believing that such a course will be more satisfactory, as said stationery can be purchased in bulk.

Your Committee have also examined the abstract of Township Public School Accounts, and believe the same correct.

Your Committee also beg leave to report that they have examined the County Accounts as submitted by the auditors and find the same correct and satisfactory, showing a balance in the bank book, May 31st, of $17,312.78, deducting two outstanding cheques amounting to $33, leaving a balance of $17,279.78.

Report of Special Committee to whom was referred the refund of bonuses mentioned in the resolution of Mr. Totten.

Your Committee to whom the above mentioned matters were referred beg leave to report that we have duly considered the same, and we recommend that a petition to the Ontario Government to refund the amount of bonuses paid to the C. V. R., the P. D. & L. H. R., Brantford & Pt. Burwell Ry.

That the various municipalities be recouped the grants they have respectively given, or that your honourable body will make such fair, reasonable and equitable settlement thereof as would do justice to them in the premises, and urge upon Your Honourable Body to take such steps as in your judgment may deem meet to claim from the Dominion Government a refund of the bonuses mentioned, or to endeavor to have an adjustment of such claim on a fair and equitable basis.

FARM AND DAIRY MATTERS.

INGERSOLL MARKETS.

GRAIN AND SEEDS.

White Wheat, per bush	$ 97	to	1 12
Red Fall Wheat	97	to	1 10
Spring Wheat	1 00	to	1 16
Barley	50	to	60
Peas "	65	to	75
Oats, "	40	to	42
Corn "	60	to	65
Buckwheat "	00	to	54
Rye "	55	to	60
Clover Seed per bush	7 50	to	8 50
Timothy Seed "	2 00	to	2 50
PRODUCE.
Potatoes, per bushel	0 90	to	1 00
Onions "	0 75

FARM AND DAIRY.

Blood Tells.

Says J. A. Smith in the Cedarburgh, Wis., News:

We took from the note-book of Hiram Smith the following facts, which show a little of what there is in breed, when all the other conditions are as nearly the same as well can be.

He happened to have two three year old half-blood Jersey heifers, two Ayrshire cows, and two good common cows, come into milk the same week, this spring. When the milk of all was good, he tested the butter-making capacity of three lots of cows taking their milk for one day, with the following result:

Two Jerseys gave 66 lbs. milk and made 3½ lbs. of butter.

Two Ayrshires gave 75 lbs. milk and made 3 pounds butter.

Two common cows gave 75 lbs. of milk, and made 2½ pounds of butter.

The grain food was precisely alike, and had been for weeks previous, while the hay consumed by the larger cows, though not weighed, was known to be some more.

Analyzed a little, it will be seen the grade Jerseys made a pound of butter from 18810 lbs. of milk; the Ayrshires from 25 lbs.; while that of the common cows, took 30 lbs. Each little Jersey made just one half pound of butter per day, more than the large and fat common cow, and one fourth of a pound more than the Ayrshire.

It is held that this proportion will hold good through the season, and that the scrawny little Jerseys will give a good flow of milk nearly the whole year through. One half pound of butter per day for 200 days makes a difference of 100 lbs. per season, worth $25 at no more cost for food. If such facts are the results of breed alone, the butter-making farmer cannot get Jersey blood in his herd too quickly.

Skim Milk Cheese.

Alex. McAdam writes as follows:—That skimming has hurt the reputation and sale of cheese marketed in Little Falls is very evident, as only a few years ago they sold nearly a cent a pound higher than the product of Western and Northern New York and Canada, where skimming is unknown, while now Little Falls salesmen find it difficult to obtain even the same prices as salesmen in those remote districts, who have more than double the freight to pay to New York. The Canadian dairymen in particular, accepting the shrewd counsels of experienced men like Messrs. Ballantyne and Caswell, to make full cream cheese the whole season, and, although they have no advantage over the dairymen of Herkimer County in pasture, climate or the intelligence of their cheesemakers, their product is considerably outselling the once famous Herkimer County cheese in the markets of Britain, and I fully believe that this unsatisfactory state of affairs has been entirely brought about by skimming.

Cost of Raising Cattle.

A correspondent gives the following calculation on the cost of raising a calf: First year, 8 quarts of new milk per day, one month, 240 quarts, at 2½c. per quart, $6; four gallons of skim milk per day, 8 months, $2.50; total, $27.70. Second year, 20 bundles, (15 lbs. to the bundle) of hay per month, 7 months, is 140 bundles—at $5 per 100 bundles, comes to $7; five months pasture, at $1 per month, is $5, making a total of $12. Or, first year $27.70, second year $12, makes the 2-year-old cost $39.70. Add to this the value of calf at one week old, $3, and it makes the cost of calf at 2 years $42.70, and consequently there is very little profit in it.

Dairy Briefs.

Things that have been found out—That the average yield of cheese per cow for a year is 300 lbs.

That—There are 700 cheese factories in Ontario exporting 58,000,000 with a value of $7,000,000.

That—Canada loses $5,000,000 annually through a careless system of butter-making.

That—Butter made in creameries whether the whole of the milk or only the cream is gathered, is not as fine as can be made at the home farm.

That there is no oleo-margarine made in Canada.

That—There is a larger proportion of fine cheese made in Canada than there is in the United States.

That—Fodder corn is the cheapest dairy food, but mixed peas and oats sown together make better butter and of a finer flavor.

That—Drinking stagnant water is a fruitful cause for milk turning unfit for use. It is full of organic germs, which are taken into the cow's circulation and go into the milk still living, and develop in the milk and change the whole character of it speedily.

That—Flavor of any disagreeable weed eaten by a cow will be found in the milk 3 hours after.

That—Wheat-bran is the best and cheapest food for cheese production.

That—The conversion of milk into cheese is a digestive process induced by the action of rennet and is analogous to the digestion of milk in the human stomach.

That—Curd and green cheese are very nearly indigestible; and they are only made digestible by age—don't eat new cheese.

That—The great bulk of factory cheese goes into consumption in such a condition as to make it unhealthful and not more than half utilized.

That—Perfect cheese—well made and cured—has twice the life-sustaining power of an equal weight of meat. Cheese 15 cents a pound; beef do, which is the cheaper?

That—Coloring cheese injures the quality by introducing an alkali which tends to dissolve the cheese and destroy the gastric agency.

That—It would be better for farmers to make cheese at eight cents a pound than to raise wheat at ordinary prices.

That—You can raise a pound of cheese for half as much as a pound of beef, because the same food that will produce a pound of beef will produce two pounds of cheese, and you can get at the comparative profits through such a channel.

IT IS NO WONDER

That so many people sink into untimely graves when we consider how they neglect their health. They have a disordered Liver, deranged Bowels, Constipation, Piles or diseased Kidneys, but they let it go and think they will get over it." It grows worse, other and more serious complications follow and soon it is too late to save them. If such people would take Kidney-Wort it would preserve their lives. It acts upon the most important organs purifying the blood and cleansing the system, removes and prevents those disorders and promotes health.

The finest plain white damask is coming into fashion again for the table.

THE reason why "Nonsuch Washing Compound" should be used in preference to all other washing preparations. First, It is perfectly harmless. Second, It saves more than half the labour. Third, It is the cheapest in the market. Many more could be given but this should be sufficient. For sale by all grocers. 84

Stuffed alligators with their mouths open are very cunning ornaments.

PROF. LOW'S Magic Sulphur Soap—Healing, soothing and cleansing for all eruptive diseases of the skin. Delightful for toilet use. 4

THE HOUSEHOLD.

Hints.

In washing wooden dairy utensils use first hot water then cold, and lastly hot. See that they are well dried.

Never use soap in the water with which you clean the looking glass; it is almost impossible to polish the glass if soap is used.

The successful housekeeper is she who has a practical system, and keeps her eye on the little expenses, knowing that small leaks sink great ships.

The following receipt for making "cold cream" is said to be excellent. To one ounce of glycerine allow ten drops of carbolic acid; add one ounce of rose water.

In cleaning a mattress remove the hair from the tick, souse it up and down in warm soap suds for a few minutes, then rinse in clear water and dry in the sun. Wash the tick and then replace the hair.

When you wish to wash off your windows without much trouble or taking them out, or the glass over pictures or mirrors, take a piece of newspaper and wet in soft water and go over them thoroughly; then polish with dry newspaper and you will be pleased with the result.

There is no law nor ancient custom to restrict the wearing of an engagement ring to any particular finger. At the same time, it is very usual to wear it on the third finger of the right hand, as the third of the left is specially appropriated by the wedding ring, on which by ecclesiastical authority it must be worn.

When a carpet is taken up to be cleansed the floor beneath is generally covered with dust. This dust has been in most cases a long time accumulating, and is very fine, very dry, and very injurious. It often contains minute poisonous germs, which rise rapidly in the air with the dust. If inhaled the lungs suffer much from this fine dust. It is well before sweeping to sprinkle the floor with dilute carbolic acid by aid of a whitewash brush. This dilution kills any poisonous germs that may be in the dust, and also renders the floor sweet in other respects.

Food for Invalids.

Arrowroot gruel is made by stirring a tablespoonful of arrowroot mixed with cold milk into a pint of boiling milk, and seasoning to taste. Boil ten minutes. The double boiler is almost indispensable in cooking for the sick, as a slight burn or scorch renders the whole unpalatable.

A very nutritive jelly for patients too feeble to swallow liquids, is made one-half box of gelatine, one-half pound powdered gum arabic, a half-pint of port wine, brandy or essence, three tablespoonfuls sugar, two cloves. Soak all together for two hours, then place the dish in boiling water and stir over the fire till the mixture is melted; strain and cool. The jelly may be given to the patient on the tongue, being allowed to gradually melt in the mouth.

Blanc-mange is made by using one half-pint of milk, one teaspoonful of arrowroot, one teaspoonful of sugar, a pinch of salt; cook as for gruel, and cool in a tiny mould. Prepare mutton broth by cutting all the fat from a pound of the neck of mutton, and cutting the meat in small pieces, put it into a quart of cold water, add one tablespoonful of barley or rice, let the water come to the boiling point, skim, cover, and let it just simmer for three hours, then add pepper and salt to taste, and let boil ten minutes. Strain and serve.

Nice whey is made by letting a cup of new milk come to a boil, and stirring into it a half wine-glassful of sherry. Let it boil up and strain when curdled. Egg nog is made by beating the white of an egg to a stiff froth, beat in a tablespoonful of sugar, then the yolk of the egg, next a tablespoonful each of milk, wine and water, in the order named. Make a white custard by beating together the whites of three eggs, a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Measure out a pint of milk; turn a little of it with the egg, sugar, etc. beat well, then add the rest of the milk; flavor with ever so slight a zest of nut-meg. Bake in custard cups in a pan of water in a slow oven.

Gruels should be boiled at least twenty minutes, and many of the best physicians recommend cooking them an hour or longer. Mix one tablespoonful of flour and two of white corn meal with a little cold water, and stir into one quart of boiling water, boil twenty minutes, then season with salt and boil five minutes more. Less sugar and more salt is recommended for cooking for invalids. Oatmeal gruel is made by sprinkling two tablespoonfuls of coarse oatmeal (if fine is used, it must be first mixed with cold water) into a quart of boiling water, boil forty minutes, salt, strain and serve. Milk may be substituted for water if the patient can bear it.

SPOT'S CARE FOR SHEEP.

How One Dog Cured for Another that was in a Well.

Before the thaw Mark Sampson lost his dog Shep. Shep was last seen playing with Sampson's other dog Spot, on the crust on Bennett's hill. Spot came home, but Shep could not be found. Mark made enquiry of every boy and man he met, but could hear nothing of the lost dog. Mark would rather have lost a cow. He travelled three days on snowshoes, but could not hear a word from Shep. One night, coming home late, hungry and tired, after hours of unsuccessful searching, he threw himself on the bed, and during the sleep that followed Mark dreamed that the dog was in V. P. Bennett's old abandoned well. He dreamed the same dream twice.

Mark had no faith in dreams, but to please his wife he went and looked down in the well. In the blackness he could see two stars. The well was thirty feet deep and dry. He spoke to the dog, and he could see two stars moving round. He could hear no voice, but he knew the two stars in the bottom of the well were Shep's two eyes. Then Mark cried "Dog in the well" three times. Mark is not low spoken in common conversation, but when he yells he makes the woods and hills shake. In less than three minutes a steady stream of boys was seen going up Bennett's hill. A line was brought, and George Russell lowered into the well. When George reached the bottom he found Shep, tickled almost to death to see him. He wasn't hungry, but was awfully thirsty. His hunger had been stayed in this remarkable manner:

While he was lying at the bottom of the old empty well, Spot was hanging around Mr. Bennett's every morning after breakfast and every evening just after supper, when he would always be thrown a liberal amount of food. In the bottom of the well the boy who went down in the bucket was surprised to find a considerable number of bones, and a piece or two of well preserved meat, which seemingly had been left over from Shep's last meal. The path leading to the well, which Spot had made, completes the story. He had substantially remembered his companion who had the misfortune to fall into the well.

MURRAY & LANMAN'S FLORIDA WATER. We earnestly urge every purchaser to ask for that which is prepared by Messrs. Lanman & Kemp, New York, who are the sole proprietors of the true perfume. All other so-called Florida Waters are only ordinary Colognes.

Diplomacy lieth under the dish-cover.

SURVIVAL of the fittest Downs' Elixir has outlived every other cough remedy simply because it is the best. 06.

TEMPERANCE.

Directions for Making Whiskey.

People who are particular about the brand of whiskey they drink may be interested in knowing that there was picked up on a street of London, Ont., a small vial about half full of a peculiar smelling essence. It bore a label of this kind.

DIRECTIONS FOR IRISH WHISKEY.

40 gallons Highwine proof.
8 ounces of our Irish whiskey essence.
1 pint Rosenheim's glycerine.

We don't suppose this will convey much information to those who adulterate liquors, but it may interest the drinkers to know just exactly how the adulteration is produced.

The Conditions of Intemperance.

It is a significant fact that in every civilized country of this earth drunkenness is rarest among the classes who have other and better convivial resources. In the United States, where the "almighty dollar" confers unlimited privileges, the well-to-do people are the most temperate. In Turkey, where the lower are considered below the dignity of an effendi, the poison-vice is actually confined to the upper-ten; temperance resigns in the cottage, while opium-smoking and secret dram-drinking prevail in the palace. In Scotland where all classes have to conform to the moral by-laws which discountenance holiday recreations, total abstinence is extremely rare. For, "Nature will have revenge, and when the most ordinary and harmless recreations are forbidden as sinful, is apt to seek compensation in indulgences which no moralist would be willing to condone." There is, indeed, no doubt that the "snuffling, whining saints, who groaned in spirit at the sight of Jack in the green," have driven as many pleasure seekers from the play-ground to the pot-house as despotism has turned freemen into outlaws and robbers. For the practical alternative is not between conventicles and rum riots, but between healthful and baneful pastimes. Before we can begin to eradicate the poison-habit we must make reform more attractive than vice; and, as long as the champions of temperance shut their eyes to the significance of that truth, their legislative enactments will always remain dead letter laws. Our worst defects we owe, in fact, less to the shrewdness of our beer-brewing opponents than to the blindness of our sabbatarian allies. A free Sunday-garden, with zoological curiosities, foot-races, and good music, would do more to promote the cause of temperance than a whole army of Hudibras revivalists.—Dr. Felix Oswald.

THE ÆSTHETIC WEDDING.

Oscar Wilde and His Bride at the Altar.

(LondonQueen)

Mr. Oscar Wilde, younger son of the late Sir William R. W. Wilde, and Miss Constance Lloyd, daughter of the late Mr. Horatio Lloyd, Q. C. were married by special license at St. James' Church, Paddington, on the afternoon of the 29th ult. A large congregation had assembled at the church by half-past two o'clock, the hour fixed for the marriage. The admittance was by tickets, the dangerous illness of the bride's grandfather necessitating a quiet wedding. The minister in the church was not distinguished by the presence of any social, artistic, or literary celebrities, invitations to the bride's home, in Lancaster-gate, being strictly confined to near relations. Punctually at half-past two Mr. Oscar Wilde was seen standing at the altar, a rose in his button-hole a touch of pink in his neck-tie. He was attended by Mr. William Wilde as best man; Lady Wilde also stood near her son. She wore a handsome costume of silver gray brocaded silk and satin; on the bodice was fastened a large spray of roses and pink carnation; grey and pink feathers trimmed her hat. Some ten minutes later leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. Lloyd, and followed by her six bridesmaids, walked down the chancel. Her rich creamy satin dress was of a delicate cowslip tint; the bodice, cut square and somewhat low in front, was finished with a high Medici collar; the ample sleeves were puffed; the skirt, made plain, was gathered by a silver girdle of beautiful workmanship, the gift of Mr. Oscar Wilde the veil of saffron-coloured Indian silk gauze was embroidered with pearls and were in Marie Stuart fashion; a thick wreath of myrtle leaves, through which gleamed a few white blossoms, crowned her fair frizzled hair; the dress was ornamented with clusters of myrtle leaves; the large bouquet had as much green in it as white. The six bridesmaids were cousins of the bride. Two dainty little figures, that seemed to have stepped out of a picture by Sir Joshua Reynolds, led the way. They were dressed in quaintly made gowns of red surah silk, the color of a ripe gooseberry; large pale yellow sashes round the waist; the skirts falling in straight folds to the ankles displayed small bronze high-heeled shoes; large red silk Gainsborough hats, decked with red and yellow feathers, shaded the damsels' golden hair; amber necklaces, long yellow gloves, a cluster of yellow roses at the throat, a bouquet of white lilies in their hands, completed the attire of the tiny bridesmaids. The four elder bridesmaids wore skirts of the same dim red surah silk, with over-dresses of pale blue flowered mousseline de laine, bodices made long and pointed; high-crowned hats, trimmed with cream-colored feathers and red knots of ribbon, lilies in their hands, amber necklaces, and yellow roses at their throats, made up

THE BRIDE

A SUFFICIENTLY PICTURESQUE ENSEMBLE.

The mother of the bride wore a dress of rich grey satin, a black lace mantle and black bonnet trimmed with amber aigrette and feather. A very æsthetic costume was composed of an under-dress of rich red silk, with a sleeveless smock of red plush; a hat of white lace, trimmed with clusters of red roses under the brim and round the crown. Mrs. Bernard-Beere wore a dress covered with jet, a long mantle of stamped velvet, and black hat, trimmed with red flowers. Mrs. George Lewis wore a becoming costume of black and amber.

At half-past four Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wilde were at the Charing-cross station, en route for Paris. The bride's travelling dress was of deep crimson cashmere and silk; a crimson velvet hat and feathers. The wedding cake was covered with sprays of stephanotis and lillies of the valley.

In a Hopeless Minority.

Several years ago a prominent physician of this county was called to the bedside of a gentleman in Jackson county, sick with fever. A revival meeting was in progress in the neighborhood of the sick one, and the doctor concluded he would attend after administering the physic. He was late on his arrival at the church and had to take a front seat. The preacher preached a rattling good sermon and had the people considerably wrought up. As he closed he stated that he wanted every person in the house who desired to go to heaven to rise. All stood up except the doctor. "All have arisen but one man," said the man of God. "I will put the reverse of the proposition. All who want to go to hell will please rise." The doctor arose, looked around, and as he saw no one standing except himself and the minister, he exclaimed: "Be Gad! parson, we are in a hopeless minority." This convulsed the whole house, and virtually broke up the revival, as none ever went to the mourners' seat afterwards.—Macon (Ga.) Telegraph,

THOUSANDS SAY SO.

Mr. T. W. Atkins, Girard, Kan., writes: "I never hesitate to recommend your Electric Bitters to my customers, they give entire satisfaction and are rapid sellers." Electric Bitters are the purest and best medicine known and will positively cure Kidney and Liver complaints. Purify the blood and regulate the bowels. No family can afford to be without them. They will save hundreds of dollars in doctor's bills every year. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by John Gayfer. 6

The Heathen Chinee Canning of the Indian Snake Charmers.

Immense as is the number of snakes annually killed in India, for which a government reward is paid, yet these are but an imperceptible drop in the bucket so far as really reducing their number goes—in fact, the government reward is perhaps little more effectual in reducing the number of snakes than the crusade against them by the so-called charmers. These individuals patrol the country in company, always with a basket or two of their supposed friends, the cobras and kraites, between which and themselves they declare a secret understanding exists, and going from house to house, they profess to wile out lurking snakes from their lairs by the charms of music—as they term the execrably discordant piping to which they treat their reptile friends. Having arranged with a couple of them to pay so much per head for each snake they extracted, one took his stand along with his basket of snakes in an out-house specified, containing plenty of suspicious holes, and began his piping. I had already discovered, by insisting on their showing me the mouths of the snakes in their baskets, that these were minus their poisonous fangs, a circumstance which quite explained the affectionate familarity between the snakes and their keepers, as the latter hung them about their necks, had mock fights with them, etc., to the horror of the admiring native onlookers.

Soon, in answer to the "music" one snake after another glided out of the holes, and with a soft swaying of the head, gradually advanced toward the charmer, till, coming opposite to him, they reared themselves on their tails, and fixing their eyes upon him, kept up the swaying motion as if keeping time to the music. After this had continued a little while the charmer stopped his music, and fearlessly seizing the snakes, deposited them one after another in his basket and closed down the lid. This place was now supposed to be cleared, and we left it for another considered to be equally fruitful. The same thing was repeated here, but with a different conclusion. Considering that I was paying for the snakes extracted at the rate of two annas each, and had a right to regard them as my property, I dispatched a couple of them before the snake charmer could interpose, and evidently to his great consternation. He immediately began to bewail his loss, saying that I had deprived him of his power over the snake tribe, that his trade was gone, and so on. In the midst of this tirade I bent down to examine the mouths of the snakes, a movement which caused the charmers to look rather foolish, and discovered, as I had begun to suspect, that the poison fangs and glands were gone, which discovery, it is needless to add, resulted in the very hasty and uncereminous exit of the snake charmers from the premises. The explanation was clear. They had simply introduced their own snakes into the holes by asleight of hand with which they were familiar, and had afterwards drawn them out by the music, to which they were trained to respond. Never after this was I able to get a snake charmer to practice his jugglery.

Something to Boot.

A horse dealer in Bloomington, Ill., would never trade unless he got some difference, no matter how even the trade might appear. One day a farmer, who knew the dealer's weakness, went into town astride of a horse he wanted to trade, and followed by the meanest yellow cur that ever killed sheep. The exchange of horses was an even one, there not being fifty cents difference in value. "What'll you give me to boot?—have to have something to boot," demanded the dealer. "Well, I'll tell you," replied the farmer, "I don't think there's any difference in the trade, but I'll give you that yellow dog there." "I'll at Scott! what do I want with that thing?" asked the horse dealer. "To be sure of course, and I hope you'll kill him the first kick," was the answer.—Tid Bits.

His Education on Pools Had Been Neglected.

"Stranger," he began, as he shoved his hat back on his head, and sat down on a trunk on the platform, "what is this 'ere about these 'ere railroad pools?"

"How?"

"Well, then, what is a railroad pool?"

"Why, a number of railroad lines put all their earnings into a bag, shake it up, and divide even."

"What's this fur?"

"So that they can all get a whack at business."

"An' it's accordin' to law?"

"Yes."

The man pulled his hat down, rested his elbows on his knees for a "think" which lasted three or four minutes, and then said:

"Stranger, I've been a tarnal fool!"

"How?"

"Why, thar's a chap livin nex' door to me at hum, who has allus worked four hours to my one, and who earns a dollar to my quarter, and it has never occurred to me to make him pool our wages and whack up!"

A Sheet Iron Hen That Does Things.

Charlie Kugle, an ingenious fellow in Barnesville, Ohio, has constructed a sheet iron hen that promises to lay him a golden egg. It is finished up to life, full size, cackles, and looks with one eye so naturally that it would deceive the oldest hen-hawk in the country. It is so arranged that when a hawk, mink or polecat pounces on to it the back springs open, and the wings fly up and force the assailant on to a ravenous buzz saw that makes seven hundred revolutions per minute. After moving half a minute the saw stops, the hen closes up, folds its wings, and begins to cackle as though it had just laid an egg. One winding up will answer for three massacres, provided the rather delicate machinery does not get clogged up with too much blood, bones and feathers. He set a freshly painted one out in the sun to dry last Wednesday, which attracted the attention of a fine old cat belonging to a doctor who had been poking a great deal of fun at the fool thing. The hen is there, but the cat is hence.—Chicago Journal.

How Long the Old Man Can Kick.

"Are you a lawyer?" asked a very young man entering our sanctum the other day.

"Yes, sir," we replied. "What can we do for you?"

"I want to know how long after a girl is fourteen her old man can kick?"

"Kick!"

"Yes. How long after a girl is fourteen can her old man kick?"

"Why—about—well, I think you are hunting a doctor, young man."

"No, I wanted to see a lawyer. I want to find out how long after a girl is fourteen her old man can kick."

"Do you mean her father?"

"Yes, her old man; how long can he kick after she is fourteen?"

"Well, I suppose he can kick as long as he is able to handle his legs well."

The look of surprise on the young man's face convinced us we had misapprehended him. A little severe thought suggested to us the meaning of his remark, and as he was turning sadly away, we called him back and said:

"We can give you more pointed advice, if you will state your case."

He returned, and his countenance brightened as he said:

"Well, I've made a mash on a girl about fourteen years old, and her old man kicks."

"He opposes your visits, does he?"

"Yes, he kicks. And I want to know how long it will be before his kicking won't do any good."

"Well, young man, he can kick effectually for four years yet. He has a perfect right to kick until she is eighteen if he wants to, but it won't hurt you if you keep out of his way."

"Whew! Four years? Well, by jinks, I'll go and make love to an old maid down on North street. Her old man died twenty years ago, and there ain't nobody down there to kick—except the mash," he reflectively added.—Through Mail.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by John Gayfer. 74v-y

The smaller the string of fish the bigger the lie.

ITCHING PILES—SYPMTOMS AND CURE. The symptoms are moisture, like perspiration, intense itching, increased by scratching, very distressing, particularly at night, seems as if pin-worms were crawling in and about the rectum; the private parts are sometimes affected. If allowed to continue very serious results may follow. "SWAYNE'S OINTMENT" is a pleasant, sure cure. Also for Tetter Itch, Salt Rheum Scald Head, Erysipelas, Barbers Itch, Blotches, all scaly, crusty Skin Diseases Sent by mail for 50 cents; 3 boxes, $1.25 (in stamps). Address, DR. SWAYNE & SON, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Druggists

Straw hats show which way the wind blows.

RESPECT OLD AGE. An old favorite is the remedy known as Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Thirty years reliable for cholera morbus, diarrhœa and summer complaints. 6i

The lean buyer maketh the fat seller.

Do they ever bury a dead calm?

DOWN IN DIXIE. The wife of Mr. J. Kennedy, dealer in drugs in Dixie, was cured of a chronic cough by Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. The best throat and lung dealer known. 061

"This is a suggestion of spring," said the rat, when the trap closed upon him.

UNKNOWN TO SCIENCE. That preparation is undiscovered which can surpass Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry as a cure for Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and Summer Complaints. 06i

The piano is the most moral of instruments—being grand, upright and square.

Neither the nibbler nor the gutton knoweth the value of the feast.

REST AND COMFORT TO THE SUFFERING "Brown's Household Panacea' has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea, being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 1498vy

All should profit by the aid of the cook—except the apothecary.

GREAT NEGLIGENCE. There is great neglect with most people to maintain a regular action of the bowels, which causes much disease. Burdock Blood Bitters cure constipation. 06i

Peace hideth itself under the lid of th well-managed pot.

NO SUCH WORD AS FAIL. A failure to relieve or cure summer complaints can never be truthfully applied to Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. All dealers sell it. 06i

True economy in the household has heaven for its banker.

TIME, ITS VALUE.

To-day is ours, why should we care?
To-day is ours, why should we fear?
To-day is ours, why should we sorrow?
For to the gods belong to-morrow.
Therefore for to-day, chew Gold Coin Tobacco, it is the best. 06

Rare beef and well-cooked fish betray a wise cook.

CALL and see the immense stock of Wall Papers, Floor Oil Cloths, Window Cornices, Window Shades, &c., at L. Thompson's McCaughey's Block. 41.

Wise counsel cometh not from an empty stomach.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Trains leave Ingersoll as follows:

GOING WEST.	GOING EAST.
4:56 a. m.	6:50 a. m.
11:57 a. m.	12:15 a. m.
12:32 a. m.	3:05 p. m.
5:05 p. m.	4:48 p. m.
7:47 p. m.	7:00 p. m.
2:11 a. m.	12:20 p. m.

CATARRH.

CATARRH.—A New Treatment whereby this hitherto incurable disease is permanently cured in from one to three applications, no matter whether standing for one year or forty years. Descriptive pamphlet sent free on receipt of stamp. A. H. DIXON & SON, 305 King street west, Toronto, Canada. 1569vy

SHAKER BLOOD SYRUP.

Cures Completely Scrofula, Syphilis, Cancer, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Ulcers and Skin and Blood Diseases of every description.

$1000 reward to any chemist who will find, on analysis of 100 bottles of Shaker Blood Syrup, one particle of Mercury, Iodide of Potassium, or any mineral substance.

J. W. BROWETT, - DRUGGIST, Sign of White Mortar, THAMES STREET, INGERSOLL.

JAS. McINTYRE

UNDERTAKER,

HAS REMOVED BACK TO HIS old stand in the NEW BRICK BLOCK.

A Large Stock of COFFINS, and CASKETS HROUDS and ROBES on hand.

FURNITURE

All kinds in stock. Residence first house north of warehouse, King street, Ingersoll.

GOLD for the working class. Send 10 cents for postage, and we will mail you free a royal, valuable box of sample goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. We will start you. You can work all the time or in spare time only. The work is universally adapted to both sexes, young and old. You can easily earn from 50 cents to $5 every evening. That all who want work may test the business we make this unparalleled offer: to all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Fortunes will be made by those who give their whole time to the work. Great success absolutely sure. Don't delay. Start now. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

ADVERTISERS

Before you place a dollar's worth of Newspaper advertising, get our prices. The exact cost of any paper, or list of papers cheerfully furnished, free upon application.

Send for New Catalogue.

J. C. HOUGH, Advertising Agent, HOUGH BLOCK. Detroit, Mich.

THE "Little Wonder."

Me and my father, my father and me,
Can sell you the best of Black and Green Tea.
The very best Sugar and choicest of Spice,
With Lard, Pork and Ham, and very good Rice,
In fact all the Groceries you can well name,
My father kept good ones and I'll do the same,
So come with your orders and with your money
For business without is not pleasant as honey.

E. H. HEWITT, PROPRIETRESS

Ingersoll, Nov. 1, 1883. 1573

The "White" is King

OF SEWING MACHINES,

FOR SALE BY

HENDERSON & HENDERSON, MACHINISTS AND SILVER PLATERS, Ingersoll.

Dealers in Sewing Machines, and Repairs; Firearms and Ammunition, Fish Poles, Hooks & Lines

Largest & Best Assortment in town.

Ingersoll, May 22nd, 1884. 1602

Health & Happiness for all.

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

Biliousness, Headache, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dizziness, Jaundice, Dropsy, Fluttering of the Heart,

And every species of disease arising from Impure Blood, &c., &c.

PREPARED BY THE

Climax Chemical Company, MONTREAL.

A CURE CUARANTEED

For Old and Young. Male and Female.

Positively cures Nervousness in all its stages, Weak Memory, Loss of Brain Power, Sexual Prostration, Night Sweats, Spermatorrhœa; Leucorrhœa, Barrenness, Seminal Weakness, and General Loss of Power. It repairs Nervous Waste, Rejuvenates, the Jaded Intellect. Strengthens the enfeebled Brain and Restores Surprising Tone and Vigor to the Exhausted Generative Organs in either sex. With each order for 12 packages, accompanied with five dollars, we will send our Written Guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. It is the cheapest and best Medicine in the market. Pamphlet sent free by mail to any address.

Mack's Magnetic Medicine is sold by Druggists at 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50, or will be mailed free of postage on receipt of money, by addressing

J. W. BROWETT, Chemist, Next to Golden Anvil, Ingersoll, Ont.

1578v-y

A LECTURE TO YOUNG MEN On the Loss of MANHOOD.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated , in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, on thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hand of every youth and every man in the land. Address

THE CULVERWELL MEDICAL CO., 41 Ann St., New York. Post Office Box 450. 1560 vy

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY CURES CHOLERA CHOLERA INFANTUM DIARRHŒA, AND ALL SUMMER COMPLAINTS SOLD BY ALL DEALERS.

A PRIZE Send six cents postage and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers; absolutely sure. At once address TRUE & Co, Augusta, Maine.

AGENTS wanted for "The Lives of the Presidents of the U. S." the largest, handsomest and best book ever sold for less than twice our price. The fastest selling book in America. Immense profits to agents. All intelligent people want it. Anyone can become a successful agent Terms free. HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Maine.

R. No. 66

Endorsed by the FRENCH ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

For Inflammation of the Urinary Organs.

Caused by Indiscretion or Exposure. Hotel Dieu Hospital, Paris, Treatment. Positive Cure in one to three days. Local Treatment only required. No nauseous doses of Cubebs or Copaiba.

INFALLIBLE, HYGIENIC, CURATIVE, PREVENTIVE.

Price $1.50, including Bulb Syringe. Sold by all Druggists, or sent free by mail, securely sealed, on receipt of price. Descriptive Treatise free on application. AMERICAN AGENCY "66" MEDICINE CO., Windsor, Ontario. 1578vy

BACHARD'S YELLOW OIL CURES CATARRH RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS.

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

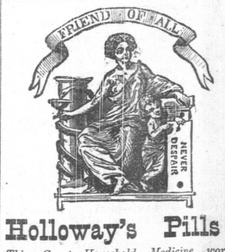
RUPTURE CURED.



CHAS. CLUTHE'S PERFECTED TRUSS. A great improvement in this Truss has been made, consisting of the Clothe Drawer Belt as plainly as words can describe. Worn in Bath, Labor or Sleep (a Boon for Comfort), and Rupture positively retained. Pamphlet containing valuable information. A Life Study. Sent free. Warranty issued. Registered by CHAS CLUTHE, 118 King Street West, Toronto, Ont., and Buffalo, N.Y.

The above is reproduced from a photograph taken from life and is a correct likeness of Mr. Cluthe.

PATENTS.

INVENTORS, send model or sketch of your inventions, when I will make careful preliminary examination, and report as to patentability, with advice, circulars, etc. Free of Charge. All business before U.S. Patent Office attend to for Moderate Fees. Information and references sent on application. No charge unless patent is secured.

J. R. LITTELL, Washington, D.C. Directly opposite U.S. Patent Office. 1582

Holloway's Pills!

This Great Household Medicine works amongst the leading necessaries of Life.

These famous Pills purify the BLOOD, and act most powerfully, yet soothingly on the

LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS,

And BOWELS, giving tone, energy, and vigour to these great MAIN SPRINGS OF LIFE. They are confidently recommended as a never failing remedy in all cases where the constitution, from whatever cause, has become impaired or weakened. They are wonderfully efficacious in all ailments incidental to Females of all ages; and as a GENERAL FAMILY MEDICINE, are unsurpassed.

Its Searching and Healing Properties are known throughout the world.

Holloway's Ointment

For the cure of BAD LEGS, Bad Breasts,

Old Wounds, Sores and Ulcers,

It is an infallible remedy. If effectually rubbed on the neck and chest, as salt into meat. It cures SORE THROAT, Diphtheria, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, and even ASTHMA. For Glandular Swellings, Abscesses, Piles, Fistulas,

GOUT, RHEUMATISM,

And every kind of SKIN DISEASES, it has never been know to fail.

The Pills and Ointment are Manufactured only at 533 OXFORD STREET, LONDON, and are sold by all Vendors of Medicine throughout the civilized world, with directions for use in almost every language.

Purchasers should look to the Label on the Pots and Boxes. If the address is not 533, Oxford Street, London, they are spurious. 1517v-y

TO THE CITIZENS

Of Ingersoll and Surrounding Country.

I take this opportunity to return my sincere thanks to my numerous friends and customers, who have given me such a liberal support during the past year, hoping by a continuation of square dealing that I will maintain the confidence of the public at large in the future as I have in the past, believing that I have given my customers entire satisfaction. I would take the liberty of INVITING ALL TO CALL, and give a trial. I am prepared to give all a bargain in

TEAS & SUGARS

That cannot be beat west of Toronto, and all other goods in proportion.

Any one w

FOUNDED 1853.

THE INGERSOLL CHRONICLE,

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

C. F. GERNETT, Proprietor.

TERMS for THE CHRONICLE AND DAIRYMAN, by mail, or called for at the office of publication, or at the booksellers, $1.50 in advance; $2.00 if not so paid. Delivered at homes, or business places of subscribers, in town, $1.75 in advance, or $2.75 if not so paid.

The CHRONICLE AND DAIRYMAN has more readers than all the remaining newspapers published in Ingersoll and the South Riding of Oxford combined. This important fact should be borne in mind by advertisers.

It has the largest circulation among Canadian Dairymen, being devoted specially to the interests of that class.

Printing by Steam Power in all its branches.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Advertisements will be inserted in THE CHRONICLE AND DAIRYMAN, at 8 cents per line for the first insertion, and 3 cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

For legal and official advertisements the charge is 10 cents per line for the first, and 5 cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

Condensed advertisements:—Servants wanted—Articles Wanted—Lost or Found—Strayed—To Rent or For Sale—Board—Situations Wanted, or Vacant, etc., (one inch or under) will be published at the rate of 50 cts. for the first insertion, and 25 cts. for each subsequent insertion.

Ten cents per line for the first insertion and five cents per line for each subsequent insertion, is the charge for inserting "special notices" with reading matter and in the same type.

Professional cards, not exceeding 6 lines, will be inserted one year for $5; 50 cents per line per year for each line over six lines.

Commercial advertisements, ordinarily displayed matter, will be inserted at the following rates:

Time.	2 In.	¼ Col. 3 In.	½ Col. 6 In.	¾ Col. 12 In.	1 Col. 24 In.
1 week...	$1 50	$ 2 50	$ 4 00	$ 6 00	$ 10 00
2 weeks..	2 25	3 75	6 00	9 00	15 00
3 weeks..	2 70	4 50	7 20	10 80	18 00
4 weeks..	3 00	5 00	8 00	12 00	20 00
5 weeks..	3 30	5 50	8 80	13 20	22 00
6 weeks..	3 60	6 00	9 60	14 40	24 00
2 months.	4 80	7 50	12 00	18 00	30 00
3 months.	6 00	10 00	15 00	24 00	40 00
6 months.	9 00	15 00	24 00	40 00	60 00
12 months	15 00	22 00	40 00	60 00	100 00

The above contract prices do not give the right to advertise Houses or Farms for Sale, or to Rent, Clerks, Domestics or Servants Wanted, Articles Lost or Found, Entertainments, Auction Sales, &c., but extend exclusively to the legitimate commercial announcements, ordinarily displayed matter, of the pronouncements contracting. Solid matter will be charged at the rate of 8 and 3 cents per line.

J. F. McDONALD, LL. B.,

BARRISTER AND ATTORNEY-at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Notary Public, &c.

OFFICE—Thames street, Ingersoll

M. WALSH,

BARRISTER, NOTARY PUBLIC, Solicitor in the Supreme Court of Ontario, &c. Money to lend at lowest rates. Mortgages Bought and Sold.

OFFICE up Stairs, Walsh's Block, Thames Street, Ingersoll, Ont.

W. W. HOLCROFT,

BARRISTER, ATTORNEY, SOLICITOR, Notary Public, Conveyancer, &c.; $100,000, private funds, to loan at 6 and 7 per cent. Mortgages, Debentures and Notes bought. Office formerly occupied by the late Mr. McCaughey, Thames street, Ingersoll.

J. C. HIGLER,

BARRISTER ATTORNEY, SOLICITOR, &c. Money to loan at eight per cent.

OFFICE:—Over Molsons Bank, King Street.

G. J. CHARLESWORTH, M. B.,

L. R. C. P. & L. M., EDINBURGH. C. P. & L. M., Ont. L. R. C. P. & L. M., EDINBURGH. Coroner for the County of Oxford, Graduate of the Royal College of Physicians, Edinburgh.—Late Surgeon in the British Marine Service. Office, Thames Street, Ingersoll.

J. ARTHUR WILLIAMS, M. D.,

M. R. C. S. AND L. M., ENGLAND L. R. C. P., London; Aurist and Oculist Office with Dr. Hoyt, King Street, Ingersoll.

CHARLES KENNEDY,

SURGEON DENTIST. LICENSED by the Royal College of Dental Surgery, Ont. teeth extracted without pain by the use of Nitrous de Gas, etc., if desired. Special attention paid to the preservation of natural teeth.

Office on King street, opposite the "Thompson house," Ingersoll. 881y

W. A. SUDWORTH.,

SURGEON DENTIST, MEMBER of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, Graduate of Ont. Dental College. Anæsthetic administered for the painless extraction of teeth. Office opposite the Market, Ingersoll.

H. W. HILL,

PRODUCE and Commission Merchant, Agent for the Empire Loan Association. Money to loan at lowest rates on farm and town property. Market Square, Woodstock.

January 31st, 1884. 1586-y

W. R. BURKE

PROVINCIAL LAND SURVEYOR AND DRAUGHTSMAN,

OFFICE AT TELEGRAPH OFFICE.

I have disposed of all my plans, field notes and bearings to Mr. W. R. Burke, P. L. Surveyor, of Ingersoll, which have been collected by myself during the past 30 years while practising in the County of Oxford. All parties wishing surveying done, will do well to employ Mr. Burke, he now having so much valuable information relative to surveys in this County. Signed,

W. G. WONHAM,
P. L. Surveyor.

May 8th, 1884. 1630y

JAMES BRADY,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER

INGERSOLL, ONT.,

Is prepared to attend all sales in town or country. Ingersoll, April 20th, 1882. 1493

ImperialBankofCanada

HEAD OFFICE, - TORONTO.

Capital Paid Up, $1,500,000.
Rest, - - 650,000.

Purchases Municipal Debentures, Issues Drafts on its branches and agencies in the North-West. Transfers Money by Telegrams to Winnipeg and Brandon. Dealers in Sterling Exchange. Savings Department—Deposits received and interest allowed. Agents in London, Messrs. Bosanquet, Salt & Co., 73 Lombard street, with whom moneys for transmission from Great Britain to Ontario and the North-West may be deposited.

D. R. WILKIE Cashier.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.

Deposits of $1 and upward received and interest allowed thereon at current rates.

INGERSOLL BRANCH,

J. A. RICHARDSON, Manager.

MERCHANT'S BANK OF CANADA.

CAPITAL - $5,698,696
RESERVE - - $1,150,000

INGERSOLL BRANCH.

THIS BANK TRANSACTS A General Banking Business, Buys and Sells Exchange on England and the United States, and issues Drafts on New York and all parts of Canada. Particular attention paid to collections for Customers and Banks.

W. M. SMITH, Manager.

BANK OF LONDON IN CANADA.

CAPITAL, $1,000,000.00.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

HY. TAYLOR, Pres. J. LABATT, Vice-Pres.
A. M. SMART, Cashier.
W. R. MEREDITH, Q.C., M.P.P. T. LONG.
BENJ. CRONYN. THOS. FAWCETT.
ISAAC BANKS. THOS. KENT.
N. REID. JNO MORRISON.

INGERSOLL BRANCH.

A Branch of the Bank of London, has been opened in Ingersoll, in the premises recently occupied by the Molsons Bank.

A General Banking Business

Transacted. Collections on all points in Canada and United States made promptly, at reasonable rates. Drafts issued on New York and all points in Canada. LIBERAL INTEREST ALLOWED ON DEPOSITS which can be withdrawn at any time.

C. W. M. SIMPSON, Acting Manager.

Ingersoll, March 27, 1884 1594

Electro Plate GOODS

—AT—

R. W. WOODROOFE'S

JEWELLERY STORE,

Thames Street, - Ingersoll.

The Ingersoll Chronicle,

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

VOL. XXXI.—NO. 44. INGERSOLL, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JULY 3, 1884. WHOLE NO. 1608.

THE CANADA LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY.

ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1883.

Assets - - -	$5,617,623
Interest on Investments -	335,907
New Policies Written -	2,178
Amount of New Policies -	$4,534,000
Death Claims Paid - -	$289,660
Premiums Received - -	$812,889

It will be noticed the interest on investments more than pays the death claims.

The Canada Life is a home company and has been doing business for 37 years.

Its rates are moderate while its profits are larger than those of other companies.

Policies indisputable after two years.

Claims paid immediately on proof of death.

Thirty days grace allowed for payment of premiums.

The profits will equal if not exceed those of any previous Division.

For every information apply to

H. O'CONNOR, Jr., - AGENT,

INGERSOLL & DISTRICT.

June 12th, 1884. 1605

LONDON AND LANCASHIRE

Life Assurance Com'y

OF ENGLAND.

Head Office for Canada,

217 St. James St., Montreal.

Policies unconditional and rate as low as absolute security will admit.

Reserves deposited annually with Government, thus rendering the policies unquestionable as to security.

Funds invested in Canada over $300,000 and increasing yearly.

Every desirable Form of Policy Issued

WM. ROBERTSON, MANAGER.

Ingersoll, July 26, 1883.

London Loan Company,

LONDON, ONTARIO.

Short loans at 6 and 6½ per cent. Apply to

M. J. KENT, Manager,

London, Feb. 7th, 1884. 1587-y

VITAL QUESTIONS!!!!

Ask the most eminent physician

Of any school, what is the best thing in the world for quieting and allaying all irritation of the nerves, and curing all forms of nervous complaints, giving natural, childlike refreshing sleep always? and they will tell you unhesitatingly

"Some form of Hops!!!"

CHAPTER I.

Ask any or all of the most eminent physicians:

"What is the best and only remedy that can be relied on to cure all diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs; such as Bright's disease, diabetes, retention, or inability to retain urine, and all the diseases and ailments peculiar to Women"—

"And they will tell you explicitly and emphatically "Buchu!!!"

Ask the same physicians

"What is the most reliable and surest cure for all liver diseases or dyspepsia; constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malaria, fever, ague, &c.," and they will tell you:

"Mandrake! or Dandelion!!!!"

Hence, when these remedies are combined with others equally valuable,

And compounded into Hop Bitters, such a wonderful and mysterious curative power is developed, which is so varied in its operations that no disease or ill health can possibly exist or resist its power, and yet it is

Harmless for the most frail woman, weakest invalid or smallest child to use.

CHAPTER II.

"Patients

"Almost dead or nearly dying"

For years, and given up by physicians, of Bright's and other kidney diseases, liver complaints, severe coughs, called consumption, have been cured.

Women gone nearly crazy!!!!!

From agony of neuralgia, nervousness, wakefulness, and various diseases peculiar to women.

People drawn out of shape from excruciating pangs of rheumatism, inflammatory and chronic, or suffering from scrofula.

Erysipelas!

"Saltrheum, blood poisoning, dyspepsia, indigestion, and, in fact, almost all diseases frail"

Nature is heir to

Have been cured by Hop Bitters, proof of which can be found in every neighborhood in the known world.

☞None genuine without a bunch of green Hops on the white label. Shun all the vile, poisonous stuff with "Hop" or "Hops" in their name.

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA AND SUGAR-COATED PILLS,

The Great Purifiers OF THE BLOOD AND LIVER.

GAIN

Health and Happiness.

How? DO AS OTHERS HAVE DONE.

Are your Kidneys disordered?

"Kidney-Wort brought me from my grave, as it were, after I had been given up by 13 of doctors in Detroit." M. W. Deveraux, Mechanic, Ionia, Mich.

Are your nerves weak?

"Kidney-Wort cured me from nervous weakness &c., after I was not expected to live."—Mrs. M. B. Goodwin, Rd. Christian Monitor, Cleveland, O.

Have you Bright's Disease?

"Kidney-Wort cured me when my water was just like chalk and then like blood."

Frank Wilson, Peabody, Mass.

Suffering from Diabetes?

"Kidney-Wort is the most successful remedy I have ever used. Gives almost immediate relief."—Phillip C. Ballou, Monkton, Vt.

Have you Liver Complaint?

"Kidney-Wort cured me of chronic Liver Disease after I prayed to die."

Henry Ward, late Col. 60th Nat. Guard, N. Y.

Is your Back lame and aching?

"Kidney-Wort, (1 bottle) cured me when I was so lame I had to roll out of bed."

C. M. Tallmage, Milwaukee, Wis.

Have you Kidney Disease?

"Kidney-Wort made me sound in liver and kidneys after years of unsuccessful doctoring. Its worth $10 a box."—Sam'l Hodges, Williamstown, West Va.

Are you Constipated?

"Kidney-Wort cannot carry evacuations and cured me after 18 years use of other medicines."

Nelson Fairchild, St. Albans, Vt.

Have you Malaria?

"Kidney-Wort has done better than any other remedy I have ever used in my practice."

Dr. H. R. Clark, South Hero, Vt.

Are you Bilious?

"Kidney-Wort has done me more good than any other remedy I have ever taken."

Mrs. J. T. Galloway, Elk Flat, Oregon.

Are you tormented with Piles?

"Kidney-Wort permanently cured me of bleeding piles. Dr. W. C. Kline recommended it to me."

Gen. H. Hoyt, Cashier M. Bank, Myerstown, Pa.

Are you Rheumatism racked?

"Kidney-Wort cured me, after I was given up to die by physicians and I had suffered thirty years."

Rev. Jeriah Bridge Malcolm, West Bath, Maine.

Ladies, are you suffering?

"Kidney-Wort cured me of peculiar troubles of several years standing. Many friends use and praise it."

Mrs. R. Lamoreaux, Isle La Motte, Vt.

If you would Banish Disease and gain Health, Take

KIDNEY-WORT

THE BLOOD CLEANSER.

CHILDREN AND FLOWERS.

Types for our children are the tiny grasses,
Tender and fragile in the ample moorland;
We know not to what sweetness their unborn fruits may ripen,
But hoping ever, wait till autumn tells their story.
Oh! cherished children, may ye never perish
Flowerless, fruitless, in the early spring time,
Nor like this petal, trampled by the wayside
Fall in the fuller promise of your prime.

WHO WAS THE MURDERER?

A constable was awaking echoes on a silent night by the measured tread of his heavy footsteps on the payment of a fashionable West-end street when he was startled by the thrill cries of "thieves!" and "murder!" close at hand. Being a young man, eager to distinguish himself, he ran at the top of his speed in the direction whence the sounds proseeded, and found a small group of men, including another constable, congregated outside a large house.

'What's up?' he inquired of his colleague.

'Blessed if I know! The women seem too frightened to do anything except scream,' growled the officer—an old hand—apostrophising the row of heads which were thrust out from the upper windows. 'Hi, there! come down and open the door!'

'I believe somebody has been shot. I am sure I heard a report as I turned the corner,' said the young gentleman in evening dress, who was apparently returning from a ball.

'Here, Smith, you run round to the back,' said the old constable to the other; 'make your way in; if you can, and I'll stay here till the door is opened.'

Constable Smith started off on his errand with alacrity, and turning the adjacent corner, climed over the railings into a square or public garden at the rear of the premises. He had no difficulty in identifying the house in its altered aspect, for a light in the basement attracted his attention. The dining room had French windows opening on to an ornamental iron bridge or gangway, which spanned the area, and led into the garden. One of these windows was slightly ajar, and the constable grasping his bull's eye lantern firmly with his left hand, walked across the bridge, and entered the room. Passing through the apartment, and throwing a ray of light right and left as he walked, he came to the hall, and was advancing straight to the entrance door to give admission to his colleague, when he encountered a white-clad figure crouching in a recess, which was used for hanging coats and hats on. The constable experienced a thrill of nervousness and involuntarily laid his hand on his truncheon. A second glance, however, convinced him that he had not to deal with a burglar or desperate character. The individual was a gentleman in night attire, trembling violently, and in a half-fainting condition. The constable rightly assumed that it was the master of the house, and addressed him roughly, but respectfully.

'What is up? I'm a policeman.'

'They—they have shot him,' gasped the other, apparently a trifle reasured at the sight of the constable's uniform.

'Shot who?'

'My butler.'

'Who did it?'

'The—the burglars.'

'Well, we had better open the door. Come, sir, there is nothing to be afraid of now,' he added, a little contemptuously. 'You understand the bolts and fastenings. I'll trouble you to lend me a hand.'

Being thus appealed to, the master of the house made an effort to control himself, and, with trembling hands, commenced to unfasten the chain and to unlock the hall door, while the constable threw the light of his lantern up the stair case and took a rapid survey of the premises. When the door was opened the hall was instantly became filled with the crowd from the outside, headed by the other officer. A great hubbub and Babel of voices ensued, in the midst of which the master of the house repeatedly reiterated that his butler had been shot, and was only with difficulty prevailed upon to explain that the tragedy occured in the basement.

A movement was accordingly made in that direction, and after a brief search, the body of a man was found huddled up on the floor of the kitchen, which smelt strongly of gunpowder. A candle he was burning on the dresser, the reflection of which the constable had seen from the garden at the back. One of the party was a neighboring surgeon, and at once knelt down beside the prostrate man, who was dressed in his shirt and trousers and with professional coolness examined the nature of his injury.

'He is dead, poor fellow,' remarked the doctor quietly, after a short pause.

'Shot, sir?' inquired the constable.

'Yes; shot through the lungs. Here is the wound, you see. I can do nothing,' added the doctor, gently releasing his hold of the man, and rising to his feet.

The party filed out of the room rather quickly and made their way up stairs, awed and nervous, while the two officers commenced a careful examination of the premises. The room and offices on the basement had not been disturbed, and the butler's pantry was locked. From the state of the dining-room, however, it was evident that burglars had been at work. One of the cupboards in the sideboard which contained some silver articles of value had been dexterously wrenched open, though apparently the thieves had been alarmed, for nothing appeared to be missing. Some silent matches and a neat jimmy were found, while the door leading to the garden boro traces of having been forced open. The older constable muttered something to his colleague that the thieves had been accomplished 'cracksmen.'

While this survey was proceeding, an inspector had been sent for, and shortly afterwards made his appearance. After receiving the report of the constables and examining the premises under their guidance, he proceeded to interrogate the inmates of the house. The master and mistress and two terrified female servants had by this time assembled in one of the sitting rooms and were incoherently discussing the affair with some neighbors. The inspector having politely, but firmly, cleared the house of all intruders produced his note-book and asked for details.

'What is your name, sir?' was his first question of the master of the house.

'My name is Miller. I am well known in the neighborhood.'

'And the deceased?'

'John Simmonds. He has been in my service for nearly twelve years, and I esteemed him highly, poor fellow.'

Mr. Miller had in a great measure, recovered from his fright, though he was still pale and nervous. He was an elderly man, with grey hairs and whiskers, and now that he had dressed himself he looked comparatively calm and self possessed.

'Will you tell me what you know of this affair, sir?' asked the inspector.

'I was the first who was aroused,' interposed Mrs. Miller, before her husband could speak. 'About half-an-hour ago I started up on hearing a knock at my bedroom door. Imagining one of the children was ill, I hastily put on my dressing-gown, when I recognized Simmonds' voice. I asked him what was the matter, and he said there were thieves in the house. I then woke my husband, who was asleep.'

'Is that all you know, ma'am?'

'Yes. When my husband went down, I was so terrified that I shut myself in my room. A minute or two after, I heard a noise like the crack of a whip. I did not think it was a shot, but the silence which followed seemed ominous. After a while, I crept out on the landing and called to my husband over the banisters. He shouted up that Simmonds was killed by the burglars, and I then rushed to the window and screamed for the police.'

'Thank you. Now, sir!' said the inspectors, turning to Mr. Miller.

'When my wife woke me,' said Mr. Miller, with a visible effort at self control, 'I jumped out of bed immediately, feeling rather dazed, and joined Simmonds outside, without waiting to dress. He whispered that there were theives in the house, and led the way down stairs. I followed him. I didn't know what he was going to do exactly. I was very nervous and startled, and relied entirely on Simmonds, who was quite cool and collected. We went down without making a sound, for I was barefooted, and so, I think, was simmonds.'

'Had you a light?' inquired the inspector.

'No. I wanted to bring one, but Simmonds said we should be safer in the dark. When we approached the dining-room we stopped and listened. I heard nothing, but Simmonds said he heard a noise in the basement.'

'The silver is kept in the butler's pantry, I suppose?' said the inspector.

'Yes; nearly all of it. There is a safe there. I expect the thief, or thieves, were attracted by that.'

'Well, sir?'

'Well, we went quietly down the kitchen stairs, poor Simmonds leading way, as before. When he reached the bottom he went into the kitchen. I had let him get a good way ahead of me. The fact is, I felt thoroughly frightened,' added Mr. Miller, with a lugubrious smile.

'What made him go into the kitchen?' inquired the inspector.

'I suppose he heard some one moving there. At all events, the moment after he had entered I heard voices, followed by a loud report, a groan, and a heavy fall.'

'Was there a struggle? Was anything said?'

'I don't know. It all happened in an instant, and I was paralyzed with horror,' said Mr. Miller, wiping the perspiration from his brow. 'Before I could realize what had occurred, somebody rushed up the stairs in the dark, and nearly threw me down. I just managed to catch hold of the banisters to save myself from falling. A man—I think two men—hastily stumbled past me. I could not see, but I think there must have been more than one man.'

'Didn't you attempt to stop them?' asked the inspector.

'I had no time. It was so sudden. I was breathless for a moment from the force of the collision, besides being completely terrified,' said Mr. Miller, helplessly. 'I suppose the thieves got away through the dining-room window.'

'What did you do then?'

'Well, I must have gone down stairs with a vague idea of assisting the wounded man, who was groaning. I found myself groping about the kitchen. I don't recollect how I got there. By chance I came across a box of matches. I struck one with great difficulty, and then lit a candle which was standing on the dresser. Poor Simmonds was uttering low moans, which ceased when I bent over him. I then perceived he was dead.'

'He never spoke to you, then?' inquired the inspector, after a short pause of sympathy, during which Mr. Miller was overcome by emotion.

'No. When I found he was dead, I went upstairs,' resumed Mr. Miller with an effort. 'My wife called out to me, I shouted poor Simmonds was shot. I had reached the third landing by that time, and then I suppose I fainted. I remember nothing more till the constable spoke to me.'

The unfortunate gentleman was evidently quite unmanned by the scene he had witnessed. He seemed almost hysterical, showing that the shock had seriously affected his nerves. The inspector asked a few more questions, but forebore to prolong the interview, and after assisting to lay the body of the murdered man upon his bed, and promising that a policeman should patrol the house for the rest of the night, he and his subordinates took their departure.

The affair caused a great sensation in the neighborhood, and the tragic incident was placarded in large letters on the posters of the newspapers. Crowds of people came and stared at the house, and the probability of arming the police was again hotly discussed. An inquest was held, at which Mr. Miller, repeated his story, and the inquiry—which gave the Coroner an excellent opportunity of airing his importance—terminated in a verdict of wilful murder against some person or persons unknown. The police, as usual expressed themselves confident of being able to capture the guilty parties at any moment, and asserted that they were in possession of an important clue, though nothing ever transpired to verify the allegation.

About a month or six weeks afterwards, Mr. Miller was one day seated in his office in town—he was a Colonial broker in a large business—when a clerk entered, and announced that a young man wished to see him. The caller declined to give his name, but declared that he had something most important to communicate.

'What is he like?' inquired Mr. Miller who, in broad daylight and in his own office, looked a very imposing and important personage. 'I mean is he a beggar? Why dosen't he send in his name? I can't be disturbed in this manner.'

'He says you wouldn't know his name, sir; but he seems quite respectable,' said the clerk, awed by his principal's outraged dignity.

'Well, you can ask him to step in, But Marshall you can leave the door ajar and remain within call,' said Mr. Miller.

The clerk presently ushered in a tall young man of military aspect, and Mr. Miller was dimly conscious that he had seen his face before. As this reflection crossed his mind, he realized that it was a rather unpleasantly determined face, and he voluntarily dropped his eyes beneath the keen glance which fixed upon him. Judging from his dress, the young man apparently belonged to an humble class of life, and Mr. Miller therefore addressed him in a patronizing tone.

'Well, my man, what do you want with me? Why didn't you send your name in, eh?'

'You would'nt have been any the wiser, sir. I'll shut the door if you don't mind,' said the young man, seizing the handle.

'Thank you, I prefer it open,' said Mr. Miller, rather hastily.

'You needn't be afraid, sir,' replied the young man, calmly disregarding the snub. 'You've only to raise your voice above a whisper to be heard through that partition.'

Mr. Miller was fairly taken back, not only by the man's coolness, but the sudden conviction that his voice and manner also were familiar. The stranger soon solved the mystery by saying:—

'You don't recognize me in private clothes, sir, and in fact I don't suppose you noticed me at all. I am the constable that came into your house that night when your butler was shot.'

'Oh! yes. I remember,' said Mr. Miller, changing color. 'What brings you here?' he added, lowering his voice. 'Has anything transpired?'

'No, not that know of,' said the man, taking the chair which Mr. Miller indicated.

'Have you left the police?' inquired Mr. Miller, struck by a sort of constraint in the man's manner.

'No, sir. That just brings me to what I want to say. I haven't left the police, but I'm thinking of doing so. I've a brother doing very well in New Zealand, and I wish to join him. But, of course, it is no use going without some capital; I shall require £500.'

'I really don't see how this concerns me. You haven't come to ask me for £500, I suppose,' said Mr. Miller, jokingly.

'Well not exactly, but it may suit you to give it to me, sir,' said the young man, quite unbashed.

'Indeed! I don't fancy it will, though,' said Mr. Miller, irriated at the young man's impudence. 'It strikes me you are wasting my time and your own.'

'Then I will come to the point at once sir. I know who shot your butler,' said the young man, looking straight at Mr. Miller.

'Do you? Has the burglar been discovered?' exclaimed Mr. Miller, starting, and suddenly turning pale.

'No, sir, I haven't discovered no burglar, but at this moment I can lay my finger on the party who fired the shot,' said his visitor, still looking him in the face.

'Do you mean that you suspect me?' murmured Mr. Miller, looking like a ghost of himself, and trembling violently.

'Yes, sir. It was accident, no doubt. You had a revolver in your hand, and were so nervous that you didn't know what you were about. I expect the butler startled you by coming up against you in the dark, and you fired from sheer fright,' said the young man in a matter of fact tone.

'What makes you imagine I had a revolver?' gasped Mr. Miller, with a faint show of defiance.

'Well, sir, when I came upon you suddenly in the hall that evening, I noticed that you drew your hand away quickly from one of the coats which was hanging close by you. At the time I paid no attention to the circumstance, but when I thought of it afterwards it gave me an idea. Next morning, being off duty, I strolled round to your house in private clothes, and hung about until you left to go to town. I guessed you would have the revolver about you, and would try and make away with it. You will recollect that you travelled by the District Railway to Westminster Bridge Station that day, and then went to the city by boat. During the journey you dropped a small parcel into the river'—

'Good God! you have guessed my secret!' interrupted Mr. Miller, in piteous tones, as he clasped his hands together convulsively. 'For mercy's sake don't breathe a word to any one! It was a pure accident and happened as you say. I was so horrified and frightened that, like a fool, I concealed the truth.'

'Nobody suspects you but me,' said the young man. 'That is why I thought it might suit your purpose to get me out the country. You have complicated matters by giving false evidence.'

'Yes, yes; the matter must be hushed up. You shall have the money you ask for if you will promise to leave the country and never breathe a word to a soul,' said Mr. Miller, eagerly, as he seized his check-book and turned over the leaves in great agitation.

'You can rely on my holding my tongue for my own sake,' said the young man with a short laugh.

'How is it you said nothing about this before?' said Mr. Miller, pausing after some futile attempts to guide the tremulous hand which held the pen.

'Well, sir, I didn't know what might happen,' returned the young man, with another laugh. 'If the the thief had been taken, everything might have come out.'

'Is—is that likely to happen?' exclaimed Mr. Miller, with another fit of trembling. 'It is what I have always feared. The police say they have a clue.'

'You can make your mind quite easy, sir. They've got no clue, and knew their case was hopeless from the begining. They've no more chance of catching the parties than they have of discovering your secret—if you pay me the money.'

Acting upon this significant hint, Mr. Miller raised no further objections, and the following week the enterprising young constable sailed for New Zealand.

A True Story.

Several merchant travelers were having an "experience meeting," the subject being their adventures on the road. Various were the stories, and finally a St. Louis man remarked:

"Well, boys, I had a little experience that beats them all. I was up on Lake Michigan, coming to Chicago by steamer, when a whooping old storm came up and raised the dickens generally. We were close to shore, and the engines were doing what they could, when, all at once the boiler heads blew out and left us at the mercy of the winds and waves. The vessel began to plunge in toward the rocks, and everything was confusion. The captain was called, and when he got on deck and saw the danger we were in, he was the maddest man you ever saw, because the officer hadn't called him earlier. He tore around the deck, getting hotter every minute and cursing everybody and everything, and the danger got no better fast. Finally the captain reached a white heat and every man on board felt that his time had come, when, by a miracle, we were saved."

"A miracle! What was it? What was it?" cried the crowd of eager listeners.

"It was a miracle, boys, a perfect miracle! We just turned the hose on the fiery captain, and raised steam enough to set the engines going and carry the vessel out to sea safely, away from the deadly rocks of the wave-washed shore."

"Bet me up and send me home," groaned the man from Chicago, and nobody else spoke.

He Was Calm.

The other day a tramp entered an office in Chattanooga and requested the loan of money enough to buy him a ticket to Nashville, where he said loving relatives were anxiously expecting him and would give him the money on his arrival to return the borrowed money.

The old gentleman, who was busily at work, replied sharply that he didn't have any money to lend, and when the tramp still persisted, abruptly ordered him out. The dead-beat retorted impudently, and this irritated the gentleman to such a degree he leaped to his feet and gave his unwelcome visitor a kick which landed him sprawling on the sidewalk.

When the tramp scrambled up and saw a number of people looking and laughing, he remarked, with a deprecatory wave of his hand, as he moved on:

"You needn't laugh, gentlemen. I am perfectly calm; as calm as a May morning."—Chattanooga People's Paper.

Has a Son Here.

"What! you live in Detroit!" she said to a Michigander as they happened to fall into conversation on a train in Southern Ohio.

"Yes'm."

"Why, I've got a son there!"

"Indeed."

"Yes, sir—just went up there two week ago."

"Going into business, I suppose."

"Yes, sir, he is. He's gone up there to take lessons of a man who is going to learn him how to make a short-haired reporter!"

The Wolverine did a heap of thinking before he decided that she meant "shorthand."

PLEASE READ THIS.

The writer is Mr. W. O. Lathen of Plympton, N.S. I commenced coughing and raising blood last spring and consulted two doctors and took their medicines, but obtained no relief. I was greatly alarmed, the more so because my father's family died of consumption. I am now well. I was cured by Dr. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam. Good testimony reply given. There are hundreds like it. In all cases of coughs, colds, and throat diseases and lung diseases including asthma, bronchitis and all their tribe, Dr. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam is invaluable.

BANKS AND BANK-NOTES.

A Few of the Stories Told of the Greatest Bank in the World.

All the Year Round, Oct. 1: On one occasion the Bank of England proved much too accommodating for its own interests. Somewhere about the year 1840 one of its own directors, a man of wealth and unimpeachable honor, bought an estate for £300,000, and for convenience sake obtained a note for that amount. On returning home, just as he was about to put it under lock and key, he was called out of the room, and placed the note on the mantlepiece. On coming back, a few minutes later, no note was to be seen. No one had entered the room in his absence, and, after an anxious search, he came to the conclusion that the precious bit of paper had fallen into the fire and been consumed. Hurrying off to Threadneedle street he told his colleagues what had happened, and they gave him a second note on his undertaking to restore the lost one if it should come again into his hands, and, in case of its being presented by anyone else, repay the amount to the bank.

Thirty years afterward, when he had long been dead and his estate distributed among his heirs, the supposed non-existent note turned up at the bank counter, where it was presented for payment. All explanation of the circumstances connected with it were lost upon the presentee—the note had come to him from abroad in the course of business, and it must be honored without delay. There being no help for it, he was paid the £300,000. Application was made to the representatives of the defunct director to refund the money, but they promptly disclaimed their liability, and the bank perforce had to put up with the loss. The story goes that it was discovered (how or when we are not informed) that the builder employed to pull down the dead man's house, preparatory to rearing a new one on the site, had found a note in the crevice of the chimney, and kept it and his own counsel until he thought it was safe to reap the reward of his patience and unscrupulousness, and so became a rich man at a stroke.

The executors of Sir Robert Burdett found no less than £270,000 worth of bank notes scattered here and there about his house, some slipped into bundles of old papers, some between the leaves of books, without a memorandum anywhere to apprise them of the existence of such valuables, much less of their whereabouts. A little better advised were the executors of the gentleman who left behind him a scrap of paper marked, "Seven hundred pounds in till," although they failed to interpret its meaning until they had disposed of all the dead man's belongings. Then one of them recollected that his library had contained a folio edition of Tillotson's Sermons, and wondered if "Till" had any reference to it. The books had been sold to a bookseller, who luckily had not found a customer for them, although he had sent it on approval to a gentleman at Cambridge, who had returned them as not answering his expectations. The executor bought the Tillotson back again, and going carefully through the volume, recovered notes to the amount of £2,500.

The watchman of a factory at New Haven, America, afforded the administrators of his estate no clew whatever as to the hiding-place of the savings, of which they believed him to have died possessed. Overhauling his clothes preparatory to selling them by auction, one of them threw an old overcoat aside, when a dirty piece of cloth dropped out of one of the pockets. On examination this was found to be wrapped around a large cartridge-shell, within which lay notes of $1,800 value, which, but for a mere chance, might unexpectedly have enriched a purchaser of second-hand clothing.

Some 60 years since a Bank of England £5 note was paid into a Liverpool merchan's office in the ordinary course of business. On holding it up to the light to test its genuineness the cashier saw some faint red marks upon it. Examining them closely, he traced some half-effaced words between the printed lines and upon the margin of the note, written apparently in blood. After a long and minute scrutiny he made out the words: "If this note should fall into the hands of John Dean, of Longhill, near Carlisle, he will learn hereby that his brother is languishing a prisoner in Algiers." The merchant immediately communicated with Mr. Dean, and he lost no time in bringing the matter before the Government. Inquiries were set on foot, and the unfortunate man discovered and ransomed. He had been a slave to the Dey of Algiers for eleven years when the message he had traced with a splinter of wood dipped in his own blood reached the Liverpool counting-house. Liberty, however, came too late; the privations and hardships of the galleys had snapped his strength, and although he was brought home to England, it was but to die.

—Of all the intoxicating beverages beer is the foam most.

—A man good at putting two and two together—Oscar Wilde.

—A pawnbroker is deserving of sympathy. He is a lone creature.

—Some college boys, after titles, get that of A. B. And then, again, some get the G. B.

—Because a woman "figures in society" it is no sign that she knows the multiplication table.

—All of the literary women of America write poetry, but not that proportion of them spank babies.

—If there is any one thing more contrary than an obstinate woman, it is a right-handed lock on a left-handed door.

—This being leap year, girls who take swimming lessons next summer will be privileged to kick out like a man.

—Some one asks: How long is a man a bridegroom? We believe it is fashionable now not to skip out for two months.

—She—"Do you believe in love at first sight?" He—"Certainly, my dear; I've loved more than a hundred women at first sight."

—"Have you anything against Brother Watson?" "Nuffin', boss; not do fust thing. Only he's a clergyman. But he may be an hones' man for all dat."

—There are some marriages which remind us of the poor fellow who said, "She couldn't get any husband and I couldn't get any wife, so we got married."

The Wonderful Power

of Shaker Blood Syrup, in eradicating every form of Scrofula, has been so clearly and fully demonstrated, that it leaves no shadow of doubt about its being the greatest medical discovery of this generation.

"My son had several ugly scrofulous sores between the ankle and knee of his right leg. He has taken two bottles of Shaker Blood Syrup, the sores have disappeared, and he seems to be free from his humor."

T. J. AKELEY,
Carriage Manufacturer.
Portland, Me.

I have been afflicted with cancerous and scrofulous humor from infancy. My mother, sister and brother died of this terrible disease. Before I had taken one bottle of Shaker Blood Syrup I began to improve, and am now nearly well.

MRS. J. J. CASMPBELL,
92 Townsend Street,
Syracuse, N.Y.

Shaker Blood Syrup cured one of my patients who had been confined to his bed for several months with Mercurial Rheumatism. Without the remedy he would have died. I have used it for skin diseases with marked success.

JOHN D. WILBUR,
Westerly, R. I.
7i

Baxter's Mandrake Bitters cure indigestion, Heart Burn, Costiveness and all malarial diseases. 25 cents per bottle. 8t

Spiritual Gardening.

The great Goethe never allowed a day to pass without reading a little poem or studying carefully some little work of art. He gave himself deliberately each day a little time for good and peaceful thought: he did a little spiritual weeding systematically every day. And you will find that you will have to do with yourselves as you do with your gardens—you will have to weed one bed at a time. The secret of growing pure thought and holy feeling is the same. Flowers cannot bear crowding any more than men can; nor can honesty and independence, and the finer forms of thought and feeling, bear it more than flowers. They run up again when crowded—gaining height at the expense of health—into weediness, seediness and want of full life. And so in a man; some such fate is his, unless he resolutely sets himself to work to keep clear room for his own soul to grow in. Unless he do this he will find every lofty principle, every high belief, choked within himself, until the very heavens are forgotten,

The Ingersoll Chronicle

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

THURSDAY, JULY 3, 1884.

THE cholera scare in Europe continues, and the plague appears to be spreading. It will be much easier to bar the disease out than to banish it if it should once get admission into the country. Keep the town clean.

THE Times says:—The equalization of the town assessment by the County Council is $1,702,214. This is higher than the assessors' return for the present year. We believe the towns and villages of this county are equalized at a higher rate than any other county in Ontario. As an instance of what is done in other places we might mention Stratford, the total value of all property as returned by the assessors' of that town is $2,428,930, and the County Council equalized them at $1,450,000, a reduction from their actual assessment of nearly one million dollars. This is extraordinary generosity, when compared with what is dealt out to Woodstock; but even with this Stratford is not satisfied, and they have decided to appeal against the equalization. If the representatives of towns and villages in this county had sufficient backbone in them to appeal, the municipalities they represent would have considerable less taxes to pay.

OUR Washington correspondent writes;—If Congress shall adjourn by the 5th of July most of the democratic members will go direct to Chicago to attend the convention. Unless Congress adjourns many who want to go will be forced to remain here. The feeling at the Capitol is that Congress should adjourn to Chicago to prevent a row over the tariff, and the principal object of many of the democratic members of Congress in going to Chicago is to keep a governing eye on tariff agitation. The plan is to restrict the entire discussion to the committee on resolutions, and that committee will sit with closed doors. Strong opposition is manifest, even among the tariff reformers, to any movement looking to extreme tariff declaration in the Chicago platform, but both wings agree to a very postive declaration in favor of the tariff revision and reduction, and to an enunciation of the doctrine that taxes should be laid for revenue. This has been a week of new booms and boomlets. There has been even a resustication of the Tilden talk, but it is hard to discern any fire in the smoke. The talk was not very epidemic, only those who are peculiarly susceptible to maladies a second and third time being affected. It mainly sprung up as the result of the New York conference and action of the Ohio democrats. The Randall boom has advanced several points. His friends are becoming more open in their expressions of the opinion that the Pennsylvanian is the proper man for the democrats to nominate. They say that the Cleveland boom is bursted, and the Randall boom gathers from its ruins. The combination against the New Yorker is generally believed to have been the work of Randall's workers, and it is that if they succeed in getting him out of the way they will begin as vigorously to attack the next strongest man in their way. Their design is to knock out their field in detail. They think that if they can defeat the strong by combining with the weak, the latter will be easily enough gotten rid of when the proper time comes. According to Colonel Thomas Porterhouse Ochiltree, Cleveland is "nowhere." "Cleveland can't be elected." said the Hon. Tom the other evening to a Democratic fellow-member of the House; "Kelly will knife him. I've just come from New York, and I know what I'm talking about. If you want to win you should nominate Joe McDonald or Carlisle; either of them could be elected. So could Ben Butler. Butler is powerful with the Irish, the labor element, and anti-monopolists. He'd poll an immense vote. But nominate Cleveland and you're beaten out of sight. I'm giving you the straight tip," and the red ranger of the Rio Grande shook his gory locks and boarded a Herdic for the Capitol.

THE News is greatly exercised because the political leaders and the press will not discuss the question of Independence. It may not have occured to the News that the Colonial ties with England do not press so heavily on the Canadians, as many of the abuses of our Home Administration, and when they get the provinces so that they (the provinces) will work together in unity, Canadians may turn their thoughts to Independence. There is no doubt that Canada will eventually become an Independent Nation, and we are well assured that a large proportion of the people of Ontario, would prefer, all things being equal, to be separated from the diplomatic control of England; but they are well aware of the fact that the people of the other provinces would not join them in breaking the bonds that have so long bound us to the mother country. The people of the Maritime Provinces, Quebec, and British Columbia, are devotedly attached to English connection, and in severing that link we should lose their co-operation.

Taking the question upon its own merits, what benefits will the change confer upon this country. We are practically independent now, and we are spared the expense of keeping a standing army to defend our coast line, or to preserve the peace between the provinces. We are under the protection of the most powerful nation in the world, and we make them no return for the benefits they confer upon us. We show no more favor to the British than we do to other nations; we tax their goods when they send them into the country, and in every way treat them as foreigners and yet the mother country from a sense of duty protects us from all enemies, and rejoices in our prosperity. To propose such a sweeping change at present from such a rotten sentiment as "national aspirations" shows that the proposer is guided more by a feeling of hostility towards England, than by what his judgement tells him would be conducive to the prosperity to the country.

The grandest idea the human mind has ever conceived and which has enlisted the sympathies and support of great thinkers of all ages and nations, is universal brotherhood. When all nations shall speak the one tongue, be governed by the same laws, and in every act show that they are governed by the principle, the essence of christianity "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Secret Societies have acted as pioneers and show the world that this may be accomplished, and the world at present seems to be drifting fast towards this desirable end. Every act that tends to the setting up of small nations in place of a great confederation, is a step back in the march of civilization. The curse of Europe to-day is the number of petty states with their senseless jealousies and bickerings, and the master mind that brings them all under the one government, whether it be done by eloquence or by the sword will be looked upon in future ages as the greatest benefactor of Europe.

NEWS NOTES.

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM ALL SOURCES.

Personal and General Gossip.

General Norton is arranging for an American exhibition in London in 1886.

Mr. Lowell, U. S. Minister in London, is suffering from a severe attack of the gout.

The gross earnings of the Suez Canal during 1883 were $18,000,000, and the dividends amount to about 13 per cent.

Prospects of an early and abundant harvest in the whole of the North-West Territory are very promising.

Oscar Wilde and his bride have returned to London. It is reported that he is letting his hair grow long again.

A despatch says that the Princess Louise is not in good health, and that she will shortly proceed to Marienbad.

The Turkish ambassador to England was present at the preliminary meeting at the Egyptian conference held in London on Saturday.

The Presbyterian Council, at present in session in Belfast, is endeavouring to raise £5,000 on behalf of the ancient Moravian and Bohemian churches.

A diplomatic conference is to be held at Berne, in Switzerland, next September to discus measures for the protection of literary and artistic copyright.

Two Americans have been arrested in Tullamore, the capital of King's county, in the middle of the Bog of Allen, by the Irish police on suspicion of being conspirators.

Sir Richard Cartwright had a narrow escape of losing an eye in Kingston on Saturday, being encountered in turning a corner by a man carrying a board, which fortunately only shifted his hat.

The steamer Bothnia is taking out £75,000 in American gold to the New York agents of the Bank of Montreal. Money is a drug in London at from one to one and a half per cent.

The repeal of the pre-emption laws by the House of Representatives is causing great excitement in the North-West States, and energetic protests are being forwarded to Washington from all points.

Pere Hyacinthe, in a recent interview, praised highly the Americans. He says they are permeated with a Christian sentiment which gives force to the nation, and they are the right material to form a self-governing people.

A Mexican mob recently destroyed the Protestant mission at Celloca, firing upon the missionaries as they escaped, without doing any harm. The latter, returned the fire, killing one and wounding several of their assailants, who then dispersed.

It is stated that the President of the United States will issue a proclamation remitting the collection of taxes on vessels trading with Canada immediately on receiving notice of reciprocal action on the part of the Dominion authorities.

Some remarkable murders have been committed in various parts of the United States by mere children recently, but the latest reported eclipses all others, being the beating to death with a stick by a nine-year-old girl of her sister, aged five, in a North Carolina village.

Wing Chang, a young Chinaman, was arrested at Waco, Texas, on Saturday. On his person was found a forged draft for $20,000, purporting to be drawn by the Clarinda National Bank, of Clarinda, Ia., on the First National Bank of Chicago, and endorsed in Wing's favor.

During a heavy thunderstorm which prevailed over the North-West on Thursday night a house at St. Boniface was struck by lightning and its owner killed in bed, a companion being temporarily paralyzed. Five other occupants of the house were also affected by the same shock, but received no injury.

It is stated in Montreal that the Ontario and Quebec Railway, which was to be opened on the 1st of July, cannot be got ready for passenger traffic until August 1st. The cause of the delay arises from the line running through a swamp which appears to have no solid bottom, for as soon as a portion caves in and is filled up again, the first heavy train passing over causes another opening to occur.

An Englishman, got up in high style, with plausible manners, passed four fifty pound notes, professing them to be genuine Bank of England ones, on an Exchange broker in Montreal on Saturday, getting in return twelve hundred dollars for what turned out to be counterfeit. He tried to do the same on others, but failed. It appears he came here from Chicago, and was successful in that city before his frauds were discovered. The date on the notes is May 16th, 1883. The counterfeit is not easily detected unless by an expert.

A. B. Warner, of A. B. Warner & Son, corn dealers, was found dead in Sixty-fourth street, New York, on Friday. A German passing through the streets early in the morning saw a coach stop and several men remove from it a body, which they desposited on the sidewalk. They then drove away. There were no marks of violence on the body. The police are investigating. It is thought the man met with foul play. His father said he had considerable money on his person. Several letters were found on the body containing demands for money, and threatening summary vengeance if it was not forthcoming. Warner left his residence yesterday morning. He was treasurer of the company with which he was connected.

The Canada Pacific Railway has been successful in accomplishing an arrangement with the Michigan Central for a direct all-rail route to Detroit, Chicago, and all points west, south-west and north-west. The new through line is composed of the eastern division of the Canada Pacific Railway from Montreal to Smith's Falls, via Ottawa, and the Ontario and Quebec to Toronto, thence by the Credit Valley to St. Thomas, where connections will be made with the Michigan Central Railway. The route is longer than by the Grand Trunk, but this effect will be obviated by running trains at a high rate of speed. It will be open for passenger traffic when the Ontario and Quebec line is in order. Two through fast express trains with the finest equipment of passenger coaches and sleepers will run through daily without change. Dining saloons will be located at convenient stations along the route.

THE BIDDULPH TRAGEDY.

James Carroll, One of the Accused in the Mountains.

Winnipeg Sun.

Laggan, June 24.—Two months ago a man turned up on Mackenzie's contract west of here who was recognized by the foreman as James Carroll, the constable, who was alleged to have been the ring-leader of the masked men who massacred the Donnelly family in the township of Biddulph, Ont., in 1879. Carroll, it will be remembered, was tried and acquitted with the rest of the accused. On being challenged by the foreman on his arrival this man admitted that he was the veritable James Carroll. He is in bad health, and goes moaning about the place as if greatly disturbed in mind. The doctor has tried to fix him up, but says "medicine can't cure him." The gang on the work treat Carroll kindly, and no reference is ever made within his hearing to the dreadful crime of which he was accused. It is probable he will be sent east in a few days. He has not done a week's work in the two months.

A CIRCUMSTANCE connected with the late meeting of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church worthy of mention was the presence of a deputation from the Church of England Synod of the diocese of Toronto to convey to the assembly the latter's fraternal greetings. Subsequently a Presbyterian delegation visited the synod and gave expression to similar sentiments. Last week a Church of England depution visited the Toronto Methodist conference, which was reciprocated by a delegation from the conference. In church matters men's views appear to be widening.

A Brantford Elopement.

A white woman named Smith has eloped with a colored man, leaving her husband, but taking three of her children. The negro only came out of jail two or three days ago from serving a year's sentence. The husband will move for a habeas corpus at Toronto to get his children back.

FOREIGN NEWS ITEMS.

REV. NEWMAN HALL'S FESTIVAL.

LONDON, June 29.—The great event of next Friday will be the 4th of July festival to be given by the Rev. Newman Hall, pastor of Christ church, who will be remembered as America's most eloquent friend in England during the civil war, and as the founder of the "Lincoln tower," which was opened July 4, 1876, and was erected, chiefly through Mr. Hall's exertions, as an international monument to Abraham Lincoln.

AN ENGLISH STEAMER SEIZED BY SPAIN.

A despatch from Gibraltar says a Spanish revenue cutter recently seized a British steamer a mile from the batteries. The cutter subsequently released the steamer, but took a passenger to Algeciras as a hostage. The Governor of Gibraltar has ordered an inquiry.

SPANISH DESERTERS SHOT.

At a meeting of the Spanish Cabinet, King Alfonso presiding, it was decided that two officers found guilty of desertion last April be shot immediately. The Government urged this severity as necessary to preserve discipline in the army. The decision has caused a painful sensation, the newspapers, senators and deputies using their utmost endeavors to obtain a commutation of the sentence, but without avail. The sentence was carried out on Saturday morning, and the two officers were shot at Gerona.

THE BOUNDARY QUESTION.

Her Majesty in Council has granted an order for the reference of the Ontario boundary question to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. The petition from Ontario and Manitoba making the request was laid before her Majesty in Comcil, and the hearing of the question was fixed for the 15th of July next.

FEMALE SUFFRAGISTS.

The woman suffragists are devoting themselves to the work of educating British public opinion to the necessity of according the ballot to women by exposing the partiality with which English law is administered to those male taxpayers who possess the corrective power of the vote.

THE ITALIANS AT ZEYLEH.

An Aden despatch says the purpose of the Italian man-of-war Castel Fidardo, in its recent visits to Zeyleh with threats of bombardment, was to force the Governor of that place to pay an indemnity to the family of Sheikh Aburrahman, who was protege of Italy, and to restore the family property which belonged to the Sheikh.

THE CABLE POOL.

The cable pool, which has Mr. John Pender for its head, are closely watching every move made by the Bennett-Mackay people. They will probably take no definite action, however, in the shape of rate cutting until the success of the new enterprise is assured.

REDUCTION OF IRISH RENTS.

A cable despatch says that the returns already in show that the total reductions made in the rents of the Irish peasantry by the land commissioner will amount this year to nearly £3,000,000. The effect of this reduction is that it leaves for circulation among a people numbering five million an increased sum of $15,000,000 and reduces taxation three dollars per capita.

If not Parnell, Sexton.

BOSTON, June 30.—Parnell has written a letter, stating that if he is unable to attend the Irish National convention here in August, Sexton will come in his place.

Arranging for a Quiet Funeral.

NEW HAVEN, June 30.—Captain Tayler, of Bath, Me., will start shortly on a trip across the Atlantic in a sixteen-foot boat.

TORONTO KEEPS THE CHAMPIONSHIP

Victorious by Three Games to One—Fine Combined Play by the Home Twelve—Immense Attendance.

TORONTO, June 30th.

The championship in lacrosse still remains in Toronto, the match on Saturday being comparatively an easy victory for the home team, which won the first, third and fourth games, the Shamrocks only getting the second. The match was played on the Rosedale ground, and had for spectators the largest and most brilliant gathering ever seen in this city at any game. The large stand on the west side of the grounds was filled with ladies dressed in light and bright summer colors, while the space in front of the stand and within the fence was packed with men and boys all anxious to see the game. There was no rough play, and whenever the men were ordered to stop to settle any slight dispute, the command was obeyed.

The Toronto team was, on the whole, as good a one as ever was got together in the history of the game in this city. They were in good form and played in the most scientific fashion. Their strongest point was in their combined play, in which they altogether overmatched their opponents; but not only did they show combined play and scientific play, but the second most important feature was the speed at which they drove the game. Never before was lacrosse rushed at such a pace as the Toronto men made it go, and this was altogether at variance with the policy of the Shamrocks, who were relying on wearying their opponents; but in this they failed. The Shamrocks were weakened, so they say, for the want of practice, their grounds at Montreal being out of use owing to the improvements recently made. The Shamrock team is made up of men who have the build, the muscle and the stamina to play lacrosse in first-class fashion, and once they get into practice we know they will prove formidable opponents of the champion team; but as it was on Saturday the Toronto team played all around them. Time after time one of the Toronto players would take the ball away from three of the Montrealers. If the Shamrocks hope to succeed there is nothing for them to do but to get down to practice. They have got the men who can play the Torontos their hardest game, if they only get them into form.

Rowdy Religion.

Under the head of "Rowdy Religion," the staid and sober Saturday Review, England, attacks the salvationists and demands that their noisy and offensive street parades be put a stop to if there is any law for doing so, and if not, that laws to that end be enacted. The "Salvation Army" has certainly managed to make itself an offence wherever it has gone, and while many of the churches have hesitated to take issue with it, lest they should prevent some possible good, a strong doubt has been entertained by many if not most thinking friends of religion whether the kind of work accomplished by such methods was not more harmful than salutary. Of course the argument on behalf of the Army is that it reaches people whom the churches do not reach. But the real question must still be whether it reaches any one to any purpose, and whether its profane and tawdry methods can do more than produce a spurious imitation of religion.

In Cleveland, (U. S.,), the leaders of the Salvationists have been tried and sentenced. Justice Hutchins in delivering judgment against them, said: "The city of Cleveland charges these individuals with creating a disturbance. The question is not whether they have a right to worship God according to the dictates of their own consciences or whether they have a right to adopt measures of their own. The question involved was whether these people were Guilty of Creating a Disturbance, leaving out entirely the fact that they were of the Salvation Army. The facts shown in this hearing were that these people were out on the streets in the evening blowing horns, beating drums, and shouting at the same time, creating a great deal of noise and disturbance. Suppose these people had not been members of the army, but on the contrary a lot of fellows who had been out on a spree and were found under the same circumstance, would any one doubt that the police had a right to arrest, and the court to fine them for their illegal performances? When they came upon the streets and created a disturbance, however, they would be dealt with by the court the same as any other disturbers. They claimed to be followers of the Saviour, but he had yet to hear of the meek and lowly Saviour going through the streets of Jerusalem playing on a bass drum."

THE FEDERAL BANK.

Investigation into its Affairs.

TORONTO, June 30.

A meeting of the representatives of the banks in Toronto was held at the office of the Ontario Bank at noon on Saturday, to consider the position of the Federal Bank. A committee consisting of Mr. Yarker, Manager of the Bank of Montreal, Mr. Anderson, General Manager, and Mr. Kemp, Assistant General Manager of the Bank of Commerce, Mr. Plummer, Assistant General Manager of the Merchant's Bank, Mr. Holland, General Manager of the Ontario Bank, Mr. Coulson, Cashier of the Bank of Toronto, and Mr. Wilkie, Cashier of the Imperial Bank, were appointed, who, after a careful examination of the assets, were satisfied that the bank is solvent beyond question, and abundantly able to meet all its liabilities, and that under competent management the business can go on without interruption. The committee having learned that the Board had endeavored to secure the services of Mr. Yarker, pressed that gentleman to accept the position, and, at a meeting of the Board held in the evening, he was formally appointed to and accepted the office of General Manager of the Federal Bank of Canada. The fullest confidence in the report of the Committee and the appointment of Mr. Yarker was expressed by the managers of the Bank of British North America, Merchant's, Dominion and Standard Banks, who were present, but had not acted on the committee.

THE CHOLERA.

Deaths at Toulon said to be Eight to Ten Daily.

TOULON, June 29.—There have been four deaths from cholera during eighteen hours.

MADRID, June 29.—The authorities will quarantine English shipping unless England adopts precautions against cholera.

MARSEILLES, June 29.—Two deaths from cholera during to-day. There is no cholera in the hospital here, and the Board of Health issue clean bills of health.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The United States Consul at Marseilles has telegraphed that cholera has reached there. There were six deaths up to Saturday noon. The weather is very warm, and a general exodus from the city has begun.

OTTAWA, June 28.—A proclamation has been issued ordering the quarantining of all vessels from Toulon and Marseilles sailing direct to Canadian ports, as well as all vessels from those places touching at foreign ports previous to coming to Canada.

LONDON, June 30.—Special reports show more deaths by cholera in France than the official returns, and the truthfulness of the latter is distrusted. The chief of the naval health department reports the victims at Toulon as eight to ten daily. There are sixty-two cases in the naval hospitals.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION.

Destruction of Life and Property by the Explosion of a Mill Boiler.

STRYKER, Ohio, June 29.—The boiler of Von Behren & Shaffer's flour mill exploded last evening, blowing the mill to atoms, and burying over thirty men. Eleven of them were recovered in a dying condition. All were heads of families. Pieces of the boiler, machinery, and building were thrown half a mile. One piece of the boiler was thrown against a dwelling a quarter of a mile distant, taking the roof away and seriously injuring two occupants. The cause of the explosion is unknown. Engineer Foster was blown 200 feet, and so badly hurt that he soon died. E. R. Ayers was blown through the roof, striking the ground 200 feet away. He cannot live, as every limb in his body was broken. W. Roof, taken out of the debris after several hours' labor, is dying. His cries for help came from beneath the ruins for five hours. Women, whose husbands were among the victims, filled the air with their cries.

Bradstreet's Weekly Report.

NEW YORK, June 30.—The general situation throughout the United States remains without improvement. At some of the principal distributing centres mentioned in Bradstreet's last week as shipping goods freely, there has been a marked falling off in the number of orders received. The stringency in the money market at many important centres has increased, discounts ranging from six to nine per cent., and few other than regular customers finding accommodation at all. In the wheat-growing regions the banks are reserving their cash to aid the movement of the crops. Merchants generally find themselves cramped by a curtailment of discounts, and mercantile collections in consequence thereof have been seriously delayed. The outlook for the growing crops continues excellent. The only discouraging prospect reported is from North-western Kansas, owing to the wet weather and fears of rust; elsewhere the reports are unanimously favorable. From California, advices to Bradstreet's by telegraph last evening say that the late rains did no damage to the growing wheat, and that earlier estimates of 57,000,000 bushels are considered good. The market has been a slow, declining one.

Wool has continued very quiet; the dulness of the goods trade and tight money market unsettles confidence and cripples business at all points.

There were 23 failures in Canada reported to Bradstreet's during the past week, an increase of six from the preceding week, and against 12 and 27 respectively in the corresponding weeks of 1882 and 1883.

In the United States there were 153 failures during the week as compared with 187 in the preceding week, and 165, 153 and 103 respectively in the corresponding weeks of 1883, 1882 and 1881.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[The editor of THE CHRONICLE does not hold himself responsible for the opinions expressed by correspondents.]

Lux Historial.

To the Editor of THE CHRONICLE.

SIR,—The author of "The Bible and Its Value" in paper nine, courteously asks the intelligent reader to look at his question a moment in the light of history. I do so, and find in a Roman Chronology the following: "In the faithful affection of such a husband, Agrippina could not fail to enjoy the most exalted species of human felicity. Inspired by the same taste, they equally disdained the puerile amusements which are necessary to fill the heavy hours that would otherwise be insupportable to the rich and idle. Minds so accomplished as those of this amiable pair are too opulent to require the aid of such poor resources. Susceptible of all the delicate and refined pleasures which the contemplation of the works of genius can produce, they devoted their leisure to the study of the best authors, and enjoyed the luxury of conversing with the most illustrious characters."

Tacitus says, in speaking of the concluding period of republican virtue, "the son of every family was the legitimate offspring of a virtuous mother. The infant, as soon as born, was not consigned to the mean dwelling of a hireling nurse, but was reared and cherished in the bosom of a tender parent, to regulate all household affairs, and attend to her infant race, was, at that time, the glory of the female character." A matron related to the family, and distinguished by the purity of her life, was chosen to watch the progress of the tender mind. In her presence not one indecent word was uttered, nothing was done against propriety and good manners. The hours of study and serious employment were settled by her direction, and not only so, but even the diversions of the children were conducted with modest reserve and sanctity of manners. The consequence of this regular discipline was, that the young mind grew up in innocence, unstained by vice, unwarped by irregular passions, and under that culture received the seeds of science." And this was Pagan Rome.

How much the advocacy of the Bible has had to do with the establishment of monogamy it is impossible to say, yet this we know, that had we not a Bible, we should still have monogamy.

Wise rulers understanding nature gave to their subjects the monogamistic law.

By the process of natural selection, polygamy must be crushed out. It is but a matter of time.

Your subscriber does not appear to be acquainted with Roman history, and he is rather uncharitable to many a noble woman of later times, and of the present day, when he affirms "Bible Christianity alone gives the gentler sex the true dignity of womanhood, restoring them from Kaffirism to life's true and noble mission."

Harriet Martineau is considered by many "a queenly author of modern literature," and she at least did not "owe her influence and general comfort to the Bible."

That Christ taught the purest moral doctrine possible is undoubtedly true, and Christ was a great and good man, but he was not the first, and many have succeeded him.

He who uses such terms as "God's purposes" and "infinite truth" should have some thought for the intelligent reader, and explain to him their meaning.

GEO. W. HUNT.

Beachville, 16th June, 1884.

Salt Rheum.

Salt Rheum, Pimples or Blotches can be thoroughly removed by a proper application of McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate to the part, and a few doses of McGregor's Speedy Cure for impure blood. Be sure and get the genuine. Prepared by McGregor & Parke. Sold at 25 cents at Gayfer and Kneeshaw's drug store.

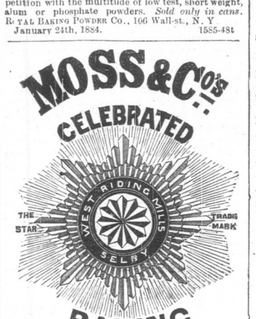
ALL kinds of canned goods guaranteed good at Beck's. 80.

ENGRAVED calling cards at the CHRONICLE office.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.



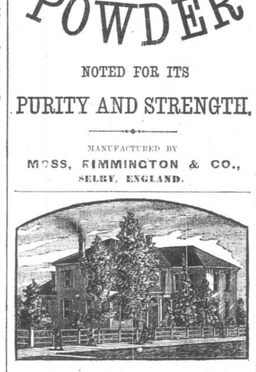
This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength, and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall-st., N. Y.

January 21th, 1884. 1585-48t

MOSS & Co's

CELEBRATED



BAKING POWDER

NOTED FOR ITS

PURITY AND STRENGTH.

MANUFACTURED BY

MOSS, FIMMINGTON & CO., SELBY, ENGLAND.

Woodstock Sanitarium

Turkish, Electric and Other Baths.

L. H. SWAN, M.D., - Proprietor,

The Sanitarium has been arranged to afford invalids a pleasant home, with the advantage of being constantly under the supervision of the Medical attendant, assisted by experienced nurses.

The Turkish Bath consists of a full suite of rooms, and in reality is a combination of the hot and cold air and hot and cold water baths, with mas age or friction.

The services of a Nurse from one of the best English Infirmaries, and an experienced man to take charge of the Baths have been secured.

Inhalation and antiseptic air for Throat and Lung Diseases.

Electricity, in its various forms, used when indicated.

T. Spencer Wells, London's eminent Surgeon, says, "I have treated with great success, by the Turkish Bath, cases of gout, rheumatism, neuralgia, paralysis, and diseases of the kidneys, and particularly recommend it as a promoter of health and prevention of disease."

Dr. Barton, Surgeon, Tyne Infirmary where twelve thousand patients are treated annually, says, "Another years' experience has confirmed my former opinion of the great value of the Turkish Bath in cases of rheumatism, chronic bronchitis, diseases of the liver, dropsy, catarrh, and skin diseases."

"If consumption is to be cured the hot air bath is the remedy from which I should anticipate the best success."—Dr. Eramus Wilson, F.R.S., London.

The New York Medical Gazette, Feb. 25, says, "in removing irregularities of the uterine system the Turkish Bath possesses unparalleled efficiency."

Change of Business

The undersigned begs leave to announce that he has purchased the

HARNESS MAKING BUSINESS

From T. FEIGHTNER, and will in a few days have

A Complete Stock of Goods

In all the departments of the

Best Material and Newest Designs

To be had in the market and hopes to receive a liberal share of the public patronage.

WM. TRIPP.

June 19th, 1884. 1603

COAL OIL STOVES.

The Greatest Success of the Day.

Delight. Fairy Queen. Universal. Golden Star.

Economical! Simple! Convenient and Safe!

Will do the work of an ordinary cooking range at a cost of ONE CENT PER HOUR.

Prices from $4.50 to $15.00.

Call and See the Oil Stove working at

S. KING'S.

A full line of Stoves and Tinware.

Ingersoll, June 5th, 1884. 1604t

Ingersoll Greenhouse,

THAMES-ST., near C.V.R. Station.

BEFORE PURCHASING YOUR

House & Bedding Plants

CALL AND SEE

MRS. HEATH'S

Stock, which will be found in finer condition than in any previous year.

Hanging Baskets, Rustic Vases, Settees, &c., in great variety.

Roses—Monthly, Hybrid and Perpetual, in large and small plants. Mailing size 10 for $1.00.

A choice collections of Dahlias, ready June 1st.

Hanging Baskets and Vases filled with choice plants and best care.

Funeral Designs and Cemetery Decorations a specialty.

Wedding Bouquets and all cut flower work as usual.

All kinds of Fruits and Vegetables in their season.

Button Hole Boquets 10 cts Each.

May 1st, 1884. 1590tf

ADVERTISERS

Before you place a dollar's worth of Newspaper advertising, get our prices. The exact cost of any paper, or list of papers cheerfully furnished, free upon application.

Send for New Catalogue.

J. C. HOUGH,

Advertising Agent,

HOUGH BLOCK. Detroit, Mich.

Boy's Underwear,

SIZES

16 18 20 22 24 26 28 30 32.

Mens' Underwear,

SIZES

34 36 38 40 42 44 46 in,

CHEAP AT

W. E TURNER'S

Successor to R. A. Garlick,

174 Dundas Street, London.

June 4th, 1884. 1604

JAS. McINTYRE

UNDERTAKER.

HAS REMOVED BACK TO HIS old stand in the

NEW BRICK BLOCK.

A Large Stock of COFFINS, and CASKETS HEADS and ROBES on hand.

FURNITURE

All kinds in stock. Residence first house north of warehouse, King street, Ingersoll. nber 22, 1881.

THE

"Little Wonder."

Me and my father, my father and me,
Can sell you the best of Black and Green Tea,
The very best Sugar and choicest of Spice,
With Lard, Pork and Ham, and very good Rice,
In fact all the Groceries you can well name,
My father kept good ones and I'll do the same,
So come with your orders and with your money
For business without is not pleasant as honey.

E. H. HEWITT,

Ingersoll, Nov. 1, 1883. PROPRIETRESS 1578

MUNICIPALITY OF WEST OXFORD.

Public Notice is Hereby Given

THAT THE

COUNCIL of the Corporation OF THE

TOWNSHIP OF WEST OXFORD

After the expiration of

One Month from the date Hereof

Intend passing a By-Law for the purpose of

STOPPING UP AND SELLING

The hereinafter mentioned public highway, which may be known and described as follows, that is to say: All and singular that certain portion of the original allowance for road between the

Fourth and Fifth Concessions

From the Easterly limit of Lot number 13, to the Westerly limit of Lot number 14, in the said

TOWNSHIP OF WEST OXFORD,

And for the purposes aforesaid the Council of said Township of West Oxford, will meet at the

TOWN HALL, BEACHVILLE,

—ON—

Monday the 7th day of July, 1884,

At 10 o'clock a.m., and let all parties govern themselves accordingly.

By order of the Council,

CHAS. MASON,
Township Clerk.

West Oxford, June 2nd, 1884. 1604

NOTICE.

Just Received an Immense Stock of

Wall Papers and Borders

Of the newest designs, which will be offered at VERY LOW PRICES in order to induce customers to commence house cleaning early, at

L. THOMPSON'S,

Wall Paper, Stationery, Oil, Color and Window Glass Store, McCaughey' Block, Thames Street.

Ingersoll, February 7th, 1884. 1587

FUNDS FOR INVESTMENT.

A large amount of FUNDS FOR INVESTMENT to parties applying at once, AT SIX PER CENT.

J. C. HEGLER.

Ingersoll, Nov. 29, 1883. 1557c-m

FOR SALE.

The Stone House and Outbuildings KNOWN AS

THE PETER CARROLL PLACE,

With 4¾ and 12½ acres of land. Trout pond and stream, orchard and ornamental groves, etc., situated on the London Road, one mile west of the market house, Ingersoll, and just outside the town limits.

For price and terms apply to the undersigned,

JAMES F. McDONALD,
Barrister, Ingersoll.

Feb. 14th, 1884. 88

Fruit Store.

WE HAVE THE

Greatest Variety

Of Canned Goods in Ingersoll,

TOMATOES,
BEANS, PEAS,
CORN, APPLES,
PEARS, PLUMS,
PEACHES, CHERRIES,
STRAWBERRIES, PINE
APPLES, SALMON, SARDINES, MUSTARD SARDINES,
AND MACKEREL, CORNED BEEF,
CHICKEN, TURKEY, DUCK, PIGS-FEET, OYSTERS, LOBSTERS,
JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF,
DURKEE'S SALAD DRESSING, ANCHOVY SAUCE,
KETCHUP, AND NUMBERLESS
other articles.
&c., &c.

Oranges, Lemons, Bananas,

Tobaccos, Cigars, Pipes, Etc.

GEORGE BECK.

Sign of the Big Lamp.

TELEPHONE COMMUNICATION.

Ingersoll, April 24th 1884. 1598

NORMAN'S

Electric Belt Institution,

(ESTABLISHED 1874),

4 QUEEN ST. EAST, TORONTO.

Nervous Debility, Rheumatism, Lame Back, Neuralgia, Paralysis, and all Liver and Chest Complaints immediately relieved and permanently cured by using these BELTS, BANDS AND INSOLES.

Circulars and Consultation FREE.

Fever and Ague.

Do not throw money away on worthless remedies, when NORMAN'S ELECTRIC BELTS will cure you. Use one and you will find immediate benefit. Every one is guaranteed genuine.

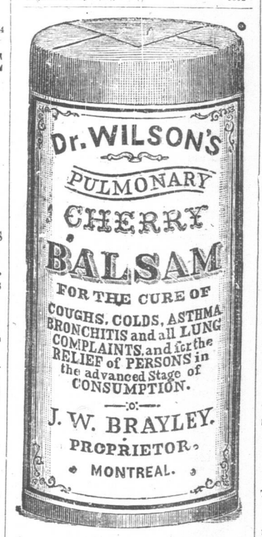
Canada Pacific Railway.

ONTARIO DIVISION.

COMMENCING MONDAY, MAY 19, 1884.

Trains leave Ingersoll as follows:

GOING EAST.	GOING WEST.
5.55 a.m.	7.18 a.m.
12.30 a.m.	10.47 a.m.
3.29 p.m.	4.21 p.m.
7.11 p.m.	8.45 p.m.



An additional train will be run in connection with the

Canadian Pacific Steamship Line,

Leaving Toronto, 11.30 a.m., for Owen Sound.

W. WHYTE, Gen. Supt.
D. McNICOLL, Gen. Pass. Agent.

Ingersoll, May 22nd, 1884. 1602

BUY YOUR

Paris Green

And White Helebore,

Guaranteed Pure, at

D. SECORD'S

DRUG STORE,

THAMES-ST., - INGERSOLL.

April 3rd, 1884.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

WM. C. BELL

Having bought the Lumber belonging to the

Estate of the late ADAM OLIVER

And RENTED THE MILL, he is prepared to execute all

Carpenter & Joiner Work

Entrusted to him. He will also

Contract for Buildings!

OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS,

And supply House Building material at the very lowest prices. It is a well known fact, from the easy financial position of the late firm, they were always ahead of the times in having thoroughly seasoned lumber, and from which all his inside work will be manufactured. A specialty in making

VENETIAN BLINDS,

Which can be made to order in short notice. GIVE HIM A CALL.

WM. C. BELL.

Ingersoll, Feb. 1st, 1883. 1563

GOLD for the working class. Send 10 cents for postage, and we will mail you free a royal, valuable box of sample goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. We will start you. You can work all the time or in spare time only. The work is universally adapted to both sexes, young and old. You can easily earn from 50 cents to $5 every evening. That all who want work may test the business we make this unparalleled offer; to all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Fortunes will be made by those who give their whole time to the work. Great success absolutely sure. Don't delay. Start now. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

Daly House Livery,

J. GUGGISBERG, Prop.

LEADING LIVERY IN TOWN.

Ingersoll, Jan. 3rd, 1884. 1582wy

DAVID WHITE & CO.

New and Scarce Goods

ARRIVING EVERY DAY.

JUST RECEIVED

New White Lacons,
New all over Embroidery,
New Cream and Black Chonchilly Silk Nets,
New Gimpure Embroidery,
Real New Oriental Laces,
New Spot Swiss Muslins, White and Cream,
New Cream Paris Net,
New Real Black Gimpure Laces.

Pure Silk Gloves. Job Line of dollar Kid Gloves for 50c. Black and Coloured Silk Hose. Children's Black Silk and Black Lisle Hose. 50 doz. Ladies' Hose, splendid value, 12½c. Sateen Check, Checked Print, Muslins, splendid stock to choose from.

DAVID WHITE & CO.

Ingersoll, June 26, 1884. 1607

H. RICHARDSON

Richardson's Block, Ingersoll, Ontario,

Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry,

SILVER AND PLATED WARE.

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 1st, 1883.

This is to certify that we have appointed H. RICHARDSON, sole Agent for the sale of the Rockford Quick Train Watch, in Ingersoll, Ontario, and that we will, to the fullest extent, sustain the usual warranty given by him to purchasers of our movements. No warranty whatever attaches to these goods when offered for sale by others than our duly appointed Agent.

ROCKFORD WATCH CO.,
H. P.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS THIS WEEK.

Notice—John S. Sutherland.
Strayed—John Worth.
Special—R. Vance.
Music—W. G. Pugh.

The Ingersoll Chronicle

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

THURSDAY, JULY 3, 1884.

TOWN NEWS.

HAVE THE CHRONICLE sent to you when you take your vacation.

CYCLERS.—A number of Woodstock Bicyclists took a trip to Ingersoll on Monday.

WHEN you go away for a trip, or your friends come to see you, let us have the information for our "personal" column, and thus help to make it interesting.

BASE BALL.—The game of base ball between the Atlantics of London, and the Woodstocks of Woodstock, resulted in a victory for the latter team. Score 19 to 8.

STOLEN.—A hammock was stolen from the verandah of Mr. J. C. B. Galer's residence on Saturday night last. This sort of thing is of frequent occurrence, and a source of much annoyance to our citizens.

NEW BANK.—The Western Bank of Canada has opened a branch office at Tilsonburg, of which Arthur Guy, late of the Ontario Bank, Winnipeg, is manager, and Wm. Rennie, late of the Eastern Townships' Bank, is teller.

TURN OUT.—The members of the Dufferin Lacrosse club are requested to turn out in full force for practice on Monday evening next. Members who have tickets for sale will oblige by making returns to the treasurer as soon as possible.

FESTIVAL.—A grand strawberry and ice cream festival will be given by the Good Templars of this town on Friday evening, July 4th, in the M. E. Church grounds, Charles street, commencing at 6 o'clock. All are invited. A good time is expected.

WHITE CLOVER.—Beekeepers are rejoicing just now that the whole face of nature is a sheet of white, the crop of white clover being the finest ever known. The honey crop promises to be even larger than that of last year, which was the heaviest ever gathered in America.

METHODIST SOCIAL.—On Dominion Day, in accordance with their usual custom, the Ladies' Aid Society of the King Street Methodist Church held their annual strawberry festival at the residence of Mr. Seldon. Owing to the rain the attendance was not large.

STILL ANOTHER. — The Baptists of this town will hold a strawberry and ice cream festival in the beautiful grounds of Mr. F. Wixson, Queen street, on Friday evening, July 4th. This is promised to be the best one of the season. Admission to grounds 10 cents.

A TUMBLE—When the Thamesford stage was about a mile and a half from town yesterday morning the front axle broke, throwing the driver, Mr. Garner, and one of the passengers to the ground. Mr. G. hung on firmly to the reins, and succeeded in stopping the horses before any harm was done. There were nine passengers (who were conveyed to town in another waggon,) besides a quantity of luggage.

LAWN SOCIAL.—A very pleasant lawn party was held at "Evergreen Terrace," the residence of Mr. T. D. Millar, on Monday evening, in connection with St. Andrew's Church. There was a large attendance and a neat little sum was realized from the sale of ice cream, strawberries, flowers, etc. The handsome grounds were illuminated with Chinese lanterns, producing a very pleasing effect.

SPECIALS FOR THE WESTERN FAIR. — E. Caswell, Ingersoll, offers $20 for the best matched pair two-year old, heavy draught fillies owned by exhibitor. Russell & Co., Ingersoll, offer one hay loader, value $80, for best three firkins of butter containing not less than 50 pounds each. The butter taking the prize to become the property of the prize givers and to be separate from other entries.

SATURDAY'S GLOBE.—The Globe of Saturday was in many respects a most remarkable production. It contained 24 pages, 144 columns, of which 91 consisted of advertisements and 53 of reading matter. The number of separate advertisements was 758. The number of separate bits of metal used in the type-setting was 2,706,000. The weight of the paper consumed was 11,875 lbs.

THE Rev. W. H. Shaw, of Lambeth, preached his farewell sermon on Sunday to a large congregation, who greatly regret his departure from their midst. The sermon and text were appropriate to the solemnity of the occasion. Mr. Shaw's residence will in future be at Arkona, but his circuit has been fixed at Warwick, this being one of the many changes in the Methodist pastorate which have been decided upon since the union.

TEMPERANCE MEETING.—The temperance people of Oxford, together with the Blue Ribbon Association of Woodstock, a large number of whom are young people, numbering 700 strong, held a successful demonstration in Woodstock Park on Tuesday. Stirring addresses by Rev. W. A. McKay, Chaplain Searls, of New York State prison, Mayor Grant and others were made. About $200 was raised to further the cause of temperance.

NORTH AND WEST OXFORD AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—A special meeting of the Directors of the above society was held in the Council Chamber on Saturday evening last. A report of the collections for special prizes made by Mr. Thos. Brown, Pres., and Mr. James Brady, was received with much enthusiasm, as it gives assurance of a genuine nature, that the fall show will be superior to any other ever held in Ingersoll. The judges for the various departments were also appointed, besides other important matters. We are glad to know that the citizens of our town are aiding the indefatigable zeal of the Directors so well. A Committee has also been appointed for races and amusements during the fair. We have no hesitation in saying, from present indications, the coming fair will be worthy of both town and country.

LAWN TENNIS—INGERSOLL VS. WOODSTOCK AND ST. THOMAS.—On Saturday afternoon two match games of lawn tennis were played between Ingersoll and Woodstock, and Ingersoll and St. Thomas, on Victoria park here. The weather was delightful, and there was a large attendance, the ladies turning out in strong force. A tent was pitched on the ground from which refreshments were distributed to the friends of the members of the club. Although warm, those present seated under the shade of the magnificent trees of the Park enjoyed the game heartily. The home players were in excellent form and played splendidly as the result shows. Below are the names of the players with the result of the matches:—Woodstock — Longmore, Strong, Clarke, Hart. Ingersoll—A. M. Smith, Woodroofe, Lefroy, Slawson. Eight sets to one in favour of Ingersoll. St. Thomas—Jones, Pratt, Lawson, and Duncan. Ingersoll—Smith, Noxon, Lefroy, and Slawson. Eleven sets to nothing in favour of Ingersoll.

HYMENIAL.—The residence of Mr. R. B. Millar, Woodstock, was the scene of a pleasing event on Wednesday afternoon of last week, the occasion being the marriage of his step daughter Miss Minnie Murray, daughter of the late Wm. Murray, postmaster of Kintore, to Mr. John Thomson, son of Mr. R. Thomson, of the Great Western mills. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. A. McKay, B.A., assisted by Rev. W. S. McTavish. The bridesmaids were Miss Jessie McKay, (daughter of the officiating clergyman), and Miss Barbara McCorquodale, Lakeside; and the groomsmen were Mr. Henry Thomson, of Mitchell, and Mr. Andrew Thomson, brother of the bridegroom. The bride was elegantly attired in white French silk, trimmed with Spanish lace, and her bridal veil being ornamented with a wreath of orange blossoms. The bridesmaids were handsomely dressed in pale blue satin, trimmed with cream lace. The presents were handsome and appropriate. Mr. and Mrs. Thomson left on the noon train for a trip among the Thousand Islands. THE CHRONICLE wishes them joy.

LACROSSE.—INGERSOLL VS. LONDON.—The Dufferin Lacrosse club visited London on Dominion day and succeeded in beating the London East club by three to one. The first game was not a particularly brilliant one in point of playing, and at the end of twenty-three minutes London East secured a goal by a clean shot from Fitzmoses. The second game was not so long and better playing was done on both sides. This time it was the visitors' turn to secure a goal, which they did in fourteen minutes by a throw from W. Smith. Before the third innings was commenced the rain came down in torrents, and the spectators beat a hasty retreat to the nearest sheltering place. The shower, however, passed off in a short time, and the match was resumed. This game was the longest and most closely contested one of the four, and was finally won by the visitors in twenty-five minutes by a second throw from W. Smith. The fourth and last game was very keenly contested, and produced great excitement. It was won by the visitors again in fifteen minutes by a splendid throw from E. Cowan. J. T. Christison acted as umpire for the Dufferins, Mr. Smith of London for the Ontario's, Mr. Geo. Angus referee. W. H. Morrey played the part of field captain in good style. The Dufferins were well entertained by the Ontario's, and say they are jolly good fellows.

$50,000 to Loan on Real Estate at Lowest Rates. Apply to Brown & Wells, Barristers, &c. 1593tf

Dominion Day in Ingersoll.

Victoria Park drew a large number of people on Tuesday to view the Dominion Day celebration conducted by our Fire Brigade. Although the day was hot there was a delightful breeze at the Park, which indeed is a cool spot even on the hottest days, and the crowd in attendance appeared to enjoy their outing greatly. The programme of amusements provided passed off smoothly and satisfactorily, and our firemen and our townspeople who contributed to make up the prize list are deserving of credit for providing amusements to keep people at home and attract others from the country. The judges for the day were Messrs. Tripp, Seldon and Walley. Below is the prize list:—

Trotting Race—H. H. Palmer, Norwich, Maud D., $20; 2nd Benj. Cable, Ingersoll, Happy Lady, $10; 3rd Walter Elliott, Ingersoll, Brown Frank, $5.

Running Race—1st Gurat Dean, $15; 2nd Jos. Wickens, Oxford Queen, $7; 3rd Nelson Borland, Innerkip, Blandford Boy, $3.

Bicycle Race—1st J. W. Holmes, Ingersoll, silver medal; 2nd W. Brydon, silver clock.

Hose Reel Race—Won by Capt. Thompson's team.

Obstacle Race—1st E. Clouse, $3; 2nd P. Lawrence, $2; 3rd David Ely, $1.

Hurdle Race—1st E. Clouse, $3; 2nd John Lynch, $2; 3rd C. Mills, $1.

100-yard Race—1st E. Clouse, $3; 2nd John Lynch, $2; 3rd Robt. Magee, $1.

Wheelbarrow Race—1st E. Clouse, $3; 2nd Robt. Magee, $2; 3rd M. James, $1.

Boys' Race—1st Eugene Lawrence, $2; 2nd John Grant, $1; 3rd divided between Clouse and Carroll, 25 cents each.

Girls' Race—1st Nellie Gammon, $2; 2nd Eda Snider, $1; 3rd Carrie Day, 50c.

Dominion Day at Embro.

Dominion Day was celebrated here in a right royal style. Under the auspices of the Oddfellows a pic-nic was held on Scotia Farm which proved a great success being participated in by two thousand persons. An excellent programme of games and amusements were provided and everything passed off with great glee, the only drawback being a heavy thunderstorm which occurred between 4 and 5 o'clock, causing all to retreat to the nearest possible shelter. The storm proved a very violent one, the lightning leaving its mark on several telegraph posts in the neighborhood of the pic-nic grounds, besides killing a valuable horse and cow within a short distance of the village.

In the evening the Oddfellows gave a grand concert in the old kirk, and notwithstanding the heavy storm prevailing, the building was filled to overflowing, and no wonder, for a better programme provided could hardly be conceived. Miss Ryckman of Hamilton proved the star of the evening, and on rendering her first piece, "Tit for Tat," won the admiration of the audience, who demanded an encore in no unmistakable manner. Miss Ryckman cheerfully responded and was compelled to respond to three other demands during the evening. This lady appeared in excellent voice, and her singing was such as to place her among the first-rate Canadian vocalists. The singing of Mrs. R. I. Warner of St. Thomas was well received. This lady acquitted herself very creditably and was awarded an hearty encore. Mr. Jas. Nichols' selections on the violin were well rendered. This gentleman was also compelled to "double." Prof. Tanney was present and gave a "musical overture." Before singing this selection Mr. Tanney said it was his first time of rendering it; we would advise him to let it be the last. The selection was a libel on the excellent programme, and an affront to the large music-loving audience assembled on this occasion. Such a selection, and the manner of its rendering would blast the reputation of any "professor"—provided he had any to lose. Mr. Joseph Gibson, of Ingersoll, gave an address on Oddfellowship, which proved an excellent one, and elicited the heartiest approbation of his many hearers. We have never heard Mr. Gibson speak better, and his address will be long remembered by those who were present. The Embro Brass Band was in attendance and contributed several pieces in good style before the programme was taken in hand. John Sutherland, Esq., M. P., officiated as chairman, which position he admirably filled. In short the concert was a most successful one, and was a credit to all concerned. A number of the Ingersoll Oddfellows were present and enjoyed themselves immensely. At the close of the concert they were invited by the Embro brethren to partake of supper at the Commercial Hotel, which was served up in grand style. Before parting Bro. Gibson returned thanks on behalf of the Ingersoll visitors to the Embro friends, which was gracefully acknowledged by Bro. Jas. Sutherland, M.P., on behalf of the Embro brethren. When the Embro Oddfellows should ever visit the Ingersoll brethren they may rest assured their kindness will be heartily reciprocated.

A BEAUTIFUL TOWN.—Visitors declare Ingersoll one of the prettiest of inland towns. Its position on the two hills and its shade trees give it the appearance of a town built in a forest. It would be a great deal more attractive, however, were the sidewalks kept in better condition.

ACCIDENT.—A young man named Pettman, son of Mr. Z. Pettman, of the 10th concession of Dereham was jostled off the Canada Southern bridge over the Branford and Tilsonburg railway track by a passing train, on Sunday, and fell to the ground beneath, a distance of twenty feet. One of his little fingers was nearly torn off, and he was considerably bruised.

THROWN FROM HIS HORSE.—At the Park on Tuesday "Blandford Boy," which was crowding pretty hard for second place in the flat race, bolted when opposite the gate, and stumbling, both the horse and his rider, Neil Mines, were thrown against the fence with such force as to tear off a portion. Happily, neither horse or rider were injured, however.

GRAND DEMONSTRATION.—The Y. M. P. B. Association will have a grand demonstration here on the 22nd of August. Visiting brethren from Toronto, Hamilton, Galt and other places will be present. A lacrosse match will be played on the park in the afternoon. Cash prizes will be given for horse races, bicycle races, foot races etc. The 13th Batt. Band of Hamilton, the best in Canada, has been engaged for the day.

INGERSOLL AT THE LONDON ATHLETIC SPORTS.—On Dominion Day Ingersoll showed up to advantage in London at the athletic sports. In addition to winning the lacrosse match several individuals took prizes. E. Eshelby won the silver medal in the quarter-mile race, and took second prize in the running hop step and jump, making 38 feet 4 inch, and second in the running long jump, making 17 feet 5 inches. A. C. Cowan took third in the 100 yard race. Jas. Vance won first prize on the running long jump, making 17 feet 8 inches and third in the running hop step and jump, making 37 feet 4 inches.

"THE FROG HE WOULD A WOOING GO."—At the wheelbarrow race at the Park on Dominion Day, the frogs seemed loth to make the trip and several of them tried before the start to show what leap frog signified in the natural way, and it took all the energies of the competitors to retain their frogships within the bounds of the barrow, but after the start only one of them made a flying leap, which quite nonplussed his owner who was making good progress for second best. According to Mark Twain, No. 6 shot is a good thing to ballast a frog with—it steadies his usually wayward jump.

WITHOUT A BACK-BONE.—It is often said, figuratively speaking, that such an one is minus a back-bone on account of the facility with which he can twist from one side to the other of different questions. There was born in Hawtrey last week a child in whom, literally, this usual part of the human anatomy was absent. The wife of Mr. R. Firman gave birth to the child. In handling a youngster the unusual limberness of the back was noticed, and on examination no bones could be found, and it could be doubled up without hurting it. The child is yet alive and doing well.—St Thomas Journal.

THE SPARROW.—In England, the home of the sparrow, farmers have at length become aroused to the fact that the bird has not a redeeming quality. In some counties the farmers offer six cents per dozen heads for young or old sparrows, or for eggs, until the end of September. It is found that the sparrow will not touch a worm or grub while it can get fruit of any kind, and thus it does more harm than good. If the original importers of the bird had known as much about its predatory habits as has since been discovered by such eminent scientists as Prof. Saunders, of London, the sparrow would never have been added to the list of Canadian birds.

SASH LOCK AND SUPPORT.—The J. H. Stone Manufacturing Co. of Hamilton, Ont., are the sole manufacturers of the above Window Sash Lock and Support for Canada. Their general agent has placed this most complete window lock and support upon the residences of some of our best citizens in a neat and workmanlike manner. All who have them are loud in their praise, and prompt to express their entire satisfaction in securing a real comfort so long wanted. They can be seen upon our Council Chamber windows, the Clerk and Treasurer's offices, the Daily House, the depot and other places. Messrs. Henderson & Henderson have been appointed as their local agents to sell and place these goods upon residences, and are obligated to give full satisfaction to all their customers. Their established reputation as skilled workmen, and prompt business, men will need no comment here. This article is superior to weights and pulleys. At the low cost of 50 to 75 cents per window. Call upon Henderson & Henderson and see the goods. 08

COURT OF REVISION.

The Assessment on Stock.

The court met pursuant to adjournment Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

Present, Messrs. D. Horsman, chairman. Matheson, Buchanan, McInnes, O'Connor.

A. N. Christoph'er's assessment on residence was raised from $4,700 to $4,700.

John Christopher's assessment on residence $2,500 was confirmed.

C H Slawson re old distillery assessed at $3,950. Sworn, think it assessed at twice its value, don't think it could be sold for $2,000. J A Richardson sworn. The Bank wants to get rid of it, offered it at $2,500 as an asset of the Niagara District Bank. Jas. Noxon sworn; think it would be difficult to sell at more than $1,500 to $1,800. Assessed at $2,500

L Thompson's assessment on hotel $1,700, confirmed.

John Smith's assessment on personal property $1,800. Confirmed.

Robt. McKay's assessment on house was raised from $500 to $600.

Peter Stuart & Co. were assessed for personal property $1,200.

C E Chadwick's assessment on residence was reduced from $1,100 to $1,000.

FRIDAY EVENING.

John Smith's appeal on income was dismissed.

W Watterworth's assessment on 9½ acres and residence was raised from $2,700 to $3,200, and 2½ acres for $300 was confirmed.

H Campbell, jr., appeal on personal property was dismissed.

Bell Telephone Co's. appeal dismissed.

W N Parson's income was reduced to $400.

MONDAY EVENING.

J C Norsworthy's assessment on 84 acres and residence was raised from $5,200 to $6,500.

James Noxon, stock in Noxon Bros. Mfg. Co., $81,500, assessed at 10 per cent. on amount in accordance with Meredith's advice, $8,150.

Robt. McDonald, stock in Noxon Co., $7,200. Mr Noxon heard, $5,000 is held by one of the Co. by assignment, assessed $220.

Thos Wells, stock, $15,500, assessed $1,550.

D White, stock $3,000, assessed $300.

Thos H Noxon, stock $12,300, assessed $1,230.

R H Cotter, stock $6,000, assessed $600.

Stephen Noxon, stock $12,000, assessed $1,200.

Jas Vine, stock $1,500, assessed $150.

Joseph Longfield asked to be struck off the roll and A G McKitrick entered as owner. Granted.

John Thompson, (B Wood the appellant) to be assessed for lot 4, West Oxford Avenue, $800, and the amount, $300, taken of B Wood. Granted.

John Lee re income. Thos Wells sworn, do not know what his income is.

On motion the case was dropped for want of evidence and the clerk instructed to prosecute Mr Lee to recover the penalty provided by law, for disobeying the summons of this court.

It was moved by Mr Buchanan, seconded by Mr Matheson and resolved, That the thanks of this court be tendered to Jas Noxon, Mayor, for the assistance rendered the court both publicly and privately since the commencement of the court.

On motion the assessment as revised, was adopted.

Drowned in Otter Creek While Trying to save Another's Life.

An accident happened near Pt. Burwell on Monday evening by which Thos. De Pley, a young man of Tilsonburg, lost his life while endeavouring to save another from drowning in Otter Creek.

A number of young men had been there during the day fishing, and in the evening one of the party, a young man named Taylor from Glenmire while in a boat on the creek caused the boat to upset. Being unable to swim, he was seen to be in a drowning condition, when De Pley sprang into another boat which happened to be at hand, and gallantly went to his assistance, and while endeavouring to pull him out of the creek drew his own boat under water, far enough so that it filled. Becoming frightened at this he sprang from the boat and endeavored to get ashore, but being unable to swim sank and was seen but once afterward for an instant until his body was taken out. Young Taylor clung to the boat after De Pley jumped and reached the shore in safety. De Pley was a single man and leaves a brother, two sisters and a widowed mother.

Literary Notes.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for July is really what its name claims for it, and each number should increase its popularity, for the publisher is constantly adding to its attractive features. The contents embrace articles of great interest and replete with information—serial and short stories, sketches,, adventures, poems, etc., and a miscellany instructive and entertaining. "Australia and its Colonial Confederation," "The Sons of Liberty, and New York City in their Time,' "Two American Ships," "How Plants were Distributed over the Earth," are some of the leading features of the present number. There are 128 quarto pages, over 100 illustrations, and a colored frontispiece, "The Feather in her Cap."

Mr. W. T. Stead will contribute a paper on Chinese Gordon to the forthcoming Century. Mr. Stead is a personal friend of the eccentric general, and therefore writes with full knowledge.

Personal.

Mrs. Suter, nee Miss Rumsey, and son, of Dundas, are visiting relatives in town.

Miss Gertrude Niles, of Nilestown, is the guest of Mrs. Geo. Christopher.

Mr. Jno. Cook, cheese buyer, has returned to town for the season's business.

Mr. R. J. Bickerton, formerly of this place, was in town this week.

Miss Stewart, of Hamilton, is visiting her friend, Miss Russell, in town.

Miss McMahon, of Suspension Bridge, N. Y., is the guest of Mrs. John A. McInnes.

Mrs. Bell, nee Miss Ruby Fairchilds, of Winnipeg, is visiting friends in town.

Mr. James Long left yesterday for Denver, Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McDowell left to-day on a visit to friends in Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Stuart, of Chicago, are visiting relatives in town.

Mr. Geo. Foster leaves on a trip to Manitoba shortly.

Mr. J. A. Richardson, manager of the Imperial Bank here was absent last week inspecting the branch in Woodstock.

Mrs. Smith, wife of Mr. A. M. Smith, manager of the Merchants' Bank here, is on a visit to her old home near Montreal.

Mr. J. Felix Nassoy of Suspension Bridge is visiting his brother-in-law, Mr. John A. McInnes.

Mr. Lord-Jones of England has associated himself this season with Mr. Riley in the cheese business.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Miller left on Tuesday for Battle Creek, Michigan, for a short visit previous to Mr. Miller's going into business at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Messrs. Wm. Ewart and Jas. Smith, delegates from the Ingersoll Society, are in attendance this week at the annual convention of the United Caledonian Association at Brantford.

Lieut. J. A. Walsh, Sergt. R. Rose, and Corp'l Middlemiss of No. 4 Co. Oxford Rifles, participated in the grand review at Toronto on Tuesday, being attached to the 7th Fusiliers of London.

NUMBERS from Ingersoll visited Toronto this week.

R. Vance opened up this morning several cases of the finest lemons ever brought to this town.

ENTERPRISING.—Messrs. Waterhouse & Bradbury have placed a revolving show stand in his window. It exhibits the goods to the best advantage.

THE grocers are buying all the eggs they can procure. They sell them to the shippers who have contracted to take any quantity.

RUNAWAYS.—On Dominion Day a horse attached to a buggy, tied to the park fence, broke loose and ran into another buggy, the concussion knocking him down, when he rolled over three times down the hill before he recovered his equilibrium. Considerable damage was done. Mr. Charles Cook, of West Oxford, owned the horse.—On Saturday a team from Woodstock attached to a phaeton ran down Thames street at a lively rate. The driver kept them on the street and brought them to a standstill when they reached the hill, without damage.

LOCAL LEGAL.—Judgment was given in the Court of Appeal at Toronto on Tuesday last in a case of considerable importance, wherein one Lemon J. Beamer, a wholesale merchant of Toronto, was plaintiff, and Wm. Oliver, of this town, was defendant. The action involved the question as to the title of some property in Springfield, which Oliver had purchased from one Naven, the assignee in insolvency by a man named Foster, the plaintiff alleging that the deed was void as against him, he being an execution creditor of Mrs. Foster, to whom the land previously conveyed by her husband. The case was first tried at the Chancery Sittings at Brantford in September, 1882, and judgment was given for the defendant. Against this judgment Beamer appealed, and the case was argued in the Court of Appeal at Toronto in February last, and judgment was given on Tuesday for the defendant, with costs, thus upholding the judgment of the court. Fitch & Lees, of Brantford, acted for the plaintiff, and J C Hegler, of this town, for the defendant.

A. O. F.

At the late regular meeting of Court Marquis of Lorne, No. 6157, A.O.F., the following were elected officers for the ensuing term:

C. R. —Bro. Thomas Dougan.
S.C.R.— " J. Mitchell.
Sec.—Bro. J. Bradshaw.
Treas.—Bro. W. Mills.
S. W.—Bro. J. Donaldson.
J. W.—Bro. E. Silverthorn.
S. B.—Bro. F. Dominey.
J. B.—Bro. C. Johnston.
P. C. R.—Bro. E. C. Kenady.
Court Surgeon.—Bro. Thos. Bowers.
Delegate to High Court.—W. Mills.

DISTRICT NEWS.

Putnam.

Putnam had a "home" celebration on Dominion Day. There was a good attendance and a pleasant day was spent.

North Oxford.

Last week, while going down the cellar steps which were wet at the time, Mrs. R. Kerr near Dickson's Corner's, had the misfortune to slip and fall, breaking one of her ribs and severely injuring her back.

James Forbes' house of North Oxford was burned on Monday morning. The fire had evidently smouldered from the previous night, one room (frame) was saved, but the contents of the other portions, stone and log were almost entirely destroyed. The family have the sincere sympathy of the entire community in this trying ordeal.

West Oxford.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Cuthbert took place yesterday from the Urlin Farm to the Cemetry. The Rev. Mr. Bland officiating. The deceased was over 80 years of age and came from England in early childhood. Mrs. Cuthbert was greatly esteemed by all who knew her. The greater part of her life was spent on the farm in the neighborhood of Falden's Corners. She had been a member of the church of England all her life.

The bush meeting in connection with the evangelistic services at West Oxford on Sunday last was a decided success. A large gathering of people assembled from within a radius of ten miles. The meetings were opened at 2 o'clock with a children's address by Mr. White, which was specially adapted to the young. A short time was then spent in prayer and praise, after which addresses were given by Messrs. White and Curtis, the evangelists Rev. C. C. Willett and Mr. Duncome. Mr. White's address had the peculiar title of "The Short Bed and the Narrow Blankets." A large number took part in the testimony meeting, after which the proceedings came to a close about 5 o'clock. Good order prevailed during the services.

Salford.

Foot ball is all the rage.

School closed on Wednesday until Aug. 18th.

Rev. T. A. Moore preached his farewell sermon on Sunday.

The Alerts gained a glorious victory over the Salem boys on Tuesday.

Rev. Hunt and family move this week.

The Methodist S. S. pic-nic on Thursday was well attended, and proved a source of much enjoyment. The different games (yes and strawberries and ice cream) were heartily indulged in, and all seemed to feel that pic-nics were good.

The report of our school for the month of June is as follows—names given in order of merit:—4th class: E. Lawrence, Annie Stockdale, May Noxon, S. Ramsey, Helena Harris, Willie Poole. 3rd Sr.: Millie Smith, Florence McKeand, Maggie Naylor, George Harris, E. Hunt, Jos. Dickout. 3rd Jr.: Alice Stockdale, Minnie Gregg, Lizzie McKeand, Andy Dunphy, Wesley Dickout, Willie Hogg. 2nd Class: Lulu Green, Chas. Clark, Ella Gregg, Chas. Mitchell, Edith Harris, Wigle Hunt. 2nd Jr.: Maud Smith, Bertie Mayberry, Ethel Foster, Adam McKeand. 1st Class: Bertie Dunphy, Nellie Piper, Eddie Poole, Fred. Dutton, Richd. Dutton. Class A.: Annie Mayberry, John Allen, Ethel Gregg, Ada Jolliffe, Robt. Magill, Clara Harris.

Mt. Elgin.

During the recent storm a barn belonging to Mr. Wm. Stone was blown down and completely destroyed.

Sweabarg and Mt. Elgin are expected to cross bats in a friendly game of cricket on Saturday.

Mr. Carlyle, school inspector, visited our school on Monday and expressed himself as highly pleased with the progress the scholars were making under the very able tuition of Mr. Edgington.

Our Port Dalhousie boys are great mashers, and the way they work upon the susceptibilities of the confiding females would make a Chicago hummer sick with envy. They are all adepts in the art of mashing but Hugh takes the cake.

The visits of friend Roy to our village have become so frequent as to excite the suspicion that it is not the beautiful scenery alone that attracted him to our neighborhood. There is no doubt the attraction is beautiful and worth all the attention that is bestowed upon it. Roy is a capital fellow and we wish him all happiness and success.

One of our young men had set his heart upon taking his girl to see the fireworks in Tilsonburg on the evening of Dominion Day, and the little pile he had saved to meet the necessary expenses of that occasion was represented by bills upon the Federal Bank. Imagine his consternation when on Monday he was informed that the Bank had collapsed and his money was worthless. However, a little later in the day, he was informed that the Federal was all right, and we have no doubt that on Dominion Day ice cream was punished to an extent hitherto unknown in Tilsonburg.

East Nissouri.

The Council met pursuant to adjournment at Kintore on Monday, 30th June at 1 p.m. A quorum being present the Reeve took the chair. Minutes of previous meeting was read, approved and signed by the Reeve. Sundry commications were read and laid on the table. The following payments having been duly authorized, were made by the Treasurer:—Alfred Thornton, for gravel supplied to Wm. Hogg, Wm. Oliver and D. Quinn beats, $8.48; E. White, for building culvert on lot 33, con. 12, $6; J. Mullacky, for ditching and puttiag in tile culvert on lot 32, con. 12, $6.80; James Brennan, for building stone culvert on lot 34, con. 12, $23; R. McLeod, for building culvert on lot 33, con. 11, $18; John Clark, for building culvert on fourth side road, $3.80; E. Harris, for ditching and also fixing 3 scrapers on 6th side road, $11.50; R. McLeod, for plank and trusswork on bridge opposite lot 33, con. 13, $7.00; J. McQuilan, for gravel to Chancy Furdy and R. Dawson's beats, $10.48; J. Anderson, for gravel supplied to Mr. Murphy's beat, $6.16; E. White, for putting in culvert opposite lot 34, con. 12, $3; George Matheson, for gravel to John Sutherland's beat, $15.60; Alfred Thornton, for gravel to G. Furze's beat, $3.20; I. Day, third cost digging tap drain opposite lot 17, con. 10, $4.53; I. Day, ditching on 9th con. lots 16-17, $1.28; John Conway, for building a culvert on 8th line, $3; John Marren, for gravel to L. Murphy's beat, $7.04; A. Thornton, for gravel to J. Kennedy's, T. Boy's, J. Sutherland's, M. Skillings, B. McArthur's, Hugh Ross and A. Ross's beats, $28.88; James Moore, for ditching and filling in with gravel both sides of bridges opposite lot 33, con. 13, $4; W. Sutherland for 3 sheep killed and 3 injured by dogs, $26; E. J. Pearson, one third cost of digging ditch opposite lot 16 on 3rd side road, $6.66. On motion the Clerk was authorized to notify Charles Kittmer and D. McCorquodale, to remove iron fences from road allowance opposite lots 23 and 25, con. 13. On motion the Council adjourned till Monday, August 5 at 10 a.m.

C. R. COMMANDER, Clerk.

Avon.

Mr. John Fleming and daughter Madge started for New York city last week. We wish them a pleasant time and safe return.

Miss Bella McCallum left on the 3rd ult. for Marilla, New York.

G. A. Whaley and Mrs. M. Whaley returned from Mich. last week, where they have been visiting friends the past three weeks.

Mr. Will Jolliffe started last Tuesday for Kent County where he intends engaging in the book business. Mr. Peter Blake of Lyons also accompanied him.

Miss Libbie Walker, of Springfield is visiting friends in this locality.

Mr. John Willis, of Marilla, New York, who has been visiting friends in this place the past few weeks, returns home this week.

A few of the farmers in this place have commenced haying. But it will not commence generally until next week.

EGGS! EGGS!!

Highest price in cash paid for fresh eggs at Vance's Bakery, Ingersoll. 81

FIZ! Zip! goes the Soda Fountain at R. Vance's Confectionery. 02

Thamesford.

Mr. Joel McCarthy, our oldest inhabitant, has gone on a visit to relatives in Michigan.

Mr. Bardwell's people had a close call on Saturday by the explosion of a coal oil stove. Fortunately no one hurt.

Alexander Bain is renovating his residence by placing new sills under and newly siding it. Girls he is a bachelor yet, you know.

Miss Margaret Jeffrey had a large tumor removed from her breast by Drs. Williams and McWilliam.

Linus Bolton rejoices in the possession of a new found treasure. N. B.—It is a daughter.

Neil Morrison, is placing a stone foundation under his barn and also re-shingling.

Mr. John McKay had three ribs broken by a falling beam at the raising of an addition to D. R. Calder's barn on Saturday week.

Mrs. Charles Cowan arrived in town on Saturday, from Winnipeg; she purposes remaining a month with her mother Mrs. Weir.

And now how doth the weary school boy count the long long summer hours and days before vacation. Yea verily the Masters and Misses may also be suspected of casting sheep's eyes forward to that delectable period in which females are unknown and tasks forgotten.

The officers of King Soloman Lodge, No. 394, A. F. & A. M., were duly installed on Monday evening by Worshipful Bros. J. Warnock, and C. Brock:—

Bro. J. G. McKay,.....S. W.
" H. Kennedy,.....J. W.
" C. Garner,.....Sec.
" Dr. McWilliam,.....Treas.
" W. Payne,.....Chap.
" Wm. Smith,.....Tyler.
" N. E. Morrison,.....J. D.
" J. G. McNee,.....S. D.
Bros. W. Brock, } Stewards.
" J. McLeod, }

The following visiting brethren were present from Ingersoll:—Hugh Kerr, M. Walsh, J. C. Hegler, R. Vance, R. Jackson, S. King, W. Underwood, and James Badden.

A change in the mayorality is necessitated by a social event in the family of the present mayor. Whatever little interest Mr. Lefaive may have formerly manifested in village affairs cannot reasonably be expected to be maintained any longer, besides which, the mayor's chair will no longer hold Mr. L—, neither will he have time to occupy it as all his spare moments will be appropriated in practising the tune of lullaby. Of course Mr. L— will resign, and in the event of a vacancy, where can we find such a fitting successor to the onorous position as in the person of our estimable friend, Mr. Consequence. True, Mr. C— is not strictly a resident excepting of the northern auburb, but we feel assured he will be the right man in the right place, for where can we find any one so assiduous in attending to other people's affairs as he, and where, oren in our village any one who needs less that celebrated position, 'Gie me conceit of mysel.' Does even an intelligent cow smile benignantly over the brimming pail she is filling to the tune of the cheese factory whistle, Mr. C— rushes into print through the columns of the Sentinel Review and informs the world thereof and so on add infinitum. Therefore "rise fellow men," place Mr. C— in the prospective vacancy for no one loves office better than he. Provide him with a new chair or at least paint the old one of heavy "grand elder" color and we may expect our affairs to be attended to with an attention entirely unknown during the incumbency of Mr. Lefaive.

FARM AND DAIRY MATTERS.

INGERSOLL MARKETS.

GRAIN AND SEEDS.

White Wheat, per bush.	$ 97	to	1 10
Red Fall Wheat	1 00	to	1 10
Spring Wheat	1 00	to	1 16
Barley	50	to	60
Peas "	65	to	75
Oats, "	30	to	40
Corn "	60	to	65
Buckwheat "	00	to	54
Rye "	55	to	60
Clover Seed per bush.	7 50	to	8 50
Timothy Seed "	2 00	to	2 50

PRODUCE.

Potatoes, per bushel	0 90	to	1 00
Onions "	0 75	to	0 80
Apples "	0 00	to	15
Dried Apples per lb	9	to	10
Tallow "	6	to	06
Lard "	11	to	12
Dressed Hogs, per 100 lbs.	7 50	to	8 00
Live Hogs "	5 00	to	5 50
Hay, per ton	0 00	to	10 00
Straw, per Load	2 50	to	3 00
Beef Hides,	0 05	to	0 06
Calf Skins	0 00	to	0 10
Lamb Skins	0 60	to	0 80
Pelts "	0 30	to	0 40
Wool,	18	to	20

PROVISIONS.

Flour, old process, 100 lbs.	2 50	to	2 75
Flour, new process, Fall, 100 lbs.	2 75	to	3 00
Oatmeal	0 00	to	2 75
Cornmeal	0 00	to	1 90
Bran, per ton	12 00	to	14 00
Shorts	00 00	to	18 00
Marrowfat Peas	0 70	to	85
Butter, tub	12½	to	15
Butter, rolls, per lb	16	to	18
Cheese,	8½	to	9
Stilton Cheese	15	to	20
Sugar Cured Canvass Hams	12	to	14
Bacon, 100 lbs.	8 00	to	9 00
Eggs, per dozen	13	to	14
Geese,	45	to	50
Chickens, per pair	40	to	60
Ducks,	60	to	70
Turkeys, per lb.	0 10	to	0 14
Beef, per lb	08	to	12

INGERSOLL CHEESE MARKET.

The cable has dropped 3s. since our last report and 9c

FARM AND DAIRY.

Dairy Cows.

Many farmers will tell you, when asked how many cows they milk, with pride as to the number, twenty, thirty, fifty, as the case may be. Another farmer may say twelve, and still he may carry as much milk to the cooling vat as another man who milks twenty-four cows. "Oh!" the skeptical man says "that ain't so, I don't believe it," but whether it is believed or not, it is a fact. Go into the stable while the twenty-four-cow-man is milking, and see the amount of milk he gets from each cow. If you are bold enough to speak about the small amount got from each cow he will have a world of excuses to offer. "This is a heifer with her first calf. This cow got her bag spoiled last summer and only has three teats. Well, you see the grass is kinder dry now and they ain't doing as well as they were a while ago. Oh, this cow had a calf in the winter and is pretty near dry. Yes, this one is a rather poor milker; I allowed to sell her last fall but I couldn't get much for her and so kept her. This one don't give much! Yes, that's so, but you see she is a dreffal hard milker and the boys kinder let her dry up." And so it goes on to the end of the row, with four or five good milkers in the lot who require more than one pail to hold their milking—and it takes these five to pay for the keep of the poor ones. The case with the twelve-cow man is different; he sets out twelve full pails of milk as the product of the herd at one milking. "Why, how do you manage to have all such good milkers!" "I don't keep a poor one." "But isn't it difficult to get good ones." "Yes, I can't depend much on buying them, but when I know of a good one I try to get hold of her. These two here are out of that old cow over there, and here are three of their daughters. The old cow is getting along in years? Yes, that's so, twelve this spring. I am going to let her go now, but up to this season she has given her two pails and over a day."

Every herd of milk cows should be carefully tested by their owner, and this test to be of any value should be a test of each individual animal, and then work off the poor ones at the first opportunity. By this we do not mean to sell to your neighbors and recommend them as first class animals, but every animal that falls below the average of the herd as milkers and as butter makers should be got out of the herd and replaced by a good one. The most satisfactory way to get good ones is to raise the heifer calves from the best milk and butter cows in the herd. If your herd numbers thirty head of milk cows, raise seven select heifers every year to put into it; probably two of these will have to be discarded when they come to pail. In five years you will have raised the average of your herd four pounds of butter per head per week, or 120 pounds for the herd per week; this at thirty cents per pound is 536 a week, and no more trouble, work or feed, mind you. This for one year or fifty-two weeks is $1,872. This is a pretty neat little income to make just for a little care and head-work. But even say the four pounds per week is only gained for half the year or twenty-six weeks, then the net gain is $936 or nearly $1,000 clear profit.

Let every man who keeps cows and milks them ask himself the question, How many pounds of butter does "Mollie," "Daisy," or "Buttercup" (as the case may be) give me per week? If the answer is, "I don't know"—and you know as well as we in how many thousands of cases that is the only answer that can be given—then the first hard work that should be done is to find out. Seems to us we hear some one say, "Oh! I ain't no book farmer; these tests may be all well enough for fellows that wear white shirts and write for the papers, but I ain't got time to fool around with the cows' milk. I have got to hurry up my haying and get something for the critters to eat next winter."

Now, hold on a minute. Wouldn't you stop and think it over if somebody that you knew could back it with greenbacks should come along and say, "Look here, Mr. Farmer, I want you to work for me, and I will give you eighteen hundred dollars a year and board yourself and family?" That's more than nine-tenths of the people make a year in New York, Chicago or Philadelphia, and most of these that make more than that lose every cent they have about every fifteen or twenty years.

A dairy composed of all good cows is a profitable investment. The milk product must be carefully taken care of and made most of. Owning the cows is not the only part; but if the milk is ever so well taken care of, if the cows don't give enough of it, and rich enough in butter, a profit cannot be made.—Breeders Journal for July.

Where the Hereford Stands.

A leading authority on cattle breeding takes the ground that the Hereford can probably afford to give away any claim it has on the ground of dairy usefulness, and takes its extraordinary grazing and beef-making propensities, while the Shorn-horn can stand like the Colossus at Rhodes, on two seperate bases. How far this divided support gives it an advantage over the Hereford, or the contrary, is a question which the admirers of Short-horns and Herefords, respectively, may make the subject of amicable debate. To an unbiased outsider, it seems clear that, granting the advantage of ability to meet either purpose—the production of beef or of milk—we must still doubt how far the milking and flesh-making tendencies can be long conjointly to any one animal; how much of either must be surrendered for the sake of the union where an attempt is made to bring out both together.

Notes.

Sometimes surplus milk may be profitably fed to cows, though it is not easy to teach an old cow to drink it, except those cows, always extra milkers, that never refuse any kind of food. The milk fed to cows should not be soured, as it will affect what they are producing.

My cattle, including calves, annoy me very much by eating boards and similar substances. What can be done for them? Use sulphur one-half pound, saleratus one-half pound, saltpetre one-quarter pound. Pulverize and mix thoroughly. Give each grown animal a tablespoonful, and to calves from two-thirds to a teaspoonful each, according to size and age. It should be given every other night for two weeks and can be fed in shorts or meal.

Beans produce an enormous crop in deeply trenched soils, and are improved as much as any crop by surface manuring. We hope this method of fertilizing the soil will be extensively adopted for garden crops this season. Those who have not yet tried it will be surprised at the economy and beneficial results of this practice.

Horses are apt to be neglected after the hurry of Spring work has passed, partly because as there is less for them to do it does not seem worth while to feed heavily. It is a serious mistake to allow teams to get out of condition at this season. The better way is to keep up the grain feed, even if green grass takes the place of hay, and then provide work enough to make the team pay its way every week in the year.

An Atlanta, Ga., farmer writes the World: "Finding that my cows and calves would eat corn ensilage in preference to the best cured hay I could purchase, I determined to try feeding it to my horses. At the end of a trial of six weeks (I would have continued longer but ensilage gave out) I found that not only the cows but the horses were in good condition, much better than I had ever seen them at that season of the year. The feed given the cows was twenty pounds of ensilage per day, divided into two feeds, with four quarts of bran at a feed. The horses had the same amount of ensilage, with four quarts of corn in the place of bran. No hay was given them during that period. My impression is that chemical analysis shows that one pound of hay is equal to two or 2½ pounds of ensilage as food for horse or cow. My belief now is that one pound of ensilage is a little better than one pound of the best cured hay as food for either a cow or a young calf. My belief is based on the condition of my stock when fed on ensilage as compared with their condition when fed on hay, the other feed given being the same."

Bees for Profit.

Aside from a few fortunate ones who can afford luxuries regardless of cost, the first question that presents itself to the farmer when a new industry is suggested is, will it pay? If the answer is in the negative, it is useless to investigate further, but if in the affirmative the next thought is, am I so situated that I can make it a success? Let us, then, look at bee keeping as an investment, and see if it can be shown that there is money in it. If any farmer could find a good hand that would work for nothing and board himself, asking nothing but tools and room, we think he would not hesitate to put him to work at once, nor would he tire of telling his neighbors what a prize he had found. Well, this is just what bees do for their owners. They work for nothing and board themselves, requiring only room to store their gathered sweets and to rear their rapidly-increasing brood. Not only do they work for nothing, but they can be safely depended upon to double their productive force every year. But let us look at the profit of a single swarm:

A good movable comb hive (and no other is worth having) can be made for $1.50, and the bees will cost, say $3, making the entire outlay $4.50 to commence with. Now, what can we with certainty calculate on as the receipts from this outlay? Right here it is proper to say that the receipts from bee keeping depend as much on the season as any other product of the farm or garden. If the season is excessively dry no honey will be secreted in the flowers, and on the other hand, if it is very wet, much of the secretion will be washed away. A fair yield of honey for an average season is, say, twenty-five pounds of comb honey, although 100 pounds is not uncommon in good seasons. Good comb honey can be readily sold anywhere for twenty cents a pound. Now, let us look at the figures:

Outlay—Hive and bees	$4 50
Hive for a new swarm	1 50
Total	$6 00
Receipts—Twenty-five pounds of honey at twenty cents	$5 00
Two swarms on hand	9 00
Total	$14 00

making a total of $8 in a single season on an investment of $6.

Will any other farm product yield anything like this? We think not.

Selecting Seed Corn.

As soon as the corn is in the dough I take a sack on my shoulder, and passing between the rows, select the largest and ripest ears. As soon as I have enough picked to take care of that half day, I take the ears home, strip them and hang them in bunches in a dry place, rejecting all that may prove defective in any way. Never pick all day and pile the ears up, and never leave them all night unhung.

If corn can be hung in a granary or other dry place where mice will not molest it, it may hang till spring; but, as I have no mice-proof building, I adopt the following plan: I hang as much as I have room for in the cook-room, and as soon as it is thoroughly dry I shell it into iron powder canisters holding about three gallons each, and having small holes punched for the admission of air. These are mice-proof. I then fill up the cook-room ceiling again with bunches of seed, and proceed as before.

The main ideas are these: Corn should be selected long enough before the frost to be perfectly dry. It must not be heated in piles. It must not be housed in too large a bulk, and it must be kept dry. Other details are minor considerations.

From actual tests I find ground fall-ploughed deeply and well harrowed in spring, gives at least one-third more corn than the same ground when it has a coat of stable manure and is ploughed in the spring. I find also that yellow corn requires richer soil than white to arrive at the same degree of perfection, and that white corn is better for horses than yellow. For cold weather feeding and for fattening swine yellow corn is the best.

Peculiarities of the Apple.

The earliest sorts of June and July apples, generally bear annually, or a full crop one year and a fair or moderate crop the next. Having delivered their crops early, they have August and September for continued growth and recuperation, and are enabled to form mature fruit buds for the next season. We have a striped June apple tree that has seldom or never failed to give a good crop every year.

The late winter sorts have not this advantage, as growth for the season is over after the fruit is gathered, and the natural consequence is that there are few or no fruit buds for the next year. Late summer and early fall apple trees may be induced to give fair crops almost every year if they have generous soil, with abundant nutrition; otherwise, like the late winter sorts, the next season is required to form fruit buds, and their bearing is restricted to every other year. So it pays to feed and take care of the trees.

The apple tree requires good, rich soil and plenty of it to secure annual crops and healthy growth. The soil naturally is never too rich, and the trees are never surfeited or injured by heavy manuring—but this is sometimes the case. As a rule orchards are grieviously mismanaged or neglected. The cultivation of young trees should be as regularly and carefully done as that for the corn or vegetable crops. The surface needs frequent but shallow stirring, especially under the branches if high-topped. If low, which is best, especially for southern orchards, no ploughing should be attempted immediately under the trees to bruise the fruit and branches.

We believe low-branched trees are better for several reasons. No sun-scald can affect the trunks; no suckers are produced from torn roots; the feeding roots and trunks are protected from the 3 o'clock sun. The best fruit is always on the middle and lower branches, and the convenience of gathering the fruit without bruising is far greater with low headed trees. The windfalls are but little injured. If straw or soft litter is spread beneath the apples can be shaken off with little or no bruising, but it is best to hand gather. With these advantages low heads must be the most profitable as well as natural.

☞A happy thought. Diamond Dyes are so perfect and so beautiful that it is a pleasure to use them. Equally good for dark or light colors. 10c. at druggists. Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt. Sample Card, 32 colors, and book of directions for 2c. stamp.

A goat wants butt little here below.

If you have a Cough, do not neglect it; buy at once a bottle of Allen's Lung Balsam and be cured. See adv.

A decade—a roustabout on a vessel.

There is nothing equal to Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator for destroying Worms.

Any man can make money—go.

A lady from Syracuse writes:—"For about seven years before taking Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, I suffered with a complaint very prevalent with our sex. I was unable to walk any distance or stand on my feet for more than a few minutes at a time without feeling exhausted, but now I am thankful to say, I can walk two miles without feeling the least inconvenience." For Female Complaints it has no equal.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

How Much Should we Eat?

How, asks Dr. Nichols in the Food Reform Magazine, are we to get at the proper quantity of food? Animals living in a state of nature do not overeat. They stop eating when they have enough. There are no prize cattle on the prairies. It is the stalled ox, and the pig in his pen deprived of exercise, that can be fattened into a diseased obesity. Horses escape this process because men do not to any great extent knowingly devour them. The hunter and racer are not overfed. All animals expected to do their work are carefully fed as to quality and quantity. If human beings were fed as wisely, they would be as healthy. There are some good rules for feeding as to quantity. When our food is simple and natural in kind and quality and mode of preparation, there is little danger of eating too much. There is little danger, for example, of eating too many grapes, apples, pears, or bananas. Salt, sugar, spices, and luxurious cookery tempt to excess. With men, as with animals, a natural diet is self limiting, and we are disposed to stop when we have enough. The more artificial the food, the more elaborate and luxurious the feast, the more the liability to over-load the stomach, over-task the digestive power, and overwhelm the forces of life. Simplicity of food is a condition of health, and promotes longevity. The quantity of food which enables a man to do his daily work without loss of weight is precisely what he requires. This quantity may vary a little with each individual, but every one can easily ascertain his own measure of requirement by reducing the quantity of daily food until he finds a balance of force and weight. It is my opinion that the average quantity of water-free aliment required, say by business and literary men, is twelve ounces. Men of great muscular activity may require sixteen to twenty ounces. I have found myself in very good condition for sedentary work on eight or ten ounces. When any one is in good condition for his work, and keeps his normal weight, he has had enough. Find this quantity by experiment, and then habitually keep to it.—The Present Age.

Useful Hints

It is an excellant plan to prepare the cabbage for dinner an hour before it is time to cook it. Cut the cabbage in quarters, and scatter a handful of salt over it and cover it with cold water. This is a good course to pursue if one has not time to look the cabbage over carefully. Cauliflower also should be treated in the same way, after being picked apart. There are so many small insects this year, especially, that great care is necessary in looking over vegetables.

Indian meal cake is made of one pint meal and half a pint of wheat flour. Sift them together. Then mix a tablespoonful of baking powder and about the same quantity of salt. Mix three quarters of a pound of sugar and half a pound of butter together; beat until light and creamy; then add to this four well-beaten eggs, half a cup of sweet milk, a little nutmeg and cinnamon. Then stir in a little at a time the meal and flour. This should be baked slowly and a long time in well buttered tins.

Oyster plant, or salisfy, as it is usually called by gardners, makes delicious croquettes. Wash, scrape, and boil the plant until it is tender, soft, in fact, and can easily be rubbed through a colander; mix with it a little cream, butter, pepper, and salt, with just a dash of cayenne pepper. Beat until smooth; when very cold, shape in balls, dip in eggs and roll in fine crumbs, and fry until brown. Another way is to make a sort of pancake. After putting the oyster plant through the colander add an egg for each cupful of the pulp; add a little butter and salt also, and if necessary a little flour may be stirred in; fry in lard and butter mixed, and serve hot.

Everybody knows how difficult it is for the average woman to keep track of the family wash, if it is sent out of the house, and many husbands have lost respect for their wives on account of this inability of hers. If the record is kept on a piece of paper, it is certain to be lost; if in a book, that will be mislaid but if a small slate is procured and is hung in a convenient place, with a pencil tied to it with a string long enough to admit of the pencil being used without untying, the difficulties vanish as if by magic. There are no more misunderstandings with the washwoman, and no more heartless discussions in regard to the number of collars the man of the house really did have in the wash.

If obliged to bear up under the infliction of cold white walls in parlor or sitting-room it must be the effort of the housewife to give color to the room in some way; and to make the colorless ornaments of use also. There is one way by which a corner may be brightened. Get a plain bracket of white wood, with a back; cover it entirely with crimson plush. A marble bust or vase will be very pretty on this. Common Japanese paper fans may be covered with bright-colored satin, silk or plush. A round jar covered with crimson plush, with two small pipes gilded and tied on with crimson ribbons make a bright ornament and bit of color, and may be utilized as a match safe. Over the mantel may be placed a piece of the heavy self-colored paper used for decoration; it should be the length of the mantel, and should be higher than any vase or ornament you place upon that.

THOUSANDS SAY SO.

Mr. T. W. Atkins, Girard, Kan., writes: "I never hesitate to recommend your Electric Bitters to my customers, they give entire satisfaction and are rapid sellers." Electric Bitters are the purest and best medicine known and will positively cure Kidney and Liver complaints. Purify the blood and regulate the bowels. No family can afford to be without them. They will save hundreds of dollars in doctor's bills every year. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by John Gayfer. 6t

It is not death that makes the martyr, but the cause.

Worms often destroy children, but Freeman's Worm Powders destroy Worms, and expel them from the system. 8t.

Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts.

Kill weeds when small.

If you want fast colours and brilliant shades use the popular Star Dyes.

There is no power of genius that can do the work of toil.

Volumes of bombast have been published about the multifarious and irreconcilable effects of many proprietary remedies. The proprietors of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery content themselves with facts susceptible of proof. They state their Purifier to be what it has proved itself to be, an eradicator of Dyspepsia, Constipation, Liver and Kidney troubles, and a fine general alterative.

True merit like a river, the deeper it is, the less noise it makes.

M. Sheehan, of Oscoda, Mich., writes:—"I have used Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil on horses for different diseases, and found it to be just as you recommended. It has done justice to me every time, and it is the best Oil for horses I ever used." Observe that the name "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil" is on front of the wrapper, as there are imitations of it.

The secret of happiness is never to allow your energies to stagnate.

GREAT FATALITY.

The ravages of Cholera Infantum and Summer Complaints among children is truly alarming. The most reliable cure is Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry. Every bottle guaranteed to give satisfaction. 8i

Cauliflowers require plenty of room.

TEMPERANCE.

The Other Side of the Shield.

In the State of Kansas there is a sternly prohibitory liquor law. The intoxicating fluid cannot be manufactured, sold, give away or imbibed in that State except under heavy penalties. This sort of Arcadian puritanism has prevailed there for more than two years and to the great exasper of nineteen-twentieths of the citizens thereof. The State with utmost intensity and regularity gave huge majorities to the Republican ticket last fall—when the people rose en masse and elected a Democratic Governor. This official in a recent interview gave some solid facts and figures concerning the disasters that prohibition has brought upon this State. Among them he graphically enumerated these:—"Diversion of immigration to other states; engendering of strife in every neighborhood; increase of litigation; clandestine use of intoxicating liquors in club rooms and in the homes of the people; drinking to excess, caused by the purchase of liquor in large quantities; and loss to the cause of temperance of thousands of good and sincere temperance people through the meddlesome interference by authorities with the habits and customs of so many worthy and useful citizens." This severe recapitulation is merely a bit of history repeating itself.

Archdeacon Farrar on Intemperance.

"Let us begin with the fact that the direct expenditure of England for intoxicating drinks is reckoned at £130,000,000 a year, and the indirect which we are forced to pay from the result of drunkenness, £100,000,000 more.—Maintain, if you will, that alcohol is a harmless luxury; you still cannot deny that for the vast majority it is not a necessity. Whole races of men, the votaries of whole religions, do without it, and gain by its absence. From 20,000 prisoners in England, it is cut off from the day of their imprisonment and they are not the worse, but the stronger and the healthier from its withdrawal. There are some five million total abstainers in England, and the impartial statistics of insurance prove conclusively that longevity is increased by abstention from it. The most magnificent feats of strength and endurance of which mankind has ever heard have been achieved without it. At the very best, then it is a luxury. If it were not so, three Chancellors of the Exchequer would not have congratulated the nation on the diminution of revenue drawn from the sale of it; nor would a speech from the Throne have expressed satisfaction at this loss of income. Being, then, at the best a luxury, even if no harm came from it, I ask you seriously whether we can, in these days, bear the exhaustion which arises from this terrible drain on our national resources? We live in anxious times. The pressure of life, the intensity of competition, both in the nation itself and with other nations, is very severe. Of late two daily newspapers have been filled with correspondence which proves the state of middle-class society. One has given expression to the sorrows and struggles of thousands of clerks in our cities and has told the dismal story of their grinding poverty. The other has revealed with what agonies of misgiving thousands of parents contemplate the difficulty of starting their sons in the crowded race in life. Can there be a shadow of a doubt that the nation would be better prepared for the vast growth of its population, that the conditions of average life would be less burdensome if we abandoned a needless and therefore wasteful expenditure? Would not the position of England be more secure if that vast river of gold were diverted into more fruitful channels?—if the 88½ millions of bushels of grain (as much as is produced in all Scotland) which are now mashed into deleterious drink, were turned into useful food?—if the 69 thousands of acres of good land now devoted to hops were used for cereals?—if England were relieved from the burden of supporting the mass of misery, crime, pauperism, and madness which drunkenness entails? Even in this respect, as Sir Matthew Hale said two years ago, "perimus licitus, we are perishing by permitted things." A Chinese tradition tells us that when 4,000 years ago, their Emperor forbade the use of intoxicants, heaven rained gold for three days. Looking at the matter on grounds simply economical—considering only the fact that the working classes drink, in grossly adulterated beers and maddening spirits, as much as they pay in rent—considering that there is hardly a pauper in England who has not wasted on intoxicants enough to have secured him long ago a freehold house and a good annuity—I say that if the curse of drink were thoroughly expelled it would rain gold in England not for three days but for many days."

A Plant Preying on Fish.

Mr. Simms, of Oxford, has recently made a most interesting discovery. He finds that the bladder traps of Utricularia catch newly hatched fish and kill them. Mr. Moseley has examined the evidence, and is satisfied with it. The jaws of the bladder traps of the plant close on the small fish, and hold them fast till they die. Mr. Simms supplied Mr. Moseley with a fresh specimen of the plant in a vessel in which were fresh young fish and spawn, and six hours afterwards more than a dozen fish were found entrapped. The fish are usually caught by the head, and in such cases the head is pushed as far into the bladder-trap as possible, till the snout touches the hinder wall of the bladder. In some cases, however, the fish were caught by the tail. In three or four instances one bladder trap had caught the head while another had caught the tail, the body lying between the two bladders. As Utricularia possesses (so at least Darwin considered) no digestive powers, it is rather a puzzle to know what it wants with the unfortunate fishy small fry. Verily nature is full of quaint mysteries!

The following is from J. W. Ptolemy, of Winnipeg, formerly grain buyer for William Gillesby, of Hamilton and Grimsby: "I was for many years much afflicted with Costiveness, Biliousness, and ultimately Dyspepsia. I suffered very much and tried many different medicines, which gave me only temporary relief and then I was as bad as ever again. I was recommended by a friend, who had been restored to health by it, to try McGregor's Speedy Cure. I did so, and it was not long before I felt like a new man, and I have enjoyed excellent health ever since. I first commenced taking it February 7th, 1879. Sold by Gayfer and Kneeshaw.

We ought not to judge of man's merits by the use they make of them.

O. E. Comstock, Caledonia, Minn., writes—"I was suffering from the most excruciating pains from inflammatory rheumatism. One application of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil afforded almost instant relief, and two bottles effected a permanent cure.

The rays of happiness, like those of light, are colorless when unbroken.

A GOOD TIME.

When is the best time to take a blood purifier? Whenever the blood is foul and humors appear, or when the system is debilitated take Burdock Blood Bitters. 8i

The truly valiant dare everything but doing any other body an injury.

A misstep will often make a cripple for life. A bottle of Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment at hand, will not prevent the misstep, but used immediately it will save being a cripple. 8t.

FLUID LIGHTNING.

Fluid Lightning not only cures Toothache instantly, but also Neuralgia, Headache, Earache, Rheumatism, Lumbago and Sciatica. Pain of any kind cannot remain one minute when it is applied. When you hear of Fluid Lightning you hear of one of the greatest marvels ever known in the way of a medicine, as it never fails to cure, and not in a week or a day, but the instant it is applied to the affected part. Sold at Gayfer and Kneeshaw's.

He surely is most in want of another's patience who has none of his own.

MODERN MAGIC.

The magical power over pain that Hagyard's Yellow Oil possesses, outrivals the marvels of ancient times. It acts in a natural manner to subdue inflammation; cures Rheumatism, Croup, Deafness, Sore Throat, and painful injuries. 8i

Living Above Our Troubles.

BY HENRY WARD BEECHER.

You may think it a great thing for the Apostles to go through the various scenes narrated in their lives, buoyed up by the indwelling Spirit of God; but I think it is much more difficult for us to go through the scenes of our daily experience borne up in the same way than it was for them. The unusualness of the events that were transpiring around them gave them a kind of stimulus, and roused them up to bold and noble deeds; but the cares of our every-day life, its watchings, its successes and failures, its thrifts and unthrifts, its hopes and fears, do not do the same for us. A state of mind in which we are lifted above these things, and look down on them; in which our spirit is dwelling so near to God and so high that nothing can happen to touch our settled peace; in which we are unconcerned; in which the way between our soul and God is clear; in which we know that we mean to fulfil God's will, and feel sure that his hand is protecting us; in which we believe that all things shall work together for our good, and that whatever befalls us is for the best—what a state of mind that is! Into what a tranquil and beautiful condition does it bring the soul!

It is in the power of every man to have this state. I do not say that it is in the power of every man to be perfect; I do not understand any meaning of the term perfection; sinlessness is a word without significance to me; I do not expect we shall attain any such thing till we get to heaven; but I believe there is such a thing as access to God through Jesus Christ; I believe there is such a thing as God's protection of us; and I believe there is such a thing as the Spirit of God witnessing with our spirit. I believe that a man may be superior to all circumstances in life, and walk with perfect calmness and entire courage. I believe that there are some who have attained to a state in which they are enabled to do this; but they are very few. We are nervous, we are sensitive, we are worried, we are fretted; and, not only so, we are casting our drag-net into to-morrow, or next week, to anticipate things that are yet to come. We live constantly under the influence of fear or apprehension. How many are there that live so as always to be able to throw overboard these disquieting circumstances, and say, "They do not concern me"? What a blessed life that is in which the most annoying troubles and the most grievous temptations are powerless upon us, because we live higher than they can go!

And when we have come to that state, we are not, as some perhaps may think, rendered unfit for the world and worldly business. It is just the state that renders a man fit for these things. When you have been excited even by lower influences, when you have received some exhilarating news, when some good fortune has befallen you and raised your spirits you can do as much work in a day and do it quite as easily as ordinarily. You know that the effect of exaltation springing from lower things, even, is to lighten your burden in life. And if the Divine Spirit rests on your mind it will enable you to carry yourself a great deal easier through the trials and perplexities of your worldly experience than you otherwise could.

Blessed are they with whom is this secret of God. Blessed are they to whom is fulfilled the promise of God that he will hide them in his pavilion until the storm is overpast. And when you live as seeing him every day and every hour, just as if he were present before you; when you live with a full reliance that heaven, and not earth, is your true home; when you live so that you can say sincerely, "All the things I seek here are not worthy to be compared with the joy that I have laid up for me there; there my mind rests, there my treasure is, and there is my heart also;" when you come into that state in which the power of the world to come is stronger on you than the power of the world that now is—then you will have this peace, and, out of it, and with it, this exaltation; and man cannot hurt you; the devil cannot overecme you; the world cannot seduce nor circumvent you; God will be for you; and who can be against you!

English and French Women.

The French are very fond of decrying the women of our country, says the London Standard, as a flat-chested, long-membered, large-footed race, awkward in gait, ill-dressed or over-dressed, unlearned in the elementary rules of that important matter, the dressing of the hair, and incapable of harmonizing colours. These criticisms are ill-natured and exaggerated, but nevertheless a good many grains of truth underlie them. Take a London and a Parisian shop girl as an example. The former has generally the advantage over the latter in clearness of complexion and in comeliness, yet she loses by the comparison. She is neither so becomingly dressed nor so careful to suit the colour of her dress to her complexion, nor so neatly shod; and above all, she seems to be ignorant of the resources an abundant head of hair affords her, as a frame to an attractive, youthful countenance. The horrible, barbarous fashion of cutting the hair short, which obtains no favour in France, prevails, I observed with real regret, to a considerable extent in London, and, when the scissors have not been ruthlessly applied to masculinize the female head, there seems to be a deplorable want of taste displayed in the arrangement of their tresses by London girls. Those I met out, those I saw behind the counter, appeared to have a peculiar penchant for screwing their hair up into tight, ugly little knots, singularly ungraceful—so I thought, at all events, fresh from the sight of Parisienne heads. The appearance of the London nursemaid also contrasted unfavourably with that of the French bonne. I do not refer to the elite of the calling in either country, but to the ordinary middle-class nursegirl or bonne such as one meets with in Kensington gardens or in the Tuilleries. Perhaps the tasty cap worn by the latter with its metre and a half of broad ribbon streamers behind, gives her an advantage; perhaps she holds herself better, or pays more attention to her general appearance. Whatever may be the cause, the result undoubtedly is that the eye rests with more pleasure upon a group of French nurses gathered together with their charges in a public garden than upon a similar group in a London park. To sum up my impression concerning London women of the middle or lower classes, they seemed, as a Frenchman would put it, vetues, not habillees clothed, not dressed.

Miscellaneous Items.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by John Gayfer. 74y

There is a majesty in simplicity which is far above the quaintness of wit.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Influenza, Sore Throat, Quinsey, Mumps, and similar complaints always abound in unsettled weather, and are most safely and effectually subdued by rubbing Holloway's Ointment at least twice a day upon the chest and glands of the throat. The Ointment penetrates the skin, reduces inflammation, and heals ulcerations. This treatment is sufficient for curing the most serious and complicated throat affections, provided Holloway's Pills be taken at the same time. When swallowing gives pain, the Ointment may be relied on till improving symptoms admit of painless deglutition. In asthma, bronchitis, pneumonia, pleurisy, whooping cough, incipient consumption, scarlet fever and measels, Holloway's medicines are not less valuable in mitigating the most troublesome features than they are certain in ultimately curing.

When flattery is unsuccessful, it is but the fault of the flatterer.

The reason why "Nonsuch Washing Compound" should be used in preference to all other washing preparations. First, It is perfectly harmless. Second, It saves more than half the labour. Third, It is the cheapest in the market. Many more could be given but this should be sufficient. For sale by all grocers. 84

Painted and stained floors grow more popular each day.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

A good surgeon must have an eagle's eye, a lion's heart and a lady's hand.

A SUDDEN ATTACK.

All people, and especially travellers, are liable to a sudden attack of Cholera Morbus, Colic, Diarrhœa and Dysentery. Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry is the most prompt and reliable remedy known. 8i

The smaller the string of fish, the bigger the lie.

ITCHING PILES—SYMPTOMS AND CURE.

The symptoms are moisture, like perspiration, intense itching, increased by scratching, very distressing, particularly at night, seems as if pin-worms were crawling in and about the rectum; the private parts are sometimes affected. If allowed to continue very serious results may follow. "SWAYNE'S OINTMENT" is a pleasant, sure cure. Also for Tetter Itch, Salt Rheum Scald Head, Erysipelas, Barbers Itch, Blotches, all scaly, crusty Skin Diseases Sent by mail for 50 cents; 3 boxes, $1.25 (in stamps). Address, DR. SWAYNE & SON, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Druggists

The cup of pleasure sometimes has dregs that one must drink long afterwards.

REST AND COMFORT TO THE SUFFERING

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 1498ry

The black currant is very wholesome.

REMARKABLE RESTORATION.

Mrs. Adelaide O'Brien, of Buffalo, N. Y., was given up to die by her physicians, as incurable with Consumption. It proved Liver Complaint and was cured with Burdock Blood Bitters. 8i

Sheep should be shorn with kindness and care.

A FIRM OPINION.

The firm of Ormand & Walsh, druggists, of Peterboro, say Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry is one of their best Standard Medicines for Summer Complaints. 8i

See that the lambs are not infested with ticks.

TIME, ITS VALUE.

To-day is ours, why should we care?
To-day is ours, why should we fear?
To-day is ours, why should we sorrow?
For to the gods belong to morrow.
Therefore for to-day, chew Gold Coin Tobacco, it is the best. 06

A general crop of beans grows well on sod land plowed in June.

HEALTH IN THE WILDERNESS

The Great Antidote to Miasma.

The axe and the plough are annually making vast inroads into the wildernesses of the western world. Forests, as if by magic, are changed into cornfields, and prairies, swamps and canebrakes into arable land. But these conquests of industry are not achieved without loss. Hundreds, aye thousands of the energetic pioneers whose labours have caused the wilderness to "blossom as the rose," fall a sacrifice to the terrible diseases engendered by the miasma of the soil. Violent intermittent and remittent fevers, rheumatism, neuralgia and affections of the stomach and bowels, are the almost inevitable penalties incurred by families who settle on new lands. Hence it is that the demand for Holloway's Pills and Ointment in the far West is so large in proportion to the population. The cultivators of the soil on the outskirts of civilization look upon them, and with reason, as among the prime necessaries of life. In the more densely populated regions of the West, they are universally considered specifics for the diseases we have named; and every provident farmer takes care to fore-arm his family against the prostrating influence of an insalubrious atmosphere and climate, by keeping a supply of the remedies constantly on hand. This will be no news to such of our readers as have travelled in the West. There, as in the North, the East, and the South, the prestige of the medicines is constantly increasing, and Holloway's success in the glorious work of mitigating human suffering, and saving and prolonging human life, is spoken of among all classes with wonder and gratitude. We believe that there is scarcely a family in Europe that does not keep these medicines by them; the soldier carries them in his knapsack, and the sailor has them always ready to hand in his chest for every case of emergency, either from internal or external complaints, knowing that by the aid of these wonderful medicines he may brave the disease of any climate with impunity.—Greenwich Journal.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Trains leave Ingersoll as follows:

GOING WEST.	GOING EAST.
4:56 a. m.	6:50 a. m.
11:57 a. m.	12:15 a. m.
12:32 a. m.	3:05 p. m.
5:05 p. m.	4:48 p. m.
8:47 p. m.	7:00 p. m.
2:11 a. m.	12:20 p. m.

CATARRH.

CATARRH.—A New Treatment whereby this hitherto incurable disease is permanently cured in from one to three applications, no matter whether standing for one year or forty years. Descriptive pamphlet sent free on receipt of stamp. A. H. DIXON & SON, 305 King street west, Toronto, Canada. 1560ry

SHAKER BLOOD SYRUP.

Cures Completely Scrofula, Syphilis, Cancer, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Ulcers and Skin and Blood Diseases of every description.

$1000 reward to any chemist who will find, on analysis of 100 bottles of Shaker Blood Syrup, one particle of Mercury, Iodide of Potassium, or any mineral substance.

J. W. BROWETT, - DRUGGIST,
Sign of White Mortar,
THAMES STREET, INGERSOLL.

$66 a week at home. $5 outfit free. Pay absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make great pay all the time they work, with absolute certainty. Write for particulars to H. Hallett & Co., Portland, Me.

Engraved Visiting Cards, Pirie's Best Wedding Stationery, latest New York Styles at THE CHRONICLE Office. See samples.

Health & Happiness for all.
WILL CURE OR RELIEVE
Biliousness, Headache, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dizziness, Jaundice, Dropsy, Fluttering of the Heart,
And every species of disease arising from Impure Blood, &c. &c.
PREPARED BY THE Climax Chemical Company,
MONTREAL.

A CURE CUARANTEED
MAGNETIC MEDICINE.
TRADE MARK
FOR BRAIN & NERVE FOOD.

For Old and Young. Male and Female.
Positively cures Nervousness in all its stages, Weak Memory, Loss of Brain Power, Sexual Prostration, Night Sweats, Spermatorrhœa, Leucorrhœa, Barrenness, Seminal Weakness, and General Loss of Power. It repairs Nervous Waste, Rejuvenates, the Jaded Intellect. Strengthens the enfeebled Brain and Restores Surprising Tone and Vigor to the Exhausted Generative Orgative Organs in either sex. With each order for 12 packages, accompanied with five dollars

FOUNDED 1853.

THE INGERSOLL CHRONICLE,

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

C. F. GURNETT, Proprietor.

TERMS for THE CHRONICLE AND DAIRYMAN, by mail, or called for at the office of publication, or at the bookstores, $1.50 in advance; $2.50 if not so paid. Delivered at homes, or business places of subscribers, in town, $1.75 in advance, or $2.75 if not so paid.

The CHRONICLE AND DAIRYMAN has more readers than all the remaining newspapers published in Ingersoll and the South Riding of Oxford combined. This important fact should be borne in mind by advertisers.

It has the largest circulation among Canadian Dairymen, being devoted specially to the interests of that class.

Printing by Steam Power in all its branches.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Advertisements will be inserted in THE CHRONICLE AND DAIRYMAN, at 8 cents per line for the first insertion, and 3 cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

¶For legal and official advertisements the charge is 10 cents per line for the first, and 5 cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

Condensed advertisements:—Servants wanted—Articles Wanted—Lost or Found—Strayed—To Rent or For Sale—Board—Situations Wanted, or Vacant, etc., (one inch or under) will be published at the rate of 50 cts. for the first insertion, and 25 cts. for each subsequent insertion.

¶Ten cents per line for the first insertion and five cents per line for each subsequent insertion, in the charge for inserting "special notices" with reading matter and in the same type.

Professional cards, not exceeding 6 lines, will be inserted one year for $5; 50 cents per line per year for each line over six lines.

Commercial advertisements, ordinarily displayed matter, will be inserted at the following rates:—

Time.	2 In.	¼ Col. 3 In.	½ Col. 6 In.	¾ Col. 12 In.	1 Col. 24 In.
1 week..	$1 50	$ 2 50	$ 4 00	$ 6 00	$ 10 00
2 weeks..	2 25	3 75	6 00	9 00	15 00
3 weeks..	2 70	4 50	7 20	10 80	18 00
4 weeks..	3 00	5 00	8 00	12 00	20 00
5 weeks..	3 30	5 50	8 80	13 20	22 00
6 weeks..	3 60	6 00	9 60	14 40	24 00
2 months.	4 50	7 50	12 00	18 00	30 00
3 months.	6 00	10 00	15 00	24 00	40 00
6 months.	9 00	15 00	24 00	40 00	60 00
12 months	15 00	22 00	40 00	60 00	100 00

The above contract prices do not give the right to advertise Houses or Farms for Sale, or to Rent, Clerks, Domestics or Servants Wanted, Articles Lost or Found, Entertainments, Auction Sales, &c., but extend exclusively to the legitimate commercial announcements, ordinarily displayed matter, of the persons contracting. Solid matter will be charged at the rate of 8 and 3 cents per line.

J. F. McDONALD, L.L. B.,

BARRISTER AND ATTORNEY-at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Notary Public, &c.

OFFICE—Thames street, Ingersoll.

H. WALSH,

BARRISTER, NOTARY PUBLIC, Solicitor in the Supreme Court of Ontario, &c. Money to lend at lowest rates. Mortgages Bought and Sold.

OFFICE up Stairs, Walsh's Block, Thames Street, Ingersoll, Ont.

W. W. HOLCROFT,

BARRISTER, ATTORNEY, SOLICITOR, Notary Public, Conveyancer, &c.; $100,000, private funds, to loan at 6 and 7 per cent. Mortgages, Debentures and Notes bought. Office formerly occupied by the late Mr. McCaughey, Thames street, Ingersoll.

J. C. HEGLER,

BARRISTER ATTORNEY, SOLICITOR, &c. Money to loan at eight per cent.

OFFICE:—Over Molsons Bank, King Street.

G. J. CHARLESWORTH, M. B.,

F. T. M. S., M. C. P. S., Ont. L. R. C. P. & L. M., Edinburgh.

Office—Thames Street, over Noles & Stevens', next to Brown's Drug Store. Residence—Charles Street, first place west of Badden's Carriage Factory, Ingersoll. Calls night and day promptly attended to.

March 20th, 1884. 1505-y

DR. McKAY,

L. R. C. P. & L. M., EDINBURGH. Coroner for the County of Oxford, Graduate of the Royal College of Physicians, Edinburgh. Late Surgeon in the British Marine Service. Office, Thames Street, Ingersoll.

J. ARTHUR WILLIAMS, M. D.,

M. R. C. S. AND L. M., ENGLAND. L. R. C. P., London; Aurist and Oculist Office with Dr. Hoyt, King Street, Ingersoll.

CHARLES KENNEDY,

SURGEON DENTIST. LICENSED by the Royal College of Dental Surgery, Ont., teeth extracted without pain by the use of Nitrous de Gas, etc., if desired. Special attention paid to the preservation of natural teeth.

Office on King street, opposite the "Thompson house," Ingersoll. 884y

W. A. SUDWORTH,

SURGEON DENTIST, MEMBER of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, Graduate of Ont. Dental College. Anæsthetics administered for the painless extraction of teeth. Office opposite the Market, Ingersoll.

H. W. HILL,

PRODUCE and Commission Merchant, Agent for the Empire Loan Association. Money to loan at lowest rates on farm and town property. Market Square, Woodstock.

January 31st, 1884. 1586y

W. R. BURKE

PROVINCIAL LAND SURVEYOR AND DRAUGHTSMAN,

OFFICE AT TELEGRAPH OFFICE.

I have disposed of all my plans, field notes and bearings to Mr. W. R. Burke, P. L. Surveyor, of Ingersoll, which have been collected by myself during the past 30 years while practicing in the County of Oxford. All parties wishing surveying done, will do well to employ Mr. Burke, he now having so much valuable information relative to surveys in this County. Signed,

W. G. WONHAM,
P. L. Surveyor.

May 8th, 1884. 1600-y

JAMES BRADY,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER

INGERSOLL ONT.,

Is prepared to attend all sales in town or country. Ingersoll, April 20th, 1883. 1403

Imperial Bank of Canada

HEAD OFFICE, - TORONTO.

Capital Paid Up, $1,500,000.
Rest, - - 650,000.

Purchases Municipal Debentures, Issues Drafts on its branches and agencies in the North-West. Transfers Moneys by Telegrams to Winnipeg and Brandon. Dealers in Sterling Exchange. Savings Department—Deposits received and interest allowed. Agents in London, Messrs. Bosanquet, Salt & Co., 73 Lombard street, with whom moneys for transmission from Great Britain to Ontario and the North-West may be deposited.

D. R. WILKIE Cashier.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.

Deposits of $1 and upward received and Interest allowed thereon at current rates.

INGERSOLL BRANCH,

J. A. RICHARDSON, Manager.

MERCHANT'S BANK OF CANADA.

CAPITAL - - $5,700,000
RESERVE - - $1,250,000

INGERSOLL BRANCH.

THIS BANK TRANSACTS A General Banking Business, Buys and Sells Exchange on England and the United States, and issues Drafts on New York and all parts of Canada. Particular attention paid to collections for Customers and Banks.

A. M. SMITH, Manager.

BANK OF LONDON

IN CANADA.

CAPITAL, $1,000,000.00.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

HY. TAYLOR, Pres. J. LARATT, Vice-Pres.
A. M. SMART, Cashier.
W. R. MEREDITH, Q.C., M.P.P. T. LONG.
BENJ. CRONYN. THOS. FAWCETT.
ISA BANKS. THOS. KENT.
N. REID. JNO MORRISON.

INGERSOLL BRANCH.

A Branch of the Bank of London, has been opened in Ingersoll, in the premises recently occupied by The Molsons Bank.

A General Banking Business

Transacted. Collections on all points in Canada and United States made promptly, at reasonable rates. Draft issued on New York and all points in Canada. LIBERAL INTEREST ALLOWED ON DEPOSITS which can be withdrawn at any time.

C. W. M. SIMPSON, Acting Manager.

Ingersoll, March 27, 1884 1504

Electro Plate GOODS

—AT—

R. W. WOODROOFE'S

JEWELLERY STORE,

Thames Street, - Ingersoll.

The Ingersoll Chronicle,

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

VOL. XXXI.—NO. 45. INGERSOLL, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JULY 10, 1884. WHOLE NO. 1609.

THE CANADA LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY.

ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1883.

Assets	-	$5,617,623
Interest on Investments	-	335,907
New Policies Written	-	2,178
Amount of New Policies	-	$4,534,000
Death Claims Paid	-	$289,660
Premiums Received	-	$812,889

It will be noticed the interest on investments more than pays the death claims.

The Canada Life is a home company and has been doing business for 37 years.

Its rates are moderate while its profits are larger than those of other companies.

Policies indisputable after two years.

Claims paid immediately on proof of death.

Thirty days grace allowed for payment of premiums.

The profits will equal if not exceed those of any previous Division.

For every information apply to

H. O'CONNOR, Jr., - AGENT,

INGERSOLL & DISTRICT.

June 12th, 1884. 1605

LONDON AND LANCASHIRE

Life Assurance Com'y

OF ENGLAND.

Head Office for Canada,

217 St. James St., Montreal.

☞Policies unconditional and rate as low as absolute security will admit.

☞Reserves deposited annually with Government, thus rendering the policies unquestionable as to security.

Funds invested in Canada over $300,000 and increasing yearly.

Every desirable Form of Policy Issued

WM. ROBERTSON, MANAGER.

Ingersoll, July 26, 1883. 1559-y

London Loan Company,

LONDON, ONTARIO.

$100,000 to lend at Lowest Rates.

Short loans at 6 and 6½ per cent. Apply to

M. J. KENT, Manager,

London, Feb. 7th, 1884. 1587-y

VITAL QUESTIONS!!!!

Ask the most eminent physician

Of any school, what is the best thing in the world for quieting and allaying all irritation of the nerves, and curing all forms of nervous complaints, giving natural, childlike refreshing sleep always?

And they will tell you unhesitatingly

"Some form of Hops!!!"

CHAPTER I.

Ask any or all of the most eminent physicians;

"What is the best and only remedy that can be relied on to cure all diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs; such as Bright's disease, diabetes, retention, or inability to retain urine, and all the diseases and ailments peculiar to Women"—

"And they will tell you explicitly and emphatically "Buchu!!!"

Ask the same physicians

"What is the most reliable and surest cure for all liver diseases or dyspepsia; constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malaria, fever, ague, &c.," and they will tell you: "Mandrake! or Dandelion!!!!"

Hence, when these remedies are combined with others equally valuable,

And compounded into Hop Bitters, such a wonderful and mysterious curative power is developed, which is so varied in its operations that no disease or ill health can possibly exist or resist its power, and yet it is

Harmless for the most frail woman, weakest invalid or smallest child to use.

CHAPTER II.

"Patients

"Almost dead or nearly dying"

For years, and given up by physicians, of Bright's and other kidney diseases, liver complaints, severe coughs, called consumption, have been cured.

Women gone nearly crazy!!!!!

From agony of neuralgia, nervousness, wakefulness, and various diseases peculiar to women.

People drawn out of shape from excruciating pangs of rheumatism, inflammatory and chronic, or suffering from scrofula.

Erysipelas!

"Saltrheum, blood poisoning, dyspepsia, indigestion, and, in fact, almost all diseases frail"

Nature is heir to.

Have been cured by Hop Bitters, proof of which can be found in every neighborhood in the known world.

☞None genuine without a bunch of green Hops on the white label. Shun all the vile, poisonous stuff with "Hop" or "Hops" in their name.

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA AND SUGAR-COATED PILLS, The Great Purifiers OF THE BLOOD AND LIVER.

KIDNEY-WORT

THE SURE CURE FOR KIDNEY DISEASES, LIVER COMPLAINTS, CONSTIPATION, PILES, AND BLOOD DISEASES.

PHYSICIANS INDORSE IT HEARTILY.

"Kidney-Wort is the ... successful remedy I ever used." Dr. P. C. ..., Fellow, Monkton, Vt.

"Kidney-Wort is always ... reliable." Rev. ... Vt.

"Kidney-Wort has cured my wife of ... years suffering." Dr. C. M. Summerlin, Sun ..., Ga.

IN THOUSANDS OF CASES it has cured where all else had failed. It is mild, but efficient, CERTAIN IN ITS ACTION, and harmless in all cases.

☞It cleanses the Blood and Strengthens and gives New Life to all the important organs of the body. The natural action of the Kidneys is restored. The Liver is cleansed of all disease, and the Bowels move freely and healthfully. In this way the worst diseases are eradicated from the system. 2

PRICE, $1.00 LIQUID OR DRY, SOLD BY DRUGGISTS. Dry can be sent by mail.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO. Burlington Vt.

KIDNEY-WORT

VANCE'S BAKERY

continues to be the place where the public can get a full assortment of

CAKES AND CONFECTIONERY

Soda Biscuits and Oyster Crackers, Manufactured on the premises, and consequently always fresh.

Tea Parties Supplied. Bride Cakes Made and Neatly Ornamented at Reasonable Rates.

A large assortment of Ornamental Cake Tops and Flowers always on hand.

Fresh Bread and Buns Every Day.

R. VANCE, Thames Street.

☞Bread delivered in town daily.

A LAY OF LAWN TENNIS.

London (Eng.) World.

Where the level lawn is greenest, and the sunlight glistens sheenest,
Lo, she stands;
While the game is just beginning, there's the racket poised for winning—
In her hands.

She is daintily athletic, she is very energetic,
In the "set;"
See, she's just returned a twister, that was sent her by her sister.
O'er the net.

She is great at "Renshaw smashes," 'tis a stroke that rather rash is—
All the rage;
But her pretty little muscles are quite equal to the tussles
Of the game.

Happy he who stands beside her, and is privileged to guide her,
As she plays!
I could do that pleasant duty to this Amazonian beauty
All my days.

As I watch her garments flutter there are words I fain would utter,
But I'm dumb;
For she's tennis mad, and never from her racket seems to sever—
When I come.

I must take my chance while playing, there is danger in delaying;
I'll confide
My devotion so unswerving to the lady when I'm "serving"
By her side;

Not all Atalanta's paces, when she ran her famous races,
Were more fleet;
Like Milanion in olden days, I'd cast the apples golden—
At her feet.

A NIHILIST ROMANCE.

The Love of Andre Franjoli and Eugenie Zadadray.

Not very long since a brief paragraph in the Geneva papers mentioned, in the guarded language which it is the local usage to employ in such cases, the tragical death of a Russian revolutionist and his wife. He had died of a painful and lingering illness, through which his wife had nursed him with heroic devotion, and within an hour of his death she was found lying by his side, also dead, and both were covered with the same winding sheet.

Knowing something of the ways of Russian refugees, writes a Geneva correspondent of The London Daily News, that this event was the denouement of some terrible story of real life. I made inquiries and a Russian gentleman who was intimately acquainted with the unhappy pair was good enough to communicate to me the following narrative, which, beside being in itself deeply interesting, throws a vivid light on the causes of Russian discontent and the character and methods of the enthusiasts who, whatever we may think of the means they occasionally employ, are men of truly heroic mould, and never hesitate to sacrifice all they hold dear for the advancement of the cause to which they have devoted themselves. These men, the so-distant nihilists, are known in western Europe chiefly as a political party of extraordinary energy and resource, engaged in a mortal struggle with a truculent despotism. There are men whose exploits from time to time thrill the world with horror, and whose courageous deaths extort even the admiration of their foes. It is only on rare occasion that the veil which shrouds the mystery of what may be called their home lives (albeit few of them have homes) is withdrawn: for the nihilists say little of themselves, and it is not in the nature of things that the outer world should know what they do not choose to reveal. One of these occasions was the death of Andre Franjoli and his wife, and my informant possessed full knowledge of the romantic and touching story of their lives. This gentleman, I may add, has himself played an important part in the Russian revolutionary movement; nobody is better acquainted than he with "Underground Russia," and his name is not unknown in England. I give the story, word for word, as he gave it to me:

Andre Franjoli, born in one of the Black sea provinces—despite his name, of Russian parents—was one of the oldest and most respected members of our young revolutionary party. Although at the time barely 21 years old, he took part in the great propagandist movement of 1872 and 73 which opened in Russia the era of revolution. It was a time of vague yet noble yearnings—of a visionary socialism—or dreams of universal happiness to be attained by the sole force of teaching and example. Franjoli accepted the new faith with all the ardour of youth. A missionary by vocation and conviction, impressionable and passionate, enthusiastic to exultation, he personified that religious idea which, despite their professed materialism, is the leading motive of the apostles of Russian revolution. His faith in the redemption of the oppressed and the future of humanity seemed to be inspired by revolution rather than based on reason. His devotion had in it something verging on fanaticism; he was more ascetic in his habits, more heedless of his own comfort than a monk of the middle ages. Firmly believing in the regenerative force of ideas, he attributed too much importance to the moral perfection of the individual and too little to the reform of institutions which, as political science teaches, are the most powerful factors in the moral regeneration of mankind. While others discussed the relative value of insurrectional attempts and peaceful propaganda, Andre was preaching to his young disciples, in season and out of season, the necessity of personal example and an austere morality as a means of winning converts to socialism. In this way he acquired immense influence over the youth of St. Petersburg, Kieff, and Odessa, where he laboured incessantly. When, as in Russia, a propaganda has to be conducted secretly, and from man to man, a capacity in the missionary for attracting personal sympathy is of supreme importance. It would be difficult to find anywhere a man who possessed this precious gift in the same degree as Franjoli. The enthusiasm which was the principal trait of his character, together with a winning manner and natural kindness of heart, made all who knew him his devoted friends; and he, on his part, loved his comrades, his pupils, and his fellow workers with all the passion of a Christian zealot who sees in his converts brethren in the Lord, children of his Divine Master, and co-heirs of a heavenly inheritance. In 1874 Franjoli, abandoning his life in the towns, took a place as village schoolmaster in the province of Tchernigov, in order to begin a social propaganda among the peasants. After a few months' inactivity in his new sphere of duty, he was arrested under suspicion of teaching revolutionary doctrine. When o... was led away by two gendarmes all the village, men and women, young and old — notwithstanding the terror with which a Russian peasant always regards the emissaries of the law—accompanied Franjoli, silently and mournfully, for several miles on his road, and when they left him, looked the blessings they dared not utter. And later, when magistrates and officers went to the village to search for proofs against Franjoli, not a single witness could be induced, either by promises or threats, to testify against him, albeit he had carried on his propaganda freely, and almost without disguise, in the streets, at village fetes, and friendly gatherings, as well as at communal meetings, and from house to house. Three years and a half he was kept in prison without trial, and in the end the judges, in default of sufficient evidence to convict him, were compelled to pronounce him not guilty. On this he was exiled, by administrative order, to Solvitchegodiv, a small town in the far north. On his way thither Franjoli made an attempt to escape, which well nigh cost him his life. While his guardians were sleeping he jumped from the window of a railway carriage, but he was so badly hurt that he could not rise, and the next morning the gendarmes, when they returned to the spot, found him lying where he had fallen. He was then taken to the hospital of Solvitchegodiv, and after being discharged took up his quarters in the town. There he met Mlle. Eugenie Zadadray, whose acquaintance he had made when she was one of the accused in the trial of the 193. It is sometimes said that contrasts are mutually attractive. Perhaps this may be true, yet it is much more natural that common sympathies should be a bond of union and a cause of love; and there are natures that can never sympathise with their opposite natures, whose contrasts irritate and repel. Those are the natures that Heinrich Heine would have called Hebraic, whose peculiarity is to attach themselves not to the conventionally beautiful and charming, but to an abstract ideal which dominates and absorbs them to the point of fanaticism and intolerance. Whether his possessed one of those natures or not it was similarity of character and community of ideas that kindled the intense sympathy which quickly developed itself between Andre and the fair companion of his exile, for Eugenie belonged to the same exalted and enthusiastic type as himself. Like him she had suffered bonds and imprisonment, and like him she was still ready to spend and be spent in the cause to which both had consecrated their lives. Soon the mutual sympathy grew into an overmastering love and became one of those great passions that absorb the entire being and consume all the forces of the soul. Attachments of this ardent sort are much more common among nihilists than might be supposed. Men and women meet as companion at-arms, they combat in the same ranks, share the same views, gain the same reward. The complete equality that prevails between the sexes, and the sense of ever-present danger, to which all alike are exposed, render that lofty and romantic love sung by poets much more frequent in the wild and inflammable world of nihilism than in the world of restraint and convention. Of this sort were the loves of Andre and Eugenie. The first months of their union were the happiest they had ever known or conceived—or were destined to know—and seemed to both rather the realization of a romantic dream than an episode of real life. A common friend, Mlle. A. R., who visited them at this time, remarked to another common friend, little thinking how soon and how terribly her prevision would be verified, that the affection of the Franjolis was greater than life itself, and that neither could outlive the other. But love had quenched neither their revolutionary ardor nor their loyalty to the great cause in which their friends were engaged, and to which they devoted their lives. Their happiness became even a reproach to them, and they burned to take part in the mortal struggle with despotism which had now become one of acts as well as of words. They contrived a plan of escape. In February, 1879, they left Solvitchegodiv, and after a long and perilous journey succeeded in reaching St. Petersburg, where they were at once affiliated to the organization known as the Narodnaio Volia. The difficulties and dangers which always beset the path of conspirators, especially in Russia, were greatly increased in the case of the Franjolis by the state of Andre's health. His naturally not robust constitution, after suffering from the fatigues and privations inseparable from the life of an active propagandist, had become still further enfeebled by his long imprisonment, and he never fully recovered from the effects of his terrible leap from the railway carriage. He was affected with chronic anemia and a disease of the bones, and the physicians whom he consulted at St. Petersburg were able to afford him but little present relief, and not much hope of ultimate recovery. The life of a revolutionist who had to be perpetually on the move, and to hide where he could, was moreover altogether incompatible with the care, attention, and regimen which his case imperatively demanded, and Andre grew worse and worse. A friend—one of the editors of the Narodnaio Volia—relates that in December, 1880, when he went to warn Franjoli that his whereabouts had become known to the police, and that he must instantly remove to fresh quarters, he could hardly walk, and it was only by a sort of miracle that they contrived to elude the spy by whom they were tracked. Yet, despite his sufferings, aggravated by the dangers to which he was exposed, and the entreaties of his fellow workers, he refused to retire from the contest. In the courage of this young man, stricken with a mortal malady, as weak as a child, and with the look of a corpse, there was something superhuman and almost sublime. Not being able to move about, Franjoli took always the position of house master in the Conspiratory Kvartiry—that is to say, in the rooms in which the terrorists met to receive their orders and discuss their plans. Holders of this position are invariably exposed to great danger by reason of the coming and going of the conspirators, and the risk thereby incurred of attracting the notice of the police or their spies. Now that both are gone there is no reason why it should not be known that in the house of Franjolis was made the dynamite destined to blow up the mine on March 13, 1880, and that Andre and his wife superintended the making of the bombs which were used with such fatal effect on the Katarina canal. Domenico Guerratzi, an Italian writer, describes a battle between Corsican patriots and a French force much superior in numbers, in which the wounded Corsicans formed with their bleeding bodies a barricade to protect their comrades from the bullets of the foe and enable the survivors to continue the struggle. No less heroic was the conduct of the two Franjolis. He hardly able to move from his bed, the house full of deadly explosives, not knowing what a day might bring forth, liable at any moment to a visit from the police, and neither able to escape himself nor destroy the damning evidence which would have insured his death on the scaffold. She watching over her husband day after day, hardly ever daring to venture from his side; listening even in the watches of the night for the footfall of the enemy and the summons to admit the emissaries of the czar; living in instant expectation of death, for both carried poison, and were firmly resolved, if the summons should come, to die rather than be taken. But great as was their love for each other, their devotion to that which they believed to be their duty was even greater. Eugenie, with full consent of her husband, placed herself unreservedly at the disposal of the executive committee, and offered to go whithersoever her services might be most useful to the cause. But none had the heart to require from them so terrible a sacrifice, and they remained together to the last. After the death of Alexander II. they left St. Petersburg—which had become more dangerous than ever—for the south of Russia, and from that time forth, owing to Andre's increasing weakness, they were unable to take any further part in the revolutionary movement. Early in the present year it was deemed expedient for them to leave Russia, and in May last they arrived in Geneva, where they received a warm welcome from many old and faithful friends. But death was written in Andre's face, and none who saw him could doubt that the end was near. Eugenie never left his side; her devotion was heroic, and the calmness of her manner and the serenity of her spirit surprised all who were admitted to her intimacy. We knew afterward that it was the serenity of irrevocable resolve neither in life nor in death to be separated from him she loved. At 9 o'clock on the morning of Aug. 7, Andre, after cruel sufferings, closed his eyes forever. "It is finished," said Eugenie, turning to a friend who was with her; "his troubles are over. I am content." Then she arranged the chamber carefully, as if she expected a solemn visit, and dismissed her friend with the remark that, after so many sleepless nights, she felt the need of rest. When left to herself she sat down and wrote a letter of farewell to her friends. This done, she sat down on the bed where lay the corpse, swallowed a large dose that she had brought with her from Russia, and, lying down, drew over herself the same cloth with which she had veiled the face of her dead husband. An hour later, when a member of the household in which they had dwelt entered the chamber of death, Eugenie, though unconscious, still lived, but it was impossible to save her, and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon she breathed her last. Husband and wife were laid side by side in the communal cemetery, and followed to the grave by many mourners who knew the touching story of their lives. In Andre and Eugenie Franjoli the party has lost two of its most devoted members, but their death will not have been in vain, and their friends will never forget them. "They were noble representatives," said one of their most intimate friends in his funeral oration, "of the Noradnaio Volia party. Let us think of them so often as possible; let the recollection of their heroism and devotion encourage and strengthen us. To those who are not of us their lives and their deaths will not only show how nihilists love one another, but how they love their cause."

HOW IT FEELS TO BE INSANE.

The Strange Experience of a Recovered Lunatic.

I was once insane and I often muse over my experience. There are, of course, many kinds of insanity. Some mental disorders take place so gradually that even the closest companions of the victim are at a loss to remember when the trouble began. It must have been this way in my case. One evening, after an oppressively warm day, a day when I experienced more fatigue from the heat than ever before or since, I sat on my porch fanning myself. "This arm that is now in motion," I mused, "must one of these days be dust. I wonder how long will the time be." Then I mused upon the evidence I had of immortality. I could do things that other people could not accomplish. I had gone through battle after battle, and though bullets sang and struck around me thick as hail, yet I remained uninjured. I had passed through epidemics of yellow fever. My idea gained strength as I mused, and I was convinced that I should live for ever. No, this cannot be, for death follows all men alike. Yes, I am to die like other men, and I believe that it is my duty to make the most of life; to make money, and enjoy myself, and to educate my children. I wanted to be rich, and I began to study over an imaginary list of enterprises. At last I hit upon radishes. People must have radishes. They should be in every store. They could be dried and sold in winter. I would plant fifty acres with radish seed, and people all over the country would refer to me as the "radish king." I would form a radish syndicate, and buy up all the radishes, and travel around and be admired. I hastened to the house to tell my wife that she was soon to be a radish queen. At the breakfast table I said:

"Julia, how would you like to be a radish queen?"

"A what?" she exclaimed.

I explained my plan of acquiring great wealth, and during the recital she acted so curiously that I was alarmed. I feared that she was losing her mind. Finally she seemed to understand. She agreed with me, but told me not to say anything more about it. After breakfast I saw her talking earnestly with her father, and I knew that she was explaining to the old gentleman how she intended to pay his debts when I became known as the radish king. The old man approached me, with much concern, and told me that I needed rest, and that I must not think of business. Pretty soon I went out to inspect my radish kingdom. Looking around, I saw the old man following me. From the field I went to the village. I approached a prominent citizen, who had always been my friend, and told him how I intended to become rich. He seemed grieved, and I saw at once that he was contemplating the same enterprise. It seemed mean that he should take advantage of me, and I told him so. He tried to explain, but he made me so mad that I would have struck him if my father-in-law had not come up and separated us. I tried to calm myself, but could not. Those who had been my friends proved to be my enemies, and I was determined to be avenged, but before I could execute my will I was seized by several men. My father-in-law did not attempt to rescue me, and I hated him. I was taken to gaol. My wife came to see me, but she did not try to have me released. I demanded a trial but no lawyer would defend me. Then I realized that the entire community was against me. I became so mad that my anger seemed to hang over me like a dark cloud. It pressed me to the floor and held me there. Men came after a long time, and took me away, I thought, to the penitentiary. One day a cat came into my cell, and I tried to bite it. She made the hair fly, but I killed her. I don't know how long I remained here, but one morning the sun rose and shone in at me through the window. It seemed to be the first time that I had seen the great luminary for months. A mist cleared from before my eyes. My brain began to work, and suddenly I realized that I had been insane. I called the keeper, and when he saw me he exclaimed "Thank God!" and grasped my hand. I was not long in putting on another suit of clothes, and turning my face toward home. A physician said that I was cured, and everybody seemed bright and happy at my recovery. I boarded a train, with a gentleman, and went home. My wife fainted when she saw me and learned that I had recovered my mind. I asked for my little children, and two big boys and a young lady came forward and greeted me. I had been in the asylum twelve years.

Granville has received a dispatch from General Gordon, giving assurance of his health and safety.

The Fortescue-Garmoyle breach of promise case has been withdrawn. The Earl of Cairns, Garmoyle, a father, paid the plaintiff large damages.

The Free Church of Scotland has taken a step in advance. The General Assembly has decided to adopt both a hymnal and the use of instrumental music in the church—the latter by a majority of 321 to 119.

The Austrian Government has very wisely issued rigorous regulations respecting beautifiers, hair dyes and patent medicines. Those containing poison must be sold by druggists only by medical prescription, and none are to be sold of which the authorities do not know the composition, or which they recognize a prejudicial to health.

The picnic season has resulted in several cases of poisoning in Detroit, the affected parties having partaken of cheese as part of their lunch. It is concluded by the examining scientists that some fungus growth attached itself to the cheese, but they are unable to account for it further than to suggest that it may be the result of improper storage or to affect cheese coming from same particular locality.

THOUSANDS SAY SO.

Mr. T. W. Atkins, Girard, Kan., writes: "I never hesitate to recommend your Electric Bitters to my customers, they give entire satisfaction and are rapid sellers." Electric Bitters are the purest and best medicine known and will positively cure Kidney and Liver complaints. Purify the blood and regulate the bowels. No family can afford to be without them. They will save hundreds of dollars in doctor's bills every year. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by John Gayfer. 6t

All straw is alike to the hungry donkey.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF—Cleanse the scalp with Prof. Low's Magic Sulphur Soap. A delightful medicated soap for the toilet. 8t.

HOW THEY DANCED.

In the Good Old Times of Shakespeare, Queen Anne and James I.

A young man was found lying on a stoop in New York and taken to the police station on a charge of drunkenness. Before the Magistrate he said: "I was not drunk. I went to a party and became dizzy from dancing. There were ten girls to one fellow, and you can imagine that my lot was not a happy one." Indeed, he went further, and declared he could not wish a worse fate for his greatest enemy than to have him go to a party where there were ten girls to one fellow.

This young man's experience suggests some facts about the history of dancing and an episode that ended more disastrously than his.

The ancients held the dance in the very highest esteem, for was it not invented by the Goddess Rhea, who preserved Jupiter from Saturn? while Homer and Hesoid sang its praises. Socrates himself, who is supposed to have realized the vanity of all things save the immortality of the soul, went to the trouble of learning dancing when an old man, and perhaps received the invitation of some antique edition of Mrs. Ponsonby de Tomkins or Mrs. Leo Hunter eager for his entrance. But then it must be borne in mind that the classic dance was more severe in character, as the martial Pyrrhic dance, performed by Greek or Roman armed cap-a-pie, weapon, torce or wand in hand, amply testifies. The ancient rustic was, however, particularly partial to a curious dance, which consisted of jumping with one foot only on a bladder inflated with air or filled with wine and rubbed on the outside with oil; and he who did this slippery exercise well, received the wine-skin for his pains. The dance of the Eumenides, or Furies, in the theater at Athens, is said to have produced such an effect upon the spectators that they were totally unable to control their excited feeling and the direst result often happened. Dancing now remains among all savage nations the outward and visible sign of their emotions. Perhaps the most curious custom in the history of dancing is that which is said to have taken place at Limoges not long ago, where the inhabitants "danced the round" in the choir of the church, invoking their patron saint, St. Marcel, saying, instead of Gloria Patri, "St. Marcel, pray for us, and we shall dance in honor of you."

Witty "Beatrice," in "Much Ado About Nothing," gives a graphic review of the dances of Shakespeare's time, where, speaking of "Hero," she says: "Wooing, wedding and repenting is as a Scotch jig, a measure and a cinque pace: the first suit is hot and hasty, like a Scotch jig, and full as fantastical; the wedding mannerly modest as a measure, full of state and ancientry; and then comes repentence and, with his bad legs, falls into the cinque pace faster and faster, till he sinks into his grave."

In such high repute was dancing held in the reign of James I. that the benchers of Lincoln's Inn issued an order that "under-barristers were, by decimation, put out of commons, because the whole bar offended by not dancing on Candlemas-day proceeding, according to the ancient order of the society, when the judges were present, and that if the fault were repeated they should be fined or disbarred." Later on, down to Queen Anne's time, when ladies in hoop and farthingale, crested with marvelous edifices of pomatumed hair and power, contrived to dance the stately minuet or gavotte, "dancing was dancing in those days," and it was also through the reigns of the Georges, when men had their legs encased in painfully tight pantaloons, having a most disagreeable effect of showing up a deficiency of shapely calf. The present generation has at least to be thankful that the wheel of fashion has rescued the dancer from this and invented the trouser. The country dances, derived merely from a corruption of contre-danse—that is, a number of persons placed opposite each other to begin a figure—became, by this confusion of ideas, rooted in rustic favor naturally because these dances introduced greater personal familiarity between the partners, and were more or less of a romping order. The introduction of these dances, even of the glorious Sir Rodger de Coverly, into select circles was at first resented by the ton, but finally levity prevailed.

The Difference.

Burdette: "There is this difference between us," said the needy tramp, looking the editor full in the eye. "You fill a long felt want, and I want a long felt fill." The editor wept, and with many a muffled blow hewed off a fragment of a wedding-cake that had been sent in with the notice, and handed it to the wanderer. "Fill up on that," he said, "and you will feel it long after all trivial fond records have been wiped away from the subtraction-table of your memory."

A Romance of the Chase.

Walking across country into the 'Land of Burns,' into the parish where Tam o' Shanter had his habitation, we strike on a romantic incident to which Scotland owes the most memorable of its sovereigns, Robert Bruce. Martha or Marjory, Countess of Carrick, a young widow whose husband had fallen into Barbary fighting for the Cross, while out hunting one day with her squires and handmaidens, met a gallant knight riding over her domains. The 'seemly' youth proved to be the son of the noble lord of Annandale. When greetings and kisses had been given on each side, as is wont of courtiers, she besought him to stay and hunt and walk about. Seeing that he was rather unwilling to do so, she by force so to speak, with her own hands made him pull up, and brought the knight with her to the castle of Turnberry, though he was very loth to go. After dallying there with his followers for fifteen days, or more, he took the Countess to wife clandestinely, while the friends and well-wishers of both knew nothing about it, not had the king's consent been got at all in the matter. Therefore, the common belief of the whole country was that she had forcibly laid hold on this youth for her husband. When the thing came to the ears of King Alexander he seized the castle of Turnberry, and made all her other lands and possessions be acknowledged as in his hands because she had wedded Robert the Bruce without consulting his royal majesty. However, by means of the entreaties of friends, and by means of a certain sum of money agreed upon, this Robert gained the King's good will and the whole domain of the ardent countess. The noble couple were the parents of King Robert Bruce.

THE WEAK AND IMPURE.

The merry little mountain brook, as it lightly dances over the rocks and sparkles in the sunshine on its way down to the river is pure and clean. It is active; therefore, it is healthy. It is vigorous; therefore, it resists impurity.

But the sluggish pool, where the current is not strong enough to keep the water in motion, is stagnant and foul. Dirt and rubbish are thrown into it, and stay there. Impurities and vile odors make it a breeder of disease and an object to be avoided.

When the blood is strong and rich and red, and vigorously courses its accustomed rounds through arteries and veins, the system is hearty and healthy.

When the blood is thin and poor and weak, impurities and defilements creep into it, and it has no strength to cast them out. Then the system runs down.

Shaker Blood Syrup purifies and enriches the Blood; curing Scrofula, Cancer, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Ulcers and Skin and Blood diseases of every description.

A dollar a bottle at your nearest druggists. 9i.

All that is yellow is not butter.

Nothing gives such beautiful colors as the Star Dyes.

A STRANGE DIVORCE CASE.

Euston vs. Euston—Remarkable Complications.

The divorce case of Euston vs. Euston has caused an extraordinary sensation in England. The London Times says:—Had such a tale as that unfolded in Court formed the plot of a novel or a play, the author would have been reproved for sinning against the probabilities of life and for painfully straining after effects. We can conceive Mr. Wilkie Collins, in his most inventive and daring hours, devising some such complications, but the facts proved on Friday in solemn form before Sir James Hannon threw into the shade the staple of sensational literature. When about two-and-twenty years of age, Lord Euston, heir to the Dukedom of Grafton

The Ingersoll Chronicle

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

THURSDAY, JULY 10, 1884.

THE cholera is coming. Keep the town clean.

THE two great parties in the United States are evenly divided. In 1880 the popular and electoral votes were as follows :—

	States.	Popular vote.	Electoral.
Garfield,	19	4,449,053	214
Hancock,	19	4,442,035	155

The electoral vote is cast by states; hence the great difference in the majority as compared with the popular vote.

THE petition for the repeal of the Scott Act in Halton county has been filed in the sheriff's office. It contains 2,520 signatures, and it is asserted that even supposing 100 of these are struck off for deaths, removals, and other irregularities, there will still be double the number required. In Halton county the most vigorous of all the Scott Act campaigns will be conducted, for it is felt that if the movement for repeal succeeds the result will be a severe blow to the agitation in favor of prohibition in other municipalities.

A United States paper compares the efforts England is making to reduce her debt with what the United States has done. The English do not consider their national debt so unmixed an evil, and are paying it off more slowly. Yet they have done much, and the desire to get rid of the debt appears to grow stronger. In proportion to our means, says the Globe, the debt of Canada is greater than that of the United States or of Great Britain, and we go on adding to it recklessly, madly, and adding to our other burdens and liabilities so fast that many have become anxious about our immediate future. The addition of fifty millions to the debt and liabilities of Canada in a single session surprised and shocked all who feel an interest in this country.

STEP by step the cholera is advancing in Europe from the original scene of its outbreak at Toulon. It is now as far as Marseilles and Lyons. It has in a few weeks advanced half way to Paris from where it first broke out. It has also appeared at Saluzzo in Piedmont, and is raging very virulently at Odessa on the Black Sea. At Paris, Rome, Madrid, Hamburg, Antwerp, Stockholm, and London, and everywhere the authorities are up and doing what they can to bar out the unwelcome visitor. Strict quarantine has been established, sanitary cordons are drawn, and all the resources of modern science are being put in requisition. When it will arrive on this continent no one can tell. It may break out in any of the great centres of population any time for it approaches insidiously and attacks swiftly. With such an amount of traffic as is going on between the two continents it may be carried to New York or any of the sea board cities, nobody knows how, nobody knows when.

WE are sure that on reflection the majority of our townspeople will agree with us that the action of certain members of the town council in introducing a motion of censure on the late Court of Revision was ill timed and flavoured strongly of spitefulness. The Court of Revision was regularly constituted and they entered into their work zealously, and with the laudable desire of doing justice to all. As a result of their deliberations they have increased the assessment over $21,000, thus reducing the rate of taxation appreciably, and placing it on a fairer basis. The Court may have overstepped its bounds in some ways, but we believe they acted throughout with the sole aim of placing the assessment on a more equitable footing. This being the case they are deserving of the praise of every citizen, for their position was not an enviable one. The Council should have allowed the Judge to pronounce on the twenty-four appeals. The attempt to make a wholesale condemnation of the acts of the Court will not have the approval of the ratepayers generally we feel certain. Mayor Noxon, in voting against the motion, took the proper view of the situation, and did his duty as a representative of the people, although as a private citizen he had appealed to the Judge against his assessment.

NEWS NOTES.

El Mahdi is still following his gory path in Egypt.

There were nine deaths from cholera in twelve hours yesterday at Toulon.

One man killed another by a blow of his fist in Montreal yesterday.

The St. Louis Republican has decided to employ no more union printers; 35 have been discharged.

The jury in the case of Callaghan killed by a blow of the fist from McDonald in Montreal, has returned a verdict of excusable homicide.

A son of acting Mayor Mumford, of New Orleans, who was hung by Gen. Butler in 1862, threatens to kill Butler if he runs for president.

Dr. Koch, the head German cholera commissioner, thinks that cholera is not inhaled, but swallowed with water, fruits and vegetables.

A family in Clinton were poisoned last week by eating canned lobsters. The poison was very rank, and the lives of the parties were only saved by strong antidotes being administered promptly.

Lobo, about twelve miles from London was visited Friday afternoon by a destructive hurricane, which travelled from the north-west to the north-east. Its track was only a few hundred yards in width but the damage done was quite serious.

There is danger in tight-lacing of boots as well as in tight corset-lacing. Mrs. Jessie Raymond, a well-known British actress, after suffering intense pain for a long period, has just died at Glasgow from an ulcerated ankle, brought on through tight boot-lacing.

Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, the distinguished Baptist preacher, promises to be unselfish to the end. He has resolved to devote the $22,500 presented to him on the 50th anniversary of his birthday to religious and philanthropic institutions.

In the contest for the championship at Wimbledon on Friday there were 28 entries, including Dwight, of Boston. He defeated Ridgeway, of the Avondale Club, easily. There were only four advantage games, and Dwight won all. His remarkable knack of cutting the ball back over his head puzzles English players.

Cure for Cholera.

London, July 2.—Advices from Toulon say that five cases of cholera have been cured there by inhaling pure oxygen. The effect of this is immediate, and consists in restoring warmth to the system and making the pulse normal once more. The Times, commenting on these cures, says: "Nervous persons may henceforth trust in the existence of a cure for cholera. The Academy of Medicine ought to inquire into the oxygen treatment."

WIDE AWAKE DRUGGISTS.

John Gayfer is always alive to business, and spares no pains to secure the best of every article in his line. He has secured the agency for the celebrated Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The only certain cure known for Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Asthma, May Fever, Bronchitis, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs. Sold on a positive guarantee. Trial Bottles free. Regular size $1.00. 6t

EGGS! EGGS!!

Highest price in cash paid for fresh eggs at Vance's Bakery, Ingersoll. 8t

NEWS NOTES

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM ALL SOURCES.

Personal and General Gossip.

A cyclone on Friday night caused considerable damage at Sioux City, Ia.

The Metal Workers' National Union was organized in Philadelphia on Saturday.

De Lesseps declares there is no ground for the assumption that the Panama Canal will not be finished in 1888.

The Butler boom is declining. A prominent Georgian delegate says his nomination would lose Georgia for the Democrats.

The Dominion line steamship Oregon, Captain Williams, which left Liverpool 3rd inst., has on board £100,000 stg. in sovereigns for the bank of Montreal.

Frank Hartmann, the New York Socialist who threatened suicide, has been found and cared for. He was wading into the river when discovered.

Captain Joseph E. Dutton, of the Allan steamer Sardinian, died in the General Hospital in Montreal on Sunday of Bright's disease, aged 57.

The U. S. House Committee on Foreign Affairs reported a resolution asking the President to negotiate for the renewal of the Canadian reciprocity treaty.

The Tammany delegation left New York for Chicago by the New York Central at nine Saturday morning. It was over 600 strong. The Irving Hall delegates left by the Erie.

By the explosion of a toy cannon at Schenectady, N.Y., on Friday, both eyes of Harry Furman, aged ten, son of ex-assemblyman Furman, were put out, and his hand mutilated.

While a young lad leading a cow was trying to urge her over the railway crossing at St. John's on Saturday, a passenger train from Montreal came along striking and instantly killing the boy and cow.

One day last week, while some men were in the bush near the North Shore road, Parry Sound, they came across a large bear and immediately shot it. After it was dead and the hide taken off it weighed 500 pounds.

The Niagara park project is progressing as favorably as possible. The board of appraisers to take testimony as to the value of the property to be taken will meet at the Falls this month, and continue in session until their work is completed.

There are 3,985 paper mills in the world, which turn out annually 1,904,000,000 pounds of paper. Half of this is used in printing generally, while 600,000,000 pounds are used for newspapers. An average of 11½ pounds is used by every Englishman and 10½ pounds by every American.

An Order-in-Council, published in the Canada Gazette, provides that goods the produce or manufacture of Canada which have been exported therefrom, and intended to be returned, may be admitted free of duty on being imported into Canada, provided such goods or packages were entered for export, and branded or marked by a collector or proper officer of Customs at the port or place where they are so imported, and provided that the property in such goods or packages has continued in the same person by whom they were exported, and that such importation takes place within one year of the exportation. The Order-in-Council relating to the same matter of the 19th March, 1883, is repealed.

To Toronto belongs the honor of the latest important invention. It is to be known by the name of "The Infold," and Mr. A. Cox, treasurer and superintendent of supplies of the Great North-Western Telegraph Company, is the inventor. The "infold" is a device for folding a sheet of paper containing a telegram, invoice, monthly statement, way-bill, advertising circular, or ordinary letter, in such a manner that the address written by the operator or writer of the document appears on the outside of the communication when folded. Its advantages are manifold. It has come into use as a telegraph blank in the Montreal and Toronto offices of the G. N. W. Telegraph Company, and that Company expects to place the new blanks on the whole of their system as the old stock becomes exhausted.

The first Mexican bull-fight on American soil took place last Friday, at Dodge City, Kansas. A large number of visitors arrived, and five hundred cowboys were present. There were five bull-fighters and four animals. The first bull made only a fair fight, furnishing half an hour's amusement. The second showed no spirit and was withdrawn. The third pranced into the ring, throwing up clouds of dust. After being angered by several spear thrusts, he made matters very lively, and as soon as he was exhausted he was lassoed and dragged from the ring. The fourth proved a failure, and the crowd demanded the first bull, which was returned. After a brisk fight and much charging, the picadore gave him a fatal thrust. One of the matadores was severely injured. The crowd was greatly excited.

Senator Skead died at Ottawa on Saturday. He was 67 years of age. The deceased Senator was born near Moresby Hall in Cumberland, Eng., and was educated there. After coming to this country he was long and intimately connected with the lumbering and manufacturing interests. He was President of the Ottawa Board of Trade, of the City of Ottawa Agricultural Society, and of the Ottawa Liberal-Conservative Association. He was also President of the Dominion Board of Trade, a director of the Ottawa Association of Lumber Manufacturers, of the Madawaska River Improvement Company, and of the Caughnawaga Ship Canal Company. At different times also he was Vice-President of the Canada Central Railway Company, and of the Montreal and Ottawa City Junction Railway. He was elected President of the Liberal-Conservative Convention which met in Toronto, 23rd of September, 1874. In 1876 he was appointed a Judge of the Timber Department of the U. S. Centennial. He unsuccessfully contested Carleton for the Ontario Assembly at the general election in 1867. He was called to the Senate by Royal Proclamation in May 1867. He resigned in 1881 and was re-appointed on 24th December, 1881.

Crops in the vicinity of Quebec are looking remarkably well. Hay is thick and heavy, oats average, potatoes somewhat backward, but it is thought that with the recent rains they will greatly improve.

A lad thirteen years of age, named Wright, was killed at Hochelaga depot on Monday by a mass of coal falling on him. His sister received injuries from the same cause which will probably terminate fatally.

During the month of June 19 steamers from Montreal carried 7,189 head of cattle and 892 sheep for England. Of these 3,173 cattle were taken to Liverpool, and the rest to Glasgow, London, Southampton and Bristol.

The liquidators of the Exchange Bank in Montreal have sold 3,000 shares in the Royal Canadian Insurance Co., which were deposited for advances to Mr. F. E. Gilman, advocate. The shares only brought ten dollars each.

Schedules of Grant & Ward, of New York, filed on Monday last, show liabilities $16,792,000, nominal assets $27,139,000, actual assets $67,000. The assignee says the books do not show with any degree of completeness or accuracy the transactions of the firm. He believes immense sums of money were borrowed at usurious rates of interest, and upon fraudulent representations.

Another unsuccessful attempt to wreck a Canadian Pacific railway train on the Pembina branch was made on Friday night at the same place as on the previous evening. The bolts were taken from the fish-plates, but fortunately the conductor took the precaution to stop his train on reaching the spot. Thus a calamity was avoided. The object of the perpetrators is unknown, unless it was robbery.

It appears that very serious losses have resulted from the recent fires in the woods, particularly in the vicinity of Baie St. Paul and St. Joachim. The seminary of Quebec has alone lost some $40,000, and Mr. Valé, the farmer of the seminary, loses a large number of sugar utensils in a sugar bush which has been destroyed. The chapel built upon Cape Tourmente has also been burnt. The fire originated, it is said, in a small fire made by sportsmen from Quebec city. There is a story that the parties are known, and are to be prosecuted by the seminary.

FOREIGN NEWS ITEMS.

UNDOING STANLEY'S WORK.

Despatches from St. Paul de Loanda on the west coast of Africa mention reports that Stanley has sailed for England. Commanders of Portuguese war vessels ascended the Congo and annulled the treaties Stanley concluded with natives, which granted to the African International Association sovereignty over territory that had been declared neutral.

A LORD LET OFF LIGHT.

Lord St. Leonards was sentenced today to seven weeks' imprisonment for his assault on a domestic, which term includes the time already spent in jail. This was a virtual discharge, as the term expired Monday. The lightness of the sentence is bitterly denounced.

BRITISH EMIGRATION.

The official returns of the emigration from the British Islands during the six months ending June 30 show that it was considerably less than during the corresponding period of last year. The total number of emigrants during the last half year was 82,276 against 114,148 in the first half year of 1883. The emigration to Canada has fallen off in a more marked degree than the general emigration, the number being only 19,476 this year, against 27,846 in 1883.

MR. GLADSTONE'S ILLNESS.

Mr. Gladstone is again ill, and there is even more than the usual amount of mystery as to the nature of his malady and the seriousness of the attack. His physician says he has merely an attack of dysentery, which has already yielded to treatment.

THE FLAG OF FRANCE HAULED DOWN.

A Paris special dated July 4 says: "The excitement over the cholera was greatly enhanced to-day by the announcement that the military students at the school of St. Cyr, about twelve miles from this city, had revolted and hauled down the tri-colors of the republic and hoisted the white colors of the Bourbon regime in its stead. The services of the gendarmes were required to restore order.

EXCURSION TO THE ROCKIES.

A select party of seven earls has been formed to hunt large game in the Rocky Mountains next autumn. They will leave during the latter part of next month.

A MURDEROUS BURGLAR.

Makes an Onslaught Upon a Brantford Man With a Knife.

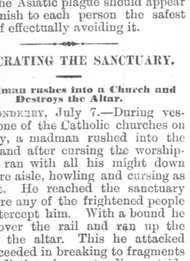
BRANTFORD, July 7.—On Sunday morning about three o'clock a burglar entered the residence of W. J. McHaffie and proceeded to Mr. McHaffie's bedroom, where he was helping himself to valuables when Mr. McHaffie awoke and told him to drop that. The robber, with a long knife, turned on McHaffie, who drew his revolver, but it missed fire. A scuffle ensued and the robber made several plunges with his knife at Mr. McHaffie, but with a pillow he warded them off, and the knife cutting through the pillow inflicted a slight flesh wound in McHaffie's arm. The knife struck the bedpost and the blade broke in two and the robber fled through the window. McHaffie again fired at him but missed, the ball passing through the window frame. The thief obtained entrance by cutting away two bars of the Venetian window shutters and raising the window.

The Cholera.

That the Asiatic cholera prevails in some places in France seems to be established beyond a doubt. It has been found by experience that this epidemic travels most usually by the routes of commerce. In 1832 it made its appearance on this continent in Canada, in June; appeared at New York in the early part of July, and in Philadelphia at the latter part of the same month. Progressing by the water routes and avoiding elevated regions, it gradually spread through various parts of the country. In 1849, after its appearance in Europe, it made some impression upon the Atlantic ports of this country, and was active along the Mississippi river and its tributaries. Rigorous quarantine measures have been successful in keeping out this scourge since 1866, when a number of sporadic cases occurred, but these measures afford no absolute assurance of immunity. The individual may best avoid contagion by a temperate and orderly life, and shunning all excesses. Unripe or overripe fruit should be let alone, and vegetables, even when properly cooked, partaken of with moderation. Good beef, mutton and bread, with milk, hominy, oatmeal, hulled corn and rice would form a safe diet. Stimulants should be avoided. Thirst is best quenched by cold tea or weak lemonade, avoiding ice water. Whether the cholera comes or not, these simple dietic rules are worth observing, since they embody the principles of right living during the sultry months. And if the Asiatic plague should appear they furnish to each person the safest means of effectually avoiding it.

DESECRATING THE SANCTUARY.

A Madman rushes into a Church and Destroys the Altar.



LONDONDERRY, July 7.—During vespers at one of the Catholic churches on Saturday, a madman rushed into the church, and after cursing the worshippers, he ran with all his might down the centre aisle, howling and cursing as he went. He reached the sanctuary rail before any of the frightened people could intercept him. With a bound he passed over the rail and ran up the steps to the altar. This he attacked and succeeded in breaking to fragments the benediction pieces standing outside the tabernacle. He then leaped on the altar table and cursed the people and priests. Disrobing himself of his coat, vest, and pantaloons, he danced upon the altar, and then snatched up the Communion cloth and tore it to tatters with his teeth. Finally the officiating priest and several of the men recovered their self-possession, and sprang upon the intruder. He was hurled from the altar, and would have been torn limb from limb but for the interference of the priest. The man made a desperate resistance, and was not overcome until some police arrived and he was handcuffed. It was ascertained that he was of weak mind, and had become hopelessly demented during the recent exciting political events in Derry. The scene in the church was one of terrible excitement, and during the panic several women swooned.

County and Vicinity.

On the evening of Dominion Day, Mr. Robert Sutherland, sr., of Dorchester, was agreeably surprised by about one half of the most prominent members and adherents of the Presbyterian Church, of Dorchester station, visiting his residence, when Mr. James Gilmour, on behalf of the many admirers of Mr. Wm. Sutherland, presented him with a very kindly-worded address, accompanied by a gold-headed cane, as a slight recognition of his long services as leader of the choir of the congregation, a position from which he recently resigned.

Embro Courier:—"The Post Master General has acted wisely, and the residents of Embro and vicinity heartily appreciate his courtesy in conceding to their unanimous request in appointing Miss Mary Matheson to fill the vacancy in the Post Office occasioned by the death of her esteemed father."

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength, and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall-st., N. Y. January 24th, 1884. 1555-52t

QUEBEC'S LIEUT.-GOVERNORSHIP.

A Rumor that Alonzo Wright Will be Robitaille's Successor.

MONTREAL, July 7.—Lieut.-Governor Robitaille's term of office expires on the 26th instant, having on that day filled the high office for the stipulated period of five years. As yet the Dominion Cabinet does not appear to have fixed on a successor, but it is understood that Sir John Macdonald is very favorable to the claims of Mr. Alonzo Wright, M.P. for Ottawa county. If the "King of the Gatineau" receives the nomination it will be the first time an English-speaking Canadian has filled the position since confederation. The name of Mr. C. J. Coursol is also freely mentioned as a suitable person to fill the position, whilst the most recent rumor says that Hon. Mr. Justice Taschereau, of the Supreme Court, is the coming man, and that in the event of his accepting the honor he will be succeeded in the Supreme Court by Mr. Justice Tessier, of Court of Queen's Bench, in his turn to be succeeded by Mr. D. Girouard, M.P. for Jacques Cartier.

MILLIONS OF DEAD SHAD.

The Species being a Sea Fish will not Exist in Fresh Water.

OTTAWA, July 7.—The Marine and Fisheries Department have come to the conclusion that the millions of dead fish now floating on Lake Ontario are young shad hatched at Mr. Seth Green's fish breeding establishment at Rochester, N.Y., and placed in streams tributary to the lake. Shad being a sea fish will not, it seems, live in the lakes. It is believed that the falling off in the catch of whitefish in Lake Ontario is also due to the poisoning of the waters by the dead shad. Representations will probably be made to the United States Government respecting the matter.

STRAYED.

From the premises of the subscriber, on Dominion Day, a large BLACK SOW, with small white stripe on face; about two years old; her pigs lately weaned from her. Any person giving information that will lead to her recovery will be suitably rewarded.

THOS. HISLOP,
Lot 29, Con. 2, West Oxford.
July 10, 1884. 9

DAVID WHITE & CO.

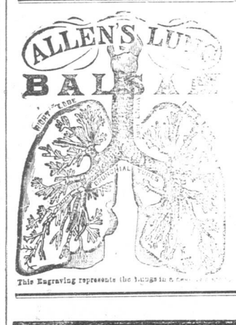
New and Scarce Goods

ARRIVING EVERY DAY.

JUST RECEIVED

WHITE VICTORIA LAWNS.

Swiss Spot and Sprig Muslins.



All-over Embroidery, Over and over Net, Guipure, White and Cream Muslin Embroidery, Real Oriental Laces. Silk, Lisle and Cotton Hose. Pure Silk and Taffetta Gloves.

STAPLE DEPARTMENT.

Shirting and Denims, Cottonades, Table Linen, Table Napkins, Damask Towels, Cotton Bags. 36 inch Factory Cotton only 5 cents.

DAVID WHITE & CO.

Ingersoll, July 10, 1884. 1608

This Engraving represents the Lungs in a Consumptive Condition.

THE REMEDY FOR CURING

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, CROUP,

ALL DISEASES OF THE THROAT, LUNGS, AND PULMONARY ORGANS.

BY ITS FAITHFUL USE

CONSUMPTION HAS BEEN CURED,

When other Remedies and Physicians have failed to effect a cure.

Recommended by PHYSICIANS, MINISTERS, AND NURSES. In fact by everybody who has given it a good trial. It never fails to bring relief.

As an EXPECTORANT it has no Equal.

It is harmless to the Most Delicate Child.

It contains no OPIUM in any form.

☞ Directions accompany each bottle.

☞ For sale by all Druggists.

Hearn & Co

JUST TO HAND.

ONE CASE

COLOURED MUSLINS,

FAST COLORS, which we are able to offer at the low price of 10 cents per yard. Come one and all, and secure a grand bargain.

We also offer a grand assortment of

WHITE VICTORIA LAWNS

In all prices, 15c, 18c, 20c, 25c, 30c, 35c. Splendid value.

Do not fail to see our stock of Black Brocade Silks, Black Gros Silks, Black Satins, Black Satin DeLyons, at prices that cannot be beaten.

Millinery ! Millinery !

Great reductions in this department, we are determined not to carry any of our stock over, so that we will sell at greatly reduced prices. This is no Blow but solid facts.

INSPECTION INVITED.

HEARN & CO.

Ingersoll, July 10, 1884. 1608

School Books !

Croquet Sets, Express Wagons, Carts, Rubber Balls, Base Balls, Bibles, Prayer and Hymn Books. Music and Musical Goods.

FULL STOCK GENERAL STATIONERY AND OFFICE BOOKS.

PICTURE FRAMING NEATLY EXECUTED.

G. B. FOTHERINGHAM,
Campbell's Old Stand, Christopher's Block, Thames-St.
April 17th, 1884. 1597

MOSS & Co's CELEBRATED

BAKING POWDER

NOTED FOR ITS PURITY AND STRENGTH.

MANUFACTURED BY
MOSS, RIMMINGTON & CO., SELBY, ENGLAND.

NOTICE.

All parties found trespassing on the Raspberry Patch, Lot 4, Con. 13, East Nissouri, will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

JOHN S. SUTHERLAND.
July 3rd, 1884. 1608c

MUSIC FOR THE MILLION.

6 pieces your own selection for 25 cents. List sent post free on application to

W. C. PIGH, 478 Queen-St. West, Toronto.

Pianos, Organs, and Musical instruments. Several second hand Pianos in first-class order at reduced prices for cash.

July 3rd, 1884. 1609st

STRAYED CATTLE.

Strayed from the premises of the undersigned, Lot 28, first concession, West Oxford, on the first week in May, FIVE YEARLINGS, one white heifer, one white steer, and red steer and two red and white heifers. Any person giving information as will lead to their recovery will be suitable rewarded.

JOHN WORTH.
West Oxford, July 2, 1884. 1608

HOUSE FOR SALE.

With immediate Possession, a splendid NEW BRICK HOUSE containing 12 rooms, in one of the best localities in Ingersoll, fitted up in first-class style with Hot and Cold Water, Bath Room, &c.

Apply to J. H. HEGLER, Ingersoll.
June 26th, 1884. 1607c

Harvest Tools !

Machine Oils,

Paris Green.

A. E. ELLIS,

Sign of Golden Anvil, Thames-St.
Ingersoll, June 26, 1884. 1607

The "White" is King

OF SEWING MACHINES,

FOR SALE BY

HENDERSON & HENDERSON,

MACHINISTS

AND SILVER PLATERS, Ingersoll.

Dealers in Sewing Machines, and Repairs; Firearms and Ammunition, Fish Poles, Hooks & Lines Etc.

Largest & Best Assortment in town.
Ingersoll, May 22nd, 1884. 1602

Change of Business

The undersigned begs leave to announce that he has purchased the

HARNESS MAKING BUSINESS

From T. FEIGHTNER, and will in a few days have

A Complete Stock of Goods

In all the departments of the

Best Material and Newest Designs

To be had in the market and hopes to receive a liberal share of the public patronage.

WM. TRIPP.
June 19th, 1884. 1605

Ingersoll Greenhouse,

THAMES-ST., near C.V.R. Station.

BEFORE PURCHASING YOUR

House & Bedding Plants

CALL AND SEE

MRS. HEATH'S

Stock, which will be found in finer condition than in any previous year.
Hanging Baskets, Rustic Vases, Settees, &c., in great variety.
Roses—Monthly, Hybrid and Perpetual, in large and small plants. Mailing size 10 for $1.00.
A choice collections of Dahlias, ready June 1st.
Hanging Baskets and Vases filled with choice plants and best care.
Funeral Designs and Cemetery Decorations a specialty.
Wedding Bouquets and all cut flower work as usual.

All kinds of Fruits and Vegetables in their season.

Button Hole Boquets 10 cts Each.
May 1st, 1884. 1599f

Boy's Underwear,

SIZES

16 18 20 22 24 26 28 30 32,

Mens' Underwear,

SIZES

34 36 38 40 42 44 46 in.

CHEAP AT

W. E. TURNER'S

Successor to R. A. Garlick,

174 Dundas Street, London.
June 4th, 1884. 1604

THE

"Little Wonder."

Me and my father, my father and me,
Can sell you the best of Black and Green Tea,
The very best Sugar and choicest of Spice,
With Lard, Pork and Ham, and very good Rice,
In fact all the Groceries you can well name,
My father kept good ones and I'll do the same,
So come with your orders and with your money
For business without is not pleasant as honey.

E. H. HEWITT,
PROPRIETRESS
Ingersoll, Nov. 1578

FUNDS FOR INVESTMENT.

A large amount of FUNDS FOR INVESTMENT to parties applying at once, AT SIX PER CENT.

J. C. HEGLER.
Ingersoll, Nov. 29, 1883. 1357c-m

FOR SALE.

The Stone House and Outbuildings KNOWN AS

THE PETER CARROLL PLACE,

With 4½ or 12½ acres of land. Trout pond and stream, orchard and ornamental groves, etc., situated on the London Road, one mile west of the market house, Ingersoll, and just outside the town limits.

For price and terms apply to the undersigned,

JAMES F. McDONALD,
Barrister, Ingersoll.
Feb. 14th, 1884. 88

Fruit Store.

WE HAVE THE

Greatest Variety

Of Canned Goods in Ingersoll,

TOMATOES, BEANS, PEAS, CORN, APPLES, PEARS, PLUMS, PEACHES, CHERRIES, STRAWBERRIES, PINE APPLES, SALMON, SARDINES, MUSTARD SARDINES, AND MACKEREL, CORNED BEEF, CHICKEN, TURKEY, DUCK, PIGS-FEET, OYSTERS, LOBSTERS, JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF, DURKEE'S SALAD DRESSING, ANCHOVY SAUCE, KETCHUP, AND NUMBERLESS other articles. &c., &c.

Oranges, Lemons, Bananas, Tobaccos, Cigars, Pipes, Etc.

GEORGE BECK.

Sign of the Big Lamp.
TELEPHONE COMMUNICATION.
Ingersoll, April 24th 1884. 1598

NORMAN'S

Electric Belt Institution,

(ESTABLISHED 1874),

4 QUEEN ST. EAST, TORONTO.

NERVOUS DEBILITY, Rheumatism, Lame Back, Neuralgia, Paralysis, and all Liver and Chest Complaints immediately relieved and permanently cured by using these BELTS, BANDS AND INSOLES. Circulars and Consultation FREE.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

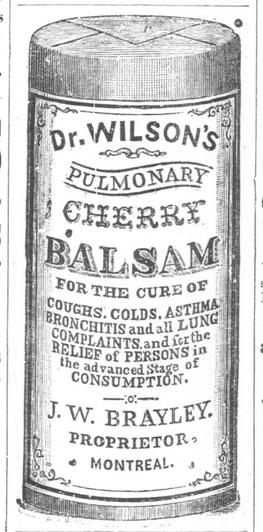
This dreaded and miserable disease is immediately relieved by the use of NORMAN'S ECLECTRIC BELTS. Ask for them, take no others. Every Belt guaranteed.

Canada Pacific Railway.

ONTARIO DIVISION.

COMMENCING MONDAY, MAY 19, 1884.

Trains leave Ingersoll as follows:



GOING EAST.	GOING WEST.
5.35 a.m.	7.18 a.m.
12.30 a.m.	10.47 a.m.
3.20 p.m.	4.21 p.m.
7.11 p.m.	8.45 p.m.

An additional train will be run in connection with the

Canadian Pacific Steamship Line,

Leaving Toronto, 11.30 a.m., for Owen Sound.

W. WHYTE, Gen. Supt.
D. McNICOLL, Gen. Pass. Agent.
Ingersoll, May 22nd, 1884. 1602

BUY YOUR

Paris Green

And White Helebore,

Guaranteed Pure, at

D. SECORD'S

DRUG STORE,

THAMES-ST., - INGERSOLL.
April 3rd, 1884.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

WM. C. BELL

Having bought the Lumber belonging to the

Estate of the late ADAM OLIVER

And RENTED THE MILL, he is prepared to execute all

Carpenter & Joiner Work

Entrusted to him. He will also

Contract for Buildings!

OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS,

And supply House Building material at the very lowest prices. It is a well known fact, from the easy financial position of the late firm, they were always ahead of the times in having thoroughly seasoned lumber, and from which all his inside work will be manufactured. A specialty in making

VENETIAN BLINDS,

Which can be made to order in short notice. GIVE HIM A CALL.

WM. C. BELL.
Ingersoll, Feb. 1st, 1883. 1553

GOLD for the working class. Send 10 cents for postage, and we will mail you free a royal, valuable box of sample goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. We will start you. You can work all the time or in spare time only. The work is universally adapted to both sexes, young and old. You can easily earn from 50 cents to $5 every evening. That all who want work may test the business we make this unparalleled offer; to all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Fortunes will be made by those who give their whole time to the work. Great success absolutely sure. Don't delay. Start now. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

Daly House Livery,

J. GUGGISBERG, Prop.

LEADING LIVERY IN TOWN,

Ingersoll, Jan. 3rd, 1884. 1582y

GREAT BARGAINS.

A Reduction in the Prices at the

CHINA TEA HOUSE.

16 lbs. Good Sugar for $1.00.

20 lbs. Valentia Raisins for $1.

This is the place to buy the CHEAPEST TEAS. Young Hyson and Congou, a specialty. The cheapest place to buy CROCKERY. Selling Printed TEA SETS at $3.50, worth $5.00. Glass and Silver Ware very low. Cutlery at Rock Bottom Prices.

Any one buying $5 worth of goods at the CHINA TEA HOUSE, and paying Cash for the same will be allowed a discount of 5 per cent.

Ingersoll, July 9th, 1884. 1609

Dispensing Chemist!

J. W. BROWETT,

Sign of the  White Mortar.

HELLEBORE. PURE HELLEBORE is best and cheapest poison for currant worms. Look to your currant and gooseberry bushes.

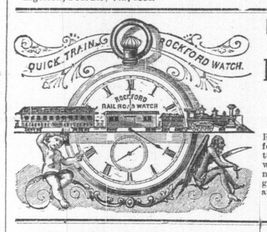
ALKALI—25 cents worth makes 10 lbs of Hard Soap, or 25 Gallons of Soft Soap, this saves trouble with ashes.

CHLORIDE LIME prevents sickness by using it for all disagreeable odors from back yards, cellars, etc., (an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure

A large stock of Fresh Medicines, Drugs and Chemicals.

J. W. BROWETT, Dispensing Chemist,
Sign of the "White Mortar," Thames Street.
Ingersoll, April 10th, 1884. 1596

NOTICE.



Just Received an Immense Stock of

Wall Papers and Borders

Of the newest designs, which will be offered at VERY LOW PRICES in order to induce customers to commence house cleaning early, at

L. THOMPSON'S.

Wall Paper, Stationery, Oil, Color and Window Glass Store, McCaughey' Block, Thames Street.
Ingersoll, February 7th, 1884. 1587

H. RICHARDSON

Richardson's Block, Ingersoll, Ontario,

Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry,

SILVER AND PLATED WARE.

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 1st, 1883.

This is to certify that we have appointed H RICHARDSON, Sole Agent for the sale of the Rockford Quick Train Watch, in Ingersoll, Ontario, and that we will, to the fullest extent, sustain the usual warranty given by him to purchasers of our movements. No warranty whatever attaches to these goods when offered for sale by others than our duly appointed Agent.

ROCKFORD WATCH CO.,
H. P. Holland, Sec.

NELLES & STEVENS

Have this week opened out a full range of

Crockery & Glassware

Comprising White and Printed Tea Sets. Printed Dinner Sets, 76 pieces, China Tea Sets in every variety of Patterns. Coloured Toilet Sets, White Toilet Sets.

With this addition to our already large stock of General Groceries we claim to show the largest and best selected stock of goods in our line to be found in Ingersoll.

An inspection will convince you that our prices are right as well as the variety.

NELLES & STEVENS.
Ingersoll, May 29th, 1884.

B. LAURANCE'S 63 Hatton Garden, Lond'n SPECTACLES

—AND—

246 ST. JAMES ST., MONTREAL

Ground scientifically from clear and pure Pebble, or optical glass especially manufactured for the purpose, they are without exception best adapted to restore the ravages of age, and to retain perfect vision; they are especially recommended by the most eminent of the Faculty.

EVERY PAIR OF SPECTACLES AND EYEGLASSES IS MARKED "B. L."

READ EXTRACTS FROM CANADIAN TESTIMONIALS:

CHIEF JUSTICE MACDONALD, N.S.	writes—	They gave the highest satisfaction.
SENATOR ARCHIBALD	writes—	I have experienced great satisfaction from their use.
CHIEF JUSTICE SIR WM. YOUNG	writes—	They give a clearer and purer light under gas than any I have previously obtained here or elsewhere.
JOHN F. WOOD, M.P.	writes—	For ease or comfort they excel any I have ever used.
J. MACKENZIE, F.R.C.S., Kingston	writes—	Carefully constructed, good defining power and glasses in each frame of equal focal length.
A. G. BLAIR, Esq., Premier N.B.	writes—	Of the comfort and assistance experienced.
LT.-GOV. HAVILAND, P.E.I.	writes—	I never experienced any strain upon my eyes after using them.
REV. FATHER BOLDUC, Quebec	writes—	That he finds them superior to any previously used.
PETER LYNCH, Esq., Q.C., Halifax	writes—	Using one pair of Laurance's specs for 18 years with great satisfaction and benefit to my eyes.
LE CURE DE QUEBEC	writes—	He is more than satisfied with the seclection made.
M. F. WALSH, Esq., Sec. Min. Interior	writes—	The glasses suit admirably and give every satisfaction.
DEAN OF ONTARIO	writes—	Of the great comfort and relief found in the wearing of his spectacles.
Lt.-Gen. Sir P. McDOUGALL, K.C.M.G	writes—	He is greatly pleased with the selection made.

Thousands of other residents of Canada, including the greatest names among the Faculty, have also testified to their value as aids to vision.

The above celebrated English Spectacles and Eyeglasses are now for sale at

D. SECORD'S DRUG STORE.

Call, Inspect and be Convinced of their superiority. 1601

Burdock Blood Bitters

Cures Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver and Kidneys, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all diseases arising from Impure Blood, Deranged Stomach, or irregular action of the Bowels.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY CO.

LAND REGULATIONS.

The Company offer Lands within the Railway Belt along the main line, and in Southern Manitoba, at prices ranging from

$2.50 PER ACRE.

Upwards, with conditions requiring cultivation. A rebate for cultivation of from $1.25 to $3.50 per acre, according to price paid for land, allowed on certain conditions. The company also offer lands WITHOUT CONDITIONS OF SETTLEMENT OR CULTIVATION,

THE RESERVED SECTIONS,

Along the Main Line, i.e., the odd numbered Sections within one mile of the Railway, are now offered for sale on adv

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS THIS WEEK.

Strayed.—Simeon Sage.
Muslins.—Hearn & Co.
Teas.—China Tea House.
New Goods.—D. White & Co.
Industrial Fair.—H. J. Hill.
To Let.—King st. East.
Strayed Heifer.—R. Stroud.
Envelopes.—THE CHRONICLE Office.
Cow Wanted.—THE CHRONICLE Office.
Printing.—THE CHRONICLE Office.
Dressmaker Wanted.—John Swartout.
Account Paper.—THE CHRONICLE Office.
Special.—Liver Pad Co.
Special.—Meek & Harrison.

The Ingersoll Chronicle

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

THURSDAY, JULY 10, 1884.

TOWN NEWS.

HAYING has commenced.

THE raspberry crop promises to be big.

THE small boy now counteth the days as the long vacation approacheth.

GAS for cooking and heating purposes is being extensively used in town.

GEO. KEMPSHALL, V. S., has removed his office and residence to the premises on Thames street formerly occupied by Dr. McCausland.

LACROSSE MATCH.—A match game of Lacrosse will be played between the Okas of St. Thomas, and Dufferins of Ingersoll, in Victoria Park, on Friday afternoon, July 11, at 3.30 p. m.

MEAT MARKET.—G. R. Thompson, butcher, has purchased the meat business in the market formerly carried on by Thos. Seldon. Telephone connection.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.—Rev. R. B. Rowe will preach in St. Andrew's church next Sabbath, in the absence of the pastor who is suffering from a very severe cold.

LAWN TENNIS.—The Ingersoll club hope to play Galt and Dundass clubs at an early date. They will also play a return match with St. Thomas when the latter are ready.

THE evening air is now made melodious with cries of the "liver pad" men, and from the number of so-called "pads" they sell, we judge that the fools are not all dead yet.

THE SUMMER STRAW HAT :
The straw hat is a pretty thing
On labourer or scholar,
They tie it with a piece of string,
And buy it for a 8.

A LIBERAL GIFT.—Mr. H. Richardson, jeweller, has kindly donated a bicycle medal, valued at $15, to the Y. M. P. B. A. for competition at their great demonstration on the 22nd of August.

WE regret to note that the "singing" of the Salvation Army is not improving. The new "capting's" voice is a cross between the bellowing of an enraged bull and the skriek of a fog horn.

JAY EYE SEE.—We have received from the Vacuum Oil Co., Rochester, a picture of the trotting horse Jay Eye See, whose time 2.10½ is the fastest on record. The picture hangs in our office window.

KNOX CHURCH.—The Rev. J. C. Tibb, B. D., Who was announced to preach in Knox church last Sabbath, but was unavoidably absent, will conduct the morning and evening services in that place next Sabbath, July 13th.

COURT OF REVISION.—Out of over 170 appeals against the assessment adjudicated upon by the Court of Revision only 24 have been appealed to the judge. The result of the deliberations of the court has raised the assessment over $21,000.

WHY don't our able contemporary, the London Advertiser, copy our report of the Ingersoll cheese market the next day after our issue instead of taking it a week after, third hand, from some other paper and dating it ahead ?

LAWN SOCIAL.—The garden party held at the residence of Mr. W. F. Wixon on Tuesday evening, in connexion with the Baptist Church, proved a success in every way. There was a large turn out and all appeared to enjoy themselves thoroughly.

CROQUET VS. LAWN TENNIS.—According to the society journals the stupid game of croquet threatens to come again into fashion in England, lawn tennis being objected to as making ladies dreadfully flushed, and as too rapid in its movements for adequate flirtation.

AN HONOURABLE NAME.—People who desire to name their boys after the Philadelphia judge who sent a man to jail for three months for pointing a pistol at another man, are respectfully informed that his name is Finletter. Our coutemporaries will please copy.

PERSONAL ITEMS.—Items of news regarding the arrival or departure of friends are more than usually interesting at this season of holiday making and a favor will be conferred by those readers who are acquainted with such items by furnishing them for our "personal" column.

HOW TO HANDLE BEES.—"What is the best way to handle bees ?" queries a correspondent. Well, a pair of tongs is about the best thing to use, if you can get a pair 900 feet long. Personally, however, when we have any bees to handle we always let the hired man do it, which we consider superior to the tongs.

EXAMINATIONS.—The Intermediate examinations are now being held in the High School. Fifty candidates are being examined. Mr. W. A. Carlyle, of Woodstock, is the presiding examiner. About eighty candidates wrote at the entrance examination last week. We hope to give the results in our next issue.

THE following are the names of the team to represent the Dufferins in the match with the Okas of St. Thomas, on Friday afternoon, in the Park, at 3.30. E. Dundas, Capt.; J. H. Hegler, R. Malone, J. Vance, J. C. Atkinson, G. Cowan, E. Eshelby, F. Smale, J. T. Christison, J. O. Matheson, W. Smith and E. Cowan.

NEW FIRM.—Messrs. Meek & Harrison have purchased the stove and tin business on King st., opposite the market and purpose keeping on hand a large and well assorted stock of stoves, tinware, &c. Stove pipeing save troughing and general job work will have prompt attention. Give them a call. 09

THE LONDON SALVATIONISTS.—The men of the Salvation Army in London delegate the drum pounding portion of their 'worship' to the young women, so that thus far nearly all those committed have been females. This is not very heroic or gallant on the part of the male members of the army, but it is mighty discreet.

THE CANADA PACIFIC.—The Canadian Pacific R'y is now opened for passage and freight business east of Toronto as far as Norwood. The stations north of Toronto being Yorkville, Agincourt, Green River, Claremont, Myrtle, Burkton, Southypool, Manyers, Cavanville, Peterboro, Indian River and Norwood. It is expected the final opening to Montreal will take place August 1st, when two solid trains each way daily will be run between that city and Chicago, with Wagner cars attached.

THE C. V. R. EXTENSION.—The Galt Reporter says, but on what authority we do not know : "It is generally understood that the completion of the arrangement between the Canadian Pacific and Michigan Central Railway Companies for a through line to Chicago has resulted in the abandonment of the proposed extension of the Credit Valley line to the Detroit River. This will be a disappointment to many in the west; but the arrafigement which has been made gives all the advantages without any serious cost."

THE WEATHER.
Oh ! great Scott!
Ain't it hot ?
That was all the speech he made!
And he flopped
Where he stopped,
In the park 'neath a maple's shade.

Here's Lindsay's view according to the Post :
Moses Oates!
How he floats!
Flat upon the Sengog placid ;
Now a stone,
Softly thrown,
Hits him in the sto— pass it.

THE CHRONICLE is seldom more pleased than when it receives letters for publication provided they touch upon any point of interest. But of the great number who try, how many have hit the point at the first blow? To those who cannot, we earnestly commend the following:

1. When you have finished your letter strike out all the preface—it is unnecessary and only takes up space—and begin at the heart of your subject at once. Go at it hammer and tongs. When you have made your point, drop it right there, and don't add another word.

2. Sign it with your own proper name and address—for 'publication if possible. Don't shift off to the 'editor responsibility which you are not prepared to assume yourself in a matter which chiefly concerns yourself. It is rarely that there is any good reason for hiding behind a nom de plume, when there is not an equally good reason for dropping the esteemed communication into the waste basket. 3. Don't ask the editor to correct errors. Don't make them. When God inspires a man with a thought worth uttering He generally supplies him also with the faculty of uttering it correctly.

4. If you never hear from your "esteemed communication" do not assume at once that the editor suppressed it from "cowardice" or "corrupt" motives. There are abundance of other theories which might account for its disappearance. It may have been of very little interest; it may have been too long; it may have been unfit for publication by reason of its personality or stupidity.

DOMINION DAY SOCIAL.—Notwithstanding the rain the Ladies Aid Society of the King Street Methodist church realized $67.00 at their social at Mr. Thomas Seldon's on Dominion Day.

PRINTERS ON STRIKE.—The Toronto compositors having struck, the Mail comes out as a four page. The Globe however is issued as usual, its managers having had forethought enough to employ non union as well union men and thus avoided being left at the mercy of the union. We hope our cotems will get on their feet again without having to give in to the unfair demands of their former employees.

HE PEELS.
The small boy stands
Beside the pool.
And with his hands
The waters cool
He feels.

He lingers not,
Nor time does waste,
The weather's hot,
And with great haste
He peels.

TAR SMOKE FOR DIPTHERIA.—A few weeks since we printed a paragraph describing a new and simple remedy for diphtheria. The item has been widely copied. The World some time ago stated that the remedy had been tried in Toronto with success, and the Post states that a couple of Lindsay doctors have tried it with satisfactory results. A leading Toronto physician says that the remedy is a good one and may be safely tried. It can do no harm anyway. A very important point in diphtheritic complaints is prompt action at its early stages.

YOUNG ROWDIES. — Some boys who ought to know better behaved themselves in a most blackguardly manner at the garden party at Mr. Wixson's, on Tuesday evening. After gaining entrance without paying they attempted to let down the tent, in which there were ladies and children, and which was lit by oil lamps, endangering the lives of the inmates. They also abstracted the ice cream and freezer, and otherwise conducted themselves in an unmanly way.

BASE BALL.—A match game of base ball was played at the picnic at Salford on Thursday last between the "Alerts" of Dereham and a picked nine from Ingersoll. Some clever playing was done on both sides, very few errors being made during the game. The town boys were the victors by a score of 14 to 13. Mr. E. Eshelby umpired the game in good style, giving perfect satisfaction to both teams. The following are the names of the players :—Ingersoll, McLeod, McMurray, Sutton, Byram, Hook, Grace, Greenaway, Chambers, and Smith. "Alerts," Elliott, Mayberry, Newell, Miller, Shuttleworth, Service, Shuttleworth Shelton and Service.

EXCURSION TO THE AGR'L COLLEGE.—The four hundred excursionists from the county of Oxford who visited the Agricultural College on Friday spent a very pleasant time and were highly delighted with their visit, the only drawback being that they had not sufficient time to make a thorough inspection of all that was to be seen, as it was after twelve before they got to the College and the excursion train left a little after four. They were welcomed by President Mills and Prof. Brown, both of whom briefly addressed the excursionists. They were entertained to a lunch in the tent on the grounds after which they were shown over the farm. The experimental portion of the farm claimed a great deal of attention as also the new building being erected for the chemical analysis of the different soils.—Guelph Mercury.

A BRILLIANT METEOR.—About 8 o'clock Thursday evening some of our citizens who were looking heavenward were treated to a magnificent sight. An immense meteor moved across the eastern sky at an elevation of about 48 ° from the horizon, from east to north. The sky was illumined for some moments with red, yellow and pale green colors. At about two thirds of its course an explosion was seen to take place, but no noise was heard. From the point where the explosion was seen to take place, after all other trace had disappeared, a streak of light vapor extending 20 ° in length remained visible for a considerable time until covered by the rapidly increasing cloudiness. The size of the head was five times the diameter of Venus, and the light emanating from the meteor was sufficient to startle many.

YOUNG EMIGRANTS.—Mr. Fegan who was over in May, is coming out from England again in the Allan Line S. S. "Parisian" leaving Liverpool on 17th July. He is bringing a large party of lads who have been carefully trained in his Orphan Homes, and purposes taking the majority of them (between 13 and 16 years of age) to Manitoba for employment in the Winnipeg, Portage and Brandon districts. His favourable account of prospects in the North West for well-brought up industrious youths has been received with much interest by Christian philanthropists, and the whole cost of the party (2,500 dollars) is borne by an English nobleman. There are a few younger boys to be placed with farmers in Ontario at wages from 3 to 5 dollars a month to begin with. Applications accompanied by references from a minister of the Gospel, may be made by letters addressed to Mr. Fegan, Toronto, so as to reach there by 28th July.

GREAT INDUSTRIAL FAIR AND SEMI-CENTENNIAL EXPOSITION.—This being the fiftieth, or Semi Centennial year of the Incorporation of Toronto as a city, the Industrial Exhibition Association of the city have determined on making their next Annual Fair and Exposition, which is to be held from the 10th to the 20th of September next, of such a magnitude as will eclipse any of its predecessors. On account of the large number of applications already received from intending exhibitors, it has been decided to enlarge several of the buildings, and an immense programme of special attractions of a novel character is being prepared for the occasion. The Governor-General and the Marchioness of Lansdowne are to open the Exhibition on the 10th of September. Among the attractions already announced are an International Fireman's Demonstration, a Colley Show and Field Trials by the dogs, which will be of great interest to the farmers ; Balloon Ascensions, an Electric Railway, &c. The Manager, Mr. Hill, is to visit New York and other places next month in search of other special attractions of the latest and most interesting character. Special days have been set apart as the Farmers' Day, the School Children's Day, the Societies' Day, &c. The Prize Lists, containing full particulars of the great Fair, have been issued, and can be obtained from the Secretaries of all Agricultural Societies and Mechanics' Institutes in the Province, or they will be sent to any one who will drop a post card to the Secretary at Toronto. See advertisement in another column. A full programme of all the special attractions will be published about the middle of August. This will undoubtedly be the greatest event of Toronto's Semi-Centennial year.

THE HOMEWOOD RETREAT.—This is the name of an asylum for insane persons and inclinates of the well-to-do class, which has been recently established in Guelph. The institution is situated in a beautiful and secluded spot and is the only private asylum for insane persons, and the only regular retreat for inebriates in the Province of Ontario. This, as far as insanity is concerned, is no doubt to be accounted for by the fact that the public asylums have in a measure made special provision for those who could pay for their maintenance. But that provision is not by any means sufficient to meet the growing requirements of those insane persons whose friends are able to pay for the special care and the best attendance. Homewood Retreat is designed for only fifty persons, and every facility will be afforded so that the medical superintendent may learn the special character of each person under his charge and nature of his disease. Homewood will benefit the whole Dominion in its work of reforming inebriates and those addicted to the use of narcotics. The President, Mr. J. W. Langmuir, was for many years the Inspector of Ontario, and it is largely to Mr. Langmuir's hard work and practical knowledge that the credit is due for Ontario having a greater efficiency combined with economy in the management of its public, charitable, and reformatory institutions than any other community in America. Mr. R. A. Meredith, the Vice-President, also has great practical knowledge of the management of such an institution, having been for years Chairman of the Board of Inspectors of Asylums for Canada before Confederation. The Association are specially favoured in that they have secured Dr. Workman as consulting physician. Dr. Workman was for twenty-three years superintendent of the Asylum in Toronto, the largest in the Province. He has devoted a lifetime to the study of insanity, and has a world-wide reputation as an authority on that subject. The charge of this institution is committed to Dr. Stephen Lett, who was for thirteen years assistant superintendent of the London, Toronto, and other Provincial Asylums. He is not only an experienced physician and manager but an enthusiast in his work.

Don't miss the free concert given by Electric Pad Advertising Co. every night. 9

DR. WILLIAMS' Electric Pads are pronounced by all who give them a trial to be a first-class article. 9

HAVE THE CHRONICLE sent to you when you take your vacation.

$50,000 to Loan on Real Estate at Lowest Rates. Apply to Brown & Wells, Barristers. 1593tf

PARTIES requiring money on good security can obtain any amount they may require as from one to two per cent. cheaper than any where else by applying to P. O. Box 29, Ingersoll. Business strictly confidential. 82

ICE Cream Parlours are now open at R. Vance's Confectionery. Call in and see them. You will get the genuine article there. 02

TOWN COUNCIL.

A MOTION TO CENSURE THE COURT OF REVISION DEFEATED,

By the Casting Vote of the Mayor.

The regular meeting of the Council was held on Tuesday evening last.

Present—Mayor Noxon in the chair ; Messrs. Watterworth, Gibson, Walley, Nelles, Buchanan, O'Connor, Matheson, Waterhouse, Richardson, Seldon, McInnes, and Horseman.

The minutes of last two meetings were read, approved and signed by the Mayor.

The Treasurer's report for June, showing a balance on hand of $3,979.20.

Collector's report of rents collected $11.50.

Letter from F. G. Carroll asking for use of market sheds.

Apportionment of Legislative School Grant 1884. Public School $543, Separate School $66.

From R. Keating, Secretary Separte School, asking for $250, and giving estimate for 1884, $450.

The following accounts were rendered :—G. W. Watson, lumber, $419.30 ; J. H. Brown, storage of engine, $5 ; J. Guggisberg, Board of Works, $3 ; R. W. Soper, dog tags, $10.50 ; J. H. Stone, 12 sash locks, $3 ; J. Gibson, expenses to Toronto, C. V. R., $5.20 ; R. A. Woodcock, cost P. M. Court of Revision re John Lee, $3.25 ; Ingersoll Gas Light Co., $77 58.

Garnishee—E. M. Henderson vs. E. J. Reffman, $86.

Report of Fire, Water and Gas Committee, recommending that the following accounts be paid ; J. Russell & Co , Street Water account, $5.85 ; J. R. Warnock, steamer heater, $2 ; Ingersoll Gas Light Co., $79.41 ; L. Scofield, repairing hose, $2.50. We have examined old hand fire engine and sold it to J. Russell & Co. for $16, subject to the approval of the Council, was read and on motion adopted.

Account of S. King for fixing lamp, $7.73.

Application for town park for Aug. 22nd, by the Y. M. P. B. Association, which was granted.

Letter from Jas. Smith offering $20 for old hand engine.

List of 28 firemen belonging to the Steamer Co.

On motion of Mr. Gibson, seconded by Mr. Watterworth, it was resolved that the agreement between the North and West Oxford Agricultural Society and the corporation of Ingersoll be amended by adding the following clause, That upon the payment of the above society of $100 to the corporation of the town of Ingersoll, the said corporation agrees to erect a dining booth 20 x 40 with a wooden floor, the style of the said booth to be after the manner of the main building, and the said corporation further agrees to furnish the said booth and carry out all the other obligations of the said agreement binding on the said corporation not later than the 20th September of the present year.

On motion the account of G. W. Watson was referred to the Board of Works.

On motion the sum of $600 was placed to the credit of the Board of Works.

On motion the following salaries were ordered to be paid : R. A. Woodcock, $87.50 ; C. C. L. Wilson, $50 ; M. H. Grey, $25 ; F. Sheppard, 2nd engineer, $12.50 ; W. Towle, 3rd engineer, $6.25 ; for the quarter ending 1st inst.

On motion the sum of $65 was placed to the credit of the Market and Printing Committee.

On motion the clause in the Fire, Water and Gas Committee, recommending the sale of the hand engine, be struck out, and the following submitted, That said Committee offer the engine for sale by public tender—Lost.

On motion it was resolved that Mr. Duke be paid $5 at the end of season on condition that he attends to the closing of the gates of the Town Park, and that the Clerk be instructed to put up a proper notice at each gate, warning any person or persons that they will be prosecuted if they leave the said gates open, thereby endangering the town property.

On motion rule 37 was suspended for this session.

It was moved by Mr. Gibson, seconded by Mr. Nelles, That whereas we have reason to believe that certain members of the Court of Revision, appointed by this Council for the current year, went beyond the spirit of the law in assisting to prepare cases of appeal, knowing that the said cases would have to come up before themselves for adjudication, and whereas the proceedings of the said Court were not conducted in that spirit of British fair play which ought to characterize such a body :

Be it therefore resolved, That we authorize the Mayor to employ counsel to represent this corporation before the County Judge, before whom many of the appeal cases are yet to be submitted with the view of having the whole proceedings of the said Court set aside, and allowing the Assessment Roll as it came from the hands of the Assessor to hold good for this assessment year.

On this resolution there voted yea—Messrs. Watterworth, Seldon, Gibson, Walley, Nelles, Richardson, 6. Nay—Messrs. Waterhouse, Horsman, McInnes, Buchanan, O'Connor, Matheson, Noxon, 7.

On motion the sum of $250 was placed to the credit of the Secretary of R. C. Separate School.

On motion the Printing Committee were instructed to have 200 notices printed and distributed about town, notifying all parties harbouring or owning dogs or bitches, that unless the tax is paid for the same before the 1st day of August next, costs will be incurred in each case in default by the Clerk.

On motion the sum of $10.50 be paid C. C. L. Wilson to pay for dog tags.

On motion the sum of $168 be paid Wm. Thompson, being one half year's salary for 28 firemen, due on 1st inst.

On motion of Mr. Watterworth, seconded by Mr. Richardson, it was resolved that this Council, by this resolution, grant power to the Board of Works to have all noxious weeds cut on the highways within the municipality, and also authority to cut all noxious weeds on vacant property after notifying the owners of said property, should they continue to refuse to cut the weeds on said lots.

On motion the sum of $50 was placed to the credit of Street Watering Committee.

On motion R. A. Woodcock was paid $3.25 being costs in the matter of Court of Revision vs. John Lee.

On motion the Mayor was instructed to hand over to the Manager of the Merchants' Bank our Debenture Stock with instructions as contained in the correspondence which is to be attached to the Debenture Stock, giving full information as to the exchange of said stock for Ontario and Quebec Debenture Stock.

On motion it was resolved that the matter of water pipes being laid on the Main streets as suggested by Mr. Waterhouse be referred to the Fire, Water and Gas Committee.

On motion Mr. Gibson was paid $5.20 being amount of expenses to Toronto re C. V. R. business.

On motion it was resolved that the sum of $2.70 be paid to Mr. Shannon, express agent, being the amount that the corporation is liable for on account of sending an indigent of our town to Michigan.

On motion it was resolved that the expenses of the Mayor in visiting Toronto in connexion with the C. V. R. business, $5.20, be paid.

SOCIAL.—Notwithstanding the rain the social held on the grounds of the M. E. Church, under the auspices of Beacon Lodge, I.O.G.T., on Friday, proved a grand success. The proceeds amounted to $42.65.

GRAND DEMONSTRATION.—It will be seen by Council proceedings that Victoria Park has been secured by the members of the Young Men's Protestant Benevolent Association for their celebration, which takes places on Friday, 22nd Aug. This affair promises to be one of unusual attraction, and from what we know of the arrangements already entered into by the promoters, it will not be for the lack of enterprise and means if it is not one of the best ever held in our Park. On this occasion several lodges in full uniform from a distance will be present, accompanied by bands. At one o'clock they will form an imposing procession, and march through our principal streets to the Park, where games, amusements, etc. will be provided. There will be a Lacrosse match between the Actives (of Hamilton) and the Dufferins of this town. Bicycle races will also be in order, for which excellent prizes will be offered. A grand tug-of-war is being arranged for between the two teams which competed here on Queen's Birthday, representing Nissouri and Dorchester, for the prize of $70 in cash ! There will also be trotting races for good purses. Other features will be provided, the programme of which will appear in due time. Short speeches by the Grand Master and other prominent members of the Order. One of the main features will be the grand strains of the 13th Batt. Band of Hamilton, besides the 22nd Batt. Band and other musical organizations. The day will end with a grand promenade concert in the Mammoth Rink, the music being supplied by the above mentioned bands. Note the date and look out for programmes. The Railway Companies have signified their intention of giving reduced rates to and from Ingersoll on this occasion.

FIZ ! Zip ! goes the Soda Fountain at R. Vance's Confectionery. 02

ALL kinds of canned goods guaranteed good at Beck's. 80.

ENGRAVED calling cards at the CHRONICLE office.

I. O. O. F.

OXFORD LODGE

A regular communication of Oxford Lodge No. 77, I. O. O. F., was held Monday evening, July 7th. The following officers were duly installed by D. D. G. M., John Andrews :

P. G. ..... Geo. A. Rose.
N. G. ..... R. W. Smith.
V. G. ..... Jno. Webster.
Sec. ..... Jno. Andrews.
P. S. ..... Thos. Budd.
Treas. ..... A. Matheson.
War. ..... S. King.
Con. ..... G. B Fotheringham.
O. S. ..... Geo. Dennis.
I. S. ..... S. E. Hillman.
R. S. N. G. ..... W. A. Sinclair.
L. S. N. G. ..... F. W. Merchant.
R. S. V. G. ..... Jno. Lovel.
L. S. V. G. ..... Geo. Powell.
R. S. S. ..... S. A. Martin.
L. S. S ..... Chas. Smith.
Chap. ..... Jacob Size.
Rep. to Grand Lodge,—John Andrews, P. G.

SAMARITAN LODGE

P. G. ..... J. Gibson.
N. G. ..... T. H. Webb.
V. G. ..... A. W. Bell.
R. Sec. ..... J. C. Atkinson.
P. Sec. ..... L. Scofield.
War. ..... F. Symons.
Con. ..... H. Rowland.
R. S. N. G. ..... J. Birss.
L. S. N. G. ..... M. Hyslop.
R. S. V. G. ..... A. McLeod.
L. S. V. G. ..... R. Gemmell.
R. S. S. ..... J. W. Russell.
L. S. S. ..... Geo. Sharp.
Chaplain ..... Jas. McIntyre.
Organist. ..... W. H. Clous.
Rep's. Grand Lodge.—J. McIntyre, M. Hyslop.

Personal.

Miss Smith, of Petrolia, is the guest of Mrs. McCaughey.

Gas Inspector, Williams, of London, was in town last week in his official capacity.

Mrs. Butcher and children, of Detroit, are visiting Mrs. Mairs, of this town.

Mr. Andrew Hoagg, of Detroit, is visiting relatives in town.

Mr. C. C. L. Wilson went to St. Louis, Mo., on Friday, for a week's visit.

Miss Nicholson, of Hamilton, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. A. W. Murdoch.

Miss Watterworth, who has been attending the Institute at Woodstock, is home on her vacation.

Carl Richter, who has recently returned from a lengthy tour through Mexico, was in town yesterday.

Mrs. Mary Hugill has returned from Grosse Isle, where she has been visiting her daughter for the past six months.

Miss Grieve, daughter of Mr. Jas. Grieve of this town has succeeded in taking honours at Alma College, which she has been attending during the past session.

The Rev. T. A. Moore, who has been stationed on the Salford circuit for several years past, has been appointed to the Brumbo charge. Previous to his departure he was made the recipient of numerous presents, including several handsome purses of money, which even clergymen find useful. We wish him continued success in his new home.

Literary Notes.

A PERILOUS SECRET, is the title of a novel by that fascinating writer of fiction, Charles Reade, which has just been issued in a convenient form by Dawson Bros., Montreal. Price 25c.

FRANK LESLIE'S SUNDAY MAGAZINE.—The August number abounds with edifying and pleasant reading. "New Zealand and the Canterbury Settlement" is the opening article, by Rev. F. Pember, B. A., with numerous illustrations. The late Lady Blanche Murphy, Rev. E. A. Rand, F. E. Weatherley, James Croil, James Buckham, Afreton Hervey, Mrs. Alexander, J. Alex. Patten, and other favorite writers, have contributed to the number. The editor, T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., gives some excellent "Advice to Young People," and the Home Pulpit has a sermon of his, "Is Life Worth Living?"

Poultry Raising in Kansas.

To the Editor of THE CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR,—So many of my friends are desirous of knowing what success I have had in the poultry business in Kansas, I give you my experience. Over a year ago I constructed two very crude hatches designed from some good points in several others, I filled them with eggs and they worked fairly well. I kept them going from Dec. 1st to June 1st, clearing from them during that time $650 over and above everything, and that too in spite of the high price of feed, and the fact that my chickens were marketed at low prices, the highest price I got was $6 a dozen, and the lowest was $3.75. During that time I also attended to my regular business. Believing this to be a good return for the amount of work, I began to look around for a more perfect hatcher, and my attention was directed to the Common Sense. June 1 I procured instructions from J. M. Bain, New Concord, Ohio, he is Secretary of the N. A. Poultry Association, and will send directions for making this hatcher to any one sending three two-cent stamps to prepay postage. I had one made that would hold 250 eggs, cost about $7. My success with this hatcher was such I could wish for. I immediately had four more made. From these five hatches I have just taken 1030 fine chicks out of a little less than 1200 eggs. I believe I am placing it modestly when I say that I hope to close $2000 for the year. There is no business so profitable as this is providing one gives it the attention it deserves, and no business requires as little capital to start on. There is no necessity of men trying to hide the business or monopolize it. The field is the world, and the world, like Oliver Twist, is crying for more. There are thousands of young men who are teachers and clerks who look forward to the time when they can start in some lucky way, this way is open to them all if they will only profit by it. Thousands of young women too who feel themselves dependent on some father or brother, who in one year could place themselves high above any dependance if they only would. Get your hatchers immediately. You can make them yourselves.

Respectfully yours,
L. L. J.

DISTRICT NEWS.

Beachville.

A lawn party was held on the beautiful grounds of Mr. Chauncey Martin's, on Tuesday evening. There was a large attendance and a thoroughly pleasant evening was spent. A detachment of the Woodstock band was present, also old St. Paul's choir.

Thamesford.

At the Installation of Officers of King Solomon Lodge, No. 394, A. F. & A. M. held last week in the Masonic Hall. Mr. Francis Patterson was made the recipient of a handsome Past Master's jewel, accompanied with an address.

Harrietsville.

A most successful garden party in aid of the Sunday School of St. John's Church, Harrietsville, was held in the beautiful grounds of Mr. James Jackson, 5th con., North Dorchester, on Friday evening, the 4th of July. The weather in the early part of the day was very unfavorable, but the afternoon was more cheerful and the attendance was much larger than was anticipated. The chair was ably filled by W. H. Niles, Esq., and the audience was addressed chiefly on the advantages of Sunday Schools by the Rev. Mr. Miles of London, Rev. Mr. Robins of Belmont, Rev. Mr. Rowse of Gladstone, and others. The evening amusements were much enlivened with music by the 22nd Battallion Band of Ingersoll, while the local musical talent was well represented by Miss Brodie, who was assisted by several others, Miss Jolly and brother, the Misses Rowse, Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan, and others. Too much praise cannot be tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and family for their kindness, not only for the use of their beautiful grounds but for the very great kindness to all visitors, while the efforts of Mr. R. Thomas, superintendent of the school, who also fills the position of churchwarden, assisted by his brother warden, Mr. P. H. Pickard, and others, to make the festival a grand success, must not be overlooked, while the catering of the ladies was all that could be desired, and deserves the highest praise. The proceeds, amounting to the handsome sum of $75, are to be applied for the purchase of a library and other sources to further the interest of the Sunday School.

The Manly Art in Dorchester.

At Dorchester, on Dominion Day a knockout with soft gloves was arranged between Richardson, of that place, and Tell of Manitoba, for the gate receipts. The house was a very small one, $5,50 only being taken in. The first round ended by Tell being knocked down. In the second Tell struck Richardson below the belt, and the referee called time. In the third Richardson rather weakened, and Tell gained some advantage. The spectators here gathered around and proposed to jointly maul Tell but order was finally restored and the fight went on. It was ended by Tell knocking Richardson out. During these scenes a county constable was down stairs, and the boys took it turn by turn in taking him across to the tavern treating him to draw off his attention.

Kintore.

Mrs. Easson has returned from Buffalo.

Some of the farmers in this vicinity have started haying.

Mr. John Tims of St. Marys is doing our village.

Mr. Wm. Armstrong is building an extensive kitchen to his residence.

The school has closed again for vacation.

The Rev. Mr. Rodgers preached his farewell sermon a week ago last Sabbath.

G. M. McPetrie's new tailor shop is nearly completed, and we are glad to state that Mac is rushing business.

Mrs. George Anderson presented her better half last week with a fine young chopper.

The Kintore boys have organized a base ball club. They play every Tuesday and Saturday evening. We are pleased to notice that Jumbo is the best man among the boys.

West Oxford.

The evangelistic services by Messrs. Curtis and White were brought to a close on Friday night, after three weeks' successful work.

Sunday last Mr. Curtis filled Mr. Willet's appointment in the Baptist Church. After the sermon he gave a few suggestions to the young Christians who were converted during the mission.

Evangelistic services will be commenced on Tuesday at the Temperance Hall, Salford, at 8 o'clock, and continued until further notice.

The following is the standing of the three first pupils in each class in S.S. No. 2, for the month of June :—Fourth Class, Sr., Bertha Walker, Goldie Mayberry, and Frank B. Sage. Fourth Jr.—O. Alida Sage, Mary E. Walker, and Lucy Wilkinson. Third—Lavanza Edwards, Emma May Sage, and Willie Minkler. Sr. Second Class—Willie Peck, George Potter, and Fred. Harris. Second Class, Jr.—Edith Wilkinson, Ella Sebben, and Walter Harris. First, Sr.—Willie Walker, Rubie Mayberry, and Charles Wilkinson. First Junior—Robbie Harris, Laura Sebben and Olive Potter.

North Oxford.

DEAR EDITOR—Having been a visitor at the examination or closing exercises of S. S. No. 4, I thought a few lines would be received by you for the purpose of publication. I was very much impressed with the beautiful situation of the school house. The grounds are surrounded by maples, which add greatly to the pleasure of the children in protecting them from the heat or glare of the sun. Having stepped inside the building I noticed that the walls and windows were hung with wreaths, etc., of maple, but was sorry to notice the dilapidated condition of the blackboard and walls—in many places the plastering had fallen away. The children of the different classes were put through a strict examination by their tutor, Miss E. A. Crawford, and I must say I was surprised at the correctness of the answers, which is the best test that can be given of the efficiency of the tutor. Indeed I must say I never found a school, particularly of the young, under greater or more perfect control. During recess cakes, etc., with lemonade were freely given the children, who spent their spare hours in games in a neighbouring grove. At the closing of the school a very pleasant surprise was in store, namely, the pupils presenting their teacher with an address and a handsome token of their esteem. Miss Crawford made a very pleasing and happy response.—VISITOR.

H. J. Guppy, of the Technical Branch of the Department of Public Works, Ottawa, is spending his holidays with his wife and child at his father in-law's, J. A. Crawford.

East Nissouri.

At the request of several of his friends, the Rev. J. S. McKay, M.A., preached in the School House, No. 8, East Nissouri, on Wednesday evening, July 2nd. The house, as usual, was well filled to hear their friend for the last time before his departure to his field of labor (British Columbia). After the services were concluded, two of the section arose and presented him with a handsome purse accompanied by the following address :

REV. J. S. MCKAY, M. A.

Dear Sir.—It is with pleasure that we, your old friends and neighbors, meet with you to-night and hear the truth of God declared from your lips. You have been born and brought up among us, and we all along admired your studies and praise-worthy habits but more especially did we admire your piety and your endeavors to prepare yourself for the holy work of the ministry ; and it is with pleasure that we have learned that you have finished your course of study successfully, that you have been licensed to preach the gospel of the Lord Jesus, and that the Presbytery of Toronto has such confidence in your prudence, ability and piety, as to send you to a distant part of the Dominion, in order to do the work of the church there. And now as you are on the eve of leaving us for the far west, we promise to follow you with our good wishes and prayers that God may make you eminently successful in his vineyard, and finally, that you may hear the well done of your Lord. Please accept this purse as a small token of our regard for you.

Signed in behalf of the section :
BELLA DAVIDSON.
JAS. SNETSINGER.

IN REPLY

Mr. McKay said, that as he was so completely taken by surprise, he was at a loss what to say. But ere many seconds had elapsed he showed them clearly his appreciation of sincere friends. Then after giving a short description of the work he anticipated in British Columbia, he said that he would be cheered and encouraged in his work by reverting his thoughts to the people of S. S. No. 8, E. Nissouri, and to their kindly feelings towards him.

This is not the first time that the people of this Section have publicly shown their respect and osteem for any one engaged in a good work in that community. And I think that if public benefactors were encouraged as much in their work in other sections as they are in No. 8, there would be more real good done in this fair country of ours. X. Y. Z.

A very enjoyable and successful picnic came off at S. S. No. 8, on Tuesday. The weather was all that could be wished for ; and notwithstanding the busy season, there was a large gathering. After the eatables, of which there was and excellent and bounteous supply, had been passed around, the assemblage was entertained by a number of interesting addresses and humourous recitations, interspersed by some choice music and songs. Some very laughable games followed among which the frantic efforts of three big boys to ascertain which of them could most rapidly consume a large bun suspended by a string, and the grotesque figures cut by the sack races produced much mirth. Swings and croquet were also supplied for the amusement of the young people and all seemed highly delighted with the amusements of the day.

Putnam.

Dominion Day was celebrated by our village and community in a very loyal manner, an exceedingly large crowd collecting to witness the sports. In the forenoon the Crampton Grasshoppers played a match game of baseball with the North Oxford Crickets. The hoppers were too much for the chirpers by two runs and an innings. The half-mile race and fat man's race caused some sport and a good deal of laughing. It is much to be regretted that a couple of our weaker champions had the misfortune to run so fast that their great speed turned their eyes cross-sighted when they ran into the ditch about half way from the starting point. Richard is a fine runner. He runs very hard. The following is a list of the prize winners :—Putting heavy stone, 1st Ellice, Verschoyle, 28ft.4in. ; 2nd, Shannon, Putnam, 27 ft. Throwing sledge, 1st, Ellice, Verschoyle, 63 ft. 10 in. ; 2nd, Shannon, Putnam, 63 ft. 7 in. ; 3rd, Halpin, N. Oxford, 60 ft. Tossing Caber, 1st Ellice, Verschoyle, 30ft. 5 in. ; 2nd M. Day, N. Oxford, 28ft. 4 in. ; 3rd Shannon, Putnam, 27 ft. 4 in. Men's Race, half mile, 1st A. Anderson, Belmont ; 2nd H. Solloway, Putnam. Men's Race, 200 yards, 1st A. Anderson, Belmont ; 2nd R. Dundass, Putnam ; 3rd J. George, North Oxford. Running Long Jump, 1st A. George, 17 ft. 3 in. ; 2nd A. Anderson, 16 ft. 2 in. ; 3rd B. Campbell, 15 ft. 11 in. Standing Jump, 1st M. Clear, 10 ft. 8 in. ; 2nd D Palmer, 9 ft. 8 in. ; 3rd P. Smith, 9ft. 6in. Vaulting with Pole, A. George and B. Camp. bell equal ; 3rd J. Sylvester. Running Hop, Step, and Jump, 1st Sylvester, 37 ft. 1 in. ; 2nd A. George, 36 ft. 11 in. ; 3rd M. Clear, 36 ft. 8 in. Boys' Race, 1st McDermot ; 2nd J. Collins ; 3rd B. Dundass. Girls' Race, 1st Clara Dundass ; 2nd K. McCullough ; 3rd E. Taylor.

FARM AND DAIRY.

Hints for Farm and Garden Work.

JULY is the harvest month over the central part of North America, and the hay and the earliest grain is then gathered in. It is very important to know how these crops can be gathered in the best condition. As regards hay, enough has been said in these columns and so recently that it may be only necessary to repeat, that the sooner the hay is cut after it has blossomed the better it will be, and the less the hay is exposed to the sun in euring it, the more palatable and nutritious it is.

MARSH HAY is subject to the same conditions as meadow hay, when cut at the proper time—that is, early, and before it is ripe—and when well cured, it is not much inferior to the common hay and it is well worth saving and caring for. Wet marshes that cannot be drained, may be made almost as valuable as dry land if they are cleared of brush and coarse weeds and the grass properly cared for. The coarse brakes and weeds may be destroyed in time by constant cutting before the seed ripens and the grass will soon take its place. And this course stuff is excellent litter and will add largely to the manure heap.

DRAINING WET LAND. Wet lands such as swamps and low meadows may be reclaimed by draining at much less cost and labor, if the ditches are dug in the dry weather. If former hints have been regarded the lines of the drains have been marked out and the ditches can now be dug; or at any rate, a beginning can be made, after which the work is most likely to go on. In undertaking any work it is always most difficult to begin; but it is necessary, for no work is ever finished until after it has been begur.

THE GRAIN HARVEST.—There are few points about the harvesting of grain which are worth considering just now. If the crop is cut before the grain is dead ripe, there is less loss by shelling; the grain is of better quality for the miller and is brighter and plumper and the straw is more valuable for feeding. All these advantages are worth securing. The work is also out of the way in good season, affording opportunity of doing something else in good season. He is a happy farmer who has his work all ahead of him, and is driving it along; but he is a very unhappy one who has it all behind him, and it driving him.

AFTER HAYING it will be a good thing to give the meadows a top dressing of manure, or fertilizer; and if nothing else, 100 or 200 lbs. of plaster will be of great help to the grass and clover. This should be done at once after clearing off the hay. If nothing else can be procured, a liberal dressing of swamp muck will be very useful; and this month is an excellent time to go upon the swamps and haul out the muck.

CULTIVATING THE CROPS should not be neglected. If the weather is dry the stirring of the surface prevents injury by helping the soil to absorb moisture; and if it is wet and the weeds are flourishing it keeps these down; besides the growth of the crop is much helped by it. We must not suppose that crops require cultivation merely to kill the weeds; they would need just as much if there were no weeds at all.

POTATOES. Every opportunity must be taken to destroy the Colorado beetle and save the crop from its ravages. It is no use trying experiments with this pest; Paris green is the only sure thing that will destroy it, but it is so sure that one part of it to 100 parts plaster will be sufficient, if it is thoroughly well mixed.

FODDER CROPS. Sweet corn or early varieties of field corn may be planted in the month. Hungarian grass or millet may also be sown any time in the month. We have grown a fine crop of millet on oats stubble plowed as soon as the crop was off. Half a bushel of seed is required for an acre of either millet or Hungarian grass.

LIVE STOCK of all kinds will now suffer unless well cared for. Flies, heat and poor water are all prevalent discomforts at this season. The first is not fully estimated by owners of horses and cattle. Tired horses shut up in an ill-smelling stable stamp all night long and cannot rest for them, and are sometimes so bitten that swollen patches in the morning show how they have suffered. This trouble may be greatly mitigated by having the stable clean and sweet and the horses' skins well cleaned and washed if necessary. A solution of carbolic soap in water, sponged over the skin and left to dry on it, or sponging with a solution of one part of the acid in 100 parts of water will keep the flies off from the poor beasts.

SHEEP AND LAMBS suffer much from the heat, some shade should be afforded them, where there will be a draft of air. The most frequent disease with sheep and lambs at this season of the year is diarrhœa which is sometimes caused by the heat and very often by bad water or poor feeding. This should not be neglected. A sheep so troubled should be put in a cool, quiet pen and given one ounce of linseed oil; and after that a dose of what is known as sheeps' cordial consisting of prepared chalk, 2 oz.; ginger, ½ oz.; opium 1 dram; powdered gum arabic ½ oz.; peppermint water one pint. Give two tablespoonfuls to a sheep, morning, noon, and evening. It is necessary to shear the wool from lambs, and sheep, about the hind parts and the tail, to prevent filth adhering and forming a nest for maggots.

CALVES also require looking after, especially those that are fed upon milk. Sour milk and butter milk should be given sparingly at first, and grain or meal with quite as much caution. Over feeding with either will make trouble. In case of diarrhea occurring, they should be treated as recommended above for sheep; but the doses should be twice as large.

BRUSH AND WEEDS are usually cut this month in the expectation that they will be killed. Many farmers have cut the same patch of brush every year for 20 years or more and still they go on; the same old plan. It is a waste of time and labor. It will be far better to grub up the roots thoroughly or plow out a piece every year, as large as can be properly finished and have done with it. Otherwise one might as well try to fill a barrel without any bottom in it as clear brush the old way. No time of the moon nor no month of the season, will help us to kill brush by merely cutting it.

IN THE ORCHARD watch should be kept for borers. Wherever any dust is seen about the trees near the ground the worms should be dug out or killed by pushing in a wire. To keep them out it is a good plan to give the trees a thick coat of whitewash. It is a good plan to have the fallen fruit consumed as it falls by turning a few sheep or pigs into the orchard. If there are but a few trees this fallen fruit which has each one or more worms in it should be gathered and destroyed in some way. This will lessen the mischief of them another year.

McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate has been tested by years of trial and has been found the most convenient and effectual method of applying carbolic acid. The greatest antiseptic in use for Cuts, Burns and Old Sores. Be sure you get McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. Sold for 25 cents by Gayfer and Kneeshaw, druggists.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

Curing Weak Eyes.

Bathe your eyes daily in salt water; not salt enough though to cause a smarting sensation. Nothing is more strengthening, and we know several persons who, after using this simple tonic for a few weeks, had put aside the spectacles they had used for years, and did not resume them, continuing, of course, the oft-repeated daily use of salt water. Never force your eyesight to read or work in insufficient or too broad light. Reading with the sun upon one's book is very injurious to the eyes.

Oil Stains on Paper.

To remove oil stains from the pages of a book without destroying the printing, gently warm the stained parts with a hot flatiron (so as to take out as much of the oil as possible) on blotting paper, then dip a brush into rectified spirits of turpentine, and draw it gently over the sides of the paper, which must be kept warm during the whole process. Repeat the operation as many times as the thickness of the paper may require. When the oil is entirely removed, to restore the paper to its usual whiteness, dip another brush in highly rectified spirits of wine and draw it in like manner over the stained place, particularly round the edges. By adopting this plan the spots will entirely vanish, and the paper assume its ordinary whiteness.

To Make Lemon Syrup.

In the spring, when lemons are cheap, a large family would always find it to their advantage to buy a whole box. Some dozens squeezed and the juice made into syrup, enables one to have emonade at a moment's notice for months, and give much needed refreshment to the sick and weary. To two pounds of loaf or crushed sugar put two pints of water and the juice of eight good lemons, boiled for about twenty minutes with the rind of three. After the sugar-water and rind are boiled and skimmed till clear, you then add the juice, not to be strained till the syrup is done; when boiled for about five minutes, take it off the fire, strain and bottle it. This quantity makes two quart bottles full, bringing the cost to from twenty to thirty cents each.—Mary Stuart Smith's Virginia Cookery Book.

How to Make Good Corned-Beef Scrapple.

Purchase a four-pound piece of corned beef, brisket, free of bone, with fat and lean mixed. Put it in a kettle that has a cover, and then pour over it sufficient water to cover it. Put the lid on the kettle and set it on your range or stove where it may cook very slowly for four or five hours; or until it is perfectly tender. Then take it out of the pot, and with the water in which it was boiled mix enough plain water to boil one breakfast cup of Hecker's hominy grits and two cups of yellow corn meal; stir all well while cooking (about half an hour will do); while this is being done, cut the meat up in small, thin pieces (not chunks) about half an inch square; mix these pieces through with the mush while warm, and pour the same into flat pans; use a little black pepper and a little sage for flavoring. When cool, cut up in slices and fry.—The Caterer.

Bean Soup.

Wash a quart of navy beans, put them over the fire with enough cold water to cover them, bring to a boil slowly, throw in a piece of baking soda the size of a large pea, boil three minutes, drain and return to the fire with three quarts of boiling water, a small carrot, a quarter of a pound of salt pork, two small onions, a piece of celery, and a few sprigs of parsley. Season with pepper and salt (lightly with the latter, as the pork is salt), and boil slowly for four hours. Pass it through a seive, season this pulp with cayenne pepper, dilute if too thick, bring to the boiling point and pour into the tureen, in which you have previously placed some croutons. If any of this soup remains mix it the next day with a cupful of stewed tomatoes for each pint of soup, strain and serve with croutons. Bean soup is also very nice if a small quantity of any kind of stock or broth is added about fifteen minutes before dinner.

An Artistic Crazy Quilt.

I have just finished my "crazy" quilt. And it is very dear to me, as the wardrobes of relatives and friends are there represented.

Yes, there are sixteen squares in it, and I made them all myself. This one with the velvet parasol is considered very artistic. It is easy enough to make the parasol. Just cut the velvet as a parasol would look when half opened, and scallop it around the bottom. Baste a tiny strip of lace under the button, and catch it down neatly with the bottom bole stitch. Then you work the handle and top to suit your fancy, and it is indeed lovely.

This white slipper I call my grandmother's bridal shoe, and is it not quaint? It is cut from an old fashioned book, and look at the tiny satin lacers and the faded yellow rosette.

That half moon and star were worked on canvas, and then the threads were pulled out.

Oh, it is very easy, and such charming work! Make one; it does not take very long. Get your friends to give you some odds and ends, and I am sure your dressmaker would save you a bundle. Then cut an old sheet into squares and baste thin wadding on them, and arrange your pieces any fashion. Of course you must study the colors a little and you can make some very unique figures. Baste down the raw edges of the silks or velvets, and then work all the seams with different colored embroidery silk. The stitches are very easy—simply the briar stitch or catch stitch. The border I quilted myself, as the bought is apt to be slazy; and I think the blue and old gold corners look nice with red sides. Yes, satin is better for the border than plush. No, I have no painting on mine. It is liable to crack and fade, and I want this to be an heirloom in our family.

These tassels on the corners give it an elegant finish, and are not expensive. It is such nice "pick-up" work, and the squares are so little trouble. You begin one, at any rate, and you may improve wonderfully on mine. Mine is lined with red silesia and looks very nice.—Bettie G. in Detroit Free Press.

DO NOT BE DISCOURAGED

even if you have tried many remedies for your Kidney disease or Liver complaint without success it is no reason why you should think your disorder incurable. The most intractable cases readily yield to the potent virtues of Kidney-Wort. It is a purely vegetable compound which acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels at the same time and thus cleanses the whole system. Don't wait, but get a package to-day and cure yourself.

In the House of Commons yesteday, Mr. Labouchere gave notice that he intended, in view of the prospect that the House of Lords would reject the Franchise Bill, to ask whether Mr. Gladstone would create a number of Liberal and madical Peers to overcome the adverse Rajority.

Joseph Rusan, Percy, writes: "I was induced to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lameness which troubled me for three or four years, and found it the best article I ever tried. It has been a great blessing to me." Beware of similarly named articles; they are imitations of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

All should profit by the aid of the cook—except the apothecary.

Mr. T. C. Berchard, public school teacher, Norland, writes: "During the fall of 1881 I was much troubled with Biliousness and Dyspepsia, and part of the time was unable to attend to the duties of my profession. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure was recommended to me and I have much pleasure in stating that I was entirely cured by using one bottle. I have not had an attack of any old complaint since, and have gained fifteen pounds in weight."

Peace hideth itself under the lid of a well managed pot.

Holloway's Pills.—Any dyspeptic sufferer aware of the purifying, regulating, and gently aperient powers of these Pills, should permit no one to cloud his judgment or to warp his course. With a box of Holloway's Pills, and attention to its accompanying "Directions," he may feel thoroughly satisfied that he can safely and effectually release himself from his miseries without impairing his appetite or weakening his digestion. This most excellent medicine acts as a nervine and bodily tonic by aiding nutrition, and banishes a thousand annoying forms of nervous complaints. An occasional resort to Holloway's remedy will prove highly salutary to all persons, whether well or ill, whose digestion is slow or imperfect, a condition usually evidenced by weariness, languor, listlessness, and despondency.

TEMPERANCE.

What Drink Does.

Drink causes loss of self-respect; it deadens nerve sensibility; it makes the brain perform its functions very imperfectly; it blunts the acuteness of the perception; it impairs the serenity of the temper; it augments the sum of human woe; it mightily diminishes the sum of human happiness; it has filled life with most of its most mournful tragedies; it destroys the temporal well-being of many young men and imperils that of many more; its constant motion is towards the disorganization of society it is the cause of almost all the poverty and ignorance which prevail; it is the creator of crime the leveller of laudable ambition, the sailor's syren, the scholar's snare, the ravager of the rich and the purloiner of the poor; it snaps the ties of natural love which bind man to man; it invades the family circle, whithers its peace, blasts its hopes, quenches its loves and too frequently converts that which should have been a type of heaven into the very reflection of hell. In view of the gravity of this charge against a vice which curses earth and displeases heaven, it is the duty of young men to have nothing to do with it, and the more they recognize their individual responsibility, the more intense will be their hatred of a system which has, in the past, so terribly thinned their ranks. Every young man who countenances or encourages the use of stimulants, who boasts that he can drink when he pleases and abstain when he likes,, who laughs at friends when they remonstrate and sneers at young men when they adopt total abstinence principles, in retarding the arrival of that day when this great evil which oppresses humanity will be swept away, and for the evil which his example caused he will be held accountable. This thought is appalling, but neither logic nor sophistry can overthrow its stern and solemn trust. How many men who, in the first flush of young manhood, contracted drinking habits, and who were plucked as "brands from the burning," would pass along the paths of life with lighter steps and happier hearts if the influence of that earlier life could be removed, but their new life cannot destroy the effects of their old one, and upon the walls of their memories are traced the scenes of hours misused, of talents misapplied and of influence misdirected. Young men who know anything experimentally of alcohol, and who have not experienced the trials and temptations which contact with it brings, do not touch the first glass, for in so doing you will run the risk of dispelling your ignorance and losing your bliss. Have you taste! Drink has no purity in it to refine you. Have you imagination? It cannot assist you, but it will cause the poetry of life to become one sad refrain of what might have been. Young men who are moderate drinkers adopt the great common sense doctrine of teetotalism, a doctrine based upon truth, simple majestic and imperishable.

A Successful but Dangerous Practical Joke.

Seated around the fire in the Antisdal House office, Tuesday evening, smoking their after-supper-cigars, were half a dozen delegates to the Odd Fellows' Grand Encampment. The name of one, whom they all seemed to know, was mentioned, when a story, of which he was the hero, was suggested to one of the party. "There were four of us," he said, "including John ——, out together one evening, and we dropped into the billiard-room of the hotel, where two of us engaged in a game. John had been drinking rather freely, and soon after he sat down he was fast asleep. One of the boys suggested, after we had finished the game and it was time to go home, that we play a joke on John. Everybody had left except our party, and the landlord readily gave his consent. The gas was turned off and the room was as dark as pitch. One of us took two balls and knocked them together, and we walked around the table talking about the shots, as if the game were in progress. Presently one of us, as if by accident, stumbled against John and woke him up. He rosed himself long enough to hear the click of the balls and call out, "Let's go home." He was told that we would as soon as we finished the game, and the balls were again clicked together. This programme was repeated at frequent intervals, until John was quite awake. He apparently realized that a game of billiards was in progress, but was confused and then alarmed because he couldn't see. But one of the boys shook him and carelessly told him to wake up and open his eyes again, and assured him that the game was near the end, and so soon as it was finished we would all go home.

"'But I tell you I am blind," he exclaimed. 'I can't see a thing in this room!'

"We then affected some interest in his case, and one of us put his hand on his cheek with the remark, in a tone of great anxiety, 'Why, boys, he's cold!' Then another felt his pulse, 'Why, good Heavens, he's paralyzed!'"

This was more than John could stand, and he sprang to his feet fairly trembling with terror, and almost yelled, "Boys, I'm ruined; for the Lord's sake, send for my wife!" Then the gas was lighted, and you ought to have seen that man! If ever a fellow was suddenly scared sober he was the one. He was so thoroughly reformed by the fright that to-day if you even point a corkscrew at him he will run.—Detroit Journal.

Simple Tests for the Purity of Water.

In suspected potable water for persons who cannot command chemical analysis, the following tests are recommended as being generally available and reliable:

Color—Fill a bottle made of colorless glass with the water; look through the water at some black object; the water should appear perfectly colorless, and free from suspended matter. A muddy or turbid appearance indicates the presence of soluble organic matter, or of soluble matter in suspension. It should be "clear as crystal."

Odor—Empty out some of the water, leaving the bottle half full; cork up the bottle and place it for a few hours in a warm place; shake up the water, remove the cork and critically smell the air contained in the bottle. If it has any smell, and especially if the odor is in the least repulsive, the water should be rejected for domestic use. By heating the water to boiling an odor is sometimes evolved that otherwise does not appear.

Taste—Water fresh from the well is usually tasteless, even though it may contain a large amount of putrescible organic matter. Water for domestic use should be perfectly tasteless, and remain so even after it has been warmed, since warming often developes a taste in water which is tasteless when cold. If the water at any time has a repulsive or even disagreeable taste it should be rejected.

Heisch's Test for Sewage Contamination—The delicacy of the sense of smell or taste varies greatly in different individuals; one person may fail to detect the foul contamination of a given water, which would be very evident to a person of finer organization. But if the cause of bad smell or taste exists in water, the injurious effect on health will remain the same, whether recognized or not. Moreover, some water of a very dangerous quality will fail to give any indication by smell or taste. For these reasons I attach special importance to Heisch's test for sewage contamination or the presence of putrescible organic matter. The test is so simple that anyone can use it. Fill a clean pint bottle three-fourths full of the water to be tested, and dissolve in the water a teaspoonful of the purest sugar—loaf or granulated sugar will answer—cork the bottle and place it in a warm place for two days. If in twenty-four to forty-eight hours the water becomes cloudy or muddy, it is unfit for domestic use. If it remains perfectly clear it is probably safe to use.

A misstep will often make a cripple for life. A bottle of Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment at hand, will not prevent the misstep, but used immediately it will save being a cripple. 8t.

Send Me Some Wish.

BY KITTY CARROLL.

Send me some wish for my birthday—
Something no other has said,
Something no other has written,
Something no other has read.
Something no other could think of,
Something no other could say,
Something from your heart to my heart,
Something to brighten the day.

Send me some wish for my birthday,
Others will send kind words.
Theirs are like "tales oft repeated,"
Yours are heart notes of birds.
Send me some wish for my birthday—
Something to gladden and cheer,
Something to think of, to hope for.
All through my new dawning year.

A REALISTIC SCENE.

The Skeleton in the Closet Revealed by a Close-Observing Child.

An amusing incident occurred at a matinee at the Academy, in Cleveland, which for a moment bade fair to break up a further presentation of the play. In the third act the leading man gets into a passion with his wife. They quarrel most naturally, and the man seizes a whip and strikes his wife. The latter sinks on the floor with a groan, while her demon husband glares at her like a tiger. When the play had gone thus far, and just after the husband had struck his wife, a little child in the audience, imbued with the irrepressible desire to give away family secrets—like all good children—piped out in a loud voice: "That's just the way my pa hits my ma!" The effect on the audience was instantaneous, and, although worked up to the highest pitch of angry excitement by what was transpiring on the stage, a loud, long and hearty laugh followed the innocent remark of the little one. The actor and actress on the stage laughed louder than any one else in the house, and it was a long time before they could assume sober faces enough to go on with their lines. The mother of the little one hustled the youngster rapidly out, and it will probably be a day of frigid atmosphere when she again takes that child to see a play.

Something the Dear Darling Never Thought of.

Two girls sat in the front of the car. The only remaining occupant was a reporter, who sat in the rear, in the shade. The girls were unaware or at any rate oblivious of his presence, for they were mutually confidential.

"Oh, Clara," exclaimed the one in the corner; "do you know Gus proposed to me last night?"

"Did he? How nice!"

"Yes, he did. And he brought me a box of the sweetest caramels you ever saw."

"Does he bring you a box of candy every time he calls?"

"Why, of course he does. He's just as nice as he can be."

"Charley never brings me any. But then he takes me to the theatre real often."

"Humph! Gus takes me, too."

"He must be too sweet for anything."

"Oh, I tell you he is; he is a clerk in a dry-goods store, and he gets $4 a week. Just think of it! Why, we can get married and that money will buy ever so much candy."

"But don't you know you'll have grocery bills and lots of other things to buy?"

"How funny! I never thought of that. Pa'll have to buy them, I suppose."

"Will he?"

"Of course he will."

"How do you know?"

"Because."

But the reporter resolved to walk the remainder of the journey, which resolution he immediately carried into effect. —Rochester Herald.

A Bridal Present Which Modjeska Sent to a Parisian Friend.

A most superb piece of work has been sent off to Paris, says a writer in the St. Paul Pioneer Press. When Mme. Modjeska was in town a few months ago, she requested a lady, who devotes her leisure to painting on satin, to make a wedding present for a young French girl.

"It must be unlike anything ever dreamed of before," she said; "make a bed-spread and pillow-covers and dressing-table ornaments."

Carte blanche being given, and a royal sum of money advanced, our lady artist set to work. Heavy ivory-white satin was chosen, and so arranged that the centre-piece was a large medallion in which an angel head, after Correggio, was placed. This was surrounded by a wreath of maidenhair fern, and out of this the name "Marie" gleamed in golden letters. The painting of this fern, and the illumination of the name was exquisitely done. A heavy silk cord encircled a medallion, under which was a half-wreath of clematis, honey-suckle, Lady Washington geraniums, lilies and nasturtium vine, begonia leaves and briony. Tea roses, crimson damask, superb pink, and sofrano roses filled the four corners. The same satin, elaborately quilted, formed the lining of the bed-quilt, which was finished with heavy silk cord and a border of duchess point lace—the price of it $30 a yard.

The pillow covers contained the well-known angel heads of "Night" and "Morning," and exquisitely arranged half-wreaths were grouped about them. One pillow bore English wild flowers, ferns, hairbell, eglantine-red clover, daises, laburnum and morning glories, while the other had pansies, purple and white, tulips, fringed gentian, wall-flowers and carnations. The pin-cushion of the toilet set was also of ivory satin, with laburnum sprays and double quince blossoms, and the word "amour" illuminated in gold. The glove case had white pansies and chrysanthemums, and "je pense a toi." The handkerchief case was covered with English primroses, forget-me-nots and pink anemone.

The lace which surrounded them was in itself a bridal gift of real value, but Modjeska is as generous in her gifts as all great, whole-souled women are. She gives regally or not at all.

—The craze in Chicago is for curly wigs. An extensive hair dealer predicts that there will not be a wigless woman in society six months hence. "I know what I am talking about," he declared to a Chicago reporter, "for I have sold 327 wigs in Chicago since last September, and on an average, I half-shingle a customer every day."

"A severe cold settled in quick consumption. I bought two bottles of Dr. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam and she took them. They worked a complete change, and by its continuance she was completely restored to health." This is F. B. Gardner's testimony regarding the most popular remedy for coughs and colds, and throat and lung diseases generally, and a testimony somewhat similar is given by all who have tried it. Dr. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam is nature's cure, and its effects are rapid and beneficial.

Let the doubting cook roast his fish.

Thos. Sabin, of Egliugton, says: "I have removed ten corns from my feet with Holloway's Corn Cure."

Rare beef and well-cooked fish betray a wise cook.

Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator has no equal for destroying worms in children and adults.

Court the onion and flee the doctor.

Mrs. W. J. Lang, Bethany, Ont., writes: I was one of the greatest sufferers for about fifteen months with a disease of my ear similar to ulcers, causing entire deafness. I tried everything that could be done through medical skill, but without relief. As a last resort, I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and in ten minutes found relief. I continued using it, and in a short time my ear was cured and hearing completely restored. I have used this wonderful healer successfully in cases of inflammation of the lungs, sore throat, coughs and colds, cuts and bruises, &c., in fact it is our family medicine.

A bad dinner is often redeemed by a good salad.

If you are troubled with a "hacking cough," Downs' Elixir will give you relief at once. Warranteed as recommended or money refunded. 8t.

Discretion is the proper sauce for cheese.

NATIONAL PILLS is the favorite purgative and anti-bilious medicine, they are mild and thorough. 8t.

The lean buyer maketh the fat seller.

WORMS often destroy children, but Freeman's Worm Powders destroy Worms, and expel them from the system. 8t.

Diplomacy lieth under the dish-cover.

THE reason why "Nonsuch Washing Compound" should be used in preference to all other washing preparations.—First, It is perfectly harmless. Second, It saves more than half the labour. Third, It is the cheapest in the market. Many more could be given but this should be sufficient. For sale by all grocers. 84

THE WOES OF AN EXPRESSMAN.

Doing a $3 Job for Nothing and Paying $25 for Moving a Trunk.

On a west side expressman's stand the following placard was prominently displayed:

Pay on Giving Your Order.
If a Job ordered To-day to be done To-morrow Burns Up To-night, Money Refunded Only to the Person Who ordered the Job.
No More Skin Games Here.

"What does it mean?" said the expressman to a Sun reporter, who asked for an explanation of the sign. "Well, it means that I've just been doing a $3 job for nothing, and I'm mad.

"Yesterday a man that I've done quite a little expressing for hired me to move some things to another part of town. I charged him $3, and he paid me down. I was to call at 11 o'clock to-day to get the things. A little after 9 o'clock this morning a messenger boy handed me this note."

The expressman placed the note in the reporter's hands. It was signed with the name and address of the gentleman who had hired the expressman as above. It read as follows:

"There was a fire in this house last night, and my things were so badly damaged that it will not pay to have them moved. Please refund the $3 to bearer and oblige."

"I was sorry to lose the job, of course, but planked the $3 down to the messenger boy and away he went. About 1 o'clock this afternoon the man who had ordered the things moved came here madder than a bull, and gave me such a going over as I never had before. The fire and the message were all news to him, and I simply had to go and yank those goods to the place I had agreed to, while somebody else was off enjoying himself, probably by filling up with beer on my $3.

The only way I can explain the skin is that the fellow who worked it was standing in hearing of the man when he gave me his name and address, and saw him pay the money. Then his game was easy—the note, the messenger boy, and the money. I hear now that the game has been played on other expressmen, and it's the offshoot of the 'changed address' swindle.

"Oh, that's an old game, and won't work any more. I had to make good for a trunk once by paying $25 through this game. They played it in this way: A nice, pleasant man would come to you and leave an order for you to call at a certain address for a trunk which you were to leave at another address. Before the time at which you were to call for the trunk came round, a messenger boy would come running up to your stand with a note signed with the name of the owner of the trunk, stating that he had concluded to have the trunk taken to another address, and ordering it left there. You carry the trunk to the last address, and it is received by a man you haven't seen before, but who tells you it's all right, and you go back to your stand. The next day the owner of the trunk comes up a-boiling, and wants to know where you've lugged his trunk to. You tell him. He asks you in very strong and plain language who told you to take the trunk there. You produce the written order. He never sent it, of course. You hurry down to the place where you left the trunk. Trunk is gone with the man who received it and said it was all right. What are you going to do? You can't prove that the owner of the trunk sent the order to change the address. He paid you for carrying it to one place and you left it at another. You're responsible for it, and the easiest and cheapest way is to just come down with the value the man puts on it. I got off with $25, but some of the boys got warmed a great deal prettier than that.

"It was a put up thing, of course. The men worked together, and I spose that the same Saratoga for which I paid $25 for the privilege of carting a couple of miles did duty on half the stands in the city before the boys dropped to the little game. This fire-racket that burned me to-day is worked by the same fellows, I'll bet my head.

"And that's why I stuck up that sign." —N. Y. Sun.

Theatrical Dinners.

"Theatrical dinners" are lum tum in Philadelphia. The idea is to serve the banquet in subdued and changing lights and at times in total darkness, for the purpose of producing weird effects. This is a happy thought, and originated in the mind of an economical householder.

When the soup was brought in the lights were turned up high, so that the might feel cheerful and eat most heartily.

A sad, solemn blue light cast a ghastly pallor over the oysters, insomuch that the guests gazed at them in horror and with awful suspicions and wouldn't touch them. Thus the oysters were saved and lasted the family all next day.

A red light that glowed on the scene at intervals gave the thin lemonade the dissembling aspect of claret.

When the hash was brought on, up went the lights white and full as the moon.

A pale green light so effectually concealed the bones in the fish that every guest who essayed to eat thereof choked. Clear saving of eighty per cent. on the fish.

Every time anything cheap came on up went the white lights.

When the dessert was brought in total darkness fell upon the scene, and, in the gloom, dark-robed servants came in and carried all the dessert away. Lasted the family two weeks.

Oh, it is very effective, the theatrical dinner, especially if it is managed right. —Burlington Hawkeye.

A Fowl Cackle-ation.

Young Chick—Mamma, why do you scratch with one foot and then with the other, and don't look down until you get through?

Old Hen (brought up in Boston)—Because, my dear offspring, if I were to excavate the soil with both my pedal extremities simultaneously, and direct my organs of vision on the ground at the same time, I would lose my equilibrium and present the undignified spectacle of balancing myself on my cranium without any visible means of support.

McGREGOR'S SPEEDY CURE.

Every purchaser of common sense business capacity, when requiring an article for a certain purpose, purchases only that which has been tried or is allowed first to test before buying. You are allowed a free trial bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure, the great remedy for Dyspepsia, Impure Blood and Liver Disorders at Gayfer and Kneeshaw's Drug Store. Sold at 50c. and $1 per bottle. See testimonials from persons in your own town.

Discretion is the proper sauce for cheese.

TIME, ITS VALUE.

To-day is ours, why should we care?
To-day is ours, why should we fear?
To-day is ours, why should we sorrow?
For to the gods belong to morrow.

Therefore for to-day, chew Gold Coin Tobacco, it is tne best. 06

A son of Kossuth lives in Illinois.

A GOOD TIME.

When is the best time to take a blood purifier? Whenever the blood is foul and humors appear, or when the system is debilitated take Burdock Blood Bitters. 8i

A wise cook fondles his fire.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. 00

Fast well, feast well.

ITCHING PILES—SYPMTOMS AND CURE.

The symptoms are moisture, like perspiration, intense itching, increased by scratching, very distressing, particularly at night, seems as if pin-worms were crawling in and about the rectum; the private parts are sometimes affected. If allowed to continue very serious results may follow, "SWAYNE'S OINTMENT" is a pleasant, sure cure. Also for Tetter Itch, Salt Rheum Scald Head, Erysipelas, Barbers Itch, Blotches, all scaly, crusty Skin Diseases. Sent by mail for 50 cents; 3 boxes, $1.25 (in stamps). Address, DR. SWAYNE & SON, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Druggists

Miscellaneous Items.

Nearly every educated Swede understands English.

Dr. Schliemann's health is as broken as some of the relics he has excavated.

BUCKLEY'S ARNICA SALVE

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by John Gayfer. 74v-y

The early Richmond cherry is regarded as almost valuable fruit.

A SUDDEN ATTACK.

All people, and especially travellers, are liable to a sudden attack of Cholera Morbus, Colic, Diarrhœa and Dysentery. Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry is the most prompt and reliable remedy known. 8i

Wise council cometh not from an empty stomach.

GREAT FATALITY

The ravages of Cholera Infantum and Summer Complaints among children is truly alarming. The most reliable cure is Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry. Every bottle guaranteed to give satisfaction. 8i

True economy in the household has been for its banker.

REST AND COMFORT TO THE SUFFERING

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 1498vy

Minnie Palmer is still the reigning sensation of the London dramatic season.

REMARKABLE RESTORATION.

Mrs. Adelaide O'Brien, of Buffalo, N. Y., was given up to die by her physicians, as incurable with Consumption. It proved Liver Complaint and was cured with Burdock Blood Bitters. 8i

Clara Morris is on a tour of twenty two weeks.

A FIRM OPINION.

The firm of Ormand & Walsh, druggists, of Peterboro, say Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry is one of their best Standard Medicines for Summer Complaints. 8i

Buffalos, after an absence of several years, are now returning to the plains of North Texas.

MODERN MAGIC.

The magical power over pain that Hagyard's Yellow Oil possesses, outrivals the marvels of ancient times. It acts in a natural manner to subduo inflammation; cures Rheumatism, Croup, Deafness, Sore Throat, and painful injuries. 8i

Professor Christison says that alcohol is a poison for which there is no antidote.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Trains leave Ingersoll as follows:

GOING WEST.	GOING EAST.
4:56 a. m.	6:50 a. m.
11:57 a. m.	12:15 a. m.
12:32 a. m.	3:20 p. m.
5:05 p. m.	4:48 p. m.
7:47 p. m.	7:00 p. m.
2:11 a. m.	12:20 p. m.

CATARRH.

CATARRH.—A New Treatment whereby this hitherto incurable disease is permanently cured in from one to three applications, no matter whether standing for one year or forty years. Descriptive pamphlet sent free on receipt of stamp. A. H. DIXON & SON, 305 King street west, Toronto, Canada. 1569vy

SHAKER BLOOD SYRUP.

Cures Completely Scrofula, Syphilis, Cancer, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Ulcers and Skin and Blood Diseases of every description.

$1000 reward to any chemist who will find, on analysis of 100 bottles of Shaker Blood Syrup, one particle of Mercury, Iodide of Potassium, or any mineral substance.

J. W. BROWETT, - DRUGGIST,
Sign of White Mortar,
THAMES STREET, INGERSOLL.

Get Your Bill-heads now at THE CHRONICLE OFFICE for Half Yearly Accounts. Best Work and Lowest Prices.

ADVERTISERS
Before you place a dollar's worth of Newspaper advertising, get our prices. The exact cost of any paper, or list of papers cheerfully furnished, free upon application.
Send for New Catalogue.
J. C. HOUGH,
Advertising Agent,
HOUGH BLOCK. Detroit, Mich.

JAS. McINTYRE
UNDERTAKER,

HAS REMOVED BACK TO HIS old stand in the
NEW BRICK BLOCK.
A Large Stock of COFFINS, and CASKETS HROUDS and ROBES on hand.

FURNITURE
All kinds in stock. Residence first house north of warehouse, King street, Ingersoll. nber 22, 1881.

$66 a week at home. $5 outfit free. Pay absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make great pay all the time they work, with absolute certainty. Write for particulars to H. HALLETT & CO., Portland, Me.

Engraved Visiting Cards, Pirie's Best Wedding Stationery, latest New York Styles at THE CHRONICLE Office. See samples.

Health & Happiness

FOUNDED 1853.

THE INGERSOLL CHRONICLE,

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

C. F. GURNETT, Proprietor.

TERMS for THE CHRONICLE AND DAIRYMAN, by mail, or called for at the office of publication, or at the bookstores, $1.50 in advance; $2.50 if not so paid. Delivered at homes, or business places of subscribers, in town, $1.75 in advance, or $2.75 if not so paid.

The CHRONICLE AND DAIRYMAN has more readers than all the remaining newspapers published in Ingersoll and the South Riding of Oxford combined. This important fact should be borne in mind by advertisers.

It has the largest circulation among Canadian Dairymen, being devoted specially to the interests of that class.

Printing by Steam Power in all its branches.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Advertisements will be inserted in THE CHRONICLE AND DAIRYMAN, at 8 cents per line for the first insertion, and 3 cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

For legal and official advertisements the charge is 10 cents per line for the first, and 5 cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

Condensed advertisements:—Servants wanted—Articles Wanted—Lost or Found—Strayed—To Rent or For Sale—Board—Situations Wanted, or Vacant, etc., (one inch or under) will be published at the rate of 50 cts. for the first insertion, and 25 cts. for each subsequent insertion.

Ten cents per line for the first insertion and five cents per line for each subsequent insertion, is the charge for inserting "special notices" with reading matter and in the same type.

Professional cards, not exceeding 6 lines, will be inserted one year for $5; 50 cents per line per year for each line over six lines.

Commercial advertisements, ordinarily displayed matter, will be inserted at the following rates:—

TIME.	2 In.	¼ Col. 3 In.	½ Col. 6 In.	¾ Col. 12 In.	1 Col. 24 In.
1 week...	$1 50	$2 50	$4 00	$6 00	$10 00
2 weeks..	2 25	3 75	6 00	9 00	15 00
3 weeks..	2 70	4 50	7 20	10 80	18 00
4 weeks..	3 00	5 00	8 00	12 00	20 00
5 weeks..	3 30	5 50	8 80	13 20	22 00
6 weeks .	3 60	6 00	9 60	14 40	24 00
2 months.	4 50	7 50	12 00	18 00	30 00
3 months.	6 00	10 00	15 00	24 00	40 00
6 months.	9 00	15 00	24 00	40 00	60 00
12 months	15 00	22 00	40 00	60 00	100 00

The above contract prices do not give the right to advertise Houses or Farms for Sale, or to Rent, Clerks, Domestics or Servants Wanted, Articles Lost or Found, Entertainments, Auction Sales, &c., but extend exclusively to the legitimate commercial announcements, ordinarily displayed matter, of the persons contracting. Solid matter will be charged at the rate of 8 and 3 cents per line.

J. F. McDONALD, L.L. B., BARRISTER AND ATTORNEY-at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Notary Public, &c. OFFICE—Thames street, Ingersoll

M. WALSH, BARRISTER, NOTARY PUBLIC, Solicitor in the Supreme Court of Ontario, &c. Money to lend at lowest rates. Mortgages Bought and Sold. OFFICE up Stairs, Walsh's Block, Thames Street, Ingersoll, Ont.

W. W. HOLCROFT, BARRISTER, ATTORNEY, SOLICITOR, Notary Public, Conveyancer, &c.; $100,000, private funds, to loan at 6 and 7 per cent. Mortgages, Debentures and Notes bought. Office formerly occupied by the late Mr. McCaughey, Thames street, Ingersoll.

J. C. HEGLER, BARRISTER ATTORNEY, SOLICITOR, &c. Money to loan at sight per cent. OFFICE:—Over Molsons Bank, King Street.

G. J. CHARLESWORTH, M. B., F.T.M.S., M.C.P.S., Ont. L.R.C.P. & L.M., Edinburgh. Office—Thames Street, over Nelles & Stevens', next to Browett's Drug Store. Residence—Charles Street, first place west of Baldwin's Carriage Factory, Ingersoll. Calls night and day promptly attended to. March 20th, 1884. 1503r-y

DR. McKAY, L.R.C.P. & L.M., EDINBURGH, Coroner for the County of Oxford, Graduate of the Royal College of Physicians, Edinburgh.—Late Surgeon in the British Marine Service. Office, Thames Street, Ingersoll.

J. ARTHUR WILLIAMS, M. D., M.R.C.S. AND L.M., ENGLAND, L.R.C.P., London; Aurist and Oculist Office with Dr. Hoyt, King Street, Ingersoll.

CHARLES KENNEDY, SURGEON DENTIST. LICENSED by the Royal College of Dental Surgery, Ont. teeth extracted without pain by the use of Nitrous Oxide Gas, etc., if desired. Special attention paid to the preservation of natural teeth. Office on King street, opposite the "Thompson house," Ingersoll. 884y

W. A. SUDWORTH., SURGEON DENTIST, MEMBER of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, Graduate of Ont. Dental College. Anæsthetics administered for the painless extraction of teeth. Office opposite the Market, Ingersoll.

H. W. HILL, PRODUCE and Commission Merchant, Agent for the Empire Loan Association. Money to loan at lowest rates on farm and town property. Market Square, Woodstock. January 31st, 1884. 1580r y

W. R. BURKE PROVINCIAL LAND SURVEYOR AND DRAUGHTSMAN, OFFICE AT TELEGRAPH OFFICE.

I have disposed of all my plans, field notes and bearings to Mr. W. R. Burke, P. L. Surveyor, of Ingersoll, which have been collected by myself during the past 30 years while practicing in the County of Oxford. All parties wishing surveying done, will do well to employ Mr. Burke, he now having so much valuable information relative to surveys in this County. Signed, W. G. WONHAM, P. L. Surveyor. May 8th, 1884. 1600r-y

JAMES BRADY, LICENSED AUCTIONEER INGERSOLL, ONT., Is prepared to attend all sales in town or country. Ingersoll, April 20th, 1882, 1493

Imperial Bank of Canada

HEAD OFFICE, - TORONTO.

Capital Paid Up, $1,500,000. Rest, - - 650,000.

Purchases Municipal Debentures, Issues Drafts on its branches and agencies in the North-West. Transfers Moneys by Telegrams to Winnipeg and Brandon. Dealers in Sterling Exchange. Savings Department—Deposits received and interest allowed. Agents in London, Messrs. Bosanquet, Salt & Co., 73 Lombard street, with whom moneys for transmission from Great Britain to Ontario and the North-West may be deposited.

D. R. WILKIE Cashier.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT. Deposits of $1 and upward received and interest allowed thereon at current rates.

INGERSOLL BRANCH, J. A. RICHARDSON, Manager.

MERCHANT'S BANK OF CANADA.

CAPITAL - - $5,700,000 RESERVE - - $1,250,000

INGERSOLL BRANCH.

THIS BANK TRANSACTS A General Banking Business, Buys and Sells Exchange on England and the United States, and issues Drafts on New York and all parts of Canada. Particular attention paid to collections for Customers and Banks. A. M. SMITH. Manager.

BANK OF LONDON IN CANADA.

CAPITAL, $1,000,000.00.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS. HY. TAYLOR, Pres. J. LABATT, Vice-Pres. A. M. SMART, Cashier. W. R. MEREDITH, Q.C., M.P.P. T. LONG. BBE. CRONYN. THOS. FAWCETT. IRA BANKS. THOS. KENT. M. REID. JNO MORRISON.

INGERSOLL BRANCH. A Branch of the Bank of London, has been opened in Ingersoll, in the premises recently occupied by The Molsons Bank.

A General Banking Business Transacted. Collections on all points in Canada and United States made promptly, at reasonable rates. Draft is issued on New York and all points in Canada. LIBERAL INTEREST ALLOWED ON DEPOSITS which can be withdrawn at any time.

C. W. M. SIMPSON, Acting Manager. Ingersoll, March 27, 1884 1594

Electro Plate GOODS —AT— R. W. WOODROOFE'S JEWELLERY STORE, Thames Street, - Ingersoll.

The Ingersoll Chronicle,

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

VOL. XXXI.—NO. 46. INGERSOLL, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JULY 17, 1884. WHOLE NO. 1610.

THE CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY.

ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1883.

Assets - - -	$5,617,623
Interest on Investments -	335,907
New Policies Written -	2,178
Amount of New Policies -	$4,534,000
Death Claims Paid - -	$289,660
Premiums Received - -	$812,889

It will be noticed the interest on investments more than pays the death claims.

The Canada Life is a home company and has been doing business for 37 years.

Its rates are moderate while its profits are larger than those of other companies.

Policies indisputable after two years.

Claims paid immediately on proof of death.

Thirty days grace allowed for payment of premiums.

The profits will equal if not exceed those of any previous Division.

For every information apply to

H. C'CONNOR, Jr., - AGENT, INGERSOLL & DISTRICT. June 12th, 1884. 1605

LONDON AND LANCASHIRE Life Assurance Com'y OF ENGLAND.

Head Office for Canada, 217 St. James St., Montreal.

Policies unconditional and rate as low as absolute security will admit.

Reserves deposited annually with Government, thus rendering the policies unquestionable as to security.

Funds invested in Canada over $300,000 and increasing yearly.

Every desirable Form of Policy Issued WM. ROBERTSON, MANAGER. Ingersoll, July 26, 1883. 1559r-y

London Loan Company, LONDON, ONTARIO.

$100,000 to lend at Lowest Rates. Short loans at 6 and 6½ per cent. Apply to M. J. KENT, Manager, London, Feb. 7th, 1884. 1587r-y

VITAL QUESTIONS!!!!

Ask the most eminent physician

Of any school, what is the best thing in the world for quieting and allaying all irritation of the nerves, and curing all forms of nervous complaints, giving natural, childlike refreshing sleep always?

And they will tell you unhesitatingly

"Some form of Hops!!"

CHAPTER I.

Ask any or all of the most eminent physicians:

"What is the best and only remedy that can be relied on to cure all diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs; such as Bright's disease, diabetes, retention, or inability to retain urine, and all the diseases and ailments peculiar to Women"—

"And they will tell you explicitly and emphatically "Buchu!!!"

Ask the same physicians

"What is the most reliable and surest cure for all liver diseases or dyspepsia; constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malaria, fever, ague, &c.," and they will tell you:

"Mandrake! or Dandelion!!!!"

Hence, when these remedies are combined with others equally valuable,

And compounded into Hop Bitters, such a wonderful and mysterious curative power is developed, which is so varied in its operations that no disease or ill health can possibly exist or resist its power, and yet it is

Harmless for the most frail woman, weakest invalid or smallest child to use.

CHAPTER II.

"Patients

"Almost dead or nearly dying"

For years, and given up by physicians, of Bright's and other kidney diseases, liver complaints, severe coughs, called consumption, have been cured,

Women gone nearly crazy!!!!!

From agony of neuralgia, nervousness, wakefulness, and various diseases peculiar to women.

People drawn out of shape from excruciating pangs of rheumatism, inflammatory and chronic, or suffering from scrofula.

Erysipelas!

"Saltrheum, blood poisoning, dyspepsia, indigestion, and, in fact, almost all diseases frail"

Nature is heir to

Have been cured by Hop Bitters, proof of which can be found in every neighborhood in the known world.

None genuine without a bunch of green Hops on the white label. Shun all the vile, poisonous stuff with "Hop" or "Hops" in their name.

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA AND SUGAR-COATED PILLS, The Great Purifiers OF THE BLOOD AND LIVER.

KIDNEY-WORT DOES WONDERFUL CURES OF KIDNEY DISEASES AND LIVER COMPLAINTS, Why so? Because it acts on the LIVER, BOWELS and KIDNEYS at the same time.

Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary Diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Disorders and all Female Complaints.

IF SOLID PROOF OF THIS.

IT WILL SURELY CURE CONSTIPATION, PILES, and RHEUMATISM, By causing FREE ACTION of all the organs and functions, thereby CLEANSING the BLOOD restoring the normal power to throw off disease. THOUSANDS OF CASES of the worst forms of these terrible diseases have been quickly relieved, and in a short time PERFECTLY CURED.

PRICE, $1. LIQUID OR DRY, SOLD BY DRUGGISTS. Dry can be sent by mail. WELLS, RICHARDSON & Co., Burlington, Vt. Send stamp for Diary Almanac for 1884.

KIDNEY-WORT

VANCE'S BAKERY

continues to be the place where the public can get a full assortment of

CAKES AND CONFFCTIONERY

Soda Biscuits and Oyster Crackers, Manufactured on the premises, and consequently always fresh.

Tea Parties Supplied. Bride Cakes Made and Neatly Ornamented at Reasonable Rates.

A large assortment of Ornamental Cake Tops an Flowers always on hand.

Fresh Bread and Buns Every Day.

R. VANCE, Thames Street.

Bread delivered in town daily.

HIS FINEST SONNET.

The New York Evening Post considers the following Longfellow's finest sonnet:

As a fond mother, when the day is o'er,
Leads by the hand her little child to bed,
Half willing, half reluctant to be led,
And leaves his broken playthings on the floor,
Still gazing at them through the open door.
Nor wholly reassured and comforted
By promises of others in their stead,
Which, though more splendid, may not please me more,
So nature deals with us and takes away
Our playthings one by one, and by the hand
Leads us to rest so gently that we go,
Scarce knowing if we wish to go or stay,
Being too full of sleep to understand
How far the unknown transcends the what we know.

AN IRISH STORY.

"Yes, God is good, I'm told. You see
I cannot read. But, then,
"I can believe. He's good to me,
He is, and good to men.

"He keeps my little cabin there
Safe when the sea wind blows,
When I was young he let me wear
Upon my cheek a rose;
And then it was he sent a youth,
The handsomest, you'd own,
On all the Irish coast. * * * In truth
It's much I've lived alone.

"My lady, since that long black night
His fishing-boat went down,
My boy, that kept my heart so light
Had worked there in the town;
A lovely boy! Such god-like hair,
All curls!" (Her eyes grew dim,)
"Christ keep him. He is quiet there
With daisies over him."

She hushed and turned to go inside,
An earthen floor, ah, me!
A heap of straw (the door was wide)
Was all that I could see.
Yet on the little window, low,
A bright geranium grew;
"That's for my boy, he loved them so,
He loved these thrushes, too."

"Good mother—": "Sure but things go ill
In our poor country. Yet
He gives me bread and shelter still,
It's me He'll ne'er forget."
We parted, for the light was low;
I turned and looked around;
Lord of us all, can heart's-ease grow
In such a plot of ground?

MY FAIR ROAD COMPANION.

BY CLARENCE MOWBRAY.

To all in any degree familiar with the history of Mexico, it is well known that a regular history of highway robbery exists in every section of that miserably governed country; and that, through a want of interference of the authorities, this has grown up into such a regular and formidable shape, that every traveler must be prepared to put his life at hazard at every stage, or be provided with a suitable contribution for los caballeros del camino (the knights of the road), who, in the event of finding you prepared and willing, will make their levy with a politeness only equalled by the smiling landlord when he receives your overcharged fare for your last night's entertainment.

Why such systematic boldness of robbery is allowed—if not with the connivance, at least with very nearly any interference, of the government or state authorities—is one of those mystical matters, which, among many others, so puzzles and perplexes the intelligent foreigners; but that such is the disagreeable truth, every traveler through that wretched country can bear ample testimony.

Some years ago, having business which first called me to the Capital of Mexico, and thence through the interior of the country to the northward, I met with several thrilling adventures, which I have recorded for the benefit of whomsoever may take an interest therein, omitting only the dates, they being non-essential to the interest of the narrations themselves.

The first of the series occurred on the route between Vera Cruz and the city of Mexico. In the regular diligencia, running between the places just mentioned, I had taken passage, and had passed through the beautiful city of Jalapa, and entered the gloomy town of Perote, without meeting with any unusual incident, though being continually warned to be on my guard against the dangers of the road.

At Perote, where we halted for a relay and refreshments, all my fellow-passengers took leave of me, very solemnly assuring me that, if assailed by the ladrones, or robbers, it would be much better for me to take matters quietly, and suffer myself to be genteely plundered, than to run the risk of having my throat cut for resistance, as I had somewhat boldly proclaimed it was my intention of doing. I thanked them for their advice, and replied that I would take the matter into serious consideration.

At Perote, I repeat, all who had been my companions from Vera Cruz, took leave of me, this being the end of their journey in that direction; but there was one new passenger here to go forward, whom, to my agreeable surprise, I found to be a beautiful young lady, some twenty years of age.

Senorita Paula, as I subsequently ascertained her name to be, was indeed one of those rare beauties seldom met with except in works of fiction—tall, graceful, with a profusion of long black hair—soft, clear, melting dark eyes—features as perfect as ever came from the hands of the sculptor, and with an animation the most fascinating—varying in expression with every changing mood of the intellectual possessor. A glance at her bewitching dark eyes showed me that she was one who was naturally of a social disposition; and as we rattled away from the gloomy town, I took the liberty of opening a conversation.

'They tell me,' said I, 'that the route between here and Mexico is a very dangerous one to travel.'

'There is little to fear,' she replied, with a sweet smile and in a melodious tone, 'except from the professional robbers, and they seldom harm any one who makes no resistance.'

'It seems strange to me,' I rejoined, 'that you Mexicans should take such things as a matter of course, and deem resistance a very impolite way of treating the knights of the road, instead of boldly asserting your rights and abating the evil by a manly spirit of resistance. For myself, I must consider it the most cowardly of proceedings for any respectable party to set out prepared to quietly gratify the cupidity of the ladrones, and unprepared to treat them to their just deserts.'

'Every traveler, senor,' she replied, 'should before setting out, count the cost of his journey; and as of course it is natural he should value his life highly, it seems to me natural that he should pay a certain sum for positive safety, rather than put that life in jeopardy. For instance, in traveling from Vera Cruz to Mexico, if he will first reckon that so much is the fare by the diligencia, and that so much will be required for entertainment on the way, and so much for the contingency you speak of, he will then have the exact cost between the two points; and if he will look at the whole as the sum total of his journey, he will not seem to be robbed by any one party more than another.'

'That,' I replied, 'may be, I believe is, the Mexican mode of doing business, but does not tally with the preconceived ideas of foreigners.'

'But every one,' replied the fair speaker, 'should conform to the customs of the country he visits.'

'And do you then go prepared for this highway robbery? and have you no fear in thus journeying by yourself?'

'Well, senor, what can I do? I am, as you perceive, an unprotected lady, who, for certain reasons, am required to make the journey between Perote and the Capital some two or three times a year, and you certainly could not expect me to go prepared to resist an armed band! As to fear, I will not deny I have my share of that; but, so far, I have never met with any rough treatment, and of course I trust to the saints that my fortune will ever be as propitious.'

'And have you really been robbed on your journey back and forth?' I inquired.

'I think I have paid my share to the ladrones for my transit through their country!' she laughed.

'And you expect to continue a repetition of the same for the rest of your life?'

'Who knows?' she replied. At least I hope to be always prepared.'

'And your fellow travelers?' said I; 'have you never seen any disposed to resist these unlawful acts?'

'Once, senor, an American and an Englishman, who were in the same diligencia with me, fired upon the robbers, killing one and wounding two.'

'And did the robbers fire back?'

'Yes, but fled immediately, and fortunately injured none os our party.'

'As I should have expected,' returned I. 'You were not robbed on that occasion, I suppose?'

'We were not, senor; but the two foreigners subsequently paid dearly for their resistance; for in journeying back and forth, both were killed, separately and at different times, near the same spot. You see these crosses by the side of the road, senor?'

'I have observed them frequently, but here, they seem to be much more numerous,' I replied, looking forth from the vehicle.

'Each stands on the spot where some one has met a violent death,' she rejoined; 'and as we go along, I will call your attention to those which mark the places where the foreigners met theirs.'

'Do you know,' said I, 'that I am resolved to emulate their example, let the consequences be what they may?'

'Holy saints defend us!' she exclaimed; 'you are not in earnest, senor?'

'Seriously so, I assure you.'

'You would only bring certain death upon us both.'

'Say, rather, I should lighten the expenses of the journey—for your knights of the road understand retreat as well as advance—and you yourself have acknowledged that firm resistance put them to flight for once.'

'But there were numbers opposed to them, senor, and you are only one.'

'But fortunately I have a couple of revolvers, which, in two good hands, amount to some ten or a dozen shots, and my friends have repeatedly told me I am not a bad marksman.'

'Ah, Santa Maria! you will think better of this, senor?—the very idea of resistance terrifies me!'

'But not the idea of robbery?'

'Because I have never met with violence.'

We continued to converse in a similar strain for some time longer—my fair companion gradually changing the subject, and seeming much interested in myself. I learned that her family name was Valerde, that she was unmarried, that her father and brother were officers in the army, and so forth, and so on; and in retmrn I gave her my own name, stated something of my history, business and prospects, and altogether became more communicative than I would advise any friend to be with any stranger of either sex in a strange country.

As we continued our journey, the conversation gradually changing from one thing to another, Senorita Paula suddenly brought it back to the point where it first opened.

'We are coming upon a dangerous part ot the road,' she said; 'are you still resolved to defend yourself if assailed?'

'With your permission, Senorita!'

'I do not think it advisable,' she replied; 'but still, if such is your intention, I think it no more than right that you should give me a chance to take a part in my defense, since my risk of danger will be as great as yours!'

'And have you really the nerve, after all, to defend yourself?' I inquired.

'If I had the means, senor.'

'I have two pistols,' said I; 'if you will accept of one of them, it is at your service!'

'You are very kind, senor—but can I fire it?'

'With ease, senorita;' and producing one of my revolvers, I explained to her the manner in which it was to be used.

'And this, you say, will shoot some half a dozen times?'

'I think it safe to calculate that five charges out of the six will explode, senorita.'

'A very formidable weapon indeed!' she replied; and with such I can almost fancy we are safe. You have another you say, like this?'

I produced it.

'What a beautiful invention!' she observed, reaching over and taking it from my hand. Then extending her hands, one of the revolvers in each, she continued: 'Armed like this, one might almost count himself safe against a host! You say this is fired in this manner?' she proceeded, cocking one of the weapons as she spoke and pointing it toward the road.

'Have a care, Senorita, or you will discharge it?'

The words were scarcely uttered, when her finger pressed the trigger, and one of the barrels was exploded with a sharp report, A minute after, and while I was gently chiding her, we heard a loud, quick tramp of horses, and several sharp, rapid exclamations.

The next moment our conveyance was stopped suddenly, and we saw ourselves surrounded by some eight or ten mounted men, one of whom, in a loud voice exclaimed:

'Yield you prisoners, or die!'

'Quick, Senorita!' said I, extending my hand; 'quick! in heaven's name! give me one of those weapons! for now is our time for decisive action!'

'Nay,' she replied, putting the weapons behind her, 'you will be to hasty! Let them suppose we yield—let them open the door!'

'Oh, no! it will then be too late!'

As I spoke, the door was suddenly thrown open, and three or four swarthy heavily-bearded men presented themselves to my view.

'Quick, Senorita, for the love of God!' I cried, grasping at her arm.

'Hold!' she exclaimed, instantly presenting one of my own revolvers to my head. 'Resistance is useless—you are our prisoner!'

'Gracious heaven!' exclaimed I perfectly astonnded. 'Our prisoner, did you say? It is not possible that one so fair and lovely as yourself is in any manner connected with these banditti!'

'It is even so senor,' she replied, with one of her most bewitching smiles, still keeping one of my own weapons turned against myself, and significantly pointing the other to the door. 'You will oblige us by stepping forth and giving yourself into the care of these good gentlemen, who will see that you are treated as a brave man should be, but who will trouble you meantime for any little change and valuables you may have to spare!'

There seemed to be no help for it—the beautiful Senorita Paula Valerde was a spy and accomplice of the ladrones. She had entered the diligencia at Perote for no other purpose than to ascertain the exact condition of things inside, and be able to signalize her associates as she passd along, so that they might know exactly in what manner to conduct themselves and make their work sure without risk. By a simple stratagem she had obtained my arms, just at the point where she knew the attack would be made; and her discharge of the pistol, as if by accident, was the sign to show them that all was secure.

'I acknowledge myself conquered by being outwitted!' said I, bowing to la senorita.

Then turning to the robbers, who had now collected in a body, in front of the door of the diligencia, I continued:

'Gentlemen, will you permit me to alight and make you some valuable presents! In the language of your country, 'all I have is yours,'

The leader of the party bowed politely in return, and said, with a grim smile:

'Si, senor, we shall be most happy to receive anything which so distinguished a traveler may have to bestow.'

With this I quickly stepped from the vehicle; and one quick, searching glance put me in possession of the whole state of affairs.

The diligencia had been stopped in a wild, gloomy place, and the driver was sitting carelessly on his box, taking everything as a matter of course. He might also be an accomplice of the robbers or he might not; but, in either case, there was little hope of assistance from him—for any attempt of the kind would certainly bring upon him a severe punishment sooner or later. I glanced up and down the road, where it wound between dark, overshadowing trees, but discovered nothing to give me any hope. The robbers, some eight or ten in number, and all well armed, well collected around me, part of them mounted, and the others standing on their feet, holding their mustangs by the bridle. Looking upon my case as a desperate one, so far as being plundered was concerned, I still retained my presence of mind, and did not wholly despair. True, I had been outwitted and disarmed, and now stood singly between numbers, but the idea of yielding tamely to this outrage was repugnant to my very nature, and I resolved to put any favorable opportunity for defence and retaliation to the strongest test.

'Will you accept this purse?' said I, producing one that held several gold coins, and handing it to the chief of the ladrones.

'Thank you, senor! you are very kind!' he said, as he took it in his hand, with a polite bow, and chinked the money.

'This diamond pin may prove acceptable to your friend?' I added, as I quietly removed it from the bosom of my shirt, and handed it to the gentleman on his left, who received it in the same polite manner. 'This diamond ring I trust you will retain as a keepsake!' I continued, drawing the jewel from my finger and presenting it to a third. 'I beg your pardon, senores!' I pursued, glancing at the Senorita Paula, who, with my pistols still in her possession, was quietly standing within the diligencia, regarding the whole proceedings with one of her sweetest smiles; 'I must not forget this beautiful lady! I have here,' I went on, at the same time producing the article, 'a very beautiful gold snuff-box—set as you perceive, with diamonds—will your ladyship honor me by accepting this as a slight token of my regard for the pleasure afforded me by your company and converstion?'

'You are a very gallant gentleman, senor!' she laughed, taking the two revolvers in one fair hand and presenting the other.

I reached the box toward her—but my hand trembled a little—and, just as the present was about to touch her fingers, it slipped and fell between us.

'A thousand pardons, Senorita, for my awkwardness!' I said, as I bent down to pick it up.

Now was the all important moment—the moment of life and death! All were in a measure off their guard; and one quick, furtive glance, showed me that the girl still held my weapons carelessly in one hand, with the other remaining extended for the prize. I lifted the box carefully; but, as I raised myself, I gave a wild, startling yell; and as the Senorita started back, I, with the quickness of lightning, seized both weapons, and wrenched them from her.

To wheel and commence firing upon the party was now only the work of a moment. The first shot, fortunately, stretched out the chief; the second took effect on the one nearest to him; and by the time the third had been sent on its mission, there arose one simultaneous yell of dismay, and the astounded robbers began to scatter in every direction. I had no disposition to follow them, however; another minute they might rally and turn upon me; and, springing forward, I grasped the reigns of a free mustang, and vaulted into the saddle. One more glance around me, showed me the Senorita Paula upon the body of the chief, her laughter changed to grief, and some of the scattered cowards bringing their weapons to bear upon me.

'Adios, senorita and senores!' said I, bitterly; 'he laughs best who laughs last!'

The next moment I was dashing away down the road, the half-rallied robbers pouring after me a volley, but fortunately not touching. They would doubtless have followed me in hot pursuit, but for the wholesome dread they had of my still undischarged weapon.

As it was I escaped, and entered the town of Puebla in triumph; where, it is almost needless to add, a narration of my exploit made me a hero and a lion for the time.

Here I sold my captured mustang and trappings for enough to indomnify me for what I had disposed of in the way of presents; and the next day saw me an inside passenger of the same diligencia en route for Mexico, where I arived in safety, without any further event worthy of note.

What became of the robbers and their beautiful accomplice, I never learned; but the lesson taught me on that journey I have never forgotten; and during the remainder of my stay in that country, no pretty woman ever had the honor of being my business confidante, or of getting possession of my trusty and unfailing revolvers.

Glycerine after Bathing.

Like the ancient Romans, D. S. Troy of Montgomery, Ala., (Popular Science News), has taken to using glycerine after bathing, with most happy results. He puts one drop of attar of roses in two ounces of glycerine, and rubs the body after bathing. The result was charming; it left the skin soft, with all of its functions in as full operation as before the bathing, and with a delicious sensation of perfect cleanliness. He has been using it for four or five years regularly, leading a life more sedentary than ever, and it seems to supply to the skin a vigor similar to that resulting from physicial exercise. It has been of great benefit to his general health and personal comfort. No care is required in rubbing it on, except to see that it is applied to all the skin except the face, and particularly to the soles of the feet. If any remains after the rubbing, it can be readily wiped off with a towel.

The Strongest Drink.

Water is the strongest drink. It drives mills; it's the drink of horses and lions, and Samson never drank anything else. Let young men be teetotallers if only for economy's sake. The beer money will soon buy a house. If what goes into a mash-tub went into the kneading-trough, families would be better fed and better taught. If what is spent in waste were only saved against a rainy day, workhouses would never be built. The man who spends his money with the public and thinks the landlord's bow and "How do ye do, my good fellow!" means true respect, is a perfect simpletcn. We don't light fires for the herring's comfort, but to roast him. Men do not keep pothouses for labor's good; if they do, they certainly miss their aim. Why, then, should people drink "for the good of the house!" If I spend money for the good of any house, let it be my own and not the landlord's. It is a bad well into which you must put water; and the beerhouse is a bad friend, because it takes your all and leaves you nothing but headaches.

An Old Physician's Views.

I believe, however, that it is not the liquor alone which produces the disease generally attributed to it. It is rather in the fact that those who are supposed to fail in physicial health by its use, or who use it to excess, do so because they create by their course of life or labor, a morbid demand for the stimulant. I have already shown how a board of trade men may rush off to get a drink to prevent a reaction from excitement. It is so with many other vocations. Take a compositor on a morning paper. He will work all night, and have his slumber broken in the day. He rises unrefreshed. He must work again, and utterly prostrated, suffering from nervous losses, he drinks to restore himself. He continues this course for years and becomes a wreck. Whether from the drink or the work, for which he may have been constitutionally unfitted I could not say, unless I could determine what would have been the result had he followed either course and left the other alone.

I am inclined to think, however, that the effect of liquor on a person following a nervous and exhaustive vocation, especially if it is used to brace up to greater efforts and harder work., is far more injurious than when used by such men as first peopled the West, and who drank it frequently, and sometimes to excess. Their systems were strong enough to throw off its effects. Their occupations did not cause nervous prostration, hence they did not develop a seeming necessity in the system for it. It is not the peculiarity of modern liquor or the depravity of the present generation; it is the exhaustion induced by the terrible outlay of vitality in exciting business, that makes drinking what it now is with a large class. My advice to all workers is to go slow. Do not brace up that you may overwork. Rest; that is Nature's own magnificent and unrivalled remedy, that will cure when nothing else will. Take to the woods, the fields, the open air. Throw physic to the dogs, and do not sell your health for money, for you cannot buy it.

Keene's Ascot Gold Cup.

The gold cup won by James R, Keene's horse Foxhall in 1882 at Ascot was sent to the N. Y. Custom House Friday to be sold at the auction of unclaimed goods, unless it is claimed by the owner within the next two weeks. It has been lying at the public stores for a year. It is of solid gold, weighing nine pounds, and is valued at $5,000. The cup is an inverted Jockey's cap, mounted on black marble. It bears the legend "Ascot" and a figure representing Atlanta. The Government demanded $1,000 duty on the trophy. Mr. Keene said he would re-export the the cup to his establishment in England rather than pay any duty.

THE WEAK AND IMPURE.

The merry little mountain brook, as it lightly dances over the rocks and sparkles in the sunshine on its way down to the river is pure and clean. It is active; therefore, it is healthy. It is vigorous; therefore, it resists impurity.

But the sluggish pool, where the current is not strong enough to keep the water in motion, is stagnant and foul. Dirt and rubbish are thrown into it, and stay there. Impurities and vile odors make it a breeder of disease and an object to be avoided.

When the blood is strong and rich and red, and vigorously courses its accustomed rounds through arteries and veins, the system is hearty and healthy.

When the blood is thin and poor and weak, impurities and defilements creep into it, and it has no strength to cast them out. Then the system runs down.

Shaker Blood Syrup purifies and enriches the Blood; curing Scrofula, Cancer, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Ulcers and Skin and Blood diseases of every description.

A dollar a bottle at your nearest druggists. 9i.

As the body is purified by water, so is the soul by truth.

ALLEN'S Lung Balsam is the standard cure for Coughs and Colds in the States. See adv.

PRETTY FAIR.

'Do you attend the fair?' she said,
And tossed her pretty little head.
He spoke up with a roguish glance,
'Yes, always when I get a chance.

She blushed and said: 'Now don't be green;
You know quite well, sir, what I mean;
There's only one fair in the town,'
Said he, 'That's what I said to Brown.'

'Charles, I shall have to box your ears,'
The lovely eyes were full of tears,
'You know what fair; will you take me?'
'For better or worse?' said Charles in glee.

'All's fair in love or war,' and they
A family ticket bought next day.
Now Charles looks into her sparkling eyes
And swears he has carried off the prize.

AN OLD STORY.

A gilded youth on a jolly spree,
Jolly and gay as gay can be;
Working the mine of youth with glee,
And spending daily the product free;
Life is gay,
It may be.

A bank cashier in an honored place,
An earnest look on the quiet face,
Where lines of patient toil we trace,
Lighting the features with classic grace,
Life is bright,
Wait and see.

A sparkling eye, and a rosy cheek,
A dimpled chin, and deportment meek;
A whispered word; a moment to speak,
A man disgraced and a woman weak;
Life is false,
Verily.

A felon pale in a prison cell,
For wine, and the sparkling eye, he fell;
A ruined life, an earthly hell;
The end is, where? Ah, none can tell.
Life is sad,
Misery.

THE LONDON SEASON.

GRAPHIC PICTURE OF THE SOCIAL PHENOMENA OF THE METROPOLIS.

The Experience of a Promenade on London's Wonderful Streets.

London, June 30th, 1884.

Once again we are in the fullness of the thrall of that wonderful movement called the London season. Among the uncountable mysteries of this curious world of ours there is perhaps none of the minor kind which is more incomprehensible than the annual social madness which throws this vast metropolis into such admired confusion during the lovely months of May and June. The

INTELLECTUAL AND ARTISTIC RICHNESS

of the earth is congregated here, and offers the world at large an opportunity of judging of its works, of admiring its beauties. The worst of the matter is that the human power of comprehension like the human capacity for physical fatigue, is limited. A man would need to be a creature of more colossal faculties and proportions than any giant that pervades the realms of fiction in order to absorb more than the merest fraction of the vast sum of instruction and amusement which is here set out. For myself, familiar as I am with the yearly recurring phenomena of the London season, the mere aspect of the morning paper has still the power to cause my nerves to quiver, my heart to flutter with excitement. So much to see, to hear, to criticise, to compare, to observe! Painting, sculpture, music, the drama, educational movements, religious upheavals, political warfare, social successes, failures, follies, tragedies and farces—how futile the endeavor to keep abreast with all these sensations! The most ubiquitous person can only see a portion of what is going on, and I frankly acknowledge that ubiquity is not my forte. The fact is that a mere promenade in

THESE WONDERFULLY PEOPLED STREETS,

is, in itself, an experience so fraught with interest and instruction that one scarcely has the desire to do more than stroll along the thoroughfares and look in at the shop windows, with their amazing stores of riches, open for the admiring inspection of every passer-by. Not for us, these magnificent services of solid gold plate; these crowns and bracelets of diamonds; these sofas and arm-chairs, covered with Genoa velvets; these treasures of the ceramic art, worth many times their weight in gold. Costly superfluities like these are for the pampered oligarchs who can afford to gratify every passing whim, no matter how expensive it may be, and have palaces in which to show off their splendid purchases to friends and parasites. But, as an exhibition for me and you as are the treasures of the National Gallery and the British Museum. Therefore for us, the pure, unfettered enjoyment of their contemplation; for others, the care and responsibility of their guardianship.

Among the adventures of the week let me record my visit to the art gallery, where, on disbursement of one shilling, current coin of the realm, I had the satisfaction of beholding

MR. WHISTLER'S "ARRANGEMENT IN FLESH COLOR AND GRAY."

Surely the clever Scotch-American painter can take it as no disparagement if I say he is the Sarah Bernhardt of the pictorial art; full of brilliancy, eccentricity, novelty of device, rapidity in execution. The room in which are exhibited his sixty-seven 'notes,' 'harmonies,' 'bravuras' and 'nocturnes,' bears evidence of the personal supervision of the celebrated painter. The walls are hung with serge of the most delicate tint of flesh color, the wood work is painted a soft gray. The chimney-place is hung with gray velvet upon which in pink silk is embroidered Whistler's autographic sign, a wasp. The chairs are gray, and on the matting-covered floor are placed old Persian

The Ingersoll Chronicle

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

THURSDAY, JULY 17, 1884.

CHOLERA is on its way westward. Let Councillors everywhere be warned by the terrors of 1832 and 1834. Let them remember they have the people's lives in their hands.

SOME idea of the destruction that has been wrought in financial circles during the first six months of the present year may be had from this bird's eye view afforded by a writer in the Brooklyn Eagle. He says:—"The prophet who, a year ago, had prophesied that this annus mirabilis would witness the financial overthrow of Villard, General Grant, Commodore Garrison, George I. Seney, Morgan's Sons, Jim Keene, the West Shore folk, Fiske & Hatch, Bogart & Co., Follett & Co., Hatch, Foote & Co., Fish, Eno, the Metropolitan Bank, the Marine Bank, the practical suspension of railroad building, all the great iron mills running at a loss, or preparing to shut down, and the withering away of $1,200,000,000 of our national wealth, would assuredly have been without honor in his own country, although his forebodings were destined to so calamitous a realization. It has, indeed, been a year of wonders, its like never having been known in the street. There have been seasons of greater excitement and agitation, but never of such sustained and ruinous depression."

The Democratic Candidates.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

Grover Cleveland was born at Caldwell, New Jersey, on March 18, 1837. After graduating from Clinton Academy, Oneida, N. Y., he became a clerk in one of the State charitable institutions in New York city. Tiring of his occupation he started for Buffalo, and at the age of 18 reached that city 'friendless unknown and poor,' to use his own expression. An uncle gave him a clerkship in his store, and his spare time he devoted to the study of law. Having completed his studies, he was admitted to the bar, receiving soon afterwards the appointment of assistant district attorney for Erie county. Subsequently he was elected sheriff of the same county. He was next elected mayor of Buffalo, and under his regime effected a radical reform in the management of that misgoverned city. Ringsters were ousted from office, and his administration saved the city hundreds of thousands of dollars. In 1882 Cleveland was nominated as a Reform candidate for Governor of New York, but was elected as much by the Republicans as his own party. There was need of driving out the corruptionists in the State offices. The Republicans nominated Charles J. Folger, Secretary of the Treasury, and the vast federal machinery was put in trim to secure his election. It was a bad year for machine politicians. Cleveland was elected by over 190,000 majority, the largest majority, ever given to the Governor of any State.

THOMAS A. HENDRICKS.

Thomas A. Hendricks was born a Buckeye, his native place being a small village in Muskingum county, not far from Zanesville, O. In 1822, when he was three years old his father moved to Shelby county, Ind., and that state has since been his home. His father had sufficient property to educate his children, and at the age of 22 young Hendricks was graduated at Hanover College. He went immediately to Chambersburg, Pa., where he studied law, and two years later was admitted to the bar. He then returned to Indiana, and in the village of Shelbyville hung out his shingle. Old acquaintances say he made a quick success, both by his knowledge of the law and by his attractive personal characteristics. It is said that the late Gov. Morton, when opposing young Hendricks, could usually win before a jury, but in an argument before a judge, Hendricks would beat him every time.

In 1845 Hendricks was elected a member of the State Legislature, and two years later helped to form a Constitution for his State. The next five years he served his district in Congress. Then one morning, while sitting on the portico of his home in Shelbyville, a friend handed him a franked envelope postmarked "Washington." It was from Franklin Pierce, asking him to come on to Washington and take the office of Land Commissioner. He accepted, and for nearly four years discharged the duties of that post. He remained in office one year longer than he intended to because of a controversy with Land Officer Burch of Missouri. Burch's son had taken up a very large tract of the best land in Missouri, and Burch wanted to get a patent for the young man, contrary to law and right. Hendricks cut off the grab, and stayed in office long enough to see that it should not again be attempted. While Commissioner he heard and decided 22,000 contested land claims.

His standing before the people of his state made him the democratic candidate for Governor in 1860. That was not a good year for Democratic candidates, and Henry S. Lane defeated him, Lane went to the senate at once, and Morton succeeded to the Governor's chair. Two years later the Democrats turned the the State Legislature and Senate inside out, and the new Houses at once elected Hendricks United States Senator for the term expiring 1869. This was the opportunity which Hendricks needed to give him a national reputation. Democrats could do little more than protest in those days, but Hendricks protested against the Republican reconstruction methods so effectually that he was the most conspicuous candidate before the National Convention held in New York city in 1868. New York's delegates and all the Northwest backed him, but Ohio kicked over the traces, voted persistently for Seymour, and finally with the aid of the gallery gods, created a stampede.

After leaving the Senate, in 1869, he practiced law in Indianapolis until 1872. He was then made the candidate for Governor of the State, and was elected by a majority of 1,148.

At St. Louis in 1876 he accepted the second place on the ticket headed by Mr. Tilden.

The Sun Cholera Mixture.

From the Chicago Herald.

For more than forty years what is known as "The Sun Cholera Medicine" has stood the test of experience as the best remedy for looseness of the bowels ever yet devised. As was once vouched for by the New York Journal of Commerce. "No one who has this by him and takes it in time will never have the cholera." Even when no cholera is anticipated it is an excellent thing for the ordinary summer complaints—colic, diarrhœa, dysentery, etc.—and we have no hesitation in commending it. Here it is:—Take equal parts of tincture of cayenne, tincture of opium, tincture of rhubarb, essence of peppermint, and spirits of camphor. Mix well. Dose, fifteen to thirty drops in a wine glass of water, according to age and violence of attack. Repeat every fifteen or twenty minutes until relief is obtained.

COUNTERFEITERS CAPTURED.

The Notorious Dave Young at the Head of the Gang.

Brantford, July 14.—Mr. McCarthy, of the Grand Trunk Railway, who has been in the city during the past week shadowing a man named David Young, on Saturday night last arrested him in company with a son aged 12 years, on a charge of counterfeiting. The prisoners were caught red-handed, carrying tools and metal. The former comprise two plaster paris moulds, one for turning out 25-cent and the other 50-cent coins. The prisoner, who is about 50 years of age, came to Brantford some three years ago, since which time it is believed he had been continuously issuing and passing bad money. The counterfeit coins are admirable imitations, and have a true sounding ring. The prisoner has at times before served terms in the penitentiary. A sister of his, who kept a dive in the city, left for other parts last week. She is believed to have been implicated in the swindle. A brother of the counterfeiter exposed the fraud.

A TALE OF THE CHOLERA.

The Pestilence's Ravages in a Canadian Village in 1834—One Fifth of the People Succumb.

In the 'Reminiscences of the Early History of Galt and the Settlement of Dumfries,' by Hon. James Young, a graphic account is given of the ravages of the cholera of 1834, brought to the place by one of the attaches of a travelling menagerie. But graphic as is the writing of Mr. Young, it cannot convey such an idea of the plague as is given in a letter published in that book, which was written about the time of the cholera, by Alex. Burnett, one of the most prominent citizens of Galt. The following are extracts from the letter:—

'On Monday, the 28th July, all was life and each was on the tip-toe of expectation. There was to be, and was, exhibited such a collection of wild animals as never was in these parts before. Towards noon the steady and honest Dutchmen of Waterloo began to canter into the village with their well-fed horses and thrifty wives, attended by plainly-dressed chubby-cheeked children. Dumfries from its utmost verges poured in its tribute of sturdy Scotch, studded here and there with a whisky-loving wight, who was glad to make the show his pretended errand, although he in truth only wanted something to wet his wizzen. Beverly, Blenheim, and more distant townships sent in their sight-seeing sons and daughters. 'In the afternoon all was bustle and confusion, nothing doing, nothing saying, but 'Have you been in at the beasts?' 'What a beast the lion is!' 'How large that bear!' and 'What creatures the monkeys are!' So passed the afternoon, with now and then an inquiry about the showman who had come sick

TO GALT WITH THE CHOLERA.

But this was hushed down lest it might hurt the show or hurt the stir of the tavern. Things went along until the gathering dispersed, the sun setting on many a son of intemperance rolling homewards under the influence of the 'wee drop o' barley bree.' Those more regardless of their home, and equally regardless of themselves, hung about the tavern and the village, while by their joint efforts the loud voice of mirth had given way to the rude bosterous roar of riot. Such was the state of things when I bade one and all of them 'Good-night,' went to bed and slept soundly.

'Tuesday was just like other days, with various conjectures as to the value of the establishment of beasts, what cash they might have got, and so on.

'Wednesday came, and with it a certain dubious expression might be seen on the countenances of some of the villagers, others thinking less of followed their usual avocations. Before noon there were to be seen clusters of three and four together, whispering their doubts and fears, even then afraid to speak the name of the horrid pest aloud. The doctor of the village appeared to be more than usually busy; by his pony standing by hours at his door, saddle and girth unslackened. Soon after noon the secret was out! The cholera with all its horror and malignity, was upon us. Two persons had died and several were sick. By sundown three more had fallen, and others were victims to the scourge. Fear now began to lay her timorous hand upon us, and each thought he felt symptoms he had never felt before. Our sleep was unrefreshing. Long and dreary was the night, white with doubt and anxiety the morning came.

THE LURKING FOE,

'That (Thursday) morning the sun rose

NINE OF OUR NEIGHBORS

who had settled all their worldly affairs and paid the debt of nature. These were unburied and yet lay as death had left them. Now was the hour of trial. The arm of industry becomes powerless, and the hum of business ceased to meet the ear. Nought was heard but the sound of the stroke of the coffin maker's hammer as he nailed the rude and unsmoothed boards together that the dead might be gathered to their father who had gone before them. Even the noise of the waggons to and from the burying-ground struck you as having something ominous in the sound they made. Now and then your attention was arrested by the echo of the distant tramping of a coming horse, whose lathered sides and expanded nostrils showed his headlong haste while the anxious features and sunken visage of the rider told he was no messenger of fun, or heedless follower of a thoughtless frolic. He came for the.

ASSISTANCE OF THE DOCTOR.

But, alas, how vain! The demon of Death, now triumphing in his strength, and glorying in the number of his victims, laughed to scorn the healing art, and bade defiance to the powers of drug or medicine. Yet, still glad to cling to hope the doctor was sought and sent for:

'So passes Thursday, and the sun of that day had not set when the last of thirty-five unceremonius burials had taken place in the neighbouring burying-ground—those from our village and suburbs in the short space of thirty-six hours! Twilight came, when all who had a chance reluctantly prepared for bed—yes, reluctantly, for believe me, each had secret dread and heart-felt fear that ere to-morrows dawn he or she should also be numbered with the dead. The night passed slow and restless.

'With the morning of Friday those who were first stirring were afraid and yet anxious to know what had been the events of the last few hours. On enquiry

GLAD WAS THE HEART.

when it was heard that few, comparetively had been attacked, and fewer dead. Hope the steady friend of man, again beamed in our eyes, while our hearts beat high with exultation. It seemed as if the monster pestilence had gorged itself with the number of its victims and fatigued its energies with the work of destruction. Those who were under its power appeared to have great strength to struggle for existence. It was less quick in its action and operation. Yet, steady to its purpose, and unrelenting in its grasp, some near and dear ones were suddenly attacked and unexpectedly carried off, which cases as they occurred nearly extinguishing the rising flames of hope. Nevertheless it was abating, Saturday Sunday, and Monday it sought its prey and found them, although fewer in number. Two or three showed symptoms of recovery and

TWO ACTUALLY RECOVERED

From out among the little circle of villagers, thirty-three had gone to their long homes. Among these was the smiling infant, the man of grey hairs and experience, the stripling just budding into manhood and the maiden blooming into woman's state, just beginning to be conscious of her power and influence over the rougher part of creation, the man of steady habits and sedated behaviour, with the intemperate and the profligate fell easy victims to the dreadful and afflictive malady."

SPANISH JUSTICE.

An American Agent Sentenced to be Shot as a Spy.

TROY, N.Y., July 14.—Five months ago Pedro Llanes visited Cuba to look after property left him by his father about 20 miles from Havana. To pay expenses he decided to act as agent for a Troy firm, in the sale of a patent lubricator, and took samples with him. A week after his arrival in Havana he was thrown into prison. The military authorities would not or could not understand that the boxes of lubricators were harmless and not for war purposes, and he was sentenced to be shot. Mrs. Llanes hearing nothing from her husband, sailed for Cuba with letters from the Secretary of State of New York, and the Spanish Consul. She searched the Havana prisons, and finally found her husband in one of them breaking stone, and not knowing what moment he would be shot as a spy. She secured his release, and yesterday both reached Troy. It is probable a statement of his experience will be sent to Washington, and a demand made for papers taken from Llanes when arrested, as well as for other reparation.

DEADLY DROUTH.

It Threatens Destruction to the Stock Industry of Western Texas.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 14.—The sheep and cattle industry in the western part of the State is threatened with annihilation by drouth. Sheep men with their flocks are arriving daily at Eagle Pass seeking ingress into Mexico. The water holes and streams on the American side of the Rio Grande are dried up,

NEWS NOTES

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM ALL SOURCES.

Personal and General Gossip.

The Toronto City Council has voted $2,000 to aid the sufferers by the Port Perry fire.

The Toronto Industrial Exhibition Board offers prizes for portraits of the most beautiful living Canadian ladies.

Dr. Koch, the German authority on cholera, says that America, with careful quarantine, may escape the plague.

Carmichael & Emmons, iron dealers, of New York, have assigned. Liabilities upwards of a quarter of a million.

The French Government has granted 2,500,000 francs for the relief of the cholera sufferers and for staying the epidemic.

Halsted, Haines & Co., wholesale dry goods, Broadway, New York, have assigned. Liabilities in the neighborhood of two millions.

Cornwall has been arrested at the residence of his brother-in-law, Sir Robert Dalzell, Scotland, charged with felonious practices and unnatural crimes.

The Allan mail S. S. Nova Scotian from Liverpool for Baltimore via St. Johns, Nfld., and Halifax, arrived at Halifax at 7 p.m. on Friday.

Montreal mortality returns show an unusual number of deaths from Canadian cholera, which doctors ascribe to the filthy condition of some streets.

The Lake Huron Silver and Copper Mining Co., of Montreal, have given notice that it will sell on the 19th of August all shares on which the last call has not been paid.

Secretary Frelinghuysen has written to the Iron Trade Review denying that a reciprocity treaty between Canada and the United States has been negotiated.

An unknown man, stealing a ride on the top of a sleeping car, was ground to pieces while passing through the Central tunnel, at Syracuse, N.Y., on Saturday morning.

The inquest upon the bodies of the men killed in the Cincinnati riots has just been concluded, with the result that one man is said to have been unlawfully killed by the militia.

The Earl of Granville is seeking to obtain equally favorable terms for the admission of British West Indian products into the United States as may be granted to Cuba.

It appears from a cable despatch that Mr. Joseph Doutre's suit for $8,000, expenses for services as counsel of the Mackenzie Government in the Fishery Award case has been maintained by the Privy Council.

Cleveland and Hendricks received the nomination of the Democratic Convention in Chicago on Friday. Tilden is said to endorse the nomination of Cleveland. Hendricks refuses to state positively whether he will accept or not.

The Privy Council has given judgment in the case of McLaren v. The Canada Central Railway Company, dismissing the appeal with costs, and confirming the judgment of the Supreme Court in Mr. McLaren's favor. The amount involved is about $100,000.

Messrs. J. L. Cassidy & Co., importers of china and earthenware, Montreal, ask an extension from their creditors. They show a surplus of $80,000 and carry a stock of $160,000, which dull times have kept on their hands. The banks interested are Merchants', Peoples', Jacques Cartier, Hochelaga.

The funeral of Miss Ross and Miss Barry, drowned at Valois on Friday, which took place on Sunday in Montreal, amounted to almost a public tribute of sympathy to the bereaved family. The attendance was very large and the floral gifts very costly and elegant.

Gen. Middleton, the new commander of militia in Canada, arrived in Quebec on Sunday per S. S. Polynesian. Upon disembarking a salute of 13 guns was fired from the Citadel. The Polynesian brought 66 cabin and 332 intermediate passengers. She experienced fourteen hours' detention from fog on the passage.

The str. State of Maine, of the International line from Boston for St. John, went ashore at Point Lepreaux on Saturday afternoon during a thick fog, and she is in a bad position with a hole in her bottom. The passengers were safely landed. If the weather continues favorable the steamer may be saved.

An Order in Council has been passed declaring that for Customs purposes the standard for vinegar shall be taken to be that strength which requires thirty-five grains of bicarbonate of potash to neutralize one ounce (Troy) of vinegar, and that so-called vinegar of greater strength shall be taken and held to be acetic acid, and be rated for duty accordingly.

The Finance Department at Ottawa has issued a circular to each of the other branches of the public service calling attention to certain abuses that have existed for some time with respect to the depositing of money received on Government account. The regulations require that every dollar received by any public servant of the Government shall be at once deposited to the credit of the Receiver-General in some bank. Some officials have, it seems, been disregarding this rule, and retaining public money for their own use for some time after it has reached them. One official is referred to as having retained five thousand dollars in this way for a considerable length of time. The circular orders that in future, every sum, however small, received as public revenue, shall be deposited immediately in the bank, etc. The branches of banks have also been notified that hereafter they must report the receipt of moneys placed to the credit of the Government more promptly.

The officials of the Marine and Fisheries Department are not disposed to accept Mr. Seth Green's assertions that the millions of dead fish floating on Lake Ontario are alewives and not young shad hatched at his Rochester establishment. They ask how it is if the fish are really young alewives that none of the parent fish are caught in the lake? No alewives are caught in the St. Lawrence, in Lake Francis, or in any other stream in communication with Lake Ontario, and it is considered impossible that the parent alewives can exist in the lake in quantities sufficient to produce millions of fry without some being seen or caught. Perhaps Mr. Green will be able to explain the mystery for Minister McLelan's benefit.

A GREAT DETECTIVE.

Death of Allan Pinkerton—An Eventful Life.

Allan Pinkerton, the founder and head of the private detective agency, now known throughout almost the whole world, died at Chicago on Tuesday, July 1st, from the effects of a malarial fever caught in May last; but for a long time time he was in feeble health. He was born in 1818, near Glasgow, Scotland, and was bred a cooper, but on finishing his apprenticeship became interested in the Chartist movement, which culminated in the Birmingham riots, and the arrest, conviction and sentence to death of some of the leaders. Because of these political troubles Pinkerton married a young lady to whom he was greatly attached, and emigrated to America in May, 1842. The vessel was wrecked on Sable Island, and Pinkerton and his bride were cast ashore there in a destitute condition. They made their way to the United States, and reached a small place called Dundee, near Elgin, Ill., where some Scotch families had settled. Young Pinkerton had lost everything in the shipwreck, but he pluckily went to work, established himself as a cooper, and soon succeeded in business.

An accident led to the development of Mr. Pinkerton's wonderful talent for the detection of criminals. At that day there was but little money in circulation in what was then the Far West, and checks on the Milwaukee Fire and Insurance Company passed current as money. They were so poorly engraved that they were easily counterfeited, and the country where Mr. Pinkerton lived was flooded with the spurious checks. Mr. Pinkerton, like other business men, was victimised with these spurious checks, and he determined quietly to hunt down the counterfeiters. He discovered that John Gray, of Vermont, was the leader of the counterfeiters, and after a hunt among desperadoes, in which Mr. Pinkerton was twice shot and nearly lost his life, he arrested his man and took him to jail. The remarkable bravery and determination which Mr. Pinkerton showed in this first detective work attracted general attention and applause. He was made deputy Sheriff of Cook county, Illinois, and soon acquired local fame as a fearless and shrewd thief catcher.

Among Mr. Pinkerton's early exploits was the arrest and conviction of Augustus Stuart Byron (the illegitimate son of Lord Byron by Mary Stuart) and a confederate named Napier, a nephew of the great English Admiral of that name. These two wrecked a train and caused the loss of several lives on the Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana Railroad, in order that they might secure Government funds, which were then sent through the mails in the absence of express facilities. The capture of these outlaws resulted in the promotion of Mr. Pinkerton to be a special agent of the United States Treas. Department, under Secretary Guthrie.

When Abraham Lincoln was about to leave Springfield, Ill., to go to Washington to be inaugurated as President, Mr. Pinkerton discovered a plot to assassinate the President at Baltimore.—Through Pinkerton's management the the President was conveyed safely and secretly from Philadelphia to Washington, and the traitorous plot was foiled. President Lincoln invited Mr. Pinkerton to take command of the Secret Service of the Government — the first Government police force ever organized in this country. The position during the rebellion was a post of great national importance. Mr. Pinkerton performed valuable services to the country in this capacity, and when he retired from the public service at the close of the war he did so with the esteem of every one who knew him.

Mr. Pinkerton then went to Chicago, and established the famous detective system which has since grown to such large proportions with branches in all important cities in this country and even in Europe. At present the Pinkerton agency employs nearly 200 detectives.

FOREIGN NEWS ITEMS.

CAPTURE OF ASIZ.

LONDON, July 13.—It is reported that Osman Digna has seized Asiz, on the Red Sea, six miles south of Suakim.

RELIEF OF KHARTOUM OPERATIONS.

Operations for the relief of Khartoum will begin early in September. Lord Wolseley advises that the line of chief attack be via Suakim and Berber. Additional material for the railway is being sent to Suakim, and preparations for the expedition are in progress. The opinion is gaining ground that the fight with the Mehdi is close at hand. Though the news is contradicted, the general belief is that the Mudir of Dongola has sold the pass.

FRANCE AND CHINA.

A peaceful settlement of the Franco-Chinese difficulty seems likely. The representatives of China adopt a conciliatory tone and are understood to offer fair reparation. Replying to the ultimatum of France, the Supreme Council at Pekin states that it had no intention of invalidating the convention signed at Tein Tsin, and maintains that the note signed by Li Hung Chang and Capt. Fournier, fixing the date of the evacuation of Tonquin, never received the Imperial sanction. The statement that Li Tong Pou has offered to withdraw the Chinese troops from Tonquin at once is confirmed. The indemnity demanded by France will probably be limited to £800. It is hoped that the trouble will be promptly arranged.

THE FRANCHISE BILL.

In the House of Commons, on the 11th, Mr. Gladstone, in reply to a question by Lord Randolph Churchill, insisted on the accuracy of his statement made at the meeting of the Liberals on Thursday, that the Government had proposed a compromise with the House of Lords on the Franchise Bill. The proposal was made through Earl Granville to Earl Cairns, but declined. Sir Stafford Northcote stated that he had the authority of Lord Salisbury and Lord Cairns to say that the communications in relation to the compromise were private. Mr. Gladstone denied that they were of a private nature. Lord Churchill then charged Mr. Gladstone with having used a private communication to traduce his opponents. Mr. Gladstone repelled the charge that he had traduced them, and said it was a disgraceful imputation. Lord Churchill stated that he deeply regretted having spoken as he did. He had done so under the influence of vexation. He promised to co-operate with Mr. Gladstone to avoid a conflict in the House of Lords in the event of a renewal of the offer of compromise. Mr. Gladstone said he was satisfied with Lord Churchill's explanation. The Government, he said, was still open to propositions for a compromise. Mr. Gladstone's moderation in addressing the Commons misled no one. His friends believe that he is resolved to carry on the struggle to the bitter end, if compelled. Outside the Houses of Parliament the country is aflame, and many public meetings are already arranged for.

A despatch of later date says that on the 15th, in the House of Lords, the Bill will be again introduced by Lord Wemyss, when it is thought a compromise may be effected and the Bill passed. Should the Lords reject the bill the Government will dissolve parliament immediately, and a general election will follow.

TWELFTH OF JULY RIOTS.

Despatches state that in Whitehaven-Belfast, Newry, and other parts of Ireland, during the Orange demonstrations on the 12th, the processionists were attacked by the Nationalists and many serious riots occurred. Three Nationalists were killed, and several, on both sides, more or less injured. Ninety of the Belfast rioters have been sentenced to various terms of imprisonment.

TROUBLE IN AFGHANISTAN.

The Indian Government is collecting material at Quetta for an advance on a large scale upon Candahar. A hitch has arisen in the negotiations for the appointment of an Anglo-Russian Commission for the delimitation of the Afghan frontier. Russia desires to stipulate that the Commission shall have no power to survey beyond certain lines.

THE EAST END POOR.

A special despatch says that a proof of the universal interest in the improvement of the poor, which is left behind by the agitation of unsanitary dwellings, was shown by the Princess' visit on Friday night with a number of the highest noblemen to the remote regions of the east end, to aid in the erection of a great place of public amusement.

A SUBSTANTIAL PRESENT.

The King of Abyssinia has sent an elephant to Queen Victoria as a token of amity.

THE CHOLERA EPIDEMIC.

The Exodus from Marseilles—What is Thought About it in London.

LONDON, July 15.—It is estimated that 120,000 people have left Marseilles since the commencement of the plague. The distress in the suburban districts in consequence of this state of things is something terrible. It is feared that a similar panic will take place in Paris, many of the wealthier families having already given signs of departing. Even in England great uneasiness is being manifested in the larger cities. The sanitary condition of both Paris and London is good in comparison with what it has been in former years.

PARIS, July 12.—The Chamber of Deputies by a unanimous vote has passed a bill for the appropriation of two million francs for the relief of the cholera sufferers and five hundred thousand for combating the epidemic.

MARSEILLES, July 14.—There were sixty-five deaths during the day. At Toulon there were five deaths since ten o'clock this morning. The mayor of Toulon is now down with the disease.

ON THE ROCKS.

An Iron Laden Steamer Ashore at Fox River—Another Steamer Grounds in a Fog and is Wrecked.

QUEBEC, July 14.—Intelligence from Fox River states that the steamship Warwick with a cargo of iron is ashore two miles below that place. The passengers and crew on board will be landed as soon as the weather permits. So far there is no serious damage to the vessel. The only communication to shore is by line or hawser.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., July 14.—The steamer Hartington during the fog yesterday morning ran ashore at Western Head, St. Shots, and became a total wreck. The crew are saved. The Hartington was laden with phosphorus, and bound from Charlestown to West Hartlepool.

Chas. E. Courtney is making another effort to pose before the public, but his chances of success are now reduced to a minimum, as it is said among rowing men that he will never have another chance to row in a race against any reputable sculler. His latest move has been challenging Wallace Ross to row him again, but the latter, in a very curt letter, declines.

Judge Caron gave judgment on Saturday in the case of the American swindler, John C. Eno, who was held on warrants for extradition on the charge of forgery. After an exhaustive review of the evidence he said he found nothing in it to justify his committing the accused under the extradition treaty. He therefore maintained the writ of habeas corpus and ordered that John C. Eno be set at liberty.

Great excitement has been caused in business circles in Halifax by the arrest of Henry Hart, of Bremmen & Hart, West Indian merchants. The firm recently failed for a large amount. Mr. Hart was arrested on a charge of obtaining $1,000 under false pretences. The warrant was issued at the instance of the Halifax Banking Co., and Hart was arrested at the Halifax Hotel on Friday by Dectective Power and the City Marshal. He was subsequently released on giving bonds himself in $2,000 and two securities in $1,000 each. Hart, it is said, obtained various amounts ranging up to $5,000, from the Halifax Banking Company, on notes made by his father and endorsed by himself, upon asserting that the notes were bona fide transactions, and that his father was worth $20,000. It has now been ascertained that these were nothing more than accommodation notes, the sequel being a charge of fraud and consequent arrest. Other banks are said to have discounted notes under like conditions. Hart is a man of about 45, married, but without family.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength, and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall-st., N.Y.

January 24th, 1884. 1555-481

PATENTS.

INVENTORS, send model or sketch of your inventions, when I will make careful preliminary examination, and report as to patentability, with advice, circulars, etc. Free of Charge. All business before U.S. Patent Office attend to for Moderate Fees. Information and references sent on application. No charge unless patent is secured.

J. R. LITTELL, Washington, D.C.

Directly opposite U.S. Patent Office. 1582

DAVID WHITE & CO.

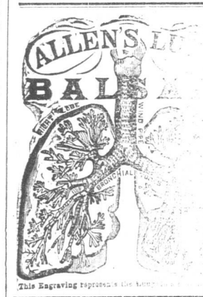
New and Scarce Goods

ARRIVING EVERY DAY.

JUST RECEIVED

WHITE VICTORIA LAWNS.

Swiss Spot and Sprig Muslins.



All-over Embroidery, Over and over Net, Guipure, White and Cream Muslin Embroidery, Real Oriental Laces. Silk, Lisle and Cotton Hose. Pure Silk and Taffetta Gloves.

STAPLE DEPARTMENT.

Shirting and Denims, Cottonades, Table Linen, Table Napkins, Damask Towels, Cotton Bags. 36 inch Factory Cotton only 5 cents.

DAVID WHITE & CO.

Ingersoll, July 10, 1884. 1608

THE REMEDY FOR CURING

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, CROUP,

ALL DISEASES OF THE THROAT, LUNGS, AND PULMONARY ORGANS.

BY ITS FAITHFUL USE

CONSUMPTION HAS BEEN CURED,

When other Remedies and Physicians have failed to effect a cure.

Recommended by PHYSICIANS, MINISTERS, AND NURSES. In fact by everybody who has given it a good trial. It never fails to bring relief.

As an EXPECTORANT it has no Equal

It is harmless to the Most Delicate Child.

It contains no OPIUM in any form.

Directions accompany each bottle.

For sale by all Druggists.

This Engraving represents a bottle

Hearn & Co

JUST TO HAND.

ONE CASE

COLOURED MUSLINS,

FAST COLORS, which we are able to offer at the low price of 10 cents per yard. Come one and all, and secure a grand bargain.

We also offer a grand assortment of

WHITE VICTORIA LAWNS

In all prices, 15c, 18c, 20c, 25c, 30c, 35c. Splendid value.

Do not fail to see our stock of Black Brocade Silks, Black Gros Silks, Black Satins, Black Satin DeLyons, at prices that cannot be beaten.

Millinery! Millinery!

Great reductions in this department, we are determined not to carry any of our stock over, so that we will sell at greatly reduced prices. This is no Blow but solid facts.

INSPECTION INVITED.

HEARN & CO.

Ingersoll, July 10, 1884. 1608

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength, and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall-st., N.Y.

January 24th, 1884. 1555-481

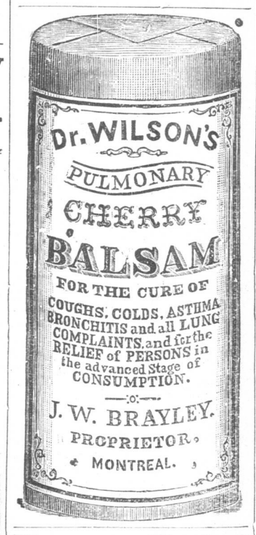
PATENTS.

INVENTORS, send model or sketch of your inventions, when I will make careful preliminary examination, and report as to patentability, with advice, circulars, etc. Free of Charge. All business before U.S. Patent Office attend to for Moderate Fees. Information and references sent on application. No charge unless patent is secured.

J. R. LITTELL, Washington, D.C.

Directly opposite U.S. Patent Office. 1582

Oranges, Lemons, Bananas,



Tobaccos, Cigars, Pipes, Etc.

GEORGE BECK.

Sign of the Big Lamp.

TELEPHONE COMMUNICATION.

Ingersoll, April 24th 1884. 1508

Harvest Tools!

Machine Oils,

Paris Green.

A. H. ELLIS,

Sign of Golden Anvil, Thames-St.

Ingersoll, June 26, 1884. 1607

The "White" is King

OF SEWING MACHINES,

FOR SALE BY

HENDERSON & HENDERSON,

MACHINISTS

AND SILVER PLATERS, Ingersoll.

Dealers in Sewing Machines, and Repairs; Firearms and Ammunition, Fish Poles, Hooks, Lines Etc.

Largest & Best Assortment in town.

Ingersoll, May 22nd, 1884. 1602

THE

"Little Wonder."

Me and my father, my father and me,
Can sell you the best of Black and Green Tea,
The very best Sugar and choicest of Spice,
With Lard, Pork and Ham, and very good Rice,
In fact all the Groceries you can well name,
My father kept good ones and I'll do the same,
So come with your orders and with your money
For business without is not pleasant as honey.

E. H. HEWITT,

PROPRIETRESS

Ingersoll, Nov. 1573

Daly House Livery,

J. GUGGISBERG, Prop.

LEADING LIVERY IN TOWN.

Ingersoll, Jan. 3rd, 1884. 1582v-y

Electro Plate GOODS

—AT—

R. W. WOODROOFE'S

JEWELLERY STORE,

Thames Street, - Ingersoll.

MOSS & Co's CELEBRATED

BAKING POWDER

NOTED FOR ITS

PURITY AND STRENGTH.

MANUFACTURED BY

MOSS, RIMMINGTON & CO., SELBY, ENGLAND.

Fruit Store.

WE HAVE THE

Greatest Variety

Of Canned Goods in Ingersoll,

TOMATOES, BEANS, PEAS, CORN, APPLES, PEARS, PLUMS, PEACHES, CHERRIES, STRAWBERRIES, PINE APPLES, SALMON, SARDINES, MUSTARD SARDINES, AND MACKEREL, CORNED BEEF, CHICKEN, TURKEY, DUCK, PIGS FEET, OYSTERS, LOBSTERS, JOHNSTON'S FLUID BEEF, DURKEE'S SALAD DRESSING, ANCHOVY SAUCE, KETCHUP, AND NUMBERLESS other articles. &c., &c.

GREAT BARGAINS.

A Reduction in the Prices at the

CHINA TEA HOUSE.

16 lbs. Good Sugar for $1.00.

20 lbs. Valentia Raisins for $1.

This is the place to buy the CHEAPEST TEAS. Young Hyson and Congou, a specialty. The cheapest place to buy CROCKERY. Selling Printed TEA SETS at $3.50, worth $5.00. Glass and Silver Ware very low. Cutlery at Rock Bottom Prices.

Any one buying $5 worth of goods at the CHINA TEA HOUSE, and paying Cash for the same will be allowed a discount of 5 per cent.

Ingersoll, July 9th, 1884. 1609

Dispensing Chemist!

J. W. BROWETT,

Sign of the  White Mortar.

HELLEBORE. PURE HELLEBORE is best and cheapest poison for currant worms. Look to your currant and gooseberry bushes.

ALKALI—25 cents worth makes 10 lbs of Hard Soap, or 25 Gallons of Soft Soap, this saves trouble with ashes.

CHLORIDE LIME prevents sickness by using it for all disagreeable odors from back yards, cellars, etc., (an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure

A large stock of Fresh Medicines, Drugs and Chemicals.

J. W. BROWETT, Dispensing Chemist.

Sign of the "White Mortar," Thames Street.

Ingersoll, April 10th, 1884. 1509

Burdock Blood Bitters

Cures Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver and Kidneys, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all diseases arising from Impure Blood, Deranged Stomach, or irregular action of the Bowels.

NOTICE.

Just Received an Immense Stock of

Wall Papers and Borders

Of the newest designs, which will be offered at VERY LOW PRICES in order to induce customers to commence house cleaning early, at

L. THOMPSON'S,

Wall Paper, Stationery, Oil, Color and Window Glass Store, McCaughey' Block, Thames Street.

Ingersoll, February 7th, 1884. 1587

H. RICHARDSON

Richardson's Block, Ingersoll, Ontario,

Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry,

SILVER AND PLATED WARE.

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 1st., 1883.

This is to certify that we have appointed H RICHARDSON, Sole Agent for the sale of the Rockford Quick Train Watch, in Ingersoll, Ontario, and that we will, to the fullest extent, sustain the usual warranty given by him to purchasers of our movements. No warranty whatever attaches to these goods when offered for sale by others than our duly appointed Agent.

ROCKFORD WATCH CO.,
H. P. Holland, Sec.

NELLES & STEVENS

Have this week opened out a full range of

Crockery & Glassware

Comprising White and Printed Tea Sets. Printed Dinner Sets, 76 pieces. China Tea Sets in every variety of Patterns. Coloured Toilet Sets. White Toilet Sets.

With this addition to our already large stock of General Groceries we claim to show the largest and best selected stock of goods in our line to be found in Ingersoll.

An inspection will convince you that our prices are right as well as the variety.

NELLES & STEVENS.

Ingersoll, May 29th, 1884. 1605

B. LAURANCE'S 63 Hatton Garden, Lond'n SPECTACLES —AND— 246 ST. JAMES ST., MONTREAL

Ground scientifically from clear and pure Pebble, or optical glass especially manufactured for the purpose, they are without exception best adapted to restore the ravages of age, and to retain perfect vision; they are especially recommended by the most eminent of the Faculty.

EVERY PAIR OF SPECTACLES AND EYEGLASSES IS MARKED "B. L."

READ EXTRACTS FROM CANADIAN TESTIMONIALS:

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS THIS WEEK.

Farm for sale—J. C. Norsworthy.
Voters' List—Abm. Hillsdon.
Drugs—D. Secord.
Notice—R. A. Woodcock.
Lost—Gold Bracelet.
Notice—Thos. Seldon.
School Books—G. B. Fotheringham.
For Sale—D. A. Bucknell.

The Ingersoll Chronicle

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

THURSDAY, JULY 17, 1884.

TOWN NEWS.

THE first watermelon and the cold wave arrived about the same time.

ST. Andrews' and St. James' Church Sunday Schools pic-nicked at the Park yesterday. The day was cool but not unpleasant.

ACCIDENT.—Mr. Hal. O'Connor, express agent, had the misfortune to smash his thumb in closing a safe door, in consequence of which he is off duty for a time.

PIC-NIC.—The Sunday Schools of Knox and the Charles Street Methodist Churches held their annual pic-nic at the Park on Tuesday last.

THE St. Thomas Times says the Okas of that place were very much pleased with the manner in which they were treated by the Ingersoll Lacrosse club.

THE Bank of London in Canada has leased the office at present occupied by the Federal Bank of Canada at Petrolia, they having decided to close that branch.

THE Mayor has proclaimed Monday, 4th August, as Ingersoll's Civic Holiday. There will probably be an excursion to Pt. Stanley and Toronto.

CIVIC HOLIDAY.—The Oddfellows of this town are making preparations for a grand pic-nic at Port Stanley, on the Civic Holiday, Monday, 4th August.

I. O. O. F.—Grand Master McDiarmid of Lucan will pay a visit to Lilly Lodge, Dorchester Station, on Tuesday evening. A number of the Ingersoll fraternity will be present.

FINE FRUIT.—MRS. Thos. Brown this season again takes the lead in growing gooseberries. We have samples from his garden lying on our desk which we believe for size cannot be beaten.

22ND BATT. BAND.—This Band has been lately reorganized, and for a time will be under the management of Sergeant Ireland. They will make their first appearance on Friday evening at the usual place.

SENT TO PRISON.—The Police Magistrate on Monday sentenced Wm. Lynn, arrested on Sunday, to one year's imprisonment with hard labor, charged with stealing a quantity of jewelry from the residence of Mrs. Adam Oliver.

The wheat harvest has commenced in the vicinity of St. Thomas, and by the end of the week, harvesting of the crop will be general. The yield promises to be above an average, notwithstanding the cry of the ravages of the midge.

A POPULAR BAND.—The 13th Batt. Band of Hamilton—the crack band of Canada—is flooded with engagements this summer, being compelled to refuse many good offers, particularly from the States. By good luck the Y.M.P.B.A. have secured this excellent organization for their gala day, Aug. 22.

THE Dufferin Lacrosse Club send the following team to Princeton to play the club of that place to-morrow afternoon:—E. Dundas, Captain; J. W. Vance, R. Malone, E. Eshelby, J. C. Atkinson, C. Cowan, F. Smale, J. O. Matheson, W. Smith, E. Cowan, J. H. Hegler and O. E. Robinson.

A. O. F.—The installation of officers of Court Marquis of Lorne took place last evening under the direction of Bro. Wm. Moore, H.C.R., London, and Bro. Chaplin, D.C.R., Woodstock. A very interesting time was spent by the brethren. We are glad to note that this Lodge is very prosperous, and has a good cash balance in the bank at its command.

GRAND LODGE.—The annual meeting of the Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. will be held in St. Thomas, commencing on Wednesday, 13th August. The St. Thomas brethren purpose having a grand demonstration on this occasion at which many of the Oddfellows of this section will be present. The Oddfellows of that city are a go-ahead lot, and whatever they undertake they carry through in a decided successful manner.

TUG-OF-WAR.—The tug-of-war between Nissouri and Dorchester, which was not completed at the late Queen's birthday celebration, will again take place at Victoria park, Ingersoll, at the grand demonstration to be held under the auspices of Anchor Lodge, Y. M. P. B. A., on Friday, 22nd August, for a prize of $80—the Caledonian Society giving their original offer of $40, and the Y. M. P. B. A. adding thereto $40. This will be a most exciting contest.

ANOTAER LIBERAL DONOR.—The members of the Young Men's Protestant Benevolent Association are meeting with great encouragement for their demonstration on the 22nd of next month. Mr. R. W. Woodroofe, jeweler, with his usual well-known liberality to public enterprises, has kindly donated a very handsome prize for bicycle race, which gift is fully appreciated by the members of the above society, and we feel sure it will be highly valued by the successful competitor.

PUSH.—The directors of the Toronto Exposition are evidently alive to the interests of the Queen City. The forthcoming show promises to be the most attractive yet held. If the railway companies act in the same liberal spirit during the exhibition as they did during the late semi-centennial celebration, the show must end in failure (both in number of visitors and financially) equally as great as that which attended the great event alluded to. Let the railway fares be reasonable, and the city will see the largest influx of visitors known in her history.

COOKERY FOR BEGINNERS, with Marion Harland's name as author, needs no other indication of its character and genuine value. It has been a fault of previous books on Cookery that they have taken for granted the possession of a certain degree of knowledge requisite to their successful use, not always possessed. This book, while affording a range of information unsurpassed by any other book, and thus suited to the use of all, has the advantage of being perfectly adapted to the needs of the veriest tyros in cookery.

A CURIOSITY.—Mr. Andrew Hoagg is the happy possessor of a night blooming cereus that came out in flower on Saturday night. The cereus is a genus of the cactus family, and although the plant itself is not uncommon, it is rarely and only with the most attentive and intelligent treatment that it can be got to bloom. Mr. H. was lucky enough to secure the blossom immediately after it appeared, and had it preserved in spirits. It can be seen in the window of Mr. Browett, druggist, and is certainly a flower of the most delicate loveliness. The following pretty verses "To a Night-Blooming Cereus" are taken from Vick's Monthly:

Thou sweet-breathed flow'r, in vesture white!
Why must thou fade so soon?
Art thou a spirit, born of night,
That vanishes at morning light
Dispels the midnight gloom?

Thou weird, white flower! Art thou a star,
That falling from the sky,
Did'st pale thy brightness—glory mar—
And to reclaim thy home afar
Must wither, droop, and die?

From noblest selves we've fallen too;
O, what we long to be!
Can we attain the good and true
When all our toil and suffering through,
We drop and die like thee?

THE TEACHING OF THE TWELVE APOSTLES.—The above named manuscript which has been attracting so much attention of late, both in the United States and Europe, was discovered in 1875 by Philotheos Byrennios (Metropolitan of Nicomedia) in the library of the most holy sepulchre in Fanarif, Constantinople. It is part of a large octavo volume, containing 120 leaves of parchment, written in cursive characters, and bears the date A.D. 1056. The authenticity, genuineness and integrity of the document has never yet been questioned. The historical evidence in favor of it is very strong. It is frequently quoted by Clement of Alexandria; by Eusebius and Athenasius. "The document belongs undoubtedly to the 2nd century; possibly as far back as 120 A.D., hardly later than 160 A.D. The whole tone of it is Archaic. It contradicts nothing belonging to that age; corroborates some things which may henceforth be more strongly emphasized; and adds some things for which we may well be profoundly grateful." The book contains 16 chapters from ten to forty lines in each chapter. We purpose giving a chapter translated from the original each week until all our readers will be in possession of the "teaching of the twelve Apostles," as contained in the newly discovered document.

$50,000 to Loan on Real Estate at Lowest Rates. Apply to Brown & Wells, Barristers. 1309tf

PARTIES requiring money on good security can obtain any amount they may require at from one to two per cent. cheaper than any where else by applying to P. O. Box 25, Ingersoll. Business strictly confidential. 82

ICE Cream Parlours are now open at R. Vance's Confectionery. Call in and see them. You will get the genuine article there. 02

EGGS! EGGS!! Highest price in cash paid for fresh eggs at Vance's Bakery, Ingersoll. 81

CALL and see the immense stock of Wall Papers, Floor Oil Cloths, Window Cornices, Window Shades, &c., at L. Thompson's McCaugher's Block. 41.

Town Council.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held on Tuesday evening, Mayor Noxon presiding.

Members present—Messrs. Watterworth, Gibson, Horsman, Waterhouse, Richardson, McInnes, Buchanan, O'Connor, Matheson, Walley, Seldon, and Nelles.

The Mayor gave his reason for calling the members together, which was chiefly for considering the way for making the exchange of the corporation debenture stock with the C. P. R. Co.

The following communication was read:—

THE MAYOR, Ingersoll,

DEAR SIR,—In the matter of the appeals from the Court of Revision, the Judge has appointed the 29th day of July to hear them, and he has suggested that in order to facilitate matters and save expense, the points of law connected with the cases should be first argued, and if all parties consent he will hear them on the 25th inst. at his chambers in Woodstock, and then it will be known what witnesses will be required for the 29th. Mr. J. F. McDonald and I represent the appellants in all cases, and we will consent to the arrangement, but the corporation will also have to consent. Will you call a meeting of the Council, and if their consent can be obtained we may as well proceed that way.

Yours truly,
THOS. WELLS.

On motion Reeve Seldon was granted three months' leave of absence from the Board, the gentleman being about to visit England for the benefit of his health.

Moved by Mr. Gibson, seconded by Mr. Seldon, That the Treasurer be instructed to hand over the C.V.R. debenture stock to J. C. Hegler, barrister, for the purpose of making the exchange with the C. P. R. Co. at Montreal.—Carried.

Several accounts were read and referred to Finance Committee.

On motion the Merchants Bank was instructed to hand over the C.V.R. debenture stock to the town treasurer.

The report of the Market Committee was read recommending that a gift of $25 be made to Mr. Redman, for the extra and superior work accomplished in beautifying the Town Hall.

The Council went into Committee of the Whole on the above report, Mr. Walley in the chair.

A great portion of the evening was occupied in discussing the recommendation of the Market Committee, the whole being more of a personal argument than a public matter. We deem it well to drop it.

The recommendation, however, was lost.

Committee rose and council resumed.

F. G. Carroll made application for the use of the shed in rear of the market, for the sale of buggies. On a motion being offered to allow him the shed for $8 per month, the applicant emphatically stated he "didn't want it."

The account of Wilson & Robertson, for goods supplied Redman for town hall was ordered to be paid.

On motion Wm. McLeod was ordered to be paid the balance of his account ($100) for services performed as assessor.

Moved by Mr. Buchanan, seconded by Mr. McInnes, and resolved, That the Mayor be and is hereby instructed to employ either W. R. or E. Meredith as counsel in the matter of appeals from the Court of Revision to the County Judge, and that he be guided by the advice of said counsel whether the argument on legal questions shall be brought on or before the time appointed by the Judge for hearing the appeals.

Moved by Mr. Buchanan, seconded by Mr. O'Connor, That the Mayor now appoint a committee, consisting of three members, to go into the matter now pending between the Police Magistrate and this Corporation.—Carried.

Messrs. Buchanan, Walley, and Watterworth, were appointed a committee in accordance with the above resolution.

Council adjourned.

Personal.

Mr. N. W. Ford of St. Thomas, is spending a few weeks in town.

Dr. Ross of Montreal is visiting his son-in-law Mr. M. S. Hodder.

Mr. J. S. Deacon left on Tuesday to attend the Ontario School of Art.

Mr. R. Vance leaves on Thursday for Scotland, the land of his birth.

Miss Sadie Gunn of Woodstock is the guest of Mrs. Gayfer.

Miss Mabel Harris, of Brantford, is the guest of Miss Wixson—Homewood Villa.

Miss L. A. Barr left this morning for Cayuga, N. Y., where she intends spending her holidays.

Mr. Hawthorne, stock broker, New York, was in town last week, the guest of the Rev. E. M. Bland.

Mr. A. M. Smith, manager Merchants Bank here, left on Saturday for a few weeks holidays.

Mr. W. McColl, of the Imperial Bank, St. Thomas, has been temporarily appointed ledger keeper of the Ingersoll branch.

Mrs. Thos. H. Noxon and Master Herbert Noxon left on Monday for a two months' sojourn in P. E County.

Mrs. S. Richardson and her son Mr. S. Richardson, of Toronto, are visiting friends in town.

Dr. Tassie, for many years headmaster of the Galt collegiate institute, has been appointed headmaster of the Peterboro collegiate institute.

Mr. Thos. Seldon left yesterday for England. He will be absent about three months. Mrs. Seldon goes as far as Montreal.

The St. Thomas Journal says Mr. C. W. Clinch, manager of the Molsons Bank, Woodstock, will probably be appointed manager in that city, vice Mr. G. K. Morton, resigned.

Entrance Examinations.

The following candidates passed the entrance examination at the Ingersoll High School. Those marked "recommended" failed by a few marks in one subject, but were recommended by the Local Board to be passed by the Central Board at Toronto. A revised list will be published when the report of Central Board is received:

C. Bourn, Ingersoll	452
N. Sutherland, Beachville	423
Phemia Sutherland, Beachville	423
Effie Davis, Dereham, No. 9,	403
Thos. H. McKay, E. Nissouri, No. 8,	385
Minnie H. Empey, Dereham, No. 8,	369
Jennie Grandy, Culloden	364
C. Burns, Beachville	363
Bertha Walker, W. Oxford, No. 2,	361
Mary E. McAuley, Dereham Centre	358
Aggie Currie, W. Oxford, No. 9	354
William McKay, Ingersoll	331
Georgina Crawford, Ingersoll	329
E. Baigent, Thamesford	323
Sam Kirwan, N. Norwich, Nos. 4 & 9	318
William D. McKay, E. Nissouri, No. 8.	303
Bertha Douglas, Ingersoll	294
John C. McMulkin, Ingersoll	288

RECOMMENDED.

William I. Cope, N. Oxford, No. 1.
E. Creighton, Beachville.
Thos. Doyle, Ingersoll Separate.
Thos. Sandick, Ingersoll.
John B. Thompson, Dereham, No. 9.
Richard Weaver, Beachville.
James Weir, Thamesford.
John Wight, Ingersoll.
Kate Cuddie, Verschoyle.
Mary Dunn, N. Oxford, No 4.
Nettie Eldon, E. Nissouri, No. 6.
Maggie Graco, Ingersoll Separate.
Ida Hadcock, Dereham, No. 5.
Mary Morrison, Dereham, No. 5.
Lillian Miller, Ingersoll.
Goldy Mayberry, W. Oxford, No. 8.
Hattie Paterson, Dickson's Corners.
Jennie Smith, Beachville.

Lacrosse.

A match game of Lacrosse was played on Victoria Park, on Friday afternoon between the Okas of St. Thomas and the Dufferins of this town, resulting in a victory for the Dufferins, defeating their opponents by two games to one, the game being played on time the team securing the most goals to win. The Dufferins secured the first game in 2 minutes. The Okas taking the second in 40 minutes and the Dufferins the third in 3 minutes, time being called while the fourth game was in progress. Mr. K. Cameron acted as umpire for the Okas, Mr. J. A. Shaw for the Dufferins, and Mr. Joseph Gibson as referee. The following are the names of the players and their positions:

Okas.	Positions	Dufferins.
E. Hillis	Goal	J. H. Hegler
J. S. Kennedy	Point	R. Malone
Geo. Midgely	Cover Point	J. W. Vance
J. O'Reilly	Defence Field	J. C. Atkinson
O. O'Reilly	" "	C. Cowan
E. F. Wicks	" "	J. O. Matheson
J. Hammond	Centre	F. Smale
T. B. Patton	Home Field	J. T. Christison
M. Chambers	" "	E. Dundas
L. F. G. W. Wilson	" "	E. Cowan
G. Fitzsimmons	" "	W. Smith
O. Bougbner	Field Captain	J. M. Brady

FLUID LIGHTNING

There are but few that have never suffered almost intolerable pain from Toothache, Neuralgia, or like acute pains. To them such an instant relief as Fluid Lightning is an untold blessing in time of trouble. No disgusting, offensive medicines to be taken for days. One application of Fluid Lightning cures. Sold at Gayfer's and Knee-shaw's.

FIZ! Zip! goes the Soda Fountain at R. Vance's Confectionery. 02

ALL kinds of canned goods guaranteed good at Bock's. 80.

ENGRAVED calling cards at the CHRONICLE office.

INGERSOLL PUBLIC SCHOOL.

North Ward School.

Miss Gussie Dyke's Room.

HONOR CLASS.

1 Benjamin Cable	7 Maud Cobbin
2 Willie Marshall	8 Bertha Cronk
3 Lena McKay	9 Fannie Marriott
4 Arthur McKay	10 Bertha Jemison
5 Ethel Sinclair	11 Edith Cairns
6 Ernest Jenkinson

PASS CLASS.

1 Annie Bowman	6 Bertha Bucknell
2 Wallis Brown	7 Willie Campbell
3 Nelson McCarty	8 Robbie Kennedy
4 Eddie Ward	9 Maggie Daugherty
5 Maggie Johnson	10 Ethel Bucknell

No. 1 North to No. 7 Central.

HONOR CLASS.

1 James Oliver	6 Mary Poole
2 Barbara McKay	7 M Chamberlain
3 Willie Oliver	8 Lena Little
4 Olive Barr	9 John Cronk
5 Percy Coyne	10 Levi Case

PASS CLASS.

1 Edward Petrie	6 Phillie Ackert
2 Effie Bower	7 Bella Christison
3 Frank Moffatt	8 George Gardner
4 Emma Ross	9 Jessie O'Neill
5 Birdie Winter	10 Edward Oliver

Central School.

No. 10 to No. 9—Miss McNeil's Room.

HONOR CLASS.

1 Bella Berry	11 Pearl Campbell
2 Nellie Collins	12 Fred Buchanan
3 TempleBlackwood	13 Clar. Blackwood
4 John Cannon	14 George Brown
5 Harry Bowers	15 Minnie Livens
6 Mary Avery	16 Abram Edwards
7 Minnie Hirst	17 David McKay
8 Edith Sharpe	18 Mabel Parker
9 Tom Roberts	19 Walter Bloor
10 Harry Aikman	20 Joshua Casswell

PASS CLASS.

21 James Thomson	31 Mary Tinney
22 Isaac Bird	32 Willie Pinkson
23 Willie Roddy	33 Mamie Hill
24 Charlotte Cannon	34 Tessa Dixon
25 Maud Size	35 Daisy Alexander
26 Nellie Size	36 Alfred Gibson
27 Willie Garbutt	37 Arthur Berry
28 Mary Fisher	38 Rosa Dominey
29 Louie Hepson	39 Roger McKay
30 Allan Noxon

No. 9 to No. 8—Miss Stimson, Teacher.

HONOR CLASS.

1 Willie Heath	10 Willie Kyle
2 Frank Dennis	11 Minnie Ross
3 Lena Petrie	12 Mable Barraclough
4 John Knox	13 Emma Trout
5 Welcome Carroll	14 Robert Hayhoe
6 Minnie Moore	15 Elsie Munro
7 Temple Blackwood	16 Alfred Noxon
8 Eddie Emigh	17 Charlie Greenaway
9 Delia Touil

PASS CLASS.

1 Roddie McKenzie	12 James Henderson
2 Alfred Ryman	13 Ralph Hayhoe
3 Willie Campbell	14 Bella Berry
4 James Huntley	15 Willie Hearn
5 Gertie Matheson	16 Harry Palmer
6 Willie Day	17 May Heath
7 Eddie Oliver	18 Robert Smith
8 Susie Perkins	19 Grace Miller
9 Lilly Garbutt	20 Charlie Baker
10 Sarah Vanpatter	21 Lena Hepson
11 Fred Borland

No. 8 to No. 7—Miss Clement, Teacher.

HONOR CLASS.

1 George Colridge	4 Lena Connor
2 Roddie Ross	5 Ethelwyn Gillespie
3 Max Richardson	6 Joseph Hirsch

PASS CLASS.

1 Annie Sandick	10 Jennie McBain
2 Roy Inglesby	11 Martha Lillywhite
3 Lillie Scoffin	12 Evy Dundass
4 Sadie Hirsch	13 Eva Henderson
5 Gordon Ellis	14 Bella Murray
6 Gertie Baker	15 George Ferris
7 Fred Sharpe	16 Fred Ward
8 Rahl Rufus	17 Lily Sutherland
9 Samuel Noxon

No. 7 to No. 6—Miss Dingman, Teacher.

HONOR CLASS.

1 Frank Marsden	3 Nellie Ross
2 Herbert Noxon	4 Fred Little

PASS CLASS.

1 Clara Estey	6 Edith Porteous
2 Willie Todd	7 Albert Tune
3 Willie Traut	8 Harry Silk
4 Katie Porteous	9 Rose Bailey
5 Ida Fotheringham	10 Jennie Tripp

No. 6 to No. 5.

HONOR ROLL.

1 Robert Henderson	10 Alfred Robins
2 Thomas Robins	11 Jarvis Thompson
3 Mary Robins	12 Willie Took
4 Bessie McMulkin	13 John Johnston
5 Jennie Henderson	14 Willie Berry
6 Ethel Ashcroft	15 George Gayfer
7 John McDermott	16 Katie Armour
8 Maggie Campbell	17 Ada Campbell
9 Lucy Rowe	18 David McGee

PASS ROLL.

1 Fred Feeny	13 Edie Rowe
2 Nettie Adair	14 Bertha Todd
3 Austin Stuart	15 Willie Hillman
4 Tom O'Neill	16 Maggie Hambidge
5 Robert Proctor	17 Ernest Sumner
6 Carrie Day	18 Libbie Stevens
7 Lulu Tripp	19 Charles Sexsmith
8 Eddie McKenzie	20 Effie Wixson
9 Ella Dunn	21 Eliza Adair
10 Chone Oliver	22 Era Stevens
11 Hattie Harrington	23 Bert Walley
12 Jim Smith	24 Mabel Maud

No. 5 to No. 4—Miss H. Dyke's Room.

HONOR CLASS.

1 Eva Hirst	12 Amelia Shortt
2 VeronicaSutherland	13 Florence Sevales
3 Lizzie Downing	14 Nettie Sutherland
4 Eugene Inglesby	15 Lilly Cavanagh
5 Agnes Perry	16 Gordon Brown
6 Jessie Reader	17 Fred Moore
7 Jennie Sutherland	18 Livinia Knox
8 Jessie Downing	19 Blake Hegler
9 Albert Downing	20 Robert Downing
10 Jack Gayfer	21 Lizzie Daugherty
11 Mary McKay	22 Edith Scoffin

PASS CLASS.

1 Flora Badden	11 Tillie Vance
2 Ralph Clark	12 Sara Barnum
3 Seward Kanady	13 Alex Spence
4 Willie Morrison	14 Hattie Williams
5 Lizzie Snider	15 John Borland
6 Eddie McMulkin	16 Willie James
7 Bownman Clement	17 Mary Mallaby
8 Willie Gustin	18 Celie Ferris
9 Minnie Hooper	19 Maggie Morgan
10 Mary Miller	20 Bella Matheson

Room 4 to Room 3.

HONOR LIST.

1 Beauchamp Stiff	11 Willie McIntyre
2 Aggie McLaughlin	12 Herbert Odell
3 Edith Geddes	13 Vivian Ackert
4 George Barr	14 Nellie Matheson
5 Charlie Dennis	15 Dan Munro
6 Elwin Mabee	16 Willie Size
7 Minnie Hirst	17 Lena Marshall
8 Jean Christopher	18 Thomas Gibson
9 John Gibbs	19 Willie Gordon
10 Howard Gray	20 Minnie Sutherland

PASS LIST.

1 Minnie Cornell	9 Willie Gibson
2 Maggie Hager	10 Geo Lillywhite
3 Willie McIntyre	11 Arthur Hayward
4 Walter Reader	12 Bertha Sizo
5 Lydia Bucknell	13 Ivanhoe James
6 Sophia Lillywhite	14 Charlie Warnock
7 Geo. Matheson	15 A Fotheringham
8 Willie Stickwood

Room No. 3 to No. 2.—Miss Pool, Teacher.

HONOR CLASS.

1 Lulu Menhennick	11 Jennie Rice
2 Mary Porteous	12 Jessie Winter
3 Blanche Crawford	13 Mary Mason
4 Minnie Snelgrove	14 Nettie Moore
5 Herbie Gillis	15 Ettie Carroll
6 Bessie Petrie	16 Lizzie Stuart
7 Henry Baker	17 Flora McDonald
8 Ida Foster	18 Maggie McGee
9 Maggie Scofield	19 Annie Harris
10 Jessie Fraser	20 Louisa Darker

PASS CLASS.

1 John Aikman	8 Fannie Smith
2 Charlie White	9 Sterling Warnock
3 Willie Matheson	10 Mary Armour
4 Andrew Middlemiss	11 Sarah Bowman
5 Herbert Pittman	12 Fred James
6 Kenneth O'Neil	13 Mary Ross
7 Lena Denning

No. 2 to No. 1—Miss Hudson, Teacher.

HONOR CLASS.

1 Carrie Bourne	8 Nettie Jenkinson
2 Wesley Husband	9 Aggie Petrie
3 Katie Livings	10 Lizzie Dundass
4 John Smith	11 Hugh Cook
5 Nellie Pellow	12 Eva Boles
6 Flo Bailey	13 Annie Stickwood
7 Osmon Lyman	14 John Barr

PASS CLASS.

1 Ellen Wood	7 Minnie Gardiner
2 Millie McDonald	8 Hattie Hearn
3 Maud Bell	9 Gertie Sandick
4 Charlie Webster	10 Willie Campbell
5 Ada Silk	11 Susie Boles
6 Minnie Myers

J. S. DEACON,
Principal.

Ingersoll, July 11, '84.

THESE ARE SOLID FACTS.

The best blood purifier and system regulator ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity, truly is Electric Bitters. Inactivity of the Liver, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Weak Kidneys, or any disease of the urinary organs, or whoever requires an appetizer, tonic or mild stimulant, will always find Electric Bitters the best and only certain cure known. They act surely and quickly, every bottle guaranteed to give entire satisfaction or money refunded. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by John Gayfer, druggist. 104

HAVE THE CHRONICLE sent to you when you take your vacation.

FRESH FISH.—We will have constantly on hand a supply of Fresh Trout, White Fish, and Herring. Beck's Fruit Store. Telephone communication. 01

THE CREDIT VALLEY EXTENSION.

The Line to be Pushed Through.

The survey of the Credit Valley extension has been completed and the line located to Windsor. It has been decided to run the line from Ingersoll instead of Woodstock Near the station at the former place the road will cross the Great Western line and run thence in an almost direct line to London, thence passing Hyde Park and within three-quarters of a mile of Komoka to a point four miles south of the village of Strathroy, thence through Louisville to Chatham, passing about four miles north of Glencoe. At Chatham a bridge will be built across the River Thames. About four miles west of that town the line will a second time cross the Great Western track, and passing about 1½ miles from Jeannette's Creek will go nearly direct to Windsor, passing very close to Belle River. The mileage will vary but little from that of the Great Western. The management of the Canadian Pacific Railway intend commencing operations almost immediately, and will hurry the line through to completion as fast as possible.

Literary Notes.

THE August CENTURY will contain, in Mr. Cable's novel, "Dr. Sevier," a thrilling description of the departure of Confederate troops from New Orleans at the beginning of the Civil War. The march of the New York Seventh down Broadway is also described, with hardly less graphic power.

THE Midsummer Holiday CENTURY will contain "A Glance at British Wild Flowers" by John Burroughs and Alfred Parsons the artist. It will be one of the most decorative articles in illustration and most charming in text that has ever appeared in THE CENTURY.

MARGIE'S MISSION.—By Marie Oliver. Boston: D. Lothrop & Co. Price 25 cts. This deeply interesting story, by the author of Sebo's Discipline and Ruby Hamilton, forms the second issue in the Young Folks' Library Series, an honor it richly deserves. The plan of the publishers is to make this series a model in everything that goes to constitute good book—interest, purity of tone, and a direct purpose to teach lessons of truth, honor and usefulness. These qualities give each separate book a claim upon the consideration of every parent who exercises a judicious care over the reading of his children. The present volume may well stand as a representative of the series in all these respects.

DISTRICT NEWS.

Salford.

MESSRS. Curtis and White, of the Canadian Evangelization Society, commenced a Mission on Tuesday week last.

Dereham.

MESSRS. White and Curtis, the evangelists, occupy the church at Thompson's Corners. Mr. Curtis opened the Mission on Wednesday week last, the meetings being well attended through the week. Sunday last services were held at 3 and 7 p.m.; the evening meeting was well attended, about 130 present. After the addresses by the evangelists there was a testimony meeting, in which a great number took part. The meeting closed about 10 o'clock, after a successful day's labour. Meetings will be continued every evening during this week and next at 8 o'clock, also on Sunday at 3 and 7 p.m.

Avon.

Rev. Thos. Jolliffe, of Toronto, was visiting his friends in this place last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Walley of Bridge port, Mich., arrived here last Friday.

The haying is pretty well finished up in this locality and of a very fine quality.

Mrs. M. Whaley has been seriously ill with bilious fever but is now in a fair state of recovery.

Messrs. James and John Jolliffe, of Iowa, who have been visiting their many friends here the past two weeks started for home last Saturday.

Mr. Philip Andrew starts for Thamesville on the 15th inst., where he intends working for a time at the book business. We wish him success.

North Oxford.

The Council met on Monday, the 7th day of July at the Clerk's residence at 12 o'clock noon. All the members present except Mr. Nelles. Minutes of last meeting of Council read and confirmed. Letter from M. T. Buchanan in reference fences on highways laid before the council and read. Moved by Mr. Henderson, seconded by Mr. Colyer, That the clerk notify William George to move his fence from the allowance for road between the 5th and 6th concessions of this township, also from the side line between lots 23 and 24-5th concession. Mr. Nelles enters and takes his seat. Motions moved and seconded, the reeve signed orders to pay the following accounts: J. B. Johnson for goods supplied Mrs. Molson, indigent $6.00, Mrs. Carpenter, indigent, $5.00, Angus Morrison and sister, indigents, $5.00; Francis Appleton, for five sheep killed by dogs, $16.66; Township Clerk part of salary $30.00; George Matheson, for 128 loads of gravel, $10.24. On motion the sum of $23.00 was placed to the credit of division No. 3 from the general fund of the township. On motion, Council adjourned until the first Monday in September next at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., to meet at the Clerk's residence.

ABM. HILLSDON, T'p Clerk.

Mt. Elgin.

Busy haying.

The mashers are mad.

Mr. Wm. Harris is erecting a new barn.

Mrs. J. M. Kelly, of Brantford, is visiting her sister Mrs. Jones.

Messrs. D. Ross and H. Dell of Thorold, were in town Sunday.

J. & R. Miller are making heavy shipments of lumber again this week.

Mr. R. Miller and family have returned from a very pleasant visit to friends in Detroit.

The Ladies Aid Society had a very pleasant gathering at Mr. J. V. Bodwell's on Thursday evening.

A game of baseball was played on Friday last between the Ingersoll and Mt. Elgin clubs and resulted in a victory for Ingersoll. The return match will be played next Friday in Ingersoll.

Unearthly sounds and ghostly appearances have for some time disturbed the even tenor of our quiet village life, and various have been the opinions expressed regarding them. All surmises have proved incorrect however. The other morning sounds as of a great conflict were heard proceeding from the garden of Mr. R. Miller, and upon investigation Mr. M. was discovered in very ghost-like attire, racing around the garden in frantic endeavors to drive out sundry horned depredators who had taken possession during the night. Th. pronounced over those unfortunate cattle were forcible enough to curdle their milk for the next two weeks.

What Made Him Lame.

A gentleman recently met an old acquaintance and remarked:

'Ah, Jones, I'm sorry to see you with that limp; hurt your foot?'

'No.'

'Got bad corn on it? Terrible weather for corns.'

'No.'

'Bunion?'

'No.'

'Ingrowing toe nail?'

'No.'

'Well, what is the matter with it?'

'There's nothing the matter with it' I'm booked for a Sunday-school picnic to-day, and, I suppose they're an idea they'll use me for a mule to pack wood and carry water and put up swings, like they did last year, but they'll get left. I'm lame. Cut my foot half off. Had a railroad train run over it. Got it caught under a triphammer. I'm going to sit in the shade and have 'em bring me strawberries and cream.'

MERIT PROVEN

Dollar upon dollar is frequently spent on the faith of recommendations for articles entirely worthless. Not so with McGregor's Speedy Cure; you are not asked to purchase it until its merits are proven. Call at Gayfer's or Kneeshaw's drug store and get a free trial bottle, and if not convinced it will cure you of the worst form of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, etc., no matter of how long standing, it costs you nothing. Sold in 50c. and $1 bottles. See testimonials from persons in your own town.

A REMARKABLE ESCAPE.

Mrs. Mary A. Dailey of Tunkhannock, Pa., was afflicted for six years with Asthma and Bronchitis, during which time the best physicians could give no relief. Her life was despaired of, until in last October she procured a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, when immediate relief was felt, and by continuing its use for a short time she was completely cured, gaining in flesh 50 lbs. in a few months. Free Trial Bottles of this certain cure of all Throat and Lung Diseases at Gayfer's Drug Store. Large bottles $1. 104

FARM AND DAIRY MATTERS.

INGERSOLL MARKETS.

GRAIN AND SEEDS.

White Wheat, per bush..	$ 97	to	1 10
Red Fall Wheat	1 00	to	1 13
Spring Wheat	1 00	to	1 16
Barley	50	to	60
Peas "	65	to	75
Oats "	30	to	40
Corn "	60	to	65
Buckwheat "	00	to	54
Rye "	55	to	60
Clover Seed per bush.	7 50	to	8 50
Timothy Seed "	2 00	to	2 50

PRODUCE.

Potatoes, per bushel	0 90	to	1 00
Onions "	0 75	to	0 80
Apples "	0 00	to	15
Dried Apples per lb	9	to	10
Tallow "	6	to	06
Lard "	11	to	12
Dressed Hogs, per 100 lbs	7 50	to	8 00
Live Hogs, "	5 00	to	6 00
Hay, per ton	9 00	to	10 00
Straw, per Load	2 50	to	3 00
Beef Hides,	0 05	to	0 06
Calf Skins	0 00	to	0 10
Lamb Skins	0 60	to	0 80
Pelts	0 30	to	0 40
Wool,	0 18	to	0 20

PROVISIONS.

Flour, old process, 100 lbs	2 50	to	2 75
Flour, new process, Fall, 100 lbs	2 75	to	3 00
Oatmeal	0 00	to	2 75
Cornmeal	0 00	to	1 90
Bran, per ton	12 00	to	14 00
Shorts "	00 00	to	18 00
Marrowfat Peas	0 70	to	0 85
Butter, tub	12½	to	15
Butter, rolls, per lb	16	to	18
Cheese,	8½	to	9
Stilton Cheese	15

FARM AND DAIRY.

Summer Feeding of Calves.

A calf cannot be reared on meal. When milk is scarce it seems to be thought by some that it is only necessary to substitute so much corn-meal to satisfy the necessities of the young creature. Milk is a special food; the solid portions are all in solution and readily digestible. Indeed, when it is sweet it can be absorbed into the system almost without change, through the lacteal vessels, and discharged from these into the thoracic duct, and so contribute directly to the enrichment of the blood. Solid food must be macerated and dissolved before it enters the intestines and can be absorbed by the lacteals, and there go through the assimilative processes; but when the young animal has not yet acquired the ability to digest solid food these necessary processes are not completed, and, of course, the intestines become disordered and the common provision of nature to get rid of the indigestible matter which we call diarrhœa begins to operate. Then the young animal is subjected to two evils, under which it quickly succumbs. These are, first a severe drain on the system from the pain and exhaustion of the diarrhœa; and second, a complete deprivation of nourishment from the suspension of digestion. It is worse than no food, because the food taken is an injury and exhausts, instead of being a benefit and nourishing the animal.

The difficulty is removed by the proper selection and preparation of food. We may know precisely what food to select, knowing the special needs of the animal and the actual constituents of the food. A young animal requires chiefly nitrogen, phosphoric acid, and carbon in its food, and these are furnished in such substances as oat-meal, corn-meal, bran and linseed-meal, and these must be given in solution at first and until the stomach is able to digest solid food. This it does at about 4 to 8 weeks old, after which it will live wholly upon solid food, but will do better if its food is partly in solution up to the age of 3 or four months. By thorough boiling or even cooking these foods may be brought into a soluble and digestible condition, and the liquid should be reduced to the consistence of milk. The great mistake is in feeding too much and, by overlooking the digestive organs to produced exhaustive diarrhea and the accompanying spasm. Three quarts twice a day is amply sufficient for a calf up to a month old, when the ration may be gradually increased up to four or five quarts at the end of the second month, with the addition of a little solid food, as grass or hay. It is not well to increase the grain food after this, but the calf may be gradually used to take this dry, and the liquid may be watered more liberally, until water only is given for the drink.

Hay and Hay Making.

Grass will always be a crop of great value in this country, though in most sections our climate is not so well adapted to its growth as is that of England. Here, too, we can grow corn, and this staple as food for stock has of late considerably reduced the relative importance of grass and its products. Hay is yet, however, in many places the staple Winter food of stock. It is undoubtedly, a dear food, costing more on high-priced land than the grower and feeder generally realize. It will scarcely be credited, but the average product of hay through the country is considerably less than one ton per acre. At its best the weight of feed produced in hay is less than the same quality of land would give if cultivated with almost any other crop. Grass land is not cultivated, and unfortunately is seldom manured except when about to be broken up as a preparation for something else. Under present conditions this is probably the wiser course. It is generally poor policy to put manure where cultivation and labour do not follow to increase its effectiveness. The difference between cultivated and uncultivated crops is pretty sharply defined sometimes when a thin sod with grass plants not occupying one quarter of the surface is plowed up mellowed and millet or Hungarian grass sown in its place. The weight of the cultivated hay is invariably much greater than the grass would have given.

The first step in creating increased interest in the hay crop is to make it profitable. Only a very largrly increased yield can accomplish this result. The meadow should be seeded so thickly that bare places, which now detract from the crop, will not appear. Many of the weeds that occupy grass land come in because there is nothing in their way to prevent. The old philosophers had a queer idea that nature abhorred a vacuum, and in farming, this idea, though unphilosophically expressed, is absolutely true. If the land is not filled with valuable grasses and plants, then weeds are sure to occupy the place. Probably more than half the grass land in the country is imperfectly seeded at the start. Unless the soil is unusually rich and the seasons are very moist, the sod grows thinner instead of thicker every subsequent year.

Cutting grass frequently through the season is the only way to secure the largest quantity of hay. It also insures the best quality. Dried grass is more palatable and nutritious than the woody straw which forms the bulk of ordinary hay. By cutting before the starch and gum in the leaves are transformed into fibre, the root is not enfeebled and growth is renewed almost without cessation. It is common in many places to cut clover twice, one early full crop and another later and from one-half to three-fourths as large as the first cutting. Yet on rich soil four and even five cuttings of good hay in a season are possible. It is often done where clover is used as a soiling crop, and, thus grown, clover produces a very large amount of excellent feed, which, as the land does not need cultivation nor the crop reseeding, makes it profitable.

The objection commonly urged against making hay from clover cut just as it comes into a blossom is that it is difficult to cure properly. But farmers have learned some facts about curing hay which our fathers did not know. It is the green leaves of the clover and grass that give hay its chief value. If woody fibre is needed to dry it let us have straw from our grain stacks rather than attempt to turn the valuable nutrition in leaves and grass into fibre. In fact, using grain straw to cure hay is a method by which the value of both may be increased. We do not want our hay too dry, otherwise much of the value is lost. With clover the fine leaves are broken off and only go to fertilize the soil. After a few hours' dry ing, grass, however green, is ready to be got into small cocks. There it should be left two or three days until slight fermentation has taken place, which may be known by the gradual settling down of the heap. Then open in bright, sunny weather when there is no dew, and draw at once to the barn, putting the hay in alternate layers with dry straw from the grain stacks. Do not be afraid, however wet the heaps may appear. The hay is dryer than it seems, and if there is any surplus moisture it will be absorbed by the straw, to which it will give an excellent flavor. In the Winter hay and straw are fed together and will be greedily eaten by all kinds of stock. It is possible, also, that some nutritive value from the hay thus passes into the straw. Many farmers have learned this method of curing hay and find that it lessens labour while greatly improving the quality of the product.

In one view of the case the hay tedder is an implement invented some years too late. There are, doubtless, places where hay is gathered by old-fashioned methods where it is a valuable aid, but generally the less stirring hay gets after cutting the less loss there will be in curing it. As cut by the mower it is spread pretty evenly and it will dry sufficiently without shaking up, so that after a few hours of a drying day it will be ready to gather into cocks where the subsequent curing can be best performed.—W. J. F., Henrietta, N. Y., in American Cultivator.

BEAUTIFUL JERSEYS

Said to be the off-spring of a Buck Deer.

'There is nothing like a Jersey cow and a pea-fowl for the ornamentation of a lawn,' said a gentleman at his country seat in Connecticut last week. As he was describing the points of beauty of a sleek, lithe little cow, with head and eyes like a deer, a tall, white-bearded man drove up and asked permission to look at the cow. The accent of the stranger indicated that his home was in the South, and his dignified courtesy and solemn good nature recalled the planter before the war. He slowly circled around the timid little cow, put a few questions as to her registry and history, and then surprised the owner by a plump offer of $500 for the animal, and a bonus of $25 for making the sale.

'Ah, but she is not for sale,' said the owner. 'I will, however, give you the refusal of her at that price, if you will leave me your address.'

The stranger produced a card which showed that he lived in a Western state, although he appeared to be thankful that he had 'got his raisin,' down in the blue grass of Kentucky. He was making his annual trip through New England, picking up Jersey cows and heifers for his herd, and he said that he would 'be very happy, sah, if you would do me the honah to sell that three-yeah-old, for I confess, sah, that she is a beautiful animal.' Being unable to make a purchase, he did not object to burning a cigar under the shade of a veranda and to revealing his love for Jersey beauties.

'There's no other such sort of cow,' he said,' and upon my honah, sah, as a gentleman I know men who are as much in love with these shy little animals as they are, sah, with their wives. There are no such milkers, and no cow sells like them. There's Mary Ann, up at St. Lambert, Canada, that has yielded four pounds of butter in one day. She is worth $30,000. Mr. Darling of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, in New York, has a beautiful animal, that produces twenty odd pounds of butter a week. The milk of a good Jersey is about eighty per cent; pure cream; and, sah I have milked a Jersey and churned the vessel at the same time, and when I finished, sah, I had a small quantity of butter in the vessel merely by agitating the milk as it came from the cow. This shows how rich the milk is.

The Jersey cows sell from $200 to $2,000 according to their record as butter makers. Their butter sells for from eighty cents to one dollar a pound and if it is well made it will stand firm without ice in warm weather. At my herd I sell the cream by the inch. It is collected in registering cans, and sold according to the number of inches of cream registered.'

'I suppose the cows are great pets.'

'On the contrary, they keep wild nearly always. It seems to run in their blood. It is said that the stock is the offspring of a buck deer that in early times swam over from the coast of France to the Jersey islands. They are like the deer in some points, and the young calves are very like fawns. The cows when they run in blue grass are hard to find. They drop down in the grass, and make themselves as small as possible. I give you my honah; sah I have been within ten feet of a cow in a blue grass field, and have failed to see her. They have a way of hiding themselves like game. We are making the experiment out west of regulating the sex of the progeny from the foundation cows, so as to get as many heifers as possible, and we believe that we will succeed. The bull Jerseys are not so profitable to handle. I think we will increase the capacity of the cows in this country. You know we are exporting short horns from Kentucky, and are selling them to the very breeders in England who supplied us some years ago. The breed is improved here, because of the lime in the water and in the food. It gives more bone and adds weight and strength to the beasts. I believe we can so treat the Jerseys as to be able to increase their capacity. They are not fit for beef, because they are of a lean kind, which you cannot fatten. But, sah, lime water and blue grass are wonderful bone and muscle makers.'

Ensilage.

It might greatly simplify the better understanding of the process of ensilage and enlighten the understanding of those persons who have so much to object to in regard to the acetic acid or vinegar which they declare is contained in it if it was more generally known that ensilage may be sour and yet contain no acetic acid at all. Sauerkraut and sour beer have but an exceedingly small quantity of acetic acid in them; the acid of there substances, as of ensilage, is lactic acid, which is formed without any fermentation or oxidation. The acid of brewers' grains and of glucose meal that have been stored for some time is also lactic and not acetic, and is formed without fermentation. This will "non plus" those persons who have so much to say about fermentation, decomposition, decay, and rottenness in all these wholesome, although sometimes acid foods. Lactic acid is formed without the presence of oxygen, and may be produced in a vacuum by the mere transposition of the elements of carbohydrates of the sugar type. Lactic acid is not volatile, as acetic acid is, and cannot, therefore, be absorbed by the blood or pass into the milk. Ensilage that is perfectly well sealed by pressure from the air will still be sour, but the acid will be lactic and not acetic, and will not, therefore, be injurious as food for cows, while that not well sealed by pressure will first develop alcohol, then acetic acid, and then pass into the putrefactive fermentation, a condition obviously unfitting it for wholesome food.—Montreal Family Herald.

Blackville, Oct. 4, 1883.

I write to tell you of the great and lasting benefits I have received from Dr. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam. I had disease of the lungs for over two years. All the doctors I tried considered my case hopeless. A friend recommended your Balsam. When I began taking it I had violent coughing fits and strangulation from phlegm; my feet and limbs were swollen, and hectic fever had full possession of me. The Balsam relieved all these symptoms, and made a complete cure of me. I am desirous of making my cure known.

J. LAWSON.

The noblest mind the best contentment has.

PHOTOGRAPHY can give us only the images of the flowers, but in MURRAY & LANMAN'S FLORIDA WATER chemistry has preserved their aromatic essence. It is literally the bottled breath of the most fragrant products of the richest floral region in the world.

The wise man avenges injuries by benefits.

Notes.

The Jersey cow usually breeds at two years old, and sometimes at little more than one, and gives milk almost or quite up to the time of her next calving. She gives a fair quantity of milk, in proportion to her size, and it is so rich that it makes as much butter as the milk of any breed, however large. The butter is remarkably fine and brings double price. It is churned with the greatest ease. Often a little stirring of a bowl of cream with a spoon is all that is needed.

There is quite an awakening in the dairy throughout England. A writer in the London Gazette says: "We are nothing here but for the cow." Parliament is legislating on it. New associations of dairymen are forming and employing teachers, so that they may win back the laurels they have let slip from them during the past fifteen or twenty years. Dairy fairs are held with members of the royal family as office holders. Dairy schools are being organized in England, Ireland and Scotland, while the largest convention of dairymen ever held in the United Kingdom took up three whole days last month.

Many cases of abortion in cows are caused by eating ergot, which is a powerful poison especially affecting the genital organ. It is usually found in rye, but some kinds of ergot grow in the seeds of various grasses. Rye affected by ergot is sometimes used in Germany to bring cows in heat when they are becoming rather old to breed freely.

Sows about to farrow should be allowed some exercise and be fed mainly with green food. This will make parturition easier, increase the tendency to give milk and prevent the feverish condition which frenzies sows so that they often destroy their pigs. A sow that has once done this is not apt afterwards to make a good mother, and should be fattened as quickly as possible.

The practice of plowing under green crops for manure is coming into fashion again, with the difference that now the crops are not as formerly plowed in to grow wheat. That ceased to pay with Western competition causing low prices for this grain. But some grain crops plowed under for potatoes or other hoed crops enrich the soil more than it can be by an equal expenditure of labor or money. The green manure is more evenly distributed over the field than an equal bulk could be in any other way.

From most localities word comes that fewer potatoes have been planted this year than last. It is probable that enough have been planted to supply the demand, but there is every incentive to give them good care and cultivation, with the certainty that all the labor expended will be repaid by fair prices for the crop.

Increased attention will be given to the buckwheat crop the present year, partly owing to the fact that last season the crop was generally a failure. The Silver Hull variety is recommended as being slightly earlier than the old sort and less liable to injury from blighting. It presents a very fine appearance when ripened, and brings rather more per bushel than the old sort.

Content to be a Drunkard's Wife.

The Supreme Court of Iowa refused to grant a divorce to a woman with a drunken husband for the following reasons: "She does not show that her personal safety or even her well-being require her to leave him. She doubtless would have lived more comfortably in the society of a sober man, but she ought to have considered, and doubtless did consider, the discomforts of a drunken husband when she married the defendant. But, she urges, he promised reformation before marriage. His failure to keep his promise did not justify her in deserting him. All the world knows that such promises made by a drunken husband are always broken. In a few words, as she knowingly married a drunkard, she must be content to be a drunkard's wife."

On the Next Block.

After walking up and down several times past a Gratiot avenue clothing dealer's yesterday a stranger halted and said to the man at the door:

"Do you remember me, sir?"

"Not shust exactly, my frendt. Who vhas you?"

"I'm the man who paid you $28 for a suit of bottle-green clothes last October, and inside of a week the moths ate 'em up!"

"You doan' say so!"

"You bet I do, and I'm here to get satisfaction."

"My frendt, you make a dreadful mistake. All der moths in dis store vhas in der sky-blue suits for $14. If dot man on der next block keeps his in der pottle-green suits for $28 dot vhas all right. No two men do peesness alike. Only, if you go up dere I vhish you to tell him for me before you punch his head dot if he keeps his moths in der pottle-green suits he vhill soon haf to shut up shop. Der shade makes safery insect color-blind in ten days."—Detroit Free Press.

The Biggest Speech on Record.

They tell a good story of "Ed" Sowles. Years ago he obtained leave to "write out his ideas" for a directors' meeting of the Vermont and Canada railroad. He appeared at Boston followed by a darkey carrying an old-fashioned carpet bag containing an enormous roll of manuscript, from which Sowles read "ideas" through a morning and an all afternoon session, until he wilted the collars of the entire party. When they broke up Lawyer Hard, of Burlington, asked Sowles which way he was going home, and Sowles replied by White River Junction.

"Oh, yes, of course, you couldn't go by Fitchburg anyhow."

"Why not, pray?" asked Sowles.

"Because you couldn't get that speech of yours through the tunnel."—Rutland Herald.

Didn't Want a Royal Scion.

Mamma—"Who is that young man you were walking with to-day?"

Edith—"Lord Fitznoodle. He is making a tour of America. He has a magnificent estate in England and lives like a prince."

Mamma—"Lives like a prince, does he? Mercy! don't recognize him again. I had no idea he was so bad as that."—Philadelphia Times.

Wanted To See His Nose.

Young Blabbitt has been making calls at stated intervals for some time in South Clinton. Last Sunday night he called, as usual, and after waiting an hour in the parlor the girl's little brother came in and in rather a sheepish manner asked to see Blabbitt's nose.

"See my nose!" exclaimed Blabbitt. "What do you want to see my nose for?"

"Well, Plummer Plunkitt was over last night and Maria promised to marry him, and ma said she thought you'd find your nose out of joint when you called again."

Making a Barber Relapse into Silence.

Gloomy and taciturn barber, sadly regarding the skull of a loquacious subject, "Hair's coming out, sir; falling out very fast, sir."

Light-minded and loquacious subject, very frivolously, "Yes; I was afraid it would. You put something on it last week for a dollar you said would bring it out."

Gloomy and taciturn barber relapses into dignified silence.

☞ All ladies should know that hoods, scarfs, ribbons and all fancy articles can be made any color wanted with Diamond Dyes. All the popular colors. 10c. at druggists. None equal them. Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt.

The first step to virtue is to love virtue in another.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

Furniture Polish.

Spirits of turpentine, ¼ pint; yellow wax, 1½ pounds, alkanet root (to color), ½ ounce. Melt and strain; apply with a cloth, and rub with a chamois skin to dry.

Cleansing Liquids.

Water in which potatoes have been boiled exercises remarkable cleansing properties upon silverware of all kinds, especially upon spoons discolored by eggs. Hyposulphite of soda dissolved in water will remove all tarnish from silverware in two or three applications, if applied with a soft cloth wet with the solution.

Eggs a la Mode.

Remove the skin from a dozen tomatoes, medium size, cut them up in a saucepan, add a little butter, pepper and salt; when sufficiently boiled beat up five or six eggs and, just before you serve, turn them into the saucepan with the tomatoes and stir one way for two minutes, allowing them time to be well done.

Egg Pudding.

Four eggs well beaten; four tablespoonfuls of flour; add to the eggs until a smooth mass; then add a pint of milk slowly, a pinch of salt. Beat all smooth together. Put in a well-buttered dish, and bake about twenty minutes. Eat with sauce made of butter and sugar beaten together to a cream; flavor with vanilla.

Unalterable Paste.

Take one tablespoonful of flour, add gradually one pint of cold water; boil slowly and stir well to prevent burning until it thickens; keep boiling till it becomes thin, add one teaspoonful of nitro-muriatic acid, and boil till it again thickens, when it is ready for use. This paste is harmless, cheap, and will neither turn sour nor mould.—Scientific American.

Cheese Ramakin.

Grate six ounces of good cheese on a coarse grater; sprinkle among it a tablespoonful of flour; add enough milk to moisten the cheese; then stir in three eggs, previously well beaten and mixed with a cup of milk. These, when mixed with the cheese and flour, should make a thin batter. Butter a small pie dish, fill it only half full with the batter, place a few slices of butter on it, and bake in a quick oven. When well risen in the dish, and of a good yellow color, which ought to be in about ten or fifteen minutes, when it is done, serve at once, before it falls.

Sweetbreads With Oranges.

Choose the largest and finest sweetbread you can get, gash it very lightly in two or three places, then baste it well with butter; when this is done, squeeze a Florida orange carefully over it, that some of the juice may get into the gashes, sprinkle with pepper and salt, and let it be carefully and thoroughly roasted; when the sweetbread is nearly done, prepare a little rich gravy, take up the sweetbread, squeeze another orange over it, and pour some of the gravy over it hot; serve on a flat dish, garnished with thin slices of orange from which the seeds have been extracted.—From Mary Stuart Smith's Virginia Cookery-Book.

Onde Sauce for Cold Meats.

Cut up two onions very fine, and brown them lightly in two ounces of clarified butter, stirring them to prevent their burning. Just as they are beginning to turn in color add a half-dozen minced chilies, a salt-spoon of salt, and an ounce of dried fish, shredded (haddock is the best for the purpose). Mix and stir these well together for a few minutes and then add, a little at a time, the juice of half a lemon, two tablespoonfuls of tomato pulp and a little water. Continue to stir the sauce while adding these, and until it becomes like thick paste, when it is ready to serve. This sauce will not keep, and should be used the day it is made.—The Caterer.

Delicious Tapioca Cream

To be eaten cold is made easily. Let two tablespoonfuls of tapioca soak all night in enough sweet milk to cover it, and a trifle more. In the morning heat one quart of milk to the boiling point, beat the yolks of three eggs with half a cup of sugar and the tapioca; when well mixed stir these in the boiling milk. Let it boil for a minute or two, or until you are sure it has all reached the boiling point, then remove it from the fire, flavor it with lemon or vanilla. Put it into the dish in which it is to be served. Beat the whites to a stiff froth, or, better still, have some one else do it, so that, while the tapioca is still hot, the meringue may be placed on the top. A tablespoonful of powdered sugar should be beaten with the eggs.

The Cookery of Milk

is very simple, but by no means unimportant. That there is an appreciable difference between raw and boiled milk may be proved by taking equal quantities of each (the boiled sample having been allowed to cool down), adding them to equal quantities of the same infusion of coffee, then critically tasting the mixtures. The difference is sufficient to have long since established the practice among all skilful cooks of scrupulously using boiled milk for making café au lait. I have tried a similar experiment on tea, and find that in this case the cold milk is preferable. Why this should be, why boiled milk should be better for coffee and raw milk for tea, I cannot tell. If any of my readers have not done so already let them try similar experiments with condensed milk, and I have no doubt that the verdict of the majority will be that it is passable with coffee, but very objectionable in tea. This is milk that has been very much cooked. The chief definable alteration effected by the boiling of milk is the congulation of the small quantity of albumen which it contains. This rises as it becomes solidified, and forms a skin-like scum on the surface, which may be lifted with a spoon and eaten, as it is perfectly wholesome and very nutritious. —Popular Science Monthly.

A REMARKABLE ESCAPE.

Mrs. Mary A. Dailey of Tunkhannock, Pa., was afflicted for six years with Asthma and Bronchitis, during which time the best physicians could give no relief. Her life was despaired of, until in last October she procured a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, when immediate relief was felt, and by continuing its use for a short time she was completely cured, gaining in flesh 50 lbs. in a few months. Free Trial Bottles of this certain cure of all Throat and Lung Diseases at Gayfer's Drug Store. Large bottles $1. 10t

The god of the bean—Cupid.

Use the Star Dyes if you want brilliant and fast colors.

A snow bawl—"Excelsior."

THE rock on which many a constitution goes to pieces is Dyspepsia. The loss of vigor which this disease involves, the maladies which accompany it, or which are aggravated by it, the mental despondency which it entails, are terribly exhaustive of vital stamina. Its true specific is Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, which likewise overcomes bilious maladies, female ailments, and those coupled with impurity of the blood.

Invisible blue—the wind.

Messrs. Parker & Laird, of Hillsdale, writes: Oh Mr. Laird having occasion to visit Scotland, and knowing the excellent qualities of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, concluded to take some with him, and the result has been very astonishing. We may say that in several instances it has effected cures when ailments had been pronounced incurable by eminent practitioners.

No pleasure is comparable to the standing upon the vantage ground of truth.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Diseases of Women.—Medical science in all ages has been directed to alleviate the many maladies incident to females, but Professor Holloway, by diligent study and attentive observation, was induced to believe that nature had provided a remedy for these special diseases. After vast research he succeed in compounding his celebrated Pills and Ointment, which embody the principle naturally designed for the relief and cure of disorders peculiar to women of all ages and constitutions, whether residing in warm or cold climates. They have repeatedly corrected disordered functions which had defied the usual drugs prescribed by medical men, and with the still more satisfactory result that the malady has been completely and permanently removed.

The way to gain a good reputation is to endeavour to be what you desire to appear.

Miscellaneous Items.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by John Gayfer. 74v-y

Humility is a virtue all preach, none practice, and yet everybody is content to hear.

MR. T. C. Wells, Chemist and Druggist, Port Colborne, Ont., writes: "Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure sells well, and gives the best of satisfaction for all diseases of the blood." It never fails to root out all diseases from the system, cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, etc, purifies the blood, and will make you look the picture of health and happiness.

He that wants money, means and content is without three good friends.

James Cullen, Pool's Island, N.F., writes—I have been watching the progress of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil since its introduction to this place, and with much pleasure state that my anticipations of its success have been fully realized, it having cured me of bronchitis and soreness of nose, while not a few of my 'rheumatic neighbours' (one old lady in particular) pronounce it to be the best article of its kind that has ever been brought before the public. Your medicine does not require any longer a sponsor, but if you wish me to act as such, I shall be only too happy to have my name connected with your prosperous child.

He who waits to do a great deal at once will never do anything.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF—Cleanse the scalp with Prof. Low's Magic Sulphur Soap. A delightful medicated soap for the toilet. 8t.

There will be plenty of oranges next winter.

A CRYING EVIL.—Children are often fretful and ill when Worms is the cause. Dr. Low's Worm Syrup safely expels all Worms. 8t.

Rubies and diamonds are now worn by brides.

Baxter's Mandrake Bitters cure indigestion, Heart Burn, Costiveness and all malarial diseases. 25 cents per bottle. 8t

A sailor died in Pensacola last week from taking six tablespoonfuls of salts.

THE reason why "Nonsuch Washing Compound" should be used in preference to all other washing preparations. First, It is perfectly harmless. Second, It saves more than half the labour. Third, It is the cheapest in the market. Many more could be given but this should be sufficient. For sale by all grocers. 84

The larger the crop the less the corn. A hen's motto.

WORMS often destroy children, but Freeman's Worm Powders destroy Worms, and expel them from the system. 8t.

Brass-finished bedsteads are now fashionable.

NATIONAL PILLS is the favorite purgative and anti-bilious medicine, they are mild and thorough. 8t.

The speculator loses hope when he loses "soap."

If you are troubled with a "hacking cough," Downs' Elixir will give you relief at once. Warranteed as recommended or money refunded. 8t.

Reducing the price of gas has no effect on the meters.

A misstep will often make a cripple for life. A bottle of Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment at hand, will not prevent the misstep, but used immediately it will save being a cripple. 8t.

High art—The labors of the hanging committee.

TIME, ITS VALUE.

To-day is ours, why should we care?
To-day is ours, why should we fear?
To-day is ours, why should we sorrow?
For to the gods belong to morrow.

Therefore for to-day, chew Gold Coin Tobacco, it is the best. 06

The blind pool is a poor place for small fry.

NO RIVAL IN THE FIELD.

There is no rival for Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. It is the acknowledged champion for the cure of all summer complaints. 10

All straw is alike to the hungry donkey.

HOPEFUL WORDS.

Mrs. McArthur, of Hopeville, Ont., says she could not keep house without Hagyard's Pectorial Balsam to cure prevailing throat and lung troubles. 10

Men are the most frequent purchasers of cough candies.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. 00

So far as we can remember no plumber has ever failed.

RESCUED AT LAST.

W. H. Crooker, druggist of Waterdown, says, when all other remedies fail for Bowel Complaints, then Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry comes to the rescue. [10

"Raw for me!" shouts the lover of oysters.

ITCHING PILES—SYMPTOMS AND CURE.

The symptoms are moisture, like perspiration, intense itching, increased by scratching, very distressing, particularly at night, seems as if pin-worms were crawling in and about the rectum; the private parts are sometimes affected. If allowed to continue very serious results may follow. "SWAYNE'S OINTMENT" is a pleasant, sure cure. Also for Tetter Itch, Salt Rheum Scald Head, Erysipelas, Barbers Itch, Blotches, all scaly, crusty Skin Diseases. Sent by mail for 50 cents; 3 boxes, $1.25 (in stamps). Address, DR. SWAYNE & SON, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Druggists

When a man's head swims there is generally more water than whiskey about it.

A SEARCH WARRANT.

If there is any lurking taint of scrofula in the system, Burdock Blood Bitters are warranted to search it out. 10

A man without a future—a bursted stock broker.

FOR OLD OR YOUNG.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the remedy for Cholera, Colic, Diarrhœa, and Dysentery. No person is safe without it. 10

A regular poser—The photographer.

PREJUDICED PEOPLE.

Many people are prejudiced against patent medicines, but all who try Burdock Blood Bitters are compelled to acknowledge it worthy a patent as a valuable discovery. (10

Queen of the May—the scrub-girl.

Why is an artist to be sharply looked after? Because he is a designing man.

REST AND COMFORT TO THE SUFFERING

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 1498vy

A "fly" fellow—The angler.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Trains leave Ingersoll as follows:

GOING WEST.	GOING EAST.
4:36 a. m.	6:50 a. m.
11:52 a. m.	12:15 a. m.
12:32 a. m.	3:05 p. m.
5:05 p. m.	5:48 p. m.
7:47 p. m.	7:00 p. m.
2:11 a. m.	12:20 p. m.

CATARRH.

CATARRH.—A New Treatment whereby this hitherto incurable disease is permanently cured in from one to three applications, no matter whether standing for one year or forty years. Descriptive pamphlet sent free on receipt of stamp. A. H. DIXON & SON, 305 King street west, Toronto, Canada. 1560yy

GOLD for the working class. Send 10 cents for postage, and we will mail you free a royal, valuable box of sample goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. We will start you. You can work all the time or in spare time only. The work is universally adapted to both sexes, young and old. You can easily earn from 50 cents to $5 every evening. That all who want work may test the business we make this unparalleled offer: to all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Fortunes will be made by those who give their whole time to the work. Great success absolutely sure. Don't delay. Start now. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

Engraved Visiting Cards, Pirie's Best Wedding Stationery, latest New York Styles at THE CHRONICLE Office. See samples.

SHAKER BLOOD SYRUP.

Cures Completely Scrofula, Syphilis, Cancer, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Ulcers and Skin and Blood Diseases of every description.

$1000 reward to any chemist who will find, on analysis of 100 bottles of the Blood Syrup, one particle of Mercury, Iodide of Potassium, or any mineral substance.

J. W. BROWETT. - DRUGGIST,
Sign of White Mortar,
THAMES STREET, INGERSOLL.

Get Your Bill-heads now at THE CHRONICLE OFFICE for Half Yearly Accounts. Best Work and Lowest Prices.

ADVERTISERS

Before you place a dollar's worth of Newspaper advertising, get our prices. The exact cost of any paper, or list of papers cheerfully furnished, free upon application.

Send for New Catalogue.

J. C. HOUCH,
Advertising Agent,
HOUCH BLOCK. Detroit, Mich.

JAS. McINTYRE
UNDERTAKER.

HAS REMOVED BACK TO HIS old stand in the

NEW BRICK BLOCK.

☞ A Large Stock of COFFINS, and CASKETS SHROUDS and ROBES on hand.

FURNITURE

All kinds in stock. ☞ Residence first house north of warehouse, King street, Ingersoll. nuber 22, 1881.

$66 a week at home. $5 outfit free. Pay absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make great pay all the time they work, with absolute certainty. Write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Me

Daly House Livery,
J. GUGGISBERG, Prop.

LEADING LIVERY IN TOWN.
Ingersoll, Jan. 3rd, 1884. 1582v-y

The Chronicle & Dairyman

Published weekly at Ingersoll, is by general admission the BEST PAPER for DAIRY NEWS IN CANADA. It gives the latest and most reliable reports of the leading dairy markets; reports of factory operations throughout the country; ably written reviews of the dairy market; discussions on dairy matters by practical dairymen; articles on the best breeds of cattle, and other matters of interest and use to dairymen generally. A trial will convince you of the merits of

The Chronicle & Dairyman

Which has the largest circulation among dairymen generally in all parts of the Province. It is therefore a most desirable advertising medium for those who wish to reach this large and influential class. If you have an article to sell which is used by dairymen; if you want to rent, sell, or buy a cheese factory; if you want a situation as cheese maker, or want to engage one, advertise in

The Chronicle & Dairyman

Examine a sample copy, which will be sent free upon receipt of a postal card. Terms, $1.50 per year. Address

THE CHRONICLE & DAIRYMAN,
INGERSOLL, ONT.

Canada Pacific Railway.

ONTARIO DIVISION.

COMMENCING MONDAY, MAY 19, 1884.

Trains leave Ingersoll as follows:

GOING EAST.	GOING WEST.
5.35 a.m.	7.18 a.m.
12.30 a.m.	10.47 a.m.
3.20 p.m.	4.21 p.m.
7.11 p.m.	8.45 p.m.

An additional train will be run in connection with the

Canadian Pacific Steamship Line,

Leaving Toronto, 11.30 a.m., for Owen Sound.

W. WHYTE, Gen. Supt.
D. McNICOLL, Gen. Pass. Agent.
Ingersoll, May 22nd, 1884. 1602

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

WM. C. BELL

Having bought the Lumber belonging to the

Estate of the late ADAM OLIVER

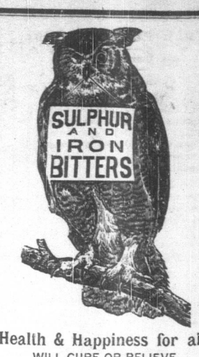
And RENTED THE MILL, he is prepared to execute all

Carpenter & Joiner Work

Entrusted to him. He will also

Contract for Buildings!

OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS,



And supply House Building material at the very lowest prices. It is a well known fact, from the easy financial position of the late firm, they were always ahead of the times in having thoroughly seasoned lumber, and from which all his inside work will be manufactured. A specialty in making

VENETIAN BLINDS,

Which can be made to order in short notice. GIVE HIM A CALL.

WM. C. BELL.
Ingersoll, Feb. 1st, 1883. 1553

HORSE BOOK. Send 25 cts to THE CHRONICLE Office, Ingersoll, for a sample copy of a new Horse Book. It treats all diseases of the horse, and has a large number of receipts, and is pronounced the best book ever printed for the price. Profusely illustrated, and sells at sight. Agents claim it to be the best selling book they ever canvassed with. Try it. Agents wanted.

Health & Happiness for all.
WILL CURE OR RELIEVE
Biliousness, Headache, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dizziness, Jaundice, Dropsy, Fluttering of the Heart,
And every species of disease arising from Impure Blood, &c. &c.
PREPARED BY THE Climax Chemical Company,
MONTREAL.

A CURE CUARANTEED

MAGNETIC MEDICINE.

For Old and Young. Male and Female.

Positively cures Nervousness in all its stages, Weak Memory, Loss of Brain Power, Sexual Frostration, Night Sweats, Spermatorrhœa; Leucorrhœa, Barrenness, Seminal Weakness, and General Loss of Power. It repairs Nervous Waste, Rejuvenates, the Jaded Intellect. Strengthens the enfeebled br

FOUNDED 1853.

THE INGERSOLL CHRONICLE,

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

G. F. GURNETT, Proprietor.

TERMS for THE CHRONICLE AND DAIRYMAN, by mail, or called for at the office of publication, or at the bookstores, $1.50 in advance; $2.50 if not so paid. Delivered at homes, or business places of subscribers, in town, $1.75 in advance, or $2.75 if not so paid.

The CHRONICLE AND DAIRYMAN has more readers than all the remaining newspapers published in Ingersoll and the South Riding of Oxford cotabined. This important fact should be borne in mind by advertisers.

It has the largest circulation among Canadian Dairymen, being devoted specially to the interests of that class.

☞ Printing by Steam Power in all its branches. ☜

ADVERTISING RATES.

☞ Advertisements will be inserted in THE CHRONICLE AND DAIRYMAN, at 8 cents per line for the first insertion, and 3 cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

For legal and official advertisements the charge is 10 cents per line for the first, and 5 cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

Condensed advertisements:—Servants wanted—Articles Wanted—Lost or Found—Strayed—To Rent or For Sale—Board—Situations Wanted, or Vacant, etc., (one inch or under) will be published at the rate of 50 cts. for the first insertion, and 25 cts. for each subsequent insertion.

Ten cents per line for the first insertion and five cents per line for each subsequent insertion, is the charge for inserting "special notices" with reading matter and in the same type.

Professional cards, not exceeding 6 lines, will be inserted one year for $5; 50 cents per line per year for each line over six lines.

Commercial advertisements, ordinarily displayed matter, will be inserted at the following rates:—

Time.	2 In.	¼ Col. 3 In.	½ Col. 6 In.	¾ Col. 12 In.	1 Col. 24 In.
1 week..	$1 50	$ 2 50	$ 4 00	$ 6 00	$ 10 00
2 weeks..	2 25	3 75	6 00	9 00	15 00
3 weeks..	2 70	4 50	7 20	10 80	18 00
4 weeks..	3 00	5 00	8 00	12 00	20 00
5 weeks..	3 30	5 50	8 80	13 20	22 00
6 weeks .	3 60	6 00	9 60	14 40	24 00
2 months.	4 50	7 50	12 00	18 00	30 00
3 months.	6 00	10 00	15 00	24 00	40 00
6 months.	9 00	15 00	24 00	40 00	60 00
12 months	15 00	22 00	40 00	60 00	100 00

The above contract prices do not give the right to advertise Houses or Farms for Sale, or to Rent, Clerks, Domestics or Servants Wanted, Articles Lost or Found, Entertainments, Auction Sales, &c., but extend exclusively to the legitimate commercial announcements, ordinarily displayed matter, of the persons contracting. Solid matter will be charged at the rate of 8 and 3 cents per line.

J. F. McDONALD, LL. B.,

BARRISTER AND ATTORNEY-at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Notary Public, &c.

OFFICE—Thames street, Ingersoll

M. WALSH,

BARRISTER, NOTARY PUBLIC, Solicitor in the Supreme Court of Ontario, &c. Money to lend at lowest rates, Mortgages Bought and Sold.

OFFICE up Stairs, Walsh's Block, Thames Street, Ingersoll, Ont.

W. W. HOLCROFT,

BARRISTER, ATTORNEY, SOLICITOR, Notary Public, Conveyancer, &c.; $100,000, private funds, to loan at 6 and 7 per cent. Mortgages, Debentures and Notes bought. Office formerly occupied by the late Mr. McCaughey. Thames street, Ingersoll.

J. C. BEGLER,

BARRISTER ATTORNEY, SOLICITOR, &c. Money to loan at eight per cent.

OFFICE:—Over Molsons Bank, King Street

G. J. CHARLESWORTH, M. B.

L. T. M. S., M. C. P. S., Ont. L. R. C. P. & L. M., Edinburgh.

Office—Thames Street, over Nelles & Stevens', next to Brownett's Drug Store. Residence—Charles Street first place west of Hadden's Carriage Factory, Ingersoll. Calls night and day promptly attended to. March 29th, 1884. 1503v-y

DR. McKAY,

L. R. C. P. & L. M., EDINBURGH. Coroner for the County of Oxford, Graduate of the Royal College of Physicians, Edinburgh. Late Surgeon in the British Marine Service. Office, Thames Street, Ingersoll.

J. ARTHUR WILLIAMS, M. D.,

M. R. C. S. AND L. M., ENGLAND. L. R. C. P., London; Aurist and Oculist Office with Dr. Hoyt, King Street, Ingersoll.

CHARLES KENNEDY,

SURGEON DENTIST. LICENSED by the Royal College of Dental Surgery, Ont. teeth extracted without pain by the use of Nitrous de Gas, etc., if desired. Special attention paid to the preservation of natural teeth.

Office on King street, opposite the "Thompson house," Ingersoll. 884v

W. A. SUDWORTH.,

SURGEON DENTIST, MEMBER of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, Graduate of Ont. Dental College. Anæsthetic administered for the painless extraction of teeth. Office opposite the Market, Ingersoll.

H. W. HILL.

PRODUCE and Commission Merchant, Agent for the Empire Loan Association. Money to loan at lowest rates on farm and town property. Market Square, Woodstock

January 31st, 1884. 1536v y

W. R. BURKE

PROVINCIAL LAND SURVEYOR AND DRAUGHTSMAN,

OFFICE AT TELEGRAPH OFFICE.

I have disposed of all my plans, field notes and bearings to Mr. W. R. Burke, P. L. Surveyor, of Ingersoll, which have been collected by myself during the past 30 years while practicing in the County of Oxford. All parties wishing surveying done, will do well to employ Mr. Burke, he now having so much valuable information relative to surveys in this County. Signed,

W. G. WONHAM,
P. L. Surveyor.

May 8th, 1884. 1600v-y

JAMES BRADY,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER

INGERSOLL, ONT.,

Is prepared to attend all sales in town or country. Ingersoll, April 20th, 1882. 1493

Imperial Bank of Canada

HEAD OFFICE, - TORONTO.

Capital Paid Up, $1,500,000.
Rest, - - 650,000.

Purchases Municipal Debentures, Issues Drafts on its branches and agencies in the North-West. Transfers Moneys by Telegrams to Winnipeg and Brandon. Dealers in Sterling Exchange. Savings Department—Deposits received and interest allowed. Agents in London, Messrs. Bosanquet, Salt & Co., 73 Lombard street, with whom moneys for transmission from Great Britain to Ontario and the North-West may be deposited.

D. R. WILKIE Cashier.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.

Deposits of $1 and upward received and Interest allowed thereon at current rates.

INGERSOLL BRANCH,

J. A. RICHARDSON, Manager.

MERCHANT'S BANK OF CANADA.

CAPITAL - $5,700,000
RESERVE - $1,250,000

INGERSOLL BRANCH.

THIS BANK TRANSACTS A General Banking Business, Buys and Sells Exchange on England and the United States, and issues Drafts on New York and all parts of Canada.

Particular attention paid to collections for Customers and Banks.

A. M. SMITH. Manager.

BANK OF LONDON

IN CANADA.

CAPITAL, $1,000,000.00.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

HY. TAYLOR, Pres. J. LABATT, Vice-Pres.
A. M. SMART, Cashier.
W. R. MEREDITH, Q.C., M.P.P. T. LONG.
BENJ. CRONYN. THOS. FAWCETT.
ISAAC BANKS. THOS. KENT.
N. REID. JNO MORRISON.

INGERSOLL BRANCH.

A Branch of the Bank of London, has been opened in Ingersoll, in the premises recently occupied by The Molsons Bank.

A General Banking Business

Transacted. Collections on all points in Canada and United States made promptly, at reasonable rates. Draft is issued on New York and all points in Canada. LIBERAL INTEREST ALLOWED ON DEPOSITS which can be withdrawn at any time.

C. W. M. SIMPSON,
Acting Manager.

Ingersoll, March 27, 1884 1594

Electro Plate GOODS

—AT—

R. W. WOODROOFE'S

JEWELLERY STORE,

Thames Street, - Ingersoll.

The Ingersoll Chronicle,

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

VOL. XXXI.—NO. 47. INGERSOLL, ONTARIO. THURSDAY, JULY 24, 1884. WHOLE NO. 1615.

THE CANADA LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY.

ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1883.

Assets - - -	$5,617,623
Interest on Investments -	335,967
New Policies Written -	2,178
Amount of New Policies -	$4,534,660
Death Claims Paid - -	$289,660
Premiums Received - -	$842,889

It will be noticed the interest on investments more than pays the death claims.

The Canada Life is a home company and has been doing business for 37 years.

Its rates are moderate while its profits are larger than those of other companies.

Policies indisputable after two years.

Claims paid immediately on proof of death.

Thirty days grace allowed for payment of premiums.

The profits will equal if not exceed those of any previous Division.

For every information apply to

H. O'CONNOR, Jr., - AGET,

INGERSOLL & DISTRICT.

June 12th, 1884. 1605

LONDON AND LANCASHIRE

Life Assurance Com'y

OF ENGLAND.

Head Office for Canada,

217 St. James St., Montreal.

☞ Policies unconditional and rate as low as absolute security will admit.

☞ Reserves deposited annually with Government, thus rendering the policies unquestionable as to security

Funds invested in Canada over $300,000 and increasing yearly.

Every desirable Form of Policy Issued

WM. ROBERTSON,
MANAGER

Ingersoll, June 26, 1884. 1550v-y

London Loan Company,

LONDON ONTARIO.

$100,000 to lend at Lowest Rates,

Short loans at one and two per cent. Apply to

M. J. KENT, Manager,

London, Feb 20, 1884. 1557v-y

VITAL QUESTIONS!!!

Ask the most eminent physicians

Of any school, what is the best thing in the world for quieting and allaying all irritation of the nerves, and curing all forms of nervous complaints, giving natural, childlike refreshing sleep always?

And they will tell you unhesitatingly

"Some form of Hops."

CHARTER

Ask any or all of the most eminent physicians

"What is the best and only remedy that can be relied on to cure all diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs, such as Bright's disease, diabetes, retention, or inability to retain urine, and all the diseases and ailments peculiar to Women?"

"And they will tell you explicitly and emphatically Buchu

Ask the same physicians

"What is the most reliable and surest cure for all liver diseases or dyspepsia, constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malaria, fever, ague, &c." and they will tell you

"Mandrake or Dandelion"

Hence, when these remedies are combined with others equally valuable.

And compounded into Hop Bitters, such a wonderful and mysterious curative power is developed, which is so varied in its operations that no disease or ill health can possibly exist or resist its power, and yet it is

Harmless for the most frail woman, weakest invalid or smallest child to use

CHAPTER II.

Patients

"Almost dead or nearly dying

For years, and given up by physicians, of Bright's and other kidney diseases, liver complaints, severe coughs, called consumption, have been cured.

Women gone nearly crazy

From agony of neuralgia, nervousness, wakefulness, and various diseases peculiar to women.

People drawn out of shape from excruciating pangs of rheumatism, inflammatory and chronic, or suffering from scrofula.

Erysipelas

"Saltrheum, blood poisoning, dyspepsia, indigestion, and, in fact, almost all diseases and

Nature is heir to

Have been cured by Hop Bitters, proof of which can be found in every neighborhood in the known world.

☞ None genuine without a bunch of green Hops on the white label. Shun all the vile, poisonous stuff with "Hop" or "Hops" in their name.

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA AND SUGAR-COATED PILLS, The Great Purifiers OF THE BLOOD AND LIVER

KIDNEY-WORT

DOES WONDERFUL CURES OF KIDNEY DISEASES AND LIVER COMPLAINTS,

Why ?

Because it acts on the LIVER, BOWELS and KIDNEYS at the same time.

Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary Diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Disorders and all Female Complaints.

☞ SOLID PROOF OF THIS.

IT WILL SURELY CURE CONSTIPATION, PILES, and RHEUMATISM,

By causing FREE ACTION of all the organs and functions, thereby

CLEANSING the BLOOD

restoring the normal power to throw off disease.

THOUSANDS OF CASES

of the worst forms of these terrible diseases have been quickly relieved, and in a short time

PERFECTLY CURED.

PRICE, $1. LIQUID OR DRY, SOLD BY DRUGGISTS. Dry can be sent by mail.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & Co., Burlington, Vt.

☞ Send stamp for Diary Almanac for 1884.

KIDNEY-WORT

VANCE'S BAKERY

continues to be the place where the public get a full assortment of

CAKES AND CONFFCTIONERY

Soda Biscuits and Oyster Crackers,

Manufactured on the premises, and consequently always fresh.

Tea Parties Supplied. Bride Cakes Made and Neatly Ornamented at Reasonable Rates.

A large assortment of Ornamental Cake Tops an Flowers always on hand.

Fresh Bread and Buns Every Day.

R. VANCE,
Thames Street.

☞ Bread delivered in town dail .

Never Again.

BY CARLOTTA PERRY.

"Never again," I say it over,
Say it over with silent tears;
Never again, O faithless lover,
In all the waiting years.
Lo, it lies in my trembling fingers,
The simple words from your cruel pen;
And over the past my memory lingers
As I say it, 'Nev-r again."

You who have known in fullest measure
Every thought that my life has known;
You who have felt in pain or pleasure
My heart beat with your own.
Can you with calm decreeing, sever
The joy and sorrow cemented tie
That we thought would last through a vast Forever?
Not so, dea: heart, can I.

"Never again, whate'er betide us."
So you said to me years ago.
"Never again shall aught divide us,
Whatever the years may know."
My heart beat high with happy wonder,
Over the dear words whispered then;
Now the same heart breaketh under
Your merciless "Never again."

Modjeska's Callers.

Mme. Modjeska was relating the other night to a select circle of acquaintances an experience which befell her early in the season in a distant western town. One afternoon she received a summons to attend upon two lady callers in the reception-room, and, as the summons was couched in rather imperative tones, Mme. Modjeska went down. There was one elderly female and one youngish girl. The eldest was tall and stout, and obviously the mother of her companion, who struck Mme. Modjeska as a chronic invalid. The conversation, as deliciously mimicked by the actress, was as follows:

"Are you Modjeska?"

"Yes."

"The play actress? Well, my daughter, here, wants to go on the stage."

"Indeed? What are her acquirements?"

"Eh? Well, ma'am, you'll have to speak a little louder than that, because, you see, my daughter is rather hard of hearing."

Mme. Modjeska spoke louder. The young lady answered rather thickly and with difficulty.

"Has she ever acted?" asked Modjeska.

"No," responded the woman, "I can't say as she has ever acted, but we've tried her at pretty much everything else and couldn't do nothing with her, so we thought she might do for the stage."

"Oh," said Modjeska.

"Yes," smiled the woman.

"She seems ill," said Modjeska. "What is the matter with her?"

"Nothing only epilepsy, ma'am. She has that now and then, but ain't a very bad case."

Mme. Modjeska gasped slightly. Then she arose with dignity and said something about the stage being neither a hospital nor a refuge for people who were good at nothing else. After having thus delivered herself she departed, leaving the maternal caller in great indignation as to "stuck up folks."—N. Y. Times.

How She Got Her Bonnet.

"Come, darling," said a pretty young wife to her husband the other day, "come, now, won't you buy me one of those lovely hats?" They're only eleven dollars, and they're just too sweet for any use."

"Eleven dollars? Why, Cinderella, I couldn't raise eleven dollars to-day to save my soul from gehenna!"

"Oh! Yes, you could," she said coaxingly.

"No. Upon my word I couldn't."

"Oh! Yes, you could now."

"But I could not, Cinderella; positively I could not."

"Well, then, I guess I'll have to get along without it; but I did want one to wear to the theatre to-night so bad."

"To the theatre?"

"Yes."

"How are you going to the theatre?"

"Oh! I'm going with somebody that has money enough to take me. He is such a dear old fellow, too, and he will give me the money if I ask him."

"Now, Cinderalla, don't make a fool of yourself. Who are you going to the theatre with?"

"A man, of course, and a good, kind man, too. One who will do anything in this world I ask him to. Oh, I've gone to places lots of times with him when you didn't know anything about it."

"Say, Cinderella, who is it?"

"That's telling. I've known him ever so long (and he is so good—and sweet."

"Say, Cinderella, tell me who he is and I will get you the hat."

"Oh! you can't raise the money."

"I will raise it."

"Well, if you will promise not to hurt him and will bring me one of those lovely hats I will tell you who it is, and I won't go to the theatre with him unless you are willing."

There, that's a good girl. Now, who is it?"

"You faithfully promise all that?"

"Yes."

"And you won't get mad?"

"No."

"Why, then, it s—it's papa."

The load was lifted and the hat came.

An Incident of Fashionable Life.

A lady prominent in New York society had reason to suspect a gentleman who was in the habit of calling on her of a tenderness for the Frenchwoman in her service. Accordingly, on one occasion, she deliberately sent Marie down stairs to say to him that she—the mistress—would follow in a few moments. Instead of lingering behind she came close on Marie's heels, and had the satisfaction of finding her in the arms of the New York club gallant, who was imprinting a salute upon her willing lips. "Marie!" said the lady, "hereafter you will receive your visitors in the kitchen!" And with that the lady turned and left the room.

Came Very Near Being Twins.

"How much you resemble your sister," said Mrs. Hallibash to Miss Ophelia Dogstar, an absent-minded young lady. "You look so much alike that I can scarcely tell you apart when both of you are together."

"We do favor each other considerably, and ma says that the resemblance is so great that we came very near being twins, and I would have hated it so much to have been a twin."

Bryant's Tender Conscience.

A very pretty anecdote is told of the late William Cullen Bryant, the poet, by a former associate in his newspaper office, which illustrates the good man's simplicity of heart. Says the narrator:

"One morning, many years ago, after reaching the office and trying in vain to begin work, he turned to me and remarked:

"'I cannot get along this morning.'

"'Why not?' I asked.

"'Oh,' he replied. 'I have done wrong. When on my way here a little boy flying a kite passed me. The string of the kite having rubbed against my face I seized it and broke it. The boy lost his kite, but I did not stop to pay him for it. I did wrong. I ought to have paid him.'"

This tenderness of conscience went far toward making the poet the kindly, noble, honorable and honored man that he was, whose death was felt as a loss throughout the land.

She Was So Sorry.

One of our young men went into a cigar store the other day for a few of his favorite brand, and as the German countess handed him his "Henry Clay" over the counter he observed:

"Henry Clay is dead."

"Ish dot so?" replied the tender-hearted girl. "I vos so sorry, for he did make goot cigars."—Oil City Derrick.

"OUIDA."

Her Name, Fortune, Dwelling, Appearance, Habits, and Disposition.

A Florence correspondent says: Louisa de la Ramee is of French extraction, her grandfather having been a Frenchman; but she is English on both sides of the house, having been born at Bury St. Edmunds, Suffolk, forty-three years ago. The story runs that her father and mother, being inharmonious in their domestic relations, separated during her girlhood—he coming to the Continent, and she remaining in England. Ouida's youth was passed in various countries, so that she may be said to have no particular nationality. She speaks fluently French, Italian, and German, as well as her native tongue, and writes these foreign languages with facility.

If Ouida's books (she derived her pen-name from the childish pronunciation by her little niece, of her first name, which is Louisa de la Ramee) are not quite appreciated by the critics, they are appreciated by her publishers, for they sell largely and rapidly. Her first novel, "Held in Bondage," brought her, I understand, $3,000, and she now gets at least $10,000 for every new work in three volumes that she writes. She has grown so popular within the last eight or ten years that she can make very favorable terms with publishers, and she never neglects, it is said, her own interests. "Moths" and "Friendship" have been exceedingly profitable, yielding her to date, respectively, $14,000 and $15,000, and are still in demand.

She is reported to have made from $250,000 to $300,000 by her writings, and her money has been so well invested that her income is estimated at $15,000 a year, considered very large in Italy. When to this is added her annual earnings by the pen, it is not strange that she is counted here as very rich.

The celebrated authoress lives in a handsome villa outside the gates, furnished and decorated handsomely and expensively. It is full of pictures, engravings, statuettes, bronzes, books, and all sorts of bric-a-brac, for which she has great fondness and fine taste. If she has little love for her own kind, she loves dogs, horses, cats, birds, and animals generally, leaving in her house many of them. She often says that they are neither perfidious nor ungrateful, and that to call a man a dog, as most men are constituted, is a compliment that he seldom merits. She drives out daily, when the weather is pleasant, and is usually accompanied by two or three dogs.

Everybody in and about Florence knows her by sight. She is a rather striking figure, being tall and well formed, and having a strong, remembrable face, with light eyes and an abundance of yellow hair. She dresses handsomely and expensively, but in an unconventional manner, and always in good taste. At times she is overloaded with color and ornaments, and then, again, she is simple in attire to a point of severity. It would seem that she enjoys attracting attention and making a sensation, although she pretends otherwise. An American artist here calls her a feminine imitator of Byron, for whom she cherishes an enthusiastic admiration. She also adores Heinrich Heine and Leopardi, which shows that the bent of her mind is sombre and cynical. In fact most of her literary tastes are what would be denominated unhealthful. Her novels of life are not cheerful, and her countenance is generally marred by an expression of unamiability. What has made her bitter nobody knows. It is due partly to temperament and partly to circumstances. Her early life has probably been such as to sour her. Moreover, she is an idealist, and, consequently, doomed to disappointment in all her relations with the world.

The poor are very much attached to Ouida, which is natural, as she is very kind to them personally and pecuniarily. She gives freely and largely in charity, and she is said never to hear of a case of indigence and suffering which she does not try to relieve. On the whole, she appears to be a strong, earnest, generous, honorable, pure-minded woman, whose faults are merely on the surface. She believes she does much good by exposing the weaknesses and meannesses and vices of society, and by presenting patterns of men and women who put the common creatures of life to shame. She travels a good deal, spending six or seven months here, the rest of the year in France and England. She has a few friends who are devoted to her, and for them and them alone she is goodness itself. With all her talents and success she is discontented, and is, inwardly, a solitary and unsatisfied soul.—Philadelphia Press.

How a Paris Actress Played Two Suitors.

A funny story reaches us, in which two Russian noblemen and a favorite Parisian actress played the principal parts. Both of the aristocrats were suitors for the fair lady's smiles, and both seemed equally esteemed by her. It would appear that in Russia, as well as in many other countries, a lock of hair is considered a signal pledge of the tender passion; but if the truth must be told, few of our theatrical divinities are endowed with profuse chevelures; and if they were, the incessant demand would soon exhaust the supply! Mademoiselle Alice glories in the possession of auburn ringlets, and would not part with them for less than a duchy. Her Russian admirers the Count de L. and the Baron de M., both happened to have hair of the same golden hue as that of their mutual Dulcinea. Each begged a tress of her hair in exchange for a lock of his own; to which the charming creature readily assented; and without touching a single tuft of her head cunningly managed to effect an exchange of parcels, by which each gentleman received a curl of his rival's capillaries. The count now wears the baron's hair next his heart, and the baron sleeps with the count's scalp-lock under his pillow. What terrible deceivers these female women are!

Paper Carpets.

The latest use devised for paper is the making of carpets. A Connecticut man is reported to have taken out patents for processes by which beautiful and substanial carpets can be made of paper at very low prices.

Not For His Approval.

"I didn't like your prayer very much this morning," said a deacon to the minister.

"No?" answered the minister. "And what was the matter with it?"

"Well, in the first place it was too long, and, aside from this, it contained two or three expressions which I thought were scarcely warranted."

"I am sorry, deacon," the good man responded, "but it might be well to bear in mind that the prayer wasn't addressed to you."—Philadelphia Call

"Sweet are the Uses of Adversity."

"That's a very unfortunate town of yours," said a man the other day to a citizen of the town referred to. "I see you have had three blocks destroyed by fire within the past two years."

"On the contrary," remarked the citizen from the burnt district, "ours is a very lucky town. When the fire burns out an old block, we take the insurance money and build a finer block and still have a nice balance left in the bank."

——"Why! What's the matter?" Lady—(With face enveloped in roll of hot cloths)—"Oh! I'm crazy with that Neuralgia that continually troubles me."

——"Well, how foolish! Why don't you go to Gayfer's or Kneeshaw's Drug Store and get a bottle of Fluid Lightning? It cured me in less than one minute. I always keep a bottle in the house. It only costs 25 cts."

QUEER GAMBLING.

A Cabman Whistles for Ten Dollars, and a Hundred Brokers Yell Whoa!

One of the most amusing cases of gambling that I ever saw was in Broad street. It was about 4 o'clock one summer afternoon, and there were several hundred brokers wandering about in front of the Stock Exchange and talking about the day. It had been a particularly stormy day, and the men were idly chatting in the shade, when an old cab-horse started from New street up Broad to the corner of Wall street. This block of Broad street is a bit of a hill. The cabman, who was sitting on a fire-plug on the upper corner, whistled to his horse, which was standing in the shade a block below. The horse wandered up ten or fifteen feet and then stopped. The cabby whistled again. The horse struggled up fifteen or twenty feet more. By easy stages he finally arrived at the top of the hill. The performance amused the brokers, who yelled to the horse to stop and go on. The animal would obey them spasmodically, but in the end he heeded his master's whistle and went on.

One of the most popular young brokers caught an idea, and rushing along he explained it rapidly to the boys. Then he took his hat, collected $2 from each of them, explained the matter to the driver and led the old cab horse back to the lower corner, turned him around and placed him in a position to travel up the hill along the curb again. The brokers then ranged themselves along the curbstone at any distance apart that suited their fancy, and the leader of the scheme got a piece of chalk from one of the bucket-shops and marked out lines along the curbstone at the distance of about two feet apart. Each of the brokers chose one of these lines and stood by it. The pool, which amounted to nearly $200, was to go to the man near whose chalk-mark the hub of the rear wheel stopped, the hub to remain opposite the chalk-mark for thirty seconds by the watch of an official timekeeper. The cabman was to receive $10 for whistling to the best of his ability, and if the horse got to the top of the block without stopping anywhere he was to renew the trial until too weary to go the length of the block if it kept him awake all night.

Here was the spectacle of nearly 100 men, fully three-quarters of them of dignified appearance and well-dressed and prosperous-looking, and many of them apparently opulent, ranged along the curbstone shouting wildly at each other and gesticulating violently toward the horse. The time-keeper sat on the roof of his cab with his hat on the back of his head, a cigar in his mouth and a watch in his hands. The brokers were permitted to yell at the beast, but under no circumstances to touch him. The cabman whistled. The brokers yelled "Whoa!" with a force that brought the people from the neighboring streets to learn the nature of the row. The horse stood stock still. The cabby whistled. Another terrific yell from the brokers. Then, with a jump, the horse started on a dead gallop up the hill, spilled the time-keeper from the top of the cab and went around the corner of Wall street with a howling mob of 200 men and boys after him.

It was a rousing hot day, and the dust was choking. Still the brokers kept at it. The beast was brought back and started again. After two more trials he ambled nimbly up the hill and then suddenly and stubbornly stopped and couldn't be made to move by the wildest shouts of the men about him. He stayed more than half a minute in this place, and a dispute arose between two brokers as to who had won the $200, because the hub had stopped between their two chalk-marks. They flipped a quarter, and the winner took a crowd of men into Delmonico's, opened a case or two of wine, and gave the cab driver $10 to take him home.

A Paralytic's Sudden Recovery.

An Italian cripple, while on his way to Virginia City, Nev., was cured of his infirmity in a miraculous manner while at Gordon's ranch, about six miles north of the city. On Tuesday evening a stout, burly-looking fellow, wheeling a barrow containing an apparently helpless cripple, made his appearance at Gordon's house and solicited alms for himself and the invalid who he said he was taking to the hospital in Virginia City to be treated for paralysis of the lower extremities. Mr. Gordon provided them with food and sleeping accommodations. But it seems they quarrelled during the night (probably over a division of previous profits), and the working partner decamped, leaving the cripple to shift for himself.

In the morning Mr. Gordon, moved to pity by the fellow's helpless state, sent two men to wheel him out to the road, expecting a team to pass that way which would convey him to the city. A Spanish bull of an inquiring disposition which happened to be grazing in a field they were compelled to cross, surprised at such an unusual sight, determined to investigate the contents of the barrow and made a furious charge at the cortege.

The men wheeling the cripple declined the interview on general principles and dropped the barrow, leaving the cripple to take care of himself—which he did. He sprang to his feet like a grasshopper and lit out across the field like a jack rabbit with nine dogs after it. He was the first man over the fence, and the last seen of that paralytic was his coat tail protruding through a small cloud of dust. That he was most thoroughly cured of his distressing infirmity is inferred from the fact that he never returned for the barrow.

Literary Fame.

Fame is an uncertain possession. A gentleman well known in the literary world was presented to a lady the other evening at a fashionable gathering. "Your name seems very familiar," remarked the lady. "Perhaps," intimated the friend who had made the presentation, "you have seen it in print." "Perhaps I have," replied the lady, plaintively, "but I thought I might have seen it on a sign, I am so forgetful."—Jenny June in N.Y. World.

—Great Britain consumes, annually, 4,000,000 tons of potatoes, of which 200,000 tons are imported, while the remainder are raised on 541,000 acres of land

Had Got Used to That Sort of Thing.

"I hear you are going to embark in the manufacture of gun powder," remarked a Third street banker to a Pearl street man on 'Change the other day.

"That's the proposition now before the house," he replied.

"Ain't you afraid to go into that kind of business?"

"Of course I'm not. There's no more risk of losing money than in any other business."

"I know that, but I should think you'd be afraid of being blown up."

"Blown up?"

"Certainly. Ain't you afraid of that?"

"Well, not hardly! I've been married for twenty five years."

Why Flowers are Like Whiskey.

First citizen—(Contemplating some bouquets in a florist's window)—"Flowers are such beautiful things."

Second Citizen—"And yet they are like whiskey in one respect."

First Citizen—"What respect do you refer to?"

Second Citizen—"They make a nose gay: so does whiskey."

She Has a Will of Her Own.

"Mary, be careful, my child, when going out. Have a will of your own."

"Oh, I've got a Will of my own, mother; but he can't be with me all the time."

Odd, But Even.

It is quite a number of years since this old camel story trotted along the sands of time, but the Detroit Free Press starts the ancient animal on its travels again. This is how it happened: Abou Ben Eli McGuffin, being full of years, died, leaving to his three sons his seventeen camels for the simple reason that he could not take them along with him. The will, duly attested, said the eldest was to have one half, the second son one-third, and the youngest one-ninth of the seventeen camels. The boys were a little perplexed at this as it seemed to involve the cutting up of a camel, and camels were worth three dollars a day on the Sahara that season. But the boys, if not first-class mathematicians, had level heads, and did not go to law to prove the old man insane, but went instead to the good old Cadi Hassan O'Donohue, who had taken a medal at mathematics at Ann Arbor.

"Boys," said the good old Cadi reproachfully, "you should not bother me with those little matters. Ask me a harder one."

But seeing they were troubled the benevolent old man asked the hostler to trot out his own dilapidated camel, which had seen its best days travelling with Barnum as the sacred Gnu of Persia.

Placing the aged brute with the seventeen camels the boys had brought along, he said:

"There are eighteen camels. I shall now give you half of the eighteen, which is nine. How does that strike you?"

"It hits me where I live," said the eldest, who was slangy, but withal pleased at getting half of eighteen rather than half of seventeen.

"The next boy shall have one-third of eighteen, which is six. Are you there, Moriarity?"

"You bet," said the boy.

"The next will have one ninth of eighteen, which is two," and so the third youngster collared his two camels. Thus two and six and nine make seventeen, and still was the good Cadi's ancient animal left unscathed. The people marveled, as the Cadi had given each more than the will called for, which is rather unusual in courts of law. And they said one to another, "That's what it is to be good at figures."

A Dude Who Was Not Posted on Weaning Infants.

There is a real dude in Evansville who is noted for the immaculate whiteness of his linen (but is not noted for paying his bills.)

His bosom friends can't understand how he manages to get his washing done, but he has given them to understand that he is very "solid" with his washerwoman on account of his being such a smooth talker.

Next week his linen will not look so well, and the reason is this: He went yesterday to his washerwoman, who, by the way, is an honest, modest, hard-working woman, to get his stock of collars and cuffs for next week.

He walked in and stood sucking his cane for a moment, wondering what kind of a line of conversation to start in order to put her in such a good humor that she would let him take his duds without paying. Noticing a baby crying and tossing around on her lap he thought he would indulge in a little taffy.

"That's a fine child you have there." (He don't know as much about children as a bucksaw does.)

"Yes, he's a fine boy," said the fond mother.

"He don't seem very well to-day." (He guessed at this because the child was so restful.)

"No, poor little fellow. He's awful fretful. I'm just weaning him to-day and it's hard on him."

"Yes, awful hard on a child," murmured the dude, who, by the way, hadn't the least idea what weaning is; "have you ever weaned him before?"

"Oh, no; this is the first day, poor little thing. He takes it so hard, too."

"What are you doing for the—the weaning?"

The woman looked at him for a moment, and then thinking that probably the dude was honest and innocent, said:

"Why, I have been using bitter aloes and—and a little soot."

The dude thought he was getting along nicely, but thought he would make himself more solid by taking a still deeper interest in the child, so he hazarded still another question.

"Ahha, where do you use them?"

That question was his last. A child was dropped hastily on the floor and a raised washboard banged down on the head of the dude, and in about a second the neighbors thought they saw a pair of compasses flying up the street.

He sat at his boarding house in bed, but so bewildered that he hasn't yet mustered up courage enough to ask some married man what the woman got mad at.—Evansville Argus.

Table Talk.

"Maria," asked Mr. Jones as he helped himself to another slice of buttered toast at breakfast, "did you put on your boots this morning?"

"Yes," answered Mrs. J., with a liver-and-bacon intonation to her voice, "why?"

"Oh, nothing," said Jones taking a second baked potato, "only when I moved them this morning before you were up, a little mouse run out—"

"Oh-h-h-h! ah-h-h-h—mercy goodness! take 'em off! t-a-k-e 'e-m-off!" shrieked Mrs. Jones going into hysterics.

"I wish you wouldn't interrupt me, Maria," said Jones severely. "A little mouse ran out from under the baseboard and ran back again, but some time it might get into your boot and be hopelessly lost."

"They never speak as they pass by," now.

She Was a Down-Easter.

"Where do you come from?" asked the lady, addressing the girl at the intelligence office who was a candidate for a cook's situation.

"Sure, an' I'm a down-easter, ma'am," replied the girl in a decided brogue.

"A down-easter; why, I would take you to be Irish."

"So I am, ma'am. I came from the County Down and that's east of here, a long way east, so, av coorse, that makes me a down-easter."

In the Choir.

During the sermon one of the quartette fell asleep.

"Now's your chants," said the organist to the soprano. "See if you canticle the tenor."

"You wouldn't dare duet," said the contralto.

"You'll wake hymn up," suggested the bass.

"I could make a better pun than that as sure as my name's Psalm," remarked the boy that pumped the organ; but he said it solo that no one quartet.—Life.

To Make the Mouth Smaller.

"My dear," remarked a Madison avenue young man to his best girl, "I see by the papers that a girl in Baltimore has reduced the size of her mouth considerably by whistling."

"That is singular, isn't it, George?" replied the girl.

"Yes, and it is said that after a few months' practice a four inch mouth could be reduced to two inches and a half."

"Oh, my, how queer!"

"Yes, dear, and I thought it would improve your looks if you were to try it."

"You horrid thing! I'll never speak to you again—so there!"

And that engagement is postponed.

An Electric Pen.

A description has been given by Dr. J. Garel of a simple way to make an electric pen, to be used for multiple copying of letters or drawings, to the same effect as the somewhat costly Edison pen.

A tracing of the drawing to be copied is taken on thin paper, which is then laid upon a piece of common gas carbon. The larger the carbon in proportion to the paper, the less shifting will be required; but a piece of reasonably convenient size may be easily found, and it should be ground to a fair surface. The plate of carbon thus prepared is to be connected with one of the screws of a small induction coil, such as that used for an electric bell. The style for following the design, says a contemporary, is nothing more than a lead pencil, rather hard and brought to a fine point. The other end of the lead of the pencil is connected by a wire with the other screw of the induction coil, which, in turn, is connected with a suitable battery. The wood of the pencil effectually insulates the current from the operator's hand. The arrangement being thus completed, all that is necessary is to follow the design, or to write the letter upon paper resting on the block of carbon, leaning lightly upon the pencil. As the graphite point proceeds, a continuous succession of small sparks flow between it and the carbon, and the intervening paper is accordingly perforated by an infinite number of small holes, burnt by the sparks. These holes are barely visible to the naked eye, except by holding up the paper to the light; but they can be utilized for transferring the design or writing to paper, either by dusting on a powder or by passing an inked pad over the perforations when laid on the recipient.—Electrician.

The Beaver in Michigan.

The quickness with which a colony discovers a wholesale attempt against their peace is astonishing; yet if their numbers are undisturbed, or diminished but gradually, even the presence of civilization will not drive them from their haunts. To-day beaver are returning to streams in Michigan, long ago abandoned by their race, simply because they find themselves unmolested, the demand for beaver-peltry being slight, and the prices paid out of all proportion to the labor entailed in trapping.

It has been said that, if a dam or house be once injured by the hand of man, the colony at once disappears. But this is fallacious is proved by the following: Twenty-two miles from Marquette, Mich., on the Carp River, a beaver colony began the

The Ingersoll Chronicle

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

THURSDAY, JULY 24, 1884.

THE Scott Act has been carried in Arthabaska County, Que., by about 1,000 majority.

THE QUEEN and the Duchess of Albany will have the sympathy of the nation in their joy over the birth of a porthumous son and heir to the Duke of Albany.

OUR dispatches from Muskoka this morning are somewhat fragmentary, but they are sufficient to show that Mr. Dill, the Reform candidate, has been elected by a handsome majority.

IT is a strange summersault to find the Irish World declaring for Mr. Blaine, and such papers as the New York Times and New York Witness proclaiming the virtues of the Democratic candidate. At one time the whole Puritan element of the people was Republican. At the recent conventions the Democratic party has thrown off Tammany and the Fenian vote like an incubus and the Republican party has apparently successfully wooed and won it.

ADVICES from all parts of the Dominion as to the crops are of the most favorable character. In Quebec Province the hay crop will, it is now believed, exceed that of last year, large as it was, and other crops are looking well though not as far forward as those of other provinces. In Eastern Ontario the situation has improved owing to the rain and cool weather. West of Toronto the prospects are in favor of a magnificent crop.

THE total muster of the House of Lords is 518. Of these five are members of the royal family, who, in accordance with usual practice, abstain from divisions on a political question. Of the remainder, 288 rank as Tories, and 218 are usually classified as Liberals. But many nominal Liberals, like Lord Bradbourne and Lord Dunraven, usually vote against the Government on party questions.

HALTON is bound to shed light for the rest of Canada. The Scott Act forces—pro and con—are ringing all the changes on the contest for and against whiskey there. Petition and counter petitions—the same men by hundreds on both sides; speeches and brochures—quarrelling and fighting; mental and physical forces. What will come of it all no one can guess. A petition has been sent to Ottawa containing 2,520 names asking that a day be fixed to vote on an appeal. This is a curious petition. The petitioners claim that of the 2,520 names on the paper 2,156 are actual voters at the present time—which we should judge to be a great many more than half of the whole electorate of the county. The Scott Act people do not deny this; but they say that the petition was got under false pretences and they are deluging the department with recantations from this list of voters—men by the score who declare for the Act notwithstanding the petition. There will probably be fixed a day to hear from the ballot box.

SOME pointed and just observations by the Hamilton Times on the methods of management followed by the two leading Toronto papers, may be reprinted in view of the economic questions raised by the recent strike of their printers against a ten per cent. reduction of wages:—"The proprietors of both Globe and Mail have been playing the fool for a long time. They sell their weekly editions at less than cost, in a foolish and hoggish endeavour to drive the country weeklies to the wall. They send evening editions to Hamilton and other cities, to be sold for less than the cost of white paper, and the people buy them for wrapping paper. Lately, one of the rivals reduced the price of advertisements, and the other has been publishing advertisements for nothing. Having cut their own throats till their heads are nearly severed from their bodies the Globe and Mail seek to replenish the vital fluid at the expense of the printers. One can pity a man when he is hard up through misfortune, but the Globe and Mail have no right to be hard up. In endeavouring to kill the other, each has weakened itself. Now that it has been found necessary to shift the burden upon innocent shoulders, the Globe and Mail should quit fooling, and endeavor to make an honest living by legitimate trade."

Ontario's Victory.

(Toronto Globe.)

Ontario wins! The once Disputed Territory is ours! From Glengarry to the Lake of the Woods and from Hudson Bay to the Pelee Islands—these are the magnificent distances between the utmost bounds of the Province which we may now call our own! It is a splendid victory! Against open enemies and secret traitors, Ontario has fought her long and gallant fight, and she has conquered. Against enemies of her own household; against those who, in their blind malignity, even up to the last moment, chuckled and crowed over what they thought was a set back for the Province they ought to have been among the first to defend; these are the foes whose banners are now trailing in the dust!

Not only Ontario but the whole of Canada ought to be glad to-day that the principal one of causes of dispute sufficiently grave to disrupt the Confederation has been removed from our midst.

The gain to this Province from the practical doubling of the size of Ontario, which will follow upon the ratification of the Award, will be immense. Ontario will possess the largest part of the untouched pine land of the Continent. Her mineral wealth will be added to incalculably. Her area of agricultural and pastoral land free to the settler will be doubled. She will have enough of real estate with which to carry on indefinitely the government of the Province without direct taxation. Under her rule this territory will be opened up and filled with freeholders, whose trade will build up her cities. The expansion of her limits means the consolidating up in the centre of the Confederation of a powerful Province containing homogenous millions of producers, whose interests will always be on the side of just and economical government and low taxation. Her victory sounds the death-knell of Tory mismanagement in this country.

The Drinkers of Blood.

Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

They haunt the abattoir every week and drink the warm beef blood by the cupful. It is caught as it flows from the animal's throat. It benefits thin-blooded persons. Some time since a woman came to the stock-yards who said her physician had told her she must drink beef blood.

"But I never can do it, never!" said she, shuddering.

"But it tastes just like milk," said the gentleman appealed to. "Come, I'll blindfold you and give you a glass of milk. Then I'll give you some more milk, or a glass of blood, then a taste of milk till you get them mixed up, and you won't know which is which."

She consented, and drank the glass first given her with a relish. "Ah! that was the milk. Now I think I can try the blood," she told them.

"But madam, you have drank it already," said the gentleman.

A peculiar case is reported from the Hot Springs of Arkansas. A Philadelphia lady had acquired the habit of eating arsenic to improve her complexion. Finding that it was injuring her she gave it up, and went to bathe in the Springs. The effect of the water upon her was to turn her skin black, the result being attributed to the action of the minerals in the water upon the arsenic in her body.

RESCUED!

Seven of the Greely Party Delivered from the Land of Eternal Frost.

Eighteen out of Twenty-five Persons Perish by Cold and Starvation.

A ROMANTIC TALE OF HORRIBLE SUFFERING.

The Rescuing Party Arrive not a Day too Soon.

Washington, July 17th.—The following telegram, dated St. John's, Nfld., July 17, 9 a.m., from Commander Schley to W. E. Chandler, Secretary of the Navy, was received here to-day:—The Thetis, the Bear, and the Loch Garry arrived here to-day from West Greenland; all well. They separated from the Alert 150 miles north during a gale. At 9 p.m. on June 22nd, five miles off Cape Sabine, in Smith's Sound, the Thetis and Bear rescued alive Lieut. A. W. Greely, Sergeant Brainard, Sergeant Fredericks, Sergeant Long, Hospital Steward Beiderback, Private Connell, and Sergeant Ellison, the only survivors of the Lady Franklin Bay expedition. Sergt. Ellison had lost both hands and feet by frost bite, and died on July 6th, at Godhaven, three days after the amputation which had become imperative. Seventeen of the twenty-five persons composing the expedition perished by starvation at the point where the survivors were found; one was drowned while sealing to procure food. Twelve bodies of the dead were rescued and are now on board the Thetis and the Bear. One Eskimo, Turnevic, was buried at Disco, in accordance with the desire of the Inspector of Western Greenland. Five bodies were buried in an ice-fort near the camp, and were swept away to sea by winds and currents and could not be recovered.

Greely abandoned Fort Conger Aug. 9, 1883, and reached Baird Inlet Sept. 29 following, with the entire party well. He abandoned all his boats, and was adrift 30 days on an ice floe in Smith's Sound. His permanent camp was established Oct. 21, 1883, at the point where he was found. During nine months his party had to live upon scant allowances of food brought from Fort Conger, that cached at Payer Harbour and Cape Isabella by Sir Geo. Nares in 1875, but which was found much damaged by lapse of time, that cached by Beeche at Cape Sabine in 1882, and a small amount saved from the wreck of the Proteus in 1883 and lauded by Lieutenants Garlington and Colwell on the beech where Greely's party was found camped. When these provisions were consumed the party boiled sealskin strips from their sealskin clothing lichens and shrimps preserved in good weather when they were strong enough to make exertions. As 1,300 shrimps were required to fill a gallon measure the labour was too exhausting to depend upon these to sustain life entirely. The channel between Cape Sabine and Littleton Island did not close on account of violent gales all winter, so that the 240 rations at the latter point could not be reached. All Greely's records and instruments brought by him from Fort Conger are recovered, and on board. From Haro Island to Smith's Sound the rescuing party had a constant and furious struggle with ice and impassable floes. Solid barriers of ice were overcome by watchfulness and patience. No opportunity to advance a mile was lost, and for several hundred miles the ships were forced to ram their way from lead to lead through ice varying in thickness from three to six feet. The Thetis and the Bear reached Cape York June 18, after a passage of 21 days in Melville Bay, with the two advance ships of the Dundee whaling fleet, and continued to Cape Sabine.

WHERE FORCED TO LIVE UPON

HORRIBLE SUFFERINGS.

Sergeant Long of the Greely party, says he and Brainard were the first to hear the whistles of the rescuing steamers. They helped each other to crawl out of the tent. When Long got clear of the entanglement of the tent which had been swept to the ground, he rose with great difficulty and succeeded in clambering up to the rock that gave the most extensive view in that neighborhood. Long recognized the approach of the rescuers. He came down and went towards the flag pole and flag which had been blown down during a gale and held it for about two minutes until his strength gave out and was blown once more to the ground. He then advanced tottering in the direction of the little steamer and in a few minutes the hand of Capt. Schley had grasped his.

Morris Connel, who still is excessively weak, stated that for some days after his rescue he had no recollection of anything that transpired. He did not hear the awakening scream of the whistle, and when his comrades shook him up from his prostrate position in the camp and told him succor was at hand, he wildly exclaimed "For God's sake let me die in peace." A teaspoonful of brandy called back the fleeting life spark, for Connell could not have survived more than a few hours. He was by far the weakest of the seven men, and the strongest must have succumbed within forty-eight hours. The story told by Connell from his recollection of their starving experiences is simply heartrending. How they burned the hair of their seal-skin coats and cut them into strips, boiled them into stew and ate voraciously of them till their stomachs rebelled and nausea and weakness ensued. In several cases nature gave no call for twelve, fifteen, and even eighteen days, and then bloody hemorrhage and consequent weakness ensued, prostrating the victims for several days. The difficulty of keeping heat in their bodies was very great. A rule of the camp was to permit no one to sleep longer than two hours. He was awakened roughly and called upon to shake himself, slap his hands and pound his feet until he restored circulation. This we found absolutely necessary to prevent torpor and possible death. The survivors are all doing well, but are still weak from prostration.

Sergeat Frederick relates the mournfully tragic story of the death on the ice covered ground of George Rice, artist of the expedition. Rice and Frederick volunteered to leave the camp and proceed 25 miles for meat cached near Cape Isabella. They had a sled, rifle and a hatchet, and provisions for five days. They travelled three days, but failed to find the cache. On their way back towards the camp Rice became weak and finally gave up. He was interred in an ice grave by his companion. Frederick camped that night under the fragment of a boat, and next day revisited his companion to pay a last tribute to his remains. Frederick retained sufficient strength to drag the sled to the camp, where he encountered more woe in the form of the death of Lieut. Lockwood and another of the party. The cached meat Frederick and Rice were in search of was brought by them on April 6, from Cape Isabella, and abandoned the next day in order to drag Elison, one of their party who had been frozen, into camp.

TERRIBLE SIGHT THAT MET THE RESCUERS.

Mr. Norman, engaged as ice pilot on board the Thetis, was the first man to enter Greely's camp, and describes the discovery of the sufferers as follows:

"At 8 o'clock on the evening of June," he says, "having found a record previously three miles north of Cape Sabine, we proceeded in the steam launch to the spot indicated as the camping ground of of the Greely party. As we approached within two yards of the shore we saw a man staggering down the hillside toward the ice fort. He held a small flag in his hand, attached to which was a piece of a handkerchief. This he feebly waved. As soon as the steam launch struck, Capt. Ash, of the Bear, and myself jumped on shore. The man proved to be Long, one of the Greely party. He had a haggard, ghastly look and was scarcely able to stand. He muttered out his words. We asked him how all hands were. He replied, 'There are seven of us left.' I ran up immediately to the place where he pointed out the camp. Captain Ash and Lieut. Colwell went back to the launch to bring some pemmican, biscuits and some stimulating drink. When I reached within a few yards of the tent I cried out, 'Cheer up, Greely.' 'Is that you, Norman?' faintly replied Lieut. Greely, who knew my voice although three years had elapsed since I bade him farewell in the Proteus in Lady Franklin Sound.

A fierce storm was blowing, and the tent had fallen on its wretched occupants. I cut and tore it open, entered, and there saw with horror the pale, shriveled form of Greely lying in the middle of the camp encased in his sleeping bag, and Ellison, with hands and feet lopped off by frost since the first of the previous year. Beiderdack lay listlessly in front of Greely. Connell, pointed as by his comrades as dying, was reclining in a motionless posture on Greely. Brainard lay alone under the shelter of a corner of the tent and was separated to the eye from his comrades in misfortune. Immediately Capt. Ash, Lieut. Colwell, and the chief engineer arrived, and we at once began to administer small doses of food of the lightest description. The men at first were ravenous, and loudly insisted on getting more and more food. We refused to gratify their wishes, fearing disastrous results from over-eating.

MURDERED IN A BAGNIO.

A Toronto Girl Shot and Killed in Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., July 20.—A terrible tragedy was enacted this evening at 108 North street, in a house of ill-fame kept by Jessie Hutchins, who is now summering at Long Branch, the place being managed in her absence by Pearl Snow. The victims are Mamie Thorp, and a May White, both of Toronto, Canada. The murderer is George W. Hazeltine, of Jamestown, New York. The woman White kept a bagnio at No. 11 Nelson street, Toronto, and Mamie Thorp was one of the establishment. There the two women met Hazeltine and E. S. Van Witzen, the latter of this city, two weeks ago. The quartet left Toronto on Thursday last, arriving here this morning, going direct to 108 North street. The women were friends of Pearl Snow. Wine was drank freely during the morning by the entire party. About noon Hazletine drew a pistol from his pocket and said he would kill somebody. The weapon was taken from him before any shooting could be done. During the afternoon Van Witzen became beastly intoxicated and retired to sleep, the others remaining in the parlor. About 3:30 p. m. Pearl Snow went out of the parlor leaving Hazletine and the women White and Thorp alone. A few minutes afterwards Hazletine asked Mamie to give him a diamond she wore. She refused, whereupon Hazletine drew two pistols from his pockets and said he would kill her if she did not give up the bauble. She again refused and Hazeltine began firing, two shots taking effect in the woman's body. She ran into an adjoining room exclaiming "I am shot," and expired in a moment. In the meantime May, who had grappled with the murderer, was shot twice in the arm and neck. Her wounds are not necessarily fatal. An officer then ran in and arrested Hazeltine, who refused to make any statement. Van Witzen was also arrested. Mamie Thorp was a handsome brunette, twenty-four years of age. Mary refused to disclose her parentage.

THE BOUNDARY QUESTION.

The Case Nearing a Close.

LONDON, July 21.—Mr. Dalton McCarthy concluded his argument on the Boundary question to-day, and was followed by Mr. Robinson. Mr. Mowat will reply to-morrow to the arguments advanced in support of the claims of Manitoba. As far as it is possible to judge, the disposition of the Court is to award Ontario the same boundaries as defined by the arbitrators.

TORONTO, July 12—3:20 p.m.—Hon. Oliver Mowat telegraphs that the argument in the boundary question is concluded, and that the judgment is in favor of Ontario.

TERRIBLE RAILWAY WRECK.

Nine Cars of Excursionists Rolled Down an Embankment.

CANTON, O., July 20.—A point on the Valley Railroad two miles east of here last night was the scene of a terrible wreck, in which one thousand excursionists from this city miraculously escaped with injuries so far as known, while it is thought but a dozen or more persons under the wreck are dead. The employees of Aultman & Co.'s machine works had their annual picnic at Cuyahoga Falls to-day, and over 2,000 went on an excursion made up of two trains of fifteen cars each. The first section arrived at Canton at 7:20 p.m. all right.

The engineer says the wreck was caused by the track spreading. The engine went over all right, but the first car jumped the track, and eight others followed. The train ran alongside the track for 200 feet, throwing the occupants from one side to the other, and finally jumped a small embankment and landed in three feet of water. The doors were cut open and the people got out.

Nine cars were off the track and in water three feet deep. The cries of the injured were heartrending. Hundreds of willing hands immediately set to work, and it was soon found that not more than 200 were injured, but it was impossible to say how many or who were killed. A telegraph office has been opened at the scene, and everything is being done to alleviate the sufferings of the injured.

THE CHOLERA PLAGUE.

Panic Stricken Frenchmen Flee From the Plague.

Canadian Vessels to be Quarantined by Americans.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The Cabinet has decided to take prompt and vigorous measures to prevent the introduction of cholera. The State and Treasury departments will act in conjunction in enforcing regulations which will be prepared. The importation of rags from all infected countries will be prohibited for ninety days, or longer if necessary. Revenue marine vessels will establish a cordon along the coast to prevent the landing of all vessels from foreign ports which do not possess clean bills of health.

Quarantine will probably be established against Canada and Mexico. In the latter country there is reported to be an epidemic of yellow fever. The epidemic fund, of which there is an unexpended balance of $78,000, will be utilized for these purposes. The administration has determined to make every effort to prevent the introduction of the contagion.

The Secretary of the Treasury has issued orders that until further orders rags from infected ports will not be permitted to land.

MARSEILLES, July 19.—Public officials have become panic stricken because of the failure to check the cholera, and are fleeing. There were six deaths from cholera at Arles yesterday. Fourteen deaths occurred since eleven this morning.

TOULON, July 19.—Shopkeepers are closing their establishments. The flight of residents is universal. Men stationed at the arsenal are leaving. There were twenty-one deaths since ten this morning. The disease is spreading. One death has occurred at Nimes.

PARIS, July 19.—There were three cases of cholera reported here to-day, two fatal. There have been five deaths from the disease in the department of the Lower Alps. Fumigation of the railway stations at Toulon, Marseilles and Paris has been discontinued, as it has proved a useless precaution. A noticeable fall in the temperature on Sunday is regarded as the best safeguard against the disease becoming epidemic.

Rotten-Egging a Minister.

Walkerton, July 19.—A widow lady named Mrs. Martin created a sensation to day by rotten-egging the Rev. Wm. Smyth, Methodist minister, in the market place before a large crowd. She was brought before the Mayor and a bench of Magistrates this afternoon, and was fined $10 and costs. Mrs. Martin was a Sunday School teacher in the Methodist Church, and the assault arose out of a scandalous report affecting her character, which she blamed on Mr. Smyth.

A Monument for Capt. Webb.

Mrs. Webb, widow of the late Captain Webb, who lost his life in the rapids of Niagara Falls has bought of the Lockport Marble Company a handsome Barre granite monument, eight feet high, of gothic shape, which is finely finished. It has the Masonic "G" on the cap, with the following inscription on the die:—

CAPT. MATTHEW WEBB.
Born July 19, 1848.
Died July 24, 1883.

The stone Mrs. Webb was assisted in buying by many prominent citizens and Masons of Niagara Falls. It will be placed over the Captain's remains at Oakwood Cemetery, Niagara Falls on Monday next.

NEWS NOTES

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM ALL SOURCES

Personal and General Gossip.

Philip Chatham, the oldest Freemason in England, is dead, aged 97. He was initiated in 1811.

The American Government is taking active steps to prevent the introduction of cholera.

The Peterborough Postoffice has been robbed of stamps and money to the value of $2,400.

Alliston ratepayers will vote to grant $10,000 to rebuild the foundry recently destroyed by fire.

The Hon. A. A. Macdonald has been appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Prince Edward Island.

Three Canadians are among the first three hundred in the first stage of the Queen's Prize competition at Wimbledon.

The Pope has given 20,000 francs and President Grevy, of France, 10,000 francs for the relief of the cholera sufferers.

The damage to crops by the recent hailstorm in Markham township is ascertained to be more serious than at first reported.

The Ontario Grand Lodge of the Sons of Temperance has donated $100 to assist the friends of the Scott Act in the repeal campaign in Halton.

Through a freak of one of the inmates, who managed to set fire to his bed, $1,000 damage was done in Longue Point Asylum, Que., a few days ago.

Holyoke, Mass., is expected soon to become not only the greatest paper manufacturing, but the greatest paper exporting city in the world.

A boy named Napoleon Dean, aged 15 years, was instantly killed by lightning at Upton, Que., on Saturday evening, while returning home from picking raspberries.

Sir Charles Tupper and Col. Gzowski, A.D.C., were present at the levee held by the Prince of Wales on behalf of the Queen on the 7th inst.

It is estimated that Henry Ward Beecher has spent $130,000 in books for his library. The collection has become so large that a part of it will shortly be disposed of by sale.

The road over the swamp which delayed the completion of the Ontario & Quebec railway for some time is now finished, and is firm and solid. The road will be formally opened on the 28th inst.

The influx of immigrants into the North-West Territory still continues to maintain its proportions. A number of Icelanders, whose original destination was Dakota, have also been converted by the natural richness of the climate into becoming Canadian citizens.

Owing to the fact that French sailing vessels and steamboats call at the ports of Quebec and Montreal, the local boards of health have been asked to take measures to quarantine their cities should there be an outbreak of cholera in either.

The receipts of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the week ending July 14th, were $153,000, against $118,000 in the corresponding period of last year, showing an increase of $35,000. The number of miles of track in operation in excess of that of this time in 1883 is 704.

A storm on Saturday night did great damage to the crops and highways in the State of Vermont. At Wilmington the lightning passed into the houses of L. Childs and H. F. Barber on the telephone wire. Their wires were prostrated, their shoes torn from their feet, and eyebrows burned off.

The lacrosse match at Toronto on Saturday between the Montreal and Toronto teams for the championship of the world, resulted in a victory for the Montrealers. Fine play was exhibited on both sides. This is the first time the Montreal Lacrosse Club has won the championship of the National Lacrosse Association. The games stood as follows: 1st game, Toronto, 10 mins.; 2nd game, Montreal, 16 mins.; 3rd game, Montreal, 48 mins.; 4th game, Toronto, 38 mins.; 5th game, Montreal, 1 min.

A special cable relates a curious incident that occurred on Monday at Irving Bishop's mind reading seance. Tawhaio, king of the Maoris, who was present, was asked to conceal an article and think of it, and he complied by placing a large button in his mouth. As soon as Bishop took the king's hand in his, he said the object was a hard round article which would be found in the monarch's mouth. His Majesty was greatly surprised, and in his agitation swallowed the button, which stuck in his throat and was with difficulty forced down into his royal stomach.

A veteran of the wars of Napoleon has just turned up in Montreal, and gives his name as Count Zowaski, a native of Poland. According to his story he is 93 years old, having been born in Warsaw in 1791. He claims to have served under the great Napoleon, and to have been captain of the 101st Light Artillery. He went through the terrible retreat from Moscow, the brilliant battle of Austerlitz, and the fatal Waterloo, and recalls the scenes and incidents in each in a wonderfully clear manner. He took part in the Polish war for independence in 1831; fought in Hungary, and was banished to America in 1851. He was also a participant in the American civil war, since which time he has led a wandering life, and is now seeking means in Montreal to enable him to reach France, where he has friends.

A novel scheme of assisted emigration has been started in Germany by a society composed wholly of noblemen. The society proposes to send indigent members of noble German families to Chili, where they will have all the advantages of a fertile soil and favorable climate, and the prospect of exchanging their landless titles for the hands of the fair senoritas of that country. All the preliminary plans of the new scheme of philanthropy are now completed, and a large party will soon arrive in Liverpool. From that port they will be taken to Chili at the expense of the Chilian Government, which also agrees to supply the exiles with land free of charge, and to maintain them all in suitable style for one year from the date of their arrival. If at the end of that time they have not made their fortunes either in the way of money or matrimony they will be at liberty to return at their own expense, but the Berlin philanthropists will have no more to do with them.

L. Brown, near Ayimer, forwarded to W. Dodd, taxidermist, Southwold, a few days ago a mammoth turtle. This specimen of the chelonian reptile is the largest ever seen in western Canada, weighing upwards of 100 pounds, and being almost as large as a washtub. Its head is fully the size of a man's.

Two thousand bricklayers, 3,000 laborers and 200 hod-hoisters, engineers and framers have struck at New York because their employers refused to grant a demand that nine hours shall constitute a day's work. The contractors who have the new cotton exchange job agreed to the demand, and all the men working there remained. About thirty-five employers allowed their men to go to work on their own terms. The building trade is very lively, and the strike will probably be a short one. The workmen say a large number of bosses hold out until noon, and then yielded, thus leaving not more than 2,000 men out.

The fishermen in the vicinity of Kingston met in that city to the number of 20, and visiting the office of Hon. G. A. Kirkpatrick proceeded to lay before him their grievances. They complained that some of the reservations for anglers have been taken possession of by Americans, that they also encroach upon the fishermen's baits, that they catch more fish than they want and throw them on the beach to rot, that they have a special aversion for the fishermen, have called them bad names, threatened the destruction of their nets and huts, and in some cases threatened to shoot Canadians if they did not leave the field for which they had licenses. Mr. Kirkpatrick promised to call the County Attorney's attention to the matter, and also to advise the Fishery Department of the protest, and urge the appointment of an officer to make an investigation of affairs. The fishermen were agreeable that there should be no netting between June 1 and Sept. 30.

John Graham, a Salvation Army soldier of St. Thomas, stole $67 from a fellow-boarder's trunk the other night. Graham was one of the fellows who attended the barracks nightly and during the services kept crying out: "Bless the Lord I'm saved."

TAR SMOKE FOR DIPHTHERIA.

Dr. Delthil's Cure Tried With Success Upon a New York Patient.

Ruth Lockwood, the nine-year-old child of Thomas Lockwood, a compositor in the Times office, became violently ill with diphtheria on Tuesday night. She was so weak that it was deemed dangerous to try tracheotomy, or cutting open the windpipe. On Thursday Dr. Nichols, of 117 West Washington place, who was attending her, received a copy of the Paris Figaro, which contained a report made to the French Academy of Medicine by Dr. Delthil. Dr. Delthil said that the vapors of liquid tar and turpentine would dissolve the fibrinous exudations which choke up the throat in croup and diphtheria.

Dr. Delthil's process was described. He pours equal parts of turpentine and liquid tar into a tin pan or cup and sets fire to the mixture. A dense resinous smoke arises, which obscures the air of the room.

"The patient," Dr. Delthil says, "immediately seems to experience relief; the choking and rattle stop; the patient falls into a slumber and seems to inhale the smoke with pleasure. The fibrinous membrane soon becomes detached, and the patient coughs up microbicides. These, when caught in a glass, may be seen to dissolve in the smoke. In the course of three days afterward the patient entirely recovers."

Dr. Nichols tried this treatment yesterday with little Ruth Lockwood. She was lying gasping for breath when he visited her. First pouring out two tablespoonfuls of liquefied tar upon an iron pan, he poured as much turpentine over it and set it on fire. The rich resinous smoke which rose to the ceiling was by no means unpleasant. As it filled the room the child's breathing became natural, and as the smoke grew dense she fell asleep.—N. Y. Sun.

Faith in Popular Gullibility.

Faith in the inexhaustible credulity of the masses has been the foundation of many a charlatan's fortune. At the time of the South Sea Bubble, when new projects of the most wild and preposterous character found promoters with ease, an astute and audacious adventurer advertised for subscriptions to an enterprise, the nature of which was to be concealed for a certain time, and he actually made several thousands of pounds out of it, the people paying for shares with blind eagerness.

With this adventurer deserves to be ranked the ingenious but unprincipled American citizen who has just been arrested for doing an extensive business in advertising all manner of enticing things to be sent on the receipt of postage stamps. Cases of this kind have occurred before, but then the imposters usually send something, however fraudulent, in return for the stamps. This genius, however, had made no provision whatever in that way. He simply appropriated the stamps, and refrained from answering the letters; and though so reckless a swindle would seem certain to come to grief in a short time, he appears to have kept it up and made considerable profits by it for several months. He also advertised largely through the newspapers, never paying them, but giving them references to aliases of his own, and himself answering all letters inquiring about his character. The defect in his plan was that it was certain sooner or later to become the subject of investigation, and the moment it was inquired into the truth came out.

The number of swindlers who have waxed fat on similar but more carefully devised schemes is no doubt very considerable. The rogues who engineer them rely upon the desire of most people to get much for little. They know that the greed of gain often obscures the judgment, and that though all cool-headed business men suspect offers of the kind, remembering the Duke of Wellington's maxim that "good interest means bad security," yet there are always plenty ready to spring at any bait, if it is only gaudy and glittering enough. The so-called "sawdust" sharpers, who pretend to sell counterfeit money, and send the victim a box of sawdust, act upon a shrewd knowledge of the baser elements of human nature. They select for their dupes persons who are willing to be knaves themselves, and whose own knavery shuts their mouths when they find out the swindle. Probably no professional sharper would enter upon so very bold a game as the young man of the postage stamps played, for as they mean to make their living by their wits they dare not thus openly advertise their dishonesty.

But the fact that such a trick should have been so successful, and that it should have been carried on so long a time without detection, shows that the crop of gulls continues to be as large as ever, and that whatever else fails there is no prospect of "shortage" in that line of production.—New York Tribune.

The cholera panic in France recalls an incident of the elder Dumas in 1832. His servant rushed into his room one day, crying: "The cholera is in Paris! A man has just fallen dead with it in the Rue Chauchat!" Dumas laughed incredulous. "But it is perfectly true, Monsieur!" said the scared domestic; he is lying stark and stiff and as black as an negro, though they have rubbed him for more than an hour." "Humph! Perhaps they have rubbed him with a blacking brush," retorted Dumas, carelessly; but within a week he had the cholera himself, severely, and would probably have died had not the servant given him an overdose of ether by mistake. She gave him a glassfull of ether with a few drops of water, instead of the perscribed glassful of water with a few drops of ether. Dumas swallowed it, lay unconscious for two hours, and then awoke, convalescent.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder nevervaries. A marvel of purity, strength, and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall-st., N. Y.

January 24th, 1884. 1585-181

MOSS & Co's CELEBRATED

BAKING POWDER

NOTED FOR ITS

PURITY AND STRENGTH.

MANUFACTURED BY

MOSS, RIMMINGTON & CO., SELBY, ENGLAND.

LEADING WHOLESALE TRADE OF MONTREAL.

GREENE & SONS

COMPANY,

MONTREAL.

Hats, Caps AND FURS. 1884.

BUFFALO AND Fancy Goods. Gentlemen's Furnishings.

LATEST STYLES.

Selected for Fall Trade, 1884.

AGENTS FOR WOODROW'S HATS.

Warehouse, 517 to 525 St. Paul-St., MONTREAL.

WELL ASSORTED STOCK IN ALL LINES.

DAVID WHITE & CO.

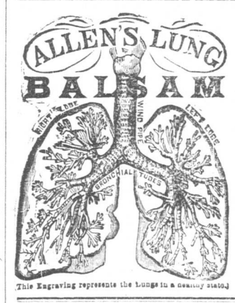
New and Scarce Goods

ARRIVING EVERY DAY.

JUST RECEIVED

WHITE VICTORIA LAWNS.

Swiss Spot and Sprig Muslins.



All-over Embroidery, Over and over Net, Guipure, White and Cream Muslin Embroidery, Real Oriental Laces. Silk, Lisle and Cotton Hose. Pure Silk and Taffetta Gloves.

STAPLE DEPARTMENT.

Shirting and Denims, Cottonades, Table Linen, Table Napkins, Damask Towels, Cotton Bags. 36 inch Factory Cotton only 5 cents.

DAVID WHITE & CO.

Ingersoll, July 10, 1884. 1608

This Engraving represents the Lungs in a healthy state.

THE REMEDY FOR CURING

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

ASTHMA, CROUP,

ALL DISEASES OF THE THROAT, LUNGS, AND PULMONARY ORGANS.

BY ITS FAITHFUL USE

CONSUMPTION HAS BEEN CURED,

When other Remedies and Physicians have failed to effect a cure.

Recommended by PHYSICIANS, MINISTERS, AND NURSES. In fact by everybody who has given it a good trial. It never fails to bring relief.

As an EXPECTORANT it has no Equal.

It is harmless to the Most Delicate Child.

It contains no OPIUM in any form.

☞ Directions accompany each bottle.

☞ For sale by all Druggists.

Hearn & Co

JUST TO HAND.

ONE CASE

COLOURED MUSLINS,

FAST COLORS, which we are able to offer at the low price of 10 cents per yard. Come one and all, and secure a grand bargain.

We also offer a grand assortment of

WHITE VICTORIA LAWNS

In all prices, 15c, 18c, 20c, 25c, 30c, 35c. Splendid value.

Do not fail to see our stock of Black Brocade Silks, Black Gros Silks, Black Satins, Black Satin DeLyons, at prices that cannot be beaten.

Millinery! Millinery!

Great reductions in this department, we are determined not to carry any of our stock over, so that we will sell at greatly reduced prices. This is no Blow but solid facts.

INSPECTION INVITED.

HEARN & CO.

Ingersoll, July 10, 1884. 1608

GREAT BARGAINS.

A Reduction in the Prices at the

CHINA TEA HOUSE.

16 lbs. Good Sugar for $1.00.

20 lbs. Valentia Raisins for $1.

This is the place to buy the CHEAPEST TEAS. Young Hyson and Congou, a specialty. The cheapest place to buy CROCKERY. Selling Printed TEA SETS at $3.50, worth $5.00. Glass and Silver Ware very low. Cutlery at Rock Bottom Prices.

Any one buying $5 worth of goods at the CHINA TEA HOUSE, and paying Cash for the same will be allowed a discount of 5 per cent.

Ingersoll, July 9th, 1884. 1609

Dispensing Chemist!

J. W. BROWETT,

Sign of the  White Mortar.

HELLEBORE. PURE HELLEBORE is best and cheapest poison for currant worms. Look to your currant and gooseberry bushes.

ALKALI—25 cents worth makes 10 lbs of Hard Soap, or 25 Gallons of Soft Soap, this saves trouble with ashes.

CHLORIDE LIME prevents sickness by using it for all disagreeable odors from back yards, cellars, etc., (an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure

A large stock of Fresh Medicines, Drugs and Chemicals.

J. W. BROWETT, Dispensing Chemist,

Sign of the "White Mortar," Thames Street.

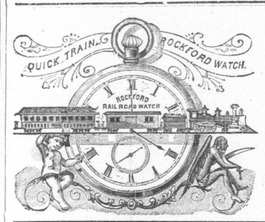
Ingersoll, April 10th, 1884. 1596

Burdock Blood Bitters

Cures Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver and Kidneys, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all diseases arising from Impure Blood, Deranged Stomach, or irregular action of the Bowels.

NOTICE.

Just Received an Immense Stock of



Wall Papers and Borders

Of the newest designs, which will be offered at VERY LOW PRICES in order to induce customers to commence house cleaning early, at

L. THOMPSON'S.

Wall Paper, Stationery, Oil, Color and Window Glass Store, McCaughey' Block, Thames Street.

Ingersoll, February 7th, 1884. 1587

H. RICHARDSON

Richardson's Block, Ingersoll, Ontario,

Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry,

SILVER AND PLATED WARE.

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 1st., 1883.

This is to certify that we have appointed H. RICHARDSON, Sole Agent for the sale of the Rockford Quick Train Watch, in Ingersoll, Ontario, and that we will, to the fullest extent, sustain the usual warranty given by him to purchasers of our movements. No warranty whatever attaches to these goods when offered for sale by others than our duly appointed Agent.

ROCKFORD WATCH CO.,
H. P. Holland, Sec

NELLES & STEVENS

Have this week opened out a full range of

Crockery & Glassware

Comprising White and Printed Tea Sets. Printed Dinner Sets, 76 pieces. China Tea Sets in every variety of Patterns. Coloured Toilet Sets. White Toilet Sets.

With this addition to our already large stock of General Groceries we claim to show the largest and best selected stock of goods in our line to be found in Ingersoll.

An inspection will convince you that our prices are right as well as the variety.

NELLES & STEVENS.

Ingersoll, May 29th, 1884. 1606

Ground scientifically from clear and pure Pebble, or optical glass especially manufactured for the purpose, they are without exception best adapted to restore the ravages of age, and to retain perfect vision; they are especially recommended by the most eminent of the Faculty.

EVERY PAIR OF SPECTACLES AND EYEGLASSES IS MARKED "B. L."

READ EXTRACTS FROM CANADIAN TESTIMONIALS:

CHIEF JUSTICE MACDONALD, N.S.	writes—	They gave the highest satisfaction.
SENATOR ARCHIBALD	writes—	I have experienced great satisfaction from their use.
CHIEF JUSTICE SIR WM. YOUNG	writes—	They give a clearer and purer light under gas than any I have previously obtained here or elsewhere.
JOHN F. WOOD, M

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS THIS WEEK.

Hats, Caps and Furs—Greene & Sons.
I.O.O.F.—Excursions.
Insurance—W. K. Sumner.
Apprentice Wanted—Brouse & Rawe.
Eppe's Cocoa—James Epps & Co.
Music—W. C. Pugh.
Church Festival—E. N. Bland.
Vocal and Instrumental Music—J. F. Parker.

The Ingersoll Chronicle

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

THURSDAY, JULY 24, 1884.

TOWN NEWS.

The crops are good.

The 4th of August will be Ingersoll's Civic Holiday.

Remember the St. James' Church Harvest Festival. See adv.

Cheap excursion to Toronto, Monday, Aug. 4. Fare for round trip only $1.25.

Assizes.—The autumn Assizes for the County of Oxford will be opened by Justice Rose, on Tuesday, the 14th October.

The Dereham Agricultural Society's Fall Show will be held in Tilsonburg on Monday and Tuesday, September 29 and 30.

Wait for the Oddfellows' excursion to Pt. Stanley, on Monday, Aug. 4th—Ingersoll's civic holiday.

The Mandolines at the rink on Tuesday evening. New Spanish instruments never heard before in Ingersoll.

The Cows.—In Mitchell only cows giving milk are allowed to run at large during the day, all other animals must be confined.

Base Ball.—The return match between Ingersoll and Mt. Elgin was played on the park on Friday, when the latter beat the home club by a score of 32 to 12.

Fire Alarm.—The fire bell rang Sunday morning, the cause being of the burning of some wood in the oven of S. Davidson's bakery.

Arrangements are going on finely for the monster demonstration to be held at the Victoria Park here on the 22nd Aug. See large posters. Programmes issued in a few days.

The Fair Buildings.—The special committee of the council visited the park on Monday and located the ground for the Fair building, which will be removed from the agricultural grounds shortly.

A young man with a violin box in one hand and a flute under his arm was bustling around and trying to engage board in town the other day. It is unnecessary to add that he didn't succeed.

Our Fair.—This year the ladies have taken hold of the management of the 'Ladies' Fancy Work department of our Fair and have revised the list, offering prizes for more articles than patch-work, quilts, etc.

Lacrosse. — The "Dufferins" visited Princeton on Friday and played the "Oxfords" of that place, the result being a tie. The ground was a stubble field from which the hay had just been cut.

Dangerous.—Cattle should not be allowed to be driven through the main street. Several children had narrow escapes from being trampled upon by a drove of cattle the other morning.

Trotting Races.—The principal trotting race to take place at the great demonstration here on Friday, Aug. 22nd, will be open to all, and not confined to the county of Oxford, as stated in the posters.

The Globe speaks of running the C. V. R. extension "from Ingersoll instead of Woodstock." We have yet to learn that it was ever intended to run the line from Woodstock. The points undecided upon were Ingersoll and Putnam.

Civic Holiday.—Where will you spend it? You can go to Port Stanley where the Oddfellows have their annual pic-nic and games, or you can go to Toronto. Fare to Toronto will be only $1.25; to Pt. Stanley, 70 cents, children 35 cents.

Escaped.—Thos. Wardle, an inmate of the London asylum, from Tilsonburg, whose own name, and that of his wife, figured so prominently in the McLean vs. Detroit News libel suit, escaped from the grounds on Wednesday forenoon.

Accident.—Donald, a young son of Mr. D. Kelso, of Tilsonburg, had the misfortune to break his collar bone on Tuesday while playing in the barn. He fell from the loft to the floor, when the barn door fell on him, breaking his collar bone.

Charles St. Methodist Church.—Sermons will be preached next Sabbath by the pastor, Rev. J. Laycock, upon the following subjects, in the Charles St. Methodist Church. In the morning—"Honey in the Carcase of a Lion." In the evening—"Fire Proof Believers."

Church Festival.—The congregation of St. James' church, Ingersoll, will hold a grand festival in the Skating Rink, on Tuesday evening next, July 29th, commencing at 8 o'clock. Music by the 22nd Batt. Band. Price of admission, 25 cents; children half price.

Farmers in this section speak very favorably of their crops, and seem to be quiet jubilant over the bright prospects of a big yield. Mr. Geo. A. Uren, of West Oxford, has spring wheat standing 5 feet 11 inches high. He reports his hay crop the largest for many years.

A Good Sanitary Mode.—The new Health Act makes it imperative on every householder to pour a solution of sulphate of copper into privies, cesspools, reservoirs, etc, every month. The solution is made by putting two pounds of copperas in two pailfuls of water. How many of the citizens comply with this law?

Test Case.—A horse was frightened in Chatham by the drumming of the Salvation Army and caused considerable damage by running away. The owner is about to sue the corporation for the amount of the damage. This will be a test case, and if the Courts hold the town liable then we may expect that the Councils of other places will forbid the nuisance.

Credit Valley Extention.—A private telegram received on Friday from General Manager Whyte, Toronto, states that work will begin in the Credit Valley Extension, between London and Ingersoll, within the next 30 days. Upon enquiring of Mr. Whyte late last evening that gentleman said there was no truth in the report that the work would be commenced within the time mentioned.—Globe.

Runaway Accident.—On Tuesday morning a horse belonging to Mr. G. R. Thomson, butcher, took fright while opposite the residence of Mr. Wm. Dundass and dashing up the road turned into the yard at Smith's mill, overturning the waggon and severly injuring the sole occupant, the seven year son of Mr. Thomson. The child was picked up insensible but is now progressing favourably.

High Life. A youth visited a clothing store yesterday to purchase a pair of pants. He said he wanted a cheap article. The cheapest pair in stock was $1.50. The pants fitted all right, and the young man said he would take them, but as he did not have but $1.25, he asked the merchant if would be trust him for the quarter. The dealer said he would, but asked would the customer be so kind as to leave his name. The customer with a great deal of pomposity, pulled out a fancy card, and handing it to the clerk, said: "There is my card." The customer is a mason's clerk, or in other words a hod carrier. The incidentally shows what is being sacrificed to the god of style, from the highest to the lowest. This man could not pay for his breeches, and never will, but he carried a case full of fancy cards. The merchant did not act wisely. He should have given him the quarter. In trusting him he lost both the quarter and a customer.—St. Thomas Journal.

A Large Establishment.—The Detroit Commercial Advertiser of a late issue gives a lengthy description of Jas. E. Davis & Co's Wholesale Drug Store, which is one of the largest on the American Continent. The firm is but three years old, and marvellous to say that in that short period their business has nearly reached the immense sum of one million dollars per annum. Their drug business covers Michigan, Northern Ohio, Northern Indiana, Eastern Wisconsin and Canada. The building occupied by the firm is situated opposite the post-office, comprising a basement and five floors, and is one of the best in Detroit. It is fitted up in the latest improved style, and is said to be the most complete establishment of its kind in the world. In the article referred to, the various departments are described, and of one which will interest our many readers, it speaks as follows: "The laboratory is a model institution. It is devoted to the compounding of pharmaceutical preparations, in which this firm has from the very commencement of its operations held a high reputation. The laboratory is under the direction of C. B. Hoyt, a graduate of the Ontario College of Pharmacy, a gentleman of acknowledged ability in the profession and possessed of large experience." The above gentleman is a son of Dr. Hoyt, of this town, and we congratulate him on the important position which he has attained and the success which has followed him since he has been associated with the above establishment.

$50,000 to Loan on Real Estate at Lowest Rates. Apply to Brown & Wells, Barristers. 1593tf

Parties requiring money on good security can obtain any amount they may require at from one to two per cent. cheaper than any where else by applying to P. O. Box 29, Ingersoll. Business strictly confidential. 82

Engraved calling cards at the Chronicle office.

A ROGUE OUTWITTED.

Recovery of a Stolen Horse and Rig—Hasty Departure of the Thief.

A horse thief was stopped in his speedy trip with a horse and rig hired from Mr. Guggisburg of Ingersoll, on Sunday afternoon, in a very peculiar manner, at Paris. The thief drove to the Royal hotel, kept by Charles McCabe, on Sunday evening, and asked for liquor. This was refused on the ground that all sorts of people, thieves, rogues and vagabonds, were going around the country, and no one was safe. The fellow thinking he was in a trap, made a hasty exit, and though he had said he was from the United States left no record. The horse and rig were examined, and the, dusty animal was found to be a good pacer, while the rig bore the name of an Ingersoll man. Mr. G. was telegraphed to on Monday, and went to Paris, claimed his property and came home happy. An odometer on the wheel showed that the rig had travelled 80 miles between two and eight o'clock on Sunday.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.

A Zorra Farmer Frightfully Mangled in the Harvest Field.

On Monday morning a young man named John McKay was cutting hay near Bremar, and by some means, unaccounted for, the horses ran away. It is supposed that the young man was jostled off the seat and thrown in such a position that his right foot got fastened in some part of the box, while his left leg was across one of the driving wheels, the inside of the thigh resting on it, and in this position he was held while the horses dashed off at a furious rate, and the revolving driving wheel with its rough teeth soon tore flesh and muscle away until it reached the bone which it wore through to the marrow. From this terrible position he was thrown on to the cutting bar, and strange to say, the knife did not injure him at all; but his body is almost covered with jagged wounds, the flesh being rubbed or torn off. Doctors were immediately called and dressed the wounds which are simply terrible.—Courier.

CONCERNING A HORSE TRADE.

In which the Notorious Clouse's Figure.

E. Clouse, of Brantford, and Mr. Goatcher, of Mt. Pleasant, traded horses on Wednesday last at Mt. Pleasant, with the understanding that if the animals did not suit them they should meet on the market square Brantford, Thursday morning and again change back. Mr. Goatcher after the trade gave his new possession a trial spin, when he found that the animal was a balker of the worst type. According to the agreement he came to the city Thursday, but Clouse was not to be found. Hearing that he was in Cainsville, he proceeded there with a constable and met Clouse driving his newly acquired horse, and neither threat or persuasion could make him cancel the trade. Goatcher accordingly laid a complaint before Squire Grace, and the police at Ingersoll were telegraphed to look out for Clouse, who was expected to visit that place, and in a few hours the fellow was arrested. A Brantford officer proceeded to Ingersoll and returned last evening with the prisoner, who was forthwith lodged in jail. This morning, however, a son of Clouse's settled the matter out of court by paying a sum of money down, Goatcher being returned his horse.—Brantford Courier.

Presentation to Miss Dyke.

Miss Dyke, who has resigned her position in the Ingersoll Model School, has for several years been one of the most successful teachers in that institution. Being, what is so seldom found in the profession to-day, a natural teacher and disciplinarian. Miss Dyke has occupied the foremost ranks of the profession. Many of our students date their first love for study and their determination to rise higher to the time they were placed under her charge. And her fellow-teachers wishing to show the high esteem in which she is held by them, presented her, on Wednesday evening, with a magnificent epergne, with the following address. The address was read by Miss Poole and the presentation made by Miss Baxter.

To Miss Hattie Dyke,

Dear Friend,—In consequence of the momentous change which you are about to make in your relationships and surroundings, necessitating a severance from past associations; we your fellow-teachers in the Ingersoll schools in which you have long held an honored and highly useful position, desire to mark our affectionate esteem on the occasion of your leaving us, by presenting to you a memorial gift, hoping that while it points your remembrance backwards to successful achievements in the past it may help to point your aspirations on to higher achievements in becoming more and more the worthy helpmeet of a favored member of our honored profession. Adding our earnest wishes that you may have many years of happiness and prosperity in your new sphere of life.

We remain yours sincerely,

M. A. Graham,	M. M. Dingman.
L. Jemmison,	J. Poole,
M. A. Clement,	C. McNeil,
J. Baxter,	M. Drury,
L. A. Barr,	S. Stimson,
J. S. Deacon,	F. Merchant,
	W. Bryden.

Also on Friday afternoon Miss Dyke was presented with many handsome presents from her former pupils, and a beautiful plush satchel and the following address from her present class:

Miss Dyke,

Dear Teacher,—To-day, which brings to a close our relationship of pupils and teacher, we, your loving and appreciative pupils, wish in some faint manner, to express our affection and appreciation of the care and labor you have bestowed upon us, during the time we have had the privilege of being under your tuition. Care and labor the full benefit of which we will realize more and more fully, as we press onward and upward in our school life. Permit us, then, to present to you this small gift, which we wish to serve as a memorial of our affection for you, and as a reminder of all the pleasant days we have spent together.

With love and best wishes for future happiness we are your loving pupils.

Signed on behalf of the class,

Lizzie Downing.
Lilly Vance.

Personal.

Post Master Gibson left on Monday for a trip up Lake Huron.

Mrs. John Bell, of Detroit, is in town visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. Jas. McGolrick, of Chatham, was in town this week.

Mrs. Millard, of Stouffville is spending her vacation at "Homewood" with Mrs. F. Wixson.

Mr. D. A. McMichael, of Toronto, was in town yesterday.

Miss Skene of Tilsonburg is visiting her brother, Jas. Skene.

Mr. S. Houser, the popular ticket agent of the Grand Trunk, is seriously ill of inflammation of the bowels.

Mr. Jackson, associated with Mr. J. C. Hegler, barrister, left yesterday for a fortnight's rest among the Thousand Isles.

On Saturday, A. Shaw, J. T. Christison, J. Matheson and John Christison left for Wiarton, where they intend camping out for a couple of weeks.

Mr Geo. McBroom, Sec. London Exhibition, is in town furthering the interests of the Western Fair. He predicts that this Fall Fair will be the most successful yet held.

St. Thomas Journal: It is understood that one of the teachers in the Collegiate Institute who commenced his holidays as a bachelor will end them as a benedict. Mr. N. W. Ford will shortly wed one of Ingersoll's fair daughters, and his many friends in this city will wish him joy.

Noxon's Low Down Binder.

Noxon Bros. Mfg. Co.

We the undersigned have this day seen your Low Down Platform Binder at work in very short barley and heavy green fall wheat, and it did its work in a very satisfactory manner. Only two horses were required to work it. We pronounce the machine a decided success.

William Henderson,	James Halpin,
D. McPherson,	Adam Gordon,
Alex. Henderson,	Chas. Horseman,
	Russel Day.

North Oxford, July 23rd, 1884.

Don't fail to hear the Milanese Students at the skating rink on Tuesday evening next.

Lawn Tennis.—The St. Thomas lawn tennis players defeated the Chatham players Thursday by a score of 6 to 4. The St. Thomas court consisted of Messrs. Lawson, Jones, Duncombe and McClintock.—A game of lawn tennis was played at Woodstock on Saturday for the championship of the town—double sets. The following was the result:—A. E. Longmore and C. E. Clarke, 1st set 6, 2nd 6, 3rd 6; A. Strachan and A. W. Harte, 1st set 4, 2nd 1, 3rd 3.

N. & W. Oxford Agricultural Society.—At the last meeting of the Board of Directors held on Saturday evening, it was decided to hold the Fall Show on the 7th and 8th of October. The Committees in the several departments are busy in completing their arrangements to make the Fair of 1884 superior to any other ever held in Ingersoll. The Committee on sports and amusements to take place during the days and evenings of the fair, met on Tuesday evening to deliberate on a programme which will no doubt form a very attractive feature during fair time.

THESE ARE SOLID FACTS.

The best blood purifier and system regulator ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity, truly is Electric Bitters. Inactivity of the Liver, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Weak Kidneys, or any disease of the urinary organs, or whoever requires an appetizer, tonic or mild stimulant, will always find Electric Bitters the best and only certain cure known. They act surely and quickly, every bottle guaranteed to give entire satisfaction or money refunded. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by John Gayfer, druggist. 101

DISTRICT NEWS.

Dereham.

Wm. Harris, near Dereham Centre, has just raised the largest barn in the Township. The dimensions are prodigious. The raising which took place on Thursday last was attended by nearly every healthy, able bodied man in the surrounding county. Mr. Harris knows just how to make a crowd feel at home. We hope he may be able to fill his barn every year.

Mt. Elgin.

Mr. J. W. Moyer, teacher, is spending his vacation here.

Mr. Edington and family started on Monday for a two week's trip to Muskoka.

Rev. Mr. Speller of Ingersoll gave a very interesting lecture on "church work"

Our Base Ballists feel very much elated at their victory over the Ingersoll Club last Friday.

Mr. Marsh of the Evangelical Association occupied the pulpit of the Baptist Church on Sabbath.

The crops in this locality present a splendid appearance and give promise of a most abundant harvest.

Butchers and fresh fish men are as plentiful as Mosquitos in this neighborhood at present.

Quite a number of our young folks took an excursion to Grimsby Camp Grounds on Tuesday last they report a very pleasant time.

Thamesford.

Mr. Frank Patterson has sold his heavy draught team for $550.

Miss Eva Bageant from this school has passed the High School examination with credit.

Haying and fall wheat harvesting are fairly under way. Both crops will be above the average.

Mr. Hodgins, late teacher but at present student at Helmuth College, is visiting friends here. Glad to see you Jim.

Mrs. Marion Cowan started on her return trip to Winnipeg on Friday. On the same day Miss Janet Oliver arrived home from Brandon.

William Oliver, father of the above, sustained severe injuries on Monday by falling from a hayloft at Cawthrop's, his head coming in contact with the steps in succession during the fall. Hopes are entertained of his recovery, tho' two of his ribs are broken from the spine, but nothing definite can be said.

North Oxford.

James McCartney is the happy possessor of a young son, born on July 12. James feels pretty large as he has had five daughters before.

Albert W. Connor's family of three children have been very sick with something like diphtheria but are all improving. A. W. himself was kicked by one of his horses and was laid up about a week but is getting all right again.

The following are the names of those pupils in S. S. No. 2, who did 50 per cent. and over of the work for the month of June:

Fourth class—Frank Simpson, 60 per cent; Lennie Spearman, 54 per cent.; Hunie Leslie, 53 per cent.

Third class—Eddie Connor, 76 per cent.; Lizzie Spearman, 65 per cent.

Second class, senior—Ethel Edwards, 68 per cent.; Adam Ross, 63 per cent.; Willie Leslie, 62 per cent.; Lizzie Ross, 56 per cent.

Second class, junior—Blanche Clark, 83 per cent.; Emma Spearman, 72 per cent.; Mahalah Myra Fassett, 50 per cent.

Avon.

The last of the June cheese were shipped last Saturday.

Miss Bella McCallum returned from her visit to New York State last Saturday well pleased with her visit.

Mr. E. Hegler and wife of Ingersoll paid their friends in this place a visit the forepart of this week.

Miss M. Reynolds, of Detroit, Mich., is visiting at her father's, Rev. J. Reynolds, of this place

Mr. Swartout is giving good satisfaction in the cheese business. He has engaged Mr. Sanderson of Culloden to help him the remainder of the season.

Mrs. L. Fraser, of Pt. Huron, Mich., (formerly of this place) and her daughter, Mrs. Francis, of Harrietsville, were visiting their friends in this vicinity the forepart of this week.

Mr. Alvin Crooks, of this place, had his hand severely hurt last week at the raising of Mr. Tand. Fleming. Dr. Lancaster of Culloden dressed the wound but happily found no bones broken.

Mr. Tand A. Fleming, of the 8th con., raised, last Friday, one of the largest barns in this vicinity. Messrs. G. Laur and D. Corless performed the duties of captains at the raising. Mr. Laur's side came out best in the conflict.

West Oxford.

Council met pursuant to adjournment on the 7th inst. Minutes of last meeting approved. Petition from W. J. Coventry and others requesting a ditch or watercourse to be made from the Dereham townline to the townline of East Oxford presented. Mr. Jas. Stevenson applied for confirmation deed of the road allowance between the 3rd and 4th concessions in the rear of lot No. 19, purchased by him in 1866, the original deed having been destroyed by fire. Account from Patullo & Co. presented. On motion it was resolved That the Reeve execute a deed of conveyance of the original allowance for road between the 3rd and 4th concessions, in the rear of lot No. 19, in the 3rd concession of West Oxford to James Stevenson, agreeable to By-law No. 99 and resolution No. 3, passed on the 22nd November 1866 the conveyance of said land having been destroyed by fire precious to registration. By-law No. 276 to appoint certain persons to form and constitute a Board of Health for the township of West Oxford passed. By-law No. 277 to close and sell the original allowance for road between the 4th and 5th concessions, across lots No. 13 and 14 of West Oxford passed. The petition of W. J. Coventry and others, was laid over for further consideration. It was resolved that the Reeve sign orders on the treasurer in favour of Patullo & Co. for payment of account for printing advt; in favour of H. T. Martin for one dollar and eighty cents refund of taxes collected in 1883; in favour of F. Karn for $15 for benefit of David McCombs and family; in favour of J. Fairbain for fifty cents, for goods supplied to Ackva, an indigent; in favour of F. Karn for ten dollars for disbursements in draining on the quarter townline; in favour of Geo. Heaketh for $9, two thirds value of one sheep killed and 4 worried by dogs; in favour of Jas. Curry for $8 for the benefit of Thos. Ranger, an indigent; in favour of F. Karn for $5 for the benefit of widow Bartlett; in favour of C. Mason for $2 for posting notices and school manual; in favour of the several councillors for $2 each for one days session. Council adjourned to meet again on Monday the 18th August when applications from the several school trustees, for monies for school purposes, if not previously made will be received.

A REMARKABLE ESCAPE.

Mrs. Mary A. Dailey of Tunkhannock, Pa., was afflicted for six years with Asthma and Bronchitis, during which time the best physicians could give no relief. Her life was despaired of, until in last October she procured a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, when immediate relief was felt, and by continuing its use for a short time she was completely cured, gaining in flesh 50 lbs. in a few months. Free Trial Bottles of this certain cure of all Throat and Lung Diseases at Gayfer's Drug Store. Large bottles $1. 101

The Kingston Salvationists raised sixty dollars to make a presentation to "Captain" Hughes. They bought a twenty-dollar Bible and pocketed the rest. There is now a hub bub in army circles.

An exciting scene occurred at the Sunday morning's service in the Chapter House, London, caused by the sudden and alarming illness of Dean Boomer, who was officiating as usual. The venerable gentleman was about to conclude his sermon, when he was observed to falter. His articulation became strongly affected, and he seemed quite overcome and about to fall, seeing which, several gentlemen who sat in the front pews, sprang to his assistance. The cause of his sudden illness was paralysis of the right side.

All kinds of canned goods guaranteed good at Beck's. 80.

Fizz! Zip! goes the Soda Fountain at R. Vance's Confectionery. 02

Literary Notes.

The August number of Harper's Magazine is now ready, and a beautiful periodical it is in all its departments.

How to Grow Celery" is a pamphlet that comes to us from York, Pa., Mrs. H. M. Crider says she has discovered a new method. Now is a good time to plant celery if it was not planted ten days ago. Twenty-five cents will get the book.

Mr. Julian Hawthorne gives in his adhesion to the cause of muscular Christianity in a paper on "The Building of the Muscle," to appear in the August Harper's. The paper includes a pleasant sketch of his college-mate Blaikie, and expresses the belief that "young men cannot make one another's acquaintance upon a sounder and more natural ground than is afforded by their muscles."

Kitty Kent's Troubles.—By Julia A. Eastman. Illustrated. Boston: D. Lothrop & Co. Price 25 cents. The publishers have shown rare judgment in putting this excellent story into their new and popular Young Folks' Library. Miss Eastman, it will be remembered, took the prize of one thousand dollars offered several years ago by this house, for the best Sunday-school story, and the present book is in every particular its equal.

The Art Interchange of July 17 contains a most novel and beautiful design in color for embroidered border. Other illustrations in the same issue are a sketch of woman and child for charcoal drawing; a design of Canterbury bells, for painting on plaque or panel a double page illustration of charming forest interior for painting upon canvas; designs for a'ttile and for cup and saucer for beginners in china painting accompanied by very careful directions for treatment and a South Kensington embroidery design for dining-room table cover. In the department of Notes and Queries instruction is given in painting on canvas and china, crayon drawing, decorating note paper, house furnishing, and treatment of screens, table scarfs, etc. Sample copy 10 cents. Published by William Whitlock, 140 Nassau Street, New York.

FOREIGN NEWS ITEMS.

AN OCEAN STEAMER WRECKED.

The steamer Vicksburg, bound for Quebec, has been wrecked in the skerries in the Pentland Firth, off the north-east coast of Scotland. Nine persons perished.

COLLISION BETWEEN IRONCLADS.

The British ironclads Defence and Valiant collided on Monday night in Bantry Bay. The Valiant lost several boats, had her bulwarks smashed and many armor plates tore off. The Defence had a hole eleven feet long and half a foot wide stove in her ram. No lives were lost. The captain of the Defence will be court-martialled.

IMPORTATION OF AMERICAN CATTLE.

The Marquis of Lorne will introduce to Lord Carlingford next week a deputation which favors the importation of healthy cattle from the Western States of America, through Canada, which will show him that English farmers want American cattle. The deputation will represent that the laws of the States from which the cattle come are sufficiently strict to prevent the spread of disease.

RAILWAY EXTENSION IN INDIA.

The Committee of the House of Commons has agreed to recommend a loan to the Indian Government of £140,000,000 for the purpose of making extensions of the railway system. The grant is based upon the report of the famine commissioners of 1879, who stated it would be necessary to build 5,000 miles of railway to prevent the recurrence of famine in India.

THE SOUDAN TROUBLES.

The Mudir of Dongola telegraphs he has received a despatch from General Gordon, dated June 22, saying Khartoum and Sennaar are safe. General Gordon had eight thousand men and asked for reinforcements. Advices from Assouan says a reconnaissance has been made for 50 miles, but no trace of the enemy was seen. Several of the Mehdi's emissaries have been arrested at Korosko. Traders arriving there report the roads to Dongola and Wady Haifa safe.

TO EXPLORE THE DESERTS.

Prof. Schweinfurth, of Berlin, will make a tour of exploration of the Egyptian deserts during the coming winter, in behalf of the Berlin Academy of Sciences. One of his principal objects will be to secure trigonometrical and geometrical surveys of those little-known regions. He also takes an active interest in the success of the Soudan Company's project.

THE CHINESE INDEMNITY.

M. Ferry has reduced the amount of indemnity demanded from China to fifty million francs. He has contracted with Pekin states that the Chinese Government have offered three million as compensation to the families of the officers and soldiers killed during the recent attack by the Chinese regulars upon the French troops at Langson. Admiral Courbet, with fifteen war ships and two torpedo boats, has anchored off Foo Chow.

THE PORTE INDIGNANT.

The Porte has sent a circular to the Powers, notifying them of its assumption of the postal service. The note says the existence of foreign postoffices in Turkey is an infringement on the sovereign rights of the Sultan. The Porte insists upon the prepayment of letters with only Ottoman stamps, and the Powers are invited to close their respective offices. It is rumored that the Porte on the 1st of August will surround the foreign offices in Constantinople with gendarmes to prevent the posting of letters. The various ambassadors to Turkey have asked their respective Governments for orders in view of such an emergency.

THE FRANCHISE BILL.

The trades demonstration in favor of the franchise bill took place on Monday afternoon. All the approaches to the Thames embankment were thronged with thousands of people from all parts of the country, who covered the embankment between Charing Cross and Westminster. The crowd manifested the utmost good humor, and no attempt was made to interfere with the procession. The Prince and Princess of Wales witnessed the procession from Whitehall. There were fully 750,000 persons in the procession, which passed through the streets quietly amid good-humored chaff. At the speakers' stands in Hyde Park a resolution condemning the action of the House of Lords for its opposition to the franchise bill in very strong language was put and carried amid great cheering.

TO TAP THE PACIFIC MAIN LINE.

The Contract for the Construction of the Callendar Branch Awarded.

The directors of the Northern and Pacific Junction Railway have awarded the contract for constructing the Callendar extension to Symmes, Dawson, Hendrie & Co. The extension will connect Gravenhurst, the present Northern terminus, with the Canada Pacific at Callendar, a distance of 114 miles. The line is to be finished by the 1st of May, 1886. The contract is let at a certain price per mile, the price varying according to the character of the section through which the line passes. This extension will give Toronto, Hamilton and all Western Ontario an easy and direct connection with the Canada Pacific, via the Hamilton and North-Western. The branch will be built by an independent company, but leased to and operated by the Northern. The capitalists behind the new undertaking are already largely interested in the Northern and North-Western. Of the members of the firm Mr. Symmes is an experienced railway contractor, who, in conjunction with Mr. Dawson, also one of the partners, has lately executed a heavy railway contract in the United States. Messrs. John and James Hendrie are sons of William Hendrie, of Hamilton.

Discovery of a Comet.

Rochester, N.Y., July 19.—Dr. Swift, director of Warner Observatory, received intelligence of the discovery of a comet by Prof. Barnard, of Nashville, on the night of the 16th, and verified it by motion to-night. It seems growing brighter. This is the first comet discovered in the Northern Hemisphere this year.

Fresh Fish.—We will have constantly on hand a supply of Fresh Trout, White Fish, and Herring. Beck's Fruit Store. Telephone communication. 01

Ice Cream Parlours are now open at R. Vance's Confectionery. Call in and see them. You will get the genuine article there. 02

Call and see the immense stock of Wall Papers, Floor Oil Cloths, Window Cornices, Window Shades, &c., at L. Thompson's McCaughey's Block. 41.

FARM AND DAIRY MATTERS.

INGERSOLL MARKETS.

GRAIN AND SEEDS.

White Wheat, per bush.	$ 95	to	1 05
Red Fall Wheat	1 00	to	1 10
Spring Wheat	1 00	to	1 10
Barley	50	to	60
Peas "	65	to	75
Oats, "	30	to	40
Corn "	60	to	65
Buckwheat "	60	to	64
Rye "	55	to	60
Clover Seed per bush.	7 50	to	8 50
Timothy Seed "	2 00	to	2 50

PRODUCE.

Potatoes, per bushel	0 90	to	1 00
Onions "	0 75	to	0 80
Apples "	0 00	to	15
Dried Apples per lb	9	to	10
Tallow "	6	to	06
Lard "	11	to	12
Dressed Hogs, per 100 lbs.	7 50	to	8 00
Live Hogs,	5 00	to	6 00
Hay, per ton	9 00	to	10 00
Straw, per Load	2 50	to	3 00
Beef Hides,	0 05	to	0 06
Calf Skins	0 00	to	0 10
Lamb Skins	0 60	to	0 80
Pelts	0 30	to	0 40
Wool,	0 18	to	0 20

PROVISIONS.

Flour, old process, 100 lbs.	2 50	to	2 75
Flour, new process, Fall, 100 lbs.	2 75	to	3 00
Oatmeal	2 00	to	2 75
Cornmeal	0 00	to	1 90
Pork, per ton	12 00	to	14 00
Shorts	00 00	to	18 00
Marrowfat Peas	0 70	to	0 85
Butter, tub	12½	to	15
Butter, rolls, per lb	16	to	18
Cheese,	8½	to	9
Stilton Cheese	15	to	20
Sugar Cured Canvas Hams	12	to	14
Bacon, 100 lbs.	8 00	to	9 00
Eggs, per dozen	13	to	14
Geese,	45	to	50
Chickens, per pair	40	to	60
Ducks, "	60	to	00
Turkeys, per lb.	0 10	to	0 14
Beef, per lb	07	to	12

INGERSOLL CHEESE MARKET.

Most of the first half of July make having been disposed of the offerings at the market on Tuesday were light, nine factories registering 2,567 boxes. Sales were made as follows:—440 at 9½c., 900 at 9⅝c., 300 at 9¾c. As compared with last week the market was easier, although the bulk sold one-eighth higher. The cable has dropped 3d. since our last report, and no one will be surprised should it go still lower.

At this period last year 595 boxes sold at 10c., and 75 at 9½c. Cable then 51s6d.

PETERBORO' CHEESE MARKET.

On Monday 2,543 boxes were offered for sale. Of this amount 1,714 boxes were sold at 8¾c.

BROCKVILLE CHEESE MARKET.

At Brockville on Friday only 500 boxes sold but this brought 8¾c. to 9.

MONTREAL CHEESE MARKET.

Receipts from 1st Jan. to 16th July, 1884, 167,923 boxes; same period, 1883, 118,818. Exports, same period, 1884, 359,173; do., 1883, 272,110. Cheese, 9c. to 9¾c. The market has been active and higher prices prevailed. Exports 30,363 boxes. Butter, Eastern Townships, 16c. to 17c.

UTICA CHEESE MARKET.

July 21.—Sales of 700 boxes, 8¾c; 800 at 8⅞; 1,200 at 9c; 350 at 9⅛c; 1,100 at 9⅛c; and 300 at 9¼c. Consignments, 2,400. Market quiet.

LITTLE FALLS CHEESE MARKET.

July 21.—Sales, 9,150 boxes at 8¾c to 9¼c, whereof 6,100 were at 9¼c.

NEW YORK CHEESE MARKET.

Saturday evening, July 19th.—The battle of the past week appears to have left a few wounded upon the field, but the injuries are not of a very serious character, and there is evidently a strong determination to bring about a speedy recovery, if possible. A great many receivers, and, indeed, the majority have let stock go and accepted the shrinkage on rate when no other course was left for them, but others are carrying over goods rather than make a loss, and seem to think it will pay. They do not calculate so much upon a natural development of demand from shippers as they do upon the action of the factorymen in holding back stock, though we find some operators who claim the slack tone of the week to have been altogether unnecessary had sellers both here and abroad remained calm. Most shippers, and many receivers, insist that there was no help for the re-action as the withdrawal of speculative support, leaving business depending upon natural demand alone, and claim that indications are still in buyers' favor. It will, therefore, be noted that the usual line of demarkation between buyers and sellers is more obscure than during the earlier portion of the season, and with an occasional bit of personal feeling to be found among the influence current, the market is really in a somewhat nominal condition at the moment. Coming right down to the basis of business, open is freely reported by operators who are always ready and willing to furnish proper information, and who are rarely found to have made "mistakes," there is no evidence that anything above our figures would represent the market with same chances in favor of a lower range. Cable accounts continue tame and one dispatch reduces the quotation to 48s. Exports for week, 93,600 boxes.

A dispatch posted at Produce Exchange as follows: Sinclairville,—Offering, 4,000 boxes; sales, 1,761 boxes at 8¾ to 8⅞c., ruling 8¾c. Balance carried over.

Sale factory, full cream fancy, 9c. to 9¼
State factory, full cream, fine..... 9 to 9¼
Sale factory, faulty, full cream..... 8½ to 8¾

LIVERPOOL QUOTATIONS TO N. Y. PRODUCE EXCHANGE—1:30 P. M.

Cheese—American choice, 48s. 6d. Dull

LIVERPOOL PROVISION MARKET.

Reported for THE CHRONICLE and DAIRYMAN by Messrs. William Heapy & Sons.

Liverpool, July 8, 1884.

Cheese:—With only a retail demand and liberal receipts, values have again given way. The tendency to-day is toward a still easier range of prices. The bulk offering is heated and out of condition. Nearest values are as under. Market closes very quiet. Finest, 45s. to 47s.; Fine, 30s. to 35s.; Mediums, useful descriptions, 12s. to 20s.; Common, 2s. to 5s.

Butter:—The arrivals continuing liberal and weather being rather warm, holders are anxious sellers. Values are a shade easier. Factory made realize 65s. to 70s. Creameries, 85s. to 90s. There is absolutely no demand for anything stale or out of condition. Quotations for this description are therefore entirely nominal. Nearest values are: Brockvilles and Morrisburgs, fall made, 45s. to 50s.; Irish continue in good supply, prices easier, quality continues very fine; Clonmels and Tipperarys sell at 90s. to 96s.; Extra choice, 98s.; Useful descriptions, 75s. to 85s.

Bacon:—With higher cable quotations and improved demand, prices are fully 1s. per cwt. higher than last week. Market closes firm. Quotations are: Long Clear, ordinary contract qualities, 39s. to 40s. 6d.; Long and Short Clear together, 41s.; Short Clear, scarce, 42s. 6d. to 43s.; Light Long Clear, 39s. to 40s.; Staffordshire, to the fancy cuts, 39s. 6d. to 44s.; Stale, 30s. to 34s.; Cumberland Cut, stale, 28s. to 32s.; Fresh Landed, 40s. to 44s.; Short Ribs, 41s. 6d. to 43s. 6d.; Long Rib, 41s. to 47s.; Clear Bellies, ordinary brands, 42s. to 46s.; Proprietary Brands, 50s. to 52s.; Rib in, 38s. to 41s.; Shoulders, choice brands, 40s. to 41s. 6d.; Ordinary Brands, 32s. to 36s.

Hams:—With a further consumptive enquiry values are unchanged. Fresh landed long cuts, 61s. to 63s.; special brands, 64s.; stale parcels, 50s. to 54s.; Stafford cuts, fresh, heavy weights, 56s. to 58s.; choice, 63s. to 67s.; Manchester cuts, 60s. to 67s.; American cuts, 60s. to 67s.

Lard:—With higher cable quotations at the close of last week and a better feeling displayed here and more consumptive enquiry, the decline has been fully recovered. Market

FARM AND DAIRY.

The Medicine Chest.

[The following is a list of remedies for the domestic veterinary treatment of farm stock arranged in alphabetical order, with the doses for different animals, by Prof. Brown, in the current number of the Journal of the Royal Agricultural Society.]

ACONITE—Tincture (Fleming's); action sedative; allays fever and externally relieves irritation. Dose: horse and ox, 10 to 30 drops; sheep, 5 drops; add water in proportion of a tablespoonful to each drop of tincture. For a lotion, use 1 tablespoonful of the tincture to a pint of water.

ALCOHO —In the form of whiskey, brandy or strong ale, alcohol is useful for cases in which the system requires to be temporarily raised from a state of depression. Doses; horse or ox, whiskey or brandy, 4 to 8 tablespoonfuls; sheep, 1 to 3 tablespoonfuls. Strong ale, horse or ox, 1 pint; sheep, quarter of a pint; repeat two or three times a day.

ALOAS—A purgative for a horse or ox. The ordinary aloetic mass and the solution should be kept at hand; both preparations must be obtained from a druggist. Doses: horses, 4 to 6 drachms of the aloetic mass as an ordinary purgative; ox half a pint of the solution, usually given in combination with linseed oil, in cases of continued constipation.

AMMONIA LINIMENT—Made by adding a strong solution of ammonia and oil of turpentine, an eighth part, to soap liniment. A pint bottle, carefully stoppered should be kept at hand. The liniment is useful as an application for sore throat, and for all cases in which an external stimulant is necessary. Must be applied with the hand and well rubbed into the skin.

ARECA NUT—A useful worm medicine. The nuts should be kept in a stoppered bottle in a dry place. When required for use the quantity should be grated by means of a nutmeg grater. Doses: horse or ox, half an ounce to an ounce of the grated nut, mixed with the food, corn and bran; sheep, 2 drachms; dog, half to 1 drachm.

CALVES' CORDIAL—A form of chalk mixture for calves and sheep. To be prepared by a chemist as follows: Prepared chalk, 2 ounces, powdered catechu, 1 ounce; ginger, ½ ounce; opium, 1 drachm; peppermint water, 1 pint. Dose: calves 2 to 4 tablespoonfuls; sheep, 1 to 2 tablespoonfuls.

CARBOLIC ACID—A powerful caustic and antiseptic, ordinarily used in combination with 50 to 100 parts of water, as an antiseptic lotion to unhealthy wounds and for disinfection purposes.

CARBOLIZED COTTON AND GAUZE—To be obtained of the druggist. Valuable antiseptic application to wounds.

CASTEE OIL, ALSO LINSEED OIL—Purgative. Doses: horse or ox, 1 to 2 pints; sheep, 4 tablespoonfuls.

COLIC MIXTURE—Equal parts of laudanum and sweet spirits of nitre, and an eighth part of chloeric ether. A half-pint bottle to be kept at hand. Dose: horse or ox, 2 to 4 tablespoonfuls in three parts of a pint of water.

ELECTUARY—A soft mass, compounded with honey or treacle; must be prepared by a druggist as follows: Camphor, 2 ounces; powdered myrrh, licorice root and nitre, of each, 8 ounces; extract of belladonna, 2 ounces, treacle, enough to make a soft paste. Dose: horse or ox, a portion of the size of half a walnut, to be put at the back of the mouth two or three times a day with a piece of stick. Useful in colds, sore throat and influenza.

GINGER—Stimulant: forms an essential part of all cordial powders for exciting appetite; may be given with strong ale in cases of prostration from overwork or disease. Dose: horse or ox, 1 to 2 teaspoonfuls of the powder in a pint of ale; sheep, one-fourth of the quantity.

MERCURIAL OINTMENT (blue)—To be purchased ready for use. Valuable to promote the growth of hair, and in some forms of skin disease; only small quantities may be applied.

MERCURIAL OINTMENT (red)—Biniodide of mercury. A good form for blisters in cases of splint or after sprain of tendons.

NITRE (nitrate of potash)—Diuretic and fever medicine. Dose: horse or ox, 2 tablespoonfuls daily in the drinking water, or half the quantity in the food; sheep, 1 teaspoonful in the food.

SALTS (Epsom or Glauber)—Common purgatives for cattle and sheep. Dose: ox, 12 to 16 ounces, dissolved in a wine bottle of hot water; a tablespoonful of ginger may be added; sheep, 4 to 6 ounces.

SALICYLIC ACID—A valuable antiseptic; effective in the treatment of foot-and-mouth disease. Dose; four tablespoonfuls of the acid are to be put in an earthen vessel and dissolved in a quart of boiling water; hot water is then to be added to make a gallon. This solution is to be used to syringe the feet and lave the mouth and nostrils, and also to wash the udder, and finally to sprinkle over the litter; half a pint of the solution may be added to the gallon of drinking water every day. The dry acid (powder) may be sprinkled on the feet after they have been syringed with the solution.

SANTONINE—Used to expel worms, one of the most effective agents for this purpose. Dose: horse, 15 grains with three drachms of aloes, to be given in the morning before feeding, and repeated after two days.

SULPHUR (flour of sulpher)—A very valuable alterative. Dose: horse or ox, a tablespoonful, with a teaspoonful of nitre, may be given in the food once a day; sheep, quarter of the quantity. Sulphur mixed with any common oil forms an excellent dressing for mange or surfeit in animals.

TURPENTINE, OIL OF—Stimulant to the skin. Internally used to expel worms, useful in "husk in calves." Dose: a tablespoonful daily in half a pint of a mixture of milk and eggs. Lambs, one quarter of the quantity.

VASELINE — Emollient to the skin, effective irritation of the surface, chapped heels, mud fever, especially if mixed with an eighth part of trisnitrate of bismuth or carbonate of lead (white lead), or oxide of zinc.

SINC, CHLORIDE OF [Sir William Burnett's disinfecting fluid]—Mixed with 50 to 100 parts of water, may be used for the purpose for which carbolic acid is employed.

A dry goods salesman says:—'We have to endure a great deal at the hands of those ladies who never buy. These people take up valuable time, and a good part of our energies is directed to the effort to circumvent them. The moment an 'old timer' comes up to the counter she is instantly recognized by some one of the salesmen, and the warning signal, a tap on the counter, is passed along the line. Then we have some fun. The 'old timer' will call for, say a certain shade of yellow. She is told it is not in stock. 'Oh, what a pity!' she exclaims, 'that is just what I wanted. If you had it I would buy sixteen yards of it.' Then it is the next man's turn. He comes up, accordingly, and tells the first salesman that he is mistaken, that there is still a bolt of twenty yards of that identical stuff in the store. He brings it forward and lays it down. You would think the shopper who never buys would be disconcerted at this turn of affairs. Not a bit of it. She says smilingly: 'Oh, that is just what I want. Lay it aside for me, and I will see my dressmaker and find out just how many yards she needs, and to-morrow I'll come back and buy it.' Then she departs with a simper, but she never comes back. We amuse ourselves in this way, but it's a terrible nuisance all the same.

Derby, N.B., Jan. 6, 1883.

I caught a cold last fall on the stage coach going to Chatham, which settled in a very severe cough, and finally I was confined to my room. I feared it would very soon terminate in consumption as I was growing weaker and weaker every day. I got very much alarmed; could not sleep for want of breath, when my doctor advised me to try Dr. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam. I felt sceptical at first, but after using one bottle found I was recovering, and on finishing one bottle was a new man, cough gone, and completely cured. It is well named the "great remedy."

E. WALLACE.

A deserted waste—The old maid's.

Mr. Henry Marshall, Reeve of Dunn, writes: 'Some time ago I got a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery rom Mr. Harrison, and I consider it the very best medicine extant for Dyspepsia.' This medicine is making marvellous cure in Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, etc., in purifying the blood and restoring manhood to full vigor,

FARM AND GARDEN.

Sweet-Peas.

Among out-door climbing plants the sweet-pea takes a prominent place as a general favorite among lovers of flowers; and surely it should be a favorite, for but few garden plants are hardier, and none sweeter or more beautiful than this enterprising climber. If planted early in the spring, even though the weather be not fair, the seeds soon germinate and send up a vigorous growth which is not diminished until cold weather and frost come on. As the sweet-pea continues to bloom all summer and makes a very heavy growth, it forms a very good screen for unsightly objects, or it may be made to act as a protection for tender plants. It grows to a height of six feet, and may therefore prove a very ornamental covering for a trellis work or rough fences. There is quite a variety of colors of sweet-peas—white, rose, red, crimson, purple, black, striped, etc. The seeds should be planted three or four inches deep, early in the spring. The plants should be grown about an inch apart, and support should be furnished early. Either trellis, lattice or bush makes an admirable support.

The varieties of sweet-peas are numerous. Butterfly is a very beautiful one, having a pure white ground delicately laced with lavender blue; it is exceedingly fragrant, and is desirable for bouquets. Scarlet Invincible is remarkably fragrant, and produces a number of crimson flowers. Violet Queen is dwarfer in habit than any of the other varieties; the flowers are of a deep violet color. Almost all the varieties advertised in seedsmen's catalogues will be found to be very beautiful and attractive, and a great addition to the garden.—Rural New Yorker.

Reviving Fruit Trees.

Mr. S. D. Pratt writes to the American Institute Farmers' Club about the care of fruit trees as follows: "Remembering Professor Liebig's theory that when a vegetable is burned, the part which came from the air in the process of its growth returns to the atmosphere, and the part which came from the ground is reduced to ashes, I came to the conclusion that ashes would be beneficial when applied to the roots of the trees. They were standing in the soil, strongly inclined to clay, with a turf around them that had not been removed for several years. After pruning them properly, removing every indication of worms, etc., and washing the body and branches with soapsuds, I began operations below, first removing the turf two feet around the tree; then with a garden pick the ground was loosened from six to twelve inches in depth, taking very great care not to injure the larger roots. Twenty or thirty quarts of loose dirt were removed, leaving a large cavity, shaped like a saucer, with the tree standing in the centre. About one pint of unleached ashes was sprinkled about the tree, and upon this chip manure was placed, nearly filling the cavity. Another pint of ashes was sprinkled upon the fertilizer, which was gently pressed down, and the hole covered with the loose dirt taken from the cavity, leaving the surface the same as it was, excepting the turf. A young orchard was treated in a similar way. The effect was wonderful. Plum trees that were going to the bad revived. Peach trees that had presented small and shrivelled leaves threw out luxuriant foliage, and cherry trees gave fruit larger and fairer than ever before."

Currant Bushes from Cuttings.

Few plants grow so readily from cuttings as the currant, providing the work be properly done. To attempt, as many do, to make cuttings root by cutting them from the bushes in the spring after the buds have started, will very often result in a failure; but if the cuttings be cut in autumn and buried in a sand bank until spring, success will be much more certain. Before the cuttings are placed in the sand they should be cut in such lengths as are desired for planting out. From six to ten inches may be considered proper lengths.

When cuttings are left until spring to be cut up, the top cuttings will not do so well, because while in the sand numerous roots are thrown out at the lower end of each cutting, thus giving it the advantage of a newly cut cutting; but if cut in proper lengths in the autumn all will have roots when taken from the sand. The cuttings should be set in good rich land that has no tendency to dry up during the hot weather; if a portion of shade can be afforded, so much the better; but if not, they will do very well in the sun.

In setting the cuttings they should never be set perpendicular, but on an angle of forty-five degrees, and set low enough so that only one or two buds shall be above the surface. In cultivation the greatest care should be taken not to start the cuttings, for unless they are well rooted it requires but very little to move one enough to kill it, or at least to prevent rapid growth. Cuttings properly set and well cared for will rarely fail to grow, and if the soil be rich and thoroughly prepared, will make a growth the first year of from six to eighteen inches. To get good strong roots they should be permitted to grow two years before transplanting, when they will be from two to three feet high, if they have been well manured and well cultivated. Careful watch must be kept during the months of May, June and July for the currant worm, and as soon as he makes his appearance hellebore should be freely dusted over the bushes; a neglect to do this for a single week may be fatal to the life of the cutting, at least during the first year, and a great injury the second year. In fact, whatever be the age of a currant bush the worms must be kept off to secure success.—Massachusetts Ploughman.

Mistaken for a More Distinguished Person.

An Englishman the other day boasted that he had been mistaken for a member of the royal family. A Scotchman hearing of this, replied that he had been addressed as the Duke of Argyll. Whereupon an Irishman said that he had been taken for a far greater person than either, for as he was walking along the street one day, a friend came up to him, exclaiming: "Holy Moses, is that you?"

The number of shocks in an earthquake varies indefinitely, as does the length of intervals between them. Sometimes the whole earthquake only lasts a few seconds. Thus, the city of Caracas was destroyed in about half a minute, 10,000 lives being lost in that time. Lisbon was overthrown in five or six minutes; but a succession of shocks may continue for hours, days, weeks, or months. The Calabrian earthquake, which began in February, 1783, lasted through a continued series of shocks for nearly four years, until the end of 1785. The area shaken by an earthquake varies with the intensity of the shock from a mere local tract, where a slight trembling has been experienced, up to such catastrophes as that of Lisbon, which convulsed not only the Portuguese coasts, but extended into Iceland on the one hand and into Africa on the other, agitated lakes, rivers, and springs in Great Britian and caused Loch Lomond to rise and to subside with startling suddenness.

If you should be so unfortunate as to Burn, Scald or Wound yourself in any way the proper thing to keep clean and heal it is McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. Insist on having, and be sure you get, McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. Price 25 cents. Gayfer and Kneeshaw Druggists, has the genuine.

A well-paid barber—The man who shaves notes.

Holloway's Ointment—Go where you may, in every country and in all climes, persons will be found who have a ready word of praise for this Ointment. For chaps, chafes, scalds, bruises, and sprains, it is an invaluable remedy: for bad legs caused by accident or cold it may be confidently relied upon for effecting a sound and permanent cure. In cases of puffed ankles, erysipelas, and rheumatism, Holloway's Ointment gives the greatest comfort by reducing the inflammation, cooling the blood, soothing the nerves, adjusting the circulation, and expelling the impurities. This Ointment should have a place in every nursery. It will cure all those manifold skin affections, which, originating in childhood, gain strength with the child's growth.

The highly appropriate name of a Brooklyn beer saloon-keeper is Mugge.

THE best Cough Medicine we know of is Allen's Lung Balsam. See adv.

Most Egyptian names are built with an El part on them.

WORMS derange the whole system. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator deranges worms, and gives rest to the sufferer.

HOME TOPICS.

ower Sauce.

Take a cauliflower and boil it till quite tender. Drain and chop it small. Now put on the fire a pint of good white sauce, and when it is boiling stir into it the chopped cauliflower. Allow it to remain over the fire a minute or two, take off and serve.—The Caterer.

Blonde Sauce For Fish.

Take an onion, medium sized, and cut it up small, a sprig of parsley, two mushrooms, a lemon sliced very thin and a glass of white wine. Stew these for half an hour in three tablespoonfuls of stock made from Johnston's Fluid Beef or from the "Boullon du Bœuf." When nearly done add very slowly a cupful of melted butter and the well-beaten yolks of three eggs. Stir all well over the fire for four or five minutes, taking care that the contents do not boil. Strain through a sieve. This sauce may be used for any kind of fish.—The Caterer.

Cottage Cheese.

Take a pail of new, rich milk, put it in a kettle over the fire and let it scald (be careful that it does not boil, or the curd will become hard and tough); then strain through a thin, white cotton bag, allowing it to hang and drain all night. In the morning add a teaspoonful of salt, a small piece of butter and enough sweet cream to make the cheese of such consistency as you like. Most persons simply turn it into a dish and send to table with a pot of cream in addition; but it may be shaped in small moulds, or made up into rolls or cakes.—Virginia Cookery Book.

Strawberry Sponge.

One quart of strawberries, half a package of gelatine, one cupful and a half of water, one cupful of sugar, the juice of a lemon, the whites of four eggs. Soak the gelatine for two hours and a half in half a cupful of the water. Mash the strawberries and add half the sugar to them. Boil the remainder of the sugar and the water twenty minutes. Rub the strawberries through a sieve. Add the gelatine to the boiling syrup, and take from the fire immediately; then add the strawberries. Place in a pan of ice water and beat five minutes. Add the whites of eggs, and beat until the mixture begins to thicken. Pour in the moulds and set away to harden. Serve with sugar and cream. Raspberry and blackberry sponges are made in the same way.

Grenadines of Beef.

Cut two pounds of the undercut of either the sirloin or the rump of beef into neat cutlets, about the third of an inch thick, lard them with thin strips of bacon, and put them into a stewpan with a small piece of butter, lightly sprinkling the upper side with pepper and salt. Let them cook very slowly, without approaching the frying point, for fifteen minutes, then turn them on the other side, then lightly pepper and salt, and allow the grenadines to cook for fifteen minutes more. Have ready half a pint of rich, well-flavored, thick gravy of a good brown color: place the grenadines on a dish, pouring the gravy slowly over them. The dish may be made to look very pretty by a little garnish of sprigs of cauliflower, or any other vegetable in season, and after these are boiled and drained from the water they must be tossed in a stew pan with a little butter.

Old-Fashioned Chicken Pot Pie.

Cut the chicken as for a fricasse. Chop a quarter pound of fat salt pork, and with it cover the bottom of a wide-mouthed, rather shallow pot. Next lay in the pieces of chicken: sprinkle with minced onion, and just cover with cold water. Over this lay a thick biscuit crust, pretty short. Stew one hour and a half, then brown by holding a red-hot shovel close to the crust, or, if you have a stove cover that fits the pot, heat this very hot and fit it on, leaving it five minutes or so, the pot being drawn to the side of the stove, where it will be hot without boiling. Now lift the crust out with a fork and cake turner, and cover to keep warm. Take out the chicken and set over boiling water. Add a little boiling water to the gravy, thicken with a tablespoonful browned flour, season with pepper, salt and parsley, and boil one minute. Then put in squares or strips of piecrust, cook gently ten minutes; arrange the chicken on a flat dish, lay the dumplings on it, pour the gravy over them, and cover with crust.

A Discreet Reply.

It was at the last election, and there were two candidates in the field for justice of the peace. One of the party "feelers" was sent to interview Henry Van Bergen and ascertain, if possible, whether he was going to vote for Marx or Mitchell.

"It is dish vay of me," replied Henry. "I nefer let any man on my ticket look vhen I votes. I'm goin de pallot up and stick my baber in, und I bet two dousand tollars no man can tell who I votes for, cause I never dolls. But dish mooch I say, I'm tam'ed if I vote for Marx."

Prayers Which Ought to be Very Acceptable.

"I wish our minister wouldn't pray such dreadfully long prayers," said a wife to her husband as they walked home from church. "His first prayer this morning must have been fully ten minutes long."

"I don't see how he could make them any shorter," said the husband, "and I am sure they ought to be very acceptable."

"Why so?"

"Because he gives the Lord so much valuable information. He told all about the heathen this morning in his prayer, and explained several passages of the scripture beautifully."

—A correspondent of an agricultural paper asks, "What is good for canker worms?" After considerable experience in the matter, we can suggest nothing so good as an apple tree. It appears to be particularly healthy for the canker worm, and we were not aware until this correspondent suggested it, that the canker worms were not entirely satisfied therewith.—Boston Transcript.

The great ladies of the Faubourg St. Germain, in Paris, the favorite quarter of the old aristocracy, usually so modest and so averse to anything that savors of common and vulgar publicity, having suddenly changed their time worn tactics, and now seem to have but one idea in their heads, and that is "to appear in public." Already two concerts have taken place at at which the femmes du monde, headed by the Vicomtesse de Tredern and the Marquise de St. Paul, have sung and played to paying audiences—of course, for charitable purposes. At the last of these concerts such was the curiosity of the multitude to see these great ladies that 15,000 francs was taken at the doors, and one unfortunate ticket, which had been forgotten or mislaid till the last moment, was actually raffled for and fetched 300 francs.

Beggars in the new mining towns share in the general contempt for money in beggarly sums. In the Cœur d'Alene region the solicitor usually asks for a dollar at least. It would not be of much use give him less. A night's lodging always costs a dollar—the accommodation consisting generally of a share of a bunk stove, cedar boughs and a couple of blankets, and sometimes of only a corner of a floor and a few cedar boughs. The ordinary meal of bacon, pork chop, beans and coffee is a dollar, and the extra meal, which has two eggs added, costs fifty cents more.

THE HALF WAS NEVER TOLD

of the wonderful powers and virtues of that best of all medicines, Kidney-Wort. It has been tried and proved. Its cures are numberless and the record of (supposed) incurable cases that have yielded to its influence, is astounding. If you have trouble with your Kidneys, Liver or Bowels, if you suffer from Constipation and Piles, if you are a victim of Rheumatism or Malaria, take Kidney-Wort. You will find it the remedy you need.

In search of the spring lamb—Th stock brokers.

Be sure you get the Genuine MURRAY & LANMAN'S FLORIDA WATER. There are counterfeits, but if you will hold a leaf of the pamphlet, which is around each bottle, up to the light, you will see in faint letters, water-marked in the paper, the words "LANMAN & KEMP, NEW YORK," and where you cannot find this, you may be sure the article is not genuine.

Faith with without works is good for nothing when it comes to a clock.

Churn Slowly.

A little maid in the morning sun
Stood merrily singing and churning—
"Oh, how I wish this butter was done,
Then off to the fields I'd be turning!"
So she hurried the dasher up and down
Till the farmer called with half-made frown,
"Churn slowly!"

Don't ply the churn so fast, my dear,
It is not good for the butter,
And will make your arms ache, too, I fear,
And put you all in a flutter—
For this is a rule wherever we turn,
Don't be in haste, whenever you churn—
Churn slowly!

If you want your butter to come nice and sweet
Don't churn with a nervous jerking,
But ply the dasher slowly and neat—
You'll hardly know that you're working,
And when the butter has come, you'll say,
"Yes, this is surely the better way"—
Churn slowly!

Now, little folks do you think that you
A lesson can find in butter?
Don't be in haste, whatever you do,
Or get yourself in a flutter;
And while you stand at life's great churn,
Let the farmer's word to you return—
Churn slowly!

Hawthorne as Man and Writer.

Writing of "The Salem of Hawthorne," in the Century, Julian Hawthorne says, "Though Hawthorne was humility itself in his estimate of his own powers, yet when once he was under the influence of his Muse, not all the criticism of ancient and modern times could have made him swerve by so much as a hair's breadth from the path along which she led him. When he was at work he was in a region by himself—alone with his art—into which the voices of the exterior world could never penetrate, nor its presence intrude. The work being done, however, and sent forth, the worker would return to a colder and more sceptical state, in which he took, as it were, the part of the world against himself, and led the attack. So little is known of the man that it has always been the custom to paint his portrait from the same palette which he himself used for his pictures.

But it is important to remember that the man and the writer were, in Hawthorne's case, as different as a mountain from a cloud. It was not until after his death that I read any of his romances; he had always told me that they were not suited to my age and requirements; and I remember, as I read on, being constantly unable to comprehend how a man such as I knew my father to be could have written such books. He did not talk in that way; his moods had not seemed to be of that color. The books gave me an enlarged, though not a more powerful impression of him.

He was a very strong man, in every application of the word. I have seen him in company with many of the great men of his time, and I was always made to feel that he was the loftier and dominant spirit—that he was to other men what Augustus Cæsar is said to have been to Marc Antony. It is true that I was but a child; but I apprehend that the perceptions of a child in such matters, being mainly intuitive, are at least as apt to be just as those of mature persons. At all events, subsequent meditation and experience have served rather to augment than to lessen my estimate of his personal power and weight. As regards the books, it is difficult to state exactly the relation they bore to the general manifestation of his character: perhaps it might be said that they resulted from the immediate action of his spirit, in a spiritual plane; whereas in other matters it acted through his material part, in the physical plane. But there is more vanity than profit in such distinctions.

A Society Play on a Railway Train.

Scene First—Gentleman leaves his wife, saying he wants to go forward to the smoking-car to have a cigar. "Won't be gone long, dear."

Scene second—Gentleman in coach next ahead, which is not the smoking-car, enjoying, not a cigar, but the company of a pretty and vivacious young woman, with whom he appears to be on excellent terms.

Scene third (after an hour)—Gentleman returns to his wife. "I know I've been gone a long time, dear, but I met Mr. Hardy, of Galena; you saw him get on at Freeport, didn't you? We had quite a long talk about some business matters."

Another gentleman, who turns out to be the Mr. Hardy, approaches from the rear coach, and, despite the winkings and grimaces of gentleman No. 1, says: "Why, how do you do, Mr. and Mrs. Smithers! Smithy, old boy, I didn't know you were on the train."

Then Mrs. Smithers picks a long, black hair from her husband's shoulder (her own hair being quite red), and silence reigns. But we can see from Mr. Smithers' meekness and Mrs. Smithers' flashing eyes and compressed lips as they, without a word, alight at their destination, that it is but the calm before the storm sure to break before the sun has set slow down in the red west.—Chicago Herald.

Raising Market Chickens.

Landlady—"I have a new market man, and think he will do better than the last one. He says his chickens are all raised on the refuse of a cheese factory."

Boarder—"That does not sound very tempting."

Landlady—"Well, no, it does not sound so, and yet we all know that such food ought to be very good for chickens."

Boarder—"At any rate, the new man cannot be otherwise than an improvement on the old one."

Landlady—"You think so, then?"

Boarder—"Oh, yes; his chickens were evidently raised on the refuse of a rubber factory."—Philadelphia Call.

The Ears Tell The Story.

Plenty of fighters will tell you that they can hit as hard with their left hand as they can with their right, but don't believe them. If you visit any sparring exhibition or prize fight, and are observant, you will see that the left ear of two-thirds of the fighters present are thickened out of shape and enlarged to nearly double their normal size. This is caused by the bruising the aforesaid ears received in fighting and sparring. It is very rare that the right ear of a fighter is for thus affected, a fact which shows that the punishing is done with the right duke.

The wearing of the primrose as the representative of Lord Beaconsfield is but one more of the many flowery symbols with which the history of England blossoms—the broom plant of the first Plantagenet; the red and white roses of Lancaster and York; and Scotch thistle, which betrayed the naked footfall of the invading Dane, and so saved Scotland; the leek of the Welshman, symbolic of harvest time, when each laborer brought his share of the common dinner—a solitary leek—in his hat for want of pockets; the rose of England and the shamrock of Ireland, emblematic of the Trinity.

JAMES Brayley, Hamilton, says: "I read the testimonials for McGregor's Speedy Cure and found that I had not to go to New York Philadelphia, Louisiana or Texas to find living witnesses of its value, we have plenty of persons right here to prove its merits. I got a bottle and it helped me right away. I was as bad with Bilious Fever and Indigestion as I think any one could be, I have taken three bottles and am nearly well and can eat any kind of food without it hurting me. I may say that I am better than I ever expected to be. Free trial bottles at Gayfer or Kneeshaw's drug store.

A base deceiver is fit for nothing but playing ball.

A LADY writes: "I was enabled to remove the corns, root and branch, by the use of Holloway's Corn Cure."

A man without a future—a bursted stock broker.

JAS. Shannon, Leaskdale, writes: For many years my wife was troubled with chilblains, and could get no relief until about two years ago; she was then not able to walk, and the pain was then so excruciating that she could not sleep at night. Your agent was then on his regular trip, and she asked him if he could cure her. He told her Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was a sure cure. She tried it, and judge of her astonishment when in a few days, the pain was all allayed and the foot restored to its natural condition. It is also the best remedy for burns and bruises I ever used.

The blind pool is a poor place for small fry.

LEADING DRUGGISTS on this continent testify to the large and constantly increasing sales of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, and report its beneficent effects upon their customers troubled with Liver Complaint, Constipation Dyspepsia, Impurity of the blood, and other physical infirmities, and as a female medicine, it has accomplished remarkable cures,

Miscellaneous Items.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by John Gayfer. 74v-y

On the mash—The careless truckman.

IF you want fast colours and brilliant shades use the popular Star Dyes.

The early fisherman beats the early bird in getting the worm.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF—Cleanse the scalp with Prof. Low's Magic Sulphur Soap. A delightful medicated soap for the toilet. 8t.

The man at the wheel has a stern duty to perform.

A CRYING EVIL.—Children are often fretful and ill when Worms is the cause. Dr. Low's Worm Syrup safely expels all Worms. 8t.

First a man sues for a wife, then he sues for peace, and finally he sues for a divorce.,

A misstep will often make a cripple for life. A bottle of Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment at hand, will not prevent the misstep, but used immediately it will save being a cripple. 8t.

There certainly is nothing in a name, Waterproof, on the Mississippi, is flooded.

Queen of the May—The scrub-girl.

If you are troubled with a "hacking cough," Downs' Elixir will give you relief at once. Warranteed as recommended or money refunded. 8t.

A regular poser—The photographer.

NATIONAL PILLS is the favorite purgative and anti-bilious medicine, they are mild and thorough. 8t.

Of all sad words' the bankers say the saddest are these, 'We can not play.'

WORMS often destroy children, but Freeman's Worm Powders destroy Worms, and expel them from the system. 8t

When a man's head swims there is generally less water than whiskey about it.

Baxter's Mandrake Bitters cure indigestion, Heart Burn, Costiveness and all malarial diseases. 25 cents per bottle. 8t

A flat argument—Convincing a boy by means of a shingle.

THE reason why "Nonsuch Washing Compound" should be used in preference to all other washing preparations. First, It is perfectly harmless. Second, It saves more than half the labour. Third, It is the cheapest in the market. Many more could be given but this should be sufficient. For sale by all grocers. 84

A man may resemble a tawny lion, and be afraid of a mouse.

TIME, ITS VALUE.

To-day is ours, why should we care?
To-day is ours, why should we fear?
To-day is ours, why should we sorrow?
For to the gods belong to morrow.
Therefore for to-day, chew Gold Coin Tobacco, it is the best. 06

'This is a new wrinkle,' as the maiden said, on consulting her mirror.

NO RIVAL IN THE FIELD.

There is no rival for Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. It is the acknowledged champion for the cure of all summer complaints. 10

The polecat is supposed to have been the original 'little one for a scent.'

HOPEFUL WORDS.

Mrs. McArthur, of Hopeville, Ont., says she could not keep house without Hagyard's Pectorial Balsam to cure prevailing throat and lung troubles. 10

A straight flush—A maiden's blush.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentry and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. 00

Moving spectacles—The eye-glasses on a truck.

RESCUED AT LAST.

W. H. Crooker, druggist of Waterdown, says, when all other remedies fail for Bowel Complaints, then Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry comes to the rescue. [10

The place for stoney stares and piles of 'rocks'

ITCHING PILES—SYMPTOMS AND CURE.

The symptoms are moisture, like perspiration, intense itching, increased by scratching, very distressing, particularly at night, seems as if pin-worms were crawling in and about the rectum; the private parts are sometimes affected. If allowed to continue very serious results may follow, "SWAYNE'S OINTMENT" is a pleasant, sure cure. Also for Tetter Itch, Salt Rheum Scald Head, Erysipelas, Barbers Itch, Blotches, all scaly, crusty Skin Diseases Sent by mail for 50 cents; 3 boxes, $1.25 (in stamps). Address, DR. SWAYNE & SON, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Druggists

A hen can only lay on a nest, but a ship can lay both on and off.

A SEARCH WARRANT.

If there is any lurking taint of scrofula in the system, Burdock Blood Bitters are warranted to search it out. 10

It is a physicial fact that physicians are never arrested for killing people.

FOR OLD OR YOUNG.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the remedy for Cholera, Colic, Diarrhœa, and Dysentery. No person is safe without it. 10

The Saturday Review says that the punster in his best shape is a true wit.

PREJUDICED PEOPLE.

Many people are prejudiced against patent medicines, but all who try Burdock Blood Bitters are compelled to acknowledge it worthy a patent as a valuable discovery. (10

Physician, throw physic to the canines but not fees-eked out of your patients.

REST AND COMFORT TO THE SUFFERING

"Brown's Household Panacea' has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 1498vy

A "fly" fellow—The angler.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Trains leave Ingersoll as follows:

GOING WEST.	GOING EAST.
4:56 a. m.	6:59 a. m.
11:57 a. m.	12:15 a. m.
12:32 a. m.	3:05 p. m.
5:05 p. m.	4:48 p. m.
7:47 p. m.	7:00 p. m.
2:11 a. m.	12:20 p. m.

CATARRH.

CATARRH.—A New Treatment whereby this hitherto incurable disease is permanently cured in from one to three applications, no matter whether standing for one year or forty years. Descriptive pamphlet sent free on receipt of stamp. A. H. DIXON & SON, 305 King street west, Toronto, Canada. 1569vy

GOLD for the working class. Send 10 cents for postage, and we will mail you free a royal, valuable box of sample goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. We will start you. You can work all the time or in spare time only. The work is universally adapted to both sexes, young and old. You can easily earn from 50 cents to $5 every evening. That all who want work may test the business we make this unparalleled offer; to all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Fortunes will be made by those who give their whole time to the work. Great success absolutely sure. Don't delay. Start now. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

WM. C. BELL

Having bought the Lumber belonging to the

Estate of the late ADAM OLIVER

And RENTED THE MILL, he is prepared to execute all

Carpenter & Joiner Work

Entrusted to him. He will also

Contract for Buildings!

OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS,

And supply House Building material at the very lowest prices. It is a well known fact, from the easy financial position of the late firm, they were always ahead of the times in having thoroughly seasoned lumber, and from which all his inside work will be manufactured. A specialty in making

VENETIAN BLINDS,

Which can be made to order in short notice. GIVE HIM A CALL.

WM. C. BELL.

Ingersoll, Feb. 1st, 1883. 1553

SHAKER BLOOD SYRUP.

Cures Completely Scrofula, Syphilis, Cancer, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Ulcers and Skin and Blood Diseases of every description.

$1000 reward to any chemist who will find, on analysis of 100 bottles of Shaker Blood Syrup, one particle of Mercury, Iodide of Potassium, or any mineral substance.

J. W. BROWETT, - DRUGGIST,
Sign of White Mortar,
THAMES STREET, INGERSOLL

Get Your Bill-heads now at THE CHRONICLE OFFICE for Half Yearly Accounts. Best Work and Lowest Prices.

ADVERTISERS

Before you place a dollar's worth of Newspaper advertising, get our prices. The exact cost of any paper, or list of papers cheerfully furnished, free upon application.

Send for New Catalogue.

J. C. HOUCH,
Advertising Agent,
HOUGH BLOCK. Detroit, Mich.

JAS. McINTYRE
UNDERTAKER,

HAS REMOVED BACK TO HIS old stand in the

NEW BRICK BLOCK.

Has A Large Stock of COFFINS, and CASKETS HEARSES and ROBES on hand.

FURNITURE

All kinds in stock. Residence first house north of warehouse, King street, Ingersoll. nber 22, 1881.

$66 a week at home. $5 outfit free. Pay absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make great pay all the time they work, with absolute certainty. Write for particulars to H. HALLETT & CO., Portland, Me.

Canada Pacific Railway.

ONTARIO DIVISION.

COMMENCING MONDAY, MAY 19, 1884.

Trains leave Ingersoll as follows:

GOING EAST.	GOING WEST.

FOUNDED 1853.

THE INGERSOLL CHRONICLE,

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

G. F. GUERNETT, Proprietor.

TERMS for THE CHRONICLE AND DAIRYMAN, by mail, or called for at the office of publication, or at the bookstores, $1.50 in advance; $2.50 if not so paid. Delivered at homes, or business places of subscribers, in town, $1.75 in advance, or $2.75 if not so paid.

The CHRONICLE AND DAIRYMAN has more readers than all the remaining newspapers published in Ingersoll and the South Riding of Oxford combined. This important fact should be borne in mind by advertisers.

It has the largest circulation among Canadian Dairymen, being devoted specially to the interests of that class.

Printing by Steam Power in all its branches.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Advertisements will be inserted in THE CHRONICLE AND DAIRYMAN, at 8 cents per line for the first insertion, and 2 cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

For legal and official advertisements the charge is 10 cents per line for the first, and 5 cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

Condensed advertisements:—Servants wanted—Articles Wanted—Lost or Found—Strayed—To Rent or For Sale—Board—Situations Wanted, or Vacant, etc., (one inch or under) will be published at the rate of 50 cts. for the first insertion, and 25 cts. for each subsequent insertion.

Ten cents per line for the first insertion and five cents per line for each subsequent insertion, is the charge for inserting "special notices" with reading matter and in the same type.

Professional cards, not exceeding 6 lines, will be inserted one year for $5; 50 cents per line per year for each line over six lines.

Commercial advertisements, ordinarily displayed matter, will be inserted at the following rates:—

TIME.	2 In.	¼ Col. 3 In.	½ Col. 6 In.	¾ Col. 12 In.	1 Col. 24 In.
1 week...	$1 50	$ 2 50	$ 4 00	$ 6 00	$ 10 00
2 weeks..	2 25	3 75	6 00	9 00	15 00
3 weeks..	2 70	4 50	7 20	10 80	18 00
4 weeks..	3 00	5 00	8 00	12 00	20 00
5 weeks..	3 30	5 50	8 80	13 20	22 00
6 weeks..	3 60	6 00	9 60	14 40	24 00
2 months.	4 50	7 50	12 00	18 00	30 00
3 months.	6 00	10 00	15 00	24 00	40 00
6 months.	9 00	15 00	24 00	40 00	60 00
12 months	15 00	22 00	40 00	60 00	100 00

The above contract prices do not give the right to advertise Houses or Farms for Sale, or to Rent, Clerks, Domestics or Servants Wanted, Articles Lost or Found, Entertainments, Auction Sales, &c., but extend exclusively to the legitimate commercial announcements, ordinarily displayed matter, of the persons contracting. Solid matter will be charged at the rate of 8 and 3 cents per line.

J. F. McDONALD, LL. B.,

BARRISTER AND ATTORNEY-at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Notary Public, &c.

OFFICE—Thames street, Ingersoll

M. WALSH,

BARRISTER, NOTARY PUBLIC, Solicitor in the Supreme Court of Ontario, &c. Money to lend at lowest rates. Mortgages Bought and Sold.

OFFICE up Stairs, Walsh's Block, Thames Street, Ingersoll, Ont.

W. W. HOLCROFT,

BARRISTER, ATTORNEY, SOLICITOR, Notary Public, Conveyancer, &c.; $100,000, private funds, to loan at 6 and 7 per cent. Mortgages, Debentures and Notes bought. Office formerly occupied by the late Mr. McCaughey, Thames street, Ingersoll.

J. C. HEGLER,

BARRISTER ATTORNEY, SOLICITOR, &c. Money to loan at eight per cent.

OFFICE:—Over Molsons Bank, King Street.

G. J. CHARLESWORTH, M.B.,

F. T. M. S., M. C. P. S., Ont. L. R. C. P. & L. M., Edinburgh.

Office—Thames Street, over Nelles & Stevens', next to Browett's Drug Store. Residence—Charles Street, first place west of Badden's Carriage Factory, Ingersoll. Calls night and day promptly attended to. March 20th, 1884. 1505y

DR. McKAY,

L. R. C. P. & L. M., EDINBURGH. Coroner for the County of Oxford, Graduate of the Royal College of Physicians, Edinburgh. Late Surgeon in the British Marine Service. Office, Thames Street, Ingersoll.

J. ARTHUR WILLIAMS, M. D.,

M. R. C. S. AND L. M., ENGLAND L. R. C. P., London; Aurist and Oculist Office with Dr. Hoyt, King Street, Ingersoll.

CHARLES KENNEDY,

SURGEON DENTIST. LICENSED by the Royal College of Dental Surgery, Ont. teeth extracted without pain by the use of Nitrous de Gas, etc., if desired. Special attention paid to he preservation of natural teeth.

Office on King street, opposite the "Thompson house." Ingersoll. 884y

W. A. SUDWORTH,

SURGEON DENTIST, MEMBER of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, Graduate of Ont. Dental College. Anæsthetics administered for the painless extraction of teeth. Office opposite the Market, Ingersoll.

H. W. HILL,

PRODUCE and Commission Merchant, Agent for the Empire Loan Association. Money to loan at lowest rates on farm and town property. Market Square, Woodstock.

January 31st, 1884. 1586y

W. R. BURKE

PROVINCIAL LAND SURVEYOR AND DRAUGHTSMAN.

OFFICE AT TELEGRAPH OFFICE.

I have disposed of all my plans, field notes and bearings to Mr. W. R. Burke, P. L. Surveyor, of Ingersoll, which have been collected by myself during the past 30 years while practicing in the County of Oxford. All parties wishing surveying done, will do well to employ Mr. Burke, he now having so much valuable information relative to surveys in this County. Signed,

W. G. WONHAM, P. L. Surveyor.

May 8th, 1884. 1690y

JAMES BRADY,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER

INGERSOLL, ONT.,

Is prepared to attend all sales in town or country. Ingersoll, April 20th, 1882. 1493

ImperialBankofCanada

HEAD OFFICE, - TORONTO.

Capital Paid Up, $1,500,000.

Rest, - - 650,000.

Purchases Municipal Debentures, Issues Drafts on its branches and agencies in the North-West. Transfers Moneys by Telegrams to Winnipeg and Brandon. Dealers in Sterling Exchange. Savings Department—Deposits received and interest allowed. Agents in London, Messrs. Bosanquet, Salt & Co., 73 Lombard street, with whom moneys for transmission from Great Britain to Ontario and the North-West may be deposited.

D. R. WILKIE Cashier.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.

Deposits of $1 and upward received and Interest allowed thereon at current rates.

INGERSOLL BRANCH,

J. A. RICHARDSON, Manager.

MERCHANT'S BANK OF CANADA.

CAPITAL - - $5,700,000

RESERVE - - $1,250,000

INGERSOLL BRANCH.

THIS BANK TRANSACTS A General Banking Business, Buys and Sells Exchange on England and the United States, and issues Drafts on New York and all parts of Canada.

Particular attention paid to collections for Customers and Banks.

A. M. SMITH. Manager.

BANK OF LONDON IN CANADA.

CAPITAL, $1,000,000.00.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

HY. TAYLOR, Pres. J. LABATT, Vice-Pres.
A. M. SMART, Cashier.
W. R. MEREDITH, Q.C., M.P.P. T. LONG.
BENJ. CRONYN. THOS. FAWCETT.
ISA BANKS. THOS. KENT.
M. REID. JNO MORRISON.

INGERSOLL BRANCH.

A Branch of the Bank of London, has been opened in Ingersoll, in the premises recently occupied by The Molsons Bank.

A General Banking Business

Transacted. Collections on all points in Canada and United States made promptly, at reasonable rates. Draft issued on New York and all points in Canada. LIBERAL INTEREST ALLOWED ON DEPOSITS which can be withdrawn at any time.

C. W. M. SIMPSON, Acting Manager.

Ingersoll, March 27, 1884 1594

Electro Plate GOODS —AT— R. W. WOODROOFE'S

JEWELLERY STORE,

Thames Street, - Ingersoll.

The Ingersoll Chronicle,

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

VOL. XXXI.—NO. 4. INGERSOLL, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JULY 31, 1884. WHOLE NO. 1612.

THE CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY.

ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1883.

Assets	- - -	$5,617,623
Interest on Investments	-	335,907
New Policies Written	-	2,178
Amount of New Policies	-	$4,554,000
Death Claims Paid	-	$289,660
Premiums Received	-	$881,889

It will be noticed the interest on investments more than pays the death claims.

The Canada Life is a home company and has been doing business for 37 years.

Its rates are moderate while its profits are larger than those of other companies.

Policies indisputable after two years.

Claims paid immediately on proof of death.

Thirty days grace allowed for payment of premiums.

The profits will equal if not exceed those of any previous Division.

For every information apply to

H. O'CONNOR, Jr., - AGENT, INGERSOLL & DISTRICT.

June 12th, 1884. 1695

London Loan Company, LONDON, ONTARIO.

$100,000 to lend at Lowest Rates.

Short loans at 6 and 6½ per cent. Apply to

M. J. KENT, Manager,

London, Feb. 7th, 1884. 1587y

VITAL QUESTIONS!!!

Ask the most eminent physician

Of any school, what is the best thing in the world for quieting and allaying all irritation of the nerves, and curing all forms of nervous complaints, giving natural, childlike refreshing sleep always?

And they will tell you unhesitatingly

"Some form of Hops!!!"

CHAPTER I.

Ask any or all of the most eminent physicians:

"What is the best and only remedy that can be relied on to cure all diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs; such as Bright's disease, diabetes, retention, or inability to retain urine, and all the diseases and ailments peculiar to Women"

"And they will tell you explicitly and emphatically "Buchu!!!"

Ask the same physicians

"What is the most reliable and surest cure for all liver diseases; such as dyspepsia; constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malaria, fever, ague, &c.," and they will tell you:

"Mandrake! or Dandelion!!!"

Hence, when these remedies are combined with others equally valuable,

And compounded into Hop Bitters, such a wonderful and mysterious curative power is developed, which is so varied in its operations that no disease or ill health can possibly exist or resist its power, and yet it is

Harmless for the most frail woman, weakest invalid or smallest child to use.

CHAPTER II.

"Patients

"Almost dead or nearly dying"

For years, and given up by physicians, of Bright's and other kidney diseases, liver complaints, severe coughs, called consumption, have been cured.

Women gone nearly crazy!!!!!

From agony of neuralgia, nervousness, wakefulness, and various diseases peculiar to women.

People drawn out of shape from excruciating pangs of rheumatism, inflammatory and chronic, or suffering from scrofula.

Erysipelas!

"Saltrheum, blood poisoning, dyspepsia, indigestion, and, in fact, almost all diseases frail"

Nature is heir to

Have been cured by Hop Bitters, proof of which can be found in every neighborhood in the known world.

☞None genuine without a bunch of green Hops on the white label. Shun all the vile, poisonous stuff with "Hop" or "Hops" in their name.

BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA AND SUGAR-COATED PILLS, The Great Purifiers OF THE BLOOD AND LIVER.

KIDNEY-WORT

DOES WONDERFUL CURES OF KIDNEY DISEASES AND LIVER COMPLAINTS, Why Because it acts on the LIVER, BOWELS and KIDNEYS at the same time.

Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary Diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Disorders and all Female Complaints.

☞SOLID PROOF OF THIS.

IT WILL SURELY CURE CONSTIPATION, PILES, and RHEUMATISM, By causing FREE ACTION of all the organs and functions, thereby CLEANSING the BLOOD restoring the normal power to throw off disease. THOUSANDS OF CASES of the worst forms of these terrible diseases have been quickly relieved, and in a short time PERFECTLY CURED.

PRICE, $1. LIQUID OR DRY, SOLD BY DRUGGISTS. Dry can be sent by mail. WELLS, RICHARDSON & Co., Burlington, Vt. Send stamp for Diary Almanac for 1884.

KIDNEY-WORT

VANCE'S BAKERY

continues to be the place where the public can get a full assortment of

CAKES AND CONFFCTIONERY

Soda Biscuits and Oyster Crackers.

Manufactured on the premises, and consequent always fresh.

Tea Parties Supplied. Bride Cakes Made and Neatly Ornamented at Reasonable Rates.

A large assortment of Ornamental Cake Tops and Flowers always on hand.

Fresh Bread and Buns Every Day.

R. VANCE, Thames Street.

☞Bread delivered in town daily.

Harvest Tools!

Machine Oils,

Paris Green.

A. H. ELLIS,

Sign of Golden Anvil, Thames-St.

Ingersoll, June 26, 1884. 1607

I Ask for Nothing More.

In a valley fair I wandered,
O'er its meadow pathway green,
Where a singing brook was flowing
Like the spirit of the scene:
And I saw a lovely maiden
With a basket brimming o'er
With sweet buds, and so I asked her
For a flower and nothing more.

Then I chatted on beside her,
And I praised her hair and eyes,
And like roses from her basket
On her cheeks saw blushes rise.
With her timid looks down glancing,
She said, would I pass before,
But I said that all I wanted
Was a smile and nothing more.

And she shyly smiled upon me,
And I still kept wandering on;
What with blushing, smiling, chatting
Soon a brief half hour was gone.
Then she told me I must leave her,
For she saw their cottage door,
But I would not till I rifled
Just a kiss and nothing more.

And I often met this maiden
At the twilight's loving hour
With the Summer's offspring laden,
But herself the self-same flower.
When she asked me what I wished for,
Grown far bolder than before,
With impassioned words I answered,
'Twas her heart and nothing more.

Thus for weeks and months I woo'd her,
And the joys that then had birth
Made an atmosphere of gladness
Seem encircling all the earth.
One bright morning, at the altar,
A white bridal dress she wore:
Then my wife I proudly made her,
And I asked for nothing more.

Tired Women.

If you look around on the faces in a street-car, the number of faded and sad-looking countenances presenting themselves is startling. Mature women have especially a tired look about them, showing itself not only in pallid complexions, but in the wearied lines around the mouth and eyes. It is impossible to associate this appearance with happy lives, and yet, from dress and manner, the majority would seem to be comfortably placed in this case.

Usually the climate is supposed to have a great deal to do with the early fading of youthful freshness, and the beauty of health, instead of reviving with the spring of the year, usually delays until the summer holidays, followed by the crisp autumn breezes, invigorate the human system. If the truth was known, however, I suspect that it would be found that the reason why women look tired is because they are perpetually fatigued.

Modern methods have not eased the cares of wives and mothers, whose duties have developed with the growth of science and the expansion of art. When children were thrashed into obedience to parental commands, when young people understood that to hear was to obey, when husbands only expected their regular three meals a day and mended and clean clothing, the duties of women were very much simpler than at the present time. In those happy days, when to eat, sleep and work was the whole duty of a man, and the interests of posterity a side issue, the mistress of the household might, after her work was done, eat and sleep, too. At least she had a chance to work when husband and children were engaged in business or in school for long hours of the day. In those days, rain or sunshine were the same, life moved in a groove, and there was a probability of things running smoothly. In those days people ate what was set before them, because there was not much variety to be had, and they were not always developing new ideas in the way of occupations and diversions that upset the regular routine of a household. Perhaps it was monotonous, but it was restful for the housekeeper.

In the great upheaval of mind which has of late years set each individual soul on the search for that good living which the world is supposed to owe it, whether the quest is continued in the direction of business, pleasure, science, art or religion, it is the wife and mother who is expected to be the instrument of Providence in providing the means and forwarding the success of the seekers, and nobody thinks of all the extra burden this throws upon her—the strain on her sympathy, the tax on her bodily strength. From the child who wants a play made for him to the husband who wants to talk over his affairs with her, it is one long intermediate chain of little services which are expected from her. That she has personal inclinations or tastes is never taken into account. She has no time left for her own use, but is actually at the beck and call of all belonging to her from early morning until late at night.

It is a curious fact in connection with the nineteenth century, that few people are self-reliant, and still fewer can occupy themselves agreeably without aid. Like the Turk, they want somebody to amuse them. With the additional burden of seeing that the members of a family are amused, as well as fed on a material wants provided for, it is no wonder that wives and mothers look tired.

No doubt men feel the fatigue of the constant drive that is requisite to keep up with the general stride, but they have a peculiar faculty of being able to take a rest, even in the midst of turmoil. Women, unfortunately, from long experience in being overdriven, get into that state where they cannot repose, even when the opportunity offers. This is a state of nervous expectation, brought about by the knowledge that there will be something to do in a minute, even if there is nothing calling for attention just now.—Detroit Free Press.

Grandpa likes to kiss wee Sallie.
She says no;
Says his whiskers, thick and bushy,
Prick her so.
Grandpa's head is smooth and shiny
On the top,
Where the hair began to thin and
Wouldn't stop.
Grandpa kisses Sallie questions,
So 'tis said,
"Grandpa, why not put your whiskers
On your head?"

She Did Say Something.

A boy who had been sent to carry a silver card-basket to a young lady as a bridal present was asked upon his return to the office if he found the right place.

"Oh yes."

"See the girl herself?"

"Yes."

"Did she seem surprised?"

"Very much so."

"Say anything?"

"Why, yes; she told her mother she presumed it was plated, but would be good enough for her aunt out in the country."

The Dancing Hulu-hulu Girls.

I once had a conversation with a charming high-caste Hawaiian girl, while we watched together the performance of a band of hulu-hulu girls. The first time you see a hulu-hulu dance in company with ladies you will find out just how much of a mental strain you can endure without fainting. I was in a most complicated state of mind and did not dare to allude to the spectacle before us, from which I turned my eyes previously to my companion, only to find that as she ate a mango she was regarding the dancers in as honest and simple enjoyment as though it was a landscape view that attracted her. I strove to take the conversation as far away from the scene before us as possible, and so naturally directed it to her recent visit to Europe. She suddenly took the last gasp of breath out of my body by asserting with genuine indignation, that she hated Europe, and thought the art galleries dreadfully indecent because of the display, in marble and on canvas, of nude figures.—Sandwich Island Letter.

Neither Blaine nor Cleveland.

PROVIDENCE, July 14.—The Central Labor Union, representing every industry in the State, met on Saturday night, and decided not to support Blaine or Cleveland. An anti-monopolist candidate, probably Butler, will be favored. A committee was appointed to confer with other State Associations.

A TORNADO MARRIAGE.

The Perplexing Predicament of an Old Maid and an Old Bachelor.

A queer incident was caused by a recent tornado in Whiteley county, Kentucky. On the edge of a little burg there were two old log houses, in one of which resided an old maid named Sallie Williams, and in the other an old bachelor named John Robinson. The blizzard came along and blew the two houses into a confused criss-cross pile of logs, beams and lumber. And in the midst, in a small space, the old maid and old bachelor were inextricably penned up together, though, strange to say, neither had been injured in the least. They had to stand so close together as to touch elbows, and as there was a neighborhood enmity between the two the situation can be more easily imagined than described. Sallie sniffled and trembled violently, while John grew hot and cold by turns, and finally blurted out a hearty oath.

"That's right, John Robinson, get mad and swear; do—it's just like your impudence after tearing my house all to pieces!"

"Why, Sallie—that is, Miss Williams—I didn't touch your house!"

"Yes you did, John Robinson. You came along in your old tumble-down cabin and knocked down my house"—emphasis hard on house—"all to pieces, you profane old wretch."

"Why, you cantankerous old woman, I didn't go to do it—I couldn't help it!"

"Yes, you could! What did you go flying about with your old cabin knocking folks' houses down for? If you and your cabin had stayed at home my house would not have been hurt. I'll have the law on you, John Robinson, as soon as I can get out."

"But how the deuce are we to get out? We'll have to stay here two or three nights, probably, till somebody finds us out."

Sallie gave a blood curdling screech and burst into tears. This subdued John at once. He never could stand a woman's tears, so he set himself to console Sallie. Edging up to her, John cooed:

"Now, don't, Miss Sallie; there's no use in crying; somebody'll be sure to find us before many hours, and I'll pledge you my honor that you will be safe while we are together."

Sallie snuffled and snuffled, and looked at John with such a strange sort of a look that he couldn't tell whether she was pleased or disgusted with his proposition. John was in despair, but he did, finally, what a man always does under such circumstances—he "snuck up" closer and closer to Sallie and put his arm around her.

Sallie shook and shivered, but finally quieted down. Then John talked and talked, and Sallie jawed back in a cooing sort of way; and the hours sped along till night came.

"My gracious, John Robinson, what'll we do? How people will talk about my staying in a lumber pile with you all night! Boo-hoo-hoo!"

Then John boo-hooed in sympathy, till finally a bright idea struck him.

"Let us get married, Sallie, before we leave this pile."

Sallie agreed to this. So, when the first men to pass that way discovered them and proposed to release them, John and Sallie both objected, and asked that a minister be sent for. The discoverers concluded that the storm had made them crazy. Nevertheless one of them set off for a minister, who was soon on the ground and began to talk soothingly to them.

John bade him stop all that and listen to their story, and concluded by asking him to marry them.

The minister climbed up to the top of the pile of debris, so that he could see them down at the bottom of the hole, told them to join hands, and soon had them joined good and tight. Then the neighbors dug them out of their wedding-hole, and they came out smiling, and they are now living happily together.—Washington Hatchet.

Ruskin's Eccentricities.

Mr. Ruskin is a curiosity. He is seldom to be seen anywhere. Even in his own beloved lake district he takes his walk in the gray of the morning or the dusk of the evening. He seldom goes into society. He loves the theatre, and goes when he feels he can indulge himself with such recreation. Perhaps fifty of these well-known people have ever seen Mr. Ruskin before. He comes into the room in the midst of half a dozen gentlemen, not in the seemly fashion of the English procession on such occasions. I saw him when he entered the room, but who was before him, behind him or beside him I could not now say, for they all came together and the distinguished scholar and critic was like the Master in the great picture of Veronesi, "The Marriage of Cana." He was "in the midst thereof."

Ruskin is just 65 years old, and looks and acts like a man of 45. He is not more than five feet five inches in height. Indeed, he is petit. His complexion originally, I should judge of what remains of a complexion, was fair, though now his face pretty nearly up to his eyes is covered with an iron gray beard; the abundant hair is unconventionally long, and though he was personally neat and "trim," his hair seemed to have had no speaking acquaintance with a brush. The forehead is low and receating; the eyes, gray and sparkling—quizzical and mischievous.—Robert Laird Collier.

An Enemy of the Trout.

Blue heron, kingfishers and fish hawks have put in their appearance on Spring Creek, near Rochester, N. Y. Equally with the snake they are destructive of trout, killing large numbers of them. A small snake will seize and swallow a trout six or eight inches long. The fish will be headed up the stream with his head up, watching for flies on the surface of the water, when the snake will seize him by the tail and in an incredibly short space of time swallow him. A warfare is waged upon these enemies of the trout and a great many are killed during the season. When tearing down the old hatching-house last fall, a son of Mr. Monroe A. Green killed fifty two snakes at one shot, and at another shot despatched over thirty of the reptiles. This is quite a snake story, but it is said to be a true one.

A Good Word for the Mule.

Once in a while some writer for the agricultural papers arouses to the greatness and multiplicity of the virtues of the mule and writes a paragraph on the subject. Then the matter drops, and the excellences of the long-eared musician are forgotten or are remembered faintly by those who believe that the great worth of the hybrid is tempered by a yet greater cussedness pure and undefiled.

Perhaps this is the reason that so few farmers in the North have seen their profit in raising these long-eared embodiments of energy and melody. The popular notion seems to be that mules are of all created beings (except, perhaps, the mule's father) the most contrary, and have the nimblest and most untrustworthy of heels. But there are those who, knowing the mule well from long acquaintance, declare that no better beast of burden lives; that if properly trained and treated in the earlier decades of their existence they are good-tempered, quiet, and reasonably obedient; that to raise a mule requires less outlay of care and cash than will be required in raising a colt of like age; that when raised the mule will bring a better price than can be got for the average colt of the same size and age; and that the mule is tougher, will live far longer, do more work, and some time or other will die harder than will the best horse ever known.—Chicago Tribune.

"HERE I IS, MAMMA!"

How Dolly Fretz Commanded the Attention of the Chicago Police and Press.

The ribbons of little Dolly Fretz's tiny blue hat were tied under Dolly's little chin about 8 o'clock in the morning and she went to the grocer's to buy her mother some soap. Little Dolly is four years old, and her parents live at 194 West Munroe street. Dolly returned in due time with the soap, which she delivered to the maid instead of to her mother. She then skipped out of the kitchen singing "Peek-a-Boo."

Pretty soon Mrs. Fretz came downstairs and asked for Dolly. No one knew where she was. "She isn't upstairs," exclaimed Mrs. Fretz; "my goodness! she must be lost." The household immediately repaired to the street and gazed up and down. No Dolly. The grocer said she had gone home; the neighbors had not seen her, neither had any of Dolly's playmates. As the minutes dragged along Mrs. Fretz grew anxious and bethought herself of the police. In fifteen minutes every police station in the city had a description of Dolly, and as each policeman "pulled the box" the description was telephoned him. At 10:30 o'clock Mrs. Fretz was wild with grief, for there was yet no tidings of Dolly. "I must advertise for her," she sobbed. Half an hour later the following was left at the Daily News office and appeared in the evening issue:

LOST—A LITTLE GIRL, 4 YEARS OLD, BLUE eyes, and blonde hair; wore blue hat, blue stockings and plain brown dress; name, Dolly Fretz. Send any information to 194 W. Monroe street.

At 11:30 o'clock Mrs. Fretz was overcome with grief, and retired to her room. Throwing herself upon her bed she cried in anguish: "Oh, Dolly! Dolly! my lost darling, where are you?"

"Here I is, mamma," said a small, sleepy voice, and little Dolly crawled out from under the bed, rubbing her two small fists into her two blue eyes.—Chicago News.

Dead.

The alligator that was sent from Florida to the editor of this paper is dead. After life's fitful fever, he sleeps as well as circumstances will admit. The gentleness and persuasion of men have thus far failed to place an alligator on a social basis. In this world of selfishness the alligator has selected his own course and desires to scramble for himself. The glass tank, with a bed of gravel where the reptile could crawl out and sun himself, was looked on, not in the light of a great favor, but as a matter of course. There never was, in either one of his eyes, a gleam of thankfulness. His tank was shared passively with a brother that came in the same assortment with him, but there never passed between these descendants from a parent stem a single sign of recognition nor a word of kindly greeting. They would sometimes, in a kind of dreamy forgetfulness, bump their noses together, but they would immediately turn away without a change of countenance and fall into deep reverie. Tennyson, the one whose cold claws are now folded in death, seemed to be in average health until a few moments before the summons came. He had taken a bath and was lying on the gravel, when his keeper noted a change of countenance. Revolution of expression, with an alligator, has ever been regarded as a precursor of coming dissolution. The owner was summoned to the gravel-side of the sufferer. He scraped out the tongue or dental ribbon. This tongue is a long, muscular and cartilaginous strip, like a piece of narrow tape, armed all over with an immense number of little teeth or curved hooks, for tearing and masticating the food. It is coiled up inside the mouth, and only a small portion of it is brought into use at any given time; as fast as the hooks on one part are worn out, another part is unrolled from behind and made to take its place in front for purposes of feeding.

The little teeth, of which there are several the hands—the great slug, for example, has 160 rows, with 180 teeth in each row—are formed entirely of silica or flint, and cannot be dissolved, even by acid. They were laid for a time, breathing at long intervals, and then turning, he raised up on his elbows, looked at the sun and fell back dead. This proves that he was a sun worshipper and consequently settles a question which has long been in dispute, Herbert Spencer holding that alligators worship the moon with the morning stars as a delegate and the northern star as an alternate.—Arkansaw Traveller.

Webster's Gentleness.

Returning home on a starlight evening arm-in-arm with a friend, Mr. Webster suddenly halted and, looking upward, made a beautiful remark on the appearance of the spangled sky, which he concluded by repeating the whole of the Eighth Psalm, in which the sweet singer of Israel so sublimely describes the glories of the heavenly bodies. On another occasion, after conversing with deep interest on various subjects, Mr. Webster checked the progress of a friend and recited several verses from Virgil, which contained sentiments similar to those indited by the inspired writer. Whether his theme was the past, the present or the future, the conversations of Mr. Webster were vested with an interest, strength and elegance which attracted, edified, and left the fortunate listener a wiser if not better man before his interview with the intellectual American.—Ben Perley Poore.

Two Society Young Men.

"I think it just awfully shocking the way Miss Blank wears her dresses so short," remarked a society young man yesterday.

"Yaas," replied the other society young man. "But you knaw, my deah boy, the old Greek saying, 'Hony soyt hi mally ponce!'"

"Ah, yaas; but, by the way, ye knaw, so long since I left college, ye knaw; what's the translation?"

"Um, aw; I believe it's something about do unto others as others would be done by, or something of that sort."

"Ah, yaas, I remember now. Less go have sumpin."

And with the shades of Themistocles and Xenophon hovering over them the two society young men went around the corner and put themselves outside of "two egg lemonades, barkeeper, don't you knaw."

Two Expressive Letters.

DEAR HUBBY—Please send by money order $50. I want to get a dress.

GENEVIEVE

P. S.—I had almost forgotten to send my love. Your little wifey, G.

DEAR GENEVIEVE—I send you my undying, best love. Your husband,

CHARLES.

P. S.—I had almost forgot to say that I can't send the $50. With a kiss.

CHARLES.

Not This Morning.

"Can I run my face for a little drink this morning?"

"Not this morning," affably replied the gentleman behind the bar; "some other morning."

"Why not?"

"Because I am not in the dime museum business, and would have no use for it."—Philadelphia Call.

What They Feed the "Animiles."

The New York Times says: The following are given as the daily allowances of carnivora at the Jardin des Plantes in Paris: For each lion, tiger and bear, ten pounds of flesh; for each panther, seven pounds; for each hyena, from two to six pounds; for each wild-cat, one pound, and for each eagle, two pounds. All of this meat must be flesh, and free from bones.

Grains of Gold.

Reason is but analyzed faith.—[Schumann.

The wise man avenges injuries by benefits.—[Chinese.

The first step to virtue is to love virtue in others.—[Samuel Maunder.

As the body is purified by water, so is the soul by truth.—[Manee, Hindu.

Man is a reasoning rather than a reasonable being.—[Sir William Hamilton.

Verily hypocrites sink into a lower abyss than any other sinner.—[Mohammed.

The pity which is not born from experience is always cold. It cannot help being so; it does not understand.—[Ouida.

If men had only temptations to great sins, they would always be good; but the daily fights with little ones accustoms them to defeat.

It is useless to attempt to reason a man out of anything he was never reasoned into. ☆ ☆ ☆ Reason is a very light rider and easily shaken off.—[Dean Swift.

It cuts one sadly to see the grief of old people; they've no way of working it off, and the new spring brings no new shoots out on the withered tree.—[George Eliot.

Chiefly the seashore has been the point of departure to knowledge, as to commerce. The most advanced nations are always those who navigate the most.—[Emerson.

In religious concerns, reason without faith tends to casuistry. Not in jurisprudence alone applies the ancient maxim—(Apiers juris non sunt jura)—Subtleties of law are not law.—[Judge John McLean.

Reason is, so to speak, the police of the kingdom of art, seeking only to preserve order. In life itself, a cold arithmetician who adds up our follies. Sometimes, alas! only the accountant in bankruptcy of a broken heart.—[Heinrich Heine.

When my reason is afloat, my faith cannot long remain in suspense, and I believe in God as firmly as in any other truths whatever; in short, a thousand motives draw me to the consolatory side, and the weight of hope to the equilibrium of reason.—[Jean J. Rousseau.

Accurate and just reasoning is the only catholic remedy fitted for all persons and all dispositions, and is alone able to subvert that abstruse philosophy and metaphysical jargon which, being mixed up with popular superstition, renders it in a manner impenetrable to careless reasoners and gives it the air of science and wisdom.—[David Hume.

Virtue is an angel; but she is a blind one, and must ask of knowledge to show her the pathway that leads to her goal. Mere knowledge, on the other hand, like a Swiss mercenary, is ready to combat either in ranks of sin or under the banners of righteousness,—ready to forge cannon balls or to print New Testaments, to navigate a corsair's vessel or a missionary ship.—[Horace Mann.

Snails' Teeth.

Everybody who has seen a cabbage leaf off which a snail has been making his simple and inexpensive breakfast, must have noticed that its edges are quite cleanly and neatly cut, as if by a knife or pair of scissors. That suggests to one at once the idea that the snail must be possessed of a sharp and effective cutting instrument.

And so indeed he is, for he has a keen, horny upper jaw, which closes upon a very remarkable saw-like organ below, on which he scrapes away his food as upon a ribbon. This tongue is a long, muscular and cartilaginous strip, like a piece of narrow tape, armed all over with an immense number of little teeth or curved hooks, for tearing and masticating the food. It is coiled up inside the mouth, and only a small portion of it is brought into use at any given time; as fast as the hooks on one part are worn out, another part is unrolled from behind and made to take its place in front for purposes of feeding.

The little teeth, of which there are several the hands—the great slug, for example, has 160 rows, with 180 teeth in each row—are formed entirely of silica or flint, and cannot be dissolved, even by acid. They were laid for a time, breathing at long intervals, and then turning, he raised up on his elbows, looked at the sun and fell back dead. This proves that he was a sun worshipper and consequently settles a question which has long been in dispute, Herbert Spencer holding that alligators worship the moon with the morning stars as a delegate and the northern star as an alternate.—Arkansaw Traveller.

Bound to Get Even.

"Don't you b'lave," said Mrs. O'Toole to her husband, "the McGinnises have got a gould watch and chane for their daughter, Mary Ann."

"They have, have they? Well, be the hivins, they can't put on any stovle over us, for I'll buy a town clock in the morning. St. Patrick, won't they fale sick!"

The Meanness of Some Women.

The wives of some of the most prominent masons in Condersport, Pa., hold secret meetings on their husbands' Masonic lodge nights, and come home at as late an hour. Few women are self-sacrificing enough to thus voluntarily abandon the comfort of "sitting up" and preparing a new lecture for the belated husband.

THESE ARE SOLID FACTS.

The best blood purifier and system regulator ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity, truly is Electric Bitters. Inactivity of the Liver, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Weak Kidneys, or any disease of the urinary organs, or whoever requires an appetizer, tonic or mild stimulant, will always find Electric Bitters the best and only certain cure known. They act surely and quickly, every bottle guaranteed to give entire satisfaction or money refunded. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by John Gayfer, druggist. 10t

Short meater—a dishonest butcher.

A New Way to Scare Old Tramps.

Two young gentlemen, who made their living in a profession where assurance is considered a necessary trait, were engaged in conversation. To them came a tramp of the trampest kind and asked for alms. One of the young gentlemen, who rejoiced in a sunburned nose—the result of riding a bicycle to High Bridge—and a generally judicial aspect, turned upon the tramp and said:

"Where have I seen you before? Haven't you been up before me in the Jefferson Market Police Court?"

"No, sor," was the reply. "I niver was up in the Jifferson Market, at all, at all."

"Well, you've been up before me somewhere; I never forget a face I'm Judge Smith."

The tramp looked at him a moment and then said:

"Sure, it was in the Tombs, sor, an' yez give me a month; but I didn't break the windy, sor, at all."

"Well, go away and don't bother me, or the next time you come I'll give you two months."

And he went with much suddenness.

Changing the Subject.

"Your mother and father are well Miss De Cook?" asked young Featherly who was making an evening call.

"Papa is enjoying excellent health," replied the young lady, toying gracefully with her fan, "but mamma, I am sorry to say, is far from robust."

"Indeed!" said Featherly, putting on an anxious look, and getting in a little genteel work. "Her condition is not serious, I trust?"

"Oh, no; nothing alarming. We have been without a servant for a week past and dear mamma is beginning to feel the effects of it, that is all. It is a great trial to us. Are you an admirer of Whistler's etchings, Mr. Featherly?"

An Hereditary Taint.

George Washington, pere, the grandfather of his country, started out for a day's fishing. This occurred a good while ago, gentle reader. On his return at night his basket contained 127 brook trout, which averaged not less than three-quarters of a pound apiece.

"Father," said young George, who had been set to work cleaning them, "who caught the beautiful fish?"

"My son," replied the old man with great emotion, "I cannot tell a lie, I did."

[This little sketch is only of historic value as tending to show that the immortal Washington's taste for truth, if inherited at all, must have come from his mother's side of the family.]—Baltimore Day.

She Couldn't be Spanked.

A bright little miss of three summers was seated beside her father at the dinner table. She was full of mischief, and her father finally said to her:

"Dotty, if you don't behave better I shall have to spank you."

The little one remained in deep thought a few moments and then answered, with a saucy twinkle in her eyes:

"Oo tant, pa; I's sittin' on it."

Never Talk Back.

BY J. W. RILEY.

Never talk back! such things is reprehensible;
A feller only corks hisself that jaws a man that's hot;
In a quarrel, of you'll only keep your mouth shet, and be sensible,
The man that does the talkin 'll git worsted every shot.

Never talk back to a feller that's abusin' you—
Jest let him carry on, and rip and cuss and swear,
And when he finds his lyin' and his dammin's jest amusin' you,
You've got him clean kaflummixed, and you want to hold him there!

The Ingersoll Chronicle

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

THURSDAY, JULY 31, 1884.

FULL returns from Muskoka give Dill, Liberal, 122 majority.

IF the Privy Council confirms the boundary award at the North as well as at the West, Ontario will be larger than any country in Europe excepting Russia and Austria. Ontario will have an area of 220,000 square miles as compared with the 208,000 of Germany, the 204,000 of France, Spain's 196,031, Italy's 93,640, and England's 58,320.

TORONTO Telegram, (Ind.):—We understand that Mr. Mowat has distinctly stipulated that no monetary testimonial shall be presented to him, and that this is the reason that the Liberal party is not to be called upon to make up to him in a substantial way what he has lost by practically abandoning his profession to fight their battles for them in the field political. Mr. Mowat has said that he will accept no financial testimonial while he is in public life. This is creditable to him as a public man, but it is surely too much to expect that he will continue to serve the party for the few thousands a year he receives as Premier of Ontario.

IT has come at last! The Tory party is dissatisfied with Ontario's victory in the Boundary award dispute, because "Mr. Mowat wilfully and stupidly abandoned the claim to territory beyond that included in the Award." We felt sure Mowat was at fault somewhere. He was wrong in fighting for the Award, and he was wrong in not fighting for more than the award!

HERE is a list of the great cases in which, during the last few months, the Conservative party has had the misfortune to hold an opposite view from that of the British Privy Council:

THE INSURANCE CASE,
THE MERCER CASE,
THE STREAMS CASE,
THE LICENSE CASE
and last and greatest,
THE BOUNDARY CASE.

It is a sad state of affairs, indeed, when party rancour has such an influence as to cause people to oppose the interests of their own country for political reasons.

THE province of Ontario will, says the Montreal Witness, in point of area, be the largest as well as the most influential in the Dominion, with the exception of British Columbia, and also one territory, Keewatin. The area of the provinces and territories are as follows:—

Province.	Area in miles.	Population.
Ontario	220,000	1,923,228
Quebec	185,000	1,359,027
New Brunswick	27,000	321,233
Nova Scotia	20,300	440,572
Manitoba	115,000	65,954
British Columbia	341,900	49,459
Prince Edward Island	2,000	105,891
Assiniboia	95,000
Saskatchewan	114,000
Alberta	100,000
Athabasca	122,000
Keewatin	300,000

Ontario's advantages as to climate, fertility of soil, latitude and neighbourhood of wealthy states south are such as to make it certain that her population will be much more dense in proportion to her area than that of any other province. It is probable, therefore, that she will always be far the most powerful province in the Dominion. The great danger will be that her predominant political power will be fatal to the good-will which should unite and can only unite the provinces, and, therefore, to the unity of the Dominion. It will be difficult for this confederation long to exist. The majority of the provinces are actuated by feelings of jealousy or resentment. Where one province becomes predominant these feelings are sure to arise. Jealousy of Prussia would split up the German empire if the different kingdoms were not forced together by outside pressure instead of being cemented by good-will. In the case of the Dominion the outside influences are all the other way. They are such as to attract the provinces to make other alliances. These influences are at work both in the Maritime provinces and the northwestern provinces and should any mutually repellant influences which exist among the provinces be strengthened, the Dominion will not hold together.

WORSE THAN WHISKEY.

A Society Belle's Downfall—A Victim of the Opium Habit.

There is now pending in a court of equity in Baltimore a divorce suit which has brought to light particulars of a most revolting character, illustrating in a startling and distressing manner the blighting effects of the opium habit. Owing to the high social standing of the parties involved the greatest secrecy has been observed and the names are withheld from publication. It is known however, that the unfortunate victim of the deadly drug was, until her marriage in 1869, a noted society belle living on the Eastern Shore. She graduated with high honours and upon entering society was recognized as the belle of the county, which boasted many beautiful women. She had scores of admirers, but gave her hand to a gentleman living in the same county, of equal social rank and wealth. The wedding was solemnized with great eclat and was one of the most prominent events of the Eastern Shore. For several years the married life of the couple was one of great happiness. Three children blessed the union. Soon after the birth of the last child it was observed that the lady became subject to fits of melancholy, at times taking no interest in anything around her, and again being buoyant and cheerful. An old and trusted servant finally discovered that the wife

WAS A CONFIRMED OPIUM EATER.

Every effort was made by the distracted husband to break her of the habit, but without success. Two years ago she disappeared—still young and pretty—and though detectives were employed, no trace of her could be found. Recently a policeman of Baltimore observed among the names of persons sent to the House of Correction that of the missing woman whom he had known in youth. Upon her discharge he traced her to one of the vilest dens in Baltimore, kept by a colored woman. The officer notified the husband and a few days ago they went together to the place and the husband found his long lost wife—his beautiful bride of a few years before—in the company of a coarse, brutal-looking negro. The wretched man sprang forward to destroy her, but was restrained by the policeman. All traces of the woman's former beauty had disappeared, and she was almost unrecognizable even to her husband. Evidence for the divorce suit was obtained and the opium victim left to her fate. In conversation she seemed to be wholly depraved and did not manifest the slightest regret for what she had done. She was unmoved, except when allusion was made to her children, when she betrayed some little emotion.

Lyons, N. Y., July 28.—Stephen Whitlock, aged 18, was buried on Saturday. Three days ago, after eating a quart of peanuts he ate two quarts of cherries, pits and all, then drank several glassess of ice water. He died in great agony.

The entire Salvation Army of Grand Rapids, Mich., numbering twenty-four persons, twelve of them women and two coloured, which paraded the streets on Tuesday evening, was arrested by the police and locked up in the police station. They continually disturbed the peace by beating tambourines and drums, and shouting. Mayor Belknap read the riot act to their captain on Monday and requested that they stop such actions. He replied that he would do as he pleased, and did, with the above result.

NEWS NOTES

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM ALL SOURCES

Personal and General Gossip.

The flax crop in the west is reported exceptionally good.

Bismarck proposes to make the German navy worthy of the empire.

Seven persons escaped from gaol at Big Rapids, Mich., Saturday evening.

The succession duty on the late Duke of Buccleuch's estate was £220,000.

The Shamrocks defeated the Torontos at lacrosse in Montreal on Saturday.

The French Cabinet will submit a bill to increase the import duty on live stock.

The Committee of Welcome of the American exhibition in England has been appointed.

Despatches from Dakota, Nebraska and Minnesota, indicate a good spring wheat crop.

The British Admiralty is sending six flat-bottomed steam sloops to patrol the Upper Nile.

A plot to assassinate the Crown Prince of Germany is the latest Nihilist scare in Europe.

The subscriptions received at Montreal to the British Science Association Fund amount to $8,290.

Landlords at eastern Canadian summer resorts complain that cold weather is destroying their business.

The police have seized a quantity of arms and ammunition and arrested four suspects near Tullamore, Ireland.

Only £90 of £450 required has been raised for a memorial window in Salisbury Cathedral to the late Prince Leopold.

A daughter of Lord Lytton, yet in her teens, has written a novel which will be published in an English magazine.

A company has been formed in Chicago to lay a cable from Brazil to New Orleans via St. Thomas to cost $3,000,000.

Lieut. Greely and his comrades were honored with a great demonstration on their departure from St. John's.

The Emperor William will open a university in Strasburg on October 19, thus paying his first official visit to the capital of Alsace and Lorraine since the conquest.

Wheat is cheap and bread dear in London, England, and Mr. Plimsoll, the sailors' friend, offers a bakers' shop in a populous street to the baker who will sell the loaf at a farthing profit.

If the Privy Council confirms the boundary award at the north as well as the west, Ontario will be larger than any country in Europe excepting Russia and Austria. Ontario will have an area of 220,000 square miles as compared with the 208,000 of Germany, the 204,000 of France, Spain's 196,031, Italy's 93,640, and England's 58,320.

It is stated in Montreal that several very large actions are about to be entered on behalf of the liquidators of the Exchange Bank against parties who are extensively indebted to the bankrupt institution, and are slow in recognizing their obligations. It is nearly a year since the bank went into liquidation, and up to the present not a single depositor or creditor has obtained a dividend, except the favored friends of the absent president.

There were six failures in Canada reported to Bradstreets during the past week, as compared with 21 in the preceding week, and with 33, 8, and 11 respectively in the corresponding weeks of 1883, 1882 and 1881. In the United States Bradstreets report 225 failures last week, as against 211 the preceding week, and 168, 122 and 78 in the corresponding weeks of 1883, 1882 and 1881. About 76 per cent. of those were small traders, whose capital was under $5000.

Two suits have been begun in the Supreme Court, New York, by Daniel Connor to recover $10,000 damages for the loss of his two children in the steamship State of Florida, which was sunk in midocean in April last by collision with the bark Pomona. The case is to test the liability of the steamship company for the loss of life attending the sinking of the State of Florida, and is to be followed by a suit to test the company's liability for loss of property. The suits will be reached in October.

Reports from the North-Western States say that the wheat crop, after escaping all other perils, is running the gauntlet of midsummer hailstorms. Beyond doubt a great deal of injury has been done within the last few days, but not so much relatively as might be supposed, because the hailstorms are local and of restricted area. Greater damage will probably be done by the smut which prevails in the soft wheat region of the Hastings and Dakota road and the rust along the Winona and St. Peters. Estimates of the yield are rather premature, but statistical Agent Young finds an acreage of 2,757,218, and counts upon a total yield of 45,000,000 bushels in Minnesota. There is very little damage by the late storms—certainly not more than one-fourth of one per cent., so that the aggregate will hardly fall below 44,000,000 bushels. Oats, barley and rye are also excellent, and corn is as good as can be expected. The estimated yield of corn in Iowa, with favorable weather, is 300,000,000 bushels; oats, 75,000,000 bushels; potatoes, 15,000,000 bushels; spring wheat, 35,000,000 bushels. The corn crop is the biggest ever known in the State.

The tornadoes of the early part of the week which wrought such ruin in Southern Dakota and South-western Minnesota have been followed by hailstorms fully as destructive. A storm on Friday passed over Pleasant Valley, Clear Creek, and Brunswick, Wis. Hailstones from eight to ten inches in diameter destroyed everything in the shape of grain. Many sheep, hogs, calves, and horses and cattle suffered severely. Many bridges were swept away. Great damage was done to crops in Barnes and Cross counties, Dakota. The Goodell school house, near Desmet, was blown over Monday morning. Hailstones were three inches deep in some places. Several farm houses were struck by lightning. In Lake Renville county, Minn., on Thursday night, the storm ruined hundreds of acres of grain. Many houses were unroofed and some were moved from their foundations. In Sherbourne county, Minn., the estimated damage to crops is placed at fifty per cent.

COLLISION IN MID-OCEAN.

The Steamers Laxham and Gijon Collide—Over a Hunered People Perish.

LONDON, July 29.—A terrible tale of suffering is told by the survivors of the steamship Laxham, who have arrived in England. On the evening of the collision, which occurred about forty miles off the coast of Spain, there was an almost impenetrable fog. The Laxham was going slowly and sounding her whistle, and like an echo through the veil of mist was heard, at intervals, another whistle, which was undoubtedly that of the Gijon. The Gijon struck the Laxham amidships, and the latter was nearly cut asunder. The funnel fell and the steampipe burst. The chief engineer in reversing the engine was horribly scalded. Most of the Laxham's crew boarded the Gijon. Capt. Lothian tied his wife and child to himself, and all were hauled aboard the Gijon by a rope. The Laxham sank 20 minutes after the collision. The Gijon soon began to settle and terrible confusion prevailed. The captain stood with a revolver in hand, but was unable to keep order. The passengers and crew were fighting for their lives, boats were lowered and filled to the gun-wales, but could not accommodate half the people. Those who secured places were obliged to keep off the others with knives. The Gijon sank bow first, and the quarter deck was crowded with men and women. The captain and officers were on a bridge. It is estimated that 130 persons perished.

Horrible Most Horrible.

Martinsville, Ia., July 29.—Recently a young negress, having been seduced by her father, gave birth to twins. While the wife of the brute and mother of the girl was sick in an adjoining room the inhuman father of the mother and children took a knife, cut both children to pieces, fed their flesh to hogs, and fled.

CALL and see the immense stock of Wall Papers, Floor Oil Cloths, Window Cornices, Window Shades, &c., at L. Thompson's McCaughey's Block. 41.

FOREIGN NEWS ITEMS.

PARNELL AGAINST DAVITT.

Cable despatches state that there is trouble in the Land League camp over the convention to be held in Boston next month. Parnell is too ill to attend, and the league will probably be represented by Thomas Sexton and Wm. Redmond. They will address meetings. Mr. Sexton is entrusted with a special mission from the London leaders of the party. The convention of Irish Nationalists at Belfast on Thursday is looked upon as the point at which Davitt and Parnell will divide. Parnell has made up his mind that the time to crush Davitt's nationalization of land scheme has arrived. The general opinion is that the struggle between Davitt and Parnell will now begin in earnest. The Parnell men say that the nationalization of the land, now that England rules Ireland, would be simply giving the British government the fee-simple of Ireland. Mr. Sexton's visit to America is generally regarded as a part of the Parnell anti-Davitt programme.

THE CZAR'S VISIT TO WARSAW.

It is officially announced that the Czar's visit to the palace at Warsaw has not been renounced. Extraordinary precautions are being taken to prevent violence during the visit. No Russian will be allowed to enter the city without a permit. The railway will be lined with soldiers while the train with the royal personages is on its way. Arrests of persons suspected of complicity with the plot to blow up the palace continue. The police have closed a number of coffee houses and restaurants. All other places of this sort are required to close at eight o'clock every night, and to remain closed Sundays and holidays. The city is to all intents and purposes in a minor state of siege.

JOHN BROWN'S SUCCESSOR.

Some alarm has been created by the occurrence of two robberies at Windsor Castle in rapid succession, and the society papers take advantage of the occasion to correct the reports in the newspapers that Francisca Clark, a victim of one of these robberies, is John Brown's successor. Clark attends the Queen in her rides and walks, and performs some of the other functions of a gillie, but he has not Brown's' perquisites and privileges. The chamber where the great lamented died is sealed up, and bears a brass plate recording the date of his death and the many virtues ascribed to him by the Queen.

FEMALE TEACHERS WANTED.

There is a great dearth of female teachers for the public schools of London West just now, and the number of vacancies is increasing. Not only is it found impossible to secure competent women to fill these vacancies, but there are no applications of any kind before the authorities for the vacant places. The reason given is that the unnecessary severity of the preliminary examination is frightening women entirely away from the field of labor.

MISS TERRY'S VACCINATION.

The Lyceum Theatre, London, has come to grief from a curious cause. Miss Ellen Terry, becoming a victim of the small-pox scare, had herself vaccinated, and, when the virus began to take effect, neglected to take the usual precautions to prevent inflammation. She continued to act the part of Viola, with her left arm in a sling, and ate and drank as usual. Now the whole arm and hand are badly swollen, and she has been compelled to cease acting. The result is that the theatre is closed, for no one in the company has understudied the part of Viola.

MONUMENT TO BURNS.

Lord Rosebury on Saturday unveiled a statue of Robert Burns on the Thames Embankment, London. Many prominent Scotchmen were present. Robert Burns, the "Shakespeare of Scotland," was born near Ayr, January 25, 1759, and died at Dumfries, July 21, 1706. It was intended to unveil the the statue on the anniversary of the poet's death, but the ceremony was unavoidably delayed until now.

AMERICAN CATTLE IN ENGLAND.

Mr. Moreton Frewen, the Wyoming cattle king, who organized the agitation in favor of importing American cattle, via Canada, sailed to-day for New York. He says he is thoroughly satisfied with the result of his visit to England, and is confident that orders will soon be given for the admission of Wyoming cattle at British ports.

SPANISH AMERICAN TREATY.

The negotiations between Spain and America for a new commercial treaty are said to be at a standstill. American pretensions clash with Spanish intutests in Cuba. Spain is reluctant about allowing closer commercial connection between her colonies and America.

COMING MEETING OF THE EMPERORS.

The Czas announces that the Czar of Russia and the Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria will meet at Granicia, in Poland, and will proceed together by way of Warsaw to Alexandrof, where Emperor William of Germany will join them.

HONORING SIR CHARLES TUPPER.

The Prince of Wales has requested Sir Charles Tupper to allow him to recommend him as a Royal Commissioner to the Indian Colonial Exhibition of 1886, of which His Royal Highness will be President.

THE ENGLISH HOP CROP.

The English hop crop this year all the authorities say, will be a great failure.

A VERY BIG ENTERPRISE.

American Capitalists to Buy the Island of Cuba.

BUFFALO, July 29.—A Washington special says: "A writer in the Sunday Post gives the details of a scheme whereby a syndicate, composed of Henry Warmoth, August Belmont, Sam Barlow, Pierre Lorillard, ex-Governor Leland Stanford, of California, James Gordon Bennett, John Mackay, and other very rich and enterprising men, are to buy the island of Cuba for $100,000,000, and turn the island into an immense sugar plantation and tobacco factory. Chinese labor is to be employed, and the Rothschilds are to furnish the first payment of $20,000,000. The perfection of the scheme is said to be the real object of Governor Warmoth's visit to Europe."

Wondering if Chicago Cheek Had Any Equal.

"May I have this seat?" she asked of the genteel looking drummer whose baggage was occupying it.

"I don't know, ma'am," he answered politely. "It belongs to the railroad, you know; but I'll see the conductor, and maybe he can give it to you."

She grew purple and said:

"You don't understand me. I mean can I take it?"

"Well, I don't know that, either. You see it is fastened very firmly to the car floor, and would be troublesome to get up; however, I'll have a carpenter to come on board at the next station and ask his advice."

"I don't want to take the old thing," she howled. "Is this your traps on it?"

"No'm," blandly answered the drummer, "they belong to the firm I travel for."

"Well, can I sit down here?" she finally screamed, after shifting from one foot to the other.

"I don't know, madam; you are the best judge of your muscular powers."

"Where do you travel from?" she screamed.

"Chicago," he replied.

"That settles it," she said meekly; "will you please move your valise, and permit me to occupy a small portion of this seat?"

"Certainly," he replied, "why didn't you say that at first?"

The train sped on, while he sat counting up his expenses, and she wondering if Chicago cheek had any equal under the sun.—People's Paper.

Game.

"So you have just returned from the west, have you, Mr. D?" said a man meeting an old crony on the street yesterday.

"Yes, sir; been all through the territories."

"Game abundant there?"

"Game is very abundant, sir, very."

"What kind predominates?"

"Well faro takes the lead, with poker a good second."

"Oh, good-day."

"Good-day."

Eighteen members of the Rochester Salvation Army—nine male and nine female—were locked up on Sunday night for "causing an improper commotion on the streets."

THE CHOLERA.

The Hospitals Densely Crowded.

PANAMA, July 28.—There are now 175 persons in the hospitals suffering from dysentery. Doctors say over half their patients are ill with the same disease. It is a species of cholera and in many cases terminates fatally.

The Panama National Government has cancelled the order for quarantine, as the Canal Company are opposed to any quarantine. Dr. Lopez, the canal physician, died of dysentery on Saturday. The hospitals are filled. The Canal Company are advertising for tenders for a new hospital at Colon.

LONDON, July 28.—Consul Mason, at Marseilles, telegraphs:—"Marked improvement at Marseilles and Toulon. Choleraic deaths at Marseilles from daily average of 60 fell to 43 on Wednesday, 48 on Thursday, 38 on Friday, 58 on Saturday, and 36 on Sunday. Mortality from all causes is also declining. At Toulon the average fell from 40 to 15. Isolated cases are reported from various parts of the district. The epidemic is declared severe at Arles and Aix."

The Duke of Cambridge has issued an order to all commanders of military depots, that in view of the possible approach of cholera, they shall instantly select a site upon which to encamp their troops and be ready to vacate the barracks at a moment's notice. They are also required to filter all water to be used for drinking or cooking purposes, to empty dust bins daily, and inspect sewers every week. Any failure to observe these instructions will result in the offender being court-martialled.

BERLIN, July 28.—Through traffic on railways between France and Germany has been suspended until further notice as a precaution against cholera.

AN ELECTRIC RAILROAD.

The Cleveland Street Railroad Company Introduces a New System.

CLEVELAND, July 28.—The first commercially successful electric railroad in America was started in operation here yesterday by the East Cleveland Street Railroad Company, who have just completed a mile of road and ran cars on it to-day for the first time. The experiment was so successful that the company expect to change their entire system, comprising over twenty miles, into electric roads. The current is carried on under ground, conductors laid in conduits like those of cable roads. Cars are started, stopped and reversed with the greatest ease. Any number of cars up to fifteen can be run at one time on a single circuit and from one machine, which is a result not obtained by any European systems. The success of the new system has made a great sensation in both street railroad and electrical circles, and it is expected to greatly extend the field of electrical developments.

A HORRIBLE DISEASE.

A Woman in a Chicago Hospital Suffering from "Lumpy Jaw."

CHICAGO, July 26.—The surgeons at the county hospital have under treatment Mrs. Murphy, suffering from a horrible disease which afflicts cattle and known as "lumpy jaw." It is in the form of an abscess on her jaw. A microscopic examination proves that the abscess contains vegetable parasites identical with those found in abscesses in cattle. It is supposed to be caused by eating meat from cattle having the disease. An operation will be performed on Tuesday. This is the first case reported in the United States, though cases have been recorded in Germany.

The Bennett-Mackay Cable.

CHICAGO, July 29.—G. D. Roberts, who is interested financially in the Mackay-Bennett Atlantic cable, says the cable will be ready for public service on Oct. 1. One cable is already finished and the other will be completed on the above date. The cost of the cable will reach $7,000,000. The rate for cablegrams will be materially less than by the old cable, but how much less Mr. Roberts declined to say. A company has been organized to lay a cable from Brazil to New Orleans via St. Thomas, to cost $3,000,000, which will work in connection with the Bennett-Mackay cable.

Lieut. Greely, of the Arctic expedition, is accused by some of the men on the steamer Loch Garry of being to blame for the loss of his men by his lack of proper effort for their preservation. The same men make insinuations of incompetency against Commander Schley, of the rescuing expedition, whose success they claim is due to the assistance and advice given by whalers.

A Good Clerk.

A good clerk is a prize too rarely found, and when found often unappreciated. When a man has a clerk in whom he can place confidence, he may regard himself as extremely fortunate. One good clerk will do more, and do it better, than two poor ones. He does not, require constant looking after. When he does anything there is no necessity for his employer to do it over again. He will always take pains to treat customers well, and serve them with exactly what they want. He never acts as if he owns the whole establishment, and a very large portion of the world outside of it. He is polite, unassuming, and anxious to forward his employer's interests. He is sufficiently level-headed to recognize the fact that the more his employer's business increases the better is his own chance for advancement. With this end in view he naturally takes a close personal interest in the business.

When a business man is fortunate enough to get such an employe, he would do well to endeavor to retain him. If he wants a holiday once and a while, let him have it. He will appreciate it and make it up to you. Should he ask a favor of you, grant it, as by doing so it will make him regard you as his best friend, and the bond between you will be one of friendship as well as business interest.

Many employers overlook the fact that a good clerk is a person of some influence. He can always bring trade with him, and need never be at a loss for employment. If he leaves one employer he can readily obtain a position with another, probably in the same neighborhood, and draw trade to his latest employer.

When you get a good clerk keep him. You can feel a sense of security when you go to market or for an evening's recreation, if you leave such a person in charge. Your business will be well attended to, and even if you pay him a liberal salary, you will find it a benefit in the long run.—Geyers Stationer.

The Sabbath Quiet.

The busy noises of the week are still'd,
And sacred quiet rests upon the earth;
The soul is calm'd that with its woe was fill'd,
And joy divine displaces senseless mirth.

From hearts communing with the throne above,
Prayers, like freed souls, to holy Heaven rise;
And benedictions from a Father's love
Fall viewlessly and softly from the skies.

The eye sees not the tainted things of earth,
Lit with the hope His glorious promise gives,
But looks beyond, to the celestial birth;
The world is dead, and only Heaven lives!
—(George Bridsy in the Philadelphia Call.

Hot Water a Safe Medicine.

An old and skilled New York physician when interviewed on the hot water craze, said: "It has long been used. It is an internal wash; nothing more nor less. As such it is excellent. An old trainer of prize-fighters used to tell me about it before I had even heard of it elsewhere. He said he had cured everything, from toothache to rheumatism with it. My lady patients often beg me to prescribe it to them, and I often do so; sometimes because I think it likely to do good, and sometimes because I don't think it will do any harm."

Difference Between Sitting up and Sitting Down.

Inquiring child—"Pa, what is the difference between sitting up and sitting down?" Pa, with perfect confidence in his ability to explain—"Why, my child, when somebody is standing up and he seats himself he sits down, and when he doesn't go to bed and sits down he sits up?" Inquiring child—"But pa, if he sits, how can he sit without sitting down; and if he sits down, how can he sit up?" Pa, with a dawning doubt of his ability to make it quite clear—"You see, my child, if he sits down, why he—I mean if he sits up—. Go to your ma, and don't ask me questions when I'm busy."

Ominous name for a henpecked husband, —"Claw'd."

A Startling Dress.

Last evening, says the Long branch correspondent to the Chicago Inter-Ocean, I saw the latest startling novelty in dress worn by a young lady who was waltzing with a son of Sir Hugh Allan, a youth remarkable for his combination of lilac vest and tweed trousers and coat. The lady was a Philadelphian, a beauty and an heiress. She was incased in a flesh coloured silk, "tailored" to her figure so closely that every curve and bend of it was exposed. The sleeves fitted so tightly she could hardly raise her arm to her partner's shoulder, and every respiration was visible. Over this skin fitting silk was a plain drapery of exquisite black lace, the effect of which was absolutely startling, the wearer appearing like a flesh-tinted marble figure under a black veil.

He Believed in Protection.

From the Chicago Herald.

One of the Massachusetts delegation was persistent in his demand that the platform should contain a plank in favor of liberal appropriations for an extensive system of coast defences. He appeared before the committee, but met a rebuff, and then made a speech to a mob in front of Hooley's Theatre.

'Oh, you fellers can hoot and yell,' said he, 'but I'm a Democrat from Cape Cod, and my house stands on a neck of land where a foreign gunboat could shoot the cold potatoes right off from my table. It may be d—funny for you fellers out here in the Mississippi Valley, but I want you to understand that if I have to emigrate at any time in the next four years I'll hold the Democratic party responsible.'

CALLING cards and wedding invitation with envelopes to match at the CHRONICLE office.

HAVE THE CHRONICLE sent to you when you take your vacation.

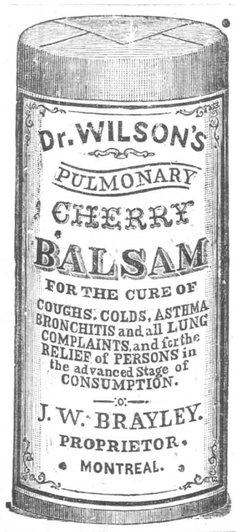
See that your cows have pure water. In this dry season they are prone to drink from stagnant pools.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder nevervaries. A marvel of purity, strength, and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall-st., N. Y.
January 24th, 1884. 1555-48t

MOSS & Co's CELEBRATED



BAKING POWDER

NOTED FOR ITS

PURITY AND STRENGTH.

MANUFACTURED BY
MOSS, RIMMINGTON & CO.,
SELBY, ENGLAND.

PREPARE FOR THE ENEMY.

CHOLERA

—IS—

COMING.

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all known remedies, and the natives place the most perfect reliance in it.

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in Chica:

DEAR SIRS:—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness to send to me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The Cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for Cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants assured us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed, recovered.

Believe me, dear sirs, gratefully and faithfully yours.
J. M. JOHNSON,
Missionary to Swaton, China.

Beware of Counterfeits and Imitations. Ask for the genuine Perry Davis' Pain-Killer and take no other. 1612im.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in packets by Grocers, labelled thus:

JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London, England.
58yr

Woodstock College.

FACULTY.

Rev. N. Wolverton, B.A., Principal Metaphysics and Ethics.
J. I. Bates, B.A., Ph. M. Classics.
J. H. Farmer, B.A., Classics.
D. K. Clark, B.A., Moderns.
N. S. McKechnie, English.
T. P. Hall, B.A., Mathematics.
J. W. Westervell, Principal Commercial College.
H. B. Beard, Esq., Q.C., Lecturer on Commercial Laws.
J. H. W. York, Assist. Com. Cell.
Miss Reap, Lady Principal, History.
Miss Hatch, Assist. in English.
Miss McNeal, Inst. Music.
Mrs. Farmer, Inst. Music.
Mrs. Springer, Painting, Drawing and Dacoration.
Miss Perkins, Vocal Music and Voice Culture.
Miss Barr, Reading and Elocution.

Collegiate Department.

Diploma upon graduation. Students prepared for matriculation into all colleges. 25 per cent. have passed. 65 per cent. have taken honors. Unexcelled facilities for non-professional teachers' examinations.

Ladies' College.

None superior. Ladies have equal advantages with gentlemen. Regular course in Literature, Fine Arts Course, Music, Painting, Drawing specialties.

Commercial College.

Now ranked among the leading Colleges of the Dominion. Complete in all respects and most thorough.

Boys' Preparatory School.

Special safeguards, and the best instruction.

FOR CATALOGUE, ADDRESS
REV. N. WOLVERTON, B.A.
Woodstock, Aug. 1, 1884. 1612r

ATTENTION

L. THOMPSON,

McCAUGHEY'S BLOCK, THAMES STREET,

Has now on hand a large stock of Painted Cloth Window Shades in the Newest Designs.

Spring Shade Fixtures, Window Cornices, Poles, &c., in great variety.

N.B.—Competent workmen employed and sent to any part of the country to fit up the above lines.

Also a lot of Children's Carriages, Express Wagons, Croquet Sets, Balls, and goods in this line will be sold cheap to clear them out.

Ingersoll, July 31, 1884. 1612

LEADING WHOLESALE TRADE OF MONTREAL.

GREENE & SONS

COMPANY,

MONTREAL.

BUFFALO

AND

Hats, Caps AND FURS.

Fancy Goods. Gentlemen's Furnishings.

1884.

WELL ASSORTED STOCK IN ALL LINES.

LATEST STYLES.

Selected for Fall Trade, 1884.

AGENTS FOR

WOODROW'S HATS.

Warehouse, 517 to 525 St. Paul-St., MONTREAL.

Hearn & Co

JUST TO HAND.

ONE CASE

COLOURED MUSLINS,

FAST COLORS, which we are able to offer at the low price of 10 cents per yard. Come one and all, and secure a grand bargain.

We also offer a grand assortment of

WHITE VICTORIA LAWNS

In all prices, 15c, 18c, 20c, 25c, 30c, 35c. Splendid value.

Do not fail to see our stock of Black Brocade Silks, Black Gros Silks, Black Satins, Black Satin DeLyons, at prices that cannot be beaten.

Millinery! Millinery!

Great reductions in this department, we are determined not to carry any of our stock over, so that we will sell at greatly reduced prices. This is no Blow but solid facts.

IN PECTION INVITED.

HEARN & CO.

Ingersoll, July 10, 1884. 1608

PRINTING!

PRINTING!

ESTIMATES Cheerfully GIVEN

The Chronicle Office,

DAVID WHITE & CO.

New and Scarce Goods

ARRIVING EVERY DAY.

JUST RECEIVED

WHITE VICTORIA LAWNS.

Swiss Spot and Sprig Muslins.

All-over Embroidery, Over and over Net, Guipure, White and Cream Muslin Embroidery, Real Oriental Laces. Silk, Lisle and Cotton Hose. Pure Silk and Taffetta Gloves.

STAPLE DEPARTMENT.

Shirting and Denims, Cottonades, Table Linen, Table Napkins, Damask Towels, Cotton Bags. 36 inch Factory Cotton only 5 cents.

DAVID WHITE & CO.

Ingersoll, July 10, 1884. 1608

GREAT BARGAINS.

A Reduction in the Prices at the

CHINA TEA HOUSE.

16 lbs. Good Sugar for $1.00.

20 lbs. Valentia Raisins for $1.

This is the place to buy the CHEAPEST TEAS. Young Hyson and Congou, a specialty. The cheapest place to buy CROCKERY. Selling Printed TEA SETS at $3.50, worth $5.00. Glass and Silver Ware very low. Cutlery at Rock Bottom Prices.

Any one buying $5 worth of goods at the CHINA TEA HOUSE, and paying Cash for the same will be allowed a discount of 5 per cent.

Ingersoll, July 9th, 1884. 1609

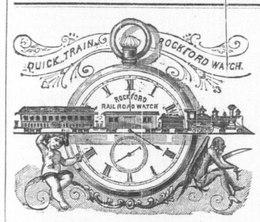
Dispensing Chemist!

J. W. BROWETT,

Sign of the White Mortar.

HELLEBORE, PURE HELLEBORE is best and cheapest poison for currant worms. Look to your currant and gooseberry bushes.

ALKALI—25 cents worth makes 10 lbs of Hard Soap, or 25 Gallons of Soft Soap this saves trouble with ashes.



CHLORIDE LIME prevents sickness by using it for all disagreeable odors from back yards, cellars, etc., (an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure

A large stock of Fresh Medicines, Drugs and Chemicals.

J. W. BROWETT, Dispensing Chemist,
Sign of the "White Mortar," Thames Street.
Ingersoll, April 10th, 1884. 1596

Burdock Blood Bitters

Cures Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver and Kidneys, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all diseases arising from Impure Blood, Deranged Stomach, or irregular action of the Bowels.

H. RICHARDSON

Richardson's Block, Ingersoll, Ontario,

Dealer in Watches, Clocks, Jewelry,

SILVER AND PLATED WARE.

Rockford, Ill., Jan 1st., 1883.

This is to certify that we have appointed H. RICHARDSON, Sole Agent for the sale of the Rockford Quick Train Watch, in Ingersoll, Ontario, and that we will, to the fullest extent, sustain the usual warranty given by him to purchasers of our movements. No warranty whatever attaches to these goods when offered for sale by others than our duly appointed Agents.

ROCKFORD WATCH CO.,
H. P. Holland, Sec

NELLES & STEVENS

Have this week opened out a full range of

Crockery & Glassware

Comprising White and Printed Tea Sets. Printed Dinner Sets, 76 pieces. China Tea Sets in every variety of Patterns. Coloured Toilet Sets. White Toilet Sets.

With this addition to our already large stock of General Groceries we claim to show the largest and best selected stock of goods in our line to be found in Ingersoll.

An inspection will convince you that our prices are right as well as the variety.

NELLES & STEVENS.

Ingersoll, May 29th, 1884. 1580

Ground scientifically from clear and pure Pebble, or optical glass especially manufactured for the purpose, they are without exception best adapted to restore the ravages of age, and to retain perfect vision; they are especially recommended by the most eminent of the Faculty.

EVERY PAIR OF SPECTACLES AND EYEGLASSES IS MARKED "B. L."

READ EXTRACTS FROM CANADIAN TESTIMONIALS:

CHIEF JUSTICE MACDONALD, N.S.	writes—	They gave the highest satisfaction.
SENATOR ARCHIBALD	writes—	I have experienced great satisfaction from their use.
CHIEF JUSTICE SIR WM. YOUNG	writes—	They give a clearer and purer light under gas than any I have previously obtained here or elsewhere.
JOHN F. WOOD, M.P.	writes—	For ease or comfort they excel any I have ever used.
J. MACKENZIE, F.R.C.S., Kingston	writes—	Carefully constructed, good defining power and glasses in each frame of equal focal length.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS THIS WEEK.

Medical—Swayne's Ointment.
Lost—CHRONICLE Office.
Cholera—Perry Davis' Pain Killer.
Apples—Donald & Co.
Paints, etc.—L. Thompson.
Western Fair—G. McBroom.
Woodstock College—N. Wolverton.

The Ingersoll Chronicle

AND CANADIAN DAIRYMAN.

THURSDAY, JULY 31, 1884.

TOWN NEWS.

WHAT will our taxes be this year?

CIVIC Holiday Monday next. Ingersoll will be deserted.

THE question on our streets is "Port Stanley or Toronto?"

"BONNIE BIRD," owned by John Forbes of Woodstock, won a race at Saratoga on Friday. Time 1.59.

BABY SHOW at Port Stanley on Monday. A silver cup is offered for the fattest baby under nine months.

CHEAP Excursion to Toronto per C.V.R. on Monday. Eight hours in the Queen City. Fare only $1.25. Leave by regular train.

BEN WRIGHT has returned to town after an absence of over ten years. He is not certain yet whether Hattie will make up with him or not.

AUCTION SALE.—Mr. A. Daly will sell the contents of his hotel by auction on Thursday 14th August. Further particulars next week.

DON'T forget the C.V.R. excursion to Toronto on Monday. Fare only $1.25. This will be the cheapest trip from this point this year.

THE Oddfellows' excursion to Port Stanley on Monday promises to be a big success. A good programme of games and sports has been issued. The prizes offered can be seen in the window of S. King's stove store.

THOSE POLES.—While other towns are talking about the gaudy appearance of their telephone poles after their coatings of paint, ours still stand out in all their native glory and beauty.

DIED.—Mr. Alex. Cowan, an old and respected resident of Tilsonburg, died on Wednesday from blood poisoning, brought about by Paris Green, which got into a cut on one of his fingers while sprinkling his potatoes recently.

THE St. Thomas Oddfellows have been disappointed in securing the 13th Batt. Band for the Grand Lodge demonstration. The Ingersoll Y.M.P.B.A.'s, however, have not been, as the band have issued their programme for the 22nd August.

DEMONSTRATION.—Look out for the programmes for the Y.M.P.B.A. demonstration to be held in Victoria Park, on the 22nd of August. They will be issued in a few days. Arrangements are being perfected, and everything points to a big time. Read the posters in the meantime.

THE 13th Batt. Band of Hamilton will give some grand selections at the Promenade Concert at the Rink on the 22nd Aug. "The British Army Quadrilles" and "Reminisence of Foreign Lands" will be down upon the programme, either of which to hear will be worth the admission fee.

WARNING TO APPRENTICES.—Two apprentices of the firm of Stewart & Co., iron founders, Hamilton, absented themselves for a portion of the afternoon to witness a big baseball match there. They were brought before the Police Magistrate next day, and committed to the common jail for a period of three days.

MODEL SCHOOLS.—The County Model Schools open on the second Tuesday in September. It is proposed to allow Boards of Trustees to charge a fee of not more than $5 on every Model School Student. The only change in this regulation is that heretofore the fee was imposed by the County Board of Examiners.

ACCIDENT.—While Mr. D. Dibbs, butcher of Belmont, was engaged in the slaughter house Friday evening, the animal which he was about to bring down to the ground with one fell stroke, fell upon him, crushing him beneath its ponderous weight, causing the fracture of both bones of the leg above the ankle.

AN IMPOSTER. — An imposter about 50 years old was in town this week representing himself to be Jeffrey, the engineer of the freight train in the Humber disaster, and that his injuries received then prevent him from working. Numbers of people subscribed for his assistance. Jeffrey is said to be working in Toronto strong and healthy.

ACCIDENT.—As a little girl, daughter of Wesley Dennis, of North Dorchester, was cutting wheat with a reaper the other day, her little brother, aged five years, strayed out into the wheat field, and the first intimation she had of the whereabouts of the child, the rakes struck him and drawing him upon the knife, lacerated the flesh from his legs in a fearful manner. Dr. Campbell was summoned and it is thought can prevent the limb from being amputated.

A MEAN THIEF.—On Friday evening last, some evil disposed person stole from Mr. Peter Stuart's residence a beautiful "Heather Range" plant, which this gentleman prized very highly. It is evident the party who took the plant had an eye to the beautiful, as he picked this out from many which were within reach. The plant has only just come to flower, possessing very large white buds. Mr. Stewart would willingly give $2 to anyone giving information as will lead to the conviction of the guilty party.

IMMERSION.—On Sunday evening last the Baptist Church was well filled. Some no doubt were drawn by the fact that immersion was to take place during the service. The pastor, Rev. Speller, occupied the pulpit and preached an excellent discourse based upon the words contained in the 19th, 20th and 21st verses of 1st Peter, 3rd chapter. At the close two candidates received the solemn ordinance of Baptism. We are glad to note that under Mr. Speller's guidance the Baptist congregation is large and is improving.

LOCAL UNIVERSITY EXAMINATIONS.—The following are the names of the ladies of the Ingersoll High School, who have passed the university local examinations. The numbers affixed to each name indicates the groups of subjects in which they have passed:—group 2, comprises Mathematics, group 3, English History and Geography and French or German:—A. Ashcroft, 2, 3, N. Austin, 2; K. Breemer, 2: E. Bradbury, 2, 3; E. Cameron, 3; J. Crawford, 3; M. Conolly, 2; M. Duffin, 2; J. Duffin 2, 3; W. Hyslop, 2; 3; B. Johnston, 2; L. Kerr, 2; M. Mason, 2, 3; J. Rose, 2, 3; C. Waller, 2; E. Mines, 3.

THE CROPS.—Those who have not been out in the country for a week past can scarcely realize the grand change that has taken place. The rain of Sunday morning last has added wonderfully to the already bountiful show of grain and vegetables. This Ontario of ours will make one of the finest displays this fall that need be seen. Everybody and all their relations in the farming and gardening line will have just the best and a leetle the largest of everything that grows out doors. We congratulate our farmers on their good prospects. There is one thing they must be short of—grumbling stock.

A VICIOUS ANIMAL.—Mr. James Joliffe, who lives near Avon, in North Dorchester, met with an accident a few days ago which came near costing him his life. One of his neighbors, Mr. Crooks, drove into his yard with two ladies in his buggy. Mr. Crooks helped the ladies to alight, and Mr. Joliffe coming out, the two men stood talking for a few minutes. While they were talking the horse became restive, and, making a plunge, jammed Mr. Crooks pretty severely against the fence. Mr. Joliffe, taking in the situation at a glance, sprang forward and caught the horse by the head. It reared and threw him under its feet, at the same time releasing itself from Mr. Crooks' hold, and then plunged madly away, tramping on Mr. Joliffe, nearly breaking one of his legs, and cutting him terribly about the face and head, besides bruising his body badly.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE CHAS. WHEELHOUSE.—The funeral of the late Chas. Wheelhouse, of Beachville, formerly a resident of London, took place there on Friday. The remains arrived from Beachville on the noon train, accompanied by fifteen of the members of the Canadian Order of Foresters of which Order deceased was a member. The funeral took place from the Knights of Pythias Hall, Richmond street, and was accompanied by a large number of the St. George's Society, the Knights of Pythias and Foresters, of which organizations deceased was a member. The pall bearers are Bros. J. J. Fisher, James Atkins W. Buttershall, James Sloan, M. Driscoll and James Grisman, of the Myrtle Lodge, No. 2, K. of P.; Bros. R. Sullivan, John Bremner, F. Appleton, F. Mabee, Henry Pullen and W. Collier, Foresters of Beachville. Besides those named the following brethren were in attendance in command of S. C. Martin, D. D. of Ont.:—John Hacker, G. R.; Dr. Brown, T. Taylor, John Fairbairn, John Downing, Adam Bremner, James Dickey and Samuel German.

$50,000 to Loan on Real Estate at Lowest Rates. Apply to Brown & Wells, Barristers. 1593tf

PARTIES requiring money on good security can obtain any amount they may require at from one to two per cent. cheaper than any where else by applying to P. O. Box 29, Ingersoll. Business strictly confidential. 82

FIZ! Zip! goes the Soda Fountain at R. Vance's Confectionery. 02

COURT OF REVISION.

The Judge Confirms Their Work.

On Tuesday the twenty-six appeals from the decision of the Court of Revision were tried before Judge Macqueen, in the Town Hall here.

Messrs. Meredith & Meredith of London appeared on behalf of the Corporation, and Mr. Thos. Wells for the appellants.

The Judge decided in favour of the Court of Revision, confirming their work in every case.

Eight of the twenty-six appeals were made by stockholders in the Noxon Bros. Manufacturing Co., who appealed against being assessed on ten per cent. on their shares in that company.

THERE are two cases of pink eye in town.

CHANGE OF TIME.—A new time table will go into effect on Monday next on the Credit Valley section of the C. P. R. The only change, however, which will be made will be the quickening of the limited express which leaves St. Thomas at 4:45 a.m., and heretofore arrived at the Union Station, Toronto, at 9:30 a.m. This will now arrive in Toronto at 9:20, or ten minutes earlier, and make sharp connection at Toronto Junction with the day express on the Ontario & Quebec section for Ottawa and Montreal.

ST. JAMES' CHURCH FESTIVAL.—The congregation of St. James' Church are to be congratulated on the success which attended their entertainment on Tuesday evening in the Skating Rink. The special attraction of the evening was the playing of the Miniature Students, who charmed their hearers by their exquisite playing. The 22nd Batt. Band was also present and rendered several selections during the evening. The refreshment and flower booths were tastily decorated and liberally patronized. There were four hundred people present and an enjoyable evening was spent. The gross receipts were $130, leaving $65 after expenses are paid.

A DEAD BEAT.—The "man from Boston" named Ross, who beat his board and lodging at several of our hotels, has turned up in Ridgetown. The Standard of that town says:—"A stranger arrived in town registered at a hotel as W. F. Ross, Boston, Mass. He claimed to be canvasser and correspondent for the Boston Traveller, Police Gazette, etc. He at once proceeded to get up an advertising sheet to be distributed, he said, through the town papers, although he did not call at either office. He succeeded in 'gulling' a number of merchants, many of them men who never can be induced to do any local advertising in a legitimate way. On Friday and Saturday he collected 'one-half in advance' from some of his patrons, assuring them the sheet would be out in the evening. It is needless to say that the sheet did not appear, and Ross decamped on the evening train in search of pastures new, forgetting to pay his board bill."

THE GLANDERS DISPUTE.—There seems to be a wide difference in the opinions of of the four veterinary surgeons who have examined the horse belonging to Mr. Geo. Davidson, at Harrietsville, and for keeping which he has been summoned to appear before Squire Peters at London. It appears that Drs. Wilson and O'Neil, of London, are confident that Davidson's horse is afflicted with the scourge, while Drs. Kempshall, of Ingersoll, and Jones, of Springfield, say that it is troubled with gleet. The following is the document upon which Mr. Davidson relies for his discharge:—"Harrietsville, July 22, 1884. We, the undersigned, having examined the gray mare now in possession of Mr. Geo Davidson, believe it to be afflicted with chronic gleet from its not being catching after six months of the same condition; not having the essential symptoms of glanders, being vaccinated and nicely healed. Also Dr. Kempshall has had experience in just the same disease under treatment for testing for six months and over.

GEO. KEMPSHELL, V. S.
R. A. JONES, V. S.

THE ELECTRIC GIRL.—The electric girl who was on exhibition here last week is a wonderful phenomenon. Altogether too wonderful to be exhibited at ten cents a head. She will take a fellow by the hand and give him a slight squeeze that will send a startling shock, shooting through his body—not a shock that a modest reporter always feels when a girl squeezes his hand, but a regular lightning stroke—a tingling, pin pointed, painful shock, equal to half-a-dozen liver pads and galvanic shields working in combination. She will touch a man's little finger with one of her dainty digits, and he will feel as though she had committed assault and battery upon him—especially battery. Such performances as these can certainly be termed wonderful, but they sink into insignificance compared with some of the results of the electric girl's presence, discovered by a reporter of the St. Thomas Journal the other night. So strongly is this wonderful creature surcharged with electricity, that ten minutes after she had retired from the platform, the carpet on which she had been standing was so heavily charged with the fluid, of course communicated from her body, that to place one's hand upon it was as good as squeezing the electric girl, at least the result was the same. That carpet had as much electricity in it as the girl herself. The avenues of possibilities that open from this discovery are shocking. Just think of what may happen if that girl is allowed to walk on our streets, deal at our shops, and eat at our hash-houses, and leave behind her, in everything she touches, a sheet of lightning. We may expect to be shocked at every turn, and will have to pass a city ordinance prohibiting the importation of electric girls. Of course it is barely possible that the carpet was more to blame than the girl, and if so, these evil results are not to be apprehended.

DEATH OF COL. WM. MARKHAM.—From the Baton Rouge, La., Capitolonian Advocate we learn of the death of Col. William Markham, brother of Mr. John Markham, of Dereham, at the ripe old age of 72 years. The Advocate says:—Col. Markham was born in Oxford, England, in 1812, and came to this State in 1844, settling in this city. Later he was engaged in merchandising in West Baton Rouge, at Lobdell's store. From there he returned to Baton Rouge and engaged in other persuits, being at one time proprietor of the Harney Hotel, the principal one of the town. About '56 he purchased an interest in the Baton Rouge Foundry, in partnership with John Hill and disposed of his hotel interests to W. Rhodus, his son-in-law. He continued in the foundry business until the Federals appeared at this place, when all work ceased. It was revived after the war, but was subsequently sold by Messrs. Hill & Markham to the Messrs. Arbour. For a number of years prior to his illness and death he was engaged in the business of marine and fire insurance in partnership with Mr. Wm. Rhodus, his grandson. He had frequently held public trusts, always discharging his duties with zeal and fidelity, and to the entire satisfaction of the public. During the Mexican war he held a commission under the government, and, we believe, was stationed at this place. In 1860 he was commissioned by Gov. Moore as colonel of the militia of this parish, and through his influence and energy several fine militia organizations were perfected that afterwards performed active services in the Confederate Army in the Department of Louisiana and Mississippi. He also rendered valuable services in organizing what was known as the "Home Guard," an organization designed to protect the women and children against mob violence. Fortunately, their services were never needed. By his death we believe St. James' Episcopal Church loses its last charter member. He had well and faithfully served the interests of that church from its organization to his death as a member of the Vestry. He was an honorable citizen in every sense of the word—a Christian gentleman, a true friend and agreeable companion. He leaves a daughter and four grand-children in this city, has a brother, Mr. John Markham, in Ingersoll, Canada, and a sister residing in Houston, Texas,—Mrs. Dr. Taylor.

A REMARKABLE ESCAPE.

Mrs. Mary A. Dailey of Tunkhannock, Pa., was afflicted for six years with Asthma and Bronchitis, during which time the best physicians could give no relief. Her life was despaired of, until in last October she procured a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, when immediate relief was felt, and by continuing its use for a short time she was completely cured, gaining in flesh 50 lbs. in a few months. Free Trial Bottles of this certain cure of all Throat and Lung Diseases at Gayfer's Drug Store. Large bottles $1. 10t

ENGRAVED calling cards at the CHRONICLE office.

FRESH FISH.—We will have constantly on hand a supply of Fresh Trout, White Fish, and Herring. Beck's Fruit Store. Telephone communication. 01

The Pope had a fainting fit a few days ago, owing to overwork and the summer heat. He has always been subject to similar slight attacks at the commencement of the hot weather. His physicians strongly advise him to abstain from overwork, and to permit himself to take a period of complete repose.

IMPROVEMENTS.

The Streets and Walks to be Mended.

The Town Council met on Friday evening last and adopted the following report of the Board of Works:—

BOARD OF WORKS.

To the Municipal Council, town of Ingersoll.

We recommend the following work to be performed, viz.:

Duke Street.—A new sidewalk to be laid from Francis street to H. Hearn's gate, on the west side.

King Street.—Sidewalk to be repaired near Dr. Bowers' office and new walk as far as Miss Hill's.

Concession and Hall Street.—A crossing to be put in at intersection of Concession road and Hall street. Also crossing to be put in at intersection of Martha street and Hall street.

Carroll Street.—West side walk from Queen to King street, to be repaired.

Cherry Street.—South sidewalk to be repaired.

Queen Street.—New sidewalk to be laid from Carroll street east to where the planks are laid lengthwise, 50 inches wide.

Charles Street—To be repaired from Carroll to Thomas street with one row of 16 ft plank; to be laid on bridge opposite Russell's foundry; and box culvert opposite old hook and ladder building to be opened out.

Thames Street.—From Hayward's north side Victoria street to McCarthy's hotel, culvert to be put in.

Alma Street.—Crossing to be put down across street.

William Street.—A crossing to be put down.

Bell Street.—Sidewalk to be repaired opposite R. C. school house, and railing on bridge sidewalk, and sidewalk to be repaired with old plank from Brophy's house to bridge on Thamesford gravel road.

King Street.—Hole corner of King and Water street to be filled up.

Thames Street.—That the Board of Works rebuild sidewalk opposite Richardson and Acklert's premises, and that they return the planks taken up.

That a railing be placed on the sidewalk from C.V.R. to the Queen's hotel, also some small repairs on John street.

That the culvert on Oxford street opposite Mr. Thompson's be extended 8 ft., also the culvert on McKeand street and leading to C. Cobben's house be repaired.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. MATHESON, Chairman.

Personal.

Mr. R. Y. Ellis of Toronto, was in town for a few days this week.

Mr. A. H. Ellis returned home from a holiday trip to Napanee last week.

Mrs. Keller and child of Chicago, and Mrs. Jiggins and two children of Detroit; are visiting Mrs. Mairs of this town.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. McInnes left on Saturday for a couple of week's sojourn at Suspension Bridge.

Mr. M. Walsh, barrister, left last week for Saranton, Pa. He will take his holidays before returning.

We are pleased to know that the Rev. Father Molphy has been permanently appointed to the pastorship of the Church of the Sacred Heart in this town.

Mr. Jas. Brady left on Monday for Napanee. He has been engaged to make a valuation of the furniture in the Campbell House of that town. This is certainly a compliment to Mr. Brady's ability.

Messrs. Will Noxon, Harry Webb, James Noxon, Jr., and Geo. White, leave on Monday for the lakes of Muskoka. They purpose camping out and will be absent several weeks. We breathlessly await the fish yarns with undoubted authencity.

Rev. J. S. McKay, M.A., of Thamesford, who has recently been inducted into the ministry on his way to New Westminster, British Columbia, to take the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church in that city, with a salary of $1,400 a year.

Mr. C. W. Clinch, manager of the Molson's bank, Woodstock, has officially received the appointment of manager of the branch at St. Thomas, vice G. K. Morton, resigned, and will assume control about the 1st of August.

West Oxford.

Mr. Elam Nichols, near Beachville, who has been laid up with inflammatory rheumatism, had a most pleasing surprise on Monday last. His neighbors turned out, or rather into his wheat field, and did not leave until they cut, bound and shocked the whole field of grain. Some say a shock of electricity is good for the rheumaticks. Whether this cutting and shocking of Elam's wheat will effect a cure on him remains to be seen. An incident of this kind is certainly creditable to all parties concerned.

Avon.

Had a fine shower last Sunday morning.

J. H. Hegler, jr., of Ingersoll, has been visiting friends in this place for a few days.

Mrs. David Dexter and daughters, Ada and Tella, of Hamilton, are visiting friends in this place.

Quite a number of the farmers in this locality have finished cutting their wheat and barley.

Peter Addison, son of the late William Addison, died of typhoid fever, on the 23rd inst., at the home of his uncle, Mr. Jas. Addison.

Mr. Johnson Walker, an old resident of this place is not expected to live. He has been in poor health for a number of years.

The first quarterly meeting on this circuit since the union, will be held at Harrietsville next Saturday and Sunday. Dr. Ryckman, President of this district, is expected to conduct the services.

Mr. R. K. Row returned from Toronto last Saturday where he has been attending the midsummer examinations. He has been studying at St. Catharines for past few months.

CORRESPONDENCE.

(The editor of THE CHRONICLE does not hold himself responsible for the opinions expressed by correspondents.)

Renewed Vigour.

To the Editor of THE CHRONICLE.

SIR.—Now that the big high chief at Toronto has decided that the London chief did wrong in jailing some of the Salvation hen birds, we may expect a fresh volley of war cry and drum beating from every camp in the land. In fact it has commenced here already. The Baptist Church received the first salute on Sunday morning, just after service commenced. A more unchristian act could not well be conceived, and yet we are to take it all for the sake—of what—not for Christ's sake, surely? but for the sake of peace and for hope of saving souls. The question that arises in one's mind—are such souls that require this kind of pabulum worth saving? If the devil is not at the bottom of this kind of work then he must be away from home.

DECENCY AND ORDER.

Ingersoll, July 29.

A Question of Health.

To the Editor of THE CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR.—May I ask the delicate question: Do we owe it to the Council generally, the Board of Works, or the Board of something else, that our air should be tainted with the removal of back premises and privies in July? This, in the face of cholera news daily is a serious business. We are now disturbed in our slumbers with the carts of the scavengers—a little later on we may be disturbed with the corpse van also. When the remedy, dry earth, is on every hand, why do people let their privies reek with the contaminations that could be allayed daily by a small shovel full of dry earth? Every family, every tenement should have a small box or keg of dry earth handy for each and every frequenter of his or their premises. At all events this moving the contents of privies at this time should be stopped.

Yours, etc., HEALTH.

Ingersoll, July 30.

Proposed Reaper Contest.

To the Editor of THE CHRONICLE.

SIR:—Please announce through the earliest edition of your paper that a committee from the townships of London and Lobo have arranged for the display of the merit of the different make of self-binding reapers, near the village of Alderton, as soon as the spring grain is in condition to be cut. And oblige me on behalf of committee.

E. IRONSIDE, Secretary.

Alderton, July 26th, 1884.

The Greely relief squadron left St. Johns, Nfld., on Saturday, for Portland, Maine, where they will remain until they become more accustomed to southern latitudes, when they will go still farther south. The people of St. Johns gave them a hearty welcome, and bade them farewell in a most graceful way, drooping flags on all the public buildings and mercantile establishments, and assembling in thousands to wave adieux.

The Rockies.

To the Editor of THE CHRONICLE.

SIR:—

One sight of the mountains is sufficient to impress upon the tourist's mind why so named, as they rise before him with their large, barren, rocky forms, he is more than convinced that they are justly termed "The Rockies." They are all shapes and forms that the mind can conceive, pyramidical, saw-shaped, castellated, mound-like, tower form, cathedralic, and many other forms almost impossible to classify. I said that they were barren but my reader must not imagine them all entirely destitute of vegetation, for some are covered on one side with pines to their summits, while the other side is a bare precipitous wall of rock. The rocky sides, if either, may be covered with patches of timber here and there that look like mere specks of green, compared with the rocky back-ground on which they rest, but let one climb their sides and he will be more than surprised with the real form of the mountain. He will find these patches of these small forests with hills and dales, often covering a few hundred acres. Not only this, but small plateaus one would never think existed, tends to add fresh surprise to the traveller as he toils on his up hill journey. When he reaches the top he feels that it has all been mesmerized. Mountains that appeared to be very little higher than the one on which he stands, he now finds them towering far above him, while as far as the eye can reach, save when shut out by the surrounding mountains, the rocky crests of those visible appears as mighty weaves of the deep blue ocean, especially on a dark and cloudy day. The streams appear like silver threads coursing their way through the valleys below, glittering in the bright sunlight as they pass dark brown gravel flats and belts of dusky pine land. I will try and describe a mountain, it has no particular name, I call it "The Cascala Mt." It is the first mountain west of Tunnel Mt. on the Kicking Horse River. The position from which one can obtain the finest view of its beauty, is four miles from Tunnel Mt., that is at the narrows of the Kicking Horse River. At the first sight one is impressed with its innumerous streams, there being eight, some come straight down the mountain side, one in particular bends several times in its course through a long deep rocky ravine and leaves the mountain with a mighty leap over a wall of rock and tumbles into its channel below. Every one has precipitous falls in their various courses, and some several, all varying in height, some burst to the view of the beholder from forests of pine tumbling down walls of straight rock to the valley below like a shower of heavy rain leaving the wall, glittering with wet in bright sunlight. Most of these streams were the scenes of various snow and ice slides in the month of May, particularly the first mentioned one. There were as many as three slides in one day lasting from three to fifteen minutes. The whole ravine upon several occasions was full of moving ice and snow from the top to where it made its final leap from the mountain, with loud reports, not unlike sharp claps of thunder which rolled along the valley and resounded in the far off mountains till it lost itself in the distance. It was a grand sight to see them rushing headlong down the mountain side like some terrible monster determined to destroy all that resisted its mighty fury, accompanied by clouds of flying snow and loud noises not unlike threatened vengeance. The rocky monotony, so common to many mountains, is here relieved by various patches of timber or rather forests scattered over the whole side and on the summit of south end, where bleached trunks lay scattered round their edges or up ended against precipitous walls of rock where they have been lodged since their destruction by forest fires. The north end summit is bare rock of wave like formation, and is often covered with snow after a rain-fall in the valley below. We have been in the habit of calling the 24th half of May, and all of June, it being a novelty to have a day without rain, so the man that said "the climate of B. C. resembled that of India, if anything much drier" is not just correct. The Winnipeg Sun reporter speakes of our heroic mail carrier, Mr. Geo. A. Winter, as being a private affair, but if the boys are not the public of this country, I do not know who is. They are not liable to forget the man who carried mail last winter through wind, frost and snow, a distance of upwards of one hundred miles, thus keeping up communications with the outside world, when it would barely cover expenses, and reduced the extortions of a tyrranical mail co. from 25c. per letter in or out, to 25c. per month. Many of us have to thank him for the delivery of our first letters from home, after being out here a period of eight months. The rival mail (C. P. R. Mail Co.,) made their boast that they would send him to the wall, but after the first general pay day, their carrier skipped after giving the company receipts to the amount of $1,000. It was quite a damper on their jargon. This is all this time, hoping to hear from the east soon, for one man is always on hand in spite of forest fires and floods.

Yours respectfully
COLIN CRAWFORD.

July 9th, 1884.

Literary Notes.

FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY.—The August number of this highly popular magazine has, as usual, several finely illustrated, interesting papers; serial and short stories, sketches, adventures, poems, etc. "Where Cottages are Palaces" has some twenty illustrations of residences, etc., at Newport, R. I. "Lebanon and its Inhabitants," "The Rise of the House of Hohenzollern," "New York During the Revolution," "An Old Continent in the Atlantic," are among the illustrated leading articles. The several short stories, are deeply interesting, and with the sketches, poems and a choice miscellany, will be found most delightful reading. 128 quarto pages, over 100 embellishments and a handsome colored plate frontispiece are in every number; price 25 cents, or $2.50 a year, postpaid. MRS. FRANK LESLIE, Publisher, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York.

Mrs. Langtry to Marry Freddie.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Mrs. Langtry will return here in February next as Miss Lillie Le Breton and wed Mr. Fred Gebhardt, retiring from the stage immediately after. This is regarded as a solid fact, and the authority is a Union Club member whom Mr. Gebhardt told last night. Mrs. Langtry has invested 75 per cent, of her earnings in New York city real estate and mortgages, and has openly declared her intention to take up her permanent residence here. Her solicitors in London have been quietly at work preparing for her divorce suit against Mr. Langtry, and only need the lady's presence to put it through

The Maori King Sight-Seeing.

From the Paris Morning News.

A correspondent states that on Monday the King of New Zealand, as he prefers to call himself, paid a visit to the British museum, accompanied by one of the suite. His Majesty did the whole of the museum in less than a quarter of an hour. As soon as he entered the establishment an attendant was told off to show him over the rooms. His Majesty entered the reading-room, glanced round at the rows of books and at the lofty dome, and went out again as fast as he was able. He then hurried up the grand stair-case, took a look at a few cases of Roman and Assyrian antiquities, and asked to see the Egyptian rooms. Strangely enough, although he himself had expressed a wish to visit that department, the sight of it appeared to frighten him. The antiquity of its mummies was something beyond his comprehension and seemed to appal him. He clung to the arm of his attendant, and, uttering an exclamation, shrank from the figures as if they had been apparitions. He then passed quickly through the sculpture collection, hardly stopping to look at anything, and hastily left the establishment. The object of his visit had apparently been to see the mummies.

ALL kinds of canned goods guaranteed good at Beck's. 80.

ICE Cream Parlours are now open at R. Vance's Confectionery. Call in and see them. You will get the genuine article there. 02

Toronto, July 28.—In a baby farm existing on Munro street a number of infants have died lately, and residents in the locality are calling for an investigation. Yesterday an unfortunate woman called to see her child, which was left in care of the establishment, and a tiny corpse was all that was shown to her. Her grief created a scene. It is alleged that filth and starvation are the causes of the mortality.

FARM AND DAIRY MATTERS.

INGERSOLL MARKETS.

GRAIN AND SEEDS.

White Wheat, per bush..	$ 80	to	1 00
Red Fall Wheat	1 00	to	1 00
Spring Wheat	1 00	to	1 00
Barley	50	to	60
Peas "	65	to	75
Oats, "	37	to	38
Corn "	60	to	65
Buckwheat "	00	to	54
Rye "	55	to	60
Clover Seed per bush.	7 50	to	8 50
Timothy Seed "	2 00	to	2 50

PRODUCE.

Potatoes, per bushel	0 90	to	1 00
Onions "	0 75	to	0 80
Apples "	0 00	to	15
Dried Apples per lb	9	to	10
Tallow "	6	to	06
Lard "	11	to	12
Dressed Hogs, per 100 lbs	7 50	to	8 00
Live Hogs, "	5 00	to	6 00
Hay, per ton	9 00	to	10 00
Straw, per Load	2 50	to	3 00
Beef Hides,	0 05	to	0 06
Calf Skins	0 00	to	0 10
Lamb Skins	0 60	to	0 80
Pelts	0 30	to	0 40
Wool,	0 18	to	0 20

PROVISIONS.

Flour, old process, 100 lbs	2 50	to	2 75
Flour, new process, Fall, 100 lbs	2 75	to	3 00
Oatmeal	0 00	to	2 75
Cornmeal	0 00	to	1 90
Bran, per ton	12 00	to	14 00
Shorts	00 00	to	18 00
Marrowfat Peas	0 70	to	0 85
Butter, tub	17	to	20
Butter, rolls, per lb	18	to	20
Cheese,	8½	to	9
Stilton Cheese	15	to	20
Sugar Cured Canvass Hams	12	to	14
Bacon, 100 lbs.	8 00	to	9 00
Eggs, per dozen	14	to	15
Geese,	45	to	50
Chickens, per pair	50	to	60
Ducks,	60	to	00
Turkeys, per lb.	0 10	to	0 14
Beef, per lb	07	to	12

INGERSOLL CHEESE MARKET.

The cheese market of the past week has been strong, the cable having advanced 6d. since our last report. The cheese market this summer has been an enigma. In spite of all the signs favouring lower prices, the market has continued firm contrary to all preconceived ideas.

At the market on Tuesday thirteen factories offered 4,095 boxes last half of July make, except 760 all July. Sales were 1,470 boxes as follows:—200 at 9¾c., 460 at 10c., 275 at 10¼c., 535 at 10½c. 10¼c. and 10½c. freely offered and refused. 11 buyers and 17 factorymen present. Cable 50s. The this period last year 15 factories offered 2,640 boxes. Cable then 53s. Only one sale reported, 60 boxes at 10c.

Following were the offerings: Gore, 160; Thamesford, 260; Harrietsville, 400; Avon, 200; Nancekivell, 275; E. & W. Oxford, 380; Cherry Hill, 100; Weaver Zorra, 250; Verschoyle, 250; Salford, 260; Galloway, 400; Maple Leaf, 160; Culloden, 400. Total, 4,095.

MONTREAL CHEESE MARKET.

Receipts from 1st Jan. to 23rd July, 1884, 204,019 boxes; same period, 1883, 134,009. Exports, same period, 1884, 426,507; do., 1883, 344,143. Cheese, 8½c. to 9c. The market has been active and firm. Exports 72,953 boxes. Butter, Eastern Townships, 15c. to 16½c.

LITTLE FALLS CHEESE MARKET.

July 28.—Sales, 9,600 boxes at 8¼c to 9¾c, the bulk at 9½c; 25 packages of butter at 20c.

UTICA CHEESE MARKET.

July 28.—Sales of 200 boxes at 9¾c; 200 at 9½c; 400 at 9⅜c, 1,080 at 9½c, 850 at 9¼c, 150 at 10c, 680 on private terms. Consignments, 1,500. Market very active.

NEW YORK CHEESE MARKET.

Saturday evening, July 26th.—The close selling out of stock, and even some draft made upon held-over parcels, reduces the opportunity of negotiation to even smaller proportions than usual on Saturday, and matters were very quiet to day. From the comments upon the week's work the impression is obtained that most receivers are very well satisfied, and have, in several instances, been enabled to "even up" on previous operations of a less fortunate character, but with shippers the expressions are not quite so cheerful. There is no special complaint that rates exacted were in any way out of fair proportion to the cost of supplies in the country and the natural advantage accruing to sellers through the absence of a surplus offering, but payment has been made under protest in view of the uncertain advices from abroad, and we find some of the largest and best posted operators who are doubtful about the foreign market reciprocating the ruling cost here. For a day or two, also, it has been a difficult matter to adjust quotations as to meet the approval of the entire trade owing to the expressed indifference of opinion regarding the grading. The weight of evidence, however, seemed to show that strictly fancy were worth fully 9¾c, with or without favorite brand, and while buyers have no doubt obtained choice goods that would "please them just as well" at ¼ and ⅛c less, the goods lacked in some particular that superlative degree of perfection for which the higher figure was paid. All hands are doubtful about next week and non-committal as to their probable action. Exports for the week, 80,837 pkgs.

State factory, full cream fancy.. 9¾ to
State factory, full cream, fine.... 9½ to 9¾
State factory, faulty, full cream.. 8½ to 9¼
LIVERPOOL QUOTATIONS TO N. Y. PRODUCE EXCHANGE—2:30 P. M.

Cheese—American choice .49s. 6d. Steady.

THE LATE CHEESE MARKETS.

The truth is that, at this time of year, everything depends upon the completeness with which stock is taken up. The policy of making moderate shipments from the country has undoubtedly had a good effect thus far, nor has it be carried to any excess by which the market is likely to be flooded hereafter. On the contrary, it has given just the opportunity that was needed to cure the cheese more perfectly, and render it a better article to send to market. For two years now we have had our hottest weather in June instead of July, and the July make has consequently been superior to that of June. And during the present season this fact has been combined with an earlier shrinkage of milk than usual.

Unprejudiced parties who have been among the factories in the last week, says that the shrinkage of cheese amounts on an average to 25 per cent., just as we estimated a week ago, and that this is about five per cent. more than the natural shrinkage at this season of the year. But, inasmuch as Canada sent out another 60,000 boxes last week, there is no immediate danger that England will get cheese hungry, and factorymen must not depend upon a slight decrease in the make as being likely to advance the market. The best that can be hoped for until July cheese is out of the way is to keep the market steady at perhaps some slight advance.—Utica Herald.

BIG CHEESE—PAST AND PRESENT.

On Friday last Mr. T. D. Millar, of Ingersoll, had his eight specially made cheese on exhibition, previous to their shipments to Amsterdam, where they will be exhibited at the great International Dairy Show commencing on the 23rd of August. Two of these cheese weigh over 600 pounds each, and six weigh over 60 pounds each. They were manufactured at the Burnside Cheese Co's factory, by W. Woolwer, maker, specially for the exhibition in Holland. Mr. Millar has had them placed in handsome varnished and gilded boxes, and they present a neat and attractive appearance. We have no doubt Mr. Millar will be amply recouped for the expense to which he has gone in this matter by bringing his name so prominently before the world as an enterprising cheese merchant. The exhibition of these cheese at a Dairy Fair of such importance will be an excellent advertisement for Canada's dairy products.

While on this subject it may be interesting to many of our readers if we give a review of the large cheese which have been made in the past.

In 1864 Hiram Ranney made the first "big" cheese, weighing two hundred pounds, and which at that time was considered a wonderful achievement. But when one weighing six hundred pounds made its appearance from the same press many declared that the age of wonders had come. But behold a greater wonder! A cheese weighing twelve hundred pounds appeared. That surpassed everything in the past. A Mr. Grey, of Hamilton, purchased the latter cheese, when another of the same weight was made and sent to England.

A few years rolled by and Mr. Andes Smith, of Norwich, manufactured the far famed four thousand pound cheese.

The largest cheese that perhaps the world ever saw was manufactured in 1866 at the Ingersoll Cheese Factory, owned by Mr. Jas. Harris. In the manufacture of this mammoth cheese it required 33 tons of milk, equal to one milking of 7,000 cows, making three and one half tons of curd, the weight of the cheese. It was six feet eight inches in diameter, and three feet in height. The cheese was exhibited throughout the United States and Europe, and attracted the most wide spread attension.

Mr. R. J. Drummond, maker at Henderson's factory, manufactured to the order of Mr. J. C. B. Galer, of Ingersoll, for Messrs. A. A. Ayer & Co., Montreal, the following cheese:—Two in 1880, fourteen in 1881,

The Improvement of Farm Cattle.

Farms cannot be worked without cattle of some kind that are fed upon the coarser products of the soil. Live stock are necessary to preserve the fertility of the soil. There are farmers who have been growing grain for years with occasional crops of hay, and selling the produce, without making or using any manure, and even without an idea or knowledge that manure might be necessary, but these farmers are being rapidly starved out and driven either further west to find new land which they ruin in the same manner or into some other employments. These men are not really farmers and never were; they are merely farmers in name, because a true farmer is one who cultivates the soil in such a manner as will preserve its fertility and will neither waste it nor rob it. And as the land cannot yield crops excepting for a few years unless it is properly manured and as manure cannot be had without cattle, so the farmer keeps a certain amount of live stock for the purpose of making manure and produces such crops as will maintain the largest number of stock.

Live stock being then indispensible to profitable farming, it is of great importance that they should be of the very best kind. There are good and poor of all kinds, and this difference is in a great measure constitutional and is bred. Poor stock cannot be made good by feeding, for if it could be all stock would be alike and any one could have the very best by merely being generous in supplying the best food. The good is made so by a long course of selection and breeding and keeping only the best for the purporse of improving them. There is a natural difference in animals and some are better than others from the first. In this way it is quite possible for any farmer, however poor he may be, to begin a course of improvement in his stock by selecting the best and keeping only these and using care in feed and breeding them. When a man has done this for many years and has spent much care and labour in the work, he naturally expects to receive a benefit from it and therefore holds his improved stock at higher prices than the common stock are sold for. This is just and right, because no person can expect to enjoy the results of another man's work and care without paying a fair equivalent for it. As this work takes many years for a certain result to be reached, it is of advantage for a farmer who has money to spare for the purpose to procure some of this improved stock, so that he can start further ahead than if he had to do all the work for himself, and this money so spent comes back with profit very quickly. When it is possible to do this, farmers, should avail themselves of it by all means, and if they are wise in their choice they will do far better than to do the work of improvement themselves.

Improvement of live stock is a work of skill and time, and time is money, so that some considerable capital as well as experience is required for success in breeding farm animals. A farmer may very wisely and successfully do a great deal for himself in selecting the best females of his flocks and herds, but he can do but little in the way of rearing male animals. He will always do better to purchase these from those who make a business of rearing them for sale. The male breeding animal is of the greatest importance in improving stock because one male serves for many females and for several years. The choice then should be made with care, and to save a few dollars at the expense of quality and intrinsic value would be very poor economy. After the selection and breeding comes the feeding, because what is gained by the former is held and secured by the latter, and skilful feeding is also a means of improvement too; and the breeding in its turn holds and secures and transmits to the progeny everything that is gained by feeding. The owner of improved cattle then must be very liberal in their feeding and care. It is by no means true, as is at times supposed, that improved animals are less robust and hardy than the common stock. On the contrary they are equally hardy and are capable of turning their food to better account than other animals, because of the long habit which is bred in them. It will not do for a farmer who purchased an improved bull or cow or ram or horse to stint it in food; to keep it in filth; or to neglect proper shelter for it. It is not a question of hardiness at all, whether an animal will exist on poor food, or on half rations or under cruel neglect. Hardiness really means an ability to resist disease and make the most growth under reasonably favourable circumstances; and this sort of hardiness is profitable, while that which enables a beast to exist when half-starved is a very unprofitable and worthless kind, because the animal can be of no value under such circumstances.

The results of improvement in stock are, first a tendency to turn a certain quantity of food to profitable use to the greatest possible extent; second, a tendency to early maturity, that is to make as much growth and progress in two years as other animals make in four, and third, the ability to transmit these points to the progeny. These are exceedingly valuable characteristics, and as farmers must have stock, it is wise for them to keep the best they can procure or rear.—Montreal Family Herald,

Drink Destroys the Brain and Heart.

No function of the system can be carried on in its normal condition, doing its legitimate labor or office when drink affects it. The brain, robbed of its normal energies, by a partial paralysis, is unable intelligently to superintend the running of this wonderful machine, 'fearfully and wonderfully made,' while the semi-paralyzed nerves, losing a part of their vital force, fail to keep up the telegraphic communication between the brain and all parts of the body, which harmony demands. The heart—occupying the position of the prime motor—enervated by a fearful increase of toils by the use of alcoholic stimulants (goads) laboring under serious disadvantages, must fail to perform its part of the system—labor, just to that extent failing to convey nourishment to all parts of the body, as well as failing in gathering up the waste and poisonous parts, conveying them to the lungs for renovation, purification. A failure here is but another name for universal failure! If the stomach is not nourished and stimulated by pure blood, it must to that extent be unable to so transform the food into blood as to impoverish the whole system. There must be a general absence of vital force, the supplies being cut off, partially, and the renovating and purifying forces suffering to the same extent. Alcohol is a 'two-edged sword,' fearfully destroying the vital forces. It attacks both directly and indirectly, first reducing the power of all the organs of the body, then indirectly aggravating the evils by reducing their nourishment, by impairing digestion. This is an apt illustration of the Bible assertion that 'if one member suffers, all will suffer with it.'

CRUELLY MURDERED.

In the Province of Ontario every year thousands are being slowly murdered by taking unsuitable, untried nostrums for such complaints as Costiveness, Indigestion, Liver Complaint, Kidney Troubles, etc., who might easily regain lost strength and energy by using McGregor's Speedy Cure. To convince them that such is the case we will give them a free trial bottle at Gayfer or Kneeshaw's Drug Store. Price 50c. and $1. See testimonials from persons in your own town.

A nod thing—a boy in church.

NOTHING gives such beautiful colours as the Star Dyes.

A game name for a petulant wife—lacrosse.

WORMS cause feverishness, moaning and restlessness during sleep. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant, sure, and effectual.

A dissipated man is apt to be dissy pated, also.

Is there anything more annoying than having your corn stepped upon? Is there anything more delightful than getting rid of it? Holloway's Corn Cure will do it.

One taste of watermelon makes the whole South grin.

ITCHING PILES—SYPMTOMS AND CURE.

The symptoms are moisture, like perspiration, intense itching, increased by scratching, very distressing, particularly at night, seems as if pin-worms were crawling in and about the rectum; the private parts are sometimes affected. If allowed to continue very serious results may follow. "SWAYNE'S OINTMENT" is a pleasant, sure cure. Also for Tetter Itch, Salt Rheum Scald Head, Erysipelas, Barburs Itch, Blotches, all scaly, crusty Skin Diseases Sent by mail for 50 cents; 3 boxes, $1.25 (in stamps). Address, DR. SWAYNE & SON, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Druggists

THE GORILLA AT HOME.

Domestic Habits of Man's Distant Relative—His Methods of Fighting.

It is said by the natives that the gorilla makes a sleeping place like a hammock by connecting the branches of a sheltered and thickly leaved part of a tree by means of the long, tough, slender stems of parasitic plants, and lining it with the dried broad fronds of fern, or with long grass. This hammock-like abode may be seen at different heights from ten to forty feet from the ground, but there is never more than one such nest in a tree. They avoid the abodes of men, but are most commonly seen in the months of September, October and November, after the negroes have gathered in their outlying crops and have returned from the "bush" to their valleys. So observed, they are usually in pairs, or if more, the addition consists of a few young ones of different ages and apparently of one family. The gorilla is not gregarious. The parents may be seen sitting on a branch resting their backs against the tree trunk munching fruit, while the young gorillas are at play, leaping and swinging from branch to branch with hoots or harsh cries of boisterous mirth.

This rural felicity, however, has its objectionable side, for occasionally, if not invariably, the old male, if he be seen in quest of food, is usually armed with a short stick which the negroes aver to be the weapon with which he attacks his chief enemy, the elephant. Not that the elephant directly or intentionally injures the gorilla, but, deriving its subsistence from the same source, the ape regards the great proboscidian as a hostile intruder. When, therefore, he sees the elephant pulling down and wrenching off the branches of a favorite tree, the gorilla, stealing along the bough, strikes the sensitive proboscis of the elephant a violent blow with his club, and drives off the startled giant trumpeting shrilly with pain.

In passing from one tree to another the gorilla is said to walk semi-erect with the aid of his club, but with a waddling and awkward gait; when he is without a club he has been seen to walk as a man, with his hands clasped behind his head, instinctively balancing his forward position. If the gorilla be surprised and approached, whatever the ground may be, he betakes himself on all fours, dropping his stick, and makes way very rapidly with a kind of side-long gallop, resting on the front knuckles, to the nearest tree. There he meets his pursuer, especially if his family is near and requiring his defence. No negro willingly approaches the tree in which the male gorilla keeps guard, even with a gun. The experienced negro does not make the attack, but reserves his fire in self-defence.

The enmity of the gorilla to the negro race, male and female, is uniformly attested. Thus when the young men of the Gaboon tribe make excursions into the forest in search of ivory the enemy they most dread to meet is the gorilla. If they have come unawares too close to him with his family he does not, like the lion, sullkily retreat, but comes rapidly to the attack, swinging down to the lower branches and clutching the nearest foe. The hideous aspect of the animal, with his green eyes flashing with rage, is heightened by the skin over the orbits and the eyebrows being drawn rapidly backwards and forwards, with the hair erected, producing a horrible and fiendish scowl. If fired at, and not mortally hit, the gorilla closes at once upon his assailant and inflicts dangerous if not deadly wounds with his sharp and powerful tusks. The commander of a British trader once saw a negro at the Gaboon frightfully mutilated from the bite of a gorilla, from which he had recovered. Another negro exhibited to the same voyager a gun-barrel bent and partly flattened by a wounded gorilla in his death struggle.—Exchange.

The Blue Grass Country Not Blue.

The term Blue Grass region of Kentucky is quite extensive in its application, but in its popular sense it applies only to the remarkable body of land in the centre of the State, which comprises six or eight counties surrounding Lexington. This favored district, which scientific authority has styled "the very heart of the United States," is underlaid by a decomposable limestone, which imparts to the soil an unsurpassed fertility, and gives to our grass, known to botanists as Poe pretensis, a rich and permanent luxuriance which it attains nowhere else. Hence the term, "The Blue Grass Region," is a synonym for the acme of fertility of a district which also bears the proud distinction of "the garden spot of the world." But why our grass is called "blue," when it is never blue, is one of the unsolved problems! It is always green except when in bloom, when the heads have a brownish-purple tint. If, however, the term "blue grass" is meant for abbreviation of blue limestone grass, then it will do, for certainly it only reaches its highest perfection on our wonderful blue limestone soil. Propagated without cultivation it comes up thick and juicy early in the spring, ripens in June, renews its growth in autumn, and, retaining its verdure in spite of snow and ice, furnishes abundant and unequalled pasture during the entire winter. It is believed to be indigenous.—Sportsman.

A Giant Halibut.

Commissioner Eugene G. Blackford the other day superintended the packing of probably the largest halibut that ever was caught. It weighed 426 pounds, and the Commissioner was having it packed in ice at Fulton market, to send to Prof. Baird, in Washington.

"There is no telling its age," said Mr. Blackford. "It is certainly over 100 years old. A 10-year halibut is not as large as its head. The halibut is not a fighting fish. When caught it surrenders without making a great fuss about it. This specimen was caught off the Newfoundland coast about a week ago. The fishermen who caught it must have thought they were dragging up the bottom of the ocean.

"It is too big to pr in alcohol and would not be very ornamental if stuffed. To eat, I should class it among the aged and juiceless. I am sending it to Prof. Baird, who will make a cast of it."—N. Y. Sun.

Golden Maxims.

John McDonough, the New Orleans millionaire, before his death provided for engraving upon his tomb a series of maxims which he had drawn up and adopted for his guidance in life. They were inscribed as follows:

RULES FOR THE GUIDANCE OF MY LIFE, 1804.

Remember always that labour is one of the conditions of our existence. Time is gold; throw not one minute away, but place each one to account.

Do unto all men as you would be done by.

Never put off till to-morrow what you can do to-day.

Never bid another do what you can do yourself.

Never covet what is not your own.

Never think any matter so trifling as not to deserve notice.

Never give out that which does not first come in.

Never spend but to produce.

Let the greatest order regulate the transactions of your life.

Study, in the course of your life, to do the greatest amount of good.

Deprive yourself of nothing necessary to your comfort, but live in an honourable simplicity.

Labour, then, to the last moment of your existence.

Pursue strictly the above rules, and the Divine blessing riches, and will flow upon you to your heart's content; but first of all, remember that the chief and great duty of your life should be to tend, by all means in your power, to the honour and glory of our Divine Creator. Without temperance there is no health; without virtue, no order; without religion, no happiness; and that the aim of our being should be to live wisely, soberly and righteously.

An enthusiast speaks of the religion of a beautiful flower. Buddhism probably.

TO THE LADIES.

McGregor's & Parke's Carbolic Cerate will cure any case of Pimples on the face or Rough Skin on either hands or face and leave them soft as silk. It will also heal any sore when all other preparations fail. Thousands have tested it. Ask your druggist for McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate and do not be persuaded to take anything else claimed to be as good. It is but 25 cents per box at Gayfer or Kneeshaw's Drug Store.

How to Treat Corpulency.

Whatever we have written in reference to the means to be employed for reducing obesity has always contained a caution against carrying our remedies to extremes. The golden rule of "moderation in all things" applies with especial force to this subject, since errors in method of accomplishing the desired result may involve the sacrifice of the patient.

A strict adherence to the rules published by "Banting" are certain to reduce corpulency, and at the same time to impair, if not destroy, the health. It requires a wonderful amount of patience to remain contented while watching the slow processes of mild but safe remedies for the cure of obesity, knowing that there is a shorter, even if more dangerous, path that might be pursued. But if the sufferer from corpulency is not satisfied with slow results he had better not attempt the treatment.

Deprived of all technical terms and obscure theories, a super-abundance of fat is produced by eating more than is required for the legitimate wants of the system, and particularly of sugar and starchy substances, as potatoes and wheat bread.

It has been proved—contrary to the general belief on this subject—that eating fat in moderation does not produce fat. Professor Ebstein, of Goettingen, Germany, has given this subject a thorough scientific investigation; and he claims that the treatment of corpulency by regulating the diet hardly involves any great self-denial on the part of the patient. He allows a rather attractive bill of fare, with a variety of dishes, but positively and forever excludes potatoes, and limits the quantity of bread. For breakfast he allows one cup of black tea without milk or sugar; about two ounces of white or brown bread and plenty of butter. Dinner—Soup (with bone marrow occasionally), five or six ounces of meat, boiled or stewed, with fat gravy; especially fat meat, plenty of vegetables, cabbage, and most of all, legumes (peas, beans). Beets, carrots and turnips are, on account of the sugar they contain, almost totally excluded—potatoes entirely. After dinner, a little fresh fruit, but without sugar. Supper—Tea without sugar or milk, one egg or a little fat meat, or both; or some ham, with its fat, sausage, smoked or fresh fish, two ounces of white bread with plenty of butter, and occasionally a little cheese and a little fresh fruit. A persistence in this plan for a few months, we are assured, will reduce corpulency; but there must be no going back to old habits, or the trouble will return. This bill of fare or a similar one must be maintained during life.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Why Eve Never Wore Bangs.

They were sitting on the sofa in the parlor. She was a young lady of the period, expensively attired and wore bangs.

He was her affianced, an economical young man—in short, a plain, every-day sort of fellow.

He dared to venture the remark that "he believed in leaving everything precisely the same as the divine hand of Providence had moulded it."

"Do you really, Charlie?" she asked.

"Yes," he continued. "Remember my dear, Eve never wore bangs."

"No, Charlie, that's so; in fact Eve never wore anything much to speak of."

And now Charles wonders if she meant it that way.

FACTS AND FANCIES.

—Give your enemy's boy cigarettes enough to smoke. He will soon become weak and imbecile.

—A young husband in this city is suffering from a severe case of tumor. It's two more—twins.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

—Barbers always have mirrors in front of the chairs in their shops in order to enable their victims to see how a man looks being talked to death.

—Do crows know when it is Sunday? asks an exchange. Bet you they do; they see so many fellows prowling around with guns.

—Fogg retires to the back yard during the summer. In the fall he tells his friends that he has passed the summer at the Cats'-kill region.

—"You seem to feel unusually well this morning," said an imp of darkness to his satanic majesty. "Yes, indeed," responded the old sinner, flicking his tail playfully, "I have just heard some good news." "What is it?" "Bob Ingersoll is lecturing again."

—"No," said the actor, "I can't say as the critics have ever said anything unkind about my acting; but, to tell you the truth, it is somewhat monotonous to seem to be continually included among 'the rest of the characters' who 'do not call for special mention.'"

—In St. Paul, recently, a twenty-dollar gold piece was found in a roll of butter. It isn't often that a man gets his money's worth when he buys gilt-edged butter, but it appears from this instance that such a thing is not impossible.

—"What horrid weather we have had!" remarked a young lady in the horse-car. "But don't yer know," replied the harmless young thing to whom she had spoken, "but don't yer know, I like it, yer know. It is so delightfully English to be carrying an umbrella all the time, yer know."

—An article taking up about three-quarters of a column in one of our exchanges is headed, "How to reach young men." The former way was to reach them with one foot, but fathers of families who cannot afford to take undue personal risks, have adopted the method of reaching young men by means of a competent bulldog.—Lowell Citizen.

—Bavaria proposes to enact a law forbidding the marriage of couples who do not possess sufficient means to maintain themselves, or who during the previous three years have received help from the public funds, or who have not paid their quota of taxes, or regarding whom there is reason to suspect that trouble will result to the household from the want of sobriety, economy, or love of work. If this law passes, the sacred ordinance of matrimony will receive the blackest kind of a black eye.

A SUFFOCATING COLD.

For several months J. B. Des Brissay suffered greatly from a severe cold. It was distinguished by a harsh cough and great hoarseness. His breathing was so labored that he feared suffocation, and he was watched continually lest being alone and without assistance he might choke. This was several years ago. Now what gave him relief after several remedies had been tried? Dr. Wilson's Cherry Balsam cured him completely, and he grew perfectly well. It cures all throat and lung diseases.

If you need fresh air don't go to the seashore if it's salty there.

M. A. St. Mars, St Boniface, Manitoba, write: Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is a public benefit. It has done wonders here, and has cured myself of a bad cold in one day. Can be relied upon to remove pain, heal sores of various kinds, and benefit any inflamed portion of the body to which it is applied.

What the sewing machine said when it skipped the stitch—sew long!

C. A. Livingstone, Plattsville, Ont., says: I have much pleasure in recommending Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, from having used it myself, and having sold it for some time. In my own case I will say for it that it is the best preparation I have ever tried for rheumatism.

A man will put his best foot forward if he has a sore toe on the other foot.

AMOS Hudgin, Toronto, writes: 'I have been a sufferer from Dyspepsia for the past six years. All the remedies I tried proved useless, until Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure was brought under my notice. I have used two bottles with the best results, and can with confidence recommend it to those afflicted in like manner.'

A substi-toot—the man who takes the place of another in a brass band.

Holloway's Pills.—The Great Need.—The blood is the life, and on its purity our health as well as our existence depends. These Pills thoroughly cleanse the vital fluid from all contaminations, and by that means strengthen and invigorate the whole system, healthily stimulate sluggish organs, repress over-excited action, and establish order of circulation and secretion throughout every part of the body. The balsamic nature of Holloway's Pills exercises marvellous power in giving tone to debilitated and nervous constitutions. These Pills dislodge all obstructions, both in the bowels and elsewhere, and are, on that account, much sought after for promoting regularity of action in young females and delicate persons who are naturally weak, or have from some cause become so.

SECOND-HAND TOBACCO.

Cigar Stumps Utilized in the Manufacture of Cigarettes and Smoking Tobacco.

"Just see them go for them! I suppose they enjoy the 'old soldiers' as much as we do our Havanas."

Two gentleman had just cast their half-smoked cigars into the street, and the above remark was called out by seeing a couple of gamins dive in the gutter for the stumps.

"Enjoy them? Well, I guess not. Do you imagine that they smoke all of the old 'buts' they manage to scoop in about the city?"

"I never gave it a thought, but I don't see what else they want them for."

"You will be surprised then when I tell you that these old stumps which are gathered by the ton about the city, from hotel cuspidores, saloon ashboxes, railway waiting rooms and public places generally, as well as from the gutters, are manufactured into cigarettes and smoking tobacco, but I am informed that such is the case, and that this 'second-hand' business is becoming quite an industry. Why, a dealer was explaining the process to me the other day. Of course you don't see any large concerns engaged in this business; the trade is carried on in obscure shops and tenement houses, and hence few people outside those who are engaged in it have any idea of its extent. There are probably hundreds of persons connected with the industry right here in Boston.

"The process of transforming the filthy accumulations of gutters and cuspidores into bright, finely-flavored smoking tobacco is thus explained: The old cigar stumps, after the charred ends are cut off, are soaked in a solution of amonia and some other chemical which takes nearly all the nicotine from the tobacco and removes all traces of smoke and creosote. The mass of pulpy tobacco is then pressed into cakes and sliced by a cutting machine, after which it is given a bath in some bleaching solution which removes nearly all the properties of which the weed is possessed when it comes from the plantation. It is now taken to the roof on trays, and left to dry in the sun. When thoroughly dry it is carefully taken up on the trays and carried below, where it is passed under an atomizer, by which it is dampened with a preparation of glycerine and some flavoring extract, after which it is in shape to be made into cigarettes or put up in packages as smoking tobacco. The business is said to be perfectly legitimate, as the manufacturers comply with the requirements of the revenue laws, and the tobacco thus pays a double tax."

"It's a good thing that those who smoke this second-hand tobacco don't realize what it is, or its use might be lessened."

"I don't know about that. Those who ought to know say that the cigarettes thus made are far less harmful than many of those put up in more attractive shape, and that it would be a good thing for the youth of the country if all cigarettes were made of second-hand tobacco, prepared by this process."

He Was Fond of Light Hair and Dark Eyes.

One night not long ago the daughter of one of our best citizens was awakened by a noise in her room, and, upon sitting up, discovered a man disguised in a black mask standing beside her bed and calmly contemplating her features by the aid of a bull's-eye lantern.

"Don't be alarmed, miss," he said; "I have not taken anything yet."

"Bless me!" said the girl; "I do believe it's a burglar."

"Of course it is," said the housebreaker, with an ungratifying smile, as he lit a cigarette. "And I am proud of it."

"What do you want?" demanded the young lady.

"Well, I did want to sample your jewelry case," said the robber, "but you looked so all-fired pretty lying there with your auburn hair—just my style—that I couldn't help waking you to see if you also had dark eyes. I'm terribly fond of light hair and dark eyes myself."

"Well, I have," said the young lady, glancing at the mirror. "But I must look like a fright in this—this dress."

"On the contrary, white is very becoming to you," said the disciple of Jimmy Hope, tenderly. "By the way, are you engaged?"

"That's tellin'," said the girl.

"No, but are you—honest Injun?"

"Well, yes, I am—to a young lawyer; but I don't care for him so very much."

"He's poor, isn't he?"

"Oh, awfully."

"Exactly; I thought as much. Now, my dear girl, don't you know there is nothing in this love-in-a-cottage business? You don't want to peg along nursing babies in some stuffy back room for the next ten years, do you?"

"N-n-n-o," murmured the girl.

"Then why not let this fellow slide and take me? I am pretty comfortably fixed. Business has been good this season and our profits are large. Our firm is now running a tunnel under a Marysville bank, and I've got a fourth interest. Besides, I'm secretary of the Burglars' Protective Association. What d'yer say?"

"Couldn't we go abroad next summer?" asked the girl, thoughtfully.

"Why, certainly. I expect to have to. Just think over the matter, and I'll drop in some night later in the week. I know how to get in." And, shouldering his kit, the secretary stepped out of the window and went off to open a jewelry store for an engagement ring.

And the next day the young lawyer received back his letters and photograph. —San Francisco Post.

The Art of House-Cleaning.

This is an art much studied but little understood.

It is generally undertaken by weak and feeble woman, and during the process she invariably gets the best of strong and healthful man.

Woman rips up all the carpets, opens all the windows, sets a pail of hot water and a bar of soap in the middle of the floor, ties up her head in an old apron and forgets all about cooking the dinner.

Man goes home, sees the carpets on the line, doesn't smell any dinner, gets mad and goes back to the office with an empty stomach.

This seems to be about all there is of value in the art of house-cleaning.

FLUID LIGHTNING.

Fluid Lightning is the only cure for Toothache, Headache, Earache and Neuralgia. It does not take a day or an hour to cure it, but in less than a minute all pain is gone. Thousands have tested its merits within the last year. Fluid Lightning is also a positive cure for Rheumatism. The worst possible cases have been permanently cured in one week. Price 25 cents at Gayfer's or Kneeshaw's Drug Store.

A toper's nose is like a drowning man's, because he can't keep it above water.

THERE are many perfumes which, when applied to the handkerchief, have a very agreeable odor for a few moments and then die away, leaving only a sickly, disagreeable smell. Not so with MURRAY & LANMAN'S FLORIDA WATER; the longer it is exposed the more delicate and delightful becomes its rich aroma.

Wet weather will influence man when nothing else will.

A misstep will often make a cripple for life. A bottle of Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment at hand, will not prevent the misstep, but used immediately it will save being a cripple. 8t.

A man of patience—The physician.

If you are troubled with a "hacking cough," Downs' Elixir will give you relief at once. Warranteed as recommended or money refunded. 8t.

A regular poser—the photagrapher.

NATIONAL PILLS is the favorite purgative and anti-bilicus medicine, they are mild and thorough. 8t.

The coral insect is a great reformer.

WORMS often destroy children, but Freeman's Worm Powders destroy Worms, and expel them from the system.

Oft as the youth is bent the twig's inclined.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind-colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. 00

The Ill-Natured Man.

It is the ill-natured man who will not put his name to a bill which, as every one knows—except, perhaps, the backer in the bitter end—is merely a matter of form and the sort of thing any one good natured fellow would do for another. It is the ill natured man who will not drink more than he wants or is good for him to gratify the humors of those jovial friends of his who are so generously, nay pressingly, ready and willing to pay for his liquor, with the tacit condition of course, that he shall pay for their liquor in his turn. It is the ill natured man who will not be led by the nose as tenderly as asses are, to balls when he cannot dance; to dinners when he is not hungry; to races when he would be struck by no sense of unfitness of things if he met the winner of the Derby in a costermonger's cart, to flower-shows when he confounds a cowslip with a primrose; to oratorios when, if he can distinguish God Save the Queen from Rule Britannia, that is the extreme extent of his musical capability. It is the ill-natured man who speaks roundly of a howling infant in a hot omnibus as an intolerable nuisance, and is not to be turned from that opinion by the consideration that he himself was a baby once, an indisputable fact, of which he will certainly be reminded by some female of sympathetic sensibilities but illogical understanding. It is the ill-natured man who writes to the papers in indignation when sixteen people are crammed into a railway carriage bearing a legend that it is constructed to carry ten only. It is the ill-natured man who objects to the great majority of these sixteen smoking intolerably filthy tobacco in a non-smoking compartment. It is the ill-natured man who declaims against the clumsy arrangement of ropes, beer barrels, and a cart wheel by which the pedestrian, shunted into a muddy gutter, incurs the imminent risk of maim from some passing vehicle, when a little judicious economy of time and means would render the aforesaid arrangement wholly unnecessary.—London Standard.

Miscellaneous Items.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by John Gayfer. 74v-y

Men who hate long sentences—Criminals. This is a life sentence.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF—Cleanse the scalp with Prof. Low's Magic Sulphur Soap. A delightful medicated soap for the toilet. 8t.

Butter is so cheap that the poorest people can make a spread with it.

Baxter's Mandrake Bitters cure indigestion, Heart Burn, Costiveness and all malarial diseases. 25 cents per bottle. 8t

"Throw physic to the dogs." What's the good? They won't take it.

THE reason why "Nonsuch Washing Compound" should be used in preference to all other washing preparations. First, It is perfectly harmless. Second, It saves more than half the labour. Third, It is the cheapest in the market. Many more could be given but this should be sufficient. For sale by all grocers. 84

The hand that rocks a cradle is the hand that can't stone a hen with any success.

TIME, ITS VALUE.

To-day is ours, why should we care?
To-day is ours, why should we fear?
To-day is ours, why should we sorrow?
For to the gods belong to-morrow.
Therefore for to-day, chew Gold Coin Tobacco, it is the best. 06

Useful domestic cookery—Making both ends "meet."

RESCUED AT LAST.

W. H. Crooker, druggist of Waterdown, says, when all other remedies fail for Bowel Complaints, then Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry comes to the rescue. [10

By the will of nature, honey is the universal bee-quest.

A SEARCH WARRANT.

If there is any lurking taint of scrofula in the system, Burdock Blood Bitters are warranted to search it out. 10

A button is one of those events that are always coming off.

FOR OLD OR YOUNG.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the remedy for Cholera, Colic, Diarrhœa, and Dysentery. No person is safe without it. 10

People who go to the mountains in the summer enjoy high living.

PREJUDICED PEOPLE.

Many people are prejudiced against patent medicines, but all who try Burdock Blood Bitters are compelled to acknowledge it worthy a patent as a valuable discovery. (10

It is a singular contradiction that when the mosquito visits you he stays to hum.

REST AND COMFORT TO THE SUFFERING

"Brown's Household Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 1498vy

A CRYING EVIL.—Children are often fretful and ill when Worms is the cause. Dr. Low's Worm Syrup safely expels all Worms. 8t.

CALL and see the immense stock of Wall Papers, Floor Oil Cloths, Window Cornices, Window Shades, &c., at L. Thompson's McCaughey's Block. 41.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Trains leave Ingersoll as follows:

GOING WEST.	GOING EAST.
4:56 a. m.	6:50 a. m.
11:57 a. m.	12:15 a. m.
12:32 a. m.	3:05 p. m.
5:05 p. m.	4:48 p. m.
7:47 p. m.	7:00 p. m.
2:11 a. m.	12:20 p. m.

GOLD for the working class. Send 10 cents for postage, and we will mail you free a royal, valuable box of sample goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. We will start you. You can work all the time or in spare time only. The work is universally adapted to both sexes, young and old. You can easily earn from 50 cents to $5 every evening. That all who want work may test the business we make this unparalleled offer; to all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Fortunes will be made by those who give their whole time to the work. Great success absolutely sure. Don't delay. Start now. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

WM. C. BELL

Having bought the Lumber belonging to the

Estate of the late ADAM OLIVER

And RENTED THE MILL, he is prepared to execute all

Carpenter & Joiner Work

Entrusted to him. He will also

Contract for Buildings!

OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS,

And supply House Building material at the very lowest prices. It is a well known fact, from the easy financial position of the late firm, they were always ahead of the times in having thoroughly seasoned lumber, and from which all his inside work will be manufactured. A specialty in making

VENETIAN BLINDS,

Which can be made to order in short notice. GIVE HIM A CALL.

WM. C. BELL.

Ingersoll, Feb. 1st, 1883. 1553

Change of Business

The undersigned begs leave to announce that he has purchased the

HARNESS MAKING BUSINESS

From T. FEIGHTNER, and will in a few days have

A Complete Stock of Goods

In all the departments of the

Best Material and Newest Designs

To be had in the market and hopes to receive a liberal share of the public patronage.

WM. TRIPP.

June 19th, 1884. 1696

SHAKER BLOOD SYRUP.

Cures Completely Scrofula, Syphilis, Cancer, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Ulcers and Skin and Blood Diseases of every description.

$1000 reward to any chemist who will find, on analysis of 100 bottles of Shaker Blood Syrup, one particle of Mercury, Iodide of Potassium, or any mineral substance.

J. W. BROWETT, - DRUGGIST,

Sign of White Mortar,

THAMES STREET, INGERSOLL.

Get Your Bill-heads now at THE CHRONICLE OFFICE for Half Yearly Accounts. Best Work and Lowest Prices.

ADVERTISERS

Before you place a dollar's worth of Newspaper advertising, get our prices. The exact cost of any paper, or list of papers cheerfully furnished, free upon application.

Send for New Catalogue.

J. C. HOUCH,

Advertising Agent,

HOUGH BLOCK. Detroit, Mich.

JAS. McINTYRE

UNDERTAKER.

HAS REMOVED BACK TO HIS old stand in the

NEW BRICK BLOCK.

A Large Stock of COFFINS, and CASKETS HEADS and ROBES on hand.

FURNITURE

All kinds in stock. Residence first house north of warehouse, King street, Ingersoll, nber 22, 1881.

$66 a week at home. $5 outfit free. Pay absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make great pay all the time they work, with absolute certainty, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Me.

Canada Pacific Railway.

ONTARIO DIVISION.

COMMENCING MONDAY, MAY 19, 1884.

Trains leave Ingersoll as follows:

GOING EAST.	GOING WEST.
5.35 a.m.	7.18 a.m.
12.30 a.m.	10.47 a.m.
3.20 p.m.	4.21 p.m.
7.11 p.m.	8.45 p.m.

An additional train will be run in connection with the

Canadian Pacific Steamship Line,

Leaving Toronto, 11.30 a.m., for Owen Sound.

W. WHYTE, Gen. Supt. D. McNICOLL, Gen. Pass. Agent.

Ingersoll, May 22nd, 1884. 1602

THE "Little Wonder."

Me and my father, my father and me,
Can sell you the best of Black and Green Tea,
The very best Sugar and choicest of Spice,
With Lard, Pork and Ham, and very good Rice,
In fact all the Groceries you can well name,
My father kept good ones and I'll do the same,
So come with your orders and with your money
For business without is not pleasant as honey.

E. H. HEWITT,

PROPRIETRESS

Ingersoll, Nov. 1573

Daly House Livery,

J. GUGGISBERG, Prop.

LEADING LIVERY IN TOWN.

Ingersoll, Jan. 3rd, 1884. 1582v-y

The "White" is King

OF SEWING MACHINES,

FOR SALE BY

HENDERSON & HENDERSON,

MACHINISTS

AND SILVER PLATERS, Ingersoll.

Dealers in Sewing Machines, and Repairs; Firearms and Ammunition, Fish Poles, Hooks, Lines Etc.

Largest & Best Assortment in town.

Ingersoll, May 22nd, 1884. 1602

PATENTS.

INVENTORS, send model or sketchof your inventions, when I will make careful preliminary examination, and report as to patentability, with advice, circulars, etc. Free of Charge. All business before U.S. Patent Office attend to for Moderate Fees. Information and references sent on application. No charge unless patent is secured.

J. R. LITTELL, Washington, D.C

Directly opposite U.S. Patent Office. 1582

Ingersoll Greenhouse,

THAMES-ST., near C.V.R. Station.

BEFORE PURCHASING YOUR

House & Bedding Plants

CALL AND SEE

MRS. HEATH'S

Stock, which will be found in finer condition than in any previous year.

Hanging Baskets, Rustic Vases, Settees, &c., in great variety.

Roses—Monthly, Hybrid and Perpetual, in large and small plants. Mailing size 10 for $1.00.

A choice selections of Dahlias, ready June 1st.

Hanging Baskets and Vases filled with choice plants and best care.

Funeral Designs and Cemetery Decorations a specialty.

Wedding Bouquets and all cut flower work as usual.

All kinds of Fruits and Vegetables in their season.

Button Hole Bo