Miramichi Advance. CHATHAM, N. B., AUGUST 4, 1898. Machine Politics Again. The St. John Sun appears to be very much disturbed because of the non-acceptance by the press and people of New Brunswick of the new doctrine which the recent Conservative convention at Moncton has dictated in regard to provincial politics.

The ADVANCE stated last week that it believed to be the reason why the people were not disposed to be dictated to respecting their provincial politics by either of the federal parties, and the Sun, instead of discussing the subject from that standpoint, appears to assume that it is necessary to become personal and attribute improper motives to the editor of the ADVANCE, in a manner which shows how far it is removed from the plane of self-respecting journalism.

Prohibition Plebiscite. An Ottawa despatch of Monday says that the last Thursday in September (the 29th) has been definitely fixed for the taking of the prohibition plebiscite throughout Canada.

Death of Archbishop Walsh. Catholicism in Ontario has suffered a heavy loss in the death of Archbishop Walsh of Toronto, who died just before 11 o'clock on Sunday night, the 28th inst., on Saturday, July 28th, 1898.

Why Not a Meeting? There is a good deal of vapouring in some local quarters over the recent action of the Conservatives who met in Moncton and declared against the local government being run on non-party lines, and it would seem an opportune time for the local government party of Northumberland to have a public meeting and give the people their views on the subject.

Madrid and, in substance, are as follows: The President does not now put forward any claim for pecuniary indemnity, but requires the relinquishment of all claim of sovereignty over or title of the island of Cuba as well as the immediate evacuation of Spain of the island; the cession to the United States and immediate evacuation of Porto Rico and other islands under Spanish sovereignty in the West Indies and the like cession of an island in the Ladrones.

Dr. Allison has written a letter on the subject of the paper, and it is fair to him that it should have as wide a circulation as the erroneous report. Dr. Allison's letter is as follows:— Sir:—I wish to disclaim responsibility for much of the language and sentiment on the subject of prohibition attributed to me in a press statement published in your yesterday's issue.

Canada has lost a poor and somewhat notable note in Evan MacColl who died in Toronto a few days ago at the age of 90 years. Mr. MacColl was born at Kenmore, Scotland, and early in life became a contributor to the Gaelic Magazine of Glasgow. In 1839 he was appointed a clerk in the Liverpool Custom House and in 1850 he came to Canada, where he soon obtained a position in the Custom House at Kingston. He was retired on a pension in 1880.

Coming to the question before the country tonight—how could I be so ignorant as to have a degree of doubt existing in the mind of at least some sincere friends of temperance when the times are really ripe for parliamentary prohibition? I frankly admitted that my own mind was not entirely free from this doubt, but went on to say that such was my antipathy to the liquor traffic and desire for its destruction that I intended to give the benefit of the doubt to the prohibition and vote "yes" at the plebiscite poll. The reporter most inexcusably repeated...

is a strong indictment, but I fear that it is a true one, and that in a large number of cases parents do not do their duty. I have digressed to this topic because of the important bearing on the general subject of education I will now return to the consideration of the subjects under the consideration of those who are to conduct the commerce of the country.

In the first place, then, comes a study of modern languages, together with a thorough knowledge of our own language. I need hardly prove what is now almost an axiom, that an intelligent knowledge of English is of the greatest help to the acquisition of other languages. With regard to the modern languages that are to be selected, custom has prescribed French and German, and on the whole the choice is a wise one, if an opportunity is also afforded of acquiring Italian, if necessary. A most thorough linguistic training can be afforded through French and German if they are properly taught on one uniform system. The chief reason why English boys have not, as a rule, been successful in acquiring these languages is not the want of any recognized system of teaching them.

If a head-master appoints a master to teach classics or mathematics, he knows that he will fall in with the system employed in the school, and that the work throughout the school will be continuous; but if he appoints a modern language master, however able and experienced he may be, the result is almost invariably a failure. There are some head-masters whose experience of modern languages is sufficient to enable them to devise a good system of modern language teaching, but in the majority of cases they do not. As a consequence of the teaching of French and German in the school will turn out satisfactory results; this is the work which ought to be undertaken by the head-master.

and a last kiss that his recollection of her night to all of love and brightness, she sent him down stairs happy and loving.

In all the time of stress and pain that followed that last look of her haunted her memory always, and he determined to blame himself for having been so dull and blind as not to have seen before him the stormcloud of trial and trouble and suffering that was about to burst.

As it was he thought chiefly of her love for him and only speculated a vague and general way as to the cause of the moodiness in which he had found her.
