By the Way.

Get out the vote. Bring your neighbor to the polls with you. Don't be frightened by eleventh hour roor-bachs. No charge which will be launched forth tonight or tomorrow will be worthy of attention. If you want to know the truth on any converted point, telephone to Mr. Hy-man's central committee rooms. Our cause is right. Victory is ours. 28a Poll every vote. 28a

Pay no attention to roorbachs. 28a

A change of government is at hand. 28a

A vote for Hyman is a vote for London. 28a

The Liberal policy will have the way to better times. 28a

The ballot paper to be used in the city election tomorrow contains these names: 28a

"Thomas Beattie, of the city of London, gentleman." 28a

"Charles S. Hyman, of the city of London, manufacturer." 28a

The manufacturer will win. Join the majority. 28a

The high tax policy has made millions of the redpaths and the Tupper. What has it done for you? 28a

There's no reason why every man having a vote should not poll it tomorrow, without waiting to be sent for. 28a

"Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, Prime Minister of Canada," it will be after tomorrow. Better be on the winning side. 28a

Vote soon after 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, and then see that your neighbor who is like-minded also votes. 28a

The Liberal meeting at Hamilton on Saturday night was a great success.
Fully 15,000 people were present. Hon.
G. W. Ross made a splendid speech. 28a Laurier will be Premier after tomorrow. Vote for Hyman, his staunch supporter, and do your share in the good work of establishing good government in Canada. 28a

If our friends make a grand rally to the polls tomorrow, victory will perch on the Hyman banner. 28a

Don't leave a vote unpolled. 28a

Don't take chances on a doubtful vote coming to the poll. Go after him early. 28a

Let us warn our friends everywhere against over-confidence. Let nothing be taken for granted, no matter how bright the canvass. Poll every vote, and poll it early, and thus render it certain that London and every riding in Western Ontario shall participate in the national victory that is at hand. Tomorrow's sunset will see Hon. Wilfrid Laurier Premier of Canada. 28a

Watch the Pencil.

Voters must mark their ballots tomorrow with the pencil to be found in the polling booth. It is a plain black pencil. A ballot marked with a blue or red pencil, or with any pencil other than that supplied by the returning officer, will be spoiled, and will not be counted. 28a

Britain Discriminated Against.
The Dominion Government Year Book for last year is out, and from it we find that during the fiscal year ending June 30 last, Canada imported from Great Britain goods to the value of $3,131,737, on which the duty collected amounted to $7,006,577. From the United States we imported during the same year goods to the value of $4,634,521, collecting thereon $6,897,395 in duty. Not much loyalty in the discrimination against the Motherland. 28a

At last general election, when he had the leadership of Sir John Macdonald to conjure with, Mr. Joseph Marshall only had a majority of 155. 28a

Now the high tax party is divided into two factions—hopelessly divided, and many Conservatives say they cannot recognize Tupper as their leader.
A knowledge of these facts will show how easily the constituency can be carried by Mr. Gillson, the anti-Tupper candidate, if the full vote in his favor is polled. 28a

Let no one favorable to the cause expounded by Mr. Gillson stay away from the polls tomorrow, and he will be returned without a doubt. 28a

Will Fail Tomorrow.
Sir Charles Tupper, Son & Co., general dealers, will assign on Tuesday, the 23rd to Wilfrid Laurier. The liabilities are understood to be very heavy. Tupper having carried on an extensive business for some time past.
No compromise will be accepted. 28a

The Change at Hand.

Senator McCallum, a Conservative veteran and a life-long friend of Sir John Macdonald, declares that the Government will be defeated tomorrow. 28a

"Don," in Saturday Night, predicts the overthrow of Tupperism. 28a

The reports from Manitoba, the Northwest and British Columbia, indicate the complete rout of Tupper and coercion. 28a

Hon. W. S. Fielding, Premier of Nova Scotia, sends to the press a cheering report from the Eastern Provinces. 28a

Careful estimates as to the situation in Quebec give Mr. Laurier a majority of twelve or fifteen in that Province. 28a

In Ontario the Government will be overwhelmingly defeated. 28a

We are able to make the positive announcement that one of the leaders of the Cabinet, in a letter to a personal friend, admitted that the Government would be defeated. 28a

Poll All Your Votes.
London electors who have votes in Middlesex, East Elgin or neighboring ridings, should vote for Hyman, and then, at the earliest moment, proceed to the outlying places, and give their votes. Let not a vote be left unpolled. 28a

The Dominion ballot is absolutely secret, and it is utterly impossible for any person other than the voter himself to discover how a man's ballot has been marked. Voters who are threatened by bosses of any kind should remember this and mark their ballots for the man and party of their choice. 28a

Before the Battle.
The duty for tomorrow which confronts every elector is to vote the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Oliver Mowat into power at Ottawa. 28a

"Once to every man and nation Comes the moment to decide." The moment has come to decide whether Canada shall start out, after tomorrow, on a career of conciliation, progress and prosperity, under Laurier and Mowat, or continue in the trough of the sea of disturbance, corruption and unbridled selfishness, under Tupper. 28a

Tupper never had the governing arts of Sir John Macdonald. He cannot keep his own party together, much less properly guide the destinies of the Dominion. Tupper is a governmental impossibility; whereas the entrance into the new Dominion Liberal Government of Sir Oliver Mowat, with his quarter of a century of successful experience, is alone a guarantee of safe, clean and fruitful administration for Canada. 28a

Let every thoughtful elector cast his vote early tomorrow for the candidates supporting Laurier and Mowat. 28a

The country needs a change, and a change it intends to decree tomorrow.
28a

East Middlesex.
Some people have been imagining that East Middlesex, in which the fifth ward of the city and London West are situated, is hopelessly for Tupper. 28a

At last general election, when he had the leadership of Sir John Macdonald

Now the high tax party is divided into two factions—hopelessly divided,
and many Conservatives say they can-
not recognize Tupper as their leader.
A knowledge of these facts will
be carried by Mr. Gillson, the anti-Tupper candidate, if the full vote in
his favor is polled. 28a

Let no one favorable to the cause
expounded by Mr. Gillson stay away
be returned without a doubt. 28a

Will Fail Tomorrow.
Sir Charles Tupper, Son & Co., general dealers, will assign on Tuesday,
the 23rd to Wilfrid Laurier. The liabilities are understood to be very heavy. Tupper having carried on an extensive business for some time past.

Scrutinizers, Attention!

We learn that in the city election tomorrow, Tupper agents will attempt to buy votes from electors by a trick which only the scrutineers can prevent. It is an old scheme, which has done duty in past elections, for the benefit of the high tax candidates, and it can easily be combatted this time, and its perpetrators lodged in prison if Mr. Hyman's scrutineers are vigilant. 28a

The trick is to procure a ballot paper—it need not here be explained from whom—and give it, ready marked for the Conservative candidate, to a doubtful or kicking voter. The voter puts the ballot into his pocket, enters the polling place, gets a regular ballot, and goes behind the screen. Coming out, he puts the ballot supplied to him already marked by the unscrupulous outside agent, into the hands of the returning officer, and carries out the unmarked ballot, supplied by the deputy returning officer, which he hands over to the Conservative agent, and receives his pay. The unmarked ballot thus brought out is then marked for the Conservative candidate, and handed over to the next purchas-able voter who comes along, to be used in like manner, and so it goes on all day. 28a

This rascality can and will be prevented tomorrow if the Hyman scrutineers do their full duty. They must watch every ballot given out to each successive voter. They must

A GREAT ARTIST EXPRESSES HIS OPINION OF THE NEW MODEL "BELL" PIANO

Very Excellent Pianos—Most Elegant Instruments Seen Anywhere—Singing Qualities all that an Artist Could Desire—Broad, Rich, Massive Tone—Nothing to Fear from Foreign Competition.

THE BELL PIANO COMPANY (LIMITED), GUELPH, ONT.

Dear Sirs,—It gives me pleasure before leaving Canada to testify to the very excellent Pianos of your manufacture which I have met with and used in connection with my song recitals in this country. The Upright Concert Grand which was placed at my disposal by your manager in London I unhesitatingly pronounce as one of the most elegant instruments that I have seen anywhere, and whilst its singing qualities were all that an artist could desire, it possessed in addition that broad, rich, massive tone which is absolutely indispensable for solo purposes. I heartily congratulate you on your latest achievements in piano construction, and believe that so long as the present high standard of your instruments is maintained your company can have nothing possible to fear from foreign competition. I am faithfully yours, R. WATKIN-MILLS.

Liberals Hold Their Last Rally Before Election Night.

Rousing Meeting in the Grand Opera House Saturday Night.

Mr. Bertram's Splendid Address from the Manufacturer's Standpoint.

Mr. Hyman's Complete Refutation of Attacks and Arguments.

"Fighting Jim" Lister's Denunciation of Tupperism.

Mr. Gibbons' Telling Exposure of Foul Tactics in the City.

Mr. Campbell on the Carriage Trade—A Disreputable Circular Stamped as a Lie by Mr. Gibbons—Enthusiastic Audience and Rousing Speeches.

The last Liberal rally before the final grand one tomorrow evening after the close of the polls, was held Saturday night in the Opera House. The heat was intense and as the chairman remarked, it was almost a punishment to have to endure it, but the meeting was a splendid one nevertheless, and any discomfort the audience suffered was more than atoned for by the brilliant presentation of Liberal arguments by the five speakers of the evening. The enthusiasm like the weather, was at fever heat, and the hall rang almost continuously with the cheers of the electors who crowded the auditorium. Ex-Mayor Campbell, the veteran carriage manufacturer, was in the chair, and as usual talked straight to the point. Mr. Hyman was in excellent form, and though he spoke briefly, every word carried weight. His manly appeal for redress of the wrong done in the last bye-election evoked a storm of reciprocal sentiment which showed how deep-seated is the remembrance of that outrage. Mr. George H. Bertram, one of Toronto's leading manufacturers, handled the fiscal question with the clearness and incisiveness of the practical business man, and with an oratorical skill that surprised and delighted his auditors. He was tendered a genuine ovation after his splendid effort. Mr. James Lister, Q.C., the hero of Lambton, followed with a rousing speech, hitting straight from the shoulder, at the Government's corruption, past and present. His fearless exposure of Tupperism was heartily appreciated. Mr. Gibbons, always welcomed by a London audience, closed the meeting with one of his usual clear-cut, pungent addresses, that have made him noted as a platform speaker.

The following were among the gentlemen seated on the platform: Dr. George C. Davis, president of the Young Liberal Club; Wm. McKay, South Oxford; H. Hartness, Sarnia; Frank Leonard, Geo. Hooper; Robt. Robertson, J. Westervelt; H. A. Birtcher, J. W. McKillop; J. P. O'Meara, U. A. Buchner; Councillor Moore, Alex. Shambles; A. M. Hamilton, Dr. McFarlane; Major Hayes, T. Walton, sen.; O. Chairman Campbell. Mr. John Campbell was vigorously applauded on rising, and the applause was renewed when a moment later he said, "We want to sweep the Tupperites out of existence. We have been a long-suffering people, we have had a great deal of forbearance. But when Tupper comes amongst us he is well received and everyone gave him due attention without interruption. We find that in other places he has not been treated in the same way, but I am proud to say that Reformers have not offered any objection to his speaking. Everywhere the opposition has been by old-time Conservatives, who are disgusted with the Tupperites, and there are thousands of good, honest Conservatives who will vote against them, and you will find that on Tuesday next, with the assistance of dissatisfied Conservatives, we are going to win this election. (Cheers.)

Mr. Campbell gave an emphatic denial to the letter in the Free Press of Saturday in which it was stated that after Mr. Campbell's last election Mr. Campbell, in company with Mr. John Elliott, and the late Samuel Grayson, had written to Ottawa, requesting of Leonard Tilley to put an extra tariff of 30 per cent on carriages.

A FREE PRESS LIE. "It is not true, it is false," said Mr. Campbell. "I would not take any notice of it if some decent, honest Conservative did not give it credence, and we want to get all the Conservative votes we can."

A voice—Right you are, and you are going to get them. He was signed by a Chicago carriage-maker," said Mr. Campbell, "who I would not be surprised if the letter was concocted in the Free Press office. (Cheers.) Any workman, especially a carriage worker, would not be ashamed to sign his name."

In again denying the story contained in the Free Press, Mr. Campbell said that if there were any doubts about his word, they could go and see John Elliott, who would confirm Mr. Campbell's statement that the letter was false. As he has already in the public press, Mr. Campbell denied that during the tariff of 11-12 per cent under the Mackenzie regime, the London market had been flooded with American carriages.

"Now, I have been for over 40 years in London," said Mr. Campbell, "and I can assure you that I never saw an American carriage sold in London until the high tariff was put on." (Applause.)

Mr. Campbell then briefly introduced Mr. Hyman.

Mr. O. S. Hyman.

I was not mayor until the next year, and at the end of that year, whether I had succeeded in doing my duty or not, I know that the Free Press appeared with a most fulsome article in praise of my year's work—(cheers)—and the editor of that paper did me the honor to do some other Conservatives, of asking me to accept a re-nomination for the mayorship. I had no objection to that, but a candidate already in the field should retire and give me the election by acclamation. (Cheers.)

Mr. Hyman then touched on the trade question, showing the present contest was not one between free trade and protection. Within the four corners of the Liberal trade policy, the word free trade did not appear. As an evidence of the unfairness of the present tariff policy, Mr. Hyman showed that the people of Canada were forced to contribute $23,000,000 yearly for the benefit of two or three rice-cleaning factories, while the Government only raised $5,000 upon the importation of unshelled rice. When the Liberals were in power, more than $1 out of ever $5 taken from the people would go into the treasury. Mr. Beattie had made some references to the business in which he (Mr. Hyman) was engaged, that of leather. "It was a MOST UNFORTUNATE ALLUSION for Mr. Beattie," said Mr. Hyman. "Leather is not a manufactured article. The tariff is from 10 to 15 per cent, so that it is an industry natural to the country. Of all the manufactured articles exported from Canada, leather forms about one-fifth of the whole. (Applause.) The Canadian leather industry is not only able to supply the home market, and hold it, but in free trade England are able to meet the manufacturers of all the rest of the world, and hold their own. (Cheers.) Last year there was sold in England $1,357,000 worth of Canadian leather. For eight years we have had a policy presumably conducted wholly in the interests of the manufacturers. Yet how much manufactured goods do you think Canada has been able to export? In four years under Mr. Mackenzie's reign, the amount increased from $200,000 to $700,000, or 90 per cent. From 1879 to 1893 the amount had only increased to $4,257,000, or practically no increase at all. (Cheers.) In 1893 the amount was $7,768,000, but what was the bulk of it? Not articles of manufacture which were protected by a high tariff. The largest value next to leather was represented by household effects going to the United States. (Cheers.)

Next to leather, the next largest value was that of a foreign country. (Cheers.) Surely that was no cause for pride. Next on the list was the manufactured article of wood, chiefly pulp, and then came the hardware. To the bottom of the list there is hardly a single dollar's worth of anything coming from the United States."

AN EXTRA HIGH TARIFF or a higher one than the Liberals would place there if in power," (Cheers.)

Mr. Hyman said they had heard of French Liberal boodlers. "Mr. Mercier had been led into doing things which he ought not to have done by the Conservative party. He went to Ottawa and requested of Leonard Tilley to put an extra tariff of 30 per cent on carriages. If they were the Liberals asked them to treat their boodlers as the Liberals had treated their boodlers."

"The honor of the city of London is at stake in this election," concluded Mr. Hyman. "I said at the last contest that you desired me to represent you in Parliament. (Cheers.) What said the Government through their INFAMOUS FRANCHISE ACT?"

They said: "We care not for the will of the majority of the city of London. They deprived the majority representative of London from that to which he was entitled. In all truthfulness, from that day to this we have heard one Conservative outside of London who did not condemn that act, and say that it was a fair and just thing. (Cheers.) I ask the citizens of London to give me back on Tuesday the city of London which is my right—cheers and cries of 'We will!'—and I am happy to say I have met in my canvass, not scores, but hundreds, who formerly opposed me, but who say that they resent the injustice, and because they feel the honor of the city is at stake they will give me their assistance on Tuesday. (Loud cheers.)

Mr. George H. Bertram. Mr. Bertram, who was introduced as a leading manufacturer, said he was not patriotic enough to stand up in defense of a policy that would be injurious to his own business, even if it would help the Liberal party. Mr. Bertram said that the time had come when the tariff should cease to be an issue. It was injurious to business to have it discussed every five years. He thought that if six men of the Liberal and Conservative parties would come together, they could arrive at some understanding on this particular question, but they could not have that concurrence until they came to the conclusion that no Government was justified in giving any legislation of any kind for the benefit of one class at the expense of another. (Cheers.)

"Under the National Policy we have increased the debt $150,000,000, and the annual expenditure $15,000,000, so that we could not now have free trade if we wanted it, and as Mr. Laurier pointed out in his speech, we cannot even get back to the low tariff we had in Mr. Mackenzie's time. I do not think we can get back to within 5 or 10 per cent of it. A tariff policy like this has the effect of raising revenue, and at the same time giving incidental protection to Canadian manufacturers, is the only policy fair and reasonable to all parties and unjust to none." (Cheers.)

Mr. Bertram pointed out that what the business interests needed was stability in the tariff, and not continual alterations at the DEMAND OF CERTAIN CLASSES, as had been the case in the past few years. The National Policy was a high sounding name, but it could be purchased at a book store. It was simply a hand-book of the Canadian customs tariff. Many items of that tariff instead of being a benefit to the manufacturers of Canada, were a positive injury to them. On every ton of pig iron used by Canadian manufacturers, there was a duty of from 45 to 60 per cent. What kind of a policy was that which taxed a manufacturer's raw material 45 or 50 per cent, and only gave him 20 per cent on his manufactured article? (Hear, hear.)

He cared nothing about a man's theories; he must be judged by results. So the time had come to judge the National Policy by its results, and not by its theories. A few years ago, when the National Policy was at its height, they had 22 manufacturers of binders in Canada. Policy they had only seven. (Hear, hear.) What a beautiful object lesson of the benefits of the N. P. (Cheers.) Agricultural implement factories in St. Thomas, London, Chatham, Glencoe and other places that were once running were now idle. Where had the workmen gone? The population had not increased, so they must have gone abroad, seeking work. The results of the N. P. had been the combining of a certain number of Canadian manufacturers, who were ENJOYING UNDUE PROTECTION, in combining they charged prices they had no business to charge, but which the National Policy permitted them to do. Mr. Bertram exposed the fallacy of the plan that domestic competition would reduce the prices to consumers by showing that there was no domestic competition in cottons throughout Canada. He showed that a $15,000 cotton plant had been erected in Dundas, and had now been idle for six months, though at the time a dividend was being paid to the shareholders. Why was this? Simply because the cottons were not made enough from the people to pay not only the expenses and profits of the running factories, but a

DIVIDEND ON THE IDLE FACTORIES.

As well. (Hear, hear.) What became of the workmen? The population of Dundas had gone down 1,000. That was a result of the N. P. (Cheers.) Sir Charles Tupper said that the iron tariff policy, said that smelting furnaces would spring up all over the country, and that Canadian manufacturers would give the Canadian pig and bar iron instead of the foreign article. But notwithstanding the afterthoughts of the people that the policy of free trade is the policy of the Liberal party. It had been done by the Liberal party, by every speaker, but still it went on. It was a kind of scarecrow that Sir Charles Tupper had, and it reminded him of a

Back to AS PREMIER, assisted by the Grand Old Man, Sir Oliver Mowat—(cheers)—and that great and good Liberal, Sir Henry John (cheers)—they would have three in the front rank of the Liberal party who would bring peace and quiet to the country. (Cheers.) They could never do it by returning a man like Sir Charles Tupper, who in Montreal asked a French-Canadian Catholic audience to reject Laurier on the basis of an assertion that he was a traitor to his race and his religion, and in Manitoba asked a Protestant audience to vote against Laurier because Laurier would give the Catholics more than Tupper, a Protestant. (Cries of "Shame!") If the Liberals of London want to be heard in the councils of the nation, concluded Mr. Bertram, "there is no man in this broad Dominion who is better able to do justice to the Liberal cause, who is better able to represent the Liberals of London than your friend and my friend, Mr. Hyman. (Cheers.) If I were a Conservative living in London, I would feel that the honor of London, that the credit of London, that the importance of London in the interests of this country, were even of more importance than the support of the Conservative party. (Cheers.) Therefore, I say that all good Conservatives should cast their votes for a man who is no nobbler, and who is well qualified to fill a position in the front ranks of Liberalism, and I cannot think it is possible that the people of the city of London will go back on the 22nd of June on Mr. Charles S. Hyman. (Continued cheers.)

"Fighting Jim" Lister.

The ovation Mr. Lister received on entering the stage was repeated as he arose to address the audience. Mr. Lister is an eloquent and convincing speaker, and one who from the very first finds himself on good terms with his hearers. He is a past master among humorists, and frequently adorned his arguments of fact and figures with a little story to point the moral and otherwise adorn the tale. Leading off, he said that he hoped the next time Mr. Hyman held a political meeting he would select a cool night. Then he mopped his brow. Proceeding, he predicted a Waterloo for the Tupperites on the night of June 23, and the audience seconded the motion. He referred to the notorious steel steal which London was deprived of the same time a dividend was being paid to the shareholders. Why was this? Simply because the cottons were not made enough from the people to pay not only the expenses and profits of the running factories, but a

There are some things that must be done in one go or not at all. You can't leap across a hole in two jumps. LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson Cameron states: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than a half bottle cured me. I certainly believed it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

nothing had been heard about the provisions in the school, and over which a studied attempt had been made by Conservatives to turn the Catholic vote against Sir Oliver Mowat. Another campaign was on, and the Conservatives having been proven guilty of the grossest corruption and unfulfilled promises, it was necessary to introduce an issue by which to gull the public—one which might cause the Catholic population of Canada to support the Government, and with the Tories who were hide-bound, return the Tupperites to power.

"They have again gone to the country on that issue," said Mr. Gibbons, "and I have come to you again as a Liberal, to corn the year before, and making to build up the country if we are going to have in every election issues of creed between Catholic and Protestant. We are all Canadians, whatever our religious beliefs are. (Cheers.) I don't care one whit what Mr. Mowat's belief is, but he is a good citizen in this country. If he is a true Canadian, he is just as much entitled to my respect and your respect as if he were the most ultra-Protestant, and I am ready to take him by the hands and ask him to help us build up this country from the perspective of creed and religion. (Cheers.) What are our opponents doing in this country? Where is the man who backed that local campaign? Who is the man who is running in this campaign? What is his conduct today? At the last election, you could not meet a canvasser that he would not insinuate that the Catholics were getting too much. You heard it in every house, and you heard it too from the mouths of the same men who are getting on their benched knees and crying and wailing and Irish Catholicism in this country to stand by them today. No greater piece of hypocrisy ever existed than the one that is being put on by the man who has gone that far. I have in my hand tonight a pamphlet which is being distributed among the Catholics." of this city. It was handed to me by a man who received one. In it the most violent appeals are made to the Catholic electors in this city, and in it most gross and outrageous insinuations of facts are being made. In it they accuse our candidate, Mr. Hyman, of being a Jew. They say, Mr. Hyman has also been endeavoring to secure the Orange vote by canvassing Orangemen to vote for him on the Rogers Church. The ladies of the party are bitterly disappointed at the fact that they cannot be present at a sitting of the House of Commons."

ITALIAN FINANCIAL SCANDAL.
Rome, June 22.—The Societa Immobiliare, which is declared to have failed to meet its engagements. It is said that the Societa Immobiliare's failure was owing to grave irregularities and the utter disorder of the books. This state of affairs, combined with the absence of important documents, will, it is believed, the Standard correspondent adds, be likely to be followed by arrests and a scandal which may rival that of the Banca Romana.

NOT CONFIRMED.
Paris, June 22.—Mme. De Mores has no confirmation of the rumor of the divorce of the Marquis De Mores and his party near Gadames, Desert of Sahara. The Libre Parole publishes an interview with a friend of the marquis, in which the divorce is quoted as saying that he doubts the news of the divorce, and believes that the Marquis De Mores may have spread the report with the view of creating expected plots to prevent him from carrying out his purpose of arousing the chiefs, and the one whom he is acquainted with, and who is now against the British in the Sudan.

STIRRING UP STRIFE.
London, June 22.—It is understood that the Cabinet on Saturday considered the demand of the Government of the South African Republic for the return of Cecil Rhodes, the late Premier of Cape Colony, and Messrs. Beit and Harris, his associates in the British South Africa Company Secretariat. Rhodes' so-called "imperial telegrams" on the subject have been read here with a wonderment which is real. The report of the South African Republic, which is now being circulated, is based on the desire to promote the well-being of South Africa, will, it is said, have the effect of creating the opposite effect; as it is added, there is a suspicion that they have been instigated by a European power hostile to Great Britain. South African securities consequently dropped.

ITALY'S PITIABLE FLIGHT.
London, June 22.—A letter from an Englishman, who has long been a resident in Italy, is published in Truth, and gives a serious picture of the situation of affairs in that country. He says that a revolution is only a question of time, that the taxes are 60 per cent on all incomes, and that the straining state of the peasantry and the lower classes generally equals that of the French before the revolution.

PLENTY TO DO.
London, June 22.—The closing day of the first year of the Conservative Government (Lord Rosebery was defeated on June 21, 1895) finds the Marquis of Salisbury and his colleagues with an over-laden program, which is creating serious internal dissension among their followers. There was another meeting in the Chamber of Commerce on Saturday, to consider the course to pursue with the Government business, especially with the education bill, which, although now discussed for several weeks, has not progressed beyond its first line. The first clause is of an extremely contentious character, as may be judged from the fact that during a single day of the past week no fewer than 88 amendments were placed on paper, and of this number 69 originated with Sir Andrew Kayser Rollit, Conservative member for the Scotch division of Kingston, president of the Associated Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the London Chamber of Commerce, Hull Chamber of Commerce and Municipal

Honest men were worthy of his wage, and when an employer attempted to influence them he was a danger to the commonwealth. He claimed that the McClary circular was issued for the purpose of working upon the fears of the men, and if they had a spark of manhood in them they would resent it on Tuesday next (Cheers.)

Mr. Lister referred to Sir Charles Tupper's attempts to bribe whole provinces of the country with promises of Government corruption, and in a brilliant peroration advocated the election of the people's candidate—Charles S. Hyman.

George C. Gibbons, Q. C.
Another popular demonstration greeted Mr. George C. Gibbons. He referred to the fact that the last local campaign had been an issue of creed and that he had reminded them of the fact that it was impossible to build up Canada if they were to have those issues arising, especially if they were unnecessarily raised. He reminded them that since the last local election

Don't you know that Hood's Sarsaparilla, the One True Blood Purifier, has proved over and over again that it is the best medicine, even after all other remedies fail. If you have impure blood you may take Hood's Sarsaparilla with the utmost confidence that it will do you good.

Rome, June 22.—The Societa Immobiliare, which is declared to have failed to meet its engagements. It is said that the Societa Immobiliare's failure was owing to grave irregularities and the utter disorder of the books. This state of affairs, combined with the absence of important documents, will, it is believed, the Standard correspondent adds, be likely to be followed by arrests and a scandal which may rival that of the Banca Romana.

NOT CONFIRMED.
Paris, June 22.—Mme. De Mores has no confirmation of the rumor of the divorce of the Marquis De Mores and his party near Gadames, Desert of Sahara. The Libre Parole publishes an interview with a friend of the marquis, in which the divorce is quoted as saying that he doubts the news of the divorce, and believes that the Marquis De Mores may have spread the report with the view of creating expected plots to prevent him from carrying out his purpose of arousing the chiefs, and the one whom he is acquainted with, and who is now against the British in the Sudan.

STIRRING UP STRIFE.
London, June 22.—It is understood that the Cabinet on Saturday considered the demand of the Government of the South African Republic for the return of Cecil Rhodes, the late Premier of Cape Colony, and Messrs. Beit and Harris, his associates in the British South Africa Company Secretariat. Rhodes' so-called "imperial telegrams" on the subject have been read here with a wonderment which is real. The report of the South African Republic, which is now being circulated, is based on the desire to promote the well-being of South Africa, will, it is said, have the effect of creating the opposite effect; as it is added, there is a suspicion that they have been instigated by a European power hostile to Great Britain. South African securities consequently dropped.

ITALY'S PITIABLE FLIGHT.
London, June 22.—A letter from an Englishman, who has long been a resident in Italy, is published in Truth, and gives a serious picture of the situation of affairs in that country. He says that a revolution is only a question of time, that the taxes are 60 per cent on all incomes, and that the straining state of the peasantry and the lower classes generally equals that of the French before the revolution.

PLENTY TO DO.
London, June 22.—The closing day of the first year of the Conservative Government (Lord Rosebery was defeated on June 21, 1895) finds the Marquis of Salisbury and his colleagues with an over-laden program, which is creating serious internal dissension among their followers. There was another meeting in the Chamber of Commerce on Saturday, to consider the course to pursue with the Government business, especially with the education bill, which, although now discussed for several weeks, has not progressed beyond its first line. The first clause is of an extremely contentious character, as may be judged from the fact that during a single day of the past week no fewer than 88 amendments were placed on paper, and of this number 69 originated with Sir Andrew Kayser Rollit, Conservative member for the Scotch division of Kingston, president of the Associated Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the London Chamber of Commerce, Hull Chamber of Commerce and Municipal

THE MCCLARY CIRCULAR.
A Voice—Three days a week at McClary's. Mr. Lister declared that Mr. McClary's conduct was worthy of all condemnation. Honest men were worthy of his wage, and when an employer attempted to influence them he was a danger to the commonwealth. He claimed that the McClary circular was issued for the purpose of working upon the fears of the men, and if they had a spark of manhood in them they would resent it on Tuesday next (Cheers.)

Mr. Lister referred to Sir Charles Tupper's attempts to bribe whole provinces of the country with promises of Government corruption, and in a brilliant peroration advocated the election of the people's candidate—Charles S. Hyman.

George C. Gibbons, Q. C.
Another popular demonstration greeted Mr. George C. Gibbons. He referred to the fact that the last local campaign had been an issue of creed and that he had reminded them of the fact that it was impossible to build up Canada if they were to have those issues arising, especially if they were unnecessarily raised. He reminded them that since the last local election

Blind

Sometimes persons become blind from impure blood, which develops scrofulous ulcers on the eyeballs, itchy, granulated eyelids, etc. In such cases Hood's Sarsaparilla has been successfully successful in restoring sight. It shows its powers as a blood purifier and radical cure for scrofula, by removing the cause, thus curing the eyes and restoring all the affected parts to healthy condition. Read this: "As an act of justice and for the benefit of other mothers who may have afflicted children, I write this. About the first of February, 1892, my daughter Zola, then three years old, contracted sore eyes of the worst form and in a few weeks was entirely blind, being unable to tolerate light of any kind. She suffered and cried until I was almost heartbroken. The best eye specialist in the county treated her for months, but the became worse. Then I took her to a specialist in Indianapolis, who said he could do nothing. I came away with a heavy heart. I met my father's physician, Dr. Berryman, who examined Zola's eyes, and told me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I began to give it as directed and wash her eyes with warm water. Soon I began to notice improvement, and now, having given the child over a half dozen bottles, her eyes are greatly improved and she can see as well as any one. She is five years of age, and goes to school. When she began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, she had to eat her meals in a darkened room, but now

TRUE BILLS
Against Dr. Jim and His Fighters for Invading the Transvaal.

London, June 22.—The grand jury today found true bills against Dr. Leander Starr Jameson, Major Sir John Willoughby, Col. D. Gray, Major R. White, Col. H. P. White, and the Hon. Henry P. Coventry, who were held for trial at the Bow street police court on July 15, charged with violating the neutrality laws by invading the Transvaal Republic.

BITTEN BY A CAT.
Dr. Barber, of Mimico Asylum, suffering severely from the Effects.

Toronto, June 22.—Dr. Barber, of the Mimico Asylum, is in a very serious condition, the result of a cat bite received the other day. The institution cat had kittens, and on the day in question the result of a cat bite on the leg of the doctor was put a bullet through his son, who had tried to save his mother's life. The son, Paul Schoffner, aged 22, is not expected to recover. The father then looked himself in his room and fired a ball through his temple, death resulting instantly.

BASEBALL.
(Special to the "Advertiser.")

Hamilton, June 20.—Pitcher Wood was the nicest kind of pie for Hamilton's batters in today's ball game, 18 hits, for a total of 28 bases, and 9 earned runs, being made off him, yet in spite of this slugging the game was in doubt up to the last inning, owing to the poor fielding of the Hamiltons and London's timely hitting. London, too, made some costly errors, especially in the outfield. Morrison earned for himself about $40 in cash and clothes by making the first home run of the season on a Hamilton ground. London had three cripples on the team—Burton, Tierney and Hutchinson. Hamilton got a lead by hitting in the first, but London tied in the third without a hit at all, Pfenniger throwing the ball into the grand stand. London hit out a lead in the fifth, but Hamilton caught it again, and hit for 7 runs in the seventh and ninth innings. The score:

A Double Courtship

CHAPTER XV.

It is a notorious fact, and one known to all men, that a hand which trembles is no hand for shaking. Gilbert had all the average man's disinclination to be at the mercy of a barber for a space of minutes, and to have, in that space, soap dabbed in his eye, conversation poured into his ear, and bottles of impossible liquids for making the hair wave or cease to wave pressed upon his attention. But a man whose nerves are unstrung has no alternative.

"More tender, sir," said Gilbert coldly. "It doesn't promise to be a pleasant day."

"It's what I call a muggy morning," said the youth, rubbing the soap into Gilbert's chin and looking across Holborn at a housemaid who was cleaning a window. "That's what I call it. Sort of muggy, that anything might happen. Fond of being out o' doors, sir?"

Gilbert nodded.

"I often wish I was out 'unting, this kind of weather," said the youth, shaking Gilbert's left cheek. "I'm a dabbler on all species of out-door sport, I am."

"Fond of following the hounds?"

"Oh," said the youth exultantly, "ounds or anything else. Nothing comes amiss to me. I often think to myself when I'm a-dabbling 'ere, and there's no customer, and only the old comic papers to look at, that I ought to 'ave been a country gentleman. I don't say a M. P. mind you, but—well, you know—just a country gentleman. Might 'old your chin up a bit, sir?"

Gilbert nodded.

"After all," sighed the ambitious youth, wiping the razor on the small white cloth and soaping afresh, "after all, though, it's no use repining, as the song has it. We 'ave to take things as they come, don't we, sir?"

"Generally."

"And I daresay I'm as 'angry as a good many country gentlemen. In my way, of course, I mean. What you 'ave to do is to make the best of your life, wherever it 'appens to be. You shave up, on this side, I think, sir?"

Gilbert said "Yes."

"It don't do," said the youthful philosopher, "it don't do to be too grasping. A gentleman friend of mine—at least, I call him a friend of mine, but really I don't know his name—he lived in this morning and had a shampoo. He's in a solicitor's office round here in Lincoln's Inn, and he was saying his morning and had a case on at the Mansion 'Ouse today over some people that had been a bit too anxious that way."

"The Hip, Hip Hurray Mining Company?"

"That's it, sir; that's the very name. And this friend of mine was saying—mind I say it right, and in confidence—that it would go pretty 'ard on some of 'em, unless he was greatly mistaken. And it all goes to prove that what I say is right, and a little bay run, sir? No! Pay the lady at the counter, will you, please. Thank you, sir. Good-morning."

Gilbert walked down Holborn into Newgate street in a semi-dazed condition that made the faces of the people hurrying by appear to him in his sight. At any moment he might feel a hand on his shoulder, the hand of a city detective. A city detective is plus royaliste que le roi—more like a city man than any other person in the city—but it is, nevertheless, not easy to recognize him. The city detective comes up from Brixton in the morning and hurries up to the mysterious little office in Old Jewry with as modest an air as though he dealt in trimmings instead of errand men.

"Come down here."

Gilbert instinctively turned into a side passage near him. Out from Newgate street the yellow-stockinged, long-gowned, leather-belted, bare-headed boys were hurrying across from Fleet's Hospital and their savings in phantom food at the confectioner's. They were all in exceedingly good spirits, these yellow-stockinged boys, and they linked arms, and held a special meeting in front of the confectioner's, debating the relative merits of jam puffs at three-halfpence each, and long, empty, chocolate-looking cakes at twopenny.

"What a fool you are, Gilbert! Why the devil didn't you keep away?"

It was not a city detective, but Capt. Dann. Capt. Dann was not quite so buoyant, not quite so affectionate in his manner of pawing; the flower in his coat was faded and hung stem upward as though anxious to make its escape. "We all managed to get badly" went on Capt. Dann; "but heaven knows what is going to happen today. I don't know what the Treasury has got up its sleeve. It seems a crying shame," went on Capt. Dann with a touch of his early manner, "a confounded crying shame, sir, that we ratepayers should be called upon to support a parcel of lawyers down at Whitehall, and that we should actually have to pay for our own prosecution!"

I said to poor Louisa—my wife's very much cut up over this affair—as I said, what we want and what we must have some day is, Government by the people, and for the people. That's the way I put it. Meanwhile, we have a lot of these what I call Tadpole and Tanners—

"Now, you look here. I'm deucedly sorry about this, and although I don't say you won't perhaps get off, I want to give you a bit of advice. Get away at once and stop away. If we pull through—the way I put it to Henkingson was in a nautical way—I said it must be 'All hands to the pump,'—why, then you can stay away. If we don't, why, you can stay away."

"I believe you are not a bad fellow, Dann."

AS THEY EXPECTED.

British Press Comments on the Republican Convention's Choice.

London, June 22.—The result of the Republican convention at St. Louis was generally expected here. Consequently, the definite announcement of Gov. McKinley's nomination on a platform was received with comparative apathy. Financial circles do not regard the outlook so as improved as to justify jubilation. The foreign relations plank of the platform is regarded as of a highly militant character, and apparently it has made the investors here somewhat nervous. Up on this point the Economist remarks: "While the bombastic phrases may mean little and be intended only to tickle the ears of electors, they remind European investors of the possibility of American securities being deprived of what has hitherto been regarded as one of the advantages."

The Statist, referring to the same subject, says: "It is the best platform possible, but it will not establish order in the currency, and, therefore, will not restore confidence, for it must never be forgotten that the key to the position is held by the Senate, which is governed by a silverite and Populist majority. Unhappily, there is no chance that the composition of the Senate will be materially changed for the present, so the legislature and administration are powerless."

The Speaker attaches little importance to McKinley's personality, and says: "He seems to be the typical average man called to a position which gives more scope to individual ability than that of any monarch except the three emperors. There is no need to expect him to set the Atlantic afire, though perhaps the jingoes of the party may. At the least, his managers have saved America from disaster and have restored confidence in Europe. Whether they have disintegrated the Union is another question. But the currency heresies of America are at an end, and their definite defeat upon the present occasion may cause them to take on a new form."

The Saturday Review thinks the result is "amply reassuring," adding: "The Democrats are not in a position to nominate a dangerous competitor to McKinley. With a silverite majority they have no chance, and there is a remote possibility that they may follow St. Louis and the tide of popular money. The sentiment in the east is interesting only because it will involve a big secession from both existing organizations, and the formation of a third party devoted to silver and the numerous Populist variations of State socialism, the fortunes of which will be instructive, perhaps edifying to follow."

A NOBLE WOMAN.

Florence Nightingale was 76 years old on May 15. Born in Florence, she was named after her birth place. Her father was William Nightingale, of Enniskerry Park, Hampshire, and her mother, Fanny, was the daughter of a younger daughter, was, with her sister, Frances Parthenope, who married Sir Harry Verney and died in 1890, his co-heiress. Besides the historic part Florence Nightingale played in the Crimean war, she will always be known as the friend and supporter of the Government's Institution in Harley street, London, and as the writer of many valuable books on nursing. The testimonial fund of £50,000 contributed by a grateful country after the Crimean campaign in honor of the "Lady with the Lamp," Miss Nightingale handed over to the foundation of a nurses' training and employment institution. Delicate health has made Miss Nightingale live quietly for many years, but she has ever been at work for the good of others.—Chicago Tribune.

WOMEN'S WEAKNESSES.

"I do not understand," said the philosopher.

"What is bothering you now?" inquired the other.

"If a man is two hours late in arriving at home his wife raises a row, while if he is gone two years she will give him a royal welcome. Women are peculiar."

An Aching Back

The kidneys cannot talk, and the only way they have of letting us know when they are sick is by making our backs ache. If it is only a little ache the kidneys are only a little sick. If it is a big pain-destraining, nerve-racking ache the kidneys are more than a little sick. In either case it must be attended to at once.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys, make them strong and healthy, stop aching backs in every case. Here is a sample case: Mr. Charles M. Allen, 412 Richmond street, London, Bank of Commerce Building says:

"I have been ailing for the past eight months with kidney troubles. I had severe pain across the back and between the shoulders, neuralgic pains across my eyes, so much so that I thought something was the matter with my eyes that would compel the use of spectacles. I felt unaccountably tired and weak all the time, seemed to have no ambition, my head felt heavy and my sleep was poor. I did not rest; sometimes I could not sleep one hour all night. The urine was red-colored and unatural in flow, and I had scarcely any appetite. I felt really miserable day in and day out."

"The one box of Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Strong's drug store gave immediate relief from all depressing troubles. I am now free from all of the terrible symptoms which afflicted me. I feel splendid, have vigorous health, have gained four pounds in weight, and am certain that no other remedy could have produced the effect which Doan's Kidney Pills have in my case. For I had previously tried almost every other remedy on the list."

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paragon, Batesman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher, that it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

A WOMAN SOLDIER.

She Has Served Gallantly in the French Army Many Years.

A woman 73 years of age is an active and useful member of the French army. She has been wounded many times, seriously in several cases, but appears to have many years of activity still before her.

Mother Ibrahim, as this remarkable old woman is called, is the cantiniere of the Second Zouaves. She has followed her regiment all over the world, sharing in all its perils and hardships. She exposed herself to fire as cheerfully as the bravest soldier in the regiment.

The cantinieres in the French army are famous in song and story, and their services are often very valuable.
They carry water and other kinds of drink and refreshments, and many a wounded soldier has owed his life to their aid.

It is peculiarly interesting to call attention to this old woman just now, because many people are under the impression that women have only begun to do extraordinary work within the past few years. The venerable cantiniere was hard at work tramping round the world and taking her part in battles years and years before the present craze about women's achievements was heard of. It will be found on examination that in all ages some women have been in the thick of doing strange things.

Mother Ibrahim was born in Egypt, the daughter of a soldier of the great Napoleon. She married a non-commissioned officer of Turcos, who is now dead.

In appearance she is small, upright and wrinkled. Her eyes are black and lively, her hair is white, but thick. Her whole bearing is military and alert.

Her usual uniform includes a zouave turban and very loose zouave trousers. She was therefore a pioneer of the bloomer movement, although no one thought of her as a great dress reformer.

She also wears the red ribbon of the cross of the Legion of Honor, the military medal, and the medals of the Crimea, Italy and Tunis, all of which have been conferred upon her.

She has so many wounds that she can hardly count them. Nine she thinks they number. Bullets, sabers and bayonets have inflicted them. She has lost three ribs.

She was present at the assault of the Malakoff in the Crimea, at the battle of Solferino, and took part in the Mexican campaign.

After the battle of Sedan a German soldier smashed her left shoulder while she was attempting to rejoin some men of her regiment, who were being taken prisoners to Berlin. In Tonquin she was picked up, with her arm terribly mangled by three knife cuts. The surgeons wanted to ampu-tate it, but she refused, and today she can guide a bicycle with it.

After an accident at Toulon, where she lives, she had to go to Paris to undergo an operation. The evening she left the hospital she was received by President Faure, to whom she presented the barrel of the zouave regiment, for which he had asked.—New York Journal.

The Poor Voter Tomorrow.

The proudest now is but my peer,
The highest not more high;
Today of all the weary year, A king of men am I.
Today alike are great and small,
The nameless and the known;
My palace is the people's hall,
The ballot box my throne.

Who serves today upon the list Beside the served shall stand; Alike the brown and wrinkled fist, The gloved and dainty hand.
The rich is level with the poor,
The weak is strong today, And sleekest broadcloth counts no more Than homespun frock of gray.

Today let pomp and vain pretense My stubborn right abide;
I set a plain man's common sense Against the pedant's pride.
Today shall simple manhood try The strength of gold and land;
The wide world has not wealth to buy The power in my right hand.

While there's a grief to seek redress, Or balance to adjust, Where weighs our living manhood less Than Mammon's vilest dust—While there's a right to need my vote, A wrong to sweep away,
Up, clouted knee and ragged coat!
A man's a man today.
John G. Whittier.

London and Environs

The summer girl, the biking girl, Are drifting toward oblivion sad;
For now, in life's uncertain whirl, The candidate becomes the fad.

President Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, General Manager of the party are expected here in a very few days.

—Misses Lillian and Marjorie Marchant, of Detroit, Mich., are holidaying in this city, the guests of their cousin, Miss Mae Glover, Oxford street.

—Mr. Ed. Kennedy, formerly with Messrs. Cairncross & Lawrence chemists, this city, was here yesterday. He is now in business on Sparks street, Ottawa, the firm being Miller & Kennedy.

—The little daughter of Mr. C. W.
Graves, of Pall Mall street, was playing on the stairway of the house on Saturday morning, when she slipped and fell. She struck on her face, cutting her lip so badly that several stitches were required.

—A detailed delay train at Hyde Park delayed the G. T. R. west-bound expresses for an hour last evening.
The accident was caused by a truck becoming loose. Two cars were turned upside down, and a couple of tramps on board had narrow escapes.

—At the closing exercises of the Loretto Academy at Hamilton on Friday, the silver medal, for competition in third-class instrumental music, was obtained by Miss Katie O'Meara, of London. This young lady also secured a Provincial art certificate for shading from the round.

—Robert, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Scott, died Friday afternoon as the result of an operation.
The little fellow had lost the use of his legs for about a year, but two of the city's best surgeons thought the cutting of some cords behind the knees would bring about the use of the limbs. The operation was performed on Thursday evening, but the boy never regained consciousness.

—A station, 50 feet long by 24 feet wide, will be erected at the railway loop in Springbank Park. The work is to be completed before Domini-Day. The ponds in the park are also to be fenced in immediately by the company. This was not called for under the bylaw, but Mayor Little and Commissioner Cowan made an arrangement with Manager Carr whereby, in return for the work, the company will not be called upon to fence in a portion of their track in the park.

—A garden party was given at the residence of Mr. James Maxwell, East London, on Thursday evening, under the direction of the Y. P. S. C. E. of Gore Methodist Church, which was very well attended and proved a complete success. The North End Citizens' Band, under the leadership of Mr. J. Clare, 738 William street, provided excellent and appropriate music for the evening.

The inmates of the Methodist parsonage at St. John's, Arva, were pleasantly surprised on Wednesday evening last by a large number of the aggregation, who assembled to wish their highly-esteemed pastor, Rev.
Wm. Penhall, and family good-bye.
A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation of a handsome dinner set, accompanied by a neat and touching address, read by Miss Hawkins, the presentation being made by Miss Flo Lawrence. Mr. Penhall made an appropriate reply, after which refreshments were served, and a pleasant time spent in music and social intercourse. Mr. Penhall is stationed at Corunna, and has the heart-felt good wishes of the St. John's people in his new field of labor.

THE ELECTION RETURNS.
The Canadian Pacific Railway Company's Telegraph has issued a convenient pamphlet by which everyone can keep his own record of the results of the Dominion elections. Pages are devoted to each Province with blanks for entering the name and party of the representative elected. The results of the elections of 1878 and 1891 are printed alongside for comparison. The last page is prepared for a general summary. The nominations for every constituency in the Dominion are entered opposite their names.

A number of the leading colored electors of London have called at the "Advertiser" office to say that they have been asked to vote for Mr. Beattie, and that they have flatly refused.
They point out that being build it will election the colored people of London were caricatured, lampooned and ridiculed by Mr. Beattie's friends in a manner that outraged their dignity and self-respect. They say they cannot forget this. A prominent colored voter of the third ward adds that he has known Mr. Beattie for 25 years, but that the latter had never recognized him until he (Mr. Beattie) became a candidate. He prefers a man of the people, like Mr. Hyman, who is the same at all times and to all men.

CONVICTS BUILD A PRISON.
Helena, June 22.—The State of Montana is about to begin the erection of an additional prison on the grounds at Deer Lodge, on which the penitentiary now stands. The new structure will accommodate 250 convicts. A peculiar fact in connection with the undertaking is that the prison will be built by convict labor, and that many of the men who will help build it will subsequently become occupants of it.
Were it not able to employ convict labor, the State would have to go without this additional prison for some time, at least, as funds are scarce in the treasury.
