

VICTORY FOR RUSS PEOPLE; GRANTED REAL PARLIAMENT

Nation Is Given Almost Complete Suffrage and Broadest Civil Rights—Witte as Premier-President.

MANIFESTO MEANS THE PASSING OF THE AUTOCRACY

Imperial Edict Grants Civil Liberty, the Freedom of Speech and Press, Extension of Electoral Rights—Legislative Authority for National Assembly.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 30.—The Russian autocracy is at an end. Nicholas, under the unanimous advice of his ministers and under the pressure of the passive revolt of his whole empire, has surrendered his autocratic powers and granted a constitutional government. Thus disappears the last absolute monarchy among civilized peoples, and thus popular liberty wins its culminating victory in the history of mankind. The concession comes unwillingly. It is, in fact, the last desperate effort to save the crown itself for the Romanoff dynasty. Whether it will suffice in the present supreme crisis of national rebellion cannot yet be said. It is complete enough in promises. All ordinary political liberties and genuine representative government by a national Legislature are granted. A constitution itself is not formulated, but the power to draft one is delegated to a duma, to be elected by the suffrages of all classes.

This should restore peace throughout the empire. The only danger is that popular passion is so inflamed and the perception of the complete paralysis of the Government so widespread that the masses may rush into grave excesses and demand the complete sweeping away of the existing regime. The novel sense of power suddenly seizing the populace, long held under the heel of repression, brought terrible consequences to France under remarkably similar circumstances.

The Old Order Passes.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 30.—Tonight the autocracy of the Romanoffs and the old order of things cease to exist in Russia.

Emperor Nicholas has surrendered, and Count Witte comes into power as minister-president, with an imperial mandate, which will enable him to convert the farcical national assembly into a real legislative body, elected by greatly extended suffrage, and to confer upon the people fundamental civil liberty, including free speech.

These welcome tidings reached St. Petersburg shortly before 6 o'clock this evening.

Count Witte had spent the day with the Emperor at Peterhof, going over the final draft of the manifesto to which he insisted that certain minor modifications be made, and before taking the train for St. Petersburg, he telephoned to a friend that the Emperor had affixed his signature, and that the imperial mandate, comprising the conditions upon which he had agreed to accept office, was in his pocket.

These include freedom of the press, the right of assembly, and the immunity of the persons, including the right of habeas corpus.

Dealing with the provisions of the manifesto, the Emperor Nicholas says: "The Government should abstain from any interference with elections to the duma and keep in sincere desire for the realization of my ukase of Dec. 25, 1904. It must maintain the prestige of the duma and have confidence in its labors and in no way resist its decisions so long as they are not inconsistent with Russia's historic greatness.

"It is necessary to respect the ideals of the greater majority of society and not the echoes of noisy groups and factions, two often unstable. It is important to secure the reform of the council of the empire on an electoral principle.

"I believe that in the exercise of the executive power the following principles should be embodied:

"First—Straightforwardness and sincerity in the confirmation of civil liberty and in providing guarantees for its maintenance.

"Second—A tendency in the direction of the abolition of exclusive laws.

"Third—The co-ordination of the activity of all organs of the Government.

"Fourth—Avoidance of repressive measures in respect of proceedings which do not openly menace society or the state. Such resistance being based upon law and moral unity.

"Confidence must be placed in the political tact of Russian society. It is impossible that society should desire a condition of anarchy which would threaten in addition to all the horrors of civil strife the dismemberment of the empire."

The Imperial Manifesto.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 30.—The following is the text of the imperial manifesto:

"We, Nicholas the Second, by the grace of God, emperor and autocrat of all the Russias, grand duke of Finland, etc., declare to all our faithful subjects that the troubles and agitation in our capital and in numerous other places fill our heart with excessive pain and sorrow.

"The happiness of the Russian sovereign is indissolubly bound up with the happiness of our people and the sorrow of our people is the sorrow of the sovereign. From the present disorders may arise great national disruption. They menace the integrity and unity of our empire.

"The supreme duty imposed upon us by our sovereign requires us to efface ourselves and use all the force and reason at our command to hasten in securing the unity and co-ordination of the power of the Central Government and to assure the success of measures for pacification in all circles of public life which are essential to the well-being of our people.

"We, therefore, direct our Government to carry out our inflexible will in the following manner:

Complete Freedom.

"First—To extend to the population the immutable foundations of civil liberty, based on the real inalienability of person, freedom of conscience, speech, union and association.

"Second—Without suspending the already ordered elections to the state duma, to invite to participation in the duma, so far as the limited time before the convocation of the duma will permit, those classes of the population now completely deprived of electoral rights, leaving the ultimate development of the principle of the electoral right in general to the newly-established legislative order of things.

"Third—To establish as an unchangeable rule that no law shall be enforceable without the approval of the state duma, and that it shall be possible for the elected of the people to exercise real participation in the supervision of the legality of the acts of the authorities appointed by us.

"We appeal to all faithful sons of Russia to remember their duty towards the fatherland, to aid in terminating these unprecedented troubles and to apply all their forces in co-operation with us to the restoration of calm and peace upon our natal soil.

"Given at Peterhof, Oct. 30, in the twentieth year of our reign. (Signed) "NICHOLAS."

Mikado Breaks Precedent.

Tokio, Oct. 31.—The members of the diplomatic corps, having requested an audience for the purpose of presenting felicitations on the conclusion of peace, the Mikado received them today, and afterward invited them to luncheon, together with the imperial princes, ministers of state and Baron Komura's suite. The action of the Mikado in inviting the diplomatic corps to luncheon on other than a state occasion is almost without precedent.

FIREMEN HAVE A CLOSE CALL FROM INJURY AT TRUCK DRILL

Cable on Aerial Truck Snaps When Ladders Are Sixty Feet in the Air.

The breaking of the cable on the large aerial truck gave Fire Chief Clark and several of his men a close call for their lives about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

It is a part of the chief's methods to keep the men familiar with the working of the different apparatus by means of frequent drills. Yesterday afternoon he ordered out the aerial truck on Clarence street, and gave orders to run the ladders up on to the building of A. Talbot & Co.

Foreman Case and Truck Foreman McDonald were on the platform on the truck raising the ladder. When it touched the top of the four-story structure the chief and his men ascended. The chief had the chief taken his foot of the ladder when the cable snapped with a report like a pistol, and the upper section of the ladder, which was of which was 60 feet in the air, shot down.

It was all over in an instant. The upper section of the ladder fell to the ground, and the lower section, which was of which was 60 feet in the air, shot down.

The chief and his men were left on the roof, peering over the side of the building with the aid of ordinary fire ladders.

Had the break occurred at a fire when the ladder had been raised to the top of the building, the consequences would assuredly have been serious.

The practice drills inaugurated by the chief generally show up the defects in the apparatus when it is not in use, and the men today are "thanking their stars" that the break took place when the ladder was not being used.

CHILD FATALLY INJURED AT BYRON

A Son of Mr. and Mrs. Sharp Is Thrown From Rig—Died in Two Hours.

William Edward, the 17-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sharp, was thrown out of a buggy during a runaway yesterday morning, and died three hours later. The accident occurred near Byron.

Mr. and Mrs. Sharp, who live at Hyde Park, came to the city early yesterday morning, and on their way started for a visit to Mrs. Sharp's mother at Byron. When about a mile from the village the horse became frightened at something on the roadside, and started to runaway. The animal began to kick, and soon smashed the buggy to pieces.

The rig hit a stump, and the occupants were thrown out. The child's head struck the ground with terrific force, but the parents escaped without injury.

The little sufferer was removed to a neighbor's house, and Dr. George Wilson, summoned, endeavored to do for the child, and it died in a couple of hours.

GLOOM LIFTS FROM RUSSIAN CAPITAL

Flags and Bunting Fill the Streets of St. Petersburg.

GREAT REJOICING AT WARSAW

Strikers Are Returning to Work by Thousands and Troops Have Been Withdrawn From Streets.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—12:20 p.m. The Russian capital blossomed out with flags and bunting today. All the troops were withdrawn from the streets and the city presented almost its normal appearance.

The people had suddenly disappeared. Workmen by the thousands flocked back to the shops and factories, without awaiting the permission of the strike committee. The authorities did all in their power to encourage the spirit of rejoicing over the newly-granted liberty.

It was by order of Gen. Trepoft that the regulation decorations were hung out; the troops were withdrawn to their barracks, and the police were instructed to permit the people to vent their feelings.

Last night's demonstrations continued almost until morning. A procession of 5,000 persons with red flags paraded the Nevsky Prospect until 4 o'clock, singing the "Marseillaise," and they then moved down Litana street to the Russian battle, at the corner of Shpalerna street, where for an hour they made the welkin ring with revolutionary songs.

Immediately opposite stood the well-filled Cosack barracks, and the crowd took particular delight in howling maledictions in that direction.

Strike Going to Pieces.

The Social Democrats, however, are urging their followers not to be tricked by the Government, but to keep up the fight.

Count Witte has been showered with congratulations upon his personal triumph, but to all felicitations he says: "Wait. Reserve your congratulations until I have succeeded."

After seeing the Associated Press correspondent last night Count Witte worked until 2 in the morning, and was up again at 7 o'clock. At 9 he began a series of consultations with his friends.

Such news as comes from the interior today is distinctly better. The provincial authorities, through machinery which in that respect is perfect, spread the news of the grant of the constitution from house to house, and this morning the strike appears everywhere to be going to pieces.

Rejoicing at Warsaw.

Warsaw, Oct. 31.—The imperial manifesto granting a constitution to Russia made a deep impression on the people here, and there is universal rejoicing, in which the army officers joined. The military patrols have been withdrawn.

An Enormous Concession.

Paris, Oct. 31.—The manifesto of Emperor Nicholas promising liberty of conscience, speech and meeting is considered generally by the press here to be more liberal than had been expected. His majesty's declaration relative to the extension of the suffrage for the duma, without collaboration, is regarded as an enormous concession, practically abolishing the autocracy.

This, it is thought will be a great factor in bringing about the conclusion of the popular agitation. The Echo de Paris' St. Petersburg correspondent says a report is circulated that the departure of the foreign bankers, who were negotiating a new loan, hastened the Emperor's decision.

Mob Turns Back Train.

Berlin, Oct. 31.—A dispatch to the Lokal Anzeiger from Katowitz says that a general strike has broken out in the districts of Sosnowitz and Dombrowa, in Russian Poland. The operations in the Ales coal and iron works went out at noon. A passenger train tried to go from Katowitz yesterday afternoon, but was chased across the frontier by a howling mob and compelled to return.

Pius Was Pleased.

Rome, Oct. 31.—General satisfaction is expressed here at the manifesto of Emperor Nicholas granting Russia a constitution, and with the position taken by Count Witte. The hope is expressed that peace is re-established, and that Russia will become prosperous, there being a community of interests, especially in foreign politics, between Russia and Italy.

King Victor Emmanuel learned the news on a railroad train after he had left Genoa, and was most pleased.

The Pope heard the news this morning from Cardinal Merry Del Val, the papal secretary of state, and exclaimed: "May this mean a new and happy life for Russia."

Fractured His Skull.

Walkerville, Oct. 31.—Orion Butler, a young man, employed in the Kerring works, was seriously injured by being struck a terrible blow on the head by a planer, which he attempted to pass under while the machine was in operation. He is at Hotel Dieu, Windsor. Dr. Hoare says his skull is fractured, but he will recover.

Judgment in Saunby Case To Be Given Tomorrow

No Matter What Its Effect, City Will Not Entertain Idea of Removing the Dam at Springbank.

It is announced that the Privy Council will sit in London, England, tomorrow, when it is expected the full text of the judgment in the now famous suit of Saunby vs. The Water Commissioners and the City of London will be made public.

Since July last the city has been aware of the fact that the Privy Council had decided in favor of the plaintiff, but the city has been in the dark as to what amount of damages the city will be called upon to pay—in fact, as to just what the judgment means to the city.

It is known, however, that the city must alleviate the conditions which have caused the injury to Mr. Saunby's mill. This means that the Springbank dam must be removed, or lowered to such an extent that the flow of water at his mill will not be affected, or he must buy a new mill, or the plaintiff, or come to some agreement with him on the subject.

Around the city half no one entertains the idea of doing away with the dam, as it saves the city some thing in the neighborhood of $25 a day for coal, which would be consumed were the hydraulic pumps abolished.

To The Advertiser today Mayor Campbell said that the city is waiting to see what the judgment means before making a move. When the city solicitor is in full possession of the facts, then the city will be able to decide whether it will be better to pay the damages and costs or to buy out the old mill property on the north branch.

In this connection, Ald. Gillen favors the purchase of the property. He points out that the contract with the London Electric Company for the lighting of the city expires in 1908, practically two years from now, and he thinks the city should secure the mill and be prepared to do its own lighting, when the private company's contract is up, at a greatly reduced cost. "If the city can run its own water works, it can certainly run its own lighting plant," he said today.

For one will heartily favor the purchase of the Saunby mill, as I think it would be a good thing if the city could end for all time the litigation over the Springbank dam.

CLAIMED BODY AND TOOK MONEY

Sharp Trick by Which Drowned Sailor's Pocketbook Was Secured.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 31.—When Capt. McDonald was lost last month with his steamer the Savana on Lake Superior he had $1,500, but no money was found on his body. Since then three Bayfield men have been arrested, with wet and mutilated bills in their pockets. Among the sailors was John McLacklin, of Watford, Ont., upon whose body $150 was found. A woman, who claimed to be a relative, claimed this, and cared for the body. McLacklin's mother now writes from Watford that she knows of no one who had any right to claim the body. The Bayfield authorities are looking into the matter.

IS A RECORD-BREAKING FEAT

Made Ascent Second Time Within a Few Hours of First Climb, With Nothing to Eat But a Bun.

Paris, Oct. 31. — All Paris is ringing with the name of a girl; the press sings her praises, and her pretty face looks down from the pages of the illustrated papers. The girl is the first to have been named the other of the great French stage. The heroine of all this notice is Miss Edith Lee Baker.

Miss Baker came to Paris several years ago to cultivate her voice. In the winter she studies seriously and spends her summers in Switzerland, where her mountain climbing exploits have become famous. Like all Alpinists, Miss Baker has acquired a taste for something that nobody else had done, and she has done it. She has made a record that has astonished the Brethren, which is to ascend Mont Blanc, a mountain which is 15,775 feet high. She has not hut 3,000 feet below, rested a few hours and returned again to the summit.

by daylight. Never in the history of Alpine climbing has such a feat been performed. From the time that she started from Zermatt, where she was staying with her parents, to the time that she returned after her extraordinary climb, Miss Baker managed to accomplish over 22,000 feet of mountain climbing in 24 hours. It is no wonder that the fame of her prowess should have preceded her to Paris, and that society should have dubbed her," La

A press representative called upon
Miss Baker at her home in the Parc de Sevilla as soon as she returned from her holiday and asked for her latest accomplishment, and I accounted for the snows, and here it is: "I was sitting by saying that the minute I caught a glimpse of snow, I felt that I should never get it right up amongst the peaks, and so I started out on a reliable guide. I started out. The higher I went the more wonderful I found the snows. I could not have imagined. When I am up amongst the eternal snows it seems as if I were in a new world. I feel that I am now or trouble could ever touch me again. Perfect peace and happiness are mine."

I went up the Unfrau and the Schöngelhorn and several others. But I was very weary, so, I tried to make the climb very easy. I thought I tried to think of something new in the Alps is to do something new in the Alps. I did a lot of thinking, until one night I had a glimpse of the snows under the peaks. I was to go to the top. It was to make a moonlight ascent. We were standing at attention.

...to Perrien, my guide: "We will climb the Breithorn by moonlight." Everybody said it had never been done before; that it was terribly dangerous to be in the mountains at night; that one could mistake a crevice for a shadow, and one way and another that the

However, I wasn't to be discouraged. We reached the Theodule Cabane in the afternoon and I had a good rest, though there wasn't a bit tired.

At 9 o'clock, on a perfect moonlit night, we started for the summit of the north-eastern. It was 11:30 when we got to the very top. The sight was wonderful. Absolutely indescribable. The moon shone with almost blinding brilliancy in a flawless sky. I could see the entire of the Valais Alps, the Italian Alps, and faintly in the extreme distance the Bernese Oberland. The weather was lovely. Justly we went back to the station at 3:30. I had a 30-minute layover. I was surprised that going up was plain and easy. I was surprised that coming down. When we got back to the Bernese I as nearly fainted and perishing with thirst I had to go forward to a good meal and some piping-hot beer. I really could not eat the dreadful stuff which I bought me. "I'll wait," said I. I went back to Zermat. And I did. I had a bun in my coat pocket and ate it up, and that's all I had the whole day. I was a little disappointed that it kept me up. But I did truly survive from Illust. I. P. 1911.

the day was as perfect as the night before. It was 10 o'clock in the morning when we stood upon the exact spot where we had camped in the moonlight ten and a half hours before. This time the mountains instead of being a mass of wonderful shades of blue and white, with deeper blue shadows shadowed into coal black, were tinged with pink. I cannot say which was the more wonderful sight. The view by day or by night, but the latter of being so rare, was the rarest.

hour as I had been told. I was before, there was great excitement in the town. Nobody had ever thought of visiting the Breithorn before at night, and, therefore, there should be a great deal of interest in the excursion. The calculation as to whether it would be successful. It is over 11,000 feet from the summit of the Breithorn to the summit of the Breithorn. Excursions are much more fatiguing than those by day. I left the Breithorn. I felt the moonlight much more than the daylight. I thought I did it first. At night one does not have the irritating effect of sun to unsteady one. The mountains are happy. See the mountains. They are the best cure in the world for the blues.

Public Debt of the County Council Increases by Leaps and Bounds.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Sir Edwin Cornwall, who was knighted last May for his services as chairman of the London county council, has rather startled Londoners by the recital of some of the enormous figures in his budget speech.

In twenty-one years the debt of the London county council has increased from £87,000 to $223,101,330 and the annual interest payable on the loan is more than twice as much as that of Norway and Sweden combined. The London county council has deserved well of Londoners, and the body that the government created which carried through its policy of being big, he says. It is a great thing to combine the London county council with the London borough councils.

COST TO GOVERN LONDON.

Public Debt of the County Council Increases by Leaps and Bounds.

London, Oct. 30.—Sir Edwin Cornwall, who was knighted the other day for his services as chairman of the London County Council, has rather startled Londoners by the recital of some of the stupendous figures in his budget speech. Within sixteen years the debt of the County Council has increased from $87,000 to $3,320,000, and the amount expended on the local government of London is greater than that of Norway and Sweden combined, double that of Rome, and nearly as much as that of Denmark. In spite of these figures, Sir Edwin, because of them, Sir Edwin well claimed that it is a greater body than the government, which created it thought it was a body that the members of it, close as they are to its work, yet realize, that it needs the aid of the people and it is that it has also a greater problem before it, namely, how to find the money for 5,000,000 people is a possible question of self-government, and to solve this the noblest body of men in the world is doing nothing from the research men, history men, philosophers and thinkers. It has simply got to find a way of finding the money and the proper property there is needed and the important thing, namely, an efficient body of men to do it.

Sir Edwin's long speech recently was full of interesting facts and suggestions of various opinions. Here is a brief selection:

"To be pretty you must have nice teeth. They must be white and even, and there must be no pair of very red lips."

"White lips mean a bad complexion, and narrow lips mean a bad disposition, and a habit of compressing the mouth, which can be obtained by treating the chin every night with a good skin food, and you must have a pair of clear, soft eyes."

"The eyebrows must be nice. If one is too good-looking, and to make them more beautiful one must treat them every night with a hair grower." The Japanese have very nice eyebrows; they devote a great deal of time to them.

"The face should be slightly oval-shaped, something like an egg, with a small part of the egg at the chin. Look at my face and see if it is egg-shaped. If it is round, reduce it a little. If it is square you must massage along the lines of the chin to take away the square lines. If it is long and narrow, square the jaw bones."

"And don't forget that you must have dimples, for dimples are the style and you cannot be a pretty woman without them."

COST TO GOVERN LONDON

The Public Debt of the City Council Increases by Leaps and Bounds.

London, Oct. 26.—Sir Edwin Cornwall, who was knighted the other day for his services as chairman of the London city council, has rather startled Londoners by the recital of some of the stupendous figures in his budget speech.

The city council's share of the debt of the metropolitan council increased from $87,000,000 last year to $223,100,000 this year, or more than double the amount expended on the local government.

The increase is greater than that of Norway and Sweden, and four times that of Romania. In spite of these figures or perhaps because of them, Sir Edwin claimed that the city council has been "very economical," and is a greater body than the governing body of being.

He said that it thought it was its duty to meet the needs of the people that the members of it, close as they are to their work, yet realize.

"It is, in short, what the people want, and the needs of the people have made it, namely, to prove that the greatest problem before us is how to solve the housing problem. It has no exorbitant cost, and to solve this nothing has come from the researches of philosophers, and the only thing needed to solve it by itself, and to do so properly, there is needed one all-embracing organization, an efficient organization."

Sir Edwin's long speech recently was summarized in terse, laconic and suggestive expressions of opinion. A brief selection:

In ten years ago the death rate in London was 24.9 per 1,000; now it is 12. That means a saving of about 39,900 deaths each year, and that saving of children is the saddest fact shown by the statistics.

One child in every seven born in London dies before reaching the age of two months.

A hundred and fifty million gallons of water are consumed in London each week. A new scheme of food relief is to be inaugurated at a cost of $2,500,000. The council is not responsible for the cost of education here by the London school board. It is the year to educate a child in London. This year to educate a child in London, this year to educate a child in London," he said Sir Edwin, "with the rare exception of New York."

HOT PACE FOR BRITONS | FALL CATARRH

London, Oct. 30.—Charles T. Yerkes is sick in London, entirely recovered from a mysterious illness which caused such a sensation last July. He has been in London for some time.

"Upon his mysterious illness, however, Dr. Yerkes talked freely. 'I kept it quiet because I saw visions of Sears in the newspaper and guessed that I should be accused of being something of that sort. As a matter of fact, I had been working too hard I broke down.'"

His Cause for Shema

It may be incredible to people in the United States, but there are scores of thousands of people living in the north London who have never seen the sea, and positively millions in the districts who have never been to the West End. SNAP-SHOTS AT VARIOUS SPORTS.

Although the physical characteristics of the Indian are not much different from those of the pale-faced men, yet it is remarkable that along the line of football redskins are assisted in playing the great college game by a number of peculiar phases of their natural development that are not possessed by the average college boy. Frank Morrell, President, the wonderful Indian tackle athlete, who is playing quarter-back on this year's Indian football team, and who is a ten-second runner, jumps 23 feet 6 inches and punts 70 yards, has feet which are long, flat and bunched with muscles, upon which ordinary knobs and sprains have no effect. One of the most eminent authorities has stated that a pound of Indian muscle, so far as endurance and tenacity are concerned, is worth one and a half pounds of white man's muscle.

Arthur Duffy, the fastest sprinter that ever ran on theinder path, has admitted his crackness, and his name will be a blank as far as sprinting history goes. He will not only be declared professional, but his records will be expunged from the rolls. It is a pitiful ending of a splendid career. Still, we have heard no one sit up and roar the A. A. U. for its action in this matter. That organization is not the O. H. A., however.

Manager McGraw, of the New Yorks, declares that the Giants will practically have the same line-up next year as they had the past season. Several experiments will be tried out in the spring, but their chances of landing a regular place with the team are exceedingly slim.

Marvin Hart, the gift champion, is talking some more, and now wants to fight O'Brien. It is a safe bet that O'Brien takes him on, "foxy one" will give Marvin a merry go. We really think he can beat O'Brien.

Maud Keswick's second heat in the Tennessee at Lexington (2:00%) put her at the head of the new 2:10 pacers of 1905. She falls from Canada and is a daughter of Keswick (2:18%).—Cincinnati Inquirer.

A college team in the west scored 142 points in 32 minutes' actual play. Almost as bad as what the Tigers did to "our boys" in Hamilton.

Our juniors are getting into good condition, and expect to defeat Petrolia on Saturday in handy fashion. A good crowd is going up to the Oil Town on the special train.

If his past life had not bobbed up inopportunely, Pugilist Dave Barry might have been the hero of a great educational institution.

As he has no diamonds to lose, and as it would be dangerous to submit himself to another attack of press agent's pneumonia, Dan Patch was forced to invent some new device to keep his name warm during the winter months.—Chicago Tribune.

The Toronto papers say the Tigers played "dopey" football in Toronto. They must have scored only 37 points against the Victorias. Possibly they are becoming a bit stale, and the machine is not working according to the advance notices. The series for the Dominion championship promises to be a grand one. Watch out for the Rough Riders. They are pretty fast scorers themselves.

Playing according to the reports, with his elongated clubs, former National and British Golf Champion Travis last week set a new record of 72 for the 6,444 yards' course of the Garden City Golf Club. Some of his recent defeats in big tournaments have been attributed to his adoption of the longer shafts on his wooden clubs, but with the doggedness of purpose which made him the great player he is, Travis maintained the even tenor of his way, and finally demonstrated the force of his theory. As soon as it was noted abroad that Travis was using longer clubs, the "cranks" began to follow suit, and lacking the tenacity of the former champion, soon discarded the innovations. All this emphasizes the fact that it is "the man behind the club" that does the work.—Chicago Tribune.

We sometimes wonder if the full-grown man with the flowing ribbons, the decorated cane, and horse voice, thinks it worth while when he picks himself up next morning.

Dundas looks to have the intermediate O. R. F. U. championship clinched. They look as fast as most senior teams in that organization.

COVERPOINT.

LONDON MUST BEAT THE OIL TOWN MEN TO WIN DISTRICT

Boys Confident They Can Do So on Saturday—How the O. R. F. U. Stands.

The football season is now far enough advanced to pick out the winners in all but one or two series. In the senior O. R. F. U. the Tigers are in a class by themselves as far as that organization is concerned. Their record has been remarkable. In a few weeks football fans will be given an opportunity to see how the champions of the east, the Rough Riders, the champions of the west, the Dominion championship games will be watched with deep interest. In the intermediate series, Dundas has won its district easily with Petrolia, winners of series 2, and Brockville, winners of series 3, Dundas looks to have the championship of the intermediate clinched.

The junior series has not reached an ending as yet. Stratford has won two districts. Galt won its district, and the rest will be finished this week. London, by winning on Saturday, will win this district. Our boys can do it, and they expect to run up a good score at Petrolia.

In the inter-collegiate, there is nothing but Toronto University. The team that represents the Blue and White is the strongest in years, and looks good enough to take the Dominion championship.

GARDNER AND SULLIVAN

ARE TO GO 25 ROUNDS

They Will Furnish the Main Attraction for November—Terry May Meet Atwell.

San Francisco, Oct. 30.—The November pugilistic attraction in San Francisco will be a twenty-five round contest between Jimmy Gardner and Mike (Twins) Sullivan. It is the first time since existing boxing regulations have been in force that the matchmakers have signed men for a go of longer duration than 20 rounds, and it looks as though the desire is to have the rival Massachusetts sluggers battle it out to the bitter end. Maybe it is due to the fact that Gardner and Sullivan fought a couple of dead heats already that is causing the promoters to scheme for a finish fight this trip.

McGovern MAY MEET ATTELL.

Buffalo, Oct. 30.—A fight between Terry McGovern and Abe Attell now who is in Philadelphia, Sam Harris, Billy Day, who is Abe's manager, that he and Joe Humphreys would arrange a match for twenty-five rounds with The Terrible in the event of not being able to date up with Battling Nelson.

"That suits us fine," said Day last night. "We are going to give our attention to McGovern as soon as we return from England. Harris says he will bet $10,000. Well, that suits us also. Abe is going to the show in England—that's a cinch; and when he gets back home he will give his time to all of the little fellows in his class who have enough standing to interest him."

Many men stoop to conquer and some of them stoop low.

TOLEDO DEAL JUST

A JOKE, THEY SAY

Offer for an American League Franchise Merely a Piece of Humour

—Jolly Tag a Fan.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 30.—While baseball magnates throughout the middle west are discussing the alleged effort of a Detroit, Rudolph, by name, to purchase the Toledo club and its American League franchise, several practical jokers in this city are quickly chucking in their sleeves at the unexpected success of a deep laid plot.

Rudolph is locally known as the prize baseball fanatic of the city. He is an employe of a local greenhouse, but has always been "bug" on baseball and has counted at various times the position of chief router, popcorn seller, purveyor of score cards and players' valet. Several jokers, one of whom is a wealthy hotelier, have been quick to jump on the bandwagon and have joined Rudolph into the earnest belief that they were on the point of purchasing the Toledo club for him and promising him $25,000 for the franchise.

Rudolph has ever since kept the telephone wires lit between here and Cincinnati, where Garry Hermann, owner of the Toledo franchise, lives, and has had interviews at length in several Cincinnati papers.

Stories have been written claiming that the Detroit club, behind the offer, that a twelve-club league for the big clubs was proposed, that President of the Detroit club was starting a baseball team and similar trash.

Local people are expecting a lively time when Rudolph discovers that he has been imposed upon. In the meantime, failing to secure consideration of his $25,000 offer, Rudolph is trying to get the Detroiters to back him to a league.

GAME'S RIGHT; LEAVE IT ALONE; PLEA FOR EXISTING FOOTBALL

Season Half Over, and There Has Been No Great Number of Accidents.

Says the Buffalo Courier: Half of the football season is now over and yet there has been no noticeable impression made upon the game by reason of the much-talked-of "reform movement."

And it may be for the best that such is the case. There is no doubt but that a great amount of criticism has been made against the game without warring done any good. It has come largely from a class of people who do not know whereof they speak; people, few of whom understand the game, and fewer of whom have ever played it.

Very few really serious injuries have been made against the game without warring done any good. It has come largely from a class of people who do not know whereof they speak; people, few of whom understand the game, and fewer of whom have ever played it.

FITZ SAYS HE IS STILL CHAMPION

The Old Man Claims That Jefferies Turned Title Over to Him.

New York, Oct. 30.—Although too busy to engage in the fighting about the present time, on account of his theatrical engagements, Bob Fitzsimmons believes that he has as much right to that honor as any man, and he says that he will be ready to defend the title at the proper time.

In a recent interview Fitzsimmons said: "The people are overlooking one thing. I am not a fighter. I am a champion. I am not a fighter. I am a champion. I am not a fighter. I am a champion."

SAYS CHINAMEN KILL WHITE WIVES

Accusation of Spouse of a New York Celestial.

TELLS OF BRUTAL MURDERS

Flees From Mott Street to Escape Fate of Her Less Fortunate Companions.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—A woman of the name of Mrs. Gao Sing, the white wife of a Chinaman prominent in New York, passed through this city today and unburdened a most remarkable recital, which is important if true. Here in brief is her own story:

My Christian name is Lucy Rosebury, and my home is at Littleton, W. Va. I went to New York several years ago, very foolishly, as many country girls do, to seek my fortune in that busy and bustling city. I have a fair education, and believed I could find remunerative work. I became acquainted with Wong Gao Sing, who is a distant relative of Tom Lee, who is known as the Mayor of Chinatown. He taught me how to do opium, and while under the influence of that so-called drug I married him. I can speak Chinese like a native, and consequently came into possession of many of the secrets of the Highlanders and other denigrating organizations of Celestials in New York.

It is because of my knowledge of the Chinese language and of their customs that I was compelled to fly from that city, and I determined to return to my people in West Virginia, where I feel that I will be safe. I know that should I return to New York my wife would not be worth a pin, and I was advised by a friendly Chinaman to get away from there as soon as possible, which I did.

You may not believe it, but I have seen the white wives of Chinamen who knew too much killed and their bodies cut up and sent away from that city. The yellow suit case recently found with a woman's torso in it was no doubt the wife of some Chinaman, who had come into possession of some of the dead secrets of their murderous practices and carried as his baggage a dead, during a quarrel with her Mongolian husband, to tell the police all she knew. The dress-suit case is a chopped-up remnant of their victims, who have previously been so badly mutilated that their best friends could not recognize them. The body of a victim, or a part of it, after being packed in the dress-suit case, will be taken by some innocent-looking Chinaman and carried as his baggage on the railroad train to his destination, where he will be assisted in disposing of it by some equally innocent-looking bodyguard, from the scene of the tragedy. It is no wonder, therefore, that the police authorities are mystified in ascertaining clues to the identity of the victims and information concerning the murders.

I have seen four American women disposed of in this manner. They were all the wives of Chinamen, and one of these was known as "Sherry Annie." The Chinaman gave it out that she had been to Boston after her disappearance, but I know that she had been murdered and her body buried either in the back yard or the rear block of a Mott street house. No, 15, I believe, the remains were found disinterred and sent by express to Chicago. Others who were done away with were a girl named Mammie, whom they called "Crazy Mammie," and another who was known as "Hockaway Mary." These girls were heard crying and screaming, and there was the last ever seen heard of them.

It is my candid opinion that if the police would only make the proper effort that the "dress-suit" case mystery will be cleared up and the perpetrators of the act found to be the Mongolian inmates of New York's Chinatown.

"The Chinamen, who are members of the Highlanders' societies boast that they feel the police are afraid of them," they say, "Chinamen never talked." It is because their American wives can talk both English and Chinese, and they are afraid of them, that they are murdered and their bodies disposed of in such manner that the perpetrators of such crimes are never brought to justice.

Mrs. May Gao Sing gave other startling details of the life and operations of the Highlanders in New York's Chinatown, which she declared ought to be investigated by the police of that city. In addition to the four American women who had been murdered to her knowledge, a Japanese woman from San Francisco, who came to New York and married a Chinaman, and was charged with knowing too much, was similarly disposed of.

"When I arrived in Washington," she said, "something seemed to hold me here, and as I regarded my faculties after being debauched with opium by my husband and his friends, I felt that I must tell the American people of the horrors I had witnessed, and to warn my sisters of the fate that overhangs those of them who allow themselves to become the wives of Chinamen. I now feel that I have performed my duty, although it may cost me my life. Yet it will be timely and may save many other lives from the clutches of the Highlanders and from the living death of the opium den."

Mrs. Sing is about 35 years of age, and was reared amid Christian surroundings and influences in West Virginia. She said she is a woman of the world and call a possibly pretty girl, and above the average in intelligence.

ASQUITH ON EMPIRE

Liberal Victory Would Mean Answers to Colonial Questions.

London, Oct. 30.—"The treatment which has been given by the present Government to the question of the Canadian Senate for the abolition of the embargo on the importation of cattle from the Dominion, is an eloquent illustration of the value of ministerial professions for concern for the interests of the colonies."

Empire was the theme of Mr. Asquith at Balfour, one of the little bursts of his effusive constitutionality, and this part a part of it most interesting to the delegates.

Colonial conference was another. This leading Liberal said:

"No conference could be free with a government that had no power, and no views, a government that did not know whether it was free trade or protection."

"That was what he would call a real, fostering of the conference, and disrespectful and almost insulting to the colonies."

"Suppose the conference were held after the next election, and that at that election the Government were returned with a majority. What then, would our representatives say? They would say, according to Balfour: 'Whatever our opinions may be, and probably we agree with you as to fiscal preference, we are not going to carry it into effect until there has been another general election in this country, to which it has been referred, and until there have been decisions in all the colonies to ratify the decisions of their representatives."

This was a "ridiculous position," it means that for years to come the question whether this great country was to continue a free trade country or to remain in abeyance, a position most injurious to the interests of British trade and the unity of the empire.

But with a Liberal victory and a colonial conference after that, "the matter which has been decided by the electorate. They will not consent, because they believe it to be a matter of life and death for the mother country to the imposition of preferential taxation either upon food or raw materials."

"We are willing to go with you in this great partnership of the empire, through good and evil fortunes, and to make every concession to the maintenance of imperial unity consistent with the welfare of our own citizens at home, but we are not content to barter away the prosperity of our country, the sustenance of our people, and the ultimate future of our trade to what we believe will be a chimera and a delusion."

"Does anyone suppose that if the representatives of the mother country used terms of that kind it would in any way weaken the bonds of empire?"

HOLDS DEAD BABY 40 HOURS

Mother, Who Is an Immigrant, Keeps Long Vigil on Train.

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 30.—The funeral of a baby today revealed that it was the child of Adolph Bauer, who with his young wife, landed at Castle Garden only last Tuesday.

Just after the train pulled out of Pittsburgh the child was seized with convulsions. It died so quickly the mother had no time to ask for assistance. She dared not tell the conductor. She hid the dead child in her arms, and it was not until she reached Kenosha, where she had friends, if she could, without telling anyone on the train that it was dead.

Returning to her seat, she began the long struggle to keep back her grief. She sang to the baby, talked to it in the "baby talk" that mothers love so well, and pretended to laugh at it as she held it, every once in awhile sniffling through her fingers at her husband, who sat beside her and watched her with grief. Efforts to keep back the pent-up grief which was nearly breaking her heart. The conductor came through the train, and he stopped to talk with the woman.

Even when the train finally reached Chicago she gave no sign, but went to the train which was to bring her to Kenosha. When she arrived here she said nothing to the friends who met her for the death of the child, but carried it with her to the new home. Then she broke down.

IS GOLDEN AGE OF BEAUTY

Upper Class English Men and Women Show Great Improvement.

London, Oct. 30.—The golden age of English beauty has arrived. Physicologists, and culture experts, and the beauty specialists, who congregate in Bond street, see the dawn of a new era for the better in the national looks. Day by day they say, the people are growing more beautiful.

"Both men and women of the upper classes," said one of the leading beauty specialists in London to a newspaper representative, yesterday, "are improving in feature, in coloring, and in physique. Nowhere in the world can you see such handsome men and women as in England. To meet any morning in Piccadilly or Hyde Park."

"Women are attaching an increasing importance to the necessity of preserving and perfecting their looks."

"Powder and paint are out of date. Massage, electricity, and muscular manipulations have taken their place. Complexions have improved because of the use of fresh air, and the carriage has been immensely benefited by physical culture."

"Men are quite as eager as women to cultivate good looks. I have on my list of ex-cabinet ministers who sought my advice concerning a little bald spot on his head."

"Not only is the modern man a better looking, but there is a determination to retain good looks as long as possible. A few days ago, I removed a few superfluous hairs from the face of an old lady of 78."

"The eyes, clearer complexions, and more erect carriage of the men and women in which appearances have improved, but, thanks to some of the newer methods of beauty culture, turn-up noses can be made purest Grecian, and the whole contour of the face altered by suction, injection and 'tapping' massage."

THE BALLOON AND AUTO IN WAR

Their Practicability Shown by French Experts.

EMARKABLE DEMONSTRATION

Airship Drops Cartridges Into Fortresses, But Motors With Guns Score a Victory.

Paris, Oct. 30.—Like a glance into the future by a Verne or a Wells has been the work of the balloon and automobile corps of the French army in the field maneuvers during the past few days. High in the air over the fort of Toul, which, by the way, lies on the road to Strasbourg—the Lebaudy military dirigible balloon circled and swung, bombarding the fortifications below with blank cartridges, while swift automobiles followed the airship on the roads beneath and fired at it with light rapid-fire guns.

The demonstration was the most remarkable of modern war methods. It marked two great steps forward in military science. The practicability of the balloon as an attacking force was clearly shown, but as a parallel development it was also shown that these aerial assaults could be opposed by a splendid offense established by the use of small, light, high-power guns mounted on swift automobile cars.

The Lebaudy military dirigible balloon made three successful flights and created the greatest enthusiasm among the officers in charge of the maneuvers. The third and, by far, the most ambitious flight on the part of the balloon, resulted in a successful attack upon a series of fortifications. The umpires were confronted with conditions such as have never arisen before in the history of the war. The decision has been contested by many who witnessed the maneuvers. They admitted the success of the attack by the balloon on the forts, but also credited the automobile guns with a victory over the balloon.

Great Altitude.

The great airship was sent to a height of 4,500 feet, with several army balloons in tow. A course was mapped out, which was followed perfectly by the airship, although it was forced to make its way against the wind of the wind abeam and with the wind on the quarter. It swung gracefully along, however, passing above each of the forts indicated in the plan of the maneuvers. The army officers in charge of the maneuvers were amazed at the success of the attack.

The sight was one which called for expressions of amazement from the officers following the maneuvers. Although a motor-boat the great airship was brought into position above each of the forts, and then, at such an altitude as to be distinguishable only with field glasses, one of the officers would lean over the side and drop a blank cartridge into the fort. The airship would then shoot downward with the constantly increasing momentum that it gained, and then a sharp report would mark the landing of the cartridge, and in each case a hit was scored for the airship.

Guns Opened Up.

While the airship soared through the air a half dozen automobiles, on the roads beneath, coursed it like beagles. A contact rifle from the light machine guns marked the effort to defend the fortifications in this fashion, and from time to time the balloons which floated above the forts were shot at by the automobiles, using blank cartridges.

The work of the automobile batteries was remarkable. Although, of course, no loaded shells were fired at the airship, the rapidity of fire, the accuracy of the aim, and the ability of the automobiles to follow the flight of the aerial balloons and the accuracy of fire, as shown late against the target balloons, were all considered. The result of the maneuvers was that the attack from the airship would have been destroyed by the automobile guns. What the result would have been in action the umpires did not say.

The accuracy of the aim of the gunners was shown to be perfect when it was taken into consideration that they were firing from automobiles going at a high rate of speed, at balloons moving over 4,000 feet above the ground. Several of the target balloons were hit and shells sent close to others. Further experiments with the use of the airships and of automobile corps will be kept up for several weeks.

RUSSIA FACES FAMINE

Must Look to America for Help in Desperate Situation.

Berlin, Oct. 30.—Once more Russia was to look to the United States for relief from the most terrible famine in the history of the country, as there is not in all Europe grain enough to feed the starving subjects of the czar.

Even the Russian Government admits that the situation is desperate, and Czar Nicholas himself is said to have set aside 10,000,000 roubles to be used in buying American grain, when he finds a man whom he can trust with this important mission.

The number of people in the domain of the great White Bear who are actually starving is officially given as 12,000,000, and as reports from far-away provinces come in, the enormous figure is daily increasing. Dysentery, cholera, and typhoid, and measles are following in the wake of the famine, and as most of the local physicians have not yet returned from the war the situation is exceedingly grave.

Peasants by the ten thousands are crowding into the great cities, tens of thousands left behind who are dying in the fields, having been turned out of their homes because they were unable to pay their taxes.

It is estimated that at least a million tons of grain must be bought in the United States and even should it be possible to bring over this enormous quantity it will be enough only to keep the starving peasants alive only over a few days. Twenty tons must be found for feeding purposes next spring. The great trouble is also to find laborers for the agricultural districts.

A curious feature of the present agricultural system in Russia is that in many provinces tracts of land are let to families who pay a certain amount of produce to the community and keep the rest for themselves, but this year thousands of these families have been able to raise even what was due the community. From most families one man was sent to the war, and from many two or even three have been sent. The women who were left behind were unable to cultivate the soil, and as they had to kill their cattle and even their horses for food, the lack of live stock will be felt for years.

TO FIX UP NELSON SHAFT

The Navy League Proposes Improving Trafalgar Square.

London, Oct. 30.—There is no visitor to London but knows Trafalgar Square with its tall Nelson column and the central feature is interesting, more uncouth, ill-matched lot of blocks than the buildings surrounding it. The Navy League naturally is proud of the Nelson column, and has proposed a scheme to the Government for the improvement of this, and costly, long in hair and heavy in forehead. It included several minor poets, a number of minor dramatists, and many women. To the soft strains of Chopin played by a volunteer on a piano, Mr. Purinton floated on to the stage. Everything about him flowed—his gestures, his arms, his tie and his hair. He paused before the rostrum and gazed over the audience with deep, sad eyes. He spoke a long time before he began.

"Civilization has measles," there was a gasp, and at least ten seconds while that sank in. Purinton folded his hands, and looked sublimely before him, and went on: "And it is called Shawitis. It is better not to have had them. The human mind that irritates Bernard Shaw is the human animal he cannot see. Ah—another pause while the poet rested the tips of his fingers gently against his pale cheek. Bernard Shaw is a chuckle. It isn't a laugh. It is too hysterical one moment, too ghastly the next. It is accented by a telltale blush.

"Ah! What does Shaw know of the ecstasy of lovers of the sweetest caress blending into God's consciousness?" Let me read you a poem—my closing his eyes and lifting his face ecstatically Purinton recited these lines:

BIG EARTHQUAKE COMING

Abbe Moreau Says It Is Due About Next March or April.

Paris, Oct. 30.—Abbe Moreau, in a letter on the subject of the recent solar activity, says:

"As we have seen, the sun is slowly diminishing in activity, and the quietish it is highly probable that a great earthquake will occur in March or April next."

It will be remembered that Abbe Moreau, in a previous article, which was widely published, predicted the earthquake which a few months ago devastated India, and while he held out to sun spots.

He declared in an article published last week:

"There is a connection between solar activity and volcanoes, and even earthquakes. The wakening of internal forces, the coming of the sun, the sudden change in the curve of the sun spots. The number of disturbances along the globe is increasing. There must be sudden volcanic eruptions, or earthquakes, or volcanic action, are localized on the lines of the globe, and particularly at the intersection of these lines—the west coast of the two Americas, the line connecting the volcanic districts of Europe, the South Sea Islands and Australia, and finally the depression of the Mediterranean sea, and the depression of the Atlantic ocean, almost at right angles to each other."

"These are facts. Hypotheses less certain. It is suggested that the sun acts on the crust of the earth, either causing potential electricity to vary or by modifying the heat sent to the surface of the globe, which would be dilatation or shrinkage of the envelope."

MAD KING'S GEMS FOR SALE

Ludwig of Bavaria Had Tania for Precious Stones.

London, Oct. 30.—The extravagance of Ludwig, the eccentric King of Bavaria, is proverbial, and tangible proof of this is seen at Messrs. Knight, Frank & Rutley's rooms this week, when the late monarch's fabulous collection of jewels will come under the hammer.

His two great passions were Wagner and jewelry, and in many of the items sold this week the Wagnerian influence is strongly marked. There is, for instance, a superb bracelet composed of five pearls, in which are carved the names of Wagner's heroes, and supporting a center of sapphires and diamonds. A diamond cross with enameled panels of Wagner's operas, and a ring with a large emerald ring. His favorite stone, however, was the sapphire, one necklace consisting of the sapphires, in single stones, and another of enameled gold being set with masses of sapphires, pearls and emeralds.

CIVILIZATION HAS MEASLES

Child of Sobbing Sea Talks from Woman's Heart.

HIS "POEMS" SIMPLY BURN

Edwin Earl Purinton, the Minor Poet, Says Love, Ah, Love Is All.

New York, Oct. 30.—Edwin Earl Purinton, the "poet of womanhood," delivered himself of four poems and a lecture on Bernard Shaw and himself at the Berkeley Lyceum. It was announced as a "vivisection of Bernard Shaw's head matter." The audience was small, but appreciative, long in hair and heavy in forehead. It included several minor poets, a number of minor dramatists, and many women. To the soft strains of Chopin played by a volunteer on a piano, Mr. Purinton floated on to the stage. Everything about him flowed—his gestures, his arms, his tie and his hair. He paused before the rostrum and gazed over the audience with deep, sad eyes. He spoke a long time before he began.

Your lips against my own,
Your touch, your thrill, your moan,
Eternity had ended sheer
And we had never known
The bliss of a single hour.

Not God can pass between us, dear,
Just you and love alone.

With that an isolation in love, too, said the poet, after he had controlled his voice. "This poem expresses it," and he let out a chuckle.

"Ah," said he, recovering himself with a hula-hula motion, "there is much more to be said in charge."

After which Purinton vivified Shaw on seven counts, resting and refreshing his pale cheeks by reading an original poem full of love moans and fervent breathing.

"There is a connection between solar activity and volcanoes, and even earthquakes. The wakening of internal forces, the coming of the sun, the sudden change in the curve of the sun spots. The number of disturbances along the globe is increasing. There must be sudden volcanic eruptions, or earthquakes, or volcanic action, are localized on the lines of the globe, and particularly at the intersection of these lines—the west coast of the two Americas, the line connecting the volcanic districts of Europe, the South Sea Islands and Australia, and finally the depression of the Mediterranean sea, and the depression of the Atlantic ocean, almost at right angles to each other."

"These are facts. Hypotheses less certain. It is suggested that the sun acts on the crust of the earth, either causing potential electricity to vary or by modifying the heat sent to the surface of the globe, which would be dilatation or shrinkage of the envelope."
