NEW PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC COURSE

THE NEW PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC COURSE

Its As the literature of the world is the flower of its foik-lore, so music—the great tone-poems of the masters, is the florescence of folk-song. As true appreciation of what is excellent in literature is possible only with knowledge of the folk-lore in which it is rooted, so a just appreciation of what is excellent in music, is possible only through familiarity with the folk-songs which have from and typified the larger and more complex compositions. Spring many of them from undiscovered sources, living for hundreds of years on the lips of the people, possible emotions, they stand to usus more than song, more than story,—a veritable artery of emotional life and feeling puising in unbroken rhythm from the earliest times to the present day.

Pedagogy so his development of the child follows the development of the race, so his development in music should follow its development in the race. The New Public School Music Course is based upon this fundamental principle of education. The folk-song is its key-note, its motif and its theme. Upon the folk-song it stands, an earnest effort to lead the children in song to the heritage of the ages which is rightfully theirs.

Many of the melodies were obtained by the author and others directly material from the peoples by whom they were developed and sung, carefully reduced to writing at the time and subsequently writing. Others, ornamented and used as themes by the masters, have been followed to writing at their source, divested of that which was not theirs in the mouths of the people, and resource to their former simplicity of tune and time. Still others stand as they have stood since the memory of man.

ment cultural from that which is purely technical, the former material has been grouped as Songs and the latter as Exercises. As accuracy and fluency in sight-reading depend upon the singer's working knowledge of the tonic relation of tones known as movable do, and as the success of movable do depends upon constant change of key, the Songs and Exercises have been set in key-rotation rather than in key-chapters, thus securing the advantage of continual change with the convenience of consecutive study,—by page and title in the Songs, and by number in the Exercises. The pedant looking for the development of all possible difficulties in melody and rhythm will note with regret the absence of exercises in the more nuusual varieties of measure, of certain accidentals such as flat-five, seldom met with in song except in exercises mechanically constructed expressly for introduction into school music readers, of some keys in the minor mode, and other problems inclient to an exhaustive treatment of sight-song.

The educator, however, interested in the development of the child rather than in the elaboration of sequence, will commend their careful exclusion. If the child is to love to sing, he must be given songs not newly written for the purpose and whose enduring worth is yet unknown, but songs whose age-cherished existence has delighted the ear and inspired the tongue of succeeding generations; and if he is to acquire fluency in reading, the few minutes a day allotted to the subject must be devoted exclusively to such problems as are essential to his progress within the limits established by circumstance and environment. For convenience when many or all divisions of a school are gathered for opening exercises or on other occasions demanding raited effort in song, the patriotic selections have been grouped as Assembly Selections and appear in all the books of the series identical in melody, rhythm, harmony, text, title and pagination, an arrangement the advantages of which are manifest. The several books will be found free from cues to pupils, scale diagrams, development exercises, instructions to teachers, and all matter more properly belonging to a Teachers' Manual.

Application books to force upon his teachers a method of instruction which may or may not coincide with that which his personal experience has developed and successfully established in the schools whose conditions have been to him a life-study, and whose needs no other can know so well. The New Public School Music Course is not a method of instruction but a collection of original and selected, properly graded, and conveniently bound material, intended for use as follows: In schools under music supervision, in connection with the methods already established by the supervisor in charge. In graded schools without music supervision, in connection with a Teachers' Manual for Graded Schools. In ungraded schools without supervision, in connection with a Teachers' Manual for Ungraded Schools.

Readers knowledge of all combinations of the tones of the diatonic major scale in the several keys, and of measure up to and including the equal division of the beat. The Second Reader includes songs and exercises embracing the fractional division of the beat, a more extended use of accidentals, the minor mode, and two-part song. The Third Reader involves the sub-fractional division of the beat, a more remote approach of accidentals, an extension of the minor mode, and greater freedom of voice in the continuation of two-part song. The Fourth Reader introduces three-part song, which in the Fifth, with its two editions, the G Clef edition for girls' schools and the F Clef edition for boys' schools and mixed schools, affords the largest possible opportunity for real interpretive work.

All the Songs and Exercises in this Series of Music Readers, except when some Composer's name is given, have been composed and are owned by the Author.

NIGHT WINDS

GERMAN FOLK SONG

- 1. Night winds are mournfully weeping, Whis-per-ing oak branches wave
- 2. Sweet and se rene be your slum-ber !Hearts for whose freedom you bled,

Where your loved ash -es are sleeping, Forms of the true and the brave.

Mil-lions whom no man can num -ber, Tears of sad grat - i - tude shed.

Silence reigns breathless around you, All your stern conflicts are o'er, Nev- er shall morn, brightly breaking, En-ter your chambers of gloom

Deep is the sleep that hath bound you, Trumpet shall rouse you no more. Till the last trumpet, a-wak -ing, Sounds thro' the depths of the tomb.

SOFTLY THROUGH THE TWILIGHT

Andante Franz Abt

- 1. Soft ly thro' the twl-light sounding, Hear the dis tant eve-ning bells!
- 2. Thro' the day must du ty call us, Care and tho't con-trol the breast;
- 8. Toll now finds a brief ces sa tion, Birds and flow'rs their eye-lids close;
- 4. Then the bells with sweet ap-peal-ing Teach the mind to soar on high,

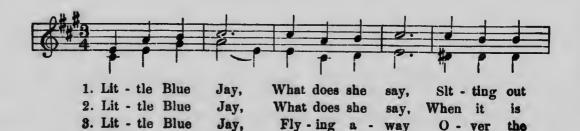

In the ho - ly calm sur-rounding, Still of peace their mu - sic tells. When the shades of night en-thrall us, All things soothe the soul to rest.

Na - ture owns the sub - ju - ga - tion, Slow-ly sink - ing to re-pose.
