

CIHM Microfiche Series (Monographs)

ICMH Collection de microfiches (monographies)

Canadian Institute for Historical Microreproductions / Institut canadien de microreproductions historiques

© 1994

Technical and Bibliographic Notes / Notes techniques et bibliographiques

The Institute has attempted to obtain the best original copy available for filming. Features of this copy which may be bibliographically unique, which may alter any of the images in the reproduction, or which may significantly change the usual method of filming, are checked below.

L'Institut a microfilmé le meilleur exemplaire qu'il lui a été possible de se procurer. Les détails de cet exemplaire qui sont peut-être uniques du point de vue bibliographique, qui peuvent modifier une image reproduite, ou qui peuvent exiger une modification dans la méthode normale de filmage sont indiqués ci-dessous.

- |  |  |
|--|--|
| <input type="checkbox"/> Coloured covers/Couverture de couleur   | <input type="checkbox"/> Coloured pages/Pages de couleur   |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Covers damaged/Couverture endommagée  | <input type="checkbox"/> Pages damaged/Pages endommagées   |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Covers restored and/or laminated/Couverture restaurée et/ou pelliculée  | <input type="checkbox"/> Pages restored and/or laminated/Pages restaurées et/ou pelliculées                    |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Cover title missing/Le titre de couverture manque   | <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Pages discoloured, stained or foxed/Pages décolorées, tachetées ou piquées |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Coloured maps/Cartes géographiques en couleur   | <input type="checkbox"/> Pages detached/Pages détachées  |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Coloured ink (i.e. other than blue or black)/Encre de couleur (i.e. autre que bleue ou noire)   | <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Showthrough/Transparence   |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Coloured plates and/or illustrations/Planches et/ou illustrations en couleur  | <input type="checkbox"/> Quality of print varies/Qualité inégale de l'impression                               |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Bound with other material/Relié avec d'autres documents   | <input type="checkbox"/> Continuous pagination/Pagination continue   |
| <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Tight binding may cause shadows or distortionalong interior margin/La reliure serrée peut causer de l'ombre ou de ladistorsion le long de la marge intérieure  | <input type="checkbox"/> Includes index(es)/Comprend un (des) index  |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Blank leaves added during restoration may appearwithin the text. Whenever possible, these havebeen omitted from filming/Il se peut que certaines pages blanches ajoutéeslors d'une restauration apparaissent dans le texte,mais, lorsque cela était possible, ces pages n'ontpas été filmées. | Title on header taken from: /Le titre de l'en-tête provient:   |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Additional comments: /Commentaires supplémentaires:   | <input type="checkbox"/> Title page of issue/Page de titre de la livraison                                     |
|  | <input type="checkbox"/> Caption of issue/Titre de départ de la livraison                                      |
|  | <input type="checkbox"/> Masthead/Générique (périodiques) de la livraison                                      |

This item is filmed at the reduction ratio checked below/Ce document est filmé au taux de réduction indiqué ci-dessous.

10X	12X	14X	16X	18X	20X	22X	24X	26X	28X	30X	32X <input checked="" type="checkbox"/>

The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

University of Manitoba
Winnipeg

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol  $\rightarrow$  (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol  $\nabla$  (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

University of Manitoba
Winnipeg

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole  $\rightarrow$  signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole  $\nabla$  signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

MICROCOPY RESOLUTION TEST CHART

(ANSI and ISO TEST CHART No. 2)

APPLIED IMAGE Inc

1653 East Main Street
Rochester, New York 14609 USA (716) 482-0300 - Phone
(716) 288-5989 - Fax

Judge's Reasons.

MR. JUSTICE BAIN.

12th December 1892.

BAIN J. This suit has been instituted by the Plaintiffs with the object mainly, of obtaining a declaration from the Court that they have the legal right to the exclusive use for street railway purposes of the whole of the portions of Main street, Portage avenue and Kennedy street in the City of Winnipeg, on which they have been and are now operating their street railway, and an order or injunction to restrain the Defendant Company from operating street railways thereon.

The contention of the Plaintiffs, as regards these streets is, that by the By-law of the City of Winnipeg, No. 178, and the agreement made between them and the City in pursuance of this By-law they acquired, for the period mentioned therein the legal right to the exclusive use for street railway purposes of the whole of the portions of the streets laterally as well as longitudinally, which they should occupy with their railway, and that having so occupied the portions of these streets described in the Bill, the Defendant Company must be regarded as trespassers thereon, and should be restrained by the Court from interfering with the Plaintiffs' right.

Both the Plaintiffs and the Defendant Company, relying on the franchises they have obtained from the City, have invested a large amount of money in building and operating their street railways on Main street and Portage avenue, two of the main thoroughfares of the City; and important interests, both as regards the two Companies and the City of Winnipeg, are involved in the decision of the questions raised by the suit. The main question briefly is, whether or not the Plaintiffs have the exclusive right or monopoly of operating street railways on these streets for the period mentioned in their agreement? By the Act, 55 Vic., c. 56, the Provincial Legislature incorporated the Defendant Company and in the same Act validated and confirmed the By-law of the City of Winnipeg, under which the Company has built, and is now operating, railways in the streets of the City. It appears that this Act was passed by the Legislature with the full knowledge that the Plaintiffs were claiming to have the exclusive rights to the whole of the streets they occupied with their railway; and that passage of the Act was in fact opposed by the Plaintiffs before a Committee of the House. It is provided in Sec. 33 that,

"Nothing in this Act or in the Schedule thereto shall in anyway affect or take away any right held by, or vested in the Winnipeg Street Railway Company [the Plaintiffs] if any such there be."

ject mainly, of ul right to the rtions of Main peg, on which d an order or street railways

s, that by the made between for the period
lway purposes rdinally, which ed the portions st be regarded om interfering

franchises they ey in building
venue, two of
as regards the ecision of the er or not the et railways on e Act, 55 Vic., any and in the anipeg, under e streets of the
with the full rights to the passage of the
he House. It

ake away any if any such

JUDGE'S REASONS.

BAIN, J. But subject to this reservation, the effect of the Act is that the Defendant Company has been expressly empowered by the Legislature to construct and operate their street railway on Main Street and Portage Avenue, on which streets the Legislature knew the Plaintiffs were in occupation with their railway. The Defendants contend that in the fact of the legislative authority, which the Defendant Company has, the Court cannot, or at any rate should not, by the exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction prevent the Defendant Company from exercising and enjoying the right which has been given to it and that the Plaintiffs, if they have the right they claim, should be left to enforce it in an ordinary action against the City. I am not prepared to say, however, that if the Plaintiffs can establish their right, the jurisdiction of the Court to interfere by injunction is taken away, for I apprehend that the rights given by the Statute to the Defendant Company were in effect given upon the condition that the plaintiffs had not a legal right to prevent the Defendant Company operating a railway in these streets. But it is very evident, I think, that before the Court can undertake to render the legislative grant the Defendant Company has received wholly nugatory and ineffectual, it will have to be satisfied beyond doubt or question that the Plaintiffs have the legal rights they claim.

Before it can be held that the Plaintiffs have the exclusive right they claim, it must be established, not only that the right has in fact been made over and granted to them by the City, but further that the conferring of such a right or franchise was within the corporate powers of the city; and the answer of the Defendants directly challenges both these propositions. The Plaintiffs, they say have not received from the City the exclusive right they claim, and if the City did undertake to give such a right it had not power to do so and its grant was invalid.

The expression in the By-Law and Agreement,

"and such railway shall have the exclusive right to such portion of any street or streets as shall be occupied by such railway"

is ambiguous, and it may be a question of some difficulty to decide what was the extent of the exclusive right granted, and I think it will be better, before construing the By-law and Agreement, to deal with the question of the power of the City to make such an exclusive grant as the Plaintiffs contend it did. If I come to the conclusion that the City did go beyond its powers if it gave the right contended for, then it will not be necessary for me to undertake to construe the By-law and Agreement.

Assuming, then, that the City did undertake to confer upon the Plaintiffs

the Defendant
to construct and on which streets
their railway.
authority, which ate should not,
Defendant Com-
en given to it ould be left to prepared to say,
isdiction of the
that the rights given upon the
the Defendant
evident, I think,
nt the Defend-will have to be gal rights they ght they claim,

made over and uch a right or answer of the intiffs, they say nd if the City its grant was street or streets

decide what was better, before n of the power tend it did. If if it gave the ake to construe

the Plaintiffs

JUDGE'S REASONS.

BALS, J.

the exclusive right they claim, the Defendants urge that the City could not legally give this right unless it had express authority from the Legislature to do so. The Plaintiffs' reply to this is that the express authority the Defendants demand is found in the City charter and in the Plaintiffs' Act of Incorporation, and furthermore they say that as the streets were vested in the City by its charter, it could give the exclusive right to use them, and that, at all events, as the Legislature has not expressly, or by necessary implication deprived the City of the power to give this exclusive right, the circumstances are such that, it must be deemed to have had the power as incident to the power expressly given.

There can be no question of the City having had full power to enter into an Agreement with the Plaintiffs authorizing them to build and operate street railways on all or any of the streets of the City. The provisions in section 154 of the City Charter would in themselves give this power, and the Plaintiffs' Act of Incorporation expressly authorizes the City

"To grant permission to the said Company to construct their railways as aforesaid across, along, and to use and occupy the said streets, highways or any part of them for that purpose, upon such condition and for such period or periods as may be respectively agreed upon between the Company and the said City."

This is express authority for the City to allow the Company to use its streets, but while the City might have abstained from allowing anyone else to use them for that purpose, I find nothing here or in the City Charter that expressly authorizes the City to agree with the Plaintiffs that they are to have the exclusive right to the use of the whole width of the streets, and that enables it to put it out of its power to allow other persons or companies to use other portions of these streets for street railway purposes. The words to which Mr. Howell referred, certainly cannot be taken either to enlarge the Legislative grant to the Plaintiffs or to confer authority upon the City to enter into any agreement with the Plaintiffs that would be beyond its corporate powers.

"upon such condition,"

Main Street and Portage Avenue are portions of the old roads known as the "Great Highways" that were laid out by the Council of Assiniboin before the transfer of the country to Canada, and these streets, as they now exist, follow, with some slight deviations, the line of these great highways. On the surrender of the country up to Canada by the Hudson's Bay Company, the soil in these highways became vested in the Dominion Government, and by Cap. 49 R. S. C. it was provided that the Governor-General-in-Council might by Order-in-Council transfer to the Province the public thoroughfares or roads that existed as such at the date of the transfer. It appears that by Order-in-Council dated the 3rd of the City could not the Legislature to do city the Defendants et of Incorporation, in the City by its ut, at all events, as n deprived the City re such that, it must expressly given.

wer to enter into an d operate street rail-ns in section 154 of he Plaintiffs' Act of

esaid . . .
hem for that purpose,
agreed upon between

ompany to use its ing anyone else to y Charter that ex-
ey are to have the d that enables it to use other portions

her to enlarge the
the City to enter
ond its corporate

oads known as the iniboia before the now exist, follow,

On the surrender
, the soil in these
y Cap. 49 R. S. C. y Order-in-Council existed as such at il dated the 3rd of

JUDGE'S REASONS.

BAIN, J.

February, 1888, Main Street was so transferred, but it is not shown that Portage Avenue has ever been transferred. Main Street for about half a mile or so, runs through Lot 1, in the Parish of St. John, usually known as the Hudson's Bay Company's Reserve, and nearly all of the portion of Portage Avenue occupied by the Plaintiffs is in this lot: and in the grant from the Crown to the Hudson's Bay Company, neither street is excepted or reserved. This Patent was issued before the date of the City Charter of 1882.

By section 155 of the City Charter of 1882, it is provided that "every public road, street, etc., shall be vested in the City, subject to any rights in the soil, which the individuals who laid out such road, street, etc., reserved."

Then in the following section it is provided that all persons having made any reservation in any street shall apply within six months for a settlement or adjustment of such claim, otherwise such claim shall cease to exist. The effect of these provisions is, it is argued, that the actual ownership of the streets was vested in the City, and therefore, that the City could dispose of them or grant any rights and privileges in them it saw fit.

It is clear enough, I think, that in saying the streets, etc., should be vested in the City, the Legislature intended that some property in the actual soil should vest in the City. But it is equally clear, I think, that whatever that property was, the City acquired and held it only as for a street and for the use and purposes of the public, and that it could not dispose of or deal with it in any manner not authorized by its charter. Like most of the provisions of our various Acts dealing with Municipalities this section 155 was taken from the Ontario Municipal Act, and its effect was discussed in the case of Sarnia v. Great Western Railway Company, 21 U. C. Q. B., 59, which decided that the Plaintiffs, an incorporated town, could not maintain an action of ejectment against the Defendants for portions of the streets of the Town. If the streets were vested in the Town, as was contended, it may be open to doubt, perhaps, if the actual decision in the case was correct (Vespra v. Cook, 26 U. C. C. P., 1892), but I refer to the case because I think the following remarks made by McLean, J., very well describe the nature of the property that is vested in a Municipality by the section in question.

"That section," he says, "I think does vest in the Municipalities the several streets and roads within their borders, but it does not necessarily follow that it conveys such a freehold and estate as will enable a Municipality to maintain ejectment—every individual in the community has an equal right to a public street or a road, and the Municipalities cannot be considered as proprietors, and so entitled to control the possession any more than any other person or corporation or person interested in the streets or highways. The property vested in the Municipality is a qualified property, to be held and exercised for the benefit of the whole body of the corporation. . . . They, so far, may be said to hold the freehold, but it is only as trustee for the public, and not by virtue of any title which confers a right of exclusive possession."

shown that Portage
half a mile or so, runs as the Hudson's Bay Avenue occupied the Crown to the Hud-This Patent was

and that

rights in the soil, which having made any for a settlement or to exist. The effect of the streets was of them or grant

2., should be vested the actual soil should ever that property for the use and pur-posal with it in any visions of our various from the Ontario in v. Great Western the Plaintiffs, an in-against the Defend-were vested in the the actual decision
I refer to the case
very well describe
by the section in:

several streets and such a freehold and in the community it be considered as person or corporation the Municipality is a
of the corporation.
trustee for the public.

JUDGE'S REASONS.

BAIN, J.

Notwithstanding, then, that the property in the streets, as streets, was vested in the City, I think the power of the City to dispose of or deal with the streets was strictly limited by its corporate powers.

And I cannot say that I find anything that really conflicts with this view in the case of Coverdale v. Charlton, 4 Q. B. D., 104, which was strongly pressed on me by Mr. Howell. In that case the court were considering a provision of the Public Health Act

"that all streets shall vest, in and be under the control of, the urban authority," and what the case decided was, as James L. J., said in Rolls v. St. George, 4 Ch. D. 785,

"that something more than an easement passed to the local board, and that they had some rights of property in, and on and in respect of the soil which would entitle them as owners to bring a possessory action."

The decision too, was given on a special case stated by two private individuals, and the question whether the grant of the pasturage on the road by the Local Board to the Plaintiff was within the powers of the Board, was in no way raised by the case, or touched upon by the Court. In Wandsworth Board of Works v. United Telephone Company, 13 Q. B. D., 904, the Master of the Rolls speaking of this case and of the section in question said

"My own view at the time was . . . . . it passed the property so as to enable the Local Board as far as anybody else than the public was concerned to do with it what any other owner than the public might do. There might be a breach of their duty to the public but with regard to anybody else than the public they could do with it as any other owner could do, that is without infringing that which was their primary duty, namely to keep it as a street."

The "street" in question was, it appears, a green lane in a rural district, and the exclusive grant that had been made was that of the pasturage along the sides of the lane for a period of seven months: and even if it had been held that the Local Board had authority to make such a grant I could hardly consider the case decisive of the one before me.

On this contention of the Plaintiffs I must hold then, that the property the City had in the streets would not, in itself, authorize it to give the Plaintiffs the exclusive right they claim, unless it otherwise appears that it was the intention of the Legislature that this was a disposition of the streets that the City should be authorized to make. I have already held that there is no such authority expressly given, and it remains now for me to consider if the intention of the Legislature that the City was to have this authority can be inferred or implied.

The weight of authority seems to show that at Common Law a corporation could bind itself to do anything to which a natural person could bind himself, and deal with its property as a natural person might deal with his own: and in dealing with corporations created by, or under, acts of parliament for definite purposes

as streets, was or deal with the

with this view in ongly pressed on provision of the horly."

St. George, 4 Ch.

at they had some s owners to bring

vate individuals, nd by the Local in no way raised ard of Works v.
e Rolls speaking

so as to enable the what any other e public but with r could do, that is et."

ural district, and ge along the sides een held that the lly consider the

the property the
the Plaintiffs the
was the intention
the City should
o such authority
intention of the erred or implied.
aw a corporation
bind himself, and wn: and in deal-
definite purposes

JUDGE'S REASONS.

BAIN, J.

and with powers for effecting that purpose, there are evidently two ways in which the powers of such Corporations may be measured. One is, that it may be presumed that the transactions of such Corporations are valid, and that they will be held to be invalid only if it can be shown that the Legislature has deprived them, either expressly, or by necessary implication, of the power to enter into such transactions. The other is that their transactions will be held to be valid only if it appears they were authorized either expressly or by necessary implication. Mr. Howell urged that the former view is the one that prevails in the English Courts, but, as has been pointed out by a learned author (Pollock on Contracts, p. 117), the decision of the House of Lords in Ashbury Ry. Carriage Co. v. Riche, L. R. 7 H. L. 653, has made the conflict between the two series much less sensible in practice than might be expected; and it seems to me, indeed, that this decision goes very far to establish that for all practical purposes the theory of limited capacity is the one that is to prevail.

In Attorney-General vs. Great Eastern Railway Company, 5 App. Cas. 473, Lord Blackburn, speaking of Ashbury vs. Riche, said:

"That case appears to me to decide, at all events this, that where there is an Act of Parliament creating a corporation for a particular purpose, and giving its power for that particular purpose, what it does not expressly, or impliedly authorize, is to be taken to be prohibited.

In the later case of Baroness Wenlock vs. The River Dee Company, 10 Appeal Cases 354, this principle was again confirmed, and applied to the great loss of the Plaintiff, and it was held to apply to all Corporations created by Statute for particular purposes. As Lord Watson said, p. 362,

"Whenever a corporation is created by Act of Parliament with reference to the purposes of the Act and solely with a view to carrying these provisions into execution, I am of opinion not only that the objects which the corporation may legitimately pursue must be ascertained from the Act itself, but that the powers which the corporation may lawfully use in furtherance of these objects must either be expressly conferred or derived from its provisions."

The principles then upon which I must decide the question before me are thus clearly and authoritatively prescribed, but the difficulty in the case lies in the application of the principles to the facts, and it so happens that there are no cases, at least that I have been referred to, in which the English Courts have had to decide a question of this kind upon a state of facts, which is at all similar to that presented here.

It is a long-established principle of English law, that "when the law doth give anything to one, it giveth implicitly whatever is necessary for the taking and enjoying the same,"

Co. Liett 56., and in the case of the Attorney-General v. Great Eastern Railway Company that I have referred to, I find Lord Selborne thus defining in what spirit the principle laid down in the Ashbury case should be applied:

two ways in which
that it may be prend that they will be e has deprived them,
to enter into such
d to be valid only if ecessary implication.
ails in the English
ollock on Contracts, arriage Co. v. Riche, es much less sensible
d, that this decision
e theory of limited
ny, 5 App. Cas. 473, is an Act of Parliaer for that particular be prohibited.

Company, 10 Appeal
the great loss of the ted by Statute for nce to the purposes of I am of opinion not ascertained from the furtherance of these

on before me are thus the case lies in the
that there are no sh Courts have had is at all similar to er is necessary for the

at Eastern Railway is defining in what applied:

JUDGE'S REASONS.

BAIN, J.

"I agree with Lord Justice James," he says, "that this doctrine ought to be reasonably and not unreasonably understood and applied, and that whatever may be fairly regarded as incidental to or consequential upon those things which the Legislature has authorized, ought not (unless expressly prohibited) to be held by judicial construction to be ultra vires."

In the later case of Small v. Smith, 10 App. Cas. 129, Lord Selborne again said:

"I entirely adhere to what was said in this house in the case of Attorney-General v. Great Eastern Railway Company, that when you have got a main purpose expressed and ample authority given to effectuate that main purpose, things which are incidental to it, and which may reasonably and properly be done, and against which no expressed prohibition is found, may and ought, prima facie to follow from the authority for effectuating the main purpose by proper and general means."

But he also points out that "the grounds of such an implication must be found in the nature of the situation, and the reasonable consequences of that situation, and not in what a man who may do what he pleases with his own may, or may not consider proper to do under such circumstances."

Applying these principles then, what I must consider is, was there anything in the nature of the situation and in the circumstances of the case from which it is a legitimate and reasonable inference that when the Legislature authorized the City to arrange for the construction of street railways and to make an agreement with the Plaintiffs to that end, it also intended that the City might agree with the Plaintiffs that they alone and that none but themselves should be able to obtain the privilege of using the streets for street railway purposes for the period limited.

The Plaintiffs believing, doubtless, that the right or franchise which they received from the City was an exclusive one for at least 20 years, have invested a large sum of money in the construction of their several lines of railway, and in providing and maintaining the necessary rolling stock therefor, and as far as the evidence shows they have carried out the terms of the Agreement and have done nothing to forfeit the rights and privileges the City conferred upon them. The operation of the Defendant Company's Railway, it also appears, will have the effect of materially diminishing the value of the Plaintiff's property; and as the circumstances of the case are presented in the evidence I see no reason why the Court should hesitate to extend its assistance to the Plaintiffs if by legitimate inference it can come to the conclusion that it was the intention of the Legislature that the franchise which the City was authorized to grant might also be an exclusive one. But I am bound to say that, in my opinion, the Plaintiffs have not shown anything in the situation or circumstances that existed when the agreement was made, that would make it what has been termed a

"potential necessity"

that the franchise should be exclusive or from which I can, in any way legiti-ht to be reasonably and regarded as incidental

, ought not (unless ex-

Lord Selborne again

orney-General v. Great ed and ample authority which may reasonably may and ought, prima ber and general means."

the situation, and the
to what he pleases with s, was there anything the case from which it lature authorized the to make an agreement might agree with the uld be able to obtain oses for the period

franchise which they years, have invested ines of railway, and erefor, and as far as Agreement and have onferred upon them.
so appears, will have tiff's property; and ence I see no reason
o the Plaintiffs if by s the intention of the ized to grant might in my opinion, the stances that existed as been termed a

, in any way legiti-

JUDGE'S REASONS.

BAIN, J. mately infer that it was intended by the Legislature that it should be exclusive. At the time it was entered into, Winnipeg was a new and growing town with a population of about 25,000, and it is well known that at that time it was expected the population would increase much more rapidly than it has. Main street and Portage avenue are streets of unusual width, having a uniform width of 132 feet, and the other streets that have been referred to have a width of 66 feet. At this time none of the streets had been paved, and it is shown that in the Spring and Fall and in wet weather the streets often became almost impassable for ordinary vehicles. These are about the only facts shown that bear upon the question; and while it may be inferred from them that the City would be desirous of having street railways introduced they fail to suggest to me any such conclusion as that it was necessary, in order that the City might come to an agreement with the Plaintiffs to build and operate street railways, it should be able to give the Plaintiffs the exclusive right and put it out of its power for so long a period of twenty years to agree to give a similar right to others should it afterwards prove to be to the public benefit to do so. The width of the streets, especially of the two I am immediately dealing with, is such that it is clearly not physically impossible, or even highly inconvenient, or necessarily dangerous for two rival companies to maintain and operate street railways upon them; so it cannot be said that the franchise which the Plaintiffs obtained was one that has sometimes been called a natural monopoly, that is, one in which competition would be physically impossible, or necessarily destructive. And there is nothing to show either, that at the time the agreement was made the City, on account of its inability to induce the Plaintiffs, or others, to undertake the construction of street railways, had either to agree to give the Plaintiffs a monopoly or to do without railways; and I cannot find that from considerations of this sort or any other, it was necessary that the City should have the power to give the exclusive right in order that it might be able to carry into effect the powers granted to it.

Then, again, the right the Plaintiffs claim they acquired from the City is in the nature of a monopoly. It is true that the right of laying down tracks and of operating railways in the public streets is not a right common to all, and the right to do this must come directly, or indirectly, from the Legislature. But others as well as the Plaintiffs might wish to acquire this right, and against all such, if they have what they claim, have a practical monopoly. Had the Legislature intended that the Plaintiffs were to be authorized to obtain such a monopoly in the streets of Winnipeg it would have been very easy when they were specially it should be exclusive.

growing town with a
at time it was expect-it has. Main street
a uniform width of
have a width of 66
l it is shown that in ecame almost impas-
shown that bear upon the City would be uggest to me any such y might come to an ailways, it should be of its power for so ht to others should it width of the streets, ch that it is clearly necessarily dangerous ways upon them; so tained was one that n which competition
And there is nothing
e City, on account of e the construction of monopoly or to do as of this sort or any er to give the ext the powers granted

from the City is in ng down tracks and
mon to all, and the e Legislature. But
, and against all such,
Had the Legislature
such a monopoly in they were specially

JUDGE'S REASONS.

BAIN, J. dealing with the matter to have said so; but as they have not said so, the intention that they might obtain such a monopoly is not to be imputed without good reason for so doing.

The section of the City Charter that authorizes the City or the Council to pass by-laws for the construction of street railways also authorizes by-laws for regulating and governing them when they are constructed; and it was urged that this power to regulate implied a power to restrict and limit, and that a by-law limiting the right to use the streets to the Plaintiffs alone is not unreasonable, and therefore is not ultra vires. It is quite true that a power to regulate, must in certain cases involve a power not only to limit, but also to prohibit, because if it did not the power would, in many cases be found to be nugatory. If the public benefit sought to be obtained in giving a Municipality power to regulate can only be obtained by prohibition, then a By-law going that length may be held to be unreasonable and ultra vires. Slattery v. Naylor, 13 App. Cas., 446. But the circumstances here, as we have seen, do not show any necessity for limiting the right to use the streets exclusively to the Plaintiffs. The power to govern and regulate the operation of street railways after they have been constructed is one that is absolutely necessary that the City should have. The word "regulate" in the sub-section has a well-defined meaning, and I think the Legislature never intended in using that word that it was to be implied from it that the City might give to one person or company the monopoly of using the streets for a long or indefinite term.

In England until at least the passing of the Municipal Acts in later years, the powers of incorporated towns and cities rested on an entirely different basis from those of municipal corporations in this Province. Here, and in the Province of Ontario, from which our municipal system is closely copied, municipalities have been established directly by the Legislature for the sole purpose of more conveniently carrying out the details of certain portions of civil government specially delegated to them, and municipal corporations exist only for the purposes for which they were created. This is also the theory and system of municipal government that exists in, I think all the states of the United States, and as has been pointed out by Mr. Bryce in his work on Ultra Vires, there is no country in which there are so many corporations or in which the law, as to the powers of corporations, municipalities and municipal and others has been so much discussed as in the United States. Both in this Court and in the Courts of Ontario when questions of municipal law are under discussion decisions of the Courts in the United States, both Federal and State, have always been recognized not said so, the intention imputed without good

ty or the Council to authorizes by-laws for
; and it was urged limit, and that a by-alone is not unreasona power to regulate,
but also to prohibit,
und to be nugatory
municipality power to w going that length
ry v. Naylor, 13 App.
not show any neces-
the Plaintiffs. The ways after they have the City should have.
meaning, and I think as to be implied from monopoly of using the l Acts in later years, entirely different basis Here, and in the Pro-y copied, municipalithe sole purpose of tions of civil govern-as exist only for the theory and system of

of the United States, ultra Vires, there is no ch the law, as to the l others has been so art and in the Courts
assion decisions of the ways been recognized

JUDGE'S REASONS.

BAIS, J. as instructive, and I think I may say that when they do not conflict with principles established by decisions of the English Courts they have very generally been adopted and followed.

Considering the facts of the case in the light of authoritative principles of English law I have come to the conclusion that I cannot by what I would consider a legitimate inference infer from these facts that it was the implied intention of the Legislature that the City was to have power to give the Plaintiffs the exclusive use of the streets, and it is not necessary, therefore, that I should consider at any length the numerous decisions of the United States Courts, both State and Federal that bear upon the question: and it is the less necessary because Mr. Howell fully conceded in the argument that the whole weight of these cases is against the Plaintiffs' contention.

The principle of construction that these Courts apply in construing Legislative grants to corporations is thus laid down by the Supreme Court in Minturn v. Larue, 23 How. 435.

"It is a well settled rule of construction of grants by the Legislature to corporations, whether public or private, that only such powers and rights can be exercised under them as are clearly comprehended within the words of the Act, or derived therefrom by necessary implication, regard being had to the object of the grant. Any ambiguity or doubt arising out of the terms used by the Legislature must be resolved in favor of the public."

And dealing particularly with Municipal Corporations Judge Dillon, in his well-known work on Municipal Corporations at section 29 uses the following language that has more than once been expressly adopted by the Courts:

"Municipal Corporations," he says, "can exercise the following powers and no other: First, those granted in express terms. Second, those necessarily and fairly implied in, or incidental to the powers expressly granted. Third, those essential to the declared objects and purposes of the corporation, not simply convenient, but indispensable. Any fair, reasonable doubt concerning the existence of power is resolved by the Courts against the corporation, and the power is denied."

And in such cases as Minturn v. Larue, above referred to, Fanning vs. Gregorie, 57 U. S., 523, the State v. Cincinnati, 18 Ohio State R., 264. Parkersburg Gas Company v. Parkersburg, S. E. R. 650, Saginaw Gas Light Company v. Saginaw, Fed. Reporter Vol. 28, No. 10, 529 and many others that might be cited the above principles have been applied with the result that claims for exclusive right in public franchises resting on the implied powers of municipal corporations to grant such franchises have been denied. As was said in one of these cases nothing will be intended from a legislative grant to a municipal corporation.

If I were able to regard the City as having been in the position of a man who could do with his own as he pleased, I cannot say that I could see anything unreasonable in its undertaking to give the Plaintiffs the monopoly of the streets for twenty years, in consideration of the Plaintiffs undertaking to introduce and operate street railways. But that is a view of the City's position that I am conflict with principles very generally been operative principles of what I would construe as the implied intention to give the Plaintiffs before, that I should United States Courts, is the less necessary

the whole weight of

in construing Legislative Court in Minturn v.

statute to corporations, used under them as are necessary implication, out of the terms used

Justice Dillon, in his well-known following language says:

"powers and no other:
implied in, or incidental effects and purposes of the law. In doubt concerning the power is denied."

Panning vs. Gregorie, 4. Parkersburg Gas Company v. Saginaw, might be cited the rights for exclusive right municipal corporations to one of these cases municipal corporation.

the position of a man I could see anything policy of the streets for ing to introduce and his position that I am

JUDGE'S REASONS.

BAIN, J. clearly precluded from taking. It could act in the matter only as it was authorized to do by the Legislature, and I cannot find that the Legislature either expressly or by imputation authorized it to give the Plaintiffs the monopoly of the whole of the street, that it was necessary that the City should have given the monopoly to the City, that it might carry into effect the authority that it did receive. If I am right in this view, then, the Plaintiffs cannot have the legal right they claim; and having failed to establish their legal right they cannot be entitled to an injunction.

I have considered the case as it specially refers to Main Street and Portage Avenue; but if the Plaintiffs are not entitled to an injunction, as to these streets they cannot, of course, be entitled to one as to the other streets mentioned in the Bill.

Even if it could be held that the City had authority and power to give the Plaintiffs the monopoly they claim that would still have to face the contention of the Defendants, that the City did not in fact give them this monopoly. The exclusive right mentioned in the By-law and the Agreement, the Defendants say, is limited to the portion of the street actually occupied by the railway, and further to a railway operated by the force or power of animals. However, as I have decided against the Plaintiffs in the other branch of the case, it is not necessary that I should express any opinion as to what is the proper construction of the By-law and Agreement.

It appears that the line or tracks of the Defendant Company's railway cross the Plaintiffs' tracks in several places on Main Street and Portage Avenue; and the Plaintiffs' Bill contains a prayer that the Defendant Company may be restrained from crossing the Plaintiffs' tracks, except for the purpose of crossing the same to run upon the streets which are not occupied by the Plaintiffs, and which the Plaintiffs do not wish to occupy. But if the Defendant Company has the right to lay down and operate its railway on these streets, section 33 of their Act of Incorporation gives them power to cross the lines of the Plaintiffs' railway subject to the provisions of the Manitoba Railway Act; and it is shown that under the provisions of the last mentioned Act, the Railway Committee of the Privy Council has approved of the several crossings, and that the Defendant Company have complied with the directions of the Committee in regard thereto.

The Plaintiffs' Bill is dismissed with costs.

ly as it was autho-Legislature either
the monopoly of should have given thority that it did have the legal right cannot be entitled

Street and Portage
, as to these streets
mentioned in the power to give the

the contention of his monopoly. The
the Defendants say, is railway, and further However, as I have it is not necessary construction of the

pany's railway cross rtage Avenue; and Company may be purpose of crossing
y the Plaintiffs, and ndant Company has
s, section 33 of their e Plaintiffs' railway and it is shown that y Committee of the hat the Defenlant
e in regard thereto.

REASONS FOR JUDGMENTS of TAYLOR, C. J., and DUBUC, J., and KILLAM, J., on appeal to Full Court of Queen's Bench, Manitoba, from Decision of BAIN, J.

JUDGMENT BY TAYLOR, C. J.

TAYLOR, C. J. The Act 45 Vic. c. 36 Manitoba, incorporating the City of Winnipeg, passed in 1882, provided by sec. 154, that the City Council might pass by-laws among other things,

7. "For authorizing the construction of any street railway or tramway upon any of the streets or highways within the City, and for regulating and governing the same, and for fixing the rates to be charged thereon."

The Plaintiff Company was incorporated in 1882 by the Act 45 Vic., cap. 37 Manitoba. In the same year, under an agreement with the City of Winnipeg dated 7th July, 1882, entered into under the authority and in pursuance of a by-law of the City council, No. 178, and passed on the 12th June, 1882, the Plaintiff Company constructed a tramway or street railway upon Main street in the City of Winnipeg, from the Assiniboine river on the south to the Canadian Pacific Railway Station on the north. A few years after a branch line was constructed from the junction of Main street and Portage avenue, running along Portage avenue as far as Kennedy street, and thence along that street as far as Broadway. Still later, the line on Main street was continued on that street, north from the Canadian Pacific Railway Station, and as far as the Parish of Kildonan. The original line and these extensions have ever since their construction been, and now are operated by the Plaintiff Company, according to terms and provisions of the By-law and Agreement. The Act of Incorporation, By-law and Agreement all provide that the motive power used shall be

"the force and power of animals, or such other motive power as may be authorized by the said council of the said City."

In 1892, the City council passed another by-law, No. 543, which after reciting that certain persons therein named had applied for the right and privilege to construct and operate a double or single track railway over and along the streets and highways of the City, proceeded to grant the applicants the privilege applied for, the motive power used to be,

"electric power or such other power as may be found practicable."

Following upon this, certain persons, including those named in By-law 543, were by 55 Vic. c. 56, Manitoba, incorporated as "The Winnipeg Electric

C. J., and DUBUC, J., of Queen's Bench,

J.

ty of Winnipeg, passed
ht pass by-laws among way upon any of the streets id for fixing the rates to be he Act 45 Vic., cap. 37 the City of Winnipeg nd in pursuance of a by-June, 1882, the Plaintiff Main street in the City o the Canadian Pacific ch line was constructed running along Portage t that street as far as ntinued on that street, as far as the Parish have ever since their iff Company, according

The Act of Incorporre power used shall be y be authorized by the said

No. 543, which after blished for the right and rack railway over and o grant the applicants

ctible."

ose named in By-law
The Winnipeg Electric

TAYLOR C. J. Railway Company," and the By-law was thereby validated and confirmed in all respects as if it had been enacted by the Legislature. In pursuance of this By-law the Defendant Company have constructed and are now operating by electricity a street railway with tracks on Main street and Portage avenue laid alongside those of the Plaintiff Company, and also upon other streets of the City.

The Plaintiff Company claim that they are, under By-law No. 178, and their Agreement with the City, entitled to the exclusive use of the whole of the streets upon which they are operating their line for street railway purposes, and have begun this suit to obtain an injunction restraining the Defendant Company from operating their line of railway, and for a declaration that they have a legal right to the exclusive use which they claim.

The Act 55 Vic. C. 56, incorporating the Defendant Company, was opposed by the Plaintiff Company before the Private Bills Committee of this Legislature, so it was passed by the Legislature with full knowledge that the Plaintiff Company claimed the exclusive right now asserted in this suit. But the 33rd section of the Act provides, that "Nothing contained in this Act, or in the schedule thereto, shall in any way affect or take away any right held by, vested in, or belonging to the Winnipeg Street Railway Company, if any such there be, but any such right may be held and exercised by the Winnipeg Street Railway Company as fully and effectually as if this Act had not been passed."

The By-law, No. 543, is also expressed to be made of the Plaintiff Company. It is therefore necessary to enquire what these are and whether the Plaintiff Company have the exclusive rights and privileges claimed. They concede that, if they have no exclusive right, or if, though the By-law and Agreement purport to give an exclusive right, it was not in the power of the City Council to grant it, they cannot maintain their suit.

"subject to the legal rights"

The Plaintiff Company insist that for the period of time mentioned in the By-law and agreement they have acquired the legal right to the exclusive use of such streets in the city as they may occupy with their line of railway, that is, that they are entitled to the exclusive use of the whole width as well as length of the streets so occupied by them.

The Act incorporating the Plaintiff Company provides in Section 9 that the Company, on obtaining the consent of the city, shall "have full power and authority to use and occupy any and such parts of the streets or highways aforesaid as may be required for the purposes of their railway track."

The wording of the By-law, clause 1, and of clause 1 of the agreement is,

"such railway shall have the exclusive right to such portion of any street or streets as shall be occupied by said railway."

validated and confirmed in ature. In pursuance of and are now operating ect and Portage avenue upon other streets of the er By-law No. 178, and use of the whole of the et railway purposes, and the Defendant Company on that they have a legal

Company, was opposed nittee of this Legislature, ledge that the Plaintiff his suit. But the 33rd any way affect or take away Com,any, if any such there Railway Company as fully enquire what these are e rights and privileges right, or if, though the ight, it was not in the ain their suit.

time mentioned in the t to the exclusive use of line of railway, that is, width as well as length les in Section 9 that the ts of the streets or highways t of the agreement is, y street or streets as shall be

TAYLOR, C. J. On these words great reliance is placed. But there are other arguments used in favor of exclusiveness, such as that onerous conditions were imposed upon the Plaintiff Company, and they have fulfilled these; that in the very nature of things, and the conditions of a railway track there must be an exclusiveness; and that unless an exclusive right had been given no one would have made or taken the risk and expended such a large amount of money as they have done.

The position taken by the Defendant Company is, that the Plaintiff Company have no such exclusive right as is claimed, and that they have an act of the Legislature, and the By-law thereby confirmed giving them certain rights, the Court should not interfere by injunction, but should leave the Plaintiff Company to enforce against the City any rights they may have. As to this, I agree with the learned Judge who heard the case in the first instance, that the Act incorporating the Defendant Company having in effect been passed on the supposition that the Plaintiff Company have not the right now claimed, the jurisdiction of the Court cannot be said to be taken away. Though I also agree with him, that before the Court will interfere so as to defeat the legislative grant to the Defendant Company, the Plaintiff Company must place the legal right they claim beyond doubt.

The Plaintiff Company assert that an exclusive right has been granted to them, and that it was within the corporate power of the City to grant such a right. The Defendant Company on the other hand, attack both of these propositions and say, the City did not grant an exclusive right, and if it undertook to do so the grant is invalid, because it exceeded its corporate powers in making such a grant. The learned Judge at the hearing dealt with the powers of the City, and having come to the conclusion that granting an exclusive right was beyond its authority, it was unnecessary for him to consider whether the City did undertake to confer such a right by the By-law and Agreement with the Plaintiff Company.

Counsel for the Plaintiff Company concede that the American cases dealing with the powers of Municipal Corporations may be considered as opposed to the position which they take, and that Cooley in his work on Constitutional Limitations, at page 231, fairly states the law as expounded by the American Courts.

"The general disposition of the Courts in this country has been to confine Municipalities within the limits that a strict construction of the grants of powers in their Charters will assign them; thus applying substantially the same rule that is applied in charters of private incorporation. The reasonable presumption is, that the State has granted in clear and unmistakable terms all it has designed to grant at all."

This doctrine seems to have prevailed from an early period in the United States, though perhaps for the first time so distinctly asserted in Charles River Bridge v. The Warren Bridge, 36 U. S., 420, a case in which, however; two other arguments used in were imposed upon the t in the very nature of must be an exclusiveness; one would have made or oney as they have done.

y is, that the Plaintiff and that they have an ned giving them certain should leave the Plaintiff may have. As to this, I e first instance, that the effect been passed on the right now claimed, the y. Though I also agree defeat the legislative grant st place the legal right ght has been granted to City to grant such a right.

th of these propositions if it undertook to do so owers in making such a he powers of the City, elusive right was beyond ether the City did under-ment with the Plaintiff

e American cases dealing sidered as opposed to the n Constitutional Limitay the American Courts.

confine Municipalities within ters will assign them; thus corporation. The reasonable s all it has designed to grant y period in the United asserted in Charles River in which, however; two

TAYLOR, C. J. judges dissented, one of them being the eminent jurist Judge Storey. Since then the rule of strict construction as applied to such charters, has prevailed, and as a learned judge in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania once said, "In the construction of a Charter, to be in doubt is to be resolved, and every resolution which springs from doubt is against the Corporation."

Dillon, in his work on Municipal Corporations, at section 91, says,

"The rule of strict construction is not as directly applicable to the ordinary clauses in the Charters or Incorporating Acts of Municipalities, as it is to the Charters of Private Corporations; but it is equally applicable to grants of powers to Municipal and Public bodies which are out of the usual range, or which may result in public burdens, or which in their exercise touch the right to liberty or property, or as it may compendiously be expressed, any common law right of the citizen or inhabitant."

In the American and English Encyclopædia of Law, Volume 15, page 1055, after stating in the text that a municipal corporation cannot, in the absence of express legislative authority, grant to any person or corporation the exclusive privilege of using the streets for laying gas or water pipes, street railway tracks, etc., it is said in a note that the weight of judicial authority supports this statement in the text, although there are several decisions which sustain the contrary doctrine. Two such cases are there cited. One, Newport vs. Light Co., 8 Kentucky Law Report 22, which was relied upon by Mr. Howell in this argument, the other Des Moines Street Railway Company vs. Des Moines, 73 Iowa, 513. In that case the Court held that although there was no grant of power in express terms authorizing the Council to confer an exclusive privilege in the use of the streets, yet under the circumstances of the case, and to procure a better public service the Council could grant a valid exclusive right for a limited period, such contract being necessary to secure the service which it might not otherwise be able to obtain. It would appear, however, that the power there given the city was somewhat peculiarly worded, as it seems to have been authorized to "grant or prohibit" the laying down street car tracks within its limits.

It is, however, insisted that under English law the powers of Municipal Corporations are broader than those of other Corporations. For this Brice on Ultra Vires is relied upon at page 516, where he says:

"A wider and more liberal construction will be put upon the powers vested in bodies, such as Local Government Boards, Municipal Corporations, and Sewerage Commissioners, whose duties are the accomplishment of public improvements."

The learned judge has gone very fully into the consideration of the English authorities, bearing upon the manner in which powers given by the Legislature to Corporations are to be construed. Applying the principles laid down in these to the present case he held that there was not anything in the nature of the situation, and in the circumstances from which it is a legitimate and reasonable in-

Judge Storey. Since then has prevailed, and as a said,

and every resolution which

Section 91, says,

the ordinary clauses in the Private Corporations; but it is are out of the usual range, right to liberty or property, or inhabitant."

Volume 15, page 1055, cannot, in the absence of incorporation the exclusive rights, street railway tracks, the city supports this statement which sustain the contrary view. Light Co., 8 Ken-well in this argument, 1883, 73 Iowa, 513. In the absence of power in express terms, the privilege in the use of the power to procure a better public use for a limited period, such rights might not otherwise be granted there given the city is authorized to "grant rights within limits.

the powers of Municipal Corporations. For this Brice on invested in bodies, such as boards, whose duties are the incorporation of the English rights by the Legislature rules laid down in these cases, the nature of the situation and reasonable in-

TAYLOR, C. J. ference, that, when the Legislature authorized the City to arrange for the construction of street railways, and to make an Agreement with the Plaintiff Company, it also intended that the City might agree that the Plaintiff Company alone should be able to obtain the privilege of using the streets for street railway purposes during the time limited. With the conclusion so arrived at by him I quite agree. I also concur with him in the finding that it has not been shown by the Plaintiff Company that there was anything in the existing situation and circumstances, when the agreement was entered into, which would make this franchise, being exclusive, what has been spoken of as a potential necessity.

Whatever argument may be brought forward as to the broader powers of Municipal Corporations, there are numerous cases showing plainly that strict compliance with the provisions of any statute by which the rights of the public to the use of every part of a highway are interfered with, is necessary, and they must be strictly followed. In Ponthren v. Pennefather, 5 Ta. at. 634; Rex v. Justices of Worcestershire, 8 B. & C. 254; Rex v. Justices of Kent, 10 B. & C., 477; Rex v. Justices of Cunbridgeshire, 4 A. & E. 111; Rex v. Downshire 4 A. & E., 698; Rex v. Milverton, 5 A. & E., 841, may be referred to on this point. In the Province of Ontario the powers of Municipal Corporations as to dealing with public highways have also been strictly construed, and they have been rigidly confined within the powers given by statute Rex v. Great Western Railway 32 U. C. R., 506; Re Lawrence & Thurlow, 33 U. C. R., 223; Cameron v. Waite, 3 App. R. 175; Re Laplante & Peterboro, 5 O. R. 634. In Winter v. Keown, 22 U. C. R., 341, Hagarty, J., said:

"The Legislature has given a certain power to the Municipality, and it seems to me that such power must be strictly executed."

On the contention of the Plaintiff Company, the City having power to pass By-laws for the construction of any street railway have done so giving them an exclusive right for twenty years. No doubt the City, having once made an agreement with the Plaintiff Company might decline for twenty years to entertain proposals on the part of any other person or corporation to construct any other street railway, and in that way practically give the Plaintiff an exclusive right, but it would be for the Council of any particular year, in which such a proposal might be made, to consider and deal with it. Here it is claimed that the City has bound itself that no Council shall for twenty years consider any such proposal. In other words, the Council of 1882 agreed, that they and their successors for twenty years to come should abdicate part of their powers as a Council. Ayr Harbour Trustees v. Oswald, 8 App. Cases, 623; Vandecar v. East Oxford, 3 App. R., 131, are authorities that they could not do so. I also agree to arrange for the con-

ment with the Plaintiff
at the Plaintiff Company streets for street railway so arrived at by him I it has not been shown in the existing situation , which would make this potential necessity.

o the broader powers of wing plainly that striet the rights of the public h, is necessary, and they r, 5 Ta at. 634; Rex v.
of Kent, 10 B. & C., 477;
v. Downshire 4 A. & E., o on this point. In the ions as to dealing with they have been rigidly at Western Railway 32 3; Cameron v. Waite, 3
In Winter v. Keown, 22

and it seems to me that ry having power to pass done so giving them an having once made an r twenty years to enteration to construct any e Plaintiff an exclusive r year, in which such a Here it is claimed that ty years consider any ed, that they and their of their powers as a 623; Vandear v. East

t do so. I also agree

TAYLOR, C. J. with the conclusion come to by the learned judge, that whatever property in the streets, as streets, was vested in the city, the power to dispose of, or deal with these streets, was strictly limited by its corporate powers.

But did the City grant, or undertake to grant to the Plaintiff Company the exclusive right claimed? I cannot see that the City made any such grant. It is only in the first clause of the By-law, and in the first clause of the Agreement that any direct mention of exclusiveness is made. Throughout the By-law and Agreement there are two distinct things spoken of and dealt with, the "Company" and the "Railway." Now, taking the plain language of the By-law and Agreement, it seems to me, it is not the Company but the railway that is given any exclusive right. The Company is authorized and empowered "To construct, maintain, complete and operate . . . a double or single track railway . . . upon and along any of the streets or highways of the City . . . and such railway shall have the exclusive right to such portion of any street or streets as shall be occupied by said railway."

Now any grant to a Company authorizing the construction of a street railway must confer an exclusive right to a certain extent. Once the track and rails are laid it is evident no other Company can lay a track and rails upon the same space of ground as has been already occupied by the track and rails of the first Company. To permit such a thing would certainly hinder, if not entirely prevent, the operation of the railway by both Companies. The language used there seems to me, carefully used to express just that extent of exclusiveness necessarily involved in the nature of things, in the construction of a street railway.

Then the first part of clause 16 of the By-law, and clause 17 of the Agreement, show that even this right is a limited one, for it is provided that vehicles may travel on, along or across the track, subject only to the obligation to turn out on the approach of any car so as to leave the track free. The Plaintiff Company may have such a right to the portions of the streets actually occupied by their tracks and rails as is in the very nature of things involved in the having a railway track at all, but that is something widely different from what they claim, an exclusive right to the whole length and width of every street on which they have a track laid.

Further, section 9 of the Plaintiff Company's charter shows this limited right to have been all that the Legislature intended should be dealt with. The language used there is "The Company shall have full power and authority to use and occupy any, and such parts of any of the streets and highways aforesaid, as may be required for the purposes of their railway track, the laying of the rails and the running of their cars."

That gives no countenance to the claim of the Plaintiff Company. To support whatever property in the purpose of, or deal with

Plaintiff Company the to any such grant. It use of the Agreement throughout the By-law and dealt with, the "Com-provisions of the By-law and railway that is given authorized

on a double or single track streets of the City * * * crossing streets or streets as shall be operation of a street railroad to use the track and rails and rails upon the same and rails of the first if not entirely pre-the language used there exclusive use necessar-street railway.

Section 17 of the Agreement provided that vehicles have the obligation to turn

The Plaintiff Company is actually occupied by vehicles involved in the having a claim, from what they claim, street on which they

shows this limited right to deal with. The lan-

by any, and such parts purposes of their railway Company. To support

TAYLOR, C. J. such a claim one would expect to find some provision that they are to have full power and authority to use those streets or highways on which they may lay their tracks. On the contrary it is only such part of any street as may be required for the purposes of the track, distinctly confining their right within that limit.

The exclusive right of ferries was urged as an argument in support of the claim of the Plaintiff Company, but I can see no analogy between this case and that of a ferry. Ancient ferries, and I believe ancient ferries only, are held to have exclusive rights, but they are so for the reason assigned by Blackstone, volume 3, page 219.

"Where there is a ferry by prescription, the owner is bound to keep it always in repair and readiness for the use of all the King's subjects: otherwise he may be grievously amerced."

This passage was quoted with approval in Letton v. Godden, L. R. 2 Eq. 132. The same principle, the obligation to maintain the ferry, was remarked on in Hopkins vs. Great Northern Railway Co., 2 Q. B. D., 224. It is true in Newton v. Cabitt, 12 C. B. N. S. 32 Willes, J., spoke of the exclusive right as given, because, in an unpopulous place there might not be sufficient profit to maintain the boat without a monopoly. The obligation to maintain the ferry seems, however, the true ground, and on that ground Kindersley, V. C., put it in Letton v. Gooden, L. R., 2 Eq., 133,

"The only ground" he said, "upon which the owner of an ancient ferry can claim protection is the obligation he is under to keep the ferry always in a fit state for the use of the public; and it is upon this principle alone that the several cases which have been cited, in which the owner of the ferry has been protected, have been decided."

Now, I can find nothing in this By-law or Agreement at all analogous to the obligation to keep the ferry in a fit state for use of the public. There is nothing in either of them under which the Plaintiff Company can be compelled to operate their street railway. They are, it is true, to place and continue on their railway tracks good and sufficient cars, they are to run the cars during, and at such times as the Council may direct, and so on, but suppose they do not comply with these requirements, and wholly cease to operate the railway, what then?

There is nothing in the By-law or Agreement under which they can be made to operate the railway. Clause 22 of the By-law, clause 24 in the Agreement, does not seem to provide for a forfeiture of privileges in case of failure to keep the railway in operation. That seems to refer to clause 9 of the By-law, 10 of the Agreement. What is provided for is, that the Company shall complete their track and have cars running within a limited time, and failing that, shall forfeit the privileges and rights. The,

"do all that is required of it in the manner provided for in this by-law within the time limited therein"

they are to have full which they may lay ny street as may be g their right within

nt in support of the etween this case and ies only, are held to d by Blackstone, vol-

It always in repair and ously amended."

dden, L. R. 2 Eq. 132.

was remarked on in

It is true in Newton e right as given, be-profit to maintain the y seems, however, the in Letton v. Gooden, ferry can claim protecr the use of the public;

n cited, in which the

at all analogous to he public. There is ny can be compelled lace and continue on run the cars during,
t suppose they do not e the railway, what

r which they can be use 24 in the Agree-in case of failure to e 9 of the By-law, 10
pany shall complete
nd failing that, shall

y-law within the time

TAYLOR, C. J. must refer to the matters dealt with by such clauses as 2, 4 and 5 of the By-law.

Upon the argument, counsel for the Plaintiff Company dealt largely with the exclusive right claimed, and the powers of the City and the construction of the By-law and Agreement as bearing upon that question. Little was said as to any rights the Plaintiff Company may have under clause 25 of the By-law, 27 of the Agreement, but these are referred to in the Bill of Complaint.

They are considered by my Brother Killam in his judgment, and as I agree with what he says I do not dwell upon them.

Upon both grounds then, that the City had no power to confer an exclusive right, and that it has not given, nor undertaken to give, any such right, the contention of the Plaintiff Company, in my opinion, fails, and the Decree made at the Hearing should be affirmed with costs.

DUBUC, J., concurred in the Judgment of the Chief Justice.

2, 4 and 5 of the By-law.
pany dealt largely with y and the construction of tion. Little was said as clause 25 of the By-law, Bill of Complaint.
judgment, and as I agree ver to confer an exclusive give, any such right, the fails, and the Decree made

Justice.

Judge's Reasons.

MR. JUSTICE KILLAM,

12th December, 1892.

KILLAM, J.

The Plaintiff Company was incorporated by Act of the Provincial Legislature, 45 Vic. cap. 37, for the purpose of constructing and operating street railways in the City of Winnipeg and adjacent territory. A by-law was then passed by the Council of the City, authorizing the Company to construct and operate such railways on the streets of Winnipeg, and an agreement was entered into between the Civic Corporation and the Company embodying the terms of the by-law. The Plaintiff has constructed, and has for several years operated such lines of railway on some of the streets of the City. This Company claims that, under and by virtue of this Statute, By-Law and Agreement it has the exclusive right for a certain period to construct and operate street railways in Winnipeg. It alleges that this right has been infringed by the passage by the Council of the Defendant Corporation, the City of Winnipeg, of a by-law authorizing the Defendant Company to construct and operate similar railways and by the construction of such new lines, partly on the streets on which the Plaintiffs' railways are, and partly on other streets, and this suit is brought to enforce the right claim. The suit came up for hearing before my Brother Bain, who dismissed the Bill on the sole ground that the City Corporation had no power to grant such an exclusive right. The Plaintiffs now seek to have this Judgment reversed, and to obtain a decree in accordance with the prayer of its Bill of Complaint.

The principal prayer of the Bill, and the one to which the arguments before us were almost exclusively directed, as to declaration of such a right as to the streets on which the Plaintiffs' lines have been built, and an injunction to restrain the Defendant Company from constructing or operating such railways on these streets, two main points were raised and argued on this rehearing: first, as to the power of the City Corporation to bind itself by such an agreement; and, secondly, as to the proper construction of the agreement.

In considering the former of these questions it appears to me unimportant to determine the limits of corporate powers generally. For the Plaintiff it is contended that the property in the soil of the streets is vested in the City Corporation, which may, therefore, bind itself as to the use of that property. But the cases of Coverdale v. Charlton, 4 Q. B. D., 104, Rolls v. St. George's, 14 Ch. D. 785, and the Board of Works v. The Union Telephone Co., 13 Q. B. D., 904, seem to show that this must be regarded as a qualified property. The Corporation held the lands for use as streets and highways. Its Council had certain powers as to altering or closing these streets, and if it should exercise such

Provincial Legislature,
g street railways in the
as then passed by the ruct and operate such s entered into between terms of the by-law.
operated such lines of ny claims that, under as the exclusive right ways in Winnipeg. It by the Council of the v authorizing the Des and by the construc-the Plaintiffs' railways ht to enforce the right ain, who dismissed the power to grant such an gment reversed, and to of Complaint.

the arguments before such a right as to the n injunction to restrain uch railways on these is rehearing: first, as ch an agreement; and,

es to me unimportant or the Plaintiff it is sted in the City Cor-f that property. But
y. St. George's, 14 Ch.
Co., 13 Q. B. D., 904, property. The Corpora-Council had certain should exercise such

JUDGE'S REASONS.

KILLAM, J. powers some question might arise as to the ownership of any portion thus ceasing to be public highways. With this, however, we have nothing now to do.

I take it that, without statutory authority, the Corporation could not authorize the construction and operation of a street railway along and upon a public street. Such a structure would be regarded in law as a nuisance--at least, if so found by a jury. This appears to have been settled in Reg. v. Train, 3 E. & F. 22, 2 B. & S. 640; 9 Cox C. C., 180. Certainly, without statutory authority, the Corporation or its Council could give no right of occupation of a portion of the streets as against the public, or compel the public to give way to the vehicles of the railway proprietors. I doubt if it could even grant such a right of occupation for railway purposes enforceable as against the Corporation itself. It does not seem possible then to treat the case as one in which the corporation was disposing of some interest in a portion of its lands, and assuming to bind itself not to allow a certain user of the remainder, or some part of the remainder.

By the Plaintiffs' Act of Incorporation, 45 Vic. cap. 37, sec. 8, the Plaintiff Company was authorized "to construct, maintain, complete and operate and from time to time remove and change a double or single track iron railway, with the necessary side tracks, switches and turn-outs for the passage of cars," &c.

upon and along the streets or highways in Winnipeg. And by sec. 9, the Company was given "full power and authority to use and occupy any, and such parts of any, of the streets or highways aforesaid, as may be required for the purposes of their railway track, the laying of the rails and the running of their cars and carriages," with a proviso requiring the consent of the City Corporation, and authorizing it

"to grant permission to the said Company to construct their railway as aforesaid, across and along, and to use and occupy, the said streets or highways, or any part of them, for that purpose, upon such condition, and for such period or periods, as may be respectively agreed upon between the Company and the said City," etc.

At that time the only statutory authority in force, expressly referring to street railways in Winnipeg, was contained in the Act 38 Vic., cap. 50, sec. 107, s.s. 5, by which the City Council was authorized to pass By-laws

"for regulating and governing street railway companies and fixing the rates to be charged thereon."

But three days after the passing of the Plaintiffs' Act the Consolidated Charter of the City, 45 Vic., cap. 36, received the assent of the Lieutenant-Governor; and as if the Legislature in the consideration of the question had found it desirable to make the powers of the Council upon the subject more clear, the Council was by the later Act, sec. 104, s.s. 7, empowered to pass By-laws

y portion thus ceasing ng now to do.

orporation could not y along and upon a s a nuisance--at least, n Reg. v. Train, 3 F. t statutory authority,
ution of a portion of e way to the vehicles uch a right of occu-orporation itself. It
t the corporation was suming to bind itself the remainder.

sec. 8, the Plaintiff

e remove and change s and turn-outs for the

by sec. 9, the Com-

any, of the streets or ack, the laying of the

and authorizing it as aforesaid, * * * part of them, for that ively agreed upon he-pressly referring to ic., cap. 50, sec. 107, aws

o rates to be charged onsolidated Charter

nant-Governor; and

I found it desirable

ar, the Council was

JUDGE'S REASONS.

KILLAM, J

"for authorizing the construction of any street railway or tramway upon any of the streets or highways within the City, and for regulating and governing the same," etc.

I am unable to accede to the argument of the Plaintiffs' Counsel that this gave power to authorize the construction of only one such railway, or one such alone on any particular street. It appears to me that the power thus given was as general as it was possible to make it, and that it enabled the Council to authorize as many sets of railway tracks on any particular street, under the management or control of as many different persons or bodies, as the Council might deem proper, and the circumstances might admit.

The real question then is, whether the Council by by-law, or the Corporation by agreement, could deprive the Council of the right to exercise any such power. I am of opinion that neither of them could do so without statutory authority.

The right to use the streets as highways is the right of the public generally not that of the inhabitants of Winnipeg alone. In exercising its powers respecting the streets, the City Council is not merely the agent or the governing body of the City Corporation, or of the ratepayers, it is also a public body, having these powers vested in it on public grounds.

Although a railway track may constitute such an obstruction to the free use in some ways of the streets, that, if constructed without authority, it would be a nuisance, yet experience has shown that the facilities afforded by such a structure are so great, and that the extent of the obstruction occasioned by it may be so minimized, that it is really a valuable aid to the traffic of the streets. In the United States the doctrine seems firmly settled, that the laying down of rails on the street and the running thereon of cars for the conveyance of passengers is only a later mode of using the street as a way—that it is a change in the mode only, and not in the use. See Briggs v. the Lewiston & Auburn Horse R. R. Co., 79 Me., 363; Williams v. The City Electric Street Railway Co., 41 Fed. Rep. 556; Halsey v. The Rapid Transit Street Railway Company, 20 Atl. Rep. 859; Lockhart v. The Craig Street Railway Company, 139 Penn. St. 419.

The evidence in this case shows that the railway track under some circumstances might even facilitate the ordinary modes of traffic of a street.

The Council, then, in the power to pass By-laws upon this subject, was given an important discretionary power, to be exercised in the public interest. Certainly it was not obliged to authorize the construction of any such railway or to allow any particular applicant to construct one; and it might by its By-laws limit the number of such tracks to be laid on any particular street. But, by the tramway upon any of the streets same," etc.

Plaintiffs' Counsel that this such railway, or one such t the power thus given was it enabled the Council to particular street, under the or bodies, as the Council
t. y by-law, or the Corporaright to exercise any such l do so without statutory ght of the public generally exercising its powers respect-ent or the governing body also a public body, having n obstruction to the free without authority, it would ilities afforded by such a struction occasioned by it to the traffic of the streets.

that the laying down of s for the conveyance of way—that it is a change the Lewiston & Auburn etric Street Railway Co., reet Railway Company,
y Company, 139 Penn. St.

rack under some circumfic of a street.
on this subject, was given ne public interest. Cerf any such railway or to t might by its By-laws ular street. But, by the KILLAM, J.

JUDGE'S REASONS.

Interpretation Act of Manitoba, C. S. M. cap. 1, sec. 7, s-s. 29,

"Where power to make by-laws, regulations, rules or orders is conferred, it shall include the power to alter or revoke the same and make others if deemed expedient.

Any limit thus fixed by the Council, therefore, should be changed. Neither the Council nor the Corporation can change this Act of the Legislature, or lessen the authority thus given, unless under other statutory authority.

Any attempt to limit these powers would be an attempt to change the Constitution granted by the Legislature. These views appear to be supported by the decisions in Reg. v. The Governors of Darlington School, 6 Q. B., 682, 717; Mulliner v. The Midland Railway Company, 11 Ch. D. 611; Ayr Harbor Trustees v. Oswald, 8 App. C. 623; Vandecar v. East Oxford, 3 Ont. A. R., 151; Thomas v. The Rail Road Co., 101 U. S. 71.

But the express power thus given to alter or revoke By-laws is subject to the limitations in sec. 6 of the Interpretation Act,—

"except in so far as the provisions thereof are inconsistent with the intent and object of such Act, or the interpretation which such provisions would give to any word, expression or clause, is inconsistent with the context."

Naturally, the power to authorize the construction of street railways involved the granting of a privilege under which money would be expended; and it would seem inconsistent with this that the Council should have power to withdraw the authority to construct in the midst of the work, or to render it nugatory by taking away any right of operation it might give, or by granting other privileges inconsistent therewith. There would, then, apparently be an implied limitation upon the power of the Council to pass by-laws authorizing such construction. But it seems impossible to limit express statutory power by implication to any greater extent than is absolutely necessary to attain the object of the Act, and any such implied restriction would seem to extend only to the authorizing or doing of acts directly interfering with the construction, maintenance and operation of the railway. It appears to me that, at most, there could not be thus implied any greater limitation upon the powers of the council than is involved in the Plaintiffs' own Act of Incorporation.

Now, that Act gave to the Plaintiff Company, subject to a condition precedent, a statutory right to construct and operate railways on the streets of Winnipeg, and to occupy and use so much of the streets as may be requisite for the purpose.

The condition precedent was the obtaining of permission from the City, which permission itself could be made conditional and be limited as to time.

The inconvenience involved in any attempt to have different sets of tracks,

, s-s. 29,

r orders is conferred, it shall eemed expedient.

l be changed. Neither the e Legislature, or lessen the thority.

attempt to change the Con-appear to be supported by on School, 6 Q. B., 682, 717 611; Ayr Harbor Trustees Ont. A. R., 151; Thomas v.

oke By-laws is subject to with the intent and object of ny word, expression or clause.

street railways involved e expended; and it would re power to withdraw the o render it nugatory by or by granting other apparently be an implied y-laws authorizing such ress statutory power by necessary to attain the ld seem to extend only g with the construction, o me that, at most, there pon the powers of the neorporation.

subject to a condition ways on the streets of as may be requisite for mission from the City, limited as to time.

different sets of tracks,

JUDGE'S REASONS.

KILLAM, J. managed by different persons or companies, upon, coincident, or nearly coincident portions of the street, suggest at once the necessity for some restriction of the powers of the Council, and that some such was contemplated by the Legislature further appears from the right of occupation given to the Plaintiff, and the provision in the fourteenth section requiring carriages and vehicles to turn off the track.

But by the terms of the Act itself the right to use and occupy the streets is a limited one. It is (section 9) limited to so much as "may be required for the purposes of their railway track, the laying of the rails and the running of the cars and carriages."

It is well settled that private acts, giving special privileges as against the public, are to be construed strictly. Proprietors of the Stourbridge Canal vs. Wheeley, 2 B. and Ad., 792; Gildart vs. Gladstone, 11 East, 685; Priestly vs. Foulds, 2 Sc. N. R., 228; Barrett vs. Stockton and Dover Railway Company, 2 Sc. N. R. 337, 3 Sc. N. R., 815, 8 Sc. N. R. 653. Upon no principle then does it seem possible to imply in the Corporation a right to contract its council out of the power to authorize the construction of street railways upon any portion of a street not actually required for the Plaintiffs' sets of tracks, switches, etc., and for the running of cars thereon.

The Plaintiffs' Counsel relies on the word "condition" in the 9th section, and the power to make "any agreement" conferred on the Council of the City by the 17th section of the Plaintiffs' Act, as giving the necessary authority. But here again the principle of strict construction applies. The word "condition" is one so frequently used in a loose sense that it may be very easy to imply from the context a much wider meaning than its proper one, as was done in Walker vs. Hobbs, 23 Q. B. D., 458. But the natural signification of the word is that given to it in Ex parte Collins, L. R. 10 Ch. 372, and Ex parte Popplewell, 21 Ch. D., 73. Ordinarily it

"Denotes something which prejudicially affects the interest of the donee."

The City was empowered to grant a permission upon condition, which certainly involves no authority to give something beyond a permission. And the agreements that might be made were confined to certain specific subjects, which are of such a nature as to suggest the reserving to the City authorities of certain rights and powers restrictive of the Plaintiffs' right of occupation, rather than the further limiting of the powers of those authorities. I cannot infer from the power to make any agreement on those subjects a power of the City Corporation to bind itself to give as consideration for beneficial covenants of the railway company on any of these subjects something otherwise beyond its powers. Could it

ent, or nearly coincident r some restriction of the ated by the Legislature e Plaintiff, and the pro-ehicles to turn off the nd occupy the streets is aying of the rails and the s as against the public, lge Canal vs. Wheeley, Priestly vs. Foulds, 2

lway Company, 2 Sc.
no principle then does tract its council out of upon any portion of a eks, switches, etc., and " in the 9th section, e Council of the City ssary authority. But e word "condition" is y easy to imply from as done in Walker vs

he word is that given te Popplewell, 21 Ch.

the donee."

tion, which certainly
ion. And the agree-subjects, which are of ities of certain rights on, rather than the infer from the power City Corporation to of the railway coms powers. Could it

JUDGE'S REASONS.

KILLAM, J. he said, for instance, that it could pledge itself to establish and carry on the manufacture of rails or railway carriages for the purpose of supplying them cheaply to the Plaintiffs? Could it bind the Council to forego its police or sanitary powers by way of consideration for any such covenant? It is impossible to imply from such a clause, authority in the Corporation or the Council to divest itself of statutory powers to any greater extent than the nature of the subject matter necessarily involves. And the onus of establishing such authority must be thrown on the party asserting its existence. In my opinion, there is nothing even to suggest it.

Upon the other question, also, I think that the defendants are entitled to our judgment.

It has been contended that the maxim, Verba chartarum fortius accipiuntur contra proferentem should be applied in the construction of the By-law and Agreement upon which the plaintiff's case depends. So far as relates to the granting of the exclusive franchise claimed by the Plaintiff, I am not sure this would be a correct principle to adopt; that is, with an assumption that the grant of privileges is to be taken as, in the language of the granter, the city corporation. Many of the considerations applicable to private Acts of Parliament would seem to be involved. The council is very much in the position of a legislature assuming to bind the public. A private individual or company has the advantage in dealing with it. There is none on the other side equally interested to see that the rights of the public are preserved. Even the most honest and most capable members of the council seldom bring to bear in the public interest the same energy and astuteness which they exercise in their private affairs. The grant is frequently, if not usually, made in the language of the applicant, as in case of a private act of parliament. In this very case it appears that, in the course of the negotiations for the establishment of railways to be operated by electric power, the Plaintiff was asked to submit, and did submit a form of by-law for the consideration of the Council.

But however this may be, it does not appear to me that there is in these documents any real ambiguity which can require the application of the maxim.

The By-law begins with a recital of the Plaintiff's Act of incorporation, and the powers thereby given to the City and the Company to make an agreement for the construction and operation of a street railway. While this would not exclude the application of powers otherwise derived, it suggests very strongly that the object was the fulfilment of the condition upon which the Plaintiff's statutory right to occupy and use the streets for railway purposes depended.

The scheme of both By-law and Agreement appears to be this: that the publish and carry on the of supplying them cheaply police or sanitary powers impossible to imply from Council to divest itself of of the subject matter authority must be thrown there is nothing even to plaintiffs are entitled to quod fortius accipiuntur of the By-law and far as relates to the if, I am not sure this assumption that the

the grantor, the city Private Acts of Parlia-in the position of a individual or company has either side equally inter-even the most honest to bear in the public interest in their private the language of the very case it appears of railways to be submitted, and did submit that there is in these the maxim.

incorporation, and make an agreement if this would not interests very strongly which the Plaintiff's interests depended.
be this: that the

JUDGE'S REASONS.

KILLAM, J. grant of privileges is first made, and then the condition and limitations of the grant and the burdens upon the Company are set out. This is the more apparent in the Agreement, as the first clause alone purports to emanate from the City Corporation. The remainder purports to consist only of the covenants of the Company. This scheme, however, is not logically carried out, as in the 16th clause of the By-law and the corresponding clauses of the Agreement there is a grant of right of way and provision for the imposition of a penalty for obstructing the passage of cars. Even these, however, are apparently thus placed in connection with the limitation in favor of the public upon the right originally granted, and as if to make more clear the relative rights of the Company and the public.

Now what do these instruments purport to grant? There is, first, the permission to construct, etc., the railway lines and to run cars thereon, etc. This follows the proviso making this subject to the subsequently mentioned conditions. Then the clause concludes with something not directly expressed in the statute—

"and such railway shall have the exclusive right of such portion of any street or streets as shall be occupied by such railway."

It is not very easy to determine whether it was intentional, or by a mere slip that this right was granted to the railway, and not to the company. Undoubtedly it should be so read as to give the provision a reasonable effect. It is possible that it was thus put, although clumsily, to show that it was to exclude other railways. It is noticeable, also that, while the statute gave a right "to use and occupy,"

the streets, or portion thereof, so far as requisite, conditionally upon the grant of permission by the civic corporation, the By-law and Agreement grant no such permission in those terms. Apparently, this "exclusive right" took the place of that portion of the Statute, and was substituted in order to make it more clear that the right of occupation was to be excluded as against all but the ordinary public traffic of the streets, or as against other railways. This exclusive right is not an exclusive right to occupy all the streets of the City, or the whole of any street, for railway purposes or otherwise. It is,

"the exclusive right of such portion of any street, or streets, as shall be occupied by said railway."

The grammatical connection of the word "as" is with "such." It is "such portion . . . as shall be occupied."

The exclusive right is, by the very terms of the provision, limited to a portion of a street or streets.

The first question naturally, is, in what sense is this word "occupied"

s. condition and limitations of the out. This is the more apparent to emanate from the City Cor-ly of the covenants of the Comried out, as in the 16th clause of Agreement there is a grant of a of a penalty for obstructing the ently thus placed in connection e right originally granted, and e Company and the public. rant? There is, first, the pero run cars thereon, etc. Then requently mentioned conditions. tly expressed in the statute—of such portion of any street or intentional, or by a mere slip to the company. Undoubt-n a reasonable effect. It is o show that it was to exclude the statute gave a right ditionally upon the grant of Agreement grant no such per-right" took the place of that o make it more clear that the but the ordinary public traffic elusive right is not an exclu-e whole of any street, for s, as shall be occupied by said

"such." It is occupied,"

sion, limited to a portion of is this word "occupied"

JUDGE'S REASONS.

KILLAM, J. employed? How should the "railway" be said to occupy the street? Or, if by "railway" is meant, in both cases "railway company," how should the railway company be said to occupy the streets?

In the case of the Pimlico etc., Tramway Co. v. The Assessment Committee of the Greenwich Union, L. R. 9 Q. B. 9, it was held that the tramway company had not a mere easement or right to pass over the streets, but that it was an occupier of the part used. Lush, J., said

"The Act of Parliament enables the proprietors of a tramway to appropriate to their own purposes a given portion of the public road for the purpose of laying down tram rails which are necessary for the conveyance of their cargoes along the line of road; the tram rails occupy a portion of the soil, they are exclusively used by the tramway company for the purpose of the tramway, and that, I think, makes them occupiers of that portion of the soil. I do not think they are the less occupiers because the public have the right of passage of the surface of their iron road. The road as a tramway is in their exclusive use, and used for their exclusive benefit; therefore, I agree in thinking that they are occupiers."

And Quain, J., said

"I am unable to distinguish the iron tram rails from the gas and water pipes; both physically occupy the soil; one is somewhat deeper than the other, the tram rail having the upper surface level with the road; but they both occupy the soil of the road physically, and in exactly the same manner."

By the Plaintiffs' Act the Company was given power conditionally to

"occupy any and such parts of any of the streets as may be required for the purposes of their railway track, the laying of the rails and the running of their cars and carriages."

The occupation here referred to is evidently a physical occupation similar to that referred to in the Pimlico Company's case.

By the third clause of the By-law and the corresponding clause of the Agreement, the Company was bound to pave, etc., the portion

"occupied by the track or tracks" and a portion extending eighteen inches on each side thereof. Apparently, taking with this the previous part of the clause requiring the Company to keep in order and the description of the railway in the Statute and By-law as a double or single track iron railway, the word "track" covered the two rails necessary to support a car and the space between the rails. In this case, also, the reference was to the physical occupation authorized by the Statute.

"the roadway between and at least eighteen inches outside of each rail"

When the Plaintiffs' railway was first constructed it consisted of a single track, composed of two lines of rails built upon ties eight feet in length, placed at right angles to the rails. The streets were afterwards paved, and in some portions the Company laid two sets of tracks, but was compelled to pay for paving eight feet in width for one set of tracks only. This space appears to represent approximately the width of street required for the passage of cars and the portion occupy the street? Or, if by any," how should the railway

The Assessment Committee that the tramway company streets, but that it was an way to appropriate to their own ing down tram rails which are road; the tram rails occupy a company for the purpose of the of the soil. I do not think they age of the surface of their iron ed for their exclusive benefit;

as gas and water pipes; both the tram rail having the upper road physically, and in exactly ver conditionally to required for the purposes of cars and carriages."

occupation similar to that ending clause of the Agree-proof. Apparently, taking company to keep in order do of each rail"

By-law as a double or two rails necessary to case, also, the reference it consisted of a single feet in length, placed at red, and in some portions to pay for paving eight cars to represent approx-cars and the portion

JUDGE'S REASONS.

KILLAM, J which, in respect of each track and side track the Plaintiff Company was authorized to occupy and use. At any rate, even if more space in width were required, it sufficiently appears that there is ample room for the passage of the Plaintiffs' cars without interference, except at and near crossings by the cars of the other Company.

I agree entirely with the contention of the Plaintiffs' counsel, that the Agreement is not to be construed by reference to a particular clause alone, but the whole tenor and object of the Agreement and every clause in it must be considered for the purpose of the construction of each clause. So far I have referred to the indications offered by the Plaintiffs' Act of Incorporation, the apparent object of the By-law and Agreement, and the language of the particular clause under which the Plaintiffs' claim mainly arises. The only portion of the By-law or the Agreement which can by any possibility suggest that a wider meaning should be given to the first clause, or which, in default thereof, can itself give the right claimed, is the twenty-fifth clause of the By-law and the corresponding one in the Agreement. That clause reads,

"In the event of any other parties proposing to construct street railways on any of the streets not occupied by the parties to whom the privilege is now to be granted, the nature of the proposal thus made shall be communicated to them, and the option of constructing such proposed railway on similar conditions as are herein stipulated shall be offered; but if such preference is not accepted within two months, then the Corporation may grant the privilege to any other parties."

The object of this provision appears clear enough. The Statute had given to the Plaintiffs a general right to construct railways on the streets of Winnipeg, subject to the condition that permission should be obtained from the civic Corporation. The By-law and the Agreement granted a general permission as to all streets not particularizing or excepting any. The only provision made for the revocation of this permission during the original twenty years of the grant, even as to streets not built upon, is that contained in this twenty-fifth clause. With no power to revoke it, there might be great difficulty in getting others to build on streets having no railway. The Plaintiffs might refuse to build or to renounce its right to do so. On most of the streets it would be so inconvenient as to be practically impossible to operate satisfactorily several sets of railway tracks. This served as a protection to the Plaintiffs, and at the same time made it desirable that the civic authorities should be able to determine the Plaintiffs' right so that the Company could not insist on duplicating lines to the inconvenience of the public.

There is one possible construction of the twenty-fifth clause which may seem inconsistent with the retention of a right to authorize the construction of other lines upon the same street with the Plaintiffs. The clause applies to streets plaintiff Company was the space in width were for the passage of the passings by the cars of counsel, that the Agree-clause alone, but the it must be considered I have referred to the apparent object of the clause under which

By-law or the Agree-meaning should be given the right claimed,
ing one in the Agree-

railways on any of the ated, the nature of the tracting such proposed if such preference is privilege to any other

tute had given to the s of Winnipeg, subject
the civic Corporation.
sion as to all streets
made for the revoca-
the grant, even as to h clause. With no
g others to build on build or to renounce inconvenient as to be s of railway tracks.
time made it desir-
the Plaintiffs' right to the inconvenience clause which may the construction of use applies to streets

JUDGE'S REASONS.

KILLAM, J. not occupied by the Plaintiffs. This might mean all that are not thus wholly occupied. The expression might possibly include even streets on which the Plaintiffs' lines are built, but the whole of which those lines do not occupy in the sense which I have already given to the word. This would involve the idea that the option had to be given to the Plaintiffs of constructing other lines alongside its own, in the event of others seeking to do so. I cannot, however, think that this was intended. The evidence shows that, on two streets at least, there was ample room for more tracks than the Plaintiff Company had power to construct. The Plaintiffs' corporate power was at most to construct two sets of tracks with switches, etc. Permission was given to construct these. The twenty-fifth clause could not have been intended to extend this. I cannot read it as adding to the Plaintiffs' rights, but merely as enabling the civic authorities to revoke in certain cases the permission given. It is, apparently, relied on, chiefly as showing that the exclusive right given by the first clause extended to the whole width of the street. Viewing the object of the clause as I do, I cannot ascribe to it this effect. The use of the word "occupied" is somewhat ambiguous, but I am unable to imply from it, or from the clause as a whole, the necessity for giving to the first clause a wider meaning than that which for the reasons given it seems to have.

The Plaintiffs' counsel contends that the privilege granted to the Plaintiffs, Company is a franchise, which should be deemed to be exclusive, on the principle of a ferry franchise. Properly speaking, a franchise is derived from a grant of the Crown, or exists by prescription which presupposes such grant, 2 B. Com. 37; 13 Vin. Abr. tit. Franchise, p. 508. At Common Law a ferry was unlawful without a license from the Crown, Blisset v. Harte, Willes, 512; Jellett v. Anderson, 9 S. C. R. 17. Such a franchise, once granted, was regarded as property of which the grantee could not be divested by similar grants to another, 13 Vin. Abr. tit. Franchise, 508; Bl. C. 264. But the case of Letton v. Goodden, L. R. 2 Equity, 123, shows that the incident of exclusiveness does not necessarily extend to every public ferry.

I concur in the view expressed in the Chicago City Railway Company v. The People, 73 Ill. 541, that the grant by the Municipal Corporation in such a case is a grant of a mere license, and not of a franchise. The franchise, if the term be a proper one, was granted by the Legislature. It may be doubted whether any such franchise, except that of incorporation, could have been granted by the Crown. At any rate I know of no authority for the view that a legislative grant of authority to carry passengers on land, whether by rail or other special method, and whether on or off a highway, is prima facie, exclusive. It seems inconsistent with modern ideas to imply such an incident, as well as with

are not thus wholly streets on which the
do not occupy in the involve the idea that other lines alongside however, think that at least, there was
power to construct.
sets of tracks with twenty-fifth clause it as adding to the
to revoke in certain y as showing that hole width of the
ible to it this effect.
t I am unable to giving to the first it seems to have.
to the Plaintiffs,
e, on the principle
l from a grant of grant, 2 B. Com.
ry was unlawul Jellett v. Ander-
ed as property of another, 13 Vin.
y. Goodden, L. R.
not necessarily

ay Company v. ation in such a
he franchise, if may be doubted ve been granted
y that a legisla-
y rail or other e, exclusive. It as well as with

JUDGE'S REASONS.

KILLAM, J. the principles of constraining private acts of parliament. It appears, however, to be clear that in this instance, the Legislature did not intend to grant to the Plaintiff Company the exclusive franchise or privilege of constructing and operating street railways in Winnipeg, and of taking tolls from all who might desire to use that method of conveyance. Three days after the passage of the Plaintiff's Act it gave to the City Council extended or clearer powers to authorize such railways generally. These provisions were contained by the City Charter of 1884, 47 Vic., c. 78, s. 149, s.s. 129, and were copied into the Municipal Acts after the City was brought under their operation. See 49 V. c. 52 s. 349, s.s. 68 (M. 1886), 53 Vic. c. 41, s. 376, s.s. 41 (M. 1890) and R. S. M., c. 100, s. 695, s.s. (f). I do not think then we can infer an intent to exclude the construction of such other lines on the same parallel streets with those on which the Plaintiffs might build. Although, as I have said, the width of some streets is shown to be such that room was left outside the portions occupied by the Plaintiff's line for the construction of other lines, yet it is doubtful whether such could have been laid down to advantage without crossing the Plaintiff's lines at some point. At any rate it appears that the Defendant Company has found it necessary or advantageous to make such crossings. These are the only points at which the new Company appears to have directly interfered with the Plaintiff's lines, or to have encroached on the portions of the streets occupied by the Plaintiffs. These crossings are of two kinds, those made for the operating of lines alongside the Plaintiff's, and those for the purpose of connecting with lines on other streets. Were it not for the Statute 55, Vic., c. 56, s. 33, such interference and encroachment would seem unlawful. By that Act, however, the Defendant Company was authorized, subject to the provisions of the Manitoba Railway Act, to make such crossings, notwithstanding any rights of the Plaintiff Company. The Bill distinguishes between two kinds of crossings mentioned, and asks particularly for an injunction against any but the latter kind. It does not appear to me that it is possible to make any difference in this respect. It is doubtful whether, apart from the Statute last referred to, the provisions of the Railway Act, R. S. M. cap. 130, s-s 26-30, respecting railway crossings, would apply to such railways as those now in question. But the Statute seems now to make these provisions applicable, and to warrant the Defendant Company in constructing such crossings, and in operating its railway lines by means thereof over and across the Plaintiff's lines, under an Order of the Railway Committee of the Executive Council. It has not been disputed that such an order was made authorizing all these crossings, or that the crossings conform to the Order. Upon the argument in chief no question was raised as to the validity of the Order, but in reply some appears, however, to end to grant to the structing and operatli who might desire assage of the Plain-ers to authorize such the City Charter of Municipal Acts after 52 s. 349, s.s. 68 (M.

00, s. 695, s.s. (f). I onstruction of such the Plaintiffs might s shown to be such intiff's line for the ould have been laid ome point. At any ecessary or advant-
at which the new if's lines, or to have Plaintiffs. These lines alongside the s on other streets
ence and eneroach-efendant Company
ilway Act, to make company. The Bill
asks particularly appear to me that doubtful whether,
Railway Act, R. S. y to such railways
e these provisions
ructing such cros-
ver and across the
of the Executive de authorizing all pon the argument but in reply some

JUDGE'S REASONS.

KILLAM, J. such were suggested. Being raised in this way only and not really argued I do not consider them.

The bill, also, alleges that the Plaintiff Company desires to make extensions of its line to certain other named streets, and asks an injunction against the operation by the Defendant Company of any street railway on those streets, and also a declaration that the Plaintiff has the first right to build and construct street railways on any of the streets of Winnipeg not already occupied by the Plaintiff, and that the new Company has no right to occupy such streets until the Plaintiff has been offered the privilege of constructing the same, and has not accepted the offer within two months, and also that the City Corporation may be restrained by injunction from giving any consent to such user of the streets, to which the Plaintiff desires to extend its lines until the Plaintiff has neglected for two months to accept the offer or proposal to build on the same.

Upon these points some attempt was made by counsel for the Defendants to show that upon the evidence the prescribed offer had been made to the Plaintiff. This however appears to me not made out, nor does it appear that any right to such an offer has been in any manner waived. On the other hand, it is not shown that the Plaintiff Company has submitted to the City engineer, or other authorities, any plans of location or construction on new streets, or otherwise taken any overt act towards making such extensions. It is, I think, the necessary result of the opinions I have already expressed that the Plaintiff Company is entitled to no such relief. I regard the twenty-fifth clause, already discussed, as merely affording a means of revoking in part the original permission given to the Plaintiff Company, whose right to so extend its line appears still to exist, but not yet to be definitely disputed. If it shall see fit to make any attempt in that direction, and it be found that the works of the Defendant Company interfere with such extensions, or if that Company, or the Civic Authorities, try to prevent the same, then will be the time to consider the Plaintiffs' rights in that respect.

The Bill also asks that it be declared that the City had no authority to deprive itself of, or to contract away, its right to permit the Plaintiff to use electricity as the motive power for propelling street railway cars. Upon this point, also, no argument has been attempted, and it does not seem that we should express any opinion upon it.

I wish to add that, although I have made reference to scarcely any of the numerous cases in the American reports, to which we have been referred, I have examined and considered nearly all of those which have any bearing upon the point that I have been discussing, and particularly those cited in behalf of the really argued I do to make extensions

action against the those streets, and ld and construct
occupied by the uch streets until ame, and has not poration may be of the streets, to was neglected for the Defendants made to the appear that any ther hand, it is ty engineer, or reets, or others, I think, the

the Plaintiff clause, already iginal permis-
line appears fit to make e Defendant or the Civic consider the ty to deprive electricity as nt, also, no express any

any of the red, I have r upon the half of the

JUDGE'S REASONS.

KILLAM, J. Plaintiffs. They are very interesting and instructive, but in any intelligent discussion of them it would be necessary to point out certain distinctions between our Constitution and that of the United States, and their effect upon the decisions.

As this could not alter the result, and as, without this, the case could be disposed of on what has seemed to us to be proper principles, I have thought that no good purpose would be served by undertaking the task.

I agree that the Order dismissing the Bill should be affirmed with costs.

any intelligent distinctions be-effect upon the

could be dis-
thought that with costs.

In the Privy Council.

ON APPEAL FROM THE COURT OF QUEEN'S BENCH FOR MANITOBA,

---

BETWEEN

THE WINNIPEG STREET RAILWAY COMPANY,..... Appellants

AND

THE WINNIPEG ELECTRIC STREET RAILWAY COMPANY AND THE CITY OF WINNIPEG ..... Respondents

---

CASE FOR THE RESPONDENTS—THE WINNIPEG STREET RAILWAY COMPANY.

(Draft).

---

1. This appeal is from the unanimous decision of the full Court of Queen's Bench of the Province of Manitoba, (Taylor C. J., and Dubuc and Killam J. J.) pronounced on the 13th May, 1893, affirming the decision of Mr Justice Bain of that Court pronounced 12th December, 1893, dismissing the Plaintiffs' Bill with costs.

2. The suit was commenced on the 27th day of July, 1892, mainly to obtain a declaration that the Plaintiffs were entitled to the exclusive right to the use for tramway purposes for 20 years from 12th June, 1882, of the whole of Main Street, and Portage Avenue in the City of Winnipeg upon which the Plaintiffs were running their street cars, and asking for an injunction against the Defendant Company from operating tramways on those streets. The Bill of complaint also asked that the Defendant Company might be restrained from operating tramways upon certain other streets in Winnipeg known as Central Avenue, 14th Street North and 8th Avenue North streets, 17th Avenue North and 24th Street North on which the Plaintiffs had no lines, the plaintiffs claiming that under the By-law and Agreement and their Act of Incorporation below referred to, they had the first right to build and construct street railways upon any street in the City of Winnipeg, and that the Defendant Company had no right to occupy same for street railway purposes, or the City to grant that privilege, until the Plaintiffs had been offered the privilege of constructing same and had not accepted such offer within two months.

MANITOBA,

... Appellants

Y
... Respondents

EET

ill Court of Dubue and ision of Mr smissing the

to obtain a
the use for Main Street, intiffs were Defendant
omplaint also ating tramvenue, 14th 24th Street that under w referred ays upon pany had grant that cting same

3. The substantial questions with reference to the two branches of the Plaintiffs' case referred to in the last paragraph are (1) whether the City Council had power to grant the Plaintiffs a monopoly or exclusive rights under the Statutes below referred to; (2) whether they actually granted such rights by the By-law and Contract, the terms of which are below set forth; and (3) whether there was power in the City to agree with the Plaintiffs that no right to build tramways should be given to other parties proposing to build on streets not built upon by the Plaintiffs until two months after the Council had offered such right to the Plaintiffs.

4. The City of Winnipeg was incorporated by the Manitoba Legislature on the 14th day of May, 1875, by a special Act of Incorporation, Chapter 50 of that year. By sub-section 5, section 107 of that Statute the City was authorized to pass by-laws

"for regulating and governing street railway companies and fixing the rates to be charged thereon."

This Statute was amended by the Manitoba Statutes of 1877, 1878, 1879 and 1881, but the only statute important to be noted in connection with the matters in question here, is the Statute chapter 26, Manitoba Statutes of 1882, which was assented to on the 30th day of May, 1882, consolidating the Acts relating to the City and which contained the following clause relating to tramways:—

"CLIV. The Council may pass by-laws.

7. For authorizing the construction of any street railway or tramway upon any of the streets or highways within the City and for regulating and governing the same and for fixing the rates to be charged thereon."

The City of Winnipeg has ever since had the power contained in this sub-section, it being repeated in the same words in section 149, sub-section 129, chapter 78 of the Statutes of 1884; section 349, sub-section 68, chapter 52, of the Statutes of 1886; section 376, sub-section 41, chapter 51 of the Statutes of 1890; and in the present Municipal Statute of the Province, section 605, sub-section f, chapter 100 Revised Statutes of Manitoba, 1891.

The Statute chapter 26 of 1882, also contained the following sections (155 and 156).

"155. Every public street, road, square, lane, bridge or other highway in the city, shall be vested in the city subject to any rights of the soil which the individuals who hold out such road, street, bridge or highway, reserve."

"156. Every such public street, road, square, lane, bridge and highway, shall be kept in repair by the corporation."

"(d). All persons having made reservations in any street, road, or bridge, shall apply within six months after the passing of this Act to the City Council, in order to obtain a final settlement and adjustment under the provisions of this Act as hereinafter provided of such claim, otherwise such claim shall cease to exist."

5. The Plaintiffs' claim to the exclusive privileges asserted in the Bill of Complaint is founded upon By-law number 178 of the City of Winnipeg passed by the

ches of the ity Council
he Statutes
By-law and was power should be e Plaintiffs iffs.
ture on the 50 of that horized to ereon."

1879 and
e matters 82, which relating to s:—

rects or s to be

b-section, apter 78
atutes of
nd in the
apter 100

ons (155

all be road,

pt in

apply ettle-
aim,

of Com-
l by the Council of the City on the 12th day of June, 1882, and an agreement entered into under that By-law by the City of Winnipeg with the Plaintiffs on the 7th. day of July, 1882, the By-law purporting to be passed and the agreement entered into under the abovementioned Statute of Manitoba, chapter 37 of 1882. This Statute is the Act of Incorporation of the Plaintiffs, and was obtained from the Legislature on their petition for that purpose, the recital of the Act being as follows:—

"Whereas certain persons have by their petitions prayed that they may be incorporated under the title of "The Winnipeg Street Railway Company," for the purpose of operating street railways in the City of Winnipeg and the Parishes of St. Boniface East and West, St. John, St. James and Kildonan, with power to make extensions along streets and roads in the said City and Parishes, and with all powers necessary in connection therewith, and to amalgamate with any other street railway company or companies."

6. The clauses of this Statute relied upon by the Plaintiffs as supporting the power of the Council of the City of Winnipeg to pass the By-law above referred to are as follows:—

"VIII. The Company are hereby authorized and empowered to construct, maintain, complete and operate, and from time to time remove and change a double or single track iron railway, with the necessary side tracks, switches and turn-out for the passage of cars, carriages, and other vehicles adapted to the same, and along any of the streets or highways in the City of Winnipeg, and the Parishes of St. Boniface East and West, St. John, St. James and Kildonan, or any of them, and to take, transport and carry passengers upon the same, by the force or power of animals, or such other motive power as may be authorized by the council of the said city, and the Municipalities or any of them in which said Parishes, or any of them, or any part of one or more of them are or is situated respectively by by-law, and outside the limits of the City of Winnipeg, to carry freight and to use and construct and maintain all necessary works, buildings, appliances and conveniences therewith connected."

"IX. The Company shall have full power and authority to use and occupy any and such parts of any of the streets or highways aforesaid, as may be required for the purposes of their railway track, the laying of the rails and the running of their cars and carriages; provided always that the consent of the said city and municipalities respectively, shall be first had and obtained, who are hereby respectively authorized to grant permission to the said Company to construct their railway as aforesaid, within their respective limits, across and along, and to use and to occupy the said streets or highways, or any part of them for that purpose, upon such condition, and for such period or periods as may be respectively agreed upon between the Company and the said City, or other municipalities aforesaid, or any of them."

"XVII. The council of the said city and of any of the municipalities in which said parishes, or in which any of them, or any part of one or more of them are or is situated, and the said Company are hereby respectively authorized to make and to enter into any agreement or covenant relating to the construction of the said railway, for the paving, macadamizing, repairing and grading of the streets or highways, and the construction, opening of and repairing of drains or sewers, and the laying of gas and water pipes in the said streets and highways, the location of the railway and the particular streets along which the same shall be laid, the pattern of the rails, the time and speed of running the cars, (the amount of licenses to be paid by the Company annually), the amount of fares to be paid by passengers, the time within which the works are to be commenced, the manner of proceeding with the same and the time for completion, and generally for the safety and convenience of the passengers, the conduct of the agents and servants of the Company, and the non-obstructing or impeding of the ordinary traffic."

"XVIII. The said City and the said Municipalities are hereby authorized to pass any by-law or by-laws and to amend, repeal and enact the same, for the purpose of carrying into effect any such agreements and covenants, and containing all necessary clauses, provisions, rules and regulations for the conduct of all parties concerned, and for the enforcing obedience thereto, and also for the facilitating the running of the Company's cars, and for regulating the traffic and conduct of all persons travelling upon the streets and highways through which the said railway may pass."

7. The clauses of the By-law No. 178 of the City of Winnipeg (repeated in the t entered into he 7th. day of e entered into his Statute is e Legislature

lows :—

operated under ilways in the otonan, with h all powers
any or com-

pporting the ove referred

, complete
y, with the les adapted Parishes of ansport and as may be d Parishes, nd outside
necessary

h parts of the laying
d city and rized to respective em, for that n the Com-

ches, or in are here-
construction
ays, and r pipes in the same ses to be hich the lon, and nts of the w or byeements

ct of all
g of the ets and

ced in the same words in the Agreement referred to) on which the Plaintiffs rely for the grant of the exclusive right and the right to prevent the building of rival lines on the streets not built upon by them are clauses 1 and 25 of the By-law, in the following words:—

"1. The Winnipeg Street Railway Company are hereby authorized and empowered to construct, maintain, complete and operate, and from time to time remove and change a double or single track railway with the necessary side tracks, switches and turn-outs for the passage of cars, carriages, and other vehicles adapted to the same, upon and along any of the streets or highways of the City of Winnipeg, and to run their cars, take transport and carry passengers upon the same, by the force or power of animals or such other motive power as may be authorized by the said council of the said city, and on the terms and under the conditions and relations hereinafter contained in this by-law, and subject to the same, and such railway shall have the exclusive right to such portion of any street or streets as shall be occupied by said railway, and shall be worked under such regulations as may be necessary for the protection of the citizens of said city."

"25. In the event of any other parties proposing to construct street railways on any of the streets not occupied by the parties to whom the privilege is now to be granted, the nature of the proposal thus made shall be communicated to them, and the option of constructing such proposed railway, on similar conditions as are herein stipulated, shall be offered, but if such preference is not accepted within two months, then the corporation may grant the privilege to any other parties."

8. The Defendant Company in their answer and at the hearing disputed:—

(1) The power of the Council of the City to grant any monopoly or exclusive right to the Plaintiffs to the whole of any street for tramway purposes under the Statutes above quoted relating to the City and Company; such grant involving an agreement on the part of the City, to refrain from exercising their corporate powers during the period mentioned, 20 years.

(2) That any grant or exclusive right to the whole street was made or intended to be made,—the exclusive right being expressed in clause 1 of the By-law only with reference to the portion of the street occupied by the railway, thus leaving the remaining portion of the street free for other companies.

(3) The power of the City Council to pass the 25th clause of the By-law it being an unauthorized restriction on the legislative powers of the City Council and if there was power to pass it, that there was any breach of it.

(4) That there had been any breach of the contract of the Plaintiffs with the City or the terms of their By-law,—the Defendant Company's lines being operated by electricity and the Plaintiffs' lines by animal power.

(5) That this was a proper case for injunction.

(6) The Defendant Company also claims that the Plaintiffs waived any alleged rights by their laches and delay, having allowed the Defendant Company's works to proceed and great expense to be incurred before this suit for an injunction, and by delay in prosecuting such suit.

(7) And that the Plaintiffs' Agreement was never binding upon the City, it not being such an agreement as was authorized by the By-law. The answer of the Defendants the City of Winnipeg sets up practically the same defences.

ely for the
rival lines
-law, in the construct,

track rail-
, and other nipeg, and of animals
the terms
the same,
ed by said
ne citizens

the streets posal thus on similar within two disputed :—

exclusive under the involving corporate

de or inne By-law
way, thus

e By-law Council

with the operated

r alleged,
works to s, and by

City, it
swer of nces.

10. The Defendant Company assert their right to construct and operate tramway lines in Winnipeg under By-law number 543 passed by the Council of the City of Winnipeg on the 1st. day of February, 1892, and contract thereunder granting such right to James Ross and William McKenzie. The rights under this contract were afterwards, as permitted by clause 33 of the By-law, transferred to the Defendant Company and By-law 543 was ratified and confirmed by Statute of the Legislature of Manitoba, clause 34, chapter 56, passed in the year 1892 as follows:—

"34. By-law No. 543 of the City of Winnipeg, entitled 'A By-law of the City of Winnipeg respecting Electric Street Railways,' a copy of which by-law is Schedule "A" hereto, is hereby validated and confirmed in all respects as if the said by-law had been enacted by the Legislature of this Province, and the said Company shall be entitled to all the franchises, powers, rights and privileges thereunder."

11. This Statute incorporating the Defendant Company and confirming By-law 543 was opposed by the Plaintiffs before the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature, but was passed with full knowledge of the claim of the Plaintiffs and contains this provision in clause 33:

"33. Nothing in this Act or the Schedule thereto shall in any way affect or take away any right held by vested in or belonging to the Winnipeg Street Railway Company, if any such there be, but any such right may be held and exercised by the Winnipeg Street Railway Company as fully and effectually as if this Act had not been passed, but nevertheless the Winnipeg Electric Street Railway Company shall have power to cross, build and operate its line of railway across the lines of the Winnipeg Street Railway Company subject to the provisions of the Manitoba Railway Act."

12. By-law 543 had been passed by the City Council granting the powers therein mentioned to James Ross and William McKenzie after open, fair and public competition between them and the Plaintiffs, for the privileges in question, in which they and the Plaintiffs had each deposited $10,000 with the City as earnest of their bona fides, and after full consideration by the City Council of the merits of their respective propositions, the negotiations having lasted a number of months and each party having submitted proposals of terms they were willing to accept for the franchise. The powers given by By-law 543 are expressed to be (clause 1) and a similar statement is contained in the first recital of the By-law.

"subject to the legal rights of the Winnipeg Street Railway Company"

13. At the time of the passing of the Plaintiffs' Act of Incorporation, Winnipeg was, and is now, the capital of the Province of Manitoba, and was then a place of about 25,000 people, its population largely increasing at that time. Its present population is about 30,000. The two principal business streets are Main Street and Portage Avenue, each having a width of 132 feet, the other streets in question having a width of 66 feet. A considerable part of the Bill of Complaint is devoted to charging that it was inconvenient in the public interest and unsafe for the public that two rival lines of tramway should be operated on one street, each

e tran-
he City granting contract to the tate of 892 as ect-

and
and

g By-
of the intiffs

ht ny ly
t
ny

here-
com-
which their
their
and t for 1) ipeg

ce of oop-
and tion
t is for
ach

having double lines on Main Street. Some evidence was given on both sides at the hearing on this point, but Mr. Justice Bain, before whom the cause was heard, and witnesses examined held against the Plaintiffs and his finding was concurred upon this point by the three Judges of the full Court on the appeal, so that the objection does not seem to be of importance.

14. The Defendant Company commenced construction of their lines on the 29th of May, 1892, and before the Bill was filed had their line of tramway constructed and in operation from the Canadian Pacific Railway line on Main Street north to 17th Avenue North, then along 17th Avenue North to 24th Street North, and then southerly along 24th Street North to the Exhibition Grounds, these lines being ready for operation and being first operated on the 25th of July, 1892. The tramway on the rest of Main Street was then proceeded with, and was completed, together with the line on Portage Avenue, and the lines on Central Avenue, 14th Street North and 8th Avenue North.

15. The Defendant Company's lines are single lines of tramway, except the Main Street line which is a double line, the single lines having switches and turnouts to enable the cars to pass. The lines of the Defendant Company are separated from those of the Plaintiffs' on Main Street and Portage Avenue by distances which enable same to be operated without danger or inconvenience (see as above stated judgment of Bain J. affirmed by full Court on appeal). The total length of the lines of the Defendant Company at present constructed is eight and a half miles, and the total length of the Plaintiffs' lines about the same.

16. The question of the power of the Council of the City of Winnipeg to grant the Plaintiffs exclusive rights, turns altogether upon the provisions of the Statutes above quoted (the City's Act of Incorporation 45 Vic. Chap. 36) and the Plaintiffs' Act of Incorporation (45 Vic. Chap. 37). All the powers of the City of Winnipeg and its Council have been conferred by Statute and its powers are minutely set forth in the various Statutes conferring its powers. Up to the year 1886, these powers were contained in the Acts above mentioned, being its Act of Incorporation and the various Statutes amending same. In 1886 by Chapter 52, Manitoba Statutes of that year, there was a consolidation of the Acts relating to Municipalities of the Province, including the City of Winnipeg, and the same system was pursued of enumerating in detail all the powers intended to be conferred or exercised. This Statute was repealed in 1890 by "The Municipal Act" Chapter 51 of the Manitoba Statutes of that year adopting and continuing the same system. The General Municipal Act now in force, Chapter 100, Revised Statutes of Manitoba is a revision and practical continuation of the Act of 1890.

17. The City of Winnipeg being the creature of Statute, and having enumer-

at the
was ending in the

in the con-
street
orth,
lines 892.
was
tral

the outs
com ich ted nes nd

ant
tes
in-
of re ar
of 2,
to ne
n-
,"
ne
d
)
-

ated and well defined statutory powers and duties with deference to tramways and many other subjects, the Defendants contended it had no powers except those given in express words or by necessary implication. Its powers as to authorizing the construction of tramways on the City Streets were, outside of the Plaintiffs' Act of Incorporation, derived from the City Charter of 1882, Cap. 26, subsection 7, section CLIV., above quoted, giving power to do three things :

- (1) "To authorize the construction of any street railway."
- (2) "and for regulating and governing the same."
- (3) "And for fixing the rates to be charged thereon."

It is plain that nothing in this section authorized the giving of exclusive rights. The power to authorize, or regulate and govern does not imply power to agree that similar privileges shall not be given to other companies or persons. This clause authorized the City to confer tramway privileges upon any person or upon any tramway company, and was passed in the same session of the Legislature as the Plaintiffs' Charter, and was in force before the Plaintiffs' By-law was passed, and mentioned one of the subjects upon which it was the duty of the City Council to legislate impartially and as often as the good of the City might require, and such power was not capable of being bargained away.

18. The Plaintiffs' contention that it was intended that the City Council should have the right to agree to exclusive rights in favor of the Plaintiffs is mainly founded on the proviso, in section 9 of their Act of Incorporation. The first part of this section is what may be called the granting part of the section. The Legislature grants the power to construct tramways on the streets, and limits the power to "such parts of any of the streets as may be required for the purposes of their railway track, the laying of the rails and the running of their cars and carriages."

Then follows the proviso, making the exercise of the powers given by the Legislature conditional on obtaining the consent of the City.

"Provided always that the consent of the said City . . . shall be first had and obtained, who are hereby authorized to grant permission to the said Company to construct their railway as aforesaid . . . and to use and occupy the said streets or highways or any part of them for that purpose, upon such condition and for such period or periods as may be respectively agreed upon etc."

The function of the City is merely the giving of a license. The power to construct and operate is not given by the City. That comes from the Legislature ; the consent of the City being necessary only as a condition to the exercise of the state-given power, and the City having power to impose conditions of a lawful and authorized nature on the Company at the time of giving the license. This proviso introduces a limitation, and was not intended to enable the City to give

s and
those izing tiffs'
sub-

sive
er to ons.
n or gis-
By-
was
l of med

uld nly
ourt
The
nits

gis-

to
e;
he
'ul
nis
ve

the Company more than the Legislature had already given, or to enable the City to impose a condition on itself which should abridge its future legislative action, as to other companies. The words "upon such condition" in the proviso have a well defined meaning. They give the City power to impose restrictions on the Company's exercise of the right. The City had the power to authorize other tramways as one of its legislative powers. It could not have been intended to give the City power to abdicate merely its power on this subject because the Plaintiff Company obtained an Act of Incorporation. The contention of the Plaintiffs is that the words of this proviso were intended to enable the City to contract away the right to authorize other tramways, a power expressly conferred on the City as a statutory corporation for public purposes.

19. Assuming that there was any doubt as to the meaning of these statutory provisions, when considered with the powers given the City by its Charter of Incorporation, it is submitted that the rule usually applied to Acts of incorporation of Companies such as this, must be applied to resolve such doubt in favor of the public. This Statute was passed on the petition of the promoters of the Plaintiff Company, and should be considered as a contract in which the words are those of the promoters, and any doubt or ambiguity will operate against the Company.

20. It is submitted to be the rule applied to Municipal Corporations, when dealing with matters affecting public right, and especially highways, to confine them strictly to the powers assigned, and implications by which powers are claimed to exist which are not expressly given, are not favored, and not admitted unless unavoidable. It was contended, on behalf of the Plaintiffs, that the powers of the City to give an exclusive license must be implied, as otherwise parties could not have been got to invest capital in the enterprise. Mr. Justice Bain, in his Reasons (Record P), says, after considering the evidence :

"At the time it (the contract) was entered into, Winnipeg was a new and growing town, with a population of about 25,000, and it is well known that at that time it was expected the population would increase much more rapidly than it has. Main Street and Portage Avenue are streets of unusual width, having a uniform width of 132 feet, and the other streets that have been referred to have a width of 66 feet. At this time none of the streets had been paved, and it is shown that in the spring and fall and in wet weather the streets often became almost impassable for ordinary vehicles. These are about the only facts shown that bear upon the question, and while it may be inferred from them that the City would be desirous of having street railways introduced, they fail to suggest to me any such conclusion as that it was necessary in order that the City might come to an agreement with the Plaintiffs to build and operate street railways, it should be able to give the Plaintiffs exclusive rights. . . . And there is nothing to show either, that at the time the Agreement was made, the City, on account of its inability to induce the Plaintiffs, or others, to undertake the construction of street railways, had either to agree to give the Plaintiffs a monopoly or to do without railways; and I cannot find that from considerations of this sort, or any other, it was necessary that the City should have the power to give the exclusive right in order that it might be able to carry into effect the powers granted to it."

21. The courts below upheld the contention of the Defendant Company

the City
e action,
o have a s on the ze other ended to ause the
of the
the City
sly con-

atutory arter of
of in-oubt in omoters
ich the operate

s, when confine ers are nd not Es, that nel wise Justice

own,
pu-
are een
t is ote
and ays
at it er,
he
ve
of
ve

pany

that even if there was power to grant exclusive rights, no such grant was given as to those portions of the streets not actually physically occupied by the track, and line of the Plaintiffs' railway, and which might be necessary for the running of their cars and carriages. This finding was based upon clause one of the By-law and Contract, the words of that clause being expressed as follows :—

"And such railway shall have the exclusive right to such portion of any street or streets as shall be occupied by the said railway."

It was contended on behalf of the Plaintiff Company that the word "occupied" there, was to be given a more extended meaning than its ordinary meaning, and was to refer to the whole width of the street, and that it was not merely physical occupation of a portion of the street that was intended. Mr. Justice Bain did not find it necessary to decide the point, but the judges of the court on appeal, agreed that physical occupation only was intended, and that there was no reason for extending the meaning of the word "occupied" in that clause so as to include the whole width of the street; and that if there was any ambiguity as to the meaning of the word it must be resolved as against the Plaintiffs under the rule usually applied to grants to such companies. The chief ground upon which the Plaintiff Company contended that the word was to be given a wider meaning than mere physical occupation, was that the same word occurred in clause 25 of the By-law, and the Plaintiffs claimed that in that clause 25 the word had a wider meaning than that of mere physical occupation, and that the whole By-law and Contract should be read together, and that the same meaning should be given to the word throughout the contract.

22. The contention of the Defendants is that there is nothing in the Contract to indicate that it was intended that anything except the physical occupation of the portion of the street was referred to by the word "occupied" and that its meaning in clause 1 of the By-law must be the same kind of occupation as that which is referred to in clause 9 of the Plaintiffs' Act of Incorporation (under which the By-law purports to be drawn) where the purposes and the extent of the occupation are defined as being such parts of the street :—

"As may be required for the purpose of the railway track, the laying of their rails, and the running of their cars and carriages."

plainly referring to the actual extent of the street necessary for the carrying on of the business of the Company.

23. The Defendant Company claimed by their answer and at the hearing that if the City Council had power to give a monopoly, and if any such monopoly was actually given, that it was a monopoly only as to railways operated by animal power, and that a street railway operated by electricity was no breach of such monopoly. It is questionable in the first place as to whether electricity was one en

k,
ng
y-

"
d i.
e t
e t
y
e
f
e l
e
e
e

of the powers contemplated by the Act of Incorporation of the Plaintiffs at the time of its passing, as electricity was not then known as a feasible motive power for street railways, or at the most was in an experimental stage as such. (See evidence of            Record p.            ), and this contention of the Defendant Company involves the point that the Council of the City of Winnipeg, even if monopoly was intended to be granted, did not by the passing of the Plaintiffs' By-law and the entering into the Agreement in question, intend to grant away the exclusive right to operate street railways by all motive powers whether then known to be feasible or otherwise. The City of Winnipeg in 1890, by resolution of its Council, authorized the Plaintiffs to operate a portion of their line in the outskirts of the City, south of the Assiniboine River by electricity. That line is about three and one-half miles in extent. But north of the Assiniboine River, in what is the main portion and populous and business part of the City such permission had always been refused, and in the latter parts, being the parts where the Defendant Company's lines were afterwards built, the Plaintiffs have never had the right to operate by any motive power except animal power. The position of the Defendant Company with reference to this contention may be put shortly, thus: The City of Winnipeg, if monopoly was intended to be granted, gave the Plaintiffs the exclusive right to operate street railways by animal power only and the Defendant Company may be given the right to operate street railways by any other power than animal power, including electricity, and thus the City would not be guilty of a breach of the Agreement entered into with the Plaintiffs. There is no monopoly in street railways given, but if at all, merely a monopoly in street railways operated by a certain kind of power, namely, animal power. Since the Courts below were able to find in favor of the Defendant Company upon the other two points as to the power of the Corporation, and as to the actual construction of the Contract, there has been no decision upon this defence.

24. If the By-law and Agreement be held to give the exclusive right claimed by the Plaintiffs, then they will not be enforced because of their extreme unreasonableness in the following respects:—

(a) The monopoly is to last forever. No matter how populous the City becomes, no railway is ever to be permitted except that of the Plaintiffs'. It is true that provision is made for the cessation of the monopoly through purchase of the railway by the City, but the provision is entirely worthless for two reasons:—

(1) Because the City has no power to purchase a railway; and, (2) because the price is to be fixed by the unanimous award of three arbitrators and one of them is to be selected by the Plaintiffs themselves.

(2) The service required is almost valueless. The intervals are to be "not more than thirty minutes." The speed is to be "not more than six miles per hour;" there is no minimum. There is to be no forfeiture of privileges in case of their non exercise or improper exercise, nor any penalty whatever. There is to be no competition. There is no provision as to the character of the cars—even that they are to be closed and properly heated in winter time. One hundred years from now the City Council cannot permit any other company to lay a line upon any street in the City upon which the Plaintiffs have no line, no matter what service is offered and what amount can be got for the privilege if the Plaintiffs are willing to build upon their present terms, once every half hour and ten cents a trip.

25. Under clause 25 of the Plaintiffs' By-law corresponding with clause 27 of the Agreement executed under that By-law, the Plaintiffs claim that the City could not permit the Defendants to build lines of street railway on the streets on which the Plaintiffs had not built, until the Plaintiffs had been offered the option of constructing such proposed railways, and had not accepted same within two months. This argument affects the lines of Defendants built upon Central Avenue, 14th Street North, 10th Avenue North, 17th Avenue North and 24th Street North but does not affect the question of the right of the Defendant Company to build on Main Street and Portage Avenue. The Defendant Company's contentions with reference to this clause were (1) that it did not impose any restriction on the City in dealing with other companies, and (2) was merely intended to provide for a way of getting rid of any right of the Plaintiffs to build on those streets, but did not imply that other companies or persons should not have the right to build on those streets if the Council chose to permit rival lines, (3) that the City Council had no power to enter into such an agreement if the effect of same was to restrict the City from exercising the powers which they had under their Act of Incorporation and the clauses above quoted, of authorizing any line of street railway on the streets of the City. The Plaintiffs' contention was that they should be permitted to say after two months, whether they would accept the privilege or not, and that until after that time the City Council had bound themselves not to legislate as to other street railways on those streets. If there was no power to grant exclusive rights it seems certain that there was no power in the Council to agree to suspend its legislative and statutory powers for two months or any other period for the Plaintiffs' benefit. Another objection which may be urged against this clause, having the effect contended for by the Plaintiffs is, that the By-law in this respect is unreasonable and unfair. The provision is that if any other parties propose to construct street railways on streets not occupied by the Plaintiffs, then such right must be given to the Plaintiffs if they choose to accept same

per
in here
s—red line cter
the
and

use
hat ray
iffs
ad
of
th,
he
me.
at
er
of er
he
to m
he
of
ay
il
er
ts
ts
e
e,
is s
+
e

thus absolutely removing from the City Council any discretion in the matter, and making the right to build depend upon any proposition which may be made by any irresponsible party for constructing street railways in the City. If the clause has the meaning contended for by the Plaintiffs, it provides for an agreement that the Council will not during the period of twenty years exercise any discretion as to the choice of persons or companies who are to be permitted to build street railways, and the clause is invalid for partiality and discrimination in favor of the Plaintiffs.

26. The Plaintiffs' alleged agreement had never any validity, for it is not based upon the By-law. The By-law provides that it "shall only come into force after an agreement based upon the conditions and provisions herein stipulated shall have been entered into and executed between the said Company and the said Corporation."

The agreement does not conform to the By-law in this, that the latter grants permission and privilege to the Plaintiff Company only, whereas by the agreement they are granted to the Plaintiff Company, "their successors or assigns." This is no unimportant variation in an agreement which was to run forever, nor is it ever unimportant when the Company is one which is to render service to the public. There was no evidence of ratification of this agreement by the City.

27. Even if it were held that the Plaintiff Company has, by contract with the City, a grant of an exclusive right to use the streets for railway purposes, yet there are several reasons why an injunction should not issue against the Defendants:—

(a) Because the remedy could not be mutual. The Court has no power to compel the Plaintiffs to work the railway, and it is the settled practice of the Court to refuse specific performance of part of an agreement of which it cannot compel performance of the rest. Even if the Court could compel the Plaintiff Company to work the railway it could not insure its satisfactory operation, and at best only up to the very obsolete standard of the contract. Indictment for neglect would not lie.

(b) Because the Plaintiff Company have no sufficient locus standi, loss of profit is not sufficient. Substantial interference with their work is not pretended.

(c) The grantee of an exclusive right cannot sue a stranger for infringement.

(d) The laches and delay of the Plaintiffs is a complete bar. They were aware of all the Defendants' preparations and intentions (See Mr. Austin's evidence p.                   ), as well as of the Defendants' Agreement with the City Council and their charter of incorporation. Nevertheless they stood by and allowed the contract to be made and the work to be largely completed before

r.
e
e
-
y o n

t

r
e r
n
r
t

n
r
e

o
a t
f
l
r

i

r

e

r

e

r

e

any step was taken to assert their rights. The By-law providing for the Defendant's Agreement with the City is dated 1st February, 1892. Work was commenced on 31st May, 1892. The first route was completed and operation upon it was commenced 25th July, 1892. Work upon another route had been commenced when on the 27th July, 1892 the bill was filed. At this time $20,000 had been expended by the Defendants in the construction of their works. No application for interim injunction was made until the 22nd September, 1892; at which time the expenditure had increased to $60,000. When the application at length did come on to be heard, the Plaintiffs obtained its postponement until the hearing which took place 14th November, 1892 when the expenditure had amounted to $130,000. It may be that there is not here sufficient acquiescence to estop the Plaintiff altogether, but there is sufficient to induce the court to withhold from them the extraordinary remedy of injunction.

The Respondents, The Winnipeg Electric Street Railway Company, submit that the Judgment appealed from is correct and should be affirmed for the following, among other

REASONS:

1. Because the Mayor and Council of the City of Winnipeg had no power under its Act of Incorporation or the Plaintiffs' Act of Incorporation to grant a monopoly or exclusive privileges to the Plaintiffs, as such grant involved an agreement to refrain from exercising their proper corporate powers of legislation with reference to other tramways, as the interests of the City might require from time to time.

2. Because no such exclusive privileges were granted, or intended to be granted, by the terms of the By-Law 178 of the City of Winnipeg or the Agreement with the Plaintiffs, except as to the parts of the streets actually occupied by the Plaintiffs' lines, and necessary for the laying of their rails and the running of their cars and carriages, and because the Plaintiffs' Agreement never was in force.

3. Because the grant to the Defendant Company of power to operate lines by electric power was no breach of any right of the Plaintiffs, they having by the terms of their By-Law and Contract, power to operate on the streets in question by animal power only, no other power having been authorized, in the portion of the City where the Defendant Company's lines are, and even if there was a monopoly as to tramways operated by animal power, the City still held ungranted the power to authorize electric tramways.

4. Because as to the Defendant Company's lines on streets on which the

MICROCOPY RESOLUTION TEST CHART

(ANSI and ISO TEST CHART No. 2)

APPLIED IMAGE Inc

1653 East Main Street
Rochester, New York 14609 USA
(716) 482 - 0300 - Phone
(716) 288 - 5989 - Fax

Plaintiffs had no lines, there was no power in the City, or its Council, to pass Clause 25 of the Plaintiffs' By-Law, or give the Plaintiffs any preferential rights as against other Companies, such being an unauthorized restriction of the corporate powers of the City, and an interference with its legislative discretion as to granting similar powers to other Companies or persons.

5. Because clause 25 of the Plaintiffs' By-law did not give the Plaintiffs more power as to building lines on any street than Clause 1 of their By-law, the latter having given them ample power to build and operate lines on all streets, a privilege they had not availed themselves of as to the streets in question, and no new option was necessary.

6. Because the Defendant Company were expressly authorized by By-law 543 and the contract thereunder and their Act of Incorporation to construct and operate the tramway lines in question.

7. Because the Plaintiffs' had lost their alleged right to injunction by reason of their delay, and laches in commencing and prosecuting their suit, in the meantime allowing large expenditures to be made by Defendant Company in the construction of their lines.

8. Because in any case the alleged rights of the Plaintiffs are not such as can be enforced by injunction.

9. And for the reasons mentioned in the reasons of the four Judges appealed from.

