Theatrical ventures in Dawson have not as a rule resulted profitably to their promoters—owing principally to the fact that as a usual thing there have been too many of them in the field.

KLONDIKE NUGGET.

AN ILL-ADVISED ORDER.

The wisdom of the peremptory order respecting the closing of gambling is open to question. Every such action, no matter how justifiable it may appear upon its face, should be taken only after its probable effects have been well weighed and considered.

The bakers of Dawson have formed a combination. If the new combine furnishes a guarantee that nothing but free materials will be allowed to enter into the manufacture of the various food stuffs offered for sale, there will be no particular complaint from the public.

The Senator is the latest steamer to strike a rock on the Seattle-Skagway run. As a matter of fact there are very few of the boats plying the route which have not a record in the same connection.

We are forced to admit that our idea of turning Dawson into a winter resort has certain drawbacks. Klondike weather is altogether too fickle.

The people of Dawson have looked so long and anxiously for mail that even the tax notices were welcome visitors.

Stroller's Column.

Shortly after dark last night the following notes etched by a trembling hand on scraps of wall paper was handed around town:

"To all ex-members of de one-time Boosters Union an' to all guys in de boostin' perests, greeting: 'Youse is hereby notified dat a meetin' is called fer tonight at 2:30 o'clock on de bare place on de street betwixt de A. C. mess house an' de Rochester saloon where de scapin' steam from de sub rosa pipe mingled de severity of de wedder.'"

"Shirtless Kid, Convenor. It was half an hour after de hour named in de call before over a quorum was present, but at 2:15 this morning 40 forms were counted on de bare place on de street, all answering to de name of Kid except Hype Jimmie, Billie de Rat and Hit Cakes."

After a number of fights had taken place regarding de right to stand over a knot hole from which considerable steam was escaping, de Shirtless Kid walked over to de sidewalk, returned with an empty cracker box, sat it down close to de knot hole and said:

"De meetin' is now met, but owing to de abruptness of de weather, youse kin keep on yer hats." It was probably due to absentmindedness, but at this stage of de proceedings de Blow Back Kid pulled out a package of tobacco and some cigarette papers and no further business was transacted until everybody was smoking. The chairman then said:

"No guy what can't show a blue ticket handed ter him widin de past tree days is entitled ter participate in de meetin'." See? Every man present produced a ticket and some of them as many as four each. It was decided to make the one who had de most orders to leave town secretary. This honor fell to Billie de Rat.

The chairman then addressed de meeting as follows: "We is here probably fer de last time. In 48 hours from now de sun will have set on us. De curtain will be rung down on us not only as a union, once strong an' powerful, but as individuals. See? Any member havin' any ting ter say kin now make his spell."

Nearly every member present spoke, and each one in unmistakable language condemned de hold-up of Friday morning as de cause of de recent order closing all games Wednesday night. The evaporated Kid went so far as to say de perpetrators of de hold-up should be put on de wood pile, but for mentioning that word he was laid down and used for a seat as many as could occupy him.

After nearly every member present had presented his views de Skylight Kid made a motion to adjourn on de ground that, having no socks, his feet were getting cold, but de motion fell flat as it was apparent that all old time members of de union knew that de heavy part of de proceedings was yet to come. Every voice was hushed and all eyes turned on Hypo Jimmie. He slowly rose and both his hands came simultaneously from his pockets. In one he held a roll of paper and in de other a 40-82 Colts revolver. Stepping slightly outside de circle where he could see to read by a street light he shook de manuscript at his audience and said:

"Gentlemen! (Don't tink dat word includes mo'n de half of youse, fer it don't!) Der is sompin' in dis yung won't like, but dere is also sompin' in dis (moving de gun) dat youse don't like neder, but de fast man wot interfers wid de readin' of de former will be made de recipient of de contents of de latter."

"Knowing de desperate character of de man before them, all breathing was suspended on de part of de audience and de reading began: Whereas, de jig is up, an' whereas, dis deplorable state of affairs was brought about by de hold-up of a club house an' a robbery in which none of us did'nt get no cut, an' Whereas, we is trowed out'en all visible means of support by de greed of two or three men what wot n-

But since the weather turned cold the outer end of the hose freezes up and on two occasions I have just been able to get the mask off in time to save my pet from suffocation. We can not afford to keep a steam thresher working at the end of the hose, and if I lengthen it out that many of us'll be there (stand back or I'll shoot) before spring, dere, be it.

Resolved, dat six of we se endeavor ter git on de jury what tries de robbers, pervidin' dey is ketched, an' be it.

Resolved, dat de old rule regarding special dispensations fer eatin', other than 5 times a week be declared off, an' be it.

Resolved, dat any guy kin eat every time he has a chance, an' furder, be it.

Resolved, dat de country is ordered out'en the county cant made a sneak ter de creeks, dat we decorate ourselves in female attire as freights on de river will ax us ter ride, an' be it.

Resolved, dat notwithstanding de disruption of dis union, dat we is pledged collectively and singly to keep de town ter de police an' den appear in a body an' festly agin' him, an' if we se saw wood at all it will be under conviction and not voluntarily.

The Seam-Squirrel Kid moved de adoption of de resolutions as read, de second being accorded by de Grand-lated Kid. The motion was adopted de vote being taken by holding up de right hand, each man feeling to serious to trust himself to speak.

After de emotion had somewhat subsided de meeting adjourned, aftersinging de closing ode to which a improvised verse was appended a follows: Good-night each old-time brother, Your boozing days are 'ber— Henceforth you'll sigh but high in vain For th' old bed on de floor."

In connection with the order to close de games in Dawson, de principle one of which for several months has been Black Jack, it is a peculiar coincidence that at midnight of de

HERSHBERG, CLOTHIER

OWNED TOWN TEMPORARILY

New Westminister, Oct. 25.—That the wild scenes and daring deeds from the life of the western cowboy are not past-history yet has had picturesque demonstration up-country.

Only the other day an illustration of the free life of this fast disappearing type of manhood in the wild and woolly west, and which is so often pictured in comic papers, was enacted with all its startling and exciting touches of the early days, not many miles from New Westminister.

Joseph Williams, a Nicola cowboy, was the star of the tragic drama, and Curriegan's hotel in the town of 1,000 which was famous in the mining days of 1858 was the scene of the enactment.

Williams has been living at Hope with his wife for some time past. On Tuesday morning Larry Yates, an old chum who had been away for over a year, arrived in Hope, and went at once to find his bosom friend, whom he had not seen for many months.

Each was jubilant to meet the other, and the result was that the new arrival suggested that they go and have a drink. This they did. When they purchased several flasks of fire-water they mounted their bronchos, started on a ride around town on a grand celebration.

Finally the stock of fire-water was exhausted. By this time it was well on in the evening, and Williams and Yates thought they would go to the saloon, which, by the way, is the only one in the town, and procure a fresh supply. By this time both of the riders were in a hilarious mood. They agreed that Williams should go in after the fresh supply.

So he spurred up his cayuse and started on a wild ride for the saloon with his revolver in hand. Arriving there he never pulled a gun, but drove the horse into the barroom, firearm in hand.

He entered the door with a "Whip-for-ay!" Bang, bang, bang, went the shots, and in a moment mirrors and glasses all shattered to the floor.

The intruder explained he was just showing the reverend westerners in the saloon how rear he could shoot to the hip and through their hats, without hitting them, and not to fear there was no danger.

However, they did not appreciate the situation and desired for safety behind doors, under the bar, or any other handy place of refuge. In so doing several of them narrowly escaped being shot dead.

Williams, when he had finished his target practice in the cowboy style, drove up to the bar and coolly asked for a flask of whisky.

James Curriegan, a son of the Emerald Isle, is the proprietor of the saloon, and although true to the interests of his country, and has a deep sense of honor, he was unable to see the harmless side of the joke and refused to appear and wait on his customer.

REVOLTING COURT CASE...Is That of Jackson's Latest Before London Tribunal...London, Oct. 17.—The hearing of the charges against Theodora and Laura Jackson (Ann O'Delia Dis Deary) continued today. The police court was crowded, a number of women being among those present, while the police found it necessary to clear the sidewalk of those who were anxious to obtain admission and hear the most loathsome testimony ever given publicly in a London court...The witness examined today was Daisy Adams, a young girl, wearing a red Tam O'Shanter cap with her hair in curls hanging down her shoulders. She testified that she had been enticed to London under the promise of being taught music...Laura Jackson continued to conduct the case for the defence. She one version being that young Fisher was clothed in a soiled draggled white silk toga. The woman evidently had a powerful influence over the crowd and hissed the pair heartily as they were led out of the court room...Crowds of people outside the police court waited patiently but in vain for a chance of hooting the prisoners. The police are taking special precautions, fearing that the prisoners might be lynched if the mob ever got hold of them...The Jacksons will spend the interim in Holloway jail...Shot Companion Dead...Oakville, Oct. 4.—A shocking tragedy occurred near here yesterday, whereby Frank Fisher, the twelve-year-old son of George Fisher, was accidentally shot and killed by a companion, Gilby Hardy, aged 25, son of Mr. George H. Hardy, a respected farmer in Trafalgar township. The two parties to the tragedy were engaged in the pursuit of a mischievous cat, which had been a nuisance on the farms of both families. They were under the barn at Mr. Hardy's farm, the son of the latter being armed with a revolver. Just how the accident occurred is not very clear, the one version being that young Fisher was in the semi-darkness was mistaken for the cat, and another that Hardy's revolver was accidentally discharged by

AN INDIAN CLAIMS HER...John All Scars Claims He Married Ada Gifford...New York, Oct. 25.—Poor Ada Gifford has never been taught the Indian language. This is truly a shocking state of affairs, considering the fact that Miss Gifford is an actress born and bred in the heart of a big city where schooling is free...But such is the case, so how could the poor young woman know that she was being made the "good squaw" of a red man when some of his tribe were dancing merrily round them? She says she simply thought it was an imitation war dance for her benefit...But Miss Gifford, it is said, is certainly the wife of John All Scars, according to Indian law. Whether she will be a "good squaw" or not remains to be seen, for the man who considers himself her liege lord has gone to Philadelphia to claim her, and to remind her of the vows she is avowed to have taken without knowing it...Animals and Music...Some interesting experiments have been made recently in Europe with the object of ascertaining the exact influence of music on animals. A concert was first given at a poultry show at Posen. While the musicians were tuning their stringed instruments the fowls paid no attention, but as soon as they began to play they listened intently, and the only one among them that seemed dissatisfied was an old turkey cock. Though all his companions were perfectly quiet, he made even more noise than usual. The concert was regarded as a success and a convincing proof that poultry like string music...That animals like to hear a violin played seems also to be clearly proved. Herr F. C. Haier, a German zoologist, played in their presence many times, and found that the music pleased them. A puma at the first sound of the violin stretched himself all length in his cage, and listened quietly as long as the music was soft and low, but the moment it became loud and fast he sprang to his feet, lashed his sides with his tail and began to pace nervously up and down his narrow enclosure...On leopards the violin made hardly any impression. A lioness and three and three cats seemed somewhat disturbed, but as soon as the player started to go on to the next cage they came forward and lay down. Herr Baier then played soft music which seemed to please them, and this was followed by a lively dance, at the first bars of which the cats sprang up and gambled wildly about the cage. On the other hand, two striped hyenas, when they heard the music darted back to the very end of their cage...Monkeys showed much curiosity, but only a small one from South America showed that he was intensely pleased with the music. His cage being made of glass, he placed his ear against one of the small holes in it so that he could hear more distinctly, and when the player passed on he followed him, as far as his cage would allow. Prairie wolves at the first sound of the violin came out of their holes and ran here and there as though they were trying to find out where the sounds came from. Then, having satisfied themselves on this point, they sat in a semi-circle around the player, and, when he stopped playing they came up to him and stretched out their paws...An Exceptional Case...Physician—You should eat plenty of fruit. THE COMING GLOVE CONTEST

Between Slavin and Devine Now. All Arranged for.

Will Take Place at New Savoy on the 22 at 9:30 P. M.—Big Money Has Been Placed.

All arrangements have been satisfactorily made between the backers of Devine and those behind Slavin for the forthcoming ten-round contest between those genies of the bennetted fists and the men, unless some unforeseen accident occurs will meet in combat next Friday night at the New Savoy theater. What the outcome of the meeting will be it is almost impossible to prophesy, both men having their admirers and prejudiced partisans. It seems incredible that Devine can or rather will win the match, but that some of the shrewdest sports in town believe he can win is evidenced by the money they are placing on him. There has been $7500 put up on the match and the following is a copy of a voucher for that amount now in the Canadian Bank of Commerce:

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE

Dawson, Nov. 15th, 1901.

To John A. Moe, Dawson: Dear Sir—We have to advise that you have this day deposited the sum of seventy-five hundred dollars ($7500), for account of John A. Moe, as stakeholder in Slavin and Devine contest.

This is issued by the bank as a letter of advice only; it is not negotiable, and confers no control over the deposit on the party who may hold it. Yours truly,

J. D. BELL, Manager.

Countersigned, A. W. COMPLIN, Accountant.

The articles of agreement signed by both men will make interesting reading, showing as it does that the men are out for all that's in it and with the determination to win all or none. The go under any circumstance will be worth seeing and will probably be the only first-class event to be pulled off in Dawson this winter.

ARTICLES OF AGREEMENT.

We, the undersigned, F. P. Slavin, W. Devine, do hereby agree to box a ten-round glove contest, with five ounce gloves, Queensbury rules to govern, for a side bet as follows:

F. P. Slavin bets $5000 against $2500 that he defeats the said W. Devine. W. Devine bets $2500 against $5000 that he defeats the said F. P. Slavin. The stake money to be made good as follows: $2500 and $1250 now in the hands of stakeholder, balance as follows: $2500 and $1250 to be in the hands of the final stakeholder, Mr. John A. Moe, on or before 2 p. m. of the 15th day of November, 1901.

It is agreed either party failing to make good his final stake money on the said date, shall forfeit all rights to any part of money deposited in stakeholder's hands, stakes to go to man fulfilling his agreement. It is further agreed winner to take all stake money and gate receipts after the deduction of hall rent and printing. We also agree that referee shall be chosen at ringside, his decision to be final and binding, and stakes and all bets on the said contest to be paid over on his decision.

It is further agreed, Mr. John A. Moe shall be final stakeholder and pay all bets staked in his trust to the winner or his representative according to referee's decision.

It is finally agreed the said contest to take place at Dawson on the 22nd day of November, 1901, in the New Savoy or such hall as agreed upon by both parties.

Both parties to be in the ring at 9:30 p. m. sharp.

F. P. SLAVIN, WM. DEVINE.

Witness: BENJ. J. DAVIS, Quadruplicate.

Dawson, Nov. 15th, 1901.

This is to certify that John A. Moe has received from S. Applebaum, Tom Lamar and Jack Smith the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars ($2500), each, as a wager on a glove contest between F. P. Slavin and W. Devine. This money to be paid over on the 23rd inst. at Davis & Frye's cigar store at 10 a. m. as follows:

If F. P. Slavin wins, Sam Applebaum and Tom Lamar get $3750 each, and if W. Devine wins Jack Smith gets the entire purse.

Money to go with referee's decision. This looks like business and there can be no doubt of the authenticity of the advice. The money was deposited on a 2 to 1 bet in favor of Slavin.

LIBRARY CONCERT

Last Night Was Attended by an Appreciative Audience.

The concert given last evening in the lecture room of St. Andrew's church, on behalf of the public library was an equal success to the former one given in Pioneer Hall two weeks ago.

The building was crowded to its utmost capacity and many had to be turned away.

The programme was one of excellence in every particular and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present, and was as follows:

- Solo—Mrs. A. D. Williams. Solo—Mrs. Boyes. Solo—Mrs. Torrey. Reading—Mrs. Moore. Violin solo—Miss Larsen. Piano solo—Miss Williams. Solo—Mr. G. H. McLeod. Solo—Corporal Cobb. Solo—Mr. Miller.

Mr. Justice Dugas presided as chairman and made an excellent address at the commencement of the programme, and for several moments kept the audience in convulsions at his witty sayings.

Mr. C. W. MacPherson, Mr. Finnie and Miss McFarlane, who had been announced as contributors to the programme were unable to attend owing to other engagements. Mr. McKinnon, whose name also appeared on the programme, sent $10 as his proxy, official business detaining him. Otherwise the program was rendered as previously published and every number was received with approbation by the immense audience.

These concerts will be continued fortnightly throughout the winter and will be awaited expectantly by the people of Dawson.

The collection taken for the benefit of the funds of the library amounted to $49.

JUDGE DUGAS IN CHAMBERS

His Argument in the Orpheum Case Today.

Mr. Justice Dugas again sat in chambers today, the forenoon being occupied in hearing the argument on the motion to continue the injunction now in force in the case of Eads vs. Levy and Jackson, the action better known as the Orpheum theatre controversy.

Attorney Hulme, appearing for Levy, and Attorney Hazel for Jackson, are seeking to have the restraining order dissolved and placed in possession of the building, they alleging the forfeiture of the Eads lease upon several grounds. By the lease it is stated no transfer of the same was to be made except under the written permission of Levy, notwithstanding which Eads it is said transferred an individual hall interest in it to one Alex Pantages, defendant also claim forfeiture by reason of the sheriff having seized the premises under a writ of execution, also on account of negligence as to keeping a certain amount of water on the premises as a protection against fire as required by the provisions of the lease, and other minor matters which are characterized by plaintiff's counsel as being frivolous and not pertaining to the question at issue at all. Messrs. Black and Congdon, counsel for plaintiff, ably defended their position, citing many authorities in support of their views. A fine point was drawn in determining the distinction between "goods" and "chattels," the question arising out of the wording of the writ of execution placed in the sheriff's hands for service. It was held by plaintiff that according to the directions set forth in the writ it was manifestly impossible, acting under those directions, for the sheriff to make a seizure of the leasehold. The motion was well contested, bringing out many seemingly trivial technicalities. His lordship reserved his decision, pending the delivery of which the injunction remains in force with Eads still in possession of the theatre.

The case of V. Y. T. Co. vs. Maccaulay Bros. is on trial this afternoon.

IN HONOR OF ST. ANDREW

General Meeting of the Society Held Last Night

Arrangements for the Ball Are Nearly Complete—Undesirable Characters Not Allowed.

The members of St. Andrew's society held an enthusiastic business meeting yesterday evening in the dining parlors of the Regina hotel. There were present: R. P. McLeannan, president; H. E. Ewart, secretary; Dr. Alfred Thompson, James McDonald, C. W. MacPherson, Dr. McArthur, J. U. Nicol, D. C. McKenzie, Wm. Thornburn, J. T. Bethune, G. Sinclair, Col. MacGregor and Piper Henderson.

Many of the minor details were gone into concerning the coming ball and reports from several committees were read. A letter from Governor Ross was presented, thanking the society. The hall committee reported that they had decided to recommend, which was subsequently adopted, the putting in at their own expense a temporary addition to the present gallery extending half way down each side of the room, five feet in width. Such arrangement will afford much additional room for spectators. The question of the best way to exclude undesirable characters was fully discussed and it was decided to follow the same manner adopted at the last ball. The secretary will issue tickets to only certain members of the society, who not only possess an extensive acquaintance but whose names are above reproach and cards of admission can be secured only through them. The member selling the ticket writes the name of the purchaser on its face, endorsing his own name on the back, thus becoming sponsor for everyone he issues. It was determined unanimously to draw the line as closely, if not more so, than ever before. The tickets will be limited in number, it not being the desire of the society to have any surplus left after paying expenses nor to unduly crowd the hall, the cards of admission will also be non-transferable. The estimated cost of the ball is $2,500. Tickets, as was decided at the first meeting held, will be the same as last year—$15 for a lady and gentleman with an additional charge of $2.50 for ever extra lady.

The decorations promise to be very elaborate, the piece de resistance being a huge St. Andrew's cross to be hung from the centre of the proscenium arch and composed of 76 multi-colored electric lights, plans for the same having been prepared by Secretary Ewart. It was announced that a contract had been let for the programs, which were to have a covering of silk, be printed in appropriate design and of such character that they may be preserved as a souvenir of the occasion. Thus, Bruce, formerly of the Holborn, was awarded the contract for the catering.

The musical features will be especially attractive. The orchestra will consist of seven pieces under the direction of Mr. A. P. Eriemuth and solos will be rendered by Miss Katharine Krieg, Miss Beatrice Lorne and Mr. G. H. McLeod. Four little children will execute several fancy Scotch dances. The ball gives indications of surpassing that of last year and if it does it will reflect no end of glory upon the members of the society, who are working so indefatigably for its success.

His Kick.

Gold Run Creek, Y. T., November 14, 1901

Editor Klondike Nugget, Dawson, Y. T.

Dear Sir,—Having noticed the articles in the columns of your valuable paper agitating for an overland mail route, I beg leave to draw your attention to the fact that the construction of a trail is no guarantee of mail service. For instance, take the case of Gold Run Creek. We on this creek have not only a trail, but a good wagon road and a daily stage, which we have had for more than a year. Still we receive no mail unless we go to Dawson for it, or commission some one to bring it for us.

Nearly a year ago the Dawson postmaster visited our creek, chose a location for a postoffice and gave us to understand that a postoffice would be established on the creek as soon as the paraphernalia could be got in from the outside and that a mighty effort would be put forth to get it in before the river broke up. The river broke up, and the Emma Knott has arrived, but still no paraphernalia. The reason for this we cannot understand unless it be that the authorities are waiting for a reduction in the White Pass freight rates.

Ole Olson, our creek blacksmith, guarantees that he can make the stamp. What other paraphernalia is required? Perhaps the Strober will come to our rescue!

AUDITORIUM'S GOOD SHOW

"A Man of Mystery" Makes Big Hit This Week.

The Auditorium was packed to the doors last evening. The initial performance of "A Man of Mystery" was presented by Mr. Bittner and the Auditorium stock company. The occasion was a special one, all the talent in the company having volunteered their services for a benefit to Murray Eads, the proprietor of the house. Every seat in the house was taken and the boxes were all completely filled, which fact encouraged the actors to extra efforts to give a successful and satisfactory performance. The "Man of Mystery," better known as "the Sheck," was assumed by Mr. Bittner, who, while he played the part with conscientious attention to detail, is not calculated to assume the roll of a deep dyed villain. Richard Glenwood, the man of mystery, comes of a good family, but is a thorough degenerate. He deceives his uncle, and his trusting sister into the belief that he spends his time in charitable undertakings while in reality he is the ringleader of a band of criminals. He plots with his confederates to rob his uncle of a quantity of valuable jewelry and accomplishes his purpose by the exercise of the power of hypnotism which he possesses in a marked degree. He casts a spell over his uncle and causes the latter to open the safe containing the valuables. The burglars flee but the crime is discovered by Lucifer, a private detective who is employed as private secretary by Richard's uncle. The criminal's sister also learns the truth and she is dragged to the den.

Archair Critic.

Lord Roberts gives his countrymen the best advice possible as to the Boer war. He tells them to be patient. This advice is good, but it is not likely to stop the growling of discontented quarters. The war the case is put by the average critic of the government is annoying to English pride. What has come to pass, the people say, that our army of two hundred thousand men, commanded by one of the foremost of living generals, cannot conquer a little force of ten thousand or so poorly-armed, mounted men? This has that good, easy, archaic sound to it that breaks the fireside captain. We heard his wise in this country during the war with Spain. He grew very indignant with Shafter after the landing in Cuba. Why parley an instant with that measly crowd? He lost all patience with Sam. Why, with the force about he had at his command, did not the hero of Havana and take the city of course. Morro castle was to be reclaimed with, but what were battalions made for but to knock down such obstructions? Really, there was such a din raised about the details of our defeat—a stranger might have supposed that the only man in America competent to direct the American operations in the field had neglected to enlist.

Lord Roberts has been in South Africa. He knows "the lay of the land." He knows all about the long lines of communication that must be protected, and what percentage of the English army is necessary for that duty. He knows the methods of the Boer warfare. He knows how free a hand the Boer has in the struggle, with nothing to consider but keeping his skin whole, and, except when everything is in his favor, keeping in a country with which he is wholly unfamiliar, out of the reach of the enemy. Ten thousand men, plucky and hardy, and operating in such circumstances, compose a powerful and dangerous force. England needs all of her patience and all of her perseverance. It is not a question of staying in the Transvaal, but of staying anywhere in South Africa. The lines of the original controversy with the Boers have all disappeared—Washington Sun.

He Was a Bruiser.

When we opened a new branch office in Wisconsin," said the railroad man, "it was found that about every man who traveled between the towns of D. and P. was a deadhead—that is, they were miners, sawmill hands and lumbermen—and they severely told the conductor to go to when he demanded fare. He tried to put two or three of them on his train, but got his nose broken and two or three teeth knocked out as a result. We sent our best men up the branch, but they were licked as fast as they appeared. In this emergency I was instructed to secure the aid of a prizefighter. I went down to Chicago and got some of the boys to put me on to a heavyweight, and at an interview with him I told him what was wanted. He was to act as brakeman and lead the conductor down and drag him out for the conductor. When I asked if he thought he could clean out the places being ticked, he laughed and replied, "It'll be peanuts for me. I'll bump and bang the lot till they'll become as gentle as kittens."

He was a big fellow and a fighter with a record, and though his terms were pretty high, we accepted them and installed him. It was all on the quiet, you know—a little surprise party for the deadheads. On his first run there were nine lousy chaps who refused to come down with the cash, and the train was stopped and the new brakeman called in to do the knocking. He went in slambang, knocking them, right and left, but after "cutting" friends, a couple of those men hopped up and sniped at our man didn't last five minutes after the real business began. They not only blackened both his eyes, split his nose, damaged his chin, and pulled out most of his hair, but drove him into the woods; and we had to send out a searching party to find him. He was the saddest looking object you ever saw when he was brought to me, and when I tried to trace him up he shook his head and backed off and said:

"No more of that, confound it, I came up here a fighter, with a record, but I've been licked by a log rigger, who never saw a pair of boxing gloves. I got the best thing you can do is to pull up the rails and let your old branch line to the country, for a turnpike!"

CONDITION OF THE ICE

Difficult Traveling and Making Open Water.

G. F. Mayhood, an owner of a portion of the goods contained in the snow left by the Nora size mine in low Stewart on her coasting by down the river in a field of ice returned Saturday night from a big thaw-point. In company with a big team in charge of a drive out early in the week by Agnes Hill, the Nora line the trip was not, however, without considerable hardships being experienced. The dogs were left some distance behind, it being impossible to get them any farther on account of the water, the balance of the distance being made on foot and alone. On the return the trail was found to be improved none whatever, and in places being mountain high, followed by long stretches of open water, particularly where the water strikes the foot of a high hill. Travel is impossible, it frequently being necessary to climb over around bluffs nose or less perpendicular where it had been left by the Nora, the contents not having been disturbed. The goods will be freighted to the city as soon as the ice is in fit condition for heavy traffic.
