A Barefaced Robbery(?).

Forth-five minutes after midnight on the morning of Jan. 16 last, the officers of the egyptian Monarch, then in lat. 44 deg. and lon. 43 deg., which is about 1300 miles southwest of Queenstown, discovered a brilliant light almost dead ahead, just half a point over the port bow. "A ship after ahead, sir," sang out the lookout, and the wildest excitement instantly followed, for of all marine disasters, a fire is dreaded most by sailors. Capt. I win took command, and, although a gale was raging, aftered the steamer's course and made for the burning vessel.
