RUB ON NERVINE.

When you have been exposed to wet and cold and your muscles are full of pain, nerves are jumping with neuralgia, then you should have ready at hand a bottle of Nervine. It relieves pain of its various forms, gives relief to all suffering, brings ease and comfort wherever used.

No care or expense has been spared to secure for Nervine the purest and best materials. It is prepared with a single aim to restore the sick to health. This cannot be said of the preparation that an unscrupulous dealer may ask you to accept. Instead of Nervine, he will warn you it is the extra profit made on inferior goods that tempt the substituter. Of him beware.

Get Nervine when you ask for it, then you are sure of a remedy that will cure all aches, strains, swellings, and the pains of rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago.

In the last hundred years no liniment has been produced that can compare with Nervine in strength, penetrating power, or in curative ability.

For nearly forty years it has been Canada's household remedy, the mothers will do well to follow the advice of Mrs. Jessie Higgins, of St. Paul, O., Ont., who says:

"Very frequently there are ailments in the family that can be cut short if Nervine is handy. When my child comes in from play, with a cough or a bad cold, I rub them well with Nervine, and they are well almost at once. Nervine is fine for carache, toothache, chest cold, lumbago, stiffness, rheumatism or neuralgia. I just there is scarcely a pain or ache in man or beast it won't cure quickly."

The large 50c. family size bottle is the most economical; trial size 25c; at all dealers, or the Catarhoes Co., Kingston, Canada.

The Roll of Honor.

Your faces have been the picture of the roll of honor of our valiant English dead! What woman's hands, I wonder, have washed them? What woman's heart breaks now the story? We speak of liberty and the cause you died for. We lay our hands on your bloodstained shirt. Will glory help to ease the woman's anguish, or shame them for those that died they gave? Yes, surely, for your spirits glow before those. You, who made Death a crown about your lives! And in the splendor of your souls that captured us from this land, and to be the chief for Law and Order for Truth and Progress.

These cannot pass away with mortal breath. O God guard them safe, and in 21st century breathe. Are also those who only looked on death!

—Lionel Daily Chronicle.

A Voice from America.

Lord Newton sends us for publication this month a letter written to him by a distinguished member of America's most distinguished family, Mr. Charles Francis Adams.

South Lincoln, Mass., October 31st, 1914.

My DEAR LORD NEWTON.—As respects the war and the attitude of Great Britain the situation is very clearly understood in America, and the current of public opinion is all one way and in your favour. You can safely leave the course of events and the trend of opinion to the representative Germans in this country, including more especially the Ambassador at Washington, von Bernstorff, who strikes me as being utterly unfit for his position. He has done the German cause immense harm and brought himself into great discredit. This, by indelicat and unnecessary talking. The man apparently does not realize that foreign nations do not like to be everlastingly instructed as to their obligations, their duties and the direction in which their sympathies should go forth. They are apt to think that, not being wholly devoid of common sense, they are competent to form their own opinions. They therefore invariably resent the schoolmaster and the propagandist. It was just so during the Civil War, when we sent out to my father's great antagonists, the journalists, clergymen, lecturers, and character otherwise eminent, to denounce like a swarm of locusts on Great Britain and instruct the people of your community as to their moral obligations in the struggle now going on. It was on our part a mistake, and anything of the same character now would be a mistake on your part. Moreover, as I have already intimated, the representative Germans over here are doing the cause of their 'Fatherland,' as they are pleased to call it, infinite injury. The sophistries and prevarications of fact which they have recourse to are creative of more amusement than disgust even, and that is saying much. Under these circumstances you Englishmen, as I believe me, do not quarrel with me, but let us all unite in a hearty condemnation of the course pursued by the German Government. Let us all unite in a hearty condemnation of the course pursued by the German Government. Let us all unite in a hearty condemnation of the course pursued by the German Government.

When you meet the foe you will defeat them. No quarter will be given; no prisoners taken. Let all who fall into your hands be at your mercy. Just as the Huns a thousand years ago, under the leadership of Attila, gained a reputation in virtue of which they still live in historic tradition, so may the name of Germany become known in such a manner in China that no Chinaman will ever again dare to look askance at a German.

The Germans are now following out this pretext. My friend, General James H. Wilson, who accompanied the American contingent in China, assures me that the atrocities perpetrated by the Germans there, especially as respect women, were something too atrocious for record; and, more over, were unblushingly acknowledged as a regular feature of warfare. Wilson on this point is an authority. He knew from personal observation that which he spoke.

As to the outcome—I have had too many experiences of the uncertainties of warfare to venture any predictions. I will remember, for instance, that fifty years ago all England, with Mr. Gladstone at the head, declared that our war could have but one end, and that end was already an accomplished fact—the independence of the Confederacy. Lord Derby then asserted that the one utterly impossible result was the restoration of the old Union. I also have a distinct recollection of how, subsequently, Mr. Gladstone referred to his attitude and utterances at the previous time as a mistake of 'inconceivable grossness.' I do not, therefore, venture any prediction; but I am strongly of opinion that the struggle can have but one result, if Great Britain retails its naval supremacy. It is only a question of time when Germany, shut up within its own limits, and throttled by a blockade, will get black in the face, and drop from its haunts. The first indications of some such result are already apparent.

Meanwhile the cost in men, money, and material of the struggle is something I in vain try to grasp. I take it that it is not unreasonable to say that, aggregating the six or eight combatants, including Belgium and Serbia, with Italy, Switzerland, and Roumania, the outgo is not less than ten millions sterling a day. I see it so computed in the Economist. I believe Germany already admits to a loss of life exceeding 300,000 or 350,000 a month. Adding the losses of France, Belgium, Austria-Hungary, and Russia. I see the total loss to date computed by careful investigations at 1,750,000 or nearly 2,000,000 for each day of active operations. This, if so does indeed 'stagger humanity!' As to the consumption of war material the magazines which had been prepared in anticipation are now about exhausted, the winter is at hand, and European buyers are everywhere in America, purchasing at about any price, whatever war supplies are to be had. It is stated in the papers that wheat in Britain is now nine shillings a bushel; whereas in New York it is four and sixpence! As to horses, our stock is being swept clear. Poor brute!

You must overlook the length, and perhaps diffuseness, of this letter. You know that, unable as I am to give of even 500, to write with my own hand, dictation has become with me a second nature. I simply talk on paper in this particular case, knowing from your how so tedious the English are as to public opinion at this juncture in America, I have thought it worth while to speak with a good deal of detail and with some emphasis. You mix more or less with public men and those seeking to affect the course of events over here. You are very welcome in that connection to make any use you see fit of this letter, as it will merely contribute to a more correct understanding of what seems now in England to be a matter of general interest.

Believe me, Sir,
CHARLES F. ADAMS.

Ventilation of Farm Buildings.

A bulletin prepared by Mr. J. H. Gladstone, B. Agr. Director Dominion Experimental Farms, and Mr. R. S. Archibald, B. A., B. S. A., Dominion Animal Husbandry, issued as Bulletin Number 28 of the regular series of the Experimental Farm Bulletins. This is an illustrated publication of thirty pages and treats exhaustively of the subject of ventilation.

During the past ten years or more much experimental work has been carried on at the Experimental Farm in Farm Building Ventilation, and the results of these experiments are clearly outlined, and from them, recommendations are set forth, which are only after most thorough investigation and repeated trial under every likely condition or handicap. The bulletin is divided into three parts: Part I is entitled 'Ventilating the Cow Barn'; Part II, 'Ventilating the Horse Barn'; and Part III, 'Ventilating the Piggery.'

The Rutherford system of ventilation is fully described and illustrated in this bulletin, is now in operation in the barns and stables of all Experimental Farms and Stations from Prince Edward Island to British Columbia. Copies of this bulletin may be obtained on application to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Apple Marmalade.

Pare, core and chop fine 4 pounds of juicy soft apples. Put together for five minutes 4 pounds of sugar, 2 cups of water, the grated rind and juice of 4 lemons and 1 ounce of preserved ginger chopped. Add the apples and cook slowly for two hours, or until fruit is clear, then pour, while hot, in small jars or marmalade pots.

Apple Catsup.

Wash, quarter and core some apples. There should be 5 pounds. Add 6 cups of water and cook until soft and nearly dry, then put through a vegetable press. Return to fire, add three cups (scant) of sugar, 1 quart of cider vinegar, 1 teaspoon onion juice, 2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon each of cinnamon, mustard and cloves. Cook very slowly for three or four hours or until a dark red in color in bottles and seal while hot.

Legal Jargon.

Those who are accustomed to grumble at the length of legal documents would receive something of a shock were they to inspect some of the instruments which were commonly in use but a short time ago. In the 'good old days,' before the passing of the conveyancing act of 1881, deeds and settlements frequently covered half a dozen sheets of parchment, and were employed by law-stationers for the special purpose of 'expressing' these imposing documents on parchment. A few of these law writers still remain among us, and their writing on parchment is said to be most beautiful to look upon. But the conveyance act practically put an end to their profession by greatly curtailing the length of legal instruments.

Of the unwieldy prolixity of some of the old long-winded conveyances a law reformer of a humorous turn of mind gave the following amusing example: 'If a man were to give another an orange, he would merely say, "I give you this orange." In the hands of a conveyancing lawyer and put into writing, it would be, "I hereby give, grant and convey to you all and singular my estate and interest, right, title, claim and advantage of and in, the said orange, together with all its rind, skin, juice, pulp and pips, and all right to bite, cut, suck or otherwise eat the same, or give the same away, as fully and effectually as if, the said A. B., am now entitled to bite, cut, suck or otherwise eat the same without its rind, skin, juice, pulp and pips, anything heretofore or hereinafter, or in any other deed or deed, instrument or instrument, of whatever nature, or kind soever, to the contrary in otherwise, notwithstanding."

Canada's Army.

British newspapers and letters from Canada in the old days all speak in the usual flattering terms of the impression created on Lord Kitchener as well as on King George by the appearance of the Canadian troops on Salisbury Plain. "Splendid, magnificent," are the words used to describe the impression on the British mind, and this praise from the reticent oldier was taken to mean that the men were ready for the purpose for which they had crossed the ocean, and would soon be sent to meet the foe. The first contingent to go to France was the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, whose ranks he saw many men who had served under him in other wars. As a matter of fact out of 1,136 officers and men only 118 were born in Canada. English born number 94 per cent. Canada's percentage is 104. In the contingent generally the Canadian are more generally represented than in the Princess Patricia's, but the proportion is conspicuous by its small size. However, when the second draft goes forward the Canadian born will be more in evidence. They are awakening to a full sense of their duty and the response to the King's call will be more general.

Down at the foot of the last,
Ever it shall earthward fall at last,
Frost-bitten,
Formed are the buds by the season brief—
Gloomy clouds by their light are smitten—
And o'er decay they sing—
"The spring! the spring!"
Voices celestial speak to me—
Out of the hush and haze I hear them calling—
Over the soul of mystery,
Over decay and the dead leaves slowly falling—
"Springtime and end of strife,
Immortal life!"

His Best Girl.

"Your best girl is dead," sneeringly said a New York magnate to a young man who was arrested for attempting suicide. "Who was she?" Without raising his eyes, the unfortunate victim burst into tears and replied, "She was my mother." "The smile vanished from the magnate's face and with tears in his eyes he said, "Young man go and try to be a good man for your mother's sake." How little we realize that tragedy may be going on in the hearts of those whom we sneeringly regard.

A Journalist Bought Suez.

The journalist is often the man behind the steamship, but he seldom gets the credit. Who was it that induced Mr. Dierhall to buy the Suez canal shares which have proved so abundantly good an investment, not only by money, though only from that point of view it is the best investment that a state has ever made? Fleet street knows and honors the name of Mr. Frederick Greenwood both for that reason and many others. But how many outside the world of journalism realize that but for Mr. Greenwood the Suez canal shares would probably have been purchased by a rival continental power?

Economy in Baking

In these times of great advance in prices of many foods it is important to House-keepers to know that the old reliable Royal Baking Powder, made from pure cream of tartar and soda, is sold at the old prices.

Reprisals Urged.

The London Globe urges that Britain's best defence against Zappala's is the immediate official announcement of the heaviest reprisals upon German property in Britain, also bank balances, for attacks on a fortified town and the slaughter of potential citizens from the air or by mines. It suggests that all governments throughout the British Empire take an inventory of German property within the Empire, the value of which is believed to reach twenty five hundred million dollars, the Kaiser's reported possessions in British Columbia included. "For every pound of property belonging to the allies which Germany can confiscate, the allies can confiscate probably ten pounds' worth."

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., DEC. 5, 1914.

Editorial Brevities.

The Russia that the Kaiser has to deal with is comparable not with the Slav state which lost Port Arthur, or even that which faltered before Plevna and failed at Sebastopol.

A correspondent writing to the New York Herald suggests that if the United States is really anxious to stop the 'Kultured' atrocities of the Kaiser's troops in Belgium, it would only be necessary to advise Germany that unless they stop, all the contraband shipments from the United States will cease and that 'we will take over the German ships in our harbors and dispose of them for the benefit of the Belgians.'

Although Dr. Greenfield is proud of the Newfoundlanders and the people of South Labrador having pledged themselves to supply 500 men for service at the front, and to keep 500 more under arms for home defence, besides augmenting the Naval Reserves from 600 to 1,000, he writes of the gloomy outlook in Labrador in disappointing terms.

The Peace Centenary. It is gratifying to learn that the Canadian Peace Centenary Association has not abandoned the movement to celebrate a hundred years of peace between the British Empire and the United States.

First Navy List Issued in Canada. The first 'Canadian navy list' has been issued by the Naval Service Department, and contains information relative to the ships of the Royal Canadian Navy.

Red Cross Work. The following articles were sent forward from the Wolfville Red Cross Society during the month of November: 25 lbs. potatoes, 21 lbs. jackets, 21 nightgowns, 21 pairs socks, 10 lbs. bed socks, 21 washers, 21 blouses, 21 hot water bags, 21 dressing gowns, 21 handkerchiefs, 21 pairs mittens, 21 pairs gloves, 21 pairs shoes, 21 pairs stockings.

American Opinion.

A German society in Boston recently sent out a letter asking for contributions for German relief. The various newspapers of the state were invited to publish the letters of appeal, in which were given the names of Germans in Boston to whom contributions might be sent.

These are certainly rather strong expressions to be found in an American newspaper, but they are interesting as evidence of the sympathy of the great majority of the American people. In fact nearly all of them who are not German or of German descent sympathize heartily with the cause of Britain and her allies in this war.

A Pacific Fleet.

It is suggested that Australia, New Zealand and Canada should unite with the Mother Country to maintain a powerful fleet in the Pacific. For years this has been one of the objects of British policy and it is understood the proposal has been favorably regarded by the British Government.

Still Mistress of the Sea.

Probably few people in Canada have failed to realize that the safety of this country depends very largely upon the strength of the British navy. Were it not for the war ships of Great Britain this Dominion might easily become the prey of Germany.

The Iron Duke.

Germany's warships will indeed feel the weight of Britain's naval might should they come in contact with a fleet as strong as the Iron Duke—the British navy's 'baby.' This super dreadnought, which entered upon her maiden cruise in March last in the most powerful battleship in the world, has made a record in ten 12 inch weapons, which hurl a shell of some 1,000 pounds a distance of six miles, and it is possible for the whole of the guns to be concentrated upon the target and strike a blow which no stoutest ship could not withstand.

It is a costly thing for the taxpayers when the 'Iron Duke' goes to sea, for the guns use up powder and shot at the rate of $5,000 a minute.

How to Avoid Tuberculosis.

(Issued by the Department of the Public Health, Nova Scotia.) Of all the infectious diseases with which we have to contend, none compares in frequency, in fatality, in widespread prevalence, or in economic importance with tuberculosis—or, as it is commonly called, consumption.

The following instructions are issued by the Canadian Association for the prevention of Tuberculosis, on 'How to Avoid Tuberculosis.' A healthy body is the best protection against the tubercle bacillus or any other disease breeding germ.

'Live, work and sleep in rooms flooded with fresh air and purified by sunlight every day. See that your sleeping room is thoroughly ventilated. Use good nourishing food, and thoroughly masticate what you eat. Cultivate cleanly, temperate and regular habits of living.

OPERA

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church have a number of useful articles for sale at the home of Mrs. George Johnson, Sumner Street.

There is still plenty of time to have Xmas photos made. But it is well to attend to this as soon as possible. Phone GRAHAM STUDIO, 70-11.

Everybody should attend the Belgian Relief Benefit at the Opera House this evening. Every cent goes to the assistance of the brave Belgians who are in dire straits.

Christmas trees, with base, delivered, 25c. and upwards, depending on size, or young trees for banking houses or decoration, in quantity, 50c. Telephone or address MAURICE HAYCOCK.

HOUSE

Mr. Albert E. V. Cross and family, of Halifax, have recently come to Wolfville to reside and are occupying the property recently purchased from Mr. R. E. Burgess. Mr. Burgess and family are living in the old Burgess place.

There will be a sale of fancy and useful articles, suitable for Christmas gifts, also home made candy, at the home of Mrs. David Thompson, Main street, Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening, December 11th and 12th.

At the close of the Belgian Relief Benefit at the Opera House this evening a patriotic address is to be delivered by Prof. Hannay. There will also be other attractions. Every citizen should attend the benefit and hear the address. Don't make any other plans.

TO-NIGHT

Quite a number of Wolfville boys are responding to the call of the Empire as will be seen by the list published in THE ACADIAN this week by Col. Parsons. Among them is Mr. Edmund G. Thurber, of Providence, R. I., who has been in college some time. Although an American citizen, Mr. Thurber is willing to help along a good cause.

To everyone existing, the GRAHAM STUDIO gives a sitting and one photo free.

A very pleasant time was had by the members of Wolfville Division, No. 7, on Monday evening, when a farewell was given to two brothers, Messrs. Carl Murphy and Elmer Scolding, who have enlisted and were leaving for Halifax the next morning. A number of excellent addresses were given and suitable refreshments served.

The inter-class debate between the Juniors and Freshmen took place on Saturday evening last and was an interesting one. The question discussed was: 'Resolved that, at the present time, it is in the best interests of Canadian cities and incorporated towns to employ the present system of taxation rather than to employ the system of Single Tax. The Freshman, represented by Mr. Robert Day and boys, supported the affirmative, while Jacob, R. M. Mill and Mitchell of the Junior class opposed. The addresses were well prepared and interesting. The judges decided in favor of the Juniors.

Evelyn Starr's Recital.

YOUNG VIOLINIST WINS HIGH PRAISE IN ACADIAN HALL.

Evelyn Starr gave a violin recital last night in Acadian Hall which showed her in the light of an accomplished player, and an interpreter also, for she put light and life into her work as well as excellent technique. Her program was ingratiating as well as educational. This Canadian violinist did not hesitate to play an old Southern melody for one of her encores, however, even though she had given a tremendous composition by Bruch earlier in the evening.

The first number of the program, a 'Chaconne,' by Vivaldi (1650) gave a favorable outlook for coming numbers, for in the Vitelescopical she showed her mettle, her force and sentiment and her sincere way of playing. She has personality, though young, and is going to deepen that impression, very decidedly, as time goes on. That is in itself an excellent feature, for so many violin debutantes have colorless personality, though they have abundant technical gifts.

Miss Starr played the Vitali Chaconne with classical feeling and the Corelli number following it, 'La Folia' had an excellent interpretation.

The 'Scottish Fantasia,' by Bruch, was the important number of the program, and its scope is large, and in the five movements Miss Starr acquitted herself well. The 'Adagio Cantabile' was extremely well given, and the 'Andante Sostinato' she gave with dignity, and her sweep of bow was free. The 'Allegro Quotidiano' had able reinforcement from the accompanist, Richard Epstein, whose work throughout the recital was sympathetic and artistic.

The large minded 'Poem' by Pachelbel, was played with elevated taste, and two numbers by Cesar Cui, the 'Orestes' and 'Perpetuum Mobile' were technical feats besides conveying expression. The 'Schumann's August Moment Musicales' went extremely well, and the 'Souvenir de Moscow' by Wieniawski, made a finale of brilliancy for the young violinist, who played with definite purpose and poise. The Brooklyn Eagle, Nov. 25th, 1914.

The United Mission Study Class will meet on Monday, Dec. 7th, at 7:30, in the Baptist church. Mrs. (Dr.) Purves Smith, of China, and Miss Beattie Churchill, of India, will give addresses. All the ladies are invited to attend.

The Annual Fair for the benefit of the Y. W. C. A. of Acadia Seminary will open at three o'clock on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 12th, in the denominatory chapel, and will continue throughout the afternoon and evening. There will be all sorts of attractive candy booths, banner booths, fish pond, an inviting tea room where dairy refreshments will be served and other side attractions, for the entertainment and amusement of the visitors. Beautiful fancy work of all kinds will also be on sale, affording one a splendid opportunity to do Christmas shopping, and there will be no private sales. Everybody is cordially invited to attend the Fair.

A Visit to the Halifax Industrial School.

We were struck as we entered the grounds of the school by the absence of anything that might give the boys a feeling of outward restraint. The Rev. W. Owen is the Superintendent of the School. He has undertaken this difficult task with the great object in view of winning the boys under his charge by love. Love that is firm but which seeks in every boy the one piece of good that is still left in him, and with that as a starting point to raise the boy and to make him feel that even he has a chance of being a good, honorable citizen of this great country.

Mr. Owen makes a special study of every boy. As one and another were introduced to us we were struck by the happy contenting smiles with which they greeted their chief. It was quite evident that he had gained their confidence and that they looked upon him as their friend.

Mr. Owen is setting before them a high Christian ideal and is teaching them that with Christ as their Saviour and guide it is possible for them to overcome their sins and so be good. The boys are kept constantly employed. They receive a good education and out-of-school hours their work consists in preparing fire wood for sale, beating carpets and working on the farm and in the garden. The garden is a large one and we saw it was stocked with magnificent vegetables and small fruit which had a ready market in Halifax. It is under the charge of an experienced gardener who has a number of boys helping.

Mr. Owen is finding suitable outside employment for some of the boys and this new development is likely to have a very good effect. These boys go to their business in the morning and live in the school. At the end of the week when the boy receives his wages he hands them to Mr. Owen. This is kept for him. He pays a certain amount for his keep and the remainder is put into a savings account so that when he finally leaves the institution, Mr. Owen is able to give him an outfit of tools and of clothes and so enable him to get a fair start. This has brought hope into some lives and now they are bright, happy, normal boys.

Mr. Owen takes a great interest in their games too—plays cricket and football with them. In the evening he plays drafts and other games with the privileged few who are allowed to be up a little longer after prayers. The day begins and ends with a short religious service. Mr. Owen has an efficient staff to help him and they most loyally back him in all his efforts.

Volunteers from Kings County.

It has been asked several times what has been done in the way of recruiting in Kings county for the contingent. I therefore submit the below for the information of all concerned:—

Right officers of the 14th K. C. H. volunteered their services to go in 82% capacity, besides the two who went with the contingent. # WOMAN'S BEST MEDICINE

Mrs. Kelly Advises All Women to Take "Fruit-a-Lives"

HAGERSTOWN, ONT., AUG. 26th, 1913.
"I can highly recommend 'Fruit-a-lives' because they did me an awful lot of good and I cannot speak too highly about them. About four years ago, I commenced taking 'Fruit-a-lives' for a general break-down and they did me a world of good. We bought a good many bottles, but it was money well spent because they did all that you claim for them. Their action is pleasant, compared with other laxatives, that I found only pleasure, as well as health, in taking them. They seemed to me to be particularly suited to women, on account of their mild and gentle action, and I trust that some other women may start taking 'Fruit-a-lives' after reading my letter, and if they do, I am satisfied the results will be the same as in my own case."

Mrs. W. N. KELLY
"Fruit-a-lives" are sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

The saloon door swings on its hinges,
Nigh to the doors of God,
Inviting the feet who must walk the street
Inside, where the weak have trod—
Inside, where the strong have fallen
To depths of disgrace and woe—
And with laugh and song do the weak and strong
Within, to their ruin go.

The saloon door swings on its hinges,
Hard by the House of Prayers,
And many who meet at the Mercy Seat

Consent to its presence there,
'Our Father who art in Heaven,'
They pray as with Christian breath,
They stand at the polls and vote that souls
Go down to eternal death.

The saloon door swings on its hinges,
Hing by the Law's commands,
And the key of the law its bolts with draw
By help of some Christian hands,
While motherhood weeps in sorrow,
And childhood in hunger cries,
And womanhood's crown in the slime goes down,
And manhood in madness dies.

The saloon door swings on its hinges,
Nigh to the gates of home,
Inviting the feet of the boys we meet
From purity's path to roam;
And men who go past it, always,
With Pharisee prayer and pride,
Declare it shall swing for the votes they bring
Who plunder the youth inside.

The saloon door swings on its hinges,
Close by the Gates of God,
Alluring the feet that must walk the street
With pain or with passion aghast;
And above them in mocking splendor
Gleams yonder the Cross of Gold,
While the Christ again, in the sons of men,

For party and greed are sold.
The saloon door swings on its hinges,
Close by the altar stairs,
And mocks at the men who defend it,
When
They kneel for their Sunday pray-ers.

It mocks at the pious partners
Who say it shall open there,
For the silver and gold of the sham so bold,
That city and state may share.

The saloon door swings on its hinges,
Paying the price of sin—
The share of the state in a gain too great
For honor and law to win;
And 'Woe unto him that buildeth
A city with blood! God's blame
On the many who sit, for the fruits of hell,
Their brother to sin and shame!

The Bible.

When the Bible goes down the red flag goes up. Without the ten commandments and the precepts of the Sermon on the Mount, you leave no city, the mercy of a sea full of moral preachers. Statesmanship is never so short-sighted as when it hedge against the Bible, one of whose constant returned duties is respect for magistracy and the administrative authority. And later, and industry as nothing else than put mind, when they tolerate indifference against the volume whose chief theme and inspiration are the life, the words and the deeds of Jesus the Carpenter.

College Athletes.

The 'Popular Science Monthly' for October contains an exceedingly interesting article, 'Smoking and Football Men,' by Dr. Frederick J. Pack, of the University of Utah. Dr. Pack summarized in this article the results obtained from an investigation of fourteen American colleges and universities, the reports covering several hundred men. It was learned that in these institutions that the non smokers furnished more than their proportion of the athletes who obtained positions on the college teams, the non smokers being twice as numerous as the smokers among the athletes.

As to average lung-capacity, it was found that the smokers in comparison with the non smokers lost an average of 29.6 cubic inches, or 9.4 per cent in scholastic standing the average mark of the non smoker was 79.4 as against 74.5 for the smokers. The smokers furnished twice as many conditions and failures as the non-smokers. The smokers furnished 71 per cent of the lowest marks and the non smokers only 29 per cent. The non-smokers furnished 69 per cent. of the highest marks, and the smokers only 31 per cent.

These facts, moreover, obtain not only when the averages are taken, but are also true of each of the colleges and universities investigated, a proof of their accuracy that cannot be controverted.

MINEARD'S LINIMENT CO. LIMITED
GENTLEMEN—Last winter I received great benefit from the use of MINEARD'S LINIMENT in a severe attack of sciatica, and I have frequently proved it to be very effective in cases of inflammation.

Compensation for Fat

Lords Decide Against Scottish Miner's Incapacity Claim
A Scottish collier's highly original claim for compensation was considered so good a test of the Workmen's Act that it reached the House of Lords, and was solemnly adjudicated upon.

The miner met with an accident in the course of his work, and duly recovered, his employers paying him compensation up to the day he returned to work. But on trying his hand at the miner's pick again he discovered that he had grown too fat for the colliery.

Reasoning that his fat had some deterrent influence he claimed that his disability was part of the accident, and that compensation should be paid him till he was thinned sufficient to make work in the mine acceptable again.

First the question went to arbitration. The arbitrator found that the incapacity for work had ceased immediately on his recovery, fat or no fat. The Court of Session in Scotland, however, upheld the miner.

Their lordships decided that the arbitrator's award ought to be restored, thereby deciding against the man's contention.

Australia's Progress

Western Australia's total population is less than 250,000, but there are over 100,000 accounts open in the savings bank of that State, and a total of $22,500,000 to the credit of the depositors.

Australia's factories increased in one year by over 400, the number of hands employed 15,000, the value of plant and machinery by $25,000,000, material used by $40,000,000, value added by manufactures $35,000,000, and the total output by $75,000,000.

The annual mineral production of the Commonwealth of Australia is worth over $115,000,000, or several millions sterling more than the gross revenue of all the Australian railways. Close on 100,000 persons are engaged in mining in the Commonwealth, and probably quite half a million are directly dependent on it.

The average nominal rate of wages paid to males employed in the Australian factories, according to the Commonwealth Statistician, is $9.95 per week and $4.75 for females.

Bather Breaks His Back
It was stated at a Margate inquest that Mr. Albert Smith, of Harrow, who was an expert swimmer, dived from a bathing machine into two feet of water, and, striking the sand, fractured his spine.

German Scientists in Australia.
A number of distinguished German scientific men went to Australia to attend the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science which is being held in that country by the Commonwealth Government as a result of the war.

They will, of course, receive the best of treatment during their nominal imprisonment. They have been very kind with ample funds by the treasurer of the British Association.

SICKNESS AT SEA

Many Reasons For the Trouble and How to Deal With It

Two problems with regard to sea sickness have never been solved what causes it and what cures it. The ship's surgeon of a great liner says:

"Its peculiarity is that it is not amenable to any one line of treatment or to any one drug. What help one may be of no use whatever to another. Any of the so-called remedies are worse than the original complaint. Why, not be stoical about it? The fact remains that, after a spell of seasickness, unless too severe, one feels much the better for it."

Bismuth and soda, tincture of iodine, chloral, veronal, stay in bed, don't stay in bed, fannel bandages, chewing cloves to keep the stomach warm and soda, blue glasses—the list of alleged remedies has no ending. Alas! they are for the most part but means and dolutions. But some measures may be taken that will make your misery short lived. Keep quiet the night before you sail. Pick the largest boat possible, but one that has little vibration. Get your cabin fairly well airships. Apply for a deck chair early, and have it put amidships.

Avoid the habit of lying in your chair and watching to see how far forward the horizon line is going to run along the rail of the next pitch. Keep out on deck as much as possible if you get to feel poignantly miserable, and conclude that you would feel better if you could only have it over with—usually a wise conclusion—get up suddenly and poke your head into the smoking room, or take a look over the rail, or walk away out on the stern. Any one of these is an excellent precipitant. Take some regular exercise every day. So long as you are well, be careful of your food. But the moment you become sick, eat anything you want. Heaven knows you won't want enough to hurt you!

FORCIBLE FEEDING

Not Used as a Deterrent, But It Does Deter, Says Premier

The Rev. R. J. Campbell, Dr. R. F. Horton, and other ministers addressed a letter to Mr. Asquith protesting against forcible feeding of suffragist prisoners.

Replying through his private secretary, the Prime Minister stated that Mr. McKenna repudiated the statement which had appeared in the memorial that he had defended forcible feeding in the House, not only as a means of deterring people in prison but also as a deterrent.

"It is true," the Premier's letter said, "that forcible feeding in some cases actually deters prisoners from adopting the hunger strike, as they realize that the strike will not secure their release, but it has never been used as a deterrent or for any purpose except to preserve the life and health of a prisoner, and it has never been defended on any but this ground."

Amazing Story of a "Cure."
Kitty O'Brien, a pretty Irish girl of seventeen, hailing from Gumban, Monmouthshire, is alleged to have been cured at St. Winifred's Well in an amazing manner. The girl states that for the past five years she had suffered from tuberculosis in the knee, and for about two years had had her left knee in plaster of paris and walked with crutches. She was recommended by Father Quigley to visit Holywell. The effect was remarkable, she said. A spasm of pain shot up her leg and side. The next instant the spasm returned and darted downwards to the foot and passed. She knew then that a cure had been effected. The plaster of paris bandage and the crutches were discarded and left in the crypt, and it is said, Miss O'Brien walked out of the well free from pain and lameness.

Hermit and His Cat

Though he is fifty-three years of age, David Thomas, a Ploughman hermit, has never been inside a train, and beyond a short ride on a wagon, has never been further than his native town. He has lived the whole of his lifetime in a little cottage at Lower Ploughman, and his companion is a fine tabby cat, of which he is passionately fond. He has been unable to follow ordinary occupations owing to bad eyesight, and for some years he has been almost blind. He was recently given a hand lantern, and now goes down to the beach daily to fish for prawns. "I cannot see who I have caught anything," said Davy, "but I am full of feeling in the net, though I am sometimes bitten by crabs."

Spain exported 4,000,000 pounds of paper for cigarettes last year.

An astronomer was trying to explain to an Irishman that the earth is round but Pat would not believe him. After some discussion the astronomer said, "Now where does the sun rise?" "In the east," said Pat. "And where does it set?" "Sure, in the west!" "Then how does the sun manage to go back to the east?" "The sun goes back to the east!" Pat scratched his head for a few seconds and looked perplexed. "At last his face lightened up and he shouted triumphantly, "Sure, sir, it slips back in the dark!"

"The word 'twivel' spells the name backward or forward." It was the woman who spoke. "Can you think of another?" The woman boy nodded up from his position. "Twivel" he cried contentedly. "And the class worked on in silence."

INFANTRY WEAPONS

Infantry arms consist of the rifle, bayonet and machine gun. The "pompom," which figured so much in South Africa, has been withdrawn.

The service machine gun is the .303 Maxim, which will fire a continuous leaden stream of bullets at the rate of 600 a minute, or 10 bullets every second, at ranges of from 800 to 1,200 yards.

The Maxim weighs 60 pounds, and its lightness enables it to be carried anywhere the troops can go. It can be taken along roads on wheels, across country on pack animals, or, if needs be, shouldered by a single soldier right up into the firing line.

The weak point of the Maxim is that its mechanism is liable to jam and render it useless. In the hands of trained gunners, its destructive power is greater than land mines, bursting shrapnel, cavalry charges, bayonet charges, or any variety of rifle fire.
