

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

Canada Made

As a health builder, Royal Yeast is gaining in popularity every day. It is a food - not a medicine. It supplies the vitamins which the diet may lack. Royal Yeast is highly beneficial in cases where the system seems "run down". Royal Yeast is the richest known source of vitamins, and when taken into the system acts as a corrective agent. Royal Yeast Cakes are recommended for their purity and wholesomeness. It is the purest, the most convenient and economical yeast on the market.

Two to four Royal Yeast Cakes a day will work wonders. A full day's supply can easily be prepared at one time by using one glass lukewarm water and teaspoon sugar to each yeast cake. Allow to stand over night in moderately warm room. In the morning stir well and pour off liquid. Place in refrigerator or other cool place and drink at intervals as desired throughout the day.

LADY LAURA'S RELEASE

—OR—
THE STORY OF A SPOILED BEAUTY.

CHAPTER XXIV.

"Her misery will begin soon enough," she thought, "it all is true that I hear." Doris Newsham had not spent several hours with Gladys Rane's maid in vain.

A faint wonder lingered in the heart of Lady Laura as to whether the captain would offer to remain at home with her, as it was his violence to her which prevented her from going out. She waited and watched, but he did not come. Would he not even seek her to say how sorry he was?

When the door of her boudoir opened at last, she turned round eagerly. But it was Angela who entered and came to her.

"I am not going out, mamma," she said. "How could I? I should be miserable, knowing that I had left you in pain."

"Has the captain gone?" asked her ladyship. In spite of all that had happened, in spite of his cold neglect of her, her whole heart was with him; she had no other thought, no other interest.

"Yes; he drove off half an hour ago, bearing your excuses and mine," Angela replied.

Then he had not cared or remembered even that he had hurt her; he had not looked in to say that he was sorry, or to give her one kind word. He had ignored her altogether.

The next morning she read in the fashionable gossip that Miss Rane had been one of the beauties present at Mrs. Hardcastle's reception, and also that she had favored Lady Bland with her presence. Captain Wynyard's name was also among the list of visitors. Lady Laura's heart was torn with anguish; she could imagine what an evening they had enjoyed together, how he had gone with her rival from one place to another; and her heart grew faint as she brooded over it.

Though her arm was painful for some time, and kept her indoors for

"My Boy was Starving to Death"

"As He Was Getting No Nourishment He Was Gradually Wasting Away."

"Here's a story which will interest every mother. Before my boy was born, I was in such delicate health that the doctor didn't think I would survive the ordeal. For weeks after he was born my life was despaired of, so I couldn't feed him and the poor little fellow was left to the care of friends. He wasn't naturally strong. No care was taken in choosing his food and his poor little stomach became so weakened that he couldn't keep anything on it. As he was getting no nourishment from his food, he was gradually wasting away. Finally, in desperation, we sent for a child specialist and he said that my boy was starving to death. He gave him some medicine and advised a certain diet. The child did improve but somehow couldn't seem to get strong. This went on for four or five years and the boy still continued to waste and my life was a misery. He could not play like other children without leaving to lie down and rest. My sister who lives on a farm near the sea, said that she could fix him up. I would send him to her. While I hated being separated from him, I was ready to make any sacrifice to get him strong. He was away from me for three months and it was with feelings of great excitement that I awaited his return as my sister had written me that I would be surprised when I saw my boy. When my sister got off the train, I could not believe that it was my own boy that she was leading by the hand. I never saw such a change in any child. He was fat and rosy and full of life with a happy smile! "What on earth have you done to him," I said. "Why," she replied, "I simply made him live out of doors, gave him good food—and here's the real secret, I gave him three bottles of Carnol! Before he had taken half a bottle his whole appearance had changed. He got heavier, his face took on a colour and he would run round for hours at a time. The change in my boy is the most wonderful event in my life. I am a regular fan for Carnol and never lose a chance to boost it. As I write I am looking out of the window and when I see that rosy, active, healthy child running round, I cannot believe that he was once a puny, delicate boy."

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money.

present. And Gladys seemed not unwilling to encourage him. She took little notice of the men who entered the box, but bestowed all her smiles and conversation upon the handsome captain, and visitors, feeling themselves de trop, went away.

Lady Kinloch was exceedingly angry; but, beyond a few sharp words to the captain, she gave no sign of it. Gladys understood pretty well what would await her on her return home; and therefore, regardless of consequences, she decided to enjoy the present. Her dark eyes filled with triumph, as she regarded the lovely but forlorn-looking lady in the opposite box. The wife of the man by her side, though beautiful as a dream, the fairest, the most refined, the most graceful in the whole of that brilliant circle, could not win a smile from him who had vowed to love and cherish her.

"It is one of our last few evenings together, Gladys," he said; "I shall not leave you."

When Lady Laura had borne this spectacle of her husband's devotion to another as long as she could, she turned to Lord Eastham, who was vainly worshipping at her shrine.

"I have forgotten to give the captain a message with which I was entrusted for him," she said. "Will you tell him I should like to see him for a few minutes? Please, said that I will not detain him."

Lord Eastham was a man of the world; he took in the position at a glance, and though he did not like his commission, he executed it with a high hand and a good grace.

He made his way to Lady Kinloch's box, and, after speaking for a few minutes to the ladies, delivered Lady Laura's message. The captain frowned when he heard it, and his wife saw the frown.

"I must go, I suppose," he said.

And Gladys whispered to him as he went:

"Do not stay long, Vance."

"You may be sure of that," he answered.

"I am compelled to go," said the handsome captain to himself, as he proceeded to his wife's box; "but I am inclined to think that my wife will never send for me again in such circumstances as these."

His face was pale with anger when he rejoined Lady Laura; but for appearance sake he smiled, for appearance sake he leaned over the back of her chair, thus giving the idea that they were on the most friendly terms. Then he hissed into her ear:

"Why did you send for me?"

She did not turn to answer him, but looked straight at the stage.

"I wanted to ask you if you are not making your devotion to Miss Rane too apparent? You are attracting public attention, and that is bad for her, if not for you. You have been in that box the whole evening."

"Is that what you wanted to say—all you have to say?"

"Yes," she replied.

"I am going back then; and I am going home to supper with Lady Kinloch. Do not send for me again."

The brightest of smiles was on his face as he left the box. He knew that the arrow had gone straight home, that it had struck the gentle, loving heart.

He went back to Gladys Rane; but when he looked in triumph at his wife's box, she had left it.

For one minute Lady Laura sat stunned by the cruelty of her husband's words; then she rose from her seat, her face pale, her manner agitated, but I must go home."

When Angela saw the look of despair on the pale face, she knew that her mother must return home. She bent toward her ladyship and whispered:

"Mamma darling, take care—so many people are looking at us; do not let them perceive the pain you feel."

"Take me home, Angel!" said the despairing woman.

An hour later Laura Wynyard sat in her dressing-room, surely the most miserable woman in London! She had torn the pearls from her hair and her breast, her golden tresses lay in disheveled masses over her shoulders. She beat her breast, and gave vent to wailing sobs; she was frantic with her passionate jealousy and keen misery.

EXCRUCIATING PAINS, CRAMPS

Entirely Remedied by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Essex, Ont.—"I started with cramps and bearing-down pains at the age of eleven years, and I would get so nervous I could hardly stay in bed, and I had such pains that I would scream, and my mother would call the doctor to give me something to take. At eighteen I married, and I have four healthy children, but I still have pains in my right side. I am a farmer's wife with more work than I am able to do. I have taken three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel that it is helping me every day. My sister-in-law who has been taking your medicine for some time and uses your Sanative Wash, told me about it. And I soon began to feel as if I had received great relief from it. —Mrs. NELSON YOTT, R. R. 1, Essex, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for ailments common to women. It has been used for such troubles for nearly fifty years, and thousands of women have found relief, as did Mrs. Yott, by taking this splendid medicine.

If you are suffering from irregularity, painful times, nervousness, headache, backache or melancholia, you should at once begin to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is excellent to strengthen the system and help to perform its functions with ease and regularity.

Traitor in 1914.

HONOR NOW VINDICATED.

Guy de Maupassant in his most powerful tales of the Franco-Prussian War of 1870 does not attain in the height of simple tragedy of the pitiful story of Jules Stimelle, the village blacksmith of Boussois, who was wrongly shot as a spy on the ramparts of Maubeuge in 1914, and whose innocence was proclaimed last week after eight long years of sorrow by his widow.

It was September 14th, on the very eve of the fall of the fortress, that Stimelle fell from the bullets of his own countrymen, who believed he was a traitor to France.

Stimelle's smithy was situated in the little village of Boussois, on the outskirts of Maubeuge, close to the fort bearing the same name. On Sept. 1, the village was bombarded by the enemy. All the men of military age were gone excepting Stimelle, who, because of his utility to the military, was kept working at his forge. Women, old men and children were hiding in cellars. Suddenly the soldiers from the fort saw amidst the bursting shells two pigeons rise from the smithy.

That was enough for them. A few moments later three soldiers, rushed the smithy and seized Stimelle and dragged him before the military officers. Stimelle was a spy. They had seen the pigeons released from his house while he was the only living being above the ground. Only one conclusion was possible. He must die the ignominious death of a traitor.

MORDED BY POPULACE.

While Stimelle was being dragged through the streets of Maubeuge by the excited soldiers—three territorials who had lost their heads completely under the strain of events—the furious populace fell upon Stimelle, and when he reached the military headquarters it was as a shattered man-handled wreck, bleeding from countless wounds, hardly able to stand up and with one of his eyes gouged out.

Stunned and hardly conscious of what was happening, Stimelle was unable to say a word in his own defence, even to deny the accusation brought against him. His silence was considered an admission of guilt, and three days later, on the eve of the fall of Maubeuge, the unfortunate smith fell, riddled with bullets of the firing squad.

But the truth he was unable to tell them is being told to-day by his widow, who has opened proceedings to have her husband's name freed from the shameful verdict and proclaimed an innocent victim of those terrible days.

Stimelle, like many other blacksmiths, was a great big, simple fellow. He loved his two children passionately, but in his big warm heart there was room for other affections including favorite pets, two pigeons, which he kept close beside him in a special cage in the forge. A German shell was burst on that fateful morning just outside the smithy and hurled the cage to the ground and the frightened pigeons escaped and fluttered through the open door. The soldiers saw them and that was enough to condemn the poor man.

AFTER THE STUFF.

I often think of Bill Jones, who lives three doors south of me. This guy has clucked by hook or crook, a vast supply of cash, but never read a soulful book—he thinks all novels trash; he never hired a skillful cook, but lived on corn beef hash. He never knew the keen delight that comes from money spent; he never chased through town by night on spondfright errands bent; he never bought all junk in sight that was not worth a cent. The helping hand to luckless guys he's never known to show; he never carried wholesome pies to widows in their woe; and when he hears the orphans' cries no tears of pity flow. To make his bulging bag increase we see him toll and pant; he'd make that bundle, piece by piece, and Susan H., my aunt. I see him on his grand drift, on bent and shaky knees; he's old and frail but he can lift a package of babwoes; and there is something wrong with thrift when it is a disease.

LET HER CRY IT OUT.

"Let her cry it out," they say, "But I wasn't built that way, wasn't fashioned to remain dead to every call of pain; it may be I ought to sit here indifferent to it. Ought to take her mother's word. That such conduct is absurd. But it takes more nerve than I own, to let a baby cry."

Six months old, and learned to know up to her, her Dad will go. If she whoops it up and screams, Babies soon grow wise, it seems. Soon discover who of us cannot stand to hear them fuss. Who'll be first to cave right in, Breaking all the discipline. Who will run to see what's wrong. If their cry is loud and strong.

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

They can tell me she's been fed And if safely put to bed, They can say it's very plain By her cry she's not in pain; They can argue as they may That it's temper on display And beyond the slightest doubt We should let her cry it out, And with them I will agree, But I want to go and see.

I'll admit the babe is wise And has found that when she cries One of us will surely go Up to her and want to know What the trouble's all about. Maybe we should fight it out And should force that babe to learn Who is boss of this concern. But when she begins to cry, I've just got to find out why.

Household Notes.

Serve sliced oranges with a soft custard.

Thinly sliced ripe olives are nice in potato salad.

Mincéd veal makes a nice stuffing for baked green peppers.

Boiled raisins and thin slices of raw green pepper make a good salad.

The grated rind of lemon peel makes a good seasoning for chopped meat.

If tomato soup is vigorously stirred after the milk is added it will not curdle.

Cream of raisin soup is delicious.

Mrs. F. Rinehart, Campbellville, Ont., writes: "I had trouble with my kidneys and very frequent urination. This was followed by pains which at times were very severe. The doctor said I had inflammation of the bladder and that an operation might be necessary. To this I refused, and began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. From the first few doses I felt the benefit. The pains left, urination was corrected, and I have had no recurrence of these ailments."

Squires' Missing Department—Studying Outside Fishery Methods.

In his 1919 Manifesto, Sir Richard Squires announced his intention to establish a Department of Trade and Commerce, which would, among other things, develop additional markets for our fish; develop new fishing industries and improved packing and export methods; and have a study of fishery methods elsewhere which might be helpful to us.

Rumours travel swiftly in this country, and nothing is ever planned or discussed, that does not find an echo more frequently than not, distant among the general public. Squires' missing department, however, has so far failed to elicit even the merest hint of concern among any Department of Trade and Commerce. Such a department has never been considered by the Prime Minister since he took office, and it might therefore be regarded as that obscure place where repose rests of R. A. Squires' other election promises. Presumably that astute gentleman is waiting for the time when Newfoundland, thanks to the results of the past three years, will have no trade or commerce. The department could then be established, and run at little cost. That would be Squires' peculiar idea of economy.

PECULIAR DEVELOPMENT.
Squires promised the development of new fish markets. His idea of developing new markets, is also a peculiar one. With Mr. Coaker, he attempted to fix prices for fish in the markets with which we have always done business, at a time when foreign competition was keen, and exchange rates were so much against these markets that fish, instead of being a common article of diet, had become a luxury. The consequences were that Newfoundland fish was turned down and our competitors made sales that would have been made by local exporters, provided there had been no Government control of prices. And what is infinitely more serious, we have not been able to regain the hold on these markets that we had previously had. The natural conclusion to come to, then, is that by antagonising our present markets, Squires hoped to find us new ones. And now, for the study of outside fishery methods.

THAT NORWEGIAN TRIP.
In 1920, Mr. W. F. Penny, Speaker of the Assembly, and member for Carboneau, was sent on an expensive trip to Norway, for the purpose of studying Norwegian methods of making fish. He returned, after a most enjoyable holiday, bringing with him several samples of Norwegian fishery products, and delivered a short lecture before the Board of Trade, the principal part of which was devoted to the beautiful scenery of Norway. And there the matter ended. Another example of the manner in which Squires kept his promises. But, the public does not forget, and very soon will be voting for

French and Germans Battle in Ruhr.

Several Killed and Wounded -- Civic Crisis at Sydney Mines -- Free State Rounding up Irregulars -- Near East Tension Slackening.

SERIOUS FRANCO-GERMAN CLASHES.

RECKLINGHAUSEN, March 12. Eight Germans are dead as a result of clashes with French troops at various parts of the district last night. One Frenchman and three Germans were wounded in a clash at Dornum. The French warned a French officer and a civilian worker were killed on Saturday night a French detachment went last night to arrest the two Germans believed concerned in the assassination. After the arrest the prisoners attempted to escape and were shot dead. This created an uproar in the town and crowds formed regardless of the order that the streets be cleared after 7 p.m., and the mob attempted to storm the French guard post in the town square. The French warned the crowd and then fired killing five and wounding many. Additional troops were called out which quieted and dispersed the mob. Eight Germans were killed at Dortmund in an attack on the French guard.

SYDNEY MINES' COUNCILLORS RESIGN.

NORTH SYDNEY, March 12. Councillor Cantwell, Sydney Mines, resigned today. Friends of Councillor Cunniff stated he would resign, and the resignation of two other Councillors are expected to-morrow, one of whom, like Councillors Cantwell and Cunniff, is one of the five whose resignations were asked for on Sunday night at the mass meeting of citizens. A ray of hope was held out tonight that Inspector W. J. Theabaull would survive the wounds received on Saturday night when he was shot when raiding the suspected beer shop of Jacob Vickers, Sydney Mines. An application to have Charles Ballagh, alleged head of the Sydney Mines rum ring, deported from Canada as an undesirable alien, has been forwarded to Ottawa.

36 LIVES LOST IN STORM.

CHICAGO, March 13. Thirty-six persons lost their lives in a great storm which swept the country from the Rocky Mountains to the Appalachian Range on Sunday night and early to-day, while scores were injured. Property damage is expected to run into millions.

NEAR EASTERN SITUATION EASING.

VALETTA, Malta, March 13. The easing up of the Near Eastern situation is interpreted here in the withdrawal from Eastern waters of the Dreadnaught Malaya and two light cruisers, also from the fact that the Iron Duke has arrived here from the Dardanelles.

CAPTAIN OF EMDEN DEAD.

BRAUNSCHWEIG, March 12. Captain Karl Von Mueller, wartime commander of the German cruiser Emden, died at the age of fifty.

300 PRISONERS TAKEN.

DUBLIN, March 12. Nearly three hundred prisoners, taken in week-end raids in England and Scotland, are understood to have been landed here from British warships and conveyed under heavily armed guard to jail.

DUBLIN, March 12. A new Irish organization known as "Cumann Man Gaedhael," has been formed which aims to carry out the national traditions and engage in forms of public activity for the development of the nation's political, economic and cultural heritage. Under the patronage of Wm. Cosgrave, head of the Free State Government, and others. The first branch was formed to-day at Drogheda, when it was stated that a general election was probable before the end of next autumn.

THE HUDSON BAY RAILWAY.

OTTAWA, March 12. By resolution adopted on division tonight, the House recognized the priority of the Hudson Bay Railway over the transportation projects started subsequent to the Hudson Bay line. The resolution was moved by Andrew Knox, Progressive member for Prince Albert. "So far as the Government are concerned they have never suggested, so far as I have any knowledge, the abandonment of the Hudson Bay project," said Hon. G. P. Graham, Acting Minister of Railways.

Air Trips Fail to Cure Mutes.

There are so many instances where speech and hearing have been restored by a severe shock that there is a general notion among deaf and dumb persons that their salvation rests in this direction.

Consequently, they are resorting to airplane trips as a means of restoring their functions. The manager of the air station at Croydon, England, reports that he is besieged with requests from these afflicted persons who are hopeful that an experience in mid-air might supply the necessary shock. The parents of an afflicted child brought their offspring to the station and made a request that the child be taken aloft with the idea of possibly curing her, but aside from the tonic effect upon the child there was no other result.

The child returned to the ground in a very happy frame of mind and was delighted with her experiences. It had been suggested that the trip aloft does not have the desired effect for the reason that the various experiences in the air are more or less expected and therefore the element of suddenness and shock are lacking.

Parent Rock.

Granite is the lowest rock in the earth's crust. It is the bed rock of the world. It shows no evidence of animal or vegetable life. It is from two to 16 times as thick as the united thickness of all the other rocks. It is the parent rock from which all other rocks have been either directly or indirectly derived.

It is true that granite does not contain lime, while lime stone does contain that substance, but it furnishes the foundation for animal growth, and animal growth brings lime into existence. It is claimed by scientists that all the lime in the world has, at some time, no doubt, been a part of very many different animals, and possibly of human beings also.

BEATS RETREAT FROM AUSTRIA.

MUNICH—Gen. Ludendorff, military hero of the Central Powers in the great war, was driven from Austria to-day by workers. The former Quartermaster General is returning to his villa in Munich Valley, after a hostile demonstration at Klagenfurt.

Ludendorff had been staying at a hotel in the Austrian city. A group of workers gathered outside, shouting: "Bloodhound!" "Germany's grave digger."

The General attempted to proceed to Vienna, but the workers halted his train and discovered the commander hiding in a lavatory. They ordered him to return to Germany at once.

German Masonic Manifesto.

A manifesto to the Freemasons of the world has been issued by the Fifty-fourth Annual Conference of German Freemasons, which is said to have been more numerous attended than any of its predecessors. The Manifesto, or Resolution, as it is called, which is stated to have been adopted unanimously, is worded as follows:—"The source of spiritual and material decay, by which the German people are threatened with extinction, is to be found in the Treaty of Versailles, the work of hatred and vengeance. The foundation on which it stands, and without which it would fall, is the falsehood of the unilateral guilt of Germany in provoking the world war, a falsehood which fanatical hate has engendered and forced into credit. It is against this we fight, and we throw down the challenge to all those who honestly desire the reconstruction of Germany and the lasting peace of Europe and the world.

"To bring truth and honesty into our life is to enter again into the Masonic ideal. We demand the truth in the solution of guilt incurred. And we invite all Freemasons and Masonic bodies of every country to take knowledge of this ideal, and to make war with us against falsehood and calumny.

"And as Germans we protest solemnly against our debasement to the pariah of humanity; we defend our dignity and our national honour. Hear us and help us, Brother Freemasons of every place, that you may assist us in the reconstruction for humanity of the temple of truth and love."

IF SINCERE.
Bro. Oswald Worth, commenting on this document, says that French Freemasonry will willingly render aid to the German Masons if it can be convinced that they are sincere in their contention for the truth. But, he asks, how can the world admit that Wilhelm II. was not responsible for the declaration of war in 1914? Facts have proved that Germany entered into the campaign after elaborate preparations spread over a lengthened period, intended to secure for that country an overwhelming victory. If, he says, the attitude and actions of Germany in 1914 would denote on the part of that country a stupidity quite unimaginable. He fears that the resolution of the German Freemasons does not well serve the cause of the people who were the victims of bad shepherds. "Let us," he adds, "seek for the truth without prejudice, and let us have the courage to proclaim it, even though it be distasteful to us. If the German Freemasons make in this respect a 'resolution' in the real meaning of that word, it will come more closely to the Masonic ideal and merit our fraternal sympathy."

KAISER ANTAGONISTIC.
During nearly the whole of his life prior to the war, the ex-Kaiser maintained a strong antipathy to Freemasonry, which is strange when it is remembered that his father and grandfather were members of the Craft and the Fraternity then occupied and honoured place in German life, because of the high sentiments which it inculcated. When, towards the end of the war, and the defeat of Germany seemed inevitable, Wilhelm II. forgot his previous animadversions, which were so strong that when Mozart's "Magic Flute" was performed in Berlin he ordered the deletion of every reference to Freemasonry in that opera, and appealed to the Freemasons of the allied countries to secure terms for himself and the Fatherland. But at that time German Masonry was, as it now is, ostracised and had no influence. He again remembered Freemasonry when he went into exile in Holland, and declared that only two of the institutions of civilization—Freemasonry and the Roman Catholic Church—had emerged from the war with undiminished strength, the former being destined to throw the nations into chaos and anarchy, while the latter would act as their salvation. Recently, in his "Memoirs," he alleged that a very important part in bringing on the war was played by Freemasonry in an organization which he termed "The International Grand Orient Lodge"—an institution unknown to any branch of Freemasonry—which, he declared, had no connection with German Freemasonry, but which had for years been carrying on its secret machinations.—The Freemason, London, England.

Clean your bowels—then feel fine! When you feel sick, dizzy, upset, bilious, when your head is dull or aching, or your stomach is sour or gassy, just take one or two Cascarets. As soon as the bowels begin acting and bowel action and bowel gases are cleared away, you will feel like a new person. Cascarets never sicken or cramp you. Also splendid for constipated children. 15 cents a box, also 25 and 50-cent sizes. Any druggist.

ALWAYS GOOD --Now Better Than Ever-- BUDDY BOOTS

The Boots with the Muscled Legs

The new improved Buddy Boots are made of finest para rubber by an entirely new process. They have patented muscled legs, which means that the ordinary leg of the rubber boot is reinforced with bands of rubber by means of a patented process discovered by the manufacturer.

They are steam pressure cured—the rubber in Buddy Boots has been subjected to extreme pressure and a severe test in the manufacture. These two processes together means "Longer Life" to rubber footwear and are combined only in Buddy Boots.

Law Soloist Again Scores at the Nickel.

Readers "Memories" and "Smile Thru Your Tears." The Nickel Theatre was jammed to the doors last night. Many people expected to see Charlie Chaplin in "The Pilgrim," but the management wishes to state that through no fault of theirs, the film was postponed. However, it is very likely the picture will be shown in a few days, definite announcement of which will be made in this paper.

The picture in place of "The Pilgrim" is certainly a very appropriate one, being Mabel Normand's famous picture, entitled "Head Over Heels." The current chapter of "The Pipe Diamond Mystery" was also presented. Mr. Victor Ewart Legge, our own local Musical Saw Soloist, appeared again, and needless to say delighted everybody with his excellent saw renditions. The same bill will be repeated to-morrow.

Sapiro Opposed to a Government Pool.

Cooperation is the solution of the marketing problems of the Western Canadian farmer, in the opinion of Sapiro, the man who solved the problems of the California citrus growers, but he suggests that the farmers form their own wheat pool without any backing or meddling by the government. He says: "I am completely opposed to any Wheat Board or anything that smacks of charitable relief or subsidization of the farmer by any governmental group."

The Pipe of Peace.

The smoking of the "Pipe of Peace" among the American Indians was a ceremony attended with great solemnity. The Peace Pipe, called by the French the calumet, was treated with great reverence and was brought out only upon the most important occasions, such as the making of peace treaties, the reception of a distinguished stranger with whom the tribe wished to be upon good terms. If the occasion did not bring forth the pipe of peace, it was a sign of hostility. To refuse to smoke it when offered was a cause of offence. The calumet was between two and three inches long, and the stem rather than the bowl was the object of the Indian's reverence. The stem was of reed, artistically decorated with women's hair or eagle's quills. Among the Western tribes the pipe bowl was of red cedar wood, in the shape of a deep red cone found in Coteau des Prairies, west of Big Stone Lake, in South Dakota. The Indians of the South and East, made the bowl of white stone pierced with several holes so that several stems could be used at the same time. The calumet quills were regarded as neutral ground among the warring tribes and there were many sacred traditions connected with these spots.

THE EVENING TELEGRAM

THE EVENING TELEGRAM, LIMITED, PROPRIETORS.

St. John's, Nfld., Tuesday, March 13, 1923.

Sir Robert Bond Foretold Correctly.

We append to-day an extract from the letter of resignation which first appeared in the columns of The Evening Telegram on January 10, 1914, in which the Right Honorable Sir Robert Bond warned the country against the ruinous consequences that would follow from the plans of Mr. W. F. Coaker to control the affairs of the Colony through the medium of the Fishermen's Protective Union, and in the interests of that organization and none other.

Bond's Warning Against Coaker

As True To-Day as When Written Nine Years Ago.

(Extracts from Sir Robert Bond's letter of resignation, as published in The Evening Telegram, January 10, 1914.)

Let me put the position plainly. I had retired from public life with the close of the Session of 1912, and most reluctantly consented to re-enter it last autumn, out of deference, for what was made to appear a popular demand for my services.

F. P. U. PRE-EMINENCE.

I need scarcely remind you of all that occurred subsequent to that date to shake our faith in the pledge of "loyalty and co-operation" given us by the President of the F. P. U. It is sufficient to refer you to his Address to the Supreme Council of the F. P. U. published in the Fisherman's Advocate of December 6th, wherein he declared "we co-operated with the Liberal Party in the field, as unless we had done so the whole responsibility (of fighting the Government) would have been cast upon my shoulders, a responsibility I was not prepared to shoulder.

The foregoing reveals the fact that as far as the President of the F.P.U. is concerned the aim of the Union shall be the control of the Government of this Colony by that Union; that its energies shall be directed to that end irrespective of the written pledge, given by him to me on behalf of the Union; of loyalty to and co-operation with the Liberal Party, in securing the adoption of the policy set forth in my Manifesto of October last.

disloyalty within our ranks which takes the form of a set purpose on the part of a majority of the Opposition to dominate the councils of the party and work towards the end that the reins of Government shall be in the Fishermen's Protective Union.

A DOMINANT FACTOR.

The recent political contest resulted in the defeat of a large number of my Liberal supporters, and has left the Opposition Party in a minority of fifteen members, eight of whom are representative of the F. P. U. The Union is thus a dominant factor. Under ordinary circumstances I would have readily accepted a situation that the fortunes of political warfare had brought about, but, in the light of the Union President's self-pronounced disloyalty and policy, an intolerable position has arisen so far as I am concerned.

Victory all Along the Line.

North, South, East and West the slogan for clean government is being sounded.

On every side is being heralded the glorious news that the Opposition Candidates are assured of victory at the polls, even in the one time Coaker stronghold.

What else can one expect when it can be seen on every hand ruin, desolation and despair, wrought by the backed Squires could not forget the fact that this country has ever known.

St. John's West has again set the pace, and even the most optimistic of the Squires-Coaker supporters is at his wits end to bolster up a rotten cause, and is forced to the admission that the Prime Minister cannot even win in his own district.

Sir Richard Anderson Squires just a little over three years ago, was given a chance by the electors of this Dominion to show what he could do.

The whole country to-day realizes that the confidence placed in him then has been misplaced. Many who backed Squires could not forget the words of Coaker, who termed him "That Black Rascal" nor those of Sir Patrick McGrath who said "Squires could not be trusted."

The misdoings of the Coaker-Squires combine will take years to repair, and only strong men, men of ability, and well versed in the commercial affairs of the country can accomplish this task.

There is certainly no joke about the issues before the country to-day. The Mail and Advocate can joke and sling mud and just as much as they please, but the people are awake to the seriousness of the situation.

Jokes, unfulfilled promises, mud slinging, etc., can no longer fool the people.

It is high time for the sake of decency for the Mail and Advocate to take a tumble to themselves and cut out abuse and insinuations. The public demand something better.

Another four years of Squires-Coaker rule and the grass will grow on Water Street, the roots are already there.

Voters of St. John's, you know too well how the Coaker-Squires policy has affected this city. Be determined on this polling day to sound the death knell of Coakerism and all that it means.

Premier Squires has had his chance. Urged on by his boss he has succeeded in throttling every industry in this city and the country, with the result that Newfoundland has been driven on the rocks.

ELECTORS, TAKE NOTICE!

COAKER IS NOT "ANNOUNCED" The Reason Why He is Kept in The Background.

Every elector should make a note of the fact that while Sir Richard Squires has come out with an announcement in the Advocate and in the Daily Mail, with big black head lines and a lot of flattering references to every other candidate who is to contest a district for him, he has suppressed any references whatever to Mr. Coaker.

When the Premier started to fill up the districts he began with the announcement of the candidatures of Mr. Cave, for Bay de Verde, Captain Randell for Trinity, then Mr. Halfyard and Mr. Hibbs for Trinity, then Dr. Barnes from Harbor, Grace to Green Bay, with Capt. G. Jones and Mr. K. Brown, then Mr. Orines for Popo, and following this that Messrs. Poote and Cheseman would run again for Burin, and that then Mr. Scammell was going back to St. Barbe.

COAKER IS DOMINANT FACTOR. Nobody can mistake the significance of this. Every other candidate was announced with a flourish of trumpets, but Coaker's candidacy was kept as quiet as possible, and is to be kept quiet so far as the Government papers are concerned.

DAY'S MESSAGES.

UPHOLDS FREE STATE. LONDON, March 13. A substantial majority of the House of Commons, last night, supported the Government in its action in assisting the Free State Government, by sending to the South of Ireland a force of Irishmen and women of the British Army, suspected of aiding Irish rebels in their campaign against the Free State by supplying arms and ammunition.

FRENCH ISSUE WARNING. BERLIN, March 13. A dispatch received here from Dortmund reports an altercation between German and French soldiers in a restaurant which resulted in the French firing on Germans, killing one and wounding six. The dispatch adds that General Caron, French commanding officer, has advised the Germans at Buer that if any more French soldiers are murdered in New in Dortmund, the town, now in French hands, will be immediately shot.

WHEN PAYMENT MADE. BRUSSELS, March 13. The German Government, yesterday afternoon, declared, yesterday afternoon, that it was ready, when Germany had made payment, to evacuate the Ruhr, all that territory recently occupied by the right bank of the Rhine, the French and Belgians believe they have won a big blow to German propaganda, entirely contravening the German statement that they were occupying this district.

THE UNKNOWN DEAD. AMIENS, France, March 13. The bodies of more than three hundred British soldiers, were found by engineers in the woods of the Albert front, when clearing away the devastated forest, and more bodies are being to light daily.

A TIMELY RESCUE. FREEPORT, New York, March 13. Captain Smith and Harry Matthews, were put out to sea on March the fourth in a small motor boat, and who were later drowned, were landed yesterday at Long Beach by a schooner from the Bahamas, which picked them up when they were at the point of death.

SHOOTING TO THE BITTER END. LONDON, March 13. A dispatch from Dublin says that a two hour battle between Free State and Republicans at Cahirsivreen, a hidden mine exploded, killing five Republican prisoners and wounding many on both sides.

Returned From Placentia. E. F. Sinnott, who was at Placentia attending the funeral of his sister, Mrs. B. Siteman, returned to town by yesterday's train. The funeral of the late Mrs. Siteman took place on Saturday at 2.30 p.m. and was attended by a large number of people of the Ancient Capital and the surrounding places. Interment took place at Carmel Cemetery.

Hockey. REDS REPEAT MONROE'S. Last night before a large gathering of spectators, the Red's hockey team defeated a team from the Monroe Express Company by a score of 8 goals to 1. The St. Bon's rink. The game was a thriller from start to finish, and a splendid combination work on the part of both teams was a feature of the game. Lar Delahanty, W. F. O'Neil and R. Nolan starred for the Reds, while Bob Chafe, and Bert O'Neil played a fine game for Monroe. The ice was in excellent condition. The line-ups were as follows: REDS—Phelan goal; Delahanty, O'Neil, Nolan, Coultas, Nurse, O'Neil. MONROE'S—Daly, Goal; Chafe, O'Neil, Delancey, Davis, Rodgers, B. O'Neil. This is the first defeat for Monroe this season.

Personal. M. S. Sullivan will leave town on Thursday for Trinity Bay on a business trip.

This is an action for $18,000 for breach of agreement. Mr. McNelly for plaintiff; Mr. Fenelon, for defendant. Mr. McNelly states case for plaintiff, and puts in agreement between the parties. On motion of Mr. McNelly and by consent of Mr. Fenelon, the further hearing is adjourned until tomorrow.

In the matter between Patrick Summers and James Nosworthy & Son, which was heard before Chief Justice Horwood yesterday, judgment was entered for the plaintiff in the amount of $150.

Those Bold Burglars.

HUNTING FOR CANDIDATES.

Reading yesterday's Advocate and Mail it appears that a terrible robbery gang had broken into and ransacked the offices of the Prime Minister and Attorney General. Apparently nothing is safe in the country nowadays. Only last week some miscreant ransacked the reporters room of the Telegram office and walked away with a volume of clippings and manuscript. Evidently as in the case of the outrages at the Government offices the miscreants were not after money. What are they after then? Is it a paper chase for Candidates?

Major Cotton Goes North

PLANE ENCOUNTERED SNOW STORM.

Major Cotton in the Martinside plane took off from Quidi Vidi this morning on a special trip northward. After getting over Bell Island a snow storm was encountered, and the plane returned to its base. As his business is urgent, the Major left again by train at noon for Botwood from where he will proceed on his mission by one of the planes which the Aerial Company hold in readiness.

Frostbitten Seamen.

AMPUTATIONS NECESSARY.

Capt. Thomas James, and seaman John Hynes and John Vatcher of the schooner, A. B. Burgess, who were brought to the General Hospital on Tuesday, March 6th, following their rescue by S. S. Hawk, are doing fairly well at the institution, and it is probable that within a day or two they will be operated on. The captain, it is learned, will lose both feet, as will also one of the seamen. The other seaman will probably have a foot and part of the left leg, as well as a portion of the right foot, amputated.

Weather Report.

Fog—Fresh northerly winds, fair weather; ice conditions unchanged. Westville—Wind N.W.; no ice in sight. Greenspond—Wind northerly, light breeze; ice about 4 miles off. Bonaville—Weather calm; ice about five miles off. Catalina—Easterly winds; sky overcast; some slob ice to be seen. Port aux Basques—Fresh breeze, snowing; ice off shore.

Train Notes.

The East bound express was at Kitty's Brook this morning, making slow progress, while the West bound train was at Spruce Brook at 10 a.m. The trains are finding great difficulty in making their way through snow drifts. The local Carbonate train arrived at 1.30 p.m. A train left here at 1 p.m., making connections for Bonaville, and Millertown Junction.

IN COURT CIRCLES.—One drunk only appeared before Court this morning. He was discharged. A civil case arising over the sale of a piano, occupied the attention of the court the greater part of the forenoon.

Quips for the Times.

"Squires will win." I dare say. Squires will win I don't think. Scammell for salite barbe (an ordinance store and powder magazine); that's where he gets blown up.

Here is a 'veritable tornado of words, and you may as well ask the wind whither it goes as to ask the Advocate what it means by this: "A veritable disenfranchisement of the interests of the common people." "Words, words everywhere and not a bit of sense" to paraphrase the words of the ancient mariner. It is like the ravings of a lunatic.

An agricultural wind-jammer of a type was sitting down to breakfast. He looked as solemn as a sphinx, and you would think from the corrugations on his brow he was pondering on the immortality of the soul, but he wasn't. He was afraid somebody might ask him if tomato was fruit or vegetable or what kind of an animal they get bacon from. He had just been on a lecture tour and the Advocate said he displayed such knowledge of farming that he made Agricola himself look like a street Arab.

Mr. Coaker invited us all down North to see how he can hold the fort. What is the matter with the proposition that Mr. Coaker hold a Public Meeting here in St. John's. He could have all his cohorts including Messrs. Squires and Campbell as well as all the editors of the various government organs to support him. We guarantee him a patient hearing if he will but answer the questions we might have to put to him. What do you say, Mr. Coaker? Are you on?

The Advocate dilated a whole lot upon a class it is pleased to call the "common people." Whether "common people" means Bimans; order of primates, or whether it means the "friends" whom Mr. Coaker wishes to take a West India winter cruise, the Advocate does not make quite clear. As the under-dogs cannot afford the luxury of a winter cruise in sunny Southern climes, of course they are not the "friends" he refers to. Who then are they? Who else, if not the wealthy ones? There is a seeming paradox here. Coaker apostrophises his "friends" but they are not the "under-dogs."

What does Toopunk mean by the solemn "we people won't stand for it." Such redundancy makes hash of the poor unoffending language "Toopunk." It is like wrapping an ounce of common "bull" in the swathing of a mummy. Simply a waste, simply foolish.

A GOOD IDEA.

According to the Coaker organ, the North is sold for the Government. It occurs to me to be just a waste of energy to have the Travelling Delegate of the Union bringing so much coal to Newcastle. Why could he not try a few lectures here in St. John's. I am sure all would be delighted to hear him on Agriculture, the Humber, and Fish Regulations.

The Latest—Someone broke into the offices of the Premier and Attorney General.

Last elections, according to the Premier, the same someone was going around trying to assassinate him.

Here's a good chance for our finger print experts. Owah!

In the ordinary course of events the natural assumption would be that the culprit "broke out" after committing the offence.

The Advocate asks the question would the guilty ones be friends of the Government or the Opposition?

Without beating around the bush I am satisfied to assert they are neither friends nor supporters of the Opposition.

So draw your own conclusions, Mr. Reader.

Perhaps the "slick one" is slick enough to dig up some candidates to fill the Government districts.

All you got to do is to read the Mail and Advocate to satisfy yourself of what is going to happen on polling day.

Who said "slacker?"

Surely not the Mail Editor or the Prime Minister.

The query certainly does not apply to Mr. P. E. Outerbridge.

His dual offers for military service are appended.

Volunteered on two occasions in 1914 for active service. One brother killed in action, another seriously wounded, and another won the D.S.O. for gallantry in action.

Sir Joseph, his father rendered valuable services to Newfoundland and the Empire on the Patriotic Association.

Mr. P. E. Outerbridge is the man who is largely responsible for a War Memorial that will be erected the coming summer.

He took up and made a success of this work when the present government failed miserably.

Obituary.

HENRY BLATCH.

The many friends of Mr. Henry Blatch will regret to hear of his passing, death having occurred at the General Hospital at 2 o'clock this morning after a lengthy illness. Up to a year ago the deceased was in apparent good health, but becoming suddenly ill he was advised by his physician that he would have to undergo an operation. Acting on the advice of the doctor he entered hospital to receive treatment for an internal malady, which in course of time was treated successfully. Some seven weeks ago, however, he was again troubled with the same illness, and again entered the Hospital for a second operation. The disease had gained such inroads that a cure could not be effected, and being quite conscious to the end Mr. Blatch breathed his last at the hour mentioned. The late Mr. Blatch was born in Prince Edward Island, and came to this country about forty years ago. At that time he carried on an extensive livery business, having stables on Carey Street. He was an expert horseman and always took an active interest in horse racing on Quidi Vidi Lake. The deceased later entered the employ of Harvey & Co., and for a period of twenty years was steward for the Red Cross Line boats. He was a man of sterling worth and was always held in the highest esteem by his co-workers. After faithfully fulfilling his duties in the above capacity he retired from business some years ago and later conducted an agency business in Real Estate. Mr. Blatch was a member of the Masonic Order and a staunch member of Gover St. Methodist Church. He married Miss Ellis, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., and besides a surviving widow leaves to mourn one son, Henry, in the employ of the Canadian Westinghouse Co., Montreal; two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Peters and Mrs. (Dr.) T. P. Smith of this city; and also two sisters, Mrs. Cook, in England, and Mrs. Henderson, of Charlottetown, P.E.I. The funeral takes place from his late residence, 51 Long's Hill on Thursday, interment being at the General Protestant Cemetery. The Evening Telegram extends sincere sympathy to the bereaved in their hour of sorrow.

Lady Curzon Howe.

Lady Curzon Howe, who sent greetings to the press yesterday will be remembered as the widow of Admiral Curzon-Howe, who was commodore of the British North American Squadron some 25 years ago. Toronto Saturday Night of Feb. 24th, explaining a photo which appeared in its columns says: "This is a photograph of Miss Rita Mackenzie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Mackenzie, of Montreal, whose marriage to Lieutenant Charles Curzon-Howe, of Christchurch, Hants, England, will take place in Montreal, on February 28th." It is evident that Lady Curzon-Howe was returning to England after the event. From Sir Patrick McGrath we learn that Lady Curzon-Howe came to Newfoundland as a bride and gave birth to a son whose marriage his mother has been attending. Lady Curzon-Howe is the daughter of Sir John Covill, who was a master in the household of Queen Victoria. Lady Curzon-Howe is a god-child of the late Queen Victoria. Lieut. Charles St. John Curzon-Howe was born on Prescott Street in the residence now occupied by Dr. MacPherson as a surgery. He visited here in H. M. S. Raleigh on his last trip to this port.

AN IMPORTANT TRADING CENTRE OF THE NORTHERN AFRICAN COAST.

Centra, on the Moroccan shore of the Straits of Gibraltar, is one of the most important trading centres on the northern coast of Africa. It is right in the gateway of the Mediterranean, and therefore is on the direct route to the Black Sea and India, not only for vessels for the United Kingdom and Northern Europe, but also for those coming from North and South American ports. The local authorities have so far recognized the potentialities of such a unique situation on one of the world's greatest highways and within recent years they have carried out very extensive improvements in the port, and are still engaged on further developments. The harbor of Centra, the area of which is about 340 acres, is well sheltered from all winds and it is also deep enough to provide safe anchorage for the largest types of steamers. It is almost completely enclosed by a breakwater and the Digue Muelle Norte. The latter is at present only half finished, but it will eventually have a length of 4,600 ft. Nevertheless, in spite of its uncompleted state, a number of warehouses and cranes have been erected on it, and a railway track has been laid, connecting with the main line to Tetuan, which enables goods wagons of 40 tons capacity to be loaded direct from steamers berthed at the Digue and thence despatched straight inland. The plans now being carried out provide for the construction of two other moles, one about 1,500 feet in length and the other about 500 feet, both well equipped with modern cargo-handling machinery and adequate storage facilities. The entrance to the port between the Digue Muelle Norte and the breakwater is about 1,000 feet wide, and 52 feet deep, and the depth of water inside the harbor ranges from 46 to 52 feet. All these extensions have been designed in order to make Centra the leading place of shipment for the produce of North Africa and an important sort of call for vessels passing through the Mediterranean, whilst the attainment of this object has been furthered by the fact that the scale of charges has been an exceptionally low one. The port has, however, another claim to distinction, which in these days is a very important one. It is the first and last of oil fuel bunkering station for ships entering and leaving the Mediterranean. For the provision of the extensive and up-to-date oil bunkering facilities now existing in the port, the enterprise of the Ybarrola Depositos de Aceite Combustible S.A., is responsible, and this Spanish firm is undoubtedly to be congratulated on the way it has provided, not only for the present fuel needs of oil-using ships on this route, but also for the anticipated requirements of the future. Large storage tanks, each capable of holding 8,000 tons of oil, have been erected, and pipe-lines carry the fuel ships have their bunkers replenished in the most expeditious manner.—Syren and Shipping.

Gigantic Trans-Atlantic Liners.

When the S. S. Leviathan commences her work in the North Atlantic passenger trade in July next, there will be five vessels ranging from 45,000 to 56,000 tons which will make the port of Southampton their European terminal. These ships are the Majestic, Leviathan, Berengaria, Olympic and Aquitania. With regard to vessels of this size the question of dry-docking facilities is of great importance. Three of the vessels named are German built, and provision was made for dry-docking them at Hamburg by building a large floating dock. This structure was surrendered to Great Britain after the war, and the White Star Company offered the Government £100,000 for it. The sum demanded, however, was £200,000, and as this was considered far too high, the negotiations fell through, and then the British Government sold the dock to the Germans for £40,000! The Trafalgar Dock at Southampton, after a little extension, is now capable of accommodating vessels of any size except the Majestic and Leviathan. To remove this disability a floating dock is now under construction by Messrs. Armstrong, Whitworth & Co., and when it is completed and in place it will not be necessary for the two vessels named to be dry-docked elsewhere. It is an interesting question as to how many ports there are in the world where ships of this enormous tonnage can undergo hull repairs or cleaning. The only graving dock in the British Islands which is capable of admitting these huge vessels is the Gladstone Dock, Liverpool. Unfortunately, however, this is at present out of commission and will remain so for the next 18 months, during which time that section of the estate of the Mersey Docks and Harbour Board is being extended and developed. New docks are being constructed, and a new river entrance made. Had the large vessels now based upon Southampton used the port of Liverpool the Board would have allowed the Gladstone Dock to remain in commission. As it is, however, the port will not suffer during the time it is closed while work is proceeding on the reconstruction scheme. This question of dry dock accommodation for super ships emphasises the fact that the range of selection of ports with dry-docking facilities for the largest type of Atlantic liners is comparatively limited. The Majestic, it must be remembered, has a length between perpendiculars of 515ft. 2in.; a beam of 100ft. 1in.; and depth of 58 ft. 2in. The Leviathan is 7 ft. 8in. shorter, but 2in. more in beam. In order that such ships can be comfortably dry-docked, it is obvious that the graving dock will have to be in excess of those dimensions, except in the matter of depth. With regard to the latter, there will certainly have to be a little more than 46ft. of water on the sill to take them without risk—Syren and Shipping.

IN CONVENTION AT KELLI-GREWS.

A convention of thirty-seven Church of England teachers took place at Kelligrews on Saturday last in the High School and was presided over by Dr. W. W. Blackall, Superintendent of Education, who regretted the unavoidable absence of Hon. Dr. Roberts, Minister of Education, though illness, but he was with us. The teachers came from all parts of the province, including the parishes of Topsy and Roberts, inclusive, and had luncheon and tea served for them by the Women's Association of Kelligrews. The Rev. H. Facey, B.A., vicar, welcomed the teachers and expressed delight in their coming to the convention. All the more aids to better teaching, including libraries, had been provided for a few of the schools, the object being to help the teachers in their work of developing the several gifts of Education so ably advocated on that occasion and more to be provided as soon as funds are available. There should be no more in Education. All our children of school age should be provided with suitable schools and good teachers that would mean so much to the future of the country and would do all he could to help teachers, supervisors and superintendents in their noble calling. The paper was on "Teaching of the Bible to Beginners" by Miss Murphy, Principal of the Model School, St. John's. Miss Murphy's address was delivered extempore in a masterly and clearly demonstrated the best method of teaching the subject to develop the mind of the child by means of song, story, and play. Children taught by this method are able to read at the end of a few weeks, naturally and with good expression. The method of instruction is the story method impressed upon the child by means of rhythm, observation, association, blackboard drawing, and visualization from perceptions made by the teacher and a chart constructed out of paper to hold these cards up to the story studied. Many names were described such as the perception card moving picture, circus, tag, merry-go-round, and give the child his initial of eight words by means of which he is enabled to build up a vocabulary incidentally or naturally as playing a game out there, thus creating a love for the reading of simple words, with appreciation, thought expression. A helpful discussion contributed by Miss Wells, of Roberts; Mr. Jones, of the Codrington School; Rev. H. Facey, B.A.; Mr. Norman of the High School, St. John's. One of whose teachers mentioned this Primary Reading method under Miss Purchase and had it to as he designated it, "the method of success in the teaching of reading to beginners." The next paper was on "The Teaching of English for Grades III. to V." by Dr. Blackall.

TRAINING THE TEACHERS.
We have a problem here that means thousands of dollars in value to Newfoundland. Talk about not needing training for our teachers. It is not true. In many schools to-day the reading that should be the source of Education actually develops when children who have through a reader several times cannot even tell the simple words they have read. Many of the teachers were those who had gone to the fourth reader and were able to read intelligently afterwards. He had proved it in several cases and those people had admitted it. The cause was lack of training and it was a pleasure to see teachers taking steps themselves to improve conditions. He wanted to help. The right idea is reading to get thought not words only; and it is a mistake to stick to one reader too long—far better to read many books once than one book many times. Supplementary readers should be provided. Dr. Blackall, showed how to put life in the reading lesson by means of drawing pictures of it acting it when possible, teacher's pattern reading, then silent reading by the children, and lastly reading aloud with life, taste and expression by the children, so that they could put in their own words what they had read and answer simple questions on the subject matter with delight and thought that would lead to a love of literature. The third paper was on "School Libraries," Dr. Burke, Deputy Minister of Education. Dr. Burke said that the Department of Education had provided suitable library books for all who would contribute barely one-half the cost of the books, the other half being paid out of a grant allowed by the Government, and these books were within reach of all teachers who wished to take advantage of the offer and it was a pleasure to see more teachers responding as a result of the reference made to this at the last convention. There are several sets of books carefully selected and graded and they contain the choicest literature obtainable, such as the Nelson series, the Treasury series, etc.; and they were recommended by Dr. Blackall. The child's taste for books changed at each stage of development. Boys preferred stories dealing with adventure while girls liked those pertaining to home and school life, such as "Little Women." The list will be supplemented and he invited teachers to write to him for literature concerning this helpful work of the Department.

VALUABLE SUGGESTIONS.
The fourth paper was on "Attendance," by Mr. Elam Elliott, Assistant Inspector, who ably presented some valuable suggestions dealing with this difficulty, such as interesting the parents, making school hours attractive, having children well graded and making the teaching more interesting by helpful supervision that was an urgent necessity in all our schools. The last speaker was Mr. P. G. Butler, B.C.S., Principal of the Springdale St. Commercial School, St. John's, whose speech on "Arithmetic linked up with the life of the community," was also well received. He emphasized the idea of learning to do by doing—the searchlight of practice illuminating the dark places of theory—demonstrating by means of simple objects in the school and diagrams of these on the blackboard drawn to scale the teaching of fundamentals from the known to the unknown or concrete to abstract (thus developing reasoning by practical observation, such as measuring lumber by bringing lumber into the school, and actually measuring and calculating it; fractions by cutting up an apple or a potato into halves, quarters, eighths, sixteenths, thirty-secondths, etc., and numbering or numerating these parts; analysis and synthesis, motivation, competition, ambition, honesty, industry, accuracy by proving, and speed by drill were demonstrated by interesting short methods in weights and measures applied to our leading products, exchanges and differences, the value of fractional percentage tables in invoicing, discounts, etc., concluding with a brief appeal for more extended study of financial, economic and marketing problems of our country and people whose destiny depended upon the progress of more advanced industrial and commercial education in our schools.

GRATITUDE EXTENDED.
Votes of thanks were extended to the Women's Association for serving luncheon and tea so well provided by Dr. Blackall, the life of the party, to whom all were most grateful; to the Reid Newfoundland Co. for free return passage; to the Royal Stores for sending Miss Day with a splendid gramophone that she manipulated between the lectures, delighting everyone with beautiful school music; to Rev. H. and Mrs. Facey for favours extended; and to Mrs. S. Hynes and other kind ladies and gentlemen who helped and whose kindness was appreciated and will do much good in thus stimulating the teachers efforts to render faithful service for dear old Newfoundland.

Buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—then perfect home dyeing is guaranteed. Just tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods. Diamond Dyes never streak.

Mussolini Calls Himself a Dare Devil.
ROME.—"The Fascist Government needs 200,000 muskets to keep all the rascals in their places," said Premier Mussolini to a delegation of the Italian Arditi, or "Daredevils" as they are sometimes called, in a recent address. I am counting on all the ex-service men, and therefore, on the Arditi, who have been our best fighters," continued the Premier. "I am sure almost all of you will join the voluntary of the nation, for this is its purpose; we need a police force in order to protect ourselves against lawbreakers. The Fascist Government also has need of 200,000 muskets to keep all the rascals in their places. I hope, therefore," continued the Fascist chief, "to see you in the front rank of the Fascist legions, which are a magnificent reserve of courage, of power and of faith, and on which not only the government, but the whole nation can surely count. I thank you, and beg you to consider me, as head of the Government, a daredevil who does not stop before any obstacle, and overcomes all obstacles if it be necessary and required by the supreme interests of the nation."

Russia Defends Grain Exports

AS PEOPLE STARVE.
MOSCOW (Associated Press).—Russian ships loaded with grain for western Europe may steam out of Soviet harbors at the same time that American ships, likewise laden with grain for the Russian famine sufferers, steam into Russian ports, unless present plans of the Soviet Government are changed. The Russian authorities, largely interested at this time in the building up of future agricultural and industrial possibilities, anticipate that they will be able to export even more foodstuffs than they are asking such foreign organizations as the American Relief Administration to import. They explain the apparent incongruities of this plan by the statement that the outgoing foodstuffs are private property, and that, to be considered in their new policy of permitting private initiative, they cannot confiscate this food for famine needs, even though they have to request that food be sent into Russia to prevent thousands of deaths from starvation.

PEASANTS HAD SURPLUS.

The grain for export, they say, is the property of various co-operative societies accumulated by them from individual peasants who, in some fruitful regions, had a surplus above their own needs. This surplus was consigned to the societies to be exchanged abroad for implements and other articles which the peasants must have, but cannot secure in Russia. Asked why the government does not help its own people when there is sufficient food in the country to feed the entire populace, instead of continuing to plead for American and other foreign aid, one official said that if the saleable surplus of the peasant were taken away from him this year, he probably would not raise any more grain than he absolutely needed for himself next year. "The Government had to abandon the policy of requisitioning supplies from the peasants two years ago, and to encourage them to plant more grain than they needed for their own use," this official said. "If we started again to requisition grain from the peasants or co-operatives, we not only would undo all of the work of two years, but would be directly refuting our new policy of free trade."

AFTER EUROPEAN BREAD MARKET.

At a recent meeting of the State Plan Commission, the official statistician declared that Russia should be able to export from last year's crop about 100,000,000 pounds, or roughly 60 million bushels of grain. The time is now ripe, this expert said, for Russia to endeavor to regain the European bread market. He doubted, however, the ability of the co-operatives to handle such a large quantity of grain. A small amount of Russian rye and wheat is already at the ports, but up to the present time little of it has actually been placed aboard ship for export. The

Blew up "Eye" of Austrian Army.

STORY TOLD FOR THE FIRST TIME.

NEW YORK.—(Canadian Press).—Prince Galeazzo Ciano, in a recent address here, recounted for the first time details of his famous war exploit—the blowing up of the mountain Col di Lana, the "eye" of the Austrian army, in 1916. Addressing the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, Ambassador Ciano, who was graduated from Columbia and obtained his first job as a "slag car pusher" in the workings of the Daily West Mine, Park City, Utah, spoke modestly of his feat. He said that other engineers, Bonfiole and Grimaldi, had contributed equally to the success of the mining of Col di Lana, a cone-shaped mountain in the Dolomitic Alps, 9,000 feet in height. "Col di Lana was the eye of the enemy," he said, "that spied every road of access, that looked over our defenses and our rear. We were called upon to blind that eye. An assault was ordered. And in the attempt to scale the bare and precipitous flank of the mountain, 10,000 of our bravest men met death. "Col di Lana had the voracity of a jaw crusher." Then Prince Ciano, an officer of engineers, was sent to the sector to replace an officer who had fallen in the assault. He joined the Italian party on the mountain-side, but—"We had almost reached the peak; we hung with our fingers and shoe nails on the ice cliffs, but try as we might we could not make that last step," he continued. "Time and again our plucky little men tried to rush the gap, but machine-guns mowed them down and their bodies remained in a frigid No-Man's-Land. "One day Colonel Perelli asked me what I thought could be done. I told him we ought to get underneath them and blow 'em off. And so the mine was started, the thirteenth of January. There were two engineer officers, Bonfiole and Grimaldi, besides myself, and eighty picked miners. We started surveying the position, a difficult task, through loop holes. Finally we started tunnelling towards the center of the peak. We bored 150 feet, then drove a 42 degree raise with the intention of getting close to the surface under the enemy's first line trench. Upon the suggestion of two of our miners we had an 18-foot sectional wood-angur forged. The rock was soft and decomposed. From the roof of the raise we drilled almost vertically until we broke through to the surface. By that time the Austrian engineers were feeling our blast underneath their feet. They notified headquarters that we were mining the Austrian position. Headquarters answered not to get causelessly excited; that the Italians were probably only mining for shelter. They lost three days phoning up and down, and to this we owed our success. Towards the middle of March the enemy started counter-mining. We had started again drifting horizontally and were gaining depth. On the seventh of April the enemy blasted its first counter mine, but the shot had been placed too high and was somewhat off line. The shock, however, was very heavy and part of the ceiling of our tunnel caved, burying Bonfiole and four soldiers. We got them out alive and started again. The enemy then sank three shafts to locate us but we had gained further depth and passed under their shafts at not more than three feet distance. We could hear them walking and dragging bags full of dirt. April 15 we loaded five tons of 95 per cent. gelatine in two chambers about thirty feet apart and topped the galleries. At 10 p.m. April 17, I went up for the last time in the raise and connected the electric wires. I was alone, and in the silence of the underground world could hear someone picking hard and hastily above my head. That same night a prisoner told me that they would have fired their counter mine three days later. At 11 p.m. all our garrison was withdrawn into the several galleries. The last sentries were retired shortly afterwards. Our trenches remained for a moment completely deserted. Bonfiole, Grimaldi and I and another officer were seated at the entrance of a gallery, 300 feet from the center of the mine. At 11.30 we received orders and pulled the strings of the detonators. There was a dull noise, a slight tremor. I thought the mine had failed and rushed to the nearby entrance, illuminated by the white glare of the moon, when suddenly all became dark. A cataclysm of earth and rock fell. When the stones stopped falling I crawled out of the half-obliterated entrance. The snow cap of Col di Lana had become black. The whole topography had changed. Everything was silent, deserted, dead. Our soldiers crawled out of the galleries, walked quietly up to the peak and occupied the huge crater. Col di Lana was ours!"

The Menace of Coaker

ARTICLE VII.
Gentlemen voters of Newfoundland, you have a solemn duty to perform a duty that makes you do the part towards his country.

Newfoundland to-day stands in a most unpromising position. She is threatened with conditions that, if effect, will bring ruin and disaster to her people and position; brought about by the predictions and policies of one William F. Coaker.

To you, men of Newfoundland, Dominion that played a part "greater than the best," in the great battle right over night, many of whose are now sleeping in honored graves in France, Flanders and Gallipoli, doing their part to defeat might and autocracy. Are we going to let their sacrifices? Are we going to let the purposes for which they fought, namely, Freedom and Justice, Coaker rule of this Dominion for that which will bring disaster to discredit to our country, and elect his candidates to positions in his Government, then you will seal your intentions and witness in this direction.

Newfoundland is appealing to you to save her from such rule. The working man this appeal is especially made, and must be answered in one way or another on polling day.

It is not a case of Squires as it is Coaker—the man who on so many occasions dared law, order and justice to gain personal favor and positions.

To the people on polling day an important issue is left to be decided. Newfoundland asks that it be decided with without fear or favor.

Terrific Power of Explosives

The terrific power of explosives was shown when a firm of dealers in London was recently with the awkward job of breaking in a confined space, a large cast-iron vat the sides of which were more than three inches thick.

The method adopted was a modification of the "depth charges" which proved so deadly to the German submarines. The vat was filled with water and a cartridge containing 10 lb. of gelignite was suspended in the middle of the vessel. When the charge was fired the vat simply lapsed into a number of pieces, most of which fell outside the defined area. The shattering effect is due to the fact that water, being almost incompressible, transmits the full force of the explosion in every direction.

Poachers make use of the same dodge when they fire a stick of dynamite in a salmon pool and kill and stun the fish, which then rise to the surface.

Explosives are frequently used for breaking up scrap metal and, similarly enough, they will do the same even when the cartridges are simply laid on the plate, which is to be broken, with nothing more than a plaster of clay to secure them.

Cast iron is broken by placing a "plaster shot," as it is called, on the strongest part, and the object is shattered by shock. When dealing with steel plates the explosive must also do a cutting action; so the cartridges are placed end to end and the part to be cut.

It may seem strange that an explosive should shatter a thick metal plate on which it is merely lying, the reason is that the momentary resistance of the air immediately above the exploding charge is greater than that of the plate beneath.

This air is pressing down on the plate with a weight of nearly one ton on every square foot. An explosion is really an instantaneous and terrific kick. Now no kick, however violent, can instantaneously jerk out of its way a column of air that weighs a ton; so, for a moment, the force of the explosion is transmitted downwards along the line of least resistance and splits the plate.

Town of the Vikings Unearthed

The discovery near Gothenburg, Sweden, of ruins of Gamla Ladose and Nya Ladose, two ancient settlements of the Vikings, is considered one of the most important of its kind in Northern Europe during recent years. The site uncovers the seats of learning and trade of the Norsemen during the Middle Ages. Gamla Ladose has been completely excavated by Nya Ladose also nears completion. Among the interesting remains found are a church, with several smaller churches, city walls, a castle, houses, and tools, weapons and coins, with other relics which throw much light upon the culture and early history of Scandinavia.

Tragedy of the West Coast.

The Evening Telegram, Saturday, Sept. 28th, 1920.

It is the unexpected that usually happens, and no person could have predicted that the once prosperous West Coast of Newfoundland would be in the condition it is to-day. The people and its soil have been repeatedly accused of being engaged in a scheme which would be dastardly, to ruin trade, bring about a general strike, and arrange things so that the price of fish would fall locally to a point where it would be unprofitable to export, and particularly in the West. Those who read this program know and realize that this is absolutely untrue, but it is part of the general policy of the Government, and it is used every means in their power to discredit it. They have failed in their failure to ruin trade, and in their failure to bring about a general strike, and if it were not for the positions you will find in this program, you would be able to see the truth. To be sure, it is especially answered every day. It is especially answered every day. It is especially answered every day. It is especially answered every day.

It studying the amelioration of the sufferings which the future will undoubtedly bring. The inhabitants of the numerous small settlements upon which the times press heavily are not to who was elected or who defeated. They are more concerned with what is going to happen now that winter is near with regard to their supplies and outfits, usually taken from the merchants and pointless jokes of those who profess to love them and to hold them in high regard, because they helped them to power, will not carry any great measure of confidence in the future to these people. Nor will they frothy professions of how much good is being done for the country bring comfort to the heart of the father of a family who does not know whether to go for a barrel of flour. When there is no one giving credit and no one catching fish, because it is unprofitable in some places, then there is indeed tragedy—a tragedy not to be treated either lightly or flippantly because of its menace.

Have you tried MRS. STEWART'S Graham Bread?

People Who Never Laugh.

The Veddas, the aboriginal inhabitants of Ceylon, are the only people in the world who never laugh, and in consequence they are thin and bony, and a fat man among the Veddas would be an extraordinary sight for sad eyes. A traveller who has studied the early races in Ceylon gives some interesting particulars about this curious tribe.

For nearly 2000 years, according to the best chronicles, these people, now almost extinct, have preserved the same characteristics, and no one, so far as history reveals, has ever seen a smile on the face of one of them or heard a laugh while in their section of Ceylon.

The Veddas are divided into three distinct groups: the Rock Veddas, who dwell almost entirely among the dense jungles in caves or grottoes; the Rock Veddas, who are skillful archers, and hunt down bats, owls, crows, and kites, which constitute their principal food.

Why these people do not smile is a mystery. They alone of all the people on the earth know nothing of the sensation of laughter.

Government Must be Defeated.

It is fortunate that the people of the country will be given an opportunity of disposing of Squires and Coaker before the fishery season opens. The defeat of the Government will give assurance to fishermen and suppliers that there will be no more interference with and no foolish regulations to strangle trade. The charter of progress will move steadily along under Bennett, confidence will be restored, the fisheries will be operated to the fullest extent and living prices will again be obtained. The new conditions will give encouragement to other industries also, such as farming, lumbering, and our people will once again be on the high road to independence and prosperity. It will take more than talk of a Humber Deal to offset the damage caused by Coaker and Squires to the country's industries. It will take a competent government considerable time to adjust the difficulties in which Newfoundland has been placed by incompetent rulers. This is where Bennett and his experienced colleagues will meet the situation and overcome the difficulties which arise.

To the Point.

By WILL U. B. WISE.

One result amongst the many caused by the Fish Regulations, is as Sir M. P. Cashin stated, that 100 people to-day are on the verge of starvation in Fortune Bay, and subsisting merely on herring and a dose from the Relieving Officer. How then can any sane man North, South, East or West, tolerate in power the perpetrators of this frightful state of affairs.

Scores of men and women, young and old, who held good positions in St. John's have lost them because of the depression brought about by a wrong interference with the marketing of our staple produce and the carnival of borrowing and squandering millions of dollars. The same may happen to scores of other employees along Water Street, should Coakerism rule again.

Aptly indeed the Squires-Coaker outfit has been termed the "SCOUTLERS." But they will never get a chance to do any more of their scuttling when an honest Government will replace them after the spring election.

Tradersmen of St. John's remember it was Coakerism that destroyed the industries of the city. Vote it down then in this contest, and elect instead a stable government that will bring back the happy working days of old.

The three years of Coaker domination will go down in history as the most lugubrious in the Colony's existence. The days of the meal and molasses will stand out as an era de luxe compared to it.

ECZEMA

You are not alone in your struggle with Eczema. It is a common skin disease which affects millions of people. It is caused by a germ which enters the skin through a cut or scratch. It is characterized by itching, redness, and the formation of blisters. It is most common in the hands and feet, but it may appear anywhere on the body. It is a chronic disease, and it may last for years. It is a very annoying disease, and it may cause a great deal of suffering. It is a disease which is easily cured, and it is a disease which is worth fighting.

Blundering Incapacity.

The record of the Squires-Coaker Government has been one of blundering incapacity. During their term of office they have accomplished nothing for the benefit of the country. On the contrary they have done everything to create adversity and depression. Interference with trade, increased taxation, blundering legislation, and criminal extravagance have been their record. They assumed control of the government with the country prosperous; they leave it a derelict, with the people groaning under taxation and with every industry paralyzed. Is it any wonder then that an outraged and disappointed electorate have determined to sweep them from office? Is it any surprise that the Government finds it impossible to find qualified candidates for the various districts? The Government is now at the end of its miserable career of extravagance and maladministration of public affairs and deplorable incompetence. The change is on the march to better times under Bennett, when the people will be able to engage in their various occupations without any fear of interference but with the assistance of the new government.

BENNETT & BETTER TIMES.

Another term of Coaker misrule, and "will be over the hills" and to the poor house sure for everybody who will be left in the country."

The Squires-Coaker party is in the hole already, whilst the Bennett party holds a complete hand of the leading trumps.

Three years of Coakerism has put the country on the blink; another 3 years dose of it may kill it altogether.

She Suffered for Twenty-Five Years.

THEN MRS. ARBOUR USED DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Quebec Lady who Suffered from Bright's Disease, Diabetes and Dropsy Restored to Good Health by Using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

White Head Percé, Que., March 12 (Special)—"For twenty-five years I have suffered from various forms of kidney disease which includes Bright's Disease, Diabetes and Dropsy. I had pains in my back and was always tired and nervous. At times I found it difficult to collect my thoughts and I had sharp pains on the top of my head."

"I took fifteen boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they have done me a lot of good. I am now enjoying good health."

Madame Francois Arbour, who lives here, makes the above statement. All over Canada, Dodd's Kidney Pills are recognized as suffering women's best friend. They act directly on the kidneys, making them strong and healthy. Diseased kidneys are the cause of nine-tenths of all the ill women are heir to. Sound kidneys mean pure blood. Pure blood means good health.

Weak, nervous, run-down women should ask their neighbors about Dodd's Kidney Pills.

WHAT JOB MEAST.

"Would that I had written a book." I always used to wonder what Job meant when he said that. He couldn't presumably be a writer's disappointment when the royalty with which he had planned to buy a $10,000 car didn't materialize him large enough quantities to permit him to invest in any vehicle more costly than a baby carriage.

Nor could he have grieved over the thought of what the critics would do to it. At least I don't think they had critics in those days.

Why then did he choose that particular misfortune to happen to his enemy?

So He Could Laugh. I think I know now. He wanted his enemy to write a book on some subject on which he, the enemy was an authority so that when he heard it quoted he might laugh at the writer and say scornfully: "Got that out of a book didn't you?" as if to get anything out of a book instead of by practical experience was the height of idiocy.

A man I know has recently taken up tennis. As a preliminary, he bought a book on the subject by a man who has every reason to know what he is writing about, having been playing tennis for many years and having acted as coach to many successful players.

But when he tries to put into practice the teachings of this book, when he quotes it in explanation of what he is trying to do, all his friends laugh heartily at him that you can't learn to play tennis out of a book.

His Book Tells. When someone beats him as often

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

happens, since he is more interested at present in starting right than in winning, they joke him about his book tennis and consider their point that you can't learn anything about an outdoor sport from a book proved.

Now the funny part about the whole thing is this. If any one of those other men should meet the man who wrote that book or a man of similar standing in the sport, and he should tell them things about the game they would be deeply impressed and would probably go about quoting him the rest of their lives.

It has always been the custom to make fun of books on practical matters. What could be more absurd if the book is written by an authority in his line?

Why Not Now?

True, theory without practice is no good. And it's equally true that practice without theory may eventually get you somewhere. But why eventually? Why not now? Why insist on making all the mistakes yourself? Why not let someone else make them for you and tell you how to avoid them? If there are certain best ways to take care of hens, or play tennis, or cook vegetables, or play bridge, or raise cabbages why not let those who have spent years finding out these ways tell you about them at the beginning instead of spending years finding out about them for yourself?

I don't care what sport or what line of work you are taking up, there are books on the subject written by people who have had years of experience. And I can imagine no better proof of a sane, intelligent outlook on life than a willingness to listen to what these people have to say.

REGAT PARTY VISITS GREENWELL INSTITUTE.

At about 10 o'clock last night his Excellency the Governor and Lady Alice made an official inspection of the Regat Party at the Greenwell Institute. The Vice-Regent was received by the Chairman, Robert Watson, the members of the Institute Committee and the Institute Association. The Governor and Lady Alice visited the Gymnasium where the Boy's Athletic Class had an exhibition of physical drill led by Director Holmes, which consisted of group games and vaulting horse. This was followed by a display on the horizontal and parallel bars by the young men's class, which was very creditably performed. The party then divided into groups, led by members of the House of Representatives, visited the Dining Room, where his Excellency roomed, while his Excellency's Excellency roomed in the Bowling Alley, where he had a team, against one selected by Mayor Cook. The Governor had a good showing, having several points to his credit. Next the party visited a swimming exhibition in the tank. Mr. Wm. Johnson, being chairman, had in charge two known Australian swimmers. The unknown swimmer, speed events and long distance were nicely executed. In the "Ladies Room," Dr. Macpherson explained to the party the various apparatus that are used. In the Reading Room and Library, Bedrooms and Department, a very high standard of excellence and cleanliness was observed. The Excellencies expressed their appreciation as highly pleased with all they saw. After the inspection the Regat party assembled in the Social Hall of the Department, where a reception was held under the chairmanship of Capt. George Whiteley, of the Committee.

R. Watson, chairman of the Regat Committee, welcomed his Excellency and Lady Alice on behalf of the Regat Committee and graciously allowed his name to be extended to the Regat. The funds raised to build the Regat were raised by Dr. Greenwell's friends in the United States, England, and several other local families had assisted liberally. The Institute stood indebted to Dr. Greenwell's friends in the seamen and fishermen of the island.

concluded. The beautiful swimming tank, the splendidly equipped bowling alleys, the exceptional auditorium in Great Hall and the delightful surroundings of the girls' and men's departments were all pleasant surprises, which reflected great credit on Mr. Watson, Mr. Holmes and all concerned. He felt sure that St. John's owed much to the generosity of the friends, who through Dr. Genfell had made the building possible and he referred to Secretary Watson's statement of the financial outlook, and believed St. John's had sufficient confidence in the work to see that it was kept in motion. He hoped that the $2,000 deficit would be speedily raised. A hearty vote of thanks to his Excellency and Lady Alice was proposed by Sir M. G. Winter and seconded by Mr. H. R. Brooks. After tea had been served by the ladies, the affair concluded with the National Anthem.

Symbolism of the Acacia.

The Acacia is an interesting and important symbol in Freemasonry. Botanically, it is the acacia vera of Tournefort, and the mimosa albidia of Linnaeus, called habal tree in India. It grew abundantly in the vicinity of Jerusalem, where it is still to be found, and is familiar in its modern use as the tree from which the gum arabic of commerce is derived.

Oliver, it is true, says that "there is not the smallest trace of any tree of the kind growing so far north as Jerusalem," but this statement is refuted by the authority of Lieut. Lynch, who saw it growing in great abundance in Jericho, and still farther north. The Rabbi Joseph Schwarz, who is excellent authority, says: "The Acacia (Shittim) tree, Al Sunt, is found in Palestine, of different varieties; it looks like the Mulberry tree, attains a great height, and has a hard wood. The gum which is obtained from it is the gum arabic." Schwarz was for sixteen years a resident of Palestine, and wrote from personal observation. The testimony of Lynch and Schwarz should, therefore, forever settle the question of the existence of the acacia in Palestine.

The acacia is called in the Bible Shittim, which is really the plural of Shittah, which last form occurs once only in Isaiah 12:19. It was esteemed a sacred wood among the Hebrews, and it was ordered to make the tabernacle, the ark of the covenant, the table for the shewbread, and the rest of the sacred furniture. (Exodus xxv-xxvii.) Isalah, (i.e.) in recounting the promises of God's mercy to the Israelites on their return from the captivity, tells them that in the wilderness, for their relief and refreshment, the cedar, the acacia (or, as it is rendered in our common version, the shittah), the fir and other trees.

A SACRED TREE.

The first thing, then, that we notice in this symbol of the acacia, is that it had always been consecrated from among other trees of the forest by the Jew, the tree from whose wood the sanctuary of the tabernacle and the holy ark had been constructed would ever be viewed as more sacred than ordinary trees. The early Masons, therefore, very naturally appropriate this hallowed plant to the equally sacred purpose of a symbol, which was to teach an important Divine truth in all ages to come.

Having thus briefly disposed of the natural history of this plant, we may now proceed to examine it in its symbolic relations.

First, the acacia, in the mythic system of the immortality of the soul—that important doctrine which it is the great design of the Institution to teach. As the evanescent nature of the flower, which "cometh forth and is cut down, reminds us of the transitory nature of human life, so the perpetual renovation of the evergreen plant, which uninterruptedly presents the appearance of youth and vigor, is aptly compared to that spiritual life in which the soul, freed from the corruptible companionship of the body, shall enjoy an eternal spring and an immortal youth. Hence, in the impressive funeral service of the Order, it is said that "this evergreen is the emblem of our faith in the immortality of the soul. By this we are reminded that we have an immortal part within us, which shall survive the grave, and which shall never, never die." And again, in the closing sentences of the monitory lecture of the Third Degree the same sentiment is repeated, and we are told that by "the ever-green and ever-living sprig" the Mason is strengthened "with confidence and composure to look forward to a blessed immortality." Such an interpretation of the symbol is an easy and natural one; it suggests itself at once to the least reflective mind; and consequently, in some one form or another, it is to be found existing in all ages and nations. It was an ancient custom—which is not even now, altogether disused—for masons to carry in their hands at funerals a sprig of some evergreen, generally the cedar or the cypress, and to deposit it in the grave of the deceased. According to Dalcho, the Hebrews always planted a sprig of the acacia at the head of the grave of a departed friend. Potter tells us that the ancient Greeks "had a custom of bedecking tombs with herbs and flowers." All sorts of purple and white flowers were acceptable to the dead, but principally the amaranth and the myrtle. The very name of the former of these plants, which signifies "never fading," would seem to indicate the true symbolic meaning of the usage, although archaeologists have generally supposed it to be simply an exhibition of love on the part of the survivors. Ragon says that the ancient substituted the acacia for all other plants because they believed it to be incorruptible, and not liable to injury from the attacks of any kind of insect or other animal—thus symbolizing the incorruptible nature of the soul.

See the changes one week brings

Millions of women know this new way of teeth cleaning. And the pretty teeth seen everywhere now show what it means to them.

If the man doesn't use it, get this 10-Day Tube for him. Then watch the results. See what changes will come in a week.

That dingy film—Most people who brush teeth in old ways have film-coated teeth. A viscous film clings to the teeth, enters crevices and stays. That film becomes discolored, particularly with men who smoke. Then it forms dingy coats, Tartar is based on film.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

No old-type tooth paste can effectively fight film. So all these troubles were constantly increasing, and beautiful teeth were seen less often than today.

New discoveries
Dental science, after long research, has found two ways to fight that film. One acts to curdle it, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Many careful tests proved these methods efficient. Then substitutes were made, and dentists everywhere began to advise their use.

A new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. Then these two great film combatants were embodied in it for daily application.

Not film alone—But Pepsodent brings other great results which research proves essential. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to constantly neutralize the acids which cause decay.

It multiplies the starch digesting in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Those are Nature's great tooth-protecting forces in the mouth. Every use of Pepsodent gives them manifold power.
