PLAINTIFFS WIN IN THE PORK CASE

In the Supreme Court with His Honor Judge Chandler presiding, in the case of the Sime Packing Company vs. Hopkins et al, the jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs both in respect of the claim and the counterclaim. In this action the plaintiffs claimed $210 as the amount due on a shipment of pork. The defendants by way of counter-claim contended that the plaintiffs had failed to ship the full complement of their order, and as a result of this, they had suffered a loss of $221 in damages. The jury in their verdict held that the defendants had not suffered any damages, and costs were awarded the plaintiffs on the counter-claim as well as the original claim.

SEMI-READY SALE

OF "LONELY" SUITS Will Be Continued This Year Despite High Cost of Materials.

Cloth today costs more than twice as much as it did two years ago, and every month reports indicate still higher prices.

Manufacturers have advised merchants in Canada not to sell their stock at a discount, as the present wholesale prices are higher than the retail prices at which the winter garments are being sold.

In spite of this the Semi-ready Company advise their stores to keep faith with the public and hold the regular semi-annual sale of "Lonely" suits and overcoats.

The sale in St. John is advertised to start on Saturday morning and just as good bargains as ever before are promised in suits, overcoats and ulsters.

THE KAISER'S LETTER

The Kaiser's letter to Von Bethmann-Hollweg, which preceded the German peace note, will rank as one of the curiosities of literature. He wrote:

"My Dear Bethmann: I have since been turning over our conversation thoroughly in my mind. It is clear that the peoples in the enemy countries, who are kept in hard endurance of the war by lies and frauds and deluded by fighting and hatred, possess no men who are able or who have the moral courage to speak the word which will bring relief—to propose peace. What is wanted is a moral deed to free the world, including neutrals, from the pressure which weighs upon all. For such a deed it is necessary to find a ruler who has a conscience, who feels that he is responsible to God, who has a heart for his own people and for those who are his enemies, who is indifferent to any possible wilful misinterpretation of his act, and possesses the will to free the world from its sufferings. I have the courage. Trusting in God, I shall dare to take this step. Please draft notes on these lines and submit them to me, and make all necessary arrangements without delay."

For pure bombast and flaming insincerity this letter stands alone. The Kaiser knows that he has been found out. Over against his deed of "moral courage" in sending the peace note stand all the hideous crimes perpetrated with his approval since his armies violated Belgium two and a half years ago. Mr. Balfour rightly says:

"So long as Germany remains the Germany which, without a shadow of justification, overran and barbarously ill-treated a country it was pledged to defend, no state can regard its rights as secure if they have no better protection than a solemn treaty."

The neutral nations know that this is true, and by no species of sophistry can Germany escape the verdict of humanity. The Kaiser could not bluff the Entente Allies by his policy of rightfulness, nor can he now persuade anybody that deserves any consideration as an exponent of moral courage.

DR. CABOT'S ADDRESS

Dr. Cabot is an American citizen who is under no illusions regarding the true character of the Hun. Citizen of a great democracy, Dr. Cabot knows that democracy is at this moment in imminent danger, and that the war now raging is a war of ideals which cannot be reconciled. If right is to triumph, wrong must be overturned. That which Prussian militarism represents would make the individual exist for the state, whereas the state should exist for the benefit of all the individuals of whom it is composed. Democracy or autocracy—that is the issue; and if Germany were the war the people of the United States would be the next to feel the iron hand of Prussianism; for Germany would be content with nothing short of world dominion. Dr. Cabot does not hesitate to criticize President Wilson, or to assert that the president has not given expression to the feelings of the best-thinking people of the United States. We all believe this is true, for the most influential newspapers of the republic have been consistently pro-ally from the very beginning of the war. Canadians are grateful for the tribute Dr. Cabot pays to the soldiers of Canada, whom he has seen at the front, and has compared with the best of the other soldiers of the Empire. He is convinced Germany will be beaten, and that after the war Canada will enjoy a rapid development within the Empire, of which it may in time become the most important part. To Dr. Cabot Canadians are also very grateful for the personal part he has taken and the work done by American surgeons and nurses under his direction. Many among us have wondered how the American people as a whole could fail to see what Dr. Cabot sees in this war, and its results, and why they failed to rally to the cause of democracy. He suggests to us that it is for Canada to bring the Americans to an understanding of what democracy really is. There is food for much earnest thought in that remark.

SEE THE COMMITTEE

Sergeant Joshua Solomon, a returned soldier, applied to the man in charge of the civic military information bureau in Toronto for a job. He already had a job of some sort, but wanted a better one. The official himself tells the story, after some reference to the case in one of the papers, and what he says is very interesting. He quotes:

"Sergeant Solomon came to me with a letter of introduction from Al. Robbins. He was working for the Toronto Railway Co., and wanted an easier position. He told me he would like a government job, to get into the post-office, or something like that. I told him that I had nothing to do with those jobs, and he had better see some of the Ward Two men and put in his application through the patronage committee. It is no secret that the government jobs are handled largely by the patronage committee. This man was already in a position. It was a different case than that of a returned soldier who had no job at all. Any such man who comes to me is not asked about his politics. I don't care whether he's a Grit or Tory—if he has worn the uniform, I try to do what I can for him. In Sgt. Solomon's case I was merely putting him on the right track to better his position if he could."

To put him on the right track it was necessary to send him to the patronage committee. It is true he did not have to run the gauntlet of that committee when he enlisted to fight for Canada, but getting a job on his return that some good Tory, even a slacker, might fill was quite another matter. Do we need a national government?

JAIL REFORM

Remembering that the ordinary jail becomes a feeder of the penitentiary, the Toronto Star quotes with approval a former president of the American Prison Association, who, speaking of the whole United States, says: "We seem to have devoted one institution in every county to the propaganda of idleness, viciousness, and crime." And the Star adds: "This is the good old plan, to which fossils, both in the United States and in Canada, would have us revert. The new plan is to reform the prisoner, for his sake and for the sake of society. Cleanliness and sanitation are necessary parts of education and reform. Degradation is worse even than kindness carried to sentimental extremes. What is called coddling is, of course, foolish. Prisoners should be made to work, and subjected to discipline. But they must also be kept in clean and healthy surroundings, educated and encouraged to do better. Punishment must not be carried so far as to make the prisoner regard society as his implacable enemy. The inevitable result of this method is to make him the implacable enemy of society. And society, even from the most selfish point of view, is vitally interested in the kind of man who comes out of a prison and resumes his place among us."

Until such time as the people of St. John wake up and demand reform, we shall have a permanent jail population of about fifty persons, living in idleness at public expense. Possibly the number will be reduced after we get prohibition, but that will depend upon the vigor with which the law is enforced, and there will always be delinquents and vagrants and other minor offenders who should be given a course of healthy exercise on an industrial farm.

The Westmorland county council has gone on record in a very vigorous protest moved by a prominent Conservative and supported by other Conservatives, against the Dominion government for permitting enormous profits to be made out of munitions, while the people are asked to tax themselves for patriotic purposes. The council adopted the resolution unanimously. The St. John Standard, which asserts that "the Dominion government is adding strength to strength," carefully suppresses the news from Westmorland. That is one way of conducting a newspaper.

"I estimate that at the close of the war Canada will face a pension fund of $28,000,000," declared Mr. A. C. Flumerfelt, of Vancouver, Western director of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, addressing the Canadian Club of Ottawa on "How the West Will Pay for the War." Another financial man places the figure at $28,000,000.

The Halifax Echo contains a report of the Children's Hospital in that city. At the end of November there were sixteen patients, and at the end of December ten. There is need of a Children's Hospital in St. John.

Sir Sam Hughes as a back-bencher at Ottawa is something new and also it may be something ominous. The examiner is wholly unfitted for the role of meekness and inaction.

The opening of the Canadian parliament was marked by a general air of peace and good-fellowship. The fireworks will come later.

In Ottawa they are spending $1,200 this winter for municipal rink for the benefit of the young people of the city.

The guests at a banquet in Jackson, Mich., sat at their places more than seven hours, commencing at 7:30 o'clock and remaining in session until after 2:30 the next morning. Nearly 100 speakers were called on by the toastmaster.

A school teacher recently asked her pupils to write a sentence illustrating the use of the word "heresies."

"A man sat down on a chair; there was a tack on the chair; he rose."

The stingiest man in the world used for divorce because his wife was wasteful and extravagant.

"Will you give the court some specific instances?" asked the lawyer.

"Well, one day she goes and buys three tooth brushes—one for herself and one for each of the kids. And the worst of it was, we already had one good one."

A husband was very jealous of his beautiful, capable, managing wife. She had got him his job, and he owed his various advances to her, but nevertheless, he got so jealous one night that he pointed a revolver at her head.

"What are you going to do, Jim?" she asked, starting into the weapon calmly.

"To go on to blow your brains out!" roared the frenzied husband.

"Jim, don't do it," she said. "You need my brains where they are."

Better Bread Making

A Simple Undertaking with the "Universal" Bread Mixer

The "Universal" Bread Maker kneads and mixes in three minutes better bread than can be made by hand in half an hour.

The old-fashioned way of kneading dough—digging, punching, poking, patting and pawing is unpleasant, uncertain and unsanitary. The "Universal" way is the way of today.

With the "Universal" Bread Maker any one, even without experience can make firm light bread. A batch of bread is never a batch if made in a "Universal."

In many cases the national dish is a favorite of the king or emperor of the particular country.

The King of Italy declares his great liking for polenta, the Indian meal porridge, which he eats as regularly as the poorest peasant. He also likes roast chicken gizzards with calves' brains and artichokes. Vienna schnitzel was a favorite dish of the Emperor of Austria. The Emperor was also fond of calves' tongue in red wine.

The Czar of Russia, however, does not care for caviar, the prepared sturgeon roe, which is the daily dish of the Russian peasantry. But he is unusually fond of certain Russian vegetable soups called borsch tschi.

The late Pope Pius is said to have lived on a very simple diet, as simple as that of the poorest tradesman. In the morning he drank a cup of coffee, at noon he took a little soup and meat; and for supper vegetable and meat. His favorite food was the Italian national dish, polenta.

Rheumatism Goes If Hood's is Used

The genuine old reliable Hood's Sarsaparilla corrects the acid condition of the blood and builds up the whole system. It drives out rheumatism because it cleanses the blood.

There is no better remedy for skin and blood diseases, for loss of appetite, rheumatism, stomach and kidney troubles, general debility and all ills arising from impure, impoverished, de-vitalized blood.

It is unnecessary to suffer. Start treatment at once. Get a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla from your nearest druggist. You will be pleased with the results.

is very dangerously ill and is not expected to live. He should profit by Mrs. Carter's experience. She says: "I am the mother of six children and I got so weak and run-down that I couldn't eat anything and it seemed almost impossible for me to get around and do my work."

I tried different doctors' remedies without benefit. I saw Vinol advertised and decided to try it, and received so much benefit from the first bottle that I continued to take it, and it has built up my strength and made me strong and well."

Overworked, run-down, "fagged-out" women who feel as though they could hardly drag about should profit by Mrs. Carter's experience.

It is all the tired, overworked, run-down women in St. John could only realize how our delicious Vinol, which contains beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptones and glycerophosphates, supplies the vital elements necessary to build up blood and strength.

RECOMMEND SAFETY DEVICES WHERE EMERGENCY WHEELS ARE IN USE.

Before Dr. W. F. Roberts, coroner, last evening, an inquest was held into the circumstances of the death of Frederick C. Lane, who was injured by being struck with a piece of a broken wheel while at work in the factory of T. McAvity & Sons, Ltd., and who died at the General Public Hospital Jan. 12.

The verdict of the jury was to the effect that the injury was due to the safety device for emergency wheels, but in the case of Fred Lane the law had been as fully observed.

Factory Inspector Kenney expressed the opinion that the accident had happened because the wheel was being run some 300 revolutions faster than it had been made to stand.

LUMINOUS HATS IN LONDON
Devised to Check Rise in Night Accidents in Streets
Under the heading "Luminous Hats for Londoners a War Time Device for Darkened Streets," the British Official Press Bureau has issued the following article:
"London has invented, for war-time use, a luminous hat which dull phosphorescent blur helps to reduce the risk of collision in London's darkened streets. Both men and women are wearing the new luminous hats, warned thereby by the terrible rise in the number of street accidents since precautionary measures against Zeppelins compelled the blackening of the street lamps. These accidents, most of them occurring after dark, totalled 24,775 during the first nine months of 1916. Of these 977 were fatal. Recently a coroner suggested that women should wear white hats at night. A tradesman took the hint and invented the luminous hat. This is his story:
"the difficulty, of course, was to find a suitable substance. Phosphorus is too dangerous—it is inflammable. It smells and would probably damage the hat. I discovered a firm who are employing a mixture of sulphides made into a liquid. It does not damage the material. It does not smell, it lasts a long time, is invisible by day, and gives off a striking bluish light at night. Moreover, the more it is exposed to daylight or artificial light—the more it shines. The firm have used it successfully on the surface of paper, and luminous paper is now made in large sheets and is, I understand, already being extensively employed.
"But the paint was the stuff for my hat. I painted the band of a hat and also the quills and lappins and persuaded a well-known lady to try the experiment. It certainly made walking very much easier and less of a strain. People got out of the way, some of them rather anxiously, I think; but that was only because of the novelty of the thing. The stuff does not seem to have spoiled the hat."

LIGHT ON AN YPRES MYSTERY; WHY CANADIAN LINE WAS THIN

Bruce Bairnsfather, the Bystander Artist, Publishes Book of Reminiscences in Which He Describes Preparations for an Offensive Which Was Frustrated by Attack at Langemarck

Indirect confirmation of a statement that has previously been made privately, but the reason the Canadians were so long unsupported in their heroic stand at St. Julien in April, 1915, was because the British had planned an offensive of their own elsewhere, but that the Germans got started at Ypres first, is contained in a book of personal reminiscences just published by Bruce Bairnsfather, the young artist made famous by his war drawings in the Bystander. We shall have to wait until after the war to learn the full story of what happened; but Bairnsfather tells how his battalion early in April was taken out of the trenches for a rest in the vicinity of Balloet and then started in rehearsing for the "show" in which it and many others were to take part. The date was fixed and all preparations were approaching completion, when on a Friday there arrived a fresh thunderbolt in the form of an order to march at once. Their march led them to Ypres, where they arrived on Sunday morning, according to the narrative, in ample time to take a stirring part in that glorious defence. Bairnsfather's book, which he calls "Bullets and Billets," is confined to his own personal experiences, and is quite as delightful as anything that has been written about the war. As was to be expected from the creator of "Fragments From France," the book is full of humor. Before the war Bairnsfather tells us drawing pictures and art had been with him merely a hobby. He got to the front in December, 1914, as a machine gun officer. And during that winter, when they were holding the line at "Pluget," and he spent long days lying low so as not to reveal the whereabouts of his hiding place, he began sketching the hours for himself and friends by drawing funny charcoal sketches on the walls of his den. Later his colonel invited him to battalion headquarters, which he also "painted and decorated." Then he decided to make a wash drawing of one of his picture ideas. "Where Did That One Go?" the first "Fragment From France," and sent it to the Bystander. Promptly he got a reply with an acceptance and a check. That is the story of one of the outstanding artistic discoveries of the war. It is evident that art did not interfere with Bairnsfather's duties as a machine-gun officer, for there is ample evidence despite the characteristic British nonchalance and the continuous Bairnsfather humor, that he did his bit with vigor and resourcefulness. The spirit of "Bullets and Billets" and of "Fragments From France" is the spirit that carried the war. "Where Did That One Go?" depicts the consternation caused by a bursting shell. The artist-soldier, who drawing the picture from his own experiences, makes of it not a story of terror and tragedy, but of pure humor, represents an army whose spirit will never quail.

That Christmas Fraternizing. Bairnsfather confesses that he was one of those who fraternized with the Germans on that Christmas Day of 1914. The first advances took place during Christmas eve, when both sides were celebrating as best they could with mouth organs and songs. Suddenly we heard a confused shouting from the other side. We all stopped to listen. The shout came in English with a strong German accent, "come over here." A ripple of merriment swept along our trenches, followed by a rude outburst of mouth organs and laughter. Presently in a hush, one of our sergeants repeated the request "come over here."

ing a bit of a collector, I intimated to him that I had taken a fancy to some of his buttons. We both then said things to each other which neither understood, and agreed to do a swap. I brought out my wire clippers, and with a few deft snips removed a couple of his buttons at six through in my pocket. I then gave him two of mine in exchange. While this was going on a babbling of guttural ejaculations emanating from one of the lager-shifters told me that some idea had occurred to someone. Suddenly one of the Boches ran back to his trench and suddenly reappeared with a large camera. I posed in a mixed group for several photographs, and have ever since wished I had fixed up some arrangement for getting a copy. The last I saw of this little fellow was a vision of one of my machine gunners, who was a bit of an amateur hairdresser in civil life, cutting the naturally long hair of a docile Boche, and was patiently kneeling on the ground while the automatic clippers crept up the back of his neck.

WORD OF J. M. JOHNSON.

A Calais letter says—it is stated authoritatively that J. M. Johnson, who for years successfully carried on a wool pulling and tanning business here, is to return to Calais during the present month and re-engage in the business at his old plant in company with a well known border gentleman.

Charles H. Adams, Edwin O. Hall, Ralph N. Whittier and Dr. Lester Adams, all of Bangor, Me., were re-boarding on Green Lake when their boat, going about sixty miles an hour, leaped a stretch of free water some twenty-five feet wide.

Dr. Cabot Before the Canadian Clubs
Delivers a Striking Address

"Had a strong man been at the head of the American nation, and had a deliberate attempt been made to educate the people to the cause for which the Allies are fighting, the United States would occupy a different place in your estimation today, but it would have required a strong man with high ideals. That man has not been in the presidential chair during this period," said Dr. Hugh Cabot, head of the Harvard Surgical Unit, who delivered before the combined Canadian clubs, last evening at the Seaman's Institute, one of the most interesting, appealing and forceful addresses heard in St. John since the beginning of the war. At the conclusion of his address the applause was so prolonged that he was obliged to speak the second time. Following a request from the floor, supported by still greater applause, he spoke the third time.

Dr. Cabot is a United States citizen, and as such, an eminent surgeon who has seen duty overseas with the allied forces. He gave a clear, solid and satisfying exposition of the attitude of the people of the United States in a war waged to preserve the ideals of democracy, on which the United States is reputed to be founded. He paid glowing tributes to the Canadian troops and declared them to be the bravest and most determined men who wear the khaki of the British Empire.

His address seemed to strike the keynote of feeling of the 500-odd men and women who were present. He sought to interpret the feelings and attitude of the thinking true American people who, he said, have been lost behind the noise of a small, obstreperous element, but there was no strength to this or any movement in the United States, he said, that is against the Allies. Dr. Cabot said the great source of the shame for the respect which his country had securedly lost at the door of the administration, and in closing his address, said: "It is for you Canadians to bring us to an understanding of what democracy really is, and that it is not well for a country, stretching from ocean to ocean, to be indifferent to conditions existing elsewhere, and I hope you will not fail to come to our assistance in the future."

Previous to the address, Mrs. D. P. Chisholm played a repertoire of patriotic airs at the piano on the platform, which was decorated with a huge Union Jack and a flag of equal size of the United States. As Major Hayes, who presided, walked onto the platform, followed by Dr. Cabot and Mrs. G. A. Kuhring, Mrs.

Chisholm played The Star Spangled Banner. This was followed by God Save the King, in which the audience joined. Major Hayes and Mrs. Kuhring as presidents of the Canadian clubs remained on the platform. Before introducing the speaker the mayor said that magazines and other reading material would be heartily received at the Soldiers' Club during the next few days for men who are soon to leave the city; he also referred to the work of the committee of ladies who are striving to secure funds for the Russian refugee fund.

His introduction of Dr. Cabot was direct, and highly complimentary. He referred briefly to his work for the allied armies, and said that it was deeply appreciated, and that the members of the clubs should consider themselves fortunate in having the opportunity of hearing Dr. Cabot.

Dr. H. S. Bridges rose to move the vote of thanks. He very feelingly and fittingly expressed the sentiment that seemed to almost invade the atmosphere of the room. He said: "Dr. Cabot's address comes at a time when it is needed most. Some of our own doctors have brought less optimistic views to us, but he has lightened our minds and cleared our minds to a great extent. We all felt a degree of pain and then indignation at President Wilson's attitude. But if the people have been at fault it is because they have not been educated to know that this is a fight for democracy that government of the people by the people and for the people may not perish from the earth."

Mrs. John McAvity very ably seconded Dr. Bridges' motion. But before it was put to the vote, Mrs. J. Y. Angus asked that Dr. Cabot tell of his own work in France. This he did briefly, giving the origin and history of the unit, how it was to be relieved at the end of the three months by one from Trinity, and then by one from John Hopkins University, but these did not live up to the agreement made at the time. It was almost abandoned, but its staff of thirty-four doctors and seventy-five nurses has continued its work since organization with the exception of one month. It is a neutral unit, according to an agreement made at the Geneva convention in December, 1914, but since the armistice the doctor said, it has been free of all neutral taint, and is decidedly a belated unit.

Mrs. Kuhring, in a speech remarkable for its excellence, elocution and depth of feeling, expressed the thanks of the clubs to Dr. Cabot.

after which the premier laid upon the table the order-in-council appointing F. B. McCreary as parliamentary secretary of the militia department, Hugh Clark as under-secretary for external affairs and Sir George Perley as "minister of the overseas forces of Canada." Sir Wilfrid Laurier inquired if the premier would bring down the correspondence relative to the proposed imperial conference and Sir Robert Borden replied in the affirmative.

The house then adjourned till tomorrow when the formal opening by His Excellency, the Duke of Devonshire will take place.

Resolution for " thrift and Efficiency."

The first resolution on the common order paper is one which appropriately enough calls for the exercise of "thrift, efficiency, honesty and common sense."

Mr. Northrup (E. Hastings) who fathers the resolution calls for the specific exercise of these virtues by asking parliament to meet every day and every evening except on Sundays and statutory holidays. The adoption of the resolution would mean the cutting out of the usual Wednesday night adjournment at 6 o'clock and the free Saturday.

Mr. Northrup has also given notice of the reintroduction of his resolution of last session providing for divorce courts instead of the present system of divorces by act of parliament. The resolution says the latter procedure is unfair to the majority of people "because of unreasonable expense."

Donald Sutherland (South Oxford) has given notice of a non-committal woman's suffrage resolution. It declares that the question of extending the franchise to women "should engage the attention of the government at the present time."

Dr. Pugsley's Resolutions.

Hon. Dr. Pugsley is moving a resolution declaring for federal extension of the franchise to women. Dr. Pugsley has also given notice of an amendment to the criminal code providing for some minor amendments to the code in respect to divorce.

J. G. Turiff (Assiniboia) has given notice of a resolution which will be generally supported by the Liberal side of the house at least, calling for the adoption of the proportional representation about the election of members of the court.

Colonel Currie (West Simcoe) will move a resolution calling for an immediate imperial conference "in order that buying.

the whole economic strength of the empire may be brought into co-operation with our allies in a policy directed against the enemy."

Mr. McCreary (W. Kent) has a resolution calling for the removal of the duty on beans in order that beans for seed may be in to meet the shortage caused by the failure of the bean crop of last year.

THE WRECKED SCHOONER WANOLA SOLD FOR $120

(Boston Globe)

Ten minutes after he had bought at auction in the Board of Trade Building, the wrecked three-masted coal schooner Wanola, as she lies at Point Alberton in the harbor, for $120, William Levy, a general jobber, went and asked Capt. G. R. Ward, her former skipper, how long she was.

Mr. Levy had never even looked at the vessel. Indeed, he had heard nothing about the auction until five minutes before it began.

This morning's purchase was of the hull and spars only. "Speculative purposes," Mr. Levy gave as his reason for buying.

Opening of Session of Parliament

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—Hearty applause, in which all members participated, greeted the first official act of the seventh session of Canada's twelfth parliament—the election of Edgar N. Rhodes, of Cumberland, Nova Scotia, as speaker. The nomination was submitted by the premier, Sir Robert Borden, and Hon. Robert Rogers. It was supported "with very great pleasure and heartfelt congratulations," by Sir Wilfrid Laurier on behalf of the opposition. Both premier and Liberal leader paid warm and graceful compliments to the new speaker and the brief discussion concluded with a smiling interchange which set the house laughing and applauding.

"It is indeed a happy omen," commented Sir Wilfrid Laurier, "on the first day of the session to find such hearty agreement in the initial resolution of the prime minister. May I express the hope that throughout the whole session his resolutions will be of the same excellent character. Then parliament's task will be easy and pleasant."

"I cannot anticipate that every motion I submit during the session will have his approval," observed the premier in thanking Sir Wilfrid for his cordial words, "but I can assure him that every motion I make will be equally meritorious."

Previous to the election of speaker in the house of commons, its members were summoned to the senate chamber, where Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, acting for the governor-general, bade them return, choose their presiding officer and return again on the morrow.

Mr. Hazen Moves Up.

There was a fair attendance in both houses. The improvised commons chamber has undergone several touches during the recess. The speaker's chair is now canopied in the traditional green and brightly polished brass rails encircle that part of the hall reserved for members. The attendance included practically all the front benchers on either side. Hon. Mr. Hazen has moved forward to the seat to the left of the premier formerly occupied by the late Hon. T. Chase Casgrain. Sir Sun Hughes, now a private member arrayed in sober muff, sat towards the back of the chamber along with the other private members.

The newly appointed speaker having been escorted to the chair by the premier and Hon. Robert Rogers, and having briefly expressed his appreciation, and the clerk having communicated the list of the vacancies which had occurred by resignations and deaths and the re-election of Hon. A. E. Kemp in East Toronto, the premier rose to pay tribute to the memory of the four members who had been called by death since last session. Hon. Mr. Casgrain, Charles Lovell, Wm. Gray and Lieut. Colonel G. H. Baker. Of the latter Sir Robert pointed out that he was the first member of the house to make the supreme sacrifice on the field of battle and recalled the tribute of an eminent American who had met him.

"If all your Canadian officers and men are of the type of that man I do not wonder at the splendid record of Canadians at the front."

"Somewhere in France, there was the grave of a beloved and esteemed colleague," said the premier.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier joined feelingly in the tribute to those members who had answered the last summons. Alluding to the heroic death of Colonel Baker, the Liberal leader said he had known the deceased officer's father for many years.

"He was a splendid christian character," said Sir Wilfrid, "and impressed all who knew him with his absolute sincerity, high conviction and noble courage. I am not surprised that his son proved so worthy. We lament his death with pride, knowing that it is the death he would have wished above all others, death in the service of his country."

Sir Thomas White added his tribute,

CONDEMNNS GOVERNMENT IN L. U. VOTIONS MATTER

Conservative Councillor in Westmorland Springs Sensation in Resolution
Dorchester, N. B., Jan. 18.—A sensation without parallel in Westmorland municipal affairs was sprung here at this afternoon's session of the county council, when Councillor W. W. Fawcett, of Sackville, a prominent Conservative of that parish, moved a resolution condemning the dominion government for their actions in letting munition contracts to their henchmen at excessive profits.

During the discussion the dominion government was the subject of much criticism by all the members of the board, and the resolution was passed unanimously, and ordered that a copy of the same be sent to the prime minister, the finance minister, and the minister of munitions.

CHRISTIANITY AND POSSIBLE RACE WAR

To the Editor of The Times: Sir—I read with much interest your article entitled: "The War and the Churches," and I believe many Lloyd Georges for Christianity can be found among the editors of daily papers. Christianity certainly needs some energetic supporters, and if it could claim a small amount of the support which has always been given to war, doubtless the General Righteousness would win a glorious victory.

Believes She Was Saved From Stroke of Paralysis

All One Side Was Cold and Powerless When She Began Using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food
A dead nerve cell can never be re-placed. In this way it is different to other cells of the human body. But I could not sleep, and found it hard to get my work done at all, but, having no help at the time, had to do the best I could. Finally my left arm became powerless and cold, and this continued to get worse until my whole side was affected, head included. I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and the first box helped me so much that I used several, and believe that this treatment saved me from having a paralytic stroke. It has built me up wonderfully, and I can recommend most heartily, believing that if more Nerve Food were used there would be countless sicknesses. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures in nature's way by nourishing the feeble, wasted nerves back to health and vigor. Fifty cents a box, all dealers, or Edman's writing to tell you the great benefit.

Suffer With Heart For Ten Years Would Nearly Smother

There is nothing that brings with it such fear of impending death as to wake up in the night with that awful sense of smothering. The uncertain and irregular heart action causes the greatest distress of both mind and body. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the only remedy that can give prompt relief and effect a complete cure in cases of such severity. They strengthen and invigorate the heart, so that it beats strong and regular, and tone up the nervous system so that the cause of so much anxiety becomes a thing of the past. Mrs. M. O. McCready, Wapella, Sask., writes: "I am not much of a believer in medicines, but I feel that it is only right for me to let you know what your wonderful remedy has done for me, and in a very short time, too. I had suffered terribly with my heart for nearly ten years, could scarcely do any work, and would nearly smother at times. I had many remedies, some only relieving me for a time. I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and felt so much better that kept on using them, and can truthfully say I feel like a new woman. I would advise anyone with heart trouble to use them." Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

It is true that we all belong to the human family just as the lion and the tiger belong to the cat family, and it is equally as true that we have no more right to divide with the colored races than the lion has with the tiger. It is the short future of a thousand years and an endless existence of the white races which are now calling out to our leaders to heed nations' division, and not allow war to sell the white man's heritage.

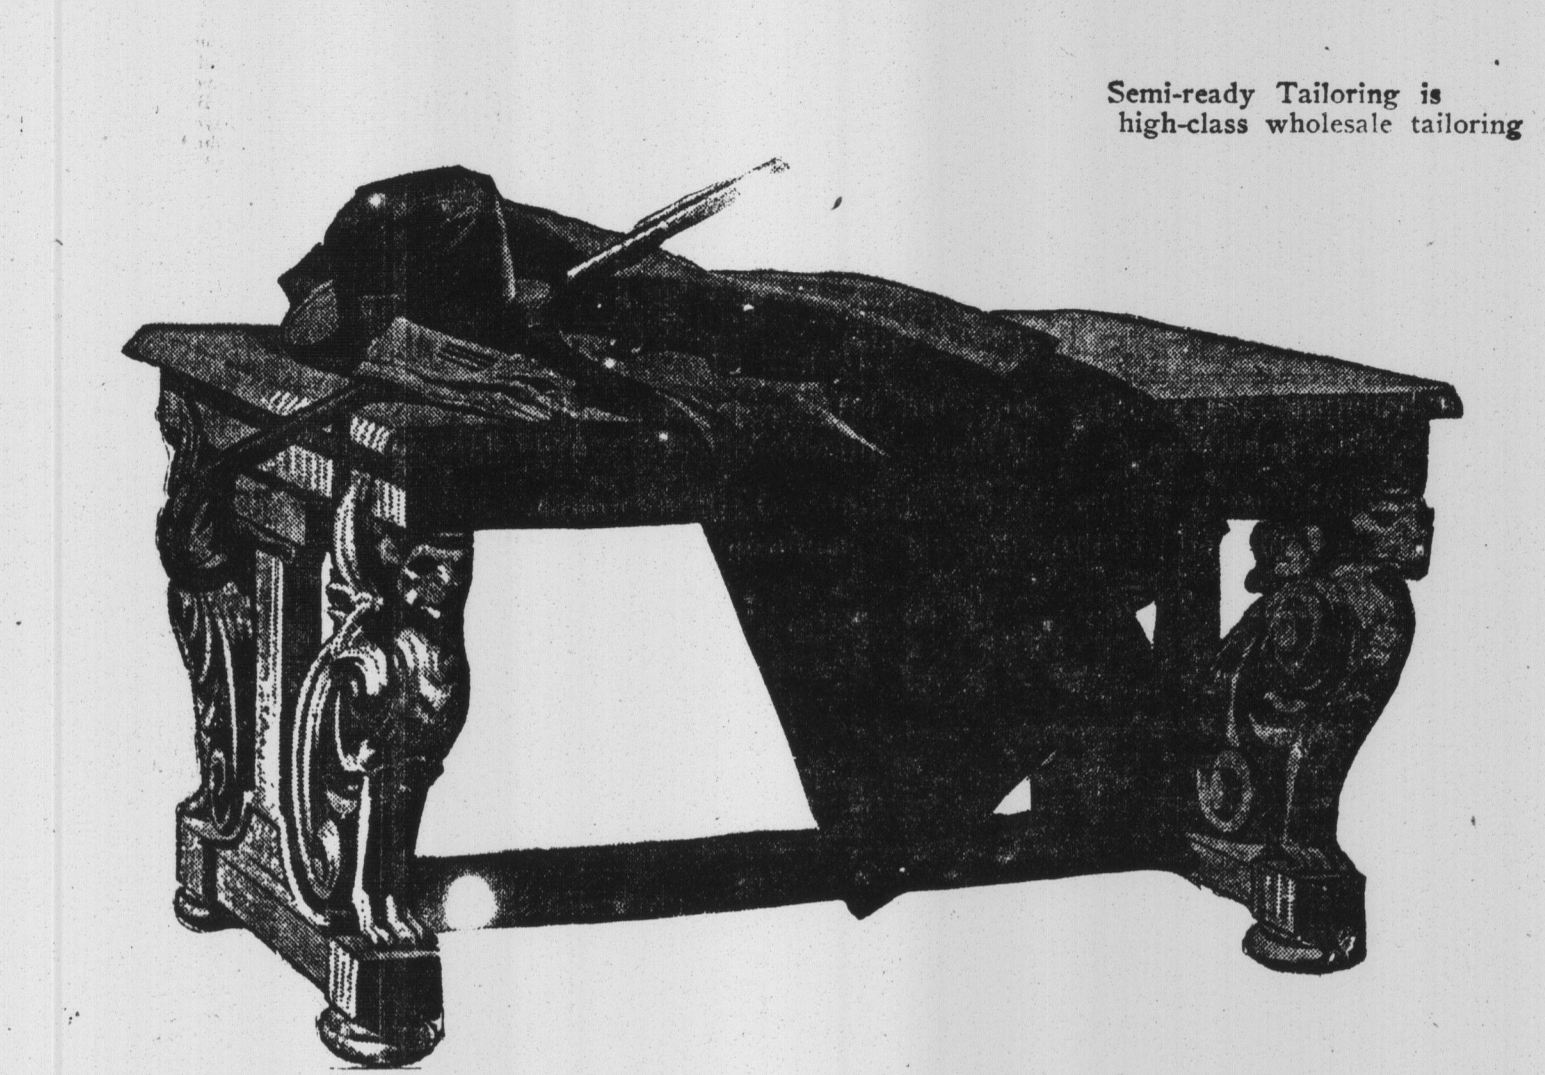

When looking to the future we may put up the argument and brought some Africans to America. Slavery was introduced to the continent, and the Africans remained. How many are there in America today? How many will there be in a thousand years from now? Greed poured the system of war into the cup of nations. Christ poured in Christianity with the hope of destroying the system with all its bitterness. Since then Christians have endeavored to mix both together with the same success as mixing oil and water, and their failure is sadly manifested in war remaining on top. But the time is very near when the right or wrong must be chosen. We cannot have God and mammon. With hope, dear Editor, that you will use your great influence, whenever you consider the time fit, to help save the white races and establish true Christianity. Yours truly, A BELIEVER IN TRUE CHRISTIANITY. St. John, N. B., Jan. 16, '17.

DEATH OF R. A. DE OLLOQUI

Ottawa Journal Press.—At his residence, 61 Laurier avenue, east, on Sunday evening, Rusino Augustine de Olloqui, for the last twenty-eight years a resident of Ottawa, and for many years connected with the Dominion lands branch of the department of interior, passed away. The late Mr. de Olloqui had also occupied the post of secretary of two cabinet ministers during the Liberal regime. These were Hon. W. S. Fielding and W. Calvert. Deceased had been in failing health for some time, his first serious illness having occurred two years ago, and some time ago he was given four months leave of absence on account of failing health. The late Mr. de Olloqui, who was of Spanish descent, came to Canada with his father, the late Dr. R. A. D. de Olloqui, and came to Ottawa some twenty-five years ago. Most of the intervening time had been spent in the service of the government. He leaves his wife and one daughter, Lillian, aged three, and a half years. There also survive Mr. de Olloqui, senior, two brothers, Valentine, of Chicago, and Alphonse, of Philadelphia, and three sisters, Mrs. Nita de Olloqui, M. D. of Rogersville, N. Believe Germans Mean to Invade Switzerland

London, Jan. 18.—"Swiss newspapers assert that masses of German troops are concentrating near Basel," says the Exchange Telegraph Company Geneva's correspondent. "The Swiss general staff is convinced that an invasion of Switzerland is contemplated with a view to freeing Alsace from the French invading forces."

Washington, Jan. 18.—The text of the recent Allied ultimatum to Greece, presented to the state department for its information today by Charge Vouras, of the Greek legation, reveals that the Allies notified the Athens government in the communication "that military necessity may lead them shortly to disembark troops at Itea for passage by railroad to Saloniki."

On the same day that Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stevens of Los Angeles, Cal., aged eighty-five and seventy-seven respectively, celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding. Less than a mile away Mr. and Mrs. John G. Lorber, aged eighty-four and eighty, were celebrating the sixty-first anniversary of their wedding.

Influenza or La Grippe

It is quite refreshing these days to read of a clearly defined treatment for Influenza or La Grippe. In an article in the "Lancet" Dr. James Bell of New York City writes he is convinced that too much medication is both unnecessary and injurious. When called to a case of La Grippe, the patient is usually seen when the fever is present, as the chill which occasionally follows is usually absent. For the high fever, severe headache, pain and general soreness, one should take a tablet every three hours. A quickly followed by complete relief. Ask for Dr. Bell's Tablets. They are also unequalled for headache, neuralgia and all pains.

Ragged Army in East Africa

Clotting of Smuts' Forces Torn to Shreds in Jungle Fighting

But Men Are Very Fit—Many Members of Destroyed German Cruiser Koenigsberg's Crew Killed or Captured

Cape Town, Nov. 15.—(Correspondence)—Because of the diversity of its units—Britons from the homeland, South African British, Boers, East Indians, and South African natives—General Smuts' expedition in German East Africa is known popularly as the ragged army. The ragged army would be an even more appropriate designation, for mostly it is made up of men whose clothing is in tatters. This is not due to the wear and tear incident to the spirit of the troops, but to the fact that to get at the enemy the men frequently have to break by main force through jungles of thick thornbush, which tear their clothing to shreds and scratch their bodies from head to foot. That on emerging they generally present the appearance of being horribly wounded when not a bullet has touched them.

Little things like that, with marches lasting from two o'clock in the morning, at which time the columns when practicable, set out, until six o'clock in the evening, without a drink of water on the way, and often to go into action against machine-gun fire before resting, in no wise affect the spirit of the troops. There is splendid rivalry among the white and colored regiments, in endurance as well as in fighting. A Boer is keenly disgraced if his strength fails him and he is compelled to fall out, so if he is straggling, he keeps right on with his comrades and tries to joke and sweat it out of his system. The result is that the ragged army is made up of men who literally are as hard as nails—lean, agile, powerful fellows, clear of eye and all skin and muscle.

The joy of the army is the armored cars. The value of these machines cannot be estimated. They have saved hundreds of men from being killed and thousands from being wounded. They are located on emerging machine guns without loss when ordinary methods would be as futile as the search for a needle in a haystack. An illustration in point is furnished in an account of the operations of one of General Van Deventer's columns recently issued by the Germans out of the territory north of the Central Railway into the region of the Malange swamps, where they are now kraaled.

The pursuit took the column into a mountainous pass adapted for the purposes of a trap. As was surmised, the Germans had not failed to take advantage of the opportunity to make a stand. The road led through a gap up into a narrow neck in a horseshoe of high wooded hills from which every inch of the inclosed space was commanded. The armored cars, one at a time, went on toward the neck while the infantry deployed to right and left of the hills and began the ascent. Nothing happened for a while. Not a sign of the enemy was in evidence and the cars came to a halt in open ground. Immediately they were showered with machine gun bullets from all directions. They had accomplished their purpose in drawing the enemy's fire, but while the lead pattered on the cars it was impossible to discover whence it came. Finally the leading car went on and turned into an abandoned native camp, still followed by the deadly stream of lead. The sharp-eyed observer at last noticed a peculiar movement of leaves on a ridge above the camp. The machine-gun company was put out of business. The combined guns of the cars then peppered the ridges systematically, and by nightfall the infantry was in possession of the northern slopes. During the night the enemy retreated southward, and when this was discovered the cars and mounted scouts went after them. The scouts happened unexpectedly upon a party of mounted Germans in a clearing, rode into them at full speed and pulled them off their horses. It would have been easy for them to shoot the Germans from cover, but they disdain to do it.

In addition to the armored cars, most of the columns are outfitted with airplanes and a cyclist corps, which also have rendered invaluable service. The Indian mountain batteries, which are worked with incredible speed and accuracy by their crews, are the admiration of the army.

Little by little the entire complement of the German cruiser Koenigsberg, destroyed by Admiral King-Hall in the Ruvu River on July 11, 1915, is being killed or captured. Many have been taken in the northern operations, and reports from General Northey, whose columns are closing in from the south, show that in the advance on the capture of Malangali a petty officer and four sailors were taken, together with a 4.2-inch field howitzer that had been worked by gunners from the Koenigsberg. Dr. Slier, late governor of New Langenburg, was picked up wounded and died in the ambulance.

On the capture of Iringa by the Rhodesian troops forty interned British Indian and Chinese civilians were released. Four angry Dutchmen, prisoners of war, who had attempted to escape from Mshenge and had suffered abominable treatment at the hands of their captors, demanded and obtained permission to join the regiment that rescued them, and registered a vow, composed of many long and awesome sounding adjectives, to "get even" with the Germans.

A Real Experience

"Yes," said a traveling man, "I was once out of sight of land on the Atlantic ocean twenty-one days."

Another man spoke up: "On the Pacific Ocean one time I didn't see land for twenty-nine days."

"I started across the Kaw River at Topeka in a skiff once," he said, "and was out of sight of land before I reached the other side."

"What?" demanded the man who had spun the first yarn. "The Kaw is not more than 300 feet wide at Topeka."

"Quite true," said the bald man quietly. "The skiff turned over and I sank twice."

REDUCTION IN L. C. R. PASSENGER SERVICE

The reduction of the train service on the Canadian government service for the purpose of providing more men and equipment for handling overseas traffic will go into effect on January 23. The new schedule, according to official claims, will save 20,000 train miles per month, or nineteen per cent. of the present passenger traffic. The daily expresses, the Maritime and Ocean Limited will be continued between Montreal and Halifax, but one train each way between St. John and Moncton will be taken off and this is believed to be the train connecting with the Maritime express, thus leaving St. John without any direct connection with Montreal via the C.G.R.

PRESSEL COMMITTED; MAHONEY GIVEN FREEDOM

William Pressel, who was arrested last Saturday night by County Police-man Saunders and charged with following and annoying girls on Robbsey avenue, was again before the magistrate yesterday afternoon. He was adjudged guilty and a fine of $50 or two months in jail imposed. George McDade appeared for the prisoner.

George Mahoney, charged with neglecting his children, was before the magistrate yesterday afternoon. The charge was the outcome of the defendant's action in taking the children from the home of the Children's Aid Society, inasmuch as the children have been returned and have been legally committed to the care of the society. The charge against Mahoney was allowed to lapse and he was set free yesterday afternoon.

H-w Thin People Can Put On Flesh

Thin men and women—that big hearty filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation are sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

If every day you've tried to put on weight has failed try these simple directions. Cut out everything but the meats you are eating now and eat with every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note your weight. Sargol does not of itself make fat but mixing with your food its purpose is to help the digestive organs turn the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten into rich, ripe fat producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepare it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. A great deal of this nourishment now passes from thin people's bodies as waste. Sargol is designed to stop the waste and make the fat producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now develop pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is non-injurious, pleasant, efficient and inexpensive. All leading druggists are authorized to sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of eight increase of money back.

If you find a druggist who is unable to supply you with Sargol, send $1.00 money order or registered letter to the National Laboratories, 74 St. Antoine St., Montreal, and a complete ten days' treatment will be sent you postpaid in plain wrapper.

Careless Shampooing Spoils The Hair

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified coconut oil (which is pure and grassless) and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoons will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified coconut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

Mutt and Jeff cartoon by Bud Fisher. The scene is set in a room where Mutt and Jeff are sitting at a table. Mutt is holding a newspaper and looking at Jeff. Jeff is looking back at Mutt. They are both dressed in simple, everyday clothing. The dialogue is as follows: Mutt asks, "Say, Mutt, in the Civil War, where both sides in a charge were Americans, how could they tell each other apart?" Jeff replies, "Easy! Each side had different suits!" Mutt asks, "What do you mean different suits?" Jeff replies, "The Southerners wore Southern suits, and the Union soldiers wore Union suits!" The Anti-Germans in Cincinnati

Un Outrages Condemned in Strongly German City Intellectual Leaders There Meeting Was a Lively One With Many Protests From Disorderly Element of Hyphens

A Cincinnati reader has forwarded clippings from the Times-Star and Commercial Tribune of that city describing a meeting held there recently for the purpose of protesting against the forcible deportation of Belgians by Germany. Those who suppose Cincinnati to be practically a German city may be astonished to learn that a great hall in that city could be filled by some of the leading citizens and a strongly-worded resolution passed in condemnation of the Kaiser and his works. It is true that the resolution was not passed without disturbance, and that police had to be called on to keep order, but the pro-Ally element in the gathering was in a powerful majority, and the interrupters and disturbers were easily handled.

The following is the resolution: "Whereas, The people of our free republic always have felt a jealous and watchful interest in every struggle of mankind for its rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; and especially in every encroachment upon such rights, in any land whatsoever; and have been accustomed in any crisis of human progress to assemble for the public expression of their sympathy or indignation, thus showing that they have inherited as a birthright the precious possession of civil liberty, are eager and determined to share its blessings with the rest of the world; "Whereas, A recent order of the German military governor of Belgium, which now is being carried into effect, will transport from their homes against their wills and with indescribable cruelty to the victims and their families, many thousands of able-bodied Belgian mechanics and other efficient laborers, taken in considerable part from the shops and mines in which they are now employed, to portions of Germany where, by their enforced labor they may release for the front of war a corresponding number of German soldiers; and "Whereas, This violent deportation of Belgian workmen is a practical revival of an ancient usage, outlawed for many centuries in enlightened countries, of converting captives of war, civilians of both sexes as well as armed soldiers, into slaves; therefore, be it "Resolved, That we, this assembly, hereby record our full and hearty approval of the action of the United States government upon this great offence against humanity, and desire to swell the volume of indignation and utterance in other communities of those who abhor all forms of despotism to the intent that President Wilson may feel assured of the support of that public opinion which is his indispensable encouragement in the performance of such grave and delicate duty. "Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to President Wilson. Deserves to Have Face Slapped

L. A. Ault, the chairman, observed that it was more than ever true that a man is his brother's keeper, and Col. Edward Colston, the first speaker, said that influences were at work in Washington to drive a wedge between the government and the American people in the interest of Germany. Amidst protests from the Germans present he proceeded to say that the first crime of Germany was the invasion of Belgium, and the second crime was the sinking of the Lusitania. At this point a German shouted: "Why didn't they stay off those ships?" and Col. Colston replied: "Because they had a right on them. Germany has visited enough insults on this country to deserve being slapped full in the face." This statement provoked a young riot, a hundred men and women rising to their feet shouting and screaming at the top of their lungs. Debates arose in different quarters, as to who were Americans and who were not. The Germans insisted that they were as good citizens as those who protested against the German slave raids.

Down With the Germans Dr. C. A. L. Reed provoked another tumult when he said: "Unfortunately, we are not actively in this struggle." Some of his hearers cried "Shame!" and demanded "Would you push America into the war?" This question led to a treacherous outbreak of cheering on the part of the great majority of the audience, and Dr. Reed said that the Entente Allies were fighting for things that the United States stands for. After Dr. Reed concluded the chairman invited those who desired to interrupt to leave the hall, and about twenty persons did so, although this by no means put an end to the disorder, which broke out several times. Dr. P. V. S. Myers made a good speech, then, as the Cincinnati Times-Star says one of the most dramatic incidents of the evening occurred. "A woman of stately mien arose in the very centre of the audience in a voice that penetrated every corner of the hall, cried:

"Down with the Germans! "This was the signal for a wild scene. Men and women jumped up, some threw their hats into the air, handkerchiefs were waved. "Down with the Germans" repeated a thousand voices. "One Foe and One Alone" It is worth noting that the interrupters invariably spoke of England, never once of France. It is England that the Germans hate whether they live in Cincinnati or Berlin. Against France they appear to have no particular ill-will, and it is a remarkable thing that two and a half years of war should have cured the strong hatred and contempt which the German used to entertain for the Frenchman. His hatred of Britain, however, grows daily. Russia was mentioned once, when somebody sought to set off the alleged crimes committed by Russian troops in East Prussia against the established atrocities of Germany in Belgium and elsewhere.

Preparations Unappreciated A city-bred child whose knowledge of the wild was very limited was walking through the woods with her governess. They chanced upon a porcupine. At the approach of the two individuals whose intentions might be hostile, the creature bristled aggressively, its weapon-like quills rising in menace. "Oh, look!" exclaimed the little girl. "What a fright we have given that funny animal! Its hair is standing on end."

EMPRESS--ALL BRITISH PROGRAM

"ENGLAND EXPECTS"

Three-Part Production by the London Film Co., England, Featuring Charles Rock and Jane Gail. The picture is based on Nelson's immortal message: "England expects that every man this day will do his duty." The story is in a simple and, yet after seeing the picture, you will want to go right out and do something patriotic--save the flag, lead and attack upon the enemy's entrenched position, single-handed, or something equally foolish.

The SCARLET RUNNER SERIES

"THE NUREMBERG WATCH"

She whispered it was a gift, a token of luck. Would he favor her and give it to Sir Gordon Race, defending Lady Mendel on trial for the murder of her husband. He consents, delivers it, returns home, finds a message warning him of the contents--a watch filled with a powerful explosive. Into his "Scarlet Runner," throwing in the clutch at high speed, he races to thwart the grim tragedy. How he becomes involved in a fate meant for another makes for a swift, suspense-holding, breath-catching episode that will bring you back for more of the speed, mystery and daring that gives this series so much magnetism and heart appeal.

Suffered From Severe Headaches FOR TWO YEARS

Headaches are many and varying; but when the head starts to ache you may be sure there is some chief cause! The stomach may go wrong, the bowels become constipated, the blood may not circulate properly, but the presence of the headache clearly shows that unless the cause is removed some other baneful disease is liable to assert itself. Burdock Blood Bitters has, for the past forty years, been curing all kinds of headaches and has proved itself to be a remedy that cures where others fail. Mr. I. N. Petersen, Dnieper, Man., writes: "I am only too glad to be able to state that I derived wonderful benefit from Burdock Blood Bitters. I suffered from severe headaches for two years. I was treated by several doctors, but received no benefit until by chance I heard of B. B. B. and I at once procured two bottles and in a short time I was completely cured. I am, and always will be, grateful for what Burdock Blood Bitters has done for me. I am glad to recommend it to all who suffer from headaches. B. B. B. is the oldest and best known blood medicine on the market today, having been manufactured for the past forty years by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Neglected Plunder

The lady of many portable possessions was moving from town to the seashore for the summer. A cab had been thought big enough to convey her and her property to the station, and the cabman sat there, passing from one stage of disgust to another still deeper, while his vehicle, inside and out, was piled high with a miscellaneous assortment of cherished belongings. At last the task of loading came to an end. "That all?" inquired the cabman with polite incredulity. "Yes," was the reply. The cabman looked surprised. "Seems a pity," he ejaculated, "to leave the doorstep"

JAPANESE LEGEND PORTRAYED

An entertainment of unusual interest was given on Thursday evening in the Exmouth street church hall by twenty of the young ladies, under the direction of Miss Minnie Myles. The building was filled to its capacity, and many had to stand. The theme of the entertainment was a Japanese legend entitled "Little Almond Eyes". The scene was laid in the imperial gardens and the story deals with incidents in the life of a little Japanese girl who was selected to become the wife of the emperor, but who finally was restored to her betrothed, the captain of the guard. The appropriate settings and pretty costumes made a brilliant picture and the songs of the maidens and the development of the plot were followed with keen appreciation. At the close there was a general demand for the repetition of the production and it is expected that this will be granted, probably for patriotic purposes. The entertainment and a sale of home made candy last evening produced the sum of $70 for the mission funds of the church.
