CHAPTER V.
THE RAT-FACED FRENCHMAN HAS WORDS WITH MONSIEUR AT THE ST. REGULUS.

It was nearly noon before a stray shaft of sunshine, falling across M. le Duc's pallid face as he lay sleeping suddenly in his luxurious chamber at the St. Regulus after a most wearisome night-journey from Chicago, woke him to blinking consciousness of his unshared room.

He gaped, and yawned, and struck at the blinding ray, irritably but without effect, caught sight of the clock, and sat up with an exclamation of anger. The intrusion of daylight before he desired it was quite inexcusable—there was no sign of his morning chocolate or Courier, his dusty clothes were lying unattended where he had left them, the room was empty save for him and the rat-faced Frenchman. Of what avail was a valet who did not attend to his duties? He reached for the bell-pull, and pushed it hard.

A red-headed bell-boy appeared with a pitcher of distilled water fresh from the ice.

"Send my servant," said Monsieur, in elegant French, and the boy, having bowed with great outward deference, left him to brood over his many wrongs.

It was Jules's advice which had sent him off on a fool's errand to Chicago, that city of an almost inconceivable reputation as a Parisian of taste. He had traveled incognito, unattended, with the common confidence of democracy ever invented to harass a harmless aristocrat. He had not been able to sleep in the train, he had to bed down on his own hot bath and get into bed without help—because Jules could not be found. The recapitulation of these and a number of other humiliating grievances much inflamed Monsieur. And even when one came hurrying to his assistance, he rang a second time.

He was still absent-mindedly pressing the button on the wall behind him when the red-headed youth reappeared, with a further supply of hot water.

"There's saim," he demanded, his words not at all in accord with his attitude of polite attention, but safe in the knowledge that Monsieur had no understanding of Irish-American.

"Are ye stuck to 't' wire, or thryin' to hole a hole through 't' wall, ye fust-class Frenchman?"

"Holy name of a dog!" cried the object of his apostrophe in fervent Gaelic. "He move me those poisonous pitchers swiftly. Is it that you think I have a stomach of leather, rascal and fool? It is chocolate I ask for, and Jules my servant. Send Jules (chevre) to me. Thousand thanks! Was there ever such a dunce! Where is Jules? Send me Jules!"

"Avright," said the red-headed boy, lowering still more deeply. "Quit yelpin' an' slap ye wood on 't' till ye dig out 't' foot, an' it's him ye're after. Why didn't ye say so before."

He once more withdrew, closing the door delicately behind him, and Monsieur threw himself back on his pillows with a great air of exhaustion. But when Jules Chevre did at length arrive, a short thick-set man, close-cropped after the French fashion, carrying a cup of chocolate in one unsteady hand, and in the other a morning paper, his shifty eyes bloodshot and bilious, his employer had still enough energy left to scotch him roundly.

"You were drunk again last night, Jules," he complained in conclusion of long tirade to which the other had listened indifferently.

"I was sober," Jules contradicted insolently.

"Have the goodness to hand me my boots," Monsieur begged, getting half out of bed in his rage over such futile untruth.

"You don't want boots on your bare feet," Jules objected. "You aren't going to lather in your boots. What do you want your boots for?"

"I want them to kick you down stairs with, you scoundrel!" cried Monsieur, but Jules merely darted a glance of contempt at him and went on with his own occupations unmoved. He would have a hard or two to produce from his sleeve ere he should be kicked down stairs, and, in any case, the threat was a three-barred mischievous.

Monsieur subsided presently, taking without objection the cup which was

AMERICAN TARIFF BILL PASSED THE HOUSE

Free Lumber Schedule Voted Down and Expectation is That Reciprocity Clause on Coal will be Cut Out

Washington, D. C., April 9.—After three weeks of consideration the Payne tariff bill was passed by the house of representatives by a vote of 217 to 161.

The final vote demonstrated the capacity of the Republican organization to get together. The situation with respect to lumber was greatly relieved in the House, where the bill was passed by a vote of 217 to 161.

The free list vote in the minority. Because of that fact Mr. Fitzgerald, of New York, charged that a midnight deal had been made last night whereby free lumber was to be voted down and the rates on barley and barley malt increased, and this notwithstanding the denials of Messrs. Mann, of Illinois, and Cushman, of Washington, who offered the barley amendments.

When the senate committee on finance considered its session tonight it was with the object of their joint quest, that the free list vote in the minority. Because of that fact Mr. Fitzgerald, of New York, charged that a midnight deal had been made last night whereby free lumber was to be voted down and the rates on barley and barley malt increased, and this notwithstanding the denials of Messrs. Mann, of Illinois, and Cushman, of Washington, who offered the barley amendments.

Among the schedules that are attracting particular attention now are metals and manufactures of metals, lumber, hides, bituminous coal and sugar.

No rates on steel and iron have been inserted as yet, although it is practically settled that iron ore will be taxed twenty cents a ton and a proportionate rate will be assessed against scrap iron and steel.

The iron interests are concerned chiefly in getting an increase over the proposed rates in the Payne bill on rails and structural iron. The Payne bill cuts the existing rate on steel rails from $7.84 to $6.92, just one half. Steel men contend that the Payne bill rates are too severe a reduction, and have asked that a rate of $5.88 be fixed on rails. It is generally believed that the committee will name a rate of about $5 per ton. On structural steel it is likely that the Dingley rates will be maintained, instead of adopting a rate of 3-10 of a cent a pound, as fixed by the Payne bill. A number of reductions have been made the object of the preacher is merely to bring men to Christ. It is important that men should become Christians, but of almost equal importance is the question what kind of Christians are they to be? One of the most urgent concerns of the preacher is to secure a richness and depth of spiritual life in his congregation, morality of high distinction, a grave sense of responsibility. At the same time the old formula had an element of truth in it. In every sermon there ought to be a distinctively Christian element, and where the person or work of Christ is not the main theme care should be taken that these are made prominent in other parts of the service, and that not only in the prayers but especially in the hymns.

Hints to Preachers.

We ought not to speak without sympathy of those who cling tenaciously to the faith taught them at their mother's knee, but God has laid it on the hearts of some of us to care for those to whom that faith became incredible, but whom we may perhaps be permitted to win, at least for what is essential in that earlier faith. I will add that it is very desirable that in this difficult and delicate work the apologist should not be hampered by suspicion, wounded by assaults from his brethren, or even stung by their pinpricks. In a time of theological flux we should be careful to stand on our feet. We should seek to be free from censoriousness and purge ourselves from the lust of mutual recrimination. We should in our presentations of the Gospel in our pulpits both the teacher and the prophet, and if, as a layman, I may venture to offer a few suggestions, let me urge them to bear the following points in mind:—

The basis of the sermon should be soundly exegetical. The preacher should not be shy of great texts, for at any rate this would ensure that he has something to reward them for coming, and no minister can rise to greatness unless great themes are those most congenial to him. The preacher should aim at balance and proportion and be very tolerant of types other than his own. When he finds that he has his old sermons move him no longer as he delivers them it is time to print them or put them behind the fire. His sermons will gain immeasurably if he has a sense of style. He should certainly be sparing of the language of Canaan, but he should not be afraid of it. He should hold his provincial dialects in utter abhorrence, who shall tell us the number of those who have been expelled by them? Let me emphasize the vital necessity of theological equipment. The minister needs it for his people, since he is to ground the members of our churches in the great truths of the Gospel is responsible for no little of the unimpaired stability in which so many are involved today, and even more he needs it for himself.

A LAYMAN OFFERS SOME GOOD ADVICE TO PREACHERS

(The Manchester Guardian.)

"The place of the evangel in the preaching of today" was the title of a paper read by Professor A. S. Peake, of Manchester, at the Swansea Conference of Free Churches.

It is not "we," he said, to identify the Gospel with traditional theology, for not only common title, but traditional theology contains elements which are foreign to it, rather than integral parts of it. To define it as the plan of salvation would be unduly to narrow it, and the conception is itself unfortunate; the representation of the glad tidings as a plan is too mechanical, rigid, and formal. There is a danger of reducing the Gospel too much to a series of transparent formulae, from which there clings no aroma of rich suggestions. To explain everything to have no sense of unathomable depths is the mark of the theological charlatan. Nor yet is the Gospel a scheme of social reform. It is true that social reform is a practical doctrine of our fundamental doctrine of the Fatherhood of God, but agreement upon this point is compatible with the sharpest difference of conscientious opinion on the lines which practical reform should take. It is an evil day for any church when it pledges its Gospel to any form of economic theory or political constitution. The Gospel is not simply a set of ideas or scheme of doctrine; nor is it simply a set of facts. It embraces both, but it combines inseparably with a Person.

THE CHRISTOCENTRIC INTERPRETATION

The element which differentiates Christianity from other religions is Christ Himself. He was Himself the main contribution which He made to religion, and when I speak of our interpretation of the Gospel as Christocentric, I would mean that this should not be too narrowly interpreted. I think we ought not to concentrate attention so exclusively on the Cross that we belittle the theological significance of the Incarnation, the life, the ministry, and the resurrection of Christ. Jesus was not born simply that He might die, and although in one sense we cannot emphasize that experience, we may emphasize it too exclusively. Hence, I prefer to regard the Gospel as Christocentric rather than saviourcentric, if I may coin the term—understanding, of course, that any truly Christocentric theology will attach a very high significance to the Cross. In the light of what I have just said it will be clear that I could not assent to the old-fashioned view that the plan of salvation should be in every sermon, or in every address, upon the theme would make the average ministry one of intolerable tedium, and defeat the very purpose which the preacher had in view. Moreover, it is not the case that

Why Eczema Patients Suffer

No Wonder They Despair—But Cure Has Now Been Found

It is a strange thing about eczema. After washing morning on morning, using the stomach or smearing on greasy salves for years, many a skin sufferer gives up in despair. He says:

"What is the use, some may be cured, but a trial of the simplest remedy—just a little oil of wintergreen properly compounded (as in D. D. D. Prescription) will wash away that itch. In fact, it will wash away the itch immediately, the instant D.D.D. is applied."

Read this letter from Mrs. G. J. Hutcheon, of Bellevue, Ont.:

"Since was a child nine years old (and I am today thirty years old) I have suffered with eczema in my hands. I have spent money on all kinds of medicines and ointments but I find nothing equal to D.D.D. I have used five bottles and today my hands are perfectly healed. I shall never be without it in my house, and will always recommend it to my many friends and neighbors who suffer from this awful torture Eczema."

Now if there is anyone in your town suffering with eczema, ringworm, tetter, psoriasis or poison ivy, tell this sufferer not to sit back and say, "I have tried everything, there is no cure for me." Tell him to write for free sample bottle of D.D.D. Prescription to the D.D.D. Laboratory, Department S. T. 23 Jordan street, Toronto.

THE PARTISAN REPORT

The report of the Central Railway Commission charges that $134,000 has not been accounted for. Hon. Dr. Pugsley replies that it is accounted for in the evidence, given before the commission, but the evidence is not printed with the report, which conveniently ignores all that does not suit the purpose of the political enemies of Dr. Pugsley.

Does any man doubt the partisanship of the commission? Let him read the report. Its very language reveals its purpose. It is not the judicial finding of impartial men, but the intemperate speech of the advocate who desires to discredit his opponent, and permits his bias to find expression in his words.

But the public should now demand that the evidence be printed along with the report of the commission. It is an unheeded proceeding to send out such a report without the evidence on which it was based.

The Standard intimates that Hon. Dr. Pugsley is a dishonest and untruthful man. The Conservative press has been trying for years to make the public regard the minister in this light, but lacking the evidence it has always failed.

"GOOD AS GOLD"

R. P. Pearce, Supt. Industrial Branch, 114 St. John St.

There are Little Soldiers in Your Blood

They are the white corpuscles, and there are millions of them.

It is their duty to defend you against disease, by protecting the red corpuscles and the bodily tissues from disease germs—those dangerous micro-organisms of which so much is now known.

You are helpless unless these little soldiers in your blood have the health and strength to fight for you—to repel the many infectious and contagious diseases whose germs are in the air you breathe, the water you drink, the food you eat, and on things you touch.

Among these diseases are typhoid fever, scarlet fever, diphtheria, grip, spotted fever, smallpox, malaria, ague, tuberculosis or consumption.

To make and keep these little soldiers healthy and strong, is simply to make and keep the blood of the right quality and quantity.

This is just what Hood's Sarsaparilla does. It is the best preventive as well as curative medicine. If your blood is impure and impoverished, a condition indicated by eruptions, scrofula, eczema, catarrh, rheumatism, anemia, nervousness, tired, languid feelings, loss of appetite, general debility, then the soldiers in your blood are not in condition to fight for you.

They need better health and greater strength. You should begin taking Hood's Sarsaparilla at once.

Hood's Sarsaparilla affects its wonderful cures, not simply because it contains sarsaparilla, but because it combines the utmost remedial values of more than 20 different ingredients, each greatly strengthened and enriched by this peculiar combination.

These ingredients are the very remedies that successful physicians prescribe for the same diseases and ailments. There is no real substitute for Hood's Sarsaparilla. If urged to buy any preparation said to be "just as good," you may be sure it is inferior, costs less to make, and yields the dealer a larger profit.

Begin taking Hood's Sarsaparilla today. 100 Doses One Dollar.

GENERAL BOOTH EIGHTY YEARS OLD

Many Prominent Men Speak in Praise of Salvation Army Head at Birthday Celebration Here

Yesterday the Salvation Army celebrated the eightieth birthday of General Booth. Meetings were held in the Citadel in Charlotte street. The afternoon meeting was a special consecration service, and in the evening the meeting was of a more public character. Addresses were given by prominent citizens. There was a large audience. On the platform were the speakers and many of the local officers and members of the Salvation Army.

The chairman of the meeting, His Worship Mayor Bullock, was introduced in a few words by Bishop Collier. His Worship said that it afforded him a great deal of pleasure to be present. He had always taken a great deal of interest in the Salvation Army and in the great work that they were doing.

After a solo was sung by Captain Porter, the Colonel of the Citadel, the lessons from the General's Life. He said that the general had founded a religion for the mind, the body and the soul. It was a religion for social intercourse and for daily life. It was a religion for the present as well as for the future. It formed one of the greatest benefactions of the world, helping the fallen to lift themselves. Its 17,000 officers were scattered throughout the world preaching and working with the one object.

Many great schemes in religious, social and educational advancement had been instituted by the general, but all had one object, the betterment of humanity.

After a selection by the Citadel band, brief addresses were given.

Recorder Skinner expressed himself as being heartily in sympathy with the work of the general. He had understood it, he said, as a religion for the people, and he had seen the general's work in the streets of St. John's. He had seen the general's work in the streets of St. John's. He had seen the general's work in the streets of St. John's.

Rev. W. R. Robertson said it gave him much pleasure to be present to convey the greetings of the Baptists. There was once a time when the Salvation Army was looked on with ridicule. Later on it was tolerated. Then it came to be respected, but now, he said, it was accepted. It was a religion for the people, and it was a religion for the people.

T. H. Estabrook said that he had felt it was his duty to be present to speak in respect of the man who had done so much for humanity. As he was a business man, he would like to say that the general's work was a business proposition. No man alone could accomplish any great enterprise. He must have the power and ability to carry out his schemes. And he had the greatest respect for a man who had done so much for humanity. He had seen the general's work in the streets of St. John's. He had seen the general's work in the streets of St. John's.

Rev. Dr. C. R. Flanders spoke of the great work of the general. He had seen the general's work in the streets of St. John's. He had seen the general's work in the streets of St. John's. He had seen the general's work in the streets of St. John's.

Dr. T. Walker said that he had long been interested in the work of the army. They had done great work in the rescue homes for men, and in the execution of his great projects. He had been spoken of as one of the three great men of his time, ranking with Napoleon and Cromwell. He had done more than any to raise fallen men and to hasten the time when the sword should be put away from the world.

At the conclusion of the meeting was dismissed with the benediction by Rev. Dr. Flanders.

ADRIPT IN THE SOUTH SEAS

Sailor's Trying Experience with Shipwreck and Hunger

(London Standard.) A walk of 230 miles, the weathering of a cyclone on a bamboo raft and an existence of three weeks on turtle eggs and iguanas are some of the experiences which recently befell Captain Williams in charge of the lugger "Nebraska," which was lost on Green Hill Island, a hundred miles or thereabouts from Port Darwin, in the northern territory of Australia.

When the lugger broke up Captain Williams swam to Green Hill Island and then tried to make the mainland. He was in a dingy which he was able to make seaworthy. He was caught in a squall and after drifting for three days, was carried into the gulf, and eventually landed on Field Island, off the mouth of the Alligator River.

This island is destitute of water, but some rain fell, and he eked out an existence for twelve days on the small supplies thus obtained, and turtle eggs. Both turtles and alligators were numerous. He then re-embarked in the dingy and made his way into the mouth of the Alligator River, but could find no fresh water. He obtained from the bark of trees sufficient liquid to sustain life until rain fell.

Abandoning the dingy he made his way up the east bank of the Willman River, living on sweet potatoes and iguanas. His matches having been blown away, he carried firesticks with him. He eventually crossed Willman River and came out on what he thinks was Lake Finnix, where he found plenty of swamp turtles, iguanas and other native food.

On striking the Adelaide River jungle, Williams saw plenty of buffalo, but his only weapon being a revolver, he did not shoot any. He got down to the Adelaide River, near what is known as Law's landing, where he built himself a raft of bamboo, and crossed. He had not long gone south, when a cyclone came on and blew the timber down all around him. He narrowly escaped death, but pluckily resumed his two-hundred-and-thirty-mile walk, till he reached Port Darwin.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

Is without an Equal for COUGHS, COLDS, BRONCHITIS and all Affections of the THROAT and LUNGS.

All the most serious affections of the throat, the lungs and the bronchial tubes, are in the beginning but colds or coughs. Two mild remedies, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, will cure them. It is a powerful and reliable remedy, and is absolutely harmless, prompt and safe.

Mr. J. L. Purdy, Millville, N.S., writes: "I have been troubled with hard, dry cough for a long time, especially at night, but after having used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, for a few weeks, I find my cough has left me. To any person, suffering as I did, I can say that this remedy is well worth a trial. I would not be without it in the house."

So great has been the success of this wonderful remedy, it is only natural that numerous persons have tried to imitate it. Don't be lulled into taking anything but "Dr. Wood's." Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pines trees the trade mark; price 25 cents.

A special meeting of the Y. M. C. A. will be held on Tuesday, the 13th, to appoint a nominating committee of three to nominate the directors for the annual meeting the second Tuesday in May, also to receive notice of proposed amendments to the constitution. H. J. Smith will address the Sunday morning boys' service.

The flavor, fragrance, purity and deliciousness of "Salada" Tea commend it to the favor of every lover of good tea. Every year has but served to demonstrate more emphatically its superiority.

A GRAND KIDNEY MEDICINE

"Fruit-a-tives" Cured Him When Everything Else Failed.

Ulverton, Que., March 17th, 1908. I wish to place on record, for the sake of others who may be suffering in the same way that I suffered, that no medicine I ever took did me so much real good as "Fruit-a-tives" did.

I suffered for many years with Kidney Trouble, with bad pain in the back. I took every known kidney remedy and kidney pill but nothing gave me any relief, and I was getting discouraged.

I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives" and did so, and this medicine cured me when everything else failed.

I used altogether fifteen boxes of "Fruit-a-tives," and from the outset they gave me relief and I am now practically well again; no pain, no distress and all symptoms of kidney disease have entirely left me. I am very thankful to be once more well, and I freely make this statement for the sake of others who may suffer as I did. To them, say, try "Fruit-a-tives."

CLARENCE J. PLACEY. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size 25c. Dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

ST. JOHN BOY LEADS

The race between St. John and Fredericton for the free trip to the Old Country offered by The Standard of Empire, grew closer as the contest proceeded. Cyril H. MacDonald, of St. John High School, on April 9 was 250 votes ahead of Cecil R. Carman, of Fredericton, but judging by the exertions being made by the people of Fredericton there will be a very close finish. It is to be hoped that local enterprise will give young MacDonald all possible support in order to enable him to win this interesting prize for St. John.

The Standard of Empire is giving the twelve high school and collegiate institute students that secure the greatest number of subscriptions to that newspaper a trip of three weeks in England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales. For the successful New Brunswick boy this means a free holiday of five weeks. The competition will close on June 1, and the boys will not leave until the Empire's steamship starts. The twelve successful boys will see all the principal historic sights of the Old Country and will have the honor of dining with Lord Roberts. Candidates from most of the principal high schools and colleges in New Brunswick are working hard to win this exceptional prize, which is offered with the approval of the government of the Dominion of Canada and the various provinces. All information as to how the trip is to be won can be obtained from The Standard of Empire, Stair building, Toronto.

BE A CHARMING WOMAN

You never saw a beautiful woman who didn't have beautiful hair. The charm of a beautiful woman lies in her hair. Many women do not realize the attractions they possess because they do not give proper attention to the care of the hair.

The women of the "400" are famed for their beauty, not because their facial features are superior to those of other women, but because they know how to keep young by supplying vigor, lustre, and strength to the hair.

Up to a few years ago Parisian Sage could hardly be obtained in America. But now this delightful hair restorer can be had in every town in America. Charles R. Wason, 100 King street, sells it in St. John, N. B., for 50 cents a bottle, and he guarantees it to grow beautiful, luxuriant hair; to turn dull, lifeless hair into lustrous hair; to stop falling hair; to stop itching of the scalp. Understand, Charles R. Wason, 100 King street, will give you your money back if it fails.

An association football match will be played this afternoon between the Bankers and All St. Johns, on the Every Day Club grounds.

OBITUARY

William H. Smith

The death of William H. Smith occurred yesterday at his residence, 312 Douglass avenue. He had been sick only a short while, but a long standing heart trouble complicated matters and hastened his death. Mr. Smith was very well known. He had been in the employ of Manchester, Robertson, Allison, Limited, for a number of years. He was a native of St. John and was born in High street in 1837. He was the eldest son of the late George Smith. At an early age he entered the dry goods store of the late John Armstrong and was in his employ for a number of years. After Mr. Armstrong's death he entered into partnership with W. H. Fairhall and opened a store in Prince William street. About 1870 the partnership was dissolved and Mr. Smith entered the employ of M. R. A., remaining until his death.

Mr. Smith was an active member of St. Luke's church. He was a church warden and had been a member of the choir ever since he was about 1870. He married Miss Frances Hilyard, a daughter of the late Thomas Hilyard who, with four sons and four daughters, survive. The sons are Rev. Walter H. Smith, of Sherbrooke Lake (Ont.), and Willard at home. The daughters are Mrs. F. G. Fawcett, of Pittsburg; Mrs. Thomas Charleston of Ottawa, Mrs. J. E. Macaulay of Grand Manan, and Mrs. Robert Brown of this city. The funeral will take place from St. Luke's church on Monday.

F. Marion Crawford

Soreno, April 9.—F. Marion Crawford, the novelist, died here at 7.30 o'clock to-night. He was born in 1854.

Mr. Crawford had been ill for some time, one of the symptoms of his affection being fever, which tended greatly to weaken him. Professor E. B. Dudgeon, director of the American Clinic of the University of Naples, was called into consultation at the Villa Crawford some ten days ago, and found serious bronchial and pleuritic complications. His illness had its origin in an attack of influenza. Death came peacefully, but apparently he knew that the end was near and with calmness encouraged his family to bear up and cease weeping. The novelist's last words were: "I enter serenely into eternity."

According to the attending physician, Mr. Crawford collapsed last night owing to extreme weakness. He then was without fever. Sadly he expressed the sentiment that he was soon to die, but almost immediately afterwards, when alluding to the approaching Good Friday, he said: "I die with Christ." Mr. Crawford's daughter, at his request, then read to him Plato's dialogues, the novelist desiring that they taught him serenity in death.

The Successful Woman.

Every woman wishes success after a different fashion. It is largely a matter of degree, and it consists of so many distinctive qualities that the real meaning of the word is lost or has only a vague significance. Many conditions have to do with the different degrees of success. The principal of these is what some people call "environment," while others call it "sphere of activity." The many different phases of ambition also enter into the picture, while necessity urges on continuously and mercifully.

What does success mean to a woman? The question is a difficult one to answer. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Kaiser Wilhelm, the late Grover Cleveland, Cardinal Gibbons, Queen Alexandra of England and other people of equal prominence have given their own answers to the question. Some eminent authorities would even limit the sphere of women to children and the children. In an article published some years ago, Mr. Cleveland defined his stand on the subject, and became a target for every suffragette in the country. He failed, however, to retreat from his position. He forcefully declared that the greatest success a woman can attain is in the proper care of her home and the raising of children into useful and law-abiding citizens.

However, this is only one side of the subject. No less a student of men and things than the late Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, held that every sphere of activity open to men should be opened to women. He saw a great future for them in public life—he saw a chance of success in their reaching success.

The instances of American women who have reached a high degree of success are many. Miss Jane Addams, the Chicago Settlement worker and a member of the Board of Education in that city, has led a life of conspicuous usefulness. She is, according to former Mayor Dunne, of the Windy City, "the most useful citizen in Chicago." Susan B. Anthony reached an eminence in her chosen work that is proof that her life was successful.

In every country and in every part of the world there are women who, following their own ideals, have been successful along the lines of life which they have chosen for themselves. The sweatshop worker forced to enter upon the hard, long, grueling shop because she wishes to do so, it is a case of bread and butter with her, and if she accepts her work cheerfully, she does it as well as it can be done. She is successful.

The writer came into contact recently with a washerwoman whose sphere in life was narrow, but she had the proper spirit. She radiated good nature over her suds and soiled linen. In her work she always aimed at the fulness of achievement, and when she brought her wash home she was proud, indeed, as each piece was removed from the basket. She knew her work was done as well as it was possible for anyone to do it. This was her ideal of success, and she was right.

The typewriter girl who has done her work as well as she can, and who has followed her own ideals, has been successful along the lines of life which they have chosen for themselves. The sweatshop worker forced to enter upon the hard, long, grueling shop because she wishes to do so, it is a case of bread and butter with her, and if she accepts her work cheerfully, she does it as well as it can be done. She is successful.

HON. DR. PUGSLEY WOULD WELCOME INVESTIGATION

Minister of Public Works Again Refers to the Report of the Central Railway Commission and the Items Which It Did Not Contain—One Misstatement of 1,000 per cent. Exposed—Parisan Report Falls Flat

"I observe," said Dr. Pugsley, "that there is considerable talk in the Conservative papers to the effect that the directors of the company, including myself as an ex-officio director, should be called upon to account for the moneys received by the company. You may say that so far as I am concerned—and I believe the same remark applies to all the directors of the company now living—I would welcome any further enquiry which might be instituted."

Such was the reply of the Minister of Public Works when a Telegraph reporter last evening directed his attention to some of the absurd statements now being put forward by the Conservative newspapers in connection with the report of the Central Railway Commission.

Dr. Pugsley added that the political complexion of the commission and their conduct was well known. He regards the whole thing as another attempt of the Conservative party to discredit him politically—an attempt certain to fail as the other attempts have failed. Such, indeed, is the general impression created by the report. All the evidence was heard months ago. It is no worse or no better now than it was at first, but since it was heard last year, it has been repeated in all the newspapers. The Federal elections have been held. The directors of the province in October last returned Dr. Pugsley and ten other members of the commission.

The public was not excited or impressed by the evidence heard before the commission. It is not so now, in spite of Mr. Powell's dramatic efforts. The commission's report now retells an old story with new trimmings. The publication of the report is merely another attack upon Dr. Pugsley, just like the Mayer plot which showed how little they thought of the evidence elicited by the commission when they returned Dr. Pugsley and ten other members of the commission.

That, Says Sir Hugh Graham, Must be One Big Object of the Press Conference—The Canadian Delegates.

Sir Hugh Graham, interviewed in London by the Daily Mail, in speaking of the Imperial Press Conference, said: "This idea is a magnificent one so far as general hospitality and good intentions are concerned, but it will be absolutely abortive of important beneficial results unless the British population being surveyed in comparison with the foreign population is well known and needs no reiteration that the British population of Canada is loyal to the crown, and in this regard must be included the French Canadians as British, they are loyal to the crown. The foreign population of Canada is increasing, and the British in actual figures as a fraction of the whole is not holding its own."

WEST SIDE ROAD RACE NEWS AND VIEWS OF SPORT

Reid Won Yesterday's Event to Spruce Lake and Return—Humphrey Collapsed

While running a road race yesterday with Joseph Reid, of Carleton, Stanley Humphrey, also of Carleton, collapsed on the Fairville sidewalk near Dr. M. L. Macfarlane's residence, and was unconscious for about fifteen minutes. He was carried into the doctor's office where he was revived and he stayed there until his clothes were dried and he was thoroughly rested and left for home about 8 o'clock last evening.

The race had been arranged wholly as an endurance test. Both the contestants are about eighteen years of age. The course agreed on was from Barnhill's corner, Spruce Lake and back to the corner of King and Ludlow streets West End. The start was made about 3:15 and it was said that Humphrey led for a time. They had run out to Spruce Lake and were coming back when Humphrey collapsed. He covered the distance of ten miles in one hour and fifteen minutes.

At the time of Humphrey's fall he and Reid were running shoulder to shoulder. Reid kept on and covered the entire distance, said to be twelve miles, in one hour and twenty-five minutes.

When Humphrey fell he was carried into Dr. Macfarlane's office by Frank Smith and William Hanson, of Carleton, and Murray Brown and Cecil Strang, of Carleton.

Much interest had been taken in the road race. It was a closely contested event and had not Humphrey met with his unfortunate fate the finish would have been exciting.

It was said last night by one in touch with athletic events that, through forgetfulness, the runners had not secured sanction for this race and that they would likely be suspended.

Reid said last night that the race was in consequence a challenge given by Humphrey to him in the early part of this year. He said there was never an incident in the event, the roads being lined with people. He thinks that Humphrey undertook to run two great distances. It had been the intention to have the race end at Fairville, but at Humphrey's request it was extended to end in Carleton.

There were no game-makers with the runners. Reid says he allowed Humphrey to keep about a yard ahead of him all the way until they reached Fairville on the return, and then began to sprint and had passed Humphrey by about two yards when he heard him fall. He did not look round, however, but kept on and finished. Reid says Humphrey is a good runner for a mile and is very speedy. He himself ran in the High school sports last year and intends to participate in the Every Day Club sports on May 24.

POLICE RAID PRIZE FIGHTS HELD IN A NEW YORK CELLAR

Battles Are Stopped and Pugilists and Ringside Officials are Caught—Three Hundred Men Under Siphon Fire—Spectators Who Try to Escape Sent Back to the Hole in the Ground Wet and Angry.

(New York Herald)

Trapped in a small cellar in the basement of a saloon at Seventh avenue and 132nd street, three hundred men witnessed three slashing prize fights last night before the police stopped the contestants and arrested the fighters, the referee and the promoters.

For half an hour after the raid was made such a large crowd gathered that it was necessary to call the police reserves from several stations to maintain any kind of order.

The fights were well advertised as a "testimonial" on the part of friends of "Babe" Cullen, a local pugilist. Tickets according to the police were sold for $2.00 to the box office discontinued business only when the basement was full of men.

Captain Carson, of the West 125th street station, heard about the "testimonial" and assigned Policeman Finan and several others to buy tickets and gain an entrance to the cellar before the bouts started. In the meantime plans were laid by Captain Carson to capture the fighters and the promoters.

Finan had no trouble in purchasing a ticket for himself and three other policemen and at nine o'clock gathered around a dimly lighted fighting ring. The only entrance to the cellar was through a trap door in the floor of the saloon above.

When the basement was well crowded and men and boys were clinging to the sides of the ring, officers from the West 125th street station, the first fight was announced and John Donley and Raymond Sheehan, two feather-weight fighters, entered the ring. Cheers from the crowd gathered around the ring told the score of policemen waiting outside the door of the saloon that the fights had begun.

Six fast and furious rounds ended in a victory for Sheehan, and two other fights, dressed for the occasion, in light clothing, entered the ring. The second bout ended in a knock-out in one of the early rounds, and the crowd waited impatiently for the final contest.

Owen Flynn and William Cullen, the last named the guest of the evening, had just started to spar when Policeman Finan jumped into the ring. Catching hold of both fighters he shouted: "You are all under arrest."

Spectators started for the ladder leading to the saloon, but were met by officers of the West 125th street station, who said: "I certainly do."

Answer This Question

When thousands of women say that they have been cured of their ailments by a certain remedy, does this not prove the merit of that remedy?

Thousands of women have written the story of their suffering, and have told how they were freed from it by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—for thirty years these reports have been published all over America.

Without great merit this medicine could never have gained the largest sale of any remedy for woman's ills—never could have become known and prized in nearly every country in the world.

Can any woman let prejudice stand between her and that which will restore her health? If you believe those who have tried it you know this medicine does cure.

Read this letter from a grateful woman, then make up your mind to give Mrs. Pinkham's medicine a chance to cure you.

Canifon, Ont.—"I had been a great sufferer for five years. One doctor told me it was ulcers of the uterus, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor. No one knows what I suffered. I would always be worse at certain periods, and never was regular, and the bearing-down pains were terrible. I was very ill in bed, and the doctor told me I would have to have an operation, and that I might die during the operation. I wrote to my sister about it and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Through personal experience I have found it the best medicine in the world for female troubles, for it has cured me, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me while passing through Change of Life."—Mrs. Letitia Blair, Canifon, Ontario.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

French Champion Will Meet English Runner at Any Distance From Fifteen Miles to Fifty

Providence, R. I., April 9.—M. A. F. Copeland, manager of Henri St. Yves, the $10,000 Derby winner, who is matched in the twenty-mile Marathon race at the Eastern League base ball park here tomorrow with Matt Maloney, of Yonkers, issued the following statement tonight in answer to the broadcast of challenges hurled at the French runner by Al Shrubbs: "Having seen so much in type about Alfred Shrubbs' willingness to run Henri St. Yves fifteen miles, although no forfeit has been put up by him, I take this opportunity of accepting his challenge and announce that St. Yves will run him at any distance from fifteen to fifty miles."

Copeland arrived in this city tonight to handle St. Yves in the big race here tomorrow. The event is easily the leading sporting attraction in New England for tomorrow, and it is expected that a crowd numbering fully 15,000 people will attend. The advance sale of tickets has been a record-breaker, more than fifteen thousand having been taken in the past three days. St. Yves runs a strong favorite at 6 to 5.

SUSSEX CORONER GIVES UP HIS OFFICE

Dr. Pearson Resigns—Says He Does Not Intend to Be Humbled Any Longer

Dr. George W. Pearson, of Sussex, has resigned as coroner for Kings county, and in the reasons which moved him to take this step there is an interesting story. Some weeks ago, following an inquest into the death of a young man who was found with his throat cut, there was rumor that Dr. Pearson's bill as coroner had been cut down by Attorney-General Hazen and that Dr. Pearson claimed it was done unjustly. It now transpired that Dr. Pearson's resignation as coroner traces back to this action of the attorney-general.

THE TEST OF LIFE, OR CONDUCT IS THE GOOD THAT RESULTS

A Thoughtful Address Delivered at the Every Day Club by Rev. C. W. Squires—The Liquor Traffic Brought to the Test and Condemned

The following is a summary of the very thoughtful address delivered by Rev. C. W. Squires at the Every Day Club last Sunday afternoon: "When a man, in the presence of two conflicting causes, takes a definite stand upon one side rather than the other, if his decision is a rational one, he always has a sufficient reason for taking the stand. If the reason is not sufficient, he will be called upon, or he will call upon himself, sometime to revise his views upon and, therefore, to change his attitude towards the cause that he has before him."

Both the sale and use of strong drink are opposed to every essential moral principle that one could mention. Let us put it to the test and see. A generally received moral maxim is expressed thus: "Allow every rational being the best chance to improve himself." Consider this maxim for the time being as a standard for measurement. Does the sale or use of strong drink give the opportunity to rational beings, those directly involved, the best chance to expand themselves? There is a certain physical expansion in the drunkard's own body, sometimes, but this is not the kind intended. Economically, it should be, at once put under the ban. But the liquor traffic does not do either. Therefore it must be dealt with summarily.

NIAGARA RAISED

Toronto, April 9.—Niagara river went on the rampage today. The break-up of the great floods in Lake Erie sent millions of tons of ice over the falls. The water in the lower river rose some twenty-five feet, submerging the Gorge electric road under fifteen feet of water and sweeping poles and wires, and much of the railroad away. Docks and fishing traps and everything movable in the lower river were carried down into Lake Erie and a dozen falling traps went too. Two gun wires of the suspension bridge were carried away. Flood was the greatest in sixty years.

The Resurrection in Art

white and illumined by His own light, awoke them, saying: 'Be not afraid; go tell thy brethren that they go into Galilee, and there they shall see Me.' The snowy light from His robe, the light from His face and hands made a charming contrast with the verdure of the country and the rich green of the soldiers' costumes. This scene, though charming, is colored compared with 'The Resurrection,' which shows the Saviour guarded by an angel, standing in the tomb, while all those who sinned against Him, are suffering and groaning below.

The Resurrection

three crosses, Hoffmann, the great German painter, has also depicted the Resurrection, but his handling is more conventional and less dramatic. They look up to Him with hope, joy and yearning. He is surrounded by angels and trumpeters sounding their rejoicings and halloings, while below is His mother, Joseph, Mary Magdalene, some of His Apostles and followers dressed in gay garbs and with radiant faces.

Bouguereau later gave his interpretation of the Resurrection in his painting called 'The Resurrection Morn.' Though treated in the same rather conventional ways, the work is masterly outlined. It shows Christ, carrying His banner, appearing before His mother and Mary Magdalene for the first time. The theme is handled more dramatically than most of the masters have handled. The two women appear to be carried away completely by His coming. Besides this vivid representation of the incident, Bouguereau is a master of outline, and his draperies have bodies within them.

A thoroughly German conception of the Saviour is 'The Ascension,' by Bierman. Though the face is thoroughly Teutonic, it is, nevertheless, august and impressive. It lacks all the sentiment and sentimental creation of the old masters. The Saviour, with glory about His head, is rising into heaven, looking back on the scene of His suffering and extending His hands in benediction over the homes of those who had slain Him. The French painter Tissot's interpretation of the Resurrection is certainly more weird and unusual. In this way the differences in these pendulum curves down to points imperceptible to the human eye were registered.

This magnified, the differences caused by the pull of the moon and sun on the earth's solid crust were observed and measured by the Prussian scientist. This difference is 7.78 inches in the Northern Hemisphere and an equal amount in the southern half of the globe.

Thus there is all told a pulling away from each pole according to the position of the sun a total of 15.54 inches. This difference is uniform. The giving of the rigid structure of the world, equal to that of fine steel, is not noticeable any more than the tides can be observed out at sea.

There is apparently no connection between this newly discovered motion of the crust of the earth and earthquakes. This must be due to the fact that every atom of the globe feels this motion and all move simultaneously and in a uniform speed and direction. Hence there are no local disturbances. It is the pull of the entire universe, although of course the nearness of the moon and the enormous mass of the sun, comparatively speaking, make these two bodies the strong elements in crust motion on the earth. Their positions are the ones which cause the greatest variations in the amount of this singular earth movement and movement and practically dictate its periods and directions.

THE MERCHANT AND THE POST OFFICE

Postmaster Sears called the attention of the Times on Thursday to a matter in which business houses in the city could very greatly facilitate the work of the post office staff.

Just before the afternoon mail closed large budgets of letters of all sizes had come in from business houses. These were in nearly every case thrown carelessly together, and the clerks had to take time to sort them out and arrange them for the date stamping machine. All this takes time, and time is precious when the mails are being hurriedly prepared to catch the train.

If the merchants would simply put a hard or string around their ordinary letters and post cards, and leave the bulk's envelopes loose, it would greatly facilitate work in the post office, and it would be a very easy thing to do when making up the mail at the store. It is a small matter for the merchants, and Postmaster Sears and his staff hope that the suggestion here made will be taken note of, in order that the forwarding of the mails may be accompanied by less difficulty when there is a rush.
