

GOVT. AGAIN BLOCK PROBE

Committee Refuses to Let Liberals Get to Bottom of Taylor Deal.

WITNESS SILENT WHEN QUIZZED

Steam Roller Methods Used by Whitney's Representatives on Public Accounts Committee.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Toronto, April 22.—The questions ruled out of the evidence appearing to the political contribution made by George Taylor to Hon. W. J. Hanna, prior to election, from the records of the public accounts committee, Friday last, were the bone of contention in the public accounts committee today when an effort was made to have the questions and answers as they were asked, restored to the records. Mr. Taylor's evidence would read like this:

"Did you ever threaten the Premier with the exposure of a member of the cabinet if you didn't get an adequate settlement of your claims?"
"I won't answer that question."
"Did you ever, while working under a government contract, contribute funds for political purposes?" Chairman interrupted and prevents the records being made.

This short passage explains the efforts of the Liberals to probe the public accounts and ascertain why Taylor, Scott & Co., contractors for the Central Prison labor and power, received $21,088 in consideration of a $50,000 claim. Some $8,000 was intimated as the amount of the contribution.

Since the contribution has been confessed, more may be heard about the pressure under which Hon. W. J. Hanna took it.

Want True Record.
The business this morning was entirely devoted to have some change made in order that the records might be complete and a true record of the questions and answers asked by Mr. Proudfoot as the chief examiner of George Taylor before the public accounts committee on Friday last.

A series of questions followed as to what would appear in the minutes of the committee. Would the amendments and the motions appear in the minutes?

Mr. Ferguson—Every motion that is passed by this committee will appear in the minutes.

A Mistake Record.
Mr. Rowell suggested that this was rather a misty record, if the motions passed without the amendment to them were to go as a complete record. Mr. Proudfoot moved that all the matter stricken from reporters' notes be placed on record. This carried the conviction with it that something wrong had been done, and Chairman Ferguson objected to it.

An amendment by Mr. McGarry refusing to interfere with the ruling on the committee's former stand carried by eighteen to six.

PRAIRIE FIRES FAR AND WIDE

Efforts of Saskatchewan Settlers to Stop Great Conflagration Futile.

TOWNS IN DANGER

[Canadian Press.]
Moose Jaw, Sask., April 22.—Prairie fires in the south continue to burn fiercely fanned by high, changeable winds. The flames are carried far and wide, mocking the efforts of the settlers, who have worked unceasingly since Saturday night to combat the conflagration. The damage is now counted in thousands of dollars. All the grass for many miles around has been burned, and the problem created of feeding the live stock until the new grass grows. At Snowy Springs the pumping plant formerly used to supply Moose Jaw is threatened. The fire department rushed from here, found flames within a few feet of the big gasoline tanks with one man fighting hard for the safety of the plant.

HOODOO SIGN FOR THE CONS.

Only Thirteen Sure Seats Out of Fifty-Four Contested in Alberta.

MACKAY GAINS VOTES

[Canadian Press.]
Edmonton, April 22.—Returns today indicate Rocky Mountain has gone Socialist. C. M. O'Brien, the former member, winning out over the Conservative, Campbell, by a majority of 10. Final returns from Edmonton give Cross a majority of 58, with all polls heard from. In Medicine Hat, as well as in Edmonton, where the counting is now in progress, yesterday's results here gave an additional 8 votes for Mackay on the hearing of protests in three out of 55 polls, while Ewing had a majority of 66. A large number of other polls come up today. Liberal leaders here now claim that Conservatives have only 13 absolutely sure seats out of 54 contests. It is practically certain that declaration day will find between that number and 18 Conservatives elected.

LESS INNOCENT THAN SEEMED

Girl Who Said She Was Deserted Ran Away From Detroit Institution.

FATHER SENDS FOR HER

Helen Goleneski, the pretty 12-year-old Polish girl of Cleveland, who was brought to this city Saturday night after having been apparently deserted by her uncle at Chatham, admitted to Inspector Sanders today that her story involving her uncle in Detroit was not true. She now states that she ran away from an institution in Detroit which she called the Orphans' Home.

Her story about her home in Cleveland was quite correct, however. She gave her address as 3515 East Fifty-fifth street, Cleveland, and Inspector Sanders communicated by wire with her father there. He received a reply this morning to send her to Cleveland via the Lake Shore and Michigan route of the Grand Trunk. Arrangements had been made for her transportation. The inspector accompanied her to the train at 11:45 this morning, and saw her safely started on her journey in charge of the conductor.

Did Not Know Man.
How she got on the train to come to Chatham is still puzzling the authorities. She now claims that she got on the train with a man whom she did not know. She still sticks to her story about falling asleep and waking up to find herself alone after leaving Chatham. She thought that she was on a train going to Milwaukee.

Indian Attempts to Break Jail at Lucan

John Schyler, an Indian, living near Lucan, was brought to the county jail on Monday afternoon by County Constable Butler, and will serve a sentence of three months. Schyler was arrested on Saturday afternoon for being drunk and raising a disturbance on the streets of that village, and when he was locked up he attempted to escape from the Lucan jail. He was sentenced by Police Magistrate C. W. Hawkshaw.

BEAUTIFUL YOUNG WOMAN ROBS BRITISH ADMIRALTY

Agent of Some Foreign Power Takes Important Naval Data in Hands of Winston Churchill as Well as $2,500 in Cash Belonging to First Lord.

[Canadian Press.]
New York, April 22.—A special cable to the New York American from London says: Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, it is learned today, has been the victim of a most daring and sensational robbery, in which a beautiful and mysterious young woman is suspected as the possible foreign agent of some foreign power. By the theft of the first lord of the admiralty not only losses of $2,500 in money, but highly important confidential naval data, such as might be eagerly sought as of great value to any nation not too friendly with Great Britain.

TWO LONDON RAILWAY EMPLOYEES SOUGHT FOR THEFT OF ENGINE

Alleged to Have Wrecked Locomotive in Guelph Yards When They Took a Dangerous "Joy Ride" on Sunday.

Two C. P. R. men from London are being sought as perpetrators of the theft of an engine at Brock Junction Sunday, as the result of which another freight engine was hurled into a ditch and damaged seriously. The authorities have a special detective at work in the city on the case at the present time, and it is said that two men have been detained, one at Guelph and one at Toronto, and that the London men are still being sought.

The engine was taken from the siding at Brock Junction. The station agent and watchman saw the engine pulled out of the siding and rush along the line. The men in the engine, of whom there are believed to have been four, took the engine to Moffatt Station, and then proceeded to the Guelph yards.

All Jumped to Safety.
The second freight engine stood on the line, and the "joy riders," apparently unfamiliar with the intricacies of running a locomotive, were unable to avoid a collision. The standing engine was thrown in the ditch. The crew of the freight engine saw the engine coming and jumped to safety, and the London men and the two others also threw themselves out of the cab when they saw a collision was impending. Damages of $800 was caused.

BACK DOWN WHEN TOLD TO MAKE AN AFFIDAVIT

Those Who Entered Complaint Against Mr. William Moore Fail to Appear—Mr. Moore Will Be Appointed.

Mr. William Moore was on Monday notified that his name would go before the city council for the position of deputy returning officer in the May municipal elections.

LLOYD GEORGE MUST RAISE THIRTY-SEVEN MILLIONS

[Canadian Press.]
London, April 22.—Cancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd George, in introducing the budget of the British Government in the House of Commons this afternoon, told the country that while he could not remit any taxes he expected not to pull through without levying new imposts. This, he said, was in spite of the fact that the budget showed an expenditure of upwards of $975,000,000 and he was faced with the necessity of finding the sum of $37,500,000 more than the revenue had brought him during the fiscal year just closed.

LITTLE GIRL DEAD MOTHER BADLY BURNED

Velma Allenby's Clothes Caught While She Was Playing About Bonfire.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Dresden, April 22.—Velma, the 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Allenby, died here Monday as a result of burns received by playing near a bonfire on Saturday. The little girl was terribly burned about the head and limbs, and only lived about 24 hours after the accident. The mother's arms were badly burned in her attempts to smother the flames.

DOES GRAND TRUNK MEAN BUSINESS AT WELLINGTON STREET?

Railway Surveyors, Again at Work in Block Between York and King Streets, Give Rise to Station Story.

Surveyors have again been at work in the block between York and King streets and east of Wellington street. Some time ago the property as far east as the Thompson residence was looked over for the second time by men with theodolites, and conjectures as to the intention have been made for weeks by residents of the properties through which they have been going.

A Railway Survey.
"I think that it is a railway survey of some kind, although I am not absolutely certain," said Engineer F. W. Farncombe this morning. "They are outside men at any rate, and it is likely that one of the railways is making the survey."

That the Grand Trunk intends to choose this property as a site for a new station is believed by a number of those interested.

Won't Reveal Intentions.
"They want to have the new depot opposite the Federal Square, and they are preparing plans for the directors' meeting to be held soon in England," said one of the property owners. "I saw one of the surveyors and he admitted he was an outside man. He would not reveal the reason he was here. I do not know why anyone else would be looking over the property."

Those who own property in the part of the block which has been gone over hope to hear something definite in the matter before long.

HANDSOME STORE FOR J. H. CHAPMAN SOON UNDER WAY

Three Smaller Shops To Be Consolidated Into Imposing Emporium.

The appearance of the retail district of London will be greatly improved by the proposed alterations to the building now occupied by J. H. Chapman & Co. and purchased by that firm last year.

Since the removal of the company to the building, two stores have been occupied by the Chapman Company, and a store in the centre occupied by Mr. Neil Cooper. The latter has vacated his premises, and Messrs. McBride & Gilbert, architects, have been requested by Mr. Chapman to prepare plans for consolidating the three stores into one commodious establishment. This object will be attained by removing the present dividing brick walls.

$5,000 BOND TO SECURE RELEASE OF PRIVATE MOIR

Citizen Writes Minister of Justice Offering to Guarantee Good Behavior.

Claims Crime Was Blameable to Drink and Unguarded Rifles.

A well-known citizen of London has written the Minister of Justice, Hon. Mr. Doherty, offering to give a bond for the good behavior after his release of Private William Moir, who was sentenced to life imprisonment for killing Sergeant Lloyd at Wolsely Barracks some years ago.

The citizen has offered to put up the sum of $5,000, to be forfeited, if at any time Moir should fail to keep the peace, or to become intoxicated.

CHapel BUILT BY HURON STUDENTS WITH OWN HANDS

Buy Old Cottage, Salvage the Lumber and Practice Carpentry.

Expected Entire Cost Will Not Be Greater Than $1,500.

Manual training is not usually included in the curriculum of theological institutions, but during the past year the students attending Huron College have been studying carpentry with remarkable success. Supervised by Principal Waller, the young preachers-to-be have almost completed a chapel extending northward from the main building, that for expert construction and skillful workmanship would do credit to a professional contractor.

Got Lumber Cheap.
About a year ago it was discovered that a property owner on a nearby street had a substantial frame cottage that he wished to have removed. He offered the structure for a trifling sum to anyone who would take it away. As a source of lumber supply at low cost this afforded an excellent opportunity, and the students immediately started work dismantling the house. That was a year ago, and now the timbers have been rebuilt into the framework of what when finished will be one of the prettiest little chapels in the country.

Some Contract Work.
The external brick work, the plastering within, and the shingling only remain to be done. The shingling will be the work of the students, while the remainder will be done under contract. In June the chapel will be ready for worship. For a long time the present little chapel at the college has been far from adequate. Thirty students and the professors have been offering up prayers daily in a small room not large enough to seat twenty persons comfortably. The new chapel will seat eighty or more students, and it is estimated that it will not cost more than $1,500.

BECK TRIES TO FRUSTRATE HOCKEN IN SCHEME TO GIVE SINGLE FARES TO WORKMEN

Mayor of Toronto Sought to Buy Street Railways So That Two Fares Would Not Be Charged—Controller Says Bill Will Pass.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Toronto, April 22.—Adam Beck's prestige is on the wane in Toronto. The workmen of the city are beginning to realize that he is ready to go to almost any end to further his hydro-electric scheme, and to keep under cover the fact that the Government is paying money for electric energy from Col. Green and his company than any other company pays at the Falls. That is said to be one of the reasons that he is so bitterly opposing the purchase of the Toronto Electric Company's holdings in this city, and fighting even his compatriots in this city.

Cut Out Extra Fares.
Mayor Hocken, who looked to office, and long before that, always told the workmen of this city that when made chief magistrate he would endeavor to do something for the working people. It was with this end in view that he and Controller McCarthy entered into negotiations with Mr. R. J. Fleming to purchase the holdings of the company in this city. He thought that in that way he would be able to give to the workmen a single fare ride to any part of the city. As it is now the Toronto railway only runs to certain points in the city, and thousands of workmen, who live far from out, have to transfer to the York radial lines and pay an extra fare, because the company, although a subsidiary line of the Toronto company, does not honor its transfers.

Buy Both Lines.
It was Mayor Hocken's idea to purchase both lines and give the workmen a single fare to any part of the city on account of the distance at which houses have to be built here now.

It is said that all this was explained to Hon. Adam Beck, but that he could not see it in that way, and although the "powers that be" in this city had come together and tried to push up the trouble between Controller Hocken and Hon. Adam Beck, it is still definitely said here that Adam Beck threatened to resign from the Government and stump the city against the move that Mr. Hocken is making for the workmen.

The question is being discussed on all sides and the workmen are not at all backward in saying what they think.

Expects Bill to Pass.
Controller McCarthy, when interviewed, was reticent. He claimed, however, that he thought that a doubt the bill would go through the Legislature when it comes up this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

"Do you think Mr. Beck was afraid that the price the hydro-electric commission is paying for power would be shown to be considerably higher than private companies are paying, and that the city of Toronto could sell cheaper than the hydro commission, by virtue of the contract, which the Toronto Electric Company has with the Electric Commission?"

Great Belgian Strike Ends A Win For Workingmen

Brussels, April 22.—Premier Charles De Broqueville, announced this afternoon in the Chamber of Deputies that the Government had accepted with an unimportant amendment, the resolution introduced by P. Masson, the Liberal leader, providing for a compromise.

This means that the strike has come to an end.

According to information obtained from an authoritative source the premier and other members of the cabinet will yield during the session of the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon, and accept the arrangement suggested by the Liberal leader, providing that the equalization of the parliamentary franchise shall be immediately taken under consideration, in the event of the committee now dealing with the provincial and communal franchises evolving a plan improving on the present method.

Clericals Too Strong.
King Albert conferred for a long time with Premier Charles De Broqueville today, and it is understood that he agreed to settle the strike by making concessions to the workers, who complain of the system by which persons enjoying higher incomes or having a superior education are given supplementary votes. The workers assert that these extra votes would have swamped the votes of the parliamentary electors, and have permitted the Clerical party in power without interruption for over 20 years.

Natural Gas Men Here In Interests of Probosed Deal

Representatives of the gas merger, which is making an effort to gain control of the natural gas fields of Western Ontario were in the city today, but maintained silence as to the project when approached by The Advertiser.

What mission brought them here could not be learned, but it is understood they have some significance with the company's plan to supply London with natural gas.

Use Income Tax to Raise Revenue

[Canadian Press.]
Washington, D. C., April 22.—Presenting the complex Democratic tariff revision bill to the House today, the Democrats of the ways and means committee recommended a radical adjustment of the entire fiscal policy of the nation. They proposed to make an income tax the means of adjusting the funds to be raised by taxation to correspond with necessities, for Government expenditures.

Royal Grenadiers of Toronto to Spend Twenty-Fourth Here

The Royal Grenadiers, Toronto, one of the leading regiments in Canada, propose visiting London on Monday, May 20, according to a communication received by Mayor Graham this morning. An invitation was not sent, but the local regiments will make arrangements for their entertainment. Capt. H. C. Becher, of the Seventh Regiment, stated that the Seventh had been considering holding a field day at the lakeside on May 24, but that their plans had not been definitely fixed.

"British Rights" Subject of Lecture by P. St. Clair Aldridge

Mr. P. St. Clair Aldridge delivered an interesting talk on British rights at the Presbyterian Church, Chelsea, Monday evening. He reviewed the events in English history leading up to the famous battle of Runnymede, after which the English barons forced King John to sign Magna Carta. Mr. George S. Gibbons, J. C., explained to the audience the provisions of the great charter, and showed all that it meant to the nation from that time to the present time. His remarks were listened to with great interest.

Allies To Accept Terms of Powers

London, Tuesday, April 22.—The allies have at last formally replied to the powers in regard to the latter's proffered offer of mediation with Turkey. They accepted the terms of the powers without any absolute conditions.

They ask, however, that the powers shall agree to the principle of the payment of an indemnity, and reserve the right to discuss with the representatives of the powers the future of the Aegean Islands and the boundaries of Thrace and Albania.

The rumor printed in the Neue Freie Presse of Vienna, that the powers had sent to Montenegro in regard to the bombardment of Scutari is not confirmed.

The Cettinje correspondent of the Times by indirect route, telegraphs that the Montenegrin Government has stopped all communication between Montenegro and the outside world. The mails have been suspended and no telegrams are being accepted. It is believed that the decree of isolation is connected with negotiations for the surrender of Scutari.

GOVT. CONTRACTOR WAS A CONTRIBUTOR

Sir James Whitney Admits That Taylor Had a Claim, Having Contributed Towards Campaign Fund of the Conservative Party.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, April 21.—In the Legislature yesterday afternoon Sir James Whitney admitted that a member of the Government had received a contribution from a Government contractor. This is the upshot of the public accounts committee on Friday last regarding the settlement of the Taylor, Scott & Co.'s claim in respect of contract for Central Prison labor. On Friday afternoon Mr. Proudfoot (Centre Huron), had pressed the performance of the majority on the committee on the attention of the House, and elicited a promise from Sir James Whitney that a statement would be forthcoming today.

Whitney Admits It.

Without making either apology or excuse, the Prime Minister said that the Provincial Secretary had informed him that Mr. Taylor had offered a subscription three years before, and which he had accepted, but he also expressed his regret at having done so, knowing, as he did, the rule of the Government against it.

The record of his interview with Mr. Taylor, Sir James explained, Mr. Taylor called on him about three years ago. He could not fix the time, and said he had a claim against the Government. "I am not sure whether he told me what it was—but that the Government did not seem inclined to pay it, that he was entitled to better treatment for what he had done, and mentioned the fact that he had given Mr. Hanna a subscription to an election fund previous to the election of 1910. He grew quite warm over the statement of what he called his wrongs, so much so that I interrupted and told him that what he was saying sounded very much like intimidation and that it would be useless for him to try to intimidate me. (Conservative applause.) He then went away."

Can't Remember.

"My recollection of everything that took place is not very distinct," continued the Prime Minister. To tell the truth, Mr. Speaker, until lately the matter did not occur to my memory. Later on I saw Mr. Hanna. He explained what the claim was and referred to a subscription which Taylor had offered three years before. The Premier then quoted letters by the deputy attorney-general that Taylor's claim was much exaggerated, but he had a claim for some value, and was entitled to a flat."

"I want to say this. My statement

ASKS MORE LIGHT ON PROPOSED ROAD

But Govt. Declines to Investigate as Asked by the Liberals.

ROWELL WANTS REPORT

Time Has Passed, He Shows, For Giving Huge Grants to Railways.

Toronto, April 22.—A determined attempt was made in the Legislature by the Liberal Opposition to secure better terms for the extension of provincial benefits of the Lake Huron and Northern Ontario Railway. On the second reading of the bill Mr. Rowell moved by way of amendment the six months' hold, and called upon the Government to have the entire proposition first investigated by the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission from the standpoint of public interest, and whether the extension should not be undertaken by the Government. Mr. Rowell also proposed that the director of forestry report upon the timber area affected, the best means of utilizing and conserving them, and the probable effect of the construction of the railway upon any scheme of conservation that might be adopted.

Labor With Liberals.

The debate continued until early in the morning, when the motion was defeated, fifty to eighteen, Mr. Studholme voting with the Opposition.

The principles involved in the scheme, said Mr. Rowell: One was the opening up, development and settlement of the newer parts of the province; the other was the conservation of natural resources of the province. The first fault he had to find was that the bill had been delayed so long, and had only been presented to the House in the last days of the session. There was also a lack of detailed information regarding the resources, extent and possibilities of the district to be traversed—whether it was an agricultural, mineral or timber country.

Dealing with the line of the railway as proposed, Mr. Rowell read from reports to show that the southern portion would run through a district unsuited for agriculture. Purposes, and good land for settlement was not reached until north of the C. P. R., almost in the clay belt. The line of railway ran through the heart of the Mississauga forest reserve, and as soon as construction was begun there would be great danger of fire among the timber. Rather than open up the country where the land was not available for settlement, the Government would do better to conserve the timber assets for future generations.

Refused Discussion.

With regard to the action of the public accounts committee in not permitting Mr. Proudfoot's question to Mr. Taylor regarding campaign contributions and the subsequent rejection of evidence, Sir James said any discussion at present in the House would be irregular and improper. Nothing could be done by the house until a report of some character had been received from the committee.

From the tone of Sir James Whitney's remarks it would seem as if the contention of the Liberals would be sustained by the public accounts committee, which is called to meet on Tuesday morning. The expense of the deputy attorney-general that Taylor's claim was much exaggerated, but he had a claim for some value, and was entitled to a flat."

COULDN'T GET LAUGH FOLLOWING SARA

Cliff Gordon, Comedian, Discouraged at His Failure, Commits Suicide.

[Canadian Press.]

Chicago, April 22.—Cliff Gordon, the comedian, known as "The German Senator," and author of several plays, was found dead in his hotel room last night. He said a few hours before his body was found that anyone who attempted to make an audience laugh after Sara Bernhardt, the noted actress, had made it weep, would die.

Gordon attempted it during an afternoon performance and failed. It seemed to affect him, for he remarked to the manager of the theatre that it was the first time in years that he had failed to produce a laugh among his audience. The people sat in their seats stolid and unresponsive. He said he could not get on and had to quit. Any comedian who tries to follow Bernhardt will die.

The manager, who heard him up, told him to have a rest and try again at the night performance. Gordon left the theatre, still discouraged at the apparent failure of his jokes, and went to his room.

He was not missed until time for his night appearance. The audience was waiting for him, and a hurry call was sent to his hotel. The door of his room was broken open and he was found dead upon the floor.

He had taken a cold cure, and, according to a physician, who judged from the amount left in the vial, had swallowed about 60 grains. This, it was said, with a hot bath, would have produced death. Heart disease is supposed to have been the immediate cause of death.

OTTOMANS DEMORALIZED

Sixteen Thousand Soldiers, Remnants of an Army, in Pitiable State.

[Canadian Press.]

Constantinople, April 22.—The Greeks and the Servians today concluded an agreement with Turkey, similar to that made between Bulgaria and Turkey, by the terms of which hostilities are to be suspended for ten days.

The Greek and Turkish Governments also have agreed to begin the repatriation of Turkish prisoners of war. The first batch of 5,000 has been sent to the Turkish coast of Mesina, in Asia Minor. The conditions of the agreement stipulate that the men must not take part in further military operations and that the Greek transports must not be molested by the Turkish warships.

Vessels have been placed at the disposal of the Turkish Government by Greece for the conveyance of 3,000 Mussulmans, who desire to emigrate from Saloniki to Calanovra in Asia Minor.

MISS WALKER'S ASHES Sent Through Mail

[Canadian Press.]

New York, April 22.—The ashes of Miss Anna J. Walker, who died at the age of 94 years in Pasadena, Cal., were sent across the continent by parcel post and interred yesterday in a cemetery near Boston. The body was cremated, and the dust mailed at her request.

TEAMSTERS' STRIKE ENDS

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, April 21.—The strike of teamsters ended this afternoon at one o'clock. The men go back to work at the following schedule of wages: For newly hired men $17.50 per month, after four months $50.00, after six months $54.00.

Outgoing freight has been little delayed by the strike, but has been delivered to warehouses by private teams, but there is a large accumulation of inward freight piled at the warehouses of the different railroads.

FOREST.

Forest, April 22.—Dr. and Mrs. Treadgold have returned home after spending the last four months in Tampa, Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Howard, Fred and Mrs. Sydney, spent the week-end in Mount Clemens, Mich.

Women to Appear at Bar of House

London, April 21.—Two petitions in favor of woman's suffrage will be presented tomorrow in the House of Commons. Lord Robert Cecil will present the first, which is representative of no fewer than twenty-seven societies in England, Ireland and Wales having woman suffrage as one of their objects. The second will be presented by Mr. Keir Hardie on behalf of the National Women's Labor League and allied societies representing 34,500 working women. Altogether the petitioners will speak on behalf of 100 women. Having been informed by the Speaker that it is in the power of the House to pass a resolution whereby women may be granted permission to appear at the bar of the House the signatories pray that this may be done to enable them to lay before the members the special claim of women to enfranchisement.

Women and Children Trying to Help Farmers With Their Work

Shortage of Men Worst Ever Experienced in This District—Work Has Accumulated Owing to Conditions and Farmers Are Swamped

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Windsor, April 22.—Not in very many years has so much work accumulated upon the farmers' hands as the present spring shows. So much plowing being left undone last fall owing to continuous wet weather; buildings out of repair and fences levelled, the result of Good Friday's windstorm; ditching and spring cleaning for attention, and orchard spraying to be attended to at once, keeps the farmer busy from morning to night.

The fine weather of the past week has, however, caused all else to be laid aside, and seeding started with a will. Add to this the ever deplorable lack of efficient help, or, indeed, help of any description, for almost any kind will be tolerated, and it can readily be seen that the path of the average farmer is not strewn with roses.

Shiftless Laborers.

Even with the need of help not a stone's throw from their doors, there are men who prefer loafing about the street corners, not knowing where the next meal will come from, who appear to prefer this state to farm work with good wages and board.

An occasional member of this brigade makes an attempt, but unless he is allowed to ride the machinery, quitting promptly at 6, that he may leave for home immediately after supper, some other fellow to care for the team worked during the day by him, he does no farming in no good, and falls to return only to collect his pay, looking for an easier job, and even then praying he may not find it.

Women and Children Help.

Meanwhile the farmers, swamped, tries it alone. Boys, girls and an occasional woman, turn out to try to relieve the situation. Where a stable full of cattle has been driven over, and have still to be fed and tended, matters are even more complicated. Yet scarcely a week passes that some farmer's son does not start westward, where he will work under more trying conditions, with fewer comforts, and possibly be no further ahead than had he remained in old Ontario.

he was also without fever. As this was the sixth successive day on which his temperature had not risen above normal, the physicians decided that they would be shortly able to limit their visits to once daily.

Climate conditions evidently influence the Pope's health to a great extent. Today was heavy and cloudy, tending to depress the Pontiff greatly. In spite of this, he was very anxious to resume work. This desire for activity is still the greatest difficulty with which the doctors and attendants have to contend, as they fear that if he is allowed to work as he had been in the habit of doing before his illness a fresh relapse will occur.

Shortly afterwards when the weather became brighter, the Pope declared that he felt much better, and he appeared to be in cheerful spirits.

POPE IS CHEERFUL

And is Anxious to Get Back to His Work and Activities.

Spring-Cleaning

The Human System Needs It.

Mrs. M. Morgan, 411 4th Ave., E., Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I take from one to two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring to purify the blood just as regularly as I do my house-cleaning, and go around light-footed and light-hearted. I believe it is the best blood purifier known."

Hood's Sarsaparilla so combines the purative principles of roots, bark and herbs as to raise them to their highest efficiency, hence its unequalled cures. Get it today. Sold by all druggists everywhere. 100 Doses 11.

LONDON, TUESDAY, APRIL 22.

A GRAVE ADMISSION.

A damaging admission has been made by Sir James Whitney, probably because the facts were about to be disclosed in another quarter.

Sir James acknowledges that Provincial Secretary Hanna was offered and accepted a campaign subscription in 1908 from a firm holding contracts with the Ontario Government.

Taylor, Scott & Co., the firm in question, were at that time, and for some time afterwards, making woodenware at the Central Prison, with prison labor. They had a financial claim against the Government, but were refused by it a flat to enable them to bring the claim into court. At the public accounts committee the other day, Mr. Taylor was asked if he had intended to Sir James Whitney that he would expose a member of the cabinet unless the flat was granted. He refused to answer the question. Sir James now alleges that Mr. Taylor used language that "sounded like intimidation. Whatever passed between them, it is significant that shortly afterwards the Government permitted the claim of Taylor, Scott & Co. to go to arbitration—on the eve of the election of 1911. The arbitrator awarded the firm $21,000.

An ugly word has been sometimes applied to the subscriptions of Government contractors to election funds. Sir James says that Mr. Hanna knew that the acceptance of the Taylor subscription was against the rule of the Ontario Government, and expressed regret at having done so. In Great Britain the atonement would be the minister's resignation. This is not expected, but Sir James can make some amends by removing the gag from the public accounts committee, which has been applied by its chairman, Mr. Ferguson, assisted by Mr. McGarry. Mr. Ferguson has ruled that the questions asked of Mr. Taylor shall be expunged from the official record. It is a dangerous precedent. Will Sir James allow it to stand?

THE LONDON LIBERAL CLUB.

The Liberal Club is making good and increasing use of its handsome new quarters in Hyman Hall. Its activity of late and at present is quite remarkable, and a reflection of the revival of spirits in the Liberal party.

Much the same vigorous life is manifested in other cities, even in places like Toronto, where the faith of Liberalism has mountains to move. Here the Liberals have a peculiar advantage. In a commodious and convenient a citadel. A fine esprit de corps is awakening in the Liberal ranks of London.

The energetic officers of the club have in mind not only to make Liberals feel at home there, but to carry on a Liberal propaganda on instructive lines. Only by constant watchfulness, study and zeal can social and political reform be sustained and reaction prevented. Information and education must be extended. Information is the very life current of freedom, and information is promoted by the growth of a social consciousness and mutual encouragement, such as it is the duty and aim of Liberal clubs to foster.

THE BRITISH COLUMBIA INDIANS.

The Dominion Government has at last decided to appoint a commission for the purpose of investigating the claims of the British Columbia Indians to ownership of lands formerly granted them. This has been a matter of dispute for some time. The British Columbia Government has been endeavoring to transfer the Indians from their reserves, which are wanted ostensibly for settlers. The land policy of the rulers of the Pacific province has been scandalously extravagant, and corporations have benefited far more than the settlers. Now they want to grab the Indian reserves. The old established rule of British fair play towards the natives of the country, and regard for treaty rights, is to give way to the American idea that the Indian has no rights a white man is bound to respect.

Against these un-British methods the Indians appealed some time ago. Sir Wilfrid Laurier promised that their claim should be investigated and justice done. Before he could do anything, however, Mr. Borden came into power, and his friend, Sir Richard McBride, has been strong enough to delay action up to the present. Fortunately, the Indian has some friends, who have not allowed the matter to rest. In urging attention to the claims which they consider just, opposition has been met. It is stated by some of them that Hon. Mr. Crothers, who is acting as Minister of the Interior during the illness of Dr. Roche, was quite prepared to decide the matter in favor of the political ally, Sir Richard McBride, but it is evident that wiser counsels prevailed in the cabinet.

We do not propose to prejudge this case. The Provincial Government has doubtless some reasons to give for its action. But it is only proper that the matter should be carefully investigated, and justice done to both parties.

THE CHIPMAN REPORT.

Citizens must have been convinced by the state of the roads and cellars this spring that a heroic remedy could be no longer postponed. Engineer Chipman's report should seal their determination to carry the storm sewerage bylaw without further needless delay. Under present conditions the paving and improvement of streets are retarded, building operations are impeded, vehicular traffic is made almost impossible in some sections, and public health is menaced. The latter danger, says Mr. Chipman, is increased where, to relieve surface flooding, connections have been made into the sanitary sewers, the sewage being forced back into the cellars and basements by storm water.

Fortunately, London is drained by natural watersheds, and there is no difficult engineering problem. Mr. Chipman puts the cost of a storm water system at $392,000, which is half the original estimate. His plans are submitted in detail and there can be no misdirection of money and labor if they are followed.

WHAT THE BELGIAN STRIKERS WANT.

The Belgian general strike has been more general than expected. Over half a million men have quit work. In a country of less than 8,000,000 persons, the result must be paralyzing to trade and industry.

The statement in dispatches that the object of the strike is manhood suffrage does not tell the whole truth. The present electoral system, established by the reform bill of 1893, gives the vote to every citizen of 25 years of age, and supplementary votes to every elector fulfilling either of the following conditions:

One supplementary vote given to every voter having children and paying 5 francs ($1) contribution to the state.
One supplementary vote to every voter who has 100 francs per annum income from state securities.

Two supplementary votes to voters who have a certificate of superior education.
Two supplementary votes to voters who have occupied a public function of certain importance.

No voter can have more than three votes—his 25 years suffrage qualification and two supplementary. In 1905 there were 1,581,643 electors on the lists entitled to vote in the election of the House of Representatives. They disposed of 2,467,966 votes. There were 961,855 electors with one vote each; 353,271 with two votes each; and 266,323 with three votes each.

The strike is aimed at the abolition of all these supplementary votes, whether for "father of family," property, or educational qualifications. The strikers want manhood suffrage (one man, one vote), at the age of 21. This already prevails in the United States, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and in some of the countries of Europe.

So it is Mr. Hanna that takes up the collection?

It is possible the Ottawa Government may learn that the closure will not close.

A storm water system is a necessity. Electrification is a luxury. Take your choice, Mr. Taxpayer.

Isn't Toronto just a trifle too big to be run by the Hon. Adam Beck? Toronto Globe.

Even his Toronto admirers are beginning to discover Mr. Beck's "rule or ruin" methods.

The Toronto Star says that according to the Toronto Telegram, Mr. Beck is a sort of Canadian angel of German descent. This is a slight exaggeration. Mr. Beck is merely a Canadian of German descent.

The Ottawa Journal contends that the Prince Albert land deal, by which a party which got for nothing last year 73 acres in the city of Prince Albert now valued at $373,000, is not a proper matter for discussion in the House of Commons! What has become of the Journal's morals? Have they become involved in the debate on parliament hill?

MR. BECK'S WORSHIPER.

He (Mr. Beck) has been spoken of by the Telegram as if he were not a mere man at all, but a sort of Canadian angel of German descent. The Telegram has made it appear that Adam Beck does not touch the ground when he walks, that he does not need air when he breathes, that he is engaged in the manufacture of cigar boxes, not for profit, but for fun, and that there has been no man in his class for nineteen hundred years.

SO IT SEEMS.

Stella—No man is indispensable.
Bella—But some man is.

DREADNOUGHTS BY CLOSURE.

Mr. Borden has come to the conclusion that the Canadian navy bill cannot be passed in the House of Commons without the closure, and he is to amend the standing orders for this week. It seems a pretty stringent plan, including, as it does, a time limit of 20 minutes for speeches. That is a Canadian affair. But it is hardly a pleasant augury for the promotion of imperial unity, when the first result of the proposed closure is to provoke a domestic crisis of the most acute description. Another equally significant piece of news is that it is now extremely unlikely that the Senate, in which the Liberals have a majority, will accept the bill, even if Mr. Borden succeeds in pushing it through the other House. It is clear that the more the bill is arranged, the more the advantages of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's alternative are approved in Canada. It avoids constitutional problems both here and in the Dominion, Mr. Borden's plan weakens the already imperfect control of the British Parliament over armaments, and withdraws from the Canadians the management of their own ships. Obviously there is no element of permanence here, but rather an ample promise of those future opportunities for friction which wise statesmanship seeks to avoid. In his perception of this Sir Wilfrid Laurier evidently believes that he is supported by the Senate, too. Mr. Borden will have no alternative but to retreat.

THOS. CAMPBELL, A POET WHO ONCE HAD A WIDER VOGUE

[By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.]

An English critic has recently remarked that Thomas Campbell had a far greater vogue than Wordsworth, his contemporary. Today, however, little of Campbell has survived, while Wordsworth has taken his place as possibly fourth in rank among the chief glories of English song, being surpassed only by Chaucer, Shakespeare and Milton. Everyone is familiar with Campbell's poems, "Ye Mariners of England," "Hohen Linder," "Lochiel's Warning," and the "Exile of Erin," but I venture to say that probably few of my readers know of him as the author of "The Pleasures of Hope." And yet this was the appellation by which he went in his own age, and it is said that the author of "The Pleasures of Hope" became terribly tired of it, too. But it was the "Hope" poem that first brought him fame. It was an April hazard by the young Edinburgh poet in 1799, and instantly won him recognition in his own country and in England. I have an early edition possibly a third or fourth, published in Edinburgh in 1811, and illustrated by those handsome, gloomy steel etchings which were once so fashionable.

"The Pleasures of Hope" is written in the heroic couplet, and is studded with those personified abstractions in which poets once delighted. Mercy, Truth, Fancy, Hope, Reason, Oppression, Hunger, Fury are sprinkled copiously throughout the poem, and dashes and exclamations mark it in abundance. Although the thought is pretty thin, there are several lines in Campbell's maiden effort which have passed into the stock quotation class; lines with which all are familiar, but which the majority of those who quote them would be hard put to it if asked to name the author. The most famous couplet occurs in the opening of the poem:

"Tis distance lends enchantment to the view,
And robes the mountain in its azure hue,
An equally well-known passage closes with the lines:

Hope for a season, bade the world
farewell,
And freedom shriek'd—as Kosciuszko fell!

Here is another neat couplet which will still find a responsive echo in many hearts:

The world was sad!—the garden was a wild;
And Man, the hermit, sigh'd—till Woman, smiling!

And when he speaks of "angel-visits few and far between," or exclaims:

What millions died—that Caesar might have great! we recognize old friends again.

Campbell was greatly interested in the American wilderness. Many of his relatives had gone out to the new world from Argyleshire, and the western highlands, and in his verse he is fond of referring to the noble red man, the tropical vegetation, and even the tigers of New York State. The following curious passage opens with a line which seems prophetic of this automobile age in which we live, but it soon lands us in the imaginary jungle along Lake Erie:

Come, bright Improvement! on the car
of Time,
And rule the spacious world from
clime to clime;
Thy handmaid arts shall every wild explore,
Trace every wave, and culture every shore.
On Erie's banks, where tigers steal
along,
And the dead Indian chants a dismal
song,
Where human fiends on midnight
ramps walk,
And bathe in brains the murderous tomahawk;
There shall the flock on thymy pasture
stray,
And shepherds dance at summer's opening day.

'Tis a sweet mixture of tigers, savages and shepherds, and needs only the interpretation of that "car of Time" as a limousine to make it complete.

WINNIPEG FIRM ACTIVE

More than a thousand lots are being laid out one-half mile east of Pottersburg on Dundas street at the present time.

Engineer F. W. Farncombe at present has men engaged in subdividing a tract into 750 lots for a Winnipeg loan company, and there are two other subdivisions in the vicinity.

These properties are to be placed on the market this spring, and there is every indication of unprecedented real estate activity in the city.

One company has been negotiating with the street railway company, offering to pay part of the cost of extension to the new district, and nothing has been concluded as yet.

BRYAN PLANNING PEACE MOVEMENT

Will Recommend to Congress Series of World Wide Treaties.

FAVORS ARBITRATION

Would Also Propose That Nations Agree to Limit Armaments.

[Canadian Press.]
Washington, D. C., April 22.—Secretary Bryan's preliminary plans for a world-wide peace movement, probably will be laid informally before the Senate foreign relations committee tomorrow. Mr. Bryan has been at work for some time upon a crystallization of his ideas for international peace, and it is understood that he is now prepared to recommend a series of world-wide treaties, for the submission of all disputes to arbitration and a limitation upon armaments.

The unusual course of discussing his peace plans first with members of the Senate committee has been chosen, it is understood, to pay the way in the Senate for any subsequent treaties that may be introduced. While members of the Senate generally favored the arbitration treaties negotiated with Great Britain and France during the former President Taft's administration, these conventions were practically defeated because the Senate would not accept the provision for the submission of all disputes to arbitration.

It is understood that Mr. Bryan has in mind the arbitration of all disputes. The secretary's suggestions as to the limitation of armament, it is said, will include the proposal that when vital questions have been submitted to a commission of inquiry, neither country party to the dispute shall in any way increase its armament or make further preparation for war until the commission has reported its findings.

KATHERINE LESLIE'S HOME CHAT

THE ARTIST IN NEEDLEWORK.

The woman who takes to art needlework in a country like ours must prepare herself for keenest disappointment in the monetary returns which her work will bring. If she has not a clientele which is cultivated enough to estimate her work artistically, and to pay for it accordingly, how is she to gain the wherewithal to live? In vain are her years of study at Kensington, or the schools of art and design abroad, if the people who order her work are not dowered with the gift of artistic perception and appreciation. To make a special design for table or altar cloths, to think out the design in all its detail of form and color, so that its suitability to the purpose is perfect, and then, with fingers quick to obey the idea of the brain, to carry the whole to lovely completion, is work that calls for imagination, knowledge of design and color, for time, patience, and skill, in one of the most ancient and most beautiful of the arts. Yet the needle. But it seems that women, accustomed to the work of machines that turn out table and altar cloths by the hundreds in a few minutes, as well as curtains, portieres, etc., accustomed to ordering such things across the counters, are with difficulty brought to see that a great gulf yawns between the creative work of the artist and the mechanical outpourings of the machine. The machine turns out its thousands, the artist her one. Her work is a thing of skill and taste, painfully yet joyfully wrought out, stitch by stitch, taking days and weeks, and sometimes years to complete. And when finished it is a thing of beauty, an addition to the art which is so essential to the life of high civilization to which we aspire. Yet how shall we encourage such art amongst us if we are not willing to give the artist even bare living prices in return for such beauty? And it would seem that we are not willing! I heard of an artist in needlework—a very gifted artist indeed—who had a beautiful design for a table cloth, and her hands after it had been ordered by a lady because of the price—which was $20 only. She was a very wealthy woman, her husband, too, a man considered as a patron of the arts. Yet she refused the table cloth because she considered $20 too much!

PROBLEMS OF THE FAIR SEX SOLVED BY CYNTHIA GREY

Wants to Reciprocate.

Dear Miss Grey: Having received so many helps from your interesting column, and having never given any help, I am sending grape-fruit marmalade recipe, which I have always found reliable. Hoping Mrs. J. C. H. will find it satisfactory and timely.

This recipe gives the spelling of grape-fruit different from yours, but "I tell the tale as 'twas told to me."

MIDDLESEX READER.

Two large or thin, medium grape-fruit, two lemons, eight pounds granulated sugar, eight large cups water. Wash thoroughly and dry the grape-fruit and lemons. Then with a sharp knife peel off the skin of each. Cut this skin into as narrow strips as possible and about one-half inch long and put into a good sized granite basin. Then cut fruit and lemons, very fine, into the basin also. Put the pieces into a cup of cold water. Add the eight cups of water to the contents of the basin and allow all to stand twenty-four hours. Then add the water the skins have been soaked in, and boil three-quarters of an hour, and turn into the basin for twenty-four hours. Then boil for three-quarters of an hour again, after adding the eight pounds of sugar and stirring carefully. Then bottle. This is delicious.

A—It certainly sounds delicious and although several recipes for this sweet have been given, I publish this also. I delight to note the spirit of helpfulness which appears to permeate the hearts of many of my readers.

Timely Tip.

My Dear Miss Grey: Having seen in last night's paper your kind letter informing me that "Iris" had been so kind as to send me a cure for thick neck, I am sending you my address and thanking you and "Iris" for your kindness.

I am sending a method by which a white Milan straw hat may be nicely cleaned. Take common salts of lemon, dissolve in boiling water, and apply evenly with a soft brush. When it has been treated with this rinse off with cold water and dry in the air. Renew the gloss of the straw by brushing with the white of an egg. A clean felt surface should be used under the hat if it has a flat brim, and to keep the latter from curling up lay wax paper over the crown and place weights on it. Hoping this may be useful to some reader, I am,

Now take a cupful of the dough out of the moulding board and add as little flour as possible to keep from sticking to hands and board. Cut into shape, place in greased pan and sprinkle granulated sugar on top.

These cookies may be dropped from a teaspoon instead of being rolled. Place them about three inches apart and press into cookie shape. They must be baked in what is termed a "quick oven."

Hickory Nut Jumbles.

One cup of butter, one cup of sugar, two eggs, two cups of flour, one-half cup of hickory nut meats, one teaspoon of baking powder.

Cream, butter and sugar, add eggs one at a time, beating each into the sugar and butter mixture. Add flour into which baking powder has been sifted and nut meats at the same time. This will be a very stiff dough, and press into as regular shape as possible. I find dropped cookies, even if the shape is not regular nor the sizes even, just as effective in appeasing the small boy's appetite, and this method saves much time and labor.

Try this next time.

On Adam's Peak, in Ceylon, at about 7,000 feet above sea level, there is a large flat stone, on which is the imprint of the human foot. Mohammedans believe this to be the place that Adam first stepped, on being expelled from the Garden of Eden. In close proximity to this are the tea gardens of the world-famous Nuwara Eliya district, where "Salada" Tea is grown.

"SWEET SIXTEEN" FROCKS FROM PARIS SHOPS MAYBELLE MORTIMER SENDS FROM PARIS THESE CHARMING PHOTOGRAPHS OF GIRLISH COSTUMES.

BY MAYBELLE MORTIMER.

Paris, April 17.—Never before were there such pretty and dainty designs in frocks for the young girl. They have none of the striking notes which mark the attire of the matron, but are as simple as "sweet sixteen." What could be prettier than the checked cotton voile in cool gray and white with its sash of dark green and its touches of embroidery in dark green on waist and sleeves. This dress has a simulated Russian blouse, with a cord of the green about the collar, but if you wish it to be a "really truly" tub gown this cord can be left off without changing the effect. No young girl wears a collar of any kind even on morning frocks. For evening the black accordion plaited skirt with its little blouse of pale blue embroidered with silver is particularly youthful besides having a most stunning effect. The waist-line on this costume is slightly raised, although I think the "normal" waistline is seen more on the young girls' dresses than it is on the matrons. Another girlish costume is of white accordion plaited charmeuse and over it is a dainty tunic of crepe de chine. The photographs I am sending tell the whole story of how these gowns are made, and you may be sure they are up to the minute in style and good taste.

Abscessing of tonsils is called quinsy. Such abscesses usually break into the throat. When a person has had three attacks of quinsy it is usually proof enough that the tonsils are of little further service. A physician's advice on removing them should be followed.

Missed Once Only In Three Years

Mrs. C. W. Belton, Secretary of the Women's Canadian Club Holds This Record.

Mrs. F. P. Betts, president of the Women's Canadian Club, occupied the chair at the meeting held in the Normal School on Friday afternoon last, this being the first meeting held since Mrs. Betts' return from the south a fortnight ago. In a few remarks before introducing the speaker of the occasion, Miss Grace Blackburn, Mrs. Betts expressed her pleasure at once more being back in London and able to attend the meetings of the club. She made mention of the absence through illness of Mrs. C. W. Belton, secretary, and stated that this was the first time in three years that Mrs. Belton had missed a meeting.

There was a large attendance of club members present.

ANCIENT GOWN IN STYLE.

A net gown with the characteristics of similar gown is 1890 is new. One of these frocks has a three-ruffled skirt, pointed satin bodice and a bow of ribbon with an end at the back. The skirt is scant and clears the floor by two inches to show the white stockings and black slippers.

WHEN THE DOWNY CHICK STEPS OUT OF THE SHELL

What To Do and How To Do It.

[By Mrs. Kate V. Saint Maur, Noted Poultry Expert.]

If you are going to hatch early chickens in an incubator to catch an early broiler market, a good brooder which is heated is indispensable. If, however, you are only going to start hatching in early spring to a fireless brooder may be resorted to. It is cheaper.

Until two years ago I always used an outdoor brooder which was heated by a lamp. Then I tried a fireless brooder during April and May, when the weather was settled.

The outdoor brooders are weather-proof machines which need no shelter even in the severest weather. Most of them are made with two compartments, a chamber with a round cover which is heated by a lamp and an outer compartment for exercise and feeding. These machines are supposed to hold 100 chickens, but I found 75 quite enough to care for. Even that number should be decreased to 50 the second week and 25 the fourth week if the chickens are to be confined entirely to the brooder.

Before you put your chicks into the compartment in which the hover is situated have it heated to 98 degrees. Be sure to keep it at this temperature for the first three days and nights. Also the door to the outer compartment must be kept shut for the same length of time.

On the fourth day the door may be opened and the chicks allowed to run in the outer compartment, but the room in which the brooder stands must be warm and the little downy ones should be watched towards bedtime, for they are apt to remain in the outer compartment and become chilled. They must be closely scrutinized until they learn the way in and out of their sleeping place.

After your chicks are three weeks old, the door of the outer compartment may be opened so that they can run on the floor of the room. Here they must have plenty of scratching material, and if the weather is fine and mild it will do them good to let them have a run outside for an hour or two in the middle of the day. Do not, however, be in a hurry to harden them before they are five weeks old, as it is a risky experiment.

The great aim with young birds is to develop them as quickly as possible, for to get the best price a broiler must grow quickly and be plump. It should not be thin and lank, as is often the case with spring chickens that run loose on the farm. As the natural tendency is to make growth and not flesh, the fattening of young birds is almost an art.

All newly-hatched birds should have nothing to eat for the first 36 hours. After that a mixture of small seeds and cracked grain may constitute their whole diet for ten days. Their food should be one quart, each, of finely cracked corn, bran and hulled oats mixed with the same quantity of golden millet, rape, Kafir corn and very sharp fine gravel, crushed charcoal and finely chopped clover hay. After mixing this thoroughly you should pass it through a fine sieve to insure there being no large pieces of corn or oats on which the babies may choke.

For the first three days of their feeding put a small pan filled with the mixture in each corner of the brooder compartment. Instead of water fill a small drinking fountain with milk which has been scalded and cooled. Leave this food with the chickens for fifteen minutes at morning noon and again at 3 o'clock.

Two small-sized fountains especially made for brooders cost 18 cents each. If it is not convenient to buy one of these turn a small cup or jelly glass upside down in a deep saucer and pour the milk around it. In this way there will be only a small quantity of milk around the edge and the babies cannot possibly get into it. After the chicks are able to walk access to the outer compartment mixed grain should be scattered on cut hay, or whatever is used to cover the floor so that the little creatures will have to hunt for it.

"How to Fatten Poultry For the Market," by Mrs. Saint Maur, in the next lesson, will interest everybody.—Editor.

The newest French boots have borders of rich brocade, which should be repeated in hat or costume. Combinations of white serge skirts, with colored cloth coats, promise to be in favor this spring.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

MOUNT BRIDGES

Miss Jean McPhee, honor-graduate of McDonald Institute, Guelph, will demonstrate bread and pastry-making to the ladies of Mount Bridges in the town hall on April 28, showing how easy it is to make the nicest and lightest bread in four hours; also showing easy methods of pastry-making. Every lady in the town and surrounding country should take advantage of this demonstration, and hear some of the latest and most approved methods of cooking. Meeting to open at 2:30 p.m. sharp, under the auspices of the Women's Institute. Members and non-members heartily welcome.

The Women's Institute will hold its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Clark, on Thursday, April 24, at 2:30 o'clock. The subject will be "Bulbs, Plants and Garden Seed." Roll call to be responded to by quotations from Wordsworth. There will be the usual discussion on the question drawn. Come prepared. All the ladies are cordially invited to attend.

The annual meeting of Beechwood branch of Women's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. Eph. Stoner, Fernhill, on Friday, May 2, at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Rose will give a paper on the life of David Livingstone. Election of officers and reports of year's work will form part of the business. All ladies cordially invited.

"DAD" STEWART IN LONDON SEEKING JOB UNDER DENEAU

Charlie Murphy May Laugh If Johnny Evers Makes Good While Frank Chance and Joe Tinker Fail, BUT---

The summer of 1913 may be pleasant for owner Charlie Murphy of the Chicago Cubs, and then it may be decidedly unpleasant. Much of Murphy's baseball reputation is staked on the outcome of the year's campaign.

If Johnny Evers comes across and makes a big showing with the Cubs, Murphy will be in a position to receive compliments upon his shrewdness in changing managers.

If Frank Chance fails notably with New York, more praise will be coming Murphy's way.

If Joe Tinker is unable to satisfy Cincinnati fans, Murphy will have a perfect right to remark, "I told you so." The odds, however, are somewhat against Murphy.

Chance has little material in New York, apparently. Baseball men do not expect him to cut a very wide swath with the team this year.

Lots of improvement may be made with the Yankees. Chance is sure to do better and will come in for plenty of credit. Almost anything he does with the team will be an improvement over the showing of 1912. Chance has nothing to lose and everything to gain in Gotham. Murphy can scarcely expect to laugh at the expense of the "Peerless Leader."

Tinker's proposition in Cincinnati is more difficult. Possibly Joe will startle the natives, but it hardly seems fair to expect Tinker to improve the position of the team last year, fourth, during his first season as manager.

Tinker needs pitching material. Frequently last season I heard Manager O'Day lament the lack of classy pitching.

If Tinker is so fortunate as to develop a couple of young pitchers who can go the route, the Red Sox may be singing his praise as late as November.

JOHNNY EVERS.

Evers has his work cut out for him. The release of Chance was far from popular. Chance and Tinker will be missed, although apparently Murphy has signed up stars to give the Cubs a different appearance from that of last December. Under Chance the Cubs were great, always a pennant contender. Evers can scarcely fall short of this mark without censure.

DEL. CHAPUT THIRD PLAYER TO REPORT TO LONDON CLUB

Former Berlin Pitcher Arrived This Morning, Looking Hale and Hearty—Pitcher Berlin Unable to Report—He Has the Measles.

[BY JINX.]

Del. J. Chaput, sometimes known as "Frenchy," one of the Canadian League's premier pitchers in 1911, arrived in London this morning and reported to Manager Deneau. Del is looking fine, and is sporting a big gold band on his left hand, said gold band being stamped with his name and address, and the information that he was raver on the Portage Lake hockey team, champions of the United States. As a hockey player Mr. Chaput has been achieving as much fame in the Copper Country as he did in the Canadian League two seasons ago, and judging by the size of the ring, he is some little party on skates. He claims that his team beat out everything there was to beat on the other side of the line (that's why they're called champions of the U. S.), and then hurled darts to the T. R. and A. A. club of Toronto. However, the senior O. H. A. champions were afraid to play them. At least, that is what Del says, and he was always known as a model young man in Hubble, Mich. Chaput is the third player to report. No practice will be held this afternoon, but if the weather holds good and enough players arrive, Manager Deneau will have a workout at the park tomorrow.

The club was notified this morning that Pitcher Berlin will not be able to report for ten days or so. He has a bad attack of the measles, and will be laid up for some days as a result.

Hans Wagner May Be Out of the Game For Several Months

[Canadian Press.]

Boston, April 22.—Hans Wagner, the Pittsburgh's greatest shortstop, is likely to be out of the game for some months, according to what is quoted in baseball circles here as "the official word." The statement is made that Wagner's absence from his team is due to a floating cartilage in the knee, revealed by specialists in the west last week, and it is said that in the course of a few days Wagner will undergo an operation in New York. It is declared that even with a favorable result Wagner will probably have to lay off until Aug. 1, and if unsuccessful, the chances are that the Pittsburgh club will lose permanently the services of one of the greatest players baseball has known.

Neuralgia's Burning Pain Checked---Then Cured

Stronger Proof of Cure Could Scarcely Be Found Than This.

WORST CASES CURED AT HOME.

"To be really cured of Neuralgia is a marvel to me," writes Davidson E. Plummer, from Kingston, Ontario. "During the six weeks Neuralgia held me in its grip I suffered agony. When I had used almost every remedy hope fairly died within me. Twice every day the attacks would recur. Had the pain been persistent I could not have borne it. I was away out in Alberta when the attack came, and was probably not robust enough for the conditions of life in that new country. I just had to suffer, as nothing seemed to subside that awful burning pain. But relief was coming all the same, and thousands of miles, for some new people came in from the Maritime Provinces and they brought with them a number of bottles of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I bought a bottle. The line seemed to fluctuate. Hope would rise, then followed despair, but within twenty-four hours Nervine's victory was assured. The first bottle cured, and I am still well. The second bottle has also used for colds, earache, toothache, sick headache and other internal disorders. I will never be without Nervine again."

No home is either safe or complete without Nervine. Family size bottles, 50c; trial size, 25c, at all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catterhorne Company, Kingston, Ont.

ARTHUR SHAFER

"Tillie" Shafer looked like a real holdout this Spring, and McGraw was glad to hitch him up to another contract. He has had several years of bench warming, but will be the regular shortstop this season.

He has it on Fletcher as a batter and base-runner, being one of the fastest men in the game getting down to first. His batting average was .283 in 78 games last season, and he stole 22 bases. This year he looks faster than ever, and as long as he continues to hit Fletcher will have to decorate the bench.

WILL CONSIDER CHALLENGE.

New York, April 21.—A special meeting of the New York Yacht Club was called today for Thursday evening, April 24, to consider Sir Thomas Lipton's unqualified challenge for a match for the America's cup.

SENATOR PUTS ON BOUTS TO SHOW LAW MAKERS

Best Way To Convince Legislators That There Is No Harm in Ten-Round Bouts.

[Canadian Press.]

Chicago, April 22.—Senator Patrick Carroll, father of a boxing bill now before the Illinois Legislature, has decided on a plan of staging an exhibition at Springfield for the benefit of the lawmakers, the chief actors in which will be several well-known prizefighters. Believing that the best way to convince the legislators that there is no harm in ten-round bouts, he has arranged to stage three matches at the capital this week, and have the men who are to decide whether there shall be a law permitting it at the ringside.

Senator Carroll is making all of the arrangements himself. The senator said that he intended making an illustrated lecture of the affair. He said he would be within the ropes, and make plain the good points of his bill as they are exhibited blow by blow by the fighters.

Le Marin in Great Physical Condition for Zbyszko Bout

[Canadian Press.]

Chicago, April 22.—Constant Le Marin, the Belgian wrestler, who tomorrow night will meet S. Zbyszko in a finish match, was pronounced today physically perfect by Martin Delaney, athletic director of the Chicago Athletic Club, who has been training him. After several tests Delaney said that never in his 25 years' experience had he examined a man whose lung and heart action were so normal. The wrestler announced last night that they had finished training.

Commercial League Needs Another Club For Organization

At a preliminary meeting of the Commercial League, held in Casselman's last evening, three teams signified their intention of entering the league again this season. The teams were Orlens, McCormicks and McNees, all members of the league last season. An organization meeting of the league will be held on Friday evening for the purpose of organizing for the season. Officers will be elected and applications from other teams wishing to enter will be considered.

The league is open to receive applications from teams who can classify as commercial clubs, and those desiring to enter are requested to send applications from teams who can classify on Cowan's Hardware, or Ward Casselman, of Casselman Bros.

WIRE TAPPERS NABBED BY NEW YORK POLICE

Were Showing Wealthy Southerner How to Beat the Races.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, April 22.—Three alleged wiretappers were arrested at the point of a revolver in an uptown hotel last night after attempting, according to the police, to flee Charles White, a wealthy Southerner, who was in the city in a game to beat the races. White had met one of the men on the train coming from the south and permitted himself apparently to be "roped in." Instead, however, White informed the police, and was shown that he had been "roped in." White was supposed to have won $54,000, but was required to produce $25,000 in cash to show that he had the money to make the bet was good, the police swooped down on the trio and took them into custody.

The men gave their names as George Ferns, John Thompson and Charles Franklin. The police say all of them have police records.

RUDDOLPH FINED $100 AND SUSPENDED

Toronto Club Takes Quick Action in Case of the Deserting Pitcher.

Toronto, April 22.—A fine of $100, accompanied by indefinite suspension, has been imposed on Dick Rudolph, the recalcitrant pitcher of the Toronto team. "Rudy" says that he is through with baseball and is going into business. Certainly he is out of ball for good unless he returns to the Leaf fold. A deal whereby he was to go to a National League club in exchange for players has been declared off. Dick has been with the Leafs for seven seasons, during which he won 120 games and lost 70.

WINDSOR ADDED TO BORDER LEAGUE

Secretary Farrell Announces Minor League Changes.

[Canadian Press.]

Auburn, N. Y., April 22.—Secretary John H. Farrell, of the National Association of Baseball Leagues, today officially announced that the territory of Windsor, Ont., has been added to the Border League; and that the Lexington, Ky., and Maysville, Ky., franchises and players under contract, have been transferred to the Ohio State League.

SECOND YEAR WON IN COLLEGIATE LEAGUE

The first game in the London Collegiate Institute League was played on Monday afternoon, resulting in a win for the second year and commercial team over the first year team by a score of 8 to 6. The game was a good one. Logan, of the winners, striking out six batters, and Wiley, of the losers, making seven whiff the air. The score: First Year..... 8 10 5 Second Year..... 6 9 2 Batteries—Logan and Richardson; Wiley and Patterson.

EXAMS ARE ON

Rev. G. H. McAllister, of Exeter, is Presiding at Stratford.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Exeter, April 22.—Rev. G. H. McAllister is at Stratford this week attending the annual examinations of the probationers for the Methodist ministry. Mr. McAllister is one of the board of examiners. His subjects are Wesley's sermons, Christian perfection and the Acts of the Apostles.

The Scout Hustlers class of Main Street Methodist Sunday school held a banquet on Friday evening last. A fine program and a lunch were both much enjoyed.

THE JUST AND THE UNJUST

By Vaughan Kester
The Prodigal Judge

"And, Joe, I got the twenty dollars you were any of it left?" inquired Mr. Montgomery, with sudden interest.

"The rent and things took it all. That was the noblest act you ever done, Joe. It made me certain you were thinking of me, and from the moment I got that money I was sure you would come back, no matter what people said."

"Humph!" said Joe, "I'll have something for you in a minute—why didn't you tell me you were hungry?"

She was already rattling plates and knives at the cupboard, and Joe took the chair she had quitted when he entered the house, stretching his legs under his own table with a sense of deep satisfaction. He had not considered it worth his while to visit the kitchen sink, although his mode of life, as well as his mode of travel for days past, had covered him with dust and grime, nor had he taken off his ragged cap. It had always been his custom to wear it in the privacy of his own home—it was one of the last things he removed before going to bed at night; at all other times it rested on the top of his curly red head as the only safe place for a cap to be.

"I was real worried about Arthur along in March," said Mrs. Montgomery, as such odds and ends as had survived the appetites of all the little Montgomerys began to assemble themselves on the table.

"What's he been a-doin'?" inquired Arthur's father.

"He was his chest," explained Nellie.

Joe granted. By this time his two elbows were planted on the edge of the table, and his mouth was brought to within six scant inches of his plate. The handy man's table manners were not his strong point.

"Oh, I guess his chest is all right!" he paused to say.

"I thought it was best to be on the safe side, so I took him up town and had his chest examined by a doctor. He had to take off his shirt so he could hear Arthur's lungs."

"What did he do that for?" cried Joe, profoundly astonished.

"It was a mercy I'd washed him first," added Nellie, comprehending the real interest, though gratified by it.

"I thought, 'if he's all right, he's all right now, ain't he?'"

"Yes, but he did have such an alarmin' cough; it hung on and hung on, it seemed to me like it was on his chest, but the doctor said no, and I was that relieved I used some of the twenty dollars to pay him and to get medicine from the drug store."

Joe was cramming his mouth full of cold meat and bread, and for the moment could not speak, even at length he could not do it, he was so:

"I hear Andy Gilmore's left town."

"Yes, he's gone, and no one knows where he's gone."

"I guess he had enough of Mount Hope, and I hope he had enough of him," remarked Joe.

"They say the police was goin' to stop the gambler in his rooms if he hadn't gone when he did."

"Well, I hope he'll catch it wherever he is," said Joe, with a sudden drop in his voice.

"For a while after you left, Joe, they didn't give me no peace at all—the police mean—they were here every day. And Shrimplin told me they was puttin' advertisements in the papers all over the country."

"What for?" inquired Montgomery uneasily.

"They wanted to find out where you'd gone; it seemed like they was determined to get you back as a witness for the trial," explained Nellie.

Montgomery's uneasiness increased. He began to wonder fearfully if he was in any danger; he began to wonder if he was in any danger. Suppose he was pinched and sent up. His face blanched and his small blue eyes shined around in their sockets. Nellie was evidently unaware of the feeling of terror her words had inspired, for she continued:

"But it didn't make no difference in the end that you wasn't here, for everybody says it was you that had hung John North, you get all the credit for that."

Montgomery's hands fell at his side.

"Me hangin' John North?" he repeated. "But he ain't hangin' yet."

His voice shot up into a wall of horrified protest. Nellie regarded him with a look of astonishment. She had been rather sorry for young John North, but she had also felt a certain widely pride in John's connection with the case.

"No, he ain't hangin' yet, but he will be in the morning," she said.

The handy man sprang to his feet, knocking over the chair on which he had been seated.

"What's that?" he roared.

"Why, haven't you heard? He's to be hung in the morning."

Joe glared at her with staring eyes.

"What will they do that for—hang him?"—hang John North? He tore off his ragged cap and dashed it to the floor at his feet. That's why Andy Gilmore and Mayan Langham drove me out of town," he shouted, and his great chest seemed bursting with pent-up fury.

"Why, whatever do you mean, Joe?" cried Nellie.

"He never done it—you hear me—and they know it. I'm sure you got the straight of this—they are goin' to hang young John North." He seized her roughly by the shoulders.

"Yes, how you take on, Joe—"

"Take on?" he shouted. "You take on too if you don't stop this hangin' business. I've seen the fence around the jail yard where they're goin' to hang him. I went over on purpose yesterday with one of his neighbors and took a look at it. I thought it would be improv'n, but he'd seen it before. There ain't much he don't see—for all I can he just runs the streets."

Joe's resolution had been formed while she was speaking, and now he snatched his ragged cap from the floor.

"You stay right here till I get back!" he said gruffly.

It was not his habit to discuss affairs of any moment with Mrs. Montgomery, since in a general way he doubted the clearness of the feminine judgment, and in the present instance he had no intention of taking her into his confidence. The great problem by which he was confronted would settle in his own fashion.

"You ain't in any trouble, Joe?" and Nellie's eyes widened with the birth of sudden fear.

The handy man was standing by the door, and she went to his side.

"Me? No, I guess not; but I've got an evenin' dose of it for the other fellow, and he reached for the knob."

"Was it what I said about the police wantin' you?" his wife asked finally.

She knew that his dealings with the police had never been of an especially fortunate nature. He shook off the hand she had placed on his arm.

"You keep your mouth shut till I get back," he said, and pushing open the door, he passed out.

The night had cleared since he crossed the bridge, and the new moon gave her radiance to a sleeping world. But Montgomery was not slouching along the path toward the railroad track. The horror of North's fate had fixed his determination, nothing of the credit or fear that he had ever known was comparable to the emotion he was experiencing now. He did not mean to let the act he had decided on be experienced by any other man. He was not a coward, but as he hesitated the figure came toward him, and Langham spoke.

"What you, Joe?" he asked.

"Curse him, he knows I won't stand for hangin' North," the handy man told himself under his breath. He added aloud as he shuffled forward, "Yes, it's me, boss."

"He couldn't you make it right with Nellie?" asked Langham.

"Oh, it isn't that—the old woman's all right; but the baby's sick, and I'm out huntin' a doctor."

He did not expect Langham to believe him, nor on the spur of the moment he could say anything but:

"I am sorry to hear that!" said Langham.

And, evil, wolfish light stole into his eyes and the lines of his weak, debauched face hardened.

"What's the matter with you, boss? Couldn't you get across?" asked Joe.

"No, the bridge is too much for me. Like a kid, I hope to see smoke a cigar after you left me; I hoped it would clear off a bit so I could see the stars. I made up my mind to go and get you to help me back into the town."

"Well, I hope you'll catch it wherever he is," said Joe eagerly.

AMUSEMENTS

Henry Miller in "The Rainbow."
Henry Miller will give a performance of "The Rainbow" in London at the Grand Friday evening. Mr. Miller's new play room to London with an extraordinary record of success in the four biggest cities of the United States. At the end of its second season it has been presented only in a few cities of America, and is just beginning a Canadian tour. It ran an entire year in New York last season, and has had three long runs in Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago this season. The play is a comedy of sentiment, built on the story of a father's love for his innocent young daughter, and his flight to protect her from the consequences of his own dissipated life. It gives Mr. Miller the most sympathetic role he has ever played.

Joe Marks Stock Company.
"Virgil's Sweetheart," headed by Miss Grace Marks, will be seen at the Grand Opera House on Saturday afternoon and night. On Saturday night the company will present "The Girl From Sunny Alberta." It is a play of exceptional merit, and carrying as it does a pleasing love story, intermingled in clever fashion with intensely thrilling scenes and occasional strains of pathos, is sure to fascinate those who are in attendance. Seats Wednesday.

"The Quaker Girl."
"The Quaker Girl," the famous musical bit of three continents, which will be presented at the Grand next Monday evening with the New York company, headed by Miss Grace Marks, is a rather peculiar history. It was originally produced in London about four years ago at George Edwards' Adelphi Theatre, and immediately scored a tremendous hit, remaining at that playhouse for two entire years. The title role was taken by Miss Gertrude Miller, who in private life is the wife of the composer, Lionel Monckton, while Josephine, the leading female role of Tony Chute, the company which is coming to the Grand played one solid year in New York, ten weeks in Chicago, twelve in Boston, and eight in Philadelphia, and is now packing theatres in the larger cities, while another organization is touring the Pacific coast to the same sort of business. Seats Thursday.

BOY SCOUTS MARCH

AT P. HEY'S FUNERAL

Former London Boy was Buried at Ingersoll Rural Cemetery.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ingersoll, April 22.—The funeral of Percy Hey, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hey, whose death occurred last Thursday, following a short illness, was held yesterday afternoon from the family residence, Park avenue, to the Baptist Church, thence to the Ingersoll Rural Cemetery.

The presence of the Boy Scouts, who marched with muffled drum, added a pathetic interest to the burial. Dated since its inception, and had taken a keen interest in the work. A touching service was conducted by Rev. C. J. McLean, of the Baptist Church, Rev. Alfred Bright, chaplain of the Scouts, also spoke briefly.

Many floral tokens were received. The pallbearers were the following six Scouts: Marshall McKay, V. Hartnett, Archie Booth, Ted Richardson, Clarence Grieve and Lloyd James.

ANOTHER OLD BOOK

Verschoyle Reader Has Religious Work Dated 1618.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

In your issue of the 15th inst., I notice a reference to a number of old religious books I have in my possession. I take in my post session the third and last edition of the works of that famous and worthy minister of Christ in the University of Cambridge, Rev. W. Perkins, printed by Central Legas printers to the University of Cambridge, 1618. It is a large book of 1,000 pages, in old-fashioned letters, in good condition. Yours,

CARE OF W. MAHAN, VERSCHOYLE.

CORRESPONDENCE

Re the Assessment Act:

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I have been instructed by the Tax Reform Association to forward to you the following communication:

The bill now before the Legislature is marked by the following serious defects:

1. It ignores utterly the difference between the two values, first, that which is caused by industry in the clearing of farms, their drainage, the erection of buildings and the manufacture of goods; and second, the value which accrues to the land from the presence of population and which rises to such enormous figures in our large cities.

2. The imposition of taxation on improvements practically penalizes the honest use of land for the production of prosperity, the employment of labor and the maintenance of commerce.

3. The taxation of improvements encourages people to use land for speculation—that is to use land for the despoiling of their fellowmen. Can we think of anything more flagrant in our country, than to maintain laws which enable one man to take another man's wealth.

4. Wherever any town grows, there the owner of the land is allowed to charge his fellow more and more as population increases, thus condemning the majority of humanity to lives of hardship and want.

5. In this manner we divide society into two classes—one living in all the luxuries of society, with none of its burdens, while the other is crushed down beneath the double burden of providing everything for the support of government and the support of the favored of inequitable taxation.

As an indication of public opinion on this subject, let us call your attention to the fact that at the last election in this city the vote on the question of local option in taxation stood 25,773; nay, 6,440, a vote of four to one.

We, therefore, plead with you to do what you can to rectify this wrong, either by removing taxes from improvements, or by allowing the municipalities to do so.

I have the honor to be, sir,

Your obedient servant,

SYDENHAM THOMPSON.

"I Attribute My Cure Solely

And Entirely To Taking "Fruit-a-lives"

Hull, Que., Dec. 24, 1909.

"For the past twelve years, I had a painful attack of Dyspepsia. I could not digest my food and everything caused the most agonizing pain in my stomach. I also had a fearful attack of Constipation and at times, I had no movement of the bowels for two weeks."

"Three doctors attended me for two years and gave me all kinds of medicine, but did me no good. My weight came to only 80 pounds, and everyone thought I was going to die. Finally, I had the good fortune to try 'Fruit-a-lives' and as soon as I began to take them, I felt better. I persisted in the treatment and to my great joy, I steadily improved."

"Now I feel very well, weight 115 pounds, and this is more than I ever weighed even before my illness."

"I attribute my cure solely and entirely to 'Fruit-a-lives' and can never praise them too much for saving my life. To all who suffer from Dyspepsia and Constipation, I recommend 'Fruit-a-lives' as a miraculous remedy."

"MRS. ANDREW STAFFORD."

King and Queen Visit the Workers

[Canadian Press.]

New York, April 22.—A cable from London says:

The King and Queen yesterday began another tour among the industrial classes of their subjects. A year ago their majesties visited South Wales and Yorkshire, and today they were at York and London.

Their majesties left London yesterday for Crewe Hall, where they are guests of the Marquis and Marchioness of Crewe.

When his majesty reached Crewe Hall, he sent for Robert Turnbull, superintendent of the line on the London and Northwestern Railway and conferred upon him the honor of knighthood.

EMBRO GUILD

Mrs. Williamson Was Elected President at Annual Meeting.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Embroid, April 22.—The Ladies' Guild of the Methodist Church held its meeting at the home of Mrs. E. L. Cody.

The weather being favorable, a large attendance was present. The following officers were appointed: President, Mrs. Williamson; first vice, Mrs. Underhill; second vice, Mrs. Cody; secretary, Miss Carrie Cody; treasurer, Mrs. A. A. McLean; organist, Mrs. German.

The next meeting will be held the third Thursday in May at the home of Mrs. Underhill.

The members of the Congregational Church choir were very pleasantly entertained on Friday night by Mr. and Mrs. R. Day, Cody's Corners.

PAISLEY WILL CELEBRATE.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Paisley, April 22.—Paisley will have a celebration this year on the 24th of May for the first time in 25 years. A grand program of sports is in preparation.

Steamer Uganda Went to Bottom

Port Huron, Mich., April 21.—The crew of the steamer Uganda, which encountered heavy ice and sank in the Straits of Mackinac Saturday night, arrived here today on the steamer Donaldson, which took them off the sinking vessel. All 22 persons composing the crew were rescued. The steamer went down with 100,000 bushels of corn, bound from Milwaukee to Buffalo. She received a bad cut by the ice. The crew reported that after the Uganda filled, the Uganda was one of the largest wooden boats on the lakes.

NON-JURY SITTINGS ENDED UNEXPECTEDLY

Two Cases Were Settled and the Third Was Postponed.

The non-jury sittings of the supreme court of Ontario opened Monday afternoon at 2:30 before Chief Justice W. R. Meredith at the court-house. Although three cases were entered for trial the court was called upon to give a decision in any one of the actions, as only one, Fuller against Bonis, et al., was commenced.

The action of Werry against Bell was postponed by an order of the local judge and was also transferred to St. Thomas. The parties in the suit of Harding against the London Canning Company reached a settlement, and the action was dismissed without costs. The evidence of the plaintiff in the remaining action was taken on Monday afternoon, and the hearing was to be continued this morning, but the parties acted on the suggestion of the court and reached an amicable settlement.

The case was one in which the plaintiff asked for an injunction restraining the defendants from operating a stone quarry adjacent to his property in St. Marys in a manner alleged to be dangerous to the plaintiff and his family.

The plaintiff's solicitor, Mr. McPherson, of St. Marys, called a large number of witnesses, the majority of whom are residents of that town and live in the vicinity of the quarry. The plaintiff stated that on numerous occasions stones hurled by blasts in the quarry had fallen on his property. He produced one stone weighing five pounds that had fallen in a tree and broken off a number of branches. The other witnesses also related occurrences when stones had been thrown onto their property.

Mr. T. G. Meredith, who acted for the defendants, stated that the terms of the agreement had been made by the interested parties, but would not be made public.

A feature of the last five or six courts held in London is that the number of cases entered for trial have been settled out of court.

Beekeepers Will Meet Saturday

The beekeepers of Middlesex will hold their spring meeting at the county building next Saturday, April 26, when they will be able to compare winter losses and in some measure forecast what next summer's honey crop will be. The Middlesex association is one of the oldest and most flourishing organizations in affiliation with the Ontario Beekeepers' Association, and now that the movement for a Greater Middlesex is afoot it is expected that the turnout will be larger and more enthusiastic than ever before.

Mr. T. G. Meredith, who acted for the defendants, stated that the terms of the agreement had been made by the interested parties, but would not be made public.

A feature of the last five or six courts held in London is that the number of cases entered for trial have been settled out of court.

INGERSOLL SOCCER LEAGUE UNDER WAY

Morrow Company Won First Game From Ellis Furniture Company.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ingersoll, April 22.—A large crowd gathered at Victoria Park last night to witness the opening game of the town football league. Weather conditions were favorable, and interest was at a high pitch. The attendance was unusually large for an opening game, indicating interest greater than ever in the first game of the season. The game, which was between the Morrow Company and the Ellis Furniture Company teams, was keenly contested, being a battle royal from the moment the ball was kicked off by S. A. Gibson, president of the league. In the first half neither team scored, and considerable of the second period had passed before the Morrow Company found the goal for the first counter. This served to increase the efforts of both teams, but the whistle blew with the score standing 1 to 0 in favor of the men from the screw works. The teams: Morrow Company—Goal, Fitzmorris; backs, Pearson, Fuller; halves, Neaves, Hughes, Rider; forwards, Stanley, Soderstrom, Birch, Pettie, Greenway. Referee—C. T. Fish.

ANECDOTE AND EULOGY OF BENCH AT BARS BANQUET

Members of Legal Profession Are "Learned Friends" in True Sense at Festive Board—J. H. Flock K.C., Oldest Member, an Efficient Chairman.

An imposing array of legal talent gathered around the festive board in the Indian room of the Tecumseh House Monday evening on the occasion of the third annual banquet of the Middlesex bar.

While the feast of the law was by no means forgotten, there was little of that professional reserve which usually surrounds gentlemen of the legal profession, and the result was a famous flow of wit and anecdote connected with incidents in the past in which members of the Middlesex bar were involved.

Mr. J. H. Flock, K.C., was voted into the chair as being the oldest member of the Middlesex bar present.

The secretary, Mr. U. A. Buchner, read regrets from Chief Justice W. R. Meredith and Sir Geo. G. H. Jones, who were unable to be present.

Proud of Judiciary. After proposing the toast to the King, which was heartily responded to, the chairman made a toast to the bench. "I think we have a right to be proud of our judiciary," he said. "Whatever Government is in power, they always try to select the men best fitted to serve the people. Many of our county judges are well fitted to take higher duties."

He expressed the opinion that the judicial system of Canada was better than that of the United States. "Our judges know that they are on their good behavior," he said. "I know of only one attempt to bribe a Canadian judge, and that failed."

He coupled with the toast the name of Judge Macbeth. "The bar of London," he remarked, "might well take interest in the bench, for no town is better represented on the bench." Justice MacMahon and the late Justice Street were both at one time members of the Middlesex bar, he stated.

Cordial Relations Always. The death of the late Justice Street he characterized as one of the greatest losses Canada ever sustained. He was proud that the bar produced such men. In concluding he referred to the cordial relations which had always existed between the bench and the members of the bar in London.

"The Ethics of the Law" was then proposed by Mr. J. H. Flock, K.C. The subject was one that any lawyer should be proud of. Mr. M. D. Fraser, K.C., then rose to propose a toast to the "Future of the Law." He said that the greatest men of all countries come from the bar. I think the greatest men of Canada have yet lived in the bar. He pointed out some of the changes in the administration of the law to which the lawyer of the future would have to adapt himself. "A great deal of the harshness has been taken from the administration of the criminal law," he said. The lawyer of the future, he stated, would have to be a lawyer but a businessman as well.

Mr. W. R. Meredith replied in a humorous address, in which he painted a gloomy picture of the future of the legal profession unless some change was made. Some Anecdotes. Mr. M. D. Mr. Warfield's Report To Be Ready Soon

A. M. Warfield stated today that he would have his report on the municipal operation of the Port Stanley Railroad ready to submit to the city council at its next meeting, which will be the first Monday in May. It will require two weeks or a little better to complete it.

"One thing that has lengthened the time of completing the report was that when I began the assumption was that the road was to be double-tracked part of the distance. This idea has now been largely abandoned. Then I have

SERVICE OF PRAISE ANOTHER SUCCESS FOR MR. WHEELER

Delightful Musical Evening at St. Andrew's Largely Patronized.

Splendid Choir Assisted by Scottish Soloists of Fine Talent.

The services of praise, which are given from time to time in St. Andrew's Church by Mr. Charles E. Wheeler and his choir, are looked forward to by London music-lovers as events of rare enjoyment, and the large attendance present at Monday night's recital testified fully to this fact. The choir and choir soloists, assisted by the Scottish vocalists, Mr. Shirley Jackson, tenor, and Madam Shirley Jackson, mezzo-soprano, rendered an exceptionally pleasing and varied program, which reflected much credit on Mr. Wheeler's excellent training.

A cantata entitled "Victory Divine" occupied the first portion of the evening. Mrs. Charles Wheeler, soprano; Mr. George White, tenor, and Mr. W. A. McCutcheon, bass, being the soloists. The cantata depicted three scenes relative to the death of Christ, "in the garden," "the earthquake," and "at the tomb." The big choir did excellent work, the chorus, "It is the Hour of Morning," in which Mrs. Wheeler sang the solo parts, being especially well rendered. In the duet, "By Gift of Love," by Mrs. Wheeler and Mr. George White, the fine blending of their voices was very noticeable.

An Appreciated Number. The choir chorus, "O Holy Father," by Marchetti, in the second half of the program, was also a most excellent number. Madam Shirley Jackson possesses a soprano voice of exceeding sweetness and expression, and her selected solo, "Home, Sweet Home," was sung with a pathos that vibrated to the hearts of many present. Her two mother songs, "My Treasure" and "The Sun is a-Sinkin'" proved favorites also. The duet, "Thou I Leave Thee," an old Scotch song, was sung by Mr. and Madam Shirley Jackson without accompaniment, and Mr. Jackson's Scotch song, "The Lea Rig," was perhaps one of his best numbers.

Miss Mary Sheehy, always a favorite contralto soloist, sang Tamar's "O Holy Savior" in her usual finished style.

Mr. Wheeler's Numbers. As usual, in his solo work, Mr. Wheeler favored his audience with a few original selections, and the "March in F" by R. Goss-Custard, a spirited number of massive harmony, and Vincent's "Tavanay," a concert number, rendered splendidly the possibilities of the church organ under Mr. Wheeler's skillful touch.

The complete program was a series of musical delights, and the choir, leader, choir and soloists are to be congratulated upon its entire success.

After the recital those taking part were entertained at the home of Mr. William Allen Young, Queen's avenue, where refreshments were served, and an exceedingly pleasant time enjoyed by all.

Bakers in Court.—The Parnell-Dean Steam Baking Company and Mr. Joseph Johnston acknowledged a breach of the city's bread by-law in the police court this morning, and were fined $5 and costs each.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Walton, 4 Maryboro Place, wish to express their sincere thanks to all their friends and neighbors for their many kindnesses to their son during his illness, and also for their loving kindness and sympathy in their sad bereavement.

WILD WOMEN TURN TO BOATHOUSES

The Suffragette "Arson Squad" Busy in the Suburbs of Birmingham.

MRS. BELMONT WARNS American Suffragist Leader Says Militant Methods May Come to the United States.

[Canadian Press.] London, April 22.—An "arson squad" of militant suffragettes succeeded during the night in burning down the Handsworth Park boathouse in a Birmingham suburb. Four pleasure boats and a large quantity of equipment were destroyed.

With the opening of the boating season attempts to destroy skiffs and shells are expected, and along most of the rivers and lakes a close watch is kept by special patrols night and day for suffragette bent on destruction.

"You had better stick to the needle and drop the revolver," was the police magistrate's advice to Annie Bell, the suffragette sentinal arrested outside Holloway Jail on the night of April 9 during the imprisonment of Mrs. Pankhurst.

Miss Bell, who had been found in possession of a revolver, with which she said, "If it were many I would have shot him," was sentenced today to three weeks' imprisonment. She refused to be bound over to keep the peace for a year, and told the magistrate, "Your advice is not of any use at all."

Praises Militants. New York, April 22.—Praise of the militant suffragettes in England and predictions of serious trouble in America if women do not get the ballot were Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont's favored theme as she prepared today to sail tonight for Europe as a delegate from this country to the International Women's Suffrage convention in Budapest, opening June 15.

Mrs. Belmont said she approved of everything the English "wild women" have done, and that if woman suffrage is not effected in New York in 1915 militant methods may prevail here.

"The English women will get the vote now before we do, and that will be a disgrace," she said. "People here do not know it, but Mrs. Pankhurst was told by Arthur Barker and other big men that militant methods must be used if the women would win. Men never won their freedom without shedding blood, and the women will not get theirs without fighting."

HEALTH AND GOOD ROADS CITY'S NEEDS

Engineer Chipman Refers to Conditions Prevailing in London Now.

"STORM SEWERS FIRST"

A significant passage in the Chipman report on storm sewers is as follows:

"The necessity for the prompt removal of the rainfall from the city streets must be apparent to every citizen. The paving of streets and improvement of roadways are delayed, building operations impeded, and vehicular traffic at times practically impossible, due to the non-removal of rainfall.

In addition to the inconvenience and loss sustained by the residents of the city streets not properly drained, there is the menace to public health. This latter danger is increased, where to relieve the surface flooding, connections have been made into the sanitary sewers, the sewage then being flooded back into cellars and basements by storm water.

Half Without Storm Sewers. The central business section of the city is now served by a system of combined sewers, constructed prior to 1892. From time to time since 1892 a few drains have been laid for the removal of cellar water and street water, without regard to any system. Fully half of the city is unprovided with storm sewers.

In 1892, when the population was 32,000, the need of storm sewers in the outlying sections of the city was not present. Today, with a population of 49,000, there are demands for pavements and improved roadways, in the sections that were considered as suburban at that time, and which demands are advanced by the council in advance of the construction of storm sewers."

Meetings on Estimates.—Council committees to deal with the estimates for this year will meet this week as follows: No. 1, Tuesday night, No. 3
Wednesday night, and No. 2 Thursday night.

Burial of Mrs. Mary C. Doyle.—Mrs.
Mary C. Doyle, of 452 Talbot street, who died on Friday, was buried Monday. Requiem high mass was sung at St. Peter's Cathedral at 8. Interment was made in St. Peter's Cemetery.
Monks Aylward conducted the service.

Burial of Mrs. Thomas Kennedy.—
Mrs. Thomas Kennedy was buried on Monday in St. Peter's Cemetery. Mrs.
Kennedy had been a resident of London for 45 years. The funeral was held at St. Mary's Church, where requiem mass was celebrated at 8. The casket, Father Burnham conducted the service.

Good Seats Left Unsold.—Owing to misunderstanding the impression was conveyed at the box office of the Grand that there were no seats left unsold for the "Temple of Fame." The committee in charge wish it understood that a number of good seats are still to be obtained for both nights.

Burial of Maurice Cox.—Maurice Cox, 14 years old, whose death followed an accident in which his arm was mangled with a buzzsaw, was buried Monday in Woodland Cemetery.
The ceremony was conducted by Rev.
Archibald Richardson, of St. Luke's, Broughdale.

Limit the Abattoirs.—The abattoir bills, providing for the annexation of territory, on which the Dominion abattoir stands, passed two readings of the city council Monday night, but was referred back to No. 2 committee to consider the question of limiting the number of abattoirs which might be established within the limits by exacting a license or other permits from the council, and fixing the question of gans, Mademoiselle comes to the Auditorium, Tuesday, April 29, when Miss Edythe Warline Nash, Miss

Estelle McConnell and Mr. J. L. Mc-Alpin will assist.

Inquest for Maurice Cox.—Coroner
Dr. MacLaren will hold an inquest into the death of Maurice Cox, the 14-year-old boy whose arm was badly lacerated
while at work in the Miller Brass Works Friday afternoon, resulting in his death in Victoria Hospital Saturday morning. The jurors are Messrs.

Street Won't Stand
Wear of Heavy Rigs

Capt. T. J. Murphy and others petitioned the city council on Monday night to close Hyman street, between Richmond and Wellington streets to heavy traffic, pointing out that it is a purely residential street and the roadway is not constructed with a view to supporting heavy traffic, which cuts into the street, which was laid last fall, seriously damaging it.

Presentation to Valued Scottish Rite Workers
The Lodge of Perfection, A. and A.
S. R. of F. held their regular meeting in their rooms in the Masonic Temple Monday evening, the fourth, fifth and sixth degrees being conferred upon a class of candidates. At the conclusion of the degree work Bro. J. L.
Richardson and Bro. J. E. Keays were made the recipients of a beautiful testament of deposit and a solid gold locket and chain, respectively, in appreciation of the good work they had performed as members of the property committee for the last few years.

Major Beecher in Charge of Seventh

The Seventh Regiment marched to Queen's Park Monday evening, and the different companies were instructed in attacking and defensive manoeuvres under the command of the company officers. On their return march a valuable guard instruction was explained and practiced. Major H. C. Beecher was in command, owing to Lieut.-Col.
A. A. Campbell being absent from the city, and the regiment paraded over 235 strong, including the brass and bugle bands.

The regimental orders stated that a discharge had been granted to Q.-M.
Sergeant F. Newton, dating from April 14, 1913, and also included the adding to the strength of the regiment of Alex. Kelly, who will be Sergeant Newton's successor on the staff. A number of recruits were sworn in.

The orders also included the following promotions: To Be Sergeant—Corporal Arthur Lags, "F" Company.
To Be Corporal—Private E. Pritchett, "C" Company; Private W. O.
Ellwood, "C" Company; Lance-Corporal W. Groshaw, "B" Company;
Lance-Corporal M. B. Watts, "B" Company.
To Be Lance-Corporal—Private E.
Guilford, "B" Company.

Captain A. R. Mortimore is officer for the week, and Captain G. B. Watson is next for duty.

ST. PAUL'S CLUB PRESENTS PLAY

St. Paul's Dramatic Club presented a one-act farce on Monday evening at Cronyn Hall before a large audience.
The farce, "My Lord in Livery," is woven around the adventures of an English lord who wishes to remain unknown while he visits a friend.
The cast: Lord Thirlmere, H. B.
Galpin; Spiggots, H. H. Galpin; Hopkins, P. G. Galpin; Robert, H. G.
Logan; Sybil, Miss Dorothy L. Smart;
Laura, Miss V. Shannon; Rose, Miss
L. Greer.

During the evening the presentation of the Anglican hockey trophy was made to the St. Paul's Hockey Club.
Canon Tucker made the presentation, and Mr. M. Millman, president and manager of the club, replied for the team.

The first part of the program was taken by Miss Grace Blackburn, who repeated by request the story of "Enoch Arden," with musical accompaniment by Strauss.

SAYS BECK CAME BABYING TO HAVE BILL WITHDRAWN

Controller O'Neil Backs Up Controller Church's Statement In Regard to Power Minister's Words and Says It Is Absolutely True.

Toronto, April 22.—An open rupture in the ranks of the board of control which may have disastrous consequences to the progress of the city's business for the rest of the year was made evident at the council meeting yesterday afternoon, when Controller Church, supported by Controllers Foster and O'Neil, endeavored to vindicate his actions in the matter of giving out an order to the press of what is alleged to have happened at a private conference between the board of control and Hon. Adam Beck last Friday.

Emphatic Statements.
When trying to impress upon his apparently disinterested listeners the truthfulness of the statement, the controller resorted to vehemence, and at times he waxed so wrathly and made such remarks to other members of council as to force Mayor Hocken to repeatedly call him to order. Little less emphatic was the retort of Controller O'Neil, who expressed confidence in the veracity of the controller.

At the conference in the mayor's office all the members of the Ontario
Power Commission were present.
After some debate, an agreement was reached on my motion by which the Ontario Power Commission is to investigate the affairs of the local hydro-electric.
Controller Church, "After this meeting was over—which should have been a public one in accordance with the municipal act," said the Hon. Adam Beck, "with the object of having the board of control withdraw the city's bill, re Toronto Street Railway."

"I am a controller of the city, and responsible to the public for my actions, and I stand by the interview given by me. The Hon. Adam Beck came to my meeting with the intention of having our board change our action regarding the bill now before the House of Commons. I am sorry that the Controllers Foster, O'Neil and myself were very much impressed with the sincerity of Mr.
Beck, and the fact that the bill was a gross violation of our agreement with the members of the Ontario Power Union."

"I found that the Toronto members in the House were up in arms against the bill, and also was informed by several of the members on the Government side of the House that the Hon.
Adam Beck was opposed to it, and I was very strongly about not having been consulted on the subject."

Not a Secret Meeting.
The views of Mr. Beck as being private, as he asked Mr. Foster and myself, after the meeting, to have the bill withdrawn, and I told him I had made up my mind on Thursday night to take this action, whether or not Mr.
Beck came down to the city hall or not.
Mr. Beck came down to the city hall and the board of control, Mr. Foster, Mr.
O'Neil and myself took was solely the result of our learning his strong and vigorous objections to the bill.
We could not justify or defend our action."

CITY COUNCIL AGREES TO EXPENDITURE OF $164,000

Aldermen Richter and Bennett Protest Against Amount as Too Large—Resolution to Late Ex-Ald.
Forristal.

The debenture issue of $164,000 for school purposes was passed by the city council Monday night, although Ald.
Richter and Ald. Bennett regarded the amount as too large, and especially questioned the item of $35,000 for an industrial school. Mr. Alexander school.
Trustees Dennis, Damagge and Hunt were a deputation from the board of education, who supported their claims for the transportation of gravel from Springbank.

A bylaw was passed for the construction of a sewer with private drain on Branney avenue, from Hamilton road to Nelson street.

Claim System is Wrong.
A communication from the London Progressive Federation included a resolution against the proposed method of garbage collection.
Estimates from the library board for $12,500 and $45,500 from Victoria Hospital, were sent on to the finance committee.

Residents of Pullar street petitioned for an extra light between Richmond and Talbot streets.

"FAD FOODS" may come and go, but BREAD still remains the GREATEST of all
"HEALTH FOODS." Bread-raised children thrive best. They grow up with good digestions.
They never get sick from eating bread.

"BREAD is the best food for you." Keep your stomach "young" by eating more bread instead of so much heavy food. The best bread—the most nourishing and digestible

INGERSOLL AFTER TWO NEW INDUSTRIES

Ratepayers to Vote on Bylaws
Shortly—Samaritan Smoker
a Success.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ingersoll, April 22.—As was announced recently at a meeting of the council it is probable that at least two industrial propositions which have been engaging the attention of both the council and the board of trade will be voted on in the near future.

The board of trade entered upon the new year with the firm resolve to increase the number of industries if possible and propositions which have been received have been carefully gone into. The ratepayers, realize the importance of industries in building up a town and its propositions that can be honestly and earnestly recommended are submitted, the chance of success would no doubt be very bright.

A largely-attended and most enjoyable "At Home and Smoker" was held last night by Samaritan Lodge, I. O. O.
The lodge has a large membership, and, as many of the friends of the members were in attendance, the evening was a most successful one. A very interesting program was provided, and all present found the event highly pleasing.

It is expected that by Thursday or Friday the brick work on the new Imperial Bank, which is to be erected at the corner of King and Thames streets, will be commenced. Practically all the excavating has been done, and the cement work will be commenced at once. The work thus far has been rushed forward, and the building will soon be in course of construction.

IMPERATOR AGROUND

Huge German Liner in Difficulties in the Elbe.
[Canadian Press.]
Hamburg, April 22.—The new Hamburg-
American steamship Imperator, 360 feet long, ran aground in the Elbe this morning. She was proceeding from the Vidian shipbuilding yard for the lower Elbe, to be used for a time, as the largest vessel when she grounded off Altona. Under favorable circumstances it is hoped she can be floated today.

The steamship Imperator, when she went into commission with the start of her maiden voyage to New York, May 28, will be for a time, the largest vessel sailing. Her keel was laid two years ago, 80 feet in length, or almost double that of Germany's largest warship. Her other dimensions are 96 feet beam and 42 feet depth.

The trial trips of the Imperator have been planned for the latter part of this month, and reports have been printed that Emperor William would be among a party of distinguished Germans who would accompany the trial, board on the first trip.
