sue of the Daily Nugget, Magistrate C. M. McCarthy of Elk Lake returns to the battle following some criticism of a recent article of his respecting Northern Ontario and its prospects of development. He is quoted as saying: "Bruce, Simcoe, Wellington, Hastings, Huron and Middlesex have between them the districts of Cochrane, Temiskaming and Sudbury have but three, and yet the revenue from these resources and Government requirements from the latter are greater than all the others combined."

"If we want progress," he writes "resources from where revenues are derived should be represented just as much as population."

ORIENTS CELEBRATE 28TH ANNIVERSARY AT BANQUET TABLE

Club Has Made Great Progress
During Past Year.

Success and the Orient Club go hand in hand—the 28th anniversary banquet of that organization, held in the Tivoli-House last night, proved this beyond all doubt. Members new and old, from far and near, were there. And each one of them was full of the spirit of co-operation that has marked and has been responsible for the club's present flourishing condition.

After everything on the menu had been disposed of, toast was in order. Responding to "Canada," S. K. Milroy declared that the growth of the organization which had gathered for the event of the year was in correspondence with the wonderful growth of our native land. As Canada had advanced and would advance, so would the club go forward, attaining new goals and increasing in strength and influence.

President G. R. Brinkne was sure that the banquet was "the best yet," and that the phrase "better and better" could be applied to the past year of the club's history.

Review of History of Club.
"Our Club" was ably responded to by Honorary President B. L. Parkinson, who outlined the growth of the organization during the past quarter of a century. The club originally had six members, he said, and it was their cause they wanted to spend their evening in some place other than on the streets. The word "Orient" which means brilliant, bright and sparkling, was chosen as the name, and, judging by its record, it had lived up to all that the word implied. Since that time many minstrel shows had been staged and many city championships, both in baseball and hockey, had been won.

By carefully selecting its personnel and by prohibiting cardplaying on Sundays and gambling at all times, it had come to be looked upon as a club to which clean sports and the "good scouts" of the city were eager to become attached.

Other toasts were:
"Absent Members," responded to by Blake Jones.
"Our Guests," Acadian Club, Hermitage Club and Manhattan Club.
"The Retiring Secretary," H. Downs, by E. Servis.
"To Lew Davis," by V. Jackson.
"The Ladies," by Gordon Burdick.
"The Benediction," by Rev. Rogers.
"The Bachelors," by George Stevenson.

The future: Aim no higher than the sky, fair youth," by Basil Healey.
"New Members: Divide always the wheat from the chaff," by Harold Dodge.
"Our Friend," by Percy Ashton.
Following in a musical program which "went over" good:
Solo, Mike McKeough; solo, Atchell Henry; selected, Miss Gilmore; W. Kedon and Company; solo, Frank Emley.

With the singing of popular selections and "God Save the King," the assemblage broke up in the wee sma' hours of the morning. As each member returned his way homeward, he voiced the unanimous sentiment that it had been "some affair."

To the Editor of The Advertiser:
I have been noticing the sparks from Gipsy Smith's gun during his campaign in your city, and they are certainly a very great blessing to humanity. ## SEVERAL OUTDOOR SKATING RINKS TO BE PREPARED HERE

Only Waiting For Real Frost
To Come.

Municipal open-air skating rinks are to be built in different parts of the city as soon as weather conditions permit. Mayor C. R. Somerville declared this morning, Victoria Park, as in other years has been selected as the site of one of the rinks.

The Federal Square, as a result of the solicitations of those who would like to see an ice space in such a central place, has been chosen as another place where there will be skating this winter.

The Cove ponds, in all likelihood, will be operated by the civic authorities, and possibly two sheets of ice will be made at the eastern and northern sections of the city.

Mayor Somerville was of the opinion that "outdoor skating was more enjoyed than that within an arena, and thought that with a dressing-room at each rink and careful supervision, the young and older folks could spend many pleasant hours.

Hundreds of employees of the McCormick Manufacturing Company joined in a sing-song, held in the dining-room of the factory at noon today. The singing was led by Rev. G. Q. Warner. A choir composed entirely of employees sat on the platform and aided materially in leading the singing, as well as singing several choruses.

Employees who came to this city from England, and who have gained already considerable note locally as a violinist, played several solos. F. Krutzer played the accompaniment. S. Chapman whistled several selections. Robert Little, industrialist, president of the "C" acted as chairman. Lunch was served at the conclusion to those taking part in the program.

PROVIDE OPPORTUNITY FOR POSTGRADUATE COURSES IN FRANCE

Plan Is Mooted by Which Province Would Establish Scholarship Fund.

Toronto, Nov. 27.—A plan whereby students of the Ontario colleges and universities can take post-graduate work at educational institutions in France was outlined to Premier E. C. Drury and Hon. R. H. Grant, minister of education, at a conference here today with Philippe Roy, commissioner-general for France in Paris. A grant from the government was requested to assist in the work, and Mr. Drury and Mr. Grant assured Mr. Roy that they were in sympathy with the scheme.

The proposal has been made to the other provinces and they are understood to be favorable to the plan. The scheme is for the Government to provide scholarships for post-graduate work in France. The number of students allowed to take the courses would depend on the size of the Government grant. The selection of the students would rest with the Government, but it would probably appoint some body or institution, such as a university, to look after such details.

In connection with the post-graduate courses, a war memorial home is to be established in Paris for the students of this country who will be temporarily in France. The home will be provided by private funds and not by the provincial governments.

Peter C. Wilson, a local insurance man, in whose office in the London Loan Building the baby was found, is the complainant.

Capt. Gabriele d'Annunzio, according to

HUMAN EVOLUTION SUBJECT OF TALK BY PROF. CONKLIN

Claims There Are No Two Human Beings Alike.

BELIEVES IN EVOLUTION

Social Evolution Making Rapid and Alarming Progress.

"There are absolutely no two human beings on the earth alike. There is not one chance in three hundred thousand billion that two children born in succession of the same parents could possibly be alike, or for even twins to be alike," said Professor E. G. Conklin at the Western University extension lecture, held in St. Andrew's Hall on Thursday afternoon, when speaking on
"The Limits of Evolution."

"Some people do not believe in evolution, but I do," said Professor Conklin.
"I believe that we are coming out of the slime all through the ages to end in something glorious and divine. The question has been raised whether man kind really just goes up a little way, then comes down and then up again.
No. Plants and animals have a limit, but the human race has not."

Professor Conklin explained the way
the human being is built in a mosaic way, having some traits or peculiarities of each parent and ancestors. Remains have been found in various parts of the world showing that there were large creatures, just a little more than man-size creature, and in the western part of Europe remains have been found of creatures nearer the human being of today, and later we found that the red, white and yellow races were established," said the speaker.

Present Race Not More Perfect.
"Is there any evidence that in the evolution of the race of the present day that the race is more perfect than that of the race in 400 B. C. No, there is degenerative evolution taking place physically. Hair and teeth are lost before the proper time. There has been no progressive evolution noticed among the human race within the last few hundred years. Of course, I will say there are a greater number of intellectual people living today. But we could hardly find such a collection of intellectual men living at the same time as Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, and others. If they were brought here today I think that they would be able to handle our modern day problems the same as they did in their own century."

More Intelligent People Today.
"When we come to social evolution we find that we are going ahead at a rate that is both astonishing and alarming. Our control of nature is most wonderful. We have the accumulation of knowledge that has been handed down to us by our ancestors, and with our education of today we cannot but

THE WORLD'S NIGHTMARE.

The Toronto World claims to see in the visit of the Prince of Wales a plot to have a Canadian as well as an English throne for the next British ruler. This, according to the World, is for the two-fold purpose of binding this country closer to the motherland and providing a refuge—and a throne—in the event of an English revolution.

We presume this binding of ties will also be extended to Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and the Isles of the seas. His majesty will be compelled to purchase thrones wholesale—at a discount, of course—and will spend a large part of his time skipping raily from one to another, probably by the air route.

We imagine that the royal family, should the improbable occur, would be more than pleased at the opportunity to retire into private life, and from what we have seen of them, both the king and his heir would make fine citizens for this fair land. Indeed, there are a number of Canadians who believe a revolution in the United Kingdom would be worth while if it sent Prince Charming to us as a permanent resident. But it is the sheerest nonsense to talk of a Canadian throne. Canada doesn't want it and wouldn't consider it for a moment, and nobody understands or respects this feeling more than the English royal family. If there is a clique in the old land that seriously contemplates any such coup it is too insignificant to require investigation. And it would have no encouragement from this side. Of course, Toronto snobocracy thrills delightfully over the dream of a court established in Government House, but Mr. Drury and his Farmer-Labor Government will once for all dash this hope when they turn the Riverside palace into a hospital, playground, howling alley, or something else, that is both democratic and useful. Doesn't the World know that such an appalling conspiracy, if it existed, would long since have been scented by that grand old sleuth, the Toronto Telegram? What does the Telegram think, anyway, of the World stealing its stuff? That would make much more interesting reading than the World's "exposure," for which there might be some excuse were the season of that torrid type that tradition says drives the human mind to grotesque and bizarre imaginings.

THE NEW WORLD TRADE.

We know that land geography is always changing, both in war and peace, but we do not often think of a geography of the sea that is continually changing. It is almost too soon to realize, therefore, to what an extent since 1914 trade routes, like territories, have been altered; mercantile powers, upraised and fallen, and that from now on trade routes, unknown in the past, will demand attention. We have heard so much during these last five years of the world's tremendous shipping losses that it is surprising to learn from Lloyd's that the world's tonnage today is greater than it was in 1914 by a million and a half tons. There is evidence here of the strenuous ship building program that the maritime nations carried out in addition to their war effort. It is true that had the rate of building prior to 1914 been maintained since we would have much more than we have today, but shipbuilding resources are tremendously greater than in 1914, and a very few years will restore normal conditions.

Reconstruction of ocean commerce, the New York Nation points out, does not consist merely in restoring what existed before the war. Conditions today are so altered that new ocean highways are coming into being all over the world. Particularly is this true of Central and South America to which Europe is turning for further additions to the gigantic food supplies that it has always drawn, and will continue to draw from North America. The Nation points out some interesting changes in commerce, one of the most startling being in the matter of coal. Ten years ago no one would have believed that the United States could ever profitably export coal to Europe; yet it is being done today and profitably. The war shipping board reports European requests for 1,000,000 tons this winter. Porto Rico has also asked the same body for 100 refrigerator ships to convey food products of that island alone to waiting markets, and frozen meat is another commodity, bought in the past by England alone, now in demand by every European country.

Further examples of the changes that are taking place in sea geography may be seen in the extension of ocean route by the great Cunard and Steamship Company. Besides resuming its pre-war routes, as the Nation points out, this company has recently organized lines between Philadelphia and London and Philadelphia and Bristol, as well as a Boston-Australia service, and a service between New York and Turkey. Japanese shipping is also found entering the West Indian trade via the Panama Canal, an indication of the effect which that great work is bound to exercise in world trade. The war has also opened up to trade many backward countries that figured but little in the past. There is a great future for Mesopotamia under British administration, and the Garden of Eden will probably soon be exporting its products to many parts of the world. Britain's protecting relations with regard to Persia will bring the oil resources of that country into world use, and if Russia gets steadiest down foreign capital will soon develop the stupendous natural resources of that now troubled land.

It is a day when new trade markets are being opened up, when nations are laying the foundation for prosperity in the future. One might wish that Canada were in a better state to meet the situation. Mr. Lloyd Harris appears to have done his best to advance this country's interests abroad, but apparently found himself checked by the course of certain Canadian officials in London. Sir George Foster is mentioned for an important post in England having distinct bearing on the future of Canadian trade. As an alternative he has been mentioned for Lieutenant-governor of Ontario. We would respectfully suggest that he be given the latter position if a place must be found for him. He can do no special harm in the Ontario position, but at his age he is decidedly not the man to go abroad to build up Canadian trade. Britain is not worrying its head over Canadian trade, it is too busy looking after its own future. The man who goes to London will find that his competitors include Britain, and he will have to shape his course accordingly. It is a statesman's job and there is no businessman in Canada too big for it.

YUDENITCH FLIVVERS.

Those who had hoped and prayed for an early defeat of Lenin's armies will be disappointed at the reported collapse of Yudenitch's campaign. Less than a month ago his forces were going strong along the edge of the Baltic and Gulf of Finland towards Petrograd. It was the intention to encircle the Russian metropolis until the Reds were squeezed out. The material gain by this manoeuvre would have been great, but of still greater benefit to the anti-Bolshevik interests would have been the effect on the morale of Lenin's soldiers and followers. With Petrograd in the enemy's hands the faith and confidence of thousands in the Red cause would have been shattered, and rapid disintegration of the organization might have followed. Instead, we have Yudenitch's forces scattered after a panicky retreat and Petrograd firmly held by the Bolsheviks. No official explanation is given of Yudenitch's failure, but probably the main reason was lack of munitions and provisions. Yudenitch apparently planned a whirlwind drive that would land him the big prize before his war material gave out. This seems to be shown by the fact that there was no prepared line of retreat. Yudenitch, like Napoleon in his Moscow campaign, did not take into his scheme the possibility of having to fall back. He gambled and lost. To the outside world Yudenitch's failure is regrettable. His campaign if successful meant a great step toward the return of sanity and decency to Russia. His downfall, even if it be temporary, gives a fresh impetus to the detestable doings of Lenin and Trotsky.

SIR EDMUND WALKER'S VISIT.

The visit of Sir Edmund Walker to this city on the occasion of the opening of the London Institute of Musical Art is certain to have far-reaching and enduring beneficial results to Western Ontario. As the mayor pointed out, the Western University is on the eve of a great forward movement, and eventually the Institute of Musical Art will be associated with the university.

Sir Edmund Walker's addresses, both at the Chamber of Commerce meeting and at the opening of the Institute, displayed wide information. He does not confine himself to banking or financial questions, but believes the greater his knowledge on all subjects the safer will his judgment be on financial questions. The ability to put himself in the other man's place and view the subject from all sides enables him to encourage and establish institutions that grow and continue long after those who established and encouraged them are gone. These institutions cannot be estimated by any money value. They benefit the whole community. Sir Edmund's aid to music and painting has given Toronto one of the best choirs in the world.

His references to Japan induce the belief that in Japan the East and West must meet, that Japan is a great sea power and will become greater still. Here the East and West must learn to know each other, and that knowledge means much to the whole world.

The success of Mr. Jordan's enterprise is assured. It means much to Western Ontario and London, its center.

A PROFITEERS' MEETING?

Gipsy Smith arranges meetings specially for various classes of people, from children up to soldiers. Why not a profiteers' meeting? There's a class much abused and probably not altogether free of guilt. Surely the evangelist has not given them up altogether as soulless and heartless. While there's life there's hope. Could he touch their hearts, if such remain at all, and "turn them from sin to God," to use his phrase? A profiteer meeting might prove full of interest—at least 50 per cent net. What a rousing chorus of "Shall We Gather (profits) at the River," or the "Glory" song! A Bible reading about the servants doubling and trebling the talents would be appropriate, with the tale from the Old Testament of Jacob multiplying the cattle. On top of that Mr. Smith would endeavor in his sermon to show that the accumulation of talents should be for God and one's neighbor, not for self; "for the glory of God" and mankind, not of wife and child merely. He might suggest that various citizens should either living or dead do something for the general welfare, something, say, comparable to Dr. J. D. Barnett's splendid gift to this community of his great library. It seems a Stratford man has set an almost solitary example of New Testament treatment of neighbors on a large, generous scale. It is just possible, however, that even Gipsy Smith's wonderful powers could hardly Christianize the heathen profiteer.

Chicago indignantly denies that it is being swept by a wave of crime. Still, 36 hold-ups, 28 automobile thefts, 3 gun fights, 2 murders and 6 safe crackings is stepping lively for one day.

SWEET, LOW SPEECH OF THE RAIN.

(Ella Higginson, in "The Voice of April-Land.") It is pleasant to lie in the gloaming. When the sun has set, and the moon is wane, And the careful, rejoicing reaper, Has garnered and stored his grain, And hear at the doors and the windows The sweet, low speech of the rain.

Ah, May has the burst of the blossom, And the red of the willow vine, And the glad uplift of the flowers, And the heart of the reaper, And the sweet, low speech of the rain.

July has the rose and the purple, And the sunset's golden stain, On the river that draws thro' the valley A glittering, wave-linked chain; But never this lyrical, tremendous, Sweet, low speech of the rain.

Each heart knows the joy of the winter, The drift of the snow on the plain, The book and the charm of the fireside, The glow of the hearth, and the pane; But, ah! for the faltering, pausing, Sweet, low speech of the rain.

LENGTHENING HUMAN LIFE.

(New York World.) Dr. William J. Mayo, in his address before the American College of Surgeons, made a definite promise of prolongation of life by medical science which laymen will accept in good faith. It is only to be sure, an additional year; it is not perpetual youth and it is not achieved by magic elixirs or by the grafting of glands.

But this new decade of years won from disability and death, and joined to the fifteen years which Dr. Mayo says have been "added to the average length of life since the close of the Civil War," will mean that Americans born before the present century is half over may expect to enjoy a quarter of a century more of active and usefulness than their fathers did when Lincoln was president.

Certainly that is a boon for which most people will be more grateful than for delusive promises of physical immortality. Like the hymn writer, they "would not live always," but they will generally content with the "threescore years and ten" of the Psalmist, given that they may retain their faculties and their vigor unimpaired for that span of life. It is the prolongation of life as respects its productive possibilities that mainly appeals to laymen, and they will attach more weight to the assurances of conservative investigators than to all the prophets of perpetual youth.

THE EXIT OF THE HOHENZOLLERNS.

(Hawick News.) The exit of the Hohenzollerns from the country they have cursed so long has been as ignominious as their influence has been infamous. The man who has departed before the world for thirty years as the All-Highest and the Supreme War Lord of a great empire has scuttled as a craven fugitive to the nearest place of safety. He has fled from an infuriated people, corrupted to the very core by his evil influence, and humbled to the dust through his and their own insane and criminal ambition. In his trail he has left red ruin and an execrated memory. At last his dupes, and his tools, and his cunning slaves, have turned on him. He has been humiliated, they have no further use for him. True to their nature; themselves without honor, or chivalry, or pity; baffled in the criminal enterprise which they entered upon with slavishness, they now discard the man they served with such slavish fealty in other days. And now he is reaping what he sowed. With persistent and systematic constancy he corrupted them. With an army of junkies, and teachers, and professional scoundrels, he inducted into their very souls his own infamous creed. With tireless energy he inflamed them with the lust for conquest. With vain and swelling words he hampered them into their "bitter need of sea-power," their "future upon the water," their "just demand" for "a larger place in the sun," and their "right to ride down all and sundry who dared oppose them." With the turgid oratory of which he was a master he appealed to their vilest instincts, and, unhappily for the world, as well as for themselves, with a very large and fatal measure of success. He persuaded them, and fostered the conviction in them, that there was none among all the peoples of the earth like unto them, and that any or every nation might be their legitimate prey.

Never did a ruler so completely infect a people with his own baseless vanity and insane ambitions. And never were a people more eager to be infected. Their vanity became almost incredible. It would have been ridiculous had it not made them dangerous. They boasted of their "Kultur" till the whole world loathed the very word. They shouted their superiority and invincibility by land and sea till more than half the world believed them. And at last, when they thought their day had come, and they broke the peace of Europe, they revealed to all mankind a proficiency in treachery, and baseness, and cruelty, a savagery in murder and destruction, unequaled in all the history of the world.

As the ruler has been and is, so the people were and are. His crimes were their crimes. His infamies were theirs. Where he led they followed with slavish obedience. It is as idle as it is unjust to draw distinctions between them and him. Sixty-five millions of people bowed the knee to him. They proclaimed him their All-Highest. They believed him with their crawling homage. None but criminals become partners in crime. None but murderers stain their souls with murder. None but men of fiendish instincts perpetrate fiendish acts. Against which of all the multitude of dastardly crimes committed during these years of war have any of the German people lifted a voice of protest? Have they not gloated over them? Have they not cheered them, and rung their bells, and given their children holidays, in celebration of them?

Life at the Heart. At last, we are told, they have "conquered their belief in the justice of might." The statement has a lie at the heart of it. They have never been concerned about justice. Might, might, might. Might, might, might. And only crass stupidity will believe that they have abandoned it today. The Ethiopian does not change his skin, nor the leopard his spots. All the perjuries of Arabia could not sweeten Germany's murder and hands. Nor will any whitening words from Prince Max of Baden at the conquest of their own long-cherished and diabolical belief, nor any whimpers of the egregious Dr. Schuler to President Wilson, of all men's, conviction of a "just and durable peace," deceive anyone with a shred of memory of what these four years have taught us. At this moment we are not concerned about any professed and hypocritical change in their belief. We are concerned to know that they no longer have the power to practice them. The fact that Marshal Foch and the allied armies have conquered them, thoroughly and utterly, have driven their teeth and cut their claws, and have reduced their might to nothingness, is what concerns us today. They may change their form of government. Republics and socialist states may spring up like mushrooms in every former kingdom and duchy of Germany; but it will be many a long day before the world believes that they have changed their character, their brutal instincts, their obscene and merciless and criminal disposition. None should know them better than their once-belated and now fugitive and discarded War Lord. Not for twenty-four hours after they were done with them could he trust himself among them. Victorious as he was, he was better than the spoils of piracy and murder, which they lust to share with him, they are ready to read him, and to make of him their scapegoat. They are true to their word; he has been more so, and for him and for him the same mistrust is due. A more fatal figure, a meaner soul, the world has never known. He has proved himself by his latest act as great a criminal as a villain. Among all the kings of the earth he has been more base, has wrought more evil, and has caused more sorrow, than any man who has worn a crown, or who has ever breathed the breath of life. For him there is no assured immortality of this day must for ever share.

To say and to feel this is not vindictiveness. To say and to feel otherwise would be to confess our blindness to eternal justice, and our cold-blooded forgetfulness of all the hideous wrongs which have been perpetrated during these tragic years, and of all who have known their agony in death, in suffering and in sorrow. The future peace of the world demands that these things should be branded on our memory, and that the criminals, who bear the mark of Cain, should not so free.

The Advertiser's Daily Short Story

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

THE JAZZ GIRL.

By Will T. Ames.

Glady's Kimball was not, to tell the truth, having quite as good a time as she had anticipated. When a girl has the satisfaction of feeling herself and her family to be the distinct superiors of everybody in a fifty-cottage summer and the most expensive canoe in the place, and when her fiancé has come to visit her and is both good looking and very well-to-do, the stage would appear to be set for happiness. Jim had arrived in the forenoon, buoyant, flatteringly glad to be with her again, and they had had quite a wonderful day on the water, and in it.

Yet now, as they sat on the wide veranda of the Kimball cottage, with the wide cove stretching far off into the starlight night and the whippoorwill humming away at their everlasting vocal carpet beating, Glady's was conscious of being a bit bored rather than exultantly blissful. The rhythmic cadence of the orchestra was a little too slow, she said. "Just sitting still and looking at nothing."

Jim Carruthers, after an early morning start, a considerable railroad trip and his outdoor day, hadn't thought of the occasion as being "slow" in the least. He wouldn't have been content to sit there with Glady's a very long time. But he was good tempered, was Jim. He was used to a certain degree of being restrained, and he was a very wise and sensible fellow. So he only said in reply: "Well, what do you want to fly at next?"

There's a place over there where the dance-gang of the less particular of the vale people and a crowd of old sorts that come out here from town in the evening. We wouldn't care to mingle with them, of course, but we could go over there and have an ice and look on. The music isn't so bad. "All right," assented Jim, "let's go." He was too tired to dance, anyhow, so he made no comment on Glady's exclusiveness, though he glanced a bit under cover of the darkness.

The pavilion was broad and airy and flooded with soft light. Jim thought the "all sorts" who patronized it seemed to be a pretty decent sort, on the whole. Anyway, they made a mighty interesting picture, full of color and graceful movement. Glady's chose a table from which there was a perfect view of the floor, and presently over their shoulders, both were lost in the fascination of the scene.

The music changed. The tremulous, curving throbs of a classic waltz gave place to a "jazz with all the wool on." Jim exclaimed, mostly to himself, "From a settler just in front of Jim and Glady's a man and a girl arose, swung lightly into each other's arms and floated away into the crowd."

To speak of jazzers "floating" may be, ordinarily, a fantastic use of language—but not when applied to jazzers such as these. A leaf, caught in the current of a rippling, surging, jolly little band, never swam more lightly with all its tremors and rockings and quiverings.

And it was as a single leaf, thrilling with the joy of its adventure, that he danced. Jim found himself suddenly very wide awake as he watched them, almost breathless in his admiration of the superb performance.

He turned suddenly to Glady's. "Did you notice that couple who were sitting in front of us? Did you ever see anything like their dancing?"

"You mean that creature in black with bobbed blue hair?" Glady's inquired in turn. "That's the trouble with all such public places as this. They never seem to be able, somehow, to keep them out. A really nice girl can't." Glady's let her sentence trail off into nothing.

Jim had a reply on his lips when she suddenly descended upon Glady's three extraordinarily gushing young buds named Burton, who had arrived at their place in the vale on that day. The Burtons shares with the Kimballs the distinction of being the "very nicest" of the Vale colonists. Jim thought the girls rather rude in the manner of their carrying Glady's off to see their mother, who was "out-side in the limousine, you know," he had been less easy tempered, he might have resented the offhand way in which Glady's, finding him a command to "stay here, Jimmie," disappeared in the direction of the big doorway. But he didn't appear to mind.

Twenty minutes later Glady's, returning, found another party at the table and Jim nowhere in sight. The slight indignation she felt at her fiancé's failure to "stay put" during the time when she had been given her heart's blood, almost, to go on with her painting, isn't the kind to make mischief. But, on the other hand, when a girl like Glady's, whose only thought is to make a front with money you ought to have—that's what she's pretending not to know her own cousin, and not only that but affects to despise her as a person not even respectable, why, Jimmie Carruthers, if he's going to become a relative of that girl, would a whole lot rather be her cousin by marriage than her husband."

"Nonsense, Jimmie!" "Why nonsense?" "And to save her life Edith couldn't tell him why."

"I shall do nothing of the kind. No decent woman would be in such a business nor dress as she does. You have mortified me beyond forgiveness publicly associating, in a place like this, with such an impossible creature. I'm afraid you do not appreciate the obligations of the class to which I belong. Perhaps we have made a mistake in becoming engaged."

This was a sheer bluff on Glady's part, but she felt sure of her ground with Jimmie. She was tremendously surprised, therefore, when Carruthers, with an unwonted eagerness in his countenance, answered, after a moment's silence.

"I rather think you are right, Glady's, I'll be getting my things and going."

An hour later Jim and the jazz girl were sitting together on a shaded rock at the edge of the cove. "But," protested the girl, "I haven't the faintest idea when I told you all about myself in town last winter, that you even knew Glady's."

"You don't suppose, do you, that if I'd known how things stood between you and her I'd have told you all that story about her father's estate and all? Nor that last night I would have pointed her out to you as the snob cousin I'd told you about?"

"No, Edith," responded Jimmie, "I don't. A girl who gave up college to support a whole family, the way you've done, and did it all with a laugh when she'd have given her heart's blood, almost, to go on with her painting, isn't the kind to make mischief. But, on the other hand, when a girl like Glady's, whose only thought is to make a front with money you ought to have—that's what she's pretending not to know her own cousin, and not only that but affects to despise her as a person not even respectable, why, Jimmie Carruthers, if he's going to become a relative of that girl, would a whole lot rather be her cousin by marriage than her husband."

"Nonsense, Jimmie!" "Why nonsense?" "And to save her life Edith couldn't tell him why."

Tremaine and Dick Atkins To Provide the Feature Bout for G.A.C. Card Here Dec. 12

Both Boys Have Large Following in Queen City and Hamilton, and Are Championship Possibilities in Future — Goodrich May Return Also With Another Good Boy.

The headquarters of the G.A.C. have decided on Dec. 12 as the date for their boxing card at the armories. Messrs. Tremaine and Atkins, who are working in the interests of the Toronto branches, were in the city yesterday looking over the situation.

It is realized by the G.A.C. authorities that the results of the last card would hardly justify another card, were it not for a deep-seated conviction that there are really enough boxing fans in the city to support the sport if proper measures are taken to advertise the bouts.

The last card was one of the best that has ever been put on in the city, but certainly the crowd of fans did not do justice to the attempts that had been made to provide them with a real bill.

The card that is proposed this time is going to be still stronger, though it is not entirely made up, depending largely upon some of the bouts in which possible principals are engaging in the next few days.

The feature bout is almost assured, however, and this will be a go between Carl Tremaine, the Milwaukee 135-pound boy who has made a big hit with the Toronto and Hamilton boxing fraternity, and Fighting Dick Atkins, whose work through a series of bouts in the last month both in Toronto and Hamilton and in New York City has won him a big following.

Benny Gold and Joyce will provide the doings in another of the main bouts if Joyce can make 116 pounds ring-side. Goodrich may also be brought back for another bout, and after the Tonawanda lad's work here with Ebor on the last card local fans will know they are going to see a battle no matter who his opponent is. Gunner Mike Smith of Woodstock, if his pro. debut is successful, is also a possibility. The G.A.C. bouts in Toronto, which have been on the go for the past two months, have been exceptionally well patronized and their cards have gathered a big following in both the Queen City and Hamilton.

SARNIA PLAYS FLINT TO A 1-1 TIE IN FAST SOCCER

SARNIA, Nov. 27.—Flint and Sarnia played a 1 to 1 tie in a fast soccer game here today. The Flint aggregation is one of the fastest seen here this year, their strong point being their defensive work on the part of their halves. Sarnia did more rushing, but repeatedly lost the ball after working it up to the Americans' goal. Flint scored toward the end of the first period after repeatedly bombarding McMillan from close in. Smith, the Flint forward, shooting one by the Sarnia goalkeeper after he had stopped about ten hard shots in less than a minute. The two Smiths on the Flint line did good work throughout the game. The Sarnia team showed their lack of teamwork on several occasions, but the individual work of Thorpe, Hobin, Willis and Brady and W. Cook were outstanding features.

The line-up: Flint—Goal, Curran; backs, Gillespie, G. Smith; halves, Muir, Accardy and Dunlop; forwards, C. Smith, Mawdsley, Coleman, Silcock and McFadden. Sarnia—Goal, McMillan; backs, Shedden, Manchester; halves, Cook, Birken, Shaw, Walker; forwards, Thorpe, Willis, Hobin, Brady and Bentley.

SKEETERS, TIGERS AND LEAFS ARE WINNING FIVES AT Y GYM.

Close Games Mark All Last Evening's Fixtures—Big Gallery of Spectators.

Skeeters, Tigers and Leafs were the winners in the City League Basketball games staged at the "Y" gym last evening. From whistle to whistle each game was interesting, and warmly contested. Western University players are getting the best kind of practice in these city league fixtures, and they are distributed pretty well over the league.

The team results were as follows: Skeeters ..... R. F. S. Harris Taylor ..... L. F. C. Cline Peever ..... C. C. Jackson McGeech ..... R. G. M. Brock Simpson ..... L. G. W. Hedden

Tigers ..... R. F. S. Harris Taylor ..... L. F. C. Cline Peever ..... C. C. Jackson McGeech ..... R. G. M. Brock Simpson ..... L. G. W. Hedden Leafs ..... R. F. S. Harris Taylor ..... L. F. C. Cline Peever ..... C. C. Jackson McGeech ..... R. G. M. Brock Simpson ..... L. G. W. Hedden

MORAN, QUEEN'S CAPTAIN, MAY LOSE RIGHT ARM

KINGSTON, Nov. 27.—Word was received here today that Lieut. Moran, former Queen's football captain, is seriously ill in New Westminster, B. C. It is stated that he will lose his right arm above the elbow.

Junior O.H.A. Team Begins Training Saturday Night

Fifteen Candidates Are Expected Out and Other Players of Unknown Addresses, It Is Hoped, Will Report As Soon As Possible.

The first workout of the local Junior O. H. A. will be staged tomorrow night at the "Y" gymnasium, and a big turnout of youngsters as candidates for this year's team is anticipated.

There are at least fifteen candidates in sight, and with whom the club officials have got into touch, and there are several players now resident in the city from other places whom it is expected will be on hand for the first workout.

Training would have been started earlier in the week, but for the fact that it has been found impossible to work in periods, convenient to the players, and which would not clash with the program of the Y. M. C. A. Even on Saturday night, it was found necessary to get on the floor at 8 o'clock. However, as in most places of business, Saturday afternoon is a half-holiday, it is not thought that the confinement of the hour will be an obstacle to any of the players getting out to the workouts.

FOUR GOOD BOUTS ENTERTAINMENT FOR GALT FIGHT FANS

Chip Davis of Buffalo Out-points Dwyer in Ten Rounds.

[Special to The Advertiser.] GALT, Nov. 27.—Galt A. A. A. tonight held its first boxing show, which proved one of the best ever staged here. Scott's opera house was well filled and the four bouts were good exhibitions.

The curtain raiser was a four-round exhibition by the Gillette midgeets of Preston, then followed six rounds between Pte. Callan of Galt and Kid Burns of Buffalo. The latter had the advantage in weight and received the decision on points.

In what proved a hugging match, Harry Westbury of Toronto were defeated by Young Murray of Buffalo against Benny Gold. It was a rattling good ten-round match. Gold was on the offensive all the way, but Murray was a fender for punishment. Benny won on points.

In the main bout of ten rounds, Chip Davis of Buffalo decisively outpointed Dwyer, also of Buffalo, showing more science and a few more punches. It was an interesting bout to watch.

Between bouts there was chorus singing. A show a n at sum was realized for hockey purposes. Lou Marsh of Toronto was referee.

GIRLS WILL STAGE GREAT STRUGGLE AT BASKETBALL

Now that the great war is over and that provincial elections have been fought and won, interest in municipal circles is turning to a conflict which promises to outdo both. This is no less than a basketball game which is scheduled to take place between the young ladies of the city hall and those on the staff of the public utility commission.

Both sides have plenty of material from which to draw, and when the heat is finally chosen for each team they promise to give a real exhibition of basketball as it should be played.

The city hall enthusiasts got into training Wednesday. Among those who turned out for practice were Misses Proget, Russ, Forsyth, McDougall, Toule and Wingate and Mrs. Hughes. Several city officials who are interested in seeing the city hall team carry off the honors also turned out to do their bit.

George Tambling has volunteered as coach. The public utilities on its part is also preparing to match the title. It has a number of experienced players and has had some practice at teamwork.

CHAMP. P. HERMAN GETS DECISION OVER RUSSELL

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Nov. 27.—Pete Herman of New Orleans, the world's bantamweight champion, out-fought Mickey Russell, a local boy, in an eight-round bout, which went the limit here today. Russell put up a plucky, aggressive battle, but the champion was

PECK DEFEATS CORNELL; SCORE THREE TOUCHDOWNS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27.—Pennsylvania defeated Cornell in their annual football game on Franklin Field today, 24 to 6. The visitors showed better form in all style of play. Cornell was weak on both defence and attack, and the Quakers scored three touchdowns and goals and one field goal.

DEAD HORSE CASE BRINGS ANOTHER FINE

BLENNHEIM, Nov. 27.—Another score was made today in police court by the health authorities when Victor Wagner pleaded guilty to a charge of having on his premises flesh of a dead horse. The charge was laid as a result of a find made a few days ago in an inspection. The defendant acknowledged having killed a couple of horses. It was suspected he had fed the flesh to a number of dogs, but this was not proven. A severe reprimand and a fine of $25 and costs of $5.75 was imposed by Magistrate J. C. Whittington. On another charge of throwing portions of dead animals on a road in the case was laid over for one week. It would appear from information secured by the authorities that quite a number of old horses have been disposed of in this district lately and inquiry is being made as to the disposal

He took considerable interest in public affairs. He was unmarried.

CANADIANS CAN NOW LOOK FORWARD TO A SOFT COAL SHORTAGE

Dominion Fuel Controller
Urges Economy.

MAY LAST SOME TIME

Official Foresees Serious Situation
Following Failure of Negotiations.

OTTAWA, Nov. 27.—Canadians can now look forward to a shortage of soft coal supplies for some time, in the opinion of C. A. Magrath, Dominion fuel controller, who has just returned from Washington. In view of the breaking off of negotiations between the miners and operators, announced late this afternoon, there can be little hope of amelioration of the situation for some time.

Previous to receiving the announcement of the breach at Washington, Mr. Magrath, who had been in conference with the fuel administration of Ontario and Quebec, issued a statement calling attention to the gravity of the soft coal situation and urging the most rigid conservation policy. On being informed of the new developments across the border, he called attention to the fact that he had anticipated that the award might not be acceptable to either miners or operators, and said that now the greatest care with the present supply would be necessary.

The following statement was issued from the fuel controller's office: "As was announced in the telegraphic dispatches today, Dr. Garfield notified the operators and representatives of the miners in Washington yesterday afternoon that he regarded fourteen per cent increase as sufficient. Mr. Magrath says it is quite probable that this increase will not be satisfactory to either the operators or the miners. In which event the present crisis may continue for several weeks—in fact, as he says, if a settlement is not reached in three or four days we can look for quite a shortage of soft coal supply for some time to come.

"Under the circumstances there is only one sound course to be pursued, and that is to rigidly conserve every pound of coal that is in the country, and every pound of coal that Canada may receive during the next few weeks. It simply means that the present small allotment to Canada can only be made available to meet the needs of public utilities, hospitals and municipal institutions.

Must Give Evidence. "Some days ago, in anticipation of the situation continuing, an announcement was made through the press to the public by the fuel controller that those institutions and industries requiring coal must submit to the fuel administrator of the province a statement under oath as to the character of the work carried on by the institution or industry, the amount of coal that is in stock, the amount that is normally consumed per diem, and from whom supplies in the past have been obtained. It seems necessary to remind the public that this information is absolutely necessary, and until it is supplied to the fuel administrator of the province little can be done toward facilitating the movement of coal to Canada.

"While industries in Canada have contracted for coal in the United States and are being advised in some instances of shipments being made, it might as well be clearly understood that the coal committee of the United States railroad administration, which has absolute control over all soft coal supplies, is diverting such shipments whenever and wherever they deem it essential. The only method whereby soft coal may be secured from the United States at the present time is through the provincial fuel administrator and the fuel controller at Ottawa."

British People Want a Supply of Good Liquor

Newspapers Urge Better
Public Houses, But Not Prohibition.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(Canadian Associated Press.)—The imminence of the Government bill concerning the drink trade has produced a number of press comments today. The Daily News, which at one time refused liquor advertisements and declined to print the racing news, but which has since modified this attitude, thinks extreme proposals either of the trade itself, or of the prohibitionists will never command popular approval. It suggests that the 1916 reports, showing state purchases to be both practicable and desirable, should be taken from pigeon holes.

"What we want is a sufficient supply of wholesome liquor at reasonable hours for purchasing and suitable places for consumption," declares the Express, which further indicates approval of reform on lines already carried out in the Carlisle district.

The Daily Mail says the new scheme clearly will contain something for "Pussyfoot" Johnson. The Government will urge a compromise pleasing to the prohibitionists by imposing further restrictions, contenting the trade by making public houses more comfortable and more remunerative than at present. "What the public wants," adds the Mail, "is a better licensing system, giving better public house accommodations which a decent man can own creditably, and decent people use without loss of self-respect."

URGES VACCINATION OF EVERYONE IN MANITOBA

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 27.—Dr. Stuart M. Fraser, provincial health officer for Manitoba, today declared that it was the duty of every man, woman and child in Manitoba to be vaccinated, owing to the smallpox outbreaks in the east, which was already making its entrance into Manitoba.

Medical men, he declared, looked for outbreaks of smallpox in March, largely owing to the movement of men from the lumber camps.

Make This
a Musical Christmas

Make
This a Musical
Christmas—

This is indeed a splendid motto for this Christmas. This is the year for real rejoicing, and music at all times is symbolic of festivity.

The NEW EDISON "The Phonograph with a Soul"

will provide for your Christmas this year the finest in music. Any phonograph maker can say that, but can he go further and say that his phonograph reproduces the human voice to the point where it cannot be detected from the singer's own voice?

All over Canada this last few years there have been public tests proving Edison's claim that he "RE-CREATES" music. If you will come to our store we would be delighted to play some of your favorites on the NEW EDISON, "The Phonograph with a Soul."

COAL MINE PROFITS IN 1917 IN SOME INSTANCES EXCEEDED THE CAPITAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Profits several times in excess of the entire capital invested came back to many coal operators in 1917. William McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, declared in a further statement tonight, relative to the coal controversy. He asserted that those operators "must now be on velvet." The statement follows:

"The coal operators assert that I gave out confidential information, when I stated that profits of the mine owners in 1917 ranged from 15 to 2,000 per cent on capital stock before deduction of taxes. This was not confidential information. The treasury department may publish statistical matter of this character at any time. In fact, this very subject was furnished by me to the United States Senate in response to a resolution introduced by Senator Borah concerning profiteering, and was published July 5, 1918. (See Senate document 259-65th Congress—second session.)

"In this report the returns of several hundred coal companies showed profits ranging from 15 to 800 per cent on their invested capital in 1917. The range of profits was higher on capital stock. In short, many coal operators got back their entire invested capital several times out of their profits in 1917, as shown by the reports, and must now be on velvet."

Secretary Green of the mine workers accused Dr. Garfield of "doing great injustice to a million miners" in making his analysis of the situation, and said the fuel administrator's action

"approached the commission of a moral crime against the public." Green declared. Lewis and other national officials of the mine workers planned to stay a day or two in the city, but the fifty-old delegates from the district joined the operators in leaving as quickly as possible after the break.

Fuel Administrator Garfield tonight was informed of the result, but had nothing to say for publication. Officials looked for further steps by the Government, but there was considerable doubt as to what these would be.

DEFENCE HAS NOVEL ARGUMENT IN REPLY TO LIQUOR CHARGE

Contents Ottawa Not a "Prohibited Area" Within Meaning of Act.

OTTAWA, Nov. 27.—That the city of Ottawa is not a "prohibited area" within the meaning of the Dominion order-in-council passed last February, touching the transportation into prohibited areas of intoxicating liquor, is the line of defence which will be conducted by Norman Guthrie and R. Code, counsel for the defence in the case of Inspector McLaughlin vs. the Canadian Express Company.

The Canadian Express Company was charged in police court this afternoon with "having on November 15 intoxicating liquors taken or transported into the city of Ottawa, province of Ontario, being prohibited area under the Ontario temperance act, contrary to the order-in-council of the Dominion of Canada, passed on the 24th day of February, 1919."

The charge arises out of the seizure by Inspector McLaughlin at the Central station of 35 cases of champagne consigned from Messrs. Boivin, Wilson & Co., Montreal, to the Country Club. The liquor was labeled "Country Club, Hull," but when sequestered was in the express company's office, and, according to Inspector McLaughlin's interpretation of the law, was not in transit.

Adjournment Asked. At the outset of proceedings Inspector McLaughlin stated that it would be necessary for him to secure a week's adjournment in view of the company refusing to admit that Ottawa or Hull were prohibited areas within the meaning of the act; also for him to ascertain whether or not the consignees were duly licensed liquor dealers.

Norman Guthrie stated that the company was quite willing to admit any charge that Inspector McLaughlin could prove regarding the seizure of the liquor and its destination, but he contended that under the Dominion order-in-council touching the liquor question, neither Ottawa nor Hull could be called a "prohibited area."

"In fact, there is no such thing as a prohibited area, within the meaning of the order-in-council," said Mr. Guthrie. "I am willing to admit that there is a partial prohibition of the use of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, but as liquor is allowed to be sold by government vendors for medicinal, sacramental or other purposes, I contend that Ottawa, and for that mat-

IF THIN AND NERVOUS, TRY PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate To Put Out Firm, Healthy Flesh and To Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

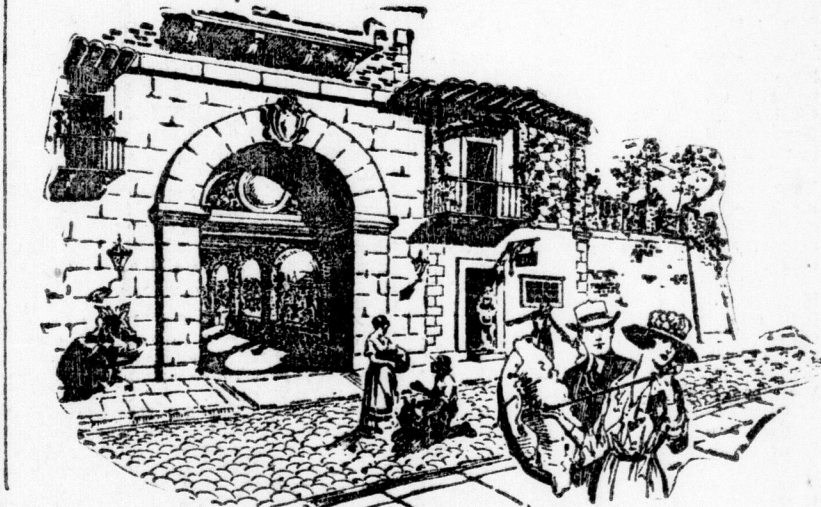

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness. Thinness and weakness are often due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate should produce a welcome transformation in the appearance, the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, should soon disappear, dull eyes ought to brighten, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health. Miss Georgia Hamilton, who was once thin and frail, reporting her own experience, writes: "Bitro-Phosphate has brought about a magic transformation with me. I gained 15 pounds and never before felt so well."

CAUTION.—While Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for the relief of nervousness, general debility, etc., those taking it who do not desire to put on

ITALY GUARANTEES JUGO-SLAVS AGAINST ATTACK ON SPALATO

Will Itself Prevent Any At-

by D'Annunzio.

RASLJE, Nov. 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—A dispatch from Belgrade, dated November 25, has been received by the Liabach (Austria) correspondence bureau, stating that the Italian Government has informed the Government of Jugo-Slavia that Italy would observe the decision reached by the Paris peace conference with regard to the Dalmatian question, and would itself prevent any attempt in the direction of Spalato by Gabriele d'Annunzio.

NEARLY FIVE HUNDRED UNITED GRAIN GROWERS AT ANNUAL CONVENTION

WINNIPEG, Nov. 27.—At the annual meeting of the United Grain Growers, limited, held at the Hotel Vancouver, and individual shareholders from all parts of the prairie provinces attended.

President T. C. Greer was unable to be present owing to a slight attack of blood poisoning in his arm, and the president's annual address was read by Secretary E. J. Freeman.

Spalato, capital of the company, is now $2,415,000, the reserve fund $1,500,000, and in addition the amount at the credit of profit and loss account is $256,000. On the year's operations ending August 31 the profit of the company was $145,549, a decrease from last year owing to the reduction in the grain crop, post-war readjustments and the tie-up of business caused by the Winnipeg strike last June. A six per cent dividend totalling $141,000, was paid to shareholders this month. Total volume of grain handled by the company during the year was 22,600,000 bushels, compared with 2,000,000 bushels last year.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Tells How to Darken Grey Hair with a Home-Made Mixture.

Jocely Williams, the well-known actress, who was recently playing at the Imperial Theatre in St. Louis, Mo., made the following statement about grey hair and how to darken it:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken grey, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water, add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Orin's Compound, and 4 ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This mixture will make a grey-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky, or greasy, and does not rub off.

TRI-PARTITE TREATY TO PROTECT FRANCE WOULD STILL STAND

AUSTRIAN SITUATION

Lloyd George Says Only International Credit Can Solve Problem.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—David Lloyd George, the prime minister, again stood up on the floor of the House of Commons and for a long time gave answers to a lengthy list of questions on all subjects, mostly, however, in connection with the European economic and military situation arising from the war.

One of the most important of the questions related to the condition of Austria, which Commander Viscount Curzon, Coalition Unionist member for Battersea South, asked whether the supreme council in Paris, including the United States or Great Britain, was taking steps to deal with the situation.

The premier declared that the supreme council had reached the conclusion that the only comprehensive arrangement for a large international credit would be adequately secured by the success of such a proposal that the United States should contribute its part of the expenditure which would have to be incurred in dollars.

"The government have accordingly been made to the United States Government in this sense," the premier added.

No Change.

Questioned regarding whose duty it would be to examine the first meeting of the assembly and the first meeting of the council of the league of nations in view of the fact of the American Senate's refusal to ratify the Versailles treaty, Mr. Lloyd George said that article 14 of the treaty stipulated that the president of the United States should summon the meeting. He added that he did not understand that this was affected in any way by the refusal of the American Senate to ratify the treaty.

Another inquiry, made by James Hogg, advanced Radical and Scottish home rule member for Edinburgh, whether Mr. Lloyd George gave any undertaking to the House of Commons that he would endeavor to settle the Irish question, this brought a direct negative reply.

Answering still another question, the premier said that the effect of the American Senate's action with regard to the treaty provisions for plebiscite in the case of Alsace-Lorraine would be only indirect. It would be necessary for the other powers to find larger resources for credit for these commissions.

The premier said that the Anglo-French-American treaty providing for the defence of France in case of wanton attack was contingent on ratification of the tripartite treaty, provided that American refusal to ratify the peace treaty would not necessarily affect the tripartite treaty, provided the United States ratified the tripartite part separately.

Son of Quebec Premier Urges a Closer Union

Campaign of National Patriotism Is the Panacea
For Canada.

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—Leon Mercier, son of Sir Lomer Gouin, premier of Quebec, gave an inspiring address at the Empire Club luncheon here today.

"We badly need a very cordial reception," said he, "a campaign of national patriotism, for that will help to solve the language question, which is the real difficulty between our closer union. It is not religion any longer."

Closer union, Mr. Gouin pointed out, must be accomplished on a basis of co-operation and not assimilation. The chasm could be bridged only by mutual understanding and respect.

The opinion was current that French-Canadians could not be loyal at once to their province and their country, but a man could be a good Canadian and a good Britisher, or a good Irishman or French-Canadian and a good Canadian.

Universal Tribute.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, branded in Quebec as a traitor to race and creed, and in the rest of the Dominion as a "Canadien" and a "Catholic," had, once he was dead, received the universal tribute that was his due for his patriotism and his statesmanship.

Touching on the means by which harmony between the two racial elements of the country might be brought about, Mr. Gouin offered a few suggestions.

"We have only to bring the two races together," he asserted, "to achieve national harmony. By welcoming us in the charming way in which you have welcomed me you persuade us that the only way to realize a united Canada is to promote closer relations between the two races."

"I appeal to you," he said, "to allow the youth of my race to come and become acquainted with you as I have had the honor of becoming acquainted with you."

25-YEAR SENTENCE.

before purchasing a baking powder that may possibly contain injurious ingredients. Many food scientists claim that baking powder containing alum is unsafe for use in food. The mere fact that some brands of baking powder have the words "No Alum" on the label is not sufficient proof that they are what they are represented to be. Our chemists find a good many have "No Alum" on the outside but large quantities of it inside.

"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlyle H. Holcomb

YOUNG FOX'S FALSE STORY.

When the young Red Fox reached his home he found Lady Duck and O Possum eating. There was something about his manner very much different than usual. He acted in a sneaking sort of way, which was noticeable to O Possum.

"What is the matter with young Red Fox? He doesn't act natural," said O Possum to Lady Duck.

"I cannot say," said Lady Duck. "I myself did not notice anything strange about his manner."

"But there is something strange about him," insisted O Possum. "He looks worried and acts very much as though something terrible had happened."

"Perhaps he is sick," suggested Lady Duck. "He does not want to eat. I will ask him."

As Lady Duck approached Red Fox, his face bore an expression of shame.

"Oh, what an outrage!" cried Lady Duck.

"Are you sick?" asked she. "If not, pray tell me what is the matter."

"Yes, I'm very sick," replied the young fox.

"Oh, it's too terrible to tell you," continued young fox as he hung his head.

"If it is anything dangerous, you must tell it," insisted Lady Duck.

"If I tell it, I suppose I can," said young fox rather timidly.

O Possum came close so that he might hear also. "You see," said the fox, "I was close by the King's throne when the forest Sparrow came along and told me that he was leading an army that would kill the King and take his throne. I told him he could not find an army that would do such a thing as that. Then he began to make fun of my feet because they were covered with hair, and my nose because they were sharp and covered with hair, and my teeth because they were long and white. This was more than I could stand, and I sprang at him. But he got away. Now, what makes me sick is to think of the army he is going to lead against our King."

"Oh, what an outrage!" cried Lady Duck. "The forest Sparrow will have to suffer for all this."

Lady Duck had no more than finished this statement when they all beheld Tinker Bob approaching. Lady Duck hurried to tell him what young fox had said.

"I heard it all," said Tinker Bob, but it isn't true. The truth is that young fox went into my palace and put on my crown and sat upon the throne, waiting for the Sparrow, and when he thought the chance was good he sprang upon him, but my coat was buttoned too tight and the Sparrow got away."

Immediately Lady Duck took young Red Fox across her knee and with her wing she spanked him soundly—not so much for what he had done, but because he had tried to lie to his wife and to her. Tomorrow—Miss Mousie Displeases the King.

The Sound That Broke and Scattered Madge's Fancy.

Mrs. Durkee must have reported to Major Grantland that the roses he had sent were fading, for in the afternoon following her comment upon our neglect of them a box of fresh blossoms arrived. I glanced nervously at Lillian when they came in, but her face was non-committal, and she opened the box, handed me the card it contained, and put the roses in vases and bowls with but a single comment.

"Kisses, nothing but roses," she said. "They must be the man's favorite flower."

I wondered if it were only my fancy or if there were a suspicion of a sneer in her voice. I began hurriedly to scrutinize the card which had accompanied the flowers.

"I am anxiously awaiting the day when I can express to you in person the sorrow I feel at having caused you such suffering. In the interim please let the roses convey that message to you.—H. G."

I laid the card down upon the cover, let of my bed with a queer fantasy taking possession of me, the conviction that the roses were not only conveying the message he mentioned, but another.

"Lillian," I said a bit sharply, "do you notice a fragrance like wild roses in here?"

She looked at me shrewdly, then sniffed the air critically.

"Your imagination is certainly working overtime," she smiled. "There is no such scent here."

The fragrance of wild roses is stimulating, while these things are almost like tuberoses, their odor is so overpowering."

I closed my eyes in unreasoning protest. For the fragrance of wild roses was so real a thing to me that it brought before me a memory I thought I had buried deep, a memory which brought the hot blood to my cheeks as it swept over me.

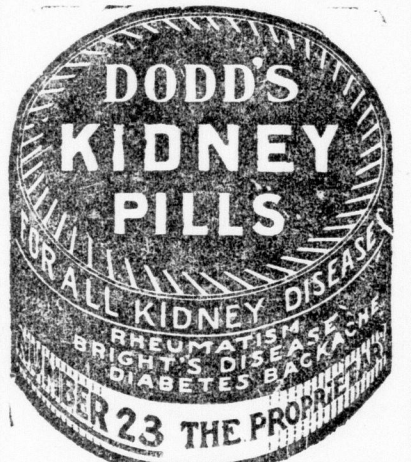

Again I was walking with Major Grantland at midnight along the pine line connecting Marvin with the next village, compelled to the hazy meditation and his escort by the danger with which Grace Draper and her associates surrounded me. Again the sweet wild roses wet with dew swirled around my senses, and the memory of the romantic evening which had awaited me upon that night I had ever since wished to forget came back to me with poignant regret.

Not that I had any tangible thing, a caress, even an inadvertent word with which to burden the consciousness which Dicky so often ridiculed as "Puritan."

But my soul knew that in that hour my love for my husband my loyalty to him, had been momentarily obscured by the romantic, dashing personality of the man with whom I had shared such dramatic peril, the man who had saved me from grave danger, perhaps death, and whose service to his country was at that time, as I so erroneously supposed, in direct contrast to my husband's apparently pusillanimous behavior.

The terrible emotional strain which had followed my discovery of Dicky's lying commission at that very moment he came crashing to earth in his machine had caused almost a revolution of feeling against Major Grantland in me, changed that feeling to a deep compassion, in which there was no trace of the school-girlish romance with which I had endowed him. But now he had come back into my life, strong, fully restored to sight, the same mysterious, romantic personality which had first intrigued my imagination. And I would have been lacking in the most common feminine trait if I had not contrasted the constant remorseful attention with which he was surrounding me to Dicky's apparent carelessness.

"Time to wash your face, Madge!" The careless, matter-of-fact words brought me back to reality with a most unromantic jerk. I opened my eyes to see Lillian smiling down at me, not quizzically, for so showed a reader of brain processes must have seen that I was in no mood for comment, earnest or jocular. But I shrewdly suspected

The Surest Antidote.

"We must fix you up pretty because a certain very distinguished and insistent visitor is waiting impatiently to see you."

For a moment I wondered wildly, if Major Grantland had asked permission to see me before I was convalescent. Then, as Lillian arranged my hair, I heard outside the door a little voice just perfecting the first word he had learned to speak, and proclaiming it everywhere in insistent baby fashion.

"Mam-ma! Mam-ma!"

The fancied fragrance of wild roses vanished as my small son came toddling into the room with Katie guiding his footsteps. As Lillian lifted him to my side and I buried my face in the baby's freshness of his neck and hair I knew that the surest antidote for romantic foolishness had been given me.

SATURDAY, NOV. 29.

The astrological forecast for this day forebodes but little advantage or success. There is danger from any change or removal, and travelling should be deferred until a more auspicious occasion. There should be the utmost caution exercised in the use of money, as these are put in jeopardy through every avenue of expenditure, either in investment or speculation. Risks of any nature, either in health or property, are extremely hazardous, as both Uranus and Jupiter are in afflictive positions. In the realm of social, domestic or romantic affairs the situation indicated is most optimistic, and into these channels should enter many opportunities for prosperity or enjoyment.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

A REMINISCENCE.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I see that James H. Flock, K. C., has passed away. This recalls to me the fact that I assisted in the production of his wedding cake on the occasion of his marriage to a daughter of the late Murray Anderson. I think it was in the summer of 1888, that I, a lad of about 15, underwent a month's trial as a prospective apprentice to Hewitt Fysh, baker and confectioner, on Dundas street. It was probably a trial for both of us, as I did not fit the job and the job did not fit me. However, during this month the Flock-Anderson nuptials took place, and the order for the cake was given to Mr. Fysh. I roomed on the premises with the chief baker, an Englishman, who was a past master in his art. This particular cake was a masterpiece, a five-story construction of impressive beauty, surmounted by a gilded globe, the insignia of Murray Anderson's Globe Bakery. As I was chummy with the baker, I was permitted to participate in the process of its production.

Accident Proved Profitable

An out-of-town party was strolling down Dundas street, on the north side, between Richmond and Clarence streets, and was attracted by a bright, dainty window. On looking in he became interested in the wonderful diamonds on display and dropped in the store to inquire the price. He was amazed at the values, so purchased one, and said, I came across this store by accident, but it has surely been profitable, as I never saw such beautiful blue white diamonds before.

John A. Nash, My Jeweler, is the store—236 Dundas street—"where you will eventually buy."

ALICE BRADY SCORES HER BIGGEST HIT IN FILM AT MAJESTIC

Excellent Photoplay, Comedy, Special. Pictures and Vaudeville Now Showing.

Alice Brady, in "The World To Live In," the screen triumph of this charming star's brilliant career, attracted large audiences to the Majestic at all performances yesterday.

"The World To Live In" is a picture that appeals to all classes—rich and poor, young and old. The story is a human one, with human people as characters.

The plot is briefly that of a young girl—a stenographer—whose one desire is happiness, as long as she does not have to pay. She is the kind of a girl who will take everything she can get without paying anything. She is a "pal" to a rich New Yorker, who supplies her with the luxuries of life, but who does not think he loves her enough to marry her. At a wedding she meets a young settlement house doctor, who immediately falls in love with her. Her heart tells her that this is the man she loves—her mate—but she refuses to listen to the dictates of her heart because she is aware that the doctor cannot supply her with the luxuries of life. She tries to forget him, but finds life impossible. It is only when she becomes the doctor's wife that she learns what true happiness is.

Alice Brady in the role of Rita Charles, the tinpanner, is splendid. She is a human girl—the ordinary stenographer type. With her numerous suitors and the uncertainty which man she loves, she holds one's interest to the very end.

A Sunshine comedy, "The Yellow Dog Catcher," is a film of fun and all kinds of new acrobatic stunts.

Ditmar's book of nature shows wild animals in their natural haunts.

A Pathe review and a Canadian news weekly shows scenes of interest at home and abroad.

In vaudeville the Palermo Duo present a program of operatic selections.

On Saturday at the double matinee, Dorothy Gish will appear as a special feature in addition to the above program.
