McPherson, treasurer of the State of Victoria, Australia, Winston Churchill, secretary of state for the colonies, remarked that Australia had the smallest burden of taxation of any British country today, its total levy being at the rate of £2 per head of population. It was almost dangerous to state such a fact for fear there might be a rush of British people to the next Australian liner, Mr. Churchill added.

TWENTY-THREE GRADUATE NURSES OF VICTORIA HOSPITAL RECEIVE THEIR DIPLOMAS THIS AFTERNOON

Wesley Hall Scene of Pleasing Ceremony—Presentation Made by James Gray—Dr. Robert Ferguson Addresses Nurses On "Evolution of the Modern Trained Nurse."

Wesley Hall, First Methodist Church, was the scene of a pleasing ceremony this afternoon when the 1921 graduating class of the Victoria Hospital School for Nurses of London, twenty-three in number, were formally awarded their diplomas and badges. On behalf of the trustees and officers of the institution, James Gray made the actual presentation to the present day.

In the middle ages practically the only nursing attempted was by members of religious orders as part of their divine duty. It was as late as the early sixties, before imperative demand was made by the public for improved methods. But the strongest factor in the demand for trained nurses came from the medical profession, and skilled nursing has now become a necessary feature in the advance of scientific medicine. It is difficult to over estimate the boon to any community of the existence in their midst of a supply of trained nurses. They are the educators of the people in public health.

Choosing "Evolution of the Modern Trained Nurse" as his theme, Robert Ferguson, M.A., M.D., as the chief speaker of the afternoon, compared the conditions of the Crimea to the state of affairs during the war in South Africa, and the more recent conflict among the European powers. Reverting again to the very early days, Dr. Ferguson traced the evolution of nursing from the primitive to the modern.

The following are the names of the class that graduated this afternoon: Martha Hodgins, Gertrude Maude Rozel, Frances Miriam Wilson, Irene Florence Hobbs, Ethel May Stephens, Adelaide McKnight, Dorothy Isabel Wickerson, Helen Edna Marie Gray, Wanda Marie Jones, Edna Elizabeth Weir, Gertrude Frances M. Pearce, Mabelle Munro, Gladys De Beaugel Slater, Marjorie Clarke Lyons.

Children Turn In Alarm; Mother and Infant are Saved

Mrs. J. Richards and Two-Day-Old Babe Carried From Burning Building by Neighbors—Oldest Building in West London Is Totally Destroyed by Fire.

Only the prompt action by neighbors saved Mrs. J. Richards and her two-day-old babe, 37 Stubby street, from death about 10 o'clock this morning, when their home was completely destroyed by fire. No other person was in the house at the time, and although Mrs. Richards smelt the smoke she was unable to get out of bed and raise an alarm. Some children who were playing nearby, however, noticed the smoke issuing from the roof and ran to a grocery store where a telephone alarm was turned into central station.

Shortly after the telephone alarm was received a box alarm was turned in, and Chief John Aitken, with No. 10, which had just returned from the Horton street fire, went to the scene. When the firemen arrived practically the whole of the roof was ablaze and the flames were eating their way along the side of the building. Six lines of hose were soon in operation, but the fire had got too big a start.

WOULD LIKE TO EXCHANGE PULPITS WITH CLERGY OF OTHER DEMONINATIONS

Synod of Huron Will Ask Provincial Synod To Modify Canon Restricting Ministers of Other Denominations From Preaching in Anglican Churches.

The synod, including all the clergy and the Bishop of Huron, dispatched a telegram this morning to Bishop-elect Manning of New York, who was formally consecrated into this office today in St. Johns Church. "This will show how that right-minded people all over this continent appreciate his appointment to the bishopric," said the Bishop. Loud applause followed the announcement by the bishop that such a telegram would be sent.

The committee on the bishop's charge also commended the address regarding lack of candidates for the ministry and urged that the clergy constantly bring the matter before their congregations, work on regular attendance, voting in the same, in putting the high ideals of a clerical life before their children, and further that a layman be appointed in each deanery who will keep it before the laity and with whom prospective candidates might confer.

The bishop's address on church unity was brought before the synod, and it was moved that an appeal be made to the Provincial Synod to modify the canon restricting ministers of other denominations from preaching in the Church of England pulpits be modified to some extent and give the bishop of the diocese freedom to appoint such ministers as he judges suitable to preach in the Anglican pulpits and for Anglican ministers to preach in the churches of other denominations as they may be approved on condition that their subject deals with church unity. The modification of the clause will allow the application of suggestions made by the Lambeth Conference in connection with church unity.

The report on social service was continued by Dean L. N. Tucker this morning. He pointed out the breadth of work carried on by the social service department of the Anglican Church, and in view of the anticipation of increased immigration the work would be much heavier.

Committee Wants Religion Taught In Public School

Huron Synod Report Calls For Reading of Apostles' Creed, Four Gospels, the Ten Commandments and the Lord's Prayer To Be Made Part of Curriculum.

Religious education in the public schools was one of the important topics under discussion at the afternoon session of the Synod of Huron in Cronyn Hall on Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Canon G. B. Sage read the report of the committee, which recommended that the Four Gospels, the Apostles' Creed, Ten Commandments and the Lord's Prayer form part of the religious study in the public schools. The committee thought that these subjects should be compulsory for all children, unless excused therefrom for sufficient reason. It was also advised that the gospels be read without comment, and that selected portions of them, together with the Lord's Prayer, the Ten Commandments and the Apostles' Creed be committed to memory. It was recommended that a copy of the report be sent to the provincial council of the Provincial Synod, and also that a resolution be sent to the department of the province appreciating the goodwill and privileges already given for religious instruction, but that they are entirely inadequate.

Canon Sage, after giving the report, said that the committee had considered many subjects on the curriculum, and they do not want any more added of the religious education forced upon them. He also pointed out that the ordinary school teacher is not always the person that one would choose to give this instruction. The very least that should be done along the religious lines in the public schools should be the opening and closing with prayer, stated the speaker.

John Ransford of Clinton, a member of the committee on religious education in the schools, also spoke on the matter. "It is not generally known that many communions use the Apostles' Creed and omit the words 'He descended into hell.' Why they do this I do not know," said Mr. Ransford. "Unless they do not know what it means." The religious training of the children today is left to the teachers, which is a sad reflection on this up-to-date civilization. The home is fast becoming an "instruction" in family prayer and worship will soon be an unheard-of thing. Another member of the synod stated that the school curriculum being revised, and that it might be possible that religious education in some degree might be introduced. As long as it is left merely in the hands of the teachers and the trustees we shall not get very far.

With Hold Conferences.
It was decided to appeal to the department of education not solely as a representation from the Church of England, but to hold conferences with other Protestant denominations on the subject and approach the department fully representing the Protestant churches. The support of public opinion will also be brought to bear on the subject.

The clergy were also urged to see that the present provisions for religious instruction in the public schools be taken advantage of. The query was made as to whether religious instruction might not come under the heading of literature or history, and thereby not increase the subjects on the curriculum.

Canon Arthur Carlisle of Windsor presented the report of the committee on work among girls. The Girls' Friendly Society, the Girl Guides and the Girls in Training were organized under this head which were reported to be doing utmost good among the young girls and women of the diocese. The unanimous verdict of those present was that the girls' work should be stimulated and interest in the work of the Sunday school and church, besides exercising a wholesome influence over womanhood at a time when it is most needed.

Diocesan Library Report.
Rev. Cameron Waller gave the report on the Diocesan library and stated that 21 members were enrolled in the Central Society for Sacred Study, and that 100 new books had been received from the library of the late Rev. George Cox Judge, Ernestinger and other private individuals.

Rev. Dean L. N. Tucker presented the report of the Council for Social Service, in addition to its co-operative work, is leading the way along two specific lines of action. Welcome and Welfare Work, a large increase in the volume of immigration from the Motherland. Through lack of organization and active leadership the church has not given in the past the full measure of its help to this important class of people. As a large proportion of them are church people and many of them in course of time become prosperous and influential ment given by parents they drift away into other careers.

The college council therefore once again earnestly pleads with the clergy to make known the need of men for the ministry and to follow up likely candidates with personal effort and to direct them to the college.
Rev. H. C. Light, B. A., has completed the examinations for the degree of B. D., under the board of the general synod and will receive the degree at the next convocation of the Western University. The work of the students during the past term has shown a high standard of merit. Two graduates in arts have been in attendance, one in third, one in second, five in first and four in preparatory work. The remainder are in various stages of their theological courses. Three are candidates for ordination this year.
On Tuesday evening a banquet was tendered the delegates attending the synod in the Masonic banquet hall. This was followed by moving pictures, depicting the work in the Anglican Mission fields. Particularly interesting were those showing delegates leaving Canada to attend the world Sunday school convention in Tokio, Japan, their arrival at the place of meeting. Some lovely scenes of different parts of the land of blossoms were also shown. The work of the social service department of the Church of England was outlined by Rev. W. E. Taylor of Toronto. Dr. W. E. Taylor gave an interesting talk in connection with the movies. Dr. Taylor is interested in this work, and has written a book on the subject, "The Church of England in Canada." Mr. Rogers, in a brief speech presented the work of the Sunday school board.

Important Welfare Work.
The Girls' Friendly Society, welcome and welfare work assumes special importance when done among girls, who are the weakest of the newcomers and those most exposed to danger. Their loneliness, their inexperience, and the fact that they are indulously laid for them, the very freedom of our Canadian life are so many pitfalls in their way. As a fortunate circumstance there already existed in our midst an organization designed to meet this special need, known as the Girls' Friendly Society. This society has world-wide ramifications, has hundreds of thousands of members in England, scores of thousands in the United States and many thousands in the overseas dominions. The society is a strictly church organization, is largely self-supporting and might easily establish branches in all the large centers to which the masses of immigrants come. In order to extend and strengthen the work of the Girls' Friendly Society it has become affiliated with the Council for Social Service and its organizing secretary, Rev. St. David's expressed the opinion that the payment to the budget should come first, and that he preferred that it be passed even before his stipend, as the missions, etc., were of first importance to the church. The single envelope in preference to the duplex was advocated by several of the clergy who had used both.

The motion of the annual meetings of the Anglican churches be held first Monday or Tuesday in January instead of in Easter week was passed. Every synod is compelled to take action on this question. A recommendation was made that the district secretary of the Canadian Bible Society when a church of England clergyman is given a seat in the synod, was unanimously passed. The query was made as to whether the present and has been for the past fourteen years. Mr. Bowen will now attend synod, although he will not have a vote.

Huron College Report.
Rev. C. C. Waber gave the following report on Huron College:
The number of students during the session was nineteen, slightly less than last year, and slightly below our anticipation. But the entry of new men was eight and one avowed man returned, so that if this average is maintained the numbers and consequently the income from fees should increase. So far the hopes of new men from the results of the war offering in increasing numbers for the ministry have not been realized. If every deacon could find one candidate annually for training it would rapidly remedy the situation. Obviously if the church in Canada is to carry on the work within her borders for which she has now assumed the complete responsibility, vigorous steps must be taken to induce a sufficient number of men to offer for the work. This college has generally had a larger percentage of native born students than others, and is exceedingly favorably situated in this regard.

Recent investigations have shown that in the area of the diocese a very small percentage of high school pupils ever go on to any university. So that with increased educational facilities provided in London, it ought to be possible to secure an increase in the number attending Huron College.

Many lads in their younger teen age express the desire to enter the ministry. But unless the ideal is constantly kept before them by clergy and encouragement citizens the loss to the church in this field, as well as to the people themselves, was recent and incalculable. To welcome strangers, to show friendliness to them, to help them find employment and suitable places of abode, to introduce them to the clergy, to send them to church organizations and to extend to them the church's spiritual ministrations, at a time when the heart is likely to be most appreciative and responsive, is surely a work of the utmost importance at this present time. The council for Social Service is organizing and actively promoting a Dominion-wide movement in the interest of welcome and welfare work.

Budget of $83,300.
The diocesan budget this year calls for $83,300. This takes in objects outside and inside of the diocese. Income of every parish paying its apportionment was pointed out and stress laid on the fact that it is a liability and should be raised, and an obligation that should be filled. Rev. R. D. Mess St. David's expressed the opinion that the payment to the budget should come first, and that he preferred that it be passed even before his stipend, as the missions, etc., were of first importance to the church. The single envelope in preference to the duplex was advocated by several of the clergy who had used both.

The motion of the annual meetings of the Anglican churches be held first Monday or Tuesday in January instead of in Easter week was passed. Every synod is compelled to take action on this question. A recommendation was made that the district secretary of the Canadian Bible Society when a church of England clergyman is given a seat in the synod, was unanimously passed. The query was made as to whether the present and has been for the past fourteen years. Mr. Bowen will now attend synod, although he will not have a vote.

BIRD NOTES

Truly, May is a delightful month, and these beautiful bright mornings are ushering in our feathered friends very fast. As far as bird-lovers are concerned, the old saying should read: "What is so rare as a day in May?" When we must be back to our daily tasks, 8 o'clock comes all too soon.

Since yesterday's bulletin we have six new species to record: Blackburnian Warbler, Maryland Yellow-Throat, Golden-winged Warbler, Rose-breasted Grosbeak, Kingbird and Solitary Sandpiper. The Blackburnian is perhaps the most gorgeously dressed of all our birds; it is, in truth, a flying gem, clad in black, yellow, orange and flame color of the richest shade.

The Maryland Yellow-Throat, also a warbler, has a bright yellow throat and breast, with a velvet black mask or domino over its eyes. This, with its tall carried upright like a wren's, gives it a very perk look. Its clear, ringing song, "Witchety-witchety-witchety," is like that of no other bird.

We were delighted to see the Golden-winged Warbler at the ponds, instead of having to make a special trip to the woods, where it is usually found, and where it always lives in summer.

The Rose-breasted Grosbeak has a real rose-colored breast, and the same under wings, a color none of our other birds sport. A beautiful singer, its rich, sweet warble resembles the robin's song, but is much fuller and more varied. It is particularly fond of a diet of potato bugs.

The Kingbird is our commonest large flycatcher. He fears nothing that flies, and will pursue a crow, or even a hawk, that comes too close to his nest, darting and pecking at it viciously.

The Solitary Sandpiper visits us every spring on its way farther north. Its throat is a bright yellow, and it has many spots on its breast distinguishes it from the common Spotted Sandpiper, which has been here for some time.

SPLendid REPRISs FEATURE OF ANNUAL MEETING OF Y. W. C. A.

Importance of Work Strongly Emphasized by Rev. T. S. Roy.

"The importance of the work of the Y. W. C. A. on the life of the girls of the community cannot be too greatly emphasized," declared the Rev. T. S. Roy, speaking at the annual meeting of that association held at the Y. W. C. A. residence, King street, last evening. And the wonderful reports of the year's work in the Anglican Mission fields. There were 628 girls accommodated in the two local residences, 124 were assisted in securing board and lodging elsewhere, 1,163 transients were accommodated in the two homes, and 6,000 at transient boarding houses, according to the report of the general secretary, Mrs. Alexander Henderson, not to mention the ever-increasing extension work of this organization.

Big Thing in City.
"Our aim is to make the Y. W. C. A. the biggest thing in London," declared Mrs. C. B. King, in her opening address to the association. The object of both residences referred to the homelike atmosphere which it was the object of the association to create in the homes, to which the homeless girls of the city might turn. Mrs. Archibald Grant, reporting for the Wellington street residence, with Miss Sutherland at its head, reported 41 girls in residence with 25 transients accommodated during holidays of the year. Mrs. S. L. Taylor, convener of Lennox, the King street residence, with Miss MacDonald at its head, gave the average number of girls accommodated there as 67, at the same time mentioning how they improved the girls' cabinet during their residence there. Mrs. Taylor also reported for the Lennox Cafeteria Department, which has become very active during the past few months, with Miss Mitchell as chairman. Then came the vastly interesting reports of the extension departments of the association, all of which have grown rapidly during the past year.

Girls' Cabinet Department.
Mrs. Harman Waldman reported for the industrial department, which works largely with girls in industry. During the past year there have been eight industrial clubs organized, the total membership of the industrial clubs being 447, with 247 registered since May, 1920. These clubs have entered into a girls' cabinet for the conducting of general business, this girls' cabinet being the first of its kind in Canada. The Girls' Canadian Club, formed largely of girls from offices, was also organized during the past year, and has been affiliated with the Federation of Canadian Clubs in Canada. This club is also the first of its kind in the Dominion, and its object is study along the lines of Canadian citizenship. In connection with the industrial department classes have been held in book study, dramatics, music, home nursing, salesmanship and accounting, millinery, dress-making and cooking, the last three classes being taken at the Technical School. It is interesting to note that the music class, under the leadership of Chas. E. Percy, has now a membership of 112, and contemplates giving a musical fete this spring. Mrs. John Crawford, secretary of the industrial department, has addressed 3,600 girls of London in her publicity work for this department.

For 'Teen Age Girls.
The girls' work department is another very large and progressive department of Y. W. C. A. work, carried on among the 'teen age girls of the city, under the secretaryship of Miss Helen d'Avignon. The report was read by Miss E. McCann, who mentioned the secretary in all the churches of the city, among the C. G. I. T. groups and Girl Guide companies, as well as among the 'teen age girls of the Y. W. C. A. big annual camp, which was held at the camp established at Port Bruce last year, accommodating 101 girls in all.

Three camps are being held this year with accommodation for 50 girls at each camp. Already over 80 applications are in for these camps, which shows how eagerly the girls anticipate such a holiday. A regular camp program is carried out, with proper instruction. A 'teen age girls' council' has been established in the city, largely due to the organization work of the Y. W. C. A. Not the least of the extension department is the Travelers' Aid Department, Mrs. Thomas Rowe's report being read last night by Miss Anderson, one of the Travelers' Aid secretaries. Mrs. Parker is another such secretary working in the city. The Travelers' Aid Department has given help at stations during the past year, 520 directed to hotels, cafes, etc., 450 telephoned for and 27 visited.

One branch of this extension work, which is greatly hampered for want of better accommodation, is the physical education and hygiene department, reported by Miss M. W. Young. Owing to the kindness of the Western University their "gym" was secured two nights a week for basketball, and in this way the Y. W. C. A. was able to conduct a basketball league. This league was conducted in two sections, Miss Mary Harvey, as leader in this league, was also of great assistance, as she was in the conducting of folk dancing by Miss M. W. Young. The present swimming classes are being conducted by Mr. Butterworth in the Lord Roberts School, owing to the kindness of the board of education. Forty-one are enrolled in swimming, and many more clamoring for classes could the accommodation be given. The report stated that swimming classes could easily carry themselves financially, could the pool be secured.

Summerholm. The Fort Stanley cottage, which is carried on in connection with the Y. W. C. A., was also reported by Mrs. W. N. Manning, the report being read by Miss McNaughton. Over 150 women and girls had the privilege of a holiday by the lake because of "Summerholm."

Report of Nominations.
The report of the standing committees, convened by Mrs. Adams, suggested the following names for election to the board this year, this report being accepted by the association: Mrs. Harrison Elliott, Mrs. M. W. Young, Mrs. B. McCann, Mrs. S. L. Taylor and Mrs. Thomas Rowe for re-election, and Mrs. Alex. Calder, Mrs. Gordon Phillip and Miss Kingsmill for new members.

WAGES OF TEAMSTERS TO STAND FOR MONTH
City Engineer Advises Committee To Defer Proposed Reduction.
That the recent proposal to move toward a standstill in the wages of teamsters be left over for another month was recommended in the city engineer's report to No. 2 committee of the city council on Tuesday evening, although the cost of the feed has been somewhat lowered, he feels that a month at least should elapse before the matter need again be taken up.

VETERAN EMPLOYEE TO RETAIN HIS POSITION
Ald. W. A. Wilson Fells Move To Superannuate Peter McGinnis.
Although it had been suggested by certain persons that the "psychological" moment had arrived to superannuate one, Peter McGinnis, veteran city employee, evidently such is not about to appear that there exists two interested parties who vote "No"; Peter himself and Ald. W. A. Wilson.

At Tuesday's meeting of No. 2 committee a communication was read from J. W. McCallum, relief inspector, setting forth the claim that Mr. McGinnis was, in his opinion, quite capable to "carry on" in answer to City Engineer H. A. Brazier, with all due respect to the relief department, was emphatic in his contention to the contrary. Ald. Drake also felt the affair to be one for the city department to decide upon, but Ald. Wilson was moved to remark that "Peter would never be removed with his consent."

ALDERMAN WOULD LESSEN WORK OF "SILENT COP"
W. A. Wilson Gets Motion Through For One-Way Traffic.
Alderman William Wilson feels keenly that the present manipulation of the "silent policeman" at the downtown intersections can be improved upon to untold advantage. His little scheme is to the effect that if all vehicles and street cars be restrained from turning to the left at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets the trials and tribulations of the corner "cop" would be reduced to an appreciable minimum.

SILK-SHIRT EUGENE HAS SMOOTH TONGUE

Tells the Magistrate Just To Imagine Himself Wearing Old Shoes.

A FARM LABORER Eugene Glass Promises to Get Job On Farm and Is Let Go.

Eugene Glass, farm laborer (when a position is offered), who was allowed to go in police court this afternoon after pleading guilty to being a trespasser on the Grand Trunk, missed his calling.

"You know, your honor, they give them three or four minutes to get out of town, and then they don't go then they give them a term in jail, say 60 days," Eugene had said that this was the first time he had ever been convicted of trespassing, so the magistrate said: "You seem to know your law."

When charged with the offence, Eugene broke into a lengthy speech that would have done credit to a government candidate on the last lap of an election campaign.

"I'm a farm laborer," replied the prisoner, who, as the silk shirt he wore would indicate, had not been ploughing his trade for some time.

"I can plough, cultivate, throw down the bar, and do all the other things which the various chores of rural life to which he had been accustomed.

"I'll go right out and get a position on a farm," he said, stroking his tooth-brush moustache.

"I don't know I was in London when I went into the court here," "What do you do, Glass?" asked the court.

WELFARE CANVASSERS ARE MEETING WITH HEARTY RECEPTION

Seventy-Five Per Cent of the Industrial Plants Making Their Own Canvasses.

TEAMS REPORT TONIGHT Lieut.-Col. Gartshore To Be Host of Dinner in the Tecumseh House.

Fully 75 per cent of the 127 industrial plants on the lists of the Welfare Fund Association in this city have arranged to make their own canvasses and to make their own returns according to an estimate prepared by W. E. Yendall, convener of the committee in charge of the campaign among the factories.

It is believed that partial returns will be received this evening from the factories doing their own canvassing. Teams formed by members of the various organizations helping in the work will canvass all other factories on Thursday and Friday.

At the meeting of the Advertising and Publicity Committee, held at the Club, the Catholic, the Salvation Army, and the Underwriters worked all of Tuesday, today and a part of Monday in the business districts, it is expected that they will make fairly large returns at the dinner tonight.

Rotary and the Kiwanis Clubs will also report. While no indication could be given of what the total amount might be, the returns reported that it had received a splendid reception everywhere.

Assistance was received from an unexpected quarter this morning, when the contribution of $25 was received from Roy Shaver, a farmer residing on R. 2, Wilton Grove. Mr. Shaver made the gift without any solicitation whatever, because he believed that the cause was a worthy one.

NEARLY CRAZY WITH ECZEMA

No rest day or night for those who are afflicted with that terrible skin disease, eczema, or as it is often called, salt rheum.

With its unbearable burning, itching and torturing relief is gladly welcomed. There is no remedy like Burdock Blood Bitters for giving relief to such sufferers; no remedy that has done, or can do more for those who are almost driven to distraction with the terrible torture.

Apply it externally and it takes out the stinging, itching and burning, and promotes a healthy healing.

Take it internally and it gets at the source of the disease in the blood—and drives it out of the system.

Miss L. M. Boutlier, 89 Victoria Road, Halifax, N. S., writes: "I have suffered for years from eczema. I could not rest day or night. I suffered great agony, and was nearly crazy with the itching and burning. I used all kinds of salves, but nothing seemed to help me. I saw Burdock Blood Bitters advertised, and was advised to try a bottle. I could not rest day or night. I found great relief, and I really cannot recommend it highly enough for what it has done for me."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for over forty years, and during that time has been manufactured only by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

STORM REVEALS PIRATES' CACHE

Mexican Treasure Buried On Coney Island After Crew Killed Captain.

New York, May 10.—If you were to see flashed on the silver screen the caption, "The Bold Pirates of Coney Island, or the Tragedy of the Brig Vineyard," and the picture proved to be a blood-curdling thriller with all the trimmings of the days of Captain Kidd and Jean Lafitte, the chances are you would call it a piece of fiction—only that it is not.

Or perhaps you might remark: "Well, the only pirates I ever heard about at Coney gathered in dime, and not doubtless, in the musty archives of historical societies, in court documents and old newspaper files is recorded a tale of piracy at Coney Island that has elements of the movie thriller, and it's all true. Draw up your chairs and hearken to the story as unfolded by these authoritative sources:

It was November 2, 1890, that the brig left New Orleans for Philadelphia with a cargo of molasses, sugar and cotton and $54,000 in Mexican dollars consigned to Stephen Giffard. The officers and crew of the brig were: William Thornby, captain; Roberts, mate; Charles Gibbs, Aaron Church, Joseph Talbot, John Brown, Robert and Henry Atwell, seamen; Robert Daves, cabin boy, and Wansley, steward and cook. Five days out at sea the steward informed some of the crew of the specie on board. The ship was then off Cape Hatteras, where Gibbs, Church, Atwell and Daves plotted to kill the captain and mate and seize the money in the cargo.

Survivors John Plot. On the night of March 23, as the captain was in the quarterdeck and Daves was steering, Wansley came up on deck, and at a signal from Daves struck the captain from behind with a pump handle. The protestant then went below and fired a shot through the cabin door, and aided Wansley in throwing the captain's body overboard.

Roberts dashed up the companionway and was attacked by Church and Atwell. Wounded, he retreated to the cabin, where he was followed by Gibbs. One of the men then returned to the quarterdeck and lit a lamp with which to find the hiding mate, and Gibbs, Atwell, Church and Daves attacked Roberts, dragged him on deck and hurled him into the sea. Roberts for a time was able to swim after the ship and beg for mercy, then sank beneath the waves.

Talbot, terrified by the murder of the captain and mate, sought refuge in the forecabin, and he and Brownrigg, who fled aloft, were called by the conspirators to join them, offering them their lives and an equal share in the loot if they kept silent. The terms were accepted. The plotters rifled the ship, and, directed by Gibbs, who alone understood navigation, the pirates laid their course for Long Island.

Gibbs, Wansley, Daves and Brownrigg, with the legal firm of Murphy, Sales and Brownrigg, set out in the longboat, and Church, Atwell and Talbot, with about $23,000, in the jollyboat. The wind was blowing from the east and the jollyboat crossed Duck or Rockaway Bar the jollyboat upset and the occupants were lost, along with their treasure. The men in the longboat, fearing a similar fate, lighted the jollyboat and threw it on board all but $5,000 of their loot. They finally reached Pelican Beach, then a part of Barren Island, now Coney Island.

Their first concern was that of burying the specie. This they did by burying it in a hole, dug in the sand with an oar, a considerable distance from shore, after taking from the pile of ill-gotten booty an amount for their immediate needs.

Then the survivors set out for food and lodgings. On Pelican Island they met Nicholas S. Williamson of Gravesend, who gave the pirates food and their own rooms and beds for the night. Brownrigg and the Johnston brothers wanted to be seated in the livingroom while the others in the house were asleep. When Brownrigg told the whole story of their voyage, the next morning the pirates got the Johnston brothers to guide them to the hotel at Sheepshead Bay, whence they might be conveyed to the Fulton Ferry and New York.

The Johnstons returned to Barren Island and went to the spot described by Brownrigg. They dug up the money, took it to another hiding place, and walking in the water effected their retreat.

Meanwhile Gibbs and his companions were bargaining with Semmes, a boarder, the hotelkeeper at Sheepshead Bay, when suddenly Brownrigg denounced his companions as thieves and murderers, relating the entire story of Vineyard's voyage. Wansley thereupon bolted for the woods. Gibbs and Daves were seized and bound by the hotelkeeper and his associates. They summoned Justice John Van Dyke, who issued warrants for the arrest of the pirates.

The one constable in the village had all he could do in guarding Daves and Gibbs, so Robert Greenwood of Sheepshead Bay volunteered to scour the woods in search of Wansley. He was an hour's quest Greenwood found the negro, and, thrusting a big pistol at him, ordered Wansley to fall on his face and cross his hands behind his back. The negro obeyed, sitting astride him. Greenwood tied his hands. Then he marched his prisoner back to Leonard's hotel. When Wansley had been jailed his captor showed him the pistol, without either lock or load, with the remark, "It's just as good as any other when you know how to use it."

Wansley, Daves and Gibbs were taken to the county jail at Flatbush. While the Johnstons had been none too quick in getting the $5,000, for scarcely had they reached home when Justice Van Dyke, with Brownrigg as guide, appeared on the scene. The square went to the spot where the money had been secreted the day before, and it was gone. Brownrigg then was sent to join his companions in jail at Flatbush, and all the prisoners were remanded to the New York Bridewell. Gibbs and Wansley were convicted on the testimony of Brownrigg and Daves, and executed April 25, 1891.

JEW WINS HIS FIGHT TO HELP PALESTINE

Youth Twice Imprisoned by Turks Before Regaining His Home.

JERUSALEM, May 10.—In the upbuilding of Palestine under the British mandate as a homeland for the Jewish people much interest is displayed in the type of young man that is helping to make the country a land once again flowing with milk and honey. The record of Ehud Ben-Yehudah is characteristic of those of the young Palestinians who are now giving of their best energies and talents in regenerating the Jewish homeland and the security of a stable government.

A native of Palestine, son of a famous Hebrew, Ellazar Ben-Yehudah, whose fearless nationalism on behalf of the Jewish people caused him to be imprisoned under the Turkish regime, young Ben-Yehudah was studying agriculture in Germany when the war broke out in the forecabin, and he and Brownrigg, who fled aloft, were called by the conspirators to join them, offering them their lives and an equal share in the loot if they kept silent. The terms were accepted. The plotters rifled the ship, and, directed by Gibbs, who alone understood navigation, the pirates laid their course for Long Island.

When in 1917 young Ben-Yehudah learned that he would be liable for service in the Turkish army, he enlisted in the German army in the hope that he would be captured by the British. He was sent to the front in Belgium and France. After several months without succeeding in being captured Ben-Yehudah announced that he was a Turk, and he was sent back to fight with his so-called compatriots, hoping meanwhile that he might fall into the hands of the British, who were advancing into Mesopotamia.

Caught by Military Police. On his way to Constantinople he managed to miss his train at Belgrade, and after observing for three days the plight of the oppressed Serbians, similar to that of his fellow Palestinians, he was captured by the military police. He was released, however, by posing as a German and assuming the name of Jordan. His knowledge of German, French, English, Turkish, Arabic and Hebrew gained for him the position of interpreter and confidential clerk attached to Turkish headquarters.

Ben-Yehudah's fluency in German and Turkish enabled him to obtain a passport as a Turk, and among the Turkish soldiers he was regarded as one of the much to be feared Germans. It also gave him the freedom of Constantinople, and he gained much valuable information. He was able to transmit to his Jewish friends who were acting as British spies.

Through the aid of Gen. von Falkenberg, on whose face he had a resemblance, he was made station master at Amman, a few miles across the Jordan from Jericho. He was thrown into prison on the charge of having smuggled 700 rifles over to the Arab rebels. He was allied with the British. Knowing there was no chance of escape from the German prison, he again asserted himself as a Turkish subject and was transferred to the Turkish prison.

Word came that the British were advancing, and rather than be killed like a rat in a hole he pleaded that he might be released to shoulder a rifle in defence of the Star and Crescent. As soon as he was out he threw away the rifle and made for the camp of a Bedouin friend, who in all probability could be induced to turn him over to the British, especially as there was a reward offered for every German brought in. But in Turkish Circassians with whom they met were suspicious, and Ben-Yehudah remained uncaptured.

Saved by British. At last the British came. With a bayonet against his breast, he tried to make known his identity. "You're a bloody Circassian," insisted the English Tommy. "I am not," he answered. "I'm a Palestinian Jew. Take me to your headquarters and you can find out all about me." Headquarters telephoned to Rischon-le-Zion, the nearest Jewish colony, where everybody knew of the Ben-Yehudah family. He was freed because of his linguistic ability got an interpreter's post and accompanied the Anzacs and the Jewish Battalion as far as Damascus.

Ben-Yehudah is now an agriculturist, serving the government as sub-inspector of Palestine in the entire southern district of Palestine, riding from farm to farm, giving advice as to the breeding of cattle, teaching the Jewish farmers how to get more crops each year, and assisting the veterinary surgeons. His ideas as to the needs and future of the new Palestine are definite. He says: "What we want is a sound economic basis for the homeland. We are done with having the Holy Land a place pauperized by unintelligent charity. The land in the future can be made productive of great things; what is needed is investment on a large scale that, without doubt, will yield splendid returns. Specialists in various fields and skilled workers are constantly coming here, and we need even more of this type of immigration. With the finances to back the high type of labor that we have, the future is very bright for a new Palestine."

DISTRESS EXISTS AMONG CANADIAN VETERANS OVERSEAS

Conditions Are Outlined Before Special Parliamentary Committee.

OTTAWA, May 10.—Canadian Press.—The deplorable distress existing among discharged Canadian soldiers in the United Kingdom was emphasized before the special parliamentary committee on soldiers' re-establishment this morning by J. T. Donovan, Toronto, president of the United Kingdom branch of the G. W. V. A.

Mr. Donovan said that there were between 16,000 and 20,000 of these men, and that they were compelled to beg for food. The Canadian high commissioner in London was doing everything in his power to alleviate the suffering, and was supplying clothing to those so destitute as to be unable to secure raiment of any kind. This relief was being supplied out of canteen funds. These men, however, were not suffering from starvation. No decent Canadian need go hungry in England, Mr. Donovan said.

On behalf of these men, Mr. Donovan urged a comprehensive scheme of re-patriation. While unemployment existed in Canada, it was no better as far as in England, where ex-imperial service men had resorted to playing "barrel organs on the streets" in order to buy food. It was desirable to resuscitate Canadians from such a fate.

EMPLOYEES OF KAUFF GARAGE GIVE THEIR EVIDENCE ON CASE

Kauff Unlocked Machine, Drove To Garage and Removed Number, Is Alleged.

NEW YORK, May 10.—James Shields, formerly an employee of Benny Kauff, suspended outsider of the New York Giants, today testified at the latter's trial on a charge of grand larceny that Kauff had stolen an automobile from James Brennan on October 8, 1919. In that year Kauff and Jess Barnes, a Giant pitcher, were engaged in the automobile accessories business here.

According to Shields' story, he Kauff and another man arranged to go out and look for machines. When the trio saw Brennan's car, Shields swore that he and the third man waited some distance away while Kauff unlocked the machine with a screwdriver. Kauff later drew up with the automobile, the witness said, and the three drove to a garage, where the motor number plate was removed. The motor number removed, the body re-painted, and the car sold for $1,800.

SARNIA INDORSES BRANTFORD ACTION

Will Ask Government To Make Fee For Carnivals Prohibitive.

SARNIA, May 10.—With very little discussion, except the expression of general opinion that they are undesirable, the council today indorsed the following resolution respecting traveling carnivals, as drafted by the Brantford Chamber of Commerce, for submission to the Provincial Government. The motion to indorse was proposed by Ald. Cox and seconded by Ald. Dagan.

"Believing that everything possible should be done to discourage the presence of the traveling carnival type from coming into Ontario because of the undesirable influence of their questionable attractions, the Brantford Chamber of Commerce respectfully and earnestly requests that the Hon. E. C. Drury, premier of Ontario; the Hon. E. J. Roney, K.C., attorney-general; the Hon. J. G. Macdonald, provincial treasurer; and J. E. Rogers, Esq., superintendent of provincial police, institute the necessary action to place immediately a prohibitive fee upon carnival companies entering the province, and thereby replace the inadequate fee of $100 per day to the province from carnival companies having under twenty cars."

GALT ALDERMEN TO BE REMUNERATED

Will Be Allowed $5 For Each Meeting They Attend.

GALT, May 10.—Taking advantage of legislation passed by the Provincial Legislature, the city fathers have decided that they should receive some remuneration for the service they render citizens as representatives and for the time they are required to take from their regular employment, and accordingly have fixed a fee for attendance at meetings at $5 a day, as allowed by the act. Payments for a year must not exceed a total of $250. There is little doubt but that every alderman will draw $250, as they have more than 50 meetings in a year, with 26 regular council meetings, besides the special and committee meetings.

This city from experience has learned that it is more profitable to lay permanent pavements than macadam, as the annual expenditure for maintenance is paid. While considerable paving has been done in the past few years, the regular council has become noted as a good roads council, and in addition to the work now under way on Water street north, it is proposed to continue the pavement on Water street south to the city limits, and also a section of concession streets, linking up with Ainslie street pavement.

MRS. DAVID MARSHALL BURIED AT AYLMER

AYLMER, May 10.—The funeral of Mrs. Eleanor A. Marshall, wife of the late David Marshall, M.P., held this afternoon at Aylmer Cemetery, was conducted privately.

Mrs. Marshall had been a septuagenarian for many years, but had been confined to her bed for about five weeks from an attack of la grippe and bronchitis that terminated fatally at 2:30 on Sunday morning.

She was born in Malahide November 20, 1848, and had lived her entire life in Malahide and Aylmer. She received her education in the Aylmer schools, and for some eight years was a teacher at Orwell and other schools in the township. She was united in marriage to the late David Marshall in 1873, and is survived by one daughter, Mrs. John G. Dewar of Guelph.

Before her illness, which began many years ago, Mrs. Marshall was an active member of society, and had been justly credited with having been of material assistance to her late husband in his long and successful business career.

About fifteen months ago the late Mrs. Marshall died suddenly while on a business trip to Brantford, Columbia, and the shock to Mrs. Marshall was severe and possibly accentuated her late severe illness.

Rate Depends on Type of Service

The "Station-to-Station" rate for long distance calls applies when the calling party does not ask to talk to a particular person, but merely to anyone who answers the distant telephone. This type of service is furnished at a lower rate because it requires less work by long distance operators and less circuit time than when a particular person must be reached. "Station-to-Station" calls must be made either by giving the telephone number wanted or the name or address under which that telephone is listed. If the calling party states he wishes to talk to a particular person, the "Person-to-Person" rate, which is about one-fourth higher, is charged. Ask us about anything concerning these rates that is not clear to you.

GOMPERS' WARNING

Cincinnati, May 10.—"The greedy hordes of employers in the United States had better watch out," President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor warned in an address here last night at a labor mass meeting...

"THIS is my recommendation, Sir"

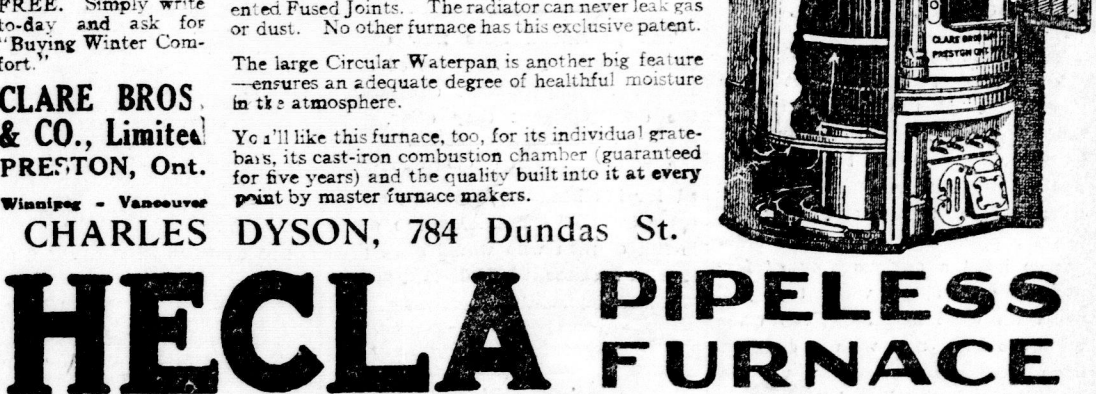

"NOT so very long ago I was in the same ill health as yourself. Long and busy hours, the responsibility of filling drug prescriptions and other duties of the day's work proved a strain. I took a couple of boxes of Milburn's Heart & Nerve Pills and can honestly thank them for my present splendid condition."

This little incident from everyday life fits your case in one way or another. In these days of strenuous living it is only natural for the heart to get below normal, thus affecting the nervous system. Many people ignore the symptoms of heart and nerve trouble. Every day people drop dead, simply because of ignoring them. You cannot afford to do this. Ask yourself, "Have I any of the following complaints?"

EFFECT OF FREIGHT RATES ON BUSINESS EXAGGERATED.

Indications are multiplying that efforts of shippers and producers in many parts of the United States to blame the unsatisfactory state of their business upon present freight rates, are not going to pass unchallenged. The railroads of the United States are preparing to ask the Senate committee on interstate commerce, when it takes up its inquiry into the railroad situation next month, to sift these statements to the bottom.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, says:

"I have personally asked many large manufacturers and shippers of goods what effect it would have upon their shipments at the present time if freight charges were cancelled altogether, and if the railroads would move the tonnage offered free of charge. Invariably the answer has been that it would make practically no difference at all in the volume of business, because people were not buying at the present time."

Chairman Clark has recently made public the results of his inquiry into the assertions of Florida fruit and vegetable shippers that freight rates are now so high that they cannot profitably ship their products to market. Mr. Clark found that shipments of Florida fruits and vegetables between November 1, 1920, and February 28, 1921, amounted to 28,420 carloads, while in the corresponding period of the year before, under the old rates, such shipments had been 26,886 carloads, an increase for the present season of 1,534 carloads.

The Railway Age asserts that on April 15 the average price paid producers for cabbage in Texas was $7 a ton, the freight rate to Chicago was $26.30, including refrigerating charges and federal tax on freight charges, and total cost, laid down in Chicago, approximately 1,000 miles from the producing fields, was $33.30 a ton. At the same time, cabbage was selling at retail in Chicago at the rate of $140 a ton. Texas onion growers received $42 a ton; freight to Chicago was $29.64 a ton; total cost of onions and freight, $71.64 a ton; retail selling price in Chicago, $200 a ton. For spinach, Texas producers were receiving $5 a ton; freight rate to Chicago was $20.36 a ton; total of producer's price and freight, $35.36 a ton; retail selling price in Chicago, $300 a ton.

THE DAYS OF OUR YOUTH.

Somebody remarked not long since that if the youngsters of today became much worse in their behavior they would be almost as bad as their fathers and mothers were before them, and that, of course, would never do. We older people have a curious way of forgetting (when we want to) just what we were like ourselves when we were kids, and with a countenance registering despair we denounce the frivolities of the present generation. On occasions of this sort our memory is conveniently short, but there are times when we can remember most clearly the desperate doings of our youth. Gather any group of staid citizens and their wives together around an open fire and start them recalling earlier days, and there will come a record of doings that might startle even some of these precocious youngsters of our own day. Some of the stories may be exaggerated (we like to make heroes of ourselves), but there is enough of the fact underneath to prove the case.

Mr. Grown-up Man, do you remember when you and your pals went behind the barn and smoked cedar bark or mullein leaf rolled up in newspaper strips. The boy who didn't do it at some time was the exception; now, confess up, wasn't he? Even sister joined in sometimes and grew pale trying to imitate brother. And just as vivid is the recollection of what happened if dad came around the corner unexpectedly and broke up the party. Draw the curtain on what followed.

A London clergyman says he heard three high school girls discussing the merits of a certain brand of cigarettes, and that one of them produced her supply to show to the others. Now, we will agree that that young thing needs a good spanking more than anything else, because that is what her mother got when the old folks caught her trying to be a good sport with her brothers. There is no reason to believe that there are many girls of high school age smoking cigarettes, even if some young mischief did have a few to display to her chums. What is more evident everywhere is that an older feminine generation that should know better is breaking down the old conventions in quite startling way. Perhaps it is time some of those old conventions did go, but there are others that had better remain. Instead of denouncing the children it might be well if we would take some of the elder generation to task and see if they are not more to blame than the youngsters of the coming generation, who, if anything, are inclined to take life all too seriously.

COMPULSORY MILITARY SERVICE.

The advocates of compulsory military service can always be counted upon to find some new reason for their views. They are ready to find in enforced service a cure for ills social, economic and political. Brigadier-General Griesbach, member for West Edmonton, declared recently in the House of Commons that compulsory service would settle the whole problem of assimilating the foreign element in the West. Seeing that the foreign element in most cases are in Canada today because militarists at home made their life unbearable and their future a blank, we are not likely to make them more contented and loyal by reproducing in Canada the sort of conditions from which they fled.

It sounds quite plausible to say that three months a year for every young man between the ages of 19 and 22 will do certain things for him, such, for instance, as teaching him the English language (if he doesn't know it), teaching him to keep clean, to become obedient and learn the responsibilities of citizenship. It is a rather curious state of affairs if in this country the teaching of English is to be delegated to the militia department at Ottawa. Education, we have always believed, was the work of the public schools. It is a question, too, if the obedience we want in this country is the obedience of the military camp. And surely we can have better teachers of civic responsibility than the average drill sergeant.

If we want to reproduce in this country just such wretched conditions as continental Europe struggled under before 1914, let us allow the militarists of this country full play. Great Britain is not their model when they advocate the forcing of every young man into a camp or a barracks for months of every year in order that military theorists may have the raw material for their experiments.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hangman Ellis says last year was a very busy one for him. No hanging around, as it were.

There are two perfectly good reasons why a lot of women should not wear the abbreviated skirt.

The provincial fairs now escape the amusement tax. Some of them should be super-taxed, considering the entertainment they offer.

A Hamilton man is being acclaimed for his honesty in paying an income tax of 3 cents. Alas, the world is full of men who would have paid it with a cancelled three-cent stamp.

OTHERS' VIEWS.

CASE OF THE GIRLS.

Sixty deans (nearly all women) of women's colleges met at Northwestern University a few days ago, and came to the conclusion that two things have reached their irreducible minimum—dress and manners. Furthermore, they decided that a general reform is necessary and that a uniform standard of ethics should prevail. Here is the sensible resolution they adopted: "That it is necessary for the health, the mentality, the social clear-sightedness and the spiritual development of our girls that their relaxations should be fewer, with shorter hours, better chaperoning and simpler dresses; that holidays, week-ends and longer vacations should not be made exceptions; that the present tendency to let a young lady try everything and know everything be considered dangerous; that good times be provided in sufficient number, and yet simple in type; to gratify the natural desires of a girl; and that we earnestly ask the fathers, mothers, guardians and teachers of our girls to help us maintain these standards." This is a good program. Its very comprehensiveness shows the magnitude of the problem with which it deals. How to exercise the tactful firmness required; how to prevent liberty degen-

EVERYTHING.

SPRING. [Justin Wilson.] There's a whisper thro' the branches, Which is not alone the breeze, For a mystery the love-traces, In now working 'mid the trees, And the tiny buds are breaking Into leaves of velvet green, And the pussy-willows taking Off their coats of silver sheen.

There's a moving 'neath the soil As the crocus strives to break With a waking love of toil, Although old Winter's frosted cake; Purple, yellow, white, bedecking All the sparkling dew-gowned earth; From the winter darkness trekking To the sunshine and new birth.

Softly snowdrop bells are ringing Just to wake the fairies up; All the flowers a gift are bringing; Tulip caps for merry elf-men; Cherry-blossom for the bride; Perfume rare for tiny women, Hyacinths their scent provide.

There is incense sweet ascending, Where the woodside lilies fair, All their graceful heads are bending In the forest's spring-time prayer; Where the angel-wings unfolding Cover cruel Winter's hair, While the violet is holding Dainty court in flowerland.

There's a love-song in the woodsie Finding voice in thrilling notes; There's a something in the springtime, And it swells the warblers' throats; There's a hunt for twig and feather, That the winter never knew, And a scheming how together Love can build a nest for two.

There is merry prattling laughter In the gallant dancing brook, Where the trout is chasing after Midges in each quiet nook, And there's just a tinge of madness In the fresh, inspiring air, Making all things thrill with gladness That now sip spring's nectar rare.

AH, YES. [Edinburgh Scotsman.] "My son," said his father solemnly, "when you see a boy loitering about the street corners at all hours, what place in life do you suppose he is fitting himself for?"

"To be a policeman," replied the young philosopher promptly.

MIRACLES. [Maxie V. Caruthers.] Today I saw the most thing— A maple tree—a burgeoising— And, on the lawn so brown and bare, Green grass upspringing here and there;

Tulips, that pushed their fragile heads From stark and barren garden beds; While all the rambler roses show Frail, tender buds in embryo.

Listen, and heed earth's glad refrain, You, who are worn with grief and pain, Cease for a while your sorrowing; Come out, come out, and meet the spring!

THEY ARE. [It says here that blondes usually weigh more than brunettes, and that Old Poppy, as he looked up from the newspaper he was reading, "That's strange," commented the Grouch. "I always thought that blondes were lighter than brunettes."

ALTAR CUPS OF SPRING. [Florence C. White.] Ye tulips, tremulous with April wine, Ye altar cups of Spring, oblation sweet To ready-throated thrushes—pilgrims Meet

To make obeisance where the scarlet sign Of tender petals promises divine Reviving nectar; from my heart I greet Your flaming chalice. It is but meet To worship humbly at your transient shrine.

You are the prelude to deep-pulsing June, To dim, delicious dawns, to nights that sink Luxuriously burdened with the woe Of utter loveliness. The fainting noon Has made forever consecrate your drink, Which leaves my burning lips like mountain snow.

IN VOGUE. [Judge.] "I notice they are making suits out of paper. I must see my dressmaker about it tomorrow."

"Don't bother your dressmaker. See your lawyer. Mrs. Gaybird has the prettiest divorce suit you ever saw made entirely from lavender note paper."

ANOTHER QUERY. Judge—You are charged with intoxication. What is your name? Prisoner—Roderick McTavish McGregor. Judge—H'm! Who paid for the liquor?

PARIS POLICE LEAD PURITY AGITATORS. Prefect Gets Ahead of Proposed Theatre Censorship and Starts a Clean-Up.

Paris, May 10.—M. Raux, prefect of Paris, has organized a special police detachment which is expected to purge the theatres here of all uncleanness, either verbal or suggested. While the proposed law providing for a theatre censorship has not yet been passed, M. Raux has forestalled the purity agitators and already has caused a revision of numerous stage scenes, to the great concern of the managers and, it was said, with the result that there has been a tremendous falling off in the box office receipts.

OLD LONDON PASSING. [London Morning Post.] Old London is vanishing fast. The alterations around Wapping Old Stairs and the old lane once known as "Grave Turning," remove the site of that grim memorial of the "good old days"—"Execution Dock," the inlet of the river upon the bank of which stood the gallows for the execution of sailors who committed piracy and smuggling crimes. Here was executed "Captain Kidd," in truth a drag rope, but "executed" gentle and debonaire at the last.

Old-Time Price For Glass of Beer Coming Back.

MONTREAL, May 10.—The five-cent glass of beer, long since banished in face of war-time costs and government taxation, will shortly make its re-appearance in the bars of this city, following the removal of the luxury tax on the beverage. The lifting of the tax will bring about a marked reduction in the wholesale price of beer, said Norman J. Day, president of the National Breweries, Limited, when interviewed this morning. According to his estimate, draught beer will come down from $18.50 and $18 a barrel to $11.50 and $11, and on bottled beer there will be a reduction of 50 cents on the price of a dozen quarts, now $2, and a reduction of 20 cents on the price of a dozen pints, now $1.20. Other liquor prices, however, will rise, say officials.

LOANS TO VETERANS ATTENDING COLLEGE.

TORONTO, May 10.—Loans amounting to $83,926 were advanced to 214 returned soldiers during the last year by the Alumnae Association of the University of Toronto to enable the men to go ahead with their education, according to a report prepared by the association. By this means many of the students were enabled to continue at the university who could not otherwise have done so.

The loans, when returned, will be used towards the cost of the construction of the University of Toronto war memorial.

The loans were made on non-interest bearing notes, pending graduation, after which six per cent interest will be charged, and the money is supposed to be repaid in two years from graduation.

Graduates of a year ago who had similar advances are repaying the loans satisfactorily, the report states.

FORMER LONDONER IS 2ND VICE-PRESIDENT.

E. P. Hungerford Elected At Canadian Club Meeting in New York.

NEW YORK, May 10.—By Canadian Press.—The "regular" slate of candidates proposed by the nominating committee of the club proved victorious tonight at the annual elections of the Canadian Club of New York. All the new officers of the club, with one exception, hail originally from Ontario. They include: President, Albert Oliver, Teeswater, Ont.; first vice-president, T. C. Reed, Gananoque, Ont.; second vice-president, E. P. Hungerford, London, Ont.

The split was due to a difference of opinion as to limiting associate membership to a ticket headed by Douglas Sprague, C. E., for president, opposing a recent amendment to the bylaws whereby the number of associate members will be limited to 225, the object of this being to insure maintaining the Canadian character of the club. When the results of the voting were announced Mr. Sprague promised the "administration" the support of his faction.

At the meeting a letter was read from Sir Arthur Currie, urging members of the Canadian Club of New York to support "The Dumbells," an organization of former Canadian soldiers now appearing at the Ambassador Theatre here. Sir Arthur spoke of the good work done by the Dumbells in France.

STORM BUILDING TO GET STRIKE-BREAKERS.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 10.—Three hundred or more alleged strikers and sympathizers stormed the doors of the custom house here today in their efforts to get a party of negro strike-breakers who had fled into the federal building for protection. Several of the negroes were severely beaten before the arrival of police, who, with drawn pistols, drove off the rioting scamen.

TRUSH FOUND GUILTY OF ATTEMPTED MURDER.

TORONTO, May 10.—Nick Trush was found guilty at the assizes here today of the attempted murder of Mrs. Steve Popolink on January 10, when her husband was shot and killed in a drunken orgy and she herself was wounded by a shot fired by a Russian who has since been missing.

The crown produced evidence to show that Trush had caught Mrs. Popolink by the hair as she was running to inform the police of the shooting of her husband, and pulled her back into the house where the tragedy had occurred, then called out to another man, "Kill her, or she will go out and holler for the police!"

Trush was not sentenced today.

ORDERED TO HOLD LIQUOR IN BOND.

WINDSOR, May 10.—A. T. Montreuil, collector of customs today received instructions from R. R. Farrow, collector of customs and deputy minister of inland revenue, to hold all intoxicating liquor in bond in Windsor. Orders were also given that all entries of customs and excise must be taken subject to amendment.

The liquor order will affect shipments of spirits from England, Scotland and foreign countries. Mr. Montreuil stated today that there is only a small amount of liquor in bond here.

Changes in customs and excise regulations are believed to be foreshadowed by the instructions to take all further entries subject to amendment.

PAIR ARE HELD AS BURGLAR SUSPECTS.

WINDSOR, May 10.—Giving chase through half a dozen streets in the police patrol early today, Constables

McCauley and Neale, after firing one revolver shot in the air, succeeded in stopping an auto with two fleeing men. At the police station the men gave their names as George Spindienam and Emerson Lamareh. They were pursued, officer state, following an attempt to burglarize the home of Mrs. R. J. Curry, 220 Curry avenue, but were frightened away when Mrs. Curry fired two shots at them.

The New Laws on teeth cleaning—five of them

Dental science has adopted new laws on teeth cleaning. They mean whiter, cleaner, safer teeth to those who follow them.

Millions employ these new methods, largely by dental advice. Now this ten-day test is offered to show every home the results.

1—Fight the film. The first law is to fight film—that viscous coat you feel. It dims the teeth and causes most tooth troubles.

Film clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Old ways of brushing do not end it. So few have escaped some form of film attack.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Two methods now. Two ways are now known to fight film. Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Leading dentists everywhere now advise their daily use.

Both are embodied in Pepsodent—a scientific tooth paste. They keep the teeth uniquely clean and also highly polished.

Three other laws. Modern starchy diet also calls for other helps to Nature. So every use of Pepsodent brings these three desired results.

1—A multiplied salivary flow.

2—Multiplied starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits that cling. 3—Multiplied alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize mouth acids which cause tooth decay.

Thus Pepsodent fights two deposits—film and starch—which may do great harm to teeth. Also the destroying acids, and in Nature's way.

These mean vast improvements on old methods. In fact, old methods brought the opposite effects. Pepsodent has introduced a new era in teeth cleaning, and millions now enjoy it.

Now we urge that you send for a 10-day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Feel the other good effects.

Then decide by what you see and feel. Do this for your own sake. Cut out the coupon now.

GIRLS OF CITY ARE HELPED BY EFFORTS OF LOCAL W. C. T. U.

Brigadier-General Sir Archibald McDonnell of Kingston, who comes to the city on Thursday to officiate at the presentation of colors sent to the R. C. B. by the British Government, will be a guest with Col. and Mrs. Hill, who are entertaining in his honor at luncheon on Thursday. A splendid report of the year's work in the social service department of the local W. C. T. U. was given yesterday afternoon at the regular meeting by Mrs. Ida Harrison, secretary of that department. In her report she gave a vivid account of her work among the mothers and girls of the city. Her report cases where a remarkable transformation had been brought about through the efforts of the W. C. T. U. During the year she visited 365 homes with 110 visits made at her office. Twenty-six visits were made to police court, six to the hospital, and six to the luncheonette. In all 29 girls and 5 women were helped through her efforts. At Christmas time 21 baskets were sent out, and 110 children entertained at the W. C. T. U. Christmas tree. The Mothers' Club is one of the most important of the clubs carried on under the direction of the W. C. T. U. The members of this club come to the rooms on Clarence street weekly and bring their sewing and children and toys. Here in this resting-place which they call "Bethel," they strive to get out of the narrow lives in which they live, said the speaker. And they not only work for their own betterment, but strive to help the less fortunate of their number in a material way by the holding of grocery and fruit shows. Last winter they kept six families in food until they were tired over a period in which the father of the house was out of work. By means of two concerts and the putting aside of one cent a day by some of the members, they raised $30 for the Children's Hospital. Their total receipts during the year amounted to $129.92, $24.85 coming from the sale of clothing, kept regularly in the W. C. T. U. cupboard for their purchase. The total expenditure was $116.73. The very best work of the young W. C. T. U. was also mentioned. There is a membership of eighteen young girls in this branch of the union, and they do excellent work, sewing for the Day Nursery, etc. The girls in the city outside the club, however, had a large place in Mrs. Harrison's report. She pointed out where workers could be done with them, if they were only given a chance. So often girls come to her at night, having no place to go and without money, and there was no accommodation for such girls in the present building. She pleaded with the members to provide such accommodation in the new building, if it were only one room. As it was, she often had to put them up on a couch in her own room. The next meeting of the W. C. T. U. held on Tuesday, May 31.

FOR LOVE OF BETTY

[BY MAY CHRISTIE.] (Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) LXXXIV.—"HE IS DYING!" A piquant recollection had forced its way back into the recesses of Mrs. MacTurk's mind—the incident which brooch forming the one word, "April." "Did you see he called her 'April Moore'?" she queried eagerly. Her sister nodded. "The girl was wearing a brooch of diamonds shaped to the word 'April,'" she said. "And when she saw me looking at it, she stammered out that April was her birthday month, or something—I wondered what was it made her seem so flustered—"

HOME ECONOMICS

MRS. ELIZABETH KENT, MACDONALD COLLEGE. COMMUNITY HYGIENE. MAKING BUTTONHOLES.

It is difficult to say just how much interest a mother should take in the health of the community in which she lives; but surely it is safe to say that she dare not be indifferent to conditions which surround her own children in any place where they must spend a considerable portion of their time. We have now nearly everywhere compulsory school attendance, and yet the physical conditions of many schools are such as a mother would not permit in her own home. She must not then listen to the slogan that "a woman's place is at her home," but must try to safeguard her children and the children of the community by trying to improve conditions wherever her children and other children must go. Even merely to protect her home, she must be interested in pure water, milk, clean schools, individual drinking cups, protection against contagious diseases, clean shops where food is offered for sale, clean laundries, the health of cooks and waitresses in public eating places, in school nurses and in school clinics. While people travel in trolley cars, while crowds go nightly to moving picture theatres and other places of amusement, just so long is it a matter of importance to every mother that all such places should be kept clean, that they may not be a menace to the health of her children. There is no such thing as living to one's self. In matters of hygiene, being clean, and the health of the school, and the community are essentially one and the same. There may be a board of health, but this does not release from a certain amount of responsibility every person in the community. The use of a board of health depends upon the extent to which it is backed and stimulated by public interest in its work.

Asparagus Cooked in New Ways

With asparagus "in" it behooves the cook to use it as often as possible. But even this most delicious of vegetables will pall if served time after time in the same style. Here are five tasty ways of preparing asparagus: Luncheon Asparagus. Two or three dozen stalks of asparagus, 4 eggs, 2 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons grated cheese, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika. Wash asparagus and snap off tough ends. Cook in boiling salted water for 20 minutes. Drain and put in a well-buttered baking dish. Melt butter and pour over. Sprinkle with cheese and paprika. Separate stalks and serve with butter and salt. Baked Asparagus. Thirty-two stalks asparagus, 1 cup white sauce, 2 tablespoons grated bread crumbs, butter, salt and pepper. Wash asparagus, snap off tough ends and tie the tender stalks in small bundles. Cook in boiling salted water for 20 minutes. Drain and put in a buttered baking dish. Add a layer of white sauce and another layer of asparagus. Cover with white sauce and bread crumbs. Dot with bits of butter and bake in a hot oven for 20 minutes. Asparagus Souffle. Twenty-four stalks asparagus, 3 whites, 1 cup milk, 2 egg yolks, 3/4 cup cream, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 cup flour. Cut asparagus in inch pieces and cook in just enough water to keep from burning, until tender. Rub through a sieve. Melt butter, stir in flour. When smooth add milk slowly, stirring till thick and smooth. The mixture should be enough to leave the sides of the pan. Add yolks of eggs beaten till thick and lemon colored, and salt and pepper. Add asparagus puree and the whites of the eggs beaten stiff and dry. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven 25 minutes. Serve at once or the souffle will fall. Asparagus Pudding. One cup milk, 2 eggs, 2 1/2 inch pieces, 4 eggs, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon minced ham, 2 tablespoons butter, salt and pepper, milk. Beat eggs well and add asparagus, flour, ham, butter, a little salt, as the ham is salt, and pepper. Mix thoroughly and add enough milk to make a thick batter. Turn into a buttered mold, cover tightly with a buttered and floured cloth and cook in boiling water and boil for two hours. Remove out of mold onto a hot dish to serve. Moulded Asparagus. Slice onion, clove, 2 slices carrots, 2 slices celery, 2 slices parsley, 2 slices asparagus, 1/2 cup cold cream, 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 cup cream, 1/2 cup salt and paprika, 1/2 cup whipping cream. Cut asparagus in inch pieces and cook with onion, clove, parsley and carrot until tender. Remove onion and parsley and press asparagus through a sieve. Soften gelatin in 1-4 cup cold cream. Return the asparagus—there should be 1/2 cup left in the pan. When boiling stir in gelatin. Remove from fire and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Pour into a mold. Add salt, paprika and lemon juice. When beginning to set fold in cream whipped stiff. Let stand to chill and become firm.

Personal Health Service

(By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D., Noted Physician and Author.) A Filling in Time. The baby teeth must be kept sound if the good, regular, sound, permanent teeth are desired. It is crucially important that the baby teeth be kept sound and healthy. The first molar tooth of the permanent set appears at about the age of seven years. If there are already neglected decayed teeth in the child's mouth, this first permanent tooth is very likely to become decayed; in fact, it is frequently found with a cavity at the very first examination. Parents generally fail to understand that this first molar or seven-year-molar is a permanent tooth, and therefore they fail to take the child to the dentist to have the cavity properly treated. The caries progresses until the tooth is damaged beyond redemption. Then arises a serious problem: Hobson's choice of allowing the decayed tooth to remain, with its menace to the integrity of the other teeth and to the general health of the body; or the judgment of the dentist in such a matter. It is no idle speculation that a decayed molar tooth favors disease of the tonsils, end adenoid body. The last molar tooth in a child's or adult's mouth is practically in contact with the tonsils when the mouth is closed. It is therefore conceivable that bacteria may be directed to the surface of the tonsils from a cavity in the back molar tooth. Some throat specialists view this relation from the other side—they think that infection travels rather from the tonsils to the back molar teeth, and not a throat specialist and do not see

VOLUNTARY SCHEME TO MARKET WHEAT Recommended in the Wheat Board's Report, Prepared For Saskatchewan Government.

REGINA, May 10.—A voluntary scheme of wheat marketing, operated by a specially created organization directly responsible to its farmer patrons provided sufficient demand for voluntary pooling exists and providing the Government is desirous of acceding to that demand, is the recommendation contained in the report on wheat marketing prepared by James Stewart and E. W. Riddell of the Canada Wheat Board, at the request of the Saskatchewan Government and made public today.

The report suggests that a voluntary pool should be organized on an experimental scale, rather than an attempt to embark upon a full-fledged scheme. "In the first place, we believe that the most perfect form of a centralized wheat marketing agency, which in time can be created only under the control of a national organization," says the report.

FOUND NOT GUILTY OF SERIOUS CHARGE

Former Confession of Indians in Hartford Case Is Repudiated.

SIMCOE, May 10.—James Webster, an Indian residing near Hartford, was found not guilty on a charge of advising two fellow Indians to rob, by Judge Boles this afternoon. Crown Attorney Kelly prosecuted and A. A. Winter appeared for the defence. The two other Indians, Sherry and Henry, in the box, repudiated a former confession, and said that Webster did not convince them to rob, but was to act as look-out in case they were interrupted.

Henry corroborated the allegation of Sherry that George Sloat, a white man, who keeps a store at Little Buffalo, primed them with liquor and advised them to rob Howard's store. Cross-examined, Sherry and Henry admitted that they felt resentful towards Sloat because he identified a revolver with which the shooting was done and as one belonging to Sherry. Sloat again identified the revolver, but made no mention of whiskey. Sherry testified that Webster did not convince Webster did not show up at the time of the robbery, and was not there at all. According to C. C. Barber Sloat will not be charged.

CAUSE OF EARLY OLD AGE The celebrated Dr. Michenhoff, an authority on early old age, says that it is "caused by poisons generated in the intestines." When your stomach digests food properly it is absorbed without forming poisonous matter.

ten shotguns in the first volley to make-up for shortcomings, and in this we were successful.

"It was raked with the fire of the 24 guns; most of the police were shot off and the car came to a dead stop. Some of the police when they got to the rear made an attempt to put up a fight, but the second volley, which included all the rifles, wiped them out."

"What is termed 'an exceedingly risky operation' was being tried at the enemy 'strength' was the attack in County Donegal on a military train from Derry. According to the brigade commander's report the attacking party numbered 28. In the afternoon before the rally was held, the train was to leave Derry at 3 a.m. the next morning.

"The train was left to choose a position and get settled, but the train was late, giving us three-quarters of an hour to get ready. We chose a cutting, one side of which was on a level with the cutting on the other side. On each side we placed bombers and riflemen, and the other differently armed. Two large boulders were placed on the rails, and the wire fences at each side were pulled up to afford an exit. The station building at short distance away was taken possession of and a green light displayed.

"There were seven carriages on the train, and it was traveling at a great speed when it struck the stones.

"Fire was opened from both sides and bombs were hurled through the windows. The fire was returned from the cars in an organized manner. The train was in position. Our riflemen at the rear end of the train got down on the line for enflading fire, but after about ten minutes it was forced to order a retreat to the rear of the station. Eight bombs were thrown, two of which we are certain landed in carriages.

"In the retreat one of our two parties was surrounded twice but fought its way through on each occasion. One of our men is missing, and we believe he has fallen into the hands of the enemy. No other casualties were suffered on either side. In spite of our denial, we have every reason to believe that at least ten men were either killed or wounded on the enemy side."

U. S. JOINS WORLD OIL CONTROL FIGHT DUTCH ACTION IN BARRING AMERICAN INTERESTS CLEARS FIELD.

RETALIATION CERTAIN HARDING IS EXPECTED TO ACT FIRMLY IN UPHOLDING U. S. RIGHTS.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The world fight for control of petroleum has been brought into the open by the action of the Dutch Legislature in barring American interests from the Sumatra oil fields.

The letter addressed by the American minister to The Hague, William Phillips, to the Netherlands foreign minister, announcing the probability of a retaliatory American policy, has regarded here as evincing a firm determination on the part of the Harding administration to see that the United States is not barred from the oil fields of the world.

With America producing the major portion of the oil on which the world is now drawing, it is realized that vigorous retaliatory measures can be adopted. The United States is in position to retaliate against the Dutch action. The American position is in process of formation, but it starts with the assumption that every nation should have a clear field. That is the position which the United States is in position to take in connection with the Mesopotamian dispute with England, which revolves about the question of oil.

So far as the Dutch interests are concerned, the United States is in position to retaliate drastically with them, because they are widely represented in this country. It is not impossible that all foreign access to the American oil fields may be denied, unless the general determination to accept the American position of a clear field for all everywhere in the world.

The Dutch action is confidently believed to be dictated by foreign interests, chiefly centered in England, which is credited with an effort to dominate oil productive fields of the world.

The Royal Dutch Shell Company is a so-called Dutch company which is supposed to be dominated by British concerns, and it is this company which is believed to have dictated the position of the Dutch Government in its general determination to accept the American position of a clear field for all everywhere in the world.

Gen. Andrews sent this letter to Senator Lodge in the hope of destroying the effect of charges recently made by Secretary of the Interior Fall, alleging the British Government controlled the Dutch organization. The effect of the letter has been to produce evidence in support of the contention that the British Government controlled the Dutch organization.

The company in question, through its various subsidiary companies, controls the oil supply of many sections and has widespread interests in this country. In the United States it is represented by the Roxanna Company, which has many interests in Oklahoma, and by the Shell Company of California. The Roxanna Company of Oklahoma controls numbers of the main body of the Turner Oil Company and the New Orleans Refining Company. The Shell Company of California controls the Simplex Refining Company, the Turner Oil Company, the Valley Pipe Company, and other concerns.

Liberals' Tariff Plan Only Real Basis For Enduring Prosperity

Hon. W. S. Fielding Shows Where Reckless Policy of the Meighen Govt. and Extravagant Expenditures Entirely Unnecessary Are Leading Canada—Submits Amendment to Government Budget.

[Special to the Advertiser.] OTTAWA, May 10.—In clear and unequivocal terms, Hon. W. S. Fielding, former minister of finance in the Laurier Government, and now one of the first lieutenants of the Liberal King, expounded today the Liberal doctrine on the tariff and fiscal questions generally. Mr. Fielding concurred in an eloquent and telling address with the submission of an amendment to the government's "big interest" budget, an amendment the provisions of which look toward a reduction in the cost of living and the implements of production, and which lays down the principle that the only industries which should be cultivated are those which are based upon the natural resources of the Dominion.

He steered a straight course between protection and free trade, and once more pronounced the doctrine of tariff for revenue, which under Sir Wilfrid Laurier gave fifteen years of unparalleled "prosperity to the Dominion." He roundly scolded the government for extravagance in expenditures, declaring himself in favor of a heavy curtailment of military and naval expenditures, and commended the government's "pork barrel" expenditures on dry-docks in Victoria and elsewhere, and stated that he should not have more taxation unless there had been retrenchment. The speech drew repeated applause from Liberals and Progressives alike.

The Liberal Policy Mr. Fielding explained that the fact must always be remembered that in reducing the tariff the price of the article was perhaps reduced to the people, thereby creating a big saving. He pointed out that the reduction during the Liberal regime was greater than generally supposed. Those who represented the Liberal party as having made no real reduction in the tariff were not doing the party or the truth justice. There was a great tariff reform under the Liberal regime.

Mr. Fielding quoted the report made by the prime minister in Winnipeg that he (Mr. Fielding) "has time and again given his adherence to the protective principle."

Rebukes Premier. "My right honorable friend is mistaken," he declared. "I never gave my adherence to the principle of protection. I have said again and again, and I say with increased emphasis that you cannot make a sound fiscal policy for Canada by any rigid adherence to any particular theory. I accept the philosophy of that much-quoted expression 'It is a condition, not a theory which counts up.' I say if I had a choice between the two principles, by all means I would start from the standpoint of free trade. Because I believe it can be defended far better than the protective principle. I say without hesitation that the public man who aims to build up the tariff of this country starting from the standard of protection, basing it on that principle, carrying it through on that principle, cannot produce a tariff with which the people of Canada will be satisfied. You may win a temporary victory as was won in 1911, but the men who brought about that victory as far as the commercial side of it is concerned, have had reason to regret the blunder they made. They have created a condition of unrest in this country, a condition for which they are largely responsible, a condition which is not likely to end in the very near future."

Will Not Succeed. "You may depend on it that a tariff built upon the protective principle, a tariff designed to protect industries merely because they are industries, and without regard to economic conditions of the country, cannot and should not succeed. If there are any people in Canada who are contemplating the establishment of new lines of business in which they feel that tariff protection is necessary, I do them a friendly service when I say, 'Don't do it, because once you have established a business, any one who comes upon the scene is bound to find that he is pursuing a delusion. If any outside capitalist purposes coming to Canada to start an industry which he believes can be kept alive by protection, again I advise him not to come. The policy of indiscriminate fostering of industries in that way without regard to economic conditions is not a sound one. The general statement that you must establish industries in order that you may create business and give employment involves the adoption of a dangerous doctrine. If it were merely a question of that why should not the industries be bonused?"

The True Policy. "The true policy, however, is to cultivate only those industries which are based upon the natural resources (Farmer and Liberal applause) I would not advise any industry which is established in Canada unfairly dealt with. I would try not to strike down any industry that exists today, even if it were not wisely established, but when we are looking to the future for the purpose of adopting a sound policy as regards the creation of industries, let us not be carried away with the idea of creating industries so as to give employment. Let us create industries, which, based upon the natural resources of the country, will give rise to healthy enterprises with a good prospect of future success."

Critics Income Tax. Mr. Fielding criticized the income tax law as unnecessarily complex and exasperating. He referred to military and naval expenditures. He was not one of those who believed that we should have no military or naval expenditure in Canada. We must have a small nucleus. But this was not the main thing. There were 400,000 trained soldiers in Canada, the best fighting material in the world, who could be called upon if there were an emergency (if such an unlikely event should arise).

Only One Good Thing. As to the naval policy of the Government there was only one good thing to be said of it, and that was that it indicated repentance in sackcloth and ashes on the part of the Government members for the wrong that they had done the Laurier Government. They had, in fact, accepted the Laurier policy, which they had at the time it was proposed described as a "tin pot" navy. He agreed that Canada must make provision for taking a larger share in the defence of the empire, but the best way to do that was to make provision for the defence of our own country.

As to the naval vessels presented by Great Britain, the Dominion Government, in a moment of weakness had accepted a white elephant. Canada did not need the ships, and although credit must be given the good intention of the British Government, Canada should not have taken advantage of the offer.

Have No Right. Since this country had repudiated tariff reciprocity with the United States, he said, Canadians had the right to complain whatever the American tariff might be. Mr. Fielding advised Sir George Foster not to go down to New York and make any further whining to the Americans not to pass the Fordney bill.

The prime minister had gone to Sherbrooke, a manufacturing community, and had sought to build up his case by misrepresenting that of his opponents. He had said the issue was free trade or protection. There was no issue of free trade in Canada today, Mr. Fielding declared. The Liberal party did not propose free trade. The farmers' party, not free trade, the Government was using free trade as a bogey to scare the Canadian manufacturer. It was the story of 1896 over again. The people of Canada knew better today than the trust of the Government representation in this matter, just as they had known better in 1896. The fifteen years of the Laurier Government had been the golden era in Canada, Mr. Fielding said. He pointed out that the Government's statements, which failed in 1896 and would fail again whether they were put to the test in 1921 or 1922.

Liberal Amendment. Mr. Fielding then moved, seconded by Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, the Liberal amendment, as follows: "The House regrets that, after repeated assurances by the Government of an intention to have a revision of the customs tariff, and after a protracted inquiry extending from ocean to ocean by a committee of cabinet ministers, the Government has made no proposals for any reduction of the tariff."

That while recognizing that existing financial requirements of the Dominion demand the maintenance of a customs tariff, the House is unable to concur in the declaration by the Government that the tariff should be based on the principle of protection; the tariff is a tax, and the aim of legislation should be to make taxation as light as circumstances will permit.

That the aim of the fiscal policy of Canada should be the encouragement of industries based on the natural resources of the country, the development of which may be reasonably expected to create a healthy enterprise giving promise of enduring success.

Such changes should be made in the customs duties as may be expected to reduce the cost of living, and to reduce also the cost of implements of production required for the efficient development of the natural resources of the Dominion.

That, while keeping this aim clearly in mind, the House recognizes that any readjustment of the tariff that is to take place, regard must be had to existing conditions of trade and changes made in such a manner as will cause the least possible disturbance of business.

LOCAL G. W. V. A. FAVOR OF DIVIDING ONTARIO COMMAND

Indorses Resolution Sent by Toronto Association to Bradford Convention.

A resolution in favor of dividing the provincial headquarters of the G. W. V. A. into three districts was indorsed by the local G. W. V. A. members at a meeting in Hyman Hall Tuesday evening. The resolution, drawn up by the Toronto district command, claims that nearly every branch of the G. W. V. A. is losing its membership, and that if the provincial command were divided much more interest would be manifested. The resolution will be brought up at the Bradford convention to be held in Bradford from May 24 to 26. Comrades W. G. Coles and A. E. Foster were appointed delegates to attend.

Moving Day Deferred. The question of moving to new club-rooms was thoroughly discussed, and it was decided to leave the matter over till the next general meeting, which will be held on June 15.

Nursing Sister M. Thomson tendered her resignation as a member of the executive committee. It was accepted. The appointment of A. E. Foster to the position of temporary secretary was confirmed.

Comrade Coles acted as chairman of the meeting, and urged that as many members as possible turn out to a parade of veterans whenever one was held.

There are 4,000 veterans in the city, yet we cannot get as many as 200 to a parade," he said. "This is poor representation, and the public will think that interest among returned men is falling off."

A. and N. Veterans Meet. The Army and Navy Veterans Association decided to close its club-rooms for the summer months at a meeting last night. It is expected that the rooms will be rented, a meeting hall for these months has been secured.

Further discussion on the appointment of W. E. Tanner to the position of secretary of the board of education took place, and action will be taken this week.

NEW ESTIMATE OF COST OF GARBAGE COLLECTION $79,000 Quebec Street Residents Ask Fixed Assessment in Lieu of Damages. Several deputations and committees of citizens waited upon No. 2 committee of the city council Tuesday evening with various petitions and requests. Property owners on Quebec street whose lots will be pierced by the proposed extension of Woodman avenue presented an appeal for relief, contending that the increased assessment by reason of taxation on both sides of the street would inflict great hardship and probably force them to sell out at a loss. They asked for total exemption of taxes for a period of two years in order that they should have the opportunity to raise the great expense of the work which would not be exempt, however.

HEAVEN, HERE NOW, IS THE TEACHING OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Brings Health To Sick and Lifts Up Discouraged Into Joy.

JUDGE GREENE SPEAKS Member of Board of Mother Church Gives Lecture Here.

"What the world is seeking is a religion that comes to the sick and tells them how to be well; that comes to the discouraged and lifts them out of the slough and despair into the richness and joy of a closer walk with God," declared Judge Samuel Greene, C. S., of Louisville, addressing a well-attended meeting of Christian Scientists on Tuesday evening at the Mother Church of Christ, Scientists, in Boston, Mass.

"Christian Science," he said, "is the spiritual interpretation of the Bible and the consequent spiritual understanding of God; and enables the world to find the rest and the peace that are promised by the Master."

Heaven is Here, Now. "Christian Science comes teaching in the very words of Jesus of old that the kingdom of God, the kingdom of Heaven, is at hand—is here, is now, within us, around us, and about us, through the practice and understanding of this teaching of Jesus, men and women in constantly increasing numbers are healed of all manner of sickness, sin, and sorrow, and more satisfying. The theory that eternal life and happiness are to be had beyond the grave only has always been a depressing element in religion. Christian Science shows that men do not have to wait for death or a final judgment day, before realizing and experiencing the joy of the fulfillment of God's promises."

Ignored Persecution. "Ignoring, however, the persecution, the lack of sympathy and interest manifested by the world in her discovery during the early years. Mrs. Eddy never wavered in her task, but patiently and earnestly studied the Bible, that she might find the positive rule for the solution of this problem of Mind-healing which had been so graciously and wonderfully revealed to her through her own instantaneous healing from what the doctors had pronounced an incurable physical condition. The result of her studies she has since given to the world in the Christian Science text-book, 'Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures,' commonly called Science and Health, which was published in 1875.

"In Science and Health, page 123, we read 'Divine Science, rising above physical theories, excludes matter, solves things into thoughts, and replaces the objects of material sense with spiritual ideas.'"

"Let us try this plan in our destructive work of evil. We may begin on the members of the household by seeing them as thoughts; thoughts of God, expressions of His goodness and His love, existing to bless the home and all mankind. Contrariety, et. as not, see them as selfish, impatient, intemperate, and all such evil thoughts or beliefs will be banished from the home. Then home will become the abiding place of love, goodness and harmony."

NATIVE OF LONDON DIES IN FAR WEST Mrs. Mary Caroline Agassiz, Wife of Founder of Agassiz, B. C. The death of Mrs. Mary Caroline Agassiz of Agassiz, B. C., occurred on April 27. Mrs. Agassiz was a daughter of the late Peter Schram and a sister-in-law of Mrs. H. R. Schram of this city. She, with her husband, Capt. Lewis Agassiz, a British army officer, went to what is now known as Agassiz 50 years ago, where they founded the town of that name. Mrs. Agassiz was the first white woman to come to that locality, and could tell many interesting anecdotes of their early life there.

What Shall I Give And On What Terms? This question will doubtless be asked by many who want to do their fair share for the United Welfare Fund. Foremen, salaried officials, minor executives, etc., with annual incomes under $3,000, from two days' pay to 1 per cent of annual incomes in twelve monthly payments. People with incomes of $3,000 and over should, it is suggested, give approximately the following minimum amounts, based roughly on under-noted percentages of gross annual income.
