THE IMPERIAL WAR SECRETARY ASKS DUNDONALD TO RETURN HOME

Ordered Meanwhile to Keep Out of Political Controversies—Affair in British House.

London, July 20. — In the House of Commons tonight Mr. David Lloyd-George, Liberal member for Carnarvon, moved the adjournment of the House in order to call attention to a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely, the conduct of Lord Dundonald in taking part, whilst still an officer of the British army, in a political agitation against his majesty's Government in the Dominion of Canada. In opening the debate, he contended that Lord Dundonald's conduct was such as could not be encouraged in the future. After his dismissal Lord Dundonald had practically initiated an agitation against the Canadian Government. It was purely a political agitation, with Lord Dundonald as the center. The case was similar to that of General Buller's, but there was a double reason why it should not be permitted in Canada. It was grossly unfair and mischievous that Lord Dundonald should be allowed to stir up strife and a feud between the two races in Canada.

A Political Agitation.

Mr. Lloyd-George quoted the Toronto Globe and the correspondence of the Standard as proof that the Toronto speech was purely a political agitation. There could be nothing more dangerous or pernicious if Lord Dundonald went to Montreal, where all the material was ready for a conflagration and set a match to that material. General Buller only made a speech at a luncheon to defend his own conduct, and he was practically dismissed; Lord Dundonald, on the other hand, made violent speeches in a political propaganda accusing the Canadian Government of corruption. Lord Dundonald should be reprimanded, both for his speeches and his general conduct.

Mr. Churchill's View.

Mr. Winston Churchill, along with whom rose Mr. Arnold-Forster, Secretary of War, the latter giving way, amid a scene of considerable commotion, seconded the motion. He declared no motion for adjournment had greater reason behind it. Though Lord Dundonald considered himself in the right in making his protest, he could have done so in a less harmful way. He ought to have been at once recalled by the British Government. No one could deny that Lord Dundonald is being expurposes. He deprecated the prominent intervention of military officers in the party politics of a self-governing colony, where the position of an imperial officer should resemble that of the crown in Britain. He wanted the Government to make it clear that they were in no way associated with the action of Lord Dundonald.

Lord Dundonald's utility as a militia officer, said Mr. Churchill, absolutely terminated at the publication of the corespondence and his dismissal, when he should have been ordered home. Instead, however, he had gone on a triumphal tour of the provinces, making scathing remarks about Canadian ministers who were ministers of the King.

Arnold-Forster Speaks.

Mr. Arnold-Forster welcomed Mr. Churchill as the spokesman of the Opposition. This debate was not calculated to contribute to the public advantage. (Cries of "Hear, hear.") The one question was that of discipline, of which he was in charge, and the other the advisability of this debate. He saw that no advantage could arise from this debate except to make bad blood between two great branches of the empire. (Cheers and cries of "Oh.") The discussion would not tend to establish good feeling between the motherland and Canada.

Continuing, Mr. Forster said Mr. Lloyd-George had spoken of the pain this controversy would cause Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who, as he truly said, was one of the staunchest friends of the empire at the time of its great struggle. Did Mr. Lloyd-George speak as the agent or representative of Sir Wilfrid Laurier?

Mr. Lloyd-George—I speak as a member of the House of Commons, with as good a right as the right honorable gentleman. (Opposition cheers.)

Ordered Home

Lord Dundonald, said Mr. Arnold-Forster, went to Canada as the officer of the Canadian Government, and no one imputed any misconduct to him other than want of judgment. Not being in agreement with the Canadian Government, the latter dismissed him at once. When he became an officer on half-pay he could stand as a member of the Canadian Parliament if he desired and not be deprived of the right to take an active part in public life. He believed it undesirable for any officer to take part in public controversies, and the war office had informed Lord Dundonald that his conduct was undesirable, and had requested him to return to be heard in his own defense. He had instructed Lord Dundonald to return home, and not to take any further part in political controversies. (Cries of "Hear, hear.")

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman said it was a grave piece of bad taste for Lord Dundonald to act as he did, but Mr. Arnold-Forster had taken the course the Opposition approved by calling him home.

Mr. Healy said he believed that Lord Dundonald had attacked the Government of Canada because it was French Catholic. It was very useful to have French Catholics on the side of the British Empire during the Boer war, but now that the war was over an officer of the imperial army had made partisan statements outraging the feelings of the majority of the people of Canada. He would like to know why Lord Dundonald had been permitted to remain while his spech was rankling in the French heart. When was the telegram of recall sent? Yesterday the honorable gentleman's subordinate knew nothing about it.

Mr. Lloyd-George offered to withdrow his adjournment motion, but the Government side insisted on negativing it, and this was done without division.

ASLEEP ON TRAIN'S ROOF

Man Taken From Top of a Car on a Limited—Puzzle in It.

Baltimore, July 20.—Joseph Coine, of 2,214 Brandywine street, Philadelphia, was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Poe here on Monday for riding unauthorized on the cars of the Baltimore and Ohio. He was taken from the top of a passenger coach of a limited express train in Camden station at 1 o'clock in the morning, but could not tell how he came to be in such a place.

According to Coine's statement, he is a teamster in Philadelphia, and after drawing his pay on Saturday night he went home, changed his clothes, and started with a party of friends on a fishing trip on the Schuylkill River. He remembered nothing more until he was awakened in Camden station by policemen who had placed a ladder against the side of the coach, and were in the act of taking him down from the roof.

All the way from Philadelphia to Baltimore he had ridden on the roof of the car, without knowing where he was or what he was doing. How he left his friends and came to be on the roof of the coach he could not tell. That was man was not killed by a fall is regarded as wonderful.

TROPICAL MADNESS

Prince Challenges Novelist for Libeling Him in Book.

Berlin, July 20.—Count Dohna, of Castle Hartenstein, near Gesolar, Prussia, recently wrote to Henry Weden proposing a duel in behalf of Lieut. Prince Propser Von Aernberg, who was confined in an insane asylum after his acquittal by a court martial in March last on the charge of killing a native named Cain, in Damaraland, German Southwest Africa. Count Dohn in his letter said that Prince Von Aernberg demanded satisfaction for alleged insults contained in Weden's novel "Tropenkoller" ("Tropical Madness"). As the prince was prevented from appearing in person Count Dohna asked Weden to make an appointment with a representative of his highness. Weden did not reply to the count's letter, but published it in full.

SHOT THE MAID

American Center of a Tragedy in the Streets of Paris.

Paris, July 20. — Col. George Wilson, a retired American artillery officer, yesterday fired several shots from a revolver at Mlle. Charlotte Murmann, 21 years old. Col. Wilson subsequently shot himself through the head and expired, while being taken to a hospital. It is stated that Mlle. Murmann's wounds are slight.

Col. Wilson was 64 years old. He had lived in a private hotel in the Rue Des Ciseaux for the last two years, and it was there that he met Mlle. Murmann. The woman, who is a ladies' maid, was walking in the Quartier Montparnasse with her mistress, when she noticed that she was being followed by Wilson, and he, without giving any warning drew his revolver and fired.

VATICAN AFTER MORGAN

Millionaire Bought Cape Stolen From Pope Leo.

London, July 20. — According to a Rome dispatch to the Daily Express, the Pope has commissioned Cardinal Vannutelli, who is about to visit Ireland, to try to obtain from J. Pierpont Morgan a priceless ancient cope which was stolen in 1902 from the Cathedral of Ascoli. The cope disappeared mysteriously while repairs were being made to the cathedral, and though the Government took measures for its recovery they were unsuccessful. It now transpires that the cope was sold to Mr. Morgan, who has given it to the South Kensington Museum.

This cope, or ecclesiastical mantle, is a beautifully embroidered piece of work, supposedly done in France in the thirteenth century. It was presented to Ascoli Cathedral by Nicholas IV. The entire ground is on gold thread on which are worked fifteen exquisite panels of religious subjects. One curious feature is the smallness of the hood, which is only ten inches deep. The museum authorities believe the cope is of English and not of French workmanship.

LOOKS LIKE A MURDER

Police Find a New York Lady Dead in Her Rooms.

New York, July 20. — The body of Mrs. Gertrude Kramer was found in her home on East Eighth street today under conditions which led the police to believe the woman was murdered. She had not been seen by any of her neighbors since Monday, and when an officer and the woman's brother went to her home early today they found the door to her apartments locked with a padlock on the outside. The door was forced and Mrs. Kramer's body was found lying on a sofa.

Marks on her throat caused the police to start an investigation on the theory that the woman had been murdered. They at once began a search for Wm. Murphy, a street car conductor, who had lived in the Kramer apartments since Mrs. Kramer and her husband separated several months ago.

RAIN DID NO DAMAGE

Heavy Downpour Helped Manitoba and Northwest Crops.

Winnipeg, Man., July 20. — The crop report of the Canadian Northern Railway for the week which has just passed shows continued good prospects. Rain is reported to have been very general during the week, but no damage is said to have taken place as a result. In the northwestern points the fall is reported to have been the greatest, but it is in this section that the need of rain was most felt.

USED CLOSURE FREELY

All-Night Debate in British House, Balfour Refusing to Adjourn.

London, July 20.—The House of Commons has been in session discussing the financial bill, and is still sitting. The whole night was spent in debate and in marching to and from the division rooms, voting on an endless round of amendments, motions to report progress and motions for adjournment. Premier Balfour refused to consider an adjournment and freely used the closure, insisting that the committee stage of the bill must be finished before the House could be permitted to rise.

MONTREAL WANTS ICE

Metropolis Breaks All Records for Consumption of Ice.

Montreal, Que., July 20.—At the city hall yesterday the thermometer registered 90, which is the highest here in three years. The atmosphere was particularly humid, and therefore all the more trying. A feature in connection with this warm spell is an increase in the demand for ice. The company that distributes the largest amount says that yesterday they delivered a greater quantity than on any other day in the last quarter century.

BIG DETROIT FIRE

$70,000 Damage Done to Michigan Central Shops.

Detroit, July 20. — Fire started in the northern end of the paint shop of the Michigan Central car works, West Detroit, at 7:45 o'clock last evening, completely destroyed the paint and coach sheds and about ninety freight cars of the company, entailing a total loss of about $70,000, all covered by insurance.

It was by the merest good fortune, aided by the unceasing work of the company's employes, that the fire was kept within bounds. Had the wind shifted more to the west, lumber, valued at half a million dollars, would have gone up in smoke, as well as many of the neighboring buildings and houses.

CREW OF CAPTURED MALACCA MADE PRISONERS BY RUSSIA

Captain Protests Against Harsh Treatment and Is Threatened With Arrest===No Contraband Aboard.

ST. PETERSBURG PRESS ON THE RED SEA SEIZURES

Port Said, July 20. — The captured Peninsular and Oriental steamer Malacca (bound for Libau on the Baltic), has arrived here, manned by a Russian naval captain, four officers, forty-five sailors and firemen.

Members of the Malacca's crew were declared prisoners, and no communication with the shore was permitted. An armed guard blocks the gangway of the vessel.

The British captain and passengers complain of the Russian treatment. The former carried his protests to such length that he was threatened with arrest unless he desisted.

The Malacca is declared to have on board no contraband articles for Japan. Her cargo of 3,000 tons, included 40 tons of explosives for Hong Kong.

St. Petersburg, July 20. — The Russ today publishes an editorial statement of the Russian position relative to the stopping of neutral ships in the Red Sea by vessels of the volunteer fleet. There is great interest in the statement because it is believed to reflect directly upon the views of the foreign office. It follows:

"The operations of the converted cruisers Smolensk and St. Petersburg are causing tremendous excitement in England. Questions are being asked in Parliament, the newspapers are appealing to the public, and there is a panic among ship owners. There also is a good deal of talk in Germany because of the seizure of mails on the steamer Prinz Heinrich, but the most noise there is made by extremist organs, the others taking the matter coolly. It is a pity the English do not display the same Teutonic calmness.

"It is easily understood that British merchant marine feels these restrictions severely. As a result of the stopping and searching of vessels, English ships either must give up transporting contraband or continue at their own risk and peril in time of war between two powers. Others are bound to suffer more or less, as it is impossible to check contraband traffic without search.

"In regard to the detention of the Prince Heinrich's mails, details have not yet reached St. Petersburg. Comprehensive discussion of this incident is, therefore, impossible; but it must be pointed out, the official correspondence of a belligerent is contraband. Consequently, if the Prince Heinrich carried Japanese diplomatic and consular reports she was liable to seizure. Of course, whether she did or not, the correspondence can be inspected to determine this fact.

"The English in their excitement even raised the question as to whether we were justified in converting the volunteer fleet steamers into warships after they had passed the Dardanelles under the commercial flag. This is strange. Every government has a right either to build warships in its own yards, order them abroad, buy them already built, and finally, to convert merchant vessels into warships. The volunteer fleet, at its very inception was intended to be converted into a military fleet upon the declaration of war. The English should not feel incensed over the passage of the St. Petersburg and Smolensk through the Dardanelles.

"The British embassy at Constantinople hands in a protest to the Turkish Government every time a volunteer fleet vessel passes the straits. For many years these protests have been entirely disregarded, and, therefore, long ago, lost their importance. Before the war, the Dardanelles were repeatedly passed by volunteer ships on the way to the Far East, even with troops, arms and munitions aboard. If this were possible before the war, it is possible now, as there has been no change in our relations with Turkey as a result of the war with Japan.

"When the St. Petersburg and Smolensk passed through the straits under the merchant flags their destination was correctly given as being the far east. In fact the vessel upon entering the Red Sea armed, hoisted the military flag.

"A fundamental principle of international law that a neutral flag covered goods will not, of course, be violated by our cruisers. Consequently, cargoes aboard the ships of neutral powers containing no contraband of war will remain as free as ever."

London, July 20. — The further details received from Port Said today describing the situation on board the Peninsular and Oriental Company's steamer Malacca, seized in the Red Sea by the Russian volunteer fleet steamer St. Petersburg, fail to give any reason for the seizure, and only serve to inflame the British feeling. The officials of the company are reiterating the denial that the Malacca was carrying contraband of war, and reassert that the explosives on board were British naval commander at Hong Kong.

In official circles, where the gravity of the situation is already fully realized, apprehension is felt at the increasing excitement in the country. There is no likelihood, however, of any precipitate action. It is officially pointed out that the very fullest information must be obtained before the Government decides on its course, especially in view of the fact that being the greatest naval power in the world, Great Britain cannot afford to create precedents for international usage which might hereafter react unfavorably against herself.

RUSSIA MAY RELEASE SHIPS.

Paris, July 20.—Information, which has reached Government circles here leads the officials to believe that Russia will release the British and German merchantmen seized in the Red Sea as a means of averting international complications.

St. Petersburg, July 20, 6:35 p.m.—Sir Charles Hardinge, the British ambassador to Russia, this afternoon, in behalf of his Government, presented a strong protest to Russia against the seizure in the Red Sea and detention of the Peninsular and Oriental steamer Malacca, which was carrying 300 tons of British Government stores for the naval establishment at Hong Kong, each case of which was marked with the broad arrow, which is the Government stamp.

The ambassador also presented a general protest against the action of the Russian volunteer fleet steamers in the Red Sea.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN GIVES A REMEDY

Says High Tariff Alone Can Prevent Dumping.

QUOTES AMERICA AND GERMANY

Report of Fifty Commissioners of Steel Favors Preferential Tariff With the Colonies.

London, July 20. — The report of Joseph Chamberlain's tariff commission on the iron and steel trade arrives at the conclusion that the decline of British iron and steel industry is due to the fact that the manufacturers of America and Germany have secured control of the home markets by means of a high tariff and on organized system regulating their export trade, that they are in a position to dump their surplus products on the British and other markets irrespective of cost, and that the dumping could not be carried on except for the British system of free imports. The committee expressed the opinion that the situation can only be remedied by a system of tariff arranged as follows: (a) A general tariff consisting of a low scale of duties for foreign countries admitting British wares on fair terms. (b) A preferential tariff, lower than the general tariff, for the colonies, giving adequate preference to the British manufacturers, and framed to secure freer trade within the British Empire. (c) A maximum tariff consisting of comparatively higher duties, but subject to reduction by negotiation to the level of the general tariff.

The report, which is signed by 58 commissioners is very bulky and gives the evidence of British manufacturers, the evidence given before the United States industrial committee on iron and steel industries, the organization and working of the German Kartell, and a vast amount of statistics.

RUSSIAN SCOUTS WORRY ENEMY

Ambuscades and Surprises Are Daily Occurrences.

JAPS MOVING NORTHEASTWARD

Camp of Latter Shelled and Troops Driven Out in Disorder—Muscovites in Cheerful Mood.

Ta Tche Kiao, July 19. — The Associated Press correspondent has been reconnoitering around the southern portion of the country, which is now scarcely recognizable. Since the few days of rains the whole landt has become los in luxuriant vegetation. The gaolin crop has grown with such extraordinary rapidity that everywhere it is higher than the tallest man. In the skirmishes, the scouts have been able to find cover.

Ambuscades and surprises are of everyday occurrences. The Russians are losing no opportunity to worry their foes.

The Japanese seem to be moving their forces northeastward in the direction of Hiu Yan Simouchen. Fresh guns, mules and ammunition are being brought up daily, and sent to points where the Japanese expect to give battle.

The movement northeast is considerably impeded by Russian attacks.

At Siatziatun and Gaitziatun, the Russian gunners shelled camps and drove the troops out in disorder. Many were killed or wounded and large supplies were abandoned.

Another Japanese party was surprised at Tunchemain while marching in the mountain defiles to join General Nodzu.

The Russians advanced two miles today by occupying a portion evacuated by the Japanese.

The correspondent went to the south post and found the soldiers in a jolly mood. They were giving a concert within sight of the Japanese.

The surrounding heights were seamed with trenches. It looked as if the Japanese are prepared to take the defensive here while they attack the Russians at other points or perhaps they may move on Ying Kow.

Berlin, July 20. — Russia has informed Germany, according to the Cologne Gazette, that no report has been received from the commander of the Smolensk regarding the seizure July 15, in the Red Sea, of mails on board the Prince Heinrich. Pending the arrival of this report, the Russian Government states that it cannot definitely answer Germany's representations in the matter.

MEAT PRICES SOAR

Chicago Hotels and Restaurants Raise the Tariff.

Chicago, July 20. — Prices of meat on down-town restaurant bills of fare have been raised 10 per cent or more as a result of the stockyards strike. The action was taken at the instance of the Hotel Association. While several of the restaurants had a supply of meat sufficient for one month, without exception they raised prices. The largest increase has been in the price of expensive cuts. Porterhouse steak, with mushrooms, quoted at $2 75 on Saturday, now brings $3 25. The price of desirable cuts in loins and ribs has jumped from 15 to 20 cents. A corresponding raise in the price of medium grades falls heavily on the boarding-house keeper and the families. The prices of ham and bacon were also advanced.

ARNOLD-FORSTER TALKS TO POINT

Tells Powers That No Intervention in Tibet Affairs Will Be Permitted.

London, July 20.—The Secretary for War, Mr. Arnold-Forster, made a statement in the House of Commons to the effect that, with the view of preventing a misunderstanding, the Government informed Russia at the beginning of June of its policy in regard to Tibet. It was, however, obvious that the British action must depend on the attitude of the Tibetans. The Government would not undertake not to depart under any circumstances from the policy laid down in its telegram to the Government of India on Nov. 6, 1903. So long, however, as no other power attempted to intervene in the affairs of Tibet, Great Britain would not attempt either to annex Tibet or to establish a protectorate over that country for he control of its internal administration.

THE BUTCHERS' STRIKE

President Donnely Advises Against Extension of Struggle.

Chicago, Ill., July 20.—It was for the packers to say whether they would hold another conference with representatives of organized labor relative to the strike of the butcher workmen. The request for such a meeting was submitted last night to the owners of the packing plants by the union leader of Chicago. The employers were to decide this morning what reply to make. Each party to the struggle was requested to participate in a joint meeting of employers, and all trades interested. The butchers promptly answered that they were ready to go into the conference. Pending the outcome of this attempt the men in the mechanical departments and the teamsters and stationary firemen at the packing houses will remain at work. Assurances that they would go out in sympathetic strikes as a last resort were renewed to President Donnely of the butchers. Donnely continued to advise against the extension of the struggle until it seemed necessary.

N. B. MURDERER SHOOTS HIMSELF

Cammack Dying From Wound Inflicted When Cornered by Posse.

Woodstock, N. B., July 20.—Thomas Cammack, who murdered Wm. Doherty at Ruther Glen, Carleton County, Sunday night, is dying. He shot himself when overtaken in the woods near his home by a sheriff's posse.

The tragedy develops worse features as details come in. Before entering the Doherty house at midnight Cammack secured all the outer doors with ropes. His subsequent actions show that he intended to kill his wife and five other people, who were asleep and burn house and bodies together.

After he killed Wm. Doherty, the others, including two brothers, whom he seriously wounded, escaped by the windows, with the exception of the murderer's wife. He beat her about the head with his revolver and left her for dead, but she, too, escaped while he was preparing to fire the house.

Cammack's son, Walter, is in custody, suspected of being his father's accomplice. A coroner's jury fixed the murder on Cammack, the posse went to the house and found the boy, who finally told the sheriff his father had ordered him to meet him in the woods some miles away. He guided them to the spot. Cammack shot himself as soon as he saw them coming.

Radcliffe, the hangman, arrived here yesterday, and is making preparations for the hanging of George Gee on Friday. Gee has been baptized and is distributing souvenirs among his friends. He is a cool prisoner.

The paper says that a start has already been made with three brood mares.

SKRYDLOFF IS AT SEA AGAIN; JAP SHIPS SCURRY TO COVER

Vladivostock Fleet Once More On a Raiding Cruise—Has Captured a Merchantman.

Tokio, July 20.—Noon.—The Vladivostock squadron has overhauled a Japanese steamer eastward of Tsugar Straits. The name of the vessel captured and its fate have not yet been learned.

Tokio, July 20, 10:30 a.m. — The Russian Vladivostock squadron unaccompanied by torpedo boats, entered the Pacific Ocean today at 7 o'clock. Its destination is unknown, but it is suggested that it possibly plans to raid the east coast of Japan, and then either return to Vladivostock or escaping to the southward, attempting to form a junction with the Port Arthur fleet.

The squadron was discovered in the Straits of Tsugar at 3 o'clock this morning steaming rapidly eastward. At 3:30 a.m. it was reported off Tappi Cape. At 7 o'clock Hakodate discerned it and reported to Tokio that it was then steaming to the west.

Warnings have gone out to shipping along the eastern coast of Japan, and merchantmen are hurriedly seeking cover. It is expected that most of the shipping will be warned before the Russian vessels can inflict serious damage if a raid is purposed.

Ordinarily, a lack of coal would prevent an extended cruise, but it is possible that the Russians possess a collier and a rendezvous in the Pacific.

WONDERS OF "WIRELESS"

By It the Steamer St. Louis Notified Etruria of Accident.

Toronto, July 20. — Major Sprinks, proprietor of the Grand Opera House Hotel, who has been doing England, and a portion of the continent, arrived home yesterday morning. He saw the Derby run in a pouring rain, saw Lou Scholes beat Kelly, and was a passenger on the St. Louis when her engines broke. The St. Louis arrived in New York only 36 hours late.

While the St. Louis was drifting, Marconi messages were sent to other steamers. The Etruria came to their assistance, 50 miles out of her course. When she arrived the engineers of the St. Louis had repaired one of the engines, so that they could make headway.

Mr. Sprinks says there is no truth in the report that Scholes' victory was not popular in England. Some of the university chaps felt sore, but outside of the few Scholes' winning was enthusiastically received everywhere.

Mr. Sprinks brought with him a copy of The Wireless Telegraph, a little sheet printed on shipboard. It is dated July 17, and mentions among other items Kruger's death.

Escaped to Canada.

Watertown, N. Y., July 20. — Col. W. W. Taylor, of Washington, is under arrest at Alexandria, charged with running a roulette wheel. The complainant is Mrs. Aaron S. S. Shapiero, wife of a New York lawyer, who claims her husband lost $400 at the game. Two others, Judge J. E. Jentry, of Indian Territory, and Sam Harris, of Philadelphia, for whom warrants were issued, escaped to Canada.

RIPPED UP THINGS

Heavy Wind Does Much Damage Near Walkerville.

Walkerville, Ont., July 20.—A cyclone swept the country between Wolf's Hotel and Walkerville on Monday afternoon. Trees were upturned and broken and barns demolished. The barn of oJe Balier-gon, a Sandwich East farmer, was struck by lightning. The structure was burned, entailing a loss of $400. The house of Ernest Langlois, another farmer, was unroofed by the storm, but fortunately the flames escaped the barn. Four Windsor young men who were in the boathouse owned by Alex. St. Louis, on the river front, had a thrilling time. The storm ripped the house to pieces. The party were blown into the river, where they remained throughout the hailstorm.

TO PROTECT THE SEALS

U. S. Tells Russia She Will Assist in Patrolling Kommander Isles.

St. Petersburg, July 19, 6:50 p.m.—The United States has informed Russia that she would gladly join Great Britain in the protection of seals at the Kommander Islands. This act, doubtless, will make the best impression. It is understood that Russia will communicate her answer in a few days.

Washington, July 19.—What the United States state department has undertaken to do in connection with the protection of seal life in the waters of the Kommander Islands, is simply by means of United States revenue cutters to exclude American poachers from these waters. Great Britain undertook to exclude British poachers, but intimated that she would look to America to take care of her own people. Hence this proposition has been made to Russia, with the understanding that America is acting singly and not jointly in this matter. The state department is pleased to respond to this need for patrol, because it is in the line of an acceptance by Russia and Great Britain of the United States' original proposition that the entire Bering Sea, by international agreement, be closed to pelagic sealers.

HOT IN NEW YORK

Many Prostrations and Deaths as Result of Great Heat.

New York, July 19. — The hot wave which struck the city yesterday, bringing death and prostration, increased today to the highest temperature of the year and added more victims to the list. Five deaths from heat occurred in Brooklyn between noon yesterday and noon today. Four of the dead were infants and the other was an aged man. In Manhattan there were 10 prostrations, but all the victims will probably recover. It was greatest at 2 o'clock today, when the thermometers of the street reached the 100 degree mark. The humidity was 43. Since early in the day the parks have been filled with women and children seeking to escape from the ovenlike tenements, and every public bath in the city has been crowded, with hundreds outside waiting their turn.

BLOCKED THE POOLROOMS

New York Police Cut Off All Race Track News.

New York, July 19.—Police Inspector Brooks and forty detectives went to the Brighton Beach race track this afternoon, and blocked all racing news sent over the Western Union wires by filing scores of messages after each race. Between two and four o'clock the police had filed over 400 telegrams, and sent a similar number of telephone messages. The poolroom men were frantic over the situation, and what little news they received had to be sent from outside wires, and was very late. The service for newspapers was also delayed.

Inspector Brooks declined to explain his conduct, but some of the detectives were more talkative. They said that complaint had been made that commercial telegrams were being sidetracked by the Western Union in favor of racing messages. No one but the poolrooms had a chance at the race track telegraph office, it was said. A test was being made, explained the detectives, to see how much there was in the complaint. The time of each telegram filed by the police was taken at the track, and the men at this end took the time that they received them. So far as could be seen this afternoon no preference was shown by the operators. Each telegram was filed in its turn, and all the poolrooms in town were held up in payment of bets by the delay. The poolroom men made a rush for the telephones when they saw how they were being held up, but in each booth they found a detective. It was then that they went outside to send their messages.

The Western Union people up town were asked about the matter, and this statement was made: "There have been an extraordinary number of telegrams of a commercial nature sent from the Brighton race track today. We do not understand it, but do not care why it is done. Each telegram is sent in the order that it is filed, and no exception are made to this rule."

"RUSSIAN PIRACY" STIRS ENGLAND

The London Press Clamoring for Immediate Action

AS TO THE RED SEA SEIZURES

Cabinet Is Believed to Have Forwarded a Strongly-Worded Protest to St. Petersburg.

London, Wednesday, July 20.—Once again the leading English newspapers editorialize in the gravest tones on the Russian seizure of British vessels.

Even the conservative Standard declares that the "nation looks to the foreign office to take more effectual action than the ordinary conventions of diplomatic intercourse prescribe. The case is not one of fastidious treatment. If nothing is done officially to relieve the painful strain the irritation of this country may grow into stubborn resentment. We cannot, even for the sake of peace, sit down under a series of undisguisedly provocative measures."

A similar warlike tone pervades almost every other paper.

The Morning Post says that Great Britain cannot tolerate the seizure of the steamship Malacca "except by the abandonment of her self-respect as a great power." The paper declares that either the volunteer fleet steamer St. Petersburg is an armed pirate or Russia has violated the treaty of Paris. The action of Earl Percy, under secretary of foreign affairs, who, in the House of Commons Monday, asked General Laurie (Conservative and Unionist) to postpone until Thursday a question which he proposed to ask regarding the doings of the Russian volunteer fleet steamer St. Petersburg in the Red Sea, the paper regards as unnecessary and dilatory. "Palmerston," says the Post, significantly, "would not have required half an hour to make up his mind what to do in such a case."

The Daily Telegraph admits that "dangerous issues to international law have been raised by every circumstance of ostentatious provocation, and the nation must realize that a far-reaching question has arisen."

All details in connection with the seizures of ships by the Russian volunteer fleet steamers are printed in the most prominent type. No such bitter feeling has been aroused in the English press since the German Emperor's telegram to the Boers. Intense apprehension prevails at Cardiff and other British coal ports, and the chartering of vessels for the far east is practically at a standstill. From all sides come urgent demands that the Government take swift action to prevent a recurrence of seizures by the volunteer fleet. "Russian Piracy," as one paper heads it, takes precedence of all other news.

Admiral Sir Edmund Robert Fremantle, in the Daily Chronicle, says "The crises no doubt is grave, but I hold that our safest course would be to at once inform the Russian Government that our cruisers have orders to prevent our merchantmen being interfered with by vessels which we cannot admit to be men-of-war, and to request that their proceedings be disavowed, and that they be immediately recalled to Russian ports after their prizes have been released."

The Daily News says that the cabinet yesterday drew up a strongly-worded protest, which will be forwarded to St. Petersburg. The cabinet, the paper says, had an interchance of views with the admiralty and a programme of action in the case of eventualities was decided upon. It was decided also to protest to Turkey."

WOULD NOT LET BRITISH THROUGH

Yacht Passing Dardanelles Is Compelled to Remove Two Toy Cannon.

London, Wednesday, July 20. — The Constantinople correspondent of the Morning Post says that the commander of the Russian guardship Chernomoretz, which passed through the Bosphorus from the Black Sea last Sunday morning, had a parley with the commander of the British gunboat Hussar while passing out of the Bosphorus, and that the Hussar's commander has reported the conversation to the British ambassador at Constantinople.

The Constantinople correspondent of the Standard says it is now stated that the Russian guardship Chernomoretz has gone to relieve a gunboat at Piraeus. Other powers effect the relief of their guardship by sending vessels here to meet them. The Chernomoretz did not call or even stay at Piraeus, says the correspondent, adding: "But we may expect soon to see her employed on active service." The correspondent continues: "The infractions of the treaties of Paris and London by the Smolensk and the St. Petersburg are causing astonishment. Only a month ago a British yacht was compelled to disembark two toy cannon before being allowed to pass through the Dardanelles."

The Constantinople correspondent of the Daily Mail, in a dispatch dated July 18, says: "A Russian cruiser has just passed through Odessa with several guns covered with canvas on her deck. She also carried torpedo tubes."

The Suez correspondent of the Daily Mail, under date of July 19, says: "The German steamer Sambia, it is stated, has been seized by the Russians, and is expected here tomorrow."

DUNDONALD MUST STOP TALKING

Orders From England Tell Him to Avoid All Demonstrations.

Ottawa, July 19.—While an order has been issued by the imperial authorities that Lord Dundonald is not to accept further demonstrations, it is likely he will get a big sendoff at Ottawa. The demonstration will be spontaneous, without his lordship taking part, it being decided to have a big turnout to cheer him as he leaves. This would be beyond his lordship's power to interfere with, and as he takes no part, implies no disobedience with imperial orders. The only danger is that it will be semi-political, as the Liberals may not turn out.

In a division in the city council to name a park after the general, it carried on a party division, all the Liverals voting against it.

Lord Dundonald will leave Ottawa either on the 27th or 28th.

Montreal, July 19.—The indications are that the Montreal reception to Lord Dundonald, which will be held in the Windsor Hotel on July 28, will be a monster gathering. At the committee meeting held tonight reports showed that the greatest interest was being taken in the event, and that a monster turnout is likely. Peter Lyall, president of the Caledonian Society, will read an address, which Lord Dundonald will reply to.

FREIGHTS TO S. AFRICA

Earl Grey Says New York Is Getting All the Shipments.

London, July 20. — In the House of Lords yesterday afternoon Earl Grey, director of the British South African Company, brought up the question of British and United States freights to South Africa. He complained bitterly of the discrepancy in favor of New York, and pointed out that under the existing system the proportions of manufactures to foodstuffs shipped from New York to South Africa was steadily increasing. The system had given an immense stimulus to American trade, to the detriment of British trade. It was actually an advantage for the British shipper to send goods to South Africa by way of New York. The earl strongly condemned the rebate system, and urged the Government to co-operate with the various colonial governments with the object of forming an independent shipping commission, which would secure to British shippers the advantage now enjoyed by Americans.

Lord Wolverton, representing the board of trade, said he would be glad to discuss the matter with Earl Grey and see what could be done.

THE DOGFISH EVIL

Government Taking Steps to Eradicate the Evil.

Ottawa, July 19. — Dogfish and their depredations along our eastern coasts was a subject under discussion in the House today. Mr. R. C. Borden introduced the subject, and in reply the Minister of Marine said steps were being taken to eradicate this destructive fish. It had been suggested that a premium be paid on all dogfish captured, but Mr. Prefontaine pointed out that this bethod would prove too expensive Instead a sum will be voted for the erection of reduction works where dogfish can be treated for oil fertilizer and other sources.

After the matter had been disposed of the House went into committee of supply and made good progress with the estimates of the Minister of the Interior.

The House rose at 11:30 p.m.

The Wooing of Sleep

Sleeplessness is always an evidence of failing health—a true danger signal. It generally means starvation of the blood — too much water in it and the absence of materials to build up the body and to maintain the balance of health. Sleeplessness is a natural result, as it is a blessed though painful warning of failing bodily vigor.

Take Ferrozone. It fills the veins with rich, new blood—blood that will feed the brain, the nerves, and the whole nervous system; restore the foundations of strength until natural, buoyant vitality is restored. How quickly it invigorates every part of the body and gives snap, vim and endurance! These are health. Not only a sleep producer, but a body builder that quickly restores natural conditions of sleep, and all functional activities of the body. Makes blood strength.

REQUESTED TO RETURN HOME

Dundonald's Case in the British House—Guilty of Poor Judgment.

London, July 19.—In the House of Commons today, David Lloyd-George (Welsh Nationalist) moved an adjournment of the House to call attention to "Lord Dundonald's participation in political agitation against the Government of Canada," while still an officer in the British army.

Mr. Lloyd-George wanted the Government to reprimand Lord Dundonald, and to prevent him continuing his agitation against the Canadian Government.

Winston Churchill seconded the motion, and maintained that Lord Dundonald ought to have been recalled.

War Secretary Arnold-Forster, on behalf of the Government, deprecated the raising of the question, especially as the Canadian Government had not mentioned the subject, and was well able to take care of itself. Nobody, he said, had suggested that Lord Dundonald was guilty of anything beyond want of judgment, and he declined to express an opinion on the matter until Lord Dundonald, who had been requested to return home, had been heard in his own defense.

Mr. Lloyd-George's motion was negatived without a division.

DID TASCHEREAU TALK?

Reported Remarks on Dundonald Up in the House.

London, July 19.—Sir Henri Taschereau, chief justice of the supreme court of Canada, says he is indignant at the political capital being made out of the Dundonald affair. "The Times is loaded up by Ottawa Tory sources, and there are few Scotchmen back of the whole agitation." He cannot see how the British Government, if alive to its own interests, can fail to recall Lord Dundonald before the end of the week.

Ottawa, July 19. — Mr. E. F. Clark brought before the Government today the remarks on the Dundonald affair alleged to have been made by Judge Taschereau, who is at present attending the Privy Council in London. He inquired if the remarks were as reported, and asked what the Government intended to do about it. In reply Mr. Fielding said the Government was not prepared to give an immediate answer to the question. Mr. Fielding said the attention of the Government had been called to the matter, but considered it would not be wise to assume anything to the disadvantage of the distinguished Chief Justice of Canada upon a mere cable report. Before forming any opinion as to any utterances of Sir Elzear Taschereau, it would be wise to get fuller information.

Mr. Clark said he would like to draw the attention of the Finance Minister to the fact that these cables have come by our own special Canadian cable service that is paid for by the people of Canada, and they were more likely to be official on that account.

"If the honorable gentleman wishes to imply that these cables are in any way under the control of the Government," or that the Government have anything to do with them, he is certainly mistaken," Mr. Fielding answered. "We have no more control over them than he has himself."

COLONIALS IN COMMONS

Hon. T. A. Brassey's Opinion of Proposal for Imperial Council.

London, July 20. — The Hon. T. A. Brassey, in a letter to the Times on parliamentary government, says:

To the thoughtful imperialist there appears to be great and growing danger that the working classes of this country may be thrown into an attitude of hostility to the empire by the absorption of so large a portion of the time of the House of Commons on imperial questions and the failure to give adequate attention to those questions which affect them in their homes. To the determination that these questions shall be adequately considered is due the rise of a labor party which will certainly be much more numerous in the next Parliament than in this. Many imperialists are looking for the establishment of an imperial council as a remedy. Such a council may be useful as an advisory board on imperial questions, but it cannot relieve the House of Commons of the duty of controlling imperial expenditure, and it does not therefore afford a real remedy for the difficulties with which we are face to face. An imperial parliament, to which representatives would be elected from the colonies as well as the mother country, and which would therefore control imperial expenditure, cannot be evolved out of existing institutions under present conditions. The only remedy for the breakdown in parliamentary government—which is not merely "threatened" but which has actually taken place—is for the House of Commons to delegate to subordinate legislatures in the several countries of the United Kingdom, the duty of which, if they are not neglected altogether, it can only deal with by the use of means for the introduction of which the Prime Minister is so severely blamed by Mr. Asquith.

Yes, talk over the question of the best food to give your baby with every one who can help you. Especially talk it over with your doctor. You may have been fortunate during the past Summer, but you know of very many mothers who have had serious trouble with their children because the right food could not be found for them. STORES WERE ALL LOCKED UP TIGHT

Grocers Are Out of Town Today on Annual Outing to the Falls.

The grocery stores of the city of London are locked up tight today, the members of the trade having set the day apart for their annual excursion to the Falls.

Grocers' excursions from London and the M. C. R. have been inseparable for a number of years. The grocers name the Falls for the outing, and when it comes to the selection of the road, the M. C. R. is the unanimous choice. The reason for the grocers sticking to the Michigan Central is explained by the fact that the last time they went to the Falls they were given first-class accommodation, and a good run, with a reasonable rate, and that every year the railway has given them the same class of train and treated them well in every other way.

Today a special pulled out of the Clarence street depot at 7 o'clock with over 300 excursionists on board, and every person looking forward to a good day, for there was every indication that the weather man was to be on his good behavior. A committee of the grocers had been named to look after the welfare of the party, and the men in charge of the train had the tip that fast time was to be made. Of course, the bridges between this city and St. Thomas are not heavy enough for the mogul engines used on the M. C. R., but at St. Thomas a larger locomotive was attached to the train, and portions of the distance were covered in a mile a minute or better.

AN EXCURSION CRASH

Trolley Hits Work Train and Thirty Are Badly Injured.

New York, July 20. — Twenty persons were injured in a crash between a work car and a trolley car of the New York and Long Island Traction Company near Hempstold, L. I., today. The trolley car was filled with members of the St. George Episcopal Church, of Hempstold, who were going on a picnic excursion to Long Beach, when it chashed into the work car, on the single track about halfway between Rosselle and Free Port. Many of the passengers were badly cut and bruised, but it is thought none were fatally hurt. The most seriously injured was Rev. Dr. J. Meyer Cook, pastor of St. George's Church, who received internal injuries, and is in a serious condition.

Wrapped in Newspapers.

Toronto, Ont., July 20.—A female infant, only 2 hours old, was found this morning in a lane off Shuter street near Jarvis. The babe was wrapped in newspapers and lying in a basket. She is a healthy youngster and probably will survive, but there is no clue as to the inhuman mother.

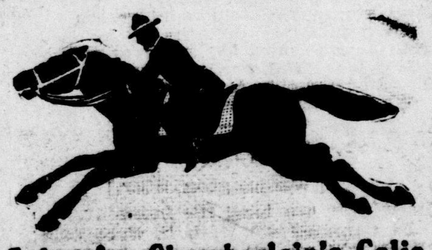

A Tobacconis Deputation

Ottawa, Ont., July 20. — Tobacconists from Toronto, Montreal, Hamilton, Quebec, and elsewhere, are here today in company with representatives of the American Tobacco Company, to see the Minister of Inland Revenue to protest against the bill, which the minister is introducing, and which is said to be aimed at the American Tobacco Company. The object of the bill is to prevent schemes whereby one company gets control of the trade.

THE HEALTHY GLOW disappearing from the cheek and moaning and restlessness at night are sure symptoms of worms in children. Do not fail to get a bottle of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; it is an effectual medicine.

Too Hazardous.

Montreal, July 20.—The police last night stopped the performance of a bicyclist descending a 75-foot ladder at Riverside Park. On the night previous the performer fell off and narrowly escaped death. The recent drowning of an aeronaut in the river opposite the city has drawn the attention of the authorities to such hazardous exhibitions.

Going for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Don't put yourself in this man's place, but keep a bottle of this remedy in your home. There is nothing so good for Colic, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and Diarrhoea. It is equally valuable for Summer Complaint and Cholera Infantum and has saved the lives of more children than any other medicine in use.

When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

You, or some one of your family, are sure to need this remedy sooner or later and when that time comes you will need it badly; you will need it quickly. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? Price, 35 cents.

BUSY SCENES AT G. T. R. STATION

Excursionists and Excurston Trains Keep Employes On the Hustle.

These are busy days at the Grand Trunk station. This morning especially was the scene at the depot a lively one. Early the excursions began, and by 10 o'clock over 900 people had left for Port Stanley. Others kept coming for the 11 o'clock train, while a large number met the train from Fort Gratiot.

People coming to town perhaps thought the Grand Trunk was decorating the station, but it was just a case of putting up new awnings, five of which are now in place in front of the office windows.

The man at the wicket was kept busy answering questions. For instance one little girl came along and wanted to know when the Port Huron train would be in.

"The excursion train will be in about 10:25, following No. 6," said the agent.

A bystander made comment: "What does she know about No. 6?"

"More than most people—she's a conductor's daughter," replied the information dispenser, and then he turned to a woman who wanted to know if the "through train for Chicago stopped at London."

Others were particular as to what tracks certain trains would come in on—how it was some were a few minutes late, and so on.

On the platform the waiting crowd were perspiring under the hot sun. Then the fire department crossed the Clarence street tracks and 50 or more started in pursuit, with trainmen yelling to the crowd to look out for trains. Some had narrow escapes, for trains do not stop to let people go to fires, and altogether there seemed to be a something doing air about the place today.

DRUGGISTS' DAY OFF

Trade Shuts Up Shop and Goes to the Lakeside.

The drug stores of the city are closed from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. today in order that their hard-working inmates may take in the big picnic. About 10:30 o'clock the druggists assembled in front of the London Drug Company's offices and paraded to the G. T. R. depot, headed by a "rube band." The latter discoursed such lively strains of music that one was inclined to suspect that some of London's well-known bandsmen were concealed under paint and fantastic rags. The depot presented an animated scene. White duck trousers, light hats and red, green and yellow ribbons were conspicuous, while many colored parasols shaded most of the pharmacists from the sun. Many members of the trade from Strathroy and other neighboring towns were present, and it was intended that the whole crowd should disembark at St. Thomas to welcome a contingent from that place. The clown musical aggregation had a surprise in store for the Railroad City.

Fine weather is favoring the drug men, and they are having a big day.

IN MT. PLEASANT CEMETERY

Remains of the Late John McMartin Committed to the Grave.

The funertl of the late John McMartin took place this afternoon from the residence of his mother, 179 Oxford street. The remains, which reached here from Winnipeg last evening, were accompanied by Mrs. McMartin and Dr. George Wilson from the west, and from Toronto by Mr. James Hickey.

This afternoon the casket rested in an abundance of flowers, and before it was closed the remains were viewed by a large number of sorrowing friends. In addition to the numerous tributes from individual acquaintances, a wreath was sent from Toronto by the Ontario Licensed Victualers' Association, a broken column by the boarders at the hotel of which the late Mr. McMartin was recently the proprietor, and anchors by the Bartenders' and the City License Holders' Associations.

At 2:30 o'clock the funeral service was conducted by Rev. Archibald Stewart, and at 3 o'clock the cortege started for Mount Pleasant Cemetery, where interment was made. The pall-bearers were Messrs. John Thompson, Ed Shea, Arthur Somerville, Joseph Scandrett, Frank Love and J. K. Spry. The funeral was attended by a large number of people. Among those from out of the city were Mr. Robert McMartin, of Toronto, a brother; Mrs. Daniel Burn, of Ottawa, a sister, and Dr. and Mrs. Pollock, cousins, of Cleveland.

MALACCA'S CREW MADE PRISONERS

In the meantime, and until there is direct and explicit evidence of a contravention of neutrality by seizure of the Malacca, and the assumption by the Russian Government of full responsibility for the action of the commanders of the Smolensk and St. Petersburg, the British Government, it is expected, can ask only explanations of the Russian Foreign Office regarding the nature of the charges against the seized vessel.

Subsequent action necessarily will depend on Russia's reply thereto. The talk of policing the Red Sea with British war ships meets with no support in official quarters, where it is pointed out that the commander of a war ship would have to satisfy himself that a merchant ship desiring convoy was not contravening the neutrality regulations. If the commander was satisfied in this respect then there would be no necessity for protection for the ship. If he did not receive satisfactory assurances he would have no right to convoy the vessel.

The editorials continue to be heated and it is openly suggested that Russia's action was premeditated.

The Westminster Gazette says: "Circumstances can be conceived in which Russia might suppose it was absolutely necessary to widen the issue, so as to avert defeat at the hands of the yellow power."

The Westminster Gazette suggests that the sorties of the Vladivostock squadron into the Pacific may have for its object the interruption of vessels bound from America to Japan.

Copper mining is an industry that is rapidly decreasing in importance in Great Britain. Forty years ago the production of copper ore and copper precipitate amounted to upwards of 210,000 tons, whereas in 1902 the production was only 6,112 tons. Cornwall is the main source in the United Kingdom of the supply of this ore. Tin mining, which is also mainly confined to Cornwall, has likewise greatly decreased.

LEITER'S TOWN GARRISONED

Cordon of 75 Dectives to Protect It From Striking Miners.

Carbondale, Ill., July 20. — The first serious trouble at Zeigler, Joe Leiter's mining town, is expected hourly. A gang of non-union miners are on their way to take the places of the strikers.

Twenty-five telephone stations have been erected around the 25-acre Leiter tract, forming a regular blockhouse system. Three detectives are in each box, and nobody without a written pass from Leiter is allowed to go through the lines.

Mrs. E. A. McMillan, a newspaper reporter, succeeded in getting past the guards disguised as a berry picker, but in the town she was recognized and taken before a justice of the peace. Leiter, himself, conducted the prosecution. She was fined $5, but the fine was later remitted and she was escorted to the boundary of the town by a guard and told to never return.

The cause of the strike was a proposed reduction to 18 cents.

Went Rejoicing.

Toronto, Ont., July 20. — A marriage took place in the morality department this morning under peculiar circumstances. Frank Hill was arrested at the instance of Lillian O'Hara, with whom he had been keeping company for some time, on charge of retaining $25 which belonged to her. The inspector of the morality department noticed her condition, and suggested marriage, which Hill agreed to. The ceremony was performed by Staff-Sergt. Goodall, of the Salvation Army, and the couple went on their way rejoicing.

Bad Men Sentenced.

Windsor, Ont., July 20.—Magistrate Bartlett yesterday sentenced three men to the Central Prison, Toronto. Charles Black and Roy Davis got twelve months' each for robbing a car in the Windsor yard, and Davis an extra six months for entering the store of Miss T. Oullette, Windsor. William Smith, of Detroit, received nine months for stealing $26 from a section hand on the M. C. R.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, JULY 20.

Mr. Monet's Retirement.

The member for Laprairie and Napierville, Mr. Monet, tells his constituents that he cannot afford to remain in public life. He has not seen eye to eye with the Government on some questions and therefore feels that he can claim no favors from the Liberal party. He declines to be a candidate again, in justice to his family. Those who do not agree with his political doctrines will admire him for refusing to sail under false colors.

Mr. Monet and Mr. Bourassa have formed a party of two in the House of Commons. They represent a phase of public opinion in their own province, and while they have exerted no perceptible influence in the House or the country, they have shown conspicuous ability in keeping their views before the public, and a high level of courtesy, independence and integrity. They are frankly anti-Imperialists, if Imperialism implies a policy of centralization. They profess to be jealous of Canadian autonomy, and are apprehensive—too apprehensive—that our rights of self-government and the full control over our own affairs are being threatened by certain centripetal tendencies in the Empire. They pin their faith to British institutions, but claim that the genius of the British Empire is decentralization, giving to each colony capable of self-government the status, liberty and power of a free nation. Their patriotism cannot be impugned, but they claim that Canada should attend strictly to her own business, and not participate in wars of her own making or be drawn into Imperial federation or any scheme which would delegate to an inter-Imperial body powers now exercised by the Canadian Parliament, or any control over Canadian affairs.

The Opposition press in this Province is fond of attributing to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Cabinet sentiments expressed by Mr. Bourassa and Mr. Monet. These members have been accused of insincerity in criticising Government measures, and of inflaming Nationalist feeling in Quebec, with the connivance of the Government. Mr. Monet's withdrawal from public life on the ground that he had disqualified himself for any assistance from the Liberal party, without which he could not afford to remain in Parliament, is a sufficient answer to these calumnies.

Mr. Bourassa and Mr. Monet hold extreme opinions. So do a number of English-speaking Canadians, who would rush the country into any scheme of Imperial consolidation at any sacrifice of Canadian autonomy. The Government has pursued a rational policy, which has not met the approval of extremists in Quebec or Ontario. That is an evidence that it merits the approval of the mass of Canadians.

Dundonald Called Home.

The British Government has requested Lord Dundonald to "come home" and make no more political speeches before he leaves Canada. The Imperial authorities are rebuking not only Lord Dundonald, but his flatterers in this country. They see clearly the mischief of his conduct. Mr. Winston Churchill hit the nail on the head in the British House of Commons yesterday when he said the Opposition in Canada was exploiting Lord Dundonald for party purposes. Take politics out of the Dundonald agitation and there would be nothing left. His lordship is much mistaken if he thinks the clamor of Toronto jingoes is the voice of the Canadian people. He says the country is with him, but if his judgment had not been blinded he would see that only the enemies of the Government are with him, and they are with him only because he is playing their game.

It is not in the interests of the Government that his lordship has been ordered home. A few more exhibitions of bad taste like that at Toronto, and sympathy for him would be wiped out. As it is, he returns to Great Britain with the remnants of a reputation which he might have saved by the exercise of common sense. Had he resigned his position and then given his reasons to the public, and kept out of the clutches of the politicians, he would have focussed public attention on the question which he professes to have at heart—the condition of the country's defenses. People would then have been in a position to consider the problem dispassionately. Will anyone say that the present agitation revolves around this issue? Does all this racket spring from a popular feeling against the military policy of the Government? Certainly not. It is merely the vociferation of party claquers, who care not a fig about the defenses of the country, but think Dundonald is good party capital.

Lord Dundonald himself is to blame, because the real issue has been lost sight of. He had been nursing his wrath against his superiors for two years because they refused to be rushed into everything he proposed, and he chose to attack them by kindling the flame of party prejudice. His charge of partisan interference with the militia was a mere ruse to enable him to exploit his real grievance, which was that the Minister of Militia had not seen fit to take all his lordship's advice. Since his Montreal speech he has gone from bad to worse. Having created a political agitation, he has placed himself at the head of it with such utter indecorum and recklessness that he has incurred the reproach of the British Government, and returns to Great Britain humiliated and discredited. Such an amazing series of blunders and indiscretions, and the venting of personal chagrin arising out of wounded pride, show that he never possessed the qualities needed for his office.

The Near East is becoming more interesting than the Far East.

To be consistent Lord Dundonald's sympathizers should now abuse the British Government.

As to these Russian seizures, it is to be hoped the British Government will keep a cooler head than some of its jingo advisers.

The Ottawa Citizen says gleefully that the Dundonald affair will defeat the Government. The Opposition has nothing to offer the electors, and relies on his lordship.

If Sir Elzear Taschereau has been commenting on the Dundonald case, he is overstepping his duties. He is reported as saying that a few Scotchmen are behind the agitation. This is, of course, absurd; but if any sons of Scotia sympathize with Lord Dundonald, it is because they are Tories, and not because they are Scotchmen.

The American politicians who want to subsidize the moribund United States merchant marine should note the complaint of British exporters that British ships are carrying goods from New York to South Africa at a lower rate than from English ports to South Africa. If it is cheaper to use British ships, the Americans will be foolish to try to force cargoes into American ships.

Wild Flowers.

[New York Observer.]

Scarce known by name they pi the ground
With motley colors, starry forms.
In them the sunset skies are found
That follow after storms;
And blurs of crimson, blue and gold,
Their graceful chalices unfold,
While 'mid the dead leaves pile and pent
Humbly they live and die content.

Huge oaks lift above them their heads
And drop the acorn, shed the leaf;
The harvest field far round them sheds
Plenty in many a sheaf,
And they, half fragrant, brighten earth,
Low in the shadows where there's dearth
Of pain or pleasure, love or life,
Far from the world's mad, ceaseless strife.

They speak no message, act no part,
They have no works to show;
Deep hidden here they touch no heart,
And do not ask to know;
Yet if one meet the eye of man
It all unfolds the master plan—
The power that painted this fair bloom,
For man can have no futile doom.

A Child of Fortune

[Boston Herald.]

As matters now stand, their only child, an adopted boy not yet 10 years old, will be the heir to the fortunes of the late Henry M. Stanley and of Lady Stanley, the latter having a fortune of her own. It is probable the boy couldn't have picked out better parents if he had been permitted to try a dozen times.

How He Helped Them.

[Catholic Standard.]

"You may not believe it," said the Trust magnate, "but I really do love the poor. I'm always glad to see them and to do what I can to add——"

"To their numbers," interrupted the man with the cold gray eye. "Yes, we all give you credit for that."

Where It Went.

Should He Come Back.

[Translation from Maeterlinck.]

Should he come back this way
To seek your gate?
Tell him how each long day
I did but wait.

And should he question still,
Knowing me not?
Pity, as sisters will,
His grievous lot.

And if he asks your place?
How speak the thing?
Give him (and turn your face)
My golden ring.

And if he quest the damp,
Dull dwelling o'er?
Show him the lightless lamp,
The open door.

And if his heart ask wild
How fell your sleep?
Then tell him that I smiled,
Lest he should weep.

To Stop Nail Biting.

[Pittsburg Dispatch.]

A fashionable manicure uptown advertises to cure nail biting. He says he has many patrons among girls and women. "It is an exceptional thing to find a man who bites his nails," he says, "but I have known of some cases. Nail biting is a disease, the same as itching scalp or anything of that sort. To a certain extent it is a habit, but the habit develops the disease, which is called onychopagie. When I was in Paris four years ago I first learned about the treatment for it, and at once introduced it in my business here. Far from being a harmless habit, resulting only in [illegible] it is a prolific cause of nervous disorders in girls and women. It requires various forms of treatment, according to the condition and surroundings of the victim. The best time to stop it is in childhood. Parents and school teachers who find children biting their nails should not only severely reprimand them, but punish them in a way that will be remembered."

The Shopper's Progress.

[W. D. Nesbit, in Chicago Tribune.]

She vowed she would economize;
She said: "I think it's funny
A woman hardly ever tries
To save her husband's money."
So she throughout that bargain day
Among the shoppers fought,
And said, when she had come away:
"See This was all I bought—
This lovely little collar
That cost a half a dollar."

Next day it chanced she saw a waist
Dropstitched, and very pretty;
A "Marked down" card upon it placed
Made her sigh: "What a pity!
Though I've decided not to spend
More money, I declare
I'll take it. See how it will blend
The colors when I wear
That lovely little collar
Which cost a half a dollar."

And then a skirt was brought to view—
It matched the waist; she thought it
Was simply dear, and lovely, too;
The upshot was, she bought it.
Some gloves of quite the proper shade
She got, and after that
A special trip or two she made
Before she found a hat
To match the lovely collar
That cost a half a dollar.

Of course her costume would not be
Complete (it would look shoddy)
Without new shoes. Why, you'll agree
With that; and anybody
Who knows the rules of fashion knows
No other feature will
Set off the costume like the hose—
* * * * * * *
You ought to see the bill
For that dear little collar
Which cost a half a dollar!

An Impression of Waste.

[Washington Star.]

"There's mighty few people," said Farmer Corntossel, "that knows what to do with a farm after they get one."

"I have noticed that," answered the girl with frizzes. "They always insist on filling the whole place up with corn and oats and things when they might have such lovely tennis courts and golf links."

A Rude Jibe.

[Toronto Telegram.

The Ottawa Opposition took on a job that was just about its size when it rose in its might and presented a gold-headed cane to G. Taylor, M. P.

Corelli on English Society.

[Marie Corelli.]

"The warm handshake has, in a very great measure, degenerated into the timorous offer of two or three clammy fingers extended dubiously, as with a fear of microbes. Honest laughter has given place to the nanny-goat sniggering bleat now common to polite society, and understood to be the elegantly trained and cultured expression of mirth. At homes are curious sorts of social poultry yards, where the hens have it all their own way, and, do most distinctly crow. Society, particularly the upper ten society, is becoming very rude. Some of the so-called smartest women are notoriously vulgar.

Buttermilk.

[W. D. Nesbit, in Chicago Tribune.]

Some people long for lemonade
And some for fancy drinks,
And some for soda—with the aid
Of sundry wicked winks—
But when the sun is fierce and high,
'Tis then my fancies turn
To buttermilk; 'tis then I sigh
For nectar from the churn.

Somewhere on earth there still must be
A "spring house," deep and low,
Half hid beneath a willow tree,
Whose boughs sweep to and fro,
And whisper to the rills that gush
Between the roots, and turn
To loiter in the shadowed hush
Where stands the sweating churn.

A dipper hangs upon the wall
To rob that soothing hoard—
But better, better yet than all,
Perhaps there is a gourd!
No votary has ever poured
Libations from an urn
Like buttermilk held in a gourd,
Raised from the roomy churn!

Ah, can there be a finer thing!
It's sweet as honey dew!
The water rippling from the spring
Is laughing back at you,
While merrily it drips and drips,
Through watercress and fern—
You taste the tang upon your lips
Of nectar from the churn.

Forgotten then are drafts of wine
That all the senses cloy,
And you your happy soul resign
To deep-drawn breaths of joy
And he who does not know of this
Has one glad truth to learn:
That buttermilk is liquid bliss
When ladled from the churn.

Her Observation.

"Isn't it a terrible scandal?" asked the talkative woman.

"I have often observed," answered Miss Cayenne, icily, "that people speak of a scandal as terrible and insist on talking about it as if they found it delightful."

Caught on the Rebound.

[Cincinnati Inquirer.]

Wife—John, did you mail that letter I gave you this morning?

Husband—Of course I did.

Wife—How provoking! I wanted to add a little postscript.

THIRTY WOUNDS

Inflicted on Himself After Taking a Dose of Poison.

Paris, July 20. — An American student named Shapeleigh, aged 22 years, and said to have been a nephew of American Ambassador Porter, committed suicide yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Dore, on the Boulevard Montmartre. He shut himself in his room at midday. A servant entering later found him lying naked on a sofa, his body covered with blood. He had taken a quantity of strychnine and then had inflicted on himself 30 wounds with a scalpel. He died at 3 o'clock.

The suicide left several letters addressed "V. Shapeleigh, West Lebanon, Me." The police gave the letters to the American Embassy. Shapeleigh had been eight days in Paris. He is supposed to have been temporarily insane.

MOSQUITO WAR IN PANAMA

To Get 100,000 Yards of Wire Netting to Ward the Insects Off.

Washington, July 20.—In carying out its plans for the sanitation of the Panama canal zone, the Isthmian Canal Commission will shortly advertise for bids for 100,000 yards of wire netting with which to screen the various buildings along the line of the canal, so as to protect the officials and employes from the mosquitoes, which carry yellow and malarial fever.

This will be probably the largest single order of wire screening ever placed. Experience has shown that ordinary wire screens do not last more than six months in that moist climate, and Gov. Davis, of the canal zone, has recommended the use of galvanized steel, brass or copper wire, which will be much more durable.

The work of sanitation now going on under the direction of Dr. Gorgas includes not only a general cleaning up of the towns and villages, but a systematic anti-mosquito crusade. Ponds and pools of standing water are being covered with kerosene, etc. Work has also begun on the drainage of swamps and like mosquito breeding places in the zone, which will require something like a year to complete. So far there have been but few cases of yellow fever, and but one American has died from the disease.

GAMBLING BY WOMEN

On the Race Track To Be Checked by British Clergy.

London, July 20.—The clergy of London, and, in fact, the whole country, are up in arms against the increase of gambling on the race track by women, which has become so common that there are any number of women bookmakers plying their trade in London and other big towns, whereas a few years ago the lady bookie was unknown. At Birmingham recently, according to the secretary of the Anti-Gambling League, a young woman who had been housekeeping for her father since she grew up, turned bookmaker, although for two years she had been an ardent church member, and in the same city five other women were known to the police as bookmakers, one of them having a staff of boys of from 14 to 16 years of age collecting bets.

DYSENTERY IN JAPANESE CAMP

Chinese Accuse Japanese of Organizing Bandits—Siege of Port Arthur Being Closely Pressed.

Che Foo, July 19, 9 p.m. — A junk with eight Russians and 50 Chinese on board arrived here this afternoon, five days from Port Arthur. The Russians refused to talk, but the Chinese say that on July 11 and 12 the Japanese captured and occupied, with 4,000, men one of the eastern forts near Port Arthur. Before reinforcements arrived the Russians cut off the 4,000 troops in the fort and exploded mines which resulted in the killing of every Japanese soldier there.

The Chinese report also that the night before they left Port Arthur a Russian torpedo boat sunk a merchant ship near Port Arthur, mistaking her for a Japanese transport. Many Chinese on board the merchantman were drowned, but the entire crew of the steamer and a number of her Chinese passengers were rescued by the Russians.

If this story is true the steamer in question probably is the Hipsang, belonging to the Indo-China Navigation Company, which is 42 hours overdue from New Chwang, and which was reported to have struck a mine. The local agents of the Hipsang say they believe the steamer to have been lost.

London, Wednesday, July 20. — The Daily Chronicle this morning prints a dispatch from its Yin Kow correspondent, under date of July 19, saying that the reinforcements for which General Oku has been waiting are now being disembarked under the protection of seven Japanese cruisers. A fresh landing of troops, the dispatch says, is also being effected to the north of Port Arthur, and important events may be looked for this week.

A St. Petersburg dispatch says: A story has been going the rounds that three cruisers rejected by Germany were transferred to the Russian service, and joined the Vladivostock squadron. One of the cruisers and a torpedo boat, it is added, struck mines and went down. The story is not confirmed. The admiralty has no news of any vessel having been lost at Vladivostock."

A Tokio dispatch says: The armored cruisers Rossia, Rurik and Gromoboi, of the Russian Vladivostock squadron passed through the Tsugaru Strait into the Pacific Ocean today (Wednesday).

The Standard's correspondent, who is on board the steamer Manchuria, says under date of July 19: "Vice-Admiral Togo met us on his flagship, the Mikasa. He is well and confident."

What Does This Mean.

Paris, July 19. — The Journal publishes a telegram from St. Petersburg saying that M. Delcasse, French Foreign Minister, will visit St. Petersburg next week to hold a conference with Count Lamsdorf, Russian Foreign Minister, on important questions, growing out of the war with Japan.

Sniping Jap Pickets

Ta Tche Kiao, Tuesday, July 19. — Night. — Delayed in transmission. — All is quiet in this region, neither is moving. The only activity is at the outposts. The Russian sharpshooters are having good practice sniping the Japanese from the mountain sides. Small detachments creep out at night, steal up to the Japanese pickets in the darkness, hide themselves in treetops, and there await sunrise. So soon as the light is sufficiently strong they get fine shots before the Japanese pickets can get away.

Drawing Off Troops.

Ta Tche Kiao, July 20.—Details of the repulse of Lieut.-General Count Kellar's attack on the Japanese at Mo Tien Pass last Sunday, which have just arrived, show that it was a demonstration in force to ascertain the strength of the enemy, and plainly developed their numerical superiority. It is evident that the Japanese are drawing off troops from the Russian's southern front, reinforcing their positions to the east. The Japanese display marvelous power of concentration at the right time and place. The Mo Tien Pass engagement strengthens a conviction here that the moment for a general advance by the enemy has not yet arrived.

Reports that the Japanese are about to land troops at Yin Kow are current, but not believed.

PEACHY LADY ANGLESEY

Who n the Marquis Left Immediately After Their Marriage.

London, July 20. — While the world talks of the financial troubles of the amiable and eccentric Marquis of Anglesey, there lies a piquant interest around the pretty wife whom, as Lord Uxbridge, he left at the church door and whom he has never seen from that day.

Lady Anglesey is a daughter of Sir George Chetwynd and Lady Florence Hastings, who was heroine of the runaway match with the famous plunging marquis.

Her peachy complexion, her Titian red hair and her perfect dressing make of her a radiant and magnetic presence. And perhaps she is never prettier than when at the opera wearing the famous Anglesey emeralds—almost priceless. And in her wreath of green leaves and white roses she suggests an up-to-date Bacchante.

BISMARCK STUCK TO GERMAN WINES

Iron Chancellor Patriotic in His Drinking.

NEW LIFE OF THE GREAT TEUTON

Talked With Kruger and Did Not Require an Interpreter—His Opinion of Chamberlain.

Berlin, July 20. — Eugen Wolf, a well-known writer and explorer, who was on terms of special intimacy with Bismarck, has published a book of reminiscences which is attracting much attention throughout Germany.

Mr. Wolf's association with Bismarck began in 1888, and they grew more and more intimate until the Prince died.

He pictures Bismarck in his quiet moods at home discussing subjects as wide apart as Italian poetry and agriculture, French cookery and the Jewish ritual.

Speaking of Joseph Chamberlain, Bismarck said:

"Chamberlain to my mind is like the giant in the fairy story who withdraws into a cave, hangs out his boots at the cave's mouth, and says:

"'The man who wants these boots to steal,
Must first to my strength appeal.'"

On another occasion Bismarck said: "The English drink less than they used to because their politics is worse."

Wolf once spoke of a lieutenant who was not dismissed from the army because he had powerful friends.

Bismarck commented with a sour smile: "Had I such powerful friends as he I would be imperial chancellor still."

Bismarck told Wolf of a visit he had from Kruger.

"Kruger spoke Dutch, while I spoke plain German, yet we understood one another famously. We did not need an interpreter."

Bismarck and Rottenburg once had a discussion in which the latter quoted Shakespeare, saying his quotation was from "The Tempest."

"No," said Bismarck, "from 'Richard III.' You will find it in Schlegel and Tieck's translation on such and such a page, to the right either on the seventh or the ninth line from the bottom."

The book was brought and the passage found where Bismarck had indicated.

Wolf says he had a phenomenal memory.

Bismarck is described as Wolf as an enormous eater and drinker, a lover of the table. Spaten beer, potato brandy, and champagne he partook of liberally, and champagne he partook of liberally. Once Wolf felt the ill-effects of a carouse and told Bismarck the next morning, the princess being present. "There is no cure for that sort of thing," Bismarck remarked. "It is like drinking a bottle of champagne at one draught."

His wife interrupted, recommending a salt herring.

The princess went for a herring and the prince for some champagne. To the infinite amusement of the iron chancellor and his wife, Wolf ate the fish and gulped down the wine.

"I don't think German champagne agrees with me," the prince said. "I was once invited by the present Kaiser to table, and German champagne was poured into my glass, but I did not drink it. The Kaiser asked why, and I told him it did not agree with me. The Kaiser said:

"'I drink it, in the first place, from economical motives, because I have to support a big family; secondly, I wish to set my officers a good example; and, thirdly, I drink German champagne from patriotic motives.'

"'Your majesty,' said I, 'my patriotism stops at my stomach.'"

In Bismarck's last years his prodigious appetite failed, partly owing to the pain he felt in chewing.

Once he said: "When I used to come home the housekeeper dished up a dozen poached eggs for me. This was nothing. I used to prefer another dozen. Now I must satisfy myself with a maximum of four."

Wolf's book is especially noteworthy for the beautiful light it throws upon Bismarck's wife, who was a veritable angel in the house, highly intelligent, devoted to her family and adoring her great husband.

LONDON'S ROMAN BATH

Two Men Use It, But It Is Almost Unknown.

London, July 20.—"Have I not made a discovery?" writes a News correspondent. "I find that just off the Strand, opposite St. Mary's Church, on the embankment side, there is a splendid old Roman bath, with glorious ice-cold spring water, clear as a crystal, welling up at the rate of several tons a day; and yet it is used by only two men, who take a dip there every morning and pay two guineas a year for the privilege. Why is it not procured as a public monument as a relic of Roman civilization here, or else used as part of a bathing establishment, where it could be both seen and enjoyed?"

The correspondent has made a genuine discovery. That wonderful old Roman bath gets itself rediscovered with great regularity every few years. It is probably quite unknown, and will always remain so, to the majority of Londoners. But the correspondent will have to try again to find those two regular visitors who indulge in a daily morning plunge. The bath belongs to Henry Glave, the well-known draper in New Oxford-street, and he and a few of his assistants are the only bathers now. There are no subscribers.

"Down to about twelve years ago," said Mr. Glave to the representative yesterday, "the Roman bath was kept open and an attendant was there to show it. But there were so few visitors that it was not worth the expense of the attendant. Then when the Norfolk Hotel, which is over the bath, was reconstructed I consented to the second bath, the Essex bath, as it was called, because it was built by the Earl of Essex,' whose house was nearby in 1588, being covered up on condition that the marble lining was placed in the Roman bath. That made the old bath beautiful and delightful for bathing, and no doubt more like it originally was. I also added a stained-glass window to add a touch of comfort to the vaulted chamber. I offer to let anyone have a key who will pay two guineas a year, but no subscribers come along. Occasionally I go down myself in the morning and have a dip, and some of my young men often go during the hot weather. On Saturdays I throw the place open to visitors free between 11 and 12. I fancy that that meets all that is desired, for there are rarely any English among the American visitors who turn up."

MASONIC ORDER GROWS STEADILY

The Grand Lodge Report Gives Evidences of Increasing Prosperity.

Brockville, Ont., July 19.—The board of general purposes of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Ontario completed its labors today, and everything is in apple-pie order for the opening of the grand lodge tomorrow. Among those present at the meeting of the board today were Past Grand Master W. A. Sutherland, of Rochester, N. Y., and Past Grand Master W. Gibson, Beamsville, Ont.

In the report on the condition of Masonry presented by Bro. Aubrey White, Toronto, it was learned that there were 375 lodges on the roll last year. This year 381 are found, of which 373 are warranted and eight under dispensation. All but five were inspected by the proper officers during the year. There were 2,500 initiations last year and 3,000 during the year 1903-04, a gain of 500. The increase of membership this year over last is 300. Total membership is 23,000, only four of that number being suspended for un-Masonic conduct.

The committee reported the work throughout the jurisdiction uniform and accurate. It was strongly recommended that at least one lodge of instruction be held in each district during the present term. Only one lodge on the roll was reported to be weak. The amount granted for benevolence by grand lodge was $12,500, and the sum voted by private lodges and boards of relief aggregated $12,751, a total of $25,656, or $3,000 more than during 1902-1903. The report closed by expressing thankfulness for the progress and prosperity enjoyed, and the marked gain in moral strength as exhibited by the material taken by the different lodges throughout the jurisdiction.

The report of printing and supplies by Bro. J. S. Dewar, of London, recommended that the sum of $200 be granted for the purchase of a set of undress regalia for the use of grand lodge officers, and also recommended payment of printing and stationery accounts to the amount of $2,423 93. The report of benevolence and special interim grants, presented by Bro. R. L. Gunn, of Hamilton, stated that 360 applications had been received during the year, a very large proportion of which were granted. The sum of $700 had also been distributed among the more deserving beneficiaries of grand lodge.

The report of audit and finance by Bro. G. S. May, Ottawa, gave details of the financial condition of grand lodge, approved of the appointment of an auditor to make a monthly audit, and stated that the total fund of grand lodge amounted to $111,156 51. Reports from the fraternal, dead and grievances and appeals committees dealt with the subjects more peculiarly their own.

The report of the committee on warrants, presented by Judge D. F. McWatt, of Sarnia, recommended the issuing of dispensations for eight new lodges at Haliburton, Toronto East, Carp, Elmvale, Caledon East, Tottenham, Sault Ste. Marie, and Victoria Harbor.

It was recommended that three lodges be continued under dispensation for another year, and that Gore Bay Lodge be granted a warrant.

M. P.'S HOWL FOR JOY

Wild Mirth Over a Motorist's Fine in London.

London, July 20. — Irish members who have been in jail, and Liberals who have not enjoyed five minutes of unalloyed delight in the House of Commons yesterday, when a Conservative member related his experiences in a London police court.

The other morning, after 1 o'clock Louis Sinclair, the member for Romford, was going along Regent-street in a motorcar on the way home from Parliament. A waterhose was lying on the near side of the road, between a shelter and the pavement, on the offside. In consequence he was fined at a police court.

Mr. Sinclair yesterday raised a question of privilege, asking the Speaker to say whether he was entitled to go as he did under a sessional order which commands the police "to take care that all passages through the streets to this House be kept clear and open, and that no obstruction be permitted to the passage of members to and from this House."

His statement of the case was received with boisterous laughter by the Opposition.

"Where was it?" they cried, and when he said "Regent-street," they screamed with laughter.

The speaker's ruling was almost in the Old Bailey manner. It was punctuated by outbursts of uncontrolled, but not ill-natured merriment, and Swift MacNeil narrowly escaped a fit of apoplexy. It was the event of the session for him.

Mr. Gully said: "I think it would have been better had the honorable member kept on the right side of the shelter. (Joyful cheers). I do not think the House will expect me to deal with this as a question of privilege. (Yells of derision). It seems to me to be an ordinary police case. (Frantic howls of Irish and Liberal delight). The line must be drawn somewhere—(cheers)—and I do not think that the sessional order can apply to the case of an honorable member driving home through Regent street—(hilarious laughter)—an hour after the House has risen."

The Opposition rocked on their benches at these last words; many Unionists joined in the laughter that shook the House, and the humor of it all seemed at last to touch the "incriminated" Mr. Sinclair.

PUDDINGS DID IT

Row Over Sawdust Varieties Threatens to Disrupt Church.

Coscob, Conn., July 20. — Sawdust plum pudding and a lawn party threaten to disrupt the Diamond Hill Methodis Episcopal Church at Mianus.

One faction of the church wants the lawn party with the sawdust plum-pudding, while the other objects, because there is an element of chance in the plumpudding scheme. One of the opposition claimed it was too costly to buy articles in the sawdust-plum-pudding-grab-bag proposition, and it verges on gambling.

The Rev. E. F. Pipper is trying to pour oil on the troubled waters. Meanwhile the Ladies' Aid Society, in an effort to raise part of the minister's salary, asked each of the sixty-three members for $3 each. All refused to subscribe except thirteen.

Because of the row over the lawn party one-half the church threatens to resign, and the Rev. Mr. Pipper is fearful that he will soon have a church without a congregation. He has sided with the "no lawn party" faction.

The church is the one formerly attended by Inspector Alexander S. Williams, and Ernest Thompson Seton, and other prominent New York people are parishioners.

Russia the Purchaser.

London, July 20. — The Daily Mail this morning prints a dispatch from Buenos Ayres, dated July 19, saying that the armored cruisers Garibaldi and Pueyrredon, sister ships of the Nisshin and Kasuga, which were purchased by the Japanese prior to the war, have been sold to a French firm, but that the real purchaser is the Russian Government.

HEAD FOOD

Every Brain-worker wants a strong, keen thinker in his HEAD QUARTERS. Many successful men and women regularly eat the brain-making food—GRAPE-NUTS.

For the Phosphates necessary for this purpose are intentionally supplied in GRAPE-NUTS in liberal quantities and will positively rebuild the worn-out brain and nerve centers.

The Inventor of GRAPE-NUTS

About 10 years ago found himself badly off from overwork and weak digestion.

He experimented about two years, seeking to perfect a food that would contain the elements required by NATURE to rebuild the depleted nerves and brain.

BUT such food must be made easy of digestion, else the weakened organs of body could not extract the rebuilding elements.

Finally success came, after dozens of experiments and failures. The right parts of Wheat and Barley were selected, skillfully blended in the right proportions. Subjected for hours to moisture, then hours more to slow heat, gradually producing changes and mechanically digesting the food. Further processes follow, until the food is finally delivered fully-cooked, pre-digested and ready for instant service with a little rich cream.

Years have gone by and experience has shown that the now famous brain food planned for a purpose, accomplishes that purpose.

It does supply pre-digested food that a babe or an athlete can digest.

It does furnish the nerve centers and brain with the delicate, microscopic particles of natural Phosphate of Potash which combines with Albumen to make the gray matter filling the nerve centers and brain.

It does prove itself to users in a very few days.

It is known to, and used by, our most famous Physicians, Teachers, Scientists, Capitalists, Professors, Clergymen, Authors, Journalists, Merchants and successful, thinking Farmers.

STOCK MARKETS.

H. C. Becher, broker, Bank of Commerce building, received the following by private wire from Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington today:

New York, July 20—Noon.—Under the leadership of Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, and perhaps St. Paul, the market is strong, vigorous and comparatively active. There seems to be no let-up in the upward movement, and the strength in the market is phenomenal. The market opened fractionally lower, reflecting the depression in London, but the rumor that Russia had backed down caused a better tone abroad, and induced an upward movement here. This movement was not pronounced until the second hour, but it has since developed so thoroughly that the entire market is very strong. Steel, preferred, has been steady, but that is about all. Baltimore and Ohio has been strong, and Pennsylvania and New York Central showed up well. The tractions are strong. The market is professional, and commission is not large. There is an artificial flavor to the movements in some quarters, and a reaction before the close is not at all improbable.

Consols closed slightly higher in London today.

LOCAL MARKETS.

London, Wednesday, July 20.

About the only business done on the market today was for hay, and sales were slow even in this line. There were 20 loads on the stand, and prices ruled at $6 to $8 per ton; most of the loads went at $7 per ton.

There were no oats or straw offered; both of these products are wanted; sales will be brisk when they are brought in.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

Considering that the farmers are busy harvesting their hay and wheat, the markets held here during the past six days were fairly well attended. Most of the supplies were confined to small fruits and garden truck. Sales were as a rule brisk, and prices in nearly every line were firm.

Grain—The deliveries in this line have been very light, hardly enough being offered during the week to meet the demand for one day; oats are the principal grain offered, and they are very scarce; prices are higher, at $1 07 to $1 08 per cwt; wheat brings $1 50 per cwt; very little offered.

Hay and Straw—There has been a fairly large number of loads of hay offered; sales are on the slow side, at $6 to $8 per ton; nearly all of the loads offered were new hay. Straw is scarce, as there have only been a few loads offered during the past ten days; prices ranged from $3 per load to $5 when sold by the ton.

Butter and Eggs—Butter is in good demand and prices are a trifle higher, at 14c to 15c for crocks and 16c to 17c for pound rolls. Eggs, by the crate, sell at 15c to 16c per dozen; in small lots 17c per dozen is the ruling price.

Fruits—There is a very brisk demand for raspberries; sales are made at 9c to 11c per box; it now looks as if they will not be much lower in prices; cherries are scarce, at 10c per box; black currants, 8c to 10c per box; gooseberries, 5c to 6c per quart.

Potatoes—Old stock sells at $1 to $1 10 per bag; new potatoes are easier, at $1 per bushel for most of those offered.

Poultry—The supply in this line is increasing, and the prospects are that prices will be considerably lower as the season advances; spring chickens, dressed, sell at 50c to 75c per pair, according to size; alive they bring 45c to 55c per pair; dressed ducks, 75c to $1 per pair; old hens are dull of sale, at 60c to 75c per pair.

Dressed Hogs—Not many offered; the supply is not equal to the demand; the present prices are $7 to $7 25 per cwt.

Live Hogs—Prices are higher, and it is expected that $5 15 per cwt will be the figure for next Monday; small pigs sell at $5 to $6 per pair.

Butchers' Meats—Sales are on the slow side; most of the beef sells at $6 to $7 per cwt; veal, $6 to $7; lambs, $4 to $5 each.

Honey—There is not a very brisk demand; prices range from 9c to 9½c for strained, and 11c to 11½c for that in the comb.

Wool—The deliveries at present are light; washed brings 19c to 20c per lb; unwashed, 10c to 11c.

WHERE COMPANY MADE A MISTAKE

Allowed Rowley To Use Funds In His Own Name—Elgin Loan Loses Suit.

A special dispatch from Toronto this afternoon says: The Elgin Loan and Savings Company and the London and Western Trust Company of London, liquidators, have lost their suit against the London Guarantee and Accident Company, London, to recover the value of an indemnity bond of $2,500 held by the first company on George Rowley, of St. Thomas, late manager, now in prison. Judge McMahan, who heard the case, in St. Thomas, gave judgment today that while the bond was good as long as the Elgin Company pursued a loan business, the action of the directors in 1902 and again in 1903 in empowering Rowley to use the funds of the company in his own name, violated that bond. The action, accordingly, was dismissed.

CITY IS NOT ENTITLED TO THE REDUCTION OF TWENTY CENTS

Inspector Howe So Informs a Civic Committee.

Says City Has Not Complied With All Underwriters Demanded.

Seventeen Cents Off Key Rate Is All London Should Have—To Inspect Fire Brigade.

Inspector Howe, of the Canadian Underwriters' Association, arrived in this city this morning, and at once called upon Ex-Mayor J. W. Little, who conducted him to Mayor Beck's office in the city hall. There Mr. Howe was met by the mayor, Mr. A. M. Hunt and Ald. Greenlees, and the matter of the reduction in the insurance key rate was at once gone into.

It was explained to the inspector that the city has complied with all the terms agreed upon with the underwriters, with the exception of passing the inflammable bylaw, which the city considered too rigid, and not at all necessary. The city was, however, prepared to pass a bylaw ample for the needs and safety of London. Consequently, the city felt it was entitled to the decrease in the key rate of 20 cents, as agreed upon in Toronto last December, when Mayor Beck, Ex-Mayor Little and Ald. Greenlees formed a deputation from this city to meet the underwriters.

Mr. Howe's answer to this was that the city had not as yet done all it promised to do. For instance, gongs have not been installed in the houses of the firemen.

The mayor disputed that the city had agreed to install the gongs. The matter had never been mentioned at the meeting in Toronto. Messrs. Little and Greenlees bore him out in this statement.

Mr. Howe then said that as far as he could see the city was only entitled to a rebate of 17 cents on the key rate. He deducted 2 cents for the city's failure to pass an inflammable bylaw, and 1 cent for the gongs not being installed in the firemen's houses, from the 20 cent reduction originally promised.

The city's representatives, however, would not listen to this, but Mr. Howe said he was not making a proposition to the city—he was merely discussing matters. As a matter of fact, he could say nothing of a definite character here, but would have to inspect the fire halls, the new hydrants, etc., and then report to the association at Toronto.

It was then explained to Mr. Howe that the city had spent many thousands of dollars improving the fire department, which was now as efficient and well-equipped a body of fire-fighters as is to be found in Canada. The city had added new engines, new hose, and had procured couplers, so that in case of a fire here engines from St. Thomas, Woodstock, Hamilton and a half dozen other places could be brought into use without difficulty to fight the flames. The strength of the brigade had been greatly increased, as was also the discipline of the fire halls. The city had put in 26 extra hydrants, whereas the underwriters only asked for 25. And the city was prepared to pass a proper inflammable storage bylaw at once.

Mr. Howe made arrangements to inspect the fire halls, new hydrants, the waterworks, and water pressure, this afternoon. He is being accompanied by the mayor, and the other gentlemen, who represent the city. Upon Mr. Howe's report will depend just what reduction in the key rate will be allowed Londoners.

DOMESTIC FINANCE; PROBLEM FOR P. M.

Is 15 Cents a Day Extravagant Living?—Colored Benedict Charged With Assault.

Is 15 cents a day extravagant living? The police magistrate had to solve this important question this morning, and also consider a berry diet. The problem was raised by the appearance in court of Edward Clark, a colored man, charged by his wife, Martha, with assault.

Martha's story was that she had asked her husband for some money.

"Didn't I give you fifteen cents yesterday?" was the reply she received.

"And didn't I buy berries with it?" she retorted.

"You can't eat a whole box of berries in a day can you?"

Edward was told that one box of berries was no seven days' banquet for her, and on account of her lecture on dietetics that followed he called her a name that was not proper.

Then she threw a tea cup at him. As she threw it "at" him, of course it did not hit him. Then she says he struck her in the face. Hence the charge of assault.

Clark declared that a man named Smith was in the house at the time the fracas occurred and that the visitor held his hands behind his back while his wife made an onslaught on his face, marks of which he showed the court. He was bailed in $50, to appear in a week.

Frank Decker's name was called, a charge having been laid against him by his wife for non-support, but this she withdrew.

A young man charged with stealing was remanded until Friday, when the crown attorney and counsel for the prisoner will be ready.

STRIKE AFFECTS THE RAILROADS

Shipments of Dressed Meat Have Largely Fallen Off Since Butchers Went Out.

The effects of the strike of the butchers employed by the big packing houses of Chicago are being felt by the railways now as they have not been at any stage since the men quit work.

Both the C. P. R. and the Grand Trunk have been handling a large number of cars daily from Chicago to the east, and scarcely a through freight train would pass east on either road without a few cars of beef or other meat. Some of the trains would be composed almost entirely of the packing houses' output, but since the strike there has been a change. For some days now freight trains from the west have been going through with the large yellow cars of the Armour, Swift and other packing concerns conspicuous by their absence. Occasional trains have a number of cars of meat, while quite frequently there is not a single Armour or Swift car being drawn. At first it was anticipated that the falling off of the dressed beef would be met by the shipments of live stock to be slaughtered in the east. The amount of live stock, however, going through is comparatively light, and will not make up for the loss occasioned by the falling off of the dressed meat traffic.

The large cities of the east will be particularly effected by the strike of the butchers, as many of them depend largely on Chicago for their supplies of fresh meat. A general advance in prices down by the seaboard will follow unless the packing houses resume operations.

FORT GRATIOT EXCURSIONISTS ENJOY THEMSELVES IN LONDON

Annual Outing of the Carshops People and Their Friends—May Come Again.

Fort Gratiot people to the number of about 800 are picnicking in this city today. It is the 16th annual excursion of the employes of the Grand Trunk carshops, and while not including the locomotive works of that city as in former years, the excursion is a success.

A special train brought the visitors here, arriving at 10:30 o'clock, the train being a double-header with twelve coaches. A large number got off at the down town depot, but arrangements had been made for the train to run to Queen's Park, and about 200 availed themselves of the opportunity to go there, where they had dinner.

While it was to be regretted that they should have come on a day that both the grocers and druggists were having their annual picnics away from town, the reason they chose Wednesday was on account of the desire of the carshop men of Fort Gratiot to meet the carshop men here. The first intention was to run here on Saturday, but they would have found the London carshops men away on their annual excursion. The idea of coming when they could meet the men here of their own trades was a good one, for the London men were very glad to meet them.

The excursion had been anticipated by the London carshops, and an entertainment committee helped the visitors in their arrangements. Master Car Builders Treleaven, of this city, and John L. Hodgson, of Fort Gratiot, acted together in superintending the arrangements, and at this end a committee of Messrs. T. Tuxford, president; J. Loughlin, chairman, and William Reid, secretary, had charge of the entertainment.

In the first place a magnificent flag was hoisted on the carships, and many small ones helped in the decoration. The carshops were thrown open to the visitors, and for part of the afternoon the shops were deserted by the workmen for the entertainment of the visitors.

At Queen's Park everything was done to help the excursionists. For instance a parcel room was opened and the dining-room was prepared, hot water being supplied to the picnickers. Dressing rooms for the ball players were provided and the grandstand given over for the sports.

This is the first time the Fort Gratiot carshops employes have run their excursion here. Other years the locomotive works united with them, but this year they declined, as they decided upon going to Detroit for their excursion.

The energetic president and secretary of the committee of management Messrs. Alex Gibb and A. B. Van Luven, were pleased with the way things had started this afternoon and were especially pleased that the men were enabled to meet those of the shops here. They expressed the hope that next year the London shops excursion would be run to Port Huron, and that they could keep up the returning of visits of this kind. With the above gentlemen were associated the following on the committee of management: Messrs. George Wanless, A. McIntosh, J. Reo, John Edwin, H. Clark, L. Betts, A. Taylor, G. Wenner.

The majority of the visitors had a chance to spend several hours about the city, many taking a trip to Springbank and all enjoy this most delightful day before the games began. There were eighteen events on the list of sports, including all kinds of races for young and old and quoiting and baseball matches.

The baseball match was the last event on the list and was not through at time of going to press. It was between the teams from the Fort Gratiot and London shops and promised to be of great interest.

The judges of the events were: John L. Hodgson, M. C. B., B. E. Sharp, W. Reisig, J. J. Cuthbertson, F. Ford, M. J. Burkholder, P. Solon, G. Raynor, A. Sargeant, E. Rowett, Charles Bennett, W. Bradbeer, W. McDonald, William Carroll, F. Collins.

The excursionists leave for home this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

HELLO CLUB PICNIC.

The Hello Club had their picnic last evening, when upwards of 40 members passed a most pleasant time. Music by the harpers and refreshments were enjoyed until 11 o'clock, when the party broke up with cheers for their host, Mr. Peter B. Lewis, the organizers and life members. DOG CATCHER ENGAGED.

Inspector McCallum reports that he has secured the services of another dog catcher. Rumor has it that the dog catchers are plying their avocations in the airship which is reported to have passed over the city the other night and that they are fixing to scoop in a couple of sun dogs. At all events the dog catchers are not visible to the naked eye in the day time and must be of the especial brand addicted to nocturnal pursuits.

SUGAR BEET CROP.

Mr. Frank S. Jacobs returned last evening from a trip through Waterloo county, where he had occasion to investigate the sugar beet crops. He says that this will be the best year, and that the farmers are jubilant over the crops. The factory at Berlin is turning out the best beet sugar and will be able to take all the beets grown, so that the farmers will make considerable money. The growing of sugar beets is now past the experimental stage, and the reports are that there will be a good crop all over the western peninsula.

FIREMEN HAVE A RUN.

The firemen were called to a blaze which broke out in a tool shed used by the Pere Marquette on the Grand Trunk siding, between Clarence and Richmond streets, this morning. The brigade turned out well, but their services were not needed, a few buckets of water extinguishing the fire.

A BIG EXCURSION.

The annual excursion of the retail grocers of Hamilton is being held at the Falls today. This is one of the biggest outings of the year from Hamilton, from five to six thousand persons generally patronizing it. Six special trains were required today. With the London grocers also at the Falls today, the members of the trade should certainly have a good time.

BUILDING PERMITS.

Four building permits were taken out at the city engineer's office today. The trustees of Dundas Center Methodist Church were granted a permit for an addition to the Sunday school on Maitland street, to cost $2,500. The Standard Chemical Company took out one for an iron-covered shed on the corner of Burwell and Bathurst street; A. Eddie for a cottage on Inkerman street, and Martyn Smith for two 2-story brick dwellings on York street.

A NEW ORGANIST FOR LOCAL CHURCH

Mr. J. P. Morris, of Lindsay, Will Succeed Mr. Atkinson at Dundas Center.

A meeting of the music committee of the Dundas Street Methodist Church was held in the church last night to consider the appointment of a successor to Mr. G. D. Atkinson, who resigned to accept the position in the Wesley Methodist Church, Toronto.

There were a number of applications before the board, but the choice fell on Mr. J. Parnell Morris, organist of the First Methodist Church, Lindsay. Mr. Morris has consented to come to London, and he will begin his duties on Sept. 1. He is said to be a very able musician.

COULD NOT GET A BETTER MAN

Inspector Carson Approves of Board's Choice for Simcoe Street School.

In appointing Mr. W. Wallis to the principalship of Simcoe street school, the board of education certainly sprang a dark horse on the public, for in municipal circles Mr. Wallis' name was not once mentioned.

Mr. Wallis was appointed to the London staff in September, 1900, and has thus been in the city's employ about four years. At present he is drawing less than $800 per year, so that his new position will bring him an increase of about $400 per annum. The appointment appears to meet with general favor. Mr. Wallis holds a senior leaving certificate, as well as a professional certificate from the Normal School. He is a member of the Church of England. Referring to the appointment today, Inspector Carson spoke in the highest terms of the new principal. The inspector says no better man could be secured for the position, and he compares him to Principal Latta, of Colborne street school, who is very efficient, and who is also a passionate lover of art.

Inspector Carson says that it was in literature and arithmetic that many of the would-be high school entrants fell down. The papers were not hard, however, and compared favorably with the papers of other years. Those pupils who failed were weaklings, said the inspector. The following table, showing the results of the high school entrance examinations since 1891, will be found of interest:

	Passed.	Failed.

Milan, July 19.—Dr. Lotteri, of this city, gave a lecture in the University of Paris the other day on the art of embalming, claiming to have discovered a new system by which at small cost he could preserve bodies perfectly, without disfiguring them or altering even the coloring of the face.

He has made a deep study of the methods in vogue among the Egyptians, the Persians and the Ethopians, and asserts that his method is an improvement on all.

FIGHTING FOR A NAME.

They were obliged to procure another as the yacht's boat was not large enough to accommodate them all, and Ned's heart bounded with new hope, as, seizing an oar, he helped to propel the light craft toward the vessel, where his friend Hunting was awaiting him, and where he believed the stolen treasure would soon be rescued and restored to his employers.

They reached the yacht a little before midnight, and without encountering any other boat on their way; and as they stepped upon the iron stairway leading to the deck, Mr. Hunting leaned over the railing above, and called out in a low, anxious tone:

"Heatherton, is everything all right?"

"All right," Ned answered cheerily, and in less than two minutes the five newcomers were all standing upon the deck.

The chief soon made his arrangements for the night. He stationed his three men in various portions of the yacht below, to make sure that no mischief should brew in that quarter; then he, with Ned and Mr. Hunting, remained upon the deck to await the return of the first mate and his companions.

It was between three and four in the morning when they came.

Everything was quiet on board the yacht, and they had not a suspicion of the fate awaiting them.

"Ship ahoy!" the mate called out, as the boat shot alongside the iron stairway.

"Aye, aye, sir," was the subdued response that answered this greeting from above, whereupon the men ran lightly up the steps, to be immediately confronted by the powerful policeman, Ned and Mr. Hunting.

"Not a word, my men," said the chief as he leveled a revolver at them, "you are my prisoners. Behave yourselves and no harm shall befall you; make any disturbance and into irons you will go quicker than you will relish."

"What is the meaning of this invasion?" the mate demanded in a voice that was far from steady.

"It means that you, with all the rest of the crew, are under arrest."

"What for?"

"That is a question which will have to be answered later."

"Where is the captain?"

"In his stateroom, subject to the same restrictions as yourself."

The mate made no further resistance, but submitted, with his companions, to be led below and locked up, while Ned, Mr. Hunting and the officer continued their watch on deck for the remainder of the night.

When morning dawned the steward was released upon solemnly promising that he would attend to his regular duties, and make no effort to release any of the crew.

The men must all be fed, and there seemed to be no better way to supply their needs.

He was only too glad to comply with whatever conditions the chief chose to impose upon them, but his movements were closely watched by one of the officers below.

Nichols was also detailed to do service on deck, under the eyes of the three watchful men stationed there.

After a good breakfast, Ned was upon the point of starting again for the city, in the company of one of the officers, to telegraph to the —— Bank his suspicions that the stolen treasure was concealed aboard the Bald Eagle when they espied in the distance a boat containing two persons making toward the yacht.

They concluded to wait a while, hoping that the orders which the captain was expecting from the owner were about to be delivered.

They were not disappointed.

The boat headed directly for the yacht; and when it was within hailing distance, one of the men sang out:

"Is Captain Bleiberg of the Bald Eagle on board?"

"Tell him yes," the chief commanded of Nichols.

"Ay, ay, sir!" obediently responded the man.

"I have a telegram for him," came back from the messenger in the boat, "and he must sign for it."

"Go for it and bring the book to me," said the officer.

Nichols obeyed.

The officer signed for Captain Bleiberg and sent the book back; then deliberately tore open the message and read it.

A grim smile passed over his face as he did so, and Ned's heart gave a great bound when he looked up and beckoned to him.

"Read it," he said, as he put the message into Ned's hands, and the young man's eyes devoured it greedily.

It ran thus:

"I shall arrive Friday evening about 8. Meet me at wharf, and be ready to sail immediately. Gould."

"We're sure of our bird now," said the chief, with a chuckle.

Ned grew pale, in spite of the thrill of exultation in his heart.

"What will you do?—go to the city to arrest him?" he inquired, as he passed the telegram to Mr. Hunting.

"No; we will send a boat to meet him, as he orders; then, when he arrives, we will place him under arrest, and have our rogues all together," the officer returned.

"Who will you send with the boat?" Mr. Hunting asked.

"Nichols, attended by one of my subordinates."

"Will he not suspect that something is wrong when he sees that the yacht is not ready to sail?" said Ned.

"I don't care what he suspects after we once get eye on our man," the officer replied; then he added: "And now you can send word to your firm as soon as you choose. Tell them to dispatch some one armed with proper authority immediately, and we'll have this business settled up at short notice."

So Ned went ashore and sent his telegram, notifying the officers of the bank of his whereabouts, and entreating them to send some one to him without delay, and one capable of identifying the property belonging to the bank, in case it should be found, as he hoped, on board the Bald Eagle.

He longed to send some word to his mother also, but concluded that it would be better to wait a day or two, until he should ascertain just how long he was liable to be detained in Halifax.

His heart also went out, with longing, toward Gertrude. He knew her address, and was half tempted to go to her that very day and explain to her all the mysterious circumstances of the last two weeks.

Then he told himself that it would be wiser to wait until everything was settled and he could go to her cleared from all suspicion.

While he was sure that she would have faith in him and believe whatever he should tell her, yet he would not be able to prove anything until the treasure was found and restored to those to whom it belonged.

Then he could face her, proud in his own integrity, and feeling that no one could cast a slur upon his name.

Severe Headache Stomach Troubles

Was Laid Up for a Month But Complete Cure Came With Dr. Chase's Ramedies.

Mr. Frederick Whittaker, 906 Queen's avenue, London, Ont., writes: "I used nine boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and six boxes of his Kidney-Liver Pills for a run-down system, and now feel like a new man in every way. Before beginning this treatment I had been laid up for a month, as I had not the strength to stand up at my work as machinist and suffered much from headaches, stomach troubles and pains in my legs.

"If I ever get run down in health again I shall not be long in trying these medicines, for I have proven their excellence."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2 50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

SLEEPLESSNESS.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body given up to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of the derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the subject could sleep, there would be oblivion for awhile, and temporary relief. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that the subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

WEATHER IS TO THEIR LIKING

American Athletes Warming Up for English Games—Munroe Going West.

London, July 20.—The American athletes brought their own brand of weather with them, with the result that thus far they have wholly escaped the enervating effects experienced by previous visitors. This long, dry, hot spell, with unbroken clear skies, is unnatural for an English summer. Hope brightens daily that Yale and Harvard will escape weather handicaps. Only two days' practice remain. Therefore there is every prospect of no unexpected setbacks. Work at Brighton today was remarkably strong. Clapp, who has been worrying trainers because of his game leg, for the first time in England went the full distance over the hurdle. Time, 16 seconds flat. This was done over the turf, which Englishmen consider half a second slower than dirt and indicates that in competition Clapp will cut under even time yet. The best time to the credit of Teail, of the English first string, is :16 2-5.

BASEBALL.

TRIMMED BY THE TIGERS.

A fast game of ball was played yesterday between the Junior Tigers and the Junior Perrin nine, resulting in a victory for the Junior Tigers by a score of 12 to 9. Harold Palmer and John Unger were the respective captains of the teams.

GALT SHUT OUT.

A Canadian League game was played yesterday at Acton. Galt was shut out 2 to 0. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Acton	2	6	2
Galt	0	5	2

Batteries—Stevens and Tripp; Flaherty and Marshall. Umpire Johns, of Guelph.

ONE-SIDED SCORE.

In an interesting game of ball the North End Stars easily defeated the St. Peter's nine by 19 to 5. It looked like a shut out for St. Peter's until the first part of the sixth inning when they scored their first run. Batteries—Stars, D. Buller and P. Buller; St. Peter's, C. Collins, McPherson and Brennan. The stars would like to arrange a game with any team in the city or out of town, after July 23. Address G. Adams, 29 Miles street, city.

WIN FOR ST. JOHN'S JUNIORS.

Monday evening the St. Peter's ball team was defeated on the St. John's A. C. diamond, West London, by St. John's A. C. Juniors, in a five innings contest, the score being 20 to 2. Heavy slugging on the part of St. John's, and numerous errors by St. Peter's, made the game easy for the winners. The batteries—St. Peter's, Mitchelltree and Brennan; St. John's Juniors, C. Gibson and Myers.

CRICKET.

A DRAW GAME.

London, July 19.—The cricket match between Haverford, Pa., and Haileyburg College today resulted in a drawn game, Haileybury scored 336 runs for nine wickets down, and Haverford 191 runs for four wickets down.

TO PLAY AT FOREST.

The Wolseley Barracks eleven will play at Forest on Friday.

LACROSSE.

C. L. A. GAMES.

The Wellingtons, of Owen Sound, won the second game in the C. L. A. junior series, defeating Dundalk 7 to 1.

RING.

MUNROE GOING WEST.

Chicago, July 19.—Jack Munroe will leave Chicago this week for San Francisco to resume training for his championship battle with Champion Jeffries, which takes place the latter part of August. The miner has been touring the west for the past couple of weeks giving wrestling exhibitions, which have enabled him to keep in pretty fair condition.

SIXTEEN INNINGS ENDED IN A TIE

Long Struggle Between Montreal and Newark Teams —Giants Lost in Ninth.

One of the longest game of the present season was played yesterday in the Eastern League between Montreal and Newark, and the greatest cause for wonder in connection with it is that the Montreal nine did not lose. The match lasted for sixteen innings, and when it was called by Umpire Sullivan the score was a tie. At four different stages the clubs were on an equal footing. At the end of the eighth the figures were 6 to 6, and for the next seven innings neither team scored. In the sixteenth each team made two runs, and the umpire called quits. The teams did the same batting, but in fielding Montreal was very ragged, having no less than twelve errors to its credit.

There were two other extra inning games in the big leagues yesterday, the New York Americans defeating Detroit in an eleven-inning game by a score of 2 to 1, and Cleveland beating the leaders—Boston—in a twelve-inning game by 3 to 1. The New York Giants lost in the ninth to Pittsburg. The scores:

The different kinds of memory are described in an extended article in Cosmos, Paris. It is noted that some children, when they learn a lesson, have only to read it over a few times; others will not remember it unless they have heard it recited; others must repeat it aloud to themselves. These are the three kinds of memory—visual, auditive and motor. Those who need to recite the lesson aloud to themselves are at once auditive and motor. Certain persons retain a passage well only after they have copied it out. These have a combination of motor and visual memory.

A REQUISITE FOR THE RANCHER.—On the cattle ranges of the west, where men and stock are far from doctors and apothecaries, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is kept on hand by the intelligent as a ready made medicine, not only for many human ills, but as a horse and cattle medicine of surpassing merit. A horse and cattle rancher will find matters greatly simplified by using this Oil.

Hatless Women Barred.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 20.—Rector A. L. Longley, of Trinity Church here, on Sunday revived the crusade started last year against the attendance at church services of hatless women. On Sunday night a number of women attended the church without headgear, and the rector announced from the pulpit that bareheaded women were not wanted in the church, and their presence would not be permitted.

When he admonished his flock last year a distinct falling off in attendance occurred, but the rector is determined to enforce the rule, which he bases upon the authority of St. Paul. Bishop Scarborough and other prelates of the Episcopal Church are believed to support the rule.

PRINCIPAL WALLIS NAMED FOR VACANCY AT SIMCOE STREET

Board of Education Appoints Him as Successor to Late R. M. Graham.

New principals for the Simcoe street and Grand avenue schools were appointed at a special meeting of the board of education yesterday afternoon. Principal William Wallis, of the Grand avenue school, was promoted to the principalship of the Simcoe street school, rendered vacant by the death of Mr. R. M. Graham. To take Mr. Wallis' place at Grand avenue, Mr. W. J. Taylor, assistant of the Simcoe street school, was appointed principal, and it was decided to advertise for a man to succeed Mr. Taylor.

Chairman MacRobert presided, and when the meeting began there were present Trustees Yeates, Birtwhistle, McCormick, Fitzgerald, Teasdall, Gammage, McLean, English, Hamilton and Tillmann. The appointment of a successor to Principal Graham, to all appearances, was cut and dried, there being but one dissenting voice to the motion by Trustees English and McCormick that Principal Wallis should be appointed. The objection was taken by Trustee McLean, who moved that Principal Macqueen, of Victoria school, get the appointment, but he could find no seconder. The original motion thus went through, the salary being fixed at $1,000, with $200 a year for the Normal Training School.

The next business was the appointment of a principal to the Grand avenue school. Trustee Ziegler and Burdon arrived in time for this. On motion of Trustees Yeates and Fitzgerald, Mr. Walter J. Taylor, the assistant at the Simcoe street school, was given the appointment, his salary being fixed at $600. This will be increased gradually. Trustee English wanted the rule suspended, so as to open up the salary question, but his motion was lost.

It was decided to advertise for an assistant at the Simcoe street school.

The applications of Miss Florence Kirk and Miss L. M. Smith to be placed on the substitute list were referred to committee.

Trustee Gammage wanted the cloak rooms of the schools painted at the same time as the rest of the schools were being painted, but Chairman Fitzgerald explained that they were painting all that the estimates would allow for. The meeting then adjourned.

The new principal of the Simcoe street school has been principal of the Grand avenue school since October, 1900, previous to which time his teaching experience was confirmed to this and Elgin County. He is a native of London Township, and his first teaching position was at Byron. After attending Normal School, he taught at Rodney for four and a half years, and then was assistant at the Model School for a month

CHINESE STORY OF JAP DISASTER

Say 4,000 of Mikado's Men Were Blown Up by Mine.

REINFORCEMENTS FOR GEN. OKU

M. Delcasse to Visit St. Petersburg and Discuss Matters Growing Out of the Far East War

Liao Yang, July 16, via Mukden, July 18, 6 p.m.—(Delayed in transmission).—A general engagement, it is reported here, began this morning to the east, between the forces of Lieut.-General Count Keller and General Kuroki. It is reported also that an engagement began simultaneously at Ta Tche Kiao from which the Japanese for some days had been only six miles distant. The Associated Press correspondent lately traversed the Feng Wang Cheng road, which was in the height of military activity and offensive with the odor of dead animals. The large Red Cross hospital at Ta Tche Kiao was removed to Mukden in anticipation of today's fighting. Consequently there was a large call for Red Cross trains to proceed to Ta Tche Kiao. The activity of the Japanese in the northeast caused a wider dispersion of troops and the consequent movement of the center of the strength a little farther north in order to meet the Japanese demonstrations.

A Cossack report of an examination of the Japanese camp shows that the Japanese troops are suffering from dysentery which is now at its worst stage. The Chinese accuse the Japanese of organizing Chinese bandits, and they report that the bandits have attacked natives in the employ of the Russians. A native from the village of Hung Poloyu, 40 miles to the eastward, describes the Japanese there as being very orderly and as having the good will of the people. They are not paying them the exorbitant prices for produce which are paid by the Russians.

The best information received here indicates that the siege of Port Arthur is now being more closely pressed, and there are most extravagant rumors of losses on both sides. No foreign correspondent has yet witnessed even the simplest military operations, but yesterday the correspondents were notified that they may go to Ta Tche Kiao. On account of the Japanese preparations the military possibilities during the rainy season have become the subject of mathematical interest.

Tokio, July 19—5 p.m.—The Russian attempt to retake Mo Tien Pass on July 17 was not productive of a general engagement, nor was it marked with serious loss. There were, however, a series of desperate small encounters. The Japanese guarded their positions about the pass with a company on outpost. These men resisted stubbornly the Russian advance, and awaited the arrival of reinforcements. When these arrived they joined in the general attack. The outpost detachment stationed at Hsi Amatang held this position all day. It was largely outnumbered by the enemy, and every commissioned and non-commissioned officer was wounded, as was a major. The attack on Mo Tien Pass began at 3 o'clock in the morning. The Russians engaged the outposts, and the Japanese at once went into action. The Japanese artillery posted on the heights to the northwest of Wu Ting Kuan opened on the enemy, and the Japanese outposts retired gradually. The Russian cavalry galloped forward and deployed along the ridge to the west of the pass. Two hours later, at 5 o'clock, the entire Japanese line was engaged. The Russians were constantly receiving reinforcements, and finally they had four regiments in action. They outnumbered the Japanese. The Russians made vain endeavors to envelop the Japanese left. At this point the Japanese occupied the summit of Mo Tien Mountain, and they resisted desperately the efforts of the enemy to dislodge them. When the Russians finally retreated, they were pursued by the entire Japanese line. Seven battalions of the enemy made a halt on the heights of Ta Wan, and with four guns checked the Japanese pursuit. One company of Japanese soldiers reconnoitering from Hsui Ling encountered and engaged three battalions of Russians. It fought until reinforced by four companies, when the Russians were repulsed. The Japanese seized and held the heights west of Makumenza. The attack on Hsi Amatang began at 8 o'clock in the morning. A battalion of Russian infantry and a squadron of cavalry assaulted the Japanese company on outpost there. The Russians received reinforcements until they were a regiment strong. The Japanese resisted doggedly. All their officers were either killed or wounded, but still the men fought on. The Japanese finally received reinforcements, and the Russians retired at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. In the afternoon eight companies of Russian infantry and a body of cavalry attacked the Japanese position at Chiaton. The Japanese were reinforced by a company of infantry and a company of engineers, and the Russians were repulsed.

In his report on the fight, General Kuroki says that the Russians numbered about two divisions, and were formed of parts of the third and sixth Siberian sharpshooters and the ninth and another infantry division. The Japanese lost four officers and thirty-nine men killed and fifteen officers and two hundred and forty-one men wounded. The casualties all occurred in the second division. General Kuroki mentions, but he does not enumerate, the trophies captured. He estimated the Russian losses as exceeding his own.

ENGLISH IN JAP SCHOOLS

Schoolboy's Letter Shows How Well the Language Is Taught.

London, July 20. — The London Daily News prints the following letter from a 17-year-old pupil in a Japanese school sent to an English correspondent. It shows how well the English is taught in Japan:

"My dear unknown friend:

"I am very glad to have the opportunity of corresponding with one who lives in England. Still, I think it is a very good idea, and by its means I hope to make a true friend in England.

"I will tell you something about myself and our country. I am 17 years old, and attending the Kakegawa Middle School, being a student in the fifth year class. Though I live in Kakewaga, my native province is Harima, not far from the famous port of Kobe. Have you a Japanese map? You will find it at once."

After describing the school organization, Taro mentions the subjects he is learning in his class. They are ethics, physics, economy, law, Japanese history and the history of the world, solid geometry, physical geometry, trigonometry, Chinese classics, rhetoric, drawing, composition, and English. Seven hours a week are given to English, and Taro's beautiful copperplate writing and excellent idiomatic sentences show how well the time is used.

"Early in the morning, we get up to change our clothes to jacket. And then, wearing shoes and gator, we go to school. School begins at 7 a.m., and ends at noon, or 2 p.m. . . . We play on 'Judo' (Japanese boxing), Japanese fencing, football, boat race and lawn tennis. Some of the boys are playing a baseball, but I don't like it. We have many excursions in the year, one or two speech meetings a term. Do you know about athletic sport of Judo? To speak plainly, our school boys do not play active like you. What do you like best? I am very fond of science and journey best. . . . In writing and painting, we use a writing brush called 'Fude,' beside pen or pencil. This writing brush is our original one, so that before the restoration of 1867 were few persons who use pen or pencil for writing. Now pen or pencil are chiefly used at school."

Then he goes on to tell how Japan is "fighting with Russia for the sake of justice." "All the world disdains her in her barbarous task."

"England is one of the countries which has the warmest sympathy for Japan. With sincere heart we give a thousand thanks to you, Englishmen. It is our earnest hope that this feeling may strengthen steadily."

THE REVENUE CRUSADE

Officers Visit Shops Where Alcohol Sweets Are Sold.

London, July 20. — There is nothing to indicate that the chancellor of the exchequer this year has had a hard job. Increased taxation is causing no little discontent throughout the country, but the latest effort to increase the revenue has created more amusement than anything else. In consequence attention was called in the House of Commons by Sir Herbert Roberts to the importation into England of sweets, particularly chocolate, containing a certain percentage of alcohol. Revenue officers within the last few days have been visiting sweetstuff shops in London, and leaving them warnings that unless they obtain spirit licenses they must refrain from selling liquor sweets. Roberts, in bringing the matter before the Commons, pleaded he did so for the safety of children, whereas these liquor sweets are only sold in small quantities by first-class confectioners, quite out of reach of children's purses.

Bateman to Marry.

London, July 20. — The marriage of the elderly Lord Bateman, grizzled by years of active service in the field, and hitherto regarded as an irredeemable bachelor, to Mrs. H. C. Knapp, once upon a time the beautiful Marion Graham, of San Francisco, promises to provide society with its chief subject of humorous comment.

For hitherto no bitterer or more acrid misogynist than this grim old soldier had ever existed. Probably no one is more amused than the King, who is one of Lord Bateman's oldest and warmest friends.
