PORT ARTHUR CAPTURED

Stubborn Besieged Overcome By Gallant Invaders.

Confirmed From Japanese Sources-Still Centinues-It Now Appears That Only Surrender or Extermination Will Close the Centest.

London, Aug. 29.—The correspondent of The Evening Standard cables from Tientsin that the Japanese have captured Port Arthur after days of fighting, and although the battle is still raging inside the city and the garrison under Gen. Stoessel is stubbornly contesting every inch of the way, the invasion has actually taken place, and it is surrender or extermination for the brave defenders.

News Generally Believed. This is the news that has reached This is the news that has reached this city and, while it lacks official confirmation from Japanese sources, it is generally believed, and The Evening Standard openly announces the fall of the fortress on the authority of its Tientsin correspondent. Under date of yesterday this correspondent, of whose reliability there can be no doubt, writes:
"Have good reason to believe from private information that the Japan-se have effected an entrance to Port Arthur, and that the fall of the fortress is consequently virtually accomplished. The Japanese, however, are reluctant to say anything offi-cially until the fighting is altogeth-er suspended. The entrance was ef-fected at the Etseshan forts. The Japanese occupied the Pelyushan parade grounds within the forts at thread vests, no sleeves, high neck, lace trimmed, fancy weave, extra value, at regular prices at 40c and 50c very special at dawn of the 24th, from which point they swept down with an unceasing fire throughout the day. The Japan-ese casualties were very heavy, but their courage remained undaunted to London, Aug. 29.—A despatch from Fusan to Lloyd's Weekly says: "After a desperate day and night of fighting the Japanese penetrated the principal defence of Port Arthur. Their guns dominate the entire town. They hold every position they won despite the desperate and furious counter attacks of the Russians. The losses on both sides were enormous."

Desperate Sortie Likely. A despatch from Kobe to The Weekly Despatch dated Sunday says news from a reliable source states that the Japanese have captured the outlying fortifications of Port Arthur. The Russians still hold the citadel on Antseshan, northwest of the town, the Golden Hill forts and the forts on Tiger's Tail Promontory. The Japanese hold the parade ground. #### THE SLOW BUT SURE BRITON.

A keen man of affairs, recently re turned from an extended trip of ex ploration through English fields of business, tells us that it is his deliberately formed opinion that unless British merchants and manufacturers greatly alter their methods of management, the United States and Canada will cut into their trade rapidly and extensively at home and abroad His criticism is that too many English houses will not deign to countenance new ideas, nor to depart from hoary custom. They have always fol lowed certain methods and with suc cess, why should they change? If they are told that the buying public and the trade abroad prefer new ways, they reply that these new ways are fads that will soon disappear. In many lines of business and manufac ture Americans are establishing themselves in England, and one advantage they have is the ease with which they can secure the services of the best men available, owing to the big salaries they are willing to pay, accompanied often by an interest in the business, as is so common in this country, where a man shows exceptional capacity and must be "let in" or will go out and become competitor.

A lady after living many years in Canada returned to England, and was equally impressed in the same way by what she saw. The baker though asked repeatedly to call at her house failed to do so, and finally she learned that his delivery wagon was due to pass the next corner at 11 a. m. daily, and "could not make any more calls than he was already making on that street." It recalls the story of the baker in an Italian town who was famous for a certain kind of cakes, but when an American on a second visit to the place called to buy some, was told by the baker that he had quit making them. The visitor expressed surprise, as the demand the previous year was great. "That was just the reason," explained the baker. "Everybody wanted them - I couldn't make enough. They gave me no peace, so I just quit making them." This is undeniably a restful attitude towards life, but incomprehensible to anybody from this conti-

So much has been heard about the decline of British trade, and its supremacy always remains so unimpaired when the figures come in, that one naturally discounts criticisms of British business methods. Yet there may be need for a little more "ginger' over there .- Toronto Star.

MEN WHO GO UNARMED.

An Italian entered a restaurant in and when ordered to leave drew a revolver and shot the son of the proprietor through the head. Two men in Detroit, who had a other the latter pulled a revolver, and shot the victor.

On the same day another similar tragedy occurred. Perhaps if complete reports were to hand it would be found that a dozen men in the United States in one day fell victims to the practice of carrying firearms.

In at least one of the three cases mentioned the excuse of the man who For these reasons then, I believe we did the shooting is that he detected his antagonist in the act of reaching back to pull a pistol, and in self-defence, shot first. In the Detroit affair the man who did the shooting pleads self-defence also; he was afraid his assailant "meant to do him up," although eye-witnesses say the fight was over when the revolver was fired, and there is a dispute as to which man struck the first blow.

The carrying of firearms leads to murder. These weapons may be carried with the idea that they will afford protection, but they prve a menace, and the instances where they serve as a protection are rare. When the man who is generally supposed to carry a gun gets into a row, his antagonist feels called upon to shoot or to be shot, There is killing where there need only have been an exchange of bruises, and then reconciliation. In a community where men shoot on slight provocation good citizens are at a greater disadvantage with the criminal classes than elsewhere; criminals are more indifferent to the value of human life, and to get a purse they shoot the owner. They do this because they expect the owner of it to shoot. The worst kind of men would rather not kill a fellow-being. 'The burglar in Canada seldom shoots even when detected, but seeks to get away; in cities across the border, where guns are in nearly every house, the detected burglar usually begins firing at once. "Yes, I understand all but one thing."

(An Old Favorite.) (An Old Favorite.)
It is the miller's daughter,
And she is grown so dear, so dea
That I would be the jewel
That trembles in her ear:
For hid in ringlets day and night,
I'd touch the neck so warm an white.

And I would be the girdle About her dainty, dainty waist, And her heart would beat agains In sorrow and in rest:

And I should know if it beat right I'd clasp it round so close and tight And I would be the necklace,

And I would be the necklace,
And all day long to fall and rise
Upon her balmy bosom,
With her laughter or her sighs,
And I would lie so light, so light,
I scarce would be unclasped at night

RAIDED WOMEN'S " MONTE CARLO

Handsomely Dressed women Tried to Hide Evidence - An Interesting Case.

New York, Aug. 27.-In a raid on

New York, Aug. 27.—In a raid on an alieged women's poolroom and gambing house at No. 228 West In, rty-seventh street police station developed what appeared to be the most remarkable place of the sort ever discovered in New York.

It was apparently not only a poolroom where bets on the races were taken, but was fitted up with a roulette wheel and large quantities of chips and cards scattered about indicated that all the games to be found in the gambling houses frequented by men were ready to the hants of the fair patroons of the place.

In the main room of the house which is a handsome brownstone dwelling, were found nine women; nonchalant, carelessly easy under the embarrassing circumstances and evidently thoroughly familiar with the Monte Carlo atmosphere of the

They were all gowned and hatted in a way to suggest Paquin and the man milliners of Paris, and several of them were not only strikingly handsome, but of that distinguished bearing which conveyed the impression some but of that distinguished bearing which conveyed the impression that a complete revelation regarding the place might take its place as a sister sensation to the famous Vanderbilt scandal in Canfield's.

All the women patrons of the place were released, and on hurrying away several were seen to enter closed carriages standing a block or so around the corners, and on panels of these carriages were said to have been noticed intricately entangled monograms hard to read.

Several of the women in the place did what they could to assist the proprietors in concealing evidence of the character of the house. One haughty and rather superclious young woman remained sitting after she had been asked to leave the place and on being forced to rise disclosed the fact that she had been sitting on a number of decks of cards. Another woman was standing over a huge pile of ivory chips, hastily shovelled into man was standing over a huge pile of ivory chips, hastily shovelled into a corner. The appearance of the room suggested clearly that some game involving the use of cards and chips was in operation at the time of the raid.

The roulette wheel captured in the raid had been hurriedly stowed away under a heap of sofa cushions on a divan in a corner, and from all reapnable inference had been in use sonable inference had been in use a short time before.

So far as the police can learn the establishment was conducted by a man and his wife, but the wife escaped. Two arrests were made, one of the prisoners being a man who said he was Charles Edwards, and whose address was that of the raided house, while the other prisoner gave the while the other prisoner gave the name Albert Graham, of No. 364 West Fifty-eighth street. Edwards was charged with being the proprietor of the place and is said to live in the upper story with his wife. Graham was charged with aiding and abetting Edwards in maintaining a pool-room.

Capt. Hayes learned of the existence of the establishment through a letter of the establishment through a fetter received from a man who complained that his wife had been going to the place with horrowing regularity and had been losing not only her money, but her husband's as well. He asked that the place be raided even though his own wife be captured, regarding this as an excellent method of frightning her into keeping away from poolrooms.

Capt. Hayes detailed several of his best men and began to do some sleuthing on his own account. They of tashionably gowned women were to be seen going into the house each day and from other sources learned that the telephone in the place was kept busy during the hours when the horses were most actively engaged. Capt. Hayes determined to make a raid, and with Detectives Martineau, Heaney, Smith and Ray of the West Thirty-seventh street station surposed the house. Detective Heaney.

Heaney; Smith and Ray of the West Thirty-seventh street station surrounded the house. Detective Heaney was sent to the rear and succeeded in breaking into the house, but made so much noise that he was discovered and all of the women in the place were apprised of his coming. Realizing that he had muddled the affair, Heaney called to the others to come on, and, opening the front door, admitted the entire party.

The time lost, however, had permitted the women to adjust themselves to the unusual circumstances, and when the police entered they looked deeply offended at the intrusion of a number of men who had never been introduced to them.

So far as the police could see they had broken up a meeting of a woman's literary club, and for a time Capt. Hayes appeared to be embarrassed. He recovered his equanimity in a moment, however, when he found that the telephone had been torn from the wall and the wiring a few moments before, and that several pokerchips were coyly peeping forth from beneath the hem of the skirt of the most distinguished young woman in the place.

Capt. Hayes, with something of Capt. Hayes, with something of ostentatious gallantry, apologized for having been forced to disturb the young women, and told them that they had better leave as quickly as possible.

He found evidence enough to satisfy him in the form of fragments of torn racing sheets stowed away in the furniture and in the chips, roulette wheel and cards found in the "Nine or ten years ago my health became very poor, and in 1802 was so far goae that good doctors pronounced my case the worst they had ever treated," writes Mr. Harvey Phipps, of Florence, Als. "I had acute stomach trouble, liver complaint, catarrh and was nervous to such an extent I could not sleep. I finally got three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and some 'Pellets.' Took them according to directions on the bottles, and in a few day noticed a decided improvement. I commenced to get more rest at night and could eat with pleasure, where formerly food was like chips to me. When I had used three bottles of the 'Discovery' I was a new man; could eat mince pie for supper, go to bed at seven P. M. and sleep until seven A. M. A certain young man was sent to Congress. He delivered a very clever maden speech. The correspondents liked him. They wrote him up in their despatches. His picture was printed in the newspapers and aneodotes of his life appeared in many journals. He was referred to as a prospective Speaker of the House, and it was generally agreed that he would do great things after he had been elected to a second term.

"Oh, no," he said, with affected carelessness. It's only one of those penny-a-liners. He can wait until I am ready to see him."

FASHION ECHOES.

Small folding carriage parasols are a revival in old time sunshades.

Din ties grow lovelier each season, and there is a simple charm in this inexpensive material that makes it particularly suited to children's dresses.

For the small boy there is little save the Russian suit, and the variations must be made in the materials and the deta is. The smartest styles are the one piece blouses of pique, and the detals. The smartest styles are the one piece blouses of pique, duck or linen.

The summer frock is often made picturesque by the quaint little fichu or the pelerine collar draped to give the fichu effect.

This is really a season of spangles. Wherever there is a smart late afternoon or evening gathering there will be seen glittering sparks galore and in almost every color.

The girl of fashion to-day looks most coquettish in her long sweeping gown, her big picture hat, her dainty slippers with square silver buckles, her parasol with long directoire handle and even the filmy scarfishe so carelessly catches around her pretty throat.

An artistic keynote is sounded in the revival of La Pompadour rose, which comes from the realms of the gay eighteenth century. Pompadour roses form the chief decoration of parasols, fans, sash ribbons, hand bags, card cases and dainty face handkerchiefs.

DAILY STORY. Swiss girls are methodical in their Swiss girls are methodical in their ways of wooing and their formal love-making takes place on the eves of the weddings of their friends. Then is held what is called the "feast of the love garlands." All the unmarried girls who can claim acquaintance with either the bride or bridegroom assemble at the latter's house at sunset. There they sing, dance and make merry till the dawn begins to break, when each girl departs, carrying a posy gaily decked with ribbon. This, before she goes home, she hangs on the door handle of the bon. This, before she goes home, she hangs on the door handle of the house where her beloved lives or she may throw it into his window. She may select whom she will, provided she does not stray beyond her own canton, but to do that would be unpardonable in the eyes of her little world. Should suspicion fall on her of such an action a straw puppet is hung dangling outside her bedroom window and the young men of the village whom she has slighted by her preference for an outsider combine to preference for an outsider combine to "make it hot" for the object of her affections.

VENEZUELAN COW TREE.

Venezuela has a vegetable wonder in the "cow tree." This tree grows on rocks where no other thing thrives. Its leaves are leathery and crisp, but by making incisions in the crisp, but by making incisions in the trunk a peculiar, grayish milk oozes out, which is tolerably thick and of an agreeable balmy smell.

The natives gather round these bowls with them to receive the milk, for toward noonday the heat of the sun changes the milk to sour. Howsun changes the milk to sour. How ever, the milk will harden into a toothsome gam, much as the familia ever, the milk will harden the action toothsome gain, much as the familiar breaking of the mikwoed's stalk by our own school boys will ooze the white juice of that wood, which the air turns to gum. The gam of the cow tree acts as a good assuager of thirst

It is a curious and a puzzling sight to the stranger to see the trunks of these trees bristing with piugs, as he will see them, for the drawer of mik from a hole in a tree will plug it up when his needs are supplied, to keep the tree from una curious and a puzzling necessary waste.

SHEEP SORREL PIE.

A Kansas editor pays tribute to the sheep sorrel pie, which was one of the luxuries of primitive Kansas. "It was dried apple pie from December until grass, or until the squawe same around with wild gooseberries. But, happy thought, with the coming of the johnny jumpup came sheep sorrel and, with sorghum sweetening, what lovely pies were made! Corn bread and Missouri bacon, sorghum and buttermilk, with a quarter section of sheep sorrel pie to finish up! Kansas people of this day and generation don't know that real good living is."

TO KIDNAP PRIEST

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 28.—The priest of St. Nicholas's Croatian Church, Al-legheny, is barricaded in his house under the belief that an attempt to kid-nap him will be made. The situation is the culmination of several months of trouble in the church. A majority of the congregation, it seems, accuse the priest of mismanagement of the church's finances and demand his removal. Bishop Phelan refused to accede to the demand, and ordered the church closed. No services have been held for eight weeks, and to-day, after concerted action, nearly 500 members of the congregation, headed by a brass band, formed in procession, intending to call on the bishop. The bishop, it is reported, received word of the visit and notified the police, with the result that twenty-five officers met the procession at the Pittsburg end of the bridge and turned the marchers back because no permission to parade in Pittsburg had been secured. The disappointed Croats returned to Allegheny and held an indignation meeting. ter concerted action, nearly 500 mem

DUTY ON STEEL RAILS. in Council Giving Effect to the Act Passed.

Ottawa, Aug. 29.—Experts appointed by the Government having reported that steel rails in every way up to specification are being manufactured at Sault Ste. Marie, nanufactured at Sault Ste. Yankee Rails For the G.T.P.

New York, Aug. 29.—Grand Trunk Pacific sponsors have sent out enquires for supplies of steel rails, 1905 delivery, estimated at 100,000 tons. It is considered likely the entire tonnage will be given to American mills, because it is a manifest impossibility for Canadian rail makers to meet the demands. The new Canadian transcontinental project may need all the rails included in the inquiry before the end of 1905. The company is willing to pay for American rails $20 per ton, which would make the quantity of rails quoted worth $2,000,000 to the steel company securing the order.

Dime Novel Robbery

Hamilton, Aug 29.—There was a bold highway robbery on the dime novel plan two miles over the James street Mountain on Sunday night about 11 o'clock, The victim was B. f. Hess, Hyckman's Corner, a butcher, He was driving home alone and at a lonely spot on the road noticed a man lying in the ditch. The man said he was a farmer and that his horses had run away and thrown him out of the wagon, hurting him so badly that he was not able to get up. He begged Hess to help him. As Hess bent over to do as requested some one dealt him a terrible blow across the back of the neck. He did not know anything after that until he woke up and found that he had been robbed of $168, the proceeds of the load of meat he had sold on the market. Dime Novel Robbery

"Hadn't sprinted since I was a boy and thought I had forgotten how to do it." remarked Ex-Ald. You see my horse got scared at an automobile and you see I had to catch it. He seemed to know he was getting away and started like my friend John White, gets away at the starting game in a race. I was after him, however, and I stepped lively for about 25 yards and caught the horse. Had it been any further I couldn't have gone the distance. Twenty-five yards is my limit. It was Saturday morning as I said and King Street was lined with rigs. Had the runaway hose caught my limit had the runaway hose caught have been serious and I just had to catch that steed of mine." #### MATTER OF DIVORCE

"There has been more disagreement "There has been more disagreement between husbands and wives during the past month than I have ever known of before," remarked Judge Houston this morning. "It is something terrible the number who are having differences—and that is putting it very mildly. Why in one afternoon I had no less than seven wives consult me in regard to their husbands. Liquor and another woman are the general causes, but there are others. Desertion is by no means the least frequent reason assigned. Of course the men are not always to blame, but the fault is theirs in a good many instances.

of course the men are not always to blame, but the fault is theirs in a good many instances.

"Do you think that an easier divorce law would be beneficial?" the Judge was asked.

"In individual cases," replied Mr. Houston, "I think that it would, but an easy divorce law is a curse to a country as a whole. There are cases where a divorce is the only possible remedy, and the price in Canada puts the divorce out of the question, but to assist a few the good of the whole community must not, be sacrificed. In Detroit an average, of twelve divorces per week are granted all the year round, but there are other places where divorces can be obtained much more readily even in the State of Michigan. This was brought to places where divorces can be obtained much more readily even in the State of Michigan. This was brought to my notice some time ago. A man got into a little trouble with his neighbors and went to Michigan. He had done nothing serious—nothing that he could not easily have settled. In three years all the word his wife had from him was one letter advising her to sell the household effects and pay the debts. At the end of three years he applied for a divorce and the papers were served here. The grounds alleged were desertion. The wife was surprised. For her, I wrote to a firm of American solicitors asking them to contest the suit. I stated the facts, namely, the departure of the man and the fact that there had been no quarrell between husband and wife. The solicitors wrote back advising that the suit be not contested. They said that the wife might as well keep her money as she had no chance. The curies of the Judge as soon as he heard the wife's story would grant the divorce to her on the ground that she was better off without a husband who would leave her like that. The husband didn't care how the divorce awas granted so long as he got it and the wife might just as well keep her money."

MRS. MARY WOOD SWIFT. President of the National Council of

Mrs. Mary Wood Swift of California, president of the National Council of Women of America, is an exceptionally brilliant woman of executive ability. of fine presence and large social fol-lowing in San Francisco, where she is prominent in club and patriotic society life. She is widely known among the

Daughters of the American Revolution

as the able state regent of California and the representative of that state on the national board in Washington.

MRS. MARY WOOD SWIFT.

Mrs. Swift is the widow of John F. Swift, who represented the United States in Japan, where they spent many years. Her husband's death many years. Her husband's death leaving Mrs. Swift with a large fortune and no necessity for labor as a means of livelihood, she turned to public work for occupation and solace. Mrs. Swift belongs to the Colonial Dames and the Society of the Mayflower. She was president of the State Suffrage association for several years and was an active worker and large contributor in the campaign for a constitutional amendment in 1896. As president of the Century club and various other societies in San Francisco she has wielded a strong influence, while her many private benefactions have earned for her the warmest appreciation. Her home is a social center and is filled with beautiful souvenirs of her travels.

Mother's Vacation. We say everybody ought to have a vacation. No one tries to excuse this necessity. Almost every one has at some time experienced its benefits. It is not uncommon to hear that some radical change of surroundings and occupation has brought back strength supposed to be lost forever or even cured what seemed a mortal disease. But those who need this change the most are the very ones who are unable to expect such a thing, much less

The more responsible the occupation the more constant is the personal attention and the more sure the consequent physical exhaustion and mental strain. Love for one's occupation lightens work, but it very frequently defers the necessary rest. It should be made imperative that those people who have the greatest responsibilities should include a vacation in their plans for each year.

It is unnecessary to prove that a mother holds the most responsible of all positions.-Boston Cooking Maga-

for a woman of taste, and it may be quite charming and elegant without losing its useful character. There was a time when there was little choice between the frivolous peignoir and the uncompromisingly hideous or gaudy striped garment, but in these days of beautiful and inexpensive fabrics there is no excuse for any one to wear unbe-coming colors. "Something serviceable" means to many people chiefly an absence of color. A deep rich shade, however, looks clean and fresh much longer than a nondescript or dingy hue. The prevailing color of the bcd-room should be taken into consideration when choosing a dressing gown. It is no more trouble to choose the right shade and secure a harmony in your room. A simple gown of fine serge or amazon cloth with a border of galloon is pretty and is very easily

Eyebrows and Lashes. Smooth, glossy eyebrows and long, dark lashes add wonderfully to the beauty of a face, and women should care for these necessary adjuncts to their good looks. If the brows are thin and ill formed, rub pure grease or vase-line on them at night, bathing them carefully in cold water in the morning and then putting on a little petroleum. Never brush or rub the brows the wrong way. Brush them daily with a small eyebrow brush, but do not get into the habit of "rubbing." It will roughen and break the hairs. If the eyes are tired and burn, rest them and bathe them in the following available. bathe them in the following excellent, yet simple, wash: To a quart of soft boiled water add a tablespoonful of the best brandy and a teaspoonful of salt. Have your sleeping room per-fectly dark, and do not place the bed in such a position that the early morn-ing sunlight will shine in the eyes.

Few housewives understand the art is broiling, and consequently chops and well, cate flavor by frying in a pan. A steak or chop properly broiled should have a thin, well browned crust. Beyond this crust the meat should be red and juicy, hardly a shade less done in the middle than near the surface. If the broiling is to be done on a range have the fire very bright and clear. Open every draft that smoke and flame may be drawn up the chimney. Place the piece of meat in the double broiler and hold it as near the coals as possible until the surface is brown, turning frequently. It will take three or four minutes for this. Now raise the broiler several inches above the bed of coals and continue the cooking until the ment is done. The broiler must be turned often. A good rule is to count ten slowly, then turn the broiler. A steak or chop, cut a little more than an inch thick, will cook nicely in ten minutes

If liked well done, it should be cooked for twelve minutes.

The House Carpets.

The lasting qualities of your ne carpet will be increased if the ends of each breadth are properly stayed before sewing the breadths together Use a fine short darning needle and stout linen thread; begin at the edge. take three stitches straight down into the breadth as if you were going to darn it, then the same number of stitches back in a slanting direction to the edge, bringing the thread over it and running the needle through the carpet from the underside. Repeat this combination darning and overcasting across the breadth and fasten he thread very securely. Finished in this way the semiannual hesting will have no bad effects on the ends of the carpet, as is usually the case when they are simply overcast, or, worse yet, left unfinished.

The Cellar.

There is no part of the house that more needs thorough cleaning than the cellar. Gases and bad air from it permeate the whole house. If you don't believe it, spill an ounce of peppermint or valerian on the cellar floor and see how soon you can smell it in the attic. The walls should be whitewashed once a year at the least. No stale vegetables, no sour beef or pork brine, no old rotten wood is permissible in the healthy cellar. To absorb the damp-ness and keep the air sweet and dry it is a good plan to keep chloride of lime in the cellar, renewing it every three months.

Emergency Night Light. If you unexpectedly happen to want a night light and have not one in the house, make one for yourself. It is easily done with a little salad or colza oil, a tumbler and a bit of cotton wool. Make a float by taking a piece of cotton wool about the size of a penny and twisting up a little bit in the center to form a wick. Then take a tumbler, fill it two-thirds up with water and pour one-third of the oil on the top. Place your cotton woel float on the oil, light its wick and you will have a satisfactory substitute for the ordinary night light.

The Bath Apron.

Mothers and nurses should provide themselves with a special apron for use when bathing the children. An excellent apron, as long and wide as you like, may be made of white Turkish toweling gathered into a band at the waist and buttoned at the back. When once the convenience of this apron has been proved its owner would be sorry to be without it.

Cooking Fish.

If fish is served frequently keep a dish especially for cooking it, as the odor will permeate any vessel in which it is cooked. The odor of fish can be removed from the dish in which it has een cooked by boiling a heaping teaspoonful of baking soda in the pan. If a trace of the odor still remains rub the entire surface with a freshly cut

Goatskin Rugs,

Don't buy white or gray goatskin rugs. It is almost impossible to keep moths out of them. Once the moths are in them the rugs are a nuisance, the hairs flying everywhere. Those dyed black seem immune from moths and may be used with some sense of security that they will not become preeding places for moths.

After sweeping the carpet rub it over with a cloth wrung out in vinegar and water, and if possible do not let it be walked upon until it is dry. The quantity of vinegar is a teacupful to a pail of warm water, and this treatment often has a wonderfully good effect in reviving the faded color of an old car-

Artificiality In the Face. Artificial eyelashes and eyebrows are now worn by countless people in so-ciety as well as on the stage. It is impossible to tell they are not real. These little additions will often transform a plain woman into a pretty one.-On-

Do not allow white kid gloves to be come too much solled before having them cleaned. They have to be rub-bed so hard to remove the soil that the kid becomes roughened and stiff.

Butter will remove almost any kind of stain except an ink stain. Rub it into the stain; then wash quickly in hot water with a fine soap.

ISLAND OF ANTICOSTI

NEW SCENE OF SALVATION ARMY COLONIZING SCHEME.

Army Has Already Several Colonies, But This One Will Probably Be the Most Unique of All-How It Seeks to Eliminate the Trinity of Waste From Its Enterprises-The Island's Reparation.

Recently the Salvation Army has given surprising evidence of growth and expansion. The evidence is sup-plied by the announcement that Gen-eral Booth has about completed arrangements for the purchase of the Island of Anticosti. Menier, the chocolate king, is sick of his bargain. Some years ago he bought this barren island for $150,000, and since then has spent a couple of million dollars on its improvement. It has dollars on its improvement. It has proved a most unsatisfactory investment, however, and once M. Menier discovered, to his chagrin, that his possession of such a large territory conferred on him no royal privileges, the joys of ownership departed, and now he is willing to be relieved of his bargain. The money which will change hands when the deal is completed will represent not more than pleted will represent not more than pleted will represent not more than a fifth, perhaps, of M. Menier's outlay. He will take what he can get, and gladly relinquish the role of Canadian Jacques Lebaudy. Farm Colony at Hadleigh.

Just what the Salvation Army intends to do with this island has not been announced, but one is justified in assuming that its 5,400 square miles will be divided into farms, the whole to form a gigantic colony where the Army will work out its social and exponent theories on the second of the social and exponent theories on the second of the social and exponent theories on the second of the se its social and economic theories on a lts social and economic theories on a larger scale than has been possible heretofore. At the present time there are several Salvation Army colonies in America and the British Isles, the most important of them being Hadleigh Farm, on the Nore. Several years ago General Booth established this farm as a partial solution, of this farm as a partial solution of the problem to which his life has been dedicated. The farm differs from the great farms which we anticipate on Anticosti, in that it is merely a training school for intend-ing emigrants. Human waifs and strays picked up in London are des-patched to the farm to work at one of a dozen trades which they of a dozen trades which they may learn there, or to fit themselves for making a new start overseas. Hundreds of Hadleigh Farm graduates have come to Canada, and are today useful citizens. The Trinity of Waste

The economic idea of the Salvation Army in its colonizing schemes was aptly expressed by Frederick de L. Booth-Tucker in a magazine article some years ago. He said: "The Salvation Army's method of dealing with the unemployed is to place with the unemployed is to place waste labor on waste land by means of waste capital, thus combining the trinity of waste, the separation of which means the destruction of each the co-operation of which means the prosperity of all." In Anticosti the Salvation Army will find a large and Salvation Army will find a large and comprehensive assortment of waste land, and London will supply enough waste labor to make it blossom like the rose. There remains to be found the waste capital. Lack of capital the Salvation Army has always struggled against, and it has always on at least a partial victory. If it could not get a dollar, it would take a dime, and, if need be, could find use for a penny. We do not expect to see the Anticosti project fail through lack of funds. We believe that if the Army had M. Menier's resources and opportunities it would that if the Army had M. Menier's resources and opportunities it would by this time have made Anticosti a fairly populous province. Anticosti is described as a sterile and inhospitable rock, but it is no more inhospitable than was the Salt Lake district when settled by Brigham Young and his Mormon followers seventy years ago. The Salvation Army is capable of performing on Anticosti the Mormon miracle in Utah. Utah.

Army Is Self-Supporting

most important feature great work done by the Army is that it is practically self-supporting. Those who are helped are obliged to pay for this help in labor. They truly work out their own salvation. For example, in 1896 an average of 5,000 people a day were maintained in London at a cost of $493,000. Of this sum $470,000 was received for this sum $470,000 was received for the product of their labor. This is better than charity. A secret of the wonderful method which accomplishes such results is that the work of the Army itself is given for almost nothing. General Booth draws only his traveling expenses from the funds and has paid in thousands of pounds. His son Bramwell draws the largest salary paid, $1,000. It has been estimated by business men that his services are worth $20,000 a year. Another Booth gave up an income of $6,000 to work for the Army. He gets a few dollars a week.

The Island's Reparation.

The Island's Reparation.

The Island's Reparation.

Looking at the wonderful results actived by the Army in every part of the world where its standard has been raised, there is every reason to believe that if General Booth and M. Menier conclude their negotiations satisfactorily, the future of Anticosti is assured. Be its soil never so sterile, its approaches never so menacing, men who are working not alone for their bodily needs, but for their moral salvation, will wrest from this reluctant land that for which they seek. It is a happy destiny for Anticosti to be thus conquered and made to bear the yoke of crop and harvest. The island which has been the scene of religious persecution and class intolerance is to aid the one great spiritual organipersecution and class intolerance is to aid the one great spiritual organization in the world which is no respecter of persons, nor regards any man's professed religion. To make reparation for the wrecks which have strewn her iron coast, Anticosti will receive with joy the thousands of human wrecks which will find safe terbor there.

WORLD'S OLDEST POEMS

TREASURES OF ASSYRIAN DEPART-MENT OF BRITISH MUSEUM.

Cannot Be of Later Date Than 2,500 B.C., and Possibly Very Much Earlier-Folk Songs Which Were For Centuries Before Transmitted to Posterity in Oral Form -Translation of Archaio Script.

Among the treasures of the Assyrian Department of the British Museum are some broken fragments of yellowish clay, inscribed with of yellowish clay, inscribed with strangely archaic characters, yet which are entitled to an important place in the history of literature. Broken and time-worn as these potsherds are, they transmit to us fragments (unfortunately) of what are undoubtedly the oldest poems in the world. The style of writing, a modification of the old archaic script and cation of the old archaic script and the careful division of each couplet, shows that the texts cannot be of later date than 2500 B.C., and possibly very much earlier. songs, which probably were transmitted in oral form centuries before were committed to writing. they were committed to writing. There are portions of at least four poems dealing with popular legends, and, fortunately, the opening lines of the first poem are well preserved.

The translation is as follows:
I will sing the song of the Lady of the Gods,
Attend, O friend, give ear, O warrior,
The song of the goddess Mania is better than honey or wine,
Better than honey or wine,
Better than fresh-gathered fruit,
Better than pure cram,

Better than pure cream, Better than fresh-gathered fruit.

How redolent of the Orient is this praise of wine and milk and honey from the lips of this old Chaldean bard centuries before the days of bard centuries before the days of Hafiz or Omar Khaayam. The god-dess who gave birth to seven royal and heroic sons, who figure in many of the legends. Many of the frag-ments are too broken to admit of a ments are too broken to admit of a connected translation. The next fragment is part of the last column of this first poem and relates to a terrible flood which each year swapt over the land, It reads "there he established destruction, and flood forcely each year has paying aut." established destruction, and flood fiercely each year he poured out." This terrible annual deluge could not be stopped until one of the gods built a dam across the Tigris, for it says: "The Tigris with a dam of copper the bolt of the Tigris he closed." A very pretty little fragment, describing the blessings granted to a pious king, is, however, complete:

Thou shalt hear his prayers.
Fertility shall rain upon his land.
Each year thou wilt turn away his fate (death).
All his land shall kiss his feet,
When in a warlike manner he sets forth Terror marches before him. On his approach Every fand bows down at his feet.

The other fragments are too muti-lated to admit of translation, but lated to admit of translation, but one curious passage may be noted in which it is said that Isum, the fever god, who was the child of the 'Sun God and Nin Su, was left in the gutter of the street, which seems to show that the Bubylonians had some idea of the fact that fever was generated by decaying matter in the gutter and the solar heat.

Color and Warmth. The color of materials has some influence on the warmth of the clothing. Black and blue absorb heat freely from without, but white and light shades of yellow, etc., are far less absorbent. This difference can less absorbent. This difference be demonstrated by experiment. The same material, when dyed with difference can be demonstrated by experiment.

same material, when dyed with different colors will absorb different amounts of heat. In hot countries white coverings are universally worn, and sailors and others wear white clothing in hot weather.

With regard, however, to heat given off from the hody, the color of the materials used as clothing makes lietle if any difference. Red flannel is popularly supposed to be warm, though it is no better in this respect than similar materials of equal substance, but white or gray in color. Dark clothing is best for cold weather, because it more freely absorbs any heat that is obtainable.—Fortnightly Review.

Had Performed His Part. Sir William Russell, who was a British war correspondent in the United States at the time of the United States at the time of the Civil war, says he met a northern volunteer about two miles from the field while a battle was still going on, but the man was going away from the fight, and he stopped to ask what news there was. Russell asked, "Why are you not up at the front?" The man answered, "I have fired away seventy-two rounds of ball ammunition, and if my general cannot win the battle on that I am not going to stay till he can."

VIGOR OF WESTERN LIFE. Phenomenal Increase in Vancouver's Pep lation Within Two Years.

The rapid increase of the city of Vancouver during the past two years, and the rate at which building operations are proceeding in every available direction are noteworthy facts, writes Bernard Mc-Evoy in The Toronto Telegram. The population is now estimated by the civil officials at 36 000. The census civic officials at 36,000. The census civic officials at 36,000. The census of 1901 gave it as 26,196. As a consequence, although building has gone on with much vigor since 1901, the stress of population is so great that the boarding houses and hotels are all full, and it is almost impossible to rent any sort of a house. A friend of mine, wishful to obtain a dwell-break described wife, in two newsto rent any sort of a house. A friend of mine, wishful to obtain a dwelling, advertised twice, in two newspapers, the other day, and the only reply he got was from a man who had two rooms and a hen-walk to let, and that was about four miles from the city limits. The house agents either great house agents either great house agents either great house agents. errom the city limits. The nouse ag-ents either greet home-seekers with a broad smile, or escape by the back door when they see them coming. To build, therefore, is the only way for people to get a roof over their heads, and under these circumstances, not only are the contractors full of or-ders, but the building and loan as-sociations are doing a rushing busi-ness. This will go on until the law ness. This will go of thick the law of demand and supply has had time to work, when there will no doubt sometimes be a house with a "To Let" notice in the window. But the vigorous rush is simply a healthy development. It does not amount to

The difference between our climate here and yours in the east is shown by the fact that building has gone on here without cossation, except, per-haps, for a couple of days, right through the winter. The builders and contractors have worked under the pressure of customers with money to pend and no house to shelter them. A considerable number of them have come from Australia and New Zealand, finding conditions there scarco-ly to their minds. There has also been a sensible influx from Manitoba and the Northwest Territories of far-mers who have made money and who mers who have made miney and who are willing to put up with the prevailing wetness of the B. C. winter for the sake of its comparatively high thermometer. These newcomers are also well-to-do. One Australian is building fifty houses, the rental of which will average $25 to $30 a

The speed with which houses are built in Vancouver might well astenish those accustomed to the slower and solider methods of the east. With the exception of the stone that is used for the foundations, the only materials employed are fir and cedar, with a small amount of fair-to-midding brick for chimneys. The two kinds of lumber mentioned are the kinds of lumber mentioned are the best in the world. The strength of Douglas fir is enormous. The only thing against it is that the turpentining resin will keep exuding from it to a greater extent for years. Otherwise it is an admirable building material. The great saw mills are working at it night and day. As for cedar, its workability and durability make it a fine wood for interbility make it a fine wood for inter nal fittings. The lumber is prepared to such an extent at the mills that the store-rooms of these immense enterprises make every visitor who has the constructive bump at all developed, long to begin building hous-

There are the main timbers, There are the main timbers, the foundation posts, the joists, the "scantlings." There are the windows, ready glazed, in all convenient sizes. There are the noble-turned colonial pillars for the verandah, the orramental cresting for the roof, the finial with which to surmount the gable. Doors of all kinds are there by the hundred; newel-posts, balusters, strir treads, "siding" or weather-boards to form the outside coating of the house. You see at ones that much of the work that was formerly done on the premises of the builder is now produced by the quicker agencies of machinery and steam.

Nearly all the vacant lots in Vancouver having been forest land fourteen or fifteen years ago, are still covered for the most part with teen or niteen years ago, are still covered for the most part with brushwood, and they also are dotted here and there with the stumps of giant pines and cedars. The first thing when a house is to be built, therefore, is to clear the lot, a work usually performed by Japs, who are surprisingly strong and patien'ly clever at it, and who charge an average price of from $30 to $50 rer lot of the standard measurement of 66 feet x 163 feet. The building lot being cleared, a small amount of excavation, rarely more than two feet deep, is done by means of an excavating shovel and team. The operation of clearing has probably exposed enough boulders to build the foundations with, and these are drilled by hand and split into useful sizes, elements of the standard with and these are drilled by hand and split into useful sizes, elements. enough boulders to build the founda-tions with, and these are drilled by hand and split into useful sizes, el-ther by means of steel wedges and water—after the drill has done its work—or a small charge of blasting powder. The masons build the foun-dation walls 18 inches thick, and two or three feet or less above the ground. The basement walls consist, therefore, of two or three feet verti-sal of stone and six or seven feet of cal of stone and six or seven feet of wood.

The quickness with which the skeleton of a house is erected on the stone foundation is marvellous. The roof is shingled, often in the second stone foundation is marvellous. The roof is shingled, often in the second week after operations have begun, and the house is soon ready for the plasterer, who work about twice as quickly as his prototype in Ontario. The working hours are from eight o'clock in the morning until five in the afternoon. Carpenters' wages are 40c. per hour, plasterers 45c., masons 60c, My observations lead me to the conclusion that the rate of speed at which work is done is very much greater here than anything I have seen in the east. It exceeds that of eastern Canada in about the same ratio as that of eastern Canada exceeds that of the Old Country. The designs of the houses are artistic and full of variety. There are homes here that in every way fill the requirements of people of taste.

As the eyes of a maiden look to the hand of her mistress, so do the reporters in the galleries study the countenance of the Prime Minister at the opening of each sitting, writes of her mistress, so do the at the opening of each sitting, writes the special Ottawa correspondent of The Toronto Star. Especially is this true of those whose location in the gallery prevents their seeing the faces of the members on the front rows of the Opposition benches. Sir Wilfrid is continually watching the Opposition, and his countenance in a measure reflects what he sees there, combined with his own attitude in measure reflects what he sees there, combined with his own attitude in view of what the Opposition is apparently going to do. When the Premier thinks, as the discuss on begins to shape itself, that the Opposition are not playing fair or that the member on the floor deserves a castigation or a sharp rebuff, his frame stiffens, and his brow grows black with coming thunder. The characteristic of this session has been the Premier's physical "fitness." been the Premier's physical "fitne There is no appeal for sympathy in his countenance or any movement or attitude. He is ready for whatever comes, and the man must have good nerves and thick skin who can see that tightening of the frame, that fiash of the eye, and gathering thun-der, and know that he is the cause der, and know that he is the cause of it, without shrinking just a little from the coming storm. As may be known to many. Sir Wilfrid is the deskmate of Sir William Mulock, while on his left sits Sir Richard Cartwright. As one or other of these Ministers is often out other of these Ministers is often out of the House, this leaves a vacant seat next the Premier, and, at other times, they accommodatingly move to an adjoining seat to give room for the Premier's visitors. When the House is in committee or when some subject is under discussion, say the Militia Bill, where another Minister is in charge, the Premier is comparatively free and members take advantage of the opportunity to press their views upon, or explain some matter to him. Sometimes it is Mr. Calvert, the chief Liberal Whip, alert, silent, and serious; upon whom the matter to him. Sometimes to him. Sometimes to him. Sometimes to seems to wear as much as upon anyone. Or it, may be Mr. Taylor, the Conservative Whip, though, as a rule, Mr. Taylor transacts his business "outside the counter," from in front of the Premier's desk. At rare intervals, when some matter of procedure is being arranged, Mr. Borden, the leader of the Opposition, sits down gingerly and essentially as a visitor at the desk he hopes some day to occupy as a matter of right. Of another kind is the visit of Mr. Jean Baptiste Morin, of Porchester, who has lived in the United States, and there learned to

When Mr. Bourassa turns the chair about and faces the Fremier, though his voice does not reach up to the gallery, the onlooker can almost imagine what he is talking about from his rapid and effective gesticulation. The Premier seems rather to like these visits, but, as a rule, he remains unconvinced.

These visits sometimes stretch out and the Minister seems to be arguing out some rather important point. Upon such an occasion when the Premier does not take the same view as his colleague, and say "No," the onlooker realizes how incomplete and erroneous is that view of Sir Wildelick represents him as a smiller erroneous is that view of SI white frid which represents him as a smiling jellyfish whose only skill is that of keeping the diverse elements in his Cabinet in harmony. DR. BATTISBY MADE PROTEST

Says Police Must Get Busy in Putting a Stop to Sunday Disturbances.

Gathering at St. Andrew's Yesterday Much Annoyed by Street Speeding of Horses.

All summer divine worship at St. Andrew's church has been disturbed either by shunting trains or by the speeding of horses on the brick pave-ment on William street. The pastor, Rev. Dr. Battisby, has born the in-terruptions patiently, but last night they came too frequently and the doctor was moved to speak about it forcibly.

doctor was moved to speak about it forcibly.

A week ago Sunday night a shunting train disturbed the evening service at St. Andrew's church. At that time the doctor said that he hoped that those in authority would endeavor to have this stopped in the future. future.

Last night it seemed that everyone who owned a last horse was speeding it down William street, and both worshippers and pastor were moved to resent this in so far as it interfered with the church service. The doors were closed but this afforded but little relief. After several interruptions Dr. Battisby paused in his sermon to say that if Chatham had a Chief of Police who could turn around quickly that the church wouldn't have half the bother with fast horses. He was sorry that the wouldn't have half the bother with fast horses. He was sorry that the pavement had been put down since it contributed to the disturbance of the service. People who owned fast horses, too, should have a little more consideration for others than to recklessly spoil the church service. Just because they didn't care to go to church was no reason why they should become a nuisance to others.

A prominent member of Jir Bat church was no reason why they should become a nuisance to others.

A prominent member of Dr. Battisby's church heartily endorsed the latter's protest this morning. He said that it was simply disgraceful the manner in which the service had been interfered with. The same cause of complaint could be registered against parties driving on the King street west navement. They were bestreet west navement. They were bestreet street west pavement. They were be coming a nuisance.

Entrance was secured to Mr. Brisco's store by prying a board off the back door. Who ever the thieves are they are not lacking in nerve. They secured four or five dolumers. theves are they are not lacking in nerve. They secured four or five dollars in money. The burglars also entered the store of Knight & Co. They secured admittance by breaking a glass in the door. They took some tobacco and a cent from the till, but the joke is all about the safe. They found this piece of jewelry open and after rumaging it and finding nothing they thought it ought to be locked, and lock it they did. Now the firm have forgotten the combination and will have to send it to Toronto to get an expert to open the safe.

A MIDNIGHT SHOT

Saturday night at midnight P. C. ames Dodson was standing on the James Dodson was standing on the Hotel Garner corner looking for crooks when he was somewhat startled to hear from above the Standard Bank remarks something like this, "put that gun down, you d— fool, put it down, etc." Two fellows were apparently disputing about a gun Shortly, afterwards the report of a apparently disputing about a gun. Snortly afterwards the report of a gun came from the room across on the opposite corner. The policeman hustened across expecting to find a murder. When he went up to the room he discovered the tenant sitting including a shot gun and his face was as white as a sheet. Jim expected every moment to stumble over the body of the other fellow. The man with the gun said that he had accidently discharged the gun but that he hadn't killed anybody. The charge had gone under the bed. The other fellow had gone home. To prove the latter statement the missing link put in an appearance at this time and verified his friend's statement. The policeman says that the shooter was so pale with fright that he couldn't tell whether he was under the influence or not, but there was no doubt about the second fellow. The shot lodged in the baseboard and bored a hole right through it. A shot gun at short range makes quite an impression. P. C. Dodson said that from the sound he thought that a cannon had been fired. McAllen had spent mearly eighteen years in the army as a dispenser, and in other positions in the Army Medical Service Corps and had seen service in South Africa, the rigors of the campaign there breaking down his health. having much enjoyed the brief respite the holiday afforded.

In an interview with The Planet to-day the Mayor chatted most entertainingly of the trip.

"Leaving by the Wabash on Tuesday inght." he said, "we disembarked at the main estrance and started right in sight-seeing early Wednesday morning.

"On Wednesday we visited the Manufacturers', the Liberal Arts, the mining, the Education and the United States Government buildings. The exhibits of all nations except Russia are very extensive. Canadians feel proud of their country wherever they go. Canada excels in the mines and agricultural buildings. Canada's mining exhibit is really the best of all, being a huge mantlepiece and fireside, artisucally designed and made in gold quartz. The space for the fire is covered by thick plate glass, behind which is a vauit containing $60,000 worth of gold dust and quartz in glass shelves and dishes. By clever arrangement electric light is thrown upon all in such a manner as to represent a fire glowing in the grate.

"On the second day we visited the various industries, also the electric, machinery and transportation buildings. We also saw the mummies and Queen's jubilee presents in the administration building, and tac Canadian beavers in the Fish, Forest and Game building. Mr. Goddard, who has charge of the Canadian exhibit, was tery courteous and kind throughout. In the horticulture building we met Mr. August Dupuis, the French gentleman who has charge of the Canadian fruit exhibit, who always accorded a warm welcome to Canadians.

"On Thursday afternoon we af-

"On Thursday afternoon we attended the reproduction of the Boer tended the reproduction of the Boor war,—a very thrilling, spectacular performance. Over 1,000 British and Boer soldiers take part and scenos from the principal battles are reproduced with great realism. There were 10,000 spectators and the Americans cheered heartily when a successful Boer manoeuvre was depicted. "A visit to The Pike was always enjoyed, as there are a myriad of things to interest. We dined each evening at the Inside Inn and did not find prices extortionate. Nice lodgings were obtainable for $1 per night and the Fair can be seen comportable in the second second control of the second control of
