ARE GIBLITSKIES' FRIENDS TRYING TO RESCUE THEM?

Two Mysterious Jews Come to Town and Prowl Around the Gaol at Night—Local Woman Terrified by the Men's Strange Actions

A number of strange men, who have been noticed around the city during the past few days, have by their actions caused considerable conjecture as to what their business is in this city. Different persons whom they have accosted, have been surprised and puzzled at the questions with which these men have plied them. As the men are apparently Polish Jews, and entire strangers in this city, some are inclined to think that they may be friends or accomplices of the Goblitskies, the New York fur thieves, who are at present locked up in the county jail. The strangers have not been noticed around a great deal during the day, but have been seen in different portions of the city in the evening. They appear to be endeavoring to get an idea of the layout of the city, and where the several streets lead to. Two of these men in particular have caused much wonderment. Both are dark, well-dressed, and appear well-to-do. A perusal of the hotel registers was made yesterday afternoon, but no Jewish names could be found in any of the books.

Wednesday night, a well-known local gentleman was accosted by two of these men on Tecumseh Park. They were well-dressed and spoke in a distinctly Jewish accent.

"Can you tell me where we will find Tecumseh Park?" the elder of the two asked.

He was told that he was standing in Tecumseh Park.

"No, it's not Tecumseh Park we want," quickly put in the younger man. "We want to find Victoria park."

This was apparently an unguarded remark on the part of the young man, as his friend frowned and motioned him to be quiet.

Next the elder man asked if there was a Jewish synagogue in Chatham. He was told there was not, whereat he evinced great surprise. He thought there must be one here somewhere, as wherever there were ten Jews, he said, there must always be a synagogue.

The next asked several questions about the layout of the city, wanting

LOOKS LIKE A RIVAL TO THE ILLINOIS OIL FIELD

A. J. Hogarth, an Experienced Oil Man Gives Lengthy Review of the Tilbury Oil Field—One of the Most Valuable Discoveries Ever Made in Oil

A. J. Hogarth, publisher of the Jeffersonian, of Findlay, Ohio, is an experienced oil man. He paid a visit to the Tilbury Field a short time ago, and this is what he says about the prospects for oil in this county: Chatham, Ont. July 20.—If the predictions of the oil men here now prove true, Canada will soon rival Illinois in the extent and value of her oil fields. Canada is a pioneer in the oil producing business, but until recently most of the production has been pumped from the shallow wells in the vicinity of Petrolia. Aside from Petrolia, there are a number of shallow pools in different parts of the Province of Ontario.

There has also been considerable gas discovered in Canada and at one time the city of Detroit was largely supplied with natural gas drawn from the Canadian fields, but these wells became exhausted several years ago. Buffalo now draws her supply from Canada, and it is said Theo. Barnsdall, who is interested in the Logan Gas Company of Ohio, is now promoting a mammoth gas deal in

GIVE DECISION NEXT WEEK

Railway Commission Will Pass Judgment on G.T.R. Crossing

ELECTRIC RY. DELAYED

A number of people have been inquiring lately as to why the City Council does not see to it that the C. W. & L. E. R. Co. should make the necessary repairs to the pavement on the various streets over which their tracks run in this city. The bricks between the tracks in some portions of the city have sunk quite a distance for the want of concreting and filling-in below.

A Planet reporter yesterday afternoon asked General Manager W. N. Warburton about the matter. It seems that the delay is caused wholly through the delay which the railway company have been subjected to the disputed William street crossing. Manager Warburton said that as soon as the commission made their finding, the work of construction would be at once re-commenced, and at the same time the concreting and repaving of the various city streets would be begun.

"All we are waiting for," said Mr. Warburton, "is the Railway Commission's finding, which we have been given to understand will be given out in two weeks time."

The material for the strengthening of Aberdeen bridge is expected to arrive in the city shortly, when the work on that structure will also be commenced.

NOT FOR MONEY

Sprinter J. W. White Will Not Run Foot Races For Monetary Gain

In reply to Mr. Roberts' challenge, which appeared in Thursday night's issue of The Planet, Mr. White sends the following letter:—

To the Editor of The Planet:

My position is:

1—Two yards ahead of Mr. H. Roberts, who ran 50 yards with me on Tecumseh Park on 21st inst., without shoes.

2—I do not blame Mr. Roberts for his second-hand "challenge," as perhaps he feels sore over the first race he ever lost as a fat man sprinter.

3—I will not run on a bet, or for money; but for my "sincere love for amateur sport."

4—I regard Mr. Roberts as a good-natured gentleman, and I am inclined to run him again, to give him a chance of reinstating himself to his record he had before he ran with me, but that record of "never beaten" in a fairly contested race, is mine.

Yours truly,

J. W. WHITE.

NOT JUST LIKE HIM.

And does your papa say grace at the table, too?

Yes, sir; but he doesn't say it like you, do.

What does he say?

He sits down and looks round and says, Good Lord, what a dinner.

A curate is not always accurate.

DETROIT DETECTIVE FORCE IS AFTER WIRE-TAPPERS

Young Men Operated From This City and Made a Haul of $45,000—St. Thomas is the Home of One of Them

Where are the wire tappers? This is the question which is bothering the members of the Detroit detective force, and from present appearances they will be rewarded for their energetic efforts to locate and arrest them. They have already found traces of them, and have a pretty good idea of where they are, and all that remains now is to find them, and produce enough evidence to convict them.

Chatham residents will remember that a few weeks ago, the press of the country was aroused by the news made by a number of wire tappers, who, it was afterwards found out, chose Chatham as their place of operation. A couple of young fellows made their appearance in the city and put up at the Rankin House. They told the people with whom they came in contact, that they were interested in some electrical experiments. They remained here two days. The first day they bought a number of electric batteries from Fred. H. Briscoe and hired a rig and drove out into the country. The next day they bought more and in all they purchased seventy-five batteries. After another mysterious drive in the country, they came back and told Mr. Briscoe that they were through with their experiments, and wanted him to take back the batteries. Fred took them back at a discount and the two men disappeared and have not been heard of since.

The day after the young men left Chatham the news was published abroad in all of the papers that the telegraph wires bearing the results of the Windsor races had been tapped and certain horses who were unsuccessful in the races were posted up in the pool rooms as winners. Stories were told how in nearly every instance there was one man who made a big haul, having picked the horse which had really lost but which had been posted up as successful. The wires had been tapped and the results were sent on to the pool rooms according to the way the tappers wished them to be sent, and the men who made the hauls were the agents

WELCOME SEVENGALA

If the advance sales are any criterion to go by, there is not the least doubt of what a crowded house will greet Sevengala at his opening performance Monday evening, July 30, at the Grand Opera House.

It is said that the exhibition given by this man surpasses anything of the kind that has ever been witnessed in this country. As a public entertainer he stands without an equal. The performances advertised are for laughing purposes, and from what we know of hypnotic exhibition, they are really funnier than any farce comedy or circus. The fun is genuine and not forced, and especially when the exhibition is given with local subjects. Sevengala selects all his subjects from his audience and does not have to depend upon confederates.

NOT QUITE.

He is almost entirely a self-made man.

Why, what do you mean by almost entirely?

Oh, well, you see that bare spot on his head? That they say, is the "work" of his dear wife.

WANTED A NEW ONE.

She (crying)—You don't seem to love me any longer.

He—But I simply adore you.

She—No, no; one cannot love a woman so poorly dressed as I am.

WHO PAYS FOR THE FOOTWEAR?

A Hamilton Shoe Firm Has Struck on A Profitable Business

$4. SHOES FOR 25 CENTS

Several Chatham people may be seen just now enthusiastically buttonholing their friends in private and public places to expound with pellucid clearness the knotty little scheme concocted by a smart advertising manager, connected with a Hamilton shoe supply company.

Never, since a bright newspaper man invented the famous problem of "How Old is Anne?" has such an infinite wealth of ingenuity been stored up in a few innocent looking lines of cold print. The scheme, on the face of it, looks more like a New Year resolution of a wealthy philanthropist than a means to advertise and finally dispose of fairly expensive footwear. Here it is:—

One man comes to the city with a book containing four tickets, each ticket being valued at the modest sum of 25 cents. This man sells the four tickets at that price, receiving $1 for the four. Now, if the four purchasers of these tickets, each ticket being valued at the modest sum of 25 cents, the first man receives a pair of $4 shoes. If every one who receives a book of tickets sell their four tickets for 25 cents to four people who will send their ticket and $1 to the firm, they receive a four dollar pair of shoes. Beautiful, isn't it? But the reader who is thinking, says, "Hold on, go over that again."

To recite briefly the scheme: let us say that every man who receives a book of tickets and sells each one for 25 cents, thus receiving the price he paid for the book and only being out of pocket 25 cents, receives a $4 pair of shoes for the total outlay of the latter sum and the people whom he persuaded into starting out on the game carry the thing along until everybody is selling everybody tickets and—

Never mind the rest. How does the manufacturer make out? He receives $4, full price, for each pair of shoes and has a lot of enthusiastic people helping him to put a big balance on the right side of his bank account. Of course, it must not be forgotten, since every one who who gets shoes only pay 25 cents for the pair some one or some people are kindly contributing the remaining $3.75.

The man who invented the scheme should get a raise of salary, the shoe manufacturer should get a good thing out of it if the public continue to work it up.

STILL IN GAOL

In the Windsor news in this morning's Detroit Free Press an item appears stating that "David Kovinski, who was arrested on the charge of stealing furs, has been released from custody on furnishing $10,000 bail." If this item has reference to Sam Kovinski, it is incorrect, as he is still in gaol.

PLAYING IN WINDSOR

The All Kent football team and a number of their supporters left on the 1.25 Wabash train for Windsor to-day, where they will play off the final of the Walker Cup competition with St. Andrew's, of Detroit, on the ground of the Windsor Thistles.

The last game between the two teams ended in a protest being made by the Detroiters and the officials ordered a re-play. The locals are confident of capturing the trophy, as they must be defeated by a score of four goals to nil to lose it, and their two previous encounters with the St. Andrew's bunch registers all possible doubt as to their ability to win. The team which is playing to-day is a strong one, the line-up being as follows:—

Goal—French.

Backs—C. Langford and Pugh.

Halves—Jenks, Coulter and Bannie.

Forwards—McKe 21, Peck, Newby, Parrott and Ed. Jenks.

WANTED A NEW ONE.

She (crying)—You don't seem to love me any longer.

He—But I simply adore you.

She—No, no; one cannot love a woman so poorly dressed as I am.

LOOKS LIKE A RIVAL TO THE ILLINOIS OIL FIELDS

for in that field. Both Mr. Miller and Mr. Bowley profited by their knowledge, and being early on the ground, secured some very good holdings which have already cleaned them up considerable money and will make them a great deal more.

Up to date 27 wells have been completed within a radius of two miles and twenty-five more are drilling within a radius of four miles. The farthest well from production is being drilled near Frazer siding, by Roth, Argue & Co. of Lima, and is about five miles to the north of any producing well. Land in between it and production has been selling at from $1,000 to $5,000 bonus for being drilled are lots. Another well is being drilled in about two miles northeast of production and will test a large block of territory in that direction. Both wells have just been started and it will be another month before the operators will know for sure whether they have struck a pool.

So far, the field has been considerably over-rated. But few of the wells have ever been pumped, so that their staying powers have never been tested. The production has been held back considerably owing to the fact that there has been no pipe line to market the crude oil. However, this defect is being remedied now as the Standard has laid a line from Merlin into the heart of the field. Many of the wells have already been only a matter of a few days until they will be marketing their oil through a pipe line instead of hauling it to the railway station, a distance of four miles. About this time a drop in the price may also be expected. The total production of the 27 wells at present will not exceed 500 barrels. This amount may be increased when the pipe line connections are made and the wells are pumped regularly. It must also be remembered that only a few of them have been pumped and also only about half of them shot.

There is a diversity of opinion in regard to the direction the wells are supposed to extend. Most of those who have been on the ground and all the old-timers are playing it to the north and south, while most of the "tenderfeet" and men from Ohio and Indiana think that it is simply a continuation of the Ohio and Indiana fields, looking up under Lake Erie, and they are playing it north-east and southwest. They back up their theory with the map and show you the pool near the lake at Leamington, then at Wheatley, then Thamesville, and finally Bothwell. They say that it first starts in deep at Leamington and gradually works to the northeast where it comes up near the surface at Thamesville and Bothwell, similar to the Illinois field. They look for it eventually to be connected up all the way and think a deep well would be found at Petrolia, Thamesville and Bothwell if somebody had the nerve to put down a deep test well.

There is also considerable difference of opinion in regard to the formation of the rock in which the oil is found. Some claim that it is Trenton, while the majority of them are very positive that it is the Niagara formation. Whatever it is, it looks very much like the Trenton. It takes about 80 days on the average for a contractor to complete a well. The driller first encounters about 110 feet of muck, clay and drift, with some gravel, and then a case off for 110 feet with ten inch pipe. For the next 100 feet there is a soft soapstone. This formation is cased off to a depth of 250 feet from the surface, with 8-14 inch pipe of a very light weight. At 250 feet a hard limestone is reached, which continues until the pay sand is struck. At about 525 feet blue lias water is encountered. About the blue lias, of course, is the fresh water. These waters are cased off with a third string to a depth of 300 feet, the pipe used being 5.5 or 6.14. The limestone formation is very hard and the drilling necessarily slow. The Niagara is reached at about 1,350 feet and a heavy flow of gas is encountered at about 1,265 feet. In most of the wells three pays are encountered, one at approximately 1,285, another at 1,420 and the third at 1,430, although some of the drillers say that the entire distance of 1,430 feet is all oil bearing rock. When the first pay is struck the wells usually fill up over the tools. The second pay they usually fill up about to the casing and at the third pay they generally fill up to the third pay. The first pay may be missed and the second and third tapped. In some the first and second are missed and only the third found. Some may have one and not the others, but in most of them the three pays will be found. It is also a remarkable fact that out of the 27 wells drilled in the new field there has not been a single duster. All are producers averaging from 10 barrels up to 100.

The rock seems to rise to the surface at the field develops to the north. In a distance of about ten feet there is a difference of about ten feet. At the south edge of the field it requires 110 feet of drive pipe and at the north edge only 100. The total depth of the wells will average 1,440 feet. At Leamington they are about 1,200 and at Wheatley 1,300. At Petrolia they are from 300 to 400 and in other shallow fields they are of even a less depth.

So far as the surface formation of the earth is concerned, it looks very much like Wood and Hancock counties, in Ohio. If a citizen of Hancock county were to fall asleep in Hancock county, and wake up near Chatham without knowing it, he might imagine himself in Ohio.

About seven years ago a shallow well was drilled about eight miles southeast of Chatham, which was known as the "gusher." For several days it produced at the rate of several thousand barrels a day and then all at once it shut off. Other wells were drilled within a few feet of it and a great number in that vicinity, but no one ever succeeded in getting any oil in paying quantities near the big well. Territory all around this old well has been leased and a deep test will be drilled, the theory being that the oil in the gusher was forced up through a crevice in the rock by a heavy pressure of gas from below.

The new field is already beginning to attract oil men from all sections of the country. The Wellsville, N. Y., crowd seems to be most in evidence. They have been handing out the most money for the big bonuses. The $2 a barrel price and the one-eighth royalty is what makes the proposition so attractive.

As yet the field is not overworked. In securing contractors and there is also a steady demand for the drillers, tool-dressers, rig builders and teamsters. Two rival glycerine men were on the ground this week and at least one of them has succeeded in interesting enough capital to start a torpedo factory.

For the amount of pay sand the wells are being treated with very light doses of glycerine. The average shot is about 100 quarts and 150 quarts is considered a very heavy shot. When the thickness of the sand is taken into consideration this should be considered a very light shot in the Trenton fields. Prices of all kinds are very high. Drilling is one dollar per foot and the glycerine men charge two dollars a quart for shooting a well. These prices will have to be shaded if the development reaches the proportions of a new field, as competition will then become greater.

At present Chatham is the best located town in the Dominion to reap the benefits from the new oil industry. It looks as though the new development, if it amounts to anything at all, will completely encircle the town. If so it means a wonderful growth for Chatham within the next few years. It is already a town of about 10,000 or 12,000, and is substantially built and well situated. The people are now just about to vote on a proposition to bond the town for $75,000 for a bonus to secure a sugar beet factory. If the voters are wise they will vote this proposition down and save their money to promote oil industries. Chatham should have a number of good shops for the manufacture of oil well supplies. She should have supply stores and glycerine factories. But above all she should have a refinery which will develop the oil into gasoline and kerosene. It would bring millions of additional dollars to the city and would make Chatham one of the best towns in Ontario.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

(Supplied to The Planet by Press Agents.)

At the Chatham Grand—
Sevengala—July 30-Aug. 4.

A GOOD LAUGH AIDS DIGESTION.

So it is said by the leading physicians of the world, and if such is the case, no one should suffer from this ailment during the week, commencing Monday, July 30, as Sevengala, the King of Funmakers, is booked to appear at the Grand Opera House, and it is said that there is more genuine laughter at one of his performances in one minute than you can find in any circus or farce comedy. Hypnotism is an undisputed science, and as a practical demonstrator or operator, it is said that Sevengala stands without an equal. He is not a travelling magician or fakir, he is a graduate of the following colleges: New York Institute of Physicians and Surgeons, New York Institute of Science and Pennsylvania College of Science and Art, Philadelphia. This ought to be a sufficient guarantee that his work is legitimate. He does not carry a company of subjects, as many so-called hypnotists do, but selects his subjects from those who volunteer from the audience. When he gets a person under the influence he does not take advantage of them and hold them up to ridicule in the eyes of the friends and the public.

Another feature of his entertainments is a marvelous test which he designates as The Transmission by Telepathy, which has to be seen to be appreciated. It is said to border on the occult, and Sevengala has just finished successful engagements of fourteen weeks at the New York Theatre, and two weeks at the Eden Musee (The World in Wax), 23rd St., New York City; also two weeks at the Grand Opera House, Philadelphia, and ten weeks at Euclid Beach, Cleveland, Ohio. Manager Brisco should be congratulated on securing the above attraction. The prices are within the reach of all, 20, 30 and 40 cents. Ladies' bargain tickets to the number of three hundred will be issued for the opening performance.

GOOD ROADS.

The subject of good roads is always a live one, especially in this county where there is so much need for more attention towards the betterment of the public highways and thoroughfares. This matter has been sadly neglected of late, notwithstanding the inducements offered by the Ontario Government in the way of grants. The Municipal World has the following advice to offer to municipalities where roadwork is needed:

"The repair of roads is as important as their construction. Neglect to keep the roads in repair, failure to repair them when repair is first needed, adds very much to the cost of roads. A good road which is not kept in repair very quickly becomes a bad road and the object of the original expenditure is thus lost. To allow roads to degenerate for want of repair, means an immense waste of labor, material and money, which has to be made up in their construction. Whenever good roads are made arrangements should be made for a careful attention to their repair."

THE ONTARIO FARMER.

While the press of this country is continually shouting for the young man to go west, let us not forget the old man at home. We heartily join in the chorus of the times, "Young man, go west!" Now, let us look to the old man, in old Ontario. He is not doing much hollering neither one way nor the other, just simply peering away and a kind Providence is smiling down upon him, bestowing bountiful harvests, and incidentally, lifting the heavy old mortgage that has weighted him down for years. To his more fortunate neighbor who has not been burdened in this way, old Ontario is pouring forth her goodness with a bountiful hand, and our rural friend, who is our best friend, is erecting a handsome home for his old days, or if he already possesses such, the addition of another 100-acre plot is being added to his domain for the grown-up son who remained at home, and in some rare instances the prospective son-in-law. The present year gives every promise of a bumper year for the Ontario farmer.—Haldimand Banner.

CANADIANS IN THE STATES.

The Montreal Gazette, lagdiscussing the remarkable advancement of Canadians in the United States, gave utterance to the following:—"An article on 'Canadians in the United States' in the current issue of Munsey's magazine, bears flattering testimony to the value of our expatriated countrymen in the population of the Republic. Still more worthy of attention is an article on the same subject in the last number of the 'Political Science Quarterly.' It has been generally asserted that there are some two million Canadians in the United States, the last census takes note of only 819,264 of the age of ten years and over. According to the 'Quarterly,' forty per cent. of these are engaged in manufacturing, thirty per cent. in personal service, between seventeen and eighteen per cent. in trade and transportation, about the same percentage in agriculture, and somewhat over four per cent. in the professions. The percentage in the professions is approximately the same as that of the native born white population in the United States. The 'Quarterly' writer thinks it rather curious that so many Canadians should occupy high positions in the United States as teachers, college professors and clergymen. 'Munsey's' gives a brilliant list of names, not only in these lines, but in railway and other active pursuits. Particularly remarkable is the number of Canadians as government officials, soldiers and marines, also the great number of Canadian girls of a superior class who have gone to the United States as nurses. Rumor has it that many of these are enumerated as Americans from northern New York. That Canadians as a class have won for themselves an enviable position is shown by 'Who's Who in

VERY STRANGE.

The corn has ears and cannot hear; The corn has eyes, but cannot see; Which state of things is rather queer, Or that's the way it seems to me.

The melon has a tender heart, But still he does not love, they say; The onion's skin will never smart, Although it has been built that way.

The cabbage has a giant head, But still he lacks a bit of brains; And though the squash's neck is red, From wearing collars it refrains.

The bamboo always sports a cane; The oak has limbs, but never walks; The willow weeps, 'tis plain; How strange the tulip never talks!

The pickle has no hands, but still Has warts to spare; I understand, The trumpet flower must think it ill She cannot join a circus band.

The barley has a beard, and yet A barber shop he never seeks; And here I say it with regret, No kisses press the apple's cheeks.

The blades of grass I do not fear; The rubber plant can never see; Which state of things is rather queer, Or that's the way it seems to me.

AROUND THE HOUSE.

Only an apple blossom, Only a hammock small; Only a glint of sunshine, Across the old stone wall.

Only a strain of music, From the bough above my head; The birds, the boughs, and the blossoms, And a shower of pearl and red.

Only a baby laughing, As she tripped across the lawn; Her heart was full and joyous, As she carolled a happy song.

Only a face at the window, Watching for me adored; Only a step on the threshold, And the greeting is assured.

Links in the chain of being; Symbols of Love Divine; Glimpses of hidden meaning, Between God's thought and mine.

CHEAPER WITH AGE. I want to get a birthday present for my husband. How long are you married? Nine years. Bargain counter is in the basement.

TOWNSHIP COUNCILS

RALEIGH COUNCIL.

The above council met as Court of Revision on the 4th concession road on the 23rd day of July with all members present.

The necessary oaths were subscribed to and filed with the Clerk. An appeal signed by a majority of the persons assessed for the road, setting forth that the township is not assuming a fair share of the total cost of the road, was received.

After the parties were heard in evidence in support of the appeal, it was moved by Jenner and Shreeve, that the Court of Revision adjourn until Friday next at 1 p.m.—Carried.

Council met. The report of A. Baird, C. E., for the proposed extension of the Vail drain was read and considered and interested parties heard.—Laid over until next meeting.

A petition was received from T. L. Pardo and Mrs. Freeman to repair the upper part of Government Drain No. 1 from the centre of the 15th concession to the 13th concession.

A Friend Told Me About Bu-Ju

THE GENTLE KIDNEY CURE

Hundreds of people, who have been cured of kidney trouble by Bu-Ju, were first induced to try this wonderful remedy by friends who had themselves been cured. The remedy is a daily increasing, because everyone who takes them is benefited—and these in turn, tell others. So the good news is spread.

Here's what a Picton man says about Bu-Ju:—"I have used Bu-Ju with great benefit to myself, and cheerfully recommend it to all who I think are suffering from kidney troubles and Rheumatism."

"I think Bu-Ju the best remedy made."

Yours sincerely, JAMES MILLER.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

COMPARISONS.

When I am tempted to berate My beastly luck and rail at fate, When things are coming my way, nith And all my blessings lightly flit, I look around me, and I spy So many men worse off than I, That I am forced to think things might Be worse for me a plagu-ed sight.

Though it is true I do not get One-half what I deserve, but yet There are some other men, I guess, Who have to do with even less. My share at times seems mighty small, But there are some with none at all, Who one whole dollar never see, While I at times have all of three.

We cannot all be millionaires, Have brussels carpet on the stairs And eat enough to make us sick Or rake in money double quick, But if we get three meals a day And have a little time to play We should not at misfortune sigh; Some men would call that living high.

That's mighty good philosophy. I try to have a contented mind, But it don't comfort worth a cent, For when my cash is nearly spent, My troubles no more lightly press, Because some men have even less; At consolation of that school I kick like one Missouri mule.

Willing to Meet Halfway. "I wonder why the modern young woman shies so at the kitchen."

"Because that is not the place where the modern young man comes looking for her."

Job For Her.

"Do you think a man ought to shine his own shoes?"

"Sure, provided he isn't married."

Proud Bird Humbled. It will be observed that it is the great American hen and not the laughing and self important rooster that is proposed as the national bird instead of the dethroned eagle.

For years the rooster has been walking around admiring his feathers and patting the hen on the back in a patronizing way and telling her that she might do to lay eggs, but she never could hope to be taken for a party emblem or to become of service to man as an animated alarm clock.

Meanwhile the hen has been going about not saying a word, or at best not more than a word or two, tending strictly to business and scattering eggs and sunshine throughout every state in the Union.

Now she has her reward, and while she will tolerate the rooster because she raised him she will call his attention about once a day to the fact that in this practical age beauty isn't ace high by the side of a lady with the goods.

Still Bigger. "Muggugly didn't win his last fight."

"No; he tried to catch his opponent with a half Nelson."

"Didn't it work?"

"Hardly. He found that he had caught a whole Swanson."

No Danger. I hope I'll never grow too old, Too busy, too blasé or cold To turn my head and feast my eye On beauty as she passes by.

Difference of a Word. "His wife is away, and he has peace of mind."

"Instead of a piece of her mind, I presume."

Extremities. "Why did the place change hands?"

"The former proprietor got cold feet."

Oceans of Time.

"We have lovely sunsets in our country."

"But do you find time to look at them?"

"Sure! I am working by the day."

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Philosophy is only for the well fed.

Love is blind, but its sense of feeling is very acute.

A patent bread mixer has been invented by a man. Doubtless he wanted to do away with the rolling pin.

A man never regrets the two cent stamp he puts on a love letter, at least not until some time after.

A well broken horse will not stay at an automobile, but a wise man will unless he wants to be well broken.

The man with a new phonograph never knows when to quit.

Many a man has been tipped clear over by a sure tip.

Big Price For Stolen Kiss.

A Dublin jury decided recently that a kiss which was stolen from Miss Margaret McKinley, of Strabane, was worth $485.

The thief was John Porterfield, a farmer, whom counsel described as "no chicken." He went into a grocery shop where Miss McKinley was, and without any preliminaries snatched her in his arms and kissed her. Then his language became so free that the mistress of the shop had him thrown out.

He went back the next day to know it was the servant, and regretted that it was not as it would have been easier to settle. He would like, he said, "to give a little money and be done with it."

Porterfield declared in court that it was an attempt to blackmail him, and obtained a stay of execution on judgment of $400.

THE SOURCE OF NEURALGIA.

It runs hand in hand with poor blood and weak nerves. Health runs down, nerves get irritable, neuralgia follows. For the moment applications may relieve—but to thoroughly cure, the system must be strengthened with nutritious blood.

What can equal Ferrozone? It increases the appetite, forms abundance of rich, life-giving blood, supplies nutriment and building material for worn-out nerves. Ferrozone completely cures neuralgia. Every root and branch of the disease it kills. Absolute success in every case. Stop suffering—fifty cents buys Ferrozone. Fifty chocolate coated tablets in a box, at any drug store.

Insanity Was Feigned. Montreal, July 27.—Duclos, who tried to kill Desrosiers, the musical agent, and was sent to the insane asylum, caped from that institution yesterday, an automobile being in waiting for him at the gate. It now looks as if insanity was feigned. In fact Dr. Villeneuve, the superintendent of the asylum, declares that the patient is all right and that he will report to the Attorney-General to this effect.

THAT BRIGHT BOY.

Willie, can you tell me the meaning of leisure?

It's the place where the married people repent.

What a splendid type of tireless activity is the sun like "a bride" describes it from his chamber and rejoicing like a strong man to run a race. Every man ought to rise in the morning refreshed by slumber and renewed by rest, eager for the struggle of the day. But how rarely this is so. Most people rise still unrefreshed, and dreading the strain of the day's labors. The cause of this is deficient supply of pure, rich blood, and an inadequate nourishment of the body. There is nothing that will give Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It does this by increasing the quantity and quality of the blood supply. This nourishes the nerves, feeds the brain, builds up enfeebled organs, and gives that sense of strength and power which makes the struggle of life a joy. The "good feeling" which follows the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" is not due to alcohol, whiteness, as it contains no alcohol, which does not brace up the body, but builds it up into a condition of sound health.

Good advice seldom profits a man as much as a good stare.

LOCAL

Master Byron O. Burr left on Friday to spend his vacation with friends at Dresden.

V. A. Statia of the Leamington News, and Mr. Church, proprietor of the Streetsville Review, were callers at this office to-day.

Miss Burr and Miss Mennota Burr left on Tuesday last for an extended visit with friends at Walkerville, Windsor, Gesto and Essex, and will be absent about one month.

The item appearing in this journal yesterday, stating that Manager Briscoe of the Grand Opera House, had secured all the bill-board advertising space in the city, was incorrect. We were under the misapprehension that Mr. Briscoe had secured the bill-board space. Mr. W. W. Seane still owns and controls all the best outdoor advertising locations in the city. Mr. Briscoe has simply gotten out a system of theatrical boards for his own private use.

TRANSFER GRANTED

The East Kent License Commissioners met this morning in the County Clerk's office, Harrison Hall, there being present Messrs. Sifton, Jarvis and Gifford. An application was received from Mr. Vester, of Blenheim, for a transfer of his license to J. F. Miles, of Windsor. The transfer was granted, and the Commissioners adjourned for a week to make the final arrangements.

APPEALS DISMISSED

Some important assessment appeals were heard before Judge Bell in Harrison Hall on the 25th. They were made by John Babby.

One was on lot 93, the property known as the Taff property, on King St. The lot was assessed for $9,500. The appeal was dismissed.

Another was on lot 98, on the corner of King and Third Sts. This is the property occupied by the Table Supply Co. The appeal was made on the ground that the Electric Railway has depreciated the value of the property. The assessors had made a reduction of $425 on this ground, making the assessment that much less than the assessment of last year, and Judge Bell thought that in any event this was sufficient, and while not expressing any opinion as to whether the railway was a benefit or a detriment, he dismissed the appeal.

The other appeal was made on lot 96, on the north side of Wellington St. This was assessed for $2,600. The appeal was dismissed.

John Reeve, acting for Mr. Babby, and J. M. Pike, of the firm of Wilson, Pike & Gundy, acted for the city.

TWO APOLOGIES DUE TO THE GREAT HOME JOURNAL

Dr. Williams, M.H.O., of Dresden, and The Dresden Times Should Back Up on Damaging Statements Made by Them—Dr. Bell's Report on Dresden Small-Pox

There has been small-pox in the town of Dresden for some time. One of the cases in Chatham originated in Dresden.

This will be rather startling news for Dr. Williams, the Medical Health Officer of Dresden, who made himself so conspicuous a few days ago by hurling threats of writs, actions for damages, etc., against this Great Home Journal for calling to his attention the fact that small-pox existed in the territory which is supposed to be carefully looked after by him. This small-pox has existed in Dresden unknown to the watchful Dr. Williams.

Dr. Bell, the Provincial Health Officer, was in Dresden the other day investigating the matter and this is his report:

"Toronto, July 27.—(Special).—Dr. Bell has returned from investigating the small-pox outbreak at Dresden, Township of Dawn, Kent County. He was sent there by the Provincial Board of Health on the complaint of Dr. Hall, Medical Health Officer of Chatham, who had reported that small-pox was being carried to Chatham by Dresden people.

"Dr. Bell reports to the Provincial Board of Health that a family which was affected by small-pox had been removed from Dresden to Chatham. No physician had been called in on the case at Dresden, and the health authorities of that place did not know of the existence of the disease at the time of the removal of the family.

"It was found that there were several cases of small-pox in Dresden that had been mistaken for chicken-pox. No physician had been employed, neither had there been any vaccination, nor disinfection. In consequence the disease was still spreading.

"As a result of Dr. Bell's visit the local authorities have taken steps to stamp out the small-pox.

"Dr. Bell justifies the Chatham health authorities in having brought the matter to the attention of the Provincial Board of Health."

So it turns out that this journal, as usual, was correct. The part which Dr. Williams has played in this matter is one from which he would doubtless wish to withdraw quietly. When a report appeared, exclusively, in this paper calling attention to the Dresden small-pox cases and advising the health authorities there to get busy, in other words to wake up, an awful furore was raised by Dr. Williams. He wrote to the London Free Press and to our local contemporary the Banner and wanted nothing less than a retraction and an apology from both The Planet and M. H. O. Hall, published in the Chatham, London and Toronto papers. He no later than yesterday honored The Planet with a personal visit and in high pitched language renewed his threats. He stated that the cases in Dresden were chicken-pox. He also let out the information that he is the Banner's correspondent at Dresden. It appears, however, that Dr. Bell is better qualified to diagnose diseases and he pronounces them small-pox and orders quarantine.

So there is no apology due from The Planet, but if Dr. Williams has even the smallest instincts of a gentleman he will at once make a public apology not only to this journal but also to Dr. Hall, for his unjust accusations.

The Dresden Times man, too, couldn't keep out. He had to get mixed also, and in his paper he published a withering article devoted much time and space to an effusion of adjectives which, if any person took it seriously, would greatly damage the character of this paper. We shall let him off with an apology published in his own paper, and we shall give him until next week to tender it.

It is expected that the heating system will be completed by tonight.

DISTRICT

DRESDEN

July 27.—Messrs May and Grace Miller, of Port Huron, are the guests of Miss Ethel Sharpe.

Miss Eliza Rudd has returned from her visit to Detroit.

D. Burns attended the Windsor and Hamilton races.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Carscadden, of Red Deer, Manitoba, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Newton Carscadden, North Dresden.

BLENHEIM

July 28.—On July 26th, the wife of S. G. Iron of a daughter, Miss Richardson, of Hattiesburg, being unable to accept the position on the Public School staff here, Miss Agla, of Arner, has been appointed to the position.

The funeral of Archie Nichol, who was drowned in the Eau du St. Louis, took place from his father's residence, on the 2nd concession, to the Evergreen Cemetery, the Rev. J. W. Holmes conducting the service. It was one of the largest funerals held here for some time.

The Blenheim boys were not successful in securing rink prizes, but lost their games by a very narrow margin. Blenheim is proud of the prowess shown by her contingent at the Western Bowling Tournament.

Mrs. John Carter, of Clinton, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. T. C. Ford, this week.

Mrs. and Mrs. T. B. Shillington and family returned from Erieville to-day. Their sojourn will be occupied during August by Dr. and Mrs. Fletcher and family.

Mrs. John Shelling and family are visiting the former's sister, Mrs. W. Milton, Thamesville.

Mrs. H. Hadley, of Chicago, is visiting her parents and other relatives in town.

TILBURY

July 28.—Miss Maude Shaw left yesterday on a two weeks visit with friends at Grand Bend, on Lake Huron.

Miss Maggie Stewart returned to-day from an outing with Mrs. H. Johnston at Lake St. Clair.

Rosedale Sunday school picnicked at Willow Beach yesterday.

An exciting runaway took place here Thursday night, when a horse driven by Miss Richardson, of Detroit, became unmanageable on Queen street and ran away, throwing the occupants out. Miss Miller had two ribs fractured and was severely cut on the head. The other two ladies escaped unhurt.

George Cartier, whose death at Ypsilanti was reported Thursday in The Planet, was well known here, being employed some years ago in the local labor shops.

An Indian was arrested here yesterday by Constable Wellwood on a telegram received from St. Thomas, and an officer from that city took the redskin away on the evening train.

Lawyer Pike, of Chatham, was here yesterday in connection with an oil and gas franchise, but as a quorum of the city fathers could not be secured, nothing was accomplished.

Messrs. Hugh Johnston and B. Ballard have been attending the Windsor races the past two days.

Detroit parties contemplate testing the plains lands to the north of Tilbury for oil, and local speculators have already commenced securing leases in that district.

The village of Fletcher has taken a new lease of life since the oil boom in Tilbury East, and citizens are looking for a return of the old days when that now almost forgotten hamlet was a mine of industry.

If reports are true as to the fortunes being made in the Tilbury East oil fields, the Klondyke gold fields are not in it.

GERMAN MUSEUMS LOSE.

London Dealers Buy Famous Art Collection in the Fatherland.

There is something akin to consternation in Berlin art circles at a piece of news that has leaked out, though nothing has as yet appeared about it in the press.

Messrs. Duveen Bros., the London art dealers, have within the last few days bought the entire collection of works of art formed by the late Herr Oscar Hahnauer, a collection which is generally considered to be the finest of its kind in Germany. Herr Hahnauer was not only himself a great connoisseur in all the varied manifestations of Renaissance art, but was helped by the advice of Dr. Wilhelm Bode, who is considered the greatest authority on art in Germany, perhaps, on the entire Continent.

Appraised At $1,250,000.

When Herr Hahnauer died in 1894 he left some few exceedingly valuable pieces to the Berlin Museum, though the bulk of the collection passed into the possession of his widow, Dr. Bode cherished the hope that the whole collection would eventually pass to the State, or be presented by some wealthy enthusiast, but apparently nobody felt inclined to pay the $1,250,000 at which it was appraised by its owner, and for which it has now passed into the hands of Messrs. Duveen.

Paintings and sculpture in marble, bronze, terra cotta, wood and ivory, tapestries and embroideries, furniture and stained glass, clocks, enamels, illuminated manuscripts, faience, pottery, medals and church plate figure in the catalogue of the collection, which is to be shipped forthwith to England, and will probably be placed on exhibition at the Duveen Galleries.

Some of the Works.

Among the pictures are a portrait by Botticelli, a Madonna by Lippo Lippi and paintings by P. Pollaiuolo, Filippino, Mostaert, De Bles, Vasari, Cima da Conegliano, F. Bol and many by many unknown masters. But the finest section is the sculpture, which includes many pieces of inestimable value by Antonio Rossellino, Mino da Fiesole, Andrea della Robbia, Luca della Robbia, Antonio Pollaiuolo, P. Vischer, Andrea Riccio, Gian Bologna, and others of equal note.

This is the second important collection from Germany that has within the last few months been sold to foreign countries, and art lovers are getting seriously alarmed at this exodus of art treasures that can never again be replaced.

LIVES ON MILK.

Boy of Six Thrives On Strange Diet and Puzzles Doctors.

There is a boy living at Penarth, Glamorganshire, Wales, who has existed entirely on milk since his birth, six years ago.

His name is Arthur Keene. He lives with his mother and father, and he is one of four children.

He will not take anything but milk. The choicest morsels of food have been offered him, but he refuses to be coaxed away from his milk diet.

On one occasion his mother forced food down his throat, but it made him ill at once, and he asked for milk. His diet each week consists of thirty pints of milk mixed with sugar and water, which is by no means an excessive quantity for even a twelve-months-old infant.

Yet in spite of this scanty and monotonous diet, the boy is fully developed, of normal size and of good weight. He is inclined to be a bit rickety, and is rather nervous. He attends Penarth Council School, and is of a most cheerful disposition.

He has puzzled the doctors of Penarth. They have carefully examined him, and they confess that the case baffles them completely.

One doctor saw him last Sunday, and expressed the opinion that it was extraordinary that the boy should be so well after living solely on milk for six years.

Men Driven Insane By Heat.

An epidemic of heat madness has broken out all over Spain.

The temperature is almost unendurable, and is causing innumerable cases of suicide. The thermometer stood at 104 in the shade in Madrid the other day.

Four persons who became violently insane were arrested in the streets of the capital. There have been as many similar cases each day during the last week.

The ambulance stations and hospitals are kept busy attending to sunstroke patients. In one institution alone over 100 persons who had succumbed to the heat were treated.

Famine is again threatened in the southern provinces owing to the parched state of the ground, which is rendering agricultural labor impossible. The peasants have not yet recovered from last year's terrible visitation.

The lives of thousands of them will be sacrificed if the hot weather continues, as the government will be unable to afford the necessary relief.

Snails as Food.

The Lancet advocates the use of snails as food. The snail, it says, has been called "the poor man's oyster." It makes an excellent fish sauce and may be used for the same purpose as oyster sauce. It must be exercised in the choice of the snails for food purposes, as it is well known that snails feed on poisonous plants, and it is the custom in France to allow a few days to elapse after they have been taken from their feeding ground in order that any poisonous matter may be eliminated.

Bicycles For Fishermen.

On the fitting out of a steam herring boat at Falmouth for the Scottish voyage, which lasts through the summer, two of the crew rode down to the vessel on their bicycles, and took their machines on board for use during week-ends, as no fishing takes place on Sundays in Scottish waters.

Cheap Gold Mining.

SUNSHINE FURNACE

Where Does Your Heat Go To ?

The science of furnace-building is the utilization of all the heat units.

The "Sunshine" furnace utilizes all the heat and sends none up the chimney.

You can't put your hand over the chimney when some furnaces are in use, because so much heat goes up the chimney. Your hand would be burned. That is heat wasted, time wasted, because it takes so much more firing up when a large part of your heat is lost.

The "Sunshine" furnace is built to extract all the heat units from the fuel and distribute them through the house. It does not waste heat like common furnaces.

"WHITE MAN'S BURDEN"

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN IN PRAISE OF HIGH WORLD IDEALS.

Asserts in London Address That Duty of Enlightened Nations is to Uplift the Benighted—Urges the Dignity of Toil—Finds Text in Kipling—English the Language of the World—An Eloquent Peroration.

William Jennings Bryan in a fourth of July address at the banquet of the American society of London set a high ideal for the premier nations of the world. He declared their mission should be to uplift the weaker and more benighted peoples of the orient by an example far more enduring than violence affords. The address, which was delivered before a brilliant gathering of British and American notables, is a remarkable one as follows:

View of White Man's Burden.

Mr. Bryan, whose subject was "The White Man's Burden," said:

"The memory of the evening spent with the American society, Thanksgiving day two and a half years ago, is such a pleasant one that I esteem myself fortunate to be able to accept of the invitation kindly extended by our distinguished ambassador, White-Law Reid, to be your guest on this occasion. Our English friends, under whose flag we meet to-night, recalling that this is the anniversary of our nation's birth, doubtless would pardon us if we were to speak of something of self-congratulation, for it is at such times as this that we are wont to review those national achievements which have given to the United States its prominence among the nations.

"But I hope I shall not be thought lacking in patriotic spirit if, instead of drawing a picture of the past, bright with heroic deeds and unparalleled in progress, I summon you rather to a serious consideration of the responsibility resting upon those nations which aspire to leadership. This line of thought is suggested by a sense of propriety as well as by recent experiences. By a sense of propriety because such a subject will interest the British as well as the American, and by recent experiences because they have been edified by the example of our national duty than with the superiority of western over eastern civilization.

Finds Text in Kipling.
"Asking your attention to such a theme it is not unfitting to adopt a phrase coined by a poet to whom America as well as England can lay some claim, and take for my text 'The White Man's Burden.'"

"Take up the White Man's Burden—In patience they shall make us free, To tell the tale of terror, By open speech and simple, An hundred times made plain, To seek another's profit, And work another's gain.

"Thus sings Kipling, and, with the exception of the third line (of the meaning of which I am not quite sure), the stanza embodies the thought which is uppermost in my mind to-night. No one can travel among the dark-skinned races of the orient without feeling that the white man occupies an especially favored position among the children of men, and the recognition of this fact is accompanied by the conviction that there is a duty inseparably connected with the advantages enjoyed. There is a white man's burden—a burden which the white man should not shrink even if he would. That no one liveth unto himself or dieth unto himself has a national as well as an individual application. Our destinies are so interwoven that each exerts an influence directly or indirectly upon all others.

English Language of World.
"Sometimes this influence is unconsciously exerted, as when, for instance, the good or bad precedent set by one nation in dealing with its own affairs is followed by some other nation. Sometimes the influence is incidentally exerted, as when, for example, a nation in the extension of its commerce introduces its language and enlarges the horizon of the people with whom it comes in contact.

"This incidental benefit conferred by the opening of new markets must be apparent to any one who has watched the stimulating influence of the new ideas which have been introduced into Asia and Africa through the medium of the English language. This is not the mother tongue of many of the world's leaders in religion, statesmanship, science, and literature, but it has received through translation the best that has been written and spoken in other countries. He who learns this language, therefore, is like one who lives upon a great highway, where he comes into daily contact with the world.

"Without disparaging other modern languages, it may be said with truth that, whether one travels abroad or studies at home, there is no other language so useful at the present time as that which we employ at this banquet board, and the nation which is instrumental in spreading this language confers an inestimable boon, even though the conferring of it be not included in its general purpose. England has rendered this service to the people of India, and the United States is rendering the same service to the people of the Philippines. In England and the United States have been helpful to Japan and China in this way.

Nations Should Uplift.

"But the advanced nations cannot content themselves with the conferring of incidental benefits. If they would justify their leadership they must put forth conscious and constant effort for the promotion of the welfare of the nations which lag behind. Incidental benefits may follow even if the real purpose of a nation is a wholly selfish one, as the sale of Joseph into Egypt resulted in blessings to his family and to the land of the Pharaohs, so captives taken in war sometimes have spread civilization and blacks carried away into slavery have been improved by contact with the whites.

"But nations cannot afford to do evil in the hope that Providence will transmute the evil into good and bring blessings out of sin. Nations, if they would be great in the better sense of the term, must intend benefit as well as confer it, they must plan advantage, and not leave the results to chance.

"I am glad to find that our duty to the so-called inferior races is not discharged by merely feeding them in times of famine or by contributing to their temporary support when some other calamity overtakes them. A much greater assistance is rendered them when they are led to a more elevated plane of thought and activity by ideals which stimulate them to self-development. The improvement of the people themselves should be the paramount object in all intercourse with the orient.

Duty of Christian Nations.

"Among the blessings which the Christian nations are at this time able—and in duty bound—to carry to the rest of the world, I may mention five: education, knowledge of the science of government, arbitration as a substitute for war, appreciation of the dignity of labor, and a high conception of life.

"Education comes first and in nothing have the United States and England been more clearly helpful than in the advocacy of universal education. If the designs of God are disclosed by his handwork, then the creation of the human mind is indubitable proof that the Almighty never intended that learning should be monopolized by a few, and he arranges himself against the plans of Jehovah who would deny intellectual training to any part of the human race. It is a false civilization, not a true one, that countenances the permanent separation of society into two distinct classes, the one encouraged to improve the mind and the other condemned to hopeless ignorance.

"Equally false is that conception of international politics which would make the prosperity of one nation depend upon the exploitation of another. While no one is far sighted enough to estimate with accuracy the remote, or even the immediate, consequences of human action, yet as we can rely upon the principle that each individual profits rather than loses by the progress and prosperity of his neighbors, so we cannot doubt that it is to the advantage of each nation, and every other nation shall make the largest possible use of its own resources and the capabilities of its people.

Japan's Influence Beneficent.

"No one questions that Japan's influence has been a beneficent one since she has emerged from illiteracy and endorsed her people with public schools open to all her boys and girls. The transition from a position of obscurity to a world power was scarcely more rapid than her transition from a menial to an ally. China is entering upon a similar experience, and I am confident that her era of reform will make her not a yellow peril but a powerful collaborator in the international vineyard. In India, in the Philippines, in Egypt, and even in Turkey statistics show a gradual extension of education, and I trust will be pardoned if I say that neither the armies, nor the navies, nor yet the commerce of our nations have given us so just a claim to the gratitude of the people of Asia as have our school teachers, sent many of them, by private rather than by public funds.

"The English language has become the vehicle for the conveyance of governmental truth even more than for the spread of general information, for beginning with magna charter and continuing through the era of the American revolution and the declaration of independence down to the present day, the language has been so much employed for the propagation of that theory of government which traces governmental authority to the consent of the governed.

Promotion of Peace Vital.

"The Christian nations must lead the movement for the promotion of peace, not only because they are enlisted under the banner of the Prince of Peace, but also because they have attained such a degree of intelligence that they can no longer take pride in a purely physical victory. The belief that moral questions can be settled by the shedding of human blood is a relic of barbarism; to doubt the dynamic power of righteousness is infidelity to truth itself.

"That nation which is unwilling to trust its cause to the universal conscience or which shrinks from the presentation of its claims before a tribunal where reason holds sway, betrays a lack of faith in the soundness of its position.

"Our country has reason to congratulate itself upon the success of President Roosevelt in hastening peace between Russia and Japan. Through him our nation won a moral victory more glorious than a victory in war. King Edward has also shown himself a promoter of arbitration, and a large number of members of parliament are enlisted in the same work. It means much that the two great English speaking nations are thus arrayed on the side of peace.

"I venture to suggest that the world's peace would be greatly promoted by an agreement among the leading nations that no declaration of war should be made until the submission of the question in controversy to an impartial court for investigation, each nation reserving the right to accept or reject the decision. The preliminary investigation would in almost every instance insure an amicable settlement and the reserved rights would be a sufficient protection against any possible injustice.

Appeals For Dignity of Labor.

"Let me go a step further, and appeal for a clearer recognition of the dignity of labor. The odium which rests upon the work of the hand has exerted a baneful influence the world around. The theory that idleness is more honorable than toil—that it is more respectable to consume what others have produced than to be a producer of wealth—has not only robbed society of an enormous sum, but it has created an almost impassable gulf between the leisure classes and those who support them.

"Toilet is right in asserting that most of the perplexing problems of society grow out of the lack of sympathy between man and man. Because some men see before them nothing but a life of drudgery, there is constant warring and much of bitterness. When men and women become ashamed of doing nothing and strive to give to society full compensation for all they receive from society there will be harmony between the classes.

"While Europe and America have advanced far beyond the orient in placing a proper estimate upon those who work, even our nations have not yet fully learned the lesson that employment at some useful avocation is essential to the physical, mental, intellectual development, and moral growth. If America and England are to meet the requirements of their high positions they must be prepared to present in the lives of their citizens examples, increasing in number, of men and women who find delight in contributing to the welfare of their fellows.

Great Need of Orient.

"And now we come to the most important need of the orient—a conception of life which recognizes individual responsibility to God, teaches the brotherhood of man, and measures greatness by the service rendered. The first step is a rational distinction between the creature and his Creator, the second lays the foundation for justice between man and his fellows, and the third furnishes an ambition large enough to fill each life with noble effort. No service which we can render to the world is so important as to prepare in value to this service, for if we can but bring their people to accept such an ideal they will rival the occident in their contribution to civilization. If this ideal—which must be accepted as the true one if our religion is to have any real meaning—is illustrated in the lives of Christians and in the conduct of Christian nations there would now be less of the 'white man's burden.'"

Mission of Superior Nations.

"If the superior nations have a mission it is not to wound but to heal—to cast down but to lift up, and the means must be an example—a far more powerful and enduring means than violence. Example may be likened to the sun whose genial rays constantly coax the buried seed into life and clothe the earth, first with verdure and afterward with ripening grain. While violence is the occasional tempest which can ruin but cannot give life.

"Can we doubt the efficacy of example in the light of history? There has been great increase in education during the last century, and the school houses have not been opened by force, but by the moral influence which neighboring nations exert upon each other. And the spread of popular government during the same period, how rapid! Constitution after constitution has been adopted and limitation after limitation has been placed upon arbitrary power until Russia, yielding to public opinion, establishes a legislative body and China sends commissions abroad with a view to inviting the people to share the responsibilities of government.

Gradual Reform in Society.

"While in America and in Europe there is much to be corrected and abundant room for improvement, there has never been so much altruism in the world as there is to-day—never so many who acknowledge their individual blame for the wrongs of the world, nor so many who are ready to do their share of the good. I have felt more pride in my own countrymen than ever before as I have visited the circuit of schools, hospitals, and churches which American money has built around the world.

"Society has passed through a period of aggrandizement, the nations taking what they had the strength to take, and holding what they had the power to hold. But we are already entering a second era—an era in which the nations discuss not merely what they can do, but what they should do, considering justice to be more important than physical prowess. In tribunals like that of The Hague, the chosen representatives of the nations weigh questions of right and wrong, and give a small nation an equal hearing with a great and a decree according to conscience. This marks an immeasurable advance.

"But is another step yet to be taken? Justice, after all, is cold and pulseless, a negative virtue. The world needs something warmer, more generous. Harmlessness is better than harmfulness. But positive helpfulness is vastly superior to harmlessness, and we still have before us a larger, higher destiny of service. Even now there are signs of the approach of a new era, not so much in the actions of Governments as in the growing tendency of men and women in many lands to contribute their means, in some cases, their lives, to the intellectual, moral awakening of those who sit in darkness. Nowhere are these signs more abundant than in our own beloved land. Before the sun sets on one of these new centers of civilization, it arises upon another.

Times Less Bloodthirsty.

"On the walls of the Temple of Karnak an ancient artist carved the likeness of an Egyptian king, represented as holding a group of captives by the hair and in the other hand is raised a club with which to strike the captives. What king would be willing to confess himself so cruel to-day? In some of the capitals of Europe are monuments built and ornamented with cannon taking part in the wars of the world, and popular, is still tolerated, though time must give way to some emblem of victory less suggestive of slaughter.

"As we are gathered to-night in England's capital, permit me to conclude with a sentiment suggested by a piece of statuary at Windsor Castle. It represents Queen Victoria beside her consort. One of his arms is about her and the other points upward. The sculptor told in marble an eloquent story of strength coupled with tenderness, love rewarded by trust, sorrow brightened by hope. He told the story so plainly that it was hardly necessary to chisel the words:

"Allured to brighter worlds and led the way."

"Was a beautiful conception, more beautiful than that which gave the world the Greek Slave, the Dying Gladiator, or the Goddess Athena. It embodies the idea which with the expanding feeling of comradeship makes applicable the association of nations as well as the relations of husband and wife. Let us include in the hope that our nation may so measure up to its great opportunities and so bear its share in the White Man's burden as to earn the right to symbolize its progress by a similar figure. If it has been allowed to me to speak to a higher ground, may it lead the way in wisdom to the confidence of those who follow it and in exhibiting the spirit of Him who said: 'If I am lifted up, I will draw all men unto me.'"

WHAT

Fruit-atives

OR "FRUIT LIVER TABLETS"

ARE

Fruit-atives are the marvels of modern medicine. They have accomplished more actual cures—done more good to more people—than any other medicine ever introduced in Canada for the time they have been on sale.

Fruit-atives are fruit juices. They are nature's cure for

—CONSTIPATION
—BILIOUSNESS
—BAD STOMACH
—DYSPEPSIA
—HEADACHES
—IMPURE BLOOD
—SKIN DISEASES
—KIDNEY TROUBLE
—RHEUMATISM
—IRRITATED HEART

Fruit-atives are the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes. These juices are concentrated—and by a secret process, the juices are combined in a peculiar manner. This new combination is much more active medicinally than fresh juices—yet so perfect is the union that Fruit-atives act on the system as if they were in truth a natural fruit, medicinally stronger than any other known fruit.

These are Fruit-atives—sold everywhere for 50c a box or 6 boxes for $2.50.

Diaz's Remarkable Career.

No living ruler has had a more remarkable career than President Diaz, who gets an honorary G.C.B. in the birthday honors. President Diaz has reigned over Mexico almost continuously since 1877, and has built up the wealth and well-being of the country in a manner which has shown him a born administrator, giving new life, education, and all the means of civilized life, and so far from seeking for himself despotic power, he boasts, and justly boasts, that he has given Mexico further all the instruments and safe guards of freedom—free education, free ballot, a free press, and so on.

Of course, President Diaz has enjoyed the usual "perquisites" of the highly placed in the shape of various attempts at assassination, the last of these having been committed some three years ago. It is a dangerous game, however, attempting the assassination of such a popular ruler as Diaz. An assassin who made a similar attempt in 1897 was lynched in the police office the following day by the populace. Then the President rose to the occasion and had ten of the latter hanged for the part they had played in the murder of the assassin. They were, at any rate, all sentenced to death.

OLD TIME SEA COOKS

THEIR DUTIES AND PERQUISITES IN THE BRITISH NAVY.

Many Sources of Revenue For the Boats of the Gallies—There Were Other Things They Had to Do Besides Preparing the Meals.

Sea cooks were and are very necessary persons in the internal economy of the ship of war, but there were rogues among them as among all classes of men, says the London Globe. There were sea cooks who rose by the aid of influence and knavery to very lucrative positions. Lord Nottingham, when lord high admiral, gave a patent to his own cook to appoint all the cooks in the navy.

Stewards, purveyors, cooks and bakers are classed together by one writer as the chief beneficiaries under the system of peculation and perquisites which at one time made the navy so happy a hunting ground for the rascals of the country. But they were not all permitted to ply their trade with impunity, and one sea cook got seven years' hard labor from Sir John Fielding for a long series of frauds. And in sentencing the man the judge expressed his regret that he could not order him to be hanged at the hospital gates.

Pea soup was generally the best ration the men had and was certainly the most solid. Potatoes were always served in the skins, sometimes two to each man, and a good natured cook was frequently prevailed upon to cook cakes and duffs that the men had made themselves, demanding for his services either a pot of grog or a portion of the dish he cooked.

Sometimes, however, he could only be bribed by money, and in that way increased his pay of 35 shillings a month. In addition to which he was nearly always in receipt of a pension of 11s. 8d. per month. Besides these sources of revenue he also made a good deal of money from the sale of "slush," the fat scraped from the ship's coppers after each meal had been served, and half of which was his perquisite. The other half belonged to the ship for greasing the bottom and running tackle.

The ship's cook was, moreover, honored with a guard of two marines, who stood sentry over the door of the galley during the preparation of meals to prevent unwarranted raids upon the provisions by ship's thieves; he did not wear a uniform nor was he expected to keep watch, being allowed to sleep in comfort and comparative privacy throughout the night on the lower gun deck. But, on the other hand, he had some duties not connected with food, among them the preparation when the ship was in port of a hot poker for firing salutes.

And it was an established custom of the navy that the ship was not properly paid off until the pennant was struck by the cook. This operation he was expected to perform as the last officer of the ship, and until he had done it no officer could consider himself discharged or at liberty to leave the port. This rule held good though every seaman had left the ship, and sometimes the cook himself, in a fit of absentmindedness, went off without carrying out the task, and had to be routed out again before the incensed officers could leave for their homes. There will be seamen alive today who have heard the phrase, "Every man to his station, and the cook to the foremast," and the landsman who has read Marryat will always connect the man of the galley with the famous phrase, "Son of a sea cook."

In addition to the ship's cook, of course, there were, as now, the mess cooks, men who were appointed by the seamen themselves to be presidents of the messes for the week, and who had to receive the provisions for the mess from the purser at the daily issuing of victuals and who had to hand these on to the ship's cook in good time. As compensation for his trouble the mess cook drew a cook's, or double, portion of grog, and he deserved it, for his duties were arduous and his critics severe.

If he spoiled the duff he was tried by a jury of the mess, and this jury was gathered by hoisting a mess awb or beating a tin dish between decks forward. He was condemned to most painful punishments if found guilty. He was also the carver for the mess, and in order to prevent favoritism a blindfolded member of the mess was required to call out the name of the person who was to receive the portion as it was placed on the plate. Small or large, that portion was given to the man named, and probably no more satisfactory method of dealing with the question could have been found.

"DARE TO BE A DANIEL"

DIET INFLUENCES THE CHARACTER OF MEN.

THE NEW LIBERAL THOUGHT

The Noted Divine Takes For His Theme the Refusal of Daniel to Eat the Unclean Food—Sins of the Palate Among the Worst of All Sins—Often the Forerunners of All Other Sins.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1906, by Frederick Dyer, Toronto, at the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 22.—That diet influences character and that a man is largely what he eats is illustrated in this sermon, the preacher taking for his text Daniel 1, 12, "Prove thy servants, I beseech thee, ten days." "What is a victory like?" said a lady friend to the Waterloo conqueror. "The greatest tragedy in the world, madam, except a defeat," was the answer. Well said thou iron duke. None could speak more authoritatively. The world has supposed thy heart adamant. But even the stones themselves might almost weep when they are drenched with human carnage. The choirs of triumph can never drown the sob of anguish. The glittering rewards of victory cannot blind our eyes to the awful price at which that victory was purchased. Lord Roberts, upon his return from the Boer war, was hailed in England as a conquering chief. When he returned from Africa to London the whole nation rose to do him honor. But while the British were acclaiming the mighty deeds of "Little Bobs," Lord Roberts was wearing upon his uniform the symbol of the black grape. Lord Roberts' only boy had been shot among the African hills. So is it always with war. We praise the returning chieftains, but we cannot forget the bloody fields over which these heroes have waded and the many grave trenches they saw filled with the slain bodies of their valiant comrades.

But if the battlefields of the nineteenth century were the scenes of awful tragedies, what must have been the horrors of the battlefields of the fifteenth, the twelfth and the fifth centuries and the battlefields of a thousand years ago. In olden times the conquerors rarely took prisoners or liberated their captives upon parole, as we do now. The general custom was to slay the prisoners or, to sell them into perpetual servitude. This practice was almost universal. Thus many of the nations, like the Phoenicians and the Etruscians, made war for human captives as well as for gold and chariots. These nations were known according to an old historian's definition as "man stealers." They wanted human slaves as oarsmen to man their galleys and laborers to work in their fields and men and women to be their domestic servants as well as for gold and chariots. What was true of the great maritime states mentioned was also true of Egypt and Rome and Greece and Babylon. These mighty cities of olden times all had their human auction blocks. The greater the conquests of their returning warriors the greater the number of slaves to be put up and sold as common cattle in the market places. Thus, having made this explanation, we can understand why Daniel and the finest youths of the Hebrew nation were carried to Nebuchadnezzar's capital after Jerusalem had been captured and overthrown.

No sooner was the Babylonish king back in his palace than he called one of his chief officers, Aspenaz by name, and said: "Aspenaz, I wish you would go and look over those young Hebrews who I have brought back. Select three or four of the finest physical and mental specimens that are there. Then for the next three years take them and educate them and feed them from my own table. I want to develop these men for my own service. I want to re-educate the intelligence of my own court with the best blood of this Hebrew nation." The result of this command: Daniel and his three friends, Hananiah and Michael and Azariah, were selected. Ah, this was high honor for Daniel and his companions. It not only meant liberation from human slavery, but in time it also meant membership in the king's council. But, alas, alas, it seems as though Daniel is foolishly going to upset all his political prospects. When the food and the wine from the king's table are placed before him, Daniel refuses them because they are forbidden diet—unclean according to Jewish law. "But," says the king's chamberlain, "you must eat this meat and wine, for if you do not the king will not only punish me, but also will probably slay you. And he will surely know this refusal by your starved looks." Then Daniel spoke the words of my text: "Prove thy servants, I beseech thee, ten days, and give us pulse to eat and water to drink. Then let our countenances be looked upon before thee, and the countenances of the children that eat of the portion of the king's meat, and as thou seest deal with thy servants." So the royal officer consented to them in this matter and proved them ten days. You all know the result of this test. At the end of ten days the countenances of Daniel and his three friends were "fairer" and fatter in flesh than all the children who did eat the portion of the king's meat. Such a day is the simple story from which we will draw our sermon's theme. And may our history in life be like that of Daniel, who refused to eat the king's meat.

Let us now look at our subject a little closer. Notice that this king's meat was to Daniel and his comrades a sensual temptation. It appealed to Daniel's eye and nostril and palate. It was the temptation of the banquet hall, which not only smelled good and looked good, but it appealed to Daniel's more enticing because heretofore he had never had his appetite surfeited by the delectable viands of a royal kitchen.

But Daniel had never been an epicure. He had never been one who was a devotee of sensual pleasures. He had grown up with the plain, coarse, simple and yet wholesome food upon which most of us were reared in our fathers' homes. He had the simple breakfast and the simple dinner and the simple supper common to Jewish childhood. This "pulse" which he mentions is the general name given to the leguminous plants, such as the beans and peas, etc. Thus you can see what a temptation must have come to Daniel in a sensual way when he suddenly had placed before him the viands and the wines of the king's banquet hall. Oh, they looked so good, and they smelled so good! The boy probably wanted to taste them. He wanted to feast on them. And yet, had he feasted thus and kept on feasting, he would surely have spiritually died. The meats by the Moslem law were unclean. God had said, "Thou shalt not eat this food."

"True," says some one, "the king's meat may have been unclean food for Daniel, but it is not unclean for me. We are not living under the old but under the new dispensation. What was a sin for Daniel to eat is not a sin for me to eat." Oh, of course we are not asserting that there is a direct connection between what a man eats and what a man spiritually is. And we are asserting that the sins of the palate are among the very worst of all sins. They are the sins which are often the forerunners of all other sins. They are the sins which will turn man into a beast and may unkenel all the tigers and the wolves and the hyenas and the jackals of his lower nature. Beware, O man, of the king's meats and wines, which Satan is ready to spread for us in many a banquet hall! The Sicilians erected an altar in Ceres to Apephagia, the goddess of gluttony. And as servants of the true God, never be found worshipping at this brutalizing, this mental and physical and moral and spiritual depleting shrine.

I can hear Daniel's friends talking to him and trying to persuade him to eat this unclean food. "Oh," they say, "Daniel, of course you are all right. But what is the good of being a high priest, if you are to hide away from this food? Why do you not worship the Babylonish gods? Why do you not theologically broaden out? Why do you stick so close to your Jewish laws? Why do you not become a student of the 'new thought'?" "But what is the 'new thought'?" says Daniel. "Why," say the Babylonish friends, "don't you know? Have you not been reading our new theology? Why, the 'new thought' is a beautiful belief. This is it in substance: God is goodness. God is in us. We are all part of God. Just try to think of God as a good being and try to develop all the good in you, and you will grow better and grow like God." "But," says Daniel, "who has that to do with the first commandment, which Moses gave to the children of Israel: I am the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt and out of the house of bondage; thou shalt have no other gods before me?" "Oh, Daniel, Daniel, Daniel," say the Babylonish friends, "we have outgrown all that superstitious stuff. We have outgrown all the commandments and the Jewish dietary laws. We are the advocates of the 'new thought.' Is that new thought we just try to be good, and that is all one needs to do." My friends, cannot you hear Daniel's friends trying to get him to eat the unclean food and adopt the religious liberalism of the Babylonish capital?

Is not Satan trying to get you to eat of the unclean food in our modern Babylons by the same pernicious argument of theological liberalism? I am not the least bit afraid that you will become a blatant atheist. I am not afraid that you will turn your back upon Christ or upon the Bible. But I am afraid lest the insidious advance of the new liberal thought should undermine the foundations of your faith. I find it doing its deadly work in the churches and in society. Men are giving up their anchorages and are drifting out on the sea of doubt toward the rocks of eternal disaster. Never let go your faith in the essential truths of Christianity. The divinity of Christ, his sinless life and his atonement on the cross, his resurrection and ascension, the work of the Holy Spirit, the necessity of the new birth and the inspiration of the Bible—these are the distinguishing doctrines of our faith. To abandon these is to surrender all that has made our religion a power in the world; it is to turn Christianity into a dry, dead system of ethics. In Christ alone have we life. The Bible declares it. If you deliberately go forth to eat of the unclean food in the Babylonish capital you just perish. O God, may we never become so liberal that we cannot make the words of Jesus Christ the centre, the circumference, the all in all of what we should believe and how we should live!

But there is still another fact which would have made the eating of the king's meat easy for Daniel. The king's food was spread in the presence of the young man's enemies. If Daniel did not eat the meat and drink the wine which came from the royal kitchens and wine cellars at once, in all probability the refusal would be reported to the king's higher officials, and Daniel's bright political prospects would not only be stopped, but without doubt Daniel would lose his head. "Well," you say, "that is strange. How can this be? Daniel did not have any enemies as yet. He had just been selected for future political favoritism and had not yet eaten his first meal in the palace. Ah, my friends, by that question I know one fact. You have not traveled much abroad.

In our country the word "clannishness" has not much meaning. When we go back to our Revolutionary days we find that Kosciuszko and Baron Steuben and Lafayette helped to win our independence. Then we find that Hamilton and a host of other statesmen who helped make us what we are were foreign born. Then we find that scores and hundreds of inventors like Ericsson and moneyed kings like Carnegie and teachers like Agassiz were also born across the sea. And thus, strange to say, the highest recommendation that an artist or a writer or a preacher can have before the American public is that he was foreign born. But, though our own people seem to feel that all prima donnas who have a foreign name can sing better than our own, yet this is not true of foreign lands. The man whom the Germans are most ready to honor is the German. The man the English are most ready to honor is the Englishman. The man the Scotch are most ready to honor is the Scotchman. The same law was true of the Romans, the Greeks, the Egyptians, the Hebrews and the Babylonians. The people who were not of their own nationality were always looked at askance and despised. Thus you can see the natural prejudice which at once arose against Daniel after his selection by the king because he was foreign born.

"Aha!" the people cry. "Aha! If he does not eat the king's meat we will expose him. Then this foreign upstart will remain a slave, as he ought to do." And yet, my friends, as I hear the enemies of Daniel gloating about his overthrow, can I not hear your enemies gloating over your spiritual overthrow in the same way? You enter a certain line of business. The proprietor decides to keep his place open on Sunday, or, what is worse, his foreman comes to you and asks you to do something which is not squarely and uprightly honest. "But," you say to the foreman, "I never work on Sunday," or you say: "That is not honest, I am not going to do it." The foreman shrugs his shoulders and says: "All right. If you won't do it, I will tell the boss. Then I guess you will have to hunt another place." Then all your enemies will cry: "Aha! We will destroy him. Aha, aha!" What have you done? Are you to-day compromising your Lord in the presence of your enemies?

But there is yet one more fact about this king's meat to which I wish to call your attention. It was spread in a foreign land; it was spread scores and hundreds of miles away from the place where Daniel was born; it was spread in the Babylonish capital; it was spread so far away from home that methinks at first I can hear Daniel whisper to himself these words: "Well, what is the difference if I do eat the king's meat and drink the king's wine? It will only be for a short time that I will do it. Father and mother will never hear about it. They are away off now among the Jean hills, and even if I do go back to Jerusalem, why, then I will start all over again and be a consistent Hebrew, as I used to be." But no sooner does he speak thus than I hear him say: "Nay, I will not do this. God sees. God knows. I see, I know. And I will be true to myself and true to my absent loved ones and true to my God whether I am in the Babylonish capital or in my own dear Jerusalem or in my own father's house." Oh, my friends, has not the tempter come to you, as I have imagined he came to Daniel, whispering: "Why don't you eat the unclean food? No one knows; no one will know. Why don't you eat the fruit of the forbidden tree just once?"

But, though the tempter may come to you and whisper, "Child, just once, and no one will know of this sin," believe him not; the tempter is a perfurer. For no man ever sinned but at last he found him out. In that fascinating book of travels, "On the Frontier," Mr. Campion tells us how in the isthmus of Panama he tried to gather some beautiful green plants of a most delicate shade and form. No sooner would he reach out and pluck one than this leaf would become nothing but a withered, shriveled, brownish weed. "At first," said Mr. Campion, "I thought I was stricken with a delirium of the fatal Panama fever, but after awhile I found that I had been plucking a sensitive plant, so sensitive that as soon as I touched one immediately it lost its color and life." So it is with sin. We may think we can pluck the beautiful leaves of sin and press them to our lips to kiss them and no one will know it. But, alas, the leaf will soon see that we are not holding in our hands the beautiful flower of purity, but a withered stalk of sin. No sin can be safely hidden. Every sin will ultimately be found out. No Babylon is so far away but the misdeeds of a Daniel will be carried back to the home land and what is far worse, carried up to be written down in the pages of the great book which shall be opened by the recording angel at the judgment seat of Jesus Christ. Hear it, man! Hear it, woman! Hear it, child!

Thus it is with great joy that I hold up before your eyes the character of Daniel for you to copy. The last time I ever heard D. L. Moody preach was about this mighty man of God. In that sermonic picture he showed us how Daniel was able to stand with unblanching cheek amid the gaping mouths of the lions' den. But if you have followed me you know I have not once mentioned Daniel as the mighty statesman of Nebuchadnezzar's court. My sermon has revolved about the first great temptation of Daniel's life, when he refused to eat the king's meat, as the first great temptation of Joseph's life was in Potiphar's home. When these two young men were found true to God in the first temptations of youth the way was paved for them to become the premiers of kings. So may we be true to God in the first temptations. May we be true to God in our youth. Then, whether we rise to positions of power and influence among the great of the world or continue in humble life, doing our duty in obscurity, we shall please him who, when this world's work is done, shall give to us our heavenly crown. Thus I close with the only five words I remember of D. L. Moody's sermon. They are these: "Dare to be a Daniel! Dare to be a Daniel! Dare to be a Daniel!" In God's name and with God's power, dare to be a Daniel and triumph on earth and in heaven. In God's name, dare.

Sale of Girls' Hair.

The Hair Fair of Limoges was held July 13, and the market place was filled with girls, who stood demurely while dealers examined with critical eyes their long and beautiful tresses. Dealers from Paris, Berlin, Moscow and London were there. And it was curious to see them bargain with the girls, and having settled the price march them off to be cropped. Prices of tresses varied from $9 to $11 per pound, and a parcel weighing eighty-six pounds (taken from the members of one family) realized $1,000. Hair dressers say that they can get better hair from the Limoges market than from any other in the world.

Adversity borrows its very sharp sting from our impatience.

You can heat your farthest room

By installing a combination hot water and hot air heater. By this means you secure a quick warmth when the fire is started, combined with ample ventilation, while the hot water radiators in more distant apartments and at outside walls assure a uniform heat throughout the house.

BUCK'S "LEADER" Combination Heater

Is adapted perfectly to the varying seasons of this country. The smallest fire can be perfectly maintained in the spring and fall months, giving the needed warmth by hot air, while in winter weather all the advantages of hot water heating are automatically secured.

Besides, it burns less coal than any other heater, and that soon saves its whole cost.

Write for our heater catalogue. It tells a lot of things about heating that are worth knowing.

Modest Greatness.
One day a letter was received at the postoffice in Paris bearing the following inscription: "To the Greatest French Poet." The letter carrier was instructed to deliver it to Victor Hugo, who refused to receive it and sent it to Lamartine. This genius also declined to accept the letter and passed it on to Alfred De Musset. The latter, equally modest, re-sent it to Victor Hugo, who finally accepted it. The letter had reached its destination. Lippincott's Magazine.

CHILLS PROVE FATAL!
If warmth and circulation are not promptly restored, chills result in fatal pneumonia. This necessitates keeping Nervine on hand. Taken in hot water it breaks up a chill in two minutes. By rubbing freely over throat and chest it prevents colds. No liniment so strong, so penetrating, so swift to kill pain and inflammation. Nearly fifty years' record has proved the value of Pelton's Nervine. You should get a bottle today.

Her Possessions.
"I have two lovely little puppies," said Mrs. Tawley.
"I have met your husband," replied the man, "Who is the other one?" Judge.

WIRE WOUNDS.
My mare, a very valuable one, was badly bruised and cut by being caught in a wire fence. Some of the wounds would not heal, although I tried many different medicines. Dr. Bell advised me to use MINARD'S LINIMENT. I diluted it at first, then stronger as the sores began to look better, until after three weeks, the sores have healed and best of all, the hair is growing well, and is NOT WHITE as is most always the case in horse wounds.

FOR THE LARGER CANADA.

Dominion Must Have a Soul as Well as a Body—Protest Against Crass Materialism.

It is not what Canada now is or what Canada has done, but what Canada may yet do and may yet become that give distinction and alertness to Canadian life to-day. The interest is that of the unclouded morning of a new day; the enthusiasm is that of an eager and healthy youth; the rejoicing is that of a strong man to run a race. As yet, Canada has no credit, for the most part, only a fair start, a great opportunity, and a worthy ambition. After four decades of reconstruction and readjustment and steady progress the people of this half-continent of the Canadian Dominion feel, as never in the past, the thrill and beat of a new national life. It is the virile and abounding life of the larger Canada.

The elements in our national life, the factors that make for material wealth, or for social betterment, or for moral culture must all be developed, each to its own end, for the nation that is to be. The railways and the steamship lines, the great manufacturing industries and the institutions of commerce and trade, the farmer and the miner and the lumberman, the inventor and the artisan, the teacher and the philosopher, the poet and the artist, the scientist and the preacher and the statesman, all who in any way add to the wealth or increase the worth of Canadian citizenship—to them the call comes from the larger Canada.

Life in a half-continent peopled from the ends of the earth cannot but be complex. In its complexity is the charm and the hope of Canadian life. Not a replica of any of the old-world nations, but a composite out of which a new type of national character may emerge, the Canadian type is the opportunity and the ambition of this latest born among the nations.

And if that Canadian type is to survive it must stand for something more than mere business, says The Toronto Globe. The larger Canada must have a soul as well as a body or its decay will be certain and swift. A nation is great not because its territory is wide and its natural resources abundant. Its greatness lies in those things which cannot be reckoned in the counting-house or stored in the granary; in the greatness of its nature, the magnanimity of its impulses, the integrity of its honor, and the worth of its service. In the day of Canada's recognition as one of the nations of the world its rank will be fixed by the courage with which it faced its difficulties, by the high purpose with which it made use of its unparalleled and unencumbered heritage, and by the worth of its contribution to the world's wealth of the world. The Canadian type of character will fix the national rank of the larger Canada.

A Dog Hero.
Dan Dalton, a Wabash engineer, residing in St. Thomas, relates a dog story that is almost beyond acceptance. Yet anyone who knows Dalton will admit that he is not given to exaggeration and he is regarded as a man of veracity. "I was coming west this week with an immigrant special," said Mr. Dalton in telling of the incident. "Between Elkhart and Glencoe I noticed a large dog on the track. We whistled, but did not think of stopping. My attention was attracted by the peculiar actions of the animal. He jumped around and kept looking straight at the oncoming train. The next time I looked I was horrified to see a little child on the track."

"We closed off steam, put on the brakes, but I knew that the train could not stop in time. It looked just like murder, but there was absolutely no way of avoiding an accident unless the little tot got out of the way. The wheels were jarring and the cars were bumping under the brake pressure when we neared the spot. I wanted to turn my head away, but I kept my eyes glued on the dog in front of the child. That noble beast never faltered. He stood like the dumb hero that he is, although in his inferior intelligence the dog must have been warned by instinct to jump out of the way for his own safety. As true as I sat in that engine, the dog remained in front of the baby, who was standing near one rail, perhaps unconscious of danger and perhaps confident of safety in the dog's company."

"Well, we struck the dog first, but by doing so the dog knocked the child out of harm's way. The child was injured to any extent, because we were almost stopped at the time. The dog was wild with joy when we picked up the babe and carried it off the track."

Train Kills Toronto Zoo's Camel.
Passengers on the Canadian Pacific Railway express, coming into the city last morning, were somewhat alarmed by a quick application of the air-brakes, which brought the train to a sudden standstill on the banks of the Don.

Those who ran out to discover the cause of the stop were most surprised to find a dead camel lying on the track. It appears that as the train came rushing along the river the engineer saw a huge animal tearing down the track in front of the engine. The animal cast one frightened look behind and let out few links of speed, but the express train was too fast, and in a few seconds the camel, for such it turned out to be, was being tossed through the air. The animal was caught on a narrow strip of track and could get to neither side.

The dead camel was the pride of the Zoo. He was formerly a working camel in southern Russia, and carried many thousands of dollars of merchandise between China and Russia. Mr. Frederick Nichols brought it to this city and presented it to the Ryerdale Zoo. It was out for its usual stroll when the fatality occurred. With Zoo visitors the dead animal was known as "Moses."

Wanted His Money Back.
A foreigner took out a pedlar's license in Burke's Falls recently, says The Arrow, but results not coming up to his anticipations, he sought out Rev. E. Menzies, and showing the latter the receipt for the five dollars the license cost, touchingly remarked: "I sell me nothing. I no make one red cent. You good man—you give me back see money, see five dollar, eh?" But the chief magistrate could not see the point, and laughingly told him so.

KEEP THE LIVER CLEAN.
Don't Overwork It and Give It a Rest Once in a While.

A man of common sense and a doctor at that said: "The liver is misunderstood and underestimated in its functions. If it can be kept clean and active there is no reason why we should ever be ill a day, and we should live to be 150 or 200 years old. It is not necessary to rip this organ all to pieces with ten grains of calomel to get it stirred up. The best thing to do is to shut off your food supply for two or three days, drop your whisky and claret, your tea and coffee, and give your liver a chance to rest. This should be done once a month."

It is well known, of course, that in olden times the liver was supposed to be the seat of the affections. Friends when they met in the morning did not salute each other with "How's your health?" but with "How's your liver?" Men take horseback exercise principally for their livers. A good shaking up every morning drives away the cirrhotical encumbrance. It is an error to assume that whisky alone produces cirrhosis. Overfeeding is more often the cause. If the digestive organs would organize a union and work only eight hours a day all of us would be healthy and long lived. The trouble is we require the liver, stomach, bowels, heart, brain, muscles, nerves, kidneys, spleen, etc., to work all the time and overtime. Wrong. Give them a rest.

Hurrah
For the hen,
New emblem of America!
Bring on your laurel wreaths
For the uncrowned queen,
Justice at last!
Has peered over her blinders
And discovered the patient bird
Standing around
On one foot
Waiting for recognition.
Let the eagle scream.
We can't hear it
Any more;
We are too busy
Lamenting
To the cackling of the hen.
Utility and industry
Triumph over tall feathers.
Towa has spoken!
The eagle must take a back seat
And be lucky to get that.
What has the eagle
Done for its country?
Does it lay eggs?
Well, not over three or four a year,
And those where you could only get at them
With a flying machine.
While the hen
Doesn't stop for Sundays
Or legal holidays.
Every year
She lays eggs enough
To pay the national debt,
And then some.
Say,
If it wasn't for her sex,
Wouldn't she be
A boy wonder?
Maybe she is not
Strong on beauty
Nor a grand opera warbler.
But, jumping Jehoshaphat
And several other persons
With even harder names,
How she can lay!

Theory and Practice.
We have a theory in this country that the office should seek the man, but as a matter of fact in actual practice the office is so busy dodging the man who is looking for it that it doesn't have any chance to do any seeking on its own account.

It has to dodge up alleys and hide in cyclone cellars to get away from them, but they persistently search it out, and, having dragged it forth while still retaining their strangle hold, they loudly insist that it has run them down and dragged them away from a private business that pays twice the money.

There should be a society in this country for the prevention of cruelty to offices. Where is American chivalry that it can stand around unaffected and see half a dozen big husky men chasing one small office up and down the country and laughing in fiendish glee at its plaintive cries for mercy?

SAVED BABY LYON'S LIFE

Untold Suffering and Constant Misery—Awful Sight From that Dreadful Complaint, Infantile Eczema—Commented at Top of his Head and Covered Entire Body.

MOTHER PRAISES CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Our baby had that dreadful complaint, Infantile Eczema, which afflicted him for several months, commencing at the top of his head, and at last covering his whole body. His sufferings were untold and constant misery, in fact, there was nothing we would not have done to have given him relief. The family doctor seemed to be wholly incapable of coping with the case, and after various experiments of his, which resulted in no benefit to the child, we sent to Mazon, Ill., to a druggist and got a full set of the Cuticura Remedies, and applied as per directions, and he began to improve immediately, and in about three or four days began to show a brighter spirit and really laughed, for the first time in a year. In about ninety days he was fully recovered, with the exception of a rough skin, which is gradually disappearing, and eventually will be replaced by a healthy one."

"Praise for the Cuticura Remedies, has always been our greatest pleasure, and there is nothing too good that we could say in their favor, for they certainly saved our baby's life, for he was the most awful sight that I ever beheld, prior to the treatment of the Cuticura Remedies. Mrs. Mabelle Lyon, 1825 Appleton Ave., Parsons, Kan., July 18, 1905."

A SET OFTEN CURES

Complete external and internal treatment for every humor, from pimples to scrofula, consists of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills. A single set is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disgusting, itching, burning, and scaly humors, eczemas, rashes, and irritations, from infancy to age, when all else fails.

Telling Age and Sex by Pulse.
"The female pulse always beats faster than the male," said a physician, "and from birth to death the pulse speed steadily decreases. I have no doubt that by the pulse alone I could tell readily a healthy person's age and sex. Babies at birth have a pulse that beats 100 times a minute in the case of girls and 150 times a minute in the case of boys. At the age of four or five the pulse beats will have fallen respectively to 110 and 100. Maidens' and youths' pulses average ninety-five and ninety; mature women's and men's average eighty and seventy-five; elderly women's and men's average sixty and fifty. An old woman's pulse rarely if ever sinks below fifty, but among old men a pulse under fifty is fairly common."

WILL HAVE BIG CIRCUS

Barnum & Bailey Coming Here With New Sensational Incitements.

Barnum & Bailey's Advertising Car No. 1 has come and gone, and the results of its visit are very much in evidence. Every way one turns the eyes are fairly dazzled by the pictorial announcements of the coming of this famous big show to this city. The date has been definitely fixed for Friday, August 17, and circus day promises to be an event of more than usual interest. The coming of the Barnum & Bailey show is always the occasion for presenting the latest ideas in the arena line and, according to all preliminary accounts, this is more than ordinarily true this year.

The public has learned to associate the idea of magnitude and novelty with the Barnum & Bailey show, and it is evident that no previous conception of its size and scope can do it justice. A representative of the show, in speaking of its colossal dimensions, said:

"From the standpoint of magnitude alone, the Barnum & Bailey circus would justify its title of 'The Greatest Show on Earth.' Some idea of its comprehensiveness may be gained from the fact that five long trains of cars are utilized to transport the paraphernalia from city to city. The big show employs, in its various departments, nearly 1,100 men, women and children; the horse fair includes over 300 horses; the zoological department presents three herds of big and little elephants, and hundreds of other animals, including four towering giraffes and the only specimen of the very rare bi-horned rhinoceros now in this country; the performance is given in a huge canvas amphitheatre, with comfortable seats for 15,000 spectators; the triple-ring and double-stage performances enlist the services of 300 artists from all parts of the world; the new 'Peace' spectacle employs an army of trained people to impersonate the Russian, Japanese and other National military contingents represented in the display, and the hippodrome numbers serve to introduce a hundred of the finest racing horses ever seen with a circus."

"These figures serve to give an idea of the colossal proportions of the show. The scope of the performance is indicated by the fact that, in addition to scores of feature acts of a strictly circus character, and the very best of their kind, the show has this season introduced a series of new acts of such a startling and sensational nature as to create a genuine furore wherever they have been seen. One of these is of such a startling character as to be almost beyond belief. An automobile speeds down a runway with the rapidity of an express train, shoots into the air and, continuing its journey, lands on a second runway and runs to the ground. This thrilling act is known as the 'Dip of Death' and the driver chauffeur who drives the auto is a young American girl. In still another sensational display, the Boiler Brothers, two daring bicyclists, turn somersaults in mid-air on their wheels. This sensational feature is called the 'Two Twines of Terror' and it is well named. Combine these great sensations with what is undoubtedly the most complete congress of famous riders, acrobats, aerialists and other specialists that ever this show has ever offered the public, and it is easy to understand why the public ungrudgingly credits the Barnum & Bailey show with being the greatest circus ever organized in this or any other country."

Owing to its magnitude, the Barnum & Bailey circus, it is announced, will continue to eliminate the parade.

The Markets

The noticable feature of the market this morning is the fluctuation of prices in butter, eggs and one or two vegetables. While butter had risen to 22c to 25c per lb., eggs had dropped to 15c to 17c a dozen. These were the only changes in the dairy products. New potatoes are now more plentiful and the price has dropped in answer to the increased supply from 18c to 20c to 15c to 18c per peck. Several fruits, cherries, red currants and the like, are fast disappearing, small quotations being offered this morning.

TRYING TO RESCUE THEM

to know where certain streets led to, and eventually made some cautious inquiries as to the location of the county gaol. When they had received a desired information, they made off in the direction of Victoria Park, into which place they were seen going by some other parties.

On the same evening, a lady who lives alone in a house near Victoria Park, was startled about midnight on hearing someone moving about on her verandah. Looking out from behind a blind, she saw two men moving about in front of her place. She was so terrified that she could hardly move, but decided that her best plan would be to keep still and watch the manoeuvres of the strange pair. They did not make any attempt to get into the house, and after walking about for some time, as though examining the locality, they later disappeared in the darkness.

What these men were doing around the lady's house at such a late hour is a mystery. Others claim to have noticed the men prowling around in the vicinity of the gaol. Wherever they have been seen, they appear to have been examining the locality as though committing the surroundings to memory for some future purpose.

The next morning, on going out on her verandah, the lady in question picked up several pieces of paper which were blowing about. On examination she found them to be gum wrappers.

Yesterday afternoon Governor Davidson was asked if any strange men had called around to see the Giblitskies since they had been incarcerated in the county gaol.

"No," he replied. "No one has been allowed in to interview them, with the exception of their lawyers, and special precautions have been taken to prevent the prisoners having any chance to escape."

PRISONERS SURLY.

The three Giblitskies and Sam Kovinski have each been lodged in a separate cell, each of the cells being a cage apart, so that there is no chance for them to have any communication with one another. The authorities are of the belief that the Giblitskies are desperate enough to break gaol if the slightest opportunity were afforded them.

When they were first placed in the county cells, they all maintained a surly silence. They appeared greatly vexed at the treatment they had received, and persistently protested that they were not the principals in the far stealing affair.

The elder Giblitski has a hardened appearance, and views all that is passing about him with the stoicism and indifference of an Indian. He is shrewd and cunning, and very guarded in his speech. His two sons, Simon and Samuel, have widely differing characters. Simon, the elder of the two boys, appears to take everything philosophically, while Samuel has broken down and burst into tears several times since he was arrested. He says that he and his brother did not know they were running stolen furs. According to Samuel, they were both working in Detroit at the tanning business, when they received a message from their father to come to Chatham, "and of course as father sent for us we had to come," he concluded.

The Giblitskies were formerly employees of Saffier & Son, of New York, and through their intimate knowledge of the firm's warehouses, it was an easy matter for them to enter the building and purloin the goods. It now looks as though the stolen furs were never taken to Montreal, as was at first reported. It seems that the Giblitskies first attempted to tan them in Detroit, and fearing discovery, later brought them to Chatham. The goods which were found in Montreal were sent to that city from here.

The Giblitskies seem confident that they will be taken to New York in another week's time. This thought seems to give them much hope. They state that they will not fight extradition.

Some time ago, when the prisoners were asked if they knew Futrel, the man arrested in Montreal by Officer Peter Dezella, they pretended not to know who he was, but subsequently, when Futrel was brought to the Chatham gaol, they welcomed him enthusiastically and spoke to him as to an old acquaintance.

Futrel was up before Judge Hutton for a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon, but the examination disclosed nothing further than was previously known.

The case is altogether one of the most interesting that has ever come to light in this section, but one the prisoners are taken away from the city it is likely that local interest will die out to quite an extent.
