For the information of Travellers between Windsor and Parrsborough, &c.

THE Parrsborough packet sails regularly between Windsor and Parrsborough twice in every week, and occasionally three times ; but always from Parrsborough every Monday in the Summer season, wind and weather permitting, so as to be at Windsor on Tuesday, and will sail from thence the first high water that happens, at or after 8 o'clock in the forenoon of that day.—The passage money for each person is five shillings, and the freight for horses and neat cattle, is seven shillings and six pence per head. The vessel is 42 tons burthen, and has good accommodations for passengers ; and likewise for taking over horses, neat cattle, sheep, &c.

SUGAR FROM THE BEET-ROOT.

Doctor Achard has published, at Berlin, the results of a second trial, made on a large scale, to extract sugar from the beet-root under the direction of a commission appointed for that purpose by his Prussian majesty. By these results it appears that 1500 quintals of beet-root gave 5952 pounds of raw sugar ; 450 quintals of refuse, and 100 ounces of raw syrup. Thirty quintals of beet-root, cultivated according to the process of Achard, gave each six pounds three ounces of raw sugar. The refuse may be employed as coffee, or to distil spirit ; and is more profitable for feeding cattle than beets themselves. The raw sugar may be refined for every purpose whatever.

And see green Autumn dies away ;
The pallid Sire is come,
The plains his shiv'ring rules obey,
And every wave is dumb.

Yet still with cheerful heart I pace

Thus (soft I wüper to my breast)
 Man treads life's weary waste :
 Each step that leads to better rest,
 Forgot as soon as past.

For what is life and all its blifs ?
 The splendour of a fly,

The HAY-FIELD ; a Morning Scene. By Miss SEWARD.

THY joys gay Spirit of the social plain,
 And useful labours, renovate my strain ;
 Rising, it vibrates to thy oaten reed,
 And lings the artless pleasures of the mead.
 No frown the muse from truth and nature fears,
 Tho' pale refinement sickens as the hears.

Now is it June's bright morn, and beauty times
 The glowing wreaths that deck her thousand shrines.
 On the lark's wing sweet music hails the day,
 And o'er the sun-beam pours her liquid lay;
 While the blithe spirit of the social plain,
 Leads health, and love, and gladness, in his train.
 Brown'd with her pail, light rocking as she steps,
 Along the fresh, moist path young Lucy trips.

The rustic vest is from her ankle drawn,
 Yet catches many a dew-drop of the lawn.
 Warm on her downy cheek health's deepest glow,
 While from her eyes its lavish lustres flow,
 And in her voice its wildly-warbled song
 Floats, and returns, the echoing g'ad's among.
 Her nut-brown tresses wanton on the gale ;
 Her breath perfumes afresh the blossom'd vale.

Nine blooming maidens meet her in the grove,
 And ask, and tell the tender tale of love.
 With their prone fork a mystic scroll they frame,
 Tracing on sand the heart recorded name.
 O'er each bar'd shoulder hangs the idle rake,
 And busy fancy paints the coming wake.

But from the lip th' unfinish'd periods break,
 And joy's warm blushes deeper tinge the cheek ;
 For see th' expected youths in vigour's pride,
 Stoutly are striding down the mountain's side ;
 O'er the swift brook, at once, they lightly bound,
 And gay good-morrows thro' the fields rebound.

And now is labour busy in the dale;
 The cow stands duteous by the cleanly pail,
 Where the rich milk descends in eddying tides,
 Pure as the virgin hands thro' which it glides.
 The youths with short'ning arm and bending head,
 Sweep the bright scythes along the shiver'd mead.

Three blithesome maids the grassy plunder shake ;
 Three draw, with gentle hand, the thrifty rake,
 And three, mid carol swaet, an ljoctand tale,
 Scatter the breathing verdure to the gale.
 Where yonder cottages asc nding smoke,
 In spiral columns, wreath the sun-gilt oak;

See, with pleas'd looks, gay Ceres' happy train
Watch their young donors, loaded on the plain ;
Inhale the grateful fumes, that round them rise,
Mark their slow, heedful step, and earnest eyes ;
The chubby hands, that grasp the earthen rim,
Where health's warm viand rises to the brim.

Like on the new shorn bank recline the band,
And take the present from the willing hand,
With eager appetite, and poignant taste,
Thank the kind bearers and enjoy the feast.

Yon tall, white spire, that rises 'mid the trees,
Courting, with gilded vane, the passing breeze,
A peal far heard, sends merry down the dale,
The notes triumphant tell a bridal tale.

Our youthful lovers hail the jocund noise,
And hope anticipates their bridal joys ;
Pours all her magic influence o'er the scene,
Laughs in their eyes, and animates their mien.
Sportive their little friends around them rove,
And all is frolic, innocence and love.

May equal joys the varying year adorn,
And gild the labours of each future morn ;
Whether the wanton hours, that lead the spring,
Catch the translucent rain drops from her wing ;
Or zoneless summer, flaunting o'er the meads,
Consummate bloom, and richest fragrance sheds ;
Or auburn autumn, from her full lap, throws,
The mellow fruit upon the bending boughs ;
Or winter, with his dark relentless train,
Wind, snow and sleet, shall desolate the plain,
Howl round the hill, and, as the river raves,
In drear stagnation warp th' arrested waves.
O may the days of bloom, and ripeness, find
Such joys the meed of each untainted mind ;
And, in the rage of the severer hours,
May balmy comfort, with assuasive powers,
Present the stores, by former toil amass'd,
Pile the warm hearth, and spread the neat repast :
Bid sport and song, prepare the gladsome site ;
Then smooth the pillow thro' the stormy night.
Thus health and love the varying year shall crown,
While truth and nature smile, tho' pale refinement frown.

CURIOUS ANECDOTE

IN THE HISTORY OF THE DOMESTICATION OF ANIMALS.

The cleverest woman I saw in Paris when I was there in my youth, 'says the author of the agreeable Miscellany, published under the name of M. de Vigneul Marville.' was a lady, who, by great pains, had succeeded in teaching a dog, a cat, a sparrow, and a mouse, to live together with the seeming mutual kindness of brothers and sisters.

The four animals were accustomed to lie together on the same bed, and to eat, all out of the same plate. Out of the plate, the dog helped himself first, and that largely. He failed not, however, to leave a portion for the cat. The cat then made her meal, and left some nice tid-bits for the mouse; and some dainty crumbs of bread remained at the same time for the sparrow, which none of the rest strove to snatch from her. After eating, the company went to dance. The dog licked the cat; the cat dressed the dog; and the mouse played with the cat's paws; who kept back her talons, and presented only her smooth velvet toes to her little play-fellow. The sparrow hopped up and down, and pecked, sometimes one, sometimes another, of its comrades, without losing a single feather by the sport. Such, in short, was the union among those associates, that they were all of one humour, as to amusements, and lived together without suspicion, surprize or malversation.

ON AVARICE.

HE who flatters himself that he resolves to employ his fortune well, though he should acquire it ill, ought to take this with him, that such a compensation of evil by good may be allowed after the fact, but is deservedly condemned in the purpose; and it may be observed that a resolution of this kind taken beforehand, is seldom carried into act afterward.

The eagerness, with which some men seek after gold, would lead one to imagine it had the power to remove all uneasiness, and make its possessors completely happy; as the Spaniards pretended to the Mexicans that it cured them of a pain at the heart to which they were subject.

An extravagant fellow, who had got into the King's Bench Prison for debt, was called upon by his creditor to know if there were any terms he could propose, as he did not wish to keep him there.—“I'll pay you five shillings in the pound, said the debtor.”—“But,” replied the other, “you offered ten before,”—“True,” answered the debtor, “but I have learned a great deal here, and since you sent me to College you must e'en pay for my education.

ON THE RELIGION OF AN EPICURE.

‘Whose God is their Belly’.

HERE's my religion, Demas cry'd,
And to his breast his hand apply'd.
Oh! no, says Marcus, with a frown,
It lies a little lower down.

RECEIPT FOR THE CURE OF THE CANCER.

By G. C. JENNER, of Burbage, Wilts.

TAKE one part of red lead, in fine powder, and two parts of hog's lard; mix them well together, and with the salve thus prepared, spread on lint, dress the cancerous sore twice a day.

Mr. Jenner says he is the more solicitous for the publication of this receipt, having lately been a witness to its happy influence in curing a most inveterate cancer in the lip of a person now living in his neighbourhood, and to whom a personal reference can be given, if required. He has also heard of several other instances of its wonderful efficacy from the most respectable authority.

CLEANLINESS AND WASHING.

Could the free circulation of air, and cleanliness in house and persons, be introduced among the poor, infectious fevers would rarely occur; but under the pressure of distress, every useful effort is too generally neglected; as much as possible, however, they should be taught and encouraged, to make exertions that are not expensive, and highly salutary, as washing their apartments, and their furniture, in the cheapest manner; and the walls and ceilings with quick lime, an object of very trivial expence to most individuals.

It would add greatly to the health of the poor, were they to adopt a rule in their families, to have each person washed from head to foot about once a week; this might be the evening preceding the sabbath.

In the year 1783 and 1786, the typhus fever was so epidemic in Chester, as to occasion general alarm; but, with the precautions of free air and cleanliness, not one case occurred of a second person catching the disease, as Dr. Haygarth relates in his letter to Dr. Percival.

‘Fresh air and cleanliness were the only means which I employed to prevent infection. Doors and windows were kept open, as far as the season and other circumstances would permit. Curtains were drawn to exclude light, but not the free circulation of the air. All clothes, utensils, &c. used by the patient, were immersed in a vessel of cold water immediately; and when taken out of it carefully washed. The floors were kept clean, and vinegar was sometimes, but not always, employed to sprinkle them. It was thought to be more easy, and more safe to remove than correct the poison.

OBSERVATIONS ON THE WEATHER.

1. The rising of the mercury presages, in general, fair weather and its falling foul weather, as rain, snow, high winds, and storms.
2. In very hot weather the fall of the mercury indicates thunder.
3. In winter the rising presages frost; and in frosty weather, if the mercury falls three or four divisions, there will certainly follow a thaw; but in a continued frost, if the mercury rises, it will certainly snow.
4. When foul weather happens soon after the falling of the mercury, expect but little of it; and, on the contrary, expect but little fair weather, when it proves fair shortly after the mercury has risen.

5. In foul weather, when the mercury rises much and high, and so continues for two or three days before the foul weather is quite over, then expect a continuance of fair weather to follow.

6. In fair weather, when the mercury falls much and low, and thus continues for two or three days before the rain comes, then expect a great deal of wet, and probably high winds.

7. The unsettled motion of the mercury denotes uncertain and changeable weather.

But to these remarks may be added, that, when the barometer suddenly falls two or three-tenths, without any material alteration in the thermometer, and the hygrometer is not much turned towards moist, a violent gale of wind may be expected. When the hygrometer inclines far towards moist, with only a trifling descent in the barometer, it denotes a passing shower and little wind; and when the barometer falls considerably, and the hygrometer turns much towards moist, the thermometer remaining stationary, and weather inclined to rise than fall, both violent wind and rain are likely to follow in the course of a few hours.

General Prognosticks of the Weather.

Amongst these we may reckon such as are derived from birds, beasts, insects, reptiles, and plants.

Birds, in general, retain in the quill part of their feathers a quantity of oil, which, when they feel an extraordinary degree of moisture in the atmosphere, they express by means of their bills, and distribute it over their feathers, to secure their bodies against the effects of an approaching shower.

Swallows in pursuit of the flies and insects, on which they prey, keep near the earth in wet weather; and in dry weather, from the same cause, they fly much higher.

Domestic animals, as cows and sheep, but particularly the latter, on the approach of rain, feed with great avidity in the open field, and retire near the trees and hedges as soon as they are satisfied. In fine weather they graze and lounge about, eating and resting alternately with apparent indifference.

The pimpernel, commonly called peep-a-day, or shepherd's weather-glass, closes its leaves before rain, and the down of the mandelion is much affected by moisture.

Insects and reptiles of all kinds, seek or avoid rain according to their respective habits, by these means, giving notice of every change of weather.
