SOMETHING TO THINK OVER.

You are aware that you cannot go without food and still retain your strength; yet you do neglect the exercise and recreation necessary to perfect health and long life. Why don't you buy a bicycle, ride it and add ten long years to your life? You can then, with clear brain and added energy, accomplish more than you do now, and in less time. With an easy-running Stearns Bicycle you can save enough time to enable you to make delightful outings. The Stearns is called the Yellow Fellow because of its orange finish; we have it in black if you prefer.

AWAY DOWN EAST.

From day to day, speaking only two words, 'Ave Maria.' In the coldest weather he plunged every morning into the fountain, always singing his little song to the Virgin. When he was cold he swung himself in the branches of the tree, singing, as he swung, 'Ave Maria.' From all these strange ways of behaviour, people called him 'Saluun the fool.' Thus he lived forty years, offending no one. Finally, he fell ill, and died. It was told that the Virgin herself nursed and comforted him.

Starving Children

Thousands of well-fed children are starving, simply because their food is not of the right kind. They are thin, pale, and delicate. Scott's Emulsion will change all this. It gives vim and vigor, flesh and force.

PROMPT, PLEASANT, PERFECT.

Norway Pine Syrup is a prompt, pleasant and perfect cure for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, whooping cough, croup, influenza, and all throat and lung troubles. 25c. and 50c. at all drug stores.

Norway Pine Syrup heals the lungs.

SEVERE HEADACHE CURED.
DEAR SIR,—Being troubled with a severe headache I was advised by a friend to try Laxa Liver Pills. I only used half a bottle, and have not since suffered from the complaint. They seem to be a perfect cure.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DISTEMPER.

It is with pleasure that I recommend B. B. B. for the cure of indigestion and impure blood. I had tried many medicines but received no benefit until I took Provision. I was advised to use B. B. B., and it was with perfect success.

MRS. WM. LOCKE,

Oshawa, Ont.

STANLEY J. JENKINS, P. Q., 12th Aug. 1897.

GENTLEMEN,—I fell from the bridge leading from a platform to a loaded car, while awaiting my men in unloading a load of grain. The bridge went down as well as the load on my back, and I struck on the end of the pier, causing a serious injury to my leg. Only for its being very early would have broken it. In an hour Scott's Emulsion was ordered and the third day I was able to get on my feet. My leg improved from the very first, and now after using three boxes all right! all my pains, aches and diseases have disappeared, thanks to Don's Pills.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES COLDS, ETC.

UNDOUBTEDLY THE BEST.
GENTLEMEN,—I wish to say that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has proved a wonderful remedy in my family. We would not be without it for twice its price. I say it is true, (not merely one of the best—but the best) medicine ever brought before the public for summer complaint or diarrhea, either in children or adults.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES COUGHS.

PAIN IN THE BACK.
MR. M. P. HAINES, Brockville, Ont., writes: "I suffered from kidney trouble, causing severe pain across my back, distressing headache, sleeplessness, etc. I had often to lean on the counter when serving a customer, so intense was the pain in my back. On taking Don's Kidney Pills I improved from the very first, and now after using three boxes am all right! all my pains, aches and diseases have disappeared, thanks to Don's Pills."

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES COLDS, ETC.

THE NEW YORK INDEPENDENT not long ago stated that a considerable number of German Catholics were forsaking the faith and becoming Protestants, and gave as the authority the Theologische Jahrbuch. Doubting the accuracy of its report Rev. Dr. Sulzger, of Milwaukee, wrote to his friend, Rev. Dr. Einig, of Thurosee, Germany. In reply he said: "Very Dear Colleague:—You are right in your extreme diffidence of reports said to be taken from official statistics and given by Protestant papers about conversions from Catholicism to Protestantism in Germany. It is true the Catholic Church sustained losses in some districts. But they are few and in most cases a consequence of mixed marriages contracted in parts and communities about entirely Protestant. The Catholic part is placed in no helpful environment in such cases, while the education of the child allowed to be baptized, as the case may be, becomes difficult. Yet, the losses of the Church are not owing to defection from Catholicism of adults. If the Independent appeals to Theologische Jahrbuch to corro-

A BRETON LEGEND.

A. M. Mosher, in writing about "Browning's Summers in Brittany," in the current issue of the Century, recalls the legend of Notre Dame de Folgoet, one of the best known legends in the province. It is characteristic and famous, and is told and sung in the Celtic language in lower Brittany to-day, and runs somewhat as follows, as reproduced from the French translation of M. Villemour: "In the year 1319 there lived in Brittany a boy named Saïan. After the death of his parents, who had always been very poor, this child sought the solitude of the forest, in which there was a fountain. He was thin, clad, barefoot, and had only the earth for a bed. He begged his bread from day to day, speaking only two words, 'Ave Maria.' In the coldest weather he plunged every morning into the fountain, always singing his little song to the Virgin. When he was cold he swung himself in the branches of the tree, singing, as he swung, 'Ave Maria.' From all these strange ways of behaviour, people called him 'Saluun the fool.' Thus he lived forty years, offending no one. Finally, he fell ill, and died. It was told that the Virgin herself nursed and comforted him.

THE TRUE BRITISH CHURCH.

In the same magazine David R. Walker says that it may be considered harsh to say it, but it is undeniable that the Anglican Protestant church cannot in any way, especially in the face of historical facts, be considered a lineal descendant of the early British Church, but it is, without doubt, the church of the so-called Reformation founded by Henry VIII., and established and maintained by law, and having the reigning monarch for its spiritual and temporal head. In conclusion he states that he has read with much pleasure and profit the various writings of Cardinal Moran, Archbishop of Sydney, New South Wales, Australia, treating the early churches of Britain, Ireland and Scotland, and that he shows he has made an exhaustive study of these subjects. As an Australian, Mr. Walker says that, even while an Anglo-Catholic, he always entertained the most profound respect for Cardinal Moran, who seemed to be ever doing battle "for the faith once delivered to the saints." The author of the article is of the opinion that Cardinal Moran should be regarded in Australia as that great prelate, John of Tynon, who was regarded in Ireland, namely, "as the Lion of the Tribe of Judah, and ever ready to defend the Church from attacks by schismatics."

CATHOLICITY IN GERMANY.

The Rev. Dr. Barry—a name weighty with authority—makes a plea for the rendering of Catholic dogmas into modern terminology. He would have religious truth translated into "the language of modern thought," untrammelled by the dialect of the schools; though not of course, in contradiction with it. No one familiar with the writings of Mallon, Spencer, Huxley, Mill, etc., need be told what Dr. Barry means by this proposition; and nobody unfamiliar with those writings could be made to understand it. He also urges the establishment of a permanent literary tribunal, with clerical and lay members from every nation, which shall analyze and judge the writings of Catholic authors. "A task now supposed to be undertaken by the Congregation of the Index, but altogether beyond its staff."

Items of Interest.

(From the Ave Maria.)

The Right Rev. John Lemmens, Bishop of Vancouver and Alaska, who died of yellow fever in Guatemala last week, was comparatively a young man, being only forty-seven years of age. He was a scholarly theologian and an effective speaker, well versed in the Indian dialects and the other knowledge that befits the missionary. The highest tribute to the worth of the lamented prelate is the fact that the saintly Archbishop Seghers desired him for his successor.—R. I. P.

A correspondent who contributes a bit of unwritten history to a scholarly English journal proves that the unholy "marriage" which followed after the divorce of Josephine was singularly unhappy for Napoleon. He writes: "I was in the secret service of Koessuth in the summer and autumn of 1852, and amongst the interesting items of his experience which he narrated to me was that of his having, when Home or Hungarian Minister at Vienna, had in his custody, and take cognizance of, a series of letters from the Empress to her father disclosing Napoleon's plans and movements; from which it appeared that she was in reality a spy on her husband; and that the schemes he confided to her, in the belief that she shared his ambitions, were immediately made known to Vienna, with an effect on the fortunes of his campaign which may well have been fatal."

The eminent Dantean scholar, Dr. Moore, of Oxford University has begun what promises to be a notable series of papers on Dante in the Fortnightly Review. He has a two fold object in view: first, to show the extraordinary variety of theologians who now hail the Florentine bard as a religious teacher in contrast with the widespread contempt expressed for him during the last century; and, secondly, to "vindicate his position as a sincere and orthodox Catholic." It is well known that both Savonarola and Dante are claimed to have been published the Governor's letter with his own reply, which insisted on the acceptance of his resignation, as he considered he was as Irish as those who were Catholics, and resented the insult to his nationality. Thus was the bigotry of Governor Henry J. Gardner and his supporters rebuked by a man who would not allow Catholic men of his nationality to be discriminated against, without protest, by an upstart politician whose subsequent career reflected no credit on his patriotism, if he ever had any, which was very doubtful. He failed to aid in the raising of troops when the Civil War broke out, and was among the unbefayers in its prosecution, while the men whom he had banished from the state militia were among the early volunteers in one of the first three years' regiments that distinguished itself on the field of battle.

Some of the reasons why an Indian clergy is impossible are set forth by the Rev. Frederic Eberschweiler, S. J., of the Fort Belknap Indian Agency, in the September Catholic World. He says that we might as well consider the Caucasian race one single nation as to make the fundamental mistake that the Indian race is one nationality. The North American Indian tribes are no more united than are the nations of Europe. "St. Piegau—priest—would be as far from being a native priest to the Sioux as the French Abbe is from being a native to the German Catholics of Berlin." The Indian tribes will not adopt the language of their conquerors, and speak as many different languages as are to be found in Europe. Where Father Eberschweiler is located there are Aseinites of Canadian origin, and the Gros-ventres of Mexican origin. The languages of these dissimilar tribes do not resemble each other any more closely than do German and Italian. The missionaries use the Indian mother-tongue of those confided to their spiritual care, but, of course, would be glad if native priests could be found to replace them. This, however, at present, seems to be a vain desire, for to get a priesthood and sisterhood speaking its native language there, would have to be native vocation on each reservation.

horate the assertion that the state church made equal gains in all parts of Germany, excepting Bavaria, then it may be answered in the first place, that by such an appeal the independent contradicts its own source of information. The Theologisches Jahrbuch distinctly states: "In Wurtemberg also the state church has lost rather than gained during the last few years; further: Even in the kingdom of Saxony the number of those quitting the state church has been steadily on the increase, while conversions to the state church have decreased." In the second place it is to be remarked that the statistics of Theologisches Jahrbuch are in no wise authentic nor reliable. The Jahrbuch is a compilation of a Protestant preacher, who himself does not appeal to state official sources. The assertion of the Independent that "each convert is obliged to notify official authority of his conversion," is simply a fiction. There is no such obligation even in Prussia. Besides, conversions to the Catholic faith are reported only in cases when special reasons induce the newly-converted to do so. In the third place, the enumeration of the Jahrbuch itself is false. One proof may suffice. The Jahrbuch reports forty-two conversions from Protestantism to the Catholic faith in the Rhenish provinces in the year 1896. Now, in the diocese of Treves alone, there are on record during that year one hundred and fifty-nine conversions from Protestantism to the Catholic faith; and the diocese of Treves is only a part of the Rhenish province, much smaller, for instance, than the diocese of Cologne. This may suffice to show how reliable is the report of the number of conversions to Protestantism in Germany. More might be said about the quality of the converts, which I pass over.

Reformers before the Reformation" by the same sort of people who profess to believe that St. Patrick was a Protestant; but it is a little surprising to learn that agricultural claimants as one of their prophets. But that August Comte regarded the daily reading of a canto from the Divina Commedia and a chapter from "The Imitation of Christ" as a necessary exercise for earnest positivists. Dr. Moore himself is not a Catholic, and at times betrays a little unnecessary feeling against some of the Popes; but he makes it very clear that to consider Dante as other than a loyal Catholic is to mistake the denunciation of abuses in discipline for the impugning of dogma. This mistake Catholics would not be likely to make; but, for the enlightenment of Protestant readers, we rejoice that Dr. Moore has written these articles.

LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS.

The Tarte-Greener libel case in Montreal, came to a close on Saturday, the jury returning a verdict of guilty against Greener. It is reported from London that Japan spends $127,000,000 in England, during the next eight years in developing her navy. GENERAL NEIL DOW, the famous prohibitionist, died at his home in Portland, Maine, on Saturday last. He was 93 years of age. NEXT week we will send out bills to all who are indebted to us for subscriptions. We trust our friends will be prepared to remit promptly.

LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS.

OWING to the large amount of space occupied by the King's County press list, we are obliged to hold over much editorial and other matter. RECENT advices from New Orleans indicate that yellow fever is on the increase and failure to report cases is making the government work difficult. THE attendance at the Halifax exhibition on Wednesday last was eleven thousand, and twenty thousand on Thursday. Over sixty thousand attended altogether. BERLIN advices say that the Prussian police are on the track of a powerful anarcho-dynastic movement in Germany which includes many members of the best families. A NEW YORK dispatch of the 2nd says that Eugene Knowlton and his wife fall on the street fasting for hunger while their three famished children cling about them. He said he could get no work. A crowd gathered and gave them money and food. WE would call the special attention of our readers to the advertisement of T. A. McLean in this issue. Any one in need of anything in his line may depend on getting satisfaction. Call and see him at the Eldridge laundry before purchasing elsewhere. SJA WILFRED LAWLER offered the portfolio of Justice to Hon David Mills and the latter has indicated his willingness to accept the same; consequently Mr. Mills becomes Minister of Justice in the retirement of Sir Oliver Howard to become Lieutenant Governor of Ontario in a week or two. A STRAWN writing at Seattle on the 2nd reported that the stores at Dawson had been compelled to close as their stock of provisions had been exhausted. It is considered doubtful if any supplies can get up this fall. Many persons are returning from the Klondike with but little gold. OTTAWA advices of the 2nd inst. say that the Minister of Trade and Commerce has declined to offer a loan for carrying the Canadian mails to and from Great Britain for one year from the 25th of November. A condition of the contract is that the terminus on this side of the Atlantic must be a Canadian port. D. J. KANE, Esq., United States Consul at Charlottetown for the past four years, left for Boston on the Halifax on Friday last, accompanied by Mrs. Kane and the family. While here Mr. and Mrs. Kane made home of them and will be glad to hear of their future prosperity. Mr. Kane is succeeded as Consul here by D. J. Vale, Esq. of Vermont.

Two comrades named Rogers and Newcombs came over from Newfoundland this spring, and began work in Albert county. A few weeks ago the former had his head sawed off in a mill, and his wages were utilized in sending the body home for burial. The other said if anything should happen him that he wanted them to bury his body wherever he was at work, and send the money home as it would do more good. Last Thursday at Riverside, Albert county, he was killed in the pit of the stomach by a heavy stone from a tread mill and sank down dead. On Sunday his remains were interred in the cemetery of the village where the fatal accident occurred. This seems a rather strange incident.—Moncton Times.
