WHEN LOVE Came Too Late.

CHAPTER IX.

"The Bird is Netted."

"Well, you see, he's the sort of man you do learn to know quickly; so-so frank."

"Frank!" with a smile.

"Well," he stammered, "not exactly frank, but—"

Olivia laughed.

"Never mind," she said. "What you mean to say is that you admire him very much, and that, like papa, you have taken to him."

"That's it," said Bertie, with a sigh of relief. "So the squire likes him, does he? Well, I'm not surprised. I hope they'll be great friends. He'll cheer the squire up, and he wants it, dear old squire."

Olivia turned to him with anxious eagerness.

"Then you have noticed that papa has been dull and low-spirited lately?" she said.

"Yes; I—I don't think he has been quite up to his usual form. He looks bothered and worried about something," said Bertie. "But don't be uneasy, Olivia; it can't be anything serious. What could trouble him?"

Olivia looked vacantly at the feathers nodding in Aunt Amelia's hat. "I don't know of anything," she said, thoughtfully. "No, there can be nothing. What is Mr. Faradeane going to recite to-night?" she asked, after a pause.

"I haven't the least idea," replied Bertie. "He has said nothing to me about it. Whatever it is will surely be well done, you may depend. Here we are."

The entertainment had evidently been regarded as an event of some importance, for there was a tolerably long string of carriages at the door, and Olivia, as she entered the schoolroom on Bertie's arm, saw that the place was crammed. Their appearance was the signal for a burst of clapping and stamping, and passing up a narrow lane between the chairs, they made their way to the platform amid a hearty welcome. Aunt Amelia, "all becks and nods and wretched smiles," ushered them into chairs—all except Faradeane, who took his seat in a corner among the audience—and the performance was proceeded with.

It was like the usual village entertainment. There was the church choir with a part song—sung by half a dozen girls and young men, the former all giggles, the latter all hands and feet. Then the vicar, with a vacuous smile, obliged with a solo on the concertina—by no means badly played; and Faradeane would have enjoyed it if the worthy man had not opened his mouth at all the high notes, and frowned terribly at all the low ones. Then a pale young lady sang a sentimental ballad in a voice which only reached the first two rows of chairs; and, following her, a pale young gentleman, with narrow shoulders, growled out "The Village Blacksmith."

The audience, gentle and simple, applauded everything vociferously, and when the pale young lady forgot her words, applauded louder than ever. A lady and gentleman sang the "Glou Glou" duet, which, though they had practiced it, say, two hundred times, was not quite in tune even then; and then the vicar, adjusting his eyeglasses, announced that Mr. Faradeane had kindly consented to give them a recitation.

Every eye turned upon the handsome, grave-faced man in the corner, and Olivia's among them.

He rose, amid the stamping and clapping which welcomed every announcement, and slowly and unobtrusively mounted the platform.

For a moment he looked round, as if to ascertain the size of the room. Then, in low, but clear tones, said, "The Dream of Eugene Aram."

Everybody knows the poem. It is the best of Tom Hood's, far and away, and he was a poet of no mean order. It is the confession of a murder made to a schoolboy by the usher, who pretends that he is only telling a dream, whereas he is really giving every detail of his crime, and the remorse that haunts him.

Faradeane began, in a light tone that reached the remotest corner of the room, to describe the school and the boys, and then gradually, and yet as it seemed suddenly, to assume the character of the murderer, upon whose conscience the crime rides so terribly that he feels constrained to confess it.

Gradually the voice grew deeper, graver, more intense; and as he approached the verse which tells of the crime, the silence in the crowded room was intense. Step by step the confession proceeded, until it reached the point where the murderer in vain endeavors to conceal the body of the man he has slain, and at this point the voice, the gesture, the very face of the reciter were so awful that a shudder ran through the audience, and from the center of the room a woman's sobs rose audibly.

Olivia sat, her eyes fixed on Faradeane's face, her heart almost motionless. She had seen good actors in their strongest characters, but she had seen nothing more terrible than this "Dream of Eugene Aram" as recited in the village schoolroom.

Every now and then a thrill of horror shot through her; then, as the guilty man told of the remorse that haunted him as he stood among the school children, all so pure and innocent, and tried, unavailingly, to join in their evening prayers and hymns, she felt the tears rise to her eyes, and a big lump grow in her throat.

The effect was awful, and when, in his ordinary tone, the reciter wound up with the lines which record the arrest of the guilty usher, she sank back with a sigh of pity and relief. For a moment or two the audience stared at the reciter, at this stranger with the handsome face and sad, dark eyes, in awful silence; then Lord Carfield broke the spell by a vigorous clapping of hands, and amid a storm of applause, Mr. Faradeane, with a faint smile, stepped quietly and slowly from the platform.

As he did so he glanced—was it by accident?—toward Olivia.

She met his glance for a moment, then lowered her eyes, and turned to speak to the vicar, who, worthy man, was sitting with his hands clasped on his knees, and his eyes and mouth wide open.

"My dear Miss Vanley," he gasped, "what an exciting recitation! I—I don't think I ever heard anything more—more terrible. Mr. Faradeane—"

"Faradeane," said Olivia.

"I beg your pardon—Faradeane—is a most accomplished actor, most accomplished." "Oh, thank you so much, so very much," murmured Aunt Amelia, jerking her feathers at Faradeane. "It was wonderful, perfectly wonderful. I was never so horrified in my life! Why, he has made our poor little entertainment quite distinguished! How could you do it?" "It is not very difficult," said Mr.

Faradeane, with a smile. "You are all too good-natured, Miss Vanley," and he sank into his corner and was hidden from the curious and awe-struck gaze of the audience.

The entertainment proceeded; but after the event of the evening, the part songs and duets fell flat, and the big audience dispersed, thinking and talking of nothing but "The Dream of Eugene Aram" and the strange gentleman who had made them shudder and turn pale.

As the Grange party left the room, Lord Carfield came up.

"Where is your friend, Mr. Faradeane, Bertie?" he asked. "I wish you would introduce me. I never heard Hood's poem better done."

Bertie, who had Olivia on his arm, looked round and beckoned to Faradeane.

"My father," he said, "wants to know you, Faradeane."

Mr. Faradeane came forward and bowed.

The old earl looked at him with a rather puzzled expression.

"Haven't I seen you before, Mr. Faradeane?" he said.

Faradeane looked him steadily in the face.

"I think not, Lord Carfield," he said.

"No! That's strange. I had a fancy that we had met before this. Allow me to thank you for an intellectual treat. Your recital of 'Eugene Aram' was remarkably good; remarkably good. I never heard it better done, never."

Mr. Faradeane smiled.

"There are hundreds of people who could do it better, Lord Carfield."

"I dare say," said his lordship, "but I have never heard them. It made me shudder; but that is the effect you wanted to produce, no doubt. What amazes me, though, is how a man who hasn't committed a murder—I don't suppose that you have, Mr. Faradeane?" Faradeane smiled strangely.

"What astonishes me is how a man who hasn't slain a fellow-creature could portray the feelings of the criminal so closely as you have done."

"It's all trickery, Lord Carfield," said Faradeane.

"Oh, of course," said Bertie Bradstone, who was standing near, and listening with a moody bitterness.

He had been watching Olivia during the whole of the recital, and had remarked, with furious jealousy, the effect produced on her. "It's just a knack," he said.

Lord Carfield turned to him with that slow, calm regard which always drove Bertie Bradstone half mad.

"Mr. Bradstone is quite right," said Faradeane, and the pleasant assent chafed Bradstone still more than Lord Carfield's cold glance.

"We'd better be going, hadn't we?" he said, and almost pushing past Bertie, he offered Olivia his arm.

As she put her hand upon it, he felt that she was trembling, and looked at her with an ugly red glowing in his face.

"This confounded business has frightened you!" he said, almost loud enough for Faradeane to hear.

"In my opinion, that kind of thing isn't fit for a mixed audience."

"I am not frightened, thanks," said Olivia, coldly.

"You are trembling, then," he said, with barely suppressed fury.

Olivia looked at him very much as Lord Carfield had looked, and taking her hand from his arm, turned to Miss Amelia. "Are you ready, Aunt?" she said, and waited until she came up to her.

Bartley Bradstone bit his lip at this distinct rebuke, and was forced to walk down the room alone.

As he approached the door, chafing with envy and mortification, a lad entered, and, looking round, came up to him with a telegram.

"What's this?" demanded Bartley Bradstone, roughly.

"A telegram, sir," the lad said. "The postmaster said I was to bring it here, as it might be important."

"He is a fool," said Bartley Bradstone. "Besides, a telegram at this time!"

"I had to ride over with it from Wainford, sir," said the lad, shyly; "and I didn't like to come in till the entertainment was over."

Bartley Bradstone opened the envelope, scowling, and read the telegram. It ran thus:

"Have got all you want. The bird is netted.—Mowle."

He crushed it in his hand, and looked furtively round as if he almost suspected that the rest of the party knew its purport; then his face cleared, and he glanced at Olivia with an ugly smile of sinister significance.

"You snub me, do you, my lady?" he said, under his breath. "You'll change your tone presently, I fancy."

And he went into the open air mumbled the words of the telegram.

"Mowle's a fool to send such a wire," he said, wiping the perspiration from his forehead. "But he's right. The bird is netted!"

CHAPTER X.

In The Moonlight.

When they came out of the schoolroom into the open air, the moonlight was streaming over the pastoral scene, lighting up the crowd of people still talking of the wonderful "Dream of Eugene Aram," as they made their way through the string of carriages.

Faradeane paused to say good-night; but Aunt Amelia would not offer her hand.

"My dear Mr. Faradeane!" she exclaimed, "surely you would not leave us! Bertie, the squire quite expects you back to smoke a cigar with him; do, do persuade him to come with you. Really, I feel that I cannot lose you, Mr. Faradeane."

Faradeane hesitated; but Bertie, eager to snatch a few more minutes of his idol's society, pressed his arm.

"Come on," he said. "The squire will be pleased, I know."

Olivia stood silent, her eyes fixed dreamily on the moonlit scene.

"Must we go back in those stuffy carriages," she said, in a low voice. "Can we not walk, aunt?"

"Certainly, you may," replied Miss Amelia. "But I think I will ride; these night dews are rather treacherous, I'm sure," and she dropped her head on her shoulder, and simpered, "Mr. Bradstone will be kin enough to take care of me."

Bartley Bradstone's face would have supplied a fine study for a painter of character, but he was helpless; and with a stifled oath, gave her his arm.

In 1897 he was one of the three special envoys accredited to the Government of France Britain and Germany in the interests of international binationalism. In the vicinity of Tolmino, north of Gorizia, fighting is particularly severe.

According to reports reaching Rome, the number of Austrians dead or wounded is said to be very large.

The Italians also have taken prisoners in this area.

Carson, who urged that every combatant, irrespective of age, was entitled to vote, contending there was no reason why women's claims should stand in the way of giving all combatants the vote, the House passed the first reading of a Bill extending the life of Parliament. A separate bill bringing into force the new register basis on present qualifications on May 31st next, will be introduced into the House to-morrow.

There is no doubt that one of the main reasons for the Government's avoidance of the franchise problem was the threat by women that they would refuse to recognize any change of franchise in favor of fighting men which failed at the same time to recognize women's right to the franchise.

When the Premier made the announcement on Aug. 1, that he would introduce the bill, he said he intended at the same time to announce the Government's proposals regarding resignation. To-day, however, Mr. Asquith said it was not the purpose of the Government to ask Parliament at this time to take up the alteration of qualifications for the franchise.

Dealing with the suggestion that the franchise should be extended to all soldiers and munition workers, Mr. Asquith said that these were the gravest difficulties in the way; and that there were serious objections from the military viewpoint of holding a general election among troops in the field.

He added general enfranchisement had been brought face to face with another problem.

What are we going to do with the women? He was bound to say, the Premier went on, that representatives of women had presented him with a perfectly unanswerable case. They were content to abide by the present franchise, but would urge their claims if qualifications for the franchise altered.

Fishery Prospects Are Poor in Many Places.

Aug. 12th. From J. F. Devereaux, Cape Race to St. Shotts. The catch is 9,200 quintals, and for last week, 200. All the traps have been taken up as fishing for them is over.

The hook and liners find cod scarce, and prospects are poor at present. There is some herring, but no squid for bait.

Two motor boats and 49 dories and skiffs are fishing.

Aug. 12th. From T. McCarthy, (Renews to Seal Cove.) Codfish is scarce, and operations are considerably hampered by the hard winds.

Prospects are poor, though there is plenty of squid. Only 16 dories, 26 skiffs and 7 boats are fishing.

The catch is 2,450 quintals, with 100 for last week.

Aug. 12th. From S. E. Chafe, South Head, Brigus, to Bay Roberts Point. The trap fishery is over, and present prospects are poor, as there is no squid bait. Two of the traps have taken 400 and 450 quintals respectively, and several others from 100 to 200 quintals.

The remainder have done very little or nothing to date. The total catch is 2,750 quintals, and for last week 20. Forty punts are fishing.

Aug. 12th. From W. White (English Harbour to Spaniard's Cove.) Owing to stormy weather nothing has been done by the hook and liners recently, and all the traps have been taken in, the fishery for them being over. Squid is fairly plentiful at some places, but scarce on the whole, and prospects are poor owing to the limited supply of bait. Forty boats are still fishing, and the total catch is 12,300 quintals.

Health Hints.

Have you ever noticed a bread wagon with the doors wide open and the dust and dirt from the street blowing in over the bread? Just stop and think of the dirt, and you will always ask your Grocer for Lynch's Bread wrapped and sealed by machinery in a dust- and germ-proof wrapper. —1918.

Household Notes.

Rub rusty metal with turpentine.

Chicken fat makes delicious crisp cookies.

Soup stock may be canned as well as anything else.

Never wash windows when the sun shines on them.

Food cannot be kept too clean—especially in hot weather.

When old wall paper is to be removed, simply turn the hose on it.

Soft flax (beef) fat tried out is a good and inexpensive fat for frying.

The hostess of the present aims to set her table as simply as possible, placing only the silver for one course at a time.

Oranges, bananas and figs cut up together make a very delicious dessert.

Naval Heroes

Return

In Charge of First Class Petty Officer Samuel Warren.

On the express which reached town yesterday afternoon ten Naval Reservists, eight on furlough and two time expired, returned after an absence of close on two years. The men were in charge of First Class Petty Officer Samuel Warren, of Gooseberry Island, Bonavista Bay, and their names are:

- Granted one month's furlough:— David Squires, St. Phillip's, C. B. Percy P. Coles, Brooklyn, B. B. Geo. Park, John's Beach, B.D.V. William Avery, Long Beach, Randon, T.B. Joseph Seaward, Clarendville. John T. Gilliam, Channel. Frederick Martin, Burlington, N. D. Bay. Time expired—served eighteen months:— John J. Campbell, Ship Cove, St. George's. Ernest Reid, City. Such short notice of their coming had been given that it was not possible to organize as full and cordial a reception as might have been desired. Nevertheless, they were met at the station by the Ladies' Reception Committee, and addressed by the Hon. J. F. Bennett, Acting Premier, who on behalf of the people of Newfoundland extended a hearty welcome home to the men of the Royal Navy. They were then placed in auto-

They were then placed in automobiles and driven to Government House where they were received by His Excellency the Governor. The men are of exceptionally strong physique and clean cut appearance. All of them have been on active service, several being in the thickest of the fight.

First Class Petty Officer Warren has an excellent record as a Petty Officer, being rated as first class, a position not easy to obtain in the Navy and only to be won by hard work and strict attention to duty. On April 25, 1915, he was wounded in the face by a Turkish bullet while assisting in the landing of troops at Suvla Bay. After recovering from his wound he was transferred to a mine-sweeper in the North Sea. Reservist Warren is married and his good wife has proven herself worthy of her husband, for ever since the war commenced she has worked hard knitting and sewing for the soldiers and sailors; and it was only a few days ago, that she sent in some packages of excellent moccasins for hospital work. This is only another instance of the patriotic spirit of the women of our Island Home.

B.I.S. SILVER MEDALLISTS.—The Collegians and B.I.S. football teams contested last evening on St. George's Field. The latter won by two goals to nil, their opponents playing without three of their regular players. Play on the whole was not up to the usual standard. Though the result does not affect the championship honors, which are the Terra Novas', yet it gives the B.I.S. second place in the League and makes them winners of the silver medals.

There was a sign of activity in recruiting circles at Headquarters and five young men offered their services for the Empire. Their names are:—

The total number of enrolments to date is 3,959. A Correction.—In last Saturday's list of volunteers, the names of Richard Costello and Pat. Boland were given, and it was stated that they belonged to Caplin Bay, B. D. V. This was incorrect—it should have read Caplin Bay, Ferryland.

Hr. Grace Notes.

A large number of workmen arrived from Bell Island on Saturday by the s.s. Port Saunders, returning to the Island by the same boat on Sunday night.

Mr. M. Sellars came in from Bell Island on Saturday, and leaves for New Harbor to-morrow morning, accompanied by Mrs. Sellars, where they will spend a few days with friends.

Mr. George Pike, who recently returned from St. John's where he had been at the General Hospital, speaks in the highest terms of the kind treatment of doctors and nurses of that institution while he was under their care.

Rev. A. A. Holmes and Rev. F. S. Coffin exchanged pulpits at last night's service. Both congregations enjoyed the change.

Colonel Paterson took a run over here on Saturday and spent yesterday with his friends.

Mrs. Gordon, Proprietress of "Gordon Lodge," passed away on Thursday last at 2:15 p.m. after a short illness. Mrs. Gordon's death will be mourned by a large number of friends who had enjoyed the hospitality of "Gordon Lodge." Mrs. Gordon had reached the age of 88 years. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon.

Another old resident passed away on Friday, in the person of Mr. James Hunt, of the West End. Mr. Hunt had been in poor health for many years owing to injuries sustained in an accident at Montreal some years ago. He had reached his 83rd year. The funeral took place yesterday and was attended by the Conception Bay British Society, and by request a number of his juvenile branch as well. The employees of the Hr. Grace Boot and Shoe Factory are having a well-earned holiday this week, and a number of them left on the early train to-day for New Harbor Barrens, where they will tempt the finny tribe for the next few days. They will no doubt have a very enjoyable holiday.

Miss Bertha McKay arrived from Bell Island on Saturday, having spent two weeks, very pleasantly as the guest of Mrs. and Mr. E. Spencer. She also enjoyed the novel experience of visiting, accompanied by Mrs. Spencer, the depths, and prizes a souvenir—a piece of iron ore—picked up by herself a mile and a quarter down in the mines and out under the bay. The souvenir has been made into a paper weight, with the date and the distance under ground where found cut on it. This will be much prized. —COR.

Destructive Fire.

The accompanying message was received last evening by Mr. C. H. Hutchings, K. C., Deputy Minister of Justice:

"On Sunday morning, a destructive fire occurred at Lower Island Cove. The shop, stores and oil refinery owned by Alexander Garland, Jr., were totally destroyed. The fire was discovered about 2 o'clock. It was impossible to save anything. Attention had to be given to saving the surrounding property. Fifteen hundred gallons of refined oil were destroyed, and the losses exceed $10,000, with no insurance. The cause of the fire is unknown. Only the calm night, saved the eastern end of the town."

THE SHOPPING LUNCHEON.

What should the tired woman do on a tedious shopping expedition eat for her luncheon?

It is an easy enough question, in cold weather, but just what answers her purpose in the "good old summer-time?" Soup is nutritious and easily digested, but one gets overheated from it, and however plausible the theory that hot tea and soup leave one cooler in the end than other foods, it applies best where there is a chance to change one's clothes.

Chilled soup; Eureka! Just the thing! The nourishment of soup—honestly made and not stiffened with gelatine—without its warmth and yet not sufficiently cold to interfere with the digestion of the rest of the meal, for he is sure to order something else. If soup is not indulged in, our old friend Boston baked beans will furnish enough cheap protein to provide energy for the rest of the day.

To curries of chicken, egg or mutton there can be no possible objection, for are they not the most exploited food of India and other hot countries? Furthermore, the bed of boiled rice on which they are inevitably served contribute toward a well balanced ration.

We have excellent photographs of Capt. Father Nangle (N.F.L.D. Regiment) for sale at 50c., $1.00, $1.50. Outport orders receive every attention. J. C. PARSONS, Bank of Montreal Building, St. John's, Nfld. jly20,cod,t

Household Notes.

Buy household goods in packages as much as possible. This is sensible economy.

In making chicken salad be sure to take out every atom of bone, gristle and skin.

To keep lemons, put them in a jar of clean white sand, so that they do not touch.

Good lard is much better than butter for basting roasted meat and for frying.

Use very little bluing in washing laces, for the lace absorbs a great deal of blue.

People who use tin cans for canning should be careful never to put vinegar in them. Never scrape the cob when preparing corn for canning—use only the tips of the kernels.

Never hoard old clothing or household articles—give them to somebody who can use them.

Yellow will light up the gloomiest of rooms, just as green will cool and soften the most garish.

A salad of onions, sardines, tomatoes and peppers is properly served with brown bread.

Every kitchen should have among its supplies a saw for trimming meat and some larding needles.

Whenever possible, have a little pool in your garden—it adds greatly to the charm of the flowers.

A tiny piece of garlic laid on the lettuce half an hour before serving will give a slight savory flavor.

To freeze cream more quickly, pack the freezer for a few minutes before you put the mixture in.

The cloudy look on a piano can be removed by a cloth dipped in soap and water and wrung very dry.

BEST VALUE OBTAINABLE IN TEA. If the tea you are now getting is high in price and poor in quality, try our Teas. Ours are low in price and high in quality and have been causing a sensation lately, for we have been introducing a couple of broken Orange Pekoe Teas at 40c. and 45c. per lb., and our customers say they are equal to teas at 50c. and 60c. lb. The reason is we import direct from Ceylon in large quantities when the markets are low, and also we price our teas very moderately.

We beg to introduce to you a New Gramophone at only $5 ea. This is the make of a new company, viz., the Emerson Phonograph Co., and is having a tremendous sale in the United States and Canada. This machine is not equal to a $100.00 machine, but we would sooner listen to it than to some $25.00 machines. It will play most all well known makes of records, though the Emerson record is a smaller record. Prices for Emerson Records are: Single Facéd, 15c. each; Double Facéd, 35c. each. We anticipate a large demand for the Emerson Phonograph.

You will always find this to be so with us, and now more especially.

"But why did you go when you knew you were too tired?" asked the husband. "The wife in the case had put the finishing touch to a condition of utter faggedness by going on a tiresome, all-day jaunt with her husband, and had been taken ill and ordered to her bed for a complete rest."

"I thought you'd be so upset if I didn't. I thought you'd say I never wanted to go anywhere," she said. "That's foolish! I didn't insist on your going, did I? What did I say to make you feel that way?"

"Nothing yesterday. It's what you have said before when I didn't go."

He called her unreasonable. "I call that unreasonable," said the husband. "To make yourself sick going this time because some other time I wanted you to go."

Do you think it was unreasonable, reader friend?

I don't. On the contrary, I think it was absolutely logical.

The only way she had of judging what he would do that particular time was by what he had done in times past.

"Of Shoes and Ships and Sealing Wax of Cabbages & Kings."
THE HOBBO.

The hobbo is a modest member of society who is too proud to work and too tired to bathe. One of the most refined acts of cruelty that can be perpetrated is to lead a confirmed hobbo up to something that looks like work or a shower bath and watch him faint dead away.

The hobbo is usually somebody who ran away from home in early youth in order to escape parting a few cows or hoeing the potatoes. This tendency could have been removed at the proper time by love and a careful coddling, but the chances are that the hobbo's parents thought they were rearing a piece of mural decoration instead of a human derelict. The home where the children are expected to perform a few acts of helpful industry once in a while is a poor recruiting station for the hobbo army.

The hobbo goes South in the winter and fits North in the spring, along with the bow-legged robin redbreast. Unlike the robin, however, he does not go north to work, but to rest. There is not enough rest being manufactured at the present time to satisfy the cravings of two stout, prohibition hobbos, to say nothing of those who have been resting ever since the Civil War. All over the North in the summer time, are to be found cosy rest resorts inhabited by able-bodied hobbos who are three-fourths appetite and one-fourth snore. Now and then the hobbo will sail forth to the home of some kind-hearted housewife, who imagines she is entertaining an angel unwares, and return with bulging pockets and stomach. If it were not for the tender heart of woman the hobbo would vanish off the face of the earth faster than the Progressive party.

The hobbo is a great traveler, and jumps from place to place just ahead of the town marshal. There is only one thing he is afraid of, next to toll, and that is the double-fisted freight brakeman, who has perfect control over his right leg. Many a tired hobbo, who is in need of encouragement and a hair cut, has been kicked in a rude and circumspet manner from a coal car by one of these base hirelings who has no more heart than a gourd.

The hobbo could earn $3.50 a day and board in the wheat fields, if he did not shrink from contact with labor. He has solved the problem of how to live without work and be happy without a toothbrush, which shows that he is a great deal smarter than many men who wear better clothes.

SALESMEN.

WALT MASON.

Throughout the town my wares I holler, and try to sell a new gold dollar for sixty-seven cents; in vain, alas, are all my yellings; in vain I haunt your shops and dwellings, your woodsheds and your tents. No man will buy my handsome money; men seem to think it must be phony, because I'd sell it cheap; so all day long I seek a market, display my coin and boost and bark it, and then break down and weep.

But now comes Nestor Newton Neuter, who deals in dollars made of pewter, alloyed with lead and tin; he seems to loaf while I am sweating, and yet men's bundles he is getting, he rakes the greenbacks in. One man has got the trick of selling; he needs to do no frantic yelling to gather in the plunk; he just leans back, his system sunning, and all the people come a-running, to buy his blooming junk. The other fellow strives and labors to sell good plunder to his neighbors, and never gets the kale; no scraps of business can he rake up, there something lacking in his make-up, he cannot make a sale.

Everyday Etiquette.

"Will you kindly inform me whether the prefix 'Miss' is proper before an 18-year-old girl's name on her card which she encloses with an invitation," asked Ellza.

"The card should be engraved with 'Miss' for all occasions," said her aunt.

HOSPITAL FILLED. — At present there is not a single unoccupied cot at the General Hospital and many people from the outports are in boarding houses in town waiting to be admitted to the institution.

For Our Boys in Khaki

The Daughters of Empire propose holding a Garden Party on Wednesday, August 30, from 3 o'clock to 7 o'clock at Silverton, Kilbride Road, the residence of Lady Outerbridge, immediately opposite Bowring Park.

The proceeds from the Garden Party will go towards helping a fund to enable our Newfoundland soldiers, when on furlough or back from the trenches, to seek much needed rest and relaxation at one of the comfortable Hostels which are now being provided for the especial benefit of Overseas Soldiers. These Hostels (accommodation at same costing three shillings per day) have been established in London and Edinburgh by The Victoria League (a society in London in alliance with the Daughters of Empire in St. John's) and are under the personal management and care of the members of the League. Devoted and careful attention is given to every detail conducive to the welfare and recuperation of our men. In addition to the accommodation provided for at the Hostels, entertainments such as Smoking Concerts, Motor drives, etc. are arranged for our men, the object of the Society being to supply the wants of Overseas soldiers which soldiers coming from England would expect to find in their own homes.

Don't forget the date, Wednesday, August 30th.

PLAGIARISED AND OTHERWISE.

Knee deep in August, and the Pennant race
Goes merrily, crazily, on apace.
While some trail, others go neck and neck,
And I can't dope the winning club, by heck.
It may be the Cubs, or the gray-and-red hose;
The Wanderers may cop by a nose;
Or the B. I. S. may have the stuff—
They have been in the cellar long enough.

The doubleheader to-morrow should result in the best and most exciting game for the season. The Wanderers and B. I. S. are trying for first place, with the Cubs and Red Lions at the end of the ladder without a game to their credit. After to-morrow, therefore, all the teams will be apportioned their positions in the last round for the 1916 championship.

The first game will start at 2 p.m.
with the following players:—

CUBS.		RED LIONS.
Hall	Pitcher	Cooney	Catcher
Clouston	Power
	Catcher
St. John	1st Base	Hiltz
Duggan	2nd Base	Buckingham
Orr	3rd Base	Ellis
Lehr	Short Stop	Maher
Carter	Right Field	Rolls
Tessier	Centre Field	Quick
Murphy	Left Field	Jenkins

The B. I. S. and Wanderers will be the contestants at 5.30 and the line up will likely be as follows:—

B. I. S.		WANDERERS.
Carew	Pitcher	King	Catcher
G. Power	Power	Ford	Catcher
Ring	1st Base	Hartnett	1st Base
Doyle	2nd Base	Hocken	2nd Base
Dr. Power	3rd Base	Dr. Pritchard	3rd Base
McGrath	Short Stop	Britt	Short Stop
O'Reilly	Right Field	Brien	Right Field
Grace	Centre Field	Hunt	Centre Field
Channing	Left Field	Dobbin	Left Field

The entire proceeds will be devoted towards augmenting the Garden Party Funds held last week in aid of the C.
of E. Orphanage. The admission is only 5 cents.

William Brown had lots of sorrow.
Hard luck was his middle name.
Not a nickel could he borrow,
Gloom was all that ever came.
When he went to see a ball game
His ill luck pursued him still;
Out of fifteen hundred fans a Foul tip picked out poor old Bill.

Demon Dug has some fancy stuff prepared which he promises to pull tomorrow for the amusement and edification of the fans, provided weather conditions permit.

When is a balk not a balk?
With one or more bases occupied, the batsman hits a foul ball which is not caught. When the ball is returned to the infield, the second baseman gets it and tries to execute the "hidden ball trick," while the pitcher stands on the slab and makes a complete motion to pitch to the batsman, although the pitcher has not the ball
in his possession.

Officers Returning.

14th August, 1916.
Dear Sir,
His Excellency the Governor has received from Captain Timewell, London, a report that Captain Carty, who went to England on Regimental duties, is now returning via Quebec, and he is accompanied by Lieutenant Carter and 2nd Lieutenant Hicks, who are both on sick leave.

Yours truly,
ARTHUR MEWS,
Deputy Colonial Secretary.

COX'S GELATINE.—Mark the brand. The housewife's choice and the old favorite that stands every test.
For sale at all first-class grocers. Insist on getting Cox's.—June 24, 11.

The ball is hit foul; therefore, it is out of play, and so remains until it is returned to the pitcher standing in his box.

The baseball rules seem fairly complex to the fan who is struggling to master them, but that they do not cover every possible contingency was brought out by a recent decision of the American League President.

Ban Johnson, in sustaining the decision of Umpire Chill in the recent Boston-Cleveland game, established a precedent for plays in which the umpire interferes with a baserunner. The decision of Chill, against which Boston protested, was that the runner return to his base. So far as is known, no similar case has occurred in major league baseball, and is not covered by the rules.

Turner after making a hit, rounded his first base and collided with Chill, not only once but twice in his progress towards second. Turner thereupon stopped running and walked down to second, where he was promptly tagged out by the Boston second baseman. Turner was called out by the umpire after being tagged, but in conference with Umpire-in-
Chief Dineen, Umpire Chill ordered Turner to return to first. This was the official decision which was O.K'd by Ban Johnson, and the Boston protest was dismissed.

We hope nothing like this crops up to-morrow to ruffle the "usually placid" temperaments of the players in the B. I. S.-Wanderers game or the umps, will sure have some busy afternoon.

The farmer loves to hear the crow
Of the cock at break of day,
While others much prefer the clang
Of the breakfast bell, they say.
But sweeter far to me's the sound
As I sit in the big ball lot—
Of the willow's zing 'gainst the old horsehide

Which announces the base-hit swat,
Aye! the good old base-hit swat.

The popping cork is music sweet
To many a listening ear,
Though some prefer the auto's horn
With his "honk honk" loud and clear;
But soothing after a toilsome day—
When troubles should be forgot—
Is the bat's sharp crack as it stings
the ball

Which proclaims the base-hit swat,
Yep! the good old base-hit swat.

All will be glad to welcome Ford's re-appearance to-morrow. Charley is a keen and clever player, and when it comes to pulling "inside" stuff behind the plate, well—don't tell us, but ask us.

It is likely that the Irish will be minus their first baseman—Simpson—to-morrow, and the three famous
"MACS" of the Wanderers—McLeod, MacLean and McCrinde—will also be missing from their lineup.

"Paddy" Dobbin makes his debut to League baseball to-morrow, and will play left field for the Wanderers, as will also O'Reilly of the B. I. S.

Each year since the inception of the League here, Spaldings, the famous sporting goods house in New York, have presented watch, fobs to the championship team. We have seen those presented to the Wanderers for 1915, and they are by far the prettiest they have yet sent down. It is a miniature gold-plated baseball hanging as a fob with the words: "St.
John's Champions, 1915," inscribed on them. They are one of the classiest souvenirs we have seen for some time of any branch of sport.

We notice S. E. Garland is advertising a new book "The Triumph of Tim!" Do coming events cast their shadows before?

"The dope I know," the rooster said,
"Has set my heart aflare! There isn't half a chance that they will lose tomorrow's game. 'Twill be a rout, a massacre, a lowdown brutal shame."

"The dope you spiel," his best girl said, "May set your heart aglow;
whereas it only makes me laugh, Ho!
Ho! Ho! Ho! Ho! You pulled that same old brand of dope just one short year ago."

TO-DAY'S Messages.

11.10 A.M.

TREASURY BILLS AND CERTIFICATES.

LONDON, To-day.
The Treasury has given notice that capital and interest on Treasury bills and war expenditure certificates issued henceforth will be free from British income tax and from any taxation now or in future while held by persons neither domiciled nor ordinarily resident in the United Kingdom.

THE CHURCH-DESTROYERS.

BERLIN, To-day.
Up to August 11th, Austro-Hungarian naval aeroplane squadrons bombed extensively the arsenal, railroad station, outer works, and outer forts of Venice, says an official statement issued at Vienna. Good successes were obtained despite thunder storms and rain. Fires were seen at the arsenal and railway station. A despatch from Rome under date August 12th, said the historic church of Saint Marie Formosa, in Venice, had been destroyed during the Austrian raid over the city on the night of August 10.

RUSSIAN GAINS.

PETROGRAD, To-day.
Continued gains for the Russians on the Sereth River and the region along the Ziota Lipa, where the troops have crossed at several points to the western bank, and the capture of the village of Tustobaby, north-east of the Dniester, are chronicled in an official statement issued last evening.

SUNK DANISH STEAMER.

LONDON, To-day.
The Danish steamer Ivar was sunk by a submarine off Canca, Italy, on Sunday, according to a despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Copenhagen. The crew of the steamer were saved. The Ivar was 2,139 tons, built in 1907, and hailed from Copenhagen.

STRIKE MAY BE SETTLED.

WASHINGTON, To-day.
President Wilson conferred to-day with both parties on the threatened country-wide railway strike. Last night it appeared a sufficient foundation had been laid to furnish a working basis for a settlement of the differences between employers and employees. The President will meet both sides again to-morrow.

LONDON BUDGET.

LONDON, To-day.
The Austrians and Germans in Galicia are still falling back before the advance of the Russians who, according to Petrograd, have captured the strongly fortified town of Tustobaby, northwest of the Dniester on the Upper Sereth. However, the Teutonic Allies at some points of their newly chosen lines are holding back the Russians with vigorous artillery fire. Berlin says south of Brody on the Lub-Grabarka sector the Russian attacks were put down with heavy losses and that the Russians who had penetrated the Teutonic positions on the Zhoroff-Konicya line, northwest of Tarnopol later was driven out and 300 of them made prisoners. According to Vienna, Russian attacks southwest of Polkamin near Brody, ended with the field before the Austro-German positions covered with Russian dead.

No change took place on Monday along either the British or French lines in France, bad weather hindering operations, which were confined most exclusively to artillery duels. According to Berlin the British have been expelled from their trenches over a front of 700 yards southwest of Thepval in the Poireres sector which they occupied on Sunday. On the Isenzo front, according to Rome, the Italians have made still further advances against the Austrians along the Carso plateau east of Hill 212 in the latter sector another line of trenches has been penetrated and more men made prisoners. In the Gorizia sector Rome says the Austrian guns are being busily employed against the Italians. Here according to Vienna seven charges by the Italians were put down by the Austrians.

DISGRACEFUL GAMBLING IN FOOD
LONDON, To-day.
The Daily Telegraph to-day says,

the opinion is freely expressed in the local wheat market that the rise in wheat prices was the result of a conspiracy on the part of German-American firms in Chicago to force up and embarrass the Entente Allies. The rise of wheat is condemned here as unnecessary, says the Daily Telegraph, and the whole business seems to have been engineered in America. The Statist says a coterie of English speculators have made the situation worse by engineering a local corner in the British wheat market. The newspaper, however, expresses the hope that wheat supplies now enroute here will reach Britain in time to bring to naught the machinations of English gamblers.

HUGE RUSSIAN SPOILS.

PETROGRAD, To-day.
The retreat of the Austrians from the Stripa continues with the Russians pounding the Austrian rear guard. Podgorny on the Koropice has fallen and General Count Von Bothmer's forces are taking up positions on the west bank of the Ziota River. The surrender of Miriamopol by the Austrians has enabled General Letchitzky to straighten the front of his advance toward Halcze, this now forming an almost direct east and west line only seven miles from that town at the nearest approach. The summary of prisoners and booty taken by the Russians during the last weeks operations estimates that 83,200 men and 1,730 officers were captured; and sixty-nine guns, 342 machine guns, and bomb-throwers were taken up by Generals Letchitzky, Scherbatchoff and Scharoff.

TROUBLE BETWEEN CHINA AND JAPAN.

TOKIO, To-day.
Chinese troops attacked the Japanese garrison at Chengchilun between Mukden and Chacyangfu, and have killed or wounded 17 Japanese soldiers and killed one officer, according to official advices from Chongchating the Japanese barracks are now besieged by Chinese soldiers. Reinforcements are being rushed to the beleaguered garrison. From Japanese forces stationed at Kaiguna and Sudinghai. The fighting resulted from the arrest of a Japanese merchant.

ITALIAN DREADNOUGHT BLOWS UP.

PARIS, To-day.
The Italian dreadnought Leonardo Da Vinci caught fire and blew up in the harbour of Tanante, Italy, and 300 of her crew were drowned, says a Turin despatch to the Petit Journal. The date of the disaster is given only as a day in August. The fire says the despatch was discovered in the kitchen and spread rapidly. Capt. Immy ordered the magazines to be flooded and tried to beach the ship, but one magazine exploded before this could be done. The vessel was turned over on her side and a large number of the crew were thrown into the sea.

FRENCH TAKE TRENCHES AT VERDUN.

PARIS, To-day.
French troops captured German trenches on a front of about 300 yards long and 100 yds. north of the Chapel of Sainte Fine at the intersection of the Fleury and Vaux roads on the right bank of the Meuse in the Verdun sector last night, says a War Office statement. On the Somme front the French artillery was very active at Bellon and Lihons; elsewhere the night was calm.

LLOYD'S DON'T LOOK FOR SPEEDY FINISH.

LONDON, To-day.
Despite the prominence given to belligerent as well as in neutral countries to economic problems after the war and the rapid growth of plans by commercial and banking institutions for preparing to meet such problems, Lloyd's brokers are not reducing their quotations on the ending of the war in the near future. Ninety per cent. (9 to 10) was quoted to-day on the possibility of its ending by December 31, which was held to be a prohibitive rate, and the possibility of its ending by March or June next year was quoted at 45 per cent. (4 1/2 to 10).

Balkan Offensive Will Crush Enemy.

Drive From Salonika Foresadows Destruction of the Bulgur and the Turk—Germany and Austria Will Abandon Allies.

London, Aug. 12.—The importance attached to the new offensive in the Balkans is indicated in a long article written for the Daily Telegraph by Col. Ashmeade Bartlett, who was official observer for the entire press of Britain during the operations on Gallipoli. Colonel Bartlett says:—"The Bulgarians even assisted by the remnants of the Turkish army are not strong enough to resist an offensive from Salonika and at the same time hold off the pressure of half a million Rumanians from the north. 'I see no reason why Rumania should not throw pontoon bridges across the Danube in 1916. There may be some resistance, but under cover of her heavy artillery the task should be fairly easy of accomplishment. After the river is crossed, there is no formidable position between the river and Sofia which could not easily be turned."

"In 1915 Rumania had neutrality forced on her by the great German drive which cleared the Russians south of Galicia and Bukovina and brought their victorious armies to her northern frontier. She could not afford to risk an attack on Bulgaria with her northern and western frontiers thus threatened. There she could continue her wait-and-see policy.

my attacking Chataldz by enfilading the whole left wing of the Turkish positions from the Bay of Blyukichek-meje. The days of the Turks are certainly numbered."

Terrible Losses Suffered by the Austrians.

"I Saw Lines Upon Lines of Austrian Corpses, Exposed as if for a Review of the Dead," Says a Correspondent.
London, August 11.—A despatch from Rome to the Daily Telegraph says:—"The Italian offensive continues. Two forts alone of the eastern defense of Goritz remain in possession of the Austrians, namely Monte Santo and San Gabriele, but they are isolated beyond possibility of recovery, reinforcements and provisions being cut off. The fact that the Italians had tunnelled through mountains, so that they debouched with their artillery beyond the Austrian lines, the Austrians thus being caught between two fires, was the determining factor in their success. The Italian advance in the Plezzo Tolmino and Montebello sectors continues and there is renewed activity in the Trentino."
"The number of prisoners is steadily increasing. The number so far officially given is much less than the real total. It will take several days to make an inventory of the booty. The Austrians were unable to save the contents of the Goritz depots, which were among the most important in the Empire."

An estimate of the Austrian losses in the Goritz engagement is furnished by the correspondent of the Daily Telegraph at Milan, who writes:—"Their losses were enormous. Not many of the defending army had time to retreat."

A Swiss correspondent on the Austrian side says:—"I saw on Podgora, on Sabotino and on Monte Santi, lines upon lines of Austrian corpses, exposed as if for a review of the dead. The work of the Italian artillery was systematic. Every inch of the Austrian trenches and secret lairs was mapped out, and each battery had its work assigned. The Italian infantry accomplished the remainder by a series of brilliant assaults. They approached the Austrians from one quarter through subterranean galleries to within forty yards, and in another forded and swam the Isenzo into the face of a hall of shells and rifle fire."

"At a third point the engineers threw bridges across the stream to reinforcements. Detachments of the Salsale and Pavia brigades received orders to cross. Into the river the troops plunged wading waist deep, holding their rifles high, while others carried hand grenades high in the air. All crossed within half an hour and entered the town."

Central Powers in Sore Straits.

May Resort to Desperate Methods in View of Situation on Eastern Front.

Rotterdam, Aug. 11.—The present position of the Central Powers on the Eastern front is desperate and it is within the range of possibility that desperate measures may be resorted to. Those under contemplation are of a combined political and military character and are quite apart from calling in Turkish aid. Stanislau is gravely threatened by the Russian advance. The Central Powers may try to save their position by a flanking movement, further to the south. Another desperate measure concerns Poland, that is all three of the Poles. The negotiations over the Polish question between Germany and Austro-Hungary which have been in hand many months, lately have been resumed in Berlin, and are nearing conclusion. The well informed military critic of the Neue Rotterdamische Courant writes:—"The Central Powers already have given evidence that they do not fear to take thorough measures under extraordinary circumstances and any such measures will undoubtedly affect Poland. It may be supposed that the result of the present negotiation over Poland will be directed to securing more men for the Central Powers. The Poles might be supposed to be willing to join the Central Powers in the fighting in order that consolidated autonomy and partial independence be given them."

If this object is to be attained the Central Powers will have to be ready to undertake something more than half measures.

Striking Points of British Drive.

A Vast Organization Was Prepared by the General Staff—Worked Like a Charm.

On the British Southern Front, July 31 (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—One of the most striking features of the great British drive north of the Somme was the extraordinary thorough preparation before the offensive was begun.

Long before the attack was launched the British staff was busy building up a vast organization which should be complete to the most minute degree military experts declare that the degree of preparedness achieved was unprecedented. Seemingly nothing that could be done was left undone, and when a representative of the Associated Press visited this section of the British front to see the captured territory and watch the assault proceed the various activities were being conducted with such coordination that they appeared to be done by clock work.

The collection of huge stores of ammunition, the assembling of artillery and the concentration of troops were but one phase of the preparation. Bases for various supplies were prepared where they would be most easily accessible when the advance began. Emergency hospitals were constructed and enclosures were built for the reception of prisoners. Great numbers of extra motor lorries were provided for transport work over roads which were continually being improved by myriads of workmen and Red Cross motor ambulances were made ready for the speedy handling of large numbers of wounded, both British and German. But it was not only for work in the British occupied territory that plans were laid. Provision must be made for the troops when once they had forced their way into German ground. The royal engineers worked out an elaborate scheme whereby water for the use of the men should follow them into the German trenches along the lines.

It is not permitted to say how this was accomplished but it is stated that it has been done successfully. Gun emplacements back of the German front lines were worked out in advance and routes of least resistance for reaching these points were decided upon. Plans for the consolidation of captured territory were elaborately considered and provision was made for the immediate clearing away of the great quantity of debris of every description that always strew a battle ground.

In fact every scheme possible was applied in order that there should be no loss of time or energy when once the offensive had begun.

Now that the attack is under way there is intense but methodical activity for miles behind this part of the front. Motor lorries flow in steady streams back and forth along the roads, bringing supplies to the front. The wounded are being moved swiftly but with great care to the base hospitals many miles away, after treatment in the emergency stations. And all along the line scores of thousands of soldiers are busy handling supplies, making provision for calls from the extreme front and clearing and consolidating the ground taken.

The Falklands Islands.

Great Britain's Possession on the Edge of Civilized World

The Falkland Islands, where Sir Ernest Shackleton recently found a haven after the hardships of a perilous Antarctic expedition, have figured seldom in world news since 1833, when the British flag was firmly planted over the land which, together with South Georgia, constitutes the Empire's "farthest south" peninsula possessions. The Falkland group is described in a bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society, which says:

"Except when some unfortunate skipper is compelled to anchor in the harbor of Port Stanley, where the damage wrought by the fierce storms of Cape Horn can be extensively repaired, the Falkland Islands are seldom visited, save by the monthly mailboat from England. It must have been a sensational news event, therefore, when the 900 Port Stanley inhabitants and the 1,100 other people heard that the intrepid explorer, Sir Ernest Shackleton, had arrived with five companions, after having lost his ship, the Endurance, in the Antarctic ice last October.

"Not since the thrilling naval engagement of the Falklands in December, 1914, when a British squadron under Vice-Admiral Sturdee sank the German cruisers, Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Leipzig, and captured two colliers have these islands figured so prominently in the news of the day as now.

"The Falklands are among Great Britain's colonial possessions which cling to the very fringe of civilization. They comprise an area somewhat larger than the Bahama group and the 250 miles east of mainland of South America and more than 1,500 miles south of Buenos Ayres. Only two of the islands are of considerable size—East Falkland, which is about five-sixths as large as Puerto Rico, and West Falkland, with an area somewhat less than that of the State of Delaware.

"While the climate of the Falkland group is comparatively mild, the rigors of its winters in no degree approaching the cold of the southeast coast of Labrador, which lies in the corresponding parallels of latitude in the northern hemisphere, yet the islands are not an agreeable place in which to live, as a penetrating, drizzling rain is experienced here during 250 days of the year.

"Except for the palm-resembling tussock-grass, which furnishes excellent forage for the herds of cattle, flocks of sheep, and droves of wild horses on the islands, there is little vegetation. The commerce, which does not reach a million dollars a year, consists chiefly of the exportation of wool, hides, tallow, and frozen mutton. Extensive peat bogs supply the Scotch shepherds with a satisfactory fuel.

"During the last quarter of the eighteenth century Spain laid claim to the islands, and for a time threatened to go to war with England over their control. The territory belonged to the British Empire by right of discovery, however, for just 100 years after Columbus reached American shores John Davis, one of the Elizabethan era, sighted this land while on his return voyage from the Straits of Magellan, where his superior, Thomas Cavendish, had met with disaster. This is the Davis who is reputed to have been in command of the Black Dog during the memorable overthrow of the Spanish Armada, and who ranks with Baffin and Hudson as the great triumvirate of early Arctic explorers.

"Nearly a century and three-quarters after Davis' discovery the explorer De Bougainville raised the standard of France over these islands, and the latter Government ceded the territory to Spain in 1767. It was upon this occasion that Spain based her claims, which she seemed ready to enforce with arms until 1771. The reassertion of British rights in 1833 marked the withdrawal of the Colonial claims of the people of Buenos Ayres."

Your Boys and Girls

Since the condition of the health depends so largely upon the condition of the teeth, the rule of constant care should be rigidly enforced, and the time to begin this enforcement is when the children are young, so that the habit will become instinctive.

Dentists tell us that it takes time to clean the teeth properly, that the vertical movement should be used instead of the usual horizontal one. That after the powder or paste application there should be a final brushing with clear water, so that every jot of foreign substance may be removed. It is never too early to take children to the dentist for inspection and cleaning of teeth. Small boys sometimes get the idea the mother is "fussy" when she tries to persuade them to give attention to their teeth.

But when a dentist talks to them outlining the troubles that neglect will cause, and giving good reasons for the necessity of constant care, the boys are impressed.

Another habit of the small boy is to use his teeth for a nut cracker, and to enter into competition to see whether he can crack the toughest nuts. Little girls bite off threads and tear bits of cloth instead of using the scissors. They must be taught that the price of teeth which will last through life is constant and respectful attention.

That eczema cases, which have defied all other treatment, yield to ZAM-BUK? An illustration of this is found in the case of Mr. J. L. Frenette, of Nigadoo, N.B. He writes:—

"My head was entirely covered with eczema, and although I tried numerous remedies and received medical treatment, I got no benefit. Then I heard of ZAM-BUK and tried it. The first few applications stopped the burning. Gradually the inflammation was drawn out, and before long the sores began to heal.
