ROYAL YEAST CAKES

Canadian Made

As a health builder, Royal Yeast is gaining in popularity every day. It is a food—not a medicine. It supplies the vitamins which the diet may lack. Royal Yeast is highly beneficial in cases where the system seems "run down". Royal Yeast is the richest known source of vitamins, and when taken into the system acts as a corrective agent. Royal Yeast Cakes are recommended for their purity and wholesomeness. It is the purest, the most convenient and economical yeast on the market.

Two to four Royal Yeast Cakes a day will work wonders. A full day's supply can easily be prepared at one time by using one glass lukewarm water and teaspoon sugar to each yeast cake. Allow to stand over night in moderately warm room. In the morning stir well and pour off liquid. Place in refrigerator or other cool place and drink at intervals as desired throughout the day.

CHAPTER IX.

"You will hardly believe that it is possible for a strong man to be so emotional as I am, Miss Sterne," he said; "but though I love the perfume of sweet mignonette, it always awakens within me memories which are painful."

It was a weak explanation, but Elsie thought that she partly understood, and some day he would tell her all.

A moment's pause, then he went on in a matter-of-fact, business tone:

"I did not receive your letter until this morning, Miss Sterne, therefore it was impossible for me to come to Blairwood yesterday. I trust that Sir John is sufficiently recovered to see me?"

"Mr. Erscliffe, my father is by this time probably many miles out at sea. He left Blairwood yesterday morning, much earlier than necessary, for the purpose of avoiding you."

The artist looked bitterly disappointed.

"What folly! What blind folly!" he said, angrily. "What wrong have I committed that he should cherish this unreasonable hatred against me?"

"Not against you, Mr. Erscliffe," Elsie remarked, quickly, "but against my cousin, Noel Campbell."

"Yes—yes! I forgot. For the moment I regarded it as a personal matter. Miss Sterne, I have heard a little of your father's past—and Noel Campbell, and it is in my—our power to help him clear up much that is now a mystery—much that is helping to consume him with remorse."

"Is it anything that you can tell me, Mr. Erscliffe?" she asked.

"No," he said, "it is not. My labor has been in vain, and I must leave here forever!"

Forever! How awful the words sounded! It seemed like the knell of doom in Elsie's heart, and she shivered as though with cold.

"And you, Miss Sterne," he continued, "what do you think of this outline of yours—Noel Campbell?"

He asked the question so abruptly that she started a little.

"I am scarcely qualified to judge," she said, "but if he is papa's enemy, then he is mine also. I have no wish to see him or to hear anything of him until papa is satisfied that he has misjudged him. He is your friend, therefore you know more of him than it is likely that I shall ever know."

"Yes," he replied, bitterly; "I know perhaps too much of him! Let me speak truthfully concerning Noel Campbell, Miss Sterne. Let me shield him no longer. He is a coward—a cruel, selfish coward. He is one of the most contemptible among his kind!"

Elsie gazed at him in wonderment.

"Mr. Erscliffe, you surprise me after your assurance of a week since that the character of my cousin had been mistaken. I have no wish now ever to hear of him again even, and am disposed to feel pleased that papa has evaded you as his ambassador."

In some way she felt miserably disappointed at having to say these words, and added, to break the awkward silence:

"Will you not come to the house now? Lady Helena will be wondering what has become of me, and you must be fatigued after your long journey this morning."

"No," he said, bitterly. "It must be good-bye forever! I have no further excuse for remaining here. My brief vision of happiness almost unmanned me, and I became weak as a child. Let me say good-bye, Miss Sterne—good-bye forever! Let me clasp your tiny fingers—let me press one kiss on your brow!"

Before Elsie could refuse him even had she desired, he had brushed her forehead with his moustached lips and was gone!

CHAPTER X.

In a moment Colin Erscliffe was lost to view, and the branches through which he had broken fell back in their places. Nothing could be heard but the creaking of dried underwood; then all became still, and Elsie Sterne sat like one who had received a violent blow.

What an extraordinary man the artist was! What had possessed him to talk and act in so strange a manner? He was gone, and when Elsie realized it a feeling of desolation filled her heart. He was gone, and the beautiful black eyes of Lord Somerton appeared to dance before her everywhere.

Oblivious of time and place she sat, and her one thought was, "He is gone! My king among men, gone forever!"

The sonorous notes of the lute began to vibrate to her ears on the slight summer wind, and she rose listlessly from the rustic seat, her brain dazed as with a million sounds that had no meaning.

All at once there was the rush of hoarse feet, and her senses became alert again, a thrill of terror shot through her heart, and she prepared to fly. It must be Lord Somerton. He had discovered even this retreat, and her flesh began to quiver under the horror of his passion eyes!

The branches that guarded the en-

Healthier Womanhood

London. Under the heading "Healthier Womanhood" the London Times makes editorial comment on an article by Dr. J. M. Campbell, of Guy's Hospital, in the current issue of Guy's Hospital Reports, that the ailments of young women, which at one time was prevalent in Great Britain as well as in other countries, is rapidly disappearing. This phenomenon has much more than a medical interest, for it is the opinion of the author of the article that the greater amount of exercise and the more ready access to fresh air enjoyed by women to-day are largely responsible for the diminution of the malady.

"A mist, almost of antiquity, now obscures the days in which, on the receipt of ill tidings or at the sight of any domestic catastrophe, women were wont to swoon in more or less graceful fashion," the Times says. "Indeed, so mysterious were many of the ailments of those times that even modern medical science has failed to elucidate them. Did the ladies really faint, or did they merely simulate this accomplishment? In any case there seems to be little doubt, that, as compared with their modern sisters they were, generally speaking, a feeble folk."

Referring to the "green sickness" which thus afflicted women in other days and was a form of anaemia, known scientifically as chlorosis, the Times says: "It now appears that chlorosis must be added to the already considerable list of vanishing diseases." The paper points out that the decline of chlorosis synchronizes with the growth of athleticism among women.

"Women have adopted a healthier form of life and has been granted facilities for exercise which were not enjoyed by her sisters at earlier periods," the Times continues; "in consequence her health has improved, and her ailments have become less severe and less frequent. This constitutes a strong argument in favor of the playing of games by girls."

An Honours School in Geography

LONDON.—Geography has assumed a rapidly increasing importance in connection with commerce and science in recent years and now there is an honours school for geography in Manchester University. Geography ranks accordingly with other subjects in which one may specialise in the faculty of arts and possibly graduates with honors, and for those university students who do not wish to specialise in the subject there are courses of instruction in geography in connection with the courses for the ordinary degree of B.A. For the needs of commerce students the university authorities have provided a special one-year course in geography.

Emphasis is placed by the prospectus of the new school on the commercial value of its courses in geography. It states that there is a steady recognition that in these days it is advisable to send out into foreign fields, either as traders, administrators or missionaries, only those who have the geographical knowledge of the region or whose training permits them readily to acquire it. Business houses with foreign connections, following the lead of the United States and Ger-

7 1/2 teaspoons of butter fat in every can

No wonder it gives greater richness to cooking

When you want to make foods especially rich and fine-flavored you put in plenty of cream or butter, don't you?

They're expensive you know; but they're great enrichers because they contain lots of butter fat.

Now you can get milk that is rich in butter fat, milk that must give finer results in your cooking but which is inexpensive to use.

The grocers are featuring it—Libby's Milk. Every 16-oz. can of it contains 7 1/2 teaspoons of pure butter fat!

"The milk that good cooks use"

Good cooks everywhere are using this milk. So many of them, in fact, that in certain localities nearly everyone calls it "the milk that good cooks use."

It isn't ordinary canned milk, of course, nor is it milk from ordinary cows.

There are, as you know, certain sections of this country which are famous for their dairy products, pasture lands where grass grows thick and green in watered valleys and wooded hills give grateful shade.

Cows naturally produce their richest milk where nature and man combine to help them, as in these favored sections.

And you know, too, that certain kinds of cows give richer milk than others.

Nerves So Bad That She Would Sit and Cry

Mrs. Mary Hocking, Madoc, Ont., writes—

"Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done me a wonderful lot of good. I suffered from general weakness and was so run down and my heart and nerves were in such bad shape that I would sit down and cry and not know what I was crying about. I also used to have weak spells. Thanks to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I am real well now. I shall always keep a box of the Nerve Food in the house, and recommend them to my friends; they are a wonderful medicine."

(Mr. J. W. Vince, Druggist, of Madoc, Ont., says: "I have said Mrs. Hocking your Nerve Food, and the medicine has done her much good.")

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

Collie Dog a Lifer

New Westminster, B.C. (Canadian Press), Oct. 12.—Glen, a beautiful brown and white collie believed to be the only dog serving a life sentence in a penitentiary, is getting old. His friends do not think it will be long now before he gains his freedom in the only way in which he can get it—by death. Though sentenced to a life term, Glen has risen to the position of guard—a guard whom the other prisoners fear and the warden trusts.

Glen was originally sentenced to death by the police magistrate who heard the case, but W. A. Patchell, then a guard at the Provincial Penitentiary here, pleaded for the dog's life and his appeal was granted, the sentence being reduced to life imprisonment. Not long afterwards Mr. Patchell was advanced to the post of warden of the penitentiary. Recently Warden Patchell retired. He wanted to take his canine friend with him but could not. The sentence must be carried out to the letter. Though Glen is an old dog even to-day no prisoner dare cross the prison yard at night. Glen will not even allow the other guards to remove a prisoner at night unless fully assured that it is all right. Glen was really sentenced in court to life imprisonment. In the days when he had liberty he didn't have very much of it, because he was kept in a garden. Some mischievous boys took delight in teasing him, throwing stones and sticks at him. One day one of the fence boards came off and Glen caught and nipped one of his tormentors. The lad was not seriously injured, no blood being drawn, but he was nearly frightened to death. The matter was taken to police court and Glen lost.

TO RELIEVE PAIN AND BACKACHE

Women May Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I had heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that when I realized I needed to take something to relieve my pains and backache, and to help build me up I began to take that. I had been sick off and on for years and barely weighed a hundred pounds, but now I have had such good results that I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to every one."—Mrs. J. J. Bismar, 2925 18th Ave. South, Minneapolis, Minn.

Find a True Friend

"Every woman who values her health should be proud to have a true friend like the Vegetable Compound," says Mrs. W. E. Shaw, 2227 Walnut Street, Chicago, Illinois. "I had female weakness so badly that I could not stand on my feet. Half of my time was spent in bed and I had pains in my back which were unbearable. I tried everything I could think of to help myself, and when a friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began taking it at once. I recommend it without hesitation."

Food Riots in Frankfurt and Cologne

Yankees Champions by 4 Games to 2--
Floods in Oklahoma--Britain is Concerned over Loss of Craftsmen--International Fishermen's Race on October 27.

FLOODS IN OKLAHOMA.
OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 15. Western Oklahoma, with hundreds of acres along the north and south Canadian rivers, is inundated and the higher ground, seeping and dotted with water puddles, is suffering the worst flood in the history of the State. Thirty towns are cut off from communication and in some sections train service has been at a standstill for three days.

YANKEES CHAMPIONS.
NEW YORK, Oct. 15. Beaten and crushed after one of the most spectacular world's series fights in history the New York Giants to-day surrendered to the Yankees the World's Championship Banner they have flown for the past two years. The Yankees won the sixth and final game this afternoon at the Polo Grounds, the lair of the Giants, by coming from behind and scoring five runs in a dramatic pulse gripping eighth, just as it seemed that the McGraw men, fighting desperately, would tie the series, and force a seventh contest to decide the struggle. The Yankees scored one in the first innings, when Babe Ruth made a home run, and the Giants scored one in their half. The Giants scored one run in each of the fourth, fifth and sixth innings. The final score was six to four, thus the American League Champions, by a decisive margin for four games to two, gained the first world's title in more than two decades of embattled history.

LOSS OF CRAFTSMEN WORRYING BRITAIN.
LONDON, Oct. 15. The loss of many of the best craftsmen of Great Britain who are seeking employment abroad, particularly in the United States, is said to be causing the trades unions and employers of the United Kingdom considerable concern. In the past four months more than forty thousand emigrants left Scotland for the West, twenty-one thousand going to Canada and over nineteen thousand to the United States. In August twenty-eight thousand left Scotland for Canada. A large number of these went to engage in harvest work and the great majority are remaining in the Dominion.

IRON ORE DISCOVERY.
TORONTO, Oct. 15. The Provincial Geologist, Mr. Miller and his assistant R. G. McConnell, have gone to the Mississauga Forest Reserve to examine a reported new discovery of valuable high grade iron, said to grade twenty-three per cent. pure. While no official information is available to-day, it was stated that if the find as reported actually exists, it will mean the opening up of a new era in iron manufacturing in Canada. The ore bodies are said, in preliminary reports from the prospectors, to be of considerable extent.

A SUICIDE.
EAST WENTWORTH, Cumberland Co., N.S., Oct. 15.—With a large portion of his head literally blown off, evidently as the result of a shot from a revolver lying by his lifeless body, Walter William Swan was found in a barn of his premises here early this morning. In his pocket was a note stating he had contemplated taking his life for many years. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide. Swan was forty-five years of age and is survived by a wife and four children. He had always appeared contented.

TO OPEN TUT'S TOMB AGAIN.
LUXOR, Oct. 15. King Tutankhamen's eternal sleep will again be disturbed next Wednesday, when an army of Egyptian laborers, under the direction of Howard Carter and other archaeological experts, will remove the temporary steel doors from the opening of the tomb. Tut's remains lie between an immense pile of earth and stone which the Earl of Carnarvon threw up to protect the tomb from robbers who abound in the valley of the Kings to-day as they did three thousand years ago.

FOOD RIOT AT FRANKFURT.
FRANKFURT, Oct. 15. One worker was killed and three seriously injured on Saturday in a clash near here between police and food demonstrators.

POLICE FIRE INTO CROWD AT COLOGNE.
COLOGNE, Oct. 15. One woman died Saturday from wounds alleged to have been inflicted by police who fired into a crowd of food rioters. The police say factory workers pelted them with hot coals and they were forced to use their arms.

12 FOREIGNERS DROWNED.
DETROIT, Oct. 15. Twelve foreigners in a rowboat being smuggled across the Detroit river twelve miles down from here were drowned when their craft was struck and demolished by a lake steamer.

JAPANESE VOLCANO AGAIN ACTIVE.
TOKIO, Oct. 15. The famous volcano Mohara, on Oshima Island, has again become active, according to despatches received here. It is said to be emitting volumes of smoke and lava.

A RECORD ATTENDANCE.
NEW YORK, Oct. 15. Another new record for attendance at the world's series games was set yesterday when $2,317 people paid their way into the Yankee Stadium for the fifth game. This number is 387 greater than for Columbus Day when the record was set. Yesterday's receipts were $219,459. The total receipts for the five games has reached $924,563.00.

PLEADED GUILTY.
FORTYORTH, Texas, Oct. 15. Pleas of guilty to using United States mails to defraud in furtherance of their oil schemes were entered before Judge John N. Killeets of Toledo, Ohio, in the Federal Court by seven of those indicted with Frederick A. Cook, Arctic explorer, who went on trial to-day.

BLUENOSE MAY AGAIN BE DEFENDER IN SCHOONER RACES.
HALIFAX, Oct. 15. The first race for the International Fisherman's trophy will be sailed off Halifax on Saturday, Oct. 27th. The decision was arrived at, at a meeting of the cup trustees here and meets the request of the American Race Committee. Owing to lateness of the season and the comparatively short time allowed for preparations for the International classic, it is doubted if there will be Nova Scotia's fleet race this year. Trustees, however, have left the decision with vessel owners and captains. A. H. Zwicker, Chairman Lunenburg Committee will receive entries for Nova Scotia race up to noon Thursday this week. If by that time there are not sufficient entries, the Bluenose will be nominated defender of the International trophy.

COLUMBIA GRAPHAPHONE CO. IN DIFFICULTIES.
NEW YORK, Oct. 15. An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed to-day in the Federal Court against the Columbia Graphaphone Co. Liabilities were placed at approximately twenty-one million dollars and assets at over thirteen millions. Judge Learnedhand appointed H. L. Wilson President and General Manager of the company and James R. Sheffield as receivers. The petition was filed by Allen R. Hemphard, attorney for the creditors.

McLACHLAN PLEADS NOT GUILTY.
HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 15. James B. McLachlan, former secretary District 26, United Mine Workers of America, pleaded "not guilty" to three counts of indictment charging him with seditious libel in the Supreme Court here to-day.

Traveller Criticises Road Repairs in St. George's

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—I have heard a lot of at one time and another of the manner in which the road monies of this country are wasted, but I never saw such a vivid example of that waste as I did on the West Coast a few days ago between Stephenville Crossing and Port au Port, where sixty or seventy men were at work throwing mud, sods and grass on the road which in turn became mixed into a thick paste by the October rains, thus making a bad road almost impassable.

This slush will be all washed away by the fall and spring's rains, and the second state of that road will be far worse than the first: I was given to understand that there is about three thousand dollars to be spent in this way, which is a bit of criminal extravagance considering that a good road means so much to the people of that locality, particularly the Port au Port section of it, which is some 18 miles distant from railway service. Everyone, even the men working on the road, agreed that it was throwing the money away, spending it in repairs at this season of the year, and that the proper course would have been to make safe any dangerous places and to spend the balance of the money next summer when value could be had for it.

Ten or twelve years ago this was one of the best bits of road in the country, and a carriage drive from Stephenville Crossing to Port au Port was a pleasure. To-day it is a journey that any one who can will try to avoid, and it is not at all surprising to find so many leaving that part of the District of St. George's, where if it had a fractional part of the transportation facilities of other parts of the country it could supply homes and comfortable livelihoods to hundreds of industrious families from the eastern seaboard who now have to seek the same in Canada or the United States.

Yours truly,
TRAVELLER.

Yokohama to Lose Supremacy

Kobe, Oct. 13. (Can. Press.)—Not only is Yokohama likely to be abandoned as the home port for many Japanese and foreign shipping lines operating out of Japan, but the city will probably lose for ever its supremacy as the silk exporting centre of the Far East. Just where the main volume of the silk trade will shift has so far been undecided, but Kobe, Osaka and Nagoya are being given first consideration. Warehouses formerly used in Kobe for other purposes are being put into condition to serve as silk emporiums, and railways are being built to link up these buildings with the wharves. Kobe is already well connected with Shinshu and other silk-producing centres.

It is reported here that life insurance companies have decided to pay claims in full in the case of deaths due to the earthquake. The payments will be made notwithstanding the moratorium. Fire insurance companies are working on a plan to pay losses in part. As to refunding the premium for the remaining period after the destruction of the insured object, common ground has been found on which the companies will act. Technically the insurers are under no obligation to make such refund, but they will waive their obligation and pay 30 to 40 per cent. Forty per cent. payment involves about $2,000,000. The government estimates the amount insured against fire in the devastated regions are more than one billion dollars, while the means possessed by the companies aggregates about $150,000,000. The government is being asked to share the loss with the Insurers.

Telephone Service to be Re-Established

KOBE, Oct. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Two hundred thousand telephones are required to replace those destroyed by the earthquake and the Department of Communications is negotiating with firms in the United States. The manufacturing plants in Tokio which have been supplying the government with all telephone equipment used have been destroyed, and the stocks in Osaka and other centres have been exhausted. Telephone poles and wire that were burned at Tokio and Yokohama cannot be used, and new material will have to be imported.

Profiteering Feared

Kobe, Oct. 13. (Can. Press.)—Will the Japanese earthquake disaster and the resultant demand for building materials in vast quantities lead to the greatest orgy of profiteering this country has ever witnessed? Unless the Japanese government stops its under-way, such an event is almost certain to materialize. As soon as the first reports of the earthquake's destruction reached China brokers commenced to buy up all the tin plate and iron and steel available, and now Japanese buyers are in the Chinese markets, ready to pay top prices for everything they can obtain in the building line. The exact damage to iron and steel stocks in Tokio and Yokohama cannot be known for some time. On July 20, a total of 145,257 tons of pig-iron was reported lying in stocks in the principal cities of Japan and Dalren. The stock is believed to have varied very little since.

THE THINGS WE HAVE TO-DAY.

How many people in your neighborhood or your own had a horse and carriage 20 years ago?

How many people did you know 20 years ago who drove spans?

I can remember three single turnouts in my acquaintance and one span.

How Many Spans?

Now one more question, which you have doubtless seen coming. How many people do you know who own automobiles to-day? Of course you can't count them off hand. "I would be almost easier to count those who don't."

Yet, even allowing for the reduced purchasing power of money, a cheap automobile to-day costs as much as an ordinary horse and carriage used to cost and a middle class automobile costs as much as the span.

How the upkeep compares, it is a little harder to say, but I don't believe the odds are against the automobile.

Really, when you stop to think of it, it is astonishing to reckon how many luxuries the comfortable middle class of this day has, compared to people who belonged to relatively the same financial class 20 years ago.

A Few of Our Necessary Luxuries.

Here is a list of some of these luxuries which I think of at random.

Silk stockings for most all occasions.

Grapefruit, melons and similar exotic fruit.

Summer cottages with electricity and bath (where their predecessors had a two weeks vacation in a cottage without either).

Two or three baths in the home where one sufficed.

Half a dozen magazines in place of the one or two old standbys which formerly graced the living-room table.

Half a dozen specialists for ailments the family doctor would formerly have attended to.

Country Clubs and Appendices.

Teeth straightening for the children.

Also adenoid, tonsil, and probably appendix operations.

Radios.

Country Clubs.

Half a dozen silk dresses for the wardrobe which would once have been complete with a best silk and a next best.

Soup and salad course added to dinner.

Shoes of all colors for the feminine members of the family in place of the two pairs of black shoes, one for Sunday and one for everyday, and the single pair of slippers.

Telephones.

Beauty parlor attentions.

"Doubtless you could continue the list to a far greater length. Mine is just a random collection.

But instead of doing that I wish you would put your wits to the problem and tell me where all this money comes from. I am free to confess I can't understand it. Maybe some of it is the money the old fashioned family spent on having more children. And then maybe some's what they saved. And then again, to be more cheerful, perhaps some of it is what comes from the fact that new machinery has made it possible to produce more wealth to divide up among us all.

But even at that, I don't see how we do it.

Do you?

Permanent Lock-Nut

A quest that has been followed incessantly for many years by all works concerned and, in fact, by everyone concerned with mechanical plant has been the endeavor to find some means by which a nut could be effectively maintained in its proper place even under the most severe vibration.

As various things quite a number of contrivances have been brought out, but most of these, although termed lock-nuts, have fallen far short of expectations when subjected to the severe tests imposed by modern conditions, and the serious machine troubles arising from nuts continually slacking and straying off have been the source of frequent breakdowns entailing considerable losses of time and money.

Expert engineers, however, are agreed that this difficult problem has been successfully overcome by the appearance of the "Vislok" nut, which is really a lock-nut in action as well as in name, and one that will actually give permanent security under all conditions.

Seeing that the "Vislok" patent nut has a wide field of application in practically every branch of industry, it is not surprising that huge quantities have been sold during the seven or eight years that it has been on the market, and that repeat orders are continually being placed by regular users throughout the world.

Practically all of the many mechanical devices and apparatus which form part of the essential plant of the modern builder, contractor and public works constructor are of such a nature and are used for such purposes as to subject them almost continuously to the heaviest of shocks and severe vibration. The "Vislok" nut for these machines is indispensable, as it will remain permanently tight without inspection, and yet can be slackened without trouble whenever desired.

It is worthy of special note that these patent lock-nuts are self-contained and always re-usable units, and require no special tools for their adjustment. They can be put on or removed by means of an ordinary spanner, and no preparation of the bolt is necessary.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

SUNRISE.

To-day I saw the sun come up, like Neptune from the sea I saw him light a cliff with gold and wake a distant tree. I saw him shake his shaggy head and laugh the night away And toes unto a sleeping world another golden day.

The waves, which had been black and cold, came in with silver crests I saw the sunbeams gently wake the songbirds in their nests. The slow-retreating night slipped back, and strewn on field and lawn, On every blade of grass I saw the jewels of the dawn.

Never was monarch ushered in with such a cavalcade of light. No hero bringing victory home has seen such wealth displayed. In honor of the coming day, the burnished plant and tree Stood on the curbstone of the world in radiant livery.

Pageants of splendor man may plant with robes of burnished gold. On horses from Arabia may prance the knights of old. Heralds on silver horns may blow, and kings come riding in. But I have seen God's pageantry—I've watched a day begin!

The National War Memorial

At a special meeting of the City Council held yesterday, matters in connection with the beautifying of the site of the National War Memorial was discussed by the Board, and Padre Nangle, and arrangements were made to have the sidewalks and gutters surrounding the site, put in order and the land prepared for the planting of trees. Work on the construction of the Plateau will probably begin next week. It is estimated that one month will be sufficient for the completion of the concreting necessary for the Plateau. In the early Spring the Plateau will be faced with rock faced granite, circular steps placed in position, iron work and bronzes set. The statuary of the Memorial will take the form of a female figure, representing Newfoundland, holding aloft a laurel wreath or other suitable symbol. Two figures representing a Forester and Mercantile Mariner will be placed on the front of the pedestal, while the figures of a soldier and a sailor will be placed on the sides. It is the intention to blast holes in the rock surface surrounding the Memorial and to have them filled with earth so that seedlings can be planted this fall. Further blasting will be undertaken and flower beds created. Fourteen light standards holding electrical fixtures in the shape of a flame will be placed around the railing which should give excellent illumination. Later it is hoped to have the ground surrounding the monument graded and macadamized roads created.

Personal.

H. B. Thomson, Optician, is at present visiting the principal towns of the Southwest Coast on business, and is expected to arrive in the city next week. The people of our outport towns are fortunate in receiving competent service at his hands.

Dr. W. W. Blackall, Superintendent of the Church of England Schools, who has just returned from a tour of the North Shore, reports that there are signs of improved conditions generally, and where destitution is to be found in many places, it is believed that owing to the new industries in White Bay, there will be no acute distress.

THE TYPEWRITER.

Just fifty years ago, my dear, the first typewriter came along, a cumbersome thing of bars and gears, and it amused the human throng. The operator, looking sickly, pressed down upon the awkward keys; it sounded like a coffee mill or like a windmill in the breeze. The wise men viewed it with a smile and said it was a trifling toy; it might intrigue men for a while, but in the end it would annoy. It gave no character to script, and letters written with machines would of all fourishes be striped, and that would surely spill the beans. "Our fathers wrote," the wise men cried, "with gray goose quills and home brewed ink; the fair and trenchant tools they piled are fine enough, for us, we think. This new machine is good enough to show around at county fairs, but quills of gray geese are the stuff, and we don't fall for modern snares." And now the smooth typewriter clicks in every office, mart and den, and he puts up a wretched rick who spends five minutes with a pen. At bottled ink we look and laugh, at rusty pens we gaze and sigh; how did our fathers stand the gaff? And echo makes no sane reply.

Mr. Warren
(By ONE WHO KNOWS HIM.)
The Hon. William Robertson Warren, the new Premier of Newfoundland, now in London, is a native of the ancient Colony, and was born in 1879. His great-grandfather, in 1832, was a member of the first Legislative Assembly, following the grant of Representative Government for the Island, and his grandfather was a member of the first Legislature under Responsible Government on the basis of full-fledged autonomy as now recognized in the white-peopled Dominions. Mr. Warren himself was first elected to Legislature in 1902, at the age of 23, and became Speaker seven years later, being then the youngest Speaker in the British Empire. In this capacity he was one of the representatives of the Overseas Dominions at the Coronation of King George V. in 1911.
Educated first at Bishop Field College in St. John's, and later in England at Framlingham, he studied law with the late Sir James Winter, a one-time Premier; and then entered into partnership with Lord Morris, also a past Prime Minister of Newfoundland.
Like others of his predecessors—Whiteway, Winter, Morris, and Squires—he got his first lessons in parliamentary work as a reporter in the Press Gallery of the Assembly. Thence he graduated to the floor as a member.
He took his "all" in 1912, and became Minister of Justice in the Cabinet of Sir Richard Squires in November 1918, retaining that position after the re-election of the party in May last.
He is one of the only two members of the whole Legislature with an English public school education, the other being his partner, Mr. H. A. Winter, the present Speaker of the Assembly, who is a Rhodes Scholar.
He is an able speaker and a good debater, one of the soundest lawyers in the island, and in public matters disposed to take a reasonable, rather than an extreme, view of all questions. In earlier years he was active as a footballer, cricketer, skater, and rowing coxswain, and lately he has become one of the leading golfers of Newfoundland.

"The Sin Flood" Has Heart Appeal
NICKEL PATRONS WITNESS UNUSUAL FILM.
Some photoplays are good entertainment; others give one the feeling that one is witnessing life itself on the screen. "The Sin Flood," the new Goldwyn picture now being shown at the Nickel Theatre, is the latter type. The beholder is carried along with the fortunes of the characters in the story, and never is permitted to believe that what is transpiring is not as real as life. This is a triumph of the screen art. This is a triumph of the producers who have been able to achieve.
The story of "The Sin Flood" depicts the changes in the characters of ten men and one woman who are trapped in a fashionable cafe by a flood in a Mississippi river town. How their characters change under the stress of facing almost certain death makes one of the most unusual pictures ever produced.
Frank Lloyd directed the picture. Helene Chadwick is the only woman in the cast, which includes James Kirkwood, Richard Dix, Ralph Lewis and several other well-known players.
"Rich Men's Wives," showing at the Nickel Theatre soon, is a pictorial revelation of the life of a beautiful young girl who matches her physical charms against the wealth of her husband. It is an uneven contest for a while until the fighting spirit of the wife is aroused when she finds herself forced from the side of her baby boy. Then the plot takes on the aspect of sheer melodrama with the scenes laid among the best surroundings that architectural and decorative ingenuity and skill can devise.
Besides House Peters, Claire Windsor and Baby Richard Headrick, the cast includes such players as Rosemary Theby, Gaston Glass, Mildred Jane, Myrtle Stedman, Charles Clary, William Austin, Martha Mattar and Carol Holloway.

St. Andrew's Church
(L. C. M.)
The first week-night service of the series to be held, was conducted last evening at St. Andrew's Church; the Pastor, Rev. R. J. Power, being in charge, and being assisted by the Rev. R. E. Fairbairn, Pastor of George St. Methodist Church who read the scripture lessons, and conducted the devotions. The members of the choir were present in goodly numbers, and all did their part to make the services help to the doctrinal one. The singing of the psalms and hymns, which are customary in public worship, is a male quartette rendered that sublime composition, "Remember me, Oh Mighty One." Thus with good hearty singing, and deep devotional prayer; and with an attentive and sympathetic congregation, the meeting was well prepared to receive the message which the speaker of the evening was about to deliver.
The subject of Dr. Hanson's address was that of the Resurrection. This subject being a doctrinal one, it would at first be expected that it would have been treated from a doctrinal standpoint. But it was not. It was treated from a higher standpoint. It was treated as a message full of triumphant hope in immortality. The text was taken from the book of Job, where the patriarch says, "I know that my Redeemer liveth"; and the attention of the congregation was at once arrested by the way in which the speaker began; for he put it to all present as a personal question, and asked, if they could say as the patriarch said, and if they know as he knew, it meant a great difference in religious experience, and Christian hope, as to whether we were clear on this great point. The Redeemer is not dead, but liveth, and liveth for evermore. In some minds there may be a narrowness which limits the vision of the risen Redeemer. But it is the privilege of the Christian to rise higher than those things, and to be able to say, "I know that my Redeemer liveth." There is a vast difference between a dead Christ and a living Christ. It was a living, resurrected Christ which made such a change in the minds and lives of the Apostles. Naturally, they were narrow-minded, provincial men, and did not know much beyond the little towns in which they lived. They had handled fish and twines, and nets, and their hands were hardened by toil. They had their jealousies and misunderstandings; but after the Resurrection a great change took place, and these men beheld their Master in a different light, and they knew that He lived. It altered their whole vision of the Master's Kingdom to such a degree, that they went to the ends of the earth and preached the Resurrection. Their message brought a new hope to the world, and the certainty with which they taught this great doctrine of the Resurrection, was one of the best assurances that they themselves had been inspired, and that they knew where-of they spake; "had not followed cunningly devised fables"; but they had seen and handled for themselves the world of life. It was the power of the Resurrection that really established them in their apostleship, and especially their writings, which we have in the gospels and epistles. No writings can equal these, and to-day they stand at the head of all true literature. What then, caused the change? Whence came this power, or came those men to be so gifted and so inspired? It was because they had been in contact with their Divine Master, and had seen Him after His Resurrection, and had touched Him, and had eaten with Him, and had seen Him ascend to Heaven. It was because upon their lives and hearts had been breathed, as it were, the power of the Resurrection itself; and the Resurrection of their Master had literally resurrected them, and had raised them to a higher ideal of His Kingdom, and a broader vision of the great world, through which they had to carry His gospel.
The entire message last night was very edifying, and extremely convincing from a personal standpoint; and all that the learned preacher said, not only substantiated the great doctrine of the Resurrection, as a cardinal truth of Christianity, as taught by the Christian Church universally; but it revealed the great depth of soul, and great breadth of thought, which the preacher himself possesses. Dr. Hanson has something truly worth while for the people, and it is hoped that the services of the week, which are to be held every evening at eight o'clock, will be well attended. St. Andrew's Church, as our readers are aware, is right in the heart of the city. It is accessible from Queen's Road and Harvey Road, and is beautifully lighted, and comfortably seated. Hence, with such devotional services, and profound addresses, it is only to be expected that the sacred edifice will be thronged every evening.

Intercollegiate Football
In the third game of the Intercollegiate Football series, played yesterday afternoon on St. George's Field, the Collegians defeated the Faldians by a score of 2 to 1. The game was exciting throughout. The Collegians made their first score in the early stages of the game. In the second half and but a short while after the ball was centered, Gooby, of the Collegians, on a pass from Puddister, notched up number two. The Faldians undaunted by the adverse score put on a good spurt, with the result that Long notched up No. 1 for his team. Although play was fast hip to the end of the game, no further scoring resulted. The next game will be played to-morrow afternoon between Faldians and St. Rona's.

Boy Scouts and Empire Training

"In my school," said a prairie schoolmaster to me in Saskatchewan the other day, "I have children of various nationalities, but not an English-speaking one amongst them. In the ordinary course it would have taken a generation to Canadianize them; as it is, they have become English-speaking Canadians in a year through being Boy Scouts and Girl Guides." A prairie parson whose parish extends over 7,000 square miles, and whose vicarage is a Ford car, also told me how, by making his young parishioners into Boy Scouts and Girl Guides, he was able to organize them in independent "patrols" of six, or as "Lone Scouts," in individual isolated cases, and then to get them to educate themselves through the attraction of qualifying for the various Scout proficiency badges. Similar conditions of wide distances and isolated homes exist in South Africa and Australia, and even in Western districts of Scotland and Ireland, and similar means are being adopted for training the children through the Scout system of decentralization and self-education. Then for those natives whose skills are not constructed for reception of modern Western school methods the Scout and Guide training is found to be efficacious in such places as Nigeria, Kenya Colony, the Gold Coast, and New Guinea, as well as in the schools for Red Indian children in Canada. So this training or pastime, or whatever you like to call scouting, seems applicable to most parts of the Empire. The Empire Educational Conference recently held in London was an incident of far-reaching importance for the whole British Commonwealth of Nations. It showed not only how conditions for the application of education varied in each of the Overseas States, but also how education itself on its present lines were not completely what is required for the needs of to-day and still less of to-morrow. But scouting seems to come in as a valuable auxiliary. Scouting was devised to be the handmaid to school education; to take the young people in their out-of-school hours and provide them with healthy environment and healthy activities to replace the undesirable influences which so often neutralise the good work of the teachers within the school. Also scouting—that is, the promotion of self-training of the boys and girls through games and outdoor activities which genuinely appeal to them—is directed to fill up gaps in the school education more especially in the four directions of character, health, handicraft and service for others. In other words, we endeavor to prepare them for life, not merely scholarship, and to build them up to be healthy, happy, useful citizens. Some people there are, politicians of a kind, who don't like us, and therefore they try to make out that we are aiming to make the boys into soldiers, and the girls—well, I suppose, into vivandieres, but these aims are absolutely out of our line altogether. We simply offer to form a recreational education suitable to every country, creed and class; we offer it, we don't press it, we merely say "there it is—take it or leave it!" Consequently, it has been hooked and adopted in almost every civilized country under the sun. And when they adopt it they seldom leave it. There are now more than two millions of members in training about the world of whom more than half a million are of British nationality. Part of their creed is that, as members of the movement, bound by the same law and the same promise under a common ideal, they are members of a great Brotherhood. As such, they interchange correspond-

Famous Jewel "Crook" Dead

£136,000 PEARL ROBBERY RECALLED.
GENS FOUND IN GUTTER.
The authorities at New Scotland Yard have been informed of the death in London of Joseph Kammi Grizard, one of the most famous receivers of stolen jewels in England. Grizard had been well known to the police for many years, and his name will be best remembered in connection with the theft of a pearl necklace worth £136,000 belong to the late Mr. Max Mayer, of Hatton-garden, E.C.
Grizard, who was a connoisseur of diamonds, pearls, and all precious stones, was the master-mind that conceived this historic robbery, which was committed 10 years ago.
Coal Substituted.
The pearls were sent from Paris, packed in a box which was afterwards sealed and sent by registered post, addressed to Mr. Mayer. When Mr. Mayer opened the package he found it contained bits of coal which had been substituted for the pearls.
How the pearls were stolen remained a mystery till Scotland Yard detectives arrested Grizard and four other men. It was then proved that Grizard had, by means of a subterfuge, obtained the parcel from the postman, who was responsible for its delivery, had broken the seals and abstracted the pearls, and after substituting pieces of coal resailed the package so cleverly as to make it appear that it had not been tampered with.
After Grizard and his fellow-criminals had been arrested a man to whom they had handed the pearls became alarmed and put them in a matchbox, which he dropped into the gutter at Islington.
They were picked up by a plumber, who had not the vaguest idea of their value. He handed them round in various public-houses and tried to sell the £136,000 worth of gems for pots of beer. Nobody, however, would purchase them.
He then took them to a police station, and the inspector on duty, after looking at them, said, "They're not real pearls; take them away." Eventually he spoke to a policeman, and, acting on his advice, went to Scotland Yard, where the late Chief Inspector Ward recognised them as the stolen jewels.
Grizard and two of his companions were sentenced to seven years' penal servitude and the two others received lighter sentences.

Shore Fish Suggestions
Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—On reading the Advocate editorial of Sept. 24 I felt sorry for being the medium through which you received such a wordy wallowing, but on second consideration I don't know if you deserve much sympathy in your usurpation of privileges belonging solely to that paper.

How dare you, Sir, make a sampling room of your office for codfish? Who could ever dream of the fact that any fisherman would ever respect the Telegram so and be a party to the act which alone could so outrage the dignity of its contemporary? Well, well.

The Advocate seemingly still fails to see the self-evident fact that regulations on cure and compulsory prices cannot go hand in hand. That reminds one of the man who began to build a house and planned to put on the roof while yet the under structure was being laid. The under structure of foundation of outright sales or advance orders for our codfish is good cure and honest grading and packing; then this tussle which the Advocate is having with that imaginary devil of consignment will gradually disappear of its own accord.

However well or much we may like or dislike the statement that other fish-producing countries are paying more attention to and making better progress with the cure than we are when such a statement broadens out into hard facts why give a simple kick of impatience against it. Nothing but a far-fetched stimulant to jealousy can prompt it. As a matter of fact thousands of fishermen in this country to-day instead of being tickled with vanity over being told they are excellent curers of fish will readily admit that much of our catch is not what it ought to be. But of course when we reach a point where compensation runs even approximately proportionate with trouble taken ninety per cent. of our fishermen can turn out an excellent article.

One thing is quite clear, however, I am not a fish-exporter and consequently cannot see the possible reasons why those who do export fish make, apparently, very little effort towards standardization with Outright Sales in prospect. "All the merchants," says a prominent fish buyer in a letter addressed to me and dated August 26th, 1922, "would like to have standardization but are making no attempt to bring it about. You are perfectly right, standardization is the foundation for outright sales."

It will be noticed that this gentleman does not say standardization and compulsory prices simultaneously, but standardization as a means to Outright Sales. That, I think, is the only logical way.

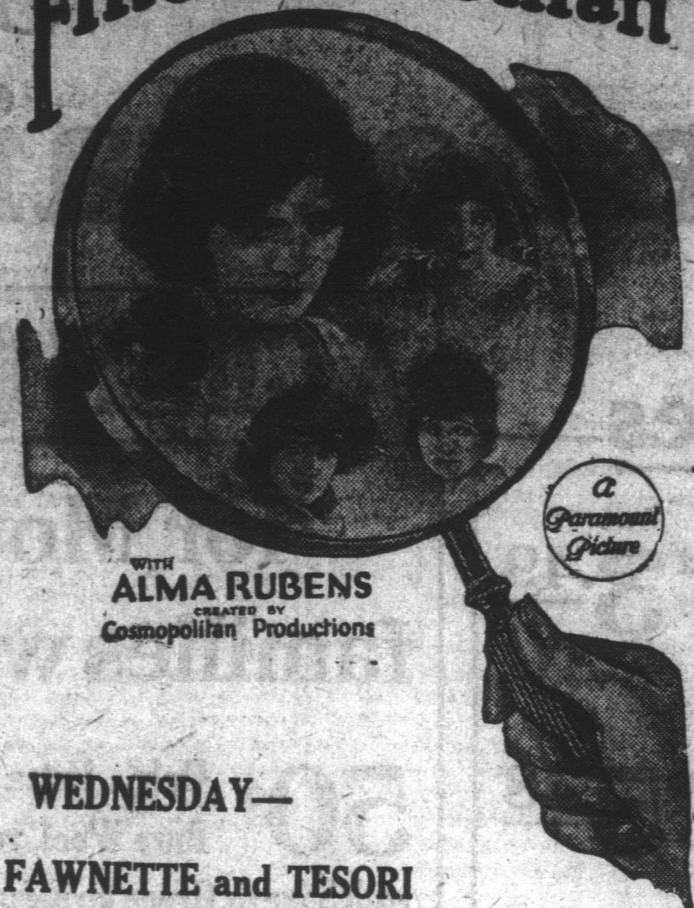

While there is much diversity of opinion on many matters relating to the fishery the urgent necessity of doing something towards holding our markets and incidentally maintaining the highest possible prices is unanimously agreed upon. That was the misguided aim of the infamous Regulations and would be the main object of Co-operation, and in this connection I feel convinced that if we could have started this a few years ago when we were more prosperous, we could have succeeded. To-day one rule of Co-operation makes Co-operation impossible unless, and until we had every part of the system properly functioning. It is this. Warehouse receipts or any receipts that do not (to-day) show full and immediate returns for the season's shipment of fish could not be acceptable to a fisherman. He is now, if he ever was, running on short credit—a promissory note system if you like—and if, as in the case, he cannot get along on immediate returns, a prolonged delay for higher possible profits would prove disastrous. This, however, cannot be called even a fatal attempt to discredit the system. It has many strong points to recommend it, some of which could with profit be grafted onto the present method of sale and export.

Borrowing of course from co-operation, what is there to hinder individual fishermen from packing his own fish at the present time? It looks to me a very feasible plan; one that by its very nature cannot become suddenly general as to knock down the present mode of sale and leave us half way to nowhere. If any fish buyer thought well of it a waist all would bring, no doubt, a few who would be willing to try it. Then let there be an arrangement made binding the exporter to ship all A.1. fish as received, undyed—if he so preferred—his own brand. As to the packages, there should be no difficulty in fixing about the cost. At present if an exporter puts fish in containers of any kind he certainly has to buy them, so whatever party found them they would not rest upon the fisherman's account as a real part of his expenses.

Of course there might be one obstacle in the way that could militate against the working out of such a plan. It would be hardly fair to expect from the merchant, fancy prices for the first season even for fancy fish. It would be meant by both parties as an honest and sincere attempt to (a) improve the cure, (b) to restore confidence in our customers and ultimately derive better returns for our fish. This plan would seem to have

If that is so we shall not simply fail to increase our output of prime goods, but find a gradual falling off as the years go by. Such an outlook may, possibly, revive radical measures once more, but such are and must be eternally foredoomed to failure. Some unpretending and not elaborate plan is the only way out. In other words while as you say very truthfully, "the fishermen are not wholly blameless," there are very few of them who will fail to "show the goods" if some plan bringing higher returns can be evolved.

Reading between the lines it will I think be readily understood that I am referring to shore fish only. To me it should not seem necessary to issue instructions and warnings to those who catch Labrador fish to induce them to turn out a prime article. The process is too simple aside from ordinary care to need wording here. It is the method of curing shore fish that needs revising badly. Labrador fish if properly salted will not deteriorate easily, but shore fish badly cured for is scarcely edible in this country. What can it be like when it reaches the consumer in the foreign markets?

Yours truly,
FISHERMAN.

Architects Baffled

Kobe, Oct. 13th (Canadian Press)—Building experts are still puzzled by the performance of various types of architecture under the strain of the Tokyo and Yokohama earthquake, and opinions differ as to the ideal structure to withstand violent tremors. Regrets do not tire of talking of the marvel of the Imperial Hotel at Tokyo. The critics of that building had declared it would be a death trap in case of an earthquake, but there it stands with hardly a crack, and only a few of the high standard vases thrown. After the first severe shocks people slept confidently during the quakes that followed for several days and remained inside during the day. One guest says he felt safer in the hotel than outside. He did not know how it was done, or what stuff it was made of, but even the ceiling kept up. In his room there was not a crack. He reckoned there was only one man who could now come to Japan and get big contracts for quake-proof buildings and that was the architect of the Imperial Hotel.

As to reinforced concrete buildings, one hears all sorts of opinions here. In Tokyo one such building, which was declared by its architect to be about the best constructed in the city, is now an unsightly wreck, and not far from it there is an ordinary brick building that has stood. The high telephone building under construction in Yokohama, on the other hand, is a fine example of reinforced construction that has stood the test.

Certainly the proportion of reinforced walls that are standing seems to be larger than that of brick. And then, as if to ridicule theories, some of the very lofty brick chimneys rear their heads as if there had been no shock.

There seems little to be said for Japanese wooden houses with heavy tiled roofs in a really severe shock. Engineers point out that reinforced concrete is not one type of construction but many. All that laymen can say is that there seems to be plenty for the experts to puzzle over.

But the marvel of the Imperial Hotel remains. The severity of the test may be gauged from the fact that the foundations have settled in parts. For instance, the level of the bath has been found altered. What has frequently been ridiculed as a freak building will now create more interest than ever.

Dublin Castle

Dublin castle has a history of over seven centuries, for it was King John who in 1204 ordered it to be built "well fortified, with good fosses and thick walls strong enough to defend or control the city." Henry III, when about to visit Ireland in 1248, ordered the addition of a hall, "with sufficient windows and glass casements," and other improvements were made in succeeding reigns, particularly by the Duke of Clarence, son of Edward III, who as viceroy spent much money on the castle to make it convenient for his father complained when called upon to pay "for his sports and other pleasures."—London Standard.

Improved Iron and Steel Markets

(Shen and Shipping.)

Improvement characteristics and steel markets. We deal with the possibilities of trade with Japan in structural and other products to reinforce done by the earthquake. British, French, Belgian, Czech-Slovakian steelmakers have received inquiries for roofing sheets, etc. There is a slight expansion in construction and general steel, which, in turn, means for pig iron. There is a slight increase in the pig-iron market. South Wales, North of England and Scottish steel manufacturers are busy with their estimates. Since March or April, of course, there is room for more trade. Still, railways are coming out, and prices are increasing. There are hopes that the shipyard dispute will be settled. Continental prices are moving up, and there seems to be any such reductions in prices as will involve keen competition. India and Argentine being good orders here for steel products.

Good Show at the Crescent Yesterday

MUSICAL PROGRAMME A FEATURE OF THE BILL.

Yesterday's program at the Crescent was as interesting and as entertaining as any yet seen at this popular house of amusement and patrons last night were loud in their appreciation. This is Pat Harrington's farewell week and he certainly opened it with an attractive bill of songs and dances. His song entitled "I'm Going Home to my Mammy" is a peppy number and he put it over in good style. The outstanding musical item was the duet entitled "Home-sick" sung by Pat Harrington and Robert Shields. Mr. Shields was heard to good advantage in a group of solos especially suited to his voice. The instrumental program by Al Pittman and Jack Cronan was well up to the usual standard for which these clever musicians are famous.

Alice Lake in "The Infamous Miss Revell" provided patrons with a number of unusual interest as also did the Sherlock Holmes story entitled "The Tiger of San Pedro."

Last night several names of contestants for Friday night's Amateur show were sent in, amongst them being some new performers—some who have never appeared in any previous contests. Watch for the big variety entertainment at this theatre on Friday night.

A $1,200,000 Elevator

FOR HALIFAX ASSURED—Hon. R. E. FINN MAKES IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

Canadian Recorder, Oct. 5.

Hon. R. E. Finn, M.P. for Halifax announced last night that within a few days tenders for the construction of a million one hundred thousand bushel grain elevator at the Ocean Terminal in Halifax will be called and the work of construction begun at once. Within a week Mr. Finn expects that the Department of Public Works will have decided upon the site of the Dartmouth Pier, and that tenders for the construction of that work will be called for immediately.

Sir Henry Thornton, President of the C.N.R. has offered to place a special train for the use of a delegation of representative business men and public representatives from Halifax and St. John for the purpose of touring Western Canada and placing before the people of these Provinces the facilities and resources of the maritime Provinces.

Mr. Finn also suggested that an invitation be extended to representatives of the Western Provinces, including British Columbia, to come to the maritime Provinces on return, or at a later date, here to see for themselves what Canada possessed in the way of port facilities and resources on the Atlantic coast, which are to be augmented and developed by the construction about to take place at the port of Halifax.

Mr. Finn also announced that he believed there would be a restoration or partial restoration of railway freight arbitrators west of Montreal and east of Port Arthur by the close of navigation in November.

He said that last Saturday the Governor-in-Council approved of the plans of the Canadian National Railway engineers for the elevator at Halifax. This elevator is to be the last word in elevator construction and will cost in the vicinity of $1,200,000.

At Mr. Finn's request the acting Chief Engineer of the Department, Mr. Cameron, was sent down to look over the various locations, and the reports submitted by the resident engineers in order that the site best adapted as a terminal and convenient to the commercial interests of Dartmouth should be selected. These reports will be made immediately and within a week the call for tenders will be authorized by the Public Works Department and upon acceptance construction will immediately begin.

With the removal of the differential of one cent operating against Halifax, as it has been, Mr. Finn said the products of the West can now be sent to Halifax at the same rate as to St. John, Portland, and New York.

"There is no reason," he said, "why we should not get our fair share of the traffic which means development of our ports and prosperity for our people."

Dear Sir:—I am instructed by the Committee, which was in charge of "Fire Prevention Week" to ask the favor of your columns to extend the thanks of the Committee to the following for kind assistance given in carrying out the week's programme: His Excellency the Governor, and Mr. A. McNamara, for assistance in connection with the "Speed Test"; the Clergy of the city Churches who addressed their congregations, and the ladies and gentlemen who addressed the city Schools and other organizations, on "Fire Prevention"; the proprietors of the Moving Picture Houses for exhibiting the special film and advertising slides; the firms who made window displays; the Press for much publicity and, in short, anyone and everyone who helped in any way to make the campaign a successful one. The Committee also desires to take this opportunity of congratulating those in charge of certain concerns, business and otherwise, in the city, who have inaugurated "Fire Drill" as a part of their regular weekly routine.

Yours very truly,

Quill Pens Pass

LONDON.—Quill pens have been abolished at Southwark county court. This breaks a tradition of 150 years, and deprives barristers of an implement of many years' standing.

Quill pens in skilled hands have been known to be useful for other things than writing. They were used to drive home arguments, they were flourished to distract attention from some specially obvious flaw in reasoning. Stabrous and timid witnesses often were impressed by a quill twirled in time with the legal twitch of the eyebrows.

The last quill pens have been removed from the court and cheaper steel pens substituted.

Jeweller Tricked

Stranger Makes Off With Bar of Rings

When he was about to close his shop, Mr. Thomas Evans, Jeweller, of North Endroad, Fulham, S.W., was tricked and robbed of rings worth £120. A man of 25, well dressed, entered and asked to be shown a ring valued at £20 in the window. The ring, with five others on a bar, was handed over. "I should like to look at it in the daylight," remarked the thief; "please lend me your eyeglass." The man sauntered towards the door and disappeared. By a somewhat similar trick the same man is believed to have recently stolen rings worth £800 from a Kensington Jeweller.

The Value of Rabbits as a Food

Ottawa, Ont.—(By Canadian Press)

Rabbit meat to the extent of twenty-million pounds is annually imported by Great Britain. In 1920 one Canadian firm of furriers imported 600,000 rabbit skins. In France and Belgium and other European countries the breeding of rabbits is an important industry, and to some extent also in the United States. Why not in Canada?

Thus the Department of Agriculture in a 24-page booklet, in which all kinds of information is set down about domesticated rabbits. The climate of Canada is particularly adapted to successful rabbit breeding, it is claimed, by reason of its dryness, and though market conditions do not yet warrant the establishment of exclusive rabbit farms, it is suggested that rabbits should be an excellent side line as a source of revenue.

People have been prejudiced against rabbits in Canada, it is asserted, because they have appeared on the market out of season, and often in an unsavory condition. But, it is added, experts in matters of diet have demonstrated beyond doubt that the meat of properly fed rabbits has a higher nutritive and digestive value than that of practically any other animal. An organizing dietitian of the D.S.C.R. is quoted to the effect that milk fed rabbits, fricasseed excepting for the size of the cuts, could not be distinguished from very tender fowl. The broth of the rabbits, says this authority, is as savory as that of chicken, and "rabbit à la King" proved to be delicious. An analysis cited in the booklet gives meat 28 per cent. of solid matter as against 23 per cent. found in chicken meat, the rest being water. By reason of its small bones, furthermore, rabbit meat is stated to be economical. The booklet explains how to choose the best rabbits for commercial exploitation, how to feed them, how to tend them when sick, how to house them, how to look after their breeding and marketing, and furthermore, how to skin rabbits, and how to dress and tan the skins.

Fawnette and Tesori Again Furnish the Goods

The acclamatory applause that greeted those two artists at the popular Star last evening, was such as to fully demonstrate the appreciation of the large audience gave their numbers. Mr. Tesori, who opened the program with "A Dream" was given the opportunity to display that sweet melodious voice which he possesses and for an encore rendered "My Wild Irish Rose," which won for him rounds of applause. Fawnette sang a jazz number entitled "Fancy Nancy," and for an encore danced in appropriate Irish costume "The Dance of the Emerald Isle" and never have we seen it rendered so charmingly perfect as did the great Fawnette, her every action and step being executed with minutest detail and harmony. Needless to say those two accomplished artists are entertaining the patrons of the Star to a class of entertainment seldom, if ever, and never surpassed, by any team yet appearing before our footlights, and the large audiences that attend this popular theatre may be regarded as all evidence of their ability, and as one has said "every day, in every way, they go stronger." The entire program will be repeated this evening, whilst for Wednesday is a complete change, with a dancing duet, and a "suelle" dance which in itself is well worth the price of admission.

Investors Hard Hit

HONG KONG, Oct. 15.—(Can. Press)

Chinese in Canada and the United States who have invested their money in Chinese railroads are beginning to regret their action as a result of the order of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, Southern Chinese leader, to confiscate the Chinese Railroad. The road was built almost entirely with finances secured from Chinese merchants and others resident in foreign countries, notably the United States and Canada. The prime mover in construction of the road is Chan Gin-Keo, former resident of Seattle, who became famous some time ago by declaring that he had resurrected from the dead and received instructions to build the railway. Dr. Sun Yat Sen, whose ambitious undertakings are costing enormous sums of money, called on the Sunning railway for a loan of $500,000. He was refused, whereby he ordered the property confiscated. As a result the stockholders have issued a manifesto addressed to "uncles, brothers, aunts, sisters and fellow countrymen of the whole nation," asking for sympathy in their protest against the order of Dr. Sun. Meanwhile shares in the Sunning railroad have dropped in price from five dollars to thirty cents each.

Fox Picture is Vivid Drama of City Life

"Lights of New York," a new William Fox production, which was shown for the first time at the Majestic Theatre last night, is one of the best photoplays of the current season. The story has been divided into two sections. The first deals with the experience of a youth who was left, when a baby, on the doorstep of an East Side pawnbroker. Clarence Nordstrom is cast as the adopted son of the loan agent. He does exceptionally well work. In the story he returns to his father's store, after he has left home and joins a gang, for the purpose of robbery. It is only when he realizes the consequence that he abandons his shameful life and returns to the fold.

In the second episode, the story of a man who lost his fortune and has descended into the depths, is told. Marc MacDermott is cast in the principal role. MacDermott, who is one of the most finished actors of the screen, does exceptional work. The cast includes also, Marguerite Seddon, Frank Courier, Florence Parker & Monroe's, Ltd.—oct4,6t
