FINANCIAL STABILITY!
If you question our ability or willingness to pay just claims, the following facts should interest you: During 1924 we paid for claims of all classes, $18,210,000. Since 1896, total claims paid are $114,520,000. In Newfoundland alone, this Company has paid $15,280 including four death claims, one of $4,000 and three each of $1,500, and no company, the world over, has a better record for promptness in settlement.
We realize fully the value of the word SERVICE, and we give it 100 per cent., and SERVICE should mean almost as much as PROTECTION.

CHAPTER V.

"I shall have to write a book about my travels, and dedicate it to you," he said, lightly.

Margery smiled, and then put her arm round the collar's neck, and drew the dog's head on to her knees. The retriever had retired to a shady spot, and was stretched out fast asleep. Stuart launched at once into anecdotes of the sea; he knew just where to put a telling touch and wake the interest; and Margery listened eagerly, drinking in the wonders with pretty incredulity and making Stuart break into hearty fits of laughter at her ignorant nautical remarks.

The afternoon passed quickly; the sun had moved round, and cast slanting rays of golden light into the green nook. It touched Margery's head, seeming to rest on the soft silky curls with delight. She looked so sweet in her plain white gown—a very flower of purity and beauty—that Stuart's eyes, resting on her, would make him hesitate in his story and his heart thrill with a strong wave of unspoken pleasure. To Margery the moments slipped away too quickly; she revelled in these tales of strange countries, in the adventures and hair-breadth escapes that had filled those two years of travel.

"How beautiful and how strange it must have been, Mr. Stuart!" she said, drawing a deep breath, after a while. "You must find Hurstley dull."

"Hurstley to me is the most beautiful place in the whole world," Stuart said, involuntarily. "I love it."

"And so do I!" cried the girl. "But then I am different." There was a slight pause, and she went on thinking of what he had just told her. "Then I was wrong when I said you had not worked—why, you helped to save the ship that stormy night, Mr. Stuart!"

Stuart smiled as he moved nearer and held out his hand.

"There is the mark of the cut from one of the ropes. Now, you will give me credit for some good, Margery?"

The girl took the hand between her own two small brown ones. She bent her head to look at the scar, while, at the touch of her fingers, Stuart felt his whole being thrill and the last barrier that stood between himself and his love melt away.

"Yes—yes, I see," Margery said, gently. "Oh, M. Stuart, what pain you must have suffered!"

She raised her luminous eyes to him, their blue depths darkened almost to blackness at the thought of that terrible night at sea, and met the steady, passionate gaze bent on her. Some new sense flooded her mind; in one second all her girlish innocence vanished; she knew that she was on the brink of a great wondrous event, though she could not guess what it was. She dropped Stuart's hand, and rose hurriedly.

"It is getting late; we must go," she declared. "Mother will want me."

Stuart at once moved to her side. He took the sunbonnet from her hand, and imprisoned the small fingers within his own.

"Margery," he said, softly, "is mother the only one who wants you? Will you not stay with me? Ah, my darling," he cried, bending to catch her other hand and seeing the trembling lips and great, wondrous, startled eyes, "I have frightened you! You do not know—how could you?—how much you have become to me. Margery, I did not mean to speak yet—I meant to wait, and let your love grow; but your sweet face has urged me, and I can wait no longer. Margery, my own darling, I love you! Do you love me?"

Margery felt herself drawn into his strong arms. She looked up at him for one instant, then said softly: "Love! What is love?"

"Love," cried Stuart, "is the greatest joy or the greatest pain. To love is to think, dream, live only for one person, to be happy when near them, lonely when away, ever longing to clasp their hand, listen to their voice, as I have done these past weeks, my own sweet dear one."

"The color came vividly into the cream-white cheeks, the eyelids drooped, and the graceful head was bent—"then I do love you, Mr. Stuart; but—"

"But!" interrupted Stuart, gathering her to his arms. "There is no 'but,' my darling, my very own! Oh, Margery, if you could know what happens, I feel! It is such peace after doubt and perplexity. See—just now you throw my hand away; I give it to you again, my darling, yours to defend and tend you when you are my wife."

"Your wife!" faltered Margery; and she trembled—the suddenness, the sweetness of this news seemed to have taken all strength from her. She lived in an indescribable dream of happiness; Stuart's arms were round her, his eyes gazed into hers, his voice was whispering tenderly in her ear. She could not then grasp the full extent of her joy, she was dazzled by the passion and depths of his love.

"Yes, my wife, thank Heaven!" said Stuart, reverently raising one small hand to his lips.

"Margery, each day that has gone has linked me closer to you—try as I would, my love would turn to you. There may be storms in life before us," he went on, hurriedly, involuntarily drawing the stender form closer to him as he thought of his mother's anger—"there may be trials, battles to fight; but we will be firm and trust in each other. If we have love, we shall be satisfied."

"My love will never, never die," Margery murmured slowly, drawing herself out of his arms. "But it is all so strange—you to love me! And—ah, what will madame say, Mr. Stuart? I don't know why, but I am sure she does not like me."

"Margery—and Stuart drew her back to him again and kissed her sweet lips—"we are pledged to each other, and none shall part us. Leave all to me, and it will come right. And now I have a lesson to teach you—henceforth I am Stuart, and Stuart only; don't forget."

"I will not," she promised. She was silent for an instant, then said, softly: "How good you are! I will try to be worthy of you. Something tells me, Stuart, that I am not a common village girl. You will know the truth, perhaps, some day, and then you will be proud of me."

"I shall never be prouder of you than I am now!" cried the young man, fervently. "I care not what you are—I love you; you shall be my wife!"

Margery raised her lovely eyes, eloquent in tenderness, to his, and then smiled.

"Our picnic is ended," she said, losing herself from his hold and picking up her sunbonnet; "the dogs are tired of waiting; we must go."

Stuart watched her pack her basket and tie on the simple headgear, his heart throbbing with pure passionate love. Henceforth, let come what might, this girl belonged to him—she was his very own.

"Margery," he said, as they stood together before starting, "this is the birth of our happiness. Remember, my darling, that you now are my life, my very soul. If clouds should gather, turn to me and I will sweep them away."

Margery rested her hand for one moment on his shoulder.

"Stuart," she said, steadily, "I was a girl an hour ago—I am a woman now. As you love me, dear, so I love you, and ever shall, though a world should stretch between us."

Just Folks.

By EDGAR GUEST.
MONUMENTAL DAYS.

Some days are sweet with laughter
Some days are shadowed o'er with care,
Some days indifferently glide
Upon life's ever moving tide
And leave no tokens of their birth
Or passing from this lovely earth,
Yet all that come with smiles or tears
Make up the total of our years.

Some days will never pass away,
We cherish still our wedding day,
And mark it as the happiest one
Of all that since have come and gone;
And there's the day of wondrous grace
We purchased that first little place,
Which proudly we could call our own,
How many years since then have flown!

Then there's the day our child was born,
We've kept the glory of that morn'
As bright and fresh along life's way
As though it were but yesterday;
And following that a time of grief,
Which tried but strengthened our belief,
How dearly cherished we have kept
That day of days, when first we wept!

These mark our passing through the years—
Our moments of smiles and tears—
The highest peaks to which we've won,
With all the down which the soft breeze

Pears' for Health and Beauty

Pears' Golden Series of toilet articles, as supplied to their Majesties King George and Queen Mary and to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, must necessarily be the choice of Ladies and Gentlemen everywhere. The toilet articles which comprise Pears' Golden Series and which have so justly merited the approval of Royalty, are unquestionably of first class quality; the containers indeed are not as ornate and expensive as certain continental productions; but they are at least in good taste, and Messrs. Pears are satisfied to cater to Ladies and Gentlemen who prefer to have value inside, rather than outside, the container. The Toilet articles selected for Pears' Golden Series are: Pears' Talcum Powder in pink and white.

Pears' Nail Crayon and Cream.
Pears' Perfuming.
Pears' Baby Powder.
Pears' Shaving Sticks.
Pears' Dental Cream.
Pears' Shaving Powder.
Pears' Compact Complexion Powder.
Pears' Vanishing Cream.

All the above articles are exquisitely perfumed and are the result of 133 years experience in manufacturing high class products. You will find each the best of its kind and well-worth your approval. In addition to the above articles, you may obtain Pears' Shaving Brushes, guaranteed free from antiseptic. Each brush is packed in an individual carton and sells for $2.50. A Pears' Shaving Brush will last a lifetime. Do you use Pears' Soap? For 133 Years Pears' Soap has been the favourite of Ladies and Gentlemen.—Jan 9, 1925

"THE AIR IS FULL OF THINGS YOU SHOULDN'T MISS"

"We don't dread the winter any more. Radio brings the companionship of the world right into the living room."

The lonesome evening hours are fast disappearing under the magic of radio.

Now the whole family can enjoy the world's best music, can listen to church services and receive the latest news of the world.

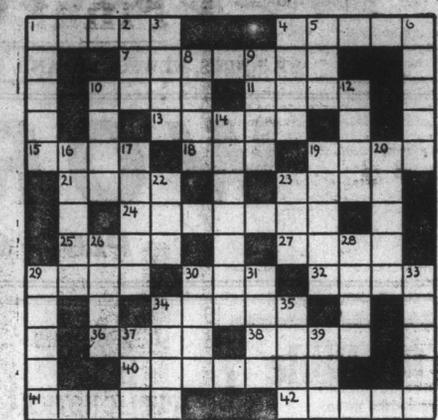

A good radio receiving set will do this, and more—but every radio receiver needs the best batteries, so when you purchase a radio, be sure to buy EVEREADY RADIO BATTERIES to make it operate at its best. THERE ARE NO BETTER.

our increased capital. One of the most important factors in favour of the steel industry is that our credit stands higher than anyone else's in the world. "There is certainly no industry in this country which has brought its costs so near the pre-war level as has the iron and steel industry."

The Ideal Woman

Strong, healthy and beautiful in form and feature. With a happy disposition. Upon her condition depends the physical well-being of her children and the happiness of those about her. It is only by making the best of herself that a woman can give her best to the world. When weak and ailing there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, which for fifty years has been restoring the women of the Dominion of Canada to health and happiness.

Mussolini's Rule in Italy

"A deep impression has been caused in political circles," says the Daily News Rome correspondent, "by the decision of the Cabinet to introduce a Bill into Parliament whereby all societies and organizations throughout Italy will be compelled to furnish to the police copies of their rules and regulations as well as a full list of members."

"The Bill will also prohibit all employees of the State and municipalities from joining any 'secret' organization."

"The Fascist Press admits that the intention of the Government is to destroy Freemasonry in Italy, which it regards as a secret society and antagonistic to the State."

"It is pointed out that the leaders of Italian Freemasonry have always been opposed to Fascism, and that Signor Mussolini has already forbidden Fascists and employees of the Government joining Freemasonic lodges."

It is never Skimmed Milk

Modern efficiency requires quality, economy and convenience in the family food supply.

Pet Milk meets these requirements. It is pure, fresh and concentrated—more than twice as rich as ordinary milk—put in sealed containers, and sterilized. It goes to your pantry scientifically clean.

Condensed Pet Milk serves in place of cream for table use, for cooking—ice cream, dessert, candies, frostings—and makes the cooking better.

Diluted with an equal part of water, it is extra rich milk for every need of the household.

Diluted with two parts of water, it is better than ordinary cooking milk [the bottom half of the bottle].

No matter how diluted, Pet Milk is never skimmed milk.

Georgia, Caucasus, Jan. 23. Vineyards and orchards valued at millions of dollars have been decimated by the unprecedented cold which prevails throughout the Caucasus. There are three feet of snow on the Tiflis and Baku Districts and all wells are idle. Grave fears are entertained for the effect of continued freezing weather on next year's wheat crops.

ASQUITH STILL LEADER.
LONDON, Jan. 29. Asquith which have been widely expected since the announcement of Premier Asquith's elevation to the peerage, that he would relinquish the active leadership of the Liberal party to Mr. Lloyd George, were set at rest for the time being at least, when speaking at a great convention of the Liberal party here to-day, he said: "I have not resigned my post, and therefore in that character that I presume once more to speak to you."

It was estimated that one hundred million tons were readily available and the development of a shale oil industry was foreshadowed.

MONTREAL HAS DISASTROUS FIRE.
MONTREAL, Jan. 29. The most disastrous fire to occur in Montreal for some years, last night early this morning, caused a loss of the downtown wholesale and business district estimated at $1,500,000. The fire completely gutted the premises of 23 firms which were so damaged by flames, smoke, ice and water, as to cause a most total loss of property.

SMIDDY GETS INTO TROUBLE.
DUBLIN, Jan. 29. There is no intention of recalling Professor Timothy A. Smiddy, Irish Free State Minister plenipotentiary from his post at Washington, it was stated in Government circles to-day. The Free State has not yet been informed of the circumstances under which his acceptance of an invitation to be the guest of honor at a banquet of the George Washington Sulgrave Institute, in New York, was withdrawn, and it was awaiting a detailed statement from Smiddy which was expected in the next mail. Whatever might be done on receipt of the explanation of his actions in recalling his acceptance to the banquet of the Free State had no intimation of abandoning representation at Washington.

HERRIOT SUSTAINED.
PARIS, Jan. 29. Premier Herriot, bravely walking the parliamentary gauntlet, has succeeded in bringing the gulf separating the political conceptions of the Right and Left groups in the Chamber, which he had widened by his security speech yesterday. Solidly behind him, except for the Communists, parliament to-day placed the seal of its approval on his foreign policy by the largest vote of confidence he has ever received, 541 to 32. Although his elimination of party lines was a big success for the Premier, ministerial circles are under no illusions as to the duration of the reunion thus achieved. They know that it applies only to questions relating to France's security and will be broken as soon as matters of international politics are again broached. The Socialists who had decided to abstain from voting on the position of the Premier's address went on to caucus in the afternoon and M. Herriot was invited to make a statement to them. The Premier opened this afternoon's public session by explaining that his speech of yesterday meant that it was the Cologne evocation question that offered perhaps the last opportunity of settling the problem of French security. This was cheered by the Right. "What I am defending is the treaty," the Premier went on. My aim is the establishment of a regime which through the guarantee of the League of Nations will give us definite security.

ity. Arbitration, disarmament and security are three indissoluble links of the chain. My speech yesterday, he said, was a statement of France's just title to peace; it was an appeal in the Democracies of the world and especially to the peace party in Germany. France as always will assist in the development of all Democracies but first she must ensure the safety of her frontiers. I appealed to the reason and conscience of freedom and peace particularly in Germany in order that through the League of Nations an agreement might be reached which would provide an issue from the present tragic situation.

The extent of the damage to the submarine was not known.

The Man Without a Collar
A Lost Stud And A Sunday Morning Drama That Ended In—
I think that at the gate of Heaven St. Peter must have one question which he puts specially to men who have passed through the nearly blameless life of middle-class respectability. A sort of key question. It does not refer, I imagine, to income tax returns or those little flutters on the 2.30. No! I think this is the question he probably puts:—"How did you behave when you lost the only collar stud in the house?" It is a stiff test. For my own part I have always been unable to imagine a man so wicked that he could be said to deserve such a cruel blow as the loss of his collar stud. Parshments are sometimes justly sent upon us, and most things we can bear when it comes to the pinch. But the collar stud that hides itself under the furniture and will not be found, causes strong men to beat the air. When this comes to a man, all the pessimism that was ever in Hardy closes over him like a gulf of cold black water. He is the sport of Fate (writes H. R. S. in the "Daily Post").

The Fateful Decision.
It came to a friend of mine the other day. A Sunday morning it was. He rose late, it is true, but even in his hurry he was careful to put the right foot first on the floor. This protipitation of Fate came to nothing. A few minutes later he lost his only collar stud, and when for the third time he had banged his head against the bottom of the wardrobe he found himself, as Kai Lung would say, in a very complicated state of disquietude. He sank into the pit of inexpressible grief. Time pressed. My friend came to a decision; to me, it seems, a rash decision. He decided to go out without a collar. He would put on a scarf and turn his overcoat collar up. Now, I am not one to uphold at any cost the respectable tyranny of the starched collar. In my heart, I have rejoiced against it. I have a long memory and I call to mind just now how, one very hot summer's day when I was walking down town to Liverpool, I was struck by a difference between myself and a number of honest working men I noticed. The working men were taking their lunch with great enjoyment in the open air, sitting on the pavement on the shady side. I could not do that, much as I would have liked it. For some reason or other people who wear starched collars don't sit on the pavement and take lunch. That is but one example of the tyranny of the collar. There are others.

He knew that everybody knew! Of course, the trouble with my friend was that circumstances caused him to jump too far. Let us overcome the stiff collar by all means if we can, but not at one blow. A man who tries to do it should do it gradually by first wearing his starched collars soiled, and then taking to the particularly shapeless kind of soft collar which is worn by some Englishmen and a number of American mil-litaire. From that collar to no collar will be an easy step. But there on a Sunday morning in one of the best parts of Liverpool, was a man who had jumped at once from starch to nothing. The scarf and overcoat collar was no good at all. As he crept to church, keeping close to the wall, he knew that everybody knew he had lost caste.

The Outcast.
He recalled newspaper pictures of particularly violent prisoners in the dock. None of them wore collars. He passed a policeman, and paled. In church he felt lonely and miserable. All the men had very stiff, very clean collars on. He felt an outcast. He began to grow afraid of himself. That lady on the left; she surely eyed him suspiciously then. But he hadn't really done anything, he told himself. Only lost his collar stud. Anybody might do that. Even the parson. Yet they all had collars on. Then something happened which made him rush out of the church covered with shame and confusion. The collection was being taken. With his right hand my friend put a shilling on the plate, but as he did it, his left hand (the hand that had dropped the stud an hour before) moved towards a shining half-crown which the lady on the left had put on the plate. My friend raved for hours. I took him a bright new stud yesterday afternoon. I think he knew me.

The Thirty-Second Annual Report

THE CATHEDRAL MEN'S BIBLE CLASS.

The Rev. Canon Jesves, M.A., Rector of the Cathedral and Parish Church of St. John the Baptist, and the members of the C.M.B.C. on behalf of the Committee we beg to present to you the report of the Class during the past year. In all twenty-five meetings held in the classroom, also a service in conjunction with the C.M.B.C. at the Cathedral, at the request of the Class, owing to the remarkable absence of the Bishop through illness, the address was delivered by Rev. J. Brinton, Chairman. While the membership has been maintained and the attendance steady, we regret to report that there is a slight falling off in the average attendance compared with that of last year. On the other hand there has been a much keener interest in the lectures, and especially in the studies which have been directly from the Holy Scriptures. Besides our chairman, on whom falls the burden of the work, addresses have been given by the Bishop, Rev. Canon Bolt, Vicar of the Diocese, Rev. St. M. Missionary in Ungava for the past thirty years, Rev. Dr. Fahey, Principal of Queen's College, and Rev. C. Clench, Rural Dean of Conception Bay. To each and all we avail of the opportunity to extend our sincere thanks. Instructive, interesting, helpful and suited to our common needs, the educational feature of our work, we feel sure, has tended doubtless to the deepening of our faith and the strengthening of our life. "Search the scriptures," the definite command of the Blessed Lord, is as necessary to us as it was to the apostles, and we are well-willing to-day as nineteen hundred years ago.

MENTAL TEA AND ENTERTAINMENT.

The Annual Tea and Entertainment was held in the Synod Building on Wednesday, February 27th, and was well attended both by the members of the class and the general public. The net proceeds amounted to $418.34, and has been used for the purchase of literature and the general expenses of the work of the Harbour and Wharf Mission. To the ladies who so readily and willingly provided the tables and to the performers who so ably carried out the programme, we extend our hearty thanks.

HARBOUR AND WHARF MISSION.

On the first Sunday in May, with a celebration of the Holy Communion in the Cathedral at 8 a.m., and a special service on the wharf of Messrs. Bowring Bros., the Harbour and Wharf Mission was reopened. Both services were taken by Rev. J. Brinton, Chaplain to the Missions to Seamen, and were well attended by the members of the Class. The "Ethel B." captained by W. Barrett and crewed by Messrs. E. Best, R. Corrick, J. Parsons, C. Golden and N. Adams, started immediately on her work of visiting the vessels at anchor in the harbour and distributing to the crews literature and notices of Church Services. Except for occasional engine trouble, due in a large measure to infrequent usage, everything worked smoothly throughout the season. During the latter half of the year valuable assistance was given by Messrs. M. Feaver, S. LaFosse and C. Keats. The total number of vessels visited by the boat was 1,370, an increase of 85 over last year. The number of tracts distributed was 4,868.

The Wharf Mission restarted work also on the first Sunday in May under the captaincy of L. Winsor, assisted by Messrs. J. Horlick, W. Winsor, R. Morgan, and W. Rees. The work here has met with considerable difficulty during the season. All went on splendidly until July when, owing to illness, L. Winsor was obliged to give up the work. For some two months he suffered greatly, but as time went on hope faded and in the month of August he passed to his rest and reward. For many years he was a regular member of the Class and one of our keenest workers, his greatest interest being in the Wharf Mission. Of a quiet disposition and persevering character, together with a strong sense of devotion to the Master, he won his way into the hearts of others and exercised an influence for good that it is not easy to estimate aright. At a meeting of the Committee soon after, W. Winsor was appointed captain. Only a few weeks had passed when he was obliged to enter hospital, and undergo an operation which laid him up for a month. Meanwhile the work was carried on by Messrs. J. Horlick and E. Reid. In spite of these difficulties the work has been well maintained. The number of vessels visited was 1,500, same as last year, while some 600 tracts were distributed. The total visits made by the boat and wharf workers was 2,870, and the literature distributed amounted to 11,000 copies of some twenty assortments. The majority of our literature is from the pen of the Rev. Paul Bull, Community of the Resurrection, Mirfield, Yorkshire, and includes such tracts as "Gambling," "Courtship," "The Holy Sacrifice," "History of the Church" and many similar subjects. At this time of real need valuable assistance was given us by Messrs. H. Morgan, G. Lewis and J. Pierce, of St. Andrew's Brotherhood, St. Thomas's Parish, who kindly volunteered their services which were greatly appreciated. "Unity is strength" was again demonstrated, as without the aid of our friends from the neighbouring parish it would have been impossible to visit the eastern sections of the waterfront. To each and all our many workers we take this opportunity to express our gratitude.

It is with deep regret that we chronicle the death of E. Hiscock, who for many years was a member of the Class and a foremost worker. He was always ready and willing to lend his aid wherever needed, serving as secretary for a time and spending several years as a member of the crew of the boat. Always painstaking and dependable, he was one whose labours were greatly appreciated and whose place it is not easy to fill.

THE PENITENTIARY MISSION.

This work was again carried on by James Billard, who made thirty visits and distributed 450 tracts. It is a pleasure to us to know that this work is greatly appreciated and that our literature is highly valued. To visit the prisoner is still a work of mercy. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

CLASS ORCHESTRA.

We again feel that a word of appreciation and thanks is due the members of the Orchestra, who come here regularly Sunday after Sunday and assist us in praise in such a delightful manner. Mr. James Lawrence commences his thirty-first year in the band of the C.M.B.C., a record he may well be proud of! and Messrs. J. Simms, T. England, W. Haynes, G. Newman and W. J. Hodder are still with us. To each and all we express our hearty thanks and wish them many more years of such happy service.

THEOLOGICAL STUDENTS.

Last year we reported that six of our members were in preparation for Holy Orders. It is very gratifying to report this year that two of them, Rev. F. Jones, and Rev. E. LeMessurier, have been admitted to the Diaconate, the former serving at the Mission of Cow Head, Straits of Belle Isle, and the latter as Curate of Bunbury, diocese of Chester, England. Mr. G. White having obtained the Rhodes Scholarship, is continuing his studies at Oxford, Mr. A. Whatley at Lennoxville, Mr. G. LeMessurier at Canterbury, and Mr. R. Cluett at Nasbota, U.S.A., while Mr. J. Gould, another member and worker of the Class, has entered Queen's College. As we think of them to-day we cannot go along with our thoughts that they one and all may be given the spirit of perseverance and success in the cause they have in hand.

CONCLUSION.

These are days of difficulties and dangers. Perhaps one of our greatest dangers is that of mistaking civilization for christianity. To work at the circumference and neglect the centre is, as everyone knows, to build without foundation and to court disaster. So to accept all the modern movements of the age without thought of Jesus Christ and His definite teachings is to court spiritual disaster. In all our thoughts and work let us put the Incarnate Christ first—only let us be quite sure He is first—and then life—true life, true civilization—will follow in due course. "Without Me ye can do nothing." Humbly submitted on behalf of the Committee.

E. BEST, Secretary.

Lighting Rate to Be Reduced

RECONSTRUCTION OF STREET RAILWAY PROMISED.

At the weekly meeting of the City Fathers yesterday, Mr. J. W. Morris, Superintendent of the Nfld. Light & Power Company, was present, and placed before the Board facts relating to the lighting rates and Street Car Service.

He reviewed the history of the Electric Light and Street Railway Companies in St. John's since their inception; the many obstacles with which they had to contend, and present day conditions. In comparing the lighting rates of this city with those of Montreal, Toronto, Halifax, etc., he thought the immediate production of the companies in these cities should be taken into consideration, as against the very small consumption here, and stated that "mass production lessens the cost of the unit" which is a fact recognized in every business to-day. He intimated, however, that the Company had decided to make an initial reduction in Lighting Rates for domestic purposes, and that the following would come into effect during the coming month:—

First 50 kilowatt hours 11 cents, balance 10 cents, minimum bill per month $1.00, meter rental 25 cents, discount of 5 per cent, if paid within 10 days of date of B.P.

In speaking on the Street Railway, he pointed out that it was impossible to make any decided improvement at the present time, but that a programme had been laid out by the Company for reconstruction of same, which will be started as soon as the weather permits. The first step will be the re-railing of the streets over which the cars are now operated; also the introduction of a modern car equipment, which it is hoped to have fully completed during the present year so as to give the public a satisfactory and up-to-date service.

Negotiations are now being made for the erection of a new sub-station, car barns, etc.

Incidentally it may be mentioned that the erection of the new building and the necessary road work, will provide a lot of employment in the near future.

Obituary

PATRICK KEATING (Jr.), Bar Haven

The passing away of Patrick Keating (Jr.) on Tuesday last at the early age of 23 years removes from Mount Arlington Heights, Long Harbour, one of the most promising young men of that place. The young man six days prior to his death was in the possession of robust health. As a result of a long journey made to the interior of the country he contracted a chill, which brought on double pneumonia. Conscious to the last he conversed with his Pastor by whom he was lovingly consoled in the last rites of his church. He died in the presence of the priest who closed the young man's eyes when, the end came, and was surrounded by parents, relatives and friends. The priest had travelled in the height of a blizzard nearly one hundred miles to attend the young man. The deceased was of a modest, ever retiring disposition. His entire business career was spent in the service of his parents. For years he had been fitting himself for the eventual taking over of the helm. Funeral services were held at his home on Tuesday evening, thence on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock to St. Jerome's Church, Long Harbour Centre, where a Solemn High Mass of Requiem was sung by Rev. Francis Cacciola for the repose of his soul. During the Mass the hymns "Sweet Spirit Hear My Prayer," "Abide With Me," "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me," and a beautiful hymn in honor of St. Agnes entitled "Sweet Agnes Pure Angelic Child." Before the Libera was chanted, Fr. Cacciola preached the eulogy, taking his words from the 137 Psalm. The interment took place in the family plot in St. Jerome's Cemetery where the hymns "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," "Lead Kindly Light" and "Jesus, My Happy Home" were sung. The pall bearers were his faithful companions, namely Anthony Keating, Michael King, Andrew Burke, Peter Barron, Thomas Kelly, Thomas Murphy, James Nolan and William Bruce. He is survived by his father and mother, James and Margaret Keating; his brothers, Denis and Vincent, and one sister, Mary, for whom great sympathy is felt in their bereavement.

MINARD'S LINIMENT USED BY PHYSICIANS.

Best for Coughs & Colds

Minard's gives quick relief for coughs and colds, grippe, influenza, etc. Madame J. Edmond Potras, of Pabourg, St. Jean Bte., Quebec, is only one of hundreds who highly recommend it. She writes as follows: "After having tried several syrups and rubbing lotions for cough, I consider that Minard's alone gives satisfaction. I also value it for warts, which I have quickly removed with Minard's."

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Permanent Marine Disasters Fund Committee and the Committee of the Disasters Fund of 1914 were held yesterday afternoon in the Cashier's Office, Nfld. Savings Bank.

The reports for the year were presented and approved. The particulars here, in the main, have already been published. The financial statement, audited by the Auditor General, shows an expenditure of $10,442.23. Of this sum $9,609 has gone directly to the beneficiaries. In addition to the work of the P.M.D.F. the operation of the Act of 1912 is directed by the Committee. Under this Act there were forty claims during the year, of which 34 were approved.

The number of beneficiaries for the past four years was as follows:—

Widows
Mothers	Children	Total
1921	29	97
1922	51	198
1923	70	254
1924	83	310

Thus the number of beneficiaries for the year was over three times the number of four years ago.

The work of the Marine Disasters Fund of 1914 (Sealing Disasters) is also done by the Committee. Last year $10,066.15 was expended. The cost of administration for the three funds amounts to less than three cents for every dollar distributed.

At the meeting the Hon. Secretary read a letter just received from his Grace the Archbishop of St. John's, whose kindly thoughtfulness saved the chain from breaking on more than one occasion last year. His Grace writes:—

"I understand the annual meeting of the Permanent Marine Disasters Fund Committee is being held this afternoon, and I desire to avail of the occasion to tender my cordial congratulations to you on the success of your work last year in the interests of that most deserving object, and to say how glad I am to see you continuing a cheque for $50.00 as an earnest of my wishes for your success in the work during 1925.

"We have been all deeply pained and grieved by the recent terrible disaster on the South West Coast. This is only another instance of the perils which constantly beset those of our people who go down to the sea in ships, and surely lays emphasis on the worthiness and importance of the cause which is so very much indebted to your personal efforts.

" Hoping that your year's success will be repeated this year, I remain, Sincerely yours,

THE P. ROCHE,
Archbishop of St. John's,
The Palace, Jan. 29, 1925.

The Secretary also stated that he had received an encouraging letter from David Baird, of James Baird, Ltd., enclosing a cheque for $100.00. The announcement was made that the total receipts for the present month amounted to $861.50, or $197.50 in excess of the January section of the chain. The Committee goes forward encouraged and grateful.

The officers were re-elected—Hon. W. J. Ellis, President; Hon. George Shea, Vice-President; Hon. R. Watson, Hon. Treasurer; Dr. Robinson, Hon. Secretary, and J. R. Goodison, Deputy Secretary-Treasurer.

Wedding Bells
MATTHEWS-BUGDEN.
Privy Wedding at Christchurch Parish Church.

A quiet wedding took place at Christchurch Parish Church when Augustus (Gussie) Bugden, second eldest daughter of Rev. Walter and Mrs. Bugden, of New Perlican, Newfoundland, became the bride of Hector J. Matthews, of New York, at which His Lordship the Bishop of Fredericton, assisted by the Rev. A. J. Saxe, officiated.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother-in-law, Harry R. MacNutt, preceded by the choir singing "The Voice that Breathed Life" and was most becomingly attended in a navy blue suit of pique with white collar, black picture neck and pique velvet with wood color arm bouquet of carnations and maidenhair fern. During the signing of the register, Lead Us, Heavenly King by Miss Maud Williams.

After the ceremony the young couple dined at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Harry E. MacNutt, where a wedding supper was served. They left for Great Neck, N. Y., where the groom is a prominent contractor—Fredericton, N.B.

Prizegiving at St. Michael's

PARISH OF ST. MICHAEL'S AND ALL ANGELS SUNDAY SCHOOL.

On Sunday, January 25th, His Lordship the Bishop of Newfoundland was present at St. Michael's Church for the Annual Distribution of Prizes to the Sunday School. After Prayers were said, the Rector read a Report of the Sunday School for the year, in the course of which, in reference to the Sunday School work, he said: "We consider no duty laid upon us, and no part of our Church work, to be of more importance than the religious education of our children. By drawing out and developing in the children of all that makes for religion. From the Christian point of view, it means, leading the children on to a living faith in the person of Jesus Christ; the development of the prayer life; the renunciation of evil and the holding fast to good; showing how and where grace and strength may be found; training them, to consecrate themselves, to noble living in the service of God and of their fellow man.

"With this end in view St. Michael's Sunday School is divided into three divisions—(a) the Sunday School; (b) the Catechism Class; (c) the Faith Class—Emphasizing in this way rather the different stages in the child's development, than different grades of instruction.

"The total number of children attending the various classes during the year was three hundred and twenty-one. In the Sunday School, under Miss Maud Reid and fifteen teachers, one hundred and three boys and ninety-eight girls. In the Catechism Class, under the Rector and four assistants, fifty-one boys and forty girls. In the Faith Class, under Mr. Fred Grant, forty elder boys and girls."

The Rector took the opportunity of thanking the teachers and assistants in the school for their labours on behalf of the children, and he extended a welcome to Mr. Rowe, student of Queen's College, who was now attached to St. Michael's Parish, and was assisting the Rector in teaching the Catechism Class.

After the Report was read the Bishop was asked to distribute the prizes.

The Bishop then gave a short address to the children, teachers and parents present, in which he spoke of the number of children attending the school; what their training means to them, and should mean in the future to the life of the Church in St. John's; he hoped they would grow up loyal to the Church, strong and true to her principles. The Bishop emphasized the fact of vacant Missions in the diocese, and hoped that from among the boys of St. Michael's vocations to the priesthood would be found, who in their turn would take their part in carrying on the work of the Church in this diocese and elsewhere. In conclusion, the Bishop thanked the teachers in the name of the Church, for their work which he felt was not always recognized at its true value.

Mr. Fred Grant, in a short speech, in which he dwelt upon the weighty office of a Bishop of the Church, thanked His Lordship, in the name of the children and teachers, for his kindness in coming on three successive years to distribute the prizes to the School.

Prayer being said the Bishop gave the Blessing.

The names of the prize winners were as follows:—

B-Battery and A-Battery Eliminators

During the last three or four months a great deal of attention in the radio field has been attracted to the so-called "A" and "B" battery eliminators. These are devices designed to utilize the house current for "A" and "B" battery supply.

In this department we have never shown how to build a "B" battery "eliminator," although we have several times shown how the a.c. lighting current may be utilized for the "A" batteries. This latter operation is quite simple, and fairly satisfactory, necessitating only a stepdown transformer to step down the 110-volt energy to 6 volts. A 200 or 400-ohm potentiometer is placed across the filament supply, and the grid returns are brought back to the arm of the potentiometer. By careful manipulation, practically all the objectionable hum may be eliminated.

We have purposely refrained from describing "B" battery eliminators, however. To be sure, such devices are possible, but they have disadvantages as well as advantages, and taking everything into consideration we did not think it particularly worth while to describe the construction of a unit. The proper sized chokes and condensers for smoothing out the hum are sometimes difficult and expensive to obtain, and we were inclined to believe that the thing would be more trouble than it was worth.

If you are going to buy a commercial type of battery eliminator, don't go into the thing with your eyes closed. If possible, try the device out in your own home before accepting it. Some makes now on the market have filters which will "fit" all right as long as a frequency of exactly 60 cycles is maintained, but which will let through a lot of hum if the frequency is just a little bit off.

Another thing to find out is the power consumption of the instrument. Some makes of eliminator now on sale draw in the neighborhood of 600 watts—as much as an electric heater. That is using up current at a pretty fast rate, and you would not be saving a great deal of money by shifting from drycell, or storage, "B" batteries, to such an instrument. Good makes of eliminators, which do not draw outrageous current, are available.

Of course, many people want an eliminator for its convenience, regardless of the fact that it runs up the light bill. But it won't hurt in any event, to find out the exact power rating.

The Story of 1924

The results achieved by The Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada in 1924 as indicated by the figures given below will be very gratifying to policyholders and others interested in the Company's progress:

	1914	1919	1924
Assurances in force	$45,794,225	$92,634,158	$176,068,256
Assurances Issued	7,761,726	25,451,233	33,424,317
Total Assets	10,310,392	16,983,112	31,239,195
Premium & Interest Income	2,131,875	4,171,609	7,865,577
Policy & Annuity Reserves	8,130,560	13,892,960	26,249,613
Payments to Policyholders	469,724	1,531,319	2,857,184

The millions of dollars of Reserves held by The Imperial Life are calculated on so strong a basis that interest earnings of only 3% are sufficient to maintain them. The difference between this 3% rate and the 6.23% actually earned gives an exceptionally wide margin for policyholders' profits and security.

The Shoe Men

In what is now Portugal Street, when a Shriek started him. Proceeding to the spot from which the cry came he found a young woman of striking beauty struggling with two men of the seafaring type. Releasing the woman the two men attacked the colonel, who defended himself against their knife-thrusts with his loaded stick until help arrived, and his assailants fled. During the struggle one of the men declared he was the husband of the girl, and that no one had a right to interfere. The girl herself pleaded with the colonel not to pursue the men and begged him not to persist in his offer to escort her to safety. The colonel agreed. But, though he had kept his head in the fight, he found he had lost his heart to the strange beauty. For a year he treasured memories of the brief and dramatic encounter, and then he met her again in the same spot—this time wearing widow's weeds. To the infatuated colonel she seemed more beautiful than before, and many meetings between the pair followed. He learned in time that one of the ruffians from whose clutches he had rescued her was indeed her husband, and it was supposed he had been lost at sea. In the course of time the colonel led the supposed widow of the seaman to the altar—the date of the ceremony has been given as 1787—and they were happy enough until one night Colonel Seymour found his wife in tears because, she asserted, she had seen near the house the husband, whom she believed to be dead. No trace of Hudson could be found, though from time to time documents alleged to be in his handwriting were produced.—Colonel Seymour denied the soundness of these claims, and contended that although advertisements had appeared in the public press nobody had come forward to prove the existence of Hudson after the date of the marriage. The claim of Sir Edward Seymour to the title was adjourned last July in order that 600 parish clerks might be interviewed, and a reward of £200 was offered for details of the marriage of Colonel Seymour and the beautiful Leonora Hudson.

cut from 500,000 to 425,000 bushels of wheat because of the lack of adequate water during the past season.

"The water is diminishing all over the whole chain of lakes all the time," he said, "not only in the intersecting rivers, but in the harbors."

The Chicago River, he said, was the most difficult of navigation, along the whole lake front.

"The tide makes it harder," he said, "than even the Buffalo River which is very crooked and shallow."

Opponents of the pending waterways bills have insisted that to turn 10,000 cubic feet of water per second into the Chicago waterway as provided in the bill would destroy rather than augment its commercial value.

Captain T. J. Phillips, of Buffalo, told the committee that the "Strait of Mackinac" had been reduced in width during 20 years from 1 1/2 miles to barely 700 feet.

"That passage cuts the time on the Chicago run by two hours," said the witness, "but steamship companies now insist their boats take the northward passage, despite the delay."

Attorney-General Dougherty, of Michigan, after pointing out that seven States were joined in opposing further diversion of water from the lakes, said:

"We in Michigan feel that we are vitally affected. We feel that the lakes are part of our property. The waters are ours, in trust, and it is our duty to keep them up for the future."

"The Government has improved these lakes," suggested Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, who was presiding.

"But the lakes are mine—and Canada's," persisted Mr. Dougherty. "You will not get much net advantage to national commerce if you help one artery by injuring another."

"More than 80 per cent. of our iron trade goes over the lakes at a cost of one mill per ton mile. Witnesses have told you they could increase the cargoes of ships by as much as 25 per cent. if adequate water is maintained. Such an increase would be reflected materially in the production cost of American iron and steel which is so important a barometer in the competition in foreign markets."

Captain Phillips declared lake shippers dodged as much as possible charter calling for delivery at Chicago.

The sentiment of the committee, Senator Brookhart announced, is to "protect to the fullest extent every legitimate right" of the lake States.

"But we of the Mississippi valley think of this proposed waterway as you regard your lakes," he continued. "The ideal solution would be to find some plan which would maintain the lake level, protect the Niagara power plants, and yet give Chicago what water she needs. We must get as near that as we can."

The committee adjourned until next Tuesday when engineers will be heard.

Household Notes

The flesh of fresh fish is firm and elastic to the touch. Add a little minced pimento to the batter for salmon fritters.

Sweet potatoes, either baked or candied, go well with sauted ham.

It is best to bake or broil a fat fish, and cook the lean kind in fat.

If you have no thermometer, test your frying fat with a bit of bread.

It is better to feed the convalescent a little at frequent intervals.

Remember the dishes for the invalid should be delicately flavored.

Sun-dried sheets and towels, if smoothly folded, do not require ironing.

Salad vegetables are most healthful when dressed with oil and lemon juice.

Molds of fruit flavored "snow" are nice served with vanilla custard sauce.

Nuts and raisins, finely ground, can be made into balls and rolled in sugar.

Invalids find beverages easier, and more interesting to drink through straws.

Bread crumbs can be added to potatoes to increase their bulk for frying.

Before putting a juicy filling in a pie line the bottom crust with bread-crumbs.

Cold, flaked fish is excellent when baked with macaroni in a well-seasoned sauce.

If you do your own laundry work, sort the clothes for mending as you iron them.

An attractive way to serve a par-fait would be between two large macarons.

Expressions of Sympathy

OVER THE LOSS OF METHODIST COLLEGE.

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir—The calamity which overtook the community in the destruction of the Methodist College has brought forth many expressions of the kindest sympathy from many directions.
I am sure the community would be interested in this evidence of kindness and good will which is so greatly appreciated by the Methodist College Board.

I shall be glad if you will publish the enclosed in your esteemed paper.
Yours very truly,
R. F. HORWOOD,
Secretary Methodist College Board of Governors.

Dear Sir—Mr. S. T. Harrington, Principal of the Methodist College, has handed to me your letter offering sympathy and assistance to our Board in view of the loss by fire which we have recently sustained. Your letter was read at a meeting of the Board last evening, and I am instructed to write you expressing the deep sense of gratitude and appreciation which we all feel for the kindness and helpfulness which is evident from your letter. A Committee was appointed to interview you to-day.

I am, dear Sir,
Yours faithfully,

Dear Sir—At a meeting of the Directors of the Presbyterian College, held on the 24th inst., I was directed to express the sympathy of our Board in the great loss sustained in the burning of the Methodist College, a loss which is not only yours but that of the whole community.

Knowing your people, our Board feel this loss will be only an incentive to you for greater effort, and in which we trust the Presbyterian body will be permitted to take some small part.

Sincerely yours,
(Sgd.) D. M. BAIRD,
Actg. Secretary.

Dear Sir—It will be very gratifying to the Board of Governors of the Methodist College to receive the kind expression of sympathy which your Board has sent and I will see that your magnificent institution during the years that are past, we are assured that the present tremendous crisis will be, in fact, already being faced with a courage and resource that cannot know defeat.

In addition to the destruction of the splendid school buildings we have to mourn the loss of the beautiful College Hall—the centre of many uplifting movements and itself an inspiration. Its advantages were shared by all; we believe it will be the desire of the whole community to share in its re-building.

Again assuring you that our deepest sympathy is with you.
We are, Gentlemen,
On behalf of the Staff and Boarders,
Yours sincerely,

Dear Sir—The expression of regret and sympathy which is contained in your communication signed by yourself, Mr. Colley (House Master) and Mr. Fitzgerald (Hall Captain) addressed to the Board of Governors of the Methodist College was placed before a meeting of the Board last evening and I was instructed to write you in acknowledgement of same and to state that the Board holds in high appreciation the sentiments of sympathy and kindness which your communication contains.
Your letter, so beautifully expressed the sympathy and high hopes which you feel in regard to the loss and the reconstruction is at once an effort and an inspiration to our Board in its sense of disaster and in its efforts to actively in meeting its loss.

I am, dear Sir,

Notes on Votes

Matters of Public Health are largely the concern of governments, which also initiate and carry through legislation regarding education, factory supervision, its maintenance of hospitals, asylums, reformatories, and prisons. Can it reasonably be said that a woman's viewpoint on these questions, which are of vital interest to the well-being of a community, would be of no benefit to the legislators who are called upon to frame the laws.
Even to-day we hear the absurd old cry raised that if women are allowed to vote the home will be divided or neglected. Yet in all other countries where women vote there has been no startling epidemic of domestic quarrels, nor do we believe the children are more ill-kempt and ragged because their mothers vote when election time comes round. Such sentimental arguments are too childish to carry weight with grown men and women.

Strong forces have always striven to postpone the day when women shall vote with men on terms of equality, and not the least powerful force against votes for women is ignorance. When those who oppose the granting of votes to women see that in those countries where it has become effective there are no dreaded revolutions, no filling of the courts with quarrelling spouses, no gutters swarming with ragged and hungry children, they may be convinced.

Instead of their nightmares, they may see, thanks to woman's influence, those much-needed improvements in the conditions under which women and children work, fewer prisons, and better houses, for these things follow as the night the day, and nothing can bar the way.

"True as Steel," a Great Film

DELIGHTS AUDIENCES AT THE NICKEL THEATRE.

Rupert Hughes has followed his "Reno" and "Gimme," both stories touching on problems of modern life, with a third equally interesting discussion.
This time it is the problems, trials and temptations of the woman in business, and the brilliant author-director presents his discussion originally and entertainingly in "True as Steel," now showing at the Nickel Theatre.

It is an unusual picture in more ways than one, for in it is nothing of the spectacular, the melodramatic, or the wildly impossible. Hughes has simply created human, living characters, who live natural lives in the natural way. There are no spotless heroines; there are no god-like heroes; there are no plotting villains, which alone puts the picture in a division of its own.

The leading woman is married; the leading man is married; they have an affair through a business meeting but break it off rather than ruin the lives of their respective mates.

Alleen Pringle, who seems to be bounding toward stardom as fast as she can make pictures, plays the central figure of the story, and she maintains the splendid standard of her work in the film version of "Three Weeks."

A beautifully interesting film is that of "The Cape Cod Cranberry Industry" which is shown as an extra attraction. It is indeed instructive to see how the bogs are prepared in the spring, the vines set and how they grow to profusion in the fall. You see hundreds of men and women picking these berries with scoops in bucketfuls.

IN THE REALMS of SPORT

TO-NIGHT'S GAME.

Hockey Promises To-Night. What promises to be a nip and tuck battle for the points takes place in Prince's Rink to-night, between the Terras and Terra Novas. This is the second of the second round in the League fixtures. When the two teams met in the first round a victory for either team was uncertain to the very end, therefore the game tonight promises to be a closely contested, and it would not be surprising if it should resolve itself into a repetition of Wednesday's clash, a game in which the Terras were furnished with many surprises and it is uncertain yet as to how the series will end. The Terra Novas win to-night should be placed on an equal footing. A win for the Terras will give them a lead for the championship. Both teams will face at full strength and all the players are reported to be in excellent condition. Reserved seat tickets for to-night's game are going fast.

BOWLING'S	1	2	3	3

The third hockey game of the Mercantile League between Bowling's and A. Harvey & Co. took place at 8:15 last evening. The game, which was a very closely contested one, was followed with interest by a large attendance of supporters of both teams and ended in a victory for Bowling's by a score of three goals to nil. At the end of the first period the score board showed Bowling Bros. 1; A. Harvey & Co. 0. In the second period Bowling's increased their lead by 2 goals, still holding their opponents scoreless. The last period was the most exciting of the game as the players put forward their best efforts to score, and a good brand of hockey was given. Time and again attacks were made on the goals, but the custodians of each played remarkably well and many difficult shots failed to get the desired effect. Both teams have amongst them players of much merit and their individual play was at times equal to any seen in the senior league. The following were the line-ups:—

BOWLING'S—Goal, W. Murphy; defence, R. Shea and W. Goobie; forwards, D. Long, P. Hayes, G. Clarke; subs, R. Johnson, M. Feaver, C. Curtis.

A. HARVEY'S—Goal, J. Walsh; defence, J. Kenny and F. Kaynes; forwards, B. Cort, W. Arns and J. Morley; subs, P. Brennan and A. Arns. Referee—E. J. Chubb. Timekeepers—A. Mookler, A. Wight. Penalties—S. James, A. Heale.

Little Jack Rabbit

By DAVID CORY.

Sooner did the kind Policeman learn that Old Man Weasel had been seen near Uncle Lucky's coat, as I mentioned in the last story, than the Bow Wow pulled his watch out of his pocket. "Goodness gracious, it's almost too late to visit the Farny Forest to catch Old Man Weasel. However, I'll try." And putting on his helmet and big blue coat, he picked up his trusty hickory stick and started off.

"Lucky's coat!" Strange to say the Policeman Dog hadn't noticed that Old Man Weasel was carrying a package under his arm. Keeping well in the rear, the Policeman Dog followed the old weasel's footprints in the snow until, pretty soon, not so very long, the Farny Forest came into view.

"Wonder if Old Sic'em, the Farmer's dog, is asleep," thought the Policeman Dog as he passed behind the haystack by the Big Red Barn. Just then the Weathercock on the roof whined about on his gilded top and pointed to the henhouse. Good-

"Open the door. Your nice old Uncle Lucky's out here in the cold." The next minute Cockey Doodie looked out of the little window above the door, and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

LABOR TOPIC DEBATED.

Labor's rooted suspicion of the employing class is historically unjustified, in the view of the Methodist College Literary Institute, which last night in the Guards' rooms debated the question. Submission of the issue to the Institute resulted in a victory by two votes for the negative. Messrs. A. W. Mewa, Herbert Butt and Rev. C. H. Johnson were the leaders of the negative and winning side. J. R. Smallwood, George Soper and Chesley Moore combatted for the affirmative, that Labor's suspicion is historically justified. Speakers from the floor included Reginald Herder, Reuben F. Horwood, William White, A. E. Hayward, A. E. Perkins, Capt. Abram Kenn, Thomas Soper and Joseph Moore. Chairman Murray also spoke to the question, following the vote.

Defining the terms of the resolution, the Affirmative indicated the word "Labor" as meaning the totality of workers by hand and by brain, those who receive wages and salary. "Employing class" meant those who as a class own capital and have it invested and receive their income by employing workers to work with their capital, namely, their factories and plants, etc. The Affirmative objected to the word "suspicion," and preferred to use such synonymous words as "attitude toward," "viewpoint of," "the employing class."

But the latter, the Negative, concurred and went on to argue its case correspondingly. That Labor had a suspicion or viewpoint or opinion regarding the employing class, and that this suspicion is widespread both sides agreed. The Affirmative stated that this suspicion originated 150 years ago, as a result of the Industrial Revolution, which, starting in England spread to all modern countries and brought industrialism, with its consequent armies of wage labor. This Industrial revolution had increased a thousand-fold the wealth producing capacity of society, what with countless new inventions and new processes. But what did Labor as such get out of this enhanced productivity? That was the concrete suspicion that Labor had—that it was not getting its just and rightful share of the prodigiously increased total output in the production of which it had played so all-important a part. This the Affirmative attempted to prove by quoting figures of the comparative distribution of wealth of the countries, claiming that the employing class, small in number, received vastly more collectively than did the army of Labor collectively.

Realizing that this was so, Labor had organized itself into unions, so that to-day there were 100,000,000 of them banded into the greatest army of all time, for the purpose of obtaining its just proportion of the wealth produced. Many great statesmen, writers and, latterly, all the Christian Churches, had taken a stand favorable to unionism. This mighty movement, now just 100 years old, was waging a battle that was to win distributive justice during the lifetime of the present century.

Arguing oppositely, the Negative strongly deprecated the whole business of suspicion, stating that it ought not to play any part in the relationship of individuals, or of Labor and Capital, or laborers and capitalists. Suspicion was at the bottom of much of the trouble in the world to-day. It pervaded all society. Labor ought to realize that industry is a co-operation of Capital and Labor, and that amicable relationships can only be maintained upon the basis of no suspicion. Capital was in the hands of a few men, it was true, but they were the best men to have it, and they did their best in behalf of Labor. As a matter of fact all workers employed in a factory or a plant were really the owners of that work, and the harder he worked and the greater service he gave, the greater was his reward. Unions had many defects, and strikes were often unfairly called and cost a great deal of money.

Labor in Britain had been suspicious of the employing class there, and they got a Labor Government. But what happened? The Labor Government did not attempt to put its advocated reforms into practice, but announced that only a profound social change, a change in the basic methods of production and distribution, could give the people what they wanted.

The trouble with Labor, in some

W. R. GOOBIE IS JUST OPPOSITE THE POST OFFICE.

Household Notes. Candle-holders should be stuck in the frosting of a cake before it has entirely dried. If canned vegetables are used in a vegetablechowder, add them just before serving. A little bag of horseradish and mustard should be kept in the mouth of the pickle jar. Hot rolls are never more welcome than when served with sweet butter and honey. If your family is fond of cheese, serve it with crisp crackers and coffee in place of dessert. For the child's luncheon box use sandwiches of nut bread filled with jam or marmalade. One of the requisites of an invalid's tray is that it be spotless, and attractively arranged. Light, but substantial breakfast and luncheons are a good diet rule for the office worker. For the salad course serve sliced oranges and finely shredded cabbage with French dressing. Gent's good English Spats, at SMALLWOOD'S.—Jan 23, 21
