WHY tire yourself sewing when you can buy everything at the Lambton's tea on Friday?

THE compulsory making of war bread which was to come into force on the 15th has been deferred until a later date on account of the limited supply of wheat flour substitutes at present available.

The use of "Victory Bread" labels is made permissive but not compulsory.

THE REMAINS of Miss Mary Jamieson of Guelph were interred in Nairn cemetery on Saturday last. Miss Jamieson was formerly a resident of Watford. She had been in very poor health for some years. A brother, John Jamieson, of Sarnia, was buried in the Nairn cemetery only a couple of weeks ago.

AN OHIO JUDGE suggests that women should furnish samples of their cooking when applying for marriage licenses. Good idea. And let the prospective groom present a bank book showing a substantial deposit or a certificate from a trustworthy source that he is industrious and has remunerative employment.

A COURT-MARTIAL was held in London on Monday, trying members of the 1st Depot Battalion for breaches of the military regulations. Ten cases were heard. Those who pleaded guilty were convicted. The sentence for conscientious objectors is two years in civil prison. The men will be sentenced in about a week's time.

IT is reported that men in nearby towns bought from $1 to $5 worth of matches to evade the five cents a box war tax imposed on and after July 1st. Fine patriotism—such men are shirkers the same as the man who evades work, enlistment and such things in these days of a death struggle for morality, liberty and Christian living.

THE PATRIOTIC LEAGUE met on Thursday afternoon in the Council room in the library. There was a very good attendance. Quilting and new clothing was the work for the afternoon. The League wish to thank the friends who so kindly donated money, clothing and pillows. There are a number of quilts on hand and plenty of new work to be done. Help will be very welcome.

REV. F. G. ROBINSON, minister of the Granton Methodist Church, received word last week that his son, Signaller H. D. THE 63rd annual communication of the Grand Lodge, A. F. & A. M., was held in Windsor this week with an attendance of about one thousand delegates. The reports submitted to the lodge showed a membership of sixty-six thousand Masons in the province of Ontario. More than twelve thousand members of the Craft in the province have enlisted for overseas service and many of them have distinguished themselves on the battlefield.

THE regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. J. McKeercher on Wednesday evening, July 10th, president presiding. Meeting opened by singing The Maple Leaf and repeating the Lord's Prayer, after which the business of the evening was proceeded with. A donation of $5 was voted for the French Red Cross. Also decided to send more boxes to the boys overseas. Readings were given on "Dried Fruit and Vegetables" by Mrs. Kinnell and Mrs. J. Humphries; also an instrumental by Miss Jean McKeercher. Meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.—SEC.

EVERYBODY welcome at the Lambton's tea on Friday. Come and see our display of sewing.

THE ANDREWS WIRE WORKS COMPANY of WATFORD have become a very prosperous concern and are desirous of obtaining more help in their factory here. The Corporation of Watford are interested in the welfare of the Company and undertake to see that any persons offering themselves to the management are comfortably located and that suitable lodging and boarding places are obtained. The Watford Council have been advised by the Company that they need at the present time three more hands and more later on. This is an excellent opportunity for young men and women to get a permanent position. Application should be made without delay to J. Warren Bate, Manager of said Company.

CREAM, black, grey silk gloves—"Niagara Maid," $1.00 and $1.20.—SWIFT'S.

THE list of successful candidates at the recent Entrance examinations appears elsewhere in this issue. The percentage of successful pupils is larger this year than for several previous years. Miss Helen Campbell of Petrolia, who headed the list for the Inspectorate, is a daughter of Mr. Robt. Campbell, public school principal of that town. She is only eleven years old and is being warmly congratulated on the splendid record she has made. Again all the candidates sent up from the Watford public school were successful. Thirteen wrote, eight of them taking honors. Principal Shrapnell is to be congratulated on the record made by his pupils each year.

THE HERMAN, NER., RECORD says:—"Dr. A. J. Cameron received orders by telegraph Friday night to report for duty at Fort Riley, Kansas, July 18. He has been commissioned a captain in the medical reserve of the army, and expects that after a short period of training at Fort Riley, or some other training camp, he will be sent across the Atlantic. Mrs. Cameron will remain in Herman with her daughter, Miss Evelyn, while the captain is in the service. The members of the Masonic Lodge of Herman Tuesday evening presented Dr. Cameron with a handsome wrist watch." Dr. Cameron was in Watford a few weeks ago visiting his mother and sister.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. John McCormick and Mr. Russel McCormick took motor trip through the Niagara district last week. While there they visited the camp and also the noted Larken farm, probably the best equipped and managed farm in Ontario. They report farmerettes numerous in that district.

The Late Thomas Norris

The funeral of the late Thomas Norris, who died in London, on July 11th, was held from his late residence, Watford, on Friday, July 12th, the Rev. S. P. Irwin, B. A., officiating. The remains were interred in St. James' church cemetery, Brooke, the pallbearers being: P. J. Dodds, A. G. Brown, W. Thompson, J. H. Hume, Wm. McLeay and J. E. Collier.

Mr. Norris was an Irishman by birth and came to this country when about 20 years old, settling in Brocke township and about 40 years ago moved into Watford. His wife predeceased him five years ago last March. He had no children, but is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Stevens, of Brown City, Mich., and Mrs. Saunders, of Flint, Mich. He was a member of the Church of England, a Fenian raid veteran, an Orangeman and a member of Court Lorne, C. O. F. In politics he was a staunch Conservative. Those from a distance who attended the funeral were his sister, Mrs. Stevens, of Brown City, and a niece, Mrs. Silverthorn, of London, Ont.

Thanks, Brer.

Thamesville Herald—"Mr. Thomas Harris, who for many years was successfully published The Watford Guide-Advocate, has decided to retire from the active management of it on account of ill-health. His fellow-editors in this district are glad to know that Mr. Harris will continue the editorial management of the paper, which is always a neat and newsy sheet, and a credit to Watford."

If You Lose Your Card

The law stipulates: "If the registration certificate of any person should be lost or destroyed, worn out or defaced, he may, upon establishing the fact to the satisfaction of the Central Registrar, Ottawa, obtain from him a fresh certificate." Being able to give the officials the series numbers as they appear on the cards helps considerably in securing a new one.

O'Donnell—Moody

A very quiet wedding was solemnized in the Watford Methodist church at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning, when Miss Elleda May, daughter of Mrs. Robert Moody, Erie street, was joined in the bonds of matrimony to Mr. Charles Wm. O'Donnell, of Waterloo. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. C. Tiffin, pastor of the church. The contracting parties were unattended. They left on the 11:16 train for Toronto and will be at home at Waterloo on August 22nd. The many friends of the bride extend congratulations in which the Guide-Advocate joins.

DOCTOR URGED AN OPERATION

Instead I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Was Cured.

Baltimore, Md.—“Nearly four years I suffered from organic troubles, nervousness and headaches and every month would have to stay in bed most of the time. Treatments would relieve me for a time but my doctor was always urging me to have an operation. My sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before consenting to an operation. I took five bottles of it and it has completely cured me and my work is a pleasure. I tell all my friends who have any trouble of this kind what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me.”—NELLIE E. BRITTINGHAM, 609 Calverton Rd., Baltimore, Md.

It is only natural for any woman to dread the thought of an operation. So many women have been restored to health by this famous remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after an operation has been advised that it will pay any woman who suffers from such ailments to consider trying it before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

WATFORD, JULY 19, 1918

Ignorance in Russia

Florence Harper, author of Runaway Russia recently gave the following remarkable example of the ignorance of the Russian peasants. During the summer of 1917, she said, a census was taken for the purpose of ascertaining the names of those who had a right to vote in the various villages. The constitutional assembly was to meet in the fall and on it the great mass of Russian people were pinning their hope of a representative government.

In the various villages, the names were taken by a clerk assisted by a man belonging to the priesthood. While two of these government agents were addressing a small crowd of people in one village in the Volga district, a woman noticed that the finger nails of the clerk were long and pointed. She pointed this out to several other women who became very agitated, and very soon one woman, more superstitious than the others, called out, "He is the devil, he has claws." Panic quickly seized the crowd, the men became frightened and one shrieked: "He has cloven hoofs." The poor unfortunate clerk was wearing shoes with pointed toes. The two men were seized by the mob who stripped them to find out if their feet were real cloven and if they had tails. Upon finding no evidence of tails or cloven hoofs, the crowd decided that while they might not be devils themselves, they certainly must be in league with the devil. They were allowed to leave the village, but without money and without clothes.

An Oil for All Men.—The sailor, the soldier, fisherman, the lumberman, the out-door labourer and all who are exposed to injury and the elements will find in Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil a true and faithful friend. To ease pain, relieve colds, dress wounds, subdue lumbago and overcome rheumatism, it has no equal. Therefore, it should have a place in all home medicines and those taken on a journey.

One Crisis In Our History

WITH the truer perspective obtained in the passage of years, it is to be seen how errors of judgment on both sides produced the Rebellion of 1885. Riel had virtues as well as vices. He was sincere in motives possibly—a fanatic, but a very dangerous one, and as such he was properly dealt with. He had been made the tool of subtly-moving forces, compromise with which was impossible. And hence the blood-stained page in the history of Canadian occupation and settlement of the Imperial wheat field.

Louis Riel himself expiated his crimes with his life—and thirty years afterwards his grandson, Charleris, washed the stain from the family escutcheon with his blood, when he "went out" in France with a sniper's bullet through his heart—but not until he had accounted for no fewer than thirty-seven of Britain's enemies, as shown by notches on the stock of his rifle, the rifle taken from his dead hand and returned to Canada by the officer commanding to become the treasured trophy and most zealously guarded possession of the Rod and Gun Club at his home town of Merritt, in British Columbia.

With the gathering of the storm clouds which broke in the second Riel Rebellion, the strength of the Northern Division of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police was increased, in October, 1884, to two hundred of all ranks and Superintendent Crozier, with a hundred men, started north on the following St. Patrick's Day and succeeded in quieting matters for a time.

Simultaneously, on March 18, Lt.-Col. Irvine left Fort Prince Albert, with four officers, 85 non-commissioned officers and men and 66 spare horses, reaching his objective, 291 miles distant, in seven days, through country held by the rebels. He subsequently united with Supt. Crozier and organized the home defence company at Prince Albert. Crozier later encountered the rebels at Duck Lake, losing nine men and a few wounded, but the enemy falling in his attempt to get the stores under convoy. The total strength of the force, supplemented by volunteers, at Carlton Post, after Crozier's retreat, at Irvine's arrival, was 225 rank and file, with eleven wounded. These left Carlton for Prince Albert, where preparations for defence were completed, all able-bodied men, to the number of 309, being enrolled as special constables—their armament being limited, however, to 116 Smith rifles—and a corps of scouts, 47 strong, being organized under Thomas McKay.

The first few weeks of Col. Irvine's occupation of Prince Albert found the position of that isolated post very critical, the normal population of 100 having been swelled by the influx of refugees to approximately eighteen hundred, in addition to police, and Prince Albert being cut off from supplies, all the trails to the railway running through rebel territory. Lt.-Col. Irvine, kept well informed by the Scouts as to the movements of the Indians, rendered excellent service in driving back Riel's scouts, who were even sufficiently bold to come into Prince Albert itself. Another important duty performed, after the battle of Fish Creek, was the maintenance of the line of communication with Gen. Middleton. The police were kept absolutely in darkness as to the military operations transpiring on the other side until, on April 16, messages were received from Gen. Middleton stating that he hoped to attack Batoche on about 13th or 19th. The police were not to join in the engagement, but to watch for and make prisoners of fleeing rebels.

Until the militia column reached Prince Albert, the presence of the police unquestionably saved the town from falling into the hands of the Reds. Had such a catastrophe occurred, the rebellion would have inevitably assumed proportions of much greater magnitude, possession of Prince Albert being the key to the entire situation. The Indians only desisted from their raids on the town upon seeing the trail of Lt.-Col. Irvine's forces leading thither.

The capture of Big Bear was made by Sergt. Smart and three men of the police; while Inspector A. H. Griesbach, in command of Fort Saskatchewan, did all in his power to maintain peace in and about that centre, which he was successful in doing until the arrival of the citizen soldiery there. Three detachments of the R.N.W.M.P.—commanded by Supt. W. H. Herchmer and Mole, Inspector S. B. Steele and Inspector A. Bowen Perry—actively participated with the militia columns in the operations of the exciting campaign and acquitted themselves throughout with courage, coolness and distinction.

Offended.
A soldier from the wild backwoods of the far west was in the city for the first time, and went into a restaurant. All went well until the waiter brought him a serviette. The eyes of the backwoodsman flamed, and, pulling a six shooter from his hip pocket, he told the waiter his mind. "You take that blamed thing away at once," he said, evenly. "I reckon I know when to use a handkerchief without having any darned hints thrown out."

Old Hockeyist a Hero.
The dash which "Jack" McCamus once displayed with Toronto hockey teams he has again displayed in France, according to the evidence furnished by the official award of the Military Cross to Capt. John McCamus, Canadian infantry. At great personal risk he made three daring daylight reconnaissances for the purpose of selecting forward machine gun positions.

Waste Paper As Fuel

Waste paper is being used as fuel by some women who devise every way possible to cut their coal bills. They take old newspapers, wrapping paper, cardboard, or any old pieces and place them in a watertight receptacle. Boiling water is then poured over it, and it is left until the mass becomes soft, usually taking about twelve hours. This mass is then made into little balls about four inches in diameter, which are set into the sun to dry, or may be dried in an oven. When thoroughly dry these balls are ready for use. They catch fire quickly and burn slowly and have been found a very satisfactory substitute for coal.

An Englishman claims to have invented a fraud proof coin-in-a-slot machine as it rejects metal slugs and even coins of the same size and weight as those intended to be used in it if of less value.

OUTFIT FOR BRIDE

Ivory White Satin Remains the Favored Material.

Lace is Again Fashionable and Often Family Heirlooms Are Used—The Going-Away Gown.

Though no one begrudges the bride of this year her traditional bridal panoply of ivory satin, lace and tulle, it is not expected of her to provide an elaborate and expensive trousseau of handsome evening gowns and stunning afternoon costumes, states a fashion writer. The sentiment of the times is against display in dress, and this year's dearth of formal entertainments, of the usual sequence of balls and dinners and house parties precludes the necessity of a large supply of costly clothes for anybody—even for the bride who is supposed to enjoy a special program of gales in the first months of her married life.

Honeymoons are being cut short this year—as a rule the bridegroom, after a brief furlough for his wedding and the ensuing trip of a week or ten days, goes back to his regiment or to his ship and the bride settles down quietly with her home people—or near them—and though she goes out formally, has naturally not much heart for formal affairs.

The wedding day costume, however, is another matter. It would be an unnatural bride who did not claim her full privilege of bridal panoply, perhaps claim it the more determinedly because robbed of other privileges of brides in normal times. A woman can be a bride but once, and even in wartime she wants to wear the trailing white satin, the pearls, the orange blossoms and the symbolic veil which may be hers on this one great occasion—and this one only—of all her life. Many a beautiful wedding gown has been worn this year and the summer wedding gowns promise to be no less beautiful than those of midwinter. Ivory white satin, the traditional "bride" satin, is the favored material for the wedding gown and though the spring models keep to the slender silhouette now insisted upon by fashion, there are many lovely ways of breaking the straight, slim lines with soft draperies and panels of airy fabric. Lace is again fashionable on the bridal gown and some are trimmed with rare old point and Venice laces have come down as family heirlooms. Of the newer laces, shadow lace is the favorite, because of its delicate texture and lovely draping qualities. Embroidered chiffon is used also, and pearl embroidered chiffon is specially distinguished.

Every bride nowadays seems to seek some individual and original veil arrangement and many are the interesting caps and coronets of lace or tulle from which the veil falls at the back to the end of the train. The Russian cap, rising to a peak at the front, has been used, and various sorts of peasant cap, modified or exaggerated in line and carried out in lace, tulle or silver tissue. The veil now covers, or almost covers, the hair as a modern hat does and is no longer perched or perched high on the head, caught by a puff of tulle or a cluster of orange blossoms.

Second only in importance to the bridal gown is the smart costume in which the bride bids farewell to her friends and starts away to begin her married life. The going-away gown, as it is always called, is less often a gown, than a tailored suit of formal and elaborate type; sometimes it is a gown covered by a very smart topcoat—when the bride starts her wedding trip in a motorcar. This practical costume will most likely, this spring, be a tailored suit of dark blue or black serge made with a straight, plain skirt and dashing little jacket in loose box or Eton style and the bride will certainly possess one or two attractive waistcoats to do the suit justice; one waistcoat perhaps of dotted foulard silk, the other of beige silk poplin, or of pearl gray fallie silk.

Summer Frocks of Silk.

Wash silk is to be very much worn this summer, both in striped and plain. Smart little frocks are made of heavy white habutai. An unusually good model for a young girl in her early teens is shown, made of white habutai. The material is of a very heavy, lustrous quality. The middie blouse at the round neck and cuffs is ornamented with a line of colored embroidery and large ball buttons embroidered in color hang from the cuffs. The skirt is gathered in panel effect at the back and front. For the simplest of these cotton frocks all the old favorites are used—lawns, dimities, ginghams and voiles. Gingham has grown in grace from season to season until both plain and in checks and plaids they are often very lovely. No doubt we shall see worn during the summer many more frocks fashioned of the old new-fashioned ginghams.

Neckwear Gets Attention.

Among the many accessories of the toilette none commands more attention than the new neckwear. In previous years white was favored, but this season the collars with a touch of color will lead in popularity. However, one may wear almost any cut and kind and still be in style, for the modes offer much variety. Much originality is being displayed. The new narrower types of sailor and Eton collars are in evidence, and the shirt model is holding its own.

AIRPLANE STANDS STILL.

Germans Try to Perfect an Old Invention.

Advices from Amsterdam inform us that the Germans have devised a new type of airplane which can be made to stand still in the air long enough to let the aviator aim bombs accurately at his objective in the landscape below. This would solve an important problem that has given the flying men of the allies and Germany much trouble. Elaborate tables have been constructed to help solve. These allow for drift and speed over the earth, for wind and the effect of these factors on the falling bombs. Ingenious aiming devices have been invented to automatically solve some of the problems.

The idea of making an airplane stand still is not new or impracticable. It is the principle of the helicopter, a machine that rises straight into the air without a running start. It has propellers, the backward push of which sustain the machine in a given position. Last spring a machine of this type was being tested. Its value for bomb dropping was suggested at that time. The craft had two shafts each with double propellers, one on each side of the fuselage position. Each shaft was supplied with a movable diamond frame, geared to which were attached to the propellers. The front blades gave the initial impetus, the rear blades the needed additional push. Both propeller frames are movable up and down independently through an arc of twenty degrees. In starting the propellers are raised to the required angle and full power is put on. Motions up and down are controlled by raising or lowering them propellers up and back of a vertical line. The helicopter idea is very old but comparatively neglected. Now it seems the Germans are making the most of it. Experiments were being conducted in 1907 with a helicopter invented by J. Newton Williams, of Derby, Conn. One of the problems then was that of descent. Stopping of the engines meant disaster. The Dulaux helicopter was experimented with in France in 1905 and it greatly interested observers.

There is an impression from such phrases as "one of our great battle-planes," that there is in some minds an analogy between a battleship and a battle-plane. As a matter of fact, there is no parallel. The machines which do nearly all the fighting are the smallest, lightest and fastest because results depend chiefly on speed and ability to manoeuvre quickly. Speed is needed to catch the enemy; and quickness in handling is needed to attack him when caught, to make sure of being able to attack from the best possible position, and to enable the attacker to dodge about and avoid being hit.

The big airplane is invariably slower than the small one, therefore it offers an easier target. In attacking a big machine the pilot of a small fighter throws his machine into extraordinary attitudes impossible for a more cumbersome craft.

The Germans, who were the first to produce big airplanes in quantities—although the British produced the first satisfactory examples of the multiple-engine type—soon discovered that the big airplane is not a satisfactory fighting machine. As soon as the very first squadron of small fighting machines was organized for the defence of London, the big German attackers were defeated. Being slow to manoeuvre, they cannot easily escape from the rays of a searchlight and when so sighted they are easier for a gunner to hit than small fast machines. The big, multiple-engined plane is the right weapon for big bombing raids but they have to be used skillfully and with a proper tactical plan. Attempts have been made by the Germans to make these planes safe against attack by small machines by mounting many guns upon them for their defence. This has never deterred the allied aviators from attacking them on sight. The fighting airplane, then, the "battleplane" is no "dreadnought of the air."

Fainting Goats.

Did you ever see a goat faint? Probably not. But the thing does happen—not, perhaps, to the everyday goat, but to animals of that breed which are found in Tennessee. Oddly enough, in that state the "fainting goats," as they are called, seem to be restricted to one small locality. In other respects they are just like ordinary goats, but on slight provocation they will throw a fit. If suddenly approached or otherwise startled they fall to the ground. Apparently the trouble with them is not heart-weakness, but a peculiar nervous complaint. Any sort of alarm gets their goat, so to speak.

DAMAGE BY LIGHTNING

Proper Rodding Would Have Prevented $331,450 Loss.

Caring for Lambs at Weaning—Different Ways Fruits and Vegetables May Be Used as Substitutes for Foods Our Army Requires. (Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

As a comprehensive conclusion from our investigations, we have found that if all the buildings in rural Ontario were rodDED more than 95 per cent. of the annual damage to buildings by lightning would be prevented. The method by which this conclusion was arrived at was as follows: In 1912 eighteen insurance companies in Ontario kept special records for us; from their reports we learned that out of every 7,000 unrodDED buildings insured by them 37 were struck by lightning, while in every 7,000 rodDED ones only two were struck by lightning. The rods prevented damage in 35 cases out of an expectancy of 37, showing an efficiency of 94.7 per cent. Since that we have determined the efficiency for the years 1912, 1914 and 1915. The results for the four years are as follows:

Year.	Efficiency of Rods.
1913	92.9
1914	99.8
Average for four years	91.2

To apply these figures: The report of the Superintendent of Insurance shows that in 1912 the insurance paid on losses caused by lightning was $282,282. No doubt the actual loss exceeded the insurance by perhaps 1-3 or 1/2. If so, the actual loss was $350,000 or over. 94.7 per cent. of this equals $331,450, which represents the saving that would have been effected that year if all the buildings had been rodDED.

Investigations along similar lines in Iowa have shown an efficiency of 98.7 per cent. for rods in that state, based on the report of 55 mutual companies each year for eight years. In Michigan the efficiency of lightning rods has been shown to be from 98 to 99 per cent.

These few facts, which are all matters of record in published reports, establish beyond question the conclusion first given, that if all buildings in rural Ontario were rodDED 95 per cent. of the annual lightning damage to buildings would be eliminated.—Prof. W. H. Day, Ontario Agriculture College.

Care of the Weaning Lamb.

For best results lambs should be weaned at between four and five months. It has been found that under conditions prevailing during the hot dry months of mid-summer the ewes will drop off considerably in their milk flow. The lambs receive comparatively little nourishment and it is better for both ewe and lamb for them to be separated. When the lambs are removed from the ewes they will miss little the small amount of milk they would receive and will soon learn to depend upon pasture. They should receive the very best pasture available. Nothing fits in better than a patch of rape sown at the proper time so as to be ready for pasture when the lambs are weaned. Care should be exercised in turning the lambs on the fresh rape to avoid bloating and probable death. If no rape is available fresh clover will give satisfactory results. In addition to pasture a feed of grain once a day will push the lambs along to a good finish. At no time should it be necessary to feed over one-half pound of grain per day to each lamb while on pasture.—J. P. Sackville, B.S.A., Ontario Agriculture College.

Uses of Fruits and Vegetables.

The drastic regulations set forth by the Canada Food Board lately, have caused much anxiety to many people who feel that they must now choose between either being considered unpatriotic, or going without sufficient food to nourish their bodies.

This is a mistaken idea. In their excitement they have forgotten for the moment to recall the long list of available substitutes which can wholly replace the Allies' demands, and to remember that foremost among these stand fruits and vegetables.

Fresh vegetables not only contain a high percentage of water—a necessary requirement of our bodies—but, also, a large amount of mineral salts and acids which act as blood purifiers and body regulators; they also serve to prevent too great concentration of food and thus aid in the digestive process. Dried vegetables on the other hand, are rich in tissue-building material, dried peas and beans containing as much protein as our best cuts of beef, in addition to containing a large percentage of starch.

While fruits are usually noted more for their flavor, mineral matter and water than for anything else, still we must not forget that bananas, dates, figs, raisins and prunes are high in food value, some containing as high as 60 per cent. of sugar. For this reason they are a valuable substit-

But for cane sugar. They might well be given to children in place of candy, and when served in combination with puddings, or salads, reduce the amount of sugar needed and add much to the value of the dish. Vegetables and fruits should form a large part of the diet during the winter as well as the summer months, and it is therefore to our advantage to see that they are canned or dried at the proper time for future use. Much valuable information on the canning and drying of fruits and vegetables may be secured from the Women's Institute Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture.—Geo. A. Putnam, Superintendent of Women's Institutes.

Daylight Saving Worked Well. In the United Kingdom during the four and a half months that daylight saving was practiced in 1916, it is claimed that the saving in gas alone conserved 200,000 tons of coal. The expenses to consumers were reduced by $2,375,000. Electric light companies reported a reduction of about 20 per cent.

In France fuel used for illuminating purposes was 19 per cent less after the daylight saving program was adopted. In Germany the Berlin municipal gas works reported in May and June of 1916 a decrease of 508,500 cubic meters, in spite of the fact that 18,000 new gas meters had been installed during the previous six months.

BIG SLAUGHTER OF FOOTWEAR STILL GOING ON.

ALTHOUGH we disposed of an enormous amount of stock last month and have moved our entire stock of Footwear into our own store, we find that it is still too heavy for our store to accommodate. So we are offering Great Reductions during the next few weeks—just to make more room. We make the sacrifice—you get the benefit. Are you ready to receive it? Come in and see.

WHITE FOOTWEAR
Our 1918 stock of White Footwear is most complete with all the various styles and sizes, —and all of one quality—the best. We have a shoe for every foot. Nice, cool, White Shoes for everybody—Dad, Mother, Sis and Buz. You'll enjoy them now and be thankful for them when the hot weather's here.

Letter From A Lonely Soldier

A gritty letter with a back-ground of pathos received by Tecumseh Chapter I. O. D. E.

Dear Friends:—

I am exceedingly grateful for your very nice parcel. I was much surprised when I heard my name called for a parcel. I nearly threw a fit as it is actually the 2nd one I have received since my arrival in France now two years ago.

I am well up in the category of "lonely soldiers" as I have no relatives or friends. But I am used to it and don't mind it a jot. But I have seen other poor chaps look awfully blue when they got no letters for a month. I often think how would they feel if they got none for two years, I guess they'd go to a "funny" house sure. I suppose I am built differently as I don't seem ever to get down-hearted. Anyway there is nothing to it. I never could see any use in longing for what we can never have. The weather here is "jake", but we had a long wet winter and well I know it. Do you think it is healthy to sleep on nice soft mud? Of course a kind Government allow us a waterproof sheet. You can't get wet, you only get soaked.

Some fellows prefer beds, but there is no accounting for tastes. Did you notice in the Boches' last drive he did not touch the Canadians? "Jerry" knows a thing or two. He knows we don't belong to the 5th Army Corp. The order has come to "stand to" in skeleton marching order. So I close, thanking you once more for your parcel.

Sapper Jas. Congers,
1st C. R. F., France.

WHEN YOUR COLOR FADES

When a girl—or a woman—finds her colour fading, when her cheeks and lips grow pale, and she gets short of breath easily and her heart palpitates after slight exertion, or under the least excitement, it means that she is suffering from anaemia—thin watery blood. Headache and backache frequently accompany this condition, and nervousness is often present.

The remedy for this condition is to build up the blood, and for this purpose there is no medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They build up and renew the blood, bring brightness to the eyes, color to the cheeks, and a general feeling of renewed health and energy. The only other treatment needed is plenty of sunlight, moderate exercise and good, plain food. The girl or woman who gives this treatment a fair trial will soon find herself enjoying perfect health.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The 12th Parade At Sarnia

The Orange brethren from Watford and vicinity attended the celebration of the Battle of the Boyne, at Sarnia on Friday last. Orangemen were present from many places in this western district, also from Detroit, Windsor, Port Huron, Flint, and other places. There were more than three thousand of them in line, and the parade which took twenty minutes to pass a given point, was witnessed by twenty thousand spectators. There were a dozen fire and drum bands in the procession, and also the pipe band from Windsor.

American and Canadian flag were to be seen everywhere. The big parade was led by Robert E. Brown, of Chicago, grand master of the United States, and editor of the Orange Patriot. George Foster was marshal and James Cox assistant marshal. There were a large number of women in the parade, which was held at Bayview Park. During the afternoon many splendid patriotic and fraternal addresses were given and the speakers were loudly applauded by the thousands present.

Lieut. Wickett Tells Of Conditions In Germany

Lieut. H. Wickett, son of Dr. and Mrs. Wickett, formerly of Watford, in a lecture given in Hamilton, told of the adventures he had gone through in the hands of the Huns after being made a prisoner when his machine was shot down. At that time the young aviator was wounded in the shoulder with shrapnel while his pilot was killed.

Lieut. Wickett stated that only a few people in Germany possessed leather shoes and those who did were envied by their less fortunate brethren.

Fabulous sums were offered for the contents of his parcels, especially soap, soup, tea, meats and coffee. Bread was so scarce that it went by the name of "Angel Food."

Speaking of the manner in which prisoners were treated Lieut. Wickett said that officers were not expected to work, but that privates were never allowed an idle moment. Farm work was not so unpleasant but the mines were terrible and speedily ruined the health of prisoners.

Mr. W. McLean, of the Grand Central Alvinston, had the misfortune to fall from the hay mow on Monday, and was severely bruised and shaken up. He will be laid up for a week or more as the result of his fall.

Hon. C. J. Doherty States Government Attitude on Rural Mail Contracts

J. E. Armstrong, M. P. for East Lambton, has received the following letter from Hon. C. J. Doherty, minister of Justice, and who has been acting premier, relative to the petition of the rural mail carriers of Lambton for an increase:

Dear Mr. Armstrong: I have your letter of the 3rd inst. with reference to the petition of the rural carriers of Lambton for an increase in the amount paid them on their contract.

As I explained on one or two occasions in the House, it hardly seems possible to deal with the contractors on the basis of increasing all around their contract price. I have given instructions that each case, in which it is represented that the carrying out of the present contract gives rise to hardship, should be carefully looked into, and that whenever the circumstances justify it, the contractor should be relieved, if he so desires, of this obligation and new tenders called. This seems to me to be the only method, in view of the fact that these men are not employees, but contractors, in which their claims can be dealt with.

FARMERS, TAKE NOTICE

Your many town brethren have signified their willingness to assist with farm work during haying harvest. They are prepared to assist to the extent of blistered hands and sore backs. All are ready to do what they are able. The lists prepared from the registration cards of those who are ready to assist are now in the hands of the Secretary of the local Resources Committee. Men who are leaving their regular employment are receiving wages from $2.50 to $3.00 per day. When requiring help communicate by phone or letter to any of the following Secretaries:

D. N. Newcombe, Alvinston; Dr. P. M. Brown, Camlachie; N. J. F. Ross, Forest; C. P. Freeman, Inwood; D. E. Plewes, Oil Springs; W. P. Macdonald, Petrolia; F. A. MacLean, Watford; Alex. E. Wark, Wyoming.

WATFORD COUNCIL

Watford, July 15, 1918

Council met pursuant to adjournment. Present: Reeve, Harper, Doan and Hollingsworth.

Hollingsworth—Harper, that Reeve and Clerk confer with the Editor of the Guide-Advocate as to obtaining further help required at the Andrews Wire Works, of Canada, here, and do what is necessary to bring the matter before the public.—Carried.

Fitzgerald—Doan, that we continue to employ Mrs. Chambers to attend to the weigh scales as they are now situated for one year from August 1st 1918, receiving one third of revenue derived from weighing and pay over the balance to the Corporation Treasurer and keep the scales in good repair and pay all expenses in connection therewith.—Carried.

Doan—Hollingsworth, that we adjourn.—Carried.

W. S. Fuller, Clerk.

An order-in-council providing that no cisco or lake herring of a less weight than six ounces, round weight, shall be caught by fishermen, has been passed. The new regulation provides that if any person catches a fish of less than the minimum weight, he shall liberate it in the water alive and uninjured.

A Famous Horse

Last week two motion picture operators were sent by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, to the farm of Brandon Bros., con. 4, Warwick, to take a moving picture of their famous stallion, "Hermimus," which will be used as an educational film at the agricultural college. This stallion is considered to be one of the best in Canada, and Brandon Bros. are to be congratulated in their desire to secure such high-grade stock for Lambton County.—Forest Standard

Alex Bruce, of the 8th line of Moore brought eleven sheep fleeces into Sarnia and sold them to the King Milling Company, realizing the sum of $83.45, which is an average of $7.58 for fleece. This is a good price for wool. Four years ago a whole sheep could have been bought for the price of a fleece to-day.

BROOKE COUNCIL,
Inwood, July 6, 1918

Council met pursuant to adjournment. Members all present. Minutes of former meeting read and confirmed.

When Khaki Calls

By M. E. Stanton

It was evening and the big office buildings were discharging their quota of humanity, who, though still in workaday garb, stepped forth briskly into the crisp autumn air, conscious that the chains of toll were loosened for a few brief hours and that they were free to play, relax and to take their little parts in the comedies and tragedies of social life.

Ann Donovan was one of a group of animated, chattering girls that emerged from one of these immense beehives of industry. They lingered for a moment on the sidewalk, laughing and talking, then scattered on their various homeward ways.

Ann started off, but had only gone a few feet when a quick step sounded behind her and a pleasant masculine voice said:

"Hello, Ann! What's your hurry?"

It was annoying. Why would Tommy insist on waiting for her every evening? Of course he was pleasant company, and all that, but—well, a girl likes to dream sometimes, and that quiet, shaded street, was the only bit of time out of the whole busy day she might have for herself.

"Good evening, Mister Regan," Ann managed to respond, taking a certain satisfaction in using her most formal pronouns and a prim tone, usually reserved for impatient salesmen or persistent book agents who invaded the office.

"Why so distant, Acushla? Doesn't Tommy sound good to you any more? That mister stuff doesn't listen natural comin' from you to me." And the cheerful Tommy softly hummed:

"Pack up your troubles in your old kit bag.

"Them's my sentiments every time. Fellow that wrote that song must have been a real fellow. One who knows that a smile makes the digging easier, whether you're digging with a shovel, or a pen or a sword."

Tommy's voice faltered a little on the last word, and he gazed a trifle anxiously and uncertainly at his silent companion.

"Er—Ann, there's something I've been wanting to tell you, and I don't see why I mightn't as well tell you now."

Ann was panic-stricken. Why could not Tommy be satisfied with things as they were and not begin treading on dangerous ground. Besides—and this was the real reason—a certain resentment had been lurking in the background of Ann's mind for some time with reference to this same Tommy Regan. How could he sit tamely behind a desk and watch other fellows, dozens of them, marching away to "carry the starry banner over seas?"

Tommy was a strapping, stalwart youth, clean-cut and pleasing to the eye. Aggressive and intelligent, he had in him the making of a splendid American soldier.

But he had not enlisted when the nation-wide call for volunteers went forth, nor had the long arm of conscription as yet reached out for him. He and Ann had never directly discussed the subject. It was constantly in Ann's thoughts, but a certain hesitancy had prevented her from introducing the topic, and though she had skated dangerously close at times, for all of Tommy's unflinching cheerfulness and apparent willingness to chat on anything and everything under the sun, somehow he had never given her a clue as to his real reason for putting himself in the slacker class.

Ann herself was an ardent patriot. Fifteen dollars a week is not a munificent sum, but when a girl lives at home the stretching qualities of even a meager fifteen dollars are remarkable. So by dint of wearing her last season's suit, by studiously keeping her head turned the other way when passing an ice-cream parlor, by sundry small economies and self-denials constantly practiced the world over by thousands of working girls, she was able to buy a Liberty bond, to join the Red Cross and to contribute her mite to various special funds for the benefit of "Our Boys." She was even now learning to knit in the "From Potatoes to Knitting Needles" class recently launched at the office.

So when Tommy announced in that serious tone that he had something to tell her, she mentally besought her patron saint to ward off the imminent proposal without hurting the lad's feelings or destroying their friendship.

For, after all, thought Ann, they had grown up together as neighbors, and there had always been a friendly feeling between the two families, though of late years the social intercourse had been confined chiefly to the young people save for an occasional "cross-fence" chat between Mrs. Regan and Ann's mother.

They were on a quiet side street now and her prayer seemed hopeless when, just as Tommy started to resume his confidence, the heaven-sent interruption occurred. The interruption was just a pair of lovers strolling along arm in arm—a scene old as the ages, yet ever interestingly new to observers as well as to observers. The youth was clad in khaki and he carried himself with a jaunty, conscious air of pride that found eager reflection in the admiring maid at his side.

Ann and Tommy turned to look after them. Who can resist a backward glance at a pair of lovers?

"Oh!" sighed Ann, "doesn't he look splendid?"

And then valor tweaked discretion's ears and rushed into the fray.

"How can you stay at home and let folks call you a slacker, when all these brave fellows are giving up their homes, their work—yes, even their lives, to make our homes, our work and our lives safe? You've told me before that you loved me, but I don't want to hear you say it again, for I'll never marry a slacker. Never! Oh, how I wish I had been a man!"

And to Tommy's consternation Ann started to cry. He waited until her sobs had ceased, then said:

"But look here, Ann, I want to tell you—"

"Oh, what's the use of arguing about it now?" queried Ann wearily. "There's only one way for a man—a strong, healthy young fellow like you—to prove his patriotism. If you won't do it, your friends can't force you to."

This was the proper cue for a dignified exit, and as at this precise moment they reached the front gate of Ann's home she murmured a brief "good night" and left him abruptly.

Tommy's voice, still maddeningly cheerful, called after her: "If you happen to feel like the movies tonight, darlin', don't forget my 'phone number."

And Ann could hear him tramping up his own front steps whistling:

"Keep the home fires burning."

"Yes, you'll keep them burning all right," she spitefully apostrophized him, as she entered the house and slammed the door with a vigorous bang that brought her mother hurrying from the dining room, where supper was just sending forth its savory invitations.

"Why, dearie, you came in like a cyclone. No villain pursuing you, is there?" And Mrs. Donovan laughed expectantly, for she and this only daughter of hers were chums and shared a sense of rich Irish humor.

"Nothing, mother. I'm just a little tired and hungry, I guess, and supper smells so good. I'm ready, if it is."

"All right. But, Ann, did you hear about Tommy Regan? His mother was over this afternoon and told me about it. She cried and cried, but she's so proud of him, and she says he's so anxious to go, and—"

"What, mother? Tommy hasn't—"

"Enlisted! Yes, he has," exclaimed Mrs. Donovan, dabbing at a furtive tear with the corner of her apron.

"That's just what Tommy has gone and done. She told me all about how he's felt ever since this war started; how it hurt him to see the other fellows marching off when he had to stay at home."

"Well, why did he have to stay at home?" interrupted Ann. "Of course I know it would leave his mother alone, but Mr. Regan must have left quite a lot of money when he died."

"But he didn't," exclaimed her mother. "Everyone thought so, but it appears that he speculated heavily, not only with his own money, but with some that had been entrusted to his care. His sudden death was a result of the shock of losing everything, and Tommy, who was just starting out to make his way in the world, promised his father that he would see that the funds which had been misused were replaced, though it took years of self-denial on his part. His mother says he has stuck manfully to his promise and has done everything possible to restore his father's honor, but it seemed such a hopeless task."

Mrs. Donovan paused for breath.

"Go on, mother," prompted Ann.

"Well, what do you think? Some of that mining stock has turned out to be valuable after all. There wasn't any gold in the mines, but they have found something else—tungsten, I believe."

Miller's Worm Powders act mildly and without injury to the child, and there can be no doubt of their deadly effect upon worms. They have been in successful use for a long time and are recognized as leading preparation for the purpose. They have proved their power in numberless cases and have given relief to thousands of children, who, but for the good office of this superior compound would have continued weak and enfeebled.

love it is called—that is worth twenty as much. Anyway, they can pay off all their debts and Tommy will know that his mother is well taken care of, even if he's swayed off in France. She said after he made sure he didn't waste a minute getting down to the recruiting headquarters."

Ann started for the telephone.

"Where are you going?" asked her mother, with the kindly inquisitiveness of those near and dear.

Ann looked around the cozy living room with a speculative eye.

"Tommy wanted me to call him up. But I wonder if we wouldn't rather stay at home than go downtown to-night? I'm kind of tired of the movies myself."

Honesty and Carelessness.

There are so many ways in which to be careless with the things that belong to others. Most of us seldom think of these small sins of commission and omission. We would not, for anything in the world, knowingly trespass on the rights of others. Yet, day after day, because we do not think, we do things that are really destructive, and verge very closely upon dishonesty of act, if not intention. Dishonesty is an ugly word. But it is better to face the fact that the careless person is really the dishonest person, for only by admitting a fault can it be cured. Are you careless? If so, look to it that your carelessness does not work harm to yourself and to those about you.

Building Ships in Canada.

The war has taught Canadians many things they did not realize before. One of these is that Canadians can build ships. A few years ago a great many of us were inclined to think that it was not practicable for Canada to enter upon construction of steel ships on a large scale. With a remarkable admixture of modesty and caution—or was it lack of confidence in our own resources—we were inclined to the view that we lacked the skill, experience and material necessary to build ships on an ambitious scale. The war has shown us that we were wrong. In the House of Commons, recently, Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of Naval Affairs, not only assured us that we are already building and are going to keep on building steel mercantile ships in Canada, but went on to say that we had also constructed war craft "equally as well as they could have been constructed in the Old Land."

Aviators as Rangers.

The St. Maurice Forest Protective Society has engaged two aviators, who, with hydroplanes, will patrol the wilds of Northern Quebec and other forest territories for the prevention and discovery of forest fires. This mode of protecting forests in Quebec will be introduced this summer.

Large Baskets.

Some of the California Indiana store their corn supply in willow baskets, which are as large as the rooms of a house.

The Goose That Walked.

A Canadian soldier, whilst serving on the western front, received a parcel containing amongst other articles, portions of a cooked goose as a special luxury. By an error the parcel was sent on to Italy to another section of the same unit. In the fullness of time it was returned to France, having been some weeks on the trip. The soldier, writing home recently, said: "I had a big surprise today . . . for the parcel you posted to me in November last turned up in great style, having performed the latter part of the journey on foot. When I summoned up enough courage to open it the noble bird simply formed fours and departed at the double. . . . I should say it had quite an exciting journey round Italy and France."

Limited Choice of "Stinks."

The late Father Stanton, one of the most loved Anglican priests of the latter part of the nineteenth century, once entered into a conversation with a visitor to St. Alban's, Holborn, who had attended the service for the first time. Mr. Stanton asked him what he thought of the service. The stranger replied that he liked it very well except the incense, to the use of which he strongly objected.

"I am sorry for you, my friend," said Mr. Stanton.

"Why?"

"Well, you see," said Mr. Stanton, "there are only two stinks in the next world—incense and brimstone—and you must take your choice between."

PREVENT MILK SOURING

Production of First-Class Seed Potatoes Increases Yields.

Exercise Male Breeding Stock—The Bull, Stallion, Ram and Boar Must All Be Given Exercise If the Standard of the Herd Is to Be Maintained.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

IT is one of the anomalies of life that the sources of our greatest pleasures and greatest means of good, may also be sources of life's greatest pains and most harm. Milk is a case in point. Milk is the best source of life's greatest need—proper and sufficient food. It may also be a cause of the destruction of life, because it may become the home or feeding ground of those death-dealing organisms which are now recognized as the cause of practically all deaths, except those due to accident or old age.

Fortunately we have discovered comparatively simple methods of combating the effects of what are called pathogenic (disease-producing) bacteria. These may be stated in a few short rules as follows:

1. Milk which is consumed in a raw condition must be drawn only from cows which are healthy.
2. As soon as the milk is drawn from the cow, it should be cooled to 50 degrees or lower, and be kept at that temperature until consumed.
3. All pails, strainers, dippers, milk bottles, pitchers, etc., which come in contact with the milk, must be thoroughly washed and preferably steamed, or be rinsed after washing in a chloride solution, which has been found to be one of the best germicides.
4. Milk should not be exposed to the air any longer than absolutely necessary, as this seeds the milk with a fresh lot of germs. This means the keeping of milk in a closed vessel and not in an open dish.
5. "Left over" milk from meals should not be put into the general supply, as this causes the whole lot to spoil.
6. "Left over" milk from the sick room should be pasteurized or destroyed, as it may spread disease.
7. Milk at all times and in all places should be kept "clean" and "cool."—Prof. H. H. Dean, Ontario Agricultural College.

Roguing Potatoes.

The average yield of potatoes per acre in the Province of Ontario for the past thirty-six years has been about 115 bushels. The yields vary greatly. In 1917 there were variations in Ontario from twenty-five or less up to seven hundred bushels per acre. People are realizing more and more that for high yields of potatoes conditions must be favorable. It is important to have good fertile soil well cultivated and to plant a liberal supply of seed of the best varieties at the proper time. Seed potatoes somewhat immature which have been produced in a cool climate, and which are comparatively free from disease, are apt to furnish seed of high quality. Even under these conditions it is well to carefully inspect the seed before planting and to thoroughly rogue the growing crop.

A potato field is rogued by removing the undesirable plants. A thorough roguing of the growing crop once or twice during the summer is one of the most effectual ways in ridding the field of a number of the potato diseases. This operation would also insure the immediate removal of the weak and unthrifty plants which are sure to produce undesirable seed. Potato growers sometimes go through their fields and remove all plants which are not true to type. Thorough roguing is one of the best methods of securing pure, healthy seed of high quality.—Dr. C. A. Zavitz, Ontario Agricultural College.

Exercise the Breeding Stock.

Exercise is essential for all male breeding stock. At certain seasons of the year it is an easy matter to arrange for ample exercise for the stallion, the bull, the boar, or the ram. At other times it is rather difficult and frequently little or no exercise is given, or if given too much freedom occasionally, harm to the sire is the result.

The bull should not be allowed to run loose in the pasture with the cows. In the first place it is a dangerous custom, as it gives abundant opportunity for the bull to attack a person unawares or where escape is difficult. Further, a record of the date of breeding or the cows cannot be kept and no herd can be handled to the best advantage without these records.

The main points to be observed in keeping a bull in good condition so as to retain his breeding powers are to avoid excessive use when young and to give plenty of exercise and a moderate ration when mature. A good boxstall, about ten by twelve feet, gives freedom indoors, and it is well to arrange for a strong paddock outdoors with convenient passage between the two. Two or more bulls of any age may be kept together if they be deboned, and the advantage is that more exercise will be taken.

The stallion on a route usually gets plenty and sometimes too much exercise. At other times moderate work of the boxstall and paddock will suffice.

The ram running during the greater part of the year with the main flock gets plenty of exercise, especially if the breeder is aiming for a crop of strong lambs, and gets the flock outside practically every day during the winter.

The boar will do best on a grass plot with plenty of shade during summer, and in a pen provided with a small yard during the winter months.—Harry M. King, B.S.A., Ontario Agricultural College.

IN DUEL TO DEATH

Brave Old Buck Proved Himself True Knight.

Exhibition of Woodland Chivalry That Impressed Hunters in the Florida Everglades So Much They Spared the Victor's Life.

A couple of hunters on the border of the Florida Everglades were surprised to hear the wild snorts and whistles of a buck in flight, mingled with the plaintive bleats of a doe in distress—a combination of sounds that was unaccountable. The men crept cautiously up, and in five minutes reached the edge of an open glade.

In the center crouched a doe, wild with terror. By her side was a fawn only a few hours old, still too weak to follow its mother, while the old buck, with bristling hair, and antlers lowered, stood by, snorting in rage and defiance. His eyes, green with rage, followed some object moving in the palmetto scrub on the border of the glade.

Looking carefully, the hunters saw a young panther passing backward and forward in an effort to turn the flank of the defense and get at the fawn. A wiser beast would have abandoned the attack as soon as such a defender went on guard, but this panther was evidently in the full flush of his first strength, and without experience of the prowess of an old buck at bay.

Forward and back he crawled, spitting and snarling, only to find the buck always between him and the doe. At last he crouched for the spring. The buck, snorting grimly, braced all his muscles for the coming crash; he appreciated his danger, but dared the worst. The doe whimpered and closed her eyes, but did not desert her fawn.

The panther rose in the air and came down within ten feet of the buck. Then the buck went into the air, and falling with his feet together on the struggling cat, seemed to stab him through and through. Immediately the buck rose again and landed a dozen feet away. Then he lowered his head and plunged at the panther.

There was a confusion of flying dirt and grass, and again the deer sprang away. There were now deep cuts on his head and neck, and his antlers were splashed with red.

The panther now tried to creep away, but again the buck leaped, stabbed with his feet together and sprang away. The cat now lay gasping, while the buck watched him with his hair stiffened into a mane and eyes that nearly bulged from his head. Then the hunters walked forward.

When the buck saw them he must have realized that he was completely in their power. His proud crest fell, and he lost all the swelling part of the victory; but still he showed no intention of deserting the doe, but moved off and stood beside her. She crouched down again with the fawn.

The hunters walked over quietly and examined the panther. He was very badly cut up. Both shoulders were broken, and the antlers had passed repeatedly through his body. During the examination the buck stood quietly in plain view, and no gladiator saluting Caesar and conscious of being about to die ever showed more dignity.

Without a word the hunters walked off the field and left the old knight alone in his glory. Had he not shown knightly qualities—the chivalry that protects the weak, the courage that braves all odds in a good cause, and finally a dignified submission to what seemed the inevitable?

Brave Indian Decorated.

Lance-Corpl. Praudash of the 21st Battalion, a Mississauga Indian from Rice Lake, Ont., has just returned from France with several tokens of his bravery. Praudash has the Military Medal and he has been recommended for the D.C.M. He won the Military Medal for saving lives during a heavy bombardment and also for giving information to the brigade that the enemy at Hill 70 was massing for a counter-attack which, just 25 minutes later, took place. The D.C.M. recommendation was for saving an officer's life at the battle of the Somme. Praudash enlisted in August, 1914, and he has been in every battle from Loos to Passchendaele. He was a scout and sniper and as a sniper has 88 dead Germans as a tribute to his marksmanship. Praudash is home for discharge with an injury to his knee, but it is remarkable that with so much fighting he was never in hospital.

Canada Will Control It.

One of the Toronto shippers recently launched a 4,200-ton freighter, the Trojan. People became anxious for fear that it might be sold to American or Norwegian interests. It was announced in Parliament, however, that the boat will be placed on the Canadian register and allocated by us to whatever trade is most advantageous to the interests of Canada and the Empire.

Short-lived Natives.

The natives of New Guinea are the shortest-lived people in the world, which is attributed to their diet of the larvae of certain beetles and their practice of drinking sea water.

Impossible.

The old lady was going to visit with her married daughter, and, incidentally, make her first railway journey. When she arrived at the station she did not know what to do next.

"Young man," she said to a porter who looked about as old as Methuselah, "can you tell me where I can get my ticket?" "Why, mum," he replied, "you get it at the ticket office, through the pigeonhole." Being very stout, she looked the pigeonhole in amazement, and then burst out in a rage. "Go way with you, you old idiot! How can I get through there? I ain't no blessed pigeon!"

The Sardine.

The fresh sardine is a beautiful little fish. The scales on its back are an iridescent blue-green, the exact tint which the sea so often takes, while beneath the scales there shows up the most wonderful peacock-blue. There are bars on its back and sides when it first comes out of the water like those on the mackerel, but they seem to fade and disappear the moment it is exposed to the air. The rest of its body is pure silver.

Looks Unanimous.

Praised for Devotion to Duty.

When the city of Norfolk, Va., was threatened with the complete destruction by fire of its thriving business section early in January, every available fire-fighting force at hand and from nearby towns was called into the battle. At the height of the fire the enlisted men of the United States navy on duty at the navy yard and in the harbor were called on to help not only in subduing the flames but controlling the crowds. To a man they gave a splendid account of themselves. Among these men was John Joseph McLoughlin, a chief boatswain's mate. Although he had worked all night, had narrow escapes and was drenched to the skin with ice-cold water, McLoughlin declined a relief when it was offered and remained on duty continuously until the danger was passed. For this conspicuous service he has been commended by Secretary of the Navy Daniels. McLoughlin enlisted in the navy in 1908 at New York.

MOTHERS OF CANADA

PREPARE FOR TROUBLE

When a girl becomes a woman, when a woman passes through the changes of middle life, are the three periods of life when health and strength are most needed to withstand the pain and distress often caused by severe organic disturbances. Many thousands in this section would testify as to the following:

St. Catharines, Ont.—"Over forty years ago I was restored to health by taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It was after medicine and doctors had failed to help me or give relief. I had, through overwork, become all run-down in health. I was weak and finally became a nervous wreck. This 'Prescription' was recommended to me, and at the time I started to take it I had not been able to do anything for over a year. I took the 'Favorite Prescription' and the 'Golden Medical Discovery' as well. It took several bottles, but I was completely restored to good health and since that time when I have felt the need of these medicines I have taken them and always with perfect satisfaction."—Mrs. Wm. Baker, 33 Page St.

Stratford, Ont.—I was all run-down, weak, nervous. I also suffered with severe pains through my back. I was very miserable when a friend advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and one bottle seemed to give renewed strength. It stopped the pain in my back, also helped my nervous condition. It is surely a good tonic for women.—Mrs. Florence Gullum, 100 Milton St.

EAST LAMBTON EXAMINATION RESULTS

High School Entrance and Junior Public School Graduation

The entrance examination papers were very fair and satisfactory tests and seventy-six per cent. of the candidates who wrote at East Lambton centres were successful. This is the largest percentage of successful candidates for many years. In addition to those whose names are published below, sixty candidates passed the Easter Test Examination and will be awarded certificates after completing three months of farm work.

The standard required to pass is 40 per cent. on each subject and 80 per cent. of the total. Those who obtained 75 per cent. of the total have passed with honors. The names are arranged in order of merit at each centre.

Helen Campbell, of Petrolia public schools, stands first in East Lambton Inspectorate with a total of 555.

GUARD BABY'S HEALTH IN THE SUMMER

The summer months are the most dangerous to children: The complaints of that season, which are cholera infantum, colic, diarrhoea and dysentery come on so quickly that often a little life is beyond aid before the mother realizes he is ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly to cure them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

An Irish Hero's Fine Spirit

Mrs. McClung, of Watford, lately received a letter from a friend in Oldham, England, which contained the following clipping about a son of her sister, Mrs. W. M. Worling, of Mullaghmore, Omagh, county of Tyrone, Ireland. Mrs. McClung has often mentioned to her many friends around here how badly this dear nephew was wounded. She has two sons, one brother and ten nephews doing their bit, and some of them have got through. The clipping below is from "Ireland's Saturday Night."

"The spirit animating even the most disabled of the heroes in our military hospitals was never more appealingly and touchingly illustrated than in the case of one limbless soldier at present in the U. V. F. Hospital. His story was related by Col. Surgeon Mitchell, at the opening of the curative treatment workshops—the latest adjunct to the Abercorn wing—and as he spoke there were few who could restrain a smile, but a smile that was full of tears.

"Shot through both arms, each badly fractured, he lay out in No Man's Land for eighteen long and agonizing hours. The cold was intense, and frostbitten feet had the sad sequel of the amputation of both lower limbs. At the U. V. F. Hospital, where he is to be supplied with artificial substitutes, he made a request that rather startled and puzzled Colonel Mitchell. "I want you to have those legs for me by the first of April," he said. "And why the 1st of April," inquired the expert and kindly surgeon. "Because," said he, "I want to start my fishing on April 1st"—the man belonged to the Omagh-Newtonstewart district and was a keen angler. "But how do you hope to catch any fish?" suggested the colonel in sympathetic, but half-incredulous, tone. "You get me the legs and I'll guarantee to get the fish," came the decisive and emphatic reply. "That," added the colonel to the meeting, "is the right sort, and it shows we have got the right men in the country yet." "May the hero's basket never be empty.

"We understand that the hero referred to in this paragraph is Sergeant William Worling, Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, son of Mr. Wm. Worling, Mullaghmore, Omagh, who is at present in the U. V. F. Hospital, Belfast."

A Letter Received By

Mrs. Jacob Saunders

Eastbourne Hospital, June 17th, 1918.

Mrs. Jacob Saunders—While in hospital I received a pair of socks knit by you and given to the Red Cross and as they are the loveliest socks I have ever worn, I thought it would do you good to know that one of the Canadian boys had received them and they were such a comfort to him.

I was about fifteen months in France and got wounded and have been about four months in hospital, but expect to get out soon.

While in France I was with the 2nd Batt. which came from Ottawa, so you will see that my home is near there. Well, as I am a stranger I will close, thanking you for the lovely socks and I would like to hear from you. Wishing you the best of luck, from
