TREE PLANTING.—ARBOR DAY IN SCHOOLS.

A Paper read before the National Educational Association of the United States, by Hon. B. G. NORTHROP, LL. D., of Indiana.

An Arbor Day has just been appointed for the schools of Indiana under the most favourable auspices. At the annual meeting of the teachers of this State in Indianapolis, last December, an efficient committee was appointed to secure the cooperation of scholars, teachers, and school superintendents in the observance of such a day. State Superintendent Holcombe, who is chairman of this committee, is giving his personal and official influence heartily to this work. Lectures on this subject given on his invitation in different parts of the State were fully reported by the press, for the newspapers of Indiana cordially cooperated in this movement. It was my privilege also to address the State board of agriculture, which promptly passed a resolution commending the observance of Arbor Day. The State board of horticulture took an active part in this movement. Governor Porter gave it his official sanction and issued an address to the people of the State, in which he predicted that the appointed day would be a memorable one and "the beginning of a movement for a much more extended system of tree culture and the restoration of the varieties of trees, useful and beautiful, which have been so recklessly sacrificed that nature cries aloud for redress." He concluded his paper by calling on "the teachers to do all in their power to make Arbor Day a day of the most ardent and inspiring interest." A pamphlet containing practical suggestions from the Arbor Day committee and the State officials above named was widely circulated through the State. Such preparations assure the best results.

It may be objected to Arbor Day, or to any school lessons on forestry, that the course of study is already overcrowded. I reply that the requisite talks on trees, their value and beauty, need not occupy three hours, all told. Those talks on this subject which, Superintendent Peaslee says, were the most interesting and profitable lessons the pupils of Cincinnati ever had in a single day, occupied only the morning of arbor day, the afternoon being given to the practical work. Such talks will lead our youth to admire our noble trees and realize that they are the grandest products of nature and form the finest drapery that adorns this earth in all lands. Thus taught they will wish to plant and protect trees, and find in their own happy experience that there is a peculiar pleasure in the parentage of trees, whether forest, fruit, or ornamental, a pleasure that never cloy, but grows with their growth. Like grateful children, trees bring rich filial returns and compensate a thousand fold for all the care and pains they cost. This love of trees, early implanted in the school and fostered in the home, will make our youth practical arborists.

Teachers can easily interest their pupils in adorning the school grounds. With proper prearrangement as to the selection and procuring of trees, vines, or shrubs, arbor day may accomplish wonders. Many hands will make merry, as well as light work. Such a holiday will be an attractive occasion of social enjoyment and improvement. The parents should be persuaded to approve and patronize the plan. It tends to fraternize the people of a district when they thus meet on common ground and young and old work together for a common object, where all differences of rank, or sect, or party are forgotten. The plantings and improvements thus made will be sure to be protected. They will remain as silent, but effective, teachers of the beautiful to all the pupils, gradually improving their taste and character.

Such work done around the school naturally extends to the homes. You improve the homes by improving the schools as truly as you improve the schools by improving the homes. "The hope of America is the homes of America." It has long been my ambition to improve the homes and home life of our industrial classes and help them to realize that the highest privilege and central duty of life is the creation of happy homes, for the home is the chief school of virtue, the fountain head of individual and national strength and prosperity. It is a worthy ambition to surround one's home and children with such scenes and influences as shall make the everyday life and labors brighter and happier, and help one to go sunny and singing to his work. Our youth should early share in such efforts for adorning the surroundings of their homes and planting trees by the wayside.

A brief history of arbor day may increase the interest in the work proposed in Indiana, Wisconsin, and other States. In March, 1881, the legislature of Michigan requested the governor to appoint an arbor day and invite the people of the State to devote it to the planting of trees. Such an appointment was accordingly made in April following and has been repeated each succeeding April, and, as I am officially informed, with the happiest results. For the last two years a similar day has been appointed by the governor of Ohio. Many schools, especially those of Cincinnati and Columbus, fitly kept the designated day. Superintendent Peaslee, of Cincinnati, says; "the forenoon of that day was spent by the teachers in talks and by the pupils in reading compositions and selections upon trees, their proper care and uses, and in giving biographical sketches of persons in honor of whom the trees were planted. The importance of forestry was then impressed upon the minds of thousands of children, who thus learned to care for and protect trees. Not one of these 20,000 children in Eden Park on arbor day injured a single tree." They were encouraged by the many letters sent them by such eminent authors as Whittier and Holmes, commending their arbor day plan.

The American Forestry Congress, at its session in St. Paul last August, recommended the appointment of an arbor day in all our States and the British provinces of Canada, the congress comprising many delegates from the Dominion. The lieutenant governor of the Province of Quebec appointed an arbor day last spring, and the council of public instruction seconded this movement and recommended that the designated time be kept as a holiday and devoted to planting trees on school and other grounds. The official "proclamation," widely circulated, gave instructions for the selection and planting of trees and predicted that arbor day will become one of the institutions of "the country," in which our "boys and girls will take an eager share and genuine pleasure, and thus gain a liking for trees that will never be effaced."

A year ago the State school superintendent of West Virginia appointed the 27th of April as arbor day, inviting the cooperation of the teachers, parents, pupils, and school officers in planting trees on the grounds of their schools and homes. The April issue of the State School Journal was made an "arbor number," containing eleven articles on this subject by such men as Cassius M. Clay and Superintendent Peaslee (with an introductory paper by myself), and circulated gratuitously and widely. The press of the State strongly encouraged this practical movement. The good work done on the day appointed far exceeded the expectations of State Superintendent Butcher. It proved, as intended, a memorable day for the homes as well as the schools. Probably more trees and shrubs were then planted on school and home grounds than ever before on any one day in any State. The superintendent has decided to appoint another arbor day this spring. This successful example is worthy of imitation, for it is the starting influences on minds as well as grounds, which will go on broadening and extending through all time.

The recent spring floods and summer droughts in Indiana, Ohio, and elsewhere, increasingly and now alarmingly destructive, are calling public attention to the cause and remedy as never before. The denudation of the hills and mountain sources of the springs is the leading cause of these freshets, and this can be remedied only by the extensive reforestation of such lands. This great result, which must be the work of time, will be best accomplished by interesting the young, as well as the old, in tree planting. The arbor day in schools will do immense good in this direction. We need to popularize and diffuse the sentiment of trees. This will best secure their propagation and protection.

AN ACT TO ENCOURAGE ACADEMIC EDUCATION.

(Passed April 24th, 1885.)

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and Assembly as follows:—

1. Sections 61 and 62, relating to County Academies, of chapter 29, Revised Statutes, fifth series, are hereby repealed, provided nevertheless that all grants payable thereunder shall be duly paid for the current school year ending Oct. 31st, 1885.

2. In view of the general provisions made in this Act for the support of academic education, the grants now paid Pictou Academy and the Halifax High School shall cease and determine on the first day of November, 1885.

3. From and after the first day of November, 1885, the Trustees of Schools in the Shire or County town of each County in the Province, with the exception named in the fourth section, shall have authority under the provisions of this Act to establish and maintain a High School, or Academy, which shall be open, free of charge, to qualified pupils from all parts of the County in which it is situated.

4. So long as the existing agreement between the Council of Public Instruction and the Town Council of Truro in respect to the Model Schools in connection with the Provincial Normal School is maintained, the provisions of this Act shall not be understood as applying to the County of Colchester.

5. In respect to County Academies, the Council of Public Instruction shall prescribe the qualifications of teachers, fix standards for the admission of pupils, arrange courses of study, establish conditions of accommodation and outfit, and frame such general regulations as may be deemed necessary for the efficient prosecution of academic studies.

6. The Trustees of a County Academy, conducted in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the regulations of the Council of Public Instruction framed thereunder, shall be entitled to grants from the public treasury, according to the following scale:—

(a.) When one duly qualified teacher is employed, with a properly certified yearly average of at least fifteen High School pupils, a grant equal to two-thirds of the salary paid such teacher, provided that the grant so paid shall not exceed five hundred dollars.

In lieu of Grade A. license the Council of Public Instruction may prescribe such other qualifications as it may deem proper, for principals of graded schools in sections where the French language is chiefly or exclusively spoken, entitling such teachers to the grant provided in this section.

11. In any County where an Academy, conducted under authority of this Act, receives an annual grant of five hundred dollars or less, if it shall appear at the close of any school-year that no Grade A teacher has been employed in the County under the provisions of the tenth section of this Act, the Council of Public Instruction may grant to such Academy the sum of one hundred dollars in addition to any sum otherwise authorized.

12. It shall be the duty of the Council of Public Instruction to make due provision for testing, by examination and otherwise, the validity of all claims for public money preferred under the provisions of this Act.

13. Nothing contained in this Act shall be construed to prevent the payment of the ordinary grant to teachers of Common School Departments conducted in the same building as the classes of the County Academy.

14. Notwithstanding anything in this Act, the Council of Public Instruction may pay to the Trustees of any Academy the sum payable to it under this Act, though the yearly average attendance of pupils may fall below the minimum fixed herein, where such falling off is owing to exceptional causes.
