Don Rowing Club.

The officers and executive of the Don Rowing Club are very pleased with the prospects for this year, which they expect to be a banner one, both in increase in membership and tresults on the water. Already things are booming around the club, there being quite a few mien out, including Bowler and Jacobs, who will give them all a go for senior double honors this year; four or five good junior scullers, amongst them Fred Lepper, who rowed in the final at St. Kitts last year. Also several good junior fours, one of which will show the road home to most of the 140-lb, fours when the races arrive. The captain would like every one, if possible, to be down tomorrow morning and afternoon, so that working. Don Rowing Club.

The Monied Interests. "My position as regards the monied interests can be put in a few words. In every civilized society property rights must be carefully safeguarded; ordinarily, and in the great majority of cases, human rights and property rights are fundamentally and in the long run, identical; but when it clearly appears that there is a real conflict between them, human rights must have the upper hand; for property pelongs to man and not man to proper-

Continuing, Mr. Roosevelt said: "The good citizen in a republic must realize that he ought to possess two sets of qualities, and that neither avails without the other. He must have those qualities which make for efficiency; and he must also have those qualities which direct the efficiency into channels for the public good. He is use-less if he is inefficient. There is nothing to be done with that type of citizen of whom all that can be said is that he is harmless. Virtue which is dependent upon a sluggish circulation is not impressive. There is little place in active life for the timid good man. The man who is saved by weakness from robust wickedness is likewise rendered immune from the robuster virtues. The good citizen in a repub-lic must first of all be able to hold his own. He is no good citizen unless he has the ability which will make him work hard, and which at need will make him fight hard. The good citizen is not a good citizen unless he is Able to Work With Socialists. "There are plenty of men calling themselves, socialists with whom, up to a time point, it is quite possible to work. If the next step is one which work. If the next step is one which both we and they wish to take, why, of course, take it, without any regard to the fact that our regard to the fact that our views as to the tenth step may differ. But, on the other hand, keep clearly in mind that. the it has been worth while to take one step, this does not in the least mean that it may not be highly disadvantageous to take the next. "The good citizen will demand liber-ty for himself, and as a matter of pride he will see to it that others receive his own. Not only should there be complete liberty in matters of religion, but complete liberty for each man to lead his life as he desires, provided only that in so doing he does not

Hear Robinette To-night "The Boy, National Asset"

The boy is the seed with which the ever-recurring harvests of the generations of men of affairs are sown. It is written in the greatest'book of human philosophy ever pen-

"As ye sow, so shall ye also reap." This is plain logic: Good boys make good men. Good men make good and great nations. Therefore all those who have the ultimate advantage of their city or country at heart will see to it that the seeds are well tended in the growing

T. C. ROBINETTE, K.C.
Who will give an address at Massey

the National Asset."

Wise men will see to it that the boys are cared for and tended, that their minds are directed into proper and profitable chan-nels, and that their bodies are trained by healthful exercise. They will see to it that, as far as may be, the weeds of evil influence and physical filth are removed from about these boys who are one day to guide this

Being good husbandmen, they will take much pains to the end that the growing harvest be not of the foremost lawyers at the criminal bar of Ontario. Mr. Robinette stands high with the men of his city and country and Mr. Robinette believes that this is good philosophy, and tonight at Massey Hall he will tell why he believes in the boy and why he regards him as the greatest asset in the possession of this great country.

He will tell why the boy is more valuable to Canada than are her forests, or her fisheries, or her mines. This much will Mr. Robinette do to back his belief in the boy, and he will do it because he believes that you care about the boy and stand ready to help him when the way is made clear. The proposition of the Toronto Newsboys' Home and Club is one great agency in the betterment of the boy. It is in behalf of this project that this Sunday service is being held, and when Mr. Robinette has told why the boy should be helped, and how he is to be helped, a collection is to be taken up to help the boys.

This is where you come in. Knowing that the boy is needed by the country and knowing that he is needed at his best, it is up to you to give something, be it much or little, to help the boy realize the best

Remember that you were once a boy, and remember now what the influences then surrounding you did for you then. Remember this and remember, too, that it is written and where it is written. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these ye have done

If you believe in your own little boy. If you are glad and proud that none but good influences surround his early development. If you are looking forward to having him make his way in his city and country, help to make it a city and country worth winning in.

Come to Massey Hall at 7.30 this evening. You will hear a stirring address by Mr. Robinette on "The Boy the National Asset," you will hear an excellent musical program and juvenile concert, and You will be given an opportunity to back your belief in the boy.

GREAT LAKES IN HIS GRIP

Temperature Takes a Great Drop.

FORT WILLIAM, April 23.-Traffic generally is considerably obstructed here and a number of steamers are thought to be in shelter along the north shore of Lake Superior as a result of the storm which prevailed here since last night. Since yesterday forenoon there has been a drop in temperature of thirty-seven degrees, and snow, accompanied by moderate gales has been falling for ten hours.

CALUMET. Mich., April 23.—A heavy blizzard, with a 50-mile wind from the north, reached its climax shortly before midnight. The storm area extends from Duluth to the Soo. Only a few boats are out. Several boats are tied up in Portage Lake. The snow is very heavy here, more than six inches has already fallen, and the temperature is dropping rapidly, being now in the neighborhood of twenty degrees, a drop of 20 since morning. In several parts of the penare down and all rtains are delayed.

The situation is grave. The City of Changsha has beeen to a great extent deserted. Troops from Hupeh Province under Admiral Sah have occupied Changsha. Anyone found with food and unable to establish that the same was purchased is executed summarily. The new gover-

Canadian Northern, Said to Control International Electric Line, Will Confer on its Construction,

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., April 23.-(Special.)-It is understood that Macenzie and Mann interests will meet President Penny of the International Railway in Buffalo Tuesday to arrange for the building of a new bridge over the Niagara River three hundred feet below the upper bridge. It is believed here that the International is controlled by Canadian Northern peoole, and that when the Canadian road puilds thru here, its tracks will be paralleled by a new electric line of the loternational to Buffalo. The belief in an electric auxiliary line is strengthened by the fact that the Internationa has long intended to build a new line to Buffalo, the present double track route being inadequate to handle the summer tourist traffic. International Kallway officials will meet Mayor James Alkens of Niagara-on-the-Lake at Buffalo next week to discuss the extension of the road from Queenstor to Niagara.

If this be true, it will be the best news the Province of Quebec has heard for some time past from a political point of view. Two Mountains is and has been a strong Conservative constituency, and the fact of the count going the other way politically has been due to divisions in the opposition commence than to a growth of Libcamp rather than to a growth of Lib eralism or even Laurierism in the

for Valedictory-New Man Will Be From West. OTTAWA, April 23.—(Special).—Those who have been scanning the political horizon for indications of a movement in the direction of cabinet changes have been talking the last few days of two things:

First, there is the generally admitted probability that Hon. Sydney.

Fisher will be soon transplanted to the senate; and, Second, there is a revival of the talk among the members of both houses that Sir Richard Cartwright will soon retire from the leadership of the red chamber. The first event seems to hinge to a large extent on the second, and as to Sir Richard's retirement from the leadership, it will depend on that gentleman's wishes. A year ago it was stated that Sir Richard was to retire, and it seemed that the matter was being promoted by his colleagues in the government; but when it came to carrying out the shuffle the veteran statesman renegged; he hadn't been consulted. However, the impression got abroad that Sir Richard was being crowded out, and it required a certificate from Sir Wilfrid that his colleague's usefulness had not departed, and that he was glad to have him remain in harness The present seems a good time, however, to rejuvenate the senate leadership, and the minister of agriculture seems to have his eyes on the job. Sir Richard's friends are arranging a dinner, which it is said in some quarters will be the opportunity for a valedictory. In other quarters the opinion is held that the feast is being planned so that the war horse may announce to the world that he is as lively as ever, and that the talk of his getting out on account of physical infirmities is all

Fisher will take the portfolio of trade and commerce, leaving the way open for Sir Wilfrid to take in a new man from the west as minister of agriculture. With the growth of the west, the prime minister will be bound in the near future to strengthen the delegation from that section, and even now he is being urged by the western members to call one of his followers from Manitoba or Saskatchewan.

incident because of the many fluctua-tions which have taken place in the markets, but it is nevertheless a fact, and in sizing up the reason for this pecultar state of affairs, a broker on Saturday said:

Saturday said:

"The only money that is ever made in the stock markets is on the bull or rising side of quotations.

"This explains why so few, if any, have made any money since the markets have started to decline. If you ask my opinion in regard to the present market situation, I would say that the downward movement, which may continue for a long time, has already started and that conditions are altogether unfavorable to putting prices per nanehtly higher. In New York the market is up against many adverse conditions and altho it presents a satisfictory appearance on the surface, this by no means represents the actual state of affairs.

Strong Sentiment in Favor of Taking What Lines Street Railway is Ready to Give in Older Toronto-Litigation Feared.

At Monday's meeting of the otty council important matters of street railway policy must be decided. It is a case of choosing between the city engineer's recommendations as to where lines should be laid so as to give the best service, and those of Manager Fleming, who insists that the plans he has prepared are friended.

Such is the Fleming habit, but on this occasion there is a strong feel-ing among the altermen that the manager's proposals are worth look-ing over, and the outcome has a spice If the Ontario Railway Board were

If the Ontario Railway Board were a final court of appeal, there is little doubt but that Mr. Rust would receive almost unanimous support. Naturally, the aldermen think that what he presorbes is more likely to fit the needs of the situation than those of the company which has dividends to earn and a franchise with only eleven years to run. Like any other business onterprise, the railway can be expected to look after its shareholders first. But the railway board's powers, unfortunately, are open to question. The railway will appeal to the courts from any order the board may dive, and prolonged litigation is something which has not grown popular with the prolonged litigation is something which has not grown popular with the city thru being familiar. When the judicial committee of the privy council is mentioned, aldermen look pained and change the subject. They do not want anything more to do with those estimable persons, the law lords, and they greatly fear that, if the railway board should hearken favorably to the city's argument, the same old routine of losing thru the Cana-dian courts and having the last linger-A violation shall subject the barber ing hope shattered by the privy coun-

What "Saturday Night" Says About Victoria Park

'Saturday Night" is performing the greatest public service of any newspaper in the Dominion of Canada. It is protecting the public from "Wild Cat Promotions," "Skin Games," "Bunco Grafters" and "Con Sharks." Its advice is "If Real Estate is worth your good money, it's worth your investigation." That's all we ask you to do in regard to Victoria Park. Investigate for yourself.

Here's the letter written by a prospective investor to the Editor of "Gold and Dross," "Saturday Night":

Fort William, April 6th, 1910.

The Editor Gold and Dross, Toronto Saturday Night, Toronto.

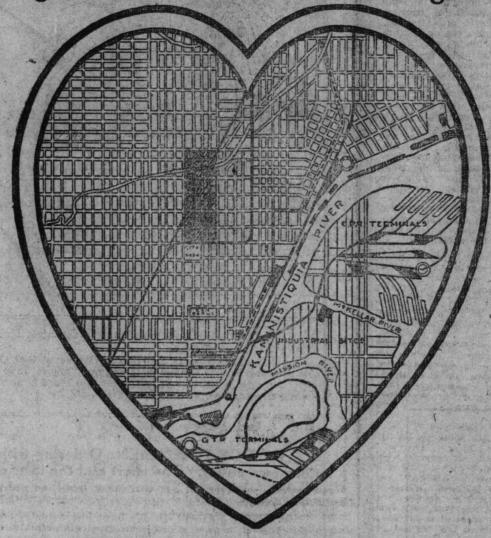

In the issue of The Toronto World of Saturday last, a large double-page real estate advertisement appeared by Robins Limited. Do you consider this property to be a safe investment? The advertising is similar to that of J. J. Carrick of Fort William, which you condemned to a certain

Since coming up here I have learned that two-thirds of the Fort William property advertised by J. J. Carrick has actually been sold to Fort William residents, which speaks well for the property. Besides this, I have personally examined and find that the property is not only centrally located, but the city at present is built right up to the easterly line of

Victoria Park is Right in the Heart of Fort William

Here's the reply, published in "Saturday Night," under the heading "Gold and Dross":

"What Saturday Night has endeavored to do is to warn people against buying real estate without taking the trouble to personally inspect the same. The man on the ground is the only fellow capable of judging whether the land is worth the price. This applies to Toronto, to Fort William, or to any other place. There has been a general tendency in Canada to take town lots in any real estate proposition that comes along, irrespective of the real value of the location. This has been the case in the Fort George proposition, and with a lot of others that might be mentioned.

"If land is worth your good money, then it is worth a personal inspection. I believe real estate in Toronto to be a good purchase, when the location is right and the price is right. And this applies also to Fort William and dozens of other places. However, for my part, I would not take any man's word for a real estate proposition. Saturday Night did not condemn Mr. Carrick's proposition. It warned people to be careful as to what they purchased, and make a personal inspection before doing so. And what applies to Fort William or Port Arthur applies also to Toronto.'

An adult leader, a young man of high motive and strong Christian personality, is in charge of every tent of six boys. He at once becomes the friend and counsellor of every boy in the tent, and is ever ready with a better and wiser suggestion should the boys think of attempting anything foolish. Thus by direction rather than repression of their energies, the campers are unconsciously absorbing principles that make for the highest type of mathood. The mornings in camp are devoted to instructing in boating, canoeing, rowing, sailing, swimming, life saving, wrestling, boxing, nature study, first aid to the injured, woodraft and other features of outdoor activity; the afternoons to baseball, craft and other features of outdoor activity; the afternoons to baseball, lacrosse, tennis, basketball, volley ball, track and field athletics, aquatic meets, tramps, boating, fishing, saling, Indian and scout games and many more recreative pleasures which charm every live active boy. With the lengthening shadows and then the twinkling stars which are rarely observed in the city the co-operative served in the city, the co-operative spirit demonstrates itself in the unit-ed efforts to build the large camp fire around which many a story is swapped. Iron Foot Bridge Had to Have Rivets Perfected-Engineer's Department Blames Piece Makers.

A charge that the work on the iron foot bridge at Riverdale Park was scamped was investigated by The Sunday World on Saturday at the city to Liverpool 2 1-2 cents cheaper than the charge route are blamed for the go-by which that route is getting from the grain boats. Only three or four have passed thru the Welland daily since the opening. The grain is being shipped from Buffalo via Boston to Liverpool 2 1-2 cents cheaper than engineer's department. The bridge, it by the Canadian route. was pointed out by the complainant. by the same firm that has the contract for the new Wilton-avenue bridge.

The explanation at the city department was that the rigid inspection re-cently promoted had brought some will be independent of that now in prominor details previously overlooked to gress affecting the men on the Cenlight, including defective riveting at trai's lines east of Buffalo, but the same arbitrators will serve.

At the Riverdale foot bridge there was some evidence that the riveters, who were piece workers, had done hasty work, which would not pass under the new conditions. The bridge as a whole, however, was not discreditable to the Canadian firm concerned, and the journeymen were alone to blame.

With respect to the erection of the new Wilton-avenue bridge, it was declared at the engineer's department, any failure to comply in the slightest degree with the specifications would be immediately detected and rendered impossible, as the inspection will be constant and rigid.

In consequence of the recent discovery at the Riverdale bridge that the riveting was faulty a gang of the city of Toronto has entered action by the issue of a writ at Osgoode Hall against Anne Eddis to recover possession of four acres of land, part of the Garrison Commons. The property is north of the old military burying is round and west of the G. T. R. The city claims that the defendant was equatting on city property. The eastern section of the police signal service has been literally "shot to pieces" for the last two days. A rifle or revolver bullet fired by someone in Eastern-avenue cut thru one of the trunk service wires and thus the whole eastern section was crippled.

While chasing a speeding automobile on his motor cycle Policeman Anderson ran into William Strong, aged 19. Who was riding a bicycle at Ronceston of the gardinal property.

covery at the Riverdale bridge that the riveting was faulty, a gang of riveters were set to work last week to perfect the riveting.

Recital by Miss Speer.

Mrs. Beatrice Speer, a senior student at the Conservatory School of Expression, surprised and delighted a large audience by a splendidly given recital in the music hall Friday evening. Her childish selections, particularly a reading from "Oh Christina," by J. J. Bell, for twenty years, and I can say that Cas ing from "Oh Christina," by J. J. Bell, were very well received, but she showed even better work in her character studies. In Joseph Lincoln's "Cap'n Whittaker's Place" there are three or four delicious characters and all of they were finely drawn. A pretty lyric, "The Petrified Fern," was given in a manner to further show Miss carets have given me more relief than any other remedy I have ever tried. I shall certainly recommend them to my friends as being all that they are represented."

We Will Fix You Up the Nicest, Coziest, Snug Little Home that You Could Possibly Wish For-In a Jiffy As most people know, we have a charge account plan whereby anyone contemplating the furnishing of a home-young folks and newly-weds, in particular-can choose from what is admittedly the finest collection of Furniture, Carpets, Draperies and all other home needs in Canada, selecting as much or as little as desired and pay for it (while they are enjoying the use of it) in small weekly or monthly sums spread over a period that suits their convenience. This charge account plan is simplicity itself, involving none of the distasteful or embarrassing features that go hand-in-hand with so many Credit systems, and is open to every well meaning person. It is a pleasant and convenient means of buying home needs that owners of many of the best homes in Toronto have availed themselves of finding it entirely satisfactory in every respect. Particulars of our plan will be cheerfully given to you at any time.

No effort has been spared to make this the red liner of the season and carnival lovers of Toronto will be given the real thing on Thursday night. Special arrangements have been made to accommodate the balcony crowd; and addition skates will be brought The Excelsior still maintains its regular heavy patronage. The staff of instruction is the largest now in the city, and the afternoon sessions are as popular as ever. The Excelsior is supreme in roller rink perfection. It is unnecessary to enumerate here the branches in which we dominate, but this is evidenced, not by weekly press notices, but by the box office receipts and the many satisfied patrons. What other rink has an equipment equal to that maintained by the Excelsion— what other rink has the features twice a week? Has any of our competitors a record season of forty straight weeks of roller skating every night and afternoon as evidence of success?

TORONTO JEWS MARK

Symbolic and Historical Ceremony in Homes Thruout Israelitish World.

At sunset on Saturday the Jews of Teronto in common with their compatriots thruout the world began the celebration of the Feast of the Passover. The Jewish families in this city yesterday were rejoicing in many family reunions as the passover is to the Hebrew what Thanksgiving Day and Christmas are to the Christian world, a great time of home coming.

Last night the heads of the Jewish families summoned all the members to the table, and solemnly retold as has been told and retold for thousands of years the marvelous story of the liberation of the children of Israel from Egyptian bondage. The father then applied the wonderful historical lesson to the members of his family by pointing out that it was but on the many remarkable instances of the goodness of God to the Jewish celtorated in the Toronto Synagogues to-day with much ceremony, and not only the most devout but also those Jews who are not so minded of Jewish rites and ceremonies will almost all endeavor to attend. The observance of the feast of the passover has at different times given rise to terrible persecution and mas-sacre of the Jews, but regardless of the peril involved it has been solemning observed from its inception until the Accordingly the Toronto Jews last light in their family gatherings ined the seder service and ate their mattoth with bitter herbs. First a little wine was served, then a liturgy chanted. Then came the formal washing of hands, and the breaking of the mattoth. The father then lifted a plate of the unleavened bread and pronounced the invitation to the passover beginning, "This is the head of affliction."

Some young person appointed to play the part is introduced as "the young-est son." The youth asks the father, "Why is this night distinguished from all other nights of the year?" Why is it that on all other nights it is permitted to eat leavened bread, while on passover night only unleavened bread is provided?"

The reply descriptive of the deliver ance from Egypt is followed by a re-citation of the miracles performed by Jehovah for the benefit of the Israel-

At the Capital City They Roll More Than Any Other Place

People of this city do not differ much from aristocratic Washington in their tastes for amusements.

The American capital has another roller skating craze and nearly everyone in Washington is a devotee of the one in Washington is a devotee of the steel rollers.

Some beauty doctor while lecturing at the capital dropped the remark that no exercise known has as much effect to produce gracefulness in young women as the improved style of roller skating. While much more was said in praise of this popular amusement, the one remark that roller skating produces gracefulness was sufficient, and the result is that proud Washington has another tremendous roller skating craze. The "four hundred" have formed numerous skating clubs. While a great many of the clubs select the evening session to indulge in this pastime, yet others consider the morning as more suitable, and still other clubs take up this beneficial exercise in the afternoon. It is a great sight to watch a Washington crowd roller skate.

The three rinks in this city are well patronized each night. The Parkdale rink is doing an exceptionally large business this season. This rink has always maintained a high standard and it may truthfully be said Parkdale is a favorite with particular people. A person who has never visited the Cowan-avenue rink would be surprised at the manner in which it is conducted. The patronage is made up from Toronto's best people.

The in-spiration for the revixed. spiration for this new departure was outcome of an experiment made by Col. Lamb, Governor of the Had-ley colony, Essex County, England. Salvation Army operations. That was the climax of the Army's first great immigration experiment. It taught both the Army officers and the public some important lessons, both by its successes and its failures. New Principle Adopted.

As a solution of the question of Col. Lamb makes no secret of that fact. Shortly after the first party of who were too prone to drift back to Immigration to Canada under the the cities to join the unemployed class

> Applicants for Salvation Army cooperation in emigrating to Canada were accordingly from that date required to meet a certain standard of requirements. They must either be suitable to fill the demand for domestic science, be qualified for farm work, or have some suitable skilled avocation. The intending emigrant was henceforth required to foot the bill of transportation expenses without loan or other financial aid from the Army, except in case of unforseen emergency after arrival in Canada.

> For the unfortunate out of work in England who could not measure up to the foregoing requirements Col. Lamb decided that some home cure must be the remedy.

Quality of Emigrants. Two automatic results followed. First, the volume of emigration was greatly reduced. In the second place the quality of the emigrant was raised. While the 12,000 emigrants who came to Canada under the Salvation Army in 1907 forced upon Commissioner Coombs, Col. Howell and their col-leagues a great and difficult task, the 5000 carefully selected ones who are being conducted to the Dominion this year by Salvation Army officers promise to prove a new bulwark to the organization, in addition to being a ALWAYS ASK FOR WHITE HORSE SPECIALLY welcome and desirable addition to Canadian citizenship.

Thruout the six years' work of the S.A. immigration department a gradual growth of the machinery of the department has developed. From his solitary desk and stenographer Col. Howell now has a suite of offices on an extensive scale in the southwest corner street. From his present office he directs the distribution of the emigrants to all parts of the Dominion. In association with Commissioner Coombs he secures the secures the co-operation of the Dominion and Provincial governments, and the transportation companies. His staff of Toronto assistants occupy a number of offices where the work is dealt with along classified lines. In addition a public bureau, opening on the front street is available daily for emigrants, whether brought to Canada under Army or other auspices or those who may have sought pices, or those who may have sought their fortunes in Canada "on their own hook," are given information, and aid in case of necessity.

similar Salvation Army bureaus have been established by Col Howell at Halifax, Quebec, Montreal, London, Ont., Winnipeg and Vancouver. The officers of the immigration department devote their whole time to the cause of the newcomer. In addition the one thousand Salvationist officers in Canada have their interest in the work of the immigration department awakened and kept alive by reports of the work in the columns of the War Cry.

Great Intelligence Corps.

The Army officers in the hundreds of localities in which they are stationed form a permanent and comprehensive intelligence corps both to report on the requirements of their neighborhood and the doings of emigrants who are sent to their communities. The maternity and other homes and institutions maintained by the Army are an integral part of the reserve strength of the immigration department.

While the earlier and gigantic emi-gration experiment had its drawbacks, the resultant scientific movement of the resultant scientific movement of the Salvation Army has been a complete success. The pathetic phase is a thing of the past. Now the movement is solely inspirational. There has been do distress among the parties arriving this year. Some emergency cases, arising from misunderstanding as to employment or destination, have required adjustment, but sorrow and sadness has been a conspicuous absentee.

"It is like a gala day when a ship arrives at Halifax now," said Col. Howell to The Sunday World. "Everyone appears to be in the highest spirits, and all is hustle and bustle. A "home" is something, indeed, but of greater importance to its happiness is health. Health is an important asset that does not come from living in the crowded, smoky thoroughfares of the city—its chief source is an abundance of pure, invigorating air, lots of grounds to give your home good ventilation, and the absence of all the disagreeable elements connected with the city. Lawrence Park excels in these requisites. Just far enough from "down town" not to be inconvenient. In an earlier part of the discussion Forbes-Robertson had said he felt called upon to make a strong protest and defend his own position, if not his calling at large.

"Speaking for myself," he continued, "and without egotism or Pharisaical feeling, the plays which I have profeeling, the plays which I have produced, I may say, have always received my most careful consideration from a high moral standpoint, and I need not dwell here upon the distinction sometimes made between art and morality. Apart from my 'Shakespearian productions and certain other classics, I might mention some of the plays I have produced, which have all beeen on the highest plane of morality, e.g., 'Michael and His Lost Angel,' For the Crown,' 'Mice and Men,' The Light That Failed,' 'The Edge of the Storm,' 'The Devil's Disciple,' 'Caesar and Cleopatra' and 'The Sacrament of Judas,' recently revived under the title of 'A Soul's Fight,' with 'The High Rid' (not yet seen in America).

Especially has this been the case in connection with vacant lots in Rosedale, North Toronto and other divisions which have come into such prominence for residential purposes of late. Real estate men assert that the call for suburban lots has not at all been satisfied and that every day is seeing a goodly number of transfers made in this class of proper-

York Loan lots in the High Park listrict have been more or less active, and there is also reported to be a fair demand for property in South Parkdale, one agent stating that he had not been able to secure offers in this district at all equal to the call

As was to be expected brokers have peen kept exceedingly busy in renting rouses, and in sales of medium priced lwellings. With the incoming of the annual spring movement it is stated that there has been an almost unprecedented business in this department, and the real estate offices have been besieged by an army of householders seeking premises from day to day. Summing up the situation as a whole the week has been a good one, while the outlook for the immediate future is nothing if not satisfactory.

Sales of Yonge-street property coninue the outstanding feature of the Saturday another big deal in this sec-No. 617 Yonge-street changing hands for $15,570. This property is situated between Gloucester and Isabella-streets, and has a frontage of 35 feet on Yonge, with a depth of 90 feet. The deal was put thru by S. B. Roberts & Co., and the transaction has been fully completed, the deeds being transferred on Saturday.

"Northcliffe," the new residential section, opened to the public on Saturday, is evidently meeting with a good reception from the prospective householder. Armstrong and Cook the owners of the property, reported that the sale on Saturday was exceptionally well attended, and that the lots were well taken, their men being kept on the qui vive all day attending to the many parties who made a personal inspection of the district. The property is situated immediately south of St. Clair-avenue, east of Dufferin-street.

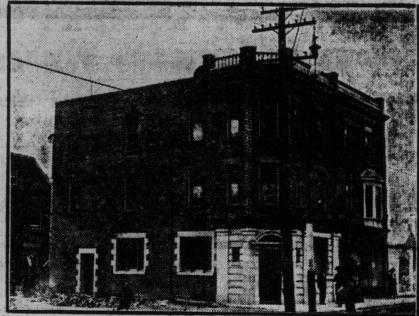

Some idea of the remarkable activity which prevails in Toronto building cles may be gathered from the list permits to build issued from the ity architect's office during the week, April 12 to 19.

The statement shows that during that period 52 permits were issued for the erection of 126 dwellings to cost approximately $345,000, three stores to cost $13,500, three factories and machine shops $113,000, and an apartment ouse to cost $20,000. The list is as follows:

NORTHCLIFFE

Northcliffe is a new and restricted residential district within the limits of the City

By reference to the key map above, and taking the corner of College street

Northcliffe forms a prominent part of the hill which stretches along the north

Only a limited portion of the Northcliffe property will now be sold in advance of Toronto, bounded on the north by St. Clair avenue, on the west by Dufferin street, on the south by Davenport road, and on the east by Oakwood Park, and and Spadina avenue as a population centre, it will be seen that Northcliffe is the same distance from this central point as the Upper Canada College, Rosedale, St.

Andrew's College, and the York Loan district. The ground is high and undulating, varying from 240 feet to 250 feet above the level of Lake Ontario. The lots side of Toronto, and from which a splendid view of the whole city may be obtained. Standing on Northcliffe, the big, busy city with its ever-increasing growth and activity, lies at your feet. Business of every kind has so invaded the older and southerly portions of the city that it is not surprising that the newer and northerly of the full city improvements. As a result of the vote on the water by-law, 12-inch mains will be immediately laid on St. Clair avenue and Dufferin street, and a 20-inch main on Davenport road. Asphalt roadways, concrete sidewalks and drainage will pave the way for beautiful homes, and increased prices will quickly follow, particularly as the supply of hill property is limited. Within the limits of

COBALT--- Better Outside Demand for Mining Securities

Cobalts Scraping on Bottom And Outside Buying Improves

Mining Securities Are Still Heavy, But There Are Signs That an Improvement Is Not Far Off.

World Office,
Saturday Evening, April 23.
The Cobalt mining stocks during the whole of the past week have borne a rather tired appearance, and prices have responded to the dull, apathetic mand with declines in many instan and from those traders who had pick-ed up stocks during the preceding week kept securities on the down-grade and there was little or no disers to enter into transactions to any extent. Consequently that some weakness should be felt was only to be expected and some satisfaction is felt by brokers in that prices held as well as they did.

The market has been more or less on the down-grade now for the better part of the year, and while periodical rallies have been experienced, stocks in the majority of instances stand this spring at the lowest point ever recorded. The late reaction has been a long drawn-out affair; and were the mining exchanges in anything but their present status a recovery might be looked for on technical grounds alone. Prices do not continue on the way down all the time and in this way down all the time, and in this case a rally is more than overdue. The one thing which is holding the market back however, is the realizing which is engendered whenever the market shows any tendency to improve, and this, and this alone, is prove, and this, and this alone, is keeping prices just where they are. That confidence in Cobalt fining shares should be on the wane follows as a natural sequence when the markets for such securities display such marked downward proclivities, and it is not at all surprising to close market. Toffowers that the general specularizementals should view without concern the growing lack of interest

It is a fact of considerable momen to the Cobalt mining companies tha the price of bar silver should be main tained at such a strong level. The white metal has been registering never record prices for the present year in New York and London, and the tendency in this regard still seems to be upward. Every half-cent added to the market value of the ounce of silve metal means a material addition to the earnings of the concerns engaged mining the metal. consequently it felt that here lies an argument is favor of higher prices for Cobal stocks. Likimately, it is felt tha stocks will be certainly benefited by this factor, provided of course that the upward tendency continues.

Outside news of importance relative to the market during the week just closed was the excellent statements of the Nipissing and Beaver companies. While it was expected that these concerns would be in a position to present good statements to the many whar olders, some agreeable surprise awaited the public in this regard.

These companies had much better years than in 1968.

Standard Stock and Mining Exchan Cobain Steeks

Despite a new strike on Little Nipi sing during the week, the shares this company have not been put on much better footing. At several per market activity, however, th buying has been better than the selling, and it is believed that this issu along with several others may be pu to higher levels without much diff culty should traders make up their minds to do so. There is a bulk short interest in many of the lower priged stocks, and if an upward move ent were once fairly started its cor tinuance would be easily effected the public could be induced to cominto the market to any extent, it felt that a substantial recovery would easily follow, but meanwhile bullis enthusiasm lacks the "sine qua nor for the commencement of the movement, namely, an outside following sufficient proportions to absorb stock when offered, and to step in and sup port the market on any declines. At the week-end outside buying was in greater prominence than at any time since the first of the year.

French and Germans Most De sired of the Traveling Class, Because They Try to Live Like Paris and Berlin.

For those who are "in the knew" it is easy to understand why the Germans are greater spenders than the Americans. Germans make a desperate and successful attempt to live according to the standard set by their madly dissipated Berlin. Berlin has grown to be the New York of Europe, if that means anything to anybody, and the German who has once been there forever after registers himself as a

New York Securities Lifeless at the Decline Financiers Try to Stem the Tide

But Meet a Tough Proposition Wall St., Entauglements Are Gradually Accumulating-Canadian

Promoters Find It Hard To Get a Following.

World Office, Saturday Evening, April 23. New York has already shipped out $25,000,000. This amount at the beginning of the movement was thought to be the maximum, yet $1,500,000 has been engaged for next week's shipment and the outflow appears to be still in its infancy. Wall street finanby the state of affairs with which they are confronted: The tide of gold-has been modified so as not to cause unusual suspicion and all kinds of means have been adopted in order to procrastinate. Among these might be cited the many new loan issues, which have been essentially made for European consumption, but which appear to have been turned down for a time.

ators been up against such a tough proposition as now confronts them. The public, so frequently hit in the stock market, are refusing to come in when their presence is so badly needed. The market has to be kept alive, however, and the floor traders are supplying the very vitals of the manipulators in the fluctuations which are manufactured to decoy the outside manufactured to decoy the outside traders. It is hard for the big holders traders. It is hard for the big holders to allow prices to go down, and only carry themselves in the descent. But what are they to do? They have tried to bait the public for months, but are heavy losers thereby and are evidently in a quandary. If prices are allowed to descend to within measurable distance of where they belong it will bring along a train of litigation which spells calamity and it is in fighting this possibility off that the present nonsensical market exist. nonsensical market exist.

It is not impossible that the Wall-street fraternity had a hand in at-tempting to break the prices on the commodities exchanges. The finan-ciers ascribe all the ills that com-

ago Monday and a few ensuing days as suggested last Saturday was solely for the purpose of putting out a few stocks at inflated figures. The decline this week has brought prices pretty nearly to where they were. It is expected that considerable buying will take place on each fresh decline, and the stopping down process is beautifully engineered. The difficulties confroning Wall-street are increasing instead of diminishing, and until the fake attempts to prevent natural events taking their course have been swept aside, purchases of New York stocks are extra-hazardous. Political en-tanglements in Britain and in the States are accumulating. The passage of the British budget will absorb much money that has been used by gamesters and bring it back to its legitimate channels. Will Aid Traffic.

The Chicago & Northwestern's new line to the Twin Cities via Milwaukee will be about as short as the St. Paul's direct route, and will relieve congestion of the Wisconsin division while developing new territory in Wisconsin. About 177 miles will be covered by the new line, with a total of 221 miles of main track, thoroly ballasted and laid with heavy steel. All bridges and waterway openings are to be of permanent construction. Many streams are to be crossed.

The line is to start from the northern Wisconsin division at a point near Lake Michigan and eight miles north of Milwaukee. From this point a double track line will extend northwest about 43 miles to Clyman, on the line between Fond du Lac and Janesville. A double track connection, eight miles long, also will be made to the Madison division directly west of Milwaukee. Beyond Clyman a single track railroad will be built to the end of the Necedah branch of the Wisconsin division, the length of this stretch being slopes 40 miles. The 12 mile No.

between Fond du Lac and Janesville. A double track connection, eight miles long, also will be made to the Madison division directly west of Milwaukee. Beyond Clyman a single track railroad will be built to the end of the Necedah branch of the Wisconsin division, the length of this stretch being almost 90 miles. The 13-mile Necedah branch will be entirely rebuilt and included in the new line, which thus will reach the Wisconsin division at Stowell. From the latter place plans contemplate that a single track road will be continued 23 miles to Sparta, on the main line of the Northwest.

tempting to break the prices on the commodities exchanges. The financiers ascribe all the ills that commerce is now suffering from to the high prices ruling for farm and natural products. The break in cotton and cereals was halfed with delight by the stock market, but the cry of extilation was but temporary and the financial fraternity is again thrown back upon its own resources. A few gamblers in cotton may have been wrecked, but this cannot produce a commodity non-existent to supply for excesses in high financial stock circles.

New York and Chicago Papers Reflect Desire of Rich Men to Exploit Multitude, - Says Writers' Offi-

LONDON, April 23,-(Special Cable to Sunday World).-James Edward Rogers, author of a book entitled "The American Newspaper," published by the University of Chicago Press, has either been egregiously mis-reviewed in "The Author," the official organ of the powerful English Society of Authors, or else he has wilfully done much to hurt the reputation of the American press generally over here where so little is known about American newspapers. The president of the Authors' Society is Thomas Hardy and such men as Mayrice Hewlett, Israel Zangwill, Anthony Hope, Bernard Shaw and Sir Arthur Pinero are on its committees. Whatever its offi-cial organ says is probably read by most of the principal English writers.

In this month's issue The Author observes that if all of what Rogers says about American papers is true, then they may, with a few honorable exceptions "be divided into two classes: newspapers which one would not willingly touch with a pair of tongs, and newspapers which one would no willingly touch with anything but a pair of tongs. They suppress, doctor, or even invent news to serve the interests of politicians or private interests. Their sensationalism panders to the lowest instincts of their sub-

Thomas Lawless Celebrates Half

Century on Saturday. Thomas Lawless, supreme treasurer of the Independent Order of Foresters, on Saturday celebrated the fiftleth anniversary of his taking a stand for temperance. • He remembers the date well, because it was on St. George's Day. Half a century of temperance work and thought is a good record, and Mr. Lawless is to be congratulated upon

Speaking to The World, Mr. Law-less said that a survey of the past fifty years accentuated the fact that while liquor drinking fifty years ago was embedded in the customs of the people of Canada so that every oc-casion of family joy or sorrow was casion of family joy or sorrow was made an excuse for drinking liquor, yet to-day things have changed and the former custom of drinking liquor at christenings, at weddings and at funerals is tabooed. Rather it seems to be that it is not "good form" to

While Mr. Lawless is one of the most sincere and earnest advocates of, and believes in temperance, still he is lib-eral minded and is free to confess that egislation is not the solution of the liquor problem. Rather, he believes that education is the more powerful weapon and that legislation should not go faster than education. Mr. Lawless is still active as a tem-perance worker and shows in his vig orous physical personality that he has appears to have permeated every class of the community. The merchants show it by their window decorations, the world of fashion by the avidity with which the boxes were taken up, the general public by the steady drain they are mak-ing on the reserved seat plan, and the horsemen by sending in a list of entries such as no horse show in Canada has ever received before.

The total number of entries is well over the nine hundred mark, and, as eightyeight out of the ninety classes filled, this gives an average of over ten for each class, and, as the time of judging each class varies only from ten minutes to haif an hour, it is admitted that the judges will be a very busy lot. However, in this respect the committee have been fortunate in securing a very capable and popular lot of men. It is only necessary to mention such names as James T. All Is Ready For The Horse Show This Coming Week

And the pleasing feature of it all is the large number of "amateurs" among the exhibitors. Of course, no horse show in Canada or the United States would be complete without entries from George Pepper and Crow & Murray. But when you glance at the lists "for amateurs only," and see twenty-five entries in the Hunt Club Plate, twenty-four in the middleweight or lightweight hunters, twenty-seven in the ladies numbers, and so on all the way down, you realize that the horse is more than holding his own with the best people of Canada, and that as a source of enjoyment he refuses to be ousted from his plece by any mere mechanism such as the automobile. In fact, the latter seems to be fitting into its natural place in the business world, and many a man will ride down to the Horse Show in his auto and let the chauffeur look after it outside, while he goes inside to give his attention and admiration to the horse.

the classes shows hunters and jumpers of all kinds to be particularly strong. In fact, the largest entry of all, five over the half-buildred, is found in jumpers, open to all. The four-in-hands, too, will make a good showing, while hunt teams shows a total of fourteen entries, and sporting tandems will also come out strong, with fourteen entries.

BROCKTON THE COMET BROCKTON COMET CHART The Comet Arrives Brockton, Mass., on the 10th of April.

SHOES ARE HERE The great comet has arrived--THE "BROCKTON" COMET. It is here and has delivered the goods. You'll find something novel in the shoe line at 119 Yonge Street, east side, just north of Adelaide Street. That is where the "Brockton" landed. Every design of shoe you ever heard of for men, and one price only --- THREE-FIFTY.

Do not consider the Brockton with any other shoe you have bought before, for the Brockton is different. It's "BROCKTON" with a large "B." It is called elsewhere "Foot-Comfort," and that is what you will say about it after to-day. It is exclusive also in style, being an American designed shoe, which is to say that it is the best in the world.

"BROCKTON"

"ONE PRICE-BROCKTON"

The "Brockton" goes from "Factory to Wearer," and we place it against any other shoe you can buy at PIVE dollars. When you buy the "Breckton" at $3.50 you are getting it at the wholesale price. And is it not a splendid idea to be able to walk into a store and know that you are going to pay one particular price for a pair of shoes, and that the clerk can't charge you any more, and that you won't be asked to pay less?

When you buy a shee you want something to fit your foot and be of a stylish design. Good leather is essential to foot comfort. If it is soft and pliable and still strong you are getting what is generally known as your "money's worth" in foot-comfort. "Brockton" is "foot-comfort." NO MORE

Remember that the "Brockton" is an American Shoe, and that is saying it is the best in the entire catalogue of Shoes. It is made in all designs and fractions of sizes, and is intended to fit the wants of the particular man who desires a STYLISH SHOE with "FOOT-COMFORT."

BROCKTON SHOE CO. BROCK ON SHOPE Chara and Fietcher. At Clincinnal the utility work fell on the shoulders of Paskert, Huggins and Ward Mijler. In all the cities of either league utility men recite the same tale of wee. They like the idea of traveling with the majors, but payers, like fremen, want to be in the shoulders, like difference, want to be in the same tale of wee. They like the idea of traveling with the majors, with a hit only needed to bring home victory. The feeling resolves itself into a dull, sickening thud, however, when the hitter," overlooks you and singles out the same tale of the surplus talent to contribute, if possible, that much-desired wailing. When a kid just beginning to learn many chances, for the Cubs are in great trim, and I understand there is to be a first base. SPECIAL SALE OF

Consigned by Dr. T. H. Hassard WONDAY EVENING, April 25

AT 8 O'CLOCK

DR. T. H. HASSARD, the well-known importer and breeder, has favored us with instructions to sell a consignment of Hackney Ponies, and these are undoubtedly the best that were ever offered for public sale in Canada. They are all well-bred, and are the get of such sires as "Fire Boy." "Gold Link" "Glenrosa" and "Royal Oak." One pony, "EARL KING" (a roan, and 5 pears old), has won twelve first prizes, and Mr. T. A. Crow, of Crow & Murray, pronounces him equal to "Berkeley Bantam," which sold recently to Judge Moore of New York for $7000. The ponies are all young, and have numerous prizes to their credit. They are all broken to laness and saddle; and ALL are entered at the Toronto Horse Show and cov. he exhibited, if desired, in the names of purchasers. The sale of the ponies is an important event and chances are that it will be a long time before the public will have an opportunity to bid on ponies of such splendid quality as the ones to be sold Monday evening, April 25th, at 8 o'clock.

TUESDAY, APRIL 26, at 11 a.m. 325 HORSES

Sharp at 11 o'clock we will offer a large number of city horses which are being consigned to us. Many of these are perfectly sound and right and well city broken; some of them we will sell under warranty of serviceably sound, and a number will be sold "sound in the wind and good to work." The city horses will be sold without reserve.

There will also be offered the usual large consignments of fresh, young country horses, and we will have a great number of them, and most of the horses will be sold under a full warranty of sound and right in every particular. Some of our best shippers will be forward next week with their loads and buyers will have ample opportunities to select horses.

TWO CARLOADS of Lumber Horses

For Sale. Without Reserve, Tuesday, the 26th.

MESSRS. MULHOLLAND & COMPANY, lumbermen, have instructed to "sell" their horses for them, and they are to be sold in each case to a highest bidder. The horses were purchased last autumn for prices $185 to $240 each, and have been used only one season, and they are thout doubt the best lot of lumber horses consigned for auction this ar, and they are all in good condition, and mostly mares.

Three Carloads of Railway Contractors' Horses

Consigned by Messers. Ferguson & Coats, River Du Loup, Que. For Sale Without Reserve, Tuesday, the 26th

These horses have been used in railway construction work, and the contracting firm have now finished their contract and we have instructions to sell their horses without reserve. The horses are all out of hard work, and are well-seasoned, and they weigh 1500 to 1700 lbs., and were originally purchased for high prices. These horses are all to be sold; there are no strings to them, and if you'll bid, you'll buy.

The Great Republic in Distress.

Canadians can well afford to close-watch the main points that now relop in American politics. For what is going on there will be in order

The most significant thing is the so-called insurgent movement in the Republican party, and the widespread distrust of the great bulk of the average Western American Republicans of President Taft. These western Republicans do not say No. Taft doesn't mean well, but that he has failed to appreciate the true situation, that he has made himself a slave of the machine, and that most of all he has fallen into the hands of men like Speaker Cannon of the lower house and Senator Aldrich of the upper ouse, both of them representing the interests, the corporations, predatory wealth, trusts, banking and, worst of all, the game of grabbing of the renainder of the natural resources of the country. The rank and file of the Republican party is distrustful of the enormous machine that has got ontrol of it; and they are distrustful of Mr. Taft because Mr. Taft so far has taken the view that the only way of getting relief legislation thru congress is with the aid of the machine tactitics of the past as exemplified by Cannon and Aldrich; and yet the people know now that the only relief that Cannon and Aldrich were able to give the country on the line of the Republican pledge to scale down the tariff was a bill which actually increased several of its objectionable features.

Not only has Cannon been beaten by his own friends and supporters in the house of representatives, and has been stripped of the enormous powers that he wielded as speaker, but Senator Aldrich has within the past two or three days been forced to declare that he will not seek reelection to the senate next year. For years Senator Aldrich has been not only the parliamentary head of the Republicans but one of the most powerful men in the United States: his daughter is married to the son of John D. Rockefeller and he is intimately bound up with all the predatory influences of the United States. This insurgency feeling that we have already spoken of has forced Mr. Aldrich out.

Still more significant is this fact, that unless President Taft can, in some way, recover himself, his own party will have to repudiate him within the next six months as a likely candidate for a second term.

Looming up in front of him and now on his way back to the United States is Mr. Roosevelt who, while he is saying nothing as yet, certainly has something in his mind. Roosevelt's ambitions are greater to-day than ever and his ambition runs, we believe, in the way of again fighting the battles of the people as against the enormous trusts, the misgovernment and the grabbing of the natural resources that is to-day characteristic of the United States.

There is, therefore, no sign of political peace ahead in the United States and, therefore, also no sign of any great financial security, but that that country will for years now be in the throes of political and finnacial excitement caused by the awful and improper concentration of wealth in the hands of the few, and the use of the enormous power thus created for purposes of misgovernment, unfair exactions, trade extortion, financial plunder, stock-watering and all the other evils that beset the American

Let nobody look for any great peace of mind or business in the United States until these disorders are cured; and anyone who cares to read the articles that are appearing in the magazine press of the United States and in the high-class weeklies, or who cares to read the books that are now being published by thoughtful Americans, must come to the conclusion that prosperity alone cannot save the nation. Probably, there is greater prosperity in sight in the United States to-day than ever there was, but it is also true that social disorder, nay, even political and social revolution is almost in sight in that great country. The mere pursuit of wealth can only end in chaos. Good government is to be maintained only by steady devotion to it and by every man, certainly by all the best of the men in the country, devoting some of their time and attention to the maintenance of public rights, to a fair distribution of wealth and to mental and moral development of the individual. The lust of money and the concentration of money in a few hands has brought the United States to-day to a most deplorable state of affairs. Instead of being the triumph of democracy the great republic to-day is the awful example of widespread political and

The most serious problem in the world is good government. Industrial development may lie in the lap of political corruption. To the Americans the question is not how to get more money but how to get decent government. And to think that they must get down to so "sordid" a thing as government instead of the intellectual occupation of moneygetting, must be a heart-break.

Success of Commission Government

Among the questions of greatest importance to Canadian cities to-day is that of improving the character and quality of their government. It cannot be denied that in many respects civic administration in the Dominion is not what it ought to be. Excuse is made that Canada does not possess the leisured class whose public spirit leads them to take active participa tion in municipal affairs. But this contention is unsound since British city councils are largely filled, not from this class, but from the ranks of those engaged in ordinary business life.

The failure of civic government in America has been attributed to various causes, but the main cause of the corruption that prevails so extensively in the United States and has even invaded Canada, is the free hand, until lately, allowed in the disposal of public franchises. These have been for long the prey of capitalists who have used them to vast personal advantage and in order to secure them have bribed their way without scruple. The partizan machinery once captured has been used to the utmost of its opportunity and the people have been only too prone to let party loyalty override the necessity to think and act for themselves. Despair at this untoward condition has led to the movement for civic government by commission which has made so many and great advances within the less few years. thin the last few years.

To-day 60 United States cities, representing over 3,000,000 popula-tion, have decided that the administration of their communal affairs has got to be conducted on business principles and have adopted, with modiby commission. With that has in most cases been coupled the recognition of the right of initiative, recall and the referendum. Initiative, which gives the electorate power to compel any policy that commends itself to them; Recall, which enables them at any moment to remove representatives who are not acting up to the measure of their duty; the Referendum, which requires all measures affecting public franchises or property to-be submitted for the approprial of the people.

The results of the commission form of civic government have been remarkable in these cities that have brought it into operation. In the city retired $60,000 of bonds; enlarged and improved the park system; increased the police force; repaired or rebuilt the fire apparatus; enlarged the fire service; built a new fire station and carried out other notable improvements to an extent previously unprecedented and without the addition of one cent. to the city debt. This happened because the commissioners were individually responsible for running their respective departments in the straight interest of the people who appointed them and had the means wherewith to secure that attention to the public interest was, as it should be, the primary and exclusive object ever before the minds of those entrusted with the conduct of civic affairs.

which he holds to have been fairly well established, Charles Edward Russell thus records them in an article in "Everybody's" Magazine. It has, he says, abolished party politics from local affairs; eliminated the boss grafter and the political machine; regarded a municipality as a great business enterprize and provided accordingly for its effective management; introduced a real democratic system; established direct responsibility for every public act; has been swift, efficient, economical and adapted to a rational community in the twentieth century; has abolished a raft of useless offices, sinecures, jobs and political rewards and substituted organization method and work. These are great gains and make it certain that before many years the principle of civic government by commission will become many years the principle of civic government by commission will become not the exception but the rule all over the American continent.

The administration of President Taft has been in office a little more than a year. That it has accomplished much is abundantly attested by the volume of criticism and by the increasing vehemence of attacks upon it.

A higher standard of business morality and obedience to law has been set. The terms which General Grant told General Lee would be acceptable were as simple and conclusive as those which nearly a half century later President Taft offered to the managers of great trusts and monopolies. The work of the Tariff Commission is meeting the appreciation it deserves, and providing the best and most careful investigation of facts for future revision of the tariff. The president's special messages have recommended amendments to the interstate commerce law, federal incorporation. postal savings banks, uniform safety appliances on railroad trains, changes to make the employers' liability act more easy to enforce, intelligent conservation laws, readjustment of mail rates and revision of the customs laws.

For the first time in the history of the country a comprehensive budget has been prepared dealing with estimated expenditures and the means of raising money to defray them. The fiscal year, ending in June, 1911. will see a saving of more than $94,000,000 in the estimates over 1910. and $55,000,000 less than the appropriations for the latter year.

The Standard Oil and Tobacco cases in the supreme court of the United States constitute the most comprehensive attempt ever made by the

On a casual visit which she made not long ago to the island, Mrs. Nuttall discovered a fragment of an old wall, and upon uncovering it saw that its surface was covered with mural paintings done in red on white ground. Broad steps were also discovered, buried in the sand, and indications that the buildings extended further.

This find Mrs. Nuttall immediately reported to the government, who show-

BERLIN, April 23.-It is now an op were revealed in the German naval manoeuvres last year, and the emperor and his naval advisers are greatly chagrined at the result of these operaations.

In the first place it is known thruout the fleet that the gunnery of the ships was extraordinarily poor. Even in the newer ships, mounting the latest pattern guns, and equipped with the most modern sighting and ranging appliances, the number of hits scored was very disappointing. The gunnery records of the British navy are very eagerly scanned here, and the Kalser is asserted to have spokeh his mind very strongly upon the poor showing achieved by his fleet.

The gunnery records of the British navy are very eagerly scanned here, and the Kalser is asserted to have spoken his mind very strongly upon the poor showing achieved by his fleet.

As a result, it is probable that the present system of gun training in vogue in the German fleet will be radically aftered. Already the allowance of ammunition for training purposes is almost twice ag is allowed in the British navy, and it is now proposed to increase this allowance. It is asserted by those in a position to judge that both the gunnery officers and the gun crews themselves are equally at fault. The officers do not seem to exercise sufficient care in ranging their target before giving the order to fire. The captains of the gun crews, for their part, are content to accept the range as given them from the control stations and not to check it for themselves.

The presence of the Baltic fleet in the operations was merely, an attempt to swell the importance of the fleet, and to act in some measure as a set-off to the recent visit of the British fleet to the Thames. The eight Siegfrieds comprising it were all built between 1889 and 1897 and their designed speed was only 15.5 knots an hour, while their armament consists of while their armament consists of three 9.4-inch guns and ten 3.4-inch guns. Things were almost as bad in the High Seas fleet itself. Germany really possesses only twenty-four battleships that can be regarded as of any real fighting value. Of these only sixteen were manned by full crefs, but the others heing nucleus crews of varying strength. The largest Lattleships taking part in the manoeuvres was about the same size as the British Albion class that is now being withdrawn from Britain's main battlefleets, and is being relegated to the reserve. can be said to have given anything as in the sket the satisfaction during the recent manoeuvres was the flotillas of fast ocean-going destroyers, of which a Ocean Ferry Carries Trains From very large number were employed.

The position in the German navy to-day is this: In Wilhelmshaven it posmagnitude could be fitted out there and prepared for war with a rapidity that could probably not be equalled by any other yard. England's not excepted. The newest battleships and be fully the equal of any warships yet built, and their guns will likewise challenge comparison with British

It is the personnel and the system of training that is at fault, and here Germany is surpassed by the British, the French and the Japanese. The same rigid, cast-iron discipline that pervades the German army has been introduced into the navy, and every rank has had its initiative and power of individual thought and decision studiously trampled out of it.

BELFAST, April 23.—The tobacco growing industry in Ireland which was re-established three years ago is progressing slowly, accordingly to a report of the agricultural department. During 1909 140 acres were devoted to the experimental growing of tobacco, compared with 101 acres the year before, and the total production was about 168,000 pounds.

The 1908 crop was all sold at highly profitable prices and the manufacturers who bought it were so well pleased that they are asking for more this year. At present the Irish growers are allowed a slight relief on the taxation and if this is continued there is no doubt that a flourishing industry can be built up in a few years.

That new industries are needed badly is shown by the emigration figures for 1909 which are much worse than those for the preceding years. The total number of emigrants in 1908 was 29,220 or 5278 more than in 1908. Leinşter lost 3.5 per 1000 of her population, Munster 7.1, Ulster 6.7, and Connacht 9.8 per 1000. Worst of all 86.3 of the emigrants were between the ages of 15 and 35 or in other words of the age at which they ought to be of most use to their native land. About 76 per cent. of the whole number were bound for the United States. Of the men 58.1 per cent. were described as "laborers" and of the women 68.3 per bound for the United States. Of the men 58.1 per cent. were described as "laborers" and of the women 68.3 per cent. as "servants." About 20,000 of them embarked as steerage passengers for America and 6.814 of these had their passage paid for them by friends who had gone before them.

ruler should begin by being able to rule his own house; for in the management of his vast and complex household there is no matter, from the appointment of the great officers of state to the promotion of the junior footman, which does not obtain the King's attention and sanction, while the same comment applies equally to him as head of his family.

It may be noted that when in Dandon, scarcely a day passes without a visit to his august parents from the Prince of Wales, who, like his sisters, submits, not only every social, but almost every domestic question to their consideration, while the same procedure is observed, only in lesser degree.

At Sandringham the country folk are quite accustomed to the sight of a little pony-cart in which are seated the Lord and Lady of Sandringham engaged in animated converse and pointing out to one another various alterations and improvements or suggestions for the same-on their well-

IRISH RURAL GOUNCIL VOTES NOT TO DISTURB

Because of Superstition Protecting Rath Inhabited by "Wee People,"

The site originally selected was close by an old Danish rath or fort, which is supposed to be sacred to the "wee people."

Now to disturb one of these raths is a great orime in the eyes of the fairies, and the man who does it is sure to have sickness among his cattle, or his crops will fail, or he may even have a death in his family.

A number of the councillors declared that they wouldn't like to disturb the raths themselves and that they would never think of asking anyone to live in a cottage built on such a site. Finally a committee was appointed to find another site.

It is gratifying to learn that the efforts of the postoffice department have effected a large decrease in the matter consigned to the division of dead letters, tho it received in unclaimed letters cash to the amount of $59,078, while the drafts, cheques and money orders showed a total of over $2,000,000. Eight millions of post-cards were destroyed without record, and dead-letter sales of merchandise, loose cash in the malis and currency received by postage amounted to $29-224. oh in Western Canada, just issued, on which, in the interests of historical truth, I beg to offer a few remarks. In the first place I must thank your reviewer for his kind appreciation of my work, which he says will "encourage a greater zeal for accuracy on the part of our writers" and "a more liberal attitude of mind on the part of those who read such history."

When, with the wealth of proofs at my command, I wrote my account of the Red River Insurrection, I realized that this conflicted too much with prejudices a generation old to be immediately received with that "more liberal attitude of mind" recommended by your reviewer. liberal attitude of mind" recommended by your reviewer. 'His own references to my treatment of that subject are in my opinion clear evidence that I was not mistaken in my anticipations. Though he is manly enough to admit that I am "uniformly fair in my treatment of any phase of my subject," he claims that I seem "to go out of my way to blacken the character of the unfortunate Thomas Scott." Yet I scarcely said anything concerning that poor man which con-

Scott." Yet I scarcely said anything concerning that poor man which contemporary and later authors have not made public. In every law court a man's antecedents go a long way towards explaining that which brought him into trouble.

As to "a perfectly unbiassed treatment of the question" being so hard to get, there is some truth in your reviewer's contention. But I also believe with another reviewer (that of The Winnipeg Telegram) that, after the lapse of forty years, "history is coming more and more to take the view of Father Morice" as regards the real character of the Red River troubles. Sooner or later truth will out, and the Riel of history will surely not be that of a certain class of men whom your reviewer probably knows.

Where the implied criticism of that gentleman is altogether indefensible is in connection with my description of

If your reviewer needs any investigation after that which, at Riel's trial, led the majority of the alienists consulted to declare that he was then insane, I would refer him to any old-timer who was in the Saskatchewan Valley in 1885, as well as to the exhaustive study of that question by Dr. Clarke, who goes so far as to pronounce Riel's execution a "polifical murder." There are in this connection things which I know but cannot publish.

Winnipeg, Man. March 29, 1910.

What Father Morice refers to as remarks "in the interests of historical truth" are rather differences of opinion. I have not impugned the acuracy of his facts. Dr. J. H. O'Donnell, a neutral observer of the Manitoba troubles, calls the shooting of Scott an "outrageous blunder." The attack on Scott's private character does not to me offer any justification of the conduct of Riel in this case.

Riel's sanity, at the time of his trial, or before, was a matter for difference of opinion. Common sense will impel one to feel that if a man is san property of the time of his trial, or before, was a matter for difference of opinion. Common sense will impel one to feel that if a man is san under the same and their in other mand even in some of the matterial of Chaucer's were chiefly translations from French and Latin. These were followed by imitations of posms in other languages, but with "The Canterbury Tales" we come to his own imaginative creations. The plan of the poem, putting the tales into the members of a company, is an adaptation of an idea from the "Decameron" of Boccafio, but the characterization is a feature that is new and entirely Chaucer's own.

ture, for instance, clogs by its very per-from moral values? Certainly not in fection. It is natural to suppose that preference in this case is not for what is extrinsic to the work of art itself, for what is valuable to the heart, or good in the conduct of life. But the vitalistic mode of appreciation gives one in this case an immediate realization of the material and spiritual significance of the human body—the utmost sense in one's own body and soul, of form and movement. A Greek youth is preparing, as we actually feel in our own bodies, to throw to th farthest distance a quoit. In a moment one is in his place, actually realizing in sensation, organic, muscular, and peripheral, his attitude, the tension of his whole being. One has an immediate sense of an increase of impulse, capacity, faculty of the will, to cope with life and things; one has an outflow of vital spirits. It is a moment directly life-communicating. If one feels at all accomment in his own generation from the cause he is assertor of the soul in song," nor because, his ideals have high moral worth and warrant—not because he is a pure fount of inspiration to those who love life and who in the very storm and stress of life would love it more abundantly. The vitalistic values in poetry have in his Dramatic Lyrics their supremest realization.

Critic's Business.

It is not the business of the critic of the fine arts to supply him who would create with rules and recipes, or with methods of inspiration. It is the critic's business rather to Browning, not because, as is said, he is "the subtlest assertor of the soul in song," nor because he is apreat religious and philosophical teacher," but because he is a pure fount of inspiration to those who love life and who in the very storm and stress of life would love it more abundantly. The vitalistic values in poetry have in his Dramatic Lyrics their supremest realization.

and things; one has an outflow of vital spirits. It is a moment directly life-communicating. If one feels at all according to the vitalistic mode in the presence of this statue, one feels in one's fown body and person, immediately, inwardly—not reflectively—lour manhood's prime vigor." If so they are in a work of art, formal, technical sensuous, and moral values of a registered letter during a tour in order to gain possession. "our manhood's prime vigor." If as they are in a work of art, formal, Myron's 'Discobolos' ever fail us, it will technical, sensuous, and moral values not do so because it has lost its formal and expressive beauties, but because our own vital function—the incharm. Only the masterful presentamal and expressive beauties, but because our own vital function—the invard sense of life itself—has failed.

The cause our own vital function—the invard sense of life itself—has failed.

The cause our own bodies and souls to us in our own bodies and souls to the causing us in our own bodies and souls to the cause our own vital function—the included in the cause our own bodies and souls to the cause of may lose its artistic and moral values, realize much more vividly and directly but it shall still remain permanently than does reality itself the material, fresh and satisfying on the ten-thou-Essentials in Painting. Again: The essential in painting as an art is not the intrinsic beauty of splendor, or of harmony of color, or of ideality in the manner of composition. but, as in sculpture, the direct communicating of the reality of form and lost, nothing that men may do can movement. We must be sure of our avail. They must wait for the bird of problem. We are not concerned with life again to begin his early morning what an individual or an age will prefer or love most in a painting, but ith what shall remain permanently fresh and satisfying to all individuals and ages. This again is the vitalistic or tonic value in a painting. I take an extreme case. Botticelli will disappoint one immensely if one look in his work for charming harmonies of color, for delicacy of feeling, for depth of conception, or for ideal types of not an expressionist. He is, however, a master in pure presentation of form by way of masses that convey the sense of resistance and of life, and of movement by way of lineal decoration. Realize how supremely, for example, functions to the keenest activity. The tossing of the goddess's tresses conveys to one directly, possibly by line only, the sense of body and of life; the fluttering of the draperies and the dancing of the waves cause in one's own body and soul the very sense of an outflow of vital spirits. It all comes to one as a gift from the work of art itself; so supreme is it in the immediate presentation of form and movement. In this connection, I am anxious to add just a word about Michelangelo. He has done in painting what the Greeks did so masterfully in sculpture; he has given us the direct presentation of the life-enhancing values of form and movement in the nude. That old ideal of the highest moral energy in action or in repose (mens pulchra in corpore pulchro) is fulfilled in Michelangelo's frescoes in the Sistine Chapel. Where else indeed er," at the Metropolitan, Mr. Toscanini shall we realize-directly as we realize invigorating breath of the salt sea and the serene beauty of the blue energy of men and gods, the material the air. and spiritual significance of the finite and the infinite! Much in Michelangelo ing one of the men singers) "ha fatto tre errore!" meaning and intending to Botticelli will repel us; and the Duccio, say that the singer had made three participe and Banhael error seem to be a single of the men singers) "ha fatto tre errore!" meaning and intending to say that the singer had made three Perugino and Raphael ever seem to be beloved, and the Giorgione, Titian, and Tintoretto ever charm the senses, yet so long as we do not become dematerial presence and of personality, the Florentine and Venetians, but also return a thousand times to the former with the same joy. The delights they yield us are perennial. Not Formal Qualities One more: the source of the permanently fresh and satisfying quality of music and literature is not their formal and technical beauties, but their power to stimulate directly the sounds, and with fair images, or thru thought and feeling to stimulate ideated sensations of form and movement. fe, as we say, is itself so much the

we shall not only receive more from Michelangelo and Botticelli than from

Art may possess in perfection all elaboration. But what shall we say of aesthetic qualities, and yet fail to win us forever. The noblest Greek sculptture, for instance, clogs by its very perfection. It is natural to suppose that the higher or the nobler the faculty which was employed in creating a work of art, the more enduring must be that work. It is not so. Perfection in art has nothing to do with permanency, and permanency nothing to do with masterful execution in workmanship, with lofty inspiration, with depth of conception, or with exalting emotion. Art and literature possess perennial charm only when their strictly art qualities, formal, technical, sensuous and moral, sustain a peculiar relation to the VITALISTIC functions of our natural, sustain a peculiar relation to the Discobolos, one may take the aesthetic attitude either of the formalist or of the moralist; one may look in this status either for a direct presentation of the structural (formal) beauty of the human body, or for some representation of the dignity (moral idea) of the human body as 'the temple of the soul.' As a formalist, one cares for the human body as 'the temple of the soul.' As a formalist, one cares for the human body as 'the temple of the soul.' As a formalist, one cares for the human body as 'the temple of the soul.' As a formalist, one cares for the human body as 'the temple of the soul.' As a formalist, one cares for the fee and texture, or for dexterous display of art in the treatment of theme. All these, however, the moralist will tell one are not final goods. One must care for the idea of the dignity of the human body, or of the glory of manhood in its day of strength and vigor. The appeal in this case is not to the sensibility but to the moral imagination: the preferences in this case is not to the sensibility but to the moral imagination: the preference in this case is not to the sensibility but to the moral imagination: the preference in this case is not to the sensibility but to the moral imagination: the preference in this case is not to the sensibility but to the moral imagination: the preference in this case is not to the sensibility but to the moral imagination:

A large sum of money had been sent to him from Europe, and when he went to the post office to secure the letter the official there refused to hand the packet over to him, declaring that he had no proof that he was Caruso. The famous tenor then exhibited letters, cheques, and photographs of himself, but the post office clerk, suddenly struck with a bright idea, remarked: do you? "You claim to be Caruso, Well, then, you can easily prove it; sing us something." Caruso, finding that the only way to obtain possession of his letter was to agree to the request, gave, in his most enchanting manner, the romance from the third act of "Tosca."

"Bravo! bravissimo!" exclaimed the officials when Caruso had concluded. "And now here is your packet. We knew who you were all the time; only, as you charge the American public such high prices for hearing you, we thought you ought to sing us a song for nothing. Toronto exhibits a suprising mu henomenon. It is one which seriously affects the development of music in the city and in the province, and which causes a loss of considerable revenue to the University of Toronto. Why does this institution display such apathy towards conducting what are called "Local Examinations" (in music)? Those of us who are interestmusic)? Those of us who are interested in the tonal art and in the university take with chagrin the fact that Trinity College of London, The Royal Academy, and McGill University are advertising in Ontario their "local examinations" in music, while the second largest university in the empire, and the pride of Ontario, the premier province of Canada, falls to rise to the occasion and seize an experient to occasion, and seize an opportunity to increase both her prestige and revenue. Not only that, but with their increased use, even this broad thorofare is becoming all too narrow to accommodate those who desire to ride there, with the result that hundreds of owners take to other streets, rather than encounter the inevitable delays necessitated by heavy traffic.

Before the Association of Licensed automobile Manufacturers, at their ecent annual dinner, William H. Ednished some interesting figures regarding the traffic on Fifth-avenue at its busiest point, and, with other speakers, paid tribute to the automobile for the part it is playing in averting utter congestion, as well as for its cleanliness and its minor part in wear of the pavement, as compared with other

"A few days ago, in anticipation of being asked to speak before the automobile manufacturers," said Commissioner Edwards, "I arranged personally for an accurate tabulation of traffic on Fifth-avenue. In the hour between four and five o'clock in the afternoon there were 1455 automobiles and 856 vehicles of other kinds. You can appreciate from these figures how far the automobile is outstripping the horse-drawn vehicle in New York.

"I believe," continued the Commissioner, "that the day is not far away when there will be practical use of the automobile in removing from the streets the 2,000,000 loads of refuse collected in New York annually. I feel

One Thousand Incompetents. GOLD VERSUS SILVER

As the weather clears up and the roads become hard, a new gathering of autoists will start out; all will go in search of enjoyment, some for the sake of health, and of experience; it lies before them. Just how many inexperienced purchasers of automobiles there will be numbered in the aggregate, it is difficult to state. If statistics have any foundation, 100,000 is a low figure to fix upon. Of this number, if but one per cent. proves to be totally incompetent, the daily papers will have at their disposal subject-matter for 1000 double head lines, and it may be that some of the columns of matter will contain nuggets.

It is a serious subject this, and it offers wide opportunity for reflection. Those who fail to appreciate the improvements wrought in automobiles within a few short years will only remember the time when brakes were poor, steering equipment insecure and the men at the wheel were ill-fitted to the task. They may have failed to take into account the subconscious automatism of the whole situation; brakes are now capable, steering equipment is reliable and the whole populace has undergone a change. Men who do not profess mechanical knowledge seem to understand more about automobiles to-day than designers did

It is fortunate that capability keeps stride with requirement; the leader barely outnecks the flock; the whole world advances in unison and yet there is the hindmost. It is the tail-end of the procession which must be watched, and it matters not whether it is an army, a fleet of battleships, or, instead, the users of automobiles.

That the tail-enders are likely to come from the midst of the 100,000 who just purchased their first automobile is a fair inference, and that they will be vigilant and prudent it is hoped. If they are unable to appreciate the extent of the hazard which attends blind and reckless driving; if it is not in their nature to allow for the safety of others, they will most likely belong to the class called selfish, and it may be possible to reason with them thru their pocketbook.

AS LAMP REFLECTOR

Tests in England Show that Gold Reflector is Most Satisfactory to Drivers and Others.

From the showing recently made by lamps having gold plated reflectors, these being made by S. Smith & Son, Limited., 9 Strand, London, W.C., it seems that the last word has not yet been spoken in the design of lamps of high efficiency. Evolution has led us from carriage oil lamps with polished metal or simple silvered glass reflectors to the present types of powerful acetylene headlamps employing parabolic lens mirrors. It is now fully recognized that some adequate and powerful means for lighting the roadways is absolutely necessary to make night motoring at all safe. In the majority of cases, the present type of headlamps leave little to be desired from the point of view of the man riding behind them. However, "good" headlamps are a little unpopular with other users of the road, as well as with other motorists, who are trequently dazzled to blindness by the

with other motorists, who are irrequently dazzled to bilindness by the lamps of an approaching car. A great deal of attention has been devoted to designs and devices for obviating this effect on other road users while at the same time preserving the full efficiency of illumination of which the lamps are capable.

The lamps mentioned above are identical in all constructional respects with the accepted type of headlamp, except that the deposited reflector surface of the back of the lens mirror is of gold instead of silver. The silver coated mirrors reflect a light which is intensely white, while the Goldenlyte mirror project a beam of decidedly golden color. From this it is natural to suppose that the photometric value of the light from the latter is somewhat less than that from the silvered mirror, other things beter is somewhat less than that from the silvered mirror, other things being equal. This being the case, it would at first glance appear that the efficiency of the light must also suffer. However, the recently conducted tests by the above firm of lamp makers fully disprove this, thus indicating that the golden colored light possesses some property that does not exist in the whiter light. It is stated that this property manifests itself as an added illuminative value, as referred to the human eye, which more than compensates for the photometric loss. Light reflected by the gold mirror gives a spectrum without violet, orange and red rays. The reverse is the case with the spectrum of light from the silvered mirrors. The white light produces a relatively flat effect, as compared with the light from the

the world's rubber supply by the everincreasing needs of the automobile has brought about an extraordinary two continents. The source of per-haps three-fourths of the world's supply of first-class rubber is Brazil, more than one thousand miles up the Amazon River. The rest comes from smaller acerages in Panama, the Ma-lay States, the Congo district on the west coast of Africa and India. Ceylon is going into the cultivation of rubber trees, and a good deal of the future supply is expected to come from there and other places where similar

So precious is the commodity becoming that the Brazilian Government, with canny prudence, has virtually cornered the supply by subsidizing the planters in the district of Para, where the Brazilian rubber comes from. The situation is almost parallel with the diamond market parallel with the diamond marketonly one country supplies diamonds in any quantity or quality, that being the Transvaal, which contains the famous Kimberly mines. Meanwhile, a tremendous boom is going on in rubber stocks, most of which are owned in England. Speculation is rife, as many new companies, wildcat and otherwise, are springing up all over the land. In some respects, it is said, the excitement is not unlike that which culminated in the burst-ing of the historic South Sea bubble. The price has gone up by leaps and bounds, and to-day stands at $1.25 per pound wholesale for the best quality, which is used by tire manufacturers.

Good Roads and Progress

The following article is taken from The Ford Times, a bright little paper issued by the Ford Motor Co.:

While it is impossible to assign an arbitrary per cent. or amount to represent the increase in land values by reason of road improvement, it is generally believed that the average increase per acre within the zone of influence of an improved road would be from two to nine dollars per acre. As there are about 850 million acres of farm land improved and unimproved and unimproved in the United States, the possibilities of aggregate increase in value are enormous.

In the crop-moving season, the railroads which traverse the great agricultural sections are taxed far beyond their equipment. For many months, while the country roads are impassable, much of this equipment is idle, and thus the railroads suffer a double and thus the railroads suffer a double loss. This cannot fail to affect dividends of stockholders and salaries of employes. With an adequate improvement of the common roads, the development of agricultural resources would be so great as to increase in a marked degree the annual tonnage of the railroads, while the means of access to the railroad stations would be so united. the railroad stations would be so uniform throughout the year that the delivery of freight would be reasonably constant instead of spasmodic. It is not to be wondered, therefore, that the

There is no phase of life in the country, social or economic, which is not affected by good roads. There is a direct relation between improved highways and the value of land, the attendance of children at schoot, the ways and the value of land, the attendance of children at schoot, the health of the community and everything else that tends to make life in the country efficient. And this, in turn, affects the people in the cities who live on country products. The extraordinary outbreak of piracy which followed with such astoniahing promptness the general adoption of aerial navigation in the fourth decade of the twentieth century, will, no doubt, be regarded by future historians as one of the greatest curiositorians as one of the greatest curiosi-ties of human annals. This may be some very small, insignificant, personal note or it may be a cosmic chord, vibrating in harmony with universal good, depending, probably on the soul development of the person.

The forty-second annual convention of the National American Woman's Suffrage Association demonstrated very forcibly the fact that growth among the women has been most phenomenal, due probably to the diffusing of a mental force that has peen added to ever since the first woman rebelled against unjust discrimination is backed by an army of millions of women and is gaining in numbers so rapidly that it does not take a prophet to see the inevitable result.

Women are fighting and sacrificing, women are nighting and sacrificing, they are displaying more heroism than was ever displayed in any war that was ever waged. Men have talked democracy, but women are demonstrating it. Wealthy women are paying salaries to the women of rare ability so that these gifted ones may be free from the economic struggle and are able to put all their time and talents into this work, and this is quite as true of England as it is of quite as true of England as it is of America. Anglo-Saxon women as well as Anglo-Saxon men have inherited the spirit that forced King John to sign the Magna Charta or that gave the Declaration of Independence to America. Fraternity, Liberty and Equality has been the slogan that women have heard as well as men. The shouts of the "Consent of the governed" has vibrated through the female as well as the male brain, and to-day neither man nor woman can expect to get the popular ear if a goodly Sprinkling of democratic sentiments are not forthcoming.

The fact that the President of the United States established a precedent by appearing on a Woman's Suffrage platform is a very significant thing, and the fact that he was hissed is still more significant. That this hissing was so spontaneous and so unexpected showed more clearly than anything else that even a President cannot afford to give utterance to undemocratic sentiments if he wishes the applause of the people. That Dr. Anna Shaw, backed by her executive and all the delegates, ate humble pie and made both public and official apologies can never wipe out the historic fact on record around the world that the President of the United States was hissed, not because he disapproved of woman's suffrage, for he claimed not to be against it, but because he uttered sentiments at variance with the very spirit and life of a democracy. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, the the very spirit and life of a democracy. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, the international president (who made the most brilliant speech of the convention, where brilliant speeches were numerous) did not directly refer to the President's address, but in no uncer-

She resented with all the fire, force and eloquence of a Hypatia the excuses made by the last two presidents and by the politicians "that wo-men could have the vote when they wanted it." Never have I seen Mrs. Catt express such determination and indignation, blended with a divine resolve as in her address here. She is in the fight to win, and while the Great Impersonal spirit of the cause has been focused in Mrs. Pankhurst, Mrs. Catt has not only caught it, but she is in a position to make the most effective international use of it.

Another distinctive personality is a position of the very point of the proposition of the propos national use of it.

Another distinctive personality is Mrs. Stanton-Blatch, who did not need to acquire suffrage, but had suffrage thrust upon her from her birth. As the leader of the street campaigning and the president of the league for self-supporting women she has been able to enlist an array of enthusiastic young women who are willing to carry the suffrage flag in streets or parks, svenues or slums.

The corresponding secretary, Mrs. Francis Squire Potter, deserves much special mention as a powerful platform speaker, and as an author, whose ruling passion is, I believe, a cosmic urge for social betterment.

No book, even among the "six best sellers," has been so widely read or discussed, not only in America but in Europe, and it is a fact that perhaps a majority of those who have read the book have done so with the one idea of whet-ting their appetite for sensationalism. But to the reader who thinks, who tries ever so little to delve beneath the surface of things, it shows that Mrs. Glyn had a purpose and a very great one, for it leads up to the greatest question that is confronting every throne in the Old World to-day, as well as the leaders of society in our own country-the marriage of royalty, of state and of convenience. The marriage where no thought or idea of love is ever entertained. Such a marriage Mrs. Glyn believes, is immoral in every sense of the word, and is the direct cause of more unhappiness and the wrecking of more souls than any other condition in our social lives.

He was passing the fifth floor when a door burst open and a man rushed out-shouting loudly to be taken into the elevator. Fido lied the brake and swung open the door for him-it was Johnson fuming and panting with nervous excitement.

"I say, a good thing you came for me—what! not going up to the top? We'll be trapped in two seconds—this thing makes a draught that'll draw the flames up after us—take me down, I tell you!—take me down you young idiot and then go to the devil if you like!" Fido shot upward, heedless of the man's pleading and jumped out at the sixth floor, calling to Johnson to follow and help save those people at the back of the building.

Without glancing back he rushed off down the corridor, round an angle and down another passage till he reached the door of Miss Pippin's office. AL .WOOD'S POINT OF VIEW.

"Overproduction. That's what hurt the melodrama business. Too many shows and too few good ones. And don't make any mistake; it's exactly that way with the other fellows. Look at the number of first-class theatres in New York-about six out of thirtyfive really make money. They're up against the same game, only harder. Overproduction. Little towns that used to get one show a week now get three or four and have a picture-andvandeville house running all the time. Dou't take much of a Pinkerton to see the answer, does it? People have got about so much money to spend on the theatre, and when the long di-vision cuts in there ain't enough to vision cuts in there ain't enough to go around for the producers. It'll get normal again. It's got to. At that, I've got fourteen melodramas on the call up Mr. Van Alstyne on the long

These figures are from a recent complication made from official reports by the secretary of the savings bank section of the American Bankers Association, and in this is disclosed something even more significant, namely:

whole world, $5,678,735,379 belongs to the care of governments. Furthermore, the average deposit in the private savings banks of foreign countries is $140, while in their postal banks it is only $49.33; here in the United States the average deposit is $331.28. PROVIDENT AMERICA.

Advocates of the Postal Saving Bank bill that has passed the United States Senate and is now under consideration by the house committee have laid great stress on what they term the success of this system of saving banks in foreign countries, and the pending bill is modeled largely on the Canadian law; the argument is that if the system is a success in other countries, it ought to be in this—no matter whether it is needed or not—as if the United States should have and must have every "good thing" that is going around. But do we need such a system bank system of another sort that is highly satisfactory?

The average deposit in American savings banks, all of which are private institutions in no wise connected with the federal government, is almost posit for Europe, Asia, Africa, Ocean-ia, Canada, and so on, and the average deposit per capita of the population is very nearly six times greater here in the United States than in the other

QUAINT LITTLE ST. BARNABAS

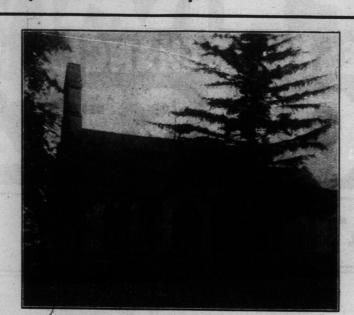

One of the Early Churches Near Toronto to be Replaced Shortly by a Modern House of Worship.

Help not those who help themselves: Help those who help others.

The rector and congregation of the Church of St. Barnabas (Chester), are looking forward to June 11 (St. Barnabas Day), for on that date they hope to witness the laying of the corner stone of their new parish church. They make an appeal for assistance only after having done all in their power, and more than seems to lay in the power of a few, at least, to set a generous example.

The Church of St. Barnabas is fiftytwo years old and is just outside the limits of the City of Toronto. It was erected thru the efforts of the late Rev. Dr. Beaven who was the first rector

The population of the district was gradually increasing and somewas gradually increasing and something must be done to offer the people opportunity to worship. And then came the test. St. Barnabas needed the cooperation of all its parishioners to build a new church parish, or choir vestry. But it was too far removed from the northern part of the district to be of much benefit to people in that could be sacrificed to the needs of St.

The little building was in a pi turesque but rather secluded part of a large district with scattered population, and it was permitted to sleep unmolest in its shady retreat by many of the congregation. Those who found themselves able or willing to attend the services doubtless gave as freely as they could, but "widows' mites" take a long time accumulating to anything substantial. "THE SQUAW MAN."

Rarely has a dramatist succeeded in bringing the breezy western life of the early eighties to the stage as had Edwin Milton Royle, in "The Squaw Edwin Milton Royle, in The Square Man," which Liebler & Co., are presenting this season. The theatresenting this season. that the Indians treat him with absolute contempt. One of the exceptions to this rule is a man on the Ute reservation, Henderson by name, who claims to be closely related to one of the wealthiest families in America. He is about sixty-five years old and has lived with the Indians for over forty years. It was just about that time that a brilliant young society man dropped out of view in New York and has never since been seen.

Mrs. Hanson's Euchre.

Mrs. L. W. Hanson gave a euchre of six tables, at the Prince George, on Wednesday afternoon, when she was rearing a gown of green rajah with jet trimmings and corsage bouquet of sweet peas. The room was decorated with pink carnations, roses, palms and 'ferns, and tea was served later in the gallery from little tables arranged with green shaded candles and vases of flowers. The prizes which consisted of a brass vase, a table mirror. French bon-bon dish. dainty tea apron and a little brass jardiniere, were won by Mrs. Perkes, Mrs. W. M. Hunter, Mrs. C. Ray, Mrs. Buchanan and Mrs. Doane. Some of the guests present were Mrs. W. M. Hunter, who was wearing apricot satin gown, Mrs. Frank Baxter in taupe satin, Mrs. Fredrick Briscoe, in cinnimon brown silk, Mrs. Harry Road in black, Mrs. Buchanan in blue, Mrs. Morrison in mauve, Mrs. Doan in black and white satin, Mrs.
