ITALIANS DRIVE FORWARD ON THE CARSO FRONT

TEUTONIC PRESSURE TOO GREAT FOR ROUMANIANS

Roumanians Forced to Fall Back On Own Frontier at Several Points in Eastern Transylvania

Italians Take Town of Novaves and Many Prisoners — Stubborn Fighting Around Guedecourt and Saily on the Somme Front.

Steadily the pressure of the Austro-German forces is compelling the Roumanian troops, who invaded Transylvania less than eight weeks ago, to fall back upon or toward their own frontier. In Eastern Transylvania, north of Kronstadt, Berlin reports additional territory free of Roumanians. Southeast of Kronstadt the Austro-Germans have also been successful against the invaders. The Roumanians, however, are offering stubborn resistance. Bucharest reports the repulse by them of attacks on the frontier of Southern Transylvania.

Violent infantry fighting continues on the Carso front, in the Austro-Italian theatre, with further successes for the Italians. In the vicinity of Gorizia and to the south of this region they have repulsed heavy Austrian counter-attacks, inflicting heavy casualties, and east of Dobrova have approached the second Austrian line, taking 400 prisoners. Vienna admits the loss of the town of Novaves, but announces that the Austrians put down Italian attacks at other points on the Carso plateau, and made 3,700 men prisoners. In the Pasubio region of the Trentino sector some additional gains in ground are claimed by the Italians.

The French and British have been repulsed in a new attempt to break through the German lines between the Ancre and the Somme rivers in France. The British attacked in the district around Guedecourt, and the French near Saily, but neither was able to pierce the defense of the Germans, although London claims a slight advance near Guedecourt. South of the Somme stubborn fighting is still in progress at Genemont and Ablaincourt.

In Macedonia the Entente offensive apparently has come to a halt. British advance guards have been active east of the Struma, but on the remainder of the front there has been little activity. A belated report from Sofia records the repulse of six Serbian attacks at Skochivir, on the Cerna river.

Likewise the operations in Volhynia and Galicia have apparently lessened greatly in violence, for neither the Petrograd nor the Berlin war office mentions any fighting in these zones. To the north of the Pinsk marshes, in Kubia, however, the Germans have attacked Russian trenches on the west bank of the Shara river. Petrograd says the attack was repulsed with heavy casualties.

Quiet on British Front.

London, Oct. 13.—The official report from British headquarters in France, issued tonight, reads:

"South of the Ancre there was considerable hostile shelling during the day, especially in the Guedecourt and Martinpich areas and north of Courcellette. Otherwise there is nothing to report.

"This morning, after a bombardment an enemy party attempted to raid our trenches northeast of Wulvergnem, but was driven back by our fire.

"In the Foinis Valley (Trentino) there were artillery actions. Some small encounters also took place, ending in our favor. On the Pontebano torrent in the Fella Valley (Carnio Alps) hostile artillery bombarded our positions heavily, but did no damage.

"On the Julian front there were violent artillery actions. During the night of October 12-13 and yesterday morning the enemy launched further heavy counter-attacks, especially at Sober, near Gorizia, south of Nova Villa and towards the Point 144 on the Carso. They were all driven off with heavy losses. On the front of one battalion alone near Sober 400 enemy dead were buried.

"During the afternoon our troops made considerable progress on the Carso, capturing ground between the first enemy line, which we already held, and the second one. The western slopes of Monte Peiciska and the Armored Cars Used as Scouts in Greek Macedonia—British Advance Guards Push Forward.

Saloniki, Oct. 13, via London.—British advance guards have made some advance to the east of the Struma river, in Greek Macedonia, says the official statement issued at the Entente Allies headquarters today. British armored cars explored the region where the Sere-Demir-Hisser Railroad joins the Sere-Saloniki line, and found that the railway was being strongly held by the Bulgarians. The text of the statement follows:

"On the Struma front we pressed forward patrols from Prosenik and Topolova to the east of the railway and our armored cars have reconnoitered to the junction of the Sere-Demir-Hisser and Sere-Saloniki railway. The enemy holding the railway was found to be in strength.

"About the Nihor-Dorran front, to the north of Doljell hostile trenches were raided and after strong resistance the enemy fled, leaving dead on the field.

WOMAN SECOND IN COMMAND OF A DUTCH GUNBOAT

Geneva, via Paris, Oct. 13.—A woman has been commissioned by the government of Wurtemberg as second in command of a small gunboat on Lake Constance which is employed in guard duty at Friedrichshafen, where the Zeppelin works are located. She had been given the rank and uniform of a lieutenant.

"Quiet reigns at Hiratoce. At Soussu (Simons) west of Predeal (south of Kronstadt) and at Predeal the enemy has been repulsed and has retreated to Timos. At Gutivras there were patrol engagements.

"At Cainen there were artillery actions. West of Cainen we repulsed a night attack of the enemy. In the valley of the Jul and at Orsova (on the Danube) there were artillery actions.

"Southern front: There were artillery duels and infantry fighting all along the Danube.

"In Dobrudja quiet reigns.

"Italians Take Enemy Town. Rome, Oct. 13, via London.—In the Pasubio region of the Trentino Italian troops have taken strong Austrian positions between Sette Croci and Monte Rote, says the official statement issued by the war office today. Austrian attacks in the same region were driven back, it is added. Italian troops, the statement says, also have made considerable progress on the Carso plateau, where there has been heavy fighting during the past few days. The statement follows:

Greek Royalists Had Plot to Fight Entente

London, Oct. 13.—According to Athens' despatches received here the Entente Allies sent their ultimatum to Greece because they had unearthed a royalist plot to fight the Entente. It was planned, the despatches add, that if the Allies should seek to coerce Greece into joining the war and try to force Ellipharis Venizelos upon King Constantine, the king should retire northward along the railway, taking the troops with him, and concentrate at Trikala, in Thessaly, and lie entrenched there until the arrival of the German army, when he would strike, in union with them, at the Allies.

French Hurling 100 Bombs For Every One Thrown By Germans

Paris, Oct. 13.—General Nivelle, commander of the French forces at Verdun, in talking with Walter Hale, an artist, and H. O. Beatty, director general of the American Relief Clearing House, of New York, at his headquarters during the shelling of German trenches by the French on Tuesday, remarked that the French were throwing more than one hundred shells to one thrown by the Germans, and that soon they will be doing better than that. The defender of Verdun said that his army had had its bitter struggles, but that now, if there should be an attack, it would be broken by the French, Beatty and Hale watched the cannonade for two hours at night from the ramparts of Verdun. They also spent a night in the citadel at Verdun with General Petain, commander of the French forces in the Soissons-Verdun region, with whom they also had lunch. General Petain thanked Dr. Beatty for the gift of 50,000 francs by the American Relief Clearing House. The general said he intended to use the money in purchasing artificial legs and arms for the mutilated soldiers of his army. The French commander said he deeply appreciated the open-heartedness of the charity of the American people.

Scouring Atlantic Coast For Hidden German "Submarine" Bases

Washington, Oct. 13.—Destroyers from the Atlantic fleet are making a search of the Atlantic coast from Newport north to the Canadian line, to investigate reports of hidden submarine bases or wireless stations. Admiral Mayo, commander of the fleet, reported to the navy department today that he had ordered the search but did not disclose either the source of the reports on which he acted or the places where illegal radio plants or bases were said to have been discovered.

VISCOUNT CLIVE MET HERO'S DEATH

London, Oct. 13.—Viscount Clive (Percy Robert Herbert) eldest son of the fourth Earl of Powis, died in London today from wounds received in action. Lord Clive was born December 2, 1892. He joined the Scots Guards in 1914, and in 1915 he was a lieutenant in the Welsh Guards.

GREW OF NEW YORK VESSEL PICKED UP

Yarmouth, N. S., Oct. 13.—The crew of the Peter C. Schultz, of New York, with a crew of six men, and laden with 48 tons of hard coal consigned to Hugh D. McKenzie Co., Ltd., Halifax, are in town from Shelburne. They reported that on Oct. 9th the vessel encountered a heavy gale from the northeast and on Oct. 11 she was leaking so badly and the pumps became so choked the crew had to abandon her. After midnight they were picked up by the American fishing schooner Patriot and landed at Shelburne. Three hours after they left the vessel she sank with the entire cargo, near Georges Banks. The captain and crew were made comfortable here with clothing and food by the American coast, H. H. Balch, and will be forwarded to their homes by Saturday evening's steamer.

AVIATOR GETS D. S. O.

London, Oct. 12.—The following official announcement was made here today:

"The King has appointed to the distinguished service order Aviator Second Lieut. Wulstan Joseph Tempest, for gallantry and devotion to duty in connection with the destruction of an enemy airship."

New Companies. Letters of incorporation have been granted to J. Charles Salmon, Miss A. Florence Coughlan and Miss Gladys L. Dodge, of St. John, as the American Globe Laundries, Limited, chief place of business in St. John, and capital stock $100,000.

RAIDS OFF U.S. ATTEMPT TO STRIKE DIPLOMATIC BARGAIN

TEUTONS TAKE RUSSIAN TRENCH BUT LOSE IT

Petrograd Report Tells of Minor Operations on Russian Front—No Change in Dobrudja.

Petrograd, Oct. 12, via London, Oct. 13.—The official statement tonight says:

"The Germans last night opened artillery fire on our trenches along the western bank of the River Shara in the region of the village of Golovitchi, and later delivered an attack which resulted in the temporary capture of a trench section.

"The enemy was soon driven out by our counter-attack, being repulsed with heavy losses.

"In the region southwest of Bubnov our patrols attacked enemy outposts and put them to flight. Our patrols then occupied a trench of the enemy, in which they fortified themselves.

"In the region southwest of the village of Sviatolki, on the River Naravka (on the front southwest of Lemberg) the enemy attempted to dislodge our advance guards, but was repulsed by our fire.

"In the region of Seletin, on the River Suchava in the wooded 'arpathians, an enemy aeroplane was brought down by our rifle fire. The machine caught fire as a result of the fall. The aviator and the observer who escaped death, were captured.

"Over the whole Caucasian front an exchange of fire and scouting operations are taking place.

"In Dobrudja our position remains unchanged."

FROM ENEMY'S WAR OFFICES

Berlin, Oct. 13, by wireless to Tuckerm—A successful attack by German aviators upon Russian troops in the Roumanian harbor of Constanza on the Black Sea, is reported in an admiralty statement issued under date of October 12, as follows:

"German seaplanes, during the night of October 9-10, successfully bombed Russian troops at Constanza."

Bulgaria. Sofia, Oct. 12, via London, Oct. 13.—The Bulgarian official statement issued today concerning the Macedonian front, reads:

"In the bend of the Cerna there was spirited fighting. Six consecutive attacks by the enemy in the environs of Skochivir were repulsed. The enemy sustained severe losses.

"An attempt of hostile infantry to advance on Dobroupolje Heights was foiled.

"East of the Vardar a hostile battalion which, after violent artillery preparation, attempted to advance against the heights south of the village of Bogoroditsa was repulsed with heavy losses.

"At the foot of the Belagichits ridge listless artillery firing occurred.

"Along the Struma there was considerable activity by reconnoitering detachments. An attempt of two hostile battalions to advance against Barakli-Juma, under protection of violent artillery fire, was shattered by our fire. The enemy's long range machine shells, killing many inhabitants.

"The hostile fleet in the Aegean shelled the heights north of Orfanp."

Ingenious, but Not Novel, way of Dealing with British Blockade.

JUSTIFIES THE ALLIED NAVAL PRECAUTIONS

Raises no New Issues as Far as the British Government is Concerned, Lord Cecil Says.

London, Oct. 13.—The operations of the German submarine boat U-53 off the American coast raise no new issues, as far as the British government is concerned, in the opinion of Lord Robert Cecil, minister of war trade, who discussed today with the Associated Press the latest developments in the relations between Great Britain and the United States. Lord Robert declared that this form of warfare on merchantmen violated international law, as it was recognized by Great Britain and the United States in the days before the war, and was still objectionable to Great Britain, but no more so than when it is done on this side of the water.

Modification of Blacklist.

Referring to reports of meetings between Sir Richard Crawford, commercial attaché of the British embassy at Washington, with American bankers and business men, Lord Robert said no departure in principle had been made from the British blockade measures, but it could be safely said that the general policy issued in the direction of a modification, rather than an extension, of the blacklist. The reply to the American blacklist note was now on the way to Washington, and this answered the American criticism of the principles behind the measure. As regards the administration of the blacklist, Lord Robert said Washington had forwarded very few individual complaints about it.

Replying to the charge that Great Britain is violating its equal treatment provisions of the Anglo-American treaty of commerce and navigation of 1815 by granting licenses to Japanese and French exporters, while refusing permits to American shippers for similar goods, Lord Robert said that such restrictions were in the hands of the Board of Trade, but that he was personally of the opinion that such treaties lost validity during a state of war.

Striking Diplomatic Bargain.

Continuing, the minister of war trade said:

"German public opinion appears to be obsessed by the idea that the way to deal with the Allied blockade is to have a succession of sudden crises with neutrals, which may be used for striking diplomatic bargains. These bargains, in the mind of Germany, always take one form—that Germany is to refrain from violating international law and humanity in return for the abandonment by Great Britain, as toward neutrals, of the legitimate military and naval measures of the Allies.

"In the last few weeks there has been a recrudescence of this idea in Germany, coupled with a good deal of talk of peace and mediation, and the press of the world is now conjecturing that the appearance of a submarine off the coast of the United States is the first step in a new attempt at a bargain of this kind. It is an ingenious idea, but it doesn't have the advantage of being novel among nations. It has been the usual device resorted to from time to time by militarist governments which have substituted might for right. Napoleon tried with his Milan decree, and it failed then, as it will fail now.

"The whole of the recent German foreign policy has proceeded on the same principle. Kiaochow, Agadir, the mailed fist and shining armor are examples of the international procedure. In private life it is called blackmail. It may be well to say at once, in answer to these German ideas of international diplomacy, that the staking of ships off Nantucket is precisely calculated to prove at once the danger of any concessions to the Allies, and the injustice of the many American criticisms leveled against our naval and military measures.

TESTIMONIAL RECEIVED BY POPULAR GENTLEMAN WELL KNOWN ON RIVER

Death of Colin H. Livingstone's Son Draws Memorial from Faculty of Western High School in Washington, D.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Colin H. Livingstone of Washington, D. C., who have a beautiful summer residence at Glen Leon, Carter's Point, where they usually spend their summer vacation, have been the recipients of very many expressions of sympathy in connection with the recent death of their splendid son, Robert Elkins Livingstone.

One of these took the form of a beautifully engrossed memorial from the Faculty of the Western High School, Washington, of which their son had been a student. It was as follows: The Faculty of the Western High School wishes to express to you its profound sympathy in the loss of your son, Robert Elkins Livingstone, of the class of 1916.

His splendid school spirit, displayed in the various activities in which he delighted to take an important part, won for him the affectionate regard of his fellows. His scholarship, his steady application, his fine character and genial disposition made him the most valued member of the school, presaged for him a most successful and useful career, and won for him a firm hold on the memory and friendship of all who came in contact with him.

With assurances of sincere regret and condolence, THE FACULTY OF WESTERN HIGH SCHOOL, Washington, D. C., 1916.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Ansel Guptill.

The death of Mrs. Ansel Guptill, aged 72 years, occurred on October 4th at her home, Castalia, Grand Manan, causing universal regret. Her bright mind and sunny disposition endeared her to all, and she bore her long and painful illness with wonderful patience and fortitude.

The funeral was held on Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from her late residence, and was well attended. Floral offerings were contributed by Mrs. Florence Winchester, Mrs. Restina Winchester, Mrs. Macaulay, Mrs. Roy Guptill, Mrs. Clarence Richardson, Mrs. Abbie Lakeman, Mrs. Arthur Travers, Mrs. Ethel Gilmore, Miss Fannie Dalzell and Master Aubrey Graham. Interment was in Maple Grove cemetery beside her husband, who was laid to rest only a few months before.

Home From Aldershot.

Lieut.-Colonel Dr. T. D. Walker, who has been in charge of the Field Hospital at Aldershot Camp, N. S., since August 1st arrived home yesterday. Colonel Walker enjoyed the camp life and its surroundings very much. The weather was splendid, and with the exception of a few wet days, was all that could be desired. Speaking of the men who canvassed at Aldershot, Colonel Walker said that he was very much impressed with the discipline and drilling of the Highland brigade. The men are as fine a body of soldiers as one would see at any military camp.

CAMBRIDGE.

Cambridge, Oct. 9.—A recruiting meeting was held in the Temperance Hall, Cambridge, on October 6th. Lieut. Gibson and Sergt. Pincombe addressed the audience and music was furnished by Piper Scott. Three recruits signed on: Messrs. Ham, Carpenter and Carrick. Misses Edith Belyea, Lucille Nevers, Blanche Robinson, Ruby Fowler, Jennie Fowler and Gladys Draper attended the Kings-Queens Teachers' Institute which met in Sussex. Mr. and Mrs. Frank McArthur and family of St. John, spent the week-end with Mrs. McArthur's parents. Miss McKenzie of Norton and Miss Lila, of Sussex, spent the holiday the guests of Mrs. Geo. Robinson. Mrs. Minnie MacLean of Chipman is spending a few days here. Miss Lizzy MacLeay of St. John spent the holiday with her brother, Mr. Talmage MacLean. Miss Laura Akerley, who is teaching at Loch Lomond, spent Thanksgiving at her home at the Narrows. Mr. Wm. Straight and son, Fred, arrived home by auto on Friday from Carleton county. Miss Laura Jones of St. John was home for Thanksgiving. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Hedley Hamm was gladdened by a visit from the stork last week. Mrs. Merritt Thorne and children of Belleisle, are visiting friends here.

YOUR PAY is liable to be larger if you can run a REMINGTON TYPE-WRITER. A. Milne Fraser, Jas. A. Little, Mgr., 37 Dock street, St. John, N. B.

DREFUSS WRITING A BOOK. Barney Drefuss is said to be engaged in writing a book. It is understood the title will be "1,000,000 Reasons Why Sister Belongs To Me; Or, The Sad Experiences of a Magistrate Who Has Been Handed the Hot End of the Poker, to which is appended an appendix setting forth the true facts in the celebrated Sister case."

New West Side Warehouse. The tender of D. C. Clark for the erection of the large new warehouse at No. 16 wharf, West St. John, has it is understood, been accepted. The structure, according to requirements, should be completed and fit for use on or before December 1.

GERMANS SURPRISED

Too Late to Check the British Rush—Prisoners Easily Taken.

(From a Correspondent.) With the British Army in the Field, October 1.—Another day of victory. Between noon and sunset, two villages swept clean with bombs and bayonets and a third battered to the verge of collapse, more German trenches annihilated and local redoubts silenced, and the British line thrust still further eastward by a bold sweep on a six-mile front. Tonight successive files of defeated, unresisting prisoners, the debris of Prussian regiments broken in our barrage, are marching over the hill from the battlefields. Beyond the ridge they had climbed for the last time German batteries move sullenly away from Morval, driven at last from the gun-pits where they had lain for months. At the same moment British guns press forward, rolling along the roads, half-hidden in clouds of dust.

The lesson of Lesboeuvs and Morval is the growing discouragement of the enemy. At certain places he fought fiercely, but I can also tell of Prussian infantrymen running to meet their captors with hands upraised. Again they put their trust in machine-guns until it became a question of face-to-face fighting. When the British troops came at them behind the terrible creeping curtain fire they were in terror. Thus the clean sweep through Lesboeuvs and Morval and up the heart of Gueudecourt this afternoon was a comparatively easy task. Less resistance met the confident British battalions than at Guillemont or Ginchy. In fact they appear to have encountered little organized opposition once the German first line was crossed.

Losses Not Heavy.

Machine-guns and enemy artillery were responsible for the majority of our casualties. They are not very heavy. The enemy, however, suffered severe losses. Our advancing infantry walked amid piles of corpses. Between the first and second trench lines. The Germans had not expected a midday assault. Throughout last night they lay under a steady and extremely harassing bombardment which raked the trenches from the south of Morval to the northernmost tip of Gueudecourt. The roadways in the rear, behind along which other troops were approaching in relief. They did not consider it of greater import than any other ordinary heavy shelling—I quote the prisoners whom I saw tonight,—and even when the morning brought no cessation of their trial, but rather an intensification, they did not steel themselves to meet a British attack.

At the precise moment agreed on the battalions, climbed the parapet and went forward. Not until then did the enemy realize that they were face to face with our men. Their guns, great and small, were loosed too late. They could not stay the tide that surged against them. Tonight Lesboeuvs and Morval are ours. A few machine-guns stick unutilized in a sunken road southeast of Morval, and there is a strip of German held trench between the battalions faces of Lesboeuvs and Gueudecourt. These unimportant "snags" behind our new front can be speedily wiped out. Before this is published they will doubtless have been erased by the British troops around them.

The first phase of the attack led the battalions into the trenches, and which ran in a south-easterly direction west of Gueudecourt, Lesboeuvs, and Morval at a distance of from 200 to 500 yards from those villages. The moment they stepped across the parapet they plunged into machine-gun fire. All the sunken roads linking up the villages gave cover to groups of gunners, who raked the field with deadly thoroughness. Yet the British soldiers went through it undaunted and leaped among their foes. The bombers gave bomb for bomb, and there were bayonets for those who hesitated to surrender.

Hand-to-Hand Encounters.

I heard several dramatic incidents of this first rush, when Germans and British were still fighting in the open. The troops pressing towards Gueudecourt were in a position in which forty Germans had taken shelter. They came out in frightened groups, tame enough; but suddenly an officer appeared firing his revolver point-blank at the British soldiers. One man dropped with a bullet wound in his foot, but at the same instant another soldier leaped at the officer and brought him down with his bayonet.

At another part of the German first line—this was nearer Lesboeuvs—a party of British infantry came on some Germans in a sap. The men wanted to surrender, but a Prussian officer suddenly appeared in their midst and tried to fire his revolver at the British sergeant. At the same instant the sergeant hurled himself upon the Prussian and bore him down. They struggled desperately, the officer trying meanwhile to swing his revolver hand around behind the back of his head, but the sergeant's bayonet slipped him by the throat, and squeezed hard. His victim could not escape from the deadly embrace. His struggles grew weaker, and suddenly his body relaxed. He was dead. The sergeant got up and wiped the perspiration from his face. "The German had me," he said, and ordered the prisoners to fall in. But grim episodes of this sort were the exception, at least in the earlier stages of today's attack.

Although Lesboeuvs and Morval were taken in a series of advances rather than one continuous push, from the original British line, the business was accomplished in less than three hours. Save for the little "island" of isolated Bocha machine-guns south of Morval, we were firmly in and beyond the village by three o'clock this afternoon. From the first German line west of the village the British troops advanced to the sunken roads on the outskirts. Those driving directly towards Gueudecourt found their progress checked by a machine-gun redoubt astride the road that leads to Ginchy at its junction with the Piers road. Some of the enemy who had fled back from the lost first line were lying in shell craters round about playing other machine-guns steadily up the slope before them. The British battalions dug themselves in, and small parties succeeded in working forward in the face of this destructive fire.

I hear tonight that patrols have got into the village, but although its full possession is not announced there is no doubt whatever that its capture is only a matter of a very short time. It could have been taken easily this afternoon, but the ground was not worth the sacrifice of men involved at that moment.

The Entry Into Lesboeuvs.

The troops that had reached the sunken roads outside Lesboeuvs and Morval, their second halting place, finished their work ahead of the scheduled time set for their capture. When the prospective occupants poured into the sunken roads and found there only a handful of frightened Germans surrendering amid corpses, twisted machine-guns, and collapsed dug-outs, they were determined to go on. Why not? There lay Lesboeuvs, a few hundred feet away, an easy victory. A desultory fire came from its ruined houses, and several machine-guns still backed from the white-walled and pillar-fronted shell of a chateau among the trees at its upper edge. Still, the German resistance was obviously broken, so they went on.

Some swept up the Le Transloy road that forms the "High Street," while others encircled the village, and in a very few minutes Lesboeuvs was wholly British, and the dug-outs were yielding up their unwholesome-looking occupants.

The Last Stand in Morval.

Morval is almost part of Lesboeuvs. Its main street becomes a sunken road for perhaps 400 yards north of it, before undergoing a second transformation as the second most important street of its neighbor. Morval was taken by two detachments of troops that divided the village into northern and southern halves. The northern sector gave no trouble, the British soldiers entering their presence at the outskirts, and the few scattered remnants of a tired garrison gave themselves up. But in the southern edge were men of stouter courage. They lodged in a trench that ran from the Le Sars road at the eastern end of Morval in a quarter circle to the Fregcourt road on the south, and the latter highway, by reason of its depression below the surrounding fields, gave further encouragement to the builders of redoubts. Tonight this lone enemy position was still firing its last gasp, and the British were holding out in the hope that relief would come from the east. The German field batteries near by were still firing from their pits east of Morval at five o'clock tonight, and this must have given them additional fortitude. What they thought an hour later when the batteries ceased firing and departed may be better imagined than described. The British infantry went forward with traditional coolness and courage. Eye-witnesses of the calm, measured walk towards Gueudecourt and Lesboeuvs through the gusts of acid smoke that overcame the battlefield, agree that it was a splendid, and moving sight. Men might pause for a moment to make a wounded comrade comfortable in a shell-crater, but they never faltered because of the German barrage or the bullets that flew thick across the fields. They went forward bravely under a sunning and a clear blue sky—there was not a cloud in it anywhere save the clouds of bursting shrapnel flung around our aeroplanes as they hovered above the battle. It was a perfect autumn day—such a day as makes men thankful that they are alive.

The Banquet After the Battle.

The thankfulness of men that they were alive in the sunshine—having come through the valley of death—found expression behind the battle line in a sunning and a clear blue sky. The "walking wounded" wended their weary way along the troop-laden roads. I wish their mothers and wives and sweethearts could have seen them limping up to the hospital tents pitched in a veritable thicket of heavy guns. They nursed aching arms or ruefully rubbed bandaged heads, but there was hardly a man among them who did not grin as he passed out of the dressing-tent, displaying his snow-white fresh bandage, and sat down on a wooden form to drink a mug of tea and eat great slices of bread and jam.

There were two long benches side by side on the grass, filled with hungry wounded men talking as furiously as though they had just come from a football match. A newcomer would approach unsteadily, and, as an orderly put him on the benches, and filled his cup, a shout would go up from another bandaged man, and they would shake hands triumphantly. This man had come from near Lesboeuvs, that one from the sunken road at Gueudecourt, the third told of the Prussian officer who shot him in the foot before a sergeant killed him. They talked together as happily as schoolboys.

EXTRA SEATS ON RIM.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 13.—Because the early demand for seats for the Yale-Harvard football game here Nov. 25, has exceeded all records, the management tonight voted to erect 8,500 additional temporary seats on the "rim" of the bowl where the contest is to be staged. This will bring the seating capacity of the great amphitheatre up to more than 70,000.

Jackie Has Escaped.

Jackie Saunders has escaped from "The Grip of Evil." Balboa has had the big production last week and Miss Saunders immediately left for New York to recreate after her strenuous work. The last scenes of "The Grip" are already in the hands of Pathe and it is understood that the business on the showing already made has broken all serial records. Lionel Barrymore will be seen in "The Brand of Cowardice," on October 30. John Noble, who directed the big "Romeo and Juliet" production, is directing the Barrymore picture. This will be followed on November 6 with "Big Tremaine," with Harold Lockwood and May Allison starred. "Tremaine" is a picturization of the popular novel of the same name and it will be directed by Henry Otto.

SATURDAY'S POEM.

The Gospel of Labor.

But I think the King of that country Comes out from His dreary host, And walks in this world of the weary As if he loved it the most.

And here in the dusty confusion, with Eyes that are heavy and dim, He meets again the laboring men, Who are looking and longing for Him.

He cancels the curse of Eden, and brings Them a blessing instead; Blessed are they that labor, for Jesus Partakes of their bread.

And courage will come with His presence, And patience return to His touch, And manifold sins be forgiven to those Who love Him much.

And the cries of envy and anger Will change to the songs of cheer For the tolling age will forget its rage When the Prince of Peace draws near.

This is the gospel of labor— Ring it ye bells of the kirk, The Lord of Love came down from above

To live with the men who work, This is the rose He planted here, In the thorn-cursed soil.

Heaven is blessed with perfect rest, But the blessing of earth is toil. —Henry Van Dyke

MAGAZINE APPEAL.

Letter From a Belgian Prisoner. For nearly a year and a half I have only had my pay of four cents a day, and with that one cannot live in luxury.

Do not ask me what my life is like here at the camp. I will at once satisfy your curiosity. I rise at five and take a short walk; at six, I breakfast, (but unfortunately I never get enough to satisfy me because one roll is not nearly enough.)

You are right in considering my country Belgium, beautiful, but also there remains, but little of it now. It is practically a ruin. God knows if I shall find again my parents again or my relations in short, all those who were dear to me, for two years I have suffered perfect anguish concerning them, as I have received nothing from them, neither letters nor money, and why you may ask?

Albert de Berchic. Interned in Camp 1, Ziest, Holland.

Any books or magazines in answer to this appeal may be left at Room 44, C. P. R. Building, addressed to Miss Madeline De Soyres, who will forward them.

DON'T BE FUSSY. There is an old adage that warns that "nothing ever goes quite right."

No one likes to be worried, bullied, or found fault with. The fussy may be a woman, and quite often the "fussy" is a man, as the habit is not confined to one sex.

Tattling is another bad habit. Learn to bear little crosses in dignified silence. Give matters a chance to settle. Often it only requires a little patience to bring about amiable relations.

DANDRUFF GOES! HAIR GETS THICK, WAVY, BEAUTIFUL

Save your hair! Double its beauty in a few moments. Try this!

Hair stops coming out and every particle of dandruff disappears.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most, will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes, but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them, its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

Sidney Olcott has resigned from the Famous Players' directorial staff. This announcement will come as a big surprise to the many admirers of Mr. Olcott's creative genius.

During his engagement with the Famous Players, Olcott produced some very successful pictures, among them "Madame Butterfly," "Poor Little Peppina," with Marie Pickford; "Diplomacy," with Marie Doré; "Seven Sisters," with Marguerite Clark, and "The Smugglers," with Donald Brian. He also directed Hazel Dawn and later, Valentino Grant in the Irish subject, "The Innocent Lie." He has just completed a Scotch story, "The Daughter of MacGregor," with Miss Grant.

Who's Who and What's What in the Picture World and on the Stage--Favorites and What They Say and Do.

Phantom Fortunes. You don't want to miss this picture unless you want to miss some of the best acting we have seen for some time. Usually one person featured is tiresome but Barney Bernard as Mr. Plinkster is perfect delight. Just to see his expression as his choice cigars disappear in the grasping hands of Dorgan, who is out for all he can get, is a treat in itself.

The play is built around one Zalmon Plinkster. We know now why Potash and Perlmutter was so popular. Many examples are given of his whole-souled charity and sympathy. The changed look when he finds out that one suppliant is an old woman, (Mary Maurice), is very touching. He and Bob Deering (Jimmy Morrison) are dealing with crooks who represent themselves as buyers for the Allies. In a business interview a clever bit of stage realism is introduced showing the actual working of wireless telegraphy. The subtitles are very funny and there are fine bits of comedy.

There is present the love interest and also a villain. The latter attribute is all of that for the reason that Lester Bernard plays the part so well. Mrs. Moscovitz, James Morrison, Adele DeGarde, Edward Elkas and Mary Maurice are praiseworthy members of the supporting cast.

JOAN OF ARC. For the first time in the history of motion picture making an army of two thousand photoplay actors on horseback and afoot was directed, in scenes representing the great French battle of Patay, by a system of telephone installed by Cecil B. De Mille, producer of the picture based on the story of Joan of Arc.

The star of the production is Geraldine Farrar, famous Metropolitan prima donna, who participated in the midst of the stirring battle scenes. Usually it is a matter of more than a week to obtain artistic battle scenes for the motion picture camera. Mr. De Mille, however, facing the problem of making valuable use of the precious time of Miss Farrar, took less than half that space of time for the Joan of Arc production by installing on the two m² battlefield, a system of telephone communications between himself and assistants.

Dorothy Davenport. Now with Universal comes naturally by her talent as she is a daughter of Harry and Alice Davenport, and a niece of Fanny Davenport. She has two seasons in vaudeville, and has been with several motion picture concerns. She supported Lou Tellegen in two productions. She is married to Wallace Reid.

Just Like One of Montague's Glass Shoes in The Saturday Evening Post

THE IMPERIAL THEATRE in presenting this feature picture of business life in the clothing manufacturers of New York is not caricaturing the Hebrew people in the least. On the other hand it exposes a fine strain of kindness and logic that makes one feel good. Mr. Bernard is, of course, the dominating figure, and to say he is a rare joy is putting it mildly. The cast includes L. Rogers Lytton, Jimmy Monson, Mary Maurice, Mrs. Moscovitz ("Potash & Perlmutter" Co.), Edward Elkas and numerous others. The story deals with a half million dollar clothing order for the Allied Armies in which Scotland Yard detectives take a lively hand. This picture is something out of the ordinary; see it.

Our Guards Met The Germans

Three Coldstream Battalions Charge Together—Canadians Find Work to Their Liking at Courcellette.

By Patricia Phillips, Daily Express Special Correspondent.

With the British Army in the field, Sept. 28—in a cornfield beside the ammunitions dump lay a group of weary men with bandaged heads and arms, smoking quietly in silence. One giant, bespectacled with the mud of the battlefield looked up at me with blood-shot eyes.

"Call them at home," he said, "that the Germans met the Guards today!"

A story of splendid heroism lies behind this little incident. The wounded Grenadiers and Irishmen were waiting to go home did not tell it—none of them considered their part in the battle worthy of special consideration—but we are hearing now fragmentarily of an episode as any in the history of His Majesty's Foot-Guards—of their valor and endurance in an ordeal calculated to shake any troops.

It concerns the first phase of this new offensive, when the Guards set out at dawn last Friday morning to go forward with the rest of the battle front. For the first time in history three battalions of the Coldstreamers charged together—advancing, as one eye-witness describes it, "as steadily as though they were walking down the Mall." The line rippled over the broken ground, never halting or hesitating, while shells burst above and around them. Gaps were blown in their ranks, only to disappear as the battalions closed in again; machine guns raked the fields over which they passed, but they could not stay the steady, onward drive of the cheering Coldstreamers.

"At them, the Lilywhites!" shouted the sergeants; "Come on, Lilywhites!" and on they went. Behind them swarmed fellow-countrymen of the heroes of Ghinchy and Guillemont, the Irish Guards, tramping fiercely across the craters.

The Guards fought gloriously. Still the shells rained down on them as they lay in the captured trenches; still the machine guns beat an infernal tattoo across the slope as they scrambled out to charge another thousand yards. Yet they swept into the second line like a whirlwind, and it was theirs!

All the rest of the day they lay under a devastating fire. So they dug into the crumbling earth and threw out their outposts, and when night fell they were still hanging on grimly; no counter-attack could shake them loose from the ground they had won.

As they crouched in their shallow trenches they saw the blinding enemy falling back—saw him sinking away from the remnants of the line he had tried to hold—men, machine guns, field guns, bomb stores, all in full retreat from the position they had been told to maintain at all costs. They had met the Guards!

"We wanted to chase them," said one of the Guardsmen told me how they watched this flight, "but we could not leave our trenches."

While they lay under fire throughout that night some of their number brought up food and water through the German barrage. And when they were relieved at dawn they marched back as steadily as they had advanced, thinned battalions and weary, but undaunted.

They were simply splendid. Nothing could stop them. This is the tribute of one of their officers.

Stories of Heroism.

I have been hearing some fine stories of heroism from other divisions as well. The attack against Guedecourt (after the taking of Fiers) required the same courage and endurance as the attack of the Guards. The battalions participating in this phase of the battle did many brave things.

Swinging round the top of Ghinchy the men of this force attacked and took a support trench, and then the "switch" trench which was part of the German third line of defense. Two companies were supposed to remain here while other troops went forward, but they could not resist the temptation to follow on, so they forged ahead, silencing machine guns and—as one of them reported afterwards—"doing odd jobs."

The final halting place of some of the battalions in this sector was at a point eastward from the north of Fiers, known to the army as "Bull's road." They pressed to this sunken road, although their right was completely exposed to the enemy machine gun fire, and came up to a German trench, where they captured ten German field guns and some machine guns.

An attack against Guedecourt was launched from Bull's road, but the men only got as far as the sunken road outside that village, being held up by the usual machine-gun fire. They came back to Bull's road, making a common front with the battalions remaining on that line, and so rested through Friday night, enduring a destructive fire from machine guns which swept their trenches from a point northwest of Les Boeufs.

forced to fall back to a new line a little north of Bull's road, where they crouched in shallow trenches and crated dug-outs were successively bombed, not daring to lift their heads because of the constant sweep of the machine guns.

They were still sitting there when the order came to make another attack at 6.30 p. m.

They did their best. The officers got up from their shelters to form the line for the attack, and several dropped back wounded or dead.

They did get the line formed; sections and platoons came up in confusion and were calmly sorted out in the face of this murderous fire, and precisely at the minute they went forward, as heartily and determinedly as fresh troops.

In the end the brave battalions fell back again to the ground they had clung to throughout the night.

The taking of Courcellette by the Canadians was an unexpected blow at the enemy—a sudden eleven-hour addition to the programme of attack—after his demoralization by the first offensive. The Canadians were told to take the sugar factory and the trenches of the German third line and to sit down at the edge of the village. This they did so speedily and thoroughly that the beaten Bavarian regiments, driven back in disorder into Courcellette, had not time to reorganize, nor could the commanders get up reserves in time to launch a counter-offensive. Then it was that the Canadians, confident of their superiority; they went on to advance again, and they captured the village with little trouble.

No operation has been more to the liking of Canadian troops, than their share in this offensive. They were able to leave the shallow trenches and groups of craters on the crest of the hill, whereof only the foundations are now discernible, and incessant shell fire had produced a "No Man's Land" strangely resembling the broken crust of the moon as seen in a lunar photograph. The road to victory was thick with shrapnel cases and the miscellaneous debris of many days' bombardment; it was like stumbling through the intestines of a gigantic sieve. Yet the Dominion battalions gladly took the road on Friday morning, when the moment came to leave their trenches behind.

Certain distinct characteristics of the Canadian were speedily apparent to the Germans hidden at the bottom of the slope. They have seen English and Scottish battalions attacking with cool cheeriness, the men even finding time to joke with each other as they threw bombs and piled their bayonets; the last impression of many from the position they had been told to maintain at all costs. They had met the Guards!

"We wanted to chase them," said one of the Guardsmen told me how they watched this flight, "but we could not leave our trenches."

While they lay under fire throughout that night some of their number brought up food and water through the German barrage. And when they were relieved at dawn they marched back as steadily as they had advanced, thinned battalions and weary, but undaunted.

They were simply splendid. Nothing could stop them. This is the tribute of one of their officers.

Stories of Heroism.

I have been hearing some fine stories of heroism from other divisions as well. The attack against Guedecourt (after the taking of Fiers) required the same courage and endurance as the attack of the Guards. The battalions participating in this phase of the battle did many brave things.

Swinging round the top of Ghinchy the men of this force attacked and took a support trench, and then the "switch" trench which was part of the German third line of defense. Two companies were supposed to remain here while other troops went forward, but they could not resist the temptation to follow on, so they forged ahead, silencing machine guns and—as one of them reported afterwards—"doing odd jobs."

The final halting place of some of the battalions in this sector was at a point eastward from the north of Fiers, known to the army as "Bull's road." They pressed to this sunken road, although their right was completely exposed to the enemy machine gun fire, and came up to a German trench, where they captured ten German field guns and some machine guns.

An attack against Guedecourt was launched from Bull's road, but the men only got as far as the sunken road outside that village, being held up by the usual machine-gun fire. They came back to Bull's road, making a common front with the battalions remaining on that line, and so rested through Friday night, enduring a destructive fire from machine guns which swept their trenches from a point northwest of Les Boeufs.

In khaki, with the cunning and skill of their forefathers, as well as the subtle methods of hardy north-western pioneers, who consider him a kind of vermin, to be dealt with accordingly. There was nothing spectacular about the fighting before Courcellette so far as the Canadians were concerned. It was just plain, straightforward work, ably assisted by British gunners, and the more the Bavarians hung on to their crumbling third line the better their enemies liked it, for they knew the outcome.

There were prisoners taken—the Canadians gathered in about 1,200 all told from Courcellette and round about—but the enemy put up a good fight—doubtless in the usual mistaken belief that he would be killed anyway—and the morning and afternoon of Friday were wholly devoted to the exhausting work of "cleaning up" the ground before the village.

When the fresh attack began in the evening Courcellette was well filled with Bavarians—remnants of regiments that had fallen back from the trenches in front, and a few fresh units hastily sent forward to strengthen the position. The village itself offered comparatively little trouble—there were dug-outs in some cellars, and a few machine guns, but most of the fighting was done in the open until the cemetery and quarry at the north end were reached.

A French-Canadian battalion swept through the village from the eastern side, and in a brilliant bayonet attack gradually drove the enemy through the streets leading to the Miraumont road. Beyond the cover of the shattered cottages they opened a heavy machine-gun fire from the quarry. Here and in the cemetery the fragments of the garrison made a last stand. Crowded, and even the gaping graves yielded little groups of fugitives.

Twelve Hours' Battle.

By ten o'clock the village and the trenches westward towards Mouquet Farm were in British hands. After twelve hours of continuous, heavy fighting, the Canadians had pushed their line forward from one to two thousand yards, on a front of nearly three miles. Ten German officers, including a battalion commander, were captured in the sugar factory, and other officers were among the prisoners taken at the quarry and cemetery.

Since then the Canadians have dug a strong line of trenches, and the new position is secure against any counter-attack the Germans may attempt. Tear shells were dropping behind it today, but the Canadians do not mind. One officer said to me: "The Germans are crying a good deal more than we are."

The enemy attacked supreme importance to the possession of certain observation posts between Courcellette and Combles, and orders were given that these were to be held at all costs, since their loss would deprive the artillery of accurate observation beyond the edge of the village. This was just east of Martiniquich, at the side of the sunken road; the second about 500 yards east of the centre of High Wood; the third at the so-called Ghinchy Telegraph; the fourth beside the Les Boeufs—Ghinchy road on the outskirts of the former village; and the fifth of the eastern end of the road dividing Leuze Wood from Bouleaux Wood. All of them are now in British possession. Almost the last order sent from enemy headquarters to the infantry commanders in the trenches before they were cut off was a repetition of this injunction, and its observance accounts for the exceptionally severe fighting at the points mentioned.

HOT WATER THE BEST LIVER AND BOWEL MEDICINE

Says glass of hot water before breakfast washes poisons from system.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, claiming this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do. Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Just as soap and hot water cleanse and freshen the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the eliminative organs.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste or have a dull, aching head, salivary complexion, acid stomach; others who are subject to bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to demonstrate the value of inside bathing. Those who continue it each morning are insured of pronounced results, both in regard to health and appearance.

Doctor Tells How To Strengthen Eyesight 50 per cent In One Week's Time In Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa. Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weakness? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they were pain dreadfully; now they are fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who had had her eyes for months seemed had with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seemed clear. It can even read fine print without glasses. It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles are cured by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.
Note: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy, the instructions are very simple and the results are guaranteed by them. The manufacturer is to be commended for his gift to the world of this fine medicine. It can be obtained from any good drug store and is one of the best things almost every family." CARRIGAN AND FOSTER BID FAREWELL TO BASEBALL

"Through for All Time" Manager of Triumphant Red Sox Declares at Break-up Meeting—Foster also Announces His Retirement from the Game.

Boston, Oct. 13.—The Boston Americans today divided the winner's spoils of the world's series which they closed with a victory over the Brooklyn Nationals here yesterday. Under the apportionment decided upon by the players at a secret meeting full shares of $3,826.25 each were given 22 players, including several who had figured but little in the team's successes. The remainder of the $97,756.47 which the team won was given other substitutes and club employes. Heine Wagner and Veau Greg received three-quarters of a share each; Wyckoff and Penneck divided one share, and Wash, who came to the team only in the last month of the season, was allowed $1,000. The meeting of the players was marked by the farewell of Manager Wm. Carrigan to the team, which he had piloted to world honor in two successive years. He said he was "through with baseball for all time." President Lannin, in bidding the players God speed said he was still hoping Carrigan would return. Geo. Foster, former crack pitcher, who suffered from a lame arm this season, notwithstanding he pitched a no-hit game, also announced his retirement.

HIGH PRIZES FOR MOTOR RACE

Harkness Gold Trophy Event on Sheephead Bay Speedway Saturday, October 28

The interest displayed by the public in automobile racing has justified the management of the Sheephead Bay Speedway in staging the Harkness Gold Trophy race of 100 miles and the 50-mile special on Saturday, October 28, at the Speedway. Ten thousand dollars has been hung up by the giver of the trophy, Harry S. Harkness, as prize money, and $2,650 as bonuses. To add to the interest, and also to insure the greatest speed possible, Mr. Harkness has provided these bonuses for the winner of each lap. After the tenth mile, the car leading at the finish of each lap will receive a bonus—to be divided between the driver and mechanic, 70 per cent. and 30 per cent., respectively. When this plan was suggested to the drivers, of whom thirty of those entered in the Astor Cup race have signified their intention of driving in the race, it met with the heartiest approval. The bonuses for the leading cars at each of the miles, beginning with the tenth, will be as follows:

Eleven miles, $100 bonus; twelve miles, $50 bonus; fourteen miles, $50 bonus; sixteen miles, $50 bonus; eighteen miles, $50 bonus; twenty miles, $100 bonus; twenty-two miles, $50 bonus; twenty-four miles, $50 bonus; twenty-six miles, $50 bonus; twenty-eight miles, $50 bonus; thirty miles, $100 bonus; thirty-two miles, $50 bonus; thirty-four miles, $50 bonus; thirty-six miles, $50 bonus; thirty-eight miles, $50 bonus; forty miles, $100 bonus; forty-two miles, $50 bonus; forty-four miles, $50 bonus; forty-six miles, $50 bonus; forty-eight miles, $50 bonus; fifty miles, $250 bonus; fifty-two miles, $50 bonus; fifty-four miles, $50 bonus; fifty-six miles,

THE STURDY LEADERS OF NEW YORK'S BASEBALL TEAMS

"BILL" DONOVAN JOHN MCGRAW WILBERT ROBINSON

$50 bonus; fifty-eight miles, $50 bonus; sixty miles, $100 bonus; sixty-two miles, $50 bonus; sixty-four miles, $50 bonus; sixty-six miles, $50 bonus; sixty-eight miles, $50 bonus; seventy miles, $100 bonus; seventy-two miles, $50 bonus; seventy-four miles, $50 bonus; seventy-six miles, $50 bonus; seventy-eight miles, $50 bonus; eighty miles, $100 bonus; eighty-two miles, $50 bonus; eighty-four miles, $50 bonus; eighty-six miles, $50 bonus; eighty-eight miles, $50 bonus; ninety miles, $100 bonus.

The prize money in the Harkness Trophy race will be divided as follows: First, $4,000; second, $2,500; third, $1,500; fourth, $1,000; fifth, $600; sixth, $400. Immediately after the main event, the fifty-mile special for non-prize winners in the Harkness Trophy race will be run. Mr. Harkness has provided additional prizes amounting to $2,500 for this race. Only non-winners among the entrants in the Harkness Trophy race will be allowed to start.

The last day of October will be observed throughout Canada as "National Fish Day." The Canadian Fisheries Association has issued to the various fish dealers a leaflet which reads: "Eat more fish and save money twice a week. Tuesdays and Fridays twice a week. Tuesdays and Fridays should be fish days hereafter."

EXPERIENCE PLAYS A LEADING PART

An Experienced Entry in Winning Sport Supposed to Have the Jump, Says Grantland Rice.

Grantland Rice, writing for the Boston Globe, gives the following interesting articles on the world's championship battles:

Experience is supposed to play a leading part in winning sport. The experienced entry is always supposed to have the jump. It was mainly for this reason that Marquard and Coombs were figured as Brooklyn's leading world series hurlers. They had been over the lofty hurdles before, and therefore were supposed to know the proper way. Yet the vital statistics in the matter fall to carry this theory on to a logical conclusion.

Their First Starts. Matty pitched his first world series games in 1905. Bereft of all world series experience, he cashed in three shut-outs, setting a pitching record no one has ever equalled or approached.

Babe Adams entered his first world series experience in 1909. He finished with three victories out of three starts against one of the hardest hitting clubs the game has ever known. Jack Coombs bumped into his first world series experience in 1910. About all that Jack did as a starter was to peel off three victories against the Cubs, and in each game he was facing experienced moundmen.

So here we have three pitchers with no experience in world series warfare, and their net harvest was nine victories out of nine starts. This would indicate that experience in the "big post-season scramble" was not such a vital asset after all.

The World Series Lure. Despite the utterances of many cynics, there is more to a world's series for the ball player than his share of the kale.

The glamour and the excitement surrounding the main championship are not to be overlooked. "I'd like to get in another world's series and play for nothing," Charles Lincoln Herzog said, while discussing this phase of the affair. "I don't know of anything that is more fun, and I'd hate to think that I had played in my last one. You get a thrill there beyond anything you get in the season's play, for you always figure that every chance may mean the entire series."

"This is why some players do better than usual—and why some others don't do as well. There are a good many who can play better when they are under no strain. There are a good many others who might be inclined to take it easy in a 154-game stretch, but who, with only a seven-game test, would work at top speed every second."

Costly Plays. Back in 1912 Josh Devore made a running catch in the ninth inning that carried the series to eight games instead of five and that added thereby over $120,000 to the pay chest of the Giants and Red Sox. In the same way, Del Gainer made a lone base hit in the Monday affair that will cost the two clubs $36,000 each. No wonder the nervous system gets taut, when you figure that one play may mean a matter of from $75,000 to $100,000. Under such conditions it is small wonder that ever and anon the athlete is liable to crack apart.

TRIS SPEAKER SACRIFICES $2,000 TO KEEP HIS WORD.

Tris Speaker values his word at more than $2,000. Before the big league season closed Jean Dubuc arranged the Canadian tour for the Cleveland-Detroit combination and Speaker promised he would come along.

A week later a Boston newspaper offered Speaker $1,500 to act as a world's series reporter. He turned it down on account of his trip to Ottawa and Montreal. Last week he was offered $500 to play with a team in an exhibition game in Cleveland, but he refused.

He received an offer of $300 to play at New Haven, Conn., last Sunday, but there was nothing doing. Speaker's share of the trip to Canada amounted to a trifle less than $300. He tossed off $2,000 because he values his word ahead of dough.

of his disposition to go badly before the end of the allotted nine innings Meadows has secured just about an even break in the matter of games won and lost and in point of effectiveness outranks a number of other pitchers who are more highly regarded.

Highest Authority in America Selects RED BALL Ale and Porter

A short time ago, one of the highest officials in the United States Federal Government, was ordered by a physician to procure some porter for his wife, who had undergone a serious operation. He applied at once to the Government Analyst for reports on all brands of porter.

This officer, having in mind the purpose for which the inquiry was made, and with regard to tonic qualities and nutritive value, at once recommended "Red Ball Ale and Porter" manufactured by Simeon Jones Ltd., St. John.

This recommendation was followed by a series of orders from Washington, and subsequent correspondence went to show that this local product had given every satisfaction.

NEWS AND COMMENT FROM THE FINANCIAL WORLD

ANOTHER JUMP IN MAPLE LEAF COMMON

Went to 111 7-8 Bid, a New High Level, in Toronto Yesterday - Likely Stock Sober on Montreal Change.

Special to The Standard. Montreal, Oct. 13.—It is understood that the formalities connected with the listing of Maple Leaf Milling shares on the Montreal exchange are now well advanced and present prospects are that the announcement of the date on which the securities will first be called may be expected at any time now.

GIRLS AS BANK CLERKS.

The statement of Royal Bank officials to the Post that they now employ about 700 women in their various offices as compared to only 250 previous to the war, serves to draw attention to another phase of the powerful current of these, our times. Incidentally, the management state that taken as a whole these women are very satisfactory. They are largely young girls recruited from business colleges and the usual business channels, but of late a new element has crept into the supply. This is in reference to the fact that girls of well-to-do families who had not previously considered working are now beginning to fill the gap created by the absence of other bread winners or else simply in answer to the more insistent demand for their services. This is stated to be particularly true in the case of the Halifax branches.

The importance of this news lies in the fact that it is symptomatic of a condition. Other banks are pursuing the same policy. Women are generally employed in munition making in Canada. The Bertram plant at Dundas, Ont., and the Canada Cement plant in Montreal are illustrations of this fact. The available supply of such labor has in this country at a later date. Recruiting, munitions, a period of depression, followed by great prosperity, labor shortage in all their phases have been invariably reproduced here. And a similar result appears to be inevitable in the case of female labor. Britain has been forced to depend upon it to an unusual degree and the sooner that Canadian industry adjusts itself to the same prospect the easier the change will occur.

Financial Post.

NEWS SUMMARY.

(McDOUGALL & COWANS.) Montreal, Oct. 13.—Trading was dull today throughout both sessions, and fluctuations were erratic. The list was generally firm during the morning while during the later trading, weakness developed in the Steel stocks. Dominion Iron sold off to 82 and Steel of Canada to 82, and Scotia was fractionally weaker at 133 1/2. During the morning session Cement sold to 67, closing at 66-66 1/2. Canada Cottons was also better, advancing to 65 1/2. With the new shell orders of $60,000,000, as announced in yesterday's papers, our munition companies will be kept busy to capacity for some time to come. The new war loan was very firm, 98 1/2 being bid.

BELOW MILLION MARK FOR FIRST TIME IN WEEKS

Abrupt Decline in List on Rumors of Danger of Recurrence of Recent Submarine Raids.

New York, Oct. 13.—To many observers more significance attached to the diminishing dealings in today's stock market than to the course of prices. For the first full session since September 5th transactions failed to record a total of one million shares, although coming within halting distance of that figure.

As a matter of fact, almost one-third of the aggregate transactions of the 920,000 shares occurred in the last hour, altogether at the expense of quoted values, the general list and was less than particular declining somewhat abruptly on circumstantial rumors, suggesting danger of a recurrence of recent submarine warfare in nearby waters.

During the forenoon and in the intermediate period the list gave frequent indications of recovering from the apprehension manifested on Wednesday. Munitions and equipments, together with shipping shares, were then decidedly stronger, gains in these various groups extending from two to almost five points.

There was again much early activity at substantial gains in the utilities, notably Ohio Gas, Columbia Gas and Consolidated Gas, while Petroleum, Natural Biscuit and some of the cotton and leather issues scored irregular advances, most of which were dissipated at the close.

Developments over the holiday included the very favorable annual statement of the Great Northern Railway, the bulletin of the American Railway Association disclosing an increasing car shortage, and the report of the comptroller of the currency, showing National Bank deposits at highest levels in the country's history.

Bonds were irregular, total sales, par value, amounting to $4,725,000.

REVIEW OF THE NEW YORK MARKET

(McDOUGALL & COWANS.) New York, Oct. 13.—The market gave another exhibition in the late afternoon that public confidence has not yet been restored to a condition that will be reflected in a permanent advance in prices. The break in U. S. common to 108 1/2 and the general downward tendency in the entire market was a reflection of the uncertainty in the political situation as well as the German submarine situation. With election less than four weeks off the uncertainty of the political outcome is sure to have considerable influence on the market for the time being.

BRITISH WAR LOAN TAKES FRESH SPURT

On Promise of Chancellor to Issue New Loan Conveying Conversion Rights to Holders of the Old.

Special to The Standard. London, Oct. 13.—The fact that £20,621,000 in exchequer sixes were sold last week, exceeding all expectations of government officials, suffices to explain the depression in other investments when the fact is taken into consideration that the new French loan is also absorbing investment money.

There has been heavy selling of other securities in order to invest in the attractive French loan and the still more adventurous exchequer sixes. But in spite of this the war loan jumped on the promise of Chancellor McKenna, though it was somewhat indefinite, to issue a new loan conveying conversion rights to the holders of the old loan on the first suitable opportunity.

Special to The Standard. Montreal, Oct. 13.—The financial statement presented to the shareholders of the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Ltd., covering the period ending August 31, last, was a decidedly creditable one, showing earnings at the rate of 2 1/4 p. c. on the common stock.

A year ago, it will be remembered, two sets of profits were shown, one under the heading "From Flour Account" and the other "Other Sources." The total under the latter head showing a balance of $1,379,594, or 55 p. c. available for common dividends.

WATCHING WALL ST. MORE CLOSELY THAN EVER

Montreal Street Likely to be Less Active Until Presidential Election Has Been Settled.

Special to The Standard. Montreal, Oct. 13.—The Star says: With the American presidential election only three weeks removed now, the general tendency in the street is to scrutinize the action of Wall Street more closely than ever.

There may be a widespread disposition to hold back trading operations until the course there is clearer, so that it would be no surprise if the local market did not resume operations on anything like a broad scale for the immediate present, although fundamental conditions are considered satisfactory.

STOCKHOLDERS WILL LIKELY GIVE CONSENT

Quebec Bank Shareholders to Meet Next Week to Deal with Proposal for Sale to Royal Bank.

Special to The Standard. Montreal, Oct. 13.—A special meeting of the shareholders of the Quebec Bank has been called for Tuesday, Nov. 25, at the head office in Quebec, to pass upon the proposal to sell the assets of the institution to the Royal Bank and effect an exchange of shares, as reported yesterday.

In view of the strong attitude of the board in favor of the acceptance of the offer it is considered probable that no serious objection will arise. The lower return which the shareholders will receive under the plan will be somewhat mitigated by the knowledge of the Quebec board that the present rate of 7 p. c. to the shareholders could not be maintained very long in the face of existing conditions.

The recent market price of Quebec Bank shares has been 106 bid, but the arrangement indicates that the plan will not net actually more than 95.66 on the actual market value of 212 for Royal Bank shares. Taking the basis of 225 for Royal stock, at which fractional shares will be paid for in the exchange, the value to Quebec shareholders would be an even $100.

BOURASSA AND QUEBEC.

Liberal newspapers which know better are attempting to deceive their readers when they publish statements that Henri Bourassa, the Quebec Nationalist, holds a higher opinion of Sir Wilfrid Laurier than does Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and point to his denunciation of the Liberal leader as proof of this. They are also absurd when they claim that the Dominion Government should deal with his case and punish him for his seditious utterances both from the platform and through his newspaper. Let us suppose, for instance, that Bourassa took the life of one of his neighbors. In that case the legal machinery of his province would take care of him. It would not be a Dominion matter although he would be prosecuted under a Dominion law. Suppose he came to St. John and from the bandstand in King Square gave utterance to the sentiments he is now expressing in Quebec. It would be but a brief time before one of Chief Simpson's men would have him in charge and he would be arraigned in the police court like any other common brawler. There was a case in St. John not long ago where a misguided and excited individual was arraigned for sedition and was prosecuted by the province. The same precedent should apply in Quebec and if Bourassa had been guilty of sedition it is up to Sir Lomer Gouin's attorney-general to look after him. Why attempt to foist the job on the Dominion Government? Is it because the members of the Quebec government and Bourassa are too friendly?

It is unwise to take the Nationalist leader too seriously. It is a manifest absurdity to say that he—and he alone—is responsible for the situation in the province of Quebec. Despite the Bourassa ravings, Sir Wilfrid Laurier is still the dominant political force in that province as he was for many years before the war. It is sheer nonsense to claim that what Bourassa has said since the war is wholly responsible for Quebec's failure to respond to the call. The crop there is the result of seed planted long before the war, at times such as those when Sir Wilfrid deemed it good politics to sneer at the "High-brows of Downing street," and when Liberal representatives from that province rallied against the idea of Canada contributing to the British navy. The seed may have been dormant to have been aroused by Bourassa's eloquence or his pen, but no such prolific crop as has ripened could have been produced had the soil and the atmosphere not been congenial. Henri Bourassa should not be invested with the dignity of a state prisoner to be worshipped by his followers as a martyr. He is merely a common brawler and should be dealt with by one of the police magistrates of his own province. Or, if the provincial authorities deem him a menace to the harmony and dignity of Quebec they can very easily take measures to suppress him. The Liberal newspapers that attempt to magnify the Bourassa influence merely hope by that artifice to distract attention from the fact that Laurier and his lieutenants long preached the doctrine of Quebec first, Canada next—if necessary,—and the remainder of the Empire not at all.

IN THE BALKANS.

The report, a few days ago, of the retirement of the Roumanians from Transylvania came as a distinct surprise to the world at large, for it was the general opinion that the Roumanian army was sufficiently strong to make a steady advance in that area. It has yet to be explained whether the Teuton forces were so powerful that they could not have been met successfully, if it had been the Roumanian purpose to do so. War is a peculiar game, in which retirement by no means spells defeat and it may very well be that the Roumanians in conjunction with their Allies have other plans which can only be served by weakening their forces in Transylvania. Developments in Dobruja Province, and north from Saloniki indicate that the Allies have selected that as the field offering the greatest possibilities for successful operation in the East. The Russians in force are already entering Dobruja Province, while in Southern Serbia and Southwestern Bulgaria, the British, French and Serbs are commencing to make their presence felt. It is quite probable that the Roumanian advance in Transylvania was merely an invitation to the Teutons to concentrate there while the Allies placed their troops in position to squeeze Bulgaria. It is not impossible that those in charge of the conduct of Allied operations believe that the time has arrived to eliminate Bulgaria from the struggle and will concentrate efforts to that end, at the same time cutting the Berlin-Constantinople line. The strategic advantage of such a feat has recently attracted more than a little attention from war reviewers.

The Roumanians can well afford to leave Transylvania to be reconquered at another opportunity. Meanwhile there is little doubt that their retirement from that area did not commence until after their purpose had been fulfilled, for the remnants of our most recent ally have not suffered reverses sufficiently serious to cause them to abandon territory that it was deemed necessary to retain.

SIR WILFRID'S RECORD.

Ontario Liberal newspapers have been devoting more than a little attention to the possibility of a general election and profess to believe that in such an event it would be quite possible to turn against the Government a sufficient number of dissatisfied Conservatives and independent voters to bring the party of Sir Wilfrid Laurier again into power. Such newspapers contend that the official record of Sir Robert Borden's administration will be the main issue before the people and that the misdeeds of the Liberals, when in power, will receive no consideration. The admission is at once made that the record of the Borden Government will be the question on which the Conservative party will be willing to accept the judgment of the people when the call next comes and it is a record that should appeal to every patriotic Canadian. At the same time it is well for those optimistic followers of Laurier to remember that the record of the Liberal party, both in power and in opposition, will also be up for review. Of course the paramount issue will be the conduct of the war, and on this the Government has absolutely nothing to fear even though Sir Robert Borden and his party have passed through the most trying period in Canada's history and have for the past two years been confronted by conditions that never before existed.

The war is going forward to a successful conclusion and Canada is nobly holding up her share of the burden. The success of General Sir Sam Hughes in raising and equipping an army of 370,000 men in two years, in a country where militarism was a negligible quality, has excited the admiration even of the authorities in the motherland, and it is on that success the administration of the Canadian militia department will be judged. The record of the Borden Government is an open book, no page of which contains a discreditable entry. The people have never missed an opportunity to express their confidence in the administration and its ability to steer the nation safely through the troubled times. This has been abundantly proven by the ready response given to the Government's appeal for war loans, the most tangible sort of expression of confidence and the next election will simply be a confirmation of a verdict already reached.

But, as the Peterboro Review says: "Sir Wilfrid and his followers, too, have been prejudiced and condemned. Their attempt to extend the school system of Quebec will never be forgotten. Their lack of enthusiasm in supporting war measures when they did not oppose them outright is a standing reproach to their loyalty. Their bitter and misguided attempt to fasten a scandal upon the Militia Department and to 'get' the Minister who presides over it is a blot upon the parliamentary annals of Canada. The partisan mania of one of the prominent members of the opposition, who, in his quest for evidence in New York to bolster up those charges, imparted state secrets to a representative of the Germans, the Attorney for the American friends of the monster of Europe, surpasses everything in the history of the nation, black as some of the pages may be." Little wonder that Sir Wilfrid Laurier with his "uplift" dreams and his policy, constructed largely of stolen timber, should attempt to draw a red herring across the trail. The attempt, however, will not succeed. The Borden Government and the Conservative party stand prepared to be judged by their acts, and they will see to it that the party of Laurier shall similarly meet the people. The Liberals shall always be known by their deeds and misdeeds—and judged accordingly.

A FINE EXAMPLE.

One of the first of the city clergymen to resign his pulpit and don the King's uniform in order that he might labor among the boys who were fighting for British traditions on the battlefields of Europe was Rev. G. A. Kuhring of St. John's (Stone) church. Since that time he has worked zealously and well to brighten the lot of the lads overseas and has won the love and esteem of all to whom he ministered.

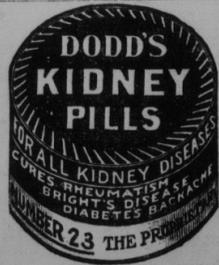

The resignation of Mr. Kuhring from his church work made it necessary to secure a shepherd for St. John's flock and the choice fell upon Rev. Victor Jarvis, of Toronto, a young man eminently well fitted for the duties which came to him. His term in the charge of St. John's has been pronouncedly successful.

It was with a sense of deep loss therefore that the vestry, at a meeting last evening, received his resignation and with it the information that he, too, had determined to enter the army of the Empire and do his part in the struggle in which we are now engaged. It is known that Rev. Mr. Jarvis' decision is not of recent origin, but that circumstances over which he had no control prevented him from sooner donning the khaki.

St. John's (Stone) church thus has given two rectors, as well as scores of its finest young men, the flower of our citizenship, to the cause of Empire. It is a record of which any church might well feel proud. Rev. Mr. Jarvis' fine example should act as a stimulus to other young men in this city for whom the call is just as insistent and who have less, much less, to keep them in private life. He has shown the spirit of true Christianity, the Christianity that does not shrink from the duty of taking up arms in the cause of justice and right—in this case the cause of Britain and her gallant allies.

WILLING TO PAY FOR BETTER STREETS

Council of Board of Trade Decide there Should be Improvement at Once—Willing for Bond Issue to Meet Cost.

At a meeting of the Council of the Board of Trade, yesterday morning, several matters of general interest were discussed. Among the after-ward problems taken up was the question of good streets and it was the unanimous opinion of those present that St. John was to take her right place in the march of progress it was necessary to get busy and build decent streets, and they expressed themselves as being favorably to a sufficient bond issue to do the work properly.

They also passed the following resolution in regard to the carrying of Imperial trade through Canadian ports:

Resolved, that the situation that has arisen in consequence of enemy submarine attacks upon peaceful-merchant ships sailing out of United States ports, and of the attitude assumed by the United States government towards these enemy seacraft, demands that instant action should be taken to secure the carrying of commerce designed for Great Britain and her Allies through the ports of Canada, where it can be assured the protection of the British and Allied navy without the danger of international complications arising.

And further resolved, that this council urges upon the government of Canada, in co-operation with the home government, the importance of hastening the development of the open ports of the Maritime Provinces, so as to care for this commerce in summer and winter; and it also calls upon Canadian shippers to route their shipments through Canadian ports, thus assuring them necessary sea protection and at the same time strengthening and up-building Canadian ports and railways, towards the development of which vast sums of the public moneys of Canada have already been expended.

And further resolved, that the Board of Trade of Canada be asked to co-operate in this movement, and that our representatives in parliament be requested to urge the matter upon the attention of the government so as to secure immediate action.

MARRIAGES.

Stevens-Long.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Walker, 2600 Chippewa street, New Orleans, on Oct. 9th, Miss Elizabeth Viola Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Long, Lancaster Avenue, was united in marriage to Frank L. Stevens, of West St. John. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a travelling suit of grey, and carried a bouquet of American beauty roses. The young couple were attended by Capt. McPherson, of the S. S. Amelia, of which the groom is first officer, and Mrs. Walker. After the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens will spend their honeymoon in the south. The captain and members of the ship presented the bride with handsome leather purse, silver mounted, and inside a substantial gift of money. The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, who are popular on the West Side, will unite in wishing them every happiness in their future life.

"Although I Had Little Faith in Them"

That is the feeling of hundreds who have been helped by Gin Pills. They admit that at first they were skeptical, but after a few days they found that the pills were doing them good. The line above, for instance, is from a letter of Mr. E. P. Herbert, Westville, recommending Gin Pills.

Gin Pills FOR THE KIDNEYS

So says, in part, "I suffered from kidney trouble for several years. I have tried numerous remedies and used medical prescriptions without having personal relief, my case being chronic. I decided to try Gin Pills although I had but little faith in them. The first dose gave me relief. Since I have taken a few boxes of these pills and I find myself completely cured."

If you have lame back, swollen joints, constant headaches, urinary troubles, stone, gravel, rheumatism, remember Mr. Herbert's experience and try Gin Pills.

CONVENTION OF MARITIME BAPTISTS WILL OPEN TODAY

Ministers Institute Met Yesterday with 100 Delegates in Attendance—Important Business Transacted.

The 71st annual convention of the Maritime United Baptists will begin today in the German street church and continue until Wednesday. Yesterday the ministers' institute was held with about one hundred delegates in attendance. The first session was held at 10 o'clock in the morning, the president, Rev. L. H. Cranford, in the chair. After the opening exercises had been concluded the following were appointed as a nominating committee: Revs. F. H. Beals, J. H. Jenner, Milton Addison, J. S. McPadden and M. L. Gress.

The report of the treasurer showed a balance of $9.26 on hand. The first paper was read by Rev. M. B. Puryear, pastor of the Cornwallis street church, Halifax, on "The Place of the Holy Spirit in this Dispensation." The Holy Spirit was an integral part of the church and His guidance should always be sought in all the activities of the church, especially in connection with work for the young. The speaker also stressed the work of the Holy Spirit in the life of the individual, and that it was only through the Spirit that they could be rightly interpreted. Faith in God meant that the soul was bound to God by a sense of dependence on Him and this faculty of faith was made possible and quickened through the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit in this era was just God seeking to express Himself through His church and was a real vital fact precious to every devout soul.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Puryear for his excellent paper was moved by Rev. D. W. Cranford and seconded by Rev. D. J. MacPherson.

Dr. A. K. DeBlasio discussed briefly the paper of Mr. Puryear and voiced the hope that there might be a growth in the plant from God's seed during the convention.

A very interesting figure at the convention was Deacon Charles E. Sanford, of Berwick, N. S., who is 88 years of age and has attended practically every convention. At the afternoon session the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Rev. D. J. MacPherson, St. John; 1st vice, Rev. N. A. Harkness, Wolfville, N. S.; 2nd vice, Rev. C. R. Freeman, Charlottetown; 3rd vice, Rev. O. N. Chipman, Hampton, N. B.; secretary-treasurer, Rev. H. F. Wentworth, St. John.

A paper on "Philosophy and the Christian Ministry" was given by Prof. Simon Spilde, Ph. D., of Acadia. He said that the work of the Christian ministry was revelatory in its character. Jesus had come as the revealer of God's ambassador sent forth to preach the revelatory gospel. Christ had used various agencies in revealing God, the principal of which had of course been His personality. He said: "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father." But while this was true He was also the universe bore testimony to and revealed God. Philosophy was the science of the universe and included within its scope a study of the ultimate realities of the universe, together with men's knowledge of those realities. Religion was the mother of philosophy. One of the greatest dangers attending the preacher's office was the tendency to intolerance and the study of philosophy was admirably adapted to offset this danger.

A good constructive course of philosophical reading for the preacher was the following: Hibben, "The Problems of Philosophy"; Thilly, "A History of Philosophy"; Hermann, "Eucken and Bergson"; Bowen, "Personalism"; and Perry, "Present Tendencies in Philosophy."

The evening session was held at eight o'clock, and after the devotional exercises the new president, Rev. D. J. MacPherson, called on Rev. H. W. Pierce, who delivered Van Dyke's parable, "The Lost Word," which is a parable of a man of olden time who under the preaching of John of Antioch had embraced the religion of the Christ, but becoming dissatisfied had gone back to the old pagan faith, but who was eventually brought into the field again through the illness of his only son. The speaker of the evening was Dr. A. K. DeBlasio, pastor of the First Baptist church, Boston, who will conduct the devotional exercises of the convention. He had as his subject "The Worth of the Person in the Work of the Ministry." He said: "Personality was what the man was himself and the highest development of the inner life. Personality also included self-impartation, we were not persons in the true sense of the word unless we could impart personality to others. A man must realize himself fully and then must give himself fully to be a true personality."

There could not be any true self-realization except through spiritual connection with Jesus Christ, and through Him with God. In finding God the soul found itself in the truest and best sense of the word.

As preachers how could this personality best be developed? One way of doing this was by meditation and careful study along some chosen line of thought which would enrich the life. To grow a soul was the biggest work in the universe. To this end he would advise the reading of only the best books and the listening to the best music. He did not believe that it paid any preacher to play to the gallery for he could not get any real lasting results in that way. It was much better to be a minister to his congregation than to be a silver-tongued orator.

It was the business of the minister of the Christian church to form and

TOWN PLANNING EXPERT EXPLAINS WEEK'S WORK

A meeting of the Town Planning Commission was held yesterday afternoon in the Board of Trade rooms at which Mr. Adams explained the work done during the week in connection with drafting the proposed plan. The area that had received the most attention was Lancaster, and the north and west of the city. Lines of the existing main arterial roads and the proposed new main arterial roads had been studied on the ground.

Consideration had been given to the question of setting aside certain areas to be restricted for residential purposes only. Any suggestions which had come before the commission would be submitted to the owners of the land involved and any objection they might make would be carefully considered before the scheme was submitted to the provincial government for approval. Mr. Adams said he hoped to be able to return to the city next week to resume the survey.

ROTHESAY

Rothsay, Oct. 12.—Afternoon tea was served as usual on Tuesday, at the Red Cross meeting, hostesses being Mrs. D. A. Pugsley and Misses Gilbert. A contribution of $85.20 was received from Fair Vale, being the amount of collections taken during the past summer, at the weekly meeting of Red Cross workers, also from Fair Vale, was handed in $24, result of a patriotic drawing for a handsome flat crocheted tea cosy, nicely made up, made and donated by Mrs. A. L. McColgan of Cambridge, Mass., and won by Mrs. C. L. Wilson of Roxbury, Mass. Representing Fair Vale at Tuesday's meeting were Misses Campbell, Miss Grace Campbell, and Miss Ada Emery, who brought the request that of the $59.20 fifty should go for a "bed" in the Princess Patricia Canadian Red Cross Hospital at Ramsgate, England, and the remainder to the fund, being raised for the British Red Cross society.

At the home of her aunt, Miss Hendricks, College Hill, on Thursday afternoon last, Mrs. H. Y. Haines received for the first time since her marriage. Very beautiful autumn leaves decorated the rooms and hall. Mrs. Haines looked very dainty in her wedding dress of white silk, trimmed with lace, and pearl edging, a large bunch of roses was worn at the girdle. Little Miss Millie Hibbard opened the door for the visitors, who were received in the parlor by Mrs. Haines, and Miss Hendricks. In the dining room, the very prettily arranged table was presided over by Mrs. Hibbard and Mrs. Daniel, assisted by Miss Jean Daniel, Miss Lillie West, and Miss Miriam Knowlton, who served. The weather was perfect, and the number of callers, large.

The many friends of Mr. W. C. Rothwell are glad to see him out again after having been several weeks confined to his room.

Monday being Thanksgiving day, with its various holiday plans, there was no meeting of the Reading Club. Next Monday evening Miss Pitches will be the leader. Carlisle's "Hero Worship" has been chosen for class study.

This week, Miss Agnes MacKeen is leaving for Toronto, much to the regret of hosts of friends. Miss MacKeen intends taking up work in a children's home.

On Tuesday Mrs. John M. Robinson left for Fredericton, there to meet her husband, who has been away on a week's trip, and with him returns home by automobile.

Mrs. Rupert Turnbull has gone to St. John to spend the winter, having apartments at the Prince William.

Masters David, Donald and Hugh Turnbull are at Rothsay College.

Mrs. and Miss Brock are with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brock and their two sons.

For a few days last week, Miss Miriam Knowlton of St. John, was at Riverdale, guest of the Misses McArthur.

Members of Rothsay branch Women's Auxiliary are to meet at the home of the hostess, Mrs. A. W. Daniel, on next Monday afternoon and plan for the winter's work. No meetings have been held during the summer.

Mrs. Allan O. Crookshank, who spent a week here, visiting Mrs. John H. Thomson at "Birchwood," and Miss Mabel Thomson at Rothsay, went to St. John, on Saturday morning, leaving that afternoon with her son, Mr. A. R. Crookshank in their automobile, to spend Sunday and Monday in Fredericton. Mrs. Ralph Fowler was their guest on the trip. Mr. and Mrs. Fowler are still at their summer cottage, Gondola Point, but go to New York for the winter, accompanied by Miss Emily Fowler.

Mr. H. J. Anderson returned to Renfrew on Saturday from Everett, Mass., where he spent a few days. He was accompanied home by Mrs. Anderson, who has been visiting relatives and receiving medical treatment with splendid results. Her friends are glad to have her so well again.

Recent letters from Lieut. Harry Barker, received here by his sister, Mrs. Fred Foster, are from the front. Lieut. Barker has been but a short time overseas.

As guest of Mrs. L. R. Morton and Miss Norton, a short visit was paid to Renfrew by Mrs. C. H. Thomas of Fredericton, who on Wednesday last was returning home from Prince Edward Island.

On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Magee and Misses Magee came from St. John, remaining till Monday evening at their summer home here. Captain Magee was their guest over the weekend.

Mrs. William McKeen and two daughters left last Saturday to spend a month in Halifax. Mr. and Mrs. McKeen and family occupied Mrs. Brook's house during the summer and for a week or two have been at the Kennedy House. They have taken Judge Forbes residence, Wellington Row, St. John, for the winter.

Last week Miss Gannon left for Toronto and will visit Montreal friends before returning home next week.

On Thanksgiving day, Mrs. R. S. and Miss Una Lusher of Bermuda, and Miss Mrs. Lusher of Bermuda, were guests of Mrs. Charles Lordley at Riverdale. Her niece, Miss Audrey Ross of St. John, spent the weekend at Riverdale.

A happy day was spent on Saturday by Edgar Pritchard and Alexia Rogers, of St. John, who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fleming, Riverdale. Miss Mary Eason and Miss R. Eason of St. John, were on Monday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lehrle, remaining over night, and Tuesday, guests of Mrs. J. H. Henderson.

Among those remaining late at suburban homes were Mr. and Mrs. Forrester Briggscomb, Mr. and Mrs. Will Clark who returned to St. John from Renfrew this week. Mr. and Mrs. Branscomb have rooms with Mrs. Prince, King Square for the winter.

Today, (Thursday), Misses Edith and Mabel Gilbert are leaving to visit friends in Boston.

Also today, Captain and Mrs. L. P. D. Tilley and family are closing their cottage and returning to their city residence, St. John.

For the weekend Miss Dorothy Cortner of Annapolis, who is attending Netherwood, was guest of Mr. and Mrs. George McArthur and daughters at Riverdale.

Having come from Fredericton to spend Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Mr. Elmer has returned to his studies at the U. N. B.

For a few weeks' trip to friends at Granville, N. S., Mrs. I. L. Longley left this week accompanied by Miss Alice Longley of St. John.

On Monday, Mrs. J. S. Gibbon and daughter, Miss Greta returned from Jemseg, where they have been guests of Mrs. Archibald Purdy.

On Tuesday afternoon the Women's Missionary Society of the Upper Sackville Methodist church, held their regular monthly meeting in the vestry of the church. A programme had been prepared for the occasion, which proved most interesting and instructive.

Mrs. John Humphries of Sussex, superintendent of the bands and circles of the society, was present and gave a most inspiring address on the "Uses and Abuses of Mite Boxes." Mrs. Bedford Harper gave a very interesting and comprehensive talk on the history of missions. Mrs. Ernest Baines of Sackville, delighted the audience with two very beautiful songs. At the close of the service, afternoon tea was served by the ladies to the members and friends of the society.

Miss Muriel Taylor spent Thanksgiving in Moncton, guest of relatives. Lieut. Col. Mersereau of Aldershot, is spending a few days in town, with Mrs. Mersereau, who is with her mother, Mrs. Weldon.

The Lord Sackville Chapter, I.O.D.E. has had the pleasure of entertaining the Provincial Chapter of New Brunswick this week. Mrs. Vanwart, the regent; Mrs. Scott, the assist. sec., from Fredericton; Mrs. Hugh Mackay, regent of the Loyalist Chapter; and Mrs. George Blizard, councillor of the Provincial Chapter; Mrs. Arthur Adams, regent; and Mrs. F. E. Sayer, lat. vice-regent of the DesMonts Chapter; Mrs. C. B. Allan, lat. vice-regent and Mrs. T. E. G. Armstrong, 2nd vice-regent of the Royal Standard; Miss Rosamond McAvity, regent and Miss Marion Moore, lat. vice-regent of the Valcour Chapter, St. John, came on Tuesday's C. F. R. and were met at the station by members of the Chapter.

Tuesday evening Mrs. C. W. Fawcett was "at home" to the visitors and the members of the local chapter. This was a delightful function, Mrs. Fawcett, as usual being a charming hostess in her beautiful home. Miss Kathleen Smith, Miss Dorothy Higgins and Miss Kathleen March, added much to the enjoyment of the evening by their musical numbers. Mrs. Fawcett was assisted by Mrs. H. E. Fawcett, Mrs. Fritz Read, Miss Lou Ford, Miss Kathleen Fawcett, Miss Kathleen Mackenzie, Miss Edith Huxton, Miss Marie DesBarres and Miss Gretchen Allison.

Wednesday morning the quarterly meeting of the Provincial Chapter was held in the drawing-room of the Male Academy. It was timed for ten o'clock, but was somewhat delayed, waiting for the members from Moncton, Mrs. Chandler, regent of the Fort Cumberland and Mrs. Purdy, secretary, and Mrs. Pipes, regent of the Lord Dorchester Chapter from Dorchester. Mrs. Vanwart presided and the meeting opened with the salutation of the flag and the singing of "God Save the King." After the usual formalities of opening, Miss Dorothy Higgins again gave pleasure to the members by a piano solo.

Mrs. C. J. Mersereau read in an altogether too short a paper on what she saw and heard in her visit to England and France. To all present it must have proved most interesting, for she told of Col. Shillington's Hospital at La Touquet to which most of the chapters have contributed. She also spoke of wonderful work of Miss Plummer and Miss Arnold of the Canadian Field Comforts in which Lord Sackville Chapter is particularly interested. Then the Red Cross steamer taking the wounded from France to Dover. It was a word picture. On motion it was decided that a copy of Mrs. Mersereau's paper be sent to the various chapters. Mrs. Pipes told of her son's stay at the Maple Leaf Club in London, which is particularly the daughters of the Empire work. The work of each chapter represented was spoken of; to mention only one, Mrs. Blizard spoke of the Loyalist Chapter, who were really in active service, Mrs. Malcolm McAvity, (Miss Frances Hazen), who assisted by several Canadian women is running a tea room "The Drop Inn," at Folkestone, for patriotic purposes, has received from the War Office a badge for voluntary work. Miss Edith Hegan who is nursing at Petrograd and two of the first V. A. Ds. from Canada, Miss Jeannette Mersereau and Miss Marion Magee. This meeting was most successful, not in the actual business done, but in the bringing closer together the members from the different parts of the province, and in the benefit attained from learning what the other chapters are doing. At two o'clock, the members provided by A. B. Gopp, M. P., Mr. C. W. Fawcett, Mr. Fred Ford, Dr. Borden, Mr. Fred Fisher, Mr. Robert Duncan and Miss Greta Ogden, were at the Daughters of the Empire Room, to take the visitors to Fort Beauséjour, which was a very pleasant drive, afterwards the ladies were entertained at tea at the I.O.D.E. rooms, leaving on the 3.50 train for their homes.

$1000 in Prizes

WE want your opinion of the New Edison, the instrument which the New York Globe calls "the phonograph with a soul."

Thomas A. Edison has spent over $2,000,000 in research work in acoustics and chemistry to produce this wonderful new instrument.

The music critics of more than two hundred of America's leading newspapers have heard this instrument in direct comparison with living singers and instrumentalists, and admit that their trained ears are unable to distinguish the original music from Edison's Re-Creation of it by means of this wonderful new invention.

MR. EDISON wants your opinion

He has the opinions of the music critics, but he made the New Edison for the American home, and he wants your opinion. Accordingly the Edison Company has arranged a prize contest for the best opinions about the New Edison written by people who hear it in their homes.

- $500 is to be paid for the best opinion.
- $200 for the second.
- $100 for the third.

In addition, there is a Consolation Contest in which the prizes aggregate $200. Opinions which do not win prizes, but which nevertheless are considered suitable for publication, will be purchased at 10 cents per word. No opinion should exceed 200 words.

We make it possible for you to compete for a prize even though you do not own one of these wonderful new instruments

We have set aside a number of specially tested New Edisons. These instruments will be placed in homes in this city on three days' absolutely free trial. During this trial you and your family can listen to Mr. Edison's new invention and form an opinion of it, just as well as if you owned the instrument.

There is absolutely no obligation to buy. There is no obligation except that you take good care of the beautiful instrument and the wonderful Re-Creations of music which will be sent with it.

Next week is Edison Week, and this offer is limited strictly to Edison Week.

Come to Our Store Monday Morning and enter the Edison Week Free Trial Prize Contest before it is too late. Remember that the number of instruments available for these free trials is limited, and it will necessarily have to be a case of first come, first served.

Professional Writers Barred from the Contest. Professional writers and members of the phonograph trade are barred from this prize contest. Mr. Edison does not want finely written opinions. He wants opinions that come right from the heart and that are couched in unadorned language. An opinion may be misspelled and grammatical, and still win a prize. Literary embellishments are not desired. The conditions of the contest are perfectly simple. They can be explained to you in a minute if you will call at our store.

Something To Write About.

Did you ever write a short story? Here is your chance. Look at this picture. How many different things can you count? How many are vegetables? How many are minerals? How many are animals? Write a little story describing all these things and tell why you think the kid is on the roof—why the mail is on the fence—why the hole in the barn is made black etc.

Yes write again. Helen Foshey, 45 Marsh Road—Pleased you got Gordon to join, I shall look for the letter.

Anna Griffin, 72 Exmouth Street—That is right, Anna, and write me whenever you like, or call to see me. Amy Nicholson, Andover—You sent in a very neatly colored picture, Amy and deserve the certificate awarded.

Marjorie Linden, Newcastle—Many thanks for your letter Marjorie. Your writing is splendid.

My Dear Kiddies:—In last week's letter, I mentioned that I was going to have something special to tell you in this chat, and you would also notice the particulars given on the page about the little Kiddle-Kar.

Thomas Williams, 212 Princess St.—I liked your attempt in the contest Thomas, and shall watch for your work in future.

Now this King and Queen were very good and kind to their people, who loved them very much, and so the fairies, seeing how good the King and Queen were, came to the Palace one night when everyone was asleep, and what do you think they brought? Why a dear little baby girl, with a face like a white flower and eyes like the violets which grew in the woods.

Dorothy Stewart, 25 St. James St.—You tried hard in the contest Dorothy, but got some of the colors too heavy.

Now it was the custom to invite all the fairies to the christening party of a new little Princess so that they might bring her gifts, and you know that a lovely little Princess had come to the palace at last.

Nora Coleman, 240 Duke St.—Wall done Nau, you deserve the place given in prize list.

So the fairies entered the Queen's room, and laying the little Princess down, they vanished just as the dawn broke in the sky.

Myrtle Mallory, Perth—Glad to have interesting letter Myrtle, hope to have word from Quebec. Yes, call. Don't use colors so thick.

Norman Britain, Walsford—You mixed your colors much too thick, Norman.

Paul Giberson, Bath—Pleased you have at last written to me. Write again soon.

Marjorie Ellison, 18 Paradise Row—Try to use the colors more thinly next time, Marjorie.

Ella McMillin, 74 St. James St.—You tried hard, but don't let the colors run over the edges next time. Ella you will then have a better chance.

Well, quite early on the birthday morning, a handsome Prince clad in rich green and gold robes, came and knelt before the throne where the Princess Chrystal was sitting, and when he saw how lovely she was he felt he must have her for his bride.

Lands and Mines Dept., Fredericton—A splendid colored picture was received with this on the envelope, but no name was given. Will the sender please let me know the name.

"My name is Hope, sweet Princess," he said impressively, "and I herewith command that you be my bride, and I shall be your King."

Marion Innis, Norton—When using the chalks Marion, keep them more sharpened, and don't use so heavily. Write soon.

"Why was I not asked to the christening party," she inquired harshly of the King. "Were you afraid I had no gift to bring for the Princess Chrystal?"

Willie Brock, Cumberland Bay—The part of the picture you colored was well done, but why didn't you do it all?

"Oh, no, no!" the poor King answered quickly. "Indeed I thought we had sent invitations to all the fairies, we must have forgotten all about you."

Winnie Brock, Cumberland Bay—The above applies to you also Winnie.

"Now this reply made the fairy still more angry. 'Oh, you forgot me, did you?' she exclaimed, setting her teeth on edge. 'Well it will be the last time you will do that for me. I have brought a gift for your little Princess, which you will always remember me by.'

Margaret Hayes, Mt. Pleasant Ave.—A big welcome Margaret, and thanks for letter. Yes, Greta is a member. Call and see me.

Then she bent over the little Princess, and said in a low, hissing voice, 'Princess Chrystal, you have beauty, riches, rank, goodness, and last, but not least, a warm loving heart. This last gift I will take from you and give you instead a heart of ice so that, beautiful though you are, you will never be able to feel joy, hope, or happiness as long as you live.'

Violet Green, Fairville—Glad to have your letter, Violet, also that you have joined the Corner.

And, raising her wand, the fairy touched the baby princess with it over her heart, and instantly Chrystal stiffened out as though she were dying, while her lovely violet eyes closed and her little face grew white and icy.

Carl Rigby, Hartland—Thanks for your welcome letter, Carl. Your father will be in England now, eh?

Then the poor King and Queen went on their knees to the good Fairy Queen, and begged her to remove the curse. But Queen Thania shook her head. 'I cannot do that,' she said, sorrowfully, 'but if, when the Princess Chrystal is seventeen years old, Marion E. Dykeman, Upper Jemseg—I like the way you paint, but don't make the sky quite so blue. You are a clever little girl Marion.

Princess Chrystal was happy enough for you see she could feel no pain because her heart was made of ice. Neither could she feel pity, and because of this she had to be watched constantly for fear she should do something cruel. Not that she knew she was cruel, but because of the curse that was put upon her by the wicked fairy, she had no feelings at all.

German Crowley, 225 Brussels St.—Very sorry I was out at the time, seeing about the hall for the Allies Aid tea. Call on Monday after school.

Sometimes she would wander into the woods, and spend all day away from home, yet it was impossible to make her understand why everyone was so troubled at her long absence, and so you may be sure the King and Queen rejoiced when Princess Chrystal's seventeenth birthday came.

Lillian Jean Cunningham, 178 King St. E.—What a nice little letter you did send me Lillian. See me some day soon.

On that day the King gave out that any Prince bringing with him a power strong enough to melt the Heart of Ice should have the beautiful Princess to live in, and bags and bags of gold and precious jewels.

Annie Foshey, 45 Marsh Road—I was awfully sorry you were disappointed when you called the other day. Come on Monday after school.

Well, quite early on the birthday morning, a handsome Prince clad in rich green and gold robes, came and knelt before the throne where the Princess Chrystal was sitting, and when he saw how lovely she was he felt he must have her for his bride.

Flossie Foshey, 45 Marsh Road—Read what I have written to Annie, and try to get down on Monday.

"My name is Hope, sweet Princess," he said impressively, "and I herewith command that you be my bride, and I shall be your King."

Ronald Murray, 45 Marsh Road—Glad to have welcome letter, Ronald, also that you have joined the Corner.

"Why was I not asked to the christening party," she inquired harshly of the King. "Were you afraid I had no gift to bring for the Princess Chrystal?"

BEDTIME STORIES FOR THE KIDDIES

The Red Rose of Love.

Once upon a time there lived a King and Queen who had everything they wanted but one thing, and that was a little baby girl.

Prince can be found who will melt the heart of ice that her own warm heart will be found underneath, for Fairy Dahlia has not removed it, but it will take a very strong power to melt the ice by which it is surrounded.

Uncle Dick's Chat With the Children

My Dear Kiddies:—In last week's letter, I mentioned that I was going to have something special to tell you in this chat, and you would also notice the particulars given on the page about the little Kiddle-Kar.

The Okapi Hunters

You have searched for this animal before—oh, Tregellis? Sir Christopher Warren, the great animal collector, addressed the well-built, sun-tanned young fellow seated opposite him at the cheery fire in his cozy study.

MY NIECE'S WEEKLY RECIPE

Delicious Doughnuts. Mix 1 hour before ready to cook. One egg, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup sweet milk, about 3 cups of bread flour, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1/2 teaspoon soda, pinch of salt, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon. Mix the eggs, sugar, milk, nutmeg and cinnamon together, then sift into this the flour, salt, cream of tartar and soda. Mix thoroughly and stir into this 1 tablespoon of boiling lard. Roll thin, cut and fry in boiling lard, the usual way. Turn only once in kettle and drain before putting away.

U BOATS ORDERED 9 ALLIED AIRSHIPS OBSERVE PRIZE LAW WRECKED BY HUNS

Berlin will indemnify Owners of Dutch Steamer if U Boat Commander Broke the Law

The Hague, Netherlands, Oct. 13, via London—The Dutch government today received from the German legation a statement to the effect that implicit instructions had been given to the commanders of German submarines to sink neutral steamships in no case unless the vessels could be destroyed in accordance with the German prize law. Therefore it was considered extremely unlikely that the captain of the Bloomer-ship which sank the steamship, as reported, that he would send to the bottom every ship which otherwise might touch a British port. Such a statement, it was pointed out, would have been completely opposed to the orders given to the commander. The government also was informed that should it be proved the Bloomer-ship's sinking was not in accordance with German prize law, Germany would grant indemnity for the vessel and cargo without submitting the matter to a German prize court.

THE CREW SAVED. News was received at New York on October 11 by wireless of the rescue of five men believed to be from the schooner T W Dunn by the steamship El Rio of the Southern Pacific Steamship Co., about 250 miles east of Savannah, Ga. The message from the El Rio said she had picked up the crew of the S S Dunn, and that the vessel was waterlogged. The shipwrecked crew is being taken to Galveston, Texas. The T W Dunn sailed from New Orleans Sept 10 for Barcelona.

Returns to Kilties.

Private Thomas Maxwell of the 10th Battalion is to return to Canada. This was made known yesterday at headquarters. He was transferred to the Kiltie Battalion.

Escaped From Home.

John Fraser, one of the boys of the Industrial Home, who escaped from the institution on Thursday evening, is being inquired after. He had not been captured up till last night.

A Disconsolate Canine.

Apparently grieved and heart-broken at being denied the opportunity of competing with his canine brothers at the recent dog show, a faithful follower of mankind silently stole away to a quiet corner of Haymarket Square and succumbed to grief. The animal was found last night by Police Officer Jones.

The Late Sergt. McAlpine.

Mr. J. D. Howe of 149 Elliott Row, is in receipt of a telegram from Dr. W. V. Farquharson of Edmonton stating that the doctor's brother-in-law, Sergt. Albert McAlpine, was killed in action on September 26th. Sergt. McAlpine's father, Charles D. McAlpine, is well known in St. John, being formerly head of the McAlpine Directory Co. He is now at the head of a similar company in Halifax. He has two other sons at the front. Lieut. David McAlpine, who is convalescing from wounds received in action, and Pte. Hugh G. McAlpine, who is now a prisoner in the hands of the Germans, being captured a year ago last April. Sergt. McAlpine had many relatives in this city, who will regret his untimely demise.

MUCH ILLUMINATION, BUT LITTLE FIRE

Fire Early this Morning Destroyed Barn on Durham Street and also Damaged Frame Dwelling.

Shortly after last midnight, a daughter of Henry Seeley, 94 Durham street, was awakened by a fire which had caught in a one and a half story barn adjoining their home. She alarmed the other occupants of the house and the fire department was called out by an alarm from box 124 on the corner of Adelaide road and Newman street. The fire had a good start when discovered and the hay in the barn loft was ready fuel for the flames, with the result that as the fire bells were sounding, the flames had shot through the roof, illuminated the sky and it appeared to be a much larger conflagration than it really was. David White Henry Seeley and family resided on the upper floor, Mrs. Alfred Lee, with six small children, occupied the ground floor of the residence. Mrs. Lee was alone with her children, as her husband is a soldier at the front. She and her family of little ones, with the tenants of the upper floor, were quickly taken from the burning house to a place of safety. On one section of the ground floor all the furniture owned by Mr. Seeley's son was stored, the son being at present on duty with a battalion.

The old barn where the fire started to owned by a real estate company and was used by a man named McIntyre, who kept his horse there. The animal was saved, but the barn completely burned.

From the burning barn the flames caught the ell of the Seeley house and pouring through the windows, and also catching the side roof, caused considerable damage. The greater damage, however, was done by water.

The Salvage Corps did excellent work with rubber blankets and in this manner the furniture was kept from serious damage.

It was only a few minutes after the firemen got the water on the fire that it was under control.

Mr. Seeley states that he has one thousand dollars insurance.

DR. W. C. KIERSTEAD EXPLAINED NO. 9 SIEGE BATTERY NOW NEARLY FULL

Members of Canadian Club Gathered at Bond's for Luncheon Heard Informative Address on Matter of Much Local Interest.

Last night the members of the Canadian Club to the number of one hundred gathered at Bond's to have lunch and hear Dr. W. C. Kierstead explain the new assessment law. He took up the several sections of the act, compared them with the present act and explained very fully the changes which would be brought about by the adoption of the new measure.

Before taking up the work of the commission he said that the members had laid aside any prejudices which they might have had and approached the work in hand with open minds and had done the very best they knew to originate an act that would bear equally on all classes and distribute the taxes in an equitable manner on real estate, personal and income. He also extended the thanks of the commission to the newspapers for the very fair reception they had accorded the report and the publicity they had given it.

In commencing their labors they had two problems to grapple with, to get an act fair to all parties, and one that could be properly administered. In the framing of the act they had put the emphasis on administration and had advised that the assessors be provided with the necessary tools to carry on their work and suggested that it would be wise to have the chairman of the board visit other cities each year and keep in touch with all new ideas adopted in other places. Of late there had been great advances made in the administration of assessment laws and the assessors should keep in touch with them.

Must Be Workable.

In order to be a success a tax system should be as objective as possible. The old act in this city was not enforceable for many reasons and the assessors were placed in the position of law-makers and became the tax-making authority. Under such a system there was bound to be inequality. The only way to have a proper administration was to give them a law that was workable and then to enforce it to the letter.

Some held the theory that taxes should be paid for benefits received and others held that taxes should be based on ability to pay. In making their report they had based it on a combination of the two as they felt that the people should pay for benefits received in as far as streets, water, sewerage, etc. were concerned and that there were other services for which the basis should be ability to pay. The present system was practically a general property tax, with a heavy poll tax and a system of licenses.

Real Estate.

Dealing with real estate taxation, he said the commission had proceeded on the assumption that while real estate should not pay all the taxes it should pay a large portion of the whole. Under the present system real estate was paying a smaller proportion of the total tax than in any other city in America with the single exception of Fredericton.

In regard to public service corporations as the street railway and telephone company they had suggested a tax on the gross revenue to take the place of a real estate tax. In dealing with the lease system they had thought the best way to handle that problem was to tax the land at its full value and divide the tax between the landlord and tenant as at present and to have a clause inserted in the lease that if the landlord would not exercise his option to purchase the improvements the owner of the house might buy the land at a five per cent. capitalization.

ANOTHER CITY CLERGYMAN TO DON THE KHAKI

Rev. Victor Jarvis of St. John's (Stone) Church Tenders Resignation—Will go to Toronto to Join a Battalion.

Last night Rev. Victor Jarvis tendered his resignation as locum tenens of St. John (Stone) church and will leave in about two weeks time for Toronto where he will join one of the units now being recruited at that place.

At a meeting of the vestry of St. John's last night Rev. Victor Jarvis read the following: "In consideration of the conditions which obtain at the present time with regard to the great world war that is raging in even fiercer intensity and magnitude for the triumph of right against overwhelming evil; and owing to the large demand it is making upon all patriotic and loyal young men of the Dominion of Canada, I hereby tender my resignation as locum tenens of St. John's (Stone) church in order that I may serve with them, and with the large majority of the young men who have left this congregation, a young man's part in the defense of the Empire, and the safety of those ideals which are the inherited right of every citizen of that Empire."

The resignation was very reluctantly accepted by the vestry who expressed regret at his going but felt that under the circumstances they could not stand in his way.

PRECAUTION.

When cloths and dress goods are bought nowadays it is impossible to tell whether the dyes are good or not, and it is advisable to have all materials whether all wool or cotton shrunk or sponged by a steaming process before they are made up. F. A. Dyke & Co. have a model sponging machine and do all shrinking and sponging by machine. The cost is so small that no one should think of having a garment made up without first having the material properly prepared. From 5 to 7 cents per yard.

NO. 9 SIEGE BATTERY NOW NEARLY FULL

But 39 Men Required to Bring it to Strength—No. 8 Field Ambulance to Take Over Military Hospital.

No. 9 Siege Battery has now 120 men on the muster roll, and judging by the last two or three days' recruiting the 39 men required to bring the unit up to strength will soon be obtained. Four men enlisted in this unit yesterday, two in Halifax, Privates O'Leary and Durham, and two in Fredericton, W. McAdam and A. R. Wetmore.

There are now about twenty men from Fredericton in the battery so the outlook for a section composed of boys from the capital is promising. Sunday the unit will attend divine service at Stone church in the morning.

No. 8 Field Ambulance.

No. 8 Field Ambulance will take charge of the Military Hospital on St. James street today. The following men in charge of Captain A. E. McDonald are to be detailed there this morning: Sergt. H. D. Hipwell, to take charge of the drug room; Sergt. E. G. Ross and Privates C. P. Wetmore, R. L. Dibblee, H. B. Greer and Thomas Wheeler. Private Dibblee will be the chef at the hospital.

The members of the unit who were at Aldershot for several weeks taking a special course in hospital work arrived home yesterday, greatly benefited by the instruction received. The party consisted of Sergt. A. J. Bigelow, Lance Corporal Samuel and Privates J. W. Bradley, C. Tibbets, H. B. Greer, G. R. Hickman, C. Scribner and C. F. Wetmore.

Quartermaster Sergeant Sibson gave one of his interesting lectures in first aid work yesterday afternoon.

E. R. Miller, of St. John, was taken on the strength yesterday.

165th Inspection Today.

Owing to the fact that the 165th Battalion is to be inspected today by the officer commanding and the staff of the New Brunswick long route march in heavy marching order was not held yesterday.

In the morning after the usual physical training classes the battalion had a short march out, going across the bridge and returning by the ferry. It was a splendid day for marching. The weather was just cool enough to be invigorating. This coupled with solid, dustless roads, offered every advantage for quick marching. Both the regimental and bugle bands, accompanied the battalion on the march.

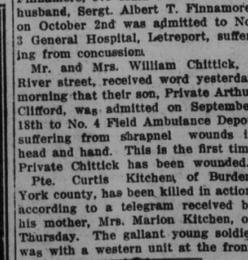

In the afternoon the boys were busy engaged in cleaning up the barracks in preparation for the inspection which is to take place this afternoon.

A. H. Belliveau was the orderly officer yesterday.

E. H. Scott enlisted in the 239th Railway Construction Battalion yesterday. His home is in Rockland, N. B.

PTE. ROY GARDINER OF HOYT STATION WOUNDED IN ACTION
