MAIL CAR LOOTED

Letters, Cheques, and Drafts stolen.

THREE ARRESTS MADE

Post Officer Inspector Colter Here in Connection With Affair.

On Thursday I. C. R. officer Noble found a number of letters, bank cheques and drafts bearing date of July 28 and 29 in a flange car on a back siding in the I. C. R. yard here. Some of the cheques were as high as $400 drawn on Canadian banks.

Upon investigating the matter, Officer Noble discovered that two or three boys had entered the mail cars lying in the yard on Sunday, July 30, and helped themselves to a quantity of mail matter, taking the same to the flange car, where the letters were opened. The boys did not evidently know the value of the cheques, or else thought it unwise to take them as they were left in the car.

Latter on in the evening, Officer Noble locked up three young lads Gordon Lewis, Ernest Pitre and Edgar McIntyre, in connection with the affair, holding them on a charge of trespassing on the I. C. R., awaiting the arrival of P. O. Inspector Colter.

Dr. Colter arrived here on Friday morning and on Saturday morning the three young lads were brought before Magistrate Matheson on a charge of theft.

A fine of $15 and costs was imposed in each case, but on account of the tender years of the lads the

INSTANTLY KILLED

Leo Harriman at Gloucester Jct. Monday Morning

BELONGED TO NEWCASTLE

Deceased had gone to sleep Woke Suddenly and Sprang Towards Train

Fireman Leo Harriman of Newcastle, of conductor Duff's construction train. Lying in side track at Gloucester Junction was instantly killed by the Maritime Express shortly after six o'clock Monday morning.

Harriman had just finished his breakfast, laid down near the track and fallen asleep. The noise of the train woke him suddenly. The engine and first car passed him but he sprang forward and an oil box of the second car struck him on the head crushing his skull and killing him instantly. The body was not marked.

The remains were taken to Bathurst and afterward to Newcastle for interment.

Driver Morton of the express saw Harriman as he jumped up but could not act quickly enough to prevent the man's death and no blame is attached to him or any of the trainmen. Conductor Alex. McPherson has been on the road for thirty years and never before has a train in his command been responsible for the death of any person.

Deceased was a son of John Harriman of Newcastle and half brother of W. P. Harriman Post Master at Newcastle.

Finances were allowed to stand on their future good behavior. The Magistrate gave the boys and their parents some good advice.

THE LICENSE CASE

Chief Justice Decides in Favor of Commissioners

THE GENERAL OF DECISION

Sections 19 and 20 of The Act are only Merely Directory

Word was received here last week that Chief Justice Tuck has decided the recent case for rule to quash liquor licenses against the application. His judgement is based upon two grounds: 1st, that sections 19 and 20 of the Liquor License Act are merely directory and not mandatory; 2nd, that there is no conclusive evidence of the population.

The Campbellton Temperance Alliance, by whom the proceedings were undertaken, at their meeting will consider the question of whether or not the case will be appealed to the full bench. Naturally there is considerable disappointment amongst the members and they feel that it is important that the matter should be determined by the full court.

Coun. Blair, of the Police and License Committee, submitted report and recommended that the account of Wm Taylor, $15.19, be paid. Report received and adopted.

Coun. Miller, of the Electric Light Committee, read report recommending the payment of the following accounts.

G. N. Tel Co.	68

Shives Lumber Co 211 00

Report received and adopted.

Moved by Coun Taylor, seconded by Coun. Blackhall, that Wm S. Smith of Dalhousie be appointed arbitrator in the matter of the taking of lands for reservoir in accordance with resolution passed by the Town Council. Carried.

Coun Blair asked that, as the present pipe leading to the wharf was too small for the purpose of washing out and filling the boilers of the S. S. Lady Eileen, the Interprovincial Navigation Co. be allowed to use the town hose once a month for the above purpose.

Mayor Murray said that he thought it would be all right for the Company to use the hose for this season, provided they notified the Chairman of the Fire Committee and the Chief of the Fire Department, when they required the hose.

Council adjourned.

AT DALHOUSIE

Earl Grey pays visit to Shiretown of Restigouche

WAS GRATEFUL

To Factory and Mill Owners for Closing Places and Giving Employees a Holiday

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather early this morning the reception given to the vice-regal party by the citizens of Dalhousie was a great success. As the S. S. Minto sailed into the harbor about 9 o'clock the sunshine brightly and when Earl Grey and his party landed from the Minto at 11 o'clock the little town was crowded with people who had come from all parts of the country.

The party were met at the wharf by Hon Mr LaBillois, chairman of the town board of commissioners; James Reid, M. P., Dr Murray, mayor of Campbellton; Timothy Robinson, high sheriff; Warden Arsenau and other leading citizens and were driven to the court house where very appropriate arrangements had been made to receive the distinguished guest.

Earl Grey was accompanied by Lady Grey and daughter Lady Evelyn Grey, two lady friends and his staff. Pretty bouquets were handed to Lady Grey and Lady Evelyn Grey as they climbed the steps of the court house by Miss Muriel Bates and Miss Alma LaBillois. An address was read on behalf of the citizens of Dalhousie by Hon Mr LaBillois.

To The Right Honourable Sir Albert Henry George, Earl Grey, Vicount Howick Baron Grey of Howick, Knight Grand Cross of the Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, etc, Governor General of Canada,

May it please Your Excellency,

The Citizens of Dalhousie, though having had but short notice of your intention to visit this portion of New Brunswick, desire to avail themselves of the opportunity of conveying to you their appreciation of your consideration, and gladly extend to you a most cordial welcome.

We welcome you as one who has already given proof of your fitness for the high office with which you have been entrusted, and of possessing the qualifications so necessary in one on whom devolves the duties and responsibilities connected with such a position, in a country so rapidly assuming power and influence, as in the Dominion of Canada.

We welcome you too as the representative of our sagacious and prudent King, who is proving himself such a worthy successor of his good and glorious mother—whose efforts for peace and concord throughout the world are acknowledged everywhere, and whose whole conduct is such, as to cause the people to pray with fervent hearts,

"GOD SAVE THE KING"

We hope that you, Lady Grey and the other members of your party, will much enjoy this trip to the northern portion of our Province, which nature has made so beautiful at this season of the year, and where the mountains and valleys may serve to remind you of scenes in the northern portion of your own.

Signed on behalf of the citizens of Dalhousie.

Charles H. LaBillois, Chairman Town Board of Commissioners.

The governor general, standing, replied to the address at length. He spoke of the future of Canada and the loyalty of its people. He was grateful to the mill and factory owners for having closed

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL

Of Late Gen. Superintendent Price.

ON SATURDAY.

Last Sad Rites for the Distinguished I. C. R. Official,

(Moncton Transcript, 5th)

All that was mortal of the late J. E. Price was laid to rest this afternoon in the Moncton Rural Cemetery and the general regard in which the late I. C. R. Superintendent was held, received, fitting demonstration in the large and representative body of citizens, I. C. R. officials and railway employees who attended the funeral.

Seldom in the history of Moncton, has the death of a citizen called forth more general and sincere regret than that of the late J. E. Price, and in a no more appropriate manner could this regard for him be shown than by the attendance at the last ceremonies, Moncton citizens, of all positions, I. C. R. employees from every department and railway officials from every part of the Intercolonial system, attended as a last mark of respect to one who in life had commanded every esteem and regard.

The magnificent floral tributes, which transformed the room in which the body lay, into a perfect bower of beauty, evidenced also to a general desire to mark in some manner the general regret felt. From every department of the I. C. R., from every part of the provinces, and from friends all over Moncton, wreaths, anchors, pillows, cut flowers and bouquets have been steadily pouring in since Mr Price's death and all day to-day they have still been coming. Beautiful wreaths from down there works to permit the laboring men to join all the other citizens to do him honor. He was delighted with his visit to northern New Brunswick.

Hundreds of citizens were then presented to their excellency. After the reception the Vice Regal party accompanied by Hon. Mr. LaBillois, Mr. Reid, Mr. Murray, Mr. Robinson, Mr. Arsenau, Rev. Mr. Leck, Rev. Father Boucher, Rev. Mr. Bates, Rev. J. Wheten, Messrs Craig, Windsor, LeBlanc, Blackall, Mercier, Dr. Rowley and others drove through the town which was prettily decorated for the occasion.

The Vice Regal party left here at 3 o'clock for Gaspé Basin enroute for Quebec. Just as the Minto was leaving the steamer Lady Eileen arrived in the harbor nicely decorated in honor of the Governor-General's presence.

SCHOOL FOR DEAF

Institution Re-Opens on Sept. 18th.

PUBLIC MEETING.

A Teacher and Class From the School to Tour the Province.

The N. B. School for the Deaf Lancaster Heights, St. John the first free school for the Deaf in the province is now entering on its third session. It will be open, Sept. 18 after the summer vacation when all pupils are expected to arrive promptly and begin school next morning.

It is the wish of the Directors of the school to extend its benefits to every deaf child in the province. Parents guardians and friends of the deaf will receive full information re admission by writing Miss Bateman, School for the Deaf, St. John. It is hoped that names of deaf children may also be sent that these younger children may be helped by timely suggestions from the teachers of the school who will if possible visit the home.

Happy New Brunswick now recognises that the Deaf have the same right to education at the public expense as other children.

The fact is the deaf have a clear claim to instruction in the public schools. But this would be a very expensive system and only possible by adding a special course for student teachers in Normal Schools in order to be able to send qualified teachers to districts where there were deaf children. So for economical reasons as well as for thorough instruction for deaf children are gathered together in a central school.

There is no other educational work that fully repays all that may be expended. Deaf persons allowed to grow up in ignorance seldom become self-sustaining tax paying citizens but if rightly educated, are bright intelligent persons, able to make their way in the world in connection with others, and to accompany their fellow Christians in parts of truth and uprightness.

A teacher and class from the N. B. S. D. will shortly make a tour through out the Province in the hope of arousing a true interest in the work. These will be addresses by prominent men and school exercises showing how deaf children are taught.

There will be no charge for admission but a collection will be taken up in aid of the work. All friends of the deaf and the public generally are cordially invited.

Meetings will be held at the following towns and villages at 7pm.

Doctor Brigham Says

MANY PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of womanhood is not because it is a stimulant, not because it is a palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and reconstructive ever discovered to act directly upon the generative organs, positively curing disease and restoring health and vigor.

Marvelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures and physicians who have recognized the virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are fair enough to give credit where it is due.

If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female illness, as they know by experience it can be relied upon to effect a cure. The following letter proves it.

Dr. S. C. Brigham, of 4 Brigham Park, Fitchburg, Mass., writes: "It gives me great pleasure to say that I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound very efficacious, and often prescribe it in my practice for female ailments. 'My oldest daughter found it very beneficial for uterine trouble some time ago, and my youngest daughter is now taking it for a female weakness, and is surely gaining in health and strength.' 'I freely advocate it as a most reliable specific in all diseases to which women are subject, and give it honest endorsement.' Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhoea, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that bearing-down feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for further free advice. No living person has had the benefit of a wider experience in treating female illness. She has guided thousands to health. Every suffering woman should ask for and follow her advice if she wants to be strong and well."

YELLOW FEVER

Business men in Southern Cities Alarmed at Outlook.

New York, July 29th.
A despatch to The Tribune from New Orleans says Gov. Vardiman, of Mississippi, late last night called out the military of the State to protect the line of that state against the entrance of the people of Louisiana.

New Orleans, La., July 29.—The most disquieting news in the yellow fever situation today is evidenced and that the panic is increasing in the smaller towns of Louisiana and Mississippi and that a disposition is growing to repeat the disastrous commercial quarantines of 1897 when some of the country towns even refused to receive hardware from New Orleans.

Columbia, La., will not receive fruit of any kind; Osyka, Miss., will take no fruit or vegetables; Jackson wants no household articles from New Orleans. Several towns in Tennessee and other points along the Mississippi Valley road in Mississippi refuse to allow express matter of any kind to be put off. Port Gibson will not take bread or anything wrapped in burlap that may be shipped from that port. Some of these towns are asking that the mails be fumigated. From the movement to quarantine fruit New Orleans will suffer more seriously than from the fever itself. Up to the present time there has been no local apprehension of a dangerous epidemic, and it was believed that, if the boards of health in other states lived up rigidly to their agreements not to place any restrictions upon transportations of fruit there would be a slight reduction of business and the inconvenience would be the inability of the country people who come here and of New Orleans to go into the southern towns and cities. This story of a case of yellow fever at Lumberton, Mass., the first in the state, has not yet been traced, but it is not considered improbable that the victim is one of the many Italians who come here and of New Orleans to the French market district here. Very probably cases will develop at other points, though the danger is constantly lessening, so tightly is the cordon drawn round New Orleans now.

New Orleans, La., August 5.—With the intention of admitting the fever situation to be beyond control, but in the hope of reviving confidence here, and elsewhere, in the south, officials and business interests yesterday decided to send a request to President Roosevelt to have the United States Government assume full charge of the struggle now in progress to wipe out yellow fever from New Orleans and Louisiana. Expectation is that within the next two days Surgeon-General Wyman with all the resources of the Government, will be enlisted actively in the campaign.

The decision to ask the Federal Government to take control was reached at a meeting of officials and citizens, held late yesterday at the Cotton Exchange. It was the consensus of the meeting that Government control would restore confidence throughout the other states in the South, where there had been criticism of city and state authorities for not sooner making public the existence of yellow fever. It was the belief of those present that Surgeon-General Wyman would be able to send a force of physicians to New Orleans thoroughly equipped for the handling of the yellow fever situation, because of their experience and unquestionable facilities to enforce a scientific campaign. When local health officers first took charge of the situation it was hoped that the fever would be stamped out within a reasonable time, but the infection has spread and, so frightened have the people become in the South over the increase in the number of cases, that New Orleans is threatened with a serious paralysis of trade by reason of radical quarantines. Immediately after the meeting, a telegram, signed by the Mayor and

GREAT BRITAIN, AND GERMANY

Better Feeling Expected to be Brought About.

London Aug. 3. (Special)—The forthcoming visit of a British fleet to the Baltic sea appears more than likely to make the beginning of more cordial relations between Great Britain and Germany, instead of as has been suggested in some quarters, adding to the friction now existing. The proposed visit was known to the German foreign office months ago and suggestions that objections to it were raised by Germany are unfounded. Ernest Geo. Pettimur, secretary to the Admiralty today in reply to questions, stated definitely that no protests regarding the visit of the fleet had been received. Friendly comment on the pending cruise from German Baltic ports creates the belief that it will help along King Edward's desire for good relations between Germany and Great Britain, and the announcement of Emperor William, of the candidacy of Prince Charles, of Denmark, for the Norwegian throne, is accepted as an indication that the German ruler proposes to work in the same direction. The report is received that Emperor William will meet King Edward during the latter's forthcoming trip to Marienbad.

Stockholm, Sweden, Aug. 3.—(Special)—King Oscar, who has recently created a German Admiral by Emperor William, to-day visited the German squadron which arrived here last night. His Majesty will give a fete to-night in honor of the squadron.

TRAIN PLUNGED INTO A CREEK.

Baggage Master Killed and Fifteen Others Injured.

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 3.—The morning Baltimore and Ohio passenger train bound from Kockwood was wrecked about 8.30 o'clock at the Paint Creek bridge in Somerset County. A rail broke on the bridge and the train plunged down. It is believed that nearly every person on board was either killed or injured but as the spot is isolated, no definite details are yet obtainable. A special train bearing doctors, nurses and newspaper men has gone from here to the scene.

ONLY ONE KILLED IN THE WRECK.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 3.—A Somerset, Pa., despatch says: Louis Don, the baggage master, was killed and 15 others were injured. The smoker and baggage car went into the river. The train left Somerset at 7.15 o'clock for Johnstown and consisted of the engine, baggage car and two passenger coaches. Just where the railroad crosses the creek the rails spread and the baggage car and the coach rolled down a 20 feet embankment into the creek, a shallow stream. The engine and last coach were not dragged down. Don, the only man killed, was known as the hero of the frightful Duquesne Limited wreck on the Baltimore and Ohio near Connellsville, two years ago. On that occasion, although his eye was knocked out and was hanging on his cheek, he pluckily went back to flag the next train.

OBITUARY

The death of Mr. Edward Steele of Black Cape, which occurred on the 30th ult. after a brief but severe illness is much deplored by the whole community. Mr. Steele was always prominent in public affairs. He was for twelve years a member of the township Council, and for the same period a manager in his church. He was a charter member of Cascapedia Lodge, No. 1844, I. O. F. in which he had held several offices. At his death he was Past Chief Ranger. He was also interested in the Total Abstinence question. Many times over he had been elected Chief Templar in Chaleur Lodge I. O. G. T., and was in this office at his death. He was actively interested in political matters also.

Moreover it was characteristic with him to go through with whatever he put his hand to. In all things he was thorough, reliable, energetic and persevering. He will be greatly missed on all sides.

Mr. Steele was a communicant in the Presbyterian church and a large contributor to its funds.

The funeral services were conducted by the Foresters Lodge in conjunction with those of the church both in the house and at the grave. It was one of the largest attended in years.

The Return of Sherlock Holmes

case, which occurred only last night at Hampstead?

"Dear me!" said Holmes. "What was that?"

"A murder—a most dramatic and remarkable murder. I know how keen you are upon these things, and I would take it as a great favor if you would step down to Appledore Towers and give us the benefit of your advice. It is no ordinary crime. We have it all upon this Mr. Milverton for some time, and, between ourselves, he was a bit of a villain. He is known to have held papers which he used for blackmailing purposes. The papers have all been burned by the murderer."

No article of value was taken, as it is probable that the criminals were men of good position whose sole object was to prevent social exposure. The fact is, 'Criminals,' said Holmes. 'Plural?'

"Yes, there were two of them. They were as nearly as possible captured red handed. We have their footprints, we have their description. Ten to one that we trace them. The first fellow was a bit too active, but the second was caught by the under gardener and only got away after a struggle. He was a middle sized, strongly built man—square jaw, thick neck, mustache, a mask over his eyes."

"That's rather vague," said Sherlock Holmes. "Why, it might be a description of Watson?"

"It's true," said the inspector, with amusement. "It might be a description of Watson."

Well, I'm afraid I can't help you, Lestrade," said Holmes. "The fact is that I knew this fellow Milverton, that I considered him one of the most dangerous men in London and that I think there are certain crimes which the law cannot touch and which therefore to some extent justify private revenge. No, it's no use arguing. I will not handle this case."

Holmes had not said one word to me about the tragedy which we had witnessed, but I observed all the morning that he was in his most thoughtful mood, and he gave me the impression, from his vacant eyes and his abstract manner, of a man who is striving to recall something to his memory. We were in the middle of our lunch when he suddenly sprang to his feet. "By Jove, Watson, I've got it!" he cried. "Take your hat! Come with me!" He hurried at his top speed down Baker street and along Oxford street until we had almost reached Regent circus. Here, on the left hand, there stands a shop window filled with photographs of the celebrities and beauties of the day. Holmes' eyes fixed themselves upon one of them, and following his gaze I saw the picture of a regal and stately lady in court dress, with a high diamond tiara upon her noble head. I looked at that delicately curved nose, at the marked eyebrows, at the straight mouth and the strong little chin beneath it. Then I caught my breath as I read the then honored title of the great nobleman and statesman whose wife she had been. My eyes met those of Holmes, and he put his finger to his lips as we turned away from the window.

TRANSCONTINENTAL TO BE BUILT AT MONCTON

Quebec, Aug. 3.—The MacKenzie & Mann interests have secured a check in connection with the extension of the Great Northern Railway in the vicinity of the Quebec Bridge. Some time ago the Great Northern acquired the charter of the Quebec, New Brunswick & Nova Scotia Railway, which provides for a right of way through land leading from the St. Charles Valley to the new bridge over the St. Foye Heights and Cap Rouge. Last winter Messrs. MacKenzie & Mann proceeded quietly to buy the right of way over this land from farmers, and recently gave out contracts for the grading of this roadway. One hundred and fifty men were employed at the work when the attention of Mr. Hoare, chief engineer of the Quebec Bridge Company, was called to the matter. In the meantime the Quebec Bridge Company had received permission from the Transcontinental Railway Commission for the same right of way in connection with the approach work of the Grand Trunk Pacific to the bridge. The Canadian Pacific had also been given the same right over this ground under their charter, and it was a question of who really had the right. Finally, the matter was referred to the Government, which was called upon to act. This it did by passing an Order-in-Council which ordered the work stopped, and a few days ago the contractors were obliged to suspend operations.

Mr. Hoare, C. E., states that neither the Great Northern nor the Canadian Pacific will be allowed to lay tracks along the route, but that they will be accorded running rights over the Transcontinental when its tracks are laid.

Can Eat Anything Now.

How many Dyspeptics can say that?
Or perhaps you are dyspeptic and don't know it.

Have you any of these symptoms?

Variable appetite, a faint gnawing feeling at the pit of the stomach, unsatisfied hunger, a loathing of food, rising and sinking of food, a painful load at the pit of the stomach, constipation, or are you gloomy and miserable? Then you are a dyspeptic. The cure is careful diet; avoid stimulants and narcotics, do not drink at meals, keep regular habits, and regulate the stomach and bowels with
BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS, Nature's specific for Dyspepsia.
Miss Laura Chicoine, Belle Anse, Que., says of its wonderful curative powers:-
"Last winter I was very thin, and was fast losing flesh owing to the run-down state of my system. I suffered from Dyspepsia, loss of appetite and bad blood.
I tried everything I could get, but to no purpose; then finally started to use Burdock Blood Bitters. From the first day I felt the good effect of the medicine, and am now feeling strong and well again.
I can eat anything now without any ill after-effects. It gives me great pleasure to recommend Burdock Blood Bitters, for I feel it saved my life."

ESCUMINAC

As I have a character to preserve and a reputation to maintain, I would ask you Mr. Editor to grant me a small space in your newsy paper to reply to Mr. Pyke's false and wilful statements, and to explain to the readers of The News the history of Five Dollars which he and his friend
Mr. C. endeavored to do in your issue of June the 8th.

In December past as Sam'l Pyke was going over to Dalhousie I asked him to call on Andrew J. Wallace and ask him to send me $5.00 which was due me, and also to bring me over some iron which I wanted.
This Mr. Pyke consented to do. He brought me over the iron, and he could not get the money as Mr. Wallace was not at home, so on June 2nd last as his brother Guilford was over to Mr. Wallace's he (Mr. Wallace) gave him the five dollars to give to me which he never did, he gave me two dollars which Mr. D. McGregor gave him for me in the presence of his sister Anne and nobody else.

Sometime after I visited Mr. Wallace and he told me he sent the money over to me by Guilford. I immediately wrote to Guilford who was then in Temiscouata and received a very sarcastic reply claiming that he paid me the money. I then decided to let him keep the money if he was gentleman to do so; but not being satisfied with keeping my five dollars he threatened to sue me for his character if I would not give him a receipt. Now as I was an old man and a poor one and having no desire to go further into trouble and as I understood he had parties to swear that I got the five dollars, I thought I would leave "well enough alone" so I gave him the desired receipt which he now boasts of holding on to the following conditions

May 20th 1905—I, the undersigned who has received a receipt from J.
Mann, for $10.00 do promise to claim this as a settlement up to date and will not sue or cause any further trouble for the misunderstanding $5.00
Signed Guilford Pyke
Witness H. Harper
Thanking you Mr. Editor for your space and kindness, I remain
Very truly yours
James Mann.

That Pale Tired Girl

She is in society, in business, at home, everywhere you see her, but always worn and fatigued. She has heard of Ferrerozone or she would be perfectly well. "How quickly it strengthens—what an appetite it gives—what a glow it brings to pallid cheeks!
The nutriment contained in Ferrerozone puts strength into anybody.
Laughing eyes, rosy lips, bright quick movements all tell of the vitality Ferrerozone produces. Thousands of attractive happy women use Ferrerozone

HYMENEAL.

On the nineteenth day of July in Notre Dame Church Montreal, was celebrated the marriage of M. J. Theo Legault, notary of Montreal, to Miss Sarah Elizabeth Molloy of Ste Adelaide de Pabos. The bride was beautiful in her dress of cream silk. She wore a lovely bouquet.

After the celebration, dinner was served at home of Mr. J. Legault.
The groom, who is director of the choir of the church, was accompanied by his friends and relatives. The bride received many costly presents.

Many nice pieces of music were executed with a real artistic talent by
the groom, who is director of the choir of the church. Accompanied by his choiristers among whom we mention,
M. M. W. Gagnon, J. Martineau, E.
Auger, A. Bertrand, and others. M. A.
A. Dufour professor and organist of Maisonveuve presided at the piano, and professor Devaux performed on his violin the purest accents of music masters. The happy couple left Mon-real on their wedding tour to Gaspe.

They are now the guests of Mr. J.
Molloy of the Ste A. de laide de Pabos where the family united wishes them the most cordial welcome. Mrs. J. T.
Legault is the sister of Misses Malvine Alice and Beatrice Molloy, teachers in the County of Gaspe and Bonaventure.
Mrs. and Mr. Legault will return to Montreal after having visited the principal Cities of New Brunswick.
We wish them a happy voyage.

GASPE PENINSULA.

Weather of late has been fine. A little rain is needed to help the crops which promises to be fairly good this season. The fishery has been poor up to date both with salmon and cod. A failure in such is a great drawback to this place, it being one of the chief industries of the County. Quite a number of men have been employed for the past several weeks at the lumber Co. loading the barque "Ann" with deals for a foreign market.

We are sorry to report the death of Capt Richard Miller of Sandy Beach, which occurred at Natashquan North Shore on Sunday July 9th, on board his schooner "Nellie Morrow." Deceased has been engaged for a number of years in carrying His majestys Mails from Chase Basin to the Labrador Coast, touching at the Island of Anticosti for mails and passengers. He was a man who always carried a pleasant face and kindly word for everyone, was well liked by his crew and the public at large and is deeply regretted by all who knew him.

Mr. Elias Briard is very much pleased with his situation this summer, as assistant for Mr. Tho's Kennedy, Light Keeper, at the block, on Sandy Beach Bar.

Mr. Henry Peters and daughter Miss Flora of Montreal are the guests of Mrs. Chas Phillips of this place.
Almost eighty three million dollars,
we read, are the Government estimates for the years 1905-6. This is a big sum of money; $20,000 grant for a breakwater at one point, $15,000 grant for a breakwater at another point $10,000 for another and so on. Why don't they grant a few hundred $ to the Corporation of Gaspe Bay North Sydenham repairing roads and rebuilding bridges which is wanted in the worst way. Surely out of such a sum they might allot a paltry $100.

MESSRS. C. C. RICHARDS & CO.
Gentlemen,—In June, 1905, I had my hand and wrist bitten and badly mangled by a vicious horse. I suffered greatly for several days and the tooth cuts refused to heal until your agent gave me a bottle of Minard's Liniment which I began using. The effect was magical, in five hours the pain had ceased and in two weeks the wounds had completely healed and my hand and arm were well as ever.
Yours truly,
A. E. ROY,
Carriage Maker.

OPEN LETTER

Campbellton, N. B., Aug. 8, '05,
Dear Editor,

You published in your last issue the determination of the Town Council to resort to arbitration in the reservoir controversy, also in another column of the same issue you put yourselves on record as fully endorsing the action of the Council, costly luxury, and all. As there is generally two sides to a question, we respectfully submit ours.

The only two points brought out in your argument seemed to be economy and location.

1st Economy! Does the Town Council of Campbellton know the meaning of the word? Was it economy to refuse an offer of $1200.00 for the right and title to the property required for enlarging the reservoir and then take action that actually made the Town the defendant in a suit for trespass and damages, which not only went against them with costs but obliged the property owners in self defence to demand a larger compensation for the same amount of land? In other words was it economy to refuse $1200.00 and pay $5000.00 to which must be added the costs of previous litigation, and in all probability the costs of coming arbitration? Was it economy to refuse the offer of Mr. Joseph Duneau of $600.00 and afterwards consider one of $1500.00 for the same privilege? Was it economy to refuse to pay Miss Besse Stewart's claim of $14. and afterwards pay her $100.00 with costs of $102 and fees to Counsel approximating $100 more, making a total of over $300.00? Was it economy to spend the ratepayers' money to discover that a free British subject had the right to open and close a legitimate place of business at his own convenience? The acquisition of this knowledge is undoubtedly commendable but should not be acquired at the expense of the Town. Along these lines it would be well for the heads of the different departments to bear in mind that their knowledge of the requirements of their various branches, be it great or small, was acquired in the employ of the Town and at the expense of the ratepayers, a due appreciation of this fact would enable some of them to wear a hat several sizes smaller than they think they need. Was it economy to refuse the offer of the Montreal Company of $65,000.00 and finally pay in the vicinity $120,000.00 for their franchise. A portion of this amount was for a 7 ft. dam, trenching and pipe line, the balance was for a location less than one acre in area. It did not even secure to the Town the riparian right to the water that was bamboozled out of the owners later by a "tactician", for the liberal allowance of $1.00 of lawful money of Canada to each owners "which, by the way, was never paid", and so on, ad infinitum.

Economy is only secured by proper business methods. No true economist would pay $120,000.00 for one acre of land, and then try to even matters by taking possession 5-56 acres surrounding it, without compensation or permission and then resort to litigation to hold it, and further after the Courts revealed to him the error of his ways, and threw the light of justice on his duplicity, think you, would a private individual still cling desperately to the swindle or seek some honest method of adjustment. When the franchise was taken over by the Town at such a high figure a true economist in a private deal would have gone thoroughly into the whole transaction, every asset, every right, every title, would have been considered separately, would have been carefully weighed and computed and enumerated. But how many members of the Town Council at that time knew that they were receiving nothing with the Montreal franchise but the 7 ft dam, the trenching, the pipe as laid and certain unsettled claims against the Company.

I noticed some time ago an editorial in the columns of your valuable paper, under the heading of "Unjust Criticism". It set for the onerous duties of the Members of the Council, how they had to wrestle with condition and circumstances that were forced upon them and for which they were not to blame and should not be held responsible, they had, done the very best they could, etc., etc. Admitted. But although the duties are onerous, they are not compulsory and an aspirant for the position of Councillor who does not know that trespass is an indictable offence or one who thinks the Town requires him to steal one ratepayers property and divide it among the rest, or one who is imbued with the idea that individual has no right as against the Town has mistaken his calling and it were much better for him to remain in private life even though he is obliged to bloom unseen. He at least will have the satisfaction of concealing what he does not know, or if he feels that he must display his talent let him turn it in some other direction where it will not be a bill of expense to the taxpayer. A Lawyer, for instance, does not take as many chances as the burglar but he generally gets more money. The average Councillor takes oath to mete out justice to the whole Town, this of course is only figurative, the fact is that the Councillor's whole town so far as any privilege or convenience is concerned begins at Ramsay Street and ends at the I. C. R. Station for everything except taxation. Streets, sidewalks, water, sewer, street sprinkler, (excepting when we are favored with a Mayor) fire protection, and whoever saw a policeman west of the station, unless he was bringing a tax bill or there was a row at the west end. The key note is the interest and convenience of our business men must be catered to first, we must protect our merchants, all others are like the boy who fell out of the balloon—they are not in it. Now what constitutes the wealth of a town or locality? Why, what it produces. Who are the producers? The lumbermen, the farmer, the manufacturer, the mechanic, who are the others? The leeches that live on what is produced. They produce nothing yet they live they take the products of the producer, double the price on them to the consumer, if he objects the reply is—we must live, in other words somebody must feed us, we cannot go to work like common people, I'm a merchant or a rum-seller or a tramp, or in short every non-producer and their name is legion. Consider well then what you are doing when you take a producer by the throat and sacrifice him to the leech. The policy is suicidal for who will feed the leech when the produce is gone.

2nd Location. It is not an interval or a rolling prairie nor even a meadow. No it is only wilderness land, not very valuable for farming purposes. We have often heard these remarks from the knowing ones—all admitted. Now we are not aware that the town were in search of any of the above named conveniences. We had the impression that they were looking for a supply of pure water at such an elevation as would supply the town with an abundance for all purposes. A rolling prairie would scarcely furnish the head required, good farming land, even though the altitude was sufficient would not furnish pure water, the use of fertilizers and a drainage of adjacent farm lands would tend to contaminate the stream. Was not the Walker Brook scheme abandoned for this same reason? Does not the very fact of its being wilderness land enhance its value? In short it is not the proper location from every single point of view for a fountain head for a town water service? And is it not the only one within reach of this town? When you expert mathematician figured it out an asset worth $200,000.00 to the town was it only the delivery end of the service he alluded to or had the supply end anything to do with it? If the able talent you had on the first arbitration adjudged the pipe line and part of an acre of the land were worth $120,000.00 what is a reasonable estimated value of 5-56 additional acres? Or to be more exact 9-85 acres. Remember that this land is all within the town limits and taxed accordingly. When our Town Council grasps the important fact that they are to serve the town and drop the absurd idea that the town must serve them there will reason to expect an honest intelligent and economical administration of affairs all open to public view but so long as the Dictator and Boss system is maintained the attendant train of evils will surely follow viz—secret conferences dark and mysterious plotting behind closed door the press jagged, class legislation favors for a select view, faction fights, etc., all which are disgraceful alike to the perpetrators and the town. If Councillors are adverse to criticism it is an infallible remedy to rise above it, transact public business in public respect individual rights, safe guard the interest of the whole town, dare to do right regardless of legal advice to the contrary, and you will not only avoid criticism but will be surprised by the entire absence or litigation and have won the commendation of the ratepayers. Start in now before the taxes get altogether out of sight and you will discover that it pays better even than getting wilderness land for nothing.

John B. Christopher.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS SICK?

Let your morning urine stand for 24 hours in a glass or vessel, and then if it is milky or cloudy, or contains a reddish brick-dust sediment, or if particles or germs float about in it, your kidneys are diseased. If the kidneys are well they filter just so much blood, but if they are sick or weak from any cause, they leave the poison in the blood, and this poison affects the entire system.

It is natural to pass urine three times a day, but many who regard themselves as healthy are obliged to pass water six to ten times daily and are obliged to get up frequently during the night. They have sick kidneys and bladder and don't know it. Smith's Buchu Lithia Pills cure Rheumatism and all Kidney and Bladder diseases, and make new, rich blood.

THE RETURN OF SHERLOCK HOLMES ...

BY A. CONAN DOYLE

Holmes and Watson were seated at the breakfast table, and Holmes was looking at his watch. "Well, my dear fellow, be it so. We have shared this same room for some years, and it would be amusing if we ended by sharing the same cell. You know, Watson, I don't mind confessing to you that I have always had an idea that I would have made a highly efficient criminal. This is the chance of my lifetime in that direction. See here!" He took a neat little leather case out of a drawer and, opening it, he exhibited a number of shining instruments. "This is a first class up to date burgling kit, with nickel plated jimmy, diamond tipped glass cutter, adaptable keys and every modern improvement which the march of civilization demands. Here, too, is my dark lantern. Everything is in order. Have you a pair of silent shoes?"

"I have rubber soled tennis shoes."

"Excellent! And a mask?"

"I can make a couple out of black silk."

"I can see that you have a strong natural turn for this sort of thing. Very good, you make the mask. We shall have some cold supper before we start. It is now 9:30. At 11 we shall drive as far as Church row. It is a quarter of an hour's walk from there to Appleton Towers. We shall be at work before midnight. Milverton is a heavy sleeper and retires punctually at 10:30. With any luck we should be back here by 2 with the Lady Eva's letters in my pocket."

Holmes and I put on our dress clothes so that we might appear to be two theater goers homeward bound. In Oxford street we picked up a hansom and drove to an address in Hampstead. Here we paid off our cab, and with our greatcoats buttoned up, for it was bitterly cold and the wind seemed to blow through us, we walked along the edge of the beach.

"It's a business that needs delicate treatment," said Holmes. "These documents are contained in a safe in the cellar's study, and the study is the anteroom of his bed chamber. On the other hand, like all these stout little men who do themselves well, he is a plethoric sleeper. Agatha—that's my fiancée—says it is a joke in the servants' hall that it is impossible to wake the master. He has a secretary who is devoted to his interests and never budges from the study all day. That's why we are going at night. Then he has a beast of a dog, which roams the garden. I met Agatha late the last two evenings, and she looks the brute up so as to give me a clear run. This is the house, this big one in its own grounds. Through the gate—now to the right among the laurels. We might put on our masks here, I think. You see, there is not a glimmer of light in any of the windows, and everything is working splendidly."

With our black silk face coverings, which turned us into two of the most truculent figures in London, we stole up to the silent, gloomy house. A sort of tiled veranda extended along one side of it, lined by several windows and two doors.

"That's his bedroom," Holmes whispered. "This door opens straight into the study. It would suit us best, but it is bolted as well as locked, and we should make too much noise getting in. Come round here. There's a greenhouse which opens into the drawing room."

The place was locked, but Holmes removed a circle of glass and turned the key from the inside. An instant afterward he had closed the door behind us, and we had become felons in the eyes of the law. The thick, warm air of the conservatory and the rich, choking fragrance of exotic plants took us by the throat. He seized my hand in the darkness and led me swiftly past banks of shrubs which brushed against our faces. Holmes had remarkable powers, carefully cultivated, of seeing in the dark. his, we opened a door, and I was vaguely conscious that we had entered a large room in which a cigar had been smoked not long before. He felt his way among the furniture, opened another door and closed it behind us. Putting out my hand, I felt several coats hanging from the wall, and I understood that I was in a passage. We passed along it, and Holmes very gently opened a door upon the right hand side. Something rushed out at us, and my heart sprang into my mouth, but I could have laughed when I realized that it was the cat. A fire was burning in this new room, and again the air was heavy with tobacco smoke. Holmes entered on tiptoe, waited for me to follow, and then very gently closed the door. We were in Milverton's study, and a portiere at the farther side showed the entrance to his bedroom.

It was a good fire, and the room was illuminated by it. Near the door I saw the gleam of an electric switch, but it was unnecessary, even if it had been safe, to turn it on. At one side of the fireplace was a heavy curtain which covered the bay window we had seen from outside. On the other side was the door which communicated with the veranda. A desk stood in the center, with a turning chair of shining red leather. Opposite was a large bookcase with a marble bust of Athens on the top. In the corner, between the bookcase and the wall, there stood a tall, green safe, the fireproof flashing back from the polished brass knobs upon its face. Holmes stole across and looked at it. Then he crept to the door of the bedroom and stood with slanting head, listening intently. No sound came from within. Meanwhile it had struck me that it would be wise to secure our retreat through the outer door, so I examined it. To my amazement it was neither locked nor bolted. I touched Holmes on the arm, and he turned his masked face in that direction. I saw him start, and he was evidently as surprised as I.

"I don't like it," he whispered, putting his lips to my very ear. "I can't quite make it out. Anyhow we have no time to lose."

"Can I do anything?"

"Yes; stand by the door. If you hear any one come, bolt it on the inside, and we can get away as we can. If they come the other way, we can get through the door if our job is done or hide behind these window curtains if it is not. Do you understand?"

I nodded and stood by the door. My first feeling of fear had passed away, and I thrilled now with a keener zest than I had ever enjoyed when we were the defenders of the law instead of its defiers. The high object of our mission, the consciousness that it was unlawful and chivalrous, the villainous character of our opponent, all added to the sporting interest of the adventure. Far from feeling guilty, I rejoiced and exulted in our dangers. With a glow of admiration I watched Holmes unrolling his case of instruments and choosing his tool with the calm, scientific accuracy of a surgeon who performs a delicate operation. I knew that the opening of safes was a particular hobby with him, and I understood the joy which it gave him to be confronted with this green and gold monster, the dragon which held in its maw the reputations of many fair ladies. Turning up the cuffs of his dress coat, he had placed one foot on a chair—Holmes laid out two drills, a jimmy and several skeleton keys. For about half an hour Holmes worked with the strength and delicacy of the trained mechanic. Finally I heard a click, the broad green door swung open, and inside I had a glimpse of a number of paper packets, each tied, sealed and inscribed. Holmes picked one out, but it was hard to read by the flickering fire, and he drew out his little dark lantern, for it was too dangerous with Milverton in the next room to switch on the electric light. Suddenly I saw him halt, listen intently, and then in an instant he had swung the door of the safe to, picked up his coat, stuffed his tools into the pockets and darted behind the window curtain, motioning me to do the same.

It was only when I had joined him there that I heard what had alarmed his quicker senses. There was a noise somewhere within the house. A door slammed in the distance. The pressure of Holmes' shoulder against mine I knew that he was sharing my observations. Right in front of us and almost within our reach was the broad, rounded back of Milverton. It was evident that he had entirely miscalculated his movements; that he had never been to his bedroom, but that he had been sitting up in some smoking or billiard room in the farther wing of the house, the windows of which we had not seen. His broad, grizzled head, with its shining patch of baldness, was in the immediate foreground of our vision. He was leaning far back in the red leather chair, his legs outstretched, a long, black cigar projecting at an angle from his mouth. He wore a semimilitary smoking jacket, claret colored, with a black velvet collar. In his hand he held a long legal document, which he was reading in an indolent fashion, blowing rings of tobacco smoke from his lips as he did so.

I felt Holmes' hand steal into mine and give me a reassuring shake, as if to say that the situation was within his powers and that he was easy in his mind. I was not sure whether he had seen what was only too obvious from my position, that the door of the safe was imperfectly closed and that Milverton might at any moment observe it. In my own mind I had determined that if I were sure from the rigidity of his gaze that it had caught his eye I would at once spring out, throw my greatcoat over his head, pinion him, and leave the rest to Holmes. But Milverton never looked up. He was languidly interested by the papers in his hand, and page after page was turned as he followed the argument of the document. At least, I thought, when he had finished the document and the cigar he will go to his room, but before he had reached the end of either there came a remarkable development which turned our thoughts into quite another channel.

Several times I had observed that Milverton looked at his watch, and that he had looked down again, with a gesture of impatience. The idea, however, that he might have an appointment at so strange an hour never occurred to me until a faint sound, which he had heard, had reached his ears. Milverton dropped his papers and sat rigid in his chair. The sound was repeated, and then there came a gentle knock on the door. Milverton rose and opened it.

"Well," said he curtly, "you are nearly half an hour late."

So this was the explanation of the unlocked door and of the nocturnal vigil of Milverton. There was the gentle rustle of a woman's dress. I had closed the slit between the curtains as Milverton's face had turned in our direction, but I returned very carefully to open it once more. He had resumed his seat, the cigar still projecting at an insolent angle from the corner of his mouth. He looked at his watch, and the full glare of the electric light there stood a tall, slim, dark woman, veiled over her face, a mantle drawn round her chin, and her breath came quick and fast, and her eyes were full of tears.

She was quivering with strong emotion.

"Well," said Milverton, "you've made me lose a good night's rest, my dear. I hope you'll prove worth it."

You couldn't come any other time—eh?"

The woman shook her head.

"Well, if you couldn't you couldn't. If the mistress was a hard mistress you have your chance to get level with her now. Bless the girl, what are you shivering about? That's right. Pull yourself together. Now let us get down to business." He took a notebook from the drawer of his desk. "You say that you have five letters which compromise the Countess d'Albion. You want to sell them. I want to buy them. So far so good. It only remains to fix a price. I should want to inspect the letters, of course. If they are really good specimens—Great heavens! Is it you?"

The woman without a word, had raised her veil and dropped the mantle from her chin. It was a dark, handsome, clear cut face which confronted Milverton—a face with a curved nose, strong, dark eyebrows shading hard, glittering eyes, and a straight, thin lipped mouth set in a dangerous smile.

"It is I," she said—"the woman whose life you have ruined."

Milverton laughed, but fear vibrated in his voice. "You were so very obstinate," said he. "Why did you drive me to such extremities? I put the price well within your means. You would not pay."

"So you sent the letters to my husband, and he—the noblest gentleman that ever lived—man whose boots I was never worthy to lace—he broke his gallant heart and died. You remember that last night, when I came through that door, I begged and prayed you for mercy, and you laughed in my face as you were trying to laugh now, only your coward heart cannot keep your lips from twitching? Yes, you never thought to see me here again, but it was that night which taught me how I could meet you face to face and alone. Well, Charles Milverton, what have you to say?"

"Don't imagine that you can bully me!" said he, trying to his feet. "I have only to raise my voice and I could call my servants and have you arrested. But I will make allowance for your natural anger. Leave the room at once as you came, and I will say no more."

The woman stood with her hand buried in her bosom and the same deadly smile upon her lips.

"You will ruin no more lives as you have ruined mine. You will wring no more hearts as you wrung mine. I will free the world of a poisonous thing. Take that, you bound—and that—and that—and that!"

She had drawn a little gleaming revolver and emptied barrel after barrel into Milverton's body, the muzzle within two feet of his shirt front sight of. But hardly had the woman rushed upon the table, coughing furiously and clanking among the papers. Then he staggered to his feet, received another shot and rolled upon the floor. "You've done me!" he cried and lay still. The woman looked at him intently and ground her heel into his upturned face. She looked again, but there was no sound or movement. I heard a sharp rustle, the night air blew into the heated room and the avenger was gone.

No interference upon our part could have saved the man from his fate, but as the woman poured her bullets into him let into Milverton's shrinking body I was about to spring out when I felt Holmes' cold, strong grasp upon my wrist. I understood the whole argument of that firm, restraining grip—that it was no affair of ours; that justice had overtaken a villain; that we had our own duties and our own objects, which were not to be lost sight of. But hardly had the woman rushed from the room when Holmes with swift, silent steps was over at the other door. He turned the key in the lock. At the same instant we heard voices in the house and the sound of hurrying feet. The revolver shots had roused the household. With perfect coolness Holmes slipped across to the safe, slid his two arms with bundles of letters and poured them all into the fire. Again and again he did it, until the safe was empty.

Some one turned the handle and beat upon the outside of the door. Holmes looked swiftly round. The letter which had been the messenger of death for Milverton lay, all mottled with his blood, upon the table. Holmes tossed it in honour of the blazing papers. Then he drew the key from the outer door, passed through after me and locked it on the outside. "This way, Watson," said he, "we can scale the garden wall in this direction."

I could not have believed that an alarm could have spread so swiftly. Looking back, the huge house was one blaze of light. The front door was open, and figures were rushing down the drive. The whole garden was alive with people, and one fellow raised a view halloo as we emerged from the veranda and followed hard at our heels. Holmes seemed to know the ground perfectly, and he threaded his way swiftly among a plantation of small trees, I close at his heels and our foremost pursuer panting behind us. It was a six foot wall which barred our path, but he sprang to the top and over. As I did the same I felt the hand of the man behind me grab at my ankle, but I kicked myself free and scrambled over a grassy slope, coping. I fell upon my face among some bushes, but Holmes had me on my feet in an instant, and together we dashed away across the huge expanse of Hampstead heath. We had run two miles, I suppose, before Holmes at last halted and listened intently. All was absolute silence behind us. We had shaken off our pursuers and were safe.

We had breakfasted and were smoking our morning pipe on the day after the remarkable experience which I have recorded when Mr. Lestrade of Scotland Yard, very solemn and impressive, was ushered into our modest sitting room.

"Good morning, Mr. Holmes," said he; "good morning. May I ask if you are very busy just now?"

"Not too busy to listen to you."

"I thought that perhaps if you had nothing particular on hand you might care to assist us in a most remarkable

CANADA'S WHEAT FIELDS Viewed by American Writer.

(Grist in Brooklyn Eagle)

Canada is getting to be a dangerous rival of the United States in the growing of wheat. The aim of the growing there is to furnish all the wheat needed by England. If they succeed in this they will take from United States one of its best flour markets. Canada produced 80,000,000 bushels of prime wheat last year and the farmers are talking about a 100,000,000 bushel crop this year. The Dominion now sends half of her wheat to England and this proportion will increase as the annual production grows in volume.

The farmers in the States have reason to fear their northern neighbors in the struggle for the privilege of feeding England with its breadstuffs. The wealth of Canada lies in her almost limitless areas in the western provinces which nature appeared to have intended for wheat. Figures make dull reading and those that must be employed in telling of Canada's resources and possibilities in this regard are so large as to make it difficult to grasp their real meaning. Westward from the province of Ontario there stretch the wheat fields of Canada. A person can ride six days and still not get beyond the broad never-ending patches of beautiful green which will soon take on the rich golden color of ripening grain. Full 1,200 miles in the direction of the Pacific and 400 miles toward the frozen North the wheat belt extends. The wheat growing areas comprise the province of Manitoba and the four districts of Assiniboia, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Athabasca. These territories contain 395,000,000 acres of land it is estimated that 100,000,000 acres are fit for cultivation. This statement will be better understood when it is known that this area is equal to that of the States of Minnesota, the two Dakotas, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Nebraska and two States the size of Ohio. This section is one great continuous prairie devoid of trees so that no clearing is necessary. The soil is rich black loam of the kind found in the best districts of Illinois and Iowa. Everything is in readiness for the pioneer. All he has to do is to turn a very thin sod with the plow and sow his wheat. It is necessary for a Canadian farmer to get his wheat into the ground at the first possible moment in order to escape fall frost. He will sow when barely an inch of ground is sufficiently thawed to allow the seed to be covered. The hot sun forces the grain with great rapidity so that on July 1st, the plants measured as high as thirty-five and forty inches.

Some of the well authenticated stories regarding the yield of wheat on an acre are so astounding as to challenge belief. The average yield during fourteen years has been twenty bushels an acre and the highest yearly average was a trifle less than twenty-eight bushels. The average wheat yield for ten years in Manitoba which is the banner wheat section of Canada was according to official figures twenty-one bushels an acre against 14 for Minnesota and twelve for Kansas. In some sections of Canada fifty-five bushels an acre have been grown and on the government experiment farms as high as sixty bushels have been produced.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and big grower of wheat in the States are inclined to belittle Canada's pretensions in the wheat growing line.

Canada will never rival the United States as a grower of grain said Secretary Wilson recently. She will do very well every now and then but the frost will kill her crops and prevent the cultivation of extensive areas. She is to far north to produce wheat in any quantity.

The Canadians are busy proving that the genial secretary is wrong in his estimate of weather conditions north of the forty-ninth parallel. When the Americans who are the real pioneers in the development of Canadian wheat fields first crossed the line they settled in southern Manitoba and eastern Assiniboia. They found the ground admirably suited to the raising of wheat and gradually extended their farms north and westward. They have pushed ahead for 1,000 miles to the foot of the Rockies and north to the limits of the Railroads. Everywhere they are raising big crops without molestation by frost. Nobody knows how much further the wheat producing area can be extended but some claims are being made. It is declared that some day there will be 40,000,000 acres devoted to wheat in western Canada which would mean a production of 800,000,000 or 1,000,000,000 bushels a year. It is hopefully asserted that in ten years Canada will have 200,000,000 bushels of wheat for sale every fall. The Canadian government is helping the wheat grower in the west by every means in its power. It maintains at this place one of the six experimental farms where many scientific discoveries have been made of great value to the men engaged in the industry. Chief of these was a scheme of summer following which has done away with the danger of crop failures because of the scarcity of rain in the wheat sections.

A treatment of the wheat fields of Canada would not be complete without one or two stories of remarkable success achieved by persons starting at farming without a dollar. Stories of this kind abound in Manitoba and Athabasca some twenty-five years ago a syndicate of British and Canadian capitalists bought 65,000 acres of fine land near Indian Head and installed

Major W. R. Bell on the reservation as its manager. The latter was not accustomed to farming in America he built a magnificent house that was the wonder of the nation for hundreds of miles around and stocked the barns and farm buildings with the finest patented machinery money could buy. One day Major Bell drove to Winnipeg in search of farm hands. He picked out a bright looking English chap, Harry Campkin by name who had not enough money in his pocket to pay his way to Indian Head. He was hired by Bell along with a lot of other immigrants and taken to the farm. The hard times of 1882 badly crippled the syndicate's big unmanageable farm and a few successive years of bad crops put the capitalist out of business. The estate was dismembered and passed into the hands of a dozen different owners. Campkin went to work in a store in Indian Head saved his money and took out a homestead. He improved his land sold it and bought a small piece of the big estate where he was formerly worked. He continued this process for fifteen years and now owns and lives in Major Bell's magnificent country home. In addition he has a clear title to 1,960 acres of the syndicate's farm and is steadily acquiring more.

Twenty years ago Charles A. Douglass left a small town in Iowa and struck out for Northwest Canada. He brought with him about $300 with which he bought two oxen, a plow and a few supplies necessary to set him up in business on his homestead. Industry and good business management enabled him to succeed and to day he is reputed to be worth $100,000. Dozens of similar instances may be encountered and are easily authenticated.

PSYCHINE

Taken promptly and faithfully according to directions will not only invariably prevent Consumption but will never fail to cure any of these lesser diseases which are always the forerunners of Consumption.

CONSECON, May 30th, 1904.

It affords me pleasure to speak of the merits of Psychine, which I found to be a marvelous tonic and tissue builder. I was taken down with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs. In fact, I believe I was never free from colds for months previous, and tried many of the common cure-alls and cheap nostrums you see advertised, but obtained no relief. I had then learned that such remedies are merely palliative and not curative preparations. Friends advised Psychine, and after taking several bottles I became sound and strong again. Scores of my friends have been saved much suffering with Psychine, and I voluntarily give permission for the publication of this statement.

O. W. MORRISON.

There were upwards of 110 teams in the funeral procession, containing representative citizens, railway officials, and others.
