P. C. Bob Black Stops a Furious Runaway on Dundas Street - Was Dragged Considerable Distance.

"Bob" Black, the genial policeman, whose post of duty this week is at the intersection of Dundas and Richmond streets, this morning was the hero of an incident which was witnessed by many citizens, and on account of which the stalwart guardian of the peace has received many expressions of admiration for his brave conduct. About 11:15 o'clock one of Perrin's big delivery horses was standing at the side entrance to the factory of the McCormick Manufacturing Company. In some manner it succeeded in freeing itself of its bridle. It then took fright. and ran up Wellington street to the C. P. R., where it turned, and continued its dash down Richmond street. When nearing Dundas street P. C. Black saw it coming, and hastened toward it. Seeing the absence of the bridle, he endeavored to catch the animal by the nose, but only reached it in time to grasp it by the mare. The horse swerved and turned west on Dundas street. P. C. Black retained his hold on mane, and endeavored to grasp the animal's nose, but was unable to do so. At the corner of Talbot street the wagon struck a pile of earth thrown up from an excavation in the street, and it tipped over. The horse continued to run about a quarter of a block further, when P. C. Black succeeded in stopping it, aided possibly by the partial shutting off of its wind by the twisting of its collar consequent upon the upsetting of the rig. Eye-witnesses of the gallant policeman's act declare it to have been one of the bravest deeds

they ever witnessed. CHICAGO LAUNDRY COMBINE. Chicago, Sept. 6.-As a result of the consolidation of 22 of the largest laundry concerns in the city into one corporation, prices have been advanced all along the line. The capitalization of his recovery. SCALDED TO DEATH.

Waverley, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Fireman John Gessler, of Buffalo, was scalded to death under the wrecked engine of his train at the Mill Town crossing of the Lehigh Valley Railroad here. COL. OTTER'S REPORT.

Ottawa, Sept. 6.—The weekly report of Col. Otter, received at the department of militia, says: The parade state of the regiment on July 27, was as follows: In South Africa, 875; killed and died of wounds, 39; died of disease, 20; transferred, 14; invalided to England, 202; total, 1,156. At the time of Col. Otter's report 500 officers and men were at Springs, 62 on an armored train, 97 at the convalescent camp at Cape Town, 36 on command, military railways, etc., and 180 sick at the rest camps, or in hospital.

TO RETURN VIA ENGLAND. Major Hurdman, commanding D Battery, writes: "All the Canadians are to go home via England. At first only a few were to be sent from each unit, but as far as D Battery is concerned, when I was asked to report on the number to be sent, I replied that all were to be sent via England, or none, and the next morning in the march. Gen. Hamilton came up to me and said: 'I see you all want to go to England?' I replied: 'Yes, sir, a'l or none,' and then I explained that it was on our way home, and I thought all Canadians should be sent that way. After talking with Gen. Cunningham and his staff, he said that he would recommend to Lord Roberts that all the Canadians be sent to England, and told by one of Lord Roberts staff that we are all to go to England, so I expect it will be the middle of October of the first of November before we get home.'

NERVY GIRL

Stopped a Runaway Team and Saved Five Lives.

New York, Sept. 5 .- Five persons were saved from injury or death last night by Miss Ada Mayo Railey,daughter of Col. Charles L. Railey, a wellknown horseman of Lexington, Ky. A. H. Calef, of New York, secretary and treasurer of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, with Mrs. Calef and their guests, Miss Alice Neale and Mrs. Winston Barret, of Chicago, and Miss Railey, had driven in an open 'bus from Mr. Calef's cottage at Seabright, N.J., to Pleasure Bay, and were returning when, after having gone some distance, they disovered that the coachman was not on the box and that the horses, a pair of powerful animals, were running away.

Mr. Calef jumped in an effort to gain the horses' heads, but was thrown to the ground and the team dashed on, every moment gaining speed. Miss Railey, who is known throughout Kentucky as a horsewoman of remarkable skill, climbed through a window scarcely large enough to admit her stender body sidewise, to the box, and, gaining a footing on the whiffletrees, managed get hold of one line and throw one the horses, bringing the vehicle to a sudden stop on the edge of a ditch near the approach to the bridge across [Montreal Herald.] Question. Conservative newspapers are stating that the Hon. Mr. Fisher is not the inventor of the cold storage transportation system; is that true? Answer. Yes, that is true enough;

Mr. Fisher never claimed to be the in-Q. What is claimed for Mr. Fisher?

A. That he induced parliament to make use of the cold storage system in such a way as to be beneficial to Canadian farmers.

Q. Had his predecessors tried this A. Yes, it was charged against them that they were making a timid and practically valueless experiment at the time when the system was in use in

Q. What other countries for example? A. Denmark, Australia and New Zealand, all rivals of Canada in the British market.

Q. Then Canada suffered through the timidity or indifference of former ministers of agriculture? A. Undoubtetdly.

Q. What was actually done by the Conservatives? A. In 1895 Professor Robertson secured an appropriation of $25,000, and started to introduce cold storage on a few vessels leaving Montreal, compartments in which were to be cooled by ice. He also arranged for some refrigerator cars on lines of railways between dairying centers and Montreal. Q. Was this experiment successful? A. No; the ice was found to have melted long before the ocean voyage was over, and the contents of the chambers were spoiled, arriving in some cases in an almost worthless condition.

Q. Did they do anything more? A. In 1896 Prof. Robertson was authorized to make some arrangements for mechanical refrigeration, but before he had time to do anything, the Con-servative Government had been voted out of office.

Q. When did Mr. Fisher take office? A. In July, 1896.

Q. What did he do? Finding that the accommodation under the old system of ice refrigeration was not sufficient for the demands of the trade, he immediately authorized a doubling of the capacity. Q. What next?

A. He at once set to work to arrange for an adequate and complete system. Q. What caused the demands for cold storage?

A. The needs of the export butter Q. What conditions did this trade find essential?

A. That there be a cool temperature from the very day of manufacture until delivery to consumers had been Q. Did this condition exist before Mr.

Fisher's time?

A. No; in 1895 shipments sent by the Canadian Government were described by the English consignees as "tur-nipy," "too old," "very salt and rank," "old and turnipy," "bad," and the like, all with the exception of two or three lots. There was that if good butter could be sent, it should be so put up "that it could not be recogniized as Canadian.' Q. Did Mr. Fisher arrange a complete system?

Q. What steps were taken? A. First, a system of bonuses was offered to creameries, to induce them to put in cold storage chambers.

Q. What next? A. Second, provision for increased cold storage transport on railways. This involved conference with the railway authorities and the provision of better

Q. What came of this? A. Since 1897 it has been practically unknown to have any butter delivered at Montreal in the slightest degree in-

Q. From how many points do the refrigerator cars now start? A. From forty-two points in the Dominion, practically covering the whole rallway system.

Q. What was done about steamboats?

A. A system of mechanical refrigera-tion, long in use elsewhere, was installed in eighteen steamships; in 1898 there were twenty-two so fitted up; in 1899 twenty-three, and in 1900 twenty-

Q. How does this comprae with 1895 and 1896? A. In those years there were only ten ships fitted, and that with the inferior system. Q. How many creameries have earned the bonus of $100 by complying with the provisions of the act?

Q. What has been the cost of this policy to the country? A. $100,000 in the first year, $85,000 in the second year, $70,000 in the third year, and $100,000 has been set aside for the financial year beginning July 1, Q. What have been the results? A. The results may fairly be inferred from the shipments of butter. Q. What quantity of butter was shipped in 1895? A. 3,650,258 pounds. Q. How much in 1896?

5,889,241 pounds. How much in 1897, the first year the new system was used? A. 11,453,351 pounds.

That is just about double what it was in the previous year. What then are the figures for 1899?

A. 20,939,995 pounds. Q. Are there any returns for the year ending June 30, 1900? A. The total in that year was 25,259 .-737 pounds, five times the total of 1896 and eight times the total of 1895.

Q. Has anything else been accomplished by this system? A. For one thing, tons of Canadian pears were last year sold in England at a substantial profit, whereas in 1895 what were sent arrived in a ruined and worthless condition.

Q. Any other result? A. Canadian poultry meat has been forwarded as an experiment, and has sold at a profit of 100 per cent on the value of the poultry at the shipping

Q. Has there been any good effect on the shipment of apples? A. Canadian apples picked last year and kept in cold storage, carried off at the Paris Exposition, a month ago, five gold medals, two silver and one bronze.

Q. Was this fruit remarked by visi-A. It excited the admiration of all who saw it, and some even said it was impossible that such fruit could have been grown in Canada the year before and thus exhibited. Q. Has anything been done to make sure that the system would give the best results?

A. Expert officers have been employed at Montreal, St. John and Halifax, to see that all arrangements are the best, and that all transhipments are properly made. Q. Anything more?

A. To make sure that Canadian products would be creditably placed on the British market Mr. Fisher has Canaexperts watching the arrival of Canadian produce in England, and investigating the method of handling these products in England.

Was the adoption of this policy needed in the interest of Candian agri-A. It was very much needed, because the Canadian export butter trade was rapidly dwindling away.

Q. What proof is there of this? A. In 1881 the butter exported had a Q. What was the value of the exports in the year ending June 30, 1900?

A. $5,122,000. Q. Has there been also an improvement in the price paid?

A. In 1895 Canadian butter sold from 14s to 22s per hundred weight less than Danish butter. Now it is only 4s or 5s lower than Danish butter in price.

There has been a gain of at least 10s a hundred weight all round, as compared with our principal competitors, which is equal to 21/2c per pound.

BETTER WAGES

Applies Only to the Senior Freight Con ductors on the Ontario and Quebec Division-Strike at Embro.

Montreal, Sept. 5 .- A settlement of the differences between the Canadian Pacific Railway and its conductors and trainmen has been reached, an agreement having been come to between Arkona, Sept. 4.-Miss Rowland, of the head officials and the executive officers of the two brotherhoods.

As a result of the agreement, a slight increase has been made in the wages of freight conductors and an advance in the yardsmen's remuneration. These organizations asked for a flat scale of 2 cents a mile for trainmen, 3 cents a Jamestown, Pa., after spending his mile for conductors, the abolition of the junior scale, and where over 40 cars are handled on a train, the emday evening, after spending some time ployment of three brakesmen instead

Mr. Tait, of the C. P. R., said today: "The difficulty has been settled. We have given the senior conductors on the Ontario and Quebec division an increase of from $2 58 to $2 70 per 100 miles.

"We have given our yardmen on that division an increase, which will amount to about 15 per cent on their old wages. "The passenger conductors, brakemen and other trainmen, all asked for an increase, but we were unable to accede to their demands.

"The ground upon which the freight conductors asked for an increase was that they had to look after larger trains now than formerly, owing to our using heavier engines. "The yardmen were considered fully entitled to an increase, and have been willing to grant it all through." Grand Chief Conductor Morrissy has left for his home, thoroughly satis-STRIKE AT EMBRO. An Embro correspondent writes: The

An Ontario Mother's Statement.

I wish to state that 13 years ago my little daughter Fanny was so very sick with summer complaint that I thought she was going to die. I hardly knew what to do for her when my sister-in-law, Mrs. J. to use himself. I got a bottle and started giving the medicine to my little girl. I have read of things being "worth their weight in gold," but never did I know of any medicine to which that expression could be truly applied but Dr. Fowler's Extract. It certainly worked wonders, and I often tell people don't believe Fanny would be alive to-day except for Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry

The first installment of a brilliant three-part story called "The Prodigal," by Mary Hallock Foote, appears in the September Atlantic. The hero is said to be a fascinating young scapegrace, whose singular adventures on the waterfront of San Francisco are depicted with a vigor, color, and dramatic force that place the story among the author's best romances.

The September issue of McClure's Magazine contains, among several articles, the concluding paper of Lieut. Commander James C. Gillmore's "A Prisoner Among Filipinos." The author describes in detail the means by which he dissuaded a Filipino general from executing the entire party, the way in tory, and under the laws of the Bolling ion of Canada, and especially protested which the illness of a Tagal officer preagainst the location of the boundary vented the slaughter of his prisoners, how a Filipino lieutenant on seeing a American miners were forced to enter crucifix disobeyed orders and thereby enabled them to escape being put to death, and how the band was at last rescued by American troops from bloodthirsty armed savages. The narrative reads like a page from Robinson Crusoe. The illustrations by W. R. Leigh are spirited and life-like.

The September issue of Table Talk contains an interesting article entitled "In An Old Restaurant Of Mexico City" by Olive Percival, also one entitled "How Other Peoples Marry," by Mrs. Burton Kingsland. The author is a veteran traveler and has visited the nooks and corners of the world rarely visited by travelers and it is of these curious people she writes. "Nutriment, False and True," is a most valuable short article for the home, written by a trained nurse. "Chemistry of Food" treats of the subject in a plain and simple manner. The steamer J. W. Moore was seized in midstream in the Detroit River Tuesday evening by Deputy Sheriff Rumball for damages caused by sinking the schooner J. Richard opposite Walkerville, a few weeks ago, when several of the crew of the schooner were drowned.

James Porter, M. C. R. brakeman, residing at St. Thomas, was painfully injured near Rodney on Sunday morning. He was sitting in the cupola of the caboose, when the air hose broke, bringing the cars together suddenly. He was thrown across the car and had his back injured.

While Fred Plastow, employed by J. G. McKillop, farmer, West Lorne, was hauling beans into the barn, the rope broke, the pulley falling and striking Plastow on the head, breaking his skull and rendering him unconscious. The doctor says he is seriously injured, but to what extent he cannot just say, Plastow is a married man about 40 years of age.

Milton Doerr, the 12-year-old grandson of Daniel Hagey, was drowned on Sunday in his grandfather's pond near Blandford station, while in bathing, with companions of his own age. Contrary to the orders of his grandfather forbidding swimming on Sunday, the little fellows went to the pond, while Mr. Hagey was at church, attending the morning service.

A pleasing event took place on Tues day, Sept. 4, at the residence of Mr. W. S. Jamieson, Coyne road, Dunwich, when their only daughter, Lizzie, was married to Mr. Peter D. McKellar, one of the most popular young men of Dunwich. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Stephen. The bride was assisted by Miss Kate McLeod, of St. Thomas, while Mr. Wm. Paton supported the groom.

Mrs. Annie Prangly (nee Mattice) died in Sarnia on Monday, Sept. 3. Accompanied by her daughter and friends she had been on a pleasure trip, when she was taken ill. She leaves a husband and two children, besides four sisters and four brothers: Mrs. (Dr.) Young and Mrs.O'Loane, of Ridgetown; Mrs. English, of Blenheim; Mrs. Wilson, of Chatham; James H. Mattice, of Hamilton; Eastman Mattice, of Dakota, and William and Walter, on the old homestead in Harwich.

Brakeman Allan, running between Stratford and Toronto, had a very narrow escape from being killed on Sunday night. Near New Hamburg the train broke in two. Mr. Allan was on top, signaling to the engineer, when he was thrown between the two sections, into the middle of the track. A number of cars passed over him, but as he was right between the rails they did not touch him. His only injuries are sprained foot and a generally bad shaking up. He was taken to his home in Stratford, where a doctor attended him. At last accounts he was resting easier.

For Internal and External Use. For internal and External Use.

In using medicines to stop pain, we should avoid such as inflict injury on the system. This is a most destructive practice; it masks the symptoms, shut up, and, instead of removing trouble, breaks down the stomach, liver and bowels, and, if continued for a length of time, kills the nerves and produces local or general paralysis.

The Young Man in Politics. Youth is a time of strong feeling and earnest zeal, and in a free country the young man feels that he has a real share in the general life, and looks forward with interesting feelings to the first election in which he is himself a Lactor that can be counted, to the time when he casts his first real vote. Youth together. The endeavor to conduct is the time when the strongest party feelings and closest political associations are formed, and perhaps there is danger that feeling will be stronger than judgment. But at any rate the young man is capable of hopes and as- in the way out, but even that will not pirations of the noblest kind, and desires political ideals as well as party formula. A question arises, does the Liberal party meet in any real measure this need and desire? We may mention three elements in it that respond to a sensible and broad political idealism.

First, the desire for harmonious cooperation of all races and creeds for the common good. We have to face the fact that Canada, like the British Empire, is made up of different races, and the only pledge of peace and progress is the same fair treatment for all, which will allow all to cherish their convictions on matters that are private and personal, while enjoying the benefits of a common citizenship.

Another feature is the development of the national life of Canada within the Empire. Canada is a free nation, and must work out its own life, and gradually acquire a distinctive character. By doing this, not in a spasmodic, sensational way, but on the lines of national progress, we both build up our own life and strengthen the Empire of which we are no mean part. At the same time it is our policy to keep near to Britain in trade relationship and poltical sympathy, because Britain is in a wery real sense our motherland. She stands commercially for the fullest freedom, and politically for the highest dustice. On these lines our young men may feel that Britain's noble history s theirs. It is as much their literary and political property as if they were residents of the British Isles. Time and space do not alter these substantial realities. So much for the past-for it is well that youth should not undervalue the past-but the prospect for the future is equally inspiring, if, while for us to do in the world, and while of the world. developing faithfully the resources of general good.

A Rebellion That Could Have

Been Averted. Col. Denison, of Toronto, who was one of the Ontario military men sent to the Northwest to assist in quelling the rebellion of 1885, which cost so many valuable lives and much treasure, has a most interesting reference to the cause of the outbreak in his book, just issued. The colonel, in a summary of the events leading up to the rebellion, says:

"The whole dispute was over some 10,000 or 50,000 acres of land, in a wilderness of tens of millions of acres, for which the Government were crying for settlers. It cost Canada the lives of 200 of her people, the wounding of many others, the expenditure of about $6,000,000 in cash, and losses of time and business that cannot be estimated. When it was all over, the Government offered, free, to the volunteers, 1,800,000 acres of the land If they wanted it to settle on, and yet the whole dispute was mainly about some red tape regulations as to surveying some forty or fifty thousand acres of land on which people were already settled. It is not often a country suffers so severely and so unnecessarily."

Col. Denison felt strongly with regard to the "departmental inefficiency and | to the effect that the letter carriers had obstinacy" at Ottawa, which was the cause of the outbreak, and he at first refused to volunteer the services of his corps. He informed some of the officers who asked him if he would not Mulock, the Postmaster-General, was do as other commanding officers over the country were doing, that he would simply await orders, as it was for the Government at Ottawa to decide whether or not his corps should join the force, "which was being sent to crush a few people who had been wronged and practically goaded into rebellion." Of pear to have learned yet that they did of appeals to race and sectional precourse, when called out, Col. Denison a great wrong to the Postmaster-Gen- judices, however cunningly conceived, around the north shore of Lake Superpor on flat cars, with rough fences over which they had to march.

One does not wonder that the gerrymeasure were both required to aid in Government that permitted such a rebellion to take place, when a little foreed it. Col. Denison's testimony is strong corroborative proof of the rightfulness of the position taken by the opponents of the late Government, when responsibility for the outbreak came to be considered.

The Chinese Situation.

The latest reports look as if the "concert" of the powers was likely to be. broken, and the old juggler, Li Hung any of his predecessors. Chang, left master of the situation, and if this should come about as the result of combined action between the Great Republic of America and the Great Despotic Empire of Russia, it will certainly be one of the unexpected things. We have pointed out in on former occasions profited from the action of European forces in China without sharing in the expense, and we predicted that in future responsibility and power would have to go diplomacy on cheap principles, and on the eve of a presidential election, is not favorable to the settlement of a great problem. If one aspires to be a great leader it may seem easy to lead turn out as easy as it seems. Going out seems a great deal more than withdrawing troops from Pekin; it should mean getting out completely and allowing China to shut her gates against the world. We have maintained that Britain does not wish to enter upon an adventurous jingo policy, but after all this hubbub she certainly does wish to have things settled so that they will stay settled for a little while, and that China will not in a few weeks be rousing the same feelings of herror throughout the civilized world.

It seems that this latest move has called forth, in England, a deep distrust of Russia, and fear that the Russian diplomatists are making a catspaw of the Americans. That is not surprising, though we do not think that intelligent Britishers will allow their judgment to be too much influenced by feelings of that kind. The most natural view to take of the situation is that the Americans wish to be out of this business as soon as possible. They do not desire to have territory in China, and want as little trouble as possible. That is easily understood, and quite natural under the circumstances; but a nation can hardly aspire to lead the world on these principles. The feeling is just as widespread that Russia desires to stop because it is not convenient for her to go forward just now, and because she thinks that China will be all the more in her power after this crisis. There happens at the same time to be an outburst of feeling in Germany against a jingo foreign policy, so that lies. unless the emperor is very determined he may have to back down. The fact is that the letter carriers are well pleased with their treatment in the matter of holidays. Some about them, and in the 110 miles of time ago, as pointed out by the Hamgaps, where the rails were not yet laid, ilton Times, a deputation from the letter carriers waited upon Mr. Mulock, setting forth that, whereas the emmander and the infamous franchise ployes in the customs and inland revenue and some of the postoffice empreventing the condemnation of the ployes got the full holiday on May 24, Christmas, etc., the letter carriers ought to be similarly favored. The Liberal Leader's Work.

We desire, first and foremost, to render equal justice to all classes of perons and to all portions of Canada; we desire as far as in us lies to make this Canada of ours a united Canada: these columns that the United States we do not want only that there should be no distinction in Canada between Roman Catholic and Protestant, Frenchman or Englishman, between the man who speaks one language or the man who speaks another language, or between the man who professes one religion and the man who professes another: but we want to see every man Canada proud to be a Canadian. and all working together shoulder to shoulder for the benefit of this country each day. Acting upon that view, my friend and leader, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, took his political life in his hands in 1896, and in opposition to every prejudice which might be supposed to weigh with him, and in opposition, apparently, to every instinct of his own people, he took the position that every province should have the right to manage its own affairs as it deemed best. It was a noble, a daring thing for him to do. The triumph Sir Wilfrid Laurier achieved in settling the school question was the greatest achievement of an Administration in the last fifty years. -Sir Richard Cartwright at Norwich.

If Sir Charles Tupper were to regain power, the preferential tariff in favor of the Motherland would be repealed. What patriotic Canadian would stand such a retrograde step? Better work and vote so as to avoid such a calamity to Canadian trade.

"Oh, for the cemetery vote, then we might win," is the wail of the Opposition these days. But under the law now governing the franchise, neither the votes of dead men nor of those resident in foreign countries can be counted, hence the utter discomfiture of Sir Charles Tupper and his al-

> The proprietor of the Montreal Star proprietors of Le Journal, which has been making such savage attacks on Sir Wilfrid Laurier for sending Canadian troops to aid Great Britain in re-establishing law, order and liberty in South Africa. It is this relationship which keeps the Montreal Star editor as dumb as an oyster on the subject of Pamphlet No. 6, the official handbook of the Conservatives of Quebec, which is assailing Sir Wilfrid Laurier for being "too English."

The Canadian Opposition leaders are confessedly openly disunited. They have neither plan, purpose, policy nor power, and all they are after is office. Witness the diametrically opposite cries raised by the respective Opposition chiefs in Ontario and Quebec. In Ontario they denounce Sir Wilfrid Laurier because, they say, he is not imperialist enough, not sufficiently friendly to Great Britain. In Quebec, they are trying to foment dissension that may bring them party success by alleging that the Prime Minister is too imperialist, too friendly to Great Britain, to anxious to please Mr. Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary. The disgraceful conduct of the Opposition chiefs in this regard should alone secure their defeat at the hands of all patriotic Canadians. All fair-minded men know that neither estimate of Sir Wilfrid Laurier is correct. They know that in all matters pertaining to our relations with the empire. Sir Wilfrid and his Government have been careful Charles Tupper and his agents to divide the people of Canada on the subject of our relations to the empire, by means will be signally rebuked at the polls.

SARNIA'S SAD LOSS

Sarnia, Sept. 6 .- The death of Mr. Charles Mackenzie, which occurred at his late residence on Monday, removes from the scene of action one of the most prominent and influential citizens of Sarnia. Mr. Mackenzie had been failing for a number of years, and some months ago entirely lost the sight of his eyes. In the hope of recruiting his health he recently went to the seaside and returned apparently much improved. On Saturday morning last he submitted to an operation, by which his sight was restored, and it was hoped that this would have a beneficial effect upon his general health. But it appeared to be but a gleam of sun-shine before the night of death should set in, for on Monday at 8 o'clock he lapsed into unconsciousness, and did not again regain his senses.

Mr. Mackenzie was identified with many of the larger business institutions of the town, being director of the Sarnia Street Railway Company and the John Goodison Thresher Company, and president and director of the Lambton Loan and Investment Company. He was also president of the Sarnia and Florence Plank Road Company, in which he took a deep and acinterest for many years. In mercantile life he was known principally as the head of the Mackenzie Hardware House, the firm's name being C. Mackenzie, Mine & Co. They were also extensively interested in the oil industry of the country. He was largely instrumental in forming plans for he construction and equipment of the Sarnia general hospital, and contributed largely to its maintenance.

Mr. Mackenzie filled many offices of county of Lambton, a member of the council of the town of Sarnia, and member for West Lambton in the Ontario House. He was born in Dunkeld, Scotland, and was the youngest ong whom being the late Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, premier of the Dominion. Deceased leaves a widow, five sons and three daughters, among the latter being Mrs. Ralph King, of Toronto. The others all reside in Sarnia. Mr. Mackenzie was in his 67th year. death is a severe loss to the business one would entertain a suggestion to interests of Sarnia. The funeral will return to the abandoned method. Rural Mail Delivery.

[Toronto Globe.]

The collection and delivery of mail matter will be a natural development of the present policy of the postmastergeneral, and will, no doubt, be the established system in some municipalities in the near future. The experience of several states of the American Union has shown the system to be thoroughly practical, and by no means costly, considering its many advantages. Rural offices are not equipped with delivery wagons, but are to a great extent abolished and their places supplied by the delivery services. The system is, in brief, the substitution of one movable postoffice for several stationary ones, and while it makes but a slight vice incomparably better. Where mail- a fellow is sick. ing or receiving a letter formerly involved a long drive to the village, mail matter is now collected and delivered once a day. secondary results has been the marked improvement of country roads. The American postoffice department makes of seven brothers, all of whom predeceased him, the most prominent amit a condition of the establishment of a free delivery system that the roads be kept in a suitable condition for operating the service at all seasons of the year. Large sums have been spent on the improvement of country roads where the chief stimulus has been the prospect of mail delivery, and wherev-His er the system has been established no one would entertain a suggestion to far as reliable data as to cost have been collected it is established that where one delivering and collecting wagon can be made to do the work of six stationary offices there is virtually no addition to the cost. districts are more sparsely settled and more difficult to cover the cost is proportionately increased, but in either case the delivery system is far more convenient. It is past the experimental stage, and may be regarded as a possibility of the near future in some rural municipalities on this side of the line. As a means of making rural life more attractive it will fittingly supplement the general policy of removing unnecessary taxation on farm

Lumbago Driven Out by Dodd's Kid ney Pills.

Nominally the Western Fair opened in East Prince. today, but, of course, the exhibits have not all been perfected. It will take until tomorrow night, at least, to arrange in good form the tons of material that are now on the grounds. The freight and express agents have been gates of Montmagny, Alphonse Bernier, and are still very busy taking goods from outside places to the park and from outside places to the park, and local vehicles of every description are being utilized for the same purpose. Hundreds of men are now working to have everything ready for the school children on Saturday, and it goes without saying that they will be delighted with what they see. It has been pointed out in previous issues that special and elaborate alterations have been made on the grounds and buildings this year, and that, while doing this, particular care has been taken to produce a pleasing effect as well as to provide more perfect accommodation. It is unnecessary to detail these changes again, although in summary it might be said, without being extravagant, that in completeness no fair grounds in Canada surpasses London's. Even now a brief mention of the live stock building is permissible. It was not chance that caused the directorate to build large stock sheds, to make room for 500 more head of swine, to enlarge the sheep building and rearrange the horse barns, but it was simple, honest faith in the show as an agricultural exhibition, and the result also of a continual watchfulness over the needs of their patrons.

of acceptance. A person's impression of the fair, favorable or otherwise, is often the result of the effect produced by the first building viewed. In the case of the Western, the visitor invariably goes through the main building immediately after entering the grounds. For a couple of years it has not been quite as good as might be desired, and with the thoughts had considerable trouble in allotting space to the importunate exhibitors who desired it. This state of affairs is not confined to one building, the same difficulty having been experienced in all the departments. The special attractions will be of the same excellent kind that have always been seen at the Western Fair, They will add in no small measure to the pleasure of a day spent out at the park. In order that they may all be seen to better advantage, a number of pines in the ring have been cut down. All the changes that have been made have been supervised by Chairman James H. Brown, to whom credit is now most largely due for the splendid appearance of the grounds.

NEW ONTARIO

Building of Roads Followed by Steady Influx of Settlers.

Toronto, Sept. 6 .- W. A. Campbell, provincial road inspector, who has spent the last few months superintend-, ing the construction of colonization roads in New Ontario, reports that about 300 miles of roads have been built by the Government this year. The building of the roads has been followed by a steady influx of settlers, quite a number of whom have come from the United States. Next year a larger grant for colonization roads will be asked for from the legislature. Mr. Campbell is enthusiastic in his praises of the agricultural advantages of the Thunder Bay and other northern districts. The climate and the soil, he says, are considerably ahead of what he expected to find. Some of the new settlers, who went in a couple of years ago, have already 70 or 80 acres of land cleared and cultivated, and are rapidly growing rich.

GOLD BRICK GAME

Bank President Taken in by Sharpers From Montreal-Paid $18,000 for $6.81 Value.

Denver, Sept. 6 .- William Kerr, the kind-hearted Nebraska bank president, who thought he was buying an $18,000 gold brick for $13,000, will in all probability have a chance to see behind prison bars the man who swindled him. The gold brick for which Kerr paid $13,000 was worth $6 81. Three gold brick swindlers were arrested at Montreal, Canada, a day or so ago, as they were about to turn another trick, and the police believe they are the men who swindled Kerr. Kerr is the president of the First National Bank of Hastings, Neb. He went into the woods, where he met an Indian with the brick. Kerr took filings from it and had them assayed. The assay was so high that he figured it out that the brick was worth $18,000. It is evident that genuine gold filings were adroitly exchanged for the brass filings that were taken from the brick, else Kerr would have discovered the fraud. The men making the sale said they needed money and would sell for $15,000. Kerr finally purchased the brick for $13,000. He shipped it to the

A few days ago a gold brick man approached W. T. and L. Gordon, wealthy men of Danville, Que., and wanted to sell them a brick. All the details were gone through with as in the case with Kerr, and an assayer said the brick was worth $10,000. The swinds lers were willing to sell it for $5,000, and this aroused the suspicions of the purchasers. They noticed the detectives, but went on with the scheme, and as the swindlers were having cashed the check which the Gordons had given them they were arrested and thrown into jail. They gave their names as Stephen Pratt, Abner C. White and John Saunders. They answer the description of the men who swindled Kerr, and they are thought to be the Ingersoll, Sept. 6 .- At a meeting of the town council Tuesday evening Mr. Mills spoke of the gift from the town to the three members of the first Canadian contingent who went from here. This matter ought to be carefully investigated and a reasonable effort put forth to find out what became of the money.

Germany Decides It Is Necessary to Retain Her Forces in Pekin.

London, Sept. 6 .- A special dispatch from Hong Kong contains the remarkable statement that Li Hung Chang has received advices from Pekin to the effect that the allied forces are gradually handing over the government of the capital to the Chinese, and that Prince Ching (former president of the Tsung Li Yamen) has been placed in charge of the Imperial City. RUSSIA'S MONROE DOCTRINE. What is now designated in some quarters as an attempt to establish a "Russian Monroe Doctrine" in Asia, seems doomed to modification. Hence the prospects of the continued concord of the powers are believed to be improving. It is thought that the announcement of the names of the four personages appointed by imperial edict as Chinese peace commissioners will furnish Russia with a plausible reason to join in the American demand for the appointment of a more satisfactory commission, and give Russia ground for delaying the withdrawal of her troops from Pekin until the Chinese imperial party shows a more conciliatory disposition.

GERMANY'S REPLY

Washington, Sept. 6 .- The attitude of gus. the German government on the Russian proposal to withdraw the troops from Pekin, has been made known to the United States, and is to the effect that Germany considers it necessary to retain her forces in Pekin.

The allied forces are in no way equipped for such a crusade.

The Boxers are still active in Shan Tung Province. Five hundred Boxers attacked a patrol of German marines near Lan Tsun (?) on Sept. 5, with the result that forty Boxers were killed and the Germans suffered no loss.

A few minutes later Mr. Houghton

"What is it, Wallace?" his wife exclaimed in alarm, observing his white face and agitated manner.

They have found him-they arrested that man."

"Whom?" she cried, eagerly.
"Murray, Louis' father. They discovered him in a miserable gamblinghouse, and under the influence of liquor. He was excited, and from his talk they suspected who he was, although he has been known by another name all along. He seemed to have plenty of money, too, and that was another suspicious fact. Some one asked him where his son Louis was, and he cursed him with an oath, saying that he was too mean and tight to bleed well, that he would not part with his gold even to save his own father from starving. When they arrested him, however, he seemed to come to himself, denied that he was Murray and all knowledge of Louis, claiming that he was a single man, and had no son. It was too late, though, and he is now safely lodged behind iron bars."

"We must try and keep it from Mar-gie; she was so bright and like her old self this morning," said Mrs. Houghton, looking greatly distressed. We cannot keep it from her, the papers will be full of it. I wish, though, we were safely across the Atlantic," observed Mr. Houghton, Meanwhile Margaret proceeded directly to a hardware store and made the purchases that Louis nad desired, and then slipping them deftly out of sight into a deep pocket in the skirt of her dress, inquired for some fancy brass-headed tacks, suitable for upholstering.

Supplied with these she turned to leave the store. Just outside the door, to her consternation, she encountered Arthur Aspinwall! Like a phantom he seemed to rise up in her path wherever she went. He had turned the corner of the street a little above just as she had entered the store; he recognized her by her dress-it being a suit he had always admired-and his curiosity was aroused to the highest pitch to know what she could wish to purchase in a place of that kind. Margaret's heart bounded into her throat as she recognized him. What if he had been looking in at one of the windows while she was buying the saw and file. His suspicions would be instantly aroused, and all her plans defeated, she thought. But she controlled her agitation marvelously well, and glanced up at him with a smile of greeting.

"Good-morning," she said, "how queer that we should meet here." That was just what I was thinking," he returned, observing her close-"What is there in this line of goods that a lady like you can possibly

"Then," she retorted, in reply to his observation, while she shot a sly glance at him, "my first command is that you shall not talk nonsense to me; my second, that you act as my cavalier this morning, carry my bundles, and make yourself generally useful, and be treated to an invitation to lunch afterward, as a reward for your good behavior." "Ah, who could resist such temptations as those-your commands-excepting the first one-are but pleasures, and as seductive as the promised reward," he responded gayly.

"One is as imperative as another, and you are breaking my first already, sir; give me back my tacks, and I will go on by myself," Margaret returned, with an air of mock displeasure.

"Please, ma'am, I won't do it any more-I will be good," Arthur pleaded, with boyish flumility, and boldly taking possession of her shopping bag, he surrendered himself to her service. It was not often that he found her so pleasant and amiable, and he enjoyed her company very much. Her purchases were at last completed, and they turned their faces homeward, where they arrived just in time for lunch.

Mrs. Houghton looked surprised to see them come in together, for she could not fail to see, of late, that Arthur's society had been distasteful to Margaret; but she concealed feelings, and their lunch project the gayest meal that had been atten in that house for many days.

CHAPTER XXXV.

"Mamma, let us drive out to Buttes Chamont this afternoon." Margaret suddenly proposed while they were at "I have never had a view of the c ty from that point in the winter. and we could get a fine one today, it is so pleasant, and the air so clear.

"Very well, I am ready for any expedition that will interest you," Houghton responded, glad to accede to anything that would please her daughter, if by so doing she could keep that bright look on her face.

"Can you go too, Arthur? Are you at liberty for all day." Margaret asked, turning persuasively to him. "Certainly, I can go, I should be delighted." Then I am going to send a note to Floy Arnold and invite her to come with us," said Margaret.

Floy Arnold was a young lady from New York whose acquaintance the Houghtons had made in the early part of the winter. She had come to Paris for a year to acquire the correct pronunciation of the language, and she had been a very kind and sympathizing friend to Margie during her trou-

"That will make a party of four, and just a carriage full," Margaret continued, adding, with pretty impera-"And I lay my command upon you, Sir Arthur, to carry the invitation to her directly after lunch, and use your most persuasive powers to induce her to accompany us.' It was very artful, and she knew it, to make him commit himself thusto make him carry the note to the young girl, and thus virtually pledge himself to her to act as an escort to the party, of which she had no intention of making one.

"Your commands are always as a law unto me," Arthur gallantly responded.

"Thanks, excuse me, then, and I will write it at once," Margaret said, rising hastily from the table to stem the indignant tide which she felt was creeping up to her brow in a hot flush at his presumption in saying fond things to her.

How she longed for the time when she could unmask him, and tell him she knew what a miserable villain he

A little before that time he present-ed himself again in her parlor, to find, to his chagrin, Margaret lying upon a

I cannot forget flow I felt when I took it; I was suffering everything with indigestion, and my stomach was so bloated that it seemed as though it must burst. My husband said he was going for the doctor, but I said if he would get me a bottle of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' I would try that. I had not taken it long when I felt relieved, and have not had a touch of indigestion or stomach trouble since. I had been sick for four years, and less than four bottles cured me. Some people that knew me before I began to take the 'Golden Medical Discovery' tell me that they never saw such a change in any one, and they also say they don't see how I can do such large washings as I do now, when I had not done a washing for so long."

"That would perhaps be best, if we had not invited Floy to go with us," Margaret interposed, thoughtfully. "I wrote her that we should call for her promptly at three, and to be sure to be ready. She said she would go, did she not?"

"Yes; she seemed much pleased by the prospect," Arthur admitted, reluctantly.

ABLE POLICY

With Regard to the Manufacture and Sale of Binder Twine.

How the Opposition Have Misrepresented Facts in Hope of Gaining Votes - Everything Conducted on Strictly Business Principles-Benefits Derived by the Farmer.

[From our Ottawa Correspondent.] Ottawa, Sept. 4.-Of the minor questions to which considerable attention has been given by parliament during SOLD IN THE COUNTY OF GREY the last couple of sessions the principal was as near as may be six cents a perhaps is that of the gevernment's pound; and the sales of the Deering policy with regard to the manufacture and sale of binder twine. I characterize it as a minor question simply because it cannot be considered a matter of supreme state importance. At sively that there was no combination the same time the price of binder twine so closely affects the individual ufacturers to put up the price to the farmer that the subject has received consumers. The truth is that from the an amount of attention out of pro- commencement of the Spanish-Ameriportion to its actual weight. As, how- can war down to the beginning of the it must be confessed to have grossly value. his increase in price took misrepresented the facts in the hope of snatching a few votes from the the sales by wholesale men had been consumer, to whom the very practical made, but towards the end of the seaand concrete fact presents itself that son there was an advance in price. he is paying more today for his binder Early in March, 1898, the price rose devoted to its consideration. A BUSINESS PROPOSITION. The manufacture of binder twine by convict labor in the Kingston Penitentiary should be a simple business proposition, undertaken by the govern- government was conducting its busiment with the one object of providing employment for the convicts which will thus produce a portion of their cost of maintenance, without entering into undue competition with outside manufacturers. The present government did not introduce this industry into the penitentiary. They found it established there when they as-sumed office, and their business as trustees of the public funds was to government had employed a traveling agent to dispose of the output upon commission; tenders were not called for, and indeed their policy of employing an agent precluded the possibility of selling on tender. The agent on commission proved an absolute failure, and some of the goods which he sold in 1896 are not paid for yet. Moreover, the present government, when they assumed control in 1896, found an entire season's output in stock with the purchasing season over for that year. BINDER TWINE DETERIORATES year that it is made, so that not only did the late government fail to secure payment for what was sold, but they incurred a heavy loss by failing to dispose at all of the bulk of the year's output. The present government at once offered the stock for sale, advertising for public tender, and the sale was made to Messrs. McColl Bros., of St. John, N. B., the highest tenderer. This firm subsequently disposed of their purchase to the Hobbs Hardware Company, of London, in the ordinary way of business—a transaction in which the government had no concern or control whatever. The following year, after a similar calling for tenders by public advertisement, the output was purchased by Messrs. Bate &

Son, of Ottawa.

The statement has been made and frequently reiterated by Mr. George Taylor, Dr. Sproule and others, in the house and out of it, that there was a combination among the manufacturers to put up the price upon the farmer, and that the governmnt was party to the combine. That there is not a scintilla of truth to this allegation is evident from the fact that THE ENTIRE OUTPUT from the Kingston Penitentiary is only 500 tons a year, while the total amount consumed in the country is not less than eight times that quantity. therefore, the government had reduced the cost to the purchaser to the mere cost of production on this 500 tons it could not have relieved the consumers generally, for there would still be at least 3,500 tons or more yearly required for consumption that must be obtained elsewhere, and could only be obtained at the market value, from those who engaged in the business because they hoped to make reasonable profits upon the product of their skill, their indus-try and their capital. The only effect such a reduction in the sale price of the government output would have been to embarrass and seriously jure private enterprise. Nelther Mr. Taylor nor any other critic of the government's policy has attempted to pro-duce evidence of his charge that there was a monopoly in existence; indeed all the evidence is to the contrary. The various wholesale dealers and manufacturers sold their twine to those engaged in the retail trade throughout the country in such quantities as they were likely to find a market for in their own locality. The variations the price received and shows the price they sold to the retail dealers did not differ materially from the price which the government received from the wholesale purchaser. Last year owing to the war in the Philippine Islands the price of the raw material was greatly enhanced and the dealers who had twine on hand which had been made when the price was lower naturally took advantage of the opportunity to sell their twine at the increased price. Take an example of transactions in Dr. Sproule's own county of Grey.

There the Plymouth agencies sold their twine to the numerous dealers at from five and a half to seven cents a pound, with a reduction of $5 per ton on car lots. The average price received from the retail merchants by the wholesale dealers was six cents per pound. The Hobbs Company sold in the village of Markdale, in which Dr. Sproule resides, binder twine at from five and a half to six and a half cents per pound. The average which they received from the quantities which they Company, of Chicago, in the same county, averaged five and seven-eighths cents a pound, or a little less than the amount received by some of the other companies. These facts show concluever, the opposition have chosen to give present year the price of cordage mathe matter so much prominence, and terial was enormously enhanced in twine that he did two or three years a quarter of a cent a pound; towards ago, a little space may be profitably the close of the month there was another increase of a quarter of a cent a pound, and in June the price varied from nine and a quarter to ten and a half cents, according to the grade of the article. Further evidence that the

ness upon STRICT BUSINESS LINES and giving every advantage to the consumer is the fact that directly there was a slump in the price of raw material the government was on hand to take advantage of it, with the result that this season the penitentiary output, in common with that of the private producer, is offered to the conutilize it to the best advantage in the sumer at greatly reduced prices. Here, interests of the community. The late as previously, the government price is as previously, the government price is controlled by the market. The absurdity of the contention that the penitentiary article, which is but one-eighth of the total supply, can control the market is too manifestly apparent to need further demonstration. It is only necessary to add that the product of last year was disposed of in the same business-like manner by public tender, and in spite of the contention of Mr. Taylor and others that those who secured the contracts before made big money out of them, there were only four tenders received, and the contract, of course, was awarded to such an extent by keeping that it to the highest tenderer. This year is of little value if not sold the same every opportunity has been given the farmer to purchase direct if he so desires, but the Conservative critics have not succeeded in convincing him of his grievances, apparently, for he has only availed himself of the privilege to a limited extent.

TORONTO'S FAIR

Big Crowds Attend-Receipts Tuesday $4,000 More Than a Year Ago.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 6.-The exhibition is going to be a great success, from the standpoint of attendance this year. The receipts on Tuesday were $4,000 greater than on the same day a year ago. Yesterday, farmers' day, the crowd was fully up to last year's figure, 6,500 persons having paid for admission. There is, however, no abatement of the clamor of exhibitors for improved accommodation, and the carriage-makers have warned the management that they will not show again under the present conditions. The number of American visitors, chiefly from the States of New York and Ohio, is greater than in any former

PLUCKY JOE

Blacksmith Attacked by a Vicious Stallion, But the Man Finished His Job.

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 6.-Joseph Grummett, a blacksmith, employed in a shop on the west side of the market square, just south of Pitt street, had a close call for his life Tuesday evening as the result of a vicious attack by a stallion he was shoeing.

The horse was brought into the shop by its owner, "Zack" Jackson, colored, who gave no warning of the victous son claims the stallion never ventured to attack anyone before.

Grummett had just begun ripping the shoes off the animal's front feet, when he bent over and buried his teeth in Grummett's back, and, tossing his head, swung the blacksmith into the air. Another employe of the shop came to Grummett's assistance, and with difficulty succeeded in making the stallion release its hold. Grummett has his wounds dressed, and then pluckily continued the work man held a twisted rope around the animal's mouth. Had Grummett been

Is This Civilization?

[Chicago Tribune.] The story told by the Associated Press of the scenes enacted by some of the foreign troops on the road between Tien Tsin and Pekin is not only shock-SIR RICHARD COMING
Tien Tsin and Pekin is not only ing in its details, but a disgrace to western civilization. The worst outwestern civilization. The worst outwestern civilization are the Boxers are rages charged against the Boxers are mild in comparison with the enormities practiced by the Russian and French soldiers, who were left unrestrained to loot and slaughter unoffending natives at will. It is to the credit of the Germans, English, Japanese and Americans that they behaved Great interest is being evidenced in themselves with some regard to discipline and humanity, and that the officers of the last two exerted themselves successfully to protect property

It was not so, however, with the Russians and French. They engaged in an orgy of plunder and slaughter, and left behind them a wake of destruction in the Pei Ho Valley. homes of the people and their food products were ruthlessly destroyed. The shops were looted, and what could not be carried away was trampled under foot and smashed. Villages were burned. The inhuman Cossacks butch ered inoffensive men, women and children for sport. Natives trying to get back to their homes and farmers working in their fields were used as targets by these wretches. The dispatch says: "The Cossacks would pick up children barely old enough to walk, hold them by the ankles, and beat their brains out on the sidewalks. The American officers at Taku, days after the fighting was finished, saw Russians bayonet children and throw old men into the river, clubbing them to death when they tried to swim. The Russians killed women who knelt before them and begged for mercy. Coolies were killed while trotting along the roads with their loads, and farmers when trying to gather in their grain." And the Russian officers looked on without protest or making any efforts to restrain their soldiers! In view of such outrages as these it is not consistent to inveigh against the cruelties of the Boxers or the uncivilized conditions of the Chinese people. Western civilization has no reason to boast itself over eastern. On the other hand, it should hide its face in shame. War at its best is inhuman, but such methods of warfare as these are the outcome of brute savagery and are a striking commentary upon western civilization. The yellow terror pales in the presence of the Cossack terror. It will be a relief not only to Chinese but to humane persons everywhere when Russia's proposal is accepted and its troops are withdrawn and negotiations for peace begin. In the meantime, the missionaries who have been laboring so zealously to convert Chi-nese to Christianity might transfer their field of labor to the Cossacks, who have not only devastated the Pei Ho Valley, but, according to another dispatch, are exterminating the Chinese in Manchuria.
