At the time the accident occurred a freight train was standing close to the crossing.

An electric motor, drawing one car, was approaching from the south.

The safety gates were up, and the motor ran over the freight train.

Just as the motor was about to pass the freight train, a locomotive had crossed the railroad track, and was behind the freight train.

The pilot of the engine struck the electric car, tearing it apart and hurling one to each side of the track.

At least a score of persons were on the train car.

Twelve loaded freight cars ahead of the wrecked engine were derailed, and completely wrecked. None of the trainmen were injured.

"THE NEW SONG"

That is Being Sung by Heaven's Cathedral Choir.

Rev. Dr. Talmage Discourses on the Melodies of the Celestial Land.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 8.—Dr. Talmage's sermon yesterday was a glowing description of the melodies of the celestial land. His text was Rev. v. 9: "And they sang a new song." Nearly all the duties of Europe and America have consociated of music and associations whose object it is, by voice and instrument, to advance the art of sweet sounds.

On Thursday night Euter Hall, of London, used to resound with the music of first-class performers, who gave their services gratuitously to the masses, who came in with free tickets and buzzed at the entertainment. One Berlin orchestra daily the military band, 60 or 100 instruments, discourses at the Royal Opera House for the people.

On Easter Sunday in Dresden excepted from cannon and the ringing of bells bring multitudes to the churches to listen to the organ peals and the exciting sounds of trumpet and drum. When the great fair day of Leipzig comes the bands of music from far and near, gather in the street, and bewilder the ear with incessant playing of flute and horn, violin and bassoon.

At Dresden, once every year, the musical assembly, and for three or four days wait upon the great singing festivals, and shout at the close of the choruses, and greet the successful competitors at the prizes and gold. All our American cities at times resound with orchestras and choruses. Those who can sing well or play skillfully upon instruments are greatly sought after, and are highly valued by excited admirers. There are many whose most ecstatic delight is to be found in melodies; and all the splendor of celestial gates, and all the luxuriance of twelve manner of fruit, and all the rush of floods from under the throne of God, would not make a heaven for them if there were no great and transporting harmonies.

Passing along the street, from the temple of God and the Lamb, the breaking forth of magnificent jubilate. We may not yet enter in among the pined throngs, but God will not deny us the pleasure of standing awhile on the outside to hear. John listened to it a great while ago, and "they sang a new song." Let none suppose that blessed angels have no love for this exercise, for although it is many ages since the thrones were set, and the harps were strung, there has been no cessation of the band of heaven for about 30 minutes; and, judging from the glorious things now transpiring in God's world, and the ever-accumulating triumphs of the Messiah, that was the last half-hour that will ever be silent.

Mark the fact that this was a new song. Sometimes I have in church been flooded away upon some great choral, in which all the choir sang, and I have said, "Surely this is music good enough for heaven. Indeed I do not believe that 'Luther's Hymn,' or 'Coronation,' or 'Old Hundred,' or 'Mount Pisgah,' would sound ill if spoken by sainted lips, or trumped from seraphic harps. There are many of our fathers and mothers in glory who would be slow to shut their eyes to the music of old-time harmonies. But this, we are told, is a new song, and in sweetness and power it will be something that ear never heard.

All the skill and the power of heaven will be flung into it. In its cadence the floods will clap their hands, and it will drop with the sunlight of everlasting day, and breathe with life from the bosom of the tree of life. "A new song"—just made for heaven.

Many earthly songs are written by composers just for the purpose of making a tune. Once in while a man is wrought up by some great spectacle, or moved by some terrible agony, or transported by some exquisite gladness, and he sits down to write a hymn, or a song, which every note or every word is a spark dropped from the forge of his own burning emotions. So Mendelssohn wrote, and so Beethoven, and so Charles Wesley. One day, depressed with misfortunes until almost insane, resolved on suicide, and asked the cabdriver to take him to a certain place where he expected to destroy his own life. The cabdriver took him to the spot, per began to think of his sin, and went back to his home and sat down and wrote:

"God moves in a mysterious way, His wonders to perform; He plants His footsteps on the sea, And rides upon the storm."

"Ye faithful saints, fresh courage take, His wonders to perform; He plants His footsteps on the sea, And rides upon the storm."

Mozart composed his own requiem, and said to his daughter Emily, "Play that; and while Emily was playing the requiem, Mozart's soul went upon the wave of his own music into glory. Emily looked around, and her father was dead. This new song of heaven was not composed because heaven had nothing else to do, but Christ, in memory of cross and crown, of manger and throne, of earth and heaven, and wrought upon by the raptures of the great eternity, poured this from his heart, made it for the armies of heaven to shout in celebration of victory, for worshippers to chant in their temple services, for the innumerable hosts of heaven to sing in the house of many mansions. It is some time before a congregation learn a new tune. But not so with the new song of heaven. The children who went up to-day from the waters of the Ganges are now singing it. That Christian man or woman, who a few minutes ago, departed from this very street, has joined it. All know it—those by the gates, those on the river bank, those on the temple, and while I speak heaven's cathedral quakes under it, and seas of glory bear it from beach to beach, and ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands sing it—the new song.

Further: It will be an accompanied song, for I read that when he had taken the book the four-and-twenty elders fell down before the Lamb, having every one of them "harp," and "I heard the voice from the harpers harping with their harps," and "I saw them that had gotten the victory from the beast standing on the sea of glass, having the harps." It will be an anticipative song. Why, my friends, heaven has hardly begun yet. Our holidays last only eight or ten days; but heaven, although singing for so many years, has only just begun "the new song" if the glorified inhabitants recount past deliverances they will also exult in glories to come. Although millions are already in heaven, the inhabitants are only a handful compared with the future populations. All China is yet to be saved. All India is yet to be saved. All Borneo is yet to be saved. All Switzerland is yet to be saved. All Italy is yet to be saved. All Spain is yet to be saved. All Russia is yet to be saved. All France is yet to be saved. All America is yet to be saved. All the world is yet to be saved. After that there may be other worlds to conquer. I do not know but that every star

THE LEGAL MEANING OF THE WORD "EITHER." The legal meaning of the word "either" was gravely argued in an English court recently. A certain testator had left property the disposition of which was affected by the "death of either" of two persons. One lawyer insisted that "either" meant both, and in support of his view he quoted Richardson, Webster, Chaucer, Dryden, Southey, the story of the crucifixion and a passage from Revelation. The judge suggested that there was a song in "The Beggar's Opera" which took another view: "How happy could I be with either were 't'other dear charmer away." In pronouncing judgment the court ruled that "either" meant one of two, and did not mean "both"; it might have that meaning occasionally in poetry, but never in a court of chancery.
