THOUSANDS HEARD GEN. BOOTH WHEN HE VISITED LONDON IN 1902

Aged Friend of Mankind Was an Inspiring Figure as He Told the Story of His Life to Vast Audience—Some of Those Who Were With Him On the Platform Have Passed Away.

General Booth's last visit to London was on Oct. 27, 1902, while he was making a four-months' tour of Canada and the United States. His visit of that date aroused the utmost interest among all classes. The rich and the poor made up the thousands that went to the three meetings which he conducted in the Grand Opera House. None who attended them could have gone away unimpressed. General Booth dominated them.

The meetings were charged with his personality. His patriarchical form upon the stage the commanding figure, no matter whether he was standing addressing the people, sitting, or resting; and not simply was it easy to understand why he should be such a force among his followers but hard to believe how it could be otherwise. He seemed the spirit of evangelism, influencing people by his message, singing, exhortations and prayer.

Immense Crowds.

The three meetings which he held here drew immense crowds to the opera house, and though the rain fell in torrents, hundreds of would-be listeners were turned away. The general spoke in the neighborhood of an hour at each of the meetings, with apparently no great effort or decreased vigor, although he had been performing a similar task for some weeks past.

Hon. Adam Beck was then mayor of London, and he was chairman of the meeting. Other citizens on the platform were ex-Mayor Rumball, Col. Little, ex-Mayor Stevely, the late Judge Wm. Elliot, Sheriff Cameron, the late Mr. Thomas McCormick, Mr. P. E. Burke, Mr. John Labatt, the late Mr. B. A. Mitchell, Mr. George A. Somerville, now of Toronto; Mr. C. F. Complin, and other church workers. It was at this meeting the general told of his own life, how his youth had been spent in a worldly home, and his life a wicked one. He had been converted at the age of 15, and on his freedom from the evil spirit, which prevailed in his home, had started his present work for the enlightenment of the dark parts of human life. He felt the desire to go into the world and grapple with the crime and sin it contained, whence came the foundation of the Salvation Army, with its single purpose to help others, to help men and women to live better and purer lives.

Cutting the Link.

The general spoke of eternity that evening, explained what he thought eternity meant and pleaded with them to prepare themselves, so that they might spend eternity with God.

"You've got the power to cut the link which binds you to time," he said, "but you can't cut the link which binds you to eternity. You've got the power to bear a curse or a blessing to yourself and to your fellows. Every man has the power to spend eternity in heaven or in hell. If you prepare for it right, you will spend it in heaven; if you don't prepare for it right, you will spend it in hell." He explained his opinion of what it means to be righteous in regard to the past, having acknowledged sins and got rid of them; having a right character, and being right in one's heart, and to one's duty when the last call shall come; to be ready for heaven, he said, one must be ready to put away the things God is against; one must be willing to be his servant, and must accept salvation without money and without price."

GENERAL BOOTH ENDS NOBLE LIFE

UNCONSCIOUS AT LAST

Was Generally Considered the Most Militant Christian of Present Day.

London, Aug. 20.—General William Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, died this evening. He had been failing since last May when an operation for cataract was performed on his left eye.

General Booth's last message to Salvationists throughout the world was: "His promises are sure, if you believe." He spoke his final intelligible words on Sunday, when he said: "Don't worry; let me die; I want to go to heaven."

Peter the Hermit, riding out of Amiens with a crucifix at the head of his mule to preach the first crusade, gathered into his train not a hundredth part of the number of militant Christians that have followed General William Booth out of Whitechapel under his banner, which read "Blood and Fire."

A Splendid Crusade.

The crusade that General Booth commenced in the London slums has continued for 45 years, and is still progressing. The obscure Wesleyan clergyman who preached that crusade with all the vigor and none of the fanaticism of Peter of Amiens lived to see the spread of his following army across the borders of more than fifty countries, his soldiers numbered by the tens of thousands, and the effect of his reforms felt in all society.

It has been said of General Booth that, like Abraham, he believed in God; like Abraham, he was a patriarch and implacable lawgiver over his people. He sacrificed a son who would not yield obedience.

William Booth was born in Nottingham, England, April 10, 1829. His father was a carpenter, who had little but a consuming religious zeal to support him in the world. By dint of much economy the carpenter managed to give his son a half education and

W. BRAMWELL BOOTH.
Acting Head of the Salvation Army, Who It Is Expected Will Succeed His Father.

ALL DENOMINATIONS WILL BE ASKED TO TAKE PART IN JOINT SERVICE FOR GENERAL BOOTH

Salvation Army of London Will Honor the Memory of Their Revered Leader—Major Morris Pays Glowing Tribute to Honored Dead.

The London corps of the Salvation Army will hold special memorial services in honor of the late General Booth, in which all other religious denominations will be asked to take part. The services will probably be held next Sunday or if arrangements cannot be completed by that time, the Sunday following will be the day.

At the local headquarters deep regret is expressed over the death of the leader. A telegram had been recived this morning from Commisioner Rees containing the official news of his death, which stated that Bramwell Booth, the general's oldest son, and chief of the army, was brokenhearted.

An Awful Loss.

"The army has sustained many losses in the 40 years of its existence, but never one that equalled this," said Major Morris to The Advertiser this morning. "His life was an unselfish one, and he turned out to be no millionaire, as many said and expected he would. That he was loved throughout the world, as well as among his followers is evident to all. A man with his activity, to be deprived of his eyesight was as bad as death to him.

'We were preparing for a visit from the general this fall, if his health permitted him to come. We had received official word to make preparation for his coming, and were going to give a royal welcome to him.

"It is ten years ago since the general was last in London, and the old man endeared himself to all who met him. When his funeral takes place it will be the largest ever held, and secular and religious, and representatives from all over the world will attend the ceremonies."

CORSICAN ARRIVES AT LIVERPOOL; CAPTAIN TELLS OF COLLISION

[Canadian Press.]

Liverpool, Aug. 21.—The Allan Line steamer Corsican, which struck an iceberg east of Belle Isle, near Newfoundland, on the afternoon of Aug. 12, while on her voyage from Montreal for this port, arrived here this morning. The forepart of the vessel was protected with collision bulkheads. Otherwise she showed no signs of damage.

Capt. Cook, the commander of the Corsican, in the course of an interview when the vessel had docked, said:

"The weather was hazy when the Corsican collided with the iceberg on Aug. 12. She was travelling at dead slow speed when the iceberg was sighted right ahead. The engines were immediately put astern, but the Corsican touched before she could be stopped. She suffered no damage below ten feet ofwaterline. The crew was at once called to stations and the boats were swung out, but were soon taken back again.

Closed the Doors.

All the watertight doors were at once closed. The weather continued foggy for four days after the collision, but the ship was able to proceed at moderate speed. Her boats were protected with collision bulkheads.

Most of the passengers of the Corsican say there was no panic on board at the time of the collision. Two Cambridge students named Bethell and Stevens, however, say they were almost thrown out of their bunks by the violence of the impact. They also assert that a number of the passengers were panic-stricken and that one woman called on everybody to kneel and pray.

The students assert that 10 tons of ice fell on the ship's decks, and that there was nineteen feet of water in the hold last Sunday.

The crew, they said, were unable to stop in the forecastle after the collision. Several of the passengers had narrow escapes.

"Several Italians on board were seized with panicc, grabbed their bags and jumped into the boats. If we had taken to the boats there would have been no chance of being picked up, as the fogbank was said to be 100 miles wide. As a matter of fact we did not sight a boat for two days."

The captain asserts that the Corsican did not ship any water.

The passengers held a meting today shortly before their arrival and presented Captain Cook with a gold watch and a purse of gold. Several speeches were made, in which the passengers paid high tributes to the captain, who, in responding said:

"I am proud of all the men under my command. They performed their duty well under very trying circumstances. Every man was ready to respond in case of emergency, but all felt that they had only done their duty.

"BUFFALO RED" IS ARRESTED WANTED ON BURGLARY CHARGE

Edward McKenna, Picked Up For Drunkeness, Proves a "Find."

"Edward McKenna," who very unwisely grew familiar with John Barleycorn last night, and later found his way into the hands of P. C. Cecil McRoberts, because of his drunkenness, was recognized by Detective Sergeant Nickle when taken to the Carling street station as McKenna, alias Harry Pitts, alias Ed. Deaurell, alias Buffalo Red, who has been wanted since April last for burglary and jail-breaking at Stratford.

McKenna was taken back to Stratford by an officer from that place today, Chief of Police McCartney having been communicated with by Detective Nickle. A reward of $20 was offered for McKenna's capture by the Stratford authorities.

A Long Record.

McKenna, as he is now known, has a very long record in this city and district, and has twice served five-year terms. In July, 1893, he was arrested here for theft, and was sentenced to serve four months. Six months was his portion in July, 1896, when he was convicted of housebreaking in London, and in July, 1898, he was sentenced to two and a half years on another housebreaking charge here. In August, 1900, he committed a burglary at Montreal, and was given five years, but despite this returned to London, and on Nov. 27, 1906, entered the house of Mr. Scatcherd, of Piccadilly street. For this offence he served another five years.

About a year ago he was arrested as Harry Pitts in Stratford, and drew six months on a burglary charge. Two days after his time was up, two burglaries were committed in the village of Tavistock, and another the following day at Stratford. The same man was arrested, but while he was awaiting trial he made a daring jail delivery on April 26, and was never afterward located.

Arrested as a Drunk.

It was thought that he headed in this direction, but nothing definite was known concerning his movements until he was brought in last night for drunkenness. When called as Edward McKenna by Police Magistrate Judd this morning, the prisoner did not discuss his record, but begged to be released before the arrival of the Stratford police, claiming that he had settled down and had been working for months for a farmer named Munroe, who lives on the fifth concession of Westminster Township.

It is not known to whom the $20 reward will be granted.

WOULDN'T LICK STAMPS; FINED ONE HUNDRED

Prominent London Businessman First to be Prosecuted Under Insurance Act.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Aug. 21.—A London cable says:

The first prosecution under the Insurance Act took place at the Lambeth police court yesterday, when William Hurlock, 70 years old, a prominent Liberal who has been in business as a draper in Walworth road, South London, for more than 50 years and who employs about 100 persons, was arraigned.

He had openly announced his intention to disobey the act, and was fined $25 on each of three summonses for refusing to lick stamps and $25 costs on the first summons. Permission was given to state a case for appeal.

STATION BURGLARIZED

G. T. R. Officials Are Investigating a Case at Eastwood.

Grand Trunk detectives are investigating the burglary of the station at Eastwood, which occurred some time on either Saturday or Sunday. Few details of the occurrence have reached the local offices, but it is said that only a small amount of money was obtained.

TRIPLE ENTENTEE ANNOUNCED BY THE PREMIER OF FRANCE

States That the Republic Has a Complete Understanding With Russia in Regard to Common Action for all Eventualities, and That Great Britain Approves of Move.

Dunkirk, France, Aug. 21.—Premier Raymond Poincare was welcomed like a victorious general when he landed here today from the French armored cruiser Conde, on his return from his successful mission to Russia. The entire town was decorated with flags and all the inhabitants turned out to cheer the premier.

At a luncheon given in his honor by the mayor at the town hall, Premier Poincare made a brief speech in which he declared that his visit to Russia had resulted in a complete understanding in regard to the common action to be taken by France and Russia to meet all eventualities likely to arise out of European complications either at the present time or in the future. This united action, he concluded, had been immensely strengthened by support which Great Britain was giving to France-Russian aims.

ELOQUENT TRIBUTE TO DEAD GENERAL

London Newspapers Place Booth By Side of Wesley and Luther.

HIS END WAS PEACEFUL

News of Father's Death Causes Physical Collapse of Miss Evangeline Booth.

(Canadian Press.)

London, Aug. 21.—Out of respect for the memory of the late Gen. Wm. Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, who died at Hadley, a suburb of London, last night, all the flags floating on Salvation Army headquarters throughout the country were half-masted.

At the international headquarters in Queen Victoria street, in the centre of the city, a constant stream of messengers bringing telegrams and letters of condolence from every part of the globe flowed all day. Among those who sent messages of sympathy were prominent personages belonging to the Government, the army, the navy, and every branch of life, while dispatches were also received from kings and other royalties. Cablegrams were received from countries as diverse as Patagonia and Lapland.

The lying-in-state of the late Gen. Booth is to take place at the Salvation Army congress hall, Clapton, in the northeast of London, where the body will remain for a week. The funeral arrangements have not yet been settled.

Major Perry, of the Salvation Army, said this morning that messages were coming from high and low, rich and poor, in all parts of the world.

London, Aug. 21. — Col. Kitching said that up to Saturday Gen. Booth showed solicitude for the work of the army.

"We had not expected the end quite so soon." Col. Kitching continued.

"The general died very peacefully and quietly, without the slightest struggle. His breathing simply became less and less until it ceased altogether. I think the operation may have accelerated death, but I do not believe it was the ccuse of his death, I think, perhaps, the disappointment following the non-return of the general's sight was a greater strain upon him than the operation itself. He was very buoyant until three weeks ago, when a decided change for the worse occurred. After that time he sank gradually.

"When Gen. Booth said, from time to time, that when the wires flashed round

AT LONG BRANCH

Riflemen Have To Contend With Breeze and Poor Light.

[Canadian Press.]

Long Branch Rifle Range, Aug. 21.—The ideal weather conditions of the first two days of the Ontario Rifle Association matches broke today, and when the riflemen started in on the Bankers' match at 500 yards for prizes aggregating $425, they faced a fitful breeze and variable light. About 11:30, a downpour of rain made things uncomfortable for a few minutes. The alternate flashes of sunshine and cloudy sky made it fairly certain that no records would suffer today.

The shoot-off for the 21 places on the final stage of the City of Toronto match is taking place today among 30 competitors.

One of the interesting features of this afternoon's program is the school cadets' match, in which the party of twelve Australian cadets, under Warrant Officer Hart, will compete. They arrived at the range shortly before noon, having reached Toronto from Montreal this morning.

Shooting in the MacDonald match, named after the late Judge A. MacDonald, of Guelph, is proceeding this afternoon for $389 in cash prizes, 7 shots at 500 yards. In the Bankers' match this morning, the 14-year-old Dungannon boy, Discher, made 33 out of 35 under conditions which puzzled some of the veterans.

MILLET'S WILL.

New York, Aug. 21.—The will of Frank D. Millet, the American artist, who lost his life in the sinking of the steamship Titanic, as filed for probate here, leaves an estate estimated at nearly $100,000 to his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Millet, who lives in Worcestershire, England.

"HELLO GIRL" IS IN NO DANGER

Machine to Take the Place of Operators Not Yet a Success.

LONDON WONT TRY IT

At Brantford and Peterboro the Results Were Far From Satisfactory, It Is Said.

Experiments are being tried in London (England) with an idea of perfecting a mechanical device that will do away with girls in telephone exchanges. The machine has been tried at Brantford and Peterboro with rather unsatisfactory results. The scheme was then abandoned, but at the present time further experiments are being made in England.

According to information furnished The Advertiser at the Bell Telephone Company's office, the new machine will not be tried in London for some years, at least. As a result, they claim, the girls need not worry about their positions.

"We will not trifle with the machine until it is vastly improved," The Advertiser was informed. "So far the experiments in Ontario have not been satisfactory. There will be no girlless telephones here for some time."

Doubling the Staff.

In proof of that assertion the company are making preparations to double the staff of girls employed here. At the present time 80 of them are engaged in the work here, and 150 will be used when the office is doubled in size.

The Alberta Government is using two of the machines. One is installed at Edmonton and the other at Calgary. The results have not been as favorable as was anticipated, and they will probably be abandoned unless better results are obtained. In smaller towns and villages in England the results have been fairly satisfactory, but good results have not been obtained in cities. None of the larger telephone companies in America have touched the machine as yet.

The New Idea.

The operation of the automatic 'phone is comparatively simple. On a round brass disk there are ten holes, through which the numbers 1 to 9 and 0 are shown.

You want a number. You poke a finger through the hole of that number's first figure, and pull the disk as far round as it will go. This you do two, three or four times, according to whether your number runs to tens, hundreds or thousands.

Then you wait. Excited buzzing from the machines; a bell rings, and you are "through."

Sometimes the number is engaged. If it is, you hear no bell. You wait, and try again.

If the mechanism gets out of order, then the trouble starts. The central switchboard is a wonderful piece of work.

30,000 FLIES BROUGHT TO THE HEALTH OFFICE

Swatting Contest Is Going On But Season Is Poor One For Business.

Dr. Hutchinson, medical health officer, stated today that thus far 30,000 flies have been killed, and have been sent to his office in the swat-the-fly contest. The weather has been too cool for the contestants to kill many flies, as the insects are very scarce this year, but the doctor believes that before the end of the month there will be many hundreds of thousands of the pests brought to his office.

BIDS WERE OPENED FOR HOSPITAL WORK

Contracts Will Be Awarded at Meeting This Afternoon.

At a special meeting of the hospital trust held in the mayor's office at noon today, tenders for the alteration of the east wing of Victoria Hospital were opened, and given to Mr. H. C. McBride, the architect, to tabulate. Another meeting is being held this afternoon when contracts will be awarded. The tenders were not in bulk, and the figures could not be obtained. Mr. McBride is confident that the work can be done for less than the amount of debentures issued—$15,000.

Those present at the meeting were Col. W. M. Gartshore, chairman; Llewellyn Meredith, Geo. B. Harris, Mayor Graham, Superintendent Heard and Mr. H. C. McBride.

DOGS IN THE STREET ANNOY THE CITIZENS

London Is Beginning to Look Like a Suburb of Constantinople.

The number of dogs running about the streets of late has increased until they have become a nuisance. Many canines have been amusing themselves chasing street cars and rigs, until visitors have come to the conclusion that London is a suburb of Constantinople.

Complaints were lodged at the city hall today, and it is possible that the owners of the animals will be summoned or compelled to keep the dogs from running wild on the streets.

"These dogs chase cars and rigs," said a citizen today. "They frighten women and children, and are a nuisance generally. They should be locked up. That sort of thing smacks too much of the village. A dog catcher might not be a bad thing just now."

GOES TO THE COAST.

Mr. John Reeves Was Hurt When Car Lurched Around a Corner.

Mr. J. F. Faulds, barrister, of this city, has been instructed by Mr. John Reeves, 131 Langarth street, to enter a suit for damages against the street railway company for injuries sustained while a passenger on a street car. On Saturday night about 7:30, Mr. Reeves was on Ridout street car No. 94, and when the car turned the corner of Edward and Briscoe street very quickly he was thrown on to a number of suitcases on the back platform and suffered severe injuries to his side.

FINE SECOND GROWTH BLACK RASPBERRIES

Mr. John R. Deacon Exhibits Some Remarkable Specimens.

Mr. John R. Deacon, fruit grower, of the Pipe Line road, brought into the city this morning some remarkable second-growth black raspberries. It is not usual for young plants to bear fruit the first year. The berries are known as the GrGegg, and are of very large appearance. They are displayed in The Advertiser window and have caused much interest to passers-by.

GROCERS WILL HOLD PICNIC AT SPRINGBANK

A Large Attendance Is Expected at the Park on Wednesday Next.

The annual picnic of the Retail Grocers' Association of London will be held next Wednesday afternoon at Springbank, and it is expected that the attendance will be much larger than any other outing of the grocers heretofore. The associations in Hamilton, Toronto and Brantford have already signified their intentions of sending delegations, and President Diprose, who is attending the picnic of the Sarnia grocers today, expects to arrange for a delegation from that place. Mr. E. J. Ryan was in St. Thomas yesterday, and stated to The Advertiser today that a large number of the grocers of the Railroad City are going to attend.

The picnic committee which is composed of Messrs. E. J. Ryan, Harry Ranahan, Thos. Shaw and G. B. Drake have arranged for a large program of sports, of which the feature events are a burlesque of the "Johnston-Flynn" fight, Irish and Scotch dances in costume, and watermelon and bun-eating contests. The prize list is valued at one hundred dollars. An orchestra has also been engaged for the afternoon and evening.

DEATH CALLS THREE PIONEERS OF DURHAM

Wm. Marshall, John Russell and John R. Kinnee Were Old Residents.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Durham, August 20.—Three old residents of Durham and vicinity passed away during the last few days, in the persons of William Marshall, of Normanby Township; John Russell, of Glenelg Township; and John R. Kinnee, of Durham.

Mr. Marshall was in his 83rd year, and had been ill for some time with cancer. He was born in Glasgow, Scotland, and came to Canada with his parents when three years of age. The greater part of his life was spent in Normanby Township, where he farmed until about five years ago. The funeral, which was held to Maplewood Cemetery, was very largely attended. A family of seven sons and two daughters survive.

Born in Ireland.

Mr. Russell was born in Ireland fifty-eight years ago, and, when about twelve years of age, moved with his parents to Guelph, and, subsequently, to Glenelg Township. For the past five years he had been in failing health and for the last year of his life sank rapidly, until on Monday morning death came. Interment will take place Wednesday to Maplewood Cemetery.

A Durham Manufacturer.

In the death of Mr. John R. Kinnee on Sunday evening, Durham loses one of its most respected citizens. For the past two years Mr. Kinnee had been complaining of stomach trouble, which, consequently, developed into cancer.

Mr. Kinnee was a Canadian by birth. He was born in 1847. When 16 years of age, he came to Peel Township, and in 1867 married Miss Patterson. They then moved to Imlay City, Mich., where they remained for three years, and then moved back to Ontario, to Drayton. From here they went to Parry Sound District, where Mrs. Kinnee died.

Four years later, in Harriston, Mr. Kinnee re-married. Twenty-six years ago they moved to Durham, where he engaged in pump making, and had since been a continuous resident.

Besides his widow, he leaves a family of four sons and two daughters.

Buried at Salem.

A funeral service was held at his late residence on Monday evening at seven o'clock, and interment took place today at Salem Cemetery, near Elora.

Something went wrong at the electric station of the Durham Furniture Company on the Rocky Saugeen River today, and the factory was forced to shut down for the day.

Harvest in this part of the country, according to reports from the farmers, will be late this year. Oat-cutting will commence next week.

ADMITS SHOOTING

Windsor Pole Claims, However, That It Was Accidental.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Windsor, Aug. 20. — Frank Waldo, who had previously accused a companion named Carpkh of the crime of shooting Mybro Belurski at the Russian colony, this morning broke down and sobbed out a confession, claiming however, that the affair was an accident. Waldo is only 21 years old. He states that the three, Waldo, Carpkh and Belurski, entered the house together, and he picked up a gun and unthinkingly pointed it at Belurski, and the weapon was accidentally discharged.

THIRTY-ONE MILLS RIDGETOWN TAX RATE

Higher Salaries Blamed for Big Increase in General Running Expenses.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ridgetown, Aug. 20.—The town council has struck the rate for 1913, and it requires 31 mills to meet the requirements. The total assessment is $679,227, which raises $20,674.96. While the rate is in part somewhat higher than last year, this is accounted for by the fact that salaries of some officials are higher and the schools take considerably more money to run them.

Mr. George Burley has been notified by the postmaster-general of his appointment as mail carrier for a rural route from Ridgetown to Morpeth, Pulmyra and along the Orford town line.

Barn Was Burned.

The fine large barn of Mr. Hector Dick, concession 3, Howard, was struck by lightning during the severe storm which passed over this district on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Dick's loss will be in the neighborhood of $5,000 as the buildings were totally destroyed, together with most of the season's crop. The buildings were insured in the Howard Farmers' Insurance Company.

INGERSOLL SCOUTS WILL GO TO TORONTO

Expect to Win High Honors as They Are In Splendid Shape.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ingersoll, Aug. 21.—The members of the local battalion of Boy Scouts, who have been selected to visit Toronto Exhibition next week, will be kept hustling preparing for the trip.

Commissioner J. G. Gibson returned the first of the week from his vacation, which he spent in Muskoka, and he is now giving much attention to the interests of the Scouts.

The Toronto trip was about the first matter demanding attention, and he has disposed of this to the satisfaction of a number of the Scouts at least.

Last year the Ingersoll representatives were a close second for the honors at the big rally at Toronto, and they will present a fine appearance this year. The troop will be in charge of District Scoutmaster Tanton, and every night for the remainder of the week will be devoted to special drill.

The boys are eager for the outing, and, realizing the importance of discipline, the work of getting them in readiness will not be so exacting as in some instances where conditions may not be quite so congenial.

Regular Session.

A business air will be noticeable at the police court in future, as it has been decided by Magistrate Paterson and the chief of police to have the court open at 10 o'clock every morning. The magistrate will be present at this hour, and it will be recognized as the official hour for the hearing of all cases. Heretofore, there has been no regular hour at which the magistrate would be in his office, cases simply being proceeded with at a time that was suitable to the parties concerned. It is believed that the new order of things will give better satisfaction.

Many Went West.

The western farmers will receive assistance from many sturdy young men of this town and surrounding districts in harvesting their immense wheat crops. The first of the excursions from here yesterday afternoon was largely attended.

At the C. P. R. it was learned that 50 tickets had been purchased, while fifty more excursionists came to Ingersoll over the south branch.

Twenty excursionists also left over the Grand Trunk at 12:35. Many of the excursionists were prepared to remain in the west, provided they found conditions favorable.

Mrs. William Woolson and family, of Grand Rapids, Mich., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Woolson, Thames street. Mr. Woolson, who accompanied his wife and family here, returned to Grand Rapids yesterday, but will revisit Ingersoll in the course of a few weeks.

Mr. Will Grant, of Winnipeg, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Grant, Canterbury street.

Miss Jessie McIntosh, of Toronto, returned home yesterday, after spending a couple of weeks the guest of Miss Ruth Beck.

ARKONA.

Arkona, August 21.—Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Fair, of Durand, are visiting Mrs. W. J. Evans.

Mrs. Davison and daughter are visiting friends in London.

LANGFORD—ELLIOTT.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Granton, Aug. 20.—The wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. A. Langford in Biddulph recently of her daughter, Miss Bertha E. Langford, and Mr. Clarence Elliott, B.A., of Vancouver, B. C. Rev. J. W. Eccleston officiated. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Everett Langford, of London. Mr. and Mrs. Elliott will reside in Vancouver.

DENFIELD.

Denfield, Aug. 20.—Mr. Isaac Hodgins, of Hamilton, spent the week-end at his home on the 16th concession.

Mrs. A. Haskett and daughter Irene are visiting friends in Detroit.

Miss C. Simpson, of Pickering, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Miller, sang a solo in the Denfield Baptist Church recently most acceptably.

Mr. and Mrs. Mf Matthews, of Ailsa Craig, visited recently with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Tedder.

Mr. Stuart Egan is home again.

Mr. A. Haskett and son William visited with relatives in Ailsa Craig recently.

Mr. Norman Clarke left for London, where he took the excursion for the West today.

MAXIMUM PENALTY IN WELLAND CASE

Six Months for Buffalonian Who Registered Fraudulent Vote.

Welland, Aug. 20.—Samuel B. Morris, of Buffalo, pleaded guilty to four charges of personation in Magistrate Burgar's court this morning, and was sentenced to six months in jail on each charge, the sentence to run concurrently. This is the first punishment meted out to a member of the band of conspirators who attempted to rob the ratepayers of the town of Welland. Detective Greer is confident that every man connected with the plot will be brought to the bar of justice.

EVELYN CHALLENGES THORNDALE TEAM

Wish to Settle Question of Baseball Supremacy of County.

The following letter has been received by the sporting editor:

"Evelyn, Aug. 20.

To the Sporting Editor of The Advertiser:

In your issue of Aug. 17, under the heading, "Refused to Play," we note a number of wild statements regarding the ball game, as sent in by your Thorndale correspondent. In almost every particular, the report sent in is grossly misleading. Permit us to state as follows:

Thorndale scored one run in the first inning and another in the seventh, and that is where the game ended, because a Thorndale player purposely endeavored to injure one of the Evelyn players, who retallated by hitting him with the ball.

Evelyn scored every inning, and at the end of the sixth (Evelyn going to bat first), had twelve runs to their credit. So it can easily be seen that Thorndale was not gaining to any extent, and from the way they were going it would have taken them several months to tie the score. They saw that they were so badly defeated that instead of Evelyn starting violent measures to win, Thorndale introduced rough play in anger.

Evelyn has played three games this season with Thorndale. The first resulted 18 to 1 for Evelyn, the second 4 to 3 for Evelyn, and the third 12 to 2 for Evelyn. The umpire gave the last game to Thorndale, and we do not complain, as everyone knows which has the better team and who really won the game.

Now, we make the following challenge to Thorndale. The Evelyn team will deposit $50 in the Home Bank at Thorndale against the sum of $25 deposited in same bank by Thorndale, and will play them on any neutral ground, the winning team to take the purse. This offer must be accepted within ten days. The same players to be in the line-up that played in game of Aug. 14, 1912.

(Signed),

J. S. PARDY
JACK WOODS.

UNITED STATES TO INQUIRE.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Representative Norris of Nebraska introduced a resolution today requesting the President to send to the House information he has regarding the case of James Wood Rogers, a Californian, who was killed in the Central African jungle as a result of a hunt of the British soldiers who were ordered to kill or capture him. The resolution was referred to the foreign affairs committee.

Tenders for Bituminous Top Macadam Pavement

Sealed proposals addressed to the chairman and members of No. 2 committee will be received at the office of the city clerk until 5 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 22, 1912, for the construction of 5,812 square yards of bituminous top macadam pavement on a 5-inch concrete base, with 3,985 lineal feet of 6-inch curb and 15-inch gutter, on Ridout street, from Horton street to Elmwood avenue.

Each bidder to name a lump sum for this above work, also give the price per square yard of pavement complete, and the cost per lineal foot of curb and gutter, these prices to be used for additions or deductions in the final measurements.

Each bidder to make his tender on form furnished by the city engineer.

Specifications and plans covering the above work may be seen at the office of the city engineer.

Contractors for the above work to inclose a marked check for 10% of the amount of their bids.

The city reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to accept any bid.

GEO. W. WRIGHT, City Engineer.

W. E. ROBINSON, Chairman No. 2 Committee.

HURLED FROM BUGGY FRACTURED HER RIBS

Mrs. Charles Muegge, Aged 70, Was Badly Hurt Near Mitchell.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Mitchell, Aug. 20. — Mr. Charles Muegge, aged 70, of Broadhagen, had several ribs fractured, and sustained severe internal injuries when as she and her husband were driving into town their horse became frightened at a bicycle and ran away. Mr. Muegge was badly shaken up also.

At a barn raising on the farm of Mr. Wm. Potts in which about 60 men took part, Mr. August Saakel had three ribs broken, and one of them penetrated his side, from which he has suffered considerably. He was standing on a scaffold when he lost his balance and fell across a pike pole.

Mrs. F. G. Taylor and son of Toronto are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Schneider.

Dr. Smith and family left on Monday for Manitoba, where they will spend a few weeks visiting friends. Dr. Jepson, of London, is looking after Dr. Smith's practice.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thorne are spending ten days with friends in London and Detroit.

$1,300 For a Fox

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Milwaukee, August 21.—When Henry L. Moreland, of Iron River, Wis., started a black fox ranch he created amusement for his neighbors. Today he brought to Milwaukee for shipment to Borrowman & Son, owners of fox farms in Wyoming, Ontario, Canada, a female fox for which he will receive $1,300. Moreland now has several other animals as valuable as the one just sold, and his kennels are crowded with others raised for the pelts.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, AUG. 21.

GENERAL BOOTH DEAD.

Another of the Victorian Titans, one of the noblest, gone. For years past the earlier criticisms, ridicule and even abuse levelled at Booth and his work by the hostile or the unsympathetic have practically ceased, while the great leader in his snowy but immensely virile old age has enjoyed the respect of nations and churches, and, more important to him, the sense of achievement for humanity. Well might the general, like the dying Faust, exclaim, "Stay flying minute, thou art so fair!"—except that the pressing needs of years to come must almost choke the joy of the moment passing and of its accomplishment.

One of the world's best prophets was Booth, embodying truth in "loveliness of deeds," building, governing by some mystical, inherent virtue, altogether consecrated to his task. Thus he brought truth and life to countless thousands who sat in darkness. There is divinity in such a life as his, the divinity of resistless energy, of purpose and of love. He was akin to "that which doth provide," loving power, no doubt, and loving to give.

Compared with Tolstoi, his work was more tangible. Both men have made permanent imprint upon that highway which mankind has to travel. If Tolstoi was more a philosopher, Booth was an Anglo-Saxon in his reverence for discipline and his organizing powers. Both were poignantly aware of sin, confessors of humanity, yearners after God and righteousness.

It is significant that in advanced age, General Booth was still able to give a new bent to his life's work. His book, "Darkest England" (1890) was the trumpet call to the new social effort that has been the most characteristic feature of Salvation Army development in recent years. The rescue of the "submerged tenth" is being effected not merely by the conversion of sinners through direct evangelical appeal, but by training the outcast to work, finding him employment, keeping him in clean clothes, wholesome food and proper surroundings; i.e., the unfortunate are reached not only by the preacher's voice and the beat of the drum, but through the self-respect that comes of a decent home and decent companions. General Booth has persuaded the world that this is the right way of reform and the churches are following slowly his lead. The Army has been a great tonic and a great agent for the regular church.

For many things the world will keep General Booth's name ever in memory. Virtue flowed from him in his life's walk through this world of light and shadow. Tears will be shed as his body is borne upon the churchway path in which all earthly journeys have their narrow close. But they will be tears less of sorrow after all for an inevitable event than of gratitude, of love and of joy that such a man and such men as he can be and constitute the links "betwixt us and the crowning race."

BRITAIN'S FLOURISHING COMMERCE.

British trade keeps mounting at a rate disconcerting to politicians who have been predicting imminent blue ruin since Mr. Chamberlain launched his propaganda ten years ago. In spite of political turmoil, of an epidemic of strikes, and of a chorus of jeremiads louder than ever since the budget of 1909, exports and imports during the present year will reach unexampled proportions. Last month the exports were £41,986,360, compared with £34,607,636 in July, 1911; the imports last month were £58,304,351, against £51,038,181 in July, 1911. For the seven months, January to July, in each of the past three years the figures were:

	Imports.	Exports.
1912	£412,232,374	£267,299,405
1911	385,167,236	258,275,932
1910	383,757,048	242,973,900

For the major portion of the increase, over £5,000,000, of the £7,378,724 in the exports, manufactured articles were responsible. Cotton, the great Lancashire industry, increased its exports by no less than £2,350,420. Iron and steel manufactures rose by nearly a million—£964,317—and a few other noteworthy increases are:

Machinery	£585,895
Wool	559,956
Apparel	299,180
Railway carriages, motors, etc.	217,085
Miscellaneous textiles	270,455

Of course, the inevitable cycle of depression will recur in Great Britain as in other countries; but each wave of prosperity mounts higher than the one before it. Against the next spell of hard times nearly 3,000,000 workmen will be armed by unemployment insurance, while in five months' time 15,000,000 men, women and children will be protected against sickness and disability. The conditions of British industry are essentially sound; the wealth of the country grows faster than the population, and the problem of statesmanship is to bring about its more equable distribution.

ODIN'S CANCER DISCOVERY.

Dr. Gaston Odin of Paris makes the announcement of the discovery of the microbe of cancer. He says he has succeeded in cultivating it and he hopes before long to find a vaccine which will cure cancer or act as a preventative to its growth.

The New York Times reports the discoverer as saying that his researches dated back ten years, but he succeeded only within the lost six months and since that time he has been verifying his facts and he announces that his conclusion, the means by which he reached it, are approved by the leading professors in the great School of Medicine of Paris.

Dr. Odin says the cancer microbe is a parasite blood mass, an inferior living organism which reproduces itself in a variety of forms that surpasses the imagination. He hopes that vaccine will enable him to do for cancer what Roux did for diphtheria and Jenner did for smallpox. Dr. Odin adds that whether he cures cancer or not, one can tell to a certainty whether an individual is cancerous or exempt from it, for an examination of the blood will reveal it. It is, therefore, through the blood that the cancer remedy is to be applied.

If Dr. Odin is right he will take his place with the greatest benefactors of humanity, as one of the select company of the immortals. Smallpox has been routed by sanitation, and tuberculosis is being conquered, but cancer has lost none of its horrors and is today the most dreaded of all the ills that flesh is heir to.

No general ever fought so noble a battle as William Booth.

The annual race between the crops and the railways is about to begin in the west.

It takes two to make a quarrel. Col. Sam bellowed at the Pacific, but that gentle deep did not answer unto deep. It only laughed along its bays.

A London, England, man has been fined $100 for refusing to lick insurance stamps. It may be his way of enjoying himself, and the price he is willing to pay for it luckily goes into the public purse.

Mr. Borden sails for home at the end of the month. It will be the end of his joys. Trouble begins for him as soon as he reaches home. And so far as it relates to the navy question it is his own making.

Sir Max Aitken says that Hon. G. E. Foster "has captured the British people and holds them in the hollow of his hand." And yet Mr. Foster would be ineligible for public life in England if the insurance commission revelations had been made there.

The toothless old Saturday Review, which once could bite and now can only growl, denounces the myth of "Anglo-American friendship." This myth is the corner-stone of British foreign policy, laid by Lord Salisbury, a former Saturday Reviewer. If the Review had its way England would not have a friend in the world. That would not be splendid, but suicidal, isolation.

Hon. J. D. Hazen says he is gratified at the growth of opinion in favor of imperial federation in England. Does Mr. Hazen think he has helped it by his grossly partisan speeches there? The spectacle of Canadian cabinet ministers like Messrs. Hazen and Foster acting as touts for one party in England was degrading to themselves and their country, and discourteous to the British Government. Mr. Borden, at least, was not guilty of this impropriety.

SHIFTING THE BURDEN.

[New York Tribune.]

A man was tried in New South Wales for stealing a watch. The evidence was conflicting; but before the jurors left the hall the judge remarked that if there were any points on which they required information he would be pleased to assist them. Eleven had left the box; but the twelfth remained standing.

"Well, sir," said the judge, "is there any question you would like to ask me?"

"I would like to know, my lord," came the reply, "if you could tell us whether the prisoner stole the watch?"

THE WHOLE OF THE MESSAGE.

(M. A. P.)

One day during the South African war an orderly delivered a message in somewhat free-and-easy language from Lord Kitchner to Gen. Smith-Dorrien. "Tell Lord Kitchener I shall be ready to move in two hours," replied Smith-Dorrien, "and, remember to say please the next time you speak to me!"

Returning to Lord Kitchener, the orderly duly delivered the message. "And you have to say please the next time you speak to him!" he wound up unexpectedly.

A LESSON.

[Montreal Gazette.]

German 3 per cent imperial securities are down to 80 per 100, which makes the rate of interest to the purchaser even higher than that returned on British 2½ per cents at 75. The German small investor, who, it seems, has had a liking for the securities in question, is reported to be shocked at the loss of his capital the drop has caused. Germany, like Great Britain, is learning by a lowering of its credit standard how uneconomical it is to put into fighting ships tax money that might be used to reduce the debt burden and help the people.

WOODROW WILSON.

[Toronto Globe.]

Mr. Woodrow Wilson is the John Morley of the United States. He came first before the public with a brief treatise on "Congressional Government," which has been for more than a quarter of a century useful not merely to the general reader, but to the practical statesman, though it is only an amplification of a graduation thesis. His published works, scattered all along the line of his academic career as a teacher of history and political science, all deal with phases of politics, the series ending with the publication ten years ago of the best comprehensive summary of the political history of the United States ever produced. He had been for nine years the first lay president of Princeton University when he was elected last year to the governorship of New Jersey, and he owes his presidential nomination to the spirit in which he has discharged the duties of that office. It is not necessary for Mr. Wilson to affect progressivism; he has always been a progressive in spirit, and now makes his appeal to the electorate on a thoroughly progressive platform.

BARRACKS IS A VERY QUIET PLACE

Regular Troops Are Now at the Big Camp at Petawawa.

ASYLUM CROPS ARE GOOD

Three Hundred Acres of Land Are Under Cultivation There—East End News.

The Wolseley Barracks are practically closed until the return of the regulars from Petawawa about Sept. 15. The teachers' camp closed on Thursday of last week, and on Friday the R. C. R. and officers left for Petawawa, where they are to be training for the next month. Sergt.-Major Borland has been left in charge of the barracks in the meantime, and with him are Quartermaster-Sergeant Dunlevy and Privates Moden, Butts and Ryan.

Lieut. Alexander, who was connected with the teachers' instruction camp while in session, and who was seriously ill for some weeks with ptomaine poisoning, left with the regiment, although he was far from well. For the last month he had been confined to his quarters at the barracks, and under medical care, and when he attempted to resume work, he was not able to do so. Latest reports say he is improving daily.

Asylum Crops Good.

Although crops are reported to be a failure in many parts of Middlesex County, the crops at the asylum, London Junction, have been unusually good this season. Three hundred acres of land which were tilled were sown in hay, grain and vegetables, one hundred acres each, and there has been a very productive yield. Most of the grain had been harvested before the arrival of the wet weather, but a field or two of oats are still in shook in the open.

Excellent progress is being made with the new kitchen and dining-room. These are very spacious rooms and will be ready for occupancy within a month's time. It is the intention of the managers to have the new amusement and dancing hall erected next year.

STOLE BRACELETS FROM LADY FRIEND

John Ward Pleaded Guilty in the Police Court.

John Ward, a young man well known about the city, was arrested last night, charged with having stolen two bracelets from a lady friend, Teresa Stinson. He was represented by Mr. W. R. Meredith, when arraigned before Police Magistrate Judd this morning, and pleaded guilty. Ward was remanded till Saturday for sentence, and in the meantime the court will endeavor to learn something as to his character.

According to the story, Ward was out driving with the girl, when he obtained her bracelets, which he pawned for $1. He alleges, however, that both he and his friend were intoxicated at the time.

Music and Drama

Minstrels Open Grand.

Minstrelsy, presented on a mammoth scale, with marvellous scenic embellishments, gorgeous wardrobe and spectacular light effects, introducing sixty versatile performers, a galaxy of varied features and with a monopoly of minstrel favorites on the program, is the epitome of what George "Honey Boy" Evans, the luminary of the world of blackface, promises in his entirely new show, which comes to the Grand Opera House next Monday night. The comedians, vocalists and musicians are disclosed at the opening of the show seated upon a terraced diss in the midst of a colorful scenic arrangement of entrancing beauty representing a floral bower. In this part are introduced the following minstrel celebrities: John King, the irresistibly funny end man and inimitable wench delineator; Sam Lee, who, as an end man is at the top of the profession; Vaughn Comfort, the interlocutor; Charles Hilliard; Jim Doherty, the lyric tenor; Joseph Gillespie, Tommy Hyde, Raymond Maxson, Jack Kennedy and Charles Ufer, all exemplars extraordinary of the terpsichorean art. This part is brought to an epic finish with the rendition of "I Want to Hear an Irish Band Upon St. Patrick's Day," the big hit of the Friar's Frolic. Seats Thursday at 9 a.m.

THE THIRST FOR TRAVEL

[By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.]

The love of travel seems to be a passion with some people. I suppose there are tens of thousands of people in this country who would be overwhelmed with happiness if someone came along, some Carnegie, for instance, and said: "Here is a check for one thousand dollars. Get leave of absence from your employer and take a trip around the world!" More persons are travelling every year, but unfortunately those who are able to afford a trip to Europe are often the rich, who are so jaded with the joys of this world that a long voyage brings them no added sense of happiness, instead thereof only ennui. But those who just manage to keep the pot boiling, what about their yearnings to see London, Paris, Tokio? The fact that books of travel are almost as popular at our public libraries as the latest novels indicates the prevalence of this hunger for the long trail. Those, who hated geography in their boyhood finger the atlas in their prime, or in their old age, and send their souls across the seven seas.

This wander-thirst has been illustrated most forcefully by an English writer, Mr. Richard Curle, in a story in the August number of "The English Review." Old Hoskyns, the machine-like confidential clerk in a London warehouse, has grown to be a desiccated old bachelor in the service of his firm. He has never married, because from early youth he has nursed the ambition to travel some day. And, now the time has arrived after all the weary waiting. He has saved up £180 by dint of much economy and nothing remains but to ask for leave of absence from his employer. For years he has read books of voyages from Hakluyt and Purchas down to the story of the latest globe-trotter. His geographical knowledge is tremendous. A large photograph of the harbor of Rio stands on the mantel-piece of his dreary room in the cheap lodging-house. As his means are so limited, he has had to pick out one place, which he fancies above all others. Rio is his choice. The author puts a vivid imaginary account of the South American city into the old clerk's mouth.

money in abundant measure. If you have a passion for travel this is the kind of monologue which you must indulge in now and, again that is if you know your geography well enough. "There are hundreds of places I shall never be able to see," pondered old Hoskyns. "My goodness, if only I had the money! I shall never get east, never see Siam, Celebes, Burmah. I shall never touch Arabia. What was it that fellow said about Kerbela? An hour before dawn holy men emerge on to the platform of their mosques to pray. Their high, thin voices are wafted over the desert, and far out in the clear silence of the night the travellers hear them and rejoice. What a glorious image! And, as for me, I shall never experience it! If I had money, I should study this map and I should say: "What's this tiny island in the south of the Indian ocean—Minicoy? I'm off there next week." I should simply go everywhere, to the well-known places, and to the queer inaccessible ones. I should go to the inland sea of Japan, to the Afghan frontier, to Siberia in the spring, where you see the forests stretching green along the horizon of the Steppes, to Tasmania, to Tunis, to East Africa, to Tongareva, which lies in the south seas—here it is, just marked—to Nicaragua, to Chicago, to Canada in winter, where an unbroken silence envelops the frozen lakes, to Malabar, to Egypt; I should go everywhere, see everything. How I hate being poor; how I loathe this road, these rooms, the office, the people I am always meeting."

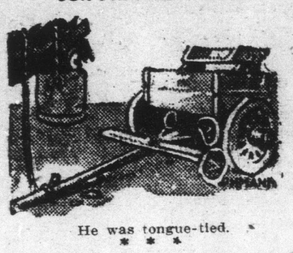

Assuredly, it was a fine pipe-dream. But next day, when old Hoskyns nervously asked Mr. Frank Grindley, his employer, for leave of absence, Mr. Frank thought the old boy was going crazy, called his pet idea bunkum, told him he would be like a fish out of water in Rio, that the notion was absurd, and anyway Hoskyns wouldn't enjoy Rio, for Frank had been there himself, and was not impressed at all. He wound up by telling his faithful old clerk to take a week at Margate, and, when he attempted to get a word in, the employer bolted from his office. Hoskyns felt prostrated, "as though some hand had extinguished the light that had shone within him for thirty years. . . . He was conscious that his courage had departed, not to return. He could never escape out of the rank of slaves, never taste the cup that had been so near his lips, never achieve the secret desire of his heart." It was rather rough on Old Hoskyns, but I fancy that no Englishman, who had set his heart upon a project like that would be so easily extinguished by an employer. An Englishman with a fixed idea is never prostrated. Mr. Curle's psychology is bad here. Of course, Hoskyns threw up his job and went to Rio!

IRATE NEIGHBOR HIT AGENT IN THE FACE

William Buller Was Fined for Taking the Part of a Lady.

William Buller's indignation got the better of him a couple of days ago while on Partridge street, when James Mack, an agent, endeavored to compel Mrs. Wheatcroft, who resides at No. 10 on that street, to take an ironing board, which she claimed she did not want, and in an argument that followed Buller struck Mack in the face. P. M. Judd this morning fined Buller $2 and allowed $1.50 costs.

The court, however, stated that it might be possible that Mack had endeavored to foist his wares upon Mrs. Wheatcroft, as agents very often do, and for that reason was somewhat inclined to leniency.

ELOQUENT TRIBUTE

the world the news of his death, they would also carry the name of his successor," Col. Kitching said. "He spoke metaphorically. The announcement of his successor probably will be made in a day or two."

Eloquent Tributes.

London, Aug. 21. — The London morning newspapers pay eloquent tributes of sympathy to the late Salvation Army leader. They regard him as the greatest apostle and evangelist of the age and compare him with John Wesley and Martin Luther.

The Times in an editorial says:

"The death of Booth closes a strange career, one of the most remarkable our age has seen, and it will set the world meditating on that forceful character, that keen, though as some would say, narrow, intelligence, which raised him from a position of friendless obscurity to be the head of an organization yielding obedience scarcely less complete than the Catholic Church yields to the pontiff."

Miss Booth Collapses.

New York, Aug. 21.—News of the death of General Booth in London was communicated to Miss Evangeline Booth, his daughter, at the Salvation Army headquarters here shortly after the arrival of the news dispatches last night. Although Miss Booth, who is head of the Salvation Army in America, had thought herself prepared for the event, having known of her father's sinking condition, she was greatly affected. During the afternoon she had received a warning by cable that her father was on "the verge of the river," but when the death was confirmed to her by a private message later she suffered a complete nervous breakdown.

Commander Booth herself has not been in good health since a nervous collapse last spring. Her condition is such that it was said at headquarters that it could not be determined yet whether Miss Booth would go to London to her father's funeral.

Miss Booth was very devoted to the aged general, and only last May she visited him in London to help arrange for him a farewell tour of Canada and the United States, but he was then being overtaken with blindness and a nervous breakdown, which latter resulted in his death.

Ballington Booth, who became estranged from his father sixteen years ago and founded the independent organization known as the Volunteers of America, was at his home at Blue Point, Long Island, when the news of his father's death reached him. During yesterday afternoon, Mr. Booth and his wife had been notified of the general's sinking condition and they sent the following telegram to Chief Bramwell Booth, in London:

"Love and sympathy to father and yourself.

"(Signed) Ballington and Maud."

The Obsequies.

London, Aug. 21.—The obsequies of the late General Booth will probably extend over a week, and the funeral will take place probably on Aug. 29 or 30. The lying-in-state is to take place at the Salvation Army Congress Hall, Clapton, in the northeast of London. The hall is the largest building owned by the Salvation Army, and was the scene of a wonderful demonstration of sympathy when Mrs. Booth, the late general's wife, died. Her lying-in-state there was witnessed by many thousands.

On the day of the funeral 10,000 Salvationists will participate in a massed service in a large hall which has not yet been decided on. The hiring of the Crystal Palace is in contemplation for the purpose.

The name of the successor of General Booth as commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army will probably be announced in a day or two with much ceremony. While General Booth disliked personal publicity he welcomed anything which kept the army in the public eye.

A melo-dramatic notice posted on the front of the Salvation Army headquarters says:

"The General Has Laid Down His Sword. God Is With Us."

Major Perey, of the Salvation Army, said this morning that messages were coming from kings and from rich and poor in all parts of the world.

A Mighty Man.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 21.—Lieutenant-Colonel Reese, head of the social work of the Salvation Army in Canada, spoke with great tenderness of the late General Booth this morning. "He was a mighty man, lived like a man, went out of the world like a man, and his departure will be a frightful blow to the millions of poor, lost, hopeless humanity, who were turning to him for aid," declared the colonel. He compared the general with Moses, who had led the tribes of Israel for forty years, saying that the general had also been called, upheld, instructed and inspired by God for even a longer period of time.

"I was standing by his side only two months ago, on the occasion of the celebration of his 83rd birthday, and on taking farewell of him he said, 'God bless you, Reese.' I tell you it was a blessed moment for me. When I became converted, that was as long ago as 1878, and first took up the good fight, the general said something that I couldn't understand at the time. It was this: 'Do you know, Reese, remember no one can hurt you but yourself,' and I was not long in discovering the truth of it. His promotion to heaven is a loss to the world and brings a great crisis in the work of the army, but, though our general is dead, God lives."

An Important Session Has Been Called For Delaware.

A meeting of the grocers of Harrietsville, Mossley, Belmont, Dorchester, Komoka, Mount Brydges and Delaware will be held in the latter place this evening, and several matters of interest to the trade will be discussed. A number of the local grocers will attend and address the meeting on the question of early closing at nights. Upon the conclusion of the business discussion the remainder of the evening will be spent in a social manner and severall artists of this city will take part in the program.

WINGHAM BOWLERS

Everything Is in Shape for Opening of the Big Tournament.

Wingham, Aug. 21.—Local bowlers are in readiness for the opening next Monday in Victoria Park of the big district bowling tournament. There will be three competitions and many special prizes including those for Scotch doubles. The prize list exceeds $300 and that there will be the keenest contests for the various awards is shown by the large list of entries. The local bowlers are practicing hard an dthe tournament promises to be one of the most exciting ever held here

At a special meeting of the school board the resignation of Miss Elizabeth Cummings was received and accepted with regret, as since the death of her sister Miss Cummings has decided to make her home in Lucknow with her sister, Mrs A. Stuart. Miss Barber was appointed as her successor.

TRAGEDY OF HIGH HEELS

Girl Unwillingly Shows Stocking Full of Holes to Crowd.

Zurich, Aug. 21.—What may be termed a tragedy of high heels recently happened in one of the principal squares before the station at Zurich.

A well-dressed young woman, wearing high-heeled boots, was crossing the street when her heel became caught in a frog.

A crowd collected round the struggling girl and tram cars stopped while a gendarme vainly tried to free the boot, which the girl indignantly refused to take off.

As more tram cars were delayed, and the crowd increased a gendarme cut the boot lace and pulled out the little foot, and then the crowd became hilarious—the silk stocking was full of holes

FATALLY INJURED

Francis Leonard Was Kicked By Horse While at Play.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ingersoll, Aug. 21. — Injuries which he received by being kicked by a horse about 7 o'clock last night caused the death three hours later of Francis Harold, the 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Leonard, of East Nissouri.

A span of horses was being driven to a pasture field by the child, when one of the animals stopped. He struck it with a stick and was kicked on the side of the head. He died without regaining consciousness.

TWO PRESENTATIONS

Myrtle Lodge Members Honor Messrs. S. Fleming and Geo. Burdick.

At a meeting of Myrtle Lodge, No. 2, K. of P., held last evening, a presentation was made to two of the brethren of the society to show their appreciation of the members, of their comradeship and services in behalf of the order. Mr. James Dean, grand master-at-arms, presented Mr. S. Fleming with a handsome gold chain and fob, while Supreme Representative Bro. George Burdick presented Bro. J. Greason with a solid gold ring.

Speeches were given by Bros. Galpin, Tinsley and Gaismond. Refreshments were served at the close of the brief program.

Haunted Houses

By Winnifred Black.

Copyright: 1912.

"There," said the woman who believes in signs, "it does look haunted, doesn't it?"

And I looked up from the timid green of the new grass, up to the clear brown of the little runaway brook that was talking at the top of its voice, telling all who would listen that spring had really come, up to the top of the wind-swept hill—where the Haunted House stood.

"Yes," said I, "it does look haunted—and I believe it is."

And when I heard the history of the gaunt house on the hill I knew that what I felt when I looked at it was true, and that it must be haunted, really haunted, too.

For the woman who built it was haunted with the terrible ghosts of hatred and revenge, and envy, and small ambition, and cruel bitterness of heart.

She built the house to flaunt it and her wealth in the face of her own sister, who died alone and friendless in the very shadow of the haunted house.

And in the haunted house with the woman who built it lived sycophants and toadies and cowardly schemers, who flattered the owner of the house and made a silly dupe of her, with messages from what they called the spirit world. And the woman who built the haunted house died in a sanatorium, driven there by her own bitter hatred of her own kith and kin.

Haunted! I wouldn't live in a house with a history like that until I had had every stone and every bit of wood in it scrubbed and deodorized and disinfected—from the cellar to the last beam in the garret.

I'd open every one of those shuttered windows, fling wide the barred doors, and fairly saturate that house of misery with the clean, wholesome sunshine, and even then I'd take a little house without a story to it in preference to that one for my dwelling place.

Haunted! Why, of course, it is haunted; it was bound to be haunted from the very first day the foundation stone was laid in hatred till the hour that the poor creature who built it died in delirious bitterness of heart.

I have a friend who lives in a haunted house. The friend is a man—a great big, warm-hearted, high-souled man—and he is married to a little, mean-spirited, petty-minded being who labors under the delusion that she is a woman.

She's the sort of woman who turns green if you mention any other woman's name with praise. You can't speak of anything or anybody with appreciation without calling the thunder clouds to that woman's brow. Her heart is so full of petty jealousies and mean economies that it must be fairly withering in her breast—and I defy any human being to speak a natural word, or even think a natural thought in the house where my poor friend lives with the woman he chose out of all the world to make him happy, because she had a pretty pink ear and a dimple in her chin.

The ear is red now, and there are so many chins that there isn't room for a dimple any longer, but the same small spirit lives in that house that entered it the day the man I know brought home his bride. Haunted! If that house isn't haunted I'd like to know why not.

Haunted! How queer you felt when you stepped into the living room over at the Smiths yesterday. The sun shone outside and the spring wind sang in the budding bushes at the gate, but the moment you entered that room the sun seemed to go under a cloud and the wind stopped singing and began to moan.

When Mrs. Smith came in to see you, was there something forced about her smile, or did you just imagine it? Why, even the dog on the hearthstone looked as if he had the blues.

Don't you know what was the matter? The Smiths live in a haunted house, and the ghost was walking just as you rang the bell. The cruel, haunting ghost of jealousy and distrust, and all her assumed smiles, could not keep your blood from chilling.

The house where the two sisters lived—one of them is a beauty and she laughs at the other, who is very plain. And the other is clever, and she sneers at the one who is stupid. And a miserly old father watches them both with a kind of satiric and biting humor. Haunted, all haunted, every house that is inhabited by hate and anger and envy.

And the lightest minded child knows it as soon as he steps across the threshold and shows that he knows it in every line of his childish face.

The woman who comes for the laundry knows it—and so does the boy who delivers the groceries at the back door.

The ash man gets away from the place as quickly as he can, and the very dogs slink by the gate with a smothered bark.

Haunted, from cellar to garret, every one of them. I wouldn't live in a house like that if I got it furnished, heated, lighted—for nothing—would you?

Problems of the Fair Sex Solved by Cynthia Grey

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn as they are received.]

Paint on Dress.

Dear Miss Grey: Would you please tell me what would take red paint out of a white dotted muslin dress? The paint had been put on thick and then it softened with the heat.

Thanking you in advance,

MOLLY.

A.—Saturate the spots with equal parts of ammonia and turpentine. When the paint becomes quite soft, wash between the hands with soap and warm water, and rinse thoroughly.

A Laundry Mishap.

Dear Miss Grey: Would you be so kind as to tell me if there is a way to remove the stain of black velvet, as a band of it on the neck of a white waist was put in the boiler, and my white clothes are stained in spots a blue-black, and washing did not seem to help any. So, if you could help me, it would greatly oblige

A READER.

A.—As the stain is really a dye, it will be almost impossible to take it out. To dip the spots in a solution of chloride of lime and water might help; saturate well, rinse, and place in the sun. Or, an application of lemon would probably bleach out some of the worst stains.

No Need to Tell That.

Dear Miss Grey: Please tell me in your corner the best way to remove redness from the eyes and to make the eye lashes grow.

2. On what hand should a diamond ring be worn?

Hoping I haven't troubled you with too many questions, yours,

MARIE W.

A.—Do you refer to redness of the eye-ball or the eye-lid? In either case the redness indicates that you have been over-straining your eyes. Perhaps you read or sew too much by artificial light. Guard against this: If the lids are inflamed, a bathing several times a day with a solution made of a teaspoonful of boracic acid dissolved in a basin of warm water, will give relief. But, quite possibly, you require glasses. If the trouble continues, you ought to consult an oculist.

A nightly application of vaseline will stimulate the growth of the lashes, but be careful not to get it into the eye, as it has an irritating effect.

2. It is simply a matter of preference. Of course, if it is an engagement you should wear it—but pshaw! Marie you are perfectly well aware which finger that goes on.

Sword-Fern Needs Remedy.

Dear Miss Grey: Could you advise me what to do with a sword-fern, whose leaves are all dropping off? The leaves seemed to look healthy and green a few days ago. I noticed it was covered with insects and I put Paris green on it. Do you think this would cause the leaves to all drop off? and oblige,

WORRIED.

A.—I fear you have almost destroyed your fern by applying the Paris green, as the fern fronds are very delicate. Repot the plant, trimming off all the sickly-looking leaves, and feed the root with a good fertilizer, which you can purchase at a florist's. If the insects trouble it again, spray with a very weak solution of tobacco and water, and afterwards with clear water.

Wedding Etiquette.

Dear Miss Grey: I am going to a church wedding in a week or so, and would like to be advised on some points.

I am a young man, quite an intimate friend of the bride. There will probably be about one hundred and fifty guests and a buffet luncheon is to be served at the bride's home afterwards.

1. Do the bride's parents send cabs to take the guests to the church, or should the guests? After the ceremony, who provides the cabs to carry the guests to the house?

2. In being ushered to a seat, does a gentleman merely follow the usher in the usual way?

3. What are some suitable wishes to express on the card to go with the present?

4. How long before the wedding-day should the gifts be sent?

5. What should be said to the bride when offering congratulations?

6. It would not be proper to attend the wedding in a sack suit, would it? One of my friends has not a frock coat, but would like to go.

Thanking you,

D. L. B.

A.—It is customary for guests to provide their own conveyances in both instances.

2. Yes.

3. "With sincerest good wishes," or "With every hearty good wish."

4. Any time within a fortnight.

5. The simplest expression of good wishes coming from the heart is better than the most flowery sentiment prepared beforehand.

6. For an afternoon wedding of this size the correct dress is black frock coat, gray trousers, waistcoat, either of white or one to match the coat, patent leather shoes, and gray gloves, colored silk tie, and silk hat.

Big Boy, This.

Dear Miss Grey: I have been very interested in your column for a number of months, and would be very much indebted to you if you would kindly answer me ahe following:

1. What do you think of my writing, does it look like a child's?

2. Could you give me the names of latest songs?

3. I am sixteen years old, five foot, six inches tall, and weigh one hundred and forty-five pounds. Am I too large?

4. What does the birthday calendar say for June 11, for May 10, for April 3, and April 1?

5. What are the latest books.

BILLIAM.

A.—1. Not exactly. Your writing is very neat and free from blots.

2. Ask at a music store. They will be able to give you a much more complete list than I.

3. You are a pretty big boy for your age, but your height is fairly proportionate for your girth.

4. I honestly haven't space to publish all these. As your letter is postmarked "London," why not call at this office and look up the days for yourself in the fyle copy?

5. I do not know what class of books you refer to—whether it is fiction or general reading. Why not inquire at the free library?

The Birthday Calendar

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

You are threatened with some trouble, and it is well to look carefully on all sides. Avoid quarrels and be careful how you travel or start new enterprises.

Those born today will be careless and unsettled, and will not stick long at anything. They will have imitative ability, but are inclined to lack individuality. If this is acquired, they can go ahead with success.

FRILLS OF FASHION

The newest hat shape in Paris at this present moment is the Girondin. It is remarkable for its simplicity in trimming. Narrow black velvet encircles the crown and is tied in a small bow at the back, while in front the hat is supplemented with an upstanding ostrich plume.

Combined hood, veil and scarf is new for the motorist. The hood is provided with a drawing thread in the back that holds it securely in position.

Frocks of apple green chiffon with Brussels net are being shown this month.

Earrings are still the reigning fad; some of the new designs in pearls, rhinestones and platinum effects are truly lovely.

Crocheted buckles to match the pins which came out this summer are new and very good looking indeed.

The newest "middy blouses" are made quite elaborate for a real middy, as the sailor collar and cuffs, also the bottom are hand scalloped. An all white dress, scalloped in light green, is very pretty and cool looking.

Stunning blouses are made of finest batiste with insets of real Irish lace, while other lovely ones are trimmed with filet lace.

QUICK BREAKFAST.

If you are obliged to leave home without taking time for breakfast, drop a raw egg into a cup of hot coffee and drink it. This will prove both nourishing and stimulating.

NO BURNED CAKE.

Sometimes it is difficult to keep a cake from burning on the top when baking. Try making a tent out of brown paper and set it over the cake in the oven. It works well.

Fashionable Button Trimming

This dainty figured voile looks exactly like fine lawn, but is without the disadvantages of that material. This particular piece bore a design of moss rose buds in natural colors. The velvet ribbon used for trimming is as amethyst shade, which harmonizes well with the rose pink. A white lace frill finishes the neck and a row of velvet-covered buttons trims the front.

Autumn Fads in the Latest

Midsummer tendencies reveal the shaping of autumn fads and fashions. It is not a mere whim that induces milady to spend many precious vacation moments crocheting handkerchief and opera bags—as well as hairbands and many other pretty ornaments of gold thread and turquoise or garnet beads. She knows that these bags, mounted over some lustrous satin, are to be "quite the thing" this coming winter season, so she is busy fashioning thread meshes that have the effect of pliable gold metal beautifully encrusted with turquoise, garnets and other gems. Some of these bags have heavy cord drawing strings, others crocheted handles. The hairbands usually have ribbon woven in and out their borders, with a ribbon rosette at one end—they extend only from ear to ear—and a butterfly crocheted out of the gold thread, with jewel-flecked wings and jeweled eyes at the other. The bags are very pretty and of endless variety of shapes and sizes.

A new millinery plush with ermine effect is now on the market and will be seen in next season's autumn and winter headgear. There is also a heavy white corded novelty with a green velvet figure design among the new millinery materials. These silk and pile fabrics are very striking, and no doubt Dame Fashion will use them effectively.

There is an agaric novelty in black and white among the newest dress goods. Agaric belongs to the class of dress materials referred to as ratine, terry cloth and Turkish toweling. The new weave is loose and regular, of mesh, with the "toweling" effect scarcely noticeable and giving the appearance of a figure in the weave. The black appears as a single fine stripe.

Darning and tinting combinations were never so fashionable as now. One handsome bourdoir set of heavy novelty brown rep, had a conventional floral design embroidered in antique shades of gold, green, blue and old rose. The bar-like portion of the design and the background to the inner pointed floral pattern were tinted and darned in harmonizing shades. A design proper, and French knots and outline stitches were all used to advantage and these, combined with careful blending of the colors, made the work rarely effective and beautiful. The set comprised a scarf, a pillow, a round and an oblong tablecover and a bag.

Jabots are showing many changes and improvements. The cascade jabot is the latest. These are fashioned chiefly in plain and novelty nets and trimmed with dainty Bohemian, Venise or shadow lace. This type of jabot promises to be much in evidence, as the high directoire collar used on many of the new coats leaves a space particularly adapted to a fluffy, yet long type of neckwear.

To Wash Cretonne

The cretonne coverings for the furniture become soiled very quickly. A heavy household expenditure is the extra laundry bill when they are sent to be cleaned. Those who possess washing and drying accommodation should make use of their advantages and launder the coverings at home.

First, shake or brush all loose dirt from the coverings. Soak them in water for at least 12 hours. If they are much soiled change the water several times.

Add salt to the water if they are being washed for the first time. This prevents the colors from fading.

Dissolve a cake of yellow soap in boiling water, making a plentiful supply, if there are many covers to be washed. Add enough to a tub of water to produce good suds. If the water is hard, a little ammonia will soften it. Rub them well in soapy water, changing it once or twice as required.

The covers should be rinsed through several waters to which salt has been added. This keeps the colors from fading. Wring out thoroughly and starch through hot starch to which has been added some shredded white wax and a teaspoonful of powdered borax. Rub the starch well into the material and hang out to dry.

When throughly dry sprinkle and allow ample time for the water to dampen uniformly each piece of cretonne. Press with a hot iron until dry.

SOUVENIRS OF THE SUMMER.

I am not a needle woman nor a knitter, writes a correspondent, but I do like some kind of occupation to amuse me when my daughters are playing tennis, croquet or golf. What shall I do when I weary of reading?

One may make so many pretty things away from home on dull and rainy days, or even on fine ones when sitting by the seashore or in a shady garden.

Pluck flower, wild ones, from the wayside, or little brightly colored ones in the garden, and iron them with not too hot an iron between blotting paper. Creepers and minute leaves and ferns may be used and look lovely later on with a glass cover to preserve them.

Once ironed you may mount the flowers and leaves on silk and will find that white, pale green and rose colors are best for the purpose. Then put a piece of pasteboard at the back of the silk and bind it carefully with ribbon, raffia, or antique gold or silver braid, and when you have mounted a piece of plain glass over it, you have the prettiest tray.

A duchesse dressing table is very attractive if it has a long glass which you place over wood ferns and flowering grasses on white or very pale pink silk.

HOUSEHOLD TOPICS.

To remove mud stains from a linen skirt, soak the skirt over night in sour milk diluted with water, then wash in the usual way; 'tis easier and looks whiter.

The experiment is suggested of using a tablespoonful of vinegar in the water in which white silk hose are washed to keep the silk from yellowing.

For fruit-stained fingers save any strong tea left over from the brewing. Especially after preserving will this be found useful for the removal of stains. Dip the fingers into the tea, rubbing the nails with a soft brush, then wash with warm water and soap.

Before varnishing furniture rub the wood with fine sandpaper to give it a smooth surface. See that brushes used are soft and of a good quality, or varnish will dry streaky.

PAINT MENDS PANS.

An inexpensive way to mend the pan that goes under the sink or the mop-pail is to turn it upside down and give it a thick coat of paint. Let it dry well and then add a second coat.

One Million Francs

By Arnold Fredericks

The Prefect drew out his watch and consulted it with a frown. "Strange!" he muttered to himself. "I wonder where Duvall can be. He was to have met us at ten o'clock."

The Count was thoroughly disgusted. "Duvall!" he cried angrily. "Bah! A stupid pig of an American! He has done nothing so far but lose me a million francs."

"He must be in the house," went on the Prefect, as his assistant came running into the room with the axe in his hand. "Moreau, have you or Vernet seen anything of Monsieur Duvall?"

"Not since he left us, over half an hour ago," replied one of the men. His companion nodded acquiescence.

The Prefect closed his watch sharply, and placed it in his pocket. "Very well," he said, turning to his men. "It is ten o'clock; we can wait for him no longer. Break in the door."

The two men advanced toward the door of the room and Moreau raised his axe for the purpose of breaking in one of the panels. He had not yet delivered his blow when the door was suddenly opened from within and Richard Duvall stepped quietly into the room, closing the door behind him. His Panama hat was set jauntily upon his head, and he smoked a cigarette with calm enjoyment. There was a moment of silence, during which he looked about at the surprised faces before him with a quizzical smile. "I am afraid I am half in minute late," he said, taking out his watch and consulting it.

Before he finished speaking the party in the room had burst into a chorus of exclamation. To Grace his arrival seemed almost providential. "Mr. Duvall!" she cried joyfully, then, overcome by her sudden relief at his appearance, sank into a chair and sobbed quietly. The Count did not share her satisfaction. Whenever things seemed to be going right with him, this fellow Duvall always turned up to upset matters. He glanced toward the door of the room. "Where is Girard?" he inquired with a sneer. "I thought you were going to arrest him within twenty-four hours."

"I still have two hours more, Count," remarked Duvall, smiling.

"But they told me he was in that room," exclaimed the Prefect in astonishment.

"He is," Duvall replied. "Tied up as tight as a drum." He looked back toward the room, and laughed.

"How did you get him?" the Prefect asked.

"Oh, I had no trouble at all—in fact, it was as easy as rolling off a log. I followed him to his room above and watched. When he climbed down a rope to the window of the room in there," he nodded over his shoulder, "I climbed after him. I saw him come in here, and meet Miss Ellicott. When he came back I just choked him a bit and tied him up—that's all." He smiled upon the others as though capturing a desperate criminal were a most commonplace affair.

The Prefect remained for a moment plunged in thought. Suddenly he turned to his assistant. "Then, if you were in that room, you must have overheard the interview between Girard and this young lady?" He pointed toward Grace.

Duvall nodded slowly. "I did." he said.

"Did Girard say anything to her regarding the money which he took from the house of Monsieur the Count D'Este?"

"Yes." Duvall's reply to this question was made with the utmost cheerfulness. He seemed unconscious of the fact that his testimony was involving the girl more and more deeply every moment.

"Did he give her the money?"

"He gave her a package."

"Ha! What did I tell you?" exclaimed the Count fiercely, as he went up to the sobbing girl. "My money!"

"Search her!" The Prefect nodded to Duvall, who at once went up to Grace and began speaking to her in a low voice. "Miss Ellicott," he began, "forgive me."

She rose and turned to him eagerly evidently hoping that, in spite of what he had said, he would somehow be able to extricate her from her difficulties. "Oh, Mr. Duvall," she cried, "they are all telling such lies about me! They say I came here to meet this man Girard, but you know that it is not true. They tried to drug me—to marry me to that——" She pointed unsteadily toward Emile. "Oh, I can't say what I think—it's all so terrible!" She put out her hand and rested it for a moment upon his arm. "You promised to help me, Mr. Duvall."

"I believe all that you say, Miss Ellicott, and I shall help you," he said, looking at her kindly. "This woman, I suppose," he turned to Madame Tissot, "denies what you say?"

"Yes," the Prefect asserted, before she had an opportunity to reply. "And the man as well."

"A bundle of lies!" Madame Tissot sprang forward with well-assumed indignation. "The wretch is trying to save herself at the expense of honest people."

"And you, Monsieur Emile? What have you to say?" The detective looked at the young man with a keen and penetrating glance.

"The thing is absurd," replied Emile haughtily. "I came here because I was determined to find out what this girl was up to. I saw her meet Girard here in this room. It was I who drove him in there." He pointed to the door at the rear.

"Indeed!" Duvall smiled in a way which somehow made young D'Este feel somehow very uncomfortable. "You are becoming quite a detective, Monsieur." He turned to Grace. "Miss Ellicott, forgive me, but Girard gave you a package."

"Oh, yes, yes! Here it is." She tore the package from her bosom and thrust it into his hands, then burst into tears. "Take it—take it! You are all against me."

He took the envelope from her without paying the least attention to her reproachful looks or the bitterness of her voice. Slipping off the elastic band which held the package together, he opened it and glanced hurriedly through the contents. "The same," he said, turning to Monsieur Lefevre.

The Count, seeing the lost money almost within his grasp, rushed forward with extended hand. "My money!" he cried excitedly. "Give it to me." He attempted to take the package from Duvall, but the latter pushed him off. "Not so fast, my friend. We require this as evidence." He went up to the Prefect and handed him the package, in spite of D'Este's furious protest. "Here, Chief," he said, quietly, "you had better take care of this."

The Prefect took the money and placed it carefully in his pocket. "You are right," he said, then glanced at D'Este. "The money will be quite safe in my hands, Monsieur."

"Sacre bleu!" cried the Count, unable to hide his chagrin. "An outrage!" Lefevre paid no attention to his complaints, but, turning to one of his men, nodded, and then looked toward Grace. "Place the girl under arrest," he said, and the man moved forward.

Grace ceased her sobbing and faced Duvall and the others with a look of scorn. "So this is your friendship!" she cried angrily. "I came here because you told me to come, and because I trusted you." She awaited quietly the approach of the man who came toward her with the evident intention of placing her under arrest. Before he reached her, Duvall raised his hand, and, stepping between them, spoke to Grace in a low voice. "You claim that you did not come here to meet Girard. How, then, does it happen that you were found here with him?"

"He came out of that door," she said, pointing toward the room at the rear.

Duvall turned to the Prefect, who was observing him intently. "Ah! then he was concealed there, when the woman tried to drug you?" he inquired significantly.

"Oh, yes, yes; he heard everything."

"Impossible!" exclaimed D'Este with a scowl.

"Not at all, Monsieur." Duvall regarded him with the quiet smile so characteristic of his demeanor throughout the entire investigation. "I myself saw him descend to that room from the window above."

"He heard everything," went on the girl hurriedly, appreciating that only through the testimony of Girard could she hope to prove her innocence. "He said he would confirm it."

STRATHROY BUILDING COLLAPSED SUDDENLY

No One Was Hurt, but Several People Had Very Close Calls.

[Canadian Press.]

Strathroy, Aug. 20—The front walls of the Dominion Block, occupied by E. Satham & Sons, collapsed shortly after six o'clock this evening. The building was being torn down as it had been condemned some time ago. No one was hurt, but several passers-by had very close calls.

The tenders for the new collegiate institute building have all been rejected, the board deciding they were much too high.

LOBO FARMERS FEAR DAMAGE TO GRAIN

Continuous Downpours Prevent Taking Fine Crops Into Barns —Apple Buyers Busy.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Lobo, Aug. 21. — The continuous heavy rains are beginning to alarm farmers in this district, particularly those who have grain cut and not safe in the barns. Quite a large amount of oats are still in the fields and unless the wet weather ceases the grain will be badly injured. Fruit is very plentiful and of fine quality and the apple buyers are busy making arrangements for purchasing large quantities.

To Keep Skin in Fine Condition in Summer

[From the Family Physician.]

It would be much better for the skin if little cream, powder or rouge were used during the heated term. Mixed with perspiration, dust and grime, these things are anything but beautifying. Ordinary mercolized wax will do more for the complexion, and without giving an oily, shiny, streaked, spotted or pasty appearance. It is the ideal application for the season, as it not only keeps the pores clean, but daily removes particles of scarf skin which have been soiled by dirt or weather. By constantly keeping the complexion clear, white and satiny, it does more toward perpetuating a youthful countenance than any of the arts or artifices commonly employed. One ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drugstore, will completely renovate the worst complexion. It is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

To keep the skin from sagging or wrinkling, or to overcome such condition, there's nothing better than a face bath made by dissolving 1 ounce powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel.

YANKEE NAVAL CAPTAIN RAN THE DARDANELLES

Italians Could Take a Leaf From the Book of Captain Bainbridge.

London, Aug. 21.—It the Italians should decide upon another attempt to rush the Dardanelles it may cheer them to remember that the thing has been done before, by Capt. Bainbridge, of the United States navy, a dashing naval exploit which is not so well known as it deserves to be.

The year was A. D. 1800. In the early autumn Capt. Bainbridge, of the frigate George Washington, cast anchor in the port of Algiers. It so happened that the Dey of Algiers desired to send an embassy to the Sultan, and he therefore called upon Capt. Bainbridge to convey his representative to Constantinople. Fearing that a refusal would be avenged upon his unoffending fellow-citizens, Capt. Bainbridge consented, and on Oct. 19, 1800, he set sail for his destination.

For the passage of the Dardanelles, however, passports were requisite, and Capt. Bainbridge had none. To prevent any vessel slipping by without passports two forts guarded the narrowest part of the passage. Their guns were always loaded and always pointed. For the sinking of the George Washington a single discharge would suffice.

Capt. Bainbridge knew that the obtaining of a passport would involve a long delay—the more so as his flag was entirely unknown to the Ottoman authorities. He was an impatient man, determined at all hazards to fulfill his promise, so he decided upon a stratagem.

He sailed as far as the forts. When he had arrived opposite he stopped and pretended to anchor, at the same time firing a salute to the forts in due and proper formm. The forts in accordance with the rules of politeness returned the salute, with the result that the George Washington disappeared from view behind a thick veil of smoke. When the cloud of smoke was at last dissipated it was discovered that the George Washington was no longer there. Capt. Bainbridge had slipped by unobserved and was out of range and was heading for Constantinople.

He got there on Nov. 9 and was invited to explain his presence. The explanation was not easy, as the Sultan of Turkey had never heard of the United States. He took Capt. Bainbridge's word for it, however, that they were a part of "the new world discovered by Christopher Columbus"; while the Stars and Stripes suggested to his mind some subtle affinity betwen the American and Moslem religions. Consequently he made the captain welcome, though he announced his intention of hanging the governor of the forts whom he had fooled. It was only at the urgent intercession of Capt. Bainbridge that the governor was pardoned.

So that all ended happily. The George Washington remained rather more than six weeks at Constantinople, finally quitting the Bosphorus on the last day of December. Capt. Bainbridge stopped on his way through the Dardanelles to receive the hospitality and thanks of the governor on whom he had played his cunning trick, and on Jan. 21, 1801, he was once more at Algiers, where the dey overwhelmed him with compliments on his dashing exploit.

WOMEN SHOULD BE PROTECTED

Against So Many Surgical Operations. How Mrs. Bethune and Mrs. Moore Escaped.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

Murrayville, Ill.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a very bad case of female trouble and it made me a well woman. My health was all broken down, the doctors said I must have an operation, and I was ready to go to the hospital, but dreaded it so that I began taking your Compound. I got along so well that I gave up the doctors and was saved from the operation."—Mrs. CHARLES MOORE, R. R. No. 3, Murrayville, Ill.

"CARROT" SHADE IS LATEST

Entire Costumes of Striking Hue Seen at Resorts.

London, Aug. 21.—A strange shade never before seen in fashionable society has flared up like a flame colored exotic among the whites and blacks and grays which have so far been the fashion in this dreary summer.

It is neither brick-red nor vermilion nor any conceivable pink, and the dressmakers have reluctantly agreed to call it simply "carrots." And carrots has flamed into sudden notoriety as the fashionable shade.

Last week at Goodwood there were stockings of carroty hue flashing under the inevitable blue coat and skirt. Carrots parasols bloomed in the intervals of sunshine and here and there an entire costume of this striking if somewhat bizarre shade drew considerable attention.

Where the craze is likely to end no man can tell and an enterprising firm of carriage builders is engaged in getting out a carroty-colored motor car body so that madame in her carroty hat and carrots gown need not step into a car of clashing shade.

Tenth Consecutive Walloping Handed the Tecumsehs

BARRETT'S INDIANS PROVE PUNK WARRIORS WHEN MATCHED WITH DENEAU'S DASHING DUTCHMEN

JOYS OF BARGAIN DAY SHATTERED BY DOUBLE TROUNCING OF LOCAL CREW

First Session Was Sizzling Mix for Nine Rounds, but Weird Procession Brought Victory to the Sausage Makers—Sammy Smith Combed a-Plenty, and Lack of Sustaining Wallops in Second Kills Our Chances.

The Tecumsehs, just to show some plain and fancy things in the line of slumps, paraded before a goodly sprinkling of gents and gentesses, yesterday afternoon, and obliged them by shoving a cute pair of games into the friendly mitt of one, Rube Deneau, pilot of the Flying Dutchmen.

The first was won by a score of 7 to 5, while the second went to the visitors, 4 to 1. Altogether, it was a lovely slaughter, and a trifle beyond.

The first game was a smashing mix-up for eight innings, and then the Dutchmen started rough-house doings, and at this juncture the undertaker made his appearance.

Frenchy Chaput, who formerly cavorted in a Berlin uniform, started for the home folks, and for the greater part of the game pitched like he used to in the good old days. In the ninth, however, somebody cut the guy-wires, and the machine moved into the azure blue.

The very heavens rained base-hits, and Oskee Neale had to wire in for dark glasses, for fear he would be killed in the shower. Every son of Erin on the Dutch team just walloped the inoffensive ball to the weeds, and the outfielders ran themselves into condition for the Boston Marathon chasing them.

Games Are Slipping Underneath Our Feet.

Only six runs were scored in this frame, and judging from the smiles that spread the classic countenance of Rube Deneau, one would believe that they were simply kidding our boys all the while.

It was some finish for the Berliners, but a bad half for the fans. Gilhooley was the fancy youngster in this session, and showed like the real ball-player he is.

Greenhaugh and Kelleher sure did field some. Mr. Nickells, who is built on the same style of architecture as the Eiffel Tower, was a regular Samson. He could flay our whole outfift with an ordinary jawbone. His extra base wallops did the damage.

Mr. Beattie obliged for the Dutchmen, and pitched a fair article of ball. Bramble finished the ninth inning for him, and saved the bacon, as Jawn Johnson would say.

The second affray was a nice pastime, in which the visitors combed our talented vaudeville artist, Samuel D. Smith, a-plenty. His musical partner, Mr. Speer, received Sam's artistic delivery, except when some green-hosed gent slammed it through the meadows, and the like. Four runs were garnered while the songbird tarried with us, and it might have been worse had the shades of evening not been falling.

We've Got a Team of Tesreau Hitters.

In the meantime our gents were giving a life-sized impersonation of Jeff Tesreau, of the Giants, who has been known to make as many as two hits a summer. Once he was awfully good and made four during the year. That was some time ago.

Our boys were just like the party aforementioned. Mr. Bramble had them in the bushes all afternoon, and while they made some saucy slaps at the spheroid, which is slang for pill, they never got very far or looked dangerous. It was an artistic mauling, made more bitter because certain rude persons, Rube Deneau, Midge Craven, and Hippo Matteson, had the temerity to make fun of our sterling athletes. It was a hard blow.

Mr. Nickells, who is said to be "Gib, the Blood" in disguise, kept up his gun play, and bingled one of Samuel's high 'i's for seven miles. He would have made a home run, if he had not laughed. Well, there were not many fielding features, and not much excitement. This thing cannot last forever, so look for a brace from the boys.

The First Game

The Indians started off right in the first game, and for eight very pleasant spells looked as if they were going to break the long series of defeats at the expense of the Busy Bees, but just when it appeared as if all was over but the mere routine of retiring the last three batters of the Dutch crew, the storm broke, and broke good and proper.

Until the fatal ninth Del Chaput had his former teammates eating out of his hand, and none of them were taking very much at that. For the first eight spasms the whole energy of Deneau and his athletes was confined to obtaining one run and three hits off Del's delivery.

After Linny had struck out in the first Bierbauer singled to left and promptly stole second. Gilhooley, the swat artist of the Indians, did the needful with a bingle to right, which brought Louie in with the first run. Cocash reached first on a fielder's choice and stole second, but Matteson caught him trying to pilfer third. Berlin looked dangerous in the first, but after Chaput had poked Craven with a fast one, and the talkative second baseman had been sent to second by Hartwell, our new twirler compelled the next two batters to fly out.

Peculiar Situation, This.

Nothing was doing in the counting line in either the second or third inning, although in the second Neale reached first on an error, but he was doubled when Reidy caught Greenhalgh's high drive to left. In the fourth, with one down, Bullock got a life on Fox's error, was sacrificed to second, Nickells flied to Gilhooley, and Chaput to show that he wasn't anxious, passed Reidy, but he then threw Burns out at first.

In the last half of the fourth the locals scored two runs on one hit, three bases on balls, an error and a fielder's choice. Cocash was given free transportation, Kelleher, the new first baseman, doubled to right, and Fox was also given a free trip to first. Neale drove a hot liner at Beatty's head, and that gentleman deflected the course of the ball in Craven's direction, who forced Coke at home.

Beatty could not find the plate and walked Greenhalgh, forcing in Kelleher with another counter. Hartwell made a boot on Lindy's grass cutter, and Fox scored tally number two.

The Dutchmen Threaten.

In the Berlin half of the fifth Hessberger led off with a double, but the next three men could not bring him home.

Neale made a sensational catch of Matteson's high one behind third. In the sixth both teams scored one run. Hartwell commenced the proceedings with a double and scored on Nickell's triple to left, which dropped into a large hole near the fence. Neale made a fast recovery and held the human steam roller at third. Chaput and Gilhooley threw out the next two batters.

After Fox had died at the hands of Hessberger, Neale doubled to left and was safe at home when Matteson dropped Reidy's return of Chaput's single. Both teams went out in quick order in the seventh and eighth, and the game appeared to be safely stowed away, when Nickells came to the plate in the ninth and his double did not cause much anxiety in the stands. Reidy flied to Gilhooley then.

The Slaughter Commences.

Deneau here substituted Bramble for Burns, and he made good as a pinch hitter by doubling to left, and scoring Nickells. Deneau replaced Hessberger in the batting order and was walked, Neale lost Matteson's hit in the sun, and Bramble scored. Beatty counted Deneau and Matteson with a two-bagger past Cocash. Craven fouled to Kelleher, but Hartwell singled to centre and Beatty crossed when Greenhalgh dropped Cocash's peg to the plate, Hartwell taking second on the throw, and tallying on Bullock's one-base drive. Greenhalgh caught Bullock trying to steal second.

In London's half, Chaput was walked by Bramble who replaced Beatty on the mound but was forced at second by Linneburne, who then stole that bag. Gilhooley singled and scored Linny, but Cocash and Kelleher ended the rally by striking out.

(Prolonged groans from supporters of our help.)

The Second Game

The second game only lasted for seven innings but during that time Deneau's pets chalked up four counters while the local hired help could only manage to bring one tally across the pan.

In this game the Berlin team was full of pepper, and Matteson and Craven, assisted by Cy Reidy, sprung a line of comedy that assisted the fans and fanettes to go home to their evening meals in better spirits than they usually do after a double-header has been taken by the enemy.

The whole "Dutch Companee" seemed to have taken a new lease on life, and many were the jokes that were cracked and, sad to relate, the majority were directed at Sammy Smith and his appearance upon the local stage.

When Umpire Jocko Halligan had hardly finished announcing the batteries, Craven banged the ball to centre for one sack's worth, and was sacrificed around to third by Hartwell. Bullock drove one at Linny and Craven was nearly doubled at third.

Looey's Got the Bug, Too.

Nickells, who had his eye on the ball all day, singled in the direction of Mr. Louis Bierbauer, who, by the way, will make his maiden speech next Monday night at the Grand Opera House, and Craven scored.

Sammy walked Reidy, but he threw Burns out at first. The locals went out in one, two, three order in their part of the inaugural spasm, and Berlin followed suit in the second.

Cocash, the first man up in London's half, singled and stole second while Kelleher was being called out on rather doubtful strikes, and Oskee Neale, who distinguished himself by getting two hits in the same day on the local grounds, drove one past Hartwell at a mile-a-minute clip and Cocash crossed the rubber with the tying counter.

In the third the locals made an effort to break the tie, when, after Smith was out, Bramble connected with Linny's ribs, and that speedy gent immediately stole second to show his admirers in the stands that his legs were as yet uninjured.

While sliding into the bag his spikes connected with Mr. Craven's nether garments, and ripped a large gash in the aforesaid part of that comedian's uniform, much to his discomfort.

Louie flied to Hartwell, and Linneburn was held at third on Gilhooley's bingle. Cocash dispelled the hopes of those present by lifting a "dirigible" to Bullock.

The Bloodshed Progresses.

In the fourth stanza Reidy was out through Cocash's catch of his drive to deep centre, while Burns reached first on Fox's error, but was forced at second by Hessberger. Matteson lifted a high foul, and followed Speer around, but his advice was not heeded by Benny, who clung onto the pill for dear life.

It was in the fifth that the real damage was done. Bramble went out, Smith to Kelleher, but Craven singled through short, and after Speer had thrown out Hartwell, Bullock scored Craven with a tap to the middle garden.

Nickells, just for spite tripled again, and Bullock came across with the scoring run of the inning. Gilhooley stopped the uncalled for actions of the Bees by throwing Reidy out at first.

Neither team appeared dangerous in the sixth, but in the last appearance at bat the enemy counted another just for Sammy's sake. Hartwell singled and went to second on Smith's wild throw to catch him napping.

Bullock scored Craven with his second safe tap of the sunset session, but Nickells and Reidy were easy infield outs. The locals tried to overcome the lead, and after Neale had swung three times at the atmosphere Greenhalge was sent in to bat for Speer. Bramble did not like his looks and walked him, but he was forced at second by Sammy the Songster. Linneburn ended the agony by lifting a high one to Craven.

Such, dear friends, was the tale of the massacre. More today!

NATIONAL CHAMPS SWEEP THE SERIES

REDS AND DOVES SPLIT

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 20. — Wiltse was effective with men on the bases, while Harmon was hit when hits meant runs, New York winning the final game by a score of 5 to 1 this afternoon and making a clean sweep of the series.

Myers started the third inning by taking first base when Harmon hit him. Fletcher was out to Magee. Wiltse singled, Myers stopping at second. Snodgrass then tripled to left centre, scoring Myers and Wiltse. Doyle's single brought Snodgrass home with the third run. Becker singled and Murray ended the inning by hitting into a double play.

In the fifth inning the leaders scored another run on Fletcher's walk, Wiltse's sacrifice and Dooin's single.

Herzog singled and went to second on Oakes' fumble in the seventh; Myers was out and Fletcher reached first on Huggins' error; Herzog scored on Wiltse's third hit of the game.

Smith's double, followed by Konetchy's single after two were out in the eighth, gave St. Louis its score. The score:

LONDON DIRECTORS IN SESSION DECIDE TO MAKE NO CHANGE IN MANAGEMENT FOR THIS SEASON

Barrett Will Remain in Charge Till Completion of Schedule, but Lew McAllister Is Coming to Talk of Plans for 1913—Kelleher, Who Pleases, May Not Be Back Next Season—Chaput Goes Also.

The directors of the London baseball team had a meeting last night, when the local situation was thoroughly discussed.

It was decided, as announced yesterday in The Advertiser, to make no change in the management for the remainder of the season. Manager Barrett will remain in control of the situation until the schedule is completed.

It was decided to have Lew McAllister, now catching for Baltimore, to come to London, and as he is a free agent, the terms should be easily arranged, provided, of course, that the directors want to make a change. It is not quite certain that they will have a new manager for next season. He will be in the city Monday.

McAllister, if he comes as manager, will work in his turn behind the bat. This means that one extra catcher will be carried. Greenhalgh has all the ear marks of a comer, his foot work yesterday being particularly impressive. He and Speer will fight it out for the catching job.

KELLEHER MAY NOT RETURN NEXT SEASON.

It is doubted that Kelleher will be here next year. He is a very shiftly-looking first-baser, and should more than make good. However, he is playing merely out of friendship for Manager Barrett, and from present indications he will not be back with the team. Chaput will finish out the season with the Tecumsehs, but will go to the Southern League next year.

The directors of the Tecumsehs do not take kindly to the criticisms directed at them, declaring that they have endeavored to give the city the best ball possible.

"We admit that we do not know everything about baseball," said Mr. George H. O'Neil, in discussing the situation. "We have had to rely on the judgment of the manager for our players, and how and where they should be played. We gave him a free hand in everything, and the unsatisfactory results cannot be laid at our doors. We have been willing to spend money to get the players, but we have not had the luck to get them.

ACTION IN POWELL CASE WAS JUSTIFIED.

"We carried out our agreement with Powell to the letter. When a man threatens to jump the team at a critical moment, as he did, he cannot play on any team I have anything to do with, if he can field perfectly and bat .999. His absence weakened the team, undoubtedly, but there was nothing for us to do under the circumstances than what we did do.

"We do not mind a little criticism—we expect it. Mistakes have been made—we know them now. Next year probably we will be wiser than we are at the present time. There are many, undoubtedly, who could run a baseball team better than we can. Good managers are scarce in the big leagues, and it is a wonder that some of these fellows are not picked up."

The directors would not discuss the possibility of changes in the personnel of the team before the end of the month. Some of the players are not giving satisfaction. Their work during the past month has been very crude, and they are due for distant pastures.

SKEETERS FAILED TO STOP KELLEY'S PETS

RUDOLPH IN FINE FORM

Toronto, Aug. 21. — Rudolph's supero control, combined with the timely hitting of the Leafs, proved the undoing of Larry Schafly's Jerseys in their game at the island yesterday afternoon. While the Skeeters got only seven hits they had a faculty in the early stages of the game of getting around on them, and for a time the matche looked like a seesaw, but the Leafs came back at every rally the visitors started, and went one better, so that the latter half of the game was quite tame. The score was 6 to 3. Mason pitched a fair game, but was hit hard in almost every inning.

ROCHESTER WON TWO AND INCREASED LEAD

Heavy Hitting Helped Bronchos to Defeat Baltimore Orioles.

Rochester, Aug. 20—Rochester opened a three-game series with Baltimore here today by winning both games by scores of 10 to 8 and 3 to 1, the first by heavy hitting and the second by Quinn's good pitching and timely hitting. The scores:

BIG GAME A MENACE

Quebec, Aug. 20. — That wolves and bears are increasing in numbers in Northern Quebec, and notably in the National Park, where wild animals are protected by law, and that in some places they are becoming a menace to the safety of the settlers and their domestic animals, is indicated by a petition received by Dr. Deschenes, deputy minister of crown lands, from the townships of Mesy and Caron, in the Lake St. John district.

The petition is signed by the mayor and the residents of the townships, and requests that they be allowed to kill bears and wolves in the portions of the park which borders the townships in question, as the animals are making great ravages among the sheep and cattle.

Not only will the petition be granted, but it is planned to organize fortnightly hunting parties to enter the section of the park mentioned.

BRANHAM BAUGHMAN WINNER AT SALEM

SENORITA COPS TROT

Salem, N. H., Aug. 20.—Showers early in the day affected both the track and the crowd, so that the attendance was small and the time comparatively slow during the first day that the grand circuit ever raced in New Hampshire.

Racing was without particular interest. The Tyro, for 3-year-olds, assembled a lot that had been left out of the futurities, and victory went to the Michigan-bred filly Senorita. It was play for her to beat the field, for she has worked eight seconds faster than she was asked to race.

Senorita is by Marble Grit out of a Bruno Hal mare, and was bred by E. M. Starkweather, of Northville. She now is owned by Edward Stout, of Pontiac, and J. F. Rundel, of Birmingham.

Longshot Cox Again.

"The Hub," for 2:05 pacers, valued at $3,000, was the feature of the afternoon. "Longshot" Cox," the New Hampshire driver, had the winner in Branham Baughman, famous as the biggest money winner of all pacers in 1911. He led all the way in each of the three heats.

Frank Murphy, of Suffield, Conn., captured the 2:18 trot with Keynote in a handy way. Susie Wood, the Providence mare, scampered off with the initial heat and the battle from that point was to determine which of the field could drive out the winner.

Al Dillard, who has been so successful over the half-mile tracks the last two years, had no bother in taking the 2:11 pace. Edna B. getting second money just as eisily.

WALTER JOHNSON BREAKS AMERICAN LEAGUE MARK

Washington Heaver Is Now Credited With Fifteen Consecutive Victories—Chesbro Had 14.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Walter Johnson, the National's big pitcher, broke the American League pitching record for consecutive victories, when he defeated Cleveland by 4 to 2 today in the opening game of a double-header. This game makes Johnson's fifteenth win in a row, the former record of fourteen being held by Chesbro, of the New York Highlanders, in 1904. Washington also won the second game 2 to 0. Cashion twirling a no-hit, no-run game. The contest was called by agreement after Cleveland had gone to bat in the sixth, to allow the visitors to catch a train. Scores:

CUBS GRAB A PAIR FROM PHILADELPHIA 6-1, 13-3

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Philadelphia was defeated by Chicago in a double-header today, 6 to 1 and 13 to 3. Lavender held the visitors safe in the first game, while Chicago bunched hits on Alexander. Three Philadelphia pitchers were used in the second contest, Moore starting and lasting four innings. Reulbach started for Chicago and retired in the third when he injured his side. Smith relieved him and the visitors did not get a hit until the seventh, when he eased up. Scores:

GREWSOME DETAILS OF TECUMSEHS' CROAKING

Everybody's doin' it.

* * *

* * *

* * *

The home folks had a good look at three new Tecumsehs, and they all looked good.

* * *

"Rube" Deneau waited some time for his revenge, and it has been coming to him in bunches.

* * *

Anyway, Peterboro lost a pair, and our favorites cannot reach them if they keep that pace up.

* * *

Neale made a two-base hit, and everyobdy sat up and took notice. It is hoped he will get the habit.

* * *

Kelliher, the first baseman, is a very smooth-fielding lad, big and husky, and plays the bag all the while.

* * *

It looks as if the Tecumsehs will not beat Ottawa out for the championship of the Canadian League this year.

* * *

Sammy Smith was hit in bunches, although he showed a lot of stuff. He did not lose the game because of bad pitching.

* * *

Jocko Halligan made his first appearance here as an umpire. He did not show much, and was guessing all the time.

* * *

Greenhalgh, the kid catcher, is a quick-moving, hard-working, brainy young rascal, that will show something in this ring.

* * *

Somebody put soft soap on that slide. If some person does not move the bottom, there will be a dull, sickening thud soon.

* * *

Never mind, every slump has an ending. The Tecumsehs will start to hit one of these days, and somebody will be busy chalking up the runs.

* * *

The Dutchmen have put up some famous finishes during their recent visits in this fair city. The one yesterday was a week beyond the limit.

* * *

Rube Deneau and Bramble did the pinch-hitting in the ninth inning of the first game, and they certainly did show something. What a walloping.

* * *

Franchy Chaput—she wan gran' pitchaire, by gar. He had hard luck in losing his game, but some very bad work in the pastures caused the muss.

* * *

Linneburn tore Craven's pantalettes in sliding to second in the evening pastime, and the safety-pin brigade had to work overtime to repair the damage.

* * *

Nickells made a couple of three-ply smashes that would have been home runs for any of the other players. The big fellow is slow, but how he hammers that ball. Zowie!

* * *

"Peaches" Graham, who has become known to Canadian League followers as the scout for Toronto, played centre field for the Kellyites yesterday, and batted .500 for the day.

* * *

The town wit was present at the game, and entertained the stand during the dull moments. He was as irrepressible as Mrs. Pankhurst. He really did say some funny things.

* * *

Close upon the dispatch stating that Andy Kyle was to be recalled by Columbus, comes the announcement by President Herrman, of Cincinnati, that the Reds had bought Kyle along with two teammates.

* * *

Gilhooley got over his batting slump, making a quartette of hits in the first muss, and another in the second fracas. He handled thirteen out of fourteen chances in great style. He looked great yesterday.

* * *

The drafting season for Class C leagues closes on Sunday next, and the announcement of what players in the Canadian League will secure a trial in faster company will likely be made early next week.

* * *

Greenhalgh can throw to bases. The Dutchmen were glued to the sacks all afternoon. his boy Kelleher is also some fancy fielder, and when he gets his batting eye, he should be a luminary, which is slang for star.

* * *

Hippo Matteson and Midge Craven got in some comedy work in the second game, and were chided by the bleacherites for it. "Sammy Smith's in vaudeville—give us a chance," shot back Matteson, and everybody had a laugh.

* * *

Anybody who says that the Dutchmen are playing bad ball had better wake up. They are all experienced, hard-hitting players, and are liable to start a stampede any moment. They will give some of the other clubs some heartaches before the snow flies.

* * *

"Oskee" Neale demonstrates that when he wants to be bad in the field, he can make the outfielder of the Clarence Street Stars look like Ty Cobb. The sun may have bothered him, but it took him a long time to get wise to what was the trouble.

* * *

The big league scouts, who were expected to appear yesterday, did not put in an appearance, and perhaps it was just as well. The listless exhibition furnished by the locals in the second game would have disheartened anyone who was looking for major league timber.

* * *

The Tecumsehs are in a fearful batting slump, and apparently cannot shake the jinx. They played a right smart fielding game during the day, but could not hit a flock of cheese boxes. What is wanted badly is a couple of clean-up hitters, who could slam the ball somewhere when it was needed.

TWO UMPIRES DISABLED IN PITTSBURG BATTLE

Owen and Brennan Had To Be Carried From the Field, Players Finishing Arbiter's Work.

Pittsburg, Aug. 20.—Both Umpires Owen and Brennan were seriously injured in the first game of today's double-header with Brooklyn. Owen was hit on the chest by a foul tip from Miller's bat in the second inning, and was carried from the field. Physicians who examined him declared his breastbone was broken.

Brennan, while running to second to make a decision when Carey tried to steal in the first inning, slipped on the sloppy field and fell. He was carried to the Pittsburg players' bench, where it was found the cartilage in his right knee had been shattered. Both men were taken to the Homoeopathic Hospital. At last report Owen was still unconscious.

RUNAWAY RED SOX WALLOP THE TIGERS

Jean Dubuc Was Accorded Poor Support by the Detroit Crew Yesterday.

THE BOSTONS RAN WILD

Sprinted as They Pleased on the Paths and Purloined Seven Sacks—Score 6 to 2.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 20. — Even Jean Dubuc, our fair-haired boy, couldn't check the runaway Red Sox this afternoon. The French-Canadian wasn't as good as usual, and his support, if such it could be called, would have robbed Walter Johnson at his best of any chance of victory. Detroit's errors, a few well-timed hits, and a veritable epidemic of base-thieving, were the ingredients mixed in the six runs taken by Boston. Detroit got two tallies, one the result of a poor throw by Wagner, who was hastening to complete a double play, and the other partially a gift in the ninth when the speed boys had nothing to worry them but the fear of being late for supper. The score:

BIG JACK ZELIG CONFESSES

New York, Aug. 20.—The grand jury indicted today, for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, Lieut. Charles Becker, Jack Sullivan, William Shapiro, Louis Rosenberg, Frank Muller. Frank Cirofici and Harry Horowitz. Rosenberg and Horowitz have not yet been caught.

The indictment against Becker supersedes the former one in order to include the lieutenant with the others formally named as the murderers. Of these Becker will likely be tried first, although the plans may necessitate taking up first the case of Frank Muller ("Whitey" Lewis).

The indictments were filed today after the grand jury had received from Sam Schepps perfect corroboration of Jack Rose's confession accusing Becker, and after hearing Big Jack Zelig, the gang leader, testify that he furnished the crew of murderers to please Becker and to keep Becker from sending him to Sing Sing for 14 years on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

HOW "HONEST JOHN" GLINNAN ACCEPTED THE BIG BRIBE

Detective of Burns' Staff Testified in the Detroit Graft Inquiry How He Trapped Eighteen Aldermen—Induced Glinnan to Engineer Scheme.

Detroit, Aug. 20.—The testimony of W. J. Brennan, a Burns operative, was ination today of "Honest John" Glinthe feature of the police court examnan, the first of the eighteen aldermen recently arrested on bribery charges to be tried in court. It was Brennan's evidence that resulted in the arrests of the eighteen aldermen and Common Council Clerk Edward Schreiter, the latter since having made a complete confession. Today Brennan went into all details of the trapping of the aldermen up to the time he alleges that he, representing himself to be an official of the Wabash Railroad, paid Glinnan $1,000 for his influence in granting to railroads their request for the use of a city street for building purposes.

Glinnan Came to Him.

Brennan, upon taking the stand, explained that his right name is Walter J. Burns and that his home is in Boston. He told of coming to the city in April and taking offices in the Ford building as a representative of the real estate department of the Wabash Railroad. He also engaged an adjoining office and had "New England Historical Society" printed on its door. The detective then told of getting himself acquainted with the different aldermen and impressing upon them the urgent desire of the railroad for the rights to the street and of opposition to the proposal that was expressed by several of the councilmen. Finally, he testified, Glinnan came to his office and arrangements were made for the closing of the street.

"Glinnan told me at that time that he wanted to use me as a pipe line to St. Louis," said witness Brennan. "He had wanted for years to get on the Wabash Railroad, he said, and thought he could serve the company by looking after its taxes and other matters in the city hall. He said he would want about $100 a month for his services.

"I interrupted to say, 'Alderman, this street-closing case has been referred back to the committee, and I guess there is some difficulty, isn't there?' 'Yes, but I guess we can adjust it,' he replied.

List of Men to Pay.

"He then gave me a list of some aldermen and said he would see them and pay them. I had already arranged to give him some money for the passage of the resolution closing the street. The amount that we decided upon at the time as necessary for the purpose was between $1,700 and $2,000."

The witness then went into the details of further visits with Glinnan, conferences at the alderman's home, and meetings in the city hall. At last he said, all arrangements were complete for the payment of the bribe money. It had been planned for the aldermen to go individually to Brennan's office and get their share. Glinnan was to go last and get what was left, which, Brennan had told him, would be at least $1,000.

Wm. J. Burns Was There.

According to the testimony Glinnan appeared promptly on July 26 for the money. "I took out a roll of bills," said the witness, "and counted them. I said, 'Glinnan, here is the $1,000 that I promised you for voting for the Wabash closing.' He thanked me and put the money in his pocket. As we left I took him into the next room. Mr. Burns was there. I said, 'Mr. Glinnan, allow me to present Mr. William J. Burns,' and Glinnan said, 'Pleased to meet you.'"

The witness then testified that Glinnan, when he realized his situation, handed back the money and made a complete confession.

MR. JAMES SHAND DIES IN TORONTO

Was For Many Years Foreman of the G. T. R. Freight Sheds Here.

The death occurrre at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John H. Barron, 15 Summer Hill avenue, Toronto, on Sunday last, of Mr. James Shand, for many years foreman in the Grand Trunk freight sheds here. Mr. Shand left London about twelve years ago for Toronto. While here he resided on York street between Waterloo and Wellington. Besides his wife he leaves one son, Percy, of Moose Jaw, and two daughters, Mrs. E. Winchester and Mrs. Barron, both of Toronto. Mr. Shand was a prominent member of the Oddfellows and of Council No. 75 of the C. O. C. F. The funeral was held in Toronto today.

TWO BANK CLERKS OUT MANY THOUSANDS

Toronto, Aug. 21.—Two bank clerks now face serious charges in Toronto, Arthur Richmond, teller in the Elm street branch of the Bank of Toronto, and Roland Harris, assistant clearing house teller in the head office of the Standard Bank. Betting on horse races has been responsible for the defalcations of both young men. Richmond made an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide when he learned that detectives were on his track. Harris quietly left the office of the Standard Bank yesterday afternoon when Detective Taylor came from headquarters to arrest him. Richmond was to appear in police court yesterday morning on a nominal charge of the theft of $500, but he is still too ill in St. Michael's Hospital to allow of his being removed from that place for some days. On good authority it is understood that Richmond's total defalcations will approximate $27,000, that of the other young man will be nearly $20,000. Inspectors are going over the books now, and it is expected that today the real amounts missing in both instances will be known for a certainty.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

HAY AND FRUIT WERE ONLY OFFERINGS TODAY

Former Sold at $14.50 Per Ton—Peaches at 60 to 75 Cents Per Basket.

The local market this morning was very small, h... and fruit being the only offerings. Hay is plentiful, but the high price of $14.50 prevails nevertheless. Yesterday 36 loads were sold on the square, and today a great quantity is expected.

In fruit, plums, peaches and apples are being offered, and prices for these are firm. The best peaches are selling at 60 cents a small basket, and 75 cents for the large size. Plums are worth from 50 to 60 cents, according to quality.

Wall Street, Noon.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Smelting, Steel and Amalgamated Copper, in the order named, were strongest of the market leaders today, with dealings largest in Steel. Business was more diversified in the sense that it comprehended many railway issues, as well as specialties. The Coalers, Harrimans and Hill issues reflected underlying strength, with no marked change, but Canadian Pacific was inclined to reaction. Tobacco stocks, such as Liggett and Myers, Lorrillard and Snuff, were up 1 to 3 points. Pullman was easily the feature of the equipment group, gaining almost 5 points. Idleness followed the activity of the first hour. Bonds were irregular.

GOLD COINAGE NOT POPULAR

Two Hundred Thousand Dollars' Worth Issued—Not Much Used.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—The Treasury Department has already issued eight million dollars' worth of the new Dominion five-dollar notes. The gold coinage, of which $200,000 worth has been issued, does not appear to have yet gained much popularity as a method of currency, the notes furnishing all the security required, and being much handier in the pocket.

WILL SETTLE DIFFERENCES

Misunderstanding at Labatt's Discussed in Friendly Spirit.

The Advertiser was informed today than a misunderstanding at Labatt's brewery over the terms of the agreement between the firm and the union is being discussed in an amicable spirit.

There has been no strike, and it is taken for granted on both sides that the difficulty will be easily adjusted.

FOSTER AND REID CONFER

Discussed Better Trade Relations Between Canada and Australia.

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—It is understood that while in New Brunswick Hon. Geo. E. Foster had a conference with Sir George Reid, the Australian trade commissioner, relative to better trade relations between the Dominion and the Commonwealth. Mr. Foster will be back in Ottawa at the end of this week, and will hold another conference with Sir George here. The Minister of Trade and Commerce is going to England in October.

FOUND NEW TRIBES

Explorer Steffanson Arrives at Nome From the Arctic Circles.

[Canadian Press.]

Nome, Alaska, Aug. 21.—Vilhmar Steffanson, the explorer, who discovered a race of blonde Eskimos in Victoria Land, arrived here today on the revenue cutter Bear, after spending four and a half years in the Arctic. Mr. Steffanson collected much information concerning the Eskimos of the far north and found many new tribes. He was accompanied by Dr. R. M. Anderson, of Iowa. They made the journey out from the mouth of the Mackenzie River on a steam whaler as far as Point Barrow, the most northerly point of Alaska, where they boarded the Bear.

The expedition was financed by the Geological Survey of Canada and the American Museum of Natural History.

WAR WAS URGED.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Aug. 21.—The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph at Belgrade reports that at the recent conference at Tirnova of the Bulgarian general staff, which was presided over by King Ferdinand, both the minister of war and the chief of staff urged that the moment was propitious for war with Turkey. The King, however, explained the political situation in Europe, and the facts with which Bulgaria must reckon in the event of war.

NEW REGULATION TO PROTECT NAVVIES

Contractors Will Be Required to Keep Careful Record of All Men Employed.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—The department of labor has issued new regulations with the idea of protecting workmen employed in railway construction throughout the Dominion. All contractors, sub-contractors, and other employers, are required to keep a careful record of the names, nationality, place of birth and latest address in Canada as well as home address, also the names and addresses of their nearest relatives of their employees. In the past no record was kept of accident. Dynamite explosions resulting in death have been frequent, and many foreign laborers have been buried unknown and unidentified. Often it occurred that wives and children wrote pathetic letters to foreign consuls inquiring for missing husbands and fathers, and all search to locate them proved in vain. The new regulations will seek to prevent this as far as possible.

Mr. W. D. Kellen, of the department of labor, is now on a tour of instruction over the various lines under construction to see that the new rules are strictly observed.

BANK CLERK HANDED A "PHONY" CHECK.

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, Aug. 21.—Although he is now out of danger, Arthur Richmond, the young teller at the Elm street branch of the Bank of Toronto, who attempted to commit suicide by taking bichlorate of mercury tablets, and turning on the gas in his room just before he was arrested on a charge of stealing $500 from the Bank of Toronto, was unable to appear in the police court this morning. He is in the Toronto jail hospital. The case against him went over to next Wednesday, and in the meantime the police are gathering evidence to show just how much money he did manage to get away with at the races.

"I think that we shall be able to show that he took $27,500 from the bank," said one of the Pinkerton men, who was working on the case for Lloyds, who insured the bank against any trouble like this.

"He might have been all right if one of the handbook men hadn't given him a phony check for about $2,100. If he had got this money all right he would not have needed to take any belonging to the bank."

In the case of young Roland Harris, assistant clearing house teller of the main branch of the Standard Bank, the accused was remanded till the 29th inst., and allowed out on bail of $20,000. The charge read against Harris this morning was just for stealing $7,000 of the bank's money, but this charge will be amended, as Crown Attorney Corley in naming the sum for bail, said: "The same as the amount of the theft."

LONDON AND DISTRICT

Mr. Fawkes Explains.

Mr. J. Fawkes asserts that he was fined by P. M. Judd for making overweight bread, not lightweight bread as was stated in the report of the court some days ago.

Mr. Wright at His Office.

City Engineer Wright was at his office for an hour or two this morning, but he had to return home. He is still very weak, and it will be some days before he is able to take full charge of his department.

Collided With a Wagon.

A motor cycle rider collided with a wagon at the corner of Dundas and Adelaide streets this afternoon and was thrown from his machine. He was badly shaken up, and was carried into the offices of the Globe Casket Company where he soon recovered sufficiently to permit him to proceed.

CHINESE MEMBERS NOT SATISFIED

National Assembly Refuses to Accept Government's Explanation of Execution.

[Canadian Press.]

Peking, Aug. 21.—The National Assembly yesterday considered the explanation of the Government in regard to the execution of General Chang-Chen-Wu and General Feng-Wei, members of Dr. Sun Yat Sen's party, who were summarily put to death a few days ago, and decided that it was unsatisfactory. The members of the assembly demanded the attendance of the premier and war minister today to give a further explanation.

CAN'T GET WEDDED; MAKES TWO ATTEMPTS

First the Bridegroom Didn't Turn Up and Now Bride Is Missing.

Boston, Aug. 21.—For the second time in two days the wedding of Leo F. McCready, of Halifax, N. S., and Miss Katherine Marks, of Miami, Fla., has been postponed. Monday the ceremony could not be held because the groom did not appear. Yesterday it was the bride who was missing.

McCready, who is chief steward on the steamer A. W. Perry, which plies between Boston and Halifax, had arranged to be married in New York, but the ship was late reaching Boston and the groom-to-be could not reach New York in time for the ceremony.

It was then arranged by telegraph that Miss Marks should come to Boston and the couple be married, but the young lady missed the train and McCready, still single, sailed with the ship after leaving word that he would try to be on hand next Monday when his steamer again returns to this port.

TO BANQUET HILL.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 21.—St. Paul will honor James J. Hill on his 74th birthday, Sept. 16, with a banquet at which 1,200 persons will be served.

A general invitation to the citizens of St. Paul will be extended in addition to the hundreds of invitations that will be mailed.

Mr. Hill was born near Guelph, Ont., Sept. 16, 1838.

SOUTHERN HIGH ROLLER SUICIDES ON BROADWAY

The New York Rialto Startled by a Strange Shooting Tragedy.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Aug. 21.—That part of Broadway known as the Rialto was the scene of another strange shooting early today when a young man, registered at a local hotel as A. W. Rogers, of Jackson, Miss., suddenly remarked to a young woman with whom he had spent the evening:

"You go along. I'm tired of this thing. I'm going to kill myself."

As the girl fled, Rogers drew a heavy calibre revolver and sent a bullet through his brain. Pedestrians thought another Rosenthal shooting was in progress.

The police believe the name Rogers was an assumed one, for on the man's watch fob were the initials "A. W. Y.," and the same initials were engraved on his cuff links. Rogers came here about a month ago. He was evidently a man of means, for much jewelry and a large roll of bills was found on his clothing.

The girl told the police that Rogers had torn the labels out of his hat and coat during the evening.

JOHN DOE INQUIRY FOR NEW YORK POLICE

Graft Investigation To Be Made Before Trial of Rosenthal's Alleged Slayers.

(Canadian Pras.)

New York, Aug. 21. — A John Doe police graft inquiry is to be undertaken several weeks before the calling of the trials of those indicted for the murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal.

These preliminary proceedings before Supreme Court Justice Goff are expected to strengthen the cases against Police Lieut. Becker and the six others indicted yesterday for the Rosenthal killing by unearthing new evidence of police corruption. The John Doe inquiry will cease during the murder trials, but will be resumed after they are concluded.

Police Lieut. Becker and those indicted yesterday will be called to plead in court tomorrow. The grand jury will also have a brief session on Thursday, after which it will adjourn for ten days. The grand jury will be asked to consider the testimony of "Big Jack" Zelig, who told of his arrest by two members of Lieutenant Becker's "strong arm" squad. These two detectives swore that they found a revolver on Zelig. Five witnesses testified before the grand jury that Zelig did not have a revolver when arrested. The grand jury may indict the two detectives for oppression and perjury. These men will be accused of placing a weapon in Zelig's pocket so as to make it appear he was carrying concealed weapons.

The grand jury was so pleased yesterday when they found that the vote to indict the seven men for the Rosenthal murder was unanimous that they applauded.

District Attorney Whitman said today he was not certain whether Becker or Frank Muller ("Whitey Lewis") would be placed on trial first for the Rosenthal murder.

An investigation has been commenced by Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick into the charges that aldermen accepted graft for licenses to newsdealers. Testimony was given that $400 is the regular price for the more prosperous stands and an election district captain swore that he had taken $800 for a news-stand license.

FORMER LONDON LADY WEDS A MILLIONAIRE

Mrs. Ethel Witham Married to Michigan Lumber King.

Philadelphia, Aug. 20. — At the church house of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Pennsylvania today, Mrs. Ethel C. Gilmar Witham, of London, Ont., married George F. Montgomery, a millionaire lumberman, of Detroit, Mich.

The contracting parties were unattended, and the record filed at the office of the marriage license bureau sets out that both parties had married before.

Mrs. Witham declared herself a native of the British West Indies, no residence, aged 40, and swore that her first husband died in London, Ont., in 1896.

Mr. Montgomery gave his age as 58 and set out that his first wife died in Detroit in 1911.

The deaths recorded at the city clerk's office during 1896 do not contain the name of any person named Witham.

A TURKISH SUCCESS

Montenegrins Reported Driven Out of the Berana District.

[Canadian Press.]

Constantinople, Aug. 21.—The Porte, it was announced today, has invited Montenegro to withdraw her troops from the Albanian district of Berana. The powers, it is reported, have advised Montenegro to comply with Turkey's wishes in this respect.

Advices received from Albania say that further fighting has occurred at Berana and that the Turks have driven the Montenegrins out of the district. The solution at Uskupuh of the Albanian difficulty has relieved the situation, but the cabinet crisis still remains unsettled. It is believed that Hilmi Pasha, the minister of justice, will resign his portfolio.

The Turkish heir apparent, Prince Yussof Izzedin, has left the capital, travelling incognito, to visit Switzerland, where the Turco-Italian peace negotiations are said to be in progress.

The Government apparently possesses proofs of the guilt of the executed generals and of the complicity of several high officials in the Government service in a secret society for the overthrow of the Government.

The plans of this society are regarded as a continuation of a plot recently unearthed at Hankow to revolt against the present Government, and General Chang-Chen-Wu was looked upon by the Government as belonging to the type of political assassins, who had been produced in the course of the various Chinese revolutions.

The Government displays remarkable unconcern in the presence of the violent hostility shown to it, but it is prepared to take strong measures if forced to do so.

WARE SUCCEEDS SCOTT.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 21.—Charles Ware, general superintendent of the Union Pacific Railway, has been appointed to succeed Vice-President and General Manager W. B. Scott, whose election as president of the Southern Pacific in Texas and Louisiana was announced yesterday.

Mr. Ware has been in the service of the Union Pacific for twenty years, having risen from the position of telegrapher.

SPECIAL TRAIN WAS DEFEATED IN RACE OF PROSPECTORS

Passenger in Record Run From Gillies to Haileybury Found His Claim Recorded—Bloodshed Was Absent, but Much Litigation May Follow.

Cobalt, Aug. 20.—The great rush has come and gone, and will go down into history as the midnight rush when the fiat of Hon. W. H. Hearst converted the sylvan fastness of the Gillies Limit into a miniature Coney Island, with flashing lights, an illuminated lake, and the noises of all descriptions that combine to form the summer resort of the Tenderloin. Predictions were rife that the midnight rush into Gillies Limit would witness scenes of violence and carnage that would outdo the wild and woolly west at its wooliest, but the scene was more like a woodland revel—a presentment of the Midsummer Night's Dream—than the bloody orgy that the pessimists foresaw.

There were guns, in fact hundreds of them, toted into the limit last night, but their use was confined to signalling. Not one sanguinary incident occurred during the night, and the ground is still unstrewn with corpses, although sufficient stakes to provide winter's firewood for many a poor family remain as evidence of the night's activities. It speaks highly for the law-abiding tendency of the prospectors of the north country that a concerted effort was made to observe the law that forbade staking inside the portion thrown open this morning before the time limit had expired.

Hired Special Train.

One of the sensational features of the staking in Gillies Limit was the run of the special train which Manager B. Neally, of the Penn Canadian Mines, had arranged for to make the run to Haileybury. Mr. Neally stated that he had taken the precaution to have a watch which was absolutely correct, and which could not get out of order, and that he started staking at exactly 12 o'clock. He was assisted by Gordon Summers, one of the most experienced and efficient surveyors in Northern Ontario, and a number of trustworthy men. It took Mr. Neally exactly 28 minutes to stake the claim properly, and in a strictly legal manner. As Mr. Neally is a mining man of experience, there is little probability that anyone could have properly staked a claim in any quicker time. He rushed to his special train, which was waiting near the scene, and the run for Haileybury was on.

The railway had taken every precaution to give the best service possible, and the train went over the line at probably a faster rate than any engine has ever moved over the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, and there was but a brief halt at Cobalt to let a freight engine pull out of the way. The special ran into Haileybury at a rate little short of a mile a minute, the grade being downhill most of the way where the finest kind of time could be made. It took just two minutes to get from the station to the recording office, states Mr. Neally, and yet, he declares, he was unable to have his claim recorded, someone else having recorded that particular claim ahead of him.

As Mr. Neally does not believe that anyone could fairly beat his special train over the distance from the limit to the recording office, it is very likely that litigation will result, and the courts will have to decide the legality of the staking and recording. It is declared that there will be considerable litigation over the midnight staking and other matters connected with the ownership of the claims.

MRS. ANDREW MURRAY IS DEAD AT AYLMER

Was Born in London Township—Stricken With Paralysis a Few Days Ago.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Aylmer, Aug. 21.—The death occurred on Monday afternoon of one of Aylmer's oldest and most highly respected citizens in the person of Mrs. Andrew Murray, after an illness of less than a week from paralysis.

Deceased, who was in her 76th year, was born in London Township, and before her marriage was Miss Hannah Wright.

Her husband predeceased her some eighteen months, and just previous to his death they celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding.

Four daughters survive Mrs. (Dr.) Revell and Miss Blossom, of Edmonton; Mrs. Geo. M. Standing, Aylmer, and Miss Isabelle, at home.

The funeral will take place from her late residence, Murray Place, John street north, to the Aylmer Cemetery on Thursday at 2:30 p.m.

A morning and evening service will be held on Sunday next in the Church of Christ, when Harry G. Kellogg, of Adrian, Mich., will have charge.

I. Kaiser and wife, of St. Thomas, are visiting relatives here.

Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss May Botten, of Toronto, to Percy H. Walker, also of Toronto, and a former highly esteemed Aylmer young man.

W. Hoskin, who has been spending a few days in Toronto, has returned home.

Dr. and Mrs. Kingston are spending a couple of weeks at Chautauqua.

John Gloin and wife, John Sturk and wife, W. Smuck, Ward Benner and Arthur Balderston left today for the Canadian West.

Miss Bertha Bridgman is the guest of Miss Edna Pierce at Cosy Nook Cottage, Port Bruce.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Thomson and daughter, of Toronto, are visiting Mrs. G. Thomson, Pine street.

FAIL IN ATTEMPT TO BAR OLD PASTOR

Trouble in a Welland Church Over Desire To Oust Minister.

[Canadian Press.]

Welland, Aug. 21.—There is trouble in the Disciples' Church here over the effort made to oust Rev. Mr. Swazie, pastor for twenty years. Recently the congregation engaged Rev. Mr. Stewart, of Pembroke, N. Y., and he was to have preached on Sunday, but the aged minister, who has served the church so long, reached the pulpit first in the morning, and preached a sermon. It is said that in the evening, he church door was barred to him, but he climbed in a rear window and again occupied the pulpit and denounced some of the congregation for their actions.

TERRIFIC BATTLE WITH MONSTER SNAKE

Farmer and His Son Near Prescott Have a Thrilling Adventure.

[Canadian Press.]

Montreal, Aug. 21.—A special to the Herald from Prescott says: Attacked by a black snake seven feet in length, Mr. Frank Hitcham and his young son, fought with the great reptile for half an hour in a hay field yesterday afternoon before finally coming out victorious.

Hitcham, jun., 17 years old, was driving a cutting machine, with a pair of spirited horses. One of the wheels passed over a nest of young snakes, but the boy did not realize his danger until the mother of the family thrust her long body upward under the seat between his feet, and he found the head of the hideous creature waving in his face. Terrified, the young man sprang from his place, and ran out on the pole, starting the horses into a run, which ended in their bolting and only being caught with great difficulty by Mr. Hitcham, sen., who rushed back to the spot and made a quick lunge at the monster with his scythe, only inflicting a slight cut. Infuriated, the snake struck at him, and Hitcham, jun., thinking his father's life in danger, seized a stick, screaming with fright, whereupon the snake attacked the son. With the aid of a scythe and club it was finally killed, both men falling exhausted when the fight was over.

GENERAL BOOTH

to send him to a private theological tutor for preparation in the Methodist ministry. At 23 the young man took his first church, a small chapel in Nottingham.

A Remarkable Helpmeet.

It is said that the Rev. William Booth was not a magnetic speaker, nor one especially qualified for evangelical work, but into that work he plunged with tremendous zeal shortly after his admission to the ministry of the church. During his travels over England on itinerant preaching tours he met Catherine Mumford, and after a long engagement, during which time the young preacher tried to make enough money to justify his marriage, they were united in 1856. The Rev. William Booth's wife was in many ways a remarkable woman; she had the same religious zeal as her husband, the same instinct for organization, and a strong, appealing quality in her personality, which later served to attract the besotted people of the London slums to her.

For five years after their marriage Booth and his wife lived the precarious existence of revivalists. They found London eventually—the darkest part of the London slums, in the vicinity of Whitechapel and Shoreditch. There, William Booth decided, lay a tremendous task for one who would bring light into hopeless lives. He laid a plan of campaign before the conference of the Methodist New Connexion Church. It was too radical; it smacked too much of tawdry show rather than standard religion; they would have none of it.

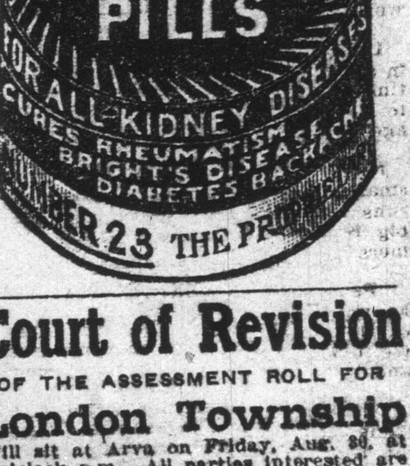

Then it was that the zealot, with three little children to support and nothing but darkness ahead, cut loose from orthodoxy as it was construed by his superiors and went down to preach to the people of the mean streets in his own way. The flock he chose to lead was not only of the very poor, but the very criminal, the lowest dregs of a great city, born to an inheritance of crime through generations. In 1865 Booth and his family settled in Mile End Waste, one of the blackest corners of the East End, and the work of saving souls by new methods began.

His first tabernacle had been a second-hand tent, erected in a disused burying ground on Mile End road. Booth called this gathering place the Christian Mission, after he broke from the Methodist Church, and in this Christian Mission the Salvation Army was born.

Before 1878, when the Salvation Army had its inception, Booth had learned the bitterness of the work that he had selected for himself. He had known what it was to have his tent stormed, to have the hymns interrupted by catcalls and yells from gangs of roughs. More than once he was assaulted in dark streets by thugs, who "didn't want whining parsons coming down into their balliwick." Still Booth persisted, and his wife began to lay the foundations of the great social work that was to come by her ministrations to the sick and visits into the slum depths.

CHARGED WITH THEFT.

Montreal, Aug. 21.—Romeo Kidder, of Ottawa, is under arrest here on a charge of theft laid by Mrs. Dolly Thomas. She accuses him of having stolen the sum of $92 from her. Kidder, who had disappeared, had only been back in the city since Monday.

Summer Complaints Easily Avoided
Drink plenty of cool water—not ice water—eat sparingly of well-cooked food, including vegetables, and before each meal and on retiring take a tablespoonful of
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey
in a little water. Then summer complaints will have no terrors for you — your stomach and bowels will be in fine condition to do all the work called upon.
If, through neglect, any of these complaints have taken hold on you, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is again "the friend in need." It is a sure remedy and will bring quick relief.
In emergencies, prostrations, chills, at any time, it is the best and should always be kept near at hand.
At druggists, dealers or hotels, $1.25 a large bottle. Be sure you get Duffy's and that the seal over the cork is intact. Refuse substitutes and imitations; they are injurious. Send for free medical booklet and doctor's advice.

P. C. NOONAN'S BABE WON FIRST PRIZE
Catholic Mutual Benefit Association Held Picnic at Springbank.
SPLENDID DAY'S SPORT
Fathers Laurendeau and McKeon Played Ball, and Everybody Had a Good Time.
The weatherman having interrupted his incessant rainfalls for one day, the annual picnic of the members of the three London branches of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association attracted a large crowd at Springbank Park yesterday afternoon.
As a result the attendance was the largest for a Tuesday afternoon this season, and while the street railway company provided a fast service, practically all cars were well loaded.
The priests of the city were at the park and participated in the different events, Father Laurendeau playing the first base position in the baseball match, in which the members from East London defeated a team representing the remainder of the city by a 5 to 4 score. There was some heavy hitting and speedy work in the battle, that made the players look like at least Canadian League possibilities.
Rev. Father McKeon, of St. Mary's Church, who in his college days was a real ball player, warmed the players up before the match by knocking out flies, and showed that he has a valuable batting eye.
The Baby Show.
The baby show was the big feature of the afternoon programme, and while a score of babies were held before the judges, the awards were made in a manner satisfactory to all. Leo Noonan, son of Policeman Thomas Noonan, captured the first prize; Bernard Donohue was second and Catherine Kelleher third. The judges were Messrs. Ed. Shea, J. F. Faulds, Dr. P. J. Mugan and P. H. Ranahan.
The results of the different events on the sports program follow:
Boys, under 10 years—T. Gilgallen, Jas. Insell and P. McCann.
Girls, under 10 years—Mildred Walters, M. Noonan and M. O'Brien.
Girls, under 16 years—E. Trudell, W. Trudell and D. Mullins.
Boys, under 16 years—T. Gilgallen, P. McCann and E. Dignan.
Married ladies' race—Mrs. Webb, Mrs. Kinsley.
Married men's race—R. Donohue, W. F. Buller.
Boys' three-legged race—P. McCann and F. Mulhall, F. Graham and James O'Donnell.
Boot and shoe race—James Insell, R. Fenech, Joseph O'Donnell.
President and past-presidents' race—W. F. Buller, Frank Smith, and Dr. P. J. Mugan.
C. M. B. A. members only—J. W. Mansell, A. Buchanan, B. Mockler.
Men over 60 years—M. A. Cox, G. Graham.
Ladies' baseball throwing — Mrs. Kinsley, J. Hodgins.

THE ASTOR WILL

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Aug. 21.—The birth of a son to Mrs. Madeline Force Astor makes it necessary for the executors of the will of the late John Jacob Astor to offer his will for probate again to comply with the clause providing for a bequest to a posthumous heir. This, it is stated, is required to give full title in the event any of the property of the estate is disposed of.

Counsel for Mrs. Astor have given out a statement denying persistent rumors that she contemplated contesting the will because the trust fund of $3,000,000 left to her son is almost insignificant in comparison with the immense fortune left to William Vincent Astor. The statement says the will conforms in every way to the state laws, and that Mrs. Astor expresses satisfaction with the provisions made for herself and her son.

STANLEY STREET STILL PROVOKES THE PEOPLE

Thoroughfare Is a Mudhole and Has Been So All Summer.

The condition of Stanley street is still causing much dissatisfaction, particularly among auto owners and teamsters. This street was to have been paved and the London Street Railway Company have practically finished their allowance. But the city has done nothing.

The explanation at the city hall is that the waterworks department, and the City Gas Company are repairing mains, and making connections, and as a result nothing can be done towards the paving until this work is completed. This will take some days yet, and City Engineer Wright expects to have the paving done as soon as possible.

IMPERIAL FEDERATION NEAR, SAYS HAZEN

Minister of Militia Says Idea Is Growing in the Old Country.

London, Aug. 20. — Hon. J. D. Hazen leaves for Canada today accompanied by Admiral Kingsmill. Mr. Hazen is gratified at the growth of the idea of imperial federation in England and with the attitude of the parliamentarians of both parties towards imperial defence. It is generally accepted in Great Britain now, he said, that if the Dominions are going to help to solve problems of imperial defence and in bearing its burdens they should have a voice in molding the foreign policy which that scheme is to uphold. The time is not far distant when imperial representation of some parliamentary character will be granted to the overseas dominions.

CITIZENS INCENSED OVER RATES CHARGED BY LAUNCHES

People Have to Pay a Quarter Where Under Old Conditions the Tariff Was Only Five Cents—Big Ferry Case Goes on in Police Court on Thursday.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Sarnia, Aug. 21.—The main topic of conversation in Sarnia is still the ferry question. Up to the present nothing new has developed, and is not likely to until the trial tomorrow. The ferry boat Hiawatha arrived here yesterday to get clearance papers after towing a schooner in from the lake.

A small crowd of men and women who were waiting near the dock for some means of transportation noticed the ferry approaching and believing that service had been resumed a rush was made for the dock.

A Disappointed Crowd.

They were doomed to disappointment, however. The Hiawatha ran from Port Huron to Stag Island to the dance at that place, stopping at Sarnia on her way down. A good-sized launch used as a night ferry and properly licensed made occasional trips across the river today, carrying passengers for the small sum of a quarter one way, a price which discouraged nearly all patronage.

Those who have been used to only paying a nickel a trip were very wrathy when they learned the launch tariff, and in sound terms denounced the charge as a pure and simple hold-up.

Others Want License.

Other launches which are anxious to run are waiting to hear from the proper authorities in Ottawa, and it is understood that Captain Evans, the Government inspector of vessels, disapproves of gasoline launches as ferries.

Sarnia newspapers, which carry advertising from Port Huron merchants are feeling the effects of the tieup. Large quantities of cream which are shipped daily from here across to Port Huron is being carried over by the little ferry at Point Edward since the Sarnia service has been discontinued.

Some of the resorters here have moved to the beaches above the American city, having become wearied of the situation here.

ATTEMPT TO GET BY WAS UNSUCCESSFUL

Immigration Officers Ran Down Men Who Crossed at Point Edward.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Sarnia, Aug. 20.—Sunday afternoon the immigration inspectors at the Tunnel deported two Russian Jews. Later in the day it was learned that the men had recrossed by way of Point Edward. Inspector in Charge Harry Bell immediately got busy and discovered that the men were headed for Blackwell.

Monday Mr. Bell and Inspector Brown took the Grand Trunk train to that place, and after a thorough search discovered the two fugitives walking down the road towards them. The men were seized and brought to Sarnia, where they were locked up charged with violating the immigration law.

In court today the officials presented the case, and Magistrate Fleck imposed a fine of $20 and costs on each of them. They were also deported. It is seldom, if ever, anyone gets by the immigration office here, and Mr. Bell and the inspectors under him deserve much credit for their clever work on this case.

Given Long Term.

Three Indians, Caleb Lacelle, his wife and Alex. Grey, who were arrested yesterday in a raid on the former's house by the police, appeared in court on disorderly charges today. Lacelle was given six months in Central Prison, and his wife was given a week to get back to the Muncey Reserve from which the couple originally came. Grey was fined $5 and costs.

A large crowd of Sarnia and Port Huron people attended the Knights of Columbus picnic to Tashmoo Park today. The excursionists went by way of the Detroit boat, the City of Toledo. The K. of C.'s are noted for the success of their outings, and it is expected that today's event will be no exception.

POSTPONED WEDDING

Lack of Ferries Resulted in Delay of Nuptial Celebration.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Sarnia, Aug. 21.—The failure of the ferries to run between here and Port Huron was responsible today for the postponement of the nuptials of a young couple from Imlay City, Mich.

The couple came to Port Huron today accompanied by the girl's father and could not get a license because both were not from the same county.

It was suggested that they try Sarnia, but on going down to the docks they were unable to get across and decided to hold the wedding later.

HELD FOR THEFT

Missing Watch Was Found in Joseph Gerro's Room.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Sarnia, Aug. 21.—Joseph Gerro is in custody here on a charge of having stolen a watch from Fred Rose in Aug. 4. The watch was located in Gerro's room yesterday when Constable Alex. Crosbie, armed with a search warrant, visited the place.

SCHREITER TO TAKE STAND

[Canadian Press.]

Detroit, Aug. 21. — Detective Walter J. Brennan, the prosecution's star witness yesterday at the arraignment of Thomas E. Glinnan, president of the Detroit common council, charged with having accepted a bribe of $1,000, was today expected to again face a fusillade of cross-examination questions.

Ald. Glinnan's attorneys took the detectives in hand yesterday afternoon, but the proceedings advanced so slowly and each side so fiercely combatted the efforts of the other to introduce evidence which might prove valuable to their case, that the detective who was responsible for the arrest of the 18 aldermen, was still on the stand when court adjourned.

It is understood that Brennan's testimony will be completed today, and there is some possibility of the prosecution then placing on the stand former Council Committee Clerk Edward R. Schreiter. Schreiter, who admitted receiving bribe money in return for municipal favors to be extended the Wabash Railroad, is the complaining witness in all 18 cases.

FISH SHIPMENTS ARE HEAVY AT PORT STANLEY

Summer Season So Far Has Been a Most Successful One.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Port Stanley, Aug. 21.—The summer fishing season is in full swing here now and large numbers of herring are being shipped daily. The Traction Company have handled as many as 400 boxes in a day.

There are three more or less distinct fishing seasons, one early in the spring, the summer season and the chief one, commencing in November and lasting until freeze-up. Most of the fish caught here are shipped to the United States.

The death occurred here yesterday of Mr. Wm. Hollins, who has been a resident for several years. Deceased is survived by his wife.

The continuous wet weather is rapidly thinning out the vacation crowds. What with the drought and dust of the early summer and the cold and wet of this latter month, Port has experienced an unusually dull season, but yet some American visitors say that Port has much nearer the normal crowd than most of the summer resorts have this year. The roomers are thinning out much more rapidly than the cottagers.

Orchard Beach Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Coles and daughter Florence have returned to Toronto after a two weeks' visit with Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Coles.

Mrs. Frank McCormick, of London, and Mrs. S. Ivey, of Montreal, were recent guests of Mrs. W. B. Richardson.

Mr. W. W. Symons is expected to return from Halifax on Saturday.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton and son, of Brantford, have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Croden.

Mrs. E. A. Smith, of Shady Nook, left last night for Chicago to spend a few weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Geo. S. Morley.

Miss Beth Noble has returned from a two months' visit in Winnipeg and is now the guest of Mrs. J. K. Campbell.

Miss Clara Donville, who has been the guest of Miss Pauline Smith, has returned to St. Thomas.

Mr. Edward F. Heyd has been the guest of his sister, Mrs. L. Torrey, Idlehour.

Mrs. Ware, her son, F. M. Ware, and her daughter Gwendolyn are spending a couple of weeks on Orchard Beach.

Mrs. Love and daughter Jessie, who have been spending a month with Mrs. T. H. Purdom, have returned to the city.

The Misses Jean and Louise Torrey have just returned from a very pleasant motor trip to Detroit, extending over several days.

Mr. Kent MacArthur and Mr. Macpherson have been visiting at Sumach Ridge.

Miss Susan Rowat, of London, has been visiting Miss Margaret Purdom.

The Misses Crosbie, Gray, Padfield and Nicholson are holidaying at Summerholme.

Mr. R. A. Bailey and family, of London, are spending the month in a cottage on Orchard Beach.

Orchard Beach cottagers greatly appreciate the two new pieces added to the sidewalk over the hill.

INQUIRY ADJOURNED IN POISON CASE

Hamilton, Aug. 20.—Because the Government analyst's report on the organs of Rose Ziepe and the candies which she ate at the city hospital on the night of her tragic death had not been received, Acting Crown Attorney Crerar tonight had to ask for another adjournment in the poisoning case inquiry.

Coroner Rennie enlarged the investigation for two weeks, when Crown Attorney Washington will take charge of the inquiry.

James Bruce, who is held on a charge of vagrancy, and who sent the candy to his sick wife at the city hospital, was brought to the central police station to hear the evidence.

He looked anything but worried, and chatted with friends and newspapermen.
