London, March 24.-The startling English, by the elections of the last few weeks, have called attention to the workings of the new electorate in Great Britain and set men pondering about its possibilities in a way a general election failed to make them think. Democracy in the sense of government of a great state by the absolute and unfettered majority of its twn citizens of all ranks and conditions is a modern experiment. The United States of America is the oldest democracy in the world today How many realize that Britain became a democracy for the first time

In 1917? Until then, the majority of its adult population had no voice in the making or administrating of the laws that ruled their lives. The United States, France and Italy have adopted universal suffrage as the basis of authority for many a year. So have the British dominions, but Britain herself, the ploneer of representative institutions, until recently shrank from the experiment of adult suffrage. Before the reform act of 1832, the total electorate of this country numbered only three per cent of the population. The distribution of power amongst this small percentage was so arranged that even three per cent represented in effect no more than at best one per cent of power. A generation of turmoil and agitation, almost culminating in revolution, succeeded in forcing through a measure which increased the three per cent to 4.5 per cent of the population! It is true that the distribution of votes was more equitable, but even with that, to call this ridiculous percentage a democracy would be ridiculous.

Another generation of growing agitation ensued. This also ended in violence. Then Mr. Disraeli, one of the boldest and most venturesome of British statesmen, doubled the electorate. This measure increased the number of voters to 9 per cent of the population Disraeli's audacious plunge horrified some of his aristocratic supporters and shocked many Whigs. Bob Lowe had already foretold the calamities that would follow Giadstone's more cautious proposals. Seven years later saw the election of the first Tory parliament since 1841. So much for the prophecies of men Who always fear evil must follow from justice.

"Of course, if you are determined to be serious about this-" my husband begins slowly, for he doesn't speak fluently in English.

lady—the leading singer in opera?"

Singer Is Human. "We are all hard working people. The singer, the prima donna, like all the rest of the world, is human! She makes her living singing: We all give our best toward a single cause-a good performance of a certain musical work. What chance is there for 'temperament' to be disstop a rehearsal, or throw a performance off schedule? The prima donna is but a cog in the wheel, and all the cogs, the other singers, the conductor, the musicians the chorus, the scene-shifters, the electricians, everyone, must do his or her part, whether it is a big or little part, it is just the same! All must give to the making of the whole. 'Temperament'! Ridiculous! You, yourself, have been in the Metropolitan for fifteen years. Do you see

"No, indeed I do not!" I quickly and truthfully reply.

"Then, all this talk is foolish, is it not? For instance, we have had five Mimi's this season. You are one of them. Lucrezia Bori, one of your dearest friends, is another. Are you jealous of her?"

"Absurd! No doubt there are many people who prefer Rom's Mimi;

"No." Mr. Gatti says finally, "there is really little diplomacy needed on my part, for the successful singer must have, and has, much of what you call good 'common sense.' The prima donna who imagines that she can give way to 'temperament' doesn't last, and there are few who are so foolish as to try it. "Well, he says that the great majority of people who had the 'flu' have suffered afterwards from weak heart action.

"I never had heart trouble."

"No, but the way the doctor explains it is that the nervous system is so weakened by the 'flu' that there is not enough nerve force left to drive the machinery of the body."

"That is about the way I feel, for I have no appetite, and do not feel able to stir."

"No, and you do not seem to digest the little food you do eat. So you cannot expect to gain strength. Why not try some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"

"Oh, I do not see how that would help me."

"Now, John, I think that is exactly what you need. It always helped me when I got run down in health, and I hear so many saying the same thing that I think you should give it a trial. You know yourself that you are not gaining any these days."

"How would that help my heart?"

"Because it enriches the blood and increases the nerve force. Anything that strengthens the nerves will naturally strengthen the action of the heart, for the heart, like the stomach and other organs, is dependent on the nervous system for operating power."

"Well, you talk as though you knew. I guess your training as a nurse is coming in useful."

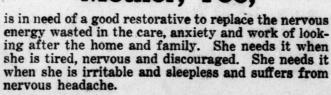

"Will you try the Nerve Food, then?"

"Yes, I will give it a good trial, for I want to get around, and not sit here like an invalid."

"I am so glad, for I feel sure it will soon get you feeling all right again."

You can obtain Dr. Chase's Nerve Food from all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. On every box of the genuine you will find the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

CHINESE CHILDREN ARE BROUGHT INTO CANADA

Hon. Charles Stewart Declares

Efforts Made To Beat

Out Act.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, March 24.—That Chinese nationals residing in Canada are bringing many children from China in an attempt to get them into this country before the proposed new immigration act becomes effective, was the statement yesterday of Hon. Charles E. Stewart, acting minister of immigration, when speaking in the house on Chinese immigration estimates. There was great difficulty in checking this immigration.

Mr. Stewart instanced the case of a boy aged ten years, now in Toronto on a permit. A Chinese resident in Toronto swore the boy was his son, the boy swore that he was his father, and several Chinese residents stated they had been in China when the boy was born and knew he was the son of the man seeking his control.

"How can the boy swear that this man is his father?" asked J. D. Chaplin (Conservative, Lincoln).

The minister said the department had serious suspicions that the boy was not the son of the man seeking to get him into Canada. This was happening in many cases.

"Do you give them the blood test?"

asked J. L. Stansell.

The minister replied that the bill now before the House provides for rigid tests and for registration.

A Worth-while Reputation

THE head of one of this country's great manufacturing institutions says:

"The man who builds and the man who buys are both beneficiaries of reputation. To the one it is a continuous spur and incentive—to the other, the strongest of all guarantees that what he buys is worthy.

The man who invests real money in building a reputation for himself and his merchandise cannot afford to risk any of it by taking unfair advantage of his customers. He must retain the good-will of the buying public. Without this, his business cannot succeed.

Philippians, cnapter 3, verse 13. These verses, said the bishop, constituted the whole aim and object of the Christian. There were three things explained in this text that were outstanding: the clear aim and purpose of the apostle, the definite and unclouded vision where the control of the dates were initiated into the full vision whereby he saw the means of accomplishing his task, and the tre-

In the practical application of these three attributes of St. Paul, the bishop showed how necessary it was in any walk of life to have a singleness of aim. "The great thing for the Christian," he said, "is to concentrate on one worthy aim, which is the attainment of the likeness of Christ."

Ontario Branch A. A. U. of C. Secretary Says City Has Been Considered.

IN OLD BOYS' WEEK

Dates of Reunion Would Fit In With Ontario Championships Schedule.

A. W. Steel, secretary of the Ontario branch, A. A. U. of C., speaking at the hanquet tendered to over 250 militia athletes of the city at Smallman & Ingram's last night, hinted that London was being considered as a location for he Ontario track championships, which are practically Olympic preliminaries. Mr. Steel stated that no definite decision had been made regarding the meet and where it would be held, but apparently was sincere in saying that ondon had been strongly recommended.
It would be a big undertaking, but would result in the biggest track events over staged in London. London has been at Elackburn in the round after those selfsame Rovers had beaten Aston Villa at Birmingham. How ast two seasons by staging some big ectional meets which have made their London had been strongly recommended. would result in the biggest track events ever staged in London. London has prepared the way for such a meet the last two seasons by staging some big sectional meets which have made their impression on the province; and London therefore has some claim for recognition. The meets staged under the cuspices of the Western Ontario Secondary Schools Association, which alone have developed some fine athletes, to shool the annual Manufacturers' Association meets, have helped to popularize track athletics in London and vicinity, and London, probably as and vicinity, and London, probably as well or better than any other city or section. Hovers, should be beat Aston Villa and then should so once last year, but was out of the question. It is just the cup.
Again, take the case of Charlton Athletic, the "Babes" of the southern third division. In the very first round we metaphorically shook them by the hand and wished them goodby from the cup competition. They had to go to Manchester to play the City a side, which, since the war, are recognized to be stronger on their own ground than any other in the country. Yet these "upstarts" from Charlton actually won at Manchester, and followed it up by the last the cup is the cup of the Sunshine Park diamond. Two nine-inning game is will be played each Saturday, one at Queen's Park and the other at Sunshine Park.

in Monter's case, for St. Albans lost that game by eight goals to seven. As times are different, and many clubs are feeling the financial pinch through diminished gates, it is only natural that some of the poorer clubs should have hoped for success in the knock-out competition. And a measure of success came this season to one or two places where it was badly needed. South Shlelds was one of these places, and Charlton was another. It is doubtful if anyone would have taken any but the longest odds about either of these clubs pulling through the early rounds, but they did it, and have likely saved themselves from bankruptey by their achievement.

The position at South Shlelds may be imagined when it is recalled that just before the present series of cup ties started the directors were compelled to itspense with the services of their manager, not owing to any inefficiency.

ENGLISH FOOTBALLS BROCK'S

Special to The Advertiser. Baltimore, March 23.—It is the principal reason that Jack Bentley has agreed to join the New York Giants at their training camp at San Antonio, Texas, is due to the death of young Jack Dunn, son of big Jack Dunn, owner of the Baltimore club. blg Jack Dunn, owner of the Baltimore club.

Bentley and young Dunn were close friends. The pair were buddies in the army during the world war, and were in each other's company at all times when Bentley was not playing bail. Friends pointed out to Bentley that the death of young Jack came as a shock to big Jack, who was already worrying over Bentley's refusal to join the Giants

It was after Bentley gave the issue a little thought that he decided he would relieve the worries of his former manager by joining the Giants.

Bentley, who was sold to the Giants for $72,500 by Jack Dunn, Sr., demanded part of the purchase price before he would don a Giant uniform,

In the third round Charlton performed a third "miracle" when they defeated West Bromwich Albion, who had just previously knocked out Sunderland. Then also in the first round there was that Tottenham Hotspur-Worksop sensation. For the players of Tottenham don should land the big event, for arranging dates which would fit in with the London Old Boys' Reunion in August.

If this were possible, the Ontario as the miner lads from the second try defeated them by nine are conditionally as a score that will probably rank as a record for this year's contest.

There is good ground for the belief that if the London claims are pressed strongly enough the meet can be brought here. Dr. George Smith, physical director at Western University, was sounded out on the plan by the Ontario branch of the A. A. There have been new clubindividual and attendance records set up: teams which we fully expected to succeed have failed, and those which were scarcely even thought of at the start have lived through to a length which they could hardly have anticipated themselves.

As coming events cast their shadows before, careful observers should have been prepared for an unusual series of happenings, by reason of ap unusual incident in the qualifying rounds. Playing in a match for St. Albans against Dulwich Hamiet, Minter, the center forward, scored seven goals himself.

It is not a unique feat for a player to score seven goals himself in a good class game, but for a man to score that number of goals and then be on the loshing side is certainly something quite unique. It took quite a number of little towns to produce the present Canadian senior champs. One could put Toronto's attraction at the door of climate; good water, even to a lakeful, and beautiful scenery. The more knowing would assert that while it wasn't money, it was the chances of hockey ability being rewarded with the better jobs and things a big city always has to offer that accounts for Granites and so many other Canadian teams being what

The biggest difference between high-class amateur baseball and the lower pro classifications often lies in the small measure of experience a professional coach could supply. Few minor league teams play anything more than elementary baseball, all delusions to the contrary, but they are drilled in this, and when added to this is the fact that they live in an atmosphere charged with baseball jargon, spread by a few old veterans who have been up there, that playing baseball comprises their whole work, they give a pretty good imitation sometimes of A professional coach cannot reproduce all this in an amateur team with a few weeks' practice, but he can drill a team in some of the most

SHAMROCKS' REFUSAL TO PLAY BRINGS SWEEPING INDICTMENT

PUBLIC OPINION LINES UP STRONGLY FOR THISTLE FIVE

Charity Gifts of Shamrocks Approximates Sum Raised, and Never Returned, by City Businessmen To Send Shamrocks West To Play Edmonton.

The indictment of the basketball fans of London against the Shamrocks or their unsportsmanlike and autocratic attitude with regard to a game with Thistles daily becomes more sweeping.

Sharrocks have been offered the chance to play Thistles for a city charity—an extremely worthy one. Their reply was a refusal and the added comment that they thought there was nothing charitable in Thistles' ready acceptance of the suggestion. They, moreover, stated that they last year had given $250 to charity, with the added comment, too, that it Camps Use Favorise DeFreeze Effectives Dewas probably more than any other city athletic organization had ever given to the same purpose. From evidence The Advertiser can gather, this sum approximates very closely the amount of money raised last spring by a businessmen as a guarantee of expenses for Sha making the trip to Edmonton, and which was never returned to the donors It's true that when the idea of the Shamrocks making the trip west fel through, they offered the subscribers to the guarantee their donations back and then, on the strength of this guarantee, Shamrocks arranged for Edmonton to come here. As any fan knows who attended that series, the Armories were packed with the biggest crowd that ever attended an indoor game of any kind in London, and the series was a financial success throughout, even above substantial entertainments put on for the Western Shamrocks not only had the guarantee intact, but must have had in the opinion of the fans, a good margin besides. Ask Affiliation.

At the beginning of the year Sham-ocks asked the indorsation of the Lonrocks asked the indorsation of the London Amateur Athletic Association and affiliation. A committee was appointed to deal with this, and the committee stipulated as a condition that Shamrocks would play for a city champion-ship cup, the receipts of the competition to help out the L. A. A. A.'s funds. Shamrocks demurred, claiming that Thistles were the only contenders. The idea fell through, though Shamrocks, it is believed, got the indorsation through a slip. it is believed, got the indorsation through a slip.

Shamrocks, however, did consent to a game later, but assumed the attitude that they could indicate when the game would be played. They peremptorily warned the Thistles to be ready to play on a certain date. Thistles, who had been playing hockey all winter, with no beachested through were not ready to basketball throw-in, were not ready play that week, and, moreover, resent unrocks' assumption of condescen-n. They were unofficially backed up the committee of the L. A. A. unrocks thereupon issued a mani-Shamrocks assumption of condected up by the committee of the L. A. A. Shamrocks thereupon issued a manifesto, a sweeping ultimatum to the effect that "that was that." It was positively all off—absolutely. Thisties last chance. Poor Thistles!

This week, as stated before, a game between the two teams was suggested in connection with a city charity effort. Shamrocks again put on their haughtiest air, and almost declined to discuss the thing at all. They would, they conceded, play an "outside" team. Aye, there's the rub! and shades of Shakespeare. They wouldn't play Thistles, but they would play an "outside team."

Why? the fans naturally demand in a tone several octaves higher than is usually necessary in polite circles.

However, the answer was apparatus ently final as far as the Shamrocks, were concerned, and meantime Shamrocks trip blithely off to Chicago for their return game with Uptown Brownies. Shamrocks claim they have no open dates before April 14. They have. There is March 31, on which they'll be idle. A Saturday night, too, and Shamrocks' favorite evening to stage a game. No more than one game each week confronts them in any case. They could, if they wish, switch dates, but that's almost sure to be one stunt they won't work on the much wished-over moon.

London South Collegiate Institute cagers took a hard-earned victory at St. Marys Collegiate's expense on the London South floor last night, winning 36 to 29. The mix was a triller all the way, and developed some pretty combination. There was no real doubt as to the winner, however, as the locals ran up a lead in the opening session, and managed to stay ahead until the final whistle.

Despite the elimination of the fear of an advance in the rediscount rate at this time, the stock market is still meeting with heavy seiling, obviously of professional origin. On the surface this pressure is apparently based upon apprehensions of tightest money conditions for some time to come, but if this is the actual reason, the results already have more than discounted the

New York, March 24.—The decline in stocks today was a very general one. There were only a few exceptions to the downward movement, and these were not important, consisting of a few unrepresentative industrial specialties which happeen to be under better pool control than the rest.

At the opening of the day the speculative leaders were down 3 and 5 and as much as 10 points from their highs of the year.

The maximum loss occurred in stocks likee the motor accessories and Corn Products, in which poperations for the rise had been conducted the most exprayagantly.

Steel shares, particularly the stocks of the so-cailed independents, were the sugars. In the latter instance the seling had more of an excuse in the efforts at Washington to discredit the Corn Products. 23.

The maximum loss occurred in stocks likee the motor accessories and Corn Products, in which operations for the rise had been conducted the most extravagantly.

Steel shares, particularly the stocks of the so-cailed independents, were noticeably weak, and so were the sugars. In the latter instance the selling had more of an excuse in the efforts at Washington to discredit the recent rise in sugar prices.

Interest still was strong today in the Piggly-Wiggly affair. Attorney E. W. Altogether 520,000 bushels of wheat have been put into storage in Chicago within the last few days. A consequent tendency toward lower values was further emphasized today by a little downturn in quotations at Liverpool and by estimates that export business today would fail to aggregate more than 250,000 bushels. On the decline in price commissionhouses gave the wheat market fair support, and there was also a little buying for eastern interests, presumably leading shorts.

The management of the Crown Reserve Mining Company is already looking into the question of a mill for its Pancake Lake property. No plans or specifications have been prepared, however, this being left for determination after such time as the deposits may be opened up at the 550-foot level. The veins where opened at the 300-foot level, though comparatively low grade, are noted for their exceptionally great width. The trend of the deposits and the average gold content at the 550-foot level will enable the management to form an estimate of the nature of the mining and milling problems, including the composition of the ore, as well as the indicated volume. PRELIMINARY INQUIRY INTO SUGAR "CONSPIRACY"

Associated Press Despatch. Associated Press Despatch.

Washington, March 23.—Charges that there is a conspiracy in the sugar trade to raise prices were said at the department of justice today to be of sufficient gravity to warrant a preliminary inquiry by the federal government's legal officers. The Dominion charter of the Manitaoba Pulp and Paper Company, which will undertake the erection of a $4,000.000 railway and newsprint paper mills at Fort Alexander this year, has been received from Ottawa, says Financial News Bureau.

The final completion of arrangements for the construction of a twenty-mile railway, which will connect the Fort Alexander mill with the Canadian National Railways at Grand Beach, is held up pending the enactment of an authorizing bill by the Legislature. When the bill goes through the active construction of the line will be commenced, and simultaneously the erection of the mill will start. ALD. COLBERT SPOILS

He gets all the family history possible, tries to find out the past life and habits of the new arrival, and in this way get as close as possible to the point where the trend toward insanity be-came pronounced. All these findings compared with other cases, and after the most exhaustive discussion the plan of treatment is arrived at. These reports are supplemented by daily observations, and in this way the collective experience of every doctor in the place is brought to bear on the treatment of each individual patient. And she was. The fact was, Luella had a little romance of her own which she had carefully cultivated in secret for fourteen years now, and when she left the kitchen she went to her room and took from a little keepsake box on her bureau a photograph of a young man of about twenty-six, with carefully curled mustache, and a profusion of hair, the arrangement of which suggested the best art of the local barber. He was an ordinary enough looking young man to everybody ex-cept Luella. But Luella had seen him through the eyes of a girl of 18, and when Harry Macklin had left his native village to "accept a position" in a distant city she had made the customary promise to "wait for him." They had written letters Turiously at first, then the correspondence had dwindled, and at length ceased alto-gether. Macklin had been heard of Canadian Press Despatch, Ottawa, March 24 -Immigration, oriental and occidental, was again the chief item of discussion by members of the Commons today, and with that discussion it became increasingly evident that expenditures under this heading are to be subjected to close scrutiny by the members of both sections of the opposition.

Beginning with a debate on Chinese and Japanese immigration, in which the acting minister of immigration, Hon. Charles Stewart, stated that Chinese residents of Canada were en-deavoring to bring many Chinese children into the Dominion before the proposed Chinese immigration act became effective, and the prime minister stated that modifications of the immigration treaty between Japan and Canada were being negotiated. The discussion covered a wide range. Immigration buildings, expenditures for exhibitions to advertise Canada broad, the empire settlement scheme participation in the empire settlement scheme and $1,850,000 for grants to colonization associations, the items were allowed to stand when mem-bers asked for information which the minister did not have available for them.

Seeking Modifications. Dealing with the Japanese im-migration, the prime minister said this was restricted under a commer-cial treaty. If Canada thought it wise to sacrifice trade with Japan, Canada could easily denounce this treaty. In any case, he said, negotiations looking towards modification were under Right Hon. Arthur Meighen did not subscribe to the theory that trade must be sufficient to control immi-gration. He had never heard it suggested that Japan had broken faith in the matter of emigration. The total of $600,000 for participation in the empire settlement scheme brought a request from Robert Forke for full details, with a suggestion that the item stand until full information was available. The item stood, but was taken up later in the evening, when the minister stated it was proposed to use $200,000 for bringing children to Canada, and similar amounts for domestics and farm laborers or their dependents on application from farmers in Canada. Sir Henry Drayton compared the number of immigrants going to Australia and New Zealand with that coming to Canada under this plan. The former countries were re-ported to have received 11,000 immi-

Discussion on immigration continued in the House of Commons today. On an item of $60,000 for Chinese immigration (salaries and contingen-cies), Hon. Charles Stewart, acting minister of immigration, said that 1,459 Chinese had been admitted to Canada during the fiscal year 1921-1922 and 617 for the 11 months of the present fiscal year. The bill be-fore the House provided for the abo-lition of the head tax. There would only be merchants and students enntailed in preventing illicit entry.

A large number of Chinese children were arriving in Canada by all boats from the Orient, said W. G. Mc-Quarrie (Conservative, New Westminster). He asked whether all of these were actually children of Chinese residents in Canada coming to rejoin them. Mr. McQuarrie said that it was very easy for Chinese to declare themselves merchants in order to get into Canada. He wanted regulations which would only allow Chinese merchants to come in temporarily. With regard to students, he thought the department should frame the proposed new legislation in such a way that the student could be deported as soon as he had completed his university course. Canada Negotiating.

Mr. McQuarrie held that while the Japanese Government officially had lived up to the terms of the treaty, the Japanese people had not. There were more Japanese entering Canada illegally than legally. Mr. Meighen said that he never had charge of immigration. He asked if the agreement provided that the Japanese Government would see that no more than 400 Japanese entered Canada 'yearly, or merely that Canada should be justified in preventing the entry of more than 400.

The prime minister said that the existing treaty with Japan provided that subjects of Japan had free entry into Canada. It had been made clear, however, that, if Japanese entered Canada in any great numbers under this treaty, the treaty might have to number of immigrants to Canada, It was a matter of national pride that their citizens should not be definitely denied admission.

Mr. Meighen said he had never neard it suggested that the Japanese had failed to keep faith in the matter of emigration. If more than 400 Japanese were entering Canada. lowever, it would seem that perhaps Japan was unable to exercise control in the matter. He did not subscribe to the theory that Canada must abandon trade with Japan if she wished to control the matter of im-migration. Trade was two-sided, and both countries were equally in-

A. W. Neill (Progressive, Comox-Alberni) said that in the treaty be-tween Japan and China of 1913 there was a clause providing that it be subject to the terms of the immigration act. Under this clause the minister was able to exclude immi-grants whose habits or the climatic conditions of whose country made agreement" between Canada and Japan was a very obscure document One of the provisions was that in addition to the 400 immigrants into Canada could bring in 10 Japanese for every 100 acres he held; and there was no provision as to how often

They had certainly been brought over, Mr. Neill added, with the connivance of the ship's officers. Mr. McQuarrie told of a case which came under the observation of a Japanese, who provided his boy with Canadian naturalization papers at the age of 8 years.

Mr. McQuarrie declared that he would favor the abrogation of the commercial treaty between Japan and Canada if such action would result in stopping Japanese immigration. He was not afraid that the Japanese would stop trading with Canada. only be merchants and students en-tering, but considerable expense was entailed in preventing illicit entry. do so. If she did not buy in Canada she would have to buy in the United States, where the same conditions regarding Japanese prevailed. If the Japanese were sincere in their desire to live up to the immigration treaty they would hold an investiga-tion into the recent arrival of 29 stowaways at Vancouver.

The Dominion government should also investigate this matter. Premier King informed Mr. Mc-Quarrie that the Japanese consulgeneral had called upon him and in formed him that the government Japan was looking into the matter. Mr. Stewart said that an investi gation was being held by the Dominion government. The item then carried.

Debate on the vote of $600,000 for assistance to immigrants under the empire settlement act was begun by A. L.
