GREENWICH HOSPITAL.

land may point to yonder pile with pride, and tell the stranger—who with wondering eyes, demands for whom these lofty columns rise, a grace with regal pomp the fair Thames' side—to who Rodney, Howe, and Nelson led, warrior my dread thunders on the roving seas, —ring for me the battle and the breeze, from the storm a shelter for their head, as'er may England's sons with spring hand rudge you the mansion, pricely thought it be, with your —ars ye wou, ye veteran band! ere from the perils of the deep set free, to landmen stare with stores of the main, fight in peace your battles o'er again."

EPIGRAM.

Poor Melbaone conceived
He had surely believed In our troubles, good sirs, in a trice,
And made the exchequer,
No longer a fable,
Taking the duty of Rice!
But, alas! these our troubles Are no such small bubbles As he smother'd by imposture daring;
And vastly I fear,
At the end of the year,
His sorrow he'll find them past BARRING!

WOMAN'S PRIVILEGES.

AN EPIGRAM—FROM MOLLIERE.

Three things to womankind belong, This universe of ours all over;
And from their use, or right or wrong,
Not all the universe may move her;
The first to tease her faithful lover;
The second, to coquette; the third—And that which oft'neat we discover—To argue points the most absurd, As right or wrong to have the latest word!

ADVENTURES OF AN OFFICER IN THE AMERICAN WAR.

A late visit to the Highlands, and while sitting with a friend in a secluded situation, the shores of Loch Ness, the following narrative, descriptive of the adventures of an officer in the American war, was related by one of the young persons of the family.
It appeared so interesting that I immediately wrote it down, and now present it to you, almost word for word as it was narrated.
The hero was a fine, tall, handsome youth, about nineteen, when he decided going into the army; and a commission was procured for him in the 42d regiment, in the course of a few months embarked for America, where he was very soon ordered for the American service, and he was ordered to join the 42d, but he had not time to do so, as the war had commenced. Mrs. Grant, his favourite sister, was parted from him with great regret; but having fortified him with good principles, and the best example, committed him to the care of Providence. He had lost his father when he was quite young, so that he was left entirely to the instruction of his mother; and it was fortunate she had such a son who was to sow the seed, that produced the fruits that will be in his adventurous life.
The regiment arrived safe at New York; and soon as they had recovered from the fatigues of the voyage, it was ordered to march into the interior, to join their brethren in arms, as the officer understood that the Americans had defeated a tribe of Indians, from Lake Michigan, to aid them against the British. The chief of this tribe had become well known to the Americans, as he and his followers were in the habit of visiting the frontiers yearly, to get their furs, fish, and other products of the country, for fire-arms, powder and shot, which were most useful to them; so that the Americans found it not a difficult matter to enquire of John and his tribe as an ally; and John, who was a man of no ordinary mind, not only picked up sufficient English language to make himself intelligible, but he had a powerful mind, and ruled over his tribe with despotic sway. The Indians, who were well acquainted with every foot of the country, were found by the Americans to be invaluable; and an ambuscade was planned to entrap the 42d ere it could reach its destination.

They were only too successful; for, in marching through a wood, they were attacked suddenly, and taken at a great disadvantage. From behind the trees the deadly rifle laid low many a brave fellow; and, fearing to be cut off to a man, a retreat was sounded, with the hope of returning to more open ground; and the dreaded war-whoop of the savages could hardly fail to strike terror into the minds of soldiers who had encountered such a ferocious-looking enemy.

The Americans being aware that the loss of their officers would render the men a more easy conquest, took aim accordingly; and Charles, who nobly stood his ground, was singled out by the Indian chief, and he fell severely wounded; and the Indians rushing into the mêlée, began to strip the dead and scalp the dying.
Michigan John, who had perceived that Charles was an officer, from his dress, advanced to where he lay, and raising his head by the long hair, he lifted the deadly tomahawk, and, whirling it round, he was on the point of scalping his victim, when my uncle moved one of his arms, as if to put his hand upon the wound, and Indian John, finding he still breathed, spared his life. Summoning four of his tribe, they hastily cut down some branches from the trees, and making a sort of litter, my uncle having had a bandage tied over his wound, he was placed in the litter, and by nightfall the party were on their way to Lake Michigan, laden with the booty which the Americans and they had divided. Some days elapsed ere they reached their home, the poor captive so weak and exhausted by the loss of blood, that he could hardly make the smallest exertion, and it required all the care of the Indian chief to keep him alive.

The warriors were received with shouts of triumph by their wives and companions, who had remained to guard their encampment, mingled with cries and lamentations for those who had fallen in battle. My uncle, upon the arrival of the Indians in the Michigan territory, was taken to the wigwam of their chief, and herbs were gathered and applied to his wound, so that he gradually recovered; and in the midst of such kind-hearted savages he felt exceedingly grateful, but above all to the chief. But one may imagine his horror and dismay, when John informed him that his life was only preserved that he might be offered up as a sacrifice to the manes of those who had been killed on the day of the battle. To have met with death in the field would have been little compared with the fate that awaited him, and his entreaties that the chief would at once put an end to his life were not listened to. John replied it was the custom of the tribe, and that he ought not to have invaded the land of the Red men; and my uncle perceiving that there existed not the smallest chance of escape for him, endeavoured to prepare his mind for the trial that awaited him; and he employed many hours of the day and in the silent watches of the night, in praying for fortitude and strength, to die as a Christian, from the only source at which it could be found.

With a composure of manner and appearance which even to himself appeared somewhat unnatural, my uncle saw the preparations that were taking place, and was relieved in a great measure by learning that he was not to be put to the torture, but that he was to be shot—a favour that he did not expect. His manly bearing and amiable manners had softened the heart in some degree of old John, and he would gaze with a steadfast and thoughtful look, when a corner of the wigwam he saw the young white-skin speaking to the Great Spirit, and heard the earnest petitions of the young soldier for his mother, and for forgiveness of his own sins; and old John felt proud he would have been of such a son to succeed him as chief of the Michigans.

At length my uncle having recovered, a day was fixed, and the whole tribe were assembled in their war-dresses, the women and children shouting and singing the death-song, as John, accompanied by his captive, appeared; and the chief making a short palaver to his followers, they all followed their leader to the wood that adjoined their encampment; and a tree being selected for the purpose, my uncle was placed against it, John having granted him the favour that he should not be bound nor his eyes covered, saying he was not afraid to look death in the face, and hoping that the Indian would take so sure an aim as to be fatal at the moment. John loaded his rifle; and when the signal was given, he presented it at his victim. The trigger was pulled, but the powder flashed in the pan.

With an impatient air John examined his rifle, put in fresh powder, and again presented. Again was the attempt unsuccessful. A third time would surely finish the affair, for the flint was sharpened, and fresh priming put in the pan. The rifle again missed fire. Anxiety, doubt, and consternation sat upon every face, as the chief looked round upon his tribe. As if struck by the thought of the moment, he raised the gun in his hand, and fired in the air, when it exploded with a tremendous noise, as the Indians gave out cries and shouts of surprise.

After a pause of a few minutes, and silence had been restored, the chief addressed them. "My children, it is of no use to kill this white-skin; he is protected by the Great Spirit. When did you see the gun of Michigan John miss fire? The Great Spirit says No. Listen, my children—I have no son, and this young white-skin shall become as one to your father. When I am old, and go to the land of my fathers, he shall be your chief. We shall teach him to hunt and to fish, and he will be as the son of the Red man."

This address was received with joyful acclamations, and my uncle, like one in a dream, was carried back to the wigwam upon the shoulders of Indians, who, bearing him to the care of his adopted father, spent the day in mirth and dancing. My uncle, whose life was thus wonderfully spared, never for a moment doubted that it was solely by the interposition of Providence, and gave thanks where it was due. A day was soon after appointed to adopt my uncle as the chief who was to inherit the name of his father's death, and he underwent the ceremonies observed among the savage tribes of North America. His body was handsomely tattooed, his ears pierced, and also his nose, to all of which were appended ornaments; and his skin being stained, and his person attired in the full-war-dress of an Indian chief, with the deadly tomahawk, and scalping-knife, he was, I am told, every handsome looking man. The ceremony concluded by his having the name of John bestowed upon him.

Only too grateful to have his life spared, young John fell into all the customs of his new friends. He accompanied his father in the chase, and became an expert huntsman; and in his roving and exciting occupation became delightful to him. If he had any ambition, here it might be gratified; he would at some future period, preside over a numerous body of Indians, who felt some degree of awe for one who was guarded by the Great Spirit. Youth soon reconciles itself to a situation that is not uncomfortable upon the whole; and young John, who was particularly attached to the chief, seemed to forget that he was not a Red skin from the first. His promotion, although approved of by the greater number of the tribe, had raised some envy and jealousy amongst those who were related to John, and they only wanted an opportunity to do him an injury. And so it chanced, when some of the tribe, accompanied by my uncle, were out hunting, a huge panther was tracked and fired at, and as the Indians pursued the animal closely, he took refuge in a cave, and every attempt to dislodge him was found to be in vain. It was now the time for the discontented to endeavour to get rid of their rival, and with furious threats they insisted that he should enter the cave, and drive out the panther.
This attempt he looked upon as certain death, as the cave was so low that he must have gone in on his hands and knees. But expostulation and remarks upon the injustice of their conduct, were only answered by a blow or the tomahawk; and seeing there was no alternative, he crept in upon his hands, holding his scalping-knife between his teeth. The cave was so dark that some minutes elapsed before he could discern the animal, which had retreated into a corner of the den, in the agonies of death, having been mortally wounded by one of the Indians. My uncle having advanced cautiously, drew his knife across the throat of the panther, and seizing him by the tail dragged him out of the den, and with an air of indignation threw him down before the astonished savages, who, humbled and crestfallen, were convinced that he bore a charmed life, and that it was fruitless to endeavour to injure him.

Three years were passed away by my uncle amongst the Indians; and having accumulated a considerable number of skins, and other products of their country, John proposed that a party of the tribe should proceed to the United States, to exchange them for powder and shot, which they now stood much in need of.
Accordingly, he with his adopted son, and seven of the followers proceeded to Charlestown. Here it was that my uncle recognised one of the officers of the 42d regiment, and all its sweet associations rushed into his heart, and he went directly and addressed his old companion in arms, and, if possible, was more astonished at hearing a young Indian speak in his own language. It was some time before he could be brought to acknowledge his identity. His adopted father was all this while beside them, his anxious piercing looks full of anxiety, which was increased when he found that my uncle intended accompanying the officer to his quarters, where he followed them.

A long and interesting conversation took place, and his friend represented in the strongest terms the folly of spending his life amidst a tribe of savages, and recalled to my uncle the duty he owed to his parent, king, and his country; in return, my uncle pleaded all he owed to his adopted father, his friend did not press the subject too keenly at the moment, but having written to the commanding officer the history of Charles's captivity, an order was despatched to Charles, claiming him as a British officer, and commanding him to join his regiment with as little delay as possible.

There was no disputing this order, as it would be considered a desertion; and he had the painful duty of explaining this to Michigan John, who was overwhelmed with grief.
He endeavoured by every means in his power to prevail on my uncle to go home with him.
Return, returns, my son John, with your old father. Why should you seek again to become a white skin? Oh, my son John, break not the heart of your Indian father! Every thing was done to comfort and console him, but with little success, until the old chief made up his mind, that the Good Spirit called his son away to his own people; and after choosing the best of the furs, and every thing that he thought would be valued, he took a last parting farewell, and turned his face towards the Lake Michigan. My uncle proceeded to New York, where his extraordinary adventures had travelled before him, and every one was anxious to see the handsome Indian chief.
This desire was most strongly felt by the ladies, and a fair American girl, who heard him relate his romantic tale with modesty and ingenuousness showed that she loved him for the dangers he had passed; and he was too gallant a soldier not to be flattered by the interest she expressed. And while he gained a step in the 42d, he lost his heart in New York; and fearing to be called a heartless man, he had nothing for it but to agree to an exchange or barter. The regiment was ordered to England, and Charles along with it.
If his adventures had made a sensation in New York, he was still a greater lion in London. And one of his Majesty's ministers wrote my uncle, that it would be agreeable that he should spend an evening at his house, and that a certain member of the royal family would honour the company with his presence, having a desire to see him, in the Indian costume, dance the celebrated war dance.
All of these requests my uncle did not consider himself at liberty to refuse, and acquitted himself so well, that his dance and tremendous war whoop electrified the whole assembly.

After remaining a short time in London, he returned home to his native Glen, to visit his relations; and recollecting after a reasonable time that his heart was on the other side of the Atlantic, and finding himself uncomfortable without it, he set out again for New York, to unite himself to his lady love; leaving as parting gifts his Indian dress, tomahawk, and scalping-knife, which are hung up in the hall as memorials of the true tale of Michigan John, alias Charles Grant of Glen."

THE TRANSCRIPT.

QUEBEC, WEDNESDAY, 30th NOV.

By this morning's mail, we have received Toronto and Kingston papers of the 13th and 15th instant. The Examiner (doubtful authority) says,—"It is currently rumoured that His Excellency Sir George Arthur has sent home his resignation by the Great Western." The papers from Upper Canada received by yesterday's mail contain nothing of interest.

New York papers of Thursday evening reached us yesterday by the regular mail. There was no intelligence of the British Queen, then on 14 days, taking it for granted that she sailed on the 1st instant. We shall probably hear of her arrival by to-morrow's mail which brings on the New York papers of Friday and Saturday.

There is little of importance from New York. The accounts of monetary affairs are as confused and contradictory as ever. Sales of stocks were extensive on Thursday at prices considerably lower than those of the previous day, United States Banks was held at 70 @ 71. In Exchange, little doing and the quotations held at 5, 5½ and 6; and it is stated that a large amount on England had been purchased at 4½ for the express purpose of purchasing specie in England to forward to New York. There was a rumour in Philadelphia on Wednesday that the Banks of that City would resume specie payments on the 1st January next.

The papers are filled with electioneering intelligence a sample of which we subjoin:—

MASSACHUSETTS ELECTION.—RUM VICTORIOUS.—Yesterday we received returns from one hundred and seventy towns, and from them we should think that Marcus Morton is elected Governor by a small majority, say five hundred. So far as heard from he is ahead two hundred and seven votes. The whole state has been revolutionized, and rum slings and gin cock-tails have come in three necks ahead of cold water. The great question was—rum or no rum—gin or no gin—fifteen gallon law or no fifteen gallon law—and the result has been wonderful. Last year, governor Everett was elected by a majority of over ten thousand votes, all pure whigs, and this year, judge Morton, the locofoco candidate, is made governor by a majority of five hundred, and perhaps one thousand; but perchance the towns to be heard from may defeat him. There is no telling for certain till to-day, when it will be settled. But rum has done wonders, and the citizens of the Bay state can, hereafter, drink, drink and be merry, till resurrection morn, without the fear of informers or reformers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Flour has suddenly jumped up 25 cents again—making 60 cents within a few days. Sales of common brands Western are now made at $6 25, and $6 37½ is asked by some.

AMERICAN SLAVERS.—The District Attorney of Baltimore, at the request of the grand jury, has visited New York, for the purpose of collecting information respecting the captured slavers, alleged to belong to that port; and two gentlemen belonging to the British cruisers have gone to Baltimore to testify before the grand jury. The President has refused to receive the slavers, stating that he considered them as Spanish, and not American property. They will—it is further the opinion of the Commercial Advertiser—be condemned at Bermuda.

We acknowledge with thanks Mr. De Bleuzy's pamphlet in refutation of Papineau's "Histoire de l'Insurrection, &c." We have not yet had time to bestow an attentive perusal on this publication, but, in our next will endeavour to give our readers an idea of the manner in which the author has treated his subject.

VOLUNTEERS.—A corps of Volunteers, 500 strong, including officers and non-commissioned officers, is to be raised forthwith in this city, for five months' service. The corps will be under the command of Col Hope, who, from this day will be in attendance, at the splinter-proof barrack, between the hours of 10 and 12, A. M., and 2 and 4, P. M., for the purpose of enlisting men desirous of serving in the corps. It is not the present intention of Government to raise any other corps of Volunteers, in this city.

On the 4th instant, a house belonging to F. X. Côté, a young farmer at St. Antoine de Tilly was destroyed by fire; together with its contents very little of which were saved.—Canadien.

FIRES.—On Monday, soon after seven in the evening, the two story stone house in St. Joachim Street, St. Lewis Suburbs, immediately outside St. John's Gate occupied M. S. Widow Cummings, was discovered to be on fire in the upper story. Mr. Cummings, Jr., who was in the second story reading was the only person in the house, the remainder of the family being absent. The alarm was promptly given and a number of persons entered the lower part of the house. The fire by this time had gained so much head up-stairs that it was impossible to proceed to that quarter, and the efforts of the individual who had effected an entrance were confined to saving the moveables in the ground floor. Those efforts were successful but we are sorry that a number of persons engaged in them were dreadfully burnt. It appears that when they had done all in their power to save the property and were going out of the house, the front door had become closed by some means or other, although it had previously been broken open, and at this moment a sheet of flame rushed down the staircase and enveloped the party consisting of many persons, fifteen of whom were shockingly burnt about the neck, head and hands; and one, a Canadian, we hear, has his right arm nearly reduced to a cinder.

The following are the names of the persons injured, not including some who received comparatively slight injuries:— Mr. Peter Grant, foreman in the Transcript office.
Mr. Alex. Miller, grocer, and formerly assistant road inspector.
Mr. Henry Hutton, carpenter, employed in the public works on the Cape, and residing nearly opposite the burnt property.
Mr. Edouard Marié, studying with Mr. Sirois, Notary Public.
Mr. Boomer, cabinet maker, brother-in-law of Mr. Grant.
Mr. John Panet, son of B. A. Panet, Esq., coroner.
Mr. Théophile Séguin, nephew of Dr. Séguin.
Mr. John Wyse, son of Mr. Frederick Wyse.
Mr. Joseph Hamel, shoemaker.
Mr. George Richardson, shoemaker.
Charles Daly, an orphan lad, 16 years of age, servant to J. H. Kerr, Esq.

Patrick Lynch, a young man of 17 years of age, son of a poor woman who retains apples, &c. This unfortunate youth is most dreadfully burnt and his life is considered in danger; he has been unable to see since the accident and his features present a shocking appearance, as indeed is the case with all of the above named sufferers from their laudable and disinterested efforts to save the property of others. Some of them are fathers of families depending upon their daily labour for support and the great majority are unable to bear the great loss of time which must inevitably occur to them from the accident. Something ought to be done for them and we think that the Fire Insurance Offices, considering the fortunate manner in which they have escaped of late in Quebec, from losses, ought to be first to come forward and set a good example.

Mr. Urquhart, clerk in the employ of Mr. Hoffman, St. John's Suburbs, Mr. Savard, carriage maker, a lad in the employ of Mr. Stubbs, shoemaker, St. Lewis's Suburbs, also received injuries from the fire but not to a very serious extent.

The rush of flame which caused these dreadful injuries is ascribed to the explosion of a small quantity of gun powder, which, in consequence of the upper windows being yet closed at the time forced the flame down the vent of the staircase.

The house was, in a short time, completely burnt, but by great exertions in pulling down a wooden shed adjoining, and a copious supply of water thrown on the wooden house opposite, the fire did not extend its ravages. It was the property of Jacques Voyer, Esq., and tenanted by Mrs. Widow Cummings, and her sons Messrs. George and Robert Cummings, of the Commissariat Department. Mr. Voyer was, we learn, uninsured. Mrs. Cummings had £200 insured on her furniture.

The only vessels now loading at the port of Quebec are the following:— Ship General Hewitt, Sellers, for London, and the bark Hope, for Colchester.

A Letter Bag for the Steam-packet British Queen, to sail from New York, will be closed at the Post Office, in this city, on Saturday, the 23d of the present month.

Snow has fallen heavily during Sunday night and Monday, and the ground is again covered; the weather is at present moist and the roads are in a wretched condition; nevertheless many country trains were in the market yesterday, and winter carriages are in general use in town.

A large flock of wild geese passed over the city yesterday, their flight was in a north-west direction, which some of the weather-wise say is a sign of a continuance of mild weather, whilst others hold that it indicates high winds.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE,
Montreal, November 16th, 1839.
His Excellency the Governor General has been pleased to make the following arrangement:— Captain Watson Pringle, to be Secretary to Government for the Province of Lower Canada.
By His Excellency's Command, T. W. C. MURDOCH,
Chief Secretary.

Statements have been published in relation to the enlargement of Mr. A. N. Morin from his recent imprisonment in the Quebec Gaol which we have reason to believe are incorrect.

Mr. Morin concealed himself so that the warrant for his arrest last year could not be executed. On his reappearance in town, after the departure of Sir John Colborne, he was informed that the warrant would be put in execution if he remained in the country, and he was committed. On an examination of the charges against him, it was found that they were vitiated by a defect of form, so that although the offence might have been committed, yet that defect was such as to render his conviction impracticable. It was therefore determined not to follow up the proceedings against him under the charge preferred, and he was accordingly enlarged as if it did not exist.—Gazette.

THE HUMAN HAIR.

WHERE the hair is observed to be growing thin, nothing can be more preposterous than the use of oils, grease or any fatty matters. Their application can only be recommended through the grossest ignorance, as they hasten the fall of the hair, by increasing the relaxation of the skin. When there is a harsh, dry, or contracted skin, and where the small blood vessels which carry nourishment to the hair are obstructed, then the oils, &c., may be good, as they tend to relax the skin; but alone they are of no avail. There must be a stimulus to rouse the vessels from their torpor, and quicken the current of the blood.—Extract from Clive's Treatise on the Hair.
The BALM OF COLUMBIA is the only preparation that can have that effect, being entirely free from any oily substance.

A CASE IN POINT.

I had unfortunately lost nearly all the hair from the top of my head, when I commenced the use of the Balm of Columbia, and have, by the use of two bottles had my head covered with a fine growth of Hair.—There can be no mistake in the matter, as any of my friends can see by calling on me. I had also become quite gray, but had the gray hairs plucked out, and it has grown in as the Balm says of the natural color; if any body doubts these facts, let them call upon me and see. I bought the Balm of Comstock & Co., 2, Fletcher Street.

HEADACHE, SICK OR NERVOUS

THE extraordinary reputation that Dr. Spohn's remedy for this distressing complaint is every day gaining is certainly a matter of much astonishment. That so much suffering should have existed for ages without any discovery of an efficient prevention or cure, is truly a subject of much regret, but Dr. S. now assures the public that such a remedy has been invented as will convince the most incredulous.—The principles upon which it acts are simple and plain. It is an admitted fact that this complaint, whether Sick Headache, or Nervous Headache, arises primarily from the Stomach—those who think they have the Nervous Headache may rest assured that this organ, the stomach, is the first cause, that the system has become vitiated or debilitated, through the stomach, and that only through the same channel must they expect a restoration of the nature and healthy functions of the system. This object, Dr. Spohn's remedy is eminently calculated to attain. The truth of this position cannot be controverted, and the sooner sufferers with the headache become convinced of it, the sooner will their sufferings and its restoration of health.—Dr. Spohn pledges his professional reputation on this fact. The remedy may be had of apothecaries generally throughout the United States.

COMSTOCK & Co. wholesale druggists, 2, Fletcher Street, near Maiden Lane, one door below Pearl Street, New York, General Agents for America—and for sale by JOHN MUSSON, Agent for Quebec, and by Messrs SIMS & BOWLES, and BEGG & URQUHART, Quebec, 18th Oct.

The PILES is warranted to cure the FLEAS, RHEUMATISM, all SORES, &c. or no pay taken for it.

PHYSICIANS AND PATIENTS.—The Blind Piles, said to be incurable by external applications—Solomon Hays warrants the contrary. His Liniment will cure Bad Piles. Facts are more stubborn than theories. He solicits all respectable Physicians to try it upon their patients. It will do them no harm, and it is known that every Physician who has had the honesty to make this trial has candidly admitted that it has succeeded in every case they have known. Then why not use it? It is the recipe of one of their most respectable members, now deceased. Why refuse to use it? Because it is sold as a proprietary medicine? In this a small relief exists for suffering their honest patients to linger in distress? We think not. Physicians should be convinced that there is no humbug or quackery about this article. Why then do not prescribe him in suffering? If they won't try it before, let them at all other prescriptions fail. Physicians are respectfully requested to do themselves and patients the justice to use this article. It shall be taken from the bottles, and done up as their prescription, if they desire.

SOLEMON HAYS.

PILES,—DROPSY, SWELLINGS, ALL SORES, RHEUMATISM.

It is absolutely asserted, on the most positive proof, that the above complaints are arrested and cured by the timely use of Hays' Liniment. It is impossible to find room in this paper to present those proofs which are conclusive and convincing. They may be seen at length where it is sold.

GENERAL DUFF GREEN. So well known as Editor of the late Washington Telegraph, is referred to for the truth of the following—

General Green a few days since asserted in a public place, that he had used Hays' Liniment for the Piles, and that the effect was very astonishing, and that he felt it his duty to make known as far as in his power, to his suffering fellow men that such an extraordinary article was in existence.—He said he would cheerfully lend his name, and aid in extending its usefulness. This is but one of we may safely say hundreds who have given like testimony.

SOLEMON HAYS. WONDERFUL!!

An Astonishing Fact!—Hays' Liniment has now been used in some thousand cases, and no failure can be found. It will cure every and all cases of Piles. No charge without such result.—Apply at JOHN MUSSON, Agent for Quebec, and at Messrs SIMS & BOWLES, BEGG & URQUHART.

CAUTION.—None can be genuine without the written signature of Comstock & Co.

LOOK OUT FOR IMPOSITION. A base attempt has been made to imitate Hays' Liniment, and infringe upon the copy and other rights of the proprietors. Never buy Hays' Liniment unless it has a splendid engraved wrapper, and the written, and written signature of Comstock & Co. all others must be impositions. Any persons vending any other article, by the name of Hays' Liniment, either by wholesale or retail, will be prosecuted for a violation of our copyright. The oath of Mr. Hays may be found copied in our inside wrapper, swearing that no other person knows any of the component or essential parts of this Liniment—and that he will not reveal the secret for twenty years.
