The Mystery of Rutledge Hall

OR
 "The Cloud With a Silver Lining"

CHAPTER V.

No queen receiving her, subjects could have been more gracious and dignified and stately, and the great ladies who had come prepared to patronize the squire's nameless young wife had found themselves received in a manner which effectively put a stop to any patronage or encouragement on their part, and they had driven away, feeling half vexed, half amused at Sibil's graceful self-possessed manner of turning the tables and making them "countrified" and behind the times.

Sibil's wonderful beauty had never appeared to greater advantage than in the stately gloomy rooms of her husband's old mansion. It shone like a jewel in a somber setting which made it all the more gorgeous. To see her in her costly dresses going about the gloomy rooms, with the wintry sunlight falling upon her golden hair, was a sight which would have enchanted an artist, and she did the honors of her new home with a grace and dignity which could not fail to excite admiration.

But there was no admiration in her husband's eyes as they rested upon her now, although she made a beautiful picture. The fire-light fell softly on the long rich folds of her velvet dress of a peculiar dead-leaf shade, and was reflected back by the diamonds on her long white fingers; her beautiful head was resting against the satin cushions of her chair, the costly lace of her ruffles fell away from the white throat, disclosing its beautiful proportions, and her face, on which fell the light from the reading lamp by her side, was calm and proud as usual, no movement, no change in its expression betraying that she had heard his irritated question. The squire's stock of patience, always a limited one, failed him.

"Do you hear me, madam?" he said, angrily, raising his voice. "Have you lost your sense of hearing as well as your knowledge of what is due to me? Do you hear me, I say?" he repeated furiously, stamping his foot upon the ground so heavily that the china in an inland cabinet near rattled, and shook.

Mrs. Rutledge put down her book slowly, languidly raised her white lids, and looked at him calmly, still shading her beautiful face from the heat of the fire.

"Well?" she questioned, calmly, with no other expression on her face than a slight, a very slight look of dislike.

"Well! It is not well, madam!" he returned fiercely. "Did you hear me, I repeat?"

"Not being stone-deaf, I could not fail to hear you," she answered, in the same quiet manner. "I should think the servants hear equally well."

"Why did you not answer me then?" he asked, testily, slightly ashamed of the passion he had allowed to master him so completely.

"When I said that I heard you, I did not say that I understood you," she said, coolly. "Indeed, although the one was exceedingly possible, the other was totally impossible!"

"And yet I spoke plainly, I think!"

"Did you? I am sorry to be obliged to speak still more plainly to make me understand. You must dot your 'i's' and cross your 't's,'" she added, with a slight laugh.

"It is no laughing matter!" he exclaimed, his anger raising again.

"Is it not Pardon me. We see things doubtless from a different point of view. That is only natural, all things considered," she said, with a slight sneer. "I find your unreasonable anger most amusing."

"Unreasonable!" he echoed. "My anger is perfectly justifiable. I think you do not understand, madam, who and what I am!"

"Do I not?" she answered, negligently. "I think I understand you well enough."

"Then, if so, how is it that your conduct does not show that you do?"

Nothing could have been more contemptuous than the little low laugh with which she received his words. It stung him sharply, increased in an armor of pride though he was. He had sat down opposite to her, trying to emulate her composure; now he rose angrily, pushing away the chair so hastily that it was a light silt chair—it fell backward. Sibil laughed again as he bent awkwardly and picked it up.

If she had been less beautiful, perhaps her insolent indifference would have touched him less; but the wonderful loveliness which had made him woo her had power over him still, and he knew that it had. He felt that he would have given half his wealth to win from her now the gracious words and smiles she gave to others, and of which she had been lavish enough to him before their marriage. It maddened him to see how completely his money and position had overruled her in her acceptance of him. He had been in a fool's paradise for a time; but now he would have a far longer time in which to discover his mistake.

Glancing around him at the beautiful room in which they sat, one of a suite he had furnished in the most luxurious manner for his bride, at the signs of wealth and luxury on every side, at the costly trifles with which she had surrounded herself, at the rich soft folds of her dress, the diamonds upon her fingers, the rich laces at her throat and wrist, and knowing that it was to him she owed them all, his anger deepened and increased, until he had hard work to repress the furious words which rose to his lips. Her very indifference and contempt maddened him almost beyond endurance; he turned away abruptly, and walked hastily to the end of the room.

It was yet early in the afternoon; but the December day was gray and dark without, and it looked as if snow were threatening. The squire had been out hunting, and still wore his splashed boots and rather muddy hunting-coat. The ascent had been twice, lost, and they had had poor sport that afternoon. But it was not merely the want of success in the hunting-field which had exasperated him; he had other causes for annoyance in a few words he had overheard that morning, and their meaning was rankling still.

"I am expecting some young ladies to afternoon tea," Sibil said, calmly, glancing at a little jeweled watch. "Therefore this is not a very fitting time for a conjugal lecture, and—"

"There is no better time than the present," he replied, sharply. "And I am accustomed to choose my own time. It is quite necessary that there should be some understanding between us. Your conduct displeases me."

"Have you been reading Dickens lately?" she asked. "It would be an agreeable change from Bell's Life and the Field, which form your usual literature."

"What do you mean?" he said, testily. "I have already told you that this is no laughing matter, Sibil, and—"

"I am not laughing," she rejoined, languidly. "But you seem to have made an exhaustive study of 'Dombey and Son.' I believe in one chapter Mr. Dombey addresses his wife in almost the same terms as you have done me the honor to use this afternoon."

"I repeat that I am not jesting," he interrupted, angrily. "You must hear me. I insist!"

"So did Mr. Dombey," broke in Sibil's languid voice.

"I insist upon attention and obedience," he resumed, not heeding the interruption. "For several weeks past—indeed ever since we returned home—your behavior has not pleased me. You apparently forget that when I married you—Mr. Dombey himself could hardly have laid more emphasis on the pronouns, or made that emphasis more insulting—I gave you my name, which has never been dishonored yet, wealth which you could have had no hope of possessing, and a position of which anybody, however well-born, might be proud. It is hardly unreasonable, I think, to expect from you in return a certain amount of respect for my wishes, which you have chosen until now entirely to disregard."

"In what manner?"

She spoke with perfect composure, still leaning back upon the satin cushions of her low chair; but she had dropped the hand-screen upon her lap, and as the fire-light fell upon her face, it gave it a color which it would not otherwise have possessed.

"In what manner? Need you ask?"

"Very shortly after your marriage I had reason to make some remarks upon your behavior toward—toward two young men who formerly were merely on terms of formal politeness here, but to whom you have permitted a very unusual intimacy, encouraging their visits in a way that, especially in the present circumstances, I can not approve."

He paused to take breath. The long white fingers upon Sibil's lap pressed the ivory handle of the hand-screen so tightly that it snapped in two. She threw it from her with a negligent gesture.

"And what are the present circumstances?" she said.

Mr. Rutledge hesitated. He saw that his wife's indifference was more or less feigned, and he saw too that there was no fear mingling with the aversion he could not help reading in her beautiful scornful eyes. But he had gone too far now to recede with honor, and it was as well that they should understand each other once for all, in order to avoid any repetition of such a disagreeable scene as this.

What's happening in your mouth?

Nothing goes on in your mouth that your Prophy-lactic Tooth Brush doesn't know about. The inquisitive, saw-tooth pointed bristles dig into every nook and cranny. Even the hard-to-get-at backs of back teeth are scrubbed clean by the large end tuft.

The Prophy-lactic is curious about the germ that makes teeth decay. It hunts him up and chases him out. That is what prevents decay and gives your teeth that look of beauty that comes with white, strong, and healthy teeth.

Alexandria Cotton Market of Egypt

Alexandria's cotton market is called the Minet al Bassal, which in English means "The Mean Market," says Karl Ugen Schmidt in the Living Age. Practically all the cotton raised in Egypt passes through a bank in its journey from the field to the spinner. Their main offices are in Alexandria, but they have branches and sub-branches all through the cotton-raising region. They advance money to the peasant on his future crop, presumably at a high rate of interest, and take the cotton directly from the field. It is not the peasant but the bank that delivers the crop to the cotton gins, which these institutions for the most part own, and after the ginning brings the fiber and the seed to Alexandria.

Practically every export merchant who buys cotton at Minet al Bassal is a European. After a trade has been closed at the Minet al Bassal the purchaser goes as soon as the market hours are over to the warehouse where the cotton he has bought is stored, to see if the fiber comes up to the sample.

ONTARIO WOMAN REGAINS HEALTH

Wants Other Women To Know About Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mount Forest, Ont.—"Before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt weak and miserable, and had pains all through me. I was living in Alisa Craig at the time, and one day a friend came in and told me her experience of using the Vegetable Compound and advised me to take a bottle which I finally did. I began to get stronger and those pains left me. I am glad I found out about this medicine as I think there is none equal to it for women who have troubles of this kind. I cannot praise the Vegetable Compound too highly for the good it has done me. Whenever I know of a woman suffering I am glad to tell her of it."—Mrs. Wm. Rensdale, R.R. No. 1, Mount Forest, Ontario.

Women throughout the Dominion are finding health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

No harmful drugs are used in its preparation—just roots and herbs—and it can be taken in safety even by a nursing mother. For sale by all druggists.

The Guardian of the Gate

At old Quebec atop the cliff, over the ancient guns and the greenward of Citadel, catching every breeze that blows, proudly floats out the emblem of Empire, the Union Jack. But it was not ever so—just wander through the streets of the old town with its mansard roofed houses, its quaintly paved streets and old world churches on every corner. Here Jacques Cartier landed three centuries ago, after him came Champlain up where now stands the Chateau Frontenac, the fiery warrior governor Comte de Frontenac gave the insolent New England Captain Kirke his answer to the challenge to surrender at the mouth of the guns. And Captain Philippe and many another intruder, until at last on the Plain of Abraham, without adequate support from the old land, the gallant Montcalm laid down his sword and with it his life to the British invader under General Wolfe, the French of the old regime, hurled defiance. And the character of the city has not greatly changed since those olden days—its charm is intensified if anything. To stand on the bastion, look at the British ensign aloft on the staff, to hear the soldier in British uniform wearing the Maple Leaf on his epaulette give the challenge in sharp French—what a touch to the imagination—what a picture of change and contrast. It is typical of the life of the city and of the surrounding country, everywhere you go it makes itself felt—this blending of the old world with the new—so intangible, yet so powerful. Romance is in the air. Come down and fill your soul with the spirit of the place. The Chateau Frontenac built upon the site of the old residence of the French governors, is the last word in comfort combined with backgrounds of the old town. But make your plans and act quickly for thousands upon thousands are feeling the lure and magic of Quebec and you may not find room in that heavenly spot.

Says Dislike to Science Political

London, Aug. 27. (G.P.)—Professor Horace Lamb, noted scholar and writer on mathematical physics, President of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, at the opening of the annual convention of the British Association, yesterday, at Southampton declared that the dislike to science was now political, rather than ecclesiastical, as the habits of sober, accurate analysis promoted by science was not always favorable to social or economic theories resting mainly on an emotional basis.

Referring to the disappointment and disillusion sometimes expressed that science had not produced a new era of prosperity and international reconciliation, President Lamb pointed out that science was unable to improve human nature but he claimed that science tended to increase the intellectual and material and even the aesthetic possessions of the world.

Dealing particularly with Geophysics, President Lamb regretted that the observational side had been neglected in England. He paid a tribute to India for efficient geodetic gravitational work done there. He alluded to the institution of a readership in geodesy, the science of surveying, in Cambridge University whereby he hoped a gravity survey of the British Isles would be initiated, while with the co-operation of the navy he hoped a gravity chart of the world—hitherto almost a blank with regard to the ocean—might gradually be filled in.

President Lamb expressed regret at the present inactivity in the way of the interpretation of seismic records.

Japanese Artist

DOESN'T MIND EXCLUSION ACT.

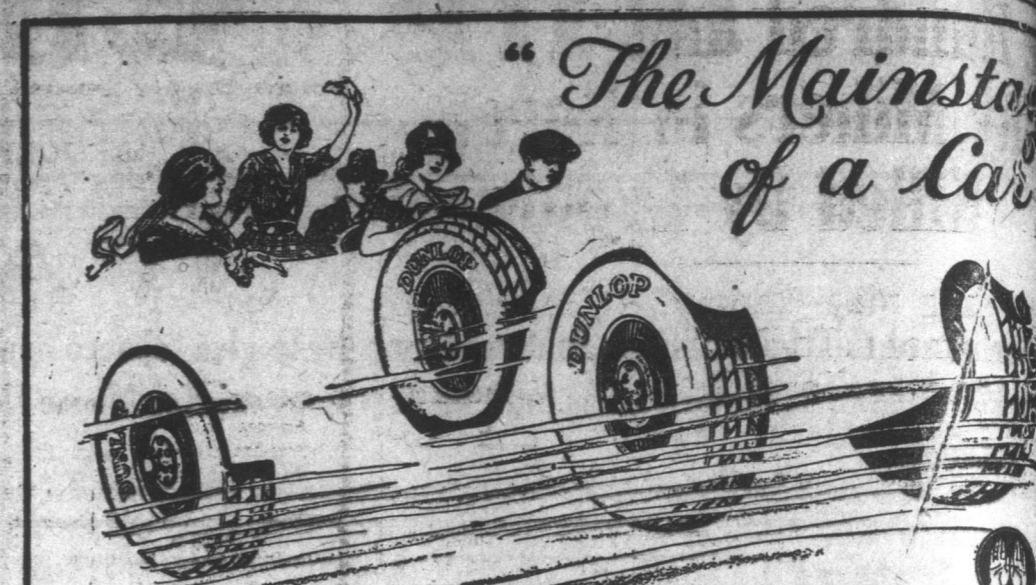

Yoshio Mariko, well-known Japanese artist, now in this country, writing in The Forum, reports a conversation with American friends on the subject of the Exclusion Act.

"Your entire nation seems very much hurt," remarked an American professor.

"Why should it be?" I inquired. "All Japanese non-immigrants like myself are freely allowed to come here. That is more generous than our old Shogun's policy. It is only a question of immigration. In the days of Columbus any nation had the privilege of making colonies here. But now that America is a well-established country, it can regulate immigration as it chooses."

"But doesn't your nation feel itself slighted by being called an inferior race?" exclaimed one of the ladies.

"If I were to call a millionaire a beggar, would he be slighted? And which of us would be belittled, the millionaire or I?"

"Exactly! That is what we meant by saying we were ashamed of our Congress!" she replied.

"I confessed to an equal shame for the Jingoes of my own country but reminded her of the late Sir Herbert Tree's remark that one fool makes more noise than ten thousand wise men."

"Why dangerous?" asked the professor.

"Because it makes second and third rate brains frenzy-stricken, and first rate brains capricious. There are really only two nationalities—good and bad. And these two nationalities are equally divided among the wise and the foolish. That makes the world a very complicated place to live in. Confucius said: 'The world is the union of intellect and virtue into three parts—love, wisdom and courage. Remove any one of these, and humanity falls into a tripod. The Papuan Sorcerer's Revenge

The witch-doctor or sorcerer is still one of the principal characters among the natives of Papua or New Guinea, and he still exercises considerable influence on his fellow savages. Richard Humphries, a British magistrate, was ordered to enquire into a vendetta between the people of two native villages in the interior. Accompanying him on his journey were three other white men: Harry Dowling, a photographer, and Martin Moore Taylor, who tell the story in the Wide World magazine. There were also a large number of native bearers, among whom was Mira On, a sorcerer.

The latter created trouble from the start. He had sworn revenge on the whites for some alleged grievance at their hands, and his first act was an endeavour to poison coconuts prepared for them. He was discovered, and he fled the camp.

The second attempt upon our lives took place some twelve hours later, writes Mr. Taylor. We were on the trail, with Maimura, one of the native police, in the van. Humphries behind him, myself next, and Dengo my orderly, behind me. Suddenly Maimura leaped over something in the path between the high grass that rose on every side of us and yelled. I did not know the meaning of the word he shrieked over and over again, but behind a bend in the trail, we found the other policeman standing beside a bed of hot coals. On the fire was a deep earthenware pot, and beside it a piece of wood and a stone—evidently the cover of the pot and the weight which held it down. In the dust about the fire were the prints of naked feet. To one side a peg had been driven into the ground, and fastened to it was another length of the same kind of plant vine which had been tied to the snake. It was all very mysterious to me.

"Look inside the pot," said Humphries, although he had not done so himself. With the stick I carried I turned the hot vessel over and fished inside it. I brought to light a khaki-colored handkerchief, unmistakably one of those which had disappeared two nights before when the old sorcerer had hung up our clothing to dry.

"I'll explain it as we go along," Humphries promised, and after he had given orders for the pot to be thrown into the grass, the fire put out and all traces of it removed, and the peg pulled out and tossed away, we struck out again.

"That is one of the favorite methods used by a sorcerer to get rid of an enemy whom he cannot poison and dares not face," said Humphries. "Old Mira-On did steal our handkerchiefs after all. Probably that one you saw in the pot was mine, as he would want to get rid of me most of all."

"It isn't hard to guess what happened," suggested Uncle Lucky a few minutes later, as he circled Lettuce Square, on one corner of which stood the Rabbitville Savings Bank. As he jumped out of the Luckymobile who should come hopping around the corner, his knapsack bouncing up and down on his back and his red-striped candy cane swinging from his left paw, but Little Jack Rabbit.

"Hello, hello!" shouted the happy old gentleman rabbit.

"Just in time," squeaked Little Miss Moustie.

"I've brought my little savings bank with me," cried the bunny boy.

"It's just chock full of Pumpkin Pennies. I'm going to put them all in your bank, Uncle Lucky."

"Here it is," crowed a well-known voice, and there stood Reddy Comb, the rooster newsboy.

"Maybe I'd better stop at the bank."

1924 Payments to Policyholders over 5 Million Dollars

If all the money paid by the Manufacturers Life to Policyholders in 1924 were in one dollar bills, laid end to end, it would more than reach from Toronto to White River in Northern Ontario, following the railway—over 570 miles. Over half this immense sum was for matured policies. Another big part was dividends. Life insurance promotes thrift as well as protecting dependents. Every year sees increased benefits to Policyholders of the Manufacturers Life. Life insurance is important to you. Are you uninsured or under-insured?

Dodge Brothers Set New Record

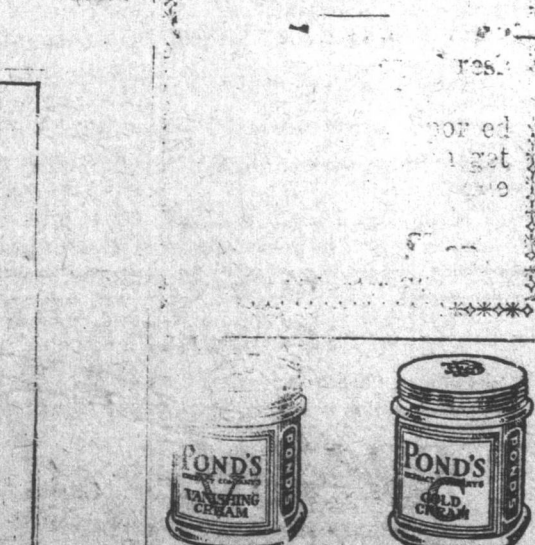

Deliveries and Production Exceed Best Previous Week in History.

Although Dodge Brothers Motor Cars are now being built at the rate of 19.7 per cent. Dodge Brothers have established new high records continuously for several months, as compared with similar periods for previous years, but the record of the week ending April 11 is the best in the company's history. With retail deliveries aggregating more than 5,000, an average of more than 1,300 each production day, the best previous week was surpassed by several hundred cars. New retail orders exceeded the corresponding week of 1924 by 1,000, or approximately of 1,100 a day, both deliveries and new orders are some 200 a day in excess of production.

"Had dealers' stocks permitted, the number of deliveries for the record week would have been even greater," said John A. Nichol, Jr., Vice-President in Charge of Sales. "It is not a spurt, but a steady, healthy climb."

WILKINSON'S LINDENT FOR ACNES

Children's playworn clothes

made like new with SUNSET

SUNSET helps solve the school and play clothes problem. Many garments too good to throw away are made useful and attractive by dyeing them with SUNSET. When these faded or playworn clothes are re-colored with modern SUNSET you cannot tell them from new; for the texture is freshened too. SUNSET is especially useful where there are young children because each SUNSET color launders perfectly. For little boys' clothes SUNSET Navy Blue is fine. It is deep, rich Navy that will cover practically any lighter shade. SUNSET-dyeing is a revelation in beautiful color. All SUNSET colors, light and dark, are fast for all fabrics. Do not stain hands or harm yourself. Ask to see Color Card in drug, department, grocery and general stores, also for free folder of SUNSET recipes of "Season's Colors." You'll find it very helpful.

Installation of R.W.M. and Office Bearers

OF LODGE HEART'S CONTENT, No. 1275, A.F. & A.M., S.C.

A large party of Masons from the District Grand Lodge of Scotland, accompanied by a deputation from the District Grand Lodge of England, and headed by the District Grand Master Deputy, R.W. Bro. H. E. Cowan, who came of the unavoidable absence of the District Grand Master, R.W. Bro. Hon. Tasker Cook, who was present at the Parliamentary Party functions at Bell Island, was the installing officer, left the city on Wednesday afternoon at 1.30 by motor for Heart's Content for the purpose of installing the Right Worshipful Master-elect, Bro. Arch Farnham, and investing the office bearers of Lodge Heart's Content, 1275, S.C., for the ensuing year. Arriving at Heart's Content between 6 and 7 o'clock the visitors were met by the visiting committee and taken to the various members' homes, where the inner man, whose appetite had been sharpened by the exhilarating drive around the Bay, was catered to with that well known hospitality for which the ladies of the Cable City of Trinity Bay are renowned.

Lodge Heart's Content was convened at 8.30 p.m. when the following District Grand Lodge officers were received in ancient form and custom: R. W. Bro. H. E. Cowan, P.G.D., D.D.G.M.; Robert Duff, M.H.A., S.D.G.M.; T. A. Macdonald, D.G.S.W.; David Johnston, D.G.J.W.; B. Keppel as D.G.S.; F. E. Rabbits, D.G.S., as D.G.D. of C.; T. G. Ford as D.G. Chap.; George Butt as D.G.T.; Harry Archibald as D.G.S.; W. Clarke as D.G.I.G.; W. C. Major, D.G. Tyler. Also the following deputation from the District Grand Lodge of England, who very graciously consented to act in the following offices: Wor. Bros. Joe Nunn, as D.G.B.; Thos. Soper as D.G.S.D.; Harvey Dave as D.G.J.D.; Geo. Langmead as D.G.S.

The ceremony of installation was at once proceeded with, and R.W. Bro. Arch Farnham, who had been re-elected, was again installed as R.W.M. for the ensuing year. The following office bearers were also invested: Wor. Bros. Dr. A. R. Anderson, I.P.M.; H. E. Wyatt, Deputy M.; R. Martin, Sub. M.; Pugh, W.S.W.; J. Farnham, W.J.W.; W. C. Palmer, Sec'y; T. R. Hopkins, Treas.; G. R. Rabbits, S.D.A.; J. Row, M.H.A.; W. N. Ford, D. C.; Rev. Canon Smart, Chap.; J. J. Young, I.G.; E. J. Farnham, S.D.; C. J. Farnham, I.D.; A. C. Hillyard, Tyler.

The Lodge was then closed in due and ancient form, after which the brethren proceeded to the Banquet Hall where a most sumptuous repast had been prepared by the good ladies of Heart's Content, of whose well deserved fame we spoke in the earlier paragraph of this report. When we say that on this occasion these good ladies excelled any of their previous efforts it speaks volumes, yet states only the naked truth. For the next half hour the silence was only broken by the rattle of dishes and the clattered sides of the guests, whose appetites had been appeased by the many good things with which the tables were laden.

The following Toast List was now taken up and duly honored:

The King and The Craft—Prop. by R.W.M.; resp. God Save the King.
The Grand Master Mason and Grand Lodge of Scotland—Prop. R.W.M.; resp. R. W. Bro. H. E. Cowan.
The District Grand Lodge of Scotland—Prop. Wor. Bro. Thos. Soper; resp. Wor. Bro. F. E. Rabbits.

The District Grand Lodge of England—Prop. E. Pugh; resp. Wor. Bro. Joe Nunn.
Visiting Brethren—Prop. Bro. A. R. Martin; resp. Bro. S. K. Langmead.
Tasker; Harry Archibald, Hr. Grace; R. Duff, M.H.A., Carbonear; G. S. Butt, MacKay; H. E. Cowan, Northcliffe; J. Melvin, St. Andrew's; Thos. Soper, St. John's; W. Halsall, Hamilton, Bermuda; L. J. Harnum, Shannon Chapter.
Masonry—Prop. Wor. Bro. Dr. A. R. Anderson; resp. Bro. Rev. Canon Smart.

Tyler's Toast—Bro. W. C. Major, District Grand Tyler.

The singing of the National Anthem brought to a close one of the most interesting and enjoyable Masonic functions yet held in the young virile Lodge Heart's Content, also ringing down the curtain on the last installation ceremony of Scottish Freemasons Lodges outside St. John's for the year 1925. Nothing could give a more fitting description of the entire season's series of installations, than those beautiful words contained in that universally well-known song, sung at all these functions:

"THE END OF A PERFECT DAY."
When you come to the end of a perfect day,
And you sit alone with your thoughts,
While the chimneys ring out with a carol gay,
For the joy that the day has brought,
Do you think what the end of a perfect day
Can mean to a tired heart,
When the sun goes down with a flaming ray,
And the dear friends have to part?
Well, this is the end of a perfect day,
Near the end of a journey, too;
But it leaves a thought that is big and strong,
With a wish that is kind and true,
For memory has painted this perfect day,
With colors that never fade,
And we find at the end of a perfect day
The soul of a friend we've made.

The St. John's deputation left Heart's Content early Thursday morning, returning to the city at 12.30 a.m. and were loud in their praise of the splendid reception accorded them by their friends in the Cable City.

Municipal Council

WEEKLY MEETING.

The weekly meeting of the Municipal Council was held Thursday afternoon. Deputy Mayor Martin presided and Councillors Outerbridge, Collier, Ryan and Dowden were present.

After confirmation of Minutes of last meeting, attention was given the following:

Communication of the Newfoundland Motor Association in which they asked that repairs be made to Falk's Hill; also referring to the Blind Corner at junction of Water Street (near Hayward's Garage). The former will be looked after by the City Engineer, but as the latter is private property the Council cannot take action in the matter, other than to write the owners and ask their cooperation with a view to eliminating the danger point.

Mr. T. B. Clift complained of inconvenience caused the residents of LeMarchant Road and vicinity by cattle being allowed to roam at large. The Impounder has during the past week given particular attention to this and several other localities from which complaints were received, and a number of animals are at present in the public pound.

With regard to notification served on residents of Queen Street to repair or remove the plank sidewalk fronting their premises, Solicitor Fenelon, on behalf of one of the property owners, stated that as soon as the necessary authority is received arrangements will be made to carry out the wishes of the Council in this respect.

Mr. W. J. Kent applied for permission to build addition to the rear of his residence, Gower Street. Permit will be issued for same, subject to the approval of the City Engineer.

A discussion took place as regards the suggested diverting of the street railway route. It was pointed out that some of the Company's consulting engineers, following transfer of the property from the Reid Company, looked upon such an alteration as an impossibility owing to the steep grades which would have to be taken into consideration. The change in question was the elimination of Holloway Street and substitution of the Hill of Chips.

Attention was called to the fact that the lights at the National Memorial, King's Beach, have been out on several occasions recently. The Executive of the G.W.V.A. will be written regarding same.

With regard to the claims made by the St. John's Gaslight Company, Water Street West, and Branscombe's Estate, Waldegrave Street, for damages to their respective properties, the City Engineer informed the Board that at the time in question all the City sewers were overcharged, particularly those on the lower levels. A copy of his report on the matter is to be forwarded the City Solicitor for his opinion as to the position of the Council.

The application of Robinson & Co. for surface drain, Duckworth Street, was granted and the Engineer's Department instructed accordingly.

The following matters were referred to the Engineering Department:
(1) Placing of a plank platform at East End Cabstand, for the convenience of cabmen and taxi drivers.
(2) Repairing of steps in the Lane West of the Telegram building.
(3) The repairing of retaining wall and steps at Crimp's property, Long's Hill.

The City Engineer reported on the work performed by the Waterworks and Sewerage Departments for the week. He stated the following roads are receiving the attention of the Roads Department:—Pennywell, Signal Hill and Cooktown Roads, and Henry Street; that Quidi Vidi Road is being oiled, and that arrangements have been made with the Electric Light and Telephone Companies for removal of the poles to new street line, LeMarchant Road.

The Medical Officer of Health reported no new cases of infectious disease in the City during the past week.

The Sanitary Supervisor submitted his usual weekly report on work of his Department.

With disposal of routine business, passing of accounts, granting of requisitions, etc., the meeting adjourned.

The Departure of Our Guests

To-morrow the distinguished guests from the Mother Country, who have spent a fortnight in the Island, will leave here on their homeward journey and with their work with them, we trust, as pleasant memories of the Oldest Colony as the whole community will long associate with their visit.

From the moment of their landing to the eve of their departure the members of the Imperial Parliamentary Delegation have had their time fully occupied. Their exhaustive enquiry into every phase of our community life has been by no means a light task, and has only been accomplished at considerable personal sacrifice, but in view of the important mission in which they have been engaged and the spirit which has prompted the undertaking, we feel certain that they are more than willing to overlook the claims made on their time and attention provided the object of their visit is attained.

And who can doubt that the result of this intimate acquaintance and the interchange of ideas at first hand can be anything but beneficial. So far as Newfoundland is concerned, our chief disadvantage in the past has been that in any discussions that have taken place in the Imperial Parliament touching upon our affairs there has been no one who could speak for us with personal knowledge of our position, and loyal as we are to the Mother Country and interested as we are in her many pressing problems, it required the personal reference to them such as Mr. Lunn made in the Board of Trade yesterday to enable us actually to visualize them and to realize fully just how real is the burden that she is carrying.

Needless to say, it is not with the idea of evoking sympathy that either the one country or the other has made its exact position plain. The visitors have been most reticent regarding such matters, and the Prime Minister in speaking for Newfoundland has clearly stated our desire and intention to carry on, but the spirit displayed by both sides in the face of difficulties can only tend to strengthen our mutual regard and respect.

The discussions which have taken place during the conferences have not been in the form of an exchange of platitudes or pleasantries, but have dealt with plain facts. The tour of the country has not only included such industries as are prospering but also those which require stimulating, and the visitors have also been shown the latent resources of which the lack of capital has prevented development. They have formed their own opinions in this matter, and we have no doubt that they are not of a superficial nature. As to the natural attractions, they have again and again referred to them in the most enthusiastic manner, and their favourable impression of the characteristics of the people of the Island has been expressed in unmistakable terms.

In bidding the members of the Delegation farewell and God-speed, we are confident that in entrusting the Oldest Colony's interests to them the country may do so with implicit faith, and that in the work of bringing the various parts of the Empire into closer touch, the Imperial Government could not have made a better choice of envoys. They have gained not only our respect but our warmest esteem.

Address by Dr. Hayden Guest

Before a large gathering in the Hall of the Memorial School this morning Dr. Hayden Guest delivered a most gripping address on the subject of School Clinics. Present and absent on the platform were His Excellency the Governor and Lady Allard, the Prime Minister and Mrs. Monroe, the Chief Justice and Mrs. Forwood, Principal J. I. Paton, Dr. W. W. Blackall, Rev. Fr. Flynn, Rev. Dr. Curtis, Dr. and Mrs. Burke, Major Shand, Hon. A. E. Har-vey, Guest Dr. Macpherson, Messrs. Wood, Harrington and S. P. Whiteaway.

The Hon. W. S. Monroe introduced Dr. Hayden Guest to the audience in a brief speech in which he referred to the importance of the movement and of the wide experience of the speaker in such matters.

Dr. Hayden Guest, of whose address we regret that owing to the lack of time before press hour we cannot give a fuller account, but which will be published in greater detail on Monday, spoke of the climatic conditions in so far as he was able to observe. He expressed the opinion that they did not strike him as conducive in any way to a low standard of health but the very reverse. The vital statistics, however, which he had studied indicated that something was lacking, and he was of the impression that this was largely due to the lack of attention paid to the question of food values and to the ordinary rules of health.

Dr. Guest said that in the various settlements visited he had observed the children, and regretted to find that a considerable number suffered from defective eyesight and appeared underdeveloped and undernourished. The difficulties in these matters were similar to those of other countries, although the geographical distribution of the population in Newfoundland made the solution of the problem somewhat different. He referred to the great work which had been accomplished elsewhere by means of school clinics and Child Welfare centres, and paid a great tribute to Miss Anderson for the manner in which she was carrying on the movement in St. John's. The establishment of school clinics meant the application of medical science to child life with a new object, namely the checking in the preliminary stages of complaint before it had a chance to become serious, and it had, as well a great educational value.

Speaking of the prevalence of consumption, Dr. Guest said that it was in spite of, and not because of the climatic conditions. "You can not," he remarked, "have tuberculosis in this country; you have no business to have it, and he believed that when greater care was exercised in the matter of nourishment and hygiene it would disappear. Throughout his remarks Dr. Guest showed the greatest optimism as to the progress of health in the country, and he stressed the need of bringing education within the reach of everyone.

A vote of thanks was moved by Rev. Dr. Curtis, seconded by Dr. W. W. Blackall, and having been put to the gathering by the Prime Minister, was carried by acclamation. The National Anthem brought the proceedings to a close.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES
 Meeting Bright this morning, a fellow that is always much concerned about his clothes, he in great distress since he has just purchased several dress shirts of the one size type and must now discard them since the newest fashion do call for the studs. This the silliest thing he did ever hear of, seems how men must ever worry, since if they have no serious troubles needs must they find themselves some petty ones.

At St. Thomas's
 To-morrow is "Labadour Sunday" at St. Thomas's Church. The Rev. Henry Gordon, M.A., lately of Cartwright, will preach both morning and evening services and will also address the Sunday School in the afternoon. This will be the last opportunity to hear Mr. Gordon who leaves by the Sackem on Tuesday to become Vicar of St. James', Liverpool.

The New Season's Coats and Dresses are beginning to arrive in town. ATRE & SONS, LTD., are opening their first shipment to-day. The models are really smart, something entirely different. All grades and prices are featured.

Job's Sealfishery Company, Limited

A new company has been floated by Messrs. Job Bros. & Co., Ltd., for the purpose of acquiring steamships to engage in the sealfishery.

The provisional directors are: Messrs. R. B. Job, H. R. Brooks, Sir M. G. Winter, Reginald C. Harvey and Hon. W. S. Monroe.

Messrs. Job Bros. & Co., Ltd., will be the Managing Directors and we are informed that the company has taken over the s.s. Lake Como, a steamer recently purchased by them, together with their other two sealing steamers, the s.s. Neptune and Thetis. The s.s. Lake Como is a steamer having a deadweight capacity of 2760 tons. Since coming into the hands of Messrs. Job Bros. & Co., Ltd., she has been surveyed and classed 100A1 at Lloyd's. At the present moment she is in Glasgow and is now in the hands of prominent builders, with whom a contract has been made for the construction of a new bow, stern frame and all other necessary changes to fit her for the sealfishery.

It is anticipated that when the alterations have been made she will be equal in strength and ice breaking qualities to any of the steel steamers that prosecuted the sealfishery in the past. The steamer has been examined by competent authorities with respect to her suitability for the sealfishery and she has been pronounced an excellent ship in this respect. She will resemble more closely a s.s. Nascopie and s.s. Adventure than any other steel sealers of the past. The specification of alterations necessary to equip her for the sealfishery has been prepared by the well known firm of naval architects who designed the s.s. Nascopie, s.s. Floréal and s.s. Stephano and more recently the s.s. Caribou.

It is gratifying to observe from the list of names of those associated with this new company that our leading business people have confidence in the future of the sealfishery and are showing their faith by large investments of this sort.

We understand that the name of the s.s. Lake Como is likely to be changed at an early date to that of s.s. Beochic II., and we speak her at least as much success as her predecessor of that name whose average catch was 28,000 seals per annum.

It is expected that Capt. George Barbour will take command of the s.s. Lake Como at the next sealfishery.

DANCE

"GAIETY" HALL, TUESDAY NEXT, SEPTEMBER 8th.
 (In aid of the C.C.C. Hall debt)
 On Tuesday next, September 8th, the FOURTH Dance of the series in aid of the C.C.C. Hall debt takes place in the "Gaiety" Hall, and no doubt this event will prove as popular and enjoyable as the three previous ones.

The Prince's Full Orchestra will again render the music, and the prices will be the same. Therefore, if you are anxious to enjoy a really good Dance, make no engagements for Tuesday next for the Big Dance at the "Gaiety" Hall.

NOTE—For the past two days this Dance was advertised to take place on Wednesday next, September 9th, but through no fault of our own, we are compelled to change the date to Tuesday, September 8th, owing to the Prince's Orchestra having to go to Bell Island for Wednesday next. Please remember the change—Tuesday, September 8th.—Sept. 5.

 OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 5.
 "For goodness sake, let us have the United States labor movement with your ideals; the mentality of the movement there is still in the nineteenth century. Walkden, the fraternal delegate from the British Trades Union Congress at the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, speaking here last night. He drew an intimate picture of the ideals of the British labor movement.

CHILD WELFARE

HEALTHY BABIES.
 "An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure."
BABY'S CLOTHES.

The prize winner of the small competition that was announced in our Saturday column on August 15th, was Mrs. Hamlyn, 166 Hamilton Avenue. We thought it might interest some mothers to read her answers.

"Why do we dress baby in long clothes?—I do not approve of long clothes, unless they are born in the cold season, then of course they provide extra warmth for the baby's feet. It seems to me more of an old custom which we cannot depart from than a necessity. There is a medium and course I found with my two babies that clothes of 24 in. was just the thing and ever so much easier to launder."

"I am perfectly sure a baby needs no binder. Why should the little body be hampered. Baby will stretch and kick and grow quite well without a binder. I have often seen babies dressed like little mummies and have wondered how they have managed to get on at all. I resolved my babies should be free to kick and roll as they please. I certainly do not believe in baby binders."

Birthday Greeting

(N.B. Weekly).
 From recent exchanges from St. John's we learn that our genial friend, Mr. H. F. Shortis, celebrated his seventeenth birthday on Aug. 19th. Though it may appear somewhat late, the "Weekly" extends its felicitations to Mr. Shortis on having reached the three score and ten years and we feel sure all our readers will join with us in this expression.

Mr. Shortis' love for the homeland and the deep interest he has ever shown in the traditions of the seafaring population of the colony are well known to readers of the Weekly. As a writer, Mr. Shortis is probably the best authority on these matters in Newfoundland to-day, and in his position as official historiographer he has access to the government archives, from which he can glean authentic data.

From time to time, the Weekly has had the privilege of publishing articles from Mr. Shortis' pen, and from the many encomiums we have heard we know how these interesting stories of bygone days are appreciated by hundreds of our readers.

We trust that Mr. Shortis will enjoy many years of activity in the important position he now holds.

Munceaster Here and Gone

S. S. Munceaster, Capt. Simmons, arrived in port at 6.30 p.m. yesterday from Boston via Halifax, bringing the following passengers:—Mary Morel, Charles Little, Iva Little, May Davis, Henry Sebastian, Luis Sebastian, Mabel Schwartz, Nellie Curran, Bernard Keefe, Annie Keefe, Brymer Roberts, Margaret Simmons, Bartholomew Haviland, Viola Haviland, Marjorie Haviland, Daniel Cummings, Bridget Cummings, Anastacia Doyle, Ephesus Carroll, Lucy Carroll, George Hamlin, Mary Hamlin, Lucie Yallowley, Lucille Lent, Joseph Collins.

To Give Body Building Exercises

PROFESSOR SEELYE.
 Builder of The Body Beautiful.

I have now opened office for business in the Renouf Building, Duckworth Street, and will be very pleased to enroll men, women, boys and girls who wish to improve their beauty form. I will give you the proper exercise to suit your age and condition, have exercises that cover the age from 3 years up to any age, as long as you can walk, sit and stand without help. I guarantee to make weak men strong, and old men youthful, and the work which I give you will not interfere with any other work or business you may be employed at. You only need to call at my office once a week, and carry out the instructions as given in your form, either before going to bed or just after getting up in the morning. All I ask you to do is just work 15 minutes a day at the exercise. It is well worth your while to follow my system of training for the short time of three months for a perfect body. It is a scientific training of 13 lessons. One lesson each week, all for the small sum of $10.00. Friends, don't waste any time in thinking it over; come right along to my office on Monday next, September 7th, and get started on the road to better health.

Local Preacher M.P. at Wesley Church

Amongst the twelve members of the British Parliamentary delegation are men of varied calling and avocations. It will be news to a great number that one is a Methodist local preacher in full standing in the Wesleyan Methodist Conference of England. Mr. J. J. Lawson has been engaged in that work in addition to his daily calling ever since he was quite a young man and delights to converse about it. The people of St. John's and especially the congregation of Wesley Church, will have an opportunity of hearing and welcoming this distinguished visitor at that Church on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. C. H. Johnson will conduct the service and Mr. Lawson will give a message of greeting from the Wesleyans of the Old Land to those of St. John's. Mr. Lawson has represented Chester-Le-Street, County of Durham, since 1919, and judging by the majority he received at last election must have been a very popular candidate. He polled 22,700 votes against his opponents 9,250.

Conference Between British and Nfld. Members of Empire Parliamentary Association

The second session of the conference between the delegates from the United Kingdom and Newfoundland branches of the Empire Parliamentary Association was held yesterday in the Council Chamber opening at 10 o'clock a.m. Capt. H. Douglas King, C.B.E., D.S.O., M.P., presided. Before the formal business was taken up, the president of the Legislative Council announced that Colonel Crookshank had made a valuable contribution to the Library in that he had made a presentation of a valuable work which he himself was the author of.

Capt. King then formally opened the Conference with a brief but fluent address, saying in part:

CAPT. KING PRESIDES.

Capt. King, I think it a happy inspiration that it should have been arranged that one of the delegates should preside at this morning's meeting. It is in keeping with the hospitality of this country and it shows the spirit that we want fostered between the branches of this Association. This branch has recently re-started and I am glad to see that it is in line with the aims for which the Association stands. I have a great belief in the Empire Parliamentary Association. It is only by this means can we come to understand the real needs of the Empire.

As your guests appreciate the help you have given us to realize the conditions of your country, I should like, especially, to thank Sir Patrick McGrath for the arrangement of our visit. It entails a lot of work and deserves a large amount of thanks. Yesterday Mr. Monroe welcomed us in an address and it would not be inappropriate to read a letter from our Prime Minister, Mr. Stanley Baldwin.

10 Downing Street, Whitehall, S.W. 1, August 8th, 1925.

My Dear King,

I write to you as the Chairman of the Parliamentary Delegation, which is to visit Newfoundland this summer as the guests of the Branch of the Empire Parliamentary Association in the Newfoundland. Parliament to ask you to convey to the delegation and Newfoundland Parliament the best wishes of my Government for the success of the visit.

I trust that the Conferences between the delegates and the members of the Newfoundland Legislature, and the visits of the Delegates to the various parts of the Island, will have the effect of bringing before the minds of representative men in this parliament a thorough appreciation of the needs and aspirations of Newfoundland and the possibilities and resources of the country.

I regret that owing to the industrial difficulties in this country it was not possible for a member of the Cabinet to make arrangements to head the delegation, but I am sure that you will ably and satisfactorily represent the Government on this important mission.

I shall look forward to hearing all the news of your visit.

Yours sincerely,
STANLEY BALDWIN,
Capt. H. Douglas King,
C.B.E., D.S.O., M.P.

This letter shows the interest our Premier and our Government take in this visit. This Association is non-party in its character. I am sorry that there was not a Cabinet Minister with this delegation as a leader. To obtain one at the time was impossible. I can quite understand that you would appreciate having one come or four years an earnest and vigorous effort has been made to reach a settlement. At the end of 1922, the Newfoundland "Bribe" or "Case," was ready for submission to the other side, but a delay of 18 months ensued through various causes in Canada before the Canadian lawyers were able to have their "Bribe" ready. The cases were exchanged a couple of months ago and preliminary work on the "counter-cases" has now been started and will be pushed forward as speedily as possible. The Minister of Justice and Sir Patrick McGrath, who have been dealing with the case, will leave shortly to proceed to England in connection with the matter and we hope that before many months have elapsed the "Counter" cases will be completed and ready for exchange in the same way; once this has been done no further obstacle will exist to the submission of the matter to the Arbitration of the Privy Council. Suggestions were made to this Government last fall with a view to a conference in Canada looking to a settlement by agreement rather than by legal processes, and a delegation consisting of the Colonial Secretary, the Minister of Justice, and myself, with Sir Patrick McGrath as Advisor, visited Montreal and conferred with representatives of the Ottawa and Quebec Governments, but the parties were too far apart for any settlement to be reached. Reports have appeared in the press from time to time since usually in the form of despatches from the views of the Government of this Colony, but they are entirely unwarranted and unfounded.

Canada has recently held a Conference with representatives from the West Indies, and arrived at a mutual understanding for trade preference and closer relationship. The Legislators of Canada and the various islands will shortly be called upon to ratify these agreements, which if put into effect will be detrimental to our interests in these West Indies Islands where we market, more particularly, a large quantity of salt codfish. In the agreement arrived at, Clause VIII provides that there shall be no interference with any existing preference or with the granting of any future preference by the Dominion or by any of the said Colonies to any other part of the British Empire, or with any existing preference or the granting of any future preference by the Dominion or by any of the said Colonies to any other part of the British Empire, or with any existing preference or the granting of any future preference by the Dominion or by any of the said Colonies to any other part of the British Empire.

THE PRIME MINISTER'S ADDRESS

Hon. W. S. Monroe. The relation of Newfoundland to the external parts of the Empire seems to be that of a connecting link between the Mother Country and Canada, and a very necessary and useful link at that.

With its trade conducted by men of British descent, its industries prosecuted with British Capital and separated from these American influences which are especially powerful in Western Canada, the Colony is very British in its abiding sentiments and desires to remain, if need be, the last, as it was the first, of Britain's Colonies. There is no desire in the Colony for annexation to the United States and very little for Confederation with Canada, nor has the delusion of independence manifested itself. The wish of Newfoundland is to remain a British Colony.

This being so, Great Britain should foster the connection which is strategically vital in war and peace. She should especially foster the mining resources of the Colony. Our iron ore should feed her furnaces. Britain is at present largely dependent on iron ore obtained in foreign countries, while Bell Island can supply that ore, which is the basis of her iron industry. In this way more particularly than any other, we feel our trade relationship could be strengthened.

Canada is our big sister and the members of the family (outside the Mother Country) with whom we are in closest touch, and it is desirable that our relationship should remain close and cordial. The Labrador Boundary is, however, a bone of contention between us.

In 1763, when Canada passed from French into British possession, by the Treaty of Paris, which the Treaty described as "the Coast of Labrador" was separated from the rest and assigned to Newfoundland. In 1774 this section was re-assigned to Canada. In 1809 it was passed back again to Newfoundland, and in 1825 there was a re-adjustment and a portion west of Belle Isle Strait, previously held by Newfoundland, was made part of Canada. Since then the areas have been unaltered. In those days and up to comparatively recent times the fisheries, represented the sole wealth of Labrador in which either country was interested, but during the past generation the development of the pulp and paper industries, especially in the Province of Quebec, no doubt suggested to the authorities in that Province the possibilities of Labrador as a great natural reserve of raw material for paper-making. About 25 years ago Quebec developed a claim to all of the Labrador Peninsula, except the merest strip of seaboard, which she was prepared to concede to our country. We in this country contended that the area to which we were entitled should extend to the whole area stretching back to the height of land draining into the Atlantic Ocean. In other words, we might be said to contend for what is known as the doctrine of the watershed. About 20 years ago Quebec took formal legal action to assert its claim to the territory by bringing suit in its own courts against people who were lumbering on Labrador under grants issued to them by the Newfoundland Government. This Colony, of course, felt itself bound to stand behind the lumbering concerns and assist them in the defence before the Provincial Courts. At a certain stage in the matter a decision was reached to submit the issue to the Privy Council, and action towards that end is now in progress. Various causes, such as changes of Government in Canada and in this country, the intervention of the war period, etc., delayed action, but within the past three West Indies without consultations with the other colonies as somewhat of a "dog in a manger" policy, and thought that the British Government in an advisory capacity could and would do it. It is felt that there would be no discrimination or preference to the detriment of Newfoundland trade.

Hon. A. R. Morine stated that Canada had not made an agreement with the West Indies which debared other Colonies from doing the same. As a matter of fact a clause had been inserted in the treaty which especially stated that other colonies would be at liberty to make the same treaty if they so desired to do so. As regards relations of the Privy Council to the Colonies he felt that there was absolute confidence existing in that body. It was regarded in Newfoundland, as for the most part in Canada, as one of the great pillars of the British Empire. He suggested that one good item could be done for Newfoundland, and that was for the Mother Country as soon as possible to acquire for Newfoundland the Islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon. It would save endless trouble for Canada and Newfoundland and be very beneficial to both. American rights on the West Coast were lucidly discussed, and a decision as to the liabilities of Newfoundland thereabout. He trusted that the seed sown in these conferences would in the near future come to full flower in the discussions that would take place in the British House of Commons when Newfoundland affairs would be discussed.

Mr. Wm. Lunn thought that this topic was the most delicate and the most difficult of the three to discuss. The speeches of the Prime Minister and Mr. Morine were particularly interesting to him. The speech of the Prime Minister breathed a spirit of generosity in characterizing Newfoundland fashion. It showed a spirit to compromise as regards the dispute between Newfoundland and Quebec rather than have litigation. The effort had failed but the spirit was magnificent. He discussed the protocol and said he was in favour of the Colonies of the Empire being consulted in all matters affecting them when any treaties or agreements were being made by the Mother Country. The interest of the whole Empire should be considered when dealing with External Affairs and not any one part alone. Newfoundland should assert her views, and he assured the members that they would receive favorable consideration and be backed by the present delegation of members from the Imperial Parliament.

Mr. Lawson thought the subjects of yesterday and to-day were interwoven, especially from an economic standpoint. He was in entire agreement with the viewpoint taken by Mr. Lunn that the colonies and Dominions should be consulted on Foreign agreements that affect the Empire, but he could not help pointing out that consulting means responsibility which also meant the sharing of burdens. He was loyal to the British Empire, and pleased to see that Newfoundland could express itself in terms of outstanding loyalty as had been witnessed on every hand. He belonged to the Labor party (and by the way was Financial Parliamentary Secretary to the war office in the MacDonald administration) but he could not help but say that the standards of that party had undergone a complete revolution in the past five years or since he became a member of the House of Commons in 1919. He discussed labor conditions at Corner Brook and spoke in terms of appreciation of the way the company was looking out for the interests of their employees. The conditions on Bell Island were not so encouraging. The standard of living there left much to be desired and the social conditions in connection with housing, etc., were much to be regretted. He saw conditions on Bell Island that he could not endorse. He thought it poor business on the part of the company that more attention was not paid to these matters.

Mr. Galbraith, K.C. said he had had an interview with the Chief Justice this morning in connection with matters as they pertained to the standing of the Privy Council in Newfoundland. This was a mission that had been entrusted to him by the Bar of England and he was pleased to say that the Chief Justice had received him very courteously and he had been able to obtain all the information necessary and would report to the Bar of England immediately on his return. Sir Patrick McGrath. It was stated at the dinner last evening that I was a purveyor of information and it is in this capacity that I rise to make a few remarks. I will deal first with the subject of migration and settlement which I could not discuss yesterday, as I was acting as Chairman.

With reference to the question raised by Mr. Galbraith yesterday as to the quantity of ground suitable for farming, it may be said that in 1898, a committee was appointed to inquire into this matter. Its Chairman was the late Bishop MacDonald, a Cape Breton Scotchman, with a great knowledge of such matters. They found that there were 5,000 square miles of land in this country, suitable for agriculture. There has not been another estimate made since. As to the cost of clearing land the Thorburn Government offered a bonus to any one clearing land of $20.00 an acre. The cost of clearing land was about $80.00 an acre but where there is timber on the land it pays for the clearing in most cases. The same Government built some roads for the purpose of opening up a market for the products of these farms and they helped to make them a success. When the Bond Government came in it built a model farm, and brought down an expert on the subject, but a great deal of criticism and discontent was shown and this policy was abandoned. The Morris Government of 1910 inaugurated an agricultural policy and gave the same price for an acre. It was estimated that the cost of clearing was $100.00 an acre in those times. That policy might have continued but for the war. In 1920 the Squires Government took another step forward and built a model farm with Hon. Dr. Campbell in charge. There had been agricultural societies formed but because of the unrest following the war these collapsed. We import about 40,000 barrels of potatoes and grow about 500,000 barrels. There is thus not the development possible in regard to potatoes which some speakers thought. With regard to emigration and the difficulties in the way, we should note the geographical peculiarities of our country that make us different and apart from other countries so that ordinary methods will not apply. Our square mileage is 42,000 and our population is about 262,000 but we should bear in mind that our population is situated on the coast. You will understand better if you know that there are 8,200 miles of coast line. On this there are 1,560 settlements of which over 1,100 are composed of less than forty families. The difficulties of administration and transportation will be seen more easily, therefore. The most these people can do is to grow enough for themselves though it is our practice to deny our possibilities. I might say that I know of one settlement where, in the old days, say about 50 years ago only one family had a horse and cow; now, however, every family has them and practically all the other requirements of the farm as well. This I know from a man who speaks from knowledge of such things. The suggestion is that we import too much of farm produce raisable here, but when all things are considered, I do not think we have done badly in fifty years. Although the neighbouring provinces of Canada have decreased in population, Newfoundland has held its people. Take the case of Prince Edward Island. It is termed "The Garden of the Gulf." Stone has to be imported to build the roads and the soil is as rich as in any part of Canada. Despite these facts the population is smaller than it was at the time of Confederation. Fifty years ago the population was 92,000. Thirty years after 110,000, and now it is down to 88,000. Nova Scotia has the same proportion to face. There the increase is only 2 per cent the past ten years. The explanation is that emigration is flowing to the United States and Western Canada. New Brunswick is increasing its population. There the increase is 8 per cent, due to the fact that the French Canadian families are overflowing from Quebec into that province. The population in 1870 in Newfoundland was 147,000 and fifty years later 262,000, or say about 90 per cent, and that of the Maritime Provinces in 1870 was 768,000 and the same number of years later 1,001,000 or little better than 40 per cent. In comparison with this we have nothing to be ashamed of.

Can You Picture This Happy Baby?

When Woodward's Grape Water enters the home baby's tears of pain are turned to smiles of comfort and content. Read this pleasing letter from Mrs. Facer, 41, Ben Jonson Road, London, E.C.1. Enclosed is a photograph of baby, who has taken Woodward's Grape Water since she was two weeks old and who always laughs when we shake the bottle before giving her a dose. Baby has two teeth—cut them at her a dose. She was not cross at all. She sleeps all the night through after her dose of Grape Water. I cannot speak highly enough of your Grape Water.

Woodward's Grape Water is a perfect remedy for babies' stomach troubles and teething pains, and is equally good in larger doses for most internal disorders of older children and adults. It is free from opiates and all enjoy its pleasant flavour.

WHAT ISN'T GOOD CONVERSATION.

What is good conversation? A Letter Friend who says that I used that phrase the other day wants to know what I think constitutes good conversation. It is always easier to define people sometimes drift into a conversation like that, but just the same, that doesn't make it good conversation. Long tales about your friends or relatives that your hearers don't know and don't give a darn about. No Sense Of Conversation Values. This sort of thing, a city is mentioned and the woman who has no perfect assurance of all the world's interest in her family has this to contribute. "Lucille and her husband—that's my married daughter, you've heard me speak of her before—(they heard) had a chance to go there once, but her husband didn't think he'd like it. He hates hot weather and they say it's awfully hot there in summer. He never could stand the heat, and Lucille is the same. Even when she was a little girl, I had to dress her in the thinnest things. One of her children is just like that and the other is just the opposite. Paul can't stand the heat but little Lucy is cold blooded. I don't know where she gets it from. I'm very warm blooded myself. You ought to hear Lucy's father joke her about it. He says, etc."

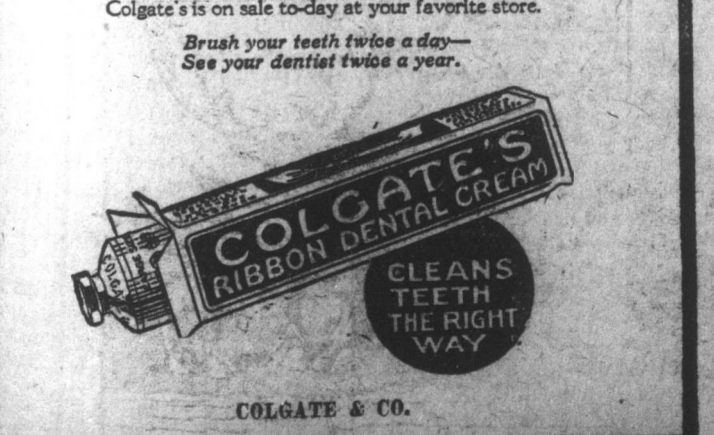

And I Said To Her. Any and all "And I said to her and she said to me" conversation. That is unless what you are telling is intrinsically dramatic and you are yourself a good dramatist. Who hasn't gone to sleep through a tale like this. "I never saw anyone so unreasonable as Alice Thorpe. You know we were on the committee together and she called me up and said, 'I think you ought to take that district

Sure To Be Deadly. The relation of the plot of a book or short story or moving picture. No more interesting thing was I read, the attempt to tell the story the plot is sure to be deadly. Talk about table preferences. This sort of thing. "Yes, I like melons, but we don't like me." "I eat everything in the world, except beans, but I simply hate beans." "There's just two things I don't like, carrots and slipper-socks." "Once when I was a little girl I made myself sick with watermelon, and I never have been able to eat the small of it since." "Oh, do you really like cold cereal. I can't understand it. I'd just as lief eat grass."

COLGATE'S Safe for a life time

Safety is the important thing to consider in your dental cream. Grit scrapes teeth clean—but it also scrapes enamel. Colgate's "Washes" and Polishes—Does Not Scratch or Scour. The taste of Colgate's is so pleasant that children use it regularly and willingly. The Colgate habit is a safe health and beauty habit for children to form as soon as teeth appear.

because you have more time than the other woman. I said: 'Well, Alice, I guess you don't know all I have to do. She said 'But Jane, you haven't any children and all the other women have at least two,' and I said 'That's all right, Alice Thorpe, but they don't have a mother-in-law living with them who is sick half the time either.' And she said. . . . Any string of humorous anecdotes unless they are exceedingly amusing and exceedingly well told. An apropos anecdote now and then favors conversation, but too much ruins it. I realize that most of us fall at times into these conversational pitfalls. But some people don't fall into them. They just take up their habitation in them and are entirely satisfied with it.

The Hand That Rocks the Cradle

New York Times: When certain employers in France began paying higher wages for the same work to men who are married, and still higher wages in proportion to the number of children, there were those who denounced the innovation as uneconomic and utopian. According to the doctrine of the "classical" economists, it was. But in a few years it has extended to 10,000 establishments employing a million men. It has spread to 280,000 men in Belgium. Now it is seriously proposed in the colonies of New South Wales. Yet, it is the employers and not the wage earners who urge it.

It's the cutest little assortment of dainty toilettries imaginable, and just about sufficient for a short vacation. It is called the THREE FLOWERS Travellette and can be had at any drug or dept. store for fifty cents. sept.4, w.s.t.f

Ku Klux Un-American Says Hundred Percenter

William Robinson Pattangall, former Attorney General and leading Democrat of Maine, who on the Klan's own definition is a hundred per cent. down-east, Protestant, all-American, in an interview with Stanley Frost in The Forum arraigns the Klan as un-American, as destructive of the very ideals it professes to be championing. "The fundamental wrong is in the Klan idea of what makes Americanism. It assumes that this quality can only be born in a man or woman who happens to see the light first on American soil, that it is born in all such, and that no one else can achieve it. This hardly needs more than to be stated to be proved false. Test it by the teachings of Washington, of Jefferson, of Lincoln, of Roosevelt, of Wilson and it falls. Test it by the words of our Savior and it falls still more completely. The whole idea is not only opposed to our traditional national spirit, but to the whole spirit of true Christianity. It is a reversion to the old, cruel, religious hatreds. "Americanism, of course, is really an ideal and a spirit—faith is freedom, tolerance, humanity. It cannot discriminate because of color, birthplace, or creed; nor can it tolerate caste, class, or religious distinctions in politics, social life, or legal standing; especially it cannot for a moment endure the breeding and exploitation of hatred and prejudice as a means to sway public opinion and win political power. The Klan, on its own statement, does just these things, and makes a virtue of doing them. "The Klan, drawing these lines, and exploiting prejudice as a means to power, goes openly into politics, and emphasizes in every way this un-American procedure, which the worse of the bodies it attacks practise only in secret and by stealth. It boasts of doing the very things which it attacks most bitterly in the classes against which it preaches discrimination and which it holds up as proof of their unfitness for citizenship! "The Klan seeks a secret hold on legislators, judges, and other officials. It uses that hold to enforce its own demands, abandoning completely the American principle of rule by and for all. It maintains expensive lobbies, it acts secretly in both parties, it tries constantly for control—secret control—of elections, legislatures, and government. And again it has the effrontery to advertise all this as a great principle. In comparison with this enormous evil such harm as it may do by an occasional whipping or lynching, or by interference with private liberty, is unimportant."

Child's Crime of Imitation

At Ossa de Montiel, a boy, aged 7, watched his mother prepare a lamb's head for a meal, cutting off the ears and the tongue, extracting the eyes, and placing it on the fire to boil. Later the mother left the boy in charge of the one-year old baby. When she had left the house he took the

"The most remarkable proposal" we know of was made at St. Louis by Charles Kruger, a stage performer, one of whose most sensational performances was to catch with his hands a lady who dived through the air from a great height in a desperate "leap for life." One night as he caught her in her downward flight and had her swinging in the air, he proposed to her: and before the cheers had died away he had secured her consent to be his wife.

A WISE.
This I should like to be:
Big in my little way,
Malice and envy free,
Strong through the day;
Willing my task to do,
Patient and fair,
Into my fellows true,
Humble in prayer.

Past purse and pride I'd go,
Striving to find
More ways than now I know
How to be kind,
Faithful to every trust
True to my light,
Honest and clean and just,
Keeping the right.

When the brief race is run
This be my praise:
Whether I've lost or won,
Manly my ways;
Though in life's mire and scum
Often I fall,
God grant my soul may come
Clean through it all.

Fought Hungry Horde

OF SHARKS ABOUT DORY TO RESCUE FISHERMEN.

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—A thrilling experience was related by members of the crew of the schooner Hazel Jackson, Capt. Robert Jackson, which landed 118 sword-fish at the South Boston fish pier yesterday.

The captain was compelled to drive his vessel through a shark-infested water to rescue one of the crew who was some distance away from the vessel. When Capt. Jackson saw the dory it was surrounded by sharks. They were feeding on a big sword-fish which the fishermen had exhausted and drawn alongside the dory. The sharks surrounded the small boat, and despite the frantic efforts of the man to drive them away with the oars they continued to devour the carcass of the sword-fish. The man in the dory said the sharks killed the sword-fish.

The Hazel Jackson stocked about $5,000 and each member of the crew will receive about $50 as his share of the proceeds.

Platinum Frauds

HALL MARK NEEDED. Frauds are being practised so extensively on the public by a dishonest section of jewellery traders in regard to the sale of platinum goods that it has become urgently necessary for a hall-mark to be authorised by law for this metal. Platinum has become by far the most fashionable setting for jewellery and its value, which is considerably greater than that of gold, is an inducement to fraudulent exploitation. The most common type of dishonesty is passing off as platinum what is only a mixture of gold and silver. This composition is known as "white gold," and the worst cases so far detected have been its use in the making of watch Alberts which were sold as platinum at the commercial value of that metal.

"Without the ice-man," I inform her, "We'd find existence foul, when summer days grow warm and warmer, and weather prophets and yonder, as measured by the arts, by pictures which make critics ponder, and books that break our hearts. We speak of music and the centers where it's the greatest game, of salons where the sculptor enters to reap a deathless fame. And all of this is fine, uplifting, but when the day is hot, one finds his ancient standard: shifting, the arts resemble rot. The culture that brings frozen water to every panting jay—excuse me while I ply my sweater—must hold the right of way. The looks of invalids caress him when he looms on the scene, the old and feeble gaze and bless him, he makes their lives serene. They bless the ice-man and his freezer, his wagon blue or pink," and Jane, she takes the lemon squeezer, and frames an ice cold drink.

BRITISH CAPTAIN REMOVES WEAPON AT MAGISTRATE'S WISH.
LONDON, Aug. 26.—(C.P.)—When a captain of a Territorial battalion appeared at Hull Police Court to conduct a series of prosecutions against members of his battalion, he was in uniform and wore his sword. "I am not sure I ought to hear you when you come into my court armed," remarked the magistrate. Captain Robinson at once removed his sword, and the Stipendiary continued: "In the High Court, a distinguished officer, in order to pay all honor to the court, appeared with a sword at his side, and Lord Esher, Master of the Rolls, said to him, 'What is that at your side, sir? You must not come here and terrorize the Court, sir.'"

They should be manufactured here, giving employment to our own people and a mill profit to the men who have the courage to build saw mills and pulp mills on our coast. We would go farther than that and say that both British Columbia and Canada would do well to set their faces sternly towards a policy which would demand that the products of our forests, our mines, our farms and our fisheries should be manufactured to the last possible degree of completeness before they are allowed to leave the country. Only so will Canada make the best of her great heritage.

Chinese Boycott American Goods

LIVERPOOL, England, August 24.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Liverpool Post says the boycott declared by the Cantonese Government against British and Japanese shippers has been extended to include United States goods. The Cantonese Government has officially notified United States firms and steamship lines having offices in Shanghai that all United States merchandise intended for Canton must be landed at Shanghai and re-shipped in Russian or Chinese boats. The reason given for the boycott is that quantities of British and Japanese goods have been smuggled into Canton under United States labels. Under the new system, the merchandise will be examined when landed in Shanghai for reshipment.

Pompeian FOR BEAUTY

have come to the realization that beauty consists of more than just regular features—that their attractiveness is greatly enhanced by personality and charm. That soft, delicate skin which is coveted by every woman is the result of the harmonious blending of cosmetics. The first essential is to select the correct shade of Powder and Rouge for your particular type of beauty. Pompeian Beauty Powder is scientifically blended so that one of the four shades will perfectly match any complexion. Be sure to follow this simple rule irrespective of the color of your eyes or hair and you will be delighted with the effect: If your skin is medium use Natural; if alive, the Rachel; if "rose-tinted," Flesh; while the White should be used in the daytime only if your skin is absolutely white and lacks all color. Ask also for Pompeian Fragrance (Rouge), Pompeian Day Cream, Pompeian Night Cream and Pompeian Bloom (Rouge).

Forty-Six Years in the Service of the Public—The Evening Telegram

Harbor Grace Notes

The death of Mr. Ernest Godden, son of the late Joseph Godden, occurred at his home, Water Street, on Monday morning. Although deceased had been ill for some months past, it was not expected that the end would come so soon. He had been suffering from an internal malady and went to St. John's in the spring to the hospital where he received treatment. Since returning he gradually weakened, being confined to his home for several weeks past. He carried on business here with his brother, Charles, known as the firm of C. & E. Godden, and had reached the age of 59 years. The late Mr. Godden was a quiet and unassuming demeanor, and a worthy citizen, whose passing is regretted. Besides his brother Charles, there is left to mourn his demise, one sister, Mrs. W. O. Wood, of St. John's, to whom we extend our sympathy in their hour of sorrow. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon to Christ Church and was largely attended. Interment was made in the Church of England Cemetery, Rev. G. Templeton officiating.

The friends here of Mr. Thomas Walsh, Riverhead, were surprised to learn of his almost sudden passing on Tuesday night. He had been about town on Monday, but was stricken with paralysis the following morning, and passed away a few hours later. Mr. Walsh was an enterprising business man, having conducted a grocery and provision shop at Riverhead and dealt also in the coal trade. The passing of Mr. Walsh means a loss to the town, and to the community in which he lived. He was widely known and highly respected, and his familiar form will be greatly missed. To the so suddenly bereaved wife and son, Patrick J., and all relatives and friends we extend deepest sympathy in their sad loss. The funeral will be held on Thursday, and interment made in the R. C. Cemetery.—R.I.P.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Davis, who passed away at the residence of her son, George, with whom she had lived, took place on Sunday, and she was laid to rest in the Church of England Cemetery. Mrs. Davis had reached an advanced age in life. Left to mourn are two daughters residing in the city, Mrs. Eugene Taylor and Mrs. Geo. Rowe, also a sister, Mrs. Wm. Lampen, two daughters living in the U.S.A., and one son, Mr. George Davis, cabman, of this town (and above mentioned), to all of whom we offer condolence.

Mrs. J. J. Norris and family arrived here last week from the city on a visit to her father, Mr. John Stapleton.

Miss Reta Parsons left here by Monday morning's train for Bay Roberts to resume teaching at the Methodist school there, after spending the holidays with her mother, Mrs. R. S. Parsons.

The various day schools will re-open again after the summer vacation on Monday next, Sept. 7th. We trust that the teachers and pupils have been greatly benefitted by the let-up from study, and will return to their tasks with renewed vigor.

The Sunday school of the United Church held their picnic at 'Connell's Farm, on Wednesday last. Races were gone through by the children and the usual outdoor games indulged in until the evening. At 5 o'clock tea was served in the open. The weather was ideal, and all present thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

The Salvation Army held their picnic in Mr. C. Kennedy's field, Bear's Cove, this afternoon—Wednesday. Tea was served in the field and games were played. They were favored with perfect weather, and the affair proved most enjoyable for the goodly number attending.

Miss Lizzie Griffin, of Mr. J. Max Cron's employ, who is on her holidays, left on Thursday last for Conception Harbor, to spend the remainder of her vacation with her parents there.

Capt. Campbell, S.A., who had been visiting his home, Little Bay Islands, for the past month, is now back to town again, having had a very pleasant visit.

Mrs. (Dr.) Frounzier and infant son, who had been spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Fugh, returns again by Thursday morning's train to Lamaline, after a pleasant stay at home.

Mr. Jack Tobin, Nfld. Govt. Railway Agent, Corner Brook, after spending his vacation here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Tobin, returned again by Thursday morning's train.

The many friends of Mr. H. F. Shortis were pleased to see him this way recently and to renew acquaintance, and to find him looking so well. We trust to see him back this way again in the not far distant fu-

Harkins Company

Frederick Neilson is a member of the W. S. Harkins Company, which opens a short season at the Casino Theatre, Monday, Sept. 14, in "The Acquittal." Mr. Neilson was born in Australia, in 1888 and began his professional career at the age of 15. His rise to the top was rapid as he early evinced unusual histrionic ability. One of his hobbies is travel, and in his touring of the world he has acted in eleven different countries. He arrived in the United States three years ago and his ability was soon recognized there, with the result that he was given the part of the Dean of Stair in the Gales worthy play "The Mob" which had a run of thirty-two weeks on Broadway. Last season he was with "The Goose Hangs High" and earned high praise from the New York press. The sale of seats for the Harkins Company opens at F. V. Chesman's, Water Street, Thursday.

Grandpa's Bones as Radio Weather Prophets

One of the mysterious things about the human body, says Dr. E. E. Free, Science Editor of The Forum, in the current issue of that magazine, is the remarkable "weather sense" exhibited by some people. Many an old gentleman who carries around a rheumatic joint or an old and long-healed wound can really predict some features of the weather, hours or even days in advance. Grandpa's rheumatism really seems to do quite as well as the official weather prophets with all their laboratories and observatories. There are too many instances of this sort for the matter to be entirely imaginary, even when one takes into account the proneness of the human mind to exaggerate a few successful coincidences into a general law.

There are some scientific possibilities, Dr. Free declares, which may lie at the bottom of this mysterious advance knowledge of coming storms. One is the existence of electromagnetic waves quite like radio waves. If a storm is electric in nature, if it is accompanied, for example, by thunder and lightning, it really sends out signals in advance in the form of these radio-like waves. One of the larger electric power companies in New York City has devised an instrument which will detect these storm waves in advance and ring a bell in the power house, so that the engineer knows that a storm is coming up. This information is valuable because storms darken the city, more artificial light is needed and the power house must prepare for the increased load.

It may be that some similar detection of radio waves by the tissues of the body lies at the root of the effect of coming weather on rheumatic individuals. On the other hand, the "weather sense" may be due to unconscious perception of some other obscure difference in the air or in the electric or magnetic condition of the earth's surface or the clouds. It is known that such differences exist; for example, the differences from day to day in the electric charges on the air particles, what the scientists call the "ionization" of the air.

Some basic scientific work is being done and is in prospect on these problems, says Dr. Free. It will soon be possible, he hopes, to determine whether the supposed detective powers of grandpa's rheumatism are real and are due to some of these suggested electromagnetic conditions, or whether they are merely imaginary.

'Neath the Summer Moon

IN THE FLOWER-SCENTED DARKNESS HE TOLD HER THE AGE-OLD STORY OF LOVE.

They sat alone together on the broad terrace, and the cool evening air was fragrant with the scent of many flowers. A wonderful moon was above them, and its pale rays bathed the girl's upturned face in a mellow, golden light that showed the beauty of her features to advantage.

The young man at her side gazed long and passionately at her, then began to pour out words of rapturous love and longing. The girl listened silently for a minute, then closed her eyes as if to enjoy more fully the wonder and romance of it all.

"I adore you, my dearest!" said the enamoured young man. "I worship your beauty and charm! Never have I seen anyone so truly fascinating, so angelic!"

Her eyes remained closed. After a few more words the young man bent forward and very softly touched the girl's lips with his own.

His Wrecked Romance.
 The girl said not a word, but her breath came in short tense gasps. For a few moments the enraptured youth gazed at her calm, lovely features, then once more he spoke:

"My beloved, I cannot live without you! I want to make you happy forever, my flower! I want you to share your life with me, my fairy queen! And again he bent forward and kissed her gently.

"You are the delight of my existence!" he went on after a pause. "Speak, my sweetest! Why don't you let me hear your divine voice?"

But the girl could not answer. She was not overcome with emotion. She was asleep, and had been sleeping for nearly five minutes.
