Guelph Evening Mercury

WEDNESDAY EV'G, MARCH 18, 1874. Town and County News

Y. M. C. A.—The library in connection with the Association will be open on Saturday evening.

NOON PRAYER MEETINGS.—A prayer meeting will be held each day during the week in the Wesleyan Church, at half-past twelve o'clock. The members and adherents of the several Protestant Churches in town are cordially invited to co-operate.

ACCIDENT.—On Saturday last, a little boy about three or four years old, son of Mr. J. H. Bishop, of this town, had his leg broken about midway between the knee and the hip. He was walking along on the sidewalk, and turning suddenly around fell upon the ice, with the above result. The little fellow is doing well.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM FIRE.—On Monday night the large flouring mills belonging to Mr. John Pipe, of this town, had a narrow escape from being burned. A coal oil lamp, which was hanging in the mill, exploded, setting fire to the floor. Fortunately the miller was in the mill at the time, and succeeded in extinguishing the fire before any material damage was done.

ACCIDENT.—A little two year old daughter of Mr. James Hewer met with an unfortunate accident last night (Tuesday). She is an active sprightly child, and in endeavoring to get down from her chair at the tea-table she fell to the ground before her mother had time to interfere, and broke her arm badly just above the elbow. Dr. Keating set the fracture, and the poor little one will be all right again after a time.

SOME burglarious talk was about town to-day in consequence of the proceedings of an insurance agent, who came to Guelph on Tuesday, and had an interview with Mr. J. B. Armstrong, of the latter's melon factory. The operation had to be performed during the night, some hours after the engine had ceased running. A joking remark previously made by the agent about blowing open a safe was repeated, and reached the ears of the night watchman, who dogged the stranger until he began his nocturnal work. A mutual explanation ensued, and the watchman was satisfied.

THE MANUFACTURERS.—A deputation of Canadian manufacturers arrived at Ottawa on Tuesday, and had an interview with the Minister in the afternoon. Among them were Messrs. Browne, of Belleville; Fitzgerald, London; Hamilton, St. Catharines; Young, Montreal; Raymond, Guelph; Sanford and Gurney, Hamilton; Barber, Streetsville; Hay, Toronto; McLean, Ingersoll; Foster, Waterloo; and Goshorn, Guelph. They discussed their views with reference to the encouragement of home manufactures, and protection in certain cases, and were courteously received by Hon. Mr. Cartwright. Afterwards they had an interview with the Premier.

GUELPH GENERAL HOSPITAL.—At a meeting of the Directors of the Hospital on Monday, the tenders for the erection of the new building, in accordance with Mr. Stewart's plans, were opened, and the contracts awarded as follows:—P. F. Chubb, for the brick and stone work, cut stone, plastering, drainage and excavating; W. A. Chubb, for the carpenter work; E. Sturdy for the painting; and Mills & Goodfellow for the finishing. The contract for plumbing is not yet awarded. The whole to be completed on or about the 1st of October, 1874. We are pleased to learn that the contracts—being a trifle less than $8,000—are under the estimate and cost of the work, and that there is every prospect that by the fall the institution will be completed and open to the public.

DASTARDLY OUTRAGE.—This forenoon a fiend in human shape decoyed a little girl of about five years of age, daughter of our respected townsman, Mr. Robt. Crawford, Jeweller, from the front of her father's store, on Wyndham St., and led her down to Mr. Peter Gow's bush, where he accomplished his purpose. He was seen proceeding towards the bush by some parties in the vicinity who suspecting that something was wrong followed the villain, but were too far behind to intercept him. Some commotion at the spot, however, drew attention to the fact, and he was in time to prevent the scoundrel from adding to his first crime that of murder. As soon as he saw that he was seen he bounded off, and was followed by one of the parties, but he was too far in advance to be overtaken. The child was brought home, and found to be considerably injured. A boiler inspector has been reported in time to prevent the scoundrel from adding to his first crime that of murder. As soon as he saw that he was seen he bounded off, and was followed by one of the parties, but he was too far in advance to be overtaken. POLICE COURT. (Before the Police Magistrate.) Wednesday March 18. Janet Leith and Dora Martin were brought up under the Vagrant Act, and committed to gaol for two months, with hard labor. George Hood, Guelph Township, was again charged by Policeman Turner with being drunk. Fined $5 and costs. Robt. Fraser was charged by Policeman Turner with drunkenness, and fined $1 and costs. Committed for ten days in default of payment. The ex-Empress Eugenie was on Tuesday visited by the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh. The persons named in the verdict of the jury upon the Komoka disaster were arrested on the Cooney's warrant, but subsequently bailed. They will stand their trial at the next Assizes. Archbishop Lynch left Portland on Tuesday afternoon en route for Toronto. The Y. M. C. A. in Berlin held a concert on Monday night, that was quite a success. The Election Court for the Province of Quebec opened on Monday morning at Montreal, and was adjourned until the 21st. Honorable mention is made of the Maine servant girl who is now serving her eighty-second winter under the same roof. She has washed dishes 89,700 times, and comes yet gaily to her task. Blessed old girl!

St. Patrick's Day in Guelph.

The Annual Dinner.

Last night (Tuesday) the St. Patrick's Society celebrated their anniversary by a dinner at the Queen's Hotel. Mr. F. J. Chadwick, the president, was in the chair, Col. Highbotham was first vice-chairman, and Mr. T. D. Heffernan second vice. Amongst the company were Mr. D. Stinton, M. P., Mr. James Laidlaw, Warden of the County, Mr. Harris, Mayor of Guelph, Mr. Howard, Rev. Mr. Jones, Mr. Jan Innes, President of the St. Andrew's Society, Prof. McCandless, Principal of the Agricultural College, Mr. Jas. Gow, Collector of Inland Revenue, &c., &c. The large room at the Queen's was set out with two long tables, extending nearly the whole length of the room, with a cross table at the top for the chairman and principal guests. A room to the left of the chairman's table was also laid out. There was sitting room for nearly a hundred, and a number of the seats were twice filled, so that there must have been not less than 120 or 130 persons. The gathering is undoubtedly the largest and most successful one of its kind that has ever been held in the town. The room was neatly decorated with festoons, pictures and national emblems. The dinner was on excellent one, and did great credit to Mr. Hines and his assistants. The viands were well chosen, we need not say, and well served. Tables having been cleared, the chairman read letters of apology from Rev. Archdeacon Palmer, Rev. Father Loynace, Rev. Mr. Wardrop, Rev. Mr. Ball, Capt Swinford, Col. Clarke, M. P., Dr. Orton, M. P., Mr. Reynolds, and Mr. McLagan, announcing their inability to attend, and their regret that this was the case. The chairman then gave the toast of "The Queen," which was drunk with cheers and musical honors. "The Prince and Princess of Wales and all the Royal family" was next heartily honored. "The Army, Navy, and Volunteers" came next, and was loudly cheered. Capt. Macdonald replied. He regretted that Col. Clarke was not here to respond to the toast. The deeds of the army and navy in past times were in their recollection, and in those deeds Irishmen had always been in the van and would be in all coming times. The volunteers for the Irishmen in it who had come under his notice had always stood shoulder to shoulder with the best in the force. He hoped that the day was not far distant when it would be recognized in fact as well as principle that the first duty a man owed to his country was his defence. He wished to express thanks for the manner in which the volunteers in this town and country had always been received. He remarked that in the camp at Windsor the County of Wellington had twice as many men on the field as any other county. "Song, Mr. Jessop, 'Noa McShane.'"

"The Dominion of Ireland" was then introduced by the Chairman, and the Ontario Legislature, coupled with the names of those members present. Mr. Stinton responded in suitable terms. He expressed the pleasure he had in being present, and paid a tribute to the warm-hearted and whole-souled character of Irishmen, who loved their native land, and the warm love of his native land made all the better son of his adopted country. "Song, Mr. Spriggins, 'The Anchor Weighed.'"

Col. Highbotham also acknowledged the toast on behalf of the House of Commons. He concluded by an apt reference to our great North-West, and said he thought it was the wish of the people of this country that that great territory should be brought within easy reach of all Canadians who wished to go there. He spoke of the great progress made by the St. Patrick's Society of late years, and thought such an evening as this was a great step in the pathway of life. For himself, when he met a gathering of Irishmen like this, animated by a common thought of and reverence for their native land, it brought back memories of that land and of his boyhood in a way that nothing else could. He thought they ought to take pattern from their friends the Scotchmen, in promoting more fraternity and liberality of feeling amongst themselves as brother Irishmen. (Loud applause.)

In proposing the next toast the chairman referred to the object of the St. Patrick's Society, and said that he had much pleasure in telling them that the funds were in a good state, that they had been able to provide for all the poor people who applied for relief, and that they had a good balance in hand. Mr. John Murphy, Guelph Township, responded. He said the occasion which has assembled us here this evening, is as great an event as it is a joyous one. This being the anniversary of Ireland's patron Saint, should be attempted to say anything on this occasion in the broad sounds or wild tones of his native Wicklow mountains, he claimed their indulgence. Many years had passed since he saw his green bosom rising o'er the ocean and gazed with wonder at her lofty mountains, rising in rude grandeur, until lost to view; since he sported upon the purple clad heather, or saw her sparkling fountains bounding o'er their mineral slopes, in foaming agitation, until joined by kindred streams, forming those beautiful rivers flowing through the verdant vales of Erin. But yet he imagined he saw them arising now before him, surrounded by white-capped cottages and princely mansions, and the ruined ivy clad seats of learning, where oft the saint, the warrior, the poet, and the bard, with the nobles of Europe, drank from those great schools of learning, and from time to time and in foreign climes, sang the praise of Erin, and from the emotions of their hearts said: "By nature blest, and Erin is her name. Who has ever read her history, or saw that gem of the ocean but loved her? Al though he loved her he was pained at the dissensions of her sons. For centuries past she has been robbed and persecuted by the stranger, through their dissension. But a bright future awaits her. The time is not distant, when the news will cross the ocean that Irishmen seated this evening on the shore of her classic rivers, and in her historic towers, singing the songs of their native plains and toasting to friends far away, shall have the right of legislation as we have in this Dominion of ours. And why not? We owe our allegiance alike to the same great nation, and Irishmen have always been ready to fight her battles and add fresh laurels to her crown. She is bound by the laws of God and man to protect and do justice to her subjects. Why, he asked, should not that "black slab" that declares not the name of our martyred Emmet be inscribed and a monument erected to his grave greater than our round towers? There is no Irish man or woman who would not subscribe to that great national monument, to show their unity, their love of Erin and for her martyred son. It has been insultingly said that Irishmen are unfit to govern their native land. For aghast has been governed by her sons, and through their wise and just legislation, they have won for her the imperishable name of the Island of heroes, of saints, and of sages. Irishmen have held and are holding regal positions, directing and governing nations; we have McMahon in France, a Nugent in Austria, an O'Donnell in Spain, a Duffy in Austria, a Blake and Dufferin in Canada, and we would be ungrateful to forget our own McGee. If we differ on any point whatsoever from our fellow-Canadians, let us brothers be for a 'that,' and be as one, to advance the prosperity of this Dominion, and keep alive our attachment to mother land. In conclusion he would quote a stanza from one of his father's poems, written to a friend twenty years ago—"Many party dissensions be banished for ever, and let us be united, both Orange and Green; May our children, as free men, be valiant and clever. To maintain this fine Province, themselves, and the Queen."

Mr. Edward O'Connor also responded. Upon this night, he said, Irishmen all over the habitable globe, with hearts as true as theirs, were met to honor their patron saint. They in Guelph were met to give expression to the sentiments of national love, of devotion to their adopted country, and of Christian fellowship to their fellow-men—sentiments unwarped by sectarian bitterness, national antipathy, or personal animosity; and these feelings would prevail wherever the memory of St. Patrick was cherished. He spoke in glowing terms of the great and good man St. Patrick, who had brought Erin from the empire of idolatry to be the beautiful Island of Saints. He referred to the time when Ireland was a great seat of learning, the seat of all Europe, and spoke sadly of the contrast between that period and her after-history of suffering and wrong. He hoped the time was not far distant when Irishmen at home would enjoy the same privileges as Irishmen in Canada. It was a slander to say that the Irish people were not fit for self-government, when we found Irish statesmen legislating with wisdom and prudence in other lands. They in Canada ought to ask these legislative privileges for their friends at home. They who enjoyed the many blessings of a free and happy life in this broad Dominion should not forget their less favored brethren at home, and be sure they did not. He spoke in eloquent terms of Ireland's great poets, orators, soldiers, statesmen, and divines. Whilst they still fostered in their hearts an undying love for their native land, they would none the less labour to advance the power and resources of their adopted country. They wished to express thanks for the manner in which the volunteers in this town and country had always been received. He remarked that in the camp at Windsor the County of Wellington had twice as many men on the field as any other county. "Song, Mr. Jessop, 'Noa McShane.'"

But yet he imagined he saw them arising now before him, surrounded by white-capped cottages and princely mansions, and the ruined ivy clad seats of learning, where oft the saint, the warrior, the poet, and the bard, with the nobles of Europe, drank from those great schools of learning, and from time to time and in foreign climes, sang the praise of Erin, and from the emotions of their hearts said: "By nature blest, and Erin is her name. Who has ever read her history, or saw that gem of the ocean but loved her? Al though he loved her he was pained at the dissensions of her sons. For centuries past she has been robbed and persecuted by the stranger, through their dissension. But a bright future awaits her. The time is not distant, when the news will cross the ocean that Irishmen seated this evening on the shore of her classic rivers, and in her historic towers, singing the songs of their native plains and toasting to friends far away, shall have the right of legislation as we have in this Dominion of ours. And why not? We owe our allegiance alike to the same great nation, and Irishmen have always been ready to fight her battles and add fresh laurels to her crown. She is bound by the laws of God and man to protect and do justice to her subjects. Why, he asked, should not that "black slab" that declares not the name of our martyred Emmet be inscribed and a monument erected to his grave greater than our round towers? There is no Irish man or woman who would not subscribe to that great national monument, to show their unity, their love of Erin and for her martyred son. It has been insultingly said that Irishmen are unfit to govern their native land. For aghast has been governed by her sons, and through their wise and just legislation, they have won for her the imperishable name of the Island of heroes, of saints, and of sages. Irishmen have held and are holding regal positions, directing and governing nations; we have McMahon in France, a Nugent in Austria, an O'Donnell in Spain, a Duffy in Austria, a Blake and Dufferin in Canada, and we would be ungrateful to forget our own McGee. If we differ on any point whatsoever from our fellow-Canadians, let us brothers be for a 'that,' and be as one, to advance the prosperity of this Dominion, and keep alive our attachment to mother land. In conclusion he would quote a stanza from one of his father's poems, written to a friend twenty years ago—"Many party dissensions be banished for ever, and let us be united, both Orange and Green; May our children, as free men, be valiant and clever. To maintain this fine Province, themselves, and the Queen."

Mr. Edward O'Connor also responded. Upon this night, he said, Irishmen all over the habitable globe, with hearts as true as theirs, were met to honor their patron saint. They in Guelph were met to give expression to the sentiments of national love, of devotion to their adopted country, and of Christian fellowship to their fellow-men—sentiments unwarped by sectarian bitterness, national antipathy, or personal animosity; and these feelings would prevail wherever the memory of St. Patrick was cherished. He spoke in glowing terms of the great and good man St. Patrick, who had brought Erin from the empire of idolatry to be the beautiful Island of Saints. He referred to the time when Ireland was a great seat of learning, the seat of all Europe, and spoke sadly of the contrast between that period and her after-history of suffering and wrong. He hoped the time was not far distant when Irishmen at home would enjoy the same privileges as Irishmen in Canada. It was a slander to say that the Irish people were not fit for self-government, when we found Irish statesmen legislating with wisdom and prudence in other lands. They in Canada ought to ask these legislative privileges for their friends at home. They who enjoyed the many blessings of a free and happy life in this broad Dominion should not forget their less favored brethren at home, and be sure they did not. He spoke in eloquent terms of Ireland's great poets, orators, soldiers, statesmen, and divines. Whilst they still fostered in their hearts an undying love for their native land, they would none the less labour to advance the power and resources of their adopted country. They wished to express thanks for the manner in which the volunteers in this town and country had always been received. He remarked that in the camp at Windsor the County of Wellington had twice as many men on the field as any other county. "Song, Mr. Jessop, 'Noa McShane.'"

"The Dominion of Ireland" was then introduced by the Chairman, and the Ontario Legislature, coupled with the names of those members present. Mr. Stinton responded in suitable terms. He expressed the pleasure he had in being present, and paid a tribute to the warm-hearted and whole-souled character of Irishmen, who loved their native land, and the warm love of his native land made all the better son of his adopted country. "Song, Mr. Spriggins, 'The Anchor Weighed.'"

Col. Highbotham also acknowledged the toast on behalf of the House of Commons. He concluded by an apt reference to our great North-West, and said he thought it was the wish of the people of this country that that great territory should be brought within easy reach of all Canadians who wished to go there. He spoke of the great progress made by the St. Patrick's Society of late years, and thought such an evening as this was a great step in the pathway of life. For himself, when he met a gathering of Irishmen like this, animated by a common thought of and reverence for their native land, it brought back memories of that land and of his boyhood in a way that nothing else could. He thought they ought to take pattern from their friends the Scotchmen, in promoting more fraternity and liberality of feeling amongst themselves as brother Irishmen. (Loud applause.)

In proposing the next toast the chairman referred to the object of the St. Patrick's Society, and said that he had much pleasure in telling them that the funds were in a good state, that they had been able to provide for all the poor people who applied for relief, and that they had a good balance in hand. Mr. John Murphy, Guelph Township, responded. He said the occasion which has assembled us here this evening, is as great an event as it

BY TELEGRAPH

Hon. R. W. Scott has been appointed to the Senate.
When Parliament meets on the 25th inst., after the election of a Speaker, it is probable the House will adjourn during session week.

The Hamilton Times says that another petition has been filed against the return of Messrs. Irving and Wood, by which the Hamilton seats are claimed for Messrs. Witton and O'Reilly.

Ontario Legislature.
Toronto, March 17.
At the opening of the morning sitting the Liquor Traffic Bill and Sales of Taxes Bill were respectively read a third time and passed. The House then went into Committee of Supply.

At the afternoon sitting, on the motion to go into Committee of Supply, Mr. M. C. Cameron moved an amendment condemning the Government for giving out contracts in connection with certain public buildings without inviting tenders by public advertisement.
Mr. Fraser warmly defended the action of the Commissioner of Public Works, and explained in detail the reasons for the Commissioner's action in regard to the various matters complained of by the mover of the amendment.
The House then divided, and the amendment was lost by Yeas 23, Nays 42.

The House then went into Committee of Supply, and continued in Committee till recess.

At the evening sitting the House went again into Committee of Supply, and passed a number of items.

The New Temperance Tactics.

The women of Massachusetts have improved on the tactics of their sisters in Ohio and other Western States in one particular. They have begun with reconnoitering and skirmishing instead of rushing to a sudden assault on the enemy's works. In Worcester, which is the point selected for initial operations, they have decided that to invest the bar-rooms and dram-shops with praying bands would simply invite the insults and jeers of a rabble hired for that purpose and well paid for the work with drink enough to make them insensible to shame. The ladies do not propose to bring ridicule upon themselves and their movement by such unequal encounter. And they have wisely adopted the plan of first enlisting the interest and co-operation of the clergy and the temperance people of the city, and of appealing in private to owners of the buildings in which liquors are sold to refuse to let them longer for such purposes, and to the proprietors of hotels and saloons to abandon the traffic altogether.

The praying-band may be suited for successful operations in small Western communities, and even in some Western cities. It is a serious question whether it would succeed in the crowded streets of a city like New York. But the steady, persistent appeals and pleadings of women to landlords, the private conferences and prayerful entreaties with liquor-sellers, the public exhortations of our best preachers and speakers from the pulpit and platform, the whole apparatus of moral influence, can be brought most powerfully to bear in this compact and easily-moved community. At any rate a steady rain of arguments, exhortations, entreaties and appeals poured down on the city until everybody is drenched with the bracing flood can hardly fail to wash away a vast deal of moral filth and human misery.—New York Graphic.

SEVENTEEN YEARS AGO.—It is just seventeen years ago last Friday since the awful catastrophe on the Desjardins Canal.

The Episcopal Church war in Ottawa continues every day to widen the breach, and gives fresh accessions to the strength of the reformers. The High Church ministers have fallen foul of the local press, and some very plain writing has been the consequence. Dr. Gallagher will remain here till the arrival of Bishop Cummings.

Mr. Brady, who after the chief editors of the Pennsylvania had been swept overboard by a heavy sea took command of the ship and brought her safely into port has been appointed her captain, which looks as if, in one instance at least, the right man is to be found in the right place.

PRESENTATION IN WATERLOO TOWNSHIP.

On Saturday, at the close of a public examination of the school, the pupils of S. S. No. 16, Waterloo Township, presented their teacher, Mr. D. O. Ellis, with a gold ring and watch chain, accompanied by a suitable address. Mr. Ellis replied, thanking them in a few well chosen words for the valuable present.

St. Patrick's Day.—The celebration of the anniversary of Ireland's patron saint seems to have been very general, at least on this side of the Atlantic, and to have been characterized everywhere by the utmost good feeling. In Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa and other cities and towns, the celebrations were very successful and were largely attended.

FALL OF THE DESJARDINS BRIDGE.—We learn from the Hamilton Times that the iron bridge across the Desjardins Canal, near Hamilton, and known as the Milton or Lower road bridge, gave way on Monday afternoon. There had been a great deal of travel over it on that day, and in the afternoon two teamsters, named Gray and Moore, from Carlisle, were crossing on their way home. When the forward team was all but across and the one following on the middle of the bridge, it rocked for a moment or two and then fell, carrying down with it the two men with their horses and wagons. Gray was plunged amid the wreck into the seething and splashing waters, while his comrade was caught and held fast for a few moments. Two of the horses and their wagon sank out of sight, while Gray endeavored to save himself by using the planks he could get hold of. One of Moore's horses plunged about in the most terrified manner and tried to get loose from the other which had been killed by the fall. As soon as the crash was heard, the people about rushed to the scene. Moore had by this time managed to save his comrade. While the crowd began to assemble, Moore and Gray were examined and the former was found to have his arm broken near the wrist, his feet being badly hurt otherwise, and Gray was so much crushed about the back that fears of a mortal injury were entertained. Both were then removed to Waterdown for medical attendance. How they escaped instant death no one can account for; to take a look at the wrecked bridge is enough to make one shudder, for it lies across and chokes up the canal—there was no ice to break the fall.

Fortunate Rescue.

London, March 18.—It is reported that the Queen's speech on the re-assembling of Parliament will propose a reduction of twopence in the pound on income tax.

Viscount Berrington, a Conservative, has been re-elected to Parliament from Eye, Suffolk, by 270 majority.

Calcutta, March 17.—The distress from the famine in Bengal is increasing. Many thousands of natives are dependent on the Government for food. In the Tirhoot districts a hundred thousand persons, in an emaciated condition, made application for relief within ten days.

Raleigh, N. C., March 17.—Bold Mountain, in the Western part of North Carolina, is in a state of volcanic eruption. It is stated that the farm houses and cottages along its sides and base have been prostrated by convulsions, and many of the inhabitants have fled. A thin vapor issues from the top of the mountain; a low, rumbling sound is audible over the entire surface, and snow melts as fast as it falls.

New York, March 17.—The steamship Dcr, from Jamaica for Europe, was abandoned at sea and the captain and crew rescued by the ship Salteresse, which arrived at Queenstown yesterday.

New York, March 18.—A dense fog prevails over and around New York, seriously interfering with navigation, and preventing thousands of people in Brooklyn, Jersey and elsewhere from reaching New York.

Man Found Dead in Arthur.

ARTHUR, March 18.
A farmer from Peel, named Thomas Fitzgerald, was found dead in a neighbor's house about three o'clock this morning. It seems Fitzgerald had been keeping the 17th as a holiday, and had indulged rather freely during the day, and went to his neighbor's with a bottle about evening. He laid on the floor after the family retired, and was found about three o'clock lifeless. Dr. Allan was summoned but found life had been extinct for two or three hours. An inquest will be held this evening by Coroner Middleton, of Elora.

Small-pox is extending in Montreal. A lad of fifteen named Henry Holmwood was instantly crushed to death in a Hamilton coal yard on Monday. A mass of frozen coal weighing about five tons fell upon him.

The Wesleyans intend selling their old church and building a new frame one, 36x52. A site has been secured in a central part of the village, and tenders for its erection have been advertised for.

SOCIETY.—The ladies of the Wesleyan congregation intend giving a series of socials to raise funds for carpeting the aisles, and procuring other necessary articles for the new Wesleyan Church. The first one (given by Messrs. W. Thompson and J. R. Hamilton, in order to put the ladies on a fair footing) was held in the Wesleyan Church last Thursday evening. The edible part of the entertainment consisted of a service of fruit, which having been disposed of, Mr. W. Bugg was called to the chair. Speeches were given by Messrs. W. Thompson, S. Banton, G. Gamble, and F. Billinsky; a recitation by Mr. James H. Moore, and readings by Messrs. J. R. Hamilton, and T. H. Harvey. Several appropriate pieces were sung by a choir led by Mr. Hall. The proceeds were $13.50. Another will be held Thursday (this) evening, in the Wesleyan Church. Admission 15 cents.

CHAPTER XXII.

THE END OF TWO VILLAINS—THE WITCH OF BEN-LAIR REVEALS HER TRUE NAME AND CHARACTER—A STRANGE STORY.

"Thank not me," replied M'Leod, "but thank a higher power. I but struck one blow, and even that was not required, for they hurled themselves over the precipice outside there."

"You spoke truly when you said so," replied Hector, "and it was the knowledge that he had sent them on this terrible mission that latterly caused me to dox them here. I overheard them speak of you, and of Donald Cameron being eager for your death, and I determined that the villains should have one more to overcome than they reckoned on."

"Donald Cameron's a black-hearted wretch," exclaimed the old woman, who had now seated herself beside Hector, gazing into his face, her small black eyes glittering fiercely. "A heartless wretch rather, I should say; but his race must be nearly run. If not, I shall hasten on the end; for now, since he has raised his hand directly against her, the Witch of Ben-Lair must go forth against him. The clouds before her are dark and thick and heavy, but they may grow lighter the nearer they approached. But of this we can talk again, M'Leod. How is your father, and how is Flora Macgregor?"

Questions these which made the young man start—questions mayhap easy for the old woman to put, but, oh, what a world of misery, of heartrending grief, lay in the answering of them. How short a time was it since he had parted with the Witch of Ben-Lair on the shores of Loch Maree, and yet what a world of sorrow had he endured since then. It had been an eventful time. The sound of her voice had scarcely ceased sounding in his ears when he was struggling with his father, Gordon, and the other clansmen in the cold waters of the loch, at the bottom of which nearly thirty of his clansmen yet lay, sleeping their last sleep. His father's death had followed, and then his arch enemies had broken into his castle and snatched Flora Macgregor almost from his bosom. A sob burst up from his breast as he remembered the last words of the Witch of Ben-Lair addressed to him at the side of the loch—

"Trust me," he said, "that Flora Macgregor is now beyond the reach of danger; I will constitute myself her lawful protector." "See to it then, young man, that you keep your promise well; as you value the Service I have rendered you to-night, do this," was her reply.

And now, as he was before her, she was asking at him how it fared with Flora, and, alas! Flora was gone! The young man's anguish was unbearable. He turned towards the old woman while even yet these thoughts rushed through his mind, but his tongue failed of utterance, and he sat dumb before her.

The old woman was keenly regarding him, and jealously marked his agitation. Leaving eagerly forward, she exclaimed "M'Leod, why do you give no answer? Why is your tongue silent? Be strong as M'Leod should be, and tell me whether it is your father or Flora Macgregor whom ill has befallen. If it is your father who has seen affliction, I can sympathize and suffer with you; if it is the girl who has suffered, the account of it I can bear. Speak, M'Leod."

Universal Suffrage.

Mr. James Dunn, the essayist, lectured before an intelligent audience in New York a few evenings since, on the subject of Universal Suffrage. He regarded the extension of the franchise to all male citizens who had arrived at the age of manhood as a failure. He said, in substance, that no thinking man can shut his eyes to the evils which universal suffrage may not bring about, and these evils, too, are peculiar in being insinuating rather than sudden and aggressive. Universal suffrage is the gospel of mediocrity, and every year's experience shows that its tendency is to elevate not the best but the presuming and clamoring. A mass of shiftless citizens, who do not feel the direct burdens of taxation, take a strange glory in resting from the rich what appears to them ill-gotten gains. The principal of universal suffrage is the fact of majority rule; and as it always has and probably always will be the fact that the ignorant and unlettered will outnumber the opposite class, the result virtually is that these latter are excluded from representation. A notable example of this is found in the present negro rule in the South, where the uneducated slave, whose ignorance is dense beyond description, riots in the possession of unswayed power.

One ton (2,000 pounds avoirdupois) of gold or silver contains 29,163 troy ounces, and, therefore, the value of a ton of pure gold is $602,799.21, and of a ton of silver, $37,701.81. A cubic foot of pure gold weighs 1,218.75 pounds avoirdupois; a cubic foot of pure silver weighs 656.95 pounds avoirdupois. One million dollars gold coin weighs 3,658.8 pounds avoirdupois; one million dollars silver coin weighs 58,925.9 pounds avoirdupois.

Among the gifts to a Pennsylvania bride, a few days since, was a broom, to which were attached the following sweet, sentimental lines:—
"This trifling gift accept of me,
As use I would commend;
Whom she use the brushy part,
In storms the other end."

W. D. HEPBURN & Co.

WITH reference to the above we have the pleasure to state that we have purchased the stock of Messrs. W. D. HEPBURN & Co., on favorable terms, and are making large additions to the same, which will be complete in a few days.

In respectfully asking for the patronage of all the old customers and the public generally, we hope to secure the same by keeping first-class goods, selling at the most reasonable prices, and offering the largest and best assortment in town to choose from, keeping it, as it has been in the past, the leading Boot and Shoe business in Guelph.

Custom Work will receive special attention, and satisfaction guaranteed. Repairing promptly attended to as usual.

R. MACGREGOR & Co. Successors to W. D. Hepburn & Co.

NEW HATS AND CAPS

SHAW & MURTON'S, GUELPH.

Being about to leave Guelph to seek a home in the Far West, would certainly thank his many kind friends for their continued patronage for the past fifteen years, and as he is likely to be but a short time absent, he has decided to sell his stock of goods at a special discount. All goods will be sold at 25 to 30 per cent. below Toronto or Montreal Wholesale prices. A special discount will be allowed on purchases over $25. This sale is genuine, the proprietor having to give up possession of his store on the 1st of May next. G. B. FRASER, Wyndham Street, Guelph.

Fergus Correspondence.
Governmental Tactics. During the last week attempts have been made to scare inmates of houses who are alone. Such disreputable conduct ought to be met with severe punishment. Should such matters occur again the names of the parties will be made known.

The Etonia Y. M. C. A. held their first annual tea meeting in the basement of the Wesleyan Church, on the evening of Friday last. It was a decided success, and there could not have been less than $80 cleared after paying expenses. Devotions were presented from Guelph and Fergus. The choir sang some excellent pieces of music. The Fergus Y. M. C. A. intend holding special prayer meetings, commencing in private houses and taking larger rooms as they are required.

The weather during the past week was very rough and stormy, and had the effect of making business dull. Saturday brought finer weather, and business has been better since.

Burglars are suspected of being here, and Constable Mason is on the look out for suspicious parties.

A protest has been filed against the return of Dr. Orton for Centre Wellington. The Tories are shaking in their shoes, and at the call of the little man in Elora, met on Thursday for business of great importance.

MANUFACTURER OF COCOA.—We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps & Co., manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston Road, London.—See article in Cassell's Household Guide.

To Business Men.
 The circulation of the Mercury and Advertiser being nearly five times that of any other paper published in the County of Wellington, business men and others would study their own interests by advertising in the Mercury and Advertiser.

FACTS FOR ADVERTISERS.
 In this, as in everything else, the best papers will command the best prices. It is cheaper to pay 5s. for inserting your advertisements in a journal having a circulation of 5,000, than to pay 2s. for one that has only a circulation of 1,000. Of course, the more the circulation, the more the advertiser gets for his money. It is, in fact, an almost worthless medium. If it were really a good one, it would have no need to lower its price, for its sheet would be better filled without the sacrifice. You may lay it down as a rule that every journal knows its value, and that if it adopts low prices it is because it is conscious that it has a low circulation in number or respectability.—Wilson's Handbook for Advertisers.

NOTICE ABOUT ACCOUNTS.
 All accounts for printing or advertising rendered to the 1st of January must be paid by the 1st of April, otherwise costs will be incurred. Subscribers in arrears will have to the 1st of April to pay up. After that they will be charged the credit price.

Special Notices.
AS NUMEROUS CASES OF POISONING
 Have occurred from the sale to the public of Hypophosphites, containing strychnine, without being properly labelled, purchasers of Dr. Wadsworth's Compound Elixir of Strychnine and Calceola are requested not to confound the two preparations, as is frequently done, under the impression that both are of the same medicinal properties. Phosphates are necessary elements of the animal organism, and absolutely essential to the phenomena of life. They enter into the composition of every solid and fluid of the human body, and are the natural exciting agents of the functions of nutrition, and determine perfect cell formation and the growth of tissues. For supplying the waste resulting from mental and muscular exertion there can be no substitute for Phosphates while the system remains chemically constituted as it is. Attributing the effects of strychnine to the action of hypophosphites has led to false deductions and errors in practice, and greatly misled the public as to their true merits.
