TUXIS DEBATE AT MIDDLETON

Bridgetown Wins The Davidson Trophy For The Second Time

All aboard, for Middleton! And what a delegation! Over a hundred and ten strong, and all way just to hear the Tuxis Boys of Bridgetown debate with the boys of Middleton. But that only illustrates what is the characteristic attitude of the Church-going people of Bridgetown towards the Tuxis work in general. A hundred and ten or more strong, and in the worst storm of the winter. The D. A. Railway company was kind enough to arrange for a special train to bring them back at the conclusion of the debate and this was very much appreciated.

Upon arrival at Middleton the delegation was met by Mr. Davidson, the donor of the cup being debated for; Mr. Andrews, President of the Boys' Work Board for Middleton; Rev. Mr. Hockin, and many others. A joint session of the two Boards was held to discuss the whole subject of debating and much satisfactory work was done but as reports of this meeting will appear in due course elsewhere, we are not, in this place, giving any report. One thing, however, it will not be out of place to state. It was learned that there are one or two others who would like to enter the League next year. The Boys' Work Movement through the Tuxis is evidently a going and growing concern. At 2.45 a hockey match was played and we shall have a few words to say about that at the end of this report. From 5.30 to 7.30 p.m. the I.O.D.E. served supper "a la footie" and this attention was very much appreciated by the visitors. The supper was excellent and we heartily approve the arrangements. The opening of the school building for this end to accommodate the visitors, was a good thought.

At 7.30 p.m. the Princess Theatre was filled to capacity. Upon the platform was Canon Morrison who acted as chairman and time-keeper. On the right of the platform looking from the audience sat the Middleton debating team, Messrs. Messinger, Landry, and Davidson; on the left the Bridgetown team, Messrs. Foster, Roberts, and Fay. The two teams made an imposing and good-looking array. When it is remembered that the boys are only sixteen or thereabouts it will be seen what a creditable thing the whole affair was. Mr. Messinger opened the debate, stating clearly the subject: "Resolved that the ill-effects resulting from the recent World War exceed the benefits". A very simple appearing subject, but as one of the debaters himself said, "A hard, hard subject". Mr. Messinger spoke clearly and forcibly, calling attention to the immense physical losses and the apparent futility of the whole dreadful tragedy. In reply, Mr. Foster, the leader for Bridgetown, who opened up the negative side, after defining the resolution very forcibly, showed that the "Overwhelming, overshadowing good resulting from the War was that Prussianism had been slain, Autocracy had been overthrown by Democracy, Might by Right, and Militarism by Pacifism". He also spoke of the restored Democracies of Europe. Mr. Landry rose to continue the debate for Middleton and delivered an address bringing out the economic losses due to the war, the immense war debts and the burdens of taxation. Following him came the second speaker for Bridgetown, Mr. Roberts, who, in a quiet, earnest and impressive manner, pleaded for his side the three great benefits. The greater consolidation of the British Empire; the Washington Conference; and the bringing together in greater friendliness of the two great branches of the Anglo-Saxon race. The speech was well received, as indeed were all the speeches. The third speaker on the affirmative was Mr. Davidson, who with inimitable style, came forward to deliver his contribution, and a real contribution it was. His polemic against War in general and against this War in particular was a praise-worthy effort and was often interrupted by applause. He was still going strong when the time bell rang. Mr. James Fay, the third and last speaker for the negative side, made a fine contribution for Bridgetown, both in matter and in style, and it is fair to say, safely rounded off and clinched a well argued side. The rebuttals were then

HOW OLD IS BRIDGETOWN?

Dr. M. E. Armstrong Gives Some Interesting Notes of Bridgetown's Early History.

At the annual meeting of the Board of Trade on Tuesday, February 14th, the matter of a centennial celebration of the founding of our town was brought up and discussed and a committee appointed to consider the matter.

The following communication from Dr. Armstrong regarding the beginning of our town was sent to the President of the Board of Trade, E. A. Hicks, and has been handed to us (or publication, in hopes that others who have old documents, letters or traditions bearing on this period of our history may publish them or make them known.

To E. A. Hicks, Esq., Pres. Bridgetown Board of Trade:

Sir—Our natal day as a town like many other things great and small is not well defined. Like "Topsy" we grew and were not born. It would have been nice if we could have pointed to a time when some sloops came up the river with the tide and run the prows of their masts over the banks of the main river about here and landed their immigrants on our shore and these had then and there began to clear away the great forests of timber and make homes as did the Pilgrim fathers, or as did the colony that landed in Halifax harbor in 1749, but such is not our record.

The sources of information of our founding are not abundant and many details are wanting but still the main facts are well defined it is quite true that we are at the threshold of our one hundredth anniversary.

In Murdoch's History of Nova Scotia Vol. 3, the author says he visited this section of the county in the summer of 1822 and that as he stood near the river bridge there was only one or two houses in sight. The bridge had been erected over the river in 1802 but there is no information that between 1803 and 1822 there was any sign of this locality becoming a trading centre or a flourishing town.

The lands along the main Granville road had been granted to settlers about 1761, in lots containing five hundred acres each and these grants reached from the river to the Bay of Fundy and as early as 1764 the main portion of our town, which included the lower ends of four of these great lots, had become the property of one, Captain Robert George Bruce, of His Majesty's engineers, Annapolis Royal. Just where the Captain's house stood I am not aware, but I am sure he had one for he had in that year on this fine property, twelve cows, five hogs and considerable other stock and also a cheese press. He raised apples and had a cider mill, and had in his cellar in November 1763, ten barrels of "cyder".

We can thus see that our locality began the manufacture of cider a long time ago. That same year this early settler had harvested in greater quantity than is grown on any one farm here to-day, wheat, rye, peas, barley and onions, as well as potatoes and turnips and six hundred head of cabbage.

No doubt this same land had been cultivated for more than one hundred years previous to the coming of these first English settlers, for Capt. Bruce could not get apples for his "cyder" unless the trees had been set out many years previously or during the days of French occupation of the river and its adjoining rich fertile lands.

Near the beginning of the last century, about 1800, the town site came into the possession of the Crosskills, there were the father and three sons, who lived mostly in Halifax, and in the late summer of 1821 their interests in the four lots referred to above was sold to Capt. John Crosskill, mariner, the father. The same season he had the present town site laid off into a town plot with the street arrangements about as we have it to-day. Most of the lots between Granville street, then called the Granville main road, and the river were made ninety feet square, while those on the north of Granville street were given more land. Very soon after his town plot was surveyed he began to sell lots and by November of that year a number of the most desirable had been quickly purchased. Stephen S. Thorne had secured the corner one where the Royal Bank now stands for twenty-seven pounds N. S. currency. Jesse Oakes, who lived at Bloody Creek,

APPROCIATION

J. E. LLOYD, Clerk.

One day last November I got off the train at the Bridgetown station and received a warm handshake from my recently departed friend, Mr. Oakes S. Dunham, whom I had not met for many months. Little did I dream that it was to be my last meeting with him on earth. It is almost impossible to realize that his busy and helpful pen has been laid down forever.

I had enjoyed the acquaintance of this fine type of Canadian Journalist for thirty years, and I have never known a more high-minded or friendly man. Both Bridgetown and Digby and, indeed, all Nova Scotia, have lost a true friend. Mr. Dunham was filled with the traditional spirit of Nova Scotia hospitality, cherished high ideals of journalistic ethics, and was tireless and indefatigable in his efforts to help his community and make it a better place in which to live.

My heartfelt sympathy goes out to his family and associates. His good work will live after him.

COWBOY CHAMPION STARS IN NEW SERIAL

Quite a contrast to the usual run of the picture shows will be given the patrons of the Primrose Theatre when the first episode of the Universal chapter play, "The White Horseman", starring Art Acord, will be shown Thursday.

The story concerns a lost opal mine and the efforts of unscrupulous relatives to gain control of the mine from the ranch owner on whose property the underground workings are located. A historical novelty is introduced into the story in connection with the location of the mine.

One of the squatters on the ranch, the property of Art Acord, finds a bracelet of ancient workmanship bearing a picture message evidently written by Indians. When translated, this leads to the discovery of an extensive system of underground mine workings and also proves to be the key that opens the cliff and affords entrance to the mines.

In the first episode Art Acord is shown strapped to the floor of a buckboard, drawn by a runaway team at reckless speed. When the wagon reaches a sharp turn in the road, the wagon tongue snaps and the buckboard rolls over the edge of a cliff and falls to the bottom.

He was a non-commissioned officer in the Thirty-ninth Infantry of the Fourth (Regular) Division, one of the leading fighting units of the Army. His two hottest fights were the gruelling days along the Veele River, when the Fourth Division fought inch by inch against the most continuous and terrific shell-fire laid down by the Germans during the latter part of the war, and in the Meuse-Argonne campaign.

In the Meuse-Argonne fight Acord was with the Division when it went in and hammered its way north of Montfaucon to the fastness of the famous Krimhilde Stellung, the last prepared trench system in the notorious Hindenburg line. For his bravery in battle and his fearless disregard for his personal safety, in leading his men against a German machine-gun nest, Acord received the French Croix-de-Guerre.

"Paris was better guarded by M. P.'s (Military Police) than the front was by soldiers," he complains.

BRIDGETOWN BOARD OF TRADE

Election of Officers and Council- lors. Four New Members Received

The annual meeting of the Bridgetown Board of Trade was held in their comfortable quarters in the Royal Bank building on Tuesday evening, February 14th, and notwithstanding the severe winter weather there was a good attendance.

The Secretary read an encouraging report on the past year's work which appears in another column.

The Treasurer's report was read showing a cash balance, which while small, was on the right side.

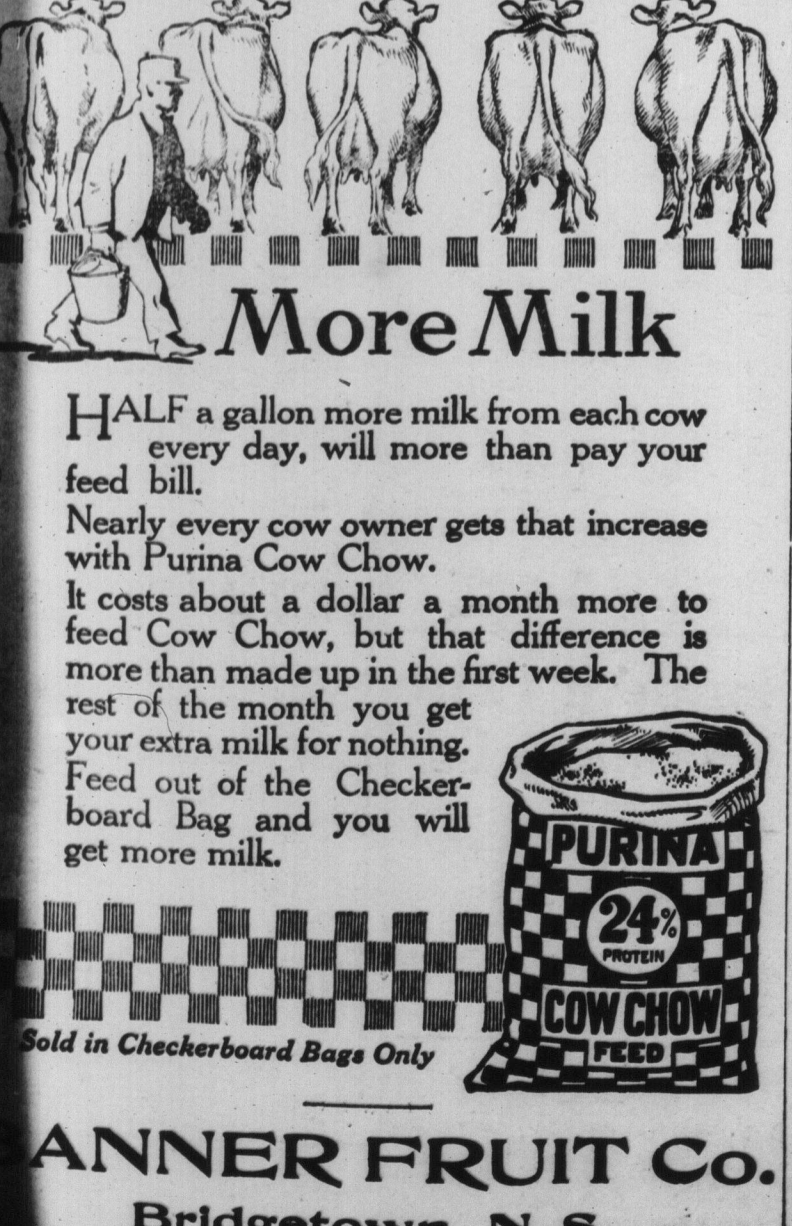

After the routine business was dealt with, President Hicks addressed the Board in a very able and pleasing manner, speaking of the good-will and harmony which has always prevailed among the members. He thanked the members of the Council and the entire Board for the hearty support given him since his coming to the chair. In closing, Mr. Hicks spoke very feelingly of the sudden death of the late Councillor, Mr. O. S. Dunham, whose place at the Council Board will be hard to fill. Mr. Dunham was a regular attendant at meetings of the Council and Board, and could be relied upon for good advice on public matters. A resolution of sympathy will be sent to the bereaved family.

Election of officers and Councillors resulted in the following: E. A. Hicks, President; A. B. MacKenzie, Vice-President; and W. H. Maxwell Secretary-Treasurer, officers re-elected. The Councillors elected were: W. A. Warren, W. E. Gesner, Dr. Armstrong, F. E. Bath, C. B. Longmire, F. M. Graves, M. C. Foster, W. R. Longmire, Angus MacDonald, G. O. Thies, H. S. Magee and H. J. Campbell. Four new members were received into the Board.

A general discussion of numerous matters of public interest followed and if plans suggested are carried out, they will be of utmost importance to Bridgetown and vicinity.

The Board of Trade is also planning on having social events in connection with their quarterly meetings. An invitation is extended to all live wire business men, whether in town or country, to join the Board and help boost Bridgetown, for in boosting Bridgetown you are boosting your own interests.

Halibut fishing schooners Dorothy M. Smart, of Digby, and Elmer Gray, of Boston, were among the vessels at Sandy Point (Shelburne) for shelter over the week end.

THIRTY MISSING IN HOTEL HORROR IN RICHMOND, VA.

Many Guests With Clothing in Flames Jump From Windows—Financial Loss Estimated As High As $500,000.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 7.—Six known dead, thirty reported missing or unaccounted for and twenty-eight known injured was the toll of a fire which early to-day started from an undetermined cause in the basement of the Lexington Hotel, quickly spread thru the four stories of the structure and then spread to other buildings, sweeping half a city block before it was checked. The property loss is variously estimated at from $250,000 to $500,000.

The bodies of three known to be dead were still in the ruins to-night, according to the police.

The flames quickly cut off all exits in the hotel and the guests, many with clothing in flames, jumped from the windows, some landing in life nets but others plunging to the pavements.

At police headquarters to-night a force of men endeavored to check off those unaccounted for while searchers continued their efforts to locate bodies in the ruins. Seventy-two guests were registered at the hotel when the fire broke out.

Several other buildings were destroyed or badly damaged by the spread of the flames.

LETTER FROM OTTAWA

To the Editor of THE MONITOR:

Dear Sir—Again I am writing you a line to-day to let you know that neither you nor your able paper is forgotten by me, "at-land". No, indeed, I am pleased to write. Your paper arrives very regularly, and perused with the same degree of interest as of yore. A few words now re affairs here in the capital. Last week Ottawa was on a festive winter carnival. Surely it was a great success from start to finish. Many of our citizens were pessimistic over the matter when it was first mooted, but had to concede that they were wrong and none more pleased than they that we took the venture. Of course it meant a big outlay in building the ice castle, the beautiful ice columns 150 ft. in height on the square in front of the Château, and surmounted by a huge crown. At night when the columns and castles were lighted up by electric lights, wires had been so arranged that it made them look at night like a mass of glistening diamonds. One of the most up-to-date toboggan slides ever constructed was built, and the entrance to it artistically designed with spruce trees. Surely it is a thing of beauty. And then all manner of winter sports, snowshoeing, races, skiing, ice races, great torchlight processions, a queen of carnival was chosen by ballot and the first night she was crowned and elevated upon a throne and on a high chariot was in the midst of the final great procession, after which the procession moved to the ice palace, where a great bombardment of fire works was turned upon the castle. It surely was a grand spectacle and long to be remembered. Thousands of visitors from all parts of Canada and United States were present, and fortune favored us with ideal weather during the entire week. In every respect it was a grand success.

DEATH OF WALLACE A. RICHARDSON

Sydney Editor, Who Learned Printing Business in St. John, Passes Away Suddenly—Seven Times Mayor.

Sydney, N.S., Feb. 7.—A pioneer of daily journalism in Cape Breton passed on today with the sudden death of Wallace A. Richardson, seven times mayor of Sydney.

Although his health had not been very good for some time, it was no worse than usual last night and his sudden demise came as a shock to the community.

Mr. Richardson was a native of South Bay, sixty-one years of age. He learned the printing trade with the old Messenger and Visitor in St. John, N.B., and in the early nineties came back to Cape Breton as Editor and Manager of The Island Reporter, a weekly, which was afterwards amalgamated with another paper to form the Sydney Record, the island's first daily.

Sydney's splendid city hospital is a lasting monument to the service of Mr. Richardson in the civic field. He is survived by his wife and two daughters. His brothers are: A. R. Richardson, M.P.P., Sydney, and Dr. C. A. Richardson, Boston; Ernest Richardson, Hamilton, Ont.

RECEPTION TO REV. H. H. PHINNEY

The members of the Arcadia United Baptist Church on an evening or so ago tendered a very delightful reception social to Rev. H. H. Phinney, who recently accepted the pastorate of that congregation, and Mrs. Phinney. The affair took place in the vestry of the church and was very largely attended, not only by members of that church but also by several from the Methodist congregation. Rev. H. H. Phinney, pastor of the Yarmouth North U. B. Church, occupied the chair and addresses were made by Revs. Gordon T. Lewis, Anglican, of Central Chatham; W. Alvin Robbins, of the United Baptist Home Mission Board; and Councillor Austin L. Robbins, of Chatham Point. All of whom expressed hearty greetings to the Mr. and Mrs. Phinney. Several very pleasing musical numbers were also on the programme and among which were beautifully rendered vocal solos by Mr. Phinney and Mrs. Reginald Roach, of the Methodist Church.

Mr. Phinney, in responding to all of the good things that had been said, expressed his hearty appreciation of the kindly greetings that had been extended to both him and Mrs. Phinney. The serving of refreshments concluded a very pleasing function.

MICMAC CHIEF OF ANAPOLIS, PASSED AWAY

River Hebert, Feb. 12.—Nova Scotia has lost one of her oldest Indian Chiefs in the person of Abvahan Hood of the Micmac Indian tribe. Born in Annapolis County in 1853 he had hunted and trapped all over the province. He was much in demand as a guide and had served as such on many a moose hunting expedition, and was considered one of the best guides in the province.

He was fond of music and was always seen with his violin and his rendering of "The Mocking Bird" upon it would always draw the hearty applause of his hearers.

The death occurred Sunday morning at his home at Mile Bridge. Interment was in the Catholic cemetery, Amherst, Tuesday, Rev. Father Curry, of Joggins Mines, was the officiating clergyman.

Chief Peter Paul, Truro, attended the funeral with other members of the tribe from Shebenaecadie.

Chief Hood is survived by two daughters and five sons, at home.

CONSUMPTION OF TEA INCREASED 51% SINCE 1915

The London Grocers' Gazette for January 8th states that the consumption of tea in Great Britain and Ireland has increased 34% since 1915. They now use about nine pounds per head per annum in the United Kingdom, and the increase in 1921 over the previous year amounted to seventeen million pounds. This enormous consumption accounts for the great rise in the price of tea.

The consumption of tea in Canada only amounts to 4½ pounds per head per annum, but is increasing.

Not So Soon

Everything was in readiness. The groom, best man, and the minister were gathered in the vestry. The organist started to play and the parson moved toward the door.

"Wait a minute, sir," said the nervous groom. "It's the ring or left hand the ring goes on?"

"The left, hurriedly replied the minister.

"And sir, another minute," said the trembling one.

"Is it—it—it kismet to cuss the bride."

We are now looking forward to the opening of Parliament which takes place the 7th of March. Keen interest is manifested in regards to the attitude of the Progressives, but it is generally believed they will give the government a general support, but it is an uncertain aggregation, and possibly it may not be long ere the country may have to be sounded again, but it is hoped not.

It is generally thought a redistribution bill may be brought in this session, but the tariff will remain as it is until the country is sounded to ascertain if possible just what changes can be made.

It is truly gratifying to see the exchange between Canada and the United States just assuming its normal condition again only four cents at present.

We have had an exceedingly fine winter so far, not too cold and no heavy storms, and a few more weeks will see its finish.

A PLEASANT EVENING

(Western Chronicle)

Bluenose Lodge, 723, Kentville B. of Railway Trainmen, was "At Home" on Wednesday evening last to its members, also to the members of the O.R.C., about twenty-five being present. Among the visitors was ex-Conductor A. C. Herbert (now retired), who was presented with a beautiful travelling bag. Al was taken by surprise, but responded in a pleasing manner. Ex-Conductor N. Margeson was chairman of the evening, and made a good one. Conductor W. Herbert was present, also ex-Conductor George McCully. George gave a fine address, telling of his experience. One of the nice things of the evening was the fact that everyone made a speech. (Some orators!) After the supper was served, the tables were cleared and some two hours spent at auction 45%, one man bidding as high as "85." All declared it to be the best time they ever had.
