Canadian Press Despatch.
LONDON, Jan. 31, 7.40 p.m.—Our men in many cases fought with bayonets in their hands, and even knocked out many Germans with their fists. A story is told of one man who broke into a house held by eight Germans, bayoneted four of them and captured the rest, while he continued to suck at his clay pipe," says the official eye-witness with the British expeditionary forces, in a description of the battle of Jan. 25, when the Germans attacked the British north and south of La Bassee Canal, and succeeded in capturing some of their trenches, which the French official report today says have all been retaken.

"The battle, which commenced early in the morning, was preceded by the usual artillery duel. At 8 o'clock in the morning," says the eye-witness, "the Germans launched an assault against the British and French on the south of the canal, and at one point penetrated our lines. About the same time they strongly attacked our troops at Ghivency, north of the canal, and, passing over our front trenches, temporarily gained a foothold in the PARIS, Jan. 30.—(2.18 p.m.)—An official "eye-witness" statement has been issued by the French War Office, covering the period of the campaign in France from Jan. 16 to Jan. 26. It says: "Our advance has been slight, but regular. Under the cover of night troopers, protected by portable bucklers, slip along the dunes and roads, rapidly improvising new defences with sacks, baskets and cases filled with earth, for deep trenches are impossible in the sandy ground. The artillery supporting these operations have made many of the German trenches in the dunes untenable.

Slight Indisposition Caused by Severe Weather Led to Secret Return to Capital.

Special Direct Copyrighted Cable to The Toronto World.
COPENHAGEN, Jan. 31.—A slight indisposition, the result of the severe weather in northern France, has compelled the Kaiser to return to Berlin. His entry was secret and unobserved. He is suffering from a chill and, when recovered well, it is expected he will visit Von Hindenburg on the east front also of the vessels damaged in the North Sea battle which is being repaired there. Although it is officially announced that the Kaiser's stay in Berlin will be short, it is understood he will not return to the front until the weather has improved.

DACIA LEAVES AND TEST CASE WILL FOLLOW

Carries a Cargo of Texas Cotton Consigned to Rotterdam.

IS SURE TO BE SEIZED

Will Be Taken to Halifax for the Prize Court Trial.

Canadian Press Despatch.
LONDON, Jan. 31, 8 p.m.—The toll taken by the German submarine 21 in its raid Saturday afternoon in the Irish Sea, in the vicinity of Liverpool, still stands at three ships—the steamer Ben Crauchen, Linda Bianche and the Kilocon, the latter a small vessel. The crew of the Kilocon was landed today on the Isle of Man by a coastwise steamer.

In addition, a German submarine also has torpedoed two British steamers in the English Channel, near Havre—the Toko Maru and the Icaria.

The Allan Line steamer Scandinavia, which was torpedoed Saturday night, is believed to have been carrying a cargo of 11,000 bales of Texas cotton for Rotterdam. This in the face of the general and specific warnings issued to the state department thru the British embassy within the past fortnight, that the vessel would be seized, and expressing the intention of contesting the transfer in a prize court.

It is believed here that the sailing of the Dacia today was with full consent and upon the advice of the state department, which is desirous of testing the strength of the British position.

Advise to Owners.
Officials of the state department advise to the owners of the Dacia that the vessel should be seized, and that it is a citizen of a neutral power is not in the correct interpretation of the international law governing the case.

AMSTERDAM, via London, Jan. 31.—Large numbers of German troops destined for the Ypres front have been concentrated, according to The Telegraph. Fresh troops with war materials are reported to be assembling on the Yser front, and activity on the western front is taken to indicate that another serious effort will be made to break the allied lines in Flanders.

The Telegraph prints a report that 2000 men from German troops have been transferred to the eastern front from Roulers.

low him to another steamer close by. On coming up to the steamer, which proved to be the Kilocon, they found her crew in two boats, which the Gladys took in tow. The German officer then boarded the Kilocon from a submarine, and, after removing all flags and papers, attached some form of explosive to her quarter. As a result of the explosion her quarter was blown out and the steamer sank quickly.

The German officer told Kilocon's crew the Gladys would put them ashore.

Officer Was Polite.
When the submarine came alongside the Kilocon she was firing the British white ensign. The German officer courteously expressed regret to the master that he would have to sink the steamer as it was his duty to do so. The master of the Gladys wanted to land the Kilocon's crew at Liverpool, but the submarine commander insisted on his picking up the crew of the Kilocon's sailors which were rescued. Just before the Kilocon sank a Belfast and Liverpool passenger steamer was seen coming up making in the direction of the submarine, but on observing the blowing

LONDON, Jan. 31.—A profound sensation has been caused in shipping circles by the sinking of three British steamships in the Irish Sea by German submarines at a point a few miles from the harbor of Liverpool. The raid is believed to be the first step in Admiral Von Tirpitz's new naval policy of attempting to starve England by destroying merchant ships. Because of the great distance from the scene of the destruction of the steamship to the German naval base, it is believed probable that a steamship flying a neutral flag may have acted as a supply ship.

Late Saturday night the steam collier Gladys of Liverpool, Monk's Line, arrived at Douglas and landed eleven members of the crew of the steamer Kilocon of Belfast. About 2.30 in the afternoon, when off Liverpool, the Gladys was hailed by a German submarine, which came almost alongside. Evidently from what subsequently transpired, the submarine mistook the collier for a steam trawler. The German officer in command of the submarine ordered the Gladys to fol-

Is an All-Vegetable Diet Really a Help to Health?

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B. M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins)

THE art of trying to do a man's work upon a peabum of vegetation is an ideal that is neither ethical nor unethical, but apt to be decidedly precarious to a living textile balance.

Physiologically the food faddists who lament the cannibalism of the normal human creature and urge the propaganda of vegetarianism, hold to the doctrine that not less meats, chickweed and kumquats, in lieu of chicken and ham.

As a matter of fact, the human intestine is not only midway between that of the herb-eating brute and the carnivorous animal, but the alimentary canal of mankind is totally unfitted to digest grasses.

True enough, it is also theoretically made, not for flesh, but for fruits.

The man-like ape subsists on these. Teeth for Grinding. Scientific researches all point away from a universal and exclusive use of plant food for man. His very stomach ferments and these juices are made for consuming and macerating flesh and fiber. Moreover, there is a mechanism in his dental apparatus which demands something tough and meaty to grind, tear and bite upon.

Indeed, the sustained energy, precision, skill, co-ordination and muscular perception of a vegetarian as compared with a worker who adds meat to his diet is shown by refined psychological tests to be far superior in the meat eater than in the vegetarian. Superficially, to the ordinary observer, one who lives upon fruits, cereals and plants generally seems as muscular and vigorous as his flesh-eating brother. When a lively school of typhoid or pneumonia microbes happen to penetrate his being, however, there is a different story to tell.

Meat Depends on Work. The fatalities among vegetarians in active life are but slightly higher, but the maining incapacity and withdrawal of these from labor lasts many weeks and months longer, according to the studies made, than among the eaters of mixed foods. There are, however, many exceptions to this. The health of a fruit and green vegetable diet for men past the meridian of aggressive labor and vicor-

Where Soldiers Hold Funerals on Service Terms

By TEMPLE MANNING

ONE of the curious customs to be found among the French soldiers is that with which a private celebrates the end of his term of service in the army. Whatever he is in this land of the free may think of enforced military service, the "volonte" Frenchman has humor enough to treat it all as part of the day's work, and to inject some of his bubbling fun into it.

Burying His Enlistment.

His comrades, but first he holds a mock funeral. On a stretcher made into as close a likeness of a coffin as he can manage, he drapes his army blanket, chalks on the end of it words that announce "Here lies So-and-So of the class of 1911 (or whatever year he belongs to) regrets eternal," and then upon the top he drapes his service uniform. This is the "corpse" over which the funeral is held.

With solemn tap of the drum, a death guard in full uniform with guns, and his joking comrades kneeling about, the private himself reads his own oration over his own military services. Then, when the mummery is over, Number So-and-So becomes M. So-and-So, and leads his old-time comrades into the farewell banquet that always precedes his taking the train for home.

Evil "Romances" Invariably End Alike

By WINIFRED BLACK

HE fell in love with the young woman, did the rich, middle-aged man of affairs, and the young woman was flattered by his attention. It pleased her to think that she could attract a man of power and influence, a man who had seen and known many charming women, so she thought she'd fall in love with him. And she did.

She took his letters and his poems and carried them around with her and showed them to her friends. She wrote letters and poems, too, and she kept some of the flowers he sent her, and they had photographs taken together—the middle-aged man of affairs and the foolish little slip of a girl. And the middle-aged man promised that he would divorce his wife and make a settlement upon his children, and marry the little slip of a girl.

She was very happy, and very gay, and very much admired for those who had never seen anything particularly charming about her said to each other, when they heard of the man's infatuation: "After all, there must be something." And the little slip of a girl felt like the heroine of a great romance.

And then the man built the little slip of a girl a beautiful bungalow in the hills of a state far away, and together they entertained their friends there. But presently the girl began to notice that there weren't many women friends—not the sort she liked, at any rate. And the sort the men who came there began to bring were strange creatures, who talked a strange language of their own, which made the little slip of a girl feel, somehow, forlorn and entirely out of it.

And then she began to be tired of the bungalow and the queer people who came there, and she wanted to go to town and stay, and meet some of the men and women in the big world where the man of affairs lived. But, somehow, there was always some reason why she couldn't go.

And then one day she saw in the papers a list of those present at a smart wedding, and there was the name of Mr. and Mrs. Middle-aged. Why, he told her he hadn't spoken to his wife in years!

And the divorce! How slow he was in getting it. He said at first that there would be no trouble. His wife had deserted him anyhow. But now he began to talk about the children. He never used to mention them, and the other day he found fault with the slip of a girl for the way she did her hair, and he accused her of trying to flirt with one of his friends—and—and—and. All at once it was all over—the cruel, wicked, miserable fiction—and the little slip of a girl woke up to see herself just exactly what she was, and as she had been from the beginning—a victim.

And all the girls who are falling in love with married men will read the story of this case in the papers, every word of it. And they will look, every one of them, into the mirror and say: "Ah, but I am different," and they will take out from their hiding places the letters of the married man, and they will say, as they kiss them: "Ah, but he is different." And all the time they are all of them exactly alike.

It would be funny, wouldn't it, if it were not so dreadfully sad?

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am 18 years old and engaged to a young man who is away on business and only comes home every two weeks. He writes to another girl with whom he used to go, I have asked him to stop, but he always says, "I promised to write to her, and now I have to keep that promise." What ought I to do?

Also when he is away I go out with other fellows who take me to the theatre and other places. My sweetheart has also asked me to stop this. I will if he leaves off writing to the other girl. What shall I do?

When I talked over the matter with Aunt Quinte I had a white-tiled, glass-fronted bathroom in my mind, but Aunt Quinte discouraged my buying that kind of equipment. "The glass towel rods and shelves are excellent, of course, and the most sanitary things you can have, but if you must have your expenses I think you'd find them far too costly," she cautioned.

I don't advise your getting it then, it seems to me that you would find the nice white enameled curtain rod as satisfactory as anything else. It looks appealingly clean and smooth, will wear very long, and costs very little.

BUYING THE BATHROOM EQUIPMENT

ONE of the things I observed in our apartment is that there are no bathroom fixtures at all. I hadn't noticed this the first time we looked at the house, and I hadn't expected to buy these things. However, I marched into one of the stores today with a carefully planned list and had the things sent direct.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN MATRIMONY

Mary Becomes Philosophical.

HE said after a while, "why Joan thought the window displays of the expensive store an unwholesome influence?" The remark was somewhat the key to a side of Joan that I had not encountered and I was correspondingly curious.

"Well," said Mary, "she had ever so many reasons, and all interesting. And while we were standing looking at one window where they had perfectly wonderful evening gowns of glittering atoms and filigree, a shabbily dressed girl huddled beside us and fairly drank the thing in, and Joan said, 'Look, Mary, there's another reason beside us.'"

Joan on Windows.

"The girl had poor clothes on, but they were awfully flashy, and Joan said, 'You see, she stops on the way home and she sees things like this that she wants and can't have, and she goes off first and imitates, next she tries to scribble and buy, and finally, when she hasn't money enough to buy, she looks how she gets it—and there you are. I feel the invidious lure of these windows myself.'"

"Why?" I wondered. "Joan's people are rich, aren't they?"

"Yes," said Mary, "but Joan says that no matter how much money she has the windows are always just a stage set, tempting her to things she can't afford. Every time she gets an extra big allowance the window displays get a little more gorgeous." I insisted, "She's luxurious and frivolous and pleasure-loving enough to epitomize the atmosphere of the town."

"I know," nodded Mary, "and the minute after she stopped preaching she saw a wonderful comb she wanted to go with a certain evening gown, and the price was terrific. Joan didn't have enough money to buy it and there wasn't a change account there and she phoned her father. He grumbled a lot, but she bought the comb and went simply crazy about it."

"There," I laughed, "you have the woman's nature in a nutshell."

"Yes," said Mary, "it reminded me a little of the way you preach about cigarette-smoking and then you go on smoking yourself."

"Mary," I laughed, "you're coming back at me a pretty hard these days. Once upon a time you never had an answer for a kind like that."

"I don't know why it is," admitted Mary, "except that I did use to think them, but I was a little afraid of you."

"Where else did you go?" I asked hastily. "The cheap department store, I think you said. What was interesting there?"

"It wasn't so interesting," said Mary, "it was literally boring. A sale of some thing and oh, Peter, it was exactly like you read about and never believe. Women pulling things out and showing and pushing and snarling—and one woman had hold of one end of a thing and another woman on the other side of the table had the other, and neither would let go, and there they pulled and pulled 'til glared with red faces at each other until a floorwalker came. Peter, I never dreamt women would really act that way. And Joan said it made her blush for her sex."

"All of which is a proof," I suggested, "is not so same as she would have us think."

Six Months of War

After six months of war the situation of the campaigns in the eastern and western fronts bears little resemblance to that anticipated on the outbreak of the war.

In all probability the plans of the allies were at the start somewhat indefinite, dependent as these had to be on the development of the German campaign. That campaign, however, at least in its general design, was early made apparent and had without a doubt been long prepared.

In the first stage of the war the advantage lay with the invaders, whose numbers and quality of arms they had an unexpected enemy in the United Kingdom, but regarded any force it could place in the field as practically a negligible quantity.

It is probable that the Mendelssohn Choir will ever now be able to make the tour that had been hoped. Most authorities regard it as certain that it will take years for the bitterness of the conflict to wear away, and apart from that, for economic conditions to be restored so far as to warrant such a trip.

Perhaps the ultimate effect will be to more thoroughly Canadianize our musical art. It will not be less perfect, it will be no less universal and broad in its range, it will reject nothing of the inspiration of other great choirs, but it may take on a tinge, a flavor, a spirit, more distinctly national and redolent of our own continental life and destiny.

A VERY TRANSPARENT FAKE

Legislation passed by parliament some years ago. Stress is laid by the commission on the wide meshing attached to the term "town planning" in Britain, including as it does preventive measures in connection with housing evils.

In this it differs from the popular understanding in Canada and the United States where town planning is considered to have little concern with housing. But in the United States at least that restricted view is giving place to the more advanced notion which extends the term to everything connected with the city and with the health and well-being of the citizens.

In illustration of the comprehensive and constructive character of a town planning scheme in Great Britain the case of the Rutland-Northwood plan is cited. It deals with an area of 5,000 acres, or over nine square miles, of land lying within the 16-mile radius from the centre of London and includes among other provisions those for the making of new streets and widening of existing streets; diversion and stopping up of existing highways where necessary; appropriation at agricultural rates of land for garden allotments, cemeteries and public open spaces; fixing of building lines; limitation of the number of buildings to each acre and of the height of buildings and the imposing of other regulations in the public interest.

Still more, during the three years while the scheme was in preparation no building could be erected or contract entered into that would contravene the proposed scheme.

What is of even more significance, looking to the prevalent notions in Canada, is that the scheme was carried thru with the consent of practically all the owners and, the commission remarks, it is claimed that the benefits conferred upon them are in excess of any loss they may suffer, notwithstanding that the public health gains immeasurably. "Under such conditions shams become almost an impossibility, without any cost to the community." Nor should it be overlooked that the British acts permit town planning schemes to include within the area of more than one local authority.

In a report on the planning of Greater Vancouver, printed as a supplement to the article under review, Mr. Thomas Adams, town planning adviser, also speaks with approval regarding the legislation passed by the British Parliament. The Conservation Commission has itself prepared a Town Planning Act following the British precedent, and proposes, when the draft has been fully considered and discussed, to present it to the provincial governments as the final views of the commission on the subject of town planning.

The Mendelssohn Choir has more closely to Toronto than in connection with the Mendelssohn Choir, which represents the highest achievement of the city in musical art. Scarcely anyone who was not associated with the preparations can understand what an enormous amount of work was done in expectation of the proposed tour of the choir in England, and on the continent. All that work, the assiduous labor of many months, went for naught the moment war was declared.

It is probable that the Mendelssohn Choir will ever now be able to make the tour that had been hoped. Most authorities regard it as certain that it will take years for the bitterness of the conflict to wear away, and apart from that, for economic conditions to be restored so far as to warrant such a trip.

MUNICIPALITIES IN ROW WITH LINCOLN COUNCIL

Merriton and Port Dalhousie Object to Maintaining Canners and Grower's Route

By a Staff Reporter. ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 30.—The action of the Villages of Merriton and Port Dalhousie in appealing to the Ontario Government to relieve them of any liability for the upkeep of the Queenston and Grimshaw stone road, which they have been asked to maintain, was roundly condemned by the Lincoln county council, and a resolution of the council, granting relief to the two municipalities of 40 per cent of the liability, was rescinded and the government requested to return the money.

The council decided to vote $8,000 to the relief fund and $5,000 to the general fund. A threat that the Dominion Canners will close some of their factories this year unless the growers submit to a reduction in prices of from 30 cents to 25 cents per bushel for tomatoes was made yesterday by representatives of the combine to the executive of the new organization of growers formed to fight the reduction. The executive which favors standing out and refusing to grow tomatoes for the factories for less than 30 cents has called a general meeting of the growers to be held in St. Catharines next Saturday. It is probable that the executive will recommend that the planting of tomatoes this year be curtailed unless the growers can obtain the full price, the growers maintaining that the product cannot be grown profitably for less. It is understood that the canners have a large stock of tomatoes canned last season still on hand.

During the evening the rector, Rev. E. A. Vesey, made a presentation to the superintendent of the Sunday school, Frank Smith, of an eccitrore, which was given as a token of respect and esteem by the teachers and adult Bible class.

MEN CHEERFUL AT BREAKFAST. The heavy fall of snow yesterday morning made the Yonge Street Mills the most cheerful, with its warmth and light and aroma of coffee. The address of Rev. P. E. Elliott of Dovercourt Road Baptist Church was a fit ending to it all.

Closing the History Distribution. The World, as one of the syndicate of newspapers engaged in the distribution of literature, comprising text books, classics, etc., has to announce that the present distribution of Larned's History of the World will be discontinued on Feb. 4, or earlier if the present limited supply is exhausted before that date. The allotment secured by The World has been placed in thousands of homes in Canada, and The World has yet to receive a single complaint. Nothing but praise of the highest character has been received from those who have been fortunate enough to obtain a set of this wonderful work. At the price at which they have been offered, merely the cost of handling, they are the greatest value that a world history of any description has ever been sold. There are still some World readers who have not obtained a set. We would urge on them the advisability of taking advantage of our offer before the supply is exhausted, as they will never forgive themselves for allowing an opportunity of this kind to escape them.

Many leading Canadian educationists have spoken in the highest terms of Larned's History of the World as being of great value. The interesting manner in which it is written enables those who have ceased to study history to spend many a pleasant hour perusing it. Larned's style of writing is interesting as well as instructive, as reviewers of his work invariably agree that he has produced a history that avoids more than any other similar work anything to cause a religious controversy, and that there is less objection from the religious authorities to his work than most others. For this reason it is welcome in every home.

Larned has condensed in five volumes the story of seventy centuries, has covered the first fifty centuries in a rapid and brief review, the following twenty centuries of this world reviewed in a manner both repetitive with historical fact and entertaining reminiscences.

SUNDAY SCHOOL GAVE A SPLENDID CONCERT. Presentation Made to Superintendent Frank Smith of St. Edmunds.

The annual concert of St. Edmund's Sunday School was held recently in the basement of the church. A splendid program was given by the children of the school, items particularly noteworthy being the singing of the part songs: "My China Town," "Tipperary," "In the Candle Light," "The Seasons." A pleasant surprise was the attendance of about 20 young ladies from St. Mary's Sunday School. The Boy Scouts gave an exhibition of first aid, also presented a very amusing skit on the "Awkward Squad."

HARRY SYMONS, K.C., GIVEN FIVE YEARS

Found Guilty Saturday on Both Counts in Conspiracy Case.

BAIL FOR DR. HUGHES

Verdict of Guilty on Second Count, Sentence to Be Given in May.

After two weeks of the most arduous and nerve-racking legal battling the Union Life case came to a close Saturday afternoon, when the jury brought in a verdict of guilty against Harry Symons, K.C., on the first count, Dr. Hughes not guilty on the first count, and both guilty on the second.

Mr. Justice Clute sentenced Harry Symons, K.C., to five years imprisonment in Kingston Penitentiary. Dr. Hughes was held on $15,000 bail and will receive sentence May 25.

This now famous case was prosecuted by the crown because they conceived that the defendants, Harry Symons, K.C., Dr. Hughes, H. Polman, and Dr. Millibeam had defrauded the public in Canada on the first count and in England on the second.

Witness after witness was called giving evidence against the defendants, as to their methods of securing money, stating misrepresentation, and being given to understand that it would be a most profitable investment. The companies involved were the National Agency and the Union Life. It developed that the National Agency was the parent company, and the Union Life the child.

The English notation it developed that before trying to get the money the National Agency had cancelled all accounts and receipts of the Union Life in order that the Union Life might have a clean sheet to go before the English public, when as a matter of fact the National Agency was supported from the revenue of the Union Life. Evidence also proved that the directors put forth in the prospectus of the National Agency a guarantee in respect to the Union Life stock flotation.

Running Behind. From further statements it was proved that the Union Life was running behind from year to year and in the desperate efforts of the directors to increase the revenue of the company, the real relations of the two companies were never revealed to the shareholders. They had "written up" the stock of G. E. Clarkson the liquidator stated. In order to influence the public confidence they had given misstatements of the company. As to the English actuary, who wrote that he never would have given a report such as he did if he had known the truth.

In the judge's remarks to Symons he explained that defendant had intended to defraud from 1903 till the wind up of the company. That from evidence submitted he had not tried to stop the public from investing their money, taking from poor and rich alike, just as long as the money was put in. It was a gamble pure and simple with the people's money. This was said in respect to the first count. As to the second count they were trying to float an English company when they knew the both companies were insolvent. Even when they knew the losses amounted to $150,000 a year, I say that every single step was known to you, and I must regret that I agree with the jury in their verdict and do not feel inclined to show much leniency, and I hereby pass sentence on you to serve a term of five years.

In speaking to Dr. Hughes, Mr. Justice Clute said that he was in sympathy with him and would pass as light a sentence as possible. Dr. Hughes was then released on $15,000 bail, three $5,000 surties, from Monday next. Sentence has been withheld till May 25.

Mr. Symons was quite unaffected when receiving his sentence, and when leaving the court kissed his daughter, who was present through the trial. Dr. Hughes was visibly affected, shaking his hands, clutching the rail of the dock while Judge Clute ordered that all exhibits of the case should be kept under guard until required at the higher court.

REDUCE POSTAGE RATE OF MAIL TO SOLDIERS. Arrangements Made of Two Cents Per Ounce to Troops on Continent.

Arrangements have been made whereby the ordinary rate of two cents per ounce, applicable to all letters sent from Canada to the United Kingdom will apply to letters addressed to British and Canadian troops on the continent.

The rate on ordinary letters from Canada for the continent is five cents for the first ounce and three cents for each subsequent ounce, so that this extension of the two-cent an ounce rate to letters addressed to our soldiers on the continent is a decided reduction in favor of correspondence going to the soldiers.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 31.—By taking two more firsts in the Cleveland matches in the International Skating Union championships which ended Saturday night, Russell Wheeler of Montreal took the lead for the amateur title.

His closest opponent, Ben Cadey, of Cleveland, who was thought put out of the contests Friday night by a injured knee, but who gamely returned, ran up a total of 10 points tonight.

The final event, taking place in all three events, will be held in the International contests will be held Feb. 3, 4 and 5 at Saranac Lake, N.Y.

QUÉBEC, Jan. 31.—For the third time this season the Quebec team defeated Quebec in a well-contested game Saturday night, the final score being 2 to 1.

The only goal scored in the two periods was netted by Darragh. Rose added another to Ottawa's lead with one third, but Quebec came back and defeated Quebec a few minutes after. Quebec made no effort to score.

put the game on ice with another for Ottawa in the last minute or so. The game was therefore somewhat ragged. Tommy Smith filled the centre position for Quebec, but he was well watched to do much. It was an evenly balanced contest.

Referee: Johnny Brennan. Judge of Play: D. Power. First Period: No score. Second Period: 1. Ottawa, Darragh, 12:10. 2. Ottawa, 13:10. 3. Quebec, Marks, 2:27. 4. Ottawa, Graham, 2:50.

The settlement of Tommy Smith's case warrants another visit from the coast champions, and events of the past week indicate that their destiny will be the articles of the temple of King Solomon who gathers in the coin regardless of the war or depression.

Varsity had considerably the better of the first game of the senior Intercollegiate against McGill at the Arena on Saturday, outlasting them to the tune of 12 goals to 2. Eight of the Varsity scores were made in the third period, when they had things all their own way.

The officers of the association are: President, W. J. Corby; 1st vice-president, R. A. Sibbitt; 2nd vice-president, Blyth Beattie; secretary-treasurer, C. Herbert Rogers.

Varsity spares: Hall, Montgomery and Marson. Varsity spares: Wilson and Smith. Referee: J. G. McArthur.

Right from the start Varsity took the offensive and forced the play. Two minutes after the puck was set in motion Mills made the first goal. The blue and whites kept the Montrealers continually on the defensive and just before the end of the first period Mathers took the puck from the defenders, scoring the second point.

Things evened up somewhat during the early part of the second period, when Parsons and Ed both scored for the visitors, putting the teams level. Both sides tried hard to get the lead, and time after time they were within close range of the net. After ten minutes' play, however, Varsity again took the lead when Murray circled behind the net and scored. Two minutes later the same player again got going and from mix-up in front of the goal scored Varsity's fourth.

During the third period there was only one team in it. Goals were made by Varsity in a rapid manner, completely outplaying the McGill team. The first goal was scored by Defoe, Mills, Jupp, Murray and three seconds before the game ended Jupp sent in for the twelfth.

Varsity completely outplayed McGill.

Winning Stake at Ottawa at Prohibitive Odds—Lady Halford Winner.

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—(Staff Special).—The day was very cold and the attendance at the Hull Driving Club meeting today did not fall away to an appreciable extent. Three races were carded with the unfinished classified trot as the opener. Tom Milestone, the Calgary trotter, won the first heat today with the Gleaner second, and Prince C. third. Time 2:44. This made three heat winners in the race. Miss Brownlowe won the first heat. The Gleaner the second and Tom Milestone the third. It looked like the Calgary horse would finish it up, but Miss Brownlowe, who was very steady in the fourth heat, trotted all the way. She finished second, but was given the decision, as it was a trotting race and both Milestone and Prince C. made repeated breaks. Miss Brownlowe won the fifth and final heat in slow time, 2:53. The first race of today's program was a classified trot or pace with six starters. Patchan Wilkes II opened favorably, selling for $10, Fred L. W. and the Gleaner.

INDOLENCE MAKES NEW TRACK RECORD

In Distance Feature Race at New Orleans—Results at Juarez and Havana.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 30.—The mile and a sixteenth handicap which featured an ordinary card at the Fair Grounds this afternoon, resulted in another track record dominated for the entire trip. O'Brien, after hard drive to dispose of Robert Kay, won by a head in the fast time of 1:12 1/2, which is one-fifth of a second better than the previous time for the distance, and made by St. Valentine and Green Seal respectively in 1907 and 1902. The race engaged some of the best drivers here, but in the running indolence dominated for the entire trip. O'Brien handling him in faultless fashion and at all times was alert for Robert Kay's final bid. The latter, the conceding weight to the others, made a good showing.
