TERMS OF ARMISTICE ANNOUNCED ENDING THE GREAT WORLD WAR

Evacuation of Invaded Territories, Including Alsace-Lorraine---Reparation for All Damage---Occupation of Gateways to Germany and Practical Disarmament by Sea and Land.

AIMED TO CONQUER WORLD BUT NOW STANDS HUMBLER

Germany Stripped of Every Power To Renew War-- Terms of Armistice Announced by President Wilson in an Address Before Congress.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Terms of the armistice, which end the world war, because they strip Germany of the power to renew it, were announced by President Wilson today in an address to congress, assembled in joint session.

Evacuation of all the invaded territories, including Alsace-Lorraine, reparation for all damage done, occupation by allied forces of principal gateways to Germany, handing over of the principal units of the German high seas fleet, surrender of enough war materials to practically disarm the German forces, and the occupation by American and allied forces of strategic gateways to Germany to enforce the fulfillment of terms are the principal features.

Complete destruction of the German military machine, which brought on the war, is provided for, and the way paved for reparation for the damage it wrought.

Germany must get out of Russia entirely and leave territory now occupied open to the allies. The map of Europe, during discussion of peace terms, will be restored to the lines of 1914.

- Summary of the Armistice
1. German armies to withdraw to east bank of Rhine.
2. Immediate evacuation of all invaded countries.
3. Surrender of 160 submarines, six battle cruisers, ten battleships, eight mine-layers and 50 destroyers...

HINDENBURG OFFERS TO SERVE NEW PEOPLE'S GOVERNMENT

Places Himself and the German Army at Disposal of Rulers of Revolution.

London, Nov. 11.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg has placed himself and the German army at the disposition of the new people's government at Berlin, says a despatch from the German capital by way of Copenhagen.

GARRISONS IN REVOLT ALONG DUTCH FRONTIER

Officers Are Being Disarmed and in Some Cases Roughly Treated.

Amsterdam, Nov. 11.—German garrisons along the Dutch frontier are reported in revolt. Officers are being disarmed and are being treated roughly in some instances.

Thousands of Dutch workmen are streaming homeward from Krupp at Essen. Work in the Rhinish Westphalian industrial regions is at a standstill in many places.

Street fighting is taking place in Warsaw, the capital of Poland. The railway station there has been captured by Polish forces, who have refused the German troops in the city permission to pass thru Polish territory.

Public authority in the Prussian North Sea port of Danzig is in the hands of a soldiers' and workers' council formed by both Socialist parties. There were no disturbances Sunday, but a general strike has been declared for today.

SHOTS WERE FIRED AT KAISER'S TRAIN

Car Abandoned by William Hohenzollern for Motor Car.

London, Nov. 11.—A special despatch received from Eysden, Holland, says that when the train of William Hohenzollern arrived there the former German emperor was not aboard. Later he arrived by motor car, having abandoned the train because of shots fired at the window of the car in which he was riding.

MAY INTER EX-KAISER AT ARNHEM, HOLLAND

London, Nov. 11.—A despatch to The Daily Mail from The Hague, dated Sunday, asserts that it was the intention of the former emperor to remain aboard the train at Eysden through the night and that he would leave Monday morning for internment in a chateau between Utrecht and Arnhem. It was added that his suite would be interned at Arnhem.

A Word to Breeders and Drovers.

Nowhere was the news of the glorious victory received with greater enthusiasm than on the floor of the Union Live Stock Exchange yesterday morning, and the receipts well nigh constituted a record not a dollar changed hands, and not an animal was sold.

COME ACROSS

FOUR KINGDOMS, MANY STATES IN HANDS OF REVOLUTIONARIES

King of Saxony Has Been Deposed and Wurttemberg Has Been Declared a Republic---Grand Dukes Promising to Reform, But Thrones Are Tottering.

London, Nov. 11.—The admiralty has intercepted a German wireless addressed from "the Command and Soldiers' Council on the Cruiser Strassburg," to "all ships, torpedo boats, destroyers and submarines in the North Sea."

The message refers to the terms of the armistice and declares: "This would entail the destruction of us all. German comrades, defend our country against this unheard-of presumption."

Strong English forces are reported off the Skaw. All submarines in the Baltic, except those on outpost duty, assemble immediately in Sassnitz harbor.

Sassnitz is a watering place on the east coast of the Island of Ruegen, Prussia.

Copenhagen, Nov. 11.—The revolution in Germany is today, to all intents and purposes, an accomplished fact.

The revolt has not yet spread through the whole empire, but fourteen of the twenty-six states, including all the four kingdoms and all other important states are reported securely in the hands of the revolutionaries.

The free cities of Hamburg, Bremen and Luebeck are ruled by Socialists. In the Grand Duchy of Oldenburg, Baden, Bismarck, Mecklenburg-Schwerin and Mecklenburg-Strelitz the power of the rulers is gone.

The king of Saxony has been deposed, according to an official telegram from Berlin.

The kingdom of Wurttemberg has been declared a republic and the king has announced he will not stand in the way of any movement demanded by a majority of the people.

The free cities of Hamburg, Bremen and Luebeck are ruled by Socialists. In the Grand Duchy of Oldenburg, Baden, Bismarck, Mecklenburg-Schwerin and Mecklenburg-Strelitz the power of the rulers is gone.

Amsterdam, Nov. 11.—Describing the situation in Berlin last Sunday, the correspondent there of The Handicapper says: "The morning the aspect of Berlin has changed completely. Carriages filled with soldiers and civilians moved slowly thru streets crowded with sight-seers, who are not yet

KAISER WAS HEADED OFF BY THE REVOLUTIONARIES

Forced to Seek Safety in Holland, Where It is Said He Is Not Wanted.

Amsterdam, Nov. 11.—Former Emperor William, it is reported here, was on his way to the British lines to surrender when he was headed off by German revolutionaries and forced to seek safety in Holland.

It is stated on good authority here that he will be interned in Holland.

William Hohenzollern, the former German emperor, his eldest son and Field Marshal von Hindenburg, it is learned from a reliable source, are in a railway train near the station of Eysden, awaiting the decision of the Dutch Government. The blinds on the train are down.

The Handelsblad says it learns the Dutch Government will object to the former German emperor residing in Holland.

Officials of the Dutch Government and the German minister at The Hague have gone to Eysden, on the Dutch frontier, to meet the former German emperor.

LONDON'S LORD MAYOR CONGRATULATES CROWDS

London, Nov. 11.—The lord mayor of London, who, in response to calls from the crowds, came to the front of the mansion house, said: "Citizens of London: Let us congratulate ourselves on the great news that our four years of strenuous work has now come to an end and that we see before us the result of the strenuous labor of Great Britain and her allies."

"Let us not forget that there is still work for every loyal and patriotic citizen in the reconstruction and many other problems which must arise. I will only say now, let us give three cheers to His Majesty!"

To this there was a great response. At the admiralty there were calls for a speech from Sir Eric Geddes, the first lord. The crowds had collected there and hastily improvised platforms were erected for the first lord and the members of the board of admiralty.

Sir Eric Geddes called for three cheers for Vice-Admiral Beatty (commander of the Grand Fleet), and these having been given with great fervor, the crowd again asked for a speech, but the cheering drowned all else. The first lord called for cheers for the British blue-jackets.

A special service of prayer was held at St. Paul's in the afternoon, the lord mayor and sheriffs attending.

SHE GAVE HER ALL.

R. E. Young, organizer at Fort William, gives a wonderful example of patriotic devotion.

One of his captains, Geo. Farlinger, at Sioux Lookout, states that Mrs. Skelton, an Englishwoman, has had four sons killed in the war; another son is a prisoner in Germany while her daughter's husband has also been killed, leaving a young son.

Mrs. Skelton produced a bank book showing a credit of $312. She gave a cheque for $500 for bonds for herself, bought an additional $100 each for her prisoner son and widowed daughter, then signed a promise to pay for a $100 bond for the grandson.

WAR SUMMARY

THE DAY'S EVENTS REVIEWED

Germany has fallen; the allies have won their decisive victory. The fighting has ceased after 52 months of struggling and the peace congress of Paris will shortly begin to settle the affairs of Europe. It will make a new map and will usher in a new era. The old order everywhere has gone; the new order is setting in with revolution in Germany and incalculable economic changes in the hands of the allies. It is a new world today, altho people in the remotest regions of the earth have not yet realized the change, but when the soldiers come home, men and women will perceive that the world has traveled perhaps a hundred years forward in the course of four years crowded with strenuous events that have called forth the utmost endurance from the British, the British dominions and allies. One revolutionary political change has already come from the war and will shortly make its weight tell in the scales of government. It is the enfranchisement of women.

For 48 months the allies suffered untold agony with little beyond hope and a contemplation of their growing resources to cheer them on their awful way. For four months Germany has experienced what the allies have experienced in the previous 48, with a little added severity and larger retribution. The German people have been her abject surrender. The Kaiser a fugitive, the crown prince, his heir, reported shot; the thrones of the German provinces tumbling into the dust; all these testify to the growth of the German tribes over what their emperors, kings, dukes and princes have caused them to suffer. Germany has not yet time to realize the nature of the catastrophe. Her armies have to fall back to the eastern bank of the Rhine; they have to abandon a wide strip of German soil, have to hand over to French occupation not only Alsace-Lorraine, but the rich coal basin of the Saar.

The test of defeat is the surrender of Alsace-Lorraine by Germany and the consequent abandonment of her rich iron deposits. The loss of these deprives the German army of its principal mainstay in the future and does more to assure the future peace of the world than all the shufflings of diplomats. France is peacefully inclined and not prone to disturb the tranquillity of the world by a war of aggression. The immediate security of the allied supreme command, and this has been achieved by the coming compulsory surrender of nearly one-half of the remaining German military equipment, including 2500 heavy siege guns and the withdrawal beyond the Rhine. The withdrawal gives up to the allies the powerful border fortress, beginning with Metz, and the control of a large and wealthy manufacturing district. The German army east of the Rhine will have no defensible front if it endeavors to renew hostilities.

THE SITUATION IN GERMANY

Paris, Nov. 11.—The situation in Germany today, as far as it can be ascertained from news arriving thru Switzerland, may be summed up as follows: "In Prussia the emperor is gone and a Socialist government in an undetermined form is in power. "In Bavaria and Wurttemberg republics have been proclaimed. "The royal family of Oldenburg has fled and a revolution is reported. "A republic has been formed in Schleswig-Holstein. "Frankfurt, Hamburg, Cologne, Essen, Muehlheim, Aix-la-Chapelle and Emeric, as well as many other cities, are in the hands of the revolutionaries. "Kiel, Wilhelmshaven and other ports are in the power of revolutionary units."

GERMANY TO EVACUATE 20,000 SQUARE MILES

Will Have to Give Up Territory Abounding in Rich Mineral Resources.

Washington, Nov. 11.—A despatch which gives the first news that the left, or West, bank of the Rhine is to be evacuated by the Germans indicates that, pending final adjustment of the boundary of the peace conference, the Germans will be required to relinquish control, not only of Alsace-Lorraine, but of the remainder of German territory west of the Rhine. The territory is roughly 20,000 square miles in extent, with a population of about 6,000,000. It includes some of the most important mining and manufacturing districts of Germany, such as the Ruhr, the Cologne, Strassburg, Metz and Essen, home of the Krupp works.

MUCH OF GERMANY TO BE EVACUATED

Armistice Stipulates German Abandonment of Big Strip of Country.

Washington, Nov. 11.—One of the principal points in the armistice concerns the evacuation of the country west of the Rhine, including Alsace-Lorraine and the Ruhr. The evacuation of the country west of the Rhine, including Alsace-Lorraine and the Ruhr, is stipulated in the armistice. The evacuation of the country west of the Rhine, including Alsace-Lorraine and the Ruhr, is stipulated in the armistice.

Washington, Nov. 11.—A despatch which gives the first news that the left, or West, bank of the Rhine is to be evacuated by the Germans indicates that, pending final adjustment of the boundary of the peace conference, the Germans will be required to relinquish control, not only of Alsace-Lorraine, but of the remainder of German territory west of the Rhine. The territory is roughly 20,000 square miles in extent, with a population of about 6,000,000. It includes some of the most important mining and manufacturing districts of Germany, such as the Ruhr, the Cologne, Strassburg, Metz and Essen, home of the Krupp works.

GLORY FOR CANADA Has Fulfilled All Obligations of International Duty and National Honor.

Montreal, Nov. 11.—Sir Thomas White, the acting prime minister, who was in Montreal today taking part in the Victory Loan parade, gave out the following statement to the Canadian people in regard to the signing of the armistice.

Canada Has Played Her Part. "As for Canada, we may, without fear of reproach, reflect with just pride upon the part played by the Dominion in this great and terrible world drama. We have fulfilled all the obligations of international duty and of national honor. We have been true to the empire and to our allies.

London, Nov. 11.—Waving flags and cheering, an enormous crowd pressed into Downing street before noon today shouting, "Lloyd George! Lloyd George!" Finally the cheers and shouts brought Lloyd George and Andrew Bonar Law, chancellor of the exchequer, to a second floor window of the premier's residence. When they appeared pandemonium ensued.

EXAGGERATED REPORTS OF MATERIAL TAKEN

Rome, Nov. 11.—Reports of the amount of war material falling into the hands of the Italians in the recent operations, a semi-official note says, are exaggerated. Enemy depots found intact contain only food, consisting of mixed flour and great quantities of cabbage. Most of the food, it is added, would be needed to feed Austrian prisoners.

Do Rushing Business. The last totals given out for the city were the ones compiled at noon yesterday, as the teams were doing such a rushing business in bond selling that they did not stop at 5 o'clock as usual, but kept right on selling bonds into the night. The result when totaled up today is expected to give some idea of Toronto's joy at the wonderful news of "peace with victory."

The crowds that were gathered at every possible corner of the downtown section were great hunting grounds for the salesmen, and the people were in just the proper happy spirit to buy bonds to the limit of their purses in some cases. Open wide was the heart of Toronto yesterday, and if ever the Queen City was in a free-handed mood it was the day that the happy news reached the citizens that the world war was ended and that peace was about to reign on the earth once more.

It was hopeless for the canvassers to attempt to do their regular routes in the residential parts of the city, for there was no one at home that could get up town, so the most of them concentrated their efforts on the crowds gathered in celebration up town. There was no report yesterday at all from the employes' end of the campaign, as might be expected, as there were but few employes of any concern at work. Wednesday is to be employes' day, when the results from all firms and manufacturing plants or factories are expected to be in, so that a statement may be issued on what the firms in Toronto have done for the Victory Loan. Sir Edmund Walker announced last night that the Equitable Life Insurance Co. had subscribed for one million dollars' worth of the Victory Loan thru the Canadian Bank of Commerce. The Toronto Carpet Manufacturing Co. Ltd., and the Barrymore Cloth Co. have subscribed for $275,000 of the Victory Loan.

Montreal Gets Credit. Sir Edmund Oleser, a Toronto director of the Canadian Pacific Railway, announced yesterday that he had made an effort to have the $16,000,000 contribution of the C.P.R. split up so that a part would come to Toronto, but in view of the enormous number of places where the C.P.R. does business this was found to be impossible and Montreal had to be credited with the whole amount.

Victory Day proved a golden opportunity for the bond salesmen and they took every advantage of it. All day long, except when the parade was passing, a varied entertainment was going on near King and Yonge. A large motor truck, which occupied the centre of the street, and from this elevated spot, songs, dances and other vaudeville stunts took place. When the crowd was densest a bond salesman would come forward and pound into the ears of the mob the fact that all their joy was as nothing and meaningless unless they backed it up with their dollars. Buy bonds! Buy bonds! Thousands of dollars' worth were sold during the afternoon, and as the day waned into twilight the program continued. Volunteer artists from the crowd amused the people between times and on dainty miss even offered kisses to bond buyers. Her offer stimulated sales considerably, and her rosy lips enriched the loan by $3000. "It doesn't hurt me, but it hurts the Hun," she said laughingly.

The most critical period in the history of the Dominion finds Canada in a prosperous condition and her people with hands full of money to finance any scheme for bringing home and taking care of the khaki-clad heroes who so joyfully welcomed the glad tidings of yesterday morning. Those who fought for the peace of the world must be cared for and transported safely to their native shores yet, even if the war is over, and in the midst of the joy of the cessation of hostilities the people of Canada must lend gladly and freely of the wealth gained during the times of prosperity.

Tomorrow has been designated by the Victory Loan committee as Employes' Day. J. W. Mitchell, chairman of the Toronto executive, makes this announcement and especially asks that employes working in co-operation with the employes' organization concentrate their efforts today and tomorrow in making a grand sweep of their firms, so that the largest possible amount of money may be subscribed and a spectacular result be announced on Thursday morning. "The executive feels that the efforts of the employes of Toronto will mean many millions for the loan," said Mr. Mitchell yesterday. "All district chairmen are being similarly urged to ensure the completion of the canvass or organization of the firms and employes within their territory. Only five days remain for the completion of the loan, and all efforts must be redoubled during that time if Toronto is to reach her new objective of $100,000,000."

RECITAL WAS POSTPONED. Owing to conditions yesterday, the recital to which was to have been given at the new Masonic Hall by Ernest Hutcheson was postponed until Wednesday. The artist gives a recital to-night at Convocation Hall for the soldiers of the city.

LIEUT. J. HODGSON DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Pte. W. V. Ramsay, Son of Dr. Ramsay, Succumbs to Illness.

Lieut. J. E. H. Hodgson, previously reported ill, is now reported to have died of pneumonia in London, England, while on leave. He was the son of the late J. E. Hodgson and Mrs. Belle Hodgson, 431 Brunswick avenue. He went overseas as paymaster of the 92nd Highlanders, but served at the front with the Princess Pats.

Pte. Wm. V. Ramsay, a returned soldier, son of Rev. Dr. Ramsay, 75 Hoagarth avenue, died in Plenty, Sask. He was formerly an active soldier at the front with the 5th University Company, Princess Pats. Two brothers are on overseas service.

A large motor truck, which occupied the centre of the street, and from this elevated spot, songs, dances and other vaudeville stunts took place. When the crowd was densest a bond salesman would come forward and pound into the ears of the mob the fact that all their joy was as nothing and meaningless unless they backed it up with their dollars.

Word just received states that Pte. W. E. Crampton, 56 Margueretta street, who last October had his right leg amputated, is now ill in hospital. He went over when 15 years of age as a member of the 198th (Buff) Battalion.

SAVE THE BABY IN CRY FROM BELGIUM. The "maternity canteens" in occupied Belgium endeavor to improve as much as possible the food conditions for mothers and prospective mothers.

Unfortunately, the value of the meals served in these canteens has decreased owing to the continual increase in the price of foodstuffs, and the diminution of help from individuals who are less and less able to divert anything from their own already scanty stores. The communes of Greater Brussels are trying to remedy this situation, and some of them have already granted the "maternity canteens" a subsidy of 40 centimes (8 cents) a meal.

The cry in Canada and America has long been, "Save the baby," and if this be true, then why must it be in Belgium, not only in the occupied regions, but the regions devastated by the hand of the German and now gradually being reclaimed by the allied armies? "Save the Belgian baby" is a cry that the people on this side of the Atlantic, whose homes and families know nothing of the horrors of war, might well heed, for should the cry of those suffering Belgian mothers and little children fall on deaf ears, their last state would truly be worse than their first, and their liberation an empty and useless thing.

help, and need it in the worst way. There is a specially appointed commission who are looking after the needs of the Belgian people, the Belgian Relief Commission, whose funds are all voluntary contributions and who know how and where money can be spent to the best advantage in Belgium to stave off further suffering. There may be a local committee in your locality, but if not, any donation you can give of your plenty may be sent to the central committee, 59 St. Peter street, Montreal, Que.

POLAR EXPLORERS WERE MEN OF NOTE

Stefansson Expedition's Discoveries Should Prove of Value to Science.

Despite many counter-attractions, a good-sized audience heard Vilhjalmur Stefansson at Massey Hall last night when he told something of his experiences during his five years of life in the Arctic regions. It was in May, 1913, that the noted explorer set out in charge of the expedition, which was financed by the Dominion Government. The importance of the undertaking was impressed on the audience by the statement that the men engaged were all scientific experts, and almost every country in the world had to be communicated with in order to get the men necessary. Three were obtained in Great Britain, one in Denmark, one in New Zealand, one in United States, and so on.

The specific work which the expedition was to try to accomplish was to explore 1,000,000 square miles north of Alaska and west of the known Canadian Islands. In carrying out the work there were six different vessels operating in different parts, but early in the first year one of the vessels—the Carlov—which carried much of the equipment and the men who were to do the work, was lost.

Dr. Stefansson gave an interesting account of the journey with dogs and sled and of the method of catching the seal, upon which during a good deal of the time the food of the party depended. When food was just sufficient to cover 50 days, the men consented to travel 50 days and then return. They also asked $25 a day on account of the risk. The speaker recalled the time in 1914 when it was thought the expedition was lost, when in the house Mr. Oliver inquired about the men of the expedition, and Mr. Hazen declared there was no chance of their being alive.

PEACE

Flow, flag, in the soft wind; blow, bugle, blow; The day we dreamed of through the years is here. Lowered is Mars' red spear; And the shot-peopled air, Tired of the wild trumpet's blare, Tired of the upturned, glassy eyes of men, Is quiet again. Discord has fled with her gigantic peals, And, at her heels, Walks the old silence of the long ago. Flow, flag, in the soft wind; blow, bugles, blow.

The upturned faces of the world today Are like the laughing waves of a sea in May. Tears are a lost art of a hateful dream; Laughter is King, is King. Blow, bugles, blow; let the wild sirens scream, Let the mad music ring, Until the very flowers shall nod and sing. I hear the lusty cheers of youth whose years Were blown to the crag's black edge; I see the Hours quaff up a mother's tears As the sun drinks dew upon a Devon hedge. No more shall the sad wires transmit the dole That gnaws into the soul. And that vast company we call the dead Shall know the flag of Peace flies overhead Because of the new lightness of our tread.

In Flanders now the birds find their first wonder Since that loud August thunder That shattered the blue skies like broken glass. The wonder now is that the thing is dead That passed, with crimson tread, Over the silken floor of fragrant grass— The screaming, blatant woe That turned his plowshare in the flowers and sowed, By the quiet, dreaming road, His crop of gleaming crosses, row on row. Flow, flag, in the soft wind; blow, bugles, blow.

Like as a river dries up in the light Our tears have blown to vapor. The airplanes drop down in their droning flight Like floating paper. The gun that camouflaged her brutal throat In Bourlon's thicket Shall dream tonight in wonder at the note Of some lone cricket. And, where a maddened cuirassier grew gory In that wild, sudden clash of yesterday, Some docile, blue-eyed youth will sing a story And laughing, dancing children's feet will play.

The world is blown with color like a flower In this triumphant hour. The great procession grows, their shining feet Sandalled with dewy peace. I watch them passing up the city street; Gaining on life a new and wondrous lease. Old men who pick up life like a broken rose Which they had thrown away; Old women who unwind their temple snows And comb them up for a new holiday; Young maidens, all their spirits like the flow Of the new melted snow; Flow, flag, in the soft wind; blow, bugles, blow.

This that we hear is but a shining drop In the glad sea of mirth. The tide flows round the world and will not stop Until it brims the earth. The Bedouin Arab now invites his dance Where the sandstorms croon; And a mad company in lilted France Unwind a rigadoun. Down a soft English lane Wild, happy, blue-eyed children chase the rain. They wrap their throats in song from Maine to where The Golden Gate unwinds her mist of hair. One grief alone we have; blow, bugle, blow; The crosses stand in Flanders, row on row. They shall not watch with us tonight nor fare On our bright bugle's blare.

Flow, flag, in the soft wind; blow, bugles, blow; And then tonight, when all the lights are dim, Let us pour out our thanks in praise to Him Who gave the peace we know.

Toronto, November 7, 1918. WILSON MACDONALD. (Copyrighted, Nov. 8, 1918.)

TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 12

The Terms of the Armistice.

Scarcely anyone will be able to find fault with the terms of the armistice signed by Germany on the score of comprehensiveness. There does not seem to be anything omitted. It is true that the Kaiser and his crew are not mentioned, but there are obvious reasons for this. The German Government could not very well exert control over the Kaiser after his flight to Holland, and the question of the disposition of the Kaiser under conditions of the allied powers presents many difficulties. We may be sure that whatever steps are taken will be well considered. Questions of international law will be raised, but there are few precedents. Napoleon surrendered, and the Kaiser is not likely to do. Probably the Kaiser would rather trust the justice of England than the mercy of his own countrymen, but it may be that Germany is the only power with authority to extradite him.

However, the Hague convention may have something to say. It is true that Germany refused to sign it, but Holland, as custodian of the peace palace and its code, owes something to those who did, and such a flagrant and persistent violator of the Hague regulations must give an account.

The stipulations regarding the navy, the artillery and railway equipment, the evacuation of territory and other important points are exceedingly drastic, but not more so than was expected. No demands for indemnity are made, and it is expected that the point will be waived by the powers, who think that Germany will have enough to do to make restitution.

It cannot be said that the terms are ungenerous. But they undo all the wrongs that Germany has spent a century and a half in consolidating.

The situation for the allied powers is very good. The great need in Europe is, of course, food. The activity of our food controllers (or otherwise) will now prove their utility. There will be fewer cargoes of munitions and more of food shipped across the Atlantic.

But there will be a great congestion in traffic for a long time to come on the sea routes. We must not expect all our friends back on the next boat. The prisoners have to be gathered and checked off and it is impossible to say what may be expected of them. It is probable they will receive a furlough, but reliance should not be placed on this.

There is a great work ahead of the allied armies yet in police work. The British army has been more frequently employed in pacification measures than in military service, and their good temper, their justice, their common sense and practical minds have made them general favorites. It is probable that they will have much to do in the territories now disorganized but set free for a new destiny.

The people of Canada have a right to rejoice and be proud of the part their troops have played in the field. From the great and splendid day when before Ypres they met the hells of the Germans down the long record, Courcellette, Vimy, Passchendaele, Arras, Valenciennes, and last of all, Mons, the final action of the war, Canada has always been able, reliable and willing. How willing these good lads have been the long roll of glory too sadly says. They have given Canada her place among the nations, and she may now sing Magnificat:

"He hath shewed strength with His arm; He hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts."
"He hath put down the mighty from their seat, and hath exalted the humble and meek."

There Are Still Anxious Hearts in Canada.

In spite of the general rejoicing, there are still many anxious hearts in Canada. Canadian soldiers were engaged in hard fighting up to the very moment that the armistice was signed, and indeed for some hours after. The first shot of the war seems to have been fired by a Canadian. This means that many Canadian soldier boys have been killed or wounded whose names have not yet appeared on the casualty lists.

In many cases fifteen, twenty or even thirty days elapse between a casualty and the receipt of the news from Ottawa by the next of kin. If we wait for the slow process of official reporting thousands of parents, wives, sisters and sweethearts must pass the next two or three weeks in anxiety and gloom. Many soldiers, of course, will cable home; but the lines are congested and many may be unable to send the cable.

The World, therefore, suggests that the government should immediately publish a list of those Canadian units which have been notably engaged in fighting during the past two or three weeks. This will limit the possible number of eleventh hour casualties. The government, we think, might even go further and arrange for all the soldiers who have been on the fighting line during the past two or three weeks sending word home that they are safe and well.

Unavoidably, there must be pain and sorrow still in store for a number of homes in Canada, but the burden of anxiety and gloom should be lifted from those homes, where there could be rejoicing and thanksgiving if the facts were made known. Why should thousands of people be kept for days and weeks in suspense when there is really nothing for them to worry about? Let the government act quickly and humanely in this most important matter.

IDA TALKS ON WAR HEROES

By IDA L. WEBSTER.

"When human nature can endure no more, God sends peace."

To you relatives who have borne the load during the trying four years which have just passed over us, we would like to extend both our sympathy and our congratulations. You are the real heroes of this war, and you alone should be given what honor there is.

Mothers who have paid the supreme sacrifice of losing their sons, and wives who have endured the same ordeal in the passing of their husbands are the folks to whom the Victoria Crosses should be handed. And after them to the boys who have lost their limbs, or other faculties.

Thousands are celebrating the great joy of victory, but after all, it is not the woman who goes alone to her room and there offers up a prayer to God, who is celebrating best of all? The mainstay of her home has "gone west" then she must ask for the guidance which will enable her to baffle the way for herself and her dependents. She must also remember that if the lever of fate has swung the other way, she would be making ready her home to receive her returning boy, because whether it be husband or son they are but boys to the ones who have been waiting for so many months for their return.

In faircourt the homes are now being decorated with flags and bunting, and welcome signs. All this being done at the very suggestion of peace one might say, but it shows how very anxious the hearts of the home folks have been for an excuse to this very thing. One woman when speaking of us about it, said: "Yes, I know they are not the boys who have been waiting for months, but if the decorations are before me, I will feel that the days are shorter."

After the severe endurance test they must have something which will keep the promise of their man's return constantly before them. Not that there would be possibility of forgetting it, but just to sort of remind them that the dark days are over, and that the future holds wonderful possibilities.

And to those who will be welcoming back their loved ones may we say that the best thought to keep in mind, that they suffered untold agonies in the cause of freedom, and they deserve a just reward—a home that will never fail to be the best place on earth, and where they will always find all the comforts of which they have been dreaming for so long. Many of their hours have been spent in thinking of what they would like to eat. Did you make for them in the old days, and which would have been dishes of heaven had they been forthcoming while they were in the trenches.

"Home," to many the best place in the world, and to others merely a place to go when all else fails. But has been the rule in the old days, but from now on, let everyone work together for the aim of making all homes best, and none of them comfortless. Women are said to make or mar the family fireside. If this is true try harder than ever before to do your part well.

To those who will not be hanging out the welcome banners is the greatest blessing of all, because you have given your best in the effort which was needed to make this country a free one for all time.

RESULTS CLEARLY PROVE IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

For years there has been a common street saying to the effect that "it pays to advertise," but it is doubtful if this statement was even more vividly carried out than in the case of the department of agriculture of Ontario.

An advertisement in connection with the war garden campaign. Coupons were published and at that there were comparatively few newspapers used, but the results were absolutely astounding. In fact, the returned vouchers amounted to something like 10,000 within a very few days, and since that time there have been probably 2000 more booklets called for.

These little booklets were called "A Vegetable Garden for Every Home," and strange to relate the requests for them did not come solely from Ontario, but one was received from Singapore, another from a Canadian soldier in France, and a third from Sydney, while others came from every city between Toronto and Vancouver, thus proving beyond all shadow of a doubt that it does pay to advertise.

The Brave Nun Who Sprang to the Defence of Her Country.

Nearly everybody knows the story of Joan of Arc, but how many persons ever heard of Julia Duguesclin? Yet she saved her country—the Duchy of Brittany—just as dramatically as her counterpart saved France in its hour of peril.

Julia Duguesclin was a nun—a devoted, pious nun—deeply engrossed in her work and living quietly and happily in a convent in the Duchy of Brittany. The English engaged in a war in support of the title of John of Montfort to the sovereignty. They invaded the country, and soon what had been a scene of peace and tranquillity was transformed into a battlefield. Whole regions were devastated, and the conquerors appeared to be having everything their own way. In any of the inhabitants fled for their lives, and law and order were practically suspended.

The order of which Julia Duguesclin was a member was expelled from its convent, which was taken possession of by the enemy. With the order of which Julia Duguesclin was a member was expelled from its convent, which was taken possession of by the enemy. With the order of which Julia Duguesclin was a member was expelled from its convent, which was taken possession of by the enemy.

It was then that the red blood of the Duguesclins began to assert itself in the veins of the young woman. She turned to the timid soldiers and told them that it was their duty to assert themselves in behalf of their country. It was a clear call to arms. It had the desired effect. They were electrified by her eloquence and her patriotism, and one and all agreed to stand by her to the bitter end. A defiant reply was given to the enemy commander, and the battle was on. Julia donned her brother's coat of mail, and mounting the ramparts of the fortress prepared for the most determined defense.

It was a bloody battle, a desperately fought battle, and men were killed and wounded on both sides. For a time it was difficult to tell how the war would end. There was a waver—

Mrs. Clayborne Decides to Prolog Her Visit.

CHAPTER LXXXVI.

Ruth was surprised at her aunt's attitude. Surprised and pleased. She had expected she would be so opposed to her going to work, that it might make her visit unpleasant. She welcomed the change without in the least appreciating the cause. Her aunt had come north with the sole intention of seeing if she could not persuade her niece to give up her work and return south with her. Her quick appreciation of her feelings toward Ruth had caused her to change her mind, and also to desist from disparaging remarks about women who went out into the world and worked.

In general, she had in no wise changed her deep-rooted opinions or dismissed her prejudice against women working outside of the home. But her clever wit had seen at once that for Ruth to continue, was in some way to become disconcerted with Brian, and to realize Mandel's superiority—at least she persuaded herself that this would happen. Not that she disliked Brian Hackett, for any particular thing he had done, but because of his quick appreciation of her feelings toward Ruth, she had almost a nonentity, one not to be considered in her plans.

When Brian heard that Mrs. Clayborne was to extend her visit, he groaned inwardly. He was not unaware of her attitude toward him, and he had resolved, if he did not, to himself to show that he did. She was a relative of Ruth's, almost the only one she had. He would be as gracious as he could for Ruth's sake. His very next day he called Mollie King up and confided to her sympathies the way he felt because of her being so near to him as often as he had been of late.

A match is a comfort and convenience which is so commonplace that we do not appreciate it—until we are deprived of it for a while. For sixty-seven years the House of Eddy has been making matches for the Canadian public—more than 70,000,000 matches a day at the present time. A little dapper figure with enormous glasses, a bundle of nervous energy with a curiously precise intonation. That is your first impression as you shake hands with one of the famous characters of Italian history, one of the men who best express the Italian spirit—Gabriele d'Annunzio. One of his books, which is not for sale in commerce but is only given to those who fight, bears the untranslatable title of "La Discesa," and he is himself as untranslatable. He defies analysis. Primarily d'Annunzio is a poet—airman but he is even prouder I believe, of one of his feats on the sea, for I have seen a book inscribed in his own handwriting in which he describes himself as "The Sailor of Buccari."

That visit in a destroyer to the coast of Pola, however, was nothing to his aerial feats, his constant bombing of enemy positions and enemy lines, his flight to Vienna and other aerial journeys that he has yet in prospect. He is no amateur airman who seeks notoriety in a novel way. He knows all about different varieties of machine and their capabilities; what can and what cannot be done with them. He took to flying late in life, to help Italy in the way that to Germans Compelled to Beg for Peace by Decisive Offensive.

INDOMITABLE ENERGY

Powerful Army of Ex-Kaiser Thrown From France.

Paris, Nov. 11.—The war office issued the following communication tonight: "The cessation of hostilities in the fifty-second month of a war without precedent in history, the French army, with the aid of the allies, has achieved the defeat of the enemy."

"Our troops, animated by the purest spirit of sacrifice and giving during four years of unbroken fighting a sublime example of endurance and heroism daily, have fulfilled the task confided to them by the mother country, meeting at times with indomitable energy the enemy assaults, and at other times themselves attacking, thus bringing victory."

"They have, after a decisive offensive of four months, thrown into disorder, beaten and thrown out of France the powerful German army. They have compelled it to beg for peace."

"All the conditions required for the suspension of hostilities having been accepted by the enemy, communication came into force today at 11 o'clock."

London, Nov. 11.—Field Marshal Haig reports as follows tonight from headquarters: "At the cessation of hostilities the general line of the Franco-Belgian frontiers east of Avesnes, Jeumont, Sivry, four miles east of Mons, Chievres, Lessines and Grammont."

With the American forces on the Meuse and Moselle fronts, Nov. 11.—(12:30 p.m.)—News that the armistice had been signed, spread like wildfire along the American front from the Moselle River to the region of Sedan. Reaching the various points early in the day, the news passed by wire and wireless to division and regiment and finally from mouth to mouth to the boys in the forward line.

It was among the boys in the forward line who had been under shell fire for days, that there was the most genuine rejoicing. Germans who came into the American line late today, said their leaders had been to retire with little cost as possible. They added that they expected to be back in their homes in Germany a week from Sunday.

London, Nov. 11.—The following message was sent by wireless by the German plenipotentiaries to the Allies: "To the German high command to be communicated to all authorities interested."

"Radio received, armistice was signed at five o'clock in the morning, French time. It comes into force at 11 o'clock in the morning, French time. Delay for execution prolonged by 24 hours for the left bank of the Rhine besides the five days; therefore, 31 days in all. Modification of the text with that brought by (cable) Helfferich will be transmitted by radio."

(Signed) "Ezberg."

London, Nov. 11.—A supplementary declaration to the armistice terms was issued today, stating that the armistice of the six German battle cruisers, ten battleships, eight light cruisers and fifty destroyers not being handed over owing to a mutinous state, the allies reserve the right to occupy Heligoland as an advance base to enable them to enforce the terms.

PRESIDENT REQUESTED TO ASSIST GERMANY

Appeal Made by Dr. Solf for Intervention to Mitigate Fearful Conditions.

London, Nov. 11.—Dr. Solf, the German foreign secretary, has addressed a message to Secretary of State Lansing, requesting that President Wilson intervene to mitigate "the fearful conditions existing in Germany."

Dr. Solf says, according to a German wireless despatch received here today, that he held it his duty to draw President Wilson's attention to the fact that the enforcement of the conditions of the armistice, especially the surrender of transport, means the starvation of millions of people, and that the president's influence be directed to overcoming this danger.

The president, he points out, has declared that he did not wish to make war on the German people and did not wish to impede its peaceful development.

"The German Government has received the conditions of the armistice," continues Dr. Solf. "We had to accept the conditions, but we would like to draw the president's attention most solemnly and with all earnestness to the fact that the enforcement of the conditions must produce among the German people feelings contrary to those upon which alone the reconstruction of a community of nations can rest, guaranteeing a just and durable peace."

"The German people, therefore, at this fateful hour address themselves again to the president with the request that he use his influence with the allied powers in order to mitigate these fearful conditions."

A pantomime is an unfamiliar form of amusement in Canada, but there is no reason why it should not be acclimated, and the production of "Cinderella" at the Grand Opera House last week shows how popular it might be when produced in first class style. There is no existing such a company as F. Stuart-Whyte has assembled, and the second week ended yesterday with audiences which even the absence of street cars scarcely affected. "Cinderella" follows the English model of pantomimes as far as it goes. It stops short of the harlequinade, but those who have not seen a harlequinade will not miss it, and those who have will be compensated by the beauty of the regular scenes. The story of Cinderella follows the nursery tradition tolerably except that Prince Charming (Miss Sara Clinton) and his handy man, Dandini (Miss Kitty Arthur), have a more intimate relationship. GERMANY MAKES ABJECT SURRENDER

Deserted by Allies, Imperialistic Power Meets Inevitable Doom. BACK ACROSS RHINE Entente, After Experiencing Hard Days, Finally Wins Out.

New York, Nov. 11.—The Associated Press tonight issues the following: "Victory—and peace. After more than four years of struggling the rights of mankind are served. The greatest day in the history of nations has dawned: the monarch of imperialistic Germany has been defeated by the Allies."

The Kaiser and crown prince are in flight—refugees in an alien country. Germanic kings and potentates no longer hold their sway. The Allied arms are triumphant. Imperialistic Germany has met the fate that ultimately must come to any country that seeks to rule the world. Deser. ed by her allies, Germany, on her knees, is accepting terms of capitulation which amount virtually to abject surrender.

Except for actual hostile military invasion, the once great European power, the ambition of the monarch of which was to dominate over all, is in complete defeat.

To retire into exile, the edict of the allied chief command is that the German army shall retire to the west of the Rhine, and that the German army shall be disarmed. Colonies are lost, and the hand that sought to reach out and attain additional territory is withered by the ruling of the supreme war council at Versailles. Reparation and restitution, in fact, full compensation for all wrongs, is to be made by Germany for all the disaster that has befallen her allies and those of her allies through the world war.

The handwriting was on the wall for Germany from the moment that she was beaten in the war. Her troops had fought valiantly through the more than four years of warfare. But what had been considered a "victory" for Germany, a "victory" in the eyes of her allies, had been beaten in the end by the allied powers. Even before her allies deserted her, the strength of the allied forces was apparent. Unprepared, they had to accept terms more than three years ago, the results of an enemy who had been preparing for combat since the Franco-Prussian war.

Hard Days. With a determination that could never be broken, Belgium, France, Italy, Serbia and Russia were overrun. Hard days were experienced by the allies, the smile of hopefulness was replaced in ultimate success—never faded. When, finally, the United States entered the war, the war by Germany's continued violation of international law and of the country's humanity, the allied forces were determined to win. The dawn of victory for world democracy was in the sky.

On the night of battle in France and Belgium the Germans were fast being defeated when they flew the white flag of surrender. The allied forces were everywhere, from the Belgian coast to the Atlantic Ocean, and the German army was only a matter of time when their armies were to be decisively beaten and their empire was to be destroyed.

For Germany as a nation—born of her imperialistic and militaristic powers—the end was in sight. The long run of disadvantage. Already the revolutionists throughout the country are tending toward democracy, and the German people are saving a country once controlled by war lords.

Fighting on the battlefronts ended at 6 o'clock Monday morning. Eastern time, in the United States. The armies of the Allies had at that time—even to the second—were hard harrying the enemy. The British were fighting their way across the Belgian frontier in Belgium. The French had all but cleared the German front in northern France. The Americans were driving northward up the Meuse and Moselle Rivers, threatening the enemy with capture by envelopment.

The hostilities ended on the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month of 1918.

FIGHTING AT BERLIN WAS RENEWED ON SUNDAY

Basel, Nov. 11.—Fighting between revolutionary forces and imperial troops was still going on in Berlin Sunday morning. The struggle which began Saturday evening, broke out afresh at 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

The heaviest fighting Sunday morning was in front of the Victoria and Kaiser Cafes and the Library of the Arsenal, near the Lustgarten, where officers, military cadets and Boy Scout war fighters.

Violent struggles also occurred in the neighborhood of the Friedrichstrasse Depot, where officers with machine guns fired on patrols of revolutionary soldiers. The revolutionaries took refuge in houses, hotels and large business establishments which surrounded the depot and from the roofs fired down into the street. The combat lasted twenty minutes.

Numerous officers have been arrested. Others are hiding in the cellars and subterranean passages of the royal palace and the cafes.

Combats lasted all night in the Dorotheenstrasse where several soldiers were killed or wounded.

Herr Eichhorn, minority Socialist deputy in the Reichstag, a head prefecture of police, with Herr Hirsch, majority Socialist deputy, as chief of police.

The fighting has been particularly severe near the buildings of the marshal of the court, adjoining the emperor's castle. Monarchists took refuge in the marshal's buildings and utilized the underground passages running to the castle, which was in the hands of revolutionaries. Shots were fired upon the entrance to the castle yard.

ADOPTING A BABY

By DOROTHY DIX
The World's Highest Paid Woman Writer.

I have received a letter in which a woman writes: "My husband and I are a middle-aged well-to-do, childless couple. We have been thinking of adopting a baby, but our friends warn us against it, and tell us of the dangers of heredity, and of the possibility that the child of unknown parents may have some day bring sorrow and disgrace upon us, because the child in his veins carries the seeds of wrong doing. What do you think about this? What do you advise us to do?"

Adopt your baby. Don't listen to the croakers. Don't be afraid of their prophesies. What if an occasional adopted child has turned out badly? Millions of our children have developed into wayward sons and daughters who have brought their parents' grey heads in sorrow to the grave.

Of course one would like to know that the child one adopts comes of a good, honest stock, but after all, we do not know very much about how far blood tells in a human being, nor how far certain traits and qualities are bequeathed by parents to their offspring.

Scientists generally hold that environment is of far more importance than heredity in forming character, and that the reason that the children of criminals are so often criminals is mainly because they are brought up in a vicious atmosphere, and have no early training in the moralities.

Don't be scared off from adopting a baby by the heredity bug-a-boo. Pick out a child with a good, well-developed head, and clear, intelligent eyes, and trust to the environment that you can give him to overcome any taint in his blood.

Furthermore, as for heredity—well, when it comes down to brass tacks, there are mighty few of us who have got such a flawless family record, either physical, mental or moral, that we do not take after some of our ancestors.

Of all noble acts in the world I can think of none that is finer than making a forlorn, lonely, loveless, homeless, motherless and fatherless little child, and giving him all the blessings that do great work, but you cannot raise a child properly if he needs the human touch, the human hand, the human eye, the human ear, and somebody to kiss his forehead and make them well. He needs the warm shelter of a home just as much as a flower needs the sun.

When you adopt an orphan child, you give him your own, when you give him a home, a father and a mother, you make a human being his chance in the world. You are the magician that releases an imprisoned soul. You endow for success, for a prize baby, for a life with all its potentialities for good, as worthy an act as it is to endow a hospital or library or any other public institution.

And it is a good deed whose rewards you reap a thousand fold. Every time around your baby's soft little arms and neck, every time you kiss his cheek, you will draw a hundred per cent dividend on your investment of money and care in his life.

And as for amusement and interest—why, there is nothing else in the world so fascinating as watching a child's life unfold, and getting his home-coming into his life. The things that you see when you have a little child for a pet, old songs, old games, old tales, had forgotten them, but they come bubbling up from the long lost spring of your youth when you are telling him and playing them with that little girl or boy who has come to your house to stay, and who carries down your shoulder with shining eyes, while you open the long closed door of your own childhood.

Then again a child will make your very house sing with joy. What music in all the world is like the patter of little feet running to welcome his home-coming? What picture so beautiful as the little face watching at the window for our return? What conversation so amusing as the babble of a little voice that listens over the hard words of the world, and so enchanting as the smart things our baby says? In all the world there is no such remedy for the most fatiguing complaint of domesticity—boredom, as a child's home-coming.

One of the disadvantages that attend growing old is that as time goes by we have fewer personal desires that we enjoy gratifying. By the time we are middle-aged we are pretty well satisfied with ourselves.

We have had most that we want. We have achieved about all that it would be likely to achieve, our appetites are blunted, ambitions are blunted. After that we must take our pleasure vicariously, to a large extent. We must live in other people's lives, and must invest our hopes in them.

There were no other reason for adopting a child than that it would be enough. The childless man and woman taken out an insurance policy against dull and dreary old age, because they will live their own lives over again in the life of the child.

CANADIAN CLUB HAS CELEBRATION

Seven Hundred at New York Observe Signing of Armistice.

New York, Nov. 11.—Notwithstanding the unexpected conditions that arose tonight, the date set for the annual reunion of the Canadian Club of New York, several hundred natives of the Dominion held a meeting at the Hotel Biltmore. The waiters' strike prevented them from holding their usual repast before speeches.

Most of the members dined at the various hotels in the neighborhood, but all met to celebrate the great victory and talk over news of the events vital to the business and social life of the Canadian and their guests were present in their homes. More than 700 Canadians and their guests were present at the meeting.

By the time President Neeland called the meeting to order, the big ballroom was well filled with men from Canada, all jubilant over the surrender of Germany. An added feature last night was four billiards, two on each side of the American flag over the speakers' table.

The speakers for the evening, Hugh Guthrie, solicitor-general of Canada; the Hon. Henry W. Braddon, commissioner for Australia to the United States; and John Grier Hibben of Princeton University, and the Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, of Brooklyn.

President Neeland read a telegram from R. R. Matland, president of the Vancouver society, felicitating the society on its Liberty Loan work recently. He said that it would be a day that would be celebrated a thousand years from now as it being celebrated today.

There is a deep sense of regret, however, he said, that the war could not have been carried into the German's country. Even now it is being whispered in the United States that Germany, coerced by her allies, is still on the soil of France yielded in the name of humanity.

Dr. Hillis introduced as the first speaker. He said that it must be recorded that to England and her colonies belong the chief honors of this war. It was not until financial details of what had been done. The question of the future relations between the mother country and her colonies is a question which will engage the attention of generations to come. He then paid an eloquent tribute to the work done by the women in the work of the war.

Guthrie said it was an honor to be present at the meeting of the New York Canadian Club, but doubly so tonight, one of the most eventful in all world history. There was there to bring a greeting from the British north of the 49th parallel to those in the United States.

Guthrie asserted that no satisfactory could have been brought about the field. This had been defeated in such a manner that it would be such for all time. He did not wish to see the door be exacted from the world to see the German. By the time the door will be closed, said he, the world will have ceased to be a world.

Hibben spoke of the feelings of many. He could not say that it was when that began, but it was some time in the first twelve days of August, 1914. He had never been so proud in his life, and thought America should have gone in with them. He said he had been in the front lines, and had seen the fighting. He had seen the German soldiers, and he had seen the British soldiers. He had seen the German soldiers, and he had seen the British soldiers.

PEACE LEAGUE CALLED TO CONSIDER CHANGES

New York, Nov. 11.—William H. Taft president of the League to Enforce Peace, tonight called a meeting of the national executive committee of the organization to consider changes in the work of the organization necessitated by the surrender of Germany.

One of the disadvantages that attend growing old is that as time goes by we have fewer personal desires that we enjoy gratifying. By the time we are middle-aged we are pretty well satisfied with ourselves.

We have had most that we want. We have achieved about all that it would be likely to achieve, our appetites are blunted, ambitions are blunted. After that we must take our pleasure vicariously, to a large extent. We must live in other people's lives, and must invest our hopes in them.

There were no other reason for adopting a child than that it would be enough. The childless man and woman taken out an insurance policy against dull and dreary old age, because they will live their own lives over again in the life of the child.

Rome, Friday, Nov. 11.—Pope Benedict has written an apostolical letter to Dr. A. Kaloski, Archbishop of Warsaw, in which he says that in the passing he cannot resist the impulse to show his affection for the Polish nation with words of comfort and hope.

History, he adds, has written in golden letters what Christianity and European civilization owe to Poland, and how badly she has been rewarded.

After centuries of repression, continues the pontiff, Poland lives as a church to Poland in the darkest days, as well as at the zenith of her glory. Pope Clement XIV. ever argued against the powers of the church to resist the treatment of Poland, and he then paid an eloquent tribute to the work done by the women in the work of the war.

Guthrie said it was an honor to be present at the meeting of the New York Canadian Club, but doubly so tonight, one of the most eventful in all world history. There was there to bring a greeting from the British north of the 49th parallel to those in the United States.

Guthrie asserted that no satisfactory could have been brought about the field. This had been defeated in such a manner that it would be such for all time. He did not wish to see the door be exacted from the world to see the German. By the time the door will be closed, said he, the world will have ceased to be a world.

LIFE CAN EXIST IN FAR NORTH

Stefansson Corrects Popular Impression Before Empire Club.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson addressed the Empire Club at luncheon yesterday, and was received with most enthusiastic applause by the crowded audience standing. His address was a graphic but terse account of the object and method of his expedition, and he complimented the Empire Club on being the body that had exercised most influence in gaining the support of the government for his expedition.

Mr. Stefansson pointed out that previous expeditions proceeded on the theory that all food had to be provided for the explorers. His previous experience had proven this to be unnecessary, and he put his theories into effect on his journey. He left before the war began, and it was not until August 20, 1915, that he heard there was a war.

It was the best equipped polar expedition that ever started, the oceanographic instruments which were unobtainable elsewhere, having been procured by the Prince of Monaco. It was possible to get only five men from Canada, as the members of the expedition had to have the equal of Ph.D. qualifications, youth and training to stand the hardship and sufficient means to remain without remuneration.

Mr. Stefansson's theory of food is that variety is unnecessary. Millions of people live without any variety. He had lived for a whole year on fish, eaten raw, except at night, and had gained ten pounds at the end of the period.

Reindeer Colonization. He described the success of the reindeer colonization, the thousand which were placed in the north at a cost of $750,000, returning now from the herd of 100,000 to which they have increased $100,000 dollars a year, at present, and this is constantly increasing.

Ten thousand years ago, he said, there was a great tropical civilization, but the north was regarded as uninhabitable. In 1000 B.C., Crete had developed a civilization which looked on the tropics as enervating, but the north was regarded as cold and barren, and savage. If empire went westward, civilization moved northward. There was no limit to the possibility of life northwards. The so-called barren lands were only barren of trees, and 200 miles north of the Arctic circle two miners had plenty of hay for their horses. The north had the equal of any grazing lands in the world. The reindeer was a demonstrated success. He proposed that the government domesticate the musk ox whose flesh is like beef, its milk like a Jersey cow's, and its wool better than that of the best Canadian sheep, while it gives twice as much. He knew from his experience about wool when his mother used to spin it when he was a boy. Mr. Stefansson was born in Manitoba.

ARMISTICE PROVIDED DRAWAL TO E BAN TO GIVE UP Enemy Has Hundred a Subma Washington, Nov. 11.—Unanimous approval of the armistice terms imposed on Germany was voiced today by members of congress. Unconditional surrender was the interpretation of most senators and representatives, also some expressed disappointment that demobilization of the German armies was not required. President Wilson's suggestion in his address informing congress of the armistice terms that the victorious nations extend aid to the peoples of the central powers in their efforts for self-government, and to prevent them from further suffering for want of food and other necessities of life also was commended.

PARIS CELEBRATES SIGNING ARMISTICE. Paris, Nov. 11.—As soon as the official announcement was made of the signing of the armistice, all official buildings, embassies and legations in Paris were bedecked with flags and church bells were rung. Workers docked from offices and shops and formed processions which paraded thru the principal streets of the capital. The marchers sang allied national hymns and carried allied flags.
