Allies Hold Positions Won And Gain More, The Germans Rush Up Reinforcements And Fight Is Desperate; More Local

French And British Continue The Fight With Complete Success

Habercourt Captured; Fricourt Also and All Goes Well

French on Road to Perrone and British Make Steady Progress Toward Bapaume—Strategic Importance of Both Places

July 3.—The French offensive south of the Somme, in conjunction with the attack on the Verdun front, has continued last night with complete success, the French have advanced to a position on a front of five kilometers, (three miles). The French have captured the village of Habercourt, and the Verdun front, the Germans captured Dambloup. The French soon after regained possession of it.

FRANCIS RUSH UP RESERVES
WILL CHECK ADVANCE

The reserves which the Germans rushed up to the Somme to check the Franco-British offensive began to make themselves felt after afternoon and last night, according to latest reports received here, fighting reached a pitch of exceptional desperation but nevertheless the efforts to check the allied advance failed. The Franco-British allies, reports say, retained the initiative unimpaired and, as the result of the fighting, have materially advanced their line and strengthened their hold at it they had previously won.

The capture of Habercourt represents a great step forward, for the village has been a key point where the River Somme can be passed. The troops have now before them on their road to Perrone, their goal, a series of hummocks each of which is crowned by a village, ending in a narrow valley which is an important centre on account of the intersection, there, of the highways, which apparently are their objective.

BRITISH GUNS NOW OUTCLASS GERMAN'S BEST

Munitions in Plenty and Gas Proves More Deadly Than That Enemy Uses

London, July 3.—(New York Times cable)—The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph in Paris says: "I am credibly informed that the British heavy guns now absolutely outclass the German or Austrian famous 42-centimetre guns which the German command sprang as a surprise at the outbreak of the war. The supplies of munitions are so great that in the present offensive the question of economy in a general sense does not enter into account. The French people have heard with pardonable satisfaction that the British gas-producing gas has proved deadlier than any the Germans have invented."

VON BUELOW ON CONDITIONS WHEN WAR IS ENDED

Belin, July 3.—Prince Von Buelow, former German chancellor, asserts that Germany must have something more than pre-war conditions when peace is declared. This he says in a preface to his book, "German Policies," which has just been issued.

Declaring that Germany will have to reckon after the war with the bitter hatred of France, England and Russia he says this fact must dictate the form which peace shall assume. The position which Germany will find against a renewed and just for revenge in the west and east and across the channel can only be in its own increased power.

"Our enemies, too, will strengthen armaments on land and water and we for our part must meet this condition. We must make ourselves strong and harder to be attacked on our borders and coasts than we were at the beginning of this war, not for the sake of striving for world supremacy—but in order to maintain ourselves against our foes. The result of the war must not be negative but positive."

Prince Von Buelow maintains that it is important "to retain, restore and strengthen connections with those states with which Germany did not cross swords, irrespective of whether the propaganda of the enemy press and enemy agents influenced the feelings of the people against us during this war. Here political necessities must disregard national ill-will and dislikes even though they are justified."

BELGIANS ARE MAKING SUBSTANTIAL PROGRESS IN GERMAN EAST AFRICA

Harve, July 3.—Substantial progress for the Belgian troops invading German East Africa, is reported in an official statement issued by the Belgian war office yesterday. The Belgian troops have continued their progress along the front, closely pressing the retreating enemy on the Kagers River.

ONE ST. JOHN MAN HOME ON GRAMPIAN

Quebec, July 3.—Sixty-six Canadian soldiers, invalided home, reached Quebec on Sunday on the Allan Liner Gramplan. Among the number were A. E. Rogers of Yarmouth, N. S.; J. Wiggins of Amherst, N. S.; W. Coughlan of St. John, and C. G. Foster of Halifax.

SAVINGS BANK

The deposits in the Dominion Savings Bank for June were $70,212.12, the withdrawals, $84,802.93. For June last year the deposits were $57,576.30, the withdrawals $74,576.99.

At Prescribed Hours, After the Fearful Work of Big Guns, Soldiers Sprang Into Trenches and the Terrific Onslaught Began

(Special Times Cable)
Paris, July 3.—I had the good fortune to meet this morning a friend who is a Canadian officer in the ranks of the attack and who was in Paris on a brief mission from the front.

In the half hour he had to spare before the train he set on a safe terrace and he described to me the ground over which the offensive was taking place.

The centre of operations in the Somme, the Somme, which the ground slopes upward on both the north and the south. To the south the slope leads to the plateau of the lake de Frenois and to positions along the Aisne from Soissons to Rheims. The northern slopes lead to the low Aisne plain and north of that are the plains of Ploisy, mounting slowly to the rough Artois Hills, which begin immediately after the last city in the plains, is passed.

In general, the ground is low-lying and flat, and in some places, notably around Frise, it is marshy. It rolls like the western prairies and is cut by numerous minor streams of which one of the most important is the Aisne, flowing into the Somme. The country is strictly agricultural and the villages are small. Those mentioned in the war office communication of Sunday average but 500 inhabitants each.

At the beginning of the great German offensive against Verdun, French troops were withdrawn from all but this sector. Shells were gathered in incredible quantities; this, be it remembered while shells running into the millions a week were being used at Verdun.

All the while troops continued to pour into the sector, among them the best and the fittest of all in the French army. A week ago the armies of the French had crossed first the Somme Canal, then the Somme river and held a line approximately to Albert.

It was then, with lines prepared, that the British bombardment began. The French, meanwhile, were bombarding the German lines with equal intensity, but as the shelling had been steady for nine months, it was not so noticeable and did not attract attention. The French were thus able to prepare their part in the offensive in secret.

On Saturday morning at the prescribed hour of 7.30 the Germans surged out of the trenches and over ground torn by shells, into the first line of German trenches, or, rather, into the shallow furrows that was left of the trenches.

The Germans were unable to stand against the clan of the French, who pushed rapidly forward until they penetrated three miles into the German lines.

In their advance the French are taking the deep curves of the Somme river and the low-lying marshy ground along the river. The greatest obstacle they met was the marshes of Frise, which they overcame by pushing around on both sides and taking the position in the rear. The advance so far achieved puts the whole German line south of Soissons in danger as the French are now well behind that part of the German lines and a little farther advance will leave the Soissons position a sharp salient in their line.

Meanwhile the allies' pressure continues along the whole front from the sea to Verdun. The extent of the British attack is steadily extending while the French pressure is particularly strong between Soissons and Rheims, and is putting the Germans at Soissons in greater danger from hour to hour.

GERMANS LOSE A SEAPLANE IN BALTIC

Copenhagen, July 3.—A Danish steamer, according to the Politiken, has rescued the crew, consisting of two officers, of a German seaplane, which was wrecked in the Baltic. The rescued men were transferred to a German warship. The seaplane was taken to a Danish port.

Russians Capture Austrian Position in Galicia

THE FIGHTING INTENSE

Enemy Advance a Little on One Part of Line But Can Hold Them While Letchitzky Sweeps Bukovina

Petrograd, July 3.—Gen. Letchitzky's army, after intense fighting has captured by storm the Austrian positions in the region west of Kolomea, in Galicia, says the Russian official statement last night. The statement adds that up to the present 2,000 prisoners have been taken in this sector.

London, July 3.—As a result of one week of most costly onslaughts on the Russian lines, between the Stockhold and the Stry rivers, the Austro-German forces have advanced their battle front at the most, five miles eastward towards the Stry and that only in some sectors, says a Reuter despatch from Petrograd.

Military authorities, the correspondent adds, are confident that the Russians are firmly holding the enemy on this front, pending the development of General Letchitzky's sweep through Bukovina, notwithstanding that strong German reinforcements are entering the field.

Meanwhile the Austrians there are hard pressed to cover their retreat to the Carpathian Mountains.

A LARGE GAIN

Customs receipts here for June amounted to $259,076.90, showing an increase of $68,186.84 over the corresponding month in 1915.

Germany, in Counter Attacks, Smothered With Shells

CAPTURE OF FRICOURT

Enemy Fought Hard to Retain Important Positions Affecting Transport Lines—Still Retain Part of First Line Despite Feroocious British Attack

New York, July 3.—The Herald publishes the following cables:

London, Monday.—Under a blazing sun and in mid-summer heat, the men of the British and French armies yesterday continued their drive into the German front on the twenty-five mile line from above Hebuterne to below Fay. By early yesterday morning the Germans had brought all their available reserves up to the threatened district and had begun a series of desperately fought counterattacks. Except at two or three points, the violence of the British artillery fire was so great that these counter demonstrations were generally smothered under a rain of projectiles and were able to offer only perfunctory opposition to the allied advance.

"While the battle raged all yesterday with undiminished fury along every mile of the line, it reached its greatest intensity in the vicinity of Fricourt, Commequert, and Contalmaison, and along the River Somme, in the neighborhood of Curis. The Germans, caught in their formidable defensive works at Fricourt, held out all Saturday and until two o'clock yesterday afternoon when they abandoned their works and the British entered the village. This served to straighten the new front somewhat and permit more active co-operation with the French, who were fighting through Curis and into the woods east of that village.

The German struggle to retain Commequert, Fricourt and Contalmaison is explained by the fact that the three settlements are strategic points of unusual importance and stand as sentinels on the highway from Arras to Douaumont and Peronne. This highway has been one of the principal arteries of automobile and horse transport to the western theatre and has been used by both armies, since it diagonally crosses the fighting line.

In the River Ancre sector, the resistance of the Germans has been so stubborn and so well conducted behind their concrete machine gun emplacements, their steel and concrete field works and their skillfully constructed trench system that they still retain parts of their first line in spite of the ferocity of the British attack.

The development of the battle farther south, toward the Somme, is regarded as almost certain to compel a retirement here, however, for not only are they being hard pressed on the front, but their Commequert position in particular is exposed to a direct fire. With the British pushing forward from Fricourt, the French, who link up with them two or three miles to the south, continue (Continued on page 2, seventh column)

TWO "MISSING" ST. JOHN BOYS ARE PRISONERS

Word Comes From Ernest G. R. Clayton and John H. Williams

Joshua P. Clayton, superintendent of Fenshill, received good news this morning when he heard from a cousin in England that his younger son, Ernest G. R. Clayton, who has been missing since June 2, is a prisoner in Germany. The young man sent a card to his relative telling merely that he was a prisoner at Dulmen, Germany. As both boys had been reported, unofficially, as having been killed, the news comes as a great relief. There is no further official word or any direct news of the older son, Joshua S., but it is still hoped that he is alive, even if a prisoner.

Private John H. Williams, recently mentioned in the casualty list as being missing since June 2, is a prisoner of war in Germany. A card was received this morning by his mother, Mrs. Mary Williams of 19 Johnson street, from him in the thirty-seventh year of his age and was a driver on the I. C. R. prior to his enlistment. The card was written under the date of June 8.

Before enlisting Pte. Williams was a I. C. R. engineer and lived with his mother at 11 Summer street.

THE IDEA OF THE TERRIFIC FIRE OF THE BRITISH GUNS DURING THE BIG FIGHT

London, July 3.—(New York Times cable)—A despatch to the London from a correspondent at the British Headquarters, describing the bombardment of German positions on the Somme says: "There were positions were like the mouths of furnaces, a permanent glow flicked and illumined sever ending streams of white sparks.

"An ordinarily measures the weight of a bombardment by the number of shells burst in a minute. As counting was hopeless, fixing my eyes on one 'red' to wink as fast as the lightning of the flicker, and the shells beat like a rain of fire. I then tried chattering my teeth and I think that in that way I aptly held my own. Testing hitherward in the light, where I could catch a face, I found that I could click my teeth some five or six times in a minute. You can try it for yourself and clicking your own teeth will get some idea of the rate at which the shells were bursting on a single spot.

"There were always three or four points within the field of vision at which they were bursting at that speed and always in between, over the whole of the field, there were bursting with great, if lesser, rapidity.

"What the expenditure of ammunition is in such a bombardment it is impossible to conjecture, when along the front of ninety miles there are always positions at which shells are bursting at the rate of some hundreds to the minute this has already gone on for four days and four nights."

WIDOW'S TWO BOYS

Sapper George A. Elliott, son of Mrs. Jane Elliott of Peronne, has been wounded for the second time within a month. Both wounds were in the foot.

He is one of two sons of this widowed mother fighting with the Canadian Expeditionary Force. He was at Arras, where he was wounded, and he is now being treated at a military hospital in England, where he is being nursed by his mother.

NOT DEAD, BUT MISSING

Mrs. Williams, of 19 Johnson street, whose son, John H. Williams, was recently reported as missing, was glad to hear this morning that he was still alive. She had written on June 4, and the other day on June 6, telling her that he had been reported as missing.

HE OFFICER'S

Nathan J. P. Clayton and James A. Clayton of West St. John has received an official report of the death of his son, Nathan J. Clayton, who was killed in action on June 4, 1916.

Shells From British Monitors Keeping The Germans In Trenches

Belgians, Too, Are Conducting Vigorous Bombardment—Enemy Kept Busy at Every Point

London, July 3.—News of the Anglo-French offensive came in very slowly today, but while people were anxious for information they showed no disappointment at the delay. The authorities and the press were warning that patience would be necessary, as the advance must be slow, owing to the nature of the fortifications erected by the Germans in the twenty months...

ALLIES' PLANS WORKED LIKE CHARM; DRIVE THROUGH JUST TO THE POINT PICKED OUT

German Shells Only One to Ten of the British, is Corporal's Story—'General Results Excellent,' Say Paris Papers

Paris, July 3.—'General results excellent' is the verdict of the Parisian press on the achievements of the second day of the great Franco-British offensive. All the newspapers assert that what has been accomplished is rather more substantial than sensational. They declare that the mistake made in the Champagne battle will not be repeated, that men cannot fight until the ground has been prepared, so far as humanly possible, by artillery. No section of the Franco-British forces was advanced beyond the line assigned to it, they say, however tempting might have appeared the chance of smashing farther lines. The story of an artillery corps which was wounded while in an observation post which was cited to show that this method is sound. The corps says: 'I was able to see for myself that our losses were quite small and I not only hope, but am certain, that our means of action will enable us to forge ahead without much wastage of men. This is due to the prodigious accumulation of munitions of all sorts made by the allies along the whole northern front. I witnessed the first bombardment of the German trenches and works. It was a wonderful sight. The effects were terrifying. It is not possible that any work of defence, however strong or ingenious, can resist such a avalanche of fire and steel. How many men must be buried in the ruins! The German reply is no less terrible and the most stubborn resistance must be counted upon, for the enemy may be short of men but certainly does not lack munitions. However, I can affirm that he offered feeble resistance to our first shelling. His guns barely fired one shot for ten shots of the allies. That was characteristic of the section where I was. Did the enemy wish to prevent us from finding out the positions of his batteries, or what did this impressive attitude consist of? It made no difference to us. Everything had been foreseen and our plan worked like a charm.'

GOOD THINGS COMING TO THEATRES OF ST. JOHN

IMPERIAL OPENS THE WEEK BRILLIANTLY TONIGHT Rain or shine tonight Imperial Theatre will have one of the best shows of the whole summer. In the first place there will be Clyde Fitch's satirical comedy 'Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines' featuring dancing Ann Murdoch, the well-known Frohman star. Pathé's Gazette will contain numerous splendid pictures of the Allied forces which are so valuable just when the big drive is on and in travel view the watcher will be taken from Kabylie to Constantine in Algeria. Rae Hleanor Bell will play another new programme and the orchestra has some sparkling numbers for the 'Captain Jinks' picture. On the whole it will be a splendid show. The 'Peg O' the Ring,' etc. serial is being shown at the matinee this afternoon and will be given again as an extra tomorrow afternoon at 8.30.

AT THE PALACE

This evening the Palace will screen the first episode of that great circus serial entitled 'Peg O' the Ring.' The installment is entitled, 'The Leopard's Mark' and is a wonderful introduction to this thirty-two reel series and featuring Grace Cunard and Francis Ford and a large cast of stage professionals and properties from four of the largest circuses of the day. It breathes new ideas and creates new interest and carries one through an entirely new atmosphere from anything yet presented. Social reaction is due the two part Bill. 'The Torrent of Vengeance.' It's a 4 to your seat subject you will enjoy. 'Lover Comedy' and a short snappy play to fulfill the bill making four pictures that will satisfy the most sceptical picture critics.

OLDF HOPPER AND OTHER STARS AT GEM

The Gem takes another step ahead tonight and presents DeWolf Hopper not only for the first time in St. John but in his first appearance in moving pictures. Few comedians have such a reputation as he and in 'Don Quixote' he has a great field for his talent. Then the programme includes Fay Tincher Ford Sterling and other stars. A great bill.

The Late Rev. H. H. Saunders

Moncton, July 3.—The funeral of Rev. H. H. Saunders was held this afternoon and many attended. Clergymen from the ninth Baptist district meeting at Cornhill attended in a body. Rev. Mr. Saunders telephoned only on Friday evening that he expected to be present at the district meeting.

BRIG. GENERAL F. E. BARKER HAS BEEN IN HOSPITAL

News Comes From India—He is Now Convalescent

Brigadier-General Frederic E. L. Barker of this city, one of the most distinguished soldiers who have gone from St. John, is now in a hospital in Bombay, India. News to this effect was received by his relatives here, and in response to a cablegram of inquiry, they were informed by the British war office that General Barker had been sent to the hospital on account of illness, but is now convalescent. At the beginning of the war General Barker served in France, was later for three months in command of a brigade on the British expeditionary force, and was while there that he was taken ill.

Mrs. Edward Craft of West St. John left yesterday with her family for Montreal where they will visit Mrs. J. D. Lamont. Miss Maude McRae, who has been training in the Commonwealth Hospital, Boston, for some time, arrived in the city at noon today, and will spend the summer with her mother, Mrs. Samuel Linton, Morna. Miss Alice Norwood, of Gagetown, has gone to Newcastle to join the staff of the Miramichi Hospital. Miss Norwood will be in charge of the operating room at that institution. Mrs. C. W. Hall and daughter, Miss Margaret, will leave Fredericton this morning for New Brunswick, where they will spend the summer with Mrs. Hall's mother, Mrs. L. W. Johnston, returning on the return by way of Chicago and New York, where they will visit friends. Miss Bertha Bailey of the LaTour school teaching staff left this morning for her home in St. Stephen. Miss Agnes Foley, Princess street, left on Saturday for Sables to visit her sister, Mrs. E. J. Golding. Miss Beattie Richardson of the North End has returned home after spending some time at the staff of the General Public Hospital, and wishes to thank the staff of that institution for kindness and attention shown.

RUSSIANS SINK 54 ENEMY SAILING VESSELS

Petrograd, via London, July 3.—Russian torpedo boats destroyed fifty-four enemy sailing vessels in the Black Sea near the Anatolian coast on June 29, says an official statement. London, July 3.—The Italian sailing vessel 'Carnegie' was sunk by a Russian submarine on Saturday. The steamer Windermere of 2,292 tons, gross, was sunk, according to reports to Lloyd's. The Windermere was unarmored and the Russian submarine was a 621-ton boat. London, July 3.—The British steamer ship 'Moera', 8,409 tons gross, has been sunk. No information has been received regarding the fate of the crew.

HALIFAX GOES DRY

Halifax went dry on Saturday, The Chronicle says: 'As far as could be learned, the closing of the bars is complete, and quite contrary to the accepted idea that several of the liquor houses would make a last ditch effort to keep open, the liquor houses and the breweries have not announced their intention of altogether closing up. The Nova Scotia Temperance Act does not prohibit the manufacture of liquor in this province, as that right is granted by Dominion statute, and the breweries can export to provinces where prohibition is not in force. The act does not prevent the importation of liquor from outside the province, as this right is granted by Dominion statute.'

OF INTEREST TO MOTORISTS

The new compound 'Carbonoid' has met with the greatest success. All the gasoline and auto dealers and garages can now supply it in any quantity desired. 'Carbonoid' is a combination of highly concentrated volatile chemicals, and is released in a fine-like spray with every explosion, absolutely preventing the formation of carbon, and will gradually allow any previously formed, its use ensures increased power, perfect ignition, uniform combustion and greater mileage to the extent of four to five miles per gallon of gasoline. One teaspoonful will purify and augment five gallons by dropping it in the tank of your car, motor boat or gasoline engine. The supreme test has recently been given by the dropping of a severe test for use at the front. Full particulars will readily be given on applying to G. W. Carleton, 124 King street, West St. John. RECRUITING

The three officers and band of the 160th Battalion, who were left to look after recruiting in the interests of the battalion in Westmorland county and that vicinity, will proceed on Tuesday to Sackville and on Thursday in Buctouche. Major Sumner is in charge. Captain L. P. D. Tilley, chief recruiting officer of the province, completed plans with Captain Lezure of the 160th Battalion for a big recruiting rally which started on July 1 to be held in Adamsville, Legacy, Portage River, Tracadie, Inkerman, Pokemouche, Lameque, Shippegan, Milson and Island. This trip is likely to last over ten days and some good results are expected, as this is entirely a new territory. The party will be accompanied by the band of the 160th Battalion.

LEUT. FRANK J. CORR IS KILLED IN ACTION

On Saturday afternoon came news that Lieut. Francis Joseph Corr of this city was killed in action on June 29. Lieut. Corr, qualified at Halifax soon after the war commenced and received his appointment with the 50th battalion, going overseas with them towards the end of 1915. He was sent to get to the front and volunteered for service with the first draft which went to France. He was finally transferred to an Ontario battalion, with which he was serving when he met his death. He was the first officer of the 160th Battalion to be killed in action. Lieut. Corr had won a high place in the regard of both officers and men, and his former commanding officer, Lieut.-Col. Kirkpatrick, on his return from England, spoke in the highest terms of Lieut. Corr's services. Lieut. Corr, a son of the late Michael and Mary Corr of this city, was born here twenty-six years ago. He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss General Hogan, daughter of Mrs. M. Hogan, Princess street, two brothers, John J. and Daniel J., and one sister, Miss Mary F. Corr, all of this city. Mr. Corr has been in England with his husband, but it is believed that she is on her way to St. John, as a cablegram received by her mother brought the news that she was sailing on the Mississauga. For several years Mr. Corr was a valued member of the writing staff of the 'Telegraph and Times', but a little while before the war he had accepted the service of the C. P. R. and had been promoted to the position of secretary to the 'Price, general passenger agent of the road. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, St. John council, of which he was recorder for some time, and of the Irish Literary and Benevolent society. He was prominent in amateur theatricals and played many roles on the local stage. In his letters from the front, Lieut. Corr always displayed the greatest cheerfulness, and in his latest letter, dated June 8, he had remarked: 'This is a great life and I like it.'

That's only common sense protection against distress in case of an accident. It is not so important in St. John, because you can get a new lens in an hour or two at Sharpe's, but you ought not to think of going on your vacation or a business trip without a reserve pair of glasses.

CORP. WM. PHILLIPS, WOUNDED, WRITES HOME

The many friends of Corporal William Phillips, who was reported recently as being seriously wounded in the heavy recent fighting, will be glad to know he is sufficiently recovered to write home to his anxious relatives here and tell them that under the circumstances he is getting on well and expects to be about in a few months. A letter written by him, and received by his mother, Mrs. Alice Phillips, of 486 Main street, this morning, brought the glad news of his slow but sure recovery. Corporal Phillips was wounded on June 16 in the left shoulder, and was then admitted to the Anglo-American hospital in France. His many friends, particularly in the North End, will be pleased to hear that he is on the fair road to recovery.

LEWIS J. CORR

On Saturday afternoon came news that Lieut. Francis Joseph Corr of this city was killed in action on June 29. Lieut. Corr, qualified at Halifax soon after the war commenced and received his appointment with the 50th battalion, going overseas with them towards the end of 1915. He was sent to get to the front and volunteered for service with the first draft which went to France. He was finally transferred to an Ontario battalion, with which he was serving when he met his death. He was the first officer of the 160th Battalion to be killed in action. Lieut. Corr had won a high place in the regard of both officers and men, and his former commanding officer, Lieut.-Col. Kirkpatrick, on his return from England, spoke in the highest terms of Lieut. Corr's services. Lieut. Corr, a son of the late Michael and Mary Corr of this city, was born here twenty-six years ago. He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss General Hogan, daughter of Mrs. M. Hogan, Princess street, two brothers, John J. and Daniel J., and one sister, Miss Mary F. Corr, all of this city. Mr. Corr has been in England with his husband, but it is believed that she is on her way to St. John, as a cablegram received by her mother brought the news that she was sailing on the Mississauga. For several years Mr. Corr was a valued member of the writing staff of the 'Telegraph and Times', but a little while before the war he had accepted the service of the C. P. R. and had been promoted to the position of secretary to the 'Price, general passenger agent of the road. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, St. John council, of which he was recorder for some time, and of the Irish Literary and Benevolent society. He was prominent in amateur theatricals and played many roles on the local stage. In his letters from the front, Lieut. Corr always displayed the greatest cheerfulness, and in his latest letter, dated June 8, he had remarked: 'This is a great life and I like it.'

CORP. WM. F. SACOCK DIES OF WOUNDS

(Continued from page 1.) Sergeant Richard Plaster of Preston, a member of the 68th Battalion, had been wounded. Millville Men Missing—An official telegram from states that Pte. Joseph Hatfield Millville, was reported missing June 29. He is a native of St. John, having come to New Brunswick a small boy, and is now twenty years old. He had made his home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Sharp at Millville. Pte. John McGloin, 57 St. Patrick street, received a telegram from Ottawa on last Saturday notifying her that son, Pte. John McGloin, had been killed on June 29. Canadian States Hospital in Rouleau on June 29, # from a wound in the left foot, to leaving for the front he was sent in one of the saw mills in the 2nd. Pte. McGloin left St. John with the 160th Battalion under the late Frank J. Corr. Later when in England he was transferred to another unit, which he went to the front. A few days prior to receipt of the news, his mother received a letter from him. He told of being in the line for a long period and was at the of writing at a resting station. He expected to return to the trenches a few days.

JULY WEDDINGS

A very pretty wedding took place six o'clock this morning at the home Mrs. E. A. Pidgeon, 100 Main street, when her daughter Miss Hazel Trude was united in marriage to Mr. E. Elsworth, Rev. David E. son, D. D., officiated at the ceremony which was performed in the presence of invited guests and immediate relatives. The bride, who was given away by her mother, looked charming in a clinging suit of blue with old lace carrying a bridal bouquet of gossamer lilies of the valley. She was matter following the ceremony a dainty dining breakfast was served after the bride and groom left for a honeymoon trip to Boston and New York. Returning they will reside at 100 street. The popular young people were recipients of a large number of presents in silver, cut glass and lace. The bride received a beautiful piano from her mother and a gold watch from her brothers.

DO YOU FEEL SEEDY?

If You are Nervous, Depressed, Sleepless and Suffer from Sick Stomach, Headache, Constipation and Indigestion You Need Ferronose to build Up the System

Thousands are in this dreadful condition, only half alive, unable to stand the strain of work and worry. There is no sense or reason in trying to be comfortable with the idea that it will pass off and that you are going to be better soon. Unless the system is cleansed of the impurities that poison the blood, you will never be better.

The best remedy is Ferronose. It achieves marvellous results in chronic wasting disease, nervous prostration, faulty nutrition, heart disease and stomach troubles.

Ferronose promotes healthy digestion which results in all food being assimilated. Nutrition is vastly improved, the blood grows rich and red and gives vitality to the entire system.

Diseased conditions cannot exist where Ferronose is used. It attacks disease, restores the system, cleanses the blood, keeps the body well nourished and supplied with strong blood and a powerful nervous organization prevents and keeps away all manner of sickness.

There is no blood builder, nerve tonic and strength producer that can equal Ferronose, and few people are so well that could derive great benefit from its use. It is valuable in Nervous Dyspepsia, Anemia, Weakness, Impure Blood, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, and Rheumatism. It is prepared in the form of a chocolate coated tablet and is both pleasant and convenient to use.

Ferronose produces that high standard of health so much desired by every one. It brings back the rosy tint to the pale cheeks of the Anemic girls and women. It puts grace and elasticity into their movements, gives lustre and brightness to the eye and symmetry and roundness to the form. It gives man new strength and energy with which to pursue his daily toil and can be relied upon for all times to benefit and give perfect satisfaction.

You can't invest half a dollar to better advantage than in a box of Ferronose. Your druggist has it.

WHY? Why does Lieut. Gov. Wood retain as one of his advisers a gentleman who is not a member of the legislature, and therefore not responsible to the people? Have we abandoned the principles of responsible government?

MORE HOPEFUL NEWS.

At last the British guns have spoken, and the impregnability of the German lines is a myth. There is still heavy fighting in store, but if it is true that the British supply of big guns and high explosives is equal to the task of a continuous bombardment along the whole line, the weak point of German defence will be discovered and there will be an end of the monotonous trench fighting of all these weary months.

The London press asserts that the great drive has begun and will be pressed home by the British, French, Russians and Italians. Important gains have already been made on all fronts except at Saloniki, and we may take it for granted that important developments in that quarter will quickly follow Allied success on other fronts. The great guns and huge stores of munitions that have been patiently gathered together along the Allied front in the west, with large reserves of men to keep the enemy constantly engaged, giving him no rest at all, appear to be taking toll now with relentless energy and marked success.

Let us hope Dominion Day, 1917, will find the world at peace, and our Canadian heroes at home to enjoy the holiday. The Canadians at the front had a memorable celebration of Dominion Day. They forged another bond of imperial union.

Sir Douglas Haig is delivering the goods, but he lacks the valuable counsel of Sir Sam Hughes, which seems to be quite too bad. And we could spare Sir Sam.

Sunny weather in July, following the rather wet weather of June, is greatly desired by the farmers, to mature their crops and ensure favorable hay-making. The hay crop should be large.

If more Canadians must cross from England to France to fill up the gaps in the ranks, more men must go from Canada to England to fill the gaps in the reserves. There is a fine chance for young New Brunswickers to go with units now at Valenciennes, but not yet up to full strength.

The ladies who gave up their holiday on Saturday to aid Mrs. Kahing in attending to the booths and tables at the Barrack Square, working hard all day, earned the right to rejoice in the news of victory from the front. They had been recognizing the claims of the returned wounded soldier. And the victory at the front caused many wounds and many deaths.

At last the great drive of the Allies appears to have begun, and with such tremendous power behind it as to encourage the hope of an earlier end of the war than had of late been anticipated. But as we read of success we are also oppressed by the cost in the lives of splendid men, whom their country can ill spare. Because of that cost, the war must be continued until the spirit by which it was caused has been utterly broken and driven out of Europe.

How heavily the war presses upon the minds of many people was clearly demonstrated yesterday in the intense eagerness to get news of the reported advance of the Allies and their penetration of the German lines. How lightly it presses upon the minds of many others is daily shown by the diligent search for personal amusement, entertainment and pleasure. "I am going to the Park," said a woman at a street corner on Saturday, after having looked in at the Barrack Square. "There's nothing down there," she added. Nothing? Others, though far too few, were able to see through men who had won honorable scars, fighting for St. John. Was that nothing?

Leutenant Frank J. Corr is dead, but dead on the field of honor, and so his memory lives. His old comrades on the staff of this newspaper will long remember that engaging personality, that physical charm of splendid young manhood, and that care-free play of wit and fancy which his close companions knew. It is difficult to think of the tall, alert and striking figure as at rest forever, and yet Lieut. Corr is but one of the great host who felt the keen joy of life for its own sake, but laid it loyally upon the altar of their country, in defence of those principles which are dearer than life itself. If we fail to catch the inspiration of that devotion and sacrifice, and make no effort to better the conditions in the country for which these heroes died, then we have no right to claim kinship with them, or claim them as our own.

there were few to see them and almost none at all to give them a cheer. Moreover, the attendance at their sports on the Barrack Square was so small as to make it painfully apparent that however much we may cheer the departing soldier, or urge the young man to enlist, the returned wounded soldier is not much of an object of popular solicitude. We may as well tell the truth about this matter. St. John had an opportunity yesterday to show real appreciation of what these men have done. No doubt every one who did not respond has an excuse; but if these men and all of their comrades had asked to be excused from going to the front, the celebration of Dominion Day might not have been so enjoyable. Men who limped through the streets on Saturday were lamed in our stead. Perhaps they are not very practical, or skilled in the art of entertainment to catch the public dollar; but they are brothers to the men who won Saturday's and yesterday's victories, and if physically fit they would today be where their brothers are. The men who are piercing the German lines today are just such men as these. They did their part. Are we doing ours? Let us pause to ask ourselves that question before we throw up our hats. If we do not appreciate these men, will we appreciate the others when they come back with their scars and their memories of the inferno through which they passed for us? Let us not dodge the question. We are still looking for recruits, and the recruits we want are not unmindful of the returned soldier and what we are doing for him.

Changed His Mind She—"You vowed it would be your aim to make my life one long dream of happiness. And to think that I believed you!" He—"That's nothing. I believed it myself at the time!"

Up To All Claims. "Well, Peleg, how do you find the encyclopedia the feller left on approval?" "Seems so be all right. Ain't no errors in it so far as I kin see."

A party of pioneers were working in the front line of trenches and as they had been hard at it all night and well into the next day two of the soldier navvies pulled up to take breath, and the following conversation ensued: "First S. N.—"Do you know, mit wit I finks will stop this war, mit wit?" "Second D.H.—"Wot, Bill?"

Horrocks was a past master of the habit of carelessness. He dropped things around him in any old place, and afterward never remembered where they had gone. One night he rose from bed to get to get some medicine and swallowed his collar stud in mistake for a cough drop.

"Mazy" said to his wife, when the awful truth dawned upon him, "I have swallowed my collar button." "That's all right," responded his wife in a tone of evident satisfaction. "There's nothing to worry about." "Nothing to worry about," returned "Mazy." "That's what I said," interrupted little wife. "For once in your life you know where you put it!"

"Meat Takes Another Jump"—a familiar headline in your daily newspaper. But why worry about the cost of something you don't need? The most expensive foods are generally the least nutritious. In Summer health and strength come from a meatless diet. Two Shredded Wheat Biscuits, heated in the oven, covered with berries or other fruits and served with milk or cream, make a complete, satisfying, nourishing meal at a cost of five or six cents. All the meat of the whole wheat. Made in Canada

LIGHTER VEIN.

Going Back Home "Mamma be more careful when you are speaking of your age."

Curious Thing. The Captain—Dashed curious thing, Peters—women living longer than men. The Chemist—Speaking from experience, sir, I should say that women are dying much younger than they did.

Stung. The Hawker—"Buy some flowers for your wife?" "But I am not married."

It Seemed Like It. Lecturer: "The idea of eternity, my friends, is something too vast for the human mind to conceive."

Voice from the Audience—"Did you ever pay for a seven hundred dollar piano on the installment plan?"

Some of the accidents which occur in the Jesse L. Lasky production of the thrilling automobile story of "The Race," which will be seen at the Opera House tonight, were taken in the exact locality in which they happened to Anita King, The Paramount Girl, on whose famous transcontinental automobile trip the story is founded. At one place during her trip she encountered a disastrous washout. On their return to the place to take the picture, it was found the road and bridge had been replaced and it was thought another location would

BUILD SHIPS AFTER THE WAR

Suggestion for Employment of Skilled Workers in Munition Plants Who Will Lose Positions When Peace is Declared

(Canadian Finance)

In his annual address on current business conditions and outlook, General Manager Heiden of the Merchants Bank commented upon the fact that there is every reason to hope for another bountiful Canadian harvest this year, with its attendant results commercial and financial. Activity in the manufacture of war materials continues and promises to contribute its quota to business during coming months. But, like others of Canada's leading financial authorities, Mr. Heiden is careful to point out the after-war problems that confront the country. First of these is a well considered plan for the peaceful redistribution of returned soldiers where their physical fitness may be turned to account. Idleness and unemployment, as he well says, are the sources of great evil. He believes that western lands may interest the returning soldier if settlement thereon is made practical and reasonably attractive. "Canada can well afford to deal liberally with her repatriated sons who have deserved so well of her, but plans and timely preparation are conditions precedent to the working out successfully of such a programme." Short of the prosecution of the war, Mr. Heiden is absolutely right in stating, no work can measure up in importance to that of placing our returning hosts in the way of self support and independence.

Then what of the laborer released from the munition factories when the war ceases? The larger steel companies will no doubt run on other lines. But what of the smaller ones, numbering over 400, whose munition machinery will be scrapped? Mr. Heiden expresses the view that Canada can build steel ships more cheaply than can the United States and that it can provide men to man them which they find difficult. "Was there ever a time in the history of the world," he asks, "when so grand an opportunity offered to a maritime country with coal, iron and flux at her seaboard, to take up such an industry? A substantial investment in the building of modern ships is steel plates. Besides the native iron and coal in millions of tons, we have steel mills at tide water. This is surely a happy combination of requisites."

RECENT DEATHS

Charles Joseph Stackhouse, who was so badly hurt in the Randolph & Baker mill on Thursday, succumbed to his injuries in the General Public Hospital on Saturday morning early. At the hospital it had been found necessary to amputate Mr. Stackhouse's left arm and he withstood the operation well but the shock proved too much for him.
Mr. Stackhouse was well known in the city and resided at 37 Market Place, West St. John. He is survived by his wife, five sons, three daughters and two sisters. The sons are George, Charles, Hubert and Frank, of this city, and Miss Nellie, at home. Mrs. Apjohn, of Kenora (Man.), and Miss Fannie Stackhouse, of this city, are sisters. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from his late residence.
James D. MacKay
Fredericton, July 2—James D. MacKay died here suddenly tonight. Mr. MacKay was in his eighty-first year and had been out to church this morning. He was a native of Boiestown, Northumberland county, but had resided in Fredericton for the greater part of his life. He is survived by his wife, three sons and one daughter. The sons are William D., of Truro (N. S.); Ernest A., deputy clerk of peace, Fredericton, and J. Walter, of Fredericton. The daughter is Mrs. William Walker, of Fredericton. He had been an alderman in the Fredericton city council for several years and later was auditor for the city of Fredericton but had retired from the office several years ago. He had carried on a boot and shoe business here. The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon under Masonic auspices.

Joseph B. Nelson, who was killed by lightning at the Wilson Box Factory at Westfield (N. B.) on Thursday afternoon last, was survived by four daughters—Mrs. James Lyons, of Onancticut; Mrs. George McCallum, of St. John; Miss Hazel, of Hardy's Point; Miss Lisa, of St. John; two sons, William, of this city, and Frederick, of St. Martins; two brothers, Herbert, of Annapolis (N. S.), and John, of this city.

The sympathy of many friends will go out to Mr. and Mrs. Amos Newtham, 125 Sheriff street, in the death of their only child, George William, who died on Saturday, aged one year. Burial took place today at 2:30 o'clock.

VETERANS' SPORTS ON THE BARRACKS GREEN

The members of the European War Veterans' Association of St. John gave the public the greatest attraction the city had on Dominion Day. With almost as much vigor as they must have displayed against the terrible Hun while fighting on the western front, the veterans made their first demonstration in a monster parade, lining up at the head of King street east about ten o'clock Saturday morning. The firemen were first in the parade, followed by the City Cornet Band, then in succession coming the War Veterans, all in full uniform, St. Stephen's Cadet Corps, St. Andrew's Cadet Corps and the A. O. H. Cadet Corps.

Along the line of march the boys were greeted with loud cheers and they were given a hearty reception on all sides. The show at the grounds was opened by a trained dog vaudeville act, conducted by Mr. Vall, from a point in front of the grandstand. This was followed by ball games between the Thistles of the North End and the Thistles of the East End. The Thistles won after a hard fought game by a score of 2-6.

A three-quarter mile race for cadets excited much interest and there were many entries. The following were the winners: First, Cadet Allison, of St. Andrew's; 2nd, Cadet Vall, of St. Stephen's; 3rd, Cadet Wilkins, of St. Andrew's. The most interesting feature of the entire day's sports was the veterans' races. The stretcher bearer race excited much interest and the men participated in all these events with great enthusiasm. The stretcher bearer race was won by Brown and Moffat. Crossing "No man's Land" race proved almost equally interesting. It was won by Donohue and McBride. The Victoria Cross race was won by Gorman and the bomb throwers' race by Tippett. The only other event in this class was the "Building Parapet race" which was won by Brown and Marr.

The pavilion and ice cream booths were conducted by the members of the Women's Canadian Club, the Young Women's Patriotic Association and members of the various chapters of the Daughters of Empire in the city. The central committee in charge of Mrs. G. A. Kahring was composed as follows: Mrs. H. A. Powell, Mrs. C. Dunmer, Mrs. Herbert Mayes, Mrs. Coughlan, Mrs. A. M. Belding, Mrs. T. E. Powers, Miss J. Hazen, Miss Grace Leavitt, Miss S. Stetson, Mrs. Harold Nixon and Miss Albino. In the afternoon Miss Jessie Church with a host of helpers was in charge of the booth and the members of the Women's Canadian Club took over the work at supper time, providing supper for the returned soldiers and those who participated in the sports. The ladies of the I. O. O. F. had charge in the evening.

PEACE NOW WOULD MEAN WORLD IN FLAMES LATER

Allies in Position of North in American Civil War—They Must Continue Fight or Face Future Menace of Worse War, Says Garvin

For obvious reasons it may not be premature to discuss the connection between European peace and our presidential campaign. Before removing some more illusions about the present and future of the war let me guard against misunderstanding, writes L. Garvin from London to the New York Tribune. It is not true that there is no gratitude in international politics. Some day we hope to prove to those whose sympathy has stood by us in our hour of trouble that we wear them in our heart of hearts. Neither shall we forget them in our line nor leave our children ungrateful. With all our faults, we are made that way. The North paid the price of its independence as a condition of reserve which perhaps causes us to appear otherwise, but that we must sometimes seem almost disdainful toward the world. The reason is that we have found it best for Anglo-American relations to hold steadfastly to a golden rule. We cannot take sides in the party struggles nor comment upon them except with severe restraint.

The American constitution is there above all other changes. Whoever may choose the White House, there is demand for foreign nations respect for the policy of the American people. We are bound to remember in all circumstances that an American president is not only the chief of a party, but the head of the state. This imposes more reserve, perhaps, than is good for either your interests or ours, but on the whole the reserve is best. Consistently with it, let me state some iron and steel principles which will be repeatedly misunderstood in the course of your electoral struggle between June and November.

The cable is continually sending across the Atlantic three kinds of rumors or suggestions. One is that the war in Europe will soon collapse of itself. Another is that the war is protracted without need for general anxiety in Europe and that the Allies are now slightly more insistent than their rivals. The third suggestion is that there may be some intervention in the name of humanity. This is the proposition which requires hard scrutiny from all who desire indeed to serve humanity.

Peace Must Be Lasting. In Europe, and in the United States as well—for how do you know what may be the world sooner or later if there is not some sure guarantee for the future than vague optimism can afford? The children are rising at their mothers' knees happily exempt from this war. The important thing for humanity is that they are taller than they shall not be cut down like corn by the Red Reaper in another war. The successful agent of weak statesmanship on either side of the Atlantic—the author of a premature peace—might easily prove in the result to be a more deadly agent of slaughter than Mahomet and the cause of worse destruction than we see—of destruction on both sides of the Atlantic in a wider war than this. For if there are to be no better foundations for peace and justice and no stronger guarantees of faith of treaties, the next war must necessarily be wider and worse. The whole world must be in it.

Long War Means Firm Peace. When we search for the soul of goodness in things evil there appears one compensation, and one only, for the horror we are in and for the fearful prospect which stretches before us and must be faced without blenching or lying to ourselves. The longer this war lasts the more likely is peace to be solid, enduring—perhaps even perpetual. Any patched-up settlement leading to another outbreak in a few years would be the most hideous form of waste and inhumanity. In Germany alone, as now governed, reign the war lords, the war capitalists, the war religion—the deadly combination of the theory of war-made-to-pay with the serious claim to national superiority.

This struggle was caused by a state of mind. In the closing decade of the 19th century, when the Kaiser's subjects had added a brilliant industrial expansion and power of wealth making to their active achievements in learning and arms, the good old German modesty, once only to humble in some ways, was replaced by the sin of Lucifer vulgarized to bourgeois conceit. Germans began to speak habitually of the decadent French, the lazy English, the barbarous Russians, the childish Italians, the mongrel Americans, and so forth. Until that spirit is tamed on the battlefield civilization will get no good. The taming will take time.

and twenty years to break down Napoleon's. A great historian remarks somewhere that in these struggles just recalled victory has always belonged—through the perseverance of those who stood grimly for the right things through such times as these—to the "rising causes" of humanity, civilization and law. Leave us then to continue. It is we who are paying the price. We are not "mad."

Let me confess that this word attributed to President Wilson—applied indifferently let me hasten to acknowledge, to the allies and to the central empires—has touched us nearly. We have our sons in the war. We have more cause for steadfastness in the sterner sanity than can be fully conceived even yet by the United States, with its younger generation sheltered from this storm of fire and lava which day after day is bursting the life out of our best. Think of France at Verdun, remembering incidentally that the British forces stand entirely at the disposal of General Joffre to be used as and when he pleases. What is at stake is no passing thing human or material, but the soul of immortal, indomitable France. If sacrifices such as she has now made went without a full reward, that would be of all historic tragedies perhaps the most precious. To win the full reward there is required perseverance to the last.

Four Years Likely I cannot explain now quite plainly why the war, barring miracles, must go on this year, and may have to be carried even into a fourth year, like the American Civil War. I can only ask The Tribune and its readers to believe that what I have said about the situation and the prospect contains no element of guesswork or impressionism, but is based on information which is sufficient and upon judgment which may be taken as authoritative. In these matters we have to beware, above all of the ghastly paradox of pacifism, which puts sentiment in the place of reality and tends directly to precipitate and aggravate to the utmost every evil which it deprecates. Germany alone was fully prepared for war and even yet her equipment is not fully overhauled by the allies—nor could be in view of the gigantic scale of Germany's war industries. With more preparedness on Britain's part the war would never have happened or should have been over by now.

Seek End of Militarism What the allies want is final and absolute freedom from the German menace. There can be no security until Germany is completely overhauled and the military defect of that war machine can begin. It will take time but we know now with certainty how it may be done. The allies were never more level and sober in their minds than today, but never more confident and determined. They follow the precedent of all the long stubborn struggles in which the "rising causes" have prevailed at last.

The United States are standing out for reasons which we understand. The strangest is that from this war you can stand out in another world war if there were to be one, standing out might not be possible. But none of us doubts one thing. Were the United States once committed to a struggle of this magnitude it would be a struggle of this magnitude.

PART OF CREW OF BRITISH SHIP QUEEN MARY A LITTLE WHILE BEFORE SHE WAS SUNK

All these jolly fellows went down with their ship in the Battle of Jutland. The photograph was taken at a moment among the stokers and the negative mailed to England on the last mail which left before the battle.

THE THIRD BATTLE OF YPRES: CANADIANS' SUPERB HEROISM

By BECKLES WILLSON, London "Daily Express" Special Correspondent

British Headquarters, June 8—Momentous events have been happening elsewhere in rapid and tragic succession. Public attention has largely been diverted from this sector. Even had the official communiques been less meagre, it would, perhaps, have been hard for the English reader to keep a healthy sense of proportion. Whatever the cause, there is ample reason to believe that the nature, extent, and significance of the late third battle of Ypres are not generally realized.

On Friday, June 2, a crescent-shaped line, extending from the little village of Hooge on the north to Hill 60 on the south, and passing through Sanctuary Wood, a distance roughly of a couple of miles, was held by soldiers from the overseas west. They were ranchers, farmers, and miners, and they were merchants and clerks from Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver. Some hailed from Toronto, and others from as far east as Montreal. On their extreme left, where it links up with a British division, was a famous regiment whose deeds have already thrilled the Empire, which, repeatedly shattered, has returned again and again to take up a post of danger on the firing line. Others were the Canadian Mounted Rifles and the Royal Canadian Regiment.

Tragedy-Haunted Ruins

The two divisions to which these troops belong have been in the trenches for many months, watching, eagerly and ardently, every move of the enemy's guns. What that game was every man knew well. It was to push past them and gain that tragically-haunted grey heap of crumbling masonry which a brief year ago was still called the city of Ypres. This each and every man of them was pledged to defend to the last drop of his life-blood. For weeks there had been a comparative lull, brigades weary with work and tension, and on and on, and they were relieved or went to relieve. Yet uppermost in every mind was this: "What will the next big push come, and where?" Twice the Germans have come on in smashing force to destroy the Ypres salient; two deadly battles have been fought. Am I fated to take part in the third?

The question whether this battle in Sanctuary Wood was a real battle, an important battle, may be answered here and for all. If you were to take all the actions along the British front, from the very beginning, there is none which illustrates so vividly, so intensely, the whole character of the fighting in this war. It combines the essential features of all, with the exception of poison gas, which, compact, and murderous, it was by far the greatest ordeal to which the Canadians have yet been subjected. As an exhibition of British steadfastness it is unsurpassed in the war. "Comparable only to Verdun" is the comment to me of a distinguished commander, when the fury of the German bombardment was mentioned.

"Silent Liesies"

On this brilliant June morning, behind those hostile parapets 800 yards away, the enemy had been massing his artillery—guns of every age, shape and calibre, but chiefly the terrible 5.9, even naval guns, the "Silent Liesies," mountains of shells, pyramids of bombs. Long rows of German gunners along those two miles of front daily awaited the signal, and the time for the signal had come. General Mercer, ever alert, often astrid soon after daybreak, had gone forward to the front trenches at so early an hour as half-past six. He was met by General Victor Williams, commanding the brigade then holding the front trenches. These, in company with the lamented Colonel Shaw, made the inspection.

The soil here is loose and damp and sandy, and only by rigid care and incessant exertion can the trenches be maintained.

Seventy yards from the spot was the dressing station of his battalion. Here another brave officer lolled unceremoniously all through that terrible morning, the wounded coming to him, many crawling on hands and knees, by scores. Before the war this R. A. M. C. captain was a jovial ship's surgeon in a steamer plying between Vancouver and Honolulu. He was a man of infinite courage—"nothing ever rattled him or upset his temper," said one survivor to me. When the dressing station was shelled he moved with his assistant, deliberately and coolly, to another more exposed ground, and continued his human work to the last.

A certain private hailing from Kam-sack, in distant Saskatchewan, was ministering to an officer and three desperately wounded men. He refused to leave them when the hell came, and the Germans were seen advancing, although they urged him to do so. "I said I'd stand by you, boys," he said, "and I will." That was the last that was seen of him. By this time it was ten minutes to one o'clock—after four hours' steady bombardment—the storm of shells ceased as suddenly as it had begun. Fourth light from the opposite trenches, sprang a swarm of grey-coated Huns. Fully accoutred, and with overcoats, and full packs, they advanced on the run, yelling wildly. They must have been firm-ly convinced that amid those ragged, battered, scared, and bloody mounds and ditches, which four hours before had been the British trenches, not one single human soul had escaped.

Of those advancing hordes certainly few were in proper fighting trim. They came forward gaily, light-heartedly, as victors after a victory. It was then the most wonderful thing happened. Out of the earth there sprang up a handful of wild-eyed soldiers, two officers among them, muddled and reeking with sweat, and, running forward with upraised rifles and pistols, they bade defiance to the oncoming foe. On they ran, and, having discharged their weapons, flung them in the very face of the Hun. Death was inevitable for these—the only remaining occupants of the British front line—and it was better to die than the breathing defiance to the enemy, than be shot in a ditch and spitted through with a Hun bayonet.

The "Princess Pat"

Only the wounded or those suffering from shell-shock fell into the hands of the enemy, and among these were General Williams and Colonel Usher, both of whom were in communication with a Toronto officer, himself in the very thick of the fight and who performed wonders of valor, mentions that he had last seen General Mercer sitting dazed and dejected on the ground just as the shells ceased and the Germans were advancing. General Williams was slightly wounded in the face.

The cessation of fire was the signal for the Canadian soldiers to hasten forward to meet the enemy, who was now advancing in force and bringing up his machine guns and bombers. The battalion holding Maple Copse planted itself later in the day. The Princess Patricia's, holding Hooge, fought with all their accustomed gallantry, led by the brave Colonel Buller, and helped, although at great cost, to check the further German advance. Colonel Buller met his death in the most heroic fashion, and the second in command, Major Hamilton Gaul, was wounded in two places, but it is hoped not seriously.

One striking story there is of a person from Medicine Hat, on the Bow River. At the outbreak of war he flung aside his surplus and enlisted as a private. He came to England with his outfall, where his talent for administration and good works could not be concealed, and he was promptly, when a vacancy occurred, appointed chaplain.

With Bare Fists

When the battalion arrived in France he felt it his duty to strike a blow of a sterner sort for his country, and returned to the combatant ranks. He, on this day in Sanctuary Wood, wielded a rifle with accuracy and effect as long as his ammunition lasted, and then went after the Germans with a bayonet. After one particularly fierce thrust the weapon broke. Whereupon this officer bared his arms and flew at one brawny Boche with his fists, and the last seen of him he was lying prone and overpowered.

The outstanding feature of the day is, however, not the numerous traits of individual valor. It is the marvellous discipline and cohesion of the officers, non-commissioned officers, and men, which I find evokes most praise from the survivors. When one was struck down and unable to give orders, another took his place automatically, and was obeyed implicitly and instantly.

In most of the battalions the losses have been very severe. But the morale of all ranks was unimpaired, and the men, who had been through an experience which might well weaken the purpose of the strongest and stoutest, were fit and ready at dawn on the morrow to undertake a counter-attack, the tale of which I must leave to be told.

"Here comes Binkers. He's got a new baby and he'll talk us to death." "Well, here comes a neighbor of mine who has a new setter dog. Let's introduce them to each other and leave 'em to their fate."

VICTORY FOR THE ALLIES

British and French Sweep Through German Lines

Begin Great Offensive

Advance Along Front of Twenty-five Miles to Depth of Several Miles in Places—Many Positions of Great Importance Captured and Held

Paris, July 2—The battle of the Somme, now in full progress, marks the opening of the Franco-British offensive long expected as a critical, if not the decisive stage of the war.

Early reports today show that the Entente Allied forces are sweeping forward along a 25 mile front. The French already have taken about 6,000 prisoners, while the Allied lines have enveloped, within the last 24 hours nine villages and fifty square miles of French territory held until now by the Germans.

The fighting lines extend between a great number of small villages which are usually devoted to textile industries, while the outlying agricultural sections are level fields chiefly devoted to beet culture for the extensive sugar production of France.

The intense bombardment of the last four days was the signal for an advance over these fields beginning at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning. The Allied artillery then lengthened the range so as to cut the communication between the first German line and the German reserves in the rear. This made it impossible for the Germans to utilize their perfect organized places for the shifting of troops and for the bringing up of reinforcements. It is thought by French military observers that the Germans miscalculated the intentions of the Entente Allies and expected the attacks further to the north.

Huns Flee in Panic.

The villages which the French captured in the first sweep include Dompierre, Beaucourt, Bussum and Fay, and these and the towns taken by the British—Montauban and Maunet—were all found to have been strongly fortified by the Germans. The Allies, profiting from their experience in this war, quickly threw up strong earthworks around the villages thus taken in order to protect them against counter-attacks. It was not before night, however, that the Germans were able to deliver any counter-attack. This was centered against the French position on the outskirts of Harcourt and it was repulsed with heavy losses, ending in a precipitate retreat.

In addition to the military success the terrain over-run by the Allied troops has an exceptional strategic importance. Four of the towns captured by the Entente are only seven miles west of Peronne, the chief railway from the German front in the region of Nevon and Soissons.

Threaten to Cut Railway.

The German headquarters is at St. Quentin, 35 miles southeast of Peronne. Already the French forces threaten Peronne with the evident purpose of cutting the trunk railway there, which is an indispensable artery for German military reinforcements.

Verdun, a German Nightmare.

Desperate fighting continues around Verdun, and although this field of action is separated by nearly one hundred miles from the fighting in the north, Verdun is considered part of the vast momentum unfolding.

The French have now taken the aggressive at Verdun, today's report shows an attack on Dead Man's Hill, although preceded by "gusts of fire" and made by infantry in mass formation.

TELEGRAPH GAVE THE NEWS.

The citizens of St. John were hungry yesterday for news of the big offensive movement by the Allies. The Telegraph issued a special edition yesterday afternoon and the sale was a big one. Everywhere there was a big demand and the issue satisfied the people, especially those who had relatives at the front. The news boys resped a harvest and as a result two Nathan boys sold one thousand copies; McCallum brothers sold seven hundred and many others managed without any difficulty to sell hundreds. It was a day on which the public craved for news and it was given them.

with heavy German losses and the taking of prisoners. The French are thus keeping the Germans fully occupied at Verdun, and are preventing them from sending reinforcements to relieve their weakened line in the north.

On Russian Front

Desperate attacks against the Russian line at various points have been definitely repulsed according to an official statement issued at the war office, although preceded by "gusts of fire" and made by infantry in mass formation.

The North Shore Leader, which speaks for Hon. There were 400 tons of concrete in the caisson. It will cost thousands of dollars to replace it. The Foundations Co., Ltd., was awarded the contract for this bridge by the late Premier of the province, but as other members of the government wanted the job to go to their political backers the tender of the Foundations Co., Ltd., was cancelled and the contract was given to a new concern—the Engineers and Contractors, Ltd. This is a case where one man rule would have saved the province thousands of dollars. The bridge is not near completion by any means. Wait till you see the finish."

Com. McLellan agreed with the principle set by Mrs. Schofield, but pointed out the need of physically fit men for some positions.

Many will learn with regret of the death of Miss Iva Ayer of 29 White street, daughter of the late Milton and May Ayer of this city. The cause of death was a relapse of pneumonia. She was seventeen years of age and is survived by three sisters, Mrs. J. A. McInerney, Miss Agnes and Miss Gladys, and one brother, Roy, all of this city.

MAY BE BROUGHT HERE

Considerable difficulty is being met with by officials in the attempt to identify the individual. The officials here were not disposed to talk, but it is understood the officials believe that this man is wanted in seven places in the United States.

If the authorities in Nova Scotia acquit him it is said that the police officials here are awaiting a chance to deal with him.

LIEUT. MILLEDGE INJURED

L. D. Milledge received word this morning from the chaplain of the 14th Field Artillery Brigade at Petawawa that his son, Lieut. Gordon deB. Milledge, had been thrown from his horse and his nose and one leg broken. He was doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances. The news is heard with deep regret by Lieut. Milledge's wide circle of friends in St. John.

ROTARY CLUB WILL HELP PATRIOTIC FUND

The Rotary Club will put on an entertainment of some sort, an out-of-door event of magnitude, for the benefit of the Patriotic Fund. That was practically decided to day when a strong committee was named to consider the whole question and report at next meeting. This committee will lunch at Bond's on Wednesday and consider its report.

Ward C. Hazen, presided at today's luncheon, and Capt. Grant of the American Legion, delivered a brief address. He spoke along patriotic lines, emphasizing Mr. Asquith's plea that when the war is over there be no individual who cannot say that he has not served in some capacity to aid in the great struggle. Capt. Grant also told of the great success of a Rotary Club demonstration at Ottawa, raising $1,000 for the Patriotic Sportsmen's Association.
