Gorman Is Freed By Police In Whiteside Murder Case

REVOLUTION IN BRITAIN PREDICTED

GORMAN IS LIBERATED BY POLICE

Prison Gates Swing Open
as Mulatto is Made
Free Man.

CRITICIZES OSMON

Says Provincial Constable
Tried to Implicate Him at Inquest.

The prison gate swung open this morning and James B. Gorman, a mulatto, who had been held in connection with the murder of Mrs. Clara Whiteside, walked out a free man. He had been taken into custody on Thursday, December 27, and since that time was held until his statements could be verified. Evidence since produced by the detective department shows that his alibi is bona fide and he was given his liberty.

That Provincial Constable Charles Osmon tried to implicate him, was a statement Gorman made while in conversation with a representative of The Times. He said he would return to Swan Creek tomorrow night to resume work in the woods. Asked as to how he felt about his incarceration, he said: "I must now go out and face the world with this hanging over me. I always tried to keep out of trouble, but it seems that the best of us get in wrong at some time or other."

"I think that Osmon made a mistake by changing the dates to the time he last saw Mrs. Whiteside alive."

Will Leave Tomorrow

As he was leaving the police station Sergeant Detective Power asked him if he was going to stay in town today, and he answered that he would not return to Swan Creek until tomorrow night. He was carrying a small valise and proceeded to the head of King street where he boarded a street car going north.

The authorities are determined to leave no stone unturned in an effort to clear up the mystery surrounding the shocking murder was evinced today when Sergeant Detective Power announced that he and Detective Saunders would proceed to East St. John and continue their investigations. While they have apparently no definite clues to look up they seemed bent on clearing up some points, which might throw some light on the mystery.

LIBERALS WILL BE THE OPPOSITION

Ontario Premier Passes by Resolution Adopted by Farmer
Legislators.

Toronto, Jan. 4.—The Liberal party will constitute the official opposition in the Ontario Legislature which will assemble on Feb. 6 next, despite a resolution adopted by the farmer legislators yesterday, when they voted to become the official opposition party. Premier Ferguson said the designation of the official opposition party was a matter for the Government. "Has the Government any definite policy on the matter?" the Premier was asked.

"Yes," he replied. "The verdict at the polls in June last showed conclusively that the people wanted to get back to the two-party system of government. In the next House of Government will consist of the Conservative party, and the official opposition will be the Liberal party."

The rise during the previous 24 hours was 18.7 inches. Returns to London to Per-

Government.

(By Charles McCann
(British United Press.)

London, Jan. 4.—A drift toward revolution in Britain if King George links hands with the old parties to stem the power of Labor, is predicted by Frank Hodges, Labor leader and important figure in the trades union organization here.

A Labor government is now practically certain. But rumors are afoot that, if Labor is defeated in Commons after assuming power, the King may refuse to accept a Labor Premier's request to dissolve Parliament, and instead call in a Conservative or Liberal leader.

Labor, if defeated, would desire dissolution and a general election, in which the Labor leaders would attempt to gain a parliamentary majority. The summing-up of a Conservative Premier would definitely relegate Labor to second place.

London, Jan. 4.—(Canadian Press)—The national debt at the end of the last financial year aggregated £7,842,000,000, an increase of £100,000,000 over the previous year. While an attacking force, consisting of the operator and sectionmen battled for two hours to regain control of the little junction house, dispatches were delayed and traffic interfered with.

Finally the section crew resorted to the ancient besieging tactics used in the days of Rome. A battering ram was brought into play,

SIR LOMER GOULIN
The resignation of Sir Lomer Goulin is a political event of great importance, even while it does not indicate the slightest disagreement between himself and his colleagues.

marking a radical departure from existing laws or pending legislation. It is explained that under the selective plan embodied in the Secretary's bill, every prospective immigrant would be required to secure from an American consular office abroad an immigration certificate, based upon the results of an examination showing clearly that the immigrant is admissible under the American law.

Of the Toronto majority election the Toronto Star says:—"Mr. T. L. Church is a remarkable man. He has a faculty for making friends and for remembering names and faces which is altogether unique. There is no other just like him, and certainly no other who could have polled over 50,000 votes for an eighth term in the mayor's chair with the handicap of an M.P. ship to carry. He should never have tried it. Many are wondering who persuaded him that there was a chance of success. It was not in the interests of Toronto that there should be a perpetual mayor, nor that a member of the Ottawa House should divide his time between the city hall and parliament. Mr. Hiltz is mayor—and with a majority which leaves no doubt about the electors' confidence in him. He fought a clean, straightforward fight for a clear and unmistakable decision. He faces the New Year with his hands strengthened for the task before him. He need be no man's man. He has a mandate to mark out for himself a strong and independent course."

THE REAL ISSUE

The Toronto Globe doubts if the Conservative Party can make much headway "by capitalizing Maritime discontent," and adds:—"Any party undertaking to administer the National Railways will be obliged to consider the interests of Canada as a whole, as to be given by the provinces and as to the revenues required to make it pay. The National Railways are doing well. It is right that consideration shall be given to every part of Canada, but no party calling itself national can afford to support unreasonable demands. What are the unreasonable demands of the Maritime Provinces? They have been made by both political parties. Liberal Provincial Governments and Boards of Trade comprising both Liberals and Conservatives have pressed them at Ottawa. Are these all "reasonable"? On the contrary they are merely demanding their rights. To make the Canadian National Railways pay is no doubt desirable, but is it more so than good faith? If the people of the Maritime Provinces cannot look to their fellow Canadians for a square deal, what hope is there for a united Canada? Any attempt one political party or another may make to "capitalise discontent" does not remove the cause of the discontent, and this is the phase of the subject to which the Toronto Globe and the people of the Central and Western Provinces should address themselves. The Maritime Provinces are not mendicants. They are a people demanding the fulfilment of the spirit of Confederation."

MAY AFFECT CANADA

The United States Congress may make it more difficult for Canadians to migrate to that country as prospective settlers. The quota plan has been recommended as applicable to this country and the rest of the Western Hemisphere. A Washington dispatch says:—"A draft of a new immigration bill providing for selection of immigrants abroad, for extension of the quota restriction to all countries in the Western Hemisphere, and for various modifications of the present entry requirements, was sent to the Senate and House Immigration committees today by Secretary Davis, under whose department the immigration bureau is administered. The Secretary made no recommendation as to the figure that should be fixed as a quota limitation, but in a letter to Chairman Colt of the Senate committee he earnestly advocated application of the quota arrangement to Canada, Mexico and South and Central America, which are not included under the present quota law. He did not explain his reasons for making the request, merely saying it was his judgment that the restriction should apply to all countries, thus

GOLD, GOD AND WHEAT

(Boston Post)
Another grand silver rush is making men risk death in the white Klondike. It recalls the wild days when $100,000,000 gold was struck out of the Klondike in 10 hectic years, when men all over the world were dreaming of the Chilkoot Pass, of the shivering dance halls of Dawson, of the fabulously wealthy creeks that yielded the glittering ore.

SOUTH AFRICAN POLITICS

(Victoria Colonist)
General Smuts' position as head of the South African Government is becoming a precarious one owing to the alliance that has been formed between the Nationalist and Labor Parties. The alliance has, of course, carried the Laborites into the stream of agitation for a republican South Africa, against which Premier Smuts has fought so strenuously. General Smuts is a stern fighter and a personality. He is ready to accept challenge to his principles and policies no matter from what quarter it comes and possibly his attitude will make the Nationalist-Labor alliance impossible.

LOCOMOTIVES ON MULEBACK

(Wall Street Journal)
From Bogota, capital of Colombia, radiate three railways. To Nemocón is 20 miles, to Sibacá 19 miles and to Facatámez 25 miles. The last-named town is now connected with the Magdalena river. The marvel is that Bogota were all built before this connection was made, and every piece of the mountain trails on the backs and shoulders of mules. It is calculated that freight on each locomotive from the river to the edge of the plateau, a distance of 70 miles, being paid, cost $10,000, although the Indians employed were paid only a few cents a day.

SHAKING HANDS WITH THE WORLD

Twenty-seven great ships, plying in nearly every corner of the globe, lay in the Port of Vancouver yesterday. Vancouver shakes hands daily with practically every civilized country in the world. There is a limit to the development of interior cities, but there is no limit to the development of Vancouver. The service radius of inland cities is restricted to the productive areas tributary to them. The service radius of Vancouver can be extended as far as a ship can sail. Vancouver sits on the edge of the world with a future as bright as all the laws of economics can make it. This city should be the world's best sanitarium for pessimists.

EAST AND WEST

(Calgary Alberta)
Canada will some day be a vast, wealthy, populous nation. At present the natural division separating east and west is an obstacle to full and complete understanding, and is preventing closer union. We must bridge the gap and not cut loose. Both sections will gain by closer association and both sections would lose much by any interruption or separation. The east needs the west, and the west needs the east.

APOSTLE FOR ACADIA

(Toronto Globe)
One of Acadia's most acceptable and persistent apostles has passed with the sudden death of John Frederic Herbin of Wolfville, N. S. Mr. Herbin was known as a collector and propagator of subjects which breathed something of the sadness of the exiled race. He was said to be the only direct descendant of the French Acadians of Grand Pré remaining in the land of "Ivangeline." His history of Grand Pré is an exhaustive treatment of the small community which has been known to millions through Longfellow's poem. He also wrote several novels, including "The Men of the Marshlands." These carried the subtle spirit of the Acadian romance into the Miasa Basin region, but did not attain notable heights from a literary point of view.

Mr. Herbin conducted a jewelry and optical business in Wolfville, of which he had been Mayor, and to visitors he extended a kindly welcome. Those in search of knowledge of local happenings would quickly unloose his enthusiasm and find in him a fount of knowledge which they would remember long years after.

This beautiful though pathetic picture of the meadow lands of Grand Pré from which the Acadians were exiled is one of Mr. Herbin's best contributions to Canadian verse:
Across the Dykes,
The dykes half bare are lying in the bath,
Of overlying sunlight on this Sunday morn,
And bobolinks afflock make sweet the wren,
Old places, where two centuries of swath
Have fallen to earth before the mower's path,
Across the dykes the bell's low sound
Is borne,
From green Grand Pré, abundant with the corn,
With milk and honey which it always hath,
And now I hear the Angelus ring far:
See faith bow many a head that suffered wrong,
Near all these plains they wrested
From the tide!
I see the vision of their final griefs that mar
The greenness of these meadows:
In the song
Of birds I feel a tear that has not dried.

THE LITTLE VOICES OF THE HOUSE

(Old M. Thomas in New York Times)
The little voices of the house
Make such a clamorous din
That often I am at a loss
To know where to begin.
For, it is quite expected, I
Will all their many wants supply:
The dishes lead for water call
At least three times a day,
I faithfully attend their needs
Unless I am away.
And then when I come back, the place is
Just filled with their reproachful faces.

The table and the chairs cry out
And, in the sternest tones, demand
The dustcloth, while the window shades
Most sorely need a straightening hand.
And—did you hear—that upstairs room
Is, just now, screaming for the broom!
Throughout the morning, thus I go:
No chance for me to rest.
So many are the calls on me,
I hurried and oppressed,
But when the voices all are stilled,
Somehow my heart with pride is filled.

Very Particular

There are still conscientious folk about who carry conviction into the slightest detail.
A London bookseller had a letter from one of them recently, ordering a copy of Tennyson's poems, with the postscript: "Please do not send me one bound in calf, as I am a vegetarian."

Didn't Know His Luck

A political candidate was incensed at certain remarks which had been made about him in the leading paper of the town. He burst into the editorial room and exclaimed: "You are telling lies about me in your paper and you know it!"
"You have no cause for complaint," said the editor, coolly. "What would you do if we told the truth?"

Be He Pleased

The doctor was examining Bowdoin's hospital companion, for advancement in rating.
"Would you do me the honor to be examined on the bridge?"
"Bring him two more," returned the doctor.
"Then what?" asked the doctor.
"Bring him two more," returned the doctor.
"Then what?" asked the doctor.

SECOND OCEAN LTD. TRAIN IN TROUBLE

Moncton, Jan. 3.—The eastbound Ocean Limited from Montreal, was nearly four hours late in reaching the city last night. The cause of the delay was due to the sidetracking of a first class coach at the entrance to the Bonaventure Station in Montreal, the coach which was attached to an inbound passenger train was struck by an engine going in the opposite direction and thrown across the main line tracks. There were no passengers injured.
The westbound Ocean Limited had similar trouble at Sackville yesterday.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENT

The Christmas entertainment for St. Matthew's Sunday school was held last evening. It began with a delicious supper. The schoolroom was attractively decorated for the entertainment. Following the supper there was a short programme which was much enjoyed. Miss Jean Scott and Mrs. William Nicholson were in charge of the supper table and were assisted by Miss Louise Schroeder, Miss Jennie Kein and Miss Madeline Daley. The girls of Mrs. W. H. Spencer's Bible class helped in the serving. Miss Marion MacFarlane was the pianist.

FIRST 'PHONE GIRL BEGINS 45TH YEAR

Miss Kennedy Got Job Because Boy Swore at Subscribers.

New York, Jan. 3.—On September 21, 1878, Mary Beatrice Kennedy became New York's first public exchange telephone operator. She took her chair in the old Nassau exchange—a chair vacated but an hour or so before by a boy who had been discharged for swearing at an irate subscriber. As Miss Kennedy recalls it that was one of the fallings of the boys at the switchboards. Miss Kennedy, the first hullo girl, showed the way to a wholly feminine operator force. The boys were a trifle too aggressive. Miss Kennedy, an instantaneous success, was paid $5 a week.

"I got my job," she explained on her forty-fifth anniversary, "because the company was tired of firing its swearing boy operators. There used to be near riots. Subscribers used to come down to the telephone office to fight the operator who had sworn at them. Subscribers had the habit of calling up to ask what the weather forecaster had to say about tonight or tomorrow. They used to ask 'How much are eggs selling for?' That was a little before the days when they used to ask the correct time and where the fire was. Nobody thought of asking for the baseball score or prize fight results.

"Calling a number was unheard of. Subscribers would simply ask for Smith's drug store or for grocery, or this or that building, or such and such a lawyer or merchant. And if the connection was not forthcoming at once poor Central got it—just as she does nowadays. I used to work from 8 in the morning until 6 at night. I lived in Jersey City. To get to work I used to take a horse-car to the river, ferry across, take another horse-car and then walk up the flight of stairs. It is different now, isn't it?"

"Alexander G. Bell used to come into the exchange often. Sometimes he was accompanied by Thomas A. Edison. We didn't pay much attention to Mr. Edison. He wasn't so famous then."

DEATHS

Samuel J. Austin.
After an illness of about one hour the death occurred recently of Samuel J. Austin at his home in Mill Cove. Mr. Austin was nearly 81 years of age and had resided at Mill Cove nearly all his life where he had made a large farm from the forest. W. L. GEORGE

JANUARY 10

HERE'S A SCENE FROM ONE OF THESE MARVELOUS TALES—"THE SLIPPER OF RED BROCADE."

Critics hail W. L. George as "one of the most brilliant writers of the younger English school."
In "After Midnight" he has surpassed himself.
These stories rank with the gems of Poe, Bret Harte, Robert Louis Stevenson, Kipling—supreme masters of the tale-teller's art.

Six Stories in the Series:

THE WAX LADY
THE POISONED GIRL

Each One a Perfect Literary Cameo

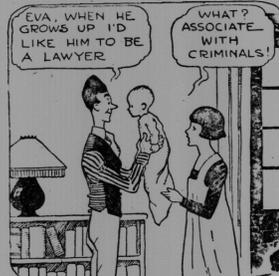

SIX FROM EUROPE
Deskman Thomas, at Police Headquarters, had six men to whom he gave protection last night from the slippery sidewalks and pleasant weather. The half dozen gave their native heaths as England, France and Scotland.

TRAVELS 10,000 MILES TO MARRY

English Girl to Wed on Fanning Island, in the South Seas.

Liverpool, Jan. 4.—A romantic journey of 10,000 miles has just been begun by Miss Margaret Birch, who sailed in the White Star liner Cedric for America. This is the first stage of her journey to Fanning Island, one of the Gilbert Islands in the South Seas, where she is to marry Major Culbert Bura Callander, the manager of the company which is developing the resources of the island.

One Dollar Salary For Ralph Connor

Rev. C. W. Gordon, D. D., internationally known to readers of fiction as "Ralph Connor," whose many activities in educational and church union matters require his absence from the city at frequent intervals, will continue as pastor of St. Stephen's Presbyterian church in Winnipeg at the nominal salary of $1 a year. When in the city Dr. Gordon will preach the services at St. Stephen's, and in his absence an associate pastor will take his place.

The Crow of Croup A Warning To All Mothers

Croup starts with a dry cough and rattling in the throat; after which the croupy crow gives warning of the disease. The child, after toasting restlessly about, will start up with a flushed face, protruding eyeballs, and a distressing look of terror and anxiety. There is a struggle for breath, and the expiration of the mucous matter is so difficult to get rid of that the effort appears to threaten strangulation.

Your Health

BY DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

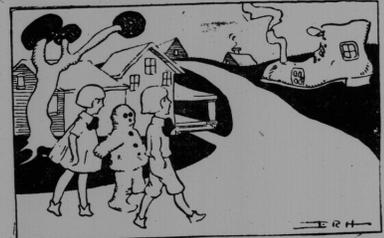

ROUNDING UP DISEASE

Some years ago the real emphasis of pure breed, health conditions and hygienic living was confined largely to cattle and stock. Of course, this was more prominent in western states where many large ranches were situated. The improvement was marked. Now, people are coming to believe more and more that it is more important to give the same intelligent, scientific care and attention to growing children that they have been compelled by law to give their cattle. Isn't it rather strange that no law has yet been passed which insures healthy parentage to the children?

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

THE CLOTHES-PIN DOLL

So off they went to the Old Woman's house.

"What is it you want us to do?" Nick asked the Gingerbread Man. "If you don't mind, I wish you would help me to rescue my lady-love," said the Gingerbread Man, sobbing suddenly. Nancy wasn't sure, but she thought she saw a tear run down one of his eyes. However, it may have been the syrup with which she stuck on the missing one. But anyway she felt sorry for him.

"I don't know what you are talking about at all," said the Gingerbread Man, "but it sounds as though you mean well, anyway. I don't know what a wicked night it is. I know what a bad night is—all stormy and rainy and blowy and—"

"My goodness!" exclaimed Nick, looking at his alarm clock by the light of the lantern in Bo Peep's garden. "It's 8 o'clock and if we have any receding to do we'd better be about it instead of talking so much. What is it we are to rescue?"

"My lady-love!" answered the Gingerbread Man with great dignity. "She is the Clothes-Pin Doll that belongs to one of the Old Woman's children. Her name is Anacosta Arabella Asthma Annabelle. But come! We'd better be going."

So off they went to the Old Woman's house, built like a big shoe, right at the turn of the road. A patch on the old shoe had blown loose like a dog and in they crept, all three of them, the Gingerbread Man going first.

"SI SI SI!" he whispered softly. "Where are you, Anacosta Arabella Asthma Annabelle? I'm here to save you."

"I'm here!" came a muffled voice out of the darkness. "And I'm almost strangled. I'm upside down in the toy-box under a stocking-top cat and I'm nearly smothered. His braided tail is in my eye and his whiskers tickle my nose. I want to sneeze my head off. I would, only it's only painted on. My nose is! And I can't sneeze."

"Never mind, darling, I've brought some brave friends to save you. No more shall you stand on your head in the dark and be smothered. It's much worse than the waste-basket, from which the mouse rescued me."

"You stay here," whispered Nick. "You make too much noise when you hop on your one foot. I'll get her."

The poor Gingerbread Man dropped another syrupy tear of gratitude.

In another minute Nick had the Clothes-Pin Doll safely out of the box and the four of them crawled out through the patch.

Then back they went through Daddy Gander Land to the Christmas tree house.

"Mother Instinct Makes Woman True Artist"
This Is Conclusion of One Whose Lullabies Inspired Her to Compose a Greater Musical Classic

(By Marian Hale.)
New York.—The true artist is also a mother. Before hearing the protests of those who believe themselves true artists and are not mothers, let us give Mrs. Gertrude Ross, pianist and composer, opportunity to explain this dictum of hers.

MRS. GERTRUDE ROSS

"The mother instinct is the basis for a woman's artistic expression," she elaborates. And she goes on to say: "With the awakening of the mother instinct, women develop and expand spiritually. Their capacity for living and feeling is heightened. Whether nature makes herself manifest in the mountain storm or in mother love, it is the basis for drama and art."

Upon which, Mrs. Ross points to her own example. Her career as a composer began with a lullaby she had devised for her daughter and which Madame Gade introduced to the public. Her latest achievement is the score for "The Pilgrimage Play," the annual religious pageant given near Hollywood, Calif.

Back of it all is the mother instinct, she repeats. "We women are primitive creatures," she declares. "After all, there is no so great a difference as you would imagine in this last production and that is the secret of its greatness. That is true of all her other music. In whatever setting she places her songs, they are almost sure to hark back to the lullaby motif. 'The Japanese Lullaby,' 'The Babe's First Cry,' 'The Cowboy's Roundup Lullaby' are some of her songs for children."

Imagine a roundup in lullaby form! Lives in Song is the message of the desert country, of Spanish California, of the great open spaces where music is born, comes to the audience in her songs. Her home itself is the materialization of songs built on piles near the sea in California, so she always hears the music of the waves.

ing, Miss George Springer, Miss Marion Henderson, Miss Helen Smith, Miss Dorothy Evans, Miss Edythe Mitchell, Miss Isabelle Walker, Miss Constance Watson, Miss Rita Dykeman, Miss Mabel Currie, Miss Dorothy Rosch, Mrs. Dodge Rankine and the guests of honor. The prizes were won by Mrs. Dodge Rankine and Miss Frances Tilton. Ten guests were Miss Helen Haycock, Miss Eleanor Fleming and Miss Hecoten Maber. Mrs. Sydney Jones presided over the tea cups and Mrs. Kenneth I. Campbell cut the cake. Mrs. Dodge Rankine and Mrs. W. Grant Smith served.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Belliveau, of Millerton, N.B., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Catherine Belliveau, to Mr. Edward John McManus, son of Mrs. Louis McManus, of St. James street, and the late Mr. J. McManus. The marriage will take place in June.

ILL IN TORONTO.

A telegram was received yesterday morning by David Marshall, of the Telegraph-Journal press room staff, to the effect that his brother, William, was seriously ill in Toronto. William Marshall is well known in St. John, and for many years was foreman of the Telegraph press room. He resigned his position in St. John to accept the foremanship of the press room for the Salvation Army War Cry, published in Toronto. A couple of years ago he was stricken with paralysis, and after making a visit to his brother, David, during the summer of 1922, spent the winter in California. He has many friends in St. John, especially among the newspaper craft, who trust that he will soon be on the road to recovery.

W. M. S. MEETS.

The monthly meeting of the W. M. S. of the Queen's Square Methodist church was held last night at the home of Miss J. Betts, 188 Queen street, with Mrs. Nell MacLachlan in the chair. The meeting was saddened by reason of the recent loss of a valued member, Mrs. Benjamin Potts, and the bereavement suffered by two members, Mrs. Fred Green, who mourned the loss of her mother, and Mrs. A. R. Carlous, who had suffered the loss of her husband. The opening devotions were led by Mrs. C. N. Dickinson. Reports of the treasurer, secretary and superintendent of Little Light Bearers were read and were encouraging. Mrs. Belle Blizard conducted the study of the fourth chapter of the study book and other members assisted her.

Nine Swept Over by Wave.
While the ship floundered the men huddled in the cockpit. Then a mountainous wave crashed down into the cockpit and tossed nine of the men into the water. They were believed to have been drowned immediately, for no human being could live in the sea that were running, boatmen declared last night.
First word of the impending tragedy was received when Mrs. Ellason notified the police that her husband had not returned from a trip in his boat. Immediately it was decided to organize a searching party and the Sid, a forty-foot power sloop, was chosen to brave the raging sea. The sloop headed into the teeth of the gale and succeeded late in the afternoon in sighting the Electra on Fire Island Bay, where she was being pounded savagely by the surf. The men aboard lay unconscious on the deck, with the sea constantly breaking over them. By skillful seamanship the Sid was run in close to the bar without grounding, and Eccleston and his companions, suddenly they saw the Sid as she returned, giving up hope.
Suddenly they saw the Sid as she floundered in the waves, and despite the heavy swells, managed to bring the craft alongside. Seeing it was useless to bring them aboard his own craft, Captain Murdoch threw a line to those who remained on board and towed them to Bay Shore.

SPORT NEWS GLEANED FROM WORLD'S CENTRES

THE TIMES-STAR
SPORT REVIEW

Brief Comments on Pastimes of Interest to the Fans.

New Brunswick is beginning to be recognized as a real hockey centre in many parts of the States, but more especially in Massachusetts. In a recent edition of the Boston Post the following article was printed and a few details of a boy from these parts who took a violent attack of what they term "hockeyitis." Details of his antics follow:

"He was just a hockey player. He went to the arena seeking a chance to try out with one of the club teams. Nobody asked him his name. Name and reputation mean nothing in club hockey. He actually met the runners on arena ice that count. He appeared during a heavy public skating session. He wanted to feel the runners on his feet. He hired a pair of long tube skates.

The sight of the ice must have had some psychological effect on this youth from New Brunswick. Contrary to rink rules, he raced madly around the surface. Four instructors endeavored to stop him. One suffered a severe gash on the leg; another had a pair of perfectly fine trousers ripped from his thigh to shoe.

A police officer was called. The ambitious youth suffering from hockeyitis, was deposited on St. Bonifaz street.

"One doubtful hockey player took the arena $20 for a pair of new trousers and $10 for a physician's services."

Fans who have followed the career of Jack Johnson from the time that he won the heavyweight championship of the world from Jim Jeffries until he finally was disposed, will be interested to learn that he has started operating a cabaret in New York's famous black-belt district. He is now forty-two years of age, but insists that he would like to box Jack Dempsey for six rounds. He maintains that he would show just what kind of a champion Dempsey is. While it is true that Johnson was a clever boxer, it is doubtful if he could stay six rounds with the champion. He might outbox him for a short time, but Jack's terrific attacks would soon break through his guard and then a few of his heavy punches on Johnson's enlarged waistline should quickly dissipate any doubt as to the present title holder's ability.

Boxing fans will regret the passing of Billy Mako, the champion of the death has already been published. He was a game and clever boxer and won the admiration of pugilistic supporters in all parts of the world. At one time he was looked upon as a coming heavyweight champion and was scheduled to fight Jack Dempsey in the third round. His willingness to meet all comers and to give the fans a run for their money no matter how tough an opponent was, made him an exceptionally popular drawing card.

Connie Mack apparently is determined to try another pennant and even opening up his purse to secure players to bolster up his team. He is credited with predicting that the Athletics will finish in second position in the American League next season. This should be no idle boast for at times last season the Athletics played consistently and even gave indications of being pennant contenders. With additional strength both in the outfield and infield Mack should cause some of the other teams a lot of worry and should be able to finish well up in the first division.

Pat Moran evidently intends to go right after the clients next season for he has already arranged to take his pitching and catching squads south on March 1. His regular infielders and outfielders will follow later, but by that time it is hoped to have a few kinks out of the twirler's arm. Moran has a strong pitching staff and in that department has an edge on McGraw's New York Giants.

HOCKEY TOUR CALLED OFF.
The Mont Allison hockey tour has been called off owing to lack of ice in the State of Maine where the collegians had games scheduled with Bates College and the University of Maine. It was announced last evening by Murray Angvine manager. The team had games booked in Maine for Friday and Saturday. Sussex, however, has requested a game and Manager Angvine said that the team would play a return game in Sussex next Tuesday night.

WOULD REDUCE PRICE OF TICKETS
Has Introduced a Bill to Put an End to Big Purse.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 4.—(United News)—Jack Dempsey will never win another million-dollar purse on his cash-register if a bill introduced in the legislature this week, goes through in its original form. Senator Reburn, of New York City, dropped the bill in the box in the Senate. It would reduce the maximum offer price of tickets for championship bouts from $25, the present limit, to $7. The maximum for non-championship bouts would be cut down two-thirds from $15 to $5.

As the Dempsey-Pirpo fight at the Polo Grounds last summer was a $25 attraction, those who attended the polo believe there can never be another million dollar production at a price limit of $7. Even at $25 a seat, the stands and field seats at the Polo Grounds were jammed to accommodate the "million-dollar gate." As the high priced seats, selling at from $15 to $25, have been the principal source of revenue at the big affairs, the gross receipts will be reduced to less than one-third under the new scale of prices. Thus Dempsey would have to fight Pirpo, Tom Gibbons and Harry Wills, three opponents whom he has been saving for a grand cleanup next summer, in order to draw approximately as much money as he got for flinging his fists at Pirpo for four minutes on the night of Sept. 14.

Senator Reburn's bill was not aimed at Dempsey. Nor would he admit that it was drafted with the idea of smashing Tex Rickard's monopoly on the spectacular shows. However, Democratic politicians, especially in local New York City politics, have been "after" Rickard for some time. Promoters, popular among the voters in their respective neighborhoods, had complained that the Boxing Commission favored Rickard in the expense of other promoters.

Reburn said, however, that he was not interested in making it possible for ordinary citizens to buy tickets to the championship fights. Many fight fans had complained that they supported the "racket" by buying tickets to the minor attractions, week after week, when a big show came along, were unable to pay the price.

"BABE" RUTH WAS GOING TOO FAST
Newton Officer Chases the "King of Swat" for a Mile.

Boston, Jan. 4.—"Babe" Ruth, king of swat, sped his speedster over Commonwealth avenue too fast Wednesday afternoon and as a result was stopped after nearly a mile chase by Motorcycle Officer William Dowling. Ruth introduced himself as Dowling's request by license and registration tags issued in New York State. Dowling inquired of Ruth where he was now living. Ruth said his present residence was in Newton. He had no Massachusetts license or registration tags. Dowling, however, issued a license tag, permitted the betting gambler to resume his journey.

STRIBLING WINS AGAIN.

BALL PLAYERS ARE CRACK SHOTS

Diamond Stars Show Proficiency at Hunting and Trap Shooting.

Boston, Jan. 4.—"Pie" Traynor of Somerville, the youthful star third sacker of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is rapidly developing into one of the crack rifle and gun shots of the country.

After the close of the baseball season "Pie" makes an annual trip to the northern Maine big game land after deer, but is equally enthusiastic when it comes to dropping birds with a shotgun.

When the game season is over Pie does not oil up his firearms and put them away for another fall, but spends day after day with the clay target traps.

Hans Wagner has said that Pie will make a great ball player because he is so earnest in his efforts, anxious to pick up any new wrinkles from the old times and is a glutton for practice.

Traynor is only one of many ball players who are carrying on recreation of the real honest-to-goodness recreation class for these boys.

Famous Quartette
Several years ago four of the most famous players in the big leagues passed up the opportunity to play ball in the post-season exhibition games to tour the East as a trap shooting team. "Chief" Bender, Otis Crandall and Harry Davis. One of the places they visited was this city, where they displayed their skill at the B. A. A. traps.

Joe Bush was for at least five seasons a topnotch shot in the famed Philadelphia Trappers' League and Joe Bushway was an honorary member of the Philadelphia Electric A. A.

It is only on very rare occasions that Northerners have the opportunity of seeing Ty Cobb on the firing line, for he is the Georgia peach, and when the season is over he is quick on the getaway. His own home town holds out strong inducements for an early return.

Cobb has one of the finest hunting dog kennels in the South, an arsenal of guns for every purpose, and a number of traps for quail and other game birds that test the skill of dog and man. He fears few of his fellow gun club members when it comes to breaking the cleave clay.

Grover Cleveland Alexander can certainly play a delectable as he does the plate on the diamond—his skill with the shotgun then needs no commendation. He has been remarkably since his advent into a Cub uniform, for he has the wonderful Lincoln Park Trap in Chicago for a training camp.

The fraternal organization of trapshooters handed Honus Lobert his first degree over the Bellderman traps in Camden, N. J. Chief Bender was a degree team and got many of those characteristic chuckles out of the afternoon's ceremonies.

Fred Clarke, a former manager of the Pirates, has long been actively associated with the shooting fraternity, and can each year compile an official average of well above 90. For years he has been president of the Kansas State Sportsman's Association, and an able believer in organized game protection and propagation.

A choice morsel in the long line of club trapshooting ball players is Jake Daubert of the Cincinnati Reds. He is a native of Pennsylvania, and has been a member of the State clay target championships are staged, Jake takes several well-earned days out of his diamond salary. He has been loyal to his State and the sport, shoots through the big event. This year he broke 192 and 194 out of a 200-target test on two successive days. In the live-bird championship staged at Reading last fall he came in second, but because a single bird beat his shot.

Business in Spain was seriously interfered with recently by a general strike of bank clerks.

As Hiram Sees It

"I read in the paper," said Mr. Hiram Hornbeam to The Times reporter, "that two fellows in Boston gathered in about a million dollars by selling their stocks—an' then skipped out—an' the folks that bought in the paper thought it was a scam—and I thought that was a good idea. 'What a blessing it is to be poor,' said the reporter. 'Yes—I guess that's so,' said Hiram. 'I mind I lost seventy-five cents one time on a fake scheme—an' I couldn't sleep for two nights. It wasn't so much the money as to think I'd been such a fool. 'I wish seventy-five cents had always been my limit,' sighed the reporter. 'I just a dollar one.' 'You orto be ashamed,' said Hiram. 'I am,' said the reporter. 'I'll tell you what to do. When some slick fellow bes you about persuaded to try to get rich quick—go to some bank man you know an' ask him what he thinks about it. It's his business to know what's sound an' what ain't—an' a pore critter like you can't alvays tell. I read every little while about some fellow that took big chances an' got rich—but the fellows that takes 'em and gets hipped don't never run in the newspapers. If they did you'd hev a line from the door to the next street every day—By Hen!"
